Armored Offensive Is Closing In On Nazis In Vire River Bend

Advance Patrols Reach Periers, Northwest Of St. Lo As Troops On East End Of Blazing, 40-Mile Front Gain Two Miles, Two Towns

BY GLADWIN HILL
Associated Press Staff Writer

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, July 27.—An American armored force split German central defenses wide open today in the biggest tank breakthrough of the Normandy invasion.

Sherman tanks and doughboys, gaining nine miles in two days, fanned out east and west, cutting the highway from St. Lo to Avranches, at the southern base of Normandy, and spearing down the road to Coutances.

Advanced patrols reached Periers to the northwest, the bitterly-defended German base already outflanked by the armored drive toward Coutances. On the east end of the blazing, 40-mile U. S. front other troops gained two miles and won two towns.

Three Miles In Six Hours

The armored offensive crashing through the German center picked up three miles in six hours of battle today.

Fanning out eastward from St. Gilles and Canisy, they began closing a trap on Germans in a bend of the Vire river below St. Lo, capturing Le Mesnil Herman, six miles south of St. Lo and nine miles from their jumpoff point.

PERIERS LESSAY CAPTURED

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS Allied Expeditionary Force, July 27 (AP)—U. S. troops captured Periers and Lessay, western anchor points of the German line in France, today as American armor in the biggest tank breakthrough of the invasion split German central defenses wide open and forced the Nazis to fall back.

The Americans had seized Canisy in this advance and cut the road running south from St. Lo to Percy along the baseline of the Cherbourg peninsula.

Score Sharp Advances

The armored spearhead pushing southwest of St. Lo had driven so deep, however, that it was closer to Coutances than the Periers force. Fanning out westward from Arigny, this force advanced nearly a mile along the St. Lo-Coutannces road to within nine miles of Coutances.

To the east, between St. Lo and Caumont, the Americans also scored sharp advances, throwing the Germans back two miles since last night and capturing Mouffet, five miles west of Caumont, as well as laying firm hold on Berigny to the rear.

This advance servered the Cau-

Allies Wreck Sabang Harbor

Guam And Tinian Invaders Gaining

BY J. B. KRUEGER
Associated Press War Editor

Allied warships and planes, suddenly reappearing in the Indian ocean, have demolished the harbor works at Sabang, key Japanese fortress guarding the rich stolen islands of the Dutch East Indies and Singapore, Southeast Asia headquarters disclosed today.

Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten, confirming yesterday's Tokyo broadcast, said a 35-minute attack Tuesday by battleships, cruisers, destroyers and carrier aircraft silenced shore batteries, sunk a freighter, wrecked two jetties, wrecked workshops and wharves and left the target area aflame. The Japanese had claimed little damage.

Invaders Closing In

Three thousand miles eastward on Guam and Tinian, American warriors—including a grim 5,000 healed of wounds suffered on Saipan—relentlessly closed in on Japanese garrisons bereft of all outside aid. The marines and doughboys held the northern quarter of Tinian and its 4,500-foot Ushi airfield, rated one of the best in the Pacific.

On Guam to the south they also bid for another airdrome from which the U. S. can mount its coming offensives against the Japanese homeland, the Philippines and China's coast. This airfield was on Orote peninsula, on which a trapped force of Japanese battled for its life. The Americans advanced 3,000 yards out onto the peninsula to the outskirts of Sumay town.

2,800 Japs Killed

The Guam invaders, with 2,800 dead Japanese accounted for, widened their beachhead of 12 miles of Guam's west coast, including the shoreline forming prized Apra harbor.

On Tinian three days of slaughter left 1,958 Japanese dead.

Five thousand marines wounded on Saipan rejected a chance to take it easy in hospitals and joined their Tinian comrades. "They

U. S. Casualties Now Total Over 311,000

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP) — Fierce fighting in two hemispheres has pushed the battle casualties of the United States past the 311,000 mark, with more than 63,000 dead.

The cost in men in this war now far exceeds the 278,828 total for World war I.

The overall total is a compilation of official Army and Navy files, plus later figures which have been announced from the fighting in Normandy, Saipan and Guam and air forces losses.

Here is how the casualty lists now stand:

Army, reported through July 6 and covering casualties up to about three weeks earlier—207,283, of which 37,237 are killed, 89,949 wounded, 40,786 prisoners and 39,311 missing.

Navy, reported up to today and presumably including figures not much later than three weeks ago—50,496, of which 21,433 are killed, 14,939 wounded, 9,655 missing and 4,469 prisoners.

American casualties in Normandy in the period June 6-20, inclusive—24,162, of which 3,082 are killed, 13,121 wounded and 7,959 missing.

(This, of course, does not include the recent heavy days of fighting in the St. Lo offensive).

Nazis Face Crisis In East

Battle For Florence Flares To New Fury

Ancient Pisa Due To Become Battlefield; Eighth Army Smashes Fierce Nazi Attacks

ROME, July 27 (AP)—The battle for Florence, the last big Italian city in German hands south of the Gothic line, flared to a new fury today with the Eighth army smashing fierce German counter-attacks eight miles from the heart of the historic town.

At the same time indications grew that the ancient city of Pisa would become a major battle ground. The Germans were observed erecting barricades in the main streets north of the Arno river and setting up machinegun posts. It was officially reported the enemy was using the famous leaning tower as well as church steeples for observation posts.

Heavy Artillery Booms

The roar of heavy artillery resounded along the Fifth army front on the lower Arno from San Romano to the sea. American long-range guns destroyed a big enemy railway cannon, several tanks and self-propelled guns, and a number of enemy dumps during day-long shelling.

The Germans continued to fight bitterly in the horseshoe bend east of Pisa—their only stronghold on the south side of the Arno Fifth army front.

The last pockets of Nazi resistance along the railway embankment near San Romano was wiped out and the Americans also cleaned up a few groups of Germans who had been fighting from house to house in the same area.

Eighth Surges Forward

Most impressive gains in the steel ring closing in on Florence were to the southwest of the city where Eighth army units surged forward as much as three miles in the area of Castelnovo and Vallechio.

These forces were more distant, however, than the New Zealanders battling the German 4th parachute division along highway No. 2 in the area of San Casciano, only eight miles from the goal.

Activity in the Adriatic sector was limited to patrols.

Nazis Fear Allied Landing In Italy

LONDON, July 27. (AP) — Masses of Allied warships, transports and landing craft were reported by the Berlin radio tonight to be concentrated with several divisions of troops in the coastal area of the Tyrrhenian sea for an imminent new landing in northern Italy around La Spezia and Genoa.

The ships and troops were said to have been massed during the week. There was no Allied confirmation of the enemy declaration.

La Spezia is on the Italian west coast 40 miles above Pisa, the southern section of which is held by the Fifth army. Genoa, Italy's leading port, is 90 miles up the coast from Pisa.

Landings on La Spezia or Genoa would flank the Gothic line and pose an entrapment threat for the survivors of two German armies who have been pushed 200 miles northwestward from Cassino through Rome.

French Patriots Fighting Nazis

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS Allied Expeditionary Force, July 27 (AP)—French patriots have defeated German tank attacks in ambushes and are continuing successful warfare against the foe, the supreme command said today in a communique from an advanced command post.

Patriot forces annihilated a German convoy of 116 trucks in the Saone-Et-Loire department, the bulletin declared.

The German attacks aimed at liquidating Maquis areas have taken the form of raids by armored columns, it added, but since July 15 the French forces of the interior have repelled such attempts.

Communications Disrupted

In Normandy and other areas enemy lines of communication have been disorganized by blows against railway systems.

In the Pyrenees, resistance forces attacked a column of armored cars and artillery so successfully the Germans were "forced to bring up reinforcements in order to avoid complete defeat," the communique declared.

Locks on important canals, particularly in the north and east, have been destroyed, interfering with transport of fuel, and "barges carrying 100,000 gallons of oil and fuel have been blown up and petrol depots and convoys have been destroyed in the Nievre" department, the bulletin added.

Honorary Citizenship Given Ship's Captain

HOUSTON, July 27 (U.P.) — The Navy public relations office announced today that Gov. Coke R. Stevenson has conferred honorory Texas citizenship upon the commanding officer of the old, but effective, battleship which carries this state's name.

Honored was Capt. Charles A. Baker, USN, who was in command of the USS Texas when she stood offshore during the Normandy invasion in June firing salvo after salvo into German defenses.

Baker is a native of Virginia and entered the naval academy from that state in 1912.

Unrest Mounts In Reds' Path

LONDON, July 27. (U.P.)—Stockholm advices said today that mounting unrest in East Prussia and northeast Germany, directly in the path of advancing Red armies, has forced Adolf Hitler to establish a special unified command there to deal with saboteurs and guerrillas.

(A Stockholm dispatch broadcast by the British radio asserted that German youth, once the backbone of Nazism, was in a "state of latent revolt" and gestapo police camps for both girls and boys had been established with authority to "liquidate" those whom it was found "impossible to educate." FCC monitors recorded the British broadcast.)

Special Command Formed

Radio Stockholm relayed a dispatch from the newspaper Morgontidningen reporting that Hitler had put a General Eisenback at the head of the new anti-guerrilla command of special troops in East Prussia, Danzig and West Prussia.

Morgontidningen said that ships leaving East Prussian ports were booked weeks in advance and a black market was flourishing in passages.

The Danish press service also reported that German officers wounded several soldiers in a town in North Jutland when a detachment refused to travel to Germany in freight cars and demanded more comfortable transportation.

Goebbels was believed drafting measures which he told the German people in his broadcast would conscript into the army or war work everyone in Germany and occupied countries "who is in a position to work."

Enemy's Central Front Is Virtually Collapsed; Reds Take Two Fortresses

(By The Associated Press)

The battle for Poland blazed towards a climax today as the Russians stormed the last main water barrier on the road to Germany, with some spearheads reported already to have reached the west bank of the Vistula river.

Berlin announced a withdrawal from the key railroad center of Bialystok, 47 miles southeast of the East Prussia border, and a Moscow broadcast said Russian troops had broken into the fortress city of Brest Litovsk, originally bypassed in the drive towards Warsaw.

Moscow reported that a crossing of the wide Vistula river was being effected in the Deblin-Pulawi region, 57 to 66 miles southeast of Warsaw as the Red army smashed at German defenses along a 30-mile sector of the strategic waterway.

Berlin broadcasts acknowledged that Germany faced a crisis.

Reds Cross Vistula

Both the Russians and Germans said the Vistula had been spanned.

Brest Litovsk is 110 miles east of Warsaw and 80 miles southeast of Bialystok. Both cities were crucial defense points along a line which the Germans had strengthened over several years. Both had been bypassed and besieged for about two weeks.

The fall of both, following the announced Red army crossing of the Vistula river 57 to 65 miles southeast of Warsaw, would indicate a virtual collapse of the German central front. Warsaw, a guardian city to German soil, was under concentric threat from the south, northeast and east.

The Berlin radio said defense lines in the Brest Litovsk area were taken back "under massed pressure of the enemy" and Moscow reported street fighting in the city of 50,000.

Tank Battle Developing

The Germans said a great tank battle was developing on the level plains around the Vistula river bridgeheads—the same flat terrain that stretches without break 140 miles to German Silesia. The area is 355 airmiles from Berlin, closest Allied approach to that capital.

Heavy, continuing fighting was reported around Bialystok.

Warsaw already could hear the first sounds of approaching battle, the Moscow newspaper Izvestia said, quoting advices from the underground.

The crossing of the 600-foot wide Wisla was in the Deblin-Pulawi region 57 to 66 miles southeast of the greatest Polish city (which had a peacetime population of 1,265,700). The surge

Germans Admit Grave Concern

Hitler's Paper Is Pessimistic

LONDON, July 27. (AP)—In stark comment on Paul Joseph Goebbels' assertion that total mobilization would relieve the receding German front, Hitler's own newspaper said today "we openly declare that never since the beginning of the war have our nerves and hearts been exposed to heavier trials."

The comment in the Voelkischer Beobachter, Berlin organ of the Nazi party, appeared beside a report of the speech of the newly appointed "Reich plenipotentiary for total mobilization."

The propaganda minister, also gauleiter of Berlin, asserted that German reserves would be moved to the fighting fronts from the home army, now commanded by the Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler and that results would begin to show "next month."

Change Is Promised

"The situation, especially in the east, will soon change in favor of Germany," he said as the Russians charged to within 140 miles of German Silesia and stood within easy striking distance of East Prussia, where many of the Junkers generals have their great estates."

Hitler's mobilization decree placing Reichsmarshal Herman Goering and Goebbels in charge ordered total mobilization not only of Germany, but of all occupied territories—France, western Poland, Hungary, Czecho-Slovakia, Norway, the Baltic states, Belgium, Holland, Yugoslavia, Greece, Denmark, northern Italy, and Luxemburg. Whether the decree applies to Finland, Romania and Bulgaria has not been made clear.

Goebbels conjured up the old shibboleth of secret weapons again, asserting that for a minute his heart "stopped beating" when he saw the most modern German weapons. Robot bombs such as those hurled against London are "nothing but a mere preamble," he said.

CIO Chairman Denies Violation Of Act

DALLAS, July 27 (U.P.)—Chairman C. A. McPeak of the Texas branch of the CIO Political Action committee said today that accusations he violated the Hatch act by engaging in a political campaign while still in federal employ were "a revenge attack" by Rep. Martin Dies, chairman of the committee on un-American activities.

McPeak denied the allegations by declaring:

"No one has ever heard me mention the name of any candidate for Congress in this (Dallas) district."

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht Is Reported Shot

LONDON, July 27. (AP)—The Algiers radio quoted a Stockholm dispatch today as saying that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Reich minister without portfolio, had been shot by the gestapo.

Reports of Schacht's death have cropped up previously and have never been verified. German broadcasts made no mention today of the German financier.

WHITTLE ONE OF TWO WHO ROBBED LUBBOCK MAN

Clay Whittle and Jimmie Pierson, each with Oklahoma records, "blew into this section in early 1940."

On Jan. 10, they kidnaped and robbed Jack O. Stone, then South Plains executive for the Boy Scouts of America, it was charged, forced him to drive them to Tahoka and relieved him of his overcoat, hat, gloves and money.

