Wichitans Organize Today To Secure Four Year College

KELL PRESIDES AT CITIZENS' MASS MEETING

$400,000 Challenge To Wichita Before City's Leaders

ATTENDANCE URGED

Burkburnett, Electra And Iowa Park to Send Delegations Here

Organization of the citizenry of Wichita Falls to assure a four-year college for the city will be completed at a meeting of the business council of the chamber of commerce at the Kemp hotel at noon Friday.

Members of the council, under the leadership of Frank Kell, will create and set in motion machinery for meeting the challenge laid down by Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hardin in offering a $400,000 gift for the college on condition that the city respond by raising a like amount and by securing a 160-acre site for the institution.

Business of All

Mr. Kell, in charge of the meeting Thursday, urged every interested citizen to attend the luncheon, whether or not he is a member of the chamber of commerce.

"This is the business of the entire community," he said. "We share in the gift and in the task, and we will share the honor of success. The business council is just the background for a general citizens' assembly."

Adding his invitation, Luther Hoffman, president of the council, reminded the city that the importance of the occasion can not be exaggerated.

"The establishment of this college is the most important thing Wichita Falls could do," he declared.

"It is logically the next step in the city's development. Aside from the educational value, its economic significance is vast.

Logical Advance

"The building and maintaining of the school will bring about the spending of large sums of money here. Students and their families will bring in money. The school will have a population of 350,000 to draw from, and I anticipate a large student body from the start. Economically, Wichita Falls could not make a better investment."

Mr. Hoffman pointed out that the adequate maintenance of such a school involves large sums of money.

"The $400,000 gift is wonderful," he said. "But we mustn't think our task is done for us. That is only a beginning. We must go at the thing and do it right. The college will top off our school system and give Wichita Falls just what it needs for the growth of the future."

Reservations for the luncheon Friday may be made up until 10 o'clock Friday morning. They can be arranged through the chamber of commerce.

Delegations from the Burkburnett, Iowa Park and Electra chambers of commerce have been invited to attend the meeting here.

100,000 Clamor to See Hoover at Capital Of Argentine

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 13. (US) — President-elect Hoover arrived at the capital of Argentina this afternoon, receiving the most enthusiastic ovation of his Latin-American tour.

So great was the crowd which greeted the American party at the station that soldiers, policemen and firemen lined up shoulder to shoulder in a vain effort to keep back the people.

Shortly after the Hoover party left the station, the crowds smashed through the police lines and so closely surrounded the automobile in which Mr. Hoover was riding that it could not proceed for several minutes.

Fully 100,000 people lined the streets through which the presidential party passed to the embassy where Mr. Hoover will reside during his stay here.

WAR LEADER FOR TAFT DIES

Jacob M. Dickinson Victim Of Bladder Infection

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (UP)—Jacob M. Dickinson, former secretary of war and prominent Chicago attorney, died of a gall bladder infection today in his 78th year.

Dickinson underwent an operation at St. Luke's hospital recently after an illness of six weeks. Although he rallied from the shock of the operation his age placed a handicap on convalescence which he was unable to overcome.

Two sons, Henry and Jacob, M., Jr., were at their father's bedside when death came.

The body will be taken to Nashville, Tenn., where funeral services will be held Saturday.

During the night his condition became critical. At 10 a. m. today he lapsed into a fatal coma, and died at 4:32 p. m.

President Taft appointed Dickinson to his cabinet as secretary of war in March, 1909, and he served until May, 1913. After retiring from the cabinet he returned to Chicago to practice law.

Dickinson was born in Columbus, Miss., Jan. 30, 1851. He took his first college degrees, an A. B., at the University of Nashville and studied later at Columbia, New York university and Yale and in Leipsig and Paris.

In 1876 Dickinson was married to Martha Overton in Nashville. They had three sons, John, Henry and Jacob.

WINDSTORMS IN SEVEN PLACES CLAIM LIVES

More Than Dozen Injured In Series of Tornadoes Which Kill Trio

MIRACLE SAVES BABY

Tot Found Unharmed In Her Crib After Fury Of Wind Subsides

HOUSTON, Dec. 13. (AP)—Crashing down on Eastern Texas and Western Louisiana communities, a series of tornadoes late yesterday and last night took three lives and injured more than a dozen persons, some perhaps fatally.

Striking first at Pearland, near here, where a garage employe was injured and several buildings were demolished, the storm, a brilliant electrical display and heavy rain accompanying the wind, fell on the Sulphur Springs community, near the Louisiana state line. There Mrs. C. C. Fridell, 42, was killed and her mother as well as Allen Shievers, his wife and children, were injured. The Shievers family was burned beneath debris when their home tumbled down on them, but they escaped with minor bruises.

Trees Block Roads

The storm reached such proportions here that it was necessary to remove tall pine trees from the roads before ambulances could reach the injured.

Continuing northwestward, the wind struck near Tenaha, in extreme Eastern Texas, after killing an unidentified negro at Center, wrecking the home of John Jones, killing him, injuring Mrs. Jones and two sons. A 10-year-old daughter was found after the wind had abated, hanging by her clothing from a high barbed wire fence, unhurt, and an eight-months-old baby, in her crib, also escaped injury.

Building Wrecked

Several frame buildings, including a Presbyterian church and a cotton warehouse, were torn down by the wind, which also swept several hundred acres of timberland almost clean.

Swooping down on Noble, La., the wind next injured four members of the J. T. Pugh family, as well as Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Platt. Both residences were destroyed. Tessie Pugh, 12, was believed to have suffered a fractured spine.

The Platts heard the roar of the approaching wind and attempted to reach a wire fence, but were unsuccessful, the blast hurling them about 25 feet.

Julius Taul and his family, who reside near Converse, La., and who were absent, learned later that their home was among those destroyed.

D. H. Sebastian and his family were in one end of their house near Benson, the last point the storm was reported to have struck, when the other end of the building was torn off and tossed through the air. No one was injured.

Several negro homes in Louisiana were destroyed, but none was reported killed or hurt.

In the Sulphur Springs community, J. H. Wideman watched the wind rip the roof and walls off his home, leaving him unharmed, sitting on a trunk.

Captain Kleinschmidt Bringing Santa Claus For Wichita Visit

Leader of North Pole Expedition Reveals Big Surprise When He Admits St. Nick Is Aboard Plane

By CAPTAIN F. E. KLEINSCHMIDT
Special Correspondent to The Record News and Head of Expedition to Home of Santa Claus

OVER CANADA, EN ROUTE WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 13. (By Wireless)—This is the biggest surprise Santa has given us yet and you know from my previous dispatches how often he surprised us.

Santa Claus himself is aboard this plane bound for Wichita Falls. It all came about as the result of a long talk I had with him in the village of the Eskimos.

"I believe in bigger and better Christmases every year and this is going to be the happiest one of all for the children in Wichita Falls," Santa declared.

"There are many surprises in store for Christmas morning, for I have invented some brand new toys, none of them has ever been seen before, and I am coming with a bigger sleigh than ever."

Gives Answer

I told him that nothing would do as much to make Christmas bigger and better in Wichita Falls than a visit from him, and I told him that The Record News and Daily Times would be delighted to entertain him during his visit.

He thought about the plan a good deal, trying to get his schedules arranged. You see this is the busiest season of the entire year and it is no small job to get ready for the task that faces him at Christmas. And then he gave me his answer.

"You may tell the boys and girls of Wichita Falls and vicinity that I will go back with you and Mrs. K.,"

Harry K. Thaw Special Guest At Opening of Evelyn Nesbit's Club

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. (UP)—Harry K. Thaw and Evelyn Nesbit frolicked at a night club early today, just as they did in the days prior to when Thaw shot to death Stanford White, but it was all a "swell publicity stunt."

Evelyn opened a new night club as an entertainer and Harry was invited as one of the premier guests. He even was taken to dinner before the night club revue started, lest he forget he was scheduled at the premier.

Thaw walked into the club and saw Evelyn. For a minute he was nonplussed and then he said:

"Hello, you're looking well."

"Hello, you're looking well yourself," Evelyn responded.

That was all for the minute, and Evelyn went about entertaining, singing popular songs. Later she joined Thaw at the table where he sat with Margot Bazin and Kitty O'Dare, other entertainers.

Thaw exchanged repartee with the three and Evelyn told all about her son Russell Thaw, who now is a licensed pilot. She waved her arms in describing her son's air progress and Thaw, smoking a large black cigar, nodded knowingly.

He left early in the morning.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 13. (UP)—Twenty-two of the most beautiful girls in the town of Jicotepec, state of Jalisco, were kidnaped by bandits and carried away to the hills last night, according to dispatches received by the newspaper Grafico tonight.

A group of 70 bandits carried the girls away while mothers of their victims pleaded in vain for mercy and offered their jewels as ransom, the dispatches said.

The bandits entered the town while virtually the entire population was attending a motion picture theater. They first dynamited the city hall and then surrounded the theater. Male citizens were overpowered and tied hand and foot and then locked inside the theater, according to the Grafico dispatches.

The dispatches said all women were ordered outside and the bandits carefully selected 22 of the most attractive girls. These were carried away despite appeals of the women.

Federal troops at Chapala were sent in pursuit.

Annual Prison Play Is Cause of Delay In Electrocution

OSSINING, N. Y., Dec. 13. (UP)—Thomas "Red" Moran, bandit and murderer, enjoyed—or endured—two hours more of life tonight because the time set for his electrocution clashed with that set apart for the presentation of "No, No, Nanette," this year's annual prison show.

Moran, 22, tough and defiant, sat in his death-house cell as the play was enacted, with guards taking turns to watch him and make sure that he did not make good a recent boast:

"They'll never put me in the hot seat."

Moran was to have been executed at 11 o'clock tonight, but at that time the convicts at Sing Sing were in the prison theater, and because prison officials did not wish to excite them, or distract their attention from the play, the execution was postponed until 1 a. m. Friday.

ADAMS JUROR ILL WITH FLU

DALLAS, Dec. 13. (AP)—With one of their number stricken suddenly ill with influenza but declining to go to a hospital until the case is decided, the jury in the trial of V. Ray Adams, Bartlett farmer, charged with the murder of Orville L. Mathews, Dallas bank employe, was locked up for the night at 9:45 o'clock without having reached a verdict.

Unless Ray improves, however, or an early agreement is reached when the panel begins deliberations tomorrow, there is a chance of the jurys being discharged.

The jury was to decide whether it thought Adams was justified in killing Mathews after a difference over payment of a $1,000 bet on the Tom Connally-Earle B. Mayfield senatorial election. NOTE RELATES HELL ON EARTH FOR GIRL WIFE

Letter to Husband Causes Him to Secure Her Confession

ONE GUN KILLS BOTH

Woman Slayer on Way To Jail With Mate When Shot Closes Case

CANTON, Ohio, Dec. 13. (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Heldman, 21, of Lorain, Ohio, the comely young woman who called Vernard E. Fearn, coal operator, to the door of his home and shot him to death last Thursday night, committed suicide in an automobile on a road just outside of Canton tonight.

The woman's husband, W. O. Heldman, who told police that she had confessed the slaying to him, was bringing the young woman to Canton from their Lorain home to turn her over to authorities when she suddenly drew a revolver and shot herself through the heart.

Examination revealed that it was the same weapon she used in killing Fearn.

Leaves Note

Heldman said his wife had planned to end her life and had left him a "suicide note," which he discovered in their home at Lorain this morning. Because he knew that she had been acquainted with Fearn and had "gone out with him" on several occasions, Heldman previously had suspected her of the slaying, he said.

The suicide note made no mention of Fearn, but so aroused the young husband's suspicions that he questioned her for four and a half hours before she confessed that she was the slayer, Heldman told authorities.

He quoted his wife as saying that Fearn had made her life a "hell on earth."

Expose Threatened

Heldman turned over to the police the letter which his wife had written him. It read:

"I am leaving your life forever, and I truly am sorry for all the trouble I have caused you and rather than try to go through the rest of my life under a lie, I am taking this means to tell you the truth. I can't face you and tell you this so I am leaving this to explain the thing that you don't know, how he made my life a hell on earth. He came to my home when we lived at Poets (name of a family with whom Mr. and Mrs. Heldman formerly lived at Canton). He threatened to expose me if I didn't do as he wanted me to that day you kicked me out because that fellow was there and you didn't know him, for I don't think you have ever met him. I can't stand the worry any longer and to be away from my baby. So I do hope you can forgive me and give our baby a good home. Love him even if you don't me, for I do surely love you." (Signed) "Margaret."

Bureau Has Child

The baby referred to in the letter, it is believed, is the five-month-old son which was born to the Heldmans last July. They had been married since Sept. 2, 1927, but had separated once. After the separation, the child was awarded by the court to the childrens' bureau here. Later, the couple patched differences and moved from Canton last October, but the child remained with the bureau.

Heldman said he learned that his wife had been intimate with Fearn when he intercepted a letter she wrote to her sister at Canton last Monday in which the coal operator's name was mentioned. At that time, he said, he accused her of the slaying, but she denied it.

Heldman said he learned later that Fearn and his wife had been together on several occasions during September and October, just before they moved to Lorain.

He declared his wife told him today that she had resolved to kill Fearn for some time before she gathered enough nerve to carry out her plan.

Then, last week, she suddenly left her home. She went to Canton and apparently had been there several days awaiting her chance.

PAYMENTS OF AUTO TAX LAG

Only 118 New Licenses Issued Here

Although Jan. 1 is only 18 days away, no more than 118 automobile owners are prepared for the new year with 1929 license plates, according to the records in the office of Guy C. Raley, county tax collector.

The new plates are due to appear promptly on Jan. 1, and S. O. Hamm, state highway officer, has served notice that owners driving after that date with old licenses will be promptly summoned to explain the delinquency. Efforts are being made to avoid the heavy rush on the collector's office in the late days of January, just before the state delinquent tax penalty goes into effect. Both Mr. Hamm and Mr. Raley joined in urging car owners to get their plates within the next three weeks.

New plates are being sold only for cars previously registered. New cars must be registered for the last quarter of 1928 and then re-registered for 1929 in January, according to the reading of the law. The terms will be strictly enforced except, perhaps, for Christmas gift cars, which may be given the privelege of wearing the first new license numbers of the year, Mr. Hamm said. Up until Dec. 25 or 26, however, new cars must have 1928 licenses, he declared.

Ermine Coat Worth $9,000 After Customs Official Assesses Penalty

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. (US)—That beautiful ermine coat that shielded the graceful figure of Miss Elizabeth L. Beidler, daughter of the late Francis Beidler, Chicago lumber millionaire, brought a gasp of amazement from its young owner today when she appeared before U. S. Commissioner Brewer and the coat doubled in value.

Instead of costing $3,434, which price the collector of the port placed on it as "home value," the young lady was penalized $6,439 for attempting to bring it into the United States without declaring it.

Plus the price she actually paid for it in Paris, it easily becomes the most expensive garment that will be seen on the fashionable Lake Shore drive this season.

Customs men charged that Miss Beidler, who has been in Europe studying for the past year, tore out the Paris label and substituted the label of a Chicago furrier in the collar of the coat.

Soviet Union Asks Disarmament Meeting

LUGANO, Dec. 13. (AP)—The council of the League of Nations today received a communication from M. Litvinoff, assistant commissar of foreign affairs for the Russian Soviet union, demanding the convocation at the earliest possible moment of the league's preparatory commission on disarmament. M. Litvinoff asked that this meeting be called to discuss the Russian project for doing away with all armaments.

Model Nine-fifty-four. The world's most comprehensive entertainer for the home. The Victor Automatic adjustable-volume Electrola, combined with the new Radiola Super-Heterodyne. List price, $1350, with Radiotrons.

MILLIONS have waited for this announcement

People said: "Give us a Victrola of Orthophonic quality and radio convenience and we will buy"

Model Ten-thirty-five. Automatic Orthophonic Victrola. Plays a continuous program . . . 12 records at one time. Natural, lifelike reproduction through Orthophonic tone-chamber. List price, $365.

AND here it is: A brand-new type Automatic Victrola, at a price within the reach of the average home. A dream of Victor technical men come true. New as tomorrow's newspaper. New in principle. New in design. New in scope. In the judgment of many, it is the world's most desirable musical instrument.

Not a clumsy contraption, but a simple mechanism that performs operations that human hands alone might be expected to do. Not only does it change its own records, but it plays as long as you say—hours or days or weeks, if you wish. You simply see that it is supplied with Victor Records, press a button . . . and the mechanism does the rest. It is positively uncanny!

