FROM HAIL, HEAVY RAINS

Farms In Circle Area Receive Heavy Damage

Mother Nature took vengeance on crops in the area last Thursday dumping from three to six inches of rain on some farms and dropping hail, ranging from marble size to golf ball size, on small unprotected crops.

Most of the damage was north of Olton and Circle, with several farmers reporting hail for at least an hour, off and on.

Carroll Brown, who farms the Brent Burrow farm north of Circle, said about three inches of rain fell and his cotton was completely wiped out by it.

He has replanted into soybeans and he said he would leave his maize as he thought it was going to be okay.

Four miles north and four west of town on the farm which Jack Thomas works, three inches of rain also fell and heavy hail damage was reported on all crops. However, he stated he thought his maize was "going to make it, but I have planted soybeans where I did have cotton."

Leo Smith said his cotton crop on three places north of town was a complete loss. His cucumber crop was also completely wiped out. He farms one place five miles north and two miles east, another three miles north and one west and another two north and three west of town, where he has now planted soybeans instead of cotton. His maize crops were damaged by it.

A. C. Light, who farms north of town has had to replant about 100 acres of cotton into soybeans, following Thursday night's weather rampage. One place close to Circle had from four to six inches of rain they were told.

The Lights, who also farm at Sunray, had been informed of a tornado at their place there and were in Sunray when the stormy weather took their crops Thursday night.

At the Aubrey Smyth farm close to Running Water Draw, there was hail and about three inches of rain. The cotton and soybeans were protected by the rain which preceded the hail, therefore Smyth said he would not be planting cotton over.

Hail was reported from marble size and very fine grain up to hen egg size at the Smyth farm.

Owen Jones lost about 40 acres of cotton in the storm and stated that his soybeans were just coming up that he had planted and didn't know if they were going to survive or not. He would just have to wait and see.

Jack Snider reported golf ball size hail at his place north of Circle, with a complete loss of his cotton crop and about three-quarters of his wheat crop destroyed. He had begun wheat harvest earlier in the week. He said he didn't think his maize was hurt and he was going to leave it and see if it would come out of it.

Two farmers reported hail damage west of the Valley View community. Baseball size hail was reported at the Youngquist farm and large hail fell at the D. L. Harmon farm.

Both said the rain that fell prior to the hail is the only thing that saved their small crops of soybeans, which they had planted following an earlier hail.

Others in the area reporting heavy hail damage were Vernon Britton, V. O. Harrod, O. W. Tooker and Ernest Jones.

INVESTIGATED SIX MISHAPS DURING MAY

Texas Highway Patrol investigated six accidents on rural highways in Lamb County during the month of May, according to Sergeant Thurman Keffer, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in two persons injured and an estimated property damage of $36,550.00.

The rural accident summary for this county during the first five months of 1967 shows a total of 36 accidents resulting in three persons killed, 11 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $53,820.00.

The vacation season is now in full swing. This means more traffic and many drivers going for long hours without sleep.

In many areas harvest is in progress which means slow-moving vehicles. If you are traveling this summer, allow plenty of time for your trip, and rest often.

Kerry Don Wheeler, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Wheeler, who suffered injuries in a fall at Palo Duro Canyon recently is still confined to the Mule-shoe Hospital.

Directors Name Polk New Chamber Manager

Decision Made At Tuesday Meeting

Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture directors named Charles Polk as manager of the organization at a Wednesday morning meeting.

Polk was one of two applicants for the job, and took over his new duties as soon as the vote was taken. Directors voted unanimously to install Polk as manager.

Ray Schultz, membership drive chairman for the chamber, also told the group that the C-CA should now have a monthly income of about $600. Previously the group had a monthly income of $360. Recent membership additions and a raise in dues for some members were reasons given for the increase.

Also present at the meeting was Lee Dent, manager of the Hale Center Chamber of Commerce.

Dent discussed the job of C-CA manager and its duties. He stressed the need for active participation of all businesses in a town in chamber of commerce work in order to make such an organization effective.

Dent said the biggest job for a chamber in a town the size of Olton or Hale Center was, "Not taking trade away from other towns, but promoting local businesses so that local people shop at home."

