OUR DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION CARTOON OF NOTABLES.

For two weeks the Democratic Convention has been in session in New York City, and until last Saturday, was in an absolute deadlock, with the McAdoo and Smith factions leading. Eighty-seven ballots were cast. On the last ballot, McAdoo had dropped from 530 to 352½. Smith had also lost, ending with 361½. It is now agreed that neither of the high men can be nominated and on the first of the week, the convention was seeking some means of a rapid nomination, so the delegates could go home. Of the above mimic pictures, all have names below except William Jennings Bryan, without whom no convention is complete.

LYNCH DAVIDSON CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

For the first time in more than a score of years, the people of Texas have an opportunity to elect a real business executive as Governor of Texas, and this candidate is Lynch Davidson, of Houston.

The fact that all the other candidates now have their guns leveled on Lynch, seems to be the very best evidence that he is the leading candidate, and as such, is the best qualified man in the race. There is a good deal being said about the matter of a business man for governor. Of course the politician who has never been able to make a success, is always ready to denounce the man who has made a success of his business or profession. That is always the "long suit" of the professional politician. They want to play into the hands of us common mortals by telling us that a man who has made a success is a grafter, and that he will not do to trust, and that the State is not in business and therefore does not need a business man at its head.

It only takes a ten-year-old school boy to know that the State is a wonderfully big business institution, for every two years, in addition to providing the best form of government on earth, it has to spend about 40 million dollars of the people's money. Then, that same school boy can see that the man who has the veto power over this enormous sum of money should be a business executive.

One of the candidates who is howling the loudest about the State not needing a business man at its head, is with the same breath, advocating a policy that would put the State in the real estate and banking business. Not very consistent, eh?

Now the writer of this article has no political ax to grind and no plums to ask for. Our interest in the matter is merely to secure the best man available for the office. We know all the candidates personally, except two. One is the purported official Ku Klux candidate and the other is so low in the running that no good can come from considering the things he stands for.

We believe that Lynet Davidson is as far superior to his opponents as Junction, with its sunshine, its bracing air and its superb mountain scenery, from a pleasure resort standpoint, is ahead of a town of the same size in the Brazos bottom, near the coast, where the mosquitoes are so large they take the cowbells of the cattle at night, and where the bull frogs grow so large that they are accused of swallowing negro babies.

Both as head of his own business interests and as a former public official, he has proven an outstanding figure, and we believe that the people of Texas will miss the greatest opportunity of our history as a state if they fail to elect him this month.

We know that he is clean in private life, honest in all business dealings, and that he is fearless and efficient as a public official. These qualifications, together with his executive ability, present him as a candidate without an equal in the field of candidates for this high office.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Loeffler, Mrs. Dockery and Miss Selma Loeffler of Brownwood, spent the 4th in San Antonio.

The Chamber of Commerce who is sponsoring the picnic and barbecue this week, and the citizens of Junction in general, extend to our visitors a hearty West Texas Welcome!

The committees have worked hard to provide this entertainment and two days get-together for you, and feel that you will appreciate their efforts. They have made every effort to provide clean amusements for you and to provide a dinner on the 11th that will delight the appetites of the most fastidious.

They have spared no expense in arranging for your comfort and enjoyment. Hundreds of dollars are being spent in feeding and entertaining those who are attending. There is no effort made to make money. If the Executive Committee can "break even" they will be satisfied.

We want you to feel at home, enjoy yourself, meet your old friends and attend the baseball and polo games, and do everything else in keeping with the occasion that will take your mind off your crops, livestock or business for these two days.

Welcome to Junction!

Mr. and Mrs. Alex J. Hamer are in San Antonio on business.

ADDITIONAL COMMITTEE MEMBERS ARE NAMED.

On account of the inability of some of the members of different committees to devote time to the work, the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce, at the regular Monday night meeting, added several names to the Barbecue Committee.

The following now constitute the committees and are the ones to whom all visitors are referred for information, or to whom you can make your complaints or desires known. The candidates on the committees, we are sure, will be glad to take care of babies, look after the needs of the visitors, and in general, be on hand for whatever the voters desire, so long as they get the assurance of the votes.

Executive Committee: In charge of sale of all rights; over all committees; finance: C. T. Holekamp, Walter Buck, W. P. Riley, F. E. Garrett.

Barbecue committee: In charge of man to barbecue meat help to feed, tables, coffee, barbecue pits, cups, plates, knives, forks, spoons, bread, pickles, sugar, meat, salt, wood, and all other supplies: A. G. Farmer, J.

NEW UNIVERSITY HEAD.

Announcement was made at Austin last Saturday by the Board of Regents, that Dr. Walter M. W. Splawn, present Railroad Commissioner of Texas, and candidate to succeed himself, had been elected President of the University.

