Chicago City Official Riddles Son With Shotgun Slugs

BOY SLAIN AS HE WARNS KIN AGAINST DRINK

Abusive Words to Boy's Mother Starts Fatal Encounter

TRYS TO KILL SELF

Slayer Fails in Effort To Reload Death Weapon

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (US)—Enraged when upbraided because of his drunken condition, Arthur F. Falk, park commissioner here, shot and killed his 15-year-old son, Eldridge, today. The youth died instantly when several heavy shotgun slugs penetrated his body just above the heart.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28 (UP)—A quarrel over liquor, a dare to shoot, and belief that "the gun wasn't loaded" today caused the death of Eldridge Falk, 22, at the hands of his father, Arthur F. Falk, a city park commissioner.

The fatal shooting occurred after Falk, who started drinking a year ago, returned to his home drunk. His son, who had remonstrated with him before, interfered when his father became abusive toward his mother.

"I guess I was pretty blustery from drink and my boy resented it," Falk told officers.

"'If you don't quit abusing my mother, I'm going to leave home,' Eldridge said to me.

"'You won't leave this house alive,' I told him."

Challenges Father

Apparently believing his father was serious the son picked up a gun his father had given him for Christmas.

"Then shoot me," he cried.

Falk told officers he took the gun thinking it wasn't loaded, and pointed it at his son.

The gun exploded and the boy fell.

Panic-stricken, hardly realizing what he had done, Falk attempted to reload the gun that he might shoot himself, but failed.

"I gave the gun to Eldridge for Christmas," he told police. "It was supposed to be a fine gun, but I couldn't make it work. I took it back to the store and they laughed at me—said I didn't know how to load it.

"I never learned how to load it. If I'd known how I would have killed myself when I realized what had happened to my boy, the best son any man ever had."

Begs for Gun

Asked what he thought his punishment should be, Falk replied: "Nothing matters now. I'd give anything if I could give my life for my son's—his was a good life."

Tonight Falk sits in the county jail, alone. Deserted by his wife and daughter, shunned by his friends, he pleads with officers to give him a weapon so that he may commit suicide.

Appearing at a coroner's inquest today he was so overcome with grief that his sobs drowned the questions of attorneys and it was necessary to postpone the inquest to September 7. He was accompanied only by officers at the hearing today, and both his wife and his daughter, Bernice, 20, refused to speak to him.

Falk is being held on a technical charge of murder, pending the outcome of the inquest.

Parade Marks Second Day of Legion Meet

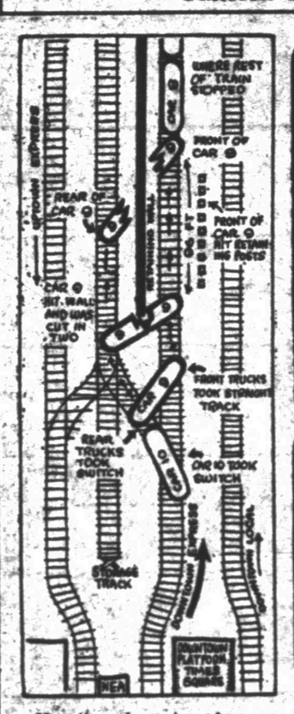

TEXARKANA, Texas, Aug. 28. (AP)—Thousands of spectators under a hot sun witnessed the colorful parade here today climaxing the second day's program of joint conventions of Texas and Arkansas American Legion departments.

The parade was reviewed by Walton D. Hood, Texas department commander, and John G. Pipin, head of the Arkansas legion.

Camera Tells Story of Subway Disaster

How the subway tragedy occurred is clearly shown by the diagram at the left. Eight cars of a 10-car train passed safely over a defective switch. The front trucks of the ninth car went over properly, but the rear trucks followed another track. Thus the car moved sideways to crash, squarely in its middle, on the end of a heavy concrete wall. Then the front and rear halves, strewing maimed, screaming passengers along the pitch black tunnel, hurtled into masses of wreckage about 100 feet farther on. Upper right is a view of the throng that milled about the Times square, to be held back by police and firemen. Lower center, you see a patrolman supporting a girl whose face and head were lacerated in the crash. Right is Mayor Walker, who rushed to the scene to lend aid.

Falling Walls Crush Seven Men To Death

Four Others Are Missing in Ruins Of Bank Building

SHELBY, N. C., Aug. 28. (UP)—The debris of brick, plaster and twisted planks—all that remains of the three buildings which collapsed today, crushing out seven lives—was searched tonight for the bodies of four workmen, missing since the crash.

Out of the ruins earlier in the day were lifted the bodies of four employes of the First National bank, two farmers, who had come into town to deposit money, and a negro.

The four missing men were believed trapped in the basement of the buildings near where a retaining wall they had flung up, gave way, bringing down with it the structures of three buildings in the heart of this town of 4000 population.

The seven known dead: Ora Thridge, bank clerk; Zeb Blanton, a farmer; Carl Blanton, a farmer; Guy Green, bank teller; Alex H. Hoyle, bank teller; Clyde Carpenter, bank clerk, and an unidentified negro.

Trio in Hospital

In the Shelby hospital in a serious condition are Clarence Mull, assistant cashier of the bank; Margaret Callahan, bookkeeper, and Clyde Mauney, bookkeeper.

The tragedy was a personal one to everyone in town, as was to be expected in a little county seat where everybody knew everybody else.

Down in the McKnight building, in which was housed the First National bank, the bustle of opening was just over. In the adjoining building the grocery store was waiting the morning rush and the tailor shop had opened.

Without warning, the floors caved in. Those on the street saw the walls sag and fall inward with a thud. Dust and dirt choked the air and cries of those caught in the wreckage were heard.

In a few minutes half of the population of Shelby crammed about. Some of those trapped were pulled free. At least 20 were reported treated for minor cuts and bruises. The groans of others deeper down in the ruins could be heard and gradually they were disentangled and lifted out, some of them seriously hurt. Deeper still were found the bodies of the dead.

RAIL PURCHASE IS AUTHORIZED

Santa Fe to Buy Orient For $14,507,500

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (UP)—The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway was authorized by the interstate commerce commission today to acquire control of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railway company by purchase of capital stock for $14,507,500.

The Orient runs from Wichita Kans. to Alpine, Texas, a distance of 735 miles.

In granting the Atchison authority to acquire control of the Orient there were no objection, the commission said, pointing out that competition between the two lines is confined almost entirely to the territory between Wichita and Cherokee, Okla., where the two roads come closest together.

Man Drowns as Tug Collides With Steamer

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (UP)—Antonio Recuso, 35, a member of the crew of the tug-boat, Volunteer, was reported drowned today after the craft had been rammed and sunk by the Chester W. Chapin, a passenger steamer, in the East river.

No explanation of the accident could be offered by officials of the marine division. The Chapin was steaming to its dock with 250 passengers when the Volunteer swung into its path.

Bandits Kidnap Okla. Cashier in Holdup

SHIDLER, Okla. Aug. 28. (AP)—Kansas and Oklahoma officers united tonight in pursuit of three men who today robbed the Shidler National bank of $4,000 and kidnaped Harold Bobbit, cashier. Bobbit was released after he had been taken across the Kansas line near Gravnois and was returned unscathed to his home here by his wife, who followed the robbers car in an automobile.

PRYOR FREED ON $6000 BOND

Trial Date Not Set; Try Shook First

Ed Pryor, former Electra constable, held in the Wichita county jail on two indictments, one charging robbery and one burglary, was released Tuesday morning on bond of $6,000, according to H. M. Hawkins, deputy sheriff.

Pryor was first arrested early the morning of June 25, one day after Henry Shumate had escaped from the county jail. Sheriff W. G. Bralley, who made the arrest, declared that Shumate was sleeping with Pryor. Pryor, Shumate and Tom Shook, former chief of police at Electra, were brought to Wichita Falls and lodged in the county jail. The two former peace officers were held on preliminary charges of concealing a criminal. Later the two were charged with burglary of the King news stand on a joint indictment with Shumate. Both made bond of $1,500.

Later additional joint indictments charged Pryor and Shook with burglary of the Grand theater and robbery of an employe of the Jefferson hotel. Shook also was indicted on charges of murder and driving an automobile while intoxicated. The murder charge resulted from the fatal stabbing of W. O. Daugherty, Electra farmer, on the night of August 9.

Shook, with five other prisoners, escaped the county jail last Friday. Two of the men were arrested shortly after the break, but Shook and three companions still were at large Tuesday.

Bond for Pryor was set Monday by Judge W. W. Cook of 78th district court upon agreement of Shields Heyser, defense counsel; Fred Weeks, special prosecutor and a representative of the district attorney's office. Although Pryor was under three indictments, bond on one was made some time ago. Later the two additional bills of indictment were returned. Bond on each of the two charges was set at $2,000, while bond on the first indictment was $1,500.

Trial date for Pryor was not set, since prosecutors wished to try Shook on the murder charge before the two men went to trial on their joint indictments. Shook will go to trial for murder on September 6 in the event he is recaptured.

Pryor's bond was signed by L. V. Pryor, T. O. Dierwirth and Otto Dierwirth, who are residents of Childress county. Pryor formerly lived at Childress.

Chaplin's Mother Dies After Lingering Illness

GLENDALE, Cal., Aug. 28. (INS) Mrs. Hannah Chaplin, 61, mother of Charles Spencer Chaplin and Sydney Chaplin, noted film comedians, died shortly after noon today at the Physicians' and Surgeons' hospital here.

Charles Chaplin was at his mother's bedside when the end came.

Mrs. Chaplin came to the United States in 1921, suffering with a mental malady which physicians said had been superinduced by air raids on London where she resided during the world war.

PLANES SEARCH FOR MISSING FIELD MANAGER

Curtis Field Official Lost Between Buffalo And New York

IN LINDY'S PLANE

Last Word Heard From Aviator On Monday Night

CURTIS FIELD, L. I., Aug. 28. (UP)—The commander of the Millertown, Pa., flying field early Wednesday morning informed Curtis field authorities he had received a report that a civilian plane—possibly the one piloted by M. M. Merrill, manager of the Curtiss flying service—had crashed in the mountains near Clarks Ferry.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (INS)—A squadron of 25 planes took off from Curtiss and Roosevelt fields on Long Island today to hunt for M. M. Merrill, Curtiss field flying service manager, missing since 4:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon between New York and Buffalo.

Merrill took off at Buffalo shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday to fly Col. Charles Lindbergh's Falcon mail plane to New York. He was scheduled to arrive here at 7 o'clock and had go advised the Curtiss field managers before leaving Buffalo.

Since he left Buffalo no trace has been had of him. Although there was some uncertain weather, none was sufficiently dangerous to handicap an experienced and resourceful pilot like Merrill, one of the real veterans of commercial flying in the country.

Long Overdue

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 28. (INS) M. M. Merrill, manager of the Curtiss flying service who is reported lost, took off from here at 4 p. m. Monday with Lieut. Edwin M. Rosne, superintendent of the local flying field as a companion.

The only word received here concerning their trip was a telegram from the airport at Ithaca, N. Y. which said a plane flying at an altitude of 3,000 feet appeared over the Ithaca airport at dusk Monday night from the northwest. It circled the field and then darted off again into the northwest.

The plane was too high to note the identification numbers on its wings.

Posses Quit Hunt For Hijackers at Coleman

ABILENE, Texas, Aug. 28. (AP)—Search for two hijackers who held up half a dozen motorists and probably fatally wounded R. J. Johnson, local gunsmith, near here Monday night, was abandoned near Coleman late today. Possemen expressed opinion the men might be hidden on a ranch adjoining the Baird-Coleman highway.

Harry Demetral, wrestler, and a young woman companion, who were forced to accompany the robbers to Coleman, returned to Abilene tonight. They were held prisoners most of the night.

Actress' Suit For Million Is Settled

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28. (AP)—A cash settlement out of court of three suits demanding damages from Charles H. Christie, film producer, by Alice Murrell, screen actress, was announced today by attorneys for both sides. Miss Murrell had charged Christie with breach of promise to marry, seduction and breach of contract to employ.

Curtis Makes Campaign Address at State Fair

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 28. (AP)—Promising early solution of the agricultural problem, Senator Curtis, Republican vice presidential nominee, today called for election of Herbert Hoover, and of a Republican congress "to assure adequate tariff revision."

He spoke at the New York State Fair.

Road Contracts Totaling $4,000,000 To Be Let

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 28. (AP)—Contracts for 332 miles of highway construction, amounting to an estimated $4,000,000 will be let at the session of the state highway commission September 17 and 18, it was announced here today.

Hiram Johnson Leads In Senatorial Race

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28. (UP) Running true to pre-election predictions, Hiram Johnson was far out ahead tonight in the count of balloting for the Republican senatorial nomination.

DENIES STARRING CHARGE

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 28. (UP)—Charles Y. Brown, Riceville, Tenn., a magazine salesman, pleaded not guilty in city court here today when charged with second degree assault on Lloyd Martindale, in a hospital with a knife wound in his side.

Women Boosters Of Equal Rights Treaty Jailed

Ten Noted Feminists Have Tea in Cells After Tussle Before French Presidential Palace

RAMBOUILLETT, France, Aug. 28. (UP)—Like their militant forerunners of pioneer suffragette days, 10 world-known feminists today discarded the smooth gloves of diplomacy to carry their equal rights plea to the plenipotentiaries of 15 nations assembled here. And like those first, stern suffrafettes, they were carried struggling and kicking to jail—where they were served tea.

Several hours in jail failed to dim the enthusiasm of the feminist leaders, however, and tonight Doris Stevens, wife of Dudley Field Malone, New York lawyer, was just as vigorous in her denunciation of the manner in which their plea had been received as before police escorted her to jail.

Arrested at Palace

The feminists appeared at the gates of the presidential summer palace here, carrying flags and banners and placards emblazoned with demands that the plenipotentiaries sign the equal rights treaty which has been successfully placed before the Pan-American conference at Havana. The treaty was for the purpose of extending to all nations signing the privilege of considering equal rights for women.

The women attempted to enter the palace grounds, stepping in behind the automobile carrying Minister of Commerce Bokanowski through the guarded gates. Police and gendarmes rushed to the scene.

The signs were torn in the struggle but the police treated the protesting women as politely as possible under the circumstances.

"We are tired of being shunted from embassy to embassy," Miss Stevens protested. "We only desire to send a letter to President Doumergue when we attempted to enter the gates of the summer presidential palace. We have not received satisfaction in regard to our request to Foreign Minister Briand for a 10-minute interview with the plenipotentiaries."

French Women Cheer

"It was a splendid battle and we are proud of it," Miss Stevens continued. "What struck me most forcibly was the fact that French women cheered us and the men offered to testify as to how we were treated. The French revolutionary spirit was stirred.

"Before we were locked up in the police station, we gave an interview and made speeches. The correspondents translated the words into French for the benefit of the crowd. Then, as we were leaving the police commissary explained that French women did not want to vote.

"Just then a stalwart French peasant woman clattered up in her wooden shoes and shouted: 'We French women do want to vote and we are going to vote.'"

Those arrested included Miss Stevens; Mrs. Harriet Pickering, wife of Loren Pickering, American newspaperman; Mrs. Betty Gram Swing, wife of Raymond Gram Swing, London correspondent of the Philadelphia Public Ledger; three French women; two Ger-

Five New Witnesses In Mellus Case Summoned

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 28. (AP)—Subpoenas were issued today for five new prosecution witnesses in trial of Leo P. Kelley for the murder of his society matron sweetheart, Mrs. Frank Mellus. The witnesses, whose names were not revealed were three women and two men whose first names were given in three love letters the accused butcher boy had written Mrs. Mellus.

Brothers Linked In Slaying in Testimony

FORT DAVIS, Aug. 28. (AP)—Testimony designed to show Paul Mitchell, 27, helped to kill Pat Murphy at Iraan, Texas, last September, after the two had argued about money, was introduced at the opening of Mitchell's trial here today.

Mitchell and his brother Dave were indicted for the crime.

Farmer-Labor Leader Accused of Treachery

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Aug. 28. (UP)—Bert Martin, secretary of the Farmer-Labor party, was accused today by Joseph A. Poirer, national chairman of the party, of "treachery" because he endorsed the candidacy of Herbert Hoover. Poirer said he would seek Martin's removal from office.

BYRD HOP

New Dance Named For Aviator Divides Convention

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (US)—Disagreement today parted the ranks of the American society of teachers of dancing, now holding its golden jubilee convention at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria.

