PROPOSED NEW JAIL

This is the architect's drawing of the proposed new jail for Collingsworth County. It combines the cell block section, with living quarters for the sheriff and an office area. The modern building is of concrete blocks with face brick exterior, and the high windows open on a guard corridor, separating the cells from the outside wall, which takes away the "jail look." The door is metal and operated by remote control, observed through bullet proof glass. Cells for women and juveniles are separated from the main cell block, which can house 16 prisoners. The architects are Cantrell and Burns of Lubbock. The estimated cost of the jail is $60,000, which the county proposes to finance with the issuance of time warrants.

Commissioners Rescind Action on Machinery

The Commissioners Court met Monday morning, June 22, and rescinded a motion made in a called meeting Thursday, June 18, thereby retaining the machinery the county has on agreement from the Civil Defense Unit.

The vote was three to one to rescind the Thursday action and continue the contract with Civil Defense. Voting for the measure were Pat O'Hair, commissioner of Precinct 3; Alfred Knoll, Precinct 2; and Jack Brewer, Precinct 1. W. R. Breeding of Precinct 4 voted against the motion.

In the surprise move Thursday, Breeding and Knoll voted to turn back the Civil Defense equipment. They had argued it was costing the county too much money for repairs.

O'Heir voted against the measure, and Brewer, who suggested they wait the next regular term, did not vote.

"The major expense has been on the maintainers (county owned) and that yellow truck the county has is more expensive than all the civil defense equipment," O'Hair argued.

"Maybe it would good business not to use part of this civil defense equipment. Just put it up and not use it. But that bulldozer has done $8,000 worth of work at the present rate for that kind of work and it has never been in my precinct, and there have been less than $100 repairs.

"Let's get a cost accounting sheet on each piece of equipment, then put up part of it," O'Hair continued.

The equipment has been acquired by the Civil Defense Unit from military surplus equipment during the last year and part of it is turned over to the county under a contract agreement. Included are a rock crusher, maintainer, bulldozer, several trucks and pickups and other equipment. The city also has on lease several pieces of equipment from the CD unit.

Breeding also brought up that roads in his precinct damaged in the May 25 rains have not yet been repaired.

Judge C. C. Bishop presided at both meetings.

Gentle Rain Gives Area Needed Moisture Tues.

NEW B&PW OFFICERS

New officers of Wellington's Business and Professional Women's Club were installed Friday, June 19, with Mrs. John Coleman, upper left, taking the office of president. She succeeds Mrs. Ernest Harwell. Mrs. Dee Coleman, upper right, is vice president. Below are Mrs. Lottie Brock, who was re-elected secretary, and Mrs. Lola Lee Roark, treasurer.

Gentle rains soaked Collingsworth with from two to four inches of moisture, beginning shortly after midnight and continuing until after noon Tuesday, June 23.

Although thunder showers were expected, and clouds at midnight appeared stormy, nothing more than the slow rain developed, with little if any damage to young crops.

Wellington recorded 1.97 inches to 6 p.m. Tuesday, according to T. H. Franklin, Weather Bureau reporter said. Up to two and a half inches was reported at other points in the Wellington area.

Heaviest rainful was in the Lutie area, where up to four inches was reported. Dodson had received 3.50 inches Tuesday evening and Quail 2.25 inches. The Loco area received from 1.8 to 2 inches.

More than 90 per cent of the wheat is estimated already harvested, and that left in the field will not be damaged, "unless the weeds take it," one buyer observed. With weeds as high as the wheat in some fields, this is a real possibility, since it will be several days before combines can get back to work if no more rain falls.

The rain was heavier northeast of Wellington than in town, with R. T. Savage reporting 2.8 inches and John Coffee 3.5.

At Lillie, Zook Thomas measured 2.6 inches, and farther west at Marella, Frank Coleman had 1.7 Tuesday morning. Monty Mitchell received 2.25 inches and H. P. Fielding 1.5. All these are in the general vicinity of Quail, where 2.25 was measured at the Lowe Station.

