

Tami And Roby Start To School

NEW CLOTHES AND READY -- Tami Redinger and Roby Walker are all set for the first day of school after a quick visit this week to "look things over."

WILL WE GET TO WRITE? -- Roby wistfully eyes Tami's tablet and pencil, ready and eager to show he can write too. (School supplies, courtesy Duncan's 5 & 10)

WOW! WHAT A LOT OF BEANS! -- The two new first graders are awed by the size of the lunchroom "bean pot" as they inspect the kitchen at school.

WONDER WHO'LL BE OUR TEACHER? -- Tami and Roby talk over their visit, all set for Aug. 24. They are children of Mr. & Mrs. Quentin Redinger and Rev. & Mrs. John Walker.

Scouts Set Pack Meet

A Cub Scout Pack meeting has been scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 20 at 8 p. m. in the school cafeteria.

All registered Cub Scouts and their parents are urged to attend.

Danger!

Check That Corn!

Don't raid that corn patch! Those roasting ears may make the mouth water but don't be tempted to indulge in what has become a custom of Southern hospitality -- "helping yourself to a mess of corn".

Some fields of corn have been treated with insecticides and the corn should not be eaten until a safe period of time as specified on the insecticide label.

Extension service personnel also point out that if the corn patch is located near a milo field or cotton field that has been sprayed with systemic insecticides there is danger that the systemic may have drifted in the wind or may have washed into some of the corn in some irrigation tailwater.

This is not only true of corn crops but also may affect any vegetables grown on the farm and, since systemics work inside the plant, cannot be washed away.

Persons are cautioned to not gather and eat any vegetable without knowing whether it has been sprayed and the conditions concerning the spraying.

Some farmers in Hale County have been combating the insect problem with the use of lacewing flies to control aphids and greenbugs in sorghum crops.

Lacewing flies eggs are released in fields and then hatch with the larvae then feeding on aphids and greenbugs.

Trichogramma wasps are released in cotton fields to lay eggs in the eggs of the bollworm, thereby causing the bollworm eggs to fail to hatch.

Beneficial insects must be released weekly in order to control the pest insects in crops.

DELBERT HOWELL walked away from this scene last Thursday morning with only minor injuries...bruised shoulder, blooded nose and flash burns on his arms, hands and face.

Aerial Spray Plane Crashes, Pilot Not Seriously Injured

A local crop duster totaled his plane in a crash south of Olton Thursday morning, but counted himself lucky when he walked away with only minor injuries.

Delbert Howell, 40, a native of Olton who has been serving as a crop duster in the area for a number of years, received flash burns on his hands, forearms and face when his craft nosed into a field near the Oliver Rose home about 10 a. m. last Thursday.

The accident occurred as he was searching for another aircraft which was spraying in a nearby field. He had lost sight of it and he said he made a quicker turn than he should have in order to avoid a mid-air collision in case the other plane was coming up from a sweep through his field.

The Piper Pawnee plane stalled out in a turn and fell in a pasture back of the Rose house, narrowly missing a butane tank nearby.

The plane sheared off a barbed-wire fence and the gas tank exploded on impact. Howell said the fence spun the plane around back toward the north and the wind blew the fire away from him.

He jumped from the plane as it came to a stop and hit "the ground rolling." Oliver Rose was coming up the hillside road in front of his house when he saw the plane fall and burst into flames.

He grabbed a water hose and attempted to put out the flames. However, Howell, who had been saturated with parathion which the plane was carrying, asked him to forget about the plane and get him (Howell) some bath water run so that he could wash off the insecticide. His quick action in getting the insecticide off spared him further damage.

He was treated at Olton Clinic and released Thursday afternoon. Doctors reported Wednesday that the level of parathion was "down a little".

Mishap Injures Lynn Gullett

Lynn Gullett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Gullett, was the victim of an industrial accident Sunday afternoon when the loading vehicle he was operating on Jack Straw Gin lot turned over with him.

In the fall the smaller bone of his right limb was fractured in two places. He was rushed to Plainview Hospital in Plainview where he is receiving treatment and according to Jack Straw, who is in charge of the "pickle operation" in which Gullett was employed, he is doing fine and may soon be allowed to return to his home.

of such a committee and gave him the choice of selecting those with whom he wished to work.

Discussion of putting lights on the tennis courts which are located behind the elementary school building was then held, but no action was taken. The council agreed to look further into the possibilities of erecting such lights, but declined to do so at this time.

City Attorney Andy Stroebel then told the council about a loan program which is available from the Small Business Administration for cities to entice industry into their towns.

He said that as attorney for the city of Earth that he was in the process of drawing up such requests for loans and that the same type of program was available for Olton.

Councilmen instructed him to further the investigation into the possibilities of getting such a loan for Olton.

Hiway Clean-Up Campaign To Be Directed By Burnett

A very light schedule greeted city councilmen as they met in regular session at Tuesday night's meeting.

Serving as mayor pro-tem in the absence of Mayor Parley Myers, was Walter Struve. Council members present were Jimmie Jenkins, K. Y. Givens, and Joe Hall. Vernon Nixon was absent.

Approval of the minutes were given and the payment of the month's bills was okayed before Eldon Franks appeared on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture to ask that a committee be appointed by the city to direct a clean-up campaign on Highway 70.

Franks told the council that he had been handed a request for enforcement by city officials of ordinances which were designed to clean up the town, especially on highway 70.

The council appointed Claude Burnett as chairman

New School Trustees Take Oath Of Office

Two new board members received the oath of office when the board of trustees met Monday night for a regularly scheduled meeting.

Garland DePrang and Uil Gunter were sworn in as the newest members of the board. They replace Gerald Allcorn and Elmer McGill.

Following the taking of the oath of office, a heavy work load was presented to the new and old members alike.

Four new teachers were recommended for employment by Supt. Joe Turner. James Latimer of Spur was hired as English and speech teacher. He holds a degree from West Texas State University.

Mrs. Marsha Johnston was employed as first grade teacher. She is also a graduate of WTSU.

From Texas Tech, Mrs. Gail Waguespack was named high school math teacher. She will teach with a permit, not having her degree as yet.

Mrs. Jean Rodriguez was employed as the high school librarian. She has a degree from North Texas State and comes from Albany. She has four children, three of whom will enroll in Olton schools.

An amendment to the 1969-70 budget was made by the board in order to take care of an insurance policy which came due. The insurance fund was amended $1066.60, making it possible to pay the insurance premium on school buildings.

Supt. Turner reported to the board that the junior high building had been painted including 18 rooms, hallways and restrooms for a little less than $1000.

Next on the agenda was the discussion of the proposed budget for 1970-71. With the new law affecting teachers' salaries, the new budget is some $60,000 higher than last year's budget. However, the state will pay a part of this figure. State's participation in Foundation Fund (salaries and operation) is up by $53,634 over last year. Other expenses remained about the same.

The opening of bids was the next order of business. Bids were accepted by Cloverlake on the milk, with white milk at seven and a half cents and chocolate milk at the same price per half pint. Gasoline bid was awarded to Turner Oil.

In other business, raises were granted to Lloyd Blackwell and Carl McClure. Blackwell was granted a $20 raise which was the same amount of raise granted bus drivers earlier this year. Blackwell was exempted at the time because his salary included the bus driver's duties. However, the board said that inasmuch as the state was granting $100 per month for school bus drivers, they felt that Blackwell was entitled to the raise.

McClure, principal of junior high, was given a $50 a month salary for taking care of the employment of bus drivers, mapping out routes and securing substitute drivers if needed.

Football game admissions were then up for discussion. Interscholastic league rules raised the general admission from $1.25 to $1.50 for adults and from 50¢ to 75¢ for students. Turner told the board that he felt that the reserve seats should be raised in accordance. The board set the price at $9 for a season ticket this year for five home games.

Next on the agenda was the topic of purchasing back drop curtains for the auditorium. The curtains were hung in 1955 when the auditorium was built and have not been replaced since that time.

The board agreed to purchase new ones made from the same type of material as the old

1970 Mustang Year Books To Be Distributed Friday

The 1970 Mustang yearbooks have arrived.

Annuals may be picked up Friday between the hours of 11:30 a. m. and 12:30 p. m. and 2 and 4 p. m. An autograph party is slated for 2 to 4 p. m. Sunday.