The disruption was caused by Adolph Nawbarger, New York dancing teacher and member of the society, who submitted a new dance called the "Byrd Hop" for acceptance as one of the dances of 1929.

After viewing a demonstration of the dance some of the members objected to the name of the dance, which was inspired, so its inventor said, by Commander Richard E. Byrd. It is meant to interpret an airplane in flight.

GOV. SORLIE DIES IN N. D.

Maddock Leaves Tuesday To Assume Duty

BISMARCK, N. D., Aug. 28. (UP) After clinging to life through a week in which doctors abandoned hope for his recovery, Gov. Arthur G. Sorlie, governor of North Dakota, died in the executive mansion here today.

Recurring heart attacks had weakened the executive to such an extent that it was plain he could not survive the summer, and Lieut. Gov. Walter Maddock was prepared to take over the affairs of his office. Lieutenant Governor Maddock left for Bismarck immediately on learning of his chief's death.

The governor was 54. He was one of the leaders of the widely-heralded "farmers' march" to the Republican convention at Kansas City last June, but when the time came for the event only a handful of recruits followed him there.

The body will lie in state at the capitol pending arrangements for the funeral.

Railroad Strike In West Thought Averted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—Differences between western railroads and employes organized in the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Order of Railway Conductors are expected to be reconciled by an agreement announced here today by the United States board of mediation, discussing questions at issue with representatives of both groups since July 22.

Wages and working rules were major questions involved in the dispute, which affected 70,000 employes of 80 railroads covering 98 per cent of the mileage west of Chicago.

Lindy Disappoints Seattle Admirers

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 28. (UP) Disappointing a large crowd that had expected him to land at the Boeing airport, Col. Charles Lindbergh brought his plane to the ground at Sand Point late today.

Included in the number of persons who turned out to greet the "flying colonel" were Lieut. Lester J. Maitland, California-Hawaii flier, and Alice and Cynthia Davis, daughters of Secretary of War Davis, who is visiting here.

FINAL VOTE IS 930 FOR BONDS TO 601 AGAINST

Smallest Box in City Only One to Vote Against Issue

TO ASK BIDS SOON

Sale of Bonds to Put City On Firm Basis Financially

The $250,000 bond issue for payment of debts of the city of Wichita Falls passed by a vote of 930 to 601 Tuesday. Only one box, the smallest in the city, went against the issue. That was the box in the South Side Baptist church annex where the vote was 49 for the bonds and 76 against them.

The vote, while light, was much heavier than was expected by the city officials. The general sentiment in all parts of the city, as shown by the vote, was taken by the city officials as a vote of confidence in the present efforts to put the city on a sound financial basis.

The total vote was 1,531 and was divided by boxes as follows:

Box—	For	Agst	Total
S. S. Bapt. Ch. anx.	49	76	125
City Hall	166	77	243
Courthouse	218	201	419
Buch'n Fire Station	199	119	318
Alamo school	298	128	426
Total	930	601	1531

Ask Bids Soon

Bids will be asked on the bonds at once, it was announced at the city auditorium after the results were known.

After the bonds have been officially sold, they will be sent to the comptroller at Austin. The time warrants, which they are to replace, also will be sent there. The buyers will give cash for the old warrants. They will exchange these warrants with the comptroller for the bonds so that the city of Wichita Falls will at no time handle any of the money voted in the election.

The issue was proposed a couple of months ago by George D. Fairtrace, city manager, as a part of a program of placing the city in a stronger financial condition, saving money on interest, avoiding suits on debts represented by warrants due, and generally organizing the city's finance in a more business-like manner.

The question was raised Tuesday as to whether the bonds required a two-thirds majority. W. R. McBroom, city clerk, said this kind of a bond requires only a majority, a two-thirds vote not being required.

Specifically, the money goes into four classes as follows:

Street improvements and barn site	$ 80,894.49
Fire equipment	6,802.72
Cemeteries and parks	27,282.06
Auditorium completion	135,219.72
Total	$250,000.00

The election was quiet and orderly with few voters challenged to show that they were city taxpayers.

Sockless Schoolgirls Not School Problem

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (UP)—A schoolgirl's stockings, or the absence of them, will start no controversy among Chicago school officials. "If mothers want their girls to go stockingless, it's none of my business and none of the teacher's," William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, replied when asked if he would allow the fad here.

Army Fliers Saved When Plane Falls Into Bay

NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 28. (UP)—Two army fliers, Lieutenants Chas. Corneal and Haldeman were rescued by a fast sea sled from Langley field today when their plane was seen to fall in Chesapeake bay. The two were slightly injured. The sled was one of several brought to Langley field for such an emergency.

Formal Probe of Subway Tragedy Opens Today

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (US)—Formal investigation of the causes of Friday's subway crash will get under way in the office of District Attorney Joab H. Banton, at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, it was announced tonight.

Youth Believed Drowned as Trio Is Rescued After Boat Overturns

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (US)—A trio of socially prominent youths, two girls and a boy, were rescued from Lake Michigan today after spending more than 16 hours adrift on an overturned sail boat. A search for a fourth member of the party proved futile.

Marjorie Oleson, Shirley Conlee and Harold Tarrant were the rescued. The missing youth, Fred Rummler, was last seen by his companions as he started swimming for the shore. Miss Oleson also started to swim shoreward and was picked up a mile from the boat by a coast guard patrol.

Search for the missing girls and young men started shortly after midnight last night, when Mr. Tarrant, father of young Tarrant, appealed to Evanston coast guards after ascertaining that the quartet had taken out a little sloop for a lake cruise.

According to the elder Tarrant he had forbidden his son to use the boat, but the boy told him that he was going to a theater.

Shortly after the youths had sailed the sloop out into the lake a puffy breeze sprang up to be followed by rough water. High waves were said by the rescued boys to have capsized the boat.

All of the young people rescued were well known in Chicago's elite. Rummler is a student at Northwestern university.

RELIGION SEEN AS REAL ISSUE

Harrison Takes Steps To Quash False Rumors

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Religion was recognized officially today by Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, member of the advisory committee of the Democratic national committee, as an issue in the presidential campaign.

Harrison charged the Women's Temperance union, the Anti-Saloon league and the Ku-Klux Klan with disseminating false religious propaganda against Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Democratic nominee for president, in the South.

The religious question was brought up by Harrison in a press conference at the Democratic national headquarters in the General Motors building, after he had asserted that the Democratic organization in the South was being rapidly perfected.

Referring to the intensive campaign being waged in the South, Harrison said:

"I never saw anything like the character of the campaign that is being waged. I won't say by the Republican national committee but by somebody that is very close to them with reference to sending out false and misleading propaganda in the South, based on misrepresentations and untruths.

"You mean the religious question?" Harris was asked.

Underhand Work

"They are not fighting in the open," Harrison continued. "They are working through some organizations whose purposes heretofore have been very high and uplifting, but which are being used at this time to prejudice the minds of the people against Mr. Smith, either because of his prohibition views or because of his religion.

"Pamphlets of the W. C. T. U. and the Anti-Saloon league and other organizations have been sent in to us. The mails are being flooded with it. Some pertaining to the Knights of Columbus which by investigation of congress have been proved to be absolutely false.

"I don't know who is paying for it, but I know that people are getting them that don't pay for them. That is the kind of propaganda that is going out. And as soon as the people of the South, who believe in fair play find out and we put the blame where it belongs they will fall from the Republican ticket like leaves in autumn.

"There are a lot of people who sincerely and honestly believe this false propaganda. But when they realize the sources that it is coming from, how the propaganda is being shot by friends of the Republican organization, if not by the Republican organization itself, then they will realize they have been deceived.

"How are you going to combat it?" the senator was asked.

To Seek Truth

Harrison replied that "we are going to combat it" and "throw the light of truth on it."

"You say they are making most use to the Knights of Columbus oath?"

"When a Masonic committee in 1925 investigated it and their report said it was absolutely false, we may take it that it was false. I happen to be a 32nd degree Mason myself, and I know that it is false, from this investigation and from talking to people in whom I have full confidence who happen to be members of the Knights of Columbus. Nobody dares to say it is true.

"The same stuf has been shot out for a decade, and the Masons can believe in a committee of fellow-Masons which investigated it and whose report is in the Congressional Record and they will stamp it as a lie. But the people down there do not know it yet. Of course we are going to get out literature to show the truth of what I am stating."

Asked if the propaganda to which he referred was directed by a central head, Harrison said that point was immaterial but declared:

"It is being encouraged by Republican leaders, of course."

"I think there are a great many people that are using prohibition and the Tammany issues who are prompted more by religious prejudice," added Harrison.

Tiny Monaco Only Nation Uninvited to Sign Peace Pact

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (US)—Every nation in the world is expected to become a party to the Kellogg pact for a warless world, with the exception of the little republic of Monaco.

There are two reasons, one is that diplomats, who seldom overlook anything, forgot about extending an invitation to little Monaco.

They decided later that the world's smallest republic has slumbered peacefully through the centuries without an army or navy and is not likely to turn belligerent now.

Mexican Problem Rests With Rome, Says Bishop

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 28. (US)—Final solution of the Catholic church problem in Mexico rests in the hands of the Holy See, according to Bishop Michael Maria de la Mora of San Luis Potosi, in hiding near Mexico City.

The bishop, who is secretary of the subcommittee of the Mexican Episcopate and spokesman for the church in Mexico, was interviewed by a group of American correspondents in a suburb of the capital.

He is an active man of medium height and with a keen mind. He appeared clad in a gray sack suit and accompanied by a personal secretary. Throughout the interview, he preserved objectiveness and moderation.

Denies Revolt

The bishop denied that the Catholic clergy is participating in the uprising against the Mexican government. So far as he knows, he said, there are about 12 priests with the rebels as chaplains. They are not carrying arms, he said, and the church is neither encouraging nor discouraging the insurrection.

The prelate said he understood that American Ambassador Morrow had taken an unofficial part in the negotiations with Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz of Michoacan. Outlining the present situation, the bishop said that failure of the Holy See and the Mexican government to reach an agreement was not necessarily fatal, but that for future negotiations it was necessary to get the opinions of the bishops of Mexico and the United States in addition to the viewpoint of the Mexican people.

Problem Is Studied

With the death of Obregon, he said, negotiations were disrupted, but he expected that they would be renewed. A study of the problem, the bishop asserted, is being made by the congregation extraordinary on ecclesiastical affairs at Rome.

Two archbishops now are in Mexico, the prelate said. They are Archbishop Othen Nunes of Oaxaca and Francisco Orosco y Jimenez of Jalisco. There also are 11 bishops in the country. It is their opinion, the bishop asserted, as well as that of Mexican Catholics, that the only honest solution of the problem is the modification of the constitution, of which five articles —3, 5, 24, 27 and 130—should be changed for a proper settlement.

Hot Winds Damage Kansas Corn Crop

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 28. (UP)—Hot winds and inadequate moisture have damaged to some extent the corn crop of Kansas, especially in the northwest, the weekly bulletin of the agricultural department said today.

Showers and cool weather the latter part of the week aided conditions in eastern Kansas, the report says. Although plowing has been hampered in the south and southeast due to inadequate moisture, seed bed preparations for wheat and alfalfa has made headway in other sections. Hog cholera trouble was reported in several sections.

Conference for Safety In Aviation Called

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (UP)—A national conference for the furtherance of safety in aviation will be held here October 4 and 5, as a part of the 17th annual safety congress of New York.

Are You Going to Vote for Al Smith?

'Who Isn't?' Snaps Audacious Texas Guinan

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (UP)—Elaborately jeweled and abounding with snappy repartee, Texas Guinan, queen of the New York night clubs, invaded the butter-and-egg belt today on her way to Hollywood to make talking movies.

Tex wore a rope of pearls that hung about her knees and had a wisecrack for every gem on the string.

"Certinly, I make more money than the president of the United States," she replied to Chicago interviewers, "but the president doesn't do the Charleston."

Despite her role in Manhattan night life, she swears she has never taken a drink, and has a $100,000 bond posted to give to the person who can prove otherwise.

"I nearly missed this train," Tex said. "I operate on midnight savings time and got all mixed up."

"What makes you think you can act in the movies?" she was asked.

"Didn't I make 312 horse operas before I left the racket?"

"Are you going to vote for Al Smith?"

"Who isn't?"

The night club hostess was wearing a huge bouquet of roses given her by "an admirer on the payroll."

"What kind of an ensemble is that?" asked someone who noticed her frock of heavy black lace and black beads.

"Two more payments and I'll wear it out in the daytime," flashed Tex.

Dawes Observes His Birthday at Desk

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (UP)—Vice President Dawes observed his 63rd birthday anniversary yesterday by working in his offices at the Central Trust company. He has just returned from a hunting trip in Colorado and New Mexico and expects to leave Saturday for the summer home of his brother, Deman Dawes, at Amnitoulin, Ont.

New CADILLACS
New LaSALLES
New FLEETWOODS

Created for Those Who Seek the Ultimate in Fine Motor Cars

WITH the new Cadillacs and La Salles—powered with the famous 90-degree, V-type, 8-cylinder engines—the Cadillac Motor Car Company has once again shown motordom that only in a Cadillac or La Salle can the ultimate in fine motor cars be obtained.

In these new models, are a number of remarkable new engineering achievements that result in still finer performance, greater safety, more luxurious comfort and riding ease, and that add greatly to facility of operation.

1.. The new Cadillac-La Salle Syncro-Mesh transmission enables one to shift gears easily, instantly, at any speed, without the slightest bit of clashing.

2.. The new Cadillac-designed Duplex Mechanical four-wheel brakes are powerful, but effortless—they respond to the lightest touch and stop the car with amazingly little pedal pressure.

3.. The steering gear is so designed that it takes the strain out of steering, and makes the car seem light as a toy.

4.. The front seat is quickly adjustable so that the brake and clutch pedals are within easy, comfortable reach of any driver.

5.. The famous Cadillac ninety-degree, V-type, Eight-cylinder engine is refined, improved, and made quieter, smoother and more powerful.

6.. The beautiful luxurious Fisher bodies have been designed and built in accordance with the principles of Pneumatic Control in engineering, thus assuring maximum quietness.

7.. All doors and windows, as well as windshields are equipped with Security-Plate glass for greater safety.

8.. All exterior nickel parts are Chromium Plated, preserving indefinitely the original sheen.

9.. The smart, distinctive Cadillac-La Salle bodies are made still more appealing by a richer, newer beauty in outward appearance, and by more luxurious upholstery, appointments and fittings.

In addition to 23 refreshingly beautiful Fisher bodies there are 14 exclusive and exquisite custom models, Fleetwood designed and Fleetwood built. Ride in the new Cadillac and La Salle—drive them—and you will revel in their brilliant performance, remarkable handling ease, and wholly satisfying comfort and luxury.

AL DECIDES ON SET SPEECHES

Nominee Not to Speak from Rear of Train

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (INS)—Much against the advice of his party managers, Governor Smith definitely announced today he had no intention of making brief campaign speeches from the rear of his special train in the coming presidential campaign.

Smith has decided to limit his addresses to 15 or 20 set speeches in strategic cities throughout the country where a radio hook-up can be provided. He explained that fear of developing throat trouble had caused him to cancel all plans for open air talks.

"There is nothing so disappointing to a crowd and nothing so deadly to a candidate as a short campaign speech in which issues are not discussed," Smith said. "Of course I intend to greet crowds which may gather around my train but there won't be any speech making by me."

Three tentative drafts of Smith's campaign itinerary have been prepared by the Democratic national committee and will be submitted to him next week at Albany.

One plan is understood to provide for a tour straight across the country to California, another would send Smith not only to California but through several border and southern states.

The third plan would limit the governor's campaign to a few middle western states and provide for a concentrated drive in wet eastern states.

Cuticura Healed Severe Case Of Eczema On Hand

"I had a severe case of eczema on my hand. It looked red and rough at first and then would become dry and scale off. It itched and burned so at times that I scratched it, making it worse. I could hardly sleep at night on account of the irritation. I had to wear a rubber glove when I put my hand in water. I suffered about twelve months with the trouble.

"I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and got relief after using it. I purchased more, and after using about half a cake of Soap and half a box of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. E. Hedge, Goodrich, Tenn.

