STATE WIDE SEARCH FOR COMRADE WHO GETS AWAY IN FIGHT

By United Press

WACO, March 27.—With the filing of three charges of white capping against Felix Williams of Waco in justice court here tonight the mystery surrounding three threatening notes received this week, by W. R. Cameron, E. R. Bolton, and C. M. Seley, all wealthy Wacoans, is believed at least partially solved.

Williams' companion of Friday night's gun battle with Waco police is still at large and police of seven or eight Texas cities are keeping a close check on all tourists.

Last Wednesday night, letters demanding $5,000 each from Messrs. Bolton, Cameron and Seley were received. The letters threatened "destruction of property" and death unless the money was delivered.

The Waco men turned their letters, all of which were written on a typewriter, over to the police. Detectives were immediately set to work on the case.

Friday night at 8:30 o'clock, they trapped Williams and a companion in East Waco, at a filling station.

Officers arrested Williams without a struggle but his companion fired several shots, dashed through a house, regained his car and made his escape. Williams had dynamite sticks, with fuses attached, and a .38 calibre pistol in his possession.

Police believe that the men meant business. The dynamite sticks were so arranged that they could be lit and thrown like bombs from an automobile.

Meanwhile, the wires are burning with messages from the Waco police department to other police departments of the state, asking that close watch be kept for Williams' companion.

Swears Alibi For Gerald Chapman

LYNN, Mass., March 27—Earl F. Wettmore, chemist, aged 27, of South Peabody, Mass., tonight made an affidavitt before Harry C. Mamber, Lynn attorney, that on the night of October 11, 1924, he saw Gerald Chapman, bandit, at the Grand Central station in New York.

Chapman is alleged to have killed John Skelly, policeman, in New Britain, Conn., on that night and now is under sentence of death for the murder.

ELECT FOUR SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS APRIL 3.

Saturday, April 3, an election of four members of the board of trustees of the Lubbock independent school district will be held.

The members of the present board whose terms expire at that time are Dr. J. T. Hutchinson, C. E. Macdgen, W. R. Atkins and Dr. C. M. Ballenger.

Upon solicitation from numerous citizens who do not wish the work of the board to be interrupted in the midst of the $175,000 building program that is now under way, all of the expiring members of the board have consented to be candidates for re-election except Dr. C. M. Ballenger.

Neil H. Wright, local insurance man, who has been in business here a number of years, has been solicited to be a candidate to succeed Dr. Ballenger, and while he expressed no desire to make the race he consented to serve in the event of election, and his name will be placed on the ticket.

'NICE MESS' SAYS BANKER, HANDING LETTER TO OFFICERS

By United Press

AUSTIN, March 27.—Three members of the Travis county grand jury which made its final report and was discharged this week, received a threatening, anonymous letter through the mails today. The letter read:

"Many hundreds, yes, thousands of people are wondering what kind of a being you can be to take vows and obligations and then not live up to them. God pity all such, is putting it mildly.

"Remember the Boomerang comes back to the thrower. God is not mocked. God is not mocked,. God is not mocked.

"How could you allow yourself to be made a tool in the hands of dirty low hounds of hell?"

W. H. Richardson, Jr., foreman of the grand jury; H. A. Wroe and W. L. Stark received the letter. Wroe, who is chairman of the board of directors or the largest in Austin, a member of the state text book commission and former member of the University of Texas board of regents, in turning the letter over to District Attorney J. D. Moore, for investigation, said:

"Conditions have come to a pretty pass in this state and country when grand jurors receive such letters."

Toll Heavy in Two Brazil Disasters

By United Press

RIO DE JANERIO, March 27.—Two disasters with a large toll of human life occurred today in Brazil.

From Bahia it was reported that 30 persons were drowned when an exursion boat sank en route to Itaparica island in the Bay of Bahia. The excursionists were bound for a religious festival.

The dispatches received from Pedrao Grande in the state of Minasgeraes said that many persons were killed and injured when a railroad train plunged over a 100 foot embenkment. The train had started from Rio De Janerio for Pedrao Grande.

Bahia is about 100 miles northeast of Rio.

RICH KANSAS WOMAN FACES BOOZE CHARGES

By United Press

WICHITA, Kans., March 27—Wichita's exclusive college residential district had its taste of the police liquor cleanup Saturday when raiding officers armed with a warrant entered the home of Sylvester L. Lamar, wealthy oil operator and after finding 25 gallons there pleaced Mrs. Lamar under arrest.

Mr. Lamar was out of town on business when the raid was made on orders of Chief I. B. Walston, who had received information that there was liquor at the Lamar residence.

Mrs. Lamar made no demurrer when officers informed her she would have to go to jail. However, friends hearing of the arrest obtained her release upon a $2,000 bond which she also signed.

DRUG RING QUEEN BEGS CLEMENCY FOR CAPTURED CONSORT

OKLAHOMAN WILL DIE WITHOUT DOPE, SHE PROTESTS

NINE ARRESTED

CLEVER IMPORTERS AND PEDDLERS, POLICE BELIEVE

By United Press

MIAMI, Fla., March 27.—A "queen" of an international drug ring tossed on her cot in the county jail here tonight and begged to be allowed to "take the rap" for her lover and common law husband, slowly dying of tuberculosis.

Arrested with eight of her "subjects" today when federal narcotic agents swooped down on their rendezvous and confiscated drugs valued at $1,000,000, Dorothy Rankin, 26, showed immediate concern for the fate of Harry R. Weiner, alias "Curley" of Oklahoma City, one of the band taken into custody.

"You're killing my lover," she cried out tonight, "and ask me to talk. You'll give me a 'shot' you say. Huh! Aren't you liberal!

"And what about Harry? He's dying. I tell you of tuberculosis. He has been kept alive by dope and you've taken that from him.

"You're killing him—and you'll regret it. What do I care if I am here. Let me take the rap for him. He'd die before he got out. My God won't you give a dying man a chance to a few remaining months of happiness?"

As the result of the raid and the subsequent confiscation of narcotics and the arrest of nine men, federal men believe they have broken into a clever and daring band of drug importers and peddlers with headquarters in New York.

Those arrested with the Rankin girl and Weiner are:

Frank McCullos of New York; Rose Katez, Harry Mitchell, Edward Walsh, W. M. "Peg" Allen, William Brady, of Oklahoma City and H. M. Craven.

Federal agents are withholding the number and names of others arrested. All are held without bail for hearing before United States commissioner.

TEXAN KILLS FORMER FIANCE, THEN HIMSELF

GALVESTON, March 27.—Fred W. Arend, 40, grain elevator employe, shot and killed Miss Sadie Coleman, 40, assistant secretary of the Y. W. C. A., and then committed suicide by turning the gun on himself, here this afternoon.

The shooting occurred on Twenty-fourth street, according to eye-witnesses to the shooting.

A .38 calibre revolver was used.

The woman was dead when an ambulance arrived, while Arend died en route to a hospital.

The woman was shot once through the breast and Arend shot twice in the breast.

Miss Coleman and Arend had formerly been engaged to be married, according to police. The engagement, however, was broken off.

Miss Coleman Friday called on County Attorney Fuller and asked that Arend be compelled to desist from bothering her, but refused to file charges against him.

ROPESVILLE MAN NOT ARRESTED AT KEMP, SAYS SHERIFF

OFFICERS AGAIN SEARCH FOR ALLEGED SLAYER OF HOWARD

REPORT WAS HOAX

WILD GOOSE CHASE TO KAUFMAN COUNTY DELAYS HUNT

B. H. Collins, wanted at Brownfield on a charge of murder growing out of the fatal stabbing of Frank Howard and the injuring of Howard's brother-in-law, Will Fisher, in a fight in which Howard was so severely wounded that he died a few hours later, is still at large, according to Sheriff Ellington of Terry county, who passed through Lubbock yesterday enroute to his home after a visit to Kaufman, Kaufman county, Texas, where he went after being advised that Collins was being held in jail there.

Ellington refused to make any statements about the report that sent him hurrying to Kaufman county to take charge of the prisoner, and together with Sheriff H. L. Johnston of Lubbock is working on clues that might lead to the arrest of Collins.

Ellington was advised on Wednesday, March 24, that Collins had been arrested at Kemp, and was being held in the Kaufman county jail. The report that was received by the Terry county sheriff was published in newspapers throughout the country, including the Lubbock Morning Avalanche, and work on the case was halted insofar as officers in this section was concerned. Upon arriving at Kaufman and learning that his prisoner was not being held there, Sheriff Ellington sent telegrams to officers throughout west Texas of the false impression that had caused them to abandon the case, and now Collins is the center of activity in officers' circles throughout the state.

Report a Hoax

It is believed here and at Brownfield that the report that was given concerning Collin's arrest at Kemp was a deliberate hoax, to throw officers off Collins' trail and to safeguard him in his efforts to escape, if indeed he did not crawl to some secluded place following the fight and die of wounds inflicted by the men he is alleged to have stabbed, as his wife avers.

Officers refused to make any comment on the report that was received from Kemp, that Collins had been arrested there, and would not attempt to place the responsibility for that report, which they say has perhaps enabled the wanted man to make good his escape.

That the report diverted attention from the case is readily seen, they declare.

STOCK JUDGING TO START AT TECH TOMORROW; STANGEL EXPECTS 150 TO 200 SOUTH PLAINS CONTESTANTS

Between one hundred and fifty and two hundred students in vocational agriculture departments of schools throughout this section will be entered in the judging contests at the Texas Technological College here tomorrow, according to W. L. Stangel of the department of agriculture.

The contests were arranged by the college upon requests from teachers of vocational agriculture throughout this section, and while the college heads have been handicapped in their plans due to lack of time to work out the numerous details of the contests, it is believed the hearty co-operation of the teachers and the contestants, together with the efficient work of the college men who will direct the work, will enable the day's program to be carried on in good style.

There will be three separate contests and many of the schools that will be represented will enter in each of these.

The contests will be on livestock and poultry judging and plant production.

The contests on plant production will be judged by Dean A. H. Leidigh and Prof. M. H. Mahoney; livestock judging contest will be judged by W. L. Stangel and F. R. Dahlberg, while Mr. Evans of the Lubbock Hatchery will judge the poultry contest.

Many Schools Entered

The territory that will be represented at the contest is large, however, it will be expanded when the contestants come here for the events in 1927, by which time the various departments of the school will be better prepared to take care of them. The contests will be held

WILL SPUD IN OIL WELL ON WATSON LEASE WEDNESDAY OR THURSDAY; TO DRILL THREE THOUSAND FEET

The derrick which will be used in drilling the test well for oil and gas on the Jimmie Watson location three and a half miles northwest of Lubbock, was completed last week and the well will be spudded in Wednesday or Thursday.

H. I. Stine, drilling contractor, arrived here last week and started placing the machinery but was handicapped in this work by the inclement weather, else the rig would have been ready for work earlier.

The well will be drilled to a depth of 3,000 feet or more, and as this will be the first well drilled in this section there is no log by which the driller can plan his work, except that of the Bledsoe well which was drilled at Hale Center and in all probability the formations there are different to those that will be drilled through here, the oil men say.

M. C. G. Fearis, who is an experienced oil man and has had a part in plans for the drilling of the well here, believes that from the location at which the well will be drilled there is little liklihood of missing the development of the gas possibilities of ths feld.

CROWD PACKS TECH PAVILION TO HEAR SOUTH PLAINS MUSICIANS IN FINAL EVENT OF ANNUAL CONTEST

A crowd of 500 watched and listened last night at the finals of the third annual South Plains music contest at the Texas Tech pavilion, where winners in the events of the two preceding days competed for places. COL. BILLY MITCHELL STARTS ANOTHER ROW

WACO, March 27.—Colonel William Mitchell is the center of another dispute, but in this instance it is a municipal controversy. Disagreement as to whether city flags should be displayed when the "flying colonel" speaks here April 7 has divided opinion in Waco. The Waco Flying club contends that the bunting should be hung out for the colonel, while some opposition is voiced. Contentin has been made that Mitchell's court martial removes necessity for such action. The matter will be settled at a meeting Wednesday.

CONGRESS, WITH LESS MONEY COMING IN, APPROPRIATES HUNDRED NINETY MILLIONS MORE THAN LAST YEAR

By PAUL R. MALLON
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Despite the warning of President Coolidge for strictest economy, the appropriation bills for the twelve departments of the government are running more than $190,688,125 more than appropriations for the same departments last year.

The bills, all of which have been adopted or are nearing adoption in congress also ran $5,674,181 over the estimates of what the budget bureau thought necessary for the next fiscal year beginning July 1.

The chief item of the increase is about $102,000,000 for increased salaries to postal employees, some of which may be reimbursed by increased postal rates.

The special committee which was working on the differentials between the increased pay and increased rates will meet next Tuesday to consider the situation.

Extraordinary significance is attached to the balances because of Mr. Coolidge's warning at the time the tax reduction bill was passed, that congress must keep within bounds of propriety or the tax reduction will result in a deficit to the treasury.

A checkup of the bills showed that in five of them congress exceeded the amount recommended by the budget, by a total of $10,070,479.

Three bills, the budget estimates were reduced $4,396,298, making all of them run $5,674,181 over the budget.

A tabulation of increases made in appropriation this year shows the following increases:

Independent offices, $60,296,917.
Legislative, $149,525 (mostly for increased salaries to senators and congressmen.)
War department, $10,536,862.
State, justice, commerce and labor, $2,625,903.
Treasury and postoffice, $104,625,507.
Agriculture $3,636,927.
Navy $16,031,112.

Only one decrease was made, that of $7,213, 728 in the interior department bill.

Collins walked away from the ranch, being last seen on that day as he made his way leisurely across a field. He was seen at Snyder again several days later where he cashed a small check, securing identification from a friend there.

Howard's Cousin Here

Tom L. Howard, Yoakum county ranchman, was here yesterday making inquiry about the case and was disappointed on learning that the report from Kemp that Collins had been arrested there was untrue.

He declared there would be no efforts spared in searching for Collins and that all members of the Howard family, who are pioneer plainsmen, will co-operate with officers in the hunt.

Fisher Recovering

Fisher is recovering from knife wounds alleged to have been inflicted by Collins, and will be able to be about soon, according to reports from his bedside.

He is at his home on the old Billy Howard ranch, near the scene of the incident, and is visited regularly by the family physician.

Enough interest has already been manifested that lively competition s assured, and it is now certain that number of teams will enter the ontests, with a small number of eams already entered.

K. N. Glapp, local cotton broker, and Professor Camp, of the College will assist in the Cotton Classing di- vision of th ework, and Mr. Evans, of the city, will assist in the Poul- try Judging department.

The contest will begin at 7:30 Monday morning, and will cover, ac- cording to the Dean, a hard day's work.

Y. M. C. A. MEETING TODAY

This afternoon at 3:00 p. m., a meeting of the Tech Y. M. C. A. will be held in room 302.

This meeting is very important in that it is the first meeting of the Spring semester, and work of the Association must be kept up with- out a break. The program commit- tee of the Association assures a good, live, interesting program each meeting-time and some up-to-date and appropriate subjects for every day attention are being brought be- fore the meetings.

P. T. DEPARTMENT OPENS UP ON SPRING TERM

The Physical Training classes are formulating and putting into ef- fect plans for the coming term of work, and in line with the general policy of the school, some intensive training work is in session for the boys.

The Athletic Department of the school is purchasing some supplies for the department. Soccer balls have been ordered, and Volley-ball equipment is being investigated.

A large part of the work of the course will deal with organized ath- letics. Soccer and Volley-ball teams are being organized and games will be played from time to time in the Fair park. It is the object of this department to give exhibitions of this form of athletics that will be worth the money to the public, and at the same time, gain enough money for the promotion of field-day trips during he spring semester.

BLOOD AND SAND FROM EL TORO

Something, maybe the calendar tells us that it is time for a ser- mon. We 'most said a-nother; but we couldn't, yet. But we did find something recently that attracted out attention, and, because it is so very, very, true, and so very- very, applicable to all of us, we're going to pass it on to you this Sunday morning.

Maybe we do have an over-devel- oped bump of foolishness on our cranium but we can't help that. What we had in mind this time is that the History Text-book we're to use in a certain class is—well, it just is. The book is alright, except that that he was banned by mutual agreement a long time ago. "Hazen," we believe?

All you folks hungry for some- thing to eat as well as along the literary line might take notice that the Home Economics Edition of the Toreador was issued yesterday af- ternoon, and will be at the school to- morrow.

From what we hear, we might judge that they (the ladies) have been practicing economy everywhere except at home, and this paper of theirs is going to be—well, at least pretty good.

The ladies, though (bless 'em) h- a't quit razzing the Liberal Arts gang yet; but we defy them again to get their paper of such class that they are members of the Asso- on Press and can use work straight from the wire in the edition.

Y. M. C. A. meeting this after- noon, 3 p. m., room 302. 'Nuff said is too trite, don't you think—but anyway, a hint to the wise should usually be sufficient. Be there, on time.

Someone said that the old pro- verb has given away to the new. As it was, you know it. As it is: "He who laughs last is the dumbest" Mebbe so—mebbe not so.

Maybe, though, the ex-occupants of said seats had made such good grades, as was suggested by one who should know, that the dean ad- vised their taking two courses of a subject, necessitating hour-changes.

Seating arrangements vary.

"How would you mark attendance is someone else should sit in my assigned chair?"

Wise Proof: "Simple enough. If he answered present, 'Id know it was you. If he answered a question, I'd get suspicious and investigate knowing it couldn't be you."

As a rule, College work is going to be intensified this term. By the time two-thirds of the session is over schedules should be running like a polygamous automobubble—in other words, Marmon. But anyway, con- centration is what it's going to take, they say. Getting right down to business.

Good idea, if it'll be accepted gen- erally. The fellows who've been loaf ing thru the semester preceding, can just loaf a little more intensely, and and may-be not get by with it. The grinds—if such exist in Tech—are safe; but Hevvin help the middle- man.

SCISSORED EDITORIAL

WHAT DOES BOLES' REPORT MEAN?

The recommendation of Examiner C. E. Boles to Division Four, finance section of the Interstate Commerce Commission is a sweeping one. It verifies Mr. Boles' previous state- ment that it would not be altogether satisfactory to any parties concern- ed.

It is a great victory for the Plains of Texas. What, for example, if Mr. Boles had found that this territory was adequately served, as held by the Santa Fe? As a representative of the I. C. C. he recognizes the major issue, better rail facilities. That's the big thing in his report. We are in the limelight.

Every town concerned has not re- ceived in this report just what it wished.

Mr. Boles recognizes the claims of Plainview and Lubbock by requiring if the T. P. & G be built that it make arrangements to serve these two towns.

What if the T. P. & G. had been approved just as its application read?

Mr. Boles makes a report that is tentative. It is up to the full In- terstate Commerce Commission, of which he is not a member, to make the final disposition.

His report is in effect merely giv- ing the T. P. & G. six months more time to perfect its financial struc- ture. If it builds at all it must build on a basis that will make of it a strong railroad and a trunk line. If it can not build that way his recom- mendation forbids it.

He precludes possibility of the Santa Fe acquiring the T. P. & G., thereby insisting that the Plains be given na competitive system. In event that system can not be worked out satisfactorily he gives the Fort Worth and Denver almost a blanket permission to build the line it wishes, the Silverton line alone being ex- cepted. Inhibiting the Burlington from acquiring the T. P. & G. he strengthens its original plans.

If the T. P. & G. fails what is to then prevent the Santa Fe from acquiring the G. T. & W. and build- ing form a junction from Crosbyton and Floydada with one can rock as- cent and giving Plainview and Lub- bock direct connections with Fort Worth? Such a line would effect the same good results as the T. P. & G., except its western connection. The Santa Fe is a strong system. It will not give up its hold in the Texas Plains without a fight and it is known that for a long time it has held at least tentative plans for such a line to Fort Worth.

An extension of the Burlington west, if it ever comes into this ter- ritory, can be confidently expected. It would traverse and upset rates now in effect in the Santa Fe tri- angle from Canyon to Clovis, Clovis to Lubbock and Lubbock through Plainview to Canyon, a thing which seems in the mind of Examiner Boles in requiring a trunk line of the T. P. & G. and would give the same through line haul over the Fort Worth and Denver from the west. The Santa Fe Fort Worth extension would serve the same undeveloped territory between the Plains and Fort Worth and strengthen the weak G. T. & W. and connecting lines.

Mr. F. W. Axtell of the T. P. & G. Finance Corporation states in press dispatches that the road has been financed for months. That finance plan is not recognized in the report of Mr. Boles, nor does Mr. Axtell give the public the informa- tion as to its details. To some Rock Island-Frisco, Missouri Pacific in- fluence is manifest.

Estimates in the record, used by Mr. Boles, show the cost of the lines as proposed to be $12,000,000. He requires sale of $2,000,000 stock to a major railway system. The pre- ferred stock carries with it a rate of interest which no railroad can pay. Its bonds for equipment will carry a rate of interest almost as excessive. If there is no chance for the road as financed to make a bus- iness success the Interstate Com- merce Commission will never permit its being built. There are too many weak public carriers now. Can the T. P. & G. carry the burden imposed upon it by the plan of its finance corporation? Will any major sys- tem care to put $2,000,000 in such an enterprise and be responsible for its operation? Will it care to fi- nance the entire proposition?

Is Mr. Boles' suggested route a practicable one? Will the Interstate Commerce Commission approve the construction of its north line when full data of Santa Fe and Burling- ton engineers are placed before it? If not, what route will they select?

It is the concensus of opinion of representative men of Plainview that this community has not changed its attitude since the Plainview hear- ing and prefers the Santa Fe and Burlington plans of rail extension; but few had ever considered the pos- sibilities of the Powell road being built here on the scale proposed by Mr. Boles. Plainview is favored in the report from every angle. If the T. P. & G. is built we get it with- out expense and without effort. If it fails we get what we most de- sire, with but little alteration.

This fact must not be overlooked. Mr. Boles makes a report as an ex- aminer. It must be passed upon by the entire commission. His require- ments for building are theoretical, based on the information given by competitive lines and on routes other than any of the lines have submitted data accurate enough for an engin- eer to consider. His plan will be op- posed by at least a part of the ter- ritory to be served, and the most influential sections—their largest trump card being the present and the potential tonnage an dagri- cultural and industrial development. It will be opposed by both the Santa Fe and the Burlington, strong fac- tors in transportation throughout the country.

It is a Herculean task that his re- port imposes on the T. P. & G. and one which seems almost impossible of accomplishment even under the liberal terms imposed allowing six months for completion of the plan. If adopted the Boles' report means action within six months after the granting of the conditions permit to the T. P. & G. whereas any other plan might mean a long delay.

Don't you think we'll eventually get the rail extension we wish? Don't you see in the Boles' report a possibility of almost unbridled rail expansion in this territory?—Plain- view Herald.

Spring Style for Girls

Smart, Simple and New

The straightline frock of printed fabric is characteristic of the in- dividuality with which Paris treats fashions for the younger set this season.

Plain bias folds of dark material used to trim a figured fabric make a smart combination for a simple frock, as this model proves. The dress calls for 2¼ yards of 36-inch figured material, with ¾-yard plain fabric for the bands. White collar and cuffs may be bought separately and trimmed to follow the decora- tive scheme of the dress.

Bias trimmings are not effective unless they are very carefully cut and made. The first figure of the diagram shows how the material must be folded for a perfect bias. Run a crosswise edge parallel with a selvage, turning the crosswise edge over as shown in the diagram. When joining the bias folds that have been cut, be sure to match the weave of the material, then join seams and press open (Fig. II.). The third figure shows how to fold the bias trimming so that it may be ap- plied to the edge of the collar and cuffs, or the front of the dress.

The pockets, inserted on either side of the front, are also edged with bias folds. A narrow belt of the dress material holds in the ful- ness of the hips.

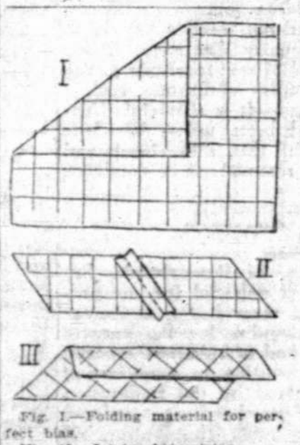

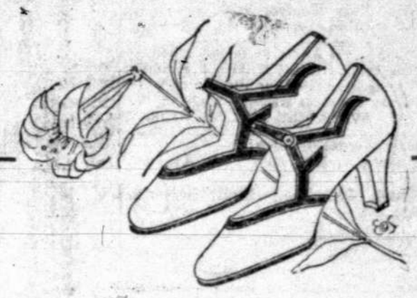

Fig. I.—Folding material for per- fect bias.
Fig. II.—Joining bias strips.
Fig. III.—The bias fold.

Since taffeta is returning to favor, it could not be more effectively copied than in blue and red silk.

GOD OVER ALL—"Now I know that the Lord is greater than all gods: for in the thing wherein they ealt proudly, He was above them." Ex. 18: 11.

WORRYING

Some wise man has said: "The will is to the mind what the rudder is to the ship, and can direct it in any channel it desires." Worrying is a habit. It is letting the mind dwell persistently on troubles and is the most characteristic occupation of the pessimist. That everybody has troubles is true, but that the majority of us have enough troubles to justify us in letting our minds constantly brood on them is not true.

The people whose lives are tragic and miserable are comparatively few, and, strange to say, these are not the ones who worry the most. Paradoxical as it may seem it is those who possess a fair degree of prosperity and comfort who do most the worrying. They seem to live in expectation of some catastrophe that never comes. Eighty per cent of all worry is perfectly futile, unnecessary and absurd. If we worry about inevitable things we are wasting our lives, since what cannot be cured should be endured and if done so with patience will deaden the sting of adversity. Worrying, like any other habit, can be cured. It must be accomplished by controlling th mind. Keep the mind busy with good and useful things, keep occupied with wider interests and you will have no time for worry. Gradually you will become accustomed to looking the world through brighter glasses and you and your fellow men will be the happier for it.

EUROPEAN INTRIGUE

According to official advices received by President Coolidge and the State Department there is little that is encouraging to the peace of Europe. Far from being the world-wide agency for peace which its advocates have pictured, the League of Nations is represented in these official advices as an agency which politicians are using to take care of their own particular questions. European skullduggery has been so interwoven into the fabric of the League that it now seems impossible to meet the desire of the people for world peace. Predicated upon the presumption and promise that Germany would be admitted to the League, together with certain other similar bargains made to Poland, Spain and Brazil, the much heralded "Spirit of Locarno" is a dead letter, and even though some new agreement may be entered into the force of such a treaty, based on bargains, is practically destroyed. The idea of the League's founders was to confine the permanent seats in the Council to those powers whose armies and navies would have to bear the brunt of actual responsibility for supporting the League's decisions. That is the principal reason for wanting America in the League. But today the plan is regarded as a point of adventure for the furtherance of national aims. The cause of this failure cannot be placed on any one man or one nation. Many men have had a part in it, and from present indications the old system of balance-of-power, alliances, backstairs intrigue, will again be in full force—if, indeed, it has ever been abolished. Between now and September, when the League again assembles, the map of Europe may be materially changed. At least armies, navies, air forces and war preparation will be rushed with feverish intensity and the proposed reduction of arms conference is looked upon only as a friendly gesture from Uncle Sam, but utterly impracticable.

THE RAILROAD BILL

The Watson-Parker railroad bill, which has been passed by the House, is criticized by the National Association of Manufactureres and other interests on the score that the public interest is not recognized. The pending bill would abolish the Railroad labor board, in which the public has one-third representation. It makes no definite provision against strikes or lockouts while a dispute is under investigation. It abandons the present policy of control over wage agreements. It gives to arbitration boards to be set up by the men and management—from which the public is excluded—court powers to compel testimony, but it denies that power to the board to be set up by the President when acting for all the people. Formerly railroad executives held that this was a vital safe-guard to the public and to the roads because it offered them protection against excessive demands on the part of the employees.

Mexico might as well let her constitution lie dormant as to amend it to death just to please a few foreign oil producers.

'TIS A FINE OLD WORLD

While this is really a fine old world with never an abiding skeleton at the feast unless of our own creation, there is much to discourage—much that to the hopelessly sullen and morbidly fearful suggests the eternal round and holds out promise only of the dance of death. It might have been once true that failure is vastly more frequent than success, but it is not true today. Material success is far more widespred than ever before in human history—commercial, social and scientific. But there is still another and greater success that has come to us with ever increasing values as the years pass—the successful inculcation and practical application of knowledge that life is well worth living—that to love and do are the twin functions of body and soul and the inspiration of all human impulse. We are learning to rightly interpret and obey the divine mandate—to not only preach but practice human helpfulness, for others and as concerns ourselves. We are learning that this is your day and mine and the only opportunity we will have to play that part, and that life means action, not slothful complaint—love, not cynicism. There is still the rythm of song in the human soul—still the mind attuned to the sweetest and noblest sentiment and purpose. We have buried doubt—it is no longer to whine, but to do. And this we know: Happiness is the master-quest of mankind—for us to seek in such a manner as to help ourselves without injury to others. And tis a healthful, wholesome and spiritually helpful and courageous philosophy.

AMERICA'S SHAME

There are in the United States more than 5,500,000 illiterate men and women unable to read and write in any language. Don't think that these illiterates are all negroes or foreigners who come from countries having a high percentage of illiteracy. There are a great many white persons, born and raised under the protection of the Stars and Stripes, who are totally unable to read or write. Hon. Franklin K. Lane, formerly Secretary of the Interior, is authority for the statement that our drafted army contained 700,000 illiterates. The Children's Bureau reports that 5,294 of the 19,546 children between 14 and 16 years of age to whom Federal age certificates were issued during the life of the former child-labor law, could not sign their own names legibly. Ninety-cent of the colored children granted certificates to work in five states, had not reached the eighth grade in school. In a country that spent fifteen thousand dollars in a year of war to obtain justice and freedom for the peoples of Europe, such a condition is not only tragic—it is shameful. Conditions will never get much better unless the whole nation awakens to the peril that is imminent, and takes steps toward the removal of a condition which is our shame.

