Collingsworth Construction Approaching $4 Million

New construction in Collingsworth County, including building under way, recently completed, or to begin soon, is approaching the $4 million mark.

This covers industrial and business construction, home building, schools and a church, streets, highway and water system construction.

Some is announced for the first time.

Much of this construction has been announced as single projects developed. This is the first time it has been looked at in the overall picture.

Construction outside of Wellington, which includes the Quail School, a three-mile stretch on Highway FM 338, and the Dodson Rural Water System, is around a million dollars.

Three additions have been opened in Wellington for homebuilding, with most of these homes to be in the higher price range. Building on these sites is in the future.

Acquisition of acreage for business expansion at least one company is in the negotiation stage.

Spearheading Wellington's industrial growth is the new plant of Southwestern Rail Products, Inc., which around Nov. 1 will begin making spikes for railroad ties.

Heavy machinery was moved into the plant late last week from the Burns Flat, Okla., installation which is closing. Some construction remains to be finished.

The cost of opening Southwestern Rail Products Inc., in Wellington is $775,000. Construction of two buildings amounts to $275,000 a quarter million has gone into equipment and machinery and another quarter million is working capital.

Located on a block and a half site between Warrick's Inc., and Singley Mill and Elevator, construction will be finished after machinery is in, and the railroad spur remains to be built.

The corporation is wholly owned by Wayne B. Smith, president; Dwain Marple, vice president; and John F. Watson.

When Southwestern Rail opens, there will be approximately 60 employees, drawing base wages of $6.00 per hour and up.

Tom Wilkins, owner of Wilkins Furniture, is Wellington's major home builder.

He has already built approximately $500,000 worth of new homes in Wellington under the Happy Homes Lable. 8 of the 10 are in the Happy Homes addition in southeast Wellington.

He made several major announcements this week.

Mr. Wilkins:

-Is opening Happy Homes Builders Supply Co., on the old Farmers Co-op Gin Yard as soon as the 54 x 138' steel building now under construction is complete. He bought the tract some months ago.

-Beginning January 1, 1978, he will do custom home building for other purchasers.

-Upon completing the builders supply, Mr. Wilkerson, will enter the readibuilt home market.

"I want to see if there is a market for these houses in Wellington. They will be completely finished, like the houses that have been brought here from Lubbock and Amarillo," he said.

CRANING

A large overhead crane is maneuvered into position Thursday, October 6 at Southwestern Rail Products, Inc.'s new plant on Amarillo Street. Other heavy equipment including a furnace, above right, and two spike machines, was moved to Wellington from the company's Burns Flat, Oklahoma operation last week.

Quail Baptist Church Plans 50th Anniversary

The congregation of Quail Baptist Church will celebrate the 50th anniversary of its organization with a day-long program on Sunday, October 16.

Morning services will begin at 10:00, and at noon, a covered dish dinner will be served. The afternoon service will be from 2:00 to 4:00 p.m., according to the Rev. Jeff. Messer, pastor.

Five others pastors who have served the church will be present, including the Rev. C.W. Squyres of Lawton, Okla., pastor in 1931-32; the Rev. Fred Porter of Vernon, 1963-64; the Rev. Porter Arnold of Silverton, the Rev. John Stout of Clarendon, 1971-73; and the Rev. Darrell Feemster, 1974-77.

Rev. Porter will preach at the morning service and Rev. Squyres at the afternoon service.

Two other guest pastors will give testimonies, and Rev. and Mrs. Feemster will present a vocal solo.

Congregational singing will open the morning service, followed by a prayer, the introduction of guests by Rev. Messer, and special music by Trudy and Tim Baker.

The Rev. Doug DuBose, area missionary, will give the charge; and Rev. Stout his testimony.

Congregational singing will be followed by music from the Quail Quartet.

Congregational singing and prayer will also open the afternoon service, and Rev. Messer will introduce guests.

Mark White will read the church history, which is now being compiled, and after special music by Becky Barton and Amy Shields, Rev. Feemster will sing. He will be joined later by his wife for a duet.

Congregational singing, the sermon by Rev. Squyres and testimony by Rev. Stout will complete the program.

Only a few days ago, records were found which revealed that the church was organized on Sept. 18, 1927, and plans for the celebration were begun immediately.

The minutes are definitely those of an organizational meeting, Rev. Messer said. Although no mention is made of a Baptist church at Quail prior to this, it is known that the first sermon ever preached at Quail was by a Baptist and that a Baptist Church was organized in 1902.

Since beginning work on the anniversary program, members of the present church have not had time to research the full story of the Baptist denomination in their community.

The 29 pastors who have served Quail Baptist church over the 50 years of its organization are Rev. F.U. Walker 1927, Rev. John L. King, 1927-28, Rev. R.H. Cable 1930, Rev. C. W. Squyres, 1931-32;

Rev. A.J. Campbell 1933-35, Rev. S.T. Greenwood 1935, Rev. R.B. Mathis 1936, Rev. E.C. Warford 1937, Rev. A.J. Campbell for a second pastorate, 1938-39, Rev. W.L. Bryant 1939-42, Rev. J.W. Bradshaw 1942-43;

Rev. Guy Killian 1943-47, Rev. W.W. Baker 1947-48, Rev. Coley Arender 1949, Rev. S.T. Greenwood, a second pastorate, 1949-51, Rev. Alvin Hamm, 1954-56;

Rev. Melvin McCollum, 1956-57; Rev. B.J. Johns, 1957-58; Dr. O.D. Holton, 1958-60;

Rev. Joe Hawn, 1960-62; Rev. Porter, 1963-64; Rev. Vic Johnson, 1964-65; Rev. Tric Epps, 1966-67; Rev. Elvis Pitts, 1967-69; Rev. Arnold, 1969-71; Rev. Stout, 1971-73;

Revival Opens At Fundamental Baptist Oct. 16

Revival services will begin at Fundamental Baptist Church Sunday, Oct. 16, and continue through Friday, Oct. 21, the Rev. Wayne Pulliam, pastor, has announced. Starting time is 7:30 on weeknights and 6:30 Sunday night.

The evangelist will be the Rev. Jerry Clark, pastor of Bible Baptist Church, Dumas. His son, who plays the accordion, is due to be here for part of the services to present special music.

Quail Voters Approve Bonds

Voters of the Quail School District approved the $295,000 school bond issue by a 98-81 vote Tuesday, October 11, as another step toward rebuilding the school plant destroyed in the May 15 tornado.

