Gov. White sticks to sales tax hike

AUSTIN (AP) — Although many lawmakers say they prefer something other than a one-cent general increase in the sales tax to fund education reform, Gov. Mark White is sticking to that proposal.

White said Thursday he believes raising the sales tax from four cents on the dollar to five cents is a better approach than taxing some services which now are exempt.

"I just say my plan is one that I believe to be acceptable on the standards of fairness," White said.

Some lawmakers say the current 4 percent sales tax should be extended to such services as legal fees, entertainment costs, recreation and industrial utilities rather than raising the current tax.

White said that might unfairly penalize some people.

"For those people who will have exemptions removed, it amounts to a 5 (percent), in some cases 6 percent increase in their taxes," he said.

White said he might be willing to compromise on his $4.8 billion, three-year tax increase plan, which includes a doubling of the 5-cent-per-gallon gasoline tax, plus increases in the motor vehicle sales tax and cigarette and liquor taxes.

"My proposal is one I think would be hopefully easiest for the Legislature to deal with and one that has the least impact on any individual, any business. I think there are alternatives, certainly. I'm not going to foreclose some other suggestions," the governor said.

However, White said, he won't bend on the principles he sees as mandatory for education reform.

"There should be no compromise on the principles that we're seeking," he said, although there may be "room for differences in achieving those goals."

White has proposed higher pay for teachers, competency testing for teachers and students, a lengthy list of other reforms and an appointed state board of education to oversee the changes.

On the fourth day of the special legislative session he called, the governor said he isn't discouraged by lawmakers who say they oppose his tax increase plans.

"I have the feeling from talking to the speaker of the House (Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth) that he's going to make certain things get done in his House of Representatives. I have the distinct impression from the lieutenant governor (Bill Hobby) that things are going to get done in the Senate.

"I feel very confident they are prepared to take action on these programs," White said.

White also has proposed more efficient operation of state government to help control costs and keep the state from running up a spending deficit.

To advance that, he announced a program Thursday to give special management training to some 600 executives of state agencies, boards and commissions.

The program, operated by the governor's office, the University of Texas graduate business school and the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs will better equip the executives to deal with running a big operation, White said.

Q. — I can't find a number listed in the phone book for the Towle Park swimming pool. Have they taken the phone out?

A. — No, but county officials note that the telephone book listing was inadvertently left out this year. The swimming pool number is 573-9192. Staffers ask persons with questions regarding pool operation to call this number rather than the Towle Park main number.

In Brief

House wants state lottery

AUSTIN (AP) — Two lawmakers say a state lottery game could produce the right numbers to fund teacher pay raises, but other legislators and Gov. Mark White say the proposal faces long odds.

"I don't think the people of the state would support it," White said Thursday. "The prospect being a big winner in most of those lotteries is something like the prospects of getting struck by lightning seven times in a row."

White is looking for money for teacher pay hikes and other education reforms.

Houston Reps. Ron Wilson and Larry Evans told the House Ways and Means Committee on Thursday that a lottery could bring in much-needed millions through a "voluntary" tax.

Under the proposal — which would require voter approval of a constitutional amendment — the state would run a lottery that would produce revenue for teacher pay and, possibly, other items. Wilson predicted it could mean over $100 million a year for the state.

Mattox charges to stand

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox was turned down again today in his efforts to be released from a Travis County indictment that accuses him of commercial bribery.

State District Judge Mace B. Thurman denied a writ of habeas corpus in a brief five-minute hearing this morning.

Mattox' attorney, Roy Minton, immediately filed notice of appeal to the Third Court of Appeals in Austin.

"If we are granted relief in the appellate courts as we expect to be, then we will not have a trial," Minton said later.

Mattox told reporters that he had offered to sign a stipulation late Thursday for denial of the motion, but he said, "District Attorney Ronnie Earle wanted the publicity of holding a hearing today."

The motion was filed by Mattox's attorneys May 30 claiming he was "illegally restrained of his liberty" by what Mattox claims is a faulty indictment.

Allies should spend more

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate wants America's European allies to spend more on defense, but refuses to tie the Pentagon's budget to such increases.

A 91-3 vote Thursday asked that President Reagan "insist" that members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization fulfill a 1977 pledge that each NATO country increase its defense spending by 3 percent a year after inflation.

The non-binding proposal by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., also calls for "substantial increases" in defense spending by Japan, which is not a NATO member. The Japanese defense budget will increase 4.8 percent this year.

However, the Senate rejected, 76-16, a proposal by Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., which would have stopped the Pentagon from increasing its expenditures beyond the combined increases of the 15 other NATO members.

Cops search for kidnappers

CLEBURNE, Texas (AP) — Sheriff's deputies were combing southern Johnson County today for a man whose female partner allegedly robbed and kidnapped a woman and stuffed her into the trunk of her car.

The man was believed to be hiding in the woods of a 7,000-acre ranch with the 3-year-old daughter of his companion.

Probation follows plea

A 29-year-old Snyder man was placed on felony probation after pleading guilty to a charge of burglary with intent to commit theft in 132nd District Court this week.

Roberto Rodriquez had been indicted by the April session of the Scurry County grand jury for the March 15 burglary of the First Assembly of God Church

He pleaded guilty to the burglary charge in exchange for a 3-year probated prison term.

Approval given to hold ballot for cotton plan

Notification has been received approving a referendum election in Scurry County regarding an assessment at the gin for local cotton production.

This approval came from the office of Ag. Commissioner Jim Hightower, who had the option of denying the vote.

Area producers will now address the issue at the polls.

The vote will decide "for" or "against" assessing all cotton produced in Scurry County. In addition, candidates will be listed for a 10-member commodity board who will oversee the program if approved.

Fred Cross, president of the Scurry County Producer's Association, said Friday that details of the election are still to be worked out.

He said, however, that it is likely no vote will be conducted prior to Sept. 1.

Once approval is granted, the requesting group — in this case the association — has 120 days to call the election.

A public hearing regarding the request was conducted May 11 in Austin.

At that session, 13 representatives of the Scurry County Producer's Association spoke in favor of the request.

In addition, a resolution signed by 10 area farmers was also presented. It spoke against the proposal.

All Scurry County producers will be eligible to vote in the ballot. A producer is defined as someone who either owns or works land used for production.

Supporters of the plan say the cotton assessment will finance such projects as a diapause spray program to control infestations of boll weevils.

Moving from South Texas...

Librarian begins July 1

The Scurry County Library will receive a new head librarian effective July 1 as Janice Mitchell moves here with her family from Comfort in South Texas.

She has been in Snyder this week "house hunting." Mitchell will replace longtime librarian Mary Nell Bullard, who retired this spring.

The new librarian said Thursday she has one basic philosophy regarding her job, "something for everyone."

"We're here as a service," she explained. "We want to attract patrons who may not realize what we have to offer and we want to strive to offer what our patrons need."

