Reed Outlines Victory Plans For Democrats

Government Simplification At Home And "Hands Off" Policy Abroad Sounded As Keynotes In Banquet Address

Has Seven Points

Must Return To Old Ideas Of Government; Hoover Is Held Responsible For Deplorable Condition Of Country

(By The Associated Press)

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Jan. 8. — James A. Reed, former United States senator who has said he would consider it a compliment to have the Missouri delegation support him for the Democratic presidential nomination, submitted tonight a seven-point "victory" platform for the party.

Simplification of government at home and a "hands off" foreign policy were the keynotes sounded at a Jackson day banquet here by the man who was Missouri's favorite son aspirant for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928.

Hoover Held Responsible

"These beneficient objects will never be accomplished by the present Republican body," said Reed in a prepared address. Holding the Hoover administration answerable for a government which "has its nose in every kitchen and its finger in every enterprise."

"The remedy fundamentally must be a return to the old ideas of government," Reed asserted.

"First: Decentralization should be the order of the day. We should begin that by withdrawing the United States from every European controversy in which we are not directly and immediately concerned. We should provide for our own protection, always remembering that while the largest and most powerful nation on earth, we are, nevertheless, unless prepared, an easy victim to the avarice and cupidity of greedy enemies.

Repeal Advocated

"Second: We should repeal every federal statute which imposes upon the federal government powers or duties that can as well be performed by the several states.

"Third: We should wipe out in-

Briand Plans To Quit Post

Grizzled Veteran Is Sick And Weary And Believes Another Should Take Office; Held It For Seven Years

PARIS, Jan. 8. (AP)—Sick and weary, Aristide Briand today asked Premier Laval to name a new foreign minister.

The grizzled veteran of the war reconstruction period informed the premier he considered it his duty, because of ill health, to place the portfolio he has held for seven years in M. Laval's hands.

Decision Confirmed

The news of M. Briand's decision came first in a short semi-official note, later confirmed by the foreign office.

Coming in the midst of a cabinet crisis, M. Briand's action was considered of the highest importance. It was understood that at the request of M. Laval the cabinet yesterday voted to give M. Briand a ministry without portfolio.

Body Of Unidentified Man Found On Denton Highway

DENTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—The body of an unidentified man was found tonight at the side of the Gainesville highway three miles northwest of Denton. A preliminary examination indicated the man might have been beaten to death with a blunt instrument.

W. A. Mathews, justice of the peace, immediately began an inquest. Officers expressed the opinion the man was slain and probably thrown from an automobile. His skull was fractured.

Hoover Credit Proposal Gets Saturday Vote

Amendments Are Approved And Passage By Senate Forecast Today; Demo Tariff Bill Is Gaining Momentum

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The senate today loosened a few tucks in the reconstruction corporation measure preparatory to passage and house Democrats steered their tariff bill through Republican verbal brickbats.

Calmly confident they had votes to spare, supporters of the reconstruction measure let the opposition, headed by Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, do most of the talking.

As the day began, plans were to send the measure to the house before the session ended.

Amendment Approved

An amendment permitting the bell-wether of Mr. Hoover's business revival program to lend some of its $2,000,000,000 to federal or joint stock land banks, and the states, was approved.

Despite Republican jibes, the Democrats showed their strength in a vote to take up their tariff bill.

It probably will be passed by the house before tomorrow ends. It then goes to the senate.

Committees Busy

Relief, beer and the sale of foreign securities in this country kept senate committees busy as the justice department transmitted a report that had material in it for debate and denunciation.

The document was an unpublished report prepared by Wickersham commission investigators and it charged California prosecutors with breaking the law in the famed Mooney-Billings case.

Two college professors described four per cent beer as a good drink for the college lad in testimony before a senate sub-committee which is holding hearings on a measure to make four per cent brew legal.

Convicted Kidnaper Will Be Returned To Texas Prison

HUNTSVILLE, Jan. 8. (AP)—Jimmie Nash, convicted participant in the abduction of ten year old Robert Cerf of Corsicana, will be returned soon to the Texas state prison, from which he recently escaped, barring anything unforeseen. It was revealed today at the prison record clerk's office that Nash escaped the Ramsey state prison farm on December 26, 1931, and had been recaptured in Ponca City, Oklahoma. He is being held in Ponca City, it was said at the prison, pending extradition back to Texas.

South Plains Water Supply Praised By Engineer Here

The water supply source of the South Plains is virtually free from pollution, H. E. Hargis of Lubbock, federal drouth relief engineer, said Friday.

"Because of the depth of the wells from which farm homes secure their water supply, the source is pure," Hargis said, "but the principal source of pollution in the water is the open tanks above grounds." Hargis has charge of sanitary work in 32 Panhandle and South Plains counties, being stationed here by the federal government after the drouth relief appropriation was made.

HONOLULU, Jan. 8. —A murder complaint naming Mrs. Granville Fortescue, New York and Washington society matron, and her son-in-law, Lieutenant Thomas H. Massie, U. S. N., was sworn out here today by Chief of Detectives John H. McIntosh in connection with the kidnapping and slaying of a young Hawaiian accused of having participated with four other men last September in an attack on Mrs. Massie. E. J. Lord, an enlisted man in the navy, also was named in the murder complaint issued against Lieut. Massie and Mrs. Fortescue.

The Hawaiian, Joseph Kahahawai, one of five men who had been tried for criminally attacking Mrs. Massie last September, was lured from a court room into the street, seized and carried off in an automobile.

Body Is Discovered

Officers late announced the discovery of his body in an automobile containing Mrs. Fortescue, Lieutenant Massie and E. J. Lord, an enlisted man of the navy. Kahahawai had been shot through the heart. His body had been stripped of its clothing and wrapped in a sheet.

Police took Lieut. Massie, Mrs. Fortescue and Lord into custody after chasing the automobile, which they said Mrs. Fortescue was driving, for more than ten miles.

Several shots were fired by the officers before they forced the car to a halt, they said, and discovered Kahahawai's body.

American Statesman Plans Return To Private Life

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8—America's picturesque statesman, Charles Gates Dawes of the underslung pipe and vibrant language, is to retire as ambassador to Great Britain.

His resignation will take effect after completion of "general work" as chairman of the American delegation to the arms conference in Geneva. As he puts it, he does "not expect to remain for the technical work" there.

Announces Plans

The conference is not expected to take very long in disposing of general discussion and getting onto its technical problems after it opens February second.

Just before leaving tonight for Chicago, his home, he announced his plans to return to private life after years of almost constant service in the government.

Mentioned As Candidate

A former vice president and mentioned before the 1928 primaries as a possible candidate for president, General Dawes will retire on the eve of another national election.

The name of Dawes already has been mentioned in speculation over this year's Republican presidential nominee. He has put aside this speculation as "nonsense." However, the first reaction in political circles was to regard his resignation as significant politically.

Dawes' announcement was given to newspapermen gathered at the National Press club by E. Ross Bartley, who was his secretary while he was vice president.

The typewritten statement was distributed without further comment as to Dawes' plans.

He was appointed ambassador to the Court of St. James in 1929 by President Hoover after leaving the vice presidency the preceding year.

General Dawes early entered public life and his colorful utterances upon public occasions are almost as well known abroad as in this country. He had hardly reached London before he startled staid diplomatic circles by his disregard of formalities.

More Than 100 Lubbock Men In Observance With Cities All Over Nation; Radio Program Brings Addresses

While radios carrying a national hookup brought astounding statements from many prominent men of the nation of the extent of America's construction activities of today, members of Lubbock civic service clubs and business men gathered around the banquet table at the Hilton last night in Lubbock's observance of the national "America at Work" program. The affair was sponsored by the American Business club of Lubbock. More than 100 men were present.

The dinner was one of approximately 3,000 held over the United States last night in observance of the opening of the campaign to restore confidence and normalcy to America's business and industrial activities. Approximately 1,000,000 people heard the national broadcast, it was said.

Ruffner Presides

The dinner, presided over by President Walter S. Ruffner of the host club, began shortly before the national radio program was put on the air at 7:30. For thirty minutes, leaders of finance, industry and commerce of the country told of the work going on in the various sections of the country, the microphone following the addresses clear across the continent. The principal dinner was held in New York.

Following the radio program, A. B. Davis, representing the Lubbock Loyalty council and Judge Clark M. Mullican of the 99th district court, gave short talks along similar lines. Both men were introduced by W. M. Peticolas who had charge of the evening's program.

Statistics Quoted

Mr. Davis, speaking on taxation, "The fastest growing industry in the U. S.", quoted statistics and told of the ever-increasing cost of government which he traced to the demands for governmental service by the citizenship. Mr. Davis pointed out that there were 250,000 taxing bodies in the nation today, that one-fifth of the national income went for governmental costs, that there were more than 600,000 federal employes in the city of Washington, D. C. alone and that there was need for thinking along the right lines for governmental economy.

He lauded the achievement of the local city government in its efforts

Two Youths Declare That They Confessed Slayings In The Hope Of Transfer; Craving For Tobacco Told

(By The Associated Press)

GALLIPOLIS, O., Jan. 8. —(AP)—Two youths who confessed they fired an Ohio river log cabin in which eight persons were burned to death, today repudiated their stories because they feared murder charges.

The boys, Albert Ramet, 15, Gallipolis, and Ellsworth Mower, 17, Bwcyrus, told officials a craving for tobacco, denied inmates of the Lancaster boys industrial school where they are serving terms for auto theft, led them to make the fake confession. The youths said they had believed if officials would accept their story they would be sent to the Mansfield reformatory where greater liberties are allowed.

Both boys were held in jail tonight on first degree murder charges but officials indicated the charges would be dropped and the boys returned to Lancaster.

"Betrayal, Complacency, Dismay" Cited In Eras Of The Harding, Coolidge And Hoover Regimes

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—The cohorts of Democracy heard from their last three standard bearers tonight the call for a militant campaign to capture the presidency next fall.

One after another Alfred E. Smith, John W. Davis, and James M. Cox—presidential candidates in 1928, 1924 and 1920—depicted conditions under the Hoover administration as appalling.

Jackson Honored

Their forum was a dinner at which party leaders and enthusiasts from every quarter of the country honored the memory of one they revere, Andrew Jackson—president from 1829 to 1837.

Quoting Republican predictions of prosperity in the campaign in which Herbert Hoover defeated him and drawing a contrast with present conditions, Mr. Smith said the leadership needed in this time of trial can come only with a Democratic victory."

Mr. Davis and Mr. Cox joined the former New York governor in condemning administration policies. All called for repudiation of special privileges.

Hoover Attacked

Attacking President Hoover's objection to federal relief of suffering, Smith called it "indefensible inasmuch as it already has been proven that the states localities and private charities cannot cope with it."

The three advocated prohibition change, with Smith declaring the Wickersham commission report said the amendment was "not enforceable, largely because it lacked public approval and public support."

Cox urged the party to meet the issue "candidly and courageously," while Davis advocated return of state power whether it be on prohibition, education or anything else.

In State Of War

Warning that private relief funds can last but a short time and localities can carry our burdens but a little longer, Smith said with respect to unemployment "we must absolutely forget politics and we must regard the United States to be in a state of war."

