Hoover Announces Plan To Halt Construction Of New American Warships

NAVY PROGRAM TO BE HELD UP BY EXECUTIVE

Britain's Decision to Suspend Work on Ships Cause of Move

COOLIDGE PRESENT

Former President and His Secretary of State In Notable Group

WASHINGTON, July 24. (AP)—The Kellogg-Briand treaty for renunciation of war was proclaimed today by President Hoover at a simple White House ceremony with the occasion made more auspicious by promised delay or curtailment in naval construction by the United States and Great Britain.

Before the distinguished gathering met to hear the president, word was received of Premier MacDonald's announcement to the house of commons the labor government had decided to suspend some naval building.

Later even more significance was attached to the formal putting of the treaty into effect by a revelation through Mr. Hoover that the laying down of three American cruisers would be suspended, "until there has been an opportunity for full consideration of their effect" upon the final agreement for parity with Great Britain that he expects to be reached.

Competition Ends

Referring to MacDonald's address in the house of commons today, Hoover said the British premier had introduced the principle of parity which America has now adopted and that "its consummation means that Great Britain and the United States henceforth are not to compete in armament as potential opponents but to cooperate as friends" in obtaining a reduction of sea forces.

"The prime minister has stated clearly and unmistakably the principles on which he is acting," Mr. Hoover continued. "I cannot but be responsive to the generous terms in which he has spoken of the attitude and purpose of the United States. We join in his efforts in the same spirit."

The president extended a welcome to Premier MacDonald in reply to his announced intention of visiting America. The American people are greatly complimented by the proposed visit, Mr. Hoover said, and the British premier will find a universal welcome.

DIPLOMATIC GESTURE
By R. WELLES RITCHIE

LONDON, July 24. (US)—When Premier Ramsay MacDonald announced in his speech in the house of commons this afternoon that "October at present seems the most likely" for his visit to the United States, he was making a "diplomatic gesture." That gesture was forecast in my dispatch yesterday. As Universal Service said yesterday and as Ambassador Dawes has known for some time, Premier MacDonald will not find it possible to go to Washington in October or at any date which may now reasonably be conjectured.

Speedboat 'Bogie' Races Madly To Better 'R. E. Lee' River Record

CAIRO, Ill., July 24. (AP)—The speedboat Bogie jumped into the last lap of her race against time to St. Louis late today arriving here at 5:15 p. m. and leaving 20 minutes later. It still was considerably behind the 90 hour and 14 minute records of the Robert E. Lee, but was running "wide open" when it roared out of this port.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 24. (AP)—The end of the third day in the water found Dr. Louis Leroy's speedboat, the Bogie, lagging back of the mark set 59 years ago by the steamboat Robert E. Lee, for the run up the Mississippi river between New Orleans and St. Louis.

At 3:15 p. m. today, 72 hours after leaving New Orleans, the Bogie passed Hickman, Ky., below Cairo, Ill., with Dr. Leroy pushing the engine hard in an effort to reach St. Louis before 9:18 a. m. tomorrow and lower the record of 90 hours and 14 minutes made by the Lee in 1870 in her race with the Natches over 1,160 mile course.

Engine trouble at Caruthersville, Mo., this morning held the Bogie nearly an hour and put the speedboat almost three hours behind the time made by the Lee. The trouble developed just after refueling had been completed and the Bogie drifted downstream for several miles before the engine was adjusted. A stop previously had been made at Osceola, Ark., to install a new propeller designed to give greater speed.

Last year Dr. Leroy was running ahead of the Lee's time when driftwood broke his boat's propeller 70 miles from St. Louis and ended his third assault on the packet's record.

HUGE COTTON CROP FORECAST

Yield May Total 5,000,000 Bales, Says Terrell

AUSTIN, July 24. (AP)—A cotton crop of 4,775,000 bales was estimated today by George B. Terrell, commissioner of agriculture, in a resume of agricultural conditions of the state.

With favorable conditions the yield might total 5,000,000 bales, the report said, but it is likely the crop will fall far below this figure. Acreage was increased two per cent over last year, but abandonment will offset the gain.

"Considerable damage was reported by boll weevil and the leaf worm is cleaning some of the fields in South Texas," the agricultural survey said. "Many of the growers are now poisoning cotton. This, however, should be done upon the first appearance of the worm unless the cotton already is matured," Terrell advised.

The corn acreage is practically the same as last year. Old corn is in good condition, but the late crop is cut short in central, east, north and west portions of the state. Terrell said the yield might fall slightly below last year's total of 99,000,000 bushels.

Acreage and production of wheat have been increased and the crop may reach 30,000,000 bushels, or an increase of 8,000,000 bushels over last season.

The production of hogs has increased 8 per cent and that of poultry 35 per cent, the report disclosed.

ROBIN NEARS 13 DAYS ALOFT

St. Louis Plane Adds To Endurance Record

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 24. (US)—The rhythmic "pop, pop, pop" of the champion St. Louis-Robin endurance plane continued to sound from the clouds above Lambert-St. Louis field tonight, as Pilots Dale (Red) Jackson and Forrest (Obie) O'Brine added hour after hour to their world record for continuous flight.

This is their 12th day in the air and they are still holding to their declaration, "we can last as long as there is any run left in the motor."

Dividends Grow

At 11:17 o'clock (C. S. T.) they had been aloft 280 hours, more than 24 hours past the one-time record of the Angeleno, which faded in the puff of their exhaust at 2:01 p. m. yesterday.

Each passing hour in the air pays them cash dividends now and speculative persons are wondering if the new air heroes are trying for a get-rich-quick record also. On the basis of offers received so far, Jackson and O'Brine are earning $2,648 a day from the time they shattered the Angeleno's record.

The maker of the motor in the Robin will pay $100 for each hour the pilots add to the old record. A department store and an electric company each will pay $100 a day and the Municipal Theater association $2 an hour. Jackson and O'Brine will share these awards equally.

Cash Donations

Cash donations from individuals and gifts of all sorts are beginning to come in for the fliers. Thousands of congratulatory telegrams are pouring into the airport, so many, in fact that two extra telegraph operators are receiving messages in the observation tent.

Among the first batch was one from Loren Mendell and Roland Reinhart, pilots of the Angeleno and another from General Plutarcho Calles, former president of Mexico, who passed through St. Louis yesterday en route to Europe.

KATY WAIVES OBJECTIONS TO RAIL PROJECTS

DALLAS, July 24. ATTORNEYS DO BATTLE OVER GIRL WITNESS

'Insinuations' Concerning Miss Amanda Davidson Cause of Clash

LEAHY 'FIRES' HELP

Condemned Man Tells His Lawyers to Go Home In Dramatic Style

GEORGETOWN, Texas, July 24. (AP)—A brief, but turbulent fist fight and a dramatic moment in which the defendant sought to discharge his attorneys marked the first testimony in the sanity hearing of Harry J. Leahy, under sentence of death for the slaying of Dr. J. A. Ramsey of Mathis.

The fist fight occurred while attorneys were examining the first witness, Miss Amanda Davidson, of Taylor whose affidavit that she believed Leahy insane won the defendant a stay of execution and a sanity trial.

Long Time Friend

Miss Davidson, an attractive, smartly dressed woman of 30, testified she had known Leahy for eight or nine years and that his acts since his conviction, as well as his letters, had indicated his mind was unbalanced.

H. N. Graves, of the prosecution, on cross examination asked Miss Davidson whether she knew that Leahy was married and yet received letters from him and then went on to ask her who had told her what to say from the stand. A carbon copy was produced which Miss Davidson identified as a transcript of what she had told defense attorneys she would testify.

E. B. Simmons of San Antonio then took the witness on redirect examination and attempted to show that the paper in question was a transcript of what she had told attorneys she would testify and that the composition was her own. After an argument over this question Simmons declared that "she had a right to tell the attorneys what she would testify and to refute the dirty insinuations made here."

Court in Melee

Every attorney in the case was on his feet instantly and Graves advanced upon Simmons.

"If the court cannot control this man," he said, "I can," and he swung vigorously at Simmons' jaw. In the melee that followed many glancing blows were struck, but no damage was done and Sheriff Louis Lowe soon had order restored. Graves apologized to the court.

Leahy's attempt to discharge his attorneys led his counsel to renew their attempt to have the defendant kept from the court room. They argued that the defendant's mental condition and the fact that he insisted that no witnesses be presented for the defense made it imperative that he be confined to jail.

During an argument the defend-

Record News Staff Correspondent

LAWTON, Okla., July 24.—Members of the Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce and trade trippers from the Texas metropolis, headed by their band, paraded the business section of this city at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The visitors were extended a hearty welcome by members of the junior chamber here and by the business men and citizens. The band concert was much enjoyed. The young business men of the Texas city proved themselves to be "real folks" by visiting the places of business and mixing with the large number of citizens who had gathered to make them welcome.

It was a weary, dust stained bunch of members of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce that pulled into Lawton about 4:30 o'clock, after several stops made on the road. The caravan of one bus and 10 automobiles got a late start out of Wichita Falls making it necessary to omit Marlow from the schedule of visits in order to arrive in Lawton at the time desired.

First Stop at Petrolia

The members of the chamber of commerce, about 30 in number, gathered in front of the Lightsey garage on Scott avenue in Wichita Falls at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. This number was augmented by Paul Seeds 30 piece municipal band, which accompanied the Junior chamber of commerce on the trip.

The first stop was at Petrolia where the delegation, arrayed in linen dusters and carrying red and white and blue and white striped parasols, marched down the street, led by the band. The second stop was at Byers. Following the parade here the assembled audience was addressed by Rev. Patrick Moreland, pastor of the Grant Street

Flappers Get Taste of Future Thrills as Snook Trial Opens

By MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 24. (UP)—The tragedy of Prof. J. H. Snook and Theora Hix began unfolding today before a flapper audience and with a verve which gave promise of exciting happenings before the story is told.

Although the day was devoted entirely to the usually tedious work of selecting a jury, before the afternoon session was over the hundred or more girls of hardly over high school age who dominated the audience had gained thrills galore.

From the standpoint of the case itself the most important development undoubtedly was the suggestion in questions by defense lawyers that evidence may come to show the use of narcotics lay behind the murder of Miss Hix last June, allegedly by Doctor Snook.

Examining a prospective juror, Judge John Seidel of the defense, asked:

"Should it be shown that Miss Hix gave narcotic drugs to this defendant, or that either or both of them used drugs, would it prejudice you against this defendant?"

During the investigation of the slaying of Miss Hix on the New York Central rifle range more than a month ago, there were reports that Doctor Snook and his 24-year-old college girl sweetheart—one or both of them—had used drugs. But recently the matter was understood to have been dropped. Today's questions gave reason to believe that the subject might figure importantly before the trial ended.

Seven veniremen had been passed temporarily for jury duty at the close of today's session. Four of

10,000 Troops Assigned to Control Huge Throng to Look Upon Pope

By PRINCE PIGNATELLI

ROME, July 24. (US)—In a procession which will last more than three hours and which will embody all the symbolism of religion and the restoration of the popes to temporal power, Pope Pius XI will be carried from the Vatican palace to St. Peter's square at sunset tomorrow, where he will bless an assemblage expected to total 100,000, representative of all the peoples of the world.

The emergence of the pontiff from the confines of the Vatican palace to a portion of ground only recently assigned to the vatican state by Italy in the lateran treaty, will mark the first time a pope has been so greatly in the public eye since Sept. 20, 1870.

Previous to the signing of the concordat which ended the differences between the vatican and the quirinal, St. Peter's square was the territory of the kingdom of Italy. Thus, by his emergence, although Pope Pius is ending the voluntary imprisonment of the long line of popes, he is not stepping outside the boundaries of his temporal state.

Ten thousand Italian troops will be assigned to control the immense crowd which is expected to pack into every available corner and vantage point near St. Peter's cathedral to witness the papal procession. Huge barriers, fences which will be used to break the pressure of the surging human throng, will be stretched across the square from the two principal fountains, centered on the gigantic obelisk in the form of a cross.

JUST THE Baer Facts

By Bugs Baer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., July 24. (US)—While Ambassador Dawes is struggling in England to maintain the integrity of his wardrobe he is liable to come back here and find all of us wearing short pants.

The abbreviated business started out in Chicago when a society man walked down the main drag attired in Boy Scout pantaloons.

While admitting that Chicago would be improved by a slight dash of heliotrope we hate to see any citizen of that stalwart city striving to be elected Miss America.

We do not know where the mobsters were when this daring lad strode up the boulevard with his knees sparkling in the sun like a couple of Idaho potatoes.

If they had seen him, there is not a fractured doubt that they would have turned the machine guns on him and given him a perforated lesson in lead polka dots.

You can bet Rockefeller's newest billion that the Bug is not going to wear those short panties in public. We haven't got those kinds of legs.

Our legs look like a couple of axe handles. We are so bashful and sensitive about them that when we get snobbish and get two pairs of trousers with a suit we wear both pairs at the same time.

We have yet to see any man with beautiful limbs. The trouble with masculine legs is that our ancestors used them mostly for staggering purposes.

Now we know just how Dawes felt about knee breeches. He was elected ambassador on his education and not on his shape.

We should leave all that fancy business for the more opposite sex. No man we have seen ever had shinbones and ankles that were constructed for exhibition purposes.

Let's take Thomas Edison, now recognized as one of the greatest men in the universe. Do you think we would enjoy all those marvelous inventions today if he had to spend his early life wondering what kind of depilatory to use on his calves?

No, sir, let us leave the frills and furbelows to the sex with the most curves.

Let men think about more serious things—if they can.

Pretty clothes and V-backs are not for us. Incidentally, the gendarmes at the bathing beaches are objecting to the ladies wearing V-backed bathing frocks.

We have looked that up, too. There is no law against V-backs in any of our 11 constitutions.

We have consulted all the authorities, and the greatest of them all is silent on this subject.

It warns the faithful not to square the corners of their ears. But it doesn't say a word about V-ing a back.

FISTICUFFS IN LEAHY HEARING

Lawyers Battle Over Questions Put to Girl

ant jumped from his chair, told his lawyers that they were discharged and ordered them to go home. The motion to exclude the defendant was renewed, but Judge J. D. Moore overruled the motion.

Leahy appeared to be irked by the delays today and refused to answer many questions put to him before court opened, especially those relating to family history.

Miss Davidson testified that after Leahy's trial she visited him frequently in jail and that his conversation was incoherent and that he would change the subject suddenly in the middle of a conversation for no apparent reason. His letters, she said, indicated that he was unaware of his plight. None of them was presented as she said she had burned them, with all of her other letters. In one, she said, Leahy remarked he probably never would see another sun, and then went on to say that as soon as he was out of his trouble he would move to Austin to be near his friends.

Ranch Causes Trouble

At Leahy's murder trial the state sought to show that a ranch which had belonged to the Leahy's, old South Texas cattlemen, had been taken by foreclosure and that Dr. Ramsey had purchased it. Leahy, the state sought to prove, hired Roberto Martinez to kidnap the doctor and take him to a lonely spot where Leahy tortured him until he signed deeds returning the ranch to Leahy. Ramsey was killed after the papers were signed according to Martinez, who testified against Leahy.

A 50-year sentence was imposed when the jury found Leahy guilty in his first trial at George West, but the ranchman won a new trial and received the death penalty here. His attorneys had exhausted every other legal device and had failed in an appeal to Governor Moody before Miss Davidson filed her sanity affidavit.

Mrs. Leahy, wife of the defendant and A. W. Holcomb, for 30 years a prison guard with considerable experience in the death house also testified that in their opinion Leahy was insane.

Mrs. Leahy, who admitted that she had married the prisoner just before his arrest and had never lived with him testified that in about October, 1923 Leahy had changed very suddenly and that since that time he had grown "worse."

Formerly, she said, her husband was always in a lively mood and his eyes had been bright and alert, but lately he had been frequently silent and his eyes had had a glassy stare. She testified that he had told her wild unbelievable tales of buried money in Mexico and then in almost the same breath tell an entirely different story of wealth buried elsewhere. Leahy, she said, imagined that he knew more about law than any lawyer in Texas.

Holcomb, like Miss Davidson and Mrs. Leahy, did not qualify as an expert on mental diseases, but he did testify that he had been a guard in the death cell many times in the last 30 years and that he had had many opportunities to observe men condemned to die. Leahy, he said, apparently never slept or ate breakfast, although he always protested that he wanted breakfast. The defendant, he said, would stare at him as if alarmed and then talk incoherently. Recently, Holcomb said, Leahy looked at him and remarked, "I wonder why my wife doesn't come to see me," a few minutes after Mrs. Leahy had gone out.

C.-C. Delegation Visits Oklahoma

Methodist church of Wichita Falls. He stated that any progress the people of Byers might make was progress for Wichita Falls and closed by welcoming them to the City that Faith Built.

The reply to Rev. Moreland was made by Leo J. Curtis, cashier of the First National bank, who stated that he was speaking on behalf of the president of the Lions club, R. L. Liggon, who was absent. He stated that there was a bumper crop of cotton and corn in prospect and that the people of Wichita Falls might reap some of the rewards.

At Waurika, the usual parade plan was carried out and the band played the three or four numbers. Then Roy J. Daniel, attorney of Wichita Falls, addressed the considerable crowd that had gathered. He expressed the pleasure of the delegation in visiting Waurika and invited the people of that city to come to Wichita Falls assuring them a courteous welcome.

Lunch at Duncan

Ralph Pittman was the spokesman for the party at Comanche following a short concert by the band. He made a very good talk. At Duncan the party gathered on the lawn of the First Methodist church and waited for lunch. It was then about 1:30 o'clock. The luncheon was served by the Woman's Missionary society of the church.

