Robert C. Jackson, executive vice president of the American Textile Manufacturers Institute, was quoted the other day as saying that cotton has new opportunities to recapture lost markets and strengthen its competitive position as a textile fiber.

A few years ago people in the industry were wondering whether cotton would even survive. Now, if it strengthens its position beyond its posture of the past season, it will be strong indeed.

The Texas Agriculture Department has sent out reports showing that cotton still is the No. 1 crop in this state, accounting for a total of a little over a billion dollars for the 1973 crop. The state produced 4,673,000 bales of cotton the past season and it brought an average of 47.10 cents per pound, compared to only 23 cents perpound in 1972. That is a fantastic increase. And now, the industry is falling behind in its deliveries to consuming industries, we are told, which indicates a healthy situation. But it merely keeps the cotton men on their toes because they live in constant dread that if the cotton industry has problems in keeping its customers supplied, they will intensify efforts to develop new substitutes.

Of course the cotton industry has been through the substitute competition before and pulled out of it. They always keep coming back to cotton.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says that small businesses which are supposed to be encouraged by the government are the target of 10 billion sheets of government forms and regulations every year——enough to fill the stands of 50 major league baseball parks. And he says the Veterans Administration is even worse.

Sen. Bentsen uses these examples in deploring the stumbling blocks that result from bureaucracy.

In addition to the time consumed, these things also contribute to the paper shortages that grip the country today and to the high cost of government, which, in turn, means higher taxes.

The disagreeable weather of the past week—hot winds during the day and muggy nights——is compatible with the Old Farmer's Almanac forecasts that were issued back last winter. They called for a hot spell in Texas from May 13 through May 19 following some rains in Central and Gulf Coast areas.

If the almanac's accuracy continues, we can expect plenty of hot weather in June and July as well. Of course, that happens nearly every year.——WACIL McNAIR.

LA Officials Seek Identity Of 5 Bodies

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES AP—Authorities worked through the night attempting to establish the identities of five bodies recovered from a fire-gutted house believed to be a hideout for the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army.

A spokesman for the Los Angeles County Coroner's Office said today the bodies were examined for scars and other identifying marks.

The coroners's office said it had requested dental records on abducted newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst as a "matter of routine."

A spokesman for newspaper executive Randolph A. Hearst said the FBI told Hearst one of the dead was SLA leader Donald D. DeFreeze. But the FBI denied that agents identified DeFreeze — who was known as SLA General Field Marshal Cinque. The FBI also denied telling the Hearst family any such thing.

John Lester, a Hearst spokesman, told newsmen outside the Hearst mansion in Hillsborough of DeFreeze's reported death. But Lester walked away without a word as reporters shouted, "What about Patty? What about Patty?"

Earlier Lester had said, "We just hope to God that Patty is somewhere else."

The SLA has said it kidnaped Miss Hearst, 20, who was dragged from her Berkeley apartment on Feb. 4.

The coroner's spokesman said dental checks on the bodies had begun and autopsies would be conducted later today.

All five persons—at least two of whom were women—perished during a furious hour-long gun battle Friday evening in which some 500 heavily armed police fired tear gas shells. The stucco house in south Los Angeles was sprayed with thousands of rounds of ammunition during the siege and caught fire during the battle.

Authorities said they were unable to positively identify any of the bodies because they were badly disfigured in the fire which was believed to have been touched off by a smouldering teargas shell.

Acting on a tip, flak-jacketed officers took position around the house at about 5:30 p.m. PDT and then called out to the occupants over a bullhorn: "Come out with your hands up. The house is surrounded."

Two minutes later, a policeman fired a tear-gas shell into the house and immediately drew a volley of fire from semi-automatic weapons inside the yellow stucco building at 1466 E. 54th St

"It was a war, no other way to describe it," said Police Commander Peter Hagen, summing up the action that followed.

The siege was televised live in the Los Angeles area.

About an hour after the first shots were fired, thin tongues of flame suddenly shot from windows and the eaves of the roof. The shooting stopped 15 minutes later. Billows of black smoke cast a pall around the house, obscuring the view of police sharpshooters and hundreds of excited spectators.

Hagen said two of the bodies — both women, one black and one white — were found lying in the hallway. Ammunition in belts strapped to their waists exploded in the intense heat from the blaze, maiming the bodies further and making identification even more difficult.

Red Infantry Seize Village

BEN CAT, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnamese infantry, backed by at least five tanks, overran three government outposts, seized a nearby village and threatened this strategic district town only 25 miles north of Saigon, field officers said today.

The village that was overrun was An Dien, about half a mile west of Ben Cat. Thousands of civilians caught up in the fighting were seen fleeing southward along Highway 13 from Ben Cat and surrounding villages to Phu Cuong, 10 miles away. A Dien's population was 2,000.

The refugees passed columns of South Vietnamese troops, with 50 tanks and armored personnel carriers, lined up along a three-mile stretch of Highway 13. A soldier said they were "awaiting orders."

The attacks came a day after a North Vietnamese force overran a military headquarters at Dak Pek, 12 miles south of the Laotian border. There remained no word on the fate of 5,000 civilians at Dak Pek, but a Viet Cong broadcast said 600 South Vietnamese troops in the area were wiped out.

Elsewhere in South Vietnam, widespread fighting was reported from Quang Tri province in the north to the Mekong Delta in the south. Some analysts said the Communist command had stepped up its activity to observe the birthday Sunday of Ho Chi Minh, the late North Vietnamese president and Communist leader.

South Vietnamese officers said as many as 2,000 government troops had been brought into the Ben Cat area to reinforce the important town in the heart of the "Iron Triangle." The triangle, in the Saigon River corridor between Cambodia and Saigon, for years has been a major North Vietnamese route for sending men and supplies south.

Today's action was the first time in the long Vietnam war that tanks have been used so close to the capital city, said Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the government military command. But he said the capital was not threatened.

The fall of Ben Cat would isolate Lai Khe just to the north on Highway 13, a major South Vietnamese base and headquarters of the 5th Infantry Division.

Daley Out Of Hospital

CHICAGO (AP) — Mayor Richard J. Daley, smiling and waving, left the hospital today after 12 days of treatment for what doctors said was a mild stroke.

Daley, 72, was accompanied by his wife, Eleanor, and several of his sons. The mayor, who has been in Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital since May 6, appeared robust.

Asked by newsmen how he felt, the mayor replied, "Wonderful, and it's the greatest feeling in the world to be out."

The mayor walked only a dozen feet under a heated canopy to his limousine to avoid a chill, misty rain.

Daley will recuperate at home before returning to the hospital for surgery to repair partial blockage of an artery in his neck.

Tallest Tower Is Completed

WARSAW (AP) — Poland today announced completion of the world's tallest structure—a 2,120-foot radio and television tower near Plock in northwest Poland.

The tower, which was designed by Jan Polak, is supported by a net of steel wire stays and weighs about 550 tons.

According to the Guiness Book of World Records, the previous record holder was a 2,063-foot television transmitting tower built in 1963 near Fargo, N.D.

WITH NUCLEAR BLAST

India Breaks Into The Majors

By EDWARD CODY
Associated Press Writer

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India set off its first nuclear explosion in an underground test early today, the official Indian radio said. The blast brought the world's largest democracy into the so-called nuclear club up to now reserved for major military powers.

Both Indian national news agencies said the explosion was conducted in the Rajastan area west of New Delhi, site of the Great Indian Desert

The Indian Atomic Energy Commission said the bomb was designed for such peaceful purposes as mining and earth-moving, and that India has no intention of producing nuclear weapons. But the test indicated India may be able to build such weapons in the future if it chooses to do so.

In Washington, the Atomic Energy Commission said the U.S. "detected seismic signals from India last night. The signals originated at 10:35 p.m. EDT in the Rajasthan Desert and were equivalent to a yield of less than 20 kilotons."

A spokesman said that is in the "low yield range" — the lowest of three ranges.

The U.S. State Department indicated disappointment over the nuclear explosion set off by India.

Simone Poulain, department press officer, said the "United States has always been against nuclear proliferation because of the adverse impact it will have on world stability."

Other U.S. officials said the development came as no surprise since India has been known to possess the technical ability to produce nuclear devices for several years. It was only a matter of the New Delhi government's decision to spend the money on making a device rather than furthering its own economy, one American source said.

Other officials said the now proven ability of India to manufacture nuclear devices appears certain to disrupt the already unsettled political situation in the area.

In Switzerland, Pakistan's chief delegate to the Geneva disarmament conference said the Indian nuclear test will have far-reaching consequences for the entire situation on the subcontinent, where India and Pakistan have fought three wars in the last quarter century.

Ambassador Niaz A. Naik said the test meant a qualitative change in the political and military situation and contested the Indian claim that it was exclusively designed to serve peaceful purposes.

"We have always maintained there is no difference between tests for peaceful purposes and those for military purposes," Naim said. "The technology is the same. We have kept warning the international community against the dangers of this backdoor entry into the nuclear club."

There was no immediate reaction from Washington, D.C.

High-Tar Cig Ban Illegal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has voted 3 to 2 that it cannot ban high-tar cigarettes under the 1960 Hazardous Substances Act.

The ban had been sought in a petition filed Feb. 1 by Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, and the American Public Health Association.

The possibility of the ban had been raised last August by Richard O. Simpson, commission chairman. Simpson had said it was an open question whether the commission could act against cigarettes under the hazardous substances act, despite the specific exclusion of tobacco products by the Consumer Product Safety Act, which set up the commission a year ago.

Action on Smoking and Health, a Washington-based anti-smoking group, termed the commission decision "incorrect and premature."

"Taking such precipitous action on a vital matter affecting the public health without benefit of a public hearing was contrary to established administrative procedure and a very bad omen for consumers relying on the commission," said John Banzhaf, director of the group.