Whittle was arrested at Plainview by Bill Shook, a policeman of Plainview, Pierson north of Plainview by then Dep. Sheriff Grady Harrist of Lubbock, records show, further revealing that both men, described in accounts of the time as "hardened," were given 20 years in the Texas penitentiary.

District Attorney Burton S. Burks elected to try them on robbery by assault, the second count of the kidnap-robbery indictment.

MAN BURNED TO DEATH

DALLAS, July 27 (U.P.)—Firemen found the body of Ben Hardin, 40-year-old painter, in the charred wreckage of a garage in which he had been sleeping today. Search was started after neighbors who reported the midnight blaze said they had not seen him leave the burning building.

Execution Date Set For Clay Whittle

HUNTSVILLE, July 27 (AP) — Clay Whittle, 38, the first man ever given the death sentence from Houston county, has been sentenced to die in the electric chair at state prison here after midnight July 30 for the fatal stabbing of T. E. Kleeley, a fellow inmate at the Eastham prison farm in 1943.

Convicted in 1940 for robberies with firearms in Ector, Lubbock, Midland and Winkler counties, Whittle at the time of the slaying was serving a total of 106 years in prison.

Whittle, convicted on the murder charge in a district court trial at Crockett, was believed to be the first Texas prison convict sentenced to the electric chair for killing another inmate.

Inactive Status Of Captain Is Explained

DALLAS, July 27 (AP) — The Eighth Service command said Capt. Norman N. Campbell, assigned to the adjutant general's department with headquarters at San Antonio, reverted to inactive status with the expiration of his terminal leave today.

The date of his inactive status was set prior to any participation by Capt. Campbell in political activities of the United Dallas County drys, the command added in a statement.

By terminal leave, the command explained it meant accumulated leave which most men changing status would have. It said Capt. Campbell had been on such leave for several weeks.

The command added, however, that it did not approve of political activities of the captain in connection with a campaign of the drys, and that participation of military personnel in political activities was prohibted by Army regulations.

Dallas county will hold a local option election Aug. 5. The News says Capt. Campbell, who presided over a meeting of drys, had been placed in charge of the dry organization of the Women's Christian Temperance union workers.

Nazi Fire Kills Former Chief Of Ground Forces

General Was Responsible For Training All U. S. Ground Forces Now Overseas; Marshall Called Him "Brains Of Army"

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, former commanding general of the Army ground forces, has been killed in Normandy.

A war department announcement here said:

"The War department has been notified of the death of Lt.-Gen. Lesley J. McNair. General McNair was killed by enemy fire while observing the action of our front line units in the recent offensive."

On July 14, the Army announced that McNair had been given an important overseas assignment, the nature of which was not disclosed, and that Lt. Gen. Ben Lear had succeeded him in command of the Army ground forces.

Called "Brains Of Army"

McNair, 61, was responsible for the training of the ground forces now in action overseas, and was regarded as one of the army's most brilliant officers. Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff, once called him "the brains of the Army."

He was chief of staff of general headquarters in Washington when the Army was reorganized in 1942, and became commanding general of the ground forces, one of the three top commanders under the chief of staff.

In April, 1943, during an inspection tour of the Tunisian front, he was wounded by shell fragments.

McNair was one of the early advocates of building up a method of anti-tank defenses, particularly the highly mobile self-propelled, hard-hitting guns that came to be known as tank destroyers.

Great Loss To Army

Commenting on the general's death, General Marshall said "the American Army has sustained a great loss in the death of General McNair."

"Had he had the choice," said Marshall, "he would probably have elected to die as he did, in the forefront of the attack. His presence on the firing line with the leading element in the great assault has just been launched on the American front in Normandy, was indicative of his aggressive and fearless spirit and should be an inspiring example to the forces of our great ground Army which

McNair Is First Of Rank Killed

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, whose death in Normandy was announced today by the War department, is the first general of his rank to be killed in action in the present war.

Lt. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, commander of U. S. Army forces in the European theater, was killed in a plane crash in Iceland, May 23, 1943.

McNair is the fifth American general officer to die in action in this war, and the third to die in France since the Allies invaded Normandy on June 6.

The others killed in action were Maj. Gen. Clarence L. Tinker, missing off Midway June 7, 1942, and declared dead a year later; Brig. Gen. Asa M. Duncan, missing off the European coast November 17, 1942, and declared dead November 17, 1943; Brig. Gen. Don F. Pratt, killed in France on D-day, and Brig. Gen. Nelson M. Walker, who died July 10 of wounds received in action in France.

Two Die Of Illnesses

In adition, Brig. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, jr., died of a heart attack in Normandy, and Brig. Gen. Alfred J. Lyon died of pneumonia after exposure in action on a bombing mission over Europe December 1, 1942.

War Should Develop Better Communities

DALLAS, July 27. (U.P.)—Henry W. Stanley, head of the civic affairs department of the Houston Chamber of Commerce, reiterated today a belief the war could shock the United States into development of better communities.

The C. of C. official made the assertion before the Southwestern institute for Commercial Executives in Dallas yesterday, declaring that "an earthquake jolted San Francisco into a new era, and a new Chicago was forged from fire."

"The impact of this colossal war is shaking us into a new responsibility," he said, "and chambers of commerce should begin planning now to seize the unprecedented opportunity that will come with the peace."

Air Losses Of Nazis At Peak

ROME, July 27. (AP) — Air battles, such as cost the German air force a record loss of 193 planes in the past three days, raged again today when medium forces of Mediterranean heavy bombers attacked the Manfred Weiss steel works in Budapest, Hungary.

First reports from up to 500 bombers participating said the number of victories to boost the total of 193 tallied in the last three days, a top mark for this theater. One of the hardest knocks yet received by the Germans in this area was delivered yesterday when Allied airmen knocked down 78 enemy planes.

The Manfred Weiss works is one of the largest industrial plants in Hungary and produces aircraft engines, guns, ammunition, machine tools and other war essentials.

Liberator and Fortress crewmen said this target was well hit and enveloped by smoke.

Port Of Cherbourg Is Not Fully Repaired

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP) — Secretary of War Stimson indicated today that the port of Cherbourg, captured by American troops June 26, still has not been repaired sufficiently to permit full use of its facilities to supply the Allied armies in Normandy.

Telling a press conference some of his impressions of his recent trip to the combat area, Stimson praised the invasion supply services under Lt. Gen. John C. H. Lee, and made particular reference to the orderly and methodical handling of equipment in the field.

"Most of the time," he added, however, "they have been landing on the same beaches they originally took, while the port of Cherbourg is being made ready for permanent occupation."

Winning War, Preservation Of Peace Greatest Tasks--Mahon

The greatest task facing the people of the United States today is the preservation of peace when the final battle of the war is won, said Congressman Geo. Mahon who spoke at the luncheon of the Kiwanis club today noon in Lubbock hotel.

"The people of this nation are standing face to face with the greatest moment before us than at any time in the nation's history," he said. "We may win the war, and yet lose the peace, thereby falling down on the greatest objective."

Mahon pointed out that people should urge congress to take steps to preserve peace. "Following the last war we turned our back on the responsibility of world leadership, but we must not make that mistake this time. If the dictator nations get the upper hand they will surely take advantage of that opportunity. It is up to the United States and others of the United Nations to see that this does not happen again."

Dewey Announces 15-Point Plan For Governors' Meet; Federal-Local Government Conflict Hit

ALBANY, N. Y., July 27. (AP)—Announcing a 15-point program of action for the Republican governors' conference next week, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey piedged today if elected to "end the disgraceful spectacle of petty bickering and constant warfare between the various units of the government."

The Republican presidential nominee told a press conference that he and Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, the vice presidential nominee, were in full accord on the issues of the campaign.

Dewey said the conference in St. Louis beginning Aug. 3 would delve into the field of "conflict" between federal, state and local governments.

Constant Source Of Friction

"This has been a constant source of friction for 12 years in this country now," Dewey said. "Enough people are spending full time fighting each other over the question of jurisdiction and power between the federal, state and local governments to make up a small army.

"Almost as many people are squabbling over this subject as are squabbling in the federal government, if that were possible," Dewey said as Bricker sat beside him on the executive mansion porch and nodded agreement.

The Republican nominee said he and Bricker conceded that "one of our first obligations is to bring agreement out of this chaos and to bring unity where there is only disunity now."

May Unite Viewpoint

Dewey said if the governors conference was successful in reaching an agreement on this particular problem "it will not only wholly unite the Republican party as it goes before the people

Speedy Evacuation Of Wounded Cited

FORT WORTH, July 27 (AP) — Speedy evacuation of the wounded from battle zones to rear hospitals was "the most impressive single activity" which Brig. Gen. Charles R. Glenn says he saw on a recent 60-day, 40,000-mile globe-girdling observation tour of U. S. combat air forces.

Gen. Glenn, surgeon on the staff of Lt. Gen. Barton K. Yount's Army Air force training command headquarters, studied the operations of air evacuation units in almost every theater visited, as well as other phases of medical department activity.

Among his primary objectives was that of gathering information which could be used as a basis for the further coordination of medical supply between the Army ground forces, Army Service forces and Army Air forces.

Visited Many Areas

His itinerary included Bermuda, the Azores, Casa Blanca, Algiers, Tunis, Italy, Egypt, Iran, India, Australia, New Guinea, Solomon islands, Gilbert islands and Hawaii. He visited the headquarters and, in many cases, lower echelons of the 5th, 7th, 12th, 13th, 14th, and 15th U. S. Army Air forces; the headquarters of the Twentieth bomber command which operates the B-29 Super Fortresses; and world-wide installations of the Air Transport command.

Gen. Glenn spent an hour with Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Australia, and had conferences with Brig. Gen. Frank D. Merrill and Brig. Gen. Haydon C. Boatner of the famed Merrill's Marauders, under Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's command in the China-Burma-India theater.

"Amazing Demonstration"

It was with General Stilwell's forces in Burma that Gen. Glenn witnessed what he terms "the most dramatic and amazing demonstration of the work of the air evacuation units."

He rode into the area south of Myitkyina as a passenger on an air evacuation plane which landed on an advance air strip close to the bloody jungle battle fields on which Merrill's Marauders are savagely attacking far behind the Japanese lines.

"None of the wounded remain in there over 48 hours," said the general, "due to the highly efficient air evacuation system. Most of them are brought out within twenty-four hours after being wounded, and often in less time. Over 15,000 patients have been flown out in 7½ months—most of them Chinese," he said.

Medics Often Under Fire

"It's a 1200 mile round trip from general hospitals in the rear areas to the firing lines and back, over some of the toughest terrain in the world. These people go so far forward that the medical personnel frequently is under fire from enemy ground troops."

The general said, "everywhere in this war medical supplies and personnel are brought into inaccessible combat zones by air, and wounded are brought out. This requires a complex medical organization in all areas. The achievements of nurses are supreme in all theaters—particularly in the China-Burma-India theater."

Total "airborne" time logged on the trip from Washington, D. C., eastward around the world to Fort Worth, Tex., amounted to 212 hours and 15 minutes.

Yank In Bulldozer Charges Gun Nest, Buries Three Nazis

BY HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS In The St. Lo Sector, July 15 (Delayed)—A bulldozer ordinarily is used to dig and smooth the roads, but Pvt. John R. Brewer, 22, of Trenton, Tenn., charged a Nazi machinegun nest with his and buried alive three enemy gunners who had been holding up an American advance.

Brewer saw Germans had pinned down his comrades with rapid-fire weapons and grenades from the safety of a post dug in a hedgerow.

He decided to launch his own attack. Maneuvering his heavy dozer into position he raised the giant scraping blade and ran full force into the hedgerow, tearing out a huge portion which fell on the heads of the entrenched Nazis, burying them.

There was no more firing. When the doughboys climbed into the post a few moments later, Brewer again brought up his dozer and shoved aside the earth to help them recover the bodies of the three Nazis.

Rains Needed In Most Of State For Crops

AUSTIN, July 27. (AP)—Bountiful rains fell in the High Plains, low rolling plains and numerous North Texas counties in the week ended July 24 but most of the state needed rains for crops.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reported the remaining portions of the state would benefit from rain except some northwest Panhandle counties where the wheat harvest was still in progress and in extreme South Texas where cotton picking, feed and grain sorghum harvests were underway.

The condition of livestock continued good in the Panhandle, High Plains, low rolling plains, many North Texas counties and parts of the Trans-Pecos area but some shrinkage of cattle had started elsewhere.

Hull Bitterly Hits Argentina

WASHINGTON, July 27. (U.P.)—Branded by the United States as a deserter of her neighbors in an hour of need and as one who aids enemies of the United Nations, the Argentine government today stood just short of being considered a traitor to the western hemisphere.

This country's bitter castigation of the present Argentine regime of Gen. Edelmiro Farrell was delivered last night by Secretary of State Cordell Hull. It did not, however, provide a solution to the complex problem but instead, posed a series of problems concerning the future of the good neighbor policy and the attempt to establish hemispheric solidarity.

Argentine Polices Bared

Hull set forth for the world to inspect what an authoritative government source described as Argentina's "monstrous doctrine of desertion." Hull invited its comparison with the doctrine of cooperation against the Axis followed by the rest of the Americas and recommended the diplomatic isolation of Argentina.

His bitterly critical statement brings into the open what is considered one of the greatest crises in Pan American history since 1917 when the Zimmerman note revealed that Germany had promised Mexico American land if she would align herself with the central powers. It certainly is the gravest crisis in the western hemisphere since President Roosevelt proclaimed the good neighbor policy.

The United States' decision to publish in forthright language its reasons for refusing to recognize the Argentine government—and Hull's appeal to the other United Nations to follow the example—may force the Argentine leaders to revise drastically their policy in favor of the Allied cause.

Ambassadors Recalled

Both countries have recalled their ambassadors, with Argentina describing its action as a "first step" in retaliation for the United States charges. The authoritative U. S. government source admitted that no thought is being given here now to implementing the non-recognition policy against Argentina with economic sanctions.

This government's reasons for refusing to recognize the Argentine regime were made public by Hull in a long memorandum in which he accused Argentina of deserting her sister republics in the face of enemy fire and of giving continuing aid and comfort to the enemies of the United Nations.