He proposed a federal bond issue for necessary public improvements. He likewise called for quick reorganization of the government to cut expenses as a means of cutting the deficit now piling up.

Over 2,000 reservations were made for tonight's dinner. Tables were extended through doors into the corridors of the Mayflower Hotel and loud speakers were installed for the benefit of those assigned to seats where the orators could neither be seen nor heard.

Rowers Toastmaster

The toastmaster was Claude G. Bowers, writer, who gave the keynote speech at the 1928 Houston convention. Seats of honor were held by members of the party's national committee, which meets tomorrow to select a city for the June convention.

Higbee Released On Bond Friday

Fred H. Higbee of Lubbock, charged with mailing of a letter in furtherance of "a certain scheme similar to a lottery," was arrested Friday by Deputy U. S. Marshal J. P. Edgar and made bond of $1,000 set by U. S. Commissioner Victor H. Lindsey. The complaint resulted from operation of a marriage endowment agency here.

Deputy Marshal Edgar said he had received warrants for four other persons named in similar complaints, but that these men had been reported to him as not being in this section. They are B. J. Edwards and Tommie Edwards, Brownfield; Alpha Williams, formerly of Abilene; and Oscar M. Coon, Lubbock.

Higbee and Williams were named in a complaint as mailers of a letter Sept. 2, 1930, to Craig C. Wofford, Shamrock, in the name of the National Endowment Birth and Marriage association, Lubbock.

Future Of Proration In Oil Field At Hobbs In Balance

SANTA FE, N. M., Jan. 8. (AP)—Consideration of the future of proration in the Hobbs pool of New Mexico tonight was in abeyance while the proration executive committee and representatives of major oil companies awaited a conference sometime tomorrow with Governor Arthur Seligman.

After a private meeting today in which several state officials sat as hearers, the operators requested a conference with the governor, who has consistently opposed proration at Hobbs in its present form.

Sectional Interests Draw Criticism From President

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—Holding up a rigid curtailment of federal expenditures as the "real road to relief," President Hoover today renewed his criticism of sectional interests that seek federal appropriations.

He charged them with responsibility for introduction of bills into the present congress to spend $40,000,000,000 over the next five years in addition to current expenditures.

"We cannot squander ourselves into prosperity," he said.

Favorable Trend Is Noted As Leaders Uphold Sale Of Beer

Two Educators, Physician And Senator Give Testimony For Manufacture Of Brew; Antis Will Be Heard

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—Witnesses before the senate manufactures sub-committee testified today during its study of bills to legalize beer that sale of brew would decrease use of "hard liquor" and halt "the triumphal march of bootleggers."

In a hearing room crowded with prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists, these views from two educators, a physician, and Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, strongly supporting beer, were presented.

Recommends Beer

Senator Bingham, the first witness, strongly recommended "good, wholesome beer," as a beverage, and said his intent was to show four per cent beer was not intoxicating. He explained beer, under his bill, could be sold in public only at restaurants and hotels with meals, as assurance against fears of those who thought saloons might be reopened.

Bingham read a letter from Dean

Way For Harmony In Meeting Of Democrats Paved Friday

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—The way for harmony at tomorrow's meeting of the Democratic national committee was paved tonight at a conference between Chairman Raskob and Harry Flood Byrd of Virginia, the vice chairman, when they agreed upon a resolution on the prohibition issue.

Byrd, a former governor, who was one of those who led the fight in March against a move to commit the national committee on prohibition, drafted a resolution acceptable to Raskob, referring the whole question to the national convention without recommendation. With this agreement, prospects of a blow-off tomorrow faded.

Ely Culbertson Triumphs Over Lenz In Bridge Battle And Ends Up With Lead Of 8,890 Points Over "Enemy"

BY TOM O'NEIL
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (AP)—Ely Culbertson triumphed tonight. He ended his month's contract bridge match with Sidney S. Lenz in a test of rival bidding systems 8,980 points ahead, having won 77 rubbers to 73 for Lenz.

Mrs. Culbertson finished the match as her husband's partner as she started it. And right up to the last rubber there was doubt whether there would be a Culbertson plus for the rubbers which she took part. But she was the big factor in the gain of 210 points for her husband's side on the last night and this increased the lead for the 88 rubbers of the series in which she had played to 365 points.

Lenz and his partner for the last 47 rubbers of the series, Commander Winfield Liggett, jr. won three of the six rubbers of the last session, but failed to gain through inferior bidding.

Nevertheless for Liggett's share of the match Lenz's side was 7,860 points ahead, a fact which gave followers of the "official" system of bidding much cause to rejoice. They feel that had Liggett been Lenz's partner throughout instead of Oswald Jacoby the result might have been different.

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

FOR those who believe that women are demanding and receiving too many rights, Bolivia should become a mecca. It seemes that proposed divorce and suffrage laws now before that congress are languishing for lack of support from the women who know little and care less about receiving privileges that women in other nations are so eager to receive.

FOR THE LADIES

THERE is some law or other concerning supersaturation. Harrison Fisher, it seems, has reached that point. Having painted pretty girls all these years and been interviewed by hundreds of other beautiful women, he is tired of doing so and would like to paint cows or sea lions or something else less romantic for magazine covers. Moreover, he never married "because he has seen to much of them," meaning the women.

However, he has some pleasing things to say about the girl of today. He believes that American girls are growing more beautiful and his reasons are such as to appeal to woman's vanity. Girls are changing, he believes, in appearance as well as in character. Features are more masculine, but not less beautiful. Girls live and dress more simply than they used to, and simplicity begets beauty, he thinks. "Modern independence makes for strength and character in faces, beauty below the surface—'something that reflects the innate charm of good breeding'," this artist avers, saying that many girls who come to his studio are from good families and nonprefessionals.

ADDS A WARNING

THERE is another man who has good things to say of American women, but who adds a warning that we are following the "copy-cat" idea too far in dress. This man is M. Jean Charles Worth, member of the firm which has robed royalty of Europe.

American women are 'the' most beautiful in the world and will be the best dressed as soon as they stop "slavishly following fashion" this man says in an article written by Adelaide Kerr, of the Associated Press. "The face and figure of the American woman are as beautiful as a picture.", this man says. "But when she begins to plan her clothes—the frame for that face and figure—she is apt to follow fashion blindly and forget to use her own good sense.

"She reads that someone has created a tilted hat with a feather curling under the chin—any away she goes and buys a hat with a curling feather. She pays no attention to whether her nose is long and her neck short, her shoulders wide or her figure athletic. She wears the latest willy-nilly—and too often it's a sad misfit. When she learns to judge herself and choose her clothes accordingly, she will be the best dressed woman in the world."

Mr. Worth must have seen some of these feathered hats that have been worn during the Eugenie rage. For some reason, the women who can least afford to wear trailing feathers, seem to fancy them most frequently—or at least that has been our observation during the winter.

At least, his interview should serve as a challenge to us. (And as one of America's best dressed women, I shall take it all to heart!"

And after all that serious discourse, I shall consider something further that he has to say and offer a defense. American women are in too great a hurry, this designer believes. They want to rush into a shop and buy a complete wardrobe in two hours, he exclaims with some horror.

Of course, I might not spend more time than that on purchases if it were available, since the old habits have a way of clinging, but what I want to know is where he thinks we are going to find more than two hours in which to select a wardrobe?

FOR THE SUPPER

EASY to prepare, here is a suggestion for a buffet supper: Club sandwiches, plenty of relishes and some sort of deep dish dessert. Arrange the sliced chicken, tomato, lettuce, bacon and salad dressing on a table and put the electric toaster on one end. As fast as the toast is made, give three slices to each guest and let him make his own sandwich while the toast is hot.

Murray Asked For Gathering

Carlsbad Cavern Highway Association To Hold Annual Meeting In Quanah; Invitations Mailed Out

Governor William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma has been invited to address the fourth annual meeting January 25 at Quanah of the Carlsbad Caverns U. S. No. 62 Highway association, it was said here Friday.

Mailing of about 150 invitations to municipalities by J. H. Hankins, the association president, is under way here, the chamber of commerce said.

The Caverns route, described as "the longest highway in America," is 2,355 miles long and more than 80 per cent is paved. An effort will be made at the Quanah assembly to unite all organizations interested in the development of U. S. Highway No. 62. That accomplished, plans for the ensuing year will center on having the rest of the cross-country artery hard-surfaced, and to advertise and get traffic over it, a member of the association explained.

Separate letters of invitation are being sent to towns and cities on the route from Maysville, Ky., to Niagara Falls, those on the Arkoma highway from Oklahoma City to Maysville, and on the original Carlsbad Caverns thoroughfare from Oklahoma City to El Paso.

The Carlsbad Caverns U. S. No. 62 highway, sponsoring body of which was formed at Quanah, November 12, 1928, connects with highways to Montreal and Chihuahua.

At a meeting attended by representatives of the Caverns association last April, the Arkoma group voted to consolidate the Arkoma with the Caverns highway, and officials of the latter organization indicate the merger possibly will be effected at the Quanah sessions.

Hoovers Hosts At Thursday Meeting

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. (AP)—At a brilliant dinner and musicale last night, the President and Mrs. Hoover entertained Vice President Curtis and his sister and official hostess, Mrs. Dolly Gann.

The table in the state dining room of the White House was set for 66 guests drawn from many parts of the country to attend the annual function.

The men adjourned to the second floor library of the executive mansion with the president and cigars and coffee after the meal. They returned downstairs again shortly before 10 o'clock.

At that time the entire group of guests and others invited in after dinner listened to a 40 minute concert by Miss Hulda Laschanska, operatic singer. Guests lingered until nearly 11 o'clock after the president and first lady bade them goodnight about 10:30.

American authorities have been closing the American side of the bridges at midnight for some time, making it impossible for late visitors to return to the American side until next day. Now there is no traffic either way after midnight.

Cohorts Of Democracy Hear Stirring Call To Battle In Campaign Of 1932

Maryland were well represented tonight.

While Mr. Smith addressed himself principally to the unemployment situation, Mr. Cox and Mr. Davis directed their views mainly against the Smoot-Hawley tariff, the farm board and the condition of the treasury.

Tariff Is Attacked

"Under the sheltered pretence" of fulfilling campaign pledges for farm relief, Davis said, "we witnessed the passage of a tariff bill over well nigh universal protest, fixing rates that beggared the imagination of the most hide-bound protectionist. Every economic and political storm signal was set against this unrighteous measure and yet it was passed and signed."

Cox went even further and blamed the tariff act as one of the major causes of the depression in that it cut off the "vast economic frontier of foreign markets."

"The privileged class, rich almost beyond estimation, asked for increased dispensations," he said. "Tariff walls went higher. We made it difficult for the world to trade with us, and now American factories are being built abroad."

Farm Board Rapped

Cox said of the farm board:

"The governmental attempt at fixing prices by tariff subsidy proved just as futile and fallacious as the effort directed by the farm board. As a result, relief must now be devised for both the farmer and manufacturer."