Students are asked to bring their receipts and final payment must be made on those reserved with a deposit.

There is a limited number of extra copies for anyone who failed to place an order. Sale price is six dollars.

Theme of the yearbook which was dedicated to David Howton, retiring commercial teacher, is "Windmills of Your Mind". Susan Cannon and June Kantz were co-editors. Mrs. Pat Weaver was annual sponsor.

The dedication to Howton reads: "To Mr. Howton who has worked with the commercial students at Olton High School for 16 years we express our appreciation and gratitude.

Through Mr. Howton's patient understanding and guidance many of our graduates have gone on to successful business careers. Mr. Howton has worked untiringly as student council sponsor for the last 10 years, always keeping the welfare of the students uppermost in mind. Because of his devotion to his work in developing the minds and characters of his students, we desire to dedicate the 1970 Mustang to him in his last year of service at OHS."

New School Being Started For 4 And 5 Year Olds

A new school is getting started in Olton. The pupils? Four and five-year-olds. The subjects? One could describe them as the three "f's" -- fun, fellowship and friendliness.

Ten little pre-schoolers are as many "pupils" as Mrs. John Paul Jones can accept in the supervised play school which she is starting Sept. 7. The ten who enroll are going to discover that "learning can be fun."

Excited and enthusiastic about her new endeavor, Mrs. Jones also has experience working with children. She loves children and, before her own sons were born, was an elementary school teacher. She taught second grade one year in Olton and still considers this year's high school sophomores "her second graders".

The play school will not be "just another kindergarten". Instead, Mrs. Jones hopes to help her young charges to develop an eagerness for learning and to assist them in learning to share, follow instructions and in developing their minds.

With many of today's youngsters growing more dependent on being entertained by television, Mrs. Jones hopes to lead her pupils into the discovery that learning is a daily adventure with unending possibilities.

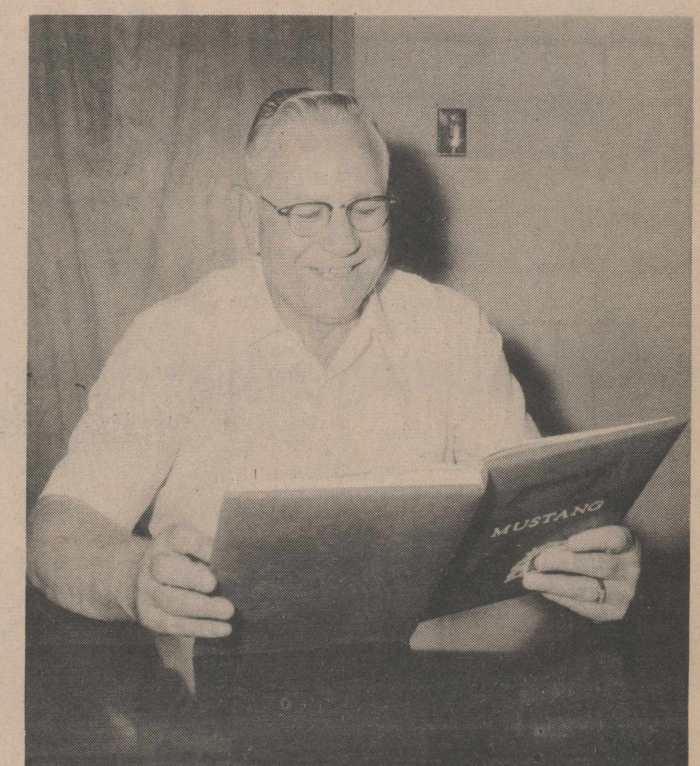

Each day will begin with a "share and tell" time with each child having the opportunity to participate.

All children have "something to tell, something they want to talk about", she believes.

Activities will help the child to become more adept with his hands. Using scissors, he will be learning as he cuts various materials into various shapes.

Working with crayons and water colors, the children will be able to increase his artistic abilities. They will work with simple materials, things normally found about the home -- cartons, sacks, boxes, macaroni and many other items.

When weather permits, there will be nature studies --

GUEST EDITORIAL

We Had Something

Editor Bill Thompson of the Paris (Texas) News ran across an item that he thought worth passing on to his readers. Bill doesn't know who wrote it, and neither do I, but I agree that it describes "growing up" pretty much the way it was with those who shared their school days with me. Read on:

"I didn't have a very happy childhood—But nobody worried very much about it. I was too busy, I guess—cutting lawns, shoveling snow, running errands, delivering groceries for 10 cents a load, selling newspapers, doing house chores, going to school. I passed my grades, too. If I hadn't, I'd have had the hide strapped off me.

"No one concerned himself about my amusements. What fun we had, we made. But if we did any damage-like breaking a window in a ball game—we paid for it by working it out.

"I don't suppose people understood me; but if I had said so, my mother would have asked: 'Why should they?' And no one ever gave a thought to my 'problems.' They were mine, weren't they? Mine to solve. Why should I expect anyone else to bother? "We never heard phrases like 'standard of living,' 'subsistence level' or 'minimum requirements.' Our standard of living was whatever my father earned. If my father was laid off, we stopped spending on anything but food and a lot less of that. My dad spent every waking hour looking for work—any work. We lived on savings and if things became too tight we'd move in with relatives—or the relatives would move in with us. If there had been no relatives, we'd have gone to the only place left—the County Poor House, but that would have been an admission that we couldn't take care of ourselves.

"I guess we didn't have much. But we had something that was infinitely more important; infinitely more rewarding—we had self-respect, because whatever we had, we earned.

"It seems to me that is why America is the strong nation it is today—and it will stay strong only so long as there are enough Americans more interested in earning than getting."

SENSING THE NEWS

By Anthony Harrigan

EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

The State Department will soon submit to the United Nations Seabeds Committee a specific proposal for an international treaty under which the United States would give up exclusive rights to vast mineral riches on submerged lands off our nation's coasts. If the administration goes forward with this treaty proposal, and if it is approved by the Senate, the American people will surrender untold billions of dollars in future royalty income from undersea oil drilling and mining.

The proposed seabed treaty, announced in May, would involve renunciation of American natural resources on the outer continental shelf and slope—billions of barrels of oil and trillions of cubic feet of natural gas off our shoreline.

Under the proposal, all submerged lands at a depth of 200 meters (218.8 yards) and beyond would be placed in an international trusteeship zone. Royalties from oil drilling and mining in these deep areas would be earmarked for "international community purposes." In other words, the vast offshore giveaway would constitute a permanent source of subsidy for backward nations in Africa, Asia and Latin America.

U. S. Senator Clifford P. Hansen (R.-Wyo.), in a statement critical of the seabed treaty proposal, pointed out that the undersea resources giveaway in effect constitutes a form of backdoor foreign aid, asking: "Is this not an avoidance of the appropriation process and congressional scrutiny of foreign aid obligations?"

U. S. Rep. George Bush (R.-Tex.) also has protested the giveaway of America's natural resources, saying: "The proposal is a dramatic departure from United States policy and is clearly not in the best interest of the U. S."

The wealth on and under the ocean floor is colossal. The seabed treaty would create a permanent device for funneling financial assistance into the so-called Third World countries—many of which, ironically, are severely critical of and antagonistic towards America's capitalist system. The seabed treaty would give these nations access to buried treasure—all at the expense of U. S. taxpayers and American companies with the technical know-how for deep drilling and mining.

For example, THE OIL AND GAS JOURNAL reports that the proposed treaty would remove 75 per cent of the Gulf of Alaska from U. S. ownership. And it is believed in some quarters, as THE ECONOMIST MAGAZINE has noted, that the entire Alaskan area may be a giant oilfield comparable to the Middle East region. Why should the American people look with favor on this and similar losses of undersea resources—resources which have the potential of enormously advancing the well-being of the United States and all its people in the decades ahead? There is no valid reason, to be sure.

Jon Lindbergh, son of the pioneer aviator and himself an authority on the undersea world, recently pointed out that the U. S. is pumping oil from the ground faster than it is discovering new resources. Natural gas already is in a critical shortage. "For these reasons," he said, "it is vitally important that we develop sub-sea hydrocarbon resources."