The memorandum was a combination of two that already had been sent to the other Latin American countries and to which, it was learned, virtually all subscribed. The nearly 5,000 word document was considered here as one of the strongest statements ever made against a nation with which the United States was not at war.

SNAKE TOOK NEST EGG

STUTTGART, Ark., July 27 (U.P.) —For two weeks a farmer near here searched diligently for a China nest egg which disappeared from his hen house. And then the mystery was solved. Finding a snake among the hen roosts, the farmer killed it. He found that the snake had swallowed the missing egg. The egg was recovered and put back into use in luring hens to increase wartime production.

Private Uses Sarge As Decoy, Knocks Off Nazi Sniper

WITH AMERICAN TROOPS In Normandy, July 15 (Delayed) (AP) —Staff Sgt. Michael Gaydos, Marblehead, O., and his buddy Pfc. Forrest (Fuzzy) Jones, Peoria, were in a hedgerow across the way from four Germans who were operating from a sniper's emplacement.

Through his field-glass, Fuzzy noted Germans coming up in regular order to take turns sniping at targets in the American lines. So he called over casually:

"Take a look around, Mike!"

The sergeant raised up and looked.

When one German took a bead on Gaydos, Fuzzy hollered:

"Duck, Mike!"

Mike ducked, and Fuzzy shot the German dead.

Then the sergeant awoke to the role he had been playing in this sniper hunt. He was highly indignant.

"What's wrong, Mike?" asked Fuzzy. "It worked, didn't it?"

Ceiling Prices On Barley Reduced

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP)—The Office of Price administration today cut barley ceiling prices an average of three cents a bushel in production areas, effective Aug. 1.

It said the new schedule would return parity prices to farmers for the 1944 crop. Present prices are higher than parity, the agency said in reminding it had announced last February that ceilings would be adjusted to reflect parity.

The new regulation also provides a uniform mark-up of $4 a ton for sales of barley at retail stores.

The uniform markup and the new barley ceilings replace the November 29-December 3, 1943, "freeze" prices which have been in effect.

Public Works To Be Convention Topic

FORT WORTH, July 27. (AP)—Needed public works to provide employment for returning war veterans, highway improvements and airport construction will provide principal topics for the state convention of the league of Texas municipalities to be held September 25-27 in Houston, the board of directors decided today.

Mayor Conrad Russell of Weatherford, who presided at the board meeting, named a committee of 58 members to draft proposed legislation authorizing urban redevelopments.

E. E. McAdams of Austin, executive director of the league, said the state Highway commission would be invited to have a representative discuss postwar highway planning at the state convention, including the probable operation of the Robertson federal aid highway measure pending in Congress.

Oil Price Hike To Be Sought

FORT WORTH, July 27 (AP) — Adopting a theme of "we must furnish the oil to win the war" the executive committee and state vice presidents of the Independent Petroleum Association of America concluded their two-day session determined to carry the fight forward for an overall crude oil price increase.

"The meeting was one of the most constructive sessions that has been held in the history of our association," Ralph T. Zook, president, said.

"The main concern of the oil industry today is to provide enough oil to win this war.

Subsidies To Help Some

"The subsidy payments for wells of small production to be inaugurated on August 1 will help many operators of marginal wells but it will not answer the problem of more oil. The answer is an overall price increase. The independents' fight for an increase has been just and this association is determined to fight with more vigor than ever before for this just cause.

"The independents' prediction that under a depressed price the flow of producable oil would reach its maximum capacity is now a reality."

The association renewed its contention that imports of foreign crude oil should continue to be regulated. Special emphasis was placed on the importance of the depletion allowance to the oil industry in making available adequate supplies of petroleum.

Oil seeping from the ground was used by the Indians as salve and medicine.

Berlin Radio Claims Russians Near Goal

LONDON, July 27. (AP)—The Russians "no longer are very far from their objectives" in drives toward Warsaw and Riga, the Berlin radio commentator Martin von Hallensleben said today in a gloomy review which called the Red offensive the greatest of the war.

(Dispatches from Moscow said the Red army was within 50 miles of Warsaw, within 70 of Riga).

Hallensleben, in a DNB news broadcast, said the Russians, by attacking "where large-scale operations should not have been undertaken," had pierced lightly-held German lines and as a result "the whole prudently calculated German defense system was threatened."

The commentator declared "nothing that can be compared with the power and extent of the forces and material resources of the present Soviet offensive has ever been seen at any moment of this war."

State Tax Rate To Be Set August 2

AUSTIN, July 27 (U.P.)—Texas' state tax rate—the one upon which payments will begin Oct. 1—will be set at a meeting of the state automatic tax board here Aug. 2.

Problematic was what the state school tax rate will be. If an additional $4 per scholastic approved by the state board of education is allowed, the school tax rate will have to be increased from the present 10 cents on $100 valuation to 18 cents. If the additional apportionment is disallowed there probably will be a decrease of the school tax below 10 cents.

State Confederate pension tax is set by statute at two cents and must be levied although there will be no need for the money to meet present Confederate pension claims.

Because the state general revenue is still in a deficit state, the maximum levy of 35 cents for general state purposes must be made. The dispute over the school tax was occasioned when the state board of education proposed to use a balance in the school funds to pay $4 additional per scholastic though a statute fixes $25 per scholastic as the maximum. Board members contend the limitation applies only to current revenues and does not prohibit a payment from funds that have accumulated.

If the school tax increase is made the total levy will be 55 cents on $100 valuation. Rate for the year ending has been 47 cents.

German Radio Names Plotters

LONDON, July 27 (AP) — The German radio asserted today that Infantry Gen. Olbricht, Col. Gen. Ludwig Beck and Col. Gen. Erich Hoepner took part in the bomb plot against Hitler.

Olbricht was shot after a court martial, the broadcast said.

Beck was said to have committed suicide when arrested. Hoepner was reported under arrest awaiting trial.

The Berlin account said these were the three mentioned by Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels in his speech last night.

The propaganda minister, without mentioning names, said one general "up to then had been prominent only for sabotaging all decisions in the war."

"Hysterical Breakdown" Reported

Goebbels said a certain colonel general "had hysterical breakdowns" and that another colonel general conducted a "cowardly retreat" on the Russian front.

How Olbricht, Beck and Hoepner tallied with the propagandist's descriptions was not immediately made known."

Four more German generals have been added to the swiftly lengthening list of Nazi command casualties in 24 hours.

The Russians announced the capture of Lt. Gen. Moser-Hillmann, commandant of fallen Lublin. He was their 26th captured general of the summer offensive.

"Met With Fatal Accident"

Lt. Gen. Wilhelm Grimm "met with a fatal accident," probably at Munich, the Berlin radio said last night. American bombs cratered that Nazi shrine city last week.

Col. Gen. Freiherr Geyer von Schweppenburg, commander of a German tank division in Normandy, was reported by the Stockholm Morgon Tidningen to have been shot.

Gen. Von Machenfeldt was arrested in the Hitler bomb plot, the same newspaper said.

OPA Issues Warning To Used Car Dealers

Used car dealers refusing to sell their automobiles unless the purchaser trades in another car were advised today by Howard R. Gholson, Lubbock district director of the Office of Price administration, that such practice is in direct violation of the regulation which established ceiling prices on such vehicles.

In order to clear up other possible misunderstanding of the used car ceiling price regulation, which went into effect July 10, the director said it specifically prohibits a dealer from forcing a purchaser of a used automobile to make payment for it over a period of time or to require the purchaser to finance through any particular lending agency. The dealer further must not require a purchaser of a used car to buy any accessories, repairs, parts or services so as to increase the total amount paid to more than the legal maximum price for the vehicle.

The regulation, Gholson said, provides dollars-and-cents prices for certain designated extra equipment. A dealer is not permitted, however, to make an extra charge for any accessories or extra equipment not specifically listed and priced in the regulation. A dealer may not charge extra for seat covers, fog lights or other unlisted extra equipment or accessories irrespective of whether the accessories are sold, attached to the vehicle or separately.

Record-Breaking 40 Billion Is Collected In Government Taxes

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP) — The $5 annual automobile use tax was paid on nearly 2,400,000 fewer cars in the fiscal year ended June 30 than in the preceding 12 months.

This is among the facts revealed today in the Internal Revenue bureau's annual breakdown on who paid what to produce record-breaking $40,121,760,232 internal revenue receipts.

The $5 automobile use tax produced $134,325,537, a decline of $11,963,746.

This meant that nearly 2,400,000 motorists either had (1) junked their cars, (2) put them up for the duration, or (3) decided to risk the $25 penalty provided for not having the use sticker.

Gasoline Taxes Decline

Gasoline taxes also reflected rationing and tire shortages. This tax brought in $271,216,501, a decline of $17,569,324.

Income and excess profits taxes provided more than three-fourths of the total revenue.

Corporation income taxes accounted for $5,284,145,852, an increase of $763,294,142; individual income taxes (exclusive of withholding), $10,437,570,433; up $4,493,653,454; withholding, $7,823,434,977, up $7,137,419,966.

Excess profits taxes amounted to $9,345,198,293, an increase of $4,281,334,679.

Liquor taxes totaled $1,618,775,155, an increase of $195,128,699.

Tobacco Total Increases

Tobacco taxes brought in $968,483,236, up $64,625,953. Snuff, usually thought of as out of date, accounted for $7,692,236 of the tobacco total.

Manufacturers' excise taxes — gasoline, radio sets, sporting goods, etc.—totaled $503,462,170, while retailers' excise taxes—jewelry, furs, toilet preparations and luggage—brought in another $225,232,264.

Employment taxes jumped $239,667,402—from $1,498,705,033 to $1,738,372,435.

Dreams Of Family Planes Discounted

DALLAS, July 27 (AP)—David L. Behncke of Chicago says he doesn't have visions of the skies of the future being filled with private family planes.

Comments the Chicagoan, who has been president of the Air Line Pilots association since its founding in 1931:

"Whether the individual takes up flying as a sportsman, for business or for pleasure trips with his family, he's going to have to be a pretty good pilot. There's the problem of air traffic. One can't just get out and fly around any way. Too, planes are going to be faster, and that means the need of skill."

Himself a World war I pilot and for ten years an airline pilot prior to becoming president of the pilots association, Behncke told an interviewer that most of the present war fliers "will want to return or undertake other occupations" after the war.

"Few will come out of the war with the experience to qualify them for air line operation without starting at the bottom. The industry could not possibly absorb more than a small percentage of them, and it will take the best."

Negroes Held After Attempted Assault

GALVESTON, July 27. (AP)—Held in the Angleton jail today were two negroes taken in custody by officers in connection with an attempted attack on Mrs. Jack A. Felton, who was accidentally killed by a neighbor when the latter came to her aid with a shotgun.

According to a report to the Galveston News from its Angleton correspondent, the neighbor heard screams coming from Mrs. Felton's home near Sweeney, Brazoria county, last night. He rushed to the scene with his gun which he fired in the dark at a form hurtling through a window, the correspondent reported.

Officers found in the Felton home signs of a terrific struggle.

Mrs. Felton's husband was working on the night shift in a refinery near Sweeney and their two children were with her mother at Thorndale.

Allies Are Closing In On Japan Fast

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

We shouldn't let Allied success in Europe make us overlook the fact that things also go well for us in the Pacific—so well indeed that we likely shall be able soon to launch major operations which will be calculated to win the war in the Orient much sooner than originally expected.

We are closing in on Japan fast. This doesn't mean that we have an easy task before us. On the contrary it bids fair to be a nasty job.

However, our recent conquests in the Mariana islands, including the great naval and air base of Saipan, has put a new and rosy complexion on prospects. Uncle Sam's heavy bombers now are within reach of Japan and the Philippines—both only 1,500 miles way. Our Navy now has bases to smash directly at Japan, the Philippines and China.

That's hanging it on the line for the mikado and his little men to see. And the new Japanese cabinet ministers, who are shouldering the heavy troubles Ex-Premier Tojo packed up for them, read the signs and freely admit that things are serious for them.

They're particularly concerned about the Marianna theater, pointing out to the Japanese public that several powerful U. S. fleet task forces are prowling about in these waters which are vital to Nippon's security. They have a right to be worried, for we not only possess Saipan but are getting ahead well with our conquest of the important neighboring islands of Guam and Tinian.

Tokyo also has noted other hurricane warnings, reporting to the Japanese public that a U. S. task force has bombed Paulau island and that a British force has strafed Sabang in the Dutch East Indies. Sabang has been bombed before, but an attack on Paulau is a sensation.

Palau, and its 100 surrounding isles, is one of Japan's most important sea defenses. Moreover this group is a shield for the southern Philippines, being only 560 miles east of Mindanao.

Mahon's Lead Almost 2-1

Revised unofficial tabulations up to Wednesday afternoon of returns from last Saturday's Democratic primary showed Rep. George Mahon to be leading C. L. Harris, Lubbock attorney, 31,534 votes to 16,164, in the 19th district congressional race. Mahon's majority was 15,370.

The count included returns from all of the 25 counties in the district, 18 complete. Estimates were that fewer than 1,000 votes remained to be reported.

The total vote of 47,698 has fallen short by 18,464 of the 66,162 poll in the congressional race four years ago, which was the last time that Congressman Mahon, now completing his fifth term, had opposition. The vote in the 1940 race was: Mahon, 50,026; Harris, 9,784; and M. D. Ramsey of Floyd county, 6,352.

As was the case four years ago, Mr. Mahon apparently carried every county in his district in last week's primary.

The revised tabulations follow:

More Nazi Atrocities Revealed In Letter

DALLAS, July 27 (AP)—A letter from a D-day veteran today added to the lengthening list of atrocity charges against the Germans an indication that American soldiers were disembowled by fanatical Hitlerite troops during the first phases of the French invasion.

The letter, written from an army hospital by Cpl. William Lyles, son of M. Lee Lyles, Chicago, was received by Dallas friends and told of paratroopers who were butchered by German soldiers who captured them after they landed and became entangled in tree limbs.

"Those dirty Germans cut a lot of stomachs of our boys who landed in those trees," Lyles wrote. "I saw them later. But we evened the score and the boys that are left will settle as they go along."

The corporal, also a paratrooper, was wounded by enemy fire during the opening stages of the French invasion.