This proposition carried with it provisions for a tax to repay the bond issue. It is believed this will raise school taxes from the present $1.50 per hundred to around $2.20.

The second proposition on which the district voted, a $1.50 maintenance tax, passed 93-82.

Out of 183 eligible voters in the Quail School District, 179 voted, according to Charles Darter. Donald Langley, School Board secretary, said the votes were being canvassed by the board Tuesday night, October 11.

He said the next step would be the sale of the school bonds.

Because of the heated nature of this election, the state Attorney General on Monday appointed 100th District Attorney Charles Darter and Guy Bell, special investigator for the 100th Judicial District, as observers at the polls.

Structural Steel Shortage Blamed for Delay on School

Wellington School Board read a letter Monday, Oct. 10 from elementary school building general contractor Speed Fab-Crete claiming that shortages of structural steel had prevented the firm from working on the building during the past few days, but promising that work would begin again on Monday, October 17.

The school also received an initial report of a review of its minority hiring practices and minority participation in extra-curricular activities. The report told the school administration it should keep on file minority applications and document its efforts to hire minority teachers. The report also said that minorities did not participate in extra-curricular activities on a percentage basis as much as whites, but Superintendent E.W. Clement told the board this calculation did not include sports where he said minorities have above average participation.

In other action at its regular meeting Monday, the board changed one of the school bus routes to even the loads and discussed various unemployment insurance plans, one of which the school will be required to assume later this fall.

Skyrockets Edge Tulia, 14-13

The Powell Field scoreboard clock had stopped with 40 seconds left to play. Eight seconds earlier Tulia quarterback Don Burgess had passed to Jeff Wilks for Tulia's second touchdown and put the score at 14-13, Wellington. Now the Hornets were going for two points and a win. Burgess took the snap from center and rolled right, looking for a receiver. But a strong Skyrocket pass rush and good defensive halfback coverage swamped Burgess and the Tulia team's dreams of spoiling Wellington's homecoming game went down the tube.

Last year the Skyrockets had rolled into Tulia higher than a kite on their brand-new Rocket Express bus and embarrassed the Hornets 28-0 before a big homecoming crowd there.

The Skyrockets dominated the first half with scoring drives on their second and third possessions. Arnie Ingram's punt put Tulia in the hole with their first possession starting on their own 5 yard line. Tulia couldn't move against the Rocket defensive line, and George Darton fielded a short punt and returned it to the Tulia 25. At the 6 yard line Carl Taylor executed a perfect pitch-out right to James Thomas. Taylor drew the defender to himself, then pitched and cut the Tulia man down. Thomas went in for the Rockets first score of the night. The extra-point kick failed.

On the kickoff return Santos Guajardo struck the Tulia ball carrier with a tackle that was heard all over the field. The entire ballgame was one of the hardest-hitting games by both sides seen in Wellington in a long time.

Wellington's second score was keyed by two passes from Taylor, one a 35-yard pass to Ingram, and the second a 19-yard gainer to Teenie Powell who dashed down the sideline to the 5 yardline. From the 2 Ricky Jones carried over the Rocket line's left side for the second Wellington score. Taylor faked and kept the ball for two extra points, putting Wellington in the lead,

Charles McIntosh, Harold McKinney, Ingram and Taylor put in big defensive performances to bottle up Tulia's next drive.

The Rockets got things going again with George Darton's fine example of broken field running for an 18-yard gain. But a penalty two plays later forced a punt. Arnie Ingram's next punt from the Rocket 27 wound up at Tulia's 1 yard line, but a penalty called it back. The second punt was blocked and Tulia owned the ball at the Rocket 18 with 9 seconds to play in the half. But Carl Taylor's interception on the next play took the Rockets into the half with a 14-0 lead.

Joe Thomas, Erminio Nevarez, McIntosh and Darton keyed a Rocket defense that held Tulia to only 52 yards on the ground.

Tulia's first score came in the third quarter when Don Burgess completed 60-yard pass to Jeff Wilks. The extra point kick made it 14-7.

The Rocket defense kept

Tulia racked up for the remainder of the game with big third down plays. Richard Garcia put in his usual fine defensive performance and Taylor left his feet to cling to his second interception of the night.

Tulia didn't threaten until a Rocket fumble turned the ball over to Tulia on the Rocket 45 with 48 seconds left, a play that set up Tulia's final score and extra-point attempt.

to continue and prevail, when the youngster reaches late teen years there is little probability of change.

Today little is heard about what used to be termed the "generation gap." Yet, by whatever term you give it, the problem is still there, and parents use it as the reason for loss of contact and control. But more than this, the basis for problems with teens seems to lie in the fallacies of permissiveness, overindulgence, doing your own thing, all having their beginning with Dr. Benjamin Spock's theories.

How can a parent be a more effective childraiser? One way: assume active control of household government, including strong assertive direction and guidance in the matter of teen activities!

If your teen is picked up by a juvenile probation officer, don't get your back up. Go down, when requested, and hear the charges before forming an opinion. Too many parents take the attitude that law enforcement is the culprit. This accomplishes nothing and adds to an already unpleasant situation. Never let your youngster believe you feel he's being "picked on." Your display of such an attitude subliminally gives the youngster the green light to continue to disregard rules of the home and laws of the community.

Next time: "The Roots of Teen Problems."

-Tom Wilkins has bought from Temple Slay a 30-acre tract immediately east of the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation, fronting on highway FM 338, and will develop it into home sites. It is named Happy Acres.

Nothing will be done to the tract until the crop that is growing on the land is harvested.

Mr. Wilkins told The Wellington Leader the plot will then be surveyed, water, sewer, power, and gas lines laid and the streets paved.

Opened and improved before building can begin, the addition will be Happy Acres.

He said he plans to call for conventional building sites in the area closest to the highway.

Sites farther back will be larger.

Mr. Wilkins, also told The Wellington Leader that he hopes to move at least 10 new families to Wellington, filling permanent jobs. Other employees commute.

Previously announced is the Owens Addition, which is being developed by Robert Owens, owner of Owens Auto Salvage. It is located east of East Avenue and south of Happy Homes, between 19th Street and one-half block south of 21st.

Some of Wellington's better homes are planned here.

This addition contains 35 building sites. The smallest lots are 75 x 130 feet and range up to 95.6 x 147.25 feet.

