Coming Sunday

Pride

A true Texan shows his pride by wearing or displaying the famous shape of the Lone Star state. This pride is illustrated in Sunday's Local section.

Impact

In Sunday's "Speaking Out" column, Midlander Glenda Walker talks about how a local mother, killed recently in a car accident, had an impact on the lives of countless people. The impact of everyone's actions, she says, will help the whole community through the oil crisis.

Illness

David Edwards continues to fight the odds as he holds down a job at age 21 — the median life span for most people with cystic fibrosis. Read about him in Sunday's Local section.

Battling a fire

Midland firemen worked for more than an hour to contain a trailer house fire Friday afternoon. Four units responded to the blaze, located four miles east of the Garden City Highway. The vacant house, owned by Glen Lawson, was a total loss, according to fire reports. More than 1,600 gallons of water was needed to extinguish the fire.

Discount rate cut to 6.5 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board said Friday it is cutting its discount rate to 6.5 percent, the lowest level for this key lending rate in eight years. The move was expected to add further momentum to a dramatic plunge in other interest rates.

It was the second time in six weeks the Fed has cut its discount rate, the interest it charges to make loans to financial institutions. A cut in the discount rate is the most dramatic signal the central bank can send that it intends to push interest rates lower.

Interest rates have already fallen sharply this year, reacting both to an easier monetary policy on the part of the Fed and to the dramatic plunge in world oil prices.

Wide anticipation of the latest cut helped spur huge rallies Wednesday in the stock and bond markets.

The Fed's move, which will take effect on Monday, puts the discount rate at its lowest level since early 1978. A wide variety of other interest rates, including mortgage rates, are also at their lowest levels in eight years and economists predicted that the new discount rate cut, down from 7 percent, will send rates lower still.

The discount rate was 6 percent in early January 1978, then rose to 6.5 in the middle of that month. The rate was up to 14 percent in 1981.

The Fed decision was made on a 4-1 vote with Fed Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker voting with the majority. Emmett Rice was the sole vote against.

Allen Sinai, chief economist for Shearson Lehman Brothers, predicted that the nation's major banks would move quickly to cut their prime lending rate by one-half percentage point as well and he said that a variety of other rates would drop in coming weeks.

Tom Megan, an economist with Evans Economics, a Washington consulting firm, said he expected various consumer rates such as car loans to fall in the wake of the Fed action.

"The Fed is obviously concerned about getting the U.S. economy moving," he said. "While future prospects are bright, the current data does not show that the U.S. economy has picked up yet."

Libya raid meant as warning to U.S.S.R., official says

By KINGSBURY SMITH
National Editor, the Hearst Newspapers

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's approval for the long fight of U.S. Air Force F-III fighter bombers from their base in Britain to participate in the raid on Libya was primarily intended as a warning to the Soviet Union, according to a senior Pentagon official.

The message, the official said, was to let the Soviets know that the U.S. could quickly extend its military might in the Mediterranean and the Indian Ocean in the event there was any Soviet threat to the American naval forces stationed in those areas.

The U.S. 6th Fleet planes could have handled the raid on Libya alone, but there was some uncertainty as to what the Soviet reaction to the American attack might be, although it was doubted the Soviets would risk war with America to protect the irrational Libyan leader whom President Reagan had called the "mad dog of the Middle East."

However, the Soviets made preparations to send troops to Egypt to prevent the Israeli army from crossing the Suez Canal during the 1973 Arab-Israel war. They were later believed to have been dissuaded from doing so only by President Nixon's action in putting American military forces throughout the world on full alert.

Soviet warships regularly track at close range 6th Fleet warships and monitor the flight of its aircraft carrier planes. There was no certainty the Soviets might not pinpoint the location of the American aircraft carriers for Libyan Air Force suicide bomber attacks.

As a precautionary measure to reinforce the 6th Fleet and also make it clear to the Soviets that American airpower could be injected into the Mediterranean from long distances, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, according to the Pentagon source, recommended to President Reagan that the F-IIIs participate in the attack on Libya.

While the President was concerned that the French government's refusal to allow the American planes to fly over French territory would mean the pilots would have to fly almost double the distance on the flight to and from Libya — a distance of 5,400 miles — he nevertheless approved the JC recommendation for 18 F-IIIs to make the long flight. The planes, each of which had only a two-man crew (a pilot and co-pilot-bombardier) were accompanied part of the way by supply aircraft which refueled them in midair. One plane developed engine trouble enroute to Libya and returned to home base. One is assumed to have been shot down by Libyan anti-aircraft fire. A third developed engine trouble on the return flight and was allowed by Spain to land for repairs.

While there was deep resentment in the White House, State Department and Pentagon over the French refusal to cooperate, the fact that all but three of the F-IIIs made the return flight reinforced the impact of the message to Moscow that American air power in the Middle East region was not based only on the American warships stationed there.

Titan rocket explodes after launch

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — A Titan rocket believed carrying a secret spy satellite exploded in a huge orange cloud seconds after launch Friday, the second such incident in eight months. Fifty-eight people were treated for skin and eye irritation.

The feared loss of the spy satellite would hamper America's ability to monitor Soviet activities, with only one other such satellite in orbit, experts said.

A number of fires around the launch site were being battled more than five hours after the explosion, said base commander Maj. Gen. Jack L. Watkins.

Air Force officials would not say exactly what the cloud was. But schoolchildren were told to stay inside, and about 120 oil workers were evacuated from two drilling platforms in the Santa Barbara Channel. The National Park Service ordered the evacuation of rangers, campers and tourists from the offshore Channel Islands National Park.

Of the 58 people treated at the base hospital, three were admitted, the Air Force said in a statement. Officials would not say if any civilians were treated.

"This will create major problems in the photographic reconaissance program, in our confidence in monitoring Soviet military activities at a critical time," said Paul Stares, a military space expert at the Brookings Institution in Washington.

The rocket, a Titan 34D, exploded after launch from the Western Space and Missile Center, said Maj. Ken St. John. "Damage was confined to the immediate launch area," he said.

"A great red-orange puff of smoke came up," said Victor A. Sanchez, who was working nearby. "It shook the whole ground."

St. John would not speculate about the booster's payload. An Air Force statement released in Washington said the payload was classified.

But it was almost certain the rocket was carrying a refurbished model of the KH-11 photographic reconaissance satellite or a previously unknown satellite, said Stares and Jeffrey Richelson, a military reconaissance expert at American University in Washington.

The KH-11 believed aboard was intended to be a test model but was refurbished after another Titan blew up after launch at Vandenberg on Aug. 28, destroying a KH-11 and leaving only one of the satellites in orbit, said Richelson and Stares.

The loss Friday of another KH-11 would put America's ability to monitor Soviet troop movements, other military activities and compliance with nuclear treaties "in a very precarious position," Richelson said.

A newer, more sophisticated spy satellite, the KH-12, is too big to be launched on expendable rockets and can be put into orbit only by a space shuttle, Richelson said. The shuttle program was halted in January after the Challenger exploded, killing seven astronauts.

Prison reformer, Mattox assistant 'badger' Hance at press conference

By JIM WARREN
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — What started out as a Kent Hance press conference blasting prison reform turned into a three-way debate involving a Republican prison reformer and an assistant attorney general.

Hance, a Republican gubernatorial candidate, came to Austin Friday to criticize the Texas Department of Corrections for proposing to allow inmates to have TV sets in their cells. As part of an ongoing lawsuit against TDC, the state has suggested to let inmates have TV sets and, at some remote units, install satellite dishes.

Hance called the TV proposal "ridiculous" and criticized Gov. Mark White for letting U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice "run over Texas." Justice has presided over the 14-year-old suit and ordered sweeping reforms in TDC. Hance wants to start the trial all over again or appeal some of Justice's ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court.

As the former congressman from Lubbock was ending a question-and-answer session with reporters, former TDC Board member Harry Whittington stood up and badgered Hance. Whittington, an Austin attorney, told Hance that the state can't change the court-ordered reforms or retry the case, known as the Ruiz suit.

Hance's prison proposals, Whittington said, sounded like those of the Democrats who ruined the prison system and led to the court-ordered reforms that cost the state millions of dollars.

Hance, who before Friday had never met Whittington, shot back, saying all the "do-gooder" efforts have gotten out of hand.

Whittington took exception with Hance's "do-gooder" quip, saying all he wants are constitutional prisons.

Coast Guardsman talks about missiles over Lampedusa

Giarratano

BEAUMONT (AP) — A Coast Guardsman who watched as missiles fired from a Libyan gunboat sailed over an island and plunged into the sea said he and other crewmen feared for their lives.

Scott Giarratano of Beaumont was a member of the U.S. Coast Guard's signal crew on the one-mile-wide Mediterranean island of Lampedusa, which came under attack Tuesday after U.S. planes bombed strategic Libyan locations.

"If we had been hit, we would've been totally wiped out," Giarratano told the Beaumont Enterprise in a telephone interview Thursday.

Giarratano said U.S. personnel quickly left the island by helicopter under cover of darkness and flew to Italy.

The newspaper said a U.S. Coast Guard official at the Department of Transportation in Washington Thursday confirmed the evacuation of the crew.

The 18-year-old Giarratano was a 1985 graduate of Beaumont Kelly High School. He joined the Coast Guard last July.

Giarratano, in the telephone interview from Italy, said he and other crew members were preparing for dinner at 4:30 p.m. Tuesday when the station commander ordered the crew to leave the building and take cover among the rocks on the tiny island, 175 miles from the Libyan capital of Tripoli.

"Four people were walking perimeter (guard) and they came charging into the building. We scrambled for the rocks outside and we could see two missiles going right over the station," said Giarratano.

"We're 455 feet above sea level, and they fired from that (high) side of the island. We could see the water splash on the opposite side. There was no warning," he said.

Retaliating against the United States for the air attack against terrorist installations in Tripoli and Benghazi, Libyans fired Soviet-made Scud missiles, Italian and U.S. officials reported Thursday.

The Enterprise said Giarratano called reporters on Thursday after Capt. James Walker, commander of U.S. Coast Guard units in Europe, relayed a message to him from the newspaper.

The Coast Guard maintains about 30 men and women on duty at the signal station, Giarratano said. A fireman with the unit, Giarratano is responsible for maintaining generators that power the radio signal for U.S. Navy vessels.

Finding elusive barrel of oil slippery problem

By KEN HERMAN

AUSTIN (AP) — With crude oil prices down to about $12 or $13 a barrel, why not buy one?

The steep drop in oil prices offers a cut-rate chance to become a Texas oilman or oilwoman, albeit in a small way.

Bubbling crude. Texas tea. Black gold. Your own barrel of it.

Can a Texan buy a single barrel of oil? Apparently not for $12.

This is an exercise for Texans who are oil illiterate, those who believe that gasoline pumps are stationed wherever oil has been struck.

And isn't it fortunate that those finds have been along major highways, and that leaded and unleaded are found next to each other?

The first lesson is that a barrel of oil does not include a barrel. It is simply a measurement — 42 gallons. Oil is not loaded in barrels.

"That was something out of the 19th century," said John Cassel of the Texas Oil Marketers Association.

So, the first step is to get a barrel.

"One that would hold oil without leaking," advises James Leonard, an Austin oil producer.

You cannot get into the oil buying business unless you sign in at the Texas Railroad Commission as an oil purchaser.

"You'll probably have to hire a lawyer," Leonard said.

Once you fill out the forms, you have to notify the commission about your intended purchase. Commission spokesman Brian Schaible said you could either file in writing or attend the monthly "oil allowable" hearing at which the big boys stand up and announce how many thousands of barrels per day they intend to buy.

"THE LAW and our rules say you have to tell us when you are going to buy oil and how much. If it's a one-time, one-barrel thing, we would probably not be overzealous in rushing out to advise you of your rights," Schaible said about buying a barrel without commission permission.

Also, somewhere along the way you'll find that all those $12 and $13 figures you've been seeing for a barrel of oil refer to oil futures. The "spot market" prices have been around $20 per barrel.

Step two: Finding your oil.

Contrary to popular belief among the oil illiterate, crude is not sold at West Texas roadside stands the way watermelons are sold in East Texas.

"Really the most practical thing would be to go to a refinery and buy a barrel before they refine it," Schaible advised.

"I don't know what the shelf life of a barrel of oil is," he said when asked about potential storage problems.

"The shelf life? About a few million years. I don't think it will go bad on you," said Conoco spokesman Tom DeCola of Houston.

Would Conoco be willing to dish up a single barrel?

"We'd be happy to sell you 100,000 barrels. Would you like to buy 100,000 barrels?" DeCola added.

No.

The Austin phone book carries JM Petroleum under the heading of Oil-Crude-Purchasing.

"You could talk to an independent producer, but he wouldn't have the means of metering one barrel to you. I would think it would probably cost you a lot more than $12," said Spencer Falls at JM.

AUSTIN producer J.A. Spiller also tried to help.

"To buy one barrel of oil? You can probably buy a barrel from anybody in the field, if the lease is not under contract to sell to somebody else," he said.

Most of it apparently is under contract. Not to worry, Spiller said. You can go the P-4 route.

"We could file a P-4 form at the commission. I could file a P-4, take the people off one day and put you on, sell you one barrel. You file all the necessary papers, set yourself up as a purchaser of crude oil," he said in what began as a genuine attempt to be helpful.

Julian Martin, executive vice president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association, said a purchaser also would need proof that he knew how to handle oil.

"There are a lot of substances in there that can't be poured down the street," he said.

Martin's best advice on securing a single barrel of crude was to call a "reclaimer" who refilters dirty oil. Buying fresh crude would be a "rather substantial problem," he said.

"It's going to cost you about $300 to get going with it," Martin said.

Charles Ratliff, an Austin oil producer, said the process could be simple — if you know where to go.

"You go right to the wellhead where they have the big tanks, stick your barrel under the little spigot and they'll turn it on," he said. "Nobody would do it for 12 bucks."

RICHARD Hudson of Houston, chairman of the oil marketers association, said you probably can't get one barrel of crude oil

"No one can economically handle a one barrel unit. One barrel of crude? You can't crack it, you can't distill it, you can't refine it," he said.

"Not too many folks want that gunky black crude that comes out of the ground," said Schaible of the Railroad Commission.

Producer Leonard said you might be able to get it, but why would you want it.

"What are you going to do with it once you get it? It's kind of like a dog chasing a car," he said.

Panels review how Texas has changed since independence

AUSTIN (AP) — Writers, editors, professors, politicians, businessmen and a high-tech adviser talked Friday about how Texas has changed — from their perspectives — in 150 years of independence from Mexico.

Members of three separate panels, including Pulitzer Prize-winning author Larry McMurtry, reviewed Texas' culture, politics and economy, and future challenges.

The audience included Lady Bird Johnson and Rep. J.J. "Jake" Pickle, D-Texas.

Dr. Joe Frantz, who recently retired after four decades as a University of Texas history professor, told a Sesquicentennial forum Texas is basically celebrating 150 years of "anglo dominance" but has a tremendous Spanish heritage "that we don't brag about but we should."

Frantz described Texans as "a people who would like to be recognized, who would like to be loved and who are than at the same time contentious, prickly and I think that — without being at all nationalistic — something to be proud of."

McMurtry, accepting applause and handshakes for his prize-winning novel "Lonesome Dove," said, "I think what so far has distinguished Texas is its energies. I'm not talking about the petroleum industry either, I'm talking about its human industries which...almost in my lifetime has turned itself from a rural and agricultural state into an urban entity.

"Energy is a quality that's not spoken about much but it should never be underestimated. It should be applauded because I think that sheer, raw energy is an essential part of the DNA of achievement. Without it, there isn't going to be much achievement," McMurtry said.

STATE

Alison Cook, senior editor of Texas Monthly, said she came to Texas from Vermont 21 years ago and had the feeling that "nothing's been decided yet, Texans are still feeling their way.

"Texas is still in the process of inventing itself, and anything can happen here," she said.

Diana Hobby, associate editor of Studies in English Literature at Rice and wife of Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, said "think about a state known to the world...by the things that men do outdoors. From Indian wars in the early days to working cattle to rustling oil rigs to football.

"There is a myth of the supporting women who fostered these male enterprises diminished nowadays to the exhibition of furs and bangles in the skyboxes and pom-poms and pointy bras at halftime on the field. I distrust that myth profoundly," Mrs. Hobby said.

She also said "even the best of our male fiction writers writing about Texas show women on the periphery where they imagine lives you'd hate to share."

San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros said stories of open spaces, cowboys, the range and herds "dominate our myths of Texas but the truth is there isn't a more urban state in America."

He said the 1990 census will show Houston, Dallas and San Antonio among the 10 most populous cities in the nation.

Population growth "will dominate our politics, will dominate our thinking about how we confront the problems of Texas," Cisneros said. He added that "critical public issues will no longer be the problems of the range" but highways, schools, "how we educate our people and live together in cities."

"Although we like to think of ourselves as rugged individuals...the truth of the matter is that we must live in urban places, crowded places, and conceive something of our rights in relationship with other people," Cisneros said.

"It is impossible any longer to think in terms of that absolute rugged individualism but instead the interlocked web of interlaced destinies that I think is the lot of Texans."

San Antonio kicks off Fiesta 1986, which includes parties, parades, ethnic food booths, games and carnival rides.

Fiesta marks Sesquicentennial

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ten days of parades, pageantry, exotic foods and revelry kicked off Friday as the annual Fiesta celebration began.

The festivities, expected to draw 4 million people, are San Antonio's celebration of Texas' 150 years of independence from Mexico.

"Today, independence is a state of mind...Texans are still exploring frontiers," said Gov. Mark White at opening ceremonies at Alamo Plaza. "The most fitting place for such a celebration is in front of the Alamo, where our forefathers paid in blood."

White told hundreds of spectators Fiesta would fill the "streets with people, the air with music and the sky with balloons."

At least 150 events, including four parades, are scheduled. More than 50,000 volunteers representing 95 organizations have worked since the close of Fiesta 1985 planning events for this year.

"Fiesta is special," said Marleen Pedroza, Fiesta executive vice president. "We belong to the International Festivals Association and I firmly believe Fiesta is a favorite. I attribute this to community involvement."

Officials say they expect the celebration to pump $90 million into San Antonio's economy.

Volunteers have predicted they will serve at least 25,000 fajita tacos, 37,000 tamales and 16,000 tortillas during the events.

Fiesta began in 1891 when people decorated carriages with fresh flowers for the first Battle of Flowers Parade. The procession honored a visit by President Benjamin Harrison.

Five years later, the event was dedicated to Texas independence heroes.

Dallas hosts bazaar

DALLAS (AP) — A three-day international bazaar, featuring music and crafts, has a Texas Sesquicentennial theme that unifies the 42 nations represented in the events, officials said.

The seventh annual Dallas International Bazaar opened Friday with dancing, food and crafts and a procession of color bearers presenting the flags of participating nations.

Dallas Mayor Starke Taylor, city officials and diplomats based in Dallas were to attend the ceremonies.

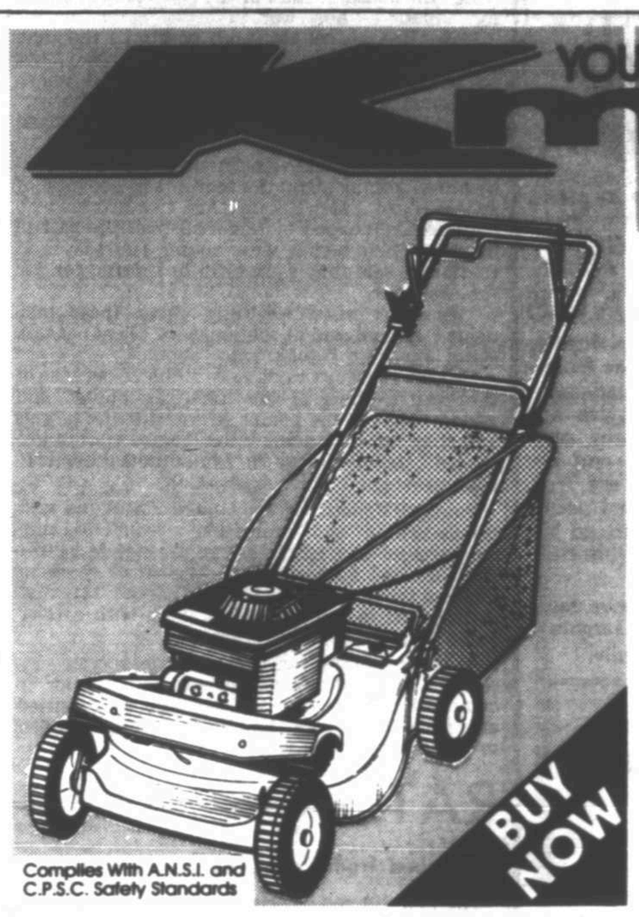

The Central Dallas Association sponsored the bazaar in cooperation with the city. The event opens "Celebration 150," downtown Dallas' six-week celebration of the Sesquicentennial.

Finding elusive barrel of oil slippery problem

By KEN HERMAN

AUSTIN (AP) — With crude oil prices down to about $12 or $13 a barrel, why not buy one?

The steep drop in oil prices offers a cut-rate chance to become a Texas oilman or oilwoman, albeit in a small way.

Bubbling crude. Texas tea. Black gold. Your own barrel of it.

Can a Texan buy a single barrel of oil? Apparently not for $12.

This is an exercise for Texans who are oil illiterate, those who believe that gasoline pumps are stationed wherever oil has been struck.

And isn't it fortunate that those finds have been along major highways, and that leaded and unleaded are found next to each other?

The first lesson is that a barrel of oil does not include a barrel. It is simply a measurement — 42 gallons. Oil is not loaded in barrels.

"That was something out of the 19th century," said John Cassel of the Texas Oil Marketers Association.

So, the first step is to get a barrel.

"One that would hold oil without leaking," advises James Leonard, an Austin oil producer.

You cannot get into the oil buying business unless you sign in at the Texas Railroad Commission as an oil purchaser.

"You'll probably have to hire a lawyer," Leonard said.

Once you fill out the forms, you have to notify the commission about your intended purchase. Commission spokesman Brian Schaible said you could either file in writing or attend the monthly "oil allowable" hearing at which the big boys stand up and announce how many thousands of barrels per day they intend to buy.

"THE LAW and our rules say you have to tell us when you are going to buy oil and how much. If it's a one-time, one-barrel thing, we would probably not be overzealous in rushing out to advise you of your rights," Schaible said about buying a barrel without commission permission.

