Blizzards Go To Albany For Grid Game Tonight

With three pre-conference games safely tucked away, the Winters Blizzards take to the road tonight (Friday) for their second out-of-town game, challenging last year's Class A state champions, the Albany Lions.

Still jubilant over their long-awaited defeat of Brady last week, the Blizzards, according to Coach L. G. Wilson, are "ready to go" against the Lions, with no injuries to speak of. Only one player, reserve guard Jimmy Easterly, will be out of action for tonight's game at Albany, the coach said.

The Winters team will be going against a squad already defeated by another member of District 6-AA, Anson. Anson nudged Albany last week by 22-20.

Albany, with several returnees from last year's state Class A championship team, is at the bottom of the list of top A teams in the state, according to the Dallas News poll. But the Lions are a team to watch, according to opinion. They were state A champs for two years running, and are not likely to stand idle.

Fireball of the Albany Lions is likely to be Jim Wood, an out standing halfback who wears the No. 12. He scored all 20 points against Anson last week, and has been listed in the Star-Telegram's school boy football honor roll.

Another to bear watching will be Johnny Woodward, a hot-shot quarterback in the Lion lineup.

Albany has one win, and two defeats for the season.

The Blizzards also have received state honors, with two linemen listed on the S-T honor roll: Johnny Mathis, center and Tommy Burton, guard, both of whom gained recognition for blocking punts against Brady last week.

PROBABLE STARTERS

Coach Wilson and staff probably will field the following Blizzards on offense:

Ends—Mike Mitchell and Johnny Hopper.

Tackles—Dan Roberts and Eugene Mathis.

Guards—Alvis Jackson and Tommy Burton.

Center—Roland Tekell.

QB—Tommy Alfrey

HB—Tommy Young and Denny Aldridge.

FB—Steve Grissom.

On defense, starters probably will be:

Guard—Johnny Mathis and Mike Patterson or Eugene Mathis

Tackle — Johnny Hopper and Tommy Burton

End—Denny Aldridge and Larry Awalt.

HB—Donald Parker and Adolpho Arroyo

Linebackers—Alvis Jackson and Wayne Bailey

Safety—Mike Bedford

WINTERS SCHOOLS WILL DISMISS EARLY FRIDAY

Winters schools will dismiss classes at 3 p.m. Friday, Sept. 28, in order for the buses to leave for the Albany-Winters football game.

All buses will make regular routes at that time, and buses carrying students to Albany will leave from the Band Hall at 4:30. There will be a 30-minute stop for supper in Abilene, and estimated arrival in Albany is 7:30 p.m.

Blizzards Blasted Brady 40-0; First Time In Eight Years

"I'd rather beat Brady than win district," was a remark around town several times, and the Blizzard team of 1962 accomplished just the first part of that desire here Friday night as they soundly beat Brady 40-0. This was the first win over the usually big Bulldogs in 8 years.

Winters fans will not have to look at a program for the rest of the season to know that Johnny Mathis wears jersey No. 71, Tommy Burton 62, Denny Aldridge 41, Mike Bedford 21, Steve Grissom 40, Tommy Young 21, and Alvis Jackson 62, following their performance last week. The No. 10 on the back of QB Tommy Alfrey is already implanted in the minds of Winters fans.

On the fourth play of the game Friday night, Brady was attempting a handoff, fumbled, and Burton (61) came up with the ball on the Winters 33. Seven plays later, including a completed pass from Alfrey (10) to Mike Mitchell for 11 yards, the Blizzards were on the Brady 3. Denny Aldridge (41) moved over from the 3 for the TD with 6:55 left in the first quarter.

Jackson (62) kicked, and Winters led 7-0. Later in the first quarter a Brady fourth down kick was blocked by Burton (61) and Mathis (71) recovered the ball on the Brady 6, setting up another touchdown two plays later as again Aldridge moved over the double stripe from the 5. Jackson again kicked for the extra point.

Late in the second quarter the Blizzards struck again after receiving the ball on a fourth down try from Brady on the Winters 43. Grissom (40) moved through the line on a draw play and carried a total of 52 yards for the third TD. Try for extra points was no good, and the half time score was 20-0.

A Brady fumble late in the third quarter was recovered by No. 71—Mathis—and this gave the Big Blue another break. In four plays they moved to the Brady 35. Young (20) moving off left guard, called for the TD with a 20-yard run. Jackson again coverted, and with 1:34 in the third, Winters led Brady by 27-0.

As the last quarter started Brady owned the ball on their own 25, and attempted to take to the air. Mike Bedford (21) burst that bubble, however, as he intercepted a pass on the Winters 25 and ran 75 yards for a 33-0 lead for the Blizzards. Johnny Mathis again gets credit for setting up a TD, as he repeated his fourth down kick block on the Brady 7, giving the Blizzards the ball on the 1. Never one to pass up an opportunity like this, Aldridge claimed this third TD of the evening with 7:13 left in the game, and the final score of 40-0.

For the second week in a row the Blizzards were not scored against, and for the second week in a row, their 20-yard line was not passed by the opponents.

Total Number of Bales Increasing

Total number of bales of cotton ginned by Winters gins has almost doubled since Wednesday of last week, according to reports from the gins.

By Wednesday afternoon, a total of 1224 bales had been processed. On Wednesday afternoon of last week, the gins reported 629 bales out.

Phone Rate Raise Still Being Studied

The Winters City Council Tuesday night asked the Southwestern States Telephone Co. for "further and more concrete evidence" which would justify an increase in telephone rates in Winters.

They also asked the telephone company to present a complete study in regard to providing additional and better telephone service before resuming negotiations on a request by the company for a rate increase.