Since she will be new to Snyder and the Scurry County Library, she realizes she will need time to study what the library does and does not offer.

"The staff has been so friendly and have made me feel so welcome that I think it will be easy and pleasant to work with them," she said.

She and her family now live in Comfort which is near San Antonio. Her husband, Harry, is presently involved with the construction of new homes. He is also involved in woodworking activities.

They have three children: Kim, 8; Chris, 7; and Leslie, 1.

The Mitchells are both native Texans and she was raised in Dallas.

She received a bachelor's degree in American Studies from Scripps College in California. She studied a combination of anthropology and literature.

She obtained a masters degree in library science from the University of Denver.

For the past few years she has not worked outside the home. Previously, she worked at public libraries in San Antonio and Fredericksburg.

Being a librarian seems to be "in the blood" as both her mother and sister have been librarians. "I was raised in a library," she said.

Hance-Doggett recount Monday

County Democratic Chairman Gene Bowlin announced Friday that the recount for the U.S. Senate race between Kent Hance and Lloyd Doggett will be conducted for Scurry County next Monday.

Bowlin said the recount will take place beginning at 9 a.m. in the county court jury room.

Attorney's for both candidates have been notified and are expected to have observers present.

After the ballot was counted last Saturday, Hance had carried Scurry County by a substantial margin. The vote here was 2,135 for Hance and 355 for Doggett.

The certified vote statewide has Doggett leading Hance 489,927 to 489,460 — a margin of only 467 votes.

It is said to be the closest senate race in 36 years. In 1948, Lyndon B. Johnson won a U.S. Senate seat over former Gov. Coke Stevenson by an 87 vote margin — an election that has since prompted charges of voter fraud due to contested boxes in Duvall County.

Parents say...

Hospital nixed care without money

WALLISVILLE, Texas (AP) — The Chambers County sheriff's department is investigating a family's claim that a toddler choked to death after officials at Chambers Memorial Hospital demanded payment before treating the child.

The 14-month-old girl died Sunday en route to a Galveston hospital.

Sheriff C.E. Morris said his department still is gathering facts.

"Then we'll talk with the district attorney, who will decide whether to have a grand jury review," Morris said. "It's difficult to prove criminal negligence. Something like this may have to be settled in civil court."

A hospital administrator said Wednesday that the couple left "of their own free will" after talking with a nurse's aide.

The baby, Carrie Ann Banks, died on the way to John Sealy Hospital in Galveston. The girl's funeral was scheduled today in Wallisville.

"They did me dirty," said the child's father, Elva Banks, 65. "The nurse said we needed to have cash money, and I told her we didn't have enough. So she said, 'I'm sorry, but that's all we can do.'"

Hospital Adminstrator Dean Boebinger denied that the child, who was not examined by a nurse or a doctor, was refused treatment. He said the nurse's aide, Helen Heiman, was only stating the hospital policy.

"There was never a statement made that, 'If you don't pay, we won't treat you,'" Boebinger said.

Had a doctor determined it was an emergency, the child would have been treated immediately no matter what the family's financial status, Boebinger said.

Justice of the Peace John McAdams, who ordered an autopsy, said he was told by a medical examiner that the bean could have been in the girl's throat as long as a day and a half.

Moisture may have caused the bean to swell, blocking the throat, he said.

"He (the examiner) said if anybody would have even looked down her throat they would have seen it," McAdams said.

The child was playing with her 2-year-old brother Sunday when she suddenly ran out of the room, choking and gagging, Banks said. Banks said his daughter apparently found the bean in a drawer.

"I used to grow beans 20 years ago, and there must have been one left in a drawer," said Banks, a retired truck driver.

The family lives in a ramshackle house and relies on his Social Security benefits and extra money he earns picking up cans along the roadside or raising chickens.

Banks said he rushed his daughter to Chambers Memorial, only a few miles away, where a nurse's aide told him nothing was wrong.

"She argued with me and told me the baby hadn't swallowed nothing. But there lay my baby, coughing and crying and sounding hoarse," he said.

"She said they couldn't do nothing for us. So we left," said the child's mother, Mary Frances Banks, 32.

The girl's condition began to improve later, and Mrs. Banks gave her a bottle. After sipping a little milk, the baby struggled to breathe and then passed out, the family said.

The Bankses got in their car and started to drive to Galveston, about 60 miles south of their home, but had a flat tire on the way. They called an ambulance, which took the child to a hospital in Winnie, about 35 miles east of their home. The little girl was pronounced dead on arrival.

Mrs. Heiman refused to comment on the matter. But in a statement to investigators, she said the baby "did not appear to be in respiratory distress."

According to nurse Jeanette Clements, a doctor was walking down the hall to examine the child when the Bankses left. Mrs. Heiman did not recall whether she told the family that a doctor was coming.

Supplies dwindling...

Should regulate water

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — Local water districts must take the lead in regulating West Texas' dwindling water supply or face the possibility of state and federal officials doing the job, the state's chief water planner says.

"We can take a regulatory approach, or we can take a consultant approach where someone comes to town, borrows your watch, tells you what time it is and keeps the watch," said Herb Grubb, chief planner for the Texas Department of Water Resources.

Grubb said he would like to see all the ground water regions in the area merged into one, large district.

Grubb made his remarks to scientists and conservationists attending the Ogallala Aquifer Symposium II in Lubbock, which ended Thursday.

After a session Wednesday, Grubb said large water districts that cover entire water formations is the only alternative to state or federal regulation.

"I think those districts would allow the people who use the water to make wise choices without a regulatory barrier," Grubb said. "I think people generally are resistant to regulation, even if regulators are trying to accomplish the same things they are."

State Rep. J.W. "Buck" Buchanan, D-Dumas, introduced a bill during the last regular session of the Texas Legislature calling for just such an organization of water districts. The measure failed, but Grubb said he would like to see the effort pursued.

Once those districts are formed, Gubb said a state agency probably would be created to regulate individual water districts. Such an agency would not directly regulate water consumers and would prevent federal intervention, he said..

"The regulation would be to assure that the same rules applied to all districts. The next step would be to have each of the districts work and plan toward a means of more efficient water use," Grubb said.

After the initial planning phase, Grubb said he would like to see districts begin to search for alternate supplies of water. Such an effort would involve costly research, he warned.

"Districts will need to set aside money and other resources for research," he said. "They may need to set up a tax district and have the district take in tax revenues to fund the research."

First Baptists set 'Runaway'

"Runaway," a musical-drama based on Onesimus, a character in the New Testament book of Pilemon, will be presented at 7 p.m. this Sunday at First Baptist Church.

Sound Foundation, the youth choir of the church, will be performing this work as a conclusion of their Texas tour. The group just returned home Saturday from the tour in which they performed the musical each evening.