East of Wellington, Lloyd Holloway reported 2.3 inches; Joe Tarver reported two in the Kelley community and Hayden Williams two at Fresno.

In the Houselog community, 1.6 inches fell at the Eddie Smith farm, and 2.50 in the Rolla community. Two inches was reported at the Willie West farm at Loco.

On Salt Fork River, directly north of Wellington, W. L. Green received three inches, and Lee Roark of Lutie reported four. Other reports from that area were from three to four inches.

Rufus Sweat, mail carrier on Route 6, in the east part of the county north of Salt Fork, said from 3 to 3.50 inches fell through that area, with Marvin Seale, just north of the river, reporting 3.3 inches and C. R. Preuit of Aberdeen three and a half inches.

Terraces were full of water, but none broke, he added, and the rain fell so genty there was no damage to the approaches to bridges on a new FM road in that area.

Fun and Study Sessions

Annual 4-H Club Camp Opens at Panfork on Thursday

The Collingsworth County boys and girls Annual 4-H Club Camp opens at Pan-Fork encampment Thursday morning, June 25, and will continue through Friday afternoon.

Approximately 60 boys and girls are expected to take part in the program, directed by Miss Kathryn Potter, home demonstration agent, and Bob Lynch, county agent.

Highlighting the session will be instruction in wildlife conservation, with Dick De Arment of Wheeler, bioligist with the Federal wildlife service as the visiting speaker. The session will be directed toward taking care of wildlife now existing and how to increase it on farms and ranches.

The theme of this camp will be recreation leadership, instructing the 4-H members in how to present games, play them and teach them.

A record book workshop is planned and there will be a manners and ettiquette session for girls.

This year both and girls will participate in the rifle and marksmanship session, which Lynch will teach. He will stress safety with firearms.

Three Hurt in Car-Pickup Crash Sunday

Three persons were injured in a car-pickup collision three miles south of Wellington on the curve at the Kelley corner Sunday, June 21 about 5 p.m.

In St. Joseh's Hospital are Billy George Aaron, 21, of Wellington, driver of the pick-up; Bobby Joe Blackburn, 28, of Wichita Falls, who was driving a 1959 Buick and his sister-in-law, Linda Brown, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buford Brown of Shamrock.

Investigating officers said Blackburn had been to Shamrock and Linda was returning with him for a visit. He was traveling south, while Aaron was driving north.

Officers said both men suffered internal injuries, while Linda was cut and bruised.

Investigation of the cause of the wreck was still under way Tuesday evening, as condition of the men was such that Highway Potrolman said they had been able to talk with Blackburn only briefly and Aaron not at all.

Both the car and pickup were completely demolished.

Investigating the accident were Sheriff John Rainey and Highway Patrolmen Bobby Chaffin and Martin Exum.

Bank Deposits Above Five, Quarter Million

Collingsworth County bank assets stand near the six million dollar mark, and deposits are nearly five and one half million, reports of conditions of the three banks published this week reveal.

The reports are in compliance with the call of the Federal Reserve Bank and Comptroller of Currency at the cose of business June 10.

The report reflects only a little of the county's wheat crop money, as harvesting was then just getting well under way.

Scout Paper Pickup June 27

The Boy Scouts will pick up old newspapers Saturday morning, June 27, and those having papers to give are asked to have them out early in the morning in places where they can be seen from the street.

"We are extremely proud of the papers that are already in strong paper bags, as they do not have to be tied in bundles. The next best deal is papers that are in boxes, however we are happy to get the papers in any way convenient for you," Mrs. John Coleman, who is helping with the drive, said.