On this subject Davis said:

"We witness the mad adventure of the farm board, which was given a pretty toy to play with in the shape of $500,000,000 of the taxpayers' money. With this glittering instrument it attempted in defiance of human experience, past and present, to sweep back the sea and thwart the inexorable play of the law of supply and demand. All its wasteful effort has come to naught. But it has succeeded in one thing. It has convinced the American farmer that once more he has been handed a gold brick of purest brass serene."

Give Within Means

On the treasury deficit Davis made this comment "let us remember * * * that honest governments, like honest men, have no right to live beyond their means. To what desperate extreme has the disregard of that simple rule brought the country."

Cox, on the same subject, said:

"Nothing but a major operation, a balanced budget, will give us stable recovery in business. * * * The deficit was inevitable. For years everything has been centering in Washington."

Davis catalogued the Harding, Coolidge and Hoover administrations as the eras of "betrayal, complacency, and dismay."

Betrayal Is Charged

"Betrayal, complacency, and dismay—these words sum up the history," he said. "Behind such leaders the country has been trudging these wan and weary years. Is it any wonder that men are repeating to each other the words of old: 'can the blind lead the blind? Shall they not both fall in the ditch?'"

Other outstanding Davis thrusts at the Republicans were:

"The Falls, the Forbeses, the Millers and the rest had their day, and it was day enough.

"While time after time, as the jaded speculators seemed to waver, they were whipped up to a new frenzy by wholly unprecedented statements from the White House and treasury to the effect that prices were not too high; that brokers' loans were not excessive; that we were in a new economic era, that promised land was just in sight and all was well.

Commissions No Good

"We had a rash of commissions, one treading upon another's heels, so fast they followed. Worthy gentlemen in numbers were assembled for this and that and the other purpose. They wagged their heads wisely, emitted or failed to emit learned reports and reached, or sometimes failed to reach, solemn conclusions. Then they disappeared, as commissions ordinarily do, into the dark and outer void from which they came. So far as I know the record, the efforts of no one of them to this date has resulted in a single executive or legislative act."

Speaking of prohibition former Governor Cox said "any institution that has cost our government twenty-five billion dollars and created a super-criminal state, presents a problem that cannot long be deferred. Its very controversial nature precludes any hope of the Republican politicians giving it straightforward attention."

In an appeal to the south to consider the problem of northern Democrats in dealing with the prohibition issue he said:

Truth To People

"We forced the bloody shirt leaders in the north aside and let the truth go to our people. May we not, now, respectfully ask that you call political ecclesiastics back to their pulpits that the truth may go to your peoples."

He said the Republican party had but "two loyal allies left—privileged business and the anti-saloon league."

The Ohioan advocated co-operative devices "maintained by employer and employee" through which industry would support the unemployed workman in slack times.

"If we had done this ten years ago," he said, "the present depression would have been one half so severe."

Bowers in opening the dinner charged the Republicans in 1928 had made many promises which never had been fulfilled. The next campaign he said, would not bring forth the 1928 Republican banner of "prosperity at home and prestige abroad."

"That has been hurried to the garret, along with the 'full dinner pail' and 'high wages' and 'handsome dividends' and 'a chicken in every pot' to keep lonely vigil with the 'bloody shirt'—that equally edifying and cultural argument of the 'best minds' that rendered such distinguished service to the American intelligence for a quarter of a century."

Turning his oratorical fire on Senator Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee, the 1928 keynoter said it was "an amazing spectacle in the closing hours of an administration to find Senator Fess urging upon his party the necessity of selling the head of the administration to the people. There is something humiliating to an American in the thought of selling an administration; it smacks too much of a bankruptcy sale."

Brothers Drop Role Of Girls

ANDERSON, Ind., Jan. 8. (AP)—Gene Douglas Armstrong and Noel Lee Armstrong went about their farm work today with new names supplanting the one they had adopted in the 33 years they posed as sisters.

Gene Douglas was Geneva and Noel Lee was Nola officially until Judge Lawrence Busby granted their petitions to renounce the names and takes new ones in Madison circuit court yesterday.

Members of a family which had lived in the farming community around Summitville for 40 years, the brothers had worn feminine attire most of their lives and only recently disclosed their true identities.

Burial Plans Are Outlined

Bodies Of Two Young Women To Be Taken From Harrisburg; Mrs. Stewart And Companion Died In Crash

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 8. (AP)—The bodies of the two young society matrons whose attempt to fly the Alleghenies in bad weather cost them their lives will be taken from Harrisburg for burial.

That of the pilot, Mrs. Ruth Stewart, 26, of St. Louis, whose last act before her plane plunged into the wilds of a state forest forty miles west of here was to turn off the ignition to prevent a fire, will be taken to St. Louis by her parents.

William Woerner, her father, said the funeral probably would be held Sunday.

Fred Stanford, husband of Mrs. Stewart's passenger, Mrs. Debbie Stanford, said her body would be taken to Camden, N. Y.

A two-day search by plane, police and national guard cavalry ended yesterday in the discovery of the wrecked plane and the mangled bodies.

Man Is Found Dead By Road Near Angelo Early Friday

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 8. (AP)—J. T. Calhoun, 50, was found dead by the roadside about four miles north of San Angelo this morning. His face was badly battered and apparently he had been beaten to death.

Physicians testifying at an inquest here said he had been murdered, the nature of his injuries showing conclusively that he had not been struck by an automobile, as was at first thought.

Officers had no clues. Calhoun last was seen alive about dusk Thursday. He formerly lived at San Marcos and had been engaged here in loading cotton trucks.

Scout Executive Addresses Rotary Club At Brownfield

BROWNFIELD, Jan. 8. (Special) D. T. Jennings of Lubbock, scout executive of the South Plains area council, addressed the local Rotary club today.

The scout leader discussed the fundamentals of the boy movement, its importance and some of the results of scouting. Arrangements were made to hold a joint meeting of Lions and Rotarians to name district scout officials. The Rotary club here sponsors troop No. 45 and the Lions the other local unit.

Lubbock Residents Plan To Attend Annual Short School

Several Lubbock residents are planning to attend the annual short school of the Texas division of the Southwest Water Works association at Mineral Wells January 18-21, inclusive.

R. F. Houk, head of the Lubbock water department, said he probably would attend and H. E. Hargidrouth relief engineer stationed here and formerly with the state health department, is to attend. Dr. Y. J. Aiken of the city health department probably will go to Mineral Wells also.

To aid his country, Commander Cornelius O. Regnart, on the retired list of the British Royal Navy, has offered to discontinue drawing his pension for at least 18 months.

On Trial For Mail Fraud, Woman Hangs Self In Jail

SEATTLE, Jan. 8. (AP) — Mrs. Thelma Cullen, 37, on trial in federal court here on mail fraud charges in connection with stock investments, hanged herself in the county jail here some time last night.

Today would have been the fourth in Mrs. Cullen's trial. Witnesses from many sections of the Pacific northwest have testified they lost considerable money through dealing with her while she was head of the All Nation Investors, incorporated, defunct since 1929. Mrs. Cullen disappeared then and was arrested last summer in Albuquerque, N. M.

Hammersmith, England, has provided 500 baby-buggy garages for tenants of municipal houses, the rental to be 10 cents a week.

Lubbock Plays Amarillo Away From Home Lot

Sandies And Westerners Meet Thanksgiving At Amarillo Next Season; District Committee Meets At Plainview

By COLLIER PARRIS
Avalanche Sports Editor

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 8.—What appears to be an annual Thanksgiving Day football classic for Butler Field will be played again at Amarillo next fall when the Lubbock Westerners and the Amarillo Sandies clash in their 1932 meeting. The teams played at Amarillo last Thanksgiving, but since a second game between the teams was necessitated because of a three-team deadlock, the second game being played at Lubbock a week after Thanksgiving, it is held by the district executive committee of District 1 that Lubbock owes Amarillo a home game.

School superintendents, principals and coaches from District 1 Class A schools met in annual executive session here today and threshed out most of the details of the 1932 football season. One of the most important details, however, remained unsettled. Although a schedule was arranged between all other teams, the Harvesters of Pampa and the Sandies of Amarillo do not yet know when they meet in 1932. Representatives of these schools failed to reach an agreement.

A 6-Team Circuit

The membership of District 1, Conference A, was increased to six schools today by the official recognition of Borger High school as a member. Borger automatically became a member of Class A as a result of a sustained scholastic enrollment of more than 500 students during the last year. Texas Interscholastic league rules make Borger a member of the bigger circle, taking it from the ranks of District 1, Class B schools.

The Borger Bulldogs, who will make their first bid for Class A honors with the 1932 season, are coached by Noble Atkins, all-Southwest Conference center and captain of the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs of 1930. Atkins begins his second year at Borger next fall. Borger High school had 520 students enrolled at the first of the current school year.

M. H. Duncan, superintendent of Lubbock public schools, was unanimously reelected chairman of the District 1 executive committee and Superintendent A. B. Fisher of the Pampa schools was reelected secretary of the body at today's meeting in the Hilton Hotel here.

Two Games At Lubbock

Lubbock High school's Class A football schedule for 1932 consists of two at home and three away from home games. Borger and Slaton will play in Lubbock, the games probably being played at night on the Texas Tech field. Slaton comes here on October 21 for the first game in the 1932 race and the Borger Bulldogs play in Lubbock on October 29. The Westerners are scheduled to play the Pampa Harvesters at Pampa on November 11, the scheduled season closing with the Thanksgiving Day game, November 24, at Amarillo.

Hereafter when three District 1 teams are deadlocked for the district championship at the close of the regular scheduled season, said teams will engage in a sort of tournament, the coaches to draw for numbers which will call for Team A to play Team B for a period of 30 minutes, or half a regular game. Team C will battle the winner of the first abbreviated game for the championship. In case of ties, Interscholastic league rules will apply, which means that 20-yard zone penetrations, first downs and yardage gained will come into consideration. This ruling was affected following a suggestion at today's meeting by Coach Weldon Chapman of Lubbock, and is designed to eliminate an extra day and an extra game in case of ties in the future such as confused the district race in 1931.

The morning session was devoted to a reading of the minutes of the 1931 executive committee meeting and open house arguments on nearly every phase. Some of the rulings were declared capable of standing, others were modified.

Uniform Tickets

Complimentary tickets to conference games in District 1 will be uniform in appearance to eliminate congestion at gates and before games. The suggestion to create this rule was made by Superintendent W. A. McIntosh of Amarillo. Each school will draw their required number of complimentary tickets through a central source. Special tickets will be printed for use by grade school teachers, various public servants and the working press, according to the new ruling.

The committee went on record as opposing excessive charges by football officials, C. E. Davis, superintendent at Plainview, making the motion. Various limits were discussed but nothing definite announced.

It was made into the form of a District 1 ruling at the meeting today that student pep squad members must conform to scholastic requirements similar to those of football players before being eligible for membership.

The committee changed the wording of a certain ruling to make it read, "the entertaining team shall pay expenses of 25 members of the visiting team, this number to include coaches and managers." The ruling formerly read 19 instead of 25.

Tigers Stay In

The Slaton Tigers, coached by Paul Wright, will play their second year of Class A football next fall, it was indicated by the action of Wright at the meeting today. A schedule for the Tigers was arranged which calls for Plainview to play in Slaton on October 7. Slaton will play at Lubbock on October 21, at Amarillo on November 5, at Borger, on November 11, and at Pampa on November 24, according to the schedule made today.