This master instrument will be furnished in three main types, shown herewith. One is the Automatic Orthophonic Victrola, with all the realism for which Orthophonic reproduction is noted. It lists at $365. Another is the Automatic Electrola, which permits volume-adjustment from the faintest murmur to the stentorian power of the full symphony orchestra. This lists at $850. The third is the Automatic Electrola, but with the latest Radiola Super-Heterodyne in addition. This lists at $1350, with Radiotrons.

Each type is in a cabinet of consummate charm . . . not only a superb musical instrument, but a piece of furniture that is a delight to live with, day after day. But, words cannot give you the picture. You must see them . . . hear them. Your own most extravagant phrases will not be an exaggeration. Your Victor dealer is ready to show you.

U. S. TO BE DRY WRITER SAYS

Rebecca West Thinks Hoover Will Enforce Laws

LONDON, Dec. 13. (US)—Rebecca West, the clever English novelist, lecturer and essayist who has lately returned from an extended tour of the United States, has discovered something of which perhaps even Americans "in the know" are lamentably ignorant.

Herbert Hoover, when he becomes president, is going to enforce prohibition or know the reason why it cannot be enforced.

He's going to do that, avers Miss West in a signed article contributed to the London Times, with a napoleonic grimness and thoroughness which may tear things wide open in the United States, but which will at least produce results—of some sort.

"He is going to demonstrate the minute he settles down in office," this foreign observer promises, "that there is nothing blank or featureless or vague about his nature." And Miss West assures Americans they aren't going to like the way their new president goes about the job of sweeping back the alcoholic sea.

Will Persuade Congress

"A great banker who, during the five years I have known the United States, has always proved to be the most sensible interpreter of current events, tells me that Mr. Hoover will make an earnest attempt to enforce prohibition. It appears that he has sufficient prestige to persuade congress to vote him the necessary funds; and the guess is made that if enforcement proves impractical he would not let the matter rest. He would appoint a commission to inquire into the whole question and recommend such alteration of the law as would seem necessary."

The English woman thinks this hypothetical program is one "enormously stimulating to the imagination." If this determination she and her banker friend credit to the president-elect is carried out either in the first part or the second, says Miss West, it would constitute "a master stroke of statesmanship."

"It will not be mere babbitry on the part of Mr. Hoover if he tries for a real enforcement of prohibition," Miss West thinks.

Enormous Costs

"The cost, of course, will be enormous, not so much in money as in order. A great industry—and bootlegging is nothing less—is not going to let itself be wiped out without a struggle; and this particular industry has been educating itself in ruthlessness for 10 years. The campaign will be productive not only of violence, but of blows to American self-esteem. A campaign where the forces of the law will be so exposed to corruption will produce many wounding scandals. But if it succeeds, well and good.

"The crux of the argument against prohibition has always been its failure. The European mind is a little incredulous of the possibility, considering the vastness of the battlefield, the high percentage of the population that is on the side of the enemy. It anticipates that Mr. Hoover will have to proceed to the second part of the program. He will have to admit failure and induce a country which will be satisfied of the sincerity of his efforts to appoint a commission to consider how the law may be modified."

Americans Don't Know

There are many people in the states, Miss West has discovered, who believe prohibition is a success. That is because such people are not in touch with any people but their own immediate circle of abstainers. Miss West slyly intimates that she herself has at least been offered a drink in a community whose "better people" thought it wholly dry. Such folk believe prohibition could be enforced if somebody would only really try to do it.

"Such is the hope that Mr. Hoover's friends tentatively attach to him: That he may bring prohibition to victory or to modification. It is typical of the complexity of American politics that this last hope can be attached to him only because he is a dry president. If Governor Smith, wet as he was, had been elected, he could not have led congress to a direct repeal of the 18th amendment, for the constitution does not permit it. He could not have enforced the law, for he could not have asked congress for funds for that purpose, nor his followers for their support.

"The result of the presidential election, therefore, though it did not give us as president the American politician whom Europe would most gladly have taken to its heart by reason of his charm, ought not to divert our interest away from the United States. If Mr. Hoover leads the country to face and work at the problem of prohibition he will be giving it such political education that its economic development will no longer strike one as lopsided; and the enterprise will need rather more courage than a statesman has ever before had to give in times of peace."

Twice Shot and Roped Brahma Bull Drags Pony Through Street

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 13. (AP)—Two rifle balls through the head, a lariat around the neck with a struggling, slipping cow pony at the other end, could not stop one of two Brahma bulls which crashed through a pen at the stock yards here today and ran amuck through the streets to within a block of the city's busiest retail district. Thousands of Christmas shoppers witnessed the animal's dash for freedom.

Police revolvers finally brought the bull to its knees and the pursuing cowboys completed the "roping and tying." The other bull was captured before reaching the business district.

Babe Eats Regularly Despite Mother's Trial

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (UP)—Betty Ann Zalis, 2 months old, gets her meals regularly whether court keeps or not.

Betty's mother, Mrs. Catherine Zalis, 21, and mother of three is on trial here charged with smothering her second child and burning its body "because it cried too much."

Betty Ann was born in the jail hospital Oct. 6, after Mrs. Zalis was arrested for the murder.

As attorneys fence over points of law at the trial, a nurse enters, whispers in Judge Thomas Lynch's ear, and court is recessed until Betty Ann gets her meal.

Hoover Foe Jailed After Filing Suit

CLEVELAND, Dec. 13. (UP)—Gustav Ebding, inventor and author of "The World Not a Globe," is in jail here on a federal charge of conspiracy following the filing of a suit to enjoin the induction of Herbert Hoover as president. A lunacy warrant also is brought against him.

Ebding contended that his suit was the result of his interest in constitutional and political history and was simply filed to settle a legal point "on which lawyers are not agreed." He set out that Hoover has been a legal United States resident but nine years.

New Indictment Sought Against Eller's Aides

Wheat King Owned $3,000,000 Bank Stock

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (UP)—Pending probate of the will of James A. Patten, wheat king who died Saturday, it has been revealed that he owned stock in seven Chicago banks, valued now at $3,608,582.

His total fortune is estimated as high as $30,000,000, but the exact total will remain indefinite until the will is filed in court.

Road's Petition Shows Attitude on Valuations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. (INS)—The position of the railroads on the valuation methods of the Interstate Commerce commission was set forth today in a brief filed in the supreme court by the St. Louis and O'Fallon railroad in what has been described as the $3,000,000,000 valuation case.

Attorneys attacked the present valuation methods and contended the recapture clause of the Esch-Cummins transportation act is unconstitutional.

The case is to be argued in January.

Nine Policemen Nurse Wounds After Battle

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (UP)—Nine policemen were nursing their wounds today and wondering what motive could have driven Ernest Whitehurst, 16-year-old negro, to barricade himself in a flat and shoot it out with 200 besiegers.

Apparently crazed by excitement when sought by police after being a member of the gang that crashed a restaurant window, Whitehurst held his improvised fort against pistols, machine guns and tear gas for five hours.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Flu

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as 10 times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk 60c for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—Adv.

Sate Lands Taken Off Block by University

AUSTIN, Dec. 13. (AP)—Almost a million and a half acres of Texas university land, the oil and gas rights of which were advertised for sale recently, have been withdrawn pending possible legislation to increase the returns from such sales.

Of the 1,580,000 acres originally advertised only 108,000 acres were allowed to remain on the market. Friends of the university fear that the present overproduction of petroleum might reduce the returns from the land under the present system of selling the rights.

Christmas Decorations At Memorial Protested

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 13. (UP)—American Legion officials charged a war memorial here has been desecrated by the placing of a Christmas tree and the erection of a huge Santa Claus in such manner as to obscure the view of the war memorial. Other features of the display that made it objectionable were that a hole was cut in the sodded grass to set the tree and "Please keep off the grass" signs were disregarded.

Harris-Bradley Wedding Here Thursday One of Season's Loveliest

One of the loveliest weddings of the season took place at high noon Thursday when Miss Doris Bradley became the bride of Drummond Harris. The ring ceremony was read by Rev. Walter Johnson, presiding elder of the Methodist churches of this district, in the presence of a few friends and relatives at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Bradley, 1418 Tenth street.

The reception suite was decorated in southern smilax, palms, ferns and pink plume chrysanthemums, carrying out a color scheme of pink and white. An improvised altar was formed before the fireplace where the ceremony was read while in the background, smilax and greenery and banks of chrysanthemums were interwoven. Cathedral tapers on either side were lighted by little Miss Farina Bradley just before the ceremony.

Pre-nuptial music included two numbers, "I Love You Truly" and "Because" and were sung by Ernest Reeves, accompanied at the piano by Miss Minne Lee Baker. Miss Baker played the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin" for the bridal party to enter.

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, wore a lovely dress of white satin trimmed with lace and orange blossoms. Her bridal wreath was of lilies of the valley and she carried a shower of bouquet of lilies of the valley and white roses. Miss Polly Wilkes of Nocona and Miss Elizabeth Brown were the bride's only attendants. Mr. Harris was attended by his brother, Gordon Harris and Baldwin Montgomery.

An informal reception followed. Miss Mary Tancred had charge of the bride's registration book. Immediately following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Harris left for a trip to South Texas and Old Mexico.

The bride's gift to her attendants were silver initialed vanities and Mr. Harris presented his attendants with initialed knives.

Both the bride and the bridegroom are members of the younger social set and graduates of the local high school. Mrs. Harris attended C. I. A. and Simmons college. Mr. Harris is the son of Mrs. H. G. Harris.

Neglect Cause Of Malformation Of Teeth, Club Told

The importance of removing the cause before trying to correct a bodily malformation was emphasized by Dr. N. H. Coleman in his talk on "Orthodontia" Thursday noon before the weekly meeting of the Rotary club.

Dr. Coleman's classification in the club is that of orthodontist, which is defined as one who seeks to correct the irregularities of teeth and jaws. Often, the speaker said, the misalignment is so great as to prohibit the teeth functioning properly and to cause facial deformity.

Neglect of baby teeth, improper diet, thumb sucking, and mouth breathing due to adenoids and bad tonsils were named by Dr. Coleman as causing defective teeth and jaws. The corrective treatments require a great deal of time, he said, because the teeth change position slowly, and patients often neglect appointments for treatment when the treatment should be given, eat food which break or remove the appliances, or deliberately remove the corrective appliances.

Trays with several plaster casts of specimens before and after correction were used to demonstrate the practice.

Lester F. Aldrich, baritone, presented two solos to the club, "On the Road to Mandalay" and "Gypsy Trail." Mrs. R. E. Shepherd played Mr. Aldrich's accompaniments. R. E. Shepherd conducted a 10 minute singsong.

Y. W. C. A. Directors Hear Reports At Meeting Thursday

The board of directors of the Young Women's Christian association held its regular monthly meeting Thursday morning in the Y. W. C. A. parlors. Opening devotions were led by Miss Catherine Walker, general secretary. Mrs. E. T. Duff, president, was in charge of the meeting. The finance report was given by the chairman, Mrs. B. L. Fain. Mrs. T. A. Hicks gave the report for the cafeteria, supplemented by Mrs. J. E. Sharpe who has the cafeteria sub-leased from the Y. W. C. A. The employment department reported 43 girls applying for positions, 30 calls from employers and 18 positions filled. Through the vocational guidance program of the employment department three of the applicants were persuaded to return to their homes and finish school. The hospitality committee with Mrs. H. S. Davis as chairman, reported 22 meetings held in the Y. W. C. A. parlors with an aggregate attendance of 500 girls and young women. An average of 25 girls use the parlors each day. Forty-three books were borrowed from the loan library. Mrs. Glen Laskey, chairman of the Girl Reserve department, reported a total membership of 600 girls. Thirty-five meetings have been held with an aggregate attendance of 1,708. Other reports were given by Mrs. E. W. Nicholson, C. W. Beavers, Mrs. C. Pogenpohl and Miss Erma Schnelle.

Plans were discussed for an annual election of officers and for a general membership banquet to be held in January; to send representatives to the biennial regional conference to be held in Dallas in February, and to arrange for board and committee training courses with Miss Mary Scott, national Y. W. C. A. secretary who will visit Wichita Falls Jan. 26 to 31.

Members of the board attending the meeting were: Mesdames E. T. Duff, B. L. Fain, Knox Finley, E. W. Nicholson, C. W. Beavers, C. Pogenpohl, Glen Laskey, J. E. Sharpe, T. A. Hicks and Misses Erma Schnelle and Catherine Walker.

CHIC CHERIE — Latest Fashions

Even to say that scarfs are still smart gives the impression of an endurance record that will have to be broken sometime, but nevertheless we stick to it. There's no use announcing simply that scarfs are smart because everyone has known that for a couple of years. Here are four of Cherie's. Left, a sports scarf of printed crepe de chine and the way to wear it. Next a wispy scarf of chenille-dotted net and an evening cap to match it. Third a scarf of two triangles joined end to end, of blue and red, half with blue for the background, the other half with the background of red. Fringed taffeta plaid for the fourth.

With such a plentiful supply of scarfs it seems odd Cherie wouldn't wear one on a snowy afternoon. But, of course, you couldn't know that her modernist necklace of silver and gold plates is new. So is Dina's necklace of gold shells. As to the rest of their costumes: Cherie's little brimmed hat is felt trimmed with Persian lamb and the wide "Johnny" collar to her coat is of the same fur. Dina's turban is felt and wool tricot, black and beige and the beige fox collar tops a coat of beige cloth—which shows there's no rhyme or reason to fashion! When dark cloth takes light fur and vice versa it's smart to be different.

Art of Happiness Should Be Taught From Cradle, Dix Says

The Art of Happiness Should Be Taught From the Cradle Says Dorothy Dix—Every Child Should Learn That Whether It Is Happy or Miserable Is Largely a Matter of Its Own Choosing.

Can happiness be taught? Not long ago a man left a large sum of money in his will for the organization of classes in his native town where the art or science of happiness could be taught. Unfortunately, his wishes were not carried out—it being held that, as no one knew the laws of happiness, it could not be taught.

Perhaps the secret of happiness can never be reduced to a formula that you can teach to the earnest young seeker after pleasure as you can teach him how to combine certain chemical substances out of which he is sure to get a kick.

Perhaps you can never teach the student of happiness that if he will multiply this joy by that joy the sum total will inevitably be ecstatic bliss as you can teach him how to work out a matrimonial proposition and always get the same results.

Perhaps the art of happiness does come by nature, as Dogberry thought the knowledge of reading and writing did, and that it is a matter of good digestion and optimistic temperament and a philosophic viewpoint on life.

Nevertheless and in spite of the fact that the study of happiness is an absolutely neglected branch of learning, everybody depending upon singing the hallelujah chorus by ear and not by note, there is much about the science of happiness that can and should be taught.

Like all other education, it should begin in the cradle, for by the time a child is three or four years old its outlook on life has been definitely established.

If it has been taught self-control—not to cry for things; if it has been taught courage in misfortune—to get up and laugh when it bumps its nose instead of howling to heaven and nursing its bruise; if it has been taught to laugh and make the best of things, then that child has learned its first lesson and the great lesson in how to be happy.

On the other hand, if a child is taught to whine and fret and be peevish, if it is taught to get its pleasure out of being miserable and being pitied and mamma's-darlinged over every scratch, then you may be sure that it's that child has had the precepts of how to be miserably indelibly impressed on its plastic mind.

For the circumstances of life are the same for us all. No human being escapes the common lot of sickness and disappointment and work and worry, and only those are happy who have learned not to cry for the moon, who have the strength and bravery to pick themselves up after each fall and who can make merry over a disaster instead of being crushed by it.

Nothing on earth can make a man or a woman happy who has been allowed to grow up a peevish, fretful self-sympathizer. Such people are trouble hounds who never cease seeking until they find the crumpled roseleaf under their 40 mattresses of ease.

The next lesson should be to teach children to take a cheerful outlook on life instead of a pessimistic one. It is a lesher crime to bring a boy or girl up in a home whose walls are saturated with tuberculosis germs than it is into rear him or her in a home that reeks with gloom, where he or she draws in pessimism with every breath. For the one only kills the child's body while the other kills hope in its soul.

You can teach a boy and girl how to find joy in work and struggle, and that it is a great and thrilling game in this country of boundless opportunities to hustle out and get what they want. You can point out to them that almost all of the rich and famous men and women in the land were poor boys and girls and that they had lots more fun in making their money than they have in spending it and that they enjoyed the real time of their lives when they were doing things.

Or you can teach children that they are the victims of a cruel fate because they were not born with racing cars in their mouths and a millionaire's checking account. You can fill their lives so full of bitter envy of those better off than they are that there is no room in them for anything but dismal brooding.

