School Health, Aid Proposals Are Approved

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 18 — A Senate committee recommended today that the government grant $300,000,000 a year to help the states run schools and another $35,000,000 to check up on school children's health.

The twin bills were approved by the Senate Labor and Public Welfare committee.

Early Senate action on both measures was in prospect, although the school aid bill is expected to run into some opposition in the House where a similar plan wound up in a committee pigeonhole last year.

The education measure is designed to equalize school opportunities in the states.

Grants Would Vary

The government would provide grants varying in amount, depending on the state's average annual income and the number of its school children. Thus the poorer states would receive more than the richer ones and each state would have to make up the difference to provide a minimum outlay of $55 a year for each pupil.

The committee bill leaves it up to the individual states to decide whether or not to use the federal grants for help to parochial schools.

The health measure, however, requires that aid be extended to all school children. To qualify for the federal allotment, the states would have to contribute sums ranging from 25 to 50 cents of the government's grant.

Science Foundation Okayed

For the most part, the health services to be financed would consist of medical and dental examinations.

Committee members estimated that with minimum state contributions, the total available for the health program would amount to $60,000,000 a year.

The Senate meanwhile approved legislation to create a 24-member national science foundation to be headed by a director selected by the President. Mr. Truman vetoed a similar bill last year because it left appointment of the director up to the foundation members.

The aim of the new group would be to develop a national policy for promoting basic research and scientific education to further the country's welfare and security. It would be empowered to make grants and loans for scholarships and special research projects.

Attendance Sets Record At Session

Teachers Convention Concluded In City

By ELLEN MILLER
Avalanche Staff Writer

AN overwhelming majority of all teachers in the 27-county area of the West Texas Teachers association was in Lubbock Friday to attend the 14th annual WTTA convention, hearing talks by outstanding educators and laymen, and attending discussion groups for specific branches of teaching and school administration.

More than 2,200 of an estimated 2,770 teachers in the district were here, making this year's convention the largest in the association's history. The convention was concluded with last night's session.

Clarence Whiteside of Lubbock, William B. Deaderick of Odessa and Delbert Downing of Midland, all laymen, were featured speakers at the first general session Friday morning. Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president of Texas Technological college, was principal speaker at the afternoon session. Main address at the night session was by the president of one of the first teacher-training institutions in America, Dr. Henry H. Hill of George Peabody college, Nashville, Tenn.

Also appearing on last night's third general session was Joe C. Humphrey, of Abilene, president of the Texas State Teachers association.

Official Backs Bill

"The Texas school system could be boosted from its present place of about thirty-second among the 48 states to a position among the top 10 in the nation, if the Legislature enacts the proposed Gilmer-Aikin bill now before the House of Representatives," Humphrey told the assemblage of approximately 1,000 persons at last night's meeting.

Humphrey explained that the bill would provide $60,000,000 annually for the schools from the same fund that provides money for old age pensions, the needy blind, teacher retirement and rehabilitation of juvenile delinquents. He said the bill would insure financial security for the schools in bad times as well as good.

In connection with the section of the bill proposing to make the office of state school superintendent appointive instead of elective, Humphrey said that method worked better on the local level and would doubtless work better on the state level. He explained that the bill would unify some 11 state agencies now concerned with education into one central agency, making possible more efficient administration. He strongly urged WTTA members to write their legislators, asking enactment of the bill.

Dr. Hill Gives Pointers

Tracing development of the bill from its beginnings, he stated that schools in nearly every county in the state had cooperated in making suggestions to the Gilmer-Aikin committee, whose report was used as a basis for the legislation.

Discussing artistry in the classroom, Dr. Hill said that teaching is both a science and an art, but that of the two, artistry is more difficult and more important.

He said that certain people have inborn characteristics, helpful to them in teaching, but listed five methods by which teachers may improve their ability.

He suggested that teachers learn the science of teaching, cultivate

Creation Of Vast Radar Network Is Okayed By Senate

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 18 Creation of a sky-sweeping radar network as the basic element in the United States' defense against enemy planes was approved by the Senate today without debate.

The House previously had approved the measure so it now goes to President Truman for his expected signature.

Final cost of the U. S. network is estimated at $161,000,000.

Starting expenditures will be held at $85,000,000.

The U. S. network will be operated in conjunction with a similar one in Canada so that the polar approaches to the North American continent, as well as other areas, can be closely watched.

Besides the land based sky scanning stations, there will be four radar picket ships. They will be stationed at sea approaches near vital targets.

The Senate Armed Forces committee emphasized in a report that the system of radar stations does not in itself constitute the nation's defense against air attacks.

Acheson Meets With Senate Group To Discuss China Situation

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson met behind closed doors with the Senate Foreign Relations committee today to discuss the situation in China.

A majority of the senators have indorsed a bill introduced by Senator McCarran (D-Nev) to extend $1,500,000,000 in aid to the Nationalist Chinese government.

The committee, in announcing that Acheson would meet with it, said discussions also would deal with reorganization of the State department and a resolution condemning the trial in Hungary of Cardinal Mindezenty.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) told reporters the $1,500,000,000 aid program for the Nationalist government was discussed. No action was taken.

Lyndon Johnson Enters Naval Hospital With Kidney Ailment

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—Senator Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) entered Bethesda naval hospital today for treatment of a kidney ailment.

Aides of the senator said his condition is not serious. Physicians advised him to spend several days in the hospital for examination and treatment.

A similar ailment caused Senator Johnson to enter a Rochester, Minnesota, clinic last summer. He was forced to interrupt his senatorial campaign briefly then.

Two Car Thefts Reported Here

Two automobile thefts and several less serious offenses occupied the attention of law enforcement authorities Friday.

Aubra Cromer of 517 Broadway said that his 1939 Plymouth coupe, bearing 1948 Texas license AP 7349, had been taken from his home, and a 1948 Texas license JX 6377, was reported stolen from H. Pridgett of route 6 from the vicinity of the VFW center.

A 63-year-old Lubbock man, D. C. Officer of 1104 Ave. L, was fined $50 in corporation court after he pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a billfold containing less than $5.

Billfold Was Dropped

The billfold was dropped on a downtown street. The man was standing nearby, reports showed, and was seen by two witnesses when he picked up the fallen article. The suspect, however, told the woman he had not seen the billfold. It was later found in his quarters by police.

Ella Harris, a negro woman, pleaded guilty Friday to assault and battery upon the person of Mattie Wright, another negro woman, and was fined $5 and county court costs.

Earlier, Mattie Wright had posted $400 bond on a plea of innocent of aggravated assault upon Ella Harris by throwing lye water in her face, officials said.

Sheriff John Stotts of Matador accepted custody here Friday aft-

U.S. Aid Declared 'Certain' If Western Europe Attacked

North Atlantic Pact Unveiled

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 18—The Atlantic powers unveiled their security treaty today, disclosing a hair-trigger defense clause which would set off American action to block any foreign conquest of western Europe.

The disclosure was the latest in a series of moves to put Soviet Russia on notice that it should expect quick United States retaliation if it seeks to expand into western Europe through the use of armed force.

Secretary of State Acheson said that under the "armed attack" clause the United States would be obligated to use its military power in resisting an attack on an allied nation—if in the "honest judgment" of this government armed force appeared necessary.

"Isolationism" Gone

Moreover, Acheson opened up a whole new range of possibilities by telling a news conference that he thought the "armed attack" clause might very well apply to revolutions resulting from Communist internal aggression.

He also told questioning reporters that an attack on an American or other allied plane in the Berlin airlift over Russian territory certainly would be cause for action by the treaty powers.

The 1,000-word 20-year agreement, containing only 14 sharply written articles, was reevaled here and abroad simultaneously at 10 a. m. CST.

It was the result of eight months of intensive negotiation during which many officials believe the last threads of what has been known as "American isolationism" gradually were shorn from this nation's foreign policy.

Historic Point Reached

Clearly Acheson and other State department officials feel that a historic and critical turning point in American relations with Europe has been reached. And there seems to be no lack of confidence that the administration's policies in this instance would be supported by the Senate when the treaty is submitted for ratification.

The document is to be signed in Washington about April 4 by the original Atlantic powers which started the treaty negotiations

Buildings Ready For Stock Show

Only the finishing touches remain to be applied at the Fairgrounds today for the opening Monday of the three-day 16th annual South Plains Junior Fat Stock show.

Show officials were unanimous and enthusiastic in their prediction that it will be the oustanding event of its kind ever staged in this part of the Southwest.

First arrivals of 4-H club and FFA boys were expected during the forenoon today with the calves, pigs and sheep to be placed in competition for the approximately $5,000 in prizes and premiums awaiting them.

Sherrill Heads Show

George Bond, assistant manager of the chamber of commerce and secretary of the show, said boys should report to the fairgrounds as they arrive.

Departmental superintendents have been requested to be on the grounds not later than noon to receive the entries.

Dave Sherrill, Lubbock county farm agent, is general superintendent. Departmental superintendents are W. G. Griffin, Tahoka, calves; J. K. Adams, Muleshoe, pigs, and Ollie Liner, Farwell, lambs.

Decorations Put Up

A Junior chamber of commerce committee headed by Rufus Rush spent most of Friday decorating the interior of the exhibit buildings with flags and bunting. Long-time observers agreed the structures present the most attractive appearance in the history of the shows.

Bond announced that a final tabulation of entries Friday showed 624 animals on the competitive list, including 378 pigs, 180 calves and 66 lambs. All the figures are record-breaking.

Most of the arrivals will reach Lubbock Sunday. All must be on

President Holds Out Olive Branch To Rebellious Solons

HST Still Confident Congress Will Pass 'Fair Deal' Program

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Associated Press Staff Writer

KEY WEST, Fla., March 18 — President Truman held out an olive branch today to a Congress in revolt against much of his program.

He referred to southern opponents as Dixiecrats and said they were not good Democrats. But even for this group he held out some hope. And, after deliberation, he professed the conviction his "fair deal" proposals will win final approval despite a series of reversals.

He put it this way: I think we are going to accomplish the program.

Three Parties Cited

Mr. Truman, meeting correspondents on the tree-shaded lawn of his winter White House on this Naval submarine station, did not pretend he was happy about the filibuster, the House-passed "local option" rent control bill, or the tabling of Mon C. Wallgren's nomination as chairman of the National Security Resources board.

But he wasn't ready for an all-out fight yet. That much was made clear.

The President said his legislation was in the hands of a three-party Congress. He identified the parties as Republican, Democrat and Dixiecrat. Asked if he thought Dixiecrats were not good Democrats, he didn't hesitate. Of course, they are not, Mr. Truman asserted.

Holds Out Hope

He was asked what happened to the Progressive party and replied that Bob La Follette buried it. Mr. Truman did not mention the name of former Vice President Henry A. Wallace, who led a Progressive party during the last campaign.

He said the three-party system was in effect in the election campaign.

"There was some hope that some of them (party opponents) might have seen the light immediately after the election," a radio commentator suggested.

Mr. Truman said he still has that hope.

Tour Not Definite

He's going to talk over things with Vice President Barkley, Senate majority leader Lucas, Speaker Rayburn and House majority leader McCormack Monday. And he probally will confer with his cabinet that same day, he said. He returns to Washington tomorrow.

Has he decided when he will board his old campaign train and carry his case to the people as he threatened to do in his Feb. 24 address to Washington's Jefferson-Jackson day dinner?

No details have been worked out, he said, adding that the reporters would be notified in plenty of time to pack their bags.

Did he still see hope for passage of civil rights legislation this session? He said the matter had not reached a conclusion.

Had he received a suggestion from party leaders that he call Congress back into special session in the summer to try for anti-lynching, anti-poll tax and other anti-discrimination measures.

He hadn't heard the suggestion, but it is too early to think of a special session when the regular session is just getting started.

The President said he fully approved the North Atlantic pact, that he had read it and the speech Secretary of State Acheson was scheduled to deliver tonight.

He plans to have lunch or dinner with former Prime Minister Churchill in Washington when the latter visits this country, but the meeting hasn't been arranged yet and he doesn't know the date.

As for the actions of Congress, he can only advise what is good for the country and Congress agrees as it sees fit. He reminded the newspapermen that Congress is one branch of the government and he thought no one of the three branches — executive, legislative and judicial — ought to interfere with the duties of the other two.

Three Injured Here In Traffic Mishaps

Three persons, two of them pedestrians, were treated at local hospitals Friday after being involved in automobile mishaps.

Ronnie Lowe, about 10, of 2219 Ave. H, was treated at West Texas hospital for a broken collar bone after he walked into the side of a car driven by J. A. Harrell, jr., of 3206 Thirty-third. Harrell rushed the boy to the hospital from 2200-block Ave. H where the accident occurred.

Another pedestrian, Alta Marie Lott, 15, of 713 Third, ran into the left front fender of a car driven by Homer Laden Sheafs of Box 825, Lubbock. The girl, according to police reports, had just stepped from a city bus and started to cross Ave. H near its intersection with Thirty-fourth street when the mishap occurred. She was treated at Lubbock Memorial hospital for a bruised right shoulder.

Wren Alexander, 19, of 2311 Fifteenth, suffered a small cut on the knee when the Jeep in which he was a passenger was in collision with another vehicle about 5 p.m. at Ave. X and Ellwood street, police said.

Senate Faces Urgent Work After 18 Days Of Strife

By ROSE McKEE
INS Staff Corresponent

WASHINGTON, March 18—The Senate, torn by 18 days of strife, got back to urgent legislation today and Democratic leaders predicted the anti-Truman coalition would not dominate action on the President's program.

The Senate made its first order of business the extension of rent controls which expire 13 days hence, and scheduled action for Monday.

A number of senators met the leadership claim that the coalition will dissolve with assertions that co-operation between so-called conservatives of both parties will continue as a result of the battle which culminated Thursday night with adoption of a gag rule change fought by the administration.

Demo Leadership Hit

Sen. Wherry, Republican leader, said the line-up on future votes may differ but that the "end result will be the same" and a majority of "like-minded" senators will hold the balance of power. He declared:

"The Democratic leadership is bankrupt from top to bottom."

In Florida, Mr. Truman told a news conference he was confident that despite opposition by a three-party combine he expects most of his legislative program to be approved.

Sen. Knowland (R-Calif), told the Senate that no GOP-southern Democrat "deal" such as blocked action on filibuster curbs will be made on other legislation.

Criticism Answered

Knowland declared that proof of his statement would be forthcoming in votes on important issues due to come before the Senate, including the North Atlantic pact, housing, labor, and other measures.

The Californian's assertion was made in reply to a speech by Sen. Morse (R-Ore), criticising Republican policy in general and the GOP-Dixie coalition in particular.

Morse had told reporters that he believed there was an "un-

Honesty Still Best Policy Speed Law Violator Learns

A speed violator, stopped in downtown Tyler today, told officers J. D. Stanley and L. W. Wofford that he was rushing for a doctor to help his sick baby. The sympathetic officers let him go after offering a police escort which the motorist declined.