He said his group probably will ask the commission to reconsider its decision and hold a public hearing.

Irish Soldiers Released To Bolster Home Security

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish government decided today to ask the United Nations to release 340 Irish soldiers from Middle East duty to bolster security at home following Friday's deadly bombings.

Justice Minister Patrick Cooney announced the measure after a 2½-hour cabinet meeting to deal with the threat of further terrorist attacks in the Republic.

Sources said the 340 Irish soldiers, currently serving with the U.N. peacekeeping force in Sinai, would be used to step up border security in a bid to prevent the infiltration of terrorist squads between the two parts of Ireland.

According to the latest police count, 23 men, women and children were killed and 150 wounded in the rush hour bombings Friday night, the worst bombing incident in almost five years of the sectarian war that has hit the Irish Republic as well as Northern Ireland.

Five more persons died in a bomb blast in the border town of Monaghan and at least 20 were injured.

"There were bodies and blood everywhere," said American attorney Francis P. McQuade of Maplewood, N.J., who arrived in Dublin only half an hour before the blasts. "A little girl who had been looking in a store window when the bomb went off was blown right through it.

Police warned that more bombs may be on the way.

Police sources suspected the bombers were Protestant fanatics from the north. The bombs were planted in cars hijacked earlier in the day from a Protestant stronghold in Belfast, the Northern Ireland capital.

The Ulster Defense Association, a militant Protestant group, and the predominantly Roman Catholic Irish Republican Army denied any involvement with the bombings.

A man, calling himself "Capt. Craig of the Red Hand Brigade," telephoned a Dublin newspaper late Friday to warn that more bombs will be planted in the city in the next few days.

The "Red Hand of Ulster" is a traditional Protestant symbol.

The caller said the bombings will continue "until something is done about Sunningdale" — the pact signed last December by Britain, the Irish Republic and Northern Ireland.

The agreement, providing for a Council of Ireland with representatives from the north and south, is viewed by many northern Protestants as a sell-out that will end in a unification of Ulster with the Catholic republic.

Widower is being pestered to death

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have been a widower for only ten months, and all I want is to be left alone. I am constantly pestered by widows, divorcees and wives whose husbands don't pay any attention to them. Also, people with the "have-I-got-a-girl-for-you!" routine. You wouldn't believe the propositions I get.

When I try to bow out politely, they say: "What's the matter, are you some kind of queer?"

Last week a young neighbor from across the street came over with a pie and a story about how lonely she was with her kids in school all day and her husband on the road. Then came the proposition. I finally had to ask her to leave.

This morning while taking a shower I heard someone breaking through my front door. It was the lady next door. She said she just happened to see me through my bathroom window, and I looked like maybe I wasn't feeling well so she came over to see if there was anything she could do for me. I had a terrible time getting rid of her. After that, I pulled down my shades and bolted my door. I'm a prisoner in my own house!

I even put a sign on my front door "Were you invited?" But everyone thinks I mean somebody else.

I am not particularly good-looking. I try not to hurt anyone's feelings, but I don't want anyone pestering me. What should I do? NO NAME OR ADDRESS

DEAR NO: You've put out a sign, bolted your door, and given no one the slightest encouragement. All that's left is a watchdog and a barbed wire fence.

DEAR ABBY: I am 49 and going through my menopause. I have hounded my gynecologist for help, but I can't get any satisfaction from him, so I'm asking you. How can I be absolutely sure I won't get pregnant? [I have three grandchildren!]

My husband is 50, and we're not sex maniacs or anything like that, but we do get together once in a while, and I am living in fear that I'll find myself pregnant with a change-of-life baby. I have told my doctor that, and he said: "Don't worry—women your age seldom get pregnant." Abby, I don't want to take any chances, but my doctor says I don't need to take any precautions.

Is he right? Am I foolish to be concerned? Can you recommend something to ease my mind? NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: You need more than advice. You need another doctor. Even though the chances of your becoming pregnant are small, it's possible! I don't blame you for wanting to be absolutely sure. If you don't know another gynecologist, your Planned Parenthood Clinic can give you competent medical advice and recommend the most ideal method of contraception for a woman your age. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: In my work I deal with the public. My supervisor told me that the use of the words "ma'am" and "sir" is not proper—that a "thank you," or a simple "yes" or "no" is sufficient.

He insists that when one uses "ma'am" and "sir" he implies that he is socially beneath the person he is speaking to.

Is my supervisor correct? I don't share his views.

NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR NORTH: I don't share his views either. But customs vary in different parts of the country [or world]. In Iowa, where I grew up, "ma'am" and "sir" were used to show respect and had nothing to do with one's social position.

Drilling Activity Is Up

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Eleven wildcat oil wells and seven wildcat gas wells were drilled in Texas from May 1 through May 15, the Railroad Commission reported Friday.

A total of 96 wildcat oil wells have been drilled in Texas this year, an increase of 16 from this time a year ago. The commission said 136 wildcat gas wells have been drilled, an increase of two from a year ago.

The new oil wildcats included two each in the Houston and San Antonio No. 2 districts and one each in the San Antonio No. 1, Abilene and San Angelo districts.

The new gas wildcats included two each in the Corpus Christi, San Angelo, Midland districts and Wichita Falls districts and one each in the Kilgore No. 6, Abilene and Lubbock districts.

A total of 182 oil wells were completed in the first two weeks in May for a yearly total of 1,774, or 210 more than a year ago. A total of 121 gas wells were completed for a yearly total of 1,030, or 178 more than a year ago.

The commission said 627 wells were plugged, including 108 dry holes.

Briscoe Praises LULACs

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe assured an organization for Spanish-speaking Texans that he believes every child is entitled to a quality education.

"We cannot accept conditions which make a child's education a function of the wealth of his school district," Briscoe said in a Saturday speech to the League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) state convention.

"My administration is at work now developing plans for an overhaul of our system of public school education, so that we can recommend to the next session of the Legislature measures which will correct these deficiencies which exist in our current system," he said.

"Too often, when government moves to correct one problem, it creates two new ones. We cannot afford quick guesses with the education of our children. You can be sure that my administration will not make hastily or ill-prepared recommendations which might adversely affect the educational future of our children. We will meet this challenge with a full scale program, so that in future years none of us will have to look back and say that we failed to meet the educational needs of our state."

DISPLAYING HIS AWARD—Cub Scout Norman Johnson proudly displays the tent he was awarded as top Exposition ticket salesman in the Lone Buffalo District, Boy Scouts of America. He is a member of Pack 36, sponsored by East Elementary Parent-Teachers Club, and Tony Hayley is Cubmaster.

Cub Gets Award For Ticket Sales

Norman Johnson, Cub Scout in Pack 36 sponsored by East Elementary Parent Teacher Club, recently received the Overnighter tent he won for being the top Exposition ticket salesman in the Lone Buffalo District of the Buffalo Trail Council, Boy Scouts of America. Norman is the son of Mrs. Albert Malone of 610 Thirty-fourth Street in Snyder. For his efforts of selling 100 tickets, Norman qualified for either a trip to see the Dallas Cowboys, the Overnighter tent, or a choice of several other prizes, but he chose the tent.

According to Norman and his neighborhood friends, the tent has been used several times since he received it last week. They slept out in the tent in the back yard several times and Norman and his friends are proficient in setting the tent up.

The Scout Exposition, held each year early in the year, usually in March, is a time in which the area Scout units each have a display and show the achievements which the Pack, Troop, or Post has earned or made. Tickets are sold to help the units make money for expenses during the year, as well as give the boys a chance to earn awards such as the tent Norman won.

Cub Scout Norman Johnson said he is very proud of his tent, because he earned it. Cub Scouting for Norman is a high point in his life, he said, because Scouting is for all boys and every boy should have a chance to be in Scouting.

Mission Salvaged

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — An extra space firing of a weather satellite's motors has apparently saved the mission from failure, space agency officials say.

The Synchronous Meteorological Satellite missed its planned orbit early Friday by a lack of thrust from the Delta rocket that hurled it into space, but officials said that the extra motor firing late Friday appeared to have placed the satellite in a nearly stationary orbit some 22,000 miles over Brazil.

The exact determination of the orbit will not be known until sometime today, the officials said.

They indicated the satellite will perform a small figure 8 in space and will be about 15 degrees away from its planned position. They said this is not expected to affect its performance, although there might be a slight problem in receiving the photographs that will be sent to earth every 30 minutes.

Japan, Russia and the United States plan to launch about a dozen more satellites over the next three years in an international effort to predict weather as much as two weeks in advance.

35 Scurry Farmers In Survey

AUSTIN—Thirty-five Scurry County agricultural producers will be interviewed on their use of fuel and fertilizer as part of a Texas Department of Agriculture survey to help determine the state's energy policy.

According to Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, the comprehensive Texas Farm Fuel and Fertilizer Survey will also provide information for agricultural and research needs.

The survey will begin June 17 and end July 1. It will involve nearly 1,500 farms and ranches selected at random from respondents to an earlier survey on acreage and productions. Participants will provide information on their use of fuel and fertilizer for productionn and marketing of crops, livestock and poultry.

For this survey 55 counties were chosen at random from the State's 15 crop reporting districts.

White said the department is conducting the survey at the request of the Governor's Energy Council. The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service will supervise the interviews and compile the results.

Specially trained personnel will personally interview farm and ranch operators or others knowledgeable about the operation such as foremen or managers. Persons to be interviewed will be notified and facts about individual operations will be kept confidential.

"We encourage farmers to participate," White said. "This survey will be the first giving us the facts we need to direct our activities to make sure farmers have the necessary inputs for agriculture."