The next lesson children can be taught is to find happiness in simple things. They can be taught to see things—to see the beauty in a sunset, the unending marvels of nature, to know enough about animals to find a never-ending interest in studying them, to see the drama in a crowd. No people miss so much as those who see only the outside of things and who are blind to the thrilling things that go on underneath.

Every child can be given the key that unlocks the innermost door of happiness in being taught to love to read. No one can ever be bored or lonely who makes free of the great company that march through the pages of literature. No one can ever lack for diversion who even likes to read well enough to enjoy the daily papers and magazines.

When children grow older they can be taught that happiness is largely a matter of volition. We can be happy or miserable, just as we choose. We can cultivate an egotism that makes us believe that we alone of all humanity should be immune from all suffering and sorrow and should be the recipient of every good thing, and that, therefore, we have a right to unalloyed happiness.

Or we can be taught to think humbly of ourselves and to be thankful and to enjoy whatever blessings we have. We can be taught not to borrow trouble, not to be too apprehensive of the future, not to worry over the little things that go wrong with us today and not to hold post-mortems over things that are dead and done with.

We can be taught that the surest way to keep happy is to keep busy. For an idle mind and idle hands are the devil's workshop in which he brews his blackest draughts of despair. You cannot think of two things at the same time, and so the surest cure for the blues is to have something so vitally important to do that you have to concentrate your mind on it to the exclusion of every other thought.

Finally, the young can be taught that the only way to be happy is to make other people happy. The selfish, the self-centered, the stingy and the mean are always miserable.

It's a pity that that school for happiness never materialized. There was so much that could have been taught in it, especially in the kindergarten class.

Don't Let That Cold Turn Into "Flu"

Just Rub Away Danger

That cold may turn into "Flu," Grippe or, even worse, Pneumonia, unless you take care of it at once.

Rub Musterole on the congested parts and see how quickly it brings relief as effectively as the messy old mustard plaster.

Musterole, made from pure oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other simple ingredients, as a counter irritant which stimulates circulation and helps break up the cold.

You will feel a warm tingle as it enters the pores, then a cooling sensation that brings welcome relief.

O' These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. (US)—A new song tells us that love is a ho hum.

Winifred Van Deuser contends: "The woman in love is not the happy woman."

The trouble with women is that they make their love the prime interest, and forget everything else. But a woman in love is all heart and there is little use trying to make her reason.

There is something about a fine friendship that recommends it over any other human relationship—love included. It always seemed to me that friendship is the thing a real love develops into after a few years of marriage, and is the thing that makes matrimony a success.

"Most people become what they are after all," says Romer Wilson. A sad blow to some of the climbers who are working so hard.

San Francisco has a woman who admits she likes her dog better than her husband. If the husband was the hound that some men are, he might rate higher. That's the way it works out. Life is sort of a ho hum, isn't it?

A woman in Omaha sat for seven hours while her head was being burned in securing a permanent wave. She asked damages, and the judge said he'd like to know what this world is coming to, when women sit for seven hours being beautified, the process hurting so they don't know they were being burned alive.

And many of these women are trying to look like the pretty woman whose beauty comes from within. If you let your hair alone and try improving your disposition, setting your heart right, and thinking about others than yourself it won't hurt and you look ever so much better.

No charge, thank you.

Women long ago discovered the unwisdom of having birthdays and these days there isn't any such thing. The girls of tender age aren't even having them, or else they are having them every few days until they get found out.

"Thinking about age is what makes you old," explains Mrs. Jessie Crawford of Chicago, who at 65, looks about 35, and says it's because she always felt and thought 35, and refused to think beyond that.

And this doesn't mean to wear red and talk baby talk at 50. I know a woman 55 who carries a fluffy pup on her arm, wears five bracelets, and lisps. And she lives in a hotel that has thrown out better people.

If a woman threatens suicide every day her husband, who is a comedian, can't work and earn the money she demands. That was Earl Montgomery's excuse for slipping in alimony payments.

In New York a tragedian was sued for alimony, but he got funny and didn't pay.

They never run out of excuses. The list of women paying alimony is increasing so they will have to learn all the excuses. I'm just helping them.

LAWTON AERO RULES ISSUED

Planes Must Fly as High as 1,500 Feet

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 13. (UP)—Airplanes participating in the statewide aviation meet, sponsored by the state chamber of commerce, at Fort Sill tomorrow must be kept at an altitude of at least 1,500 feet until they arrive directly over Post field, airport there, Brigadier General Altman, commandant, told the chamber of commerce here today.

Firing will be done on the Fort Sill range tomorrow, the general said, and planes dropping lower than 1,500 feet in the vicinity of the range would be in danger of the shell.

New Corporations Decline in November

AUSTIN, Dec. 13.—New corporations organized in Texas declined in number during November in line with the usual seasonal trend, according to Bervard Nichols, assistant in charge of index numbers in the bureau of business research at the University of Texas.

"A total of 176 companies capitalized at $16,040,000 received charters from the secretary of state compared to 192 enterprises having capitalization of $24,886,000 in October," Mr. Nichols said. "Last year in November, 158 corporations with capital amounting to $7,574,000 were organized. With the exception of two building and loan associations capitalized at $5,000,000 each and a third at $1,000,000, most of the companies were small again. The tendency to organize small corporations has been in evidence for several months. Twenty-one companies increased their capital by $589,000 and permits were granted to 36 outside companies.

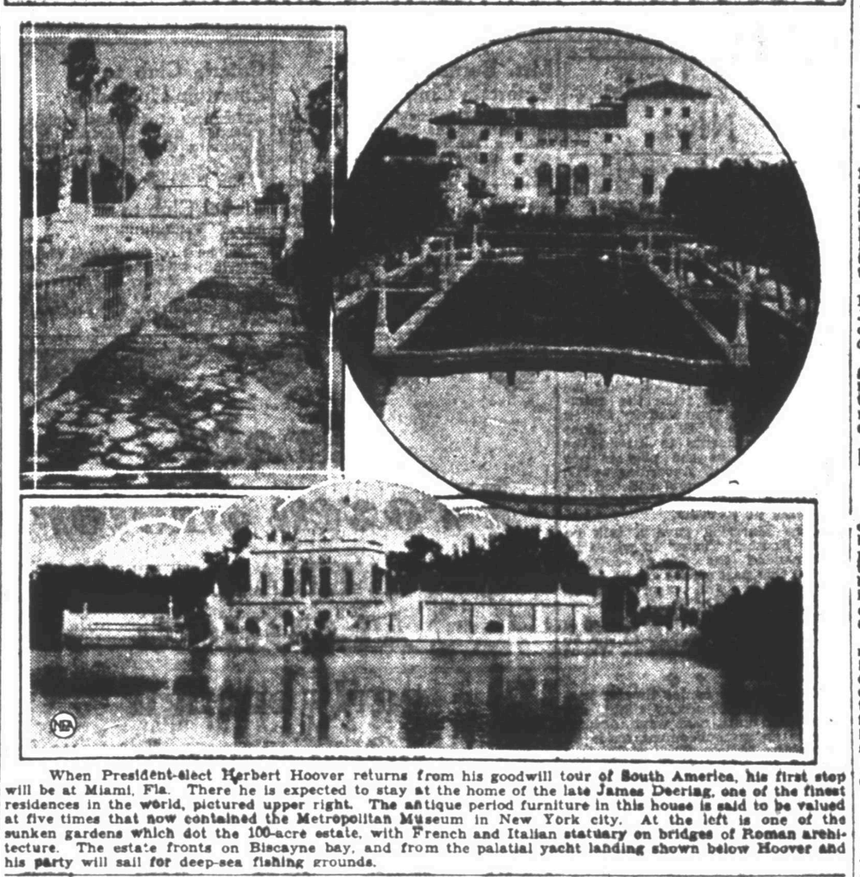

"There were 17 oil companies granted charters, against 24 in October. Only three public service corporations were formed. New manufacturing concerns increased from eight in October to 18 in November, while financial institutions gained from 12 to 17. Fifteen real estate firms were organized, compared to 15 in October and 27 in November, 1927. The large number of new manufacturing companies being chartered reflects the industrial improvement which has taken place over the past year."

Maj. Gen. Summerall Marshal for Inaugural

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. (AP)—Major General Summerall, chief of staff of the army, has accepted the post of grand marshal for the inauguration of Herbert Hoover.

The appointment follows precedent, the chief of staff having almost invariably been selected for the honor.

Where Hoover Will Stay in Florida

When President-elect Herbert Hoover returns from his goodwill tour of South America, his first stop will be at Miami, Fla. There he is expected to stay at the home of the late James Deering, one of the finest residences in the world, pictured upper right. The antique period furniture in this house is said to be valued at five times that now contained the Metropolitan Museum in New York city. At the left is one of the sunken gardens which dot the 100-acre estate, with French and Italian statuary on bridges of Roman architecture. The estate fronts on Biscayne bay, and from the palatial yacht landing shown below Hoover and his party will sail for deep-sea fishing grounds.

Equal Chance For Poor Candidate Is Black's Plea in Seeking Amendments

New York Representative Says U. S. People Do Not Want Millionaire Club in Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. (INS)—Declaring that the country "does not want a millionaire congress," Rep. Lorin M. Black, Democrat, of New York today proposed drastic amendments to the corrupt practices act to safeguard the right of a poor man to become a law-maker for the nation.

Rising campaign costs, he declared, is steadily taking a toll of poor members of congress and there is an increase of wealthy candidates.

While the senate has frequently been referred to as a "rich man's club" the house has until the last few years been heralded as the opportunity of the poor public servant.

Limit on Expense

Changing conditions, the increased population of congressional districts, higher living costs and lax corrupt practices laws have all combined to bring about the condition which must now be faced, he said. He would limit a congressman's campaign expense to $3,000.

"The cost of congressional campaigning has become almost prohibitive," he said. "As a result, there are an increasing number of wealthy candidates running for congress.

"The present corrupt practices act practically permits an unlimited amount of money to be spent in a congressional campaign. This should be changed so that no candidate could spend more than $3,000 for all purposes in a congressional district.

"Committees working in behalf of a candidate should consolidate their expense returns with that of a candidate so that this limitation will be observed.

Deplores Prospect

"We do not want a millionaires' congress. The ambitions of worthy men of moderate means should not be stifled by the money of an opponent."

Black pointed out that under the present corrupt practices act a congressional candidate must report expense for newspaper advertising and bill posting but that most everything else is exempt.

Among the exemptions, he said, are printing, mailing of letters and use of radio. It costs $4,500 for a congressional candidate to write one letter to every voter in the average district, he said.

Black also advocated restriction of the congressional frank, under which members of congress can mail campaign material free of charge.

"Some of the members use the franking privilege too extravagantly and thus reflect on congress as well as take an undue advantage of an opponent," he said.

The special house campaign funds investigating committee, Black disclosed, has already considered the situation and may report on its findings in connection with its report on a Texas investigation.

At the same time, Black also advocated legal curbs upon national organizations which center their efforts on members of congress in elections because the members will not yield to their demands for support of bills.

Expense statements of congressional candidates spent from $3,500 to $5,000 in the recent election. Some spent perhaps as much in the primaries. The salary of a congressman is $10,000 a year, but the burden was decreased in most cases by contributions from national committees and individuals.

HIGH MORMON PRIEST IS DEAD

Jesse W. Fox Survived by Two Wives, 19 Children

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Dec. 13. (UP)—The days of polygamous marriage by male members of the Mormon church were recalled today by the death of Jesse W. Fox, 76, presiding high priest of Central Park ward in the Grant stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Fox is survived by two wives, Mrs. Ruth May Fox and Mrs. Rose Johnson Fox, 19 children, 64 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Abolition of polygamy by congress did not affect marriages already contracted by Mormons, and the practice was to maintain separate homes for the wives, living at each equal periods of time.

Dixie to Double Cabbage Acreage

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (AP)—Way down upon the Swanee river, cabbages rather than melody are apparently now becoming the main thing. Florida is to double its cabbage plantings this season, according to a report today from the government bureau of agricultural economics.

The report adds that a preliminary estimate from Florida, Louisiana, Texas and California indicates that the cabbage area of the country's four early shipping states, taken altogether, will be the largest in any recent year, 86,960 acres, an increase of 3,130 acres over last season.

Sub S-4 to Be Sunk As Experiment Soon

NEW LONDON, Conn., Dec. 13. (UP)—The salvaged submarine S-4 will be sunk for science some time after Saturday, it was announced today.

Navy officers expect to test devices and methods of rescue and salvage that will make chances of another great submarine disaster negligible.

AUSTIN, Dec. 13. (AP)—After living as a fugitive for 34 years in another state, W. J. Witt, who escaped from the penitentiary after serving three years of a four-year sentence from Travis county, was granted a full pardon today by Governor Moody.

The governor's office refused to give the name of the state where Witt has lived. J. D. Hall, assistant secretary, said "it might hurt his reputation here."

B. Y. P. U. Executives Elected at Meeting

DALLAS, Dec. 13. (AP)—Dr. R. L. Powell, San Marcos, was elected chairman of the executive committee, Baptist Young Peoples union, at a meeting of the body here today.

The committe was selected recently at a state convention of the B. Y. P. U. at San Angelo. Several committees were appointed today, including one, comprising Dr. M. T. Andrews of Texarkana, Dr. Powell and T. C. Gardner of Dallas, to consider the inter-denominational movement.

Bolivia and Paraguay Would Use German and French Tactics in War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. (UP)—French and German military forces again would meet upon the field of battle if threatened war materialized between Bolivia and Paraguay, the United Press was informed today.

Both nations have the assistance of European military missions in technical capacities. The Paraguayan army is trained by a French mission and the Bolivian army by a mission sent from the free city of Danzig which before the war was German territory. Previous to 1914 the military mission in Bolivia was German.

The foreign advisers would not be expected to take the field with either army nor participate in the hostilities, their part being merely to advise on troop training in time of peace.

Figures comparing the strengths of the Bolivian and Paraguayan military establishments were interpreted unofficially today as partly explaining popular Bolivian enthusiasm for war and apparent Paraguayan diffidence. Bolivia's army of 5,750 is more than three times as great as the standing army of 2,722 maintained by Paraguay.

Bolivia is credited with 30,000 reserves and Paraguay with none. The total military man power of Bolivia is about twice that of Paraguay and her population is 3,500,000 compared with Paraguay's 850,000.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

OVER-DEMAND FOR BILARY ANTISEPTIC IN 'FLU' DISTRICTS

Production of New Solvent of Cholesterin Curtailed—Druggists' Demands Almost Deplete Reserve Stocks—Orgatone Five-Grain Tablets Almost Off the Market—People Asked to Help

Many people appreciating the coming shortage, have been buying in advance of their actual needs, which now means there are thousands of persons who might be benfited but who are unable to buy the tablets because the druggists are practically sold out.

Such Insistent Demand for the New Orgatone Five-Grain Tablets Are Pouring into the Orgatone Laboratories, for this Splendid Bilary Antiseptic, That It Is Very Doubtful That They Will Be Able to Fill All Orders, Unless They Follow a Proposed Plan to Limit Shipments in Size. In Fact, It Is Seriously Considered That in the Very Near Future Druggists Will Be Requested Not to Sell Orgatone Tablets to Anyone Who Has Not an Immediate Use For Them.

This is becoming a serious proposition. The people in danger of influenza and grippe are the ones who should be able to buy Orgatone five-grain tablets. The manufacturers are doing their part, but are unable to cope with the demand on account of the shortage of the high class chemicals and materials that go into the tablets. Won't you do your share, and if you have a bottle of these tablets, and your neighbor who has symptoms of the "flu" caused from run-down condition and cannot secure them from his or her druggist, divide with them so they, too, may get the benefit of this wonderful intestinal and bilary antiseptic?

It is persons who are suffering from lowered vitality, who are weak and run-down and who have not strength enough to throw it off are the immediate victims. Persons who have improper digestion, who are suffering from constipation and catarrhal troubles of the mucuous membrane are especially susceptible.

If you are suffering from any of these symptoms, nothing on earth will clean the intestinal tract like Orgatone five-grain tablets, which produce a healthy flow of bile and are true cholagogue and a bilary disinfectant, because they directly stimulate the hepatic cells, producing an abundant flow of limpid bile. It is also important that every day rules of hygiene be observed. That is, great care should be taken in diet, and it is recognized as an extra precaution to "get plenty of out door exercise and air and boil your drinking water."

