

AIRPORT CONSTRUCTION

Work resumed this week on extension of the Marian Airpark runway to 4500 feet. Base material is ready for spreading at the end of the runway.

City Begins Final 1982 Airport Work; Looks at Year's Finances

City employees moved equipment back to Marian Airport Tuesday, July 20, to complete work on the 1982 airport improvement program, City Manager Glen Taylor has told city council members.

The major point of this year's improvement will be the surfacing of the runway extension which will bring it to a 4,500 foot length.

Return to the airport work came after the city had finished digging a new sanitary landfill, which required the use of machinery also used in the airport work.

City employees have completed at this time the addition of gravel to a number of the city streets.

More street work remains to be finished later this summer, the city manager pointed out. Curb and gutter work was completed on approximately 15 blocks earlier in the year, and when the airport is finished a contractor will be secured to come in and surface these streets.

This is the second year on the three-year airport improvement project, which is being carried out with funding from the Texas Aviation Commission.

On Tuesday, also, city employees began installing street markers, starting on First Street and working south. These are being erected so that street name signs can be added at the top of these markers at a future date. Adding the street name signs has a high priority on the city's list of improvements.

Mayor Ralph Owens announced that he and Councilman Willie Gragson will attend a meeting called by Amarillo Chamber of Commerce relating to securing more state highway dollars for this part of Texas. Owens pointed out that there are strong efforts on the part of the major Texas cities to spend the available highway monies in those areas.

The City of Wellington kept its operations in the black for the year which ended June 30, 1982, according to a profit and loss statement presented by the city manager at the city council meeting Monday night.

This showed total general fund and water and sewer revenues totaling $687,404.87, while expenses in those categories amounted to $683,280.09.

In most categories expenses stayed close to the budgeted figure set up at the beginning of the fiscal year.

Taylor also reported capital expenditures of $95,006.11. This includes asphalt and curbing for the extensive street improvement program, gravel, overhead door and steel beams stockpiled for the new fire station, cost of street signs, various army surplus equipment secured, and similar items.

This statement of revenues and expenses for the 1981-82 fiscal year is on file at the city office and available to anyone who would like to examine it.

Taylor told the council that he will have a preliminary budget to present at the August 2 council meeting.

Sheriff Kenneth Maxwell met with the council Monday night to report on expenses of the consolidated law enforcement operation for the first 10 months of that department's fiscal year.

Hospital Board Reappoints Medical Staff

Collingsworth General Hospital board re-appointed the medical staff for the coming year and reviewed a proposed new health insurance plan for hospital employees at regular board meeting Tuesday, July 20.

The medical staff includes Dr. Carter Holcomb, chief of staff, Dr. Charles Jones, staff secretary, Dr. K.N. Kumar, Dr. Reynaldo Perez (courtesy), Dr. J.M. Orr (courtesy), Dr. Wm. P. Estes (courtesy), Dr. D.E. Blacketter (courtesy), Dr. W.A. Dunagan (consulting), Dr. Jose Diaz Esquivel (consulting), Dr. Ralph Erdman (consulting), and Telemed (consulting).

The board reviewed, but took no action on, a proposal from Farm Bureau Insurance agent Tom Allison for health insurance for hospital employees.

At a special June 22 meeting, the hospital board extended the contract through July 1, 1983 with Dr. K.N. Kumar to provide medical services in the county.

At regular meeting the board also turned over $4730.30 in bad debts to a collection agency and charged off $387.52 to indigent

County Approved For Disaster Aid

Collingsworth is among the 76 counties in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico that because of unprecedented crop losses due to adverse weather will be eligible for various types of disaster assistance.

The federal assistance program was announced Thursday, July 15 jointly by Secretary of Agriculture John Block and Governor Bill Clements.

The county ASCS office will handle the disaster payments on the local level, although information on the program is just beginning to trickle in.

County ASCS administrator Bob Weatherly and Betty Baumgardner of the ASCS office are due to attend a meeting in Amarillo Thursday, July 22, to get more information on the disaster program.

