

Israeli planes bomb terrorist base

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli warplanes today rocketed and bombed the east Lebanon base of pro-Iranian Moslem terrorists suspected in the recent suicide truck-bombings of U.S., French and Israeli military positions. Heavy casualties were reported. Meanwhile guerrilla mutineers fought their way into the Baddawi refugee camp today. Beirut radio said Yasser Arafat's last Mideast bastion had fallen, but his loyalists were reported battling the rebels hand to hand. An aide to Arafat's chief military adviser said rebels and loyalists were engaged in fierce combat in the middle of the camp, with the Arafat forces still holding the southern edge of Baddawi. A Lebanese reporter said he could hear small arms fire coming from the camp but that artillery bombardment of Baddawi had ended, presumably because the rebel forces and their Syrian backers did not want to fire on their own men. Before the mutineers breached the camp's perimeter, Syrian artillery units slammed shells into Baddawi. In Tripoli, a Syrian-supplied rebel tank was firing on a 15-story building near Arafat's political headquarters in the Zahrieh section. Guerrillas loyal to Arafat, chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, returned fire from the Baddawi camp, northeast of the city, with multiple rocket launchers. They also used anti-aircraft guns, with their muzzles lowered, to fire on attacking rebel forces. From the hills above Baddawi, it appeared the camp was surrounded by rebels on all sides except for a sector at the south and southeast, which was where fighting with artillery, rocket-propelled grenades and small arms was focused at noon today. In Beirut, a hand grenade was hurled at a U.S. Marine position but no one was injured. Outside the city, Druse and Christian militias fought with artillery and rockets.

Prison official gets fired

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — The chief of the Texas Department of Corrections' internal investigations division has been fired as part of an apparent move by the prison board to take control of Texas' massive prison system. Paul Haymes, who was appointed supervisor of the operational audits division in September 1982, was relieved of duty Monday by interim director Daniel V. McKaskle, said prison spokesman Rick Hartley. Haymes, 57 and a former FBI agent, could not be reached at home for comment Tuesday night.

Greyhound talks hopeful

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Negotiators for Greyhound and 12,700 strikers resumed bargaining Tuesday for the first time since a nationwide walkout two weeks ago, and a union official asked local presidents to come to Phoenix and vote on a new company offer. The talks resumed as America's biggest bus line made "dry runs" to prepare for resuming service later this week. Harry Rosenblum, the union's chief negotiator, said the bus company planned to make a new offer Wednesday morning.

Blaze, smoke scare noted

Snyder firemen were dispatched to two reported building fires Tuesday. The firefighters were called to the Whataburger restaurant on South College Ave. at 7:10 a.m. where they encountered a considerable amount of smoke. A burned out transformer in a heater unit was found to be the source. Minor damage was reported to the E.J. Stevenson residence one-half mile west of Hermleigh following a fire on the roof of the house reported at 5:20 p.m. Snyder firemen went to the scene and assisted members of the Hermleigh Volunteer Fire Department in extinguishing the blaze.

Chamber has nominations for directors

Three new names were submitted Tuesday for membership on the board of directors for the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

These will now be offered to the full chamber membership for approval. Those newly nominated for three-year terms include Jack Denman, supervisor for the Sun Gas Company Gasoline Plant; Jerry Vestal, local CPA with the firm Anderson, Anderson and Vestal; and Max von Roeder, owner-operator of Von Roeder Seed Farms.

Also nominated was Phil Fortune, currently serving out the unexpired term of Brian Boswell, who resigned a few months ago. Fortune is a customer service representative for Texas Electric Service Company.

Current board members with terms due to expire are Morris Light, David Hines, Fortune and Ernie Armstrong, this year's chamber president.

Several reports were offered also during the November meeting of the chamber board.

According to Murray Anne Ray, the recent White Buffalo Days celebration grossed a little more than $17,000 with net profits of some $9,000.

From this, $4,500 of hotel/motel tax funds were repaid to the city. Originally, $7,000 had been allotted to the White Buffalo Days committee from hotel/motel funds.

The remaining monies will go towards next year's historical celebration.

In addition Tuesday, David Thompson reported that the Crime Stoppers program is progressing here with some $400 paid out to date for three separate crime tips.

Chamber Manager Mort Ewing gave the Board of County Development report indicating that expenses are currently some 10 percent less than budgeted.

Ewing noted that an ad placed in trade journals advertising Snyder "must be doing some good" since the chamber has received more than 170 inquiries.

It was also mentioned that Kings Highway Mobile Industries might not be fully operational before the first of the year due to slow delivery of needed equipment.

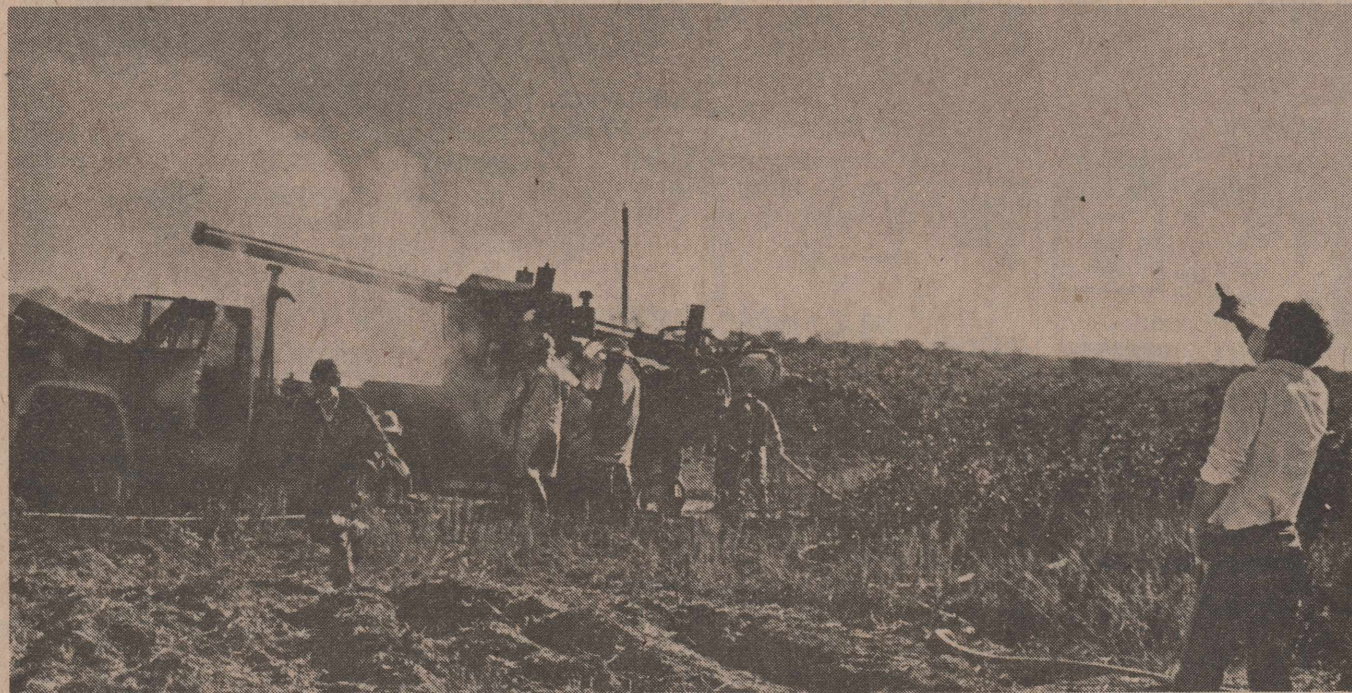

Fortune said that the Business Development Committee would like to request $3,000 from the motel/hotel tax fund to be used for local and area

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Good judgment comes from experience. Experience comes from bad judgment."