The base of the continental slope is roughly at a point where the ocean is 4,000 meters deep. But the State Department proposal gives the United States anything but a generous area of jurisdiction. As a matter of fact, in setting the limit of U. S. authority at the 200 meter line, the Nixon administration elected to take the minimum right granted to coastal nations under the 1958 Geneva Convention.

The seabed policy statement issued by the administration embodies the "share America's wealth" philosophy current in recent years. Surely it is a mistake to view seabed resources as the "common heritage of mankind," to use the cliché of the day. The continental shelf and slope off our shores are part of the North American continent.

Moreover, the seabed resources will have to be developed by U. S. industry, which has invested vast sums in undersea technology. In other words, the resources off America's coasts are as much national resources as petroleum under the oilfields of Texas or the coal under the hills of West Virginia. The American people should not have to pay royalties—tribute, in effect—to an "international regime" in order to develop their own seabed resources.

The American people certainly would not favor any restriction of their sovereignty on land. If they study the seabed treaty proposal, they will find that it involves a serious limitation on the seaward extension of national sovereignty. At the same time, the proposed pact would cost our people wealth they should not have to share with non-productive and often non-viable nations which have contributed nothing to developing oceanic resources.

RETURN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Virgle Gray and their grandchildren, Rickie, Skipper, Elaine and Rocky went to Amarillo Thursday. There the children boarded a bus for their home at Billings, Mo. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Durham.

IN PLAINVIEW

Albert Gabehart and his son Dale were in Plainview Monday.

MULESHOE GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murry of Muleshoe visited Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Shorty Smith.

DAUGHTER VISITS

Mr. and Mrs. Almon Whitford had as recent guests their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Jones and children of Jal, N. M.

SUPPER GUESTS

Mr. and Mrs. Virgle Gray had as supper guests Wednesday evening her mother, Mrs. H. J. Flake, and the hostess' brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Hodges, all of Levelland. Also the Gray's grandchildren, Rickie, Skipper, Elaine and Rocky Durham of Billings, Mo. Also the Gray's daughter and her children, Mrs. Thomas Lively, Terry, Teresa, Todd and Ty of Earth. Mr. and Mrs. Gray's youngest daughter and her family were there, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Smith, Gregg and Jacque.

PARENTS VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Brown of Davis, Okla. came Monday to visit their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Rape, Marion and Susan.

VISIT IN MISSOURI

Rev. and Mrs. Billy J. Burton, Celeste, Lyle, Cathy and Janet recently were in Kansas City, Mo. with Mrs. Burton's sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Allen, Debbie and Roger. Rev. and Mrs. Burton and children toured the Nazarene Publishing House which is in Kansas City, Mo. They saw a most interesting film there. Harold Allen is employed at the Publishing House.

EXTENDED VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Huckabee of Friona visited Tuesday with his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Huckabee. The Harvey Huckabees are now on a two months stay with their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Huckabee of California and with another son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Huckabee of Brewster, Wash.

COW POKES

"The only help I need is somebody to pull this mule's tail outta my eyes so I can see what I'm doin!"

Dear Editor

(Editor's Note: The following article was "borrowed" from the Friona Star. We took the liberty of changing the locations to fit our need.)

Dear Editor:

I paid a dime last Thursday for a copy of this newspaper. You can divide it up amongst your employees any way you wish.

Now for the dime I paid you I expect to get a newspaper with all of the local, state and national news. And I want every bit of it to be fresh; I don't want to read anything I have read before.

For that dime I want at least 10 local pictures of news events and the people who made them. I want pictures of accidents, fires, meetings, baseball games and anything else that I think is important.

Because I gave you my dime I want to know all the latest things about the local school district, the city council, the county commissioner, the state legislature, the governor, the U. S. Congress, the President, the war in Vietnam and Jackie Kennedy Onassis. I also expect you to tell me who died during the past week, who was born and who was married or divorced.

I want to read about what my church is doing and when. I don't care if there are 12 other churches in Olton. I want to read about MY church.

I want you to cover every football, basketball and baseball game in the Olton area and every play, ladies' tea, wedding and anniversary in Lamb County. I expect your reporter to be there and cover them just because I gave you a dime.

If I get drunk and have a wreck I don't want you to print my name in the paper and I don't want anything in the paper about my buying a house or selling a house. I have a friend who is getting a divorce, and you can leave that out too.

I want to see for myself whether the prices are cheaper in Olton or Plainview or Littlefield. I want to know where I can buy a good second hand car, what's showing at the movie and who is having a sale. And you'd better do it too, because I gave you my dime.

Just because I don't have too much education, you needn't think you can take advantage of me. It doesn't make any difference if I don't want to do anything for my schools, church, city government or chamber of commerce.

I pay my taxes and I just

IN PLAINVIEW

Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Livesay were in Plainview Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Brown.

IN LITTLEFIELD

Mrs. Raymon Carson was attending Mrs. C. C. Graef in the Littlefield Hospital from Wednesday until Friday noon of last week.

VISIT RELATIVES

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. St. Clair had as recent guests his aunt, Mrs. L. G. Elkins and her daughter and grandson, Mrs. D. W. Stockham Jr. and Drew of Tucson, Ariz.

Sue's Views

BY SUE CANNON

We've got a two-letter word we use constantly that may have more meaning than any other. The word is UP.

It is easy to understand UP meaning toward the sky or toward the top of a list. But when we waken, why do we wake UP? At a meeting, why does a topic come UP, why do participants speak UP, and why are the officers UP for election? And why is it UP to the secretary to write UP a report?

Often the little word isn't needed, but we use it anyway. We brighten UP a room, light UP a cigar, polish UP the silver, lock UP the house, and fix UP the old car. At other times, it has special meanings. People stir UP trouble, line UP for tickets, work UP an appetite, think UP excuses, get tied UP in traffic. To be dressed UP is special. It may be confusing, but a drain must be opened UP because it is stopped UP. We open UP a store in the morning and close it UP at night. We seem to be mixed UP about UP.

To be UP on the proper use of UP look UP the word in your dictionary. In one desk-size dictionary UP takes UP half a page, and listed definitions add UP to about 40. If you are UP to it, you might try building UP a list of the many ways in which UP is used. It will take UP a lot of your time but, if you don't give UP, you may wind UP with a thousand.

ones at a total cost of $695, delivered and hung, with a guarantee of one year. A fund had been started to make the purchase and the total amount in the fund was approximately $200.

In other action, the board granted Supt. Turner permission to sell old furniture in the H. P. Webb Elementary building which is no longer being used. There are some tables and chairs which are in "pretty bad shape" that might be sold and the funds be used to purchase new equipment for the kindergarten.

A petition was read to the board which was presented by persons interested in repairing the tennis courts and forming a tennis club.

They asked the board to put new lights up and buy a new net in order that a club might hold tournaments here.

Board members felt that since this was not being used at night by school children that the funds would have to come from other sources.

However, they agreed that if the lights were installed, that the school would pay the electricity, providing there was a responsible person in charge of the lights and clean-up detail.

No action was taken until further investigation.

Presented to the board next was a request for re-imbursement of funds spent by Virginia

I copied the above little item from an exchange paper. But when I get caught UP with my canning and get rested UP, then maybe I'll have a little time to think UP something to write UP.

My little niece has been away from Olton this week so I don't have any goodies to write about her. But she'll be around again next week so....

Moss on car expense for tax assessments and extra hours spent doing the assessments. The statement, totaling $150 was presented to the board for examination and payment was okayed. A $50 per month raise was also granted to Mrs. Moss who has been acting as tax assessor-collector, bookkeeper for the school lunchroom, maintenance, payroll and taxes.

School lunchroom employees and custodians were also granted a wage increase. The minimum wage law increases in February to $1.65 an hour and since the lunchroom employees and custodians are subject to this law, the board granted the raise at this time, instead of waiting until February.

In further action, Supt. Joe Turner asked the board to name Jerry Blakely as athletic director instead of the superintendent filling this position. Request was granted.

Final action was naming of auditors. Williams and Morrison of Muleshoe were designated as the boards choice.

LEWIS LLEWELLYN

Is World Getting Better or Worse?

Some time ago, Dr. George Gallup reported that 78 per cent of Americans were pessimistic about the moral trends in the world.