Dent also commented on the outlook for the small town. "Towns this size are in much better shape than many persons are saying. More and more persons are living in the small town and driving to a larger town to work, rather than living in the large town," he said.

Dent said this showed that many persons would rather live in a town not so large and that these persons evidently thought there were advantages in the small town, or they would live where they worked.

The board also voted unanimously to relieve C-CA secretary, Mrs. Orian (Edisy) Hackler, of her duties, saying they felt Polk would be able to handle the office duties now done by Mrs. Hackler.

Olton Teacher Attends Institute

Mrs. Jon (Peggy) Scott, Olton high school teacher, is attending the second Institute on the Hispanic-American Southwest being held at Southern Methodist University through July 14.

Purpose of the institute is to give intensive training in the history of the Southwest to a selected number of junior and senior high school teachers.

Thirty-two teachers from six southwestern states were chosen from more than 200 applications received, according to Dr. Charles R. Ritcheson, chairman of the SMU Department of History and director of the Institute.

"One of the prime objectives of the program," Dr. Ritcheson said, "is to convey to students the concept of a fusion of Latin American and Anglo-American cultures."

Other objectives are to bring the student of Latin American descent more completely into the mainstream of American life, and to strengthen the basis for a true merging of the two civilizations.

4-H Playday Is Slated

In the other events buckles will be given to first place winners and ribbons to others who place.

School Tax Rate Same As Last Year

The Olton School District tax rate for the coming year will remain the same as it was the past school year.

School trustees set the rate at $1.98 per $100 of evaluation at a special meeting of the board Tuesday night.

Supt. Ray Schultz said local district costs would go up during 1967-68, but that money held in surplus in both local maintenance and interest and sinking funds can be used to stall a tax raise for at least a year.

In other moves, the board gave the go-ahead for paving the high school parking lot and accepted a bid on one of three school buses for sale.

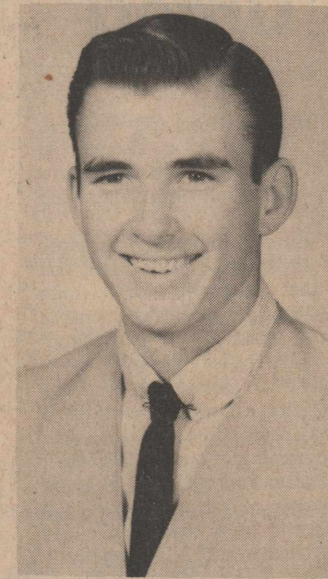

Board members decided to let High Plains Pavers of Plainview do the job this summer while the company is carrying out the city street paving job.

The parking lot, west of the high school auditorium and extending around to north of the band hall, will receive five inches of caliche base and a two-course oil penetration rolled into the caliche.

Approximate cost of the paving was set at $5,299.50.

In other action, the board accepted a bid from Bob Coen of Olton on a 1962 Dodge school bus. Coen bid $226.70.

Another bid on a 1961 Chevrolet bus by Clarence Carpenter of El Paso was rejected. Board members decided to keep the second bus for use as a spare.

Conservation Action Urged

A conservation official of the American Petroleum Institute, speaking for the oil industry, strongly endorsed President Johnson's call for a stepped-up program of federal and industry research to control air pollution. The official, P. N. Gammagard, vice-president of conservation and manufacturing for the Institute, called attention to the industry's own expanded efforts in the field of air conservation and called for greater federal research on the long-term, low-dosage effects of pollution on health.

At the present time, the API has a three-year, $1.5 million research project underway in this area involving various concentrations and combinations of pollutants. He also noted, the oil companies are seeking an economic breakthrough in the art of removing sulphur from petroleum fuels before they are burned.

However, in testifying on current legislation, Gammagard expressed misgivings concerning provisions of the proposed Air Quality Act of 1967 which would place wide discretionary powers in the hands of the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. He expressed opposition to a section of the bill that would empower the Secretary to set nationwide emission standards for selected industries.

Because it "runs completely counter to the opinion of most experts -- and the express intent of the Congress in the Clean Air Act of 1963 -- that air pollution control be the primary responsibility of state and local government." He also opposed a section of the bill that "... would place complete control of regional air pollution matters in the hands of appointed bodies responsible neither to the Congress nor to the states."

