Hale competent

Bryan Allen Hale is mentally competent to stand trial, say doctors at the U.S. Medical Center for Federal Prisoners in Springfield, Mo.

Hale, arrested April 8 and subsequently indicted for receiving child pornography and sending obscene material through the mail, underwent psychiatric testing at the Missouri facility last month. Results of the evaluation arrived in Midland on Thursday, U.S. District Court officials said. The evaluation showed that Hale, 47, is competent to stand trial, officials said.

Federal trial for Hale, the former administrator at Midland's Glenwood Psychiatric Hospital, has tentatively been set for July 16. He also faces burglary charges in Odessa. He is being held without bond at the Midland County Central Detention Facility.

U.N. sets reparations

■ Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar says Iraq will have to pay Kuwait close to 30 percent of its future oil revenues.

Associated Press

UNITED NATIONS — Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar announced Friday that Iraq will have to pay at most 30 percent of its future oil revenues into a compensation fund for victims of its invasion of Kuwait.

The actual percentage will be set by the U.N. Compensation Commission and reviewed periodically, but it is expected to be close to the 30 percent ceiling announced by Perez de Cuellar.

His announcement came in a report to the Security Council issued late Friday. The report projected annual Iraqi oil exports rising to $21 billion by 1993.

The exports are expected to be closely monitored after the world body lifts its oil embargo and other economic sanctions imposed to punish the Baghdad government for its Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

Sanctions are not likely to be lifted soon because Iraq has yet to meet other truce conditions imposed by the council, including destroying its weapons of mass destruction.

Iraqi Ambassador Abdul Amir al-Anbari said before the announcement: "I wonder if Iraq will be able to meet its basic needs, such as food or medicine." He said any percentage is "too high."

A special U.N. Sanctions Committee agreed May 16 that countries could free frozen Iraqi assets to allow purchases of food and medicine.

Dr. Ezio Gianni Murzi, the U.N. Children's Fund representative in Iraq, said Friday that malnutrition, especially among babies, is a rising postwar health hazard that leaves many children vulnerable to disease.

A UNICEF survey of 430 infants and children up to age 6 in southern Iraq showed nearly 10 percent were severely malnourished and at increased risk from diar-

Stocks close at record 3,027.5

■ Dow Jones industrial average closing mark was up 27.05 points, breaking the previous record set April 17.

Associated Press

NEW YORK — The Dow Jones industrial average zoomed to a record high Friday, extending a weeklong rally amid optimism that the economy may be climbing out of the recession.

The widely watched market barometer closed at 3,027.50, up 27.05 points. It rose steadily after the release of two government reports indicating progress toward economic recovery.

Broader indexes of stock value also surged, and the number of gaining issues was double the number of declines in heavy trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Friday's close for the Dow average broke the record of 3.004.46 set April 17, which at the time culminated a steady rally and led to speculation the Dow barometer would remain about 3,000 or higher.

But the average fell back for six weeks, until it broke through to close Thursday at 3,000.45. The average gained 113.59 points for the week.

Important numbers were contained in reports showing the government's chief economic barometer up in April for the second straight month and factory orders also rising for the month.

Panel adds Goodfellow, Ingleside to list

Associated Press

Officials at three Texas military installations added to an independent commission's list of bases being considered for closure said they expected Friday's announcement, and now realize they can only sit and wait.

The Independent Base Closure and Realignment Commission added Goodfellow Air Force Base in San Angelo, Naval Station Ingleside near Corpus Christi and Kingsville Naval Air Station to a list of 36 installation the panel plans to review for possible closure.

That list is in addition to 43 bases the Pentagon had already targeted for closure or scaling back, including Carswell Air Force Base in Fort Worth, Bergstrom Air Force Base in Austin, and Chase Field Naval Air Station in Beeville.

Some observers said Carswell Air Force Base may have gotten a reprieve with Friday's announcement. Officials had speculated that in order for Carswell to come off the list, alternate bases would have to be added.

The panel put two New York strategic air command bases on the list, which would help toward freeing Carswell, said U.S. Rep. Joe Barton, R-Ennis.

Being on the evaluation list doesn't necessarily mean a particular base will close. Instead, the bases' usefulness would be evaluated. The commission must make its final recommenda-

Memorial honors Saratoga crewmen

MAYPORT NAVAL STATION, Fla. (AP) — A granite memorial to 23 people from the USS Saratoga who lost their lives during the Persian Gulf crisis was unveiled Friday in an oak grove that will become part of a larger memorial park.

But the parents of at least one dead sailor said they still want some answers from the Navy about their son's death.

The 5,000-pound French Creek black granite stone, the same type used in the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington, was unveiled near the front gate of the base that serves as home to the Saratoga.

With birds chirping in the background, four Marines pulled a draped flag from the marker at a ceremony attended by about 500 people. A 21-gun salute was followed by the playing of "Taps."

Smith tells judge he's 'not guilty'

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — William Kennedy Smith showed up at his arraignment Friday to look the judge in the eye and personally plead innocent to raping a woman at his family's estate.

Smith

"I'm not guilty, your honor," said Smith as he faced Circuit Judge Mary Lupo. She accepted his plea on second-degree sexual battery and misdemeanor battery charges and set an Aug. 5 trial date.

Florida law didn't require Smith to be present for his arraignment, but he told reporters he flew in from his Washington home because "obviously, this trial is the most important thing in my life."

"It was important for me to come down and look at the judge in the eye and tell her I'm not guilty. And I did that," said the 30-year-old nephew of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. He was accompanied by his brother, New York attorney Stephen Smith.

An attorney for the 29-year-old woman who reported Smith assaulted her near the Kennedy estate swimming pool March 30 said she wouldn't comment on Smith's plea.

Woman escapes after being sentenced

Staff Report

Sheriff's deputies were searching Friday evening for a woman who escaped from the Midland County Courthouse after being sentenced on drug delivery and probation revocation charges.

Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter said 28-year-old Tonya Delaine Hayes, also known as Tonya Castillo, escaped around 2 p.m. after being allowed to make an unsupervised call on a fourth-floor telephone.

He said 238th District Court Judge John Hyde had sentenced the woman to 10 years for probation violation in connection with a forgery conviction and to 12 years on each of two counts of cocaine delivery.

After the sentencing, Painter said, the woman left the courtroom with the bailiff and asked if she could make a phone call. Painter said the bailiff took her to a phone and left her to make the call, but she was gone when he returned.

The woman is described as 5 feet 4 inches tall and about 130 pounds with short, light-brown hair. She was last seen wearing blue jeans, tennis shoes and a bright yellow T-shirt.

People with information about the woman's whereabouts are asked to call Crime Stoppers at 684-8477.

Escape from custody is a third-degree with a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Agency approves building road that would lead to CAF museum

Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Visitors who want to see the Confederate Air Force site at Midland International Airport soon will have a new road to get there.

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation has approved a project to build a 1.3-mile road to the site, as requested by the city of Midland.

The project will begin at the intersection of Wright Drive and Spur 217 and run along Wright Drive to the CAF museum, then west back to FM Road 1788.

When completed, the new road and the existing Spur 217 will be redesignated as a state highway loop.

Midland will provide all right-of-way, and the highway department will take bids for construction, utility adjustment and any necessary relocation assistance for houses and businesses. The state estimated the cost at $734,000.

Highway department officials in Austin approved the project Wednesday, but said Thursday they do not know when bids will be taken or when construction will be scheduled. The earliest possible completion date is spring 1992.

squadrons," said Vice Adm. John Ready, commander of the Atlantic fleet's air units.

Twenty-one sailors from the Saratoga perished during a ferry accident on Dec. 21 off the coast of Haifa, Israel. Some 102 Saratoga sailors on leave during war preparations were on the private ferry when it foundered and sank. The cause of the accident remains under investigation.

The Navy-Marine Corps Medal was presented posthumously to Petty Officer 3rd Class Delwin Delgado, 26, a passenger on the ferry who dived repeatedly into the water to save his shipmates before drowning himself.

Ready presented the medal to Delgado's mother, Juanita Melendez, who was sobbing loudly and had to be comforted by family.

Harold and Delores McCreight, parents of Airman Brent A. McCreight, 23, of Eminence, Ky., said they had unanswered questions about the death of their only son in the ferry accident.

"He was an excellent swimmer and I can't understand how my son could have died when he was an excellent swimmer," Mrs. McCreight said.

Lt. John Singley, a Saratoga spokesman, said the Navy had almost completed its report on the accident, which must be reviewed by the chain of command before it can be released. He said it would be soon, but did not indictate when that might be.

The McCreights said they hoped the memorial would help them cope with their loss. They planned to tour the carrier, see their son's bunk and visit his friends.

"This is going to help us a lot."

Also honored on the memorial are Cmdr. Michael Scott Speicher, who was flying an FA-18 Hornet that was shot down over Iraq on Jan. 17, the first night of the air war, and Airman Stephen A. Budzian, 21, of Bethlehem, Conn., who collapsed and died while on the ship on Feb. 22.

Bond denied

A federal magistrate denied bond Friday for an Odessa man arrested earlier this week on cocaine distribution charges, court officials confirmed.

Odessa police and federal agents arrested Edilberto Quiroz Leyva, 20, Wednesday at an Odessa motel after he allegedly sold a kilogram of cocaine to an undercover officer.

The investigation leading to the arrest was a joint operation between the Odessa Police Department and the Drug Enforcement Administration.

U.S. Magistrate Robert R. Sykes ruled that Leyva might represent a flight risk and a danger to the community if released on bond.

The incident remained under investigation Friday night.

rhea or respiratory infection. A copy of the report was obtained by The Associated Press.

No evidence was presented of any deaths related to malnutrition but the report concluded that immediate action was needed to prevent further deterioration of health among Iraqi children.

U.S. and British officials say they will not support lifting of sanctions until Iraqi President Saddam Hussein is out of power.

The United States urged that Iraq pay 40 percent to 50 percent of its future oil revenues as compensatation. Developing nations argued for a 5 percent to 10 percent figure.

Kuwait sought a ceiling of 50 percent or more, and expressed disappointment.

"We respect the decision of the secretary-general, but this falls far short of our demand," said Mohammad Saad al-Sallal, counselor at Kuwait's U.N. mission.

The emirate estimates its damages at $60 billion, including oil wells set ablaze by fleeing Iraqi troops.

Perez de Cuellar's goal was to provide adequate compensation to Iraq's victims and still leave Baghdad enough money to rebuild a national economy.

Bangladeshi orphans struggle to survive after killer cyclone

ANDHARPARA, Bangladesh (AP) — Ansar Meah, 10, cradled his 2-year-old sister and clutched the hand of his 7-year-old brother — all that the killer cyclone in April had left of his family.

Suddenly the man of the household, the soft-spoken boy with an injured left eye, had one overriding concern: He'd been going to school and had never worked. How was he going to keep his family alive?

In the devastation of southeast Bangladesh, where the cylone left 139,000 dead, hundreds of orphans like the Meahs are struggling to survive.

With the three small orphanages in the area full and no special government help, they and other orphans depend on the little help given by distant relatives, or whatever they can do on their own.

This village where the Meahs live, less than a mile from the Bay of Bengal, once had 250 occupants who grew rice in lush paddyfields and occasionally took a minibus into the nearby town of Illasha.

But their placid life was shattered when a 20-foot tidal wave spawned by the cyclone rolled over Andharpara, killing 135 villagers. The paddyfields were inundated with salt water and every thatched hut, tin-roofed house and concrete building in the wave's path was destroyed.

On Friday, the only way to get to Andharpara was to walk across a makeshift bamboo-pole bridge and along the rutted remains of the embankment road. Five leaky government-donated tents provided the only reminder of the town.

CHILDREN: Cyclone leaves hundreds of orphans in its wake

(From 2A)

"There is not a single family that did not suffer a loss," said Farukh Ahmed, 39, whose wife and eldest son were killed. His only surviving child, 3-year-old Abdulmannan, wouldn't leave his side.

Ansar Meah, his brother Kaisar and sister Yasmeen seemed bewildered by their plight. Their father had died before the cyclone and their mother, older brother and aunt were swept away in the storm.

A cousin, Mahabul Alam, 30, who lost his father and daughter, said he had been taking care of the children and would try to keep them until they could support themselves.

"The little girl was breast-feeding, but since her mother's death, there is no milk. Off and on she cries. We have been giving her rice, and biscuits," he said.

Three other village children — Mohammad Hasen, 12, and his sisters Shaheen Akhtar, 8, and Nilu Akhtar, 6 — lost their father in the cyclone and were abandoned by their stepmother who survived.

A distant cousin was temporarily caring for them and collecting relief on their behalf. "I don't have any plans. It all depends on my fate, whatever Allah wills," Mohammad said. But he said leaving the area was out of the question.

"Where would we go?," he asked.

On the other side of the embankment road, Khaleda Begum, 18, her sister, Zaheda, 12, and brother Abdus Salim, 9, mourned their parents and an older brother.

Their married sister, Shamun Nahar, came and helped them construct a makeshift thatch and tin-roof house. She was in a quandary because there was no older man left in the family. Bangladesh is predominantly Moslem, a religion that restricts women's independence and frowns on women living alone.

"Since they have no guardian, I am planning to take them near my father-in-law's house," Mrs. Nahar said. "But if they stay here, they will get some relief. We also don't want to leave our property ... because if we do, someone will take it, even though right now you couldn't sell it."