SACRIFICE FOR VIRGIN FATAL

Man Leaps to Death From Church Tower

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 13. (AP)—Announcing that he desired to make a sacrifice in honor of the Virgin of Guadeloupe, patron saint of Mexico, an unidentified man yesterday jumped to his death from the tower of the church in San Angel, the federal district town which witnessed the spectacular assassination of General Alvaro Obregon last July.

It was the day of the saint and a big crowd had assembled about the church, suddenly the bells of the church began to ring softly, then they pealed loudly and as they died away a man who had been ringing them appeared on the balcony of the tower and addressed the crowd below, saying:

"This is the day of our Lady of Guadeloupe. I am a devotee of the virgin and I wish to make a sacrifice in her honor."

The crowd seemed unmoved and the man exclaimed:

"What! You do not take me seriously? All right then, I am going to die this instant."

Whereupon he jumped from the tower.

Prosperity Depends on Wage Scale, Schwab Says

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. (UP)—National prosperity depends on assuring the working man's protection on a high wage scale of wages, Charles M. Schwab told the Association of Life Insurance presidents at its annual convention here today.

"We in this country are enjoying an unprecedented era of prosperity" the steel chieftain said. "We have every reason to look forward to the realization of ever-increasing heights of material welfare and progress."

Heflin Says Cotton Estimates Inflated

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. (INS)—The government's cotton crop estimate for 1928 was inflated by 500,000 bales, at least, Senator Heflin of Alabama, charged in the senate this afternoon.

Heflin said the estimate of 14,373,000 bales would be 500,000 bales over the actual production this year. Up until Dec. 1, he added, only 12,161,000 bales have been ginned while a poll of cotton states since then, revealed but 1,094,000 bales would be ginned this month. Heflin long has fought to eliminate the government forecasts.

Johnston Will Ask for Investigation of Charges

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 13. (UP)—A complete investigation of all state offices under fire will be asked by Governor Henry S. Johnston in his message to the twelfth legislature, the governor said today.

It had been reported at the state house that the governor would not urge investigation, as recommendation for such would be an indictment of officers, but the governor denied this.

Story of Orgatone Proves System Insures Success

(By GEORGE M. LEE)
Special to The Record News.

JOPLIN, Mo., Dec. 13.—This is a story of success—the kind everybody likes to read. Surpassing interest always attends the telling of how a great business has been built. This city presents a very striking instance of remarkable business success, which has been achieved in a very short space of time.

The announcement has just been made here that Orgatone, the well-known medicine, which readers of this paper have often seen mentioned in the advertising columns, is today the most largely sold medicine of its kind on the American market; that in a few short years' time it has attained a definite position of preeminence among proprietary medicines.

Briefly summarized, the outstanding incidents in this story of success are: The discovery of Orgatone; the perfection of its formula by painstaking study, extensive research and exhaustive tests; the beginning of its manufacture in a small way; the instant demand for the product created by successful use, and finally the establishment of the large and magnificent laboratories in New York, occupying thousands of square feet of floor space, to supply the ever increasing demand for Orgatone. The daily capacity of thousands of bottles at this plant has at times, in fact, been found insufficient to supply the trade requirements.

The broad and progressive policies and the splendid selling organization originated and perfected by Harry Kessinger, international distributor of Orgatone, are among the best examples of methods and systems yet produced in business and they have been closely followed by many other enterprising and successful concerns.

The Orgatone people have always maintained that the best advertisement is a satisfied customer, and to that end have always sought to make customers—not mere sales—and to build up that character of public confidence which means business integrity and spells lasting success. Yet like all concerns doing a nation-wide business, they have also recognized the value and necessity of a general presentation of their preparation by the use of clean, reliable, newspaper advertising.—Adv.

Soldiers' Comfort Foremost in Mind Of King When He Was Patient in 1916

LONDON, Dec. 14. (UE)—How King George refused to be rubbed with whisky after his accident in France in 1916, "because it would be better to serve the whisky to the wounded men," was revealed here today for the first time since the close of the world war.

The disclosure was made by a Canadian nurse, who formerly attended the British ruler, in commenting on the king's present illness. The nurse was in attendance upon the king after he met with his accident in France, and for six weeks after he returned to Buckingham palace.

Thought of Others

Discussing the king as a patient, the Canadian nurse declared that he "thought of everyone except himself." She gave her recollections as follows:

"All through his illness and convalescence, the king thought of everyone except himself. Instead of being concerned about his own comforts, he was continually asking me and the other nurse if we were being well looked after.

"He even ordered special Canadian dishes to be cooked for me, and cooked in the Canadian way. He asked me almost daily for Canadian news, and showed eager interest in the smallest happenings.

"Whenever I had gone to the theater the king wanted to know all about the play, and the actors and the audience, as well as how I liked the play itself.

Never Complained

"He was never irritable, and bore his pain remarkably well, without a complaint. And he was anxious to get up from the bed as soon as possible, because he thought he could then follow the war more thoroughly.

"He particularly relished toast which I made at the fire for him. Yet he denied himself many things which he needed. He should have been rubbed with whisky, but he refused to have it, because he said it would be better to serve the whisky to the wounded men.

"When the Prince of Wales or the Duke of York came home on leave, the king cheered up mightily. He was naturally worried about what might happen to them at the front.

"Though the outcome of the war during 1916 was in doubt, the king always tried to appear optimistic, and his own illness failed to lower his spirit. I have never known such a considerate, thoughtful and kindly patient."

The responsibility of nursing the king in his present illness is shared by six hospital nurses, who take turns of eight hours at a time, with two on duty together. The resident nurse who is always at Buckingham palace in case of illness there, is included in this number.

The duty of attending members of the royal family is given only to nurses, who are chosen by the association or institution to which they belong for their exceptional skill and ability.

Joint Control of School Is Talked

DALLAS, Dec. 13. (UP)—The question of joint control of the University of Oklahoma City by the Northern and Southern branches of the Methodist church will be among the matters to be considered by the college of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, here for a four day meeting.

A rule of the Southern Methodist church requires membership in the Methodist church of three-fourths of the members of the board of trustees of any Southern Methodist school. This rule must be overlooked if any union of the Northern church is considered. It has already been agreed by various officials that the rule will be overlooked, but this must be confirmed by the college.

Joint control of the University of Oklahoma City by the two branches of the church probably will lead to joint control of other Methodist schools, it was reported.

Removal of Oklahoma Bus Head Protested

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 13 (UP)—Opposition to the removal of Bascot Griffin, state bus division head, by the corporation commission was expressed here today.

Fred Gapshaw, commissioner said he was opposed to Griffin's removal, while it was rumored that C. C. Childers, chairman of the commission, was said to favor such a removal. Childers, however, termed such rumors as "small talk."

One-Eyed Connolly Crashes Gate Into Police Sanctuary

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. (INE)—"One-Eyed" Connolly, gate breaker extraordinary, crashed a new one today against his will.

It was a police station. After his arrest as one of the busiest downtown corners on a charge of disorderly conduct, and blocking traffic.

He was togged out in green cap, green frock coat, and green trousers. On his back was strapped a sign bearing this poetic sentiment:

"Ot gates I've crashed you've all heard tell.
"I'll crash St. Peter and then crash hell."

Underneath was the name of a racing publication for which Connolly was playing sandwich man.

"This is the first time I've been arrested," he said sadly. "It will ruin my career."

He insisted his first name was "One-Eyed", but when pedigree spotted all that he said, wearily, "Well, call me John Doe."

He gave his age as 48, and his occupation as advertising agent.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—One of the very interesting sights of river-front life in New York City is that of the giant greyhounds as they leave their docks along the North river, at the zero hour of midnight. The tide is said to be most favorable at this time for the going out of steamers, and thus it has become a common sight to see brilliantly lighted piers, with crowds of surging humanity making their way to the very edge, as they wave their seafarers a last farewell. Upon a sailing night there is a hub-bub down at the western end of the Forties, where are moored some of the largest among the many liners plying the seas today—the "Leviathan" backs from out of her berth, a short distance north of the Forty-second street ferryhouse. So does the "Columbus," another equally well known one. A hustling and bustling lot of passengers arrive by taxi and private motor cars alike, and go through the necessary procedure which allows them the right to walk up the gangplang and upon deck. After taking a look at cabin accommodations and baggage arrangements, the last moments are usually spent in bidding relatives "adieu." Stewards rush about, attending to last minute details, while messenger boys come aboard, laden with boxes of flowers and baskets of fruit, intended as gifts for departing ones. Telegrams and special delivery letters are being acknowledged and read with keen appreciation. Soon the word goes about that the time has come for the final word of parting. The order is given: "All ashore that's going ashore," and the crowd of landlubbers draws back to the long, glass enclosed pier. The last three toots from the ship's deep funnels, with the final one drawn out like a fateful warning—and slowly the immense craft moves ahead—out into the river. Her decks are a blaze of lights, with a band playing gaily, as she noses her way downstream, into the harbor of New York and finally out into the broad Atlantic. Her rails until now, crowded with a swarm of waving passengers, are suddenly deserted and the ship's salons are filled with people, awaiting the passing of the "three mile limit."

Back upon the dock a sudden stillness overcomes the neighborhood. Longshoremen, still busy with the casting off of the liner, seem to give the scene a still more forsaken air. Groups of friends and relatives of the departing ones seek trolley cars or taxis to take them to their homes, for the hour has grown late. And the usual question to be heard on all sides is, "I wonder where they are now?"

And now the companion piece of the above picture. The ship is docking. Excited groups of people see the incoming crowd of travelers hanging over the sides of the big ship. The landing operations become trying, for everyone aboard is anxious to set foot upon land once again. Finally the gangplanks or landing bridges are lowered and the passengers come ashore.

Customhouse officials stand at attention, ready to examine baggage about to enter the country. Everyone is seeking his or her "letter" for thus has been grouped the collection of trunks and bags, for purposes of inspection. Scenes hereabouts are ofttimes humorous in the extreme. Recently a couple met here for the first time in several months, the wife having traveled abroad in the intervening time. The latter's anxiety to have her luggage declared duty-free was manifested by the way in which she tried to prove that she was not guilty of smuggling in a single thing. Nothing—and would the inspector please hurry and O. K. her bags? He would and did. In the general happiness of being re-united once again with her husband and two grown sons the wife and mother promised many surprises, among them:

"Ach—und I brought a shinken mit." By chance the inspector did not hear.

All points of Europe are usually being discussed by returning travelers, who bring with them all sorts of dutiable articles. The customhouse men must be a quick witted and sharp eyed lot, for this is one time in the life of the average person when fibbing is not considered a sin. Slipping in flasks or even larger bottles of liquor is a well known sport of returning Americans. But woe betide the ones who are caught at it.

They had flown to Ilo from Lima Tuesday. It was the first flight from Lima to Santiago ever made by Peruvian aviators.

Fighting Loneliness

A 28-INCH midget, appearing in a circus in San Francisco, was found drowned in a bathtub in his hotel the other day. "Acquaintances believe," said the dispatch that told of the tragedy, "that it was suicide caused by loneliness."

Midgets must be lonely people, at that. They are compelled to be public entertainers; what else can they do to support themselves? But normal relationships with normal people must be very hard for them to find. It must be very easy for them to feel cut off from the rest of the race, walled up in a restricted world which they cannot leave and others cannot enter.

That feeling, heaven knows, comes to all of us now and then. Oddly enough, it is more apt to come to one who lives in a city among crowds than to the man who lives in the open country. For crowds do not display the best side of human nature. One scans them in vain for traces of unselfishness, courage and wisdom. One may be sure of one's own integrity, but very dubious about the integrity of the world at large.

To be in a crowd but not of it is a hard fate. But it is not confined to men who, like this poor midget, are shut off by physical limitations. Every man feels it, at times. Some men go through their whole lives with it. As our civilization continues to grow more and more complex, it will be the lot of an ever-increasing number of people.

Yet this kind of loneliness isn't an insurmountable thing, after all. The crowd that brings it can dispel it, too, if you watch it closely enough. You will see much greed, much heedless rivalry, much haste and much cowardice and stupidity; but you will also see other traits, if your eyes are keen—a bit of courage here and there, a hidden act of self-sacrifice and devotion, an unobtrusive quest for truth and decency. cency.

And these things make up for the loneliness. They bring conviction that the world is better than it seems. When you find, in the routine course of your daily life, a glimpse of courage and beauty and love, you know that somewhere there exist infinite courage, infinite beauty and infinite love. There is a divine harmony, after all, and every human being shares in it.

The loneliness of isolation is a terrible thing. But it can be conquered. Humanity can be heedless, cold and hard, but it is also noble and inspiring. It all depends on what your eyes can see.

When in Rome

WHEN you are in a strange, wild land, it pays to abide by the land's customs, outlandish as they may seem.

A French army officer and his Moroccan orderly were billeted in a private house near Fez, Morocco, where a French regiment was being stationed. The house had once been occupied by descendants of the prophet, Mohammed, and hence was sacred ground to the Mussulmen. The officer was warned not to profane it by using tobacco within its walls.

He thought the warning a bit of foolishness, and as soon as he was established he lay down on a divan and lighted a cigar—whereupon his devout Moroccan orderly drew a revolver and shot him dead.

Native ways in a barbaric land may be strange; but it is a good thing to observe them.

Helping the Needy

THE welfare council of New York, in a bulletin just issued, makes a very timely and sensible observation on the subject of Christmas charity. Referring to gifts of food, clothing and toys that cities and individuals make to poverty-stricken families, it says:

"Help the needy to help themselves. The family in need on Christmas day is nearly always in just as dire need the following week or month. A Christmas basket or dinner will not take the place of a job, medical service or institutional care. Persons in distress should therefore, be brought to the attention of some one of the many welfare societies, preferably the one best equipped to render the particular service needed."

It's good advice. Christmas gifts for the needy are splendid things; but it is also important that some kind of permanent relief be given where it is needed.

SENDING THE GOOD ONES TO PRISON

Nearly 300 Grayson county mules have been sent to the penitentiary. But these mules, unlike human beings, were not sent there because they were bad, but because they were good. And on this point of livstock shipments, it is remarkable to observe the great outward movement of livestock from this country within the past few years. Grayson county has long been a noted livestock market, not only in mules but in cattle and hogs as well.

ROAD SIGNS TO COMMUNITY CENTERS

For years we have placed markers on the roads directing the way to the city. The signs have had the desired effect. We have brought the masses to the city and schooled them well in buying in the department store and the self-service grocery. They have profited thereby, but the city has no adequate substitute for the rural social affair. The city's shows offer pleasant diversion, but they cannot replace. It is to be hoped that the movement to place markers on the road pointing the way to community centers heralds a new-born rural community spirit that will revive the community as a social entity. The sign showing the way to the city and that marking the road to the community center both have a well-deserved place in modern life.

RADIO AND THE PULPIT

A minister in Mangum, Okla., complained last Sunday night that many of his congregation were staying at home on Sunday evenings and listening to radio sermons and deserting the church. There is truth in the statement because some fine sermons go out over the air that are well worth listening to. If what the minister refers to is true it looks like the preacher in the small town is running up against what the small-town newspaper had to fight against when wire service and quick transportation came into general use. Patrons had rather have the large city daily than the home publication. It caused the little fellow to change his policy in news so that the reader would demand two mediums, his home paper and the one from the city. This was brought about by featuring nothing excepting local news—maybe it was not of general interest, but it was sought by the community readers. One paper for national news and one for purely home news—that is the demand of most subscribers today. It may mean the same thing for the church.

SIDE GLANCES By George Clark

"You can bring some of your fraternity friends home Christmas and your father and I will have a nice tree for you."

During the summer, Jonifer takes Gerane and his nephew, Peter, to Edelweiss on a pleasure jaunt. They are disguised as gypsies. While there, they see Starcourt acting as the escort of the princess on her return to the palace. One look at Gerane's face, when she sees Starcourt, tells Jonifer that she loves him. Peter arrives at the same conclusion, and is none too pleased, for he secretly loves Gerane. However he knows he can never marry her, for not only was his father, Jonifer's half-brother, of illegitimate birth but he himself was born out of wedlock. Jonifer, being the legitimate descendant of the Duke of Droon, who was made an outlaw, many, many years ago, after his attempt to seize the throne, exercises his prerogatives as head of the family in a way that the son of his deceased illegitimate half-brother often finds distasteful. Peter instantly becomes jealous of Starcourt, who, according to a spectator, is about to undertake the extermination of the bandits in the Forest of Droon and has been made a colonel, for he has voluntarily undertaken the task.

Urged on by his mother and his brothers, who hate Jonifer, Peter contemplates a revolt against his uncle's authority.