Specifically, to the question, "Do you believe that the world today is getting better or worse in terms of (a) morals, (b) religion, (c) honesty," 78 per cent of Americans replied that the world is getting worse morally.

In the area of honesty, 61 per cent said the world is getting worse.

Fifty per cent expressed the view that the trend in religion is downhill.

Why The Pessimism?

What is the reason for this dim view of the times?

One reason is the moral dilemma of the war in Vietnam—with one side claiming that our present position there is immoral, and the other side stating that to withdraw and leave thousands of innocent people to be slaughtered by the Viet Cong would be grossly immoral.

Another reason is the internal unrest—with rioting on the campuses and in the streets of our cities becoming commonplace. This would have been unbelievable, only a few years ago.

Still another reason is the alarming incidence of crime—apparently beyond the power of the police to control.

The National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence said in its report, "Fear of crime is destroying some of the basic human freedoms which any society is supposed to safeguard."

In Washington, D.C., the nation's capital and now also the nation's crime capital, Rep.

Frank M. Clark, D-Pa., has bought iron bars for the windows of his twice-burglarized house, two blocks from the Capitol Building.

The Library of Congress now closes half an hour early each day, to allow its employees to get home before dark.

In East Orange, N.J., it is reported that the police have suggested that no woman venture out alone on the streets after 2 P.M., since some of the most vicious mugging occurs in broad daylight.

Is there reason for alarm—for a pessimistic view of the world?

Undeniably, yes. Yet there is reason for hope, too.

Long ago, the Scriptures predicted that "in the last days perilous times shall come."

"Perilous times" were predicted—and they have come. The condition will become worse if present trends are not halted.

Perhaps you haven't thought of the world situation as a sign of the times. Perhaps you still don't. But, at least, it's an interesting coincidence, isn't it?

"Look Up"

But there is another message in the Bible for those who have determined to walk with God in this world.

Here it is: Jesus said, "When these things begin to come to pass, then look up and lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh."

Maybe we ought to pay more attention to the Bible, after all. Maybe it has for us a message that we need in times like these.

Maybe if we followed Biblical principles in our lives—and in our nation—there would still be reason for hope and for real optimism.

WEEKEND GUESTS

Visitors in the Luie Cross home over the weekend were his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wise of Nederland, and another sister, Mrs. Norene Harrison of Odessa. They also visited with Mrs. Cross who has been returned to West Plains Nursing Home in Muleshoe after a two weeks stay in the hospital in that city.

VISIT MOTHER

Mr. and Mrs. John Crow, Joann and Becky of Hopkinsville, Ky. came Saturday to visit Mrs. Crow's mother, Mrs. Roy Carder.

HOT WATER ANGLING

Being in hot water usually means being in trouble, but this isn't necessarily so when it comes to fishing.

In many areas of the country there are "hot water" lakes where fishing is excellent both summer and winter. These bodies of water are adjacent to electrical generating plants which use the lake's water as part of their steam generation process. Cool water is taken into the plant and warm water is returned to the supply reservoir.

In many places this warm water creates a year around primary food source — plants and animals which are forage for desirable species of fish. In some lakes, the area near the water discharge becomes rich with food; in turn, the fish become fat and sassy.

Species of fish found in these discharge water reservoirs are varied, according to information received by the fishing department at Mercury outboards. In western Wyoming, for example, a coal-fired steam generation plant returns water to a lake where trout fishing is excellent. There, rainbows of three and four pounds are taken by deep trolling along the fringe area of the hot water discharge.

Other examples can be found in Missouri, where coal-fired generation plants at two locations offer good bass and crappie fishing the year 'round.

Not all the facts are known about hot water discharge into rivers and lakes. In some areas, anglers are opposing proposed nuclear-powered electrical generation plants for fear hot water discharge will seriously damage local fishing. Research into the problem is continuing, and while the story isn't complete yet there are some benefits for anglers in some reservoirs where a water re-cycling process is being used. The fishing gang at Mercury suggests you check nearby power lakes and learn what is happening in this "hot water" fishing.

IN LUBBOCK

Mrs. G. W. Locke and Helen and their weekend guests, Mr. and Mrs. Parker Norton of Stillwater, Okla. spent Sunday visiting in the home of Mrs. Mardema Bundy and family in Lubbock.

Bring Med-Aid To Isolated Areas

CHARLOTTE, N. C. — Four college students from North Carolina, who decided that helping is better than protesting, are off on a hazardous ten week trip through Central and South America. Walter Kale, Robert Klein, Steve Lett and Buck Winfield will visit 11 countries, delivering short wave radio equipment to doctors in remote areas.

The radios will enable the doctors to communicate with Duke University Hospital and consult with specialists who participate in the school's "Med-Aid" (Medical Assistance to Isolated Doctors) program.

A year was spent in planning the trip and securing the assistance from industry which made it possible. All radio equipment and money plus a Renault 16 sedan-wagon and an Airstream travel trailer were donated.

At the end of the journey, the car and trailer will be given to a charitable organization or a local government in South America.

What if we told you to cough up $18.75 or else?

You wouldn't like it, of course

You see, one of the nice things about buying U.S. Savings Bonds is that you don't have to.

That's because you happen to live in a free country.

Rather, your country asks, that you simply consider the many advantages of Savings Bonds.

First of all, if you think they're a get-rich-quick scheme, forget it. Bonds aren't for you. They only pay off in the long haul.

But they pay off a little over $4 for every $3 you invest, at maturity. Plus, the privilege of buying the new 5% Freedom Shares along with your Bonds.

And there's another very important reason why Americans already own $52 billion in Bonds.

It's called pride.

If you happen to be one of these Americans who thinks there's something to this country of ours, why not buy into it.

Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work.

Or go to your bank.

And cough up that $18.75. Please.

You get a little over $4 for every $3 you invest.

hikes, bug collecting, leaf collecting and such.

Playtime will evolve about their interests but will also be a time for learning to get along with others and to learn to "take turns."

When the weather forces them to stay indoors, there will be activities such as playing house, playing grocery store and others.

Seeking to develop co-ordination and mobility and to build their bodies, the boys and girls will have fun from such simple things as skipping, hopping and other natural exercises. They will learn balance as they walk a narrow plank and endurance as they play on chinning bars.

Storytime will also be a treat for the boys and girls as they assume the characters of the story people and act out the stories. They will be encouraged to develop an imagination when, at some particular point in the story, Mrs. Jones might ask "And what do you think he said?"

Mrs. Jones also hopes to measured two and one-half inches of the much needed moisture, while further to the south as much as three inches was reported.

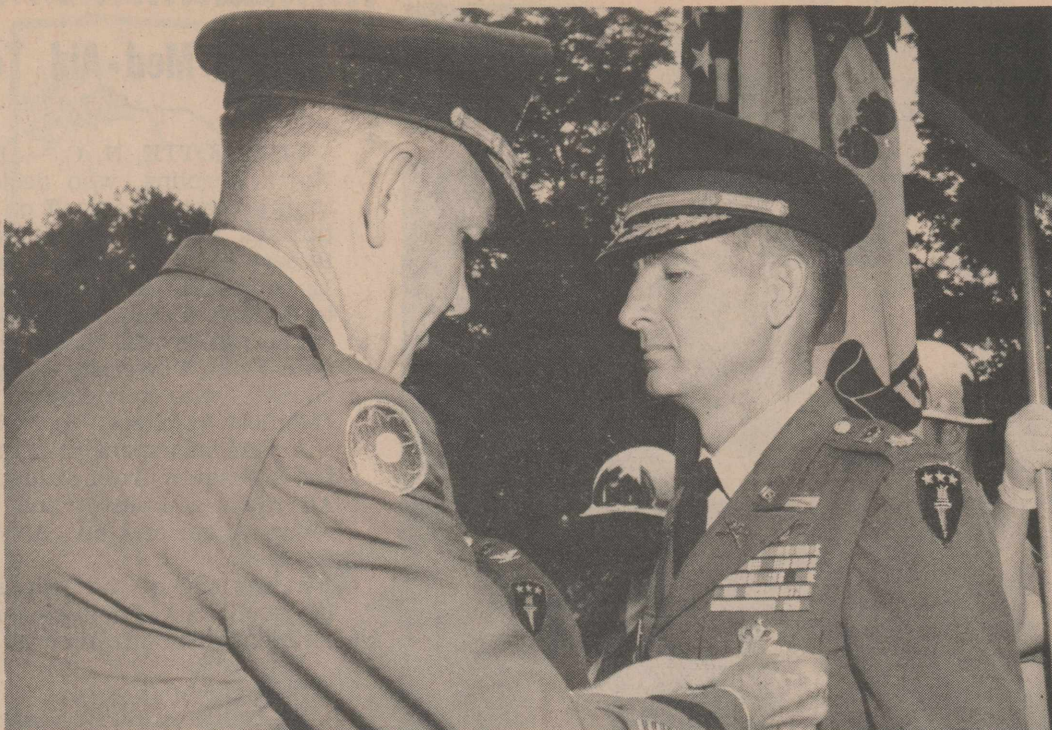

To the northwest, Jack Snider, who farms 10 miles out, also reported about two inches, but closer to town the Raymon Carsons estimate one and one-half inches.

