TRAIN KILLS RESIDENT OF ROUND TIMBER

Frank T. Forrest Fatally Injured When Passenger Engine Strikes Truck Near Seymour.

Returning Home After Unloading Wheat When Accident Occurs. Dies in Seymour Hospital.

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Texas, July 8.—Frank T. Forrest, 49 years old, who was injured when the Wichita Valley passenger train wrecked his truck as it was crossing the track about one mile west of here at 10:35 o'clock this morning, died here at 3:20 o'clock this afternoon. The train completely wrecked the empty truck he was driving, returning to his home near Round Timber after taking a load of wheat to Seymour.

The injured man was picked up by the train crew and carried here where medical treatment was given him. Attending physicians gave up hope of his recovering after the preliminay examination. His injuries were about the head and face, death resulting, according to physicians, from a severed blood vessel under his left jaw.

The first intimation the engineer and firemen had of the accident, according to their reports, was the crash when the engine hit the truck due to the fact that the truck approached the crossing from the fireman's side. The train was in charge of Conductor Eli Stephens and the engineer was E. B. Corley.

Mr. Forrest was a well known resident of this section. He is survived by his mother, Mrs. S. E. Holmes of Seymour, a son, Turner Forrest of Round Timber, four brothers, George W., Arch and Guy Holmes of Westover; Jim Holmes of Dundee and a sister, Mrs. Roy Stevens of Hash Knife ranch.

American Marines Mingle Freely With Tampico Mexicans

By Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, July 8.—American marines from the United States cruisers Sacramento and Cleveland are mingling freely with the people of Tampico and have been met with extreme cordiality, although all measures necessary have been taken to prevent disputes which might lead to serious difficulties, according to reports received here today from Tampico.

By permission of Tampico authorities, the marines were allowed the freedom of the city with the understanding that they should land unarmed. There is an undercurrent of nervousness, however, throughout Tampico, the reports state, due to the ever-present possibility that some small act may lead to serious occurrences.

Excelsior expressed this feeling editorially this morning saying: "There is a barrel of powder in Tampico, and a man who smokes is sitting on it."

The commanders of the Sacramento and Cleveland confer frequently with Claude I. Dawson, United States consul in Tampico but have declined to talk concerning the situation.

The confederation of labor, during a meeting in Orizaba last night, voted to send a message to the American Federation of Labor asking it to protest in the name of American workers against the dispatch of the war vessels to Tampico and the activities of some portions of the American press against Mexico.

SENTENCE HOWAT AND DORCHY TO SERVE SIX MONTHS IN PRISON

By Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, Kansas, July 8.—Alexander Howat, president of District 14 (Kansas) United Mine Workers of America, and August Dorchy, vice president, today were sentenced to serve six months each in jail and pay a fine of $500 each after convictions last week of violation of the criminal provisions of the Kansas Court of Industrial Relations law. The men were found guilty by a jury of a misdemeanor in that they called a strike at the H. mine of the George K. Mackie Coal Company.

As notice of appeal was given, Howat and Dorchy retained their liberty on original bonds of two thousand dollars each. Judge Frank W. Ross, of the Cherokee county district court, who sentenced the men, also directed that they give bonds of two thousand dollars each not to violate again the industrial court law. Motion for a new trial was overruled.

Before sentence was passed, Howat made a speech to the court denouncing his trial and alleging he was not given fair treatment. He said he did not know he was violating the law when he called the strike.

Late today Howat and his attorney, J. I. Sheppard, addressed a meeting of miners in the city park. Howat denounced the industrial court law and Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas in his speech, and repeated charges made in the court room this morning that he had not received a fair trial. Mr. Sheppart discussed the case and appealed to the miners to stand together and fight. The meeting started shortly after 4:30 o'clock and continued until late tonight.

WACO MAN GETS COAT OF "T. and F."

Five Masked Men Abduct Victim Within Shadow of Police Station.

By Associated Press.

WACO, Texas, July 8.—Abducting their victim within the shadow of the city jail, five masked men in high powered cars, about 4:30 this afternoon took K. Cummins to the Cedar Brakes three miles north of town, where a coat of tar and feathers was applied before the police, following on motorcycles and in automobiles, could arrive to prevent it.

As Cummings was seized, according to bystanders, some one ran to Mayor Ben C. Richards, standing in front of the south entrance to the city hall and yelled "fight."

"Go get them," cried the mayor to several detectives to whom he was talking.

Several motorcycles and city automobiles with detectives and uniformed officers started in pursuit.

The officers arrived on the scene too late to prevent the tarring and feathering, which had been applied from the waist up.

A returning automobile with Cummings in the back and three masked men was halted by the quartet of officers and Detective Hall took the tarred man to his home and the three men were taken to the police station and locked up in the mayor's office while County Attorney Frank B. Tirey was called into consultation with the police officers.

WITNESSES SAY WIDOW IS GUILTY

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 8.—Through a number of witnesses today the state introduced testimony tending to show that Mrs. Eva Catherine Kaber wilfully planned the murder of her husband, Daniel F. Kaber, for which she is being tried on a first degree murder charge. Urbano Di Carpo testified that Mrs. Kaber had offered him three thousand dollars if he would run Kaber down with an automobile. When he refused to do this, he said, Mrs. Kaber then asserted she would give him three thousand dollars to five thousand dollars if he would "get a gang to kill him anyway."

Di Carpo said he introduced Mrs. Kaber to Ermina Colavito, whom the state alleges obtained the persons who did the actual killing.

The state, through testimony of Dr. John G. Spencer, chemist, showed that Mr. Kaber's internal organs bore heavy traces of arsenic. Dr. Spencer said the liver contained about forty grains of arsenic. A fatal dose of the poison when the system is not inured to its use, is generally rated at two grains, he said. Mrs. Marie Schwartz told of going to Mrs. Kaber's home with "Emma" Colavito, claimed by the state to have been the procurer of Mr. Kaber's assassins for Mrs. Kaber, when Mrs. Colavito asked Mrs. Kaber for money. Mrs. Kaber was alleged to have replied that she had no money. Mrs. Colavito then asked if she had any diamonds, the witness testified, adding that Mrs. Kaber then went upstairs and brought down a large diamond ring and a watch and gave them to Mrs. Colavito. This was alleged to have transpired after the murder of Mr. Kaber.

On cross examination by Attorney Corrigan, Mrs. Schwartz said Mrs. Kaber came to her home frequently and that she acted crazy. She would run up and down the parlor, pull her hair and keep saying: "I didn't do it. I didn't do it."

EDUCATORS URGE WORLD CONVENTION

International Congress on Education Likely to Result From Meeting in Des Moines.

Teachers Contemplate Universal Standard of Instruction and Abolition of National Lines.

By Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 8.—An international congress of education leading to an international education association, worldwide in its scope, is expected to be the outgrowth of this year's national education association's convention which ended here today.

Resolutions asking for the congress and for a plan for an international organization were presented by J. W. Studebaker, of Des Moines, and were unanimously adopted.

This is said to be practically the first attempt to abolish state and national lines in education and include nations from Russia to South America in one equalized educational program.

Miss Charl O. Williams of Memphis, Tenn., was unanimously elected president of the association. All candidates for other offices recommended by the committee on nominations were elected.

Supports American Legion

The national association pledged itself to support the American Legion in a joint program for Americanization to require that all but exchange teachers by Americans and take the oath of allegiance to the United States; that teachers must have high school education and two years of professional training as a minimum requirement; that English only be the basic language in all schools; that adequate instructions in history and civics be required for graduation from elementary and high school; that every public school display an American flag and ask assistance of the American Legion in furnishing speakers for patriotic exercises; that education be compulsery through high school or until the age of eighteen; and that a national education week be held annually.

The association tabled by an overwhelming vote a resolution introduced by J. W. Hathaway of Florida, protesting the choice of educators to high government posts, either on a political or geographical basis.

Adopt Resolutions

Resolutions agreed upon by the representative committee were adopted unanimously. Briefly summarized, these resolutions are as follows:

For better facilities for training teachers.

Recommending tenure for teachers during their efficient service with adequate retirement or pension laws.

Adoption of a single salary schedule for elementary and high schools.

Better educational facilities for rural school children.

Indorsing the Towner-Sterling bill, and protesting against the proposed federal welfare department.

Simplified spelling, a leading question among educators for almost twenty years, is dead, as far as the national education association is concerned.

In spite of the protests of E. O. Vaile, of Oak Park, Illinois, 73 year old champion of the cause, who has fathered simplified spelling before the association for nineteen years, the delegates today passed resolutions approving the act of the directory board authorizing that the printing of the association be done in standard form.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, July 8.—A truce has been declared between England and Ireland. It will take effect at noon on Monday next. Preparations are already under way to end the hostilities between the crown forces and those actively engaged in the Irish cause.

Developments leading to the truce were divided between London and Dublin. In Dublin, Eamonn DeValera, Irish Republican leader, and his nationalist associates, renewed their conferences with the southern unionists. Earl Middleton, a unionist, who recently conferred with the British prime minister, read a letter from Mr. Lloyd George to the effect that hostilities must cease if negotiations looking to peace were to succeed.

General Sir Nevil MacReady, British military commander in Ireland, appeared at the DeValera conference, and it was not many hours later that the announcement was made at the prime minister's official residence in London, that in accordance with the premier's offer and Mr. DeValera's reply arrangements were going forward for the cessation of ohstilities, from Monday noon.

King Leading Figure

The King of England has been a leading figure in the developments up to the present, while General Smuts, the South African premier, has acted as the pivot on which the peace movement has turned. There is hope in London, and in Dublin too, that peace must come out of the forces which are now engaged in seeking a settlement.

Events moved swiftly today both in London and Dublin. Not only has Mr. DeValera, contrary to the general expectation, consented to come to London to discuss with Mr. Lloyd George the basis on which settlement of the Irish question might be reached by the prime minister's proposed London conference, but a truce has been arranged to begin at noon Monday.

This has given reasonable assurance that the original conference, to which the prime minister invited the Irish Republican leader and Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, will be held.

King Meets Premier

The day started hopefully with the King summoning the Ulster premier to a conference at Buckingham palace. This following upon the king's conference yesterday with general Jan Christian Smuts, the South African premier is an indication of the interest the king is taking in the Irish problem, and although under the tradition of the British constitution, the king has no real voice in the direction of government affairs that does not prevent his exercising great influence in the policy of the country.

General Smuts is going to Chequers court to spend the week end together with the other premiers of the overseas dominions with Mr. Lloyd George. General Smuts evidently is the influence in the negotiations, perhaps something more than mere influence, for, lacking his active aid, it is hardly conceivable that events could have progressed as rapidly as they did today, and the fact that the prime minister has not stood upon the dignity of his office but seemingly is willing to discuss with Mr. DeValera the basis for a general conference is considered full of hopefulness.

