WHERE STOLEN CHECKS WERE FOUND

Texas Ranger J. L. Rogers, right above, shows Vernie Head, deputy sheriff, where about $4,000 in checks were hidden by Billy Jack Bennett, 23, who confessed late last week to robberies here on July 30 and June 27. Bennett led the officers to the cattle guard 12 miles north of here on the Polar road where he hid the checks. Rogers led the investigation which resulted in Bennett's arrest. Sheriff's department officers and the city police department assisted in the case.—(Lee Watson photograph).

Cash Food and Western Union Robberies Admitted by Man, 23

Months of work by all law enforcement agencies here on two robbery cases paid off yesterday when a 23-year-old man admitted two recent Snyder thefts.

According to Bob Davie, district attorney, Billy Jack Bennett, 23, signed statements late last week before Karl Cayton, Dawson County district attorney, admitting the lone-wolf June 27 robbery of $99.50 from the Western Union office here and the July 30 robbery of the Sunbeam Cash Food Market.

Bennett also admitted at the same time burglary of the Western Union office in Lamesa.

RANGER LED

Texas Ranger J. L. Rogers led the investigation which resulted in Bennett's arrest in San Angelo Sept. 16. Sheriff's office personnel, especially Deputy Vernie Head, and the city police department worked with Rogers assembling bits of information which led to Bennett's arrest.

In his confession Bennett said that he took $1,496.45 in cash, and about $4,000 in checks in the Sunbeam Cash Food Market burglary. He stated that he entered the building through an air conditioner ventilator on the roof. He stated that he then rolled the huge safe from the front of the building to a store room in the rear on a hand truck used to carry sacks of flour at the store.

Bennett said that he used a ball peen hammer and a punch to break what was believed to be a burglar proof safe, Davie said.

Davie added that no trial date for Bennett had been set, and would not be until the current grand jury completes its investigation of the case and returns an indictment.

Davie said that Bennett would probably not demand trial by jury, but would enter a plea of guilty before a judge.

PRISON RECORD

Bennett was on parole from Texas State Penitentiary at Huntsville when the burglaries occurred. He was paroled to Lamb County authorities while serving time on a felon forgery charge from that county. He had previously been convicted and served a term in the state penitentiary on an earlier felony charge.

Bennett was born in Childress, Tex., but came here from Olton, Tex., and had been working in the Scurry County oil fields.

Some American Express Traveler's Checks taken from the Western Union office here have been passed and some others still are unaccounted for, Davie said. The cashed ones have been given to the Federal Bureau of Investigation by American Express Traveler's Check Co., Davie said.

County Gins Report 200 Bales So Far

More than 200 bales of cotton have now been ginned in Scurry County this season, ginners report.

The Paymaster Gin here has ginned 92 bales to run second only to the Inadale gin which has ginned 110 bales of cotton.

Other gins in the county reporting were: Hermleigh 27 bales, China Grove Co-Op 37 bales, Dunn Planter's gin 29 bales, and the Snyder Co-Op gin four bales.

No reports came from Fluvanna, Ira, and the Snyder Planter's gin.

'Tax Angle' Weapon Against Big Packers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Price Director Michael V. DiSalle, whose agents have reported ceiling violations by 740 meat companies, today announced a plan to penalize offenders through the tax laws.

DiSalle said the government is exploring the possibility of disallowing, in the figuring of tax returns, any business cost deductions attributable to the payment of over-ceiling payments for live cattle.

President Truman gave notice on Thursday that all federal agencies will cooperate in meat price enforcement. DiSalle's follow-up statement today disclosed that the Internal Revenue Bureau may "play a major role in discouraging violators."

INTER-AGENCY DRIVE

The Defense Production Act, DiSalle noted, authorizes Mr. Truman to decide to what extent over-ceiling payments, or fines paid for price control violations, shall be regarded by tax authorities in judging business expenses.

"We intend to consult with other government agencies to work out procedures for implementing this provision, and it would conceivably become a very expensive matter to persons consistently paying above ceilings for goods," DiSalle said.

"This penalty may be used against persons in the meat industry found paying above ceilings for live cattle."

Meanwhile, he reported, the OPS meat price enforcement drive is forging ahead and already has had an apparent effect in depressing the prices of live cattle.

"Since this drive was started Sept. 24, top prices for cattle at Chicago have gone down for all grades except prime."

VIOLATIONS WIDESPREAD

Inspection of 1,953 packing plants so far has uncovered 1,849 violations by 740 packing plants, DiSalle said.

Injunction suits have been lodged against 85 slaughterers and four criminal complaints have been filed in federal district courts against two slaughterers.

"The temptation to go out and bid up cattle prices isn't so tempting as it has been, especially when slaughterers know that a close check is being made on purchases of cattle," the Price Stabilization Director said.

DiSalle said he could not promise to end entirely the present "distortion of marketing channels" without the help of slaughter quotas which allocate beef animals among packing plants.

"We do intend to keep prices in legal bounds, however, and this should eliminate some of the frenzied competitive buying of live cattle which causes the worst disruption of supplies," he said.

The OPS chief reported that the GOP Chicago price for good steers has declined 75 cents per 100 pounds since Sept. 24 and the top for commercial grade cows has dropped $2.

Would Take Profit Out Of Influence

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Investigations of the Democratic and Republican National Chairman provided stage settings today for a Senate move to "take the profit out of political influence."

Senator McCarran (D-Nev) announced he would lead a drive for at least Senate approval of such a bill before Congress adjourns this fall.

McCarran told a reporter he believes recent Senate investigations, and some still hanging fire, entitle the measure to a rank among "must" bills being pressed by administration forces for adoption before Congress quits.

The Senate Judiciary Committee which McCarran heads is expected to consider Monday the bill he mentioned. It is a measure sponsored by Senator Byrd (D-Va) and others to prohibit officials of any national political party from accepting fees or other benefits for negotiations with federal agencies in behalf of themselves or others.

COMBATS BARTERING

Byrd has described the measure as designed to provide the government with new weapons to combat bartering in political influence and "take the profit out of political influence."

A Judiciary Subcommittee under McCarran's leadership, reserving formal announcement, is reported to have revised Byrd's bill to impose penalties on any National Committee officials, salaried or unsalaried, who:

1. Solicits or accepts anything of value from a client he represents or helps before a federal agency.

2. Solicits or receives things of value, including jobs or promises of jobs for himself or others, in exchange for his influence in any governmental affairs.

PROMISES NOT ALLOWED

3. Accepts or solicits any of those things for his promise to use influence, even though the promise is not fulfilled or intended to be fulfilled.

Severity of the proposed punishments was reported still under the group's study.

King's Ex Wife To Help Him Marry Dancer

ROME, Oct. 6. (AP) — Oil-heir Shepphard King, determined despite his mother's objections to marry Egyptian dancer Samia Gamal, found an unexpected ally tonight — his ex-wife.

"The marriage has my blessing," said Mrs. Gloria King, 25, who divorced the lanky Texan last February.

"I'm flying home tomorrow and I'll try the best I can to convince Mrs. King that Shepphard and Samia should marry. I'm on pretty good terms with her — at least when we're both feeling good."

But pretty 18-year-old Patricia King, Shepphard's sister who is returning with Gloria, says she won't discuss the matter with her mother.

Mrs. King has threatened to disinherit her son if he goes through with his plans to turn Moslem and marry the Egyptian belly dancer and film star.

"It's none of my business," Patricia said shortly. But she does think Samia "is one of the nicest people I ever met."

The Kings, Shepphard, his ex-wife and sister, are traveling together and staying at the same hotel here.

Gloria's support of her ex-husband's marital plans climaxed a King-sized set of romantic revelations by the turbulant Texans today.

King said firmly he will marry Samia the first week in December, no matter how his flight home to Houston, Oct. 17, for a talk with his mother comes out.

Patricia disclosed she's in love with an Air Force private first class serving in Korea — but declined to reveal his name. She ridiculed reports of a romance with an Egyptian fencer.

Gloria said her heart belongs to an anonymous Texan she expects to be waiting at Houston airport — even if "he hasn't proposed."

Then, to climax a busy day, Gloria posed for a photograph congratulating Shepphard on his forthcoming marriage.

"They used to call us the Battling Kings when we were married," she remarked. "We always did get along better when we weren't married."

In Cairo, Samia was reaffirming her love for Shepphard and saying the marriage will come off in December.

Then, "first of all, we want a home," she said.

Honor Medal Winner Jailed

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Oct. 6. (AP)—A Congressional Medal of Honor winner was in jail here Friday night charged with horse stealing —and the Army says he's supposed to be in Korea.

Junior J. Spurrier, the 28-year-old "One-Man Army," had his superior officers mystified. At Fort Lawton in Seattle, they said Friday night the last they knew, Spurrier left for Korea on April 17.

But Spurrier told newsmen he left Fort Lawton without leave in April and was not on Korean shipment.

Only a few years ago Bluefield turned out to honor the Kentucky-born soldier and present him with $5,000 in war bonds.

The horse-stealing charge followed a wild chase through Bluefield streets early Thursday.

Patrolman R. C. Lilly said the Spurrier car with two others in it sideswiped another car and failed to stop. He said the patrol car hit 90 miles per hour before the chase ended in capture.

Lilly didn't want to take all three men back to jail at once, he said, so he left Spurrier behind while he drove the others to jail.

When he returned, the soldier-hero was gone, Lilly said.

Spurrier was found later in the day asleep on the front porch of a house. A horse was grazing quietly nearby.

Ed Robertson, of Ada, claimed the animal and had a warrant sworn out charging Spurrier with grand larceny of a horse. Bluefield police added charges of leaving the scene of an accident and allowing an intoxicated person to drive a car.

Spurrier pleaded innocent to all three charges and told newsmen: "All I want is to get this mess settled, get a discharge and settle down to a quiet life."

An Army magazine credits Spurrier with tearing in solo fashion to one side of the French town of Achain while the rest of his outfit entered the other.

In a wild, motorcycle ride through the town's streets Spurrier killed 25 German soldiers, the account related. During his service in Europe he was credited with killing 50 enemy soldiers and capturing

Adenauer Hits East Germans

BERLIN, Oct. 6. (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer came to Berlin under the shadow of the Hammer and Sickle today and boldly went over to the counterattack in the struggle for the mastery of all Germany.

Coming in the midst of a fete celebrating the second anniversary of the Communists' government in East Berlin, Adenauer challenged them to include lands held by Poland and Russia in their drive for German unity.

The aged but rugged chancellor pushed this line of attack right to the Kremlin by challenging Russia to make good on the four-power promise to restore the unity of Germany.

East German Premier Otto Grotewhol's reaction shaped up as a major stumbling block to an East-West German unity conference.

Speaking to a crowded opera house assemblage of Soviet-sphere diplomats and officials on the anniversary occasion, Grotewohl rejected any revision of the Oder-Neisse frontier between Germany and Poland.

Stassen Backs His Charges With Diaries

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Harold E. Stassen claimed today he has evidence showing that only the State Department could have proposed cutting off military aid to Nationalist China in a disputed White House conference in 1949.

He directed the Senate's Internal Security Subcommittee to the diaries of the late Senator Arthur Vandenberg, Michigan Republican, and James Forrestal, late Secretary of Defense, for confirmation of his previous testimony on the subject.

One extract from the Forrestal diary, which Stassen drew to the committee's attention, said that at a cabinet meeting, Nov. 26, 1948, Gen. George C. Marshall, then secretary of state, presented a State Department paper suggesting abandonment of the Chiang Kai-Shek government.

It said Marshall and President Truman did not go along with the idea and the suggestion was not adopted. Stassen said, however, that similar proposals apparently were "reactivated" in the State Department after Marshall was succeeded by Dean Acheson in January, 1949.

In an appearance before the committee last Monday, Stassen said Vandenberg told him in November, 1950, that Secretary of State Acheson and Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup, had proposed at the White House meeting that aid to the Nationalists be halved.

Oil Shows In Kent Coring

Sun Oil Co. No. 1-A H. W. Davis, one-half mile southwest of the Clairemont - lower Pennsylvanian field in Kent County, is coring in sand below 6,718 feet.

Operator previously cored from 6,710-15 feet, recovering five feet of sand with pinpoint porosity, good flourescence and odor and bleeding oil. On a drillstem test from 6,708-15 feet there was a slight blow for 12 minutes which then died. Recovery was 22 feet of drilling mud. The tool was open one hour.

The No. 1-A Davis is about one and one-half miles south of Clairemont in section 9-97-H&TC.

Humble No. 1 W. M. McLaury, one location east of the East Polar - Pennsylvanian field in Southwest Kent County, is preparing to make a production test. Operator has perforated casing from 6,883-6,904 feet and from 6,914-6,948 feet.

Oil Meeting Set Monday

BEAUMONT, Oct. 6. (AP) — Oil and gas operators, industry leaders and government officials gather here Monday for the annual meeting of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

It will be the last event of the year in the 50th anniversary celebration of Texas' petroleum industry. Also set for the same day are the dedication of a new engineering building at the Lamar Tech and a statewide meeting of the Texas Railroad Commission.

Speakers will include Secretary of the Interior Chapman; Secretary of the Army Pace; W. Alton Jones, president of Cities Service Company and chairman of the American Petroleum Institute; L. S. Wescoat, president of the Pure Oil Company, Ladd Haystead, agricultural counselor for the American Petroleum Institute; and R. B. Anderson, president of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association.

South Scurry Wildcat Set

H. S. Moss of Dallas and others have staked location for a 7,400-foot wildcat in South - Central Scurry County as the No. 1-A J. W. Voss.

