Mrs. Ruth Irick Leases Dairy Barn

Mrs. Ruth Irick announces this week she has leased the Dairy Barn on the Rockwood Highway from Mrs. Bertha Allen and is now open for business. Mrs. Irick said the same employees would continue working and the same type service would be continued. She invites all her friends to visit the Dairy Barn, where she will have a complete menu for every occasion.

Mrs. Allen has been operating the Dairy Barn for several years and for the past several months has been carrying the U. S. Mail on the Rockwood Star Route. She said she just had more to do than she could take care of, but wanted to continue carrying the mail. Thus, her reason for leasing her cafe.

Mrs. Allen expresses her appreciation to her customers and requests they continue their patronage at the Dairy Barn.

May 30th Is Holiday For Local Merchants

May 30, Memorial Day, is one of the six days in the year selected by the Santa Anna Merchants to observe as a holiday. This year the day comes on Thursday of next week, and all the local stores will observe the day by remaining closed for the entire day.

You are urged to keep this in mind and make your plans accordingly.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Walker and children, Freddie and Frankie, of Spur, were here at the weekend to visit among relatives and to attend commencement exercises.

Mrs. George Thomas of Abilene, visited Sunday afternoon with her grandmother, Mrs. W. A. Featherston. Mr. Thomas came with her as far as Coleman and visited with his parents.

League Baseball Season To Begin Tuesday Night

The Summer Baseball program of the Santa Anna Quarterback Club will get underway Tuesday night, May 28. The first game will begin at 6:15 p. m. between the Little League Athletics and the Indians.

A ceremony will begin at 6:00 p. m. opening the baseball season. The planned program will not be announced beforehand, but everyone interested in baseball will enjoy the program and is requested to be on hand by that time.

Membership in the organization was increased to 91 members this week. New members are C. E. Kingsberry, Milton House, C. E. Kingsberry, Tom Kingsberry and E. E. Blanton. A determined effort is being made to get at least 100 members in the organization. At present they are nine members short. Surely there are nine persons in Santa Anna or area that have not paid their $3.00 dues who would like to be associated with the Quarterback Club in their endeavor to furnish a summer program for the boys of the community and to furnish entertainment for a large number of baseball fans throughout the summer.

If you would like to become a member, contact Ellis Densman, Add Walker or A. D. Donham.

Some changes were made in the team line-ups at an executive meeting Tuesday night, for the convenience of boys who live out of town and have to have transportation in to practice and participate in the games. Three new boys were also added to the list of players.

her Eighth Grade class and during her high school years she has maintained a high average while participating in a number of other school activities. Wilbur Seale, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. While attending school at Killeen he was made a member of the National Honor Society. He has also participated in various school activities in all the schools he has attended.

Santa Fe and Electronics

New electronic methods keep constant check on all freight cars moving over Santa Fe rails

New electronic wonders are contributing to precision railroading on the Santa Fe.

Take freight car locating, for instance. With our Red Ball service, we can "put the finger" any time on any one of many thousands of freight cars moving over the 13,150 miles of Santa Fe rails every day.

Information on these cars is recorded on cards which are fed into electronic machines. These "electronic brains" process the cards as fast as 2,000 per minute—and tell you in a few seconds where every car is, what it contains, where it is going.

This information is immediately available for our customers. Shippers of produce may take advantage of any changing market conditions and divert their shipments while en route to other points where markets may be more favorable.

With this advice, consignees know in advance the time of arrival of their shipments. This facilitates their plans for delivery of shipments or scheduling of production.

This method of locating freight cars is only one of the many electronic tools now employed by Santa Fe. Some of the others are microwave, two-way radio, and supersonic rail detectors.

Something new in the science of railroading is a daily objective on the Santa Fe—the railroad that's always on the move toward a better way.

Longhorn Cavern Deemed Million Years in Making

Texas Longhorn Cavern, spectacular scenic masterpiece of nature, was at least a million years in the making, geologists estimate.

The huge cavern is awesome evidence of the changes wrought through the ages by variations in climate, earth movements, the rise and fall of the seas and the slow solution of limestone by water.

Longhorn Cavern, located near Burnet in the Highland Lakes region northwest of Austin, is one of the state's favorite attractions for tourists and sightseers. Guided tours are conducted daily through the explored portions of the cave, which is one of the world's largest.

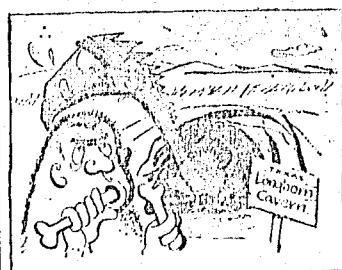

Richard W. Rush, assistant professor of geology at the University of Texas, has traced the sequence of events which led to the development of the cavern from the time when Texas lay beneath a huge sea, approximately a half-billion years ago.