The principal events of this important day, however, occurred not in London but in Dublin, and the most striking was the sensational appearance of General Sir Nevil MacReady, the military commander in Ireland at the conference of Eamonn DeValera an dleading southern unionists, after his aide de camp had been sent in advance, presumably to ascertain whether and leading southern unionists, after able

General MacReady Intervenes.

General MacReady's appearance and long stay at the conference clearly had to do with Mr. Lloyd George's letter to Earl Middleton, one of the conferees in which the prime minister declared that it would be impossible to conduct negotiations with any hope of achieving satisfactory results if violence in Ireland continued and also that the British government would give instructions to the troops and police to suspend active operations the moment Mr. De Valera declared his intention to enter into conference with the British government and to order the cessation of all acts of violence by those under his control.

General MacReady's presence at the conference has additional significance because it has been stated that the "militarist party" in Ireland has been strongly opposing peace negotiations and any idea of a truce.

Issue No Report.

No report of the proceedings of Mr. De Valera's conference with the Southern Unionists has yet been issued, but it is believed that the principal topic discussed was a truce and that Eamonn Duggan, a Sinn Fein member of parliament, who was released from Mount Joy prison only a few days ago, acted as intermediary between the conference and the Sinn Fein leaders.

Opinion still inclines to the idea that General Smuts, owing to the important part he has taken in the preliminary negotiations, will be the first chairman of the London conference, even if Mr. Lloyd George presides during the later stages, as he would be almost inevitable if constitutional questions were under discussion.

GOVERNMENT'S CROP FORECAST SHOWS WHEAT PRODUCTION LESS

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Forecasts of the country's principal farm crops made today by the department of agriculture from their July 1 condition indicate there will be no record breaking production in any crop, with the possible exception of corn. Conditions during June caused a reduction in the production forecasts of every crop as compared with last month's estimates.

There will be a bumper crop of corn but other crops are well below last year's production and in some instances below the average production of the five-year period to 1920. Tobacco production will be one-third less than last year and one quarter less than the five-year average. The potato crop will be smaller by fifty-three million bushels than a year ago; rice production will be only a little more than half as large as last year and apple production will be less than half of last year's crop.

The wheat crop showed a decline of twenty-one million bushels during June, winter wheat showing a reduction of five million bushels and spring wheat, sixteen million bushels. Kansas winter wheat showed improvement during the month as did that of Nebraska and Oklahoma, but in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Missouri, the forecasts showed a reduction. Every one of the important spring wheat states showed a reduction as compared with a month ago.

Corn this year was in better condition than it has been on July 1 in a score or more years, it being 6.5 per cent higher than it was a year ago and 7.4 per cent higher than the ten year average. With favorable weather, officials believe the crop may surpass last year's record breaking crop. The acreage of corn this year is 4.1 per cent larger than last year. All important producing states excepting Ohio, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas, showed larger acreages this year than last. The latter states show only slightly smaller acreages than a year ago. Larger crops of corn than last year are forecast for Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota and South Dakota.

There was an increase in the corn acreage in every southern states.

Rice shows the heaviest reduction in acreage compared with a year ago, it being 35.4 per cent, while the tobacco acreage reduction is 29.4 per cent, cotton 28.4 per cent and flax 30.4 per cent.

Winter Wheat.

A crop of 578,000,000 bushels was forecast from the June 1 condition, which was 77.9 per cent of a normal, while 629,237,000 bushels was fore-

NEFF OPPOSES TAX INCREASE, HE DECLARES

Governor Tells Georgetown Audience He Believes in Economy Rather Than More Revenue.

Asserts That State Will Face Deficit of Five Million Dollars to Meet Recent Appropriations.

By Associated Press.

GEORGETOWN, Texas, July 8.—Governor Neff in an address here today said flatly that he was opposed to raising the tax rate of Texas in order to increase the revenues of Texas to meet the increased expenses of running the state department and institution and meeting the appropriations of the legislature.

"Not one dime of additional tax should be placed against land or any of our tax burdened industries that are now producing the wealth of the country," the governor said. "I am not advocating a policy of retrogression, but of conservation. It is time for economy to have its days in court. Farmers, stockmen, merchants, bankers and our people all alike are hanging on the ragged edge of the financial world."

The governor explained the financial condition of the state and pointed out that he vetoed approximately six million dollars appropriated by the legislature and "for this act of economy I was denounced from the platform and through the press." He referred to his veto of the West Texas A. and M. bill, the four million dollar rural aid bill and several others which he refused to approve.

He pointed out further that if the tax rate of Texas was raised to its constitutional limit of thirty-five cents the state would still lack approximately five million dollars of meeting the appropriations of the Thirty-seventh legislature, those which were made by the regular session and those that have to be made at the special session. The tax rate is now 22 cents on the hundred dollars. He said that the regular session appropriated enough money for various purposes to raise the tax rate to 52 cents, although the regular appropriations bills were yet unprovided for. Pointing out further that if these appropriations were added to the sum which the board of control says it will take to run the state for the next year, he said that in order to meet the actual expenses of the state departments and institutions it would be necessary to raise the tax rate to $1.04 on the hundred dollars, which is, of course, prohibited.

DENY LOWER RATES

By Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., July 8.—The Missouri public service commission today decided to join Kansas in its petition filed yesterday with the interstate commerce commission for lower grain rates in the west.

EARNINGS ON KATY RAISED CONSIDERABLY

The theory that increased freight rates are responsible for decreased traffic is disputed in a statement from the general office of the M. K. and T. lines, which says that freight earnings on these lines for the first five months of 1921 were $335,868 greater than they were in the first five months of 1920.

The decrease in total operating revenues was entirely due, the statement says, to falling off in the passenger, mail and express earnings. Freight revenue per train mile increased nearly 22 per cent, while passenger train revenue decreased approximately 18 per cent.

Operating expenses of the M. K. and T. lines for the first five months of 1921, ending May 1, were $5,875,026 less than for the corresponding months of 1920, says this statement. Of the reduction in expenses $2,600,984 was in the cost of conducting transportation, which the road figures to be an outright saving. The other major savings were given as for maintenance of way and equipment.

The M. K. and T. ratio of operating expenses to revenue for the first five months of 1921 was 84.04 per cent as against an operating revenue of 80.06 per cent for the same months of 1920, it continues. This showing indicates increased efficiency in operation in view of the fact that it was made in the face of a decrease of more than two million dollars in operating revenues and of increased wage rates, is another statement.

Within 0.9 per cent of the number of cars loaded at local stations during the first five months of 1920 were loaded during the same period of 1921, the statement shows, indicating that the rate increases have not adversely affected the movement of traffic out of the M. K. and T. territory.

The wheat loading on the M. K. and T. lines during June of this year, the reports say, was twice as much as during the period of 1920.

WHITES COMPLAIN ABOUT NEGROES ON WICHITA TROLLEYS

A warm protest against the handling, or lack of handling by the traction company of the crowd of negroes attending a Friday night negro vaudeville show by the local traction company, was given the Record News Friday night by R. M. Ewalt, manager of a local theater.

The negroes were allowed to crowd the regular street cars, to the exclusion of the regular amount of white passengers, Mr. Ewalt declared in a signed statement. The statement follows:

"After noticing conditions at the close of the negro vaudeville performance at the Wichita Theater Friday night, I would make the suggestion that the street car company put on a negro special, if the negroes can not be handled better than was the case Friday.

"The negroes poured out of the theater at the close and crowded the cars far up into the white sections and refused to give their seats to white people. I do not believe the citizens of Wichita Falls should be called upon to tolerate such conditions. R. M. EWALT."

KLAN BEING FORMED HERE, LETTER SAYS

There is a Ku Klux Klan in process of organization in Wichita Falls, it is rumored about the business district of the city, although those who declare themselves to have "wind" of this fact are disinclined to believe that the letters received by local newspapers Friday morning, threatening action against "rent profiteers" within the next ten days, and signed with the initials of the Klan, were really put out by that organization.

The letter received by the Record News Friday morning follows:

"In order that a few blood suckers that have no other interest in life than to get every dollar they can by sapping the business men of this town by enforcing high rent contracts, and by so doing forcing them into bankruptcy This notice is to give them a chance and only one chance Because of this condition, an order of the Klu Klux Klan has been organized and will start a crusade against these conditions in ten days, during our investigation we have found twenty-three rent hogs of the worst kind, a few of these nead hanging and not the usual punishment that is netted out by this great order.

"This is all the notice they will get.

(Signed) "K. K. K."

"GREAT THIEF" SERMON SUBJECT

"The Greatest Thief In All History" is announced as the subject for the Sunday night service of the First Methodist Church at the big fresh air tabernacle at Eleventh and Scott streets. Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker, pastor of the church, declared Friday that it seemed that the "Al Fresco" tabernacle had become a community center during the recent revival, when thousands flocked to it to hear the Rev. Burke Culpepper, and asserted that it will be used continually by the First Methodist church during the summer months for night services.

"A Converted Cyclone" is announced as the subject on which Dr. Knickerbocker will speak before his men's Bible class Sunday morning at the church. At 11 o'clock he is to speak on the subject "The Lord's Servant Problem, a Study in Applied Christianity."

Dr. Knickerbocker announced that during the summer months his sermons all will be limited to thirty minutes. A barrel of ice water, it is announced, will be kept near the tabernacle during the summer months, to provide for the comfort of any who may become thirsty.

TITTLE DECLARES EMPLOYMENT BEST

"Active employment at some worth while employment is declared by the Rev. W. L. Tittle, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church to be the most effective weapon for fighting heat.

In announcing his program for Sunday, Rev. Tittle declared that the new Floral Heights church is furnished with fans, drinking fountains and shower baths and is constantly fanned by breezes which sweep completely through the building.

Special music and two special sermons are announced on the Sunday program. Two anthems are to be sung by the choir and a solo by Mrs. E. L. Howard at the morning service and congregational hymns are to be featured at the evening service.

"Christ and His Church" is announced for the morning text and "Getting the Spirit of Christ Into the Heart of the World" for the evening text. A thirty minute prayer service is to be held just before the evening service.

FORMER WICHITA FALLS BUSINESS MAN VISITOR

R. C. Napier of San Antonio, for a number of years local manager for the Mayfield Lumber Co., and Mrs. Napier are visiting relatives of Mrs. Napier here. Mrs. Napier was formerly Miss Lizzie Claseby, and is one of the younger pioneers of Wichita Falls.

While here Mr. Napier visited with Former Mayor J. B. Marlow with whom he worked in a building campaign which resulted in the construction of nearly 40 houses in the addition which sprang up beyond the court house when "Horseshoe Lake" was drained to make way for the growth of the city.

COURT ADJOURNS UNTIL MONDAY

The grand jury of the 30th District court, which has been in session for over two weeks practically completed its work late Friday evening and adjourned until Monday morning. It will make a final report to Judge H. F. Weldon at that time. No indictments were announced Friday.