Tuesday night's meeting of the Council and representatives of the telephone company was the third such meeting since negotiations started some time ago.

Members of the Council told the company they could see no justification for the requested increase in view of the evidence thus far submitted. Company representatives stated that the law provides that the company be allowed a "fair rate of return" on their investment; council countered with the statement that the fact that the company wished to "increase their profits" was not enough justification for the proposed raise in local rates.

Council also asked the company to make a survey to determine the feasibility and possibility of providing Winters telephone subscribers with toll-free service connection with subscribers of other companies within a small radius of Winters. In many instances, it pas pointed out, residents of communities within five or six miles of Winters must pay a toll charge for each call made to Winters.

Company officials agreed to make such a study, and report back to the City Council within three months. They said such a study would take some time to complete. However, they requested that the City accept a new rate increase, to become effective upon presentation of such a study. This offer was turned down by the Council, which demanded that the study be made before rate increase negotiations were resumed.

The telephone company originally had asked for rates which, in some classes of service, would have been an increase of approximately 27 percent over present rates, and which would have provided an overall increase of $18,957.60 annually. This proposal was not accepted by the Council, because of "lack of justification," and the Council called for additional evidence. The company later made a proposal for a lesser increase, and this request is being studied by the Council, action on which is being held up until additional information is supplied by the company.

The company has stated that total annual revenue from the Winters telephone exchange, under the present rates, is $61,284.00, which, after operating expenses and taxes would net only 4.32 percent interest. Their first request would have increased the income figure to $80,241.60, to realize a return of 7.28 percent. The company claims a total investment of $296,001.11 for the local exchange, excluding toll equipment which is allegedly listed separately on the books of the company.

In earlier talks with the company representatives, members of the Council had requested information on the amount of revenue realized by the company from toll service through the local exchange. Some information was presented by the company, but Council members stated that the information was inadequate. It was pointed out by the council that although the City does not have jurisdiction over rates on toll calls originating or received in the Winters exchange, such rates and revenue realized by the company from toll service is a part of the overall income picture. Company officials told the Council that because of the method of bookkeeping in use by the company, it is impossible to determine exactly how much revenue is received on toll calls affecting the local exchange.

Regarding the "extended area service" study requested by the City, several members of the Council expressed concern over the fact that in many instances within a short distance of Winters it is "impossible for a neighbor to call a neighbor, or to call Winters, without having to pay an extra toll charge." "This is detrimental to business," they said, "and all possible effort should be made to eliminate such a practice."

Because telephone facilities within a short distance of Winters belong to another company, agreements must be reached between the operators, it was pointed out. Council members ecpressed the belief that arrangements can be made to extend local service. Telephone company representatives said there had been talk of "extended area service" studies in the past, but that the company had never made them.

In the event "extended area service" can be given to subscribers in the Winters area, an admustment in local rates would probably be necessary, it was pointed out by the telephone company. This would be made necessary because of the loss of revenue now being received in the way of toll calls. "We would have to find out how much toll revenue we would lose in the Winters exchange before we could set rates," they indicated.

Following is a summary of the latest monthly rate increase request made by the telephone, and which is under study by the Council:

	Present	Asked
Business, 1 party	$8.00	$10.00
Business, 2 party	6.50	8.50
Business extension	1.50	1.75
Residence, 1 party	5.00	6.00
Residence, 2 party	4.00	5.00
Residence, 4 party	3.00	4.00
Residence, extension	1.00	1.25

Railroad Commission Hammering Out Rules To Prevent Crooked Oil Wells

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

Rules to prevent future crooked oil wells are being hammered out by the Texas Railroad Commission.

Chairman Bill Murray and Commissioner Ben Ramsey laid out a proposal for tougher rules.

Oil industry spokesmen split down the middle on the proposed rules. They say it is not possible to drill a vertical hole without greatly adding to the cost.

Commission took proposals of its own staff and of the industry under study after a long hearing. Ramsey said the Commission should not add to industry's drilling costs, because the public pays them all.

But it was clear that the Commission now will crack down to make sure wells do not stray under property lines.

SLANT OIL WELL SURVEYS

Major and independent oil producers have contributed a total of $306,709 for surveys to find deviated wells in the East Texas field, 14 in Hawkins, one in Quitman and one in Friendswood. Surveys to date have revealed 138 "slanted" wells in Texas fields, Attorney General Wilson disclosed.

All but $40,000 has been used.

The Railroad Commission plans to run inclination surveys on the remaining wells which are suspect—between 200 and 300 in the East Texas Field alone, Wilson said.

ISLAND PARK

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler plans to fight the proposed bill to create a National Seashore Area on Padre Island when it comes before the State Legislature in 1963.

Congress voted the long-debated bill, but Texas legislators will have to approve the project.

Sadler contends that the Federal government will be grabbing a lot of state oil under Laguna Madre. Sponsors retort that this isn't so—that the U.S. law specifically provides that oil rights are to be retained by present surface owners.

PARKING

Parking around the State Capitol always has been a problem.

It's even more so since several new state office buildings have concentrated state employment in the Capitol area. Much of the available space is kept reserved for parking by State Officials.

Now Atty. Gen. Will Wilson has ruled that the State Board of Control, which is the housekeeping agency around the Capitol, has no authority to regulate parking.

Board members had hoped to find they had the authority under an old law on horses.

But Capitol parking regulations by the Board of Control is illegal, Wilson's ruling said. So far, the legislature never has authorized the board to regulate parking.