There has been a popular book making the rounds in management circles. Entitled "The One Minute Manager," the book offers some interesting theories concerning decision making.

In fact, readers are encouraged to spend no more than one minute in making any one decision. The idea is to make the decision, and make it work.

All of us have known folks who ponder over a problem for weeks and even months and then never come to a conclusion. The book implies that putting off a decision is really a negative answer.

The theories are similar to those expressed by a popular fellow on the lecture circuit who says that any piece of paper or mail should only be handled one time. According to his theory, there should be no stacks of papers on anyone's desk. The desk should be clean first thing in the morning and clean when the worker leaves in the evening.

It's a great theory, but we suspect it will remain just that for most of us—a good theory.

We're interested in another book that's fresh off the press. The paperback is entitled "303 of the World's Worst Predictions."

We think it would be fun reading. One such prediction was from an IBM official who 25 years ago declared, "I think there is a world market for about five computers."

With vision like that, the fellow would make a great of-fensive coach for Texas Tech.

Just how tough is the national economy?

Things aren't bad in some parts of the country according to this economic indicator. In Washington, D. C. the number of file mignons served by the Hilton Hotel through the first nine months of this year, rose by 7,216—an increase of 18 percent.

Man electrocuted by overhead lines

A 30-year-old Snyder man was killed Tuesday when boom poles on a truck he was operating came in contact with overhead power lines.

Killed in the 2:25 p.m. accident was Alex Dexter Anderson of the Coleman Apartments, an anchor truck operator for White's Services of Snyder.

The accident occurred while he was working at an oil well site about 2.5 miles southwest of Ira.

Bob Spaulding, an employee of the Roark and Hooker Oil Co. which operates the No. 2 Rasco Well, told county authorities that Anderson had come to the well site alone and was in the process of drilling holes for pulling unit anchors to be installed around the well.

Spaulding told investigators that he was working some 25 yards from Anderson's location when he heard a sound like an engine backfire. He said he turned to see the truck's boom up against a Mid-West Electric Coop 7,200 volt power line.

Spaulding said the victim was standing on the ground operating controls at the rear of the truck. He said he managed to pull him clear of the truck

Museums again plan Yule event

Plans have been finalized for the traditional "Christmas from the Past" observance at both the Diamond M and the Scurry County Museum.

The holiday event — which yearly attracts several hundred visitors — will have a Victorian era theme this year. It is scheduled from 1 until 5 p.m. Dec. 4, a Sunday.

Activities will begin at the Scurry County Museum and the campus of Western Texas College from 1 until 3 p.m. These will include visits from Santa Claus for the children, refreshments and music by a vocal group under the direction of Jane Womack.

From 3 until 5 p.m., the activities will shift to the Diamond M's Christmas offering "Sacred Paths." This exhibit is on loan from the Museum of New Mexico's traveling exhibit service and focuses on the native American and Hispanic religious influences in the Southwest.

In contrast to the Scurry County Museum's Victorian Christmas tree, the Diamond M will furnish materials for visitors to make "ojos" to decorate a

Ray Marshall warns of unemployment effects

DALLAS (AP) — Former Labor Secretary Ray Marshall says the "cavalier" attitude of the nation's leaders is contributing to serious illnesses and even deaths among the unemployed.

Studies show a correlation between unemployment and deaths from heart disease and cirrhosis of the liver, a disease often resulting from alcoholism, Marshall said Tuesday.

Speaking at the national convention of the American Public Health Association, Marshall cited other studies that link unemployment and suicide, child abuse, infant mortality, admissions to mental institutions and stress-related physical problems.

"There's strong evidence for the conclusion that unemployment causes serious illnesses and deaths," said Marshall, who teaches economics and public affairs at the University of Texas at Austin.

Marshall said many economists' "barbaric approach" to controlling inflation by increasing unemployment "creates not only economic losses ... but much more serious losses to individuals."

Marshall, labor secretary under President Jimmy Carter, criticized the Reagan administration for "roundly ignoring" the 1978 Full Employment Balance and Growth Act, which requires the president and Congress to move toward 4 percent unemployment.

"Economic changes already underway make it very unlikely that we will return to anything like the official full employment level of 4 percent for the rest of this decade and perhaps for the rest of this century," he said.

The national unemployment rate exceeded 10 percent at the height of last year's recession, but it had dropped to 8.8 percent for October of this year and the administration expects it to continue declining as the economic recovery advances.

Americans generally blame the unemployed for their problems, which "tends to destroy the unity of the country and its sense of community," Marshall said.

"The United States is the only industrialized country left where the right of the employer to discharge workers is an absolute right," Marshall said.

A 50 percent unemployment rate among young blacks increases the danger of a welfare society, a substrata of people who never work in their lives, Marshall said. Competition from immigrants and a high functional illiteracy rate compounds the problem, he said.

"The inability to work causes permanent scarring," Marshall said. "If they get to that stage and undergo the personality adjustment of not working, they find it very difficult to get back into a working environment."

He backed legislation pending in Congress that would provide health insurance for the unemployed, saying, "Prevention is a lot better than depending on cures alone."

Unemployed individuals who lose health insurance benefits "tend to defer medical attention until they're very sick," he said.

Marshall also called for increased financing of programs to train and counsel the unemployed, as well as adequate notice of plant closings and large-scale layoffs.

"The available research findings suggest the need for a variety of policies to reduce stress and to target resources among those with the greatest health risks, especially low-income groups who bear a disproportionate share of unemployment-related health problems," he said.

Man takes ex-girlfriend hostage, evacuate area

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A man has been charged with aggravated kidnapping after a tense three-hour hostage situation that prompted the evacuation of a busy office building.

Police said Richard Rollins, 24, of Austin, used a machine gun to hold his former girlfriend hostage in a second-floor insurance office in the Koger Executive Center.

Rollins surrendered about 3:15 p.m. Tuesday after a three-way conversation with FBI agents and a Fort Worth federal judge, said Deputy Police Chief Robert Heuck.

The gunman fired a shot from the automatic weapon into the ceiling, but no other shots were fired and no one was injured, Heuck said.

"Apparently, this all started from an argument between them," he said.

Rollins remained in the Bexar County Jail today in lieu of $50,000 bond set by Night Magistrate Quon Lew.

"He said he needed some medical help," Heuck said. "He wanted medical attention, but he didn't specify what it was."

A federal judge in Fort Worth, at Rollins' request, talked to the man and helped convince him to surrender, the deputy chief said.

"In the conversation with the judge, he decided he wanted to give himself up," Heuck said. "He would surrender only to the FBI, so agents came to the scene."

The chief said he did not know the judge's name, but a clerk for U.S. District Judge David O. Belew in Fort Worth confirmed that police had called Belew's office.

"We got a call ... from someone wanting to talk to Judge Belew about a hostage situation," said clerk Michael Ware. "I don't know what happened, but obviously it was resolved."

Ware said the judge was attending a judicial conference in Savannah, Ga.

Witnesses said Rollins accosted the former girlfriend, Patricia Murphy, outside the office building and then forced her to walk up to the insurance office by threatening to kill other people.

Ms. Murphy had just started working there Monday after transferring from the Fort Worth office of Home Insurance Co., Heuck said.

The woman's co-workers told investigators that she had been arguing with Rollins on the telephone before he showed up at the office complex, which is in Northwest San Antonio.