North of town Mrs. A. C. Light stated that some .75 inches had fallen.

East of the city the O. E. Pattersons had no measurable amount. Larry Witten reported .10 at his home place and possibly .50 inches one mile east of there.

The A. D. Meltons, just south of town measured one-half inch, while Oliver Rose, south west is quoted as having 1.50 inches.

The city proper received only a shower, the official gauge giving only .17 total fall.

Jim Hysinger Retires, Awarded Legion Of Merit

A 22-year military career came to a close July 31 when Lieutenant Colonel Jim Hysinger, son of Mrs. H. A. Hysinger, was retired during a parade at Carlisle Barracks, Pa.

The Infantry Officer was awarded the Legion of Merit by Major General George S. Eckhardt, US Army War College commandant, in ceremonies on the "Old Parade" at the historic Army post.

LTC Hysinger was cited for his exceptionally meritorious service as Chief of the Operations and Intelligence Section of the Operation Group, US Army War College from July 1968 through July 1970.

He entered the Army in 1944 while a student at Texas Technological College and returned to civilian life in 1946. Four years later he re-entered the Army and was assigned to the 8th Infantry Division at Ft. Jackson, S. C.

During his military career, the senior parachutist served in Korea, Germany, Philippines and Vietnam. He participated in two battle campaigns in Korea and two in Vietnam.

His awards and decorations include the Air Medal, Purple Heart, Army Commendation Medal and the Republic of Vietnam Gallantry Cross with Silver Star.

He and his wife, Lois, reside at 203 Cherokee Drive in Hereford. He will be self-employed in ranching and farming.

The Hysingers have three sons. Twenty-year-old Larry is a junior at the University of Texas (Arlington). Paul, 18, is a sophomore at Harrisburg, Pa. Area Community College. Steve, 15, will be a 10th grade student at Hereford High School.

Governor Smith To Attend Groundbreaking

Governor Preston Smith will visit Texas' only Indian Reservation Aug. 14 at 4 p. m. for ground breaking ceremonies. The project is the construction of a dam, lake and camping facilities to provide Texans and out-of-state visitors an opportunity to camp in the Big Thicket and on an Indian Reservation.

The Project will cost $470,000 in which Federal, State and Tribal funds are involved. Governor Smith will represent the State government, Millard Neptune, Area Director of the Economic Development Administration, will represent the Federal government and Chief Fulton Battise will represent the Tribal members.

As part of the ceremonies the governor, who is an Honorary Member of the Tribes, will assist the chief in making the Texas Commission of Indians Affairs Chairman, Dimpie Henley of Liberty and Commissioner Victor Fain of Nacogdoches, Honorary Lifetime Members of the Alabama & Coushatta Tribes. The Indian Commissioners have served the Tribes five years and have been instrumental in securing the necessary funds to construct the new camping facilities which will be open for the public by April of 1971.

The public is invited to share this occasion of progress with the Governor and the Tribes on Aug. 14, 4 p. m. on Park Road 56.

Back-To-School Time Nears For 2.7 Million

It's back-to-school time again for more than 2.7 million students in the Texas public schools.

For about 224,500 of them, it will be "first-time-to-school." Most of these will be first graders, but some 30,000 will be 5-year-olds in the new state-supported kindergarten program.

Among numerous changes in Texas schools this year, the teachers will begin work a bit earlier, and students in some localities will begin classes earlier. The school year will have 180 classroom days instead of 175. Teachers will be on duty for 10 more days of non-teaching work during the year to help with school opening and closing, and to receive in-service instruction that will help them to teach better.

Despite these changes, the experience of heading off to school for the first time won't be much different for this year's 6- and 5-year-olds than it was for their parents. It's a giant step for little people.

To help parents make it easier on their youngsters, the Texas State Teachers Association offers some basic tips in a leaflet titled "To Help the Child, and Parents too!" Here are some of the pointers:

REGISTRATION PROCEDURE

Any child who is six years old on or before September 1 may be admitted for the 1970-71 school year. (Special requirements for enrollment of certain 5-year-old children in public school kindergarten for 1970-71 have been publicized locally.)

The child's birth certificate must be presented at time of enrollment. Some schools, in the interest of good health, require that the child be vaccinated against smallpox and immunized against diphtheria, whooping cough, and tetanus.

Other information which the school will need includes name, occupation, place of work, and phone number of the father; name, address and phone number of the family doctor; and the family's home address and phone number.

HOW PARENTS CAN HELP

When parents meet their child's principal and teacher for the first time, they may offer these suggestions:

* Teach your child the safest way home.

* Teach him (or her) to go directly home from school without loitering on the way.

* Remind him not to go with strangers.

* Give your child definite duties at home and see that he performs them.

* Help him to establish good listening habits.

* See that your child gets enough sleep.

* Provide your child with a good breakfast each morning.

* See that he is happy before he leaves for school.

* Teach your child that policemen are his friends and that he should go to them when he needs help.

* Teach him to dress himself properly.

* Teach him to have confidence in his teacher.

* Provide opportunities for your child to be away from his mother for short periods of time before he starts to school.

* Teach your child to respect the property rights of others.

* Allow your child to do as much for himself as he is able to do.

* Show an interest in what he has to tell you about his work and play at school.

* Help him to see likenesses and differences in objects and forms.

* Encourage him to have playmates.

* Help him learn habits of promptness, obedience, and respect for authority.

* Read to your child.

* Take him to places of interest such as the zoo, park and library.

* Label his personal belongings with his name and address.

* Praise your child frequently; help him to feel successful.

THE FIRST TEACHER

The child's first teacher has an enormous responsibility and opportunity to help shape his or her future life. The teacher will help the child to:

* Have opportunities in group learning, work and play.

* Think for himself.

* Become interested in the world about him.

* Treat others with consideration and fairness.

* Feel at ease with others.

* Build a good foundation for future learning.

Parents are always welcome to visit their child's school.

When visiting, they should stop first at the administrative office and meet the principal.

When it is necessary to bring a child's lunch or other supplies to school, they should be left with instructions at the school office. Classes should not be interrupted while in session. Arrangements should be made in advance for conferences with the child's teacher. Parents are invited and urged to join the PTA, attend its meetings, and take an active part in the work it does to support the school.

The TSTA leaflet points out that the parents' attitude toward the school and the teacher will be observed—and often copied—by the child. Parents therefore should avoid criticizing school or teacher in the child's presence. Instead, they should do what they can to solve such school-related problems as conflict with another child, a difficult activity, or a school rule that the child does not understand.

SCHOOL WANTS TO KNOW

The school principal will want to know—in advance if possible—when a family moves to a new address.

A child with a cold, fever, sick stomach or other severe ailment is better off at home than at school; however, parents should encourage and require good school attendance by their children. A written excuse from the parents may be needed when the child returns from an absence.

When child-school problems of any kind arise, the parent should feel free to discuss them with the child's teacher.

County Board Meets Friday

Miss Dena Reast and Gene Williams were presented water safety instructor authorizations at the August meeting of the Lamb County Red Cross Board Friday in Littlefield. Mrs. D. R. Leonard, chairman, made the presentation.

The two students gave reports of their water safety training at Lake Murray in Ardmore, Okla. They were sponsored at the school by the local chapter.

Announcement was made that the local chapter would accept voluntary contributions in behalf of disaster victims of Hurricane Celia. Any organization or individual interested in helping make and fill 50 ditty bags to be shipped in September is requested to contact their local Red Cross board member or the Red Cross office.