At Ki-o-Wah

Scout Advancements Greater than Expected

By Glenn McLain
Scoutmaster, Troop 31

Boy Scout Troop No. 31 of Wellington returned home Saturday at noon from successful and enjoyable week of Scouting and camping at the Adobe Walls Council Camp Ki-D-Wah, which is located 12 miles east of Canadian, on the Canadian River. The camp area itself rests at the northern edge of Lake Marvin. The camp was well planned and the professional staff was proficient in carrying out the Scouting program. The aquatic program was especially well liked and our troop had achieved 89 per cent class A swimmers by the end of camp.

Our advancements exceeded expectations with nine Tenderfoot Scouts advancing to the rank of Second Class Scouts. Scouts receiving Second Class rank were: Sammy Hollingsworth, Greg Woods, Jackie Needham, Gary Judd, Bill Tyler, Gary Bergval, Dickie Lindsey, Lee Burks, and John Somerville. Futhermore all of these boys completed one or more projects on their First Class work.

The more difficult First Class Rank was completed by Scouts Bill Spillman and Joe Rudy. And the following Scouts completed a large part of their First Class work. These include Phillip Hughey, Larry Flint, Bryan Hatch and Chester McLain.

Senior Patrol Leader Gene Sweat and Junior Assistant Scoutmaster Lynn McLain, being Star and life Scouts respectively, worked on the aquatic merit badges with Lynn completing the canoeing merit badge.

Moving the Scouts up Sunday and assisting with camp erection were: Buster Hughes, Paul Spillman, Billy Hatch and M. L. Burks.

Wednesday evening a fine group of Scout friends planned and carried out a surprise watermellon feast for the Scouts. This group included Mr. and Mrs. Paul Spillman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lindsey, Jack Wood, Jack Needham,

Resigns Sunday

Rev. Pogue Goes to Petersburg Church

Rev. Russell Pogue presented his resignation as pastor of First Baptist Church to accept the call of First Baptist Church, Petersburg. The resignation was made at service Sunday, June 21, and will become effective June 30.

Rev. Pogue said in his letter of resignation to the church that it was not an easy decision, and he was leaving only because he felt it to be the Lord's will.

During his pastorate, the local congregation the First Baptist Church has increased its gifts to missions and benevolences and has started operating a Mexican Mission. Total gifts of the church to all purposes during the 33 months of Rev. Pogue's pastorate have been in excess of $100,000. More than 200 have united with the church as members.

Rev. Pogue expressed regret for himself and his family in leaving Wellington, "and the fine set of friends and the real fellowship of genuine people."

By Mrs. Bedford Harrison

B&PW Sponsors Book Review Here Friday

The Business and Professional Women's Club will present Mrs. Bedford Harrison of Shamrock in a book review Friday night, June 26, at 8 p.m. in the community building.

Mrs. Harrison will review "The Secret Project of Sigurd O'Leary," by Martin Quigley.

As this is a benefit review, an admission will be charged and the money will be applied on the cost of the new refrigerator that has been bought for the community building, Mrs. John Coleman, president, said.

The Book Mrs. Harrison will review has a family interest story that will please both men and women, and the review is open to everyone interested.

"It is felt that if every person who has thought at some time that we needed a refrigerator at the community building will buy a ticket to the review, they will have a pleasant evening of entertainment and accomplish a worthwhile community project. This is your opportunity as an individual to help," Mrs. Coleman said.

Election Law Changes to Give New Look to Politics in 1960

Come 1960, the political pulse will quicken earlier and election hopes will rise with the sap.

This is because of the bill, passed by the legislature and signed by Governor Daniel, moving the primary elections and conventions from July and August to May and June.

The most important dates of the 1960 political calendar will look like this:

- Deadline for candidates to file, Monday, February 1.
- First primary election and precinct conventions, Saturday, May 7.
- County conventions, Saturday, May 14.
- Second primary election, Saturday, June 4.
- State (presidential) convention, Tuesday, June 14.
- State (governor) convention, Tuesday, September 20.

