Mangum Airport Dedication Cut Short As $350,000 Fire Threatens Town

FLAMES CATCH GUESTS SEATED AT BANQUET

Explosion in Basement Of Hardware Store Starts Conflagration

THREE FIREMEN HURT

Dynamite Charge Used To Steer Flames Away From Postoffice

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., May 3.—Mangum feasted and made merry today as the town nearly burned.

Late this afternoon firemen still were sweeping with streams of water the ruins of six buildings destroyed by flames at an estimated loss of over $350,000 while most of the populace was celebrating the dedication of the new municipal airport located about two miles from town.

Part of the festivities, however, were being held at the Elks' hall, where a sumptuous dinner of buffalo meat was being served in honor of guests at the dedication.

The buffalo feast was cut short when flames which originated in the basement of the Wright's Hardware store swept through the Elks' Tailor shop, Doolen Music store, the E-Z grocery, and the Mangum Funeral home, and entered the banquet hall itself. All of the buildings were totally destroyed.

The fire started about 11 a. m. in the basement of the Wright Hardware store, presumably from the combustion of a large heap of mops saturated with floor oil. The resulting flames spread to a supply of several hundred pounds of gunpowder, causing a terrific explosion. Fanned by a high wind, the blaze spread to the other buildings.

Five five departments, the local squad, crews from Hollis, Elk City, Hobart and Altus, combatted the blaze for four hours, finally having to use a charge of dynamite to head the fire away from the People's Dry Goods company and the postoffice. The resulting blast was heard for several miles, it was said.

Three firemen, Dodson Thompson, Pickett Smith, and Oran Guernsey, all of Mangum, were injured when an awning on which they were standing collapsed. All were unconscious for four hours, but tonight were said to be on the road to recovery. Thompson, who fell inside the burning building when the awning gave way, was the most seriously hurt.

Villagers See Homes Go After Big Dam Breaks

Kidderville, N. H., Virtually Swept Away by Water Released When Barrier Crumbles

COLEBROOK, N. H., May 3. (AP)—The village of Kidderville virtually was wiped out and houses and barns were carried away by a flood which swept through the Mohawk valley tonight after Balsam dam, 13 miles above here had broken. Pressed by water from the heavy rains of last night, the dam broke at 6:30 o'clock. No loss of life was reported.

Inhabitants of the valley had been warned of the impending flood late in the day.

The 50 residents of Kidderville took to the highlands and watched their homes swept away. Fifteen houses and barns in the lower part of this town were carried away while several other structures were town from their foundations.

The flood followed the line of the Mohawk river and spent itself in the larger Connecticut river, a stream already swollen by the rains.

Balsam dam was built to regulate the overflow from Lake Abbenack into the Mohawk river. As soon as the danger was realized, at 5 o'clock, residents of the territory were notified by telephone to seek the highlands.

Again at 5:30 the fire signals here were sounded to warn those without telephones. The warning was sufficient to allow the removal of valuables from homes before the dam broke at 6:30 o'clock.

The water here was several feet deep at the height of the flood but by 8:30 o'clock the force of the flood had diminished.

Colebrook was flooded by the Mohawk river in November, 1927, the time of the Vermont flood.

Way Cleared for Resumption Of Work on Scott Avenue Bridge

Conference Ends Dispute Over Gas Line; Utility to Help Defray Cost of Change in Plans

County officials, contractors, and officers of the Northern Texas Utilities company Friday afternoon reached a compromise on the question of the gas pipe line obstructing the work on the new Scott avenue bridge with an agreement allowing the builders to mould one of the bridge piers around the pipe as it is now laid. The agreement was reached at a conference called by the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

According to the plans completed in a prolonged conference, work on the bridge may be resumed by Wednesday of next week, and the company has agreed to share the additional expense involved in making the pier foundation thick and deep enough to allow for the passage of the pipe.

Larger Piers

The financing plans will be completed after a conference between George D. Fairtrace, city manager, and members of the city council. John P. Marrs, county judge announced, adding that the county would not be called upon to bear any part of the additional expenses.

The company has also agreed to put in the steel sheeting below the pipe line, considered necessary by the engineers to hold back the water from the dam, Judge Marrs explained.

Contractors and engineers agreed at the end of their conference Friday afternoon that adding the approximately 7½ feet of concrete to the pier foundation would make the base strong enough to allow for the pipe. The cost of the additional material and work was estimated at $1,060. It was understood late Friday afternoon that workmen would begin the task of building up the footings of the foundation at once.

Attain Conference

An up-stream bend in the gas main across the river brought it into the line of the new bridge piers and the builders were at first convinced that the line would have to be moved before the construction could go on. Company officials protested, and while the work on the bridge waited, the compromise decision was reached. The agreement was reached in a conference at the chamber of commerce attended by D. A. Upham, president of the utility company, Roy Daugherty, superintendent of the construction of the bridge, Judge Marrs, J. M. Isbell, county engineer, and George D. Fairtrace, city manager.

BERLIN STREET BATTLE RAGING

Police Assault Reds In Darkened Thoroughfares

BERLIN, May 4. (Saturday) (UP)—Communist rioters, barricaded in an area 600 yards square—two city blocks—were fighting a pitched battle with attacking police early today in the Neu Koelln section of Berlin.

It was the last stage of tragic riots that had cost 17 lives even before fighting was renewed on a serious scale last night.

Police had been ordered to clear out the Neu Koelln area at any cost. Six persons had been killed there Friday.

At nightfall, the fighting died down. Police believed the climax of the riots had been passed. They had cleared the streets, and had warned residents in the area that even a light seen in a window, or a face, would be a target for their fire.

The first fighting of the night came when police stormed a mile-long barricade of big trees and building materials which communists had erected on the Hermannstrasse.

The street was spattered with blood. Communist "troops" looted shops in search of weapons or wealth.

Belton Frost Succumbs Friday After Jury Discharged in Assault Case; Father of Girl Victim Held

SWEETWATER, Texas, May 3. (UP)—Belton Frost, shot last night in the courthouse here by L. P. Wampler, died in the Sweetwater sanitarium late this evening.

Frost was shot after a jury had been discharged when they failed to agree on whether Frost was guilty of criminal assault on Wampler's five-year-old daughter, Anita.

Frost was on trial this week for the alleged assault, the case starting Monday morning and going to the jury at 5:40 p. m. Wednesday. After being locked up for more than 24 hours, the jury announced that they were unable to reach a verdict at 3:30 p. m. Thursday and were discharged by the judge.

A few moments later Frost was shot as he descended the stairs from the courtroom. The alleged offense against Wampler's daughter is said to have taken place at Roscoe on Aug. 26, 1928, while the Frost and Wampler families were living next door to each other.

HEAVY SUPPORT ACCORDED PLAN FOR PEN MOVE

Only Two Negative Votes Recorded While 106 Say 'Yes' to Bill

UP TO PRISON BOARD

Measure Passed by Lower House Stipulates Site Already Owned

AUSTIN, May 3. (AP)—A prison re-location bill which hours of discussion shaped to meet the approval of 106 members with only two negative votes passed the house late today.

The measure, agreed on in a compromise session earlier in the week by authors of three concentration drafts, allows the state prison board to relocate on any lands now owned by the prison system. Other tracts constituting the present widely-scattered system may be disposed of, with the exception of 53,000 acres reserved in Harris, Brazoria and Fort Bend counties.

Solons Wrangle

The final vote came after a morning of wrangling in which Representative Puri, Dallas, assailed writers of the bill in attempting to force its consideration today after it previously had been set for a special hearing Wednesday.

Puri's statement brought a sharp retort from Young, Wellington, chief sponsor of the bill, who warned that delay might mean defeat of a measure which the state was demanding the legislature act on.

For the first time during either session, Speaker Barron entered into the debate, asking his colleagues to "strike while the iron is hot in order to eliminate the stench that the present prison system has caused."

Labor Issue

The spotlight was trained for a few brief moments on the Union labor fight against prison-made goods when Puri attempted to amend the bill so that no labor under the relocation plan could be used for manufacture of shirts or overalls for commercial purposes. It, too, was voted down.

The bill as passed calls for an appropriation of $500,000 for the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1 and the same amount for the succeeding year to buy building materials and equipment for new walls and buildings. There was no attempt to change the figures.

Negro's Story of Fire in Which Aged Texas Couple Die Sifted by Officers

COOLEDGE, Texas, May 3. (AP)—A negro farmer was held here tonight as officers investigated his story of the fire which destroyed the dwelling of his landlord, W. T. Davidson, and took the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Davidson, both about 60 years old.

The negro told officers that early today he heard a scream in the Davidson house and that he saw a flash. Frightened, the negro locked himself into his cabin and remained there until about 5 a. m. when he notified a neighbor, Aubrey Vinson, that the Davidson home had burned, he said.

Vinson, whose residence was about a mile away, was the nearest white neighbor.

Officers searching the ruins found that Davidson had died near his bed while Mrs. Davidson had expired near a trunk in an adjoining room. Two oil cans, one of which usually was kept in the back yard, were found in the house, bolstering the theory of arson, investigators declared.

There was no one in the house but Mr. and Mrs. Davidson at the time of the fire although a daughter, Mrs. G. G. Hutson of Fort Worth, had been visiting them. She spent the night with other relatives.

BALLOON PILOTS AWAIT START OF NATIONAL RACE TODAY

ENTRIES MADE READY TO FLY

Fliers Promised Favorable Weather

PITTSBURGH, May 3. (INS)—Pittsburgh cocked a weather eye aloft today and hoped for clear skies for the start of the 1929 national balloon race Saturday.

Weather was the principal concern of the 12 pilots who will take off tomorrow in an attempt to set new distance and endurance records.

Meteorologist W. S. Brotzman said that air and clear weather, with a high barometric pressure may be expected for Saturday—conditions favorable for a start of the race. But though the mathematics of weather forecasting favored them the balloonists were taking no chances.

Special Forecaster G. E. Andrus arrived today from Hadley Field, N. Y., bringing with him apparatus that will enable him to obtain and give the birdmen last minute reports. Lieut. F. W. Reichelderfer, operations officer for the navy team, also set up his own weather equipment from Lakehurst, N. J., to keep tab on the atmosphere and any sudden changes it may make.

Plans were going forward for the presentation of the first day's program, called off Thursday when a downpour kept spectators from Pitt stadium from which the blimps will start. Weather permitting — and that seemed doubtful early today—the program will be carried out today. It will consist of aerial demonstrations, ground exhibits and a model plane contest for boys.

Tomorrow the day will get under way with the laying out of the dozen balloons entered in the race.

Preparation of the bags will take up most of the day, operations officers said, and in the intervals, demonstrations of stunting and parachute jumping will be made.

The bags are expected to be ready and take the air by 5 p. m. daylight saving time. Drawing for take-off positions have been completed and all of the pilots are expected to be up and off within an hour of the starting time.

Chicago Jury Probes Acts Of Officials said to have been distributor for a large part of the metropolitan area around Chicago.

While this action was taken in federal court, a grand jury in criminal court named 15 persons, including six present trustees and former President T. J. Crowe on charges of alleged conspiracies, embezzlements and diversions of public funds.

The indictments describe the staging of "wild liquor parties" with taxpayers' money to a total of approximately a quarter of a million dollars. The story recites of a trail of champagne corks which started when officials chartered a special car to Washington to testify in a lake water diversion hearing and on to the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York.

Party Cost $9,800

The New York hotel party cost $9,800 for broken furniture alone, according to the charges, to say nothing of the expense of the free flow of champagne and other liquors.

Evidence taken from the district records and considered by the grand jury indicated that $1,700 was paid to a German newspaperman for a honey moon trip to Austria.

Included among those indicated besides Crowe are: Trustees James M. Whalen, Frank J. Link, John J. Touhy, August W. Miller, Lawrence F. King and John Lawler; Henry E. Wallace, deputy chief clerk and other employes and Samuel Weinshenker attorney, who is said to have promoted the liquor parties staged for state legislators.

Assistant State's Attorney Frank J. Loesch, who presented the evidence from records of automobile companies and hotels, indicated sanitary district officials and employes rented entire hotel floors for drinking parties given for political followers and women, kept expensive limousines at their disposal and paid fancy prices for ginger ale and whisky.

by a chorus of 300 members of the Girl Reserves. Neal Powers will preside at the mass meeting.

A report of the visit to the annual Fort Sill horse show by several members of the junior chamber of commerce was given by Dr. Bailey R. Collins, who stated that members of the junior commercial body of Lawton had been invited to attend the frolic and dance to be held at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club Saturday night.

Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., Mrs. P. M. Cordell, Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, Mrs. R. M. Wilhite and Stanley M. Raub, who participated in the concert given for the junior chamber last Tuesday night at the First Methodist church, were guests of honor at the luncheon Friday.

