Possible Invalidity of Remedial Bills Worries Solons

REFERENCE TO PARTICULAR CENSUS CUT

AUSTIN, March 21.—Possible invalidity of bills being offered in Texas legislature to replace methods of acts already held in by the state supreme court worrying the few members who remained in Austin over the week-end.

The court decision held that a law cannot be passed applicable to one city or other subdivisions alone. Most of these bills apply to cities of specified population. This makes it possible for places sometimes to be affected. The danger felt for the remedial bills is the likelihood that the same court will next hold that the arbitrary population range is not sufficient but isolation.

The bill passed by the house Friday was to be specifically named in the bill will have to be a local and be advertised 30 days. Such an act may affect only a few matters already allowed by the constitution.

FUNERAL FOR J. N. WOOD IS HELD IN CISCO

Funeral services for Jasper Newcomb Wood, 72, who died Friday at his home here, were held at the Green Chapel at 3:30 Saturday afternoon with burial in Oakwood cemetery. Rev. E. S. James, pastor of the Baptist church, officiated.

Mr. Wood, a resident of Sabalino 10 years until 1927, had made home with children at Austin the past four years. He was born November 3, 1858, at the time of Arkansas and Texas. He moved with his parents to Hebron county when a young man and soon after moving there. His wife lived but a few years after their marriage and in 1899 shortly after moving to Navarro county, he was married to Mrs. Lovada Irene Berry. They had four children, of whom three are living.

Mr. Wood was a member of the Baptist church since early manhood. He is survived by five children, J. E. Wood, A. N. Wood, Mrs. G. Brown and Mrs. H. W. Parker, all of Austin; and one brother, C. C. Wood, of Floydada, Texas.

CISCO BOYS LOSE COUNTY NET FINALS

Cisco boys tennis team lost both singles and doubles in the final of the county Intercollegiate tennis tournament held at Harlingen Friday and Saturday. Harlin and Irvin lost to Gregg and Over of Ranger, Saturday afternoon 6-1, 6-4, 6-4, while Irvin and Barker of Eastland in the doubles won both singles and doubles over Ranger girls. In the one-net play contest for the 20 Breckenridge high school and second and third. Eight boys were entered in the contest and took place at Ranger Friday night.

Battleship Carrying Hoover on Visit to Porto Rico

KASSEY WILL SEEK HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

AKRON, O., March 21.—A petition for a writ of habeas corpus to secure the release of Paul F. Kassey, charged with criminal syndicalism and attempted sabotage against the United States navy's great dirigible, Akron, will be filed Monday in the court of appeals, his attorney, Mrs. Yetta Land, announced today.

The announcement was made after the attorney noted for her defense of Ohio syndicalism cases, had protested a continuance of $20,000 bond ordered when the preliminary hearing was continued until next Thursday at request of the state.

EIGHT JURORS SELECTED TO TRY BROTHERS

CHICAGO, March 21.—The first week in the trial of Leo V. Brothers, charged with murdering Alfred J. Lingle, Tribune reporter, last June 9, ended today with only eight of the twelve jurors selected to hear the evidence.

When court was adjourned for the week the last panel of four veniremen had been tentatively qualified. Both prosecution and defense attorneys would be qualified early Monday to permit formal opening of the trial on that day.

Former Cisco Attorney Here

Clayton L. Orn, formerly of Cisco and now of Fort Worth where he is associated with the legal firm of Phillips, Trammell, Chizum, Price and Estes, was in Cisco Saturday night. He was to leave this morning for his home in Fort Worth after having been in Abilene on business. Mr. Orn still retains connection with the law firm of Barker and Orn here with which he has been associated.

Combining a vacation and business trip to Uncle Sam's tropical possessions, President Hoover has sailed from Norfolk, Va., aboard the U. S. S. Arizona when the reconconditioned battleship, shown above, makes its ten-day trial run into Caribbean waters. Below is an aerial view of San Juan, capital of Porto Rico, where the Chief Executive will confer with Governor Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., on economic and social conditions on the island. Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley and Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur were included in President Hoover's official party.

LOCAL NINE OPENS AGAINST BROWNWOOD

The Cisco independent baseball team will blast the lid off the current baseball season this afternoon when the Brownwood American Legion team comes to the local lot for an engagement at 3:30. The Chesley diamond will be used.

The local nine is made up of ex-college, ex-league and ex-lobby players and other local players. The team roster will be practically the same as last year when the club boasted a record of 25 wins out of 28 games.

Charlie Bryan will pitch for the locals. The infield will be "Punk" Theinrich, first; Leonard Hill, second; George Van Horn, short; Jack Phippen, third. Dick Bryan will be on the receiving end of his brother's tosses.

The outfield will be Baker Glenn, left field; W. B. Chapman, center field; and Lenham Buey, right field. O. C. Ray will probably see service. Manager Perry, of the club, is arranging for other games on subsequent Sundays.

Fifteen new uniforms, grey trimmed in red, have been ordered and were due to be here in time for use this afternoon.

104 PINTS OF MILK GIVEN AWAY DAILY

The Parent Teachers association is furnishing 104 half pints of milk daily to the undernourished school children of the West Ward, East Ward, and South Ward schools. A Graham cracker is also given with each bottle.

The association greatly appreciates the help and cooperation which several business establishments have given. Members said. The Cisco Creamery is furnishing the milk at a discount, the Radford Grocery company is furnishing the crackers at a discount, and the West Texas Utilities company is furnishing a refrigerator for the West Ward and ice boxes and ice for the other schools.

Donations from the public are made in the milk bottles placed in the stores of the business district. The last time the money was collected, it was found that the donations were not as much as heretofore. If this good work is kept up until the end of the school term, there will have to be more response from the public, the association said.

Volcano Used by Bandits, Erupts

Obie Bristow, head coach at Big Spring for next year, who was in Cisco Friday to confer with oil belt coaches in prospect of non-conference games between the Steers and oil belt teams, is the former Oklahoma coach who was held for ransom by Mexican bandits for 31 days a year or more ago.

The last hiding place to which the bandits took the elder Bristow, the Big Spring coach-elect said, was the crater of a supposedly extinct volcano. Recently the volcano erupted, he said.

The elder Bristow was eventually released on payment of $1,500 which was about 10 per cent of the price first demanded.

SEEK INDUSTRIES. AUSTIN, March 21.—Robert Cragg, state labor commissioner announced tonight that his department will begin a series of surveys and investigations seeking to bring employing industries to Texas.

RESCUE PLANE IS UNABLE TO CONTINUE HOP

ST. JOHNS, N. B., March 21.—A heavy fuel load and a rising wind into the harbor today prevented Benet Balchen from continuing to Newfoundland in his Sikorsky amphibian in search of survivors of the tanker Viking.

Balchen and his companion Ramsey Lunley and Merian Cooper, made several attempts to get away this morning but the big plane was unable to leave the water. The men dispensed with some of their equipment, including blankets and parachutes but decided that they must lessen the fuel load. By this time a rising wind and increasingly choppy harbor made the risk too great and the continuation of the journey north was postponed until Sunday.

GRAVE FEARS ARE FELT

ST. JOHNS, N. B., March 21.—A strong northeast gale piled up the shifting ice floes around Horse Island today and threatened for the second time the danger of starvation to 108 survivors of the Viking ship Sagana. Marooned on the rescue ship Sagana.

Government officials viewed the situation with grave concern. Captain Mean, of the Sagana, reported that the food supply was rapidly diminishing. Contrary to first reports the Sagana was sent to the island with only a small quantity of food.

Dallas Man Heads Cotton Ass'n

DALLAS, March 21.—J. L. Goldman, Dallas, was elected president of the Texas Cotton Association here today at the close of a two-day convention.

Goldman succeeds T. F. Bush, of Waco. Lamar Fleming, Jr., of Houston, was elected first vice-president. Election of second vice-president, treasurer and secretary was temporarily withheld.

LEGISLATURE ADJOURNMENT IS PROTESTED

AUSTIN, March 21.—House and senate of the Texas legislature took a rest today.

House adjournment over the week end was voted only after a protest from Representative J. C. Albritton, of DeWitt county. Albritton said that by adjourning from Friday to Monday the members are really drawing $14 a day instead of $10.

"Would you have us work Sunday?" one member called from the floor.

"Yes, if we could dispose of this mass of bills and resolutions," returned Albritton.