Paratrooper Claims He Was Struck By Nazi Wooden Bullet

TEMPLE, July 27 (AP)—Fifteen battle casualties from the Normandy invasion described from McCloskey general hospital beds details of the Allied push against the Nazis. One of them said he believed he had been hit by a German wooden bullet.

The wounded men were flown here yesterday from the east coast.

Capt. W. Z. Cotham of Jarrell, Texas, told how his unit of the 82nd airborne division landed about ten miles inland in Normandy several hours before H-hour, with a French village as their objective.

"I rounded up 16 men, all I could find, and we had a try at taking the French village which was our objective. It was too strongly held, and we had to pull back until we could find more men," he said.

Contacted Other Groups

"Soon we found a colonel, a captain and 16 more paratroopers, so with that help we attacked the village again. It was still too strongly held for us, but he had a radio and began trying to contact other groups of our men.

"First we got through to an officer who had 90 men, and they came in to us through the Germans. The next night we contacted a group of about 300.

"From then until five days later the fighting was fast and hot. We ran into a typical German trap and I went to try to find help. I had run into a land mine and my leg was torn up some, but not too bad.

Big Battle Broke Out

"Pretty soon a helluva big battle broke out nearby, and I thought it was the beachhead people coming through, but it wasn't.

"Germans kept running and walking by, and even jumping my hedge, and all of a sudden I looked up and there was one looking right at me. I stood up and as I did, he shot me.

"It must have been one of their wooden bullets he shot me with, from the way it tore up my arm. We had seen some of these bullets before, and a lot of them had been captured with other German equipment. They tear you up pretty bad and are used for close-range fighting by the Germans.

"Instead of shooting me, they laid me in the road, and after a while a little German medic came by and tried to stop my bleeding.

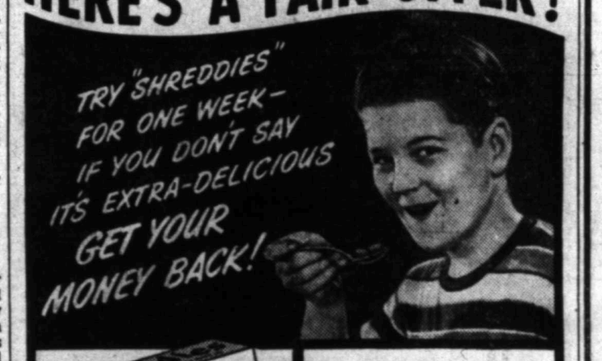

"Finally they put me in a truck that took me to a German hospital, and on D-12 the Ninth division came through and recaptured us."

Gen. McNair Is Killed In Action

Streamlined Combat Units

McNair was the designer of the training program that produced combat units in World war II which fought like veterans in their first battles. He was credited with streamlining the old "square" division of nearly 20,000 men into the "triangular" infantry division of 15,000 and was among the original group of officers who foresaw the need for developing the tank destroyer after the Nazis had exploited the tank's use in Poland and the Low Countries.

In the reorganization of the Army in March of 1942, grouping military functions into three basic units—ground forces, air forces and service of supply—Lieutenant General McNair was selected by Gen. Marshall, chief of staff, to head the ground forces.

He instilled into his men that in war it was "kill or be killed." In a broadcast address on Armistice day of 1942 he told the ground forces that "our soldiers must have the fighting spirit."

"Must Lust For Battle"

"If you call that hating our enemies, then we must hate with every fiber of our being," he continued. "We must lust for battle; our object in life must be to kill; we must scheme and plan night and day to kill. There need be no pangs of conscience, for our enemies have lighted the way to faster, surer and crueler killing; they are past masters.

"We must hurry to catch up with them if we are to survive. Since killing is the object of our efforts, the sooner we get in the killing mood, the better and more skillful we shall be when the real test comes. The struggle is for survival—kill or be killed."

General McNair was born in Verndale, Minn., May 25, 1883. He was graduated from the military academy in 1904 and the next year married Miss Clare Huster. They had one son, Douglas Cravier.

With Pershing Expedition

He was with the Funston expedition in Vera Cruz in 1914 and with the Pershing punitive expedition into Mexico in 1916-17.

In June of 1917, a few weeks after the United States' entry into World War I, McNair sailed for France and served with the First division, American Expeditionary forces, until August. Then he was at general headquarters at Paris and Chaumont until the end of the war. He went into Germany with the Army of Occupation.

The Distinguished Service Medal was awarded him and he also was made an officer of the French Legion of Honor.

After McNair's return to the United States he served in various posts. In April, 1939, he become commandant of the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., and in July of 1940 was assigned as chief of staff of general headquarters and stationed at the Army War college in Washington.

Belgian Areas Raided

ital of Budapest amid great air battles.

Lowered clouds and squalls limited tactical aerial operations in Normandy. During the night, British heavies bombed the rail center of Givors-Baden, 12 miles south of Lyon in southeast France. Mosquitos kept Hamburg awake, bombed other German targets for the fourth night running and harassed troop movements in Normandy.

Rail Bottlenecks Attacked

Up to 250 Liberators, with an equal escort of fighters, struck in Belgium in the same general area where Thunderbolts late yesterday hurled high explosives and incendiaries on dozens of rail targets. Brussels and Ghent both are rail bottlenecks leading from Germany to Normandy. A single bomber and one fighter were lost to flak today; no fighters rose to challenge.

Fighters swooped low to strafe ground targets such as locomotives and freight cars.

Berlin said both German and Hungarian planes challenged the U. S. 15th air force raiders over Budapest, intercepting long before the armada reached the target area.

Great fires were left licking at Givors-Baden last night in the concentrated attack pressed into a quarter hour.

Six Bombers Lost

Six heavy bombers were lost in the thrust that carried the RAF fleet across France to a point about 80 miles southwest of Lake Geneva, and immediately north of an area which had been under attack by Italian based Allied bombers frequently last month.

The weather over northern France still was unfavorable today, with overcast skies and some rain, but Allied headquarters said it was no worse than yesterday when tactical air units flew 3,500 offensive sorties.

Air activity over the battle area in the forenoon apparently was limited largely to planes operating from bases in Normandy.

Yesterday's combat score was 16 German planes downed for a loss of 13 Allied aircraft.

French Patriots

rons are participating in the invasion, air Minister Fernand Grenier of the French Committee of National liberation said today.

Other French air squadrons are operating at full strength in the Mediterranean theater, he said. Three squadrons of bombers and four of fighters are in Normandy, along with one parachute unit.

This was the first disclosure that French forces were fighting in the homeland, although some liaison and administrative officers were known to have been at the Normandy front.

MARKET DEALINGS SLACK

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP)—The stock market steadied selectively today after a downward drift in the forenoon and, while near-closing quotations were no worse than slightly mixed, dealings again were among the slackest of the past several months.

The ticker tape loitered from the opening on as numerous Wall streeters, blaming heat and humidity, deserted the financial sector for the mountains and beaches. Transfers were around 700,000 shares.

Supported were U. S. Steel, Standard Oil (NJ), Texas Co., Great Northern, American Telephone, Public Service of N. J., Hudson Motors, Goodrich and Douglas Aircraft. Losers the greater part of the time were Bethlehem, Western Union "A," U. S. Rubber, Chrysler and American Can.

Brill preferred climbed several points in the curb. Resistant also were Barium Steel, Goldfield Consolidated, International Petroleum and Electric Bond and Share.

Small Narcotics Ring Is Believed Broken

HOUSTON, July 27. (U.P.)—Federal and local officers joined hands last night in four raids here and at Richmond, Tex., and today they said they believed a small narcotics ring had been broken.

A sizeable cache of marihuana and 113 finished marihuana cigarets were taken in the raids. Four persons, three of them from Richmond, were in jail awaiting federal court arraignment.

More Cranberries To Be Sent Servicemen

AUSTIN, July 27 (U.P.)—More cranberries will go to service men and women this year for their holiday turkey dinners but civilians will have less than last year, C. B. Hodges of the office of distribution said here today.

The present crop is about 16,000,000 pounds short of 1943 production. Cranberries to the armed forces will be shipped fresh, canned and dehydrated according to destination, Hodges said.

Mexican Air Unit To Train At Randolph

SAN ANTONIO, July 27 (AP)—Three hundred officers and men of the Mexican 201st military aviation squadron today entered upon their first full day of training at Randolph field.

Described by the War department as the first full unit of Mexican armed forces to come to the United States for combat training with Allied forces, the contingent arrived yesterday by special train for a six-months' training period.

Reaching the border city of Laredo, Tuesday night, the group was met by 5,000 persons on both sides of the international bridge, who cheered them on their way. The squadron also was given a rousing reception at Saltillo, Monterrey and all along the route in Mexico.

At the Laredo cellebration were Brig. Gen. Luis Alamillo Flores of the Mexican armed forces; Brig. Gen. Arthur R. Harris, U. S. military attache in Mexico City; and Brig. Gen. Charles Myers, representing the commanding general in the Central Flying Training command, Brig. Gen. Walter Krause.

across the stream posed an outflanking threat to the city. The area of the penetration is 355 airline miles from Berlin on a historic invasion route. It is 140 miles from the border of German Silesia.

Tattered Nazis Driven Back

Russian Cossacks, tanks, infantry and cannon reached the east bank of the river yesterday on a 30-mile front driving before them the tattered and haggard Germans. Nazi rearguards fled to the west bank soon afterwards and were enveloped in a cacophony of massed artillery and mortar fire.

"Polish troops are advancing beside the victorious Red army," Izvestia said, "Deblin is liberated already and the capital of Warsaw listens to the remote detonation of artillery."

There were no indications that the Germans had been able to destroy the permanent bridges at Deblin and Pulawy before falling back across the river. If Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's cavalry moved fast enough—as it did at the Bug river—it was possible that the bridges were in Russian hands.

Baltic Front Split

Meanwhile capture of the Estonian city of Narva and neighboring towns on the south shore of the Gulf of Finland split the north Baltic front wide open, and additional successes were gained in the Stanislowow and Kolomya sectors on the routes to Czechoslovakia. In all, the Moscow communique announced the capture of more than 500 towns.

If the German shift south of Warsaw in an attempt to hold back the Red army from crossing the Wisla, Stalin may hurl a frontal assault from the east.

Gen. Ivan Bagramian's quick followup of his latest breakthrough in the central Baltic Soviet republics has separated German forces in Estonia and Latvia from those in Lithuania.

Thus it appeared that Hitler has lost the Baltics, and his immediate problem is how to evacuate his troops left defending Baltic cities they still hold. Railway communication to East Prussia or to Memel appears out of the question. Troops in Estonia and Latvia probably will seek to leave by sea, while large forces remaining in Lithuania must pour back into East Prussia.

News Briefs

Burglary of the George Meiser residence at 2308 Sixteenth street and theft of a .38 caliber S&W special pistol, slightly more than $5 in money and grocery coupons were reported today to police. Forty dollars in grocery coupons was stolen by negroes at a Piggly Wiggly store, officials were informed.

Perhaps Wednesday's 103-degree temperature had something to do with it, police theorized. Anyway, a woman called police. "Wild animals" were reported in the wee small hours in weeds near 2400-block Twenty-sixth street. "They're howling and taking on something awful."

Glover To Be Attorney Of 4-County District

AUSTIN, July 27. (U.P.)—Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today announced appointment of Thomas F. Glover of Seymour to be district attorney in the district comprising Baylor, Cottle, King and Knox counties.

Glover succeeds Charles Blount of Paducah, who resigned and withdrew from a race for renomination. Glover was successful candidate for the place in the July 22 Democratic primary.

mont-St. Lo road.

Tanks, with doughboys riding them, charged past St. Samson-Bonfosse in the southward drive to Le Mesnil Herman, front line dispatches said, and seized the ridge dominating Le Mesnil Herman as well as the town.

German Rear Disorganized

Field dispatches said the whole German rear had been disorganized by the rapid smashes into the Nazi lines, and prisoners were being garnered by the hundreds.

Tankmen no longer bothered with groups of the surrendering enemy, simply motioning them on to the rear, where they were taken in charge by riflemen.

The infantry was said to be moving up in an almost solid line from Marigny to Canisy in the wake of the slashing tank columns whose commanders directed circling planes to attack objectives as they chose.

Fighter planes alone were said to have wrecked or damaged 70 Nazi tanks yesterday.

Headquarters spokesmen meanwhile said there was "no cause for any anxiety on the situation" in the eastern sector around Caen where the British and Canadians have suffered local setbacks.

Nazis Gain On Flank

On the British - Canadian flank Germans hit with tanks, artillery and mortar fire. They recaptured Esquay, seven miles southwest of Caen, blood-soaked hills 112 and 113, headquarters and field reports said. Due south of Caen, the British Second army held on to Verrieres, smashing enemy counterattacks.

Lt.-Gen. Omar N. Bradley's American First army battlefront had broadened to 40 miles. Doughboys won a town northeast of Periers, and lashed out near Caumont, 13 miles east of St. Lo, capturing Montrabot. In all, at least 15 villages and towns have been taken in 48 hours.

Front dispatches said tanks bearing sharpshooting infantrymen—snipers who cut down German rocket gunners—had advanced beyond Canisy, four miles southwest of St. Lo.

The other U. S. tank spearhead at Marigny was battling only eight miles from the Germans' supply road running north from Coutances to the battle front at Periers.

Deepest Surge Of Invasion

These armored fists had scored the deepest inland penetration of the invasion—about 30 miles from the coast.

The Allied spearhead which thrust into Canisy, two miles south of St. Gilles, threatened to cut off the Germans who have been holding out in the Vire river bend west of St. Lo since the Americans penetrated the city 10 days ago.

For miles on either side of the impressive St. Lo push the Americans were also on the move.

Two spearheads pressed in on Periers, 15 miles west of St. Lo. One, driving southwest down the road from Carentan, firmly regained the town of Raids which has changed hands repeatedly in the last fortnight.

New Bridgehead Set

The other, pushing a new bridgehead across the Seves river, due north of Periers, repelled no less than four German counterattacks yesterday and last night. A previous bridgehead over the Seves was shoved back last week by the Nazis.

In their drive east of St. Lo American troops took the town of Montrabot, four miles northwest of Caumont, the approximate mid-point of the Allies 100-mile line in Normandy, and the Allied communique said troops in this area had made a number of other unspecified advances.