Western outduels RJC Rangers here, 78-68

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

Anthony Smith hit three straight freethrows to give Western Texas College the lead midway through the second half here last night and the Westerners never trailed again, defeating Ranger Junior College 78-68.

It was the Westerners' third win in a row and leaves them at 5-1 heading into this weekend's McLennan Classic in Waco.

Smith bagged the free shots - one of which was on a technical - with 11:48 left to give the hosts a 51-50 advantage. The lead bulged to six points as sophomore Fred Johnson lofted a fall-away jumper and Victor Spencer came up with a

Ripken named most valuable

NEW YORK (AP) - Cal Ripken Jr., Rookie of the Year in the American League just one year ago, was named today as 1983 AL Most Valuable Player, narrowly defeating Baltimore Orioles teammate Eddie Murray in the balloting.

Ripken, 23, completed his meteoric ascension from rookie standout to MVP by leading the American League in hits with 211, runs with 121 and doubles with 47 last season as the Orioles won their first World Series since 1971.

The Baltimore shortstop also placed among the league leaders in batting average (.318), RBI (102), game-winning RBI (17) and slugging average (.517) to go along with his 27 homers.

And, in only his second season, he has earned the reputation as an ironman by being the only player in the league to play every inning of all 162 games this year, extending his streak of consecutive games to 280.

"Sometimes it's like living in a small fantasy world, things have happened so fast," Ripken said after receiving the phone call that informed him of the award. "I've been excited all day, even if I was just going to the supermarket to buy a bottle of milk."

"Everyone here has been behind both me and Eddie (Murray), and I think I would have been just as excited for Eddie if he'd won. I'm sure he feels the same way."

In balloting conducted by the Baseball Writers Association of America, Ripken received 15 of a possible 28 first-place votes with two votes allocated to each of the 14 American League cities. He was voted second nine times, third three times and fourth once for 322 total points.

three point-play. The margin grew to 13 points minutes later when Richie Fells canned two freethrows in a span which saw Western Texas outscore the opposition 20-6.

Ranger, aided by the bleacher-distance shots of 5-10 guard Jerry Thomas and tough scrambling from Dee Clinch, knocked the advantage to 72-66 with about two minutes left, but Spencer and all-region standout Larry Banks hit freethrows down the stretch to keep the outcome intact.

Western had led through the first 10 minutes of the first half, but slumped in the final 10. Thomas put the visitors in front 19-17 with a long-distance shot, then came back minutes later to pump two more down, 27-20. The Rangers led at halftime, 33-30.

Western's first-half play left Coach Barry Davis criticizing himself and lauding the opponent.

"I think a lot of it was my fault. We approached the game too lightly. You try not to tell the kids something that is not true. You don't tell them a team is better than it is because later on down the line they won't know whether you're shooting straight with them," he said.

Ranger had come into Scurry County Coliseum with four wins in seven games, none of which were over impressive opponents.

"You hope each guy has enough individual pride to do their best each time out."

"You've got to give Ranger, Coach Larry Gibson and their players a lot of credit. They came ready to play and they played a good game," he added. "We played well in the second half but we still haven't learned to play 40 minutes of good basketball."

The Westerners certainly played well enough Tuesday night, however. They shot 58 percent from the field in the second half after a .370 performance in the first 20 minutes, and were 78 percent from the freethrow line.

"I thought the difference was Anthony Smith coming in and putting pressure on the ball and doing a better job of taking care of the basketball for us. They went to a smaller lineup and we were able to work Fred (Johnson) and Larry inside and we had three quick guys - Spencer, Smith and (Richie) Fells outside. Floyd Singleton also came in and helped us out," noted the coach.

Fells and Banks came up with their usual double-digit figures - 19 and 18 respectively - while Smith poured in 19 also. Johnson got seven and Spencer and Singleton added six apiece.

Johnson and Fells had eight rebounds each. Banks had seven.

Ranger was led by Thomas' 22 points. Tim Ford, Larry Scott and Clinch - all sophomores - added 10 apiece. The Rangers shot 48 percent from the field and 54 from the line.

Western's first opponent in the McLennan Classic will be Texas State Technical Institute at 6 p.m. Friday.

Girls improved; says Housden

Coach Ken Housden's varsity girls got their final tuneup before opening the 1983-84 high school season, scrimmaging Borden County here Tuesday.

The girls get the season started next Tuesday in Brownfield.

"We showed quite a bit of improvement from the week before," said Housden, whose girls had worked against Roscoe last Tuesday. "We handled the ball better. We still had some breakdowns handling the ball, but we were improved. Defensively we did really well."

"I'd say we were in a man (man-to-man defense) about 90 percent of the game. They were pretty tall - one girl six-foot and another 5-11 or so and they were beating us inside pretty well. I decided to go to a zone to force them to shoot from outside and boom, they hit several from out there. It was a great coaching move," he joked.

Snyder led the entire game before Borden tied it up in the third quarter. The Tigers regained the lead however, and held it the rest of the way.