ROADS LOWER FREIGHT RATE RAIL MEN SAY

"Concrete road, on which automobile and truck traffic is operated between Wichita Falls and Fort Worth and Seymour, have lowered the freight and passenger business of this city at least 25 per cent," officials of the Fort Worth and Denver Railway company told the city board of equalization Friday.

This assertion was made by officials in connection with a "kick" before the board concerning valuations set by the local board.

The valuation on the Fort Worth and Denver was lowered slightly. The valuation set on the M., K. and T. buildings on which a protest was made, was not lowered, members of the board said.

The number of protests were not large, according to the opinion of members of the board, as compared with the number of valuations raised during their recent session.

TEXAS MAY INTERVENE IN SUIT

Texas will probably intervene in the hearing on the application for a reduction of grain, grain products and hay, recently filed with the interstate commerce commission by Kansas shippers, according to belief expressed Friday by local shippers, following inquiries as to this course received from the Texas railroad commission.

The interstate commerce commission will probably be requested to send an examiner into Texas in connection with this matter—local shippers generally believing this to be the desire of the shippers of the state as a whole, even though it may delay final decision.

KEMP IMPROVES IN HEALTH, REPORT

J. A. Kemp is greatly improved in health and general condition as the result of a quite extensive stay in Battle Creek Michigan, according to advices received here Friday.

Mr. Kemp went to Battle Creek following an indisposition as the result of ardous trips over the proposed irrigation district with engineers during the bad weather prevailing several weeks, ago, taking the trips against the advice of physicians on account of a slight illness at that time.

WHY 9 OF DIAMONDS BEARS THAT NAME

You will occasionally, while playing a game of cards, hear the nine of diamonds referred to as the "Curse of Scotland." Why?

Probably the most satisfactory explanation of how so dire a term came to be applied to the offending card is that connected with the massacre of Glencoe. The order for this slaughter was signed by John Dalrymple, earl of Stair, the man who was instrumental in bringing about the union between England and Scotland.

The coat of arms of the Dalrymples bore nine lozenges or diamonds, and many students of heraldry declare this to have been the origin of the expression. It is certain that the phrase goes back to 1745, because in October of that year a caricature appeared, showing the young chevalier attempting to lead a herd of bulls across the river Tweed, with the nine of diamonds lying before them.

Another ingenious explanation is connected with the theft of Queen Mary's crown, which contained nine diamonds. To replace these, a heavy tax, referred to as the "curse of the nine diamonds," was levied upon the Scots.

DENVER ROAD REPORTS GOOD TRAIN TRAFFIC

With eight full freight trains, averaging 40 cars each, moving out of Wichita Falls to the south and five trains leaving the local yards for the north, the Fort Worth and Denver railroad Friday reported a spurt of business, unequalled in recent months and one which it is hoped will not be a "flash in the pan."

Most of the freight being merchandise, the shipments indicate that the increase does not mean one of seasonal duration. Part of the remainder of the cars were grain and the rest oil, the report said.

Such a gratifying increase in the tonnage moved out of Wichita Falls is taken by railroad officials of the Denver to mean that a change has come for the better and that the increased business will be permanent.

Wheat movement continues heavy on all of the local railroad lines, but there is no danger of the railroads being swamped and unable to supply necessary cars, as was first thought probable.

The cars are moving more easily and the surplus is being added to in such a fashion as to keep the supply rather large. At the present time the Denver has 400 cars in the North yards, which a good part can be used for wheat. The other roads are correspondingly well supplied, it is reported.

SUSPENDERS BACK IN STYLE AGAIN

Once more the cycle of change decrees the revival of a good old standby of man's throughout the ages. Indications point to the speedy reappearance of that tried and true—and stretched—article, the suspender, which we also know as galluses and which our ancestors were familiar with as the galows.

But it is not generally known that this important article is as old as the history of mankind. It is first encountered at the very dawn of history, which means the beginning of the dynastic kingdoms of Egypt, over 5000 years ago. King Nar-Mer is conclusively proved to have been partial to the suspender by his delineation on a slate palette, discovered in the ruins of Hierakonopolis in 1893.

Perhaps because it was the fashion to wear the suspender on the outside, to be seen by all the world, that made the article rather unpopular with the Greek and Roman nifty dressers, for we do not find much evidence of it in their costumes. But as the centuries rolled on the use of the suspenders steadily increased until the middle of the nineteenth century saw them snuggling on the shoulders of practically all male humanity in the socalled civilized countries.

The college boy and his belt are said to be the factors which threw galluses into a partial eclipse several years ago. But now there are unmistakable signs this season that would indicate the 1921 man's hankering to return to the good old galluses in regulating the hang of his nether garments. Haberdashers declare they are selling a constantly increasing number, in many cases double, where they only sold a few at the same time last year.

The theft of an eight day clock from his automobile, reported by J. J. Simonds, 1719 Tenth street, was the only burglary report received Friday by police, according to Detective Chief Boyd.

PETROLEUM OR SOME PHASES OF THE GREATEST GAME IN THE WORLD

Mexico is a reservoir of oil. Hundreds of millions of barrels have been exported in recent years. Americans control to a large extent the production and exportation of Mexican crude. Likewise these Americans are identified with the gigantic combinations and aggregations of men and money who dominate the petroleum industry of the United States. There has been a heavy slump in Texas production, in Oklahoma production, in Louisiana production. There is a reason for it. There was a sweeping cut in the price of crude. It was hammered from $3.50 to $1.00 Small refineries were caught. Independent Pipe lines were caught. Thousands of investors were caught. Many had been fed on golden promises that never materialized. Petroleum is the greatest game in the world. All the mighty nations of the earth are playing the game. There is a demand for a tariff on oil importations. All the independent producers favor a tariff. They are fighting against tremendous odds. They are fighting against billions of money; supermen who are captains of industry; senators and congressmen who have harkened to the voice of the powerful and newspapers of the north and the east which are supposed to speak semi-officially for those who are close to the throne of midas. Hundreds of New England factory owners are opposed to a tariff on oil importations. Railway managers are fighting a tariff on oil importations. Capitalists who were let in on the Mexican ground floor are opposed to a tariff on oil importations. All the publicity agents and propagandists who are richly paid and handsomely rewarded are doing yeomen's service in this battle to keep Mexican crude and other foreign oils on the free list. If protection is a good thing as republican leaders have said for sixty years and republican platform makers have ever declared, then why shouldn't the oil producers of America, those who have invested their all in the petroleum game, be given the same protection that the manufacturers of America are promised and that other interests expect? Why shouldn't the railway managers of America buy fuel oil produced in America? Why shouldn't the factory owners of America buy the product of their own country? Why shouldn't capitalists who have invested in Mexico be given a free market by the lawmakers of a nation who insist that American industries and American labor shall be protected from competition of foreign countries where pauper labor and other conditions makes it possible for the raw materials and the finished products to be produced at half the cost entailed here at home? President Obregon partially solved the problem by ordering a 25 per cent increase in export taxes. There was a roar of indignation on the part of American producers and exporters of Mexican crude. They protested to Obregon. They protested to Secretary Hughes. They protested to congress. Then as a drastic step they dismissed from 10,000 to 25,000 employes and suspended operations in the Tampico district. England interests are paying the export tax. English interests have accepted the laws of Mexico. English interests are keeping their tankers busy crossing and re-crossing the Atlantic. If Mexican crude menaces the independent petroleum industry in this county; if Mexican crude on the free list threatens the building of a vast monopoly in this country, what are the American people going to do about it? What are the lawmakers of America going to do about it? Almost to a man the kings of the American oil industry are republicans. Almost to a man they denounced the free trade policy of the Wilson administration. Almost to a man they supported Warren G. Harding for the presidency and accepted the platform adopted in the city of Chicago. Now why should they switch to a free-trade policy?—admission of Mexican crude and all other crudes from foreign countries duty free? Petroleum is a game in its infancy. In the years to come the nation or the nations that control the petroleum supply will control the commerce of the world and the shipping of the seven seas of the world. Those who are playing the game, those all powerful ones who are pulling the political as well as the financial strings in America, know that production on a greater scale than ever before must come in the near future; thew know that the price of crude must go back to where it was two years ago when the markets of the world are fairly active and the demand of the world will be greater than it was even in war time. They know that new fields must be brought into play; that the day is coming when the consumption will be as great as the production and fancy prices paid for the crude, as well as the refined output of that mineral that may some day be more prized than the gold of the miser which Mammon has made the most highly prized of all metals.

Rippling Rhymes

FATIGUE.

When worn from toiling in the sun, from baling hay and cutting ice, the rest that comes when day is done, is surely, surely worth the price. I labored hard and long this week, I sprung new curves in honest toil; the neighbors heard my hinges creak as though they needed castor oil. The neighbors saw me hoe my beans, and cultivate the growing spuds, as they rolled by in limousines, all dolled up in their costly duds. The neighbors rode along the shore and up and down the asphalt pave, and found all mortal things a bore, as dour and dismal as the grave. And when the evening came at last it bored them so they had to weep; they went to bed and lay aghast, and cussed because they couldn't sleep. And I, fatigued by honest toil, found peace and comfort in repose; I'd left my trademark on the soil, out where the pallid pumpkin grows. Oh, I had done the best I could to show a line of sterling worth; I felt I had achieved some good to vindicate my stay on earth. And that's a feeling most sublime for any man to entertain, to know he has not wasted time, or let a day get by in vain. And so a spirit calm was mine, when to my couch night saw me creep; there I indulged in fifty-nine varieties of balmy sleep.—Copyright by George Matthew Adams.

STATISTICS.

Ninety per cent of the people want to go to the South Sea Islands. The modern books written about them are the cause.

These are the days when a bachelor with a motor car has the feminine world at his command.

Scenarios for the "movies" are so easily written that 40 per cent of the population are doing it. Only 2 per cent of those written ever are flashed on the screen.

The bureau wishes to state that it has found that artists are just as moral as other human beings.

There was a time in our clubs when you could push a bell and ask your friends what they would have. When you signed the check it amounted to 80 cents. After four members had spent about five dollars they felt that they were of the mental caliber to organize a league of nations, take entire command of an army or reorganize the entire social system. Those who were poor became rich and those who were miserly became generous. The easiest thing to find was a subject of conversation and the atmosphere was so friendly and warm!

The only bell you hear in a club today is the bell in the steeple of the church not far away. You feel as though some poor chap was being taken to his last resting place.

To become animated during a conversation makes your fellow members suspect that you carry a flask. At all events, it is easier to get up in the morning. Breakfast with bright eyes is the new slogan.

AN UNKNOWN SON.