Dr. Splawn is a former member of the faculty of the University, having resigned that position some months ago to accept appointment on the Railroad Commission at the hands of Governor Neff.

He is the fourth man to be offered the presidency since the resignation of President Vinson more than a year ago. Governor Neff and Herbert E. Bolton, another ex-member of the University faculty were among those selected by the Board who refused to accept the offer.

PRESIDENT'S SON DIES MONDAY NIGHT.

Calvin Jr., youngest son of President and Mrs. Coolidge, died at 10:30 p. m., July 7th, at the Walter Reid hospital in Washington, after an illness of five days. He was placed in the Reid hospital last Saturday and an operation performed that night to remove the seat of infection in his left leg, but all efforts of the medical attendants failed to check the ravages of the poison.

All the family were with him when the end came. This is the third presidential family in succession to lose a member while in the White House.

KILLS LARGE WILD CAT WITH STONES.

(Mason County News.) C. C. Wood, employed on the James River Ranch of Mr. Max Martin was in town recently, bringing with him a large wild cat hide. He related his experience in killing the cat by stating that on one morning while he was riding in the pasture his dogs found the cat and after running it for a short time, layed it, and he rushed up on his horse and got down and began throwing rocks at the cat, finally hit and stunning it until he could walk up and drop a big rock on its head.

The cat is believed to be one of the largest killed in this county in a long time, and it is also believed it was responsible for the loss of many pigs of the stockmen in that section.

If the cat's tail had not have been so short it is probable that Mr. Wood might have brought it in alive. Anyway Mr. Wood is a good friend of the News and gave the editor the hide off the cat and we have it at the office where many people have commented on the largeness of it.

SENTENCE AFFIRMED FOR ANTI-SALOON MAN.

New York, July 2.—The conviction of William H. Anderson, former state superintendent of the anti-saloon League who is serving one to two years at Sing Sing prison for third degree forgery, was unanimously affirmed today by the appellate division of the Supreme Court.

Denton Publisher Seeks Lieutenant-Governorship

WILL C. EDWARDS

Denton Editor Who is a Candidate for the Democratic Nomination for Lieutenant-Governor.

Edwards, past president of the Texas Press Association and Texas Daily Press League, came to Denton from Alabama a small boy 41 years ago and has lived there since. He has been connected with the Denton Record-Chronicle since 1896 and has been its publisher since 1899.

In 1922 Edwards' home people, drafted him to run for the Legislature—the only public office he has ever held—and this is his first political contest entered voluntarily. He is president of the Denton Chamber of Commerce, served eight years as Democratic County Chairman, two years as State Democratic Executive Committee member, three years as Red Cross county chairman, four years as president of Denton County Texas-Exas.

Friends say 95 per cent of the Democratic vote of his home county will be cast for Edwards and that he has practically the solid support of Texas newspapermen.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO CONSTITUTION RELATING TO GRANTING OF CONFEDERATE PENSIONS

Senate Joint Resolution No. 19. Proposing an amendment to Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas to provide that the Legislature may grant pensions to Confederate soldiers and their widows who have been citizens of Texas since prior to January 1, 1910, and to their widows and their widows eligible under the provisions hereinafter provided. The pension fund created hereunder levying a tax of five cents on the one hundred ($100.00) dollar valuation of property in the State for the payment of such pension, providing that the Legislature may reduce the rate of pension for such purpose, fixing a time for the election to be held on such amendment and making an appropriation to pay the expenses thereof.

Be It Resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution of the State of Texas shall be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

Section 51. The Legislature shall have no power to make any grant or authorize the making of any grant of public money to the individual, association of individuals, municipal or other corporations whatsoever, provided, however, the Legislature may grant aid to indigent or disabled Confederate soldiers and sailors, who come to Texas prior to January 1, 1910, and to their widows in indigent circumstances and who have been bona fide residents of the State since January 1, 1910, and who were married to such soldiers or sailors prior to January 1, 1910, and to indigent and disabled soldiers, under the special laws of the State of Texas during their service in the States served in organizations for the protection of the frontier against the Indian raiders or Mexican warriors, and to the widows of such soldiers and sailors, and to the widows of such soldiers who are in indigent circumstances and who were married to such soldiers prior to January 1, 1910, provided that the individual, association of individuals, municipal or other corporations, in the preceding lines of this Section shall not apply to women born since the year 1910, and all soldiers and sailors and widows of soldiers and sailors eligible under the above conditions shall be entitled to be placed upon the pension rolls and participate in the distribution of the pension fund of the State under any existing law or laws hereafter passed by the Legislature, and also to grant aid for the establishment and maintenance of a home for said soldiers and sailors, their wives and widows and women who aided in the Confederacy under such regulations and limitations as may be provided by law, provided the Legislature may provide for husband and wife to remain together, in the event there is hereby levied in addition to all other taxes heretofore permitted by the Constitution of Texas a State ad valorem tax on property to wit: five (5) cents on the one hundred ($100) dollar valuation for the purpose of creating a special fund for the payment of pensions for services in the Confederate army and navy, frontier organizations and the militia of the State of Texas, and for the widows of such soldiers serving in said armies, navies, organizations or militia; provided that the Legislature may reduce the tax rate herein levied, and provided that the Section shall not be construed so as to prevent the grant of aid in cases of public calamity.