Then the delegation paraded the business district, the band played several numbers and Neil Powers spoke for the Junior chamber of commerce, stating that while it was a pleasure for the caravan to visit Duncan, at the same time it would be a still greater pleasure to have "Duncan people come to Wichita Falls."

The caravan then left, first intending to go to Marlow, the next stop on the itinerary. However, on the road, it was decided to omit Marlow on account of the late hour, and the party drove into Lawton.

At Lawton a long parade covered most of the business section of the city, the band leading.

Following the parade, the party was taken out to Fort Sill, four miles north of Lawton where they were the guests of Maj. Seth Weld, commanding officer of the C. M. T. C. camp at a banquet given in the mess hall. Other guests of honor at this banquet were several members of the Lawton Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Inspect Camp

Then the Wichita crowd was taken on an inspection tour of the camp, which march ended at the open air arena where the Junior chamber of commerce from Wichita put on the evening program for the entertainment of the C. M. T. C.

The program was over at about 10:30 o'clock when the delegation got back in cars for the return trip to Wichita Falls. Master of ceremonies for the day was A. D. Lightsey, who led in all the parades and introduced the speakers. His assistant was Walter Nelson Jr., president of the Junior chamber of commerce.

Literature was scattered at all points visited by the Wichita Building and Loan association, Kemp hotel, Archer City delegation, KGKO, Myers chiropractic service, Hines mortuary, and the Kent Tire and Storage company. The last named firm distributed yo yos and the demand on the part of the kiddies was so great that the supply was exhausted at Waurika.

Included in the party were three men from Archer City, Mayor F. M. Power, J. R. Melugin, president of the chamber of commerce, and H. G. Bell, secretary of the chamber of commerce. There were also three women in the party.

ROBIN NEARS 13 DAYS ALOFT

St. Louis Plane Adds To Endurance Record

an hour which the Robin has maintained since it began its spectacular flight on Saturday, July 13, it has flown more than 16,000 miles or 9,000 miles less than the circumference of the earth at the equator.

Men Stand Strain

Neither of the fliers has given any sign of weakening but an indication that the plane's six-cylinder motor was beginning to feel the strain of the terrific grind was contained in a note dropped from the Robin today as it swooped low over the observation tent.

"A couple of cylinders act like they have a toothache," Jackson wrote.

"And Shorty," the note continued, it was addressed to "Shorty" Chaffee of the refueling crew. "How's the old tomato kid? Does our motor sound any different than it did? I have heard it so long I can't tell. Go to sleep by it, wake up by it, eat by it, do just about everything by it, around it and behind it. When we get through here, we'll need a motor at home to go to sleep by. I know one thing, and that is, the tappets have to be checked again."

"Obie is snoring" was a cheery postscript. "Don't know what the tune is, but can't dance it."

BILLION DOLLAR CITY IN SECOND WEEK

HOUSTON, July 24. (UP)—The Billion Dollar City, just 102 hours, 32 minutes and 54 seconds behind the St. Louis-Robin in the race for the refueling endurance record, entered its second week in the air today, still determined to outlast Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brine, the St. Louis fliers.

The Houston pilots, Joe Glass and G. L. Loomis, in their Stinson-Detroiter monoplane, had been up 172 hours at 4:49:54, and still were going strong.

When they took off last Wednesday, they faced the prospect of staying in the air until next Saturday night to set a new record, but the new mark is now being added to hourly.

They still are in good spirits, however, and notes dropped indicate they aren't thinking of coming down until the St. Louis-Robin has ended its record flight, and permitted them to set still a new record.

Her Heart Aches

Alma Pinkerton, 34, St. Louis bookkeeper, sued Max Manne, 40, bachelor manufacturer, for $200,000 charging that he failed to keep five promises to wed her.

the seven are women—and it was notable that they were the only four women called for examination and all passed. They are still subject to peremptory challenge however.

Ninteen talesmen were examined to get seven who were passed. Of the other 12, five were excused because they entertained scruples against capital punishment—a fairly prevalent sentiment, apparently in Ohio—and the remainder because of fixed opinions.

In addition to intimating the part which the drug habit might play in the defense, the questioning of prospective jurors emphasized the probability of a plea of insanity and of self-defense.

Other questioning went deeply into subjects of relations between the sexes and was of interest chiefly because of the broadminded attitude taken by every one of the 19 questioned upon such matters.

Painted Legs Please Paris

Women of Paris are still enthusiastic over the bare-legged craze, which was adopted by many last summer and has been transferred from the seashore to indoors. New "Distemper" designs, painted on the ankles have been added to the vogue, and as a result painted legs are making their appearance at dances.

NAVY PROGRAM TO BE HELD UP

Hoover to Suspend Work On Cruisers

the historic east room of the White House, the chief executive congratulated "the entire world" upon "this additional instrument of humane endeavor" for the sake of peace represented by the Kellogg-Briand pact.

Gathered around a three-sided green covered table as the president spoke were former President Coolidge, in whose administration the move for the pact was initiated; Frank B. Kellogg, former secretary of state whose name the treaty bears; Senator Borah of Idaho, chairman of the foreign relations committee; Secretary Stimson and five other cabinet officers, and the diplomatic representaitves of the 46 countries which have adhered to the treaty.

The ceremony consisted of the delivery of an address by President Hoover, who after reading the two articles of the treaty, declared these were proposals "to the conscience of idealism of civilized nations."

Public Appeal

"It suggested a new step in international law," he said, "rich with meaning, pregnant with new ideas in the conduct of world relations. It presented a platform from which there is instant appeal to the public opinion of the world as to specific acts and deeds."

The president added he would "dare predict the influence of the treaty for the renunciation of war will be felt in a large proportion of all future international acts."

"The magnificent opportunity and the compelling duty now open to us," he said, "should spur us on to the fulfillment of every opportunity that is calculated to implement this treaty and to extend the policy which it so nobly sets forth."

Calvin Coolidge was first to enter the east room. He walked briskly the dozen paces separating him and the president whose hand he warmly clasped. They exchanged a few words of greeting, each smiling cordially, and then, Mr. Coolidge—who made a special trip from Northampton, Mass., to attend the ceremony—was escorted to his place at the head of the table to the right of the president's seat.

Notables Pose

The president, the former president and the former secretary of state posed for pictures and within two minutes Mr. Hoover had begun to speak. So quickly did he start the reading of his address there was no time to place the microphones in front of him and consequently plans to transmit his voice around the world failed.

Before the ceremony Ambassador Debuchi, of Japan, had deposited at the state department his nation's instrument of ratification of the treaty—which act formally put the treaty into effect.

"The imperial government declares that the phraseology 'in the names of their respective peoples,'" the declaration said, "appearing in article 1 of the treaty for the renunciation of war, signed at Paris on Aug. 27, 1928, viewed in the light of the provisions of the imperial constitution is understood to be inapplicable insofar as Japan is concerned."

Nocona Oil Men To Meet Tuesday

being dissipated through release into the air. It was said that the gas sand lies so closely to that bearing the oil as to render production of oil without the escape of much gas quite difficult.

The position to be taken by the railroad commission, following the hearing, was outlined by Mr. Gilmore here Tuesday, it was said, before calling for the meeting to be held next week. He stated that the commission will expect the operators themselves to originate and adopt plans at once for the conservation of natural gas near Nocona, expressing the belief that means may be devised for raising the oil without undue release of gas from adjacent strata. Mr. Coplin was named as chairman of the committee which is to meet Tuesday. Provision of production methods which will avoid waste of gas will obviate the necessity of the commission's issuing an order covering the case, Mr. Gilmore stated.

Vacuum Questions

The hearings Monday on alleged violations of the commission's rule forbidding the application of vacuum pull to oil and gas sands, Mr. Coplin said, were purely in the nature of investigation. The testimony taken will be taken under advisment by the entire commission at Austin, it was said, from which body a decision will issue.

The cases under investigation concern the operation of a Boone lease in Young county by R. P. Dorian, and the McCarty Oil company's operations on the J. A. Watkins farm in Wichita county, it was reported. Allegations filed with the commission charged that vacuum pull was being utilized in the operation of certain wells on the leases mentioned, according to statements made at the hearings. It was pointed out by the commission's representatives that the rule forbids the use of vacuum pumps or other devices to exercise an unnatural pull on the sands unless a permit has been obtained because of peculiar condition warranting the use of such methods. Testiniony concerned the alleged existence of vacuum in tested wells which had no vacuum pumps attached, and the possibility of applying such a pull by other devices effected by altering regulation pumping equipment, it was said. According to statements made at the hearing, it was said, operators contend that creation of vacuum in the well as a result of pumping with standard equipment does not constitute a violation of the rule forbidding the use of vacuum pumps "or other devices."

The maximum penalty provided by the state for violation of the rule in question is a fine of $1,000 per day for each day of improper operation, Mr. Coplin stated. He said that a decision in these cases probably would be announced within a few days by the commission at Austin.

305 Famous Beauty Shops find:

"... With all our experience, we actually cannot distinguish between the hands of a woman of wealth and leisure and the hands of a woman who uses Lux in the dishpan..."

HAVE you envied the smooth, white hands of the woman with servants to do all her work? Now millions of women who wash dishes every day of their lives have hands just as truly lovely—because they use Lux in the dishpan!

Beauty experts know the reason... know that many soaps dry up the precious beauty oils of the skin, giving the hands a horridly red, drawn, "work-worn" look... while gentle, bland Lux soothes and protects the beauty oils—keeps hands smooth and white! That is why 305 famous Beauty Shops call Lux "beauty care right in the dishpan."

Give your hands this wonderful beauty care—the wisest, most inexpensive known! Lux for all your dishes costs less than 1¢ a day!

TEXAS U. GRADUATE GIVEN ONE YEAR TERM IN CHICAGO COURT

THOMAS BOTTS PLEADS GUILTY

Mother's Plea Helps Soften Youth's Fall

CHICAGO, July 24. (AP)—Thomas Seymour Botts, 25, University of Texas graduate, and son of a prominent Houston, Texas, attorney, who died several years ago, today was sentenced to serve one year in the house of correction after he pleaded guilty to a petty larceny charge.

The youth's mother, Mrs. Thomas L. Botts, pleaded with the court to be lenient with her son. Young Botts confessed to passing worthless checks in a number of cities. He was arrested after passing a worthless check in a Chicago realty office.

Judge Edgar A. Jones reduced the charge under which Botts was indicted from a felony charge, that of operating a confidence game, to a misdemeanor so he could dispose of the case immediately and because, the judge said, Botts appeared to be a "complex case."

Attributing his downfall to his wife who divorced him a year ago, Botts said when arrested he had "gone through" all the money he had "entertaining women from coast to coast."

After his arrest, his mother told Deputy Commissioner Stege her son was wanted for deserting the United States marines and asked his freedom on the check charge so he might be given into custody of federal authorities. Her appeal was denied.

McCraw Offers To Defend Crow Law

DALLAS, July 24. (UP)—William McCraw, criminal district attorney has expressed his willingness to take charge of the state's case if appeals are taken from the police court on charges if violating the Jim Crow law. The Jim Crow law has been upheld by the supreme court of the United States in a case in Louisiana and in the closing statement of the decision it reads as follows.

"If the civil and political rights of both races be equal, one can not be inferior to the other civilly or politically. If one race be inferior to the other socially, the constitution of the United States can not put them upon the same plane."

McCraw's statement was made following recent race disturbances in Dallas over the enforcement of the Jim Crow law, several negroes disregarding the "race signs" in local street cars.

State Weddings

PETTY-PRUNTY

DECATUR, Texas, July 24. (Spl.)—S. J. Petty and Miss Lady Bess Prunty were married recently at Marietta, Okla. The two were among the most popular young people of the city. The bride was reared here, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. V. Prunty and received her education in the high school and graduating in music and a literary course from Decatur Baptist college.

The groom, S. J. Petty, son of Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Petty, also graduated from Decatur Baptist college, where he took an active part in athletics, playing on both football and basket ball teams and later spending four years in A. & M.. In 1928 he played in the East-West football game in San Francisco, being the only Southwest conference player selected. Mr. Prunty had signed a contract as assistant coach at A. & M. when his plans suddenly changed by receiving the early part of last week a most attractive offer of an electrical position in Alabama. He accepted at once.

Canal to Straighten Neches River Urged

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 24. (AP)—A canal 300 feet wide, designed to eliminate bends in the Neches river and shorten it approximately three miles, has been suggested here as a means of averting serious floods such as were suffered recently by East Texas.

A waterway development committee has been made by the Beaumont Chamber of Commerce for the purpose of investigating that and other plans, and after investigation will take the matter up with proper government authorities.

Feels Well First Time in Years

Wichita Glass Worker Says He Never in His Life Saw Anything to Equal Orgatone

"Do you know, I was feeling in miserable shape from stomach and liver trouble for several years before I started taking Orgatone," declared George W. Felton, of Wichita Falls, Texas. Mr. Felton is a well known glass worker, for the Wichita Window Glass Co., and lives at 3105 Garfield street.

"In all my life," he continued, "I have never seen anything to equal Orgatone. Why, two months ago, when I began taking it I was feeling miserable. Since then I have gained weight and am feeling more like working than I have in a long time. I had an awful case of stomach trouble and suffered from indigestion after eating. I was so nervous I could not sleep at night and my kidneys bothered me continually and I had gotten to where I had to be very careful about every little thing I would eat otherwise my food would cause me trouble.

"It seems to me I tried almost every kind of medicine before I got Orgatone, and I don't see how anything could be much more remarkable than what three bottles of this medicine has done for me. I'm almost like a man made over and it makes me feel good to know I'm out of my misery and can do a full day's work like I used to. I know from myself now what Orgatone will do and when I tell others about it I feel like I am telling them about the very best."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusievly by Allison's Drug Store, 716 Indiana avenue.—Adv.

Chinese Legation in London Says Direct Negotiation to Settle Row

By HENRY CAVENDISH
(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

LONDON, July 24. —China wants to peaceably settle her own dispute with Russia by negotiations.

With international hysteria gradually subsiding regarding the threatened Russo-Chinese war, it was learned from a high source at the Chinese legation in London today that Nanking at present rejects arbitration as a method of settling the difficulties raised by the seizure of the Chinese Eastern railway. President Chiang Kai-Shek and his government prefer to rely on direct negotiations with Moscow.

The line of negotiations desired by Nanking is the return of joint Chinese-Russian control of the railway operation with this major change:

That Russia shall appoint a new manager for the Chinese Eastern and install new personnel in the positions formerly held by Russians.

In the meantime the attitude of the Chinese government is outlined in the following statement:

"The Chinese legation received direct assurance from Nanking today that there have been no violations of Chinese territory up to July 21 inclusive, despite grossly exaggerated alarmist reports.

"If there should be a Russian invasion across the Manchurian border the Chinese troops will defend the territory by force or arms and China will place the matter in the hands of the League of Nations under article 17 of the covenant which empowers the league, upon invitation of a member nation, to invite a non-member nation to accept mediation."

Explaining the Chinese stand regarding arbitration, an official of the Chinese legation said to Universal Service:

"China would like to have the United States arbitrate the matter but that is generally viewed as impossible, since the United States has no official relations with Moscow and therefore such arbitration would be construed as tacit recognition of Russia by Washington.

"Aside from the United States both Japan and England have axes to grind in China, and France also —to a certain extent, owing to French railway interests in Cochin-China and the province of Yunnan. Therefore China is opposed to arbitration except in the event of hostilities, when she will appeal to the League of Nations."

The legation official added that China is unalterably opopsed to Secretary Stimson's suggestion to return the Chinese Eastern to the old status quo as a basis of negotiations. He declared:

"China absolutely will not accept the return of the old manager and officials of the Chinese Eastern railway. They were expelled in order to halt suversive Bolshevik propaganda, and their return would merely mean the continuation of efforts to undermine the Chinese government."

This official emphasized, however that the seizure of the railway was only a "temporary measure" and that China wishes to return to the old basis of joint control and operation.

COALITION ON TARIFF SEEN

Demos and Insurgents to Get Together

WASHINGTON, July 24. (US)—Senator Borah, Republican, of Idaho, today branded provisions in the Hawley house tariff bill giving the president power to raise and lower duties as being "in utter violation of the constitution."

Borah's attack, strangely enough, was made public by the Democratic national committee.

It was accepted as further evidence of the development of a coalition of Republican progressives and Democrats to stand shoulder to shoulder against many features of the Hawley bill.

Existing law permitting the president with the aid of the tariff commission to raise or lower rates up to 50 per cent of the amount provided by law, has been broadened in the Hawley bill to permit such changes to be made upon "differences in competitive conditions" here and abroad.

Senator Borah said:

"In my opinion there is no better illustration of the growth of bureaucracy to be had than the story of the flexible tariff.

"Congress started out by authorizing the president, upon the ascertainment of a simple fact; to wit, the passage of a law in a foreign country, to put into effect certain rates.

"Congress next authorized the president, with the aid of the tariff commission, to ascertain the cost of production at home and abroad.

"Now in this bill they propose that he shall ascertain the differences in competitive conditions at home and abroad. In other words, we are now delegating the full taxing power to the executive. In my opinion, the present proposal is in utter violation of the constitution.

"Absolute bureaucracy is sure to result if the trend is not checked."

Aviators Relate Narrow Escape

BRISTOL, Pa., July 24. (INS)—The story of how Major Thomas G. Lanphier and three companions narrowly escaped death in a plane crash opposite the Keystone Aircraft corporation's airfield here came to light today with the discharge of two of the four men from the Harriman hospital.