Resolution Adopted

The meeting unanimously adopted the following resolution, drawn up and presented by James V. Allred:

Whereas, the junior chamber of commerce of Wichita Falls conceived an inaugurated the idea of "Appreciation Week" in Wichita Falls for the purpose of bringing about an better understanding between the citizenship, the business interests, and the religious and educational factors in the City that Faith Built; and

Whereas, Appreciation Week, with its constructive program, has taken its place in the hearts of the people, and is even now in the very process of accomplishing its objective; and

Whereas, the results of "Appreciation Week" speaks for themselves, and such results and objectives could not have been achieved without the whole-hearted corporation of every man, woman and child, every organization and institution in our city; and

Whereas, the very meaning of "Appreciation Week" dictates that we ourselves, as members of the junior chamber of commerce, should acknowledge and appreciate the full value of every factor, person and organization without which our program could not have been successful;

Now, therefore, be it unanimously resolved by the entire membership of the junior chamber of commerce of Wichita Falls that we make public acknowledgment and expression of our appreciation for the hearty cooperation, efforts and labor of the citizenship of Wichita Falls, including every man, woman and child within our city, and of every organization and association which has entered into the spirit of "Appreciation Week" and helped us to make it the tremendous success we believe it to be;

And be it further resolved that we here and now dedicate ourselves to the carrying on of the great purposes which have been inspired by the results of "Appreciation Week," and that we invite all others, who have caught the vision of our organization to help us "carry on" in the future.

STORM'S WRATH WIDELY FELT

Dixie, Great Lakes and Mexico Feel Winds' Fury

By The Associated Press

Death stalked through Dixie Friday in the swirling wake of tornadoes that crushed buildings, including one Virginia school house full of children, killed almost half a hundred people and injured twice that number.

Of seven southern states that felt the twisters Virginia was the hardest hit. In that state there were 22 known fatalities. At Rye Cove, Va., where the school house was blown down, 13 children and one teacher were killed and five other children were missing.

The storm was centered in the South but extended far afield, extending to such widely separated points as Mexico and the Great Lakes. Traffic on Lake Michigan and Lake Erie was at a standstill and craft caught away from port were seriously endangered.

The lake passenger steamer City of Buffalo blew a cylinder head 15 miles east of Cleveland Friday and wallowed in a heavy sea as other steamers and tugs rushed to answer her calls of distress. Late Friday she was being towed to Cleveland.

The wind was of full gale force along the north Atlantic coast at that time, at New York blowing ashore a naval tug that was later refloated. In the Middle West there were strong winds and snow fell in the Michigan fruit belt.

the rioters fired volley after volley at the police. The fire was returned with pistols, rifles, hand grenades and machine guns—the latter mounted on armored cars.

The police were equipped with searchlights, and these were brought to play on the barricades. It was the only light in the district, for two days ago the rioters had smashed all street lamps and there has been no opportunity for repair.

The fighting was concentrated by midnight on the Jaegerstrasse and Handjerstrasse. Snipers fired at police from the darkness of doorways and roofs.

The United Press correspondent, reached the scene of the fighting soon afterward. The first sign of the rioting was the sound of rifle shots and the whizz of bullets in the darkness.

Bullets, fired by an unseen sniper hit the plaster over the correspondent's head as he took shelter in a doorway. The sniper was located somewhere along the Hermannstrasse. Two more attempts to approach the scene of fighting were made and warning bullets were fired again.

Later, under police protection, it was possible to penetrate the district. Police at the same time escorted 40 workers from the subway stations to their homes around the danger zone.

Preparations for guarding the workers were made with utmost care and the party resembled a group of soldiers advancing in enemy territory in war time.

Baer Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, May 3.—As an old established member of the inhuman climate we notify the revenue agents that the time has now arrived to take spring tonic and that we are not responsible for contents.

Not being favorably mentioned in who's hootch as an authority on staggering and its ramifications, nevertheless, we hold that grandmother's spring tonic is not a contraband.

Nobody knew what granny put in that vernal concoction. But one drop of it would nickle-plate an iceberg and two drops would make a member of the House of David bob his boyish whiskers.

Twelve drops was the jury that decided whether you would live or pass on to your great reward offered by the Wells-Fargo for apprehension and conviction.

A teaspoonful would remove the nap from a porcupine's back and cause the Washington monument to bend like a sapling.

The old man always drank his from a saucer and then bit the dish in half.

The ingredients were mysterious. Granny wore smoked glasses when brewing it. Not seeing what she was doing she would not be compelled to testify against herself.

The first taste was that of sassafras struggling with the weather reports. The second sip was reminiscent of the early triumphs of the Macedonian flying phalanx slightly diluted with a decision of the supreme court.

If you lasted until the third snifter, which was strong enough to cause a vacuum cleaner to reverse itself and blow dust all over the house, you were convinced that granny had solved the mathematical equation which reduced the electric chair to liquid measure.

Nobody ever took a fourth helping of the belligerent syrup, except granny.

She lived before the days of amendments and got by on her constitution.

The purpose of all spring tonics was to thin the blood. A bottle of granny's thinner would have converted the great wall of China into the gauziest of gossamer.

Granny didn't die in the spring. At the age of 103 she trundled out her hoop and walloped it a whack that carried it over the Appalachians in three bounces.

If St. George had the choice of dragons or granny's spring tonic he would have chosen the flaming lizards.

Like Vesuvius, it was fire and soup in one.

Grandpop took his tonic while seated on the back porch in his rocker. He would take a snorter, blink his eyes, work his ears and say, "There's a lot of tunnels on this railroad."

There was only one thing about granny's spring tonic that the neighborhood could not figure out. We never were sure whether she rated a nurse's diploma or a card in the bartender's union.

MODIFIED DEBT PACT OFFERED

Berlin Hopes for Provisional Agreement

BERLIN, May 3. (INS)—Hopes are rising in Berlin tonight for a are rising in Berlin tonight for a provisional agreement on reparations payments, on the basis of a modified plan sponsored by Owen D. Young, American unofficial observer and chairman of the Experts' conference in Paris.

According to this plan, Germany would undertake to pay both the reduced total of allied reparation demands and the allied debts to the United States.

However, only the reparation payments would be fixed definitely to permit of a partial commercialization of the total sum. The German payments on account of the allied war debts would be left as a political debt, open to revision if and when the United States consents to a revision of these debts.

This provision is interpreted here as foreshadowing a concerted drive by a "league of debtor nations" for such revision. This "league" would include in its membership virtually all the countries of Europe which were engaged in the world war, both the victors and the vanquished and would be alligned almost solidly against the United States as the principal creditar nation of the world, in an effort to compel the United States to consent to a downward revision of the debt totals.

A decision by the Experts' committee on this plan is expected early next week, and already the atmosphere surrounding the meetings in Paris is said to be brightening.

The modified "Young plan" provides for annuities beginning with 1,750,000,000 marks, increasing 25,000,000 marks annually for the next ten years, and $50,000,000 marks annually for the following five years.

Oklahoma Senator Seeks Holloway's Support on Gasoline Bootlegging Bill

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 3. (UP)—Senator John McDonald of Durant has requested Governor Holloway to ask reorganization of the gas inspection service of the state in the special session, the governor said Friday.

The governor said he was considering McDonald's proposal.

McDonald, with H. G. Matherly of Creek county and Lloyd Lowery, Jackson county house member, will introduce the bill.

"There is much gasoline bootlegging in the state under the present law," McDonald said. "The bill we propose to introduce will increase the revenue from gasoline tax from $500,000 to $725,000 annually."

The proposed bill would eliminate the county gasoline inspector under the present law. It would remove gasoline inspectors from the corporation commission.

The bill provides for 10 gasoline inspectors at an annual salary of $3,600 to be appointed by the state auditor and be directly under his control.

Mrs. Paul Barnett Honors Retiring Officers of Reagan School P.-T. A.

Honoring out-going officers of the executive board of the Reagan Junior high school P.-T. A., Mrs. Paul Barnett, retiring president, was hostess Friday at a beautifully appointed luncheon at her home on Marshall street.

The rooms were frangrant with pink roses in flower baskets, vases and bowls and the color motif of pink and green predominated in the pink and green tarlatan covers, dainty place cards and green crystal table service. The motif was emphasized in the dainty napkins rolled and tied with fluffy pink tarlatan bows.

Various toasts were given the executive board complimenting its work for the past year. These were in four line rhymes written by Mrs. John M. Fox, publicity chairman and recently elected Reagan P.-T. A. president for the coming year. Outstanding among these were the following:

To W. A. Wranklin, principal:
"Here's to Professor Franklin;
His help has been sincere.
P.-T. A. presidents come and go;
He has a new model every year.

To Mrs. J. B. Hubbard, membership chairman:
Here's to faithful Mrs. Hubbard;
Unlike her namesake at the cupboard
Her membership list was never bare,
But always a new name present there.

To Mrs. Barnett:
Here's to our retiring president
With her ever winning manner
She's gained many friends for Reagan;
We're sorry we've got to can her.

To Miss Elfie Savage, recording secretary:
Let's toast Miss Elfie Savage,
And how does she get that way?
She never even growled at us
When she took minutes at P.-T. A.

With Mrs. Fox, the newly elected officers are Mrs. Ed Napier, first vice president; Mrs. Floyd A. Bash, third vice president; Miss Jean Paden, recording secretary and Mrs. J. A. Lamance, treasurer.

Plans were discussed for the P.-T. A. Polyanna picnic to be given on Tuesday evening, May 7, the regular monthly meeting day which will be the final meeting of the year before the vacation begins. The invitations to this picnic are in clever verse, the work of Mrs. Fox.

Those who enjoyed Mrs. Barnett's hospitality were W. A. Franklin, Misses Elfie Savage and Jean Paden, Mesdames O'Neal Taylor, J. B. Hubbard, O. S. Deaton, E. W. Napier, R. D. Bone, John M. Fox, W. S. Gullihorn, R. T. Sloan, W. G. Bentley, R. C. Johnson, Floyd A. Bash and E. D. Trevathan.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

What a Woman!

This article will deal with a woman whom I am quite unable to understand at all. Very few men or women are like her.

She is married to a man whose first wife died almost 25 years ago. There was a child who was only six years old at the time of her husband's second marriage.

The child, today, is a grown woman in her early thirties, and a widow. She has so far as she can remember, seen her father only ten or twelve times in her life. Since her husband died her father has contributed to her support. They both live in the same large city but the only time they see each other is by accident. Only this is sure about their relationship: her father's checks come regularly. Not once in all the years has he been late by a single day.

Why is it that he never sees his daughter? What accounts for this singularly tragic situation?

Well, the father's second wife couldn't endure the idea of sharing him with his daughter.

Shortly after she married the man who is now her husband she had an attack of nerves of jealousy or insanity—call it what you will—and said she would throw herself out of the window if her husband didn't get rid of his little daughter somehow.

He didn't take that too seriously but did think if he sent his daughter to school his second wife might change in the meantime.

He was, it develops, unduly optimistic. And the horrible thing about it all was that he loved both his daughter and his second wife with almost equal intensity. What could be done?

He continued to keep his daughter at private school. He sent her abroad in the care of a governess—and eventually the child grew older and married.

And now she is a widow. And except for his checks, it would seem that her father were also dead.

And that's all there is to the story. Let's consider it.

This is not an ordinary stepmother situation. There never was any difficulty about the child.

It was, it seems, just a case of a strong-willed and jealous woman imposing her will and purposes upon a husband who loved peace too much to fight back—even at the cost of losing his daughter.

Such a woman I just can't explain, although I can understand her.

Betty Brainerd will be glad to help her readers with their problems. Send a self addressed stamped envelope to her in care of this paper.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, May 3. (US)—Modern girl behind soda fountain.

Man comes in and orders sardine sandwich.

Girl finds can of sardines and doesn't know how to use a can opener. What a wife!

Mud-bespattered automobile full of gypsies. The women bareheaded, with long, shiney black hair tied with gay ribbons. Dresses of bright purple, red and green. White teeth gleam and they laugh often. Tent poles strapped to the running board. They are headed for the open country and traveling 50 miles an hour.

The next best thing to being a small boy playing hookey is to be a gypsy in the spring.

Girls at matinee:
"Mabel turn around pretty soon and take a look at that tall dark man sitting directly back of you. He keeps flirting with me—has all afternoon. The first time I noticed him he stared at me for a full minute."

Said the tactless Mabel: "Well, why don't you try watching the show?"

"I've been terrible misfortunate in my marriages," said Black Lindy, cheerfully scrubbing floors in the little tea room and dispensing information to the girl manager. "I just ain't had no happiness at all. Soon as I married 'em, they started staying away from home, except when it was hot-biscuit time. I declare, Miss Josie, sometimes I thinks the happy people is the ones who just keep on courtin' all they lives. That's the grandest time, and the men seems to want you whether you kin cook or not—"

A girl with her stockings rolled and her skirts short might do well to remember when she's dancing with a partner who holds her tight and lifts her up a bit when he dances, that she's the reason the folks at the tables are laughing. You'd think the girls would notice the draft, even if they can't see in a mirror.

Wouldn't you like to take one of these big strong, heavyweight women, who drag children through crowded streets by one arm, and pay no attention to their protests, and drag her around Broadway, or Chicago's loop, till she was howling for mercy?

It would be infinitely superior to a ducking stool, and there should be a grand stand full of children to witness the performance.

Yesterday I heard of a good old Irish woman, who has brought up six motherless boys. There are two unmarried ones left with her and they adore her.

"Yes," said some one smart to whom I told the story, "but she is sort of dumb."