WE ALL SAY "AMEN".

Congressman Watson, of Pennsylvania, has introduced a bill making it unlawful for any person or company to send through the mails unsolicited parcels of merchandise for the purpose of sale to the addressees, and forbidding the postal service from aiding or assisting in investigating losses that may be sustained by the transmision of money in payment for merchandie not ordered that may be thus sent by mail. The Watson bill is favored not only by every commercial organization and the postoffice department, but will be heartily endorsed by thousands of individuals who have been annoyed by this system of merchandising. It is unfair to reputable business men who have large taxes and rents to pay, and misuses the postoffice department by making it a sales and collecting agency. If the bill does not include tickets for benefit concerts, performances, fairs, etc., it should be so amended, for that system of sandbagging is becoming altogether too popular and annoying.

COLONEL COOLIDGE

The sympathy of the nation goes out to President Coolidge in the death of his father, Col. John C. Coolidge. The nation honors Colonel Coolidge as the father of the President, and it also honors him as a fine type of man—as an examplar of the old abiding virtues. It honors him for his simple and solid worth. Colonel Coolidge came of the stock that founded New England, that blazed trails and conquered the wilderness. He was typical of that hardy race of pioneers who have left an indelible impress upon our social and political institutions.

American observers at Geneva all agree that Europe as a whole has but little use for America except when needed as a financial "angel." They look upon our peace programs with about the same degree of interest that Henry Ford's peace ship received.

Little Avalanches

The funniest joke ever told is generally your own.

The outside of a human being is a very poor index to the mind and heart inside.

War histories tell everything except how some desk men got their decorations for bravery.

Statistics showing that the number of men involved in motor accidents greatly exceeds the number of women, indicates that the hand that rocks the cradle is quite competent at the steering wheel.

If we could reverse the rule of life, beginning with old age, and progressing gradually to careless childhood, some of us might realize our dreams of heaven. But we cannot live backwards—neither can we live in the past. Individuals, states and nations must keep pace with the procession of progress or get busy with their tombstone epitaphs.

Over Sunday Tourists

SO THINK WE

We think we might give that Mineral Wells boy an A grade on the definition of a lie. It is reported that his Sunday School teacher asked him to define it and he said: "A lie is an abomination of the Lord and an ever present help in the time of trouble."

We think now that since they have the automobile down to such a fine point that they should make 'em self-washers.

We think that Texas is possibly trying to mend her ways—she is repairing her highways.

We think Mexico should not run the preachers out. From the way the Mission boards are crying for money it will only be a very short time till the missionaries will all have to be called back anyway, and that will include the ministers in Mexico.

We think that if the average June Bride would figure that the dishes must be washed about a thousand times a year, after she gets married, before the engagement is launched that possibly would tend to decrease the divorces.

We think it mighty strange to us—knowing as much as we do about music that a fellow can like harmony and appreciate jazz music.

We think if we have the correct dope on the situation, every farmer in the United States is going to reduce the cotton acreage but one and no farmer has agreed to be that one yet.

We think that some times congress is bound to wish the people would get it out of their system that congress can cure the farmer's ails.

We think that the telling what is wrong with some of our colleges and Universities is very easy, but the majority of opinions seem to land in the stadiums, while we differ with the majority and think it is in the heads of the heads of the heads.

We think that woman who is touring the United States from coast to coast to prove that women should go to congress is probably proving one thing—that they can be spared from home.

We think the guy that said that poverty was the spur that urged us on to success was right about it being a spur. So far as the success is concerned, or how far it gets us we judge depends upon how hard we are spurred.

We think the mail carriers have an easy job, just walk around a little and draw their pay.

We think when a fellow says that he is not envious, he usually proves to everyone who is listening that he really is.

We think it is possibly fortunate that there are millions of people who do not even attract attention.

We think that when a fellow really has a lot of authority that you will hardly detect it, but if he is only vested with a small amount of it, you can easily detect it.

IT IS REPORTED

That old Battle Axe has been having quite a time figuring up just what year that it was as cold as it was yesterday, and whether it killed all the fruit and gardens that year. It must have been a rather difficult task for there is much evidence of a great amount of grinding having been done as there was an unusual amount of ambeer on the side walks yesterday afternoon.

* * *

That the cleanup campaign is going to be thorough. We hope our informants know where of they speak.

* * *

That a number of people have reported the loss of water hose from their yeards during the past week. This is about the time that the hose usually takes to walking off, and it would be a good idea to not leave the hose where it is too handy to the general public.

* * *

It is reported that after all the hunting dog is more intelligent than the hunter. We have never known one to mistake a pair of corduroy pants for a deer but we have heard of several hunters pulling that stunt.

* * *

It is reported that all of the pretty whitewash on the trees around Lubbock was washed off by the rain and snow Saturday by the rain and snow, but it was worth the difference.

* * *

It is reported that the French government is considering the installation of sub-cellars in their treasury to take care of the francs, they are going so low.

* * *

That by the middle of the week the first gas well for Lubbock will be spudded in.

Indignant Waiter—Well, pick out the ones you don't like and I will kill them for you.

A Request

Pacific Gasoline Booster: The small boy's head bobbed over the garden wall and a meek little voice asked, "Please, Miss Brown, may I have my arrow?"

"Yes, dear, certainly," the next door neighbor answered, "Where did it fall?"

"I think," was the reply, "it's stuck in your cat."

Clear Out

Pitt Panther: "Were you bashful the first time you called on a girl?"

"Why, yes, but her father helped me out."

Old Stuff

"Aren't you nearly ready, dear?"

"I wish you wouldn't keep asking that question, Clarence. I've been telling you for the last hour that I'll be ready in a minute."—Judge.

The Height of Incompatibility

"But why couldn't you and Fred get along together?"

"We had nothing in common to quarrel about."—Life.

A Little Talk on Thrift

By S. W. STRAUS, President American Society for Thrift

Western newspapers recently told of the death of an Ohio farmer, in settling up his estate it was found that $2,000 had been deposited in a bank and $80,000 had been secreted in cas hin fruit cans about his home.

The incident is not unusual. Almost daily we read of cases where considerable sums of money have been hoarded. In fact, government statisticians estimate that something like $400,000,000 is lying idle in this country continually as a result of this hoarding habit upon the part of thousands of our citizens.

While it is difficult to say anything against saving money, there is little or nothing to choose between the spendthrift and the miser. Each illustrates the need of thrift education.

It is not hard as a rule to earn money in this country. Any person with a reasonable aount of industry and a reasonable amount of intelligence can earn a good livelihood. But the hard task is in saving anything out of our earnings.

It recently was estimated that the people of this country are today losing considerably more than one billion dollars a year through frauds of various kinds. A large part of these frauds are posible because those wh oare victimized have never given thorough study to problems of personal finance, which is nothing more or less than thrift.

It does not pay to put our money away in tin cans where it is of no use to us or to our families or to society. Neither does money which slips through our fingers through fraudulent investments or useless extravagance do us any good.

There is a great deal to be learned in correct spending. It is a mistaken idea that the man who merely saves is necessarily thrift. The thrifty man is he who saves his money and puts it into good use.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE SNOW MAN

When a little miss of three,
Full of life as she can be,
Wants to go and make a snow man
Underneath the maple tree,
And she begs of you to come
Where the cold will freeze you numb,
Just to please that little lady
Do you risk an ear or thumb?

Now I'm certain I'm too old
To go fooling in the cold,
But she wouldn't understand it
If the simple truth I told,
So as brave as I could be
I agreed to go and see
If a snow man could be builded
Nnderneath the maple tree.

Chattered teeth and rattled knees,
And I thought my feet would freeze.
But the happy little lady
Laughed as gayly as you please,
And we rolled the ball of snow
Just as high as it would go,
But the pain I was enduring
Was a thing she couldn't know.

Now I'm lying in my bed
And I scarce can raise my head,
And the mother sits and tells me
It's a wonder I'm not dead,
But the little miss of three,
Just as proudly as can be
Shows to all our lovely snow man
Underneath the maple tree.

ABERNATHY INTER-CITY AND COUNTY TRACK AND FIELD MEET TO BE HELD FRIDAY AND SATURDAY 2ND AND 3RD

ABERNATHY, March 27.—The third annual inter-city and county track meet which is known to high schools of the South Plains and Panhandle for the past two years will be held in Abernathy April 2 and 3, which is next Friday and Saturday. More than twenty-five schools are expected to take part in this meet including high schools of Plainview, Amarillo, Lubbock, Floydada, Lockney and Littlefield. Rural schools of the South Plains counties and the panhandle counties will be here for the meet it is thought.

For the past two years much interest has been shown in the meet in the class A division; last year the meet was won by the Amarillo Golden Sandstormers over the Lubbock Westerners with a small margin; the year before that the meet was won by the Lubbock Westerners over Amarillo club with but a small margin. Both Amarillo and Lubbock are expected to bring strong forces here for the meet together with strong cinder path clubs of Plainview, Tulia, Floydada, Lockney and other schools.

A good program has been arranged by Supt. L. P. Shaw of the Abernathy high school and is as follows: All rural school events will be scheduled for Friday afternoon, April 2. Class A schools and class B schools will enter into the meet Saturday morning beginning at 8 o'clock.

The meet is open to any high school or rural school in the South Plains and panhandle. Lakeview school is at the present time holder of the rural school cup. The Lorenzo school holds the class B cup and the Petersburg school holds the sweepstake cup.

The management of the meet desires that all schools that take part in the contests held on these dates will file with Supt. L. P. Shaw their entrance so that the necessary arrangements of the meet may be made before hand. The meet has grown to be one of the best in this section of the country and has forced the management to have two days instead of one.

STOCK AGREES TO SIGN WITH ROBINS

By United Press

WAYCROSS, Pa., March 27.—Milton Stock, veteran infielder for the Brooklyn Robins who has been holding out, has accepted terms and will report to the club tomorrow at Montgomery, Wilbert Robinson, president manager of the club announced today. The terms of the agreement were not made known. Robinson said he would start Stock at second base and use Rabbit Maranville at shortstop.

Tech Cinder Pathmen Find April Busy

The Texas Tech cinder path lads will have a full month of contest on hand when the new month begins on Thursday of next week. Already the Matadors have entered into the fat stock show track and field meet which was held in Fort Worth the first of this month. Friday the team participated in the annual Texas relay games which were held in the capital city, Austin.

Coach Freeland is working on a contract whereby the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets will invade the bull fighters' track on April 3. This contract is still in the hands of the Howard Payne Yellow Jackets and will likely be returned before the first of the month according to Coach Freeland.

On April 10 the West Texas State Teachers College Buffaloes of Canyon will be here. The Buffaloes for a number of years have had one of the best cinder path organizations in west Texas and have carried many honors from the T. I. A. A. conference meets. Several of the records of the T. I. A. A. are held by former members of the Buffalo aggregation.

The great plains track meet event that is held annually in Canyon, under the supervision of the athletic department of the W. T. S. T. C. will be the first trip for the Matadors to make in April. This meet gathers colleges and universities of eastern New Mexico, southern Oklahoma and schools of the panhandle and western Texas. The matadors will likely make this an annual affair.

The Simmons University Cowboys will meet with the Matadors in the last contested meet that will be participated in by the Texas Tech. The Cowboys will no doubt show stiff competition with the Matadors here.

CASS HIGH WINS TITLE

EVANSTON, Ills., March 27.—The slender lads representing Cass high school of Detroit today won the fourteenth annual national interscholastic indoor track meet here by scoring 14 points.

Dempsey Broke all Speed Records, Say Speed Cops

By United Press

FRESNO, Calif., March 27.—Jack Dempsey, facing a charge of reckless driving in Madera has the distinction of establishing a new San Joaquin valley speed record, according to deputy sheriffs here. "Dempsey was going more than 80 miles an hour," said a county officer Friday night. "He was going faster than any other motorist ever arrested in the valley."

It was said here that Robert Gates the champion's chauffeur, commented after the arrest that he would have gotten away if he had known a traffic officer was in the automobile following him.

Bleachers For Tech Baseball To Be Erected

The Athletic department of the Texas Tech are making arrangements to use the Knock down bleachers that were used on the gridiron last fall at the South Plains Fair grounds at the athletic field on the college campus. These bleachers will be erected in time for the first game of the season in baseball which will be against the West Texas Teachers College of Canyon on April 5th.

For the past few months, since the basket ball season, men have been employed in shaping the grounds in shape to be used permanently by the athletic department. A good field has been made for the baseball games and the diamond presents a fast playing field.

Prices for the games at the Tech field have not been arranged but Coach Freeland stated that a fair and moderant price will be affixed so that the people of Lubbock will be able to attend the games and have the assurance of good clean sports.

The seating capacity of the Texas Tech bleachers is estimated at 2200. Also bleachers are being constructed to care for the crowds that will witness the match track contests.

RAIN GREETS HELEN WILLS IN IMPERIAL ROME

By United Press

ROME, March 27.—Miss Helen Wills, American tennis champion, arrived here today and was greeted by a heavy rainfall, which caused a postponement of her first exhibition match at the field local club until tomorrow.

The American girl, who came to Italy to continue her art studies and to exhibit her tennis at special request of Premier Mussolini, said she welcomed the day of inactivity.

Quarter Million Offered For Pony

NEW YORK, March 27.—A quarter of a million dollars, the highest price ever offered for a 3 year old horse, was bid today by Colonel Phil T. Chinn, master of the Hyman stud at Lexington, Ky., for Carlaris, strong favorite in tomorrow's Cofforth handicap race at Tia Juana, according to a telegram from Colonel Chinn to the daily New York "Running Horse." Colonel Chinn is acting for a promient New York turfman and breeder, it was said.

The offer was made to W. T. Anderson, present owner of the horse.

Colonel Chinn sold Carlaris as a yearling in Saratoga, N. Y., to Anderson for $6,500.

MATADORS OPEN BASEBALL SEASON IN MEETING TEACHERS COLLEGE NINE ON LOCAL DIAMOND ON 5TH

"This kind of weather makes it hard on the youngsters trying to workout and if it continues it will be hard for the youngsters to put much stuff on the apple; should they put any on it they will not be good for the rest of the season" stated the coach of the baseball for the Tech Matadors, E. Y. Freeland. At the present time the pitchers seem to quite bothersome to "Big Un."

This does not mean however that he does not have plenty of good stuff but that the wintry weather and such weather that has been visiting the vicinity of the Matadors training camp has hindered the pitchers in their work. Four promising men are showing good work on the mound and it is thought that in White Hill, Wright and Cravens will give the Matadors a nice pitching staff. Both White and Hill are right handers and the latter two are south paws.

Thursday afternoon an unusual occassion was afforded to the prospective material that will compose the nine for the Tech in the issuance of the new uniforms, which were furnished by a local firm, the Myrick Hardware Company. The body of the new uniforms are made up of a mottled blue and gray which carries out the established color scheme together with a scarlet "T E C H" down the front of the shirt. The caps for the team has a black crown with a red bill and the sox are of the same makeup as was used during the basketball and football season. In fact the uniforms show up in each detail the permanent color scheme that has been adopted.

Eligibility Worried "Big Un"

The eligibility of the entire club at the present time gives to the mentor of the baseball of the Tech some cause to worry. However, the personnel of the infield is not at all questionable as to being an equal to some of the best college nines in West Texas with Guy Haden a former Amarillo Golden Sandstormer and voted as the best all round first baseman of the Denver Post Tourney last fall; and "Little Topper" Rigney on the second sack; "Windy" Nichlaus on third and "Red" Hamilton at the short field assures Coach "Big Un" a fast combination and one that will be hard to beat. With the remaining days on hand before the opening game is scheduled hard workouts will be thrown upon the candidates.

Outfielders are the lads that seem to be more questionable as to their scholastic standing with the records of the college but it is hoped that some means may be taken so that they will be able to compete in the collegiate games. Five of the garden candidates are showing up well among whom are: Bob Hayhurst, Hardwick, Marshall, Scott and Blackburn.

First Game With Buffaloes

The first game, that will be played by the Matadors will be versus "Gig Os" Eckhart's Buffaloes of Canyon. The Buffaloes have had some longer workout period than have the Matadors beginning a few weeks before the basket ball season had closed. The date for the opening game has been scheduled for April 5th and the second game on the 6th.

Bleachers To Be Used

The "knock down" bleachers that were used during the gridiorn time last fall will be used on the athletic field at the Texas Tech for the fans that will attend the games. The bleachers will be erected within a few days.

Tech Uniforms Furnished By Myrick Hardware

The new Tech baseball uniforms which were issued to the prospective members of the Tech aggregation are a product of the popular line of sporting goods, the Rawlings line. These uniforms were handled thru a local concern who for the past few months have been furnishing a large amount of the sporting goods for the south plains high schools, the Myrick Hardware Co.

For some time the Myrick Hardware sporting goods dpartment has seen a fast growth due to the fact that they now have employed one man that takes care of this department together with traveling from the south plains cities and soliciting their business.

Several of the high schools over the south plains have ordered their uniforms from Myrick's sporting sporting goods department and are elated over the goods.

The uniforms furnished to the Tech club are of a mottled blue and grey with a scarlet lettering "Tech" down the front of the shirt. Caps have a black crown with a scarlet bill; sox are of the same color and style as used in the football and basket ball seasons.

ILLINI COP SLOW MEET AT RICE INSTITUTE

HOUSTON, Texas, March 27—Illinois copped the classy features in the Rice Institute relays here today.

Her team won three relay events and Werner grabbed the 220 yard hurdles. Ohio Wesleyan's team won the medley and mile, but failed to produce in their much touted stars in the other events.

The track events were slow due to heavy rain sduring the week, but fairly good time was made in all cinder contests.

About 2,000 persons turned out to watch the 500 athletes from universities and colleges from all over the country.

Adrain Paulen, crack middle distance man of Holland, won in a dual race with McLean of Georgetown. It was a special 440-yard dash. Paulen's time was 49 3-5 seconds.

Potts of Oklahoma knocked the southwestern relays pole vault record into a cocked hat when he cleared the bar at 12 feet six inches. He bettered his own record record by three inches.

Brownsville high school star, Celaya, broke the state high school shot put record with a 49 foot and 2 1-2 inch heave.

ORGANIZATION OF AMATEUR CLUBS IN BASEBALL ON THE SOUTH PLAINS AND PANHANDLE IS BEING SOUGHT

Dr. Corbon, a promoter of baseball among the amateur clubs of the South Plains and Panhandle, and a resident of Post, Texas, where he is manager of the Post baseball club, was in Lubbock and had a long conference with Skipper Allen of this city. Dr. Corbon has done much for the grand old American game in the Post territory and is now attempting to put over a proposition whereby to organize the amateur clubs of this section into some sort of an association.

This association would be organized for this reason: That should one city get a fair ball player to come and work with that town for a certain salary that it would be not permissible for some other club to get this player with a higher salary. In other words, should Sled Allen get a fair ball player and train him to become a sensation of the game it would be unfair for Amarillo to offer him a higher salary than he is already getting from Sled. This would give to the plains and panhandle a better established game in the way that Dr. Corbon looks at it.

Colonel Mullican has likewise suggested a similar idea and thinks that it would be the proper thing in order to create more interest in base ball and to also have a tendency to promote higher class of ball playing on the South Plains. It would only be a gentleman's word for "laying off of the other man's team."

A meeting will be held in Colonel Mullican's office at the county court house Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at which the matter of an organization of amateur clubs will be discussed. Local fans will attend together with Sled Allen and Dr. Corbon of Post.

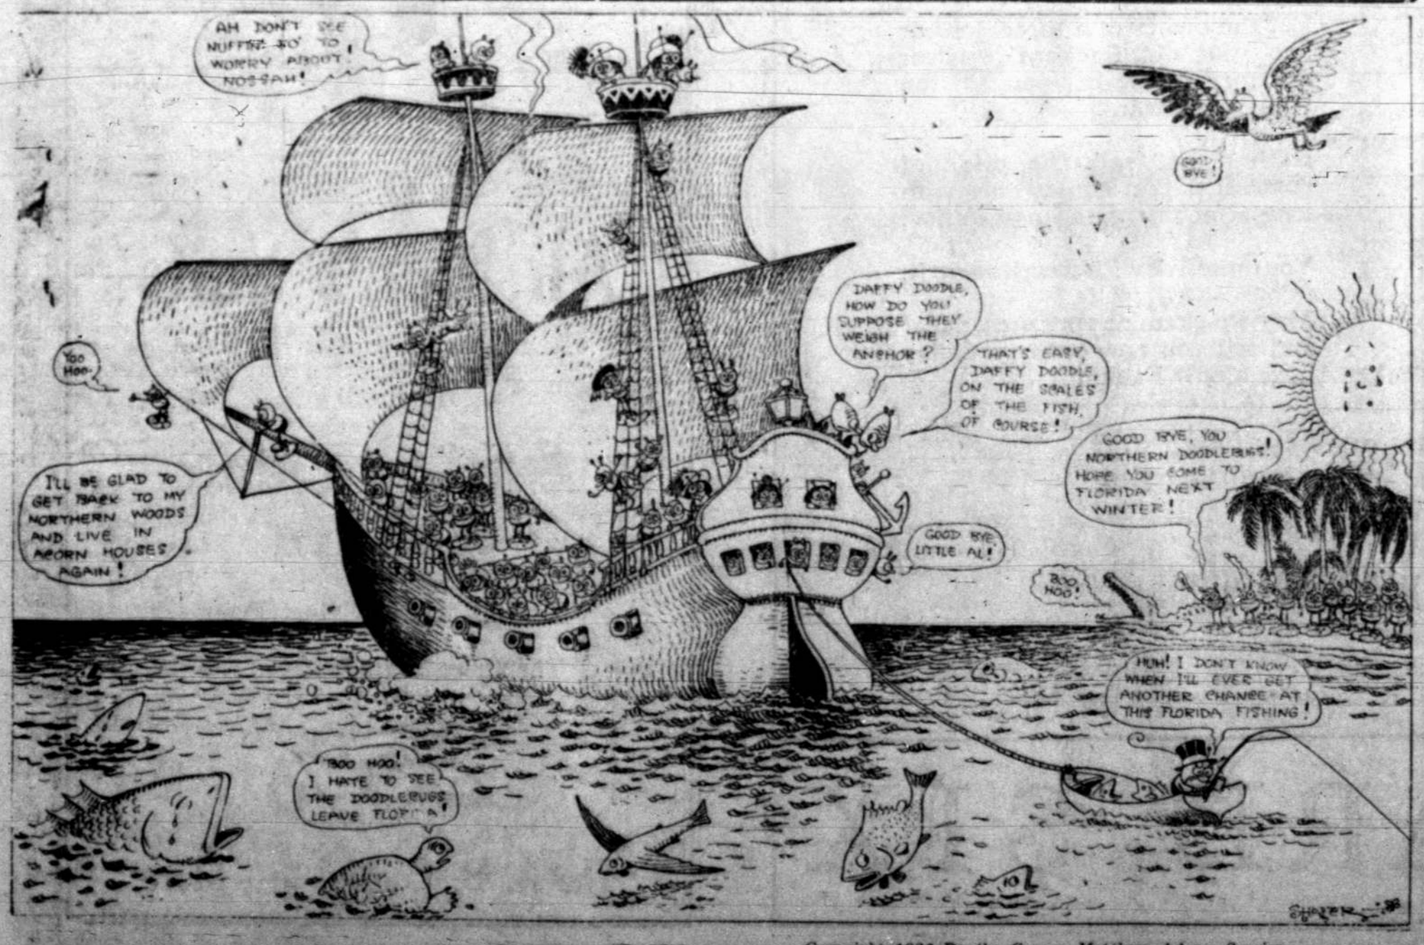

SENATORS 7, GIANTS 2

TAMPA, Fla., March 27.—The Washington Senators went on a slugging rampage here today in the first two innings and piled up seven runs against the New York Giants. They won, 7 to 2.

Walter Johnson pitched the first three innings and was hit hard. Ferguson who relieved him, fared little better. Barnes, who started for the Giants, was pounded unmercifully. Wanert and Thomas followed him.

The Giants scored a run in the first and seventh innings.

Cambridge Wins In Annual Boat Race On Thames River

LONDON, March 27.—Crowds of university students and friends invaded the west end of London tonight to celebrate the 78th boat race between Oxford and Cambridge, which Cambridge won today. Nearly 1,000,000 persons watched the race. The score between thetwo schools is now 27 races for Cambridge and 50 for Oxford and one draw. Cambridge won in 19 minutes, 29 seconds, one minute slower than the record established by an Oxford crew in 1911, when it covered the 4 1-4 miles from Putney to Mortlake in 18 minutes, 29 seconds.

Weather conditions were ideal today.

Hotels, theaters and smart restaurants were the scenes of parties at which Cantabs celebrated victories and Oxonians tried to forget defeat.

Through the streets of the west end students passed from restaurant to theater to night clubs in taxis identified by the blaring of horns and fluttering of streamers.

The boat race is the big inter-collegia tesporting event of Great Britain.

Hundreds of thousands of persons were on the banks of the Thames when the crews pulled away at 12:26 p. m. The shells passed and re-passed each other during the first three miles. Then Cambridge established a lead and gradually increased it to the finish line where the Cantab shell won by five lengths.

The Cambridge crew finished fresh but five Oxford oarsmen seemed on the point of collapse as they pulled across the finish line.

MILLER HUGGINS TALKS CONFIDENTLY.

WAYCROSS, Ga., March 27.—"Our club will be up there, that's all I have to say," Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees said here today. "The American league pennant race will be tight as all the contenders but Cleveland and Boston are stronger than last year. I don't see any club that is much stronger than ours. Pitching always counts in the long run and I think we have the pitching."

PADDOCK COMES BACK TO TIE OWN WORLD RECORD

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif. March 27.—Charlie Paddock, fleet sprinter of the cinder path "came back" this afternoon.

With only a week's training behind him, the world's "fastest human," proved that he has lost none of his speed when he tied his own world record of 9 3-5 seconds in the 100 yard dash in the Stanford-Los Angeles Athletic club meet here.

Plainview Team Confident Of District Flag

PLAINVIEW, March 27.—"Ducky" has his team out working overtime after the battle with Littlefield, and he and his men are confidenct of winning the District Championship, but everyone else thinks they have the West Texas Championship, if not State Champions playing this year.

The team showed a marked improvement at Littlefield Tuesday, over the game they played with Wayland. And by the time of the next game Allen expects to put a well balanced nine on the field, One or two weak places in the outfield cropped out in the game, but the "Skipper" expects to remedy that this week by changing up a little. One change he is contemplating is changing infielder Pearce to the outfield where he is performing wonderfully.

"Spec" Boswell is back in his old time stride, and hitting the old apple at a lively clip. He is closely seconded by McGowan the stellar Keystone guardian, and McDonald, a player unearthed this year. Each of the above players collected two hits each in the game Tuesday.

"Rosy" DeJarnett and Craig are doing their stuff on the mound and both performed creditably against Littlefield, striking out 5 each and issuing only one pass. McDonald may be used in the outfield instead of pitching if he keeps up his hitting.

With no one on the injured list and another game in view probably with Wayland, the latter part of this week everyone is feeling fine.

LOOK FOR SUZANNE ON AMERICAN COURTS

BY HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, March 27.—Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, queen of the European tennis courts and claimant of the world's championship, is expected to play on American courts this summer, following out definite plans that have been started by officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

There is no definite assurance that the French tennis federation will accept the invitation of the American officials to send a team to the United States or that Mlle. Lenglen would be a member of a team that might be sent to this country, but there are good reasons to believe that France will send a team and that Mlle. Suzanne will be the number one player.

In a cable intreview through the United Press from Paris today, Mlle. Lenglen announced emphatically that she could not be induced to turn professional and visit the United States this summer under the management of C. C. Pyle, manager of Red Grange, but she did not say that she would not come here as an amateur member of an official French team.

Officials of the association who are to meet with the American team in Paris on May 17, will make final arrangements for the proposed team matches here and they will urge that a French team be sent back to the United States with the American team that is to play in the French championships, with Wightman cup matches and the British championships at Wimbledon.

Miss Wills and Mlle. Lenglen may meet in the French-American team matches in Paris or in the French national championships and they are almost certain to meet in the Wimbledon tournament.

If Mlle. Lenglen should happen to beat the American champion the next time they meet, officials here feel certain that Mlle. Lenglen will come to the United Stats this summer and even if the California should defeat her French rival they are of the opinion that Mlle. Lenglen could not decline a place on a French invading team.

Five Inches of Snow Stops Athletics

LOCKNEY, March 27—The literary events of the Floyd County Interscholastic League were held Friday, on account of a five inch snow falling and soaking the ground the athletic events were postponed until Saturday April 10th.

In Fridays events Lockney students carried away the laurels by wining seven cups, its nearest competitor Floydada with four. In senior debating Floydada won both the girls and boys event. Senior declamation was won by Aline Davis of Lockney and Gid Waller also of Lockney.

Junior declamation Estelle Byaers of Lockney, wone in the class for girls, and Jesse Cooper of Prairie Chapel in boys class. The music memory contest was won by the Lockeny team, and the arithmetic contest by Floydada.

Floydada won in senior and Junior spelling, and Lockney in sub-junior In essay writing two Lockney sisters were winners, Mary Collier, winning the senior and Gertrule the junior.

A large crowd was present considering the weather many coming from all parts of the county with five inches of snow and mud covering the ground.

Interscholastic League Program Being Arranged

The offices of the athletic director of the Texas Tech are busily engaged making preparations for the annual track and field meet of the Lubbock district in the Texas Interscholastic league whic hwill be held under the supervision of the athletic director of Tech College April 24.