A Loening amphibian plane reported piloted by Erick Hoffman struck an air pocket while attempting to gain altitude in taking off here for New York late yesterday and a wing became fouled in some telephone wires. The plane cracked up and burst into flames after striking the ground. Major Lanphier and his companions, however, managed to extricate themselves from the blazing debris. All were reported injured but the extent of their injuries could not be learned.

Two of the men continued their journey to New York while the other two spent the night in the hospital here but were discharged today.

The other two men were reported to have been Henry Gerstung, mechanic and B. Sweeney, both of New York City.

TROTZKY SEES NO WAR SIGNS

Former War Lord Still Loyal, Though Exiled

By PRISCILLA RING
Associated Press Correspondent

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 24.—Loyal to the creed of Bolshevism, even though in exile, Leon Trotzky, former war lord of the Red army, today declared the "opposition" party in the U. S. S. R. which opposes the present Stalin regime, will, in case of a Russo-Chinese war, stand firm for the revolutionary principles which prompted the revolution of 1917 and resulted in the downfall of the Kerensky government.

Absolving the Soviet government of all blame as an aggressor, Trotzky was careful to state that his opinion was expressed only as a private individual.

The conduct of the new Nationalist regime at Nanking which is responsible for the acts of its Manchurian subordinates can be explained, Trotzky said, by the fact that this government, which arose from the defeat of the Chinese laborers and peasant revolutionaries, feels its weakness before the forces against which the Chinese revolution was directed.

These forces, Trotzky declared, are British and Japanese imperialism, and Nationalist China felt obliged to seek to strengthen its authority by making an adventurous gesture in the face of the neighboring country.

"I do not believe war is imminent, because the government does not want war, and the Chinese government is unable to wage it," said Trotzky.

Trotzky insisted that America's intervention with the Kellogg pact seemed "unconvincing," because, he said, the United States has not yet recognized the Soviet government and therefore has no foundation for impartiality in the conflict.

Study Circle Holds Enthusiastic Meeting

With unabated enthusiasm the Parent-Teacher study circle held the fourth meeting of the five weeks course Wednesday morning at the Memorial auditorium. The lesson in charge of Mrs. Frank B. Creighton, advisor, had for its main subjects, "Membership" and "Leadership."

Mrs. H. J. Strief, assisted by Mrs. O. H. Karr, conducted an interesting lesson on "Membership," explaining eligibility for membership, and how to arouse interest in being a member, emphasizing the fact that 50 per cent of the homes and of the teachers must be represented by membership before the standard of excellence can be reached. It was agreed that regular meetings at a regular time and the cooperation of sponsors and mothers also help to increase membership. The masculine half of the term "parents" was also suggested as legitimate material for membership.

A short open discussion followed, in the course of which Mrs. Creighton explained the privilege of being a member of the national P.-T. A. and why members must pay dues. Mrs. Creighton also read from an article in the June Child Welfare magazine by James Newell Emery, pertaining to the welcome extended to new members of the P.-T. A. as a means of increasing membership and attendance.

Mrs. P. B. Cox read an inspiring paper on "Leadership," showing that, although some are born leaders, more attain that position by work and study. Further, Mrs. Cox said, a leader must have the gift of discovering ability among her workers and developing this ability.

Mrs. Creighton stressed the fact that a leader must have personality. Taking the word, personality; a letter at a time, the class was asked to name all qualities beginning with each letter, which help to create a pleasing personality.

Mrs. E. C. de Montel read a clever paper on "What a Magazine Chairman Should Do and Why" and stressing the zeal added to a worker by reading the P.-T. A. magazine.

Mrs. A. J. Newby, who has had personal experience as a teacher, made an interesting talk on the viewpoint of the teacher.

Mrs. Newby conducted a brief parliamentary drill, explaining that this procedure is a matter of courtesy between officers and members of an organization. She displayed a book on parliamentary rules which can be purchased for 10 cents.

Mrs. St. Andrew Myers of Henrietta, newly elected health chairman of the thirteenth district P.-T. A., requested that health certificates be given a prominent place on all programs.

A novel feature of the meeting was the short social hour following the lesson, during which refreshments were served by Mrs. A. J. Newby and Mrs. Harry ten Brink, honoring Mrs. L. R. Buchanan, out of town guest, who was an early day P.-T. A. worker in Wichita Falls and served six years on the local school board. Mrs. Buchanan is making her home now in Evanston, Ill., where she is active in parent-teacher activities. She spoke highly of the work being done in Wichita Falls.

Austin school led attendance with six representatives. Those present were Mesdames L. R. Buchanan, Evanston Ill., St. Andrew Myers, Henrietta, W. T. Westmoreland, Harry ten Brink, H. R. Cloughley, P. B. Cox, R. A. Bailey, O. H. Karr, George Garner, H. W. Conn, Paul Barnett, H. J. Strelf, T. N. Muirhead, Frank B. Creighton, R. P. Willis, A. J. Newby, E. W. Saucier, C. L. Baum, Fred L. West, R. L. Underwood, E. C. de Montel, J. T. Osteen and W. B. Taylor.

Bread An' Jam

A Daily Illustrated Poem For Children

By Wymond Garthwaite

I WONDER

The frogs are funny folk,
I never can explain
Just why they always croak
Right after every rain.

I wonder if they're glad
Because the rain has quit
Or do you think they're sad
And want some more of it?

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

Loan Fund for Relatives

"Dear Miss Brainerd: I have been married 13 years. My husband carries no life insurance. I think he should for my protection. He always postpones it.

"His sisters, brothers and nephews continually wire for loans of $25 or $50, which they promise to repay shortly but don't. We have no cash, owe money ourselves and I say that charity begins at home. My husband's family know that I object to their constant borrowing from him but they work upon his sympathies and always get what they want.

"As I shall soon be near them I should appreciate anything you might suggest that would put a stop to this practice."

Tell your husband to take out insurance, making a portion of the amount payable to you and the rest to his relatives. If he says he is not interested in providing for them, tell him that by his present course he is not only taking care of them to the hurt of his credit, but actually jeopardizing his future as well as your security in the event of his death.

There comes a time in each man's life when self-interest must come to the fore. If it does not, he will soon be incapable of helping others and may even become a burden to them.

One man I know adopted a novel scheme to rid himself of parasites. He made a list of his "bad debts," figured the total and the next time a relative asked for a loan, he said:

"I have outstanding personal loans amounting to $3,000. I have reached my limit but will keep this sum of money at the disposal of my family for future loans. Up to date none of this money has been repaid. Should any come in I shall be very glad to lend it to you."

The scheme worked. No one could take offense at so reasonable a statement. He is still "out" the original amount loaned, but no more.

Men postpone taking out insurance for three reasons: Subconscious fear of what physical examination may reveal (appeal to his vanity; no man likes to be thought a coward); their widows may splurge on the insurance money (there are forms of insurance by which one "lives to win"—insurances which are glorified savings accounts with protection!); they live up to the limit of their incomes and feel they cannot afford the cost, and gamble on bein rich before they die (the cost increases with every year he waits to take out insurance.)

Presumably your husband cares for you. Discover what his objection to insurance is and determine the best way to overcome it taking into account his individual temperament.

If you have a domestic problem on which you wish help, send me a stamped self-addressed envelope.

D. Dix Prefers "Swearing" Hubby To Sulky One

Fair Warning to the Sulky Husband—Does a Man Want Other Men in His Wife's Family?—How Much Money Does It Take to Get Married?

Dear Miss Dix—What would you do with a grouchy husband who "goes into the silence" and stays that way for days? Sometimes my husband won't speak for a month at a time and I haven't any idea what I have done to offend him.
—MRS X.

Answer: There is no other fault that a husband can have that gets so on a wife's nerves as sulking. Nor is there any other weapon with which a man can so terrorize his family as with grim silence.

It is the whip with which many a tyrant holds the trembling wretches of his household in order. He comes home to dinner, or down to breakfast, with a face as set and hard as a stone image. Something has gone wrong. He eats and drinks without speech, refusing even to ask for what he wants. He reads the paper with a portentous dumbness that strikes a cold chill to every heart. The children hush their prattle. The dog beats it for the cellar. The atmosphere of the room goes down to zero.

Finally, the wife musters courage to ask what is the matter. Is he ill? Has any one unintentionally offended him? What is wrong? To all questions he responds "Nothing" in a tone of voice that indicts the universe and convicts every one about him for having criminally conspired against him.

Such a man always takes credit to himself for not saying anything when he is angry, but he would be less cruel and far more agreeable to live with if he smashed the furniture and swore a blue streak. A wife can deal with a red-hot, cursing man who gives her a chance to talk back and explain, but with a dumb one she is helpless. She can only grit her teeth and endure it and suffer grinding torments. Which the grouches know and it is why they indulge in their mean, cowardly dumb spells.

But men had better watch their steps. The other day a woman in one of the western states was granted a divorce from her husband on the gorund that he was addicted to silent sulking, and it is time that mans' chief offense against the happiness of the home was recognized, and, take it from me, if women are given a hand in the proceedings when they compile a universal divorce law they will put grounchiness ahead of infidelity or failure to support or habitual drunkenness or any of the other causes that are held to entitle a woman to freedom and alimony.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—A friend and I are having an argument over a family with whom we are both intimate. The family consists of a mother and three children. My friend says that the girls' chances for marriage are poor because she thinks that no man will want to marry into a family that contains only women. Please give us your opinion on the matter.
—INTERESTED.

Answer: It's the looks, intelligence and charm of the girls that will decide whether men want to marry them or not, not the fact that there are no men in the family. If the girls are pretty and attractive no man will give a hoot whether they have brothers or a father or not.

In former times, when women were dependent and had to be supported by men, it was thought to be a great misfortune to have a family of girls. And whenever another girl baby was born the parents were openly or tacitly commiserated upon having another burden laid upon them.

Then a suitor might have hesitated to go a-wooing to a household of females, fearing he might find, after he got married, that he had not only assumed the board bill and shopping ticket of his wife, but of her mother and sisters as well.

But nowadays, when every girl who isn't born with a golden spoon in her mouth hustles out and makes herself a nice silver one out of which to sup, a family of girls will get on their feet and become self-sustaining just about as soon as a household of boys will. And the girls are far more likely to support mother than the boys are.

So the man who marries a poor girl is not a bit more likely to have to support his sisters-in-law than he his brothers-in-law.

You win the argument.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am very much in love with a girl and she is with me, and the only thing that keeps us from marrying is the lack of money. What amount should a young couple have to marry on?
—O. B.

Answer:—I cannot give a definite answer to that question, for so much depends on what a young girl and man have been accustomed to. What would seem riches to one couple would seem poverty to the next. What one couple could manage beautifully on another couple would starve on.

It is being used to plenty or little; it is being accustomed to sweating the pennies or throwing dollars away. It is knowing how to scrimp and save and cook and sew and turn and make over things that counts.

For a young couple to be happy, though married, it is not necessary for them to have riches. They can even do without the luxuries if they have to, so long as they have the bliss of being together. They can be happy on bread and cheese and kisses, but they must have the bread and cheese. They can't live on kisses alone.

Which is only another way of saying that they must have enough money to provide a decent shelter and good food and sufficient clothing, with a little margin for the rainy day of sickness that is sure to come and of being out of work which is liable to befall them. Above all, they must have enough money to stand between them and want, for no couple can be happy if they live in terror of the wolf at the door and if they are continually harassed by debt.

Don't rush matrimony until you have the price, O. B. You will be all the happier and will value your bride more if you have earned her.

And you have no idea how much punch and pep you can put into your job until you feel that every lick you hit is for her.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, July 24. (US)—A Brilliant man in San Francisco, whose friends enjoy him, and are forever asking him to their homes to dine, almost always refuses their invitations. There are only a few places he will go, and they are the homes of old friends who make him feel perfectly comfortable and thoroughly at home.

He refuses all others, and if they press him on the subject, he tells them frankly, "I don't like going to people's homes to dinners. It bores me, and I won't do it."

And that's what I call admirable.

What bores him, and bores the men and women of lesser courage who drive themselves through so many miserable evenings, is the kind of hospitality dispensed.

If women did for their guests what they do for themselves to be happy and comfortable, during their evenings at home, they would have no trouble attracting company, and they would not be able to drive their husbands out in the evening.

In the first place there are too many chairs with sharp edges, and no enough couches, davenports and other places to flop. The woman I knew who had the most and the happiest company, had four flopping places in her living room and three lounging chairs with footstools, a fireplace and some good books.

If her guests wanted to, and she encouraged them to do it, they could read and listen to radio music, or they could read and not listen to anything or they could just sit. She was a very informal person. That's what most people are inside.

This lady's guests always had good food at her house, but never a great mixture with a tiresome list of things designed to make the hostess seem smart and original and not for anything else.

People like to be comfortable, mentally and physically. No one wants to be bored. Most dinner parties are distinct bores. One reason wine must be served to "loosen up the guests," is that there is something wrong with the hostess and her methods. Wine helps, but it isn't necessary with a perfect hostess.

Where this man is smart, is in never accepting invitations except to a few homes where he knows what kind of an evening he will have. After all a few friends is all anyone wants. If he once accepted, and had a bad evening, the next time he was asked he wouldn't be able to be so frank without insulting the hostess.

A party is just a party in most instances. A place to get food, which you pay for dearly, with a wasted evening.

MOTHER HIKES TO AID HER SON

Aged Woman Travels 70 Miles Seeking Pardon

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 24. (UP)—After "hitch-hiking" 70 miles from her home at Holdenville, 73-year old Mrs. L. E. Nails tonight sought an audience with Gov. W. J. Holloway in an attempt to win a parole for her son, Henry Clair, 21, now serving a 20-year sentence in McAlester penitentiary for bank robbery.

Mrs. Nails was accompanied by her two grandchildren, one 9 months old and the other 4 years old.

Although she failed to secure an audience with the governor, Mrs. Nails appealed without avail to Mrs. Ben Reiley, pardon and parole officer. The aged mother blamed a woman for leading her son to rob a Pushmataha bank.

"I have to support my family. I need my son's help," she said. "I walked from Holdenville to McAlester last week to see my son, who still has 14 years to serve."

WHOLESOME DIET AID TO HEALTH

A Little Sugar Helps Us Enjoy the Foods We Need

The public should know the truths about food and diet as they are related to health.

The latest medical opinion emphasizes that we need varied foods and balanced foods, including milk, cereals, vegetables, fruits and meats. It isn't enough to eat one or two kinds of foods, and it isn't wise to eliminate any important food from the diet.

As every woman responsible for feeding a household knows, taste is the controlling factor in getting women, children or men to eat foods that are sufficiently varied. This is exactly where sugar comes into the picture, for, as has been pointed out, sugar is the greatest condimental food in the world. A little sugar develops the flavors of healthful cereals. A sprinkling of sugar makes currants, blackberries and other fresh fruits highly enjoyable.

A group of women cooking experts recently uncovered the old secret that a dash of sugar in vegetables while they are cooking brings out new and enjoyable flavors. Good cooks know how to use a little sugar to develop the flavors of roasts and other delectable meat dishes. Correct amounts of sugar used in milk desserts help children and adults eat enough milk. The most enjoyable meal is the one that is topped off with stewed fruit, ice cream, cake or candy desserts.

Help adults and children to eat varied foods. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute. (Adv.)

Coney Island May Get House Where John D. Was Born

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 24. (UP)—The millions of John D. Rockefeller Sr. were marshaled in battle array today in defense of the modest little farm house, 16 by 20, where he was born 90 years ago.

The Coney Island Chamber of Commerce recently purchased the building and it was destined to take its place along with the sword swallower, the human skeleton and the blonde snake charmer for the edification of those who visit Coney. In fact, application had been made to the state to move the little dwelling by road from Binghamton to Albany and thence by water to Coney Island. No word had been uttered by the oil magnate as to his sentiments on the project.

But his attorneys filed notice of their opposition to the removal of the building with state and county authorities.

Experiments in Extermination of Boll Weevil Planned at Duncan

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., July 24.—Three experiments in boll weevil extermination will be conducted in Stephens county this season by the federal government and Oklahoma A. & M. college cooperating, J. A. Killough, county farm agent, has announced.

A. H. Burdett of the college will be in Duncan this week to take charge of the experiments. He will select heavily infested fields, one near Marlow, one near Duncan, and one near Comanche, for the tests.

The experiments here are to be duplicated in five other Oklahoma counties, and in several cotton growing states throughout the South, Killough said. The Stephens county experiments are farther west than any ever undertaken in the four years that the federal government has been studying the boll weevil problem.

All materials for the experiments are being furnished farmers free of cost, and Burdett will supervise the work.

The weevil menace is the greatest Stephens county has ever known, Killough believes. For the first time, serious weevil infestations have been found in the western part of the county.

Guest 'Borrows' Car From Altus Hotel Porter; Lands in Jail

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., July 24.—Beverly "Bevo" Lillard, negro, just cannot be interested in the loan business.

In fact it would be little short of self-inflicted punishment for a brother member of one of his fraternal orders to so much as ask for a quarter "on the time payment" basis.

Bevo is through!

Last June 21, a hotel guest requested Bevo, who is a porter at the Orient hotel, to allow him to use his new Ford roadster for a day or two. Bevo was hesitant, but the guest was insistent and he had been a courteous guest of the hotel for nearly three months. It seemed disrespectful to refuse so small a request.

At the end of the second day the guest called Bevo from Oklahoma City, mentioned some pressing business matters, and hinted that he would not be able to return the car for another day or two.