Successful pollution control, in the years to come, will involve moving ahead on a broad front. A pattern of action is clearly discernible in this movement. It embraces a degree of cooperative action between industry and all levels of government that is unprecedented. It would be a disservice to the nation to enact laws that would tend to disrupt this developing pattern of cooperative action to lick problems of air pollution.

BY AMY ADAMS

"Alateen"... And My Deepest Sympathy

Dear Amy:

We would like to know why people drink beer? It only causes trouble! There are fights at our house all the time. Can't they make a law that no beer is to be sold? Our mothers are the greatest in the world, and we are sick of seeing them get the heck knocked out of them.

What can we do?

Beer Haters

People (your fathers) drink beer because they find it an appetizing and stimulating beverage. A social drinker limits himself to one or two. An excessive drinker knows no limit, therefore he causes damage to himself (mental and physical) and to his family.

Your fathers need encouragement and help to want to stop drinking and Alcoholics Anonymous to keep them on the wagon. Suggest to your mothers to get the help of your family doctor and clergyman to talk some sense into them.

For you and other young people who live with an alcoholic parent, a national organization is in existence called "Operation Alateen". Write them at P.O. Box 182, Madison Square Station, New York, New York.

There are local chapters everywhere to help teen-agers like yourselves to live with and to understand an alcoholic parent.

Dear Amy:

Would it be proper for a First Communicant to open cards containing money in front of all the guests at a sit-down dinner.

I. S.

Dear I. S.: It is improper to open cash gifts or to display them in front of your other guests at any time.

These gifts are opened in the privacy of your home... and "Thank You" notes sent to all those who were kind enough to remember the First Communicant.

Dear Amy:

Now that the weather is nice and the days are longer, why don't parents give their children some advice on where and how to play outdoors? We live next door to one family whose child and his friends are all over our lawn.

They throw paper, garbage, toys all over, throw stones at the windows and tease our dog something terrible.

They have their own yards but having no respect for others, they are ruining our property. This woman has been told about this but does nothing about it. In her eyes, the kids are doing nothing wrong, but I have heard her call down other children if they do anything to her property.

You can't imagine how terrible it is living next to someone who has no respect or consideration for her neighbors.

Mrs. G. E.

Dear Mrs. G. E.: Your letter along with many others arrive in droves on my desk at the first sign of spring and continue until the first frost.

I personally suggest that every parent of young children make a genuine effort to keep their children in their own backyard where they belong. Besides being a nuisance to others, you can be held liable for the damages that your tykes might do to the neighboring properties. So let's get together and refrain from causing hard feelings on both sides of the fence.

PERSONAL TO "The Other Woman" (Newark, N. J.):

A man who professes his undying love for another but continues to live with his wife is the worst kind of liar. If there was a speck of truth in what he says, he would have instituted divorce proceedings to hasten the day to culminate your relationship in marriage.

Now, if you want to continue this illicit relationship, YOU are the one who needs sympathy... not he.