Use Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Talcum to promote and maintain skin purity, skin comfort and skin health; the Soap to cleanse and purify, Ointment to soothe and heal, and Talcum to powder and refresh.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. M, Malden, Mass." Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

Broker Slays Self as Sacrifice to Friends, Detroit Attorney Reveals

DETROIT, Aug. 28. (UP)—The trust which friends and business associates placed in him meant more than life to Benjamin Dansard, Detroit investment broker.

On Aug. 1 Dansard shot and killed himself at his summer home near Monroe, Mich. Today it was learned he did so to protect those who became involved in unfortunate business deals with him.

H. C. Buckley, attorney, representing a group of Dansard's creditors, made the announcement which revealed the broker's sacrifice.

"Nothing was found in an examination of his books to reflect on Dansard's honor," Bulkley said. "There is no question that he took his life so that his friends might be saved through the $4,000,000 insurance he carried."

The broker's total indebtedness, resulting from business ventures of Benjamin Dansard and company, amounted to $9,230,000.

His assets, the attorney said, were $6,950,000.

Argentine Rider Leaves Maryland

FREDERICK, Md., Aug. 28. (AP)—A lone horseman riding an Argentine creole horse left here today on next to the last lap of a 9,500-mile ride from Buenos Aires to Washington.

Aime Felix Tschiffely, Argentine archaeologist, horseman and lover of the out of doors, rode out of Buenos Aires on his 19-year-old horse Mancha, April 23, 1925, and he has been riding ever since, bound for Washington and New York.

Tschiffelt expects to reach Washington some time tomorrow after stopping overnight on the way. He will remain in the capital two or three weeks before continuing his journey by easy stages to its end. He figures that when he arrives at Manhattan he will have covered just 30 miles short of 10,000.

Having scaled the Andes, fought his way through swamps and tangled jungles in southern Panama, lived for days at a time on monkeys, snakes and lizards and battled with malaria in Mexico, Tschiffely is glad to see the end of his long ride in sight.

Coast Guards Rescue Trio in Capsized Boat

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (INS)—Coast guards rescued two young girls and a young man who had been clinging to an overturned boat three and one-half miles out in Lake Michigan this afternoon.

A fourth member of the party who had started to swim to shore for aid when the boat capsized was not found.

Those rescued were Marjorie Olesen of Kenilworth, Shirley Conlee, 18, daughter of a Chicago banker, and Harold Tarrant, 20. Search was continued for Fred Kummler, 21, who started swimming ashore.

A heavy gale which swept Lake Michigan last night capsized the 16-foot boat in which the four had set sail.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 28. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Norton and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wrightman were injured, the two women seriously, when the automobile in which they were en route from Dallas to Memphis skidded in loose gravel and overturned near Forest City, Ark., today.

They were brought to a Memphis hospital.

Dallas Labor Council Approves Five-Day Week

DALLAS, Aug. 28. (AP)—Approval of the five-day week by the Dallas Central Labor council was announced by August W. Schuls, executive secretary, who said, however, he wanted it "distinctly understood that organized labor has no disposition whatever to impose the shorter week upon Dallas employers overnight."

NO TRACE OF LOST FLIERS

Third Day Search Fails To Locate Plane

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 28. (INS)—Another day passed without revealing any definite trace of the fate of the Victoria to Seattle passenger plane, missing since last Saturday.

Belief grew today that seven persons lost their lives when the plane passed from sight in a dense fog. It was first believed that but two pilots and four passengers were aboard the plane.

But while it was impossible to obtain today actual confirmation that F. D. Soverel, East Orange, N. J., was an additional passenger on the missing B. C. Airways plane, investigators said today there was considerable evidence to indicate that he was.

Soverel is known to have driven out to the Vancouver airport with the intention of making the trip and it is also known that he did not debark at Victoria. Nothing further has been ascertained of his movements.

C. W. Vest, aeronautical inspector for the bureau of investigation, was expected here tonight from Portland, Ore., to institute an official inquiry into the fate of the missing plane.

All coast guard stations have made a futile search. Statements that a plane was heard and seen near Port Townsend, Wash., caused the search to center in that district but without results.

Galveston Boy Hit by Delivery Truck Dies

GALVESTON, Texas, Aug. 28. (AP)—Otis McDonald, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. McDonald, died in a hospital here today of injuries received when he was run over by a delivery truck while crossing the street.

Charges of negligent homicide were filed against Allen Friffith, 24, driver of the truck.

400 RUSH GIRL

But Only 40 Had Chance To Get Job on Launch

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (UP)—A girl today averted possible disaster when 400 men rushed a tiny launch on the Hudson river, seeking jobs with the Spencer-Kellogg company of New Jersey.

Miss Carmen Beehler, employment agent for the firm, brought the launch to the dock to pick applicants for the 40 jobs advertised. The men twice tried to rush the launch, but each time she kept them away and finally announced that those desiring jobs would have to report to the employment office on the other side of the river.

Fallen General Leaves No Record of War Days

PARIS, Aug. 28, (UP)—Marshal Emile Fayolle, one of the outstanding allied commanders in the world war, died yesterday without having written a word about his war experiences.

Marshal Fayolle, 76, lived in his country retreat, out of contact with the world. He had been ill for several years, but requests that he write his version of the war experiences met with refusal.

When recalled from reserve duty at the outbreak of the war, he was placed in command of the sixth army of the Somme in 1916, directing allied forces after the Austrians broke through Piave in November, 1917.

He had been awarded the Croix de Guerre, Grand Croix of the legion of honor and the Medaille Militaire.

RASKOB RAISES CAMPAIGN FUND

Charges Republicans to Seek $8,000,000

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 28. (INS)—Charges that the Republican national committee is seeking a fund of between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000 to wage its campaign for Hoover and Curtis were made here today by Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee.

Raskob said he had no objection to such a fund and made it clear that he was not raising the "slush fund" cry which has called senatorial investigating committees into every national campaign since 1920.

"Reports which have come to me indicate that the Republican organization is in reality seeking a fund of between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000 for the campaign, notwithstanding their announced budget limit of $4,000,000," Raskob said.

Earlier in the day, Raskob had raised the Democratic war chest maximum from $3,500,000 to $4,000,000, matching the maximum figure published by Chairman Work of the Republican committee at Washington two weeks ago.

Asked if his charge was to be interpreted as a plea for a senatorial inquiry into fiscal arrangements for the presidential campaign, Raskob answered emphatically "no."

"We do not charge that a fund of this size means irregular campaign methods. So long as every contribution is publicly acknowledged and all expenditures made public, as both parties have pledged to do, we believe there should be no interference. I think it is important, however, that the country should know of these reports which have come to me indicating collection of a larger fund by the Republican organization than their managers have announced."

Rats Cause Blaze in Galveston Building

GALVESTON, Aug. 28. (AP)—Fire which yesterday damaged the Galveston Masonic temple approximately $10,000, was attributed today to matches ignited in a wood box rat nest. The blaze was the third in the building during the year.

"Read the Bible and you will love it; love the Bible and you will read it."

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Ward's island, situated in the East river is a solitary fastness. Guards watch all boats which land and allow no one on the island without a pass. It is the site of the city insane asylum. There the abnormal live out their lives. Each twisted brain lives in a strange world of its own making. Insane they are called, and rightly so perhaps. Yet all the insane in the world are not confined to asylums. Indeed, insanity is but the heightening of certain tendencies which are present in all of us.

I visited Ward's island not so long ago and listened while one of the doctors in charge of the institution lectured on certain types of insanity. He brought out to illustrate his lecture various patients and asked them questions to bring out their particular forms of insanity. Among them was one old man whose mind had been weakened by the use of whisky. He did not seem really insane and answered questions put to him in a very bright and alert manner. But his memory was completely gone; he could not tell what day it was, what month, or even the year. Another, a woman, believed that some one was trying to harm her. She heard voices talking to her. These delusions were so fixed that she became quite surly and defiant when the doctor expressed a disbelief in the "voices."

The last and most interesting patient was a refined looking, quiet elderly woman, who seemed perfectly normal in every way. She sat down and talked to us quite intelligently, had full command of herself and quite conscious even of her own delusion and that the doctor was trying to cure it, her history was very interesting. She had what is known as phobia, a fixed idea which prevented her doing a certain thing. The idea that had become fixed in her mind was that if she left the building and went outside she would drop dead. She was fully conscious that this was just a delusion fixed in her mind yet she could not overcome it, though the doctor hoped to effect a cure in times. As a young woman her mother had gone out to market one day and dropped dead on the street. The shock had completely unnerved the daughter and she had brooded on it until at last it affected her mind and she was deathly afraid to leave the house. It had become a "phobia" and they had taken her to the asylum in the hope that she might be cured. For a period of years the doctor had worked with her making progress very slowly. At last she was willing to try going out again and they decided to send her home. A nurse accompanied her, and, as fate would have it, the nurse fainted upon leaving the taxi. The woman on seeing her companion fall apparently dead had fainted herself and her old phobia had returned stronger than ever. She returned to the asylum and under the gentle and skillful encouragement of the doctor hoped to overcome for good and all the idea which had enslaved her whole mind.

The doctor of this great institution on Ward's island so close to the streets and buildings of New York city, assured me that there were many people at large in the city who were really more abnormal than the ones in his care. When I left the island the guard peered at me, as I thought, suspiciously, and all the way back to my home I was in a blue funk, not sure whether I was all there or not.

◆ ◆ ◆

On Nassau street one can buy anything from a safety pin to a battleship. And at rock-bottom prices. This narrow crowded street runs south from City Hall square into the heart of the downtown business section. It is lined with stores selling all imaginable articles at prices that can't be beat anywhere in the city. Shirts, suits, sporting goods, books, tobacco, hair tonic, leather goods, everything is there if one knows where to look. And at noon when the hungry horde turns out of the offices and each building pours its stream of humanity out into the flowing current, the crowd drifts back and forth along Nassau street with happy democracy, looking in shop windows and digesting lunch before time to get back to the office. There stenographers dressed to the minute brush elbows with greasy printers, some of whom do not bother with the formality of a shirt. There gray-haired business men, young clerks, and Western Union boys lean side by side on the wooden railing watching the subway construction gang. In the evening the street is filled again; this time with homeward-bound office workers. Late at night it is empty and deserted, stretching under the street lights silent and bare except for the noise of the drills underground and the bluecoated form of the policeman making his rounds.

The Kellogg-Briand Treaty Signed

WITH impressive ceremony the representatives of 15 countries Monday signed the Kellogg-Briand treaty whose purpose it is to outlaw war as a method of settling international disputes.

The treaty is not as specific and binding as the covenant of the League of Nations. It is more of the nature of the treaties negotiated by William Jennings Bryan while secretary of state under Woodrow Wilson.

The treaty may not prevent the nations which have signed it from the arbitrament of battle but it does declare them against such a method and as such is a statement of the moral sense of the signatory nations. We can believe that it does make war a little less likely and does bring a little nearer that day when there shall no longer be wars upon the earth.

The more nations that can be persuaded to sign such treaties the nearer will this day be brought.

"Tribute to Caesar"

JULIUS CAESAR has been dead and gone for lo! these many centuries, but the world still pays tribute to him, according to the National Committee on Calendar Simplification.

The committee, composed of many prominent men in different walks of life, and headed by George Eastman, the Rochester camera manufacturer, points out that while Caesar was a good general and politician he was a terrible calendar maker. Julius Caesar, in 40 B. C., constructed the calendar we're using now.

Caesar took the Egyptian calendar, composed of 12 months of 30 days each, with five festal holidays at the end of the year, and mixed those five extra days into the months so they would run odd and even in length, because it was "lucky" to have odd numbers. He had one of these lucky months, July, his birth month, named after himself.

In 28 B. C., the committee finds, Augustus Caesar named his birth month after himself, and in order to have the lucky 31 days in it, stole a day from February and tacked it onto his month, calling it August. Subsequently, to satisfy landlords who complained that this made too many days in the third quarter of the year, he switched Sept. 31 to Oct. 31 and, to keep the odd and even sequence, changed Nov. 31 to Dec. 31.

The committee asserts that the complex economic structure that modern progress has raised, in which accounting, statistics and comparisons count so vitally, our 2000-year-old unequal-month calendar has become costly and clumsy. One proposed solution would give us 13 months of 28 days each, with the 365th day separated as a holiday and known as "Year Day" and observed as an extra Sabbath. "Leap Day" would be transferred to June 29 and also observed as a holiday. The months then, it is pointed out, would be steady and dependable.

The committee will embody its conclusions in a report to the secretary of state in connection with an international conference it is proposed to call to decide the calendar question. The inquiry seems to have many good points.

"Monotonous Routine"

BECAUSE he was "tired of this monotonous routine," a physician in a Pennsylvania town ended his life the other day. He had found in the human spectacle merely an unchanging series of events, dull and uninteresting, empty of inspiration and surprise.

This monotonous routine—the miracle of a birth; the fearful and wonderful mystery of our making—

The marvel of a mountain morning, of a seaside sunset, wild flowers in a mountain cranny, of trees and clouds and rain—

The thunderous legions of the sky sending barrages of crackling fire into the heart of a mighty forest—

A child with eyes aglow giving to a beggar in the street the coin that had been saved for treasured sweets—

Lovers on a park bench in the moonlight, with soft music stealing from a nearby pavilion where dancing feet keep a merry beat—

Men with planes and ships flinging their brave challenge at the Poles, defying winds that blow men flat and cold that eats its way through clothing of the heaviest skins—

A doctor, slipping his knife into a man's skull and restoring the faculty by which man differs from horses and cattle, or straightening the limbs that cruel disease deformed—

A family in poverty lifted into the light by an "unknown" friend—

A truck driver halting his ponderous machine that laughing children may cross the street in safety—

A boy leading a blind man across the street, and a man who can't swim leaping into the surf, hoping against hope to save one drowning—

A lad from the cornfields of Iowa and a young urchin from the crowded streets of New York chosen to lead two great national parties in a contest for the presidency—

Monotonous routine? Rather, miracles!

CHILDRESS SHOWS PROGRESS

Childress may appear to the bitter cynic a money-grubbing modern little city, bent upon materialistic gain and immoderate growth. But such is not the case. On every hand is evidence of graver responsibilities which the community has toward itself, its residents, its youth, the outside world.

Out in Fair park hundreds of tiny trees point skyward, and thousands of tree seeds are being planted or will be planted—a city's effort to make itself a place of beauty, rest and repose.

A service club is giving serious thought to the need of a public library, following the lead of the women of the city who have thrown open their club library to the public.

The same service club is planning installation of playground equipment at Fair park for the youth of the city.

Garden contests are promoting more beautiful gardens. Fine homes are adding to the city's attractiveness.

LEGAL CONTROL OF BOLL WEEVIL

In studying the boll weevil problem from many different angles, I have often asked myself the question, "Should we control the boll weevil by law?" and I am at last convinced that we should, a writer in the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman declares.

The cotton boll weevil is every man's problem; he creates poverty, misery, sickness and sin; he breaks banks, bankrupts merchants and brings economic paralysis, and has transformed many a smiling, happy, prosperous community into a vale of sorrow and grief. With all his evil properties, we can control the weevil by law as we have controlled other destroyers of human and animal life by law, and we should proceed at once to do so. —Bowie (Texas) Blade.

TOONERVILLE FOLKS — Fontaine Fox

The FORBIDDEN DOOR — by Herman Landon

Four years before the story opens, Maxwell Martenet has disappeared, and because of his colorless existence, utterly different than that of his dead father, the scientist, Winthrop Gaston Martenet, every one believes he has died. Ernest Mallingham, calling on Maxwell's widow, Julia Martenet, accuses her of knowing something of her husband's death. He mentions Valhalla Gap, the retreat of Old Winthrop, where he carried on many of his strange experiments, and she promises to tell him all. Hannan Martenet, son of Maxwell Martenet, lately arriving in New York from the tropics, finds he is being trailed by a young woman. He visits Curry, his family lawyer, who gives him a letter from his grandfather, which he is to read and then destroy. The letter warns Hannan not to open "the iron door until the clock has stopped," and ends with a drawing of a man his grandfather calls dangerous. As Hannan finishes reading there is a knock and the original of the drawing stands before him. Peters, the stranger, gives Hannan a letter from his father. Just as Peters leaves Hannan notices it is dated two years after his father's supposed death. He runs after Peters. The chase leads to a house, where Hannan is overpowered by Peters' servant, who after a short absence from the room returns to give Peters Hannan's watch, collar buttons and such things as could not be destroyed by acid. At Valhalla Nordal John, the watchman, is startled by the sight of footprints on the floor and by a knock at the gate. Replying to the knock, John admits a young lady, who calls herself Miss Lane, and says she has lost her way. She notices the footprints and tells John Hannan Martenet has disappeared. As John and the girl stand in the hallway beside an iron door, above which a clock ticks on, the door opens, a face appears for a moment, and the door closes again. Miss Lane faints. Next day Curry arrives with Mrs. Martenet just as John is leaving to get a doctor for Miss Lane. Among Curry's party is Peters. That night when Curry investigates the iron door, strong arms seize him from behind, and he is carried off.