Thirty days later the porter received a "tip" from another guest at the hotel as to his friend's whereabouts in Oklahoma City. Bevo left last night for the city hoping to return today with his no longer new car, and incidentally, the $15 and leather bag belonging to Headley Abbott, Orient hotel manager.

The guest is being held in the Oklahoma county jail pending arraignment before the court.

Walls Erected for New Haskell Gin

HASKELL, Texas, July 24. (Spl.)—Walls are being erected for the new Farmers' gin being put up at this point. A large crew of men working under P. L. Peavy, foreman, are working on the structure which is 24 by 84 feet and the seedhouse is 24 by 50 feet. The cotton house, yet to be built, will be 40 by 40 feet.

These buildings are frame, with concrete foundations and sheet iron covering. The office building and sample room are completed and the pit is being dug for the scales.

When completed the gin will be the latest thing of its kind and owned exclusively by the farmers.

The federal government furnishes rifles and ammunition free to all members with a two weeks' outing in camp on the coast at Palacios each year—all expenses paid. Members of the company will be paid each three months for armory drill. Rifle and pistol practices are held each month.

PORT EMBARGO HALTS SALES

Perryton Deals Stopped by Order

Special to The Record News.

PERRYTON, Texas, July 24.—The embargo at Galveston has put a damper on wheat sales at Perryton. Local dealers are advising farmers to hold their wheat until the embargo is lifted and the markets more stabilized again. It is hard for local grain dealers to even get bids on car loads of wheat going out of this place right now, but all predict that the situation will be better within the next two or three weeks, and many believe it will probably work for the best interest of the farms, after all. The fact that wheat hauling has slowed up here will give local dealers a chance to move a lot of the wheat that is now piled on the ground awaiting cars.

'KID RED' vs 'YOUNG CHINA'

Daily Editorial

ONCE upon a time, let's say a quarter century ago, a certain visiting American editor sat with Gen. Nelson A. Miles, Field Marshal Lord Roberts and super-journalist Stead in a London hotel drawing room, cross-checking the stresses and strains of international relations.

Japanese and Russian intrigue loomed largest in the discussion.

The two Englishmen insisted that German prosperity and foreign trade would continue to veto Wilhelm's sabre-rattling ambitions and his dream of Weltmacht.

Teuton industry would hardly allow a megalomaniac to risk its flourishing fortunes in a continental melee.

When the next-battle-royal broke, the casus belli would appear in India where Japanese mischief makers were smuggling printing outfits to revolutionary groups, and the Czar's secret agents could be found as actively engaged, sowing dragon's teeth at Kabul and along the border states.

Yellow perils and bruin snarls filled the room—the dread and untested might of Russia and Pan-Asiatic leagues were civilization's real bugaboos.

All of which is called to mind by the storm clouds gathering above Manchuria.

NEITHER local nor European stock-tickers even skipped a fractional beat at word that a hobbled bear and a claw-clipped dragon may throw another scrap of paper into the growing pile of repudiated treaties, and re-serve the grudge that Ghengis Khan planted in Muscovy, when Subutai's hordes looted and ravaged the land.

Finance, commerce and diplomacy have little at stake yonder. Chinese and Russian estates have fallen so low, and their present economic roles are of such slight consequence, that progress will suffer no important inconvenience through this conflict of atrophied and outlaw governments.

Neither bankrupt can command the resources necessary to kick up much of a row.

Both lack munitions, transport facilities, treasury funds and commissary supplies.

None of the powers will extend further loans to debtors who have not even begun to liquidate overdue obligations.

Their combined population of 600,000,000 is a reservoir which can merely furnish as many troops as limited and obsolete arsenals may arm.

And any recent dreadnaught can hammer their collective fleets to scrap-iron without coming into counter gun range.

The three million soldiers with which China is credited are mainly tatterdemalions and banditti, against whom Russia can only hurl a fragment of her huge standing army, because inadequate railways and provender won't permit the employment of major expeditions.

So why bother about the approaching collision? It won't disturb a rebuilt world machine which has long since eliminated the combatant units from its transmission and calculations.

If Geneva is impotent to halt the bout, there will be few thrills in the reports from ringside observers of a slugging match between a pair of ex-heavyweights without a button-blow left in their unwieldy fists.

"Kid Red" versus "Young China" isn't apt to be a star event.

VISITORS AT DECATUR

DECATUR, Texas, July 24. (Spl.)—Mr. and Mrs. T. H. McGovern of Mangum, Okla., have been visiting relatives in this section. Mr. McGovern is a former citizen of the Greenzer community.

"Those Who Will Make Good U. S. Citizens"

THE COMMERCIAL LAW LEAGUE OF AMERICA, meeting in Montreal, adopts a report urging amendment of the immigration laws so that only those "who will make good American citizens" will be admitted to our shores henceforth.

If this is not done, the report predicts that "popular government in the U. S. may become a thing of the past before the end of the present century."

Ever since the adoption of the country, we have had seers who predicted a speedy end to popular government. We seem to have evaded one peril to run into another, right from the start. It is not so very long, as time goes, since it was asserted that popular government would end if the abolitionists were not quickly suppressed; nor is it so many decades since it was prophesied that our government would tumble if laboring men were allowed to organize into unions.

Yet, somehow, we have survived; and it may be that we shall continue as a self-governing nation even if our immigration laws remain unchanged.

With the first part of the law league's resolution, however, we are in hearty agreement. By all means, let us admit only such immigrants as will make good American citizens. First, however, we might find out how we are going to tell in advance.

Outright lunatics and half-wits, to be sure, ought to be banned. But then what standards are you going to set up?

Will you raise a strict physical standard, so that no one malformed or diseased can enter? You may keep out another Steinmetz if you do.

Will you set up political standards, to keep out all rebels and radicals? Such a statute would have kept out a certain Pole named Pulaski, who was such a radical that he had to flee from his own country—so he came to America, fought under Washington, was made a brigadier general by the continental congress for gallantry at Brandywine, and was killed in action helping to free the southland of British troops.

Would you keep out all men who have criminal records? John Paul Jones, another hero of the revolution, would have been excluded on that basis.

Would you exclude pacifists and conscientious objectors? The parents of President Hoover could not have come in under such a law.

The plain fact of the matter is that humanity is unpredictable. We might save ourselves a great deal of trouble if we put a Chinese wall up along our borders, and insisted that no one come across who is not exactly like we are; but we would lose more than we would gain.

There is altogether too much worrying about immigration nowadays, anyway. Our existing laws seem, in all conscience, to be strict enough. If we are too careful about excluding undesirables, we are apt to bar a few geniuses as well. And that is a chance we can't afford to take.

Flowers for the Living

"FLOWERS for the living." The Houston Chronicle, owned by Jesse H. Jones, handed the posies of the year to R. S. Sterling when it called upon the people editorially to draft the chairman of the state highway commission for the office of governor, subject to the action of the Democratic state primary.

Chairman Sterling is said to be the owner of the Houston Post-Dispatch, and the Chronicle and the Post-Dispatch are fierce competitors in what is known as the newspaper game. It was a high compliment to Sterling to say the least for the Houston Chronicle to call for the drafting of the head of a rival newspaper and this without any preliminaries.

Chairman Sterling was not consulted by the gentleman who directs the fortunes of the Houston Chronicle. They looked upon him as an ideal man for governor and they made the call through the columns of their widely known newspaper. Chairman Sterling was the first champion of the statewide bond issue for road building purposes. His proposal was defeated by the lawmakers, but it mustered surprising strength. It is not a dead issue by any means. He was for a state bond issue of large dimensions, the gasoline user to pay, and the completion of a system of state highways in a period of 10 years.

There was a temporary setback to the proposal and that's all. When the important heads of rival newspapers can get together and declare for peace and progress, the voters of Texas should be able to get together and back building program necessary for the rapid development of the resources and the civilizing accessories of the most remarkable of American commonwealths.

Back to an Old Tradition

IT IS extremely interesting to read that the United States lines are planning to build two huge new ocean liners, each of them larger than the Leviathan. What makes it interesting chiefly is the fact that these big ships will be built in America and will fly the American flag.

Before the civil war American ship builders and owners were in the forefront of the ocean transportation field. The speedy clippers turned out at New York and Boston were as good as any afloat, and were extremely good investments.

Then our ocean commerce dwindled; and it has been many years since any large-scale building for the transatlantic trade has been done in this country. The present move of the United States lines is merely a return to the old tradition.

Hike in the Cost of Food

JAMES J. DAVIS is secretary of the federal department of labor, and a bulletin issued by the department lets it be known the retail price of food in the United States increased one per cent between May 15 and June 15 and has advanced 58 per cent since June 15, 1913. Well, who takes down the velvet? Farmers everywhere are demanding relief. Consumers are paying high prices. Point out the missing link in the chain.

CHATTY—GODDESS OF CAB

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of: "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDERS," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N, INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

"What's the use talking to her? You know she's going to tell it!"

READ THIS FIRST

Charlotte Chatterton, whose nickname is Chatty, is a born gossip and busy-body. She loses her job in Mrs. Wayberry's hat store because she talks too much about Mrs. Mayberry's business. Pud, her young brother, who works in Ben Tomlinson's drug store, finds out why she was discharged, and "kids" her about it.

Her mother, Mrs. Harriett Chatterton, earns her living by doing plain sewing. Through her old friend and customer, Mrs. Van Nuys, Chatty is given a position in the files department of Mr. Van Nuys' bond house downtown. There Chatty meets David Jordan, a good looking, red-headed salesman, whom she has noticed on the street two or three times before in her life.

Billie Langenau, head of the files department, tells Chatty that the only girl in the office whom Jordan ever notices is Mr. Van Nuys' secretary, Agnes Herford, a plain, quiet girl. One day Chatty and Winnie Talcott, who helps Agnes in Mr. Van Nuys' office, sees Agnes and her employer going out to have lunch together. Chatty is horrified, and thinks that Mrs. Van Nuys ought to know about it. But her mother makes her promise never to speak of it.

Then Chatty unearths another office scandal. Billie, who has come to live in the flat across the hall from the Chatterton with her older sister, Sara, tells Chatty that she is married to a man named Brewster, although she never sees him and does not use his name. Billie goes around with George Mayhew, another of the bond salesmen, but insists that as he is not in love with her, or she with him, there is no reason for her telling him about her past.

She also tells Chatty that neither Jordan nor George Mayhew makes enough money to marry on and live in any sort of style, anyway, and that Chatty, who had driven home with Jordan that very night, had better not take him seriously, for it will be years before he can marry, unless his wife works, too, or else is wealthy enough to help support a home. That night Chatty sees George at the movies with another girl.

Now Go on With the Story

Chapter VIII

The picture, a Marian Davies comedy, was just coming to its close and the theater was in half darkness.

Chatty was not able to see very well as she and her mother followed the usher down the aisle to their seats.

And it was not until she had been sitting there for two or three minutes that she made out George Mayhew and his girl, sitting next to her!

A second afterward the lights flashed up as the first show came to an end, and Chatty turned her head and took a long deliberate look at George's girl.

She was almost as pretty as Billie Langenau, and she was beautifully dressed. Her coat was trimmed with a great soft, snowy collar of white fox fur, and as she put up her little hands to take off her hat Chatty saw that upon one of them was a dinner ring of big diamonds and smaller sapphires.

The bead bag that lay upon her lap was one of those frightfully expensive ones that are made in France, and that cost more than a girl like Billie Langenau would earn in a week. The faintest odor of violets came from her as she moved, and floated in the air around her.

"—and we played contract bridge all afternoon," Chatty heard her say to George Mayhew, in a soft little voice. "I was so tired that I left at five and went home to lie down until it was time for you to come for me."

Chatty could not hear what George said to her in answer. But his voice sounded as if it were full of pity and sympathy, and Chatty set her teeth in the darkness that suddenly settled down over the house once more.

"I wonder if he's sorry for Billie when she works all day and then goes home and gets her own dinner," she said to herself.

She wondered, too, what Billie would say when she told her that George had been stepping out that evening with a beautiful and blond clinging vine.

"I hope Billie hasn't gone to bed," she said to her mother, when they were going up the stairs to their flat. "I'm going to knock on the door, anyway, and see if she's still up . . . I want to tell her about her George!"

Her hand went out towards the Langenaus' door as she reached the landing. But before she could knock on it Mrs. Chatterton had put out her own hand and stopped her.

"Now, why would you do that?" she asked. "Now, why would you? If you had a young man, would you want someone to come and tell you that he had been out spending the evening with another girl?"

Chatty had not told her mother about Billie's marriage. For she knew that if she did Mrs. Chatterton would forbid her to go to Billie's flat when George Mayhew was there . . . and she was looking forward, eagerly, to the Sunday night supper party that Billie had been planning for some of the boys from the office.

"No . . . I guess you're right, mother," she said now, and followed Mrs. Chatterton into their own hallway. "It would just make Billie unhappy to know about it, although she keeps telling me that she and George are just the most ordinary friends, and nothing else . . . But I won't tell her. I promise you that."

Mrs. Chatterton took off her hat and coat.

"It's nice to have Saturday night come around," she said, walking into the front room, which had taken on its week-end look of neat coziness.

The sewing machine was covered with a lace-edged cloth, and Chatty could almost make herself believe that it looked like a tea table. The half-finished dresses were hung out of sight in the closet, and the big table that held the reading lamp had been pushed into the middle of the room. The front room looked like almost any nice family's living room at times like these, and Chatty loved it.

"If David Jordan ever asks me if he can come to call on me, I hope and pray it'll be on Saturday or Sunday night," thought Chatty, sinking into a chair by the yellow-shaded lamp, and stretching herself luxuriously.

"I always say there's no use in telling people disagreeable things, anyway," her mother was going on with the subject of Billie Langenau and the faithless George. " 'Honey catches more flies than vinegar,' as they say, Chatty—and Billie would only dislike you for telling her about that man of hers. Let him tell her himself . . . It's her business and his. Certainly it's not yours—"

She stopped suddenly, and a look of fear swept into her face.

"Did you hear a noise out in the kitchen?" she asked, jumping up from her chair. "I did—Chatty, I heard someone out there! Pud, is that you?"

As she spoke there came the sound of a chair being pushed along the floor, and all at once Pud came walking out into the tiny hall that ran between the kitchen and the front room.

He stood in the doorway, grinning at the two of them. He had been having something to eat, and there were crumbs in one corner of his mouth.

"Yeah, it's just me," he said cheerfully. "I heard you both come in, but I didn't peep. I was havin' a great time listening to you."

He chuckled.

"What's the use of talking to Chat like that, mother?" he asked blithely. "Whatever it is you don't want her to tell—why, you know, she's goin' to tell it! She'd talk the nose off a brass monkey, she would!"

Chatty stared at him in amazement.

"What's the matter with you?" she asked, dumb-founded. "Why should you jump on me like this, Pud Chatterton?"

"I'm not jumpin' on you," the boy answered, the cigarette on his lower lip moving up and down with every word he spoke. "Only you're always bawlin' me out for things, and you're not so wonderful, yourself—"

"Pud! How long have you been smoking those things?" Mrs. Chatterton, her tired blue eyes wide with horror, walked up to him and took the cigaret from his mouth.

She threw it into the dying coal fire that still glowed in the steel-rodded grate.

"Not yet sixteen, and smoking those nasty things!" she cried. "Never let me see one in your mouth again until you're through high school!"

"Oh, buzhwah!" Pud grumbled, and he kicked the floor at every step as he went to his own room and to bed.

Mrs. Chatterton shook her head as she sank into her arm chair beside the little grate.

"I just feel, sometimes, that I don't know Pud any more. He's growing up so fast," she sighed, wearily. "I don't know anything about him any more."

She was right . . . But, if she had only known it, there were things more serious than cigaret smoking that she did not know about him!

Billie decided to have her Sunday night supper on the first Sunday in May.

There were three girls in the Van Nuys company's office besides herself and Chatty—and she invited them all. Agnes Herford and Winnie Talcott and Jean Gilday, who was the telephone operator.

"I asked all of the bond salesmen—except John Artz, because he's married and his wife is a regular little high-hatted snob," Billie said, going over her list with Chatty on Saturday noon. "Then there'll be you and Sara and me. Don't you think that will make a nice crowd? If all the boys come there'll be fifteen of us."

"If Dave Jordan comes I don't care who else is there," thought Chatty, when she went to Mr. Ellsworthy, the cashier, to get her pay envelope at half past twelve.

She looked at the three crisp new five dollar bills that were folded in it. She knew that this was the first of the month, and that two of them ought to be laid aside toward the money for the rent.

"But I need a new pair of silk stockings," she argued with herself. "And if I only could afford a little bottle of perfume like that girl of George Mayhew's had on her clothes! And a string of pearl beads. Just a few little things to make me look pretty tomorrow night."

Billie, coming up to the cashier's window, found her scowling to herself.

"What's the matter, Chat?"

"Everything." Her voice sounded as gloomy and despairing as she felt. "I can't come to your party. I haven't anything to wear. Not even a pair of new stockings."

Billie laughed, and looked at the money in her outstretched hand. "Well, there's your weekly wage!" she said, brightly. "Two dollars for a pair of silk stockings won't break you . . . And don't you worry about your clothes. You can wear that dress you have on tomorrow night . . . It fits you beautifully—and I'll lend you some perfectly beautiful imitation rose-point cuffs and collar for it. But I won't forgive you—ever—if you stay away. Why, I'm just having this little blow-out so you can get better acquainted with Dave Jordan."

She was a love, was Billie.

Six of the nine unmarried bond salesmen came to Billie's on Sunday night.

They came at 7 o'clock, when all of the girls were there, sitting in the pretty living room, sipping the plain, clear orange juice that the Langenaus always served with thin wafers instead of cocktails.