Onesimus, a runaway slave, is played by Brad Vincent. Other cast members include Anna, played by Lori Sealy and Paul the Apostle, played by Lance Aldridge. Approximately 30 other youth round out the cast and chorus.

"Runaway" is 45 minutes of action-packed drama and music featuring a wide variety of musical styles. The back drops and sets were made by cast members and church members.

Sound Foundation, under the direction of Jerry Neill, minister of music, and Young Adults at First Baptist Church, has toured extensively over the past several years in Texas, New Mexico, Colorado, Arkansas, and Missouri.

There is no charge for admission and the public is cordially invited to attend.

LAFF-A-DAY

"I'm sorry, folks, but he refuses to do anything cute today."

Paul Harvey

If our school-agers are less than 101 percent patriotic, little wonder.

News media emphasis on negatives distorts the image of our nation and its prospects.

And their textbooks in school are as bad or worse.

A new book published by the Hudson Institute is titled: WHY ARE THEY LYING TO OUR CHILDREN?

The book quotes from scores of textbooks now in use in our public schools, citing information that is out-of-date, flawed, distorted or downright untrue.

"Sixty-six percent of the world's people go to bed hungry every night."

"The world's population has been doubling every 35 years."

"The greenhouse effect will melt the polar ice caps, destroy civilization."

"Within our lifetime, a severe shortage of food, fuel and water."

Each of these statements — quoted from a school textbook — is misguided, misleading or wrong.

If our school-agers see their future as bleak, it may be because their assumptions, their judgment and their emotions have been fed a diet of intellectual junk-food, more distressing than nourishing.

Ecological doomsayers cannot know what they are talking about. Norman Cousins says, "No man knows enough to be a pessimist."

Yet when their dark theories are printed as fact in textbooks, malleable young minds are understandably disturbed.

Son Paul's REST OF THE STORY stories recite history in chronological sequence. He admonishes his researchers always to seek two independent sources for every fact and, in sensitive subjects, three.

"Independent sources," because some historians are willing to parrot other historians, a practice which can compound the circulation of erroneous information.

Some schools have been accepting Thomas Malthus' "Essay on the Principle of Population" 1798 as gospel — though his persuasive notions relating to projected population and "famine and starvation" have already disproved themselves.

Follet's World Geography (1983) similarly miscalculated.

In 1972 the Club of Rome, widely quoted on global problems, anticipated what sounded like "the decline and fall of the American Empire." The ominous predictions had a profound effect on our national psyche.

Two years later the Club of Rome had already modified its findings, but the earlier doomsaying is what still gets quoted.

The Hudson Institute's evaluation of all the dire predictions indicts today's schoolbooks as "a curriculum of lies."

Textured fabrics, new styles create sophisticated mood

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

Judging from the upholstered furniture shown at a recent national furniture market in High Point, N.C., the long-time ascendancy of solid color velvets is on the wane.

Velvet is still the best-selling fabric, but patterned velvets or those which combine several colors are gaining, as are woven fabrics in general and more heavily textured fabrics in particular.

Leather, often in pastel shades or in deep jewel tones, is covering more sofas and chairs in higher-priced furniture. While more expensive than other upholstery fabrics, leather is popular because of its longer life, durability and easy care, according to Fred Isenhower, vice president of Drexel Heritage Furnishings Inc.

Dressy sofas and chairs in silk and silk-look fabrics were shown at all price ranges. These pieces often feature dressmaker details such as ruffles, flounces and skirt pleats, as well as interesting pillow and arm treatments.

Continuing a trend noted last year, important colors for upholstery in showrooms such as Drexel's, Thayer Coggin, Baker, Bernhardt and Swaim were: black; black and white in combination; gray and grayed pastels; deep jewel tones such as ruby red and emerald green; and almost every imaginable shade of purple from softest lavender to deep mauve.

Aware of the sales appeal of sofas that can be sometimebeds, manufacturers continued to offer new ideas for convertibles.

At the market, where retailers from across the country select new furniture styles for sale next season, sofa beds were well represented.

One manufacturer showed a chair and two loveseats that employ the principles of flip-out foam in a conventionally-made piece. The furniture also conceals a storage compartment for bedding in its base and will sell for $300 or $400 depending on size and fabric selected, according to Schweiger Furniture, its maker.

If brass beds are on your shopping list, be aware that new Art Deco styles are being offered by several manufacturers. These pieces, imported from Italy and less ornate than the traditional styles, feature sweeping curvilinear forms. Since they use less brass, some of the new beds are less expensive than the traditional styles.

One manufacturer, for example, placed retail prices at between $1,400 and $1,900 for an Art Deco bed frame in its line, while the more traditional styles sell for $2,000 and up.

Victorian-looking white metal beds were also shown by several manufacturers, who noted that in the southeast and southwest these white metal beds are eclipsing brass in popularity.

A category of furniture that is very useful — but in the past not particularly well-styled — is dinette or, as it is now called, casual dining furniture. "Dinette" could hardly describe some of the offerings at this market.

One group designed by Ron Watson for Chromcraft and named "Pave," for example, employs clear and frosted glass, lighting, mahogany and the techniques of etching and sand blasting on the glass.

Pieces in the group, besides the usual tables and chairs, include an opaque glass screen, a credenza and lighted cabinets. They would be at home in a sophisticated environment in city or suburb, but would hardly be appropriate in the kitchen.

Another dinette manufacturer showed a new line of white laminate tables with soft "sherbet" colors as accents. A dining piece introduced by Daystrom is an all-in-one round table with six round seats radiating off the table's pedestal base on poles.

The piece which the company calls a "carousel" has the advantage of providing seating for six in a small space since the seats are already attached. In addition, the design would be at home in a number of rooms besides the kitchen, including a sun porch, family room or den.

According to Jerry Baker of Daystrom, the carousel will sell for about $400. The company built the piece originally as a retail display to attract attention to a dinette section. "But when we saw how great it looked, we immediately changed our minds," said Baker.

These two collections are both good illustrations of the fact that many traditional distinctions are breaking down in the furniture industry. There used to be two different dining product categories: formal wood dining room furniture and inexpensive informal dinette furniture.

As rooms get smaller and dining rooms disappear or are converted to other uses, there is a need developing for a new type of dining furniture that is appropriate and functions well in a living room, foyer, or the family room which many people now set up for dining.

Try candlewicking

By Joanne Schreiber

One of the oldest needlework arts is enjoying a healthy revival. It is candlewicking — the technique of embroidery on muslin that is fun, attractive, versatile and portable.

This particular needle art began in 17th century England. The women embroidered white twilled linen bedspreads with clustered fruits and flowers made in small French knots and stemwork, using cord that was laid and couched.

This knotted work traveled to America, where colonial women took the leftover thread used for the wicks of candles and worked these threads into embroidery stitches. These designs were fashioned into bedspreads, curtains and pillows.