Mrs. H. C. (Anna Mae) Miller of Littlefield was unanimously elected as a new member of the County board.

Attending the meeting were Mmes. Leonard, Bonnie Haberer, Doris Frey, Lenore La Grange, Ophelia Stone and Ruth Wade. Also Rev. C. P. McMaster, J. P. Arnold and Judge G. T. Sides.

Darryl Dennis Feted Tuesday

Darryl Dennis was honored with a cook-out Tuesday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Houston Hamby. The honoree is moving this week to Colorado.

GUESTS FROM ALASKA

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Geer and sons of Anchorage, Alaska called Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. G. Wood.

No Coin Fumling

Now a flick of the thumb will pop out the coin motorists need for parking meter, telephone call, road toll or vending machine. Whether a quarter, dime, nickel or cent, as illustrated above, half the size of a cigarette pack, the new and patented pocket changer weighs only 3/4 oz. Yet "Change-it" as it is called, packs enough coins for any hectic day... the round rim fits the palm of the hand, as demonstrated, bringing the coins in a position that corresponds with the natural finger movement for handling change.

The selection, release and transfer of coins becomes an instantaneous, single-handed operation. "Change-it" is made from unbreakable, marblized plastic (spring-fed) and has spaces for as much as $2.10 in coins - quarters, dimes, nickels and cents... is unconditionally guaranteed for two years.

VISITING SANDERS

Lynette Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Baker of Seminole, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Sanders Jr. Leon Chris and Jamie.

FROM LUBBOCK

David Britton of Lubbock spent last week in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Britton. His fiancée, Miss Kathy Lowery also of Lubbock was a weekend guest.

WEEKEND GUESTS

Mrs. G. W. Locke and Helen had as weekend guests Mrs. Locke's sister-in-law and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Parker Norton of Stillwater, Okla. and Mrs. Mardema Bundy of Lubbock.

DeBerry-Polk Vows To Be Read

Wedding vows will be solemnized at 8 p. m. Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church for Miss Deborah Sue Polk and Dale DeBerry.

Friends and relatives are invited to the ceremony and to the reception to follow.

Parents Honored In Recent Party

Cook Of The Week

Our Cook of the Week, Mrs. Jim Weaver, has been a resident of Olton just one year.

The Weavers moved from Clovis, N. M. when Jim was named defensive secondary football coach for Olton High School. Pat taught sophomore and senior English last year.

Graduates of Eastern New Mexico University at Portales, they met as students there and were married before they graduated.

Jim had already completed a tour of duty with the Navy before enrolling in ENMU.

Pat and Jim are planning to receive their masters' degrees although Pat will probably be a little longer completing her work since they are expecting their first baby next month.

In addition to teaching English, Pat has also taught speech and remedial reading. She especially enjoyed the reading and plans work in that field in earning her master's degree.

One of her favorite pastimes is reading. She likes decoupage and especially enjoys refinishing and antiques furniture.

Pat also enjoys golfing and is having fun learning to sew.

Northside Gift 'Open House' Held Saturday

Northside Gift Shop held open house Saturday Aug. 8 in their new location at 704 Main.

"A good crowd" throughout the day browsed leisurely in the store, looking over the new lines of gifts and clothing.

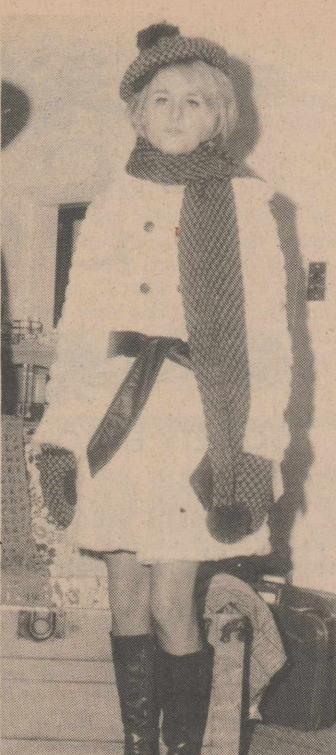

Local girls modeled back-to-school fashions all day and drawings for door prizes were held every hour on the hour.

Gifts which were given at the hourly drawings included luggage, Merle Norman cosmetics, boy's play suit, girl's dress, scarf and beads, boy's western pants and shirt, decorator item, pant set and a junior petite dress.

Winners in the drawing were Glenda Phillips, Mrs. Leona Dickenson, Mrs. Charlie Jones, Mrs. Betty Hall, Debbi Vaughn, and Jane Wilkes, all of Olton and Faith Smith, Dena Bynum and Alice Adrian.

Owners of the shop, Mrs. Billie Dickenson and Mrs. Jeanette Ray, expressed their thanks to all their friends and customers for coming by during the day and visiting with them and other friends.

"Our open house was a success thanks to our many friends. We certainly enjoyed it," they commented.

MISS VICKI RAY models the newest thing in winter wear. A luxurious fur-like coat accented with scarf, hat and mittens to match. Completing the ensemble are the knee boots and a belt.

Birthday Party Fetes 7-Year-Old

Scottie Cannon was honored Monday with a party in his home in observance of his seventh birthday.

Cokes and cake were served to Scott Parker, Darryl Quigley, Rusty Powers, Manuel Apadaco, Tina Dennis and Dianne Powers.

Scottie is the son of Mrs. Sue Cannon.

EGGS ARE IMPORTANT
Eggs are an important food in the diet. Both the white and the yolk contain the important tissue building nutrient, protein. The yolk is also a good source of the mineral iron and vitamins A and D.

Americans consume more than 3 billion pounds of candy annually, or a whopping 85 million pieces, bars and sticks a day. Each man, woman and child stashes away close to 20 pounds of confections a year.

MRS. CHARLIE JONES was official representative of the Merle Norman cosmetics during open house at Northside Gift Saturday. Mrs. Jones also presented the gift to the lucky winner of the Three Steps To Beauty.

Popular 'Fiddlers' Contest Slated At South Plains Fair

One of the most popular attractions ever slated for the Panhandle South Plains Fair—the fiddlers' contest—will return for the 53rd annual exposition in Lubbock Sept. 28-Oct. 3.

Two divisions, one for contestants 59 and under and an "old timer's" division for fiddlers 60 and over, have been established. Cash awards of $100 are being offered to winners in each division. Premiums of $50, $35, $15 and $10 are earmarked for second through fifth spots, respectively. However, every contestant will receive a $5 participation prize.

James (Texas Shorty) Chancellor of Dallas will judge the competition on the closing day of the weeklong fair.

A. J. Mears is contest chairman. Committee members are Walt Edney and Nate Stephenson. All inquiries or correspondence relating to the competition should be addressed to the Fair Association, P. O. Box 208, Lubbock, Texas.

At registration, all contestants will draw for initial order of appearance on the program. Finalists also will draw for appearance order.

Contestants will be required to play a hoedown, waltz and tune of their choice in the preliminaries. Contestants are permitted not more than two accompanists. An amplified bass will be available to all participants.

An all-star variety show will headline the weeklong run in Fair Park Coliseum. Scheduled to open the fair on Monday and Tuesday will be the Ray Stevens Show, also featuring singer Gloria Loring and the Jack Blanchard-Misty Morgan duo.

Charley Pride, Johnny Duncan and Alex Houston and Elmer will share the spotlight on Wednesday and Thursday. Closing out the fair will be the Porter Wagoner Show on Friday and Saturday. Also appearing with the popular country and western star will be Dolly Parton, Speck Rhodes and the Wagonmasters, plus pianist Jo Ann Castle, one of the stars on the Lawrence Welk television show for more than a decade.

Ticket prices remain unchanged at $2, $3 and $4. All seats are reserved for the 5:30 p. m. and 8:30 p. m. shows daily.

Advance requests for tickets may be addressed to the Fair Association, P. O. Box 208, Lubbock.

Seedless Watermelons Commercially Marketed

All the work has been taken out of eating watermelon this summer with the introduction of two new seedless varieties recently announced by Texas Commissioner of Agriculture John C. White.