The new law provides that delegates elected at the May county conventions shall be delegates "for all state conventions held throughout the remainder of the year." This means that the Presidential state convention delegates in June will also be the delegates attending the subsequent September state convention.

Another change is to be noted, although it is not effective until 1962: After that time, all convention delegation strength will be based on the votes for governor in the preceding presidential election. For 1960, the delegation strengths will be based as usual, on the vote for governor in the preceding general election (1958).

Nor is this all—and it would be well for the general run of us voters to familiarize ourselves with the law.

Your "ticket" for admission into next spring's precinct conventions will be your stamped poll tax receipt, or a certificate showing you participated in the primary. The fact that your name is on the poll list does not entitle you to attend your precinct conventions as in the past.

Then there is the new "party affiliation" law passed by the 56th Legislature. Under the law, a person becomes affiliated with a political party by voting in that party's elections. He cannot, within the same poll tax year, thereafter participate in another party's convention activities.

Another bill was passed with little publicity and was designed to curb the abuses in absentee voting.

In the future, only sick or disabled voters will be able to receive absentee ballots by mail within the county of their residence. This is designed to eliminate the "solicitation" of absentee ballots. Voters absent from the county can still vote by mail provided they make application from outside the county of their residence. However, if they expect to be within the county during the absentee voting period, they are required to vote in person at the Clerk's office.

The new law assures more secrecy of the absentee voter's ballot by mail. Now, the voter himself will detach the signed stub, seal his ballot in a plain and unidentifiable envelope, then place the stub and the sealed ballot envelope in a larger envelope. The sealed ballot envelope would then be deposited by the election judges in the ballot box and would not be opened until the time for the counting of ballot.

There are other provisions to the recent election law changes, but these are the major ones pertaining to the voter.

Not as Judge or Jury

● The Shelby (Ky.) News:

The public is prone to forget the main idea behind news reporting as a service. When a reporter for a newspaper attends a trial in court, or the meeting of a local governing board, it is to get the essential facts and report them fairly and impartially. When he attends a political speaking he may be for the other candidate, but if he is a good newspaper man he will give a fair and unbiased account in print.

That is exactly what he is paid for; it is what subscribers have a right to expect when they contract with the paper to serve as their representative in obtaining news of public interest.

"Objectivity" is the two-dollar name for it. Fairness is another; truth is still a better one—if it's the whole truth. The philosopher said it in concise fashion — "with or without offense to friends or foes—I sketch the world exactly as it goes."

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where a jury says a former government worker must pay back $3,000 he got in wages for time he actually spent at an Elks Club playing cards.

My calculative neighbor says he figures Uncle Sam could pay off the national debt if he got back what he has paid his hired help recently for time they were drinking coffee, playing golf, just plain loafing, etc.

But says trying to collect this would likely throw the Un-American Activities Committee into a fit, being as there is hardly any activity as un-American as wanting more than 30 minutes' work for an hour's pay.

I see where lots of folks feel sorry for comedian Bud Abbott on account of the internal revenuers are fixing to take everything he has got to settle up his back taxes.

My sympathetic neighbor says it is mighty tough for a man to be tax-broke after being up on the hog for so many years.

Says it might even be unconstitutional, under the ban on cruel and unusual punishment, being as the usual government treatment is to take a man's money away from him before it can spoil him with high living.

I see where there is considerable outcry about lots of U.S. productts getting priced out of the world market.

My world-fixer neighbor says we might get some of this business back by giving trading stamps, but he figures what is really wrong is that our salesmen are not singing their messages to foreign customers.

Says singing commercials sell lots of high-priced stuff in the U. S., and have even sold his 3-year-old son on the relaxing and other beneficial virtues of beer.

I see where the President has been giving doctors a good talking-to about keeping their fees reasonable.

But my realist neighbor says reasonableness is an unreliable price gauge, being as what looks reasonable always depends on whether you are paying it or somebody else.