Do candlewicking embroidery on cloth that will shrink when washed. The shrinkage is important to tighten and to embellish the embroidery stitches.

To bring the old art of candlewicking to contemporary craftspersons, Dritz has brought out a series of 12 candlewicking kits, with the added dimension of color yarns. Each kit contains squares of natural cotton muslin, natural cotton candlewicking thread, a tapestry needle, plus pattern and instructions.

To candlewick a muslin square, transfer the pattern design using a washable marker. Place fabric in an embroidery hoop. Follow directions for French knots and split stem stitches, remembering not to leave the fabric in the hoop or the needle in the fabric when you are not working on the design.

After the stitching is completed, soak the work in cold water to remove the pen marks. Then place the design in hot water to shrink the fabric and tighten the stitches. Press the fabric with a warm iron, with the design face down on a padded surface to prevent crushing the stitches.

Once a square is finished, there are all sorts of things you can do with it. Mount it on a colored backing for a wall hanging; turn three backed squares into a wall organizer with pockets; join squares to make a fashion-right shawl; make a sturdy summer purse, tote or drawstring bag; make round, square or bolster pillows; join squares to make a floor pillow; use as appliance covers; make traditional curtains, placemats and bedspreads.

Washability is built into a candlewicked project, so it's easy to keep household items clean and fresh.

If you are looking for a new, portable summer craft, try candlewicking. Inexpensive kits are available at needlework shops everywhere.

AN OLD CRAFT brought up to date is candlewicking. Kits available in needlework stores offer a portable summer activity. (Kits by Dritz.)

Reducing the risk of stroke

Stroke is the third leading cause of death in the United States. A stroke can occur when an artery supplying blood to a part of the brain is blocked or ruptured. Fatrich plaque, blood clots and cell debris carried by the bloodstream can all cause stroke. More than 1.7 million Americans have survived strokes and many of them live with serious handicaps. Stroke affects mainly older people, more women than men, more blacks than whites. So older black women have the highest risk.

What about your risks? Age is the strongest one. With each successive year, the risk becomes greater until past the fifties, when it becomes a considerable likelihood.

Another Key Factor

High blood pressure, even when it is only slightly elevated, is a serious risk. "There's no question that controlling high blood pressure lowers an individual's risk of stroke," says O.M. Reinmuth, M.D., chairman of AHA's Council on Stroke. Physicians usually become concerned when blood pressure reaches a reading of 160 systolic (pumping pressure) over 90 diastolic (resting pressure), he says.

Adds Dr. Reinmuth, a neurologist from Pittsburgh, PA: "High blood pressure seems to have a more damaging effect on the brain's blood vessels than it does on blood vessels in other parts of the body, although it injures all of them. High blood pressure is the essential causative factor in primary brain hemorrhage."

Heart disease is another major risk. Clots that form in the heart can travel through the circulation and become lodged in an artery leading to the brain, causing stroke. Diabetes is also a risk. Dr. Reinmuth explains: "Patients with diabetes are subject to higher levels of abnormal fatty materials in the blood which predispose them to 'hardening of the arteries.' " High blood sugar and changing levels of blood sugar may tend to damage cells in the walls of small blood vessels. Other stroke risks include a diet high in saturated fat and cholesterol, cigarette smoking, and the consumption of large amounts of alcohol. Heavy drinkers are usually heavy smokers.

O.M. Reinmuth, M.D.

Changing Lifestyle

Another risk factor under study is a high red blood cell count — suspect because it may lead to abnormal blood clotting. Overall, Dr. Reinmuth concludes, "Risk factors identify facts and features of one's health and lifestyle that can be improved to reduce the probability of stroke or premature death."

One of the first things an aspiring player should learn is how to play six to the A-K-J-10 opposite two in dummy. The right way is to take a first-round finesse.

Suppose you lose to a singleton queen. That's too bad, but if you start by cashing the ace or king, you will lose if left-hand opponent has one or two low cards, since right-hand opponent will get his queen. Thus the ace play is inferior to the finesse by a ratio of two to one. If you hold five in your hand and three in dummy, again your correct play is to start with the finesse.

Sometimes even the greatest players in the world go wrong on this play. Today's hand was played by one of the greatest players of all time. No, it wasn't a Jacoby.

He won the club lead in dummy and promptly led the nine of trumps and played his ace. His next play was a diamond to the ace, and then came the spade finesse. It won when West showed out, but he was down one.

Our expert didn't make any excuse for his play. All he said was, "I am a first-class idiot."

Reagan, other leaders meet

LONDON (AP) — President Reagan and leaders of six other major industrialized nations sat down for talks today at an economic summit immediately overshadowed by political concerns, including terrorism, arms control and the deep chill in East-West relations.

Motorcades brought presidents, prime ministers, foreign ministers and finance ministers to Lancaster House, a 19th century British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, host London, for the first formal summit session in a gilded room decorated in ornate style of Louis XV.

Economic issues were to dominate the first meeting, but before the summit ends Saturday the leaders will decide whether to make a statement on troublesome political issues facing the democratic alliance, according to U.S. and other officials who briefed reporters late Thursday.

Sources from the British delegation said officials had been instructed Thursday to work into the night to prepare a statement which would be presented today to leaders of the United States, Britain, Canada, Japan, West Germany, France and Italy.

If there was agreement on a draft text, it would probably be published Saturday when the summit ends.

A U.S. official, speaking anonymously, said five possible topics could be included: arms control, the situation in the Persian Gulf, East-West relations, international terrorism, and relations between rich and poor nations.

Mrs. Thatcher was said to be seeking a tough stand on controlling state-sponsored terrorism. French officials, however, made it clear they would oppose any statement on terrorism that would "make international law."

But Michel Vauzelle, a spokesman for Prime Minister Francois Mitterrand, said France would not object to a statement reiterating democratic values.

Some officials here attributed interest in a political statement partly to the emotional ceremonies many of the leaders attended in France on Wednesday, the 40th anniversary of the D-Day landings in Normandy. The Allied invasion on June 6, 1944, marked the beginning of the end of the Nazi Reich.

"From time to time, it's worth reminding ourselves about the kind of society you live in," said a British official, who also spoke on condition he not be identified.

Canadian sources said Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau had offered his own version of a political statement on East-West relations.

Midday prices were unchanged to $3.85 a bale lower than the previous close. Jul 82.45, Aug b79.50, Oct 77.65, Dec 75.10, Mar 76.45, May b77.25, Jul b77.30 and Oct b75.30.

Soviet Union supplying Iraq with new missiles

By The Associated Press

The Soviet Union has supplied Iraq with sophisticated missiles capable of hitting Iran's main Persian Gulf oil terminal at Kharg Island and targets deep inside Iran, according to a foreign diplomat in Iraq.

The Baghdad-based diplomat said Iraq recently received shipments of Soviet-made AS-4, AS-5 and AS-6 guided missiles, along with shipments of modified surface-to-surface SS-12 missiles.