At least 40,000 Germans, half of them elite armored troops, in a great concentration of one division to every two miles, were desperately blocking the British and Canadian drive toward Paris.

Continuing their support of the ground troops, Allied aerial forces continued to batter German positions and tank and troop concentrations in the battle areas. Other warplanes shot up German transportation over a wide area from Douai to Vendome.

Two Killed In Riot At Mexico University

MEXICO CITY, July 27. (AP)—The rector of the National university of Mexico has asked President Avila Camacho to take a hand in a school riot that has resulted in the death of two students.

The riot reached its peak yesterday when veterinary students threatened to turn loose dogs infected with rabies, kept for laboratory experiments. The threat was not carried out.

Dr. Rodolfo Brito Foucher, the rector, in a statement to the faculty and students of the university, blamed the outbreak on "a group of politicians desirous of getting possession of the university."

He said the leaders had the following of "a small group of bad students who for three months have been carrying on acts of violence."

The rector carried his appeal to the president while students were fighting in university buildings and in the streets.

Police said that besides the two students killed, more than a score more were hurt seriously, and some 200 had minor injuries.

Removal Of Women's Agent Recommended

DALLAS, July 27 (U.P.) — The executive committee of the Texas Home Demonstration association will recommend the adoption of a resolution asking the removal of Miss Maurine Hearn as women's agent and vice-director of the Texas Extension service, it was learned today.

Mrs. Neely Huffhines, Dallas county delegate to the state meeting in Austin next Monday, said the resolution was expected to make the session a lively one.

Miss Hearn was appointed three months ago to replace Miss Mildred Horton, who was dismissed by the A. and M. college board.

Soldiers Awarded For Aid In Train Wreck

BROWNWOOD, July 27. (AP) — Three soldiers have been presented awards of $25 each by the Santa Fe railway for bravery in a train-truck collision June 14 near Pauls Valley, Okla. Butane gas on the truck set fire to the train.

Rewarded for actions "beyond the call of duty" in calming passengers, helping evacuate the train and put out the fire were: Pfc. Harvey J. Record, Camp Bowie, Tex.; Pvt. Charles N. Rosen, Camp Howze, Tex.; and Pvt. Joe Gatzke, Fort Riley, Kans.

Heavier Robot Attacks Seen

LONDON, July 27 (U.P.)—Dutch quarters said today that recent large scale German construction on the hook of Holland was believed to be launching sites for a new and larger flying bomb capable of bombarding England's industrial midlands 250 miles away.

They said these platforms were ready for use if not already in operation.

German propaganda minister Paul Joseph Goebbels has been warning of a new German robot plane—the V-2—which would carry a greater load of explosives longer distances than the V-1, with which the Germans have been attacking southern England during recent weeks.

Shipping Banned

Dutch officials learned that within the last few weeks all shipping, including even small fishing vessels, has been banned from the hook of Holland area, where large scale German construction was proceeding at top speed during April and May.

In those months the Nazis conscripted almost every able bodied man from 18 to 55 in Rotterdam to work on a mysterious project. Dutch intelligence has not identified this project definitely and it was pointed out that it might have been pre-invasion defense work but the fact that the hook of Holland is the nearest continental point to the great steel, munitions and other heavy industries of the midlands seemed to substantiate the theory of robot launching sites.

Greater Accuracy Seen

The new robots would have to have a range of around 250 miles and far greater accuracy than V-1 to cause vital military damage upon Birmingham and Sheffield. The present bombs fired from the Pas de Calais area have a range of about 150 miles and are catapulted from points about 90 miles from London.

Robots travelling toward the midlands from the hook would have to cross 100 miles of English channel, during which they would be fairly easy targets for patrolling fighters as they followed their fixed courses.

Chicago Has Enviable Program For Service Men And Women

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, July 27 — This brawny city is building good-will for itself all over the world by the way it treats service men and women.

They can come here—and do—to spend their furloughs and leaves without ever spending a dime.

They carry the word back to American camps and to American forces over seas.

Four Large Centers

This is how Chicago does it, a lesson in community cooperation:

There are four large centers: A 14-story building in the loop; an old hotel; a large hotel for negroes; and a beach club operated in the summer.

More than 10 million men and women in uniform have visited these centers. The centers are operated by the Chicago commission on national defense, headed by Mayor Edward J. Kelly, chairman.

The help in the centers is 97 per cent volunteer and everything is on a do-as-you-please basis for the service people.

Can't Spend Money

They can't spend any money in these centers. Food is free. They have several hundred beds, free, too.

Thus service people can eat and sleep their furlough away at no expense and keep tidy by washing, drying and pressing their clothes in machines set up for just that purpose.

Food donated to the centers by the community amounts to about $15,000 a week.

As for entertainment:

About 30,000 free tickets for movies, theaters and sports events are available at the centers weekly.

Entertainment Abundant

And at the centers themselves on a typical night is a choice of dances, night club entertainment with guest stars, billiards, pool and bowling.

There are music rooms with recordings for those who take their music seriously and like symphonies.

And there are music rooms for those whose interests are strictly swing-time.

There are free lessons in Spanish and a darkroom for photographers to develop their pictures, with a top-notch amateur or professional Chicago photographer in attendance to advise and discuss technique.

There are even stenographers to help soldiers write their letters.

'CHUTE PAJAMAS

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., July 27 (U.P.)—Lt. George Reece Grissom, stationed in Italy, has found a new use for a camouflage 'chute. He wrote home that he's going to have a pair of silk pajamas made from one and he predicted that they would "really be flashy."

ENDS 5-YEAR SIEGE OF CONSTIPATION!

"Now as Regular as Anyone!" Says H. C. Durand

Here's a sincere, unsolicited letter every disappointed "doser" will want to read:

"I'm 82 years old, and have been constipated over 5 years, going as much as 5 days without a movement. Pills and laxatives would relieve me only for the day I took them. Next day I'd be as bad as ever. Then I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. Am now on my second box, and as regular as anyone could want, thanks to regular use of your wonderful product!" Mr. H. C. Durand, 221 N. Columbus Ave., Freeport, Long Island, N. Y.

Sounds like "magic," doesn't it? Yet, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN really can, and does, get at a common cause of constipation—lack of certain dietary "cellulosic" elements! That's because it is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements—which help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't work by "sweeping out"! It is simply a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If your constipation is of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins daily. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't find welcome relief! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Donald Hurls Yanks To Win Over Tribe

Screwball Artist Maintains 'Hex'

(By The Associated Press)

If Joe McCarthy ever gets those New York Yankees up for a fourth straight American league pennant league pennant, Swampy Donald's black magic over Cleveland and St. Louis will come in for a lion's share of the credit.

The lean righthanded screwball artist from Louisiana's swamp lands is just another pitcher against most of the clubs but he has beaten the Indians 12 of 13 starts since hitting the big show and drubbed the Brownies 11 of 14 tries.

Although Donald's "hex" against St. Louis has shown signs of weakening in splitting four games with the Browns this year, the evil eye treatment still holds against the Indians. With the help of homers by Snuffy Stirnweiss and Oscar Grimes, Donald topped Cleveland for the third straight time by a 6-3 score before 25,483 pennant-minded Tribe followers. Jim Bagby suffered his first loss.

War Fund Boosted

Six war fund games yesterday, including the Cleveland night fray and tilts in Chicago, St. Louis, New York, Brooklyn and Philadelphia, upped the major league war contribution for 1944 to $445,093.71 with a Cincinnati at Boston doubleheader on Sept. 24 still to be counted.

Jack Kramer finally hit the 10-win mark as the Brownies shaded Philadelphia 4-2 although outhit 11 to 6. Catcher Red Hayworth's three-run homer in the fourth spelled Luke Hamlin's doom and protected the 3½ game St. Louis lead over New York.

Boston and Detroit were halted by rain in the eighth for a 1-1 tie between Hal Newhouser and Pinky Woods and Chicago staged a two-run spurt in the last of the ninth to top Washington, 4-3, as 30,879 customers, including Commissioner K. M. Landis, sat through a 1 hour, 22 minute-storm that interrupted play in the second. Johnny Humphries was the winner over Early Wynn whose losing streak mounted to seven.

Pirates In Second Place

Pittsburgh took over second place in the National's most exciting race by trimming the New York Giants 6-5 behind Fritz Ostermueller as Cincinnati split with Boston.

Brooklyn took over sole occupancy of the cellar by losing to Chicago's Bill Fleming 4-1 as Boston beat Bucky Walters 9-2 in the first game. Cincinnati grabbed the nightcap, from the Braves 8-5 for Harry Gumbert's 8th triumph.

Danny Lithwiler was the hero of St. Louis' 8-6 nod over the Phils by clouting a three-run homer in the eighth and scoring the winning run in the tenth.

Sports Roundup

BY FRITZ HOWELL
(Pinch-Hitting For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

NEW YORK, July 27 — The armed services are taking pretty good care of the four freedoms. Mr. Fullerton, for whom we're subbing, is enjoying a fifth (vacationing at Freedom, N. H.), and today as the hazy, lazy dog-days approach, we're declaring a sixth freedom—the right to construct a column by clipping quips from our colleagues.

Maybe they'll dub us the thief of "bad-gag" for stealing their stuff, but we're too tired to worry. Here are the guest stars, and their star jests:

TOPS AND BOTTOMS

John E. Wray, St. Louis Post-Dispatch: Our Browns are seventh in team hitting, sixth in team fielding, and below par in other departments of play. In fact the only thing they're first in is the American loop.

BASEBALL QUIZ

No. 1—What player won the batting championship in both majors?

No. 2—What player pitched a no-hit game in both majors?

(Answers at end, after our guests leave.)

FULLY EQUIPPED

George Herrick, San Diego Tribune-Sun: George Zaharias is all set for his opening pro football game with the Los Angeles Mustangs here for Sept. 3, except, he has no team, no coach, no name for the club, and no place to play.

Bill Harvey, Paterson, N. J., Morning Call: Ray Starr has pitched professionally for 17 different clubs in his 19 years of baseball. The Pirate moundsman boasts he gets at least two hits annually. One in the spring before the pitchers get warmed up, and one in the fall after they cool off. He thinks a great hitter is a guy who can hit a bird shot with a buggy whip.

ANSWERS TO QUIZ

No. 1—Ed Delehanty, .408 in 1899 in National, .376 in 1902 in American.

No. 2—Cy Young, Boston vs Philadelphia (American), 1904; and Cleveland vs Cincinnati (National, 1897.)

Lawson Is On All-Star Eleven

Lubbock Tackle To Play With North

Homer Lawson will represent the Lubbock Westerners in the Texas high school all-star game at Wichita Falls August 11, and has been added to the roster of the North squad selected for the big game at the annual Texas High School Coaches association coaching school August 7-11.

Lawson, who weighed 170 pounds last season, has added some 15 pounds to this, and is reported to be in top conditior while spending the summer working on a ranch near Lubbock.

Lawson leftered only one year at Lubbock, but was a squadman of the season before. He had another year of eligibility left for the Westerners this season, but passed it up to graduate.

Lawson made the All-District team last season, and was considered by coaches this year as being a top prospect for All-State honors in the high school ranks.

The addition of Lawson to the North squad was made Tuesday by Howard "Bull" Lynch, coach of the Amarillo Golden Sandies, and one of the directors of the Texas High School Coaches Association.

The All-Star game is a climax of the five day school whigh opens on August 7, and is closed with the game on Friday night, August 11.

Pennock Reports On Anti-Gambling Work

PHILADELPHIA, July 27. (AP)—A full report of the steps being taken to halt gamblihg at Shibe park has been filed with Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis by Herb Pennock, general manager of the Philadelphia Phillies, said last night.

A similar report is believed to have been asked of Connie Mack, now in St. Louis, after the arrest of five men for making bets in a recent Philadelphia-Boston National league game.

BUY INTEREST IN EAGLES

PHILADELPHIA, July 27. (U.P.)—Movie Actor Bruce Cabot and John McLean, a southern aircraft corporation executive, have purchased minority interests in the Philadelphia Eagles professional football league team, it was announced last night by General Manager Harry Thayer. Cabot recently received a discharge from the military service.

Kiwanis Cards Blast Lions Club, 20-8

Another free scoring battle resulted Wednesday evening at Texas Tech field as the first half champions, the Kiwanis Cards, blasted out a 20 to 8 victory over the Lions Club.

It was a free hitting battle all the way, but found the first half champions putting more power behind their blows while Travis, the Kiwanis mound ace, proved more effective from the hill that did Smith, the Lions chunker.

A pair of new catchers cropped up in the ball game, and both showed up well in the battle with Houk taking over for the Kiwanis while Manuel Gallegos did some great catching for the Lions.

CIO Trying To Unionize Ball Players

Ostermueller's Case Boosts Argument Against Waivers

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 27.—The case of Fritz Ostermueller — cause celebre of those who wish to unionize baseball players—gained strength last night as the 36-year-old southpaw was credited with his sixth victory with the Pittsburgh Pirates, against two defeats.

Lean Fritz, whom Branch Rickey of the gasping Brooklyn Dodgers tried to ride out of the major leagues on the waiver rail, added another bullet to the interested CIO's ammunition as the Pirates regained second place in the National league flag race with a 6-5 victory over the New York Giants.

Now In 10th Season

Although Ostermueller, now in his 10th season of major league play, was removed in the ninth inning, he earned the victory with which he was credited despite poor fielding support. Third Baseman Bob Elliott, for example, made three costly errors; and Buddy Kerr's home run in the eighth took a questionable bounce right over Jim Russell's head.

Regarless of Manager Mel Ott's stormy but futile protest against the final out of Phil Weintraub, who claimed that the pitch had hit his foot instead of the bat, Ostermueller was credited with his sixth Pittsburgh victory since joining the Corsairs in early June —six victories that the tail end Dodgers could have used like canteens of ice water for a parched and expiring prospector in Death Valley. President Rickey of the bomb-shelter Dodgers made use of the grotesque and toothless waiver clause to get rid of Ostermueller on June 1, just five weeks before veteran Fritz was to have become a "ten-year-man" in the majors—a distinction that would have prevented his being sent back to the minors, except as a free agent who could make his own terms and demand his own bonus for signing with a minor club.