The stone in which the cavern was eventually carved out was formed from limy muds deposited at the bottom of this sea. Over countless centuries this mud deposit gradually rose out of the sea, only to sink beneath it again, a process which was repeated a number of times.

Finally slow uplift raised Texas above the sea for the last time and the limestone which had hardened from the mud deposits lay exposed to the elements for over sixty million years.

At that time Central Texas was a humid swampland in which gigantic dinosaurs and other reptilian monsters roamed.

The actual beginnings of Longhorn Cavern probably occurred during the Ice Age, when the northern part of the United States was covered by glaciers, more than a million years ago.

As the glaciers retreated, about 50,000 years ago, the climate of Texas became drier and the ground water level began to drop, dissolving the limestone as it fell.

Underground streams flowing through the cave helped to carve out the labyrinthian passageways and huge rooms, until the cavern was excavated to its most remote chamber, an eerie 130 feet below the surface of the earth.

Prehistoric cavernmen probably sought refuge in the subterranean depths of the cavern to avoid being devoured by the fearsome mammals which ranged the countryside in dim ages past.

The main approach to the cavern entrance is through a collapsed sink or deep depression in the limestone, with remnants of the original bridge over the steps leading to the cave mouth.

The scenic beauty of the cavern is heightened by the sparkling displays of calcite crystals, the unusual shapes formed of flint and the clusters of stalactites and stalagmites which in some instances have fused to form impressive columns.

TAX-MAN SAM SEZ:

A lot of folks are wondering when they will get their refund check from Internal Revenue. There are usually 25 to 35 steps or reviews that the Revenue folks have to make before they can send you a refund check. This takes a couple of months or more. Most people don't stop to think that there are several hundred thousand other taxpayers who want their refund checks too. The Dallas office sends out 10,000 checks every day about this time of the year, but they always say wait until July 1 before you write or telephone about your refund. There are over 700,000 North Texans who have a refund coming to them. It takes a while to do all that figuring.

Tomboy Hale Completes Training At Lackland AFB

AIRMAN TOMMY HALE

Airman James Tommy Hale, 19, son of Mrs. Floyd Hale of Fort Worth, formerly of Santa Anna, recently completed the first phase of his basic training at the "Gateway to the Air Force," Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas.

He visited with his folks in Fort Worth on May 11 for about three hours on his way to Cheyenne, Wyoming, for further training. His folks say he has gained about 15 pounds and seems to enjoy being in the Air Force.

While at Lackland the new enlistee undergoes the transition from civilian to airman through a program which includes processing, aptitude testing, physical conditioning, survival and weapons training, and classroom studies ranging from citizenship to military customs and courtesies.

Like the USAF Officer Candidate and Pre-Flight Schools, also located at Lackland, basic military training lays the groundwork for either an on-the-job assignment or vocational schooling in line with capability of the individual.

WTU Leases Spur Utilities

Spur — Citizens of Spur voted by a 2-1 margin Saturday to lease the city light plant and electric distribution system to the West Texas Utilities Company.

The proposal approved by the voters authorized the City Commission to lease to WTU the City of Spur's municipal electric plant and system for a term of 40 years. The lease arrangement will include a 40-year franchise for the utility company.

Since 1928, both WTU and the municipal plant have served Spur residents.

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

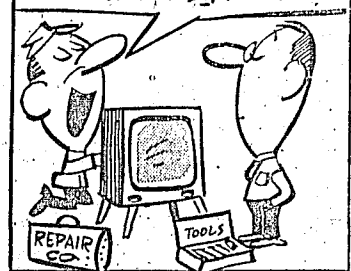

CHANGELESS MAY?

THE present month is usually known, in our part of the world, as a time of balm and bloom and beauty. But the poet thought of days of storm and grief as bringing their burden in to the present. And he asked if, after the stormy changes, we should find a "changeless May"?

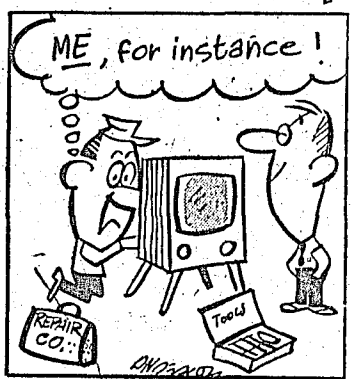

Days of the past sometimes reach into the present with dread results. The accumulation of bad things may bring their influences to blight you in the present. On the calendar the past is gone forever, but the heart feels the hurt of unworthy things and, but for the grace of God, given by faith, is influenced toward wrong today. As you sit alone with your thought and dark images come to vex you and tax your strength, do not yield again to the unworthy thing that may bring shadows to your memories. But cling to the bright images that you find along the way. In true penitence and the high resolves of faith, you may find strength for your time of need. So you may find a changeless May and a peace that is unaffected by all changes of weather.