"Isn't there any gin or anything like that in these things?" Winnie Talcott, who sat next to Chatty on the deep, broad davenport, asked her.

Chatty shook her head without taking her eyes from Dave Jordan as he shook hands with Billie and Sara.

"We all came together in Mayhew's bus," she heard him say. "Been playing golf all afternoon out at the Rancho club—"

"Well, say, this isn't going to be a party—not with drinks like these," Winnie's brassy little voice broke in, close beside her. "This is going to be a Sunday school festival. Come here, Jim!"

She beckoned with one hand to Jim Bowen, the youngest man in the crowd—a handsome, blue-eyed youngster, who had been the captain of the football eleven at the state university the year before.

"Jim, will you find out from Billie if they're serving plain orange juice cocktails because they don't believe in liquor, or because they don't know where to get it?" she said to him in a stage whisper, drawing his black, shining head down to her curly, dyed one.

"Because if they want liquor—and I hope they do, or I'm just going to pass out with disgust—I know where they can get some," she added, pulling him still closer to her with one arm that was covered with wide, jingling silver bracelets. "There's a kid that works down here in Tomlinson's drug store that sells me alcohol for a dollar a quart! And I can get him on the telephone in a jiffy. Go and ask George Mayhew if it's okay to do it."

She gave him a little push in the direction of George and Billie, who were pouring out some more of the little orange juice "cocktails."

Chatty stared at her, unable to move . . . She sat where she was, her glass half way to her lips, like a figure carved out of marble.

"A kid that works down here in Tomlinson's drug store" . . . Why, that must be Pud! That must be Pud!

Farmer Held Without Bond in Slaying

KINGMAN, Kan., July 24. (UP)—In default of bond, L. J. Crow, 41, Belmont farmer, is held here in connection with the slaying Monday of H. F. Boldt, 41, a neighbor. Arraigned following a coroner's inquest yesterday, Crow pleaded not guilty, alleged he shot in self-defense after a farm boundary dispute. His preliminary hearing will be tomorrow.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, July 24.—The other day I heard a story involving a gyp automobile dealer, who had sold a customer a lavishly decorated secondhand car that was innocent of pistons—and hence incapable of moving an inch under its own power. According to the tale, the customer was "landed" just before closing time, and when the sale was made the dealer had a few lusty salesmen push the machine into the street. Then he locked the door and watched the poor chump of an owner try to get his motor running.

I thought the story somewhat exaggerated, so I went to Mr. B., of the Better Business bureau, and asked him about it.

"I don't know of the case," he said, "but its entirely possible."

And then he told me a tale of cheated cheaters. Two acquaintances of his, who earned a livelihood by selling furs, invested in a flashy roadster. It cost $1,400. They turned in a sedan, and were credited with $700. The remaining $700 was to be paid within a month. The roadster, a gaudily painted thing of expensive make, was sold to them as a 1928 model. But it didn't run very well, and in about a week the owners discovered through the motor number that it was a 1924 model. Outraged, they went to the dealer.

"Why, you're crazy," he said. "I never told you the car was a 1928 model." And he refused to do a thing for them. "Show me your bill of sale," he said. They brought forth a typed document, and the dealer showed them that they had no claim. The bill did not mention any maker's year. The two confidence men, who had once been forced to return the purchase price of a fake fur by Mr. B., turned to B. in their trouble—a rare compliment.

"They hadn't a chance to recover anything on the bill of sale," B. told me. "But the dealer had made one mistake. He put through the application for an owner's license to the state motor bureau. He couldn't make misrepresentations on the application or it would be invalid. So he mentioned the true maker's year—1924.

"My two friends had that license. It had been typed, and I discovered that it had been made on the same typewriter that had written the ambiguous bill of sale. So we went to the dealer, told him the evidence against him, and made him call the purchase off.

"I could have prosecuted him, but I didn't. It was a case of one crook trying to get the better of two crooks, and I thought I'd save the bureau's money for honest folk."

Boon to Mankind

On some mid-afternoons, when the old energy is running low, I have to sneak out for a cup of coffee and a piece of pie. I know I'll never become a banker or a high pressure business man at that rate—but what's the difference? But I'm high-pressure enough to want the food in a hurry, so I can't go to a first class restaurant and sit idly at the snow-white table while the waiter is making up his mind to come over and pay some attention. Lunch-rooms, cafeteria style, fill the requirements, and I have made a monumental discovery. After a weary search of all the cafeterias in lower Manhattan, I have found a means of getting good coffee. It is hereby made public for the good of the world. Tell the men at the counter to put heavy cream in it. The reason lunch-room coffee is most always vile lies in the fact that they put watery milk in the cup. The heavy cream will cost five cents extra—but, oh, the difference!

A Coming Singer

One of the better known opera baritones has been singing in vaudeville under an assumed name and so far no one has exposed his secret. I don't know the reason for the alias. It may be that he needed the money and wanted to protect his operatic reputation, or perhaps he just wanted to satisfy himself that he really is a good singer, and does not need to depend on his reputation. If the latter supposition is true, he must be assured by now that his voice really amounts to something. In one of his first engagements—three and a half days in a small split-week house near New York—the house manager watched him closely. At the end of engagement the manager turned in a report to the main office. "Blank," he wrote, "has good presence and a fair voice. Will bear watching."

John Erskine, Esq.

One of the easiest and best parties to crash these summer Saturday nights is the barn dance at the estate of John Erskine, county squire. Professor Erskine leads the simple life with his family near Wilton, Conn. Of late he has been hard at work on his music, and is, apparently, determined to become as important a pianist as he is a writer. On Saturday nights visitors from miles around drop in at the Erskine barn, a huge, high-roofed structure illuminated by candles set in sconces made of bent pie tins. The young folk dance, and the older ones converse with Mr. and Mrs. Erskine. On one such occasion, a young newspaper man dropped in, and reminded the professor that he had once taken the Erskine course on English poets at Columbia. In that course, Professor Erskine lectured, and another professor attended to classroom work and examinations.

"You know," confessed the newspaper man, "it was luck that I passed your course. I was so interested in listening to you that I never made any notes, and couldn't answer my exam questions. But I wrote an essay stating that a fine young American like myself shouldn't patronize people of questionable reputations like Burns and Coleridge. Your assistant professor thought the idea so funny that he gave me A for the course.

"Well," replied the suave Erskine, "I always believed that the way to run a college is to give everybody master's degrees, cum laude and everything, at the end of the two years, and then invite everybody except those who are interested in working to leave."

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE HOUSE BY THE SIDE OF THE (STATE) ROAD

(After Sam Walter Foss.)

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the place of their self-content;
There are souls like stars that dwell apart
In a fellowless firmament;
And what lucky stiffs these fellows are!
I envy all their clan—
For I live in a house by the side of the road
And am a friend to man.

PHILLIPS

Oh, I live in a house by the side of the road
Where the race of men go by
In cars that are good and cars that are bad
And models that horrify;
I cannot rest and I cannot think
Or concentrate or plan—
For I live in a house by the side of the road
And am a friend of man.

I see from my house by the side of the road
Where the cluster'd hot dogs bark
The crowds that pass on their week-end trips
From dawn till after dark;
I answer questions, lend them tools
And do it with elan—
For I live in a house by the side of the road
And am a friend to man.

I tell them the distance to points beyond,
I haul 'em from ditch and trench;
I help start the motor and then the fools
Run off with my monkey-wrench;
I let 'em have gas when the tank goes dry,
And use of my telephone,
For I live in a house by the side of the road
And never am alone.

Yes, I live in a house by the side of the road
Where the frenzied tourists pass,
And I think I'll sell sandwiches, pies and cakes
And seventeen kinds of gas;
For why should I live by the side of the road
And be different than
The boys who sell "hamburgs," inner tubes,
Dogs, soda and soup to man?

Mrs. J. A. Blake Divorces World Known Surgeon

NEW YORK, July 24. (INS)—Social registerites were surprised today upon learning that Mrs. Joseph A. Blake, the former Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, had obtained a final decree of divorce from Dr. Joseph A. Blake, 65, prominent and wealthy surgeon. Mrs. Blake was granted an interlocutory decree early in April but the proceedings were kept secret, the decree becoming final this month.

At the same time it was learned that Dr. Blake, who gained an international reputation in France during the world war as a surgeon, married a Toronto nurse last week and is now honeymooning at his country home in Eastbrook, Maine.

Blake and Mrs. Mackay were married in 1914 after she had obtained a divorce from the multi-millionaire head of the Postal Telegraph company. She had married Mackay in 1898. Their daughter, Ellen, married Irving Berlin, the composer.

Sherman Hot On Trail of Bribers

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 24. (UP)—"I am going to show these people who think I'm on an oratorical barnstorming flight that I have evidence to back up my claims," Joe Sherman, Major county Republican said today after a conference with County Attorney George Callihan relative to bribery charges in the recent legislature.

Sherman had with him two men purported to know the "inside of the bribe that caused defeat of the anti-loan shark bill." After the conference, Callihan said he still did not have enough evidence to warrant filing of charges but that he would continue the investigation.

Road Bond Issue to Be Debated Over State

AUSTIN, July 24. (AP)—The proposal to finance road construction in Texas with a $175,000,000 bond issue will be discussed pro and con in public debates throughout the state during the next few months.

The subject has been designated officially by the Interscholastic league for the competition in debate.

Data is being compiled and will be printed in a 200-page booklet which will be mailed to more than 3,400 member schools, according to Roy Bedichek, director of the league.

Keen interest in the proposal was aroused last winter when the 41st legislature during its regular session considered submitting a constitutional amendment in order to permit issuance of state bonds for road construction.

Permit System Advised For Grain Shipments

GALVESTON, July 24. (AP)—Establishment of a grain permit system here on Aug. 1 was recommended by the emergency grain committee at a meeting today. This action was taken on reports that the congestion here was rapidly being cleared up with restoration of normal conditions in sight.

Under the permit system grain would be loaded for Galveston when exporters assured the committee that such grain had actually been booked and vessels secured for movement.

Elevators were still working on a 24-hour basis.

Houston Plans for Launching Of Its Namesake at Virginia Port

HOUSTON, July 24. (AP)—A committee headed by Mayor Walter E. Monteith is making elaborate plans for the official launching of the new $17,000,000 cruiser U. S. S. Houston at Newport News, Va., Sept. 7.

Gov. Harry Floyd Byrd of Virginia, the native state of Gen. Sam Houston, will be master of ceremonies, according to William A. Bernrieder, secretary of the committee. Bernrieder has returned from a tour of eastern cities, where he personally extended a number of invitations to the celebration and conferred with the ship's builders.

The governor of Tennessee, General Houston's home state before he came to Texas, the mayors of Virginia and Tennessee and all members of congress have been invited to take part in the launching ceremonies.

Gov. Dan Moody will be urged strongly to join the official party which will leave Houston Sept. 4. Miss Elizabeth Holcombe, daughter of former Mayor Oscar Holcombe, is sponsor of the ship, and Miss Mary Ellen Bute is maid of honor.

While the launching ceremonies are in progress, army and navy planes will circle over the U. S. S. Houston and drop flowers on the ship.

Prosecutor Refuses To Aid Abandoned Wife

SAN ANTONIO, July 24. (AP)—Not every deserting husband is sought by the law, even though wife abandonment now is a felony in Texas.

Sometimes there are mitigating circumstances—this time the wife.

This week one deserted wife came to the office of Fred N. Cowen, assistant district attorney in charge of wife and child abandonment cases, and sought to have the law chastise her lost husband.

After she had talked for many minutes without Cowen having a chance to stop her, she finally stopped to catch her breath and he got in his first words.

"Madame, if you were just half as disagreeable to your husband as you have been up here, I don't blame him for leaving," he said.

And the law refused to take any action in the matter.

"She had enough money to get along on, and the only way she could have sworn out charges against him would have been falsely," he explained.

Texarkana Officer Is Shot to Death

TEXARKANA, July 24. (AP)—J. R. Walraven, Texarkana, Texas, policeman, was shot to death Tuesday by James Reynolds, gasoline salesman, who was wounded probably fatally. Walraven died without making a statement and no hope for Reynold's recovery was held.

Witnesses said Reynolds drove up to where Walraven was standing and began firing. The officer returned the fire. The only explanation police could give for the shooting was the fact that Walraven arrested Reynolds last Sunday on a drunkenness charge.

WASHINGTON, July 24. (INS)—The White House domestic force really put in quite a little time yesterday tidying up the guest room. Extra pains were taken to make it spic and span.

All for naught. It isn't going to be occupied.

Calvin Coolidge, who called the whole house his home less than five months ago, and for whom the room had been made ready, arrived in Washington on schedule this morning, but he went to the Willard hotel instead.

He explained to President Hoover he couldn't stay overnight because he had to hurry back to Northampton. He will be an honor guest at the White House luncheon, however.

Houston Also Closed to Grain

HOUSTON, Texas, July 24. (UP)—Many grain shipments originally designed for Galveston and Houston ports were being shunted to other gulf ports by railroads tonight as result of a partial embargo placed on Houston-bound grain today.

A full embargo was placed last week on railroads bringing grain into Galveson because of congestion there. The closing of the Galveston port sent too great a volume of grain shipping into Houston.

Ultimate good will come from the temporary embargoes, R. C. Andrews, district manager of the car service division, American Railway association, said. The embargoes meant prices would be maintained, and protection would be afforded shippers and exporters.

Permits will be issued to allow entrance at Houston of grain intended for immediate shipping or milling.

WILKES BOOTH MUMMY HELD

Enid Believes Assassin's Body Is There

ENID, Okla., July 24. (UP)—Enid residents today believed that the body of J. Wilkes Booth, slayer of Abraham Lincoln, lay in the morgue here, mummified yet easily recognizable after 18 years. Pioneers have recognized the body as that of J. E. George, a former resident, purported by documentary evidence, to be Booth.

The body was bequeathed to W. B. Evans, a rancher of Delco, Idaho, by Former Attorney General Bates of Tennessee. Evans brought the body here for exhibition. He has remained here seeking proof that the body is that of the famous actor-murderer.

J. E. George is well remembered here by old-time residents who recognized the body.

W. P. Campbell, for 20 years custodian for the Oklahoma State Historical society, was convinced that George and Booth were one and the same person. Campbell collected evidence from every available source and became convinced that Booth escaped from the Ford theater. He has written a book on his findings.

The presence of the mummy here has re-opened the entire Booth arguments. Residents, after viewing the body, now doubt the story that Booth was killed by Boston Corbett, a Union soldier, soon after Lincoln was assassinated.

Al Capone's Dog Track Raided by Police Squadron

CHICAGO, July 24. (AP)—The Laramie dog racing track in Cicero, often spoken of as "Al Capone's dog track," was raided last night by 40 policemen from the state's attorney's office, despite an injunction track officials recently obtained to prevent "lawless arrests."

The raiders reached the track at the end of the fifth race, just as the prizes in the certificate mutuals were being posted. They refused to let track officials pay off winners and smashed the doors of the offices and ticket booths when they were refused admittance.

Sixty-five track officials and ticket sellers were arrested.

Mexican Highwaymen Executed, Is Report

MEXICO CITY, July 24. (AP)—Gilberto Vasquez, taxicab driver, and four men who had hired his automobile, were arrested in the town of Zacatelco, Puebla, on a charge of being highwaymen and were executed forthwith by a firing squad, according to a story told Attorney General Enrique Medina by Sylvestre Vazquez, brother of the taxi operator.

An immediate investigation has been ordered.

Silvestre said the four men after hiring his brother's car for the day directed him to take them to the city of Pusbla, which he did.

En route back to Mexico City, the travelers stopped at Zacatelco for food and it was then that they were apprehended.

According to Sylvestre's story, they were executed without trial.

GERMANS SEEK MORE HONORS

Plan to Better Ocean Record Set by Bremen

BERLIN, July 23. (UP)—The record breaking trip across the Atlantic ocean by the new liner Bremen was merely the "first shot" in Germany's determined campaign to capture, or at least share, the British commercial sea supremacy.

North German Lloyd line officials are confident the Bremen can better the new speed record set on the maiden voyage and believe the sister ship Europa, now nearing completion at Hamburg, will be able to equal or better the record next season.

Reports from London that the Cunard company has promised "there will be a great surprise soon" strengthened the spirit of competition which forecasts many thrilling assaults on the new record. London advices said the Mauretania is expected to attempt to regain the record owing to the fact that it has been specially refitted to increase its speed and may be able to maintain 28 knots, increasing to 30 knots in good weather.

The Hamburg-American line is withholding its plans but it is known that the company has decided to place new and faster engines in its four Albert-Ballin class ships, instead of resorting to huge outlays for new liners. The Hamburg-American company, it is understood, will then wait to see the results of the Bremen and Europe ventures.

Some quarters are of the opinion the line will be forced to add new liners, however, and probably will make an announcement shortly.

In any event German shipping circles believe that the British lines will be forced to undertake a building program if they hope to overtake the Bremen's record. The Mauretania, it is pointed out, is now approaching the end of its normal life.

Boils and Carbuncles

The microscopic staphylococci causing boils and carbuncles are often found on the surface of the skin, especially if it is not kept scrupulously clean. But they do not cause these infections unless they are assisted in penetrating through the skin. They enter by slight scratches, cracks or wounds of the skin, often too small to be noticed, or by way of the hair follicles or oil glands.

The most frequent locations for boils are the back of the neck, caused by rubbing of the collar; the buttocks, the external ear canal; and areas of the body where masses of hair are found. Even a tiny scratch, too small to see, made with the fingernail, may break down the skin enough that these staphylococci can enter the tissue.