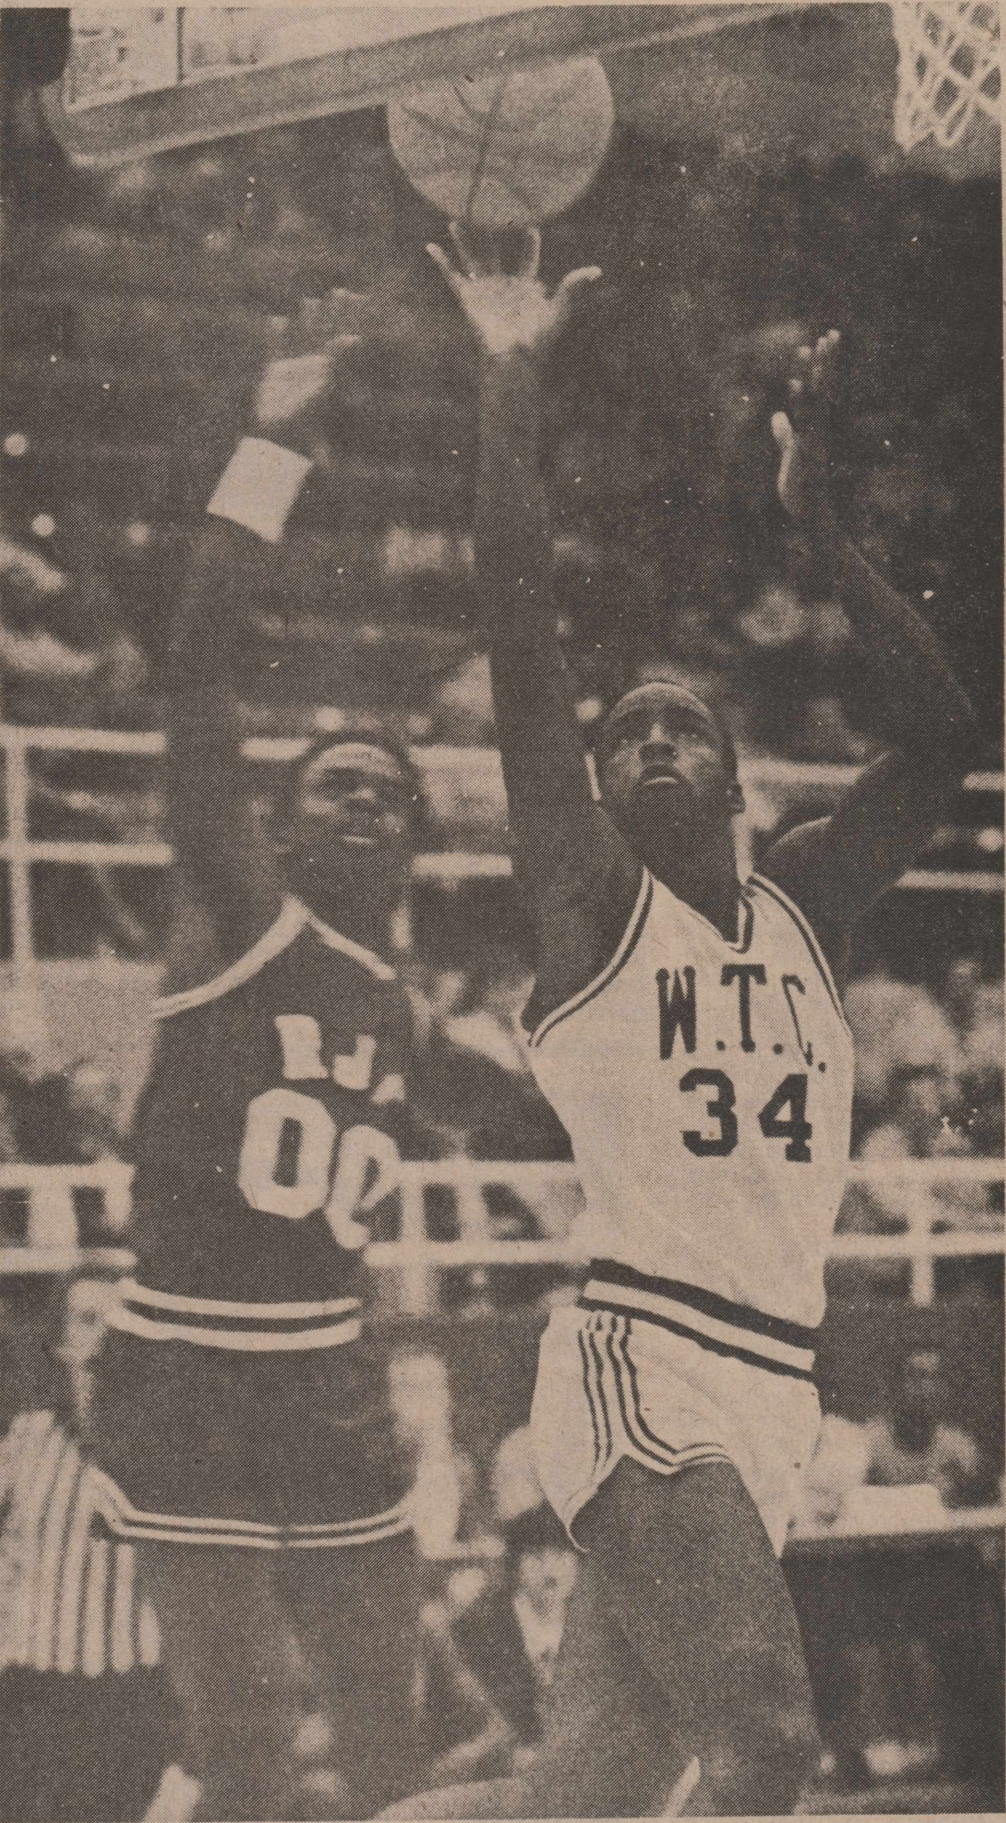

"We shot about 20 percent from the field and 66 from the freethrow line. So we need to bring that field goal shooting up and keep the freethrow percentage there, improve on it a little bit, too," said Housden.

Carmen Rios had 11 rebounds and Karlene Thompson and Carie Housden 10 each. Thompson also had eight steals and 14 points. Housden scored 13.

Snyder junior varsity also scrimmaged Borden County and Housden commented, "Borden County junior varsity wasn't that strong, but the kids did a good job again. They're coming along real well."

Tuesday's action in Brownfield begins with a JV game at 4:30. The varsity will take the floor immediately afterward.

Dusters ready to test Howard tourney field

BIG SPRING -- Coach Joe Cushing's WTC Dusters boast a 4-1 record playing in the evening. The question is, how well can they play in the morning?

The Dusters head into the Howard Hawk Queen Classic here Thursday and face a couple of early morning games and some top-caliber competition if they plan on making the finals.

They tip off in the 16-team tournament at 10 a.m. Thursday against Weatherford, a team they defeated 61-44 already this season. A victory there and in their second-round game would put them back on the court in the early hours again - 8 o'clock Saturday morning. The finals are set for 8 Saturday night.

The early morning games don't bother Cushing. Well, maybe just a little.

"Whatever time we're scheduled to play we'll be there. We're only an hour away and I don't think it'll make any difference. Well, except maybe if we get to the 8 o'clock game Saturday morning," he laughed.

Cushing doesn't think that the Dusters' earlier win over Weatherford will make them lethargic in the first game.

"I think Weatherford will be much improved over that (previous) game," said the coach. "They usually start slowly at the first of the season and come on. I think this year we're in that situation too. We're improving and I feel we're a better basketball team than when we played them the first time."

"Our workouts have been real good this week. The girls know they have something to shoot for (the tournament championship). Besides Howard, we're the only other team that's won this tournament."

Here's how the tournament shapes up for the first round Thursday:

At 8 a.m., Navarro takes on New Mexico Junior College; at 10, Western Texas plays Weatherford; at 12, Lubbock Christian faces McLennan; and at 2, Odessa challenges Southwest Christian.

In the lower half of the bracket, Grayson tries Ranger at 4; Tyler challenges TSTI (Waco) at 6; Cisco meets Howard at 8; and Phoenix and Temple take the floor at 10.

Should Western beat Weatherford, the Dusters would play at 6 p.m. Friday against the Navarro-NMJC winner. A loss would put them against the Navarro-NMJC loser at 2 p.m. Friday.

Curb anxiety attacks

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been experiencing shaking of my hands when I play the piano before people and when taking typing and shorthand tests. It started about five years ago when I began playing the piano at church. At that time, my legs also shook. It is now only in my hands, but it is accompanied by hard pounding heartbeats.

Both problems stop when I am through. I find the problem does not occur when I am accompanied by the organist.

What is the cause and how can I overcome it? I'm a 36-year-old woman.

DEAR READER — Your description is entirely consistent with anxiety. Both the strong heartbeats and shaking can be from your anxiety response.

Confidence helps to eliminate such reactions. That is probably why you don't have these anxious feelings when the organist accompanies you.

The symptoms associated with that form of anxiety are caused by a release of adrenaline — the fight-or-flight hormone. Many professional performers also have similar problems, but usually not to the same degree. The adrenaline reaction can be neutralized by taking a beta-blocker such as Inderal before the stress. It is not a tranquilizer, but simply neutralizes the excessive adrenaline reaction.

Actors have reported being able to perform better when using it.

Why are you so intimidated? That is another question you should ask yourself. And you also might profit from some professional counseling from a psychiatrist.

Meanwhile, there are things you can do to minimize the adrenaline response. I am sending you The Health Letter 19-8, That Anxious Feeling, which will give you details. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

These include avoiding caffeine beverages such as coffee, tea and colas, not smoking and being sure to get some exercise. Exercise before playing the piano may relax you and enable you to perform better without so much anxiety.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 78-year-old woman and in very good health. My problem is a burning tongue and throat, which gets worse as the day passes.

My gastroenterologist doesn't know what causes it. He sent me to an ear, nose and throat specialist who says that it happens to some people as they get older.