MR. AND MRS. LEVON FITTS

Couple Speaks Nuptial Vows

In a wedding held recently in the First Methodist Church of Devine, Miss Sharon Pettus, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Pollard Pettus of Gonzales was married to Levon Fitts of Snyder, son of Mrs. Julia Riley of Snyder and Leon Samuel Fitts of Big Spring.

The Rev. Billie Joe Hammond officiated at the nuptial service which was held at 8 p.m. with Maynard Heins of the 5th Army Band, Fort Sam Houston, as organist. He also accompanied Mick Garrison of the 5th Army Band, who sang "Whither Thou Goest."

For the double ring rites the church was decorated with spring flowers and candelabra. Two baskets held white gladioli and large daisies at either side of the altar, while twin candelabra were set with seven candles each. The eight windows in the church were accented with English ivy and candles in crystal holders. Graduated candelabra holding white cathedral tapers and entwined with English ivy, were placed behind the altar.

Entering the church with her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was wearing a floor length gown of white bridal satin designed with an Empire waistline which was accented by a panel of imported lace that extended from across the front of the waistline to the hemline, the gown also featuring seed pearl and sequin trim.

Wide panels of the lace also bordered the train which extended from the shoulders to chapel length, seed pearls and sequins completing the train decor. The bride's bouffant veil of imported illusion descended from a satin Camelot cap to shoulder length, the lace, pearls and sequins repeated here. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of light pink rosebuds with orange blossoms, and wore a gold locket which had been worn by her mother and her maternal grandmother when they were married. She also had a sixpence in her shoe.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Genie Duke of Devine, while bridesmaids were Mrs. Richard Heinrich of Devine and Miss Julie Arlene Dupuy of Big Spring, a niece of the groom.

The attendants wore identical ankle-length dresses of sheer nylon organdy with flowered border design in spring colors of soft pink, green, aqua and yellow, the smaller design of the flowers used in the bodice and the border at the hemline, the dresses featuring Bishop sleeves and ruching at the neckline. The honor attendant's dress was worn over turquoise blue taffeta, while the two bridesmaids' frocks were worn over light emerald green, stressing the aqua and green colors of the bride. The dresses were finished with velvet ribbon sashes which tied in a bow in the back, and they each carried a colonial bouquet of pastel shades of daisies and baby's breath with ribbons to match their frocks.

Attending the groom as best man was Marvin Moreau of Boerne, while the brother of the bride, Warren Pettus Jr., Edwin Morris of Houston and James H. Cranford of Pearsall served as groomsmen.

For the wedding, Mrs. Pettus was gowned in a formal dress of blue crepe knit with matching chiffon sleeves and stand-up collar accessorized with silver. The mother of the groom chose a yellow crepe formal with pleated skirt and long sleeves with gold accessories. Both wore corsages of orchids.

A reception was held in the educational building of the church, where Mrs. Nadine Sczech registered the guests at a table holding a memory candle and white plumed pen.

The bride's table was laid with white taffeta with overlay of white tulle. In the center was a crystal bowl holding white gladioli, large white Kilean daisies, small daisies, baby's breath and greenery accented with turquoise and green ribbon clusters. Flanking the centerpiece were single crystal candle holders with white tapers.

The bride's cake was a three-tiered colonnade confection with lemon filling. It was decorated with roses in spring colors and with poufs of light emerald green and turquoise for accents. At the top was a double wedding bell and shirred tulle heart, green ruching at the base completing the decor. Served with the cake were punch pastel mints and salted nuts. The bride's cake was served by Kathy Redus of Devine. The punch was served by Mrs. Fred Halamicek of Gonzales.

The groom's table was laid with a brown net cloth over matching taffeta and held in the center a lighter brown wicker basket filled with bronze mums and small yellow Fuji mums and greenery. His cake was a chocolate one iced to represent an irregular snow slope complete with skis, boots and ski poles to represent his favorite sport.

Coffee from a silver service was served by Mrs. Glynn Johnson of San Antonio, while cake was served by Mrs. Joe Stringer.

Assisting in the house party were Mrs. Gladys Sollock and Mrs. Frank Dotson.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to the Hill Country and Fort Worth, the bride was attired in a white knit suit flecked with emerald green and blue with matching accessories and a light pink carnation corsage.

The bride is a graduate of the Gonzales High School and Texas Lutheran College in Seguin. She is now a member of the Faculty of the Devine Independent School System.

The groom, a Northside High School, Fort Worth, graduate, holds a position on the faculty of the Independent School System in Pearsall where the couple will make their home.

Out of town guests came from the towns of San Antonio, Houston, Pearsall, Austin, Snyder, Big Spring, Gonzales, San Marcos and Brenham.

Paper Is Made From Corn Starch

CHICAGO (AP) — A new method for making paper from corn starch was recently reported in Prairie Farmer, one of the nation's leading rural magazines.

The magazine says chemists at the USDA Northern Regional Research Laboratory in Peoria, Ill., have developed the corn starch derivative as a stable ready-to-use liquid. Paper made from this particular type of starch can be recycled, thus conserving timber and reducing costs.

Herman, Andress Solemnize Vows

Double ring vows were pledged by Kristina Sue Herman and Michael Wayne Andress on May 18 at 4:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Snyder. The Rev. Ken Andress, pastor of the church and father of the groom, officiated at the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Dorman Herman of Fort Stockton. The Rev. and Mrs. Ken Andress, 2607 Thirty-fourth St., are the groom's parents.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and she wore a formal gown of ivory silk organza with chantilly lace at the high neckline and ruffled around the edge of the round yoke and long sheer bishop sleeves with a bouffant back. A band of ruffled chantilly lace accented the hemline of the skirt which extended into a chapel length train. A large bow was attached to the back at the waist. She wore a waistlength veil attached to a Camelot headpiece, covered with lace and pearls.

Her bouquet was made up of a large white cattleya orchid with pixies attached to streamers. This was carried a white Bible with Mother Pearl inlaid back.

Maid of honor was Brenda Porter of Monahans. Bridesmaids were Barbara Hardman of Lamesa, cousin of the bride, Debbie Eime of Snyder, cousin of the bride and Paula Andress of Snyder, sister of the groom. They all wore floral chiffon over pastel gowns with round necklines with ruffled collars and empire waists. Each carried one stemmed yellow mum.

Flower girl was Sharon Frisbie of Monahans. She wore a gown to match those of the maid of honor and bridesmaids.

Gary Fine, of Monahans, was best man. Groomsmen were James Reeves, David Evans, both of Monahans and Jim Herman of Fort Stockton, brother of the bride. Ben Herman of Fort Stockton, brother of the bride, and Cecil Childress of Monahans were ushers. Candlelighters were Ben Herman and Eddie Herman, cousin of the bride from Lubbock.

Mrs. Jerry Neill of Snyder presented the wedding music. Paula Andress played the "Lord's Prayer" as the bride and groom knelt. Michael Andress sang an arrangement of the "Prayer of St. Assissi". Jerry Neill sang "The Wedding Song."

Fellowship Hall of the church was the scene of the reception following the ceremony. The bridesmaids' mums decorated the table along with the three-tiered wedding cake topped with love birds. Those serving in the wedding party included Mmes. Tom Polson, Ann Gottlieb, Weldon Boggus, J.E. Cadenhead, R.A. Eime, Bob Hardman and Misses Debbie McKee, and Lisa Gottlieb.

For the wedding trip to Ruidoso the bride wore a black and gold floral dress with a white collar and cuffs with white accessories. The couple will reside at 1742 Anderson in Abilene where the groom is employed by Mac Andrew Furniture Co.

The bride is a senior at Hardin Simmons University where she is majoring in special education. The groom is also a senior at Hardin Simmons University and is majoring in Bible and Religious Education.

Out of town guests for the wedding were from Haskell, Monahans, Lamesa, Midland, Abilene, Lubbock, Seminole and Carlsbad, N.M.

Special guests were Vennie Lytle and Willie Andress, both of Haskell, grandmothers of the groom and Lora Middlebrook and Mr. and Mrs. C.H. Herman, all of Lamesa, grandparents of the bride.

Rites Of Spring Celebrated

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rites of Spring, five days of free lunchtime concerts and dance recitals, was organized to celebrate the return of sunshine and blue skies to this city, by the Whitney Museum's downtown branch.

Performances were given on the outdoor plaza adjacent to the Downtown Museum. On the days when skies weren't blue, the celebration was held inside the museum.

Performing groups were Jose Coronado and Dancers, the Stockbaroquers woodwind trio, pianist Yvonne Figueroa, Kei Takei's Moving Earth Dancers and dancers Nora Guthrie and Ted Rotante. Each concert was given at 12:15 and again at 1 p.m.

Note to brides: when you are buying kitchenware, remember that pots and pans with rounded corners and few seams or crevices simplify dishwashing.

Efficiency Pays

NEW YORK (AP) — Consumers should check a number of appliances before making a purchase, says Arthur D. Little, the international research and management consulting firm. The best air conditioners can cool a house as well as less efficient models while using less than half the amount of electricity.

The price differences of a more expensive but more efficient model can be recovered within a year, the firm points out. The same is true of other electric appliances such as small cookers, grills, toasters, frypans, fondue pots, etc.

Plenty Of Silver

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 150 million ounces of silver are used in the United States each year.