Khaleda blushed when the possibility of marriage was mentioned, but her older sister said she would welcome a proposal for Khaleda.

"Everything depends on Allah," Mrs. Nahar said. "We are one of hundreds of ill-fated families."

Andharpara is in Banaskhale district, one of the worst affected areas where 49,000 people died according to government figures.

Moazzam Hussain, deputy director of the Social welfare Department in the nearby port city of Chittagong, said a list had been sent to the capital, Dhaka, on Tuesday with the names of 1,142 orphans from the cyclone but it was not complete. The list covers the Chittagong and Cox's Bazar districts where the cyclone struck.

The orphans have received rice, food and clothing along with cyclone survivors but nothing extra. Hussain said a government delegation from Dhaka was coming to Chittagong next week to see what can be done for them.

The Bangladesh government supports only the three small orphanages in Chittagong and all were full before the cyclone, Hussain said. Only one orphanage in the port is for girls.

PLEA: Smith attends arraignment

(From 1A)

"I will tell you we're in daily contact with her and her intention is to see that the process takes its course," said the attorney, David Roth.

Dressed in a gray business suit, Smith smiled at reporters — only one member of the public showed up as a spectator — and appeared to listen attentively during a 25-minute court session dominated by debate between his Miami attorney, Mark Schnapp, and lead prosecutor Moira Lasch on various motions.

Schnapp said Smith's attorneys will seek dismissal of the case, but needed more time to prepare their motion. Motions to dismiss normally must be filed before arraignment.

Lupo gave them until June 14 and set a June 19 hearing for pending motions. She then will hear defense arguments for a modified gag order to halt what Smith's attorneys say are prejudicial and one-sided commentary by police and prosecutors that has damaged his right to a fair trial.

Ms. Lasch and Schnapp were at one point admonished by the judge to "talk to me, not each other" when they clashed over such issues as the alleged victim's request that Smith be tested for AIDS.

Schnapp told the judge that Smith gave blood samples to police nearly two months ago and agreed to have them tested. Ms. Lasch replied that state law required a court order, but Schnapp said Ms. Lasch's motion for the order was another prosecution effort to gain publicity.

The judge told the two sides to present an agreed order to sign on Smith's test.

Lupo also indicated she would rule later on a defense motion that the woman be tested for AIDS. The motion said a witness had testified to the woman's "promiscuity."

Outside court, Smith referred to the defense motion and said: "I think that letter made the case very well."

Roth, the woman's attorney, said he wouldn't comment on the motion. "If they want to engage in that type of exchange ... we're not going to respond in ping-pong style," Roth said.

Rape shield laws guard alleged rape victims from having their sexual pasts examined in a trial, but legal experts have predicted the Smith attorneys will challenge the law or try to prove the woman's past is relevant to his defense.

During the arraignment, the judge also granted a defense motion to admit Washington attorneys Herbert "Jack" Miller and Randall Turk to Florida legal practice for this case. Miller headed the Justice Department's criminal division in the Kennedy administration.

Smith was charged May 9, surrendered to Palm Beach police two days later and is free on $10,000 bond. He was graduated one week ago from Georgetown University medical school.

As journalists pressed in outside the courthouse, Smith admitted he felt "a little overwhelmed."

"There are a lot of frustrations involved ... there are highs and there are lows. One of the frustrating things is that I'm not supposed to say anything."

He said Schnapp and others advised him to keep the case in the courtroom, and that "the end result is what's important."

As the media crowd grew, Schnapp was pushed over a fire hydrant. Smith was helped into a courthouse holding area by deputies, who then formed a human corridor to get him into a car driven up by Patrick McKenna, a private investigator hired in the case.

Police are continuing to pursue their investigation into possible obstruction of their probe at the Kennedy estate. Chief Joseph Terlizzese said he couldn't estimate how long it would be before a decision is made on whether to file charges against any of "several people."

tions to President Bush by July 1.

"There's no great negativism on our part at all," said Lt. Bruce Cole, a spokesman for Ingleside. "They want to see what we have to offer. We still think they will consider our modernism and large waterfront.

"Everyone has marvelled at our water facilities. We would rather have no problems, but there are a lot of good arguments to both sides."

Meanwhile at Goodfellow, Capt. Vic Warzinski said the base was taking Friday's action in stride.

"The news was somewhat expected but not particularly surprising," Warzinski said.

In Kingsville, it was business as usual.

"We're not going to do anything differently," said Mark Malinofski, a base spokesman. "We'll continue training pilots until told otherwise.

"From a military standpoint, the personnel doesn't really think about it that much because the government will move you if something does happen."

STOCKS: Dow Jones closes at record high gained 0.6 percent in April, on top of an upwardly revised 1.7 percent in March. The index is designed to predict economic activity six to nine months in the future.

The hard-hit manufacturing sector received good news in a report showing a 1.8 percent rise in orders by factories in April.

Stock purchases can indicate that investors believe a company's performance will improve — something that is more likely to happen during good economic times.

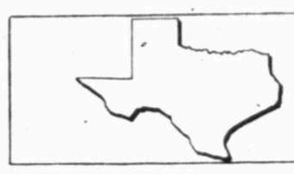
Feds set 'killer bee' traps



The State

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Bee experts are setting lines of traps along roads near San Antonio to lure and capture "killer bees" as the aggressive insects head northward.

But a federal official said Thursday the Africanized bees are not expected to reach the city this spring.

"It appears the swarming season is pretty much on the decline," said Elba Quintero, director of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service's Africanized Honey Bee program in Harlingen.

Fewer swarms are being found in South Texas traps and reports from the public have declined, Quintero said, adding that swarming probably will pick up again in mid-September.

Bees tend to expand their range during the spring and fall swarming seasons, observers say.

Quintero and others familiar with Africanized bees have spoke to Bexar County emergency-response officials about a plan to manage the bees.

Scientists conduct laboratory tests to determine whether bees are Africanized. To the naked eye, they appear identical to the more docile European bees commonly used in U.S. agriculture.

So far 39 swarms of Africanized bees have been confirmed in Texas, said John Thomas, entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service in College Station. Except for two swarms found near Laredo and one in Eagle Pass, all have been discovered in the Rio Grande Valley.

The bee traps set near San Antonio will be checked every two weeks.

The traps are cardboard boxes covered with blue plastic that contain a bee-attracting pheromone. They are being placed at the rate of one per mile in trees along rural roads. Eventually the line will extend from Del Rio to Houston, Quintero said.

More state news/C1

Africanized bees have been heading toward the United States since 1957, when African honey bee queens escaped from an experiment and began breeding with European bees in South America.

Bees trapped in South Texas are considered "pioneer swarms" traveling ahead of the truly infested area still located south of the Rio Grande.

The Africanized bees' defensive tendency to launch mass attacks on intruders has caused an unknown number of deaths in Latin America.

Woman gets life in prison in plea deal

LUBBOCK (AP) — A woman who blamed a mother-in-law's curse for the deaths of six of her children likely killed her children one by one over a 14-year period because she craved attention brought by the deaths, investigators said Friday.

Diana Lumbrera, 32, pleaded no contest in Parmer County district court Thursday to one count of murder in the 1982 death of her 2-year-old daughter, Melinda Ann Garza, as part of a plea bargain. She was sentenced to life in prison.

In exchange, the state agreed to drop charges that she killed two other daughters and the daughter of a cousin. Ms. Lumbrera was due to begin a series of four murder trials on Monday.

Selden Hale, Ms. Lumbrera's attorney, said the odds were likely stacked against his client.

"These cases were not that clear cut," Hale said Friday. "The evidence that they had was 10 years old in some instances and I think it was a real possibility that a jury could have found that she was not guilty.

"But if you try five of them over a period of time the odds of a jury finding her guilty go up."

Parmer County Sheriff Rex Williams, who led the investigation into the deaths of four of Ms. Lumbrera's children, said evidence and testimony from doctors indicated she sacrificed her infants for the condolences she received from others.

Ms. Lumbrera has been accused of killing five of her children under the age of 5 and a sixth child who was the daughter of a cousin. The deaths occurred between 1976 and 1990. The death of another of her children, Christopher Lumbrera, is under investigation in Dimmitt, 85 miles northwest of Lubbock.

Ms. Lumbrera is awaiting trial in Lubbock on charges of murdering her 2-month old, Jose Lionel Garza, on Feb. 13, 1978. Prosecutors in that case said Friday they are trying to negotiate a plea bargain.

A jury in Garden City, Kan., where Ms. Lumbrera had moved, convicted her last October of murdering her 4-year-old son, Jose Antonio, on May 1, 1990, and she was sentenced to life in prison.

Oil price would help other fuels Mauro reports

AUSTIN (AP) — A proposed $20 per barrel floor price for oil could help in the development of Texas natural gas and other alternative fuels, said state Land Commissioner Garry Mauro.

"One of the reasons alternative fuels have developed slowly is the wide swing in oil prices over the last 15 years. It has hindered investment in new technology," Mauro said Friday.

Texas Railroad Commissioner Bob Krueger has proposed the floor price as part of a national energy policy.

U.S. Rep. Dick Gephardt, D-Mo., majority leader in the House, said in April he will introduce a bill that includes the $20 per barrel floor price for oil, supported by a variable tax on imported oil.

Bush expresses desire to help Soviets repair economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush said Friday "we want to be helpful" in repairing the crisis-ridden Soviet economy and said he was impressed by Mikhail S. Gorbachev's blueprint for transforming his country into a free-market system.

Bush reserved judgment on Soviet pleas for billions of dollars in Western aid but, after receiving Gorbachev's special envoy, said "I'm feeling more positive on a wide array of specific questions." Still, he declined to say whether he favored accommodating Gorbachev's desire to address the July summit in London of the industrial democracies.

Soviet officials who met with Bush said later that they expect him to ease longtime trade restrictions on Moscow and perhaps approve $1.5 billion in credit guarantees allowing the Soviets to buy more U.S. grain.

"The move is in the right direction," declared Yevgeny Primakov, Gorbachev's special envoy. He met with Bush after spending 7½ hours this week explaining Gorbachev's economic reform program to senior administration officials and representatives of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund.

"I liked what I heard and we have some decisions ahead of us, and I'm not going to prejudge those decisions," Bush told reporters during a brief appearance in the Rose Garden. He held 45 minutes of talks with Primakov and other Soviet officials in the Oval Office and then invited Primakov back for a private luncheon.

Bush's upbeat comments were in sharp contrast to doubts raised by other administration officials, who say Gorbachev's rescue plan is too vague and fails to recognize the major efforts needed to transform the centrally controlled Communist system into a market economy.

The administration, struggling with its own budget problems, also is seeking assurances of a cutoff of Soviet aid to Cuba, reductions in Soviet military spending and an end to harassment of the Baltic republics.

Bush expressed optimism that the Soviets were prepared to accept the painful aftershocks of economic reform, which would entail the sale of state-owned enterprises to private buyers, liberalization of prices and unspecified monetary reforms.

"I think they made clear that they were prepared to do that, and all I'm saying is we need a little more detail," Bush said. "I had the impression that they are undertaking what, for them is, and what the world will see, is radical economic reforms.

The president said he told the Soviet delegation "we want to be helpful, that we will study in detail the presentation they made."

The Soviet delegation cautioned Bush that change will not occur overnight. "Mr. Primakov pointed out that the Soviet economic system has existed for some 73 years and change does not come easily," White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said.

Detmer card

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Although he has year of eligibility left, BYU's Heisman Trophy winning quarterback Ty Detmer had made his first appearance on a professional football card — much to his and his school's consternation.

Sports card collectors scurried to paid $8 to $9 for the card, the Deseret News reported Friday.

The Pro Set card company, based in Dallas, annually issues a card featuring the previous year's Heisman Trophy winner as part of its NFL set. In keeping with that tradition, this year's card No. 37 depicts Detmer.

The problem: most Heisman Trophy winners go right into the pro ranks. Detmer, who won the trophy as a junior, has another season in the collegiate ranks. Having Detmer appear in the commercial set, making money for a profitmaking venture, could be construed as a violation of NCAA rules, BYU officials say.

Detmer played high school football in San Antonio, where he set the Texas high school record for passing yardage. His father is a high school coach in South Texas.

Chris Widmier, a New York-based public relations spokesman for Pro Set, said the company sees using Detmer's image in the card set can be compared to his picture appearing in a newspaper or magazine.

Marquee final pits Michael against Magic

■ Chicago, a newcomer to the NBA championship series, takes on finals veteran Los Angeles when the best-of-seven set gets underway.

Jordan

Johnson

Associated Press

CHICAGO — What used to be Magic vs. Bird is now Magic vs. Michael.

Only 12 times since Michael Jordan came into the NBA in 1984 have he and Magic Johnson met in the same game.

By June 16, that number could increase by seven after Johnson and the Los Angeles Lakers, making their ninth NBA Finals appearance in 12 seasons, meet Jordan and the Chicago Bulls, who are in the championship series for the first time in the franchise's 25-year history.

"I think it's exciting," Johnson said. "Michael and I have become real good friends. We always wanted to play in the Finals, and now he has his chance."

Both players will do their best to put their teams ahead of the marquee matchup, but Jordan said Friday he realizes what the focus will be.

"I understand the media hype, and it's a business situation," Jordan said. "I understand it's good for the league to make it a 1-on-1 situation.

"Magic vs. Jordan is the hype of it, but I know my team is playing against the Lakers. I'm not going to take it out of context. I'm not going to try and make it a 1-on-1 situation. I'm going to do whatever I can to show leadership for my team. I'm not going to try and make it anything special."