I am not satisfied with that answer. Could it be a lack of some food element? I eat a balanced diet and exercise every day. I take Pro-Banthine, Librax, Dialose Plus, Mylicon, Metamucil and Z-Bec with zinc.

DEAR READER — It is a safe bet, since you are taking all that medicine, that you do have digestive complaints. Sometimes irritation of the lower esophagus and esophageal reflux can cause a sensation of burning of the throat.

Burning of the tongue can be from drinking liquids that are too hot or consuming hot foods and hot spices. Rarely antibiotics may be the cause. Smoking also can cause it.

So can some vitamin deficiencies, but in view of your Z-Bec, that is not likely in your case.

The International Red Cross was established in Geneva in 1864. The organization owes its founding to the Swiss banker Jean Henri Dunant, who was so moved by the suffering he witnessed at the battle of Solferino in 1859, he urged the formation of a voluntary aid society.

WATER UTILITY MEETING — The Permian Basin Water Utilities Association, made up of water utility workers from a 21 county area of West Texas, held their annual November meeting and Thanksgiving Dinner at the East Elementary School Cafeteria Tuesday evening. Association members heard a presentation from program chairman K. W. Sharp of Andrews on routine operations and maintenance of water treatment plants.

Continental pilots allege harrassment

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Continental Airline pilots crossing picket lines to work say they've been harassed with classified ads offering their homes for sale, shut-off utilities and threats of bodily harm.

A spokesman for the striking pilots says that while he is aware of the situation, he doesn't know who is responsible and has told his union members not to engage in such acts.

"Someone has taken it on their part to do a little harassment," said James Sandin, a Continental pilot for 15 years whose Tustin home was wrongly advertised for sale last weekend.

"It hasn't hurt me," Sandin said. "The people I really feel sorry for are the people who came out to see the house."

Sandin says people knocked on the door of his three-bedroom home, eager to pay the advertised price of $87,000. Earlier this month, someone told utility companies that the Sandin family was moving to Albuquerque and ordered the phone and gas shut off.

Other advertisements last weekend in two newspapers offered two other pilots' homes for sale at exceedingly low prices.

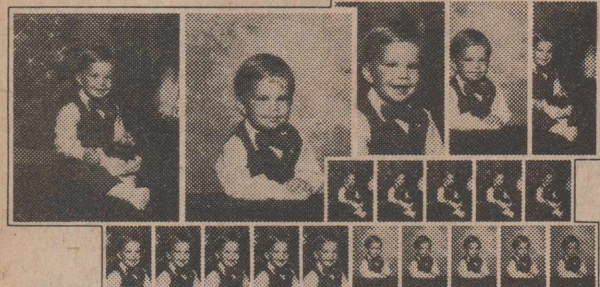

Jim Morin, a 14-year pilot living in Villa Park, said taxis have been dispatched to his home at midnight, callers have threatened to break his arms and legs and his utilities have been shut off by pranksters.

What he meant was that if you want to, you can justify your own methods with any example hand.

Today's hand belongs in six diamonds. There are any number of ways of bidding to this contract; the one shown in the box was used by Howard Parker of Shreveport and Al Chiles of Little Rock.

Al won the club lead in his own hand and saw 12 easy tricks if trumps would break 3-2, so he cashed his ace and king and got the bad news. Then he looked around to see how to come to 12 tricks with that misfortune.

It didn't look easy. Al saw that he could not get there unless West held at least three clubs, so he had to assume that. Then he worked out that if West held 4-2-4-3, he could make his slam.

Two more club leads went through. The A-K of spades, a spade ruff, ace of hearts and a heart ruff followed. Now he led dummy's last spade and ruffed it for trick 11. Another heart was led and West could not keep the trump jack from being the twelfth trick.

Blushing beauty

Blusher is that final touch that sets your makeup in its picture perfect look. Sometimes, though, after several hours it seems to have soaked into your skin leaving you looking wan and pale. Here's an easy tip to stop that from ever happening again. Apply the blusher a layer heavier than usual, then soften the cheeks with a loose, translucent powder and top with a dab bit more blusher. You'll be set for the day!

Derma probe

DUNDEE, Scotland (AP)—A square meter of new skin could be grown from a 2-to 3-millimeter square of human skin, says a Scottish pathologist researching new ways to treat burn victims.

Dr. Michael Faed of Dundee University here is working on a new method of growing skin in culture dishes to avoid grafting large areas of healthy skin tissue from burn victims. Efforts concentrate on speeding up the growth of skin and finding a suitable supporting membrane to avoid curling.

A skin bank is planned if a way can be found to prevent the body from rejecting donor tissue.

Drought aid measure approved by committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation requiring the government to sell 83 million bushels of feed corn at bargain prices to drought-stricken livestock growers has been approved by a Senate-House conference committee.

The committee agreed to the provision Tuesday as part of a dairy and tobacco price support bill, while deciding that farmers and ranchers and not the government should pay the cost of transporting the corn from storage facilities.

Several conferees complained that this would ignore the needs of livestock growers in states where little or no corn is stored and where such transportation costs would thus be much higher.

"They are being directly discriminated against," said Rep. Lindsay Thomas, D-Ga.

However, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said the drought aid provision had originally passed the Senate with the understanding that the federal government would not pay for transporting the corn.

"I believe the bill will be in trouble if we would add back in transportation charges," said Helms.

The drought aid provision had been tacked on the dairy support bill in the Senate by Democratic Sen.

Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, which has been particularly hard hit by the drought. There was no similar provision in the dairy measure approved by the House.

The conference committee met to iron out differences between the two versions of the bill, and the committee's recommendations must again be voted on in both chambers.

The version approved by the committee would require Agriculture Secretary John R. Block to sell the three lowest grades of government-held corn at 75 percent of the government price floor for corn.

That price varies from county to county, but in Lubbock County, Texas, for example, ranchers could buy corn at about $2.04 per bushel compared with a market price of about $3.15, according to Bentsen's office.

Don Newbury reported that the first session of "Century II: Leadership Scurry County" was considered a success with all 15 participants staying for the entire four-hour session. The next meeting will be Dec. 8.

It was reported also that refurbished Christmas decorations will be installed this year along College Avenue south of the square. There are also plans to repeat the Christmas music program on the square. The Christmas lights around the square will be turned on after Thanksgiving.

Chamber director Wedge Turner's name was also submitted for the post of treasurer, subject to the board's approval. Since Boswell's resignation, the chamber board has not had a treasurer. Turner would serve for the remainder of this year as well as next year.

corn would be livestock growers in counties declared disaster areas by the Agriculture Department because of the drought. The corn would be made available to assist in maintaining breeding herds of livestock and poultry, including their offspring.

However, the conferees rejected language calling on the government to pay the cost of transporting the grain to centrally located areas, where it would have been more readily available.

Block has said that grain is stored in 27 states, but that a majority of it is located in Texas, Iowa and Minnesota.

Rep. Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, chairman of the conference committee, said the drought aid would be a big help to Texas ranchers at least.

"This hopefully will take care of the immediate emergency" in Texas, he said in an interview.

About 21 million bushels of the corn are stored in the Texas Panhandle, but Agriculture Department officials have contended that it was not fair to help only one state and that a nationwide program would be too costly.

"Any program you enact, you're not going to satisfy everyone," William Leshner, an assistant agriculture secretary, told the conference committee.

He said providing enough corn for every livestock grower affected by the drought would cost about $800 million, and "if you add transport on top of that, you're talking big bucks."