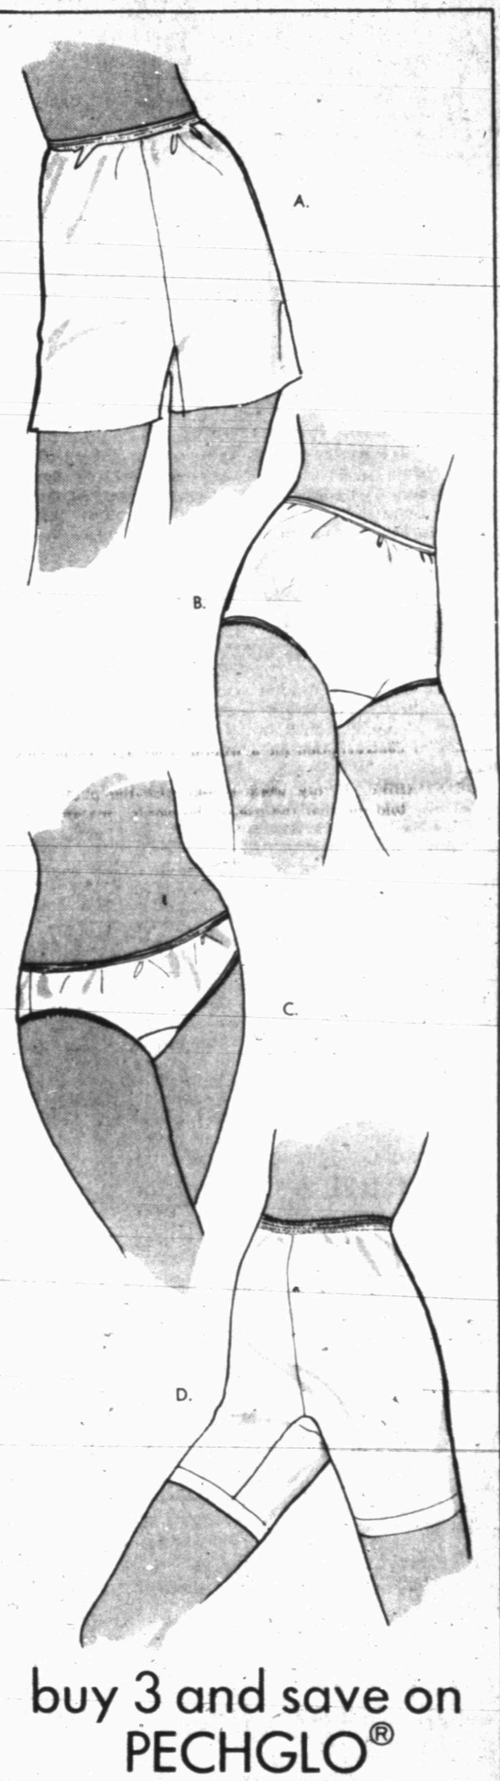

"Production," says a Department of Interior spokesman, "could be increased by discovery and development of new resources, and increased prices would encourage development of large known potential resources in low-grade disseminated deposits."

HEALTH TIP from DEAN

Whole grain cereals contain more vitamins, essential nutrients and trace elements than the highly refined flours. The germ of any seed is the 'life' part of the seed that sprouts, thus essential nourishment is concentrated in the germ. The germ of wheat is routinely eliminated from grain destined for human consumption. Shelf life of flour is longer if it is refined eliminate the healthful wheat germ. Your family will be better nourished with whole grain cereals than with highly refined and processed cereals.

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — Comedian Jack Benny has confirmed that a trunk found in an old house here was used by him on his first tour. Antique collector Elizabeth Craig said she displayed the trunk in her shop when Benny did a benefit for the Waukegan Symphony Orchestra last month.

QUOTABLE WOMEN

By The Associated Press

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"To say our policy is antilabor is the most preposterous statement that anybody could have made ... We are for labor, but even more for the country. The country's interests come first, and they are above the interests of any one section." Prime Minister Indira Ghandhi, defending her handling of India's railways strike.

"That's not streaking; that's indecent exposure." Jean Lawler, manager of a Portsmouth, R.I., motel, complaining about police officers she said ran naked through the motel's night club.

"He has not always pursued that ambition. It came along as his career developed. Lots of people have been saying for years and years that he should be president. For me, he is the best political man France has." Anne-Aymone Giscard d'Estaing, whose husband Valery is running for president of France, speaking about his career.

"We're going ahead as strong as ever. We'll make do — it won't fall through the crack." Anne Armstrong, presidential counselor, speaking about criticism of the Nixon administration's failure to hire more women.

"Whenever some North Americans speak about Spanish music they get only the idea of castanets and maracas, neither of which are Argentinian. And neither is the tango to which Valentino took long steps. The Argentine tango is always a cry: You left me. She is gone. I am alone. It is raining and I don't know why I'm here. It is complicated music, not easy to play." Argentine folk and pop singer Ginamaria Hidalgo, in a New York interview.

Webster Adds Modern Entries

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Did you know that "Ms." is now in Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary? "Used instead of Miss or Mrs. (as when the marital status of a woman is unknown)" is how the Collegiate treats "Ms." The acceptable pronunciation is listed as "miz."

"Icekhana," "warning track" and "Juke" are new dictionary entries from what field? If you said "sports," go to the head of the class. "Icekhana" is from auto racing; "warning track" from baseball; and "Juke" from football. They're among hundreds of new sports words now in the dictionary.

The Just Get More Rain

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — From the monthly journal of the Association of Law Societies of South Africa:

"It raineth every day
"Upon the just and unjust fella
"But more upon the just,
"because
"The unjust has the just's umbrella."

Double Ring Vows Pledged In Midland

Marriage vows were pledged April 20 by Linda Louella Howard and Phillip Larry Hill at 7:30 p.m. in Kelview Heights Baptist Church in Midland. The Rev. Frank Johnson read the double ring rites.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. R.O. Phiffer, Midland, W.E. Howard of Midland and Mr. and Mrs. E.L. Hill of 1506 Twenty-sixth St.

Music was provided by Mrs. Jerry Dunn, organist, sister of the groom, and vocalists, Linda G. Howard of Lubbock and David Newton.

The bridal scene was enhanced by a pair of 12-branched candelabra flanking a wedding candle arrangement of gladiolus and Spider mums.

Tanya Phiffer, niece of the bride, and David Hill, brother of the groom, lighted the candles. The ushers were John Brinlee and Frankie Johnson.

Mr. Howard presented his daughter in marriage. Her full-length gown fashioned of candlelight angelmist taffeta had an empire waistline and an A-line silhouette. The slightly gathered skirt back flowed to a chapel train. Re-embroidered Alencon lace enhanced the rounded neckline and bodice. The lace flower motif was repeated on the lower skirt and train and scattered on the skirt front. The fitted sleeves of sheer organza featured lace banded Queen Anne poufs below the elbows. Her headpiece, a gift from the late Mrs. Naomi Lancaster, was a mantilla of Belgian lace attached to a Juliette cap of seed pearls. The bridal bouquet was a semi-cascade of yellow roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. Don Nix of Odessa was the matron of honor for her cousin. Rebecca Tucker of Houston was the maid of honor and Patricia Bittick of Lubbock the bridesmaid. Mrs. James Parrish was the bridesmatron.

Their empire styled gowns of flocked floral voile in apricot, yellow and green were worn variously over yellow and apricot taffeta. Harmonizing ribbons encircled the waists. Each carried a nosegay of mixed greenery and baby's breath.

Travis Hill of Snyder was the best man for his brother. Another brother, Lyn Hill of Snyder, Jim Tabor and Danny Spinks were the groomsmen.

MRS. PHILLIP LARRY HILL

Small-Town America Tolerating "X" Movies

EDITOR'S NOTE — X-rated movies and adults-only bookstores have sprung up throughout the country in recent years. Once confined to sleazy city neighborhoods, they migrated first to the suburbs and now to small-town America. In Harlan, Iowa, X-rated movies are shown once a month. There was protest last year, but that's disappeared.

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer

HARLAN, Iowa (AP) — "I'm setting my standards at the box office," says Al Woodraska, owner of the Harlan Theater, the only movie house in town. "That's what pays the bills."

To help pay the bills, Woodraska is showing X-rated movies once a month. "Midnight Plowboy" did good business in April. "Teen-age Bride" is the next X-rated attraction.

Harlan is a farm town and county seat, a community of white houses and front porches pocketed in the gentle hills of western Iowa. The telephone book lists 20 taverns, 28 churches and 43 farm equipment and feed dealers. Last year, X-rated movies drew pickets from the local Baptist church and city council condemnation in this town of 4,049. This year there hasn't been a ripple.

"Last Tango in Paris," critically acclaimed and X-rated, set a box office record — $379.90 in four days — at the Harlan Theater in March.

Harlan and its theater are far from unique. With increasing frequency, X-rated films are flashing flesh across the screens of drive-ins and movie houses in small-town America.

"Hot Month in August" hit the Carthage, Miss., drive-in in April. "The Cheerleaders" ran for two days in Baker, Ore. And the citizens of Hooksett, N.H., had a chance to see "Chesty" Morgan, a burlesque queen of substantial portion, in "Deadly Weapons."

"People say they don't want X-rated movies, but they sure support them," said Woodraska. "It's the only thing they'll come and pay for. It's just that simple."

It is not just that simple to everyone in Harlan. There are people who don't like X-rated movies, period, and some who object to having them shown in their town. Most, however, are willing to live with it.

"As of today, the community standard is, 'We'll tolerate it,'" said the Shelby County Attorney, John Sawin. "If you don't have any complaints, you assume the community is satisfied. I haven't had a single complaint."

"Well, we've probably got some people that don't agree with them," said Glen Hansen, barber and bartender. "But to tell the truth, it's never been brought up much lately. They don't even talk about it."

In days gone by, the local movie house was the entertainment center of small town America. Color TV and network movies have changed that. TV sets glow in the night and blank marquees stare down on Main Street. X-rated movies are keeping some alive.

"It's just one of those things," said Glen. "It's changing. Always has, always will. Sometimes you wonder about it. Then you figure, the good old days—people wouldn't want them back either."