THE CONSUMER IS BOSS

A constant change is under way in modern agricultural marketing.

For example, the retailer has lost the important role he once played in marketing farm products. Today's consumer, no longer buys merely what the retailer offers.

The merchandise itself is the salesman. In other words, the boss of agricultural marketing today is the consumer.

The Texas Department of Agriculture is proud of the role it plays in marketing the work it does on the consumer level. Inspections, grading of commodities, testing of weights and measures, are but a few of the services TDA renders for consumer benefit.

Marketing changes in recent years — caused by "Boss" consumer — have created greater competition among producers and their products. And this competition for the consumer's dollar has improved efficiencies and cut costs.

Farmers have many responsibilities in this "super market" era of commodity promotion. They must be constantly alert to the demands of "Boss" consumer. And to meet the growing competition, they must produce better products at lower production costs.

The Texas Department of Agriculture — like the farmer — has gone through a transition period marked by a changed agriculture. Its operations are now geared to keeping open the channels of trade within and without the state. It has become chiefly and agricultural law enforcing agency with primarily administrative and regulatory duties. And its work concentrates heavily on the consumer, through the TDA Marketing Division.

As the agricultural marketing picture continues to change, TDA must likewise assume different roles to meet this challenge.

After all, we must either move forward or backward.

1957 Class History

It has often been remarked that history has a peculiar way of repeating itself, and so to a certain extent the history of this class is much like the history of classes which have gone before and of others which will follow.

So remembering that to many people history is a rather dull subject except to those who have taken part in it personally, the historian of the Class of 1957 will strive to be as brief as possible, and to touch only upon those subjects which are of significance not only to the class but to others.

We have not tabulated a series of historical occurrences under the great phases in the development of the class and treated them in as coherent a manner as possible, considering the material with which we have to deal.

The class of 1957 was discovered twelve years ago in the first day of school of the 1945-1946 school year. The faculty of the Santa Anna Grade School were strolling aimlessly through the corridors, chatting about the just ended vacation and wondering whether there would be any startling changes in their work during the coming year.

Suddenly they caught a glimpse of something new and strange. Just inside the front door, huddled together in mute embarrassment and anxiety, were the members of what became the class of 1957. To the casual eye, they seemed merely a group of ordinary boys and girls, well dressed and badly frightened, but to the trained eyes of these dauntless and experienced explorers, these strangers seemed distinct and widely separated individuals, each possessing attitudes and talents, deficiencies and capabilities decidedly worth finding out. Gently attempting to dispel the fears of the strangers, the faculty bade them enter and spent the next few weeks attempting to gain their confidence and friendship. The Class of 1957 began with a number of 50 of which only seven of the original are still in the class. Many students drop out after the first grade and some entered again in the later years. The students that are still here are: Daniel Gilbert, Naomi Baugh, Larry Donham, Maxine Baucorn, Shirley Little, Maynard Brown, and Jackie Mobley. These pupils started out under the teaching of Mrs. Frank Turner and Mrs. Jim Harris.

With the coming of the next September, they received a new name. Because of their skill in acquiring the customs of the school, they were renamed 2nd graders, and this year Mrs. Jim Harris and Miss Dorothy Burage were the teachers. At the beginning of the third year Kenneth Henderson and Kenneth Hawkins joined them. Their teachers this year was Miss Mary Gladys Pope. These two boys have been with the class ever since. In the year of 48-49 three new students joined this class. They were Don Parks, O. B. Smith, and James Curtis. These boys have been with the class all through the years. The teacher this year was Miss Alta Lovelady. With the beginning of the fifth grade the Class of 1957 increased greatly because of the following students that started their school life and have continued it here. They were Sharon Hoke, Carolyn McClellan, Joyce Smith, Lanita Benge, Grady James, Fb Wagner, and Bascom Lowry. Their teachers this year was J. A. Harris. With the beginning of the sixth grade they had one of their present members to join them and he was Doyle McIver. This year Mrs. Glenn Gilbreath and Mr. Carl Walker were teachers. During the seventh year the following students joined the class. They were Joyce Jackson, Kenneth Ferring, and Jesse Haynes. Their teachers were Mrs. Burl Sparkman and Mr. Coleman Nichols. The teacher for the eighth grade were Mrs. Gertrude Martin and Mr. A. D. Donham.

There were no students to enter the class from the eighth grade through the eleventh grade. Martha Pritchard, and Wilbur Seale joined the class at the beginning of the twelfth year. When this class were Freshman their sponsors were Mrs. Earl McQueen and Mr. R. B. Matthews. Their Sophomore sponsors were Mr. R. B. Matthews and Mr. Louis Graves. Their Junior class sponsors were Mrs. Helen Hunter and Mr. R. B. Matthews. Their Senior class sponsors are Mrs. Helen Hunter and Mr. James Mallow.