Location is two and one-quarter miles south of the nearest production in the Kelley - Snyder field and 660 feet from south and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 173-97-H&TC.

Rotary tools will be used to drill the prospector. Operations will begin immediately. Projected depth should take it to the Strawn.

Drillsite is on a farmout from Magnolia Petroleum Co. and is eight miles south of Snyder.

100,000 Allied Troops Sweep Reds from Peak Of 'Heartbreak Ridge'

EIGHTH ARMY, Korea, Sunday, Oct. 7. (AP) — Allied forces, driving the Chinese Reds before them, seized most of their objectives Saturday in their 100,000-man Western Korean offensive.

In the East, American and French troops stormed the uncompromising slopes of "Heartbreak Ridge" and won its commanding peak. Twice previously, in three weeks of bloody fighting, they had taken the height only to be hurled off.

In Far Northwest Korea, some 200 miles behind the Red front, 33 U. S. jets slashed into three times as many Russian-type MIG-15s. One American plane was shot down. The Air Force reported one Red fighter probably was destroyed and two were damaged.

There still was no sign that the Red-suspended armistice talks would be resumed. The Communists continued their silence on the issue of a change in the truce site from Kaesong to somewhere in no-man's land.

ATTACK NEARLY OVER

An Eighth Army headquarters officer said Saturday night that "it looks as if our offensive is nearly over.

"It looks as if the actions now will be reaction on the part of the Communists."

Earlier, Maj. Gen. Robert H. Soule said his U. S. Third Division in its three-day drive had breached the main Communist line northwest of Chorwon in West Central Korea.

Chorwon, 17 miles north of Parallel 38, is at the southwest cone of the old Communist "Iron Triangle" formed by Kumhwa in the East and Pyonggang in the North.

The Chinese had withdrawn from many of their strong bunkers in the rolling hills. Of those who chose to fight, the Third Division killed 588, wounded 582 and captured 35 in the first two days.

DEEP IN RED AREA

The Third Division and the U. S. First Cavalry Division now stand deep in the staging area used by the Reds in past offensives toward Seoul, battle-battered old capital of the Korean Republic.

First Cavalrymen hurled back a Chinese counterattack north of Yonchon and elements of the Cavalry's Seventh Regiment rammed ahead, seizing a hill late Saturday. Smaller hills to the West and East also fell to the flame-throwing troopers.

The Red Pyonggang radio asserted that all of these attacks were "smashed" with 4,000 Allied casualties.

On the left flank, the British Commonwealth Division met heavier Red resistance northeast of Korangpo. Units of the Northumberland Fusiliers were forced to withdraw from a hill taken earlier Saturday.

On the Central Front, a patrol of the U. S. 25th Division was surrounded by Chinese for six hours between Kumhwa and Pyonggang but escaped under cover of an intensive Allied artillery barrage.

END RUN PAYS OFF

On the central front, the Allies seized control of "Heartbreak Ridge" by executing an end run. The Reds split their forces to meet anticipated thrusts from armored patrols moving into the Satae Valley east of the ridge.

Another Allied armored force thrust up the Mundung Valley, west of the ridge.

At nightfall Friday, infantrymen of the U. S. Second Division's 23rd Regiment scrambled up the steep slopes of "Heartbreak's" dominating 3,000-foot peak with fixed bayonets and flamethrowers.

By daybreak Saturday, they held the peak. More than 100 surprised Korean Red defenders were killed, others fled in disorder.

Chamber Music Added to List Of Concerts

A sixth concert has been added to the list of programs to be presented by the Snyder Concert Association this year, A. T. Nicholas, vice president, has announced.

The additional program will be a string trio, from Texas State College for Women, with the presentation scheduled for Jan. 22.

The addition of this program made it necessary to reschedule the date of the first concert, Nicholas said. The first program, a piano team from Dallas, will now be presented on Oct. 30.

Other concerts scheduled will be as follows:

Dec. 6: Lucille Manners, soprano
Jan. 22: String Trio
Feb. 22: Golden Gate Quartet
March 28: Dreamdusters Quartet
April 18: George Jason.

All programs are to be given in the high school auditorium at 8 o'clock.

Tickets now have been mailed out to all members who did not receive them at the time memberships were purchased. Members who have not yet received tickets are asked to contact Mrs. Armor McFarland.

Liberals Key To Tory Win

LONDON, Oct. 6. (AP)—A shift to the right by a mere handful of voters Oct. 25 will make Winston Churchill the next Prime Minister of Britain.

If the public opinion polls are anywhere near the mark, his Conservatives will wrest control of the House of Commons from the Labor Government by a majority of 60 to 100 seats.

But the key to a Conservative victory lies in just 56 districts, averaging 46,000 votes, where the Labor Party won out in the 1950 general election by margins of 4,000 or less.

In 47 of these districts the winning Labor candidate polled less than half the total vote. In each case the Laborite finished first in a three-way race with a Conservative and a Liberal — the Liberal winding up a poor third every time.

A shift to Conservative by only three per cent of the Labor Party's supporters in 25 of these districts would mark the end of more than six years of Socialist rule in this country. These are the districts Labor won in 1950 by fewer than 2,000 votes.

Amarillo Grocer Is Robbed Of $3,161 By Man Wearing Mask

AMARILLO, Oct. 6. (AP)— A masked bandit took $3,161 at gun point from a grocery clerk today and set off a big manhunt.

Police, highway patrolmen, sheriffs' deputies and Texas Rangers combed an area north of Amarillo. Roadblocks were thrown up. Rangers searched by airplane.

Dude Rash, 38, clerk for the Oldham Grocery and Market, told officers the robber struck as Rash parked his car this morning nea the grocery after a trip to a downtown bank. He had gone to get cash for the day's operation.

COON GOT AWAY

ORANGE, Oct. 6. (AP)—A tenacious coon put W. N. Ray, 41, of Bridge City in an Orange hospital Friday night.

Ray, hunting with friends, climbed a tree to shake down a coon the dogs had bayed.

He shook so violently he dislodged himself instead.

The hunter got a broken leg. The coon got away.

Higher Wool Prices Change Spring Lines

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP) — Skyrocketing Australian wool prices has prompted this country's leading maker of woolen fabrics to withdraw prices on its 1952 spring line of goods.

Others have withdrawn some specific types of fabrics and still others were reporting similar moves.

The American Woolen Company pulled back its prices on the entire spring 1952 line, posted only two weeks ago when it looked for a brief spell that wool prices had reached an area of stability after a long decline.

J. P. Stevens Company withdrew prices on one of its spring worsted numbers and executives of several other leading fabric firms were reportedly in a huddle with their respective staffs to map a course.

Prices for raw wool of the better grades climbed 30 to 40 per cent above levels prevailing as late as three weeks ago in recent auctions in South Africa and Australia. A smaller rise in wool prices at Boston, this country's leading wool market, has resulted.

Trade interests have varying explanations for the sudden upsurge in raw wool prices, including heavy buying by Europeans who distrust the currencies of their national governments and think another wave of devaluation may be coming.

Governor Recommends Clemency In 2 Cases

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP) — Gov. Allan Shivers has granted these clemencies on recommendation of the pardons board conditions pardons:

Oscar Baechem, over 16 years and three months credit on 45-year sentence in 1943 from Lubbock County for robbery by assault to Harris County.

Ramond Glenn, one year and one month credit on two-to-five year sentence in 1950 from Lamar County for theft of cattle. To Lamar County.

FATHER OF FIVE IS CHAMP PICKER

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 6. (AP) — The world's champion cotton picker is a 32-year-old father of five children, from Clarksdale, Miss.

Johnnie Johnson picked 88 pounds of clean cotton in an hour and a half to take first prize of $1,000 in the 12th annual National Cotton Picking Contest here.

Congressmen Not Very Excited Over Russia's Atom Explosion

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP) —Congress generally refused to get excited today over Premier Stalin's announcement Russia is testing A-bombs.

One member of the Atomic Commitee urged a vast expansion of the atomic program in light of Russian developments, but others willing to be quoted said present American plans are adequate.

Except in Russia, which heard about the latest Soviet explosion for the first time today and reacted with considerable pride, a "so what" attitude seemed to prevail among those who had already heard President Truman break the news Wednesday.

No doubt was expressed that an atomic explosion had occurred and that Russia was testing new weapons. But recent information about United States developments has been about a huge stockpile, perfection of new weapons, plans for new uses.

PROPAGANDA PACKED

The major interest in Stalin's announcement was centered around the possibility it may lead to another great power effort to work out international atomic controls, and even this was taken with a grain of salt. Stalin mentioned such controls, saying they were being blocked by the United States.

Many believed Stalin's announcement was packed with more propaganda than facts.

What the propaganda will lead to remains uncertain. But diplomatic sources here anticipate the next move will be made at the impending United Nations General Assembly meeting in Paris.

In Washington, Rep. Jackson (D-Wash) of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy urged that funds for atomic energy development be increased from the present $1 billion a year to as much as $5 billion to $10 billion.

He said the second atomic test in Russia has convinced him that country is now capable of beginning all-out war and that it should warn America it can hold its "commanding lead" in the A-bomb field only by redoubled efforts.

SENATORS DISAGREE

Senators Connally (D-Tex), Bridges (R-NH), and Hickenlooper (D-Ia) disagreed. They are members of the same committee.

Bridges said he saw "nothing new" in the Stalin announcement—"We've known for a year now that the Russians had the atomic bomb." He said Congress might look into our program, and if necessary speed it up.

Hickenlooper agreed that "there is certainly nothing new in the Stalin propaganda."

Senator Connally, a member of the group and chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, went along with them and added:

"Stalin's statement does not jibe with Russia's actions. Way back in 1946 we proposed a practical plan for controls of atomic armaments. The Russians have continuously blocked and opposed it."

WHITE HOUSE SILENT

This was in reference to Stalin's statement that Russia wants international control of atomic weapons but that an American plan before the United Nations was a "mockery."

Gordon Dean, Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) chairman, said in California that "Stalin was only confirming what we already knew." But he said further tests will be watched "with great interest."

No official comment came from the White House, State Department or Defense Department.

Public Ignorant of Where Tax Dollars Spent, Gallup Shows

BY GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J., Oct. 6 —If you can answer either one of the following two questions correctly, you're in a small and very exclusive class of well - informed Americans.

If you can answer BOTH of them correctly, you may consider yourself phenomenally brainy—in a class with only 5 per cent of the voting population.

THE QUESTION:

1. About how much is the United States planning to spend on defense this fiscal year (1951-1952)?

2. About how much did World War II cost the United States?

Only one person out of seven comes anywhere near guessing what World War II cost us. And only one in seven has any accurate notion of how much Washington is spending on defense. The rest flunk this fiscal quiz.

Taxpayers are being asked to dig down into their pockets for more taxes this coming year, yet most of them apparently have little notion of how much the principal item in the Federal budget is.

The tremendous amount of public ignorance about Federal finances was revealed in an Institute survey in which the above two questions were put to a scientifically selected cross - section of American adults.

The question of how much World War II cost is admittedly a tough one. No absolutely accurate answer is available. However, the military cost has been estimated by Washington officials and by the American University in Washington at approximately $330 billion for the United States.

Here's how the guesses of the public in the survey compare with the actual amount:

"Just your best guess, about how much money would you say World War II cost the United States?"

COST OF WORLD WAR II?

Less than $1 billion	11
$5 billion	13
$25 to $100 billion	25
$250 billion	9
$500 billion or more	5
Vague and don't know	37
	100

Even if we allow any answer between $250 and $500 billion as reasonably correct, only 14 per cent of the persons questioned got that close.

Taking the "guesstimates" of only those persons who have been to college and who might therefore be considered the best educated, the score is still pretty low. Only one college - trained person in four (27 per cent) was able to come anywhere near the right answer.

PRESENT DEFENSE BUDGET

For the fiscal year July, 1951 to July, 1952 President Truman requested $57.6 billion and this Tuesday a House - Senate conference committee voted $57.2 billion. Although not all of this amount may be spent during the period, how many Americans can make a reasonably good guess as to the total sum to be spent on defense?

"Just your best guess, about how much would you say the United States plans to spend this fiscal year (July, 1951-July, 1952) on national defense?"

AMOUNT FOR DEFENSE

Less than $1 billion	19
$5 billion	19
$25 billion	9
$50 billion	9
$75 billion	4
$100 billion	3
Over $100 billion	3
Vague and don't know	34
	100

Allowing any answer between $50 billion and $75 billion as reasonably correct, the total number of "right" answers is only 13 per cent.

The score of the college - trained group is only a little more encouraging. Less than one person in every five in this group came reasonably close.

Dealers Want 'Preparation' Charge on Cars

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—Automobile dealers want government permission to charge passenger car buyers a "preparation charge" of five per cent of the car's price or $150, whichever is less.

This was one of the changes in the forthcoming retail price ceiling order on passenger cars a subcommittee of the retail motor vehicle advisory committee asked Friday in a meeting with officials of the Office of Price Stabilization.

The proposed order, due this month, is less liberal. It would limit the preparation charge to the same fee charged during the month following the January price freeze.

The group also asked for a simplification of the requirement on invoices which dealers must itemize and give buyers. They want to eliminate some items.

White Asks Government To Support Another Crop Grown In Texas

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP) — Texas pecan crop support at parity level of 32½ cents a pound was sought today by State Agriculture Commissioner John White.

He made the request of U. S. Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan.

Texas producers, said White, are faced with lowest pecan yield in many years and an opening price about half that of last year.

Eldest Son Of Hearst Getting Fourth Divorce

EL PASO, Oct. 6. (AP)— George Randolph Hearst, 47, eldest son of the late newspaper magnate William Randolph Hearst, has crossed the Rio Grande into Mexico to end his fourth marriage.