"The new AS missiles can easily score hits in Kharg Island and, if launched by the supersonic bombers, can reach any vital Iranian economic facility," the diplomat said Thursday, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Iraqi President Saddam Hussein said May 23 that his country would "soon acquire new weapons capable of striking at Iranian economic targets deep inside Iran," but he did not identify the weapons.

Iraqi officials reached by The Associated Press refused comment on the diplomat's report.

NBC News reported Thursday night that Iraq had ordered 5,000 cluster bombs from Chile. Each 500-pound bomb, made with U.S. parts and technology, explodes into 240 smaller "bomblets" that can spread fire and shrapnel over an area the size of 10 football fields, NBC said.

Communiques issued Thursday by Iran and Iraq said 54 people were killed when the two countries bombed each other's cities Thursday and shelled border regions.

In Taif, Saudi Arabia, oil ministers of the Arab gulf nations were to hold an emergency meeting today to discuss threat of attacks on tankers in the gulf. Both Iran and Iraq have attacked commercial ships in the region.

Iraqi pilots have damaged more than a score of ships in the gulf near Iran in an attempt to halt Iran's oil exports and thus cripple its ability to continue the 45-month war.

Iran also has attacked ships and has threatened to close the Strait of Hormuz, the entrance to the gulf. Nearly 20 percent of the non-communist world's oil passes through the strait.

In a Radio Tehran broadcast Thursday, Iran threatened to make the entire gulf region "insecure" if its oil interests are jeopardized.

A senior U.S. official in London, who briefed reporters at the seven-nation economic summit, said President Reagan believes Iran is incapable of closing off the gulf

Report taken for assault

Snyder police are investigating a misdemeanor assault complaint filed late Thursday night.

A Snyder man reported to police around 11:30 p.m. Thursday that he had been assaulted by another man at North Park earlier in the evening.

Investigation of the incident is continuing.

In other action, city officers arrested four suspects for public intoxication and one for DWI and unlawfully carrying a weapon Thursday night.

Cotton plan now due vote

As proposed, the maximum assessment in the county would be one cent per pound of baled cotton.

Supporters note this is a maximum figure, estimating that from ¼ to ½ cent a pound is a likely figure here.

A final figure would be established by the 10-member commodity board.

Coal ash drives people away

MONTICELLO, Texas (AP) — The 60 residents of this East Texas community may have to leave their homes if officials of coal-fired electric plant do not solve pollution problems, the town's mayor says.

City officials say the pollution is caused from smokestacks and from blowing ash from waste disposal sites at the plant, which is owned by Texas Utilities Generating Co.

Company officials, however, say the plant is in compliance with state standards and is not a health hazard.

Residents have complained of sore eyes and respiratory problems. Many have moved away, while others are encouraging the utility to buy their properties so they can afford to leave.

"What are we going to do, all sit here and die?" asked Mayor Harold Smith, 61. "They (Texas Utilities) should clear out a three-or-four mile radius around the plant.

"It's reached the point where we absolutely can't stand it anymore," Smith said. "There's not a one of us that's not stopped up, sinuses bad, and with kids that can't breathe."

Smith said the problem has become so bad that he believes the town's 60 residents will be forced to move.

In April, a state inspector tested the air near Joey Patterson's home and found that blowing dust from the plant's ash disposal site was at levels nearly 15 times the amount considered safe under state law, according to Texas Air Control Board data.

Another resident, Mike White, who has lived in Monticello since 1976, said his son's asthma has worsened since they moved to the area.

"You can see it pouring out of the stacks every day," said White. "We have special filters on our air conditioner, but it doesn't help much."

White said that the family will be forced to move unless his son shows signs of recovery.

Other families living near the plant say the pollution is damaging their health. Eighteen families have signed a petition asking company officials to buy their properties so they can afford to leave.

Although company officials say they have no evidence that anyone's health is in jeopardy, they have spent $250,000 in recent months to control the blowing dust.

"We feel like we have maintained compliance with applicable standards," plant manager Ned Baker said. "We have continued to do that all along."

Before the tests for blowing ash were conducted, company officials and the Texas Air Control Board had maintained that the 750-megawatt power plant was in compliance with air-quality standards.

After the tests, however, the TACB declared the ash a nuisance and ordered the problem corrected, said Richard Leard, TACB regional director in Tyler.

Leard said that stronger action, including a fine, may be taken later.

The plant's three generating units burn lignite coal, a cheap, dirty fuel strip-mined from more than 15,000 acres leased by the company around the facility.

Only one of the units is equipped with emission control devices. The two older units are exempt from the stricter standards under the Texas Clean Air Act because construction started before 1971. Because of that, the units are allowed to discharge three times as much ash and 2½ times as much sulfur dioxide, according to the TACB.

Smith and other residents believe that smokestack emissions as well as blowing ash are responsible for their problems.

Even the head of the state Public Utility Commission has questions about the plant's emission controls.

"I'm tired of hearing they're not violating the law," said Alan Erwin, chairman of the PUC, which grants licenses for new plants. "If they're not violating the law, and these people are suffering dust pneumonia and leaving the land they've lived on all their lives, then something's wrong with the law."

Couple retrieves part of destroyed art collection

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A couple who retrieved part of the reported $1 million art collection destroyed by industrialist Cullen Davis were told that the jade and ivory pieces are "decorative stuff" that "probably was made in Taiwan."

Davis and evangelist James Robison, to whom Davis had donated the art, destroyed the collection in 1982. At the time Robison described the art as "an abomination to the Lord."

The two men smashed the collection and dumped the pieces in Lake Worth, located north of Fort Worth.

Davis was acquitted of a capital murder charge in the 1976 slaying of his stepdaughter, who was killed during a shooting spree at his mansion. He later was acquitted of plotting to have his divorce judge killed.

On Sunday, an airman stationed at Carswell Air Force Base and his fiancee went fishing on the shores of Lake Worth.

The couple said something just above the water caught the woman's eye. They reported pulling fragments of carved green stone, shards of ivory, chunks of lapis lazuli, lumps of malachite and pieces of painted porcelain from the lake.