Johnson, who expanded his reputation during NBA Finals meetings with Larry Bird and the Boston Celtics, had flashbacks of glorious finishes past with seconds left in Thursday night's 91-90 victory over Portland in the Western Conference finals.

With the Lakers ahead by one point, Johnson said he saw the clock stuck on 2.2 seconds after he passed the ball wildly over his head and watched it roll tantalizingly toward the other end of the floor. The clock kept ticking, and the ball rolled out of bounds with 0.1 seconds remaining, too little time for Portland to do anything but try a length-of-the-court pass.

"I thought I was back in Boston Garden," Johnson said. But, on Sunday it will be Jordan and the Bulls in Game 1 at Chicago Stadium for Johnson, who has Shirley Stephenson retires after 29 years with Midland Lee athletics.

Shirley Stephenson bids farewell to Lee

■ She never paused to add up the numbers, but Stephenson amassed enough wins to take 10 cage teams to the playoffs.

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

As far as Shirley Stephenson is concerned, numbers just seem to get in the way.

After 29 years of service at Lee, Stephenson, Lee's head girls basketball coach, is putting a cover over the hoop, choosing retirement and "taking up where I left off when I had to get a job."

Shirley can't tell you how many games she's won or lost. She couldn't keep track of all the district basketball titles her teams won since 1978 when Lee begin competing at a varsity level in UIL basketball. Those darn numbers just keep getting in the way.

"To tell you the truth, I never thought much in terms of numbers," Stephenson says. "I've always told the kids I've coached that in 15 or 20 years they won't remember what their high school record was, but they will remember their teammates, the trips, the tough practices and all the experiences they had while they were in school.

"And I'll always remember the kids. That was what was important to me. I've had teams that I thought would win a district championship and didn't. And I've had teams I thought were very average on talent and win the district championship. It's always great to see kids work hard and achieve beyond what you think they can do."

Not that Stephenson cares, but the numbers say that she had some success on the hardwood. Her

Riley takes Knicks job

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Pat Riley, who found virtually nothing but success with the Los Angeles Lakers, went after a tougher challenge Friday as coach of the New York Knicks.

Dave Checketts, president of the Knicks, announced Riley's hiring after three weeks of speculation following the resignation of John MacLeod to go to Notre Dame. Sources said Riley, who worked as an analyst for NBC this season, was given a five-year contract for approximately $6 million, plus incentives.

"I missed the fire down on the floor," Riley said of his one-year hiatus from coaching. "I tried to get over it, but Dave made it too hard for me to get over."

Riley said he knew on Nov. 3, when he worked for NBC at a Spurs-Lakers game, that he would miss coaching too much to stay away from it.

Travs beat Angels in eighth; Valenzuela to pitch today

Staff Report

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Arkansas took advantage of a couple of defensive lapses in the eighth inning by the Midland Angel here Friday night as the Travelers forged a 5-3 Texas League victory.

Arkansas got the winning run in the eighth when Cliff Brannon grounded to Damion Easley at shortstop. Midland could not turn the double play as Easley had some trouble getting the ball out of his glove, allowing a run to score and breaking the 3-3 tie.

Then Arkansas got an insurance run when Frank Abru scored from third base on a double steal when Angel catcher Ken Rivers tried to nail Brannon at second base.

Arkansas pitcher Mark Clark, who recorded his first complete game of the year, retired the last 16 Angels he faced to pick up the win in a game where he got stronger as the contest went on. Clark evened his record at 2-2.

Midland still owns a 5-3 advantage over Arkansas this season with two games left to play with the Travelers, a doubleheader today.

Drained Conners surrenders to Chang

Michael Chang looks his backhand over the net during a match with 38-year-old Jimmy Connors Friday at the French Open. Chang won the match when Connors had to retire at the start of the fifth set.

PARIS — Jimmy Connors turned back the clock with a dramatic display of guts and gamesmanship at the French Open Friday before surrendering to exhaustion and a player half his age.

With a packed center-court crowd roaring in glee, the 38-year-old warrior overcame a stiff back to tie his third-round match against Michael Chang at two sets apiece.

But then, drained of energy and playing only on instinct, Connors pulled out after just one point of the fifth set and hobbled off the court.

"I'm sorry, I did all I could. I just can't play anymore," Connors told umpire Bruno Rebeuh after 3 hours, 34 minutes of play. "Believe me, if I could stay out here and play, I would."

Connors, who has played sparingly in the last three years and is splitting his time here between the courts and the television booth, had to be helped up the stairs to the locker room by trainer Bill Norris.

Norris said he then gave Connors an intravenous solution of sodium, potassium and saline to prevent cramping.

"To be honest with you, I feel awful," Connors said at a postmatch news conference. "I was run ragged for four hours. My back is stiff. But it was fun."

Connors, who lost six straight games in the third set when his back started hurting, appeared to be finished when Chang broke his serve to tie the fourth set at 4-4. But, stalking the court like a wounded bear, Connors broke right back for a 5-4 lead.

He waved his racket as if to say he was through and stumbled toward the umpire's chair. But he was greeted by a stand-

Bucs take seventh in a row, 5-1

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Bob Walk got his first victory since last season as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies 5-1 Friday night for their seventh straight win.

NL

Walk (1-0) made his fourth start of the season and allowed three hits and one run in 5 2-3 innings. His previous victory was over St. Louis last Sept. 29. Stan Belinda, Neal Heaton and Bill Landrum finished the combined five-hitter.

Jason Grimsley (1-7) lost his fourth consecutive start, giving up four runs and five hits in 4 1-3 innings as his career record against Pittsburgh fell to 0-4. The Phillies have lost in Grimsley's last six starts and in 10 of 11 games he started this season.

Bobby Bonilla's sacrifice fly gave Pittsburgh the lead in the first inning and Andy Van Slyke's run-scoring triple made it 2-0 in third.

Dickie Thon pulled the Phillies within a run in the bottom of the inning with his second home run of the season and the 13th of his career against Pittsburgh, the most he's hit against any club.

Jeff King, activated from the disabled list earlier in the day after recovering from a bad back, hit his second home run of the year in the fourth.

Wally Ritchie's wild pitch with the bases loaded gave the Pitates a 4-1 lead in the fifth. Walk hit a run-scoring single in the sixth.

Cubs 7, Expos 2

Dennis Martinez (6-4) gave up four runs and seven hits in four innings. He was in trouble from the start, allowing three runs and four hits in the first inning.

Doug Dascenzo and Ryne Sandberg hit consecutive singles and George Bell hit a sacrifice fly with one out. Andre Dawson tripled and scored on Damon Berryhill's single for a 3-0 lead.

Grace hit his third homer on the year in the third inning and Berryhill singled a a run in the fifth for a five-run advantage.

Ron Hassey hit a sacrifice fly in the bottom of the inning and Dave Martinez hit his first home run of the year in the sixth. Jerome Walton hit an RBI single in the seventh and Dascenzo added an RBI single in the eighth, his third hit of the game.

Padres 5, Astros 4

SAN DIEGO — Jose Melendez won his first major league start, allowing two hits in eight innings.

Melendez, recalled by the Padres from the minors earlier in the day because of injuries, gave up two hits and two runs in the first inning and then held the Astros hitless.

It was the fourth major league appearance for Melandez (1-0), who was claimed on waivers.

ARLINGTON — Gerald Alexander, culled from the bullpen because of the injuries and ineffectiveness of the Texas staff, won his first start of the season as the Rangers beat the Seattle Mariners 7-6 Friday night.

AL

Alexander (3-0), allowed one run on six hits over seven innings as the Rangers ended a three-game slide that followed a club record 14-game winning streak. He struck out the side in the first inning, catching Ken Griffey Sr. and Jr. looking for the second and third outs.

Alexander struck out five and didn't walk a batter. Jeff Russell pitched the final 1 1-3 innings for his 12th save.

Grand slam propels LSU to College World Series win

Associated Press

OMAHA, Neb. — Lyle Mouton had two long home runs, including a grand slam in the seventh inning, to power fourth-seeded Louisiana State to an 8-1 victory over No. 5 Florida in the first round of the College World Series Friday night.

The victory moves the Tigers (52-18) into a winners bracket game on Sunday against No. 8 Fresno State (42-21), who beat top-seeded Florida State 6-3 earlier Friday. The Seminoles (57-13), who won three out of four games with Florida during the regular season, face the Gators (49-20) again in an elimination game Sunday.

Mouton's 11th homer, off Florida starter John Burke (8-5) in the first inning, travelled 420 feet to dead-center, clearing the 20-foot wall.

The Tiger rightfielder also scored in the fourth on Gary Hymel's sacrifice fly. Pat Garrity followed with his second home run of the year for a 3-1 LSU lead.

Florida scratched out its run in the fourth when Herbert Perry doubled, went to third on Brian Purvis' single and scored on a double play.

LSU got another run in the fifth on Rich Cordani's RBI single.

With two outs in the seventh, LSU loaded the bases on a walk, a hit batsman and a single by Armando Rios.

Reliever John Pricher came in to pitch to Mouton, who lined his second homer of the game off the scoreboard in left center beyond the 370-foot sign.

The Gators were held in check by LSU starter Paul Byrd and Chad Ojea (13-5), who came on in the fifth inning for the victory.

Florida, which beat LSU twice in the Southeastern Conference tournament, did manage two school records. Burke had two strikeouts to give him 127 on the season, one more than Jeff Gidcumb in 1988; and Dave Majeski had two hits for 93, topping Scott Lusader's mark of 92 in 1985.

Ruben Sierra takes up cock fighting in Puerto Rico

Associated Press

ARLINGTON — Texas outfielder Ruben Sierra spent the offseason learning a new sport: cockfighting.

"It's a lot of fun," said Sierra, who went into the high stakes gamecock business with fellow Puerto Rican, outfielder Ivan Calderon of the Montreal Expos. The two own about 500 fighting roosters.

Cockfighting is a sport in which two gamecocks battle each other to the death. The sport is illegal in many states, although it is sometimes carried on in secret and for gambling purposes.

But cockfighting ranks as a legal and popular public sport in Puerto Rico, Spain and Latin America. Bets are placed by spectators and owners of the gamecocks.

"It's just as big as horse racing is here," Sierra said.

"We didn't play winter baseball," said Calderon, who has been in the business for several years, "and that is what we do to have some fun."

"When I was young, I used to take care of them for somebody else," Calderon said. "When I started playing baseball and got some money, I got my own."

Sierra, of Rio Piedras, and Calderon, of Fajardo, met while Calderon was in the American League with Seattle and Chicago, and the two became friends.

Last year, he invited Sierra along to watch a fight, and Sierra got hooked.

"I wanted to buy some chickens, and he took me to a place to get some," Sierra said.

Gamecocks are specially bred to achieve power, speed and killer instinct. They usually are brightly colored and have long spurs on their legs. But breeders generally trim the spurs down and attach artificial spurs, usually steel or brass, to the gamecocks' legs. The birds use the weapons to rip and tear at their opponents.

Usually, about 400 people attend the cockfights, which take place in an enclosed pit, on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays in Puerto Rico. At the start of the fight, handlers hold their birds firmly and allow them to peck at each other.

SHIRLEY: There was a golf title, too

teams won five District 4-5A basketball titles outright and tied for three others. Her teams were in the playoffs 10 times and won two bi-district titles. She had one run of seven consecutive playoff appearances. All in 14 years. No other 4-5A coach can touch those numbers.

Before basketball, Shirley coached golf at Lee. She didn't remember the year (one of those numbers again), but she did recall one number — No. 1. In 1975, Stephenson guided the Lee girls to a state golf title. Liz Norton won the state medalist title that year.

"If I'm not mistaken, that is the only state title in a team sport that Lee has ever won," Stephenson said. "I don't think people realize just how hard it is to win a state championship in anything. But we did it in girls golf."

Stephenson isn't quite sure what it takes to produce a successful team.

"I've had all kinds of different kids. All types. There just doesn't seem to be a formula for being successful," she says. "I've had girls who would fight like cats and dogs off the court, but when the game came, they were great. I've had quiet kids, who could play with anyone when game time came around. The one thing I've learned is that you can never predict what a group of kids will do. You should never give up on any of them."

Stephenson thinks that girls athletics has come a long way since she began teaching at Lee, but she still sees some ills.

"I see sports as a way to keep kids involved and out of trouble. We spend a lot of money on rehabilitation. Why not spend some of that money on gyms and more coaches.

"We start cutting kids at the seventh grade level. You've lost those kids. And there is no way you can tell if a kid is going to be a good player in high school when you are making a decision in one week in the seventh grade.

"If it takes more gyms and coaches then let's find the money. I don't think you can lose. All those kids should play if they want to."

When Stephenson started coaching at Lee, girls played a half-court game with three offensive players and three defensive players. She didn't eagerly embrace the switch to the full-court scheme when it came.

"I liked the half-court game because you could play six players at a time instead of five," Stephenson said. "To me that's what it's all about. The more kids you can play, the better. There just isn't enough time in a game to play all the kids you would like. We should at least make the games longer, maybe with 20 minute halves instead of eight minute quarters."

The search for Stephenson's replacement is already underway and it won't be long before she loses the title of being the only head girls basketball coach in the history of the Lee.

But no other coach will be able to say they started the basketball program at Lee — and she left her successor some big numbers to shoot for. But then again, numbers aren't everything. Just ask Shirley.

ing ovation and headed back onto the court, appearing a bit disoriented, after dumping some water on his head.