Also, somewhere along the way you'll find that all those $12 and $13 figures you've been seeing for a barrel of oil refer to oil futures. The "spot market" prices have been around $20 per barrel.

Step two: Finding your oil.

Contrary to popular belief among the oil illiterate, crude is not sold at West Texas roadside stands the way watermelons are sold in East Texas.

"Really the most practical thing would be to go to a refinery and buy a barrel before they refine it," Schaible advised.

"I don't know what the shelf life of a barrel of oil is," he said when asked about potential storage problems.

"The shelf life? About a few million years. I don't think it will go bad on you," said Conoco spokesman Tom DeCola of Houston.

Would Conoco be willing to dish up a single barrel?

"We'd be happy to sell you 100,000 barrels. Would you like to buy 100,000 barrels?" DeCola added.

No.

The Austin phone book carries JM Petroleum under the heading of Oil-Crude-Purchasing.

"You could talk to an independent producer, but he wouldn't have the means of metering one barrel to you. I would think it would probably cost you a lot more than $12," said Spencer Falls at JM.

AUSTIN producer J.A. Spiller also tried to help.

"To buy one barrel of oil? You can probably buy a barrel from anybody in the field, if the lease is not under contract to sell to somebody else," he said.

Most of it apparently is under contract. Not to worry, Spiller said. You can go the P-4 route.

"We could file a P-4 form at the commission. I could file a P-4, take the people off one day and put you on, sell you one barrel. You file all the necessary papers, set yourself up as a purchaser of crude oil," he said in what began as a genuine attempt to be helpful.

Julian Martin, executive vice president of the Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association, said a purchaser also would need proof that he knew how to handle oil.

"There are a lot of substances in there that can't be poured down the street," he said.

Martin's best advice on securing a single barrel of crude was to call a "reclaimer" who refilters dirty oil. Buying fresh crude would be a "rather substantial problem," he said.

"It's going to cost you about $300 to get going with it," Martin said.

Charles Ratliff, an Austin oil producer, said the process could be simple — if you know where to go.

"You go right to the wellhead where they have the big tanks, stick your barrel under the little spigot and they'll turn it on," he said. "Nobody would do it for 12 bucks."

RICHARD Hudson of Houston, chairman of the oil marketers association, said you probably can't get one barrel of crude oil

"No one can economically handle a one barrel unit. One barrel of crude? You can't crack it, you can't distill it, you can't refine it," he said.

"Not too many folks want that gunky black crude that comes out of the ground," said Schaible of the Railroad Commission.

Producer Leonard said you might be able to get it, but why would you want it.

"What are you going to do with it once you get it? It's kind of like a dog chasing a car," he said.

Panels review how Texas has changed since independence

AUSTIN (AP) — Writers, editors, professors, politicians, businessmen and a high-tech adviser talked Friday about how Texas has changed — from their perspectives — in 150 years of independence from Mexico.

Members of three separate panels, including Pulitzer Prize-winning author Larry McMurtry, reviewed Texas' culture, politics and economy, and future challenges.

The audience included Lady Bird Johnson and Rep. J.J. "Jake" Pickle, D-Texas.

Dr. Joe Frantz, who recently retired after four decades as a University of Texas history professor, told a Sesquicentennial forum Texas is basically celebrating 150 years of "anglo dominance" but has a tremendous Spanish heritage "that we don't brag about but we should."

Frantz described Texans as "a people who would like to be recognized, who would like to be loved and who are than at the same time contentious, prickly and I think that — without being at all nationalistic — something to be proud of."

McMurtry, accepting applause and handshakes for his prize-winning novel "Lonesome Dove," said, "I think what so far has distinguished Texas is its energies. I'm not talking about the petroleum industry either, I'm talking about its human industries which...almost in my lifetime has turned itself from a rural and agricultural state into an urban entity.

"Energy is a quality that's not spoken about much but it should never be underestimated. It should be applauded because I think that sheer, raw energy is an essential part of the DNA of achievement. Without it, there isn't going to be much achievement," McMurtry said.

STATE

Alison Cook, senior editor of Texas Monthly, said she came to Texas from Vermont 21 years ago and had the feeling that "nothing's been decided yet, Texans are still feeling their way.

"Texas is still in the process of inventing itself, and anything can happen here," she said.

Diana Hobby, associate editor of Studies in English Literature at Rice and wife of Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, said "think about a state known to the world...by the things that men do outdoors. From Indian wars in the early days to working cattle to rustling oil rigs to football.

"There is a myth of the supporting women who fostered these male enterprises diminished nowadays to the exhibition of furs and bangles in the skyboxes and pom-poms and pointy bras at halftime on the field. I distrust that myth profoundly," Mrs. Hobby said.

She also said "even the best of our male fiction writers writing about Texas show women on the periphery where they imagine lives you'd hate to share."

San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros said stories of open spaces, cowboys, the range and herds "dominate our myths of Texas but the truth is there isn't a more urban state in America."

He said the 1990 census will show Houston, Dallas and San Antonio among the 10 most populous cities in the nation.

Population growth "will dominate our politics, will dominate our thinking about how we confront the problems of Texas," Cisneros said. He added that "critical public issues will no longer be the problems of the range" but highways, schools, "how we educate our people and live together in cities."

"Although we like to think of ourselves as rugged individuals...the truth of the matter is that we must live in urban places, crowded places, and conceive something of our rights in relationship with other people," Cisneros said.

"It is impossible any longer to think in terms of that absolute rugged individualism but instead the interlocked web of interlaced destinies that I think is the lot of Texans."

Fiesta marks Sesquicentennial

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ten days of parades, pageantry, exotic foods and revelry kicked off Friday as the annual Fiesta celebration began.

The festivities, expected to draw 4 million people, are San Antonio's celebration of Texas' 150 years of independence from Mexico.

"Today, independence is a state of mind...Texans are still exploring frontiers," said Gov. Mark White at opening ceremonies at Alamo Plaza. "The most fitting place for such a celebration is in front of the Alamo, where our forefathers paid in blood."

White told hundreds of spectators Fiesta would fill the "streets with people, the air with music and the sky with balloons."

At least 150 events, including four parades, are scheduled. More than 50,000 volunteers representing 95 organizations have worked since the close of Fiesta 1985 planning events for this year.

"Fiesta is special," said Marleen Pedroza, Fiesta executive vice president. "We belong to the International Festivals Association and I firmly believe Fiesta is a favorite. I attribute this to community involvement."

Officials say they expect the celebration to pump $90 million into San Antonio's economy.

Volunteers have predicted they will serve at least 25,000 fajita tacos, 37,000 tamales and 16,000 tortillas during the events.

Fiesta began in 1891 when people decorated carriages with fresh flowers for the first Battle of Flowers Parade. The procession honored a visit by President Benjamin Harrison.

Five years later, the event was dedicated to Texas independence heroes.

Dallas hosts bazaar

DALLAS (AP) — A three-day international bazaar, featuring music and crafts, has a Texas Sesquicentennial theme that unifies the 42 nations represented in the events, officials said.

The seventh annual Dallas International Bazaar opened Friday with dancing, food and crafts and a procession of color bearers presenting the flags of participating nations.

Dallas Mayor Starke Taylor, city officials and diplomats based in Dallas were to attend the ceremonies.

The Central Dallas Association sponsored the bazaar in cooperation with the city. The event opens "Celebration 150," downtown Dallas' six-week celebration of the Sesquicentennial.

Panels review how Texas has changed since independence

AUSTIN (AP) — Writers, editors, professors, politicians, businessmen and a high-tech adviser talked Friday about how Texas has changed — from their perspectives — in 150 years of independence from Mexico.

Members of three separate panels, including Pulitzer Prize-winning author Larry McMurtry, reviewed Texas' culture, politics and economy, and future challenges.

The audience included Lady Bird Johnson and Rep. J.J. "Jake" Pickle, D-Texas.

Dr. Joe Frantz, who recently retired after four decades as a University of Texas history professor, told a Sesquicentennial forum Texas is basically celebrating 150 years of "anglo dominance" but has a tremendous Spanish heritage "that we don't brag about but we should."

Frantz described Texans as "a people who would like to be recognized, who would like to be loved and who are than at the same time contentious, prickly and I think that — without being at all nationalistic — something to be proud of."

McMurtry, accepting applause and handshakes for his prize-winning novel "Lonesome Dove," said, "I think what so far has distinguished Texas is its energies. I'm not talking about the petroleum industry either, I'm talking about its human industries which...almost in my lifetime has turned itself from a rural and agricultural state into an urban entity.

"Energy is a quality that's not spoken about much but it should never be underestimated. It should be applauded because I think that sheer, raw energy is an essential part of the DNA of achievement. Without it, there isn't going to be much achievement," McMurtry said.

STATE

Alison Cook, senior editor of Texas Monthly, said she came to Texas from Vermont 21 years ago and had the feeling that "nothing's been decided yet, Texans are still feeling their way.

"Texas is still in the process of inventing itself, and anything can happen here," she said.

Diana Hobby, associate editor of Studies in English Literature at Rice and wife of Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, said "think about a state known to the world...by the things that men do outdoors. From Indian wars in the early days to working cattle to rustling oil rigs to football.

"There is a myth of the supporting women who fostered these male enterprises diminished nowadays to the exhibition of furs and bangles in the skyboxes and pom-poms and pointy bras at halftime on the field. I distrust that myth profoundly," Mrs. Hobby said.

She also said "even the best of our male fiction writers writing about Texas show women on the periphery where they imagine lives you'd hate to share."

San Antonio Mayor Henry Cisneros said stories of open spaces, cowboys, the range and herds "dominate our myths of Texas but the truth is there isn't a more urban state in America."

He said the 1990 census will show Houston, Dallas and San Antonio among the 10 most populous cities in the nation.

Population growth "will dominate our politics, will dominate our thinking about how we confront the problems of Texas," Cisneros said. He added that "critical public issues will no longer be the problems of the range" but highways, schools, "how we educate our people and live together in cities."

"Although we like to think of ourselves as rugged individuals...the truth of the matter is that we must live in urban places, crowded places, and conceive something of our rights in relationship with other people," Cisneros said.

"It is impossible any longer to think in terms of that absolute rugged individualism but instead the interlocked web of interlaced destinies that I think is the lot of Texans."

Fiesta marks Sesquicentennial

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Ten days of parades, pageantry, exotic foods and revelry kicked off Friday as the annual Fiesta celebration began.

The festivities, expected to draw 4 million people, are San Antonio's celebration of Texas' 150 years of independence from Mexico.

"Today, independence is a state of mind...Texans are still exploring frontiers," said Gov. Mark White at opening ceremonies at Alamo Plaza. "The most fitting place for such a celebration is in front of the Alamo, where our forefathers paid in blood."

White told hundreds of spectators Fiesta would fill the "streets with people, the air with music and the sky with balloons."

At least 150 events, including four parades, are scheduled. More than 50,000 volunteers representing 95 organizations have worked since the close of Fiesta 1985 planning events for this year.

"Fiesta is special," said Marleen Pedroza, Fiesta executive vice president. "We belong to the International Festivals Association and I firmly believe Fiesta is a favorite. I attribute this to community involvement."

Officials say they expect the celebration to pump $90 million into San Antonio's economy.

Volunteers have predicted they will serve at least 25,000 fajita tacos, 37,000 tamales and 16,000 tortillas during the events.

Fiesta began in 1891 when people decorated carriages with fresh flowers for the first Battle of Flowers Parade. The procession honored a visit by President Benjamin Harrison.

Five years later, the event was dedicated to Texas independence heroes.

Dallas hosts bazaar

DALLAS (AP) — A three-day international bazaar, featuring music and crafts, has a Texas Sesquicentennial theme that unifies the 42 nations represented in the events, officials said.

The seventh annual Dallas International Bazaar opened Friday with dancing, food and crafts and a procession of color bearers presenting the flags of participating nations.

Dallas Mayor Starke Taylor, city officials and diplomats based in Dallas were to attend the ceremonies.

The Central Dallas Association sponsored the bazaar in cooperation with the city. The event opens "Celebration 150," downtown Dallas' six-week celebration of the Sesquicentennial.

Khadafy deputy says raid 'failure'

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Col. Moammar Khadafy's deputy said Friday that 37 people were killed and 93 were wounded in the U.S. air raids on Libya, which he called a failure "because of the bad training of the American pilots."

Maj. Abdel-Salam Jalloud made the comments in the first news conference a high-ranking official has held with foreign correspondents since the raids Tuesday on the Libyan cities of Tripoli and Benghazi.

Jalloud's casualty figures were the first given by a Libyan official. Western diplomats said earlier that at least 100 people, and probably more, were killed in the raids.

Earlier, some 4,000 Libyans, chanting, "We will destroy America!" surged into the streets outside a mosque for the funeral of 19 of the people killed in the raids.

There was no indication that Khadafy attended the service, marked by shoving and shouting among the people who heard a funeral oration in which the assistant chief of the general staff called for "Jihad" — holy war.

"Libyan Arab people, Arab nation — the time has come for us to raise the banners of Jihad... Let the world witness and condemn the official American terrorism led by Reagan, the arch-terrorist," Maj. Khuwayldi al-Humaydi said at the burial service.

Jalloud, in the hour-long news conference, said he knew nothing about the murders in Lebanon of an American, Peter Kilburn, and two Britons who had been kidnapped by terrorists over the past 18 months. Their bodies were found Thursday and the killers said they were slain in reprisal for the U.S. air raids.

"We don't know anything about these incidents," Jalloud said of the murders. "I cannot talk about anything I don't know about."

He said Tuesday's raids were a failure because of the "bad training of the American pilots," and added, "Most of the bombs fell outside the targets and they fell at random. Most bombs were unexploded." Jalloud spoke in Arabic and other officials provided English translations.

Humaydi denounced the United States and said "senile Britain" had become like a "rabid dog running around in fright." Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher had authorized the use of air bases in England for the flight of U.S. Air Force F-111s that participated in the air strikes along with carrier based Navy warplanes.

At the end of the funeral and burial service, two soldiers fired automatic weapons into the air to commemorate the two soldiers who were buried along with 17 civilians the Libyans said were killed in the pre-dawn air raids.

Tuesday's raids by U.S. F-111s were a failure because of the "bad training of the American pilots...Most of the bombs fell outside the targets and they fell at random. Most bombs were unexploded."

— Maj. Abdel-Salem Jalloud, Moammar Khadafy's deputy

The round of gunfire for the soldiers sent a rain of spent bullet casings onto the heads of spectators, most of whom had stood for more than two hours in the blazing sun.

Reagan has said he ordered the attack because of evidence of Libyan involvement in a West Berlin nightclub bombing that killed an American GI and a Turkish woman and wounded more than 200 people.

"Holy war! Martyrdom!" shouted the crowd outside the Martyrs of al-Hani mosque. "We are a storm, we will destroy America!"

The coffins were brought to the mosque, where they were buried, after being carried on the shoulders of mourners along a two-mile route from the Libyan capital's main mosque.

All the coffins were draped with the green flag of Khadafy's 17-year-old revolution, and the coffin of a young Lebanese woman also was covered by Palestinian and Lebanese flags. Many in the crowd wept as the cortege passed, led by a man sitting atop a van who chanted "God is great" in Arabic.

Women mourners, dressed from head to foot in white, ululated, sending their piercing wail over the crowd, while sharpshooters stood on the roof of the mosque. Hundreds of revolutionary guards circulated among the mourners carrying AK-47 assault rifles.

Najib Mizrati, a 9-year-old girl who had an inch-long wound on her cheek that had been stitched together, raised her fingers in a "V-for-victory" sign as she sat on her uncle's shoulders.

Her uncle said the girl had been injured by the American bombs, and her father was killed and her mother injured. "Look what America did!" he shouted.

After Moslem prayers for the dead, Humaydi, who took part in the 1969 coup that brought Khadafy to power, boomed his long speech over a loudspeaker.

AP Lasergraphic

"Now is the time for fighting!" he shouted at the burial service. "We are not afraid of America."

Government officials said the hundreds of armed guards had been ordered not to shoot in the air, a common practice in the Middle East on special occasions. The officials said anyone who did fire into the air during the funeral would be considered a traitor.

The only volleys came from the two soldiers saluting their comrades.

Tripoli was quiet Friday, the Moslem day of rest and worship. Traffic was normal, but as is usual on Fridays, all shops and offices were closed.

RATE

The Fed did not mention economic growth as one of its reasons for action. It chose instead to emphasize that a variety of market interest rates have already fallen, saying, "the action taken today is a technical change designed to place the discount rate in a more appropriate alignment with the prevailing level of market rates."

Both Sinai and Meegan said while they expected some further declines in interest rates, they are not likely to be as dramatic as what has already occurred.

In announcing the decision, the Fed said a cut in the discount rate "appears consistent with international interest rate considerations."

Japanese newspapers reported earlier that the Bank of Japan likely would cut its discount rate Saturday if the U.S. Federal Reserve Board trimmed its comparable rate Friday.

Quoting sources, the Japanese news reports said that if the U.S. discount rate was cut, the central bank would most probably convene a special meeting of its policy board on today and implement a half percentage point reduction from its current rate of 4 percent. That would match a record low that prevailed from March 1978 to April 1979.

The Bank of Japan has a policy never to comment on changes in discount rates before any official announcement.

The Bank of Japan has lowered the discount rate twice this year, by half-point increments on Jan. 30 and March 7. The latter reduction came on the same day that the Fed last cut its discount rate.

The central bank of West Germany also cut its discount rate at that time with the action by all three countries seen as a coordinated effort to drive worldwide interest rates lower to spur economic growth.

One big reason for booming stock market this year has been the expectation that the Federal Reserve is intent on pursuing an easier monetary policy in an effort to boost economic growth.

While the government reported Thursday that the economy expanded at an annual rate of 3.2 percent in the first three months of this year, that figure was widely interpreted as overstating current growth. Many analysts are predicting growth will slump again in the current quarter.

Volcker, who won both praise and criticism for his staunch efforts to rid the American economy of double-digit inflation early in the decade, has been under pressure from new Reagan appointees on the board in recent months to move to an easier monetary stance.

In his first defeat in seven years as chairman, Volcker in February lost a discount rate vote but the Reagan-majority on the board agreed to postpone the effective date of the cut in order to give Volcker time to convince the West Germans and the Japanese to cut their discount rates.

LAMPEDUSA

Giarratano said he arrived on the island in October at a time when there was no threat to security and no defense positions either. In December and January, he said, the station went on 24-hour alert when the U.S. Sixth Fleet arrived for exercises in the Gulf of Sidra, the disputed waters north of the Libyan coast, around which Libyan leader Moammar Khadafy had drawn his "line of death."

"We're the closest American target that anyone could hit" from Libya. "It takes only four minutes for a missile to get from Tripoli to Lampedusa," said Giarratano.

He and others of the crew were "tremendously glad" to get to the safety of Italy rather than stay on Lampedusa, he said, although he added that they might be returning later.

Officials discuss use of oil funds

AUSTIN (AP) — State officials trying to determine how a $424.8 million offshore oil windfall should be spent are negotiating outside the courtroom, a spokesman for Land Commissioner Garry Mauro said Friday.

Mauro filed a lawsuit in state district court on Monday after Texas received the money from the federal government as settlement of a long-standing dispute over oil revenues from wells in the Gulf of Mexico.

Mauro argues that the money should go to public education, while some other state leaders have suggested it go into the general revenue fund to pay for other projects.

Mike Connolly, spokesman for Mauro, said the land commissioner, comptroller, state treasurer and attorney general are discussing how to resolve the problem and that the lawsuit might not have to be pursued.

However, he said, Mauro wants to ensure that all future oil and gas revenues coming to Texas from the Outer Continental Shelf be earmarked for the state's school aid funds.

HANCE

As the Hance-Whittington debate tapered off, Assistant Attorney General Scott McGown, who negotiates the Ruiz suit for the state, said Hance doesn't have his facts straight. McGown said Hance made broad accusations but couldn't produce specifics.

Whittington and McGown said they found out about the press conference "on the street." White's top prison advisor, Hershel Meriwhether, stood outside the room during Hance's press conference.

McGown, who said Attorney General Jim Mattox didn't know about his impromptu apprearance, took political pot shots at Hance, saying "we won't have to worry about your stands after a couple of weeks anyway. Then it will be (former Gov. Bill) Clements turn."

Hance faces Clements and U.S. Rep. Tom Loeffler in the May 3 GOP primary.

Whittington was in a group of Republican reformers with former TDC Board Chairman Robert Gunn and former Rep. Ray Keller, who chaired the House prison committee.

Gunn backs Loeffler and Keller has endorsed Hance. Whittington said he "was neutral" until his run in with Hance Friday.

TITAN

"It would appear that we have at present no means of putting any more photographic reconaissance satellites into orbit until the shuttle is operating again," Richelson said, adding that the KH-11 in orbit has 1½ years left in its useful lifespan.

If it fails before another satellite is launced, "we'll have no coverage whatsoever," Richelson said.

The Titan on Friday blew up about five seconds after liftoff, said an Air Force official in Washington who spoke on condition he not be identified. About five seconds after the explosion, a self-destruct signal was sent by launch control to make sure the rocket did not reach any place where it could cause damage, he said.

Vandenberg, 130 miles northwest of Los Angeles, is where the Air Force tests new missiles such as the MX and periodically launches ballistic missiles already in service, such as Titans and the Minuteman III, to test their reliability.

Military and civilian satellites are also launched there.

Vandenberg covers 98,400 acres and is the third-largest U.S. Air Force installation.

Ector County TSTA endorses Democratic hopeful

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — The Ector County unit of the Texas State Teachers Association has endorsed Democratic candidate Gary Watkins for the 75th District seat in Texas House of Representatives.

During a press conference Friday, Ector County TSTA president Bobbie Duncan presented Watkins with a $1,000 contribution from the state organization, saying the candidate earned the endorsement for his support of teachers across the state. Watkins is seeking the seat vacated by Rep. Kelly Godwin, R-Odessa.

"Gary knows Austin and we believe he'll get things done," she said of Watkins following the endorsement on behalf of the Odessa Educators Political Action Committee, a political arm of the Ector County Unit of TSTA.

Ms. Duncan said it is unusual for the organization to endorse a candidate prior to the primary election, but she added that TSTA believed it appropriate to do so in this case. TSTA also plans endorsements before the Nov. 4 general election.