Mrs. Hearst was not represented and Hearst said he didn't know her whereabouts, although she had been informed of the action. Judge Eugenio Calada Elores indicated he would dissolve the marriage today.

Jurisdiction In National Parks Is Questioned

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP) — State Police Chief Homer Garrison Jr. wants to read the attorney general's opinion before he sends Texas Rangers into Big Bend National Park.

Attorney General Price Daniel issued an opinion Friday saying Texas peace officers could enter the federal park to investigate crimes which might be under state jurisdiction.

Garrison sought the ruling after the wife of Dr. Robert N. North asked re-opening of the investigation of the disappearance of her husband four years ago in the vast park.

Mrs. North renewed her plea when Park Ranger George Sholly found the missing osteopath's car stuck in the sand in the bed of Glenn Springs Arroyo.

Garrison said he wanted to study the full opinion before making any decision. He said he would make an announcement Monday.

Earlier this week Garrison said the original investigation had been taken over by federal investigators who claimed full jurisdiction.

Student Killed In Car Wreck Near Austin

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP) — Danny McCafferty, 17, of Austin died in an automobile accident 15 miles from Segion Friday night.

Charles Jones, a University of Texas student who was riding with McCafferty, was injured but not critically.

Five Floresville schoolboys were reported in another automobile involved in the accident. They were taken to a Floresville hospital.

McCafferty was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan McCafferty of Austin.

Electricity Kills Man

HENDERSON, Oct. 6. (AP)—A highway Department employe was electrocuted Friday while helping install an electric well pump. He was Raymond A. Whitehead, 34. His widow, father, four brothers and sisters survive.

Graham Heads For Texas

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham and his "team" left here today for Fort Worth where his movie "Mr. Texas" will be premiered next week.

Tigers Take Offensive, Ground High-Flying Mustangs 12 to 7

Snyder fielded a frisky pack of Tigers Friday night to put down Andrews' Mustangs by a healthy 12-7 score.

The determined Tigers took the initiative from the very first and were never caught very deep in their own territory until the fourth quarter when the Mustangs rang up their only scoring play.

The quarterbacking of Bill Cain and the line bucking of Jackie Grimmett, coupled with cavernous holes Snyder was able to open up in Andrews' line, kept the 2,500 fans on the edge of their seats most of the game.

PASSES ARE THREAT

Though used sparingly Andrews' aerial offensive was always a threat. The Mustangs completed seven out of 13 pass attempts for 138 yards during the game. One of their passes was intercepted in the third quarter by Bernie Haggins.

Both of Snyder's scoring plays were executed by Jackie Grimmett, who plunged 13 yards for first blood early in the first quarter. That tally was the climax of a drive which started on the Andrews' 32 yard line the first time the Tigers got their hands on the ball. The conversion try by Haggins failed.

The second touchdown came in the third quarter after Grimmett took the Mustangs' kickoff at the beginning of the second half and carried it 38 yards from his own 15 yard strip to Andrews' 47 yard line. This set the mighty Tiger machine working again, and it marched through four first downs right to the Andrews' goal line. Grimmett bucked over for the final Snyder score and a clincher on the game. The conversion failure went to Royce Pierce.

The Mustangs broke out in the final quarter to show what their passes could do. A pass completed for 23 yards put an Andrews end over the goal line. The shouting of the fans on the east side of the stadium was broken when the ball was called back and Andrews was penalized 15 yards for clipping, nullifying the touchdown.

Not distrubed by this turn of events, Andrews picked up five yards through the Snyder line. Then in two successive pass plays put a receiver over the goal line standing up. The conversion try was successful, marking the last score of the game.

SNYDER SUPERIOR

Statistics show the Snyderites far superior in rushing. They totaled 199 yards gained, 99 yards in the first half and 100 yards in the second half. During this time they picked up 11 first downs, five in the first half and six in the second half.

Andrews was only able to pick up a total of 35 yards on the ground, 30 yards in the first half and five in the second half. They earned six first downs throughout the game.

Snyder accumulated 25 yards in penalties against them. All of these were in the second half. Penalties against Andrews were 40 yards.

Snyder's air wing completed four out of eight passes for 12 yards. Fifteen yards were gained in the second half on two passes. The two completions in first half netted the Tigers a minus three yards. Both sides were credited with one interception.

Snyder dearly missed N. J. Harrison in the punting department. Harrison was confined to the bench with an injury. Eighty - five yards were netted by the Tigers off of four kicks, eighty yards coming from two kicks in the first half and five yards from two in the second half.

Andrews kickers earned 125 yards from four punts during the game.

Next Friday the Tigers play Levelland here.

Texas University Smothers N. Carolina By 45-20 Score

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP)— Texas found the running attack it has been searching for today and combined it with a proveh defense to crush North Carolina, 45-20.

Left Half Gib Dawson, a 170-pound speedster from Douglas, Ariz., finally ran the way Texas coaches knew he could, and hit pay dirt twice. He opened the Longhorn scoring by catching Quarterback T Jones' 10-yard pass in the end zone.

North Carolina's Tar Heels cracked right back with an 87-yard drive. Fullback Dick Weiss took the ball on a spinner and drove through his left guard eight yards to put North Carolina briefly in the lead as Abie Williams kicked the extra point.

TEXAS WARMS UP

But the blistering Texas attack was just getting warmed up.

Stung at being behind for the first time this season, the Texas Longhorns smashed to three touchdowns in five minutes.

Dawson lit the fuse to the explosive Texas attack in the second quarter with a breath-taking 56-yard run. He swept right end, cut back sharply to his left as Jones threw a key block and outran the North Carolina secondary which had overshifted to his right. The drive covered 65 yards.

North Carolina made the mistake of kicking off instead of receiving, and Texas swept 62 yards in four plays. Fullback Richard Ochoa got the big bite, 48 yards straight through the middle for the first touchdown of his varsity career.

Clifford Polk recovered a North Carolina fumble on the Tar Heel 16 to set up the next score. Jones slid off left tackle from the 1, where Dawson had put the ball with a 9-yard sprint.

DAWSON SCORING STAR

Dawson, the scoring star of the day, accounted for Texas' first touchdown when he took a 10-yard pass from Jones over the goal midway of the first period. Dawson had scored 27 consecutive points for Texas this season before Ochoa joined him in the scoring column.

The fleet halfback also kicked three extra points to account for a total of 15 points, exactly one-third of the Texas total.

The 45-20 victory disproved complaints of some Texas backers that the Longhorns might be great on defense but were impotent on offense.

Texas scored in every period and revealed ability to sustain its attack by marching 35, 65, 62, 69, and 74 yards to touchdowns.

MAKE BREAKS COUNT

The Longhorns continued to make the most of opportunities, too. A recovered fumble on North Carolina's 16-yard line led to a score, and Bill Bible's 34-yard run-back of an intercepted North Carolina pass to the Tar Heel 6 paved the way for Dean Smith's 6-yard dash around left end to end Texas scoring for the day.

Frank Wissman, North Carolina tailback, almost put his team back in the game with two perfect touchdown lobs to Bud Wallace, good for 46 and 48 yards respectively.

In both instances, Wallace broke into the clear behind defensive left half Bob Raley to take the passes going away.

The victory enhanced Texas' No. 6 rating in the nation.

SCORING SUMMARY

North Carolina	7	0	6	7—20
Texas	6	18	7	14—45

Texas scoring: touchdowns, Dawson 2; Ochoa, Jones; Pace, Mays, Smith; Conversions: Dawson 3.

North Carolina Scoring: Touchdowns, Weiss, Wallace 2; Conversions: A. Williams 2.

Penn Picks Up Easy Victory

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6. (AP)— Glenn (Bones) Adams, a 20-year-old aerial specialist, hurled four touchdown passes today to lead Pennsylvania to an easy 39-to-14 triumph over Dartmouth.

A shirt-sleeve crowd of 35,000 saw Adams team with Tom Hanlon, a 6-foot-two end, for two fast scores in the first half and then came back to pitch another pair in the last 30 minutes.

Dartmouth never threatened seriously but a 21-year-old lad from Honolulu named Tom Collins got in Penn's hair all day.

Collins raced 76 yards with a punt for Dartmouth's first touchdown and set up the second as he sprinted 55 yards after making his third interception.

Adams went to the air 20 times and completed 11 tosses for 190 yards.

Big Field Forecast For San Antonio Golf Tournament This Week

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 6. (AP) —The senior championships of the Texas Golf Association makes its 15th turn around San Antonio Country Club here this week and a record field is forecast.

General Chairman Bob Bristol already has 198 entries tabulated. Biggest field was 273 last year.

"It's safe to say we'll have a record field," he said. Entries won't close till Sunday and in the past our biggest entry day has been Saturday.

In the event the entry chokes San Antonio Country Club course the overflow will play at Fort Sam Houston CC, Bristol added.

The tourney is limited to oldsters who are 50-years-of age or more holding membership in the Texas Golf Association.

Duke Tumbles To Tennessee

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 6. (AP)— An alert Tennessee team scooped up Duke fumbles and turned them into touchdowns today to smash the Blue Devils from the nation's unbeaten football outfits, 26-0.

Tennessee, the nation's third ranked team in the Associated Press poll, showed marked improvement offensively over its opening game.

The Vols scored once in each quarter — twice on passes and the other two on running plays.

Duke was a thoroughly beaten club.

The closest Duke got to Tennessee's goal line was the 25-yard stripe late in the second period.

Vicious Tennessee tackling jarred the ball loose from Duke backs five times in the first half. Four times the Southeastern Conference Vols pounced on the ball and twice they turned the bobbles into touchdowns.

On one fumble, Vol Guard John Michels grabbed the pigskin on the Blue Devil 34. Tailback Hal Payne shot a bullet pass to End John Davis of Bogota, Tex., on the Duke 2. Fullback Dick Ernsberger plunged for the score.

Last-Minute Gamble Upsets Kentucky Game

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 6. (AP)— Kentucky gambled for three yards in the final period today, but lost the football and then the game to Georgia Tech, 13-7.

Leading 7-6, Kentucky needed the three yards for a first down. Fullback Harry Jones failed to make them on his fourth plunge, and Tech took over on the Kentucky 35.

From there, a mixture of short gains and penalties put the ball on the Kentucky one, and Tech Quarterback Darrell Crawford sneaked over for the winning touchdown.

A crowd of 35,000 fans saw Kentucky sticking to the ground march the opening kickoff to a tally in less than four minutes. Halfback Emory Clark made the touchdown.

Undefeated Tech got its first as Fullback Glenn Turner bowled across from the three. A 68-yard run through the center by Johnny Hicks set up the play.

Kentucky almost recovered twice after its gamble backfired.

Turner started the Tech drive with a nine-yard advance and George Maloof got a first down on the Kentucky 24.

A series of plays and penalties set Tech back to the Kentucky 31 with third down and 17 yards to go. Then misfortune struck the Kentuckians again.

A pass was incomplete on the Kentucky 20, but a roughness penalty carried the ball to the Kentucky 11, with fourth down and two yards to go for a first down.

Crawford, surrounded by Kentuckians and seemingly trapped for a loss, pitched out to Pete Ferris on the one. Then a Tech fumble was recovered by Kentucky, but there was an offside penalty to nullify the advantage the Sugar Bowl champions would have gained.

Crawford scored from the one and that ended the ball game insofar as scoring was concerned.

Amateur Tournament In Brownsville Set October 11 Through 14

BROWNSVILLE, Oct. 6. (AP) —Invitations have gone out to many of the top-notch amateur golfers of Texas to participate in the first annual Brownsville Invitational Amateur Tournament, slated for Oct. 11-14.

Medal play is scheduled for next Thursday over the par 72, 6,400, 18-hole layout of the Brownsville Golf Club.

Princeton In Win Over Navy

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 6. (AP) — Three aerial touchdowns by All-American Halfback Dick Kazmaier flashed Princeton to its 15th straight triumph today by a 24-20 score over Navy in a spectacular display of offensive fireworks.

Navy came close to beating the Tigers for the first time since Cornell turned the trick in the middle of the 1949 season, with a second half comeback that netted all the Middie points.

The Tigers sprung away to a 17-0 halftime lead.

Then Navy unfurled second half touchdowns of the skyrocket variety and missed what might have been the winning score on a dropped pass over the goal.

Bobastrow, Navy 's pitching wizard, started with a 44-yard pass to Don Fisher on the Princeton three. He threw a fourthdown pass to End John Gurski for the score.

A minute later, the Middies were back on the Princeton 13. Zastrow threw a perfect strike to Jim Baldinger over the goal, but he had dropped it.

City Truck Loses Tank

Texas Aggies Win Over Oklahoma U.

By WILBUR MARTIN

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 6. (AP)— Texas A&M tonight cut down the swashbuckling giant of college football, smashing Oklahoma, 14-7.

The Aggies cut down last year's national champion with a brutal defense and a tremendous ground game.

It was the A, B, C brand of ball the coaches preach: tackle low, run hard, body block.

The capacity crowd of 40,000 sat rain-soaked in cold, windy weather and watched A&M reel off its A, B, C's letter perfect.

Three times the Aggies fumbled and frittered away scoring chances before they sent Glenn Lippman crashing 25 yards for a second period touchdown.

VESSELLS TIES SCORE

Oklahoma tied the score in a twinkling, on a 74-yard run by Billy Vessels just before the half and an extra point by Jim Weatherall that matched one by Darrow Hooper of A&M.