And says people naturally come in different reasonability sizes, like the $7,500 a year he paid for tending the White House yard likely seemed reasonable to Pres. Harry, while $45,000 for the same job don't blow Pres. Ike's reasonable fuse.

I see where the Supreme Court says it is all right even in a Southern state, to hold back a citizen from voting just because he can't read and write.

But my third-grade-graduate neighbor says lots of smart people can't write. Says even the boys who got up our Constitution couldn't write very good, or it wouldn't have taken all these years for a Supreme Court to come along that could understand what they meant.

And he thinks a citizen who can't read ought to make a superior voter, on account of not being so confused.

More car than this Impala Sport Coupe is hard to find at any price.

clings to curves like a cat on a carpet!
the travel-lovin' Chevrolet

Nothing else but a dyed-in-the-wool sports car like the Corvette can take a turn with such solid assurance!

It's easy to see where Chevrolet gets its road sense. With big coil springs at every wheel, a firm, wider stance and all of its pounds distributed with painstaking care, Chevy's born with it.

The only thing that may be hard to understand is how it can offer the ride it does, along with so many other luxury-car virtues, and still compete in the low-price field.

We use the word compete only in the sense of price. For with a ride as special as Chevy's, real competitors are hard to come by. There's a world of difference between Chevrolet's coil springs at all four wheels and the leaf springs that most other cars still use. Take a Chevy down a snaky back road and you'll feel the difference in the sure way it holds through curves and shoots over rough spots with hardly a ripple.

This one's really made to travel and loves every minute of it.

Opal Camp of Dodson says she's retiring from teaching. When she married Walter and transferred from Texas to Oklahoma, she received the usual provisional certificate, and to make it permanent she'd have had to attend college this summer. "I just don't think I could go to school all summer, then start right in teaching," she explained.

The entire family of Wayne Prichard came down for his wedding to La Vena Murdock Friday, at First Methodist Church. Seated beside his father, R. E. Prichard of Canyon, were the groom's four sisters, Mrs. Duane Rudus and Mrs. Steve Self of Amarillo, Mrs. Carl Rucker of Tulia, and Mrs. George Knight of White Deer, along with their husbands. His brother, R. E. Prichard Jr. of Amarillo was best man. Only one missing was Mrs. Prichard Jr., who became ill only a few hours before the wedding and was taken to an Amarillo hospital with pneumonia. She's the attractive black haired girl whom a number here met in the receiving line at La Vena's shower.

While Mrs. Doshia Dix sat on her back steps shelling beans, three of her neighbors, Mrs. J. L. Burt, Mrs. Charley Donnell and Louise Wells came over with their lawn mowers and cut the grass in her front yard, without her ever guessing. 'I heard the mowers, but I thought they were in someone else yard," she said when she recovered from her surprise.

And this prompted Hester Stall, who is visiting here from Tyler to say: "To me, this is Wellington. I'd like to write a book about the good neighbors I knew in Wellington."

Farm Truck License Law Being Abused

Director D. T. Harkrider of the Texas Highway Department Motor Vehicle Division today urged owners of pickup trucks or other vehicles registered under special "farm truck" license privileges to check closely against possible violation of provisions of the Texas Motor Vehicle Law.

Harkrider said an investigation was planned on widespread abuse of a lower license rate provision for farm trucks. Under the law, bonafide farmers may register their trucks and other farm vehicles at a 50 percent fee reduction provided that such vehicles be used primarily in connection with farming pursuits and only essential family transportation. Persons registering vehicles as farm trucks must sign an affidavit attending to qualifications under the law.

Harkrider said the most widespread infringement has been by persons in rural areas who use farm trucks for transportation to non-farm employment. "Although a large number of people are unaware of it, the use of trucks bearing special Texas 'farm truck' plates for transportation to another job are as much in violation of the law as those using such trucks for commercial hauling," Harkrider said.