Watkins, seeking his first term in the House of Representatives, said the endorsement means a great deal to his campaign in that Texas teachers are a very active and vocal group of individuals.

"The education issue is going to be very important during the next Legislative session," Watkins said. "Parents who have children in public schools need to be assured that those children get the best possible education."

Although Watkins said he favors much of the 1984 public school reform, he added that there is room for improvement. "For example, no-pass, no-play is a good idea and I think we needed it, but I'm not sure the six week provision makes kids work hard or makes kids not work hard," he said.

White: Americans must be united against terrorism

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Mark White says Americans "must stand united in the war against terrorists and support efforts that keep our country free."

"The people of Texas understand that crime and terrorism have no place in this world. And as Americans, we cannot terrorism," White said in an official memorandum.

"Therefore, I, Mark White, governor of Texas and on behalf of all the citizens of this state, support the efforts of our nation's leaders to eradicate terrorism from our nation and world."

Copies of the memorandum, which was signed Tuesday, were released Friday by Rep. Sam Johnson, R-Plano.

Johnson, a former prisoner of war in Vietnam, had proposed the memorandum.

Minister's killer convicted

WEATHERFORD (AP) — A state district court jury on Friday convicted a 24-year-old Massachusetts man of murder in the slaying of a Dublin minister.

Jurors deliberated about seven hours before finding Dale Arthur Carrasquillo guilty in the 1984 beating and strangulation of the Rev. John H. Basham. Carrasquillo was sentenced to life in prison.

The eight-woman, four-man jury handed down the verdict about 10 a.m. Friday, said Mrs. Mullin. She said that jurors in the punishment phase of the trial could not agree that Carrasquillo would be a continuing threat to society.

Carrasquillo, of Lowell, Mass., was accused of robbing and killing Basham, minister of the First United Methodist Church in Dublin, on Feb. 7, 1984. Basham was found brutally beaten and strangled in his van, which was abandoned on Interstate 20 in southern Palo Pinto County about 20 miles east of Ranger.

Jurors on Thursday asked to hear two tapes and a transcript of testimony given by former Palo Pinto County Sheriff's Office Investigator Joe Bishop.

Hostage situation costly

EULESS (AP) — Euless officials who worked during a 48-hour convenience store standoff that ended with two people dead totaled up $25,000 in overtime and expenses, a Euless police official said.

Police Chief Johnnie Wilson based the total on overtime figures from city emergency units — fire and police — that were at the Kwik Pantry convenience store.

The 48-hour standoff ended April 6 when police blasted through the back of the store and the gunman, Malone Mataele, shot himself in the head. Sometime during the siege, the man killed his ex-wife, who he had been holding hostage since April 4.

Officers registered 1,109 hours of overtime, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported. The department used all of its 54 certified officers.

Euless Fire Chief Randy Byers said firefighters had only a minimal number of overtime hours during the two-day standoff.

Nuclear plant delayed

DALLAS (AP) — The Comanche Peak Nuclear Plant will not begin operating by mid-1987 because of needed repairs to parts of the plant, Texas Utilities said Friday.

Company officials had said Unit No. 1 would be in operation by mid-1987 and Unit No. 2 would start up six months later. But a reinspection of the plant and needed corrective repairs have extended the planned completion date, company officials said in a statement.

The construction is expected to be completed on Unit No. 1 before the end of 1986. But officials said because of "uncertainties regarding further reinspection and rework" and the licensing process, "the company cannot predict exactly when the units will be in full-power operation."

Nazi hunter: Waldheim should be investigated

DALLAS (AP) — Former United Nations Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim should be investigated on allegations connected with his career as a Nazi officer during World War II, Nazi hunter Simon Wiesenthal said.

Long-secret U.N. files recently released to several nations — including the United States, Yugoslavia and Israel — contained specific information that might merit prosecution, Wiesenthal said Thursday at Southern Methodist University.

He said the information includes allegations by two German witnesses who placed Waldheim at the scene of several civilian massacres. Wiesenthal said he does not believe Waldheim's claims of ignorance concerning several Eastern European massacres attributed to units to which Waldheim was assigned.

But the Vienna-based investigator said he could not accuse the former U.N. official of any war crimes.

"Accusation alone is not enough," said Wiesenthal. "We must have a trial. We must see the evidence in the files."

He said the evidence in the U.N. files and elsewhere focuses on the destruction in 1944 of three Croatian villages in Yugoslavia by a German military unit to which Waldheim was assigned.

Wiesenthal, in asking for the investigation, said he has rejected Waldheim's repeated claims of innocence.

"I have told him (Waldheim) that for him not to know (of the massacres) would defy his image as a man of intelligence," said Wiesenthal.

The 77-year-old investigator has spent more than 40 years since World War II tracking some of the most famous figures from the death camps of Hitler's Third Reich.

But Wiesenthal said those brought to trial represent only a handful of the estimated 150,000 Nazis and their collaborators who participated directly in the extermination of 5 million Gypsies and 6 million Jews.

Wiesenthal said he was born of Austrian parents on New Year's Eve 1908, in what is now the Lvov Oblast section of the Ukraine. His father, a reserve officer in the Austrian army, was killed in action in 1915.

The anti-Semitism of armies from Poland and Russia drove his family along with other Jews to Vienna during subsequent occupations of the Lvov Oblast, Wiesenthal said.

Educated as an architectural engineer at the Technical University of Prague, Wiesenthal settled into practice in Lvov, when the "purges" began under the Russians and later the Germans.

The Nazi investigator and his wife escaped execution when the Germans came to Lvov in 1941, but they were assigned to a series of concentration camps, he said.

Wiesenthal said he weighed only 100 pounds by the time he was released from the camp at Mauthausen in May 1945.

After the war, he headed a relief organization, the Jewish Central Committee of the United States Zone of Austria, and in 1947 he opened the Jewish Historical Documentation Center in Linz, Austria.

Decayed documents found in Goddess' star

AUSTIN (AP) — During the 97 years the Goddess of Liberty stood atop the Capitol, her left hand held up a hollow star that apparently contained an 1888 time capsule, Capitol Architect Roy Graham said Friday.

But he said it will take at least several weeks to determine what actually was in the star.

"The remnants appear to be decomposed paper fragments and a decayed paper mass resembling a rolled-up newspaper in a paper wrapper," Graham said.

Graham said the remnants were discovered April 14 in St. Louis by Pat Rice of Washington University Technology Associates, the firm responsible for restoring and recreating the Goddess.

The new Goddess, of cast aluminum, will be placed atop the Capitol in early June.

Graham said when Rice removed the lower point of the five-pointed star, the time-capsule contents were released. The remnants were sealed in plastic bags and delivered to Graham Wednesday.

Graham said that all material removed from the star was then sent to the Conservation Division of the Humanities Research Center at the University of Texas.

Paper conservators will begin the tedious process of analyzing and restoring the decayed documents.

"Based on our dicussion with (UT) officials, we are quite hopeful that these documents can be restored," Graham said.

Comet connoisseurs converge on Texas observatory

FORT DAVIS (AP) — Bob Stanley tapped on the cash register.

"OK. One solar system poster and one gyroscope. That's $8.85 out of $20."

"Can you show me how this works?" asked Marie Knipe, a Corpus Christi resident. She opened a small box and produced the gyroscope.

Stanley, who helps man the Visitors Information Center at McDonald Observatory, obliged. He wound a thin cord through the eye of the gyroscope, pulled hard and sent the wheel whizzing.

After it stopped, Knipe pocketed the toy and walked outside into the thin air of the Davis Mountains.

Hundreds of tourists have been flocking to the University of Texas observatory to get a look at Halley's comet — and maybe pick up a souvenir.

Atop Mount Locke — at 6,800 feet, the highest point in Texas accessible by state road — Kelly Ross of Greenville, Mich., pushed a quarter into a mounted telescope and peered into Limpia Valley below. On a vacation with her family, Ms. Ross said she would find it difficult to get up at 4:30 a.m. or so to look in the southeast sky for the comet.

"I can see it some other time," said Ms. Ross. Stanley leaned on the visitors center counter and rested. It appeared that the throng of people has sent the staff spinning.

"We had 500 people here on Saturday," said Stanley. "And even on Tuesday at 5:30 in the morning, we had about 250."

"I even got a call from somebody in the Cayman Islands asking where the best place to look in the sky for the comet was," said Stanley.

While McDonald scientists, led by Dr. Edwin Barker and Dr. Anita Cochran, probe comet complexities with the aid of a 107-inch telescope, tourists are able to view the comet with smaller scopes under the guidance of other university staff.

At about 5 a.m., the curious gather at the visitors center or at nearby Davis Mountains State Park. The McDonald staff said March was the best month in the Northern Hemisphere to view the comet, which is approximately 90 million miles away. The comet still may be seen in the hemisphere during this month.

The visitors are encouraged to bring their own binoculars. The university provides 8-inch telescopes and instructions for comet viewing.

The comet, a 3-mile-wide chunk of ice and dirt, appears every 76 years in the solar system ellipse. At McDonald Observatory, the real profit of the event comes from comet data being collected and examined under the direction of Barker, coordinator of an international comet watch.

Ms. Cochran said research gathered at McDonald Observatory — along with the University of Arizona-affiliated Lunar and Planetary Laboratory in Tucson, Ariz., and the University of California Lick Observatory on Mount Hamilton east of Santa Cruz — already has given scientists new insight into the inner workings of comets.

Dole says 1987 budget plan not ready for vote before Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole said Friday that despite a week of talks with President Reagan and other White House officials he still wasn't ready to bring the fiscal 1987 budget plan to the floor.

"We'd like to have him saying good things about the budget," said Dole, R-Kan. But he said although the administration was trying to be helpful, it still wasn't moving significantly toward compromise.

Reagan objects to a bipartisan Senate Budget Committee plan, approved last month. The committee rejected many of the domestic spending cuts proposed by the president, instead voting to cut his military spending plans by $25 billion and increase taxes by $12 billion over his proposal.

Dole, Budget Committee Chairman Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., and Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, met with the president's budget director, James C. Miller III, on Thursday evening, but they reported little progress.

"They've (administration officials) told me privately they'd like to be helpful," Dole said Friday.

Domenici said part of the discussion was on the pros and cons of proceeding at all with a Senate budget while the House was refusing to move. House Democratic leaders have been waiting to see if the Republican-led Senate would endorse a tax increase.

Miller, asked whether no taxes or the full $320 billion military budget was the highest priority, said: "He (Reagan) would not take a tax increase."

Congress didn't approve a budget last year until Aug. 1. This year, because of the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction law, congressional leaders are under pressure to produce a final spending plan earlier.

The next round of budget cuts under Gramm-Rudman would take effect Oct. 1 if government analysts determine that the $144 billion deficit target for fiscal 1987 will be missed.

Under current spending and tax law, the deficit next year would be about $182 billion, according to congressional and administration estimates released in February. That means $36 billion in spending cuts or new taxes would be needed to meet the target.

Students don't question spoof that nation going to 'metric time'

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — When science teacher Dave Bourland told his students the nation was switching to "metric time" with 100-minute hours and 10-day weeks, he thought they would learn a lesson in how to question statements as right or wrong.

To his chagrin, none of them challenged him, and the school even got calls from parents asking when metric time would begin.

"They don't think," Bourland said Friday of his ninth-grade science students at Libbey High School. "That's the biggest thing educators are fighting against."

Bourland said he staged the hoax in an attempt to teach students how to use the scientific method of proving a statement wrong or right.

"If I say one thing, you should be able to prove to me that I'm wrong, just as I have to prove to you that I am right," he said.

Under metric time, days would have 10 hours of daylight, minutes would have 100 seconds and the year would be reduced to 10 months, he told the class.

The numbers on a clock would be replaced by 10s, he said, and July and August would be dropped from the calendar.

No one asked where that time would go, he said.

"No one actually sat down with a pencil and tried to figure it out," Bourland said. "No one came up with the fact that it would not have worked.

"They said that some questions had crossed their mind, but they didn't ask the questions. And I wouldn't have had an answer."

He brought the one-week spoof to an end Wednesday.

"They were very positive. They liked it," he said. "They definitely learned a great deal from this.

"My philosophy is that education as a whole is simply dull and boring and I try to make my class exciting for my students — it's exciting when they learn something," Bourland said.

Ortega says U.S. must stop maintaining aggression policy

WORLD

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Daniel Ortega says Nicaragua wants peace with the United States, but he believes President Reagan has decided to destroy the Sandinista regime by military means.

He accused Reagan of "blackmail policy" in supporting Contra rebels who are fighting his government.

"I see no reason to maintain a policy of confrontation." Ortega said in an interview with The Associated Press. "Nicaragua is willing to overcome this situation, but the United States must stop its policy of aggression."

Ortega gave the interview late Wednesday night in an office at his official residence, dressed in a black army T-shirt and fatigue pants. The 40-year-old leader focused his remarks on relations with the superpower to the north.

The fact that Congress is debating Reagan's plan to give $100 million in aid to the rebels shows a "lack of respect" by the United States for another sovereign nation, he said:

"Regardless of the vote's outcome, there is a political decision to destroy our revolution, the attitude of the U.S. Congress does not fall within the framework of relations between states...whether they approve 10, 30 or a 100 million dollars. This is a blackmail policy. They are committed to a military solution."

The Senate has approved the aid for th Contras, most of whom operate from bases in southern Honduras near the Nicaraguan border, but the issue remains unresolved in the House of Representatives.

Roots of the current tension between his Central American nation and the United States go back decades, Ortega said. He cited the occupation by U.S. Marines and U.S. support for the Somoza family, which ruled the country for 42 years until the Sandinista revolution deposed President Anastasio Somoza in July 1979.

"We had hopes during the Carter adminstration that we would overcome the historic problems caused by the bad U.S. policy toward Nicaragua," Ortega said, but added:

"Reagan has adopted a systematic policy aimed at destroying the revolution by backing the mercenary forces. First it was a secret war Reagan denied he supported, then it was humanitarian assistance and now he is escalating it to involve U.S. military advisers."

The Reagan administration says the Sandinistas, who are allied with the Soviet bloc, are fomenting revolution in Central America and threaten peace in the region.

Jaime Chamorro, a Nicaraguan opposition leader who is executive director of the independent newspaper La Prensa, told the AP that military aid to the Contras is needed "to force the Sandinistas to negotiate with the opposition."

Ortega maintained, however, that tensions in Central America result from what he described as a U.S. policy of aggression.

"We do not represent a threat to the United States and if the U.S. feels we do, we are willing to discuss that," he said.

"We want to discuss how the existence of the Nicaraguan revolution is a military threat to the United States. They have accused us of being expansionists. They say there is a danger of our becoming a Soviet military base. They claim there is no democracy here.

"We are willing to discuss the matters of security. We have said we are willing to eliminate all foreign military presence, all military maneuvers. We want all foreign military advisers out of the region. It should be easy to reach an agreement on security matters."

He rejected making Nicaraguan internal matters or its political system a part of such talks.

"No state permits others to discuss or negotiate its internal social type of regime," he said. "We would not think of going to the United States with demands dealing with its internal policies and way of life. If they demand to discuss our internal situation, we could demand to discuss theirs, also. But that leads nowhere."

One opposition argument is that the Sandinistas have repressed the Roman Catholic Church. Ortega said his government has no problem with the church, "only with the political positions of some bishops and of Cardinal Miguel Obando y Bravo."

Soviets support extension of U.N. force in Lebanon

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — In a notable foreign policy shift Friday, the Soviet Union for the first time in eight years supported extension of the U.N. peacekeeping force in South Lebanon.

Soviet Ambassador Yuri Dubinin joined a unanimous vote in the 15-member Security Council for a resolution extending the mandate of the U.N. Interim Force in Lebanon for three months until July 19. Soviet ally Bulgaria also voted in favor.

The extension was three months shorter than the time period requested by Lebanon and suggested by U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar. France, a troop contributor, had sought to limit the extension to only two months.

In previous votes, since the force was set up in March 1978 to ensure the withdrawal of Israeli forces in South Lebanon and help the Lebanese government restore control over the area, the Soviet Union and Soviet bloc members had abstained.

The Soviet Union maintained in the past that the problem of South Lebanon was caused by Israel, with the support of its western allies, and was not a Soviet responsibility.

The Soviet Union had refused to pay its assessed contribution to UNIFIL. Accumulated Soviet withholding from UNIFIL's assessments is more than $146 million. Other Soviet Bloc members owe some $57 million.

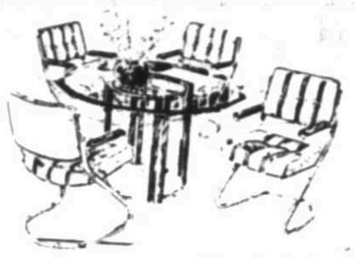

Dubinin skirted the issue of payments in announcing the change of the Soviet position. He said the Soviet Union considered the force "an important force for stability".

Israeli rabbi preaches against mixing Jewish, Arab children

By RUTH SINAI

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Rabbi Reuven Elbaz travels about Israel with a rock band, preaching against an Education Ministry program that seeks to bring Jewish and Arab schoolchildren together.

The gist of the 42-year-old Moroccan-born rabbi's argument is that such encounters could lead to assimilation, mixed marriages and transgressions of Jewish religious laws, which he says must be strictly followed if Israel is to survive.

Elbaz preaches with fervor, his black beard quivering and his hands whipping through the air. He is accompanied on his rounds by black-hatted rock musicians who describe themselves as reformed criminals.

The rabbi's target is a campaign the Israeli Education Ministry says is intended to promote tolerance and co-existence between the 3.5 million Jews and 700,000 Arabs living in Israel.

At a recent gathering in a suburban Tel Aviv synagogue, Elbaz recounted several examples in an effort to illustrate his fears of the consequences of such meetings.

In one case, he said, children were taken to an Arab village "and although they were promised kosher food, they were forced to eat impure meat, carcasses."

Elbaz's concerns that the communities remain distinctly separate are shared by many in Israel's Orthodox and nationalist communities. Such views are taken to the extreme by the U.S.-born Rabbi Meir Kahane, who advocates the expulsion of all Arabs from Israel.

The government does not encourage integration or assimilation, and Education Minister Yitzhak Navon emphasizes that encounters between Arab and Jewish children are voluntary.

"I can't force anyone to attend but if they don't, they're losing out," said Navon, a former president of Israel. "It's inconceivable that Israeli children know Arabs only as construction workers or waiters. Smashing stereotypes cannot be done only through textbooks."

In a recent speech in Tel Aviv, Navon said he had never heard of a Jew marrying an Arab as a result of the meetings.

"What are they afraid of? I don't understand how they can want their children to be ignorant about their 200 million Arab neighbors," said Navon, who speaks Arabic.

The head of the religious schools department in the Education Ministry, Yosef Hadani, said he discourages joint Arab-Jewish activity because the "minds of children are not yet firm enough for them to withstand external influences."

In an interview, Hadani said he objected to the encounters "because you can never control what happens after the meetings. The kids continue to correspond, and one thing leads to another."

He said there were hundreds of mixed Arab-Jewish marriages in Israel, almost all between Jewish women and Arab men. "The Arabs guard their women against such assimilation. We must, too."

The Education Ministry encourages the student meetings but generally does not take an active part in them. The mixed parties, nature trips or mutual visits to schools and homes are organized by 47 voluntary groups and depend largely on the interest and good will of the teacher or school principal.

Natan Kemem, a principal whose fifth graders are taking part in a six-week tennis course with Arab children, said many parents in the town of Kfar Saba north of Tel Aviv initially objected to the idea.

The primary concern, he said, was for the children's safety following the recent arrests of several Arab residents on charges of anti-Jewish terrorism.

Kedem said one father, describing himself as a member of Kahane's anti-Arab movement, refused to allow his daughter to attend the encounters.

Integration creeps in to some South African hospitals

By JAMES F. SMITH

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Some integration has crept quietly into South African health care in recent years.

In liberal cities such as Durban and Cape Town, some government hospitals for whites only have added segregated wards for other races. At Durban's Addington Hospital, 40 percent of the patients are non-white.

Johannesburg Hospital has introduced black nurses in wards for whites. Many urban private hospitals now accept all races, but in separate wards.

In some cities, specialist units for heart disease and other ailments are multiracial. The spinal unit at Conradie Hospital in Cape Town, one of two in the nation, is open to all races.

Yet in much of the country, as the case of Fadilia Lagadien illustrates, apartheid remains firm in health care.

The 27-year-old secretary is in the non-white section of the H.F. Verwoerd Hospital in Pretoria, recovering from a spinal fracture suffered in a car crash Dec. 7.

Two blocks away is South Africa's other specialist spinal injury unit and a part of Verwoerd Hospital. But for Miss Lagadien, who is of mixed face and is officially designated as a colored person, the spinal unit is beyond reach. It is for whites only.

The hospital's superintendent, Evert van Wyngaard, said Miss Lagadien's care since the accident has been every bit as good as if she were in the whites-only spinal unit. He said spinal specialists and therapists from the unit treat her regularly.

But the case has received national attention as critics dispute the government's view that health care is separate but equal.

Dr. Colin Froman, a neurosurgeon, said of the Lagadien case, "When you have a specialist facility, you can't separate the goats from the sheep when putting them into that facility. Under no circumstances can you treat her as well if you treat her elsewhere. You can treat her adequately, but not as well."

The health-care reforms have resulted from local decisions, leaving a patchwork of integration and segregation from region to region.

"A lot of these moves are not for reformist ideological reasons, but simply for practical needs. There are shortages of nurses, of space, of doctors," said Dr. Marius Barnard, a heart surgeon who also is a member of Parliament for the opposition Progressive Federal Party, which advocates open health care for all races.

"It is a move in the right direction, but for the wrong reasons," he added.

Even open access to health care for urban blacks, Asians and coloreds won't erase broader inequalities felt by non-whites.

Waite says U.S. air raid 'increases risk' to other hostages

LONDON (AP) — Church of England envoy Terry Waite said Friday the U.S. air raid on on Libya "increased enormously" the risk to American and other foreign hostages in Lebanon.

Waite, who has been to Lebanon in an effort to gain the release of kidnapped foreigners, commented after the bodies of three Westerners were found in Beirut on Thursday along with a note saying they had been shot dead in reprisal for the American attack on Libya.

Shortly after Waite spoke, officials in Beirut identified one of the three as Peter Kilburn, 62, of San Francisco, Calif.