Delegates at today's meeting, who were entertained by a luncheon provided by the Plainview Chamber of Commerce, were Superintendent A. B. Fisher and Coach Odus Mitchell of Pampa; Superintendent W. A. McIntosh, Coach Blair Cherry and Adrian Odom of the News-Globe of Amarillo; Superintendent C. E. Davis, Coach Froggie Lovvorn and Principal O. T. Loss of Plainview, Coach Paul Wright of Slaton, Superintendent J. H. Loftin and Coach Noble Atkins of Borger and Superintendent M. H. Duncan and Coach Weldon Chapman of Lubbock.

Louisiana State Reaches Into Big Time Football To Get Former Army Mentor; Seek Ingwersen As Assistant

BATON ROUGE, La., Jan. 8. (AP)—After a decade of "in and out" success on the gridiron, Louisiana State university today reached into the ranks of big time football and definitely landed Captain Lawrence M. "Biff" Jones, former head coach at the Army, as chief mentor for the school's eleven.

Going out after a gridiron comeback in a big way, L. S. U. is still angling for Bert Ingwersen, head at the University of Iowa for seven years, to act as Jones' assistant.

Formal announcement was made by the war department in Washington today that Jones had been assigned to duty in the L. S. U. military department, thus clearing the way for him to accept the coaching job.

Ingwerson has not yet announced definitely whether he will accept the assistant's post.

Jones will succeed Russell M. Cohen, head coach since 1928, who resigned last month to accept an assistant's coaching position at Vanderbilt.

Players Deny Sport Over-Emphasized In Colleges

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth and last of a series of articles written as a result of an interview with P. W. Cawthon, coach, who represented Texas Tech at the American Coaches Association convention in New York last week and kept notes on the happenings thereof. Since the press was barred from many of the sessions and since reports herein contained were not fully disclosed to the public, these articles are exclusive for the Avalanche and Journal.)

Continues the conversation between Pro and Con, Pete Cawthon and his interrogator, relative to the former's notes on the national convention of coaches last week.

Con: Now, Professor, did the coaches find a way to reply to criticism regarding recruiting and subsidization, which we'll admit to be no crime but which is criticized nevertheless?

Pro: Coach Little's report bears statements of of 273 football captains over the country, which I believe takes care of the matter. For instance, the question, "As a football player, why do you like the game?" was answeredly thusly: 44 said, "I like it because I love it;" 98 said, "educational reasons: game builds up character; football is a man- builder; a preparation for life;" 62 said, "develops the body and provides contacts;" 98 said, "for emotional reasons: fighting and competitive spirit, thrill and excitement, a survival of the fittest, the only game for men—has a fascination that cannot be explained;" 23 said, "friendships made; love the kind of fellows that go into the game;" 36 said, "the game gives an all-round physical and mental development;" 2 said, "I do not like it; I played for a scholarship;" one said, "I have ceased to like college football."

Con: What was the reaction of the players to the question of football against over emphasis?

Pro: Yep, have that, too. Twenty three said the game is over—emphasized; 179 said there is no over emphasis whatever; 54 said there was some over emphasis in some places. Seventeen failed to answer directly.

Con: What do they think about intersectional games?

Pro: 201 of them spoke in favor, 45 said "yes" with conditions and 23 said "no". Asked if they favored a football training table, 32 said no and 217 said yes. They were asked if they preferred a paid coaching staff or amateur coaches giving their services free and 169 said they wanted paid coaches every time. Two hundred and fifty-four said that the coach should be on the bench during games, and 13 said that the coach should not be on the bench.

Takes Less Time

The captains were asked if they thought that football took up more time than any other college activity and 138 out of 225 said that football did not take up as much time as any one of sixteen other phases of college activity.

Con: What do the captains think of a schedule of nine games?

Pro: They do not think that too much. In fact, 237 said that a season of nine games is not too long, while 23 voted opposite. They also suggested that daily workouts should last longer than the customary two hours, 156 voting for more than two hours while 133 voted for two hours. Forty-seven wanted less than two hours.

Con: What about spring training and early fall practice?

Pro: Asked if spring training is voluntary, do you favor the same, provided it does not interfere with other activities?" 246 said "yes" and 54 said "no." When asked, "do you fav or beginning fall practice before September 15?" 172 answered "yes" and 92 said "no."

Con: What was the Brown Derby banquet?

Pro: Boy, that was sumpin'. D. O. McLaughry of Brown university was toastmaster. Chick Meehan and Harry Stuhldreher had charge of the affair. It was great. Earl Carroll's company presented a complete night club show and we had a big time. Heck, it ought to be good—cost us four smacks per plate. They had a contest in which everybody was supposed to tell the biggest lie he knew, and the one telling the biggest lie would win the contest. The toastmaster won it.

Con: Who were some of the big boys at the convention?

Pro: Well, there was Chick Meehan, Dr. Mal Stevens of Yale; Harry Kipke of Michigan, Gil Dobie of Cornell, Joseph McKenney of Boston, Bob Zuppke of Illinois, Dan McGugin of Vanderbilt, Lou Little, Charles Bachman of Florida, H. W. Hargiss of Kansas, Ike Armstrong of Utah, Hunk Anderson of Notre Dame and Wallace Wade and a lot of others.

Fate Of Walker Cup Matches To Be Known Today

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (AP)—Definite indication whether the Walker cup golf matches between the United States and Great Britain will be played in 1932 is expected to come from the annual meeting here tomorrow of the United States Golf association.

The association's executive committee meeting privately today, declined to comment on the situation, but it is understood President H. H. Ramsay will inform the meeting tomorrow whether Great Britain expects to send over a team.

Due to the economic situation abroad, it has been rumored the 1932 matches will be postponed at least a year. It takes something like $10,000 to finance such an expedition.

Fifth Annual Boys Basketball Meet For South Plains Will Be January 22 And 23; To Limit Entries To Sixteen

LAMESA, Jan. 8. (Special.)—The fifth annual Boys Basketball Tournament for the South Plains will be January 22 and 23 in the local high school gymnasium, according to F. T. McCollum, high school principal, who is in charge of arrangements.

Mr. McCollum states that this is one of the oldest and most popular boys basketball tournaments in West Texas. Liberal awards and trophies will be given to first, second, third, and consolation winning teams of the tournament, as well as individual awards to the all-tournament team, which will be picked during the contest. All prizes and awards will be permanent property of the teams and players.

Twenty-seven teams entered the tournament last year. This year, McCollum states that only sixteen teams will be permitted to enter. Nine teams have already officially entered. The tournament is expected to draw larger attendance, and participation of some of the best basketeers of the South Plains.

Featherweight Champ Forced To Give Up Crown When He Is Ten Pounds Too Heavy; Fight Card Cancelled

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. —(AP)— The time came today for Christopher "Bat Battalino to step down from his featherweight throne and he did it in a large way.

Not only did the busy youngster from Hartford, Conn., weigh in almost 10 pounds over the class limit of 126 pounds for a 15-round title defense against Lew Feldman tonight, thus automatically depriving himself of his championship, but he forced cancellation of the entire card he was supposed to head in Madison Square Garden.

It had been well known the Hartford Italian, growing fast, was having tremendous difficulty getting down again to the poundage of his class after weighing 135 1-2 pounds for an over-weight match in which he knocked out Al Singer, a lightweight, in two rounds less than a month ago.

Today Battalino weighed in at 135 3-4, nine and three quarter pounds above the class limit, and exactly 10 pounds more than Feldman had weighed.

General John J. Phelan, commissioner presiding at the scales, immediately declared Battalino's title forfeited. Feldman announced he would not fight any man and concede him that much weight, and Jimmy Johnson, Madison Square Garden promoter, scurried around frantically looking for substitutes. He found none, and a few minutes later called off the entire show.

Although Feldman claimed the featherweight title as soon as Battalino defaulted, he was informed by Commissioner Phelan the claim would not be considered.

Morgan Sends Three Quints To Gym Floor

Durham's Scoring Is Feature Of Game; Tech Overcomes Lead To Win By Impressive Count As All Hands Play

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 8. (Special.) — Using three complete teams in an effort to find his best scoring and defensive combination, Coach Del Morgan sent his Texas Tech Matadors against the Wayland College Jackrabbits here tonight and after the usual forty minutes of spirited play the Bullfighters led by a score of 41 to 24.

Morgan's second combination, that composed of Aud Darr and Haden Moody at forwards, Harold Crites at center and Dunn and Hill, guards, showed more offensive punch than either of the two other teams, though three of his best bets, Captain Tadlock, Alvin Crews and Leon Fisher, were playing with the starting team. Darr led Tech's scoring with four field goals and one free toss for a total of 9 points, with Fisher running a close second with three goals from scrimmage and two free ones.

Durham of the Wayland team was the leading offensive threat and one of the best defensive men. He scored five goals from play and tipped in four from the chalk line to lead all individual scoring Griffiths and Castlebury were other leaders for the charges of Coach Frank Kimbrough.

Wayland presented a scrapping though inexperienced team last night against a Tech team that missed almost as many shots as it made. The score at the intermission was 21 to 14, favoring Tech. The Jackrabbits jumped into the lead at the beginning of the game and held a four-point margin for several minutes, and again as the second half opened they were the first to tally, the hot shot Durham ringing baskets from nearly every position.

The teams meet again tonight in the second and final game of the series. The contest will be played at the Wayland gymnasium, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Dallas Sends W. B. Goodson First Pink Slip Of Season

His release was mailed to him today. Goodson spent part of last season in the Palmetto league. Club official said this was the first step of a heavy reduction in the size of the Dallas roster.

Hack Wilson Is First Big League Holdout Of Year

New Card Outfielder Refuses To Sign $7,500 Offer

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 8. (AP)—"Hack" Wilson, leading home run hitter of the National league in 1930 and batting failure of last season, acquired recently from Chicago by the world champion Cardinals, is this year's first big league holdout.

This was disclosed today by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch in a story from a staff writer at Martinsburg, W. Va., Wilson's home, saying "Hack" had refused to sign a one-year contract for $7,500 or $25,000 less than the contract he had with the Cubs.

Cut Too Big

"I would not sign for $7,500 under any conditions," Wilson said. "I do not think it is fair to ask me to sign for that kind of money. When I had that good year in 1930 I was given an increase of $12,000 and my contract called for $33,000, and now, after building myself up with a flock of good years, I am asked to take a $25,500 cut just because I had one bad year."

The husky outfielder revealed Branch Rickey, business manager of the Cardinals, had written him, also saying that if he had a good season, on and off the field, he could expect a substantial sum in addition to the contract amount, but that nothing was said as to what the sum might be. Wilson said he had been prepared to take a 50 per cent cut and would like to play with the Cardinals. He said the Cardinals made the trade for him "with their eyes open and if they don't want to pay me what I consider a fair salary, I wish they would trade me to some other club."

Defending the contract offered Wilson, Business Manager Rickey said: "A man who expects a salary of $33,000 for his services, the value of which is chiefly based upon physical expertness or skill and does not keep himself in condition to earn that salary, ought to expect a reclassification as a ball player."