One of the greatest meets in the history of the meet is expected by Coach Freeland who is striving to entertain the high school teams that come here for the annual meet.

The conductor of the entire meet, A. W. Evans, is now getting the entire program perfected and all preliminary arrangements are now being made.

DOREN AND CALORIS FAVORED IN BETTING AT TEA JUANA TRACKS

By United Press

TIA JUANA, Mexico, March 27—Princess Doreen and Carlasis, two of America's greatest thoroughbreds were heavy favorites tonight on the eve of the annual running of the Coffroth handicap, richest of stakes for horses of all ages.

Carlaris, the "wonder colt" of turfdom, was an even money favorite, with Princess Doreen second choice at 2 to 1.

Carlaris will have the advantage of a lightning fast track, the weather forecast reading "fair and warm" The colt is at his best on a dry turf, as proved last Sunday when he ran the mile and a furlong in 1:49 2-5.

Princess Doreen, great money winning mare will have Earl Sande, ace of riders, on her back when she goes to the post. Many fans are counting on this famous jockey to drive the princess to victory in tomorrow's event, with its rich prize of $75,000 to the winner.

The field of starters has been reduced to fourteen. Flagstaff, All Over, Sunstar and Sunspere all well known turf equinines were all withdrawn at the eleventh hour.

Even money was wagered tonight that the local record of 2:04 1-5 for the mile and a quarter distance would be changed in tomorrow's running.

Carlaris will be ridden by Willie Munden, America's best jockey for 1926.

McGRAW SAYS HE EXPECTS PENNANT

TAMPA, Fla., March 27.—With the greatest defensive team and the best pitching staff he has ever owned, John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, made an unofficial claim for the National league pennant here today.

"The Pirates, Cards, Reds and the Giants will be in the race but only injuries can stop us," McGraw said. Kelly will be kept at first base and Lindstrom will play third base, McGraw said.

Dress sleeves as wide as the hem of a frock requiring as much material as a skirt have appeared in England.

The Price of the Packard Six

Ask the man who owns one of a distinguished family

Considering its beauty, its comfort and its distinction, the Packard Six is not high in price.

For example, the five-passenger Sedan costs but $_____ delivered at your door with all necessary accessories, freight and tax paid.

The accessories include, in addition to those usually furnished, front and rear bumpers, automatic windshield cleaner, rear view mirror, electric cigar lighter and spare tire and tube and cover.

Many prefer to buy on the payment plan, knowing it is much better to buy a long life car that way than a short life car for cash.

Under our plan you may have a new Packard Six five-passenger Sedan for $_____ down and $_____ a month.

If your present car has a market value, we will buy it from you and apply its price on the down payment on the new car.

Quite likely you would not have to write a check for more than one or two hundred dollars to have a new car—a Packard Six—at once.

Those who buy Packard cars this year, either for cash or on the payment plan, will not have to buy again for years to come.

Packard has offered no yearly models for more than ten years and has preserved the traditional beauty of Packard lines.

Packard cars are improved from time to time as occasion warrants. Progress could not be made otherwise.

But the owner of a three, four or five year old Packard is never ashamed in the company of the latest purchaser.

Rather, he feels the pride of possession that comes only with long attachment and association.

You must live with a car to love it.

May we examine your present car and tell you how easily you may have a new Packard?

Packard cars are now being sold on the basis of the new tax rate

The Town That Was, Was Not—and Is!

THIS is a story of a town that was, was not and is. For many years it was. In two minutes it ceased to exist. Now, a year later, it is.

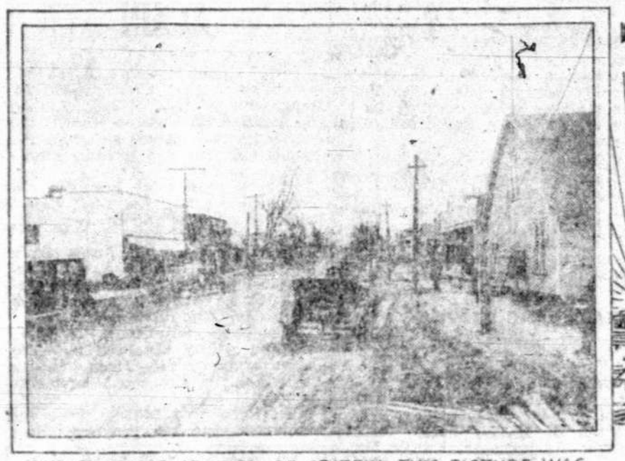

Its founders were descendants of frontiersmen—romantic and colorful figures who conquered the great empire that lies west of the Appalachians. Their intrepid spirit and tenacity in the face of great odds is reflected in their sons whom this story concerns.

Away down in southern Indiana where the Wabash tumbles through dark forests towards its confluence with the Ohio, lies the little town of Griffin. Ringed by low hills, its lonely isolation gives it the appearance of being on the frontier. An antique engine, reminiscent of Civil War woodcuts, puffs down the branch spur of railroad to bring in the town's daily passenger train.

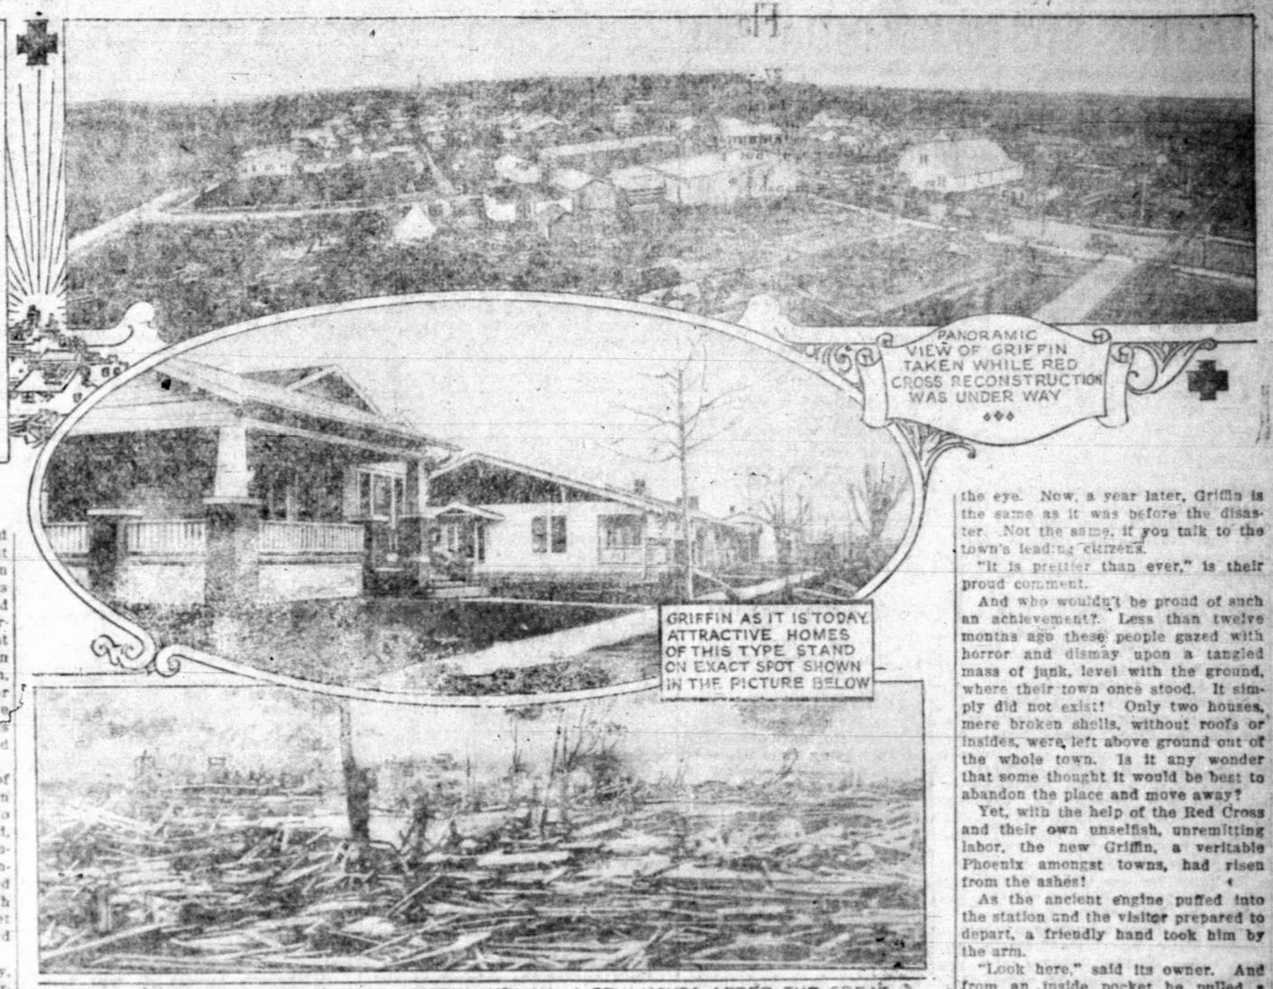

Here, on March 18, 1925, the townspeople went about their unruffled life with no thought of the epic tragedy that was forming to strike. Even had they known its inception, its relentlessness would have left them incredulous. What concerns had they with a disturbance in the atmosphere more than 2,000 miles away, far down in the Gulf of Lower California? Yet Nature's Four Horsemen even then were preparing to leap to the saddle and with incredible speed to cover the distance to this little Indiana village.

Meteorologists say that it was along the west coast of Mexico that the greatest tornado in the history of mankind started. For 2,000 miles it traveled, leaping high over the great hurdle of the Rockies until in southeastern Missouri, it suddenly came to earth. The man-made world then began to fly apart in all directions. Spinning along at the rate of a limited train, the gigantic twister took only two hours to reach Griffin. It passed in less than two minutes. And Griffin ceased to exist.

During the World War newspapers were constantly publishing pictures showing the utter destruction of French towns caused by the terrific pounding of the greatest artillery concentrations ever known. Had all the guns in that great conflict been turned on Griffin they could not have done more damage. It looked like a place that had been blown up and abandoned. Fire added its terrors to light a scene of ruin and death about as complete as was ever witnessed in this country. It is probably the only recorded instance where every man, woman and child in a town were either killed or injured. Scores never emerged alive from under the blackened, twisted mass of burning debris. Those who did were stunned by the picture before them. But only for a few moments. With indomitable courage they went about helping pull each other out of the flaming ruins. Men with broken arms and other serious injuries were seen trying to drag pinioned neighbors from under the wreckage. One father had the ghastly experience of seeing his son burned to death under a pile of timbers too heavy to move. When the fire came close the two simply shook hands and said good-bye.

Deeds of striking heroism illumined the stark tragedy while word of the catastrophe was seeping through to the outside world. Workers of the Evansville Chapter of the Red Cross, 30 miles away, were just sitting down to a formal dinner when an excited bell-boy ran into the hotel dining room shouting, "There is a terrible disaster in Griffin. They want doctors, nurses and bedding at once." Leaving their dinner untouched, the workers dashed in an automobile for a firehouse where their disaster relief equipment was stored.

A special train was quickly made up and aboard it went hundreds of volunteers with picks, axes and lanterns. This corps of rescuers had been assembled in a novel way. Miss Grace Wright, secretary of the Evansville Chapter of the Red Cross, had visited every large motion picture theatre in the city, described the extent of the disaster and called for volunteers. Dozens left their seats in the theatres and departed for the station.

The quaint old town of New Harmony, six miles from Griffin, had a large gymnasium, which was converted into a first-aid station, where doctors and nurses from Evansville and surrounding towns worked all night treating the injured. Every doctor in Evansville had offered his services free. Eight city ambulances plied back and forth, and 92 victims suffering from serious injuries were brought from Griffin. Special care was given the children of the destroyed town, and to get them away from the horror of the tornado scenes many were brought to Evansville in motor buses for a round of the picture shows and other entertainments.

After all the emergency needs of the population of Griffin had been cared for to the extent that no tornado victim suffered from lack of food, clothing, shelter and medical attention, the permanent process of reconstruction began. The American Red Cross, which had been entrusted with this task by the state of Indiana, set up headquarters, manned by trained disaster relief workers.

A tent city, healthful and orderly, with gravel walks, canteen and supervised water supply, sprang up. It had the efficiency and cleanly appearance of a well-policed army camp. Townspeople who assembled there to live proudly put up a large sign over its gateway, "American Red Cross Tent City." It could be seen for miles.

Then began the miracle of raising a new town from the ashes of the old. On the unit basis of the family the Red Cross began the huge task of reconstructing a community. Its workers "sat in" with each family and ascertained its losses. With this information estimate was made of the family's needs—not only those of the immediate future, but the permanent requirements. Awards were made for rebuilding and refurnishing homes.

Soon Griffin hummed with the "symphony of sawing." With the charred debris and wreckage cleared away, new homes of the attractive and popular bungalow type began to rise. As the spring and summer progressed a new Griffin took form. Stores and shops sprang up like mushrooms; the lofty forms of grain elevators arose along the railroad.

While a new school house was being built by the state, the Red Cross constructed and presented to the town a new community building. The entire population attended the dedication ceremonies. In this building trained workers of the American Junior Red Cross provided entertainments for the children of Griffin. Too long acquainted with scenes recalling the most tragic happenings of their lives, the youngsters responded with enthusiasm to this outlet for their naturally joyous emotions, so long pent up. The Red Cross helped them forget by providing them a place where again they could all play together. Their happiness had its natural reaction in their parents. "Tornado nerves" vanished for good.

As rapidly as new homes were built the population of the tent city began to flow into them. Before the first snowfall the tents had been emptied and were taken down. Streets lined with attractive bungalows began to greet the eye. Now, a year later, Griffin is the same as it was before the disaster. Not the same, if you talk to the town's leading citizens.

"It is prettier than ever," is their proud comment.

And who wouldn't be proud of such an achievement? Less than twelve months ago these people gazed with horror and dismay upon a tangled mass of junk, level with the ground, where their town once stood. It simply did not exist! Only two houses, mere broken shells, without roofs or insides, were left above ground out of the whole town. Is it any wonder that some thought it would be best to abandon the place and move away?

Yet, with the help of the Red Cross and their own unselfish, unremitting labor, the new Griffin, a veritable Phoenix amongst towns, had risen from the ashes!

As the ancient engine puffed into the station and the visitor prepared to depart, a friendly hand took him by the arm.

"Look here," said its owner. And from an inside pocket he pulled a news dispatch, clipped from a paper in a larger Indiana city.

"Estimated Value of Griffin Township Greater Than Before the Tornado," read the headline.

"What do you think of that?" asked the Griffinite proudly.

"Great stuff!" mumbled the visitor, not knowing what else to say right off. But as he rode away he thought: "Here is a people who have built back on the ashes of their sorrow and despair a place where they can live and look fearlessly at the future. For what can the future hold that would daunt them?"

MARY MILES MINTER NAMES WOMAN WHO SLEW TAYLOR, IS REPORT; NOT ACTRESS, SAYS FORMER DALLAS GIRL

BY LINCOLN QUARBERG
United Press Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 27.—The testimony of Mary Miles Minter, former screen star, may lead to indictment of a woman on charges of slaying William Desmond Taylor it was admitted tonight by Chief Deputy District Attorney Charles W. Fricke.

District Attorney Asa Keyes will return here Monday with a statement obtained from Miss Minter in New York, in which she is said to have named the probable murderer—a woman who is not an actress.

This woman, jealous of the admitted love affair between Taylor and Miss Minter, is in Los Angeles and will be sought for questioning then Keyes returns, the district attorney's office intimated.

Her accomplice, according to the Keyes-Minter theory, was Edward F. Sand, the slain man's former valet, who fled the country immediately after the slaying.

Sands was familiar with many of Taylor's love affairs and knew of Miss Minter's visits to the director's apartments, according to this version of the slayer.

He carried tales of the visits and "wild parties" to the "other woman," who wanted to keep Miss Minter away from Taylor, the actress is said to have told Keyes.

Sands and the "other woman" then killed Taylor, the valet fleeing to a foreign country with money received for the "job," Keyes was told.

Miss Minter was born Mary Reilly, daughter of a Dallas, Texas, printer. She was trained as a "movie child" by her mother, Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, in the pioneer days of the picture industry.

As a child actress, Mary was one of the foremost "money makers" in the business. She was nearing stardom when she fell madly in love with Taylor, the "man of mystery."

"I begged him to marry me; I loved him so." Miss Minter confessed to the late Thomas Lee Woolwine, district attorney at the time of the slaying. "He refused because of our ages—said it never could be."

The actress quarreled with her mother shortly after the murder investigation and filed suit for an accounting of her earnings, which she alleged had been appropriated by Mrs. Shelby.

They separated and have never been reconciled. Miss Minter now resides in New York and her mother lives in Hollywood.

The latter's attorney, John C. Mott, told the United Press tonight that his client was in Monroe, La.

He said she would return to Los Angeles next week and gladly grant an interview to Keyes, who declared after questioning Miss Minter in New York that he wanted to have a talk with Mrs. Shelby.

"Mrs. Shelby is as anxious as any one to have the case cleared," said Mott. "She has spent thousands of dollars in an independent search for the slayer in an effort to eliminate her daughter's name from the case."

Miss Minter, it was learned tonight, has often expressed, in unofficial conversations here, the same theory of the crime which she gave to Keyes during his latest visit to New York. Her statement, which the district attorney is bringing back to Los Angeles, is the first official record, however, of the actress' version of the mystery.

FOUND GUILTY IN DENVER BANK CASES

By United Press

DENVER, Colo., March 27.—Frank L. Bishop and his son, Will, were found guilty of all eight counts of misapplication of funds of the defunct Globe National bank here by a jury in federal district court, which returned a verdict shortly after 4 o'clock.

Herman B. Gates, president of the bank, jointly indicted with the Bishops, was found guilty of misapplication of funds on one account only.

The men will not be sentenced until next week, Judge J. Foster Simes announced.

McCoy of Denver Elected to Head Oil Geologists

DALLAS, Texas, March 27—Alex W. McCoy of Denver will head the American Association of Petroleum Geologists during the coming year.

McCoy was elected over John R. Suman of Houston for presidency of the organization in the closing hours of the three day convention here today.

More than 1,500 geologists and delegates attended the confention.

C. R. McCullom of Los Angeles was elected vice president of the organization with Dritz Aurin of Ponca City, Okla., secretary-treasurer. John Rich of Ottawa, Kans., was elected editor.

The four new officers and the retiring president, E. L. Degolyer of New York, will compose the new executive committee of the organization.

This committee will select permanent headquarters for the annual convention some time within the next thirty days.

The Australian National Park was recently devastated by a brush fire.

Irwin Assails Machine Politics In Opening Talk

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, March 27—T. K. Irwin of Dallas launched his campaign for the nomination for attorney general in a speech here this afternoon. He lauded the administration of Attorney General Dan Moody and promised to carry on such work as Moody might leave unfinished, if elected to succeed the present attorney general.

Irwin lambasted what he termed "machine polities" in Texas and particularly assailed the prison management, charging that a machine has control of the Texas penal system.

Tacna-Arica Spat Breaks Out Again In South America

BY LUDWELL DENNY
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The dispute between Peru and Chile over the sovereignty of Tacna-Arica, in which President Coolidge is arbiter, assumed serious proportions today.

Optimism expressed today at the White House and state department over reported agreement of both parties to suspend plebiscite proceedings pending diplomatic negotiations through the United States was shattered by Chile's insistence that plebiscitary registration begin, by Peru's withdrawal from the registration.

In participating in today's registration, General William Lassitter, neutral American commissioner at Arica, is acting on his own judgment and not Washington instructions, according to the state department.

Secretary Kellogg declined to say whether the registration is legal with Peru abstaining. But the departmen tview heretofore has been the plebiscitary proceedings would be ineffectual without both disputants particinating.

Department officials could not explain the contradiction between the White House statemen that Chile and Peru had agreed to diplomatic negotiations including plebiscitary postponements that announced that such suspension wa snot a part of the agreement.

Officials retain some hope, however, that Chile yet may be persuaded to accept President Coolidge's understanding of the agreement. There can be a suspension at any time during the thirty days registration period, it was pointed out.

Posse Captures 5 of Half Dozen Who Break Kansas Jail

COLUMBUS, Kans., March 27—Long hours of labor with a small saw blade on the bars of the jail here went for naught for five of six men who were run down by a large posse and captured a short distance from here.

The prisoners sawed four bars from the bull pen of the county jail, made their way to an outside window and sawed four more bars through.

The men fled in four directions. Three other prisoners refused to participate in the delivery.

BURBANK, ILL, FRETS FOR HIS WORK AGAIN

SANTA ROSA, Calif., March 27.—Despite a heart attack which has confined him to his bed, Luther Burbank, famous plant wizard, tonight worried about his gardens, rather than his own physical condition.

"Doctor, you can't keep me in here; I'm wasting too much time," the aged scientist told Dr. Joseph H. Shaw, his physician.

"Burbank has a lot of new plants in his garden that he is watching. They are growing so fast at this season that he wants to inspect them every day," Dr. Shaw said.

The plant culturist is 77 years old and seldom has been ill. The heart attack which began Friday night was the first one he ever suffered.

Dr. Shaw said he was much encouraged over the progress Burbank made today.

"He can get back in his garden tomorrow or Monday, I believe," the physician said. "Only we'll have to watch him to see that he doesn't over do things."

Conditions Are Favorable to Floyd County Farmers

FLOYDADA, March 27.—With one of the most favorable seasons prevailing in many years, due to the recent rains and snows, 80,000 acres of Floyd county wheat is looking fine and it is expected a bumper crop will be made. The farmers in the Floydada territory say the prospects are equally as good as they were in 1924, when this county set a new record in the State for wheat production. While the acreage this year is considerably less than 1924, due to the practice of diversification, prospects are good for a splendid crop.

Oats and barley, the early feed crops, will also receive the benefit of the recent moisture.

According to reliable information, the feed and coton crops will be practically equal. This statement bears out the fact that Floyd county is one of the greatest diversified farming counties in the state.

90,000 acres will be planed to cotton this year, which is about a 15 per cent reduction from that of 1925, when due to the early freeze Floyd county produce less than 20,000 bales.

The cow, sow and hen will continue to play an important part of the farms of this county this year. Sixty Duroc guilts shipped in by the two banks and several merchants will place more than 400 meat hogs in the county by fall.

Honolulu will erect a war memorial.

Easter Parade to Feature Brilliant Colors, Spike Heels, and Initials, Frills and Furbelows Lead Fashion

NEW YORK, Mar. 27.—When the Easter parade starts up Fifth Ave. those ignorant of the latest thing in fashions will observe many interesting details.

For instance: the Dernier Cri in shoes is the jungle leathers. The antelope, the crocodile ,the snake and lizard have all been stripped of their hides to make dainty shoes in which your well-turned-out woman can march in the Easter parade.

The shoes are made altogether of these leathers or of combinations of two of them. They come in the most modern shades, too: parchment, opal grey, sauterne, mauvett and metal brown.

The heels on which milady struts are the highest in years, tall, slim and appropriately named "spike heels." The initial buckles set smartly on her instep are but a part of her present passion for initials. She has her monogram on her bag, her umbrella, her hat, her blouse, her hanky—anything that will take letters.

If she wears spike heels, she is equally precarious in her headgear. She wears felts, soft straws and hats of belting that are pinched in style. They are tall and severe and pinched in to the most quierkly shapes. When they top a tailored suit they are vivid, of love bird, chartreuse or absinthe green. When they match the other accessories of the costumes—and the eastern parade will show decisively that all accessories have to match each other rather than the dress or coat—they are of delicate pastel shades such as golden wheat, cheyruse, wild honey, crystal grey and sugar cane.

Hose that set them off will be peculiarly, alluring. They will be of soft rosy tans and greys that, in the sheer chiffons, are subtle and seductive. There will be stockings of such delicates hues as atmosphere, nude, rose blonde, champagne, blush, grain, moonlight grey, dove grey and shadow.

And then, if it's a windy day, a new detail will be revealed to the Ave.-Lingerie is selected to match the hosiery exactly. Bloomers of the exact tint of the hose are worn—with interesting effect.

The bags and gloves milady will carry will, of course, match hat and shoes. The bags are particularly smart when made of the various shoe leather: kid, calf, lizard, crocodile and son on. They are particular expensive in these hides.

Of course, every coat will have a cape and some coats will be capes altogether. There will be little capelets fluttering silkily and medium sized capes of military aspects, and great big capes of long lithe folds, just like the three bears. The fact that few women will look well in this mode, designed especially for the slim young thing, will not deter anyone from buying them. Rather be out of the world than out of capes.

And, there is the taillour, happily recovered from the world of lost fashions—a conservative garment, severely proud of its age and lineage and correctness. It is rather short as to jacket and double breasted, or it rejoices in tuxedo lines. It is popular in navy and the dusty pastel tweeds.

Frocks are silken and feminine, rejoicing in floating scarfs, panels, flares, tiers and whatnot, made in such romantically named, shades as maintenon, lavalliere, Marie Antoinette, Josephine, and others.

The Easter parade will be a subdued, riot or color and infinite novelty.

Dr. Pflueger Has Long Been Interested In Drama

Dr. Luther A. Pflueger, professor of French and German in the Texas Technological College has consented to direct the play which the Little Theatre Organization of Lubbock will send to Dallas in the spring.

Dr. Pflueger has had wide experience both as an amateur actor and as a director in various colleges and universities. Especially has Dr. Pflueger met with unusual successes in directing plays in foreign languages, chiefly in French and German.

During his undergraduate days, he received excellent experience in amateur performances given by the dramatic clubs of Muhlenberg College and Indiana University. At Muhlenberg, he took part in Pinero's "The Magistrate" and at Indiana his best success was in Barrie's "Quality Street." At the latter school Dr. Pflueger gave generously of his valuable time directing plays for the German Club.

From 1917 to 1921, he was in the University of Wisconsin pursuing graduate study. During those years he played important roles in several German and French plays. One of his most brilliant successes there was a role in Mark Twain's "Meisterschaft," a three-act play written in German and English which requires great composure and ability to shift quickly from one language to the other. No less brilliant was the lead that he played in "La Ceinture Dvill," by Emile Augier.

For the past two years, Dr. Pflueger has been at the University of Texas, where his reputation as a director soon spread from the campus to the community. He put on several French plays before University audiences and in almost every instance, he was invited to repeat his performance before that most critical audience, The Faculty Club. In addition to plays out on in French at the University, Dr. Pflueger directed several in English. His outstanding success among the latter group is "One Must Marry." This is the play that the Little Theatre Organization of Lubbock will send to Dallas this spring.

Besides his experience in performing and directing in college dramatics, Dr. Pflueger spent a year at Valparaiso and one year in the Emerson School of Oratory and Dramatic Rrt. While he was at Emerson he took part in several public performances, viz: in "Arms and the Man" by George Bernard Shaw, in "The Wild Goose Chase" by Beaumont and Fletcher, and in "Ralph Royscer Doyster," an old English play.

Since Dr. Pflueger joined the Tech faculty last fall, he has identified himself with the Sock and Buskin Club, the dramatic club of Tech College. Already on several occasions, Dr. Pflueger has pleased audiences in Lubbock with short sketches and dramatic readings.

Central Ward P. T. A. Has Fine Meeting Thursday

The Parent-Teachers' Association of the Central Ward school met Thursday afternoon at three-thirty o'clock. The meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer led by Mrs. E. W. Camp.

J. B. Wilson read "A Small Boy's Troubles," after which a playet, "A Case of Ain't," was presented by pupils of Miss Gldays Johnson.

A reading, "The Humbug," was most charmingly given by Mattie Williams of the sixth grade.

Miss Johnson's room sang "The Bluebonnets of Texas," which was written and composed by Mrs. Scales of this city.

Mr. Jones of the Agricultural Experiment Station made a very interesting talk on "The Care of Trees," giving much information to those present. The speaker emulated the principle factors to be kept in mind in the choosing and planting of trees so as to lend to the home artistic merit. He named the trees which are long-lived and which are best suited to this climate. The time of the year to buy and to plant trees was also stressed.

Mr. Mahoney's talk on "The Planting of Flowers and Shrubs" proved to be both instructive and interesting. The proper method of planting of flowers and bulbs was described to the club. Mr. Mahoney told of the best time for planting flowers and for setting out shrubs.

The number of mothers present representing each room was taken, the prize picture and moving picture show tickets being won by Miss Gladys Johnson's room. A social hour was enjoyed by the members of the club and by the visiting George M. Hunt teachers.

Last Number of Lyceum Course Enjoyed At High School

Marshall Louis Mertins, lecturer, poet and humorist, appeared in the fifth and last number of the lyceum course sponsored by the high school Parent-Teachers' Association Saturday evening and was received by an enthusiastic audience in the high school auditorium.

Laughter unrestrained greeted his stories and his readings of his own humorous compositions, as well as a number of poems.