Jonifer, who, on learning that Gerane is in love with Starcourt, makes some secret plans that involve the soldier, takes a trip to Moscow. On his way home, near the Axphain border, the stage-coach is held up—not by his men however. The arrival of a troop of soldiers results in the capture of the robbers. The incident serves to inform Jonifer that Starcourt, with 400 picked men, is in the Forest of Droon to run down the Davos band, no matter how long the task keeps him there. Jonifer and his companion.

John Crispo and Jonifer Davos quietly disappear that night and make their way home, realizing that the situation is too serious to permit of their running the risk of capture.

Jonifer's return puts an end, for a time, at least, to Peter's thoughts of rebellion. The chief's next move is an attempt to capture Starcourt in a surprise attack at night. He is defeated, however.

Later, coming upon Starcourt while he is swimming in a mountain pool, Jonifer captures him. The colonel's men believe him to be drowned.

Meanwhile, he is among the robbers in the valley, free to do as he pleases, but unable to escape.

Jonifer tells Gerane that he has captured Starcourt as a birthday present for her. The bandit chief takes it for granted that the soldier will fall in love with his daughter and that they will marry. He is amazed when Gerane, in a fit of rage, says she will marry Peter—anybody but the soldier.

Gerane, although she is not fooled by Jonifer's threat, says the soldier is not to be shot—that she has decided to have his life that he may instruct her in English.

While the Graustark authorities are still making frantic efforts to recover Starcourt's body from the pool in which the soldier was supposedly drowned the minister of police, Baron Dangloss, is informed by one of his men, Peter Corpas, that the Countess Jabassy has in her possession a famous diamond that was taken from a Russian princess in the Forest of Droon by Davos' men. The detective also says that the count and countess are living on a scale that is far beyond their means and asks where the money comes from. He says that he believes the count and countess to be Davos' confederates.

Corpas, disguised as a fruit vender, stops the Countess Katrane on the street and, taking a long chance, tells her he is a messenger from Jonifer Davos and has been sent to tell her that her connection with the robber band is known to the police. Despite her desperate efforts at self-control, Corpas sees how alarmed she is and decides that his suspicions are correct.

As the result of Corpas's report, Dangloss sends officers to bring the count and countess before him. They, fearing that arrest will result in the disclosure of their relations with Jonifer, commit suicide.

Starcourt, now in love with Gerane, although he is unwilling to admit it, even to himself, asks her companion, Matilde, to tell him something of Gerane's mother. The old woman, who herself was the companion of Gerane's mother, tells him how they were captured by the bandits while passing through the Forest of Droon—how Louise, Gerane's mother, fell in love with Jonifer and married him.

Word comes to the robbers of the suicide of the Count and Countess, and the reason for it. Not knowing whether the authorities have learned of their hiding place, they prepare to resist attack, if necessary.

Starcourt is tortured by the thought that the defeat of the robbers, although it will mean his release, may mean death for Gerane, as a member of the band. He is amazed to hear from the mother of Gerane's cousin, Peter, that many in the valley look upon him as chosen by Jonifer to be his successor, as well as his son-in-law.

She admits her love for him, but says she cannot marry him because of her connection with the robber band and because of his oath to the crown to destroy that band. While he is protesting that he will never leave the forest of Droon unless rescued by the troops, they hear the voices of men in the distance.

Peter and his brothers come up and are joined by Jonifer. Gerane and Starcourt confess their love. Peter is furious and Jonifer is puzzled as to the future, until Starcourt tells him that he will remain with the bandits, making no attempt to escape. That night Jonifer announces the engagement, and the dwellers in the valley learn that Starcourt is an English lord, as well as a colonel in the duke's Dragoons.

At first the news of the betrothal brings rejoicing, but soon the younger members of the band, convinced that Jonifer means to make Starcourt his successor, begin to object to it. They ask Jonifer to discuss the matter with them.

He tells Gerane and Starcourt of the situation. They are firm in their determination. Starcourt laughs at their belief that he wishes to be the leader of the robber band, and Jonifer goes to meet his men.

INSTALMENT XXXV

The assembled group received him in silence. He walked straight to the shed and faced them, the light from the forge behind him. Without a moment's hesitation, he began, his voice raised a little to carry to the outer rim of listeners:

"The first question to be settled here tonight concerns me alone. If there is one among you who is willing to step forward and accuse me of disloyalty, let him do so."

He waited for a reply. Finally Julius Broadaxe spoke.

"I am not in accord with the rest, Jonifer, but I take it upon myself to speak for all. No one questions your loyalty. Am I right, men?"

There was a chorus of approval.

"And yet," said Jonifer coldly, "you are assembled here to question my motives. Let us get down to business. You have a spokesman. Let him stand forth and present his grievance. I know what it is, but we will understand each other better, if the matter is put into plain terms in the presence of all. I am a man of few words, as you know. Let your spokesman be brief. Stand forth, Jan Melby, if you are the one selected."

Melby advanced to within a few yards of the stalwart chieftain.

"I have been chosen, Jonifer," said he. "I speak first for every man in this crowd. We are your friends. We are content with your leadership. We have no grudge against you. Let that be understood, Jonifer."

"It is," said the chieftain.

"But we are opposed to the marriage of your daughter and the man she describes as her 'beloved enemy.' It is our intention to prevent it by what we call fair means, but which to you may seem foul. In short, this marriage is not to take place. I speak now for all save six or eight men. We are nearly 15 to one, and we are determined. This man Starcourt is a prisoner here. He was bent on destroying us. His hand is against us now and always will be. Why, therefore, should we allow our enemy to be rewarded? No man could ask for a greater reward than that which is to be bestowed upon him—the hand of Gerane and all that goes with it. What have you to say, Jonifer?"

Jonifer took his time about answering.

"Gerane is my daughter," he said at last. "Have I ever questioned the right of any father here to give his daughter in marriage to whomsoever he chooses?"

"No father among us has given his daughter to an enemy, and that you know full well," said Jan.

"Call Starcourt an enemy, if it pleases you. He is a gentleman, he is in love with my daughter, and she with him. He is our prisoner. He can never leave this valley alive without our consent. You all knew what my intentions were when I made a captive of him. I brought him here with but a single thought in mind. If things turned out as I wished and hoped, Gerane would fall in love with him and they would be married, whether he was willing or not. It has fallen out as I desired. Therefore, my friends, I shall give my daughter to the man of her choice. I can tell by your faces that you have an alternative to propose. Out with it!"

"We expected you to take this stand," said Melby loudly. "We know you well enough for that. We ask you to deliver Starcourt over to us, peaceably, within the next 24 hours. If you refuse to accept this offer, it is our intention to take him by force. We give you 24 hours in which to decide the—"

"I do not need 24 seconds, my friends," broke in Jonifer ruthlessly. "I have already decided. Now, I make the same proposition to you. I will give you 24 hours in which to change your minds. If, at the end of that time, you are still determined to take him by force, you will find him at my house. But I warn you now that you will have to kill me first. Either I am the chieftain here, or I am nobody. Well, I would sooner be a dead chieftain than a living nobody."

There was a dead silence. Then Broadaxe stepped forth.

"You may count me as a loyal friend, Jonifer," he said. "If there are others here, let them stand forth, that we may see how many are willing to die for Jonifer Davos. At the same time, Jan Melby, you may count the number of friends you may have to kill."

Seven men promptly joined Broadaxe. There was no hesitation. These men, and all the others, for that matter, were not afraid of death. But the seven held their heads a little higher than the rest. Peter was one of them. Jonifer's voice rang out.

"There is one more thing I have to say to all of you, including these men who are here beside me. It has been stated that it is in my mind to have Gavan Starcourt take my place when my days are done. You are saying that my daughter's husband is to succeed me. Nothing could be farther from the truth. You want the truth. Well, you shall have it. It is my wish and always has been—and well you know—that one day my daughter shall go out into the world and take her place among its people. She is not one of us at heart. She does not belong here with us. I look forward to the day when she may go forth as the wife of an honest gentleman. That day may be far off—years away, I have no doubt. Of one thing you may be sure, as I shall be sure, myself—Colonel Starcourt will never leave this place until he gives his word of honor not to betray us—or his wife. And, if he gives his word of honor, I shall accept it. We give our word of honor never to betray each other, and we have died, rather than violate it. His word is as good as ours. I bring you a message from him. If it is your will to have him come before you and repeat it, I will send for him. Not half an hour ago he told me to tell you that no power on earth is strong enough to make a robber and an outlaw of him. There you have it—in his own words. And now you shall have my decision. My daughter and Gavan Starcourt are to become man and wife on the 15th of March. Now, we understand each other. I am either Jonifer the Hawk, or Jonifer the Worm."

"Yes!" shouted Jan Melby. "Now we understand each other, Jonifer Davos. If, by tomorrow at this time, you still refuse to abide by the will of the majority, we shall come for Starcourt, and we will not go away without him. You can save his life—and perhaps your own, for we would not do you harm—you can save his life by turning him over to us. We will agree to spare his life. We pledge that very thing. But, after tomorrow, he earns his bread by toiling in the fields and forest, as our prisoner, not yours, and he will never speak to your daughter again, except as a slave."

"Once more I say to you that I am either Jonifer the Hawk, or Jonifer the Worm," shouted the chieftain, and strode away.

He heard the mutterings, the shouts, the execrations, but he did not turn his head. On entering the house, he said to Starcourt:

"You will spend the night in this house, Colonel."

And from the grim, terse injunction they gathered volumes.

"They have defied you, father?" Gerane asked tremulously.

"On the contrary, I have defied them," said he, casting aside his coat and cap.

"What is it they demand, Jonifer?" This from Starcourt.

"They want you, Starcourt," replied the other.

"To—to kill?" cried Gerane, horrified.

"Not so bad as that, my girl. They would make a slave of him for the rest of his days."

Her face brightened a little. "But I would be happy to work with him, if—"

"That is not a part of their plan. You can never speak to him again."

She gave a sharp hysterical laugh. "And you—you will permit them to do this?" she cried.

"Did I not say to you that I have defied them?"

"See here," broke in Starcourt, "am I to have no word in this? I know what this means to you, Jonifer. Save yourselves. Turn me over to them. That is the only way to spare—"

"Starcourt, are you a coward?" grated Jonifer.

"A coward?" cried the young man, flushing. "Give me a pistol and a sword and see if I am a coward. I will go among them now and—"

"I beg your pardon. I spoke quickly, and without thought. What I should have said is this: Do you think I am a coward? Turn you over to them? Take you away from Gerane? Is that what you call defiance? Come now, draw up your bench to the fire. Come, come, Gerane! Pinch your cheeks, if that be the only way to put color into them. Do not look like a sick kitten. Bid Matilde to join us. Tell Rosa to draw two flagons of ale at once. A bottle of wine, as well, for our ladies in distress. Then all you here beside the cause of all the trouble, the noble Count Marie-Starcourt. Bear you well in mind, my girl, that, before many days have passed, you will be a Countess—aye, and I will see to it that every dog out yonder addresses you as 'my lady.' Come! Be sprightly, girl."

He laughed uproariously. They took heart from his cheerfulness.

"Now you do believe, father, that Gavan and I are—are to be married?" she cried, her brow clearing.

"How is it possible for you to become a countess unless you marry a count?" he countered. "Run along now. And hurry back."

She stopped halfway to the door, and listened.

"Hear them! They have been yelling and shouting like that for some time. Oh, do you suppose they have reconsidered—do you think they are cheering, father?"

"It is of no consequence whether they growl or whine," replied Jonifer, taking up his pipe and pouch. "It all comes to the same end when the master speaks. And I have spoken."

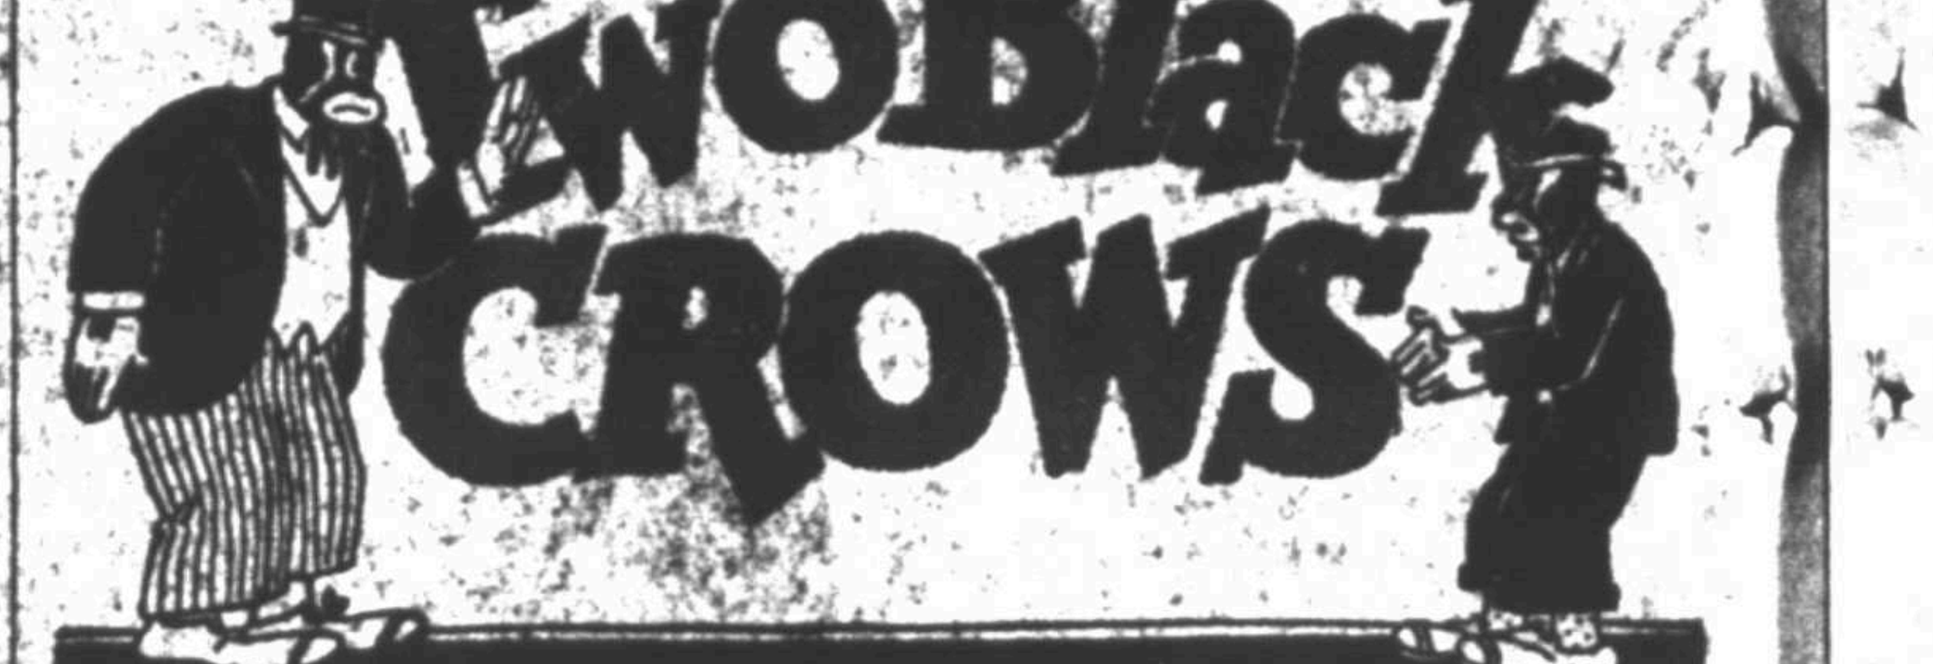

No sooner had Gerane left the room than his face sobered. He waited a moment before speaking. The yells coming up from the distant forge seemed louder, and fiercer. He lowered his voice.

"We may as well eat, drink, and be merry, Starcourt, for tomorrow we may—now, how does your saying go?—for tomorrow we may be—oh, I have it! For tomorrow we may all be defunct!"

Wichita Woman Was Discouraged By Many Failures

Farmer's Wife Had Suffered For Thirty Years, Is Grateful to Orgatone

"If there was no other way for my wife to get Orgatone, she would actually walk twenty miles rather than be without it," said F. M. Nott, who lives at 2406 Holliday St., Wichita Falls, Texas, a few days ago.