Although utility lines are not laid and streets have not been opened, the new home of Mr. and Mrs. John Sherman is going up here.

More than $1 million in construction is contained in three projects, also announced previously but not viewed together.

-Wellington Elementary School, plus certain other school improvements, is under construction at a cost of $550,000.

-The foundation is being poured for the sanctuary of First United Methodist Church with a construction figure of $385,000.

-To be started later in the year are two quadruplex apartments, with a total of 8 units, by builder Lev Connors of Dalhart. The cost is $120,000.

For a number of years, Wellington's business section around the court house square has been known as one of the most attractive in this part of the Panhandle. Three remodeling projects on the square not only enhance its appearance, but fill the last two vacant buildings that are offered for sale or rent.

Robert Lewis has completed the Lewis Grocery remodeling program which more than doubles its former size taking in an area formerly used for storage. Front windows in the new area were enclosed and finished to harmonize with the brick front. Interior remodeling makes this one of the finer groceries in this part of the Panhandle.

Leon Hartman has bought and is remodeling the building immediately east of West Texas Utilities, raising the windows and facing the building with a patterned brown mosaic tile, a new building concept here. It will house Hartman Electric and Sam's Fine Floors, owned by Sam Adams.

Vernell's Jewelry and Gifts, owned by Mr. and Mrs. D.C. Hale of Shamrock, opened a few weeks ago in the building formerly occupied by a dress shop on the west side of the square.

Using its $98,000 federal block grant, the City of Wellington has started its 50-block street surfacing program in the north part of town.

Asphalt was poured last week on the first street to be completed under this program, Galveston from the railroad north.

Preparing the base is under way on several others.

City Manager Glen Taylor said the streets will be finished as soon as city employees can get to them.

This will provide surfaced streets to most of Wellington north of the railroad.

The city council earlier has agreed to extend sewer lines in northwest Wellington now presently served.

Part of the grant will be used to improve houses in need of improvement in that part of town.

Raymond Hodges, county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration, reported that his agency has provided financing for six homes that have been built or will be started shortly. These are in the $20-$25,000 price range. Most of these are for younger families desiring home ownership at financing they can afford.

At the west edge of Wellington, Fred Cox has made a number of larger tracts available for homebuilding.

First of those to go up, was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Weatherly, at the south end of the tract, which was completed a few months ago.

Building and improvements outside of Wellington up the construction figure significantly.

Quail School has already let contracts totaling $113,316.90, for metal buildings to replace the buildings destroyed in a tornado May 15. This is only part of the school's projected building program.

In Dodson, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lennon have a new home under construction, and Mr. and Mrs. John Green are remodeling and adding to their home.

In rural residential building, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Killian have started a new home on their farm southeast of Wellington.

Wellington Country Club and the City of Wellington are negotiating on the building of a golf course a mile and a half east of Wellington, on a 60-acre tract.

The initial cost of putting in the golf course is $60,000, which has been raised. Additional improvements planned are a club house, swimming pool, tennis courts, and other improvements.

Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation has begun work on widening and improving Highway FM 338 for three miles west of Wellington. Cost of this amounts to $284,549.

The Collingsworth County section of the Thirsty Water Rural Water System is included in the construction figure also.

Chemical finishes are being applied to some brands of polyester fibers to improve their comfort and cleanability characteristics, reports Beverly Rhoades, clothing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

THE NATIONAL TEENAGE
CRIME PROBLEM

Looking at national crime statistics it would seem people don't have as much to fear from the hardened criminal as from the juvenile, and young adult.

16-year-olds head the list for those arrested for seven of the F.B.I.'s index crimes. Following in the statistics are 17-year-olds, 18-year-olds and 15-year-olds respectively. Approximately half of all arrests, including burglary, larceny and auto theft, are committed by people under the age of 18. The cost of crime committed by juveniles each year is in the billions of dollars.

In our area these national figures do not always hold true, but the possibility of achieving the national average is apparent if we do nothing to reduce the growth in juvenile offenses. Parents, and other adults as well, must put forth more effort toward improving teen behavior and attitudes. Here are some suggestions:

1. Make it a point to know your children's friends better.
2. Know where your teen is at night, every night. Check to see that the youngster goes where he says he's going occasionally. Don't be hindered by the thinking "it's not right to spy." It IS your right to check on your teen; you are or should be concerned for his welfare, and responsible for his misdeeds.
3. Adhere to the rules you have set. If violated and unpunished, all rules then become a joke.

While most teens are "good," there are a number who are belligerent, sarcastic, arrogant, with no respect for authority of any kind. These are the most likely to wind up in trouble with authorities. Some adverse attitudes seem to accompany the growing-up years. If parents allow these negatives investigating postal inspector in Amarillo requested that the case be handle by local juvenile authorities, Mr. Watson said.

The family came here about two years ago from East Texas and lived for a time in an old school bus before moving into a house, the probation officer said. Both children were truancy problems of the school last year, he added.

Parental Rights Terminated

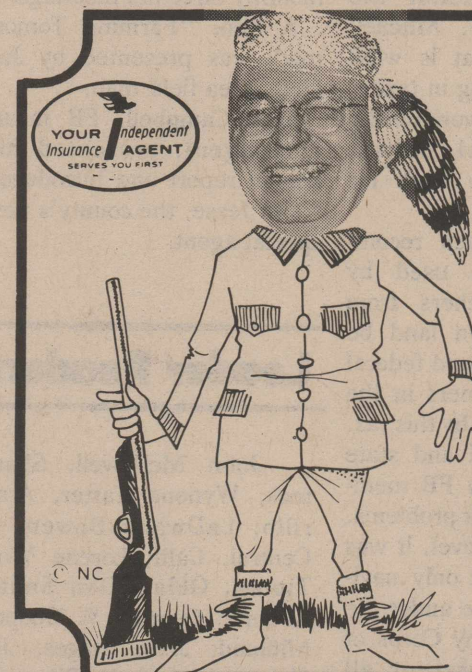

Parental rights of a Wellington couple to their 11-year-old son were terminated in a hearing in 100th district Court Monday, Sept. 19, according to Juvenile Probation Officer Bob Watson.

At the time of the hearing, the boy was in custody of the Department of Human Resources, (Welfare Department) which had placed him in the Emergency Receiving Shelter at Amarillo under temporary managing conservatorship. The court ruling gave the department permanent managing conservatorship and boy will now be placed in a foster home or children's home.