Somehow, he won the next game to take the set 6-4. The game included several amazing shots, including a ball that hit the net and rolled over, as Connors seemed to be performing magic tricks.

Chang, 19, who was not born when Connors won his first pro tournament in January 1972, was the French Open champion two years ago and is the 10th seed this year.

While the Connors-Chang clash overshadowed other matches Friday, three other men's seeds advanced easily. Second seed Boris Becker and fourth seed Andre Agassi advanced in straight sets, while seventh seed Guy Forget needed four sets to reach the fourth round.

Agassi routed Patrick McEnroe 6-2, 6-2, 6-0 in just 95 minutes and said it was "probably the best tennis I have ever played, the best I have ever hit the ball."

Sutton one up on field at Kemper

Associated Press

POTOMAC, Md. — Hal Sutton shot a 65 on Friday to reach the halfway point of the Kemper Open at 11-under 131, a tournament-record, and one stroke ahead of Greg Norman and Billy Andrade.

Sutton, vying for his first tournament victory since 1986, had three birdies and an eagle over the final seven holes. He has 10 birdies and just one bogey in two trips over the 6,904-yard TPC at Avenel course.

Norman, who started on the back nine, had eight birdies in a round of 65. But he missed a chance to share the lead when he hit into the rough on No. 7 and took a bogey.

Finishing around six hours after Sutton and Norman, Andrade shot a 64 to tie a tournament record held by several golfers. He had an eagle and two birdies over the first five holes, then returned after a 47-minute lightning delay to get four birdies over the last six holes.

Bob Gilder, who shared the first-round lead with Scott Gump, was tied with Bill Cochran at 133. Howard Twitty was among a group of nine players at 134, and Gump was one of three players at 135.

Despite the intense heat, the players had their way with the course for a second straight day. Jeff Sluman shot a 64, eight players had 65s and five shot 66s.

The low scores made the cut 2-under 140, lowest in tournament history. Defending champion Gil Morgan (143) and Tom Kite (142) were not among the 79 who survived.

The 33-year-old Sutton was the Tour's leading money-winner in 1983, and after he won the Tournament Players Championship and the PGA that year some tagged him the next Jack Nicklaus.

"To put expectations on someone else is not fair, as far as being the next Nicklaus," he said. "It wears you down, because not only do you want to live up to everybody else's expectations, but you want to live up to your own."

Hal Sutton watches his drive on the ninth hole during the second round of the Kemper Open. Sutton leads the tournament with an 11-under-par 131.

Sutton won only four events after that, none after the 1986 Memorial Tournament.

"I think that saying my career was in a rut is a kind way of putting it," he said.

But Sutton has been playing with more confidence since he began putting cross-handed on a full-time basis last month. He had success with it immediately prior to playing in the Byron Nelson Classic, and stuck with it after tying for third at the event — his best finish in the 1990s.

"I've practiced cross-handed throughout my career but haven't used it for an extended time until now," he said. "I wasn't making any putts before, so I figured I had nothing to lose."

Rookie holds lead at LPGA Rochester

Associated Press

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Rookie Michelle Estill not only made the cut for a change, she held the second-round lead at the LPGA Rochester International.

Estill, who has missed the cut in nine of 12 tournaments this year, shot her second straight 4-under-par 68 Friday to lead veterans Chris Johnson, Beth Daniel and Colleen Walker by one stroke.

Estill, who joined the tour in October, had five birdies and one bogey over the 6,162-yard Locust Hill Country Club course.

The 28-year-old Scottsdale, Ariz. native was nine under after 16 holes, but three-putted for par on 17 and missed a 12-foot par putt on 18 after hitting into a bunker and barely getting on the green.

Three-putting on 17 "was the biggest disappointment of the day," Estill said. "I got all excited about hitting a 66."

After missing the cut last week at the Corning Classic, Estill said she changed to a 10-finger grip and took some tips from a pro on concentrating on distance and speed. So far, it's working.

Daniel, Johnson and Walker were one stroke in front of Cindy Rarick, Trish Johnson and Rosie Jones.

Patty Sheehan, who has won the last two Rochester tournaments, is at par 142 after two rounds.

Walker, winless so far this year, carded four birdies and one bogey in her 69, while Johnson, who held a one-stroke after the opening round, had five birdies and three bogeys, including a three-putt on her final hole, to finish with a 70.

"I don't think I took my time as much as I needed to," said Johnson, winner of this year's Ping-Welch's championship. "But I feel real good because the putts were so good."

Daniel, starting at three under on the back nine, birdied six of her first 13 holes and led briefly at nine under before bogeying 5 and 7.

"On the back nine, which was my front nine, I hit my irons real good but drove terrible," she said. "On the front, I drove it good but hit terrible. Tomorrow I think I'm going back to hitting good."

Charles sees fit to take Seniors' lead

Associated Press

SCARBOROUGH-ON-HUDSON, N.Y. — Bob Charles' switch from contact lenses to glasses switched his putting fortunes on Friday at the NYNEX Commemorative.

Charles shot a 6-under 64, tying him with Rocky Thompson, the mayor of a small Texas town, for the first round lead in the Seniors event.

Chi Chi Rodriguez, who leads with Senior Tour with four victories and $400,333, was a stroke behind at 65 along with Billy Casper, Bruce Crampton, Walt Zembriski, and Bob Betley.

Defending champion Lee Trevino had a 66 after arriving in New York at 3 a.m. Friday. He was in the Texas the night before to attend the high-school graduation of his daughter, Troy.

Trevino also rushed his final putt on the 18th green to avoid the heavy rains which suspended play for 1 hour, 45 minutes on the par-70, 6,545-yard Sleepy Hollow Country Club.

Also at 66 are Ralph Terry, the ex-New York Yankee pitcher, Chuck Workman, Bob Wynn, Dale Douglass, Charles Coody, Tom Shaw, Gordon Jones and Jack Kiefer.

In all, 46 of the 78 competitors were at par or better in the 54-hole event.

But it was Charles' dead-eye putting which led the way.

"I tried contacts the last two weeks and they were a disaster," said Charles, a native of New Zealand who won the Commemorative in 1988 and 1989.

"Last week's tournament (Bell Atlantic Classic in Malvern, Pa.) was the worst by far of my career. I couldn't putt sideways, frontways, backwards, upwards .... anyway at all."

Charles finished tied for 27th last week with rounds of 73-75-72—220, 10 over par.

That was the end of the contact lenses.

"My problem has been aiming the putter on the green," said Charles, who's had 16 victories including one this year in five seasons on the Senior Tour.

Chicago soccer star ducks out

CHICAGO (AP) — Former soccer star and man-about-town Karl-Heinz Granitza is not around this town anymore.

Granitza has vanished, along with his wife and three children, leaving a host of unpaid bills, unresolved lawsuits, angry business associates and worried friends.

Granitza, the all-time leading scorer for the Chicago Sting of the North American soccer league, was a fixture of the local social scene, disappeared last month after selling his Lincoln Park home.

"He just took off like that," says Granitza's former teammate, Pato Margetic. "I keep waiting for his call."

The former player was under financial pressure on several fronts.

A restaurant he owned, Cocorico, had racked up debts of nearly $500,000, including $317,835 in unpaid taxes.

Speculation on Granitza's whereabouts range from Indiana to Germany, where he was born and raised.

Hearns takes on Virgil Hill

LAS VEGAS (AP) — The honorary general would like a real title by parade time.

Thomas Hearns, the Hit Man, was given four stars and made an honorary general by Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf after he spent almost two weeks with U.S. troops in Saudi Arabia last October.

Hearns hopes have the title of World Boxing Association light heavyweight champion when he attends parades honoring the troops in Washington June 8 and in New York June 10.

Monday night, Hearns will challenge unbeaten champion Virgil Hill in a 12-round bout outdoors at Caesars Palace.

Lee Smith, a publicist for Hearns, said efforts were made to get Schwarzkopf to attend the fight, but instead Hearns was invited to attend the parades.

Hill was a 5-2 favorite to win his 11th title defense.

It could be the last hurrah for Hearns, who has won titles in five weight classes.

"Tommy is over the hill in my opinion," said Freddie Roach, Hill's trainer.

Hearns is only 32, but a boxer's age is measured by more than just the callendar.

Hearns, who has a 49-3-1 record, with 40 knockouts, has been fighting professionally since 1977 and has been in ring wars with Sugar Ray Leonard and Marvelous Marvin Hagler and with such good punchers as Juan Domingo Roldan, James "The Heat" Kinchen and Iran Barkley.

Hearns' archrivals, Leonard and Hagler, are retired. Another rival, Roberto Duran, is just going through the motions.

"Thomas Hearns' career is going to be up when the Good Lord tells me, 'You've done everything in boxing that anybody can do,'" Hearns said Friday.

Win or lose Monday night, the end could be in sight.

"One more, then I can say goodbye — that would be the cruiserweight title."

Should Hearns become a cruiserweight champion it would mean he would have held titles in six weight divisions ranging from 147 to 190 pounds. He's already been a light heavyweight champion, having won the WBC 175-pound title, which he never defended.

Another one of those championships was the super middleweight of the World Boxing Organization, which is considered a fringe organization by many in boxing.

Still, Hearns' place in boxing lore is secured.

In the 27-year-old Hill, Hearns will be facing a defensive-minded counterpuncher, who has won all 30 of his pro fights.

Tyson: 'I'm going to kill this guy'

Associated Press

LAS VEGAS — Donovan "Razor" Ruddock trained instead of talked Friday, which was OK with Mike Tyson.

"The best thing for him is to stay in training and train hard," Tyson said. "I'm going to kill this guy."

Tyson got together with promoter Don King to hype his June 28 rematch with Ruddock, but Ruddock, training in Florida, was a no-show on his end of the scheduled satellite exchange.

King, as usual, wasn't at a loss for words, but Tyson toned down his rhetoric considerably from exchanges earlier this month when he called Ruddock a transvestite and questioned his sexual preferences.

Still, Tyson made it clear there was no love lost between the heavyweights.

"To be honest with you, I totally have no respect for Razor Ruddock as an individual," Tyson said.

The on-again, off-again rematch is apparently on again, despite looming negotiations for a fight between Tyson and undisputed champion Evander Holyfield as well as action by Nevada boxing officials to bar Murad Muhammad, Ruddock's promoter, from the fight.

"Evander Holyfield and his handlers don't want to fight Tyson," King claimed. "The real deal is they don't want the fight."

In the next breath, however, King announced the World Boxing Council had set June 8 as a date for purse bids for the fight, and had agreed to give Holyfield a 60-40 cut of the purse instead of the standard 75-25.

"Holyfield's drawing ability is virtually nil," King said.

Tyson said his training for Ruddock was interrupted only briefly by King's announcement last week that the fight would be cancelled so Tyson could meet Holyfield.

King changed his mind a few days later, however, and the fight was back on.

Padres deal Templeton to Big Apple for Teufel

SAN DIEGO — Garry Templeton, who lost his starting shortstop job when the San Diego Padres acquired Tony Fernandez, was traded to the New York Mets Friday for backup infielder Tim Teufel.

Templeton, 35, has been with the Padres since 1982, when he was swapped for Ozzie Smith after spending six seasons in St. Louis. He appeared in 32 games for San Diego this season, hitting .193 with one home run and six RBIs.

Teufel, 32, is in his ninth big-league season. Before moving to the Mets in 1986, he played in Minnesota. Teufel began the season with a .262 career average with 61 home runs and 279 RBIs. He has appeared in only 20 games, though, and is hitting just .118 with one homer and two RBIs.

Templeton, unhappy with his status as a pinch hitter and seldom-used utility player, wanted to be traded to a team that would use him. Fernandez has played every inning this season except the last four innings in a blowout loss Sunday at Houston.

Soccer rethinks penalty kicking

LONDON (AP) — Soccer's international governing body said Friday it is exploring the possibility of going back to replaying a World Cup final that is tied after overtime. Penalty kicks were put into the rules for the last three tournaments. No World Cup final, however, has been tied after overtime.

Chinese glimpse American football

Gregg Goodman of Pacific Lutheran University shakes hands with Chinese fans during half time at an exhibition football game against Evangel College Friday night in Beijing.

BEIJING — The first football game in China is history, and that, says one of the coaches, is the biggest upset of all.

"We sweat blood, and we almost had an international situation here," Pacific Luthern University coach Frosty Westering told players from both teams when they gathered for a post-game talk and prayer at midfield.

"But now it's over and it was a great game. We're just trying to make the Chinese have a good time."

Marc Weekly of PLU will be recorded as having scored the first touchdown in an organized game in China, but the biggest cheers came when his teammates threw miniature footballs into the stands.

Weekly's 3-yard TD run on a quarterback option, followed by scoring passes of 21 and 11 yards to tight end Kevin Engman, led the Lutes to a 20-7 win over Evangel College in the first of three exhibition games in China.

Pacific Lutheran, of Tacoma, Wash., and the Evangel Crusaders of Springfield, Mo., are scheduled to play June 8 in the southern city of Canton and June 12 in the coastal city of Shanghai.

The two teams had threatened to cancel the games when Chinese authorities refused to return camera equipment to U.S. television crews who came to document the tour. Customs confiscated the equipment at Beijing airport.

Wang Juxian, liaison for the China International Sports Travel Co., the teams' host, said the television crews hold tourist visas, which do not allow them to bring in cameras and work as journalists.