WALKER DENIES HE RECEIVED THREAT LETTER

LCS ANGELES, March 21.—Mayor James Walker, of New York, in a long distance telephone conversation with the United Press here today denied the report that guards had been placed about the Untermyer estate to protect his life.

The United Press learned from Mayor Walker that the rumor that he had received a letter ordering him to get out of the country "or we'll fix you" was entirely unfounded.

"I have received no threatening letters and have placed no guards about the place," the mayor declared.

President Left Waiting for Review and Salute That Do Not Materialize

GARDEN CLUB WILL BEAUTIFY SCHOOL GROUND

The Cisco Garden club, under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. V. Heyser, has vigorously undertaken a project for beautification of the grounds of the Cisco grammar school. The club object is to landscape the present bare lawn, surround it with hedges and beautify it with evergreens and shrubs and flowers, transforming an unsightly aspect into a vista of real civic beauty.

Mrs. Heyser has announced her plan and named her committee to take active charge of the various features and is now appealing to the citizens in general for cooperation in putting over the program successfully and with dispatch.

Hedges to Be Planted

Three sides of the grounds will be lined with hedge, according to the plans and the women are seeking contributions of the various hedge shrubs from nurserymen for this purpose. The grounds will be landscaped, drawings of this made by the commercial department of the schools. Incidentally essays will be written upon the subject by students in the English departments of the schools, giving credit to nurserymen contributing to the work.

Citizens having flowers and shrubs which they can contribute for their homes will be urged to do so. Few yards, said Mrs. Heyser, do not have excess plants which can be utilized. The school colors, purple and white, will be followed in the arrangement and selection of plants, although no restrictions will be placed upon the shrubs and flowers which can be donated. The club wants particularly, however, purple and white lilacs, purple and white iris and violets. Evergreens of any kind will be thankfully received.

HOPE WANES FOR SAFETY OF AVIATOR

MANILA, March 21.—Hope that C. W. Brophy, missing aviator, would be found alive was fast waning today.

Brophy has been missing since he took off from Hong Kong Thursday bound for Manila.

Naval destroyers, tenders and airplanes were searching in the north of Manila bay.

If the flyer is not found by tomorrow it is believed the search will be abandoned.

Outbreak Against Suspect Is Feared

SAN DIEGO, California, March 21.—Guards, armed with machine guns, are patrolling the grounds of the city jail here today as threats were heard against the life of Donald Paul, 45, charged with attacking a 10-year-old girl.

Interest in Paul was heightened by the search for the killer of 10-year-old Virginia Brooks.

Paul was questioned about Virginia's disappearance but denied any connection with the case.

TWO CHAPLINS SAY SYSTEM RESPONSIBLE

JOLIET, Ill., March 21.—Responsibility for riots at Joliet and Stateville prisons was placed upon the state parole board today by two prison chaplains who testified before the legislative investigating committee.

Rev. Eljiah Weir, Catholic chaplain, testified that months ago he observed growing unrest among the convicts and warned the parole board that if riots occurred it would be "your fault."

Rev. George L. Whitmeyer, Episcopal chaplain, who recently resigned by request, said the parole board was principally to blame for the riots which took the lives of two convicts and culminated Wednesday in fires that did $500,000 damage in Stateville.

It was strongly intimated the committee would recommend numerous changes in the parole board's system, including a proposal that the board hold continuing sessions at Joliet instead of hearing parole and pardon applications only once a month.

Warden Henry Hill, whose conduct in the prison administration was commended by the witnesses, revealed that the 1,200 convicts locked in their cells as punishment for participation in the riots, created a bedlam last night in anger against 600 privileged rioting prisoners.

Otherwise, however, both Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries resumed normal routine with the convicts again fed regularly, letter writing privileges restored and extra guards gradually being withdrawn.

CITY ASSISTS UNEMPLOYED BY PROVIDING JOBS

By JAMES C. FETZER
United Press Staff Correspondent
PITTSBURGH, March 21.—Practically nationwide for its economic soundness and absence of any feature of the "dole," the "Pittsburgh plan" of unemployment relief has brought tangible relief to 1,000 worthy unemployed in the only way the majority will accept relief—by providing jobs.

All of the estimated 20,000 unemployed in the Pittsburgh district eventually will be given the same opportunity, its sponsors believe, as the contributions to the $3,000,000 fund continue to come in.

The plan, which President Hoover is said to have pronounced the "best of any in the nation," aims primarily to provide work, not a dole.

The $3,000,000 nucleus is being raised in three ways: contributions of one day's payroll from each of the 3,000 industrial firms of Allegheny county, based on the average day for 1930; contributions of one day's pay from each employed person in the county; and subscriptions of public spirited citizens. From each source a million dollars is expected.

This $3,000,000 fund is to be used only to pay wages. City, county, borough or township authorities must provide the material and equipment to use in the various public building projects.

The ratio of labor costs to material costs in 60 and 40 per cent respectively. In other words for each $400 provided by the "Pittsburgh plan," 100 men are given one day's work each and a total of $666 is placed in circulation. The extra $266 represents the cost of materials and equipment.

Already more than 1,000 have been given "jobs" under this plan. These men, heads of large families and many of whom have been out of work for three years, expressed their gratitude that the relief was in the form of work rather than charity.

Repeating, sewer construction, and similar public improvements, unprovided for in routine municipal or county budgets, are being undertaken under the plan. With the labor provided through the plan the only cost to the municipality is the material.

In addition to President Hoover others who have endorsed the plan include Secretary of Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, Gerard Swope, president of General Electric; Roy W. Howard, chairman of the board of Scripps-Haward newspapers and other national leaders.

The plan itself has a close alliance with the state committee. Edgar Kauffman, who developed the idea, is chairman of the Allegheny unit of the state unemployment committee.

SENSATIONAL CHICAGO GRAFT EXPOSE LOOMS

CHICAGO, March 21.—The most sensational exposure of police and political graft in Chicago history was threatened today after Mrs. Shirley Kub, formerly police spy, had made good her promise to "tell all" rather than remain in jail for contempt of court.

Mrs. Kub, who once was quoted as boasting she knew enough about graft "to blast half the politicians and policemen in the city out of their jobs" was released today by special grand jury before which she had testified almost continuously for 15 hours.

It was expected she would be released from jail later today.

HOOVER IS RE-VAMPING FARM BOARD

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Reorganization of the federal farm board is being undertaken by President Hoover, his associates disclosed here today.

Mr. Hoover is represented as being eager to appoint prominent farm leaders at the head of this government agency to see what they can do about the critical situation agriculture is facing.

The appointment of Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, was part of this new presidential policy, it is said. Following shortly will be the appointment of another outstanding farm leader to replace Samuel R. McKelvie, of Nebraska, who is resigning June 15.

ODDS NOT SO GOOD

SEATTLE, March 21.—Two-for-one are good odds in most games of chance, but they re-acted unfavorably against Roy R. Lusk when he gambled with a dollar and won two years in the federal prison for making one counterfeit dollar.

AN IMPORTANT HIGH COURT DECISION.

Lawmakers and laymen were given a jolt on the nose as the result of a supreme court decision which held, in effect, that hundreds of local laws passed by the legislature are unconstitutional. Action on all local bills in both houses was withheld pending an investigation of the scope of the decision. There is a reason why: The supreme court held the legislature did not have the right to pass a general law whose application was limited solely to one county or city and never could affect another county or city. The decision was made in a mandamus action brought by the city of Fort Worth to compel Attorney General James V. Allred to approve special assessment bonds levied by the city under an act passed by the last legislature. This is the meat of the Critz decision:

"We hold that a law that has uniform application throughout the state, to cities of a certain class, as to population, or other legitimate classification, is not repugnant to the constitutional provisions even though there is only one city in the state of that class, but when the law is so drawn that it applies to only one city, and can never apply to any but this one city in any possible event, the law is unconstitutional and void because such law is not based on classification but on isolation."

Most of the laws affected were passed by the 40th, 41st and 42nd legislatures. Speaker Fred Minor expressed the opinion some of the local bills knocked out could be reenacted by having the bills advertised for 30 days in the county affected and by naming the county to which it would apply. Other eminent lawmakers declared that a number of the bills could not be reenacted because they were passed in the first instance in violation of constitutional prohibitions. First Asst. Attorney General Bruce Bryant said hundreds of bills not mentioned by the supreme court are unconstitutional and void and could not be reenacted by the legislature and that scores of bills, creating offices for counties, increasing the salaries of county officials, creating assistant district attorneys and providing for traveling expenses of county school superintendents were unconstitutional under the decision. He said he was in accord with the opinion.