The limited aid program approved by the conference committee would

Estes is free

BIG SPRING, Texas (AP) — West Texas con-man Billie Sol Estes emerged from prison Tuesday and proclaimed that "I've done the crime, I've done the time and I did it alone."

He previously admitted no specific wrongdoing and indicated he "took the rap" for a number of unnamed associates.

Smiling broadly and wrestling with five rowdy grandchildren, the onetime Pecos agricultural czar left the federal prison camp here shortly after daybreak and said, "I'm going home."

Actually, Estes, 58, a former friend and financial supporter of Lyndon Johnson, will spend the next 30 days under the supervision of a Salvation Army "halfway house" in his hometown of Abilene. He will remain on parole until 1998 for a series of fraud convictions in 1965 and a pair of 1979 convictions for fraud and concealing assets to avoid paying back taxes.

Switching to cigars may not help either

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Cigarette smokers who switch to pipes or cigars may not reduce their risk of lung cancer and heart disease because they still smoke heavily and inhale deeply, a scientist says.

The conclusion, he said, is that cigarette smokers shouldn't be encouraged to switch to pipes or cigars as an alternative to quitting smoking completely.

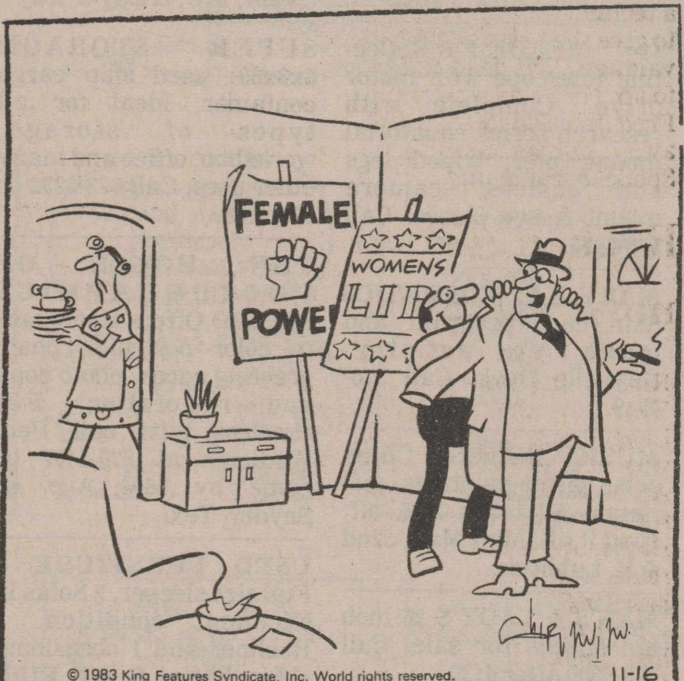

But people who smoke a pipe or cigars and never smoked cigarettes usually are less disease-prone than the former cigarette smokers because they often don't smoke or inhale as much, Dr. Aaron R.

Folsom, a University of Minnesota research fellow, said Tuesday.

Previous research found little difference in disease risks between pipe and cigar smokers and cigarette smokers who switched because those studies failed to examine the number of pipe bowls or cigars smoked daily, said Folsom, who reported his findings at the American Heart Association's annual meeting.

Folsom and his colleagues surveyed 9,106 male and female smokers in several communities in Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota.

NOW vows fight against GOP who 'orchestrated' ERA defeat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defiant feminist groups say the Equal Rights Amendment rejected by the House will be revived, but in the meantime they'll work to defeat every member who opposed it — especially Republicans "who orchestrated the loss."

But while feminist leaders pledged to wreak political vengeance on their opponents, the Republican who led Tuesday's fight against the ERA said GOP lawmakers could defend their position.

"I don't fear taking it to the voters. ..." said Rep. F. James Sensenbrenner, R-Wis., explaining that his constituents oppose federal financing of abortions and sending women into combat.

The vote was 278-147 in favor of the ERA, six votes short of the two-thirds needed for approval of a constitutional amendment. There were 225

Democrats and 53 Republicans who cast "yes" ballots, while 38 Republicans and 109 Democrats were opposed.

Both sides of the ERA struggle showed they've lost none of their spunk despite a decade-long battle over the words, "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

Judy Goldsmith, president of the 250,000-member National Organization for Women, said, "NOW pledges to work, in 1984 and beyond, to defeat every member of Congress who opposes the ERA.

"The Republican members of Congress who orchestrated the loss of the Equal Rights Amendment in the House of Representatives ... will face the wrath of their constituents at the polls next year," she told a news conference.

Opposing lobbyists were out in force and the galleries were nearly full for the debate, which centered on Republican claims that House members were "gagged" by a rule that limited debate to 40 minutes and choked off amendments.

Greek terrorist group claims U.S. naval officer's killing

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — A left-wing terrorist group suspected of killing a CIA official in Greece eight years ago has claimed responsibility for gunning down a U.S. naval attaché and his civilian driver.

An anonymous telephone caller to the left-wing Athens newspaper Eleftherotypia said "November 17" had engineered the shootings.

"We shall send you a file explaining why we carried out this killing," police quoted the caller as saying.

Trial starts after judge rules girl is competent

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — The trial of an Odessa man charged with indecency with a child has begun following a judge's ruling that the 12-year-old alleged victim was competent to testify.

Judicial District Judge Joe Connolly overruled a defense motion Monday that sought to bar the testimony of a 12-year-old girl whom Clifford Yates, 37, is accused of molesting.

That set the stage for jury selection and beginning testimony on Tuesday. The girl testified Tuesday she was 10 years old at the time of the alleged molestation.

Yates was arrested June 30 in a Houston suburb following his indictment by an Ector County grand jury. He is accused of molesting the girl while the two were riding in a car from Brady to San Angelo.

Defense attorneys had claimed the child's age made it "unlikely that the witness understands the

ing. Navy Capt. George Tsantes, 53, head of the naval section at the Joint U.S. Military Advisory Group in Greece, a liaison unit with the Greek armed forces, was shot dead Tuesday morning as he drove to work at the U.S. Embassy. Police said that the shots were fired by one of two men on a motorcycle and that the attackers then escaped down a side street.

The killers pulled alongside Tsantes' official car when it stopped at a busy intersection on a suburban highway and pumped at least seven bullets through a closed window.

"It was a very professional job. The scooter passenger shot surprisingly accurately with a .45 caliber magnum," said a police spokesman who declined to be identified.

Tsantes' driver, Nikos Veloutsos, 62, from the Aegean island of Lesbos, died in a hospital of stomach wounds after a four-hour emergency operation.

Police sources said the claim by "November 17" prompted investigators to focus on left-wing activists in Athens.

In 1975, the terrorist group sent a detailed description of how it killed CIA station chief Richard Welch to several left-wing Greek publications. But it had not been heard from since claiming two shootings of Greek police officials in 1976 and 1980.

The group takes its name from the date in 1973 when Greece's military rulers used tanks and troops to quash a student rebellion at Athens Polytechnic University.

This week, Premier Andreas Papandreu's Socialist government is celebrating the 10th anniversary of that bloody revolt, which helped undermine the military regime.

Tsantes was from New York, but had been posted in Washington earlier and had a home in Virginia Beach, Va., according to the embassy.

Nuclear facility poorly constructed

DALLAS (AP) — A consultant hired by owners of the Comanche Peak nuclear plant says plant officials have "deluded" themselves into ignoring problems at the trouble-plagued facility and appeared to want a report from him giving the "right" answers.