He added, however, that his department is "not anxious to prosecute innocent offenders who may have been wrongly informed as to restrictions accompanying the special farm plate," and said such persons can exchange their farm license plates for regular truck plates at County Tax Collecters' offices by paying the difference in registration cost, "provided they do so immediately." Harkrider said the Motor Vehicle Division will intensify investigation of violators "in two or three weeks."

Violation of the law is a misdemeanor offense, bearing a fine of from $25 to $200 upon conviction.

Harkrider said registration of vehicles as "farm trucks" had increased steadily since the legislature in 1957 set out defination of premissive use of such vehicles. Misinterpretation of that defination he said, has been the cause for widespread violation. Harkrider said re-orders for farm truck plates from tax collectors this year indicated a vast increase in such registration for 1959. He urged that persons "who know themselves to be in violation of the law immediately take steps to right a wrong to the vast majority of bona fide farmers who appropriately benefit from this law."

Flynn Praises Sales Class Held Here

Frances A. Flynn, who conducted a course in dynamics of selling here June 8 through 12 under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce and University of Texas, this week expressed his appreciation for the fine reception he received here. In a letter to Deskins Wells, retail-wholesale development chairman of the Chamber of Commerce, he said:

I wish to take this opportunity to thank you and your community for the cooperation and hospitality extended to me during my stay in Wellington.

Due to the large number of individuals enrolled in my class, it will be too difficult for me to write to each and everyone to thank them individual. I would appreciate it, therefore, if you would extend my thanks to them for making my stay with you so enjoyable.

I do hope the University will offer me the opportunity to return to your community in the future.

The Draft and You

(Editor's note: The draft has been extended for four years, until July 1, 1963. This means the nation's young men will continue the expectation to serve in the armed forces. This series of articles, based on an interview with Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, outlines the basic responsibilities and rights of young men under the draft law.)

Deferments — Exemptions

The information submitted to the local board may result in a registrant's being placed in either a deferred or an exempt class.

No deferment or exemption is permanent. These classifications end when the conditions on which they are based no longer exist in any individual case. There are no group or class deferments or exemptions. No deferment or exemption may be assigned except on the basis of individual status.

Exemptions and deferments also differ. Most deferments extend liability to age 35; exemptions do not. Exemptions are relatively permanent. Deferments are intended to be temporary. They are reviewed periodically and occupational deferments are limited to a maximum period of one year at a time.

Relatively few men without prior military service qualify for exemptions compared to the numbers who, for temporary periods at least, qualify for deferments.

As far as men without military service are concerned, the largest exempt group is made up of ministers of religion and theological students. Relatively small numbers are exempt as aliens or as sole surviving sons of families which have lost one or more sons and daughters in service.

On the other hand, deferments affect a great many men. Largest deferred group is that made up of men who are unacceptable to the Armed Forces—the IV-F registrants. Others may be deferred because their induction would result in extreme hardship to dependents; because they are engaged in study or occupations important to the national health, safety or interest; because they are satisfactory members of a Reserve component including the National Guard.

Two types of student deferments are provided. Deferment in Class II-S is for full-time students and usually is based on either a man's standing in his class or his score on a special test given each year throughout the Nation by the Selective Service System. Few undergraduate students seek this deferment because, with normal progress, a man may complete college before he reaches the age at which induction is imminent. The deferment is aso available to graduate students.

The other student deferment, designated Class I-S, is proved by law to permit a man to complete an academic year when he is ordered for induction during the school year. The deferment is available only once. It expires at the end of the academic year or when the student ceases to pursue a full-time course satisfactorily.

Occupational deferments are used, for example, to avoid aggravating the teacher shortage and to insure an adequate supply of scientific, engineering, and technical personnel in the defense effort or in activities vital to civilian society and the economy.

Hardship deferments require more than mere dependency. For instance, fathers have not been deferred for fatherhood by itself since August 25, 1953. It must be demonstrated to the local board that extreme hardship to bona fide dependents will result from induction.