Not only must they gain entry, but the body must be in a stage where it lacs resistance to their growth or contains morbid material upon which they thrive. Once they enter the warm flesh, millions may be produced within a short time around a central core of staphylococci and dead tissue. Around the central nodule of infection is an area of congestion from blood serum and white cells. The spot soon turns red and begins to pain and swell and the boil makes its appearance.

As pus begins to form about the core, the boil ripens and will usually break itself in the course of time, but the process may be hastened by the use of hot poultice. In some cases, where the boil is located high up on the neck or face, it is well to lance it before the surrounding tissues become permeated with the poison.

When the system is run down one is especially susceptible to boils. This occurs most frequently in diabetes, in aged people, and in those convalescing from typoid fever. If you are troubled with a crop of boils, it would be a good plan for you to have an apalysis made to see if you have a tendency toward diabetes.

A carbuncle is much more severe in symptoms, as it is really a sort of colony of boils about a common center. It may have several openings. The skin over a carbuncle becomes red, shiny, and sometimes almost of a bluish appearance. It takes a week or longer before the pus breaks through the skin. Sometimes the tissues between the different openings will also slough off. Carbuncles are sometimes dangerous to life, especially in old persons.

Boils and carbuncles usually start after one's system has become run down from overwork, prolonged excitement or over-indulgence in food, especially rich foods like chocolate, peanuts, ice cream, cakes, cream, pancakes, sausage and candy. One with a tendency to boils should live on acid fruits, vegetables and lean meats until the tendency has been overcome. He should also attempt to develop more endurance by improving the cisculation with systematic physical culture. The skin should be kept healthy by frequent washing with a good plain soap and warm water. Short sunbaths may also be taken, but one should be very careful not to become sunburnt, as boils frequently result from the tiny cracks as the skin is healing. The bowels should not be allowed to become sluggish, but should be cleansed out by daily enemas until they begin to move naturally by themselves from the correction of your diet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Child Has Flat Feet)

Question—Mrs. I. K. M. writes: "My 4-year-old son has flat feet. Will arch supporters cure them? Should he ride his tricycle, or is it better for him to walk a great deal?"

Answer—Arch supporters cannot cure flat feet any more than crutches can make you strong. Riding a tricycle should be good exercise, but the best one of all is to take your son for a walk once or twice daily, having him walk "pigeon toed" part of the way. This walking with the toes turned in like the Indians do. Just tell him to walk Indian fashion part of the time and let him think he is playing a game.

Melba Toast

Question—Interested writes: "Please tell me how to prepare the melba toast given in your weekly menus."

Answer—Cut all crust from an ordinary loaf of white bread and slice the entire loaf in pieces one-quatre of an inch thick. Allow these to dry over night, and preferably longer. When thoroughly dry they should then be put in a moderately hot oven and toasted so that the heat will entirely penetrate the dried bread and it will be browned all the way through.

Encephalitis Lethargica

Question—B. T. writes: "I have what the doctors call "encephalitis lethargica." I am told that there is no cure for this. Is that so? I feel as if I want to sleep all the time, and have pains in the pit of my stomach—pains more at night than during the day."

Answer—Most people who think they are suffering from sleeping sickness are really only toxic and bilious. The chances are you can get rid of your sleepy feeling as soon as you detoxicate yourself with a fruit fast by the right diet.

Tireless Texan Tries to Increase City's Pay Roll

HOUSTON, July 24. (AP)—T. L. "Honest Tom" Walker, of Houston, has found that the role of a good samaritan isn't always easy to fill.

For more than a year "Honest Tom" has been trying to get an increase in salary for city employes but his efforts have been unavailing.

His latest rebuff was failure to obtain a hearing in district court on an amended petition to mandamus the city council to raise the pay of city employes by an ordinance, or, failing in this, to leave the question to a referendum. The district judge stated that a hearing could not be set at this time but said a hearing could be set in October.

The original petition was circulated in January and February of last year. It was signed by 5,227 voters, more than the number required for an election, Walker contends. "Honest Tom" was unable to get any satisfaction out of the old administration and so far the new city dads have given him no encouragement.

Walker is not a city employe and has not been since the petition was circulated.

MOODY SPIKES LOBBY FUNDS

Governor Vetoes Bill To Send Delegation

AUSTIN, July 24. (AP)—Asserting he was opposed to expenditure of state funds by legislators in a trip to Washington to lobby before congress, Governor Moody today vetoed the concurrent resolution under which a joint legislative committee of six would have requested congress to appropriate funds for a world war veterans' hospital in Texas.

Under the resolution each member of the committee would have been allowed a maximum expense account of $250.

"I think it would be a fine thing for the veterans bureau to establish such a hospital in Texas and I hope congress will accept recommendations of the director of the bureau and proceed to establish such a hospital in the state," Governor Moody said.

"We have 18 representatives in congress from Texas and two members of the United States senate. I have faith in their ability to secure the location of such a hospital if the facts justify or make it necessary, and I do not believe that the committee would add to the effectiveness of our delegation in congress. I do not believe that Texas should officially, from public funds, send men to Washington to lobby before congress."

RURAL AID BILL GETS APPROVAL

AUSTIN July 24. (AP)—Governer Moody today signed the rural aid bill carrying $5,000,000 for the support of financially weak schools during 1930-31, the first major appropriation measure to be acted upon.

A $5,500,000 appropriation passed by the second special session was vetoed at the same time all other money bills were sent back to the legislature to be redrafted. About $800,000 will pay tuition of rural high school students who have been forced to leave their resident districts to obtain a high school education.

The governer filed with the secretary of state without his signature the Veatch bill allowing $2,500 to rebuild a school building in Cuba, common school district in Johnson county. The new structure will replace one destroyed by a spring tornado.

Park Vaudeville Bill Attended by 4,500

A crowd of approximately 4,500 persons witnessed the weekly free vaudeville program at Bellevue park Wednesday night, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent, in charge of the arrangement of the bills.

The bill was preceded by a concert by the Playground band, which was directed by Paul Sisk during this week. A solo on the marimba, a new instrument for vaudeville audiences, was presented by Paul Sisk, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Pitman. Jake Avis gave a number of vocal solos. Dance numbers were presented by Misses Virginia Green and Mary Elizabeth Robinson, who gave an Apache dance, and Miss Olene Poe, who gave a comedy tap dance. R. E. Shepherd, popular singer, gave a number of vocal solos, accompanied by Mrs. Shepherd.

George Taylor, who was to have appeared in a number of vocal and instrumental numbers, was unable to appear due to a slight injury to his arm which prevented his playing the stringed instruments with which he has so often entertained vaudeville and radio audiences, Mr. Bunnenberg stated.

50 Fire Companies Combat Berlin Blaze

BERLIN, July 24. (AP)—Fifty Berlin fire companies tonight brought under control one of the worst fires and explosions the German capital has known in years. It raged five and one half hours.

The suburb of Borsigwalde was thrown into panic by a series of terrific explosions in the United Oxygen works, at noon. Fire broke out immediately. Flying fragments of oxygen containers caused damage over a wide area.

A recently adopted alarm introduced here will send in the alarm and at the same instant photograph the sender. In case of a false call the film can be developed and the sender found.

Tommy Sloan Finds 116th Summer Hardest to Bear; He's Very Ill

GUTHRIE, Okla., July 24. (AP)—Tommy Sloan, who has weathered 116 summers, has found this one too much for him.

Tonight he was at the home of his stepdaughter, Mrs. M. R. Nickens, here, critically ill. Until about six weeks ago, when age appeared to get the upper hand, Sloan had been active about the streets of Guthrie, and at fairs, selling pictures of himself for spending money, none of which, he said was used for either tobacco or liquor. He never has used either, he said.

Sloan was born in Mourne Shore, County Down, Ireland, Dec. 25, 1812.

Military authorities rejected him because of his advanced years in the civil war.

Rubio Picked as Next Mexican President

SAN ANTONIO, July 24. (US)—Pascual Ortiz Rubio, prominent mining engineer of Mexico City, will be the next president of Mexico.

This is the belief of Gonsalo de los Santos, secretary of the Mexican national revolutionary party, which is headed by Former President Plutarco E. Calles.

Santos came to San Antonio with General Calles Monday. He had intended to accompany his chief to New York but the sudden calling of a special session of the Mexican congress to discuss the new labor law, forced him to change his plans and return to Mexico City, he said.

According to Santos, Rubio is "the Hoover of Mexico, one of the foremost engineers in Central America, an organizer of rare ability and one of Mexico's best known humanitarians."

Physicians Worried Over Condition of Mueller

HEIDELBERG, Germany, July 24. (AP)—Although an official bulletin tonight stated the condition of Chancellor Hermann Mueller, who recently underwent an operation for gall bladder trouble, was satisfactory, the Associated Press learned from attaches of the hospital that the doctors were much worried about the condition of the German cabinet leader.

Fort Bliss Bachelor Quarters Burn Down

EL PASO, Texas, July 24. (AP)—The "Cliff House," bachelor quarters for officers at Fort Bliss, Texas, was destroyed by fire this afternoon. The building, of frame construction, burned rapidly and with its contents is a total loss with no insurance. The military fire department kept the blaze from spreading to other barracks.

Site Selected For Texas Air School

DALLAS, July 24. (AP)—The Curtis Flying service of New York is planning the purchase of a 295-acre flying field between Grand Prairie and Dalworth, Dallas county, for the establishment of an advanced school of flying and an airplane assembling plant, it developed today.

Jessie Illingsworth, chairman of the Dallas airport board, disclosed that he had bought the property and had sent titles to it, along with aerial photographs, maps and surveys, to New York for inspection by Curtis officials.

The proposed flying school would be one of a proposed chain of 25, which, the Dallas Chamber of Commerce was informed, would be in charge of Art Goebel, winner of the Dole flight to Hawaii several years ago.

California Forest Fire Threatens Town

ALTURAS, Calif., July 24. (US)—Raging out of control a second time when the wind freshened today, the forest fire in the Sandango timber unit again flamed on toward the town of Fort Bidwell.

Eight thousand acres of the most valuable timber in Modoc county had already been burned over since yesterday, involving a loss estimated by forest officials at $50,000.

School Children Agree To Support City Zoo

MEXICO CITY, July 24. (AP)—Rather than part with the animals at the city zoo, children of the primary schools here have agreed to contributa a cent apiece each day to pay for their food and care.

The city had decided to dispose of the animals because of the heavy cost.

Wheat Embargo At Fort Worth Unlikely

DALLAS, July 24. (AP)—Although wheat accumulations in Fort Worth are "rather excessive," R. C. Andrews, district manager of the car service division of the American railway association, tonight foresaw no immediate embargo on wheat moving into that point.

"Only an urgent transportation necessity will bring a wheat embargo at Fort Worth," Andrews said, "and we are hopeful no necessity will arrive."

Expelled Officers Sue Mexican Army

MEXICO CITY, July 24. (AP)—A test case brought in the district court here against action of the government in expelling from the army officers who took part in the recent Escobar revolution has resulted favorably to the authorities.

The court, acting in the case of Major Gregorio F. Perez, upheld his expulsion on the grounds that it was ordered by President Portes Gil in his constitutional capacity as head of the army.

Slowly Ripening Fruit Delays Fig Canning

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 24. (AP)—Slowly ripening fruit has delayed beginning of work in fig canning plants of this section approximately one week.

The price paid for figs in this section is believed to be higher than at many other points, 4 cents per pound being established as the price paid the producer. The plant expects to preserve 750,000 pounds of the fruit this season.

The world's largest wooden shoe factory is not in Holland, but in Davenport, Iowa.

STAFF MEN TO SURVEY ARMY

Commission to Study Activities of Military

WASHINGTON, July 24. (AP)—The survey of the army's activities by a commission of leading general staff officers with a view to reducing expenditures, will be launched soon and completed in time for the transmittal of its findings to the regular session of congress in December.

Secretary Good declared today it was planned to make the results applicable to the war department appropriations for the next fiscal year.

The survey will embrace every branch of the army. Its chief objective will be ascertainment of wether certain activities of the army were obsolete or had diminished in importance because of modern warfare methods evolved as a result of the world war.

Good defended the survey by a commission solely composed of army officers on the ground that they were better acquainted than civilians with the complicated army organization. "I am satisfied," he said, "it would be a better way to make a thoroughly conservative survey by the men thoroughly equipped to make it." During the past decade, the secretary said, the army has passed through a stage of considerable evolution as a result of the new military tactics utilized in the world war. This has produced the question, he added, whether certain new activities in the army, such as national guard, reserve officers training corps, citizens of army mobilize units, have not displaced in usefulness and importance other existing branches of the service.

Texas' Declaration of Independence Found Faded Under Capitol Floor

So Secretary of State Orders It Framed, and Also Retrieves Other Documents Found in Basement

AUSTIN, July 24. (AP)—Faded records dating back to the days when Texas was a Republic are being resurrected from the dusty files in the capitol basement where they have lain for years and will be catalogued under direction of Mrs. Jane T. McCallum, secretary of state.

The move was started to preserve the documents after Mrs. McCallum discovered Texas' Declaration of Independence hidden away under the floors of the state house. The instrument was ordered by Mrs. McCallum removed and framed. It shortly will be hung in the main capitol corridor.

Old Election Returns

Result of an election contest, held in Brazoria county in 1836 in which Gen. Sam Houston received 80 votes for president of the republic and Stephen F. Austin one vote is one of the records which searchers have uncovered. Yellow and musty with age, the election return, written with a fine Spencerian hand, has been patched with linen and its life extended for several years.

Citizens of Boerne, where two excellent highways now converge, believed in 1861 that the county "was so completely intersected with rough, rocky mountains that it was impractical ever to construct a wagon or carrier road," a petition to the legislature revealed. Signers of the petition asked that Boerne be made a part of Kerr county on account of their inability to reach Blanco, 35 miles distant.

In 1838 citizens of Colorado addressed a petition to the republic of Texas, requesting that a captain's company of mounted guamien be kept in the region until settlers gathered their crops.

Asked For Rangers

The petition said that the rangers were needed until such time as petitioners will have their crops gathered and will be in readiness to guard against and protect themselves from, the tomahawk and scalping knife of the savage Indian."

Four thousand taxpayers of Brownsville protested against a petition sent to the legislature in 1851, asking that articles of incorporation for Brownsville be repealed, files now being indexed reveal.

The supreme court, increased recently in a special election to nine members, enjoyed little favor in Burnet county in 1842. Among the documents to be found in the basement is one signed by 100 citizens, remonstrating against the power to be given judges through creation of the high court.

Austin Protests Tax

Tax problems, too, date back to the early days of the Lone Star state, the records indicate. In one of the files is to be found a protest from citizens of Austin, complaining that a 1 per cent ad valorem tax is "excessive, oppressive and unjust." The petition asks the legislature to allow the city to amend its charter so that not more than one-fourth of one per cent can be collected through an ad valorem tax without submission of the tax to a popular vote.

In another petition dated 1842, Austin citizens asked for an extension of time before paying for town lots to determine whether the seat of government should be moved.

Army Burns Houses

Burning of houses by the army of the republic of Texas as it retreated from Gonsales to the Colorado river in the fight with Mexicans in 1836 is reflected in a claim made against the state by Jesse Burnum, whose house was fired.

In his petition asking $2,875 damages Burnum set out that he would have yielded cheerfully to any sacrifice for the protection of citizens but he believed there never existed a reason to justify the destruction of his property.

'Marrying Parson' Tried as Vagrant But Is Acquitted

FORT WORTH, July 24. (AP)—Solicitation of "marriage business" at the courthouse here won an acquittal for the Rev. W. B. Jordan, 60-year-old "marrying parson," on a vagrancy charge.

The vagrancy charges contended Reverend Jordan stayed around the courthouse but did no work. The Rev. J. T. Bloodworth, another of Fort Worth's "marrying parsons" as a defense witness in the vagrancy jury trial testified he had seen the Reverend Jordan "solicit marriage business." Another defense contention was that the Reverend Jordan's children paid board at home.

Assistant District Attorney Brown, examining the accused minister attempted to divulge details of a ceremony the Reverend Jordan had performed the night before his trial.

"Did you know the license the couple gave you was forged? Brown asked.

The Reverend Jordan said he did not.

"Well, you married a 14-year-old girl to a man at your home last night, didn't you?"

"I don't know. She looked like a grown woman to me."

The parson admitted he married the couple in a hallway without turning on the light.

Acquitted of vagrancy, the Reverend Jordan said he would file a $100,000 damage suit against county officials.

CROQUET FEAT TAKES THOUGHT

So Rule Boys Employ Two To Do Thinking

DALLAS, July 24. (UP)—No letter ever before went through such complicated attention and delivery as the one being carried from the mayor of Galveston to Jim Walker, mayor of New York, by the Texas croquet cronies.

The mere knocking of a croquet ball from the Texas coast city to New York is the least difficult of many problems confronting L. R. Rose and C. G. Hart, the croquet athletes, they pointed out to the United Press today. One duty is to keep the letter unsoiled.

In fact, it takes four men to make a success of this venture—two to do the head work, and two to do the croquet ball tapping.

The cronies left here late today for Bryan, the place where they went broke a week ago after knocking the ball about 100 miles. Since that time they have been to their homes at Rule, Texas, where citizens helped them rejuvenate their finances.

"How to keep ourselves presentable and in public favor is one of the biggest problems," said "Chizber" Place, newly employed advance ballyhooer for the cronies.

"And there's the route," he said. "Every town wants us. Yet we must travel in as straight a line as we can.