Section 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified voters of this State at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1924, at which all voters shall have printed or written on their ballots "For Amendment of Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution authorizing the Legislature to grant aid to Confederate soldiers, sailors and their widows who have been residents of this State since January 1, 1910" and "Against Amendment to Section 51 of Article 3 of the Constitution, authorizing the Legislature to grant aid to Confederate soldiers and their widows."

Section 3. The Governor is hereby directed to issue the proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the Constitution and laws of this State, and the sum of five thousand ($5,000.00) dollars or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated out of the general funds of this State not otherwise appropriated for expenses of publications and elections thereunder.

Approved, March 20, 1923.

S. L. STAPLES, Secretary of State.

MANAGERS OF STATE R. R. PRAISE LYNCH DAVIDSON.

Houston.—A statement by J. A. Glen and E. C. Durham, members of the Board of Managers of the Texas State Railroad, was released for publication by Lynch Davidson's Houston headquarters, refuting charges of gubernatorial candidates in disparagement of Mr. Davidson's rehabilitation of the State Railroad, and commending his work in that behalf. The statement of Messrs. Glen and Durham, to whom Lynch Davidson had given credit for great assistance in restoring the railroad, follows:

"It is being charged by campaigners in the gubernatorial race that when taken over by the Board of Managers the Texas State Railroad was in fact in good condition, that money was improperly expended in its rehabilitation and that proper accounting for funds received has not been made. All these charges are untrue and unfair. With the exception of one locomotive the equipment of the State Railroad was not in good condition and some of it was dilapidated beyond repair. The road urgently needed not less than 50,000 ties and heavy rail renewals, expensive repairs to bridges and cattle guards, improvement in drainage made and other work done before the line was placed in condition acceptable to the Southern Pacific Lines which leased it.

"Hon. Lynch Davidson, Chairman of the Board of Managers, has done excellent work in connection with the rehabilitation and leasing of the State Railroad. If the property had been his own he could not have given its affairs more careful attention or labored more faithfully in its behalf. His business judgment has been invaluable to the State in this instance and every citizen of Texas owes him a debt of gratitude for his noteworthy service.

"This statement is made in justice to all concerned and in order that the people of Texas may know the real facts."

SHIPMENT OF 81 CARS OF SPRING WOOL & MOHAIR.

(Kerrville Mountain Sun.) Shipment of the spring wool clip from the warehouses of the Schreiner Wool & Mohair Commission Co., has about been completed, it is announced.

Satisfactory prices were received for all but about 75,000 pounds, which was low grade and defective. That amount was consigned to Boston to be scoured and sold there.

Eighty-one cars were required to transport the shipment, which consisted of 2,460,652 pounds. The spring mohair consignments required 32 cars for the 1,067,012 pounds of that staple.

The 113 cars, or 3,527,664 pounds of the spring clips of wool and mohair brought over $1,813,000.00 to be distributed in Kerr and adjoining counties.

It is expected that the fall clips will total approximately 2,500,000 pounds, bringing the total for the year up to about 6,000,000 pounds sold at this concentration point.

These figures represent nearly a fourth of the total wool and mohair production of the entire State, and place Kerrville at the head of wool and mohair markets in Texas.

E. Holekamp recently made some pictures of the Schreiner Park and the Tourist Park which were sent to the daily papers for which he is local reporter. One of the pictures of the Schreiner Park was sent to Capt. Chas. Schreiner, at Kerrville, who donated the park to the people of Kimble County, and the following letter was received from Capt. Schreiner:

Mr. E. Holekamp, Junction, Texas.
My Dear Friend:

Your letter with picture of entrance to Schreiner Park received. I thank you very much for your thoughtfulness. I will never be able to see it but am sure it is a beautiful place and it pleases me very much to know that my friends and their children will have such a lovely spot to spend their outings for all time.