Morrison Seen As Big Golf Threat

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8. (AP) — Golfers privileged to pass up the qualifying round of the Los Angeles $7,500 open tournament looked at the list of 97 survivors today and wonder whether big Fred Morrison, Culver City, Calif., professional, would prove a threat.

While the 35 stars who by virtue of their showing in the 1931 Los Angeles open or the national open of last summer waited for Saturday's first round of 18 holes, Morrison turned in a 73-68—141, one over par for the tricky Bel-Air course, to lead a field of 253.

Dick Metz, San Angelo, Tex., pro, was third with 76-68—144, while a former Texan, Ray Mangrum of Los Angeles, carded a 70-75 of 145 and fourth position.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: THE FIRST DISCIPLES

Scripture Lesson: John 1:35-49

International Sunday school lesson for Jan. 10.

35. Again on the morrow John was standing, and two of his disciples;

36. And he looked upon Jesus as he walked, and saith, Behold, the Lamb of God!

37. And the two disciples heard him speak, and they followed Jesus.

38. And Jesus turned, and beheld them following, and saith unto them, What seek ye? And they said unto him, Rabbi (ed Cephas (which is, by interpretation, Teacher), where abidest thou?

39. He saith unto them, come, and ye shall see. They came therefore and saw where he abode; and they abode with him that day: it was about the tenth hour.

40. One of the two that heard John speak, and followed him, was Andrew, Simon Peter's brother.

41. He findeth first his own brother Simon, and saith unto him, We have found the Messiah (which is, being interpreted, Christ).

42 He brought him unto Jesus. Jesus looked upon him, and said, Thou art Simon the son of John: thou shalt be called Cephas (which is, by interpration, Peter).

43 On the morrow he was minded to go forth into Galilee, and he findeth Philip: and Jesus saith unto him, Follow me.

44. Now Philip was from Bethsaida, of the city of Andrew and Peter.

45. Philip findeth Nathanael, and saith unto him, We have found him, of whom Moses in the law, and the prophets, wrote, Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph.

46. And Nathanael said unto him, Can any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip saith unto him, Come and see.

47. Jesus saw Nathanael coming to him, and saith of him, Behold, an Israelite indeed, in whom is no guile!

48. Nathanael saith unto him, Whence knowest thou me? Jesus answered and said unto him, Before Philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig tree, I saw thee.

49. Nathanael answered him, Rabbi, thou art the Son of God; thou art King of Israel.

Golden Text: Behold, the Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world!—John 1:29.

Time: February, A. D., 27, at the beginning of the first year of Christ's public ministry.

Place: Bethabara (Bethany), on the east bank of the Jordan, probably opposite Jericho.

INTRODUCTION

We note at once the supplementary character of John's Gospel. Written long after the other three, it takes them for granted, knowing that they are well known to all Christians, and, while it has a grand theological purpose of its own, as to the biography of Christ it merely fills out some important details omitted by the synoptical Gospels. Thus here at the outset the first twenty-six years of Christ's short life on earth are omitted. There is no genealogy of Jesus, no account of the annunciation to Mary, of the birth of John the Baptist, of the birth of Jesus, the visit of the wise men, the flight into Egypt, the childhood and youth at Nazareth, the visit of the boy Jesus to Jerusalem at the age of twelve to attend his first passover, the ministry of John the Baptist, the baptism of Jesus, and our Lord's temptation in the wilderness. Strange omissions, surely, if the first three Gospels were not in existence! On the other hand, all that John relates in his first five chapters is peculiar to his Gospel, and of profound interest and significance.

Emissaries from the Pharisees went to John the Baptist as he was baptizing at Bethany (Bethabara), one of the fords of the Jordan convenient for his purpose, the traditional location being east of Jericho; it was on the eastern bank, for that is the meaning of "beyond the Jordan." These messengers went to John in the spirit of judgment haughtily bidding him give an account of himself, and declare by what authority he was baptizing the throngs of penitents. John's answer was humble yet confident: he was not the Messiah, but he was the herald of the Messiah whose coming was foretold in Isa. 40: 3. "I am not worthy," said John, "even to unfasten the shoe laces of this coming Messiah."

JOHN THE BAPTIST AND JESUS

Probably John had never seen Jesus, who was his cousin according to the flesh, until our Lord, coming from Galilee with a party of friends, presented himself to him for baptism. At once, however, John recognized him as the Messiah, and protested that he should rather himself receive baptism from Jesus; but Christ insisted, and the descent of the Holy Spirit came upon Him while he was being baptized, with the voice from heaven declaring him to be God's beloved Son, confirmed John's insight, giving him from that moment his great theme for witness-bearing, namely, that Jesus was the Son of God, the long-prophesied Messiah.

THE CALL OF JOHN AND ANDREW

vs. 35-39

"Again on the morrow John was standing and two of his disciples." One of these (v. 40) was Andrew; the other was evidently the apostle John himself, who modestly avoids any mention of himself or his relatives by name in his Gospel—a fact impossible of explanation unless John wrote the Fourth Gospel. "And saith, Behold, the Lamb of God." "The day before, in a public address, John had similarly pointed out Jesus as the Lamb of God (v. 29), adding, That taketh away the sin of the world." John was speaking out of the great prophetic use of the lamb in Hebrew history, beginning with the sprinkling of the blood of passover lamb on lintel and doorpost, that the death angel might spare the first-born of the Israelites, and running through the annual sacrifice of lambs at the passover celebrations in the temple; remembering also the comparison of the Messiah to a lamb in Isa. 53:7. "Behold, the Lamb of God."

"COME AND SEE," v. 39

"He saith unto them, Come, and ye shall see." "It is not only our privilege to know where Christ is, but to be where he is. He is in a place, and he designs that that place shall be our place also. 'I go to prepare a place for you—that where I am there ye may be also.'"—Rev. A. J. Gordon. "They came therefore and saw where he abode." Our Lord was doubtless lodging in a small and mean house, but "the outward setting of any man's life is of small moment." "And they abode with him that day." "The outcome of that afternoon was thousands of converted souls, thousands of transformed lives, thousands of heroic deaths, and thousands of songs in heaven. See what even one short day or hour with Christ may do."—Rev. G. H. Knight.

THE CALL OF PETER AND JAMES

vs. 40-42

"One of the two that heard John speak, and followed him (that is, Jesus), was Andrew, Simon Peter's brother. "Andrew and Peter were fishermen from the town of Capernaum, on the northwest shore of the Sea of Galilee. Andrew was the "finder" among the twelve disciples. We see that fine quality shown in this event, and also when he found the lad with the lunch (John 12:20-29). "Andrew was commonly known as Peter's brother. He was the relative of a great man. Peter was a leader, Andrew a follower. Peter often stood alone, Andrew always appeared in company. Peter was independent, Andrew dependent." — Edward Augustus George.

"He findeth first his own brother" clearly implies that next John also found his own brother, James. "And saith unto him, We have found the Messiah (which is, being interpreted, Christ)." "This is the grand test of a truly evangelical spirit. It is unselfish. It is communicative."—Bishop Charles Wordsworth. "Andrew was the first home missionary. Those who by God's grace can say, 'We have found the Christ, a Saviour from sin and death, an almighty and all-merciful brother and friend,' these know that life is worth living."—Rev. John Ker, D. D.

ANDREW BRINGS PETER TO JESUS

"He brought him unto Jesus." "This is the kindest and best service that any human being can do to any other." Andrew never did a better day's work in his life than when he brought Peter to Jesus. "We are not told that Andrew ever preached a sermon in his life; but this brother, whom he brought to Jesus, preached a sermon that led three thousand people to Jesus in one day."—Rev. R. A. Torrey, D. D. "There is nothing we can do so great, so far-reaching in its influence, so blessed in its results, so immortal, so divine, as bringing a soul to Christ."—Rev. Warren Hathaway.

"PHILIP FINDETH NATHANAEL" v.45

"Philip findeth Nathanael." Philip may have had a slow mind, but he had a prompt heart. He was quicker than most Christians are to act on the Christian principle of evangelism. "And saith unto him, We have found him, of whom Moses in the law, and the prophets, wrote." "Whom have they found? Evidently they had found him for whom their hearts had longed, about whose coming they had conversed in their fraternal conferences, at the meetings of that primitive brotherhood of six, out of which came the Christian church."—Dean George Hodges. They were earnest Bible students, and knew the prophecies of the Messiah all through the Old Testament.

"CAN GOOD COME OUT OF NAZARETH"

v. 46

"And Nathanael said unto him, Can any good thing come out of Nazareth? "All Galileans were despised for their want of culture, their rude dialect, and contact with Gentiles. "There is not a place, wherever it be, that has not amazing possibilities of influencing human life. A man may dwell in the remotest wilderness, but if he is a great thinker, there will be a beaten pathway to his door." "Philip saith unto him, Come and see." In that call Christianity strikes the keynote of intelligent and so of truly devout religion."—Philips Brooks. "And to his everlasting credit and to his eternal salvation, Nathanael went and saw." — Rev J. D. Jones.

"Nathanael the doubter became Bartholomew the apostle." — Rev. Frederick Lynch, D. D. There can be little doubt that this Nathanael appears in the lists of the twelve apostles under the name of Bartholomew.

The incident closes with Christ's promise to Nathanael that, becoming his disciple, he would experience greater marvels than this example of his prophetic vision: he would see th heavens opened, and the angels coming from heaven upon the Son of Man, and returning again to the skies. "The Son of Man is the perfect ladder joining earth to heaven."—Rev. G. N. Knight.

A SPECIAL THOUGHT

In our lesson we are to "note to what different natures Jesus appeals, in what different ways men are led to Jesus, and by what different methods Jesus deals with new comers. The Kingdom begins in personal acquaintance. As it began, so has it continued. The mark of citizenship is personal knowledge still. Strangers and aliens may say, 'I know about him.' But the true citizens can say, 'I know him.'"—Rev. George H. Morrison, D. D.

Rosenwald Asked Children To Carry On Philanthropy

CHICAGO, Jan. 8. (AP) — Julius Rosenwald, shortly before his death Wednesday, called his five children to his bedside and charged them with the task of carrying on his philanthropies.

Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald fund, in making this disclosure, said more than $10,000,000 would be expended in completing the benevolent projects of one of the world's most generous philanthropists.

Embree said the late chairman of Sears Roebuck & Co., left practically his entire estate to his children, who recently formed the Rosenwald family association in preparation for the trust.

Oklahoma State Bank Robbed By Two Men Friday Morning

KONAWA, Okla., Jan. 8. (AP)—Two men robbed the Oklahoma State bank here shortly after it opened this morning and escaped in a coupe which appeared to be the same as driven by two men who robbed the Farmers' National bank, across the street, about two months ago.

The robbers lined 12 customers and the cashier, O. T. Damron, against the wall, scooped between $500 and $1,000 into a sack and backed out of the building while one of them pointed a pistol at the group.

Mr. Hurley Scores Again

THE Honorable Patrick Hurley, Secretary of War, is an Oklahoma boy who made good in Washington. Once plain Pat Hurley, scintillant lawyer, his march upward has not been won by political pull but, instead, by a long head and a sparkling personality.