David Stair, Evangel athletic director, said college officials finally decided to play because they didn't want to disappoint the players or the Chinese spectators.

About 25,000 people were in the stands at the 72,000-seat Workers' Stadium for the opening kickoff. First, players ran through some mock plays, and the announcer briefly described how to play the game known as "olive ball" in Chinese because of the ball's shape.

The game wasn't quite the same as back home, though.

The playing field was a scaled-down version because it wasn't big enough for the regulation 100 yards from end zone to end zone.

As a result, the offensive team didn't really face a first-and-10 at the start of each series, said Phil Barnes, back judge in the Big Ten Conference officiating crew that came to work the games.

"It's more like first and 9.4," Barnes said.

At the outset, fans were eager to cheer, clapping enthusiastically when the players shook hands after the coin toss and jumping to catch the souvenir balls the Lutes threw their way.

After several failed attempts, foreigners in the crowd succeeded in getting "the wave" to go around the stadium.

NBA: Magic has five championship rings helped the Lakers win five championships.

"We're not relieved to be playing against the former champions," Jordan said. "We're here focusing on ourselves and what he have to do as a team. We have to look at the Lakers as a whole and what we have to do to defense them and slow them down."

The Jordan-Johnson matchup will actually occur only on one end of the court, where Jordan will guard Johnson. The Lakers' Byron Scott will guard Jordan.

"It's ideal to have Michael and Magic in the same series," Bulls coach Phil Jackson said. "But the matchup is only on one end. Both have a great influence on the game, and that's the story."

Jordan said he would try to slow down Johnson as much as possible.

"I know he's a threat in terms of running the team," Jordan said. "I'm going to try to wear him down as much as possible, eliminate him from getting into an open-court situation, where he is very dangerous."

Lakers assistant coach Randy Pfund said the matchup between small forwards Scottie Pippen and James Worthy is more pivotal than Jordan-Johnson.

"Scottie has improved by watching and emulating Michael over the last few years," Pfund said. "The fact that Mike Dunleavy coached in the Eastern Conference will help.

Worthy was hampered in Thursday's finale against Portland by an injured ankle.

"It was very tender and sore," he said. "I couldn't explode to the basket. Hopefully, with two full days of rest and therapy, it'll be 100 percent."

Jordan and Johnson, however, will hog the spotlight, and their teammates seem to understand that.

"It won't be a distraction to us," Bulls guard John Paxson said.

"You have two great superstars," Bulls forward Horace Grant added. "I think it's great for the game.

RILEY: Sixth coach in seven years for Knicks

(From 1B)

tion, that I would miss being down on the floor with a team. That desire put me here today."

Riley won four championships and made three other trips to the NBA Finals with the Lakers from 1982-1990. He is the sixth coach in seven years for the Knicks, who haven't advanced past the second round of the playoffs since winning the NBA title in 1973.

This year, they were 21-20 at Madison Square Garden and were swept by Chicago in the first round.

"Magic will return to the Garden, not the player, but the team," Checketts said. "Pat Riley is acknowledged as the coach of the '80s, and there is no better coach to lead the Knicks into the '90s."

Riley's regular-season percentage of .733 in nine years with the Lakers is the best in NBA history and he won 102 playoff games, the only coach over 100. Red Auerbach won 99 playoff games in 20 seasons with the Boston Celtics.

Riley said he would have left NBC for no other coaching job.

"In my 23 years as a player with the Lakers and a coach, there never was a bigger game for me than when I came to the Garden," Riley said. "I hope to create that environment in New York again. I've been in California for 23 years and it wasn't an easy decision for me to leave."

Three other coaches — Doug Collins, Tom Penders of the University of Texas and Knicks assistant Paul Silas — were interviewed for the job.

Tape indicates Andretti crew urged Mario to stop

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Although a tape recorder caught Mario Andretti's pit crew urging him to create a caution period for his son during the Indianapolis 500, the U.S. Auto Club doesn't plan to reopen its investigation.

Evans Rust, a fan from Scottsdale, Ariz., used a scanner to tape a message radioed to Andretti by his pit crew late in Sunday's race. At the time, Michael Andretti was running second behind Rick Mears, the eventual winner.

"Michael needs a yellow," the voice on the tape says. "Stop, Mario. Create a yellow!"

After a long pause, the voice says, "We'll come on down and pick you up."

Mario Andretti, who finished seventh, did stop his car near the entrance to the pits but he has said it was due to mechanical problems.

"We are doing nothing about the tape. There is no acknowledgement from Mario on it indicating that he did anything wrong and the bottom line is that the stopping by Mario did not change the outcome of the race," USAC spokesman Bill Marvel said.

Mears took the lead for good on the 188th lap of the 200-lap race and was pulling away when Mario Andretti's car forced the caution period by stopping on the track.

Michael Andretti was able to pull closer to Mears during the yellow flag.

Tom Binford, the race's chief steward, said earlier this week that he accepted Mario Andretti's version of the incident.

ABILENE — An Abilene man convicted of capital murder in the slayings of three family members was sentenced Friday to death by lethal injection.

It took jurors about two hours to sentence to death Andrew Cantu, 23, in the 1990 slayings of an Abilene couple and a mentally retarded relative.

The sentence will be automatically appealed to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

The six-man, six-woman jury on Wednesday found Cantu guilty of capital murder in the June 11, 1990 deaths of Mandell and Helen Summers and Mandell Summers' mentally-retarded 60-year-old brother, Billy Mack Summers.

Prosecutors contended the slayings were the result of a murder-for-hire scheme concocted by Mandell and Helen's son, Gregory Lynn Summers.

Summers, who was charged with capital murder in the deaths, will face trial this summer. The indictment charged he agreed to pay Cantu $10,000 to kill his parents and uncle.

Evidence showed the Summerses' home was set afire, apparently to cover up the murders.

■ Official posts bond

HOUSTON — City Councilman Ben Reyes posted $8,000 bond Friday for four felony indictments relating to campaign contributions and his razing of abandoned buildings he believed were crack houses.

Reyes had to pay $2,000 bond for each of the four indictments. His arraignment was postponed until June 27, when he will plead innocent, his lawyer, Mike Ramsey, said.

"I'm taking it one step at a time," Reyes told reporters outside the Harris County Jail. "I'm feel real good about it. It's going to be a lot of work, but I appreciate a lot of work."

Assistant District Attorney Jim Lindeman said more indictments could follow because the grand jury probe was continuing.

He said the grand jury was assigned to investigate numerous allegations against the councilman, including the charges for which he was indicted Thursday, as well as bribery and receiving improper gifts.

The criminal mischief count stems from Reyes' razing of about 30 abandoned houses, allegedly without providing owners with proper notice of condemnation. Three property owners have filed claims contending the city and Reyes worked together to illegally demolish their properties.

■ Paroles before board

HUNTSVILLE — A convicted killer who has been in prison longer than any other Texas inmate is being considered for parole.

James Cross will get special attention when his parole is considered by the entire state parole board instead of the usual three-member panel. The board could decide as early as next week whether to grant Cross early release.

Cross, 48, has been in prison for 25 years. He is serving an 80-year term for the 1965 rape-strangulation of Susan Rigsby, 21, one of two University of Texas students killed at Cross' Austin apartment.

Cross also was accused of killing Shirley Ann Stark, 21, Miss Rigsby's sorority sister, although he was not tried for her slaying.

Their bodies were found in a field in north Austin.

Cross and Raul Meza, another inmate convicted of a slaying in Austin, were interviewed by five parole board members Thursday and their files now are being circulated among the other 13 board members.

Board spokesman David Young said it's expected the full board will decide by early to mid June whether Cross and Meza will be paroled this year.

Meza, 30, is serving 30 years for the rape-strangulation of 8-year-old Kendra Page. Meza already was on parole in 1982 when he was convicted of abducting the girl from a school playground near her Austin home and killing her.

If the board approves the paroles, Meza would be freed in July and Cross in October.

If their early paroles are denied, Cross would be released in September 1992 under a state law which grants release when actual time and "good time" credits accrued in prison equal his sentence length. Meza would be released under the same law in April 1994.

■ Patients get letters

BEDFORD — A North Texas hospital has sent letters to 5,000 former patients of a doctor infected with the HIV virus who died due to complications of the AIDS disease, officials said Friday.

J. William Whitman Jr., Harris Methodist H.E.B.'s senior vice president, said he believes chances are very slim that any of the doctor's former patients could have been infected with the virus.

"We have reviewed our records and believe that there is virtually no chance that any of these patients could have been exposed to the HIV virus," Whitman said in a news release. "In fact, the Texas Department of Health and Centers for Disease Control ... both told us that the risk of transmission of HIV virus is highly unlikely and there is no cause for major concern."

Anesthesiologist Humberto Guajardo, who was on staff at Bedford's Harris Methodist H.E.B., from January 25, 1984, to December 28, 1989, died last February from AIDS complications, hospital officials said.

Hospital officials said they were not aware of Guajardo's illness until May 20, 17 months after he left the facility.

"We have worked with the family, and it is with their consent and cooperation that we were able to release information regarding the doctor's identity and cause of his death," said Nancy Strickland, vice president and general counsel with Harris Methodist Health Services.

Whitman said the letters were sent to inform patients about the situation and "reassure them by providing the best, sound scientific information available."

The hospital also announced Friday it has set up a special telephone bank of health care professionals to answer patients' questions about AIDS and HIV.

Bedford is about 20 miles west of Dallas.

Former patients with questions about the disease can call 817-685-5100 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. daily.

■ Mexico reforms hailed

BROWNSVILLE — A prison drug lord's surrender and departure from a Matamoros state prison is welcome news to the Brownsville area, a South Texas law enforcement official said.

"Whether it was face-saving, whether it was reactionary, or whether it was temporary doesn't matter," said Brownsville Police Chief Victor Rodriguez. "What we know is that what happened caused this reaction."

Reputed drug baron Oliverio Chavez Araujo surrendered to authorities Thursday, two weeks after a riot with a rival inmate gang set off a nationwide scandal.

Mexican authorities began investigating Friday how Chavez could have controlled the Tamaulipas state prison and run his business with bribes and cellular phones from behind bars for nearly two years.

Rodriguez said the subsequent investigation into a number of Tamaulipas and federal officials, including top prison authorities, was none too soon.

"The most positive thing is that it finally seems to have grabbed the attention of the state and federal government in Mexico," said Rodriguez.

The Brownsville chief first denounced corruption in Matamoros after three Chavez associates were found murdered in the Brownsville area, days before the riot began May 17.

Rodriguez praised the Mexicans authorities' handling of the prison standoff in its final hours and hopes to see more reforms quickly imposed.

"I have to credit the government of Mexico for having accomplished moving him out without getting anyone else hurt," Rodriguez said. "I think that was a real achievement."

Rodriguez said the Mexican government's successful removal of Chavez "is a notch against corruption. ... And if that's the case, we're coming out ahead."

■ Thefts reported down

AUSTIN — Motorcycle helmets may not only save lives, but they may save motorcycles from being stolen, according to Department of Public Safety statistics.

Motorcycle thefts in 19 Texas cities decreased 44 percent from 1988 to 1990, the Texas DPS reported Friday.

The decline follows a similar trend in Europe after the introduction of mandatory motorcycle helmet laws, said Henry Palma, manager of the DPS Motorcycle Safety Bureau.

Stealing motorcycles appears to be a spur-of-the-moment crime, according to studies in Europe, the DPS said.

Because of new laws requiring motorcycle helmets for drivers and passengers, someone riding without a helmet was stopped by law enforcement officials, and the stolen motorcycle was recovered.

■ Commander named

AUSTIN — A three-star U.S. Air Force general whose military career spans more than 30 years has assumed command of the 12th Air Force and U.S. Southern Air Forces.

Lt. Gen. Thomas Baker was sworn in Thursday at Bergstrom Air Force Base, headquarters for the jet fighter force, to replace Maj. Gen. Walter Worthington.

Worthington will resume his duties as vice commander of the force, according to Air Force spokesman Capt. Alan Sattler.

Baker, 56, last served at Langley Air Force Base in Hampton, Va. He has held positions at U.S. installations in West Germany, Great Britain, Saudi Arabia, Spain and South Korea.

As commander of the 12th Air Force, Baker will oversee all jet fighters west of the Mississippi River and lead 40,000 people at 13 bases.

The Stealth fighter planes also will be under Baker's command, Bergstrom spokesman Capt. Guy Thompson said.

Metamorphosis

"Mom, there's an ol' creepy, crawly caterpillar on our porch!"

Mom knows that when the metamorphosis is complete, that "creepy, crawly caterpillar" will have evolved into a beautiful butterfly, bursting with brilliant colors, no longer crawling, but sailing through the air on gossamer wings.

At times we may feel like that caterpillar ... moving slowly, with doubtful direction. Yet, if God has given such caring consideration to the caterpillar, will He not also care for us and guide us?

Have faith in God. Be patient. Allow Him to work in your life as He wills. Though life on earth might, at times, not be as beautiful as we would hope, our lives will glow with serenity and faith; and eternal life with our Heavenly Father will be even more beautiful than we can possibly imagine.

This week, worship our Creator as you come with humility, praise, and prayer. Though our metamorphosis is not yet complete, our Maker has promised that we can become a beautiful "new creature" as we finally emerge an eternal child of God.

Local Lutheran churches to honor pastors

Our Savior Lutheran Church will celebrate the 50th anniversary of the ordination of the Rev. David Herman Sunday.