With best regards,
Your friend,

Judge R. H. Buck of Fort Worth, candidate for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, was in Junction Saturday in the interest of his candidacy for this high office. With the exception of Joe Burkett of Eastland, gubernatorial aspirant, Judge Buck is the only candidate for a State office that has visited Kimble County. He is at present an Associate Justice of the Court of Civil Appeals, Second Supreme Judicial District, which office he has held since 1914, and those who know him personally or who have had occasion to observe his work in this Court speak very highly of his qualifications. He spoke at the Mason Barbecue Friday and from here he went to Menard. The voters of this county will do well to consider the candidacy of Judge Buck, when they cast their votes this month.

A recent ruling by the Attorney General of Texas places the county commissioner as a county and not a precinct official. The question arose when candidates for the office complained that if they paid the assessment levied by the county committee they would not keep within the limit of $100 allowed by law for precinct candidates. The decision removes this objection, and as much as $750 can be expended in seeking the office if any candidate has that much money.

"The World do Move," was the subject of the proverbial old negro preacher, and those of us who are fortunate in living in this age can either see the great things that are happening, or hear of them. On Wednesday of last week a lady in San Francisco sent a box of flowers to President Coolidge in Washington, that was delivered in less than 40 hours after it was mailed. That's about the time it would take a package mailed in East Texas to reach us. There is a daily air mail service between New York and San Francisco which makes the trip in a day and has a few hours to spare. Yet forty years ago several weeks were required to transport mail from the Pacific to the Atlantic Coast.

STATE PARK BOARD TO SPEND NIGHT HERE.

West Texas towns offering sites for proposed State Parks will be visited by the Texas State Park Board in its tour of the section July 14 to 23. This is a continuation of the inspection begun in the Lower Rio Grande Valley section several weeks ago. Following the tour scheduled for the period mentioned the board will arrange for inspection of sites in the Plains and Panhandle area, including the Palo Duro canyon.

The park board will leave San Antonio July 14, visiting Boerne and Comfort during the forenoon, stopping at Kerrville for lunch, and will reach Junction about 4:30 in the afternoon, according to a telephone message received by J. N. Hodges, president of the Chamber of Commerce. This is the first visit of the Park Board to the Hill Country and doubtless many of the party will find many surprises when they drive over the fine highway from Kerrville to Junction, passing up the Johnson Fork of the Guadalupe, over the Divide country and down the Johnson Fork of the Llano.

They will spend the night here and on the following day the inspection party will visit sites at Mason, Brady, Melvin, Eden and San Angelo. July 16 will find it looking at scenic offerings at Sterling City, Midway, Big Springs and Stanton, Midland, Odessa, Monahans-Pyote, Barstow will occupy the time of the party the following day.

Then will begin an interior jaunt into the Guadalupe Mountains—tallest in Texas. Judge J. C. Hunter of Van Horn will pilot the party from Pecos. A side trip of interest will be to the famous Carlsbad national caves, 95 miles up in New Mexico. At the Guadalupe park Governor Hinkle of New Mexico will join the party for the trip to the caves.

At noon Saturday the party will proceed to Van Horn, where a mass meeting will be held at 6 p. m., and spend the night. Sunday will be passed motoring to Fort Davis, in the fastness of the mountains. Governor Neff will deliver a lecture there, Monday and Tuesday will be spent inspecting sites in the Davis Mountains. Mass meetings will be held at Marfa and Alpine. The board will complete inspection of the Davis Mountains park sites Wednesday, July 23, lunch at Balmorhea and spend the night at Ft. Stockton.

The inspection party will comprise Governor Neff, and his daughter, Miss Hallie Maude; R. M. Hubbard and wife, the former chairman of the highway commission; George D. Armistead, member of the commission; Gibb Gilchrist, state highway engineer; A. R. Losh, federal district engineer; D. K. Martin and wife, state highway commissioner, and five members of the State Park Board, including D. E. Colp, chairman.

ARMY OFFICERS ARRIVE WEDNESDAY NITE.

The polo team from Ft. Clark drove through in cars Wednesday and are "quartered" at the Becker Hotel. Captain Tully, commanding the 1st Squadron of the 5th Cavalry, who was in charge of the troops passing through Junction some weeks ago, is with the party, which is composed of three other officers from the 5th Cavalry, and an enlisted man.

They will be here on both days of the picnic and will participate in the polo games each afternoon.

R. O. Green of Mason brought up a truck load of melons this week, raised on his farm. He will likely bring more melons, until the demand is supplied by local people.

Roscoe Heyman, cashier of the Menard National Bank, was here on business the first of the week and was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Heyman.

THE STATE'S BUSINESS

(Fort Worth Ttar-Telegram.) Here are a few facts for the taxpayers of Texas to ponder over when the time comes for them to cast their ballots for officers to administer the affairs of Texas:

During the past ten years the population of Texas has increased 25 per cent. The State's wealth, as shown by tax renditions, has increased 34 per cent during the same time, meaning 34 per cent gain in tax revenues, provided taxes are collected in the same proportion, and yet during this same period the cost of administering the government has increased 300 per cent. A 25 per cent gain in population; 34 per cent gain in wealth, and 300 per cent increase in operating cost!