"Starting from Bryan tomorrow afternoon we expect to reach Dallas again in about two weeks. That means the boys will continue their socking at about 24 miles a day.

"Have they broken many croquet mallets? Not a one. And they are still using the same croquet balls they started with from Galveston. The balls ought to be a little smaller by the time they get to New York."

Dishwasher Lets Bandits Cart Off Safe in Daytime

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 24. (UP)—Joe Purvine's credulous disposition resulted in three bandits making a successful escape with a 300-pound safe, containing $450 in cash, from the Ivanhoe Country club early this morning.

Awakening at 5 a. m., Joe, a dishwasher living on the third floor of the club, looked out of the window and saw three men lifting the safe into their automobile.

"What are you fellows doing?" he called to the burglars.

"Your safe's busted and we're taking it away so we can bring you a new one," one of the men replied.

"You're pretty early, aren't you?" queried Joe.

"We want to get through out day's work early," the burglar called back as he got into the sedan and drove rapidly away.

Later the safe was found several miles away—and by this time it was really broken and the contents missing.

Ernest Kellerstrass, sitting on his front porch across the road and armed with a shotgun to scare away boys who have been visiting the club grounds early in the morning to retrieve golf balls driven into the pond, heard the conversation and proved as credulous as Purvine. He laid aside his gun and continued to enjoy the beauty of the Missouri sunrise as the burglars made their getaway.

CALDWELL BESTS WILTSE, 2-1 BUT SPUDDERS RETAIN LEAD

CUBS GO INTO SECOND PLACE

Turgeon Continues Hitting With Three Blows

Special to The Record News.

WACO, July 24.—Earl Caldwell and Hal Wiltse engaged in a thrilling pitchers' battle today, and the ace of the Waco staff won. Wiltse gave up seven hits to a like number off Caldwell and though the Cubs made five errors to one by the Spudders, the Wichita Falls club failed to take advantage of scoring opportunities and lost the opener of the three-game series, 2 to 1.

Despite the defeat, the Spudders maintained first place, as other teams which had occupied places in the first division prior to today's game were beaten. The victory raised Waco from fifth to second, only five points behind the Spudders.

Other Standing Changes

Other results of the unprecedented close race in the Texas league saw Beaumont fall from second to third, Houston climbed from sixth to fourth, and Shreveport and Fort Worth fell out of the first four to fifth and sixth.

Pete Turgeon continued his mighty batting pace, being the leader of the day on the attack with three hits and scored the Spudders' only run. Stapleton, Mellano and Stuvengen each slammed a brace of blows.

Wayne Windle's home run in the third inning, a smack over the left field wall, gave the Cubs their first run and the Spudders tied the count in the fourth.

Turgeon Hits and Scores

Turgeon singled past third. Fitzgerald flied to Sanguinet. Caldwell tossed out Bennett. Turgeon moving to second. Sullivan's hit to right scored Turgeon.

The Cubs won in the fifth. Mellano singled to left. Rye lined to Benton. Blackerby hit to right, advancing Mellano to third. Mellano tallied while Hermann was tossing out Sanguinet.

REHM OBTAINED BY BUFFALOES

Former Card Hurler Goes To Houston Club

MINNEAPOLIS, July 24. (AP)—Flint Rhem, former St. Louis Cardinal star hurler, has been sent to the Houston club of the Texas league, Mike Kelly, manager of the Minneapolis team of the American association, announced today.

Rhem was transferred at his own request, Kelly said.

Schmeling Must Box for Fugazy

By GEORGE KIRKSEY

NEW YORK, July 24. (UP)—The first step towards saving the Max Schmeling-Jack Sharkey heavyweight match for New York was made today when Commissioner William Muldoon said the New York State Athletic commissions did not demand that the German heavyweight meet Phil Scott of England, but only fulfill a contract to box under Humbert J. Fugazy's promotion.

Although Schmeling has reiterated that he will never fulfill any contract made for him by his former manager, Arthur Bulow, the German may capitulate now that Scott has been eliminated as his opponent.

Bulow made the contract with Fugazy, but he did not have anything to do with Scott's selection as an opponent.

Schmeling's board of American managers—Joe Jacobs, Bill McCarney, Pete Reilly and others—want no part of Scott. They can easily see where the long armed British fire laddie may outpoint their pet and ruin a possible million dollar gate.

With Scott sidetracked temporarily, the interested parties—Madison Square garden, Fugazy, Bulow, Schmeling's American managers and the New York commission—may get together, select another opponent for the German at Ebbets Field in August and clear the way for the Schmeling-Sharkey fight here in September.

The New York commission strengthened its position in the matter today by informing William F. Carey, president of Madison garden, that the garden faced a possible penalty of the loss of its license as a boxing club by tampering with Schmeling as long as he is under suspension.

The garden's recent formal statement in which it felt free to hold the Schmeling-Sharkey fight outside New York state, was interpreted by the commission as a request rather than a warning.

Is hot weather an enemy of your gear grease?

HOT weather is an enemy of inferior gear grease. Hot weather makes it "thin" and run out of the gear case. Before you know it, the gears are growling because they're wearing down. Prevent that, this summer!

Use Whiz Gear Grease. Hot weather does not make it "thin." Hot weather does not affect this superior grease in any way. It just goes right on keeping a soft cushion of pure lubricant between the gears. Whiz Gear Grease makes your car run smoother because it reduces friction. Bill McKechnie Back to Cards

Southworth to Rochester in Exchange of Jobs

ST. LOUIS, July 24. (UP)—After half a season's exile in the International league, William B. McKechnie got back his job as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals.

President Sam Breadon announced today that McKechnie will leave the Rochester club to assume control of the Cardinals and Billy Southworth, who became manager of the Cards at the beginning of the season, will return to Rochester.

Southworth to Rochester

Southworth, who piloted Rochester to the International league championship in his first season as manager last year, found the task of managing the Cardinals too much for him. St. Louis got off well, but drifted into a bad slump and is now in fourth place, completely out of the pennant race.

McKechnie, who led the Cardinals to a National league pennant last season, but lost his job when the Yanks crushed them in four straight games in the world series, demonstrated his ability to lead a minor league club as well as a major league club by getting Rochester out in front in the current International league race.

Here's the Difference

After yesterday's game Rochester led the International league by seven games over Toronto, while the Cardinals were 13 games behind the league leading Pirates in the National league.

The latest change in Cardinal leaders is the fifth in four years. The Cardinals have had six managers in the last six years.

McKechnie managed the Pirates for several years before coming to St. Louis, winning the pennant and world championship in 1925.

Ed Roush Injured; May Be Out Week

CHICAGO, July 24. (AP)—Ed Roush, Giant center fielder, pulled a tendon in his right leg running out a hit in the first inning of the game with the Cubs today and was forced to retire. He may be out of the game a week or more.

CINCINNATI, July 24. (AP)—Boston hit Rixey for four runs in the first two innings here today and put down a late Cincinnati rally, winning 5 to 3. Sisler's triple which scored two runs in the second inning sent Rixey to the showers and gave Boston its winning margin. Score:

DUNDEE AND FIELDS READY FOR WELTERWEIGHT TITLE FIGHT

SCRAP CARDED FOR 15 ROUNDS

Both to Make Class Weight Of 147 Pounds

DETROIT, Mich., July 24. (AP)—With their 15-round battle in the new arena at the State Fair grounds less than 24 hours distant, Welterweight Champion Joe Dundee and his challenger, Jackie Fields, called halt in their strenuous training program today.

The only important event that lies between the fighters and the first round gong is the weighing in process tomorrow afternoon. There was no doubt the two welters would tip the official scales below the maximum 147 pounds. Dundee, who has been fighting poundage lustily, expects to weigh between 144 and 145.

"I am in the best shape I have attained in two years," said Dundee. "I hope to make my best fight in defending my title against Fields."

"I am going out to box and punch Dundee off his feet," declared Fields, adding, "I mean to come out of the ring the new welterweight champion."

First National Wins And Cops Bank Lead

First National bank trounced the City National nine yesterday afternoon at Wilson field. The score was 13 to 1.

C. Smith allowed the City only three hits the entire game, while the First was clouting the ball out for 18 hits.

The leading hitter for the first was H. Smith, with a home run, a double and two singles out of as many times at bat.

This puts First National in first place but the City still has three more games to play. The First has one more with the City.

Daily Dope

By LARRY DAILEY

TWO MANAGERIAL changes have been made in the major leagues and the lopping off of several other leaders' heads may be expected before the nines hie themselves southward next spring. The recent shifts in pilots of the Boston and St. Louis National league clubs were only to be expected in view of circumstances, which would apply if other changes are made before the expiration of the 1929 campaign.

Judge Emil Fuchs, owner of the Braves, doubtless was sincere in his belief that he could manage his own team. But the venture of Fuchs was foredoomed to failure. Without previous practical baseball experience, it was obvious that Fuchs had neither the background nor training for the directing of a major league ball club.

RABBIT Maranville, leading the Braves, is starting his second venture as a major league pilot. It is not beyond the realm of possibility that he will be successful. Maranville made an amazing comeback as a player. Sent to the minor leagues three seasons ago, he was brought back to the majors by the St. Louis Cardinals when Tommy Thevenow was injured. For more than a decade Maranville was a "joy player," one of those athletes who disregard the rules of right and sane living. Upon his return to the major leagues, Maranville made an abrupt change in his mode of living. Late hours and liquor are taboo with the Rabbit now, hence his amazingly excellent play this year and last, though he first went to the big leagues more than 15 years ago.

Maranville managed the Chicago Cubs briefly several years ago. But that was not a fair trial of the wee one's managerial skill, for in those days he was a light-hearted young man who refused to permit the burden of team leader to interfere with his pleasures. He has been the spark plug of the Braves, even with scrappy Johnny Evers, Hank Gowdy and George Sisler on the club, and he probably will accomplish about as much as could be done with the doubtful material at hand.

BILL M'KECHNIE doubtless cannot refrain from entertaining a great feeling of satisfaction that he has been called back as manager of the Cardinals. For some reason, success has never seen McKechnie, a grand fellow and smart baseball man, receive the credit due him. He won a pennant for Pittsburgh and was relegated to a job as coach. He won a flag for St. Louis and was sent to Rochester. Now the Cardinal powers have brought back the Pittsburgh Sunday school teacher from Rochester, sending the luckless Bill Southworth to lead the International league club in an exchange of skippers.

As in the spring, when Southworth became Cardinal boss and McKechnie went to Rochester, it is the latter who has everything to gain and little to lose while the former can profit little and lose a great deal. Southworth failed at St. Louis and if the Cards improve only a trifle McKechnie will be given due credit. When McKechnie left Rochester yesterday his club was in front in the "Int" loop by seven games. Southworth is faced with the task of maintaining a winning pace with the Red Birds or again of being recorded a failure as a manager.

OTHER CHANGES in managers seem certain to ensue by 1930. Jack Hendricks seems through as leader of the Cincinnati Reds. He has accomplished little in several years' tenure in Rhineland; indeed, Cincinnati clubs have deteriorated in recent seasons. Wilbert Robinson, holding the dual role of president-manager of the Brooklyn Robins, may surrender one of those jobs.

The Washington Senators, of whom much was expected, have been woeful disappointments, for which Walter Johnson has been blamed and even a contract that extends through 1930 may not keep old Barney in the driver's seat in the capital city. Dan Howley may cherish a grudge against Phil Ball and step out as leader of the St. Louis Browns and Lena Blackburne probably will not be retained as foreman of the Chicago White Sox.

THAT unexpected banana peel is just another reason why an "Accident Policy" comes under the head of common sense.

LA COSTE OUT OF CUP TENNIS

Cochet and Borotra Carry Burden of French Team

By GEORGE KENT

PARIS, July 24. (UP)—Rene La Coste, French tennis ace, will not play in the Davis cup challenge round against the United States Friday, Saturday and Sunday, it was officially announced today.

"He is much too weak to attempt to play," La Coste's private physician told the United Press.

The lineup of France's team, tentatively announced today, will be Henri Cochet, Jean Borotra, Jacques Brugnon and Christian Boussus.

Boussus, the young blond southpaw who replaces La Coste, is only 22 years old and will be the youngest player in the challenge round, if he gets into action. John Van Ryn and George Lott, the youngest players on the American team, are 23.

With La Coste off the team, Cochet and Borotra will have to shoulder the burden of defending the Davis cup. They are certain to play in the singles and may play in the doubles. The French may use any one of several combinations in the doubles—Borotra and Cochet, Borotra and Brugnon, or Cochet and Boussus.

If the French win the two opening singles matches, they may decide to concede the doubles to the United States and play Brugnon and Boussus against Allison and Van Ryn and rest Cochet and Borotra for the final day's singles.

Young Saint Stars Due for Promotion

NEW YORK, July 24. (AP)—Among those present at the 1930 Yankee spring training camp probably will be two ball players named Bunny Cooke and Ben Chapman.

Both are now with the St. Paul club which is making a strong bid for the American association pennant.

Cooke, an outfielder, is leading the league in hitting and Chapman, a third baseman, is hitting better than .330.

Chapman and Cooke were sent to St. Paul on option.

That Matter of Luck

It has been said that luck plays almost no part in a competitor's career over any stretch of time. This doesn't always follow. Take the case of MacDonald Smith, of Lakeville. Mac Smith has been a great golfer for 20 years. He has been one of the finest shot makers that ever lived. He was good enough to tie for first place in the United States open 19 years ago. He was good enough to win any number of big money tournaments where the pressure was heavy. When he was 19 he won the Met open with the record score of 278, at that time a record, 10 under even fours for 72 holes. He has won the last two $10,000 Los Angeles tournaments. But he could never hit a United States open at his best. And when he did, weather of one sort or another stopped him. He has been good enough to win several major championships without winning one.

Connie Mack had the good luck to pick up such young stars as Collins, McInnis, Baker, Barry and Combs in a year or so. Later on he used up 14 years of money and hard work trying to find one ballplayer as good as any one of the five named. He had good luck in one case and tough luck in another for, after 1914, any number of able looking young stars insisted on blowing up with a crash.

Football is full of good breaks and tough ones. Take the two successive games Princeton won from Dartmouth. In the first instance a topped drop kick bounded over the bar and was called a field goal. On the same day in another game the same happening was ruled a touch back, counting nothing. A year or so later Dartmouth was leading Princeton, 3 to 0, with little time left. A forward pass from Gherish hit his receiver, bounded against the shoulder of another player five yards away and then bounded into the arms of a Tiger back along the sidelines and a touchdown resulted.

Some Football Dope

Football's first practice session still is a month away, but the early dope already is beginning to filter in. To judge from reports turned in, there are two teams that seem to be well satisfied with their prospects. One is Georgia Tech and the other is Notre Dame. Georgia Tech returns nine of the veterans who faced California on New Year's day. Two or three other young stars will come up from the freshman squad. This means once more a big, charging line and a great set of backs in Lumpkin, Mizell, Thomason and others.

Knute Rockne, of Notre Dame, reports that he has better prospects for this season than he has known in two years. He believes he will once more have the reserve material his schedule demands. He has to play every game away from home this fall while Notre Dame is building a stadium and among those he faces are Army, Navy, Georgia Tech, Southern California and three or four just as tough.

"I have lacked the reserve material for a hard schedule for two years," Knute said, "but this time I believe I will have a good squad that can stand up under the pounding. The material looks better than it has in some time. Whether it works out after that fashion is another guess."

For Star and Duffer

The question has been asked as to how the new golf ball will affect scoring. It will put on a stroke or two for the star, on a general average, and it should take away a stroke or two in improving the count of the average golfer.

The fellow who shoots around 70 in the Jones and Hagen brigade will be well satisfied with a 72 or a 73. If the wind is blowing, he won't kick at a 75.

The golfer who averages a 105 should be able to plug in with a 100 or better, for he will find the new ball easier to get into the air from a brassie or long iron shot. But in a high wind he, also, will have his share of lamentation and heart ache.

One golfer who has been playing around 85 claims that his game with the new ball has been pegged at 77 or 78. Another playing around 80 says he astonished himself with a 68.

The Next Big Fight

Either Chicago or Detroit would draw with New York when it comes to a heavyweight championship. Philadelphia—if Philadelphia happened to like the fight.

The two biggest gates in boxing have come from Chicago and Philadelphia. The next biggest was turned in from Boyle's Thirty Acres.

If Schmeling beats Sharkey and Dempsey comes back any one of four cities will come close to contributing $2,000,000 for the show, no matter how it may figure as a competition.

Those who have a yearning to play "chip shot" better in golf might consider the fact that both Jerry Travers and Bobby Jones played this stroke with the ball back nearer the right foot than the left. The chip shot played from the right foot is easier to hit squarely, without fluffing and to keep on the line.

Missouri, Kansas Vets To Coach Rival Teams

LAWRENCE, Kan., July 24. (AP)—The universities of Kansas and Missouri, traditional rivals in all sports, have played "tit for tat" in their appointment of new track coaches.

Missouri reached to Kansas to obtain H. J. Huff, veteran Jayhawk mentor. Kansas officials selected his successor, Brutus Hamilton, from the ranks of Missouri alumni.

Hamilton, national pentathlon and decathlon champion in 1920, was a star of Missouri track and field teams for three years. He took second in the decathlon in the 1920 Olympics. He comes to Kansas from Westminster college, Fulton, Mo., where he has coached and taught literature.