Kilburn, a librarian at the American University in Beirut, was abducted Dec. 3, 1984, and was one of six kidnapped Americans missing in Lebanon.

The body had at first been identified as that of British writer Alec Collett.

A Christian-controlled radio station said Friday that a fourth kidnapped Briton had also been killed, but police in Beirut said the claim appeared to have been a hoax.

The outlook is "very, very bleak," Waite said, "But I would like to meet the captors as soon as possible and therefore I will go (to Lebanon) providing I get a positive response," from them.

In a radio interview with the London Broadcasting Co., Waite said, "The fact that America took the action that it did in relationship to Libya has made it even more difficult now for me to ask for restraint by the terrorists...If there is any way in which the situation can be defused and can be cooled and I can play a part in that, then I will try and do it.

"The risk now that these hostages are facing has been increased enormously," he said.

"I personally do not believe you defeat terrorism by engaging in that sort of raid," Waite said. "When I heard about it, I believed immediately that it would not do anything to deter but in fact would escalate violence and I think we are seeing that now."

Waite made three trips to Beirut late last year after four American hostages wrote to Archbishop of Canterbury Robert Runcie, the spiritual head of the state Church of England, appealing for his help in gaining their freedom.

Moratorium placed on law meant to keep blacks out of white areas

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The government said Friday it will stop enforcing pass laws, the hated cornerstones of apartheid that keep blacks out of white areas, and will release people jailed for violating them.

President P.W. Botha told Parliament a moratorium on pass-law arrests will begin Wednesday, when he proposes a new law providing common identity documents for all races. He said anyone in jail for pass-law offenses would be freed and all pending charges would be dropped.

The laws, formally called "influx control," are one of the sorest points in the official race policy with which South Africa's 5 million whites maintain supremacy over the 24 million voteless blacks. More than 2.5 million blacks have been arrested in the past decade for being outside tribal homelands without the right stamp in their passes.

Critics of apartheid applauded the suspension of enforcement but said they feared Botha might produce an alternative form of control.

Desmond Tutu, the black Anglican bishop who has just been elected archbishop of Cape Town, said the moratorium "can only be welcomed. However, I hope there is not a sting in the tail. One has to be very careful that they are not going to find another way of harassing blacks."

Muntu Myeza, spokesman for the militant Azanian People's Organization, said it was "about time," but added: "The removal of one area of repression — the pass laws — comes too late. What we want now is...the establishment of a fully democratic and just society."

Another cautious assessment came from Sheena Duncan, a white leader of the Black Sash women's group that helps blacks with pass problems: "All of a sudden to be able to be free to live and work where you want, if it really happens, would be of great significance. You'd have a tremendous explosion in growth and excitement and job creation.

"But we do not understand why he has not simply repealed (the laws). It can only take this long if he's drafting something to take its place."

Two laws adopted in 1952 form the backbone of "influx control," which restricts blacks without permits to 10 tribal homelands that cover 13 percent country's territory. About 13 million blacks live in the homelands and 11 million occupy black townships in white areas.

One law bars blacks from staying in white South Africa, including the cities, for longer than 72 hours without permission. The other requires blacks to carry passes with the required permit.

Pass laws have been especially harsh for the more than 1 million black migrant workers, who must sign one-year contracts to work in white areas and leave their families behind in the homelands.

Arrests for pass law violations have been decreasing. From a high of 262,000 in 1983 they fell to 163,000 in 1984 and 132,000 last year.

Navy plane crashes

SUMMERDALE, Ala. (AP) — A Navy T-34 turbo-prop training plane trying to land crashed and burst into flames Friday, killing both people on board, Navy officials said.

The plane crashed about 3:45 p.m. while trying to land at the Summerdale air field, said spokeswoman Ensign Susan Haeg.

"We don't know the training mission or type of flying it was doing before the crash," she said, adding that she assumed the two people on board were a student-pilot and an instructor.

The identities of the two were withheld pending notification of relatives, she said.

The plane was assigned to the Naval Air Station Whiting Field in Milton, Fla., about 30 miles from the crash site, she said.

Twin teens convicted

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — A prosecutor says she'll seek long sentences in a juvenile home for twin 15-year-old boys convicted of causing a trolley derailment that injured 57 people, including one who became a paraplegic.

"It was suggested by defense counsel that the juveniles' conduct was simply child's play," said Delaware County Assistant District Attorney Jean Marie Cella. But the verdict Thursday showed Judge John V. Diggins agreed "their conduct was egregious," she said.

The boys were found guilty of 57 counts of aggravated assault and one count each of causing a catastrophe and conspiracy.

Large rocks and concrete slabs were placed on railroad tracks Dec. 11, causing the Norristown High-Speed Line trolley to derail. A southbound trolley then hit the trolley.

Boy relieved to be home

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — A 12-year-old newspaper carrier who won a 10-day trip to Spain was relieved to return home after witnessing anti-American demonstrations in Madrid, his mother says.

Jason Underwood was staying at a hotel in the Spanish capital one block from the U.S. Embassy, target of demonstrators protesting the U.S. bombing of Libya.

"People were throwing rocks and bottles, carrying signs and spray-painting 'Reagan is an assassin' on the walls," Jason said.

"I wasn't nervous," he added, "but some of the people with rooms on the front side of the hotel, where they were throwing rocks, were pretty scared."

His mother, Judy, said though that "he was really relieved to get back home" Thursday.

The Sierra Middle School seventh-grader won the trip as part of a promotion for Riverside Press-Enterprise newspaper carriers.

Post cards to honor Guard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Postal cards honoring the National Guard and stamp collecting will be issued this year, the Postal Service announced Friday.

The Guard card will honor the force that traces its history to the Massachusetts militia formed 350 years ago. It will be released on Dec. 12 in Boston.

The stamp collecting card will be issued in Chicago on May 23, in connection with AMERIPEX, an international stamp exposition.

Nephew: Kilburn opposed U.S. policy

Kilburn thought U.S. policy partly responsible for bloodshed

Tim Kilburn

APTOS, Calif. (AP) — Peter Kilburn was a quiet, frail academic who loved Lebanon and its people, and believed U.S. policy was partly responsible for the bloodshed and destruction there, relatives said Friday.

"He was not happy with the United States government," said his nephew, Tim Kilburn. "He felt much better over there. He didn't support the American policy in the Middle East."

Kilburn, 60, was identified as one of three kidnapped Westerners slain in retaliation for the United States' bombing of Libya. The three victims intially were believed to be British, but United Nations officials determined one corpse was that of Kilburn rather than British writer Alec Collett.

Tim Kilburn, 35, said in an interview from his Aptos home that the State Department notified the family Friday of his uncle's death, which came about 16 months after he was kidnapped in Beirut.

He said the family had learned from sources after Kilburn was kidnapped that he was alive, but had no other information during the ordeal.

"It's been hard and it's even harder now," he said.

Fears about Kilburn's safety had been magnified by his health problems. He once suffered a stroke that left him partially paralyzed and affected his vision. He suffered from high blood pressure and heart problems.

Kilburn, who was unmarried, had immersed himself in his studies of anthropology and spoke seven languages fluently, said a niece, Patty Little of Aptos. He lived in Spain before moving to Beirut.

Despite his fondness for Lebanon and its people, Kilburn had been looking forward to retiring and returning to the United States, relatives said.

He was months away from retirement as a librarian at American University in Beirut when he failed to show up for work on Dec. 3, 1984.

He had worked at the university for 21 years, and his job was not affected by his political views, Tim Kilburn said.

"He was outspoken to his friends, but he was not political," he said.

In 1983, Kilburn wrote letters to the Santa Cruz Sentinel that criticized American policies in the Middle East. They also indicated he knew the risks of being an American in Beirut.

"The Israelis are pulling the triggers and flying the jets," he wrote. "But the planes and tanks and bombs are generally American-made and furnished.

"The Lebanese cannot retaliate. They have no guns or clout. And I have this feeling they are going to take it out on us."

Kilburn also indicated he had grown weary of the destruction he'd seen in Beirut.

"They talk about the horrors of nuclear war. Well, I think the old kind is quite awful enough," he wrote.

Tim Kilburn said he blamed those same policies, including the bombing of Libya, for his uncle's death.

"We're on our way to war, as far as I can see," he said. "The United States government's answer to problems is to drop bombs."

He said he was particularly close to his uncle because Peter had lived with his family before moving to Lebanon more than two decades ago. The last time Kilburn visited his relatives in the United States was in July 1984, just a few months before his kidnap, Tim Kilburn said.

Peter Kilburn had one brother, Blake, who lives in Tahiti.

FBI agent falls from helicopter during exercise

WASHINGTON (AP) — An FBI agent who was a member of the bureau's hostage rescue team fell to his death from a helicopter during a routine exercise Friday at the FBI's training facility in Quantico, Va., the agency announced.

James K. McAllister, 34, a 10-year veteran agent who was assigned to the Washington field office of the FBI, was participating in the training exercise about 10 a.m. when he slipped from a rope hanging from the helicopter and fell to the ground, the bureau said.

The helicopter was at an altitude of 40 to 60 feet when the incident occurred, the FBI said. McAllister was taking part in a practice operation in which members of the special team slide down a rope and rescue hostages.

McAllister was transported from the training center five miles north to Potomac Hospital in Woodbridge, Va., where he died. An FBI statement termed the fatality an "accidental death." The FBI will conduct an internal inquiry into the matter, as it does in the case of all agent deaths.

It was the third fatality among FBI agents in the past week.

McAllister was one of the original members of the Hostage Rescue Team, a 50-member anti-terrorist unit set up in September 1983 which "gives us an effective response capability and provides a substantial deterrent to terrorism," FBI director William H. Webster said in the statement.

McAllister's wife, Kimberly, also is an FBI agent. She became an agent in 1983. McAllister also is survived by two children from a former marriage.

On April 11, FBI agents Benjamin P. Grogan and Jerry Dove were slain in a bloody shootout in a residential suburb of Miami involving two men suspected in a series of violent armored car and bank robberies. The two suspects were shot to death in the gun battle, which also wounded five other FBI agents.

Three Boston police officers shoot themselves in one week

BOSTON (AP) — Three policemen have shot themselves to death in one week, with two of them believed to be suicides, but authorities said Friday that the deaths apparently are only a tragic coincidence.

Eddie Donovan, a police officer who runs the department's stress program and has researched police suicides for seven years, said he has never seen possible suicides so close together during his 29 years at the department.

The average for suicides among policemen is higher than in the society as a whole because of job stress, he said.

"Everybody expects a policeman to be everything. They're expected to be superheroes," said Donovan, adding that police officers often are reluctant to seek help because many believe it is a sign of weakness.

"As soon as police officers realize they're all part of the human race and they're allowed to have problems, then the suicide rate will go down," he said.

Detective Sol Chajomicz, 34, who joined the force eight years ago, was found shot to death in his home Thursday, said police spokeswoman Jane Sheehan. His death is believed to be a suicide, she said.

About an hour earlier, Clovis Cobb, 34, was pronounced dead at Boston City Hospital. The seven-year veteran was found shot in his car in the city's Dorchester section.

Six days before the deaths of Cobb and Chajomicz, Patrolman Edward Foley, 56, was found shot to death in his home.

Sheehan said Foley's death also is believed to be a suicide although it is possible that Cobb's shooting was accidental.

Police administrators said fellow officers did not notice any depression in the officers, although a man who saw Cobb shortly before his death told the Boston Herald that the officer had seemed distressed.

Cobb shot himself with a .22-caliber automatic handgun that was in a shoulder holster too small for the weapon, and it may have been accidental.

One theory is that the gun slipped out of the holster as Cobb was getting out of the car, he grabbed it and it discharged, said John F. Gillespie, a spokesman for the department.

Cobb and Chajomicz worked in the same police station, but Sheehan and others said there was no connection.

Foley was a 29-year police veteran.

"I'll be truthful with you. We're all extremely surprised because he was a real easy-going guy," said Sgt. Daniel Harrington. "All I ever heard him talk about was sports and his kids; his kids and sports.

"I guess he was going to retire in another six months," he said. "How can you figure that? He was counting his days just last week" for retirement.

Aside from the recent cases, there hasn't been a police suicide in about a year, the department said.

Dr. Victor Bibbins, a stress counselor and director of the employee assistance office for Metropolitan Police in Washington, said a policeman's stress comes from a variety of sources: rotating shifts, life-threatening situations and their work environment.

"They are exposed to some of the most negative aspects of our society," Bibbins said. "They don't necessarily get a chance to see some of the good things. It all adds up to create stress."

WEATHER SUMMARY

Conditions forecast for 7 A.M. Saturday

Warm weekend in area forecast

From Staff and Wire Reports

A warm weekend is in store for Midlanders, according to the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Airport.

Today will be sunny and hot with a high in the upper 70s and northeasterly winds at 10 to 15 mph.

Tonight and Sunday will be partly cloudy with a low near 50 degrees and highs in the upper 70s.

The highest temperature ever recorded for Friday's date was 96 degrees in 1948. A record low of 37 degrees was set for today's date in 1953.

STATE

Thunderstorms rumbled across northern Texas Friday, developing along a line of dry air that clashed with moist air from the Red River to the Rio Grande.

Golfball-size hail was reported just northwest of Stephenville.

Elsewhere, a weak cold front pushed across the Panhandle and entered the northern portion of the South Plains. Skies were mostly fair over the Edwards Plateau, and partly cloudy to cloudy over the rest of the state.

Winds were from the north and northeast over the Panhandle while west and southwest winds covered much of the western part of the state. South to southeast winds breezed across the rest of Texas.

The forecast called for mostly cloudy skies Saturday with a chance of thunderstorms, except in West Texas, where the prediction was for sunshine followed by a chance of storm activity Saturday night.

Lows should range from 40 in the Panhandle to the lower 70s in the southern areas of the state. Highs Saturday will be in the mid 60s in the Panhandle to mid 90s in the Big Bend.

NATION

A storm dumped up to 18 inches of snow in South Dakota before turning to flurries Friday, as hail pelted parts of Oklahoma and Texas and high winds blew across the central Plains and New England.

Most roads were closed around Lusk, Wyo., Friday morning as 6 to 10 inches of snow created drifts up to 5 feet high. Elsewhere in South Dakota, the storm left 18 inches of snow at Galena, up to 16 inches at Deadwood, and 12 inches at Deerfield.

Rain, heavy at times, extended over portions of the Dakotas, northern Nebraska and across much of Minnesota and Iowa. Showers and thundershowers were scattered from the mid-Mississippi Valley into Arkansas and Texas.

Oregon Pharmacist Making Cosmetic History!

Wrinkle Cream Great Success

It's an exciting story of a pharmacist who developed a wrinkle cream which women all over the country are clamoring for.

Dr. Robert Heldfond is making cosmetic history with his EB5 cream. His dream since Pharmacy School has resulted in a wrinkle cream which is enjoying record sales in department stores and which cosmeticians and customers are praising very highly.

Research lab tests show that by daily use of EB5 cream, morning and night, facial lines, lines around the eyes, lines on the forehead and around the mouth are smoothed. Thousands across the country are so pleased that EB5 is 5 creams in 1 jar . . . EB5 is a wrinkle cream, a night cream, a moisturizer, an eye-cream, and a makeup-base . . . All In One.

EB5 appears to be the natural way to help aging skin. It contains natural Liprogen, collagen and liproprotein (natural skin oil) with Vitamins E and B5, A and D, and other ingredients. Dr. Heldfond's EB5 cream is greaseless and leaves the skin soft and velvety and younger-looking.

If you are concerned about your skin appearing to be aging too quickly, hurry and find some EB5 cream. One jar lasts for months.

Note: EB5 cream is available in Midland at JCPenney at Midland Park Mall, 699-4347

Diablos darken Angels' opener

By BOB BRUNDAGE
Sports Writer

One streak came to a halt and another kept on growing Friday night as the 1986 version of the Midland Angels made their home debut a negative one with a 5-1 loss to El Paso in front of a packed house crowd of 3,021.

James Randall, who ended the 1985 season with a three-game hitting streak, increased his two-season total to 14 games with a single and double while Billie Merrifield's 33-game streak came to an end with the third baseman's 0-for-4 performance.

The game was pretty much in doubt for the first six innings with El Paso starter Alex Madrid holding a 1-0 lead against Midland's Mike Cook. And, that lead was only because the Angels' attempt to tie the game was thrown out at the plate.

After the Diablos went up 1-0 on an RBI single by Jesus Alfaro in the top of the fourth, the Angels countered with a leadoff double by 'Sap' Randall.

A throwing error, after center fielder John Gibbons caught Merrifield's pop up, moved Randall to third and a walk to Kevin King put runners on the corners.

With Glen Walker at the plate, King went for the steal and, when catcher Dave Huppert threw to second, Randall broke for home. King was safe but Randall was cut down by second baseman Bill Bates, a former Texas Longhorn.

El Paso went on to add three runs in the top of the seventh on four one-out singles and a fielding error by Mike Madril in left. Cook left the mound trailing 4-0 and Terry Clark finished the inning.

AFTER GIVING up a run in the eighth, the Angels finally averted the shutout when Madril led off the bottom of the eighth wuth a single and moved around the bases on singles by Mark McLemore and Randall, the three Angels who accounted for six of the team's eight hits.

"We didn't swing the bat real well tonight," said Midland manager Joe Maddon. "Overall, we haven't been hitting very well as a team, not consistent with the bats.

"We're getting very good pitching and it's a shame to waste it with so few runs. Cook has pitched real well in three outings and has nothing to show for it except two losses. He's pitched well enough to win each games he's started."

Chaps make WJCAC titles official

From Staff Reports

ROSWELL, N.M. — Midland College made official what everyone expected Friday in the first day of Western Junior College Athletic Conference tennis play.

The Chaparrals easily outdistanced the competition to earn WJCAC team titles in both men's and women's play, advancing every singles player and every doubles team into today's finals.

Actually, for the women, it was a day of rest as all but the No. 3 doubles team received first round byes. But Charissa Pruim and Natasha Koprivica barely broke a sweat in earning their spot in the final with a 6-0, 6-0 whitewash over a team from South Plains College.

The men, with top seeds in all but two of nine places, still had to play to earn their places in today's finals, and play they did, recording nine victories.

"We felt after our dual meets that we had conference wrapped up," coach Joe Williams admitted. "This is for regional seeding more than anything else. But we played well despite having a bit of the flu bug.

"I really think we have the opportunity to win all positions. I'd say we have a possibility to win all in the men's. In women's I look for us to win them all."

Men

Team Totals: 1. Midland College 50. 2. South Plains College 37. 3. Odessa College 29. 4. New Mexico Military 7.

Champion Spinks ready to prove himself again

By ED SCHUYLER JR

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Michael Spinks will be in a position of having to prove himself again Saturday night when he defends the International Boxing Federation heavyweight title against Larry Holmes, who will be a challenger for the first time in eight years.

Spinks became the first light heavyweight champion to win a heavyweight title when he scored a 15-round unanimous decision over Holmes here last Sept. 21.

But he didn't convince the odds-makers that he could do it again.

"I'm the defending champion, but I'm still the underdog," Spinks said.

Holmes was a 7½-5 favorite to win the scheduled 15-round bout at a 9,000-seat indoor arena at the Las Vegas Hilton. The fight will be televised live by HBO and begin about 7:30 p.m. PST.

THE 36-year-old Holmes has predicted he will score a seventh-round knockout. In the opinion of a man once trained both fighters, a knockout might be the only way Holmes can win.

"I don't know if Larry has enough of his former skill left to win on points," said Eddie Futch, who worked with each fighter for 12 bouts, leaving both before the Sept. 21 match.

Holmes tasted defeat for the first time after 48 victories, 21 of them in title fights dating back to 1978, when two judges scored the final round for Spinks, giving him one-point margins. The other judge favored Spinks by three points.

Holmes criticized judging in Nevada to the point that the State Athletic Commission demanded and got a public apology.

Tale of the Tape

	Spinks	Holmes
Age	29	36
Weight	205	220
Height	6-2½	6-3
Reach	76	81
Chest (normal)	38	43½
Chest (expanded)	40	45½
Biceps	13½	15¾
Forearm	12	13
Waist	32	35
Thigh	22	25
Calf	16	16
Neck	15½	17½
Wrist	7½	8
Fist	13	13½
Ankle	11	10

Spinks has played the role of underdog in a relaxed, confident manner, while Holmes has worn the mantle of challenger as if it were a hair shirt.

"I'M MAD every day now," Holmes said at news conference here April 9.

The target of his anger has been the media. He has refused to grant interviews this week and skipped Wednesday's news conference. On Tuesday, he exchanged heated words with Dick Young and had the New York Post columnist bodily removed from a public workout.

However, after Thursday's workout, Holmes chatted with several reporters in the hotel lounge.

When Holmes has talked for publication, he has been scornful of Spinks.

"All he did was run, run, run in the fight," Holmes said. "You might see me walking into Michael with my hands down just to see what he's got."

"If he does, I'll give him double whiplash," said the 29-year-old Spinks.

"Larry can't get desperate because this guy's dangerous," Futch aid. "I don't believe Michael brought his full power into play the first time because he didn't know what to expect being in there with a full-fledged heavyweight."

Spinks scored 19 knockouts in winning all 27 of his fights as a light heavyweight, 11 of them title matches. Holmes has won 34 fights inside the limit.

THE 6-FOOT-2¼ Spinks surprised most observers by weighing 200 pounds, which was 25 pounds over the light heavyweight limit, for the first fight. Critics thought the added weight would adversely affect Spinks' ability to move, but it didn't.

Spinks officially weighed 205 pounds Friday, while Holmes, who is 6-3, weighed 223. Holmes weighed 221½ for the first fight.

"I'm not going to let Michael Spinks run," Holmes said. "I think he's awkward, and this time he's going to have to fight."

"I expect him to be a little more aggressive," Spinks said. "I fight well under pressure. You can back me into a corner and I'll fight out of that corner.

"I'll work off of what he does, and his mistakes."

A COMPUTER analysis of the first fight revealed that Spinks landed 318 of 697 punches while Holmes connected on 248 of 576 punches.

But Holmes landed only 64 that were not left jabs. He kept his right hand cocked, seldom throwing it, while Spinks, who landed 143 blows that weren't jabs, punched in flurries.

Holmes said he didn't throw the right often because of a pinched nerve in his neck.

"That's an excuse," Spinks said. "He's too old for that."