"My wife suffered for thirty years," continued Mr. Nott, "and during that time I spent thousands of dollars with specialists, hospitals, and medicines trying to find something that would overcome her troubles, but she never got any relief until she commenced to take Orgatone. Her stomach was in an awful condition, and every time she ate anything she would suffer for hours afterwards. Sometimes she would have cramping spells, and then she would often suffer on account of gas forming from sour, undigested food, she would have awful headaches, too, and would frequently get so dizzy that she would either have to sit down or lie down to keep from falling. Her appetite was so poor that she hardly ate enough to keep her going and got so thin and weak that she was hardly able to get around at all. She also suffered a great deal from nervousness, and never got a good night's sleep. She finally got in such a worn out, run-down condition that she just had to give up trying to do her work. In fact, we were completely discouraged over her condition, and gave up all hope of her ever getting better.

"I told my wife that I didn't think it was of any use for us to spend any more money for doctors and specialists, but she said, 'No, we mustn't give up, for as long as there is life there is hope.' Well, I noticed Orgatone being advertised then and I thought I would see if that would do her any good, and before she had finished her first bottle I could see that she was mending right along. Her appetite is as good now as it ever was and she can eat just anything she wants without suffering agonies afterwards. She has taken only a few bottles of Orgatone so far, and her health is far better now than it has been in over thirty years. Her stomach troubles have disappeared and her nerves are in such fine condition that she drops off to sleep as soon as she goes to bed every night, and she hardly ever wakes up until she is called in the morning. She hasn't had a headache or one of those dizzy spells since she finished her first bottle of Orgatone, and is so well and strong in every way that she now does all her housework. I don't believe there is a medicine in the world that equals Orgatone, and I just can't find words to express how grateful we are for the great good it has done her and we will praise this wonderful medicine as long as we live."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy, containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Allison's Drug Store, 716 Indiana Ave., under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative who is meeting the public daily and charges nothing to explain his theories on health and hygiene. Out-of-town customers supplied promptly upon receipt of price, one bottle $1.25 or six bottles for $6.25.—Adv.

SANTA CLAUS ON WAY HERE

Kleinschmidt Keeps Big Surprise Secret

he said. And his eyes twinkled as he said it, for no one knows any better than Santa just how much pleasure he can give by such a visit.

I was so delighted that I jumped into the air and clicked my heels together three times before I came down. It was almost more than I had expected when I came up here. I thought that the most I could get would be some moving pictures and that I might possibly arrange to have Santa talk on the radio some evening. But now he actually had promised to go back to Wichita Falls with us. And when Santa gives his word, not even Layluk, the Northwind, can change it.

"When will you be ready to start?" Santa asked.' This question brought me back to sane thinking again for you can imagine how thrilled I was at his promise.

Pictures Included

Our baggage, including our precious motion pictures, were all packed, and we only had to transfer them to the airplanes. These were standing ready in their snow hangars and the motors only needed warming up. Still I had to attend to and settle many things that took up time.

We settled with Patunuk and Kitseana, our faithful Eskimos, and everything we could spare and which we actually did not have to use on our flight home we left with them and it proved to be quite a heap of goods, making them virtually millionaires in Eskimoland. Our rifles and ammunition, of course, topped the list in value, because this meant food in the shape of seal, walrus and polar bear. A pair of binoculars were priceless to them because they made your eyes so strong you could see things for miles. The whole village wanted to club together and buy one of the airplanes if a white man would stay with them for a year and teach them how to run it.

The airplanes were rolled out of the snow hangar and the motors started warming up. Pretty soon they were droning in perfect time, and with a last wave at our Eskimo friends, and with Santa Claus himself aboard, we hopped off for New York and then to Wichita Falls.

Hot Words Follow Auto Crash

So Wichitan Accuses Munday Lady

Seeking recourse from the alleged abuse of a woman's tongue, a Wichita Falls man Thursday made complaint to the county attorney's office against a young matron of Munday, whose words, he swore, constituted a disturbance of the peace.

It all happened back on Nov. 28, he told officials, when his car and that of the woman named in the complaint, collided on the Seymour road. Both cars were damaged, the man reported. The two drivers exchanged words after the accident and those of the young woman became abusive, according to the complaint.

Charges of disturbing the peace were filed against the feminine driver, who Thursday morning made bond to appear before Judge C. M. McFarland for trial in the county court at law.

COURT HEARS WATER SUIT

Attorneys Argue Law In Seepage Case

Arguments over defendant's demurrer in the $65,000 damage suit of Mrs. J. M. McGrath and others against the Wichita County Water Improvement District No. 1 occupied all Thursday afternoon and were continued until Friday morning before Judge E. O. Thornton in the 89th district court.

The plaintiffs are alleging damages to land southwest of Wichita Falls claimed to have been injured from seepage from irrigation canals. E. R. Burles, of the firm of Carrigan, Britain, Morgan and King, contended Thursday afternoon in support of a demurrer asking dismissal of the suit as barred by the statute of limitations. The canals, he urged, were dug more than two years ago and the suit therefore cannot be filed this late.

E. W. Napier, counsel for the plaintiff, responded with the argument that the damages ensued within the two-year limit. A decision is expected before noon Friday.

Liquor Charges Filed After Raid by Sheriff

Members of the sheriff's department Thursday afternoon raided a place on the river bank north of town and destroyed eight half gallon jars of whiskey. Charges of possession of intoxicating liquor were filed in the district attorney's office against M. C. Duvall following the raid.

Federal complaints were filed with Commissioner J. A. Lants against G. S. Meadows, 1311 Eleventh street, and against Curly Speery of Electra, both for possession.

Prisoner's Story Starts Probe by Officials

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Dec. 13 (AP)—Thomas Jennings, held by Fort Worth, Texas, authorities precipitated an investigation here today with his story of having ridden with A. Loving from Los Angeles to Phoenix, Ariz., where the latter died, and having driven to Texas.

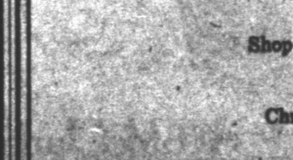

A check here disclosed that the address under which Loving registered his automobile was fictitious. Steps were taken to determine whether Loving had died a natural death and had been buried by county authorities at Phoenix as Jennings said.

60 CITY CARS

Motor Vehicles Listed For Registration By County

A list of 60 city automobiles was turned over to the county tax collector's office Thursday by W. E. McBroom, city clerk, for issuance of the 1929 automobile license tags to the city. The cars listed include fire trucks and all city motor equipment.

The tags are issued to the city free in Texas under a provision which exempts governmental vehicles from taxes.

the new health society. He is conceded to stand at the top of the medical profession in England. Tonight he has at last consented to allow his name used in connection with the discussion of the royal patient. He said:

"I think that when the definite location of an abcess is determined, surgery is the only possible chance to prevent the spread of toxemia and possible meningitis.

"Now if his majesty rallies from the effect of the operation there is every reason to hope for recovery, though it will be slow and subject to fluctuations. The next few days will tell the story."

London Optimistic

An air of optimism again pervades at London, though tonight's bulletin warns that the king is still suffering from exhaustion.

Although the public does not know the real part that the Prince of Wales played in determining the twelfth hour operation, subtle mass psychology has somehow attributed the upward trend of his majesty's condition to "Wales."

Even the unofficial palace spokesman who, in the dark hours of Tuesday night declared that "nothing is being given out from this office," radiated cordiality tonight. In their curious manner of indirection the afternoon papers today printed front page photographs showing the Prince of Wales leaving the royal automobile club after a game of squash racquets with the Duke of York, which is by way of telling their readers that if the Prince of Wales could do that there is no immediate cause for anxiety at the palace.

"Though the king is suffering some from exhaustion, there is a slight improvement in his majesty's condition this evening. The local condition remains satisfactory."

This bulletin was issued from Buckingham palace at 8:15 this evening and was signed by Sir Stanley Hewett, Lord Dawson of Penn, and Sir Hugh M. Rigby, the latter the Prince of Wales' own physician who was called into the case yesterday at the insistence of the prince.

You cannot be attractive without a clear skin

EVERYBODY wants to be attractive. It is a great and just ambition. But no one can be attractive without a clear skin—you know that.

Do you realize the importance of pure, rich blood in preserving the health, and that the source of most skin disorders is in the blood?

Remove the cause, which is not in the skin itself, and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

S.S.S. is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs, and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

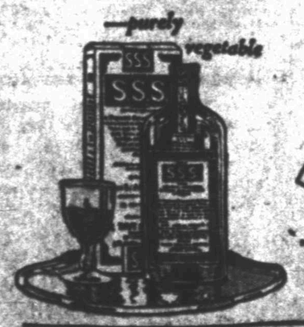

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, you don't have that tired, languid feeling when you awake in the morning. Instead, you feel refreshed, ready to meet the world.

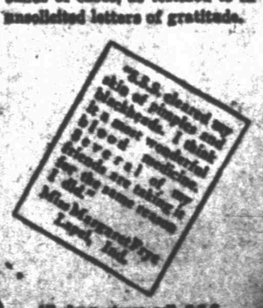

Your appetite is keen—you enjoy work or play—your skin is clear, cheeks naturally rosy.

All this because rich, red blood builds and sustains the body.

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

FOUR ELEVENS AWAIT SEMI-FINAL GRID CLASHES TODAY

WINNERS TO MEET FRIDAY

Abilene Meets Cleburne; Port Arthur vs. Marshall

DALLAS, Dec. 13. (AP)—Four schoolboy football elevens, none of them averaging more than 170 pounds to the schoolboy, slept soundly tonight in preparation for the parts they will play tomorrow in narrowing down the field of survivors in the state high school football race.

The Abilene Eagles, Cleburne Yellow Jackets, Marshall Mavericks and Port Arthur Yellow Jackets alone remain of more than half a hundred aggregations that entered the lists in September. Each has come through its district undefeated and advanced to the semi-finals by winning bi-district contests last week.

Port Arthur had the narrowest squeak last week, playing a 6-6 tie with Main Avenue of San Antonio but gaining the right to proceed by winning a toss of the coin. Cleburne won from Sunset high of Dallas, 12 to 6; Abilene eliminated the Amarillo Golden Sandstorm, 26 to 21; and Marshall triumphed over Greenville, 26 to 6.

Big Crowds Expected

Tomorrow's festivities find Coach Tom Dennis' Port Arthur eleven tackling the Marshall Mavericks, at Marshall, and Cleburne mixing with Abilene, at Abilene. Approximately 20,000 are expected to see the two games, the winners of which will clash a week hence in the final tussle for the crown.

Abilene is the only one of the four survivors ever to win the interscholastic league laurels, or, for that matter, to reach the finals. The Eagles have thrice played Waco for the title, winning once and losing twice. Last year Waco's great machine nosed out the Eagles three touchdowns to two.

Crippled Teams

Both Abilene and Cleburne will be slightly crippled in their tilt to decide the championship of Central and West Texas. Seamon Squyres, Cleburne's fullback, was declared ineligible by the executive committee of the interscholastic league meeting today at Austin. It was found the Yellow Jackets great punter and passer had been on his school's track squad in 1924, disqualifying him under the four-year rule. Abilene will enter the game without the services of Perry Barber and Hale Kincaid, regulars at guard and quarterback, respectively. Barber has been down with the flu for several days and Kincaid was hurt in last week's game with Amarillo.

This will mark the fourth time Abilene and Cleburne have met in semi-finals.

Moriarity Reappointed American League Umpire

CHICAGO, Dec. 13 (UP)—George Moriarity, former manager of the Detroit Tigers, has been reappointed as an American league umpire, it was announced at the league meeting today. Dave Barry of Boston was put on the league's reserve umpire list.

National league officials announced that the Brooklyn club had refused to waive its rights to buy Bubbles Hargrave, catcher, for the Cincinnati Reds, and that he probably would be taken back by Cincinnati. Cincinnati wanted to send Hargrave to St. Paul.

Famous Golf Shots of 1928

Hagen and the British Open

By FRANK H. KING
Associated Press Sports Writer

At Sandwich in May, Walter Hagen won his third British open golf championship from a cavernous bunker by a faultless recovery after an underclubbed shot—typically Hagenesque.

The fifteenth hole on the St. George's course is a 457-yard affair, stretching away into the big sand dunes. The big cross bunker guards the green.

Playing the final round, Hagen paused, studied and hesitated on his second shot—minutes it seemed to the expectant gallery.

Then he pulled out his spoon.

"Walter should have given it both barrels"—meaning the brassie—whispered the veteran J. H. Taylor, five times British open champion.

The club flashed, the ball soared—and dropped squarely in the bunker.

As near as championships can be settled by single shots, Hagen's fate was in that trap which swallowed him as completely as it had his ball.

But the whole scene suited the American ace. The Prince of Wales and 5,000 greater and lesser dubs, duffers and champions were there. All week Walter had fought to retrieve his reputation after that fearful drubbing from Archie Compston, 18 up and 17 to play.

Three strokes behind young Jose Jurado from the Argentine at the end of the second round, Hagen, with 220, played himself into the lead at the end of the third. Sarazen was a stroke behind.

And here Hagen was four holes from the finish, the championship anybody's: Sarazen, Compston, Barnes, Melhorn and Arliss hot after him, and disaster staring from the bottom of a sand pit. Anything from five up might be needed for this most critical hole.

The American's bronzed face showed not the slightest emotion or change of expression as he sized up the shot. The lie was good. A niblick would take the ball out safely; a mashie-niblick played to perfection might drop it near the cup 40 yards away. The risk was great.

Hagen chose the more difficult shot. Steadying himself in the sand, he took his mashie-niblick back in a short, perfectly controlled swing and with the power applied as if by delicate machinery, lifted the ball perfectly and stood as still as stone while it barely cleared the face of the bunker, landed on the green and trickled eight feet past the cup. Then he sank the putt, and the crowds cheered. A birdie four!

The rest was easy. Hagen finished in par, three, four, four, for 292, and turned back to watch the boys shoot at his mark. One after another they slipped, Melhorn, Barnes, Jurado, Compston.

With all the pomp and circumstance of such occasions, the Prince of Wales handed the famous old British trophy back to Hagen.

"I don't want to wear out my welcome over here," said Walter, "but I'm going to come again."

MOGULS TABLE TEN-MAN PLAN

1929 Schedule to Begin April 19

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (AP)—John A. Heydler, president of the National league, tossed his revolutionary idea of a ten-man baseball team into the joint meeting of the American and National league club owners today.

Instead of creating a whooping uproar, the proposal fell flat. It was not even discussed except by President Heydler himself, when he presented the idea to the club owners. Then he talked about it apologetically, explaining he merely wanted to go on record with the scheme for future consideration.

With the idea tabled, the pitchers of both the National and American leagues will bat for themselves during the coming season.

Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, presiding over the session, had little opportunity to wave the "big stick," as peace and harmony prevailed.

The club owners agreed to start the major league season on April 16, about a week later than usual, and wind it up Oct. 6, a week later than the close of the 1928 season. This will bring the world series in conflict with the football season, as the baseball classic, under the new closing date, cannot be started until October 9 or 10. The club owners decided on the later opening date because of adverse weather conditions last spring when scores of games had to be postponed.

PITCHERS OPPOSE NON-HITTING PLAN

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. (UP)—Four out of five pitchers polled today by the United Press were opposed to John Heydler's suggestion for a 10-man baseball team, the tenth man to bat for the pitcher.

Following are their opinions:

"Dazzy Vance, Robins—"Heydler's idea would speed up the game, but would make it tough on the pitchers by not having a weak-hitting hurler to pitch to. It would do away with walking other hitters to get to the pitcher, and would take natural incentive away from the game for pitchers. We all love our base hits."

Fred Fitzsimmons, Giants—"I'm not in favor of the rule. It's a big enough job for us pitchers to face eight hitters."

George Pipgras, Yankees—"I do not approve of Heydler's idea."

Tom Zachary, Yankees—"If the batting privilege is taken away from the pitcher, there is no joy left for him."

Henry Johnson, Yankees—"Great idea. I'm in favor of it. Johnson in 31 games and 79 times at bat batted .241 last season."

Loughran Wants to Eat His Cake And Have It Too, Runyon Declares

Damon Irked by Manifestations to Gain Heavyweight Recognition for the Phantom of Phil

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service)

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—I note in the public prints that the sports writers of Philadelphia, in mass meeting assembled, demanded heavyweight justice and recognition for the phantom of Phil, Thomas Loughran, light heavyweight champion of the world. Of the ho—oh—ole world, as Frank Kerwin, the Los Angeles announcer says, when he wishes to cover plenty of territory.

It seems that the sports writers of Philadelphia are demanding said justice and recognition mainly from the New York Boxing commission, which has ruled that Thomas cannot battle heavyweights as long as he clings to his light heavyweight title.

Why the sports writers of Philadelphia pay any attention to an edict of the New York commission, when Pennsylvania has a commission of its own, is beyond me. The Pennsylvania commission is just as important, and maybe a little bit more so than the New York commission, though you might not think so from this manifestation of an inferiority complex.