It was not until two more goal-ward marches had been stopped by the massive Oklahoma line that A&M got its revenge for last year's licking by the Sooners. Lippman made up for that 34-28 defeat on a one-yard plunge and Hooper clinched it with his second extra point.

Scurry Sixth In Drilling

Scurry county, with 32 rotary rigs in operation on Oct. 1, ranked sixth among Permian Basin activities according to the Reed Roller Bit Co. survey.

Upton County, with 99 rigs, and Lea County, New Mexico, with 85 rigs, topped the list of counties covered. Midland rose to third place with 68 rigs, the same number as on Sept. 15. Glasscock County, where rigs in operation decreased from 85 to 61 by Oct. 1, stood in fourth place.

Other high ranking counties included Ector with 52 and Andrews with 29. Borden County had gained four rigs to reach a total of 12, while Kent County lost one to leave 11 in operation.

Other counties included in the survey were Crane, 11; Gaines, 21; Howard, 16; Martin, four; Pecos, 15; Terry, 13, and Reagan, 19.

A total of 678 rigs in all Permian Basin Counties were counted in the survey as compared with 572 on Oct. 1, 1950. The Oct. 1 total this year was an increase of five from Sept. 15.

Busy Week Slated For Governor Shivers

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP) — Gov. Allan Shivers will go to Huntsville Sunday to open the State Prison Rodeo.

Tuesday he will dedicate the new engineering building at Lamar Technological College, Beaumont.

Tuesday night, Shivers will be in Dallas for Governor's Day at the State Fair.

Michigan State In Comeback Victory

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 6. (AP)— Michigan State's sparkling Spartans proved their right to the ranking as the Nation's No. 1 football power today when they surged back from a 10-point deficit in the final quarter to defeat seventh-ranked Ohio State, 24-20.

In a wild finish reminiscent of Notre Dame's three - touchdown last quarter surge which whipped Ohio in 1935, the Spartans came to life with scoring marches covering 74 and 46 yards within a three-and-one-half-minute span after Ohio had taken a 20-10 lead.

The payoff punch was a beauty —a 27-yard pass from Sophomore Halfback Tom Yewcic to quarterback Al Dorow on fourth down. Dorow lateraled the ball to Yewcic, who cut off to his right, while Dorow headed for the left sideline and scooted toward the goal. Yewcic's long pass across the field hit Dorow around the 10-yard line, where he shook off two tacklers and fell into scoring territory with the points his team needed.

TORRID FIRST HALF

Each team held the lead twice in the torrid first half, after Capt. Bob Carey of Michigan State opened the counting with a 16-yard field goal halfway through the first period.

Ohio came right back with a five-play passing surge for 72 yards with All-America Halfback Vic Janowicz climaxing the drive with a 19-yard pass to End Ray Hamilton.

Ohio took the ball on downs on the five-yard line to halt an 83-yard Spartan march as the second quarter opened, but Michigan State came back with a six-play series that covered 37 yards. Don McAuliffe plunged one foot for the score that gave the Spartans a 10-6 edge.

Ohio State went 73 yards in 11 plays after the kickoff to send Janowicz into the end zone for the score that gave Ohio a 13-10 lead.

Ohio broke loose early in the fourth when Dick Walther of Ohio intercepted Dorow's pass on Ohio's 49. The Bucks moved right in then for another score with Curcillo passing 24 yards to Hamilton for the counter.

It was there the aroused Spartans fought back as a champion should. Dorow, a sure-armed passer, opened his aerial attack.

Dorow hit Dekker for 11 yards to the eight and on last down tossed into the end zone to Dekker for a one-yard scoring play.

Giants Take Over Lead In World Series

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP) — Lippy Durocher's wonder boys did it again today — walloped the Yankees, 6 to 2, for their second World Series victory and for the first time established themselves as favorites to capture the big playoff.

Egged on by 52,035 fans, greatest crowd ever to witness a Series game in a National League park, the Giants slammed Vic Raschi from the hill in a five-run, fifth-inning uprising capped by Whitey Lockman's home run and went on to win the third contest breezing.

Until Gene Woodling whacked a husky homer off Reliefer Sheldon Jones with one out in the ninth, the mighty Bombers had collected only four hits — one of them very scratchy — off tall Jim Hearn in eight and two-thirds innings. They were well beaten.

MAGLIE VS. SAIN SUNDAY

Sunday the National League champs will be playing on their home grounds again and they have Sal Maglie, the league's finest right-hander, well rested and anxious to get at Casey Stengel's crew.

Baylor Beats Tulane 27-14

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 6. (AP)—Baylor quarterback Larry Isbell scored one touchdown and passed for two others in masterminding a brilliant 27-14 victory over underrated Tulane today.

Isbell gave a near-perfect performance, punting Baylor out of holes, setting up most of the runs with his deceptive ball handling and passing with deadly accuracy.

CHUNKS WINNING PASS

He passed nine yards to End Stanley Williams for the winning touchdown in the third quarter.

Tulane's sophomore quarterback, Pete Clement, turned in a sterling performance but he was no match for the cool Baylor senior when the pressure was on.

After scoring the first touchdown late in the first period on a beautiful 28-yard run after a fake pass, he passed to End Harold Riley for 12 yards and a touchdown.

The second score rubbed out the touchdown advantage Tulane had gained and left the halftime score a tie, 14-14.

Robert Reid intercepted a Clement pass and returned it 56 yards for the final Baylor touchdown in the fourth period. C. O. Brocato missed the last conversion after making three in a row.

Reid's score gave Baylor a touchdown in every period while Tulane was unable to muster a scoring punch after halftime.

Ronnie Kent ran 10 yards for the first Tulane touchdown. Clement scored the second Tulane TD after faking a handoff and spinning through for the last yard.

Researcher Finds Fair Skinned Better Protected In A-Blast

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 6. (AP) —Do you sunburn easily? Are you a blue-eyed blonde, possibly a Swede?

If so, says Dr. Konrad J. K. Buettner, you have the best chance to survive the staggering heat of an atomic explosion.

Least safe, says Dr. Buettner, in a report released today, are the dark-skinned peoples of Africa and the tropics.

The doctor is a research fellow in biochimatology of the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine here. He reported his conclusions after experiments on the effects of the intense heat such as the heat released by a nuclear explosion.

Buettner is a native of Germany.

During the war he was an officer in the German Aeromedical Institute at Rechlin, near Berlin. He lived through the bombardment of Berlin.

He says he resolved then to learn what chances a human being has to survive the sort of holocaust produced by aerial bombing.

CAN MAN LIVE?

He concludes there is no question of enduring a really violent conflagration for more than a few minutes and emerging unscathed. The question is: Can a man live long enough to escape?

Here is what he found:

Whether a man can escape or not depends on the amount of heat to which he is exposed; the kind of heat, and the length of time it takes him to act.

In a temperature of only 500 degrees Fahrenheit (less than half the warmth generated by an open wood fire) he has three and one half minutes in which to get out.

Heat radiated by an atomic bomb is at least 20 times as great; equivalent to the incandescence of the sun, burning at temperatures above 10,000 degrees Fahrenheit. But the explosion is virtually instantaneous.

NOT FAST ENOUGH

No human being could move fast enough to escape it once the burst begins, but the exposure is so brief a person may survive under certain conditions — if he is not too close, or if he is shielded from direct force of its radiation.

Here the matter of skin color comes in. A heavy coat of tan protects the skin against burns in the case of ultraviolet rays from the sun, which have a comparatively low rate of penetration and have already been scattered by their passage through the earth's atmosphere.

An atom bomb's heat is so intense pigmentation has little or no absorptive effect on it. Buettner says, on the contrary, a fair-skinned person stands a better chance with the bomb, because a white skin—or any light-colored surface —reflects much of the heat radiation from the blast.

REFLECTION COUNTS

By experimenting on cuts of pork from white and black pigs in sharply concentrated sunlight, Buettner found a white skin reflects 40 per cent of the heat rays to which a person would be exposed in an atomic explosion. Black skin reflects only 10 per cent.

A person near an atomic explosion absorbs more heat than human flesh can endure, regardless of color, unless he is screened by a wall or some other solid object. Anyone close enough to be affected by radioactivity would probably be burned to a crisp anyhow. The effect of heat extends much farther than the radioactive at the moment of explosion.

In intense heat below the temperature of fire, a naked person may endure a brief exposure better than a person fully dressed. Perspiration evaporation profusely on the flesh will tend to cool him. Dry clothes may not have time to become saturated and are likely to catch fire.

FLIMSY CLOTHES BEST

But in an atomic explosion, or any other great conflagration, the flimsiest covering is better than none.

A light-colored wrap — such as a sheet — may be more effective than many thicknesses of dark fabric because of its ability to reflect heat.

Buettner says experiments reaching back to 1943 have shown him than a hooded suit covered with aluminum foil, is the best available shield against intense heat, in an ordinary fire or in an atomic attack. He thinks Civil Defense Authorities would do well to develop such a garment on a glass-fabric base.

He says such a garment's protective power begins to fade after 30 seconds or so in a fire, as soot from burning debris blackens the aluminum. But 30 seconds is long enough to outlive an atom bomb. Then the problem is to escape the conflagration touched off by the bomb.

Again, if you're too close you'll be part of the holocaust. If you're far enough away to survive the bomb, you can probably get out of the fire — provided you don't dawdle.

Catholic Lay Leaders To Fight Enemies

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 6. (AP) — Roman Catholic lay leaders from all parts of the world will take first steps here next week to form a militant international organization to defend the church against her current enemies, chief among them Communism.

Delegates will come here for the first World Congress of the Lay Apostolate. Plans for it were begun during the 1950 Holy Year.

An objective will be to flank the church's hierarchy with militant laymen.

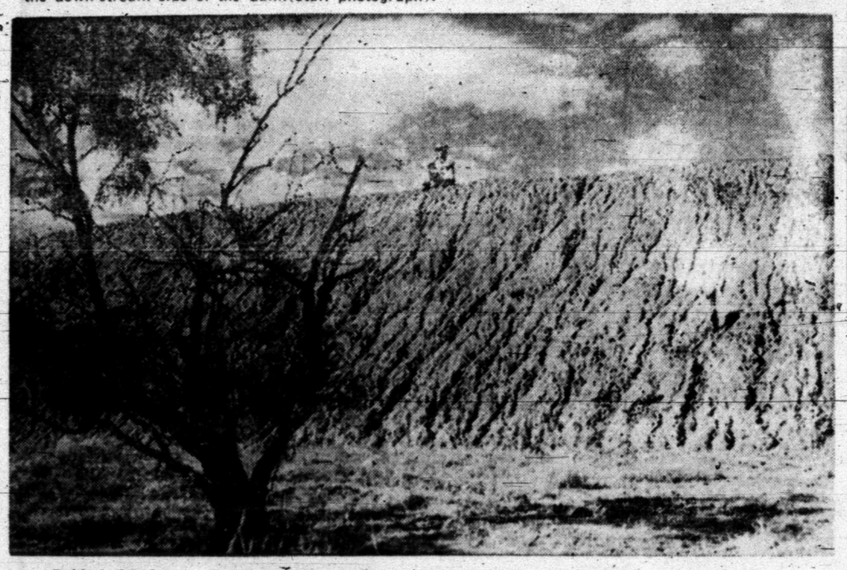
Depth of the stock tank on the farm of the Rev. Cone Merritt, four miles south of town, is shown by contrast of the car in its basin and Wilson Bright, employe of the soil conservation unit, standing about four feet below the top of the dam. Vegetation in the background are the tops of tall trees on the down-stream side of the dam.(Staff photograph).



Behind this large curved earthen dam is one of the biggest stock ponds on the 550-acre pasture owned by Eugene Smoot, about four miles southeast of Gail. The dam is about 300 feet long and backs water up for a much greater distance although it still lacks about three feet being full. Present depth of water is about 25 feet at the lowest point of the basin. Sitting on the dam is Wilson Bright, soil conservationist.—(Staff photograph).

10 New Ponds in Conservation Unit; More Are Being Built

The necessity of supplying pasture lands with ample water is realized more and more each year by farmers and ranchers in West Texas where ranching is always big business although rainfall is sometimes scant, Ed Seay, agricultural engineer for the district soil conservation unit here, has observed

Cattle cannot be blamed, he says, for wanting to graze near water, where grass is greener and drinks conveniently located. So the rancher, in order to assure proper distibution of grazing, must have his land well supplied with stock ponds.

Ranchers of the Upper Colorado Soil Conservation District have completed construction on ten ponds in the last six months. Many more are under construction at the present time. These ranchers were assisted in the cost of construction by the Production & Marketing Administration, and the technical layout was performed by employes of the Soil Conservation Service assisting the district.

Most ranchers realize that in order to produce the best quality of beef and to utilize each acre of range land conservatively they must have centrally located watering places for their livestock, Seay reported.

Recently completed and nearly full already is one of three ponds which Eugene Smoot of Gail has in his 550 - acre pasture. He says he does not want to see the cattle walking off high priced flesh getting from their grazing grounds to water; so he located the watering places where the cattle are more likely to be grazing.

Smoot's new earthen tank was completed less than two months ago and was nearly filled during one five-inch rain. As is the case in every tank project engineered by the conservation unit, a spillway is built at one end of the dam which allows overflow to be spread evenly over a large area to prevent erosion.

Smoot says he also realizes that he has a more uniform cover of grass over his pasture. There are no spots where the cattle overgaze because of water being close, nor are there spots in his pasture where the grass is getting too rank and stemmy due to being too far from water. Smoot thinks uniform grazing safeguards the rangelands and the cattlemen against total disaster.