Dear Roy: Recently I was trying to get a copy of a biblical study book, entitled, "Paul of Tarsus." I was directed to a certain counter where religious books and articles were sold. The young lady in attendance was showing a customer some prayer books, but in adjusting one of her curls she happened to look my way, so I asked her if they had a copy of "Paul of Tarsus."

"Sure," she replied, pushing in a hairpin, "but I didn't know that was his name." And going over to the faction table she handed be a copy of Burrough's "The Son of Tarzan."—A. Alexander Thomas.

PROF. STEINBRUGGE SAYS:

Scientists and professors do not always agree about the theory of heredity. Some claim that characteristics and qualities are the direct result of environment; others that we inherit our traits, moral or otherwise, from our progenitors.

The young man who inherits $200,000 often goes to the devil because he is a victim of both theories. The money inherited and the environment is created by the "janes" he meets in life who help him spend it.

Breakfast Stories

While a prominent Philadelphia salesman was in Pittsburg on business he received the following telegram from his wife: "Come home as soon as you can. I am dying."

Of course, the salesman rushed home, but to be greeted at the front door by his wife with a face radiant with joy.

"Why, I thought you were dying?" he said.

She shook her head in reply.

"Well, why did you send me such a telegram, then?"

"It was that crazy old operator," she said. "I wanted to say: 'Come home as soon as you can. I am dying to see you,' but he would only let me send ten words for a quarter."

An ignorant chicken, unversed in the appetites of American darkies, crossed the road in front of a colored detachment. A soldier broke from the ranks and started off in pursuit.

"Halt!" bellowed the officer in charge.

Both fowl and negro only quickened their pace.

"Halt! Halt!" repeated the officer. The dusky soldier made one plunge, seized the chicken by the neck and stuffed it, still struggling, inside his shirt.

"Dere!" he panted. "Ah'll learn you to halt when de captain says halt, you disobedient bird."

RAIL WORKERS INSTRUCTED TO CONTINUE LABOR

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Warning to the members of the shop crafts unions on all railroads "so to conduct themselves that you will not become involved in a stoppage of work," was sent out in a circular letter from the railway employes department of the American Federation of Labor today. The letter pointed out that the shop crafts composed only 22 per cent of the two million railroad employes and that no action on the wage cut which went into effect July 1, should be taken without authority of the railway employes department, "pending the time when the standard recognized railroad labor organizations can arrive at the point of handling this question where concerted action by all may be taken."

"Constitutional majority" for the rejection of the wage cut was announced in the circular, which declared it was "apparent that the railroads desire to take from us particularly important rules which money cannot compensate us for and which we have been fighting for many years."

Who's Who

HERBERT C. PELL.

Herbert C. Pell of New York City, the new democratic state chairman of New York, enjoys the unique distinction of being the first democratic state chairman whose name appears in the Social register. He is independently wealthy and will devote all of his time to the position. The assumption is he may also devote a good part of his money to it.

H. C. PELL

Counted an experienced politician and a good mixer, Pell made an unprecedented run for congress in 1918 when he defeated Frederic C. Tanner, ex-republican state chairman, in the Seventh congressional district, Manhattan, which includes the Fifth avenue millionaires and the hotel and theater district. Pell was defeated for re-election last year by Ogden L. Mills.

Born in 1884, Pell is married and has one son. He is also a member of the exclusive Union club.

One of the most active democrats while in congress, Pell was the only representative from New York who voted against the soldiers' bonus bill. He opposed it on the ground it would add a $500,000,000 tax burden to New York state.

THAT RENT QUESTION

Much has been said in recent months in the local press, clubs and conferences anent the usurious rents that prevail in Wichita Falls. Thus far there has been no suggestion that there is a landlord's trust or combination, and if there had been, we have no inclination to make any defense of the landlord, since we are not numbered among that privileged class.

But it does appear to us that the real cause and remedy in the high rent problem has been overlooked.

The fact that high rents can be maintained bespeaks business in the town. There is no power that can hold rents to unreasonable heights in a dead town, however avaricious the landlords may be. This brings us to the very elementary question in economics of supply and demand.

The reason that a five room cottage commands $100 rental, the supply is short of the demand for such houses as that is an abnormal rental based either on the amount invested in the house or the income of the average man that occupies that class home.

What is said here concerning residence property will apply to business property and office buildings. The fact is Wichita did not over-build as was the apprehensions of some during the building period. Just as long as the supply is short of the demand just that long will there be no altruistic landlords, nor will there be any considerable discounts in rental prices.

Therefore, we must conclude that a building campaign is necessary to relieve the situation. Build more homes and thus reduce the premium on vacant houses by making it more easier to obtain one. This, too, would put some degree of competition among landlords. Then and until then we will have reasonable and normal rents.

COULD NOT KEEP HOUSE

Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Says Mrs. Pitts of Newburgh

Newburgh, N. Y.—"My trouble was a weak back and I could not walk two blocks without being tired out. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in a newspaper and decided to give it a trial. Now I can do my own work and walk with ease. I always keep the Vegetable Compound in the house. It certainly is my best friend and I could not keep house without it. I have recommended it to many and always shall. You may use this letter if you wish."—Mrs. EDWARD PITTS, 2 High St., Newburgh, N. Y.

It has been said that "backache is an invention of the Evil One to try women's souls," but even so, it is more often a symptom of a female trouble which sooner or later declares itself. Day after day it drags a woman down and night after night prevents restful sleep. Such woman should follow Mrs. Pitt's advice and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It contains no narcotic or harmful drugs.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

CHERRY TAKES CHARGE

It did not take Cherry long to discover that her predecessor had been a woman of rigid views, as far as taste and decoration were concerned. The sunny corner of the shop, which was given over to the millinery department, had always caused her heart to sink in the past whenever she came to Hamlen's to shop. It was evidently just a place to sell hats—to women who needed hats! And to Cherry's way of thinking, this theory was all wrong.

A millinery department or shop should fairly call to every woman or man passing by its windows, by its daintiness and beauty. She had proven that this could be accomplished with very little expense attached, long ago. Cherry's show windows had at one time been the talk of the town.

Quickly she let her eyes discover all the weak places in the little room, then she set about to make the place beautiful. A touch here, a change there, and before an hour had gone by she had done wonders with the place. Her vase of autumn flowers she set at the entrance, as sentinels and challengers to the world without to enter and see what was within.

Opening a large wardrobe door, she discovered that the former head of the millinery department had been used to making her hats, then hanging them in rows, on pegs, within this wardrobe. This was little short of a crime to the very up-to-date Mrs. Randall. Fancy, hiding hats! Still, those hats! Well, hers were going to be charmingly, coquettishly displayed. Not only in the two large windows, but also around the shop itself. She would order tall, graceful stands to hold them on, painted delicate greens and violets — the better to offset her wares.

Filled with her great idea, she called to Mr. Hamlen, Sr., and that gentleman was properly edified at her suggestion. "Sounds mighty fine," he said cordially.

Cherry also urged him to consider gay tapestried chairs and a chic chaise-lounge for the room. Women were always atracted by pleasing surroundings. They were ten times as apt to buy two hats instead of one if they were buying in a place that pleased their eyes and made a good background for them. That was the psychology of women upon shopping bent.

In the midst of her planning, Arthur Jr. strolled up, beaming a welcome on Cherry as he came.

"Morning, Mrs. Randall. It certainly looks as if things were going to move around here! Why, even the girls have taken their cue from you and are beginning to fuss about their counters now. We won't know the old stand when you get through with us, I know."

Cherry was delighted at his words of praise, and explained at length her plans for transforming the millinery department into a thing of beauty.

"Hist! Here comes Miss Lutie Ferry," said he, suddenly. "She's primed for gossip, too. I can see it behind her left goggle."

Miss Lutie peered into where Cherry was standing in a curious way. Then, emboldened by that young person's smile, she entered.

"This news was certainly a surprise to us all, Mrs. Randall," she began. "I do hope you are really happy about going to work here? You see, Wellsburg ain't used to having a new bride set up in business, and we're kind of wondering 'bout it all."

"I suppose it is somewhat unheard of," answered Cherry, sweetly. "But just wait till the ladies here see my hats. They'll forget everything except their delight in having them, I know, Miss Lutie. And I've got the very dearest one all planned for that pretty brown head of yours, too."

Miss Lutie bridled with pride at the compliment. No one had ever said such a thing to her before. In fact in the past she had looked upon hat buying as a duty to be gotten through somehow, like all other duties. The hat didn't particularly matter. It simply covered one's head.

"That's mighty kind of you, I'm sure, Mrs. Randall. And I'll be glad to wear a hat that looks like something after all these years." Here she frowned at her dull purple turban discontentedly.

In the end Miss Lutie left the place firmly convinced that a miracle was about to happen in the town's very midst.

And at 12 sharp, Cherry was at the appointed place to meet her husband, who, all smiles, came bounding up to meet her.

"Hungry as a bear," was Cherry's remark as she squeezed his arm gleefully.

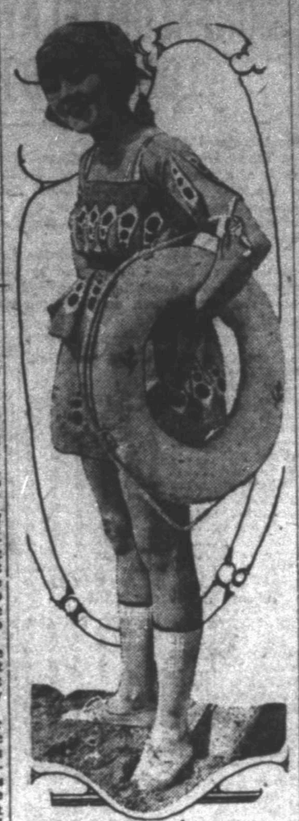

MOTHHER WAS WORRIED ABOUT CONDITION OF SON'S HEALTH

"I certainly am grateful for what Tanlac did for my son; it was just what he needed," said Mrs. A. Rainey, 1302 Charles street, Houston, Texas. "Herbert needed something to build him up, for he had been in a run-down condition and suffered with his kidneys for a long time. He complained a great deal of pains in his back and slept so little he would get up in the morning feeling miserable. It worried me a great deal to see him drooping and losing ground every day.

"I never saw such a change in anybody as one bottle of Tanlac has made in him. He seemed to get new life and energy with every dose. A good ruddy color has come into his cheeks, and he sleeps well at night and feels fresh and bright every morning. He doesn't complain any more of his kidneys bothering him or of that old pain in his back. I can see that he has been benefited in every way and I am just so grateful that I can hardly express myself. I feel it would be a positive wrong if I did not let parents, especially mothers, know about this grand medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Wichita Falls by Miller Drug Store; in Electra by Tarlton Drug Store; in Burkburnett by West End Drug Store, and by all leading druggists.—Adv.

MOVIELAND

Marie Prefost.