The red, white and blue lights of the Harlan Theater glimmer at twilight in the southwest corner of the square. Woodraska has a small office upstairs behind the projection booth. Stashed in a corner are the gold shoes, bow tie and straw hat he wears on Saturday. As "Uncle Al," he gives away jump ropes and yo-yos at the matinee.

Woodraska, who took over the theater last June, several months after the protest, reached for the books. He is 39 and the father of three children. The blond hair is deserting the front of his scalp. He wears tooled leather boots and a striped sport shirt.

"We did all right from June to September. We were making ends meet. But since then....

"Look at this. 'Bang the Drum Slowly,' a good picture for everyone. Zero one night, no one came. and here, 'Day of the Jackal,' one of the big picture of the year. Sunday was $44.50, Monday was zero and Tuesday we did $24.50.

"I waited and business still didn't pick up. So then I wrote a letter to the ministers telling them I was going to bring in the x-rated pictures. It just seemed that this was what the people wanted."

On the first Sunday-Monday-Tuesday of March, the feature at the Harlan Theater was "The New Land," a story of immigrant staking out a new life in 19th century America. Eighty-one people came and Woodraska had $88.80 left after paying film rental.

On the same three days in April, the feature was "Midnight Plowboy," the x-rated tale of a farm boy in the big city. It drew 160 people and there was $151 in the till after film rental.

Lowell Holmes, an insurance agent, was elected mayor in January. Like many in Harlan, the only concern he voices is that people under 18 might get in to see the x-rated movies.

"That's the one big objection," he said. "I don't know how you can tell me if I'm 16 or 26. And how difficult is it to get a fake ID"

X-rated movies have not really become acceptable in Harlan, said the mayor, not socially and morally acceptable.

"Allowed would be a better word," he said.

Mayor Holmes was walking across the square, headed for the courthouse. Doc Early came out of the Harlan Bakery. Charles "Doc" Early is moderator at the First Baptist Church, a member of the city council and one of Harlan's six practicing veterinarians.

The laws and the courts are part of the problem, Doc said. "If they legalize it or fail to illegalize it, it becomes possible to show it against public sentiment. There's no way to enforce it."

Something has changed in Harlan, said Doc Early, but not all that much.

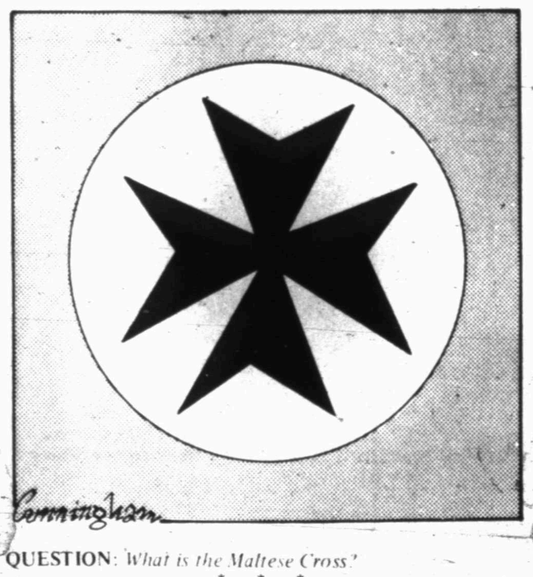

"People haven't changed since Christ's time or before," he said. "It's, well, I suppose it's the eroding away of our resistance to this sort of thing. Then again, people in my generation have a lot of hangups as far as sex is concerned. and is that good?"

The building that houses the Harlan Theatre was built in 1882. Half hidden behind the marquee is an engraved stone block: "Long's Opera House." Blanche Tank, who lives in an apartment above the theater, can remember when touring stage companies stopped to entertain the populace. She is 83.

"Well, I've seen it coming for several years now," said Mrs. Tank. "People are just kind of passive about it. They don't ...I don't know whether they are too busy with too many things or what. A lot of people don't take time to think about things anymore.

"Everything is so different now," she said.

Junior Editors' Quiz on THE MALTESE CROSS

QUESTION: What is the Maltese Cross?

* * *

ANSWER: The cross became the sacred emblem of Christianity after the crucifixion of Christ. It is a symbol of redemption, a sign of Christ's death on the cross for man's sins. In the Middle Ages, the cross was used in architecture. Churches were built with the floor plan in the shape of a cross. The graves of heroes, kings and bishops were marked with a cross.

The cross existed in many different forms. The Maltese Cross was the most elaborate. It was an eight-pointed cross, the emblem of the Knights of Malta, a military religious order of the Middle Ages. The members of this Order were dedicated to the protection of the holy places in Palestine.

Of all historical crosses, the Latin Cross was the most common. It was a long upright pole with a crosspiece near the top. The Greek Cross had arms of equal length, the St. Andrew's Cross resembled an X. The Celtic Cross had a circle at the crossing of the arms, and the Papal Cross had three horizontal bars.

New Arrival From Germany Is Guest

BY DEBBY FARMER

Mrs. Keith Hunter of 404 Thirty-fifth St. has had a visitor in her home for the past two weeks from Germany. The visitor is her niece, Maryanne Rollins, from Kirchheimbozanden, Germany. She is staying in Snyder until her husband, Earl Rollins, who is in the U.S. Army and is stationed in El Paso, can find a place for them to live. Maryanne's husband is from Nashville, Tenn., and she met him while he was stationed in Germany.

Mrs. Rollins is not a stranger to the U.S. She visited here once before on a trip to California. She doesn't find Snyder much different from Germany, except for the extremely hot weather we have been experiencing. Also, she says we have too many trees, but her aunt quickly informed her that she should be thankful for them as the weather keeps getting hotter.

As for entertainment in Snyder, she says that there isn't much compared to Germany. She does, however, like the churches better in the United States. She has been attending Calvary Baptist Church during her stay here.

Her aunt, Mrs. Hunter, is also from Germany, but has lived here for 13 years. Mr. and Mrs. Hunter have four children.

Mrs. Rollins left a mother and father and two brothers in Germany and misses them very much, but she is anxious to join her husband in El Paso.

Letter To Editor

To The Daily News:

Business as usual, gloom, doom or boom. Your answer is as good as the next man. In the northeast corner of the United States there are 11 states known as Kennedy Country. In those states, there are 13 railroads opereting under bankruptcy. In those states, the utility company, Consolidated Edison, which payed dividends for 86 years omitted its dividend and is asking for government help to save it from bankruptcy. There are 11 more utilities in those states just one step behind Consolidated Edison.

Uncle Sam, like it or not, you are going into the utility business. This week the sixth largest bank in the United States, the Franklin National Bank of New York, omitted its dividend, the first time a bank of its size had done so since the early 1930s. This is a warning of what there is to come.

Over 90 per cent of the banks in these states had loan ratios exceeding their safe operating level. The installment payments are delinquent, bankruptcies are the highest in history for this part of the country. City and state governments have the highest rate of corruption in these states than any other part of the country. Some people blame this situation on the communists. Let us be fair to all people and put the blame where it belongs, on Kennedyism.

To The Daily News:

Certainly by now the officials of the Winnebago clubs which enjoyed the hospitality of Snyder recently have sent their letters of appreciation to the appropriate city, county, and chamber of commerce officials.

Even so, I think it fitting that one of the "plain" members of one club publicly thank the citizens of Snyder for making the rally one of the most enjoyable we have attended. The warmth of the welcome by Snyder citizens was second to none that we have received elsewhere, and unquestionably the visitors to Snyder will remember your city most favorably.

Thank you for allowing us to share your city for a few days; we look forward to a return visit soon.

Sincerely
Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jones

CJD Grants For Scurry, Nolan OK'd

AUSTIN—Governor Dolph Briscoe today approved a grant to continue a project in Sweetwater which; after one year of operation, resulted in a 47 percent reduction of reported burglaries in that city. The governor has also approved a grant to Scurry County, making the total for the region served by the West Central Texas Council of Governments $12,822.

The money comes from the Criminal Justice Division of the Governor's Office. CJD administers the state's block grant from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration under the Crime Control Act of 1973.

Sweetwater receives $11,352 for its crime-prevention project, directed by Gerald Byrd, chief of police. The project employs a crime-prevention specialist who trains fellow officers in the police department, informs the public on crime-prevention techniques, implements various crime-prevention projects and provides a security-inspection service for citizens and businessmen. In addition to the burglary reduction, the project has resulted in a reduction of felony thefts of 25 per cent.

Scurry County receives $1,470 for purchase of equipment for efficiency improvements in the office of the county attorney. Included in the purchase will be dictating and transcribing equipment.

The local grants were among 39 approved by the governor totaling $3.2 million.

Employment Agency Helpful

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: I've worked at the same job for 11 years but my husband has been transferred to another state so I'll have to look for another job there. Because of our debts I can't afford to be out of work too long. Do you think I should go to an employment agency? I can't afford to pay for a job but I need quick action. – H.F., Memphis

Looking under every rock is the best way to find a lodestone, your perfect job. This means pursuing many avenues, such as help-wanted ads, referral by friends, direct application, using the public employment service AND working through good private employment agencies.

BUT LEARNING to maximize your chances in the jobmarket is an acquired skill; I haven't yet met the individual who can do it intuitively. Many people simply are unwilling to devote adequate effort to understanding the intricacies of the jobsearch. Some, such as you, don't have the time. If you do nothing else, read the want-ads religiously and register with several good private employment agencies. Tell the agencies that you can only consider jobs where the fee is paid by the employer.

RECENTLY I happened to see another of those anti-agency articles that said to look on your own for a few weeks before "resorting to" agencies. I disagree. Unless you know exactly what you're doing (and many if not most people are pretty unsophisticated at merchandising themselves as job applicants), you risk burning off your best prospects. How can you expect an agency to help place you with firms that already have turned you down? Also, where's the profit in being out of work a few weeks or a few months longer than necessary?