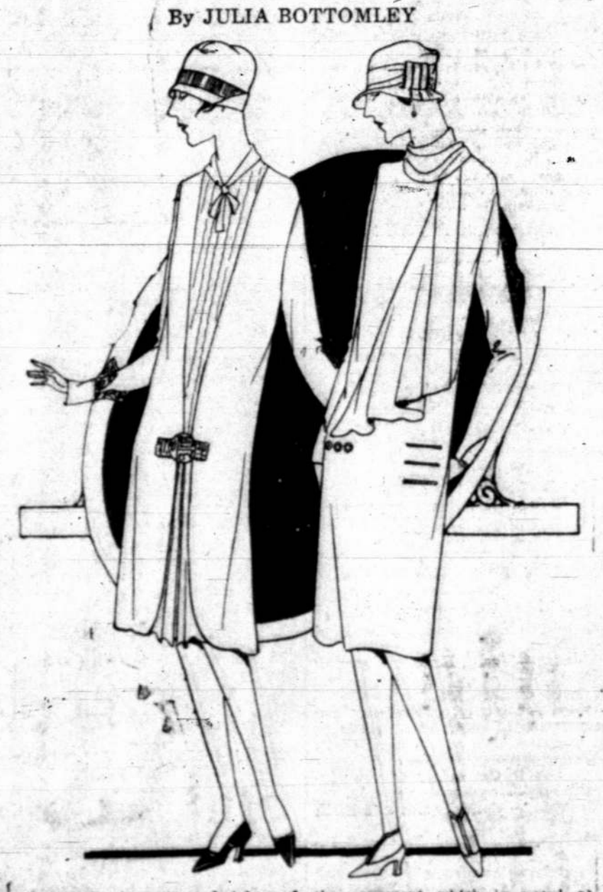

Mr. Mertins, who is popularly referred to as "the poet of the commonplace" gave his lecture "The Gold at the Rainbow's End." This lecture has been given more than twelve hundred times and is especially fine. His poems expressed vivid and sympathetic understanding of children. He proved a painter of exquisite word pictures, and his lecture was a fitting close to a delightful series of programs.

The Parent-Teachers' Association is to be congratulated on offering such an excellent and charming entertainment at such a low cost, and on reaching such a large number of people.

The patrons will be glad to learn that another series of entertainments from the same company has been secured for next year.

Reflecting Spring Modes in Paris Tailored Styles

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

BEHIND these two sketches of tailored frocks from Paris is the authority of great names—names which would arrest the attention of the world of fashion, even if the sketche, failed to. Beauty, originality and cleverness in designing have placed these names at the head of their craft, and so their creations are worth examining.

At the left of the picture a model from Jenny is one more good reason for her prestige and the loyalty of her clientele. Here is a black frock which might be made of either silk crepe or woolen goods, cut with a conservative flare below the hips and having plaits inserted at the front of the skirt portion. It is worn with a lingerie vest—the vest-front is an important item in spring modes and is brightened by touche of red and gold embroidery on the cuffs, also being in the ornament which is posed at the front.

The frock at the right, from Lebonier, is typical of spring's tailored styles. A rather light gray cloth was chosen for it, with revers and scarf of red crepe georgette—but another color might be used for these accessories, or the color of the dress for those who prefer one color. Soutache braid appears to furnish the three simulated buttons at the right side and three narrow bands at the left side which suggest elongated buttonholes. These frocks are suitable for town or country wear and are pictured short, for youthful wearers. But three inches added to their length will not interfere with their modishness and will make them better suited to many wearers, both in the matter of becomingness and personal taste.

Edwin Hughes Concert

Reviewed by E. Clyde Whitlock

A concert which has not been surpassed in popular appeal by any event of its kind in the history of Lubbock was given Thursday evening in connection with the festival sponsored by the South Plains Music Teachers Association by Edwin Hughes, distinguished American pianist. An audience which comfortably filled the Tech Pavillion was very responsive to the efforts of the player and elicited several encores. It may be said by an outsider, in passing, and with no intention of fulsome or patronizing flattery, that the sincere and ready understanding with which the Lubbock public, comparatively unused to performances of this sort as it must of necessity be, responds to the worthwhile in musical are is a decided credit to the mental alertness and forward looking spirit of the citizenship.

Mr. Hughes is known as one of the most eminent of American pianists, having won recognition during the course of several years' residence in Europe as well as in his native land since his return at the out-break of the World War. His studio in New York has attracted some of the most promising talent in the country among which Lubbock will be interested to know were Mrs. J. H. Flaig, of Lubbock, and Miss Hightower, of Matador.

The program was opened with a virile performance of a German Dance by Beethoven, and the Sonata Apassionata by the same master. This Sonata is one of the most demanding in piano literature in its requisition upon the players maturity of insight and reliability of technique. Mr. Hughes brought to its performance these very qualities and made the work appealing to the inner unconscious understanding of his hearers. The Chopin group brought forward the seldom-played Nocturne in F Major, the Mazurka in D Major, the familiar Revolutionary etude, a little known waltz in D Flat, and the universally-esteemed Polonaise in A Flat. Such a group requires all that a player has of poetic insight and imagination and again Mr. Hughes' fulfillment of these demands was attested by the understanding of the audience than which there is after all scarcely a better standard of criticism. The Mazurka will remain in this writer's memory as the summit of the evening's performance. There was in it that satisfying subtlety of rhythmic flexibility which is not often met with and the necessity for which puts the Mazurkas, simple as they are in apparent content, outside the reach of many.

An American group followed ,the Novellete and the Elfin Dance of America's greatest composer, Edward MacDowell, and two modern novelties "Temple Bells at Sunset" (Charles Repper) and "Tides of Manaunaun" (Henry Cowell). The last named of these numbers requires some explanation as an example of the most modern mode of musical imagery. A program-note stated that the Irish legendary god of motion sent forth tremendous tides through the yet unformed universe which rhythmically swept to and fro the cosmic particles of which worlds were later to be made. It was further explained that "tone-clusters" played with the entire fore-arm on the key-board were to be used. Other groups were played with the closed fist. Sounds like foolishness. Certainly. But the issue of it all was reasonable and was entirely in keeping with the primordial chaos depicted.

The program closed with a concert paraphrase on the Wiener Blut (Vienna Blood) Waltz of Johann Strauss, written by Mr. Hughes himself. This is a brilliant and exhilerating setting of one of the immortal waltzes of the world.

An appraisal of Mr. Hughes' artistic attributes would include a brilliant and clean-cut technical equipment, the interpretive elo-

SEVENTH DISTRICT CLUBWOMEN NEWS

As the news of the Seventh District goes to the daily papers this week, Mrs. W. B. Price and Mrs. C. M. Holt, president and secretary of the district have just mailed out the credential cards to the clubs. This year the cards are in the form of "checks" white ones for the delegates and blue ones for the alternates. One-half of the card is sent to teh credentials chairman of the district, the other given to the delegate to be worn while at the convention. So every body will be tagged, and there will be no difficulty in remembering names at the convention, a great help to everyone. The credit for this delightful scheme belongs to the state credentials chairman, Mrs. J. Riley Green, of Wolfe City.

Mrs. C. M. Holt, secretary of the Seventh District T. F. W. C. is now in Abilene, and will go from there to the convention in Childress.

Motion Picture Chairman Asks Co-Operation

Mrs. Elmo Caudle, of Hale Center, chairman of motion pictures for the Seventh District T. F. W. C. is asking the co-operation of at least one club of each town, that is large enough to accomodate a Saturday morning picture show for children, and sends the following message: "There is now assembled a year's supply of programs and complete arrangements for putting them into operation. There has long been a certain demand that there be available some where a supply of motion pictures especially suitable for the youth. This demand has come from different sources and because of different reasons, but there has long been evidenced a feeling that provision ought to be made in some way for children to see motion pictures of the type that have no possible objectionable features and under circumstances which are highly pleasing to their parents. The Saturday morning movie was designed to furnish just that sort of entertainment.

"Lubbock is to be complimented on the work she is doing along this line and other cities should follow her example.

"The chairman would appreciate a report of what you have done or what you are planning to do, so as to make a good report for the district meeting in Childress."

The application of new clubs for membership in the federation have been received this week by Mrs. Price, the Twentieth Century Club of Ralls, and the Mothers' Club of Seagraves.

The most recent work of the Maids and Matrons' club of Brownfield was piping water over the school grounds so that the trees and shrubs planted this spring will live and thrive. The money was earned by staging a burlesque style show.

Mrs. J. H. Hankins of Lubbock, has been appointed district chairman of Industrial Arts, Mrs. Mark Henry, of Crowell, being state chairman.

The Pierian Club, of Amarillo, has sponsored the organization of a Junior Pierian club, composed of the daughters of the members. This club is starting out with the seriousness of purpose bequeathed to it by the senior club, and the entire district will watch its progress wtih interest.

THE THREE-FOLD NATURE OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE

(From the Division or Better American Speech)

Would it disturb you in the least if the President of the United States should become a monarch or other inexorable ruler and should issue an edict to the effect that all inhibitants of Texas, or Lubbock more especially, should cease reading? If you were forbidden to read all papers, documents, letters, messages of all kinds—either in print or penmanship—would you not resent such an affront? The taking away the privilege of reading would mean that you might not read the letters the postman brings you, nor would you be able to enjoy the daily papers, the weekly or monthly magazines, and the wealth of books on your library shelves. Such a ban would forbid the reading of the Bible, the Book of books. The edict furthermore would mean that not only you, but also your friends would be forbidden to read. Libraries, consequently, would fall into disuse and civilization would decay.

Hand-in-hand with such an edict another would necessarily go with it, that of forbidding you to write. What would be the use of writing if there were no readers? Which would include not only the writing of books, articles, stories, verse, and criticisms, but also the writing of letters, informal essays, and data of all kinds. Would you not resent such an affront if a monarch or tyrant should deny you the privilege of writing?

Would it disturb you irreparably if an edict should be passed forbidding you to talk? The idea is beyond conception. The social, religious, and physical life would stagnate; business could not be carried on. A great part of our days is spent in conversation, in giving directions, or in otherwise exchanging ideas. To think of getting along without reading, speaking or writing! You are laughing at the idea and rightfully, too!

No edict has been issued that you must cease reading, speaking, or writing! There is no likelihood that the privilege of engaging in all three activities be taken away from you. Then why not become accomplished in all three? Not until a person can read effectively, write coherently, and speak fluently his mother tongue is he educated.

Mrs. Cullum Hostess To Mary Helm Society

Mrs. Dyke Cullum was pleasing hostess, Friday afternoon to the members of the Mary Helm Auxiliary of the Methodist Church, in a most enjoyable social meeting. Mrs. J. P. Giles, assisted.

The house was pleasant and cherry with glowing lights burning behind drawn shades to exclude the snow storm.

Contests offered diversion and Mrs. Vernon Brown was awarded for one and Mrs. Allen T. Stewart, who wrote some needs of the Auxiliary in rhyme was rewarded; and her clever verse follows:

The needs of the Mary Helm are many I know,
But where to begin I feel quite slow
This I will tell to you today;
Let us visit our friends both new and old,
And if a blessing we wish to gain,
Let us pray again and yet again.
Study our lessons and know the work,
And from no task let any one shirk,
Let every one speak his mind, but let it be one at a time,
Say "Madam president" as it says in the rules
And pay your pledge as well as your dues.
If all this you follow and do it well,
The preacher will say, behold a Model Mary Helm.

Dainty refreshments were served to Mrs. Vernon Brown, Mrs. Shelton, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Allen Stewart, Mrs. White, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Tom Foster, Mrs. Wedemeyer, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Richards, Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Giles and Mrs. Rush.

AT THE CHURCHES

First Methodist Church

Broadway and Avenue M
E. E. White, Pastor

The Revival campaign will continue throughout the next week. Dr. D. B. Doak has done some splendid preaching and will preach at 10 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. each day thru next week. Services on Sunday at usual hours. Increased interest is expected on the part of the entire membership of the church and the public is cordially invited to these services.

One of the features of the revival is the music. In addition to the congregational singing conducted by Mr. H. W. Richardson there will be special music at each evening service. At the Sunday evening service Mr. Richardson and Mr. R. G. Shelton will sing a duet.

On Monday night the official board will meet at seven o'clock for an important item of business. On this night the entire board will attend the preaching service in a body. Every member should be present.

Sunday School at 9:30. A full attendance is expected. Epworth Leagues at 6:45 p. m. Special services for both Intermediate and Seniors.

First Presbyterian Church

Cor. Avenue N and 14th

Sabbath School at 9:45. There is no place where better training for the various activity of the church can be had than in the Sabbath School. There exists in the religious training of the Sabbath School a genuine opportunity for self-expression that one does not meet quite so often as in the Sabbath School. The new church year should find many renewing their interest in this phase of the work of the local body and the invitation to increased vigor in individual endeavor should meet with a ready response from many who have been unable to align themselves with the training work of the Sabbath School.

At the eleven o'clock hour the season of religious revival will begin under the leadership of H. W. Burwell, D. D. At this time Dr. Burwell is pastor of the Parkway Presbyterian church of Dallas. He is absenting himself from his congregation that he may assist the local church in its effort towards deeper spritual experience. Many of the older members of the church will recall that Dr. Burwell was pastor of the Lubbock church for some time and will be glad to have him associated with us again in the brief revival meeting. The choir will sing a special anthem, "The Psalms" at the morning hour. Mrs. Williams will sing a special vocal number, "My Task." The entire membership of the church is called upon to lend every support to the best success of the meeting.

The Junior and Senior Christian Endeavors will meet at 2:30 and 6:15.

At the evening hour Dr. Burwell will preach again. The services will begin at 8 o'clock. The choir will sing an anthem, "Crossing the Bar."

Cor. 16th St. and Ave. J

The second week of our Pre-Easter Revival swings into the second week with most encouraging interest and results. The four churches, First Methodist, First Presbyterian, the Cumberland Presbyterian and First Christian church, will all have two services daily during the week namely at 10 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. Just one more week now and the meetings will close, so you should make a special effort this week attend services at the church of your choice.

Our Bible School begins today at 9:45 a. m. A large attendance is expected. At 11:00 a. m. Dr. Atkinson will deliver one of his soul stirring sermons. The people are hearing him with pleasure, delight and inspiration. He is a man of unusual ability and great heart power.

At 6:30 p. m. all three Endeavor Societies will meet; and at 7:45 p. m. Mr. Atkinson will preach. Let's make the Lord's day a great high day by worshiping in His Holy Temple.

The choir under the direction of Mrs. Dana Harmon Trent will furnish special music at all services. We extend to you a personal invitation to all our services. Do not miss these revival and evangelistic services—all of us need them to have our souls renewed and our faith increased and our courage strengthened. Remember the week day services at 10:00 a. m. and the evening services at 7:45 p. m. We will be looking for you. Come.

The Terry County Federation committees met at the Methodist church, at two-thirty, Wednesday afternoon, with the president of the Federation in charge. Mrs. J. L. Randal is sparing neither time nor efforts in carrying on the health campaign in our county, and we shall be deeply indebted to her in the future protection of our population. Each district in Terry counyt has two delegates and the town committee names five ladies, viz: Mesdames Randall, Stricklin, Lewis, Alexander and Bond. The rural districts have joined hands with the city of Brownfield in trying to conform as nearly as possible to the General State Health Campaign. This is indeed commendable and it will soon be an interesting competitive work among all districts in the county—to present the neatest appearance—and to safe-guard the health of school children. Terry County Chamber of Commerce will award prizes also to rural districts complying with rules of clean-up campaign. A committee will inspect the rural work on Monday, April 5. To the neatest school premises a prize of 10 trees will be given; to the 2nd best cared for grounds, 6 trees. This is indeed a wonderful work for our citizens.

Charles F. O'Neal Jr. Host At Party Friday

A very delightful party was enjoyed Friday afternoon by a group of youngsters at the home of Mrs. Chas. F. O'Neal, when her son, Charles Ford O'Neal, entertained his friends with an Easter party.

Games and contests were offered as entertainment and prizes awarded. Donn Lee Benson won first prize in the observation contest and John Bill Spenser, second. Jimmy Roberts was winner in the advertisement contest. Much merriment was caused by Mr. O'Neal insisting that Mohammed was the greatest Turk, and one of the boys proving him an Arabian, in the intelligence contest, when Max Waghorne was awarded the prize.

Easter decorations were used, yellow chickens were given as plate favors, and Easter nankins used. Ice cream molded in the shape of rabbits was served with angel food and devil's food cake.

The following boys were present: Donn Lee Benson, Raymond Barrier, Jordan Cunningham, Max Waghorne, Harold Dow, John Bill Spencer, Jimmy Roberts, Henry Roberts, Cecil Davis, V. R. Dockery, Roderick O'Neal and Alrick Davis. Mrs. R. D. Benson and Irye Townsend were also guests.

MRS. DANA HARMON TRENT GIVES PARTY FOR MUSICIANS

Mrs. Dana Harmon Trent charmingly entertained with a diner party at her home Saturday evening complimenting Mrs. Gladys Marsailles Glenn of Amarillo and Misses Mary Clark and Pauline Brigham of Canyon, who were among the judges in the music festival.

A lovely dinner was served just preceding the contest winners program at the pavilion.

Lubbock Clubwomen Meet Wednesday To Organize City Federation and Plan For Club House. Mrs. Price Will Preside

The clubwomen of Lubbock will meet at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the First Baptist church at the call of the Delphian club, and will organize a city federation with the aim of building a woman's club house. This is one of the most important problems confronting the women of Lubbock for several years and it is very commendable that they are undertaking it at this time. It is also very fortunate that all the clubs have united in the work, and it is to be hoped that the lot can be purchased and the building erected without delay.

All the clubwomen of Lubbock are invited to be present at the meeting, but only the presidents of the clubs and two delegates from each one will be given the privilege of voting. The organization will be completed at this meeting and officers elected.

Mrs. W. B. Price, president of the Seventh District T. F. W. C., will preside.

Mrs. Ray Wheatley, of Amarillo, chairman of club houses, has been invited to be present.

Almost all the delegates have been named, and with the list of clubs are given below:

Delphian—Mrs. E. L. Banks, president, Mrs. J. V. Connor, and Mrs. R. H. Martin.

Sorosis—Mrs. J. R. B. Cooper, president, Mrs. J. L. Cunningham, Miss Vera Murfee.

Athenaeum—Mrs. A. B. Davis, president, Mrs. J. H. Hankins, Mrs. J. E. Hankins.

Child-Study—Mrs. Hub Jones, president, Mrs. C. E. Maedgen, Mrs. Dyke Culium.

Junior Twentieth Century—Mrs. O. L. Peterman, president, Mrs. Elmer Conley, Mrs. J. R. Germany.

American Association of University Women—Mrs. Clyde F. Elkins, president, Mrs. D. B. Doak, Miss Blanche Bean.

Music Club—Mrs. Ed O'Sullivan, president.

Pan-Hellenic Club—Mrs. Roscoe Wilson, president.

Twentieth Century Club—Mrs. H. A. Davidson, president, Mrs. P. W. Horn, Mrs. Geo. C. Wolffarth.

Little Theatre Party Invited To Adolphus

The Avalanche has received a letter from the Adolphus hotel, Dallas, extending through the newspaper an invitation to the patrons and actors of the Lubbock Little Theter to make the Adolphus headquarters while attending the tournament in Dallas next week.

Special theatrical rates will be made and Lubbock people can certainly find no lovlier place to stop while attending the tournament.

LAWSON-HILTON MARRIAGE SATURDAY

Ollie Franklin Lawson and Lottie Rebecca Hilton of Lubbock were married here yesterday, Rev. C. A. Norcross of the Methodist church circuit of Lubbock officiating. They will make their home in Lubbock.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Shelton and little son have moved to 2304 Fourteenth street.

Mrs. Wm. Dingus had as her guests during the music festival, Miss Frances Bethany of White Deer, who is the sister-in-law of Edwin Hughes, and Miss Patsy Hightower of Floydada, who was formerly a pupil of Mr. Hughes.

Mrs. Ed O'Sullivan is expected home from Vaughn, N. M., where she has been visiting friends for about ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Doak have as their guests for the week end James Kaiser and daughters, Mary and Ruth Kaiser, of Olton, and Miss Bertha Jones, also of Olton.

Mrs. Walter Holland, who has been a Tech student for the past two terms, underwent a very serious operation Friday morning at the Lubbock sanitarium. According to a report from Dr. J. T. Krueger, who performed the operation, she is resting as well as could be expected. The operation was described as being successful and she will soon be back in school unless further complications set up.

Mrs. Walter Holland, a student in the Texas Technological College, is in the Lubbock Sanitarium where yesterday she underwent a serious operation. Her home is at 910 10th street.

Panama Canal tolls for January showed an increase of more than one-third over the same month of last year.

It is estimated that three-fifths of the timber originally standing in the United States has been destroyed by fire.

NEW PLANE GUIDE INVENTED IN ITALY

ROME (United Press)—A new instrument to render aerial navigation easier and more accurate has been invented by Engineer Major Biondi of the Italian aviation service.

Major Biondi call shi sinvention the odograph of pachfinder, and claims that it will revolutionize the piloting of airships.

The apparatus allows the pilot of an airship or aeroplane to follow his course by day or night, through clouds and fog without taking any other observations at all.

At the recent trials ner Rome, it was proved that the course followed by Major Biondi's odograph only registered an error of two miles in a trip of one hundred miles. The airship was guided entirely by means of the odograph.

Star Drinks Acid; Mistake, She Says, Maid Says 'No'.

By United Press

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., March 27. A blasted romance and an accident both were blamed tonight for the reported suicide attempt made late today by Barbara Bennett, Maurice's former dance partner, who is the daughter of Richard Bennett, prominent actor.

Miss Bennett, who was not burned seriously when she drank the poison, said she mistook the bottle for cough medicine.

Marguerite Rousseau, French maid of the star, who seized the poison bottle from Miss Bennett's hand, said however, that her mistress had been grieving over a broken romance.

Miss Bennett was taken to a hospital, where it was reported her burns were not serious.

Jim Takes Stump For Ma on Mayday He Says at Dallas

By United Press

DALLAS, Texas, March 27.—Former Governor James E. Ferguson will take the stump in behalf of his wife's candidacy for governor around May 1, according to a statement here today.

Ferguson declared that he planned to hold back as long as possible to give the people some respite from politics.

"I am not going to start the campaign in my wife's behalf until May 1, and that is too early," Ferguson declared.

The former governor, who has been here three days building up political fences, predicted that Texas democrats would roll up a record vote at the July primaries.

LOCAL BRIEFS

T. B. Duggan, Jr., underwent a tonsils operation at Lubbock Sanitarium Saturday morning. Glenn Hess, son of Joe Hess, of the Lubbock Building & Loan Association, also underwent the same operation.

Mrs. Paul Hardy is at the Lubbock Sanitarium where she underwent a serious operation Saturday morning.

The Rix Furniture Company of Lubbock yesterday sold to the Lubbock schools a shipment of bent wood chairs and students' arm chairs to be installed in the buildings now under construction.

ALL PROPHECIES FAIL WHEN BEAUTIFUL GIRL ENTERS SEER'S HOUSE

TOKYO (United Press)—Moritaka Kuki, a prophet, seer and revelator, established in Tokyo for some years, was doing fine, with about a thousand persons drawing comfort from his prophecies and paying well for it. He had his own shrine and an assistant to help draw the veil back from the future. However, a month ago he made a bad guess, believing that he could introduce a pretty young from Kyoto into his sanctuary an dincrease his own happiness thereby.

What even his prophetic eye could not see was that his assistant might also fall in love with the Kyoto damsel. The eternal triangle played its usual discordant note. The girl went back to Kyoto and the assistant prophet went to the police with a long tale of how Kuki duped his followers.

The police have searched the prophet's mansion and put the seer into jail on the strength of what they found. Among his victims, whom he had carefully card catalogued, are a number of well known persons, including members of the nobility.

LOWEST PRICES EVER OFFERED ON QUALITY TIRES

It has been the constant aim of the Hick's Rubber Company over a period of 8 years to sell not necessarily the most tires nor the cheapest tires but to constantly deliver the greatest values. Without this policy we could never have reached the dominant position among tire dealers that we have attained—THE LARGEST SALES ORGANIZATION DEALING EXCLUSIVELY IN AUTOMOBILE TIRES IN THE WORLD. Rigid adherence to our obligations to our customers concerning guarantees and values prompts us to say that should you at any time be dissatisfied with any purchase from our house, you are at liberty to return it to us and we will cheerfully and promptly make good anything that is not right.

The rubber market is uncertain and fluctuates over a wide range. It is, therefore, impossible for us to guarantee these prices for any specific length of time. We, therefore, reserve the right to withdraw them without notice.

TEXAS LARGEST TIRE HOUSE

PLAN TO ROUND THE WORLD BY PLANE, RAIL, AND STEAMER IN LESS THAN THIRTY DAYS

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

DETROIT, March 26—Late in une of this year, Edward S. Evans, a Detroit illionaire-adventurer, and Linton Wells, Louisville, Ky., newspaperman of "world flight" stowaway fame, plan to embark on a time annihilating trip of 28 days or less around the world.

By ariplane, steamship, tug and train, they hope to clip nearly two full months from the "unbeleivable" estimate of "Around the World in Eighty Days" made by Jules Verne in 1872.

While the primary object of the trip is to circumnavigate the globe faster than it has ever been done before (the present record is between 35 and 36 days) the avowed purpose is to "sell the city of Detroit as the aviation capital of the world."

Tentative itinerary of the trip begins with an airplane hop-off from New York, bound west, with Cleveland the first stop; thence to Detroit, Chicago, Omaha, Cheynne, Salt ake, Seattle, and across the Canadian Border to Victoria. The cross-continent flight, it is expected, will be ade in two days.

At Victoria, Evans and Wells plan to make a split-second connection with a Canadian-Pacific liner for Japan. The trans-pacific trip will take an estimated nine days, and will end at the Island of Hakudate, unless a projected Peking-Moscow air-route is opened this spring, in which event the liner will do direct to Tokio.

Assuming the Hakadate stop is made, the globe-circlers plan to quit the liner in mid-channel, hop a small steamer or Japanese destroyer, and speed on to Vladivostok, Russia, to connect for Moscow. The Hakadate-Moscow trip is expected to take about nine days.

If the Peking-Moscow air route is in operation, however, it is planned to go from Victoria direct to Tokio cross to China, and fly to Moscow from Peking, thus saving several days which otherwise would be lost by trans-Siberian rail.

On arrival at Moscow, Evans and Wells plan to fly to Cherbourg via Koenigsberg, Berlin, and Amsterdam—a trip they expect to make in about two and one half days.

The final stage of the trip will be made by Atlantic liner from Cherbourg to New York, in an estimated five days.

Throughout the trip, both Wells and Evans, who are members of the Adventurers Club of Chicago, will travel "light," carrying nothing but a hand bag containing several changes of silk underwear and personal effects. The only time they will have an opportunity for adequate laundry facilities will be on the trans-Oceanic passages.

Estimated expenses of the undertaking is $30,000, the major portion of which will be borne by Evans, who has already contributed two-thirds of the amount. Wells, meanwhile, is now in Asia arranging final details with steamship, railway, aviation and government officials for the dash acros sthat continent.

Both Evans and Wells have had colorful careers. Eleven years ago Evans hobbled to Detroit on crutches in search of a fortune. Today he is rated as several times a millionaire, and controls nine factories devoted to manufacture of appliances for use in shipment of automobiles, in addition to other business interests.

Wells, who first suggested the trip to Evans as something he had always hoped to undertake, will always be remembered for stowing away in the tool compartment of the world flight plane of Lieut. Lowell Smith on the hop across India and Arabia. Five hundred miles out of Calcutta Wells crawled out of the compartment and uttered a cheery "Howdy" which still echoes through aeronautical circles.

REVIVAL SERVICES BEING HELD AT SLATON

Special to The Avalanche.

SLATON, March 26.—The First Baptist church of Slaton has been conducting a revival service for the past week; the membership as well as many outsiders have contributed largely to the very gratifying success the meeting has had, by their regular attendance, according to pastor Jno. P. Hardesty. A revival service is to start at the First Methodist church next Sunday, according to the pastor, A. B. Davidson. The Methodist revival is to last one week and will be conducted as a special service, taking one of the seven words uttered by Christ upon the cross for each evening service.

Denton College Spring Enrollment Exceeds Record

DENTON, Texas, March 27—Registration for the spring quarter at the College of Industrial Arts has eclipsed all previous figures with 1,807 young women entered on the rolls. It is thought in the registrar's office that additional students will enroll before total figures can be assembled.

The spring quarter at C. I. A. opened formally Monday, March 22, when matriculation was carried out. The first classes were met Tuesday morning.

Roscoe Druggist Gets Sentence On Jake Charge

ROSCOE, Mar. 27.—L. L. Medlock, Roscoe druggist, was given a two year term in the penitentiary following his conviction on a charge of selling tincture of ginger, or "Jake" for beverage purposes.

The jury returned a verdict late Thursday afternoon following a trial which began Tuesday. It was hotly contested.

SNYDER GETS CAR OF THOROUGHBRED COTTON SEED

Snyder, Mar. 27.—The Chamber of Commerce will receive within the next few days a car of 'Thoroughbred' cotton seed, a variety bred from the Mebane strain. This seed comes from Winters, Texas, and if not bought in car lots, is sold for $3 a bushel. The farmers of Scurry County can get these seeds in any quantity for only $2.40 a bushel. Those wanting them should see County Agent Jno. F. Carmichael at once.

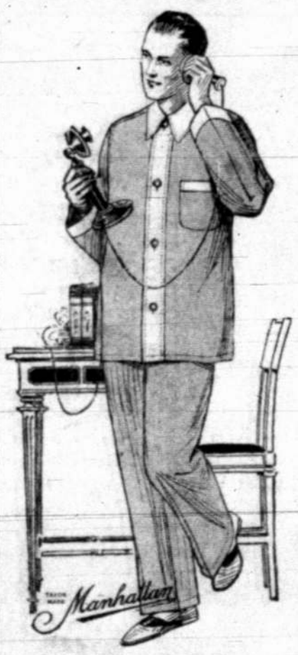

PETERSBURG WILL PROTEST BOLES ROAD PLAN

Special to The Avalanche.

PETERSBURG, March 27.—Petersburg will join Lockney, Lubbock, Plainview and other plains cities in protesting the decision of Examiner Boles. The people of Petersburg believe that the route of the Burlington is the logical route to best serve the interests of the South Plains.

R. A. Jeffries, local banker says, "Petersburg wants a railroad, and believe that they will get the Burlington, although it may be delayed for a while, but Petersburg is not idle, they are going on with their building program."