Who said movie bathing girls could not swim? Here's one who can, or at least she was a bathing girl once upon a time. The story comes from a very authentic source and tells all about the heroism of the well known Marie Provost. I am not sure whether this is the costume she wore when she did the deed, but I am sure that a life saver was not used. Marie is just carrying that for "atmosphere."

It was none other than King Baggot whom Miss Marie saved from drowning recently. It all happened in a tank on a well known estate in Pasadena. It seems that Baggot's assistant fell into the tank, striking his head on the bottom. Baggot dived in to get the man out and he, too, struck his head and was rendered unconscious. Miss Prevost swam to her director's aid and managed to get him to the side of the tank, where he was pulled out by the cameramen and others.

Wail from male vacationers: "Oh, if only all the life guards were Marie Prevosts!"

SHIRLEY, THE UMP.

Shirley Mason, whose latest picture, "Lovetime," is shortly to be released by Fox, recently umpired a ball game in Los Angeles between the Oakland and Vernon clubs. Nobody hollered, "Kill the umpire!"

THREE ADDED TO NEILAN CAST.

Harriet Hammond of Mack Sennett bathing beauty fame is continuing her serious drama career with an engagement in "Bits of Life," Marshall Neilan's current special. John Bowers and Noah Beery are two other late recruits to the cats of this episode feature.

Mack Sennett is giving as many recruits to the serious film dramas as Flo Ziegfeld gives to the screen.

GOSSIPY BITS.

Extra! Mary Pickford lost a tooth while filming "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

"Vanity Fair," Chaplin's next, is a travesty on the weaknesses of the newly-rich.

Gloria Swanson's next vehicle will be a film adaptation of "Beyond the Rocks," by Elmer Glyn.

Charlie Chaplin has been getting threatening letters of late demanding $30,000 under pain of death to himself or one of his intimate friends. Charlie refuses to give any details, leaving that side of the matter to his press agent.

Dustin Farnum is now with Fox.

With the Women of Today

Miss M. Carey Thomas, president of Bryn Mawr.

Bryn Mawr college has gone on record as the first college in the country to share its equipment during its usually idle months with women workers in industry. This summer school for women workers, the opening of which has just been announced by Miss M. Carey Thomas, president of the college, is the result of the combined plans of Bryn Mawr and the great labor groups of women throughout the country.

The plan will make possible to ambitious, capable workers the educational opportunities they have had to forego in their struggle for a livelihood. In the regular courses at Bryn Mawr a student must have been done away with in order that more women may take the courses offered. Bryn Mawr alumnae are among the tutors and assistants in the school and will help in the organization of outdoor sports which are always so important a feature of college life.

The subjects offered include English, written and spoken; public speaking, literature, history, economics, government, elementary, law, physiology and hygiene, community life, general psychology, appreciation of art, industrial organization and labor movements and problems. The summer school is not committed to any dogma or theory, but conducts its work in the broad spirit of impartial inquiry. Students are admitted irrespective of any affiliation with an organized labor group.

Scholarships of $20 each are being raised by trade unions, working girls' clubs and private individuals interested in the educational experiment.

WOMEN'S CLUBS WANT FEDERAL ROAD BODY

That the highway question is too important in its bearing on American life to be left in the hands of a bureaucratic management, and that congress should create a federal highway commission to administer this essential activity, is the opinion expressed by Mrs. John Dickinson Sherman of Chicago, chairman of the department of applied education, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, and Mrs. W. L. Arnold, chairman of the committee on roads, in general charge of the highway work of the organization.

"After a full discussion at our biennial council meeting in Salt Lake City this month the delegates present, representing some 2,000,000 American women, strongly indorsed these principles as contained in the measure introduced by Senator Townsend," declares Mrs. Sherman, "and those of us in charge of highway matters were instructed to do all we could to secure passage of this measure.

"It is not necessary for us to point out the real intrtest of American women in highway matters. The influence of real highways on country life, on economics, on education, is now generally understood. What is needed now is a national highway policy which will conserve government funds and through concentration of federal money on main highways will give us a connected system at the earliest moment and the least expense. To do this the federal viewpoint must prevail and the best expression of that is found in a highway commission."

A DAY'S RECIPES

Rolled Skirt Steak—One cup of stale bread crumbs, one small onion chopped, one tablespoon chopped parsley, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon sage or thyme, one-quarter teaspoon summer savory, one egg, hot water to moisten, four tablespoons dripping.

Wipe skirt steak with a damp cloth, sprinkle lightly with salt and pepper. Mix crumbs with onion, seasonings and beaten egg. Add enough boiling water to moisten the dressing. Mix thoroughly and spread on the steak.

Roll steak up and fasten securely with string and dredge with flour. Melt fat in a roasting pan, brown meat quickly all over and roast in a moderately hot oven about forty-five minutes. Serve with brown gravy from fat in the pan.

Raspberry Delight—Line a mold with lady's fingers (macaroons may be used instead) and cover the bottom with a layer of fresh raspberries. Soak two tablespoons of gelatin with one-fourth cup of cold water; heat cup of raspberry juice to the boiling point, then add softened gelatin and one-third cup of sugar.

Stir until dissolved. Strain, cool, and when cold and slightly thickened stir in one quart of stiffly whipped cream. Pour into the mold and place on ice until serving time.

DELICIOUS PICNIC SANDWICHES

Whipped Cream Sandwiches—Spread very thin slices of white bread with butter. Just before serving spread with whipped cream, sweetened, mixed with chopped nuts and chopped candied cherries. Cut sandwiches crosswise, forming triangles, and press a piece of red cherry on top of each. Very delicious.

Combination Sandwiches — Cut bread very thin, leaving edges on one side together, like a book. Spread with butter and layer of thin cream cheese. Cover with ice cold sliced bananas and spread with mayonnaise.

Picnic Sandwiches—Grind slices of baked cottage ham in meat grinder. Mix with stuffed olives (chopped). Serve with crisp lettuce leaf and mayonnaise between slices of whole wheat bread.

WALKING A .400 HITTER TO GET AT .250 SWATSMITH IS UNDOING OF RABBIT DARROUGH

By C. F. CARTER
Record News Sporting Editor

SHREVEPORT, July 8.—A scratch single by Hollahan in the ninth with two men out licked the Spudders today, Shreveport taking the better end of a 4 to 3 score, and Will Gray is most decidedly dissatisfied with them three results.

Will, when we saw him last, was still arguing with the whole gosh-durn team to the effect that whenever you intentionally walk a .400 slugger to get a crack at a right field hitter with a batting average of .250, the latter tramp usually comes through in a pinch with the hit that busts up your old ball game.

That's what the Spudders did today, walked Hack Eibel to get at Hollahan, did it three times during the course of the fretful game, in fact, got away with it successfully twice, and got licked the third time.

Out-Argue Will

Will was out-argued by the entire team, and we even tried to lead him gently from the error of his ways, but gosh-durn it, J. Will Gray, secretary of the Wichita Falls base ball association, had his heart set on the Spudders ending the split season in third place, and he just naturally had to argue.

She was a good old ball game, fellers, and she might have been won by anybody.

Rabbit Darrough pitched a pretty fair game, all things considered, and was going stronger in the closing innings than at the start. The Gassers got to him for eight hits, but he had plenty of stuff, good control and went through with only bad frame.

The Spudders gathered only five bingles from Red Bird, the chief reason being that Red refused most of the time to pitch the blamed ball near the plate.

Red walked six and tried to park the pill in the ribs of three Spudders, these various tactics of the Salmities—or Tannerites, perhaps we should call 'em.

The boys are very philosophical, however, about the loss of today's tangle.

"Watch Us now"

It just happened to break that way, they figure, and outside of bawling out Danny Clark for not playing Hollahan in the ninth for what he is, a scratch right field hitter, they devoted most of their conversation after the game to verbal threats to make things hot when the second half of the split season opens tomorrow.

The Gassers chalked up three of their winning four tallies in the third canto. Roy Storey was tossed out by Rabbit, who slipped on the wet ground, we had a good rain here this morning, and made a very nifty peg to first from that position.

Long slapped a single to right, and went to second when old Western League Ewoldt repeated the trick.

Jackson cracked a short single to center, and Jake Miller cut the ball loose for home so fast Long decided not to attempt to score. Bishoff, however, ran out into the diamond on the ball, tried to grab it on the trap, it broke through and Long made home successfully. Hack Eibel was walked intentionally, filling the cushions, and Hollahan struck out, but Bruce Hartford popped a single in left on the first ball pitched, and Ewoldt and Jackson scored.

Clark tossed out John Vann at first for the third out.

Rabbit Leads Parade

The Spudders got all three markers back in the fifth, when Rabbit Darrough led the parade with a base on balls. Buddy flied out to right. Gross was hit on the elbow by a pitched ball. Jake Miller dropped one in Long's glove in center for the second out, but Danny Clark succeeded in beating out an infield hit to first. With the bases loaded Red Bird hit McElwee in the ribs and forced in one counter. Then Creoil Gross, still thinking of how Billy Smith wouldn't let him play ball on his darned old Shreveport club, smote a feverish single to right that scored both Gross and Clark.

Caddy works drew a pass and the bases were still drunk. Bischoff smashed a line drive slap into Long's hands in center field for the final out.

If the ball had been a foot to the right or left, take it from Uncle Nick it would have gone for three sacks at least.

And, after all, the old ball game was a sort of a see-saw affair, with neither side unable to introduce much kick to the proceedings. The Spudders pulled out of a bad excavation in the seventh, when with Ewold on second base and only one out, they intentionally passed Hack Eibel again, and then retired Hollahan and Hartford, the first on an easy roller to second and Hartford on a pop-up to Clark.

Fate Laughs At Spuds.

But in the ding-twisted final chukker, fate laughed up his sleeve at the passing Hack Eibel stuff. Darrough walked Long for a starter and he was sacrificed along to second by Ewoldt, the mighty Jackson fouled out weakly to Bischoff—and then Darrough handed Hack four wide ones.

It was the proper play all right, but this time it didn't work. Darrough got two strikes on Hollahan and then this Hollahan person selected a low ball on the outside and romped a graceful little single past the surprised D. Clark—and shortly after that Will Gray started his famous argument concerning the advisability of passing these .400 hitters.

But just you watch Abe Bowman and reckless Rube Marshall start the second half of this split season against the Gassers tomorrow and Sunday. Both those boys are rounding into real condition, the Rube especially, and the boys are expecting some stellar twirling from 'em. So are we. And, say, we've got a first division club, anyway, ain't we?

CASEY STENGEL STAR IN LATEST TRADE

Casey Stengel, one of the best outfielders in the old league, is now a Giant. He was the prominent member of the latest trade in which he and Johnny Rawlings were traded by the Phillies to McGraw for Goldie Rapp, Lee King and Lance Richbourg.

Closeup of Casey Stengel and Goldie Rapp in action. Rapp was the leading member of the Giant players in the trade.