Women Want Room

LONDON—The increase in the number of women parliament members argues well for the strengthening rights of women, but nevertheless the feminine members are raising a kick. The sitting room allotted to them is inadequate, they claim. Despite the increase in their numbers, the same room which used to accommodate one member, Lady Astor, suffices for them.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 24. (AP)—A favorable view of the weekly weather report and a belief that it might foreshadow comparatively high private end-month condition figures seemed responsible for sharp declines from an early advance in cotton today. After selling up to 19.13, October contracts broke to 18.64, but steadied at this figure and closed at 18.72. The general market closed barely steady at net declines of 3 to 17 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 11 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. A few additional July notices were reported, but that position sold up to 18.75. January advanced to 19.30 with the general list showing net gains of about 28 to 35 points during the early trading.

Liquidation or resulting came from some of the early buyers, and offerings increased as prices eased off with some stop orders uncovered on the decline. July sold down to 18.30, or 6 points net lower, while later months broke still more severely.

January declined to 18.82 and new crop deliveries generally showed net losses of about 19 to 23 points in the early afternoon. There was enough trade buying or covering to check the decline at these figures and rallies appeared late in the afternoon accompanied by reports of better progress in negotiations for a settlement of the labor disputes in the Lancashire mills.

Closing prices showed recoveries of about 8 to 10 points from the lowest on the active new crop positions.

Exports today, 4,712; making 8,172,154 so far this season. Port receipts, 1,955. U. S. port stocks, 588,404.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 24 (AP)—Cotton today was active with wide price fluctuations, advancing sharply in the early trading. Gaining 28 points from the opening and declining after publication of the weekly weather and crop summary which was considered favorable and bearish. Prices slipped off 44 points from the highs. There was a rally of 9 to 10 points in the final trading.

October opened at 18.70, or 3 points down, advanced 28 points to 18.98, dropped 44 points to 18.54 and closed at 18.63 or 10 points net lower for the day. The general market closed steady at net declines of 3 to 10 points.

Liverpool came in as due to 1 point worse and first trades here showed no change to 3 points decline. December rose to 19.15 or 25 to 28 points above the opening. After the weekly weather report was issued the market turned easy; December dropped to 18.71 or 44 points on both months below the earlier highs.

There was a rally in the final hour, prices recovering 9 to 10 points. December closed at 18.81, or 9 to 10 points net lower for the day.

CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, July 24. (AP)—After an early advance of about 25 points, cotton weakened on the issuance of a weekly government weather report. With cables about 2 American points lower than due, opening prices were from 1 point down to 10 up. Active buying soon lifted values about $1.25 per bale, but the weather review was more favorable than expected and led to a sharp decline.

Call Money Rate Advance Brings Lower Averages at Market's Close

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 24. (US)—Advance in the call money rate from renewal of seven to nine per cent influenced increasing liquidation that closed the stock market lower, today. A few issues benefited from individual development, American Telephone gaining 8¾, Boston & Maine 15⅝, General American Tank 4¼ and Postum 3¾ while Murray Corporation jumped 3¾ on advice that business was being turned away with plants working at capacity. Steel closed 1¾ lower after registering a new high record price above $210 while other Standard Industrials lost from one to three points. Chrysler dipped two more in an unsettled motor list in which Marmon moved against the trend for gain of another point. Rails turned a little unsteady with the Industrials but met good support. Coppers and Oils continued quiet and irregular. Turnover remained below the 4,000,000 share level.

Money and the rumors from the automobile world are the main worries of the street. There was no good reason for the advance in the call rate except that it showed the reserve authorities remain determined that stock speculation will not get out of hand again. In the course of a few weeks money will be needed for crop movement and as it is attracted to the West there may be some cause for tightness here. Bankers are not worried about the money situation, however. They hold to the opinion that many good stocks will sell higher. The automobile rumors revolve around General Motors and there is growing evdience that a real pool is at work in the stock. Those close to the Detroit interests who are most powerful in the management, however, are not greatly concerned. Whenever a crowded short interest appears they will make it suffer but at present they have no intention of aggressive operations on the long side.

The one automobile stock that stands out is Marmon. Not alone is there a steadily decreasing floating supply but its earnings are running at the rate of $18 a share. Orders are coming in at a rate that indicate further gains in income for the current quarter. Some of those active in Auburn recently have been interested in Marmon. Buying of Union Bag & Paper was regarded as response to the sale of its power holdings to Mohawk Hudson Co. The company realizes an amount equal to $32 a share while retaining valued Power rights as well as its established paper business. National Power continues to reflect expectation of early announcement of further merger plans of the most powerful group in the Utility field.

Another demonstration of what the Matt Brush management of American International has accomplished is given in the recapitalization of Ulen Company and the market for the stock. Mr. Brush got rid of the "dogs" held by A. I. C. when he took charge. Ulen stock he held and now it is showing a big profit. The Ulen Company plans, directs and finances construction work and with the recapitalization out of the way expansion of activity is planned. General Asphalt reached a new top due to the activity of the new interests told of here some weeks ago. They continue confident that the roofing business will be profitably disposed of. Combustion deflected the activity of the group that was formed recently. Announcement of further expansion of operations is looked for. A new pool has been formed in Postum coincident with rumor that negotiations are on for acquiring an other company.

Reserve bank meeting and the Bethlehem Steel directors' session are the important developments for tomorrow. With the call rate likely to be held at nine per cent or higher there will be added nervousness as to the showing in the reserve statements. However, it seems likely that there will be little change of importance in brokers' loans and it would be no surprise if a small decrease was shown. The most important item in the reserve statements will be that showing government securities and bills for it will reveal if the reserve has started to influence flow of funds to the West. Bethlehem is expected to show net of $7 a share for the quarter so that extra cash dividend appears warranted.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, July 24. (AP)—Sellers of wheat instead of buyers, did most of the batting today, and speculators focused attention more on big domestic receipts than on crop damage.

Closing wheat quotations unsettled, ⅛c to 1⅛c under yesterday's finish. Corn closed at 1c to 1½c net decline, oats ⅛c to 1c off, and provisions varying from 2c setback to a rise of 7@10c.

A railroad embargo at Galveston is threatened to be extended to Houston.

Unexpected higher quotations at Liverpool and word that drought developments in Australia are causing alarm were largely responsible for transient upturns in Chicago wheat prices today.

Corn and oats gave way when wheat turned weak, although reports at hand implied most of the new corn crop is 10 days to two weeks late, and will not be out of danger from frost until Oct. 10.

Buying of lard gave firmness to the provision market.

55 SENIORS GET DIPLOMAS

Summer Terms in Wichita Schools Closed

"Life is like a mirror—give it the best you have and the best will come back to you."

This was the keynote of the commencement address delivered by Judge Guy Rogers before 55 graduates of the summer sessions of the Junior college, high school and junior high schools Wednesday morning.

"There will be obstacles and handicaps in your way, of course," he said, "but these things constitute the duty of living. To whatever degree you are able to bend circumstances to your own will will determine your success."

Preceding the address Miss Lois Baber gave a piano solo and Tom McCarty gave a vocal solo, accompanied by Lee Erwin. Judge Rogers was introduced by S. H. Rider, principal of the high school and dean of the college during the regular session.

W. L. Robertson, vice president of the board of education, presented diplomas to seven graduates of Junior college, 28 graduates of high school and 20 from Reagan and Zundelowitz junior high schools.

The invocation was delivered by Rev. Patrick Henry, pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church, and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Alvin F. White, pastor of Grace Methodist church.

Entertainment Features Optimist Club Meeting

Mrs. Fred Bennett and Frank Haley featured a program of entertainment presented before the weekly meeting of the Optimistic club Wednesday noon at the Kemp hotel.

Mrs. Bennett gave a reading, and played piano accompaniments for Mr. Haley, who sang several numbers. A club singsong was led by Joel H. MacGregor, with Miss Lorene Tucker accompanying. The club voted to wire its congratulations to Jim Galloway, manager of the league-leading Spudders, at Waco.

Dr. Floyd A. Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, spoke upon the value of "community-mindedness." Service clubs were declared to be indispensable because of the unity which they effect among men of varying races and creeds. The recent young people's conference of the Christian churches of Texas was reviewed by Rev. Patrick Henry pastor of the Highland Heights Christian church.

Judge Halts Trial Of $25,000 Suit; Case Reset

Introduction of testimony held by the court to be prejudicial to the interests of an unbiased verdict Wedensday afternoon halted the trial of the John Maunders $25,000 damage suit against Russel Morgan and the Trinity Portland Cement company. The inadvertent reply of a witness to a question put by one of the attorneys involved mention of an insurance company and led Judge P. A. Martin to stop the trial after it had been underway since early Tuesday afternoon.

Attorneys on both sides agreed that the reply of the witness, made in the hearing of the jury, constituted a reversible error and the case was reset by agreement for Sept. 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Maunders are asking the damages in connection with an automobile accident last January in which Mrs. Maunders is alleged to have received serious permanent injuries.

City Completes Work On New Tennis Courts

Finishing touches on the new tennis courts at the Junior college are being made, it was announced Wednesday by C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent, and the courts will be completed and open to the public in their final form within the next few days. They are being conditioned by the application of 1,000 pounds of ice cream salt and about 700 pounds of calcium chloride, the salt to kill all vegetation on the courts and the chloride to absorb moisture and keep down dust. The chemicals are rolled into the ground and then watered, the only care of the courts necessary thereafter being to drag and roll the ground. Upon their completion they will be the best courts in the city, Mr. Bunnenberg said.

Deputy Nabs Pair Here as They "Sleep on Guns" at Side of Car

Man Arrested in Theft of Oklahoma Car Tells Officers He Escaped From Federal Prison

E. L. Newton, escaped from the federal penitentiary at Chillicothe, Ohio, and a 24-year-old Oklahoma youth were arrested about noon Wednesday in the river bottoms east of Wichita Falls where they were discovered by Dick Morris and Charlie Gant, deputy sheriffs, sleeping with their hands on loaded revolvers.

They are held in connection with the theft of a car stolen from a Dr. Strong in Oklahoma City Tuesday night.

The deputies were making other investigations when they came upon the two sleeping men, one on either side of the Chevrolet coupe. Newton told officers that he had been convicted of violating the Dyer act, transporting a stolen automobile across the state line, after a trial in Dallas county. He escaped last March from the Chillicothe prison with 10 months more to serve, Newton told Mr. Morris. The escaped prisoner, in a statement Wednesday afternoon took responsibility for the stolen automobile.

Members of the sheriff's department got in touch with Oklahoma officials immediately after the arrest.

Officers from Oklahoma City are expected in Wichita Falls Thursday morning for a conference about the disposition of the prisoners who are now being held in the Wichita county jail.

Jury, Uninformed as to Trials Of Securing False Teeth, Fails to Agree

The question of whether or not the laceration of gums in the fitting of a set of false teeth constitutes less than "reasonable skill" on the part of the dentist Wednesday morning stumped the jury trying a damage suit in the 78th district court here and led to the declaration of a mistrial.

The jurors decided that the gums of the lady who purchased the plate had indeed been lacerated, but they disagreed 7 to 5 on the following question as to whether the injuries were all a part of the travail of getting false teeth.

The body answered two out of seven questions put by Judge Allan D. Montgomery. The second answer said that the same dentist who lacerated the gums had been guiltless of the charge of allowing hot material, used in making impressions, to slip down the patient's throat and add to her injuries. The patient is asking for a little more than $1,000 in damages. No date for a second trial has been set.

City Uses "Cement Gun" In Resurfacing Streets

Due to the successful use of the "cement gun" in the re-concreting work at the disposal plant, officials of the city engineering department Wednesday experimented with the compressed air cementer on sections of the paving on Tenth street between Ohio and Scott avenues. It was claimed that the gun was equally fitted for re-surfacing street paving as for renewing concrete on perpendicular surfaces. In the event that the experiments prove successful, it was said, the surfacing and patching of rough streets in the city should be made considerably easier, as well as stronger due to the greater force used in the compression gun and the relatively thinner layers of concrete necessary.

The first of a series of weekly luncheon meetings for the purpose of making plans for the 1930 Community chest drive was held at the Wichita club Wednesday noon by the executive campaign committee of the chest. Those present at the luncheon were A. E. Kelly, Jacob B. Price, J. D. Bright, J. T. Harrell and Miss Myrle Neely, executive secretary of the chest.

GRAND JURY RESUMES WORK

Girl of 16 Tells Story Of Alleged Attack

The 30th district grand jury which reconvened Wednesday morning recessed without a report in the late afternoon, to resume its investigations Thursday morning.

Testimony in several cases which have developed with the last few days was offered before the body Wednesday and the new inquiries are expected to prolong the session through Thursday and perhaps until early Friday. The jury is investigating the complaint of a 16-year-old girl who appeared in the grand jury Wednesday morning bearing the marks of an alleged struggle with her masculine companion in North Wichita Tuesday night. Witnesses in other matters which have been occupying the attention of county officials for several days took precedence over routine complaints already handled through the district attorney's office, and the final report of the body may be delayed until Friday.

Aged Brew Makers Arouse Sympathy

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 24. (UP)—Consideration for age and poverty led Judge Merrill E. Otis to show leniency to two defendants who appeared in federal court today and pleaded guilty to the charge of selling liquor.

The defendants, Joe Clougley, 72, and his wife, Mrs. Mary Clougley, 56, admitted liquor sales and knowledge of the Jones law, but Judge Otis decided to consider the case a pre-Jones law affair and sentenced the couple to three months in jail, allowing the 72 days already served to apply on the sentence.

Clougley appeared in overalls. He was so hard of hearing he could not understand the questions Judge Otis asked him and it fell to his wife to answer all the questions and plead for leniency. The two were too poor to engage an attorney and had been in jail since their arrest 72 days ago.

Mrs. Clougley told a pitiful tale of a struggle for existence and declared she and her husband resorted to bootlegging only to eke out a livelihood.

Purchase of Lands For Texas Indians Okehed

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 24. (AP)—Expenditure of $29,000 by the federal government for land for Alabama and Coushatta Indians in Polk county has been approved by the attorney general, according to information reaching Judge Thomas A. Baten, one of the land owners from whom the tract was purchased. That approval fulfills requirements of law and warrants on the U. S. treasury department are to be issued at once by the commissioner of Indian affairs.

The land was purchased for approximately $9.50 per acre, about two-thirds of its being in timber and suitable for grazing.

The entire appropriation was $40,000 the expenditure for land leaving a balance of $11,000 for the purchase of equipment. That is in addition to an appropriation of $37,000 recently made by the Texas legislature.

And All Were Empty

Holloway immediately began an investigation of conditions at the school and into the death of Stanley Kelley, an inmate, whom R. E. Davis, a guard, is charged with having murdered. He received the report of Mrs. Mabel Bassett, state commissioner of charities and corrections, who recommended the entire personnal of the institution be discharged.

POOR SHRIMP IS NOW EXILED

Jones Law Bans Free Lunch With Beer

By DIXON STEWART

KANSAS CITY, July 24. (UP)—The luscious shrimp—inveterate favorite of "free lunch" days—has lost its place as America's favorite delicacy if conditions in other cities of the United States are similar to those in Kansas City. A tour of local fish markets indicates those fishermen who depend on catching shrimp for a livelihood will be forced to abandon their nets and seek other employment.

The beginning of the end for shrimp dates back to that day in 1919 when the edict that manufacture and sale of liquor should cease, was made. The end was several weeks ago when the Jones law sent liquor dealers to cover.

Free With Beer

Pre-prohibition days are not so far in the past as to leave no memory of the bounteous free lunches that were provided by every saloon and great plates of shrimp reposed on the bars, free to anyone who purchased a glass of beer.

Experienced drinkers explained that the flavor of shrimp was greatly enhanced by beer or just the right temperature and potency.

Then prohibition came and the desire to retain the popularity of shrimp, if for no other reason than to serve as a memory of old days, led ingenious persons to seek other ways in which shrimp could be offered.

For a time shrimp salad enjoyed popularity but the shrimp was destined to make its last stand among the friends of the good old days.

"Speakeasies" became the gathering place for epicures whose taste for shrimp, accompanied by beer, had been whetted by several years of prohibition. Proprietors with an eye for business again established the free lunch and in Kansas City, Tuesdays and Fridays became "shrimp days," when a large plate of shrimp and a stein of beer could be had for the price of the beer alone.

That was before anyone had thought of the Jones law and before local officials decided the prohibition law might as well be enforced, since congress has gone to the trouble of passing it.

Now the shrimp has returned to exile, unless one is so fortunate as to have a friend whose pride in his talent for home brew leads him to extend an occasional invitation to visit his home. Then, if he is an ideal host, he will bring forth a plate of shrimp, and if one is not too critical, he may imagine himself back in the free lunch days.

But for the most part the only demand for shrimp is from the bridge party and afternoon tea crowd.

Local option and prohibition are scheduled to be vital topics in the annual elections of Ireland.

EXPENSIVE PETTING

$50 Fine Assessed Youth After Deputy Finds Parked Auto

A second plea of guilty to disturbing the peace is expected in the county court at law Thursday morning in connection with a three-sided petting party interrupted by George Garret, special deputy sheriff, in the heart of Country Club Estates Tuesday night. One of the two young men arrested Wednesday morning entered his plea of guilty and was given a $50 fine along with a severe lecture by Irwin J. Vogel, judge of the county court at law.

The two boys and a girl who said she was 15 were arrested in a parked automobile. The girl was placed in the custody of James A. McDonald, county juvenile officer, and both youths were charged with disturbing the peace.

Woman Suffering From Pellagra Placed in Crude Coffin to Die

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, July 24. (AP)—Placed in a crudely built pine coffin to die, a 29-year-old Mexican woman was found in a shack here today by police. She was taken to a hospital where physicians said she was suffering from pellagra and hope for her recovery was slight.