With the end of this year by way of appropriate celebration, a strange ceremony, known as commencement, will be held. Speeches will be made, songs will be sung including the class song, and scrolls called diplomas — from the Iroquois word "diplomacy," signifying the skill and fitness it took to get one — will be given to the Seniors.

Tanks Can Now Be Stocked With Game Fish Senators Says

The long-dry tanks and ponds of Texas farms and ranches — most of which are now filled with water from recent rains — can be restocked with game fish, Senators Ralph Yarborough and Lyndon Johnson have announced.

The two Texas senators said they had been informed by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service that "fish for restocking are available and orders can be filled without delay."

This is the procedure for securing fish, as outlined to the Texas senators by the Fish and Wildlife Service:

1. The land owner makes application for the fish from the federal fish hatchery nearest him. There are five federal hatcheries in Texas, at Austin, Fort Worth, San Marcos, Burnet and Uvalde.
2. The application is sent by the hatchery to a regional office at Albuquerque, N. M., for processing.
3. Upon application approval, the fish are delivered.

"Drive Slow, You May Meet A Fool"

J. O. Musick, General Manager of the Texas Safety Association, tells the story of a Hoosier truck driver who, many years ago, while driving in a severe rain-storm in East Texas, was suddenly confronted with a detour sign.

Being completely unfamiliar with his surroundings, the driver was never exactly certain just where he was going or in what direction. Thus, some five miles later, along the detour and still no signs of life, he began to fear of having made a wrong turn. There was, however, little he could do about it, because the narrow, rutty road and filled bar-ditches offered no opportunity to turn his "rig" around. A glance at the gas needle didn't cheer him any either, as it pushed closer and closer to the empty mark.

Suddenly a division in the road broke through the darkness, and the rain-soaked beams of the truck's lights picked up a nearly indistinguishable sign. Filled with hope, the trucker quickly brought the semi to a stop. He then covered the few yards distance to the sign on foot, but only after a deep rut sent him sprawling in the muddy road. At last, holding the sign's post for support, he was able to read the peeling, printed directions: "Drive Slow — You May Meet A Fool."

Of course the trucker has chuckled many times in telling the story, but the incident also served another purpose. It stamped the driver's mind with one of the most important axioms of traffic safety.

"Drive Slow — You May Meet A Fool," is just as true and important in 1957 as it was some twenty odd years ago.

Our highways and automobiles are better engineered for safety today than they have ever been. Enforcement techniques are more scientific and wide-spread than at any time in automotive history. Our

A. J. Bishop Fights To Increase Old Age Pensions In Texas

Austin — Rep. A. J. Bishop of Winters, Texas, Friday sponsored to final passage in the House a resolution authorizing a study of the Old Age Pension program in Texas. The Committee will draft and recommend to the next Legislature their recommendations for the aid of the state's aged citizens.

The resolution, endorsed by the Senate under sponsorship of Sen. Crawford Martin, provides that a 15-member committee study and draft recommendations for solution of problems of older citizens.

The study is to include investigation of the special problems in income and employment, housing, health, rehabilitation, family relations, and other aspects.

Five members of the committee are to be appointed by the president of the senate, five by the speaker of the house, and five by the governor.

The resolution finds that Texas has a long history of justice and humanitarian concern over the economic, health and social well-being of all of its citizens.

"but these needs of our state's older citizens are not presently being fulfilled in a manner to pay proper respect and honor to the older citizens."

Bishop stated that most older persons want to work and to continue working as long as they are physically fit and can find employment.

It further finds that older people in the nation have increased in number in recent years from 4.1 per cent of the population in 1900 to 8.1 per cent over 65 in 1950. Furthermore that life expectancy has increased from an average of 46 in 1900 to 66 in 1952. Also that less than half of the nation's citizens over 65 are employed and the nation "is losing $3.8 billion a year by not utilizing their productivity."

Mr. V. L. Grady became quite ill at his home last Saturday morning and was taken to a Brownwood hospital where he seems to be in a rather serious condition. If Mr. Grady lives until the second of August he will be 90 years old. In recent weeks, Mr. Grady's home on Ave. C, has been undergoing extensive repairs and improvements on the interior, including the laying of fine wall to wall carpets. Exterior improvements are also planned and the work goes forward.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Harris were in Lampasas Sunday where he was reared and has relatives. They saw much of the recent great destruction there. Two story houses swept completely away from their foundations. He had a niece, her husband and son swept from their home. The niece was carried 8 blocks in the flood waters and landed between a tree and building where she remained 2½ hours standing in several feet of water before her cries for help were heard and she was rescued.