Rawlings is a fair second baseman. King is a fair outfielder and can hit southpaw hurlers. Richbourg is a college lad who has refused to play with the Phils. Rawlings is expected to play second regularly. Stengel will be used as pinch hitter.

PANTHERS WIN FIRST HALF OF GONFALON RELAY BUT SPUDDERS LOOK GOOD FOR LAST SERIES

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, July 8.—The Texas league season will be divided as the result of a wire vote which rescinds the unanimous action of the magnates at Houston a week ago, J. Doak Roberts, president of the circuit announced today. Today's games will be the last of the first half of the season, he said. The vote of the Texas owners on the proposition was five to three.

President Roberts submitted the request for a split by wire Thursday night, it was learned today, and by yesterday afternoon all votes were in. Identity of the dissenting votes was not given out, although it is understood the Fort Worth and Houston clubs recently expressed their disapproval of the plan.

HARVEY BELIEVES ACTION WILL BENEFIT.

Splitting the Texas league season will prove a benefit all round the league, according to an opinion expressed Friday by R. O. Harvey, president of the trustees of the Wichita Falls baseball club.

"It will not hurt Fort Worth, whose place in the final series is assured," said Mr. Harvey, "while it will give an incentive to every other club around the circuit to strengthen their ball clubs, and will give the fans of these two teams a chance to back their entries in a fresh start.

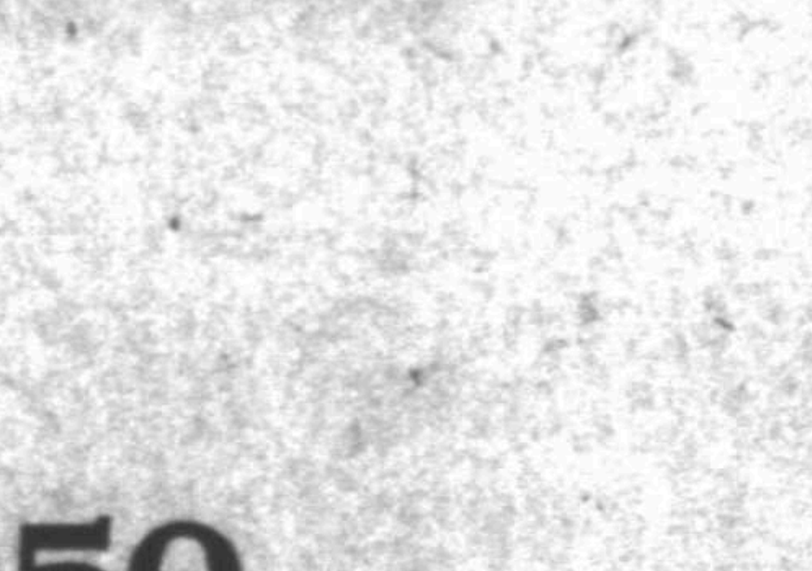

"There is really no argument against the split, while there are many in favor of it," he continued. "The only thing advanced against the split that I know of is simply the result of a custom of running the race out for the length of the year, and the fact that it is not done that way in the major leagues.

"I for one am not convinced that it would not be a benefit to major league baseball, giving each club two races in a single season, rather than compelling the fans of those cities to wait until another year before making another start."

ORDER "FROG" TO HOSPITAL FOR INJURIES

"Froggy" Rothfuss, stellar ornament of the Spudder's outergarden, who was recently "beaned" by Humphries, Beaumont flinger, during the Spudders' stay in that town, will be all right after a few days' rest and treatment in the local hospital, according to announcement by physicians after his being taken to the Methodist hospital Friday.

Rothfuss was taken to the hospital as the result of an X-ray picture of his skull, which showed a slight fracture on the side of the head. The hurt is so slight that the treatment to be given will not require operation, physicians say—in fact desire to get the Spudder outfielder to a place of quietness and keep him out of the sun until he is healed being the main reason for his being taken there, according to the physicians.

The first hurt was intensified by the collision between Rothfuss and Clark during the Panther series, in which the former was again hurt in the same place.

The injury to Rothfuss is considered as entirely accidental, according to club officials, who believe that the remark attributed to one of the Beaumont club officials during that club's last stay here, as he watched the Spudder outfielder characteristically crowding the plate, that he would shoot one at that guy's head, if he were the pitcher, to be, if made at all, merely a coincidence.

Bob Bescher, who also came home from Fort Worth to wait for the club, and to rest up his injured ankle, is declared thoroughly fit, and is expected to rejoin the club in their first at home game.

BLACK "SPUDS" TROUNCE "CATS" IN FIRST GAME

Hitting when hits counted in the tally column the Black Spudders won the opener from the Fort Worth club of the Texas negro league by a count of 4 to 2.

The umpiring of E. Taylor, chief of the staff in the negro league, was declared a feature of the game.

Two more games will be played in this series, Saturday and Sunday. Returns from the Texas league games will be announced, according to the Black Spudder's management.

UNLOADING MATERIAL FOR ROAD

The unloading of material at the central plant midway between Iowa Park and Electra to be used in the construction of the county concrete road between the two towns started Friday. The plant has been completely moved from the point midway between this city and Iowa Park and is now ready for the unloading of all kinds of material preparatory to beginning construction on the road.

Over 80 cars of stone from the quarry of the Lone Star Stone company at Chico have arrived here and are now in the yards of the Wichita Southern railroad. These will be moved at once to the central plant located on a switch off the Forth Worth and Denver railroad and unloaded. Sand and cement are also being unloaded.

The narrow gauge track is being laid and it is expected that everything will be ready to start work the coming week. Whether this will be done until the $1,500,000 road bond issue has been approved by the attorney general's department is not as yet known.

A Lesson.

A little leaf cried, "What's the use?"
A task too great for me
To try to clothe in living green
This tall and empty tree."

His neighbor said then (just a bud)
"Why, we can only do
Our portion of this mighty work—
'Tis not too much for you."

And so they two unfolded there
And did their very best,
And lo! when their own work was done
The tree was fully dressed.

A parable precept let us learn
In these well-finished tasks;
Life only wants the best in us—
No more it ever asks.

TOUSSAINT WILL GO TO TRIAL JULY 27

Henry J. Toussaint, former army officer and eastern university graduate, will go on trial for his life in the Thirtieth District court for the alleged murder of his father, O. H. Toussaint, on July 27, according to an announcement made Friday from the office of the district attorney.

The setting of the Toussaint case was announced along with several other cases which will be tried between July 20th and August 10.

It is expected that the Toussaint trial will be one of the most hotly contested in local court history.

The defendant, who has been confined at the county jail since his arrest on February 7, the day following the night on which his father was killed, will be represented by the firm of McDonald and Cummings and Luther Hoffman. The latter attorney was a former major in the army and it was through his recommendation that the accused was allowed to attend an officers' training school from which he later received a commission as first lieutenant in the engineer corps.

John Davenport, former county attorney, will aid District Attorney Wilson and Assistant District Attorney Sam Holliday in the prosecution of the case. Mr. Davenport was county attorney at the time of Toussaint's arrest, and aided at that time in the investigation of the case.

Although no definite statement has been made by his attorneys it is understood that insanity will be the defense of Toussaint. The case will be tried before Judge H. F. Weldon.

Otto H. Toussaint, local contractor and former hotel owner of Washington, D. C., was found dead by police officers on Sunday night, February 6, on Polk street, between Avenue I and K. A few minutes before finding of the body he had left the home of Eric Bruno on Polk street and started to where he and his son roomed on Ninth street.

Following an all day investigation by city police officers the following day the accused Henry Toussaint, associated with his father in the contracting business, is alleged to have made a signed statement to Police Chief Huff in which he confessed to killing his father.

A similar signed statement is alleged to have been made later to Fletcher Jones at that time district attorney. Fear that his father would disinherit him and the statement that his father had caused him to separate from his wife are alleged to have been the reasons assigned by the son, in his alleged confession, for the killing of his father.

The wife of the son and his brother, Rudolph Toussaint, both living in Pennsylvania, will be here to attend the trial, it is understood.

Germany Will Rise Again And Fall Before Russia, Is Prophecy of Munich Seer

BERLIN, July 8.—Dame History will tear up the Treaty of Versailles; a new Hohenzollern Kaiser will be restored to the Prussian throne for a few years, only to be dethroned and executed. England and France will be engaged in a new world war which will prevent their interference in Germany's working out her own destiny. After years of terror a new Cromwell or Napoleon will arise from the ranks of the common people who will first establish a military dictatorship and later crown himself King of Germany.

These are a few of the prophetic historical deductions of Dr. Max Kemmerich, of Munich, which, in pamphlet form, are being passed from hand to hand in royalist circles and among the former officers of the German general staff. In 1912 and 1913, when this combination of the mystic and deep student of history warned his countrymen of the impending war and revolution, of the forthcoming destruction of Autsria and restoration of Poland, of the Russian revolution and the division of the Socialist party and its coming rise to power, Germany laughed at Dr. Kemmerich and called him crazy.

Before the war the historical seer advocated the accumulation of vast stores of food to protect Germany from the coming hunger blockade. In the summer of 1918 he went to the Bavarian war ministry and advised the organization of selected home guards to protect South Germany in the coming revolution. The modern German Cassandra was laughed at and shown the door.

Historical Parallelism.

Germany has seen what she considered, in 1913, impossible come to pass. The former scoffers have been impressed, and today some of the wisest gray-headed military geniuses of Germany are carefully studying Dr. Kemmerich's historical deductions. History moves in cycles, according to the seer. He is not an absolute determinist, admitting a limited freedom of will for the individual but not for the mass of people.

By laws of internal and external parallelism he foretells the future. It's a case of the schoolboy's phrase, "History repeats itself." Great historical figures are the products of their times, but are only in a limited way responsible for their times.

Reviewing his pamphlet, received from a German general staff officer, one may summarize the following main points:

The Russian revolution, which parallels the French revolution of 1649-53, will last about five years. A new czar, of the Romanoff dynasty, will take the throne in 1922 or 1923, with unlimited power.

The Romanoff restoration will encourage the Hohenzollern supporters who will place a prince of this house upon the throne of North Germany. Bavaria will separate from the Federation and go her own way for about twenty years. North Germany terrorism will break out in its worst forms in 1923, with a fight between the royalists and their opponents.

Hohenzollern to Be Executed

The new Hohenzollern monarch will have some preliminary successes, but after two years he will suffer a decisive defeat and flee. As he reaches the border he will be captured, endure a long imprisonment and final execution. The flight, imprisonment and execution will occupy approximately the years 1927 and 1931.

In the meantime Bavaria will have taken part in neither the extreme reaction nor radicalism, although a South German monarchy may be established. There will be massacres of the German populations in Bohemia or Poland, or perhaps in both countries.