FINDING private agencies that will work hardest for you is important. There's no infallible method, but there are barometers.

* Is the agency a member of the local and state employment agency association? A member of the National Employment Agency association? While membership doesn't guarantee perfection, it's an indication of the agency's willingness to conform to ethical standards. Moreover, association members take a dim view of infractions by one of their own and usually make a special effort to iron out difficulties. This does not mean, however, that an agency is not good because it does not belong to an association.

* Does the Better Business Bureau show a high complaint record against the agency?

* Does the agency have Certified Employment Counselors on its staff? Industry certification means the placement specialist has demonstrated competence through experience and exams.

* You can check with employers about which agencies they use. This too is imperfect because it means the employer is satisfied, not necessarily that the agency devotes its energies on the applicant's behalf.

* What's your reaction when you walk into the agency? Do you get the feeling of professionalism – or gum chewing, first-name breeziness with rock music in the background? Does the agency fully explain the terms of the contract you'll be asked to sign? Does the agency send you on goose-chase interviews for jobs which obviously are unsuitable or unobtainable? If so, choose another agency.

NOT EVERY LETTER I get about private agencies is complimentary, but many are, like this one from a woman in San Diego:

"It is unfortunate that so many jobseekers look down on agencies when they actually save time, money and frustrations. From a job seeker who is now working successfully thanks to an employment agency."

Snyderite Gets Degree At SFA

NACOGDOCHES — Bruce Kenner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ford Kenner of Snyder, received the bachelor of music degree at spring commencement of Stephen F. Austin State University on Wednesday, May 15. He is a graduate of Snyder High School.

Kenner, whose instruments are tuba and bass trombone, played in the Symphonic Band, University Orchestra and the SFA Jazz Band while in SFA. He also played in several small ensembles and brass quintets. In 1972 he won the outstanding individual achievement award at the Mobile Jazz Festival in Mobile, Ala. A member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, professional music fraternity, he plans to teach in public school.

PREPARING AWARDS—Pam Smith, secretary, and Jerry Neill, music director at First Baptist Church, prepare awards to be presented tonight to members of graded choirs of the church. The choirs, including pre-schoolers through 6th graders, will present their "Spring Sing" concert at 7 p.m., which will be followed by an all-church fellowship in which the music department will present the program. The public is invited.

Anti-Gambling Provision Is Urged

DALLAS (AP) — Baptist General Convention of Texas spokesmen say silence on the gambling issue in the new state constitution "would not be good enough. It must contain a provision against gambling."

Dr. James Landes, chief executive officer of the 2-million member church group, said Friday, "The fate of the new constitution probably depends on decisions concerning gambling," and that the Baptist convention would get its members out to defeat the new document.

The document, now being prepared by legislators for submission to a vote, will be defeated if it does not include a strong anti-parimutuel gambling section, he added.

He said the May 4 referendum results, in which parimutuel wagering was narrowly defeated, "must be made clear in the Constitution."

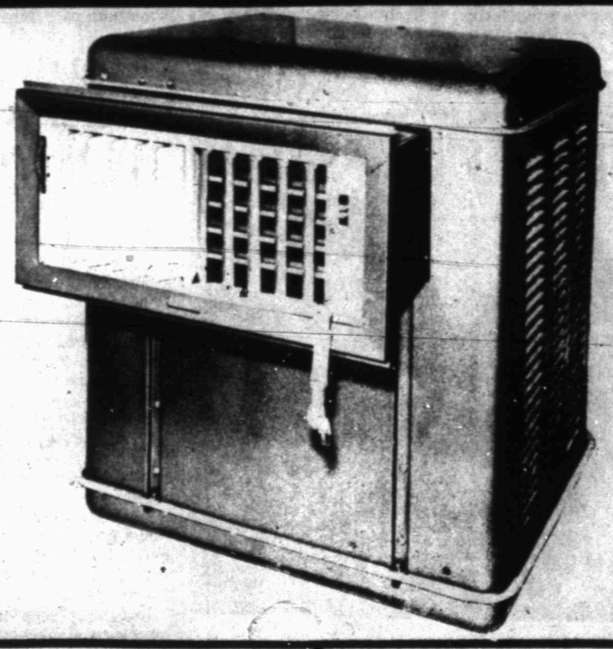

"In light of the recent vote, in light of growing citizen concern about crime and corruption and in light of the strong feelings that exist against this in Texas, I cannot imagine the people of this state accepting a new constitution which does not forbid parimutuel gambling," he said.

Landes added that Baptists want no more referendums on gambling in the future.

Status Uncertain

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies said third baseman Mike Schmidt had a dirt particle removed from his eye at a local hospital and that his status in today's game with the Pittsburgh Pirates is uncertain.

Three Tigers Make 4-AAAA All-District

Three Snyder High School baseball players were named to the 4-AAAA All-District baseball team, which was released today by the district's coaches.

The three who made the team from Snyder are all seniors. They are Ralph Lewis, Robert Braziel and V.T. Roberson.

Lewis and Braziel were co-captains of the Tiger team the past season. Lewis is a third baseman, and he batted .368 last season. Braziel was named to the All-District team as a utility man. He posted a 6-4 record in the tough 4-AAAA loop as a pitcher, and batted .360 as a first baseman-pitcher. Roberson only batted .204, but he made the team on defensive ability. He was perhaps the most outstanding outfielder in the league. Ralph and Robert are three-year lettermen. Roberson has two varsity letters.

Catcher Jimmy Shankle of Lubbock Monterey was named Player of the Year, and Scott Gardner, also of Monterey, was named Sophomore of the year.

The Plainsmen dominated the All-District team. Others named to it are pitchers Larry Horn and Scott Gardner, first baseman Rocky Alburtis, second baseman Brad Harrelson, and outfielders Marlin Hamilton and Bobby Evans. In addition, Larry Horn tied Lewis for third baseman honors.

Lubbock Coronado's Bill Eady and Lubbock High's Keith Martin tied in voting for pitching berths on the All-District team, and Hereford's David Criswell was named Honorable Mention at pitcher.

The only other infielder on the team was Valente Chavez of Plainview. Kelly Utley of Coronado was named to the team as an outfielder while Plainview's Steve Westbrook and Chris Sumner and Coronado's Joe Barnhart were named Honorable Mention as outfielders.

Lubbock High's Clark McMillan was named Honorable Mention as a utility man.

The Yankees clipped the Cubs 31-8 and the Giants smashed the Athletics 29-9 in two Farm League tilts here Friday night.

The Yanks collected four hits with Ricky Chaidez doubling and Norman Johnson, Henry Alvarez and Richard Derrick singling. The Cubs also got four safeties. Gerald Hicks doubled and Gary Cody, Kip Elkins and Danny Eckert hit singles.

The Giants collected 17 safeties, led by Ricky Harlan, who stroked a double and four singles. Kevin Harlin hit a double and a single, and Billy Hembree hit a double. Clif Payne, D.W. Lofton and Doug Scott each hit two singles. Richard Fargason, Tim Derryberry and Mike Deere each hit one single.

Western Signs Wortham

SNYDER—Ross Wortham of Iraan, holder of one of the best high school golf records in Texas, has been awarded a full golf scholarship at Western Texas College and has signed a letter of intent with the college.

Wortham, a 1974 graduate of Iraan High School, was Class A State Medalist in Austin this spring with rounds of 74 and 73 on a very difficult golf course. His scores were the second best shot in the state tournament by any player, Bob O'Day, WTC golf coach, said.

Wortham was district golf medalist his sophomore, junior and senior years in high school, and led his high school team to district championships two years. He was a member of the 1972 State Champion Class A golf team as a sophomore. Iraan won the regional championship in his freshman and sophomore years, placed second in the regional tourney in his junior and senior years, and was second in the state tournament in his freshman year.

The young golfer is the current holder of the course record at the Iraan golf course with a fantastic score of 32-30 for a total of 62. The low score of 64 which formerly held the record was shot by his high school golf coach, Neal Sconiers.

In the Wortham home are more than 50 trophies, along with medals and ribbons and other awards attesting to the efforts put forth by Wortham. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R.Q. Wortham.

"We feel fortunate in signing Wortham for the Westerners," O'Day said. "His summer and high school records speak for themselves, and we feel he will help our golf program tremendously. Neal Sconiers is one of the best high school teachers in Texas, a dedicated golf coach who has a fine golf program, and he has worked with Ross since he was big enough to hold a golf club.

"Ross goes out to win anytime he steps on the tee box, and he has been offered golf scholarships from junior and senior colleges across the nation. He's quiet, doesn't mind practicing, and should be one of the best to play for the Westerners."

Deacon Denies Drug Use

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Veteran defensive end David "Deacon" Jones denied accusations of drug use Friday and said he didn't expect to play for the San Diego Chargers next season.

"I don't think that I'll play another down of pro football in San Diego," the 13-year National Football League veteran said on a radio talk show.

"But I will play another year of football, because I want to prove to the people that Deacon is a football player and not a drug addict."

The class is tentatively scheduled from 6-8 p.m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and will meet on the WTC tennis courts. Cost will be $40 per person.

Jones has been involved in teaching and coaching tennis for over 20 years.

Rentzel Is Reinstated

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — After spending 10 months in the shadows of professional football, Lance Rentzel was reinstated Friday by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

"I just can't tell you how happy I feel," Rentzel said in Los Angeles after learning that Rozelle had okayed his return. "A lot has changed in my life the past 10 months."

Rozelle suspended the Los Angeles wide receiver on July 24, 1973, after Rentzel was arrested, indicted and pleaded guilty to the possession of marijuana. He was sentenced to 90 days in jail, fined $2,000 and placed on three years probation.