A few minutes later the motorist walked into a basketball game and bumped into the same two policeman.

Spring To Arrive On Plains Sunday

Weather befitting the arrival of spring at 4:49 a.m. Sunday was promised the South Plains for today and tomorrow, but early morning temperatures may be a bit on the winterish side.

An unexpected 25 degree minimum Friday morning, the lowest reported in the state, jolted the weather forecasters at the station north of town, who had foreseen no reading below the 35 degree mark. However, the mercury spun to 63 degrees by late afternoon despite a chilly wind.

Warmer Weather Seen

Reading today will reach 70 degrees, the weatherman said, following a low near freezing mark this morning. Sunday will be mild with temperatures possibly slightly higher than today. High cloudiness is predicted for both days.

Some trees and shrubs, grass and a few sturdy weeds already have heralded the coming of spring to the South Plains by putting forth blossoms or leaves despite two minor cold fronts that dipped the mercury below the freezing mark.

The Associated Press reported there were freezing temperatures early Friday in the Panhandle, Upper Red River valley, and north central Texas. By afternoon readings there warmed up to the 50's and low 60's.

Mine Holiday Forces Steel Plant To Close

PITTSBURGH, March 18. (AP)—The coal mine shutdown struck its first blow at the steel industry Friday.

The Sharon Steel corporation said it expects to shutdown a blast furnace and four open hearth furnaces next week at its Farrell, Pa., plant. About 200 to 300 workers would be laid off.

A company official said lack of coke, as a result of the mine shutdown was responsible.

Hard coal operators warned of vanishing anthracite supplies and renewed their claim that the mine shutdown is illegal in the anthracite region.

UMW leaders denied shortages were impending.

UMW President John L. Lewis last Monday ordered 463,000 miners east of the Mississippi to stop work for two weeks. He called the work stoppage a memorial to miner dead and injured and a protest against appointment of Dr. James Boyd as head of the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

Acheson Gives Blunt Notice

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, March 18 — Secretary of State Acheson said tonight that control of Europe "by a single, aggressive unfriendly power" would be an "intolerable threat to the national security of the United States."

In a bluntly-worded address beamed throughout the world, Acheson made his first major policy statement on the proposed North Atlantic mutual-aid treaty.

The text of this accord, which would link this country's power and resources with those of Canada and western Europe for defense against aggression, was made public 12 hours earlier. As a treaty, it is subject to Senate ratification.

Russian Charges Refuted

It provides that if any one of the signatory countries is attacked, each will render such assistance "as it deems necessary, including the use of armed force."

Acheson branded as a "lie" Russian charges that the alliance is aggressive.

He said:

"This country is not planning to make war against anyone—it is not seeking war—it abhors war—it does not hold war to be inevitable."

Acheson said this country's policies, as expressed in the words of the Atlantic pact, "are devised with the specific aid of bridging by peaceful means the tremendous differences which beset international society at the present time."

Beamed To Russia

As the secretary of state set forth the basic principles designed to guide this and other nations toward universal peace, the Voice of America was beaming the news to Russia and other countries around the world.

Members of the U.S. Senate generally expressed approval of the compact's aims ,although some took exception to the provisior under which the United States might be called on to use its military forces in helping a member nation under attack.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) said his Senate Foreign Relations committee will open hearings on the treaty just as soon as it is put up

Western Europe Hails New Pact

LONDON, March 18. (AP)—Foreign Secretary Bevin said Friday night the North Atlantic treaty is the West's answer to Communist efforts to impose the will of the Kremlin on all Europe through fear.

He declared in a radio broadcast the United Nations had not proved the answer to the quest for enduring peace.

"Frankly," he said, "just as the League of Nations did not fulfill its purpose, neither has the United Nations."

Bevin said it is "our firm conviction the development of the organization visualized in this (Atlantic) pact will mean the preservation of peace."

Reds Cry 'Warmonger'

Government leaders of Britain and other nations of western Europe hailed the treaty as a defense against both war and Communism.

Premier Alcide De Gasperi of Italy, whose government plans to line up in the alliance, told the Italian people: "If no one attacks, peace is secure."

Communists raised their old cry of "warmonger" against the eight nations which plan to sign the accord in Washington about April 4. Official disclosure of the pact's terms is expected to arouse Russia to new heights in propaganda attacks against the alliance.

Bevin predicted in the British House of Commons that the Atlantic accord will mark "a new era of co-operation and understanding."

Wheat Agreement Is Finally Approved

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—Forty-six nations today reached a new international wheat agreement.

J. C. Van Essche of Belgium said that the pact calls for five exporting nations to supply approximately 450,000 bushels of wheat annually for four years to 41 wheat importing nations.

He said it calls for a ceiling of $1.80 a bushel for each of the four years and a floor of $1.50 for the first year, dropping 10 cents annually to $1.20 in the fourth year.

That means exporting nations contract to charge no more than the ceiling regardless of the market price; the importing nations promise to pay at least the floor.

Van Essche, acting chairman of the international wheat conference, said the pact was concluded without the participation of Russia and Argentina.

Under the agreement, five nations—the United States, Canada, Australia, France and Uruguay—will supply 41 importers.

In the case of the United States, the Senate must approve it.

NEW HALE WELL IS PLANNED

Drillstem Test Is Slated On Gaines County Wildcat Well

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Hicks, southeast Gaines county wildcat, about 25 miles south and east of Seminole, and 660 feet from north and west lines of tract 16, league 273, Loving county school land is due to take a drillstem test in the top of the Ellenburger shortly.

The venture entered that formation at 13,102 feet, on an elevation of 2,986 feet. It drilled to 13,130 feet; and is now cinditioning the hole, and putting the rotary equipment in shape to take the planned drillstem test.

The section of the Ellenburger so far drilled showed some signs of porosity. No information is available as to whether or not any of the samples from the formation developed any indications of oil or gas.

Application Filed

General American Oil company of Dallas has filed an application with the Railroad Commission of Texas, requesting a permit to start drilling immediately on a wildcat to go to 7,500 feet to test into the Ellenburger in the Arick area of extreme Southeast Hale county.

The venture will be General American No. 3-B Carmickle. It is located 330 feet from west and 990 feet from south lines of northwest quarter of section 18, block K, TTRR survey, and two and one half miles northeast of the town of Petersburg. Rotary tools will be used.

The Arick field has developed some production from the Wichita-Albany section of the lower Permian and also from the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian. However, several explorations drilled in the region have been failures in both of those pay sections.

Drilling of the Ellenburger prospector will be of much importance to the territory.

Extension Completed

A west extension to the Shafter Lake - Wolfcamp production of north-central Andrews county has been completed at Gulf Oil Corporation No. 1-KK University, 330 feet from south and east lines of section 14, block 13, University survey.

The well flowed nine hours through a ¼-inch choke to make a 24-hour potential of 381 barrels of oil, with no water and a gas-oil ratio of 708-1. Gravity of the petroleum was 41.3 degrees.

The pay section at 8,484-8,550 feet in the Wolfcamp zone of the lower Permian was previously treated with 500 gallons of acid.

Swabs New Oil

Kewanee Oil company No. 1-C University, stepout from production from the Devonian on the north side of the Shafter Lake field in north-central Andrews county, and 660 feet from south and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 12, block 13, University survey, swabbed between eight and nine barrels of new oil per hour, after treating the section at 9,934-52 feet, with 1,000 gallons of acid. The production is through casing perforations.

Operator is continuing to test, and probably will re-acidize the current zone of investigation, and then follow by perforating and testing higher in the Devonian.

This project drilled to a total depth of 9,952 feet, and cemented a string of casing on bottom. It is due to be finished as a commercial oil well.

Extension Indicated

Etz and Robertson No. 1 University-Gulf, in section 14, block 13, University survey, and one-half mile north of the nearest Wolfcamp-Jermian producer on the west side of the Shafter Lake field has indicated an extension for that pay horizon, and is to run pipe and make completion tests.

It took a drillstem test in the Wolfcamp at 8,574-8,621 feet. The tool was open four and one-half hours. Gas showed at the surface in six minutes and oil started flowing in two hours and 55 minutes.

The well flowed to pits for the remaining one hour and 35 minutes on the test at the estimated rate of five to ten barrels oil per hour. The drillpipe unloaded some oil while being pulled. No formation water was reported.

Scouts Present Indian Dances At American Business Club Meet

A program of authentic Indian dances executed by members of Boy Scout Troop Eight entertained the American Business club at the regular weekly meeting Friday in the Hilton hotel.

A group of nine boys under the direction of Scoutmaster Frank Runkles performed the Sioux prayer dance, the Taos pueblo eagle dance, an Apache religious number and the Kiowa and Sioux war dances. All of these dances were learned directly from the Indians on reservations in Oklahoma and New Mexico which the boys visited last year. Indian lore is the featured study of Troop Eight and members have gone into the study of it extensively.

President George Dale presided over the meeting and introduced one new member, Clinton Woodlock, and the guests: Bill Edwards, W. D. O'Brien, Jesse Slaughter, Big Spring; A. J. Carpenter, Foxey Hughes, J. Orville Smith, Bill Lynn, John Powers, Denver; Ted Evans, Seminole; Jay Gordon and State Senator Kilmer Corbin.

Members were urged to attend the "Parade of Quartets" at the high school auditorium tomorrow night. They were reminded that 20 per cent of the proceeds would go to the club's project, the Lubbock Boys' club.

Easing Of Heavy Steel Equipment Shortage Encourages Oil Industry

By SARAH McCLENDON
Avalanche Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 18 — The situation involving heavy steel equipment and supplies for the oil production industry—known in the trade as "oil country goods"—is materially improved over a year ago, according to Department of Commerce officials here. Smaller and independent operators especially can be more confident of getting their required share of tubular piping and other steel products.

A study of the situation, which was described as "far from satisfactory in many areas during the past year, due to maldistribution of the steel products involved," was recently made through efforts of Rep. Lindley Beckworth, 3rd Texas district. Following Mr. Beckworth's talks with Commerce Secretary Sawyer, a report was prepared for the Texas congressman by Earl W. Clark, director of the Office of Industry Co-operation.

Outlook Optimistic

"We feel confident that the over-all situation will have improved to such an extent that few critical areas may develop during 1949," Clark wrote Beckworth.

Clark attributed easing of the steel supply scarcity to a curtailment of oil industry development during 1949. Members of the Oil Industry Advisory committee admitted a slowing down in well-drilling activities but recommended no cut-back since the situation might be temporary in character.

Back-Orders Piled Up

"This slowdown in operations will undoubtedly give the steel mills plenty of time to catch up on the back-orders for oil field tubular goods. Also, a number of companies and individuals who had contracted for conversion steel or had in possession appreciable quantities of oil country goods obtained at very high prices, have been anxious to dispose of this material," Clark's report said.

This is expected to be good news to many oil operators who suffered from equipment shortages in recent months. Although it was contradicted by some of the producing mills, many felt that during the period of greatest hardship, the close customer relationships between large producers of oil country goods and the large oil operating companies, resulted in the latter receiving more than their share.

Texans Urged To Take Prompt Precaultions Against Small Pox

AUSTIN, March 18. (AP)—The State Health department issued a special report on small pox today urging all Texans to take prompt preventive measures against the disease.

The report was the result of four cases diagnosed last week in Hidalgo county.

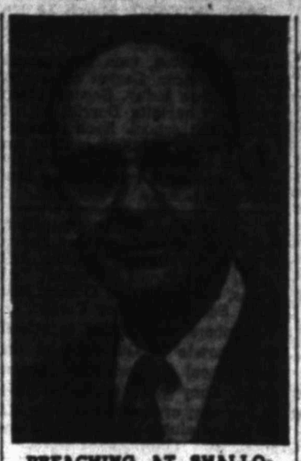

The Health department asked physicians and health doctors throughout the state to urge everyone to be vaccinated against small pox.

A total of 15 small pox cases were reported in 1947.

The department also reported that there were 3,750 cases of measles in Texas last week, 542 of mumps, seven of polio, 586 of pneumonia, and six of typhus fever.

In the annual report for 1948, issued today, the department said there was "a significant decrease in the prevalence of whopping cough, influenza, mumps and typhus fever. Measles, polio and tularemia showed, on the other hand, a marked increase in 1948."

Last year there were 76,823 cases of influenza, 51,121 measles, 9,722 mumps, 1,765 polio, 74 tularemia, and 344 typhus fever.

PREACHING AT SHALLOWATER—Rev. Coral V. Roberts of Greenville, above, is preaching at a revival meeting which opened last night at the First Baptist church in Shallowater and will continue through March 27. He is a brother of Rev. C. K. Roberts, pastor of the church. A youth revival, sponsored by a group of Howard-Payne college workers, is being conducted through Sunday. Sherrill Roberson of Lubbock will conduct song services starting Monday night.

Americans Told Not To Go Underground Because Of A-Bomb

HOUSTON, March 18. (AP)—Atomic commissioner Sumner T. Pike today urged Americans not to let fear of atomic war with Russia drive them underground.

In an address to the American Institute of Architects he said:

"Our national ambition is not to live underground and it is not to undo at great cost the work of nearly two centuries of building."

"I would suggest," Pike told the architects, "that you stop worrying about building atomic bomb-proof buildings, or about putting factories underground."

Says Protection Uncertain

He said, "It is right and proper that we should take into account the new hazard of warfare that results from the release of the unprecedented blast and heat of an atomic bomb as well as the unseen radiation."

But, he added, it would be "immoral and infamous for us to abandon the basic premise of our national life by diverting our means and our energies into such proposals as putting our steel mills underground and dislocating our economy in an attempt to gain at best partial protection from an uncertain hazard."

Pike said the United States plans no injury to the Russian people. But he noted that in event of war, "the iron curtain cannot shut out the suffering which war can bring" for millions of people now living behind it.

He proposed that this country undertake an "offensive" to make sure that nobody brings the suffering of war to these shores. This offensive, he said, "must prove to the world that we have a higher ambition and a greater destiny than burrowing into the earth."

Senate Okays Bill Authorizing Disaster Loans For Farmers

WASHINGTON, March 18. (AP) The Senate passed Friday a bill authorizing the secretary of agriculture to make disaster loans to farmers.

The purpose is to provide credit to assure production that might otherwise be lost.

While prompted largely by the recent severe storms in the West, the bill is broad enough to care for similar situations in the future.

The House already has passed a similar measure. The Senate, however, transferred the authority to make the loans from the Regional Agricultural Credit corporation to the secretary of agriculture. This makes it necessary that the bill go back to the House.

The Senate bill would abolish the Regional Agricultural Credit corporation and transfer all of its functions to the secretary of agriculture.

Loans would be made through the Farm Credit administration, the Farmers Home administration or other Agriculture department agencies under the Senate plan.