Two Genial Conspirators

"My Dear Mally," said Horace Peters, studying his faintly glossed and neatly trimmed fingernails, "I don't like it. I don't like it a bit."

"What is it you don't like?" Ernest Mallingham drawled.

It was nearly midnight, and the two gentlemen were seated in Mallingham's room on the ground floor. The door was locked and bolted, the window shades were drawn, and the scene was appropriate to confidential and intimate conversation.

"This rain for one thing," said Peters. "And this gale—hear it, Mally? It's getting on my nerves. And I don't like this house. It's too large, and there are too many dark corners and queer crannies where things can happen. Neither do I like the looks of our estimable Mr. Curry. Do you thing he suspects anything, Mally?"

Mallingham shrugged his broad shoulders. It was an eloquent shrug, as were all Mallingham's gestures.

"Maybe he does, but he can't annoy us as long as he doesn't know anything."

"But maybe he knows. Anyhow, I feel like shoving the wooden cigar down his throat."

"Don't be a fool, Peters. Curry can't harm us. Ostensibly we are here because Mrs. Martenet is considering an investment in a summer hotel in the neighborhood. Naturally she wished to look the locality over and obtain the disinterested advice of men like ourselves and Curry. Being that delightful type of woman who always tries to mix business and pleasure she turned the junket into a house party. What's wrong with that?"

"Nothing, I suppose. You coached little Mrs. Martenet very well, Mally. The lady seems to eat out of your hand. You certainly know how to handle them. But I'm wondering whether Curry hasn't smelled a rat. Don't you think he suspects that you and I and Mrs. Martenet are bent on a much more interesting errand than an investment in a summer hotel?"

"If he does, it can't be helped. There was no other way. We had to disguise our motive in some manner. You and I couldn't have come here alone. We wouldn't have been admitted, in the first place. In the second, our visit would have looked queer. The plan we adopted might not be perfect, but it was the best that could be devised. There's safety in crowds, Peters."

"Something in that. As the great Horace once remarked—"

"Horace has been dead a long time. Let him rest."

"Oh, just as you say, Mally dear. By the way, you haven't told Mrs. Martenet everything?"

"Hardly." Mallingham exposed his fine, even teeth in a superior smile. "A man who tells any woman everything is a fool. I have only told her as much as is good for her to know."

"She doesn't suspect anything with regard to Hannan?"

"Naturally not. She thinks what everybody else thinks. She is not brooding over his fate. And why should she? She and Hannan were strangers."

"And Curry?"

Mallingham frowned. "I don't know what Curry thinks. He hasn't spoken of Hannan once since we left New York. He maintains the sort of silence that sometimes masks a lot of deep thinking. But I'm not worrying about Curry. By the way, Peters, you never gave me the details of the Hannan episode."

"It's a—ahem—disagreeable subject. Isn't it enough for you to know that he is dead and that every trace of him has been eradicated? There is not even so much as a handful of ashes left."

"That's the main thing, of course, but one is naturally curious. How did you persuade him to go to your house on Bank street?"

Peters brightened instantly. "Listen, Mally, and compliment me on my cleverness. I didn't persuade him; I just set a trap for him. First I had to win his confidence, then arouse his curiosity. I gained his confidence by handing him a letter his father had left in my care and frankly confessing that I had opened and read it. You see, there was no need of such a confession, for I had gummed the flaps together so carefully that Hannan would not have known it had been opened unless I had told him. Naturally he thought that such frankness was a mark of honesty."

"Not bad." Mallingham smiled appreciatively. "How did you arouse his curiosity?"

"By changing the date of the letter to make it appear that it had been written two years after his father's supposed death. Hannan saw the date and, as I expected he would, hot-footed it after me to my house to ask me questions about his father. I was waiting for him, of course. Then—well, Papu is an excellent servant, Mally. He does what he is told, and he does it thoroughly." There was a little catch in Peter's voice, testifying that he was again touching upon an unpleasant phase of the subject. "Let's not talk about it, Mally dear. Hannan is out of the way, and that's enough."

Mallingham did not appear quite satisfied. "The—er—final disposition was made according to our plan, I suppose?"

Peters nodded, his soft, white hand twitching nervously.

"What about the watch, cuff links and such things?" Mallingham asked. "Acids have their limitations, you know. They are powerless against metals."

Peters face was dark, twitching. His eyes mirrored a disagreeable recollection. "Give me credit for a little sense, Mally. I frankly admit I'm a coward in these respects. I don't like to talk about such things. The articles you speak of are by this time sunk deep in the mud at the bottom of East river."

"Very good." Mallingham's face, with its hints of subdued drama and latent power, took on an amused expression. "Now I'm going to tell you something Peters. It's gratifying to have an associate like you, one who is faithful and capable. Of course, I don't accept you on faith altogether. I trust you only because you are so situated that I could make things very embarrassing for you if you should undertake to double cross me. In other words, you are faithful to me only because you dare not be otherwise."

"Now, Mally——"

"Let me finish. Even so, notwithstanding the fact that you dare not cross me, I find it advisable to check up on you now and then. That's what I've been doing tonight. I know what was going on in Hannan's apartment at the Illington that night. I know every word that was spoken in your house later. This conversation tonight has only been a test of your candor."

Peters' bulbous nose wrinkled in surprise. "You knew? You were there when——?"

"Never mind. It is enough that what you have told me tonight is in accord with the facts as I already knew them. You handled Hannan very cleverly. You ought to be congratulated for having a servant like Papu. Now, just a word of advice. You have a bad habit of talking to yourself when alone. You did so after Papu carried Hannan away that night. Luckily what you said did not reach the ears of any one but me. Better be careful in the future. Now I'm going to offer you a drink. You look as if you needed a bracer."

He produced a glass and a silver flask. Peters smacked his lips in anticipatory enjoyment, but started nervously as a sharp gust of wind shook the wing of the house. Mallingham withdrew the stopper, but paused suddenly in the act of pouring out the drink. His cold gray eyes contracted. For a moment he stood tense and alert. Then, with a curiously light movement, he sprang to the door and slipped the bolt back. He flung the door open and looked out. After a long glance up and down the hall he stepped back into the room.

"Who is nervous now?" Peters jerred, quaffing down a stiff drink.

Mallingham said nothing, but his face was grave. Though he had found the hall deserted, he seemed not quite satisfied. He took the flask away as Peters was about to help himself to another drink.

"One is enough," he said curtly. "By the way, I understand there is a young woman in the house under a doctor's care. Have you any idea who she is?"

"No, but I've been wondering about her." An uneasy look spread over the little man's mismated features. "I've been told she came here last night."

"So I've heard. Why should a strange young woman come here? We must find out something about her. Mrs. Martenet's maid is looking after her. Maybe she can—"

He stopped short. A knock sounded on the door. Mallingham opened it. The caretaker, with his gaunt and lugubrious face, stood in the hall.

"Excuse me," said John Breck. "You gentlemen seen anything of Mr. Curry?"

"No, but he is probably in bed." It was Mallingham who spoke. "Anyway, that's where he belongs. It is after midnight."

John shook his head with a worried air. "No, sir, he isn't in bed. I've looked for him all over the house. It's kinda funny. I found this," exhibiting Mr. Curry's wooden cigar, "in the little hall off the library."

"You will probably find Mr. Curry, too, if you keep looking," said Mallingham calmly, and closed the door. "Now that's curious," he added turning to Peters.

"What? That Curry isn't in bed?"

"No, that his wooden cigar should be found in the hall off the library. Curry and his wooden cigar are one and inseparable." His dark, regular features were tense with thought. "We know where that hall leads to, Peters."

"We do, Mally. And some day we are going to know more. Maybe tomorrow night—Heavens, I wish that gale would stop rocking the house! Don't think anything has happened to Curry, eh?"

Mallingham was looking thoughtfully down at the floor. "I wonder how he happened to drop that fool cigar in the hall off the library. Not that I care a fig what happens to Curry. It's only this. If anything has happened to him, it proves that there are more things going on in this house than we know anything about."

Peters shivered as another blast of wind hurled itself against the walls. "And it's a beautiful place for things to happen in, Mally. We couldn't have picked a better place. Long, winding corridors, all sorts of queer nooks, bats coming down the chimney. A house drenched in sinister atmosphere. I like that word 'sinister'—don't you, Mally?"

Mallingham silenced him with an irritable gesture.

"Did I tell you," he asked presently, "that Breck, the caretaker, seemed to have something very important to communicate to Curry just after we arrived? I was watching them. Curry seemed greatly worried."

"Wonder what Breck told him?"

"I'd give a great deal to know."

"I should think a couple of dollars would make Breck talk."

"That's where you display your ignorance of human nature. Breck is a simple fool. Like all simple fools, he is incurably honest. I could tell that at a glance. No, Peters, we'll have to look elsewhere for our information. Maybe we can coax something out of the fair stranger in a day or two. There's something going on beneath the surface here. We must find out what it is."

Peters nodded and wrinkled his bulbous nose.

"It's getting late," Mallingham observed. "Run along, Peters. I want to think."

Peters took himself off, but did not go to his room. His course was long and devious. He made frequent turns and confined his movements to the unused portions of the house. Looking back occasionally to make certain nobody was watching him, he descended two flights of stairs, prowled along a dim hall and knocked three times on a door. The door came open guardedly.

"Hannan," whispered Peters softly.

Hasty Production of Talking Movies May Spoil Industry, Says Noted Actor

Editor's Note: In the following article written for the United Press, Milton Sills, the actor, tells of the "shattering blow" dealt the motion picture industry by arrival of the sound pictures, and of the preparations that must be made by studios to produce them.

BY MILTON SILLS
Written for United Press

BURBANK, Calif., Aug. 28. (U P)—The secret of success of the story, the drama and the motion picture is that the most interesting thing in the world to human beings is the behavior of human beings.

Some years ago a new medium of expression was discovered for telling of this behavior—the motion picture. It appealed predominantly to the eye.

While this was advantageous from an artistic point of view, in that it compelled development of a very sensitive art of facial pantomime, it had its serious limitations. The most characteristic behavior of the human animal—the type of behavior that differentiates him from all other animals—takes the form of speech.

Now, that vast field begins to open up to the motion picture. No longer will writer and actor be restricted to the more primitive expression of human thought and feeling—the entire range of idea and emotion will be open to them.

Change Inevitable

This sounds as if the talking picture were here, and it is—still crude, still groping, but a formidable and imposing fact. The public has had a taste, and with its fickle greed for novelty now demands more and in more adequate form. The change is inevitable. There can be no turning back.

Just when the scenario form had apparently crystalized, came this shattering blow of audible speech. No longer can we use the convenient spoken title—written by a film editor after the picture is complete—to cover a multitude of literary and directorial sins. Afterthought will no longer do—forethought must provide brilliant and succinct dialogue, and careful preparation of manuscript. Painstaking rehearsal of actors will be necessary.

Actor and director alike will be compelled to undergo a longer and more arduous apprenticeship in the school of spoken drama. Greater intelligence, more strenuous study will be essential. And all in all, a more exigent and interesting art should evolve.

Must Be Gradual

All this cannot be expected in a day—even in this age of breathtaking change and evolution. The thing must insinuate itself gradually.

The most alarming thing on the horizon is the production of a number of hasty and poorly executed talking pictures, which after the first flush of novelty has worn off, will leave the public disgusted and disillusioned. This will be an easy and expeditious way of killing the golden goose. It is all too likely to happen and to lead to a serious setback to the talking film.

If the talking picture gets off on the right foot, with the right scientific and artistic preparation in mechanical apparatus and creative talent, it is certain of enormous success. It will save an industry that even now is showing signs of senility.

Surgery Saves Wounded Ostrich

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (US)—Surgery on the high seas isn't only performed on human beings these days. Birds are sometimes listed among the patients. Today when the Hamburg-American liner Hamburo arrived, she brought a story of an ostrich whose life was saved through the efforts of the ship's surgeons, and a nurse.

Mr. Ostrich, accompanied by two others of his family, with a lot of other former inhabitants of innermost Africa, was coming over to join the forces of a local animal dealer. Not satisfied with being cooped up in his cage, he shoved his long neck through the slats. Trying to pull the head back, the neck became impaled on a nail. An artery was severed.

Wounded desperately, he hollered like only a wounded ostrich can.

A few minutes later he was on an improvised operating table. An anaesthetic was administered, and to quote one of the doctors:

"He fell over helpless, and unconscious. We sewed the wound. He's all right now and has nothing but a scar to show."

Three Lives Lost In Nebraska Windstorms

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 28. (UP)—Restoration of communications today showed three lives had been lost and damage estimated at $250,000 caused by severe rain, hail and wind storms which isolated rural sections of Nebraska and Iowa. The storms completely flattened thousands of acres of corn in the two states.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee will arrive in Dallas early Monday morning, being received by members of the Dallas Central Labor council and outstanding Democrats of Texas, according to an announcement given out by Jed C. Adams, Texas Democratic national committeeman, today.

Production Holds Up In World's Largest Well

FORT WORTH, Aug. 28. (UP)—Production of the world's largest oil well in the Pecos oil fields was reported Tuesday as 132,288 barrels a day, according to information received in Fort Worth today.

The well was drilled in last Friday and is known as the Gulf No. 13 Reynolds, in the heart of the Yates pool. It came in at 1133 feet and then was drilled to 1280 feet. First production of the well was 76,000 barrels a day. Official gauge made this week shows the well to be making 5,512 barrels an hour, or nearly 100 barrels a minute.

Man Critically Hurt In Attempt to Milk Cow

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 28. (AP)—Attacked by an infuriated cow while he was attempting to milk the animal, G. M. Harrott, employe of a local dairy, was in a hospital today with a crushed chest and injured arm.

Harrott became entangled in a rope and was unable to make his escape when he was charged by the cow.

Three Men Being Held For Statutory Offense

CORSICANA, Texas, Aug. 28. (AP)—Three white men were in the Navarro county jail today charged with a statutory offense in an alleged attack on a 14-year-old white girl near Blooming Grove Friday.

Two men were arrested in Groesbeck yesterday, while the third was taken in custody in Ellis county.

The Record News Staff Poet

TO MY CAR

You're a helpless old wreck,
With your day about spent;
You have many a scratch,
And a bruise and a dent;
Your pistons and rings
Are about to fall out;
When I'm in you, my trips
Are enshrouded in doubt.

You have brought only tears,
Never laughter and smiles,
For you went all to pieces
At three thousand miles;
I have ne'er sung your praises,
Disappointment in Tin,
But I'll laud you to Heaven,
When I trade you in!

There Is No Such Thing as the Ideal Wife Men Dream of, Says Dorothy

If Every Wife Were the Paragon Her Husband Thought She Was Going to Be, She Would Need a Serpent's Wisdom, an Angel's Disposition and a Chameleon's Capacity for Quick Change.

The reason that no man ever gets his ideal wife is because there isn't any such person.

For men always expect the impossible of women. They expect them to have dual characters that are the exact anitheses of each other, and to be able to change from one to the other with lightning rapidity, as the occasion may require.

Of course, men will deny this, but nevertheless it is true that if each husband had his heart's desire he would be united to a versatile lady who was a Dumb Dora and a Solomon in petticoats; a clinging vine and a sheet of armor plate; a nifty dresser and a tightwad; a stepper-out and a home body, and who had, in addition, discovered the secret of perpetual youth and how to conjure money out of the air.

And when he finds that he has married merely an ordinary human woman who is an assorted bunch of limitations, even as God made her, he is disappointed and feels that fate has given him a rotten deal.

Thi sis what makes matrimony such a bewildering proposition to a woman. She naturally thinks that the reason her husband picked her out for a wife from among alb of the thousands of other women he knew was because he admired her particular line. Therefore, she is flabbergasted when he begins to knock it and she discovers that he desires her to display a diametrically opposite assortment of attractions. It is as unreasonable as if he expected to buy potatoes in a jewelry store or ice cream at the butcher's.