Today's MEDITATION from The World's Most Widely Used Devotional Guide

The Upper Room - © THE UPPER ROOM, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Read Luke 11:1-13.

Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness. (Matthew 6:33.)

A government office holder sought power, and found himself enmeshed in fraud and thievery. Another man with health, education, wealth, died young. Fortune spent, he swept barroom floors for the price of the liquor he craved. A woman used questionable methods to gain a fine estate, only to die and leave it for others to enjoy. When shall we have faith to believe Christ's promise that all in life will be provided when we truly seek to do His will?

When man plans without God, he builds on shifting sand. Too often a lifetime of labor leaves one broken in defeat only because the goal was selfish and that of a man's own designing. We do not need better schemes, not more prestige. Instead, the world needs Christ. Christ will come into the heart of man when invited. Perhaps He waits—sorrowfully—for us to admit Him, to help Him in a greater way.

PRAYER

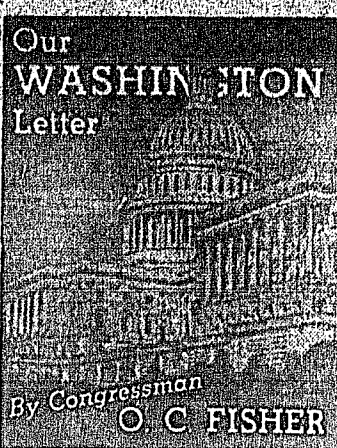

We thank Thee, heavenly Father, for the choice Thou hast given us—to seek first Thy kingdom rather than things that lure to lesser goals. Lest we fail Thee, and in falling short, betray our brother, may we have courage and the will to do Thy bidding. In Thy name, we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY

Here am I, Lord; use me. Earle H. MacLeod, Publicist (Illinois)

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pittard Jr. and children, Pat, David and Pam, of Bertram, visited with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pittard and Mr. and Mrs. Lige McClellan.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Heiner of Edinburg, Texas, came Monday for a visit of several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Heiner.

That Lampasas Flood was headline news in Washington last week. Although I was already scheduled to testify before the House appropriations committee to urge funds for survey work on the rivers in our district, the Lampasas tragedy struck only two days before I testified. It was used as an example to prove how vulnerable our area is to flash floods.

The Army Moved fast. Operating out of Ft. Hood, men and equipment were dispatched to the disaster scene and according to all reports did an outstanding relief job at Lampasas. I telephoned Secretary of Army Brucker on Monday morning who in turn contacted Ft. Hood. But the Army was already moving to the emergency scene.

Outlook For Survey work by the Corps of Engineers to determine the feasibility of flood prevention dams on our turbulent streams, is brightened by this grim reminder of what can happen. The same fate that struck Lampasas could, with a similar cloudburst, befall a dozen other towns in our area. I reminded the appropriations committee of this constant danger.

A Housing Bill passed the House last week. It allows lower FHA down payments for homebuyers and is designed to prime the supply of mortgage credit for the housing homebuilding industry. Overall, the measure is somewhat inflationary and may turn out to be expensive for Uncle Sam. But it will stimulate more building.

A money-saving amendment which I offered, approved by a vote of 144-78, will, if approved by the Senate, restrict new public housing projects to areas where the need results from slum clearance and the like.

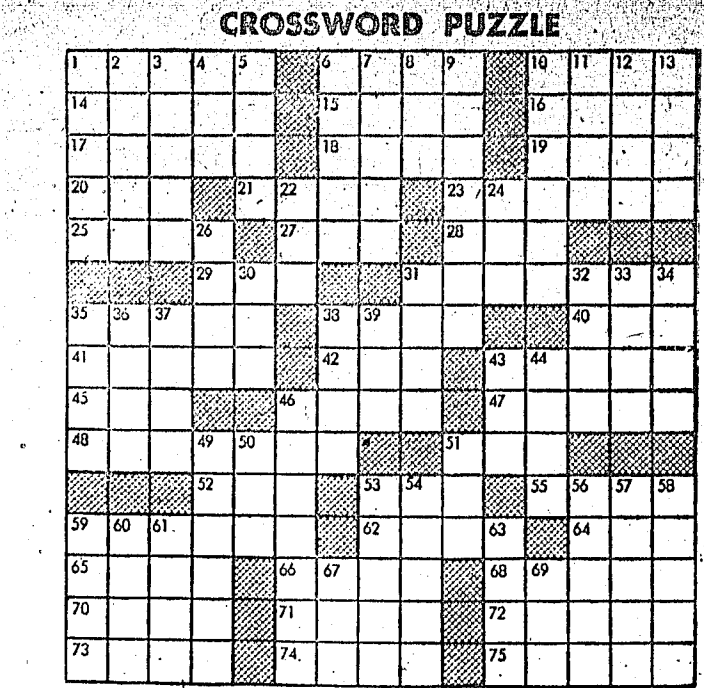

Each of the public housing apartments which the government builds costs the taxpayers more than $20,000, when all costs are added. Already around a half million of them have been built. If limited to tenants displaced by slum clearance projects, there will be very few of them built in the future because under present policy most of them are erected in places that have little if any relationship to slum clearance. Therefore, if my amendment should be kept in the law, the savings to the taxpayers in the future will run into the hundreds of millions.