Petersburg is located between Lockney and Lubbock and is in the extreme southeast corner of Hale county, its building permits in 1925 exceeding $60,000. It has three modern churches, a well equipped school with 250 pupils and six teachers, two gins, one bank, and numerous stores and small business institutions. The town has good roads from Lockney and Lubbock, and is served by truck lines with daily service from Lockney.

HIGHWAYS STAND UP WELL UNDER SNOW

S. E. Cone, a member of the board of directors of the Texas Transcontinental Trail, the new highway connecting Lubbock, Fort Worth and Dallas, yesterday received a letter from S. W. Copper of Crosbyton, chairman of the promoting and publicity committee of that highway, instructing him to send reports on the condition of the trail in this section to the Fort Worth and Dallas highway bureaus.

Mr. Cone immediately dispatched reports of the recent snow and its effect on the highway to the two points, stating that while the roads are slippery, traffic is going forward with the minimum of delay and that the state highway department officials along the route in the plains territory are making preparations to put drags on the roadway just as soon as it is dry enough.

"The snow which was preceded by general rains two weeks ago left the trail muddy in this section but traffic has not been materially checked," Mr. Cone's report said.

The report further stated that bus lines operating out of Lubbock have met all schedules during the past week, and that while weather conditions are yet threatening there is no fear about traffic over the trail being halted.

Mr. Cone's report will be sent to the Dallas and Fort Worth bureaus of the Texas Transcontinental Trail regularly twice a week, except during periods like this when there is likelihood of mud halting traffic, the report will be filed daily.

AMERICAN ARMS DELEGATION NAMED

By United Press

WASHINGTON, March 27.—America's delegation to the Geneva arms preparatory commission was named today by President Coolidge and Hugh Gibson, ambassador to Switzerland, will be in charge of the trip.

Besides Gibson, members of the party will be:

Allen W. Dulles and Dorsey Richardson, representing the state department; Major General Dennis Nolen, Brigadier General H. A. Smith and Major George F. Strong, representing the war department; Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, Rear Admiral Andrew Long and Captain Adolphus Andrews, representing the navy department.

RAIN PREVENTION DEVICE USED BY FILM PRODUCER

NEW YORK, March 27—The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Company, motion picture producers will shortly apply to the U. S. Patent Office for a copyright on an invention which reoves rain.

The new device is calculated to keep rain away when the filming of an exterior set is threatened by a sudden shower. It consists of a series of airplane propellors on motors which are mounted on high parallels. When it rains, these force a strong wind across a given space, above the heads of the actors and eht exterior setting.

Thus a literal air barrage, or a solid wall of rapid air, separates the ground from the clouds above. The rain drops are blown beyond the set as they descend and filming can go on uninterrupted.

186 Texas Cities Furnish Students To A. & M.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, March 27.—One hundred and eighty six Texas cities and towns are represented by the 391 students at the A. and M. College of Texas who are listed as eligible for the rank of "distinguished student' at the end of the pretsent term, according to information given out by Registrar Charles E. Friley. This means that these students already have at least 20 grade points to their credit this year, with a prospect of making at least 60 by the end of the term. At the close of the first term last year there were 321 students eligible for this honor. This year shows an increase of 22 per cent.

The four highest men in the entire college were P. Viglini, Dallas, sophomore who made 50; J. Neff, Laredo, sophomore, who made 49; W. R. Sherrill, Lewisville, junior, who made 48 1-2, and H. A. Liebhafsky, Shiner, senior, who made 48. The two highest records made in each class were as follows: Freshmen—E. L. Andrews, Garland, 44; J. R. Keith, Cleburns, 42. Sophomore—P. Vigilini, Dallas, 50; J. Neff, Laredo, 49. Junior—W. R. Sherrill, Lewisville, 48 12; J. M. Martin, Bryan, 43. Senior—H. A. Liebhafsky, Shiner, 48; J. S. Mallory, Dallas, 46.

San Antonio and Dallas students lead the group with a tie, each city having 37 representatives on the list. Bryan comes next with 14, followed closely by Fort Worth with 13. Houston also comes near the top with 12, and Waco with 9. The following towns all have 4 names on the list: Amarillo, Galveston, Corsicana, College Station, Texarkana, Beaumont and Mexia. Fourteen towns each have three names as follows: Denison, Lubbock, Greenville, Jacksonville, Harlingen, Center, Laredo, Beeville, Corpus Christi, Shiner, Port Arthur, De Leon and Lockhart. Many other towns have only one or two names.

Three thousand dogs were exhibited at the recent bench show in London.

TEST ARCHER BOND RULING COMES TUESDAY

AUSTIN, Texas, March 27.—A direct test of the question of whether the decision of the United States supreme court in the Archer county road district bond case is a condemnation of whole county road bonds is to be made in a mandamus petition to be filed in the Texas supreme court next Tuesday to compel the attorney general to approve $500,000 of special road bonds of Tom Green county and it may be made to include 16,000,000 of special bonds of Harris county, recently voted.

W. P. Dumas, Dallas bond attorney, is here to present the petition for Tom Green county.

Lubbock Lads Will Judge Stock In Canyon Contest

Lubbock high school will be represented at the livestock judging contests at Canyon April 3, Ray C. Mowery, head of the department of vocational agriculture, stated yesterday.

Mowery made selection of the team, announcing the following boys whom he will take to the Canyon contest: Alton and Elton Blackmon, Jesse McIlhaney and Ameral Payne.

Mowery hopes also to take this team to the state contest at College Station, but has not as yet completed arrangements for that trip.

The state contest will be held on April 19, and due to the fact that Mr. Mowery has developed state championship teams for the past five years, it is altogether likely that some pressure will be brought to bear to send the team to the contest again in order to give Lubbock advantage of the prestige it would give the schools of this city.

BORAH URGES FARM RELIEF ACTION IN CONGRESS

By United Press

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Agricultural relief—with the warning that indifference will result disastrously—was today one of the major questions occupying members of both the house and the senate.

In the upper body Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, warned that unless some definite action was taken before fall that the result would be disastrous. It is a non-party question, Borah declared.

Representative Tincher, republican, Kansas, was the compelling force for the lower house in the agriculture committee's meeting.

His warning was that the relief program of the corn belt committee proposed by the Des Moines group, if enacted, would virtually ruin the stock raiser in order to give help to the corn grower.

J. C. ROBERTS ANNOUNCES FOR CONSTABLE

J. C. Roberts, deputy sheriff, yesterday announced his candidacy for constable of precinct one, Lubbock.

Mr. Roberts, who has been a resident of Lubbock county during the past eight years, and who has served as an officer for a period of more than fifteen years, is thoroughly qualified to fill the office if elected by the people, and hopes to present his claims for that place before the July primary.

Mr. Roberts is having a great deal to do in law enforcement work in Lubbock at this time, and wishes for even more respsonsibility in that field than is now accorded him.

SOUTH PLAINS AUTOMOBILE DEALERS WILL MAKE PLANS TO ATTEND ABILENE AND GALVESTON MEETING AT BANQUET

Election of new officers for the South Plains Automobile Dealers Association will probably be one of the features of the banquet meeting that will be held Monday evening at the club room of the Tech Cafe, and a which George Benson will preside.

The dealers here have been very active in furthering the work of the association, and this has been traceable to the leadership that has been shown on the part of the present officers.

Will Go to Abilene

At the meeting Monday evening the local dealers will make final preparations to go to Abilene Saturday to attend a meeting of the association members from throughout this district at which time the Texas Jobbers Association officials will carry messages to them that will tend to better the automobile industry.

Similar meetings will be held at Fort Worth and Dallas early this week, but the local dealers will go to Abilene because of the lesser distance and because substantially the same program will be rendered at the three places.

Another Invitation

The entire membership of the South Plains Automobile Dealers Association has been invited to attend the Texas State Automobile Dealers Association at Galveston next month, and plans will be made to have a large delegation make the trip.

Wm. D. Cullum, Studebaker dealer, George Benson, head of the Lubbock Auto Company, and Walter Royalty, of the Royalty Motor Co., are members of the state association and will be among those who will make the trip. Plans are being made here to have all of the dealers in the South Plains association become members of the state and national association.

NEW WILLYS-KNIGHT SETS COMPARISON SALES RECORD

In addition to being one of the most popular cars shown at the 1926 Automobile Shows, the new "70" Willys-Knight Six bears the distinction of creating its own and original market.

When the new "70" was introduced to the public it created a sensation because never before in thnels of automobile manufacturing had a sixcylinder sleeve-valve engine of this size and type been built. Through the performance records made during the official tests on the car and the later marks set by owners and drivers of the new car, the "70" has within the space of slightly more than sixty days become one of the leading cars in the moderate priced six-cylinder class.

While it is the usual custom to wait until a new product has been proven fool-proof by the more intrepid purchasers, the new Willys-Knight Six "70" was an immediate sales success. In New York, the first automobile show where this car was displayed, 102,909 "70" fans crowded the factory branch to see this new performer. In all of the larger towns attendance records prove the significant interest in the new sleeve-valve six which enters a sales field unique in that there is no competition in type or class with the new "70".

Upon the appearance of the new Willys-Knight Six "Seventy" Willys-Overland dealers in every part of the country oversold their quotas by a large margin. The Willys-Overland factory has stepped up production twice since the building of the new car was begun, and still the orders pile up at the factory despite the fact that 1,000 Willys-Overland cars a day is the production program fro the plant.

MAUNDAY THURSDAY TO BE OBSERVED BY MASONS

Thursday evening April 1st at 8:30 P. M. Scottish Rite Masons will meet in the basement of the Leader Building to observe Maundy Thursday.

Maundy Thursday is observed annually by Scottish Rite Masons the world over and it is obligatory on members to be present on that occasion. If it is impossible for such member to be present he must in spirit commune with the brethren of the Rite.

The following program has been arranged for Maundy Thursday:

Toast: "To the President of the United States."—Robt. Higgins, 32 degree.

Toast: "To the Supreme Council and Sovereign Grand Commander"—Chas. F. O'Neall, 33 degree.

Toast: "To the Sovereign Grand Inspector General in Texas."—Jas. H. Goodman, 32 degree.

Toast: "To the Most Worshipful Grand Lodge in Texas"—Neil H. Wright, 32 degree.

Toast: "To all regular Masons and Masonic Bodies of all Rites and Degrees over the surface of the Earth; honor and laurels to the worthy, health to the sick, comfort to the needy and succor to the oppressed everywhere."—Pink L. Parrish, 32 degree.

Toast: "To the Memory of the Brethren of these Degrees whose labors here below have ceased during the present Masonic year."—E. L. Robertson, 32 degree.

Address by W. M. Stockwell, 33 degree from El Paso Consistory.

DAN GOES TO DALLAS ON EVE OF HOFFMAN SUIT

AUSTIN, Texas, March 27.—Attorney General Dan Moody left today for Dallas to spend Sunday. He will be in Austin Monday to represent the state in the trial set for that day of the suit against the Hoffman Construction Company for cancellation of road surfacing contracts.

After April 1, Jake is Prescription Liquor

Your Uncle Samuel has decreed that "jake" is booze, and that as such its sale is prohibited. Therefore, after April 1st if you meet a fellow who bears a gingerish odor don't think for a moment he has been eating ginger cakes or drinking ginger ale, for the chances are he never saw either. He has been drinking Tr. of Ginger, the exceedingly hot, drunk producing liquid commonly known as "jake."

In the past this "dope" has served as a refreshment for the rabid anti-Volstead faction, and its sale has been wide-spread, and it has been found (more or less undisplayed) at many drug stores, dives and other places of business. The demand, however, has been greater than the supply despite the fact that in strength it plays second fiddle to nitro-hydrochloric acid only. It comes in cans and goes out in small bottles, and these bottles may be found in almost in any alley in America.

Heretofore Uncle Sam has not bothered with the "jake" business as he has had other things to occupy his time, but so prominent has this liquid become, Uncle Sam has decided to take a hand. In the past there have been city ordinances, state laws and other rule regulating its sale, but about all this rules and regulations have done has been to "bounce" the price. Uncle Sam would grant dealers' licenses and in a way protect him.

But after the first of next month there will be no "jake" licenses granted to anyone other than a prescription druggist, and then it must be retailed only on a doctor's prescription.

SHE WAS LATE, BUT HEAVY, AND GOT INTO MYRICKS BIG SALE

"Stand back—I've attended these here sales before," were the words of a buxom woman who entered Myrick's hardware store Saturday.

It was shortly after 10 o'clock, and people from far and near had filled the store to take advantage of the many bargains at the dollar day sale. The woman was a few moments late, but she had the difference with her—had it in avoirdupois and gall. Weaker members of her sex cringed as she pushed through the crowd, elbowing them and trampling them under her feet. But she won her goal—that is she managed to capture the bargain she wanted, and she didn't care what people thought.

And yet people wonder why progressive merchants advertise. A small advertisement in this paper was the cause of it all. Before the doors of the store were opened at 10 a. m. scores and hundreds of people had congregated at the front, and it was a mighty rush that followed. People pushed by officers, some got under counters, while others gritted their teeth and with the aid of elbows pushed through the crowd. An officer tried to keep two women from entering the wrong aisle—they shoved him aside. Just a little thing like an officer wasn't sufficient to stop them.

In twenty minutes the storm was over and people began moving away. They had purchased bargains—so why not be happy?

Auto Credit Abuse Menace to Dealers Wm. Cullum Says

Wm. D. Cullum, local Studebaker dealer, and a member of the State and National Automobile Dealers' Associations, stated yesterday that he will make an effort to interest all automobile dealers of Lubbock and the South Plains in a campaign to change the attitude of the public regarding the purchase and making notes for time payment for automobiles, without seriously considering their obligation in meeting these payments.

Thousands upon thousands of dollars are lost annually by automobile dealers because in the past they have permitted those failing to pay for these cars to return them and receive concelled papers, whereas by prosecution of those making false financial statements and in getting judgments for the unpaid balances, final collections could be effected, Cullum said yesterday.

The tendency on the part of purchasers to buy automobiles on time and then fail to pay for them is so prevalent that Mr. Cullum yesterday described it as a "Crime Wave," that is having ill effect on the automobile industry.

The National Automobile Dealers Association has recognized this "Crime Wave" and its dangers to the industry, and has adopted a program that if carried out by all legitimate dealers will protect them against losses.

At the meeting of the South Plains Automobile Dealers Association here Monday evening at the Tech Cafe, Mr. Cullum will explain his proposition to the South Plains dealers.

TECH-C-C BANQUET PLANNED FOR APRIL 1

Members of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and the Tech College faculty are at this time arranging for a real get-together meeting and banquet. The affair will be of an informal nature—a kind of April Fool's Day proposition, and will be held at the Tech Cafeteria at 7:27 o'clock on the night of April 1st.

While there will be plenty of fun and entertainment for all, certain important questions dealing with the welfare of both college people and business men will be discussed.

Tickets for the banquet will be on sale at the chamber of commerce rooms Monday, and people who care to attend are urged to make their reservations as early as possible as only a limited number of tickets will be sold. This is made necessary on account of limited space.

The arrangement committee is composed of F. A. Norman, H. D. WoWod and Spencer Wells of the chamber of commerce, and Prof. Mask and Miss Pirtle of the college, while Spencer Wells, B. C. Dickinson, Miss Pirtle and Dr. Waghorne will serve as program ocmmittee.

Because of traffic congestion in large cities in France, many firms are reinstating horse-drawn delivery service.

TRIBES OVERHAUL MARRIAGE CUSTOMS

MOSCOW (United Press)—While the question whether marriage as an institution should be abolished is being vehemently discussed all over Russia the wild Moslem tribesmen of the Caucasus Mountains have apparently reached the conclusion that their own marriage customs need a certain amount of overhauling.

Hitherto these tribesmen, when they wanted wives, were faced with the alternatives of buying or stealing. To buy a wife was a costly business; for besides paying a considerable sum in gold or cattle to the bride's father the bridegroom was obliged to entertain the whole village lavishly on the day of his betrothal. For the poorer tribesmen, therefore, stealing or kidnapping wives was almost obligatory; and this practice often led to blood feuds between the family of the bride and that of her kidnapper.

Now the Nachoy tribe of the North Caucasus, having held a general convention, has adopted by majority vote a series of resolutions calculated to make marriage in the Caucasus Mountains somewhat less expensive, difficult and bloody than it has been in the past. The gift of these resolutions which apparently have the force of local laws, is as follows

The stealing of wives is to be stopped and no woman can be married without her own consent. The suitor is not to be charged more than $25 for a girl ar more can $12.50 for a widow. When the suitor goes to see his bride unteiled for the first time he is not bound to spend money and kill sheep to feed the whole village. His obligations in this respect are limited to a payment of $2.50 and the killing of one sheep.

The penalty for seizing a woman against her own consent is a fine of $150, half of which is to be paid to the family of the bride and half to the village community. Uninvited guests who come to the marriage feast are charged $1.50 for the benefit of the host.

Besides economizing on marriage the Nachoy tribe decided to cut down the cost of funerals. Hitherto the death of any member of a tribesman's family was a serious financial blow; because the whole village expected to gorge itself at the funeral feast. Now the bereaved family's liability in this connection is fixed at one sheep.

SWEDEN TO PAY DEBT THROUGH LIQUOR TAX

STOCKHOLM (United Press)—Progressive payment of the public debt through the tax revenue from liquor has been recommended to the Swedish law makers by the Social-Deocratic government as part of its future financial program.

By the elimination of private profits and the institution of a public monopoly the state now derives an annual income for liquor of about $24,120,000 and part of this the government proposes to set aside, as heretofore, for a special social service fund and an increasing part for the payment of the public debt.

The purpose of this arrangement is to make the government less dependent for its current expenses on its income from the excise duties and thus ultimate lyprepare the way for even more drastic reforms. As the balance of power is now held in the Riksdag by the Popular Party, which is favorable to prohibition, the proposal is likely to be accepted.

PERMANENT ANTHRACITE PEACE BELIEVED NEAR ACHIEVEMENT THROUGH CONCILIATION BOARD

WASHINGTON, March 27—The real settlement of the anthracite strike is expected to be reached when the Anthracite Board of Conciliation, which in the past has handled inor grievances between miners and mine owners, works out a basis for recognition of the miners union through the check off.

One of the most singificant points in the agreement reached at Philadelphia was the provision to take up a modified check off at the next meeting of the conciliation board. It was tentatives agreed by the operators to accept "in principle" the checkoff demand with what were termed "reciprocal" working understanding with the union for better co-operation in the industry.

Official observers here who followed the series of negotiations, and the recurring deadlocks, during the courses of the strike, regard this understanding as the ground work for permanent peace in the anthracite region. If a plan of reciprocity is worked out they see no reason why the five year contract can not run on independently.

The check off has long been a demand of the United Mine Workers in the anthracite field. It has been practiced for years in union bituminous mines and has always been refused by the operators in the anthracite fields.

The plan of co-operation embraces assumption of responsibilities by union locals for stabilizing employment. One of the greatest losses in production has been the number of holidays taken by the miners. It is understood the union will try to keep up a more even production, aintaining the workings so as to eliminate the dead loss of idle days which adds to the cost of production.

Discipline imposed by the management through imposition of fines is expected to be supported by the union with establishment of new rules agreed upon mutually between the men and the owners.

Other reciprocal agreements may be reached that will have far reaching effect on the anthracite industry. It is admitted that the industry itself suffered tremendously from the strike. It was losing markets that will take some considerable effort to regain. Some sort of campaign is contemplated by the operators to restore confidence of the public in anthracite as a fuel. An effort is to be made to have new buildings equipped for anthracite as they had ben doing until the last year or so, when oil burning equipment began to meet favor. The miners will be counted on for support in regaining anthracite markets lost during the strike to other fuels.

Health Study

Adult Weight Conference

NEW YORK, Mar. 27.—One step has been taken toward finding the perfect weight scale for perfect helath.

Dr. Thomas D. Wood, professor of physical education and health advisor of Teachers College, Columbia University, announces the result of the first deliberations of the committee for the consideration of adequate height-weight-age tables for adults. Dr. Wood was appointed chairman of this committee by the Adult Weight Conference, recently held in the Academy of Medicine in New York, at the joint request of the American Medical Association and the Delineator magazine. The other members of this committee are Dr. Louis I. Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., and Dr. Claude H. Lavinder, Senior Surgeon of the United States Public Health Service.

"The work of our committee will be along the lines of Health standards and advice," said Dr. Wood. "It is now recognized that it is as essential for people in general to have scientific guidance, not only in matters relating to disease, but also in matters relating to health. One requires as great fundamental research, and as highly technical and professional skill as the other.

"The recent Conference for the study of the relation of normal adult weight to health," continued Dr. Wood, "made more clear than ever before the vast number and variety of investigations which will be needed in order to obtain necessary statistical data enabling more definite and more reliable statement and standards regarding health weight conditions.

"It is increasingly apparent," continued this physician and health-educator, "that if it is possible to arrive at a method of classifying people of the same character, according to types of physique, this will be of great value to the future health of the nation. "However," he cautioned, " no such a method of scientific investigation providing the data necessary for such a basis of classification has at present been worked out."

This research may be the first problem before Dr. Wood and his associates of this committee. As chairman, he believes it will be important to carry out extensive investigation of exact physical measurements on a considerable range and variety of individuals. Among the groups that may be measured, it is likely there will be included college students, housewives, business men and women, industrial workers, etc., he states.

"Just what the nature of these measures will be, must be determined later," the chairman said, "and this may be one of the important contributions of the committee and the Weight Conference. At present there is wide diversity of opinion on this subject, and no conclusive study has been made, heretofore, to determine the relation between weight and health. Some reliable preliminary data in this field, however, has been gathered by certain life insurance companies, particularly by the Metropolitan.

"It is obviously unscientific and unreasonable to attempt to lump people of different racial and constitutional types together," he explained. "It will be the object of this committee to put out as many helpful, steadying statements as possible, which will serve as a guide to people of intelligence who are willing to listen to the words of those whose professional and scientific training should make their advice the safest to follow on matters of health and disease.

"The results of the research of this committee, we hope, will save men and women from the errors and injuries which would result from following the very definite advice given by certain unscientific advisers. And it is a fact that non-scientists are always more confident and exact in their advice than those who have had extensive scientific training and experience.

This Committee forfinding accurate and scientific tables of adult weight in relation to height, age, and individual variations, hopes to be as definite as is consistent with accuracy, Dr. Wood gave assurance. Summing up the Committee's purpose and plans, he said thre ephases of service are apparent at this time.

1. The Committee, through the Conference, will give out, as soon as possible, clear, confident statements based on the present known data and knowledge regarding weight standards and health.

2. It will recommend and foster whatever studies seem necessary and desirable to produce the requisite data for a clear understanding of the whole subject, and will recommend the immediate undertaking of adequate research.

3. The Committee, in its capacity as one of the vocal expressions of the Adult Weight Conference,—the first gathering of this sort ever held in the world—is anxious to give out helpful advice as rapidly as this can safely and dependably be given. The final object, of course, is to find a means of telling what is the perfect weight for perfect health.

The first of the series of articles growing out of the Adult Weight Conference, which will be written by physicians and other distinguished scientists, will appear in the June issue of the Delineator magazine, when Dr. Wendell C. Phillips, president-elect of the American Medical Association, will discuss the problem of weight control in relation to health, and the dangers of overweight and underweight, and particularly the national menace to health resulting from the American woman's slavish obedience to the fashionable fad of the "Boyish form," and "reducing" by starvation or mechanical means.

Visitor's Week!

Visitor's week is featured once each year by all the leading laundries in the United States.

for the purpose of getting acquainted with the efficiency and sanitation in handling their laundry and the many different machines used in the up-to-date plant.

This week is visitor's week at these two laundries, come let us show you how your clothes are taken care of when sent to us.

We are going to give ten cents for every person visiting our laundries this week Each person will have to register with some civic, social, or church club. To the club registering the most people at the Lubbock Laundry will be given ten dollars in cash in addition to the ten cents per person and the same applies also to the club registering the largest number of people at the Beaty's Steam Laundry The one winning the Lubbock Laundry prize will not be eligible for the ten dollar prize given by the Beaty's Steam Laundry. In this manner two clubs will win a ten dollar cash prize in addition to the ten cents per person given by each of these two laundries. The clubs who do not win will have made their club a nice sum at twenty cents per person (ten cents at each laundry.)

Ladies get your car and bring your friends to the laundries–they do not have to be members of your club just so they havn't registered with some other organization.

Both Laundries will be open each afternoon from one to five thirty to show you through their plant.

SEAGRAVES COMMUNITY HAS STEADY GROWTH

Poultry Growers of Gaines County Plan Great Year

OFFICERS OF COUNTY ORGANIZATION WILL ENDEAVOR TO STOCK COUNTRY WITH PURE BRED HENS—BAN SCRUBS

BY RAY B. McCORKLE
Staff Correspondent

SEAGRAVES, March 27—The Gaines County Poultry Association organized in this city several months ago is waging a membership campaign at this time, and it now apears that before the close of the present year a majority of farmers, as well as many business men will have become members.

At a recent meeting held in conjunction with the Seminole Chamber of Commerce, 22 new members were added, and a special meeting will be held at Loop Tuesday night. At least 20 members will be added at this time, it is thought.

President Monroe Jones is an expert poultry breeder and he is doing all within his power to influence farmers of this county to stock their yards with standard bred fowls. idea that the scrub hen is as good as the standard bred hen is a joke," said Mr. Jones. "One had just well say the long-horn steer is as good and profitable as the registered white-face. There is no comparison in a long-horn and a Hereford, and there is no comparison between a standard bred hen and a mongrel."

There are people who think the Leghorn is the only good layer, and that Reds and Rocks are the only meat birds. By crossing them they figure they will get a good layer and a good meat bird all in one. But this is not true, says Mr. Jones.

The Leghorn and Reds are the more popular birds in this section, though no less than 12 varieties of fowls were shown at the first show last year. There is now a step on foot to get other varieties imported into the country.

Business Men Interested

Clint Armstrong, banker, automobile dealer, ranch owner, chamber of commerce leader and general community builder stated to the writer he would be in the poultry business next year. He will probably have only a few birds, but he plans to have some good ones. Mr. Armstrong will breed the Andalusian Blues. This is by no means a new variety though there are very few Andalusians found in this section of the state.

There are several breeders in this city who favor the Wyandottes, and all five branches including the whites, partridge, silver laced, golden and Columbian, will be found in Gaines County.

It is hoped that some 25 varieties may be shown at the county fair this fall, and there is no good reason why this should not be. Gaines County is ideally located for the successful growing of poultry and there are hundreds of people interested in the industry one way or another.

The cow, sow and hen program has attracted the attention of many farmers in this section of the state and those who have adopted it have learned it pays.

SEAGRAVES MODERN HIGH SCHOOL COMPLETED

SEAGRAVES, March 27—While Seagraves is only a small city of some 750 souls it boasts one of the best public school systems found on the South Plains. Citizens have just completed a modern $75,000 high school building, and it is a credit to the city.

The old building, also a modern brick structure, will be used as a ward school.

Many Cattle Shipped By Seagraves People

SEAGRAVES, March 27—Although the cattle industry has been hard hit during recent years, Seagraves ranchmen continue to lead all others in the production of high-grade cattle. For a number of years Seagraves lead all other cities in cattle shipments. As many as 1,020 cars have been shipped from this point in the course of a year, and it is nothing uncommon for 200 cars to be moved within a period of 30 days.

The cattle business is coming back at this time. Prices are better than they have been for some time, while feed prices have declined. Many ranchment in this section state they will be in position to feed their stock this year and market them this fall at a good profit.

The country is fairly well stocked and spring shipments will start about the middle of April. From 150 to 400 cars will be moved from this point.

HOTEL MAN PLEASES ALL HIS GUESTS

SEAGRAVES, March 27—If you are hungry—then eat. That is the slogan of Mr. House, owner of the leading hostery here. Recently a traveling representative of the Boy Scout organization arrived in the city at midnight. He was hungry and tired, and he meekly asked if he might have a little bread and butter. He was served with a real feast, and was surprised when the owner didn't want to hold him up.

A day or so later a guest registered at the hotel late in the afternoon, but told the hotel man he would leave at once for a trip to the country, and that he would not be back until eleven or twelve that night.

"Well, that is all right," said Mr. House, "and if you are hungry when you get back just slip into the kitchen and you will find plenty to eat—just help yourself."

The weary traveler slowly walked fro mthe building, but admitted to nimself that western hospitality is still evidence.

SILVERTON-QUITAQUE BRIDGE IS FINISHED

SILVERTON, March 27.—The new bridge on the Ozark trail between Silverton and Quitaque has been completed at a cost of $3,000 the was under Wm. Amerson of the Silverton division, of the state highway commission, the entire route of the Ozard trail from Tulia to Estelline is now in excellent condition.

CLEANEST GROCERY LOCATED IN SEMINOLE

SEMINOLE, Texas, March 27—There are larger towns than Seminole, and larger stores than the Halley grocery, here, but there is not a cleaner or more modern store in Texas. The stock is housed in a modern, new brick building and the interior is solid white. The stock is well arranged and properly displayed.

Mrs. Halley cares for all decorations, and once each week goes over the stock with clean dust cloths. As a whole the store gives the impression of a modern city drug store rather than a country grocery.

Would Lift Ban on New Mexico Cattle

(Staff Special to The Avalanche)

SEAGRAVES, March 27—A petition is being circulated by cattlemen this week asking that the State Livestock Commission remove the qusrantine on clean New Mexico cattle. There are no ticks in this country and it is thought the quarantine is an imposition rather than a benefit. A few herds have scabbies, but inspectors will weed them

SEAGRAVES GETS FINE SNOW

SEAGRAVES, March 27—Snow fell here Friday which equals in moisture to a three-quarter of an inch rain. This places a splendid season in the ground, and means a planting season for the farmers who will begin at an early date to plant.