Of most immediate concern to Collingsworth farmers is how much the special disaster payments will mean to them individually.

Weatherly announced these authorized payments:

Cotton: 20.5 cents per pound for crop losses in excess of 25 percent of the crop based on the established yield.

Wheat: the USDA will pay $1.75 per bushel for wheat losses in excess of 40 percent of the crop, based on established yields.

Feed grains: the USDA will pay 15 cents per bushel for corn, 18 cents per bushel for grain sorghum and 14 cents per bushel for barley on any losses that exceed 40 percent of each of the three crops.

Block also announced USDA's Farmers Home Administration is prepared to help farmers with emergency disaster loans in counties that meet the normal criteria for such aid.

Tuesday evening, however, Raymond Hodges, FmHA administrator for the county, said he has received no information on what FmHA's role will be.

The disaster assistance will be in addition to the insured benefits available to the farmers covered by the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation. Insured farmers will receive full indemnities to the extent of their policy coverage.

This has little meaning here, as only a few farmers took out the FCIC insurance in this county, Weatherly said.

Cotton farmers aren't going to make any money on the disaster payments, but it will help them get some of their expenses back, he pointed out.

He discussed cotton payments more fully.

Since cotton payments will be 20.5 cents per pound for losses in excess of 25 percent of the established yield, no farmer is going to be able to draw a payment on more than 75 percent of his established yield.

Collingsworth established cotton yields average around 300 pounds per acre and that means with a total crop loss the grower will be collecting assistance on no more than 225 pounds per acre. (75% of the 300 pound established yield.) On the other hand, if he raises a crop and harvests it, the amount he harvests will be subtracted from his established yield before the disaster price is figured.

Weatherly estimates the majority of cotton farmers, possibly as many as 98 percent, have replanted their cotton and will try to raise a crop. This means that around 98% of the cotton farmers will not collect disaster assistance until the crop is harvested next fall.

The grower whose crop is totally destroyed will make application for his disaster assistance and receive payment now.

Application for designation of Collingsworth as a disaster county was made by the county judge and commissioners court, the normal procedure for making application.

The original call for help, however, came from Congressman Jack Hightower, Congressman Kent Hance and Congressman Charles Stenholm.

On June 23, the three sent a letter to Block officially requesting the aid and inviting USDA officials to inspect the damage in Texas. This was the first formal request of any kind and the trio followed that up after the inspection with another letter July 12, reaffirming the need for aid. That letter spelled out what steps Agriculture Secretary Block should take.

"I felt that some kind of help was absolutely essential for many people in West Texas although it may not save others who will go under due to the general farm depression," Hightower commented. "I hope that the amount of assistance the USDA has decided on will provide meaningful assistance and be of real economic help."

Of the 33 counties in the 13th Congressional District 32 are covered in the USDA announcement. Also included are Baylor, Kent, Knox and Floyd Counties which will become a part of the 13th District in January 1983 because of Texas redistricting.

County Crude Production 16,662 Barrels in 1981

DALLAS - The 10th consecutive year of production at the maximum efficient recovery rate in nearly all of Texas' oil and gas fields pushed the state's output of crude oil and

condensate last year to nearly 929-million barrels.

Collingsworth County, which has had recorded production since 1936, last year produced 16,662 barrels of crude oil and condensate at the rate of 45 barrels per day. Production in 1981 boosted Collingsworth County's production total through the end of the year to 1,065,642 barrels.

The state total of 929,710,351 barrels included more than 897-million barrels of crude oil. Figures compiled by Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association also indicate that more than 31-million barrels of condensate were produced.

Texas' drilling boom, spawned by crude oil price decontrol, continued last year. Figures from the Railroad Commission's Oil & Gas Division show 24,998 new holes drilled in the state last year, an 18.1 percent increase from the 1980 total of 20,490 wells. Oil completions stood at 15,627, up 21.2 percent from 1980, while drilling applications jumped 17.8 percent between 1980 and 1981. A total of 47,940 applications were received last year, compared to 40,740 in 1980.