Very few qualified men pass their 26th birthday in a deferred or exempt status. And remember, if such a man is deferred he remains liable to age 35.

The next article will discuss conscientious objectors and Standby Reservists.)

Deer and Bobcats

Wild Game Increases Through Dodson Area

Residents of the rural areas around Dodson are amazed this spring at the amount of wild game that is coming right up to their houses.

Mrs. Frank Ford found a bobcat in her back yard recently. It stayed long enough for her to get a gun, but by her own admission, she was so excited that although she shot several times, she never hit the cat.

A deer was grazing in R. J. Holland's pasture beside a barn when he went down in the early morning a few days ago. When it saw him, it jumped a fence and disappeared.

Mr. Holland has lived in the Dodson and Sandy areas for most of his 81 years and knew the county when wild game was abundant.

Three-fourths mile south, his son, Truitt Holland reported a covey of blue quail in his back yard.

In that area and around Wellington, more squirrels are reported than in many years.

Why this increase in wildlife? Truitt Holland, and others of that section, believe it is because many families have moved off their farms, and there is less to distrub game.

1901 Sale Bill Show Low Price of Cattle

Those were the days for the beef-eaters.

E. W. Bennett, who lives near Hollis, this week brought to The Wellington Leader a bill of sale on 24 head of cattle sold in the Kansas City Stockyards, September 18, 1901, which netted his father, Stewart Bennett, a profit of $314.46. The gross sale was $384.05.

The same poundage of top cattle would have sold in Wellington this week for $4,328.60.

The sale included 19 yearlings past that weighed 11,260 pounds and sold for $2.40 per hundred, a total price of $270.25.

A 1330 pound bull brought $2.25 per hundred or $29.92, while 4 cows weighing 3,290 ponuds sold for $2.55, or a total of $83.89.

Expenses were itemized.

Internal Revenue collected 4c—what for is not shown. Mr. Bennett paid $53.95 freight and $6.00 yardage. These 24 head of cattle ate a dollar and a half worth of hay while they waited to be sold, and the commission paid was $8.10, totaling $69.59.

A check with Wellington Livestock Commission showed that top yearlings sold in Wellington this week for about 32c per pound; top bulls, 22c and top cows, 20c.

Stewart Bennett was one of the earliest settlers around Arlie.

Mrs. Lessie Fegans

Washington Teacher Ends Long Career

Mrs. Lessie Fegans, a teacher in Booker T. Washington school 20 years, was honored recently at a party given by friends upon her retirement from her profession.

She had taught in Texas 38 years.

Mrs. Fegans and her husband, Ernest Fegans have bought a home in Oklahoma City, and they are moving here to be near their only child, Mrs. Rudolph Dawkins.

For the last ten years, Mrs. Fegans has taught first grade at Washington, but before she "taught from the eighth grade down," she says. She has bachelor of science and master of education degrees from Prairie View College.

It was her brother, the late Webb Washington, who suggested to Mrs. Fegans that she come to Wellington, as there was a vacancy in Washington School, which then had only two teachers.

She did her first teaching in a rural school in Falls County near Marlin, where she was born and grew up. Later she taught in other schools, including Marlin.

She and Fegans were married in 1922. After they came here, he drove a gas truck for a number of years for Lee Fortenberry and after he moved from Wellington, Fegans worked for Stevenson Implement Company until only a few years ago, when he retired.

The annex will form a wing to the north of the present building and it also will be of masonry block construction and fireproof throughout. The same style and lines will be carried out.

Upon completion of the wing, Smith Rest Home will have a 42 patient capacity, with the new section having six rooms for two patients each, and two rooms for one patient.

Smith Rest Home now draws its patients from a wide area, with one recently entering the home from Albuquerque, N. M. and another from Fort Worth.

Cost of the new wing will be about $10,000 Smith said.