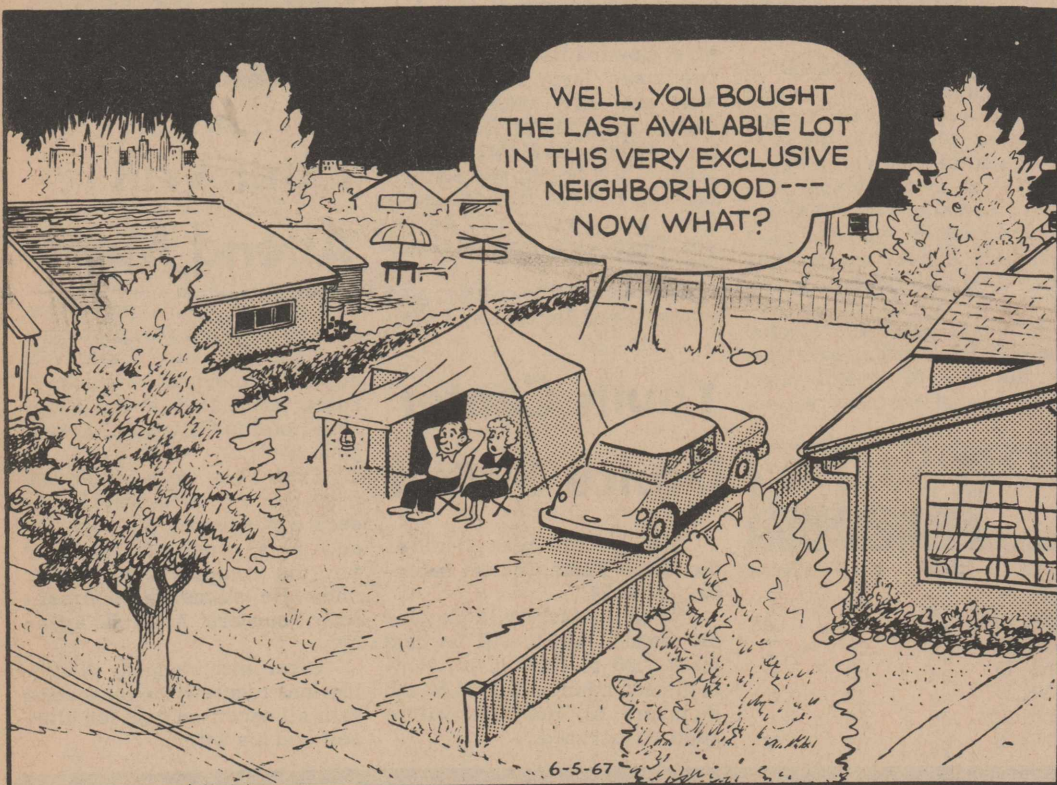

PERSONAL TO C. P.:

Personally, I think you and your sister are fortunate to have parents who are willing to deny themselves monetary pleasures to assure you girls a pleasant and creative summer at camp. Now, if you have nothing more to belly-ache about, count your blessings!

WHAT OUR READERS THINK

Babe Ruth Tourney Upcoming

Saturday June 17, 1967

We have just left the meeting with representatives of District #1 Babe Ruth League Baseball.

They met in Olton this morning to look over the playing field and facilities that we have to offer for the 1967 Babe Ruth League District Tournament which is to be held beginning July 10.

From their reactions and comments we gathered that they were rather impressed that OLTON could have things like this. This makes me personally feel rather proud because we had team representatives from Pampa, Dumas, Canyon and Plainview here looking things over. Pampa is having the State Tournament beginning the week following the District Tournament in Olton so I know that they have an exceptional place in Pampa for such as this.

We are going to have the tournament here in Olton.

It is going to take a great deal of work and time on the part of some of our people but we believe it would be worth just a little more effort for an event such as this. If there are those who want to help we would greatly appreciate having you. We need some people to go to these other towns to sell ads, as we are making a program in which each team will have their rosters and each town will have their share of the advertising for this program. The extra money derived from this will go to pay expenses for the tournament.

Also, the winning team here goes to the State Tournament at Pampa the next week with $300 from us.

You are asking is it really worth it. Let me tell you, to those who spend so much time at the Baseball Parks during this period of about six or seven weeks each year and watch those little fellows form the PEE WEE boys on through the Little League and Babe Ruth League think so.

Ask the officers who run around over town at night during this time of the year and see what they think. Talk to Dr. Dudley Moore who is Director of this Babe Ruth District. Ask Al Gardner who is District Director for the Little League, they both will tell you that it is, and always will be, a program for the boys and not the parents, which for some reason or another is not the way that too many of our people think.

Knowing that this Babe Ruth Tournament is going to take a lot of work and time, I feel that we owe this much to our boys. They work hard and this tournament is only going to come our way perhaps every seven or eight years. It is to be the high light of an idea that has been running around in our heads for the past three years. We are going to need the people of OLTON, the people of the communities of Halfway and Earth, the various organizations of Olton as well as the CITY OF OLTON in order to carry on this in a successful manner.