Herman

A recognition dinner is June 8.

Herman was ordained as a pastor of the Lutheran Church in Rheim, Saskatchewan, Canada, June 1, 1941, upon his graduation from Wartburg Theological Seminary, Dubuque, Iowa. He graduated from Wartburg College, Waverly, Iowa, in 1937 and then studied law at the University of Saskatchewan.

His first parish was Peace Lutheran Church, Cleveland, Ohio, which he served for a year. He went to Park Place Lutheran Church, Houston, in June 1942. At that time, the church was a new mission with 88 members. During his 19-year ministry, the congregation grew to 1,700 members, and five new mission churches were started from its membership.

From late 1961 to 1964, Herman served Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, San Diego, Calif. He was called to become pastor of Midland Lutheran Church in February 1964 and served the congregation until his retirement in 1980.

In February 1983, he became associated with a new mission in Midland, Our Savior Lutheran Church, as a volunteer pastor. He continues to serve as an associate of the Rev. James Otterness in this ministry.

In addition to his parish work, Herman served on the board of Mexican Missions for 30 years, spending 12 of those years as chairman. He wrote a book on the establishment of new mission churches for the National Lutheran Council. He also served two terms on the board of Lutheran Social Service of Texas.

Herman was born on July 26, 1915, at Rhein. He married Alice Zancig Sept. 10, 1941. They have three children, Ann Beatty, Alice Wright and Audrey Wolf, all living in Midland.

Meanwhile, Grace Lutheran Church plans a June 16 celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Rev. Donald V. Hafemann's ordination.

Hafemann

Hafemann graduated in 1941 from the St. Louis Seminary of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. His career in the ministry has been marked by the organization of congregations and the instigation of building programs. He has served congregations in Dumas, N.M., Lawton, Okla., Austin and Plainview as well as other West Texas locations.

In 1966, he was called by Grace Lutheran, where he was instrumental in efforts that culminated in construction of the church's 3000 W. Golf Course Road location.

Although he retired from full-time service in 1984, Hafemann still serves area congregations part time. Hafemann is the former chaplain of Lutheran Home of Midland.

The celebration, which includes a service of praise and thanksgiving, will be June 16, 3 p.m, at Grace Lutheran Church. A dinner at Ranchland Hills Country Club, East Wadley, follows the service and includes a program highlighting Hafemann's career.

Interested persons are invited to attend. Banquet tickets, priced at $10 per adult and $5 per child, may be reserved by sending a check to the Hafemann Celebration Committee, 3000 W. Golf Course Road, Midland 79701. Call 697-3221 for phone reservations. Deadline is June 10.

Radio news show's beat is Native American

By Julia Rubin
Associated Press writer

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — A drawing over Gary Fife's desk shows an Indian with a feather in his hair and a visor on his forehead, sitting in front of a horse and pounding out a news story on a portable typewriter.

"I call him our war correspondent," Fife jokes. "'Live from the Little Big Horn...'"

Reporting on Native America is both serious and enjoyable stuff for Fife, a Cherokee-Creek journalist who produces and is host of the only nationwide radio show devoted solely to Native American news.

National Native News, produced by the Alaska Public Radio Network, is picked up by some 150 public radio stations around the country — about one-third of all such stations, including virtually every tribal station.

The five-minute show reaches hundreds of thousands of listeners five days a week, from New York City to Honolulu.

"No one else is doing this sort of thing," says the 40-year-old Fife.

On air, Fife's slightly raspy voice introduces stories sent in by correspondents. He jumps from the doings of the Bureau of Indian Affairs in Washington to spearfishing in Wisconsin to tribal court rulings in New Mexico.

His aim: to cover Native America's diversity, not just the exotic or dysfunctional stereotypes he believes have dominated mainstream America's imagination. Sundances and powwows have their place, Fife says, but he would rather cover schools, housing, the economy — things that affect Native Americans, like all Americans, every day.

AP Laserphoto

Gary Fife, above, produces and hosts the only nationwide radio show devoted to news about Native Americans, National Native News.

"From beads and feathers to bread and butter," was one of the show's early slogans, and Fife still goes by it.

"We're trying to fill the gaps for our people," he says.

But he also hopes others are listening. "We try to mainstream Native issues in a form non-Natives can understand," says Fife.

"If we're a constant presence, they get the idea that we're part of their community. Native Americans are not back in the past tense. We're doing everything everybody else is doing."

A native of Tulsa, Okla., Fife was politically active in college. He majored in journalism because he felt "people didn't really listen to us."

Then he went to Washington as an intern for a group of Indian newspapers, and soon after he moved to Minneapolis to work on the now-defunct Native American "First Person Radio."

In 1986, Diane Kaplan, chief executive officer of APRN in Anchorage, asked Fife if he would come to Alaska to produce a daily news show. Fife agreed, and spent the next few months trying to line up reporters and sponsors.

At first, it was a hard sell. When the show began in early 1987, just 35 stations picked it up and sponsors were wary.

"I think they were afraid I'm come on screaming: 'The forces of U.S. imperialism continue to oppress freedom-loving Natives,' or something like that," Fife says.

He has had conservatives tell him the show is too radical and Indian activists tell him it isn't radical enough. "Our service is a news agency," he says. "We're supposed to present the whole story."

Fife did find sponsors, including some major foundations and corporations, and also some Alaskan Native corporations.

Now, sitting in his office wearing a bolo tie that reads "National Native News," Fife boasts that he gets enough submissions from correspondents around the country to pick and choose the material for his newscast.

He comes in to the APRN studio each morning at 6:30 a.m. and prepares the day's show, which he reads live at 8:30 a.m. He is assignment editor, copy and sound editor, and newscaster, among other things.

Other recent spots include a profile of Indian actor Graham Greene, nominated for an Acadamy Award for "Dances with Wolves," and stories on how Native Americans view the coming celebration of Columbus' arrival in America.

In addition to its newscasts, National Native News offers its subscribers five five-minute feature pieces every other week.

Dorreen Yellow Bird, executive director of KMHA radio on the Indian reservation at Fort Berthold, N.D., runs National Native News five times a day.

The show "has been a real breakthrough for reservations that tend to be isolated and tend to be like a large extended family that doesn't get involved in what's going on in other areas. We are a large family. We can empathize with what's going on somewhere else. Often we have the same problems," she said.

Fife, who wears sneakers to work and whose black hair hangs halfway down his back, has become a celebrity of sorts — National Public Radio asked for his picture to hang in its newsroom along with those of its other stars.

And he also has become a role model for many young Native Americans who might want to go into broadcasting.

During a recent visit to New Mexico, Fife encountered some Navajo schoolchildren who were surprised to learn that he was an Indian.

"And they thought that was great. They wanted their picture taken with me. It shows you where news is for Native people. They're still looking for white people to do this. They would expect an Indian to have an accent."

To Fife, broadcasting is in the Indian tradition — "from camp crier to newscaster," he says. And it is immensely rewarding.

"When you get an elder come up to you and say, 'you did a good job,' or, 'I didn't know that, I'm glad you did that,' — that's my Oscar, my Emmy, my Tony Award. And the icing on the cake is when a non-Native calls and says, 'I heard that story you did and I want to know more.'"

General Mills marks Cheerios' 50th birthday

By Steven Long
Hearst News Service

Oneida Community Silverware was the first premium inside the (Cheerios) box. But General Mills quickly switched to 'prizes' such as Lone Ranger Defender Silver Bullets and Lone Ranger Flashlight Pistols.

HOUSTON — It all began with the "war babies," those Americans born between 1941 and 1945. The first of them began feeling their Cheerios 50 years ago this month.

The General Mills cereal made its debut in stores in six test market cities, in May 1941. People in Houston; Harrisburg, Pa.; Milwaukee; Peoria, Ill.; Providence, R.I.; and Sacramento, Calif., were the first to taste the little O-shaped cereal made from oats.

In the beginning, Cheerios were called Cheerioats. The 1945 name change came as a result of a trademark dispute with Quaker, which claimed exclusive legal use of the word "oats."

Cheerioats were a sensation in their first year. General Mills sold 1.8 million cases, a volume equal to two-thirds of the sales of Cheerios' 16-year-old cousin, Wheaties, the "Breakfast of Champions."

War was already raging in Europe when Cheerioats came on the scene, but it wasn't until December that America would join the fighting.

Meanwhile, the country continued its love affair with radio. In the beginning, Cheerioats sponsored one of radio's most enduring programs, "The Lone Ranger."

Oneida Community Silverware was the first premium inside the box. But General Mills quickly switched to "prizes" such as Lone Ranger Defender Silver Bullets and Lone Ranger Flashlight Pistols.

In the interest of giving consumers something to read at the breakfast table, the company introduced Cheeri O' Leary, a pigtailed cartoon character, to the packaging in 1942.

Cheeri gave biographical information on entertainment stars such as Claudette Colbert, Loretta Young, Alan Ladd, Fred MacMurray, Betty Hutton, Barbara Stanwyck and Ray Milland.

In 1943, as the war continued in Europe and the South Pacific, the slogan "He's Feeling His Cheerioats" was introduced to promote a special 1-ounce "Yank Pack," which was only for military personnel.

By the time the baby boom was in full flower, Cheerios had become a pioneer sponsor on another medium: television.

When "The Lone Ranger" moved from radio to TV in 1949, the cereal moved across the airwaves with the masked man and Tonto.

The company continued to stuff the boxes with premiums. In 1954, Cheerios was giving away Confederate play money; the company printed more money than was ever produced by the Confederacy.

Cheerios still accounts for 10 percent of all ready-to-eat cereals sold in America.

What do you really know about one of America's favorite cereals?

Here's the Cheerios Trivia Quiz:

(1) How big is a Cheerio?

(2) How much does a Cheerio weigh?

(3) How many Cheerios in a bowl of Cheerios?

(4) Why do Cheerios float in milk?

(5) How did the "O" get inside a Cheerio?

Answers:

(1) 1/2 inch in diameter; 1/8 inch across one loop; 3/16 of an inch deep.

(2) About .0025 of an ounce.

(3) There are about 400 individual Cheerios in a 1-ounce serving.

(4) Because there are little air pockets inside each "O," acting like life preservers. The air pockets are formed when steam and pressure are released during the puffing process to make Cheerios.

(5) Dough is forced through a die that forms it into tiny hollow tubes. The macaroni-like tube is sliced into circular pellets.

Slices enter a "puffing gun," where pressure is increased. As the pressure is suddenly released, an explosive action occurs, expanding each slice of dough into the familiar "O" shape.

Public can 'visit' Red Square at 'Soviet Space' exhibit

N.Y. Times News Service

DALLAS — At the very back of a hot warehouse a stark lunar landscape is taking shape.

The giant rocks and sloping crater walls were a combination of wood and sandy-colored drop cloths during a visit this week. But by the end of June, they will be the cradle for a remote-controlled moon rover in the "Soviet Space" exhibit opening in Fort Worth on June 29.

The landscape, as well as a 30-foot-long blackened space tunnel and a giant hand-painted mural of the solar system now at the warehouse, are figments of the imagination of Dallas set designer David Gibson.

Gibson and the Dallas firm Exhibitgroup were hired to create the backdrop for more than 80 tons of Soviet space artifacts.

The exhibit will be part of the 50th anniversary celebration for the Fort Worth Museum of Science and History and will fill at least half of 50,000 square feet of the Amon G. Carter Jr. Exhibits Hall.

When the settings are complete, the public will be able to enter Red Square and step back in time to retrace the development of the Soviet space program.

In initial showings of the more than 60 Soviet artifacts at museums in Boston and Seattle, officials had little time to create surroundings for the exhibit of spacecraft, lunar rovers and a full-scale model of Sputnik 1. But in Fort Worth, "Soviet Space" officials are putting together an extravaganza of theatrical scenery, lights, and dialogue to recreate Soviet history.

The public will wind through the exhibits — each in its own private setting — with lots of surprises built in, Gibson said.

"It should not be too predictable," he said.

Gibson is a former resident artist and technical director for the Dallas Theater Center and initially formed his own staging company to design and produce exhibits, but sold it to Exhibitgroup in 1986. He created the design for the "Ramses the Great" exhibit in Dallas in 1989.

The "Soviet Space" exhibit — scheduled for a six-month showing in Fort Worth — will be studded with star fields where fiber-optic strands will provide thousands of points of light behind satellite exhibits.

Visitors will walk through Gibson's black space tunnel with portholes that will give them the feel of moving in a spacecraft. On one side, the portholes will show the Earth moving away and on the other will be a view into the universe.

At the end, visitors will turn a corner to see a scale model of the Soviet Mir space station.

In another section, Lunokhod 2 — a test model for a remote-controlled lunar rover the Soviets sent to the moon in an unmanned rocket — will roam over Gibson's landscape, operated by Soviet technicians.

Other exhibits will contain a 4-ton orbital telescope, a return capsule similar to the one that brought cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin home after the first manned space flight in 1961, a life-size mockup of the interior of the space station and a production test model of Vega, a satellite that landed on Venus.

"They should come away with a sense of what has been done (in the Soviet space program) and what the future will hold," Gibson said.

■ Angolan leaders sign peace accord

LISBON, Portugal — Church bells pealed across Lisbon Friday as the leaders of Angola's two warring factions signed a peace treaty ending a 16-year civil war that devastated their southern African nation.

The pact culminated more than a year of negotiations led by the Soviet Union, which had backed the leftist government, and by the United States, which had funded the UNITA rebels.