Six years of terrorism, with radical groups in power, will follow the execution of take Hohenzollern king. Springing from the lowest depths of the masses, from the extreme radicals, a new Cromwell will restore order by a military dictatorship. Five years later he will be proclaimed king. The monarchy will be modeled on the British pattern and will not be a restration of the king "by the grace of God."

Germany to Give Way to Russia

The Dictator-King will lead his armies against the Bavarians and, after defeating them, restore the unity of the empire. This will end the German revolution, the latter events taking place between the years 1940 and 1944. A period of peace and prosperity will follow, with a German hegemony in Europe. This era of expansion and power will extend over about a century and one-half, when Germany will finally give way to Russia.

"Let us briefly summarize our deductions," concludes the prophet. "We are faced with two decades of blood and terror. Hand in hand with our civil wars we will wage war against our neighbors, and we will be victorious, for a nation in its mutation [illegible] a tremendous expansion power. The war period, which began in 1914, is far from ended. One or two new world wars will prevent the Great Powers from interfering in our internal troubles.

"The Versailles Treaty will be torn up. It will give courage to those who in desperate moments do not dare to look into the future to know that in the middle or end of this period Germany will unmistakably become the first power in Europe, stronger, richer and greater than in the days of the Sallschen Kaiser."

BOY CANNOT UNDERSTAND COP'S ACT

"It beats thunder how that cop knew I was running away," declared twelve year old J. D. Sharp of Burkburnett as he and his nine year old brother were brought to the office of Juvenile Officer Morgan Friday afternoon.

"We were just walking down the street like anyone else and that cop came up and asked us when we run away from home without ever seeing us before."

The two boys left Burkburnett Thursday after an argument with their parents and were on their way to Jefferson, Texas, when taken in custody on the streets here. Asked why he left home the younger of the two brothers, Taylor Sharp, said he wanted to go to his aunt where he could get "lots of butter milk." They will be returned to their parents today.

The Morgan office which has been rushed by juvenile cases during the last week Friday in addition to the Taylor boys, took into custody another runaway, Bill Barclay, who said he ran away from his home at Canton, Illinois, a year ago, was arrested on the streets. He is being held at the juvenile jail while officers get in touch with his parents.

HERMIT'S LIFE FASCINATING.

EDMONTON, Alaska, July 9.—A hermit leads a fascinating life. So W. D. Clark says and he ought to know for he has been a hermit in the Arctic wilderness nearly a quarter of a century.

"Once a hermit, always a hermit," Clark says. "A hermit wants nobody's pity. He enjoys his solitude and wouldn't trade it for the pleasures and excitement of cities." I have been in civilization a year now and I am going back home to the wilderness as quickly as I can. There are no fakirs, swindlers and thieves there."

Clark's cabin is on the headwaters of Peel river, 180 miles from Herschel Island and 110 miles from Fort McPherson, a far north post of the Hudson's Bay company. His nearest neighbor is fifty-six miles away. They see each other once a year. With the exception of this man, Abe Schafer, Clark is the only human being in a thousand square miles of country. The Indians do not go that far north and the Eskimos do not come that far south.

CHICAGO MAYOR ASKS LOWER TROLLEY FARES

BIRTH CONTROL PREACHED TO LONDON FOLK

LONDON, July 8.—Until recently the subject of birth control was just as much taboo in England as it used to be in America. They didn't send people to prison for talking about it, but public opinion was more effective than any police measures in repressing the subject. It simply did not exist. It may be mere coincidence, but that was while the empire needed sons so much it wasn't particular how it got them, when the recently organized colonies made a constant and heavy drain on the manhood of England.

Today that is all changed. The subject is respectable. It is freely discussed in public. It is called constructive birth control and its principles and practice are advocated from press, platform and pulpit. The drain on English manhood from the colonies has ceased. England wants fewer and better babies. More immediate reasons than these are given by those who are writing and speaking on the subject; they don't need to step outside the slums of London and the big industrial cities to find them.

Poor Are Prolific.

G. H. Roberts, former food controller and secretary of state for labor under Lloyd George, came from the working class. He deplores the fact that whereas the middle and upper classes possess the knowledge for constructive control of families his own class is still in ignorance, producing children in excessive numbers and rapid succession, which means diseased offspring and a race unfit to take a high place in world affairs.

Miss Maude Royden, a woman preacher, enthusiastically advocates constructive control from the pulpit and platform.

"Every child has a right to be desired before it is conceived, loved before it is born and supported while it is helpless," she told her London congregation. "Every mother has a right to time and health to devote the fullest measure of love and care to every child she bears."

The dean of St. Paul's preaches control as an economic necessity of the national situation. He believes that a steady reduction of the population in quantity is as essential as an increase in quality.

Mortality a Disgrace.

The tragedy of the unwilling mother, the unwanted child, is a national shame, according to Dr. Jane Hawthorne, a noted woman specialist. The disgrace of the present rate of infant mortality, she declares, can only be wiped out by control. The usual family of the slums—nine children born, three lead and one delicate, deformed or mentally deficient—must in the new order give way to two or three born and properly brought up, each one sound and capable.

No woman in England has a higher position in the medical world than Dr. Marie Stopes. Her writings and influence have a great deal to do with the new attitude toward birth control. In England her books dealing with love, marriage, children and birth control are used as text books and are quoted in support of the new legislation for which women of all shades of political opinion are unitedly in support. It is one of the few subjects on which there seems to be anything like unanimity among the newly enfranchised half of the population.

Dr. Stopes is also one of the leaders of a nation-wide movement to spread the principles of constructive control. Meetings are taking place in London and all the large cities in England, Scotland and Wales at which men and women of national standing are advocating a reduced and healthier birth rate.

Families of Tradition.

In the old days, under the best of conditions, no British mother, of whatever class, hoped to keep her sons near her after their actual babyhood. Among the rich the tradition was that the first son inherited the family fortune and estates, but the second went into the navy, the third into the army, the fourth into the church and the devil take the hindmost. For the middle classes, the public schools (boarding schools) were essential to any preparation for literature, science, law, journalism, engineering or commerce. In the lower middle class children went early into trade and industry; while the working class still earlier sent their children into service or employment of some kind. Every working class family had its sailor and soldier boys; they were hustled away to training ships or barracks when mere children.

Now conditions have changed. The navy no longer wants an unlimited supply of raw boys. In the skilled trades the ordinary family can no longer afford years of apprenticeship for its children. Shoe leather alone costs as much as the pittance of an apprentice. In simple terms, English working class fathers and mothers are beginning to find that a big family doesn't pay.

So it is that working people, scientists and economists are finding common ground, and public opinion, once as deaf as American law to the subject, admits birth control as a proper subject for public and private discussion and constructive birth control as a beneficent national policy.

BELGIUM ADOPTS MORE STRINGENT "DRY" LAWS

BRUSSELS, July 9.—Belgium is about to take another step in the direction of prohibition.

Minister Vandervelde, it is announced, will shortly introduce a bill prohibiting the sale in bars, restaurants and cafes of "heavy wines," such as port and sherry. The new measure will not interfere with the sale of beer or light wines, but will be modeled after the law enacted about eighteen months ago, suppressing the sale in public places of whiskey, cognac and other hard liquors though permitting their sale for consumption at home.

On the whole the law aimed at hard liquors has worked fairly well with comparatively few attempts at evasion and not many arrests. The government winks an eye at the sale of whiskey, cocktails and other kick-producing drinks at summer resorts like Ostend and Spa, which attracts many foreigners, but puts a heavy hand down on the hard liquor traffic elsewhere in Belgium.

KOREA HAS JAPANESE IN GRAVE DOUBT

TOKIO, July 8.—"Protection of Koreans is the latest concern of the Japanese government. There is some difference of opinion as to the meaning of the word "protection;" but, nevertheless, it is fixed away in the kio and in the minutes of the recent colonial conference, as a policy whereby the natives of Korea are to be "protected."

A section of the press of Tokio openly admits that there has been a misuse of words and that the policy adopted was merely one of greater "control" of the actions of Koreans; that the word "protection" should never have been used in the case. Certain it is that the imperial Japanese government has become concerned of late over the activities, not only of Koreans in Korea, but of malcontent Koreans who have crossed outside of Korean boundaries, chiefly in Southern Siberia and Manchuria, and have been the cause of numerous border fights of more or less important character. These newspapers explain the policy of "protection" adopted for Koreans as one by which the frontier garrisons in these sections are to be strengthened.

It is known in Tokio that for several months now the control of malcontent Koreans who have moved outside the borders of the Japanese controlled territory and are able to operate as they please, has formed a subject of much concern to the Japanese government. Numerous Japanese policemen and soldiers have been killed and wounded; houses have been burned, and general disorders have been reported frequently as a result of these malcontents' work.

Siberian Control Proposed.

One measure suggested as a way of better controlling the malcontents in the areas along the Northern Korean borders is a decision to increase the police forces stationed at the Japanese consulates in this area. An agreement with the Chita (Siberian) government, whereby the Chita government will exercise control over Koreans in its territories, is also proposed.

Frequent reports that the Korean question has completely cleared and that, as far as Tokio is concerned, there is no longer a Korean question, are simply misstatements of facts. Within the last few weeks a Korean who attempted to assassinate Baron Saito, governor general of Korea, has been sentenced to death; reports of numerous new disturbances have come into Tokio, and frequent conferences regarding future policy have tended to show that the government is not at all easy about the condition of affairs in Korea.

Thus, among the decisions of the colonial conference, one will be recorded as a policy for "protection" of the Koreans. But the Koreans themselves and numerous observers are going to wait some time before accepting this benevolent-sounding word as true in its entirety.

REACTION IN STOCKS FEATURED

NEW YORK, July 8.—Further substantial forfeiture of the mid-week's spirited rally on the stock exchange was witnessed in today's reactionary movement.

Conspicuous weakness was shown by equipments, independent steels, shippings, sugars and miscellaneous shares. Chief among these were harvester, Pullman, United Fruit, Mercantile Marine prefferd, Sears-Roebuck, Famous Players, American Sugar and Samatra Tobacco.

Foreign oils lapsed into their recent heavy state, fresh offering, followed reports showing a marked falling off of production in the Tampico field. Mexican petroleum lost 6 3-8 points and associated issues declined 2 to 3 1-2.

Firmer tendencies prevailed in the market for time funds. Renewals of two and three months loans seemed to be freely made. More liberal purchants paper were reported.

Most of the international exchanges were lower on nominal dealings. Most bond issues, including liberty group, were inclined to ease, but a few speculative rails held or added to recent gains.

BULLISH SPOT ADVICES SEND COTTON HIGHER

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—After advancing quite sharply on bullish spot advices cotton turned easier during today's late trading under realizing and rumors of favorable mid-month crop reports. October contracts eased off from 12.94 to 12.67 and closed at 12.68 with the general market closing barely steady, net three points higher to 11 points lower.