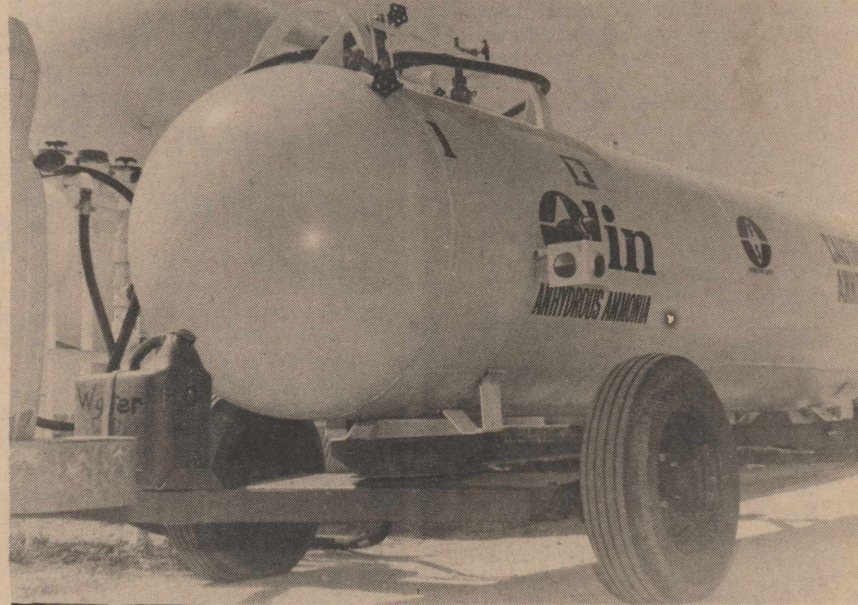

We wish to take this means of thanking each of you for the time and money that you have given us in the past to make the program what it is today and ask each of you for your continued support for the future and especially for the immediate future which is the tournament.

REMEMBER the date of the tournament is July 10 through the 14th.

Sincerely,
Gene Trotter,
President, Baseball Association

The Research Committee of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., is recommending that the 23-county cotton producer organization in 1967 provide grants-in-aid totaling $32,200 to help carry out 12 research projects on High Plains Cotton production, according to Don Jones, committee chairman.

The committee's recommendations already have been approved by PGC's Finance Committee and will be considered later this month by the organization's full 48-man board.

The Research Committee will recommend that a major portion of the funds, $23,800, be spent on the development and evaluation of improved varieties and strains of cotton adapted to High Plains conditions and on cotton disease and weed control research.

Other studies the committee felt should get financial help include conservation and utilization of rainfall and irrigation water, various methods of modifying the cotton plant for adaptation to the low temperatures sometimes prevailing on the Plains, soil fertility and the influence of planting designs and climatic conditions on cotton fiber development.

Established research institutions sharing in the grants will be the South Plains Research and Extension Center at Lubbock, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Bushland, the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway and Texas Technological College.

The $32,200 total to be spent by PGC on cotton production research in 1967 compares with $26,250 budgeted for grants last year.

Jones said "Though it is felt by the committee that adequate research is no less important to producers now than in previous years, and that in fact there may now be more urgency for research in specific areas, the sharp cut in acreage and production has substantially reduced available funds."

"Accordingly, we are recommending approximately a nine per cent reduction in the budget for agricultural research. But we have thoroughly evaluated each individual project in order to make cuts where they would least affect the overall research program."

Total funds spent by PGC on cotton production research since 1956 when it was formed now come to $301,150 and Jones said the development of new varieties and improved cultural practices since that time have more than justified the expenditure.

He pointed out that every dollar of PGC grants attracts some three or four dollars from other sources, greatly enhancing the benefits received by PGC members.

Ed Dean, PGC Field Service Director, commented that "The PGC Board has always recognized that deciding which of the many requests for research grants--in-aid should be honored is a job requiring much time and study, and consequently no significant changes are expected to be made in the Research Committee's recommendations."

Weather conditions this year have brought cotton producers in many areas of the Plains up to the first week in June without a stand of cotton.

Some areas without irrigation water still haven't had enough moisture to plant. Others have gotten a stand only to see it wiped out by hail or other turbulent weather.

To some extent in both instances but particularly on irrigated farms, producers are faced with deciding whether it will be more profitable to plant for a late cotton crop or revert to the generally less profitable, but faster maturing, soybeans.

The current farm program provides that farmers unable to get and keep a stand of cotton early enough to allow reasonable expectations of harvesting a crop can plant cotton acreage to non-allotment crops, including soybeans, and still get both price support and acreage diversion payments as if cotton had been planted.