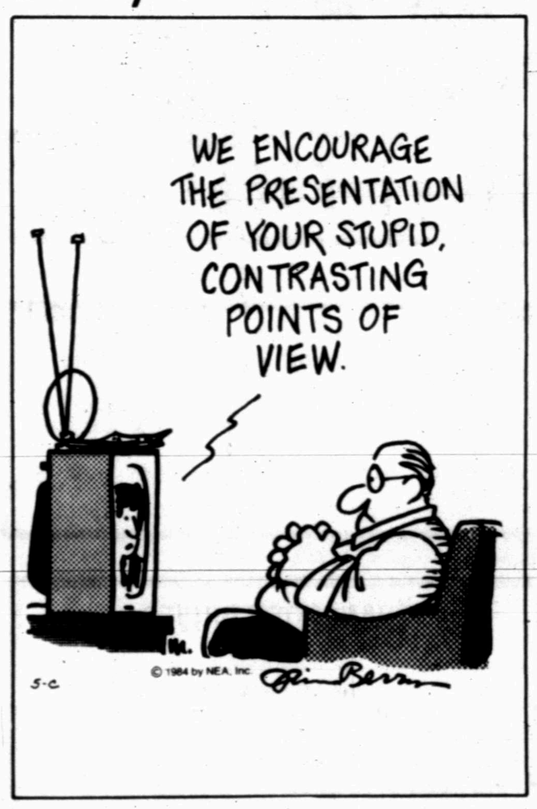

Hoping what they had found was valuable, the two returned to the lake Monday and collected more fragments, which they took to the Fort Worth Museum of Science and History and then to the Kimbell Museum.

Emily Sano, curator of Asian art at the Kimbell Museum and considered one of the foremost scholars of Oriental art in America, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, that "judging from these fragments, this stuff was never of any real aesthetic or religious value whatsoever."

She said no desecration ever occurred because there was nothing to desecrate.

" I hope that whoever bought this didn't think he was buying great art; this is decorative stuff, the Oriental equivalent of Dresden figurines or Spode vases," she said. "It isn't old. It was made early in this century. This isn't even real jade; it's what's commonly called, 'spinach jade.' All of this probably was made in Taiwan."

Exercising too much

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm an 18-year-old man, 5 feet 7 inches tall and weigh 110 pounds. I don't wish to be fat but I'd like to put on at least 30 pounds. I'd like to be around 135 to 140 pounds.

I'm a very athletic person and that probably explains why I'm not gaining weight because I exercise a lot. I lift weights every night. I don't overdo it but I would like to put on some muscle.

I'm not what you would call skinny but I'd like to have a nice-looking body and not look like a stick. Please send me the Health Letter 5-4, Weight Training for Energy and Weight Control.

DEAR READER — You may indeed be exercising too much to grow or develop large and strong muscles. When you develop muscles your body has to manufacture muscle protein. That's done by hooking together the right combination of amino acids. When your muscles are working they stop forming new muscle protein. All their energy is directed toward the work they must do. That's the main reason why a good weight-training program is usually limited to a workout three days a week, with a day of rest between each workout. During that rest your muscles are busy manufacturing new muscle protein.

You need to be sure you consume enough calories to meet the energy demands of your body. The calories can be from carbohydrates or fat. If you consume as much as 100 grams of quality protein a day and your exercise program is properly designed, you should be able to develop your muscle size and strength.

I'm sending you the health letter you requested. It will give you more details that you need to follow. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551 Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Good muscle size helps to prevent obesity. The muscles use more energy even at rest than fat tissue. Once you've developed good muscles you can usually maintain them by working out once a week.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm 18 and have seen two doctors about trichomoniasis. It first started when I was 14. I noticed it before I started menstruation. I've been to two doctors since then but neither have done any good. They are certain that it's trichomoniasis, but I'm not so sure. They say there are signs of greenish-yellowish discharge, itching vulva and offensive odor.

But I don't itch and there's no real odor. I have a yellowish discharge and it was greenish for a while, but slowly disappeared.

I've just about given up. All I want to know is how to get rid of it. I'm due for another examination soon and I know they will say the same thing.

DEAR READER — Trichomoniasis is one of the most common causes for a vaginal discharge. It's caused by a parasite, not a germ. It not only lives in the vagina but can infect the bladder and lower bowel.

It's not just a parasite in women either. That's the reason for many treatment failures. Men have trichomoniasis, too. When a woman is sexually active, to eliminate the problem both she and her partner must be treated. Otherwise as soon as she is cured she simply gets reinfected. By the way, it's easily diagnosed from the discharge so your doctors are probably correct.

Dear Abby

Army Wife Shares Secrets Of a Family on the March

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: The letter from "Unhappy in Minnesota," the woman who was so upset about the moving required by her husband's job, really struck a nerve with me. It's a good thing she didn't marry a career Army man (or Navy, Air Force or Marine, for that matter)!

My husband is a career soldier. I've always joked that we've stayed married so long because he was never home long enough to fight with.

In 15 years, we've moved 11 times. Four of these moves were trans-Atlantic moves, and he was around to help with only one of them. Our daughter went to three different kindergartens, four elementary schools, two middle schools, and she will attend at least two different high schools. (Not unusual for Army families.)

While I'm never thrilled with the thought of another move, I've learned a lot from all the moves we've made. I turned the negatives into positives.

Rule 1: Laugh a lot. No humorist could possibly invent stories as funny as the ones we've experienced. Besides, moving a lot keeps your closets cleaned out.

Rule 2: Don't view it as "leaving," view it as "going to." We have a lifetime filled with friends and experiences we never would have accumulated had we stayed put.

Rule 3: Don't wait for a new community to provide you with what you want. Get out and find it. If it's not there, create it. No job in the community? Start your own business—a nursery school or baby-sitting service. And don't turn your nose up at volunteer work. How about the shelter for battered women, the PTA, a political party, church work or even a car pool? It's a good way to be accepted and welcome in a new community.

Rule 4: Remember, "home" is an attitude. Wherever we are together is "home." My attitude sets the tone of every move. If I am enthusiastic, my family will be. A positive attitude is not always easy to assume, but it's a must.

How are my children doing? Both are straight-A students, our house overflows with their friends, and a list of their combined activities would fill another page.

My marriage? Terrific!

So tell "Unhappy" to get it together. She's not alone. Nobody claims that moving a lot is easy, but it can be fantastically rewarding.

NANCY E., ARMY WIFE,
FORT HOOD, TEXAS

DEAR NANCY: Thanks for a wonderful letter. Your husband is lucky, and so are your children.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ONLY ONE PERSON IN WORCESTER, MASS.: I am reminded of a short but meaningful poem from the play, "For Heaven's Sake" by Helen Kromer:

One man awake
Can awaken another.
The second can waken his next-door brother.
The three awake can rouse the town,
By turning the whole place upside down.
And the many awake, make such a fuss,
They finally awaken the rest of us.
One man up with the dawn in his eyes—multiplies.

States allowing teen drinkers could lose money for highways

WASHINGTON (AP) — States in which the drinking age is less than 21 would have two years to make it 21 or face a cutoff of some federal highway construction money under a bill passed by the House.

An amendment stipulating all states make 21 the legal age for buying alcohol was added to legislation approved Thursday to disperse $5.2 billion in federal gasoline tax money.

The bill, passed 297-73, now goes to the Senate where its chances were considered doubtful because of the more than $600 million it earmarks for local-interest highway projects.