Albeit he is a Republican, Mr. Hurley is no dummy otherwise. In the several years he has been in Washington he has become the leader of the personal spokesmen for President Hoover and the same brilliant mind, which carried him from the coal mines to a highly profitable Tulsa law business, is still hitting on all eight cylinders.

Mr. Hurley has made a number of logical remarks as he has traveled about the country but none more logical than his recent outburst.

"Why should big business criticize Mr. Hoover for so-called lack of leadership? It certainly has brought forth none of its own."

And while we can't hop into the air, cracking our heels together for Mr. Hoover and his administration while cheering wildly all the time, we must admit that Mr. Hurley said what might be called a mouthful when giving voice to that observation.

Where, are the business leaders of another age? Have we no Commodore Vanderbilts, no Andrew Carnegies, no virilent John D. Rockefeller, seniors? What's the matter with Mr. Morgan and his partner, Mr. Lamont? Can't Henry Ford and Charles F. Schwab, and men of their ilk, step into the leaderless breach and play Moses for us? General Atterbury is another man who sits high in the councils of big business. So is General Harbord. Are these "big men" really as "big" as we thought they were in 1927—or were they just lucky?

Mr. Hurley, in an effort to shield his chief, has given us something to think about, whether he meant to or not.

It looks pretty much like he landed a haymaker to the chin when he told the best of the business giants to cast the first stone.

NEGROES AND BALLOTS

The old, old argument concerning the right of the negro to vote in Texas Democratic primaries is up again and learned jurists ponder the question. One L. A. Nixon, El Paso black, is the plaintiff this time and, in addition to his claim filing he has sued El Paso election judges for $5,000 damages because they prohibited him from voting in 1928.

The power of the Democratic party in Texas, we believe, is sufficient to prohibit negroes and others from joining the ranks of the party, regardless of the constitutionality of the state law upholding the claim. If clubs, lodges and other organizations may lay down certain rules of membership, then certainly a political party may do the same.

We are not particularly aroused over the situation. The Democratic party in Texas is and always has been "the white man's party" and, we believe, always will be.

Regardless of the decision of judges pondering the case, we doubt if negroes will have much success in casting ballots in the primaries. Texas has its black population too well under control to cause much worry in this regard.

A CAREFUL ELECTORATE

Efficient Congressman Marvin Jones, who represents this district in the National House of Representatives, advises this newspaper in a recent report that "the American people are thinking."

By that, we believe, he means that they are thinking along constructive political and governmental lines today when, during the late, lamented boom eras they were too busy making money to care what happened.

There is little doubt that Congressman Jones has correctly measured the public at large at the present time. The same thing is true in Texas. We expect the Texas electorate to be more particular in its choice of officials than it has been in many years past.

FOE FOR LAZINESS

Envy is a quality that, according to universal belief, turns people green and therefore is to be avoided. It is defined, further, as a selfish and unfriendly grudging in view of what another enjoys.

Now the cure for envy is simple. It merely requires that the people who enjoy things would share them with the envious. The only trouble with this solution is that it is extremely inconvenient for those who are possessed of this world's goods. When it comes to distributing their wealth, lending the motor car or offering to pay all the expenses of an ocean voyage, those who have things experience a sensation not altogether free from selfish and unfriendly grudging. They are, then, no better off spiritually than the envious who have not.

As a matter of fact, envious people do not turn green. They have a much more practical method than that. They set out to acquire for themselves the things that make them envious. And so envy becomes an impelling force making for such ideal qualities as thrift, energy, ambition, efficiency and progress. If there were no envy there would be no mass production, no high-powered salesmanship, fewer savings banks and similar concrete examples of our great civilization.

It is not surprising that in their enthusiasm the envious should make themselves extremely objectionable to those who already possess things and wish to enjoy them in peace and tranquility. In fact, the only envy that deserved condemnation is the diluted kind that is too weak to make men strive.

A man without envy may be a saint. But the chances are that he is much less saintly than lazy.

Wide Influence Exerted

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8.—That a president whose first term is drawing toward its close is almost impossible to euchre out of a renomination is well known.

This rule is being exemplified in Washington in striking fashion.

Objection to Mr. Hoover's re-nomination is unprecedentedly rigorous. Consequently unprecedently vigorous measures are required to meet it. They are being taken.

Herbert Hoover

His domination of the southern states' G. O. P. organizations always is a valuable asset to a Republican president, as a guarantee of a substantial renomination nucleus, regardless of conditions elsewhere.

There may be opposition to him in normally Republican states, for their Republicanism is a matter of mass sentiment—and mass sentiment occasionally takes a flop in the direction of some new aspirant for party leadership.

Republicanism in the south, however, is limited to a small group of politicians per state. These politicians are interested exclusively in holding federal appointive posts—collectorships, marshalships, postmasterships and assorted deputyships. This patronage having been judiciously distributed throughout Dixie, its beneficiaries favor continuation in the White House of the individual to whom they are beholden for it. They would keep him there for life if they could. Only exceptionally, as in 1928, can they swing a few southern states Republicanly on election day, but their control of their respective state delegations makes them a potent influence in G. O. P. national conventions.

NOW, Mr. Hoover, it will be recalled, for a Republican did wonderfully well in the south at the 1928 election, not only carrying the doubtful border states of Kentucky and Tennessee, but also Florida, North Carolina, Texas and Virginia—an absolutely unheard of triumph for the G. O. P. up to that time.

Assuming that the Democrats choose a moderately popular candidate for next autumn, there are few folk who believe the Californian can repeat this performance.

But never mind that; the first thing for him to make sure of is his renomination.

And there is no denying that there is a good bit of hostility expressed toward his renomination in certain sections—notably in those northern agricultural states where progressiveism is rampant.

He carried them, too, in 1928, but it is far from safe betting that they will vote even to nominate him again in June of 1932.

THE HOOVERCRATIC (in 1928) part of the south and the northern farm belt are alike, then, in showing a drift away from Mr. Hoover in the last three years. The south probably has drifted back to Jeffersonianism. The northern farm belt, more likely, is simply off the reservation.

But they do differ in this respect, as to the G. O. P.'s June convention:

The Republican convention delegates of Florida, Kentucky, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia, will vote just as enthusiastically in Chicago in June for Mr. Hoover's renomination as they voted in 1928 for his original nomination in Kansas City.

On the other hand, delegates from Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin and two or three additional northern farm belt states may fly the coop in June, and vote for some such candidate as Hiram Johnson, Gifford Pinchot or George W. Norris.

HENCE Mr. Hoover's G. O. P. national committee recently cut down the representation of the progressive farm states at the Republican national convention, and correspondingly increased the representation of the Hoovercratic southern states, on the ground that the latter are entitled to it by the Republican majorities they gave in 1928.

Practical Health Problems

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, And of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

THE average blood pressure of men at 20 years of age is 120; at 60 years of age, about 135. In people who are overweight this pressure is likely to be higher. A variation of five millimeters of mercury above or below these figures may be considered within the average. Variations of more than five millimeters above or below are conditions for study.

There are many reasons why the blood pressure may fall below the average. This occurs whenever a person is nauseated, faints, or has a severe hemorrhage. There are, however, other conditions of general weakness in which the blood pressure is low and in which the physician needs to concern himself with building the person back into a good condition. For instance, following influenza people are frequently weak, perspire freely on exertion, and appear weary, depressed and tired without any apparent cause.

When the infection is cleared up and the appetite returns, when the person begins to resume his daily physical activities, the pressure may rise promptly.

A similar condition may develop following any long continued infection, and the method of taking care of the condition is obvious. Rest is necessary. If everyone who had a severe cold, even without a fever, would stay in bed in the acute stage and if every person who had a fever would stay in bed from one to three days after the temperature became normal, a vast amount of degenerative disease, of low blood pressure, and of general weakness would be avoided.

There are certain diseases which attack the glands of internal secretion which are concerned with keeping the blood pressure normal through maintaining proper elasticity in the blood vessels. Obviously any disease affecting these glands and interfering with their function may bring about low blood pressure. Since the blood pressure is a reflection of the power of the heart to push the blood through the arteries and veins and of the condition of the blood vessels through which the blood passes, any factor that greatly influences these two basic features of the circulation may bring about either a high or low blood pressure.

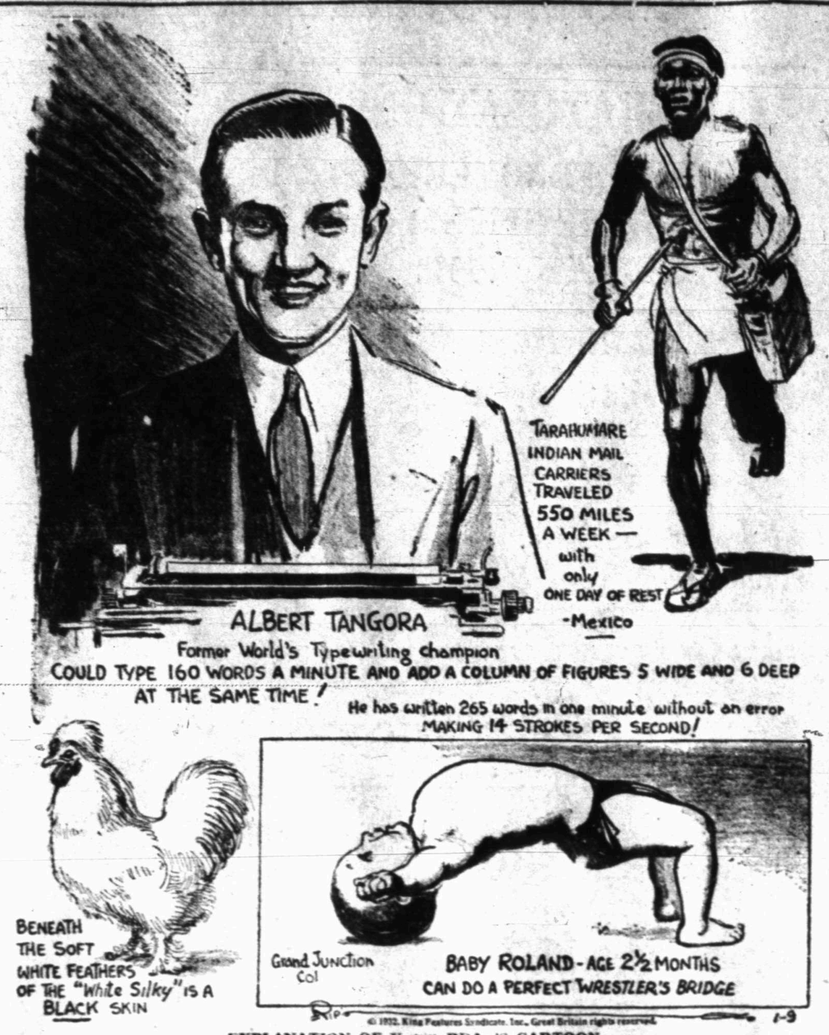

Dr. Wingate M. Johnson, after a survey of the available knowledge, feels that low blood pressure favors long life, but that it is not likely to be associated with physical vigor. There is a tendency to encounter low blood pressure more frequently than high ones.