Smoot is not the only rancher who understands that stock ponds serve as not only a means of storing stock water, but also as a means of conserving our rangelands and preventing erosion through better distribution of grazing.

Agreeing with Smoot as shown by their recent construction of ponds are Marvin Key, Knapp; Vernon Cox, Polar; O. M. Martin, Fluvanna; Weldon Key, Fluvanna; Sterling Williams, Snyder; J. E. Miller, Snyder; the Rev. Cone Merritt, Snyder; J. O. West, Ennis Creek; Hoyle Cary, Knapp; and others.

THE FORRESTAL DIARIES

Byrnes Found That Russians Were Stubborn And Obstinate

10. AN OMINOUS SPRING

(One of Forrestal's more casual diary notes gives an interesting sidelight on President Truman:

20 December 1946

THE PRESIDENT

Last night the President came to dinner with Secretary of State Byrnes, Averell Harriman and a few others. Before dinner I showed him a copy of the New Republic which I said I was going to give Jimmy Byrnes for Christmas. In it was a caricature of Senator Taft with a picture of his father in the background. The President laughed at the caricature of Senator Taft but expressed himself that it was not in good taste and an impropriety to caricature an ex-President who is dead.

(I make note of this because it served to strengthen the impression I have had of the President's traditionalism and his sense of the importance of sustaining the dignity of government. His remarks to the Commission on Universal Training this morning reflected much of the same feeling, plus a deep and obviously very sincere devotion to the government and the people of the country.)

THE RUSSIANS "DON'T SCARE"

(Another note on Mr. Byrnes (after he had left the State Department is amusing.)

30 April 1947

HON. JAMES BYRNES

Jimmy Byrnes came in this morning and in talking about the Russians he said they are "stubborn, obstinate and they don't scare." I reminded him of our conversation about two years ago when he chided me for being too extreme in my views about the Russians when I told him that (when) he harbored the illusion that he could talk in the same fashion with the Russians that he could with the Republican opposition in the Senate he was very much mistaken. At that time I told him that when he spoke, so to speak, using language in a third dimension, the Russians spoke in a fourth, and there was no stairway.

Byrnes said the whole Russian system was shot through with great emphasis on class and rank. One amusing sidelight of the last Moscow meeting, he said, was the segregation of Connally and Vandenberg from him and his assistants. They, the Senators, being of a lower order in the Russian mind — consequence, Messrs. Connally and Vandenberg were considerably burned up.

(In the spring of 1947 the Greek-Turkish aid plan seemed a promising new beginning, but it brought no surcease in other problems.

25 April 1947

PENTAGON LUNCHEON.

Lunch at Pentagon Building today (at this time the offices of the Secretary of the Navy were not in the Pentagon but in the Navy Building in Potomac Park) with Judge Patterson, General Eisenhower, General Spaatz, Admiral Nimitz. . . .

Judge Patterson (then Secretary of War) complained about the drain upon Army resources in the form of occupation troops with particular reference to Korea. He said that the fact that Americans were still compelled to do an occupation job in that country was not only a great drain on its appropriations but also was the source of unceasing complaint from parents of the enlisted men who were unhappy, dissatisfied and bored. . .

Eisenhower gave it as his considered opinion that the Russians would not initiate a war, short of stupidity or blunder, short of five years. In the interval, however, they would continue to export their one commodity, the composite of chaos, anarchy and confusion. The Russians, he said, would not be concerned by any loss of life among their own people; during the last war they kept no records of the dead, of their casualties; there were no personnel records in any of the Russian armies; when they wished to clear minefields they did it by human bodies rather than by any mechanism; in short, in their conduct of war they were guided by an utter and ruthless disregard for the lives of their soldiers.

(Secretary Marshall had been at the Moscow Conference; and at a Cabinet lunch three days later he gave an account of his interview with Stalin.

28 April 1947

CABINET LUNCHEON

(Marshall) recited to Stalin a long list of proposals and communications which had been addressed to the Russians and to which we had not received any answer. He said such conduct was not merely discourteous but that it amounted to an attitude of contemptuousness, and if their design was to earn our ill will they were going about it most successfully. Stalin, in response to the list of items Marshall raised, commented that was "sloppy government" but then he referred to the Russian request for a loan from the United States which he said had been made two years ago without any answer having been received as yet from us. At this juncture Bedell Smith interposed that an answer had been made about a year ago, which, however, represented a year's delay. . .

UNIFICATION OF ARMED SERVICES

(Since the end of the war, Forrestal himself had been much occupied with working out a sound reorganization of the Armed Services. In January, 1947, he had at last secured the agreement of the President, the Army and the Army Air Force to a co-ordinated rather than a completely centralized structure of unification. But as Congress took up the bill in the spring, he began to fear that the Army would insist on a single chain of command, imperilling the Navy's position. In April he was talking about it to Senator Millard E. Tydings, of Maryland.)

16 April 1947

SENATOR TYDINGS

I said I would have to confess I was somewhat shaken by the recurring evidence of the Army's intransigence in regard to the chain-of-command concept (when, as a matter of fact, during this war they had not been able to issue a single order to MacArthur — and they couldn't now). I said my whole attitude in the bill was that unless the civilians who were named to the various jobs outlined would work together in complete harmony, the operation of the bill would be a mess. And by the same token, I said that unless the Services were led by officers who were determined to make the thing go, there would be the same chance of a mess. I said the difficulty I had all along with the Army's genial acceptance that by writing a chart and drafting a law you could get discipline, when as a matter of fact I had seen very little of it in the Army itself. Co-operation and harmony take constant effort and work as well as imagination to foresee the things that will create friction.

(This is an excellent statement of Forrestal's philosophy in the problem of unification, and in administration as a whole. But while dealing with these internal issues, the world situation looked only darker:

23 June 1947

CABINET LUNCHEON

Just before breaking up I asked permission of the President to pose a question which I had put to the Secretary of State last Thursday: What does this country do, politically or militarily, if it is confronted during this summer with a Russian demarche accompanied by simultaneous coups in France and Italy? The President replied that we would have to face that situation when it arose, and he then said that he and General Marshall had been talking about it just prior to lunch. He said that he was afraid the answer would have to found in history — of the struggle between the Romans and Carthage, between Athens and Sparta, between Alexander the Great and the Persians, between France and England, between England and Germany. He hoped that the present situation would not have to be answered the same way.

Dinner Opens Farm Bureau's Campaign for 1,000 Members

The Farm Bureau's annual membership drive began here Friday after a kick - off supper Thursday night at which C. H. Devaney of Coahoma, state director of district No. 6, was guest speaker.

Devaney spoke to 31 members of the local bureau following the supper in the fellowship hall of the First Methodist Church education building.

Good public liability, fire, and hospitalization insurance at low premium rates, an organized and major voice in the National Farm Program, and an adequate source of reliable information relative to farming and ranching businesses were among numerous benefits of the bureau mentioned by Devaney as talking points in the drive for new members.

The drive is not for new members only but also for renewals of membership, and the total goal set here is 1,000. The bureau, which is primarily a county organization but includes part of Borden County, has a membership now of 1,630. During the past year, about 100 members were added from time to time.

In Texas, there are 140 counties with organized bureaus, composing a total of 13 districts, varying in size from four counties to 3. District No. 6 is the largest. State headquarters are in Waco.

Although the drive will last actively for the remainder of the week, workers will meet Friday night at the Von Roeder Seed Farm office to report on progress.

Those present at the supper were Ross Williams, president; C. H. Stahl, vice president; M. L. Andress, secretary - treasurer; G.B. Williams, G. E. Foster, Robert Chambers, I. N. Hataway, Clarence Wade, Edgar von Roeder, Oren Sturdivant, I. S. Cross, Audry Head, Claude McCormick, J. M. Boothe, Jr., M. W. Bavousett, Martin Murphy, Whit Farmer, Perry Echols, Dewey Denson, E. L. Vandiver, C. N. von Roeder, Billy J. Clifton, Hy Caldewey, J. F. Kuss, James E. Clayton, E. H. Williamson, O. C. Hess, C. D. Brock, Buford Light, T. B. Knight and O. M. Fowler.

Snyder Hunters Bag Antelope in 2 Hours

In the first two hours of the antelope season, which opened Thursday morning, Leroy Key and Phil Burns had bagged their game, two bucks weighing about 80 pounds each, and were ready to return to Snyder.

THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

VOL. 2, NO. 135 — SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1951 — SECTION TWO

Despite Dust, Mrs. Snyder Achieves Both Privacy and Beauty with Curtains

BY SUE HOLMES

Now, understand, we like Snyder. We like it fine.

But we do not believe the climate is exactly ideal for curtains. Women who want curtains in their houses — and who doesn't — run up against all the standard problems, like kids who like to swing on draw cords, guests who can spend the entire evening fingering the material of a drapery panel, and so forth, PLUS the sand.

In other climates, housewives can rejoice in complicated flounces and swags. But Mrs. West Texas has found that simpler types of draperies are just as attractive and much easier to keep.

A style found in many Snyder windows is the French - pleated draw drapery, according to Wencie Garcia, owner of the Snyder Drapery Shop.

They can be removed from the rods and easily shaken to remove sand and dust, he explained. For the uninitiated—the French - pleat is just another name for triple pleated straight draperies.

Living room draperies in the T. L. Martin home, 2206 Thirty-second Street, are fashioned in this manner. They are hunter green deep-pile velvet.

DYER RESIDENCE

A large picture window in the J. J. Dyer home, 3608 Avenue U, can be completely closed with the bright draw draperies in a modern abstract flamingo red design on kelly green.

Malaya fabric is used for draperies in both living and dining rooms in the Wray Huckabee home Thirtieth Street and Avenue T. In the den is an even more unusual fabric, as it shows scenes of Guatamalan natives weaving the type of fabric on which they are shown.

Curtains can now be had to match wallpaper, such as is used in the John Sentell's home, 3101 Avenue X. Chintz draperies exactly match the wallpaper, and the bedspread flounce carries out the same pattern.

Mrs. Charlie Longbotham has had draperies of glo - sheen chintz made for her tan and brown tile bathroom. The new home on Thirty - first Street has two windows in the bath separated by a wall panel. A pleated valance joins the windows and is made of a bow-and-swag pattern repeating the tan and brown scheme.

KITCHEN ELEGANCE

French - pleated drapes are even at home in the kitchen. Miss Nellie Cotton's novel window treatment at her home, 2008 Twenty-seventh Street, is proof of this. She had the two windows over her sink treated as one, and she chose a provincial printed glazed chintz for the draw drapes.

Mayor and Mrs. F. G. Sears are planning split bamboo draperies for their glassed - in porch. The drapes will be hung in sections to conform with the ventiliation system. Cornices will be of matching stick bamboo, and even the window shade on the door will be Matsu chitwood, which rolls just as a cloth shade.

Mrs. H. W. Cargile, 3701 Avenue V, took the sand problem into consideration before planning and making her living room draperies. She chose floor - length draperies of a flowered faille material, which can be drawn tightly together. Neither blinds nor shades are necessary. The drapes fall in graceful folds from a cornice painted light green to match the textone walls.

Since the Cargile's living and dining rooms join, she used the same window treatment in both rooms. Another wall holds her plate collection, and other than that all attention can be focused on the attractive drapes. They are pretty from the outside, too, since they are lined wih cream sateen to match the background of the floral print.

OTHER CONSIDERATIONS

Family likes and personalities are also to be considered in choosing curtains, a bulletin from the U. S. Department of Agriculture suggests. For example, the "dislikes" can be most helpful in curtain selection if you know the reasons for them. A person may have a distaste for green curtains, for example, because at one time he had to live with some ill - selected, heavy - textured green curtains that shut light and air out of a room.

Knowing this, you would not only

Jenny Cargile, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Cargile, pushes aside the flowered faille draperies to wave at high school chums outside. The curtains in the home at 3701 Avenue V are Mrs. Cargile's creation. The cornice, painted a light green to match the textone walls, was made by a cabinet maker here.

An unusual and attractive kitchen window treatment is found at Mrs. Jim Moss's home, 3749 Avenue V. Two pairs of curtains hang at one window, giving petticoat effect. Mrs. Moss applied decals to a white plastic window shade and eliminated dust-catching blinds at her west window.

Meat Grade Stamp Called Index to Quality and Use

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP) — Miss Kay Nawn, meat grade girl, Department of Agriculture, got her meat experience as a WAC captain. She knows the quality, cut, grade and selection of meat and how to prepare it to best advantage.

Commanding officer of WAC's in the China-Burma-India theater, the vivid brunette taught meat selection and preparation to Army food service personnel and ran a consolidated mess for GI's and WAC's.

Before joining the Army, the Boston-born Miss Nawn attended a home economics school and studied catering management at Simmons College, Boston. After that she owned and operated two tea rooms, one in Boston, one on Cape Cod.

Since coming to the Department of Agriculture as meat specialist in 1946, Miss Nawn has been giving meat lecture-demonstrations all over the country wherever professional and consumer groups request them.

Now that most beef, veal, lamb and mutton is federally graded, she is trying to show housewives how they can let the purple grade stamp be their guide in buying as well as cooking meat with benefit both to pocketbook and meals.

"A successful purchase begins with the selection of a suitable quality and cut of meat," Miss Nawn told me. "The easiest and most reliable guide to quality in meat on retail counters is the grade stamp."

Acquiring a knowledge of the federal meat grades has two distinct advantages, she says:

"You may choose the grade that is suitable to your needs without being an expert, provided it has been stamped in accordance with the official federal standards. You can prepare your selection by the appropriate method in full confidence that the meat dish will be satisfactory."