The boy and his 16-year-old sister were apprehended in a theft from the Childress Post Office on August 26, and after a detention hearing and investigation, the boy was released in custody of the Department of Human Resources.

A judicating hearing for the girl was held in juvenile court in Childress County Sept. 9, and she was found to be a delinquent child. A disposition hearing was held later in the day and she was termed to be in need of rehabilitation and committed to the Texas Youth Council at Brownwood.

Farm Bureau Acts on Water, Gas problems, Name Officers

Farm Bureau members Saturday night, Oct. 8, voiced their feelings on current problems, which on one hand included recommendations on the new farm program, then went on to oppose the possibility that irrigation farmers may have to pay for the underground water they pump from their own land for their own crops.

Preceding this annual business meeting, approximately 725 members, their families and guests, were served barbecue with the traditional trimmings. Willie Knoll prepares this each year.

During the business session, Albert Fulcher was elected to a second term as president of the county Farm Bureau; Elmer Keller was named first vice president; Max Paschall second vice president; and Benton Wauer, secretary.

Mr. Keller stepped up from second vice president and succeeds Dan Guthrie. Mr. Paschall is the outgoing secretary.

Directors include, from the east side of the county, T.L. Wilkerson, John Scott, S.A. Motsenbocker, Eddie Orr and Bob Cochran; North: Dee Coleman, Frankie Green, Doug Coleman, Jack Thomas and Mark Simpson; West: Monty Mitchell, Dan Guthrie, Harold Scott, Joe Harris and Jerol Morris; South: Ray Null, Jerry Scott, Ronnie Hartman, Danny Watts and Danny Davis.

The resolutions passed here will be sent to the Texas Farm Bureau Federation for inclusion in the resolutions presented at the state convention later this year.

The first resolution recommended that all farm programs be announced in time for farmers to change or modify their plans for planting, as it relates to these: the set aside from crop production, acreage planted for harvest, normal production, approved vegetative cover, normal crop acreage, designated crops and soil conserving acres.

It was then recommended that the CCC extend all crop loans from one to two or more years. Monty Mitchell, resolutions chairman, explained that this would eliminate the government's having to dump these crops on the market at the end of one year, even though it may depress prices.

FB members believe the Department of Agriculture should set up a sales force of farmers and ranchers from all farm organizations to go out and sell American agricultural products in other countries. It was the feeling that the specialists from the department in Washington are not doing an adequate job.

In another resolution, the members urged a constitutional amendment that would require Congress to balance the national budget every year, and that local, state and federal taxes not exceed 42 cents of every dollar the farmer earns. Mr. Mitchell told the group that is what they are now paying in taxes.

"Every day you work for the government till 11 o'clock, then you start to work for yourself," he said.

FB members then recommended that gas used by farmers and ranchers from wells on their own land be exempt from state and federal taxes. Several farmers in the county are affected by this tax.

In both national and state resolutions, county FB members looked at water problems.

On the federal level, it was recommended that only navigable streams come under the control of the Army Corps of Engineers. At present all streams including some in Collingsworth County are under its control.

On the state level, FB opposed the possibility that farmers will have to pay for underground water pumped from their own land to irrigate their own crops.

There is a growing feeling among some areas that because urban residents have to pay for water, farmers should also pay, said the chairman.

In resolutions introduced from the floor, it was voted that members write Senators Lloyd Bentsen and John Tower, opposing ratification of the Panama Canal treaty.

"We fortified it, 10 thousand men died for it, it will cost 10 times as much to ship Alaskan oil to the east coast if they cannot use the canal, 90 percent of the ships afloat can still use the canal, and the Panamanian government is communist," said Jerry Scott, who introduced the resolution.

Steve Owens proposed that copies of these resolutions be sent to United States and state elected officials so they may know the feeling of FB members here.

A discussion of the new farm program, led by Doug Coleman, followed the resolutions. Carl Wischkaemper, member of the county ASCS committee, called the bill alarming. "It will kill us on cotton," he said.

In other business, members voted to cut the number of elected directors from 20 to 12, believing it will be easier to get a quorum to attend the monthly directors meetings.

A film, "Farming Tomorrow" was presented by Joe Lusk, area field man.

Jack Campbell, FB insurance agent, presented his annual report and introduced Keith Jesse, the county's new special agent.

ADDED YEARS FOR WHAT?

Statistically we know that people are living longer. Repeatedly, we hear such questions as, "For what?", "Why survive?", "I need more life added to my years instead of years to my life."

These questions are good ones. There are some answers. Undeniably, we deteriorate physically as we age. This varies greatly from person to person. There is no way to predict physical condition by chronological age. Then what can we do?

One of the first actions we can take is to use some initiative in "making things happen" instead of "letting things happen." With careful planning and follow through action, we can add comfort, happiness, satisfactions and contentment to those later years. We should start planning early in our lives for these; however, it never gets too late to make some changes.

It is the responsibility of each of us to live and plan in our early years so that we take into our later years those things we desire. Let us consider what some of those are.

HEALTH-We do not suddenly become healthy or unhealthy at a given number of birthdays. If all during our lives we strive for good health through proper diet, exercise and good medical care, then more than likely we will enter the later years in good health. This is our responsibility.

RETIREMENT ROLES AND ACTIVITIES-Upon retirement some may find it difficult to fill all those bonus hours of the day with meaningful activity. Start early in your life developing hobbies and special interests. Participation in some activities outside of regular work will open doors to interesting activities during retirement. Consider community projects, church work, volunteer with youth programs as fulfilling activities both before and after retirement. The person who has been interested only in his work has problems with boredom and loneliness when the work is gone and there is no interest to replace it. It is our responsibility to prepare ourselves for this time of leisure in our lives.

INCOME-If we expect to have income in retirement, we must take the responsibility of planning for it during pre-retirement years. This is not always easy to do when the needs of a young family and inflation are demanding so much of our money. Yet if we have an income, we must take the responsibility of planning early and realistically for it.

The best plans do not guarantee an ideal retirement, but good responsible planning make ideal retirement far more likely for each of us. If you have not made plans for retirement-start today, whether you are twenty or sixty.

Comforters Are High Fashion For Bedroom; Make Your's

COLLEGE STATION-Create your own high fashion comforter, suggests Glenda Moore, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"A comforter offers a way of making a bed in seconds," says the specialist, "and it's a fashion statement of the natural look." Almost anyone, she believes, can cover a less expensive or an old comforter with an extra top sheet-or cover one side with contrasting solid sheet or bedspread to have a reversible comforter.