Just think for a moment what would happen to any private business concern that enjoyed a 34 per cent gain in revenue and then allowed its expenses to increase 300 per cent. It does not require any mathematical calculation to determine just how long that private enterprise would last. Just long enough for the sheriff to take charge.

Is it any wonder, then, that to a business man like Lynch Davidson, the increasing costs of operation seem so appalling that he believes he could save the State $10,000,000 every two years through efficient business management, should he be elected Governor? Any other sound business man, confronted with such a condition, would be able to effect tremendous savings, too. What Texas needs and has needed for years is the application of business principles to the management of state affairs. That done, the saving will be surprising.

Texas has the opportunity this year—the first opportunity it has had in years—to place a successful business man at the head of its affairs. Lynch Davidson's candidacy affords the opportunity. Whether the voters will make the most of it rests with them on July 26th.

SUGGESTIONS TO ABSENTEE VOTERS.

The Absentee Voting Law of Texas is contained in Chapter 149 of the Acts of the 38th Legislature at its general session.

All persons who are absent from the county of his or her residence and does not expect to return before the date of election, may between July 6th and July 16th, appear before a Notary Public and request that said Notary Public write the County Clerk for an official ballot for said election. The applicant must present to said Notary Public his or her poll tax receipt which must be enclosed with the request for the ballot to the County Clerk. This application may be orally made. If the voter is unknown to the Notary Public, he or she must be identified by two credible citizens, if required.

Second: The County Clerk, upon receipt of the request for an official ballot from the Notary Public together with the poll tax receipt, after having verified that said poll tax receipt was in fact issued to the applicant, must return to the voter direct an official ballot by registered letter. The letter is to be endorsed on the outside of the envelope "Official ballot for such elector (give elector's name) not to be opened except in the presence of a Notary Public."

Upon receipt of this letter so endorsed, the voter will go to the Notary Public and in his presence open it and take out his official ballot and apart from any other person mark the ballot, fold it and place in an envelope. The voter will then make an affidavit before such Notary Public that he has marked the ballot, apart, and without the assistance or suggestion of any other person. This affidavit will then be placed in the envelope with the ballot and the envelope sealed and endorsed on the back "Official ballot of (give elector's name)." This envelope will then be mailed to the County Clerk. The postage for the entire correspondence made necessary to be provided by the elector.

Any person violating any provisions of the Absentee Voting Law or who votes, or offers to vote illegally, or makes a false representation in an effort to vote, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or by imprisonment in the county jail not more than two years or both by fine and imprisonment.

Any person who has lost or misplaced his or her poll tax receipt, may make an affidavit to that effect and said affidavit will serve in lieu of said poll tax receipt.

Attorney Coke R. Stevenson was in North Texas on business last week and while away attended the meeting of the State Bar Association at Dallas. The Association elected Robert W. Stayton of Corpus Christi, president, and among other things went on record against any change in the present Grand Jury system, and the present custom of arrest on suspicion. It also voted for a number of proposed amendments to the laws now governing the operation of the courts. Judge Stevenson stated that a very large number of the membership was present at this meeting and that a number of candidates were mixing with the visitors.

He and his family made the trip through in their car, a distance of over 1,200 miles, in six days. He said there were a good many tourists in that country from Texas but so far had not found any who had beat the time he made, over some of the worst roads he had ever seen. Their daughter Josephine, was operated on at a Nashville hospital recently and is doing nicely.

INCORPORATION ELECTION

A petition is being circulated in Rocksprings this week asking Judge Allison to order an election on the subject of incorporation for Rocksprings. There and already a long list of signers and it is almost certain there will be an election on the subject.

Those favoring incorporation argue that the town growing as it is must sooner or later be incorporated anyway, so why not now? And that to incorporate will be a progressive move, and that things can be done for the best interests of the town better with the town incorporated. —Edwards County Leader.

SOME EARLY-DAY WEST TEXAS HISTORY.

(From San Angelo Standard's Fortieth Anniversary Edition.)
Fifty-two years ago this month, Sam Delong "lit" at Lipan Springs, fresh from Kentucky, and ready for the wonders of the West. He says that he expected this part of the country to be settled at least sparsely, but that there was nobody West of the heads of any of the rivers in this section.

Mr. Delong had been in Kansas four years previous to this time, and when he returned to Parsons on his way to Texas, he found a flourishing town where four years before there had been but a few shacks. Thus encouraged, he came on to Texas, thinking that there might be similar settlements in this part of the country.