Of course, it would clear up the situation if, when a man went shopping for a wife, he would pick out the type of a lady he wanted and would marry a highbrow or a moron or a fashion plate or a dime-nurser or a good cook or a soul mate, as his needs and taste might indicate.

But the matter isn't as simple as all that, for the trouble is that a man isn't satisfied with his wife making good on one of these counts. He wants her to hit on all eight cylinders, or else he considers her a failure nad feels that he has been taken in and done for in the matrimonial bargain.

Practically every man, for instance, wants his wife to look up to him and to be dependent upon him. He wants his wife to seek his advice and to regard him as an oracle. He likes to feel that he is far wiser than she, that she leans upon him, and would not know what to do without him. He likes to have her come to him for money.

The real reason that so many men refuse to give their wives an allowance is not so much beause they begrudge them the money as because they get a kick out of their wives having to come and beg them for every penny they get. It makes them feel that they are a benevolent providence to their wives, the source from which all blessings flow.

But while men want their wives to be helpless and dependent, they also want them to be efficient and self-reliant. They want their wives to be able to handle their end of the partnership competently. They want them to be good and thrifty managers, who can get the most out of a dollar and who know how to save money.

They want them to use intelligence and firmness in rearing their children. If misfortune comes they do not want their wives to be millstones around their necks. They want them to have courage and initiative, and to be able to put their shoulder to the wheel and help pull the family wagon out of the mire.

There are other men who fall for morons. A girl makes a hit with a man because she is little and cute, with the amusing tricks of a pet kitten. He finds her mistakes and ignorance piquant. She talks baby talk to him and he can listen by the hour while she asks him: 'Oose lambkin is oo, and is oo utterly, surely sure that oo will always love oo'se sweetums?"

So they get married, but Sweetums bores him to tears when she continues to chatter as meaninglessly as a canary bird. He gets fed up on baby talk as soon as he would on a steady diet of chocolate eclairs, and he yearns for the plain roast beef of intelligent conversation, and for a wife who is a companion and not a toy.

Yet he doesn't want a practical wife, either. He doesn't want her to sit up and discuss the Einstein theory of an evening at home, nor does he want to have to listen to the household budget and the high cost of living. Nor does he want a wife who is always sensible and expects him to be, and who looks upon him as a cash register instead of a man, and who thinks it foolish to tell her husband, who is getting fat and baldheaded, that she still regards him as a sheik, and dangerous to women.

Every man wants his wife to be devoted to him. He wants to feel that he fills her whole horizon that there is no other man in the world for her but him, and that her every interest and hope and desire centers around him. But he doesn't want her to be demanding or jealous of him. He doesn't want her to keep too good an eye upon him. He wants her to leave him free to come and go without asking too many questions.

Every man wants his wife to keep her good looks, and to be attractively dressed, but few of them want to pay the price of beauty shops and dressmakers and milliners. Every man wants his wife to be bright and fresh and entertaining, but not many of them ever think about taking their wives to places of entertainment that will keep them pepped up and give them something fresh to think and talk about. Every man wants his wife to set a good table, but most of them want them to do so without running up any bills.

And so it goes, and therefore it is no wonder men are disappointed in their wives, since what they want is a wife who is a steel cable camouflaged as a clinging vine, a bowl of jelly that at times is re-enforced concrete, a rubber stamp that has individuality and character to it, a fool who is wise, a practical woman who knows how to be a baby-talk lady.

There are mighty few women who can fill the bill.

OH, THESE WOMEN ! ! !

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Mencken, talking with a friend who was leaving New York for Los Angeles:

"Well, if you see Aimee Semple McPherson, kiss her little hands for me. You know I never fell for but two women in my life, Aimee and Mabel Willebrandt, the lady who catches bootleggers!"

A woman in St. Charles, Ill., announces that at 100 years of age she is well and happy. She attributes the fact to having lived on mush and milk for 100 years. She calls that "living."

Three men at luncheon in a Sixth avenue cafe in New York. These are bits of the conversation:

"Well, I'll tell you how you can save about three yards. If you lay it on the goods lengthwise, and cut the long pieces first."

"Well, another way to save is to fold the hem and then put the fringe on after it is stitched."

"I like the valances, and I don't think it matters about the size of the room. They finish a cover."

At the next table two women:

"I told him he could do as he pleased, but I refused to be cooking meals for any man with a restaurant around the corner where you could eat cheaper."

"Try one, dear, I've smoked cigarets that were stronger. They are a kind of baby cigar, but they come in packages as small as a cigaret box and they are much sweeter—oh, much sweeter."

"I hear you are going to make speeches for Hoover?"

"No, I gave that up. I've started a machine shop in the village."

A letter from a man in St. Louis says that I stressed the point of not letting "adapted children know that they are adapted."

It's the children who "adapt" the parents to the modern order of things. The grown-ups merely "adopt" the children.

A girl in a flowered chiffon dress, dainty and designing. She is leaning over the table, looking into the eyes of a man who is "hipped"—temporarily.

She talks a while and then, shaking the ashes from his cigaret, he says: "Well, how much would a Ford coupe cost?"

A half hour later I looked again. They had been served with things in the interim. She was saying:

"I'd like to travel abroad for two years. Not alone, of course, but with someone I liked, Emily or Lulu, for instance. It would do me a lot of good."

Just his good luck that the ticket offices were closed at that hour.

Mrs. Norris Gives Party for Class

Members of Mrs. L. V. Norris' Sunday school class of the Highland Heights Christian church were entertained by her at a delightful party given Monday evening. Games were played, and refreshments served to Misses Ida Ruth Mantle, Marie Collins, Callie Smith, Ruth Lucille Crouch, Mary Katherine Barnes, Mary Alice Lawrence and Grace Barnes.

The hostess was assisted by Misses Beulah and Pauline Lane.

PAINTING IS PROF'S HOBBY

Noted Scientist Excels In Art

PASADENA, Calif., Aug. 28.(US)—Professor A. A. Michelson, of the University of Chicago, one of the world's greatest physicists, is an artist in oils, water color and even sculpture!

He's out here in Pasadena now, on his annual western trip to make his experiments with the speed of light, and verification of the Einstein theory, atop Mount Wilson. And in his spare time, he takes his easel and oils, or his water colors and sketch-book, and prowls about the California countryside, making pictures that are important enough to warrant hanging in exhibitions.

"Oh, it's a fine thing for anybody to have a hobby," he explains, as he limns his trees and vistas in pencil and color. "I enjoy doing this—my only regret is that I don't do it better than I do . . . ."

Which shows the modesty of the man—for his works—several score in number, have been seen in art exhibits in Chicago and in private showings.

"Degenerated"

"I've been doing it a long time. Started at the naval academy, where mechanical and freehand drawing is part of the curriculum. I did a little painting in the navy, before I degenerated into being a college professor.

"As a matter of fact," he went on, "it's not easy to reconcile art and science. I have quite a fight, when being an artist, to overcome the desire for exactness that is so extremely necessary in scientific work. One mustn't do that in art, of course; you must give your impressions, for no matter how exact you may try to be in painting, a photograph is always more so.

"When I'm absorbed in scientific work, I have to give up the other—I can't reconcile them—the work of science is so exacting, that art doesn't fit in. It's only when I'm on excursions like this that I can indulge my hobby.

Fond of Sports

"No; I didn't take up painting with the conscious idea of relaxation, I did it because I liked it—but now that I do it, I find relaxation in it. I've other resources, you know—I'm fond of sports. I used to play tennis, and in a tournament in Chicago last year, I didn't come out so badly either, even though I am 75 . . .! I'm fond of billiards, too, but this setback of mine (a recent illness) has knocked the sports out of me. It's forced me to take to chess now."

Dr. Michelson has just completed another series of experiments on the speed of light, working atop Mount Wilson. In those experiments he has won fame by reducing the uncertainty that has existed in knowledge of light's speed from a variation of 60 to 100 miles per second, to an uncertainty of but one mile per second!

Just now, he is working in tests of the Einstein theory—tests similar to those which he conducted last year, and which, as then, appear to confirm the Einstein concept.

Hoover Relinquishes Frothingham Mansion

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (US)—Herbert Hoover today relinquished the Frothingham mansion in Washington's most exclusive residential district as his personal campaign headquarters.

Representative Louis A. Frothingham of Massachusetts, who occupied the mansion by lease, died unexpectedly last week, but Hoover is said not to be suspicious of good or bad omens. The administration of Mr. Frothingham's estate and the delay in effecting a new lease were said to have prompted Mr. Hoover to take a new headquarters.

CVENGROS BATS AND HURLS SPUDDERS TO WIN OVER SPORTS

MIKE'S HIT IN NINTH COPS, 5–4

Turgeon's Homer Helps; Champs Play Errorlessly

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 28.—Michael Cvengros was hero of the Spudders' victory over the Sports. With the score tied at 4-all in the ninth inning, the southpaw hurler tripled to center, scoring Lapan, who had walked, for the winning run. The 5-4 victory was the Spuds' second straight of the three-game series.

Cvengros and Brown engaged in a hurling duel. Brown limited the Spudders to eight blows while the Sports nicked Mike for 11 knots. But Mike was accorded errorless and at times brilliant support, while the Sports made four misplays.

Turgeon and Diviveros hit home runs over the left field wall. There was no runner on base on either occasion.

Cvengros led the Spudder attack with three hits. Swenson clouted two blows. Dick Cox was the batting leader of the day with "four for four." Diviveros banged a double in addition to his homer. Woehrs and Phipps also clouted two base hits apiece.

Roetz at First Base

Turgeon, Fitzgerald, Jenkins, Swenson, Woehrs, and Diviveros featured on the defense.

Eddie Roetz played first base in place of the injured Buck Stanton.

Another member was added to the Spudder hospital list in today's game when Catcher "Doc" Smith plunged into the dugout while chasing Watwood's foul in the second inning. He sustained a badly bruised jaw and possible fractured ribs.

The victory increased the Spudders' lead to seven and a half games over the Buffaloes, who were idle today.

Sports Score in First

The Sports tallied the first run in the first inning. Whelan strolled. Watwod singled to left. Whelan stopping at second. Woehrs forced Whelan, Cvengros to Swenson. Watwood went to third while Phipps was forcing Woehrs, Turgeon to Benton. Cox singled to center, scoring Watwood.

Wichita Falls counted three in the third. Lapan walked after one was out. Cvengros singled to center and Lapan went to third and Mike to second on Watwood's wild return. Benton flied to left, Lapan scoring, and Cvengros tallied when Phipps threw into the dugout. Turgeon hit his home run.

Shreveport tied it in the third. Woehrs and Phipps singled to center. Cox doubled to left, Woehrs scoring and Phipps stopping at third. Hayworth lifted to Jenkins, Phipps scoring.

The Sports went ahead in the fifth when Deviveros clouted his circuit drive.

Spuds Tie in Eighth

The Spudders tied it in the eighth. With two out, Fitzgerald was safe when Hayworth missed the third strike after Howard swung. Singles by Lamb and Jenkins sent Fitzgerald home.

Wichita Falls and Shreveport engage in their last game of the season here Wednesday and then play at Wichita Falls Thursday and Friday.

Smith Breaks Two Ribs; Stanton Home Today; Aces Join Spudders

"Doc" Smith, Spudder catcher, sustained two fractured ribs on his left side yesterday when he plunged into a dugout while trying to snatch a foul in the game at Shreveport. Smith also was badly shaken up but otherwise uninjured and he will be able to play within a week.

This information was received last night by President J. Alvin Gardner of the Spudders, from the physician who attended Smith.

Buck Stanton, hurt in Monday's game, will return home today, a day ahead of the club. He too will not be able to play for about a week.

Four players from the Abilene club of the West Texas league, a Spudder farm, will join the Wichita Falls team when it returns home tomorrow. They are Pitcher Chick Galeria, Shortstop Debs Garms and Outfielder Garland Orr and Dick Sullivan.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

OUR SPUDDERS are home tomorrow for a two-day stand with the Shreveport Sports, and all fandom in this vicinity is expected to greet the triumphant athletes of Wichita Falls on this brief stay. After engaging the fast-stepping Louisianians for a couple of days, the Galloways take to the road again. They play a single contest at Dallas Saturday and then go over to Fort Worth to engage the Cats Sunday, with a Labor day double-header Monday. They go back to Dallas for a game Tuesday.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE CHAMPIONS return home Wednesday to windup the season, with the Steers opening a three-day stand on that afternoon. Atz' Cats conclude the schedule with pastimes here Saturday and Sunday, September 8 and 9.

◇ ◇ ◇

That malignant jinx that followed the Spudders all season, came back Monday at Shreveport. It fastened itself to Buck Stanton, and the result is that the starry young first baseman will be out of the game for a week or more, suffering from a pulled leg ligament, sustained when he slid into third base in that winning thirteenth inning. Stanton ton will be sorely missed, and it is fortunate that the Spudders have a lead that is nearing the clinching of the second half title. The kid has been hitting at a terrific clip and fielding brilliantly—and you can't remove such a valuable cog from a baseball machine without detrimental result.

◇ ◇ ◇

Ed Roetz or Ed Kallina, however, are capable understudies for George, and if it came to a pinch, Jeems Galloway could make himself eligible to play. Jeems was a great first baseman and mighty hitter, you will recall, and he still can disport himself with credit around that initial bag. One of the two Eds, though, should be satisfactory and thus Stanton's loss won't be so severely felt. The greatest concern over Buck now is that the boy will be perfectly fit for the playoff with the Buffs. By the opening of that series, which is September 12, he should be fully recovered.

Kopecky Victor In Three Falls

Joe Beats Mantell, Substituted for Turk

Joe Kopecky took two falls out of three from Dutch Mantell in the main event of Promoter Alec Ross' wrestling and boxing show last night at Athletic park. Mantell was substituted for Kala Pasha.

Bulldog Dutch Henry started in the arena as referee but proved to be Mantell's advisor in the first fall. The crowd booed him from the first two minutes of the match for his open partiality to Mantell.

With the crowd yelling for a referee Promoter Ross stood by and watched Henry give the first fall to Dutch.

At the insistent request of the spectators Ross dismissed Henry at the beginning of the second fall and Jack O'Brien finished the match as referee.

Kopecky made Dutch pat the mat in 18 minutes with a double toe hold to win the second fall.

Kopecky took the third and decisive fall in five minutes with a grapevine hold.

Whirlwind Kelly won a judge's decision over Little Boy Blue in a four-round paperweight boxing go.

Ross stopped a scheduled four-round bout between Johnny Owens and Kenneth Adams at the end of the second round amid the boos and requests of the fans.

Joe Hooks of Stamford shaded Howard Scott of Electra in a close four-round bout.

Loughran to Fight Jack Gross Oct. 1

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 28. (INS)—Tommy Loughran, world light-heavyweight champion, today was matched to meet Jack Gross, Salem, N. J., southpaw heavyweight, in a 10-round bout at the Phillies ball park here October 1.

Loughran will receive $15,000 as his end of the purse. The amount of Gross' purse was not revealed.

Joe Smith, manager of the champion, also revealed Tommy has been offered $100,000 by B. E. Clements to meet Mickey Walker at Soldiers' field, Chicago. This match may be held later.

Roberto Roberti Stops Savage in Second Round

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 28. (UP)—Roberto Roberti, Italian heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Joe Savage, Philadelphia, after 1 minute 50 seconds of the second round here tonight.

Coyotes Leave For Grid Camp

35 Candidates to Craterville For Ten Days

Leading a squad of 35 of the huskiest men out for football in several years at Wichita Falls high school, Coach Bud McCallum will leave this morning at 8 o'clock for a 10-day pre-season training camp at Craterville Park, Okla.

The candidates for this year's team assembled yesterday morning at Junior college with Coach McCallum for final instructions about the camp.

The size and weight of the men that gathered at the meeting Tuesday exceed the fondest hopes of ardent Coyote supporters. The greater part of those who are with the squad have gained in weight since last year and many of them are hardened by a summer of hard labor.

Prospects were made brighter for the coming Coyote season when McCallum announced Tuesday that Bill Morris, who coached Reagan Junior high school last year, had been annexed as his assistant.

Several husky youngsters who have moved to Wichita Falls during the summer have the appearance of filling gaps left by graduations and failures last fall. Most of the new men are line men.