Federally graded meat is recognized by the long ribbon stamp that runs the full length of the carcass. The stamp will show on all the principal retail cuts.

Graders must conform to rigid, carefully defined federal standards in examining meat to determine its quality. These concern shape of the carcass, or wholesale cut; finish, or degree of fatness on both exterior and interior, called "marbling"; and the quality, indicated by the characteristics that determine the texture, firmness of flesh, color, marbling, etc.

Federal grades usually available to you are "U. S. prime", "U. S. choice", "U. S. good", "U. S. commercial" and "U. S. utility."

"When purchasing these meats, remember the government grade is your index to quality, but all the grades are good for some specific purpose if used appropriately," Miss Nawn says.

Top round of U. S. prime of U. S. choice grades may be broiled or pan-fried. The same cut of U. S. good, commercial or utility needs to be braised — the method used for Swiss steak. A prime or choice beef rump may be roasted in the oven, but rump graded good, commercial or utility is for a pot roast. A good grade T-bone steak will be more tender than a choice grade round steak.

"U. S. Grades for Beef" (leaflet 310), just published, shows and describes the five U. S. grades sold at retail, gives the qualities and includes cooking suggestions. Single copies are free from U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C. (Please do not write this newspaper.)

Mrs. Katherine Weber Is Guest at Meeting Of Newcomers' Canasta

The Newcomers' Canasta Club met Thursday at Mrs. Jack Morgan's home, 3120 Avenue T.

Mrs. Wilbur Hayes was high score winner and Mrs. C. L. Williamson was low.

A dessert course was served by the hostess to one guest, Mrs. Katherine Weber, and other members as follows: Mrs. Frank Fisher, Mrs. John Lallande, Mrs. S. L. Surratt, Mrs. E. E. Dudley and Mrs. Lewis Bruce.

Mrs. Pauline Taylor Honored on Birthday

Mrs. J. E. Nichols gave a surprise birthday party Thursday night in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Paulihe Taylor.

Guests gathered in the Nichols' backyard at 104 Browning Street, where the birthday cake was served and gifts were presented to the honoree.

Attending were Mrs. Nichols' mother and sister, Mrs. S. J. Keel and Mrs. Thelma Divers, both of Kilgore. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Roland Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Billberry, Miss Peggy Gordon, Mrs. Johnny Moore, Mrs. Gregory and Mr. and Mrs. Cloyse Henry.

Pan American Moves Family to the Valley

Mrs. J. H. Wansbrough of the Pan American camp was hostess at a dinner party Thursday honoring Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Wemple and daughter, Ann Sheron, who are moving to the Harlingen area. Mr. Wemple will assume district foreman duties at a Pan American plant there.

Guests present were Ted Sandoz, Bill Holbert, Arville Brice, Miss Carolyn Simpson, Richard and Robert Wansbrough, Mrs. Mary Lou Simonson and daughter, Lea.

Earlier in the week Mr. Sandoz honored the Wemples with a barbecue.

Jayceettes to Meet

Jayceettes and guests will meet at 7 o'clock tomorrow night at 2604 Avenue R for a covered dish supper. Nolan von Roeder is to show movies of his recent trip to Alaska which took him deep into the wild game country.

Ten players on the New York Yanks pro football team call California their home state.

Newcomers' Bridge Group Meets With Mrs. Stanley Cathey

Mrs. Stanley Cathey, 403 East Twentieth Street, was hostess to the Newcomers' Bridge Club Thursday.

Mrs. Louis Long won the high prize, and Mrs. R. B. Sears won second high and traveling prizes.

The hostess served a dessert course to Mrs. Prentis Bass, Mrs. D. S. Bodie, Mrs. J. E. Bucy, Mrs. Lester Sweet, Mrs. W. P. Thurmon, Mrs. Ray Keenan and to the two guests, Mrs. Long and Mrs. Sears.

25 YEARS AGO

(Taken from the files of THE SCURRY COUNTY TIMES for Oct. 7, 1926.)

The Chamber of Commerce with President Wellborn at its head has been putting in some pretty hard work for several days appointing the several committees, raising the necessary funds and working out plans the Scurry County Fair in general.

It is only six weeks until the opening day of the Fair, and we hope that our good farmer friends will manifest an interest in making it a really worth while one...

* * *

A big rain fell over a large portion of Scurry County Sunday. It was a regular downpour at Snyder and in several communities west and south of town. It was lighter east and north. The rain was bad on cotton, as there were several thousand bales already open in the fields....

As the colleges and universities over the country open their doors for the 1926 - 27 season more than the usual quota of Snyder's young people go to attend. Among those going recently are:

Miss Ruth Buchanan ... Miss Margaret Yoder ... Miss Ellen Johnson ... Misses Bess Johnston and Mary Bennett Beecher, Earl Bavousette and Harold Brown... Alvin Hisinger ... Theodore Yoded — Miss Zona May (Miss Lida B. May is an onstructor in mathematics at Kidd-Key in Sherman) ... Miss Ruth Bell Boren... Earle Sparks ... Miss Laura Bell Rogers ... Odell Head ... Misses Elva Lemons Elizabeth Hays, Margaret Carrell, Vivian Davidson and Raye Morgan ... Misses Clarabell Clark, Myrtle Harrell, Neoma Strayhorn, Pauline Kelley, Erma Taylor, Eura Mae Garner Aletha Epps, Mrs. Marie Palmer Green, Fritz R. Smith, J. L. Martin, Jr. and Elmer Spears ... Misses Dorothy Strahorn and Doris Buchanan ... Errol Taylor ... Miss Tip Messimer ... Buster Stacy ... Misses Maxine Whitmore and Minnie Lou Rothrock ... Miss Nona Carr ... Miss Grace Holcomb and Lura B. West and Francess Hamlett... Virgil Jones...

Mrs. Patterson Is Hostess for Bridge

Mrs. Robert Hargrove won high score at the Thursday Night Bridge Club held in the home of Mrs. Robert Patterson, 110 Milburn.

Mrs. Kenneth Wilson received low score and Mrs. Ross Hemphill won traveling.

Others attending the club were Mrs. Jack Kennedy, Mrs. H. F. Parks, Mrs. Jack Ray, Mrs. Renal Rosson, Mrs. Hoeffer, Mrs. Dick Roberts, Mrs. Bernard Holly, and Mrs. Keith Merrick.

The guests were served refreshments of cake and coffee.

Mayors To See Defense

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6. (AP)—More than 100 mayors are expected to get first hand information on the defense program and its problems during a 10-day tour of the Pentagon and military installations Nov. 11-20.

Flynn Sues For Fight Damages

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 6. (AP)—A fight in a Nassau bar last March cost Screen Actor Errol Flynn $224,000, he alleges in a suit filed here Friday.

The statement of claim filed with the Bahamas Supreme Court said Duncan McMartin, wealthy Canadian gold mine owner, struck the movie actor in a bar at the Windsor Hotel on March 5.

Flynn was recuperating from a spinal injury at the time the statement added, and the "vicious blow on the head" aggravated the old injury.

McMartin's attorneys will file a statement of defense and the case probably will go to trial about the end of the year.

EAT PLENTY AND TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Many people have reported amazing results with this home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic, from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Lost 39 Pounds

"I was really happy and surprised with the results obtained taking Barcentrate," says Mrs. Lillian Flowers, 214 Burnet St., San Antonio, Texas. "I have lost 39 pounds and feel so much better and look 10 years younger."

Lost 15 Pounds

Mrs. D. C. Baker, Box 31, Bryson, Texas, writes us as follows: "I weighed 215 pounds when I commenced to take Barcentrate. After one month I have lost 15 pounds and am going to continue taking it until I am down to 150 pounds. I have several of my friends taking Barcentrate and they are losing weight also."

STOP FIRES!

Your Stake In Fire Prevntion

Fire authorities have established the fact that most of the 800,000 fires that break out in the United States each year are the result of somebody's carelessness . . . actually nine out of every ten fires can be avoided!

What might we do, each of us, to cut down these 800,00 fires?

We could eliminate almost oent-hird of all the fires in the country if we were scrupulously careful of how we handled cigarettes and matches. National Board of Fire Underwriters report that 27.73 per cent of U. S. fires are started by carelessness wtih matches and cigarettes.

We could prevent another 20 per cent of the fires if we paid attention to simple mechanical jobs connected with heating equipment. If we had repairs done promptly on chimneys, stoves, furnaces and other heating appliances which are responsible for about 160,000 fires every year.

Proper use of gasoline, alcohol, oil and other flammable liquids might avoid another 15 per cent of national fires.

If we didn't use electricity carelessly we could nip another 11 per cent.

A little extra care in these four areas of human activities and three-fourths of our fires would never happen!

This Fire Prevention Week, coming during a period of rearmament when the United States needs to conserve its strength in men and resources, we might take stock of what we can do to advance the program of conservation through fire prevention.

We can directly control fire in our homes. Fortunately, in a democracy, we have the right and responsibility to help direct community fire prevention as well. The question of safety from fire is squarely up to us—you and me.

If we can make our homes safer from fire in peacetime, they will be better prepared to cope with fire in an emergency. A fire safety conscious community is going to have stronger defenses against any possible enemy. Therein lies the lesson of Fire Prevention Week observances today.

Fire Kills Many Young Children

More pre-school children die from burns than any other accidental cause except automobile accidents, insurance statistics show. Among children one year of age, fire has become the leading cause of accidental death.

Warning parents not to leave children unattended at home, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reports that most of these deaths were the result of children being caught in burning buildings and unable to escape. In many cases the children were left alone in the house.

Danger in Hot Liquids

Between the ages of one and two it was shown, most of the fatal burns were caused by children upsetting or falling into hot liquids. As the children grow into the toddling stage, matches left within their reach and open fires become a chief danger.

National Board engineers point out that while science has made great progress in reducing the childrens death toll from disease, the accident death rate is still high. Metropolitan Life Insurance figures show that whereas the children's death rate from disease fell 73 per cent over a recent 14 year period, the children's deaths from accidents dropped only 28 per cent.

Rules for Safety

Emphasizing the need for constant supervision of youngsters, fire authorities urged parents to follow five rules in protecting children from fire:

1. Have an adult or responsible sitter in charge when you leave the house.

2. Keep matches out of children's reach. Train youngsters that to play with matches is dangerous.

3. Keep children out of the kitchen or any room in which boiling liquids are likely to be in reach.

4. Don't allow children to get too close to bonfires. Have a metal screen in front of a fireplace.

5. Don't dress children in highly flammable clothes.

Farm Fires Hurt Defense, Effort, Kill 3500 a Year

With America again the granary as well as the arsenal of democracy, it has become imperative to save farm buildings, production and storage facilities and food from destruction by fire, the National Board of Fire Underwriters says.

Fires on farms take an estimated 3500 lives annually, as well as destroying about $100,000,000 worth of property.

A large percentage of farm fires result in total or nearly total losses, because the fire are not discovered in time, water supples are insufficient, or good fire fighting equipment is too far away.

Fire Safety Program

To reduce the danger of fire on farms and rural properties, the National Board suggests:

1. See that exposed buildings are equipped with lightning rods approved by Underwriters' Laboratories. Lightning is the leading cause of farm fires in most areas.

2. Inspect your lightning rod system to see that cables are undamaged.

3. Inspect your heating system to make sure it is in good repair. Have rusted smokepipes and cracked chimneys fixed by a competent repairman.

4. Have electric wiring inspected. Avoid "home made" wiring or temporary installations.

Kerosene Danger

5. Instruct every member of your household in the dangers of using kerosene to start fires in stoves. Be sure that kerosene is used in approved heaters, stoves or lamps built especially for it.

6. Prohibit smoking in barns, machine sheds and oil storage houses.

7. Provide an emergency water supply near a road near your farm buildings. If you build a cistern, be sure it holds at least 3,000 gallons.

8. Coooperate with your neighbors to support a rural volunteer fire department.

9. See that every member of your household knows how to call the fire department without loss of time.

Urge Annual Checks

To make sure that your farm is safe from fire, inspect it annually with an underwriters' form. This form can be obtained from local insurance agents or by writing to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, 22 West Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

WOMAN'S FORUM

More than eight out of every 10 adults think children should get a regular spending allowance, but less than three in 10 ever got one when they were youngsters.

Those are the percentages George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, came up with in a recent poll concerning kids and money and how they combine.

How do things stack up locally? And what are the parental opinions about junior's bubblegum and movie money?

It takes more to keep kids going these days, as inflation has hit movie ticket prices like everything else, the parents say. Most of the Snyder parents think allowances are a fair way to disburse spending money, although many were not given spending money when they were young.

• • •

Mrs. J. D. Sheridan, who lives at the Texas - New Mexico Camp, believes in giving her daughter, Claire, 9, and son John, 6½, definite amounts per week.

The children usually have to be given more Mrs. Sheridan said, but Claire does a pretty good job of managing her 40 cents per week. John gets 25 cents for his movie money and gum.

• • •

Another mother at the same camp, Mrs. D. H. Scott, gives daughter Sandra, 14, a dollar a week, "but she usually winds up getting more," her mother said. Household tasks come extra, Mrs. Scott said. She, like the majority of parents contacted, did not receive an allowance when she was young.

• • •

Doling the money out as it is required is Mrs. H. E. Fowler's method. She, too, lives in the Texas - New Mexico Camp, and has four children. She thinks allowances are a good idea, but that she hasn't been able to work out a satisfactory arrangement. "But they do cost me money," Mrs. Fowler, said. Her children are Patsy, 16; Eldon, 11; Joe 8, and Henrietta, 5.