And if you believe in retribution, you can see why the dumb ones are happier.

Luncheon Party Given Friday By Bi-Monthly Club

A lovely rose and green color scheme made rooms and dining table beautiful in the luncheon given Friday at the Angelina tea room by the Bi-Monthly Culture club. Place cards were smart and original; each was a cartoon recalling the program the member had given. Favors were tiny green flower pots with a living pink or red rose and the center decoration was a lovely bowl of red and pink poppies. Green lustre candle sticks were used with shaded green candles.

Mrs. Nathan Persky gave an opening prayer. The toast to the last year's president was given by Mrs. Eugene Leopold, and Mrs. J. W. Ginsburg who had efficiently filled that office, made a very clever response, given as a newspaper account of the future development of the club.

Mrs. Max Shain gave a review of the past year's program written in verse and purporting to have been an account of each program as she encountered it in a European country.

The toast to absent members was given by Mrs. Sam Kruger and the answer was given by the toastmistress reading letters from absent members.

The next feature of the program was a debate, "Resolved that Mrs. J. W. Ginsburg be elected a life member of the club." Mrs. J. Emold took the affirmative and the negative was supported by Mrs. Sam Quicksilver. It produced much merriment.

The biggest fun hit of the program was a talk over two telephones. The gossipy nature of it made Mrs. Samuel Egger's and Mrs. Milton Katz's dialogue intensely interesting.

Mrs. Ben Newman, an absent member, wrote a letter in verse, taking off the members of the club as they appeared before St. Peter and made their pleas for entry into heaven.

Visitors present were called on and made very gracious responses.

"My mother had used Cardui, and she gave it to me. After taking one bottle, I was much better. I kept on taking Cardui, and after my third bottle I did not have to take any more, for I did not have the cramping spells. My health is still good."—Mrs. W. G. Watts, 70 Galex St., West Asheville, N. C.

DOCTOR LOVED GIRL SECRETLY

And So Did Merchant, But He Talked About It

Why Secret Is Less Cruel Than the Open Philanderer. The Gold-Digger Who Became a Penny-Pinching Wife. Sage Advice to Husband Who Can't Forget the Past.

Dear Miss Dix—In our little town there are two men, one a doctor and the other a merchant, whose conduct has given rise to a lot of heated discussion among us. The doctor was considered an ideal husband; he was kind, generous, attentive to his wife and made her very happy. Neither she, nor any of us, suspected that he wasn't devoted to her, but three months after she died he became engaged to a nurse who says that they have been lovers for six years and tells how happy they are now that they don't have to keep their love a secret any longer.

The merchant didn't get along with his wife and everybody knew all about their quarrels and his philandering and that he was preparing to apply for a divorce so that he could be free to marry a young girl, when the necessity of a divorce was obviated by his wife dying.

Now, the men in our circle think the merchant should be tarred and feathered, but that the doctor is an honest and honorable man, while we women think one is just as guilty as the other, the only difference being that one was kept secret and the other wasn't. What do you think? We have agreed to let you settle the argument.—A. B.

Answer—Of course, as a matter of fact, one man is just as guilty as the other, both were equally unfaithful to their wives, but I agree with the men that the doctor took the more chivalrous course, if there is any chivalry in such a situation.

He, at least, had the grace not to add to his sin against his wife the crime of making her miserable. He did not torture her with jealousy. He did not take out upon her in neglect and insult his disappointment and chagrin in being tied to her while he loved another woman.

On the contrary, according to your statement of the case, he tried to make amends to her for his defections by being courteous and agreeable to live with, by showing her little attentions that women like, and by so completely acting the part of the perfect husband that she never even suspected that it was not the real thing.

You remember that Barrie makes Sentimental Tommy do pretty much the same thing when he finds himself married to Griseld, for whom he has no affection whatever. Every now and then he would say to himself: "This is the time when a man who loved his wife would put his arm around her and drew her head down on his shoulder." Or, "This is the time when a man who loved his wife would tell her how dear and precious she was to him," and so on.

Your doctor seems to have emulated Sentimental Tommy and kept his wife living blissfully in a fool's paradise, and I think he deserves credit for it and for keeping from her the bitter truth that would have broken her heart. After all, what we don't know doesn't worry us.

Also, by keeping his affair with the nurse secret, he saved his wife's face, and that is much. For not the least bitter thing to a forsaken wife is the humiliation it brings her to have it publicly known that she has failed as a wife and she could not hold her husband's love and that he has preferred some other woman above her. "Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned," said the poet. Perhaps this is true. Certainly hell has no torment greater than that endured by a discarded wife.

I hold no brief for any man who is unfaithful to his wife, but I am forced to respect the strength and courage of a man who, after he finds out that he no longer loves his wife and has found some other woman whom he does love and who is his real mate, still had grit enough to go on with an uncongenial marriage to keep together the home he founded and still to keep happy the woman he swore at the altar to cherish. And when a man does this with grace and sweetness there is a strain of heroism in it.

So many men make their wives pay for their mistakes in marriage. They marry too young, or they pick out the wrong girls, and then, when they get tired of them or bored by them, they blame their wives for it and take it out on them in quarreling and humiliating them by their philandering, which is the way your merchant has met the situation.

A few years ago there was a slang phrase which said, "If you can't be good, be quiet." There is a lot of kindness as well as wisdom in this cynical advice, especially for wandering husbands. If they can't be faithful, surely they owe it to their wives not to flaunt their infidelities in their face and to keep their affairs as secret as possible.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Prior to our marriage my wife was what might be termed a gold-digger. She encouraged me to spend money on her lavishly, which I did gladly, but since our marriage she has become so parsimonious that she makes life almost unendurable by her stinting and constant lectures on economy. We have a comfortable income of $6,000 a year, but if I spend a dime that might have been avoided I never hear the last of it. She even insists that I sell the automobile on the grounds that we can't afford one. I have tried arguing and persuading in every way to make her see things in a more liberal light, but to no avail. Instead she gets worse every day. What would you suggest.

Answer—There is no way you can deal with the situation except by moral persuasion and by trying to make her see how she is ruining your life by her penny pinching and sordidness.

Let her see that she is making you miserable and uncomfortable and especially impress it upon her that she is killing your affection for her and your respect for her by her niggardliness, and if that don't change her nothing will. If her love for the dollar is greater than her love for you the case is hopeless.

Where money is concerned women are apt to run to extremes and either to be extravagant and wasteful or else to be miserly, and when a woman is stingy she is the stingiest creature on earth. She will starve her family. She will deny them every pleasure and advantage. She will undergo any hardship rather than let go of a dime.

Try to correct your wife's fault while there is yet time, for miserliness is a vice that grows on people, especially as they get older.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—When my wife was a girl she was guilty of a grave indiscretion. She told me about it, but as I was much in love with her I overlooked it and we got married. That was a year ago. She has been a good wife and we have a baby a year old that I adore, but try as I do I cannot keep out of my mind the thought of her past, and it tortures me. Oh, if you could only offer me some suggestion that would enable me to throw off the feeling that I am now undergoing—hate.

—UNDECIDED.

Answer—The only suggestion that I can offer you is to try to look at the matter with a little common sense and justice. Have enough intelligence to realize that because a girl has once stumbled off the straight and narrow path it does not mean that she is innately bad and that she is going to continue to be bad as long as she lives.

Many and many a girl goes wrong through the very best that is in her, because she is too loving, too generous to count the cost of what she does, too soft to say "No" to the one she cares for. That kind of a girl repents her sin in bitterness and tears, and there isn't the faintest danger of her ever making this slip again.

Of course, there is the type of girl who is born without any moral sense and who will always be loose-living, but any man can distinguish between these two kinds of women, and so if your wife belongs to the first class and if she has conducted herself with dignity and discretion ever since you were married, you may trust her implicitly and forget the past.

And be just to her. You married her knowing of the stain on her skirts. By your marriage you condoned that, so you have no right to hold her past against her and to make her miserable by your suspicions.

You have gotten morbid, my friend, by dwelling too long on this subject. You have forgiven her. Now forget it and be happy.

—DOROTHY DIX.

SOONER ROAD AWARDS MADE

Paving Contracts Let At Friday Session

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 3. (UP)—The state highway commission Friday announced awards of eight hard surface road projects showing a saving of about $94,000 under the Jan. 9 low bids of the old commission.

The Standard Paving company, of Tulsa, and Park & company, of Oklahoma City were the only Johnson favorites awarded contracts.

The Standard Paving company's low bid was on Beckham county projects which showed over $29,000 reduction under the Jan. 9 low bid on asphalt paving. There are 4.95 miles in the project.

Park & company were awarded five miles of concrete in Osage county with a reduction of about $10,000 under the Jan. 9 low bid on five miles of concrete.

The over four miles of concrete paving for Oklahoma county was awarded to Brooks and Dahlgren Oklahoma City. The concrete paving bids were slightly above $20,000 per mile average. This is $2,000 below the best figure of the Johnston administration.

No award was made on project 131 in Lincoln county near Wellston. The award will be made after the court acts on the injunction sought by Lincoln county citizens who claim the highway commission is not fulfilling its promises to the counties in expending the county funds. Work orders on the awards made Monday and Friday will be issued as speedily as possible, Lew Wentz, chairman said.

The announcement of awards by the commission is the first step in issuing work orders. The contractors must furnish proper bonds and the attorney general pass on the legality before work orders are issued.

Wentz estimated the orders would be given contractors in about two weeks.

Lawder owes the state two years and eight months of a six year sentence from Fort Worth. Following his arrest here in company with Silver, discovery was made that he had been discharged after having served only two years of his term.

SINCLAIR'S JAIL IS UNDECIDED

Oil Magnate's Health To Decide Point

WASHINGTON, May 3. (INS)—Whether Harry F. Sinclair, multimillionaire oil magnate, will be sent to the district work farm at Occoquan, Va., to make bricks and do some farm work, or whether he will spend three months in comparative idleness at the city jail was a question that had local authorities apparently in a quandary today.

The welfare board of the District of Columbia washed its hands of the matter by announcing that it would make no decision.

Apparently this leaves it up to the jail authorities.

When Sinclair surrenders early next week, probably Monday, he wil be questioned about his health and put through a physical examination. If his physical condition is normal, he probably will be sent to Occoquan for manual labor about the farm; if not, he probably will be incarcerated for 90 days in the district jail where the principal labor is keeping the cells and corridors clean.

In any event, the oil magnate's associates will be the usual run of prisoners—bootleggers, petty thieves, alcoholic inebriates, and chronic offenders, both white and black.

Sinclair is expected to present himself to the U. S. commissioner here on Monday. The papers in his case will be mandated to the clerk of the district supreme court tomorrow, marking the end of the 25-day period since the U. S. supreme court found him guilty of contempt of the senate and affirmed his sentence.

George P. Hoover, counsel for the oil magnate, has notfied district authorities his client will not longer seek to evade the sentence.

Quanah Seniors Clear $300 on Carnival

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, May 3.—Quanah seniors, class of '29, cleared over $300 on their carnival recently. Amusement and refreshment booths really amused and refreshed—an unusual fact, according to the patrons.

Intense interest was shown in the race between the seniors, juniors and freshmen for the election of the queen of the carnival, with the freshmen winning. The coronation of Frances Walkup, freshman, was a scene of splendor. The court was made up of the queens of the various classes, their maids of honor and escorts.

The money realized will be placed in the Athletic field fund, toward which the seniors of 1929 are contributing all their earnings instead of putting out an annual for the class.

The average track of a tornado is about one-fifth of a mile across and 20 miles long, and is so sharply defined that houses on one side of a street may be completely demolished while those on the other side are unharmed.

Herbert Kaufman's
AURORA ANSWERS
Daily Editorial

THE DE KING case now moves to the court of last appeal—the ballot box.

If the next election confirms Kane county's verdict, then the 18th amendment supersedes constitutional guarantees, the right to bear arms or repel illegal entry, and delivers justice as a prostitute for fanaticism and intolerance.

The American people change place with Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith and are, hereafter, proxy-defendants in the vilest assault ever visited upon the body of freedom.

President Hoover has indicted the country for disrespect of law and encouragement of its miscarriages.

The infamous transaction at Aurora, climaxing years of state and federal terrorism, Cossackry and vindictive legislation, answers his jeremiad and passes the buck back to the capitol and the White House.

We folk have not lost reverence for fundamental authority.

National conscience merely refuses to be altered by process of statute and bullied into the service of hysteria and hypocrisy.

Democracy reserves the privilege of dissent and protest.

Our convictions inherit from the Declaration of Independence and still exercise under its assurances.

Volsteadism, sired by obsession, and midwifed by political expediency, is not a humane device, but a wolf in sheep's clothing—a beast, hydrophobic with power, running amuck, dripping with the blood of slaughtered men and women, and daily howling for more prey.

This rabid and insatiate ward of the Anti-Saloon league and its congressional lickspittles doesn't express majority, will but is the put-over of vote-peddlers and lobby helots.

Its confiscatory ambitions, its merciless exactions and its brutal penalties affront every purpose of the republic.

THE JONES ACT, and its ferocious compulsions, has alienated millions of temperance advocates from sympathy with prohibition, and simply intensified the demand for modification or repeal.