Four letter backs are returning from last year's team. They are Captain Harvey Black, Kenneth Mills, Dick Hambrick and Pete Powell. Four letter line men, Howard Scott, Martin Hodgkiss and Ed Bell are back while a number of reserve men are material on the camp.

Mickey Walker Kayoes Emanuel in 7th Round

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—Mickey Walker, world middleweight champion, knocked out Armand Emanuel, the Jewish light-heavyweight, last night in the seventh round of their scheduled 10-round fight here. More than 22,000 saw the battle.

Three riders were injured badly in the steeplechase event at the same track in a three horse fall.

GOLDING LEADS IN GOLF MEET

Cochran Also High in Play At Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Aug. 28. (AP)—High scores predominated in the first day of qualifying play in the River Crest invitation and Southwestern Golf association combined tournament today over the River Crest course. Texas' ace linksmen and those of surrounding states found it a difficult assignment competing against "old man" par and only 14 were able to make the links under 80.

Dudley Golding, Wichita Falls, winner of the River Crest invitation championship back in 1922, registered a 75. Gus Moreland, Dallas, duplicated the feat. Seventy-sevens were next in line with the scoring taking an upward trend. From 84 down was the outstanding scores of the aces of the links, 43 turning in that figure or better.

Tommy Cochran, Wichita Falls, winner of the River Crest title in 1925, turned in a 77, which remained low until far in the day. Cochran was out in 36, but ran into difficulty coming in and took a 41.

Danny Murphy, Former Athletic, Goes to Pen

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 28. (INS)—Convicted of stealing a topcoat from the Schroeder Oil company office, Danny Murphy, former outfielder and infielder for the Philadelphia Athletics, today was sentenced to 60 days in the house of correction here.

Murphy claimed he had $40,000 at one time but was unable today to realize the small amount of money that would have saved him from a prison term.

Spencer Is Champion Trotting 3-Year-Old

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Aug. 28. (AP)—Spencer, leading money winner among 2-year-olds last season, became the champion 3-year-old of the trotting world today by winning the classic Hambletonian stake at the New York State fair. Spencer won straight heats and enriched his owner, David M. Look of New York, $45,000.

Gibson Acquires 'Another Fighter

Billy Quits 'Retirement' To Manage Hansen

By ED FRAYNE

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (US)—The wheels of the ballyhoo whirred violently and frightfully at the offices of Promoter Rickard today.

Before they were brought to a stop, three well known managers had been ground out of the third story window, and Knute Hansen, in whom Promoter Rickard is showing a strange interest, was the property of William Gibson, who formerly managed Gene Tunney, the retired heavyweight champion.

All day long, persons who managed, represented or claimed an interest in Hansen trotted in and out of Rickard's offices. When the last visitor had gone, Rickard threw open the doors to a horde of newspaper men and impressively announced the result.

First, Gibson has purchased 25 per cent interest in the gangling Dane from George Lawrence and Joe Woodman for $11,250.

Next, Walter Freidman, who has filed a contract on Hansen with the state athletic commission, is no longer connected with the fighter.

Furthermore, these arrangements have met with the approval of Messrs. Spruille Braden, Warner Jones, William Braden and Walter Chrysler, wealthy New York sportsmen who hold a 38 per cent contract on Hansen. Gibson will manage the fighter, and they will take what is left after Gibson's "cut" has been deducted.

Finally, Hansen will be starred at the Garden in October, and—this last was stated very, very impressively—he is undoubtedly the best heavyweight in the world today.

By this time it should be obvious to the public that a certain clique is making a football effort to put over Knute Hansen with George Lewis Rickard, whose position in the boxing scheme should be that of a neutral, serving as cheer leader.

Rickard has gone so far in boosting Hansen that he has undoubtedly antagonized many of the really good performers, men like Jack Sharkey, Johnny Risko and Paulino Uzcudum. Rickard has made it appear that Hansen is entitled to rank above these men, whereas the truth is that Hansen is merely one of the rank and file.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE — (385) Our Presidents

In the election of 1824 all the candidates called themselves Republicans, though they differed greatly in their ideas. No one received a majority of votes so the House of Representatives chose John Quincy Adams of Massachusetts, son of John Adams, the Federalist president, although Andrew Jackson had received a greater number of votes. President Adams and Congress often disagreed.

During Adams' term the Erie Canal was completed and New York grew tremendously, both in population and wealth reaped from trade with the west.

Adams had great faith in the growth of the country and he wanted to annex Texas, Cuba and Canada and extend the United States to the Pacific.

At the end of Adams' term the Constitution had been in operation for forty years. During that time Virginians had been presidents for thirty-two years and Massachusetts men eight. Thus at the election of 1828, Adams, a candidate for re-election, was badly defeated by Andrew Jackson, hero of New Orleans. Jackson, native of North Carolina, had made his home in Tennessee. HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health."

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Breathing in Asthma

Most people understand that diaphragmatic breathing is superior to chest breathing, but do not know how to go about it in making the change. When one is asked to take a deep breath, he invariably raises the chest and attempts to expand the ribs, which apparently fills the upper chest with air. This may be called chest breathing, and is wholly unnatural and really harmful in certain ways.

If you will watch an animal such as the horse when he breathes, you will see that the breathing is done in the upper part of the abdomen, and that there is practically no movement of the chest or of the lower abdomen. Every successful athlete either unconsciously breathes this way or has developed the diaphragmatic breathing through practice.

If you will stand sidewise before a mirror, you can watch your faulty breathing, and practice how to correct it. Remove all of your clothing and stand so you can watch the entire torso, from the pelvis to the chin. When you inhale you will probably notice that the chest gets larger in the upper part, the upper abdomen smaller, and lower down the belly will protrude. This gives you a sort of hour-glass appearance, which is all wrong.

Now try, when you inhale, to make your abdomen larger just below the ribs. Imagine you are drawing the air into the upper abdomen, swelling it out and keeping the lower part from protruding. The position of the ribs should change but slightly, and no movement should be noticed in the upper chest. After you have inhaled, exhale slowly, contracting the upper abdomen, and holding the entire abdomen rigid, now allowing the lower part to protrude.

Keep on practicing until you can do all of your breathing with the upper part of the abdomen, just below the sternum and ribs. In this way you will learn to develop the diaphragmatic muscle which you must do in order to be healthy and to completely overcome asthma.

If you do not seem to get the idea at first, go outdoors and take a short run up and down the yard, then rest and place your hands on various portions of your chest and abdomen and you will notice that you are naturally breathing hardest in the diaphragmatic section.

For practice, just keep up this same breathing, and if you again forget how, take another run and again make a careful examination to see where the most contraction and expansion occur.

After the asthmatic has properly trained the diaphragm, he will find that the practice of singing will be a pleasing way to keep the diaphragmatic muscle properly exercised. Any good singing teacher understands the necessity for breath control, and will give the pupil exercises through the practice of singing. A strong, resonant speaking voice can be thus developed.

The tone of the asthmatic or tubercular voice is always very poor, due to the tight diaphragm which always exists. The cure of either one of these disorders cannot be accomplished with the development of a normal diaphragm.

I have prepared a special chart of exercises that I will be glad to send to anyone who will send a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Questions and Answers

Question: Alex M. Writes: "Specialists tell me I have no hydrochloric acid in my stomach. Have taken bottle after bottle of it until it has affected my teeth. What is your idea of a cure?"

Answer—The cure of too much or too little stomach acidity depends entirely upon living on a well balanced diet. The more hydrochloric acid you take internally, the worse your condition will become eventually.

Question: Housewife asks: "Are carrots, string beans and beets a good combination with meat and stewed fruit? If so, is it all right for me to have this combination regularly every day?"

Answer: The combination you ask about is an excellent one, and can be used with benefit at least once a day."

Question: E. M. asks: "Are cold shower baths daily each morning good for a person?"

Answer: Cold baths are very invigorating and help to increase the blood's circulation. Some people who are anemic or nervous cannot take a real cold bath with benefit until they have practically recovered from their trouble.

Question: Mother asks: "What do you suppose is the cause of a boy of 13 always picking at his nose? I have given him the worm remedy, but still he picks at each side."

Answer: Your boy may be troubled with adenoids or chronic catarrh. In some cases, the nose picking is simply a habit which you can correct by having him wear mittens or gloves as much of the time as possible.

Du Pont Family Splits In Presidential Race

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—The Du Pont family split squarely on the national election today, Lammont Du Pont, president of E. I. Du Pont de Nemours & Company, declared that he would vote for Herbert Hoover and the Republican ticket, while his brother, Pierre, chairman of the directors of General Motors company, has taken a leave of absence from that corporation to support Governor Smith's candidacy on the Democratic ballot.

Lammont Du Pont, in a letter the Philadelphia Public Ledger, asserts that while he disagrees with the pronouncements of both Hoover and Smith on the prohibition question, he does not believe prohibition to be the dominant issue of the campaign or that either party can cure existing evils by the plans proposed.

Florence Vidor Weds Well-Known Violinist

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (UE)—Florence Vidor, motion picture star, and Jascha Heifetz, world-renowned violinist, were secretly married eight days ago in New York, George Ingels, manager for Heifetz, announced.

Ingels made the announcement 10 minutes after the departure from Grand Central station of the Lake Shore limited bearing the newlyweds toward Hollywood and their honeymoon.

INJUNCTION DENIED

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 28. (AP)—An injunction to prevent the Canal Bank and Trust company from participating in the proposed highway loan of the state board of liquidation was denied today by Judge Cage of the civil district court.

FAVORITE JOKES OF FAMOUS FOLK

As Told by Them to FRANK E. NICHOLSON

By ELEANOR BOARDMAN

What would you think of a bridegroom who insisted on another man making love to his wife on their honeymoon? Eleanor Boardman and her husband, King Vidor, the director, were determined to visit Niagara Falls on their wedding journey so, combining business with pleasure, they decided to shoot the honeymoon scenes of a picture called "The Crowd," with the famous falls as a background.

ELEANOR BOARDMAN

And so King Vidor (the real husband) directed James Murray (the reel husband) how to make love to his reel (and Vidor's real) wife.

"I like best the story," Miss Boardman told me, "about the Scotchman who was returning home after several years' absence in Australia. He was met at the station by his three brothers, and the Scot was greatly surprised to find that the brothers had each grown a long, flowing beard since he had left them.

"'What's the bright idea of all the whiskers?' he asked.

"'Weel,' was the reply, 'it is all your fault—ye took the razor with ye.'"

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (AP)—A continuance of unfavorable private crop advices appeared to make rather a more serious impression on sentiment in the New York cotton market today and while buying was not active on general, active months sold about 32 to 37 points net higher. December contracts advanced from 18.62 to 18.95 and closed at 18.90, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 28 to 32 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 1 point to an advance of 2 points. There may have been a little selling on the relatively easy showing of the early cables from Liverpool, but the offerings were light and the market soon steadied on the prospects for further showers in the South and the fear of increased insect damage.

Buying became a little more active as prices worked upward. Much of it was attributed to governing, but some trade and commission house demand was also reported in the later trading when October contracts sold up to 19.07 and January to 18.90.

Closing quotations were a few points off from the best under realizing. Private cables attributed the early decline in Liverpool to Bombay selling and hedging but reported trade calling and prices there rallied after the local opening, while houses with Liverpool connections were moderate buyers here during the early trading.

Exports today 4,339, making 221,232 so far this season. Port receipts 26,180. U. S. port stock 477,276.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 28. (AP)—There was more disposition to buy in the cotton market today, traders probably being impressed by the unfavorable reports on the condition of the crop and the increase and damage of the boll weevil, and although business was not particularly active, the trend of prices was upward. Following a slight opening advance the market firmed up and December contracts traded up from 18.12 to 18.49, or 37 points up. The delivery closed 3 points down from the high but at a net advance for the day of 26 points. The general market closed steady net 26 to 28 points higher.

The market opened easy at net losses of 1 to 4 points. Relatively lower Liverpool cables seemed responsible for the opening drop but early offerings were quickly absorbed and after a period of irregularity the market turned on the upgrade under buying induced by the forecast for rains in the eastern portion of the belt where moisture is not wanted. Around mid-session October traded at 18.35 with active months showing an advance of 30 to 33 points above the opening figure. Several reports of crop deterioration added to the firmness.

Following a reaction of 6 points from the best on moderate realizing the market again firmed up in the period after mid-session on a good spot demand from domestic mills and bullish weevil news. Before the buying subsided October made a new high at 18.40, with near positions generally showing gains of 35 to 37 points from the lows.

There was a renewal of profit-taking in final trading and the market eased off 6 points. October contracts closing at 18.34, or 28 points up for the day.

Steel Gains Four Points to Lead Advance On New York Stock Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 28. (U. S.)—Steel, with a gain of near 4 points, featured the resumed advance in stocks, today, in which the average prices went into new high ground for history.

Calling of $15,000,000 more loans and a 7½ per cent call money rate had but momentary influences which were rapidly offset as buying orders poured in for industrials from all parts of the country. Consolidated Gas, Montgomery Ward Allied Chemical and American Smelting were other favorites as those who "sold for a turn" under belief that money would tighten further were forced to cover by the aggressive operations of group leaders. Railroads were in slightly better demand as a result of the improvement pictured in the reports of revenue for July. Other copper companies failed to follow the advance of Smelting but remained steady throughout. Oils were quiet also but fairly steady.

Money was scarce for a while but after the renewal rate was announced word was received from the floor that there were sufficient funds available to keep the rate from going higher during the day and the pool managers started more aggressive work. "Temporary" is the word with which they dismiss all consideration of the money situation. Of course, they admit that the bankers are issuing warnings day after day of the ultimate result of buying stocks yielding 4 per cent and less with money costing 7½ per cent and more. The bulls answer, however, that the bankers do not recognize the full significance of the "new era." In the increase in public participation, resulting from the aggressive pool work, there is considerable quiet liquidation going on, however, as even the staunchest bulls know they cannot fight the money powers forever.

Loose Wiles climbed 4 points more into new high ground as brokers advised of the character of buying along the lines of what was pointed out here exclusively last week. International Nickel also gained new high territory as stubborn bears covered, it being rumored that the settling up of accounts were for important interests who turned bearish soon after the first federal reserve "warning". McKeesport Tin was another prominently strong specialty with rumors of dividend increase in flotation. Gold Dust recovered all its loss of the previous session with further talk of higher dividend and planned acquisition of Linseed common stock.

Warrants Issued On Syndicalism Charges

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Aug. 28 (UP) Seven warrants were issued today against persons charged with the violation of the criminal syndicalism act in connection with recent memorial meetings for Sacco and Vanzetti, radicals executed in Massachusetts last year. The meetings were said to have been sponsored by the Workers party.

Grain

GRAIN REVIEW

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

CHICAGO, Aug. 28. (US)—A sharp bulge in corn which sent prices to the highest levels in three weeks, drew the attention of the grain trade today. Shorts covered extensively in all the deliveries and it was the first time that the deferred futures have really followed an advance in the September. Corn closed with net gains of 2½@3⅜c.

Wheat started lower, but there was enough short covering on the strength in corn to cause a 2c rally from the low point and the market finished 1⅛ to 1⅝c. Oats were helped by corn and closed ⅛ to 1⅛c up, and rye prices followed the same course as wheat, finishing ¾ to 1⅛c up.

Corn shorts, which have been made rather nervous by the many optimistic reports on the disposal of heavy stocks by leading longs found today that September corn was wanted by many interests. With the keen demand for this future in the pit, holders were reluctant to sell and the scattered offerings were not enough to supply the demand.

There was neither more nor less in the news of wheat, and the advance after the early easiness was accounted for mainly by the strength in corn. Shorts have become somewhat discouraged, it seems, over the action of the market, for two weeks have passed since the recent heavy declines and with no real bullish news prices are several cents above the low.

As evidence of the lack of buying incentive in the actual wheat news of the day there was the decline of 1 to 1⅛d at Liverpool, and ¼ to ½c at Buenos Aires. Winnipeg, while closing ⅜ to ⅝c higher was draggy all session and took its strength from the local market. There was nothing further heard of Canadian frost and the forecast for the northwest is fair without much change in temperature. No export sales were uncovered until after the close of trading, when seaboard reported sales of 250,000 bushels.

In the cash market wheat was steady to a shade higher, with the basis unchanged to 2c up. Demand for spot corn was fair and mainly from feeders. Cash prices were 1 to 3c higher, with the basis 1 to 1⅛c off.