Concerning the Fort Worth case where Allred refused to approve the special assessment bonds, the court held that among other things the legislature could not pass any local or special law authorizing regulation of the affairs of counties, cities, towns, wards or school districts of incorporated towns, cities or villages or changing their charter. Lawmakers make laws. These laws must track the constitution. There is a supreme court. Its judges are the interpreters of the constitution. "Now where do we go from here?"

A BILLION DOLLAR MOTOR TAX FUND.

William Ullman writes that never was there a billion dollars in tax money more varying collected and expended than that which came from the motorists of the United States in 1930. A compilation of the nation's motor vehicle tax bill reveals that staggering sums are collected. The items that are included in the grand total of one billion dollars are as follows: Total state taxes aggregated $865,000,000. They included $350,000,000 for registration fees and $515,000,000, estimated, from gasoline taxes now imposed in every state. Municipal motor revenues amounted to $20,000,000 and in addition personal property taxes amounted to $125,000,000. Mr. Motorist appears to be paying his share of the freight. Incidentally and so to speak, the automobile industry uses 82 per cent of the rubber used in the United States; 55 per cent of the plate glass, 15 of the iron and steel, 30 of the aluminum, 14 of the copper, 15 of the hard woods, 24 of the lead and 80 per cent of the gasoline.

TEXAS ITEMS FOR TEXANS.

Federal building allocations for Texas total $21,096,000 including $12,921,000 already appropriated and $9,075,000 to be sought at the next session of congress. An additional allocation of $850,000 for a new parcels post station at Dallas also will be sought.

Texas produced 5,120,304,000 pounds of sulphur in 1930, valued at more than 30 million dollars and representing 90 per cent of the world total production.

Two new ideas in road construction are being experimented with—steel in Illinois and cotton in Texas—the success of which will mean a new outlet for large quantities of both commodities. Brick over steel foundation and cotton cloth as a base for asphalt are used in the experiment. The first cotton fabric road in the world built in Texas as an experiment promising a new outlet for cotton, according to a well-known publicity agent, "shows no signs of deterioration at the end of its first year of use, but the test cannot be considered conclusively until after two more years." So far the fabric road shows to advantage over the two-shot asphalt treatment, the per mile cost being $2000 a mile against more than $4000 for the asphalt method and "if the construction holds up to present promise wide extension of the use of unbleached cotton canvas for a road base is certain."

OTHER OPINIONS

THE DYNAMO
The merchant who grumbles about his competition and wants to eliminate that competition through arousing public opinion against the particular owner of the competing business will never succeed. Our United States was founded on the basis of equality and fairness. Every man has a chance in this country to make the most of his ability. The merchant who admits defeat and grumbles rather than attempts to get back his business by really getting out and hustling for the dollars is sure to "go on the rocks."

These United States have grown so big and free-minded—and shall we say "cold"—that a merchant can't sit in a cane bottom chair on the front porch of his store anymore, eat crackers, bat flies and swap yarns with people and expect "business to come to his store." You must go out and bring business to you now, instead of it coming to you. A merchant will of course always have a few select friends who will trade with him regardless of what other merchants might do, but the majority of people today are bargain hunters. They trade with the merchant who offers them the best buy—the merchant who really acts like he appreciates their patronage—the merchant who goes out and hustles for business.

And another thing—and Old Dynamite is absolutely speaking from personal experience—a merchant who sits at his store, grumbles about hard times, argues with his prospective customers instead of waiting on them quickly and courteously, runs down his town and is generally disagreeable and won't stay in business very long. How long do you think this merchant would trade with a merchant who persisted in telling me every time I walked in his store how Breckenridge was slipping, slipping and going to the devil, and crying everything and everybody in general in this city? Not long. Probably would never go back in his store again. Why? Simply because I could find plenty of other merchants who knew how to keep their grievances to themselves and who waited on me quickly, efficiently and acted as if he really wanted to serve me.—Breckenridge American.

In the Political Arena

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, one of the outstanding democratic leaders of America as well as one of the greatest executive leaders, signed a bill extending the Adirondack Park to an area of 4,604,000 acres and making it the largest public park in the United States—greater even than Yellowstone National Park. Within the greater park there will be 2,630,000 acres of privately owned and 1,968,000 acres of state owned land.

Gov. Roosevelt is of the highest type of the American citizen. He is not a shuffler, a dodger, a fence-sitter or a hypocrite. He is a man of vision of the highest integrity and efficiency and ever for the constitution and the law and the rights of the many. He began political life as a state senator from a rural district. His record as a lawmaker was spotless.

He was made an assistant secretary of the navy by Woodrow Wilson and another spotless record of eight years was carved out by the only Roosevelt who ever remained loyal to the tenets of democracy whose gospel was enunciated on these shores by Thomas Jefferson. He is serving his second term as governor of New York. Ever running true to form as chief magistrate of the corrupt state of the east, he has the confidence of his own party and the respect of the republican leaders. He may never be president of the United States but he is the highest type of the American citizen, his ability is evidenced by all his courage has never been questioned, his patriotism is of the heart-of-oak brand and his fidelity to constitutional law and liberty has won for him throughout the years the admiration and the confidence of outstanding Americans who place their country above party but who recognize that two-party government is necessary for the perpetuation and preservation of democratic principles and democratic institutions.

Roosevelt is neither a left-winger nor a right-winger. He is for the bill of rights all the time. He would have men of constructive minds and patriotic motives control the affairs of the democratic party in order that popular government be restored to the people and special privileges and special privilege politicians driven from power. Franklin D. Roosevelt is a builder. A Christian, gentleman, he would create a little paradise here below. He would make happy and content and prosperous the millions of Americans who toil with hands or brain to create wealth for their families and their country and make of this republic just what its fathers intended when they placed it on the map of nations more than 150 years ago. All this is Roosevelt, the man the patriot, the lover of constitutional liberty, the champion of true democracy a lover of his kind because he is a human being. He is the foe of intolerance. He believes in the rule of the people and he would place economic issues first in the platform of the democratic party for the very reason that he believes that economic problems must be solved to maintain high standards of living for the masses and a fair deal for all men regardless of station in the eyes of the law. He is not a demagogue. He is not a time server. He never places personal interests above the law or his party. He is today as true a type of the Jeffersonian democrat as the republic has known for 75 years.

In the spring of 1932 a national convention of the democratic party will name a presidential standard bearer and draft and adopt a platform. The man who is named as the standard bearer will select the chairman of the national committee. It will require a two-thirds vote of all the delegates to nominate. Only a majority will be required for the adoption of a platform. There will be many favorite sons. There will be a deadlock unless the signs of the times are misleading. After the deadlock has been broken the winner will be named. And the nominee should be given the support of all men who call themselves democrats. This is a prediction. Neither the left wing nor the right wing will be permitted to dominate the convention, write the platform or name the standard bearer. They will have a voice but they will not control the convention of the party of the people in the coming nation-wide battle for the supremacy of political parties and party policies in this republic.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Sixth street at H Avenue. "How Rescued Martyrdom of the Saints" is the particular theme from the Revelation, taken by the minister for this morning's inspirational study. It is neither a pessimistic nor a prognostication, but is impregnated with practical possibilities even for the immediate present. How can the manifest inequity in the world be harmonized with the wisdom, and power, and love, of our Creator, God? Dr. G. C. Morris at the pipe organ, and the chorus choir, will furnish selected music. For the 7:45 evening hour why not come early and enjoy the popular hymn singing? "When We Walk With the Lord" will be the theme for meditation for the evening. The gospel is God's good news to man; and gratitude for the marvelous improvements immediately manifested wherever it goes should send you into the church to take your place shoulder to shoulder with those who are the benefactors of the community in its propagation. Why not begin today? Sunday school at 9:45. Young People's League at 6:30.—BRUCE C. BONEY, minister.

BEDFORD SERVICES
Preaching at the Bedford Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. O. A. Morton pastor of the Twelfth Street Methodist church will preach. All the people of the Bedford community are invited to be present.

In Just a Few Moments Washday Is Over

Just snap a switch and an efficient motor churns clean, sudsy water thoroughly through every garment in the tub. In a few short moments washday is over—easily, economically, and dependably—and the results are far more satisfactory than if you continued with old-fashioned, expensive, and often times destructive methods.

The gentle but effective agitating motion of the new Fedco Electric Washer cleans garments and linens perfectly. Fresh, clean, and snowy-white they emerge from the all-porcelain tub almost before you know it.