Let Him Go On

The Pennsylvania commission is permitting Thomas Loughran to fight heavyweights, and still retain his light heavyweight title. Very good. What difference does it make what the New York commission says? It speaks for one state only. They can let Thomas Loughran go on fighting his heavyweights right there in Pennsylvania, and if he licks enough of them, he will get all the heavyweight justice and recognition he desires—even from the New York commission.

But I am not so sure that he is going to come out so well with his own commission in the matter of justice and recognition if a remark attributed to Frank Weiner, chairman of the Pennsylvania commission, is correctly quoted.

Weiner is a pretty shrewd bloke. He knows boxing better than the average boxing commissioner, though that isn't necessarily giving him credit for a lot of knowledge. Somewhat high-handed in spots, and explosive, Weiner gives Pennsylvania boxing a wise and fair administration. At last that is my opinion.

Demand Recognition

They tell me that some of Thomas Loughran's friends went to Weiner and asked him to have the Pennsylvania Boxing commission recognize the phantom of Phil as heavyweight champion of the world.

"Say, we'd look like a bunch of saps recognizing Loughran as heavyweight champion when George Godfrey lives in the same state," Weiner is said to have replied.

At least the New York Boxing commission wouldn't be deterred in awarding justice and recognition to Thomas Loughran by any thought of George Godfrey. The New York commission does not care for George Godfrey.

I believe George Godfrey is not an accepted candidate for the Muldoon-Tunney trophy, unless he is this fellow K. O. Christner, whitewashed. But neither is Thomas Loughran an accepted candidate for the M-T trophy.

If the sports writers of Philadelphia want heavyweight justice and recognition for Thomas Loughran, their way to get it is to have the Pennsylvania Boxing commission put up its own trophy and put on its own tournament, quietly disposing of George Godfrey in the meantime by some means that would be none of my business.

And while the sports writers of Philadelphia are demanding justice and recognition for Thomas Loughran, I wish to state that I am searching the archives to see if there is any record of any exponent of the sour science ever demanding justice and recognition for a sports writer.

A thing I do not understand is this: Some months ago I raised a piteous little bleat on behalf of Thomas Loughran. I proclaimed him successor to Gene Tunney as heavyweight champion of the world on the premise that Thomas Loughran was the best of the unretired heavyweights.

"Who can lick him?" I shrilled.

An echo answered "Who?"

No Seconds

I confidently expected my piping notes would presently be swollen to a prodigious chorus by the reinforcement of the basso profunda of Thomas Loughran's other admirers, notably in Philadelphia.

And what was my astonishment, and embarrassment, to suddenly discover that my small voice alone was crying in the wilderness, with nary a peep, nary a whisper, nary a low muffled moan of acquiescence from Thomas Loughran's little pals.

I was a lone piccolo tweet-tweeting under the trees, and Thomas Loughran himself didn't add to my confidence in my cause by any word or act of his own. On the contrary, my comrades, he remained strangely silent. Strangely so.

I thought the logical thing for Thomas Loughran to do was to loudly bawl, "The guy is right!" and to forthwith rush among the big loogans' cudgeling to the right and left of him, and laying one and all very, very low.

But when Thomas Loughran suggested that he didn't want to give up his light heavyweight title, yet still wished to fight heavyweights, it struck me as a confession of weakness. Thomas wanted to eat his cake, and have it, too, so to speak. I commenced to pipe down on Thomas Loughran.

I esteem him a high class, gentlemanly young man, a credit to the sour science. And all that sort of thing. But I regret to report that after a lapse of months, Thomas Loughran hasn't done a single thing—hasn't made a single move—toward justifying me in shooting off my bazoo in his heavyweight behalf.

He fought a cross-legged left handed gander named Jack Gross over in Philadelphia, a chap who is little more than a novice, and of course Thomas Loughran gave Jack quite a pelting. I believe Thomas is now going out to Chicago to fight one Big Boy Peterson, and you know Big Boy.

But he hasn't yet fought one of our second rate heavyweights, which is as high as our heavyweights go this semester, and he hasn't even fought a good light heavyweight lately. So Thomas Loughran is commencing to irk me no little, and causing me to regret that vocal effort I put forth in his cause, small as it may have been.

STRIBLING TO BOX SHARKEY

Miami Beach to Be Scene Of Battle

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. (AP)—Tex Rickard announced today that Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight and Young Stribling, sensational young Georgian, have agreed to meet in an elimination tournament bout at Miami Beach, Fla., in an open air arena to be constructed there to seat 50,000.

While no date has been set for the match, considered the heavyweight "plum" of the winter season, Rickard said the arena would be ready for the last week in February or the first week in March. Rickard will promote the match with the assistance of the Miami Beach Chamber of Commerce.

Because of the large number of visitors in Florida at that time, Rickard estimated the proceeds should approach $500,000. He will leave for Miami Beach Jan. 1, to work out details for the match.

Although neither Sharkey nor Stribling have signed for the match, the promoter said both have signified their willingness to box there. Plans for the open air arena have been completed, he said.

Jennings Leader In Muny Tennis

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 13 (INS)—George Jennings Jr., agile Chicago southpaw, succeeds Ted Drewes of St. Louis as the ranking star of the country's municipal tennis players, according to a list given out from the headquarters of the National Public Parks Tennis association here today.

Drewes had won the tournament four years in succession before being ousted by Jennings in the semi-finals of the national tournament at Cleveland last summer.

Ralph Rice and George Jennings Jr., both of Chicago, top the list of the first 10 doubles ranking.

Seven cities are represented in the first 10 singles rankings.

MANY LINEMEN TO BE LEADERS

Forwards Lead Backs As Grid Captains

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—A poll of football captains for 1929 in all sections of the country by the United Press shows that out of the 68 leaders chosen at 64 colleges, 37 are linemen and 31 backfield men.

Linemen are the most popular in the East and Far West, while backs are the favorites in the South and Middle West. Of the 31 captains named in the East, 22 are linemen and nine back. Yale, Harvard and Princeton all have named linemen to lead their 1929 elevens.

Mid-West Has Halves

Halfbacks hold sway in the Middle West, where 12 out of 20 captains named are backs and nine of them halfbacks. Down South six of the eight captains reported are backs and four of them quarterbacks. In the Far West five out of the eight captains selected are linemen.

Only two schools, Michigan State and the University of Idaho, out of the list compiled by the United Press, have named two captains.

To Have Acting Captains

Carnegie Tech has abandoned the practice of selecting a captain, but will name an honorary captain at the end of the season. The University of Oregon and Oregon state in the Far West and Southern Methodist in the Southwest, will worry along without captains, but an acting captain will be appointed for each game.

Several schools named alternate captains including Alabama, Vanderbilt and Oklahoma.

The importance of the captain is slowly diminishing in all sections of the country. Time was when the captain had almost as much authority as the coach in some schools. Harvard is one of the few schools where the captain retains much of his authority, especially once a game is under way. Arnold Horween, Harvard coach, allows the Crimson captain to use his own judgment and initiative on the gridiron and seldom interferes with his decisions.

Captains represented at each position follow: Center, 6; guard, 11; tackle, 12; end, 6; quarterback, 7; halfback, 17; fullback, 7.

Serve in slices garnished with parsley. Sufficient for six portions.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Swelling on Neck

Question: L. G. asks: "Will you kindly tell me what is the cause of a swelling on my neck on the right side just below the ear? I have had it for about a month now and at times there is a sharp pain around it. I had one four years ago in the same place and had it for about a year and then it opened and yellow pus came from it."

Answer: I would advise you to have a physician examine the swelling on your neck as it is undoubtedly a local condition from the infection or inflammation of one of the lymphatic glands. The length of time you have had this trouble would indicate that it is not a boil or carbuncle.

Face Lifting

Question: Mrs. J. M. writes: "Please give me your opinion about face lifting. Is it a serious operation?"

Answer: Face lifting is dangerous, both in the operation itself and often in the distressing after-results, when the face is twisted into unlovely shapes. I could not even advise an actress to have this operation performed.

Do Poisoned Nerves Rebuild?

Question: N. O. N. writes: "Kindly let me know if it is true that nature does not rebuild nerve cells once destroyed? Also, if the following poisons consumed or inhaled often but in small doses will destroy the nervous system or injure it beyond repair: Alcohol, nicotine, phosgen and chlorine."

Answer: Some cells are completely destroyed through injury and never rebuild, but with the ordinary changes taking place in the body the cells are rebuilt as fast as they are destroyed. Wood alcohol destroys cells, often causing blindness, but grain alcohol is a stimulant and does not cause poisoning except when used in excess. Nicotine is a violent poison but only small amounts are taken in through chewing tobacco and smoking. Phosgen and chlorine are poisonous in large quantities.

DAWES PLAN REVISION

BERLIN, Dec. 13. (UP)—French reports that an agreement has been reached between all powers regarding a conference of experts for revision of the Dawes plan have been denied by informed persons here. They denied especially that Germany had approved the appointment of experts by the reparations commission or had agreed to the commission inviting American experts to attend.

FRANK H. NICHOLSON

By JOHN GRABOWSKI

Grabowski is, as everybody knows, star catcher for the New York Yankees Baseball club. Grabowski—what a peach of a name for a catcher!

JOHN GRABOWSKI

"I went home with a friend of mine the other night," Grabowski told me, "and before we reached his house the chap sought to camouflage certain tell-tale odors with spices.

"We reached his front door, and, as spiffilicated husbands will, he rang the doorbell. His wife came to the door, opened it and greeted her man with the usual kiss. Then I noticed that she seemed to be surprised at and disgusted with her hubby—and who wouldn't be? Coming home in that state!

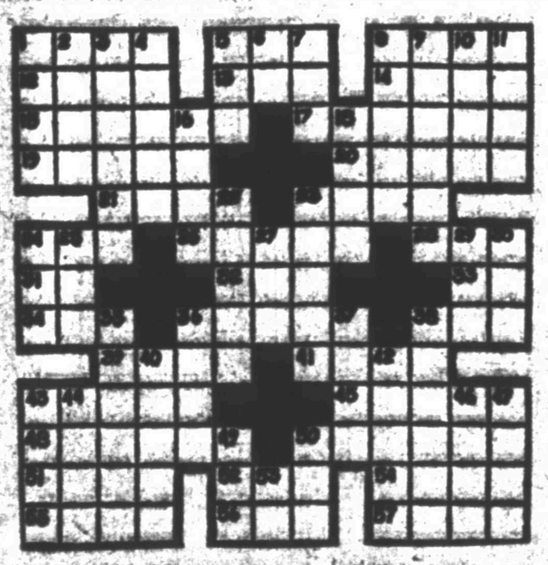

"Because I was along she tried to be nonchalant—even to the extent of lighting a cigarette. But I could see her distress, and expected a storm to break at any minute. Ten minutes passed, during which her annoyance became more and more obvious. Finally she could hold off no longer.

"'Company or no company,' she said. 'I can't stand it another minute! For goodness sake, John, go get a drink of gin and get that vile smell of cloves off your breath!'"

EMPIRE ADDS WELL AT MAUD

Seminole Production Almost at Standstill

TULSA, Dec. 13.—The Empire Oil and Refining company added another well to the Maud district. It was their No. 1 Cluck, in the southwest of the northeast of 11-8-5, which had the Wilcox sand from 4173 to 4178 feet, corrected, and in six hours, flowed 375 barrels. It made 955 barrels in 24 hours and is showing no water.

Pure Oil company No. 1 Lindly, in the southwest of the southeast of 18-8-5, topped the Hunton lime at 4124 feet and drilled to 4126 feet. It flowed 1600 barrels in 19 hours. The test will be drilled ten feet deeper.

The production of the Greater Seminole pool seems to be at a standstill. It made 277,056 barrels from 1285 wells Wednesday showing a loss of only 21 barrels over the preceding day's gauge. Maud pool continues to increase, having produced 14,522 barrels from 13 wells.

City's Needy Face Hungry Christmas, Says Parker

Prospects of a hungry Christmas lie before many of the worthy poor of Wichita Falls unless the Salvation Army Christmas dinner pots are made to boil more substantially, Capt. E. H. Parker said Thursday.

The Christmas pots have been on the streets since last Saturday and have received only $150, the officer said. They represent the annual efforts of the organization to supply Christmas groceries to scores of needy families. Capt. Parker explained that this special service comes entirely outside the ground covered by the Community Chest fund. Chest money can not be used to fill the empty baskets, he declared, and the poor depend entirely on the money contributed to keep the pots boiling.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. (AP)—A moderate early decline was followed by rather sharp advances in the cotton market today on covering and rebuying by recent sellers who appeared to be influenced by better reports from the stock market and expectations of large domestic consumption figures from the census bureau tomorrow. January contracts sold up from 20.13 to 20.42 compared with 20.18 at the close yesterday, and closed at 20.35. The general market closed steady at net advances of 13 to 17 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 4 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. There was only a light demand, however. This was soon supplied by a renewal of liquidation and southern selling. Prices eased under this pressure with December selling off to 20.35 and May to 20.10 or about 5 to 10 points net lower on the general list. This setback seemed sufficient to bring in covering by recent sellers, and the market turned upward during the afternoon when there was considerable buying through brokers with Wall street and Western connections.

There were differences of opinion among local brokers whether this represented covering of short contracts or the reinstating of long lines, but it was sufficient to send prices up to 20.53 for December and 20.40 for May or about 20 to 24 points above yesterday's closing quotations. The advance met increased southern selling and after the more urgent demand had been supplied, prices reacted 7 to 10 points from the best under realizing.

Reports from Washington that a southern senator claimed the crop had been over-estimated by a half a million bales came in for considerable comment, and may have had a contributing influence, but the advance was generally attributed to a renewal of the buying movement and the talk of a continued large consumption. The South was reported a seller here during the day and local brokers said that while there was some trade buying early it was less in evidence than earlier in the week.

Private cables reported trade calling and continental buying in Liverpool but said business in cotton cloths and yarns was rather restricted. Exports today 2,800 bales, making 4,083,040 so far this season. Port receipts 33,415. U. S. port stocks 2,452,604.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 13. (AP)—An easier and somewhat erratic morning session was followed by active and firm trading in the cotton market today when the trade and speculative interest bought and shorts covered in advance of the official consumption total tomorrow. March contracts sold up from 19.55 to 19.88 and closed at 19.77, compared with 19.61 yesterday's closing figure. The general market closed steady at a net advance of 13 to 18 points. Despite relatively firmer Liverpool cables the market here opened irregular, first trades being 3 points down to 2 up. There was some buying on the higher Liverpool after the start and January traded up to 19.56 with active positions generally showing recoveries of 3 to 6 points.

The market soon started downward however offerings brought out by the bearish statistics of the British board of trade. Considerable realizing and some liquidation soon carried prices to levels 8 to 11 points under the highs with March selling around 19.55 and May 19.60.

In the afternoon trading became more active and prices advanced under covering by shorts and trade and speculative buying.

The advance persisted throughout the afternoon, prices making new highs in late trading with March selling at 19.88 and May 19.83, or 30 to 33 points above the lows and 24 points under the previous close. There was some profit taking towards the end and final prices were 7 to 11 points under the top.

Stock Trading Sinks to Low Ebb As Bears Fear Tight Money Ahead

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Dec. 13. (US)—Quietest market since election was experienced on the stock exchange today, with total volume of trading barely topping 3,000,000 shares for the five hours.

Bulls were afraid of tight money ahead for the end of the month and the bears held off in expectation that a decline in loans would influence a rally that would give better selling basis.

As a result most stocks simply moved in very narrow range with the tape standing still several times during the day.

Packard had an exciting rise for a time but again met profit taking and closed fractionally lower. Greene Cananea scored the best gain, rising six points, while other coppers held fairly strong.

Steel remained unchanged for the day while motors and other standard industrials closed fractionally lower.

Oils were very dull but steady. Great Western led the railroad list higher, being taken in good volume throughout. Ease in the call rate from renewal of 8 to 6 per cent failed to stimulate demand.

Call Rate Down

The 6 per cent call money rate was made possible by the quieter stock market and the increase in amount of funds held by banks in anticipation of payments on income taxes and new government securities. There was a mistaken idea that money would tighten immediately after this operation. It may be well toward the end of next week, or even later, before the effect will be felt.

The treasury often holds up checks received on such operations.

While Packard and a few more were the outstanding bull favorites, the most pleasing feature of the market was the quiet absorption of stocks that have not been over-exploited and which have not overdiscounted 1929 possibilities. Simmons was one, as a further increase in earnings is confidently expected. Chalmers is another favorite for this kind of buying. It is earning close to $12 a share from its regular business. Next year it will materially increase tractor production and sales so that income should run close to $20 a share.