PROPERTY TAX HEARING

Texas Commission on State and Local Tax Policy will hold a public hearing in Austin on Friday, November 9, on property taxes. Announcement came from Senator George Parkhouse of Dallas, commission chairman.

Hearing will begin at 2 p.m. in Room 644 of the Texas Employment Commission building. Anyone wishing to testify is requested to inform the tax policy group in writing to Drawer C, Capitol Station, Austin.

Parkhouse said the Commission will consider a tax which now raises $800,000,000 a year in the State.

The Tax Policy Commission, created by the Legislature in 1959, is scheduled to make its final reports to the new Legislature in January.

LEGISLATIVE STUDY

A three-member subcommittee of the Texas House Committee on Saving Taxes will make a study of the operations of the State Railroad Commission. Members are J. W. Buchanan of Dumas, chairman; Olen R. Petty of Levelland and George Preston of Paris. Preston is chairman of the full committee.

Purpose of the parent committee is to seek ways to effect a saving in the State tax dollar.

DOCUMENTARY EXHIBIT

Archives division of the State Library has on display a collection of documents which may be unique.

James M. Day, archivist, and his staff assembled photographic reproductions of portraits or pictures of every Texas president and governor. Then they added an original document, either personal letter or legal paper, on which the officials's signature appeared.

Dr. Dorman H. Winfrey state librarian said no one could recall a similar exhibit before.

First displayed at Governor-for-A- Day Culp Krueger's "Operation Hometown" in El Campo the exhibit drew much favorable comment.

POLIO REPORT

Dr. J. E. Peavy State Health Commissioner reported that Texas has had 158 cases of paralytic polio this season. State's cases are almost half as many as in all the rest of the nation combines.

Total number of polio cases has risen to 206 to date.

Without the mass immunization campaigns he said the Texas number undoubtedly would be much greater.

The Health Department recommended that oral vaccine types I and II be continued and accelerated, that type III be limited to pre-school and school age children except in type III epidemic areas where it should be given to all age groups.

County Historical Society Formed Sunday, Sept. 16

Organization plans were completed and officers elected Sunday afternoon at Ballinger for the Runnels County Historical Society. The new society is being sponsored by the Runnels County Program Building Committee.

Officers elected included Mrs. Edgar Boelsche, Ballinger, president; J. W. Bahlman, Winters, vice president; Mrs. E. C. Grindstaff, Ballinger, secretary.

Committee members named included: Membership committee, J. W. Bahlman, Winters, chairman; and Mrs. George Poe, Winters; Leslie Smithwick, Miles; Edward Hoelscher, Rowena; Mrs. James Wear, Mrs. Price Middleton, Mrs. O. C. Sykes, and Mrs. W. G. Grier, all of Ballinger.

Program committee: Rankin Pace, Winters, chairman; Dr. Z. I. Hale, Winters; Mrs. H. H. Wagner, Rowena; Dale Herring, Talpa; Mrs. Claude R. Stone Jr., Ballinger.

More than 40 persons from all sections of the county have joined the new historical society.

At the organizational meeting, C. T. Parker, county agent, spoke on the value of Indian lore and relics in the study of county history. County Judge W. H. Rampy discussed articles of interest and historical places in the county. The group was invited to visit the proposed Ballinger Museum following the meeting.

Planned tours for the organization in the future include a visit to the old Stage Coach Inn Restaurant, and to the Museum at Saladdo near Belton, and a visit to Fort Concho, in San Angelo. The society also will visit Fort McCavitt and the San Saba Mission at Menard.

One program for the future will feature a talk by a state official on "Texas, A Tourist State," and another planned program will be on "Early Runnels County History."

NOW—GO JET-SMOOTH CHEVROLET for '63

If it didn't say Chevrolet on the flanks of the superb automobile you see here, you'd have a hard time proving it's a low-priced car. It offers luxurious styling, extremely comfortable, spacious and silent interiors . . . plus a lot of invisible ways to keep it looking and running like new when a lot of others have started to sag and sigh: new flush and dry rocker panels under the doors to guard against rusting . . . self-adjusting brakes . . . Delcotron generator for longer battery life. If you ever wondered why Chevrolet leads its field, a drive in this '63 should answer all your questions.

IT'S EXCITING!

GO CORVAIR for '63-IT'S EXCITING!

'63 CORVAIR MONZA CONVERTIBLE

Hard as it may be to believe, this year's Chevy II is better, better than last year's and better than anything in its class. It combines all the new easy-care features of the big Chevrolet with its own wonderful attributes of parkable size, four- or six-cylinder fuel economy and interiors that'd do justice to cars with twice its price and half its charm.

CHEVROLET

Change it? Calm yourself, nobody's going to mess with a winner like this one! We did add self-adjusting brakes and a more fully aluminized muffler; interiors and outside trim are refined a bit, but the rest is pure Corvair with all the over-the-road goodness that implies. Oh yes, we changed the taillights so all those people you pass will know you're driving a '63.

Gives Advice To Young People On "Keeping Paid Up, and Out of Debt"

By this time a good many of last June's young graduates will have finished their vacations and summer "fill-in" work and will be tackling permanent new jobs in earnest. On the basis of my more than fifty years in active business, let me give them some good advice.

Keep Out Of Debt

If you borrow some money temporarily on your personal note, be sure you have enough cash on deposit at all times to be able to pay it off. We are living in very uncertain times. The entire world is in an up-heaval. It is an important time to keep out of debt—until the present Russia-Kennedy financial storm blows over . . . which it will.

Don't let talk of inflation scare you during the next few years. We will always have some inflation, but it will do no harm if we can avoid World War III. Take out some life insurance-straight life, 20-payment. If our dollar holds up for twenty years, all will be O. K. If our dollar declines, you can use the low-cost dollars to make your payments. So, in the end, it will average out.