A provisional cease-fire has been in effect in Angola since May 15, and the last Cuban troops, sent in to back the government, left last Saturday.

Angolan President Jose Eduardo dos Santos and UNITA leader Jonas Savimbi shook hands and signed the peace accord, touching off applause and cheering among those witnessing the ceremony at the 18th century Necessidades Palace.

Prime Minister Anibal Cavaco Silva said the Portuguese government, which hosted a year of talks preceding Friday's agreement, would do everything possible to see that peace held in the former Portuguese colony.

"We have sowed the seed of peace," Dos Santos said. "But for the tree to grow, we must nurture it."

■ KGB says pilot ignored order to shoot

MOSCOW — A Soviet pilot who forced down a South Korean airliner 13 years ago ignored orders to destroy the plane, Tass reported Friday.

Two people were killed when the Korean Airlines 707 landed on a frozen lake near the northwestern Soviet Union in 1978 after straying into Soviet airspace. Five years later, a Soviet interceptor shot down Korean Airlines Flight 007, killing all 269 people aboard.

In 1978, pilot Alexander Bosov was ordered to "destroy the violator," the official news agency said. Instead, it said, he fired a missile that damaged the wing of the Korean plane.

Tass said the information came from KGB Chief Vladimir Kryuchkov, who gave Soviet journalists secret documents about the shooting.

The plane, carrying more than 100 passengers, was en route from Paris to Alaska, Seoul, Tokyo and Osaka. It went off course over the Barents Sea in the Arctic and strayed over Karelia in the northwestern Soviet Union on April 20, 1978.

It was intercepted by a Soviet fighter plane upon entering Soviet airspace, Tass said.

Because of heavy clouds, Bosov was unable to identify the plane and was ordered to shoot it down, Tass said.

"Following the order, I repeatedly closed in on the Boeing for 12 to 13 minutes and made internationally accepted signals, ordering it to land. I waved the wings, gesturing downwards with my fighter plane's fuselage," Tass quoted Basov as saying during an investigation.

■ Columbian rebels lay down weapons

MEDELLIN, Colombia — A 130-member rebel group laid down its weapons Friday at a ceremony in southwestern Colombia, becoming the fourth guerrilla group in 14 months to make peace with the government.

In exchange for renouncing revolution, the Quintin Lame will be allowed to send a delegate to a national assembly now writing a new constitution.

"We have not surrendered. On the contrary, we have achieved a great victory," the group's leader, Gildardo Fernandez, was quoted as saying in Bogota's El Espectador newspaper.

Fernandez said the Quintin Lame had "come out from the shade, gained respect and even obtained representation in the constitutional assembly."

■ Commission approves whaling plan

REYKJAVIK, Iceland — The International Whaling Commission ended its annual meeting on Friday by approving a plan that is likely to lead to limited commercial hunting following a five-year ban.

The chief delegate of Iceland, a staunch whaling nation, accused the organization of extremism and said he would recommend his government quit its ranks, a move that could lead to U.S. sanctions.

Earlier Friday, the commission voted 19-7 to reject a more permissive plan backed by Japan, Iceland and Norway — nations that are eager to foster their traditional whaling industries.

Instead, the commission voted 18-6 to adopt a U.S.-British plan to allow commercial whaling only when numbers of whale species are deemed to rise to healthy levels.

Five nations abstained and a 30th attending nation, Peru, couldn't vote because it hadn't paid its dues.

■ Baker to meet Syrian foreign minister

LISBON, Portugal — Secretary of State James A. Baker III will hold a hastily arranged meeting Saturday with Syria's foreign minister in a fresh bid to keep alive his goal of setting up Arab-Israeli peace talks.

In making the surprise announcement Friday, Baker offered no hint that the meeting with Foreign Minister Farouk Al-Sharaa signaled a breakthrough in his 10-week quest to bring Arabs and Israelis together.

"I wouldn't want to pre-empt or prejudge the meeting." Baker said. "We'll have the meeting and then see what's next."

Baker came here to take part in a ceremony marking the end of 16 years of civil war in Angola.

New rulers want relief to resume

An Ethiopian refugee child cries for food in the arms of his mother at the Kelato refugee camp on the Somali-Ethiopian border last week. Victorious rebel leaders urged reflief workers to immediately expand efforts to feed an estimated 7.3 million drought victims, many cut off from aid by the offensive that toppled the government.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Ethiopia's new rulers urged governments and relief agencies Friday to resume the flow of aid to this nation's estimated 7 million victims of drought and civil war.

U.N. and other aid officials said they would renew their efforts as soon as they were assured of security.

"We must, I repeat, have security," said Michael Ellis, operations director of the World Food Program, the Rome-based agency that distributes aid under the United Nations.

He and others told of recent attacks on truck convoys, theft from warehouses and "other acts of banditry and vandalism," especially in the vast, southeastern desert region known as the Ogaden.

Nearly all relief work has been halted for more than a week by the war that toppled the regime of former President Mengistu Haile Mariam and brought to power the Ethiopian People's Revolutionary Democratic Front.

The rebel army marched into Addis Ababa in a blaze of gunfire on Tuesday and now controls the capital and most national services.

Tens of thousands of refugees fled to neighboring lands to escape the famine and fighting. A top official in Sudan says 100,000 Ethiopians fled there recently and 150,000 more could be on their way.

Meanwhile, life in Addis Ababa showed signs of returning to normal after two days of demonstrations against the rebels and U.S. involvement in the takeover. Traffic rolled again and businesses and shops operated as usual.

At least 10 protesters died in demonstrations beginning Wednesday outside the U.S. Embassy and other buildings. Rebel guards used gunfire to break up the protests.

In other developments Friday:

—Tesfaye Gebre-Kidan, a former vice president who was left in charge of the government when Mengistu resigned and fled the country May 21, was given refuge in the Italian Embassy, Italy's Foreign Ministry announced in Rome.

—Sudan's air force bombed a river crossing at Jakawo, Ethiopia, between Ethiopia and Sudan, where about 50,000 refugees gathered in an effort to flee fighting between Ethiopian and Sudanese rebels, relief workers said. Casualties, if any, were not known. The fighting was between the Sudan People's Liberation Army, which has bases in Ethiopia, and the Oromo Liberation Front.

—In Khartoum, the Sudanese capital, Adam Nur Hussein, a representative of Addis Ababa's new regime, said southern Sudanese rebels will be expelled from Ethiopia, the Al Sudan Al Hadeith newspaper reported. "We will not allow the presence of any camps in Ethioipia that might threaten the security of Sudan," he was quoted as saying.

Paul Ignatieff of the United Nations Children's Fund said children in the Ogaden "will die unless they are reached within the next week." Ellis described the situation there as "potentially catastrophic."

An estimated 1 million people are threatened by famine in the Ogaden. About half of them are seminomadic people and the rest refugees from Somalia.

The new government acknowledged that civil unrest and insecurity remain a problem in much of Ethiopia and said it striving to bring order and peace to the entire country.

The exchange was made between ranking government officials in Addis Ababa and more than 300 representatives from 65 private relief organizations, 15 U.N. agencies and 38 countries that provide direct relief aid to Ethiopia.

Tamrat Layne, vice chairman of the Tigrean-dominated rebel group in the capital, and Abay Tsehaye of its executive committee, spoke for the government.

"We expect, and we are confident, that you will resume your activities immediately," Abay told the aid officials.

Tamrat said a joint coordinating committee would be formed immediately.

He said the Red Sea Port of Assab was available and negotiations were under way for use of Ethiopia's Massawa port and facilities in neighboring Djibouti.

Massawa and Assab are under control of another rebel group, the Eritrean People's Liberation Front. The United Nations says 114,492 metric tons of undeliverable food and other supplies have stacked up at Assab.

Italy, which colonized Ethiopia's nothermost province of Eritrea in 1890, invaded Ethiopia in 1934 and occupied it until the end of the World War II.

Eritrean rebels fought a 30-year war, Africa's longest, for independence of the province and established a provisional administration this week. The Eritreans want a U.N.-supervised referendum on independence or unity with the rest of Ethiopia.

Tamrat said the government hoped to open Addis Ababa's international airport early next week.

Most government ministries reopened for business Friday.

Abuse charges mount against Kuwait

AP Laserphoto

A man throws refuse onto a large garbage heap in the center of the Palestinian Hawalli district of Kuwait City, Thursday. The domestic rubbish has not been collected in this area since the liberation of the city by the U.S. led coalition forces. Local Palestinians claim that they are being punished by the government for alleged support of the Iraqi invasion of the country.

KUWAIT CITY (AP) — The Kuwaiti government has been slow to stop abuses against Palestinians ranging from torture to petty harassment like a lack of garbage collection in their neighborhoods, Western diplomats and human rights groups say.

"What has emerged as the most serious problem is the violence at the level of security forces in police stations," said Kenneth Roth, deputy director of the New York-based Human Rights Watch.

Crown Prince Saad Abdullah al-Sabah condemned the torture in an unusually blunt speech this week, saying the continued use of police stations for torture is "unacceptable and could not continue."

But the torture hasn't stopped, and it has spawned a pervasive sense of fear among Palestinians who must also cope with the loss of their jobs and things like the piles of stinking trash left uncollected in Hawalli, the main Palestinian neighborhood.

"It's akin to slowly working an animal into a corner where he eventually has to snarl back," said a senior Western diplomatic source.

The most serious allegations to arise since Iraqi forces were driven out of Kuwait in late February involve Kuwaiti torture and sometimes killing of those suspected of collaboration during the seven-month occupation.

Amnesty International and other human rights groups say hundreds of Palestinians and other foreigners have been arbitrarily detained and beaten in revenge attacks by vigilante groups and security forces.

Palestinians, in particular, feel they are being punished for the pro-Iraqi stance of Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat, and for the few hundred collaborators who helped Iraq find military and resistance leaders.

They also feel that the abuse is part of a tacit government policy to trim their numbers from a pre-war high of 400,000 down to about 50,000. About 150,000 are here now; most were mid-level government employees.

"Every day somebody on the street yells, 'Hey Palestinian, what are you still doing here?'" said computer programmer Aida Jarrad.

No concrete numbers of disappearances are available. But senior Palestinian officials report an average of two daily.

In one case, four young Palestinians, who refused to be identified for fear of the police, said they were taken to a police jail where they were tortured for more than 12 hours by about 14 men, not all of them in uniform.

"They just kept asking one question over and over again, 'Who do you know who collaborated?'" said one of the men.

Police officers at the station denied that any torture took place there. But they said it continued at other detention centers, especially those run by the State Security, the secret police.

"It may be wrong. But what we do is only one thousandth of what the Iraqis did," said one police lieutenant, who would not give his name.

Doctors at the public Farwaniyya Hospital said security services had at least six Iraqi and Palestinian patients under armed guard in Ward 18, and at Mubarak Hospital said four had been brought in the last week.

They pointed out that this was well down from the average 25 per day in the first weeks of the country's liberation.

An estimated 1,000 Palestinians are still behind bars, many without charges.

Marilyn Quayle says she is not worried about the water

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — Marilyn Quayle says she's not worried about the quality of drinking water at the vice president's residence in Washington.

Quayle

"We don't drink bottled water," the wife of Vice President Dan Quayle said in an interview Thursday. "We drink from the tap."

Water at the White House and other residences President Bush and his wife, Barbara, lived in over the years is being tested for toxins because of the unusual coincidence that the Bushes developed Graves' disease.

The couple lived in the vice presidential mansion when Bush was vice president during the Reagan administration.

Mrs. Quayle said it was worth checking the water and she presumed "it will be ruled out."

"We've had people calling us ... saying you'd better check your water," said Mrs. Quayle, who was in North Carolina to speak at the 20th annual convention of the National Association for Search and Rescue.

"I'm not worried about the president at all," she said. "He's doing great. I don't worry about Dan assuming the presidency. Of course, we don't want anything to happen to the president."

TOKYO — Emperor Akihito and Empress Michiko will tour Thailand, Malaysia and Indonesia in September in what will be the first visit by a Japanese emperor to other Asian nations, a spokesman said.

Akihito

The Imperial Household Agency declined to say whether he would address Japan's wartime role during the tour.

Anti-Japanese feelings linger in many Asian nations brutalized by Japan's Imperial Army.

When South Korean President Roh Tae-woo visited Japan last year, Akihito, the son of the wartime emperor Hirohito, expressed regret for Japan's World War II occupation of Korea.

Akihito's tour is to begin Sept. 26 and last about 10 days. He visited the three countries while he was Crown Prince.

Kuniko Inoguchi, a professor of international politics at Sophia University, said the tour symbolized "the expectations of the era, the reflections of the Japanese people and a new direction" in Japanese foreign relations.

"It is important to express sincerity toward Asian nations that have borne the burden of history," she said.

NEW YORK — Almost 20 years after Peter Benchley's "Jaws" kept some people away from the beaches, the author has created a fictional 100-foot-long squid that makes the great white shark seem relatively innocuous.

Benchley

"This animal is off the scale," Benchley told USA Weekend about "Beast," a novel due out next month.

Squid live in deep water off the East Coast and can grow to 50 feet.

"Beast" raises environmental questions about out-of-balance oceans in which sperm whales, the giant squid's only predator, have been thinned by commercial whaling.

As the squid population grows, the food supply is depleted and they begin to travel in search for food: human food, in Benchley's fertile mind.