FARMERS FROM CONGESTED CENTERS IN EAST MOVING TO GAINES COUNTY; MANY NEW HOMES NOW BEING BUILT

BY RAY B. McCORKLE
Staff Correspondent

SEAGRAVES, March 27—The rapid development of West Texas, especially the great South Plains section, is attracting the attention of hundreds and thousands of people now residing in the congested areas of the East. To say that any one section of this district is coming in for more play and attention than others would be unfair, for there is not a county on the South Plains that has not doubled in population during recent years. Yet the average homeseeker finds more attractions, more glowing opportunities in one county than he will in another.

There is a reason for this and it is easy to explain: Every man has dreamed of a home some day, and when he gets ready to buy he is likely to locate in a section where the lay of the country—where soil and climatic conditions come nearest to bringing the dream true.

That is why Gaines county and, especially the little city of Seagraves are enjoying such a remarkable growth at this time. Located in the extreme western portion of the state and blessed with fertile lands, a wonderful climae and ideal living conditions this section offers many opportunities. Gaines county, and especially Seagraves has never been properly advertised to the outside world. Many people feel that when one leaves Lubbock or the main line of the Santa Fe and starts in a westwardly or southwestwardly direction that it will be only a matter of moments when they will find themselves in a great barren desert where water is scarce and sand hills numerous.

They picture, in their minds, the long-horned steer, the seedy cowpuncher, the sage bush and sand, sand, sand. The journey is a dreaded one, and unless they are forced to go very few people ever make the initial trip into this district. It is something to be avoided. Of course they know nothing about the country only what they have read in 10 cent magazines, and the so-called stories depicting life in the wild west, are, as a rule, written by mental perverts who have an idea that civilization begins and ends in little Bohemia or New York's east side. They never saw a cow in any form other than in cheap cuts of steak, and they wouldn't know sandy loam soil from brick clay. Yet unscrupulous publishers accept their stories and some moderately intelligent people read and believe them.

Sounds like a joke, but so far the joke has been on the West. These

Seagraves Today

Seagraves, the most prosperous and thriving little city on the South Plains extends a cordial invitation to all home-seekers

TO VISIT THIS CITY

Location

Seagraves is centrally located on the South Plains in the extreme northermost portion of Gaines County, and at this time has a population of approximately 750. Although the city has enjoyed a steady and substantial growth it has never experienced a "boom."

Seagraves is 64 miles southwest of Lubbock and is the terminus town on the Santa Fe railway.

Seagraves is in the very heart of one of the richest agricultural sections found anywhere in Texas, and the country is rapidly being populated with wide-awake and progressive farmers.

Seagraves Has

Seagraves has one of the best public schools in the State and at this time a $75,000.00 high school building is just being completed.

Seagraves is one of the leading cattle shipping points of America. As many as 1,200 cars of cattle have been shipped from this point in a period of one year.

Seagraves has a number of modern stores, beautiful residences and building still continues.

Seagraves has an ideal climate, shallow water, and one looking for a home will do well to investigate the opportunities offered here.

Seagraves Needs

Seagraves needs more farmers—real producers who are willing to accept advantages offered here.

Seagraves needs a more adequate telephone system—one that will connect the city with nearby rural communities.

Seagraves needs a modern steam laundry and a light and power plant.

If interested we suggest that you take the matter up with our Chamber of Commerce. All letters of inquiry will be cheerfully and promptly answered.

If you are looking for a home; if you desire to make a change in your location, or if you are planning to open a new business let us know your requirements. Yours to serve.

The State of Texas.

To E. R. Dean, and all persons owning or having or claiming any interest in the land or lots hereinafter described, the same being delinquent to the State of Texas and County of Lubbock for taxes, and the same lying and being situated in the County of Lubbock and State of Texas, to-wit:

Being Lot No. 19 in Block 20 of the Original Town of Lubbock, Lubbock County, Texas, as the same is shown by map or plat of said Original Town on file in the Deed Records of said Lubbock County, Texas, which said property is delinquent to the State of Texas and County of Lubbock for taxes for the year 1923 aggregating the sum of $14.36, including interest, penalties and costs, said taxes having been legally levied, assessed and rendered against said land and lots, and the same being a lawful charge and constituting a prior lien against the same in favor of the State of Texas and County of Lubbock to secure the payment thereof, fourteen and 36-100 dollars.

And you are hereby commanded to be and appear before the Honorable District Court of Lubbock County, Texas, at the next regular term thereof, to be held at the courthouse of said County, in the City of Lubbock on the first Monday in April 1926, A. D., the same being the fifth day of April 1926, A. D., then and there to show cause why judgment should not be rendered against you and the said land and lots sold under foreclosure of said lien to satisfy said taxes, interest, penalties and costs, and all court costs; all of which, together with other and further relief, general and special, being fully set out and prayed for in the plaintiff's original petition filed in said court on the 19th day of November, and appearing on the docket thereof as suit No. 1360, wherein the State of Texas is plaintiff, and F. R. Dean, and all persons owning or having or claiming any interest in said land or lots, defendants.

Given under my hand and seal of said court, at office in the City of Lubbock in the County of Lubbock this 12th day of January, A. D. 1926.

(Seal) LOUIE F. MOORE,
Clerk District Court,
Lubbock County, Texas.

CANYON PARAGRAPHS

(By Glenn Burgess)

Funny weather we are having. As usual, Wednesday was the most peculiar day we have ever seen. And rain, we have had the best rain we could wish for. Prospects are better for a good crop, than we have had in a number of years at this time. If we had some oats sowed, it sure would produce the goods. Rain, summer weather, and cold northers within a week give us weather that we can never claim as monotonous.

The rain that we had reminds us that if we had some of our land terraced, that chances would be better for a crop. Terracing is not to conserve the moisture, but to catch the rain and keep it from running down into the basins where it is not needed. Terracing seems to offer the only solution in keeping the water on the land, and if we also contour the rows, then we have one of the hard dashing showers in the spring, the fiel dwould be more evenly watered. The farmers have reached the climax in preserving moisture but they have yet to learn how to evenly distribute it.

Some of our farmers are ready to start planting corn. Now is the time to plant it, and plant it deep. Then the roots have a chance to tap the underground moisture, and if there comes a little drouth when the corn is silking, then the corn that is planted deep, will show itself. It is a good idea to plant any kind of feed crop deep.

The Denver road controversy is creating a little speculation in our community. The proposed surveys cross a number of farms and every one is hoping that the road will cross the other person's property. At any rate, if the road comes near the school house, we will have us a gin and a little town in no time at all.

School is coming along nicely once more. The children are already counting the days until vacation time comes.

Some of the children have been coming home bringing some terrible tales about snakes and other tropical animals. We are glad that they have taken up the study of nature. Maybe the tales originate from the fact that one of the teachers has a new pair of glasses and when reading, they tell a different story. We also wish that another teacher would set things straight by telling us for sure whether or not she is going to be, or is already married. The students are worrying so much about it that they are liable to neglect their studies.

Thursday night, the members of the Dramatic Club were given a Theatre Party at the Lindsey Theatre. Every one enjoyed the Hawaiian music an ddancing.

On Friday night Miss Francis entertained a number of friends from Lubbock and Canyon. Also, a tacky party was given at the home of Mr. Adams. It is needless to say that everyone had a grand time at both pplaces.

It is reported that Mr. Walker will give a party Friday night. We are sure there will be a large crowd.

Last Friday afternoon, the Canyon ball club beat Acuff to the tune of 8 to 5. B. Sherrod took the mound position, and showed that he had some real pitching ability.

W. D. Sides is home on a short visit. He will return to Dallas this week, where he is working.

Ted Barnette was a Ralls visitor Saturday.

Clande Griffin left Tuesday for Fort Worth where he will visit his mother and brothers. He intends to be gone about a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Bridgeman of Amarillo were visitors this week in the home of J. A. Burgess.

Miss Gainie Nix was visited Sunday afternoon by Nell Owen, Marie Trotter, and Mary ou Ammons.

Mr. Roberts was in Lubbock Wednesday on business. He stated that he was ready for the weather to warm up enough for planting.

Brother Agee, preached Sun-day morning and night. He is delivering some god sermons, and the auditorium should be filled every time he is there. Bro. Norcross preaches next Sunday. Let's give him a good attendance.

Speaking of church, it might be well to remind you of the four meetings going on in Lubbock. It is well worth the time spent at any of these places.

SMYER NEWS

This community is rejoicing over the good rain (perhaps one inch) that fell last Saturday evening and night. It enabled farmers to finish breaking land and to get it in condition for the spring planting.

At this writing (Wednesday) it is drizzling rain.

The health of the community has improved although there are some colds and flu yet.

Mr. R. P. Markham was on the sick list last week-end, but we are glad to report him up at present.

Mrs. J. C. Turney spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. Lusk of the Monroe community. Mrs. Lusk has been very ill for four weeks but is perhaps some better at present.

Messrs. R. P. Markham, A. Mann and T. A. Woolam were business visitors in Levelland Monday.

Mr. O. W. Barber returned from Colorado Wednesday where, he had been for some time on business.

Mrs. W. S. Watson, of Farmersville and son, A. C. Watsonn of McKinney and family, who have been visiting their sons and brothers, Messrs. Ernest and Arthur Watson o fthis community, returned home Wednesday.

Mr. McDougal and family of Lockney are moving to his brother's place north of the townsite this week. We are glad to welcome this good family into our midst.

TAX ON GIRLS' "DATES" TO SWELL COLLEGE FUNDS

GRAND FORKS, N. D., March 28 A memorial tax of 10 cents has been levied on every "date" at the University of North Dakota. It is part of the plan to swell the fund for the new half million dollar Memorial Stadium.

Making a crafty appeal to the social pride of sororities, each week's donations from every sorority will be published in "The Student" and it is expected that in lean weeks, the girls will toss in a few extra dimes to sustain their reputations for popularity.

A CLARION CALL TO THE THRIFTY

Selling of the Newest Spring Apparel

The Last Week Of Our Ninth ANNIVERSARY SALE

The years of history back of this institution are written in terms of friendship and service rather than dollars and cents. We have provided Clothing, Dry Goods, Shoes and Musical Instruments to the people of this city and county and surrounding counties for nine years—we have provided merchandise of true worth, merchandise that was built upon honor and sold upon merit at the lowest prices consistent with the high quality standard we established in the beginning. And now with this achievement of consistent value-giving and happy, friendly service established, we have launched a thrift event that amplifies your dollars. . . . . Superlatives have been overworked, true, they have lost much of their dictionary meaning. But figures are left as an exact medium for expression. And the price figures placed on the merchandise in our store during the remaining days of this Sale will cause immense throngs to continue coming to Barrier Bros. store, knowing that the prices are unbelievably low, the quality and values unbelievably high.

NEW CUSTOMERS—WE WANT TO MOST SINCERELY GREET YOU DURING THE NEXT SIX DAYS OF THIS ANNIVERSARY SALE—to begin friendships that are sure to grow with the years.

POULTRY CLUB IS GAINING GREATER ATTENTION

Special to The Avalanche.

HEREFORD, March 27—Much interest was shown by the people of the Summerfield community at the initial meeting of the Summerfield Poultry Club Wednesday afternoon. Nineteen adults and a large number of school children were in attendance. Those in attendance were very enthusiastic over the future possibilities of the poultry industry for Deaf Smith County.

The subject of breeding was discussed at the initial meeting, and many valuable points were brought out by the various community speakers. The next meeting will be held April 16, and "housing and parasites" will be discussed at that meeting. Judging from the number that are planning to go into the poultry business on a larger scale, the poultry industry is liable to double in the Summerfield community within the next two years.

LORENZO GRANTED ANOTHER RURAL ROUTE

Special to The Avalanche.

LORENZO, March 27.—That Mrs. Hoople, our efficient postmistress, is ever on the alert to give her patrons better service, is proven again this last week when she received notification that Rural Route No. 1 out of Lorenzo would be extended about 28 miles on May 1st. This is in fact just another Rural Route for Lorenzo. Irl Robertson will carry the mail on both of these routes. The time of leaving Lorenzo on the old route will remain the same as in the past, 8:00 a. m. and back at 10:45 a. m. On the new route he will leave at 11:45 a. m.

This new route goes southwest of Lorenzo for several miles and then turns west and goes to the Dalton community and thence north to the Highway and then east to Lorenzo. It will serve at least 100 families, and this is a conservative estimate. This will be a great service to the people on his route and cutting the time much shorter on receiving their mail than the way it is at the present time.

Mrs. Hoople has been working on this ruote for several months, and, she as well as the patrons of the local post office are very much elated over its establishment.

Brownfield To Unite In Clean-Up Campaign

Special to The Avalanche.

BROWNFIELD, March 27 — The Chamber of Commerce of Brownfield and the Federated Woman's Clubs of Terry County have agreed to consolidate in their activities in the Clean-up Campaign beginning March 28th.

All committees have been appointed and are actively engaged in their various duties and it is expected that the work will be successful in every way. Prizes are being offered in town and in the school districts of the county and these will be awarded on the last day of the campaign.

KUYKENDALL RETURNS FROM DEALERS MEET AT OKLAHOMA CITY

All previous production and sales records are to be shattered by the Chevrolet Motor Co., during 1926. according to G. P. Kuykendall, well known local motor car dealer who has just returned from Oklahoma City where he attended the annual meeting of Chevrolet dealers of the State of Oklahoma.

The local automobile merchant says that there were almost six hundred motor car men in attendance at the great sales conclave; and he returned to his home with the "big picture" of the Chevrolet program for the coming months. In addition to the dealers who attended the merchandising conference and the annual banquet, there were many prominent bankers present from all sections of this State.

R. H. Grant, vice-president and general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co., a man who is internationally recognized as one of the outstanding sales executives of the auto industry, presided at the sales convention and was the principal speaker at the dealer's banquet. The commander-in-chief of the Chevrolet sales forces was accompanied to the Southwest metropolis by his executive staff which includes a group of nationally known specialists who head various divisions of the vast Chevrolet organization; and, according to Mr. Kuydendall, it was the largest delegation of automobile factory executives that ever invaded this territory.

Mrs. Alexander Faill of Glasgow has presented her husband with her third set of twins.

FRUIT TREES ARE BEING GRAFTED AT HEREFORD

Special to The Avalanche.

HEREFORD, March 27—Work has started on the grafting of 25,000 fruit trees at the Hereford Nursery Company, and plans are being made to bud over 100,000 trees during the summer months, according to Joe Landrum, business manager. Everything points to a big year for the local company on account of the many homeseekers who are coming into this section, according to Landrum.

The local company was established nearly twenty five years ago, when most of this section was a vast cattle range, and has probably done as much towards the development of this region by proving just what can be raised in the way of fruits, as any other institution. Over three hundred varieties of fruit trees have been tested out by the Hereford Nursery during the past twenty years, to determine the best varieties for this section.

Lynn County School Meet At Wilson

Special to The Avalanche.

TAHOKA, March 27—The county interscholastic contests will be held at Wilson on Friday and Saturday of next week. Contests will be held in debating, declamation, ex-tempore speaking, spelling, arithmetic, and music memory. All the fild and track events will also be held.

Supt, R. E. Key of Wilson is the Director-General. Supt, Rickard of O'Donnell is the director of debate, Prof Edwards of O'Donnell is director of Athletics, Supt, Nelson of Tahoka is the director of Arithmetic. We failed to get the information as to who is director of declamation and other contests.

All the schools of the county, both the town and the rural schools, will participate in these contests. All visitors will be entertained by he people of Wilson and beds will be furnished those who are compelled or desire to remain over night.

The winners in these contests will participate in the district contests to be held at Lubbock about two weeks later, and the winners in the district contests will go to the state contests at Austin.

Tahoka Receives New Fire Truck

Special to The Avalanche.

TAHOKA, March 27—Tahoka's new fire truck arrived Tuesday. The boys tried it out Tuesday night and were higly pleased with the way it performed. With a pressure of only 110 pounds they shot a stream of water to the top of the flag pole on the court house. The pump has a pressure capacity of 350 pounds and is capable of forcing 400 gallons of water through the two nozzles every minute. When the engine is in action two streams of water may be thrown. The truck has 1200-foot hose body and is equipped with two cheical tanks and all necessary apparatus. Full pressure was not put on Tuesday night for the reason that the new hose had not arrived and it was feared that the old hose would not stand the strain. One thousand feet of new double jacket hose has been ordered and is expected any day which is guaranteed to stand the strain of 350-pound pressure which the engine is capable of creating.

This new fire truck is a handsome vehicle and it is said to be one of the best to be found in any city the size of Tahoka. It was purchased at a cost of $5,825 to the city. Prior to the purchase of this truck the city was practically without any protection against fire. The boys are wonderfully proud of their new machine and the citizens of the city can now rest much easier than heretofore.

The city is also taking steps to procure a larger water supply. A contract was let at a meeting of the city council Tuesday night to clean out and rim out the city's big well. That work is being done now, with the prospect that it will afford a much greater water supply than heretofore.

CONTRACT LET FOR NOLAN CLUB HOUSE, COST $3,410

Special to The Avalanche.

SWEETWATER, Mar. 27.—W. E. Noah was the low bidder and was awarded the contract for enlarging the Country Club house at a meeting of the building committee of that organization Wednesday.

The contract price was $3,410. Mr. Noah announces that work will begin Monday on the badly needed enlargement of the club house facilities. The membership of the Country Club has doubled in the past few months, necessitating enlarged club rooms.

A railway is being built in French Equatorial Africa.

Snow Reported At Littlefield

LITTLEFIELD, March 27—It began snowing Friday morning about 6:30 and kept it up steadily all day. It was warm and the snow melted as fast as it fell, and helped to put a wonderful season in the ground. This, added to the splendid rains of last week insures sufficient moisture to bring up all crops. Most of the land has been put up and is in good shape for planting, and the farmers and merchants, and everyone are very optimistic for the future.

SEAGRAVES COMMUNITY HAS STEADY GROWTH

stories are not true, but nevertheless they have advertisd West Texas as a very desolate and undesirable section.

Crops are Prolific

There are people on the South Plains who figure that all Panhandle-Plains counties along the Texas-New Mexico border are just a prolonged series of sand-dunes, and that they serve only one purpose—that of holding the world together. These people have never seen West Texas and they couldn't tell you whether New Mexico is a stat, city or county.

There is some sand in Gaines county. There is some sand in and near Seagraves, though not half as much as one would suppose. Mixed as it is with clay it forms a very desirable soil, and farmers in this section are harvesting some wonderful crops. It isn't "blow" sand but "grow" sand, and farmers have been known to pay for a farm in this county out of the proceeds of one crop. Such a record as this has never been made east of the Mississippi.

Cotton is successfully grown in Gaines county, and when it comes to feed better soil can not be found for its growth. Crop failures are unknown. Bankers will loan money on the prospects of a feed crop any year, and that is more than bankers will do in the great "all cotto nbelt." Cotton isn't sure anywhere only in cheap wool suits—they always have a surplus. But feed crops in Gaines and adjoining counties are as regular as the rising of the sun, and crop eclipses are not known.

And the fellow who has an idea that water is scarce should visit Seagraves and try counting the windmills. Good water, pure water and sufficient water, even for irrigation purposes may be found at from 70 to 100 feet.

Land prices in the Seagraves country are very reasonable. Good unimproved land may be purchased at from $12.50 to $18.00 an acre, while improved farms bring as high as $30 and $40 per acre.

The county as a whole is adopted to farming though only a small per cent is now being cultivated. Scores of new farms have been put in during recent months, and within a few years Gaines county will be numbered with the leading agricultural counties of the great Southwest.

WHAT FARMERS ARE DOING

Mr. J. H. Smith, who lives between Abernathy and Petersburg, was in the city Saturday, and gave us some points from that part of the country. He said the farmers all had their land put in good shape, that is, it had about all been listed. He said some have re-listed their land and are ready to plant when the time comes. He thinks where the land can be broken early, it is all right to break it, but where the land can not be broken early, it is better to list it. He said the feed crops last year were very fine and that there would be good acreage planted again this year. Mr. Smith thinks one of the greatest drawbacks to the farmers of this country is that they try to cultivate too much land and said if they would all cultivate less land there would be much sure results and this would give more room for good farmers from other parts of the country to come and make homes here with us.

Mr. A. C. Wright, who lives near Shallowater, was in the cit ySaturday. He said the farmers had about all the land plowed and were ready to plant when the time comes. He said quite a lot of them had disced their land, this time and the disced land seemed to be in the best condition for planting. He said there seems to be good moisture right under the disced land. He says this year's experience has increased his faith in the use of the disc in preparing a good seed bed. He says if the discing is done very shallow then the land might blow, as some claim it will, but if the discing is done with twenty-inch discs weighted down so that the discing will be good and deep there will be no danger of blowing.

Mr. A. E. Bishop, who lives near Shallowater, was in the city Saturday. He said he has part of his land disced and some of it listed. He says he has heretofore listed all his land but is well pleased with the land he has disced this time. He said an East Texas man was living near him, and he borrowed his stalk cutter and cut up his stalks fine and that work seemed to help the land to retain the moisture and was one of the causes of his having disced his land, or a part of it. He said he made a good feed crop last year, and would plant a good acreage again this year in feed. He says the farmers learned one good lesson last year and that is to take more pains in growing feed. He said if there had been short feed crops this year with the damage from the freeze on the cotton, the farmers would have been in bad plight.

Mr. H. C. Farris, was in from Monroe Saturday. He said about all the farmers had thei rland listed; a few had disced their land and some had broke it, but the general practice was listing. Many, he said, had re-listed the land, and some are now re-listing. He said some of the farmers harrowed the land soon after listing and before re-listing which he thinks is a good plan. He said he had harrowed some of his land so that he could change the rows and the result was so satisfactory that that he thought he would adopt it as a good plan to follow whenever he lists his land any more.

Mr. C. R. Brownlee, who lives ten miles west of the city, was in Saturday. He said the farmers have their land fairly well plowed, that is most all of them have their land ready to plant. He said most of the land had been listed, some had flat broke their land, while a few had disced it. He said the feed crop last year was fine and all the farmers had plenty of feed and they would plant a good acreage to feed again this year. He said there was a hail out that way last year that did the cotton much damage. He said he had lots of cotton that would have made a bale per acre if he hail had no struck it. He thinks there will be a considerable reduction in cotton acreage out his way. Mr. Brownlee had some fine sorghum hay he was offering for sale and said he had quite a lot more that he would sell later on. We are glad to see this nice hay, as this market uses many thousand dollars worth of hay produced out of this county that should be grown here. Sudan hay is another crop that is used very extensively here and not much of it is growing in this county. We think it will be a great day for Lubbock and Lubbock county when our farmers study more carefully our own home markets and grow things for it instead of growing so much cotton that will likely get cheaper as the years go by. Why not grow more hay of the different varieties this year.

Mr. Joe Herzt, who lives five miles west of the city was in last week. He said he has just got started to plowing his land as he had only been on this place for a short time, will diversify his crop and not go too strong on cotton.

Joe as he is familiarly called by his friends is a real farmer. Several years ago when we had some very dry years he grew large crops of crowder peas and sold them on this market when other farmers failed to grow such crops. He believes in growing every thing possible for the home market and usually has some thing to sell at all times of the season. Joe is a real farmer.

Mr. E. W. Terry, who was in from New Home community was in with Mr. De Priest. Each had brought in a supply of butter which they had sold when we were talking to him. Mr. Terry said he had flat broken all of his land and believes in breaking and then harrowing the land as soon as possible after breaking, or as soon as there is any rain or snow. He says when he is ready to plant he lays off his land with cultivator with sweeps on the cultivator, so that there are no weeds left. These laid off rows are in the middles when the planting is done and all the land is clean.

We are strong for breaking land, instead of listing, and are always glad to find men who have the same views about the preparation of a good seed bed. We feel sure that when the farmers of these plains will go down deep with good breaking and that early in the season, there will be much better results. We think we are getting entirely too small yields on these plains when we consider the high class of land we have to deal with.

Our long time friend, Mr. J. A. Burgess, was in the city Saturday he had part of his land well disced and had treid to list it merely to keep from being idle, but said it is in such fine condition that he had decided that it was useless to work it any more, until he was ready or until the season is right for planting. Mr. Burgess is in the class of our best farmers, and his practices on his farm, is no bad idea for any others to follow. Mr. Burgess has not only been a successful farmer in this county but was in the same class in Grayson county and in Coleman county where we first knew him.

Mr. R. I. Dorthan, who lives at Ropesville, Hockley county, was in the city Saturday and gave us some very interesting items from that county. He said the farmers out his way had their land pretty well plowed up. He said quite a lot of them had their land flat broken, some had listed. He said the farmers were getting more an dmore in the practice of breaking their land than formerly and he thinks that is a good idea. He believes in breaking this land and in breaking it deep and early.

He said the men who broke their land last year had made better feed crops than had the men who had only listed it.

He said he had been on the plains ten years and had never bought any feed since baking his first crop. He thinks with good cultivation good feed can be grown here any year that has come during the 10 years since he has been here. He is delighted with the plains as a farming country.

Mr. C. L. Jones, ho lives 7 miles west was in the city Saturday. He said he had his land nearly all listed and is now re-listing part of it. He said he would plant a good feed crop as no farmers could afford to be short on feed.

He said the farmers out his way all had an abundance of feed and all are strong for growing plenty of feed each year. He said the short feed crop of "24" had taught them a good lesson that they would not likely to forget roon. Mr. A. N. Casey was in from near the same place. Mr. Casey has only 80 acres in farm but has his land all up in good shape. He will plant half of his ond in cotton, balance in feed. He is in favor of growing lots of feed. He thinks no farmer can succeed who fails to grow his own feed Mr. Casey is a nephew of that good farmer, Mr. B. W. Casey, who lives at Carlisle, and who always produces good crops.

Mr. L. G. De Priest, who lives near New Home, Lynn county, was in the city Saturday. The farmers have their land in about the best condition he has seen it at this season of the year, before in a long time. He said there had been more land flat broken this year, than common, or that there ever has been before. However there had been quite a lot of the land listed, as had been the custom most all the years in the past. He said the feed crops were rather short in his immediate neighborhood, on account of very dry weather last year, but thought they would possibly have enough to do them. He said there would be an increased acreage of feed planted in his part of the country this year, as the farmers had learned the importance of growing lots of feed. He said there were very few hogs in that county, but the farmers were growing more poultry and growing more good milk cows than heretofore, and that they were selling quite a lot of the butter. He said they brought in their butter twice a week and found ready market for it all the time. He thinks when the farmers learn to grow plenty of good poultry, and have good cows for milk, and then get a few whogs and produce their own meat they will be on the road to independence. In discussing the farm problems and the best way to prepare land for the best seed bed he said all land should be disced before either listing or breaking.

Mr. C. L. Graston, who lives at Wolffarth, was in the city Saturday and said when he moved there recently he thought he was getting out in the country but the city has enlarged so rapidly that he is now within the city limits or where it has recently been laid off to extend. Mr. Graston came here last winter from Denison, and had some difficulty in getting a farm to rent but finally got located with Mr. Bob Penny and is well pleased with the plains country. He is a real farmer and we are glad to have him near us again.

Mr. J. D. Gamble was on the streets this morning. He has a small farm in Runnels county near Wingate. The farmers made only short crops down there last year the feed crops were rather short, and right near his farm there was not much grain sown, but the farmers were all in good spirits this year, and very hopeful for a good crop.

Mr. A. E. Guillot, who lives southeast six miles, and near the Burrus switch was in the city Tuesday and gave us some information about farming out his way he said he had his land all listed up and was ready to plant, he said he is thinking of re-listing his land if there should come any more rain before planting time. He will plant 50 acres in feed and balance of 100 acres in cotton. He has some good cows and a nice flock of poultry and believes in growing all the vegetables and peas and every thing else that is needed for home use, so that he will not depend on cotton alone for a living. He has lived in this county five years, came here from Fannin county and is well pleased with the plains as a farming country.

Mr. Lanham, who lives out northwest was in the city Saturday. Said he had his land all listed, and had been done 10 days or two weeks. He is just waiting for rain and for the time to come to plant. He said he made lots of feed last year; enough to last him two years, but will keep plenty until he knows what this crop will be. He said he will plant a large acreage this year again as he had never known a man to have too much feed. He said if he had ever had more than he needed he always had some neighbors who need his surplus.

Mr. A. W. Worsham, who lives nine miles out north, was in Saturday. He said he had his land all listed and is breaking some sod. He has 250 acres ready to plant and will break 120 acres of sod, and add to his farm. He will plant a good crop of sudan this year. He said his sudan was the best, or rather, the most profitable crop he had last year. He said his cane crop was also good and made him some money. He said all his feed crops were good, and he will increase all his feed crops this year. He has about 500 acres in cultivation. He has a section or more in rass. He intends to try feeding out some good young babv beeves this fall and thinks this will illbe a good market for suc hcattle. We gave all the encouragement we could to this idea for we have urged on our farmers to feed some good young cattle each year we have been here. We have fed several bunches of this class of cattle at different times and never lost on them but one time, and that was in 1921, when almost all feeders lost.

We met Mr. Gus Havens Saturday. We knew Mr. Havens in Coleman County, and we knew his father, as commissioner, for a long time. Mr. Havens lives 11 miles southeast of Lubbock. He has 180 acres in farm and made a good feed crop. The hail damaged his cotton, then the freeze did it more damage, so his cotton crop was not as good as he had wished for. He said he would plant a good feed crop again this year. He belives in growing lots of feed. He says when farmers fail to grow their own feed they can not expect to succeed in farming. He thinks that farmers should grow lots of poultry and have some good cows and a few hogs, and grow all the things they need for home use, or as nearly so as possible.

Mr. E. F. Allen, who lives three this side of Littlefield, was in the city Saturday. He said the farmers all had their land listed and that was the usual plan of preparing the land, he had been told. He said he had only been there since January 1st, having moved there from Bell County. He said he liked this country fine and thinks it will be as good as Bell County, when the farmers learn how to cultivate this land better. He is pleased with the outlook for this year's crop.