Similar legislation originating in the Senate and sent to the floor of that chamber earlier this week contains $93 million for hometown projects.

None of the projects in the Senate bill is in the House-passed legislation. And no House project is in the Senate proposal.

In debate over the drinking age amendment, Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa., said a nationally uniform drinking age of 21 was necessary because 5,000 teen-agers are killed in drunken driving accidents each year, many of them along "slaughter alleys" as they drive to other states with lower age restrictions for buying alcoholic beverages.

He called the death and destruction caused by drunken drivers "a national epidemic."

States not bringing their laws into compliance with the federal standard within two years would have 5 percent of their 1987 federal highway money withheld. If still not coaxed into accepting the idea, 10 percent of their 1988 allocation would be held back. The money would be released as soon as the age was raised to 21.

8-9 YEAR OLD LEAGUE

Braves 21, Cubs 13

Joe Bob McCravey slammed a home run, a triple and a double as the Braves got 23 hits in defeating the Cubs on Thursday. Chris Chance and Michael Hillis both punched a triple and a single while Jim Pat Griffin socked a double and two singles and Kurtis McCathern and Sammy Jaramillo rapped one double and a single apiece. Also hitting for the Braves, now 1-4, were Stephen Campbell and Harley Harper, two singles apiece, and Kevin McCullough, Zach Golden, Adrian Sneed, Jimmy Gorman and Jason Pierce, one single each.

Tom Latos punched a home run, a triple and a single for the 0-5 Cubs while Peyton Greene and Rayland Goswick knocked a double and a single each. Gilbert Orosco, Marcelino Aguirre, Kurt McMillan, Daniel Franklin and B.J. Thompson contributed a double each while Toby Evans popped two singles and Todd Goodlett and Lance Price added one single apiece.

Yankees 12, Athletics 10

The Yankees came up with three runs in the top of the sixth inning to take a 12-9 lead, then held off the A's to chalk this victory. The outcome left both teams 4-1 for the season.

Jared Graves powered two doubles and a single for the winners while Chad Walker knocked two doubles and Joe Gordy had three singles. Also hitting for the Yankees were Steven Owens and James Matthews, a double and a single apiece; Chad Flemming, a double; Jason Warren and Jimmy Henry, two singles each; and Freddie Hernandez, Neal Cannon and Aaron Taylor, one single apiece.

Getting hits for the Athletics were Billy Cisneros, a home run and two singles; John Bob Wellman, Heith Freeman and Edward Anderson, a double and a single; Wesley Evans, a double; and Jason McAden, Dean Shreve, Tony Lopez and Jackie Seavers, a single apiece.

FARM LEAGUE

Athletics 16, Cubs 14

The Athletics jumped out to a 11-0 lead, then held off a furious attack by the Cubs to take this victory in Farm League play.

Jody Iglehart led the A's batsmen with three doubles and one single while Gary Halkowitz added a double and a single and Steven Sullenger and Adrian Orasco contributed one single apiece. The A's are 1-0 in second round play.

Kyle Highfield had two doubles and a single and Raymond House knocked three singles for the Cubs, now 1-1 in the second round. Martin Orosco punched a double and a single and J.J. Atnip powered a double while Chris Winter had two singles and Raul Guerrero and Benji Felan had one apiece.

Brad Lynch was the WP. Raul Guerrero took the loss.

Cardinals 17, Giants 13

There were 13 hits for extra bases in this contest played Thursday, including an over-the-fence home run by Pedro Gonzales of the Giants.

James Sturdivant countered for the Cardinals with a triple and two singles while teammates Kyle Martin and Joe Paredes knocked a triple and one single apiece. Also hitting for the Cards, 1-1, were Mitchell Berrera, a triple; Wacey Parks, a double and a single; Kevin Watson and Michael Berrera, a double each; and Chad Fox and Manuel Herrera, a single apiece.

Paredes scored five times and Sturdivant four times for the Cards.

Gonzales slapped a single in addition to his homer for the Giants while Jason Chapman launched a triple and two singles and Ray Turner powered a triple and one single. Anthony Alvarez slammed two doubles and a single for the 0-2 squad as Leonard Tovar managed one double and a single; Jason McDonald two singles; and Phillip Becerra and Jack Beall one single apiece.

Pitchers were not reported.

LITTLE LEAGUE

Cardinals 17, Giants 4

John Griffin paced the Cardinals' 13-hit blitz with a home run and a double in this contest, which saw both teams exit the field with 1-1 second-half records.

Jason Taylor, Brandon Martin and Steve Ybarra all rapped a double and a single for the Cardinals. Daniel Espinosa and Coy Berryman slugged two singles apiece while pitcher David Lane added one single.

The Giants were limited to just four hits - a single each from Chad Phillips, Marc Byerly, David Hinojos and Gilbert Hernandez. Michael Torres took the loss.

Athletics 16, Cubs 9

This contest was a close one until the A's punched across seven innings in the fourth inning, giving them an insurmountable 15-6 advantage. The win left the Athletics with a 1-0 second-half record while the Cubs fell to 0-2.

Eric West knocked a double and a single for the winners and Jason Rios punched a triple. Winning pitcher Jason West contributed with two singles while Jonathon Burton, Chris Clawson and Jeremy Ditmore chipped in one single apiece.

Burton scored four times for the Athletics.

The Cubs got a home run and two singles from Tracy Braziel. Also hitting for the Cubs were pitcher Bert Merritt, a double; David Zalmon and Justin Hester, two singles each; and Ron Baker, Eddie Evans, Fletcher Davis and Clay Gordy, one single apiece.

DeSoto, Westlake enter class 4A state finals

AUSTIN (AP) - Jimmy Pogue was sick when he stepped off the chartered plane that brought the DeSoto Eagles to Austin for the Texas high school state baseball tournament.

But the junior third baseman checked into a clinic, received an intravenous solution for his 24-hour intestinal virus, and was able to start in his team's Class 4A semifinal game Thursday against New Braunfels Canyon.

Pogue, not known as a power hitter, slugged a 350-foot, two-run homer over the left field fence in the second inning to lead the Eagles to a 4-0 victory, earning DeSoto a spot in today's 5 p.m. 4A championship game against Austin Westlake, a 12-2 victor over Everman Thursday.

Other state title games today at Disch-Falk Field on the University of Texas campus paired Prosper and Runge at 8:30 a.m. in Class A, Ore City and Dripping Springs at 10:30 a.m. in Class 2A, Odem and Lake Worth at 1:30 p.m. in Class 3A, and Cypress-Fairbanks and Brazoswood at 7:30 p.m. in Class 5A.

Prosper defeated Lingleville 12-2 as first baseman Derek Stansel set a Class A record with four hits in four at-bats, including three RBI's and a record-tying two doubles. Runge won its spot in the finals by beating Apple Springs 4-3.

Ore City advanced to the 2A championship game by beating Frisco 4-2, while Dripping Springs defeated Huntington 7-2.