PLEDGE SERVICE AT ROCKWOOD

Mrs. J. T. Avants directed a pledge service titled, "We Give Because We Love," when the W. S. C. S. met at the Methodist Church Monday afternoon. Worship Center of globe of the world and lighted candle before a cross called attention to World Scope of program.

A social meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. C. A. Miller Monday, May 27. Each member is asked to bring someone.

Members present were Mrs. J. C. Ferguson, Mrs. C. A. Miller, Mrs. M. A. Richardson, Mrs. J. A. Hunter, Mrs. Bob Johnson, Mrs. Aubrey McSwane, Mrs. J. T. Avants and Mrs. John Hunter.

Now
U.S. Savings Bonds
pay you higher interest
...faster!

If you've always bought U. S. Savings Bonds for their rock-ribbed safety, their guaranteed return, the way they make saving easier—you've got one more reason now!

Every Series E United States Savings Bond you've bought since February 1, 1957, pays you a new, higher interest—3 1/4% when held to maturity! It reaches maturity faster—in only 8 years and 11 months. And redemption values are higher, too, especially in the earlier years.

About your older Bonds? Easy. Just hold onto them. As you know, the rate of interest a Savings Bond pays increases with each year you own it, until maturity. Therefore, the best idea is to buy the new—and hold the old!

The main thing about E Bonds, of course, is their complete safety. Principal and interest are fully guaranteed.

They are loss-proof, fire-proof, theft-proof—because the Treasury will replace them without charge in case of mishap. Your Savings Bonds are as solid as a rock—backed by the full faith and credit of the United States.

Maybe you already know about Savings Bonds—as one of the 40 million Americans who own them today, or as one of the other millions who have used Bond savings to help pay for new homes, cars, or college educations, or to make retirement financially easier. If so, this is familiar territory to you—you know there's no better way to save.

But if you're new to the game, find out about Savings Bonds and what they can do for your future. Ask your banker, or check with your employer about the automatic Payroll Savings Plan that makes saving painless and easy.

SANTA ANNA, COLEMAN COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, MAY 24, 1957

NUMBER 21

Bright Future Predicted For Grads

OLD HOME WEEK

It is the year of 1977, and a beautiful October evening. Everywhere in the town of Santa Anna are huge posters reading, "Old Home Week". Many days ago, invitations were sent to all former residents urging them to attend and stressing particularly this evening when a wonderful program of entertainment is to be given. All the talent for this program is strictly home talent. Every performer was at one time a resident of this town and was graduated from our high school.

The hour for the great event has arrived. Every seat in the vast new auditorium is filled, and all are eagerly awaiting the performance in which many delightful surprises have been promised. The platform is a mass of beautiful flowers and autumn leaves and the walls are hung with garlands of pine and laurel. It is truly a festive occasion.

Seated in the audience are a number of celebrities. As I look about me, I see a number of people from the Class of 1957.

There is MAYNARD BROWN, our kind-hearted friend, who became a noted philanthropist. His money is paying for much of the Old Home Week expenditures.

The ladies in the front row are all so stylishly and becomingly dressed that they arouse my curiosity. I am told that their beautiful garments come from the very select, not to say expensive, shop of NAOMI BAUGH, who designs gowns for all the best dressed women in the country. She is here herself and looks "the glass of fashion and the mold of form."

Seated near her is KENNETH HAWKINS, a real estate dealer who owns so much property that he has to carry a list of it in order to know it himself. He has given the use of the auditorium and the spacious park, both of which belong to him.

Seated at one side, watching with interest, I see LANITA BERGE, dignified and haughty. I ask about her and am told that she is head mistress of a very fashionable girls' school in Santa Anna and has never married although she has suitors innumerable.

Standing at the door, looking for old friends, I find JESSE HAYNES, editor of the largest daily newspaper in the state, and very active politically.

It seems that JESSE isn't the only politician from that class. I see DOYNE McIVER, now Governor of Texas and thinking of running for President. I also see DON PARKS, Mayor of Santa Anna. There is a rumor out that if DOYNE is elected President, DON plans to run for Governor. We wish lots of luck to both these boys.

The two people entering receive a warm reception from the committee at the door. They are

DR. GRADY JAMES, a famous surgeon in a large hospital, and MAXINE BAUCOM, superintendent of nurses in the same hospital. If there are any accidents tonight we feel sure the sufferers will be properly cared for with GRADY and MAXINE on the job.