Determining which of the two crops will be most profitable requires taking into consideration a number of factors and relating each of these to specific area and individual farm conditions.

The date after which producers will be permitted to abandon cotton is set by county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service committees and varies from one location to another. But in every case it is necessary to secure prior ASCS approval before planting soybeans if cotton payments are not to be lost.

Some cotton leaders have expressed concern that too many producers will base decisions on conditions which prevailed in 1966 rather than on "normal" conditions.

They point out that the heavy rains and cool weather in August and September which was a boon to soybeans and a setback for cotton in 1966 is far from normal. The same is true for the mid-October freeze so disastrous to last year's cotton crop.

Soybeans, given a normal hot, dry summer will require at least two and possibly three waterings. On the other hand June cotton, from both a yield and quality standpoint, would need only one irrigation at most. Of soybean prices this year, the Kiplinger Agricultural Letter says "... as for the 1967 crop, prices may rest right on the support rate of $2.50 ... if farmers produce the official goal of 1 billion bushels."

And there is now an increasing possibility that soybean acreage will be higher this year than was expected, making a soybean "surplus" possible for the first time.

Donald A. Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., recently said "We are certainly in no position to tell farmers what to plant. Each farmer will have to weigh the advantages and disadvantages of each crop, check with County Agents and others, then make up his mind on which offers the greatest possibilities."

"But of course we do hope all producers will look past the abnormal situation in 1966 before they make the final decision."

Gives Tips On Foods

Summertime finds people enjoying the outdoors with picnics, camping and fishing trips. A picnic would still be a picnic without ants -- but it just wouldn't be the same without some kind of beans; there is no limit to the number of tempting dishes you can prepare with the varieties of beans.

Be careful with the way you cook those dried beans says Lady Clare Phillips. They may look like they are pretty tough, but when it comes to retaining the nutrition and tasty flavor of these budget boosters, treat them as you would any other vegetable. Don't boil them too quickly or too long.

Each nugget of concentrated food value will keep its flavor better if you boil it gently without stirring. Rigorous boiling or stirring can break the skin and let some of the natural vitamins escape.

Here's a short-cut in soaking beans that you will want to try. Boil three cups of water for each cup of beans. Pour in beans and boil for two minutes. Then set off of the burner and allow the beans to soak for an hour. This is equivalent to soaking beans over-night or all day.

In selecting frozen meat or poultry products, make sure they are solidly frozen.

At home, store meat and poultry promptly in coldest part of your refrigerator. Loosen wrappings of fresh meat and Travel Hints ?

I received a letter last week from my letter writing friend Mrs. Dickenson, who is asking for some help. From the sound of her letter she really needs it too.

Dear Karen,
Since I was the first contributor to your column, I feel a bit "akin" to you, so I certainly don't want to see your weekly bit hit the dust.

I am a faithful reader, even though I don't have many helpful hints to pass on. I am writing this time more to ask for ideas than to give them. I read, recently in a magazine some ideas on entertaining children on a long trip and, although some of them were good, most of them applied to children older than mine, (4, 4 and 6) or were too high faluting for my pocketbook, so how about getting some of your readers to send in some hints on this subject. My only advice is don't forget the water jug and a good substantial stick!

(In case you haven't guessed I'm planning a long trip)

I have another hint to hand down to young people who haven't had any children yet. Don't make any statements about what your children are NOT going to do before you have them, because you're sure to make a liar out of yourselves more times than you've got fingers and toes during the first year! I know I have a sister who raised two of the most mischievous boys I had ever seen and I had plenty to say about it! I even said I wasn't even going to have any boys.

So now I am going "home" (to Maine), for a visit, with my 4 year old twin boys and 6 year old girl.

I'm going to have to face the music!! I plan to blame the whole thing on my husband who will be back on the farm and unable to defend himself.

Wishing you continued good luck in your column.

L. D.

I had temporarily lost the above letter and didn't even know from whom it came until late Wednesday. . . However, I did make a quick poll of the mothers here in the office. I'm not certain just how helpful they were but here were their reactions.
"Oh heavens, get some chloroform!"
"Get a large bottle of sleeping pills!"
"How about some plastic bags?"
"If you take a water jug, better take a portable tree too. Well, I guess a car potty will do."