Convicts in Sing Sing Death Cells Pass Time With Checkers

OSSINING, N. Y., Aug. 28. (US)—"Red" Moran, christened Thomas, who killed two policemen in Brooklyn, and Martin Miller, negro slayer of a Brooklyn school teacher, are playing a game of checkers.

Death is the referee.

The cells they occupy in Sing Sing is the battlefield, and only the keeper is the audience.

Unless one wins from the other by 11 o'clock Thursday night, death will call it a draw—for Miller will then be led to the electric chair.

The moves are made on separate boards, the men calling out their moves to each other. The game goes slowly on—and the time moves swiftly.

"They'll both lose in the end," said the solemn keeper sitting dutifully at his grim post.

Man in Jail For Firing On Youth

A man about 50 years old was held in the county jail on a peace bond following the filing of charges of aggravated assault against him by Wayne Somerville, county attorney, Tuesday morning.

The man is alleged to have threatened a neighboring family with a pistol Monday night. After the arrested man fired one shot at a little boy, the child's father took the gun from the man and subdued him, according to police officers who made the arrest.

MARKET REVIEW

R. O. Harvey & Co., rooms 630-34 Harvey-Snider building, received the following Tuesday on cotton, grain and stocks from their New York and Chicago connections:

Cotton

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Although the market continues to narrow, the undertone seems to be firming probably due to less optimistic crop advices and more disposition on the part of trade interests to buy on recessions. Speculative demand is still small but sentiment seems less bearish. The present tenor of crop advices would indicate that a downward revision in private crop estimates is to be expected. We believe that any move of consequence before th report would likely be upward and that purchases on setbacks are preferable.—E. A. Pierce & Co.

Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Early dealings today continued the irregularity of the close last night and further large offerings came into steel, General Motors and other leaders which displayed a slightly heavy tone. Fleischmann advanced to the highest price in its history. Another standard industrial, Allis Chalmers, also reached record levels. Money renewed at 7½ per cent and about $15,000,000 in loans was called in preparation for month-end settlement. The new split-up shares of Consolidated Gas were traded in very actively, creating higher prices for other leading utilities such as Columbia Gas, Public Service and Peoples Gas. In the last hour strong tendencies developed featured by broad participation in a large number of stocks. Most prominent was Victor Talking Machine which made a new high above 107. Among the rails Missouri Pacific was easily the feature. United States Steel moved to 155, a new high for the current move. There seemed to be considerable demand for U. S. Steel around its highest levels.—E. A. Pierce & Co.

Grain

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Wheat was easy early on selling induced by the weakness in Liverpool and on generally fair weather in the Canadian northwest. Prices declined around 1 cent from the previous finish with offerings on the break absorbed by holders of bids and by commission houses. Later there was active short covering and buying by the strength in corn and prices advanced nearly 3 cents from the early low with considerable local buying on the way up. Trade showed tendency to broaden but activity in corn overshadowed wheat to some extent. There was a lack of export business at the seaboard. Liverpool closed 1 to 1⅛ lower. Forecast indicated generally fair weather in Canada and harvesting is progressing rapidly. Winnipeg acted heavy the greater part of the day. Corn market was firmer from the start with the September acting tight and it went to a wider premium over the December with shorts buying freely on the way up and sellers of offers had to protect themselves in all deliveries. Somewhat less favorable crop comments were received from Nbraska. Forecast was for showers over a good part of the belt with warmer weather Wednesday in the West. Market showed a heavily oversold condition on the way up and reflected the recent persistent commission house buying of December from 75 down that has been under way for some time past. Private crop reports will be given out on September 4. Oats more active and prices advanced over 1 cent from yesterday's finish with cash houses taking September. Local shipments were 1,115,000 bushels partly to Canadian ports for export. Rye influenced largely by action of wheat.

SALT CREEK CONSOLIDATED OIL COMPANY

Five-Year Record

The Salt Creek Consolidated Oil company was incorporated in 1919 to take over interests in lands in Salt Creek and Grass Creek oil fields of Wyoming. The company is controlled by the New Bradford Oil company which owns over 51 per cent of the issued capital stock of the company and also owns over 51 per cent of the capital stock of the Mountain and Gulf Oil company.

Salt Creek Consolidated Oil, according to the latest available reports, owns approximately 3,200 acres in the Salt Creek field and had a net interest in approximately 2,300 acres additional. In 1924, pipeline runs from its wells in Salt Creek were averaging better than 7,000 barrels a day. In 1925, the company completed 50 wells, expending $11,425,000 for development. It received an average price in that year, of $1.82 a barrel, and purchased, for cash and stock, an additional interest in the Salt Creek field.

President James Owen, in his report for 1927 issued recently, said that the average price received for oil in that year was $1.41 a barrel as compared with $2.18 a barrel in 1926. Because of general depression in the petroleum industry, the Salt Creek field was curtailed as much as possible. The company drilled only one well in 1927. Much of its output was shut in.

Net income in 1927 amounted to $767,743, or 59 cents a share. This compared with $1,888,329 in 1926, and $2,035,710 in 1925.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of $12,-863,000 in shares of the par value of $10.

Dividends were started in 1922 and have continued since. In 1926 the rate was raised to 80 cents a year and this has been maintained so far in 1928.

As of Jan. 1, 1928, current assets amounted to $342,672; current liabilities to $330,190, and net working capital to $12,482. Book value of the capital stock amounted to $11.91 a share.

First Bale Cotton Ginned at Memphis

MEMPHIS, Texas, Aug. 28.— U. A. Hoffman, living in the southwest part of Hall county, brought the first bale of cotton to Memphis Tuesday, about 10 days earlier than last season. The cotton was ginned by the Farmers Union Gin company and bought by them for 20.50 cents per pound. The bale weighed 505 pounds. A nice premium is being donated by local business men. Hoffman says he will pick a bale a day from now on. The cotton was planted on April 4.

Plans For Dirigible Service Announced

MADRID, Aug. 28. (UP)—Plans for the new Seville-to-Buenos Aires dirigible service, including a preliminary flight around the world, were announced here today.

Hangars, a mooring mast and gas generators for the service will be started as soon as the Seville exposition is over. In addition to the giant dirigible now being built at the Zeppelin works in Germany, another dirigible will be added to the service later.

TWINS WIN

Man Who Owed Balance On Fine Gets More Consideration

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Aug. 28.—A resident of McCamey, oil town, 125 miles west of here, learned today the arrival of twins may temper the decisions of courts. He had owed a balance of $2 on an old misdemeanor fine and when Tom Ragsdale, constable, sought to collect, asked if the twins did not entitle him to some extra consideration.

"If you will give each of the twins $1, I will not insist on the amount," Ragsdale said. And the justice of the peace concurred.

Lambert-Trout and Duke No. 1 A. F. Fassett, 1105 feet south, and 150 feet west of northeast corner block 1, E. T. & R. R. survey, abstract 76, southwest of Iowa Park in Wichita county, had a slight show of oil at 1361 feet, and is drilling at a depth of 1547 feet.

Across the Raging Red

Heydrick-Hickman-Caldwell No. 1 Poole, located in the southwest corner of southwest quarter of section 39-8-1, Stephens county, will shoot the sand at a depth of 1650-55 feet.

Texas Company a Pair

The Texas company placed its No. 9 and 10, wells on E lease, W. T. Waggoner lands in section 24, block 4, H. T. C. survey, Wilbarger county, on the pump, adding approximately 800 barrels more oil daily to the Wilbarger output. Both wells were completed in the 2350 foot pay.

Shaw, On the True

After drilling to a depth of 3310 feet in his No. 1 deep test, located in the Burch survey, abstract 2150, south Young county, T. G. Shaw decided to pull pipe and abandon as a dry hole.

Eleventh Producer

Riggs and Oliphant completed their No. 11, J. B. McKinley in section 1489, T. E. L. survey, northeast Young county with a daily production on the pump at 120 barrels, sand 544-64 feet.

Texas Company's No. 3

The Texas company has skidded the rig and is moving in tools to put down its No. 3 Hayter test, located in section 2409, T. E. L. survey, south Archer county.

Consolidated-Waggoner

The Consolidated Oil company completed its No. H-1, W. T. Waggoner well in the Purnell survey west of the Consolidated pool in southeast Wilbarger county and is pumping 125 barrels from the pay at 1892 feet.

Throckmorton Dry Hole

McCurdy and associates missed the sand in their No. 2 Reynolds Land and Cattle company lease in section 19, A. B. M. survey, Throckmorton, and is dry at a total dpeth of 1400 feet.

Harry Hines-Waggoner

Harry Hines completed his No. 3 John & Jeff Waggoner well making 140 barrels daily. The well which is located in block 2, G. C. & S. F. survey, abstract 772, southwest Wichita county, encountered the sand at 1375 feet and was drilled to 1390 feet.

Some Gas, and Some Oil

The Horigan Oil company No. 1 J. W. Lester, located in section 1, block 1, A. C. H. & B survey, in the LeFors area of Gray county is completed in the sand at 2500 feet and is estimated at 20,000,000 cubic feet daily.

Cool Reception Is Given Beggar

A one legged beggar salesman who claimed he was waiting only for his leg to be shipped here from San Antonio met with cool reception in Wichita Falls Monday.

Frank Burns, chief of police, sent the man to the community chest after he appealed to the chief for a permit to sell lead pencils for a couple of hours each evening.

Miss Myrle Neely at the chest office elicted the startling information that the man had not worn the leg for a year as he had found out he could "get by" perfectly well without it.

He admitted that he had "passed up" Dallas on his trip northward. When Miss Neely suggested he had done this because beggars, panhandlers, beggar salesmen and their ilk are treated unceremoniously there, he became indignant. He averred that he just chose Wichita Falls as he might as well be here as anywhere else.

When finally his statements showed plainly he needed no charity and that all he wanted was permission to do what the city ordinances specifically prohibited, his request was refused. "I'm no Lindbergh and I have no airplane", he exploded. "I had a hard time climbing that hill to this building, and besides the chief sent me to see you."

When informed that Miss Neely had taken time out in the middle of their conservation to talk with the chief about the case over the telephone, he said: "Well, he can't 'vag' me. Just let him try it. I'll sell my pencils if I want to. Just watch me!"

And the police are watching.

HOMES SAFE FROM RAIDERS

As Long as They're Not Saloons, Says Official

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (UP)—A man's home is still his castle, Mrs. Mable Walker Willebrandt, assistant U. S. attorney general, said today commenting on reports from Minneapolis that padlock proceedings were started against 26 homes for violation of the federal prohibition law.

"A man's home is his castle. He can do there as he pleases but when he uses his home for the sale of liquor then the home no longer remains private but becomes, in the eyes of the law, a public saloon." She said.

"We find some saloons masquerading as homes as we find some saloons masquerading as night clubs. Just because a place has the appearance of a private residence does not give it protection from the right of search.

"However, the law does not permit a prohibition agent to go inside a home unless he has a search warrant which has been issued upon sworn testimony that liquor is being sold in the house."

Mrs. Willebrandt pointed out that the belief or knowledge that a still is operating in a private home does not give federal authorities the right to secure a search warrant against the home under the Volstead law.

Art Oftedal, acting prohibition commissioner, denied prohibition forces are campaigning against homes. No order to this effect have been issued in Washington, he said.

Certain law violators, realizing it is more difficult to obtain a warrant against a home have been utilizing homes for liquor sales, Oftedal said.

Warrant Recalled Blasphemy Case

BOSTON, Aug. 28. (UP)—Dr. Horace M. Kallen, noted philosopher, probably will not be obliged to stand trial under the Massachusetts blasphemy law enacted some 230 years ago.

A warrant had been issued in connection with a speech he delivered at the Sacco-Vanzetti memorial services here last Thursday was recalled today by Municipal Judge Michael J. Murray.

Meanwhile Dr. Kallen, a former instructor at Harvard, one time star pupil of William James, and now of the new school for social research in New York, had sent word to the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee from his farm at Bethel, Conn., that he was prepared to return to Boston and fight the charge.

Withdrawal of the warrant came as a disappointment to the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee, members of which had hoped to develop a test case from Kallen's arrest.

The committee already had announced that "an eminent conservative lawyer of Boston" would represent Kallen if the case went to trial.

In his speech, Dr. Kallen was alleged to have said:

"If Sacco and Vanzetti were anarchists, Jesus Christ was an anarchist, if Sacco and Vanzetti were anarchists, St. Francis de Assisi was an anarchist, Giordano Bruno was an anarchist, Thomas Jefferson was an anarchist, Abraham Lincoln was an anarchist."

It was alleged that the philosopher violated the state law against blasphemy with his reference to Jesus Christ. Judge Murray, after reading the speech, decided, however, that the allegation was not well-founded and that it would be impossible to get a conviction.

Menard Well May Open New Area

Promise of another productive area in the southwest Texas section is looked for in the showing for a well made by the Panhandle Refining company's No. 1 Eckard Located in the center of a 12,000-acre tract near Menard in Menard county. The well is on a well defined structure mapped out by geologist R. A. Conkling of the W. W. Silk Geological Syndicate organized organized several months ago with headquarters in this city.

The well which is showing considerable oil of 38 gravity topped the sand of 3,096 feet and will be drilled in sometime in the next day of two. In the event of a comercial producer the Panhandle Refining company will go on record as the pioneer producing company in Menard county.

Drilling Resumed In Coleman County Well

COLEMAN, Texas, Aug. 28.—After a 40 quart shot in the Walter Gray No. 1 Heffner, Coleman county school lands No. 57, the well appeared less than a 15 barrel producer and the owner has resumed drilling intending to encounter either the gas sand producing in the Continental Oil company—M. G. Cheney No. 1 Mary B. Alexander or the Gardner sand.

Both the Gardner and the Alexander are less than one mile west of the Gray No. 1 Heffner test and the Alexander sand should be found within 60 feet of the present total depth and the Gardner sand within 100 feet below the total depth of the Heffner.

Galveston Boy Hit By Truck Dies of Injuries

GALVESTON, Texas, Aug. 28. (UP)—Otis McDonald, 7, died here today two hours after he was run over by a truck. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. McDonald of Galveston. The driver of the truck has been charged with negligent homicide.

Modest British Lord Claims Credit For Kellogg's Anti-War Treaty

LONDON, Aug. 28. (UP)—Casting discretion to the winds, and bidding Dame Modesty take a long vacation, the bashful Mr. Bridgeman, first lord of the British admiralty, has laid claim to complete credit for the Kellogg pact to outlaw war.

Speaking at a political gathering in Yorkshire, the naval chief declared:

"Mr. Kellogg's proposal for a multilaterial pact outlawing war is only another way of proposing what I proposed at Geneva a year ago."

Mr. Bridgeman's reference was to the proposals he had made at the disastrous Coolidge disarmament conference. He claims in his recent speech the credit for having intimated the move for outlawing war in his proposals of a year ago. Differences between the British and American viewpoints at that time caused the collapse of the conference, and failure in the purposes which the conference was called.

The admiralty's head laid similar claim to credit for Mr. Kellogg's proposals in a speech he made before a political gathering several months ago. At that time, however, little attention was paid to the utterance, and it quickly passed from public attention because of the slight discussion it elicited.

Repeats Claim

Failing to gain any great audience for his claim at that time, Mr. Bridgeman repeated the statement in his Yorkshire address. Referring generally to the Kellogg pact, he commented:

"Mr. Kellogg says, 'We in America are idealists, and we are going to outlaw war.'

"It is much easier to make phrases of that kind than to carry them out in formula and agreement.

"But when Mr. Kellogg proceeded to explain what he meant by the outlawry of war, he showed that his idea was that no nation which signed the pact should use war as an instrument of national policy. That is a perfectly plain statement, with which I cordially agree, and always have agreed.

"It means that no nation shall set out to get something it wants, as against other nations, by piling up armaments—as the Germans did before the Great war.

"It means that each nation can take what measure it thinks fit for its own defense, but that each is bound in honor not to appeal to armaments in order to carry out an aggressive policy.

His Own Principle

"Therefore it is almost exactly the same thing in principle as what we proposed at Geneva. It is that we should consider aggressive warfare entirely out of court, and come to an agreement on what each of us wants for our own self-defense."

Mr. Bridgeman paid the Kellogg pact the compliment of saying that "it is a very long step in the right direction."

The first lord referred briefly to the British and French naval understanding, which has caused widespread discussion in the last few weeks since Sir Austen Chamberlain announced before the house of commons that such an agreement had been reached. Mr. Bridgeman explained:

"The proposals are not yet public, and, therefore, I am not at liberty to say exactly what they are. But I am able to say this much:

"At previous meetings of the preparatory commission on disarmament a good deal of difference was revealed between the French view and ours.