Don't miss 4-5A attractions

The wacky world of District 4-5A track comes to Memorial Stadium today and there are a few things the uninitiated should be aware of.

First of all, 4-5A observers are saying that this will be one of the closest team races in many years. A point here or a point there might be the difference in a team championship — and sixth place.

That's a lot of tension and a lot of pressure to deal with in the course of one day. Unlike most sports, the track season rides on the outcome of this single event. Everything before was just a warmup. This is where dividends are paid or bankruptcy is filed. And the latter is far more prominent than the former in this yearly test of tears and glory.

Therefore, we need to relieve a little pressure. If you find it hard to breathe down tonight's stretch run, try looking for a few of the following:

Best Hat: Lee coach Eddie Wolski looks like a Southern plantation owner with his bigger than Texas straw. If someone would just give him a whip, Wolski could be in the movies.

Best Hog Call: No question here. Abilene High coach John McCabe can call pigs better than any student at UArk. When AHS needs a runner to move up, McCabe starts his hog calling. He won't be hard to miss.

They Said It Couldn't Be Done: This is a tie between Midland High coach Johnny Williams and San Angelo coach Martin Garcia. They are proof that you can be in two places at once. If the runners could cover the ground that these two do in a meet, championships would be matter of fact.

Last Time Around: Sources tell me Odessa High coach Darryl Cope will be making his last 4-5A meet as the new coaching regime comes in at OHS. His Bronchos have a chance to win this meet. Wouldn't that be a nice way to go out?

Who's The Coach?: The Midland High duo of Jane Young and Sonja Pittman may be a 4-5A first. They consider themselves co-coaches of the MHS girls. Rules state that you have to talk to both of them to get a story. That's just a note for the visiting press.

So You Noticed: The first thing you will notice is that Memorial Stadium is a seven-lane track and this is an eight-team district. Most meets have eight to the finals. You get seven here and a real problem in the relays. You either have to have prelims to eliminate one team or run in heats by time. You'll see both answers today.

We're Gone: Big Spring will be making its last appearance in 4-5A before moving down to Class 4A. That means coach Randy Britton will take sophomore Brian Mayfield's gold in the high jump and skip the country.

Who's Really Worried: Sources tell me that shot nerves already belong to Sam Volpe. Yes, Virginia, he retired last year, giving his reigns of 24 years to Wolski, but he's been around — just checking, mind you — to see that all Rebels are in all the right places.

Long Distance Blues: If you don't like the distance races, you may find a friend in Lee girls coach Janice Baulch. She hides her eyes during distance events because she doesn't score many points there. "One runner and we would be great," is a common Baulch quote.

Where Are The Results?: This is just another note to visiting media. This is the only track meet in West Texas where results aren't run off after each race. A big problem for newspaper deadlines. Here's hoping MHS basketball coach Jack Stephenson is in a good mood. You can bet the press will be looking over his shoulder as he records results. One set of results for five writers, P.A. announcer and scorekeeper. That's unbelieveable.

In fact that may be the biggest show of all. I wonder which writer will advance to the Region I meet in the 100-meter result grabbing event.

Rangers homer way past Orioles for 12-3 romp

Associated Press

BALTIMORE — Pete O'Brien, Steve Buechele and Pete Incaviglia hit home runs as the Texas Rangers broke open a close game in the middle innings and romped to a 12-3 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Friday night.

O'Brien hit a three-run shot in the Rangers' six-run fifth to chase Orioles starter Scott McGregor, 1-1. Buechele opened the sixth with his third homer in as many games, and later that inning, Incaviglia hit his second of the season with two men on.

Buechele and Incaviglia hit their homers off Brad Havens, the third Baltimore pitcher. Havens had come on to finish the fifth after Dennis Martinez had failed to retire any of the four batters he faced in his initial appearance of the season.

Texas starter Mike Mason, 1-0, worked seven innings, yielding single runs in the second, third and sixth inning. The 27-year-old lefthander walked one and was touched for 10 hits before giving way to Dwayne Henry.

Rangers catcher Don Slaught, who went 3-for-4 to raise his batting average to .500, started rallies in both the third and fifth innings with leadoff singles. Each time he came around to score off McGregor, on singles by Scott Fletcher and Toby Harrah.

Slaught also singled in a run in the fifth, when the Rangers sent 11 men to the plate.

Tigers 6, Indians 1

DETROIT — Detroit's Lance Parrish drove in four runs with a homer and a single to back the six-hit pitching of Frank Tanana as the Tigers beat Cleveland.

Tanana, 1-1, retired nine batters in succession after walking Brook Jacoby with one gone in the Cleveland fourth. Tanana struck out five and walked one.

Parrish, who entered the game batting only .147 with three RBI, slammed a three-run homer with two outs off Ken Schrom, 2-1, in the first inning. The blow was his second of the season.

All three runs were unearned, however. Larry Herndon had singled but Harry Spilman reached when Cleveland shortstop Julio Franco dropped Spilman's pop fly in short left for an error.

The Tigers broke the game open with three more runs in the sixth.

Kirk Gibson started that rally with a walk, stole second and scored on Parrish's single. Parrish went to second on a single by Chet Lemon and Jim Kern came on for Cleveland. Mike Laga greeted Kern with a single that drove in Parrish and Alan Trammell singled Lemon across.

Royals 6, Blue Jays 4

TORONTO — Right-hander Dennis Leonard continued his remarkable comeback with his second straight victory and Rudy Law drove in a pair of runs to spark Kansas City over Toronto.

Leonard, facing the Blue Jays for the second time time in as many starts in his comeback season from a severe knee injury, struck out five and walked one while allowing seven hits in seven innings as he improved his record to 2-0.

Last Saturday, Leonard tossed a three-hit shutout against Toronto in his first major-league start since May 28, 1983.

Of Toronto's four runs off Leonard, only one was earned. He left in the eighth after Tony Fernandez singled and he walked Rance Mulliniks. Dan Quisenberry relieved and Cecil Upshaw singled to center, scoring Fernandez.

When George Bell grounded into a double play, Kansas City first baseman Steve Balboni flipped the ball to the umpire, thinking the side was retired. As he did, Mulliniks scored.

The Royals went ahead 2-0 in the second with a pair of unearned runs. Hal McRae, mired in a 2-for-26 rut going into the game, singled and, two outs later, Salazar sent a chopper to third baseman Mulliniks. His wild throw put runners at second and third and Law brought both home with a double into the left-center field gap.

Kansas City made it 4-0 in the third. George Brett drew the second of his three walks in the game — he now leads the league with 15 — before Frank White delivered a run-scoring double.

Balboni's single moved White to third and McRae's sacrifice fly to right, on which Jesse Barfield made a spectacular diving catch, scored White.

Toronto shaved the lead to 4-2 in the third, capitalizing on three errors and making the most of its one hit. Garth Iorg's slow bouncer back to the mound rolled through Leonard's legs for an error and Lloyd Moseby's one-out grounder to second was mishandled by White.

Fernandez then grounded to first, but Balboni's throw to second to nail Moseby hit the baserunner in the back, filling the bases for Mulliniks, who lined a two-run single to left.

Brewers 6 Yankees 5

MILWAUKEE — Ernie Riles' one-out single in the eighth inning off New York reliever Bob Shirley drove in the winning run as Milwaukee snapped a five-game losing streak with a comeback victory over the Yankees.

Robin Yount and Billy Jo Robidoux opened the winning rally with singles off Brian Fisher, 0-1. Rob Deer fouled out to first base and Fisher was relieved by Shirley. Riles greeted him with a single to center, scoring Yount with the go-ahead run.

Rookie Dan Plesac pitched the final four innings for Milwaukee to earn his first major league victory. He struck out four and allowed no hits.

Milwaukee went ahead 1-0 in the second on singles by Deer and Riles and a run-scoring double play ball hit by Jim Gantner. New York tied the game in the third on doubles by Ron Hassey and Rickey Henderson.

Hassey singled home New York's second run in the fourth, but the Brewers tied it again in the bottom half of the inning on Deer's second home run of the season.

The Yankees snapped a 2-2 tie in the fifth after singles by Bobby Meacham and Willie Randolph. With two out, Dave Winfield doubled down the left field line, scoring Meacham and Randolph. Winfield advanced to third when Milwaukee left fielder Randy Ready misplayed the ball for an error.

Starting pitcher Bill Wegman then balked on his next pitch, sending Winfield home to give the Yankees a 5-2 lead.

Milwaukee rallied for three runs in the seventh to tie the score again. New York starter Dennis Rasmussen walked Deer to open the seventh and was replaced by Rod Scurry. Riles followed with a single, advancing Deer to third. Gantner hit a grounder back to Scurry and Deer was thrown out at the plate, with Riles advancing to third.

Red Sox 2, White Sox 1

BOSTON — Bruce Hurst outdueled veteran Tom Seaver with a three-hitter and Boston edged Chicago on consecutive doubles by Tony Armas and Rich Gedman in the seventh inning.

Hurst, 1-1, struck out 11, tying his career high, and walked three in avenging a 3-1 loss to Seaver in Chicago on April 12.

Seaver, 1-2, pitched hitless ball until Marty Barrett's sharp ground single to left with two out in the fifth. But the Red Sox caught up with Seaver in the next two innings.

With two out in the sixth, Bill Buckner lined a triple to the 420-foot mark in right-center field. He scored as Jim Rice broke an 0-for-12 slump with a ground single through the middle.

In the seventh, Armas led off with a bloop double to right, the ball bouncing into the seats just 300 feet down the line. Gedman then sliced a double to left, Armas scoring as the ball skipped past Carlton Fisk.

AL Roundup

ANGELS—

El Paso's first year manager Duffy Dyer agreed with Maddon's assessment of the pitching.

"It was a well pitched game by both teams," said Dyer. "Their pitcher, I think, just got tired and that's when we got to him for four hits in a row."

And, as to his own starter, who went 7⅔ of an inning before getting into trouble and giving way to Jay Aldrich, Dyer said, "He threw around 100 pitches and got a little tired. We've got a 95 to 100-pitch limit for this time of the year unless they have a shoutout or something going. Then, I might let them stay out longer."

Overall, Maddon isn't happy with his team's hitting efforts but there are three who have been getting the job done through the first 11 games.

"Merrifield has been swinging the bat well and so has Randall and (Raul) Tovar," said Maddon. "We've just got to get the rest of them untracked. We need a lot of extra work."

That work will begin today in the form of extra batting practice now that the Angels are home.

ANGEL NOTES — In tonight's second game of a five-game stand against El Paso, lefties will own the mound. Midland has Sherman Corbett, 1-1, scheduled to face El Paso's Pete Kendrick, 2-0. The Angels are now 5-6 with the loss while the Diablos improve to 6-5.

Aces in the hole

From Staff Reports

A rash of holes-in-one hit the Permian Basin area this past week with four aces being recorded at three courses.

John Kendrick recorded his first ace ever on the par 3 sixth hole at Hogan Park Golf Course on Friday. Kendrick used a 3-iron on his 190-yard effort. Kendrick's ace was witnessed by Tito Velasco, Juan Heredia and Manual Sanchez. Jim McNabb recorded his second hole-in-one this year at Mission Country Club this week with a 180-yard, nine-iron shot on No. 8. McNabb aced the No. 13 hole earlier this year.

McNabb was playing with Wes Ashley, A. L. Sanford, T. D. Atkinson and Pete Moore.

On Wednesday, Don Robinson aced the No. 6, 140-yard hole at Green Tree Country Club and Thursday Charles Hopkins aced the No. 8, 175-yard hole on the same course.

LSU's Brodhead guilty in eavesdropping case

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Louisiana State University Athletic Director Bob Brodhead pleaded guilty Friday to conspiring to electronically eavesdrop on NCAA investigators, and said basketball coach Dale Brown was in on the plan.

Brodhead was sentenced to 200 hours of community service work and fined the maximum $1,000 by U.S. District Judge John Parker, who scolded Brodhead for betraying his position of trust.

"Obeying the law — or to put it another way, playing by the rules of the game — is the minimum to be expected of a person in your position," Parker said. "Obviously, you have set a wrong example for our young people."

Brodhead said he has "no intention of resigning." The LSU Athletic Council is scheduled to meet Monday to recommend whether any action should be taken against him.

The federal charge of conspiring to intercept radio communications, filed Tuesday, ended months of bargaining with federal prosecutors.

"There have been extensive plea negotiations in this case," Assistant U.S. Attorney Stan Lemelle told Parker before sentencing.

For the first time since FBI agents seized hidden microphones from his desk last Oct. 27, Brodhead admitted he had intended to listen in on NCAA investigators' interviews of LSU players.

"I was aware that this procedure was questionable, but decided that I would do it to protect our athletes and the university," Brodhead said at a news conference following his court appearance.

Brodhead said he discussed his plans in advance with Brown, who put Brodhead in touch with a private investigator, Richard Barrios. Barrios got Brodhead in contact with George Davis, who Brodhead said agreed to install the equipment for around $400.

Davis, an FBI informant, alerted agents who watched as Brodhead and Davis entered the LSU athletic offices and planted the bugs the night before NCAA officials were to question students there.

The NCAA has been investigating LSU athletic recruiting practices for almost four years.

Brown, who testified before a federal grand jury but was not charged, could not be reached for comment.

LSU spokesman Jim Crain said Chancellor James Wharton was aware that Brown had put Brodhead in touch with Barrios about stemming a security leak, but not that the coach had advance knowledge of the bugging plan. Wharton would have no comment on the incident until the Athletic Council meeting.

Immediately after the bugs were seized, Brodhead issued a statement saying he had planted them in attempt to catch a member of his staff who had been leaking information to reporters. He said after the sentencing that while that had been his original purpose, he decided to use the equipment also to listen in on the NCAA, which prohibits tape recording or transcripts of player interviews.

Sul Ross sweeps

ALPINE — Jimmy Morris from Odessa homered in both games, to lead Sul Ross to a pair of easy wins over Schreiner College Friday, 8-2 and 10-0.

Morris has now has hit round-trippers in six straight games, giving him 13. His homer in the first game made a winner of Dennis Taylor (5-4).

In the second game, after Morris had homered, Midland High's Jud Ryan went 2-for-2 and Midland High's Daryl Holmes smacked a two RBI double in the third inning.

Rowdy Brown shut down Schreiner on three hits for the shutout.

Here's an interesting point to think about... Whenever a father—or anyone—teaches a youngster how to hit a baseball, they always say to put your hands together on the bat... Yet, did you know that two of the greatest hitters in the history of baseball used a different way of hitting?... Both Ty Cobb and Honus Wagner batted with their hands separated on the bat... They each had one hand spaced apart a few inches from the other on the handle of the bat... Isn't it strange that no one tries to bat that way today?... Cobb had the highest lifetime batting average of all-time, .367 and Wagner's was .329.

* * *

And speaking of odd batting positions, one of the strangest belonged to Al Simmons who played in the majors for 20 years between 1924 and 1944... He always stepped away from the plate with his left, or front, foot while hitting, or, as it's known in baseball slang, he "stepped in the bucket"... If any batter does that today, he's instructed no to... You aren't supposed to be able to hit that way... Yet, Simmons who did it all his career is in the Hall of Fame, and wound up with a lifetime batting average of .334!

Garner, Ashby rock Soto

Houston's Bill Doran slips past Bo Diaz of Cincinnati for a run in the fifth inning of Friday's 6-4 Astros win.

Associated Press

CINCINNATI (AP) — Phil Garner and Alan Ashby rocked Mario Soto with home runs Friday night as the Houston Astros took advantage of the right-hander's inconsistency to forge a 6-4 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Right-hander Mike Scott, 1-2, threw a six-hitter for his first victory in three starts. He struck out a career-high nine, but needed last-out relief help from Dave Smith, who picked up his fourth save.

Soto, 1-1, failed to hold a 2-1 lead after the third inning, again falling because of the home-run pitch. Raked for a National League-high 30 homers last season, Soto permitted a solo homer in the first by Phil Garner, his third.

Dave Concepcion's sacrifice fly tied it in the second, and the Reds went ahead in the third when Ron Oester doubled and rode home on rookie Kal Daniels' single.

Kevin Bass and Denny Walling singled up the middle with two out in the fourth, and Bass scored on a passed ball by Bo Diaz. Ashby then launched his first homer, to right field. Soto has given up four homers in 17 2-3 innings this season.

The Astros delivered the knockout blow to Soto in the fifth, with the help of Soto's wildness. They loaded the bases on Bill Doran's single and a pair of walks, and Glenn Davis drove in Houston's fifth run with a sacrifice fly.

Walling led off the sixth with his third hit of the game, a homer off reliever Scott Terry.

Nick Esasky hit a two-run homer in the ninth for the Reds.

Braves 6, Dodgers 3

ATLANTA — Dale Murphy and Bob Horner each belted two-run homers to lift Atlanta over Los Angeles.

It was the fourth loss in a row for the Dodgers, but ended their string of 10 consecutive one-run decisions since the season opened.

Murphy drilled his third homer of the year to right-center in the first inning off Fernando Valenzuela after Rafael Ramirez had beaten out a single to shortstop.

The Braves added another run in the first on singles by Horner — ending his 0-for-21 start this season — and Terry Harper and a sacrifice foul fly by Ken Oberkfell.

Valenzuela, 1-1, lost for only the fifth time in 16 career decisions against Atlanta. Valenzuela, who's wife Linda gave birth to a baby girl Friday morning, allowed seven hits, walked three and fanned two in six innings.

Atlanta expanded its lead to 5-0 in the third when Murphy walked and Horner ripped a 1-1 pitch over the left field fence.

Horner drove in another run in the fifth when he hit into a force play. Ramirez was safe when shortstop Mariano Duncan booted his grounder and Murphy singled to center, with Ramirez going to third when center fielder Ken Landreaux bobbled Murphy's hit. Horner then forced Murphy at second, with Ramirez scoring.

David Palmer, 1-1, allowed six hits, walked two and fanned four in 6 2-3 innings. Bruce Sutter pitched the ninth for his first save this season.

Mike Marshall belted his third homer for the Dodgers in the fourth, a blast over the center field fence.

The Dodgers added a run in the sixth on Greg Brock's RBI single to center.

Duncan walked with two out in the seventh and scored from first when Landreaux' hard smash bounced off first baseman Horner for an error and rolled into short right field.

NL Roundup

Mets 5, Phillies 2

NEW YORK — Ron Darling and Jesse Orosco combined on a five-hitter and Ray Knight and George Foster both had two-run singles giving New York a victory over Philadelphia.

Darling, who gave up four hits in seven innings, beat Steve Carlton, 0-2, who allowed five hits and struck out 10 over 6 and 2-3 innings. But Carlton, trying to win his first game since last May 20, could not overcome his eight walks, four that came in a three-run first inning.

Darling, 1-0, also got off to a shaky start, allowing a one-out home run to Milt Thompson in the first inning and Mike Schmidt's second homer of the season two batters later. Darling, however, settled down and did not give up another hit until a two-out single by Steve Jeltz in the fifth.

Cardinals 4, Expos 2

MONTREAL — Mike Heath drove in three runs with a two-run homer and a double and John Tudor became baseball's first three-game winner as St. Louis beat Montreal.

Tudor allowed seven hits, struck out four and walked two before leaving with two outs in the ninth after Tim Wallach's double drove home Andre Dawson with Montreal's second run. Todd Worrell got the final out for his third save.

The Expos took a 1-0 lead in the first on Dawson's second homer in two days.

St. Louis tied it in the fourth when Jack Clark tripled and Heath doubled. Heath hit his first National League homer in the sixth off Joe Hesketh, 0-2, after Tito Landrum's infield hit.

The Cards made it 4-1 in the ninth on four straight walks by Montreal reliever George Riley.

Pirates 4, Cubs 0

CHICAGO — Mike Brown doubled in two runs in the third inning and scored on a single by Jim Morrison to lead Rick Rhoden and Pittsburgh, spoiling the Chicago Cubs' home opener.

Rick Sutcliffe, the 1984 Cy Young winner, was the victim and suffered his third straight loss. Rhoden, who has asked to be traded, raised his record to 2-0 but needed seventh inning help.

R. J. Reynolds opened the third with a single and Joe Orsulak sacrificed him to second. Johnny Ray grounded out but Sid Bream walked before Brown doubled to center, scoring both runners.

Tony Pena walked and Morrison followed with the second of his four singles to score Brown. Morrison also hit his first home run of the season, leading off the Pittsburgh eighth.

Rhoden had a five-hit shutout working into the seventh when Jody Davis doubled on a fly ball which Brown lost in the sun in right-center.

Ron Cey drew a walk and Cecilio Guante relieved Rhoden. Guante fanned Shawon Dunston and got pinch batter Thad Bosley to fly out to end the inning. Pat Clements and Jim Winn finished up for Pittsburgh.

Sutcliffe worked seven innings, allowing seven hits, walking seven and striking out seven. Rhoden allowed six hits and struck out four in 6 13 innings.

Blues cruise past Leafs, 6-1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gino Cavallini and Ron Flockhart scored seven seconds apart early in the second period, leading the St. Louis Blues to a 6-1 triumph over the Toronto Maple Leafs Friday night in the opener of their best-of-seven NHL Norris Division playoff finals.

Charlie Bourgeois scored twice in the closing 14½ minutes to help St. Louis take a 1-0 lead into Game 2, scheduled for Sunday night on Blues ice. Jim Barr and Greg Paslawski also scored in helping St. Louis extend its mastery at home over Toronto to 13 contests since February 1983.

Cavallini scored from close range at the two-minute mark of the second period after Maple Leafs goalie Ken Wregget tipped the puck off Mark Reeds' stick, and Flockhart scored unassisted seven seconds later to give St. Louis a 3-0 advantage.

Toronto answered with Wendell Clark's power-play goal at 8:04 of the second session. But the Blues, with Bourgeois scoring twice in less than nine minutes, pulled away in the closing period.

Barr's goal, his first in a playoff game in four years, came on the rebound of a Bruce Bell slapshot that rattled off both Maple leafs goal posts at 16:19 of the opening period.

It was only the Blues' third power-play goal in 26 playoff opportunities spanning six contests. Cavallini and Reeds combined to pad the Blues' advantage to 2-0 six minutes later, and Flockhart scored after stealing the puck off the boards from Toronto defenseman Al Iafrate.

The rapid-fire goals set a Blues playoff record, eclipsing by eight seconds a team mark set in 1981 and came within two seconds of a Stanley Cup standard set in 1965 by Norm Ullman with the Detroit Red Wings.