Never Endorse A Note Of Another

You have friends and neighbors who will ask you to endorse a note for them, arguing that such action would "cost you nothing" but that it would be a great favor to the maker of the note. I heard a sermon once on a text from Matthew, Chapter 25, Verses 33-37. It has saved me much money and much trouble. When selling property, I will warrant the title against any "cloud" occurring during my ownership; but will never give a full warranty going back to the Indians!

When you give your own note, you can get out of it by paying same. If you have bought something which you know is a losing proposition, you can sell it and take your loss with Uncle Sam. But when you endorse a note, the note goes to a bank or to some third party and passes entirely out of your control. The endorsement may hang over you for years. Endorsements have no time limit! Beware of them!

Buy A Little Stock

If the stock of the corporation for which you are going to work is listed on the New York or the American Stock Exchange, buy one share of it each month and have it registered in your name—not in your wife's name. If the stock is selling for more than you can afford to pay each month, buy a share once every other month; but buy it regularly and systematically.

If the stock is not listed, buy a share of the stock of one of your local banks each month. You can tell the treasurer or some other officer of the bank that I have advised you to do this; he will get the stock for you. Have this stock issued in your name so you will get the dividends. This system will make you a profit; but, more important, it will give you a good reputation as a substantial citizen. Be well thought of now and it will give you credit later if you want to start a business of your own.

Be Careful When You Write

It is a good rule to be careful always about what you put into writing. In fact, it often helps to have someone else's opinion on your material. Although I have been writing this column once a week for many years, it is always checked very carefully by a most able employee of mine. So let me suggest that, even when you are taking on a new job, you should not be ashamed or embarrassed to ask someone in your office to look at work you are doing and advise you.

Use the telephone whenever possible. Never criticise anyone in a letter unless you carry liability insurance! Even when thanking or congratualting people, I often "say it with flowers". Sometimes you hate to refuse a request; but you can often save both money and a friend by going to a nearby florist and sending some flowers. Greeting cards are also wonderful investments to use freely—for birthdays, Christmas, New Year's, and for "sympathy" messages. Be careful about congratulating friends and relatives when a new baby comes into a family or it may be named for you!

Erosion Is Problem On 739 Million Acres

Erosion is the dominant problem on 739 million acres of America's farm land. This is more than half of the agricultural land in the United States. Erosion is a problem requiring constant attention on 234 million acres of cropland.

These facts along with many more, are found in a new publication just issued by the United States Soil Conservation Service. It is called "Soil Erosion, The Work of Uncontrolled Water". A copy can be obtained from the local SCS office at Ballinger, Woodrow Hoffman, Work Unit Conservation said.

Hoffman, who is assigned by the SCS to assist the Runnels Soil Conservation District, said the new bulletin contains 16 pages and 25 pictures describing and illustrating the causes and types of erosion caused by water. It is the latest publication by the SCS that deals with this basic problem of American farmers and ranchers. A few months ago Farmers Bulletin 2171, "How to Control a Gully" was issued. This is also available from your local SCS office.

BRADSHAW NEWS

"There are two freedoms—the false, where a man is free to do what he likes; the true, where a man is free to do what he ought." Charles Kingsley.

The special for Church services Pastor Jerry Spurlin sang "Give of Your Best to The Master" with Marjorie Goforth at the piano. For the night services Jerry and Marjorie sang "Whispering Hope" with Kay at the piano.

Mrs. Allmand was also at the piano.

Mrs. Claude Mayfield of Anson was a visitor at WMS Monday of last week.

John Heralds "The Christ" is the subject of next Sunday's Sunday School Lesson. The memory selection is: "I baptize you with water; . . .He will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and with fire." —Luke 3:16. The following is from the Mature Years magazine: Our lesson title says that John heralded the Christ. That is true but he was more than a herald; he was a bridge between the old and the new covenants. Harris Franklin Rall, in one of his many books wrote: "John the Baptist was the highest expression of the hopes and longings of his age. We have not done justice to this great figure. We have thought of him as a herald, a voice, and have not seen how much more than this he was. It was his lot to bring together the old and the new. He voiced what was noblest in the past while he made ready for that which was to come."

One further thought: If John was a bridge between old and new, does not this suggest an important role for people of mature years? While holding to the rich past they can use their knowledge experience, and influence to prepare the way for new achievements that will serve man and glorify God.

The following announcement comes from the Church of Christ of Morton: "Arthur Dankworth, Ashland, Oregon, passed away Tuesday, Sept. 18, afternoon. He had been ill for quite a long while and had been hospitalized for some five weeks before his death. Funeral services will be conducted in Ashland."

"Womanhunt"

Weaving a web of mystery and suspense, 20th Century-Fox's latest entry in the thriller category, "Womanhunt," shows Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre. The drama co-stars Steven Piccaro, Lisa Lu and Berry Kroeger.

Using the Oriental section of modern day Los Angeles as its background, "Womanhunt," based on an original story by Harry Spalding, concerns one man's relentless search for his missing ex-wife, whom he believes has met with foul play. A series of murders, $125,00, a "dead man" who never died and a lovely Oriental girl are the obstacles the hero encounters before the film's surprise climax.

"The Colossus of Rhodes"

The spectacular fighting scenes and daring physical feats called for in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer release, "The Colossus of Rhodes," required actors with plenty of brawn, and "muscle men" from all over Europe were recruited for the big action picture by Director Sergio Leone.