Use a matching colored yarn to tack fabric to the new comforter, or machine stitch a new design, as you replace your old bedspread. Extra pillows covered with matching cases will add "plushness."

Bedrooms are often the fashion room in the home or apartment and the open bed casual look adds to the decor. Providing plenty of warmth, polyester and down-filled sheet-coordinated comforters are very "in"-perfect for the "natural look" dorm room, too.

The most popular designs in sheet and comforter coordinates are florals, patchwork and contemporary. These designs allow bold, bright prints to add color to earth tones.

And for a finishing touch to bedroom decor, Ms. Moore says, attach another matching sheet to the wall behind or at the side of the newly created fashion bed.

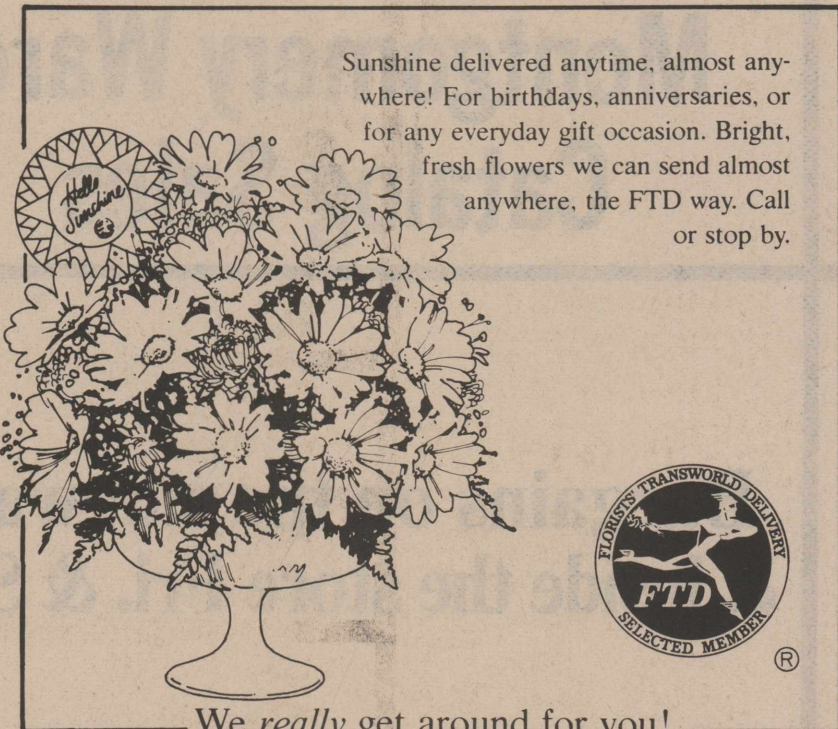

If you plan to buy a "coordinated comforter," expect to spend $25 to $85, the specialist says.

We deeply appreciate the sympathy you extended to us in so many ways during the illness and at the death of our husband and father, Homer Holton. Your concern, prayers, flowers, food and messages of consolation have been a source of strength. We are especially grateful to Dr. Carter Holcomb and Dr. Perez and the nursing staff of Collingsworth General Hospital.

RSVP News

How is everyone? It seems ages since I have written a news letter. We have been so busy, where has the summer gone?

I spent three days last week in Austin attending training conference.

Jean Reynolds is on vacation this week so it will be lonesome around the office.

Our volunteers have really been working. We have reached 150 now and around 3,000 hours of volunteer time was turned in for the month of September.

We need a volunteer to go to the library. They are in need of some help on fixing index cards and redoing books.

We also need some volunteers to do telephone reassurance. There are lots of lonely people in our town who would sure appreciate someone calling to see about them.

Our monthly birthday luncheon will be Wednesday, Oct. 19. Please be here at the Senior Citizens Center by 11:00 a.m. to hear the program.

Those having birthdays in October are Mrs. Hugh Bledsoe, Mrs. A.Y. Bell, Mrs. Jewel Donnell, Mrs. Ruth Wyrick, Mrs. Charley Hill, Mrs. W.E. Johnson, Mrs. John Coleman, Mrs. Grady Phillips, Mrs. Earl Hunter, Mrs. Eva Needham and Henry Langford.

The cost of bedding is going up, says Glenda Moore, housing and home furnishings specialist, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. "Expect to see a two to five percent rise in bedding prices before winter," the specialist says.

Marian Airpark Needs Improvement to Keep Pace

Turn to the front page of this issue and you will get an idea of growth and construction in Wellington.

But for a long period, there is another place where no expansion has taken place, Marian Airpark.

Twenty-six flyers call the airport home. That number will grow. They have organized the Wellington Aviation Club, whose purpose is to determine the needs and goals of the airport and make recommendations to the City Council.

The council now has pending before the Texas Aeronautics Commission an application for state funding with which to acquire additional land, lengthen the runway, and make other improvements. This is good, but it is less than the city would have had three and a half years ago when the application for federal funding was made, then the proposition was allowed to die.

The Aviation Club and the City can determine needs for Marian Airpark that would bring it in line with other towns having the potential for growth that we have.

These could be our barebones needs for the airport. From there we could add to it to enhance its value to the city and to those who would use it.

Marian Airpark is not going to improve while we are looking at something else. It can be used as it is, and it is used. How much more it would be used if it were improved. An updated airport would bring additional business into town, just as Southwestern Rail has brought people and at least one new business to Wellington.

Turning Back the Clock

The U.S Bureau of Reclamation wants to turn the clock back 75 years. Texas Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown has urged the federal bureau to live in the present.

The bureau wants to start enforcing the Reclamation Act of 1902, which limits the size of farms using irrigation water from federal projects to 160 acres. It plans to force landowners in 17 Western states to sell land in excess of that size. And the selling price would be approved by the secretary of interior to avoid windfall profits.

Commissioner Brown says that won't work. "Perhaps in 1902 the average size of a family farm was 160 acres, but not in 1977," he says. "A farmer in Texas simply cannot operate as efficiently on that small a plot of land, with today's equipment and production costs, as he can on a more reasonably proportioned acreage."

We agree with the commissioner. A 160-acre limitation on an irrigated farm is not practical today. And a government bureau dictating how much a landowner can receive for land he sells never was practical and never will be in a free society.