Chicago Man Stops Leopard With Foot

CHICAGO, March 18 (AP) — Zoologist J. Lear Grimmer denied today that he was a hero just because he beat a leopard into submission and prevented it from getting loose among the crowds at the Lincoln Park zoo.

"After all," he said, "I outweighed the cat two-to-one."

Grimmer, who is 35, mild-mannered and wears horn-rimmed glasses, was helping several attendants transfer the 70-pound cat from a traveling case to a permanent cage. The cat had just arrived from Africa.

As it moved out of the traveling case, the leopard swept aside a protective screen and leaped toward Grimmer.

"If he got by me, he would have been loose in the park," Grimmer said. "So I stopped him with a good swift kick."

The cat clawed Grimmer's leg and head and bit him in the arm but he kept on kicking. Finally the cat backed up and went into the big cage. The whole incident was over in a few seconds.

Merger Of Military Information Activities Adopted To Stop Leaks

WASHINGTON, March 18. (AP) Congressmen calling for an end to leaks of vital defense information said Friday they will "wait and see" whether a new merger of all military information activities does the trick.

But they indicated that they have not abandoned plans for a full-scale inquiry into publication of information about possible U.S. air targets in Russia and atomic installations at home.

The military establishment announced Thursday it was placing all its public information activities—Army, Navy and Air Force—under control of one man: William Frye, former Associated Press war correspondent.

Secretary of Defense Forrestal took a copy of the announcement to the House Armed Services committee, which was in closed session trying to find out who let loose the strategic and atomic information.

"We will wait and see how this works out," Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) told reporters afterward.

ALL-GERMAN CONFERENCE URGED

German Reds Launch New Drive To Undermine Western Powers

BERLIN, March 18 (AP) — Communists attempted today to capitalize on German nationalistic sentiment by proposing an all-German conference on problems of the divided nation.

The proposal, advanced at a meeting of the eastern German "people's council," was accompanied by obvious nationalistic hints. The Communists called for open defiance of the western occupation powers, if necessary.

Western German political leaders indicated they will reject the feeler. Eastern German Communists clearly are attempting to undermine the western powers.

The new Communist propaganda line runs like this: If all Germany can be unified in the Communist-controlled state being prepared for Eastern Germany, the Soviet union will withdraw Russian occupation forces. Ultimately, the Communist say, this will make Germany "free."

William Pieck, co-chairman of the Communist Social Unity party (SED), proposed that western German leaders and Communists from eastern Germany meet April 8 in the British zone city of Brunswick. Even if the western Germans agreed to attend, such a meeting would have to have British approval.

"The people's council" endorsed Pieck's idea and voted invitations to western German officials, including the German leaders at Bonn who are drafting a constitution for the west German state.

The 400-member council was summoned to Berlin by the Communists to adopt a constitution for eastern Germany as a counter to the charter being prepared at Bonn. Action on the western constitution is expected tomorrow.

The Chilean government purchased 450 American-made tractors, for farmers' use.

Public To Have Free Run Of 'Secret City' Of Oak Ridge As Gates Are Opened Today

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., March 18 (AP)—Atomic energy commission patrolmen will abandon posts at the guard gates here tomorrow and the public will have free run of this secret city for the first time.

An atomic impulse will burn the cord at Elza gate at 8:30 a. m. (EST). Before sundown thousands of the atomic city's first tourists will stream through four open entrances.

To those seeing it for the first time, this war-born city of 35,000 —fifth largest in Tennessee — looks like a huge Army base grafted on a wide-scattered farm community.

Progress Is Noted

Long rows of oblong warehouses start just inside the gate. The first residences are the "flat-tops" of east village. They look as if a lake suddenly retreated leaving a fleet of houseboats stranded on a hillside.

The smooth four-lane Oak Ridge turnpike winds 10 miles along what formerly was a cow trail, past wooden and fabricated houses, dormitories, business districts and public buildings. Many of the temporary structures are paintworn from six years use but everywhere stone and steel walls are rising. The last of the 5,000 trailers already are gone, and a $20,000,000 building program fast is banishing the temporary look.

Here and there pop up landmarks reminders of how far the city has come. A few old farmhouses still stand windowless and abandoned. Near the modern municipal market with its abundant off-parking space, run the narrow boardwalks that were necessities before paving lifted Oak Ridge from the mud.

Officials To Be On Hand

Wide-eyed tourists may ride at random tomorrow over about one-third of the 90-square-mile area. But they won't see even the outside of a production plant. Security forces have tightened a cordon about the 40,000 acres containing plants and laboratories. Slit-eyed white concrete guard houses block the roads at six points. A 14-mile chain-link fence topped with barbed wire closes in the secret area.

A newly-cut road skirts the plant sites. From it a smokestack or two is visible across miles of pines and sagebrush. But any further tourist thirst for atomic atmosphere must come from the world's first permanent atomic museum. Tomorrow is opening day for that, too.

Vice-president Alben W. Barkley, Sen. Brian McMahon, and A-E-C Chairman David Lilienthal are among dignitaries coming for tomorrow's ceremonies.

Texan, Woman Companion May Face Federal Charge In Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 18 (AP)—A 27-year-old Texan and his woman companion from St. Joseph, Mo., probably will be prosecuted here on charges of violating the National Stolen Property act, James Poster, agent in charge of the Springfield FBI, said today.

Poster said the pair, Richard Gerhardt of Brownsville, and Ruby Crowger, 22, were arrested Wednesday by Robert E. Clawson, Sangamon county deputy sheriff.

Poster said disposition of the case was still uncertain, however, as they are wantedw in Harrison county, Tex., on charges of passing 23 bad checks, most of them drawn on the American Cancer society.

He said the FBI also is checking reports that Gerhardt is wanted in Kansas City for forgery and as a parole violator from Missouri.

The pair had a 15-month-old baby with them when arrested. Relatives of Mrs. Cowger told Sheriff Meredith Rhule by telephone last night that they would come to Springfield to take charge of the baby.

Rhule said Mrs. Cowger first told deputies she was married to Gerhardt but later admitted that she was not. She said she ran away from her husband in St. Joseph last December after meeting Gerhardt.

A 16-mile-per-hour wind out of the north kept track times high today. But if the breeze slows down tomorrow, more than a dozen standards are expected to fall in the five-division meets.

Wichita Falls, Fort Worth Arlington Heights, Fort Worth North Side, Gladewater and Amarillo each qualified for five finals places. North Dallas and Fort Worth Paschal each had four.

John Cavileer led Austin's qualifiers, gaining the finals in the 100-yard dash and broad jump. Three Woodrow Wilson pole vaulters qualified in that event.

Nine Fight Bouts Highlight Presentation

Basketball Winners At Lubbock Boys Club Are Awarded Letters

Basketball letters were awarded to 40 boys last night at the Lubbock Boys club in recognition of their participation in the recently ended court season.

Boys were called into the ring in groups, Pee Wees, Midgets, Juniors and Seniors, where Joe Kelly, Avalanche-Journal sports editor, presented them with their individual certificates and letters.

Two bouts of the second Friday night of fights at the club were run off before the presentation, after which seven more fights closed out the program.

The Pee Wees won three and lost eight during the season to wind up with an average of .273. High scorer for the team was Roy Day with 42 points in eight games, an average of five points a game. Tinker Carlen had 26 points in nine games.

The Midgets had an even split for the season, six wins and the same number of losses for a .500 average. They were led by Glen Akin, who scored 79 points in 12 games for an average of six and a half points a game. He was just ahead of Ira Owens, who had 53 points in 12 games.

The Juniors barely went into the red, winning six games but dropping seven to emerge with a .462 average. They were led by Charles Rand, who had 82 points in 13 games for an average just short of six points a game. Allen Rosen scored 76 points in 11 games, while Sammie Adams had 73 points in the same number of contests.

The Senior team was the best one at the Boys club, winning 17 games and losing only three for an .850 average. Jackie Cook led the Seniors with 159 points in 16 games, an average of 10 points a game. Jack McLarty had 109 points in 18 games.

Over 200 boys played on the 20 teams in the four leagues during November and December of 1948.

Nine good bouts highlighted the presentation ceremonies, with several fights on the card. The Exchange club was in charge of the ringside last night, with Charles Cathey, president, serving as a judge along with Bill Bartlett and Winn Bock. Marvin McLarty served as timer and Dr. Jim Reynolds was announcer.

O. J. "Bo" Sexton, popular referee, was the third man in the ring.

Outstanding bouts brought together brothers, Wayne and Carl Noland. They went three fast rounds to a draw. The final fight, a rubber event, was awarded to Ray Thornton on a TKO at the end of the second round when Jack Godfrey, who had been winning, was unable to answer the bell because of an injury to his arm.

The complete results:

Clinton Hicks, 91, decisioned Donald Gaither, 89.

Gene Calvert, 67, decisioned Robert Warren, 74.

Buddy Neal, 116, decisioned Fritz Stanley, 115.

Jimmy Lippa, 78, decisioned Bobby Fowler, 84.

James Pritchard, 78, decisioned Darrell Odoisel, 79.

Wayne Noland, 140, and Carl Noland, 132, drew.

Tinker Carlen, 86, decisioned Jimmy Godfrey, 77.

James Williams, 99, decisioned Joe Williams, 112.

Ray Thornton, 114, scored TKO over Jack Godfrey, 118, two rounds.

BARNSTORMING WEARS DEMPSEY OUT

Old Manassa Mauler Still Looks Like Powerful Athlete At 54

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 18—Well, we sidled up to this big lug and, putting muscles in our voice, snarled: "Who d'ja think ya are, Jack Dempsey?"

If he had said he didn't think he was, we would have run like a thief. But knowing it was the old Mauler himself we knew we had nothing to fear. The tiger is a kitten now. A polite, affable, warm-hearted kitten.

He's one of our favorite citizens, is the man whose name forever will be associated with sheer, unbridled ferocity in the ring. And he's one of the few celebrities you might meet who doesn't leave you with that let-down feeling. He's everything you might have imagined.

He was holding a little reception at his broadway restaurant for his latest fighter, a trim little featherweight with the intriguing name of Elis Ask.

Dempsey, tense and restless and with his burly body almost bursting with nervous energy, sat down beside us to tell about his importation. When he talks to you he puts his face only inches from your own, and you are fascinated, almost hypnotized, by the dark, intense eyes boring into yours from the swarthy, rugged face.

No less fascinating are his hands. Huge, symetrical blocks of granite, and you can imagine the effect of blows from such fists. They are restless hands, like the rest of him, but the main thing is their suggestion of sheer power.

"I like this boy," he was saying. "He's clean cut, no cauliflower ears or bulging muscles. Where's he from? I don't know. Sweden I think."

He called across the table to get the correct information. It turned out the boy is from Finland. He's 22, has won 21 of 23 pro fights, and scored 13 knockouts.

"He has some things to learn," Dempsey continued. "But he's the kind of fighter the game needs. That's what I'm trying to do, keep the game alive. How about breakfast? Some scrambled eggs?"

Inasmuch as it was 4 o'clock in the afternoon we politely declined. It probably was morning to Jack, at that.

A waiter approached and whispered into our host's ear. Dempsey excused himself and made his way to a booth where four middle-aged ladies, who might have been visiting school teachers, sat. He signed menus for them, exchanged a few words, and left. Their eyes followed him with something akin to awe. He affects you that way.

He returned, and we suggested that he probably will be easing up on his officiating activities soon. He's going on 54, and his barnstorming over the country as a rassling referee would wear down a man half his age to a nubbin. He nodded.

"It kills you," he said earnestly, and for the first time you noticed a certain weariness about his eyes, and realized that even then only his nervous energy kept him going, and he'd like nothing better than to find a quiet spot and just sleep and sleep.

"It kills you," he repeated. "Get to a town. Meet the committee. Meet the mayor, Meet the kids. Go to a dinner. Even here, it's autograph this and autograph that. I just have to get away sometimes.

Cleveland Nine Leaves Tucson

LOS ANGELES, March 18 (INS)—Baseball's world champs, the Cleveland Indians, abandon their Tucson training camp and move into southern California for a six-game exhibition stretch tomorrow.

The first tilt of the pre-season series will be played against the Chicago Cubs at Wrigley Field tomorrow afternoon. The two teams will clash again next Thursday.

In between the two contests the Indians will be on exhibition against the St. Louis Browns in Burbank and against the Pittsburgh Pirates in San Bernardino.

Manager Lou Boudreau has named Rapid Bob Feller as his starting hurler. The fireball probably will be followed by Steve Gromek and possibly Sam Zoldak.

The Cubs will oppose them with Dutch Leonard, knuckleball artist, and probably Bob Rush.

Boys Club Nine Meets New Home

The Lubbock Boys Club baseball team will make its first official appearance at Boys Club diamond today against New Home High school at 2 o'clock.

An inexperienced New Home team will make the trip into Lubbock for its first start of the season, but Coach Hill expects to have a strong team before the season is over.

The Boys Club team has been working out this week under the direction of Coaches Jerry Starkey and Vernon Jackson and appears to be in fair condition.

Twenty-five boys have been reporting for practice, and four pitchers have been showing promise. They are Jackie Martin, Joe Hall, Carroll Walker, and Truman Jones. Martin and Hall are slated to be ready to go today.

Jackie Cook seems to be leading the crew of catchers, with Bobby Nabors, Johnnie Carpenter, M. D. Stevens and Bob Newell also trying to land that berth.

Infielders are Lesley Baker, Gerald Hise, Buddy Manor, Mackie Lawrence, Jack Whitehead, Mikie Brady, Dudley Stanley, and Bennie Scott.

Ir. the outfield are Jack McLarty, Ray McLarty, Donnie Washington, Royce Jones, Leon Bostick, Jimmie Johnson, Gene Seward, and Roy Ward.

Bleacher seats will be provided for spectators at the field at 2323 Avenue K.

Kirk, Kirby Pace Augusta Tourney

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 18 (AP)—The K-K-K's of women golf—Dot Kirby, Peggy Kirk and Dot Kielty—along with Louise Suggs, took charge of the women's Titleholders today in the second round.

Misses Kirby and Kirk shot par 75 rounds to take co-ownership of the lead with 151's. Stunt flier Dot Kielty, who shared the first day lead with Babe Zaharias, blew to a 79 for a 36-hole total of 152.

Again Miss Kielty had to be content with a tie. Louise Suggs shot the best round of the tournament, a 72, to make up for a lot of the damage she did yesterday with a lofty 80.

The Babe took one of the biggest blows of the windy, soggy day when she slipped from a tie for first with a 73 to an 81 today. Her 154 total ranked her in a tie for third when the gallery expected her to have the tournament about sewed up.

Elmer Ray's Manager Says Boxer Should Give Up Ring

MINNEAPOLIS, March 18. (U.P.)—Tommy O'Loughlin, manager of Elmer (Violent) Ray, said today that the National Boxing Association should suspend the negro boxer "for his own good."