Service Accepts $28,500 Bid on New Ambulance

A bid of $28,500 has been accepted by the Collingsworth Volunteer Ambulance service on a new ambulance to serve the area, Marshall Peters, Ambulance Service president, announced.

The bid was submitted by Summers Ambulance Company of Duncanville and delivery is expected within 15 days.

The ambulance will be paid for by $10,000 made available by each the city and county, with the remainder coming out of savings accumulated by the ambulance service.

This will be the third ambulance in the service's fleet, however the other two are accumulating mileage that made a new one almost mandatory at this point.

It will be a Collins ambulance on a Ford chassis, Peters said.

"This is a high top van with additional length over those we have had. We will have outside storage, a new feature for us, where we can carry highway stretchers and extraction equipment," he continued.

"This is a basic ambulance, and there will be additional equipment that we will have to have. We may have to buy it as money is available." This would include such items as backboards, portable suction, new jump kits, and a number of small items."

Peters set a probable cost of $7,000 to $8,000 for these.

Area people are not being asked to donate to these, although voluntary donations will be accepted.

"We feel our people deserve the best in the ambulance," Peters pointed out. "We are also looking at the long range, what we will need 5 years from now."

The new ambulance will have accommodations for four patients on stretchers, plus room for two attendants and the driver. The ambulance is being built to meet state and federal specifications, and it has quite a few advances over the other ambulances the service now owns.

Rodeo Proposed for Late Summer Here

A non-profit rodeo in the late summer or early fall may be possible in Wellington if there is sufficient interest, Walter Clement announced this week.

Clement said he has had a number of people to contact him in favor of holding a rodeo, and he is asking others who are interested to also get in touch.

Clement, vice-president of Wellington State Bank, may be reached at 447-2551 during the day and at his home, 447-5724 evenings.

"If there is enough interest out there, we will set up a meeting in the next two or three weeks to begin work. We have some people who are real serious in wanting a rodeo again this year," Clement declared.

"This is a Texas way of life," he reminded.

Clement also said that the possibility of organizing a Wellington Rodeo Association will be discussed if the rodeo meeting is held.

All this depends on how much interest and support there is, he emphasized.

Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce voted following last year's rodeo that it would not sponsor a 1982 rodeo, and no potential sponsor had appeared until Clement became interested.

The preserve is not one big area, but ecological pockets of the Big Thicket containing unique groups of birds, animals and plant life. 15. First Monday Trade Days, Canton. The granddaddy of Texas flea markets or garage sales, Canton trade days are well into their second century. Trade days started when district court was held in this Van Zandt county seat the first Monday of each month. The court drew a crowd and the crowd drew those wanting to sell their goods. Through the years trade day expanded to trade days. Now the sales start Friday before the first Monday of every month and runs through Monday. During July 4th and Labor Day sales, up to 3,000 traders deal with crowds of over 60,000. Most anything can be found for sale - ax handles, parking meters, cow skulls, boots, jeans, quilts, tools, barber chairs, dishes, barbed wire, marble cutting blocks, dogs, fowl of all kinds and much more. Antique dealers from New Orleans are often among the buyers. There is no charge for looking.

pared to 39,442 in 1980. Last year's crude oil and condensate production total was 31.6 million barrels below the 1980 figure, a decrease of 3.3 percent. It marked the ninth consecutive year of a downward trend since Texas' output peaked at near 1.3 billion barrels in 1972. However, 1981 production from the nation's No. 1 petroleum producing province pushed the all-time cumulative total since 1866 to more than 46.6 billion barrels of crude oil and condensate.

Avery Rush, Jr., of Amarillo, chairman of the Dallas-based Association, noted that although the production decline continued last year, the 1981 decrease reflected a slowing in the rate of decline. It was the lowest percentage drop in the past five years.