The callous sneers and assenting silence of frocked zealots and government officials, when urged to condemn arrest without warrant, killing without provocation, the procuring of false evidence and extreme punishment for casual misdemeanors, indicate that no domicile and no family can confide faith in the bill of rights or invoke protection against uniformed burglars and gunmen.

Law observance, like charity, should begin at home—in the ranks of its agents.

The government must put its own house in order before Washington can hope for a reformation of attitude toward obnoxious codes.

The pot can't call the bettle black.

The ghost of Lillian De King and contempt for the Pecksniffian Judases, who have betrayed our franchises for campaign support and lecture graft, will meanwhile hamper his administration.

George the Third could not force taxes or tea down our throats—nor can witch-smellers and inquisitors make America's anthem: "Drink to me only with thine eyes."

We are committed to the memory of Sam Adams, John Hancock and Patrick Henry—consecrated to live in their tradition.

Scratch a rebellion and you'll always find underlying oppression.

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

"It is better to be approximately right than to be precisely wrong."

A man seeking a certain city and traveling in the right direction across woods, fields and flooded streams will reach his destination, while another man traveling a highway in the wrong direction will never arrive.

It All Depends

Distracted Wife (at bedside of sick husband): Is there no hope, doctor.

Doctor: I don't know. What were you hoping for?—Tit-Bits.

Judging by the number of parked cars, the disarmament question hasn't reached as far as the public parks.

A Kansas City court tried to give 263 pints of confiscated whisky to a hospital, but it was refused. Probably the hospital had a sufficient supply of anesthetic on hand.

The Height of Futility

THE preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations, sitting at Geneva, has decided that neither posion gas nor disease germs may be used hereafter in any wars.

This agreement, beyond doubt, will presently be ratified by all of the world powers, from Abyssinia to Uruguay, and the peace-loving people of the world will tell themselves that another great victory has been achieved.

Well-intentioned gestures of this kind sound very nice. It is really too bad to be obliged to admit that they don't mean a thing.

To begin with, no one but the most hopeful of optimists would suppose that such an agreement would really be binding in time of war.

If one thing in this world is certain, it is that any nation, going to war now or henceforth, will use every weapon it can lay its hands on. Poison gas may be prohibited by treaties enough to fill a library; nevertheless, the next war will see poison gas used on a greater scale than ever before. There simply is not any doubt about it.

Disease germs may be another matter. It is quite possible that they will not form part of the properly-prepared nation's arsenal. You see, they are hard to use effectively. Chemicals work better than bacteria. They kill more people for the same amount of effort.

But poison gas will be used, just as high explosive shells and machine guns and airplanes will be used. And treaties of the kind just promulgated at Geneva may conceivably, in the long run, do much more harm than good.

No one ever gets anywhere by kidding himself. And when we go to a lot of fuss and bother to "outlaw" the use of poison gas in war time, we are kidding ourselves in a big way.

We are blinding our eyes to realities. Even the dullest man can see, in what happened between 1914 and 1918, that war on a large scale is simply too hellish to be borne. And poison gas, which can wipe out whole cities full of non-combatants overnight, is one of the things that make it so.

Now, when we declare that we will not use gas any more, what are we doing? Just this: we are telling ourselves that future wars won't be so terrible, after all—and so we are taking away one of the great arguments that should make us work to avoid war altogether.

It wouldn't be so bad if the anti-gas prohibition would work. But it won't. Fooling around with it simply prevents us from mobilizing our full strength for the gift for continued peace.

Patching up rules for war is the most futile occupation imaginable. War will abide by no rules. In trying to devise some we are merely kidding ourselves.

The Deadly Safety Pin

IF YOU have a small baby in your home, you will be interested in what Dr. Chevalier Jackson, Philadelphia specialist, has to say about babies swallowing foreign substances.

Dr. Jackson's clinic has extracted all kinds of things from the throats of children—safety pins, peanuts, toys, candy, pennies, buttons and even jewelry. And here is what he says:

"Safety pins have killed more babies than firearms. Intelligent care taken by the parents or nurses could reduce effectually the disheartening number of casualties resulting from lodgment of objects in the throats and lungs of children who have been permitted to put such things in their mouths."

That bit of advice ought to be pasted up in every home. It doesn't take much trouble to keep little things out of baby's reach—and a little carelessness in that matter may cost the child's life.

Immigrants and Tourists

THE RESTRICTIVE immigration law of 1924 has had one effect not looked for by its framers, according to an article by Roger Shaw in the current Golden Book magazine. It has increased, greatly, the annual number of American tourists in Europe.

Here's how it happened. The steamship companies were unable to fill their steerage quarters. So, desiring to make them pay, they refurnished them and invented the "tourist third cabin" arrangement. This promptly made European travel available to thousands of people of small means, who had always wanted to go abroad but had never been able to afford it.

Last year more than 100,000 Americans went to Europe in that manner. If it had not been for the immigration restrictions, they probably would have stayed at home.

An Optimist in Industry

ONE OF the most optimistic exponents of the new order in business and industry is Mr. Edward A. Filene, well known Boston merchant. In the May issue of the Atlantic Monthly, Mr. Filene explains why he feels that modern mass production and distribution methods hold out more hope for the average man than any system that has gone before.

"If mass production," he writes, "is used by leaders who understand that in order to make the greatest total profits they must pay even higher wages, constantly reduce prices and keep profits per unit of output down to the very minimum, mass production holds no dangers to the common welfare, but on the contrary holds possibilities of accomplishing for mankind all of the good that theoretical reformers or irrational radicals hope to secure by revolutionary means."

"OONERVILLE FOLKS" By Fontaine Fox

The Day Book of a New Yorker
Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, May 3.—It is 8 a. m. and the city is as still as though it were almost deserted. At 9 there is intense bustle underneath the city for the subways are jammed. Downtown New York is alive with the beginnings of commerce for the day. Midtown, with Times square as its center, is very quiet, for the people who frequent the district—including thousands of visitors—have not yet risen.

Noon comes along and then you find one of the ten most beautiful sights in New York. I refer to the thousands of young stenographers on their daily noon-hour parade in the financial sector. There is something of the holiday spirit in their manner, reminiscent of the Paris midenettes.

In the afternoon the theatrical district hums with activity and, particularly, in summer, the parks are swarmed. Fifth avenue is filled with smart shoppers.

The period between 5 and 7 is one of frightful activity in all the subways, the elevated and even sidewalks of New York, for the offices are closing. Try and get a seat in a subway now? Yes, and just try and get into the subway! That is an achievement in itself.

The enchanting thing about this closing period is the spectacle of lights, popping in the office buildings. Thousands, millions, perhaps, of these incandescents, opaque against the crimson sky. In a little while they will twinkle out and the ligh of the city will become concentrated into that comparatively small and blazing area known as Times Square.

It is strange how we think of Broadway only as the street of theaters and gayety. Take the period after 7 o'clock. Far to the south, toward the Battery, Broadway is dark and silent. Human beings are scarce. And far to the north, beyond Columbus Circle, are the apartments in which live the city dwellers, with their little homes, their families and fortunes, their joys and tragedies.

Ruth Draper's back in town; going to appear in "The Sea Gull" . . . The Jitney Players do not need a seven-cent fair-er, admission-price—for they are doing very well in town. Very soon they take to wandering about the country like gypsies. . . . Fanny Todd Mitchell, in a nice blue dress, sails for Vienna and Paris. She wrote the music for "Music in May." . . . Mayor Walker has a new suit, nifty as usual. He is pretty happy these days, because of that five-cent fare victory.

All the Metropolitan stars are going away for the summer, and the opera house looks so forlorn, too, at this time of the year. . . . Wonder when that ball is going to fall off the dome of the Paramount building in Times Square? . . . Grover Whalen, the Beau Brummel police commissioner, has a double over in New Jersey. . . . Christopher Morley once wanted to be dramatic critic of The World; now he is making so much money as a producer that he turned down The World's offer to succeed St. John Ervine, the late visiting English critic. . . . While the theater Guild is cackling about its tenth anniversary let it not forget that it was two of St. John's plays, "John Ferguson" and "Jane Clegg," with 333 performances between them, that brought the Guild's first success. . . . The Fifth avenue bus conductors are as police as Roxy theater ushers. . . . Oh this wilderness! A man reported to a Central park policeman that he was lost in the park and couldn't find his way out. And people try to make us believe that New York is all stone and steel!

Sidney Skolsky, one of Broadway's ace press agents, tells that Samuel Shipman, the playwright, is critical about dress in others but is marvelously unkempt himself. As Skolsky says, "even after he has a shave and a haircut he needs a shave and a haircut."

He writes all his plays in Atlantic City, dictates everything he writes and makes stenographers work in relays. He made a million dollars in royalties from "Friendly Enemies," and "East Is West." He wrote his first play, "Justice," at the age of 12.

He visits the aquarium frequently and studies the fish, which means nothing in particular.

And He Does

Nitt: I can't make both ends meet so I hire a lawyer to do my worrying for me.

Witt: How do you pay him?

FORD IN THE RADIO FIELD

Henry and Edsel Ford have entered the radio field. They are satisfied with the noise they are already making, but want to reach a bigger audience.

PHILLIPS

Father and son have incorporated a radio communications company and asked a federal permit to operate Ford broadcasting stations through which there will presumably be quantity production of sour tenors, jazz orchestras, mandolin players, etcetera.

All bedtime stories will be assembled under one roof, the time signals will be manufactured from materials produced at subsidiary plants, and all waste will be eliminated in the manufacture of the morning setting-up exercises and the evening talk on the care of dogs.

Henry is out to bring the radio program within the reach of the masses His daily program won't be elaborate, pretentious or full of fancy frills. It will be just a plain radio program that anybody can understand.

Fool-proof and safe for anybody to operate.

The Ford plan is to give the public everything any other radio station gives, but stripped of all luxuries.

Already Henry is looking around for the announcer to meet Ford requirements. He must be a modest, unassuming, plain looking man who gives maximum results on the minimum amount of gas. One that starts with a roar but smooths out as he warms up.

6:30 P. M.—Maine Fiddlers.

7:00—The Happiness Boys: Messrs. Firestone, Edison and Ford.

7:15—Wayside Inn String orchestra.

7:30—Talk by Edsel Ford: "What to Do With the Knees in the Run-about Model."

8:00—The Virginia Reel Hour.

9:00—Address: "Care of the Spinning Wheel," by Henry Ford.

9:30—Vocal selections by Lizzie, the masked soprano.

10:00—Static interference from the General Motors corporation.

10:15—Sounds from the assembling room.

10:30—The Service Station Glee club.

11:00—Talk: "500 Things You Can Not Do With the Tools Given With a New Car."

11:15—Puzzle Lovers' Hour, with an answer by Mr. Ford to the great mystery, "Why we put the gas tank over the engine?"

Candidates for the Firing Squad

A man I'd like to put to sleep
Is Lucius Lester Thorne;
When stalled in traffic he will keep
His finger on the horn.

Excessive Cruelty

"Betty Compson, in asking the divorce, said: 'Jim just would stay at home nights.'"—Buffalo News.

Well, that's mean of any husband.

In Nyack, N. Y., there is a Reverend Stanley B. Serman.

Some responsibility for lawlessness must be attributed to the fact that so many criminals reach for an insanity defense with one hand while they work the sawed-off shotgun with the other.

"The truth shall set you free, it is said," writes Robert W. Rogers, "but still I don't notice any night club hostesses pleading guilty."

So, That's Why

The teacher was angry when Willie appeared 10 minutes late for school.

"Why are you late?" he asked sharply.

"Please, sir," replied Willie, "it was late when I started from home."

"Then why didn't you start from home earlier?"

"Please, sir, it was too late to start early."—Answers.

MELLON'S CASE AT STANDSTILL

Friends and Foes of Secretary at Loggerheads

WASHINGTON, May 3. (UP)—A deadlock on the Mellon case was reached in the senate judiciary committee today when it held its sixth day session and found it was unable to agree on anything, including the manner in which the committee should proceed.

Two developments of the executive session leaked out.

Friends of Secretary of Treasury Mellon presented evidence to show nearly every secretary of treasury since Alexander Hamilton held corporate stocks, arguing that therefore the committee had no cause to proceed against Mellon under the old statute requiring that treasury secretaries have no direct or indirect interest in trade or commerce.

Senator Hastings, Republican, Delaware, a new comer to the senate, questioned the propriety of members of the committee divulging the deposition given by Mellon in a civil suit involving the Aluminum company of America. Release of the deposition was defended by other committee members who said they saw no reason for keeping it secret. The deposition tended to show Mellon's exofficio connections with the aluminum company.

The suggestion that Mellon be invited to appear before the committee to explain some indefinite points in the deposition occupied the remainder of the session. Mellon's friends took the position the committee was not empowered to go into the evidence and must confine its deliberations to the legal question of Mellon's right to his office.

The committee will meet again tomorrow but there was no indication of an early decision. The opposing sides are so closely aligned that neither wants to give in.

The senate continued its farm bill deliberations while the house held an 11-minute session, recessing until Monday when the new tariff bill will be reported by the ways and means committee.