O'Loughlin planned to turn his contract with Ray over to the NBA after Ray was knocked out by Joe Louis in an exhibition bout in Houston, Wednesday night.

Ray "lost his toughness suddenly" in the Louis bout and in a fight in Miami with John Holman, Chicago, who also knocked out the would-be heavyweight contender, O'Loughlin said. He added that Ray should quit boxing before he was injured seriously.

BROWNS OPTION McCARTHY

OAKLAND, Calif., March 18 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns today optioned Jerry McCarthy to San Antonio of the Texas league. He played first base last year for Columbus of the Sally league where he batted .351.

Ken Kavanaugh, star end of the Chicago Bears of the National Football league, is a turkey rancher in the off-season.

Hubbers, Corpus Christi Team Up To Drop Greenville, 10 To 8

Pitts Gets Credit For Mound Victory

(Special To The Avalanche)

GREENVILLE, March 18—Lubbock and Corpus Christi baseball players joined hands to lick the Greenville Majors in the first intra-squad game of the year here today, 10-8.

Herby Pitts, Hubber pitcher optioned to Odessa last year, started on the mound and went three innings to emerge the winner. During his three-inning stint, the Indian southpaw held the Majors in check and turned in the best performance of the day.

Finishing on the mound for the Lubbock-Corpus Christi team were Ray Sims and Ed Maxwell, both under Corpus contract.

George Schepps, Hubber general manager, said that the baseball tryout camp had produced several fine prospects. He announced that six of the candidates had been signed for the Corpus Christi club, 13 players had been cut loose and 15 still were battling for contracts.

The tryout camp, directed by Managers Red Davis of Greenville, Jackie Sullivan of Lubbock and Bill Gann of Corpus, ends Saturday.

Jim Prince, minor league batting king in 1947 and first baseman for Midland the past two years, today signed his 1949 contract with the Hubbers. There had been some question as to whether the big first sacker would come to terms, since he had a fine situation at Midland. But he said that he was looking forward eagerly to a season with the Hubbers.

Signing of Prince brings Hubber players under contract to 16, with only three unsigned. They are expected in camp Sunday and probably will sign at that time.

Royce Mills, Oscar Kuver and Jackie Wilcox will leave Lubbock Saturday morning at 9 and will report here that night.

ORANGE BOWL MOVIES SLATED

Texas' Blair Cherry Expected Here Today To Address 'Exes'

Coach Blair Cherry of the University of Texas is expected to arrive late this afternoon from Amarillo to address a group of Texas "Exes" at Hotel Lubbock.

The main part of the program will be the showing of the Orange Bowl football pictures, taken last New Year's day, in the main ballroom of the hotel at 6:30.

In the game a determined team of Longhorn football players defeated Georgia, a team picked to win by an easy margin, 41-28. Prior to the game sports writers had labeled the Texas team as "third rate" but there was nothing third rate about the licking handed Georgia that day.

Heading the movement to organize the former students of the university into a club is A. C. Becker, district manager of Sheffield steel. Ex-students may register with Becker by calling him at 4212 during the day. Anyone can attend the meeting tonight and see the pictures. Former university students are particularly invited.

Cherry is in his third year at the University, having replaced Dana X. Bible as head coach after the 1946 football season. In his two seasons at Texas Cherry has failed to win a conference title, but he has successfully coached his teams to two postseason victories. In 1948 at the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans, Texas defeated Alabama, 27-7, behind the passing and quarterbacking of Bobby Layne, an All-America at the university and now quarterback with the professional Chicago Bears.

After the 1948 football season Cherry turned down a contract to coach a professional team, electing to stay with the university.

Bill Leonard Is Winner In Track

CLEVELAND, March 18 (AP)—Bill Leonard of Notre Dame led all the way tonight to win for the second straight year the Rickey Tanno 1,000-yard run, featured event at the ninth annual Knights of Columbus track meet.

The Irish speedster grabbed the lead in the opening 10 yards and gradually pulled away from a classy field to win by eight yards in 2:16.8.

Bill Downey of the University of Illinois was second and Ed Reilly of Ohio State third.

Curtis C. Stone of Philadelphia's Shanahan Catholic club was a convincing winner in the Columbian two-mile run, taking it for the second straight year in 9:09.1.

Billy Mathis, former Illinois great competing unattached, became the third champion of repeat as he grabbed the 45-yard dash in 4.9 seconds.

Don Gehrmann In Bankers Mile

CHICAGO, March 18 (INS) — Don Gehrmann's newest and possibly greatest assault on time will transpire before a full house tomorrow night when the machine-like Wisconsin runner goes to the post in the Bankers Mile.

Gil Dodds' world indoor record of 4:05.1 will be the grail for Gehrmann, who is suffering from a cold, as he has been more or less all season long, with varying effects. Apparently perfect health is something of a handicap to the 21-year-old, eyeglass-wearing distance man.

Gehrmann had a sniffle or two when he beat Holland's Willy Slykhuis in the Wanamaker Mile at New York two months ago, with a strong 4:09.4 for his time. And he had the miseries real bad at Champaign, Ill., two weeks ago when he won the mile, set a new conference record in winning the half mile, and ran third leg on the record-breaking mile relay team that gave Wisconsin a tie with Ohio State for the Big Nine indoor title.

Picked To Win

So possibly Gehrmann, who has had a workout indoor time of 4:06 flat this season, can count his germs and blessings together and give a stirring account of himself at the Chicago relays tomorrow. It seems that if he doesn't, nobody else will . . . not in the Bankers Mile, at any rate. His chief competition should come from Jerry Thompson of Texas and Carl Joyce of Seton Hall, no record-breakers they.

Some other marks may be bettered, however, in the big carnival at roomy Chicago Stadium on the city's west side. Such Olympian greats as Harrison Dillard, Dave Bolen, Herb McKenley, Craig Dixon and George Guida will be around to do their stuff. The 600-yard run, bringing together McKenley, Guida, Bolen, Army's John Hammack and Seton Hall's Frank Fox, offers prospects for as torrid a spectacle as has graced the indoor season all year long.

Dillard will be seeking to surpass his own record of :07.1 for the 60-yard high hurdles, a race in which the contestants run diagonally across the stadium infield and crash into a restraining net while the organist plays Tschaikowsky's Dance Of The Hours.

The 50-yard dash should be a brief moment of excitement, too. Bill Mathis, Lloyd La Beach and Bill Dwyer are among the scheduled participants, and all will be after the record of :05.2.

BEARS BEAT H-SU, 3-1

WACO, March 18 (AP)—The Baylor Bears took a 3-1 victory from the Hardin-Simmons university Cowboys here today behind the four-hit pitching of sophomore Clyde Robinson.

St. Mary's Gaels and Tulsa are two new foes in Villanova's 1949 football slate. Both will be played in Philadelphia.

Calumet Farms Is Gunning For Another Win At Gulfstream

Coaltown, Armed After More Laurels

MIAMI, Fla., March 18 (AP) — Having tucked away the top handicaps at Tropical Park and Hialeah, Calumet Farm tomorrow goes gunning at Gulfstream Park —with a double-barreled entry— for the last "big 'un" of Florida's turf season.

Calumet's monotonous monopoly in the handicap division is due for another airing in the $20,000 mile and a quarter gulfstream Park handicap. Trainer Jimmy Jones has Coaltown, his Widener-McLennan hero, and eight-year-old Armed, the former king, fit for the test. He said today that both very likely will start.

Eight others appeared in the entries, probably with an eye on the $4,000, $2,000 and $1,000 which goes to the three horses following the winner home. First money is $13,000.

Jimmy Jones, asked about the report that ace jockey Eddie Arcaro is in town from New Orleans and might pilot one of the calumeteers tomorrow, said that he knew of no such arrangement.

Coaltown, weighted at 128, or five more than his Widener impost, must spot 10 pounds to Three Rings—next on the list—a horse which finished a distant fourth in the McLennan but recently won Gulfstream's Horning Handicap.

The others engaged are: Armed and Dinner Hour, Miami Beach Handicap victor, 116; Marchons 2nd, 115; Big Dial, 113; Gangway, 109; Brownian and First Nighter, the latter fourth in the Widener, 108, and Quemadito, the least likely to start, 107.

Billy Talbert Runs Ahead Of Field In National Tennis Meet

NEW YORK, March 18. (AP)—Billy Talbert pushed one jump ahead of the field today in the men's singles division of the National Indoor Tennis championships.

The defending titlist from New York brushed past Bill Madamba, Philippine player now living in New York, 6-1, 6-3, in the only second round match on the program.

The rest of the field will catch up with Talbert tomorrow when the list will be reduced to 16 at the Seventh Regiment Armory. There is no competition Sunday.

In women's singles, fourth-seeded Miss Nancy Chaffee, former national girls' champion, defeated tournament-wise Barbara Scofield of San Francisco, 1-6, 7-5, 6-3. Miss Chaffee is from Ventura, Calif.

SOPHS, JUNIORS MAKE UP SQUADS

No Seniors On San Francisco, Loyola NIT Finalist Quintets

NEW YORK, March 18 (AP)—In college the seniors are supposed to be the smart cookies, with much more brain power than the lower classmen because they've been there longer.

But here's San Francisco university and Loyola of Chicago in the finals of the National Invitation Basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. Both teams are packed with sophomores and juniors. Nary a senior is on either outfit.

The kids got there by consistently outsmarting, outscrapping, outshooting and outhustling the opposition. And they played taller teams all the way.

San Francisco wasn't supposed to beat Bowling Green last night, but the Dons hadn't heard about that. The smallest team in the tourney went out and scrambled the dope and the Bee-Gees from Ohio, 49-39.

Loyola, a beaten NIT finalist 10 years ago, also wouldn't be stopped in the St. Patrick's night semi-finals. Trailing at halftime, 22-31, the Chicagoans came back to bang it on Bradley, 55-50.

Another sellout is expected tomorrow, and the betting gentry probably will make the San Francisco kids the favorites. This, if for nothing more, than the persistent drive the Dons have displayed all through the tourney.

The California team has a push shot expert named Don Lofgran who goes six inches over six feet, but the team's spirit is illustrated by a little 135-pound wildcat—Rene Hererias.

Both San Francisco and Loyola disdain the fast break, and have reached the finals with a methodical, deliberate attack.

Middlecoff Sparks Jacksonville Open

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 18. (AP)—Cary Middlecoff, hottest golfer on the tour, and E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, also of the top five money winners, blasted six under par 66's for the first round lead of the Jacksonville Open Friday.

Middlecoff, the 29-year-old Memphis dentist who has finished first or second in the last four PGA tournaments, had 33-33 for an even round while Harrison, veteran Arkansas traveler now playing out of Albuquerque, was out in 32 back in 34.

Seminole Junior High Track Squad Wins First Place In Meet

SEMINOLE, March 18. (Special) Seminole Junior High school won first place in a track meet here Thursday, defeating Andrews, Denver City, and Brownfield with a total of 44 and one-half points.

Richard Lindley of Seminole won the 50-yard dash in :5.9 and the century in 11.2. The Seminole 440-yard relay team ran the distance in :50, and Alfred Sims won the broad jump with a distance of 17 feet, 6 and one-half inches.

Rookie Bill Briggs Is Rapped

Reprimand Causes Uproar In Sox Camp

By JAMES ENRIGHT
INS Sports Writer

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 18—Bill Briggs, 21-year-old rookie pitcher, has become the first victim of the iron-fist policy set down by the Chicago White Sox front office.

The episode, termed a "reprimand" by general manager Frank Lane, came on the eve of the team's best showing of the exhibition season—a 15 to 4 rout of the Cleveland Indians at Tucson Thursday.

The decision to reprimand Briggs has upset the entire White Sox team, which opened a three-game stand against the New York Giants at Phoenix Friday. The Sox won the opener from the Giants, 22-13.

Veterans and rookies alike termed the matter a "bum rap" in speaking off the record. Briggs accompanied the White Sox to Phoenix, but refused to comment although the reprimand letter he received was common gossip not only among the White Sox but the Cleveland Indians as well.

Briggs drew the reprimand and a rumored severe fine for violating the club's rule against a ballplayer's having his wife in camp.

Lane, however, denies having fined the newcomer, laughing off all queries with a brisk "Just a reprimand without a fine."

Briggs drew the ire of Lane and manager Jack Onslow Wednesday morning when the White Sox reached Tucson, where he was met at the depot by his wife and father and mother, who are vacationing in Arizona.

Upon hearing the news of Briggs' depot visitors, Lane dictated a letter written by Earl Flora, White Sox publicity director. It was signed later by Onslow and placed in the pitcher's mail box at the Sox hotel.

Rookie Briggs was upset upon receiving the Onslow-signed message from Lane, and news of the letter spread like wildfire among both the Chicago and Cleveland teams. The White Sox have a rule, established by Lane, of a $250 fine for having wives in camp.

Onslow has also ordered a room check in connection with the team's midnight curfew, which also have resulted in considerable verbal beefing among the players.

West Texas Teachers Group Ends Convention; Attendance Is High

a desire to excell, observe others who are more skilled in teaching, set personal and professional goals and make an effort toward originality. He said an artist in the classroom is a teacher who can inspire students.

Other Officers Named

Joe C. Hutchinson, superintendent of Littlefield schools, was named chairman of the administrators section at a section banquet yesterday afternoon. Sam Davis, superintendent of Ralls schools, was named vice-president; Ishmael Hill, assistant superintendent of Lubbock schools, was chosen secretary; and G. Massey, principal of Midland Junior high school, was elected treasurer.

Chairmen of other sections reported last night were: Miss Claudia Neelley, Lubbock, art; Howard E. Golden, Lubbock, college classroom teachers; Mrs. Fannie Reeves, Midland, commercial; Dean A. Robinson, Post, county school superintendents and board members; Dean Bennett, Big Spring, elementary principals; Miss Glenys Honey, Lubbock, English; Miss Jo Hestand, Big Spring, foreign languages;

And Miss Arah Phillips, Big Spring, health and physical education; Mrs. Roberta Henry, Lubbock, homemaking; Mrs. David E. Smith, Lubbock, intermediate teachers; Victor Drinkard, Odessa, industrial arts; Miss Louise Boyd, Midland, library.

I. T. Graves, superintendent of Floydada schools and WTTA membership chairman, reported that schools in 21 counties in the association have 100 per cent association membership, and that the other six counties are almost at that goal. He estimated that better than 99 per cent of the teachers in District IV are association members.

Lamesa High school A Capella choir provided music for the night meeting. W. A. Miller, WTTA vice-president and president-elect, presided. Rev. E. H. Crandall, associate pastor of the First Methodist church, offered the invocation, and WTTA Pres. Doyle D. Jackson introduced officers elected last night.

All the general sessions attracted capacity or near-capacity attendance.

Understanding Is Urged

Need for sympathetic understanding was stressed by Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president of Texas Technological college, in an address in the afternoon general section. Discussing the trend toward specialization he said a person needs to trust his doctor, or lawyer or banker. One also needs to show understanding toward the person who works in another field and "who knows little or nothing of your problems."