The consultant, Joseph L. Lapinsky, a technical service director for Oliver B. Cannon and Sons Inc. in Philadelphia, was hired by Comanche Peak owner Texas Utilities Generating Co. to perform a three-day review of the workmanship and quality control at the plant.

A four-page memo by Lapinsky, dated Aug. 8, was labeled "inaccurate" and "misleading" by one plant official. Lapinsky charged in the memo that plant management "attempts to squash any efforts to point out quality problems" and appeared to want to "buy the 'right' answer" from him.

The memo was provided to the U.S. Atomic Safety and Licensing Board by William A. Dunham, a former paint inspector who contended he was fired by construction contractor Brown & Root Inc. on Aug. 26 because he complained about harassment of inspectors at Comanche Peak. Texas Utilities officials denied his allegations and said he was fired for insubordination.

Last month, the Department of Labor found that Dunham had been illegally fired and ordered him reinstated with full back pay.

Lapinsky accused Comanche Peak officials of ignoring problems with workmanship and employee qualifications in the department that applies radioactive-resistant paint.

The memo indicated serious problems exist with some of the paint work. The painting would have to be redone, he wrote, because "it will be impossible (by all indications) to salvage what work is currently in place."

"The writer's opinion is that management at Comanche Peak had deluded itself into thinking everything is alright (sic) or it will all come out in the wash," Lapinsky wrote.

Lapinsky's memo said the inspectors he talked with "have a low opinion of the quality of work put in place, and in effect are keeping quiet until they can find another job."

Allegations of inspector harassment and poor paint work have become central issues in licensing hearings. The board has questioned the utility's motives in firing a second inspector, and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission staff has proposed a $40,000 fine against the utility for firing a third inspector. That fine has been postponed pending an appeal by the utility.

In an affidavit to the licensing board, Dunham said federal officials seized quality control records at the plant as part of an investigation of "massive falsification of documentation" in the protective paint department.

Smokeout Helps Smokers Put Out Fire for Good

DEAR READERS: Tomorrow will mark the Seventh Annual Great American Smokeout, an upbeat, good-humored, one-day campaign to encourage smokers to quit smoking for 24 hours—just to prove to themselves that they can do it.

The idea was conceived by the American Cancer Society, which insists that anyone who can live without a cigarette for 24 hours can quit forever. So, if you're hooked on cigarettes (or cigars) and really want to quit, why not start tomorrow—for just 24 hours?

Quitting "cold turkey" is the hardest way to quit, but those who know say it's the most effective and, in the long run, the easiest way. Cutting down is less traumatic, but the temptation to smoke is often too powerful to resist while smoking one, two or three cigarettes a day.

I asked readers who participated in the Great American Smokeout to let me know how they fared. Some winners:

DEAR ABBY: I quit a 67-year-old, three-pack-a-day cigarette habit for a reason you probably will not believe. My "girlfriend," who was 77 at the time, said she didn't like my tobacco kisses. We had both lost our mates and found each other in this nursing home.

When I read your piece about the Smokeout last year, I decided to quit. It wasn't as hard as I thought it would be. I simply swore off one day at a time.

Thanks for giving me the idea. I feel much better and my heart doesn't pound so hard when I'm kissing my girlfriend. I am 81 years old, and my hand on a Bible, this is no lie.

GLAD I QUIT IN ARIZONA

DEAR ABBY: I was smoking a pack of cigarettes a day. I would have smoked more because I really craved a smoke, but that was all I could get. My throat started to bother me, and I was pretty sure the cigarettes caused it, but I couldn't quit.

Then two of my friends (both non-smokers) bet me I couldn't quit for the 24 hours during the Great American Smokeout. I bet I could, and I won—in more ways than one. I quit then and haven't smoked since. It's a good thing, too, because my parents would have killed me if they ever found out. You see, I'm 14 years old.

KICKED THE HABIT IN 1982

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I both smoked for many years. When my wife quit four years ago, suddenly I was not permitted to smoke in the house.

When I came home from work, all I heard was, "My God, you reek from tobacco!" Her constant complaining was a source of never-ending irritation, and I became convinced that there was no one more tiresome than a reformed smoker.

Well, I quit smoking (for 24 hours) last Nov. 19 during the Great American Smokeout, and a miracle took place because I haven't had a cigarette since! Not only do I feel better, but I realize my wife was right. Cigarette smoke does smell lousy, and so do the breath and clothing of people who smoke.

I no longer crave cigarettes, which is something I never thought I would ever say after a 30-year, two-pack-a-day habit.

REEKS NO MORE

So, Readers, if you're hooked on cigarettes and have been telling yourself, "One of these days I've got to quit," why not start tomorrow just for 24 hours?

It won't be easy, but I promise you, it will be the best holiday present you can give yourself—and those who love you.—ABBY

P.S. To repeat one of the most poignant letters I've ever received:

DEAR ABBY: I just have to share this with somebody! My 5-year-old son said, "Mommy, do you know what I want for Christmas most of all?"

I thought to myself, "That little con artist—I wonder what he wants now?" His answer knocked me right off my feet. He said, "All I want is a mommy who doesn't smoke anymore. I love you very much and want you to live for a loooooong time." Then he put his chubby arms around my neck and kissed me.

I had to wipe away a tear. It's been two weeks, and I haven't had a cigarette since. I don't think I will ever smoke again. Wish me luck.

U.S. caught in middle in Cyprus

WASHINGTON (AP) — The declaration of an independent Turkish Cypriot state on Cyprus puts the Reagan administration in a squeeze.

It's virtually a no-win situation, given the historic hostility between Greece and Turkey.

Both are U.S. allies, both valued members of the NATO alliance.

Should the Reagan administration tip in Ankara's direction, Greece will be furious. Should Athens appear to be favored, Turkey will get mad.

For the time being, the administration is practicing gentle diplomacy, asking Turkey to persuade the Turkish Cypriots to reverse their decision to establish a Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus and allow the restoration of a single state on the island.

If it doesn't work, Greece, acting in support of the 4-to-1 Greek Cypriot majority, could turn on Washington. But it's probably too late to disrupt a new agreement that gives the United States use of four military bases in Greece.

The five-year accord was approved by the Greek parliament only last week. But the already faint hope of persuading Prime Minister Andreas Papandreu's Socialist government to support an extension could be extinguished.

And yet, if the quiet U.S. diplomacy toward Ankara gives way to push and then to shove, Turkey might reassess its firm commitment to Washington and to NATO.

An administration official, briefing reporters at the State Department on Tuesday, ruled out a revival of the U.S. arms embargo imposed in 1975 to punish the Turks for invading Cyprus the year before. The official, who declined to be identified, called it a "colossal mistake" that weakened an ally while reducing U.S. leverage with the Turkish government.

But members of Congress inclined to be sympathetic to Greece — the Turks have often complained their community in this country is too small to have a lobby — have moved to reduce or cut off aid to Turkey.

The State Department has 30 days to decide how much aid to give Greece and Turkey out of the $11.5 billion in worldwide foreign aid this year. That package provides only that Greece get seven dollars for every ten allocated to Turkey.

Over the years since the small Mediterranean country gained its independence from Britain in 1959, settlement talks have sputtered while the United States walked a tightrope between Greece and Turkey. Much of that time, too, the U.S. has tried to promote peace without offending either side.