"It is very encouraging to see that the unprecedented drilling activity of the past two years is beginning to have a positive effect on Texas production," Rush said. "Only by increasing our reserves can we eventually turn around our production decline. And the only way to increase reserves is by drilling," Rush said.

Wildcatting Now Profitable

COLLEGE STATION—

The chances of successfully drilling for oil or gas in previously unexplored and unproven areas may be improving, but such risky "wildcat" ventures will always be tied to the economy, says the head of the nation's largest and top-ranked petroleum engineering department.

When times are good and investors have money to risk on wildcat wells — which are usually drilled by independent oilmen — wildcatting is likely to increase, said Dr. Douglas Von Gonten of Texas A&M University.

Wildcatting declines in times when money is tight and a sluggish economy slackens the demand (and

Livestock Target of Rising Rural Crime

Crooks aren't just for city folk anymore. They like country living too. Look at the facts. More than 8 million crimes occur each year in rural areas and small towns. The victims report that crimes like theft, larceny, and burglary are their biggest problems. In fact, these property crimes account for almost 90 percent of the crimes committed.

Because Collingsworth County is not immune from rural crime, County attorney Charles Darter gives some suggestions for protecting one's property. Anyone wishing to contact him should call 806-447-2820.

Livestock theft is now one of the easiest and most profitable crimes. The modern rustler may use a car, light plane, or helicopter to spot a likely target, usually stock in isolated pastures and unlocked corrals. Then thieves move in quickly with campers, vans, or trailers, load up 10 to 15 head of cattle and drive away. In just a few hours the thieves can be in another county or state-easily putting hundreds of miles between victim and buyer. A crime that takes 10 minutes can net the rustler several thousand dollars. The risk is low, too-the theft often goes undetected for several days.

What can you do to safeguard your animals from today's sophisticated rustlers? Try these suggestions:

(1) Check your stock frequently. If possible, take a daily count. If you're going to be away, arrange to have a neighbor keep track of your animals. Do the same for your neighbors when they're away.

(2) Report missing stock immediately. Rustlers move fast, so report the loss even if you aren't sure whether the missing animals are stolen or have strayed. Don't wait-delay insures the rustler a safe getaway.

(3) Mark your animals. Be sure to make marks distinct. Mark young stock soon after birth. Register your marks and brands with your local law enforcement agency. For beef cattle, the preferred marking method is hot iron branding, often in conjunction with ear tattooing or with earmarks. Brands and tattoos are hard to alter and provide a permanent record. To be safe, do not rely on earmarks alone.

(4) Let rustlers know that your stock is permanently marked. Thieves are less likely to take property they know can be traced. Ask your county extension agent about organizations that furnish members with stickers to post on your barn and fences and gates. Do not post signs or stickers unless you have actually marked your stock.

(5) Check fences and gates regularly to make sure they are in good repair and locked. Lock corrals and loading chutes. Use sturdy chains at least 3/8-inch thick and a good quality padlock with a hardened steel shackle (3/8-inch thick, too). Look for padlocks with a double-locking design that can prevent the shackle being pried away from its case. The hasp should be secured with bolts and mounted on a metal plate. Be sure to file off the serial number on the bottom of the padlock, or a resourceful rustler may copy the number and return later with a key to open the gate.

Relatives Visit Preston Gilbreth

Preston and Lora Gilbreth of Memphis Nursing Home, formerly of Hedley, had several members of her family to pay a surprise visit Wednesday, July 14.

These were John Russell and Bill and Loula Barnes of Amarillo and Hattie Killingsworth of Ft. Worth.

Lunch was served in the Nursing Home dining room at noon, then there was singing of old songs and a little of the old-time dancing by friends.

Mrs. Gilbreth, Mrs. Barnes, Mrs. Killingsworth and Russell are the only members of the Russell family who survive. They were early residents of the Quail community.

Whippoorwills have been heard to give their call 1,088 times an hour.

Houseflies have taste-sensitive cells on their feet as well as on their mouths.

POMATOE?