Mr. C. C. West, who lives at Anton, was in the city Saturday. He has only lived there since last July, and is pleased with the country. He lived in Crosby County 11 years and is well acclimated to the plains. Mr. West has a fine herd of Jersey cows and is in the dairy business. He sells quite a lot of cream each week. He has a half section of land which is an ideal dairy farm. He thinks this is a fine dairy section and there should be many more dairy farms here than we have. He is breaking out part of his land and will grow his on feed for his herd.

The veteran farmer, Mr. Isham Tubbs, who lives west of the city, and who has been here all the time, was in the city Saturday. He said several farmers out his way had flat broke their land this winter. More of them had flat broken their land at other times lately. He said some have listed their land and that listing was the general practice. He said some of the farmers had disced the land and might list it yet, before time to plant. He said his sons are now running their thresher, threshing cane and other feed crops. This is about the time that section of the county threshes can for seed and furnishes cane seed for many places in this state. Mr. Tubbs says it surely is time for farmers to grow less cotton and more feed crops. He thinks if another large cotton crop should be produced this year the price will likely be so low none can make any money by growing cotton. He said with good market for feed crops in Texas there is no reason for farmers to go so strong on cotton. He said his son, Mr. Lee Tubbs had planted some corn already and would plant more corn a little later. He wanted to try and have some early roasting ears for home and the market. Mr. Tubbs and his sons are all first class farmers and with their good methods of farming they never fail on making good crops.

Save the Feed and Plan to Grow More Feed

There is one thing we want to call special attention to and that is the importance of saving plenty of the abundant feed crops we now have. We do not know what the results of this crop will be, and the safe thing to do is save every bundle and pound of this crop as though you were short of feed and had to do this to get by. We think the outlook is good for another good crop, but we cannot know this at present.

Planting Time Nears

We are approaching the planting season and no doubt most all have their seed ready and their plans laid for the season's planting. The seed should all have been well tested so that there will be no loss of time by having to replant or plant the land the second time. This can only be surely avoided by having planting seed fully tested as to germination. The Tech faculty, that is the farm department, has offered to, and have tested seed for man yfarmers, and stand ready to render further help along that line. We hope all are ready for a good early start in all farm operations this spring, and now.

THE CORN PREMIUM CONTEST

We have not yet got the premium list for the five acre con contest for this year, but have the assurance that it will soon be announced. There is one thing we want to call special attention to, and that is the necessity for special preparation of a good seed bed, we want to see some real good results, such as will be a credit to the winners and to this section of the state. We hope all those who enter will do their very best to accomplish some surprising results. We have no thought of trying to get corn to take the place of the grain sorghums of this section, but there is a demand for corn in thee manufacture of several of the poultry feeds that the made here in Lubbock, and if this cor nis not grown here it will have to be bought and shipped in from some other part of the country. Then we have had to buy a large part of our roasting ears from Lamb and Terry counties. These are a few of the many reasons we are strong for more corn to be grown in this county. We hope soon to be able to publish the rules and the premiums for this contest.

THE FEED SITUATION

We have been looking over several of our exchanges lately, and we are able to say the entire state is fully agreed on one thing, and that is the importances of all Texas growing more feed and food crops. The bankers of the state in several groups have announced that if the farmers of south produce another sixteen million bale crop it will make the price so low it will almost bankrupt the country. Now is the time to consider this matter seriously and the farmers of this section of the state are in the best condition to assist in reducing the yield, of any other part of the country. Several farmers have told us that their feed crops paid better last year than their cotton and with better care and cultivation of feed crops much better yields can be secured and more money made by growing feed crops than can be made with cotton, then why not grow more feed. It is the safe and sane thing to do, let's do it.

AN IDEAL COMMUNITY

Our distinguished friend, Mr. W. M. Ross, who lives out near the West Ward school, was in the city Wednesday. He said most of the farmers out there had their land listed but some were not quite through yet. He said he broke or rather had flat broke most all his land. He believes in good deep breaking of land especially where it can be done early in the season. He said several are now breaking sod and there will be quite an increase in farm acreage in his section this season as many new acres are being plowed now that have not been plowed before. He thought there would likely be more cotton planted out there this year as so much new land was being put into farms, and the new land is usually planted to cotton. He said the land was working exceedingly well this spring especially since the rain. He said the sod land was breaking very nicely, said there were some parties near hi mthat were breaking with tractor and following this with drag or section harrow which is leaving the land in excellent condition for planting. He says the farmers have their land in the best condition he has seen it in a long time, if ever, it was as well worked at this time of the season. This kind of preparation is the best guarantee that can be had for good crops, and we are glad to have these splendid reports they indicate better farming and better crops. Mr. Ross tells us they have a fine school at the southwest ward one of the best schools in the rural districts in the county, and that all the people of that community are in perfect harmony in all their community work. They have a fine Sunday School, well attended and all working in harmony for the advancement in the study of the scriptures. They also have a fine singing class that meets each Sunday and some times in week for practice and advancement in singing. Mr. Ross says he has feed enough to last him two years and that the entire community had a good supply of feed and will plant another large acreage in feed this year. He says that it is the highth of folly for farmers to fail to grow plenty feed for their farm use every year.

FARM GOSSIP

Be A Self Starter

Be a self-starter! Don't wait until the last minute and find your engine is cold and try the old cranking method. That's hard work, and slow.

If you haven't already plowed your lands for setting your spring crops—do it now—BE A SELF STARTER. Planting time may creep on you and wet weather set in—that will mean delay—dry days will have to be used then to get your land ready and planting will be delayed. BE A SELF STARTER! Get your land ready now and when the good days do come you will be ready to plant on time.

The right kind of start means much to the right kind of finish. If you get behind at planting time, you more than likely will be behind when the income is counted.

BE A SELF STARTER! If your fences are not fixed, your implements not ready, your seed not selected and your lands not prepared, when the spring drive is on where will you be? It is easy to put off until tomorrow what should be done today, but the easiest way is not always the best. Let's start the spring drive now. BE A SELF STARTER!

The Farmers' Stationery

Did you ever get a letter from a banker or lawyer written with a pencil on rough school child's paper? If you did, what do you think of such a letter? Well, farmers are just as much judged by their letters as other business men are.

Name your farm. Have the name printed at the top of your paper and in the corner of your envelope. See your local printer. He will do the job for you at a reasonable cost.

Get a typewriter, if possible. Let one of the older children learn how to use it if you think you are "too fat answers the same purpose.

Feeds that contain a large amount of protein that are available for hog feeding are tankage, velvet beans, soy beans, peanuts, peas and sometimes cotton seed meal may be used in small quantities and for a short feeding period. Don't feed cotton seed meal, even in limited quantities, to hogs except for a week or two.

Feeds rich in carbohydrates are mainly corn and rice flour. Those particularly interested in this work should write the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington for Farmers Bulletin Number 22, "The Feeding of Farm Animals." See your county agent, he can help you in this too.

Preachers and Agriculture

Do rural preachers as a general thing take advantage of the wonderful themes they have to draw the morals of their sermons from? Couldn't they tell of the wonderful forces of nature around them and things that their people can see and have better and more effect on their hearers than to talk so much of the scenery of the Alps?

There are those who do, but generally this is the exception rather than the rule.

The seed from germination to maturity, teaches a great lesson and is broad enough to get a good sermon from. God's handiwork is most certainly and vividly shown in this wonderful process. Try this sometime Mr. Rural Preacher. See how it works.

Dry Facts

Prohibition has been discussed considerably in Congress within the past few days. In the Senate, Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, representing the dry viewpoint, delivered an address which was replete with interesting facts.

The history of the Eighteenth Amendment, ratified by every state save two, was sketched. Nine states abolished the liquor traffic before 1914 and between that year and the prohibition amendment, twenty-four states did likewise. In 1919, war time prohibition he came effective. Prior to that, late in 1917, the dry amendment had been submitted to the states. Between January 8 and February 25th 1919, the legislatures of forty-five states ratified the amendment.

So-called best citizens of the country, a small but influential class, having much wealth and influence, violate the law, with more or less impunity, charged the Senator who pointed out that these people owning proprty should be interested in the preservations of lagal safeguards and yet they "the doing more than all others besides to undermine our social fabric and to break down orderly government."

Legal change of the present prohibition status is not probable. The legislatures or conventions in thirty six states would have to ratify an amendment to the Constitution to modify the Eighteenth Amendment. Thirty-three states in the union already had prohibition before the national amendment was passed and it would only take thirteen of these states to effectively veto any proposed change in the Constitution. In view of these facts, the Tennessee Senator thought that talk about the repeal or modification of the Eighteenth Amendment was idle talk and its only effect was to encourage disobedience to law.

The cost of prohibition enforcement has not been as great as its opponents have proclaimed. Senator McKellar pointed out that eleven million dollars were apropriated to enforce the prohibition and narcotic acts, nine million of which was spent on the former. But fines collected and paid into the Federal Treasury amounted to $5,760,000 not including the amount of fines collected in State Courts from cases brought through Federal activity.

Cause of Crime

The crime wave in the United States was being discussed in the House of Representatives not long ago, and Representative Tinkham, of Massachusetts, said:

"No other capital in the world can compare with the capital of the United States in lawlessness, disorder and increase in crime.

"The causes for this social dissolution are patent to any casual student of the science of government and the decline of civilizations and any intelligent observer of humankind.

"Among the foremost should be placed the decline of permanency of American family life and the destruction of the American home. Divorce in the last fifteen years has increased over one hundred per cent in the United States.

"In the home is built the character of the individual; there he is taught the value of self restraint and the virtues of honesty, truthfulness and obedience to authority."

Agreement with such sentiments is apt to be very general.

Inquiry

Tariff readjustment will be investigated by a special committee of five senators under the Robinson resolution. There were certain unusual features about the passibe of this resolution worthy of notice.

A distinction was drawn in the resolution between ordinary Republicans and Progressive Republicans by stating that three of the five senators should be members of the majority party but sueeifically stating that one must be a "Progressive Republican." In appointing the committee, Vice President Dawes had to classify such a Republican. He named young LaFoliette.

The finance committee of the senate originally proposed as the investigating agency was sidetracked by senators who feared that the inquiry would not be prosecuted energetically by it. This was regarded as a defeat for the administrative forces by observers.

The scope of the committee's activities was framed to include not only the manner in which the flexible provisions of the tariff act have been administered, the agencies employed by the commission in ascertaining its fact but also the appointment of members and any attempts made to influence official action by officials of the government.

The failure to authorize an investigation into the conduct of the Attorney General, in not proceeding against the Aluminum Trust caused many to feel that nb such investigating bodies would be authorized, but the success of those favoring the investigation of the Tariff Commission changes the viewpoint.

A Prophecy

A congresman took the role of prophet in one of the recent discussions of the Prohibition law. Representative Blanton of Texas, expressed himself as follows: "There is but one lawful way to get rid of the Eighteenth Amendment and that is for Congress, by a two-third vote, to pass a resolution submitting the depeal to the states and for the Legislatures of thirty states to ratify such a repeal. And you will never get all of that accomplished in one hundred years."

A Wet Retort

A congressman should not violate the laws of his country, was the statement made by Representative Blanton, of Texas, in a recent House debate, and he referred especially to the prohibition law, saying: "When they break the law, we ought to put them out of service."

Representative LaGuardia, of New York, interrupted to declare: "Then we would not have a quorum here." This accusation was denied by some, who asserted that the 435 men who were members of the House are as sober and free from liquor drinking as any other group in the entire country. Regardless, however, there are admittedly some members of Congress who vote dry and act wet.

Hog Feeding Easy

Lots of farmers seem to think that the feeding of hogs to make them grow and fatten to advantage is a hard problem. They read about balanced rations and think they have an intricate problem to solve. This balanced ration thing is simply enough if you will take the trouble to look into it. It just means the feeding of foods containing the elements necessary for animal growth and development.

Protein carbohydrates and fats are the terms used in feeding literature and mean only those elements that produce animal tissues.

Protein is that part of the food that makes and develops muscle and bones. Mineral matter also aids in bone development.

It is very necessary that protein be fed to young and growing animals. This is the one element that is generally lacking in the feeds that we give animals. Protein in animal life corresponds with nitrogen in plant life. It is necessary that this element is fed to make the frame to put the fat on.

Carbohydrates are that part of the feed that go to making fat and energy and for practical purposes

The Farmers' Stationery

Did you ever get a letter from a banker or lawyer written with a pencil on rough school child's paper? If you did, what do you think of such a letter? Well, farmers are just as much judged by their letters as other business men are.

Name your farm. Have the name printed at the top of your paper and in the corner of your envelope. See your local printer. He will do the job for you at a reasonable cost.

Get a typewriter, if possible. Let one of the older children learn how to use it if you think you are "too sot in your ways." Typewritten letters on attractive stationery make an impression and command respect and immediate answer.

The County Agent's Part

Are you using your county agent as a laborer or are you letting him work so as everybody in the county can get the benefits of his teachings?

There are farmers who expect this heavily burdened worker to prune their whole orchard and to inoculate their entire herd of hogs. He should go to your place, where you have your neighbors assembled and prune a few of your trees and inoculate a few of your hogs and THEN you and your neighbors should learn fro mhim how to do these things for yourselves. Then the county agent can do other work and the next time you need the same work done you can do it yourself and the county agent can be teaching somebody else Don't demand that he should be your laborer. County agents, as a rule, are very accomodating fellows, and you should not be selfish enough to make them devote too much time to the things you can do for yourself.

SELECTS COTTON FOR STAPLE STANDARDS

WASHINGTON, Mar. 22.—Ten bales of cotton to be used in preparing practical forms of the Official Cotton Standards of the United States (American Upland). Length of Staple, 7-8 inch, established by the Secretary of Agriculture, July 31, 1925, and effective August 1, 1926, were selected by representatives of cotton exchanges and associations meeting with Department of Agriculture officials at Washington, March 16. The action of the conference involves no change in the original standards for length of staple.

The order of the Secretary last July followed a conference of representatives of leading organizations of cotton growers, merchants and spinners with Department officials at Washington, July 27, 1925, at which original representations of the Official Cotton Standards for length of staple, to be kept by the Department at Washington, were considered and recommended.

The present conference was to enable representatives of the cotton industry to participate in selecting the actual bales from which practical forms of the standard for 7-8-inch stanle are to be made for public distribution.

Delegates of the various organizations represented were: G. M. McIntyre, Mississippi Farm Bureau Cotton Assn.; T. A. Parlon, New England Cotton Buyers Assn.; R. L. Francis, New Orleans Cotton Exchange; H. L. Goss, New York Cotton Exchange; W. D. Maxwell, Oklahoma State Cotton Exchange; T. R. Wells, Staple Cotton Coop. Assn.; R. H. Gilbert and Joseph Walker representing the Atlantic Cotton Assn.; Atlanta Commereisl Exchange, Augusta Cotton Exchange, Montgomery Cotton Exchange, Norfolk and Portsmouth Cotton Exchange, and the Savannah Cotton Exchange; A. S. Taylor and H. H. Lawler representing the Texas Cotton Assn.: Dallas Cotton Exchange, Fort Worth Cotton Exchange, Galveston Cotton Exchange, Houston Cotton Exchange J. C. Lutz representing the Memphis Cotton Exchange and Southern Cotton Shippers Assn.; J. B. Hilzheim representing Little Rock Exchange and Arkansas Cotton Trade Assn., and R. L. Crittenden representing the Arkwright Club and National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

Mr. W. Thomas, who has been living in the city for some time is moving out west four miles where he has rented a good farm, and will farm this year. Mr. Thomas lived here before, but moved to Plainview last year and stayed until about December, and moved back. We think he planted a good sized wheat crop, that he still has up there, but will do his farming near here as stated. He will plant a good feed crop, says that is the only safe plan for any farmer to follow. He will plant a large garden and melon patch. He believes in growing all that will grow here in the garden for his family use. He grows his own meat and will try to grow everything needed on the farm. We bespeak success for Mr. Thomas as we know him to be a real farmer.

THE STORY OF OUR ALPHABET

By Frank H. Vizetelly, LL.D., Litt. D., Managing Editor of Funk & Wagnalls New Dictionary

First known alphabet used 6,000 B. C.

Our alphabet is traceable to the Egyptian, 4,000 B. C., through the Phenician, Hebrew, Greek, and Roman alphabets.

Persians have largest, and Italians the smallest active alphabets.

620,448,401,733,239,439,369,999 possible combinations of our alphabet.

All that the human heart and intellect have ever conceived, or can ever conceive, of truth, of pity, of kindness, of love, of faith, and of reverence; all prayers and all religion; all possible systems of order and philosophy; all civilization and culture are the ripe fruitage of the various combinations that can be formed with the letters of the alphabet. In these, and in these alone may be found the records of the past, and lie all the possibilities of the future.

The alphabet is the key by which we unlock the thoughts of a people, and it is the most useful of all human inventoins, enabling us in colorful words to speak to the eyes and by different forms impart brightness and body to our thoughts. If you are a student of speech, you will be the last to treat your letters irreverently. The alphabet is far too blessed a thing to be treated with sacrilege.

It may be of interest to know that the twenty-six letters of the alphabet can be transposed 620 sextillion, 448 quintillion, 401 quadrillion, 733 trillion, 239 billion, 439 million, 369 thousand times.

As long as language endures, it will be possible for the woman of genius to say the original thing. It is to her that we who are earnest advocates of the standardization of speech sounds must turn for the symbols needed to represent the sounds that must be employed to indicate words in writing. As a matter of history, every graphic system owes its origin to a rude form of picture-writing, as crude as that employed by the American Indian, the Maori, or the African bushman.

Our journey toward the letters was a painfully slow one, for we used a syllabary of hieroglyphs to express our ideas, and by degrees progressed to runes, and these runes we termed futhorc, the name being derived from the first six-letters—f, u, th, o, r, c, or the runic alphabet.

The runes are said to have been taken from the Greek alphabet like those of Thrace in the 6th century B. C. The earliest extant specimens are of the 2nd and 3rd century. They passed out of use with the spread of the Roman alphabet from the 11th to the 15th century.

The original meaning of the word rune is "sceret," and it was used to signify a mysterious song, doctrine, speech, or writing. There were several runic alphabets—the Gothic, the Anglian, and the Scandinavian.

From the clearest and from the simplest of these early alphabets, we have derived all the modern systems of writing, and after the Roman alphabet displaced the runes, it superseded the Greek, and square letter of the Hebrew, the decorative Sanskrit, the beautiful Neski of the Arabic-speaking world, and may be said to prevail everywhere.

It is only with in recent years, in fact, since the establishment of Angora as the Turkish capital, that Roman letters have by decree superseded the Neski alphabet.

Greek mythology credits the invention of the alphabet to Cadmus, the Phenician, but neither he nor any other Phenician invented the alphabet, or it is not a thing that would have occurred spontaneously in its entirety to the mind of any man, no matter how great a creative genius man may be.

No one likes to be termed an iconoclast, but it is certain that Emmanuel de Rouge was one when, in 1859, he shattred the legend that our alphabet was invented by the Phenicians when he proved that the Phenicians derived their characters from the Egyptian hieratic symbols as shown by the papyrus Prisse, which was in all probablity written 2,000 B. C.

The discovery in 1887-88 of the cuneiform tablets of Asiatic correspondents written by Amenophis IV. in Syria about 1375 showed that thousands of years ago the Phenicians and toher Semitic people used Babylonian as the language of international communication.

The Egyptian hieratic characters are at least 2,00 years older than any of the Phenician inscriptions of which we have any knowledge. Professor Flinders Petrie put forward the theory that a sign system was the original means of international communication on the Mediterranean littoral from early times and that from this sign-system our alphabet was selected and grouped by the Phenicians.

Other scholars have sought the source of the alphabet from the island of Crete and some of them claim that the Cretan inscriptions are identical with Egyptian hieroglyphs—that the Minoan pictographs contain prototypes of the Phenician letters.

The steel of Mesha, King of Moab which was found at Dhiban in 1868, and is more popularly known as the Moabite Stone, belonged to the 9th century B. C. This contains one of the earliest inscriptions in the Phenician alphabet, and its language, the New Standard Dictionary tells us, differs only dialectically from the Hebrew. By studying the fragments of this stone, Clermont Ganneau was able to publish the text, and the first translation, and the decipherment of the entire stone, which is now complete, was the result of researches by French, German, and English scholars.

The most important of these signaries or alphabets are (1) the Accadian, which is the oldest, its characters being ideographic; (2) the Assyro-Babylonian, the largest and most complicated which has 700 characters, partly alphabetic, partly syllabic, and written from left to right; (3) the New Susian; (4) the old Persian, which had about sixty phonetic charracters and which, when deciphered by Grotefend in 1802, provided a clue to other cuneiform systems, and (5) the Armenian. The shape of the characters was governed by the tool or stylus used to produce them.

The Greeks adopted the Phenician alphabet before they embarked on their great colonizing movement a thousand years before Christ. At first they wrote from right to left after the Phenician plan; then alternately from rgiht to left and left to right.

In this fashion the laws of Solon were written, but the plan was abandoned in the fifth centuy and the left to right method adopted by Occidental naitons. The alphabet was brought to Italy by the Dorian Grecks of Cumae and Sicily and there it was subjected to further modification.

The Latin alphabet retained the Phenician Kaph and Koph (k and q and dropped theta, phi, and chi, (kai) because the Romans did not require aspirate sounds and later they dropped zeta which was replaced by g, a modification of c which they used for both k and g sounds, and so continued with twenty-one letters until the Latin alphabet spread through Roman conquests and necessitated the increase by five letters, bringing the total up to twenty-six. These included the development of i into j, of u into w, v, and y, and the addition of z.

The one European language that did not get its alphabet in this manner is the Russian, whose characters are derived from the Byzantine Greek of the ninth century. To this Cyril added others to cover Slavonic counds and thus increased the number to thirty-five letters.

The alphabets of different nations vary in the numbers of letters they contain. For instance, there are 28 letters in the Arabic alphabet, and 38 in the Ormenian, 32 in the Coptic, 26 in the Dutch, 26 in the English, 25 in the French, 39 in the Georgian, 26 in the German, 24 in the Greek, 22 in the Hebrew, 21 in the Italian, 23 in the Latin, 45 in the Persian (Parsee or Zend), 35 in the Russian, 49 in the Sanskrit 40 in Slavonic, 27 in the Spanish, including the digraphs ch,ll, rr; 22 in Syriac.

The Japanese syllabary or list of characters representing syllables or syllabic sounds, consists of 72 of these sounds which are indicated by 48 characters. The Chinese are much more progressive and resorted to phraseograms of which they have about 20,000, but no alphabet.

A lover of words once made up his mind to test the recurrence of the various letters of the alphabet in a set number of citations taken from fugitive pieces, and containing 1,069 letters, with the following results: A occurred 85 times; B, 16; C, 30; D, 44; E, 120; F, 125; G, 17; H, 64; I, 80; J, 4; K, 8; L, 40; M, 30; N, 80; O, 80; P, 17; Q, 5; R, 62; S, 80, T, 90; U, 34; V, 12; W, 20; X, 4; Y, 20, and Z, 2.

The alphabet is the key to the treasures of our language of which we are born millionaires when we can draw plentifully from that treasury that has been stored so richly by our ancestors.

TEXAS GIRLS ARE AFTER CONTEST PRIZES

CHICAGO, March 27 — Texas high-school girls are bent on securing their share of the university scholarships and cash prizes offered in the Third National Meat Story Contest. According to first reports of entries made public by the National ive Stock and Meat Board, the contest sponsor, high schools in twelve cities of this state already have entered contestants. These are at Dallas, El Paso, Flatonia, Houston, Kenedy, Marlin, Palestine, New Braunfels, Paris, Tyler, Waco and Weatherford.

The contest annually interests thousands of schools throughout the country, says the Board's statement. It is held as an aid to the study of meat in high-school classes. Contestants are required to write a story or theme on some phase of the meat subject and submit with it three tested recipes.

A university scholarship, together with $50.00 in cash, is the major prize in each of the four districts into which the United States has been divided. The young lady chosen as natonal champion will receive a scholarship and $150 in cash. Other prizes bring the total to more than $2,100, it is said.

The contest will come to a close on April 15. Stories then will be judged by a committee of prominent home economics authorities, and the names of winners will be made public on or about June 1. Dr. Louise Stanley, Chief of the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture, served as chairman of the judging committee in the two previous contests.

Attorney Wilson To Teach Class In Government

Vaughn E. Wilson, local attorney and a graduate from the Baylor University school of law and school of fine arts, will assume the roll of college professor for this week and will teach a class in government for Dr. W. A. Jackson, who will be in attendance at a Political Science convention at Dallas.

Attorney Wilson is well prepared for this special work, as the subject is one to which he has devoted much study.

Since there are no court terms in session during the week Mr. Wilson's law practice will not be materially interferred with in his devoting this week to teaching the college class.

LITTLEFIELD GOLFERS WILL SOON HAVE NINE HOLE COURSE

LITTLEFIELD, March, 27—The business men at Littlefield have organized a Golf Club and subscribed the funds necessary to put in a nine hole course. This golf course is being made on the property immediately adjoining Littlefield on the south, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur P. Duggan, and in a very short while now the members of the club will be enjoying golfing.

HOW MANY WORDS DO YOU KNOW?

By Frank H. Vizetelly, LL.D., Litt. D., Managing Editor of Funk & Wagnalls NewDictionary
Lone Star State Presented as Logical Climax to Florida and California

- Shakespeare used about 23,000 words.
- A six-year-old child knows nearly 1,000 words.
- An uneducated person knows 3,000 to 5,000 words.
- The "average" person knows 8,000 to 10,000 words.
- A college graduate knows over 20,000 words.
- Lawyers, doctors, and ministers know upwards of 25,000 words.
- An editor knows over 40,000 words.
- Woodrow Wilson used more than 60,000 words in three of his books.

How many words are there in American speech or the English language? How many words do you know? How many words does the average man use daily?

Well, no one knows how many words there are in American speech or in the English language and no one ever will know, for no one can compute them—any more than one can compute how many grains of sand there are on the seashore, how many stars there are in the firmament, or how many drops of water there are in the seven seas.

In the making of dictionaries, many thousands of terms more than are actually included in the works themselves come before the attention of the editors in charge. In my own case I can state without fear of contradcition that more than 515,000 words have been brought to my attention in one way or another during the past fifteen years.

The department of psychology of one of our learned bodies recently investigated the matter of vocabulary acquisition, and disclosed the fact that the average child of from four to five years of age makes use of 1,700 words.

In its first year, the child acquired a vocabularly of from 10 to 20 words. During its second year, this total was increased to 300 or 400 words, depending entirely upon environment. Before the close of the third year, the larger of these totals was more than doubled, so that the vocabulary at command aggregated from 600 to 1,000 words.

A churchmen, familiar with the terminology of the Bible, will know the meaning of 8,674 different Hebrew words in the Old Testament, and of 5,624 Greek words in the New Testament or 14,296 words in all, with some duplicates, of course. This is an exceptional case.

The physician or surgeon knows more than this number. Take a rough summary of matters with which he must be familiar. There are in the body of man 707 arteries, 71 bones, 79 convolutions, 433 muscles, 230 nerves, 85 plexuses, and 103 veins—total 1,708.

In addition to this, there are 1,300 bacteria, 224 eponymic diseases, 500 pigments, 295 poisons, 88 eponymic signs and symptoms of diseases, 744 tests and 109 tumors, or a total of 4,968 matters relating to his profession alone.

Then there are the names of some 10,000 chemicals and drugs of which he must have more than mere passing knowledge—total, 14,968 in all, and we havt not referred to the science of hygiene or to allied professions, as tentistry, etc., or to his home life, his motor-car or air-plane, and the world at large, of which he is so important a figure. These can barely be rovered by 10,000 more—approximately 25,000 words.

In the seventy-five speeches addressed to the people of America between the years 1913 and 1918, President Woodrow Wilson made use of 6,221 different words, but this does not by any means reflect the total vocabblary at his command. In his "The State," his "Congressional Government," and his "History of the United States," he used over 60,000 different words.

The range of a man's vocabulary depends on his occupation. Milton used 13,000 different words in his verse, and in his state papers, many more that have not been computed. Shakespeare's vocabulary has been put at 24,000, 21,000, or 15,000 words, and the apologist for a limited vocabulary exclaims, "What did he not achieve with them!"

Had Shakespeare lived in our time, he would have advanced with our progress, and the strength of his vocabulary would have been double the number of words he used, but please remember, that many of Shakespeare's words are now archaic.

Many words fell into disuse when archery gave way to the gun, and things which were very useful when knighthood was in flower, eventually were discarded. The passing of the tournament and jousts witnessed tht burial of a large collection of medieval terms, even as the passing of armor did the same.

When falconry became a dead sport, its specific vocabulary was soon forgotten. Alchemy and superstitoin had a host of friends, but with the advance of our culture their lingo has bee ndriven out of existence.

Take the man of law, also as an exception. The most popular of law dictionaries lists approximately 13,000 terms peculiar to the legal profession, and comprehensive as the law itself may be, it does not in general embrace the vocabulary of the home, for which add 10,000 words, or 23,000 terms in all.

How many words does a newspaper editor know? One went systemtically through a dictionary and found that he knew 16,210 primitive words and 28,400 derivative words, almost 45,000 in all. No proper names were included in this calculation.

Every well-read person of education and fair ability is able to define or understand as used nearly or perhaps more than 50,000 words. The same person in conversation and writing will command not fewer than 15,00 to 20,000, while a person who cannot read but who has a good degree of native mental ability will command 5,000 terms.

But let it be clearly understoond that if a new war breaks out tomorrow, whether it be between capital and labor, or between races of different hue, or between the upper world and the lower world, the editor's vocabulary will keep pace with the events as they develop.