Operating costs are ridiculously low—and in addition, laundering by this modern method makes possible large savings due to the longer-life of your garments and linens. Investigate today.

Cisco Graduating Class Is Entertained by W. M. U.

of the loveliest affairs of the season was the banquet Friday evening given by the members of W. M. U. of the First Baptist church in honor of the graduating class of the Cisco high school.

Mattie Lee Kunkel furnished the while the guests were assisting.

The opening number on the program was the "Victory Song". Rev. James pronounced the invocation. The welcome to the class was by Mrs. E. J. Poe, president of W. M. U. The response was by Jules Karkalits, president of the class. R. N. Cluck was toastmaster.

James, the principal speaker of the evening, talked on "Christian Education." Mrs. P. L. Ulom a solo.

A delicious repast, consisting of chicken and dressing, salad, cranberry sauce, peas, potatoes, rolls, and ice cream, was served to the fifty guests.

Members of the junior class assisted in the service.

The sponsors of the class, Misses Walker and Marian Chambliss, and Mrs. H. Brandon, and Supt. Mrs. R. N. Cluck were included in the guest list.

Other guests were: Misses Ova Brown, Mary Marie Bryant, Leona Lays, Godfrey, Mary Elizabeth Lillian Shertzer, Cleo Curry, Lynn Farquhar, Margie Lee, Helen Crawford, Eugenia Reed, Nell Waters, Jourine Rhy-Myrtle McCannles, Bessie Penn, Jane Sadler, Madeline Elv, Scott, Mary Latch, Adele, Jern, Joyce Ray, and Jourine, and Gene Abbott, Jules, O. C. Ray, Howard Fulford, Mate, Elvis Morton, Dick, J. W. Shepherd, Mar-Tarrant, Haywood Kinsey, Clark, Billy Murray, Willie, Eugene Lankford, Howard, Clarence White, Paul Morton, Vern Garrett, Lyman Preston, Camp, Andrew Watson, Fred, George Swink, and Hal.

refreshments of poppy, cookies, and suckers were served. Those enjoying the occasion were: Misses Maxine Gallagher, Edith Rumbaugh, Nadine Mayhew, Lucelyn Clark, and Morelle Scott, and W. C. White, Cecil Hudson, Charles McKelrick, Julien Flaherty, Bill Kilburn, Durward Boyd, Wilbur Williams, and the sponsors, Mrs. C. Scott and Miss Jewell Boyd.

Madames Sam King, Paul Hester, and Howard Boone were joint hosts Friday afternoon to mem- bers of the Beran Sunday School class at a party at the home of Mr. King on West Fourteenth street.

A business meeting was held after which games and contests proved very entertaining.

An Easter motif was carried out in the decorations and favors. Refreshments of sandwiches, punch, and cookies were served.

Present were: Madames W. C. McCannell, L. S. Jenkins, C. H. Anderson, R. W. Merket, R. L. Jeffrey, J. T. Elliott, E. O. Elliott, R. L. Wilson, D. C. Sadtler, H. C. Williams, H. B. Hackleman, Mitt Williams, Ted Huestis, R. C. Fain, Ed Huestis, and Miss Minnie Eppler.

BAPTIST CIRCLE MEETS WITH MRS. DANIELS.
Circle 7 of the W. M. U. of the First Baptist church met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. B. C. Daniel on West Twentieth street.

The scripture was read by Mrs. S. P. Parks. After the business session, the lesson was taught by Miss Cora Harris.

The hostess served sandwiches, potato chips, olives, and coffee. Present were: Madames S. G. Blount, S. P. Parks, E. C. McClelland, George McClung, Roger De- Steigler, R. L. Tucker, and Misses Cora Harris, Quoqueze McClung, and Pearl Bryant.

MRS. C. OWEN HOSTESS TO "42" CLUB.
Three tables of players enjoyed ten games of "42" Friday afternoon when Mrs. C. Owen was hostess to the Merry Wives "42" club.

The living room was decorated with lovely forsythia, phlox, perry tinkles, and violets making a pleas- ing spring contrast to the cold grey out-of-doors.

At the conclusion of the games, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. E. M. Burge and Mrs. J. J. Butts, served cake, ice cream, and mints to: Mes- dames C. H. Fee, Alice Ward, Gus Ward, B. W. Patterson, W. W. Moore, G. B. Kelly, J. R. Burnett, A. J. Olson, P. P. Shepard, W. P. Lee, Lee Owen, J. E. Spencer, Joe Wilson, E. M. Burge, and J. J. Butts.

Faintly corsaged of violets were given as plate favors.

HUMBLE BRIDGE MEETS WITH MRS. HANRAHAN.
Mrs. J. C. Hanrahan was hostess to the Humble bridge club Wednes- day afternoon.

A violet motif was cleverly car- ried out. Spring violets were preva- lent throughout the entertaining rooms. The tallies picturing violets, and the prizes wrapped in violet colored wrappings further empha- sized the idea.

In the games, Miss Mayme Davis won high score, and Mr. J. R. Almond the low.

A junior choir will also be organ- ized for the revival.

Rev. H. D. Tucker, pastor of the church will do the preaching for the revival and will use as his subjects: "What Do We Mean by a Revival?" and "What Do We Mean by a Work- out?"

Services will be held each week day morning at 10 o'clock and each evening at 7:30. The revival will continue through Easter Sunday, April 5th. People of all churches not engaged in revival services are invited to attend and work in this revival.

COITRE NOT A DISEASE

Dr. A. A. Rock, Dept. This same method is now being used for a home treatment of goitre cases all over the country with astonishing results. The Doctor states that goitre is a condition which grows worse with neglect and recommends immediate attention no matter how small the growth may appear. He strongly opposes needless operations. artistically decorated with ferns and flowers which added to the exquisite charm of the scene.

Divisions for this function, were games of buno, the score pads designed with the picture of a bride, were before each player, beside which repose white and green mint cups filled with white mints.

High score was awarded to Miss Ova Brown and low went to Miss Lucille Clements.

At the conclusion of the games, Miss Newton invited the guests out on the lawn where kodak pictures were made.

As the time arrived for the refreshments, the guests were ushered into the spacious dining room, which was beautifully decorated, the floral designs being in harmony with the other decorations.

The festive board, with immaculate linen, was illuminated with candles whose soft lights spread a halo of cheer over the entire curtained room. The place cards were small envelopes containing the announcement of the marriage of Miss Thelma Newton to Henry Grady Sharp, April 2. At this repast a three course luncheon was served.

One of the most delightful incidents of the luncheon was the toast to "The bride and the girls left behind," responded to by Miss Laura Rupe.

Those present in honor of the fair bride-to-be and partaking of the hospitalities of the occasion were: Misses Laura Rupe, Agnes Collins, Lillian Shertzer, Iris Renfro, Jour- daine Armstrong, Dot Chambliss, Tamara Carroll, Athylene Lookey, Lucille Clements, Nell Waters, Ova Brown, and Thelma Newton.

LIBRARY TEA PROVES TO BE LOVELY AFFAIR
The tea given at the Public Library the first of the week proved a very successful affair.

The room, slightly darkened and lighted with the glow of tall green tapers in silver holders, provided a lovely setting for the occasion. A color scheme of green and white was very effectively carried out. The spring blossoms and ferns which filled the room created a very alluring atmosphere. The table was centered with a silver bowl filled filled with apple blossoms.

Tea was poured from the silver service by the library committee, composed of Madames Wm. Reardon, G. B. Kelly, and P. P. Pettit, assisted by the 20th Century club president, Mrs. J. B. Cate.

The color scheme was further emphasized in the green and white plates and cups and the green mints. Delicious wafers and tea were served each guest. Between fifty and sixty guests called during the afternoon.

CLUB MEMBERS ATTEND PARTY IN FORT WORTH.
Mrs. L. H. McCrea entertained members and guests of the Pivot and 1920 Bridge clubs with a luncheon Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Silliman Evans, in Ft. Worth.

Among those who attended from Cisco were: Madames F. D. Wright, Guy Dabney, Chas. Trammell, J. H. Brice, E. S. Wilkinson, W. B. Chapman, Jack Kelly, and J. A. Bearman.

PROGRAM FOR MOTHERS CLUB ANNOUNCED.
Mrs. Homer Slicker will have charge of the program of the Mothers club Thursday morning.