• • •

Since this is Louise's first year in school, she doesn't require an allowance yet, Mrs. J. W. Pruett explained. Mrs. Pruett, who lives at 125 Browning Street, is treasurer of the Primary PTA.

• • •

Another 6-year-old, Butchie Keel, 1310 Twenty - ninth Street, is so interested in building model airplanes that he asks very little spending money from his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Keel. Butchie's father, also a model airplane enthusiast, buys his son about one construction kit every two weeks. Mrs. Keel said Butchie is very proficient at his hobby and much prefers it to movies.

"Some of my girl friends got 50 cents a month when we were young and I was envious," Mrs. Keel said, explaining that she was not given a definite allowance.

This week Butchie had the dubious honor of developing the first chicken pox case for the school year. Now Mrs. Keel is trying to figure out where the first case comes from, when there are no other known cases in town. And she's also wrestling with the problem of keeping daughter Bunnie free from the pox.

• • •

Mrs. Wayland Holt, 1901 Avenue O, didn't receive an allowance, but she thinks it is an excellent way for children to learn to juggle the coins. Her daughter, Marguerette, is a first grader and like most of the other 6-year-olds hasn't needed money for anything but school supplies, which the parents take care of.

• • •

Convinced that children should work for their allowance is Mrs. Gene Best, 2100 Thirty - seventh Street, who has started giving her children allowances again after discontinuing it through the summer.

"My children save their allowance for Christmas money, and the main trouble is that John, the 8-year-old, thinks he should get as much as Sarah, 11½," their mother said. Mrs. Best also did not get an allowance.

• • •

Mrs. E. C. Singleton, 1111 Fourteenth Street, finds a definite allowance hard to figure out in her household, but her children do extra household tasks, such as ironing, for which they are paid.

She's had a hand in rearing eight children, although they aren't all home now. Helping with dishes and chores are Gloria, Donna and Sharon Ashley, who are 14, 13 and 12 respectively; a son, 10 and pre-schoolers, Marcia and Linda Singleton. Another daughter recently married and the family is hoping Kenneth, 20, will be home from Korea by Christmas. He is a military policeman and has been overseas more than a year.

• • •

Mrs. H. N. Bjornsrud, 2803 Avenue Q, received 25 cents a week when she was young but finds Judith, 12, needs 75 cents. For her allowance Judy does the dishes every night and keeps her room neat. Disobedience results in Judy's losing her allowance for a whole week, her mother said.

• • •

"I got the necessities when I was young, and that was the end of the story," Mrs. E. B. Boone, 3006 Avenue E, said. The Boone children, however, get allowances during school.

Don, 14, gets $1.50 a week, while Douglas Lee, 12, is given $1 and Cherie Jeanne, 9 gets 50 cents. The children keep their rooms clean, but they receive extra amounts for doing heavier housework, such as cleaning blinds and washing woodwork, Mrs. Boone said.

• • •

The Berry boys, Powell, 12, and Phil, 6, are given weekly allowances. Their mother, Mrs. L. A. Berry, 1201 Twenty - ninth Street, received an allowance when she was a girl, and thinks it gives the children a feeling of independence, as well as teaching them to make their allotment stretch over the things they want. Each year the children will be given slightly more, she said.

• • •

Mothers were in accord in thinking that allowances are a good method of teaching children the monetary facts of life. The ones who do not give their children definite amounts say it would be a good idea if they could just decide on the right amount.

The Gallup Poll showed that many parents consider $1 a week sufficient for a child of 12, but that many think 50 cents is plenty for the juvenile spenders.

THE ADVENTURES OF PATSY

TALK OF THE TOWN

SUE HOLMES

Fire prevention week begins today and IVAN GATLIN, local fire marshal, is urging Snyder homemakers to check a few important areas in the home where fires may start.

As he emphasized, fires are far easier to prevent than to extinguish, and cooperation from the residents will help maintain Snyder's good record.

Now is the time to be sure that all trash, dry weeds and grass are cleaned up around the yard. And oily mops and dust cloths closed up in a tight closet are a potential hazard.

One of the most dangerous things a person can do is use inflammable liquids for cleaning clothes, Mr. Gatlin says. He cautions the housewife to go outside to do the cleaning and stay a safe distance from the house. Also, leave the clothing outside until it is fully dry.

Electric wiring should be checked, and the fire marshal asks especially that you give your light cords a good going over. It may be more convenient to run that lamp cord under the corner of the rug, but it's also mighty dangerous.

That leisurely last cigarette just before retiring can be the most dangerous of the day, as smoking in bed is literally playing with fire. And another thing, watch your ash trays to see that no cigarette stubs are left smouldering.

While the kids are making posters at school to observe this special week, you can do your part by checking the dust rags, light cords and weeds. And over loaded electric lines should come in for their share of attention.

Word reaches us that Dr. WILLIAM M. SMITH is recuperating from a heart attack and will be in his clinic on Avenue H Nov. 1. He was seriously ill for a few days, but friends say the quietude of ART FAUSTGEN'S ranch near Abilene is helping him. The ranch owner is the doctor's brother-in-law.

A new novel entitled "Pursuit of Gentlemen" proves what an old thing this man chasing is.

The book by Kathryn Cravens is based on a 100 - year - old diary found in her great - grandfather's trunk, which recounted the experiences of a girl born in a covered wagon in Texas in 1837 and how she went North to New York City in "Pursuit of Gentlemen."

The book is described by the publisher as a "rollicking spoof of the contemporary historical novel," and Miss Cravens' book indirectly advises "a very modern and realistic approach to the problem of man chasing."

Evidently the authoress isn't as light - headed as her publisher would have us think, because the book won first prize in a contest conducted by the National League of American Pen Women. And Miss Cravens was radio's first coast-to-coast woman news commentator and is a war correspondent as well.

Why the publisher spent almost a whole page in the release giving hints to women on how to pursue men, we don't know. current magazines have played the "how to catch a man" theme to death, and by now surely any self respecting male knows all the womanly wiles to watch for—and sidetrack if he desires.

Dust

choose a color more pleasing to him, but also fabric of a more pleasing texture. And you could make sure the curtains were hung so they would not shut out light and air.

Deane and Diane Allen, four-year-old twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Allen, are too young to have any complexes about the window adornment. And they are likely never to develop such a complex, since their mother has hung airy organdy curtains in their room. The curtains are light blue and perfectly suited to small girls' fancies.

Shortly after the picture of the Allen's was made, the big van came to move the family to their new home on Dalton Drive. There the twins still have their dainty curtains, and brother Tim, who attends the primary school, has a bedroom all his own, too.

Besides sewing for the children, Mrs. Allen is also a talented artist. Several of her oil paintings hang in the living room.

TRAILER HOME

One of the first steps in planning curtains is to decide what you want curtains to do for the room. Draperies can be a balance and a connecting link for color. Mrs. Henry A. Locke, who lives at the Deluxe Trailer Court has found her curtains to be just that.

The Locke's trailer living room is as inviting and attractive as any stationary home could boast. Tomato red curatins are hung at the trailer's picture windows. At night he curtains are drawn, and the window area becomes a colorful wall area. When the curtains are open they frame a view of the neighbor's marigolds.

Mrs. Locke, the former Lois Reese of Colorado City, says she had a hard time convincing her husband that a trailer home would be practical for them as long as they moved frequently to different oil field locations.

Being moving here from Wyoming, where they lived for six years, Mr. Locke, still a little dubious about the deal, agreed to having a custom trailer built.

Instead of having two bedrooms, they wanted a living room for entertaining. So half the trailer was devoted to this room, which is carpeted in a soft green. A darker shade of green was used to upholster the sofa, which makes a bed when guests stay overnight. A pillow covered in the same color as the curtains ties the room colors together. And chartreuse ceramics accent the blond furniture.

After the homemaker assures herself that the fabric and design are pleasing and the curtains suit the family's needs and likes, she is still faced with a problem of individuality.

TWO SETS

Mrs. Jim Moss has found an attractive and practical way to dress her kitchen windows in the home at 3749 Avenue V. Not one but two pairs of curtains are used at each window, which gives a pretty ruffled "petticoat" effect.

She made one pair of white curtains and topped them with another pair in a green plaid. To offset the time consumed in washing and ironing two sets of curtains per window, this homemaker has used white plastic window shades, perked up with decals, to keep out the strong sunlight. No blinds to clean here, either.

MATCH BEDSPREAD

The curtains in young Jimmie Moss's room are another time-saver. His mother made them and the bedspread of a brown and white cotton twill, which requires little contact with an iron.

Two windows meeting at a corner in the Moss living room could also have been a problem. But the pleasing solution is patterned drapes in red, green and chartreuse which hang on both windows and from the background for a modern, two - level corner table.

A variety in contrasts is found in Mrs. Bill Smith's home, 2812 Avenue V. The curtains in the Smith's guest bedroom are traditional organdy. But instead of using light curtains and light wallpaper, Mrs. Smith chose stark white curtains with a ruffled valance to frame two windows, which are treated as one. The contrast is pleasing against dark, wine-colored floral wallpaper.

ASK MILDRED

Please send your questions to Mildred Sparks, County Home Demonstration Agent, Courthouse, or to the Snyder Daily News.

How long does it take for poultry to freeze? Mrs. B. L. L.

According to Helen C. Doughlass, Office of Information, U.S. D.A. "A bird weighing less than eight pounds should freeze solid in from 30 to 40 hours at a temperature between 10 and 20 degrees below zero F. Temperatures between 20 and 40 degrees F. are better for rapid freezing of poultry."

• • •

Do you know an easy way to get curtains to go on the rods without catching or tearing the curtain? I have tried paper or cloth over the end of the rod, but they are not too satisfactory. M.A.D.

Try placing a thimble or the finger from an old glove over the end of the curtain rod.

• • •

I have a good household hint that I would like for you to print in your column. Mrs. C.T.T.

To keep belts in one place where they are easy to find, screw cup hooks all the way across an ordinary wooden coat hanger and hang the belts on them. This saves space too.

• • •

Dear Mildred: Will you suggest shrubs and trees that have proved adaptable to this area? L. A.

The following trees and shrubs have been proved adaptable here by the Big Spring Field Station, F. E. Keating, superintendent of the field station, lists the following:

EVERGREEN SHRUBS

Abelia, Agarita, Ceniza or Texas firethron, Pfitzer Juniper, and the privits.

DECIDUOUS SHRUBS

Amur homeysuckle, beautybush, bird-of-paradise, Chastetree, Chinese lilac, desert willow, red bud, Vanhoutte Spiraea.

VINES

English Ivy, everblooming honeysuckle, queens wreath, silvervine fleece flower, and Virginia Creeper.

DECIDIOUS SHADE TREES

Siberian or Chinese elm, American elm, green ash, velvet ash, thornless honelocust and native hackberry.

EVERGREEN TREES

Arizona cypress, Italian Cypress, Chinese arborvitae, Rocky mountain juniper, and red cedar.

Transplanting is best done early in the spring before growth starts. The hole in which the tree or shrub is to be planted should be large enough to accommodate the root system. After setting, the plants should be watered to settle the soil around the roots and to drive out any air pockets that might cause the roofs to dry out. Irrigation during the first season will help the newly set plants become well established. It is still too early to plant trees and shrubs, but it isn't too early to make your selections and plans for planting them in the spring.

Fire Prevention Week in Schools

Fire prevention week begins here today, and students and administrators of the school system will begin tomorrow morning participating in the various programs scheduled for observance of the week, Frank Wilson, director of curriculum, has announced.

Students of third through sixth grades will participate in home inspection for fire hazards in a contest sponsored by the fire prevention committee of the Chamber of Commerce with Willis Cox, Jr., chairman.

PRIZES OFFERED

The children will be given blank forms to be filled out by themselves and their parents; and in each building, the classroom having the most forms properly filled out and returned when the contest closes Wednesday will receive a prize of $5.

Fourth, fifth, and sixth - grade students will compete in a poster-making contest sponsored by the Lions Club. First, second, and third prizes of $3, $2, and $1, will be given in each of the two buildings, and a grand prize of $3 will be given for the best poster in both.

Students in the junior and senior high schools will compete in writing fire prevention slogans of 10 words or less. This is part of a state-wide contest sponsored by the fire insurance commission, and prizes in the state will total $250. The senior high school students will also get ideas for writing of themes on fire prevention this spring, Wilson said.

General assembly of junior high students will be held in the high school auditorium Wednesday morning at 10:35, when a film will be shown as part of a fire prevention program.

Senior high students will have a similar assembly Thursday morning at 10:35 o'clock.

Throughout the week, all schools will have frequent fire drills, and instruction will be given on leaving burning buildings.

WATCH DRILLS

Beginning Thursday morning, however, the schools will have inspected fire drills observed by representatives of the fire department, Chamber of Commerce Committee, administrators, fire insurance men, and any other interested citizens who care to attend. Drills will begin at the northwest ward school and end at the high school in time for the assembly.

Also Thursday, the school buildings will be inspected by fire department representatives, electricians, and others.

One of the benefits of the program will be an automatic 3 per cent reduction in the city's key rate for fire insurance, Wilson said. The reduction is given by state insurance board officials for cities fulfilling minimum requirements of the fire prevention week observance.

Fire drills will be given throughout the year as usual, and not only during the special week, Wilson explained, but special emphasis is given one week each year.

Other school administrators participating are M. E. Stanfield, superintendent; Herman Trigg, principal of the junior high school; O. S. Clark, primary school principal; Silas Devenport, central elementary principal; and W. T. Falls, principal of the northwest ward school. About 125 teachers will participate with more than 3,400 students.