Seedless watermelons are rapidly gaining favor with consumers because of the extra-sweet and flavorful quality of the melons. The fruit is medium-sized, with a good textured, sweet meat. As in other "seedless" fruits, the undeveloped seeds are there but are edible, actually tasteless. An added advantage of this melon is an extended shelf life.

The chemical "Colchicine," discovered in 1937 by Dr. O. J. Elgisti, is responsible for the genetic change that produces a seedless melon such as the two new varieties, "Tri-X 313" and "Supersweet." It has only been until recently that seedless melons have been developed which are consistent in quality and which can be commercially produced and marketed.

The seedless melons are found in food stores and cafeterias promoted in cooperation ducts (TAP) program of the Texas Department of Agriculture.

Commissioner White said Department of Agriculture marketing specialists anticipate a strong consumer reception.

IN MEMPHIS
Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Curtis were recent overnight guests of his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Northcutt of Memphis. They saw sections of land in that area that have not been planted because of lack of rainfall.

FUN WITH FIGURES

Since it takes 1,000 millions to make one billion, don't get the idea that one million must be a measly amount. Only about three-quarters of a million days have passed since Julius Caesar ruled the Roman Empire.

A billion—or the number 1 followed by nine zeros—is made up of 1,000 millions. Yet it represents only a small fraction of our current annual federal budget and an even more minute fraction of the national debt!

The only universal numbering system for all businesses is utilized by Dun & Bradstreet. Each business in the country has a unique nine-digit number so it can be identified instantly.

How do you reach a billion? Here's one way: Ride on the propeller of an airplane traveling a speed of 300 miles an hour and you'll go around a billion times if the propeller spins constantly 24 hours a day, seven days a week, for two whole years.

Underwater Research Find May Be Spanish Galleons

A rust-encrusted cannon, ancient wood fragments, ballast stones, and several electronically-detected forms on the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico suggest to scientists that they have found the remains of Spanish galleons that sank off the Texas coast in 1553.

With a permit granted by the Texas Antiquities Committee, the Institute for Underwater Research, Inc., has conducted a scientific survey of a large section of Texas coastal waters off Padre Island during July. The survey was undertaken by the nonprofit Institute at the request of the Antiquities Committee as a service to the state of Texas, according to Dr. Fred Wendorf, Committee chairman.

Several members of the Antiquities Committee will accompany the press Tuesday on a boat trip from Port Mansfield to the site of operations in the Gulf of Mexico.

There, for the last month, two boat captains and 18 scientists and divers have been conducting a three-phase underwater archaeological survey.

Members of the staff include eight divers, several geophysicists, a physicist, surveyors, and archeologists. Several of the divers are also archeologists.

The first step in the survey has been the electronic detection of "anomalies"—possible ships—on the ocean floor. The second step consists of a scuba investigation to identify what has been found. If the anomaly proves to be a ship, the third step is the recording of the vessel's location for future study and recovery.

All artifacts and ships found will be the sole property of the Antiquities Committee and scientific study of the relics will be conducted by the Department of Anthropology at Southern Methodist University, Dallas.

Committee chairman Wendorf said that a casual observer cannot tell whether the boat crews are diving for pleasure or for scientific reasons. Unless pirates own sophisticated electronic gear or have access to the crew's records, they cannot easily locate any "anomalies." The General Land Office maintains a patrol boat near the site and other surveillance measures are in effect.

Eugene McDermott, president of the Institute for Underwater Research, Inc., said, "One of the anomalies has been found to relate to a Spanish ship. The task for the future is to determine the meaning of the other anomalies in terms of whether they relate to the Spanish ships and equipment and in what manner."

"I urge the state of Texas to take prompt and positive action to assure that these historically valuable ships and artifacts will be properly preserved. Because they belong to a relatively little-known period of Texas history, it is all the more important that they be adequately studied for the benefit of future generations."

The Institute for Underwater Research is underwriting the cost of the survey, but numerous state agencies and institutions of higher learning have contributed equipment and personnel. Wendorf mentioned that the Governor's Office, in particular, has been very helpful in arranging the cooperation of state agencies.

FROM GARLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Shorty Keller and Judy and Robin of Garland are visiting in the home of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Houston.

THE APPLE OF YOUR EYE

Crunchy, green munching apples all the way from the Cape of Good Hope are surprising more and more delighted American consumers each year. Americans who normally associate green apples with cooking are finding out that Granny Smith green eating apples, already popular in Europe and Australia, are tangy, juicy and flavorful.

Interestingly enough there really is a "Granny Smith" story behind the apples. In 1867, Mary Ann Smith, in New South Wales bought some empty gin cases at the Sydney market. In them were some decaying apples which she dumped at the foot of her garden. A seedling developed from the decaying fruit, and it is from that seedling that the famous Granny Smith apple developed.

Granny Smith apples will keep for several weeks when stored in a cool place. They are a pleasure to use as platter garnishes or in fresh fruit salads because they will not turn brown when cut as rapidly as other varieties of apples.

GRANNY SMITH'S EASY SHORT CAKE

- 1 10-ounce jar currant jelly
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 3 medium Granny Smith Apples
- 1/2 cup whipping cream
- 6 individual sponge cake shells or home made sponge cake cut in squares

Combine currant jelly and lemon juice in saucepan. Over low heat stir until the mixture is smooth and syrupy. Remove from heat.

Peel, core and slice apples into a bowl. Pour the syrup over the apple slices, turning the apples over carefully so that all surfaces are coated.

Whip cream until stiff. Spread a generous spoonful of whipped cream over each piece of cake. Arrange apple slices on top. Spoon remaining sauce over each serving. 6 servings.

'Best Ever' Field Day Slated By High Plains Foundation

Activities are beginning to jell for the 14th Annual Field Day and Farm Equipment Show to be conducted at the High Plains Research Foundation, Sept. 10-12.

As usual area residents are cooperating in efforts to present one of the best research farm showings ever.

Presenting exhibits of agricultural information and ideas will include members of Women's Cotton Promotion Clubs with a display of some of the latest styles in cotton clothing. Other exhibits will include sewing and cooking hints from the Hale County Home Demonstration Council and special displays sponsored by the Hale County Noxious Weed Control District, Hale County Farmers Home Administration Service and the Hale County Soil and Water Conservation District.

Water, Inc. also has been invited to exhibit its program on supplemental water plans.

The Field Day activities will feature guided tours through research plots and a guest speaker on opening day.

Highlighting the event will be a three-day farm equipment show featuring the latest farming equipment by some of the top agricultural equipment manufacturers in the nation.

According to Dr. Tom Longnecker, director, the Field Day is shaping up as a top attraction. "We feel confident that our cooperation with the Plainview Chamber of Commerce on this Farm Equipment Show will promote one of this year's leading attractions," he said.

Observers of Field Day activities annually come from all over the area. Longnecker pointed out that many of those attending are "flying farmers."

"As in the past, the Hale County Farm Bureau has volunteered its services to make sure that farmers and other persons flying in to attend Field Day activities have transportation to the Research farm at Halfway," he added.

Post Office Joins National Clean-up Week

Olton's Post Office is one of more than 40,000 post offices, stations and branches over the nation participating in "Clean Up Week" — a nation-wide postal activity announced by Postmaster General Winton M. Blount.

Officer in Charge, D. M. Holt, announced that local clean up activities will focus on such matters as overall cleanliness and appearance.

"We are all concerned nowadays about the quality of our environment," he said. "And the Post Office, as a representative of the Federal Government, is always pleased to conduct activities that are in the best interest of the communities we serve."

"Our Post Office is one of the busiest and most visible activities in Olton and whatever we can do to improve it is of special value to our community."

Holt pointed out that, in addition to improving the appearance of the postal facility, the national clean up week is also designated to provide practical values, removal of safety and health hazards, reduce accidents and illness and make repairs wherever feasible.

Postmaster General Blount explained, in his proclamation of clean up week, that while the most intensive effort will occur during the designated week, he expects post offices to maintain improvement programs as a permanent activity that will give a new look to the postal service for customers and employees alike.

A LIGHTNING BOLT NEAR MISS MAY BE A HIT!

There is an adage that says if you hear the thunder clap, you know the lightning missed. That knowledge may be helpful to you, but it will do little to protect your home from electrical storm damage.