Stating that he believes in science and objectivity, he said that many problems cannot be attacked objectively. The great influences of love, altruism, patriotism and honor "cannot be put into the test tubes and analyzed, but they must be acquired anyway," he said.

Dr. E. N. Jones, vice president of Texas Tech, spoke briefly. He referred to the quotation, "Education is what one has left after he has forgotten all the facts that were taught him," saying he did not believe in that statement when he first heard it but has grown to respect it. "We need to feel concerned over what our children will be tomorrow, after they have forgotten most of the facts we have given them," he said.

Dr. Doyle D. Jackson, retiring president of the West Texas Teachers association, presided in the afternoon session.

The Big Spring High school girls' chorus presented music. Rev. Travis White, pastor of the First Christian church, gave the invocation. A. B. Reese, Senior High school teacher, welcomed the group. Joe C. Hutchinson, Littlefield superintendent, gave the response. Ishmael Hill, assistant superintendent of Lubbock schools, made announcements.

Public relations and teaching of democracy in the public schools were two points emphasized in laymen's addresses before approximately 2,200 teachers in the opening session Friday morning.

Dowell Address Presented

Whiteside, Lubbock city commissioner, extended greetings on behalf of Mayor W. H. Rodgers and the City commission and said. "Some day, if you return, we hope we may have a municipal auditorium large enough to seat all of you." Whiteside presented an address on "A Veteran's Viewpoint of Modern Education," which had been prepared by G. C. Dowell, member of Lubbock Board of Education. Dowell was on jury service and unable to present the address.

Analyzing the veterans program in colleges and universities, the address prepared by Dowell told of effects of the veterans' program in higher education and of attitude of the veterans. Virtually every college qualified to enroll veterans now has 50 to 100 per cent more students than in the pre-war years; dormitories have three in a room where formerly they had two; many live in off-campus lodgings; classrooms, laboratories and libraries are frequently worked from eight in the morning until 10 at night, with students in two or three shifts; teachers are teaching more hours a week and each course or section is likely to have at least a third more members than formerly, and clerical work has increased prodigiously, the address stated.

The overcrowding, hurry and impersonality of human relations on many campuses is far removed from "a certain graciousness of life formerly believed to be one of the subtle assets of the college world." The result represents a qualitative loss to teachers and students, which many believe is offset by other considerations such as work done in the classrooms by veterans. "Not only are the records of these older students better but the testimony of teachers in general that they are more critical and skeptical of dogmatic utterances and authoritarian attitudes on the part of the teachers. They are quicker to detect slovenly instruction and to complain about it. They demand that the intellectual works shall have — what education should, of course, possess anyway—a vivid sense of its relevance for them, of its importance for their living."

William B. Deadrick, attorney of Odessa, discussing "The Necessity of Adequate School Plants and How to Acquire Them," described it as refreshing to look at boards of education, elected by the people of a community to serve the community, "in these days of regimentation and bureaucracy in which the shdow of our national capitol at Washington falls across every function of daily living."

Needs Are Discussed

Deaderick discussed adequate physical plants and adequate educational programs within the physical plants. Discussing the teacher shortage, he said the teaching profession must raise wages, that training centers in colleges and universities need to "turn out a superior grade of teacher" and that teachers need to keep the public informed of what is going on. He recommended public relations programs. He said that "in these times of doubt, of Communism and radicalism . . . this is the time above all others when America needs teachers who will bring up boys and girls grounded and founded in the principles and ideals which have made our nation great."

Delbert Downing of Midland, secretary of Midland Chamber of Commerce, delivering the final layman's address, praised teachers for their ability in the classroom, adding that they need to go further in telling the public that the future rests on the children they are teaching. He also touched on teaching of democracy in the schools.

Dr. Weston A. Petty, chairman of Lubbock School Improvement organization, presided in the morning session. Music was presented by Midland High school band, under direction of Frank Hoffman.

Dr. Jackson, professor of education and psychology at Texas Technological college opened the session. Dr. Ralph Grant, pastor of First Baptist church, gave the invocation.

Pact Terms Revealed

here last July 6. They are the United States, Canada, Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. All seven nations must ratify the accord before it will become effective.

Other nations, however, have been invited in recent weeks to join the alliance. Among these are Norway, Denmark, Italy, Iceland and Portugal.

Terms Strongly Stated

Although Norway is a certain signer, Communist opposition in some of the other countries has hampered final governmental action, pointing up the East-West split which compelled the treaty in the first place.

The text of the treaty actually contained few surprises. However, in the opinion of some observers, the article five provision for joint action in event of an armed attack was more strongly stated and carried a clearer obligation for resistance on the part of each nation than Senate leaders and others had previously expected. Even so it avoided any automatic commitment to go to war.

This article asserts first that the nations signing the treaty "agree that an armed attack against one or more of them in Europe or North America shall be considered an attack against them all."

It then adds that the member nations "agree that, if such an armed attack occurs, each of them . . . will assist the party or parties so attacked by taking forthwith . . . such action as it deems necessary, including the use of armed force, to restore and maintain the security of the North Atlantic area."

The third point made by article five is that the attack and the measures taken against it by the pact powers should be reported to the United Nations Security Council. As soon as the council took measures to restore peace and security the steps taken by the western nations through the regional alliance would be ended.

The other two key action articles of the treaty are those which immediately precede and follow article five:

Article four would provide for consultation whenever any one member thought that its "territorial integrity, political independence or security" was threatened.

Article six declares that an armed attack would include an attack on the territory of any of the treaty members in Europe or North America, on the Algerian departments of France (North Africa), on the occupation forces in Germany and Austria, on the islands in the Atlantic north of the Tropic of Cancer (which cuts across the Caribbean and North Africa) or "on the vessels or aircraft in this area of any of the parties."

School Plans Okayed

he was sworn in to succeed Dr. John Studebaker, the International News Service said.)

Earlier Study Needed

(Studebaker resigned after a row with Federal Security administrator Oscar Ewing. Studebaker charged education office attempts to root out Communist influences in the school system were frustrated by the security agency, which supervises the education agency, the INS said.

(McGrath urged that schooling be started at the age of two in public nursery schools and that more emphasis be placed on "sex education" in high schools and colleges. He said:

("There is a need for sex education in secondary schools and colleges. In general, the material used in biology classes and the like are not focused sharply enough on sex problems."

(Referring to his proposal for an earlier school start, McGrath said:

("As a psychologist, I believe that the character and personality of a child is formed in the years one to six or seven and their persistent conduct habits set then."

(Approval of the child health bill removed a roadblock to action on the aid-to-education bill. Some senators had refused to approve the aid bill until the health measure was okayed.)

Fat Stock Show

the grounds before 6 p.m. Sunday for weighing and classification to become eligible for competition.

Homer E. Hunt, general chairman, announced that buildings to be used at the Fairgrounds are in readiness. These include the cattle and swine barns and the judging arena.

Barracks buildings will, as usual, be available to the boys wishing to use them during their stay. The boys are to bring their own pillows and bedclothing. A good many will occupy the barracks tonight, remaining through Tuesday night. In all, reservations have been made for 167 youthful exhibitors, all members of 4-H clubs or FFA chapters.

The contestants, Bond reported, represent 56 communities in the 29 counties, including three in New Mexico, from which entries have been accepted.

The immediate need as preparations for the start are completed, Bond said, is for final reports from members of the show finance committee. Their drive ended officially Friday for pledges to the fund which will guarantee premiums above market prices for exhibited animals sold at auction the final afternoon of the show.

With reports still incomplete, Finance Chairman J. Lawrence Green announced the goal of $3,500 in pledgese seems sure to be exceeded.

The pledges reported, he said, total $2,832 from 213 business and professional men. The figure does not include an allowance for the premium which will be paid for the grand champion steer. Show officials estimate $1 a pound on the hoof as the minimum which will be paid for this animal.

In addition, Green reported, 15 firms advised solicitors they will do their own buying instead of operating through the show purchasing committee. These will add several hundred dollars to the premium total.

No reports have been received on 38 prospects assigned to finance committee members. These will add substantially to the pledge total, the chairman believes.

Only 27 out of 293 prospects on which reports were received have declined to make any sort of pledges, Green said.

The more than 400 boys expected to be here for the competition will be urged to attend services in churches of their choice Sunday.

Monday night they will be guests at any of the Lindsey theaters they prefer to attend.

The chief entertainment feature will be the annual barbecue in the Texas Technological college Livestock pavilion Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. Service clubs will supply the food. Members of the Lions club will prepare and serve it.

There'll be no long speeches and very few short ones at the barbecue, Hunt assured. Entertainers will include the Kiwanis Hot Shots and the Davis tumbling team. The big feature will be the distribution of premium checks

Acheson Warns On Aggression

for consideration. He termed the accord an "instrument of great moral power" directed "only against aggression."

Leaders of the western European member states hailed the alliance as a great stride toward security on that war devastated continent.

But even before the terms of the treaty were revealed a Moscow newspaper demanded anew that Norway sign a non-aggression pact with the Soviets to reduce "tension in the north."

Action Unprecedented

Acheson spoke at the end of an intensely busy day climaxing eight months of American diplomacy unprecedented in the century and a half of the nation's history.

During this eight-month period, America's foreign policy leaders had negotiated an alliance between the United States and the nations of Europe which even a decade ago might have been considered impossible.

Under the key section of the treaty—article five—all the states would rally instantly to the assistance of an attacked member and aid in meeting the aggression. But each government would decide precisely what kind of aid should be given.

"Honest Judgment" Stressed

Acheson told a news conference earlier today that the constitutional authorities in the country—meaning Congress in case war was to be declared—would decide what action was "necessary."

He left no doubt that he believed that if France, for example should be attacked the United States should and would along with all the other powers go to war to stop the attacker.

At the other extreme, Acheson said, no nation would use a sledge hammer for the purpose of putting down a border incident.

In his speech tonight, Acheson stressed again—the "honest judgment" formula which he had first advanced in his news conference this morning, by which each member nation would decide what action it "deems necessary" to restore and maintain the security of the North Atlantic area."

Learned History Lesson

"We are bound to do what in our honest judgment is necessary to reach that result," Acheson said. "If we should be confronted again with a calculated armed attack such as we have twice seen in the 20th century, I should not suppose that we would decide any action other than the use of armed force effective either as an exercise of the right of collective self defense or as necessary to restore the peace and security of the North Atlantic area."

"It is clear," he said, "that the North Atlantic pact is not an improvisation. It is the statement of facts and lessons of history. We have learned our history lesson from two world wars in less than half a century.

"That experience has taught us that the control of Europe by a single aggressive, unfrendly power would constitute an intolerable threat to the national security of the United States.

"We participated in those two great wars to preserve the integrity and independence of the European half of the Atlantic community in order to preserve the integrity and independence of the American half.

"It is a simple fact, proved by experience, that an outside attack on one member of this community is an attack upon all members."

Asserting that the western nations had learned they must stand together or "fall one by one," Acheson said:

"And the free nations of Europe are determined that history shall not repeat itself in that melancholy particular."

Celebration Slated

Store windows will stress pioneer themes Saturday, and all men are expected to appear with noticeable "five o'clock shadow." A Judge Roy Bean court will function throughout the day, levying fines on those who fail to follow the spirit of Pioneer Day.

At least two programs publicizing the big day have been aired over radio station KPET and many visitors are expected from the surrounding area.

High school students observed the date Thursday with a special program and most of them came to classes outfitted in frontier costumes. A "Judge Bean" court penalized those who didn't come dressed in olden-time duds.

Winners in the contest held in connection with the observance at the school included: Girls costume, Shirley Magill; boys costume, Jerry Phillips; best beard, Clayton Hughes. Joy Culp was named queen of Pioneer Day. Her escort was Arthur Bizzell.

Braniff Seeking To Expand Lines To East, South America

DALLAS, March 18 (AP) — Braniff International Airways today asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for permission to fly to Washington and New York.

The same application sought an extension of Braniff's international routes southward from Lima, Peru, to Santiago, Chile.

Aware that the move will bring strong opposition from other carriers, airline President T. E. Braniff said:

"The civil aeronautics act . . . established the policy of providing competition in both domestic and foreign air commerce. The extension for which we have applied will bring to our nation's capital, to New York and the industrial east and to ten important Latin American countries the full benefits of such competition."

Braniff asked for the New York and Washington connections as an extension northward of its service to Havana.

ernoon of Alexander Ward, 70, a negro wanted in Motley county on a misdemeanor warrant.

The sheriff said the prisoner allegedly had collected money for a burial fund and had failed to account for all of it. Ward was arrested here Thursday by Lubbock deputies.

Morris Allen, 32, a negro, was sent to county jail to serve one day for theft. In addition, he was fined $5 and costs of county court.

A Brownfield man, who was locked in city jail last night on a charge of drunkenness, will undoubtedly have more than the customary headache this morning.

Given Emergency Aid

According to police reports, he was struck on the head several times with a make-shift "Billy," manufactured from a chair leg, when he tried to drive off in a truck owned by the proprietor of a local cafe.

The victim was given emergency treatment at the police station by acting desk sergeant Ira Scott and put to bed in jail. The wielder of the club said the man had reached inside his shirt as if to draw a gun before the blows were struck.

A girl, with a simple twist of the wrist, assisted two prowl car patrolmen in overhauling a motorist who allegedly was driving wildly over Lubbock streets about 1:25 a. m. Friday.

Corporation court officials, who fined a 24-year-old Shreveport man, Dale Ernest Watson,, $50 after a plea of guilty of reckless driving, quoted J. H. Schenk and Arlen Ray Mason, the patrolmen, as saying they were chasing the Louisianan—and not having too much luck—when the girl, riding with the fugitive driver, reached over and turned off the ignition key.

The defendant sped through a red blinker light, forced another motorist to the curb, declined to heed a police siren, and almost overturned twice, the officers said.

Lawrence Bunton, jr., 22, alias James Brown, 22-year-old negro accused of charging $2.75 worth of groceries to Henry Riddle without Riddle's authorization, was fined $50, court costs, and sentenced to serve 10 days in county jail by County Judge Walter Davies.

Hoxsey's suit was based on an article in the American Weekly supplement to the San Antonio Light.

Marine Commander Insists His Unit Not 'Looking For Fight'

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff Writer

DALLAS, March 18 — The U.S. Marines aren't looking for a fight. They don't want any trouble.

Honest—that's what the top Marine of them all, Gen. Clifton B. Cates, said here today.

Cates, commandant of the Marine corps, paused 30 minutes at the Dallas Naval air station in a flight from Washington to the West Coast, and a reporter said:

"General, how about giving us your views on this proposal to do away with the Marine corps and just make the marines a part of the Army?"

Avoids Fight

The four silver stars on the general's collar turned slightly red. The hair on the back of his neck bristled. The cigar in his mouth shuddered as the big, rugged officer put a tight bite on it.