The Monopoly Game

Need a good laugh? Pray ponder the complaint of the Tennessee Valley Authority against the nation's oil, coal and uranium suppliers. TVA protests that the companies are monopolies which should be prevented from further mergers. This, from the biggest taxpayer-owned monopoly in the South, if not the country. What is the old line about pots that call kettles black?

The Dallas Morning News

Observing the Law

It doesn't always pay to be law-abiding. An Oklahoma jail escapee found this out the hard way at the little crossroads town of Sweetwater in Oklahoma a few days ago. The jail breaker had stolen a bright yellow car well known in the area, and was nailed when he drove through the main intersection in Sweetwater, not because he failed to stop for the stop light but because he did.

Sweetwater residents explained to passer-by John Atlee that everybody knew the owner of the yellow car, and noticed immediately that the owner wasn't driving it because he never ever stopped for that stop light.

The Canadian Record

AUSTIN—Texas has another famous name from the past heading its modern-day State Treasury operations which involve billions of dollars in public fund investments with Texas banks.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed Dallas County Treasurer Warren G. Harding, 56, to succeed the late Jesse James as state treasurer following James' death of a heart attack.

Harding, a Democrat, was named for a former Republican president, as James was named for a famous outlaw who became a kind of folk hero.

"I will look into the investment portfolio and assure you all state money will be invested at the best interest," said Harding.

The new treasurer said he is considering appointment of a "money manager" with professional skills in the investment of public funds.

However, he delayed discussion of other possible reforms in the Treasury Department which has been subject to criticism in recent years.

Harding once ran for the office against James—21 years ago—and was defeated 812,603 to 536,746.

He intends to run for the post in 1978—and once more the incumbent, though new on the job, will have the advantage of name identification.

Clayton Offers Tax Advice

House Speaker Bill Clayton advised taxing authorities to abide by a new law permitting open space lands to be taxed on the basis of productivity rather than market value.

The law was passed this year in anticipation that a related constitutional amendment would also be submitted to voters, but the amendment never cleared the legislature.

Clayton claims the law will stand on its own and should be recognized by taxing authorities in valuing farm and ranch land after January 1, in spite of anticipated attacks on its constitutionality. The advice apparently conflicts with that of Atty. Gen. John Hill in a July 6 opinion.

Sale Booms Income

A School Land Board lease sale last week added more than $27 million to the Permanent School Fund, which now totals $1.5 billion and is among the world's three top educational endowments.

A total of 443 high bids were awarded oil and gas companies, according to Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong. Bids were the second highest average per acre ($93.66) in 22 years, and a bid from Mobil Oil Corp. for a 1,440 acre Gulf tract was the third largest in history for a single tract.

Personal Income Soaring

Per capita personal income in Texas has jumped 52 per cent in the last five years, according to U.S. Commerce Department figures.

The increase (from $4,102 to $6,243) was the largest recorded among the large industrial states and the third largest in the nation, but the state still ranks 26th in personal income.

Texas Courts Speak

Texas Supreme Court has upheld right of consumers to sue manufacturers where product defects are responsible for economic loss.

The Third Court of Civil Appeals, in a brief opinion, found a state law requiring welfare department licensing of homes for children does not interfere with the religious beliefs of evangelist Lester Roloff who operates several homes.

The State Supreme Court turned down an 80-year-old Wichita Falls lawyer's demand for payment from Mexico for ranches totalling 218,000 acres seized from him in Zacatecas in 1963 and 1967.

The high court ordered a full trial of a Bowie County woman's suit against a washateria operator following a beating by a thug there last year.

Third Court of Civil Appeals heard arguments in a case involving right of children of illegal aliens to attend Texas public schools without paying tuition.

Indictments of juveniles for murder before examining trials are held are illegal, the Court of Criminal Appeals held.

Third Court of Civil Appeals reversed a Travis County district court decision that a sales tax on rental or leasing of motion picture films to theaters was unconstitutional, and the ruling may gain $8 million in revenue for the state.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

The First National Bank was located on the site now occupied by Lewis Grocery just after the turn of the century. Lackey and Lackey law offices occupied the corner upstairs office and W.R. Orr's dental sign appears on the far right window above. Below is a reproduction of a postcard picture taken as the building burned a few years later. On the back of the postcard these words were written: "The windows that are crossed were our rooms. That was one time we had to move in a hurry. Didn't get anything out of our living rooms but the cook stove and two rockers."

Attorney General Opinions

The state comptroller is not authorized to conduct audits of state agencies when work would parallel duties of the state auditor, Atty. Gen. John Hill said.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

A State Board of Morticians member vacated his office when he went to work for a "chain" funeral home operation, because law permits only one member to be associated with chain establishments.

A county law library fund cannot be used for construction or renovation of county law library facilities.

An electric hair-removal machine is under jurisdiction of the Texas Cosmetology Commission.

Short Snorts

State tax collections in July totalled $622.8 million, bringing the year's total to $6.55 billion. Expenditures for July were $561.9 million.

R. L. Thornton Jr. of Dallas has stepped down from the Alcoholic Beverage Commission.

Former professional football star Walt Garrison is considering a race for Texas agriculture commissioner.

Oldsmobile Introduces GM Diesel Engine

1978 General Motors Diesel Engine Cutaway

LANSING Mich.—The General Motors 5.7-litre V-8 diesel engine is offered as an option on three 1978 Oldsmobile models—the Eighty-Eight, Ninety-Eight and Custom Cruiser. Kendrick Oldsmobile is the Wellington dealer.

The engine shares many dimensions with the 350-cubic-inch gasoline V-8 which provided the starting point for the diesel conversion.

Many of the major components—block, heads, crank, pistons and rods—have been strengthened to handle the higher compression ratios.

Ignition in the GM diesel takes place in a pre-chamber added to minimize emissions, noise and smoke. Inside each pre-chamber there is an electric glow plug to assist in starting the engine. Dual 12-volt batteries provide the energy and the additional power for starting.

The diesel "wait to start" period is just a few seconds at 75 degrees Fahrenheit, 35 seconds at 32 degrees and about 60 seconds at zero degrees. Cold starts have been made at temperatures down to minus 10 degrees Fahrenheit without the use of a block heater.

The Oldsmobile diesel cars use number two diesel fuel above 20 degrees Fahrenheit and number one below that temperature.

The wait to start period is monitored by an electronic device that signals the driver with a small light in the instrument cluster when the engine is ready to start.