Ostermueller and Pitcher Bill Lohrman were waived out of the National league and sent to Syracuse by Rickey in exchange for Outfielder Rosen. Ostermueller refused to report at Syracuse. Immediately, Frankies Frisch, shrewd pilot of the Pirates, negotiated with Leo Miller, shrewd general manager of the Syracuse club, who sold rebellious Ostermueller to the Pirates for reported $15,500 instead of the $7,500 waiver price.

At that time, Rickey's attempt to railroad Ostermueller out of the majors—just five weeks before he became a 10-year-man—caused indignation among most players in organized ball. Ostermueller had the courage to telephone Commissioner Landis, explaining his refusal to report to Syracuse. Landis, we understand, backed him in his attitude. Meanwhile, the CIO, which has been investigating possibilities of unionizing ball players, became particularly interested in the Ostermueller case. He gave the CIO something to shout about—when the time is ripe. That time will be when the regime of Landis ends, possibly next year.

Despite the abuses of the waiver clause, most ball players have confidence in Landis, who generally has protected their rights; but when ancient Kenesaw steps down from his post because of age—then the CIO will try to step in; and the Ostermueller case will be mighty important in its campaign.

Karlen Nine Loses To Waco Army Team

WACO, July 27 (AP)—Karlen Bros. team of Dallas will try it again tonight in the Texas semi-pro baseball tournament after having lost a 9-1 game to the Waco Army Air field last night.

Karlen meets the South Camp Hood team tonight and tomorrow night Fort Worth Army Air field battles Camp Hulen in a first-round game.

Juniors Leave For Tourney

Locals Will Open With Dallas Nine

The American Legion junior baseball nine left this morning for Austin where they open the semi-final series for the state American Legion championship in a series with Forest Avenue High school of Dallas tonight.

Other semi-final teams are from Austin and Waco. Two out of three games series will decide both semi-final and final winners, with a consolation battle scheduled for the two semi-final losers for third place honors.

Regional Playoff Set

Associated Press dispatches from New Orleans Wednesday announced that the regional playoff of the American Legion teams will be held in that city August 10-13. This anouncement was made by A. Frank Fairley, first district chairman of the American Legion baseball in Louisiana.

Legion baseball champions from Louisiana, Mississippi, Texas and Arkansas will compete in the New Orleans tournament with the winner going to the national meet.

The Lubbock team will play tonight at 7 o'clock at Austin while Austin and Waco games follow at 9 o'clock. The Lubbock club will have both Bob Galey and Charles Pressley available for mound duty, and just which pitcher will start was not determined at the time of the team's departure.

Seven City Tennis Matches Are Played

The city tennis tournament began to move toward the showdown battles that will name the champions in all divisions by August 3, and to date seven of the matches have been played and reported to the city recreation department.

H. L. Burgess was victor over John Elrod in the men's singles 3-6, 7-5, and 6-4, and is scheduled to meet Lt. Rabbie in his next match. Lt. Ben Cowling won his match with Dub Blankenship with two 6-1 sets, and moves into the second round to play Thad Ricks. Morrow came through on the courts to win over Verne D. Batchelor, holder of several tennis championships, 6-4, 3-6, and 6-4, to meet Lt. R. D. Brown, winner of two 6-2 sets with A. E. Cook, who won over Mack Shipley 6-2, 4-6, and 6-3, in the third round.

In the men's doubles, the only match played thus far was won by Lt. Brown and Tucker over Mack Shipley and Verne Batchelor 6-1, and 6-3.

Jerry LeMond earned the right to move into the finals as he beat Louis Hawkins the first three of five sets 6-1, 6-1, and 9-7.

Several withdrawals and changes of teams have been announced by the receration department. Tucker has replaced Lt. Cowling in men's doubles, and Mixed doubles. Margaret and Louis Hawkins have withdrawn from the mixed doubles contest.

Hurlwood All-Stars Down LAAF Civilians

Home runs played a prominent part in the scoring as the Hurlwood All-Stars retained runner-up position in the men's softball race by blasting the Lubbock Army Air field Civilians, 22-3, Wednesday afternoon at the 23rd street and Avenue W diamond.

Arnold homered twice to account for four runs, and Dixon accounted for another with a homer.

Dixon pitched the win for the All-Stars, striking out six and allowing only three hits, while Smith caught. Bradshaw, pitching for the Civilians, and gave away 16 hits, with Spivey catching.

In the second game of the double header, the Avalanche-Journal women's team out hit the Lubbock Army Air Field Civilianettes and came out on top, 26-18. Wilson hit a homer for the Newsies in the first inning with no one aboard. Thompson belted a round tripper in the fourth frame with two on base.

Balch and Woodson pitched for the Avalanche-Journal ten, granting 9 hits. Graves caught. Davis was on the mound all the way for the Civilianettes.

Several New Senate Members Assured

WASHINGTON, July 27. (AP) — It's a safe bet that seats 32 and 33 in the United States Senate won't hold two such sharply contracting lawmakers next year as their outward-bound opponents.

Seat 32 is the official home of E. D. "Cotton Ed" Smith, the South Carolina fire-eater who never bothered to dissemble his distaste for the New Deal and all its works.

Seat 33 has been occupied the past 12 years by Mrs. Hattie W. Caraway, the only incumbent woman senator.

The two Senate neighbors, whose desks are separated by only a narrow aisle, are the latest primary election casualties.

Shy, mild mannered Mrs. Caraway rarely addresses the Senate, although she has missed few roll-calls.

Smith To Break Record

Smith, who next month will break all records for continuous service in the Senate, frequently entertains his colleagues—and the galleries—with biting references to the New Deal, President Roosevelt, and bureaucrats—("why, most of them couldn't tell the difference 'tween a corn stalk and a fishin' pole.")

Smith took the oath as senator March 4, 1909. Cotton Ed didn't seem very perturbed about his defeat; just told the folks down on his Carolina farm that he reckoned he'd better go out and look at the pigs.

The twin defeat of Senators Smith and Caraway has raised the 1944 Senate turnover rate of nearly 10 per cent, with the general election still more than three months away.

Nine Not To Be Back

As of today, it is certain that nine of the present 96 senators will not be back next January.

D. Worth Clark, Idaho Democrat, fell in an earlier primary, and Republican Rufus Holman of Oregon likewise lost his renomination bid.

Four decided not to run—Robert Rice Reynolds, North Carolina Democrat; Sinclair Weeks, Massachusetts Republican who was appointed to Henry Cabot Lodge's seat when the latter resigned to join the Army; Samuel D. Jackson, Indiana Democrat who is running for governor, and Arthur Walsh, Democrat, who is returning to his business interests in New Jersey.

Homer Bone, Washington Democrat, still is a member of the body but he has been appointed to the circuit bench and has announced his intention of resigning his Senate seat.

Death has removed two members this year—Minority Leader McNary of Oregon and Frederick Van Nuys of Indiana.

If the Democrats win the presidential election, Senator Harry Truman of Missouri will move up from his rear-row seat to the vice president's chair on the Senate rostrum. Otherwise, he still has two years to serve.

FULBRIGHT, ADKINS HAVE BEEN AT ODDS BEFORE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 27 (AP)—By a strange turn of events a discharged president of the University of Arkansas and the governor who ousted him found themselves in the August 8 runoff today for the Arkansas Democratic senatorial nomination.

These two finalists in Tuesday's preferential primary, personable J. W. (Bill) Fulbright, 39-year-old freshman congressman who authored the "lasting peace" resolution, and tall, smiling Gov. Homer M. Adkins, 53, were quick to advance possible issues based upon their theories of government.

Among his associates Fulbright is recognized as a liberal while Adkins has been referred to as a practical public official with a leaning toward conservatism.

Paths of Fulbright and Adkins first crossed in 1941 when a board of trustees named by Adkins removed Fulbright as university president, charging him with lack of cooperation. Adkins also asserted that Fulbright, who was a close personal and political friend of his 1940 opponent, Former Governor Carl E. Bailey, made critical remarks concerning him in his Fayetteville newspaper.

The two are seeking to replace Senator Hattie W. Caraway who was eliminated in Tuesday's preferential primary.

GOP Program

—it will also units the viewpoints of the 26 states headed by Republican governors where three-fourths of the American people live."

That means, Dewey said with determination, "that the disgraceful spectacle of petty bickering and constant warfare between the various units of government will come to an end on next Jan. 20."

"Fine," ejaculated Bricker.

Expenditures Head List

Dewey said the following subjects would be considered by the Republican governors:

1. Public expenditures.
2. Public health.
3. Administration of unemployment insurance.
4. Administration of employment services "which were surrendered by these states to the national government in the war emergency."
5. Relationship of unemployment services.
6. Labor, including the sphere of state and national influence.
7. Public works—the extent of direction by national government and finance by national government, by states and locally.

To Discuss Highways

8. Highways, including transcontinental roads and national defense projects.
9. Regulation of all kinds of insurance.
10. Ownership and use of national land. (Dewey said there were states where the federal government owns 80 per cent of the land, posing a question of taxation.)
11. Water and flood control and conservation of natural resources.
12. National Guard, including the question of its continuance as a reserve to the regular army or the possibility of its permanent federalization.
13. Federal and state tax coordination, including special attention to overlapping and the conflict of tax collections and rates between local and federal government.
14. Agriculture, including the extent to which government aids, soil conservation programs and controls should be locally or nationally regulated.
15. Veterans' affairs.

Long Conference Held

While Dewey told reporters he could not say that the conflict between local and federal governments would become "a major issue of the campaign," he said the decision of the governors conference would have an important bearing on the Republican party's stand in its drive for the presidency.

The New York governor read notes which he said were the results of a long conference with Bricker which lasted until 2 a. m today.

The two covered the whole field of "friction" between local and federal governing agencies, Dewey said, and in addition discussed plans for the political campaign itself.

Dewey declined, however, to make public any of their decisions in that connection and would not disclose the date on which an active speaking campaign may begin.

Cabinet Members Aid

Dewey disclosed that five members of his New York state cabinet had joined with him in preparing rough drafts covering most of the subjects which he said the GOP governors would study at St. Louis.

He and Bricker examined these drafts during the night and "tore most of them apart," Dewey disclosed. He predicted that any statement on policy coming out of the governors' meeting would be backed unanimously by those attending, but he said it seemed doubtful that solutions could be found for all of the problems he outlined in a two-day conference.

Out of the Dewey-Bricker conference also came indications that first attacks of the Republicans' version of a political campaign flying bomb would be aimed at Democratic strongholds on the fringes of Dixie and in the Middle West.

Plotting the curves for a barrage expected to get under way early next month, the Republican presidential and vice presidential nominees were reported in agreement that the GOP ought to carry a vigorous general campaign not only to the so-called border states but should bid strongly for labor support at the same time.

Dewey To Effect Strategy

Dewey, the No. 1 man, will put a part of this strategy in effect next week when he journeys to politically-doubtful Missouri for a conference with the other 25 Republican governors at St. Louis, where Robert E. Hannegan, Democratic national chairman, used to be the opposition organization leader.

The Dewey invasion of the home state of Senator Harry S. Truman, Democratic vice presidential nominee, will be the New governor's first visit to that territory since he spoke for the USO in St. Louis in 1941. He campaigned the state in 1940 before the Republican convention and spoke there later for Wendell L. Willkie, that year's nominee.

"Good Campaign" Planned

Bricker, who scheduled a conference in New York today with National Chairman Herbert Brownell, jr., after an overnight visit at the executive mansion, may carry the brunt of the GOP drive in seven key states where he predicted the Republicans will "put up a good campaign."

In two of these states, Missouri and Kentucky, the Republicans have a foothold with the governorship. Others he listed included Oklahoma, Tennessee, North Carolina, Virginia and Maryland.

Further light on the plans of the two nominees was expected at a press conference today and Bricker made it plain that extensive thought had been giving to wooing the labor vote.

He told a mansion porch press conference yesterday that labor has "been rapidly coming over to our side."

Polish Premier To Visit Russia

LONDON, July 27 (AP)—Premier Stanislaw Mikoljczyk of the Polish government in exile left for Moscow today. His departure came after the cabinet of the Polish government had approved a plan to send him to the Soviet capital to confer with Premier Stalin in an apparent effort to effect a compromise with the rival Polish faction in Moscow.

The cabinet's decision was regarded as a sign that neither the London Poles nor the British government had abandoned hope of settling the differences between the government of the peasant-born premier and the Polish Committee of Liberation with which the Soviet government signed an agreement for administration of Polish territory occupied by the Red army.

Meanwhile, some degree of unity is being developed in the Polish armed forces.

The Moscow radio broadcast a letter from Lt. Gen. Sigmund Berling and Maj. Gen. Alexander Zawadski, commanders of Polish troops in the Soviet, to Gen. Jucjan Zeligowski in London calling for a Poland "great, strong, happy and not dependent on anyone." Zeligowski's reply praised them for their part in the restoration of an "independent" Poland.

He closed by saying that naturally we are primarily interested in winning the war, but we must be equally interested in the preservation of peace. "Let us place our hearts and minds on the real objective, the preservation of victory," he said.

The speaker was introduced by J. F. Moreau, program chairman. Clark M. Mullican inducted six new members into the club. They were: A. C. Lamp, Clinton Lackey, G. H. Keithley, W. E. Twitty, W. A. Corley and W. G. Clayton. T. E. Buckner, president of the club, presided.

are now among the most hard hitting of all the Tinian invaders," said AP Correspondent Rembert James.

Trap Holds Japs

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's men maintained the trap holding thousands of Japanese on northwest New Guinea. New breakout attempts were repulsed.

In China the U. S. 14th Air force stung the Japanese trying to take Hengyang, downing or damaging 14 planes in a battle over Yochow. A hope began to glimmer in Chungking stories that the enemy might be forced to abandon his offensive to seize all the Hankow-Canton railway. Hengyang teetered on the verge of capture, but its doughty defenders and General Chennault's fliers were making the price high. In the Yochow battle no Americans were lost.

The British inflicted more losses on the Japanese fleeing India and Chinese-American troops inched deeper into Myitkyina.

The Sabang raid was a repeat performance of the April 19 task force raid. Sabang lies at the northeastern end of the Malacca strait, the narrow waterway which thrusts between Sumatra and Malaya down to storied Singapore.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Tm. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Shortly after the turbulent turmoil of the Democratic convention, seasoned party leaders sat down to figure the chances of victory next November. Most of them are optimistic, say that Roosevelt can sweep the country. However, certain others are not.