But he raised his right hand reprovingly and said:

"Now boys, don't try to get me into a fight. The Marines aren't looking for trouble."

That was easy to see. His blue eyes probably always smoulder that way. He cleared his throat and went on:

"As long as the Marine corps can serve its country and give value received for dollars spent, I believe the people and Congress will see that we're well taken care of.

"We're here to serve and not to get mixed up in arguments and politics. All we want to do is prove that we have an efficient organization. I think we have proved that in every way."

Decorated In Wars

General Cates, a rough and ready fighting man who won decorations in both world wars, paused then and looked fairly cool and satisfied.

"How about a little colorful Marine corps language on what you really think of that proposal?" the reporter needled.

"To heck with colorful language!" Cates cried. "That's the kind of talk that gets a man into trouble.

"But I will say this—there are a lot of bright boys with bright ideas floating around Washington. But there's a lot of difference in having a bright idea and getting something done about it."

"Just a lot of difference," he said again for emphasis.

The general hurried off to his private plane then—he was bound for a staff conference Monday at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

As he reached the plane, photographers were waiting and an aide was there with the bemedalled coat to Cates' uniform. Cates took off his brown leather flying jacket and donned the glittering coat, grumbling meanwhile: "I don't know why in the hell I have to do this."

But the top marine wasn't looking for a fight—not with the photographers, anyhow. "I'm dolled up enough," he chuckled as he faced the cameras. As the flash bulbs popped, he smiled a big, Marine smile.

Senate Faces Rush

spoken" understanding that the coalition would be carried on.

Sen. Long (D-La) hinted that southern Democrats might be inclined to support the Republican Senate position in return for GOP aid in the gag rule fight.

South's Position Strong

The southerners, as the outcome of the battle, remain in strong position to oppose the administration's anti-racial discrimination program by filibustering, Dixie's historic weapon against civil rights bills.

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) said he thought President Truman's program will be considered on its merits, He added:

"If a bill comes up and I'm in doubt about it and in a position to flip a coin, naturally such things as friendships and animosities will help sway a decision."

The end of the gag rule battle also cleared the way for the foreign aid bill, which faces an April 3 deadline.

Bills Await Action

Other legislation awaiting action includes reciprocal trade agreements, the bill to repeal the Taft-Hartley labor act and a federal aid to education measure. The Senate Labor committee approved the education bill today, along with child health legislation.

With the log-jam broken, the Senate also approved a bill to build a radar warning network around the United States and Canada and legislation to establish a science foundation. Both bills go to the White House for Mr. Truman's signature.

Democratic National Chairman McGrath criticised the rent control bill before the Senate as one which more properly should be called rent "decontrol."

But Sparkman said the bill incorporated every provision recommended by the administration. The Senate bill would provide a maximum 10 per cent rent increase and hand control back to states which adopt control laws.

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., March 18 (AP) — Winston Churchill sailed on the Queen Elizabeth today to lecture in the United States.

U.S. Attitude Is Hit By Hungary

BUDAPEST, Hungary, March 18 (AP)—The Hungarian government charged today that "official American attitude towards Hungary has been aggressive lately."

The statement, in an official communique, assailed the United States government's refusal to permit five Hungarians to enter the country as delegates to a "world peace conference." (The U. S. State department denied them visas in retaliation for Communist Hungary's treatment of American officials.)

Communique Charges

The communique charged that "the American authorities do not dare" to admit the Hungarian delegates lest they "show the truth in the Mindszenty case."

(The reference was to the recent treason trial of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, Roman Catholic primate of Hungary. The United States and other Western countries contend the cardinal was convicted on trumped-up evidence. He was sentenced to a life term in prison.)

Deliberately Misled

"In America, where people are deliberately misled, they apparently cannot bear that independent Democrats should frankly tell their opinion about warmongering. The world condemns the arbitrary step of America's foreign office."

Marton Horvath, a member of the delegation, told a dinner meeting of the guild of Hungarian journalists last night: "If the American imperialists were as strong as they hate us, they would not hesitate to crush Hungary's people's democracy." He said he was sorry for American journalists whom he described as being in the service of the dollar.

New Pact Hailed

western European countries echoed his words. French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman told a Paris news conference that the pact provides France with an effective shield against aggression.

In Brussels Belgian Premier Paul-Henri Spaak said: "This treaty is an important event in history. It will make war less possible."

Italy's Chamber of Deputies voted 342 to 170 in favor of Italy's entry into the Atlantic alliance during a tumultuous session following a 53-hour filibuster by leftists and Communists.

Reds Call Conference

The Italian Senate will begin debate on the treaty Monday.

The Russian army newspaper in Vienna said the treaty is designed to form a military bloc "for aggression against the Soviet Union" and other Communist regimes of eastern Europe.

Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky, the Soviet commander in Germany, was reported to have left his Berlin headquarters for a military conference in Moscow. Berlin newspaper accounts said the meeting would be held in connection with the Atlantic treaty.

Voice of America broadcasts from New York gave full treatment to the pact. A special effort was made to reach Russia and the countries in the Soviet zone of influence.

Atlantic Pact Emphasizes Fading One World Dream

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

The one-world dream, sprung from the fires of humanity's bloodiest war, has faded before a new concept which may mean two worlds and some day perhaps a third.

With formation of the Atlantic alliance, two great blocs of nations, almost equally divided in area, population and armed might, have chosen sides. A third great bloc could be in the making in the stirrings of a vast area of Asia and the Pacific.

Almost 300,000,000 people on each side of the Iron Curtain face each other with suspicion. Each side represents a slice of the world somewhere in the neighborhood of 9,000,000 square miles. Each side is dominated by one great power —the United States, with its vast industrial resources in the West, the Soviet Union, with tremendous manpower, in the East.

Asia Also Takes Stand

The third bloc may form around the Indian subcontinent. In Asia there has sprung up a determined move not only to battle the drive of Communism southward, but to throw off the vestiges of the colonial system through which for centuries the western world retained domination.

The terms of the North Atlantic defense alliance clearly defined the lines between the East and the West. The Atlantic alliance embraces the territories of the United States, Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands, Luxembourg, Norway and Canada and dependencies anywhere in the Atlantic area north of the Tropic of Cancer. Likely to join up soon are Italy, Portugal, Denmark and Iceland. Later, Spain and Eire may come in.

The Tropic of Cancer cuts through the southern tip of Mexico's Lower California peninsula, bisects the West Indies north of Cuba, runs through Africa in the southern parts of Algeria, Libya and Egypt, divides Saudi Arabia in half, divides the Indian continent and Formosa and runs north of the Hawaiian islands in the Pacific. All north of this line in the Atlantic area is declared off limits to any would-be aggressor. An armed attack on any part of it will be declared an armed attack on all.

Pacific Pact Seen

Pacific nations aligned with the West, such as Australia, New Zealand and the Philippines, soon may produce, in concert with the big western powers, a Pacific defense alliance dovetailing with the Atlantic one.

Latin America's 21 republics already are linked with the United States in a defense alliance covering the Western hemisphere—the Pact of Rio De Janeiro.

Russia, for her part, has an intricate series of alliances of friendship and mutual aid with Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, Finland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Albania.

A third world bloc may some day be spearheaded by India and Pakistan, perhaps joined by the Arab world of the Near East, in an attempt to remain militantly aloof from the quarrels of the great powers. India, Pakistan and Ceylon still are dominions in the British commonwealth, but the Indians have announced they want to become entirely independent.

Dutch Rule Opposed

In the Pacific, the Indonesian republic has carried on a dogged struggle against The Netherlands. The Netherlands now is engaged in a scheme to make all Indonesia, with its millions of people and great natural resources, a sovereign federation under the Dutch crown. Britain has given up Burma, which now is fighting her own grim battle against Communists and Karen rebels. Communists are driving southward in Malaya. These events have had a tendency to pull the nations of the Southeast Asia area together for their common interests.

China is in a condition of turmoil, Nationalist China, if there is anything left of it after the now-waning Civil war, might side with the western powers or might try to seek her own level in a lineup of Asiatic states. North China, under the domination of victorious Communists, almost certainly would side with Russia, even though the Kremlin is none too trustful of the Chinese Communists and their apparent predilection for nationalism.

Occupied Japan probably would turn up on the side of the western allies in the event of a new world conflict. Western-occupied Germany and Austria likely would do the same.

Te Atlantic Pact's framers insist it remains within the framework of the United Nations, which, in the technical wording of the charter, it does.

But in the halls of the United Nations, Russia has wielded her veto power frequently and the nations of the West have held the Russians guilty of throwing roadblocks on the route to world security.

The West insists that the Atlantic treaty in fact will strengthen the chances for world peace by strengthening the member nations politically, economically and militarily. Russia, however, calls the formation of the alliance an act of aggression and says it will lead to World War III.

Work Prospects Bright In Lubbock Area

Surplus Labor Supply Declines

"The prospect for continued full employment in the Lubbock area throughout 1949 is extremely bright," E. J. Berry, placement manager of the Lubbock office of the Texas Employment Commission said Friday.

"This outlook is equally true for both farm and non-agricultural workers," Berry added.

While unemployment at the present time is just slightly above normal at this time, Berry explained, the figure is so small that it can be quickly absorbed as the weather improves. Actually the term "normal" is based on what the TEC considers a balanced supply and demand for the requirements of this immediate vicinity.

January and February are always the peak months for unemployment in most parts of the United States, Berry said. This holds true for Lubbock and the surrounding counties. Some of this labor supply has already been absorbed here and more of the slack will be taken up by the end of March, Berry believes.

"There is one type of worker whom we are unable to help very much," Berry continued. "That is the itinerant skilled factory worker from the highly industrialized states of the east and the midwest."

Problem Is Presented

Many of these people have heard about the tremendous growth of the southwest and the employment opportunities here. But these same people fail to realize that there are no industries in the southwest of the type with which they are familiar, Berry stated. All the TEC can do in these cases is recommend that the applicant go elsewhere to seek work or change occupations.

"While we don't hold out much hope for the factory worker we do have frequent calls for construction and road workers, general maintenance personnel, retail and wholesale trade employes and service or domestic help," Berry said. "Usually our files contain enough names to care for the normal demand from employers."

Figures Are Revealed

A labor market letter released by the TEC Friday shows that of the total 26,760 non-agricultural workers in the Lubbock region only 1,925 of them are employed in manufacturing. All others are employed in non-manufacturing trades and service occupations. Of these latter 6,800 are engaged in the retail trades alone. The next highest category is the service workers with 3,835 and this is followed by 2,610 in the medical and other professional fields.

Board members who were re-elected for a three-year term were Miss Mayme Alexander, Dr. Arthur Jenkins, Roy Boyd, Leifeste, M. C. Butler, and Dr. Embree R. Rose.

Others present at the meeting were Mrs. C. Alvin White, Mrs. Ralph Bedford, Miss Phillips, and Mrs. Morgan Ailes, executive secretary of the association.

Navy Fliers Preparing To Aid Air Force In A-Bomb Warfare

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 18 (AP)—Adm. Louis F. Denfeld, chief of Naval operations, told newsmen today that the Navy is preparing to aid the Air Force in atom bomb warfare.

He said the Navy is testing a new plane, the North American "AJ," which can carry a 10,000 pound atom bomb load. Powered by twin engines, the AJ also is equipped with jet boosters.

Murder Weapon Is Located By Suspect

Youth Is Taken To Scene Of Slaying

BURLESON, Tex., March 18. (AP)—Arthur Clayton Hester came back Friday afternoon to the scene of the bludgeon slaying of Dr. John Lord and calmly led police officers to a weed patch where he had disposed of the weapon.

The handcuffed youth pointed to a long steel rod about a half-inch in diameter. "That's it," he said unemotionally.

"Is that what you hit him with?" Sheriff Houston Walling of Johnson county asked.

"That's it," Hester replied.

Hester, Walling and Fort Worth Detective A. C. Howerton arrived at the farm home where Dr. Lord was found dead ten days ago at 4:50 p.m.

Enroute they stopped at Cleburne to drop off Mrs. Zollie Edwards at Johnson county jail. She is charged with deserting her husband and nine children. Mrs. Edwards and Hester were returned from Los Angeles in a Johnson county automobile.

Hester, completely composed, took the officers on a brief tour through the small farm house in which he had lived with Dr. Lord. He showed them the spot in the living room where he said he struck the TCU dean the first blow.

He pointed out the spot in the bedroom where Dr. Lord had fallen after the last blow on the head.

Youth Is Identified

Then he took Walling and Howerton out to the back of the house and walked unhesitatingly to a spot about 30 yards south of the building.

There, resting partially hidden by weeds, was the steel rod.

Hester who was captured last Saturday in the Los Angeles home of his stepsister, Mrs. Annie Gadberry, was identified Friday morning in Coahoma as the youth who left Dr. Lord's grey sedan at the J. B. Martin service station and garage on the night of March 3, several hours after Dr. Lord was slain.

Martin confronted Hester as the 18 year old prisoner stepped from the car in which officers were returning him to Cleburne to face murder charges.

"I know that boy," Martin exclaimed.

"Yeah, how are you doing?" the jaunty Hester responded.

Martin told Walling and Howerton that Hester was accompanied by a young man "more nervous than he was" when he drove up to the service station.

Hester said his companion was a hitchhiker he picked up on the road to Coahoma and that they had separated shortly afterward.

Houston Mayor Says Crowd Attending Opening Like 'Mob'

HOUSTON, March 18. (AP) Mayor Oscar Holcombe Friday said the crowd attending the St. Patrick's Day opening of Oilman Glenn McCarthy's ultramodern Shamrock hotel was the "worst mob scene I've ever seen."

"It was ridiculous," the mayor told a press conference.

Thursday night the crowd which drew the mayor's comments completely upset Dorothy Lamour's nationwide radio program. Nearly half of the 30-minute NBC show was off the air as over 1,000 guests were attempting to find their tables in the hotel's jam-packed Emerald room.

The confusion led to ad libbing by Miss Lamour and her guest stars, Actor Van Heflin and Ed Gardner, the "Archie" of the Duffy's Tavern radio program.

An orchestra finally had to come to the show's rescue. NBC officials said one or two diners had grabbed the microphone. The noise was so great none of the audience could hear the show.

"It was just one of those things when a crowd got out of control," Miss Lamour told reporters.

She said the crowd was still entering the room at the start of the program, that the noise made it impossible for anyone to hear.

"Later the public address system failed and we departed somewhat from our script," she said, adding that there was no profanity involved.

Losses Mounting From Bad Checks

A total of $3,953.63 in bad accounts and bad checks was reported Friday at Lubbock Credit Granters club luncheon, increasing to more than $18,000 the number of such losses reported in the last three weeks.

Concern has been expressed by different members of the organization over the large number of such accounts, said a spokesman.