Clark's goal came 35 seconds after Bourgeois left the ice for boarding, but St. Louis later added its second and third player-advantage scores for the night.

The Blues, who came into the contest with only two power-play goals in 25 chances, clicked on Paslawski's goal with 8:11 to go and again on Bourgeois' 15-footer with 5:56 remaining.

St. Louis goaltender Greg Millen kicked out 23 shots against a Maple Leafs' team that had swept the division champion Chicago Black Hawks to advance to the playoff's second round. The Blues, capitalizing on a 17-3 bulge in shots during the final period, finished with a 36-24 superiority.

Flames 4, Oilers 1

EDMONTON — Veteran Lanny McDonald and rookie Gary Suter scored in the first eight minutes and the Calgary Flames used a tenacious and physical checking system to upset the defending Stanley Cup champion Edmonton in the first game of their NHL Smythe Division final.

Calgary had a 2-1 lead after two periods but broke loose for third-period goals by Joey Mullen at 40 seconds and Haakan Loob at 9:09.

Glenn Anderson got Edmonton's only goal on a power play at 19:48 of the second period.

Game 2 of the best-of-seven series will be played here Sunday night.

The Flames, winners of only two of their previous 22 games against the reigning two-time Stanley Cup champion Oilers, virtually nullified Edmonton's explosive offense with disciplined checking.

ACU paces LSC golf

CLOVIS (AP) — Abilene Christian held a 12-shot lead over host Eastern New Mexico following the first two rounds Friday of the Lone Star Conference golf tournament.

The first 36 holes of the tournament were played at the par-72 Colonial Park Country Club in Clovis. The third round will be played Saturday at the Clovis course and then the tournament will shift to Texas for another 54 holes early next week.

Abilene Christian had a 36-hole team total of 578. Eastern New Mexico was second at 590, with Angelo State third with a 603 score. East Texas was fourth with 604 and Howard Payne fifth with 649.

Andrew Feldmann of Eastern New Mexico and Todd Bonneau of Angelo State shared the 36-hole individual lead. Both posted 3-under-par totals of 141 after the first two rounds.

World Cup golf tourney called off

NEW YORK (AP) — Lack of common interest among the sponsors was given as the reason Friday for calling off the 1986 World Cup, one of the more prestigious international team golf tournaments.

The 32-year-old event was to have been played Nov. 20-23, though a site had not been selected.

"The IGA will continue to study alternatives for the future," Harold L. Clark, chairman of the International Golf Association, said in a statement which announced the cancellation.

IGA executive director Burch Riber, reached at his home in Cincinnati, said the possibility of cancelling this year's event came up about three weeks before the Masters and a decision was made on Wednesday.

"The directors wanted to find out and examine what our options are in today's climate," Riber said. "There are so many new developments, tournaments like the Skins' Game that are TV events, media events, and the question that's before the IGA is, should we go in that direction and change our format around so it is more condusive for a TV event, or continue as in the past with 32 nations entered.

"There was serious consideration among the sponsors, the guys who pay for this event, where it was going in the future," Riber said. "They thought it might be better to drop out a year and sit back and make some long-range plans instead of just going along year by year without a plan."

Riber said he was convinced that a year off wouldn't damage the World Cup, and added that PGA Tour Commissioner Deane Beman has pledged to protect the tournament's date on the competition calendar.

"The commissioner understands why we did it," Riber said. "I don't want to speak for Deane, but he is a big supporter of the World Cup. He was more than willing to protect the dates."

Lanny Wadkins, who played on three United States World Cup teams, said of the decision, "That's a shame. It has a great tradition, one of the great international events, maybe the greatest."

"It's always sad to see one of the great tournaments struck from the list," said Sandy Lyle of Scotland, the current British Open champion.

Canadian Dan Halldorson, a member of the winning team last year, also expressed his regret at the news, adding, "Such a great event."

Bullet's bomb caps amazing comeback win

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dudley Bradley's 25-foot three-pointer at the buzzer climaxed an 18-0 rally in the last 3¼ minutes that gave the Washington Bullets a 95-94 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Friday night in the opening game of their NBA first-round playoff series.

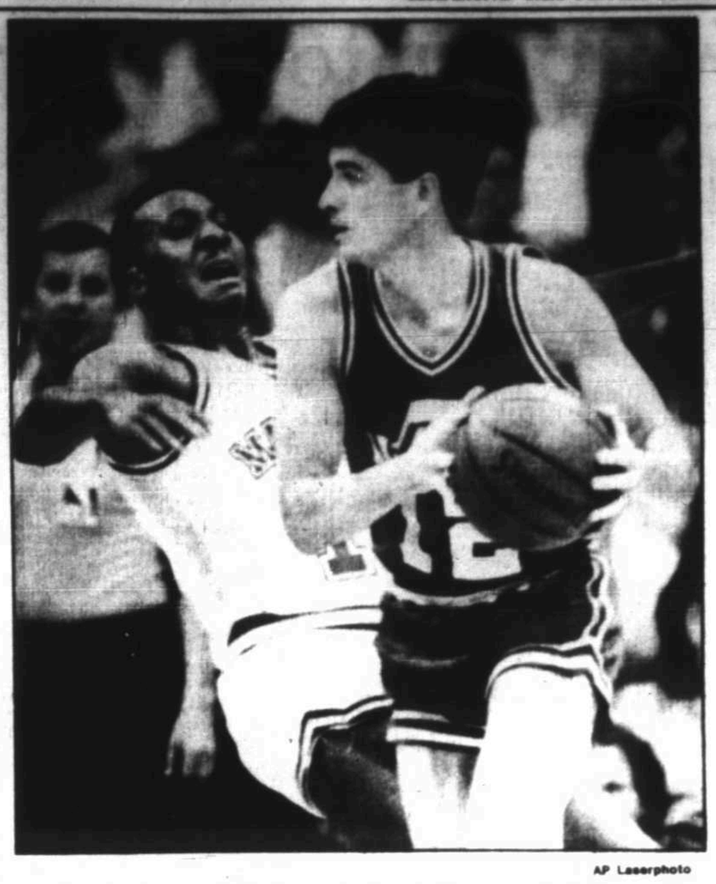

Sedale Threatt had scored 11 points during a 24-9 fourth-quarter run that gave the 76ers a seemingly safe 94-77 advantage with 3:49 remaining. But Philadelphia couldn't score another point as the Bullets came roaring back.

Dan Roundfield started the rally with a three-point play and added two other baskets, and Bradley contributed a three-pointer that made it 94-90. Another basket by Roundfield made it 94-92 with 35 seconds left.

An offensive rebound by Terry Catledge enabled the 76ers to retain possession, and the Bullets had to foul Julius Erving with three seconds left. Erving missed three free throws, the last after a Washington lane violation, and the Bullets called a timeout to set up Bradley's game-winner.

Bradley appeared to be jammed by Erving, but he squirmed free at the top of the three-point circle and threw up a shot that banked into the basket.

The second game of the best-of-5 series will be played Sunday at the Spectrum.

Rolondo lifts Mavs past Jazz

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas' Rolando Blackman was shut out for 18 minutes Friday night, but once he got untracked he blew the Utah Jazz right out of Reunion Arena.

Blackman's game-high 25 points put the Mavericks a game up in their best-of-five NBA series with a 101-93 victory over the Jazz.

Blackman took charge late in the second quarter.

"How do you deal with a bad start? Well, you try to be relentless," said Blackman. "All I saw were green shirts everytime I went down the floor. But I kept coming at them, got some shots and I was able to bury them."

Bob Hansen, who guarded Blackman, said, "Ro is tough and I was really happy to hold him under 30 points. I came out and tried to get him to play me on the offensive end and disrupt his offensive flow.

"It worked at the beginning of the game but he still got his points."

The loss could have been a costly one for Dallas because Mark Aguirre suffered back spasms late in the game. Aguirre was listed as questionable for Sunday's game.

Blackman was scoreless until he went on a tear with 5:55 left in the first half, scoring 12 of the Mavericks' last 16 points.

He scored eight points in the third quarter and made Dallas' first field goal in the fourth period after a drought of almost six minutes when the Mavs were living off free throws. Blackman also made three free throws and contributed a steal late in the fourth period.

Utah, playing without leading scorer Adrian Dantley, who is out with back spasms, was paced by rookie Karl Malone's 23 points and Hansen's 15.

Mark Aguirre added 15 points for Dallas and Sam Perkins had 15 rebounds.

The second game of the series is set for Sunday night in Reunion Arena.

Bucks take care of Nets

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Craig Hodges scored 22 of his 25 points in the first half and Paul Pressey scored 15 of his 17 points in the second half as Milwaukee defeated the New Jersey Nets 119-107 in the opening game of a first-round NBA playoff series Friday.

The Bucks opened the fourth quarter with a 10-2 streak to go ahead 96-86 with 8:05 left on two foul shots by Pressey.

The Nets never got closer than five points after that as the Bucks' defense forced crucial New Jersey turnovers.

Alton Lister came off the bench to add 17 for Milwaukee.

Buck Williams led New Jersey with 27 points, Otis Birdsong had 24 and Albert King had 19 points.

The Bucks and Nets were tied 58-58 at intermission. The underdog Nets opened the third period with a 10-5 surge to take a 68-63 lead with 9:01 left. But the Bucks, using their potent transition game, came back to build an 81-76 lead with 3:25 left after an 8-0 spurt. Milwaukee went into the fourth quarter leading 86-84 on a three-point jump shot by Pressey.

Hodges, a guard, was nine of nine from the floor and four of four from the free throw line in the first half. His 22 points led the Bucks.

Williams, a forward, led the Nets with 16 first-half points.

Darryl Dawkins, the Nets' backup center until sidelined with a back-groin injury March 27, was in uniform but did not play.

Hodo powers 'Horns past Tech

LUBBOCK — Home runs from leftfielder Doug Hodo and first baseman Bobby Bensch powered Texas to a 16-5 Southwest Conference win over Texas Tech Friday.

The victory ups the the defending SWC champs' record to 10-3 in league play and 43-9 overall. Texas Tech drops to 5-8 and 30-18.

Hodo, who got the game-winning RBI on a two-run shot in the first off Tech starter Johnny Vidales, also had a two-run round-tripper in the sixth that hit the flag flying in left center about 390 feet from home plate.

Bensch had six RBI to lead the Longhorn hitting attack that amassed 19 hits on the day.

Texas pitcher Greg Swindell got the win for the Longhorns, and Vidales took the loss for Tech. Swindell is now 8-1 on the year and 4-1 in SWC action. Vidales is 7-4 and 2-3.

Baylor 5, Houston 0

HOUSTON — Baylor righthander Craig Gummelt pitched a four-hitter Friday to lead the Bears' 5-0 victory over the Houston Cougars in a SWC series opener.

SWC Roundup

Gummelt, who struck out nine batters, improved his record to 3-2.

Jody Supak took the loss for the Cougars, who are 32-17 overall and 5-8 in the conference.

Todd Hawkins provided the winning run with a two-run homer in the fifth inning. The Bears, who totaled just seven hits, also scored two runs in the top half of the eighth inning.

The two teams meet at noon today in a double-header at Cougar Field.

COLLEGE STATION — Jeff Schow hit a two-out, two-run single in the second and Dale Barry pitched a five-hitter to lead Texas A&M over Rice.

The victory kept the Aggies, 34-18 overall, atop the SWC with an 11-2 record. Rice is 30-23, 3-13.

After the Aggies scored all three of their runs in the bottom of the second inning, Rice freshman Jay Knoblauh hit a two-run homerun in the fourth after Ben Matthews had doubled.

Barry improved his record to 8-0 overall and 5-0 in SWC play, and Steve Blackshear, who pitched all nine innings, is 5-3, 1-3.

The teams begin a double-header at 5:30 p.m. Saturday to end the three-game series.

OUTFIELD RAUL TOVAR
PLANNING AHEAD

Every outfielder must expect every batted ball to come to him. You should tell yourself before the pitch just what you are going to do with the ball when you get it. The general idea is to throw the ball ahead of the runner. That is, if there is no one on base and you have fielded a ground ball in fron of you, you will throw to second base. Be sure there is someone there to throw to and fire the ball in fast and low, so it will bounce to the baseman.

If you field the ball far out on the grass, you must look for the relay man. He will be waving his arms above his head, part way out on the grass. Send the ball to him on the fly, hard and fast.

GM chairman makes more than $1.6 million

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. said Friday it paid Chairman Roger B. Smith more than $1.6 million in salary and bonus for 1985 and that Smith made about $200,000 more in stock option profits.

Smith's salary-bonus was 4 percent above the amount he received a year earlier even though GM's net profit was down, from $4.5 billion in 1984 to $4 billion last year.

The disclosure in GM's annual stockholder proxy statement completed the Big Three automakers' third consecutive spring of big payouts for top executives.

Ford Motor Co. paid Chairman Donald Petersen nearly $1.7 million in salary and bonus. Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee Iacocca was paid $1.6 million. Chrysler also disclosed that Iacocca made $15 million in stock option profits in the last five years.

Iacocca may have established a record for total yearly income for an auto executive. However, the federal government didn't require Chrysler to make public enough information to make a calculation.

If Iacocca set a record, he broke the one set by Philip Caldwell, the foe who beat him out for the chairmanship of Ford after Iacocca's celebrated firing in 1978 by then-Chairman Henry Ford II.

Halldorson's 68 leads

Sea Pines Classic

By BOB GREEN

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Canadian Dan Halldorson birdied three holes in a row in the early going, shot a 68 and clung to a one-stroke lead Friday at the halfway point of the $450,000 Sea Pines Heritage Classic.

"I have a good swing, good tempo. I'm hitting the ball the way I want to, and it feels natural," Halldorson said after completing two trips over the Harbour Town Golf Links in 134, eight under par.

"That's six straight rounds in the 60s. It'd be nice to do it for two more days," said Halldorson, who last week won a tournament in Hattiesburg, Miss., for players not invited to the Masters.

"But I'm very happy just to be under par going into Saturday," Halldorson said.

A single stroke off the pace in the chase for an $81,000 first-place prize was Don Pooley, the 1985 Vardon Trophy winner who birdied five of his first seven holes on the way to a 5-under-par 66.

Pooley, who needed only 22 putts, completed 36 holes in 135, seven under par.

"I knew I was putting well, but I didn't know how well until I added up the putts," Pooley said.

Fuzzy Zoeller, a winner at Pebble Beach, Calif., earlier this season, shot another 68 on the tight, little course overlooking Calibogue Sound and was at 136, only two off the lead.

Chip Beck had a 67 and was at 137. Greg Norman, the Australian who was runner-up in the Masters last week, was another shot back at 68-138.

The group at 139 included former Heritage winner Doug Tewell, Mike Sullivan, Curtis Strange and Roger Maltbie. Maltbie shot 72 despite a triple-bogey 7 on the 11th where he got tangled up in the trees, Strange had a 70, and Tewell and Sullivan matched 69s.

Bettis-Harper win 'masters'

From Staff Reports

Harry Bettis and Wayne Harper won Mission Country Club's Masters golf event with a 19-under score by using Mark McCumber's two-day Masters' scores as part of the team.

Bettis and Harper defeated Mickey Wilson and Daniel Gasser, who were playing with Cory Pavin's Masters' rounds. That team had a 17-under score.

Other flight winners were as follows:

First Flight: John Bettis-Brett Smith-Tommy Nakajima, 11-under. Won one hole card playoff over Steve Timms-Mike Deaver-Greg Norman, who also had an 11-under.

Second Flight: A.D. Prichard-Kyle Wilson-Greg Norman, 11-under.

Third Flight: Jim Hall-Jim Hill-Ben Crenshaw, 5-under.

Fourth Flight: Wes Ashley-Duane Baumersbach-Bob Tway, 4-over. Won three hole card playoff over Mike Walker-Mike Wallner-Mark McCumber, who also finished at 4-over.

Middle Age

"Middle Age?" It's an elusive age which no one admits reaching, denies when accused of being there, and resents insinuations as having passed it.

Dante fixed "the middle year of life at about 35." That squares with the Biblical "three-score and ten" if you divide it equally.

But Middle Age is not determined by calendar-year or birthday, but by the position of life. It is not a year but an era.

It is that time (position) of life when you are attending funerals of your mentors, saying farewell to your children, and welcoming grandchildren. And it happens at different ages for various people.

Your parents and other significant mentors have either died or retired. And suddenly you discover the legacy of leadership and heritage of tradition are in your hands. You turn to look up, as in days past, only to find that family and the lesser-aged are looking up to you!

Middle age is being in the middle of whatever is happening in your life and the little world over which you have certain obligations and responsibilities.

Scary? Sometimes. Exciting? Yes. Inevitable? You bet!

MIDLAND SANITARY PLUMBING

Kelview Heights Baptist Church in 1961 and today.

Church celebrates new addition

Johnson

Kelview Heights Baptist Church is opening its new addition Sunday and the public is invited to attend services at 9, 10 and 10:50 a.m.

"In spite of the recent economic downturn, Kelview Heights Baptist Church has continued to expand its facilities to better minister to the needs of the citizens of Midland,"said a spokesman for the church. "Anticipating the growth of the congregation and the need for more classroom space, a one-year building fund commitment was initiated by the church to supplement the accumulated building funds. The determination of the committed congregation has resulted in the construction of the 35,000-square-foot, $1 million-plus addition without having to secure outside financing."

The history of Kelview Heights Baptist Church has been a history of "continual growth since Frank Johnson" came to Midland as pastor in 1961. The original building was one room 20 by 48 feet; it had no restrooms, no water and was on an unpaved street.

Since that beginning 25 years ago, there have been many building additions including a 30-by-70-foot auditorium, a 100-by-45-foot educational building, a 52-by-90-foot auditorium seating 600 and a 90-by-120-foot educational building. The present auditorium seating 1,100 was occupied in 1973. In 1979, the first building and the first auditorium were remodeled with 2,000 square-feet added for a nursery.

In the fall of 1985, the present addition was started. It encompasses about 35,000 square feet of educational and office space.

"The new addition houses a 5,000-square-foot nursery for new born babies to 2-year-old children and individual classrooms for fifth graders up through nine adult classes," the spokesman said.

The present buildings now cover about 100,000 square feet of floor space with classroom space for up to 2,500 peroples.

Kelview Heights Baptist Church also paved an additional 70,000 square feet of parking and is presently constructing a church park off Scharbauer Drive to be utilized by the church's classes and membership.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Frank Johnson, will be celebrating his 25th anniversary at Kelview Heights Baptist Church May 4. The public is invited.

Crestview participates in 'Good News America'

Tatum

Garrett

Crestview Baptist Church, 3300 Thomas Ave., will be holding "Good News America" revival services Monday through Wenesday.

Sunday services will be held at 8:30 and 10:50 a.m. and 7 p.m. Then, Monday through Wednesday, services will be held at noon and 7 p.m.

"'Good News America' is a nationwide effort of Southern Baptists to initiate a national revival," said a spokesman for Crestview Baptist Church. "Forty churches in Midland and Odessa will be participating in the simultaneous revivals."

The Rev. Dr. Scott L. Tatum, professor of preaching at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, will be the guest evangelist. A native of Louisiana, Tatum is a graduate of Baylor University. He earned both his master's and doctor's degree at Southwestern Seminary. For 24 years, he was pastor of Broadmoor Baptist Church, Shreveport, La. Other pastorates include churches in Austin, Canton and Hubbard. In addition, he has served several churches as interim pastor during the last few years.

As a writer, Tatum has contributed to numerous periodicals and has had sermons published in three books. He has a particular interest in missions and has traveled extensively in most areas of the world. He has been a guest speaker at state conventions, pastor's conferences, revivals and January Bible studies.

Luke Garrett, a former music associate at First Baptist Church, Dallas, will be ministering in music during Crestview Baptist Church's revival services.

Garrett attended UCLA, where he received the award First Prize Popular Vocalist. He has appeared on Pat Boone's "America Gospel Music" with Carol Lawrence and with Glen Campbell and Debby Boone at Dallas' Reunion Arena for the "Alive in '85" Broadcast.

He recently signed a long-term agreement with Home Sweet Home Records, a division of Word. He has entered into a publishing contract with Bug and Bear Music as well and is beginning work on what is to be the first of four albums.

The public is invited to attend the revival services.

Reagan designates day of prayer

SAN BERNARDINO, CALIF. — President Ronald Reagan has designated May 1 as the 1986 National Day of Prayer. An independent citizens group is urging Americans to become personally involved.

The group is especially asking Americans to "Take 5 at 12" — take at least five minutes at noon on May 1 — to offer their individual prayers of thanks and "That He may heal us where we need healing and guidance for our leaders in their decisions in these difficult time," said Mrs. Bill Bright, co-chairman of the National Day of Prayer Task Force.

Ministries represented on the National Prayer Committee and its task force include the Salvation Army, the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board, World Vision, Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship, Campus Crusade for Christ, Youth With a Mission, Evelyn Christenson Ministries, Change the World Ministries and Support for Action.

For further information, contact National Prayer Committee, P.O. Box 6826, San Bernardino, Calif., 92412, or call 714-882-9932.

We Need You!

It is our goal to bring the good news of Jesus to the City of Midland. This is the purpose of the evangelism ministry. Its functions include the organization and supervision of a program of visitation and personal evangelism. Come and help us reach out to the lost of our city.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Bellview joins 'Good News'

Bellview Baptist Church, 1710 N. Big Spring St., will be participating in the "Good News America, God Loves You" simultaneous revivals currently taking place across the United States by conducting its revival Monday through Thursday.

Evangelist Walter K. Ayers will be guest preacher for the week and Troy Stevenson, minister of music at Bellview, will direct the music. In addition to the 7:30 p.m. daily services, a noon luncheon will be held Monday through Thursday.

Ayers, a former Southwestern Conference football player, has in the past 28 years preached in more than 1,000 evangelistic crusades across the country. The Rev. Dr. W.A. Criswell, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Dallas, says, "Walter K. Ayers is the most gifted, colorful and dynamic evangelist in the United States today."

The revival begins at 10:50 a.m. Sunday. Prior to the 6:40 p.m. Sunday service, a film from the series "Turn Your Heart Home" will be shown.

A nursery will be provided. The pastor of Bellview, the Rev. G.A. Magee, invites the public to attend.