The subject is: "Principles of Art in the Education of Childhood." Mrs. M. L. McGannon will discuss "How to Teach Kindergarten at Home." Mrs. Chas. Sandler will talk on "Mothers and the Kindergarten." Several members will be called upon to speak on "Music and Poetry as Part of the Best Education for all the Arts." There will be a round table discussion of "Mothers as Art Teachers Developing the Sense of Fingers in Childhood."

MRS. DEAN HOSTESS TO "42" CLUB.
The home of Mrs. T. J. Dean was lovely with a profusion of spring flowers Thursday afternoon when she entertained the "42" club.

After the games, delicious refreshments of sherbert and cake were served. Favors were tiny baskets filled with Easter candles.

Players were: Madames Waddy Manell, G. P. Mitcham, J. T. Berry, Wm. Reagan, Chas. Hale, Lee Owen, Jennie Davis, Ben McClinton, Burnett Patterson, J. R. Burnett, Mary Thompson, Joe Shackelford, D. Ball, George Fee, Gus Ward, J. E. Spencer, D. C. Sadtler, G. B. Kelly, W. P. Lee, and J. T. Anderson.

MRS. GARRETT HOSTESS AT CIRCLE MEETING.
Circle 3 of the W. M. U. of the First Baptist church met Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. H. R. Garrett in College Heights.

The devotional was led by W. F. Bruce. During the business period, the circle decided to make a quilt and sell it. Mrs. Rex Moore, chairman, presided over the meeting.

The hostess served sandwiches, cookies, and hot tea to: Madames J. T. McKissick, A. S. Nabors, C. B. Powell, Rex Moore, Ruby Miller, L. C. Moore, and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Bruce.

FACULTIES OF SCHOOLS ENTERTAINED BY ARTS CLUB.
The First Industrial Arts club was hostess to the faculties of Cisco public schools and Randolph college Friday evening at the home of Mrs. John Shertzer.

An informal evening was in demand, and under the leadership of Mrs. James Moore all signs of stiffness were soon dispelled.

A miniature track meet was held consisting of various events. Ex- tempore speeches on spinach and green apples by Mrs. J. C. McAfee and R. N. Cluck proved especially entertaining. The winning

1931 Official Oil Belt Grid Season to Begin October

LOBOS GO INTO ACTION OCTOBER 23

In contrast to the voluminous schedule prepared and played during the 1930 oil belt football season, the list of official class A games as the executive committee meeting last Friday afternoon arranged resembles a skeleton. Only four official games will be played by each team in the district whereas nine were played last season.

The conference schedule begins October 9 and winds up November 27. Eastland and Ranger will bid from the gridiron with a clash at Ranger on that date. The other three teams, Abilene, Breckenridge, and Cisco will mark time with non-conference contests until October 23 when hostilities begin seriously. Eastland alone keeping this date open.

Eastland winds into action again October 31 when the Mavericks entertain the Eagles at Eastland.

Classes Maintained

Traditional oil belt classes have been maintained intact although Eastland fought vigorously to break the claimed circle and gain a holiday engagement. Coach Joe Gibson's demands for this consideration fell on deaf ears, however, and Eastland left the powwow in a state of sore disappointment. Observers pointed out that holiday grivings permeated in this district would doubtless not suffer had Eastland's demand been granted since the Mavericks are conceded a good chance to go places and do things next fall, but the bonds of custom are too strong to be readily broken and Eastland is forced to be content with the prospect of less revenue in spite of an improved outlook for scores.

Cisco and Ranger will meet on November 11, as customary. Abilene and Cisco clash on November 27, the day following Thanksgiving, while Ranger and Breckenridge meet on Turkey day.

Cisco is denied a single conference game at home. The regular schedule of last year promised one home engagement to the Lobos but the playoff between Cisco and Breckenridge at the tag-end of the season jactitated this concession and Cisco journeyed to the Buckaroo lair instead. The game will be played October 23.

The following are the schedules for each team:

Cisco
October 23 — Breckenridge at Breckenridge;
November 11 — Ranger at Ranger;
November 26 — Eastland at Eastland;
November 27 — Abilene at Abilene;
Ranger
October 9 — Eastland at Eastland;
October 23 — Abilene at Abilene;
November 11 — Cisco at Ranger;
November 26 — Breckenridge at Breckenridge;
Abilene
October 23 — Ranger at Abilene;
October 31 — Eastland at Eastland;
November 14 — Breckenridge at Breckenridge;
November 27 — Cisco at Abilene;
Eastland
October 9 — Ranger at Ranger;
October 31 — Abilene at Eastland;
November 7 — Breckenridge at Eastland;
November 26 — Cisco at Eastland.

Breckenridge
October 23 — Cisco at Breckenridge;
November 7 — Eastland at Eastland;
November 14 — Abilene at Breckenridge;
November 26 — Ranger at Breckenridge.

These present for the meeting Friday evening in the Red room of the Laguna hotel were: L. E. Dudley, Abilene, chairman; Coach Dewey Moxley and Asst. Coach Hodges, of Abilene; Coach Eck Curtis, Registrar Lanier and Principal Van Roeder, of Ranger; Coach Joe Gibson and Asst. Coach Cecil Brown, of Eastland; Supt. E. N. Cluck and Coach W. B. Chasmon and Asst. Coach Hill, of Cisco; and Coach P. E. Shottwell and Principal John F. Bailey, of Breckenridge. Coach Obie Britton, of the Big Spring high school, was a visitor but did not attend the session. He came to Cisco to arrange non-conference games between the Steers and teams in the new oil belt district.

Coach-elect Jeffries, of the Lobos, who is assistant coach at Corsicana high school, was unable to attend because of duties at Corsicana. He wired schedule preferences to local officials, however.

STUDENTS GET PRACTICE IN SCHOOL ROOM

A system of cooperation between the educational department of Randolph college and the Cisco public schools has been worked out and in operation since the first of the year whereby students in the educational department are given practical experience in public school work. In groups of three students in the college educational department twice each six week term visit a teacher in the public schools remaining with this teacher during the afternoon, observing the work that is done and doing some teaching under the supervision of the regular teacher. Each student is expected to teach at least two lessons during a six-week term.

The student teachers are graded on the work done and the college instructors are given the benefit of criticisms by the public school teachers in assisting the students in their work and in grading them.

There are about 55 in the educational department of the college. About 20 public school teachers are cooperating in the work.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Use and Abuse of God's Gifts.

Text Luke 12:16-21, 41-48.

And he spake a parable unto them saying, The ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully.

And he thought within himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have no room where to bestow my fruits?

And he said, This will I do: I will pull down my barns, and build greater; and there will I bestow all my fruits and my goods.

And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry.

But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee; then whose shall these things be, which thou hast provided?

So is he that layeth up treasure for himself and is not rich toward God.

Then Peter said unto him, Lord, speak thou this parable unto us, even to all?

And the Lord said, Who then is that faithful and wise steward, whom his lord shall make ruler over his household, to give them their portion of meat in due season?

Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing.

Of a truth I say unto you, that he will make him ruler over all that he hath.

But and if that servant say in his heart, My lord delayeth his coming; and shall begin to beat the menservants and maidens, and to eat and drink, and to be drunken;

The lord of that servant will come in a day when he looketh not for him, and will cut him in sunder, and will appoint him his portion with the unbelievers.

And that servant, which knew his lord's will, and prepared not himself, neither did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes.

But he that knew not, and did commit things worthy of stripes, shall be beaten with few stripes. For unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required, and to whom men have committed much, of him they will ask the more.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 22.

The Use and Abuse of God's Gifts. Luke 12:16-21, 41-48.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist

There are few more instructive passages concerning a common sense recognition of the real values of life than this which we have been disposed to call "the parable of the rich fool."

As a matter of fact, the whole significance of the parable lies in the fact that, according to ordinary standards and ideas, the farmer in the parable was quite the opposite of a fool. He was the sort of man that today we would call "hard-headed," "shrewd," "successful."

He would be set up as a sort of efficiency expert in his own field of work, and men would point to what he had achieved as a conspicuous example of what a man could do who really devoted himself to his task and went about it in the right way. Yet Jesus said that this man had left out of his reckoning the most important thing of all; he had failed to take into account the important matter of his own life.

Applies to Modern Men.