Of the total reported Friday, bad checks represented $441.35 and delinquent accounts being charged off as loss accounted for $3,512.28.

Big Increase Shown

At last week's luncheon, credit granters had reported approximately $7,000 in losses and the week before they had reported approximately $8,000 in losses. There is no duplication in the weekly reports.

The number represents a big increase over the normal amount. Length of time accounts have been due varies.

Q. B. Taylor, president, presided at the luncheon, which was held in Hilton hotel. Thirty-two persons attended, including one visitor, Miss Bille Jean Sewell of Newsom Paint & Supply Co., and one new member, W. R. Johnson of Securities Credit corporation.

Several members of the Credit Granters club will attend a No. 1 district meeting of Retail Credit Executives of Texas Sunday in Plainview.

Friends Urge Wife Of Late Texas Solon To Fill Seat In Legislature

MEXIA, March 18 (U.P.) — Petitions were being circulated in Limestone county today, urging Mrs. A. R. Henderson of Groesbeck to yield to a draft for the state legislature as successor to her late husband.

Rep. Henderson died Wednesday at the age of 69.

Petitions, already signed by several hundred voters, were being circulated here and at Groesbeck today, asking the widow to accept the position. The place would be subject to a special election. It was understood that Mrs. Henderson would not actively seek the legislative job, but her friends believed she would take it in response to a draft movement.

Oil Firm Announces Plans For Test Well In Dallam County

AMARILLO, March 18. (U.P.)—The Shamrock Oil & Gas company announced Friday it would drill a test well in Dallam county, about 11 miles northwest of Dalhart on a 22,000-acre tract of leases.

Rotary tools and other equipment was being moved to the location this weekend. Asked about the proposed depth of the well, a company spokesman said it would be "adequate." There was no other comment from the company.

3-AA Group Adopts Goodwill Measures

Representatives of four or five schools in District 3-AA of the Texas Interscholastic league adopted several measures designed to foster goodwill among the member schools at a meeting here Friday.

The group, composed of student council members from high schools at Odessa, Midland, Brownfield and Lubbock agreed to appoint delegations from each school for exchange visits within the district, starting in September. Such delegations would provide assembly programs for the host school. It was also decided that meetings such as the one held here would be continued in the interests of furthering goodwill. Lamesa was not represented throughout the meeting, but will participate in the program.

The group went on record condemning "unofficial visits" for the purpose of defacing buildings of rival schools.

The delegates were entertained at dinner at the Chicken Village Friday noon.

Lubbock students who attended the meeting were Charles Galey, student council president; Sammy Dunn, student council secretary; Joyce Worrell, head cheer leader; J. C. Chambers, vice president of the student council; Garnet Reeves, president of the junior class; Rossi Stiles, secretary of the junior class; and Mona Powell, junior cheer leader; and Don Hancock, junior class vice-president.

YOUNGSTERS URGED TO ATTEND

Soap Box Derby Show Planned Today; Rules To Be Explained

Today's the day for the kick-off in Lubbock's second annual Soap Box Derby and several hundred youngsters between the ages of 11 and 16 years are expected to gather at the State theater this morning at 10 o'clock to learn all the details about the big race which will be staged on Monday, July 4.

Sponsored by The Avalanche-Journal, Kuykendall Chevrolet company and the Lubbock Exchange club, the race last year attracted a record entry list for a first-year race in the nation.

To Show Movies

Two motion pictures, one of them by Thord Dockray showing how his son, Karl, built his racer and scenes of the Lubbock race, and, "Patterned for Sportsmanship," the big colored film of the All-American finals at Akron, Ohio, will be shown during the hour and 15-minute program.

Warlick Carr, who was president of the Exchange club during last year's race, will be master of ceremonies. C. W. Ratliff, Avalanche-Journal staff member, who attended last year's Akron race, and Joe Lon Teal, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Teal, 1919 Thirty-first, who won last year's race and went to Akron, will also speak.

Brief explanation of the new rules and instructions on how to register will be given during the show.

Registration Opens Tuesday

Registration for the big race will start Tuesday, March 22, at Kuykendall Chevrolet company, 1901 Texas avenue. Each boy who registers must be accompanied by one of his parents or a guardian.

A number of changes have been made in the rules this year. Notable among them is barring the use of power tools, requirement of open side cockpits for the racers and a limit of 250 pounds on boy and car, eliminating separate weights of boy and car.

As each boy registers for the race, he will be given a rule book, driver's license and brochure on how to build a model racer.

A dozen or so members of the Exchange club, headed by Charles Cathey, club president, and Bill Bartlett, Derby director, will be on hand for this morning's show to aid the boys in learning all about the big race, billed as the greatest amateur racing event in the world.

Michigan Father, 13, Offered Job, Living Quarters On Farm

PAW PAW, Mich., March 18 (INS) A 13-year-old Michigan father today has all he needs to make his "own way in life."

Young Carl Blake, jr., of Paw Paw, Mich., father of a month-old baby, has been offered a job and home.

Up to today, the teen-aged parent feared he would have to give up his 16-year-old bride and young baby.

Dairyman Earl R. Thompson today promised Carl a job as a handyman when he becomes 14 next Tuesday. The new job includes living quarters, permitting Carl to move his small family out of a two-room tar-paper shack they now share with eight in-laws.

The Michigan Labor department already has approved a work permit for the young father effective as soon as he passes his 14th birthday.

Strange Bedfellows

SELDOM has there been more striking proof that politics often makes strange bedfellows than that supplied in the U. S. Senate recently when Southern senators successfully spearheaded a filibuster against an anti-filibuster resolution.

Their acknowledged purpose was to block passage of the President's so-called Civil Rights program further down the line. The filibuster succeeded largely because of the support from Republican senators who supposedly are the hottest advocates of Civil Rights legislation and who, almost without exception, would have to vote for such a law if it should be forced to a showdown.

But, as everyone casually familiar with official Washington knows, many Republican senators don't like the Civil Rights program. They would vote for it, if they had to vote. They would not dare to antagonize the minorities which, in many states, hold the balance of political power. But most of these senators will be exceedingly happy if civil rights — particularly the employment practices feature—never is forced to a vote, provided they can escape blame for obstructing it.

Southern senators are more than happy to assume the responsibility for blocking action, or defeating, the civil rights scheme. They supplied the means by which their Republican colleagues could help block the program without actually going on record against it.

It represented a strange but most effective temporary alliance which demonstrated anew that there usually are lots of ways of skinning a political cat when senatorial minds really want to find them.

Hear The People!

TEXAS is one of the 16 states which do not levy state income taxes. Such taxes have been proposed, or discussed, in most legislative sessions at Austin during the past 20 years. Public reaction invariably has been so unfavorable that scant consideration has been given the idea.

Behind-the-scenes maneuvering now is reported in the State Capitol in behalf of an income levy. Whether such a proposal will be brought into the open remains to be seen. Advocates of the bill have had difficulty finding a legislator to introduce it. If introduced, prospects for its passage now seem virtually non-existent. Texans apparently have no cause for worry about an income tax bill in the present Legislature.

But advocates of a State levy persist in their efforts—and are to continue their persistence so long as there is a possibility of imposing such a tax. The identities of chief supporters of the scheme are obscure. They unquestionably include out-of-state interests which have markets in Texas for their products but which would escape a proportionate share of a state income tax, if one should be levied. Their reasoning is that if Texans are required to pay state income taxes, other levies upon out-of-state interests would be eased or removed.

Perhaps they will not succeed now or ever, in their efforts. But they are pretty sure to keep on trying unless and until Texans approve a constitutional amendment forbidding a state income tax. Such an amendment is pending at Austin now. The best interests of Texas will be served if it is submitted to a vote of the people and approved by them.

A cutting remark frequently comes from a blunt tongue.

Many a man loses his pull by trying to use it too much.

Pop Goes The Queen

By BOB WADE and BILL MILLER
Distributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: Assigned to Cottage 15 at a de luxe resort, John Henry and Sin Conover, quiz show winners, receive an unexplained visit from an armed man, Homer Anglin, soon after their arrival. Later, Anglin appears where the Conovers have been dining and tells Johnny "You already got it," before he dies from a bullet wound. Returning to their cottage, the Conovers find it occupied by Faye Jordan and their luggage moved after being searched to Cottage 14, next door. Johnny speculates that Faye was to meet Anglin but through a mixup in numbers, there being no Cottage 13, he came to the wrong one. Johnny decides to "get chummy" with Faye and get to the bottom of the mystery, but Sin is just a little jealous.)

THE morning sun had already sent golden rays like soft-tipped arrows to invade the palm-shaped grounds of the hotel upon the hill.

Vernon, the depressed bellhop, departed from cottage 14 with the dirty dishes and few remnants of breakfast. Sin returned to the living room a moment later, her hair brushed into a smooth page-boy that glinted like a ruby.

"Johnny, what are you doing?"

John Henry stopped peeking outdoors between slats of the Venetian blinds and spun hastily, his round face guilty. "Just—looking out," was the best he could think of.

"What at?" Sin went to the window herself. "Oh!" She raised one stern eyebrow at her husband. The occupant of Cottage 15 was disappearing down the flagstone path toward the hotel. There was a great deal of pale skin which her white knitted bathing suit didn't cover.

"Just checking up," John Henry said lamely.

"Oh, yeah?"

"I heard her door slam and I was curious. Ever since you figured out that cottage number business—"

"Now see here, John Henry—"

John Henry sabotaged her objections. He seized her pliant body, bent it back across his arm, bit the tip of her nose gently and lifted her back to her feet. She came up laughing.

"What have you got in your pocket, anyway?" she wanted to know. Her hand plunged into the breast pocket of his dark-blue sport coat. "Oh," she said, "here's your pencil," and dropped the mechanical gadget back into his pocket. Sin pivoted happily away from him, her full peasant skirt whirling about her bare legs.

"What a wonderful place to be!" Then she stopped. "Honey, what's the matter?"

JOHN HENRY'S grin had vanished. He put a slow hand into his breast pocket and pulled the pencil into view again. His forehead had corrugated into puzzled lines. "Funny," he said.

"Johnny, is something wrong?"

He didn't raise his eyes from the pencil. "This isn't mine."

"You sure?"

"Of course I'm sure. Never saw it before in my life." It was an ordinary mechanical pencil, colored black and sea-green, with a gold point and a removable eraser. "That's what he meant."

"Who meant? What are you talking about?"

"Anglin. 'You already got it.' This is what I've got, Sin. Anglin stuck this in my pocket when he fell against me last night."

He turned it over and over, while his brown eyes scrutinized its scratched surface. He gave an impatient grunt.

"What are you looking for, honey?"

John Henry took off the removable eraser and peered into the dark recesses of the cylinder. There seemed to be something wrapped tightly around the pencil's lead cartridge. He probed for it with a forefinger, then borrowed one of Sin's bobby pins. A couple of grunts later, he breathed out in satisfaction and pried a long narrow strip of tightly rolled paper from the interior of the pencil. "Well!" he announced.

THE paper was oiled and the tight rolling made it hard to handle since it kept coiling up between John Henry's fingers. The Conovers persued the column of writing on the paper strip and then looked at each other for an answer.

"What do you make out of that?" John Henry wanted to know.

Sin took the narrow strip of oiled paper from her husband and read it off slowly, carefully, "R-1. L-3. R-2. L-1. R-2. L-3. R-1. L-2. R-1. L-1. R-2. L-3, R-2. L-5. R-1. L-3. R-2. L-1. R-1."

"Must be a code," John Henry muttered "R and L usually stand for right and left, but maybe this is a cipher."

"I don't know," Sin admitted. Then she added, "I don't want to know."

John Henry wound up the oiled paper and replaced it in the barrel of the pencil. This done, he pulled open the center drawer of the small redwood writing desk, deposited the instrument reverently in the pencil trough, and closed the drawer again. "Psychology," he explained condescendingly, "The best place to hide anything is right under people's noses. They never think to look in the obvious places."

Sin remembered her own luck along this line in parlor games but said nothing. The sooner the pencil was stolen and gone, the better. "Hey, where you going, Johnny?"

"Back in a few minutes," John Henry said from the doorway. "After all that's happened, I want to grill this Jordan woman."

"Johnny, you come back here!"

"I won't be long—"

"John Henry—I warn you—"

"I know you'll be reasonable, Sin."

John Henry Conover closed the blue door in time to block the pillow hurled by his reasonable wife.

Looking At Life - - By Erich Brandeis

"DARK glasses are the refuge of the neurotic," said a noted Capetown physician in an article in this month's South African Journal.

"Psychologically their use is often a sign of unwillingness to take a proper view of the world, or perhaps it is to avoid the appraising gaze of the outside world," writes the good doctor.

BRANDEIS

Nonsense!

It is a curious phenomenon that so many learned people know so little about the things they have learned out of books.

"I'll never forget the cartoon I saw in one of the sophisticated periodicals some years ago.

It showed the reception room of a magazine for parents. It was the function of that magazine to tell mothers and fathers how to bring up their kids. It was all very scientific and learned.

The cartoon showed a youngster standing in the middle of the room and a number of people in white coats, with eye glasses, some with whiskers, thoughtfully inspecting the visitor.

Then one of them exclaimed with an air of triumph:

"A Child! ! !"

You would have thought he had made an earth-shaking discovery.

In New York's Stork club, in Hollywood's Romanoff's, in Chicago's Pump Room I have seen many would-be-celebrities wearing dark glasses.

Rather than wanting to avoid the gazes of the world they were trying to provoke them.

Those glasses were worn to attract the attention of the onlookers.

Every once in a while they'd take them off, and you should see the expression of disappointment when nobody recognized them!

Real accomplishment does not need props.

Accomplishment is recognized by deeds, not by looks.

To want to accomplish something is natural. It is the sort of thing that has made America great.

For instance, a few days ago a fellow out in Seattle won some kind of championship because he ate more clams than any of his competitors.

A lot of people laughed about it.

I didn't. He accomplished something. He didn't need dark glasses for his moment of glory.

A WOMAN won the duck-carving championship at the Sportsman's Show last week.

A waste of time? Not at all.

Anything well done is worth doing, because it gives the doer pride and self-respect and fires his ambition for other things to do.

Charles Harding, a 17-year-old Fredericksburg, Va., high school student, threw a dollar across the Rappahannock River 100 feet farther than George Washington did.

Who knows? Maybe that fellow will try to do other things better than Washington did.

And, with what the dollar is worth these days, don't you have to throw it farther to make it go just as far?

Reds May Seek Bases

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Russia's first overt and hostile reaction to signing of the North Atlantic Pact will probably be an attempt to obtain military control of the Spitsbergen Islands, in the opinion of Pentagon and State Department experts at the Capital. They explain that this would be American strategy if the United States were confronted with the problem that now faces Stalin.

These Norwegian possessions inside the Arctic Circle command a vast stretch of the North Atlantic, including the shipping lanes to Russia's only important ports in this area, Murmansk and Petsamo. Planes from bases located on Spitsbergen could also dominate polar skies that provide the shortest bombing routes between Russia, Canada and the U.S.