Greenwood hosts evangelist

Greenwood Baptist Church will be holding revival services Sunday through April 27. The Rev. James Puckett is the guest evangelist and Don Orr will be directing the music. Services begin at 7 p.m. nightly. The public is invited to attend.

Puckett is the pastor of First Baptist Church, McKinney. A native of Quitman, he received his education from Baylor University and Southern Baptist Seminary. Other pastorates include churches in San Antonio, Big Spring, Wortham and Troup. Puckett currently serves as a trustee at Dallas Baptist University and has traveled in the eastern Mediterranean, South America, Spain, and Alaska.

Don Orr, a native of Hot Springs, Ark., has served in the music ministry for 34 years. He and his wife, Violet, just recently retired as missionaries in Cali, Columbia. Orr, who received his education at Ouichita Baptist University, Southwestern Baptist Seminary, and TCU, was one of the first teachers at the International Baptist Seminary in Columbia. When in Columbia, he also directed music for the Billy Graham Crusades in South America.

Businessmen to meet

The Midland Chapter of Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International will hold its monthly dinner at 6:30 p.m. today in the Midland Hilton Hotel, corner of Wall Avenue and Loraine Street.

Featured speaker will be Larry K. Scoggin, manager of administration for HNG Oil Company in Midland. Prior to his employment with HNG, Scoggin worked for IBM Corp. where he was a member of the One Hundred Percent Club for eight years, Marketing Representative of the Year in 1977 for the Lubbock branch office and, in 1979, led the nation in copier sales for IBM.

Scoggin is also a member of the First Baptist Church, Dimmit. He says he accepted Jesus Christ as his personal savior when he was 17 and he credits a praying wife for his making Christ the center of his life in 1983.

Scoggin and his wife Sue have two daughters and are active members of Cornerstone Christian Fellowship, Midland.

Dinner is at 6:30 p.m. and the meeting at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Revival services slated

"Good News America" revival services will begin at Alamo Heights Baptist Church Sunday.

The messages for the revival will be presented by the Rev. Dr. Presnall H. Wood. As the "Baptist Standard" editor, Wood is well-known to Southern Baptists of Texas. He formerly served as pastor of Park Place Baptist Church, Houston and Crestview Baptist Church, Midland. "Prophets with Pens," a history of the "Baptist Standard," was authored by Wood.

Music for the revival services will be directed by Gara Stark, minister of music for Handley Baptist Church, Fort Worth. Stark formerly served with the First Baptist Church, Farmersville.

Services for the revival will continue through Thursday. Service time is 7 p.m. Special emphasis during the revival will be Spiritual Awakening Night, Sunday; Sunday School Night, Monday; Youth Encounter Night, Tuesday; Bring-Your-Friends Night, Wednesday; and Children's Time Night, Thursday.

The church's pastor, the Rev. J.E. Meeks, the church's staff and membership invite the public to attend.

Joint services offered

Several Baptist churches in Midland are working together to sponsor combined services this week beginning Monday. Alamo Heights Baptist, Fannin Terrace Baptist, Northwestern Baptist and Wilshire Park Baptist churches have scheduled noon services for Monday through Thursday at the Yucca Theater, 208 N. Colorado Ave.

The speakers are guest preachers of the churches that are holding simultaneous "Good News America" revivals that same week. The Rev. Presnall Wood, guest preacher at Alamo Heights Baptist will speak Monday. The Tuesday speaker is the Rev. Loren White, revival preacher at Fannin Terrace Baptist. The Wednesday message will be delivered by the Rev. Joe Srygley, preacher for the revival at Northwestern Baptist. The final message of the week will be brought on Thursday by the Rev. Kelly Green, guest preacher at Wilshire Park Baptist.

The public is invited to attend. Individuals are welcome to bring their lunches. The services are scheduled to end at 12:50 p.m. daily.

Kelview airs film series

Kelview Heights Baptist Church will present the film series "Building a Healthy Self-Concept." The series will be shown at 5:45 p.m. Sundays through May 25.

The series features Paul Meier and Frank Minirth of the Minirth-Meier Clinic. "Their many books, along with their national radio and television broadcasts have made available the expertise, experience and personality that marks them," said Jerry Berry, church spokesman. "Their use of integrated biblical and psychological approach to helping people reflects their committment to preventative counseling."

The series covers six stages of life that forms a person's self-concept. The first segment covers three basic needs of individuals, compensation for inferiority feelings, and five factors found in a healthy home.

The Rev. Frank Johnson, pastor, invites the public to attend. The church is located off N. Big Spring at Scharbauer Drive. A nursery will be provided.

UMC class invites singles

The Pathfinders Class of St. Luke's United Methodist Church invites all Midland area singles to visit Sunday.

Meeting are held at 3011 W. Kansas at 9:30 a.m. Sundays. Pathfinders offer Sunday school lessons based on biblical passages with present day applications toward singles.

Pathfinders also have several activities planned to provide its member with fellowship. Some class events include movie parties, a Spring rafting trip, participation in Midland's "Christmas in April," and various evening activities like Midland Community Theatre productions.

For more information, call Frank Stowers, 699-4828, Brad Fritz, 699-4351, or Grant Schwartzwelder, 682-1221.

Calvary hosts speaker

Curry

Calvary Baptist Church, 1001 S. Main St., is holding its "Good News America" revival services at 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday with guest speaker Bill Curry.

The services will address such questions as "Seeking peace in a time of stress? Looking for love in a time of war?"

The public is invited to attend.

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Some valuable business contacts arise from an accelerated social schedule. Special success will come for those in the fields of banking, fine arts and the media. Teachers will also receive recognition in the months ahead. Set realistic professional and personal goals in the near future. Your open-handed and kind-hearted generosity wins you many admirers. A raise or promotion is more than likely. Romance follows you wherever you go in this coming year. Enjoy!

CELEBRITY BIRTHDATES: Spanish artist Joan Miro, actors Ryan O'Neal, Harold Lloyd and Michael Brandon, bandleader Lionel Hampton and actress Nina Foch.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You experience extraordinary rapport with your loved ones today. Make the most of this wonderful opportunity. Learn to accept affection as well as give it. A parent-child relationship improves.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Money worries begin to ease. Diligent work and faith will put that pot of gold at the end of your rainbow. Enjoy the excitement of a fun-filled evening.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): When it comes to pursuing a romantic relationship do not let the confidence of a competitor put you at a disadvantage. Show determination and you can make your dreams come true. Be persistent!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Unexpected developments may try your patience. Seek the cooperation of others when cutting expenses. A serious talk with your family or a suitor will be productive. Make this a fun and romantic day.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Seek out-of-the-way shops when searching for bargains. Spend some time alone with your mate. You could use some quiet time alone to contemplate as well.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): A misplaced object suddenly reappears. Your stubborn attitude may alienate even your staunchest supporters. Bring family members closer together.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Look to your family heritage to provide some very important answers. A casual visit or small gift could sow the seeds for a romantic relationship.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Personal spending has to be checked in order to avoid tension in your relationship. Discuss differences with loved ones to clear the air. Romance may look more exciting than it turns out to be.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Carefully consider all options and possibilities before committing yourself to new financial responsibilities and burdens. Surround yourself with friends and partners who have a positive outlook on life.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Others look to you for assistance. Tensions are greatly relieved by the arrival of a good friend or a call from a distant relative. Rapport with family members is better than ever.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Unsettling conditions are present early in the day; they can be easily dealt with. End the confusion regarding the ownership of a possession. Romance moves into high gear because of something you do or say.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Youngsters will be suspicious if you are solicitous today. Lay all your cars on the table and talk frankly with them. A pet or child could brighten your day considerably.

Horowitz returns to Moscow stage for first time in 61 years

MOSCOW (AP) — Pianist Vladimir Horowitz returned to the Moscow stage Friday for the first time in 61 years and overwhelmed Soviet music lovers with a virtuoso display that left his audience weeping and cheering with joy.

And it was only a rehearsal.

Hundreds of officials and celebrities who had tickets and dozens and dozens of students and music lovers who didn't jammed the Great Hall of Moscow's conservatory to watch what was billed as an open rehearsal for Horowitz's first concert in Moscow on Sunday.

What they got was a two-hour performance; the hour-long program for Sunday, some clowning, and three encores that sent the 1,600 spectators wild.

"There are no words, no words, to describe this," beamed Boris Berlin, an 80-year-old piano teacher who remembers hearing Horowitz play before the pianist left his homeland in 1925.

Horowitz vowed never to return, but he agreed to come back for two concerts in Moscow and Leningrad after a U.S.-Soviet cultural exchange agreement was signed at the Geneva summit last November.

Ticket-holders could barely squeeze into the conservatory's entrance through the crowd. Then, music students and others who had chanted "pustite studenti!" (let the students in), exploded through the three doors of the main entrance, a human river the uniformed police on hand were unable to stop.

Jammed into the large balconies of the Great Hall, the audience roared "hurrah," as their 81-year-old idol walked on to the stage.

Because it was a rehearsal, there were a few hitches at first.

Horowitz's wife Wanda, the daughter of Arturo Toscanini, was unhappy with the position of the pianist's Steinway on the conservatory stage.

The instrument, shipped from Horowitz's New York apartment, was moved back.

Then, Horowitz seemed uncertain about the touch and tuning, and shot repeated inquiring looks at tuner Franz Mohr and Steinway's Richard Probst.

Both have come from New York for the current tour. They hovered reassuringly around Horowitz.

Finally, everything was right, photographers and television cameras were sent out of the hall, and the music began.

Horowitz opened, as he will on Sunday, with three sonatas by Scarlatti. Then Mozart's Sonata in D major and two Rachmaninov preludes.

By the time he got to Scriabin's Etudes in C sharp minor and D sharp minor, he had visibly warmed to his task. And the crowd was afire.

"This is a miracle," said violinist Viktor Feginov, who said he had studied with Horowitz's late sister, Regina, in the Ukrainian town of Kharkov. "After this concert, I can die happy."

• • •

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Steven Spielberg, director of "ET: The Extra-Terrestrial" and other sci-fi hits, beamed in and out of Israel without interview hounds even getting close during his two-week visit, but his wife, actress Amy Irving, was more accessible.

Ms. Irving, here to film the role of the miller's daughter in "Rumpelstiltskin," told the Jerusalem Post on Friday that she and Spielberg, whose last project was the Oscar-snubbed film "The Color Purple," preferred peace and quiet to Hollywood hoopla.

"We're not party-goers. We like staying home a lot and leading a quiet life," the Post quoted her as saying.

"Rumpelstiltskin" is a family affair. Irving's mother, Priscilla Pointer, a regular on CBS' "Dallas," has a role in the film, and Irving's brother David wrote the screenplay and is directing the movie.

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Actor-activist Ed Asner is lending his support to a U.S. congressman, warning Michigan voters not to let conservatives oust Rep. Howard Wolpe.

"I do not believe that we can afford to let this right-wing crowd send a good man like Howard Wolpe into political oblivion," Asner wrote in a fund-raising letter sent out by the Democratic congressman's re-election campaign.

Although the letter didn't name Janet McGregor, whom Wolpe defeated in 1984, Asner wrote that Wolpe probably will face the same "ultra right-wing candidate" this fall.

McGregor, a Republican who is expected to enter the race shortly, this week said her politics are right "down the line with President Reagan" and termed the fund-raising letter "four pages of name-calling."

• • •

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Chrysler Corp. Chairman and best-selling author Lee Iacocca got married in a ceremony so private that even the bride's sister didn't attend.

"They just decided not to have anyone there," Betty J. Clark-Pritchett said of Iacocca and her sister Peggy Johnson. "They thought if they invited a lot of people, it would get out of hand."

Ms. Johnson, 35, an advertising executive in New York, met Iacocca about 2½ years ago through a mutual friend. They became engaged in January 1985.

The wedding was Thursday at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York. Ms. Clark-Pritchett, a high school art teacher, said Friday she couldn't divulge the honeymoon destination, but said it was in the United States.

The couple plan to live at Iacocca's home in Detroit and also spend time at their New York apartment, Ms. Clark-Pritchett said.

WATCHES

Mr. Sears and Mr. Roebuck got together because of a classified ad!

In the late 1800's, Richard W. Sears had a pretty good business going selling watches and needed someone to handle his watch repairs. He placed a classified ad in the newspaper and Alvah C. Roebuck got the job. That's how the nation's biggest retailer got started... through a classified ad!

Horowitz returns to Moscow stage for first time in 61 years

MOSCOW (AP) — Pianist Vladimir Horowitz returned to the Moscow stage Friday for the first time in 61 years and overwhelmed Soviet music lovers with a virtuoso display that left his audience weeping and cheering with joy.

And it was only a rehearsal.

Hundreds of officials and celebrities who had tickets and dozens and dozens of students and music lovers who didn't jammed the Great Hall of Moscow's conservatory to watch what was billed as an open rehearsal for Horowitz's first concert in Moscow on Sunday.

What they got was a two-hour performance; the hour-long program for Sunday, some clowning, and three encores that sent the 1,600 spectators wild.

"There are no words, no words, to describe this," beamed Boris Berlin, an 80-year-old piano teacher who remembers hearing Horowitz play before the pianist left his homeland in 1925.

Horowitz vowed never to return, but he agreed to come back for two concerts in Moscow and Leningrad after a U.S.-Soviet cultural exchange agreement was signed at the Geneva summit last November.

Ticket-holders could barely squeeze into the conservatory's entrance through the crowd. Then, music students and others who had chanted "pustite studenti!" (let the students in), exploded through the three doors of the main entrance, a human river the uniformed police on hand were unable to stop.

Jammed into the large balconies of the Great Hall, the audience roared "hurrah," as their 81-year-old idol walked on to the stage.

Because it was a rehearsal, there were a few hitches at first.

Horowitz's wife Wanda, the daughter of Arturo Toscanini, was unhappy with the position of the pianist's Steinway on the conservatory stage.

The instrument, shipped from Horowitz's New York apartment, was moved back.

Then, Horowitz seemed uncertain about the touch and tuning, and shot repeated inquiring looks at tuner Franz Mohr and Steinway's Richard Probst.

Both have come from New York for the current tour. They hovered reassuringly around Horowitz.

Finally, everything was right, photographers and television cameras were sent out of the hall, and the music began.

Horowitz opened, as he will on Sunday, with three sonatas by Scarlatti. Then Mozart's Sonata in D major and two Rachmaninov preludes.

By the time he got to Scriabin's Etudes in C sharp minor and D sharp minor, he had visibly warmed to his task. And the crowd was afire.

"This is a miracle," said violinist Viktor Feginov, who said he had studied with Horowitz's late sister, Regina, in the Ukrainian town of Kharkov. "After this concert, I can die happy."

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Steven Spielberg, director of "ET: The Extra-Terrestrial" and other sci-fi hits, beamed in and out of Israel without interview hounds even getting close during his two-week visit, but his wife, actress Amy Irving, was more accessible.

Ms. Irving, here to film the role of the miller's daughter in "Rumpelstiltskin," told the Jerusalem Post on Friday that she and Spielberg, whose last project was the Oscar-snubbed film "The Color Purple," preferred peace and quiet to Hollywood hoopla.

"We're not party-goers. We like staying home a lot and leading a quiet life," the Post quoted her as saying.

"Rumpelstiltskin" is a family affair. Irving's mother, Priscilla Pointer, a regular on CBS' "Dallas," has a role in the film, and Irving's brother David wrote the screenplay and is directing the movie.

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Actor-activist Ed Asner is lending his support to a U.S. congressman, warning Michigan voters not to let conservatives oust Rep. Howard Wolpe.

"I do not believe that we can afford to let this right-wing crowd send a good man like Howard Wolpe into political oblivion," Asner wrote in a fund-raising letter sent out by the Democratic congressman's re-election campaign.

Although the letter didn't name Janet McGregor, whom Wolpe defeated in 1984, Asner wrote that Wolpe probably will face the same "ultra right-wing candidate" this fall.

McGregor, a Republican who is expected to enter the race shortly, this week said her politics are right "down the line with President Reagan" and termed the fund-raising letter "four pages of name-calling."

• • •

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Chrysler Corp. Chairman and best-selling author Lee Iacocca got married in a ceremony so private that even the bride's sister didn't attend.

"They just decided not to have anyone there," Betty J. Clark-Pritchett said of Iacocca and her sister Peggy Johnson. "They thought if they invited a lot of people, it would get out of hand."

Ms. Johnson, 35, an advertising executive in New York, met Iacocca about 2½ years ago through a mutual friend. They became engaged in January 1985.

The wedding was Thursday at St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York. Ms. Clark-Pritchett, a high school art teacher, said Friday she couldn't divulge the honeymoon destination, but said it was in the United States.

The couple plan to live at Iacocca's home in Detroit and also spend time at their New York apartment, Ms. Clark-Pritchett said.

LDS sponsors lecture about role of the spirit

Ludlow

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints will sponsor a lecture by Daniel H. Ludlow entitled "You Can't Take It With You; In Fact — You Can't Leave Without It!" from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Friday at the Midland Ward Building, 2101 Tarleton St.

"This lecture, also known as 'The Final Frontier: The Spirit,' is a thought-provoking presentation about the spirit," said a church spokesman. "Just what exactly is the spirit and what role does it play throughout our being? Dr. Ludlow will discuss the attributes of the spirit and fortify the principle of the eternal perspective of life."

Ludlow earned his bachelor's degree from Utah State University, where he was a student body president for two years. He then earned his master's degree from Indiana University and his doctorate degree from Columbia University, New York.

Ludlow has visited Israel many times and has lived there for more than two years.

Career-changing seminar offered at local church

Will Gobe will conduct a free career-changing seminar from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. today at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity, 1412 W. Illinois Ave., in the parish hall.

Gobe, who is from Minneapolis, Minn., is a former executive with Minneapolis Honeywell.

"Some years ago the Minneapolis-St. Paul area went through a recession and this group, which Gobe helped establish, rather spontaneously arose to assist those people going through the job-changing trauma," said the Rev. Allen Whitman, rector of Holy Trinity. "And, it's still going."

Career Co-op, as it is called in Minnesota, is a group of job seekers, career changers and experienced resource people who meet weekly to explore and share their skills, experience and ideas about finding or changing jobs.

Gobe calls the members of the group "intelligent amateurs," Whitman said.

"They wanted to form a support system and help people through the process of discovering what they could do as far as changes of vocation were concerned. They used as a textbook the book by Richard Nelson Boles 'What Color is Your Parachute?' The purpose of having Will Gobe down here is to train some of our people to work with persons going through this and to start the process for those going through it. He brings with him five years of background experience in this effort."

The Minnesota groups are ecumenical.

The seminar is free and open to the public. For more information call the church office, 683-4207.

SBC churches launch Good News America

Good News America is a nationwide effort of Southern Baptists to initiate a national revival. The Home Mission Board and Sunday School Board of Southern Baptists are coordinating this national effort which involves all 50 states and every Baptist Association in Texas.

Good News America events include the distribution of a special edition of the New Testament as a gift to people by Southern Baptist congregations; a publicity endeavor involving radio, television and newspaper; and simultaneous revivals being held in the state of Texas. Forty churches in Midland and Odessa Baptist Associations have Good News America revivals scheduled for April 20-27.

The Southern Baptist churches of Midland Baptist Association invite the people of Midland to attend their Good News America simultaneous revivals.

Midland churches involved are Alamo Heights Baptist, Bellview Baptist, Calvary Baptist, Crestview Baptist, Emmanuel Baptist, Fannin Terrace Baptist, First Baptist, Greenwood Baptist, Gethsemane Baptist, Northwestern Baptist, Primera Iglesia, West Kentucky Baptist, Wilshire Park Baptist, Travis Baptist and Templo La Hermosa.

Objections cloud future of Lutheran churches' plans for unity

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Objections raised by leaders of the Lutheran Church in America recently threw a cloud over plans for unifying three major Lutheran denominations into one, new church.

Coming near the end of a five-year planning process, the demurrers were seen as possibly scuttling or delaying it.

"We're not in as much agreement as we thought we were," Charles Austin, the LCA's information director, said of the sharpened differences that had emerged. He said they could derail the plan, or put it off.

The three denominations are scheduled to act on the proposals at concurrent conventions in late August, with a uniting constituting convention scheduled in May next year in Cleveland.

But after a 70-member joint commission in February completed work on the recommended constitution for the united church, major roadblocks were brought up by the biggest denomination in the project, the LCA.

Its interim governing body, a 33-member executive council, has backed a number of objections made by a meeting of synod bishops from across the country.

Theologian Elizabeth Bettenhausen of Boston University, a council member, said that as the plan now stands, "it would be a great mistake to proceed with the merger."

She said the assumption that the three denominations had been "united in essentials and thus could simply construct a new church to incorporate that unity" was false from the start.

Besides the LCA of 2.9 million members, the other denominations involved are the 2.3-million-member American Lutheran Church and the 111,000-member Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

Together, they total 5.3 million Lutherans, which would make them the third-largest body in U.S Protestantism, next to United Methodists and the largest body, the Southern Baptists.

The Rev. Franklin D. Fry of Summmit, N.J., told the LCA council that when that church's convention first launched the merger effort in 1982, he was "so full of joy, I sobbed at my table in gratitude."

But now, he said, unless the proposals are changed, "I would not be able to vote that we should accept this document as a basis for a new church. That's as hard a thing as I've had to say in my life."

The objections, and changes called for, drew a sharp rejoinder from the commission's chairman, the Rev. William A. Kinnison of Wittenberg University in Springfield, Ohio.

He told the council, of which he also is a member, that "we have an opportunity for unity, but we don't trust the people" planning it. He called the belated objections of synod bishops "a pathetic display of false leadership."

They "have given no vision for four years," he said.

However, Bishop Paul Erickson of Chicago, said he believed the bishops had tried previously to express their concerns, but felt their views in earlier stages of the planning had been ignored.

The council brushed off Kinnison's suggestion that the plan be endorsed, with changes sought later. The Rev. Robert E. Karsten of Columbus, Ohio, said it wasn't sensible to think "we should merge now and fix it later."

"At the very beginning we have to be as nearly as possible of one mind," he said.

The LCA's Presiding Bishop James R. Crumley Jr. says "it will be disastrous" if Lutherans don't forge closer unity, but it also would be "disastrous if the new church is not the strong, confessional church the LCA is today."

Major criticisms raised by the synod bishops, and seconded by the executive council, deal with how a local congregation relates to the broader church, the role of the ordained ministry and ecumenical relations.