Would a giant squid attack a beach the way a great white shark might?

"The likelihood of being nabbed by a squid while swimming is, to say the least, slender," Benchley said.

NEW YORK — Douglas Fairbanks Jr., an 81-year-old actor who began his career in silent films, married home shopping network merchandiser Vera Shelton. It was his third marriage.

The couple exchanged vows Thursday in a service at St. Thomas Episcopal Church attended by several dozen guests, including numerous socialites. A reception was held at the Knickerbocker Club.

Previously, Fairbanks was married to actress Joan Crawford and later to Mary Lee Epling Hartford. He made his film debut in the 1923 silent film "Stephen Steps Out" and appeared in dozens of silent and sound movies, including "Gunga Din" in 1939.

RICHMOND, Va. — Queen Noor of Jordan stopped by the headquarters of the Christian Children's Fund to thank the relief agency's workers for sending emergency supplies and money to refugees in her country.

"We're very appreciative of the support that's been offered," the American-born queen said Thursday.

At her request, the Christian Children's Fund sent Jordan 10,000 blankets and $50,000 at the height of the Persian Gulf War.

The queen, who is on a tour of the United States, said her country of 4 million people has been flooded with war refugees, including about 50,000 refugee children clogging the country's school system.

■ White House water sent for testing

WASHINGTON — Samples of water from the White House and the vice presidential residence have been collected and have been sent to a laboratory for further analysis, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Friday.

White House doctors ordered the tests last week to see if the water contained chemicals that might have cause autoimmune-system disorders in the president, his wife Barbara and their dog Millie.

Fitzwater said that the president's chief physician, Burton Lee, had told him Friday that it would be "some time" before the results are in.

Kim Walsh, an aide to Marilyn Quayle, said that the vice president's wife was anxiously awaiting results of the tests. "The testing is not yet complete," she said.

The Bushes lived in the vice presidential residence for eight years before moving to the White House.

Analysts are looking for traces of either iodine or lithium, two chemicals that have been linked to thyroid disorders.

Both the president and his wife Barbara have Graves' Disease, an autoimmune system disease that causes the thyroid to produce too much hormone. Millie has lupus, another autoimmune disorder.

The president told reporters earlier this week that the chances were about "one in 20 million" that three members of the same household would have the same ailment.

■ Analysts see recovery in indicators

WASHINGTON — The government's chief economic barometer posted a broadly based 0.6 percent gain in April, and analysts said the third straight monthly advance pointed toward a summer recovery from the recession.

The Commerce Department said Friday that six of the 11 contributors to its Index of Leading Economic Indicators turned up. One was unchanged.

In a second report, the department said orders to U.S. factories rose 1.8 percent in April, the first gain in six months. That suggested some easing in the hard-hit manufacturing sector.

The stock market responded positively to Friday's reports. The Dow Jones industrial average closed at a record 3,027.50, up 27.05 for the day.

"The data supports the view that the recession is nearly at an end and that the recovery is not too far away," said economist Gilbert Benz of the Swiss Bank Corp. of New York.

Surveys show that most economic forecasters believe the recession will end this quarter, which ends June 30. The Bush administration also contends the economy will turn up by mid-summer.

■ Heat wave brings early closures

Sweltering schools let out early in six eastern states and Washington, D.C., on Friday as a lingering heat wave drove up the sales of ice and portable fans and sent overextended air conditioners went on the blink.

Dover, Del., lost power as the mercury soared into the 90s, patients had to be moved out of stifling rooms at a nursing home in Topton, Pa. and a weather experts warned people to avoid too much physical activity in the heat.

Schools without air conditioning dismissed thousands of pupils early in parts of New Jersey, Virginia, West Virginia, Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia.

"Many of the kids are tired — a lot of them don't have air conditioning at home," said Principal Norman Spencer of Benjamin Franklin High School in Philadelphia, where students were sent home at midday.

"When they come to school after more than five nights of temperatures over 75 degrees, they haven't slept well and they're kind of irritable," he said.

The heat broke records in parts of Virginia and Pennsylvania, and soared to 99 degrees in the nation's capital — the warmest May day on record there.

■ FHA tightens standards for mortgages

WASHINGTON — The government said Friday it is implementing tighter lending standards for mortgages backed by the Federal Housing Administration in a move that one lending group charged will reduce home sales by as much as 200,000 annually.

The new rules will require persons financing their purchases with FHA-backed mortgages to pay substantially higher closing costs and for the first time to make annual payments for mortgage insurance.

The FHA said the new requirements, which take effect July 1, were required to shore up a mortgage program that is incurring losses at a rate of $200 million per year.

However, housing groups contended that the new rules go much further than intended by Congress and come at a time when the housing industry is struggling to emerge from a two-year slump in sales.

The Mortgage Bankers Association estimated that the new rules could reduce annual home sales by between 100,000 and 200,000 annually, enough to abort any recovery in the housing industry.

If housing sales falter, the MBA said it would make it more difficult for the overall economy to emerge from the current recession.

"These new regulations could not have come at a worse time," said MBA executive vice president Warren Lasko. "These changes will lock out thousands of families who will no longer be able to afford a home."

Panel adds 36 bases to shutdown list

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's base-closing commission on Friday added 36 military installations, including the Long Beach Naval Shipyard and five new "homeports" for the Navy, to a Pentagon hit list that already had states throughout the nation pleading for reprieves.

The Defense Base Closure and Realignment Commission, in broadening its scope, sought to allay community fears by stressing that its list represents a preliminary draft. It said some of its candidates may get the ax in place of others among the 43 installations targeted by Defense Secretary Dick Cheney.

"This is not a list of closures nor is it a list of recommended realignments," said Commission chairman Jim Courter. "It sets forth a wide array of options."

The independent commission must decide by July 1 whether to accept or revise Cheney's April recommendation to close or scale back 31 major bases and 12 minor installations.

The commission, which was appointed by President Bush and approved by the Senate, will pare down its own list following deliberations June 6-7 in Washington. One member of the seven-member panel will then visit any installation that becomes a closure candidate.

Courter, during a tour of Fort Devens in Ayer, Mass., said his commission will indeed make deletions and additions to the Pentagon list, and out of fairness was providing states with ample advance notice by issuing its own list.

"Granted it will cause a stir in lots of communities but that is inevitable," Courter said. "Better to cause a stir now than on the last day."

The commission's final list will be submitted to Bush in another month for his approval or rejection of the package in its entirety. Congress will then face a similar decision.

Among the major installations on the commission's list are the Long Beach Naval Shipyard in California and the five new bases in the Navy's already scaled-down homeporting program, designed to disperse the fleet and make it more responsive to hemispheric and global hot spots. The five homeports are in Staten Island, N.Y.; Pascagoula, Miss.; Mobile, Ala.; Everett, Wash.; and Ingleside, Texas.

Although several of the homeports are close to completion, the concept is under attack as the Navy moves toward a 477-ship fleet by the end of fiscal 1992 or Sept. 30, 1992.

The targeting of the homeports on the commission's list drew immediate protests in Congress.

"Since this port is the Navy's most modern, and includes state-of-the-art equipment not found at any other naval facilities, Staten Island is unquestionably the port of the Navy's future," said Rep. Susan Molinari, R-N.Y., who district includes Staten Island.

The commission's list also includes Army's facilities in Fort Drum, N.Y., and Fort Richardson, Alaska. Both are designed to train troops for winter battles against the Soviet Union — a priority diminished by the collapse of the Warsaw Pact.

In addition to the installations, the commission's list calls for cutbacks in the Army Corps of Engineers.

The Pentagon announced on May 24 that Cheney had sent Congress a proposal to consolidate the Corps of Engineers as part of the overall plan for shrinking the U.S. military.

The Pentagon plan realigns the boundaries for the Corps' regional offices, cuts the number of Corps divisions from 10 to six and cuts the number of districts from 35 to 22. Fourteen of 36 district headquarters would be closed and about 2,600 jobs — mostly civilian — would be cut.

As the commission list was unveiled to congressional staffers and Reps. G.V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., and Rep. Solomon Ortiz, D-Texas, at a morning briefing, lawmakers were already pitting the panel's bases against theirs on the Pentagon list.

Carswell Air Force Base in Fort Worth, Texas, was on the Pentagon's list and Democratic Rep. Pete Geren had urged the commission to compare his base to two New York installations — Plattsburgh Air Force Base and Griffiss Air Force Base.

Plattsburgh and Griffiss are on the commission's list, and Geren was quick to tout his installation.

"I believe that by any objective standard, Carswell Air Force Base stands head and shoulders above those two bases," Geren said. "I don't want to say I'm optimistic, though; we're still fighting an uphill battle."

Hardest hit by the commission's list is New York, in which virtually every major military installation is targeted, including the Army's Fort Hamilton in Brooklyn and Fort Totten in Queens.

In Rome, N.Y., home of Griffiss Air Force Base, Mayor Carl Eilenberg said the commission's list was no reason to panic. Local officials were looking at the base's prospects with "continuing optimism tempered by prayers," he said.

Researchers: Cattle have weak variety of AIDS virus

WASHINGTON (AP) — A weak relative of the AIDS virus is "widely distributed" among cattle in the United States but does not pose a threat to human health, government researchers said Friday.

Bovine immunodeficiency-like virus seems to be prevalent among dairy cattle in the south, said Martin Van Der Maaten of the Agriculture Department's National Animal Disease Center in Ames, Iowa.

The researchers have not determined whether the virus actually impairs the immune defenses of cows, but some infected cattle have developed enlarged lymph nodes, excess white blood cells and mock aggressiveness.

"There may be a slight immunosuppression but I have the opinion that we are not going to see the severe immunosuppressions that are seen in the human AIDS patients," Van Der Maaten said.

The researchers also have not determined how the virus is spread, although Van Der Maaten said it may be transmitted through blood, perhaps by insects or during minor surgical procedures and vaccinations.

Dr. Matthew Gonda, who has been using BIV in his AIDS research for the National Cancer Institute, said there was "absolutely no" risk of humans contracting the cow virus. He said the most significant aspect of BIV is that it is a safe model to work with in researching ways to slow the human AIDS epidemic.

Several government studies on BIV done by Van Der Maaten and colleagues were released Friday by Jeremy Rifkin, president of the Foundation on Economic Trends and a frequent critic of government health policies.

Rifkin called BIV "cow AIDS" and said it poses "a serious potential threat to the health of American cattle and the future of the cattle industry."

He called for a quarantine of infected cows while the potential health risks to humans and animals are investigated and for government testing of milk, dairy products and raw beef to check for possible contamination.

The government researchers said additional studies on the prevalence and effects of the virus were warranted but they saw no need for a quarantine or for testing of foods.

Cecelia Whetstone, who co-authored several studies with Van Der Maaten, said the virus was "relatively fragile" and would not survive food processing.

She said she had tested lab workers and others who had been exposed to the virus and none had developed antibodies to the virus, which would be a sign of infection. Two lab workers who accidentally injected themselves with the virus while working with animals did not develop antibodies, she added.

Van Der Maaten said there had been no national survey to determine the prevalence of BIV. But he reported in one study that "BIV is widely distributed among U.S. cattle and seems to be prevalent among dairy cattle in the South."

One study, which examined a limited number of randomly selected healthy cattle in the South and Southwest, said the virus was present in about 4 percent of cattle.

The AIDS virus, known as human immunodeficiency virus or HIV, and BIV are members of a family of viruses called the lentiviruses. The family includes viruses that appear in cats, monkeys and other animals.

Gunman surrenders to end siege; one dead, one hurt

EDISON, N.J. (AP) — Police convinced a hostage-taking gunman to surrender Friday after more than 24 hours barricaded inside a house where he allegedly killed a woman after shooting her daughter, his former girlfriend.

A 9-year-old boy held hostage throughout the ordeal escaped unharmed.

The man, identified as John Arias, came out of the house on police orders after officers smashed windows and drove an armored vehicle up and down the street.

"We wanted to make a lot of noise and rattle that thing around," Deputy Police Chief Anthony Calamoneri said. "It really shook him up. I think he felt it was a Sherman tank."

Police responding to a report of shooting Thursday found 20-year-old Linda Galbo wounded outside the house. They believed the gunman was holding the woman's brother and 38-year-old mother, also named Linda Galbo.

But after Arias surrendered, they discovered the woman was dead and concluded she was shot Thursday evening, Middlesex County Prosecutor Alan Rockoff said.

"The two were shot at about the same time," Rockoff said. "That may be an aggravating factor that would call for the death penalty."

Dozens of officers had encircled the home and negotiators talked with the gunman, trying to arrange his surrender.

His former girlfriend was reported in stable condition Friday at University Hospital in Newark.

PART-TIME INCOME AVAILABLE

The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several distributorships which need to be filled with qualified, responsible individuals.

OFTEN ASKED QUESTIONS:

Is it worthwhile for adults also?

Yes! Our current carrier force is already 90% adult and 10% youth. Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:

- ADULTS who have full-time jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
- MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a carrier, you do not need daycare!
- COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
- SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends.

How much money can I make as a carrier?

Depending on the size of the distributorship from $300 to $700 monthly! Some make even more!

How long does it take?

The actually delivery takes 1 - 2 hours Monday - Saturday, and 2 - 3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the distributorship. Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many carrier's choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subscribers' papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!

When do papers have to be delivered by?

6 a.m. Monday - Friday and 7 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.

Do I ever get a day off?

The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, carriers do take days off by finding a friend or family member to substitute for them!