PEARSON

Among the doubters is New York's Mayor La Guardia who, though technically not a Democrat, has swung with Roosevelt each time, and who knows his New York better than most. Fiorello has sent the party leaders private warnings that Roosevelt will have a tough time carrying New York State. He is worried.

Another who privately shares that view is the new, liberal young head of Tammany hall, Ed Loughlin.

Shrewdest observer among old-time Democrats is Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, whose service in the House of Representatives dates back to the days of the last war. Reminiscing recently about Woodrow Wilson's election battles, Speaker Rayburn said:

"In 1918, the Democratic administration was winning the war. Everyone knew it. The country knew it. Wilson was at the height of his popularity. Yet, one week before the Armistice, we lost the House of Representatives. And there wasn't anything in the world we could do about it. When people decide they want a change, they change."

A lot of other Democratic leaders aren't as open-faced as Sam Rayburn. But privately, they aren't too happy over the possibility that, if the war ends in Europe, the war leader would become only one-half a war leader, and that one-half the reason for not changing horses in midstream would be removed.

NAZI PEACE FEELERS

REPORTS that the German generals revolted against Hitler only after peace negotiations with Russia failed, have caused Washington diplomatic sources to reveal that, on two previous occasions, German peace feelers were extended to Russia.

In fact, there was a very deep fear in U. S. Army-Navy circles that Russia might be tempted by these earlier offers, especially during the days when no second front had been started and when Stalin was bitter against the Allies for not starting it.

Nazi peace offer number 1 was made several months after Stalingrad, during the early winter of 1943. The peace proposal was made by the Japanese Ambassador in Moscow, who, being neutral, was in a position to lay the matter before Foreign Commissar Molotoff. Just what was in the Nazi olive branch is not definitely known, though Hitler was reported ready to give back to the Russians all of their pre-1939 territory except the Ukraine.

Molotoff is reported to have torn up the offer and throw it into the waste-basket.

Nazi peace offer number 2 was made in the summer of 1943 in a villa on the outskirts of Stockholm. It was made by Hans Thomsen, German ambassador to Sweden and former charge d'affaires in Washington. Thomsen, who speaks perfect English, was born of a Norwegian father, and married a Hungarian who was openly bitter against Hitler and constantly damned him at Washington dinner parties. Washington hostesses never knew whether Frau Thomsen really hated Hitler or was putting on an act to show that there could be freedom of expression among Germans.

At any rate, Hitler later gave her husband a position of great trust as his own personal interpreter, then sent him to Sweden, where Thomsen handled the peace discussion with the Russians.

The Stockholm olive branch also was rebuffed by the Russians, though they didn't hesitate to let the Allies know that something like this was being talked about—even intimated that, if the second front wasn't opened before long, the next olive branch might be more acceptable.

Churchill never took any stock in these intimations, claimed the Russians were bluffing and would never make separate peace with the Nazis. His thesis was that Stalin would be thrown out of Russia if he did. This was one reason why Churchill kept pulling back from starting a second front.

Roosevelt, however, felt that (1) it was only fair to the Russians to carry out what we had promised them and the world as early as 1942; that (2) a second front was the one way to keep Germany busy on two fronts and end the war in a hurry.

ANGLO-AMERICAN POST-WAR PLANS

IT HASN'T been advertised, but the real reason for the visit of Richard Law, son of former British Prime Minister Bonar Law, to the U. S. A. is to confer on post-war peace machinery.

Events have been moving so fast toward peace that it's an unfortunate but inescapable fact that peace plans haven't kept up with war plans. The State department was roused out of its rut last summer by the B2 H2 Senators, but actually little has been done to work out comprehensive post-war peace machinery with Great Britain and Russia.

Official reason for Richard Law's visit is to discuss post-war petroleum arrangements between the United States and Great Britain. This in itself is important. Oil is a great breeder of war, and so, if the two biggest oil-producing, oil-using countries can work together as a team regarding world oil, a lot of headaches will be alleviated.

After Richard Law finishes his oil talks, he will will stay on to talk about peace machinery and will be joined by Lord Beaverbrook. Diplomatic gossip is that Churchill considers Law too liberal and is sending Beaverbrook to keep him from giving the Empire away.

DOUGHBOYS TO WEST POINT

CONGRESSMAN Henry M. Jackson of Washington, who did a brief stretch in the Army before President Roosevelt ordered him back to the House, hasn't forgotten the G. I.'s

Jackson, like all members of the House and Senate, is constantly plagued with requests for West Point appointments. However, this year he has a new wrinkle in appointments to the Military Academy. He has written a letter to Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark, commander of the Fifth army, offering to appoint any enlisted man from the Fifth army whom Clark selects as the outstanding member of this powerful American fighting force—but he must be an enlisted man.

Jackson has asked Clark to select that man who best exemplifies in character and in performance the American doughboy in World War II.

NOTE—Vice President Wallace also selects some of his West Point appointments from the ranks of enlisted men.

Feminine Viewpoint

MILLETT

MRS. JONES—with two daughters in college and two more to go—sighed as she read that Stephens college had hired a top-flight designer to create a new college style, which the designer hoped would soon be accepted universally by college students.

The baggy sweaters, skirts, moccasins and socks which have been practically a uniform on college campuses for the past few years might offend the senses of fashion designers, but they have been a godsend to parents who foot the educational bills.

It is probably safe to say that many a girl now goes to college who couldn't have afforded it in the old days, when complete and somewhat elaborate wardrobes were a necessity.

Now a few sweaters, skirts and socks, a few pairs of moccasins and three or four evening dresses will take a girl through college—not looking like a poor relation, but like every girl on the campus.

And they look all right, too. The natural good looks of girls their age give style and zest to their sloppy get-ups.

As far as Mrs. Jones, and probably a lot of other parents, are concerned, their daughters are getting along just dandy as they are. And they don't need to be made clothes-conscious until after they are through school and earning their own salaries.

WHY CHANGE NOW

Of course, there's a little hope for Mrs. Jones. The college style to be developed for Stephens girls may not catch on at other schools. And also, the designer may hit on something just as casual as the sweater and skirt.

But as Mrs. Jones points out, the girls already have their sweaters and skirts. They love 'em—and why try to switch them to something different—especially at this time?

WHEN WALKING IS A PLEASURE

Complaints because of steadily tightened gasoline rationing have been few among Americans, although this shortage has amounted to considerably more than inconvenience for millions of them. In many cases, the lack of gasoline places a limit on the contributions that individuals might make to the victory effort.

Even so, nearly all Americans have accepted gasoline rationing willingly, which is no more than they should do. They, know, even though definite figures have not been disclosed, that war needs for fuel are enormous. They have reason to feel that gasoline that is denied them actually is used for war—and, regardless what critics may say, most Americans are willing to give up anything they have if they are persuaded that it will be employed to hasten the day of victory.

Anyone can understand why definite figures on the gasoline requirements of the Armed Forces are closely guarded secrets. If the enemy had that information, then he might be in position to make a fairly close guess as to the size of the armament for which the fuel was needed. So, about all the information he or anyone else has on this point is the report that United States gasoline production now exceeds 500,000 barrels per day — more than 10 times the normal peace-time output. But there has been no breakdown of figures that might enable him to guess how many airplanes, tanks, warships or other types of weapons are available.

However, occasional hints are given which explain why military requirements for gasoline are so enormous. For example, a report the other day disclosed that one Superfortress burns enough gasoline in an hour to last an average motorist five and one-half years during peace time. And this nation has quite a few Superfortress—just how many is not disclosed, but undoubtedly they number in the hundreds.

So Americans, taken as a whole, make the best of inconveniences like gasoline rationing. They will walk, and gladly, if their inconvenience means more gasoline for weapons like the Superfortress.

University Of Illinois Is Bidding For Lead In Aviation Training

BY THEORDORA LIMBER

United Press Staff Writer

CHICAGO, July 27 — The University of Illinois, with the opening of its airport in November, will launch the largest university-sponsored aviation program in the nation.

Students will be trained as specialists in aviation and will cover every aspect of the field, from the construction and production of all types of airplanes and engines and the design of airports, to medical and agricultural aspects of aviation and aviation law.

To Award Degrees

Special degrees in aeronautics may be conferred for advanced university study, and graduates will be able to take their places in what will probably be the greatest postwar field in commerce and industry.

"The situation confronting planners for the future of domestic aviation is without a parallel in the history of education, and indeed of civilization," President Arthur Cutts Willard, internationally-known engineer who has headed the university for 10 years, stated in announcing the university's new program of aviation education and research.

Myriad Of Problems

"No other industry ever has made such broad demands on so many fields of human knowledge."

For instance, he pointed out, the air transport of foods and perishable cargoes, including vine-ripened or tree-ripened fruits, quick-frozen food, etc., will be only one of the thousands of problems that will have to be worked out.

The delivery of baby chicks to Europe by air, and the effect of flying on tubercular patients are but two more of the multiple problems for research of the University of Illinois air program.

To Study Problems

What kind of flivver planes, airports and hangars will permeate every section of America in the future when Americans will be hedge-hopping the country in cub planes and taking week-end trips to London and Paris?

How can airplanes be better adjusted to human beings and how can they aid in world trade and the conflict or cooperation of nations?

What kind of turf is best for the grass runways that will be in use by communities all over the nation?

Advisory Board Set Up

These problems already are under consideration of the University of Illinois Advisory Board on Aeronautics made up of seven nationally-known persons identified with various aspects of aviation and related activities. Dr. Baldwin M. Woods, of the University of California, a pioneer in engineering research, is chairman of the board.

The other members are Dr. Bruce Uthus, director of aviation education service, C.A.A.; Comdr. A. F. Bonnalie of the U. S. Navy and former official of United Air Lines; W. J. Blanchard, general manager, aeroproducts division, General Motors Corp.; L. R. Inwood, executive assistant, Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc.; Col. A. D. Tuttle, medical director of the United Airlines Transport Corp., Chicago, and Mr. A. E. Smith, engineer, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft Corp. of Kansas City, Missouri.

The board members claim that the University of Illinois airport, scheduled to open in the fall, and large enough to accommodate even the B-29s, is the best planned airport in the country. The airport, which will be used to provide flight instruction to members of the Reserved officers' training corps and high school teachers of aviation courses, also will be used by commercial air transport companies, and will have facilities for private planes.

Willkie's Role Worries GOP . . .

Democrats Hoping Willkie Will Bolt Back To His Old Party

By S. BURTON HEATH

NEA Staff Correspondent

ALBANY, N. Y., July 27—Apparently Governor Dewey is either impervious or oblivious to the strain, if any. Perhaps Wendell Willkie is, too. But a lot of lay Republicans and probably some Democrats wish something would break the existing impasse and disclose what part the 1940 standard-bearer is going to play in the 1944 election.

Polls, primaries and the party convention appeared to demonstrate that the Republican electorate preferred Governor Dewey to Mr. Willkie. Nevertheless, there is a very large segment that respects the latter highly, and a substantial body of voters with whom his stand, if not compelling, might be influential.

Governor Dewey shies away from any attempt to get him to discuss the Willkie situation. It should be noted, however, that he does so without prejudice, leaving the door open for Mr. Willkie to do this year what Mr. Dewey did in 1940.

Then, it will be recalled, Dewey appeared to have the nomination pretty well sewed up. At the last minute an almost evangelical wave swept Willkie into the candidacy and left Dewey gasping on the shore.

Among politicians and newspapermen it was no secret that Dewey was burned to a crisp. For a few days he sizzled, off the record except for one betrayal of confidence. Then he calmed down and went to work for the man who had done him out of the nomination.

LENT WILLKIE ADVISERS

WHEN Mr. Willkie's early campaign threatened to explode from lack of management, like a tanker of aviation gasoline hit by a torpedo, Mr. Dewey gave leave of absence to his personal publicity man, Lemoyne Jones, to help out. He lent the services of his personal adviser on government finance, Elliott V. Bell, now his superintendent of banks.

He took to the stump for the Willkie ticket, making two speeches near New York City and two midwestern trips in the course of which he spoke in Saginaw, Pittsburgh, Peoria, Caldwell, Idaho, Kansas City and Cleveland.

The grounds for personal bitterness between the two men were no less then than they are now; the bases of these philosophical disagreement probably were greater inasmuch as Mr. Willkie was a foremost interventionist while Mr. Dewey at that time leaned against intervention.

Therefore Republicans, including many of Mr. Willkie's more ardent adherents in 1940 and up to the time he stepped out of this year's race, wonder what formula can be found for bringing the two men together now, for the good of the party and, as they see it, for the good of the country.

WANT BREACH WIDENED

DEMOCRATS and other Roosevelt supporters hope that the present breach can be kept open or even widened. They would like to see Willkie bolt back to his old party or take an ostentatious walk for the duration of the campaign.

Realists doubt that this will occur. Conceding that Mr. Willkie is utterly sincere and would subordinate personal advantage to principles, they insist that he would lose every possibility of putting across his beliefs if he were either to bolt or to walk. They point, as evidence, to the innocuous desuetude in which Al Smith and John W. Davis now stagnate politically.

The difficulty appears to be in finding a way to establish the first contact without embarrassment to either man. Deweyites appear to feel that their leader went as far as he well could when, at his first press conference after the nomination, he was asked: "Will Mr. Willkie be invited into conference on campaign strategy?"

"I certainly hope to cousult all leaders of the Republican party and receive the benefit of their advice," he replied.

"Including Willkie?"

"Certainly," said Mr. Dewey.

WINCHELL Interviews President —"At the appointed time the Senator took me to the White House and ushered me formally into the executive presence . . . I thought it proper to state at the outset (not knowing what the Senator had said) that I wished simply to know whatever he was free to tell me in regard to his own willingness or unwillingness to accept a renomination, and also as to the extent to which the Senator was authorized to speak for him. The reply was a monologue of an hour's duration and one that wholly absorbed me, as it seemed to absorb himself.

"He began by saying that, as yet, he was not a candidate for renomination. He distinctly denied that he was a party to any effort to that end, notwithstanding I knew that there were movements in his favor in all parts of the Northern States. These movements were, of course, without his prompting, as he positively assured me that with one or two exceptions he had scarcely conversed on the subject with his most intimate friends.