Italy, Spain and France each contributed an outstanding athlete. Mimmo Palmara, who plays a Greek patriot in the film, was once a member of the Italian national rugby team. Fernando Calzado, a noted weightlifter, won Spain's national title and the Castillian weight lifting championship four times. Yann Larvor, a powerfully built six-footer, won the title of "Mr. France" in 1959. His brawn has won him roles in several spectacle films, including "The Vikings" with Kirk Douglas.

Rory Calhoun, who heads the cast of "The Colossus of Rhodes," can also hold his own in the athletic department. He twice was an inter-conference boxing champ, as a middleweight and light-heavyweight, winning a total of 15 bouts.

Shows Friday and Saturday at the State Theatre.

"Sail A Crooked Ship"

Columbia Pictures' "Sail a Crooked Ship," zany new comedy of a nitwit band who steal a ship in New York in order to rob a bank in Boston, shows Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at the State Theatre. Robert Wagner, Dolores Hart, Carolyn Jones and Frankie Avalon star and Ernie Kovacs costars as the self-appointed Captain, a thwarted crook with grandiose plans. Frank Gorshin also stars and Jesse White and Harvey Lembeck are featured. A Philip Barry production, "Sail a Crooked Ship" is based on a screenplay by Ruth Brooks Flippen and Bruce Geller from the best-selling novel by Nathaniel Benchley. Philip Barry, Jr., produced the film and Irving Brecher directed "Sail a Crooked Ship."

Winters Librarian Is Guest Speaker For Jaycee-Ettes

Plans were made for the annual Jaycee-Ettes Halloween Carnival which will be October 31, when the group met in regular session. Myra Glover, librarian, was the guest speaker at the meeting.

Miss Glover told the group that school work is a breeze to the good reader. That is why it is tremendously important that your child learn to read well, or better yet, learn to like to read.

"From June 1st until September 1, there were 3600 books checked out of the local library. Sixty-one of our junior citizens received certificates of merit from the state for reading 12 books apiece." she said.

Miss Glover suggested that parents take their child to the library and let him choose a book to read. Surround him with books about his hobbies and interests, read for your own pleasure and treat your family to a membership in the Winters Library. "It will be most rewarding," she stated.

Those present for the meeting were Mesdames Floyd Sims, Bill Sharpes, James Crockett, Obie Dee Bradford, Morris Robinson, the hostess, Mrs. John McAdoo and a guest, Myra Glover.

RETURNED HOME

Mrs. C. T. Rives Sr. returned home Sunday from Dallas where she had spent the past two weeks in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alton Elerson and Mr. Elerson. She was accompanied home by the Elersons who made a brief visit in Winters.

IT'S THE LAW— IN TEXAS

A bill before Congress is an idea for a law.

Who thinks it up? A congressman, the home folks, the President, almost anybody.

How does it become a law?

1. The congressman calls on the Congressional Legislative Service to cast the idea into legal language.

2. He drops his bill into a legislative hopper. The clerk numbers and passes it to the Speaker of the House of Representatives. He refers it to a committee. There it may "die" unless the sponsor asks for action.

3. If he does, the committee may consider the bill or assign it to a subcommittee to consider the bill. Usually, either the committee or the subcommittee will hold hearings, study the merits of the bill, and prepare a report on it to be submitted to the House.

4. At long last the committee votes on it. If most members support it, it goes "out of committee" to the House.

5. It gets on the calendar and the House Rules Committee says how, when, and for how long the House may review the bill.

6. The Speaker sets a time for debate with equal time to both sides.

7. Afterwards the House votes. If passed, the bill becomes an "act" and goes to the Senate.

The 260 cubic inch Challenger engine is designed to operate on regular fuel, offering good performance and high fuel economy. Custom performance is available in 35 different levels through various combinations of 6 engines, 5 transmissions and 9 rear axle ratios. Two-, four- and six-barrel carburetion for selected blends of performance and economy are offered on several of the engines.

The complete line of 14 new Galaxies will be introduced in Ford dealer showrooms on Friday, September 28, Mr. Laux said.

MODELS

A new four-door hardtop model in the Galaxie "500 XL" series heads the list of 14 new Galaxies in three series for 1963. The Galaxie series includes two-and four-door sedans; the Galaxie 500 series includes two- and four-door sedans, two- and four-door hardtops, and a two-door convertible. The sporty Galaxie "500 XL" series now includes a two-door convertible and two- and four-door hardtop models.

Ford's station wagons will feature four models for 1963 including four-door, six- and nine-passenger Country Sedans and Country Squires, Mr. Laux said.

STYLING

A sharply delineated contour—running from the outboard edge of the headlamps to the massive, circular taillights—dramatizes the lithe and luxurious character of all new Galaxies. Lower on the body side is another sculptured line, artfully integrated to accent the wheels and the feeling of dynamic motion embodied in the Galaxie for 1963.

This appearance of movement is emphasized in the recessed Thunderbird-style roof with its landau rear pillar, recessed rear window and forward-thrusting lines. The concave Galaxie grille is a contemporary pattern of bars and rectangles with the Ford crest in full color "floating" modernistically in the center.

The Galaxie 500 series is distinguished by special styling treatment in front, side and rear. Radical chrome windsplits in a starlike pattern are placed over the lenses of the taillights on Galaxie 500 and Galaxie "500 XL" models.

The ultra-luxurious Galaxie "500 XL" series is further distinguished by special ornamentation, ultra-luxurious interiors and simulated racing "knock-off" wheel covers.

NEW 10-MILLION DOLLAR" COMPLIANCE-LINK SUSPENSION

A new suspension—designed to meet the comfort and handling requirements of modern, high-speed turnpike driving—is standard on all 1963 Galaxies.