The fuel injection pump controls ignition by timing and metering the amount of fuel delivered to each cylinder. A rotary distributor-type injection pump is used. It performs for the diesel essentially the same functions as the distributor and carburetor in a gasoline engine. Timing of the injection pump will be permanently set at the factory.

Oldsmobile tests show a fuel economy improvement of up to 25 percent over comparable gasoline engines. With a 25.3-gallon fuel tank, the diesel-powered Oldsmobile 88 and 98 coupes and sedans will have a cruising range of more than 600 miles.

Added body insulation on the front of the dash keeps the passenger compartment quiet. A muffler on the engine's air intake reduces the external diesel noise.

The diesel meets current emission standards without a catalytic converter or EGR (exhaust gas recirculation) valve because emissions are controlled within the diesel combustion process itself. A PCV (positive crankcase ventilation) valve is the only emission device on the Oldsmobile diesel cars.

Because the diesel has no points or plugs, these parts never need replacing. Oil and filter changes are required every 3,000 miles.

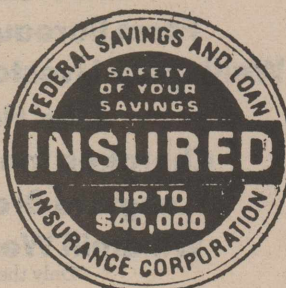

Recent guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. D.C. Lacy were her brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Porter, of Albuquerque, New Mexico, and Mr. and Mrs. J.K. Porter, of Shamrock, and an aunt, Mrs. Fred Browning, of Lefors.

CITY STATE BANK

One of the most misunderstood—and most valuable—services offered by any bank may be special accounts. These are the same as regular checking accounts, except they are set up for a specific purpose and the depositor withdraws funds for that specific purpose only. For example, special accounts often are set up for emergencies or vacation funds. To set up a special account for emergencies, for instance, go back over the previous year's spending and add up your "emergency" expenses. If such spending amounts to approximately $1,000, you would deposit about $85 every month in a special account. When emergencies arise you will be able to meet them without going heavily into debt. A special account certainly offers more peace of mind than trying to ward off the inevitable. If you have questions about a special account, please check with any of our officers. When they tell you about opening a special account... you can BANK on it!

Farmers Union Holds Annual Meet Oct. 17

Collingsworth County farmers Union will hold its annual meeting Monday, Sept. 17, when new officers and directors will be elected, according to Carroll Nunneley, president.

It will be in the directors room of Greenbelt Electric Co-op, Inc. beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The year's activities will be reviewed and farming conditions discussed.

Completing terms as FU officers along with Mr. Nunneley are Dan Henard, Jr., first vice president; and Donald Langley of Quail, secretary.

After the directors election, the membership will take up the adoption of resolutions, which will be formulated at the meeting, rather than drawn up ahead of time.

Mr. Nunneley has urged all members to be president and voice their opinions concerning a number of items vital to farmers and ranchers.

Visting Mrs. Eva Wright in Arlington recently were her sisters, Mrs. Susie Messer and Miss Marie Berryman, and a niece, Mrs. Virginia Thomas.

Pesticide Certification Urgent for Applicators

Farmers and ranchers were reminded by Extension Agent Don Reeves that their last opportunity to attend a pesticide certification school here will be Thursday, Oct. 13. This will be in the Farm Bureau Hospitality Room at 7:00 p.m.

Certification of any person applying pesticides is required under federal law by October 17, 1977, Mr. Reeves pointed out.

This school is for all persons who did not certify at an earlier meeting here.

Dr. Carl Patrick, area entomologist with the Extension Service Amarillo, and a representative of Texas Department of Agriculture will conduct the school. Those present will be tested at the end of the instruction period.

Mr. Reeves explained certification is required under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, Rhodenticide Act. States are mandated to carry out the enforcement of the act, through their Departments of Agriculture. The Texas Extension Service does the educational work.

Certificates will come from the Texas Department of Agriculture.

"Pesticide" for the purpose of federal law means any substance or mixture of substances intended to prevent, destroy, repel or mitigate any pest, also any substance or mixture of substances intended for use as a plant regulator, devoliant or desiccant, Reeves pointed out.

In Texas, private applicators are exempt under state law, but they are not exempt under federal law.

There is no charge for certification.

Since Collingsworth is a state-line county, it is pointed out that farmers living in Texas and operating land in Oklahoma will need to be certified only in Texas. The same applies with Oklahoma farmers having land in Texas. The place of residence determines which state the Farmer or rancher will be certified in.

If you weren't certified earlier, it is urgent that you attend this school Thursday and complete the study and test for certification.

Tuberculosis was once known as "the white plague" and no one who had it was expected to live. Over 2,000 new, active cases of TB are still found in Texas each year.

Rites for Edgar Hopkins Held at Dodson

Graveside services were conducted at Dodson Cemetery Thursday, Oct. 6, at 4:00 p.m. for Edgar Hopkins, 83, a resident of Thomas Nursing Center.

The Rev. Mickey Fugitt, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiated, and arrangements were under the direction of Kelso-McCoy Funeral Home.

Mr. Hopkins died at 7:00 p.m. Tuesday, October 4, in High Plains Baptist Hospital, Amarillo.

He came here a year ago from Denver, Colorado.

Mr. Hopkins was born at Talledega, Ala., Sept. 19, 1894. He had been disabled since he was 18 years of age.

Survivors are a sister, Mrs. Dora Johnson, and a niece, Mrs. Leola Downs.

Mrs. Manuel at RSVP Conference

Mrs. Haskell Manuel, director of the Collingsworth-Wheeler County Retired Senior Volunteer Program, attended the three-day professional development conference in Austin Tuesday through Thursday, October 4-6.

This meeting was given over to public relations and publicity.

Discussion topics covered establishing good press relations, developing an action program, news releases and public service announcement newsletters, planning and producing a slide program, fund raising, and community outreach as a function of public relations.

Snakes bodies are not slimy, contrary to what many people believe. The skin feels like cool, soft leather.

If you don't need it any longer, sell it through a want ad in The Leader.

Property Title Cleared in Court

Two civil cases were heard by Judge Robert Montgomery in 100th District Court Friday morning, October 7.

Judge Montgomery found for the plaintiff in the trespass to try title suit of C.B. Boverie vs. J.C. Walker. This was to clear title to a 9-acre tract of land in northwest Wellington, which the town has always called "The Boverie Place."