His brother, George Washington Delong, was a member of a frontier company in Texas during the Civil War. When the war ended, he wrote to his brother in Kentucky, describing life in the West, and Sam Delong decided to join him.

At this time, Mr. Delong said, there were rumors that the Texas and Pacific railroad had been completed into the western part of the state. "Nobody knew much about it," he said. "When we got to Kansas City, we asked if the road had been completed, and some people said that they heard that it had. We had no way of finding out anything then. No wires out here or nothing. Then, too, I was as green as a gourd, and the fellow with me was greener. Finally we decided to go as far on the T. & P. as we could."

The railroad terminated at the North Canadian river, and here the Kentucky gentlemen took the stage coach to Waco. Delong said that his brother had written him that Dallas was one of the finest cities in the world, but that there was little to it, in his estimation, the first time that he entered the town. From Waco, Mr. Delong made the trip to Lipan Springs on horseback.

Two years before Mr. Delong came to Texas, in 1870, his brother, George Washington (Wash) Delong, on frontier duty during the Civil War, and a survivor of the fight between the Kickapoo Indians and the Rangers at the head of Dove Creek, had been attacked near the present site of Christoval, by a band of Indians. Ed Love, at one time a bar tender for W. S. Veck, was with Delong at the time.

The men were driving an ox wagon through the country to a place where they expected to cut some timber. Two Indians were hidden in the tall grass on one side of the men, and about fifteen more of the red skins were in ambush on the other side.

As Delong drew opposite one of the savages, the Indian fired, and struck him just above the left elbow, tearing away most of the flesh and breaking the bones in his arm. A second shot passed through his clothing and part of his flesh on his right side making a brand about 8 inches long.

There was little brush where the Indians made their attack, and they soon began to circle around the two white men. Delong, who could not use his left arm, killed one of the Indians, after which the savages congregated for a council of war in open view of Delong and Love.

The savages now began to circle around the man they had wounded and his partner. Love was later wounded in the fight, and only by chance was his life saved. His head was turned to the right, when Delong saw an Indian aim at him with a bow and arrow.

"Look out, Ed," Delong shouted. Love, who had offered the Indian a broadside shot at his head when he was looking to the right, turned his head suddenly and faced the direction from which the Indian was shooting. As he did so, the arrow broke the skin on his temple, and the flint passed through his right ear. If he had not turned his head, the arrow would have struck him directly in the left temple.

When the Indians began to circle, Delong first tried to pick them off whenever their heads came into view. They sat with the left leg on the pommel of the saddle, held their bows in the left hand, and drew with the right arm. Delong also tried to break their legs, and would probably have been successful if his left arm had not hung limp at his side.

He finally realized that he was foolish to pick the heads and legs of the Indians as targets, and began to shoot their horses. He dropped one or two of the Indian mounts, and the savages at once retreated.

One of the Indians had a pair of cap and ball six-shooters, which he loaded preparatory to making a charge. He took one of the six-shooters in each hand and rode toward the wagon where Delong and Love had fortified themselves as best they could. He was inexperienced with firearms, however, for he waved his arms up and down, firing one shot into the ground and the next into the air. Delong said later that only one bullet came close to him. When the Indian approached close enough for Delong to get a bead on him with his one good arm, he "dropped" him.

After the Indian with the six-shooters had been killed, the red men retreated long enough to allow Delong and Love to start back to Lipan Spring. Love ripped a blanket into bandages and tied up the wounded man's arm as best he could. Delong tried to ride in the wagon, but the pain was so great that he thought his arm would be jostled less on horseback. This was also painful, and finally he decided to walk behind the wagon.

Just as the Indians retreated, Delong's waning strength gave out. "They're gone, Ed," he cried, and fell in a limp heap on the ground.

When the men reached Lipan Delong was in such a weakened condition from the loss of blood that there was little hope held for his recovery. Love at once secured a fast horse and rode to Fort Concho, where he secured the post surgeon, and returned to Lipan.

The surgeon said he would have to take Delong to the hospital before he could attend to him. When they arrived at Ft. Concho and made the examination of his wound, the surgeon (Continued on Page Seven)

(Continued from Page Six) announced that Delong's arm would have to be amputated. "He's just a citizen, anyway," he remarked.

A young doctor who had recently come to the post held a more optimistic view of the situation. He said that he believed he could save the arm. The ranking surgeon stomped out of the room in a rage, and left Delong to the more sympathetic doctor.

Delong's arm was saved, and he gained nearly the normal use of it before his death. Had he been left to the surgeon, however, the arm would have probably been cut off.

Ed Love was also in a bad condition after the return from Fort Concho. Weak and wounded in the ear, he had ridden to the post and back without stopping for food or water.