Lightning can produce voltage surges over the lines of electrical distribution systems—and it does not have to make a direct hit. A lightning bolt that lands nearby can produce as much damage to your home as a direct hit. While you are listening to the thunder and basking in the knowledge that the imminent danger of electrocution by lightning has passed, a power surge may be entering your home's electrical system puncturing, burning, melting and destroying wiring, appliances and other electrical equipment.

The Lightning Protection Institute has reported that the total dollar loss to homeowners caused by lightning during 1969 was $71 million. It said lightning-caused fires gutted or leveled 2,552 houses during the year, causing an average loss of $22,600. Major damage was done to 14,464 houses, averaging $2,330 per lightning strike. Both the number of fires and the damage they caused represented increases over the 1968 figures.

The General Electric Company manufactures a small, inexpensive device called a Home Lightning Protector which is able to channel destructive voltage surges harmlessly to ground in a fraction of a second thereby eliminating the threat of possible damage to home electrical systems.

The Home Lightning Protector, the only one of its kind listed by Underwriters Laboratories, Inc., is easily installed by a qualified person.

The device does not replace a lightning rod. The lightning rod affords protection by attracting lightning generated electrical charge and carrying it to a ground; the Home Lightning Protector provides a similar protection for the home's electrical system which is not protected by the lightning rod.

Even in homes insured for lightning damage, owners often must pay a deductible limit of $50—or nearly four times the cost of the Home Lightning Protector—on damages caused by lightning in addition to the major inconveniences caused by damage to the home. Insurance company statistics indicate that approximately $100 million is paid out annually to settle lightning damage claims. About half of the amount goes toward reimbursement for damage from lightning "surges," which are responsible for three quarters of all lightning damage claims.

There is a frequent incidence of lightning strikes. They hit the earth's surface somewhere in the world approximately 6,000 times a minute—and can and do strike the same place more than once.

Increased dependence by homeowners on electrical conveniences dictates the importance of protecting the large number of electrical appliances and the extensive electrical distribution system found in most homes.

Unlike fuses or circuit breakers, the Home Lightning Protector works over and over again without being replaced or reset. It carries a 10-year unit replacement guarantee. It is available from most electrical contractors and distributors throughout the United States or directly from the General Electric Company's Distribution Protective Equipment Department in Pittsfield, Mass.

The Home Lightning Protector is only as large as a tennis ball, but it can protect your home wiring, appliances and other electrical equipment from lightning-caused damage.

Accent on Health

"The Texas State Department of Health has made available better health services to nearly an additional half million residents of East Texas, with the creation of the first of ten proposed health regions in the State of Texas," according to Commissioner of Health Dr. J. E. Peavy. "And the goal is to eventually provide these services to more than two and one-half million Texans not now reached by all state health services."

The first step in reaching these citizens was taken on May 1 when the State Health Department officially instituted Region 7, with headquarters in Tyler. The new region serves 36 counties stretching from the Red River to the lower Louisiana border above the city of Orange, with some 922,183 residents. Until Region 7 was created, only 429,081 citizens were covered by ten city-county health units in the area. That left 493,102 without comparable health services. Now all those citizens will be reached by state and area health programs.

"The regional health system will allow state health services to be brought closer to the people who need them, and will provide better administration of health services," according to Dr. Peavy.

Region 7 medical director is Dr. J. R. Bailes, who moved to his post after serving as director of the Texarkana-Bowie County Health Department since 1962. Deputy regional medical director is Dr. John P. Jones, who also supervises the Tuberculosis Control Program in the Tyler area. William Ballard will serve as regional engineer and will supervise the environmental health program. Dr. Jessie Gee will be the region's public health dentist, and Dr. George Kutch will serve the region as chief veterinarian. Health personnel will be concentrated into the regional office and made available throughout the region.

Eventually, the State will have 10 regions providing services to the state's entire population. All regional offices will consist of staff representing all major public health disciplines. However, technical guidance would be directly between State Health Department personnel in Austin and their regional counterparts.

Texas has 68 organized city and county health departments providing direct public health services to eight million residents in 76 counties which contain about 76 per cent of the state's 10.6 million population. The state's remaining 178 counties, with about 24 per cent of the state's population (or 2.6 million people), are left without local health units. The new regional system is setting about to alter this situation.

Swine Research Project Conducted On Milo Rations

Processed milo rations, long an aid to beef cattle performance, may be just as good for swine, says a West Texas State University nutritionist.

John W. McNeill, 23, is conducting research in the subject as part of a cooperative swine research project by West Texas State and Texas Tech University.

In the study, begun last March at the WTSU Farm, McNeill examined four methods of milo processing, the hammer-mill grinding method; the coarsely rolled method; the steam flaking method; and the micronizing method, an experimental process. Their effects on the swine's average daily gain in pounds were evaluated as were each feed's efficiency. At the conclusion of the trial the pigs were slaughtered and the carcasses were analyzed for differences in back fat thickness, cutability and dressing percentage.

The 80 crossbred barrow pigs used in the trial weighed 50 pounds each at purchase and were fed to a final weight of 220 pounds, McNeill says. The animals were placed on a self-feeding diet and all the conveniences used by commercial operators—like a fogger system—were taken in account, he added.

The steam flaking and the micronizing methods, both under close scrutiny, contrast in that the steam flaking method uses steam from an external source to penetrate the grain from the exterior to the inside.

"The gas-fired generators used in the micronizing process emit micro-waves that are selectively absorbed by the grain. These waves cause the grain to heat uniformly to convert the grain moisture to steam. Compared to the steam flaking method, the micronizing method appears to be cheaper in the initial investment, maintenance cost, and cost of operation," McNeill said.

He added that the day-by-day reports revealed that the pigs consuming coarsely rolled milo and micronized milo in their rations had "significantly higher average daily gains than the other two treatments. However, the pigs receiving micronized grains gained significantly more pounds on fewer pounds of feed than the pigs in other groups.

The pigs receiving steam flaked and micronized grains increased their performance with progressively higher levels of protein, McNeill said. This response suggested that protein levels may be more critical to the two heat treated feeds since animals fed with the other two rations did not register the response.

Pigs fed the coarsely rolled ration had a noticeably lower dressing percentage, he added. The carcass evaluation revealed no other differences.

"This trial uncovered some interesting observations that merit further study," McNeill said. "The response of different varieties of milo to various processing methods would be of interest. Due to the difference in their chemical composition, one would expect a difference in the type of product which is produced by these various techniques."

July Crashes

Cost Texans $59 Million

Traffic crashes during July tapped the wallets of Texans for $59 million, according to the Texas Safety Association.

The statewide safety group said today that traffic crashes during the first seven months of the year have cost nearly $400 million.

TSA says there has been a continuing increase in the number of traffic crashes and fatalities on the state's Farm to Market road system. Preliminary reports for July show collisions on the rural road system are up 26 per cent over the same period last year. A similar trend was first reported by TSA in April.

While the Farm to Market roads are experiencing increases in accidents and deaths, towns with populations under 2,500 are showing a 10 per cent decrease in accidents and a 16 per cent decrease in fatalities.

The Texas Safety Association says motorists using the state's rural road system need to exercise extra caution since there are special hazards like slow-moving vehicles.

TSA also pointed to the need for motorists to utilize their safety belts while driving on any roadway, since their use can increase chances of survival if an accident does occur. The group also said accidents and fatalities can be reduced if Texans will obey traffic laws and "Drive Friendly".

It's lots of fun seeing other peoples antiques and I have a few things I'm saving to become bonafide antique. (I expect to live so long!) Still I just haven't got the collector's fever.

And yet, I think I could dig this archeology stuff right quick. Guess that's because I'm an old relic myself.

The new "discoveries" they've made - thinking they might really have found bits of Noah's Ark are real exciting to me. If I were the legendary wealthy Texan I'd just join the hunt.

The old fossils they keep finding not-so-far-from-here are exciting, too. Just think, we might be living over a dinosaur burial ground!

If I lived down on the coast I might even fight my fear of water and take up diving and help them discover old sunken ships. We have a story in this issue about old ships believed to have sunk in 1553. Don't you think that would be fun?

Probably I'd always have to sit on the bank and watch some brave soul do the diving tho. I'm afraid to get more than six inches of water in the bathtub!

Speaking of relics and antiques - I've been rummaging through some of my keepsakes and I've found a few ancient things right under my nose!