At that time, Rentzel was already playing under an NFL probation following his arrest and conviction on an indecent exposure charge on Nov. 30, 1970. He had received a five-year probated sentence for that incident.

Rozelle lauded Rentzel's personal conduct during the period of the suspension and said the player had been active in worthwhile volunteer community work during his time out of the game.

"I am looking forward to returning to the Rams, I had offers from the World Football League but my loyalty remains with Los Angeles. The Rams are my team and Chuck Knox is my coach. He's the greatest coach I ever played for and I played for him less than two weeks" before the suspension.

During his layoff from football, Rentzel spent much of his time writing. "My biggest interest now is writing, but I still like football," he said.

Rentzel, who has already written his autobiography, now is writing a novel. "I'm just about finished with it. It is not on football, but is based on characters I've known in football."

CELEBRITIES ON THE COUCH

By Dick Maurice

Known as a "nice guy," Tony Randall has been entertaining movie goers for years with his superb acting abilities! Though he does mostly comedy, he considers himself a character actor. Happily wed to Florence Mitchell, Tony collects paintings and records. Born in Tulsa, Oklahoma, he went to New York to study acting at the Neighborhood Playhouse. He had no difficulty getting to the top. After a distinguished career on Broadway and in the movies, Tony has hit the jackpot with his hilarious role of Felix in the "Odd Couple." Opera buffs know him as a panelist on the Saturday afternoon Metropolitan broadcasts. The Randalls have an apartment in New York and a home in California.

MAURICE: How would you describe yourself?

RANDALL: A swell guy. I don't know. No one has ever asked me to describe myself before. You've completely thrown me. I couldn't possibly describe myself. I'd say I'm 6'4", perfect physique, 29 years of age, rich, gold curly hair, red lips, both blue and brown eyes depending on my moods, 37 teeth, the power of a panther. Besides that a consumate lover capable of satisfying 8 to 12 women in one day.

MAURICE: After that description it sounds like a cross between Superman and Wally Cox.

RANDALL: Right!

MAURICE: You seem to be closer to the younger generation than most people your age.

RANDALL: We've gone through a period where the older people hated the young. They hated them because they were jealous of them. My generation had to go to war. This was the first generation that said I ain't going. Fifty years ago Carl Sandberg wrote a wonderful poem, "someday they are going to give a war and nobody's going to come." Many had the courage to say, I'm not going. Then my generation didn't have the pill. These kids can have sex without worrying about that and if they get a dose they have penicillin. Then the older people, if they wanted to have fun, had to get drunk. You get drunk, you feel miserable, you're sick. It's an awful thing to do but they do it because they don't know any better. The young kids smoke grass. They get just as high and they don't get sick and have that hangover. Because of those three things, the freedom of sex, their courage in refusing to go to war and their freedom with grass, the older people hate them because they are so jealous of it all.

MAURICE: In what ways are you like the character, Felix, that you play in the "Odd Couple"?

RANDALL: I'm not a bit like him. We've done over 92 shows and it's difficult to come up with a fresh approach each week. So, we have been doing programs on subjects which I am interested in such as opera. And that is the only way our lives overlap, Felix's and mine. He would be a very unpleasant person to be like.

MAURICE: What's the most embarrassing thing that's ever happened to you?

RANDALL: In my whole life?

MAURICE: Yes.

RANDALL: My wedding night.

MAURICE: I don't dare ask what happened.

RANDALL: I got ptomaine poisoning. I didn't get out of the bathroom all night. It was hilarious but it was terribly embarrassing. My wife just laughed and laughed.

MAURICE: What advise would you give to a bridegroom on his wedding night?

RANDALL: Don't eat in a restaurant. Have the party in someone's home.

MAURICE: You've worked with a lot of famous leading ladies like Doris Day and Debbie Reynolds. Do you have a favorite?

RANDALL: Doris Day. Big talent and a delightful person who is really very funny. She's a hard worker and I admire that more than anything else.

MAURICE: How has creating a TV series changed from the early days when you started in television in 1952?

RANDALL: The shows are taped these days. It's just like making movies. In early television, they were all done live. For movies, filming three or four pages of dialogue is a reasonable day's work. But because of the economics of television, we have to film a 24-page episode in three days. The reason is high costs—$125,000 per episode. The producing company doesn't even begin to make any profit until the reruns begin.

MAURICE: Is it true that you won a bit of the action of your television series, the "Odd Couple"?

RANDALL: A big bit. That's one of the reasons why I decided to do the series. If it succeeds and you own a piece of it you can have something of an annuity. No one is like Lucille Ball who's had about five succeeding series. They are on the air all the time and every time one of them is on she makes something from it not only for her residuals as an actress but her share as an owner. It's a very hefty 3 or 4 million for her a year, I suppose.

MAURICE: I know you've given up smoking, but what habit can't you break that you wish you could?

RANDALL: Coffee. I don't think I could live without coffee.

MAURICE: Do you have a favorite film role?

RANDALL: My favorite was "The Seven Faces of Dr. Lao." I never thought it was a good movie but it certainly was the best acting chance I ever had in my life. I was very proud of it. Then it was on television recently and I wondered . . . well, I wish I hadn't seen it again.

MAURICE: You are a man of many opinions. . .

RANDALL: There's only one thing worse than a man who doesn't have strong likes and dislikes, and that's a man who has strong likes and dislikes without the courage to voice them.

MAURICE: Do you really love classical music as much as you lead people to believe?

RANDALL: I love classical music with the same passion with which I despise rock 'n roll.

MAURICE: If you had one wish, what would you wish for?

RANDALL: That the world would be free from wars. Everything that's wrong with the world stems directly from war.

PASTEL DRAWING—Kathy Williams' pastel drawing was one of the works chosen for the traveling exhibit next fall. It was on display at This N' That, 3907 College Avenue, last week. Kathy, 17, is a junior at Snyder High School.

ACRYLIC PAINTING—This acrylic painting by Eloisa Garza, 17, junior, at Snyder High School, has been chosen for a traveling exhibit next fall.

Festival Added To Fink Week

FINK, Tex. (AP) — A Fink Folk Festival will be added to the annual National Fink Week here starting June 17.

Patricia Albright, mayor of the tiny Grayson County town near Lake Texoma said the Fink Folk Festival will feature everything from an old-fashioned quilting bee to exhibits of buttons and barbed wire.

Most of the action of Fink Week will take place on Thursday, June 20, the official National Fink Day as declared by Mrs. Albright. Anyone can attend, but the special guests are named Fink, Fincks, Finkes, Finques, Funks or Phinques.

Thursday will be highlighted by "our usual free barbecue blast," said Mrs. Albright.

"If the crowd gets much bigger than last year," said Willard Albright, the mayor's husband. "I may have to go steal a cow to feed all the folks."

Fink poet laureate Oscar L. Fink, 87, reportedly has been ill in recent weeks, but his wife says he has still been polishing up his verbiage for his annual Fink poem.

"Oscar's getting pretty deaf," said Mrs. Fink, "but that won't keep him away from Fink on National Fink Day. He's been busy making Fink fiddles, Fink wagons and Fink walking canes."

Mayor Albright said, "Fink really is growing. We have two stores and service stations, a doctor's office, city hall, Fink museum and we have a rodeo arena under construction that is due to open with its inaugural rodeo on National Fink Week."

She said the population probably has almost doubled over a year ago and should be a baker's dozen now.

However, the mayor said she doesn't like this "mushrooming growth" that has gripped Fink the past year.

"It brings too many problems," she said. "We're starting to get the big city burglars in Fink. They broke into the Fink Museum and made off with Willard's gun collection, then broke into my office and stole two rolls of half dollars, a pair of binoculars and Willard's powder horn."

Student Art For Exhibit Selected

Art work of four Snyder students has been selected to appear in a traveling exhibit next fall.

Work selected includes a nail sculpture and photograph by Max Snider, a pastel drawing by Kathy Williams, acrylic painting by Eloisa Garza, and wood sculpture by David Thompson.

These works were selected by Snyder Public Schools art teachers Jo Flynn of Lamar, Kenny Miller of Travis and Ted Bigham of Snyder High School.

Four works also will be chosen from students at Abilene, Big Spring, Colorado City, Odessa and Sweetwater.

The art will be exhibited at each of these towns in the fall. In addition, the exhibit will be displayed at the District Texas State Teachers Convention at Sweetwater in October and at the Texas Art Teachers Convention which will be held in Abilene in November.

Snyder Public Schools will be host for the show in September. It will be judged at that time for best in show.

VEGETABLE DISEASES AND INSECTS

During the past week we have had numerous calls on problems with vegetable gardens. Some we have been able to recognize and others we have not. There seems to be several different problems rather than just one certain thing.

The cool nights, high winds during the day have not been ideal for vegetable growing. In fact, we feel the cool soil temperatures are causing some of the problems. We have seen some cases of bacterial leaf spot on snap beans and peas. This is characterized by dark angular spots on leaves, then a yellowing of leaf. In some cases the leaf will drop off. Good warm growing conditions will improve this situation. Watering during the morning so that the plants will be dry by night time will also help.

Seedling disease complex has been a problem. This too can be attributed to cool soil conditions and poor growing conditions. Treating seeds with a fungicide such as Captan will aid in control of seedling disease comples, big shank, dampening off and this type of problem.

Insects, other than the soil insects of cutworms and wireworms, have not caused a great deal of loss as yet. However, it is just a matter of time until we will be having these problems.

There are three groups of insects which attack garden plants. They are soil insects, they include cutworms, wireworms, white grub, crickets and various maggots. The second group are the sucking insects such as aphid, leafhoppers, stinkbugs, thrip and spider mites. The third group is the most destructive. These are the chewing insects and include grasshoppers, leaf miners, beetles and weevils, cabbage loopers, armyworms and webworms.