Every social upheaval even as every social reform, brings with it the means with which to describe its various phases, and our speech is like the tide—ever at ebb and flow. That which was may yet be again; that which is, still remains with us, but who shall tell us that which shall be?

The trouble with most of us is that we do not stop to think of the words we actually know when we consider this matter of our vocabulary.

Out of four root or stem words, at least 74 others have been made.

Some idea of the extent to which words are formed by the aid of prefixes, suffixes, and roots may be obtained from the following: with the prefix un-, 6,000 words have been added to the vocabulary of the language; with co- and con-, 2,800; with im- and in-, 3,000; re-, 2,500; dis-, 2,000; the root fac, has given us 640; stan, 440; pos, 300; graph, log, and ply, 200, and most of you who are interested in radio know that the root radi has contributed at least as many.

The suffix -ly has yielded nearly 3,000; -al, -ion, and -ness, about 1,800. Then we have able, -er, -or, -ible, -ity, -ive, -ance and -ence, all of which yield nearly 9,000 more.

It is on such evidence as this that I claim the plain people know and use from 8,000 to 10,000 words throughout the year.

CHINESE R. R.'S BLOCKED BY MILITARY SEIZURES

PEKING (United Press)—Confiscation of railway rolling stock in North China has been so thoroughly conducted by the various militarists that the railways are having a difficult time to carry enough freight to pa yexpenses, according to leading officials in Peking.

A circular order has just been issued by the Ministry of Communications to employes of the Peking-Mukden and Tienstin-Pukow lines, urging them to use their best efforts to pay expenses, according to leadthis order, only about twenty to thirty cars are now available for ordinary freight carrying on both these lines.

Soldiers are living in cars at various points, it is learned.

During her wedding ceremony Miss Florence Barnes of Duluth made the minister start all over again, omitting the word "obey."

RAGLAND MOTOR COMPANY

Now One Motor Car For Every 5.8 Persons in U. S.

More than twenty million motor vehicles were in use on the highways of the United States in 1925, according to the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. The total registration reported was 19,954,347 but there were in addition 96,929 State and Federal government-owned vehicles not included in this figure.

The increase in registrations during the year amounted to 2,360,670 or 13.4 per cent. Florida reports an increase of 46.8 per cent, while Utah, Mississippi, Alabama, Arkansas, North Dakota and Texas all report increases of more than 20 per cent. Truck registration increased 14.5 per cent for the entire country.

New York leads in total registrations with 1,625,583 followed by California, hio, Pennsylvania and Illinois in the order named, all with registrations of over a million.

There is now one motor vehicle for each 5.8 persons in the United States. California has only 2.9 persons for each motor vehicle, while Iowa has 3.6, Nevada 3.7, Kansas 4.0 and Oregon 4.0. At the other end of the list is Alabama with 12.0 persons per vehicle, but ranking among the highes tin increase during the year.

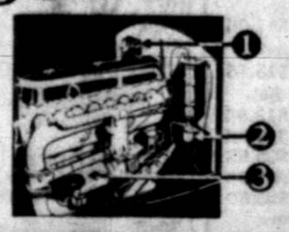

The total revenue from registration fees, permits, etc., amounted to $260,619,621, of which $177,706,587 was made available for State highways, $19,124,014 for State road bonds and $48,396,471 for local roads.

BUICK
Triple Seals
Reduce Engine Wear

WAR was declared on engine wear when Buick introduced the "Triple Sealed Engine" in the Better Buick.

Buick first perfected the "Sealed Chassis" which barricades each operating part inside a tight-fitting iron or steel housing.

Now, the "Triple Sealed Engine" (air cleaner, oil filter, gasoline filter) has been added to the protection for Buick performance. Every possible avenue for the entry of dirt and grit is guarded, avoiding looseness, vibration, and all the other ills that dirt and grit can cause.

1. Oil Filter
2. Gasoline Filter
3. Air Cleaner

Because of the "Sealed Chassis" alone, Buick is a more dependable motor car. The additional protection of the "Triple Seal" still further reduces Better Buick upkeep costs.

The Better Buick offers the best in modern motor car design at a very moderate price. Come in and see the "Sealed Chassis," the "Triple Sealed Engine" and the many other superior features of this better motor car.

IS TEXAS NEXT?

By Welling Brink, Associate Editor, Farm and Ranch, Dallas.

Florida and California and Texas: These are the great natural year-round playground states — Uncle Sam's winter gardens, summer follies—America's favorite sun parlors. Get out the dust-covered geography and look at their coast lines.

And the present Florida "boom" is but the beginning of an inevitable Southward movement of man and money power.

Of the three states which by reason of natural advantages are the logical pivotal points of this South-wide development, Texas alone remains to be heralded to the world. And there is an undertone of activity which presages an early campaign of advertisement of this marvelous Commonwealth.

Florida and California—like the sports they are—always claim the biggest fish. And always receive the jibes that such tales invite. But the throngs continue to travel toward California and Florida.

Texas, having maintained a circumspect silence for lo, these many years, may therefore, be pardoned while she prods her comely rivals gently and modestly advances her own selling points. For none knows better than Texas that Florida, California and she herself are three of a kind—and the house is not yet full.

The Old Texas is now mostly fiction. The New Texas is fact. And the New Texas, in common parlance, is the goods.

Every day, as I see it, is bargain day on the long stretch between Denton and Brownsville, Texarkana and El Paso.

The joy of it is that there's still plenty of room along the counters without crowding—seats for everyone, comfort, service, satisfaction. Here indeed—in Texas—is the one place left to go shopping for varied opportunity. Teeth chatters of Indiana, Minnesota, Ohio and my former state of Kansas can not go wrong to take their places in line and grab onto their shares of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

Texas is as yet unspoiled, unexploited, not shop-worn.

Her bigness is not merely the bigness of miles and money. Yet the one Star State is larger than the combined areas of California and Florida by 51,885 square miles, 1920 census.

If you happen to be one of those fact-finding bodies who thrive on diagrams and charts, get out that old palm-leaf fan that helped to circulate the steam last August when Old Sol was broiling a few choice Northern cities.

Look hard at its ribs. Then look again, still more intently. These ribs of the fan represent—futuristically and very roughly, I grant—the soils map of Texas, likewise, the rainfall map, likewise, the temperature may. Likewise, several other maps.

In other words, Texas is the sampler state of America—with varied appeals to meet varied tastes and inclinations.

Texas, 1926 model, rises above the haze of ignorance, misconception, falsehood and fantasy, and stands revealed in its true pioneer role—as principal in an industrial and agricultural drama of startling proportions.

Her cowboys, it is true are even now well entitled to romp in song and story. Her Alamo illumines a chapter of history that will never fade into the dim shadows of memory.

But if we would treat our jaded eyes to the vivid and refreshing realties of Texas in 1926, we must envision her thirty-story buildings, her mighty seaports and ship channels, her year-round golf courses, her balmy golden beaches, her rich treasures in mineral and humus, her briary oil derricks, her enterprising and ambitious people.

This is a versatile state, whose accomplishments range far into the cultural, the industrial and the agricultural fields. For nearly a decade she has led in agriculture, becoming known as the state of billion-dollar crops.

Whoever would have dreamed a few years back, that New York, long trade mistress of the continent, would be shunted into second place as premie rexporter of products originating within a state b yburly Texas, tenderfoot of commerce?

It is not a protentous sign—while we're engaged in asking questions—that golf and tennis, polo and horse racing, professional baseball and intrepid aviation, social luminaries and nose-tilting personages have of late formed the habit of breaking jumps between California and Florida, Florida and California, by stopovers in Texas?

First came overnight stays, then week-ends, then fortnightly recuperations, then somewhat extended holidays. And now it's about got to the point that all the king's horses and all the king's men can't pull Humpty-Dumpty awa yfrom this great state where it is so easy to stay, so difficult to leave.

Moreover, where's there a proper incentive for leaving? In Texas we find we can keep as comfortable as in California and as contented as in Florida.

Our Galveston and Corpus Christi bathing beauties don't develop any more gooseflesh to the square inch than those of sunny California and feverish Florida.

Our babbling brooks tell as many tales as gossipy brooks elsewhere. Our mountains kiss the skies as lauguorously as in other lovely sections.

One of my friends on a recent winter's da yreceived a letter from his brother in Iowa ridiculing a radio announcement from Dallas in regard to the flowers that bloom in the spring tral-la-la—and likewise in the summer, fall and winter. He declared with unholy glee that Texas is getting to be as bad a blowhard as Florida.

The next morning, by way of answer, my friend armed himself with a pair of shears, walked out into his yard, gathered an armful of chrysanthemums and another of American Beauty roses, and mailed the flowers to Grundy Center, Iowa, by parcel post collect.

I've personally spent eight years unlearning what they taught me in school about Texas. Not once in this extended sojourn in the Lone Star State have I been set upon by masked bandits demanding my money or my life. Not once in this time have I staggered movie-fashion over the imaginary hot desert sands, mirages enticing me farther and farther from the wilderness trail. Not once have I encountered melodramatic shooting -irons, stampeding herds of longhorn cattle.

Yet I have not been disappointed. Grasping the significance of the New Texas—catching something of a panoramic view of this unparalleled empire now flexing itself and preparing for a new era of development—has been a much more novel, an incredibly more exciting, experience than would have been a drab affirmation of advance press-agenting.

Five flags have waved o'er Texas, as any school boy knows. And now there is a sixth, revolutionary indeed—the meaningful streamer of smoke trailing above the throbbing factory. Mills, mills—cotton and woolen; the largest oil refineries in the world. Churning factories. Panting kilns. Twenty-five vessels at a time in the Houston turning basin. Ships loading with lumber, rice and oil at Beaumont. Oil barges from Mexico tying up at Port Arthur.

Our cowboys are doing most of their riding on balloon tires nowadays. And although the square dance revives now and then, most of our ranchmen are doing their listening to old-time fiddlers over the radio.

Barbed wire fences and cotton gins, tractors and cultivators, automobiles and steam railroads, brick and steel and concrete, purebred livestock, standard-bred poultry, pur eseed, diversification, adaquate banking support of farm and ranch enterprises—these are the chief bars-under-the-blanket that have sen tthe Texas bronco of popular fancy bucking madly down the road toward oblivion.

We have lost nothing in the transformation. The New Texas has a glamor as distinctive as the Old. It is still the state where character counts more than ancestry. Texans don't greet the newcomer with "Who are your ancestors?" or "What have you done elsewhere?" No, the glad hand is accompanied by the friendly query, "What's your name?" or "Where you goin'?" or "What's your racket, bo?"

Texas lives in the present and works for the future, instead of dwelling in the past and contenting herself with moth-eaten laurels.

Texas is distinctly a young man's tsate—a state which pays high premiums for youth brains, initiative courage and foresight.

Yet Texas is also for men of ripe experience — successful men who have made their marks elsewhere and are ready to play a while. Many of these retired capitalists have made delightful acquaintance of the never-closed Texas golf courses, taken off a few pounds of flesh and a few years an dentered zestfully into upbuilding Southwestern commerce, industry, agriculture and finance.

That is why Texas is the state of few, if any, old men. Patriarches of eighty slap youths of seventy on the back and call them "Son" or "Boy" Youths of seventy larrup infants of fifty over the shoulders and greet them as "Young Man" or "Kid".

Texas undoubtedly is a good "mixer." The state makes friends easily. Some tumble for, not from, her skyscrapers. Others, noting her magnificent soils, embrace her farming. Lumbering takes some, oil interests others. Sugar refining and gin machinery and pecan orcharding claim their shares of incoming manpower.

George B. Terrell, present Commissioner of Agriculture, writing in the Texas Commercial News, states: "Texas possesses all characters of soil and climate and can grow all kinds of agricultural products that are grown from the arctic regions to the tropics. Her lands are cheap and productive. She produces nearly one-tenth of all the agricultural wealth of the nation. She produces 40 per cent of all the cotton grown in the United States. Game and fish are abundant. She is the sportsman's paradise.

"Hre cities of Galveston, Houston, Austin, San Antonio, Corpus Christi and Brownsville constitute ideal winter resorts. In th elower Rio Grande Valley the seeker for pleasure can find good hunting, goo dfishing and delightful climate, and feast upon the delicious oranges and grapefruit grown in the Magic Valley. Ducks and geese have sense enough to come to Texas when the North gets cold.

"Texas offers more inducements to the homeseeker, the pleasure seeker, the health seeker and the wealth seeker than any other state in the Union."

Fort Worth and Dallas—in the northern part of the state—are in about the same latitude as the southern boundar yline of California And the influence of the Gulf tempers both winter and summer. Houses are built so that the bedrooms have southeastern exposure. Never is there a night in the summer that does not have its cool breeze from the south—whipping up usually about 9 o'clock and continuing until about 9 the next morning. Four or five hundred miles south of these cities is the beach itself, palm bordered and seductive.

In the river bottoms dwell soft southern melodies, fragments of which have recently been caught by Miss Dorothy Scarborough, a Texas writer, and preserved in a volume much to be prized by future generations. And in East Texas hills contentedly bask many a sweet, lilac-fragrant old Southern town—rich in yesterdays, beautiful in reminders of by-gone chivalry. And in the fast-stepping cities echoes the thundering traffic o fbrisk cosmopolitanism.

Lumber mills shriek as they rip paths through dense piney woods. Mountain peaks in Western Texas, look down solemnly from their eminence of 7000 feet. And befere we reach these towering masses we must cross numerous rock-bottomed streams, clear as crystal, fast as scurrying seconds, incredibly beautiful in their foamy whitecaps—fated to turn the gigantic turbines of the nearby tomorrows.

The Panhandle and the South Plains specialize in heakhy bank accounts and hardy citizens. The residents of this section are accurately termed the modern Vikings, embodying all the vigor and bravery of the Northmen of old.

Magic Valley? Mercedes? Mission? Harlingen San Benito? McAllen? Ah, it is a gorgeous segment of the artist's canvas! Bright towns and dazzling opportunities. Soil amazingly rich. Flowers and fruits. Satsumas and sunshine. Smooth paved roads. Clean cultivation. Opulence and optimism. A river whose glories are expressed only in the lilt of soft Spanish song.

Within ten years it is thought probable that this part of Texas will be shipping to the North more grape fruit and orarges than ——. But this is no time for prophecy when there's so much to tell.

Just the other day I ate a hearty dinner of Texas products, chief item of which was wild turkey. The day before that I went a-nutting and came back wit ha winter's supply of pecans. And tomorrow, if I'm lucky, I intend to set my teeth in some juicy Texas venison.

Yet the domesticated turkey—an improved bird—is being shipped to Northern tables from Brady and Cuero and a soree of other points by the hundreds of thousands in refrigerated cars. And prime Texas beef—better than the more novel venison, and long having superseded the ancient longhorn—is on millions of American tables.

It is said that Florida was 45 years getting ready for the spotlight. California, at the opposite coast, has been gathering together her much-wanted climate ever since the gold rush of '49.

Texas, however, has gone Florida and California a few million years better in the matter of preparation. Ma Nature—whose administration antedates even that of Ma Ferguson—has been working long on the coming out party of this, her fairest debutante daughter. She has laid a beauty that is more than skin deep across the face of this noble state.

Deep sink Texas deposits of iron, kaolin, molybdenum, quicksilver, silver, zinc, asphalt, coal, lignite, sulphur, and the rest of a long catalog. Broad flow her subteranean lakes of oil, sailing their thousands of mast-like derricks.

Texas swings wide her doors. Unprecedented trade with Mexico and the atin-American republics is wiping its feet on the mat and venturing over the sill. Eastern capital in money and brains is pouring in at the northern gateways.

Citizens societies for advertising Texas are beginning to make their appearance. National and international conventions, held in the several cities of great hotels and good auditoriums, are serving to acquaint the distant regions of the earth with the fact that Texas is civilized and no longer wears chaps and spurs. A quiet movement is under way to repeal the state inheritance tax for the purpose of loosing the strings holding back a flood of hesitant dollars.

Is Texas the new Promised Land? The next El Dorado? The logical climax to California and Florida?

Well, I happen to know that Horace Greely Smith, sage par excellence, who has already moved his own household goods to the state, recently wrote back home to the boy he left behind him:

"Come to Texas, young man; COME TO TEXAS!"

Through a legacy of four million dollars left him by an aunt, Rev. B. J. Plunket of Dublin becomes the world's richest bishop.

TEXAS LARGEST TIRE HOUSE

STORM CENTER OF GREENLAND AND THE CRADLE OF MANKIND AMONG OLD SECRETS SOUGHT

By JOHN MONTGOMERY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 27.—To the far reaches of the earth this summer, bands of daring men—in the name of science—will set forth on "expeditions."

Two hundred of these ventures are now fitting out. Seven among them aim for the North Pole.

Others go to the "Cradle of Man" in far away Asia. Still others will seek out the "storm center" in Greenland, while yet others will burrow into the sands of Egypt to wrest fresh secrets from that land of antiquity.

One of these numerous ventures will hunt out "The Mother Goddess of Kish" in Mesopotamia.

Still other men with a thirst for knowledge, will delve into the mysteries of sunspots and sun heat in Asian sands that few white men know.

More scientific expeditions will be in the field this summer than ever before in the history of the world.

Scientific institutions in Washington are already employing extra help to file information concerning the myriad of scientists who will take leave of civilization in the next six months and invade almost every unexplored section of the globe.

The files of the National Geographic Society and the Smithsonian Institution are several weeks behind. No single official of either organization can remember a tenth of the expeditions that have been planned for the Spring and Summer.

The seven polar expeditions scheduled to go forward shortly, are given the most important position in the reference files.

Archaeological expeditions, such as Count Prorok's perennial excavations in North Africa, Roy Chapman Andrews' return to the Gobi desert for more dinosauri, and the Mason-Spinden expedition to the Maya cities in Central America, hold second place.

Other expeditions are divided according to their aim. A dozen astronomical expeditions are setting out; scientists and game hunters are leaving by the score for wild beast haunts; geographers, geologists, biologists, paleontologists and oceanographists have sailed or will sail shortly.

Although the seven polar expeditions appeal most to the popular imagination, the half dozen other geographical expeditions are far more important to science.

The Greenland expeditions, for instance, that will set out in the early summer to penetrate the ice cap and explore thousands of acres that have never been traversed by man, have greater scientific interest than the dashes to the pole.

One of the Greenland expeditions, headed by Professor W. H. Hobbs of the University of Michigan, will attempt to find the "storm center," said to be in the center of the vast island, where the noted northeast hurricanes spawn. The fixing of this spot will mean a considerable advance in the science of meteorology and will solve numerous problems of this sort.

The Hobbs party will traverse the island by airplane and will check their observations by radio. The expedition will sail from New York in July.

The other Greenland expedition, headed jointly by Harrison Williams and George Palmer Putnam of the American Museum of Natural History will search the unknown reaches of Greenland for strange animals and vegetation. Captain Bob Barrett, Peary's skipper, will be in charge of their vessel.

Another important geographical survey will be made in Alaska this summer by Phillip S. Smith and Gerald Fitzgerald of the Geological Survey. This pair will resume the work of charting unknown territory suspended last year because of early winter.

Once all astronomers cooped themselves up in egg-shaped observatories and spent their nights in staring into huge telescopes; now they spend half of their time trekking through wildernesses and deserts hunting for locations to erect a temporary observatory.

Instead of being hump-backed from bending over eyepieces and bleary-eyed from too much observation, the modern astronomer needs to be a husky creature with the same amount of stamina and fortitude as an arctic explorer.

This summer will find a dozen astronomical expeditions in the field. One of the most important, that headed by C. G. Abbott of the Smithsonian Institution, has already arrived in Asia, where it hopes to find a suitable spot to erect its small telescope and precision instruments.

This expedition has aroused considerable scientific interest as its expected result will be most important to astronomers. Abbott is attempting to measure the heat of the sun and plot its heat variations. These graphs if obtained, will aid considerably in settling the sun spot theory.

Yale is sending Dr. Frank Schlesinger and a party of astronomers to Johannesburg, South Africa, to "explore" the heavens of the Southern Hemisphere and complete charting the stars of that section. Not to be out-done by its rival institution, Harvard has sent a party to Chiquicanata, Chile, to study and chart the skies visible from that point.

A dozen minor expeditions will be made to advantageous spots in this country by astronomers.

Archaeology will have its day with excavations going on in almost every continent.

Egypt, as usual, will have its score of expeditions, and Asia Minor will be the scene of numerous diggings by American scientists. But Central America will have its first major excavation with the Mason-Spinden party exploring for the ruins of the buried Maya city of Yucatan.

This party has already begun its preliminary survey. Dr. Herbert J. Spinden, heading the expedition, sailed in January for Yucatan and the actual digging will begin shortly.

The Howard Coffin expedition at Luxor will have as a near neighbor the Reisner party excavating near the Pyramid of Gizeh. This latter expedition is searching for the noted "mystery" tomb which may have been the burying place of the great king Senefru. No mummies will be brought to the surface as the laying of this tomb antedates the age when Egyptians knew the art of embalming.

The Prorok pary in Morocco will continue on its plan to raise the sunken galley of the Moroccan coast and plans a half dozen minor excavations in ancient Carthage.

Oxford and Chicago universities are sending a joint expedition to Kish in Mesopotamia to dig for the temple of the Mother Goddess of Kish. The Philadelphia University Museum are searching for the Philistine city of Beison in the Jordan valley and the University of Pennsylvania is sponsoring a party roaming through the Euphrates valley for traces of the lost cities of Ur, destroyed in 2250 B. C.

Two important scientific expeditions, approximately 2,500 miles apart, will seek the cradle of man this summer.

The first expedition, headed by Roy Chapman Andrews of the American Museum of Natural History, will return to the Gobi Desert in Asia, where Chapman claimed last fall he found proof that man originated in that section.

The second expedition, sent out by Beloit College, has sailed for Africa, where it will traverse the Sahara desert for traces of man's origin. Both parties claim their trail points to a conclusive end and their beliefs indicate the great controversy between anthronologists over the question of the beginning of man.

Numerous expeditions will sail from this country this summer to excavate for skeletons and fossils of prehistoric animals. Charles E. Gilmore of the Smithsonian Institution is now in Turkestan where he has found a rich fossil bed and has already unearthed skeletons of bid footed, horned and flesh-eating dinosaurs.

Elmer S. Riggs of the Chicago Field Museum, will sail next month for the Argentine, where he hopes to find fossils of the great Pleistocene mammals.

The Smithsonian Institution will send another party to the Grand Canyon this summer to examine and remove, if possible, footprints of prehistoric animals that are said to have been made 2,500,000 years ago.

Big Tim Murphy Loses Happy Smile At Thought of Fine

By United News

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 26.—Something has happened to "Big Tim" Murphy, president of the Gas House Workers Union of Chicago, who came out of the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth Friday after a residence of three years for participation in a mail robbery.

When "Big Tim" emerged from the prison to fall into the arms of his wife, a wide smile kindled his pallid features. He seemed in excellent spirits, ready to enjoy his new found freedom to the utmost.

But something has happened. "Big Tim" apparently lost his smile during the forty mile journey from the prison gates to his suite in a hotel here. The ceasar of the Gas House Workers' Union dropped a dark and forbidding frown during that brief journey and became as hard as a ten minute egg.

Tim locked himself up in his room and refuses to receive callers. The door is answered by a swarthly individual who may or may not be Vincenzo Cosmano who was convicted wth him.

"Whaddya want?" demands Cosmano or whoever it is that answers the door. "Tim wont see anybody tonight."

"Well, what is Mr. Murphy going to do about that $10,000 the government says he must pay as soon as he arrives in Chicago," it is asked.

"Nothing! Nothing at all! How do you like that?" snaps the doorman.

Further questioning elicits the information that Murphy's plans about returning to Chicago where a celebration awaits him are very indefinite.

The $10,000 the government says Tim must pay is a fine assessed at the time he and Cosmano received four year sentences. If they had made pauper's pleas to the warden of the prison and remained in prison thirty days longer this would have been wiped out.

SEVEN-NINE-NINE

This headline may not mean much to you while reading this paper, but it means a great deal, if you run out of gas several blocks from a service station. All phones in Lubbock connect with seven-nine-nine. Should you need gas, oil or tire service, call this number and tell them your trouble. You will be surprised the few short minutes required for the Super Service Station to send a man to serve you. 146-2

Studebaker Pledge to the Public on Used Car Sales

1 All used cars offered to the public shall be honestly represented.

If a car is suitable only for a mechanic who can rebuild it, or for some one who expects only a few months' rough usage on a camping trip, it must be sold on that basis. Each car must be sold for just what it is.

2 All Studebaker automobiles which are sold as CERTIFIED CARS have been properly reconditioned, and carry a 30-day guarantee for replacement of defective parts and free service on adjustments.

This is possible because tremendous reserve mileage has been built into every Studebaker, which it is impossible to exhaust in years.

3 Every used car is conspicuously marked with its price in plain figures, and that price, just as the price of our new cars, is rigidly maintained.

The public can deal in confidence and safety only with the dealer whose policy is "one price only—the same price to all." For to sell cars on this basis, every one of them must be honestly priced to begin with.

4 Every purchaser of a used car may drive it for five days and then, if not satisfied for any reason, turn it back and apply the money paid as a credit on the purchase of any other car in stock—new or used.

It is assumed, of course, that the car has not been smashed up by collision or other accident in the meantime.

Only a very small down payment and one of these fine used cars becomes yours. Balance can be arranged at the most liberal terms available. Come in and see these values:

CERTIFIED USED CARS

One—1925 Special 6 Studebaker Sport Roadster.

One—1925 Special 6 Studebaker Phaeton.

One—1925 Standard 6 Studebaker Phaeton.

One—1924 Special Sedan.

One—1924 Special 6 5-passenger Coupe

One—1923 Special 6 Studebaker Coupe

One—1923 Light 6 Studebaker Touring.

The following cars are not Certified but are honestly represented:

TEN YEAR OLD BANDIT NEEDED THE MONEY

By United News.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 26.—A ten year old bandit, captured here, has confessed to the police that he obtained $30 in three robberies previous to the attempt in which he was apprehended. "I needed the money," was the boy's explanation.

REGULAR BARS NOW FOR FRENCH CHATEAUX

By JOHN O'BRIEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS (United Press)—Instead of calling a lackey and, with the aristocratic air of the old regime, ordering liqueurs for his guests, the owner of French chateau today looks over the assemblage and says with the slightly slangy accent of modern Paris:

"How about a cocktail at the bar?"

In a corner of the library, at the end of the dining room, or, if the chateau owner is very wealthy and has sufficient room, in a regular bar with all the furnishings that go with it, his guests find a white aproned barman, rail to place their feet, resplendent glass ware and such an array of bottles as has not been seen publicly in New York for many a day.

It is not only in the chateaux and country villas but in Paris apartments that this new custom has found a foothold. A few years ago a woman of the high society in France would have been ofended if one of her guests proposed a visit to a bar. Those were the days when frequenters of such resorts were placed in two classes—"incomprehensible Englishmen (and crazy Americans." The curtains were carefully drawn to hide the scene from the public gaze.

Now the craze for what is known here as a "Bar American" is such that special bars have had to be provided for women in the first class hotels in Paris. Men who want a drink in company of women can enter but the women can not enter the bars for men.

One young woman who was married recently insisted that the furnishing of her apartment should include a bar. It was the only means, she said, of being sure that her husband and his friends would be home for dinner at a reasonable hour.

Trifled at Funeral Of Mother-in-Law

LOS ANGELES, March 26.—Mrs. Samuel Roberts stood a lot of nonsense from her husband, but when he took another woman to her mother's funeral—then she howled.

"I could have stood for anything," Mrs. Roberts told the judge in divorce court Friday, "but not that. While I was crying my eyes out he was enjoying his friend's company."

The judge dried her eyes and gave her a divorce.

SUNKEN BELL FOUND

STOCKHOLM, (U.P.) — The staunch supporters of the old-time divining rod have scored a success against their scientist opponents by ascertaining the location of an old church bell, sunk off the Swedish coast during the Russian shore raids in the war of 1809.

The bell belonged to the church on the Island of Vaddo and local tradition has it that in order to save the bell from the Russians, it was placed on a sled that its weight broke the ice as it was being taken across a frozen passage to the mainland.

FINLEY GETS DECISION

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26.—Jimmy Finley, Louisville welterweight, breezed through a ten round bout against Hank Roberts of San Jose her Friday night and won the referee's decision without extending himself at any time.

"One-Profit" Wins the World

Studebaker Big Six 5-Passenger Sedan $1895 freight and war tax extra

THIS is the car that has won a world tribute to One-Profit manufacture; all over the globe, the Big Six Studebaker leads all high-powered cars in sales volume.

It leads because One-Profit manufacturing facilities enable Studebaker to offer a sturdily built quality car, of tremendous excess mileage and of rated horsepower that cannot be equaled except at two to four times its price.

The 5-Passenger Big Six Sedan is powered with the identical engine that carries hundreds of Studebaker busses over some of the most mountainous and difficult-to-travel roads in America—hence we urge you to compare its thrilling performance with that of any eight-cylinder car.

Based on the rating of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce and the Society of Automotive Engineers, only seven American cars equal this Big Six Sedan in power. But they sell for two to four times its price.

The Big Six 5-Passenger Sedan is a car built to hold five passengers in real comfort. The body is unusually large and roomy. Seats are luxuriously deep and restful. The chassis and engine are especially designed for the Studebaker-built body.

It is richly upholstered in genuine mohair. Body pillars are of northern white ash—cross-members of hard maple.

It has an automatic spark control, safety lighting switch on the steering wheel, gasoline gauge on the dash. There's also an 8-day clock, automatic windshield cleaner, rear-view mirror, cowl ventilator, stop light, air cleaner, gas and oil filters, inspection light on 10-foot cord.

Ride in it—feel the surge of power from the smooth, silent engine, compare its performance with the very finest "eights" as well as "sixes." Then you will know why the Big Six outsells all other cars of equal or greater rated horsepower.