The deed in question was given by J.C. Walker to the late C.B. Boverie Sr. in 1903.

Mr. Boverie built the large two-story house that was occupied continuously by the family until it burned in 1975. He died some years after moving to Wellington from Aberdeen, and his wife passed away in 1931. Miss Katherine Boverie, long-time county librarian, lived there until her death in 1957, and Mrs. A.C. Boverie was living there at the time the house burned.

One other case was heard in district court Friday, in which a divorce was granted to Paul Gene Hanna and Carol Renee Mitchell Hanna and her maiden name was restored.

Needham Children Paint Parents Home

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Needham Saturday, October 8 were Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Needham, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Needham, Barbara, Paula and Pam and Audrey Needham of Amarillo.

They spent the day painting the exterior of the Walter Needham's home. Everyone worked, even the cooks Mrs. Walter Needham and Mrs. Lonnie Needham, who served dinner to the crew.

Everyone visited while working and in the evening enjoyed a watermelon feast. It was the first time the sons had been together in a long time.

Lohnie, Audrey and Dale returned Monday to finish up the paint job.

Community Action Day Care Certified

Word was recently received from Mrs. Rosalind Johnston, child care specialist of the Texas State Department of Human Resources that Collingsworth County Community Action Day Care Center has been certified as a "Quality Child Care" center in the State of Texas.

"This means that the day care center, not only meets state licensing requirements but also meets the requirements for Quality Child Care. With this certification, it will be possible for the Day Care Center to receive additional funds for operation from the Texas State Department of Human Resources under Title XX of the Social Security Act," said Mrs. Tess Burba, director.

"This year brought to an end a time when there was no charge to the parents for the care of their children. Because of lack of funds, it became necessary to charge a fee to all parents who leave their children at the Community Action Day Care Center. With funds from Title XX, it will be possible to use a sliding fee scale and fees will be adjusted to the family income," Mrs. Burba continued.

The license for Community Action Day Care Center is for 34 children ages 4 through 6. The Day Care Center also participates in the free school lunch program. The program has been planned to include motor skills, self concept, social adjustment, language development and other learning skills for the pre-school child.

Testing for the children is provided through the Eastern Panhandle Cooperative. Plan A of the public school. Mrs. DeAnna Van Pelt, early childhood exceptional teacher from EPCO does the testing and works with those children needing help on a regular schedule.

The Day Care Center is opened from 8:00 to 5:00 each day and the children are served breakfast, lunch and an afternoon snack. Mrs. Ida Bee Outley is the teacher and Mrs. Eula Hunt is the cook for the Day Care program. Mrs. Outley has eight years experience working with pre-school children and has attended numerous workshops on child care presented by Amarillo College and Department of Human Resources.

Two Scouts Become Eagles, Others Win Badges

"But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint." First Christian pastor Ken Johnson quoted from the 40th chapter of Isaiah to two new Eagle Scouts at a solemn Court of Honor ceremony Saturday, October 8 at First Christian Church.

Gaining Eagle status, scouting's highest rank, were Gary Isaacs, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Isaacs and Neal Van Pelt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Van Pelt.

The scouts were presented with Eagle badges and Eagle rings, their mothers received Eagle pins and roses, and the fathers received Eagle tie clips.

A letter of congratulations from the Chief Scout Executive to each of the young men was read.

Many other awards were given to other members of Scout Troop 32 for their achievements during the past year:

Paul Estes, Second Class Scout; Eddie Langford, First Class Scout; Jody Coleman and Tommy Binford, Star Rank;

Brent Long, Jerry Dean Lee, Jeff Langford, Channy Wood and Harold Scott, Life Scout Rank.

Thirteen boys from the troop earned a total 65 merit badges at summer camp, an unusually high number compared to other troops. Receiving these and other merit badges earned during the past year were Tim Devoss, Brent Long, Neal Van Pelt, Channy Wood, Jody Coleman, Barry Moseley, Tommy Binford, Chuck Darter, Gary Isaacs, Sidney Herring, Paul Estes, Jerry Dean Lee, Harold Scott, Jeff Langford, Craig Darter and Eddie Langford.

Three scouts who had previously attained Eagle rank completed the requirements for Eagle Palms: Jimmy Morgan, Silver Palm; Chuck Darter, Silver Palm; and Craig Darter, Bronze Palm.

Mile swim badges for swimming one mile without stopping went to Tommy Binford, Brent Long, Craig Darter, Harold Scott, Jerry Dean Lee, Tim Devoss and Gary Isaacs.

Special awards were presented to Bill Spillman for his "strong support and assistance" and for "his fine work in heading up the Scout fund drive this year." and to The Wellington Leader staff for their help in publicizing scouting activities.

Glen McLain is the Scout Master. Assisting at Saturday night's event were Charles Darter, Sam Adams and Lee Devoss.

CC Protests Information in PRPC Housing Needs Publication

Chamber of Commerce directors voted Monday night to protest information concerning Wellington and Collingsworth County released in "Identification of Housing Needs in the Panhandle" prepared by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, and received here that day.

Mayor Bill Hatch, a board member, contacted George Louder, the director of PRPC Tuesday, and a meeting with Mary Arndt, a staff member, was scheduled to meet with CC-City-County representatives Wednesday afternoon to correct the information.

Mr. Louder told Mayor Hatch this was a preliminary report and that PRPC welcomed new information from cities.

Information contained in the survey was 7 years old and for this county is outdated. C C directors also objected to many errors in fact, such as "In 1970 more of the county's housing units were served by individual water wells and septic tanks or cesspools rather than public water sewer systems than the Panhandle."

Also:"In fact, the county had the highest percentage of units in the Panhandle that lacked some or all plumbing." And:"In addition, the city had problems with lack of funds and labor, public apathy, a lack of paved streets and deteriorating neighborhoods."

Some of the writing was obscure: "In 1970 the county averaged less people per square mile than the Panhandle with more living in urban and rural farm areas."

References to out-migration no longer are correct, and there were errors relating to the county's ethnic population.

The report was prepared under a grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, a general appropriation from the office of the governor, State of Texas and local funds.

The Texas Department of Community Affairs contracted with the Urban Studies Center at the University of Louisville (Ky.) to conduct data studies resulting in the Texas Housing Needs Analysis.

In other business, CC president Lyman Daniel appointed a nominating commit-