With what sweeping power of application this parable of Jesus comes to the lives of men today! It is a mistake to suppose that this rich and successful farmer was necessarily a man of immoral character. There is nothing in the narrative to indicate that he was at all different from any other materially successful man. His ground had brought forth great harvests, and naturally he felt the need of building larger barns in which to bestow his goods. There was not a thing that he did that did not seem reasonable and very proper under the circumstances. He naturally cherished the idea of enjoying his success and his competency as a reward for all his labor, and he looked forward to a time of ease and comparative luxury in retirement. But in all this, good economist as he seemed to be, he had left out the most important economic factor of all. We forget so often that a man's life is an economic factor, that when death comes it may change everything that he has built up and everything that he has planned.

The appearance in our English Bible of the word "soul" gives a somewhat mistaken significance

The word in the original that is translated "soul" is the word most commonly used for the material life, the flesh and bodily existence as distinguished from the spirit. So that what Jesus meant here was not that this man had lost his soul in eternal ruin, but that he had in all this apparent sagacity neglected the meaning of his own existence.

He had gone ahead and planned everything, as if death were not a factor to be taken into account at all. His possessions and his plans were all selfish and of a sort that death destroyed, and in disregarding the limitations of his own life he had practically thrown his life away.

Wealth, Without Sinning.

Is it not just as true as it was in the day of Jesus that "so is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God?" A man does not need to be a great sinner to make his life futile and almost worthless. He can do that by failing to put a proper value on his life and by not using it for the building up of things that cannot be destroyed by moth and rust.

It is this same lesson of the wise and proper use of the ordinary gifts of life and of human faculties and powers that is emphasized in the parable of the steward and his servants. Here, fortunately, we have the application given by Jesus himself in reply to Peter's question. Peter wondered whether this was a special parable for the disciples or whether it was for everybody.

Jesus did not answer directly, but he said, in effect, that the parable was for anybody who could profit by it; and he clinched his teaching in the plain elemental truth regarding privilege and responsibility that "to whomsoever much is given, of him shall much be required; and to whom they commit much, of him will they ask the more."

That is as much good sense as it is sound religion. It was the distinction of Jesus that he taught in religion the things that stand the test in the realm of common sense and sound judgment.

GO ON WITH THE STORY
There was a grapefruit. Wallace ordered the grapefruit for himself. After that he had chop suey, a salad of vegetables and a large slice of pie. He was having the dessert when Gypsy called across at him. "Here," she said, cutting into the tiny square of cake. "I've served with her ice cream. You must eat half. It's wedding cake."

Wallace flushed. "Not much of a party, I guess, is it?" he said. "I'll have to make up for it when we get home. Have a dinner party with one of those fancy couples?"

Gypsy shook her head. "I'd rather not," she said. "I like this better." She held the plate high to take his half of the cake with its hard, dry icing. "It was not very good cake but I ate it," she said. "They had ice cream and then went back to the car."

It was a long afternoon. There were a dozen things about the new Forest City that Gypsy had liked to ask about. She was hesitant. She wanted to know about the house. All he told her was that his grandfather had built it and three generations of Wallaces had lived there. She wondered about his wife. They would come to call on her she supposed. Gypsy had heard that people in small cities were neighborly, always "dropping in" in friendly fashion. It was a little frightening.

She gazed out the window for periods at a time, staring at the countryside. Often they passed through towns without stopping. The little towns feel slighted, she wondered.

Wallace had met a man in the car who knew one of his aunts. He came back to Gypsy, mentioning the fact that he did not mind being alone and he was gone again.

Now it was four o'clock. Two and a half more hours and they would be in Forest City.

"Another hour and Alan will be coming to the office," Gypsy thought. "What is he going to do tonight? Why does it make any difference to me? He said he was going to paint Mrs. Langley's picture. That's where he'll be, of course. When will he find out I'm here? If he should telephone Mrs. Langley they'd tell him. If he should telephone me, I'd tell him. He won't telephone. He won't find out, though. Some day he'll find out about it. Some day he'll find out about it."

She thought about writing a letter to Jean Foster at the office while she was thinking about the grace to blush. It was because she was groping for the way to reach Alan that she considered writing to Jean. She forgot that she was married.

Gypsy turned away from the window. It was the flying telephones, the flying houses and the landscape that had inspired such thoughts. The landscape seemed to be back at her. "You're running away but you can't! You're running away but your thoughts won't!"

There was something she had to do. Gypsy looked down at her purse in her lap, mechanically opened it and drew out the red velvet case. She snapped it back and inspected herself in the mirror. The reflection was flattering. Gypsy patted powder on her nose and chin until she was gone. Then she reentered her mouth with lipstick, smoothing it with her little finger to make it even. She was trying to get her hair into order when the magazine in her lap fell to the floor.

"Let me get it for you!" The young man in gray who had been walking through the car called as he returned the magazine.

"Thank you," Gypsy's tone was dignified.

The young man hesitated, apparently thought better of it and went on, disappearing through the door.

Gypsy laid aside the magazine. She began to wish that Wallace would return. Soon she was staring at the vanishing landscape. It must have been 20 minutes before she heard Jim's voice and looked up. He was beside her and behind him was the young man in gray.

Jim was smiling. "Gypsy," he said, "I've run on to an old friend, Frank Gibson. He's one of our neighbors in Forest City. Gib—this is my wife."

"How do you do?" Gibson took the girl's hand. "I'm really glad to know you," he said. "Wallace," he said, "this is the way in which he said them the words seem a compliment."

Gypsy's cheeks colored. "It's nice to meet one from Forest City," she told him. "I'm going to a complete stranger there, you know."

"Not for long. I'm sure of that," Wallace had dropped into his seat across the aisle. The seat in front of Gypsy was vacant. Gibson turned this about and sat down, facing the girl.

"Quite a surprise to hear that you were married," he told her. "I, however, since seeing the girl."

Gibson was as tall as Jim and had dark hair and gray eyes. Above his lip there was a close-set black mustache. There was a slight similarity about his face to some movie actor, Gypsy told herself, but she could not remember which one.

The young man remained with them until the brakeman appeared, calling out "Forest City!" Most of the time Gibson talked to Gypsy. Occasionally Wallace put in a word. As the train slowed before pulling into the station Gibson said goodby and left to get his baggage.

Gypsy was tugging at her hat. Jim had his coat on and the porter was brushing it. Suddenly the train stopped.

"This way out!" came the conductor's voice. "This way out!"

They stepped down to the platform. Wallace caught Gypsy's arm. "Over this way," he said. "We'll get ahead of the rush."

Gypsy took a quick glance around her but before the confused picture took organized form she had been whisked into a cab. She heard Jim give the address and they started down the street.

A moment later his voice started. "Do you think," Jim Wallace was saying in a cool, restrained tone, "it was necessary to make a spectacle of yourself flitting with Frank Gibson?"

CHAPTER XIV
Gypsy was too surprised to be angry. "Surely you can't think—"

"I'm not thinking," Wallace cut in. "I'm talking about what I saw. Other people saw it too. Didn't you notice how that couple across the aisle were watching you? This fellow Gibson isn't the sort for you to have anything to do with."

"But why were you only talking? I don't see how there could be any harm in that. You introduced him to me. I supposed you were friends?"

"Well, we're not. I introduced him because I couldn't get out of it. Listen, Gypsy, everyone in Forest City knows Gibson was the named co-resident in West Babcock's divorce. It's been the scandal of the town. Our firm handled the case for Babcock. Now don't you see how it looks to have my wife seen with Gibson, laughing and talking like old friends?"

"I still don't see how I could have said that," the girl said warmly. "I suppose you wanted me to be friendly—"

Wallace put his hand on her arm. "Oh, I didn't mean to blame you," he said. His tone was apologetic. "I know it wasn't your fault. Only—well, I happen to have a peculiar dislike for that fellow. All the time I was trying to get rid of him you smiled and encouraged him to stay."

Before she could interrupt Wallace hurried on. "I didn't mean that the way it sounds," he said. "I'm sorry. Shouldn't have said what I did. Does that make it all right?"

"It—doesn't matter," Gypsy answered slowly.

They rode on in silence. Wallace was aware of the strained atmosphere but he had apologized. Man-like, he felt he had done his duty. After a few moments he stole a side-wise glance at the girl. She was looking out the window.

The section they were passing through was brightly lighted. It was part of the business district. "That's the city hall at the right," he volunteered. "First National bank next to it."

Gypsy made an effort to throw off the depression that had engulfed her. "Where is your office?" she asked.

"Over about two blocks west. You can't see it from here. I'll take you down there some day. It's the same office Mark Harrison's been practicing in for 40 years."

Presently he said, "Well, you've seen the town. What do you think of it?"