Because conventional suspensions absorb road shock vertically, a disturbance is felt and heard when the car is driven over tar strips or minor irregularities in the pavement.

"This is because the forces introduced by a minor bump must make too rapid a change in direction from the vertical," said Mrs. Laux in explaining the new suspension. "More than $10-million has gone into the research and development leading to the compliance-link in the new Galaxie suspension."

The "compliance-link" is designed to permit shock absorption in the less-resistant horizontal as well as in the vertical plane. To introduce horizontal resiliency in the new Galaxie suspension, the lower arm front anchor is hung on a crank. Road shocks are fed back to the suspension at a more acceptable angle to cushion road shock and give a smoother, quieter ride.

Completing the new suspension is a rear suspension horizontal component so that each rear wheel also can absorb distrubances horizontally as well as vertically.

You don't need big water to catch big fish.

In fact, some of the most consistent fishing to be found in Texas is in the stock ponds located on the farms and ranches throughout the state. Many small ones are less than five acres in size. The big ones run 10 to 20 acres.

You may not catch any record-breaking fish in these ponds, but you'll make a lot fewer water-hauls than you do out on the big, wide open lakes.

Getting to fish the farm tanks —as they are popularly called— means making friends with the landowners.

With a courteous approach, that's easy. But don't wear out your welcome by scattering trash around the pond, building fires, destroying property or worse yet—inviting the gang to "come along."

Tank farm fishing is rather specialized. Actually it calls for several types of fishing, a wide assortment of lures—and just in case, some live bait.

In farm tank fishing many anglers use baitcasting reels, spinning reels, and fly-fishing tackle——all three types of gear—since this kind of fishing calls for a lot of experimenting.

Fly-fishing the tanks is most effective in the early morning and late evening hours. That seems to be the time when the fish rise best to flies and popping bugs.

Spin-fishing is preferred at night because you don't have to worry about backlashes. For one reason or another one seems to get the messiest of backlashes at night.

Baitcasting tackle, or fairly heavy spincasting gear, is preferred for midday, farm-tank fishing. The fish generally are down deep in the heat of the day, and you need a stout rod to work your lure through the snags and moss at the bottom on the pond.

A wide assortment of lures is a must. It seems that within the confines of a small pond, fish will become accustomed to lures and shun them if the same one is used too often. This is particularly true on ponds of less than five acres in size.

For example, you might score well on black bass with a red and white diving plug. Then suddenly action will stop. By switching to a gold spoon, you may pick up three or four more fish before the action stops again. Next producer might be a black floating plug with a pork rind attached.

You can't tell what they will hit, or how long they will hit it. But when they're not hitting, you might as well change lures.

When you find a small pond that is fished unusually hard, often you have to resort to live bait, if you're to net any fish.

In fishing a farm tank, work all the way around it. Don't remain in one spot. Avoid wading out in the small tanks. You'll only spook fish that way. However, it's okay to wade-fish in the big 10 to 20 acre tanks. They're just small lakes.

Stand far enough back from the edge of the water so no shadow is cast over the water. Make as little noise as possible and move slowly from one spot to another.

The small size of the farm tanks is one of the keys to good fishing.

Take a five-acre pond, for example. You can work the entire pond—and at all depth levels— in the space of a morning. So you're bound to find fish some place.

A farm tank with a good water supply, plenty of cover and natural forage will yield something like 500 pounds of fish per surface acre per year. Obviously on the large tanks you can see that "Fishing out" the hole isn't a problem.

Usualiy the real problem with farm-tank fishing is the lack of enough fishing pressure. If you catch a lot of small and stunted fish, you can bet that the pond is overpopulated. Only remedy is to increase the fishing pressure. If that doesn't help, then you'd better contact the Game and Fish Commission for assitance.

In addition to some choice fishing, farm tanks also offer sporty hunting, in season. These tanks are ideal spots to hunt doves when the birds fly in to get water.

You can pretty well control the flight of the doves by putting a few decoys on tree limbs. Or if there is a sandy shoreline, place some decoys there.

During the waterfowl season you can score well on ducks—provided you don't over-hunt the tank.

A tank of less than five acres shouldn't be hunted more than two or three times a week, and never two days in succession.

On the big 10 to 20 acre ponds you can hunt every day, if the blinds are spotted at opposite ends of the lake.

But—we repeat—don't hunt the same blind twice in succession.

Home Town Talk--

A seven year old California girl wrote a little essay on the subject of newspapers and sent it to the local editor. Many men have tried to convince folks how important their product is for these many years. But none of them ever said it better than the little girl. She wrote:

"Newspapers. We need them so we can know who reks and who drownds and who shoots somebody. And who wants a house or who dies or gets a baby. It tells if your dog is lost. They are good on shelves and to make bond fires. They also good under a baby's plate and to keep dogs offa things. You can wrap potato peelings in them. You can put one when you defrost. They tell about shows and how much things are."

The editor to whom she sent the essay added a postscript which said: "Diana, they are also good to swat things like flies and public officials."

Some people have asked why we don't include scores when we pick what we think will be the winning teams each week. Our answer to that would be that there is a limit to how foolish one can get. Possible reason for out tip-toe attitude is reflected in the results of our predictions of last week's game: missed four out of ten games.