Underwood-Elliott-Fisher also faces 1929 with promise, as earnings have shown a substantial gain since the merger and further betterment is indicated now that the combined properties are working as a unit.

Houston broke to a new low for the move and gave further indication of what happens to pool stocks of which the manager uses any recourse to attract a following when they are manipulating in advance of distribution.

Shorts on Chrysler

Chrysler remained the subject of bear conversation and now harbors the largest short interest in several months. Loew interests emphatically denied a tumor of possible merger with Fox. Those associated with the latter company, however, continued to forecast a big increased income for the theaters' subsidiary as a result of acquisition of over 100 local theaters.

Better tone of the rails reflected belief that they will be one of the outstanding groups of the 1929 bull market.

Decline of over $200,000,000 in loans is large for one week but of no particular significance in view of the drastic break suffered and the extent of the correction that is necessary. Traders leaving the street voiced expectation that it would influence a more spirited rally tomorrow.

The reserve statements, while reflecting slightly better condition than a week ago, are further indication that advance in the call rate to the high level of the year is likely to be experienced during the closing weeks of the year.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 13. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Reduced receipts prompted an uneven advance of 5@25c in hog prices around the 11-market circuit; packers apparently believe that the low spot had been reached and they displayed moderate interest at the advance. The day's extreme top of $8.75 was paid at St. Louis. Total offerings were around 97,300, a decrease of 26,000 from last Thursday and 12,800 short of a year ago.

Fat lambs were on a firm to slightly higher basis but aged stock registered no change. Chicago had a top of $14.35 on fat lambs, while $13.60 was realized at Omaha. The supply approximated 21,500 against 39,573 a year ago and 45,545 the same day last year.

Comparatively light receipts failed to stimulate demand for killing classes of cattle; most markets were able to maintain prices at levels steady with the week's uneven and sharp decline. But further weakness developed at Chicago on fat she stock and slight losses occurred at Kansas City on short fed steers. The large quota of well bred warmed pup steers coming indicate that a very shaky feeling prevails among the corn belt feeders. Country buyers are showing a moderate interest in stockers but are bearish on feeders. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 23,100, a shortage of 8,500 from a week ago and 12,000 less than a year ago.

FORT WORTH, Dec. 13. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Extreme dullness featured today's market for slaughter steers. Only eight cars of slaughter steers received, but practically no bids during the early period and prospects pointed to a late clearance at lower prices. Half fat slaughter yearlings also rather hard to move, but some inquiry existed for the better grades at fairly steady prices. Most of the slaughter yearlings sold under the $11 level. She stock and cutters held steady at the week's decline. Fat cows around $7.50; butcher grades mostly under $7; strong weight low cutters sold at $5 and $5.15; shelly sorts at $4.50 and less. Bulls scarce, fully steady. A few strong sausage sorts sold up to $7.

Trade in slaughter calves appeared dull, quarter to half dollar lower and bulk of the day's supply registered the half dollar decline. Packers bought good heavies around $10.50 and other sales of heavy averages around $10 and less.

The hog market today ruled 10 cents higher. Limited receipts made a good early clearance, one load good to choice lights made a top of $8.60; medium to good lights in carlots reported at $8.20 and $8.25; best truck hogs $8 to $8.10; but the better grades truck butchers very scarce. A few sales of packing sows made at $7.25 and $7.75; denoting steady values.

Very little business transacted in sheep and lambs today, owing to extremely light receipts. Medium to good shorn fat truck lambs $10.50, quotably steady.

CHICAGO REVIEW

CHICAGO, Dec. 13. (AP)—Unexpected big deliveries of corn on December contracts here gave a sudden jolt to the corn market today. The deliveries, which totaled 550,000 bushels, started free selling that in turn led to a sharp break in prices despite word that export purchasing of corn today at the Gulf of Mexico had established a new high price record for the crop.

Closing quotations in Chicago today on corn were irregular, varying from ⅝c a bushel net decline to ¼@⅜c advance. Wheat finished ⅛@⅜ to ½@⅝c higher, oats a shade off to ⅛@¼c up, and provisions at 10c setback to an equal gain.

Simultaneous with today's enlargement of deliveries on December corn contracts, reports became current that large receipts of corn may be looked for until after Dec. 15, as a good deal of corn was sold some time ago to arrive by that date. In this connection, notice was taken that Chicago receipts of corn today amounted to 473 cars, against 308 cars a week ago and 140 cars on the corresponding day last year.

Wheat values were stronger today from the outset. Better export demand for wheat from North America helped to lift prices, business with Europe being estimated at 600,000 bushels. Rains in North Argentina were reported to be delaying the wheat movement there, and Italy was said to be buying wheat in Australia.

Oats displayed independent strength during some stages of today's trading. Deferred deliveries went to within a fraction of the season's top prices. Offerings were scarce.

Upturns in hog values kept the provision market steady.

QUIET WORKER

Silent Holdup Man Uses Note to Convey His Command

BOSTON, Dec. 13. (UP)—A silent robbery, in which the bandit wrote his commands on a slip of paper, was staged in the business district here.

A young man sauntered into a chain cigar store and handed Clerk William Barry a note which read:

"Keep quiet. Hand over all the cash. One suspicious move and I'll sing you.

"(Signed) 'A Quiet Customer.'"

The clerk passed $80 across the counter and the bandit escaped.

JERSEY COWS OFFERED HERE

C-C Committee Ready With Fifty Head

Approximately 50 select Jersey cows of proved milk producing qualities are available to farmers and dairymen of the community at the J. T. Harrell farm on the Petrolia road, where the herd is being maintained by J. M. Baber of the agricultural division of the chamber of commerce.

Several months ago Mr. Baber was appointed by the chamber of commerce agricultural committee to select and buy cows of the highest grade for dairying purposes, and to arrange their sale to farmers and herd owners near Wichita Falls as an aid to building up the production of milk to the point required for profitable operation of the several milk product factories in the city. Since that time more than 200 cows, selected from many herds in central and eastern Texas, have been tested, tried and finally purchased for distribution here. Some of the cattle selected have shown production as high as five gallons of milk per day from one animal. Such a yield is rare, and most of the animals selected have demonstrated capacities of from three to four gallons daily. Of the first six carloads received, about 15 remained on hand, and another car containing about 35 cows arrived this week.

According to Mr. Baber, a large number of inquiries and visits from prospective buyers have been received this week, and it is expected that the following three months will see a great many more of this choice dairy stock placed with different local buyers.

Milk from the sale herd is taken to the Kraft Cheese factory in this city.

Cotton again remained steady Wednesday, and the various lines of produce showed no changes.

Schoolboy Slayer Is Found of Sane Mind

STATON, Mich., Dec. 13. (INS)—Jimmie Deacons, 15-year-old school boy slayer of Flossie Carter, his former school teacher, was adjudged sane today.

The decision means, authorities said, that Deacons will be tried in circuit court on a charge of first degree murder.

Three psychiatrists examined Deacons for four hours, and questioned his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Deacons, to determine if there was any trace of insanity in the family.

Wants Stock Gambling Ruled As Illegal

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13. (UP)—Representative Victor L. Berger, Socialist, Wisconsin, has prepared a bill which would place gambling on the stock market and in grain and cotton futures on the same plane as the lotteries which have been ruled illegal by congress.

His measure would not prohibit dealings in stocks, but would make it illegal to purchase stocks where there is no intention to actually deliver them.

WAR PAYMENT IRKS GERMANS

Two Billions in Loans May Be in Danger

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND
Record News Special Wireless

LUGANO, Dec. 13. (US)—Germany will not even discuss the total figure of 150,000,000,000 gold marks war reparations, the sum mentioned by the Interallied Reparations commission in 1919, and which that commission has never withdrawn.

That is what members of the British delegation were told informally today when certain members of the German delegation in informal conversation protested against Sir Austen Chamberlain's statement in the house of commons recently that legally Germany cannot demand the withdrawal of some 70,000 French, British and Belgian troops from the Rhineland until Germany's obligations are paid.

Big Figures Talked

In view of the coming investigation of a special reparations experts' committee into Germany's capacity to pay, it was declared here that there was no mention of any total figure in the conversations held by Chamberlain, Briand and Stresemann here. In German circles there is talk that any such gigantic figure as $32,000,000,000, or any other unbearable burden that the French and British seem to have in mind, will inevitably have the effect of extinguishing all desire to work in the otherwise industrious German people.

It was also pointed out that if the former enemies break down the German working spirit, it is bound to affect America's loans and credits to Germany, aggregating something like $2,000,000,000.

Meeting Nears Close

The fifty-third meeting of the League of Nations council all but came to a close tonight in a secret tal kof the trio—Briand, Chamberlain and Stresemann—in the privacy of the French foreign minister's apartments, without even one of Europe's problems apparently being nearer solution than when they arrived here.

Lugano did not fulfill the Locarno expectations, lessen the anxiety, or even make another move in talk to a close tonight in a secret the direction o fdisarmament effort by suggesting the reconvoking of the preparatory disarmament commission as desired by Germany and Russia. The latter subject was brought up but it appears that Chamberlain and Briand took the attitude that the head of the preparatory commission should first sound out the different governments, and also that it would be better to wait until after the inauguration of President Hoover.

Following the meeting of the big trio, Chamberlain and Briand received the press of their respective countries and told them nothing but generalities. Doctor Stresemann sulked in his apartment and would not see newspaper men, even the Germans, from which it was deduced that he was greatly dejected over the results at Lugano.

Today { At the Theaters

STRAND: Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in "Street Angel," a Movietone picture. Three Vitaphone shorts. Pathe news.

MAJESTIC: Five acts Interstate vaudeville. On the screen, "Varsity." Paramount news. Inkwell Imp cartoon.

OLYMPIC: "The Circus Kid," with all-star cast. Felix Cat cartoon. Comedy. Fox news.

MISSION: Tex Maynard in "Drifting Kid." Serial. Comedy.

Friday marks the opening at the Strand theater of a Fox movietone picture. It is "Street Angel," with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell. The picture has enjoyed an excellent run in New York and is being given a good reception in the major cities of the United States at the present time.

The movietone is a Fox film proposition and is a means of combining sound with the movies as does the vitaphone.

The vitaphone is recorded on a large record, similar to a phonograph record, and then carried backstage in the theater and broadcast through several radio amplifiers and loud speakers.

The movitetone photographs the sound on the film at the edge of the picture. When the picture is shown in the theater, these impressions at the edge of the film are transformed by light, to sound in the reproducer and then carried back stage, in the same manner as the vitaphone, to the loud speakers.

The Strand theater here is now equipped for presentation of both classes of "sound" pictures. The make of the picture is immaterial. Paramount, United Artists, Fox, Warners and the rest all are making talkies and sound pictures. Technically the name of "Vitaphone" belongs to Warner Brothers, but in the mind of a great part of the public it is synonymous with talking motion pictures.

In the motion picture world, the new pictures are referred to as the talkies. That term is used whether there is any talking with the picture or not. The sound may be made entirely by some great orchestra. There are only a few "all talkies" where talking rules through the film. But that doesn't keep the talkies from being talkies.

Adams Juror Ill With Flu

the latter put his hands in his pockets after saying: "You won't get a dollar of that money, and if you don't leave town I'm going to get a gun and blow your head off."

In the closing defense argument today, Ted Monroe elaborated the self defense plea, ripping his coat when he showed the jury his version of how Mathews had stuck his hand in his pockets. District Attorney William McCraw, making the last address for the prosecution asked the death penalty.

LETTER RECEIVED FROM 'C. R. VEST'

DALLAS, Dec. 13. (AP)—Assistant District Attorney Andrew J. Priest announced tonight that he had received a letter signed "A. A. Crabb, alias Clyde R. Vest" whose writer admitted that he got the $3,000 election stakes figuring in the killing of Orville Mathews, Dallas bank employe, for which V. Ray Adams, Bartlett farmer, now is on trial here.

The letter came in an envelope bearing the name of a law firm here and Priest expressed belief it was authentic.

The writer said he got the stakes on the Connally-Mayfield senatorial race, over whose disappearance a quarrel arose.

Priest would not divulge all of the letter's contents.

Belief was expressed by Priest that the handwriting in the letter was identical with that on the back of the two $1,000 cashier's checks, which constituted the stakes.

Skeletons Dance In Majestic Act

Less Eerie But Funnier 'Boob' Features Bill

By The Record News Critic

In addition to being filled with eerie things such as dancing skeletons over the heads of those in the audience, radio, shot guns that go off with the bang of cap pistols and small pistols that go off with the bang of a cannon, throwing a woman over the balcony and then dragging her back where she came from by her hair—in addition to all these things there is a lot of good vaudeville at the Majestic theater this week.

Those who like to see red headed women had their inning in acts B and C when the "Queen" in "Two Jacks and a Queen," and when Helen of the team of Cy and Helen Plunkett appeared.

Radio fans had their innings in the Sheldon, Heft and Lewis act, the opener which was called "Two Jacks and a Jill," and in the "Pair of Jacks and a Queen Act."

Carl Rosini and company, an act of magic, was the weak spot on the bill, and it drew a good applause from the crowd.

A man who looked like a boob and called himself a pessimist (both intentionally), took the show honors. He could play a piano, talk, shoot big guns and little guns and make the audience laugh at will. If you ever went to a show and had the extreme pleasure of hearing the popcorn and peanut vendor yell out his wares in your ear, you will appreciate the shot that is supposed to end his life when he tries yeling during Harry Holmes, (that', the pessimist's name) act. Harry's act was pure hokum, done up any old way, served up in the same fashion, and best summed up by Harry's own question: "What the hell do you expect, grand opera?" At any rate, it's a knockout.

J. L. PARRISH CRASH VICTIM

Brother of Wichitan Dies In Accident

James L. Parrish, brother of Frank Parrish, 2314 Talunar Lane, was instantly killed in an automobile accident in Montrose, Colo., early Tuesday morning, according to news received by relatives here.

Details of the accident have not yet been learned, but it is understood that Mr. Parrish was driving into town from his Colorado ranch at the time of the accident. Seven years ago his brother, Lucian W. Parrish of Henrietta, at that time a candidate for the United States senate, was fatally injured in a similar accident.

Walter C. Parrish, Clay county school superintendent-elect of Henrietta, and J. Ben Parrish of Quanah, brothers of the deceased, left Tuesday night for Montrose. The other brother, Frank Parrish, is confined to his bed with influenza and was unable to make the trip.

An aged mother, Mrs. J. C. Parrish, of Dallas, a widow, four children and four sisters survive, besides the brothers named. The sisters are Mrs. John Franke of Henrietta, Mrs. A. E. Boyd of Whitesboro, and Misses Myrtle and Bess Parrish of Dallas.

Funeral services probably will be held in Olatha, Colo.

Vigilant Farmers Capture Intruder And Recover Stolen Tools in Truck

Shots failed to stop a scared negro at midnight Thursday, but he was stopped by two husky white men watching the negro's truck on the Iowa Park road.

Carl Williamson, farmer, living seven miles from Wichita Falls on the Iowa Park road, had missed articles at his place recently and Thursday night was on guard. When he saw someone near his barn, he telephoned neighbors and the sheriff. Then he started after the intruder who didn't stop when he called or when he fired into the air.

The man ran from Williamson's place to the highway where neighbors were guarding an abandoned truck in the belief it might belong to the intruder. The negro soon ran up to the truck and was captured there by the neighbors, Jim Davis and his son. A search of the car revealed tools which Williamson said were stolen from his place several nights ago.

The negro was said by Deputy Sheriff Dick Morris, who answered the call, to be the same negro who paid a fine and served a jail sentence for theft from the Williamson place a year ago.

HASKELL YOUTH SHOT TO DEATH

Family Returns From Trial To Find Boy Slain

HASKELL, Texas, Dec. 13. (AP)—While other members of his family were at Albany to attend the trial of Crawford Booth for the killing of his father three years ago, Tom Johnson, 18, killed himself at his home, near here Wednesday.

His body was found lying on the floor, with a pistol nearby, when his two sisters last night returned from Albany. A verdict of suicide was returned by the county judge of Haskell county.

Johnson's mother and two sisters had gone to Albany, where the trial was to open Tuesday, to appear as witnesses against Booth. Johnson was left alone at home. When the case was called, it was ordered back to Haskell for trial, and the Johnsons returned to their home.

A .38 caliber revolver containing one empty shell and two loaded ones was found at Johnson's feet. One bullet from the gun had entered the jugular vein on the left side of his neck.