Twilight had set in and the street lights had just been illuminated. Their glitter against the grayness produced a blurred background. Gypsy saw buildings lower than those she was accustomed to, street cars, the same familiar traffic. Forest City looked like a drab, long Island suburb.

"I like it," Gypsy said, trying to seem enthusiastic. "I'm sure I'll like it."

"In a couple of months it will look a lot different," Wallace told her. "We've got some parks. Lots of trees. Of course, downtown is about like any other place the same size. Our house is out on the west side." From the way he spoke Gypsy knew the west part of Forest City was "the side."

"Five minutes more and we'll be home," he added.

They were riding through darker streets now. Perhaps Wallace realized the girl's sudden panic. His hand closed over Gypsy's. She did not look up but her fingers pressed close to his. Neither spoke until the cab stopped.

"Here we are!" Wallace said. He was out of the car and helping Gypsy out. The driver followed them up the walk, carrying the bags.

Before her Gypsy saw a large square frame house. It was set back from the walk and the lawn was bordered with shrubbery. There was a brick walk leading up to the porch which was lighted. Shades were pulled at the lower windows but from behind the blinds glowed fringes of yellow radiance.

"Just put the bags down here," Wallace told the taxi driver, pointing to the porch. He drew a bill from his pocket and gave it to the man.

"Well, Gypsy," he said, turning toward the girl. "We're home!" Before he could reach the door it swung open. The figure of a tall, slim, middle-aged woman was silhouetted against the light.

"Jim!" she cried. "Oh, Jim—I'm so glad—"

Laughing, he put his arms around her, kissed her cheek. "We're glad to be here too," Wallace said, "but weren't you surprised? Here she is, Aunt Ellen. Gypsy, this is my aunt!"

The girl stepped from the shadows. She was smiling, half-timidly. Gypsy put out one hand. "How do you do," she said. "I hope you're going to like me."

"But—why, Jim?"

The exclamation was hysterical. Gypsy stepped back.

"Jim!" Ellen Wallace cried. "Who is this woman?"

"This is my wife, Aunt Ellen. I thought you were expecting us. Didn't you get my wire? I sent it before we left New York."

Wallace turned toward the girl. "Come in, Gypsy," he said. "It seems they didn't know we were coming."

He pushed her before him into the house. Gypsy could feel the older woman's eyes riveted on her.

"Your wife?" Ellen Wallace repeated. "Jim, you don't mean that. You can't. Why, yes, the telegram came." She fumbled in the pocket of her dress. "Look—here it is. It says 'arrive with bride.'"

Once more her peering eyes studied Gypsy. "I thought—" the woman went on. "I thought of course it was Marcia—"

She looked as though she might faint. Gypsy, terrified, waited for Wallace to speak.

All that he did was to turn and close the door. When he spoke again his voice was quiet.

"I see how the misunderstanding happened," he said. "Sorry, Marcia—well, we can talk about her later. Don't you think, Aunt Ellen, you might give my wife a more cordial welcome?"

Miss Wallace seemed to stiffen. She had gray hair and the same bright blue eyes as Jim. Her hair was drawn back and pinned in a high knot on top of her head in a style popular in the nineties. She wore a dress of stiff gray silk with white lace at the throat. Suddenly the woman raised a handkerchief to her eyes.

"I can't believe it," she sobbed brokenly. "I can't believe it!"

"It was a trying moment," Wallace moved toward his aunt, stopped and turned to Gypsy.

"Here, let me take your coat," he said. "Mustn't keep you standing. Come on in here."

The girl interrupted. "Never mind about me," she said. "You'd better do something for your aunt."

Miss Wallace apparently was making an effort to meet the situation. She stuffed the handkerchief into her pocket and came toward Gypsy.

"How do you do," she said. "I can't pretend I'm glad to see you. I've never in my life had such a shock. It was bad enough for Jim to get married away from home and not let anyone know about it. Jim's like my own son, I've taken care of him for so long. I—well, now that it's happened I hope you'll make him a good wife!"

Gypsy offered her hand and Miss Wallace took it.

"I hope I do, too," the girl answered.

There was no relenting warmth in Ellen Wallace's blue eyes. What she would have said next is uncertain because at that moment there came flying into the room a joyously barking, bounding bundle of black and white dog fur. It leaped up against Jim Wallace, fell back and leaped again. The sharp, short yelps were ecstatic.

Instantly Jim was down on his knees. "Well, Pat, old boy," he grinned, "are you glad to see me? Are you?"

The fox terrier barked an answer that was unquestionable. He tried to lick the young man's face.

Wallace beamed like a ten-year-old. "That's the boy, Pat," he exclaimed, roughing the terrier's ears the wrong way. He pushed the dog away from him. It was a game Pat had evidently played often.

"Oh!" Gypsy cried. "He's darling. Why didn't you tell me you had a dog? Will he let me touch him?"

Wallace was on his feet now. "Of course. Won't you, Pat? Look, who's here?" He pointed toward Gypsy. "She's going to live here now. You're to take good care of her. Understand?"

The terrier's bit of tail was wagging furiously. Coming closer to Gypsy the dog paused, looking up at her. The bright, sober eyes stared into the girl's and the black ears curved knowingly.

Gypsy said, "I believe he understands every word you say."

"Sure! He understands everything. I've had Pat since he was two months old. Getting along now. He's almost nine."

The terrier had come closer. Gypsy knelt to stroke his head and Pat licked her hand.

"You're going to be friends," Jim announced. "That settles it. Pat's adopted you."

Gypsy put both arms around the dog. His coat was soft and warm and his little body wiggled amiably. "I like you, Pat," she said in a low voice. "I like you lots."

Miss Wallace's voice broke in impatiently. "Send the dog out to the kitchen, won't you, Jim? We have things a good deal more important to discuss now than that animal."

Gypsy's smile faded as she arose. There was a note in the other woman's voice that was ominous. Instinctively Gypsy moved toward Jim.

He signaled to Pat, and the dog, with a lingering backward glance or two, trotted from the room.

"Just what did you want to discuss?" Wallace asked. There was resentment in his voice. "Personally I'd like to get cleaned up and go into discussion with a juicy piece of beef steak. We've had a long trip, Aunt Ellen. Don't you think there'll be a better time—"

"There's no reason to put off what I want to know—unless you're ashamed to tell me," his aunt insisted crisply. "What's this young woman's name? Who is she? You haven't told me anything about her yet."

Gypsy knew Jim was embarrassed and that he was trying to hide it.

"That's so," he said. "Guess I did forget. Aunt Ellen, this is Gypsy. Until this morning she was Gypsy McBride."

"Gypsy? Is that what you said—Gypsy?"

"That's what I said. Gypsy McBride. You've heard me speak of Phil Trowbridge. Gypsy and Phil's wife are cousins. It was at their house we met."

"It's a heathen name!" Ellen Wallace spoke as though the very words were contaminating.

"And what about Marcia, I'd like to know—"

There must be some means of escape, Gypsy glanced about the room. "Jim," she said, "isn't there something I can go while you and your aunt—talk things over?"

"Of course. Upstairs—the room at the head of the flight. Wait—I'll show you!"

He led her up the stairs to the old-fashioned bedroom. An hour later from the depths of the rocker where she was sitting Gypsy heard a knock.

OUT OUR WAY

SHERLOCK HOLMES MIGHT BE ABLE TO DOPE OUT WHY A GUY LOOKS INTO A SANDWICH, BUT WHERE OL' SHERLOCK WOULD BE STUCK IS — WHY A GUY, WHO'S GONNA EAT IT, WHO SUCH BLACK HANDS CARES WHAT'S IN IT.

OH, IT'S JUST CURIOSITY. LOOKIN' IS TH' ONLY WAY YOU CAN TELL WHAT YOU'RE EATIN'. YOU NEVER WILL KNOW BY TH' TASTE, WITH THEM HANDS.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS.

AS FRECKLES AND HIS FATHER SAT AND TALKED, BEFORE GOING TO BED, THE DOORBELL RANG AND A MAN, WHO ANNOUNCED HIMSELF AS A DETECTIVE, WAS USHERED IN.....

WHAT ON EARTH DOES A DETECTIVE WANT AT OUR HOUSE... THERE'S NOTHING WRONG, IS THERE?

NO... I'M LOOKING FOR OLD MAN HECTOR'S HOUSE... I WAS TOLD THAT HE LIVES ON THIS STREET?