To control soil insects treat the soil with Chlordane or Diazinon before planting. Vegetables produced underground should not be planted in soil treated with Chlordane.

Sucking and chewing insects can be controlled by the use of contact sprays. These insecticides are Sevin, diazinon, dicofol (Kelthane), malathion, sulfur, methoxycholor or ethion. When using an insecticide the label on the container should be followed carefully.

In addition to controlling insects and diseases added protection can be obtained by maintaining a clean, closely mowed area adjacent to the garden area. Dispose of trash, old boards, plant debris near the garden site. Water and maintain good soil fertility to provide optimum growing conditions. A good healthy garden plant can withstand low populations of insects and minor infestation of diseases without economic loss.

Political Activity Fades

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Statewide political activity has practically disappeared while a small band of state and national legislators settle their runoff disputes.

Absentee voting for the June 1 second Democratic and Republican primaries begins this next Tuesday.

There are no statewide runoff battles after Gov. Dolph Briscoe got 66 per cent of the Democratic vote on May 4 in a four-candidate race to erase the only chance of a June 1 statewide runoff.

Only one congressional nomination remains to be settled. It is between State Sen. Nelson Wolff of San Antonio and New Braunfels business executive Robert Krueger for sprawling Dist. 21 to succeed Rep. O.C. Fisher, D-Tex., who retired. The winner faces Republican Doug Harlan of San Antonio in November.

San Antonio also has the only runoff race for state Senate, between Democrats Joe Bernal and Frank Lombardino. The winner will meet Republican Earl Wentworth of San Antonio.

There are 21 state representative runoff races with interest centering in the big cities. There are two Democratic runoffs in the Fort Worth area, two in Dallas and four in the San Antonio area. Most have Republican opponents in November.

The sole GOP legislative runoff race is in Houston where Frank Hartung meets Sonny Jones, with the winner facing Democrat Frank Walden in the general election.

The spring semester at WTC ended the past week and the first summer term will begin May 30.

Gasoline Once Considered Useless

CHICAGO (AP) — If waiting in line for gasoline makes you lose your sense of humor, try to remember that the precious fuel was once considered useless.

In fact, until the automobile came along kerosene was the major product of oil refineries, according to World Book Encyclopedia. Because it burned slowly, it was used to light lamps, heat homes and cook food. Gasoline, too, was a refinery by-product. Because it exploded when ignited, it was often dumped into rivers and creeks for disposal.

FUNCTIONAL AND PRETTY TOO!

This pleasant looking house is planned to make every day living function with smooth efficiency.

Note, for example, how traffic is neatly guided by the two entries and also by the cleverly placed utility room (laundry, which serves as a back entrance from the long patio and a passageway to both kitchen and bedroom hall.

Note too how the sunken living room with its cosy fireplace is charmingly separate from the higher raised entry.

The large dining room, a counter width away from the U-shaped kitchen, also has access to that patio which fits so neatly into the angle of the house.

And note how this angle facilitates master bedroom use of the patio too. This room, as well as the other two bedrooms has excellent closets and there is also a big general closet in the hall. Note too the two baths back to back for plumbing economy.

IN CORN BELT

Fertilizer Causing Blues

EDITOR'S NOTE — The U.S. government says the 1974 corn harvest will be a record 6.7 billion bushels. That should help bring down food prices. But will the corn crop be so good? Out in the corn belt farmers are doubtful. They say they can't get enough fertilizer to plant a bumper crop.

By DENNIS MONTGOMERY
Associated Press Writer

FARMER CITY, ILL (AP) — Here in the corn belt, spring planting is in full swing. But farmers are grumbling that they can't get enough nitrogen fertilizer to sow the bumper corn crop predicted by the U.S. government.

"There's nothing they can do about it," says Lew West, one of the 200 farmers who purchase fertilizer from his Farmer City Grain, Fertilizer and Chemical Co. Because of the energy crisis, the natural gas in nitrogen fertilizer has been in short supply. West had to cut back his customers to "20 per cent of what we sold them last year."

Without nitrogen fertilizer, the corn planted per acre must be reduced, sacrificing the high yield needed for a bumper crop. Or farmers can switch to soybeans, which don't need nitrogen, the scarcest of the major fertilizer ingredients.

Many farmers in Indiana, Iowa and Illinois — the corn belt states — say they are making the switch to soybeans, either because they can't get the fertilizer or it's too expensive.

"We're selling for $185 a ton and we hear of prices on up as high as $400 a ton," West said. "Last year we sold for $75 to $85 a ton."

Exports cut heavily into 1973's record 5.6 billion bushel harvest. As a result, stocks of corn, the staple livestock fattener, are 15 per cent below last year's level and the price has risen from $1.65 to $2.60 a bushel for mid-May delivery. That has driven up beef prices, too, and many livestock producers have reduced their herds until corn prices drop.

Prices should drop, according to the experts, if October's corn harvest is 6.7 billion bushels, as the U.S. Agriculture Department predicts.

Edwin Harre of the Agriculture Department's National Fertilizer Center in Muscle Shoals, Ala., says the 6.7 billion bushels is probable — because "we don't look for the nitrogen fertilizer shortfall to be more than 4 or 5 per cent at the most."

To this Edwin Wheeler of the Fertilizer Institute in Washington, an industry association, replies: "Farmers can expect no more than 85 per cent of the nitrogen they need." That could reduce the estimated corn crop by nearly one billion bushels.

The National Corn Growers Association has estimated a 1974 harvest of 6.1 billion bushels.

Richard Stone, who farms 1,400 acres near Bradfordton, feels from his own experience that the Agriculture Department's corn harvest expectations are too optimistic. In interviews, other corn belt farmers agreed with Stone because of the fertilizer problem.

Stone has purchased 75 per cent of the nitrogen fertilizer he wants at $195 a ton, triple what he paid last year. Because of the shortage, he's sowing only 700 acres in feed corn instead of the 1,000 he planted last year.

"There's no point in going on without nitrogen," Stone says. He'll plant soybeans in those 300 acres.

The 39-year-old farmer, tilling land that has been in the family more than 150 years, thinks that early planting in the Midwest this year — in expectation of a dry spell — might have put "too much pressure on the fertilizer market."

Last year, planting was delayed a month, until late May, because of heavy rains.

In the Wabash River Country near Carmi, a black market developed in nitrogen fertilizer. Bill Lamont, a fertilizer dealer, said that when his regular nitrogen supplier failed him, "about the only thing left to do was to buy some of this black market material."

Lamont sold to 15 old customers at $370 a ton. "The rest said that if they have to pay that kind of price they'll just go to planting beans instead of corn."

CHANGING SEX

Surgeon Noted For Specialty

CASABLANCA, Morocco (AP) — It's like a fashionable gynecologist's waiting room anywhere in the world. Young women, some accompanied by their husbands, anxiously await their turn while nurses scurry about.

Every few days, though, a different kind of patient rings at Dr. Georges Burou's door: a man, invariably alone, comes by appointment to be transformed into a woman.

Dr. Burou, 63-year-old French surgeon and gynecologist, is regarded as a pioneer of the sex change operation. Since he first developed his method in 1956, he has performed nearly 1,000 such operations. Many of his patients have been Americans.

"I know of no other doctor in the world who has done more than about 90 such interventions," he said in a rare interview.

Although his renown has spread through what he calls "a kind of trans-sexual mafia," Dr. Burou shuns publicity. He waited more than 16 years before presenting the first scientific paper on his technique to a medical congress.

The sun-tanned, athletic-looking physician says he entered the sex-change field almost by accident. "A patient, a French electrical engineer, pestered me for months to do it because he could no longer endure life as a man. I finally consented and tried it as an experiment. Surprisingly, it worked, and the patient has lived very satisfactorily as a woman ever since."

That was in 1956. In February, 1973, Dr. Burou publicly revealed his method at a Stanford University symposium on trans-sexualism.

Dr. Burou's surgical technique has been adopted and modified by surgeons in the United States and elsewhere. The surgery involves removal of the testicles and tissue from the penis and dissection or creation of a space for a vagina between the prostate gland and the rectum. The space is lined with skin from either the penis or a thigh, or from both.

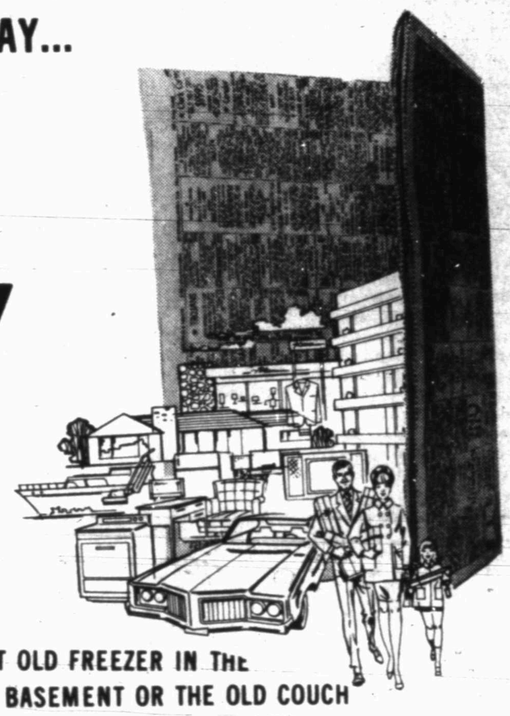

There have been 500 to 600 such operations in the United States in the last five to six years, according to a physician familiar with the subject. Two surgeons in New York City have done 100-150 each and the operation is performed at Johns Hopkins University, the University of Minnesota and Stanford University.

Dr. Burou calls his operation "basically plastic surgery," because his newly transformed women can never hope to have babies. "But they become women in every other respect."