In 3A semifinal matches, Odem won its berth by beating Linden-Kildare 6-4 and Lake Worth by beating Lufkin Hudson 5-1.

Cypress-Fairbanks outlasted Lubbock Monterey 1-0, and Brazoswood defeated Pearland 7-2 in the Class 5A semifinal contests, with strikeouts a key weapon for both winning pitchers.

Cy-Fair pitcher Gary Robertson allowed Monterey only two hits, striking out nine Plainsmen en route to his 14th victory in as many decisions and running his strikeout total for the year to 137 in 105 innings. The senior righthander struck out the side in the fourth and sixth innings.

Brazoswood pitcher Kevin Garner, 11-1, struck out eight Pearland batters, including the final three for the 7-2 win.

Austin Westlake lefthander David Brown, 12-4, had a no-hitter going for 4 1-3 innings and settled for a two-hitter against Everman, which was losing for only the second time in 30 games. Everman hurt its own cause with seven errors.

Westlake scored three runs in the first on a walk and singles by Steve Bethea, Trent Stroth, David Gruber and Steve Spear off Everman starter Randy Roberson, who took a 14-0 record into the tournament.

Westlake scored four runs in the fourth despite getting only one hit - a bloop single by Gruber to right field. Roberson also walked two, however, and Everman committed three errors in the inning.

Westlake scored two more runs in the sixth on an infield error and two balks.

Swindell lifts Texas past Sun Devils, 8-4

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - Droll Arizona State coach Jim Brock tried to make it sound as if he doesn't like Greg Swindell.

But actually, Brock would like to have a pitcher just like the freshman left-hander who helped Texas beat the Sun Devils 8-4 in the College World Series Thursday.

"The guy's a jerk," Brock said following the battle between the only two unbeaten teams in the Series. "That was more hits, I think, than anybody has gotten off him; we got a lead on him; (he) had every reason for any decent, law-abiding freshman to fold.

"Obviously he didn't."

Swindell struggled through the first four innings, when Arizona State broke out to a 4-2 lead. But the 19-year-old from Houston shut out the explosive Sun Devils over the final five frames to improve his record to 14-1.

Brock's club entered the contest averaging over eight runs per game, and the Sun Devils had tied a Series record by scoring 23 times in their previous outing. They managed 10 hits against Swindell, but the southpaw gave up no home runs and walked only one.

"I was pumped up after the third or fourth inning, and when I get pumped up I throw a lot better," said Swindell, who relied primarily on fastballs.

A crowd of 12,469 watched the defending national champions, 60-12, take the lead for good when their first four batters in the fifth inning scored. David Wrzesinski's two-run double off the left-field wall put the Longhorns ahead 5-4.

Wrzesinski had grounded out with the bases loaded in his previous at-bat.

Bill Bates and Doug Hodo followed Wrzesinski's double with RBI singles. Those were two of 15 singles Texas collected against five Arizona State pitchers, including loser Kendall Carter, 10-2.

The Sun Devils, 55-19, were scheduled to face Cal State Fullerton, 63-20, this afternoon. Texas was to meet Oklahoma State, 60-14 at 7:10 p.m. CDT. All but Texas have one loss in the double-elimination event.

Five Longhorns got at least two hits, with first baseman Rusty Richards rapping four of Texas's singles and Dennis Cook three.

Texas' victory assured the Longhorns of a berth in the championship final, either Saturday or Sunday.

If Texas in its game against Oklahoma State, 60-14, at 7:10 p.m. CDT today, three teams would remain with one loss. Texas would get a bye Saturday, and the championship game would be Sunday. Saturday's game would pair the two survivors for the right to play Texas.

Should Texas win tonight, the Longhorns would play the winner of the Arizona State-Cal State Fullerton game, scheduled for 4:10 p.m. today, in a championship game Saturday. If Texas then lost that game, a second championship game would be played Sunday.

Atlanta defeats Los Angeles, 8-1

by The Associated Press

Pascual Perez continued his flashy magic on the mound and Chris Chambliss swung a mean bat Thursday night as the Atlanta Braves beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-1 for their ninth straight victory - all on the road.

In other NL games, Cincinnati clobbered San Diego 12-1, Montreal shaded Chicago 2-1 and Houston blasted San Francisco 14-5.

The Braves started quickly, scoring twice in the first inning and twice more in the second against rookie Orel Hershiser, 2-2.

Chambliss homered, doubled and singled and drove in four runs to highlight a 13-hit attack.

The Braves' winning streak on the road is their longest since moving to Atlanta in 1966; the all-time franchise record is 11 by the 1956 Milwaukee Braves.

Perez scattered seven Dodger hits while striking out eight and walking only one. The right-hander is now 6-1 since being reinstated after his drug conviction.

Reds 12, Padres 1

Eric Show retired the first two Cincinnati batters before running into big trouble in San Diego.

With two outs, Duane Walker singled and Dave Parker followed with his third home run of the season. Then Wayne Krenchicki walked and Nick Esasky hit his fourth home run. Then, Show walked Brad Gulden and Tom Foley belted his second homer.

Show, 7-4, left the game after the first inning as the Padres saw their six-game winning streak come to an end.

The Reds, who finished with 16 hits, tacked on five runs in the eighth, keyed by Gulden's bases-loaded triple.

Bruce Berenyi, 3-6, got the victory and Keefe Cato, recalled from Class AAA on Sunday, allowed one hit in the final 4 2-3 innings for his first save.

Expos 2, Cubs 1

Gary Carter drilled a solo home run off a Dennis Eckersley breaking ball to snap a 1-1 tie in the sixth inning.

Chicago outlasts Angels

by The Associated Press

The Chicago White Sox got off the roller coaster with a victory that moved them to within a game of .500, but nobody seemed to enjoy the ride.

"I felt good about winning but that was hard work," said Manager Tony LaRussa, whose White Sox outlasted the California Angels 11-10 at Comiskey Park on Thursday night.

"We'll take 'em whatever way we can get 'em," said Harold Baines, whose two three-run homers helped bring the White Sox back from a seven-run deficit to a four-run lead.

Fred Lynn smacked two homers for California, the second bringing the Angels back to within one run in the eighth inning.

The White Sox used five pitchers, three in the eighth. Ron Reed left with two outs and runners on first and third and the score 11-7. LaRussa summoned Juan Agosto, who promptly gave up a three-run homer to Lynn. Al Jones was quick to follow and he got the final four outs for his fourth save of the season.

Chicago starter Richard Dotson, who entered the game with a 7-3 record and a 2.49 earned run average, was ripped for seven runs in 2 2-3 innings as the Angels took a 7-0 lead. Two of the first three men he faced, Gary Pettis and Lynn, homered.

The White Sox, now 27-28, climbed to within 1½ games of the first-place Angels on the American League West.