THE BOTTLE OF NOTHING:

Scientists of the General Electric Company were called upon a short time ago to provide a large bulb enclosing a vacuum for the christening of the new General Electric airplane A "bottle of nothing" was found to be the most desirable substitute for the usual bottle of champagne, to be broken over the nose of the plane.

The scientists pumped the air from the 73-cubic-inch bulb, making the vacuum 99.999,999 per cent perfect. Although this vacuum would to the lay mind appear to be perfect, the General Electric scientists maintain that approximately 370 trillion gas molecules escaped when the bulb was broken.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSY McBRIDE, 19-year-old typist, goes to meet the boat which is bringing ALAN CROSBY home from a year and a half in Paris. The couple are not engaged but there has been an understanding between them. On the pier the girl sees a beautiful woman waving to Crosby. He says she is MRS. LANGLEY, a ship's acquaintance.

The couple drive to MRS. O'HARE'S rooming house where a celebration honoring the young artist has been prepared. Just as the dinner is to be served Crosby makes a telephone call and returns to say he must leave at once. He goes to Mrs. Langley's lavish apartment and agrees to attend a dinner party with her. Two nights later Crosby breaks a dinner engagement with Gypsy, explaining he is spending the evening with business associates. Gypsy goes to the theater alone and encounters Crosby and Mrs. Langley in the after-theater crowd. There is a scene. Mrs. Langley drives off in her car and Gypsy and Crosby go home in a taxi, quarreling all the way. Next morning MISS TUTTLE, office executive at MacNAMARA'S, summons Gypsy for a private interview.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Gypsy collected the work on her desk and arose. "I'll come right away, Miss Tuttle," she said.

What was it that had gone wrong now? As well to get the ordeal over. Gypsy followed the older woman into the adjoining office. It was a tiny room with barely space for Miss Tuttle's desk, two chairs and a wooden cabinet. It was always used for hiring, discharging and for those interviews which gained impressiveness by the office executive's brisk "Come into my private office!"

Still puzzling over what could be wrong Gypsy entered the room.

"Close the door, will you?" Miss Tuttle said with what seemed forced brightness.

There had never been any great friendship between these two. Miss Tuttle six months previously had been transferred from the bookkeeping department. She was thoroughly impressed with her own importance. The transfer was a promotion and Miss Tuttle had energetically instituted "efficiency measures" — to the irritation of Gypsy and others accustomed to the old routine. Clara Howard and one or two of the other typist had won preferment by flattery. Gypsy, on the other hand, had a reputation for independence.

"Sit down, Miss McBride," the older woman motioned toward the only chair.

Gypsy sat down. And it was at that moment she realized what was to come. Those figures she had typed Saturday—the directors' report! She had failed to check them and now an error had been discovered. Her mind whirled as she thought of consequences.

Miss Tuttle leaned back in her chair, folding her hands upon the desk. It was an attitude which meant the interview had begun.

"How long have you been with the MacNamara Company?" she asked.

"Two and a half years."

The older woman's nod was business-like. She had not asked the question for information. She had known exactly how long Gypsy had worked at MacNamara's. "You are probably aware," Miss Tuttle continued, "that your record of service is longer than any of the other typists in this department?"

"Yes".

Why couldn't Tuttle break the bad news and be through with it? Was she actually enjoying this delay?

Evidently the discussion was not to be hurried. Miss Tuttle hesitated, cleared her throat and then went on:

"One of the policies which I wish to enforce," she said, "is to base advancement upon length of service. It is, I believe, recognized that this makes for efficiency. You are in line for the next promotion."

Gypsy said nothing, waiting.

"Mr. Reynolds' secretary is leaving the first of next week," Miss Tuttle continued. "I believe you can do the work and have recommended you for the place. Mr. Reynolds will give you some letters to test your speed at dictation this afternoon."

"Why, Miss Tuttle—you mean—!"

"There will be an advance of $2 a week after you have shown, that you can do the work satisfactorily."

Still Gypsy could hardly believe her ears. There was a pause. Evidently Miss Tuttle was expecting some word of appreciation.

"I hope you're pleased, Miss McBride," she said a trifle stiffly.

"Oh—oh, yes. Thank you. It's a big surprise. I—well, I wasn't expecting anything like this. It's—it certainly is a surprise!"

"I'll let you know when Mr. Reynolds is ready. It will probably be about three o'clock."

Gypsy understood she was dismissed. She also sensed that she had incurred displeasure.

"It's awfully nice of you to give me this chance, Miss Tuttle," she said, rising.

"I only hope you justify my recommendation."

The tilt of Miss Tuttle's head indicated that Gypsy was to return to her work. She went back to the outer office.

"What happened?" Jean Foster tried to keep her voice down but Gypsy was aware the others were listening.

"Nothing."

"Tin Hats" On Rivet "Front"

Remember the "tin hats" of war days—the steel helmets that saved many a skull from being punctured in France? Well, modern business has found a use for them, and here's proof of the point. These two helmeted electricians working on the new Boston postoffice, donned the headgear to protect themselves from falling rivets. They can testify to the value of the hats when hot and heavy rivets are falling about 'em—something like shrapnel.

MAD MARRIAGE

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN Author of "HEART HUNGRY," etc.

"Was Tuttle sore about anything? Did she bawl you out?"

Gypsy shook her head.

Jean sighed with relief. "Well, that's great! Gosh—I've been sitting here shivering. Know what I thought? I was just sure it was something to do with those figures we copied the other day. You remember—when you were in a hurry to meet your boy friend! Say—if I'd gotten you in bad I've never have forgiven myself!"

"Don't worry any longer," Gypsy told her. She placed a fresh sheet of paper in her typewriter. Apparently intent on getting the sheet just right, Gypsy kept one eye on Clara Howard.

There was a pause. Then Gypsy added casually, "Mr. Reynolds' secretary is quitting and they're offered me the job."

"Gypsy—how marvelous!"

There were general congratulations. The other girls who had tried to conceal the fact they were listening now gathered around Gypsy's desk. There were excited comments. A promotion would mean a new girl—someone to take Gypsy's place. Were there going to be other changes? Wasn't she thrilled?

"Just look at her!" Jean exclaimed. "We're all excited and Gypsy's calm as a judge. Would you ever think she'd just got a raise. And a swell-looking boss like Mr. Raynolds too! Say, Gypsy, you certainly are the lucky girl!"

Gypsy tried to answer their questions and turn aside the jokes. In a few minutes the others were at their desks again and she was able to go on with her typing. Her fingers, she discovered, were clumsy.

"Lucky girl," was what Jean had called her. Lucky? Of course. Wasn't she going to get a raise? The job she had hoped for without much encouragement for over a year? Lucky? Of course she was lucky!

Gypsy hit the wrong key and tried to erase the damage. It left a smudged spot.

Five letters — all capitals — ranged themselves before her eyes. They danced on the fresh white expanse of paper and screamed at her. The letters would not go away. "LUCKY" they leered at her. "L-U-C-K-Y!"

She had never felt more unlucky in her life.

Gypsy was not given to tears. Emotional in other respects she seldom cried. Now she frowned at the notes to be copied and slowly, deliberately continued typing.

It was hard work because she could not keep her attention from roving. How could she possibly feel lucky after that quarrel with Alan? What was a job, a raise in salary or anything else compared with knowing Alan hated her and never wanted to see her again?

The typewriter keys were behaving queerly. Gypsy wondered if she could ever get through the morning. She could still see Alan's white face and hear the scorching tone of his voice.

Oh, there was no doubt that she had ruined every chance to make him care for her again!

When lunch time came Gypsy was behind with the morning's work but she rose from her desk with relief. She was glad of the chance to get away from the prying looks of her neighbors. Of course they knew something was wrong. Even when they were congratulating her about the new job they must have seen she was miserable. Clara Howard had mentioned circles beneath her eyes. Well—let them talk!

Gypsy went to the locked room for her coat and hat, pausing an instant before the mirror. She did look a fright. Automatically she drew the vanity case from her purse and drabbed her nose with powder. It was not a great improvement.

Downstairs at the drug store counter she lunched on a sandwich and cup of coffee. It was all she could eat. Even the coffee which was always appetizing, did not tempt her.

Twenty minutes remained of her lunch hour after she had finished eating. Gypsy decided to walk. She went out of the building, joining the throng on the sidewalk.

The air was cool but there was sunshine. Gypsy walked briskly. Twice she had to wait for traffic. Six blocks from the office building she turned and retraced her steps.

The exercise was stimulating and gradually the girl felt her courage revive. She would see Alan tonight and apologize. She would swear that she was sorry—shoulder all the blame. Not one word would she say about the other woman—Mrs. Langley. All that she would ask would be for Alan to forget their quarrel and remain friends.

It was amazing how this resolution improved her spirits. Gypsy, back at work, could scarcely wait for the afternoon to pass. She was suddenly herself again, energetic and eager.

At a little after three Mr. Reynolds was ready for the dictation. The girl took her stenographic pad and went to the office at the far end of the corridor. Reynolds was one of the youngest men in the organization. He was a nephew of a member of the firm. Gypsy had never spoken to him.

She knocked at the open door and the young man at the desk looked up.

"Miss McBride?" he asked. "Won't you come in?"

Gypsy entered, took the chair he motioned toward.

"Miss Tuttle said you wanted to dictate," she said.

Reynolds nodded. He was a well set-up young man with pleasant blue eyes and lightish brown hair. He had the look of a man who likes outdoor activities. Without any delay he launched into the waiting correspondence. He dictated clearly, not too rapidly. There was no reason why Gypsy should have missed a word, yet when he had finished and she closed her notebook the girl knew she had written the words automatically.

"Leave the letters on my desk if I'm not here when you finish," Reynolds instructed.

Gypsy agreed. Then she hurried back to the other office to transcribe the notes.

She wrote the letters swiftly and was pleased with their appearance. There was no one in Reynolds' office when she laid them on his desk.

An hour and a half later, entering the door of Mrs. O'Hara's rooming house, she met Alan Crosby.

Heiress Is Calm At Murder Trial

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 8. (AP)—The state continued today in the murder trial of Helen Joy Morgan, 27-year-old heiress, an attempt to prove that Leslie Casteel went unarmed to a tryst with Miss Morgan on the night of April 23, when he was shot to death.

The defense indicated it will base its case on the declaration that Casteel was shot after a struggle with Miss Morgan, his sweetheart, after he had threatened her life.

Miss Morgan and her mother, who has been her constant companion at the trial, remained calm throughout the early testimony today. She collapsed yesterday during the questioning of Casteel's relatives.

Several neighbors who said they saw Miss Morgan park her car in front of Casteel's home, get out and "look around the house about midnight" were offered in an effort to accentuate a jealousy motive.

Beer Hearing

Clarence Mendell of Yale college. In it, Mendell said "boys here at Yale" had tried to get beer rather than "hard liquor," but the bootleggers provided the latter, which was easier to handle and "more profitable."

"I am convinced that if four per cent beer were made legal," Mendell's letter added, "that before long the hard liquor tradition would be eliminated."