A round of applause greets the man just taking a seat by the window. He looks familiar and yet not familiar enough. I can't tell who he is. Ah, he waves his hands around and talks excitedly. Now I know who he is! KENNETH HENDERSON. And what do you suppose he is? He is a great weather man. It was he who furnished the splendid weather for Old Home Week. He also gives all weather information to guide the huge fleet of the world-renowned Admiral, JAMES CURTIS, who docked in Houston just in time to fly up for the program tonight.

A woman is sketching the people as they come in and doing a very good job, indeed, for I peep over her shoulder to see. Of course, you know who she is. Yes, it's JOYCE SMITH. They say she has become quite famous as an illustrator of magazine stories and newspaper articles. Her latest is a lovely series of pictures for an article about Santa Anna High School. I hear O. B. SMITH is head of this school and doing a very fine job.

Down front I see a very distinguished figure. He is the owner of the largest ranch in Texas. The rancher is FB WAGNER and his ranch is the famous "Lazy W."

And now the entertainment is about to begin. There is a hushed expectancy. The lights in the auditorium fade and the footlights flash on.

Before the house appears a tall, dignified figure who makes an eloquent address of welcome. Some of the well-turned phrases sound pleasingly familiar. I remember our famous class debator, WILBUR SEALE. It is he indeed. He was a lawyer for a time and now is a judge of the State Supreme Court. He acts as master of ceremonies also, and after his excellent speech introduces the performers.

But first he calls attention to the beautiful flowers and other decorations, saying that they were the gift of CAROLYN McCLELLAN, now the leading florist of the town. I remember her exquisite taste and an not at all surprised.

The judge announces that after the entertainment refreshments will be served through the courtesy of MARTHA PRITCHARD, who is proprietor of

We have worked hard and been worked hard, have been drunk and have got others drunk. We have been cussed, discussed, boycotted, talked to, talked about, lied to, and lied about, held up, robbed, darn near ruined. BILL WAS A GENTLEMAN

By Virginia Morris

Stifling a yawn, Bill Harding forced himself to look at the weirdly lighted stage. He'd enjoy "Marondo's Modern Ballet" if it killed him—Bill that is. Marondo was probably good for another twenty years.

Bill glanced at the rapt girl beside him. Janine's eyes never left the stage; even when she leaned her head on his shoulder, she continued to stare at the performer. "She really loves the arts," Bill thought gloomily. "That's probably why she thinks so much of that educated slob, Tobias."

He shifted his body carefully, trying to ease a cramp in his leg. Just because he'd never learned to appreciate the finer things in life... he thought longingly of the boxing match he was missing. It was really all Aunt Ellen's fault... he remembered the first letter that had come... he'd been stationed in Missouri... who was Janine Lewis?

Opening the letter, he'd read: "I honestly can't say I remember you, but Aunt El, who gave me your address, insists we are back-door cousins. She's certain that we have a great deal in common, and tells me that you are a perfect gentleman. Would you mind if I wrote you once in a while?"

Once in a while turned out to be a couple of times a week, and they got to know each other pretty well. Bill learned that Janine liked concerts, the opera, musical recitals, and the ballet. She also seemed to like a certain Tobias Zediker...

Bill was interested in the fights, the Dodgers, and an occasional beer party on Saturday night, but he was determined that this girl shouldn't find it out.

Fooling her then had been easy for Pfc. Rich-Boy had helped Bill write the proper letters home, but fooling her when he got back would be harder.

Things had worked out. He found, to his delight, that she was the girl he'd dreamed of. One look into her soft brown eyes and he knew he'd do almost anything to keep in her good graces. He asked her to get tickets to the things she wanted to see, and he went along for the ride.

Once we're married, Bill planned optimistically, we'll ease into another kind of life. The fights, a ball game—

He moved uneasily. Why didn't they make these blasted seats larger? Janine seemed comfortable enough.

Guiltily, Bill admitted that his discomfort might not all be the fault of the seat. His fool conscience, he almost groaned. He remembered reading somewhere that inside of all men, even gentlemen, there is a conscience. A nuisance, the writer had explained, but there all the same.

Bill was beginning to feel guilty about fooling Janine. How could he even ask her to marry him?

"Let's face it, Bill Harding," he told himself sadly, "You hate the finer things of life. You can't fool her, and you can't fool yourself."

There. It was a relief to admit it. Tobias, the gentleman would win.

Bill relaxed in his seat and watched the dance. That Morondo wasn't so bad... he'd have made a good basket ball player.

A sound from Janine caught Bill's attention. He looked down at her sharply. He'd have sworn... A suffocating tenderness tightened Bill's chest. He grinned—Aunt Ellen telling Janine that he was a gentleman! The poor little darling!