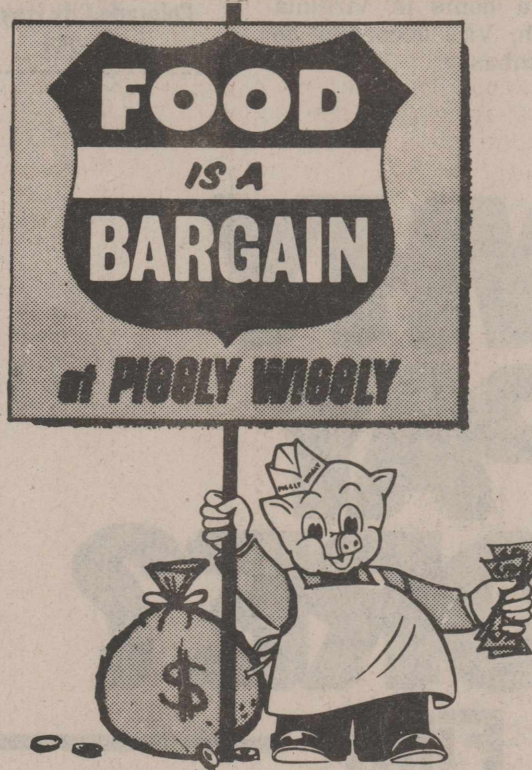

Farm road closed due to gas well

FORT STOCKTON, Texas (AP) — A runaway gas well spewed water and oil 100 feet high Tuesday and forced the closing of a 30-mile stretch of Farm Road 1053 between Imperial and Fort Stockton.

"There's no fire and no lives in danger," Mike Cunningham, office manager of Cherokee Drilling Co. of Midland, said from his Odessa office. But the blowout was considered "potentially hazardous," he added.

The gas "is not toxic, but it's quite a fire hazard," Cunningham said.

No one was injured when the blowout occurred about 7 a.m. It was discovered by a night watchman, said Frank Garrett, a company spokesman. The well still had not been capped early today.

The Nose Knows.

An aromatic chemical is added to natural gas to give it a distinct odor. One that's easy to detect. It's this distinct odor and knowing what to do when you detect it that keeps gas safe.

If you're outdoors and smell gas, you should call your local Lone Star Gas office.

If you're indoors and detect faint whiffs, check to see if a pilot light has gone out or a burner valve has been left partially open. These are corrective steps you can take yourself.

If your equipment is working properly and you still smell gas, please follow these precautions:

1. Don't switch anything electrical on or off. Don't strike a match or do anything that could cause a spark.
2. Have everyone leave immediately, leaving door open to help ventilate.
3. Go to a nearby phone and call Lone Star.

Help us keep natural gas one of the safest energies available. Use your nose. Then use your head... and follow the proper precautions.

(Just a reminder: Before you do any digging, call your local Lone Star Gas office so they can inform you on pipe locations.)

The newest EPA study concludes that "acid rain" is such a menace that we must spend $21 billion to control it.

Perhaps. But before we rescue our northeast states lake fish at a cost of $6,000 a pound, let's be sure.

We've let the false-alarmists scare us into some frightful extravagance in the past. In 1978 HEW reported that 38 percent of all cancer in the United States could be traced to on-the-job chemicals.

It was 1981 before two of the world's leading epidemiologists found that report to be grossly erroneous.

In 1979 a spokesman for the National Cancer Institute testified before Congress that the incidence of cancer was rising toward epidemic proportions.

A 1981 statistical review discovered, on the contrary, our nation's incidence of cancer was not increasing.

In 1980 700 families were evacuated from the area of Love Canal after the EPA reported "chromosomal abnormalities in some residents."

Last May the Center for Disease Control updated that research, found "No excess chromosomal abnormalities of any sort."

And the other informal health studies alleging that residents of the Love Canal area suffered increased epilepsy, birth defects, cancer...

Those studies have since been refuted also.

In 1969 the FDA issued its dramatic alarm about cyclamates, got cyclamates banned from broad consumer use.

"It caused bladder cancer in lab rats," they said.

Twenty-one separate studies since affirm that even sustained feeding of high dosages of cyclamates to lab animals produces no significant increase in bladder cancer.

A 1978 Canadian study of bladder cancer claimed it could be caused by saccharin.

Two years later the NCI decisively refuted those findings.

DDT was banned in 1972, suspected of causing liver tumors in mice.

In 1978 the NCI announced "no such evidence exists."

Now we come to the new scare - acid rain.

Now the EPA says coal-fired factories in our Midwest are killing fish and forests in our Northeast.

However, four other studies affirm that "soil formulation" and "vegetable succession" have more to do with acidification of soil and water than anything falling from the sky.

And besides, one active volcano produces more upper-altitude pollution in one year than all our factory smoke. The jury is still out; this time let's wait until the jury is in before we spend $21 billion fixing something that isn't broken.

Throngs jailed during missile demonstration

LONDON (AP) — Police arrested more than 450 demonstrators during Britain's first full day as host to U.S. cruise missiles, and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher said a nuclear "balance of terror" was helping to preserve world peace.

"Nuclear weapons have in fact prevented war," the Conservative Party leader said in a television interview broadcast by the British Broadcasting Corp. on Tuesday night.

"It is a balance of terror, but it has kept the peace."

At the U.S. Air Force base at Greenham Common, 50 miles west of London, dozens of women, just released on bail after being arrested at demonstrations, returned to their 26-month-old protest camp.

A second shipment of cruise missiles was apparently flown into the base Tuesday, 24 hours after the initial consignment. Press reports and the BBC said it was believed the nuclear warheads had arrived as well.

Most of the Tuesday's arrests were at Greenham and outside the House of Commons in London.

Groups of legislators left the building to watch demonstrators, mainly women, who had blockaded the main entrance being bundled into police trucks.

In the north England city of Manchester, Defense Secretary Michael Heseltine was sprayed with red paint as police battled to get him through hundreds of student demonstrators to address a Conservative students' meeting at Manchester University.

"Better red than dead, Michael," one demonstrator shouted.

Heseltine later said, "I'm very worried about the techniques and tactics of these protest groups. They are very anxious to get more publicity, but they are using methods abhorrent to the British people."

But opposition socialist Labor Party legislator Bob Clay complained in the Commons that police "abused" their powers by mass arrests of 300 demonstrators outside the 800-year-old building.

In Parliament, Mrs. Thatcher ducked questions about how many cruise missiles have arrived.

Defense Ministry officials also refused to comment on the cargo unloaded Tuesday from a C-141 U.S. transport plane, similar to the one that brought the first consignment Monday.

Sixteen cruise missiles, of a total of 160 destined for Britain, are due to be operational at Greenham by NATO's Dec. 31 deadline.

They are the first of a total of 572 cruise and Pershing 2 missiles to be deployed in five West European countries by 1988 in response to the Soviet buildup of SS-20 mid-range missiles.

Recent opinion polls show about 50 percent of Britons oppose the deployment, compared with around 60 percent in soundings a year ago. In the past year, Heseltine has led a government drive to build up public acceptance and undercut the high-profile protest movements.

Commercial depicting shot down Santa causes flak

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The colorful cartoon advertisement shows a jolly Santa and his prancing reindeer blasted to smithereens by a Soviet missile. Seconds later, the remains of a smoking sleigh spin to the ground.

The animated ad, a promotion for a four-part local television news segment on the activities of the Soviet consulate in San Francisco, has reduced children to tears and sent hundreds of angry parents to the telephone in protest.

On Tuesday — five days after the ad first aired on KGO-TV — hundreds of calls were still coming in, station spokeswoman Judith Rich said, adding,

"We've been deluged." "We concur with viewers that very young children could become upset by portions of the ad," KGO News Director Pete Jacobus said in a statement Tuesday. Use Snyder Daily News Classified Ads 573-5486