WINCHELL

"He was not quite sure whether he desired a renomination. Such had been the responsibility of the office—so oppressive had he found its cares, so terrible its perplexities—that he felt as though the moment he could relinquish the burden and retire to private life would be the sweetest he could possibly experience. But, he said, he would not deny that a reelection would also have its gratification to his feelings. He did not seek it, nor would he do so; he did not desire it for any ambitious or selfish purpose; but, after the crisis the country was passing through under his Presidency, and the efforts he had made conscientiously to discharge the duties imposed upon him, it would be very sweet satisfaction to him to know that he had secured the approval of his fellow citizens and earned the highest testimonial of confidence they could bestow.—Winchell."

WHEN is a Commander-in-Chief not a Commander-in-Chief? . . .If he was the C-in-C when the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor (for which he was blamed) why isn't he the C-in-C in the Battle of Normandy? . . . Or would you rather the subject be dropped? . . . Life mag overpowers those who persist in belittling Russian help in this war—with this lethal push in the face: "Russia is about the only major power against whom Americans, in Colonial times, have never fought" . . . One headline shrieked: "F. D. R. to Quit After 6 Months, If Elected!" . . . Then what are they worrying about?

Considering all the head-shaking about Democrats staying in power for 12 years, you'd think it was the first time in American history that one party dominated the Presidency that long. But at one time the country didn't have a Democratic President for 16 years—from 1897 to 1913. . . Wonder what's become of the chumps who squeaked that F. D. Someone rates a medal for this: A Detroit radio station has banned commercial plugs which interrupt newscasts in the middle of programs.

Looka who claims to be shocked about strikes that disrupt the war effort! . . . Films made in Fascist Spain are now being exhibited in this country. It's shameful. Why should Americans give profits to those who are aiding our enemies to kill Americans? . . . It is difficult to believe those who talk about the wonders that will follow in the wake of the war—when you read about the troubles that peace has given Italy.

The latest ridiculous twist of the commy party line shows you what their support means: Recently, the local commy rag came to the defense of Wall Streeters. Does that make Wall Street a hot-bed of Communism?

Gracie Allen, one presumes, doesn't listen to or read the jokes of Bob Hope . . . In her convention colyum the other day Miss Allen noted Dewey has his eye on the Presidential chair—"but look what Roosevelt has on it!" . . . Very funny . . . It was also funny when it was pinned on Willkie in 1940 and when this colyum first cribbed it in 1924.

'Cheer Up, Remember You Are Still an Amateur!'

Little-Known Ordnance Department Has Vital Invasion Role

Supplying, Maintaining Army Is Man-Size Job

BY ERNIE PYLE

Special Correspondent

IN NORMANDY — (By Wireless) —One of the things the layman doesn't hear much about is the ordnance department. In fact it is one of the branches that even the average soldier is little aware of except in a vague way.

And yet the war couldn't keep going without it. For ordnance repairs all the vehicles of an army and furnishes all the ammunition for its guns.

ERNIE PYLE

Today there are more vehicles in the American sector of our beachhead than in the average-sized American city. And our big guns on an average heavy day are shooting up more than $10,000,000 worth of ammunition. So you see ordnance has a man-sized job.

Ordnance personnel is usually about six or seven per cent of the total men of an army. That means we have many thousands of ordnancemen in Normandy. Their insigne is a flame coming out of a retort—nicknamed in the Army "the flaming onion."

275,000 Items Catalogued

Ordnance operates the ammunition dumps we have scattered about the beachhead. But much bigger than its ammunition mission is ordnance's job of repair. Ordnance has 275,000 items in its catalog of parts, and the mere catalog itself covers a 20-foot shelf.

In a central headquarters here on the beachhead a modern filing system housed in big tents keeps records on the number and condition of 500 major items in actual use on the beachhead, from tanks to pistols.

We have scores and scores of separate ordnance companies at work on the beachhead—each of them a complete firm within itself, able to repair anything the Army uses.

Ordnance can lift a 30-ton tank as easily as it can a bicycle. It can repair a blown-up jeep or the intricate breech of a mammoth gun.

* * *

SOME of its highly specialized repair companies are made up largely of men who were craftsmen in the same line in civil life. In these companies you will find the average age is much above the Army average. You will find craftsmen in their late 40s, you'll find men with their own established businesses who were making $30,000 to $40,000 a year back home and who are now wearing sergeant's stripes. You'll find great soberness and sincerity, plus the normal satisfaction that comes from making things whole again instead of destroying them.

You will find an IQ far above the average for the Army. It has to be that way or the work would not get done.

You'll find mechanical work being done under a tree that would be housed in a $50,000 shop back in America. You'll find men working 16 hours a day, then sleeping on the ground, who because of their age don't even have to be here at all.

Ordnance is one of the undramatic branches of the Army. They are the mechanics and the craftsmen, the fixers and the suppliers. But their job is vital. Ordinarily they are not in a great deal of danger. There are times on newly won and congested beachheads when their casualty rate is high, but once the war settles down and there is room for movement and dispersal it is not necessary or desirable for them to do their basic work within gun range.

Unit Has Had Casualties

Our ordnance branch in Normandy has had casualties. It has two small branches which will continue to have casualties — its bomb-disposal squads and its retriever companies that go up to pull out crippled tanks under fire.

But outside of those two sections, if your son or husband is in ordnance in France you can feel fairly easy about his returning to you. I don't say that to belittle ordnance in any way but to ease your worries if you have someone in this branch of the service overseas.

ORDNANCE is set up in a vast structure of organization the same as any other Army command. The farther back you go the bigger become the outfits and the more elaborately equipped and more capable of doing heavy, long-term work.

Every infantry or armored division has an ordnance company with it all the time. This company does quick repair jobs. What it hasn't time or facilities for doing it hands on back to the next echelon in the rear.

The division ordnance companies hit the beach on D-day. The next echelon back began coming on D-day plus four. The great heavy outfits arrived somewhat later.

Today the wreckage of seven weeks of war is all in hand, and in one great depot after another it is being worked out—repaired or rebuilt or sent back for salvage until everything possible is made available again to our men who do the fighting. In later columns I'll take you along to some of these repair companies that do the vital work.

Alabama Antis Form New Political Party

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 27 (AP)—A group of Alabama anti-administration Democrats formed a new political party last night and voted to call a state convention here August 4 to name presidential electors pledged "to some Democrat other than Mr. Roosevelt."

Fred Rucker of Birmingham, who said he was chairman of the meeting at which the action was taken, declared that the party would be called the American Democratic party.

Dr. Gleason L. Archer, Boston, chairman of the American Democratic committee, was quoted in a release as telling the group that the Democratic party is "nothing but a group of office holders dominated by the CIO Political Action committee."

The meeting, although not closed to the press, was held on an off-the-record basis.

LONDON, July 27 (U.P.) — Question No. 1: How much longer will the war in Europe last?

Until the true facts about the revolt of the German generals are known, that question can't be answered directly with any confidence. But it can be said that responsible quarters here have been reckoning for many weeks with the probability that Germany can be smashed by Christmas and they foresee a possible combination of circumstances which would produce the collapse much sooner — say September.

Everything occuring during the past fortnight has pointed up these possibilities. The Russians have battered Hitler's east front into a pulp and have crossed the Wisla (Vistula) river to bring the war to Germany's doorstep. Their momentum has become so great that bringing them even temporarily to a halt would require a super-human effort. The Germans in this fifth year of war are not superhuman.

Reds To Get Credit

If Germany goes down to quick defeat this summer, there will be no question as to whom the chief credit will go. It will belong to the Red army.

Other factors are important too. British and American land power in Normandy has grown to a point where if it could burst decisively out of the narrow confines of the Norman peninsula it would be extremely hard to halt with the reserves Rommel has available.

And there is the obvious shift of Turkey toward belligerency.

And there is the sudden domestic crisis inside Germany, which, whatever the true facts, can do nothing but weaken the Reich and hasten collapse.

To Affect Nazi Morale

Even German morale which will one day class as the one great phenomena of this war, cannot stand that sort of thing very long.

That is what makes it so unfortunate that the Allies are not surging forward from the west as the Russians are from the east.

Question No. 2: Why don't the United States and Great Britain launch an offensive from the Norman bridgehead comparable in intensity to the Russian offensives?

Only high military authority could answer that question with specification and it may be that such an offensive is impending. That one hasn't been launched so far may result in failure to exploit Germany's internal crisis and her defeats in the east.

Such an offensive, if it produced a breakthrough toward Paris — and there is every reason to believe that a major victory in Normandy might make the capture of Paris comparatively easy —could well prove decisive in bringing the rickety third Reich of Adolf Hitler crashing to the ground.

Allies Moving Slowly

Except in the push up the Cherbourg peninsula, however, the Allies haven't developed the crushing momentum necessary to carry them through or over Rommel's deeply staggered defenses. Their attacks have showed a tendency, for one reason or another, to bog down after the most methodical sort of preparation and an extremely favorable start.

The opportunity for a quick, hard blow will not last much longer. Nazi morale, shaken as it must have been during the past week of defeats afield and threatened chaos at home, will grow constantly stronger under Himmler's iron rule of the domestic front unless it is kept reeling by new blows from outside.

Question No. 3: What are the true facts of the revolt of the generals against Adolf Hitler?

No one outside Germany knows the full story — whether it really represented a serious attempt at revolution by generals anxious to make peace while they still might save something or whether it was rigged by Hitler and Himmler to stave off a serious revolution as Germany's military position deteriorates.

The chief argument against the "rigged" theory is that even the need to establish the most rigid sort of control at home would not outweigh the disastrous possibilities of admitting that complete harmony did not exist among the higher-ups in Hitler's empire.

In the opinion of the best informed London sources, the German crisis can only be regarded as disastrous from the German point of view because it will leave the whole Nazi structure shaky and all the more vulnerable to shocks from the outside.

Reds' Coordination Superb

Question No. 4: What is the secret of the great Russian successes?

The answer lies partly in the superb coordination of the Russian command, from Stalin down through the exceptional officers which three years of constant campaigning have brought to the fore.

It lies partly in Russia's great resources, manpower and industry and in the flow of American assault weapons and vital supplies.

It lies in the great size of the Russian front which makes it impossible for any army to hold gains deeply and in great strength as German commanders can do in Italy or Normandy. This puts big premiums on initiative which the Germans once had and the Russians now have held for over a year because the attacker can mass assault troops where he wants.

Reds Go "All-Out"

And finally it lies in the Russian readiness to go bald-headed for any objective they consider worth attacking — flanking it, thanks to great areas for maneuvering, or storming it frontally and accepting whatever losses they must. Russia paid a very heavy price for the victories of the past 12 months.

Question No. 5: Why can't the British and American armies in Normandy move with the same speed as the Russians, particularly as they seem to have a big edge in offensive arms and complete air control?

Part of the slowness is inherent in any operation which involves seaborne supply routes while the enemy sends in food and ammunition and men by land. The Normandy bridgehead is small and crowded which prevents full deployment of Allied power. Weather has hamstrung Allied air power for days at a time.

Nazis Proving Stubborn

But to a great extent it results from the stubbornness of the battle being waged by the 25 divisions at Rommel's disposal—17 of them first class.

There are indications that many high German officers favored withdrawal far inside France once the beachhead was firmly established—thus setting the stage for the decisive battle close to Germany itself, rather than at the end of long supply lines which are extremely vulnerable to air attack and the French underground. Gen. Von Rundstedt quite possibly was one of the advocate of this policy. It appears now, however, that Hitler, who had never disgorged a single conquest without a fight, is determined to fight the decisive battle right now.

British, U. S. Cautious

Finally, British and American commanders are not willing to accept the casualties the Germans, Japanese or Russians would accept in vital battles.

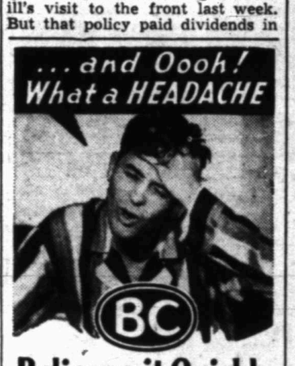

Montgomery is coming under fire in Britain for his extreme caution which results in failures to turn break-ins to breakthroughs. It is argued that his policy produces higher casualties in the long run. His strategy probably was discussed throughly in frank terms during Churchill's visit to the front last week. But that policy paid dividends in the past and it is too early yet to say it won't again.

Question No. 6: Just how bad is the robot bombing of London?

The best answer to that is — Churchill kept the attacks just about at their proper proportions in his Commons speech. Since then the Germans have been straining every nerve to increase the tempo and the British have tried to increase the effectiveness of a complicated defense system.

Rains Save Kansas Corn, Damage Wheat

TOPEKA, Kas., July 27. (AP)—Heavy rains, which came just in time to save Kansas' huge corn crop from drouth damage, are bringing ruin to much of a near-record wheat crop. Some of the wheat is piled on the ground because labor and box cars aren't available to get it to elevators, and some is still uncut in soaked fields.

Rains totalling from one to four inches have drenched the state, catching many of the western farmers in the midst of their delayed harvest.

"Although wheat is being moved to elevators and bins as rapidly as possible, heavy loss is resulting due to excess moisture where wheat has been piled on the ground," the weather bureau reported.

It was a different picture for corn. The rains have made the corn crop, in many instances coming just as effects of the midsummer drouth were becoming noticeable.

Ordinarily, the wheat harvest is completed by this time in Kansas and the grain—the state's principal crop—is in storage. This year, however, a shortage of labor, box cars usually devoted to movement of wheat diverted to war shipments, and a labor scarcity at elevators all have combined to hold the harvest far behind its usual schedule.

Production Program Of Navy Increasing

HOUSTON, July 27. (U.P.)—Obviously aimed at averting a premature stampede of war workers to "peace jobs," a statement was released today by the Navy public relations office declaring the naval production program was still increasing and will not reach its peak even this year.

Rear Admiral A. C. Bennett, commandant of the Eighth Naval district with headquarters at New Orleans, was quoted as saying "the Navy's production program can be summed up briefly—it is work and more work."

The Navy's production schedules call for greater output in the first half of 1945 than in the first half of 1944, the statement pointed out.