BRECK SCHOOL ANNUAL READY

Prize Winning Yearbook to Compete Again

Special to The Record News

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, May 3.—The 1929 "Historic Buckaroo," yearbook of the Breckenridge High school, is off the press and will be ready for distribution early next week.

Max Goldblatt, student manager of the publication, states that it includes 196 pages, probably the largest high school annual ever published in Texas.

"The Buckaroo" is this year more than a history of the year of activity in school life. It gives a history of the town and section.

The first division is devoted to the buffalo period. Then follows "the Indian town," after which come "the country town," "the oil town" and "the old home town."

In 1924 the yearbook won first place in the state high school annual contest; in 1926 it received honorable mention in the national contest; in 1925 "The Buckaroo" won third place in Texas; in 1927 it was accorded first place in the United States and duplicated the feat in 1928.

Those who compose the staff follow:

French Endorse U. S. Arms Plan

GENEVA, May 3. (INS)—The French delegation to the League of Nations preparatory disarmament commission tonight decided to endorse the stand of the United States on the question of listing of war supplies, such as artillery, small arms, ammunition, tanks, reserve bombing planes and chemicals.

This stand, as outlined to the commission by Ambassador Hugh Gibson, American delegate, favors "widest publicity," so that the world would know the amount of reserve war supplies held by each of the big powers.

It also was decided tonight that the preparatory commission will reconvene in October, at the earliest.

Westerfield Elected Head of Burk Rotarians

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, May 3.—President Dr. Bain Leake presided over the regular meeting of the Burkburnett Rotary club, which met Tuesday at noon in the annex of the Central Christian church. Practically the entire meeting was devoted to the annual election of officers. Preceding the election, a classificational talk was given by Rotarian Oscar Kemp on "Oil Production."

The following officers were then elected to serve for the years of 1929 and 1930: Butler Westerfield, president; E. J. Williams, vice president; A. R. Hill, secretary; J. B. Joyce, treasurer; Everett James and Ike E. Harwell, two directors; and William Oscar Kemp, sergeant at arms.

The average haul for a robbery in 1927 was $30.75, it is estimated by Warden Lawes of Sing Sing prison.

Gates Sure of 'Women West of Brazos' And Needs Only 'Snuff Dippers' Votes Should He Run for Barry Miller's Job

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, May 3.—Representative Sam Gates, widely known "anti" from Runge, said Thursday afternoon he was seriously considering making the race in the next general election for lieutenant governor of Texas. Representative Reno Eichenrodt, the Republican member from Seguin, joined by several others secured adoption of a resolution inviting Mr. Gates to deliver an address in the house.

"If I did decide to make the race, I am sure it would prove a shock for Tom Love of Dallas," said Gates. "All I need is to borrow not less than $500 from my friends at home and then I could launch a real campaign. I am sure I would get the vote of the women west of the Brazos and if I could capture the 'snuff dippers' east of the Brazos, my election would be assured."

Hoover's Invitation to Attend W T C C Meeting to Be Presented Monday

STAMFORD, Texas, May 3.—According to a wire from Senator Morris Sheppard at Washington to Manager Homer D. Wade of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, the invitation to President Hoover to attend the 11th annual convention of the regional organization and the commemoration of the 75th anniversary of the Gadsden Purchase will be presented Monday morning.

The invitation will be formally presented by the senators and congressmen from the three states, New Mexico, Arizona, and Texas, whose governors have signed it.

A copy of an air mail letter from the Corsicana Municipal airport to President Hoover extending greetings on the occasion of the formal opening of the airport April 27 contained a paragraph in which Mayor R. L. Wheelock, C. L. Jester, president of the chamber of commerce, and P. Mayer postmaster joined heartily in the invitation.

Notice has come to the regional organization headquarters that other towns are taking this means of letting the president know they desire his presence at this annual event of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Private Funeral Rites Monday For 'Tad,' Who Was Premier Slang Artist

NEW YORK, May 3. (AP)—Private funeral services for Thomas Aloysius (Tad) Dorgan, noted newspaper cartoonist, will be held next Monday.

"Tad" died in his sleep at his home in Great Neck, Long Island, yesterday from a heart ailment.

Although one of the most capable of sport critics, especially on boxing, "Tad's" clientele was by no means restricted to followers of the sports pages. As a coiner of slang, he had few, if any, equals.

Out of his fertile brain came "Twenty-Three, Skidoo," "Yes, We Have No Bananas," "Hard-Boiled Egg," "Dumb Dora," "Drug-Store Cowboy," "Apple Sauce," "Cake Eater," "The Cat's Meow," "Nobody Home," "The First Hundred Years Are the Hardest," "For Cryin' Out Loud," "You Tell 'Em," and literally scores of other slang expressions.

BOND MADE IN LYNCH CASE

Houston Man Freed After New Indictment

HOUSTON, May 3. (AP) — John "Slim" Kent, one of six men indicted in connection with lynching of Robert Powell, negro, June 20, 1928, was allowed, and made, bond of $7,500 on an agreement between defense attorneys and prosecution yesterday at an informal habeas corpus hearing before Judge Langston G. King.

Kent was indicted a second time Wednesday as an accomplice in the lynching of Powell. The original indictment was for murder. District Attorney O'Brien Stevens agreed Thursday to permit bond under the new indictment in the same amount as that of the murder indictment.

Of the six defendants indicted in connection with the lynching of Powell, charges against one were dismissed and a second was found not guilty.

CLARK SCORES LEGAL POINT

Impeached Judge Victor In Trial Skirmish

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., May 3. (UP)—Justice J. W. Clark scored a material victory in his impeachment trial Friday, when the senate court ruled to exclude all testimony affecting the supreme court as a whole unless it affected Clark in particular.

The action came on a motion of Senator Otjen, who contended Clark could not be held responsible for the actions of the entire court. The vote was 23 to 11. It is expected to shorten the trial several days.

The Otjen motion interrupted O. O. Owens, member of the house board of managers, in a lengthy discussion of the supreme court action in the Millie Postit case. Owen was cross examining Fred M. Carter, Tulsa attorney who was on the stand.

Carter, called to the stand as a defense witness, proved a boomerang to Justice Clark's case. He testified he had received a copy of a supreme court opinion before it had been handed down.

Henry Helms' Son Almost 'Escapes'

DALLAS, May 3. (AP)—A jail break was accomplished, almost, at the Dallas county jail, by a small boy and it was into corridor L-1, death row.

Prisoners who face death in the electric chair live in the corridor which has an opening about six inches wide through which articles may be passed to the prisoners.

The small son of Henry Helms, under sentence for the part he was alleged to have taken in the robbery of a bank in Eastland county, was visiting his father when one of the prisoners told the boy he would give him some candy if he would squeeze through the opening.

Climbing up the bars, the child almost succeeded in getting through when stopped.

"I'm not scared," the little boy exclaimed, but he was not permitted to finish his jail break.

Helms, a young man, has a large family.

THRILLING RESCUE

400 Saved From Ship Lost in Violent Gale at Sea

TOKYO, May 3. (AP)—A thrilling tale of rescue of more than 400 persons from the Japanese steamer Goyo Maru was told in radio messages from the steamer Hachiro Maru today. The Goyo Maru, under charter for fishing, ran into a violent snow storm Wednesday night in the Kronotski gulf and was forced aground.

The Hachiro was summoned by radio and reached the scene at 4 p. m., yesterday, taking off 350 fishermen before rising seas and darkness compelled cessation of their efforts. Throughout a wild night it stood by and today took off the remainder of the vessel, 20 fishermen and 38 of the crew.

The ship itself, the radio message said, apparently was a total loss. It had a register of 2,946 tons.

CUTTERS SENT TO AID SHIP

Lake Freighter Aground With Cargo of Iron Ore

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 3. (INS)—Five coast guard cutters today were ordered to the asistance of the freighter, D. N. Philbin, which is reported aground on the rocks in Lake Erie, 12 miles south of Ashtabula.

The ship, an Ohio vessel, was carrying 9,500 tons of iron ore from Duluth to Conneaut, Ohio. It is said to be slowly foundering.

The cutters were loaded with life saving apparatus and life lines, with which it is hoped to remove the crew from the freighter.

High seas and a heavy wind are expected to hamper the work of the rescuers.

The Philbin is reported to have run aground when it mistook a radio beacon light at North Kingsland, Ohio, for the pier light at Conneaut.

SPUDDERS SCORE 3 IN NINTH AND TAKE OPENER AT BEAUMONT

CROMER HALTS EXPORTS, 7 TO 6

Turgeon Twists Ankle; To Be Idle Several Days

Special to The Record News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, May 3.—The Spudders did some rallying on their own account today and captured the opener of the three-game series with the Exporters. The score was 7 to 6, and Wichita Falls won in the ninth inning by scoring three runs, after Beaumont had counted four in the eighth and seemingly had won.

The making of errors was on the other glove, today. Or rather, the ball wasn't in the glove of a Beaumont player at a critical occasion. This was in the ninth when Flowers dropped a fly that enabled the Spudders to tally what proved to be the tying and winning runs.

Another Spudder joined the hospital list, when Pete Turgeon twisted an ankle sliding to second in the seventh inning. The injury will keep him out of the game several days.

See-Saw Battle

Today's game was a see-saw affair, with the Spudders twice going ahead a run and then being tied. Wichita Falls counted two in the seventh to lead, 4-2. But the Exporters tallied four in the eighth and drove Cy Smith off the hill. Rusty Cromer then went to the mound and after yielding a triple that counted two runners put on base by Smith, silenced the Exporters thereafter.

Every player on both clubs except the pitchers, and Gordon, who replaced Turgeon, got a hit. The Spudders maced 11 blows and the Exporters 14. The large and new Exporter park prevented the usual large number of home runs that used to be clouted when they played in their bandbox park here formerly. There were, however, three triples and two doubles.

Turgeon, Bennett and Swenson each clouted two hits. Akers was the batting leader of the day with three blows, and Philbin, Hanson, Wiley and Flowers hammered two each to help lead the Exporter attack.

The Spudders settled down defensively following their three errors of the previous day and made only one error.

Spuds Score in Second

The Spudders tallied the first run in the second inning. Swenson singled past short after one was out. Sullivan hit to Riviere, who threw wild to scond, Swenson taking third. Crouch hit to short and Swenson scored in Akers' bobble.

The Exporters tied it in the third, when, with two out, Philbin walked and scored on Huber's double to right.

Wichita Falls took the lead in the fourth with a run. Snyder strolled, went to second and Swenson's sacrifice, third on Sullivan's single and scored on Crouch's fly to Petrie.

Again the Exporters tied it in the fifth. Flowers led off with a single to left and was advanced by Riviere's sacrifice. Snyder to Turgeon. Akers singled to center, scoring Flowers.

The Spudders went in the lead in the seventh, 4-2, with two runs. With two out, Turgeon singled and stole second. Pete twisted his ankle sliding to second and Gordon ran for him. Fitzgerald walked. Bennett tripled to right, scoring Gordon and Fitzgerald.

Exporters Tally Four

Beaumont scored for runs in the eighth and hammered Smith off the hill. Hanson started it with a single to center and went to second on Petrie's hit to left. Burt singled to right, scoring Hanson and advancing Petrie to third. Wiley tripled to left, scoring Petrie and Burt. Cromer replaced Smith. Benton threw out Flowers. Riviere struck out. Akers tripled to center, tallying Wiley.

The Spudders came back in the ninth with a trio of markers to win the old ball game, and they started their rally after the first two batters had been retired. Fitzgerald singled to right and Bennett again delivered, his single past third sending Howard to second. Snyder hit to left, scoring Fitzgerald; Bennett stopping at second. Flowers dropped Swenson's lift, Bennett and Snyder scoring.

Far from the leather-covered paw,

He sees no more swishing gloves,
The upper cut to chin and glim,
The while in foreign lands he loves
To loaf and swim.

His nimble feet will no more dance
Beyond the almost-landed thud;
Gone are the days of old romance,
Of flame and blood.

No more with skilled and stabbing hand
He carves a masterpiece, well wrought;
He strolls along the duller land

Gone is the clamor of the crowd,

Not So Strong

Only a few years ago American tennis stars, headed by Tilden and Johnston, dominated the Davis cup reservation.

Two years ago American homebred golfers crushed the invading British pros at Worcester. Only a short while back foreign fighters were placed in the joke class. The pendulum is beginning to swing. Starting in from behind with a lead to cut away British golfers brought the Ryder cup back home. The Davis cup has been in France for two years. And in arranging a semi-final, for the heavyweight championship it was necessary to go after a German and a Spaniard with only second-rate entries left among the American heavies. The American average is still high enough, but it no longer sweeps the entire landscape. Not by several kilometers to spare.

Changing Ideas

The British idea before this has been to take the event in its stride, without bothering too much about training and practice. This idea held, even on the professional side.

But to ward off the menace of the late American invasion, British golfers went to work with days of practice and rounds of competitive play. And the change brought about victory in place of defeat.

Yet there is something to the old British idea in sport of taking the contest in its stride. We are too much inclined to take our sport too seriously, to overwork it, to make it a grind and a drab undertaking, in place of a recreation and a release from the main job. The main purpose of sport should be recreation, physical development and nerve rejuvenation or rest, especially on the amateur side. As sport with the professional is also his life's work, there should be a wide difference. The pro is paid to get ready to give the best he has to give, and this must include a certain amount of grind and grubbing.