TUCKER

In short, this frozen and isolated outpost would be as vital in a clash between the Soviet and the Western powers as Britain, Gibraltar and Japan would be if hostilities should break out in the areas which these geographic citadels control.

FEAR: The Reds already have a foothold here as a result of a pre-1917 concession giving them concessionaire rights to operate coal mines on the islands. They might easily stir up trouble at these properties as a pretext for military occupation. That has been their game in several "iron curtain" countries.

Russia showed her fear over this threat to her safety or ability to wage aggressive war in 1946, when she proposed that Norway and Moscow declare the defense of Spitsbergen to be a matter of concern to both countries.

With hostile forces controlling these islands and Britain, it is possible that Red warships and planes could be bottled up within Baltic waters and on the continent. The Norwegian parliament declined the offer for joint defense.

Moscow has warned Oslo that any grant of bases to a foreign power under the North Atlantic Pact would be regarded as a "hostile act." So far, there is no plan to make such a demand on Norway by other signatories.

CHOICE: The Molotov-Vishinsky shift in the Foreign Office has aggravated fears here that the Soviet government may precipitate a crisis by seizing Spitsbergen. Such a move during Senate debate on approval of the pact might panic the men on Capitol Hill, in view of its warlike possibilities.

The United States, Britain and Western European powers would then be confronted with the same choice that England had to make when Hitler invaded Poland. It would be virtually impossible for us, in view of our present military weakness, to prevent a Russian invasion. At the same time, the occupation of Spitsbergen would constitute "aggression" as it is defined in the still uncompleted agreement.

To make matters even more difficult, the U.S. is a signatory of a 1920 treaty which recognizes Norway's sovereignty over these islands and forbids the establishment of military bases there.

Russia also signed and ratified, but her record of broken promises gives Washington no assurance that she will keep this pledge, if it operates against her national interests.

SECRETARY: President Truman has been accused of appointing Col. Louis A. Johnson as Secretary of National Defense for political considerations. The honor has been described as a reward for the West Virginian's money-raising abilities at a time when many prominent Democrats would not contribute a dime to such a sure loser as the man from Missouri.

But the fact is that Mr. Truman, then a Senator, proposed Col. Johnson for this post as early as 1942. Word reached the Senate that Henry L. Stimson wanted to retire because of his age and the tremendous burden of military and industrial mobilization. As chairman of the Senate Committee investigating the conduct of the war, Mr. Truman learned of the possibility from Army witnesses and friends.

He and Senator Owen Brewster of Maine, ranking Republican committee member, discussed the question of a successor, and they agreed that the logical man was Col. Johnson. They persuaded the late Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, who was Wendell Willkie's 1940 running-mate to write a letter at Mr. Truman's request, urging the Johnson appointment.

RACE: In 1940, Franklin D. Roosevelt named Edward R. Stettinius as chairman of a committee to frame a program for industrial mobilization. Mr. Truman asked F.D.R. for a copy of this report, but Mr. Roosevelt refused to give it to him. When the Missouri Senator became President, he found the Stettinius proposals were patterned on those which Col. Johnson had made as Under Secretary of War.

President Truman also came upon the McNary letter of 1942, favoring the West Virginian. So, the latter's selection was virtually inevitable as soon as James V. Forrestal resigned.

Incidentally, friends who recognize Col. Johnson's ancient ambitions expect him to be a leading candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1952. And should our relations with Russia worsen, either in a "cold war" or in actual hostilities, the former head of the American Legion might give "Ike" Eisenhower a race, if the World War II commander should decide that he is a Democrat.

The public opinion pollsters are still finding 8 per cent of the people without opinions. We wonder why we never come in contact with any of these undoubtedly charming persons.

At times it seems that about the only advance with respect to motion pictures that has been made since the days of the nickelodeon is in the admission prices.

Years ago we used to believe hell was in the center of the earth, but in recent years we have learned it is 4,000 miles from that point—in all directions.

Prejudice is something that only the person on the other side of the political fence possesses.

Job had patience but of course he never had to wait until the announcer completed his three minute commercial before the program could continue.

Another good way to make war unpopular is to devise a means of taking the profit out of it.

How does one expect a universal brotherhood of man when it's hard for two families to live peacefully under the same roof?

If you can fool more than half of the people all of the time, you are a successful politician.

Before the war was that period when they referred to an automobile as being in the low price range.

FILIBUSTER STAND EXPLAINED

Truman Facing Strong Coalition

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The big question that follows the rebuff of the administration on the matter of Senate rules changes to restrict filibusters is what effect it may have on President Truman's legislative program.

It is a setback, of course, on the civil rights measures that were primarily involved here, at least for some time.

But it is not safe to forecast from this result what may happen to other Truman objectives in the domestic field. In this connection an analysis of the combination that thwarted the Senate Democratic leadership offers some guidance.

STOKES

Senator Scott Lucas (Ill.), Democratic floor leader, had to back down from his position on rules changes when confronted with a petition signed by 52 senators, more than a majority. The 52 were almost evenly divided on party lines—27 Democrats and 25 Republicans.

Many From West

Aside from 17 Southern Democrats whose position requires no explanation, the others, both Democrats and Republicans, came by and large from less populous states and mostly from the west. Only two big industrial states in the east were represented, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, with one senator from each. Indiana, alone, was represented in the middle western sections east of the Mississippi river. Both of its senators were signers. In addition, both Maine senators signed the petition, as did both senators from two border states, Maryland and Kentucky, and one from Delaware.

This becomes significant if we go back to the breakdown, and first to the national conventions of the two major parties.

In the Republican convention the predominant influence in the party's platform pledges on civil rights was the big Eastern and Midwestern industrial states with their large urban populations where civil rights is an important issue because of concentration there of minorities. Delegates to national conventions are selected according to population, while every state, large or small, has two members in the Senate, so that the influence of the more populous states weighs far less heavily in the Senate than it does in national conventions.

As for the Democratic convention, its platform plank on civil rights, it may be recalled, was put over in a floor fight in which the Southern Democrats were outnumbered, even though they got scattering support, much of it from the West. The southern position is reflected to a much greater degree in the Senate than in party conventions.

In the second place, there is the matter of constituencies that were represented in the Senate petition.

In the western states the negro population is small, in some cases almost negligible as, for example, to cite a few illustrations in states represented on the petition—Nevada, 644 in the 1940 census; Idaho, 595; South Dakota, 474; North Dakota, 201; Arizona, 14,993; Nebraska, 14,171. Nor are other minorities substantial numerically.

Population Means Little

Local pressures which operate on senators are, therefore, not so heavy in such states. How much a part local political pressures are playing on this issue was revealed in the talk at party conferences behind closed doors during the filibuster fight. Senators frankly weighed this consideration in their discussions. It is a rather depressing spectacle, but nevertheless a cold, hard fact, and contrasts strikingly with the fulsome oratory you hear in public.

It reveals, also, how so-called "mandates" as counted in total national votes are diffused, or disappear, when translated into the Senate. The interest in civil rights by millions of voters in such big states as New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio can be translated into only eight votes in the Senate, and can be offset by eight votes from four small states with a combined population less than one big city in such large states—New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, or Cleveland, for example.

There is another interesting thing about the combination against the administration on this issue. Only 17 of the 52 are up for re-election in 1950. Six are Southern Democrats, with civil rights no issue against them. Of the seven Republicans, only one is from a state east of the Mississippi—Indiana. Of the four other Democrats, two are from border states, Maryland and Kentucky, and two from the Far West.

President Truman will have a Republican-Southern Democratic coalition on every issue practically in this Congress. But the pattern will change, that is, be composed of different senators. On some issues the combination against him will not be as strong as on this, so it cannot be taken as a forecast.

Longer Range Seen For A-Powered Plane

CLEVELAND, March 18 (INS)—A top aeronautical scientist expressed belief today that flight ranges would be "virtually unlimited" if atomic energy could be used to power airplanes.

John Stack, co-winner of the 1948 Collier Areonautical Research award, also predicted that thermo-jet propelled aircraft will surpass all existing long-distance flight records.

He told a Cleveland meeting of the nation's foremost jet engine experts that atomic energy as a motive power for planes will come; but it is now too early to make a reliable forecast. However, he added:

Unlimited Range Predicted

"One thing is certain; a plane powered with atomic energy will have virtually unlimited range."

Stack said jet engine development is "just beginning" but that jets eventually will replace propeller-driven airplanes.

Stack, director of research at the Langley, Va., laboratory of the National Advisory Committee for Areonautics, said this development hinges on improved efficiency of present jet engines and resulting lower costs.

He said initial expenses of a switchover to jet propulsion is a major obstacle in preventing jet-propelled transport planes.

Stack said the U.S. at present leads the world in aeronautical research and added:

"Of course, Russia, or any other country, may develop certain aspects beyond our present efforts. But taken as a whole, aeronautical research is based on the broad, industrial background of the country.

"And in that respect, no nation can equal us. . ."

Famous Plastic Surgeon Dies Of Heart Attack In Houston

HOUSTON, March 18. (U.P.)—Dr. H. L. D. Kirkham, known internationally for his work in plastic surgery, died suddenly at his home here Friday. He was 62.

A heart attack was blamed for the death of the surgeon, who first gained national recognition for his work after World War I.

In World War II, he was a commander, and was awarded the Legion of Merit three years ago for meritorious service as head of the department of plastic surgery in the San Diego, Cal., Naval hospital.

Dr. Kirkham was a past president of the American Association of plastic surgeons, a past president of the Texas Surgical society, and a diplomat and member of the American Board of Plastic Surgery.

TO DIRECT SING-SONG—Walter Jenkins, above, of Houston, internationally known song director who has directed singing at the last 22 conventions of Rotary International, will participate in the Parade of Quartets at Lubbock Senior High school auditorium tonight. He will direct a community sing-song of all those attending the affair, sponsored by the local chapter of SPEBSQSA. Jenkins has been director of the choir of the First Methodist church at Houston 18 years and formerly directed singing for Billy Sunday.

STOCKS IN SLOW DROP

NEW YORK, March 18. (AP)—Demand for stocks faded today and prices were slowly marked down.

Cotton

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, March 18. (AP)—Cotton moved lower today under persistent pressure of liquidation and hedging. The market was influenced by sharp increase in repossession of loan cotton, reports that loan equities are selling somewhat cheaper and advices that mills will be able to spread their raw cotton supplies further into the spring because of further production curtailment.

Futures closed 15 cents a bale higher to 25 lower than the previous close.

us," Berry said by way of comparison. "It was equally good then, which leads us to believe that Lubbock is undergoing a very healthy and steady growth. It has bordered on a boom but it has been a controlled boom and one that has not gotten out of hand to cause a collapse later."

"I don't feel that we are being over optimistic at all when we say that 1949 will be as good a year as any in the past for employment in Lubbock," Berry summarized. "We believe that the peak figure of 1,200 unemployed which was reached in February will be reduced to 900 not later than April 1. That is getting close to an absolute minimum which is always available in a fluctuating market."

Income Tax Collections Ahead Of 1948 In First Day's Count

WASHINGTON, March 18. (AP) Income tax collectors had counted up $748,557,272 in receipts the first day after the March 15 deadline for returns, a treasury report showed Friday.

This was well above the $625,779,269 tallied the day after the income tax deadline last year.

But whether it reflected heavier cash payments on late returns this year or merely faster counting could not be determined at this stage. Finishing the tally on near-deadline returns usually takes at least two weeks.

Up to the deadline, receipts were lagging farther behind last year than had been anticipated in January budget estimates, which forecast a $600,000,000 deficit for fiscal 1949, which ends June 30.

A continuance of that lag might make the deficit as much as $1,200,000,000 officials said. A spurt in late receipts, on the other hand, could reduce the predicted deficit or even eliminate it.

Mines Bureau Reports Increase In Crude Petroleum Stocks

WASHINGTON, March 18 (AP)—The Bureau of Mines reported today that stocks of domestic and foreign crude petroleum totaled $264,171,000 barrels on March 12, a net increase of 1,354,000 barrels for the week. Domestic crude increased 1,945,000 barrels; foreign crude decreased 91,000.

Daily average production was 5,123,000 barrels, a decrease of 64,000. Runs to stills averaged 5,452,000, a decrease of 63,000.

Stocks, by grade or origin, and change from previous week (in thousands of barrels):

SCHOOL CARRIES ON

HAMLIN, W. Va. (U.P.)—Fire destroyed Hamlin's $250,000 high school but it didn't keep the students from their classes. Science pupils continued their studies in a mortuary; commerce students in the county jail basement; physical education pupils in a church recreation room and home economics pupils around a donated domestic sewing machine.

U.S. Could Invoke Both Atlantic And Rio Treaties If Nation Should Be Attacked

By PIERRE LOVING
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 18 — A State department spokesman said tonight in the event of an attack upon the U. S., this country presumably could invoke at once both the Rio and the proposed Atlantic pacts.

This would mean that in addition to having the aid outlined in the North Atlantic pact from the seven other participating nations, the United States also would have the assistance of the 21 Latin American nation in the Rio Reciprocal Defense treaty.

Department Spokesman Michael J. McDermott emphasized that the Latin American countries have no obligations under the projected North Atlantic pact. He said their obligations are contained in the United Nations charter and the pact made at Rio De Janeiro.

He noted that under the Rio treaty if there is an attack on the U. S. within the western hemisphere security zone, the Latin American nations would be obligated to aid in meeting the attack.

If the attack occurred on a European party to the Atlantic pact, or on the United States outside the areas specified in the Rio treaty, McDermott said that the 21 Latin American nations would be obligated to consult to determine what to do.

McDermott said the Atlantic pact will deter aggressions and insofar as it does, it will diminish the likelihood that the Rio treaty ever will have to be invoked insofar as the United States is concerned.

McDermott made his statement in reply to questions put to him by representatives of the three major wire services. He was asked what are the U. S. prerogatives under the Rio defense treaty if an attack is made on an Atlantic pact country.

Two Pacts Separate

McDermott said that the United States, if attacked within the Western Hemisphere security zone would have the right to request the immediate aid of the Latin American countries.

On the other hand, he added, if the attack occurs in any other part of the world the United States, as well as any other American nation, could demand consultations among the American nations if it considered that the attack endangered the peace and security of the western hemisphere.

The State department official underscored that these rights of the American republics are neither increased nor decreased by the Atlantic treaty. He pointed out that the two treaties are separate and that each stands on its own feet.

They are similar, he said, in that both are arrangements dealing with problems of peace and security within the framework of the UN charter and subject to its provisions.

He noted that both treaties are purely defensive in character and seek to discourage aggression.

He explained further that the fact that certain provisions of both treaties might be involved in the same situation does not arise from any so-called organic relationship between them. They stem rather from what he called the realities of international security in the world today.