When the applause thundered around them, Janine sat up straight and clapped like mad. And Bill, a gentleman always, said not a word. Enthusiastically, he joined in the applause.

Bill sighed happily. He had really enjoyed the evening, especially, most especially, had he enjoyed Janine's contribution, a gentle, persistent, lady-like snore.

That fool, Tobias, didn't have a chance!

TELL US YOUR PROBLEM

AND LET US PASS IT ON TO HELP OTHERS IN SOLVING THEIRS.

BY JOHN and JANE STRICKLAND

In selling something tangible, you can probably develop enthusiasm for it if you like what you are selling and are sure of its being a helpful article. If you can't possibly make yourself like selling, then don't sell, get into some other line for which nature has adapted you.

Thomas Merritt, 542 Kenilworth Road, Bay Village, Ohio, says an old, and long-time-retired, friend handed him a slip of paper the day after he reported that he had obtained his first job. He wants us to pass the contents of that slip of paper on to you. Primarily it has to do with selling, and Mr. Merritt declares that everyone of us has something to sell, even though it be personality.

1. Know thoroughly whatever you have to sell. If it is a utility, work with it, find out what it can do for a purchaser. If it is something intangible, make a study of how that intangible quality can be helpful.

2. Practice your sales talk; learn to speak easily, and above all, with conviction, of the merits of what you have to sell.

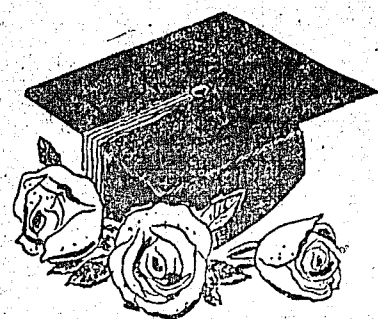

3. If possible, in selling an article, have one with you and "show", don't "tell" what it can do for a customer.

4. Remember the names of the people you do business with. If you are not good at this, take a course in memory training. This you can give to yourself, merely by practicing how to recall a person! Note what he looks like as you associate his features with your product, and above all, with his expressed desires. Do this while with him and after you have parted from him.

5. Be courteous to a receptionist, a secretary, an office boy. Often these workers can hinder or help.

6. Don't talk too much; instead encourage your prospect to talk.

Old Home Week—

the delightful "Old Home Tea Room!" As he speaks the words, my mouth waters in anticipation, for I have not forgotten the delightful refreshments she served when she entertained the class years ago.

Now the entertainment begins. There is gay music, like circus music. Then on the darkened stage in the spotlight appears a dainty figure, kissing her hands to the audience as the band leader readies his band, which is made up of S. A. H. S. graduates through the years. As the great singer begins her song we recognize the voice of SHARON HOKE. As the band leader takes his bows after the song, we recognize him as JACKIE MOBLEY.

Then the judge introduces a prosperous-looking man who he says is a Broadway song writer and the author of many popular song hits. It is LARRY DONHAM, and he plays and sings for us his last three compositions and very good they are. One, written especially for the occasion and called, "Old Home Folks," makes a decided hit. Next comes a big surprise: Miss Gloria De Lorme, the famous movie actress; and it is our old friend JOYCE JACKSON, very much changed. She has golden hair and is better looking than ever, but she seems to have acquired a foreign accent. Now she's dropped the accent and is talking as she used to talk. She's telling us all about Hollywood and how she became famous.

Next is the famous violinist who plays the most beautiful music for us. Yes, of course, it is KENNETH HERRING, and he plays even better than we always said he would. He has just returned from a concert tour in Europe. In fact, he returned a week earlier than he had intended, just to attend the Old Home Week celebration.

The spotlight is now shifted to the great auditorium organ, and the judge introduces DANIEL GILBERT, now organist in the city church and teacher in an institute of organ music. He plays beautifully and looks not a day older than when he was in high school.

And now, out upon the stage strolls BASCOM LOWRY, with a little book in his hand. He needs no introduction from the judge, for we all know him as the author of those delightful short stories. He reads us two of them and then gives a charming little talk, telling how his friends in the old home town inspired many of his best stories.

Then last of all, comes SHIRLEY LITTLE. She is a writer of plays and has two successful ones running on Broadway now. She makes a friendly little speech, addressing particularly our Superintendent and the members of the faculty, who are in the audience enjoying the program and who look young and awe-inspiring as they did when we trembled before them years ago.

Then the entire audience rises as the performers all appear on the stage at once. Our organist and our violinist play, and led by our composer, we all sing, "Auld Lang Syne." Then we adjourn for the promised refreshments from Martha's Old Home Tea Room.

It has been a real delight to see all our old friends so young and prosperous, so generous of their money and talents. In Week to be proud of and the old home folks should be happy to have such celebrities as these for their own.

—Prophet, Shirley Little