In other words or phrases, sport for the professional should be a business, but when it is also a business for the amateur, then the amateur is a professional.

It has been said that Americans make too much over their professional stars. The same is also true of all other countries. There seems to be a general habit of labeling universal mistakes or faults with the American brand. There is a big difference between giving a man due credit and making him a laurel-rigged hero, which he almost never is.

Yet this calls for sanity and that perhaps is asking too much from any nation at large.

But there happens to be quite as much in the United States as there is in England, France, Italy, Germany or what you will. Germany, for example, gave Max Schemling about the same reception it once gave the Prussian guard.

TEXAS and major league clubs are engaging in their first intersectional play of the 1929 campaign. While it is too early to indulge in "crucial series" stuff, the meetings of northern and southern clubs in the Texas and of eastern and western teams in the National and American are of great importance, and will have vital bearing on the future of the pennant races.

Waco will have its first serious test, and if the Cubs retain near the big lead they now enjoy when this first intersectional play is over, the Cubs must be regarded as distinct flag contenders. Wichita Falls slumped after taking the first game from Houston and dropped the last two of the series to the Buffaloes. Erratic play in all departments caused the Spudder defeats, and they must make a speedy about face if they are to come home a week from today in a respectable place in the standing.

TWO PENNANT contenders of the East are invading the West in the American league. The Athletics were successful on the road last year and Connie Mack's club may be expected to improve its position on this trek, with only the Browns looming as serious threats.

Strength and weakness of the Yankees may be brought out and unless the champions show speedy improvement they will return to the Atlantic seaboard sector in no position to repulse the threat of the Yankees and Browns.

The Browns have waxed fat at the expense of other western clubs, but Dan Howley's young team will have its first test on his home stay. In addition to the Athletics and Yankees, the Red Sox are playing very good ball and the Washington Senators may be expected to strike a winning gait at any time.

THE CUBS lost the 1928 pennant in the East last year and the Pirates also won more than they lost in the East. With Cincinnati completing a very formidable array of western clubs, the eastern teams of the National seem in for rough going.

McGraw's disappointing Giants will have to show better baseball than displayed against nines of their own section and the surprising Braves, if they survive the invasion of the four strong western teams, truly may be held as pennant contenders.

Roguish Eye Lame; Out of the Derby

CHICAGO, May 3. (AP)—John J. Coughlin, Chicago turfman, today definitely withdrew Roguish Eye from the Kentucky Derby. The 3-year-old, one of the favorites for the classic, pulled up lame after working the Derby distance Wednesday. He developed a swelling in his front legs, and although the trouble yielded to treatment, Coughlin decided to take the colt out of training temporarily.

Coughlin will point Roguish Eye for the $50,000 American Derby which will be decided at Washington park, June 15.

Coughlin will depend on Karl Eithel, another outstanding 3-year-old, to carry his colors in the Kentucky classic.

Houston and Dallas Boys in Doubles Finals

AUSTIN, May 3. (AP)—Entrants in the track meet of the annual Texas Interscholastic league meet here ran fairly true to form today but a number of upsets were registered in tennis play.

San Jacinto High school of Houston and Oak Cliff of Dallas will meet in the boys doubles finals tomorrow.

Barr of Oak Cliff will meet Willie Bound of El Paso and James Folbre of Main avenue, San Antonio, will cross racquets with James Adkins of Brady in the singles semi-finals.

A sister team from Eastland or Pharr will win the state girls doubles title. The Platt sisters of Pharr pulled quite an upset by trimming the Abilene team, 6-3, 7-5. Josephine and Virginia Martin of Eastland walloped the Violet Duo, 6-3, 6-2.

Earlyne Silvy of Abilene, went to the finals of the girls singles by beating Gladys Cook of Breckenridge, 8-6, 6-1. Charlotte MacQuiston, 14-year-old miss from North Dallas High school, will meet Annie Ruth Becker of Yorktown in the other semi-finals match.

No track records were equalled or bettered in the preliminaries today but the contestants gave evidence that some may go by the boards tomorrow.

Edward Nesrsta of Flatonia cleared the 11½ foot qualifying mark in the pole vault with plenty to spare. The record is 12 feet.

San Angelo's mile relay team came within two seconds of the record set by Vernon four years ago.

Boxing Dignified Profession, Mr. Tunney Tells G. B. Shaw

James J. Surprises Pals by Boosting Ring Racket—But It's Still Pugilism to Runyon

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, May 3.—Mr. James J. Tunney, formerly Gene, sometime heavyweight champion of the world, lets his shillabers, or boosters, down no little if I read my public prints aright.

He is credited with remarking to Mr. George Bernard Shaw, who seems to be the Mr. Tunney of the writing mob in some respects:

"Real boxing as it is today is a dignified profession, calling for a million in cash for 10 rounds."

Now this statement, if true, scarcely jibes with Mr. Tunney's view of the knocksing game as presented to us by his shills. They have been telling us that Mr. Tunney withdrew from the game because, in his opinion, it is a low, degrading pastime, which he views with abhorrence and wishes no part of in any manner, shape or form.

So, then, if Mr. Tunney is now around singing the praises of his former racket as "a dignified profession," he is giving his pals a slight jar. Also his statement will be something of a surprise to most ardent followers of the knocksing game. I doubt if even my old friend Mr. Three-Fingered Jack Dougherty would wax enthusiastic enough to describe it as "a dignified profession."

G. B. Likes Mr. Tunney

I read that Mr. George Bernard Shaw took a fancy to Mr. Tunney because Mr. Tunney likes money. Mr. Shaw should meet up with some of our other members of the knocksing fraternity. He would just love Mr. Big-Hearted Charley Murray of Buffalo.

It is true that Mr. Tunney views money with some affection. But you can't hate him for that. If, as rumored, he has the first dollar he ever made, it is a tribute to his sagacity. Some of our exponents of what Mr. Tunney terms the dignified profession, haven't got the last dollar they made.

Mr. Tunney never exactly starved at any time in his pursuit of the dignified profession. He got better than preliminary money when he was tipping over the round-heelers that they fed him in the early stages of his career. He had $5,000 to pay Doc Frank Bagley for his contract long before he was even thought of as a championship possibility.

Mr. Tunney's first big purse came from a preliminary bout in 1924 on a milk fund show at the Yankee stadium. He got $25,000 for fighting Erminio Spalla, the Italian, probably the largest fee ever paid a preliminary fighter.

Gibson Has His Joke

The boxing commission made that match. It agreed to a purse of $22,000 for Spalla. The commission thought the bout would help the show. It didn't. The ubiquitous Will Gibson, then managing Mr. Tunney, at first wanted $35,000, explaining to the commission that his man was a great drawing card, and was accustomed to that kind of money.

The commission discourteously sent for a statement of the money paid Mr. Tunney for his most remunerative match at Madison Square garden, which was with Harry Greb, and found that he had received less than half the amount requested by Mr. Gibson.

From that time until he won the title from Dempsey in Philadelphia, Mr. Tunney got comparatively little money. He didn't get much out of the fight with Tom Gibbons, for which Tom received $100,000, and he got less for the fight with M. Georges Carpentier, of France, M. Georges bagging the bulk of the gate. But from the first Dempsey fight, Mr. Tunney got around $200,000, and from the second Dempsey fight almost the million in cash that he speaks of so glibly to Mr. George Bernard Shaw.

You must remember that Mr. Tunney at no time got all the money paid him for his battles, however. The managerial chop had to come out of it, also the expenses, never inconsiderable after he rose to prominence in the dignified profession. But it is probable that Mr. Tunney retired with at least a million dollars of his own, and a million dollars ain't cabbage.

Gene Criticised G. B.

"You are way behind the times in your 'Cashel Byron's profession'," Mr. Tunney is quoted as saying to Mr. Shaw. "You should try to do justice to the art of boxing as it is practiced today. I, for instance, am not a pugilist. I am a boxer, who boxes for money."

"Well, sir," Mr. Shaw replied, "you have a perfect right to criticise me on the score of the art of boxing, but you have no right to criticise me on the art of writing."

Proving that Mr. Shaw wasn't as well acquainted with Mr. Tunney at that moment as he probably is now. By this time Mr. Shaw must realize that Mr. Tunney has the right, or at least that he takes the right, to criticise any little thing that comes along. As a critic, Mr. Tunney is in a class by himself.

I suppose I am just naturally dumb, but I never could get Mr. Tunney's distinction between a pugilist and a boxer. I mean to say he is drawing it a little bit too fine for me.

Some one once told me that a pugilist is a bloke who knocks his opponents ossified, while a boxer is a chappy who just out-gallops the lads. Thus in 35 battles out of a total of 68, Mr. Tunney was a pugilist, while in 33 he was a boxer.

But please don't tell Mr. Tunney I said so.

Tests Scott

Midget Mike Dundee, New York bantam, will meet Howard Scott of Electra, Wednesday night in one of two 10-round bouts at the Palace theater. Dundee is a veteran of the ring and has met numerous leading boxers. He is the most formidable foe ever faced by the popular and classy Howard.

Scott to Face Ring Test Here

Howard Meets Mike Dundee Wednesday Night

The old w. k. acid test will be applied to Howard Scott, Electra featherweight, here Wednesday night. The popular Electra boy, with an unbroken record of victories in Wichita Falls rings, will meet Midget Mike Dundee of New York in one of two 10-round bouts on Alex Ross' weekly card at the Palace theater.

Dundee, a legitimate bantam, fights at about 115 pounds and will concede five pounds to Howard. But Dundee is veteran of several years of boxing, during which time he has met numerous leading bantam and flyweights. He claims to have fought Abe Goldstein, then bantam champion of the world, in 1922 in New York, and lost the decision.

Beat Quina Lee

He recently won a newspaper decision over Quina Lee, one of the best banties of the South. Mike has boxed Kid Pancho twice, winning one and drawing in the other.

Scott's most notable bout here was with Bobby Calmes, the crack Duncan, Okla., boy. They stepped 10 slashing rounds in the best bout that has been staged here for more than a year, and Howard gained a shade. Since that time he has won two or three other mills and ring enthusiasts here have been clamoring to see him with a boy of class. In Dundee, it seems that Scott faces the sort of lad to bring out whatever potential ring greatness the Electra boy has.

Hall Boxes Varner

Cyclone Hall, the Childress middleweight, will return to the ring here to meet Walter Varner of Beard in the final of the two 10-round duels.

Promoter Ross has rounded out his card with two six-rounders, with Rudy Hodge facing Virgil Oden in one and Jack Betts meeting Johnny Owens in the other.

Aurora Races May Be Resumed Today

AURORA, Ill., May 3. (UP)—Prospects that the Aurora spring race meeting might be opened next Saturday appeared brighter today when negotiations between striking horsemen and track officials indicated an agreement would be reached on arbitrary points.

The strikers asked Trimble if he would accept a court order instructing the allotment of one per cent of purses to the Thoroughbred Horse association and the track manager said he would.

It also was reported that Trimble was considering raising the purses, a demand made by the strikers.

Sluggishness

Next to ignorance, sluggishness is probably the most important cause of our troubles and diseases. Nothing is as tiring as laziness. If you wish to have something done, have a busy man do it; a lazy person won't be able to find the time.

The public has become educated to the evils of a sluggish colon. There is no doubt that the toxins resulting from constipation may seriously affect the health. But it is also true that other organs and tissues of the body may be subject to a kind of constipation. For instance, the kidneys may be sluggish and not eliminate properly. Or the liver may be sluggish and produce headaches and biliousness. The gallbladder may be sluggish and result in the formation of gallstones. A sluggish blood and lymphatic circulation will not wash away the waste products of the cells, and this is undoubtedly responsible for many diseases.

A sluggish body usually causes a sluggish mind. The next time you feel mentally inert, just take a few deep breaths and a few vigorous exercises and see how wide awake you become.

Sluggishness is either a result of underwork of exhaustion. A sluggishness of the bowels usually occurs because the bowels have not had sufficient roughage or cellulose to exercise and strengthen the intestinal muscles. A sluggishness of the blood and lymphatic circulation is practically always caused by a lack of regular vigorous exercise. A sluggishness of the internal organs, such as the liver, kidneys and brain is in turn usually caused by a sluggish circulation of the blood. To correct these conditions, it is of the utmost importance that we exercise. Activity means life. We can exercise the bowels by giving them plenty of fruit pulp and fibrous green non-starchy vegetables. We can exercise the body and increase the circulation by games and gymnastics. And we can exercise the brain by giving it mental problems.

One should not allow the brain to stagnate any more than any other part of the body. If you find that your mind is running along in a rut, it is a good plan to seek out new lines of thought, either in literature, history, the arts or politics. Whenever the brain is active in a new thought, it uses an extra supply of blood. This prevents mental stagnation.

To prevent stagnation in any part of the body, it is important to seek all-round developing exercises. An office worker usually develops only a few fingers. He should take special exercises and long walks to develop the rest of his muscles. Even a woodchopper may be over-developed on one side and under-developed on the other unless he learns to alternate with first one hand and then the other.