Promote Temperance

Professor Yandell Henderson, of Yale, said it would take "two or three quarts" of four per cent beer to equal the alcoholic content of five or six cocktails in the afternoon before dinner. He figured it would take "eight or ten quarts" of four per cent beer to produce intoxication.

Dr. Charles Norris, chief medical examiner of New York, held beer would promote temperance and health and would mean "the turn to prosperity."

"In my opinion it would mean that a large percentage of the male population now drinking hard liquor would resort to beer," he said. He called beer "a good drink and not intoxicating," adding:

"It would halt the triumphal march of bootleggers."

ed her, was said by Sheriff Gleason to have been tricked into leaving the court room alone and walking into the hands of the kidnapers.

Police said Kahahawai was seized by two men after a woman had pointed him out. The kidnapers' automobile got a six-mile start. It stopped only after Patrol Officer George Harbottle fired three shots after overtaking it.

Kahahawai had been shot through the heart.

Make No Admissions

Mrs. Fortescue, Lieut. Massie and Lord were taken under protection of detectives and Commander Richard W. Bates of the naval shore patrol to the office of City and County Attorney James P. Gilliland.

Neither Mrs. Fortescue, Massie nor Lord made any admission of guilt at the conference.

After attorneys had been obtained for the three Mrs. Fortescue told newspaper men she had been down town shopping and knew nothing of what had happened to Kahahawai. Massie and Lord refused to discuss the affair.

Sheriff Gleason announced efforts would be made to have Massie, Mrs. Fortescue and Lord indicted tomorrow.

Second Violence Case

The killing was the second case of violence attributed to the attack. A few days ago Horace Ida, a Japanese, was seized by 20 men, taken out of the city and given a beating. None of his assailants thus far have been identified.

A second attack on a white woman a week ago intensified public feeling and caused Governor Lawrence M. Judd to instruct the Hawaii national guard to cooperate with police in cleaning up the city.

Stock Market Catches Second Wind; Three Days Of Rising Brings Cheer

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 8. (AP)—The stock market caught its second wind today and on a sprightly afternoon rally closed 1-5 points higher. Nearly half of the day's business, amounting to 1,973,200 shares in all, took place in the last hour.

Wall street looked within the market itself, rather than outside for an explanation. The advance seemed to conform closely to the "line of least resistance" pattern; and there were widely circulated reports that a number of prominent professional operators had undergone a change of heart, however temporarily, which had put them on the long side, presumably for a turn. The average net rise was 2.7 points so that in three successive days of rising prices the market has picked up 8 points.

to cut costs and declared that if every city in the land took similar action, the cost of government would be cut approximately fifty per cent.

Already At Work

"After hearing this broadcast and seeing these men here so vastly interested in the nation's problems it strikes me that America is already at work and that the depression is over," Judge Mullican said as he opened his talk. "I have maintained a long time that the depression was in 1930, that the real bad days of this unfortunate state of affairs were back in that year and that the year 1931 was the panic after the depression."

Judge Mullican pointed out that the efforts of President Hoover toward securing relief for this country were honest efforts and aimed at deriving the best benefit for the people. "This debts moratorium is the only salvation at this time," he said. "Why if those nations paid money back to the government, it would go into the national treasury and not into the channels of trade as it should. Instead if it paid to the large banks of the east, which drew from the small banks all over the nation in 1928 and 1929 to make European loans, why it would go right back into trade and we would begin to feel some effects."

State of Bad Nerves

"We are living in a state of bad nerves, we have lost our nerve," the judge continued. He said the creation of the great finance corporation and the enlargement of the powers of the federal reserve bank would also aid in bringing relief to the strain on credit conditions.

"This depression has been the best thing that ever happened to us. It has leveled men, it has set people to thinking, they're getting closer to earth, getting more common sense and bringing them clearer pictures of the true values of life.

"So in 1932, let's get rid of this bad case of nerves we have and substitute our nerve instead," he concluded. "Let's join in this America at Work program and get to work, let's be true to our president whether we like him or not and above all let's be true to our government."

Ennis Deputy Is Believed Fatally Wounded In Fight

ENNIS, Jan. 8. (AP)—Jack Gathins, 55, deputy sheriff, was shot three times and wounded probably fatally in a pistol battle tonight in a downtown alley. The fight was with a man Gathins was trying to arrest.

Alvin Breeland, 35, surrendered and was taken to the county jail at Waxahachie. He was not wounded.

Lui Kaikapui, a Hawaiian burglary convict who had escaped from prison, was identified by the second white woman as her attacker and was returned to prison.

Facing a threatened boycott by the navy when the Pacific fleet comes to mid-Pacific next for its manœuvers, Honolulu civic organizations were cooperating with authorities in attempting to clean up the city when Kahahawai met his fate.

Governor Judd had been informed by Rear Admiral Ross C. Stirling, commandant of the fourteenth naval district, on behalf of the navy department that the fleet would not be allowed shore leave in Honolulu unless official word forthcoming it had been cleared of its undesirable elements.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 8. (AP)—Reports from eastern dressed beef markets show a fairly liberal supply on hand with prices working at weak to unevenly lower basis under a slow demand. This situation was directly reflected to the live trade in the form of weak to 25 lower fed heifers. General bulk of steers and yearlings cleared @ 5.00-7.25. Short fed heifers cashed mostly @ 5.00-6.25.

Several northern markets reported extremely heavy receipts of hogs for this time of the week which brought a total of around 107,000 more than a week ago. Most centers had a fairly active trade at unevenly weak to 25 lower levels with offerings scaling 240 lbs and above showing the greatest losses. Best butchers in St. Louis sold up to 4.90.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Jan. 8. (AP)—Hogs, 400; truck hogs mostly 10-15 lower; no rail hogs offered; bulk better grades 185-270 lb truck hogs 4.65-4.75; feeder pigs up to 4.50; packing sows 2.75-4.00; or steady.

Cattle—1,600; including 400 calves; slaughter steers slow, tending weak to lower, few loads of value to sell around 4.50-8.50; slaughter yearlings steady to slightly lower, 4.50-6.00; several sales 4.75-5.50 and small lot top 7.75; peddling, quotably steady trade in other classes cattle and calves; one load fat cows 3.15; stocker market practically nominal; better grades heavy fat calves 4.75-5.25 including two loads at latter price; cull sorts 2.50-3.00.

Sheep—2,600; receipts mostly fat lambs; no early sales; packers bidding 90 lower.

numerable boards and bureaus and discharge an army of spies, snoopers and tax-eaters.

"Fourth: We should cease attempting to either promote, regulate or destroy the business of the United States. By that I do not mean we should repeal the laws against combinations in restraint of trade, for such laws are themselves protective of trade. Upon the contrary, those laws should be strengthened and every attempt at monopoly of unfair trade practices should be in the interests of fair trade, strictly prohibited and punished.

Prohibit Stock Gambling

"Fifth: We should demand that the federal reserve banking system should no longer be made the agent and banker of the stock gambling hells of the nation; and the fraudulent practices of those institutions should be prohibited and punished.

"Sixth: We should immediately lower tariff exactions, and as rapidly as the revenue exigencies of our government will permit, wipe them out. This must be accomplished in order:

(A)—To relieve the present burdens of our people:

(B)—In order that our manufacturing industries may be able to compete in the markets of the world, thus furnishing employment for American labor.

For State Control

"Seventh: The laws regulating the habits and lives of the people, insofar as such laws should ever be passed, should be left to the several states; such doctrine or state sovereignty in its high and proper sense should be restored."

Reed, known for frequent vitriolic verbal attacks on prohibition at no time in his address referred directly to the issue which may receive attention at this summer's convention.

Deploring that the government "is today sailing the uncharted seas of regulation and experimentation," Reed charged that unwise tariff legislation had made it possible for manufacturers to combine "amongst themselves so as to extort the last possible dollar from a helpless population."

He assailed entry of government into the cotton and wheat markets through the federal farm board, "resulting in a general paralysis in the markets for farm products."

Search Being Widened For Man And Skiff Along Coast

FREEPORT, Jan. 8. (AP)—Confident that Oliver D. O'Bryan, Houston steamfitter swept out into the gulf by the Brazos river flood current, still was alive and riding the waves in a small skiff, friends tonight extended the search for him along the coast as far south as Port O'Connor.

Two planes, a coastguard boat and several private vessels scouted the expanse of water southwest of Freeport today while searching parties patrolled the beach. No trace of O'Bryan or his frail skiff was found.

Tax Collections See Slight Drop

Collection of county and state taxes during December was about three thousand dollars less than in November because several large firms took advantage of the installment plan during the latter month, William H. Carpenter, chief deputy in the office of the county tax collector, said Friday.

December collections totaled $35,-487.41, as compared to $38,552.89 during November. Approximately 18 per cent of county and state taxes for 1931-32 have been collected—and the remainder of the current taxes must be paid before February 1 or they will become delinquent. October taxes collected by the county amounted to $24,666.76.

Lubbock county residents secured 580 poll taxes, including 88 exemptions, during last month. Persons who took advantage of the installment plan in October and November do not have to pay the remaining one-half of their taxes until July 1. After that time a penalty and six per cent interest will be charged.

Cox's Army Is Jubilant After Visit To Washington To Ask Federal Relief; Priest Says Good Accomplished

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 8. (AP)—Cox's army of unemployed rolled home today, noisy and jubilant despite the cold, while their leader expressed confidence they had accomplished something.

The main body of the thousands who poured out of Pittsburgh Tuesday and into Washington Wednesday night to ask federal relief for the unemployed came home with automobile horns honking and voices shouting.

The Rev. James R. Cox, priest who marshaled the host of unemployed to impress government officials of the need for relief, was weary but happy.

"I really believe that it will accomplish something," he said. "I think that you will soon see some action by congress. We made them realize that to go on ignoring pleas for relief was playing with fire.

"Our real purpose was accomplished. It was to show the people of this great nation that men can point out to our government officials their real duty when they have failed to see it."

Crash Of Glass Greets Officers

DALLAS, Jan. 8—A squad of police drove to a speakeasy last night, parked in front and quietly surrounded the place.

Smiles wreathed the raiders' faces as they peered through a window to see a party of six men making merry. They were imbibing freely from a jug. The officers prepared to crash the door.

Suddenly from the police car parked at the curb the cry of a police broadcast was heard — "attention all squares. This is station KVP of the Dallas police and fire departments. Go to—"

The rest was lost in a crash of glass. The raiders broke in as the last of the "evidence" was gurgling down the sink.

Soil And Water Conservation Week Proclaimed By Sterling

AUSTIN, Jan. 8. (AP)—Governor R. S. Sterling issued a proclamation today declaring the week Jan. 11-17 soil and water conservation week.

He issued the proclamation in conformity with a resolution passed by the legislature setting the week aside to impress the citizens with the necessity of conserving the fertility of the soil and preventing wastage of water.

The proclamation pointed out that one of the paramount problems of agriculture was to prevent the soil from becoming improverished by uncontrolled surface waters.

The governor called on all farmers to prevent erosion by terracing, pointing out the legislature had authorized the use of county road machinery for each work, the farmers being required to pay only the cost of operating the machinery.