"Travel at nite as much as possible."

"Don't go!"

After a little more thinking however they did come up with one or two possible ideas. Many stores now carry crayons that are nontoxic and washable, which might help on the car upholstery, and the digestive system. Also toy makers now have children's puzzles that come with extra large pieces, that make putting together easier, and getting lost harder.

One of the best ideas I heard was a surprise bag.

What you do is get little paper bags and stock them with all sorts of little goodies from the dime store. For a dollar a sack you could put in all sorts of surprises, a small amount of candy, little picture books, balloons, etc. You fill each sack with as many different things as you can think of, taking both your imagination and your pocketbook if you aren't careful. Then you put each child's name on a different sack, for yourself you put a large bottle of aspirin in your little goodie bag.

Although this won't entertain the kids all the way to Maine it might get you to Oklahoma if you drive fast.

Of course be sure to take along each child's favorite toy, blanket, or pillow. You might try about a week in advance of your trip threatening the little darlings within an inch of their lives if they so much as look cross-eyed at each other while traveling. It probably won't do too much good but it might ease your conscience a little when you do pull off the road and blister their little bottoms for fighting. You can tell them while their over your knee that you warned them.

Now that I've been so much help I'll make an urgent plea to the readers of any ideas they might have. But I can't promise much—remember when I asked them to send hints on antiquing, and then there was the plea for information on mum pinching. But we can still hope.

I know for a fact that there are within the readership of this column several who could help. I know a lady in Littlefield, one in Midland, Hereford, Fort Worth, and just bunches and gobs in Olton that could impart numerous ideas if they could just find it in their hearts to take up the ole pen and write. They've all been there before. SO PLEASE PLEASE DEAR MOTHERS BE A GOOD SPORT AND GIVE US A HAND.

VISIT SPAINS

Mr. and Mrs. Floy William-son of Amarillo visited Tues-day with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Spain.

LARRY NEINAST AND DAVID KERSH, take time out from military duties and pose for pictures to be sent back home. They are now serving in Viet Nam. Neinaast is shown on the machine he operates (in lower right picture.) Other scenes are around the camp where Neinaast is stationed, Kersh and Neinaast are not stationed at the same camp, but have seen each other one time.

Olton Boys Serving In Viet Nam

Two local boys now serving in different places in Viet Nam are Larry Neinaast, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Neinaast and David Kersh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Kersh.

Kersh is in communications, laying cable underground, put-ting in new terminal strips, new cable, in place of old and working on telephones and switch boards.

He wrote that he had been on guard duty and that it rained all night on him. He said that it rained a lot in Viet Nam and that it is "terrible hot", and humid, reaching the 130 degree mark.

Neinaast is in supply division, with duties of issuing clothing, and driving a fork lift.

Kersh has been sending "Cook money" home to his nephews. Cook money is paper money of 5¢, 10¢ and 20¢. When he arrived in Viet Nam, he had to exchange his American money for Military Payment certificates, then into cook money. Ten dollars in American money is worth about $11.80 in cook money.

He has a collection of knives started, now owning a mashette, bayonet and two Kaybors.

Neinaast has written that bugs, mosquitos and pests of most any kind are around every-where. He was bitten by some sort of a poisonous bug and was quite ill for some time.

Word was received from Kersh Wednesday that he was to be transferred to the 2nd Bt. 26 Marine Division, which is an infantry outfit.

He went on to say that "in about a month we go to Okin-awa to re-group and get more training. They needed wiremen up north at the de-militarized zone and four from my platoon had to go. Neinaast found out I was being transferred so he volunteered. He will be in the supply division for our outfit. We are trying to stay together, we may not be safe, -- but as long as we are together that's all that matters."

Excerpt from Neinaast's let-ters stated that they "could hear shots once in a while, but they are not for us. The water is so hot here you can hardly drink it. Phu Bai, where I am stationed, is about 30 miles from the de-militarized zone. We work from 16 to 18 hours a day on a fork lift and in sup-plies. The sand blows a lot here."

"I sure am proud people around Olton remember us, it sure makes you feel good to get a letter from back home from anybody."