It is a good plan for each of us to examine ourselves occasionally just as a business man audits his books. If one department of the body or mind is lacking, it can then be given the attention it deserves. A well balanced mind and body will indicate that you are successful in your business of living.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Gland Deficiency

Question—A reader asks: "What would cause lead-colored marks under the eyes, falling hair, beardless face and poor memory and concentration? I am 22 years old and weigh 145 pounds. A number of examinations have disclosed nothing wrong with me."

Answer—The beardless face, falling hair and lack of concentration would be more apt to indicate some deficiency of the thyroid or sexual glands, but only a thorough examination could determine this. The dark coloring under the eyes may be produced by autointoxication or enervation.

Lemon Fast

Question—Anxious asks: "Will you kindly advise me through your columns as to how to take a lemon fast? Since you say that lemons do not dry up the blood, I want to use them for weight reduction, but as you do not state how often and how much to take, I do not know how to go about it."

Answer—Fasting on water and lemon juice is a very simple procedure. All you need to do is to drink whatever water you want, flavoring it with a small amount of lemon juice. It is all right to occasionally add the juice of oranges, limes or grapefruit which sometimes make the water more palatable. If you are overweight you can secure good results through this kind of a fast, and it is usually all right to continue for 10 or 15 days. I have some simple printed instructions for weight reduction which I will be glad to send you if you will write me again, giving your full name and address, which you neglected to do this time.

Wash for Eyes

Question—H. S. G. writes: "For some time I have been bothered with a whitish pus-like substance forming in the corners of my eyes mornings and evenings. What should I use as a wash for them?"

Answer—A boric acid solution is the least harmful antiseptic to use for the eyes. Any druggist will prepare it in the proper solution for you. I would suggest that you also use cold wet compresses over the eyes upon retiring.

WAR RENEWED

Dewalt Field Has Imposing Yield

HOUSTON, May 3. (UP)—Pierce Junction—Houston's back door oil field, was crowded out of the position of being the second largest oil producing field in the coastal belt Thursday by the DeWalt field near Sugarland in Fort Bend county when the Humble Oil and Refining company completed No. 3 Camp at 3500 feet flowing 1100 barrels pipe line oil. This well was the nineteenth producer completed in this field by the Humble and brought production of this structure above 19,000 barrels daily or approximately 1,000 barrels better than Pierce Junction average.

Probably the most interesting feature as well as one of the most remarkable ones in connection with the development of DeWalt structure by Humble lies in the fact that so far 20 wells have been completed with but one failure recorded. This is a record never excelled in coastal development.

Officials Visit Houston Fields

Ogarrio, vice president in charge of production for the Texas corporation.

The party was entertained Thursday noon at a luncheon at Port Arthur, guests of the Gulf Refining company. After a short inspection tour of the Port Arthur refineries they were escorted to Beaumont, later entraining for Houston.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 3. (AP)—Early declines were not only recovered in cotton today, but prices sold well above yesterday's closing quotations on more numerous southern crop complaints which appeared to stimulate covering. There was also a moderate trade and commission house demand. July contracts advanced from 18.51 to 18.86 and closed at 18.77, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 7 to 14 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 4 to 9 points, and the active months sold about 10 to 14 points net lower during the first few minutes under liquidation by some of yesterday's buyers who were evidently disappointed over the failure of the early weather map to show anticipated frosts in the belt. The initial offerings were readily absorbed, and the market soon turned steadier.

Reports that recent weather conditions had necessitated replanting in parts of the belt were accompanied, in some instances, by claims that satisfactory seed was scarce. The latest storms in the eastern belt also seemed to make some impression on sentiment.

The market became decidedly firm with some indications of a broadening trade or commission house demand, as well as covering or rebuying by recent sellers. Prices rallied about 3 points from the lowest on the average with May selling up from 19.25 to 19.59, while December advanced from 18.80 to 19.09, making net gains of about 13 to 23 points on the active positions. Offerings were comparatively light after the early liquidation had been absorbed and the advance of about 50 to 60 points from recent low levels. Closing prices showed reactions 7 or 8 points from the best under realizing.

Liverpool was firm early when sentiment appeared to be influenced by comparatively small offerings and reports of an improved turnover in cotton cloths with sales to India and China. Prices there broke rather sharply just before the local opening, however, on better weather reports than expected.

Port receipts today 6,067 bales. U. S. port stocks 1,334,086 bales. Exports today 17,999, making 7,365,591 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 3. (AP)—Recoveries of from $1 to $1.50 a bale from an early decline followed trade buying and covering in the cotton market today due to numerous reports of crop damage by high winds and low temperatures in various sections of the belt. July the most active position, advanced from 18.47 to 18.78 and closed at 18.76 for a net gain of 13 points. The general market closed steady at net advances of 8 to 15 points.

Liverpool cables were disappointing and first trades here showed declines of 8 to 11 points in sympathy. July sold down to 18.47, October 18.55 and December 18.66, or 14 to 16 points below the previous close.

Later all the loss was recovered on trade buying and covering. The subsequent advance carried July to 18.78, October 18.82 and December 18.93, or 27 to 31 points above the lows.

There was some realizing at the end and final prices were 2 to 5 points under the best, with October at 18.77 and December 18.91.

NEW YORK, May 3. (AP)—Cotton gray goods markets continued quiet today. Burlaps were unchanged to a shade lower. Raw silk at its new lower levels is attracting more inquiry but actual sales are limited.

Stock Market Advances Further Despite Week End Money Scare

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 3. (US)—Further advance was scored in a more active stock market today despite the usual week-end tightening in money. The call rate was pushed up from 10 to 11 per cent. The increase caused little worry, however, as it was generally looked upon as following the usual week-end practice of bankers, as the higher charge brings revenue for three days.

Specialties again featured the advance with American Can gaining over 6, Electric Auto Lite 4½, General Electric 3⅛, Consolidated Gas 4⅜, Western Union 6⅜, and Commonwealth Power 8⅛. General Motors, Steel and most of the other standard industrials held to a very narrow price range.

Oils broke out of the doldrums and moved forward under leadership of Pan American petroleum. Standard of New Jersey gained over a point in an active turnover. Rails and coppers were quiet and slightly irregular. The turnover increased to more than 4,500,000 shares.

American Can and Electric Auto Lite continue to stand out due to the operations of strong interests who are among the best informed as to the affairs of both companies. They look for Can to smash all previous records in earnings for the current year. Their original position in the stock was taken at such a low level that they are not interested in the day to day fluctuations and continue to add to their holdings. When the full story of Electric Auto Lite is told it will make one of the most interesting stock market romances in history.

It will be remembered that the favorable prospects of the company were first told of here when the old stock was selling in the 80's. Record earnings this year will be added to by big income from other sources. The total net will surpass all estimates and seems bound to result in another split up of the shares.

There are important developments going on in connection with Willys Overland which are likely to be reflected in the action of the stock before long. It would be no surprise if a substantial stock holding was to change hands within the next few days. If the deal planned is consummated, market judges believe, it will warrant Willys selling more in line with other motor shares. The sudden jump in General Electric reflected the belief that the shares would be split up again. Income for the current quarter, it is claimed, will establish a new peak. The new group in radio continues aggressive operations. Not alone is their work helped by reports of substantial gain in income this quarter, but there is a good-sized short interest caught in the stock.

Further buying of Savage Arms was credited to the account of mid-western interests. Announcement is looked for from the company next week that will indicate further increase in revenues. Postum continued to be well taken as new properties to be acquired will mean larger earnings and eventual better treatment for stockholders. Postum will bear another name, bankers declare, when the merger being negotiated is consummated.

Allis Chalmers broke into new high territory, representing a gain of well over 100 points since the high grade investment buying therein was first told of in this column. With no bonds nor preferred, the Allis common stockholders should benefit more and more from increasing earnings.

Continental baking showed showed more interest in their stock as they look for steady betterment in the affairs of the company during coming months. United corporation continued its steady climb with plans for making important affiliations nearing completion.

Oils showed belated prominence. Buying was induced by Washington advices indicating material progress toward real stabilization and also by rumors of coming mergers and favorable dividend actions.

Pan American and Skelly were the favorites of the most active interests in the market at the moment. The former is expected to take an important role in a merger plan in the near future. Skelly buying reflects knowledge of increasing earnings and also of plans for acquisition of properties that will add to income.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, May 3. (AP)—Quality generally lacking in the light supply of cattle and calves offered here today.

The supply of bulls was very light and a few of the better bulls sold at $8.50 and up; one good young bull around 1,400 pounds sold at $9.75. Common light bulls around $7.00 and $7.50.

Cows made up a good portion of the mixed loads of cattle and sales were slow and draggy with values weak to 25c lower; very few cows on hand to sell above $8.00, while the bulk of the canners and cutters sold at $5.00@6.00; with occasional bids under the $5.00 level.

Slaughter yearlings and heifers represented by one straight load that sold at $14.00 while package lots sold at $11.50 and $12.50.

Slaughter calves showed further strength. Carlots sold at $12.00 for heavy Brahma calves, while veal sorts sold up to $13.00. Bulk of culls at $8.00 and $8.50. Friday's advance brings calves back to about the same level as before Monday's decline. Stocker cattle found about steady values in effect.

Early sales in the sheep yards about steady with Wednesday's decline, shorn fat wethers at $8.00@9.00.

A very light supply of hogs arrived and values were steady to 10 cents higher in the truck division with best butchers at $10.10. No early bids in the rail section.

MID-WESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, May 3. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Opening hog trade around the 11 market circuit was at firm to 25c higher prices, but demand weakened as trade progressed and closing values at several markets were 10@25c lower than Thursday. Chicago had an early top of $11.80. Total offerings were around 59,700 as compared with 65,183 a week ago and 48,295 the corresponding day last year.

A curtailed sheep supply stimulated demand for fat lambs at several markets with prices steady to 25c higher. Aged stock, however, continued to slip toward lower levels, some centers reporting losses of 25@50c. Good to choice California springers in Chicago cleared at $17.75 while best fed wooled lambs at Omaha and St. Joseph made $15.50. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 30,100 a shortage of 18,700 from last Friday and 3,500 more than a year ago.

The cattle supply approximated 9,000 against 13,841 a week ago and 14,742 a year ago. Trade was generally a clean-up affair with no material price changes registered. Chicago realized $14.50 on a load of choice 1,341 pound fed steers. Supplies this week uncovered a few scattered shipments of grass steers and calves from South Texas. Grass she stock is expected to start moving in limited numbers in the next few weeks. Demand for stockers and feeder steers eased off to a slight extent this week but prices on thin light weight stockers are still relatively high.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW

NEW YORK, May 3. (AP)—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Earlier reported gains in retail and jobbing trade over a year ago have been shaded, and crop work and planting of corn, spring wheat and oats have been retarded by the continuance of rainy weather, in some instances of snow, in wide areas east and west of the Mississippi.

Comparisons of the volume of April trade with a year ago are rendered more than ordinarily difficult by the fact that rural trade has been more affected than has city business by the weather's effects on roads.

Among the industries, steel manufacturing and kindred lines still hold first place, with indications that current buying and shipment point to little or no reduction in the backlogs of unfilled orders.

Weekly bank clearing $13,005,238,000, a decrease of 7.5 per cent from a year ago.

CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, May 3. (AP)—Cotton today opened a shade lower, and then sold off a few points further on forecast of better weather over the belt. Contracts soon became scarce, however, and prices turned and advanced gradually on trade buying. The close was steady 5 to 14 points net higher. First prices were 2 to 6 points down.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, May 3. (AP)—A spotty business is being transacted in territory grade wools. An occasional sale of 64s and finer strictly combing wool of this grade is being closed at prices in the range of $1.00 to $1.04 scoured basis. Graded French combing moved slowly at 97c to $1.00, scoured basis.

Strictly combing 56-60 wools selling at 98c to $1.00, scoured basis. Choice Montant wool has realized a shade above this range. The market on the lower grades is dull.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW
By JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor

CHICAGO, May 3. (AP)—Despite transient upturns, wheat developed pronounced weakness today, especially after news came that Canadian railroads would equal or outdo United States cuts in export rates. Another bearish influence was the fact that export demand today for North American wheat was scant.

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, ⅜ to 1⅛c net lower. Corn finished ⅛ to ⅜c down, oats ⅛ to ⅜@⅜c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 12c.

Wheat prices closed at virtually the day's bottom level. At the outset, the market trend was upward and there was considerable buying based on announcement that eastern rail rates on wheat for export from the United States would be substantially reduced. This announcement, nevertheless, was construed in some quarters as bearish, and the market soon gave way under active selling from influential sources.

Continued large deliveries of wheat on Chicago May contracts, 2,067,000 bushels today, acted also as a handicap to friends of higher prices. Near the end of the day wheat values turned downgrade in earnest. This happened when word was received that the president of one Canadian road had intimated Canadian roads would promptly meet any cut in rates by United States lines, and would possibly go further in reducing rates to Canadian Atlantic ports. Little support for wheat prices was in evidence thereafter.

Corn and other grain followed wheat values downward. Furthermore, deliveries on Chicago May corn contracts today were liberal, 790,000 bushels. Cash demand here, though, for corn was good and weather conditions for corn planting were mostly unfavorable.