"Since then we have had conversations with the French, and by concessions on both sides we have arrived at an agreement which we hope will be accepted by all the nations.

"It has nothing to do with the American multilateral pact, but it will make it, perhaps, easier in the future to arrive at some agreement at a disarmament conference at Geneva.

"We are prepared to do all we can, but not to go to such lengths as will endanger the security and life of our country."

Tillman County Free Fair Opens

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 28.—The Tillman County Free Fair opened here today for a four day run with record exhibits in livestock, poultry and rabbits. Entries were accepted until 10 o'clock Tuesday night.

The dog show, which fanciers declare to be the best in this section in a number of years, is attracting considerable attention. The women's exhibits of needlework and culinary also are unusually good this year.

The night attractions are being staged by the C. A. Vernon show. John G. Brown is secretary of the fair, which closes Friday night.

LEGAL NOTICES
ORDINANCE No. 896—An ordinance prohibiting any person, firm or corporation from setting off dynamite or any other explosive within the city limits of the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, without first procuring a permit from the city engineer, and providing a penalty. Be it ordained by the board of aldermen of the city of Wichita Falls, Texas: Section 1: That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to set off or cause to be set off, dynamite, nitroglycerin or any other explosive, within the city limits of the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, without first having made application to the city engineer and procured a permit in writing to set off and fire such explosive. Section 2: It is hereby made the duty of the city engineer, upon application for a permit to set off and fire explosives mentioned herein, to issue such permit upon the payment of a fee of one dollar and when he is satisfied that it is necessary to set off and fire such explosives, and the firing of same will not damage adjacent property. Section 3: That when dynamite and other explosives are used to blast rock or other substance, such rock and other substance at the time of setting off the blast shall be covered on all sides of the orifice with good sound plank or timber of sufficient length, width and thickness, and so placed as effectively as possible to prevent fragments of rock and other substance from ascending into the air. Section 4: Any person, firm or corporation violating any provision of this ordinance, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction in the corporation court, shall be fined in any sum not to exceed $2,000. Passed and approved this the 20th day of August, A. D. 1928.—J. W. Akin, mayor. Attest: W. E. McBroom, city clerk.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: You will take notice that I will sell at public sale the following property, to-wit: One Stearns-Knight coupe, engine No. 646, Oklahoma license 510882; Ford touring, engine No. 12399572, motor license 1927—82773, at the Kent Tire & Storage company place of business, Seventh and Scott avenue, Wichita Falls, Texas, on September 22, A. D., 1928, at 2:30 p. m. The above described property was placed with me for repairs and has been in my possession for more than sixty (60) days, and I hold a mechanic's lien on same. Kent Tire & Storage company, W. L. Kent, manager.

MAIL TRAVELS RECORD SPEED

Through Seven Hands In 10 Minutes

A letter mailed in the Wichita Falls post office goes through seven different departments of the postoffice in an average of 10-minutes from the time it is taken from the mail box until it is dispatched to the train.

Letters are first taken from the box and carried to the mailing section where they are segregated into groups of long and short envelopes. When the weight of a letter is in doubt by postal clerks it is taken from the segregation and verified.

They are then run through an electric canceling machine which marks the Wichita Falls office and date and cancels the stamp at the average rate of 10,000 letters an hour.

After they are marked and canceled they are sent to the dispatching cases and sorted into separate bundles for different sections of the country

Letters for large cities are tied into one bundle and are not opened until they reach the office of address. Letters to small towns are placed in bundles and numbered for certain districts on the railway line over which they are traveling. These bundles are opened and put off at their destination by mail clerks on the train.

After letters are tied into bundles at the postoffice they are dispatched to the railroad station 30 minutes before the next train leaves the city.

An average of about 30 letters a day are received at the local postoffice which will not go through the postal service. Some of them are not properly addressed, some do not have postage, and others are folded in business envelopes so that addresses cannot be read.

Committee Approves Plan for Buyers' Week

Co-operation with the retail merchants in establishing an exhibit for Buyers' week September 24-29, was voted by the manufacturers' and jobbers' section of the chamber of commerce in a meeting in the chamber of commerce Wednesday.

James Biggs, C. L. Teissler and E. P. Cook were chosen on the committee to work out details for the exhibit.

The special train which will be run over the Denver and South Plains railway to celebrate the line's opening in October were discussed, and it was voted to put the committee in charge of the trip that had charge of the train trade trip last year.

Pains in His Chest, Smothering Feeling

Missouri Man Says He Suffered a Good While Before He Found Relief. "Black-Draught Helped Me."

NEOSHO, Mo.—"I suffered a good while before I found something that would help me," writes Mr. E. W. Berry, of 601 South High street, this city.

"My trouble was indigestion, pains in my chest and a tight, bloated feeling that would make me feel smothered.

"Speaking of this to a friend of mine, he told me that Black-Draught was good for this trouble. I went over and bought a package. It certainly did help me, so I continued to use it.

"I am in the transfer business, and sometimes when I would be hungry and ready to eat, I would have a call and would have to eat later. Then I would eat too much or too hurriedly. This would cause indigestion.

"After I started using Black-Draught, I found it did me a world of good. It is splendid for biliousness and stomach troubles. I am glad to recommend it."

Thousands of people have found relief, in cases of common indigestion, by taking a pinch of Black-Draught after meals, and continuing this treatment for several days.

Thedford's Black-Draught is made from pure, medicinal roots and herbs.

Sold everywhere. Price 25c and $1.

Friday night is china night at the Olympic theater again. And there is a brand new picture, too. It is Victor McLaglen in "Hangman's House."

◆ ◆ ◆

"Hangman's House" is one of the most talked of pictures of today. A truly great romance with an intricate tale of true love is woven about a plot which centers on English estates. It is based on the world famous novel of the same name by Donn Byrne.

◆ ◆ ◆

An unseen tragedy is felt in connection with "Hangman's House," a tragedy that gives the play a peculiar attraction. Donn Byrne, the author, died a month ago. He lived only to see the first showing of the picture and never knew the nation wide success his picture would make.

John Gilbert's new picture "Four Walls" should be interesting to Al Smith supporters who have never been in New York. Advance information on the picture says that scenes of the East Side of New York, which the nominee claims as his birthplace, are pictured in "Four Walls." The picture opens at the Majestic theater Saturday.

"The Lights of New York," the world's first all talking motion picture, continues to draw excellent houses at the Strand theater. This marvelous development of the motion picture industry is something that should be seen by everyone on its first presentation as it is the only chance anyone will have to honestly say that he saw the world's first all talking motion picture in its first presentation here, which is at the same time being presented in its first run in New York.

Women Equality Seekers Jailed

mans; one English; and one Italian.

Five of the feminists were released after tea. They were put on a train for Paris after promising not to cause another disturbance. The other five refused to promise anything and were held until all of the diplomats had departed for Paris.

The feminist affair was the first break in the atmosphere of peace which had been created around the signing of the Briand-Kellogg pact to outlaw war. The women were technically charged with "disturbing the peace."

Americans Pleased

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28. (UP)—Feminists here expressed pleasure today at the attention turned to their demands for equal rights by the arrest of members of the International Equal Rights committee before the presidential palace in Rambouillet, France.

"The arrests have intensified the enthusiastic support of the equal rights treaty by feminists of both hemispheres," the Inter-American Commission of Women, created by the sixth Pan-American conference to study equal rights, declared in a formal statement.

Miss Doris Stevens, one of those arrested, is a leader of the National Woman's party and was jailed here after picketing the White House for equal suffrage during President Wilson's administration.

Kownslar Funeral Rites Wednesday

ELECTRA, Texas, Aug. 28.—Funeral services for Ed Kownslar, 24, victim of an accident in the oil fields near here, Tuesday morning will be held Wednesday afternoon at the Electra Church of Christ. The services will be conducted by the Rev. P. M. Carney, of Vernon; he will be assisted by the Rev L. S. White, pastor of the Wichita Falls Church of Christ.

Mr. Kownslar is survived by three brothers: Arlan, Lloyd, and Dorsey and two sisters, Misses Lorene and Alice Kownslar.

Mr. Kownslar was fatally wounded when struck by a wrench which fell from an oil derrick on the T. L. Burnett lease. Mr. Kownslar was employed by the Wichita-Electra Drilling company.

Immediately following the accident he was rushed to a local hospital where he did a few hours later. He had stepped under the derrick just as the wrench became dislodged. L. B. Stevenson, driller, brought him to the hospital.

Jobs Open For Cotton Pickers

Who wants a job?

Thirty jobs as cotton pickers are open.

This announcement was made Tuesday afternoon by Miss Fern Sides, secretary of the city free employment bureau in room 307 Perkins-Snider building.

"These jobs are open right now and anyone wanting a job should apply immediately instead of waiting until next week as they have in the past when we announce that jobs were open," Miss Sides said.

"These jobs are free, as this agency is maintained by the businessmen without cost to those who receive the jobs. When jobs are scarce, people out of work should take any kind of work offered if they are able to do it."

Labor Day Picnic At Lake Wichita

Plans for the gigantic Labor Day celebration in Wichita Falls are practically completed, it was learned Tuesday.

Next Monday, organized labor of the city will celebrate at Lake Wichita. There will be boat races in the afternoon, and there will be plenty of free grounds for picnic parties.

Dancing will be on the program for both afternoon and night with three orchestras. Bathing, boating and other amusements are carded.

A mamoth pyrotechnic display has been announced for the evening from one of the piers on the lake and all of Wichita Falls has been invited to enjoy it.

Wichita Falls

Folks, Facts, Fancies

Three new bookings were announced Tuesday by W. E. McBroom, city clerk for the city auditorium.

The basement of the building was reserved for the week of Sept. 24 to 29 for the wholesalers week.

The auditorium itself was reserved for the night of Sept. 26 for the celebration of the 46th birthday of the city of Wichita Falls.

The Record News-Times annual cooking school reservation date was set for Oct. 22, 23, 24 and 25.

No Council Meet

There will be no meeting of the city council Monday night as Monday is Labor day. This announcement was made at the city auditorium Monday. The next meeting of the council will be Monday Sept. 10, unless some special emergency develops calling for a special meeting.

Gets Degree

J. N. Hall, professor of bookkeeping at Wichita Falls high school, obtained his masters' degree in the summer term at Oklahoma university this summer.

Mr. Hall obtained his B. A. degree from Howard Payne college and his permanent certificate from North Texas State Normal some years ago.

Jimmy Valentine, of Forth Worth, traveling freight agent of the Cotton Belt lines, visited the Fort Worth and Denver offices here Tuesday.

E. O. Alldredge of Tulsa, traveling freight agent of the Grand Trunk railway visited the M-K-T offices yesterday.

Hot Weather Aids Cotton Pest War

Hot days make hot folks and they also make hot boll worms and boll weevils.

According to O. G. Barnes, agricultural director of the chamber of commerce, the human beings of this district should take the hot weather with a grin for the same hot weather that is making them so uncomfortable is killing the boll worms and boll weevils in the cotton fields.

"The sun causes them to fall to the ground and the ground is so hot it kills them," said Mr. Barnes, in speaking of the cotton destroyers. "Some of the fields were damaged, and there is danger of more damage if we have rain and cool weather. So, if any of the folks are praying about the weather these days, I suggest that they pray for more hot weather for the good of the cotton crop and the farmers."

Consul Suggests Needless Journey

It is 4,000 miles and a journey of one month through bleak Siberia from Varkhne-Michailoffsky to Riga, just a short distance across the Baltic sea from Stockholm, Sweden, but that is where the United States consular service has indicated Mrs. Melany Miglovets, mother of Mrs. Mary Ham of Wichita Falls, must go to make final preparations for entry to the United States.

Mrs. Ham became an American citizen shortly after the war through her marriage to Sam Ham, an American soldier in Siberia. After the Hams settled down in Wichita Falls, it was decided to bring Mrs. Ham's aged mother here from Verkhne-Michailoffsky to live.

Seven years of red tape have passed, and through the efforts of the community chest and local citizens, it seems now that Mrs. Miglovets may come to America in the next year.

The consular service and the immigration agents, having decided finally that Mrs. Miglovets is eligible, sent all the papers in her case to the American counsul at Riga and sent word to Mrs. Miglovets to appear there for final examination as to education and as to physical requirements.

Miss Myrle Neely, secretary of the community chest, doubts that the consular service in Washington has any idea where Verkhne-Michailoffsky is located, as the nearest American office is Harbin, China, only a day's ride. Present conditions in Russia would call for a trip of several days by oxen to the Riga railway, and a slow trip which has schedules calling for a full month's traveling time to place her in Riga, which is clear across Asia and Europe from Mrs. Ham's former home.

A request has been made that all papers in the case be transferred to the Harbin, China, office so that the perilous journey across two continents may be obviated.

Negro Boy Sought For Stabbing White Youth

Harland Ruse, 12, was stabbed in the abdomen about 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon during an altercation with a negro boy. Following the alleged fight, police discovered, the negro boy fled and had not been apprehended Tuesday night.

Young Ruse was not believed to be critically injured at the Hardgrave-Walker hospital, where he was taken following the affray.

Kelly Calls Meet

Chairmen of all convention committees will meet at 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Texas Electric Service company, it was announced Tuesday by A. E. Kelly, president of the Advertising club.

TOO YOUNG

Boy, 14, Is Expert Pilot But Can't Get License

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.(US)—Joseph Garside, 14-year-old aviator of Milton, Mass, handles a plane like a veteran, but he cannot have a federal pilot's license, the commerce department ruled today.

Garside with his instructor, L. E. Sheeler, flew here from Raleigh, N. C., in his plane to get it. He made a pretty solo flight his very first—and landed safely.

Observers gave the little boy a big hand for his skill but the license he craved was withheld because he is only 14 and the legal age limit is 16.

Vernon Woman Hurt In Auto Collision

Mrs. Mary Tittle of Vernon suffered bruises and shock when she was thrown from an automobile on the Electra road just out of Wichita Falls Tuesday night about 8 o'clock, as the result of a collision with another automobile. The driver of the second automobile did not stop after the collision.

Negro Couple Being Held for $30 Theft

A negro man and his wife were arrested Tuesday night in connection with the theft of about $30 a week ago from a Wichita Falls residence. The arrests followed several days investigation by Elmer Thornton and Fred Fountain, city detectives.

When the two were arrested at their home here, silverware stamped with the name of a local cafeteria was found in their home, officers said. Charges of theft will be filed against them Wednesday.

Radio Publicity Is Ad Club Topic

Advertising a city over the radio was discussed at the Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Ad club in the Kemp hotel by J. M. Gilliam, business manager of radio station KGKO of the National Security Life Insurance company atop the Perkins-Snider building.

J. H. Allison told of present plans for Buyers' week September 24-29, and also of plans for celebrating Wichita Falls' 46th birthday, September 26. W. T. Sadler was named chairman of the pennant fund committee in place of Jacob Price, resigned.

Wichitan Faces Second Federal Liquor Charge

A Wichita Falls man was arrested for the second time since federal court adjourned here several months ago, in connection with seizures of intoxicating beverages, by Frank Morgan, constable, Tuesday afternoon.

Already under one charge of manufacture, possession and sale of beer the man arrested Tuesday was lodged in the Wichita county jail, pending filing in federal court of a second charge Wednesday. His wife also was under arrest, Mr. Morgan said.

De Guiche—Have you read Don Quixote?

Cyrano—I have, and found myself the hero.

De Guiche—Windmills, remember, if you fight with them, may swing around their huge arms and cast you down into the mire!

Cyrano—Or up—among the stars!

(From Act 3 of Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac")

Yes, there are windmills in life and always their strength and direction, even their velocity, are controlled by ourselves. Opportunity and circumstance, the huge arms of our windmills, fling us up or down according to the merit of our character, ability and intellect. Practical intelligence (coming under the last-named quality) is of so great importance that, though a man possess integrity, talent and brilliance his career may prove unsuccessful without this attribute.

Why suffer with Rheumatism?

You know it cannot be rubbed away

ARE you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interfering with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S.S.S.?

For more than 100 years S.S.S. has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered with rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried almost everything. Went to Hot Springs .... then finally decided to try S.S.S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I am now in perfect health, and want to add that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S.S.S. is the best."—Earl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.