The market opened steady at a decline of 2 points on August, but generally 8 to 10 points higher on the firmer Liverpool spot sales. The latter amounted to 10,000 bales, the largest business reported on any one day for months, and the revival of interest on the part of the Lancashire spinners was also supposed to be reflected in reports of an increasing export demand in the south. According to local spot brokers it has become more difficult to buy spot cotton in the interior on this advance than it was before publication of the bureau and talk of a higher spot basis was colored by smaller arrivals reported here recently for delivery on July contracts. The early advance carrier the market about 25 to 30 points above last night's closing figures late in the morning with July selling at 12.23 and December at 13.40. There was more realizing as prices approached the 13c level for October, however, and the market weakened in the late trading when there was also some southern selling accompanied by talk of improving crop conditions. July broke to 11.97 and December 13.16 and the close was at about the lowest point of the day on most positions.

N. O. COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 8.—A firm market prevailed in cotton today during the first half of the session but weakness ruled in the end and the close was unchanged to nine points up, compared with yesterday's close.

Reports of further improvement in the spot situation were mainly responsible for gains that set in on the opening and persisted until they amounted to 24 to 28 points. October rising to 12.47. From this level, October fell off to 12.22 and closed at 12.24.

While week end realizing from the long side had something to do with the slump in the late trading, it had its start in a reported private crop report from the bureau condition percentage of 71.2, against 70.0 a fortnight ago. This improvement seemed hardly to be expected before the trade and for a while it caused much selling and sent the trading months to levels of 60 under to 6 points over the last quotation of yesterday.

The opening was higher, much being made on the rise in the Liverpool market and sales of ten thousand bales on the spot in that market. It was continued on account of a better demand in southern spot markets from Liverpool, the continent and the orient and on claims that a large short spot interest existed which already was resulting in influence to buy.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW

NEW YORK, July 8—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

A generally quiet condition in trade and industry, due mainly to extensive advertised sales of seasonal goods at reduced prices, continued slow collections, active progress of the harvest northward, with winter wheat cutting and threshing well advanced and a slightly better tone of reports as to the crops still to be harvested, are among the more immediately perceptible features in the week's advances.

Other items having a more or less intimate relation to the general trade movement are the slight advance, 1 per cent shown in Bradstreets approximate index number as of July 1 over the ruling on June 1, the first advance, by the way, in thirteen months; and growth of the idea that European needs will in the coming cereal year call for a large volume of exports of our grains, particularly wheat, and more meats notably hog products. Weekly bank clearins $6,302,553,000.

NEW STRENGTH DEVELOPS IN WHEAT PRICE

CHICAGO, July 8.—Strength developed in wheat prices today largely as a result of confirmation of blackrust in Canada. The market closed firm 3-4 to 2c net higher, with September 1.21 1-2 to 1.21 3-4, and December 1.24 1-4 to 1.24 1-2. Corn finished 7-8c net lower to 1-2 advance and oats unchanged to 1-4c higher. In provisions the close was unchanged to 5c up.

At first the wheat market showed a tendency to decline. Scantiness of rural offerings, however, and word that rains had interfered with threshing in Kansas and Nebraska tended to check the bears. Subsequently fresh advices regarding blackrust turned the market up grade.

Corn for July delivery was strengthened by export sales of 750,000 bushels. Other months were easier owing to scattered rains. Oats averaged higher with wheat.

Indications of export demand for lard gave some firmness to provisions.

FORCED TO PAY 1920 PRICE FOR SUGAR CONTRACT

Special to The Record News.

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—Decisions in favor of the Franklin Sugar Refining company of this city have been rendered by the court of Common Pleas No. 4 of Philadelphia county in two suits brought against Hanscom Brothers and the Mint Specialty company to enforce 22½ cent sugar contracts entered into in the summer of 1920.

Judge Finletter stated that judgment was entered by the court for want of a sufficient affidavit of defense, holding that the defenses offered were not sufficient to bring the cases before a jury.

The court awarded damages for the difference between the contract price of 22½ cents and the market price of sugar at the date when the sugar company accepted the breach of contract by filing suit.

Damages of $4,052.72 were levied against Hanscom Brothers and $4,821.25 against the Mint Specialty company.

DENTISTS MADE TO ORDER IN GOTHAM

So much United States currency down for a degree.

No need for brow-wrinkling study. Be a dentist without study. Pay anywhere from $250 to $850 and receive a beautifully engrossed diploma.

Such is the formula of a client of self-styled physicians and dentists in New York preying upon those desirous of entering the professions post haste.

Investigation by the district attorney's office into this latest medical school fraud is under way as the result of evidence obtained by dental inspectors.

"Professor Dr." William P. Sim, 22 years old, was the first witness called in the inquiry. The dental inspector has an affidavit from a Porto Rican who swears Sim sold him a diploma for $500, with incidental charges for "cap and crown." The diploma bore the name of the Oriental University of Washington.

Although Sim had distributed cards with A. B., V. M. D., after his name, he admitted he bought the A. B. from an Iowa university and added the rest because he "expected" to get the degree of "Veterinary Medical Doctor."

Sim is short, chubby, well dressed. He carries a stethescope in his left pocket. He does not practice medicine, he says (the question was prompted by a letter in which he signed himself an M. D.) but he does inculge in chiropractic.

Investigators believe Sim was merely an underagent in the operations of the clique. Sim has promised to reappear and produce his correspondence. This, it is believed, will show him unwittingly serving a well organized scheme to defraud unwary students.

The Oriental university in Washington is an extensive seat of higher learning. Its particular hobby is Theomonism, a religion all its own. It teaches also by correspondence everything from agriculture to stenography.—New York World.

KERNEL COOTIE—PA HATES THAT KIND OF A GUY.

ASSERTS MEN TALK MORE THAN WOMEN

Even when we were litle girls, and friendship meant telling each other our dreams, we were dubbed, "chatterboxes." Later, as our fund of information increased and conversation came easily, both the grown-ups and the boys of our own age spent much time telling us that we talked too much. At the end of an afternoon of visiting, my mother would give a sigh of relief and remark: "How you girls do gabble—like a lot of geese!" And we accepted it as a feminine characteristic; undesirable, perhaps, but unavoidable, unconquerable. Women were made that way!

Our point of view was intensified by the published gibes at woman's craving for the last word, and by the constant taunts of most of the men we knew. Really, I came to believe that men seldom talked, and, when they did, that they always said things of weight, things worth remembering and pondering over.

For several years after leaving college I taught, and the delusion continued. We had a man as principal, and when he talked the world kept silence; but those were teachers' meetings and it was not only his right, but even his obligation to talk.

Business Dispels Illusionment.

However, one summer an excellent opportunity came my way to use a branch of my earlier training in an interesting field of business, and I left the teaching world—that world which had been filled with women—to go into a world of men and the ways of men. Then—the disillusionment!

My first interviewer was with a charming young Englishman, who should have been an actor. He loved to hear himself pronounce his words. In the hour or more that we spent discussing the position, it was utterly impossible for me to say more than "Yes," "No" and "How interesting!" That this was the proper conduct on my part was proved by the fact that the position was offered me at once—and I had not the slightest opportunity to recite my training, my ability or my inexperience.

The day after I had taken up the work, a summons to a "conference" came from the head of the firm. What a conference could mean, when one had had altogether less than six hours of business experience, and that in a field of finance wholly new, was beyond me. I went in fear and trembling. With all the poise I could collect and small hope resting in that easy tongue for which I had suffered so much, I entered the lion's den.

Wanted, a Good Listener.

My employer greeted me affably, asked a few simple questions about my college and started right in to relieve his mind of pent-up theories of finance. He might have been talking Chinese, for all I understood. I feared for my replies, but fears were groundless. From the moment of that discovery, my success was sure. For years our conversation was entirely one-sided. He gave me credit for great wisdom and intelligence. And the woman kept silence!

During the first few weeks my charming English friend spent quite a little time in my office, explaining some points in the work and—talking. Each explanation wandered into the world of theory until I was mentally worn trying to follow the thread of his thought as he wove fabric after fabric. I heard volumes of the most fantastic schemes for making money that the world has ever evolved. He never followed any of them to their conclusions, fortunately. Gradually the conversation drifted toward more familiar topics—a comparison of things English with their American "counterfeits;" metaphysical discussions concerning the realities of things; the effect of curved lines in the decorations of the room; and other nonsense. Here I was on firmer footing, but could I talk? No! I was in a man's world. Woman's sphere was to listen! I have often wondered whether he even heard what remarks I did make!

No Bearing on Business.

With the changing tide of business he drifted away and the office acquired a man who had been a salesman. Ye gods! Never was there such a flood of words! His office was next to mine and, whether I would or no, his voice penetrated. He was often in his room when I arrived at 9, talking to a group of men, and he was still talking when I left at 4. His audiences changed many times during the day, but his ability to hold the floor never weakened.

He coaxed the life hopes from beginners and treated them to long discourses on their chances for success; he reviewed the entire history of some company or other to its officers, to make a trifling event seem of great importance; he spent hours locating the exact whereabouts of mines, grouping six or seven men on the floor about a blueprint. But, in the year that he spent with us I never heard of his financing one of the young hopefuls nor of his giving able assistance in running the companies. And what is more to the point, I never heard him spending any of his valuable conversation toward the fulfillment of his function in the firm, which was to get customers.

With the next ebb and flow of the tide the girls in the office left, one by one, for other positions. A long period of dullness was due, so I, too, resigned in favor of a more active and more interesting field.

My new work was absorbing and required quiet and concentration. I obtained the privilege of having a desk in my employer's office, where I would not be disturbed. I had had a slight social acquaintance with my new host and knew him to be a most pleasant gentleman in his own home.

He was a very busy man and out much of the time, at first. Then we had a spell of bad weather, and I was confronted again with the problem of the chatterbox. He poured forth a steady stream, to amuse me, I presume—about the books he had read and the arguments he had had with Mr. So-and-So, until I could scarcely refrain from beating my head against the wall and mumbling drearily "No use! No use!"

I have left the business world for a long rest, and the babble world for a long rest, and the babble of women's voices is sweet music to my ears. I understand now why the Tired Business Man is so fretful when he gets home, why he doesn't care to hear talking. He has had a day of it! I understand why woman has suffered her fair name to be magligned. She is a good listener!

His Medals.

What are the medals, mother dear
What do the ribbons mean?
One's for his job in the post last year,
One's for the office he holds this year.
One of them means he was never late,
One of them means he's a delegate;
One, he belongs to the Pals of Vets,
That's what the prettiest mean.

Mother, wasn't he in the war?
Ain't there a badge for that?
Yes, beaucoup, but he's ditched them, for
They don't cut any ice no more.
And that, my dearie, is that.