Demand for provisions was slow despite an upturn in hog values.

Announcement of a three-days trade trip to be taken by members of the Wichita Falls chambers of commerce into the South Plains section on May 21, 22 and 23 was made by Hubert M. Harrison, general manager, at the weekly membership luncheon of the Junior chamber of commerce Friday noon at the Kemp hotel.

100 Fares Necessary

The trade special train will be composed entirely of Pullman cars and one baggage car for the carrying of souvenirs. It was stated that 100 paid fares will be required to charter the special train. Local business men signing for the trip will draw for places in the sleepers at 3 p. m. on May 20, it was stated. The per capita rate will be $38.50.

Cities to be visited by the trade delegation will include Vernon, Chillicothe, Quanah, Childress, Memphis, Estelline, Quitaque, Floydada, Plainview, Lubbock, Paducah and others in that section of the state.

A special committee of the manufacturers and jobbers division of the chamber of commerce, headed by L. H. The chamber of commerce band will accompany the party and will present concerts in each of the cities visited. Mr. Harrison expects to leave Tuesday morning, May 7, for an advance trip through the territory to be covered by the special train two weeks later.

PASTOR RAPS 'BROKEN HOMES'

Many Sins of Youth Blamed On Parents

"There is no doubt but what some of our young folks in this world are going to hell as fast as they can," Rev. Patrick Dacus Moreland told his congregation at the Grant Street Methodist church as the second week of the revival he is holding closed Friday night. The meeting will be continued through next week.

"However, you cannot generalize about people," Rev. Moreland said. "As a matter of fact, this generation is no smarter nor more ignorant than other preceding generations. There will always be men who prefer to live in pig pens as there always have been.

"These girls and boys who drink out of the same bottle and loll in each other's arms usually have fathers who never read the Bible aloud or hold family prayer.

"Many of these young folks came from broken homes. My friends, we have drifted as far back as Moses in the mode of breaking homes. If you will go to the juvenile courts or the house of correction for girls, you will find that the great majority of them came from broken homes.

"If there is one thing that threatens this great American nation it is the undermining of the sanctity of the home, the same thing that caused to fall the high walls of the City of Rome.

"Most of our picture shows are based on the eternal triangle and physical love; the radio plays sex songs and stage comedians get their biggest laughs from smutty, unclean stories.

"I think the saddest thing we see today is the young boy or girl who has already burned out all emotional force and is comparable to an old man or woman in spirit and life."

Another of the scintillating stars of legitimate stage sensations of recent years comes to Wichita Falls this week through talking-pictures in the person of Jeanne Eagels, who heads the cast of "The Letter," at the Majestic.

Miss Eagels has at least two separate claims to fame. Her portrayal of Saddie Thompson in "Rain," which enjoyed a tremendous run, made the play and made the actress. Later she became the wife of Ted Coy, considered to have been the greatest battering-ram fullback that ever wore the Blue of Yale.

The story in which she is playing here now also was written by W. Somerset Maugham, the author of "Rain." In "The Letter," the British India of Rudyard Kipling replaces the alluring atmosphere of the southern Pacific islands against which the realistic Sadie lived her crucial week.

An excursion through the lion-infested jungles of Africa, the scenes and action of which have been credited generally with complete authenticity, opens at the Strand Saturday in "Simba," the sound-picture presenting the four-year hunting expedition of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson.

Free Entry of Diplomats Into U. S. Considered

WASHINGTON, May 3. (INS)—An investigation of the subject of "Freedom of the Port" under which diplomats and certain officials may enter the country without payment of duty on baggage was ordered today by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman.

The study will embrace both the subject of the legality of according "free entry" privileges and to determine whether this courtesy has been abused by American officials returning from abroad.

Watch Dogs Make Poor Guard; Thief Steals 'Em

WASHINGTON, May 3. (AP)—For some time, Robert Hershon, local auto scrapping yard proprietor, has maintained a guard of two strapping police dogs at night over his establishment to forestall thievery. Arriving to open business today he discovered that during his absence thieves had departed not only with $390 worth of his property, but with his brace of canine sentries valued at $500.

APPEAL FILED FOR HOOBLER

Man Under Death Sentence Confident of Outcome

The first step in the new trial appeal being brought for D. J. Hoobler, sentenced to death for the murder of Arthur Pendergraft near here last January, was completed Friday with the mailing of a transcript of the records of the trial to the court of criminal appeals at Austin. The records were mailed by Miss Eunice Jackson, district clerk.

Many Exceptions

Attorneys for Hoobler are completing briefs of the case, in which they will argue that the trial court erred in admitting certain testimony, that the evidence was insufficient, and that the full rights of the defendant were not protected in the court's charge to the jury. The defense was given 90 days in which to perfect its appeal at the time of the conviction in the eighty-ninth district court in March. In an amended motion heard before Judge P. A. Martin a few days after the trial, defense attorneys attempted to show that members of the jury had been disqualified for service. Judge Martin overruled the motion, and an exception to his ruling was added to the numerous exceptions already offered by the defense through the trial.

The condemned man, visited in his cell Friday, showed no ill effects from his three months' confinement. He has gained several pounds, he declared, during the month which has elapsed since the death sentence was imposed.

"Not Worrying"

"I'm not worrying" he repeated. "I'm innocent and I know there will be some way out. I guess I'm gaining weight for lack of exercise, because I was used to so much outside work." Hoobler was formerly foreman of the Pendergraft farm near Walters, Okla.

He made no complaint of the confinement Friday, explaining that he spent much time in reading the Bible, in walking in the runway of the jail, and in conversation with his cell mates, and that his health and spirits are unimpaired.

Hoobler was charged with murder last January after he led officers to a place near Lake Wichita where the body of Mr. Pendergraft was found. The prisoner said he had shot his employer 10 days before in self-defense in the course of a quarrel which took place on the Henrietta road in Wichita county.

Special Sales and Country Club Frolic on C.-C. Program Today

Special Appreciation Week sales at numerous mercantile establishments of the city and a frolic and dance at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club at 9 p. m. will feature "Merchants' Day," as Saturday has been designated by the Junior chamber of commerce, according to officials of the organization.

It was said that special offerings and favors would be provided by different dealers to Saturday patrons, marking the seventh day of the period of community appreciation inaugurated one week ago.

Program at Country Club

All members of both chambers of commerce and their friends have been invited to attend a soiree scheduled to begin at 9 o'clock Saturday night at the Country club. Music for dancing will be furnished by Ralph Brown's orchestra, it was announced. Special dancing numbers will be given by Misses Virginia Hampson and Helen Peters, and Maurice Wray, KGKO blues singer, is on the program for a group of songs.

Friday was "Cultural and Recreational Day," and the various programs carried throughout the afternoon and evening listed hundreds of persons as participants. Beginning Friday morning, large numbers of women were present at the Woman's Forum to view the extensive display of art work exhibited by local painters and sculptors, and by the art department of the public schools.

The open golf tournament announced for the Municipal golf links got under way with more than 15 entries Friday afternoon. Qualifying rounds also will be played on Saturday and Sunday, after which day the surviving players will be matched in an elimination series by Phil Hessler, Weeks park professional. Low score Friday was made by Tommy Cochran, who turned in a 78, with I. R. Sheldon in runner-up position only one stroke behind Cochran's figure. Charles Kiersey with a 81, and K. Haley, 92, were the two next in rank among those qualifying Friday.

Polo Game

At Call field, the Junior chamber of Commerce polo team, consisting of Bill McKemie, John Barnard, Hubert Stringer, Walter Nelson Jr. and Jack Story, gained an 8 to 7 decision over the senior organization, represented by John Fastnow, Cecil Wilfong, Dr. J. H. Fletcher and Charlie Featherstone. The game was closely contested, but the heavy dust which arose from the dry field imposed a heavy handicap on the participants.

Juveniles of the city were given an athletic carnival at Bellevue park late in the afternoon, with a host of attractive prizes given by various local business establishments awarded to successful competitors.

The meet for boys was held at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, under the supervision of Frank B. Creighton, scout executive, assisted by scouts of the city. The block on Broad street between Eighth and Ninth streets was roped for a field, and scores of youngsters participated in a varied program of athletic stunts.

Contests for girls were staged at 7 o'clock. A large crowd of boys and girls was entertained with songs by the Camp Fire girls and Girl Reserves. The children's events at Bellevue park were arranged by H. V. Kirk, representing the Junior chamber of commerce.

Lawn Sprinkler Firm Chartered

The Lawn Sprinkler corporation was granted a charter and incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000 by James E. McKanna, W. M. Nichols and Roy B. McKanna of Wichita Falls Friday at Austin, according to Associated Press dispatches received here Friday night.

The firm is located at 907 Fillmore street here with J. E. McKanna as president, Mr. Nichols as vice president and R. B. McKanna as vice president and general manager.

The corporation has the rights of distribution in Texas and Oklahoma of a special lawn sprinkler which is inserted as units into lawn or garden hose.

As explained by J. E. McKanna, the sprinkler distributes water in a manner similar to an underground system except that it is inserted in the hose on the outside of the ground. Six of the sprinklers can be inserted into 50 feet of hose thus giving out as many streams of water from one line of common garden hose, Mr. McKanna said.

The firm here deals both in wholesale and retail distribution of the product, and has met with quite a widespread sale since opening here, Mr. McKanna said.

Petition Signers, Asked to 'Think'

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 3. (UP)—Citizens quick to sign an investigation petition were asked to look before they leap by J. Berry King, first assistant attorney general.

King had just received a letter by a petitioner asking his name to be withdrawn as he had learned after he signed the petition the facts did not justify the investigation.

"This is only one case of many," King said. "We rarely receive investigation petitions without some petitioner asking for his name to be withdrawn. Persons signing petitions should be careful as we accept these petitions as an expression of the citizens signed. Investigations are expensive and should only be started where conditions justify."

TWENTY YEARS OF TROUBLES YIELDED UNDER NEW SARGON

"I was in poor health for twenty years and during that entire time have never found any medicine that helped me so much as Sargon. I want other sufferers to know about this wonderful treatment.

MRS. MAMIE ROBERTSON

"Twelve years ago I had an operation and had my gall bladder removed. I thought I would enjoy good health again after that, but I didn't. I could not enjoy my meals for I knew just as sure as I ate anything I was going to have awful pains from my food fermenting, and from gas. I tried dieting and that did no good.

"I became weak and nervous and didn't feel like doing my house work, or even coming to town. I suffered from chronic constipation and had such severe headaches it seemed like my head would split sometimes. I had bad dizzy spells too.

"I have improved every day since I began taking Sargon. I can enjoy my meals now, and never have indigestion or gas pains. I have been so wonderfully strengthened that my housework don't tire me in the least. Sargon Soft Mass Pills have overcome my constipation and I do not have headaches and bilious spells now. It's a wonderful treatment."

The above statement was made by Mrs. Mamie Robertson, a resident of Dallas for thirteen years, and a woman of education and refinement. She lives at 1002 South St. Paul street.

Sargon may be obtained in Wichita Falls from the Renfro Drug Co., Eighth and Scott streets, No. 1 main store, and Seventh and Indiana, No. 2; in Electra from Lough's Drug store; and in Burkburnett from Burkburnett Pharmacy.—Adv.

Constabulary's Aid Enlisted to Help Lindy and Anne Keep Their Secret

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., May 4. (US)—Colonel Lindbergh and his fiancee sought the aid of the police today in order to keep the plans of their wedding an absolute secret.

So intent is the colonel and his lady at not letting the vestige of a whisper about the coming nuptials getting the slightest note of publicity that they ordered detectives to surround the Dwight Morrow estate here. Reporters and cameramen were routed half a mile down the road, there to stand in the rain and query every passing automobile.

Only once did Miss Anne Morrow, Lindbergh's betrothed, emerge from the seclusion of her father's house. This was at noon when she and her sister, Elizabeth, appeared down the driveway in a motorcar averaging 60 miles an hour, scattering reporters and camera folks right and left. The newspaper folk followed in another car but lost the Morrow girls.

An employe on the Morrow estate intimated that the wedding would probably take place in June in the Englewood home.

Among the rumors flying about here is one to the effect that Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of the famous flyer, is en route from Detroit to visit the Morrows.

Rural Teachers Elect C. R. Wofford President at Year's Last Institute

C. R. Wofford, present principal of the Clara schools and newly elected superintendent of the Valley View schools for next year, was made president of the Wichita County Teachers association at the final institute of the year at Iowa Park Friday night. Mr. Wofford will succeed J. A. McDonald, present juvenile officer.

D. P. Love, superintendent at Clara, was named vice president, and Miss Gertrude Nichols of Valley View, secretary and treasurer.

Dr. H. J. P. Vitz, professor of industrial education in the Texas State Teachers college at Denton, addressed the final gathering of the teachers for the year. He took "The Aims of Education as his subject, developing under other heads a discussion of the function of the teacher as a leader and a guide to the student in an ideal relationship.

Burl Bryant, county superintendent, presided over the business session of the institute. He urged the prompt completion of yearly reports and expressed his pleasure at the fact that a large percentage of the teaching staff will be back on the county schools next year.