SEEMS THAT THIS HECTOR IS A RICH OLD RECLUSE AND A COLLECTOR OF RARE JEWELS... HIS MOST PRIZED RUBY DISAPPEARED MYSTERIOUSLY AND I'VE BEEN PUT ON THE CASE... DOES HE LIVE FAR FROM HERE?

HIS THE QUEEREST MAN IN THE TOWN... HIS HOUSE IS WAY OUT AT THE END OF THE STREET... WHY DON'T YOU STAY ALL NIGHT AND IN THE MORNING I'LL HAVE FRECKLES TAKE YOU OUT TO HIS PLACE!!

ANY LAND!! WHAT ARE YOU DOING UP SO LATE... AREN'T YOU AND YOUR FATHER EVER COMING TO BED?

A DETECTIVE IS HERE, NOW... POP ASKED HIM TO STAY ALL NIGHT!!

AND, IN THE MORNING, FRECKLES WILL SHOW THE DETECTIVE WHERE OLD MAN HECTOR LIVES....

HIS THE QUEEREST MAN IN THE TOWN... HIS HOUSE IS WAY OUT AT THE END OF THE STREET... WHY DON'T YOU STAY ALL NIGHT AND IN THE MORNING I'LL HAVE FRECKLES TAKE YOU OUT TO HIS PLACE!!

PLATFORM IS RESTATE BY J. R. BURNETT

I have been asked by several of my friends to publish again the principles which I am advocating in my campaign for mayor of Cisco. My platform was published some weeks ago, but in order that those who failed to read it may be assured that I stand for Cisco and her citizens first, last and all the time, I desire to make this statement. Among other things I favor:

An immediate arrangement for the settlement of our entire indebtedness, said settlement to be on the basis of fairness to our citizenship and in keeping with sound business principles. I favor paying all the bonds the people voted on but I do not favor paying ONE CENT on the bonds the people did not vote on.

Every appointive city employee should offer his or her resignation upon the qualifying of the new commission, in order to give the city commission an opportunity to call back those who are considered worthy, and to make room for those who are to fill the places of those who are not considered deserving.

Tax values should be lowered, the same being made possible by economy and efficiency.

We should have a minimum water rate of $1.00 per month and a minimum allowance of 9000 gallons for our homes and a maximum water rate of $3.00 for domestic purposes. If we can grant greater relief to the consumers I favor doing so.

There should be a minimum garbage charge of $1.00 for garbage hauling in our business districts, and if at all possible we should not make this charge at all, as $1.50 of your $2.50 ad valorem tax goes to pay maintenance, so why should the business man be doubly taxed?

Everything possible should be done to induce people and capital to come to our city and let them know that they are welcome and appreciated.

It has been predicted that if I am elected mayor, I will close all drug stores, cafes, news stands, etc., on Sundays. Now, you know as well as I that this would not be expedient and that a mayor would have no such power.

It has been reported that if I am elected mayor that I will have my wife appointed city attorney, her sister, Mrs. Richardson, appointed city secretary, and the rest of my kin will be given jobs with the city. I should not mention such things, however, as any one who knows anything about law knows that this would be a strict violation of the law. If they will just read Article 432 of the Penal Code of the State of Texas, they will see how foolish such statements are.

The backs of our city affairs should be kept open at all times for inspection by the citizens and the citizenship should be kept informed as to what their commission is doing.

I believe the mayor, as well as the city commissioners, should stand for something, and he should make recommendations to the city commission from time to time on matters that vitally concern our city.

but he should not try to dictate nor force them into doing his will.

Expenses in every line and department should be slashed; I favor abolishing what is known as the CONVICT CAMP out at the lake.

Upon the above and foregoing issues, I solicit your vote and influence, assuring you that I will use my best efforts to carry them out.

J. R. BURNETT.

UNEMPLOYMENT FIGURE PLACED AT 6,050,000

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Secretary of Commerce Lamont today fixed the total of the nation's unemployed at 6,050,000 at the depth of the business depression in January but offered encouragement with the official announcement at this high figure of a slow improvement since.

This figure represented the estimate of able-bodied unemployed who were seeking work on the basis of the department's new census.

The administration estimate is two and a half times the unemployment figure announced by the census bureau as of last April, is higher than the count of the American Federation of Labor and approximates that made by opponents of administration policy in the senate.

several, while all other plant and flower contributions will meet with a sincere thanks.

Chinese Elms

Chinese elms are the trees which the club has decided upon as best suited to the plans and the soil conditions. They will ask contributions of these trees from nurserymen.

As assistant chairman in charge of the project Mrs. Larry Waterbury is assisting Mrs. Heyser. The following committees are actively in charge of the phases of the work described.

Mr. J. E. Spencer, chairman; Mrs. M. C. Carlisle and Mrs. E. B. Clappitt, in charge of trucks, fertilizer and soil and rocks. Those who will contribute in these directions are asked to call any member of the committee.

Mr. P. E. Warwick, chairman; Mrs. C. H. Fox, Mrs. John Brice, Mrs. S. E. Hutton and Mrs. B. S. Huey, in charge of trees, shrubs and flowers. Those who will contribute plants are directed to call any member of this committee.

The faculty of the school, headed by O. L. Stamey, principal, is co-operating magnificently with the program, Mrs. Heyser said. The faculty is:

Mr. Stamey, Rae Dill, Mrs. Edward Lee, Mrs. James Moore, Mrs. H. Brandon, Mrs. E. M. Hazelwood and Mrs. M. D. Ford.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Woolridge left Saturday afternoon for Blanco City where they were called on account of the serious illness of his mother.

ARE YOU THINKING OF ASKING FOR A LOAN OR RENEWING YOUR NOTE?

Before doing either of these things keep the following in mind:

Our first obligation is to safeguard the funds placed in our custody and to keep ourselves in position at all times to meet all possible demands for their return. Every other aim is subordinated to this. The banker who has not recognized this truth has disappeared.

The funds which one may borrow at this time only represent the surplus that another has deposited. It follows therefore that the depositor at this time may be the borrower later on.

That the security tendered for a loan is good and sufficient is not enough. In addition it must be collectible when due. All such loans will be paid when due and leave a surplus on deposit. Therefore if you expect to borrow you must likewise be a depositor a portion of the time. You must give ample security and pay your note when due. If you ask to borrow another's surplus a portion of the time, it is reasonable that you have a surplus a part of the time, if the other fellow is to have credit.

Set your house in order. Clean the slate twice or three times a year and you will find yourself a success and your business profitable.

THE WINGS MOMENTUM

Three of the most abused words in motordom are Luxury, Performance and Economy. But I would welcome the opportunity to prove to you that the new Free Wheeling Hupmobile transmission gives you a far greater measure of each than is possible without it.

Free wheeling is really an innovation. I am sure that it will be adopted by all progressive manufacturers within the next few years, because owners will insist upon it.

Perhaps you don't understand how this simple invention prevents fatigue in driving—how it makes gear shifting much easier for every driver—how silent it is in second speed—how gently it deals with chassis and passengers—how it saves you money in fuel, oil and reduced wear.

I am therefore inviting you to a special seven-mile ride, with you at the wheel, to let you prove these strong statements to your own satisfaction. The car will be equipped with special instruments which you can check yourself and there will be nothing to interfere with your test or your enjoyment.

Will you ride with me on the wings of momentum?

DO YOU BANK WITH SAFETY?

---Does the "Federal Reserve System" Sign in a Bank Window Mean Anything to You

Do you give some thought as to where you entrust your money or do you just put it anywhere that is handy? Do you investigate the dependability of a proposition before you invest in it or do you buy indiscriminately? You say that you seek safety of course! How about your health?

Many Have Cause to be Thankful for a Safety First Health Policy

It is always advisable to give as much thought to the ultimate consequence when seeking medical aid as when looking for financial safety. And usually it is more important. The safe way is to look for the "Federal Reserve System" emblem of the reliable physician. It is represented by the letters M. D., which only the physician who has the credentials gained through more than 18 years of training and experience is qualified to display. They are the emblem of dependability. They represent safety for your investment in medical services.

M. D.—Letters That Stand for Dependability and Responsibility

They stand for more! Who in any community has greater respect and prestige than the old time family doctor? In many cases he is the family counselor. He has never been known to betray a confidence or violate a trust. His aid and comfort to hundreds are known to many and his greatest service has been when service was most needed. M. D. represent all of these things and the idealism and honorable traditions of centuries are upheld by the men entitled to use these letters. Call them with confidence when in need of medical attention.