This week, they look like this (no scores, please):

Arkansas over Tulsa
Baylor over Pitt
Wichita over H-SU
SMU over So. Calif.
Texas over Tex. Tech
TCU over Miami, Fla.
LSU over Rice
A. and M. over Houston
AF over Penn. State
Stamford over Colorado City

Wildlife Said To 'Pay Off' On Farms

Wildlife pays off. This fact should not be overlooked, said Bill Minzenmayer, Chairman of the Runnels Soil Conservation District. He said, one might be surprised to know that on a well managed 100 acre farm the wildlife population has been estimated to be: Several million beneficial insects, mostly destroyers of other harmful insects. More than 400 beneficial birds, of 40 kinds. More than 1,000 small animals, of which many are effective insect destroyers.

Also present may be many game animals such as quail, dove, turkey,and deer, providing many thousands of dollars revenue to farmers and ranchers of this state every year.

A system of farming or ranching which does not deplete the basic resources produces a great abundance of wildlife according to Maynard Hill, Soil Conservation Service technician assigned to assist the Runnels Soil Conservation District. A system that depletes our soil and water reserves results in unwanted insects, weeds, and crop diseases.

Hill stated that conservation practices helpful to wildlife are: leaving sorghum stubble on the soil surface, cover crops of small grains and legumes, and proper use on rangelands. He said that wildlife food plantings should not be overlooked. The purpose of these plantings is simply to provide food for wildlife. Plantings favoring quail, for example, might include browntop millet, blue panicum, browntop panicum, native perennial, panicums , or cowpeas.

Assistance in planning for wildlife may be obtained from the local Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting the Runnels Soil Conservation District.

Most Runnels Soils Subject To Erosion

Most soils in the Runnels Soil Conservation District are subject to wind and water erosion when left bare, states James Barnhill of the Soil Conservation Service.

Wind and Water cause erosion damage by carrying off top soil, says Barnhill.

This type of erosion can be controlled by leaving a protective cover on the surface of the soil. This cover can be provided by living plants or dead litter, such as sorghum stubble.

Cover acts as a cushion to rain drops during hard driving rains, and acts as a barrier to high winds during wind storms. This cushion will stop the surface soil from crusting, slow the rate of evaporation and increase the water infiltration rate.

Crop residues will protect the land through the fall and winter months.

Election Set For Zone 4 Supervisor In Runnels SCD

Residents of Zone 4, Runnels County Soil Conservation District, have an election date to keep on October 2. C. T. Parker, County Agricultural Agent, says the election is very important and he urges all eligible voters to cast their ballots.

Zone 4 comprises all landowners in Runnels County north of the Winters-Novice road, and north of the Winters-Bronte road.

Zone 4 voters in the Runnels County Soil Conservation District will elect a farmer or rancher who will serve as their supervisor and representative on the SCD board for the next five years.

Time and place for the Oct. 2 balloting is at 7:30 p.m., in the Winters High School Agriculture Building, Parker said.

The county agent said a qualified voter is a zone 4 landowner who is over 21 years of age or older. Wives of eligible landowners may vote and should do so since they have an interest in their soil conservation district, he said.

Parker pointed out that soil conservation districts are political sub-districts of the State of Texas and by law are charged with the responsibility of carrying out a soil and water conservation program in their districts. Through them such items as technical service, equipment, leadership in small watershed projects and many other services are provided to cooperating landowners.

A general discussion program will be held following the election, during which time such programs as the screwworm project, and wheat varieties project, and many other important agricultural programs will be discussed.

HEIDENHEIMER'S
ANSON — BALLINGER — CISCO — HAMLIN — WINTERS

By Vern Sanford

You don't need big water to catch big fish.

In fact, some of the most consistent fishing to be found in Texas is in the stock ponds located on the farms and ranches throughout the state. Many small ones are less than five acres in size. The big ones run 10 to 20 acres.

You may not catch any record-breaking fish in these ponds, but you'll make a lot fewer water-hauls than you do out on the big, wide open lakes.

Getting to fish the farm tanks —as they are popularly called— means making friends with the landowners.

With a courteous approach, that's easy. But don't wear out your welcome by scattering trash around the pond, building fires, destroying property or worse yet—inviting the gang to "come along."

Tank farm fishing is rather specialized. Actually it calls for several types of fishing, a wide assortment of lures—and just in case, some live bait.

In farm tank fishing many anglers use baitcasting reels, spinning reels, and fly-fishing tackle——all three types of gear—since this kind of fishing calls for a lot of experimenting.

Fly-fishing the tanks is most effective in the early morning and late evening hours. That seems to be the time when the fish rise best to flies and popping bugs.

Spin-fishing is preferred at night because you don't have to worry about backlashes. For one reason or another one seems to get the messiest of backlashes at night.

Baitcasting tackle, or fairly heavy spincasting gear, is preferred for midday, farm-tank fishing. The fish generally are down deep in the heat of the day, and you need a stout rod to work your lure through the snags and moss at the bottom on the pond.

A wide assortment of lures is a must. It seems that within the confines of a small pond, fish will become accustomed to lures and shun them if the same one is used too often. This is particularly true on ponds of less than five acres in size.

For example, you might score well on black bass with a red and white diving plug. Then suddenly action will stop. By switching to a gold spoon, you may pick up three or four more fish before the action stops again. Next producer might be a black floating plug with a pork rind attached.

You can't tell what they will hit, or how long they will hit it. But when they're not hitting, you might as well change lures.

When you find a small pond that is fished unusually hard, often you have to resort to live bait, if you're to net any fish.

In fishing a farm tank, work all the way around it. Don't remain in one spot. Avoid wading out in the small tanks. You'll only spook fish that way. However, it's okay to wade-fish in the big 10 to 20 acre tanks. They're just small lakes.

Stand far enough back from the edge of the water so no shadow is cast over the water. Make as little noise as possible and move slowly from one spot to another.

The small size of the farm tanks is one of the keys to good fishing.