Love did not fire a shot against the Indians. It is said that he was experienced in the life of the frontier, and was as brave as anybody. He had a new Winchester, and when the Indians made their attack, he pumped all the cartridges in and out of his rifle, without firing a shot.

The Delong brothers, Wash, William and Sam, were all Indian fighters. William killed an Indian chief, the largest Indians ever seen in his part of the country.

A man named Colson, from Illinois, had located on North Llano, at a time when he was the only settler in that part of the country. Nobody could figure out why he went so far from the outposts, as Fort McKavitt was several hours' journey away. Colson built several small houses on his place, and a good barn, and kept about 20 hounds, which he used for hunting. He was accustomed to going hunting and return after dark, so that the Indians would not follow him. One night, as he stood at his barn door, he was fired upon and wounded by the savages.

He managed to get word to Fort McKavitt of the attack, and William Delong was one of the men who responded. Delong set out on the trail of the Indians, and after a few hours, hid on top of an elevation above the trail that he believed the Indians would take.

Soon seven Indians appeared headed by the chief, an immense redskin whom Delong later said was at least seven feet tall. When the savages were opposite him, Delong whistled as he would to attract the attention of a deer or turkey.

The chief halted and turned his head in the direction of the call. As he did so, Delong fired and killed him. The braves at once scattered, unable to locate the source of the firing. Delong dopped another as the Indians ran up the trail.

From his position above the Indians, he was able to watch their movements, and waited for them to come into position for an open shot. The Indians took refuge under a ledge of rock, where Delong waited for them to stick out their heads.

They failed to expose themselves, and Delong realized that he was in a dangerous position if more of the band happened to appear on the scene. He therefore went after re-inforcements, and found when he returned that the Indians had buried the last man that he had killed. The grave was piled so high with stones that it resembled a fortification.

The men scoured the country for the Indians, and for the chief's body. Several days later, a boy saw a flock of buzzards hovering over a lone cedar tree on a point high above a valley. Here the chief's body was found buried with rings in his ears, with his highly decorated bows and arrows and other elaborate war paraphernalia by his side.

Sam and William Delong were living near Christoval, in 1876, when they engaged in the last Indian fight in this part of the country. The brothers had built a picket house west of where the present town of Christoval now stands, where they were loose-herding several hundred head of cattle, and grazing a flock of goats that they brought from Lipan.

They left their house to cut some timber for cattle pens, but Sam discovered that he had forgotten to bring his axe, and returned to get it. The house faced south, and he approached it from the east, the opposite direction from the regular trail.

He had his Winchester in his hand and his six-shooter in his belt as he entered the house. Just as he stepped into the door a big Indian, who was ransacking the house, rose up and stared into his face.

"This Indian had on the prettiest Navajo blanket that you ever saw," said Mr. Delong. "As he raised up, the blanket slipped off his shoulders, and fell down onto his arms. He began reaching for his belt and I thought he was after his six-shooter."

"The blanket made it awkward for him to get anything out of his belt. He didn't have a six-shooter, but a long knife, and by the time he got it out, I was outside the house. I never have figured how I got out, whether I backed out or jumped out. Anyway, I got out of there in a mighty short time."

"The Indian followed me, and stood in front of the door. If he had stood on either side, I couldn't have hit him. He began to jump up and down to raze me miss my mark, but I dropped him."

Mr. Delong then took to the brush, for he expected the other members of the Indian band to appear. No other Indians showed up, however, and soon his brother arrived, who had heard the shot.

They prepared for a fight, and picked up the trail of blood left by the Indian Sam had wounded. If there were any other Indians in the vicinity, they failed to find them. The wounded man was overtaken before he died, and talked to the brothers for a few moments in Spanish. Mr. Delong believed he was a Comanche, but the Indian refused to answer their questions as to what tribe he belonged to.

The Indian killed by Sam Delong is now "living in New York," Mr. Delong said. He was buried under a tree on the present Dowith property, was dug up by a scientist, and declared such a perfect specimen that he was taken to a New York museum, where he now "resides." "I wouldn't live up there where he is for nothing," Mr. Delong, who was instrumental in securing the Indian his new home, says.

The Delongs started an irrigation project on their Christoval farm in 1875. Shortly after this, they had an experience with Johnson grass that became such an extensive project that they never got rid of it.

William Delong decided to get rich, Mr. Delong says, by taking the government contract for hay and filling it with Johnson grass. "Professor Johnson had been over in Egypt or somewhere and found this grass, and he said that it was the best in the world."

"My brother got a couple of spoons full of seed, and pretty soon the stuff took the country. It made good hay and grew all right, but you couldn't stop it. (Concluded next week.)"