The ALC, based in Minneapolis, puts more emphasis on congregational autonomy than does the New York-based LCA, which sees the whole church as interdependent with shared authority, and wants that aspect strengthened.

However the ALC holds that "the congregation is the source of authority for the church."

Lumberman's house may be city's trump card

By ROBERT KERR

TEXARKANA, Texas (AP) — It doesn't really matter whether or not old James Draughton pulled the ace of clubs out of the deck to build his castle on Pine Street. Regardless how he financed the place, he left Texarkana a trump card now ready to be played.

Legend has it that the 19th-century lumberman and drygoods dealer won a huge pot in a poker game here and decided to build a one-of-a-kind house with the winnings. He had the floor plan designed after the shape of the card that completed his hand — the ace of clubs.

Most local authorities now discount the story, though actually no one can prove things either way. The three-story house (most of the basement is actually above-ground) is listed on the National Register of Historic Places as the Ace of Clubs House. Locally it is also called the Moore House and the Draugon-Moore House.

Beyond all the legends and names, what matters today is simply that the magnificent Victorian house has endured. It has escaped the bulldozers that have claimed virtually all of Texarkana's most historic architecture. And the Texarkana Historical Society and Museum wants to keep it that way.

The museum — which calls it the Moore/Ace of Clubs House — has launched its biggest fund-raising effort ever to renovate and preserve the house. The museum was deeded the house by its last resident, Olivia Smith Moore, when she died last year.

"It's a diamond in the rough now, but this will be a real showplace," says Jack Nasits, the museum's new director of development. "I'm not much of a visionary but I can see this becoming a place people would travel hundreds of miles to see."

Society members and volunteers are out hustling up contributions. The museum wants to raise $100,000 to cover costs of the Moore House and to establish a firm financial base for the museum.

Nasits' position was created earlier this year and he was hired primarily for fundraising. "Ever since the museum was started in 1971, they have struggled to keep their head above water. They have had to just get by from one crisis to the next," he says.

"Whenever they needed money, they had to run out and raise it. The board of directors decided a more consistent approach was needed."

The Moore House will require quite a bit of painting and repairs. All the floors need to be refinished and resealed. The draperies must be replaced. The exterior is in basically good condition but has some sizable cracks in the stucco.

Once all the renovation and repair is completed, the museum hopes to open the house for tours by the end of this year. Even then, maintenance on the place will be expensive. Dallas Morning News writer Frank X. Tolbert — who called the house "one of the wonders of 19th century architecture" — once wrote that the sprawling edifice had "operational costs about like a small hotel."

However, before the museum does anything to the place, it must first begin the gargantuan task of sorting out the furnishings. "Not only did they give us the house," says Nasits, "they gave us everything in it. And I mean everything — the toilet paper, the linens, everything. Every nook and cranny and chest and closet is filled."

He's not exaggerating., A quick tour of the house reveals makeup still on the vanity, stacks and stacks of shoes still in their boxes, pictures on the walls, sheets on the beds, a child's electric football game atop a dresser, HBO guides by the TV and even laundry on the line. Several rooms are so full of boxes they can barely be entered.

The museum must catalog every item in the house and then determine what it wants to keep on display. "The rest will be disposed of, I imagine, in a gigantic yard sale," Nasits says.

The museum will select a particular period in time to be represented, and then bring in additional furnishings consistent with that era.

Draughon — whose name is also found spelled Draughn and Draughan — built the house in 1884. He may or may not have been the heavy gambler of legend, but he certainly was a man who stayed on the move.

His 15 years in Texarkana marked one of his longest stops anywhere, and while here he served as a mayor and a bank president. He had been born in Tennessee in 1843 and got his first job as a clerk in Dresden, Tenn., at 14.

Gramm-Rudman cuts will let parks' grass grow greener

By CHRISTOPHER CONNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the grass is shaggy this summer along Skyline Drive in Virginia, or the tunnel under the National Zoo seems dirtier, or the shingles are askew on roofs in Yellowstone National Park, or the poison ivy thicker on Assateague Island, vacationers will know whom to blame:

Gramm-Rudman.

Across America, the staffs of the 48 parks and 289 other monuments, battlefields, seashores, historic sites and other places run by the National Park Service are girding to accommodate a $26 million, 4.3 percent budget cut.

William Penn Mott Jr., the Park Service director, says his superintendents and rangers have taken pains to minimize the impact on tourists of the cuts triggered by the federal deficit-reduction law.

He says park visitors "will notice few visible signs of budgetary reductions," but his agency has compiled a 2-inch-thick binder for Congress cataloging the ways the parks are scrambling to absorb the budget cuts without disrupting services. And it warns of park closings next year if further cuts are triggered.

The parks will seek to minimize the impact of the budget cuts by postponing maintenance, buying less equipment and hiring less summer help instead of shutting campgrounds or leaving beaches unguarded.

But the task is made more difficult by the fact that a banner year is expected for America's parks and scenic attractions, spurred by cheaper gasoline, fears of traveling abroad and declining mortgage rates that have boosted families' disposable incomes.

Reservations are already up sharply at hotels and campgrounds in the system's crown jewels — Yellowstone, Yosemite, Grand Canyon and other world-famous parks. Indeed, the park service is also expecting a big influx of foreign tourists, lured by the cheaper dollar.

The mild winter weather produced a 41 percent jump in the number of visitors to Grand Canyon National Park in Arizona in the first three months of 1986 — 419,000 versus 294,000 in the first quarter of 1985.

Years ago, a Park Service director created a stir at a congressional hearing when he suggested closing the Washington Monument as a response to budget cuts.

The threat — never carried out — immediately passed into the folk lore of the Washington bureaucracy, and even today critics of federal spending accuse all sorts of agencies of conjuring up such highly visible cutbacks to save their budgets from attack.

The Park Service has no plans to close the Washington Monument, but it is asking Congress for permission to charge visitors a $1.50 entrance fee as part of an overall strategy to raise fees or start charging admission at most national parks. No action is imminent.

Denis Galvin, the service's deputy director for budget, said higher fees — such as the proposed $10 per car at Yosemite and Yellowstone instead of the current $3 and $2 respectively — would allow restoration in fiscal 1987 of the funds now lost to Gramm-Rudman.

Hiring of seasonal employees could be down as much as 20 percent, said spokesman Geroge Berklacy.

Bob Barbee, superintendent of Yellowstone National Park in Wyoming, wanted to close the Madison campgrounds — one of a dozen in the 2.2 million-acre park — to save $200,000, but that was ruled out by headquarters.

Instead, the Park Service will put off a re-roofing project, cut back on road maintenance, paint fewer center stripes and economize in other ways at Yellowstone.

Ben Clary, assistant superintendent of Yellowstone, said postponing maintenance can prove costly. If the roads get too worn, "instead of just overlaying them, you get into major rehabilitation work," he said.

At Grand Canyon National Park, rangers and rescue workers plan to spend 25 percent less time in the air in a helicopter. They also are considering getting rid of the dozen government mules who carry supplies up the gorges and relying instead on a commercial muler.

The park service spent $192,000 last year for 600 hours of flight in a contract helicopter, paying $322 an hour for the pilot and aircraft. This year the rate is up to $360 an hour for the helicopter, used for search-and-rescue, maintenance work, supplying the North Rim, fire patrols and other tasks.

Guadalupe Mountains National Park in Texas will postpone the purchase of a satellite television system. Headquarters is shuffling funds to keep a lifeguard on Malaquite Beach on Padre Island and to offer 19 tours a day instead of just nine at Lyndon B. Johnson's birthplace.

At Bandelier National Monument in New Mexico, which houses the ruins of the cliff houses of the 15th century Pueblo Indians, officials suggested cutting out a fire truck for half the season.

Books owe their shape to animals, man says

By GRAHAM HEATHCOTE

LONDON (AP) — Why are books rectangular and not perfect squares?

"Because animals are an oblong shape, with two legs at each end," says Christopher de Hamel, an expert in very old books.

"Books could be any shape, but the earliest books were written on vellum, a parchment made from the skins of calves, kids or lambs. Animal skins are rectangular so that however many times you fold one, the result is always a rectangle."

De Hamel is one of the world's leading authority on illuminated manuscripts, the very old books that were written before printing, and which often had miniature paintings and other decoration on their borders and around initial capital letters. When printing was developed in Europe in the 15th century, the rectangular shape was retained for paper.

He talked about the oddities and obscurities of printed matter in his cramped office with shelves of manuscript books centuries old.

There were two personal prayer books, known as books of hours, on his desk. "That one was made in Paris about 1415 and is worth $367,500," he said casually. "The other is early 16th century and is worth $7,350.

"The difference is in the quality of the paintings. There is quality in all works of art but it's hard to define: 'It's like a hippopotamus — you can't describe it, but you know it when you see it,' somebody once said."

To the shelves of tomes about ancient books in his office, the 35-year-old de Hamel now adds his own, "A History of Illuminated Manuscripts." His publishers say it's the first-ever general account of the subject, from gospel books for early missionaries to classical texts for humanist book collectors.

De Hamel carries his passport in his coat. As head of the department of Western manuscripts at Sotheby's auction house, he handles thousands of them every year and a phone call can be the start of a journey to get there first.

"Any manuscript before 1100 A.D. is unusual, but from the 13th century onward, books are surprisingly common," he said.

"Nobody wants to throw a book away and more books survive from the Middle Ages than any other artifacts. Owners tended to write their names in them so we often know who they belonged to."

De Hamel, born in England, first became interested in the subject when he was a schoolboy in Dunedin, New Zealand, and saw framed manuscript leaves in the local library.

"I'm shocked to think of it now, but the library let me handle all their small collection of medieval manuscripts and even take them home," he recalled.

"Their sheer antiquity appealed to me, the fact that they had survived. At 14 or 15, to get my hands on a leaf written by a monk or a scribe hundreds of years ago seemed a tremendous thing."

He cataloged all New Zealand's medieval manuscripts by the time he was 19 and wrote his doctoral thesis at Oxford University on paleography, the study of ancient writing.

The history of illuminated manuscripts ends soon after the invention of printing in Europe in the 1450s, which coincides with the end of the Middle Ages. The beginning is more vague.

Appearance on '60 Minutes' raises firms' stock, study says

DENTON (AP) — Although most businessmen shudder at the prospect of falling under the scrutiny of television's "60 Minutes" crew, a new study suggests an appearance on the show is good news for stock values.

In the study, three North Texas State University finance professors looked at 13 companies that were the subject of "60 Minutes" segments. The companies' stock value rose an average of 12 percent over normal increases during a 15-day period after the broadcasts, according to the study conducted by Sharon Garrison, Wallace Davidson and P.R. Chandrasekaran.

"Our gut reaction was that the effect would be negative — that if Mike Wallace rakes you over the coals, stock would go down," Davidson said. "But it didn't, it went up."

Researchers said the increase may be due to the fact that the exposure, whether positive or negative, results in free advertising for the company. The segments also give companies a chance to air their side of the issue, Chandrasekaran said.

"This may be the only chance the companies have gotten, the only national attention to their side of the issue. So it may have reduced the uncertainties about the realities of the problem," he said.

Don Hewitt, executive producer of the CBS-TV program, said in a telephone interview from New York that he was not surprised by the study's findings.

"I think it all goes back to what Joseph Pulitzer said, 'I don't care what you say about me, just spell my name right.'"

The professors used transcripts of the programs from 1981 to 1983, choosing only the 13 public corporations with stock on the New York or American stock exchanges.

Only one of the "60 Minutes" broadcasts in the study, "The Re-selling of Tylenol," was favorable to the company, according to the researchers. The December 1982 segment examined Johnson & Johnson's efforts to re-market Tylenol after a tampering scare.

For the study, the researchers established a stock portfolio for the 13 companies, compiled stock market prices and other financial data and fed it into a computer.

'Money Pit' bests 'Police Academy 3'

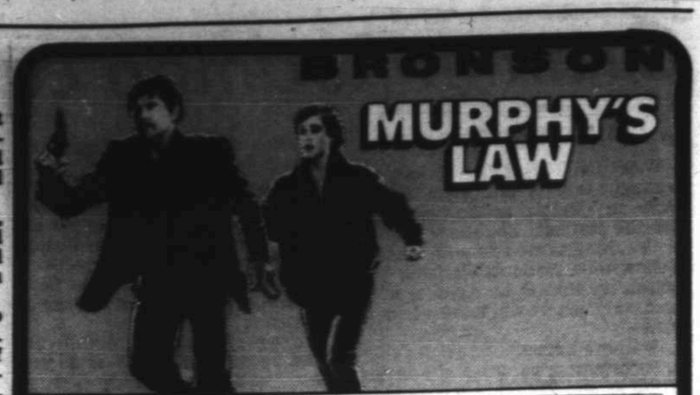

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The Money Pit" ousted "Police Academy 3" from the top spot at the box office during the weekend, which saw good business for three newcomers.

"The Money Pit" from Universal, starring Tom Hanks and Shelley Long, earned $3.6 million at 1,180 theaters nationwide to claim the top spot for the first time. During its three weeks out, it has earned $18.8 million.

"Police Academy 3" earned an additional $3.5 million for Warner Bros. at 1,715 theaters and boosted its four-week gross to $30.7 million.

"Band of the Hand," from Tri-Star, grossed $2.2 million to take the No. 3 post as it debuted at 930 theaters. "Band of the Hand," starring Stephen Lang and Michael Carmine, is the story of a group of renegades who are trained at a detention center in the Everglades to clean up the streets of Miami.

Paramount's "Gung Ho" dropped a notch but hung on to claim fourth place in the box office scramble, earning $2 million at 1,090 theaters and boosting its four-week average to $26.5 million.

THE SHORTSTOP JEFF SCHAEFFER DEFENSIVE KEY
The shortstop is the key to the defense. Often he is the team captain. And whether he is or not, he is generally the "holler guy" in the infield, the man the club depends on to keep the defense on its toes.
He acts as relay man on most throws from center or left-center field. He has to "go back" often for short fly balls and chase pop flies to the third baseline and beyond. He fields everything he can reach, from the balls hit over the pitcher's mound, to those that may get by the third baseman.
Obviously the shortstop needs a strong arm, for he often has to fire the ball from deep in the hole near third base or relay it home from the outfield. He should be in the habit of making his throws overhand, with lots of power.

Nelson to perform at celebration

HOUSTON (AP) — State Parks and Wildlife Department officials were bracing for some 150,000 people this weekend as Texas formally celebrates its Sesquicentennial at the San Jacinto Battleground State Park — the site where Texans gained their independence in 1836.

In addition, more than 50 performers, including Willie Nelson, Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers and B.J. Thomas will help Texas celebrate its birthday with two days of music, fireworks and reminiscing.

The celebration commemorating Gen. Sam Houston's victory over the Mexican army begins Sunday. The following day, formal ceremonies will marked with appearances by Vice President George Bush and Gov. Mark White.

"We're throroughly convinced it will be a celebration for everyone — the experience of a lifetime," William Wheless III, vice chairman of the Parks and Wildlife Commission, said Friday.

Along with musical performances from country western, rhythm and blues, rock 'n' roll, mariachi, bluegrass and Latin groups, other entertainment includes puppet shows, "Learning about Texas" demonstrations for children and living history dramas about Texas frontier life. Most of the entertainers are donating their services or are accepting payment only for expenses, Parks and Wildlife spokesman David Cottom said.

Sunday's events include an 11 a.m. service commemorating black heroes of the Texas Revolution, and a 2 p.m. ceremony by the Sons and Daughters of the Republic of Texas and the Knights and Descendants of San Jacinto. At 5:15 p.m., Hispanic heritage in Texas will be remembered at the park.

Nelson and the Houston Symphony Orchestra will combine for the Sunday night concert.

On Monday, Bush and White will appear at the ceremonies beginning at 4 p.m., when cannonades, anthems, historical flags and drum rolls will sound tributes to Texas heroes. At 8 p.m., the sky above the monument will blaze with a "Star of Light" fireworks show. Simultaneous fireworks shows were planned for Austin, Corpus Christi, Waco, Dallas, Lubbock, El Paso, Longview, Beaumont and Brownsville.

The Parks and Wildlife Department said the 10 fireworks displays, "viewed from the heavens, should simulate a huge star across the Lone Star State."

No parking will be available at the San Jacinto Battleground Park during the two-day celebration. Instead, Houston Metropolitan Transit Authority and private bus companies will take people from four Houston-area locations both days to the battleground park.

The free shuttle service for the 30- to 45-minute ride was beginning at 7:30 a.m. and end following the last event each day. Buses were running from the Astrodome and from three Pasadena sites — San Jacinto College, Memorial Stadium and Gilley's Club.

"Parking is our biggest problem," Cottom said. "Transportation for this is a bigger problem than the (Los Angeles) Olympics. They had on-site parking."

He said Metro officials worried about handling the crowds went to Los Angeles to study the transportation arrangements made during the Olympics in 1984.

Like the Olympics, security also is a consideration, Cottom said. Some 1,000 security people, including local and state police and State Department agents, will be in the park area in plainclothes and uniforms, Cottom said.

"We are well-prepared to handle any kind of incident — from terrorism to lack of electrical power," he said.

Representatives from at least 70 foreign countries will be attend the Monday ceremonies.

All events at the park are free except rides on the monument elevators and tours of the Battleship Texas and sailing ship "Elissa."

A young girl peeks out from between a policeman and another rescuer Friday after she was pulled from the muddy waters of a bayou in downtown Houston. A woman threw six of her seven children in the water and ran away. All six were saved by city worker Chris Sweet and rescue divers. One of the children later died.

Woman tosses children into Houston bayou

HOUSTON (AP) — A woman threw her seven children into a muddy bayou near police headquarters Friday, killing one and critically injuring another who was under water for as long as 40 minutes before being rescued, authorities said.

"One of the children managed to run to the front desk of the Houston police station right across the street," said police Lt. R.H. Bielstein. "Apparently a security guard and a public works employee rescued some of the children."

The children ranged in age from 1 to 11; four were hospitalized and two were with police, he said. The 29-year-old woman, whom police did not identify, was being questioned, officials said.

Two children, aged 4 and 7, who were recovered by police divers in Buffalo Bayou, had been under water about 30 to 40 minutes, Bielstein said.

The 4-year-old, a girl, died about 7:30 p.m., St. Joseph Hospital spokeswoman Debbie Purrazzella said.

"The 7-year-old, a boy, was moved from the emergency room to the intensive care unit," Ms. Purrazzella said.

The three other injured children, all girls, were in fair condition at Ben Taub Hospital.

"They're all talking," Sandy Foy, a hospital emergency room spokeswoman said. "They're cool."

"I saw one little boy screaming," said Chris Sweet, a city public works computer programmer. Sweet was walking by the bayou and jumped into the water when he realized what was happening.

"The struggling was taking place," Sweet said. "I knew something was up. I saw the mom actually physically throw the kid into the water. At that point, I knew it was time to get some help or help out.

"They were just laying in the water. A few were face down. When I jumped into the water, the ones who were face down I tried to flip over."

The security guard, Gilbert Garza, said he helped pull four of the children to safety.

An officer who did not want his name used said the woman told officers she did not want to see her children living in this world.

"Her plan was to push her children into the bayou and she was going to jump off somewhere," the officer said. "The oldest child realized what was happening and started runing away from her.

"And that's when she left also and apparently her conscience got to her and came over to the police station and said, 'Get me some help,'" he said.

Bielstein said the incident "appears tobe the result of a lot of domestic violence. The woman speaks no English and she had no where to turn with her problems."

Bielstein said police had not been able to contact the Hispanic woman's husband, who was believed to be unemployed.

Court rules defendant not denied speedy trial

From Staff Reports

A Midland man accused of allowing an animal to run loose has not been denied the right to a speedy trial, ruled Municipal Court Judge James Brazell Friday.

On Monday Clifford Hardwick, attorney for Mike Nickell, 4618 Cherokee Drive, asked Brazell to find that Nickell's right to a speedy trail had been violated.

Nickell is charged with a Class C misdemeanor for allowing a pet wolf to roam at large. The charge came in November after the animal bit 18-month-old April Lamb in an October incident.

Assistant city attorney David Clyde said Nickell's trial has officially only been delayed by seven days, not the 60 days needed under the speedy trial act. The seven-day delay came in January when a witness had to leave because of an illness in the family, Clyde said.

No trial date has been set.

Nickell is serving a five-year probation for a 1983 felony conviction. He was found guilty of shooting a Barbado sheep from a helicopter.

If Nickell is convicted of the city charge, he may be found in violation of his probation, Clyde said.

St. Ann's student wins poster contest

From Staff Reports

Midland Memorial Hospital recently sponsored a city-wide nutrition poster contest for students in the third grade. Each school chose the two top posters and submitted them to the hospital for final judging based on the theme "good nutrition: feel the difference."

Judges for the event were Joseph Baressi, superintendent of the Midland Independent School District; Stan Jacobs, art instructor at Midland College and Miriam Curry, registered dietician with the Associated Milk Producers.

First place was awarded to Sunny Howard of St. Ann's School. Second place went to Casey Vickery of Lamar, third place to Sarah Mullin of St. Ann's School and an honorable mention to Kristen Dunn of Quanah Parker.

A reception was given for all the participants in the courtyard of the hospital. The posters are currently on display at MMH.

Jaycees to sponsor baby contest

From Staff Reports

Midland Jaycees is sponsoring a Pretty Baby Contest from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. today at Midland Park Mall. The event will be held near Beall's.

The winner will be determined by the amount of money people donate for that infant. All money will be donated to St. Jude's Children's Hospital.

A 17 year old Midland Tradition occurs again next Sunday, April 27th, when the doors of some of the lovliest, most interesting homes in the city are opened for the Parade of Homes, sponsored by the Midland Junior Women's Club.
As a 20 year REALTOR, we have hosted hundreds of open houses, but none as successfully as a few years ago when we were honored to open our own home for the Parade of Homes tour. Initially we had misgivings; would anyone really want to see our home? Were we planning a party and no one would come? But the delightful, efficient member's of the Junior Women's Club handled everything like a dream! They arrived with huge baskets of flowers, put down runners to protect our carpet, suggested traffic patterns, sent us off to enjoy a carefree afternoon, then graciously escorted over 400 people through our home. Now that's an "Open House"
We hope you won't miss this year's tour and the opportunity to support some very worthy organizations Remember, Tickets will not be sold at the doors so call within the next very few days for yours.