Will Try To Send Cook To Gas Chamber

EL CENTRO, Calif., Oct. 6. (AP)—Badman William E. Cook was arraigned today on charges of murdering a Seattle salesman, Robert Dewey, during a bloody January spree extending from here through Texas to Missouri.

Superior Judge Elmer W. Heald gave Cook, 23, an opportunity to get an attorney and set Oct. 11 for entering a plea.

District Attorney Don Bitler read the indictment on which California will attempt to send Cook to the gas chamber.

The Missouri desperado was brought here by U. S. marshals Friday from Alcatraz Prison where he is serving sentences totaling 300 years. He was convicted of kidnaping and murdering Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mosser of Atwood, Ill., and their three children, and then dumping their bodies in a well near Joplin, Mo.

Cook is accused of hailing Dewey on a lonely desert road near here, shooting him to death, and fleeing to Mexico in Dewey's car. Cook was captured there by Mexican officers.

Big Per Cent Of Packers Are Violating Act

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. (AP) — Thirty-eight per cent of the nation's slaughterers are violating meat controls, asserts the Office of Price Stabilization's enforcement director.

The official, Edward P. Morgan, adds that there are "affirmative efforts" by the meat industry "to sabotage the entire stabilization program."

Morgan said Friday the OPS drive that began Sept. 25 against illegal slaughtering practices has uncovered 532 violators among 1,445 plants visited by OPS agents.

He said there are more than 10,000 slaughterers in the country.

Violations of meat control regulations, Morgan said, included the buying of cattle and selling of meat at above ceiling prices, tie-in sales, false weighing, upgrading and the sale of upgraded and unmarked meat, and falsification of and failuure to keep proper records.

None of the alleged violations, Morgan said, "can be minimized or characterized as inconsequential."

Cuts In Steel For School Construction In Sight For 1952

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP) — A sharp reduction was indicated today in the allocation of steel for school construction during the first three months of next year.

The National Production Authority was reported to have advised the office of education that an allotment of 81,000 tons will be made Monday for school construction during that period. The allocation for the current quarter was 194,000 tons.

An official of the Office of Education said all but 28,000 tons of the 81,000-ton allotment already has been committed to continuing school projects in prior quarters.

He estimated colleges will get about 8,000 tons and secondary and elementary schools 20,000 tons.

The official said the most critical needs are in California, Florida, Texas and New York.

Anthony Eden Attacks British Labor Heads

LEEDS, England, Oct. 6. (AP)—Anthony Eden accused Britain's Socialist government today of locking its foreign policy barns only after the Iranian oil had been stolen.

Eden, a likely choice for foreign secretary if Winston Churchill's Conservatives win the Oct. 25 election, told a Tory campaign rally that "in no department was a change more urgently needed than in the control of our foreign affairs."

He said the Iranian oil crisis was "a graphic illustration of confused and conflicting policies" followed by Prime Minister Attlee's Labor government.

Bruce Greer to Head Coleman Hospital Staff

COLEMAN, Oct. 6 — Bruce L. Greer, formerly administrator of Snyder Hospital, has been named administrator of the Overall Memorial Hospital here. He is to assume his duties before Oct. 15.

Greer resigned as administrator of the Snyder hospital early this year, and he and Mrs. Greer and their son have been living in Fort Worth recently.

Education Plan For Consumers Using Credit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. (AP) —Most Americans buy things they need or want on credit — houses, radios, electrical equipment, clothing, automobiles. They do this through a charge account or on an installment basis.

In order to curb abuses of such credit buying, a group of business men have set up an organization to educate the public in the wise use of consumer credit. It will also urge good credit selling by the retailers.

Known as the National Foundation for Consumer Credit, the organization is also developing an educational program for high schools so the youth of today can learn how they can use credit tomorrow when they become consumers and homemakers.

William F. Cheynye, executive vice president of the foundation, and Miss Edna F. Amidon, chief of the U. S. Office of Education's Home Economic Education Service, have already worked out a course expected to be introduced in some 400 of the nation's high schools this year.

"Credit has done its share to carry this nation into an economy of abundance," Mr. Cheyney says. "It is a useful tool which, by helping us to apportion our incomes to the purchase of things we need and want, can open the door to an easier and more comfortable life. The problem lies in knowing how to use the tool with judgment and sense."

In promoting good credit business among retailers, the foundation will urge retailers to discourage the consumer from buying or borrowing more than his financial condition indicates to be sound, to be ready to work out new payment plans if they will help the customer meet payments during emergencies and to employ fair advertising and selling methods.

Russian Paper Says Comrades Catching Up With Rest Of World

MOSCOW, Oct. 6. (AP) — Pravda said today Soviet scientists are catching up with, and surpassing, foreign scientists. The claim was made in a front page editorial that appeared next to Prime Minister Stalin's announcement that the Russians recently tested one type of atomic bomb.

The editorial made no direct reference to atomic research. It said: "Soviet scientists are solving successfully the task set by Comrade Stalin—not only to catch up with but to surpass in the nearest future the attainments of science outside the borders of our country."

Search Being Made For Survivors Of Storm-Wrecked Ship

ELIZABETH CITY, N. J., Oct. 6. (AP) — Ships and planes searched a 60-mile area off Cape Hatteras today for possible survivors of a freighter that broke in two in hurricane-swept waters Friday.

Seven survivors and five bodies have been picked up. One survivor died. But there was little hope today that more members of the 23-man crew would be found alive.

The 3,325-ton Southern isles, a converted LST snapped amidships early Friday in heavy seas about 200 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras.

Man Killed In Wreck

TEXARKANA, Oct. 6. (AP) — James Banks, 45, negro of Maud, was killed in a head-on crash between a car and a truck three miles west of Texarkana early today. The driver of the truck, Warren W. Roach, 24, of Maud, was uninjured.

Liberal Votes Could Decide What Party Will Rule England

The election result in Great Britain on Oct. 25 could very well hinge on the voters who cast their ballots for Liberal candidates in February, 1950 but who will have no such opportunity this time. In 1950 the Liberal party put up candidates for 475 (76 per cent) of the 625 seats in the House of Commons. The party is expected to announce soon that it will contest only about 100 this year.

Every candidate must put up a deposit of 150 pounds ($420), which is returned to him only if he polls as many as one-eighth of the votes cast. In 1950 no less than 319 Liberal candidates forfeited that deposit. (All but three of the 100 Communist candidates also forfeited their deposits.)

BIG PREMIUM

The Liberal party, in 1950 paid Lloyd's a premium of 5,000 pounds for underwriting, up to 250, all Liberal deposits lost after the first 50. This year the party is apt to be more cautious. So is Lloyd's.

The Liberal candidates polled a total of 2,621,000 popular votes in 1950, to 13,296,000 for the 617 Labor candidates and 12,502,000 for the 621 anti - Labor candidates (of which 11,518,000 went to the 568 candidates labeled as straight Conservatives). The Communists polled 92,000 votes; and 55 various independent candidates, almost all of whom forfeited their deposists, polled a total of 258,000.

No fewer than 66 seats were won by Labor candidates with fewer votes than the combined vote for Conservative and Liberal candidates. If two - thirds of the Liberal votes had gone, instead, to the Conservative candidates and only one-third to the Labor candidates, Labor would have lost 18 of those 66 seats. That would have meant a Conservative government by a margin of 30 seats instead of a Labor one by a 6-seat margin.

But will the Conservatives in 1951, get more than Labor of the Liberal votes of 1950? The question is easier to ask than to answer.

The 1950 Liberal platform condemned "nationalization for nationalization's sake," also the Labor party's subservience to the trade unions. In 1949 the Liberals in Parliament voted with the Conservatives to censure the Government on the pound devaluation. All that looked ani - Labor.

SUPPORTED LABOR

However, the Liberals supported the earlier nationalization projects of the Labor government, and the 1950 Liberal platform observed: "The Conservative Party is the protective mechanism of Big Business." After the 1950 election, the Liberals were with the Government in further clipping the wings of the House of Lords, over Conservative opposition. All that looked anti - Conservative.

The truth seems to be that the future of the Liberals is all in their past. Their great issue in the days of their glory was Free Trade, but what chance has Free Trade in today's world? The Liberal party had hoped to do well in 1950 because of the traditional British bent toward compromise, but the British voter, like the American voter, seems disinclined to throw his vote away on a third party.

On the one hand, Liberals dislike Socialist regimentation. On the other hand, many still look on Churchill as a renegade for leaving their party, of which he had been a leader, to join the Conservatives in 1924. In 1923 and in 1929, when the Liberals held the balance of power, they refused to support any Conservative ministry, allowing Labor to form a Government, later voted with the Conservatives to overthrow the Labor Government.

Car Industry Returning To Defense Work

DETROIT, Oct. 6. (AP) — The automobile industry now has more than six billion dollars worth of arms orders and more are coming.

The industry is to build tanks, jet engines, bombers, cargo planes, tank weapons, rockets, combat and tactical vehicles and other items.

Last year's production of peacetime passenger cars and trucks had a wholesale value of 10 billion dollars. The auto industry's current rate of military production represents only a fraction of the contract total.

The auto industry's defense job hasn't moved more rapidly into high gear because of scarce machine tools.

Materials, manufacturing space and trained personnel, they say, will be ready long before the full requirements of machine tools. Materials are being stockpiled, new plant space is being set up and worker training programs are under way.

And the industry executives have an answer for anyone inclined to criticize the huge new plant construction program involved in the defense set-up. Without new construction and the rehabilitation of many World War II plants, more time and money would be consumed in bringing the military production program to the volume level.

In World War II civilian car manufacturing and assembly line facilities had to be ripped out and replaced with entire different kinds of tooling. In some instances the peace-time tools were "stored" in open fields.

The conservation processes involved tremendous costs that are being avoided in the present emergency, industry chiefs say. And, they add, when the emergency is over there will be no factory reconversion problem.

Edwards' Fate Up To Board

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP) — Albert Edwards' fate was back in the hands of the State Board of Pardons and Paroles today.

The Court of Criminal Appeals rejected his habeas corpus plea through which he had sought to escape death in the electric chair early Tuesday morning, Oct. 9.

The court said the writ should have been denied in district court, and that no motion for a new hearing would be accepted.

Friday two members of the pardon board agreed to recommend a reprieve, then changed their minds and withheld a decision. That's where the matter finally rested today, and no action was expected until Monday.

The three-member pardon board does not usually meet on Saturday and Sunday.

Edwards is scheduled to die in the electric chair for the slaying of Paul Walker at Houston. Walker and Edwards' wife, Betty Lou, were shot to death as they sat in Walker's car.

Three previous stays of execution have been granted in Edwards' case.

Truck-Car Wreck Near Wills Point Kills 2

WILLS POINT, Oct. 6. (AP) —Two members of a Plano family were killed and two others critically injured in a head-on collision of their car and a cattle truck east of Wills Point today. The dead were Mrs. Ervin Lee Johnson and a four-months old infant. Her husband and a daughter, 4, are in a critical condition.

The driver of the cattle truck, Herman Williams of Bryan, escaped uninjured.

Short Vegetable Crop Over State Predicted

AUSTIN, Oct. 6. (AP) — A much lower 1951-52 acreage of commercial vegetables in Texas was predicted today by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

It based the prediction on a survey of growers. The reduced acreage was attributed to delay in preparing soil because of unfavorable conditions, late harvest of summer field crops, and a shortage of local help for planting, the USDA said.

TEEN TALK

By BILLIE ALFORD

These senior girls, pictured above from left to right, Jean Mulkey, Connie Moore, and Janey Robbins, were among the 20 seniors who tried out for parts in the senior play Thursday night in the high school auditorium.

Five boys and five girls are needed as characters in the play.

Mr. and Mrs. Clois Henry and Miss Elsie Ramsdell are directing the play, "The Scarecrow Creeps," a mystery comedy by Jay Tobias.

The Senior Scout Troop 10 held its annual new members banquet Wednesday night at the Village.

Betty Tom Norred, the president, gave the opening welcome.

After a chicken dinner, the guests were entertained by a program consisting of a welcome to the new members given by Betty Tom Norred, the response by Kay Shirley, the Girl Scout laws presented by ten girls, a talk on "What Girl Scounting Means to Me" by Adene Wells, and the lighter side, (jokes, that is) by Patsy Fowler.

Everyone rose for the Girl Scout Promise. Mrs. C. C. Miller, and Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Lambert spoke for a few minutes to the girls.

Assistant leaders, Ila Ruth Newton and Gerry McDaniels were introduced to the girls.

New members which were received into the club were Joyce Page, Wyvonne Reese, Patricia Devers, Sittie Harrell, Judy Miller, Ann Fish, Joyce Blakley Emma Lee Duncan, Connie Longbotham, Margaret McPhearson, Connie McDaniel, Patsy Norred, Robbie Pratt Janice Star, Kay Shirley, Mary Ann Doak, Lynda Norcross, Sara Clark, Carol Ewing, Sandra Scott Linda Fowler, Nelda Floyd, and Gay and Kay Birdsaw.

Old members attending were Shirley Banks, Patsy Fowler, Nancy Dorman, Adene Wells and Danna Floyd.

Mrs. Miller was a special guest of the troop.

Though "Jingle Bells" may be a little out of season, that was the song that you might have been heard being sung Friday evening near the high school.

The occasion was the initiation of new members into the Future Homemakers Club.

The girls showed up Friday with their clothes turned wrong side out their hair in pig tails, wearing different kinds of shoes and socks no jewelry on, and carrying a hard boiled egg.

The old members asked them to get the signature of nine officers in the club and eleven old members signatures all on the egg.

They were requested to, go to class barefooted and must have learned the club colors, motto, and flower.