Take a five-acre pond, for example. You can work the entire pond—and at all depth levels— in the space of a morning. So you're bound to find fish some place.

A farm tank with a good water supply, plenty of cover and natural forage will yield something like 500 pounds of fish per surface acre per year. Obviously on the large tanks you can see that "Fishing out" the hole isn't a problem.

Usually the real problem with farm-tank fishing is the lack of enough fishing pressure. If you catch a lot of small and stunted fish, you can bet that the pond is overpopulated. Only remedy is to increase the fishing pressure. If that doesn't help, then you'd better contact the Game and Fish Commission for assitance.

In addition to some choice fishing, farm tanks also offer sporty hunting, in season. These tanks are ideal spots to hunt doves when the birds fly in to get water.

You can pretty well control the flight of the doves by putting a few decoys on tree limbs. Or if there is a sandy shoreline, place some decoys there.

During the waterfowl season you can score well on ducks—provided you don't over-hunt the tank.

A tank of less than five acres shouldn't be hunted more than two or three times a week, and never two days in succession.

On the big 10 to 20 acre ponds you can hunt every day, if the blinds are spotted at opposite ends of the lake.

But—we repeat—don't hunt the same blind twice in succession.

Home Town Talk--

A seven year old California girl wrote a little essay on the subject of newspapers and sent it to the local editor. Many men have tried to convince folks how important their product is for these many years. But none of them ever said it better than the little girl. She wrote:

"Newspapers. We need them so we can know who reks and who drownds and who shoots somebody. And who wants a house or who dies or gets a baby. It tells if your dog is lost. They are good on shelves and to make bond fires. They also good under a baby's plate and to keep dogs offa things. You can wrap potato peelings in them. You can put one when you defrost. They tell about shows and how much things are."

The editor to whom she sent the essay added a postscript which said: "Diana, they are also good to swat things like flies and public officials."

Some people have asked why we don't include scores when we pick what we think will be the winning teams each week. Our answer to that would be that there is a limit to how foolish one can get. Possible reason for out tip-toe attitude is reflected in the results of our predictions of last week's game: missed four out of ten games.

This week, they look like this (no scores, please):

Arkansas over Tulsa
Baylor over Pitt
Wichita over H-SU
SMU over So. Calif.
Texas over Tex. Tech
TCU over Miami, Fla.
LSU over Rice
A. and M. over Houston
AF over Penn. State
Stamford over Colorado City

Wildlife Said To 'Pay Off' On Farms

Wildlife pays off. This fact should not be overlooked, said Bill Minzenmayer, Chairman of the Runnels Soil Conservation District. He said, one might be surprised to know that on a well managed 100 acre farm the wildlife population has been estimated to be: Several million beneficial insects, mostly destroyers of other harmful insects. More than 400 beneficial birds, of 40 kinds. More than 1,000 small animals, of which many are effective insect destroyers.

Also present may be many game animals such as quail, dove, turkey,and deer, providing many thousands of dollars revenue to farmers and ranchers of this state every year.

A system of farming or ranching which does not deplete the basic resources produces a great abundance of wildlife according to Maynard Hill, Soil Conservation Service technician assigned to assist the Runnels Soil Conservation District. A system that depletes our soil and water reserves results in unwanted insects, weeds, and crop diseases.

Hill stated that conservation practices helpful to wildlife are: leaving sorghum stubble on the soil surface, cover crops of small grains and legumes, and proper use on rangelands. He said that wildlife food plantings should not be overlooked. The purpose of these plantings is simply to provide food for wildlife. Plantings favoring quail, for example, might include browntop millet, blue panicum, browntop panicum, native perennial, panicums , or cowpeas.

Assistance in planning for wildlife may be obtained from the local Soil Conservation Service technicians assisting the Runnels Soil Conservation District.

Most Runnels Soils Subject To Erosion

Most soils in the Runnels Soil Conservation District are subject to wind and water erosion when left bare, states James Barnhill of the Soil Conservation Service.

Wind and Water cause erosion damage by carrying off top soil, says Barnhill.

This type of erosion can be controlled by leaving a protective cover on the surface of the soil. This cover can be provided by living plants or dead litter, such as sorghum stubble.

Cover acts as a cushion to rain drops during hard driving rains, and acts as a barrier to high winds during wind storms. This cushion will stop the surface soil from crusting, slow the rate of evaporation and increase the water infiltration rate.

Crop residues will protect the land through the fall and winter months.

Election Set For Zone 4 Supervisor In Runnels SCD

Residents of Zone 4, Runnels County Soil Conservation District, have an election date to keep on October 2. C. T. Parker, County Agricultural Agent, says the election is very important and he urges all eligible voters to cast their ballots.

Zone 4 comprises all landowners in Runnels County north of the Winters-Novice road, and north of the Winters-Bronte road.

Zone 4 voters in the Runnels County Soil Conservation District will elect a farmer or rancher who will serve as their supervisor and representative on the SCD board for the next five years.

Time and place for the Oct. 2 balloting is at 7:30 p.m., in the Winters High School Agriculture Building, Parker said.

The county agent said a qualified voter is a zone 4 landowner who is over 21 years of age or older. Wives of eligible landowners may vote and should do so since they have an interest in their soil conservation district, he said.

Parker pointed out that soil conservation districts are political sub-districts of the State of Texas and by law are charged with the responsibility of carrying out a soil and water conservation program in their districts. Through them such items as technical service, equipment, leadership in small watershed projects and many other services are provided to cooperating landowners.

A general discussion program will be held following the election, during which time such programs as the screwworm project, and wheat varieties project, and many other important agricultural programs will be discussed.