Rev. Deel is now pastor of the Baptist Church at San Benito in the Rio Grande Valley. His family is visiting in Brown County and will join him here in a few days.

The local church has extended a call to Rev. Deel, but he has not yet decided as to the acceptance of the call, but for the next few weeks he will do ministerial work here.

MASON PICNIC BIG AFFAIR

So many Kimble County people were in Mason that any attempt to give names could not be complete. Hundreds of them were at our neighboring city for their annual celebration, which is always an enjoyable one, and which is always attended by several thousand people. While the facilities for feeding the crowd rapidly was inadequate, there was plenty of the barbecued meat, bread, pickles, etc., for the crowd and during the two days there was varied line of entertainments for old and young.

Candidates by the score were there and a number of the most prominent ones spoke to the voters during the day. John C. Darrow, member of the House from Mills County spoke on the first day in the interest of the candidacy of Lynch Davidson for Governor. Judge R. H. Buck of Fort Worth, candidate for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court and Judge J. H. McLean, candidate for District Judge of this District, were among the speakers on the second day.

PARKING SPACE PROVIDED

The Chamber of Commerce recently purchased the block just west and across the street from the Schreiner Park which will be the permanent property of the people of this community and for the picnic this week will be used as a parking place.

This block is a fine addition to our two parks and meets the demand for more parking space, that has always been felt at large gatherings in the past.

The public is urged to cooperate with those in charge of this ground so that all cars may be parked in a manner to avoid congestion, so that any one can get their cars out whenever they desire without moving other cars.

J. R. Smith, garage man of London, was in town on business Monday. Mr. Smith has recently taken over the garage and filling station formerly operated by Walker and Son, and has changed the name to Sudden Service Garage. He is doing some advertising in this paper, and says he is going to give the public the service that the name implies.

TRIBUTE TO MOTHERHOOD.

The other night in a hospital while New York was enfolded in sleep I was an inconspicuous actor in the greatest drama of life—Birth. The wife of one of my very closest friends was dipping into the shadows.

In an ante-room I sat with him in breathless suspense. As the complacent nurses tiptoed back and forth, he watched, white-faced and tense for some sign. The minutes dragged into interminable hours. The faint flush of dawn came without a word.

Church chimes were sounding when in the doorway appeared the doctor, who in close cropped words of professional brusqueness said, "It's a boy." And the father slumped in his chair in a half faint. Twenty minutes later across the hall there was a lusty yell—a yell it seemed to me of triumph.

In that same hospital that night, 36 other lusty yells were heard. Upon leaving the hospital it seemed incongruous that people could be going about their petty affairs. It seemed to me the world should pay brief respect to the women crowned with the priceless diadem—Motherhood.

Birth, it seems to me should make us think more than death. It is the greatest of all mysteries. And yet we pass it over as succinctly as the doctor with "It's a boy," or "It's a girl!" Death makes us pause to weep or to mourn and yet the greatest heartaches have started with birth.

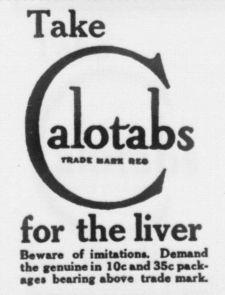

Most of us are inclined to gloss over the glories of motherhood with a few platitudes. Or a hand-clap for the mother song. Or a carnation on Mother's Day. Twenty-seven women in one building were from dusk to dawn facing death with sublime fortitude.

Unsung heroines all—greater by far than heroic generals who gird themselves for death in battle.—O. O. McIntyre in Fort Worth Star-Telegraph.

The Department of Agriculture estimates that there will be about 12 million bales of cotton produced in the country this year. This estimate is based on the condition of the crops at present and with the comparative acreage of last year. There are more than 40 million acres planted to cotton this year; an increase of about four per cent over last year.

To The Voters of Commissioners' Precinct No. 1:

Having failed to get my name on the ticket, and as there are some who think that I have dropped out of the race, I wish to advise one and all that I am still in the race and hope to have your support in the coming primary.

When you go to the polls to vote, and if you think I am the man for the place, you will have to write my name on the ballot. Be sure to note the initials and the spelling of the name, carefully, as the ballot might be counted out if the initials and name were not correct. Be sure to keep this matter in mind and if you think I am qualified for the place, write my name in as a candidate for Commissioner, Precinct No. 1.

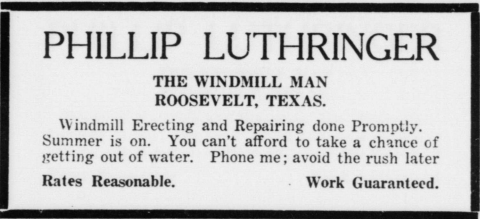

I thank you.