Mrs. R.F. Harris holds an unusual potato plant from her garden at Swearingen. She planted the usual white potatoes this spring, but she got a plant that is bearing potatoes beneath the surface and something on the top of the vine that resembles a small tomato when it's cut open.

Books-by-Mail Again Available

Catalogs for a tax-supported books-by-mail service are available at the Collingsworth County Library.

Books by mail service is again being offered to all twenty-five counties of the Texas Panhandle. The popular service was discontinued two years ago due to decreasing federal funding; it is being made possible at this time because of an increase in state funding for libraries appropriated last year.

The program is provided by the Texas Panhandle Library System and is intended as a supplement to regular library service for people unable to use a library on a regular basis, due to illness, lack of transportation, or distance to the library. People who are geographically isolated, homebound, or otherwise unable to visit their libraries regularly will be served by mail during the next year.

The service is provided without charge to the user. Books are sent to individuals from the Texas Panhandle Library System office in Amarillo and return postage for the books is included.

Five hundred paperback book titles are listed in the Mail-a-Book catalog. The choice of books include mysteries, romances, adventure stories, westerns, how-to books, and recent best sellers, as well as a variety of books for children and youth.

The catalogs are available now at the Collingsworth County Library. Persons interested in receiving books-by-mail service need to contact the library and ask the librarian if they are eligible to receive a catalog.

The oldest mint in the Western Hemisphere is the Casa de Moneda in Mexico.

The public is invited to attend these services.

Mrs. C.D. Damron, the wife of a Methodist pastor who served West Texas churches for 30 years, died in Collingsworth General Hospital at 1:05 p.m. Friday, July 16, only four days after she was admitted for treatment. Her illness and death were unexpected in the community. Mrs. Damron, 88, lived at 1110 Ennis Street. Her death preceded by only three days that of her daughter, Mrs. Thula Ward of Woodward, Ok.

She was also a retired teacher.

She came to Wellington with her family in 1932, for the first of three assignments which Rev. Damron served at what would become Trinity Methodist Church. She was recognized for the closeness with which she worked with him in serving these churches.

At the time they first came, this was the Wellington Methodist Circuit, serving four to five rural churches, which included Aberdeen, Quail, Salt Fork, Fresno and Samnorwood.

Churches where her husband was pastor, and where she worked, included Abilene Circuit, several small towns of that area, also Rochester, Zymbach, Dunn, Odell and Tell.

During his pastorate at Southland, near Lubbock, the couple was jointly honored for outstanding service to the rural church.

Upon his retirement, they returned to their farm near Wellington, where they lived until they moved into town about 1956.

Mrs. Damron was a member of First United Methodist Church, the Dorcas Sunday School Class, County unit of the

Miss Sutton-Mr. Turner Marry in June Rites

On the evening of Saturday, June 5, Miss Jodeana Gwen Sutton became the bride of Delmar Turner, Jr. in a ceremony performed at seven o'clock in the chapel of First Baptist Church, Hollis. The Rev. Hoyt Ellis of Hollis performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sutton, Jr. of Hollis, while Mr. and Mrs. Delmar Turner of Wellington are the parents of the bridegroom.

The bride is also the granddaughter of Mrs. Jewel Trammell of Hollis and the late Cecil Trammell, and of Mrs. Mary Sutton of Wellington and the late Lloyd Sutton Sr.

The bridegroom is the grandson of Mrs. Marie Gollighugh and the late J.W. Gollighugh, and of N.J. (Doc) Turner and the late Mrs. Turner of Wellington.

Church decorations were an arch covered with greenery and spring flowers. At each side was a heart-shaped candelabra holding bridal tapers. The unity candle and white Bible completed the decorations.

Organ music and vocal selections were presented by Mrs. Kaelene Brock of Hollis.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown of white chiffon, accented with embroidered lace. It was designed with a high neck banded in lace, and a V-sheer yoke enhanced with a wide ruffle accented with the embroidered lace.

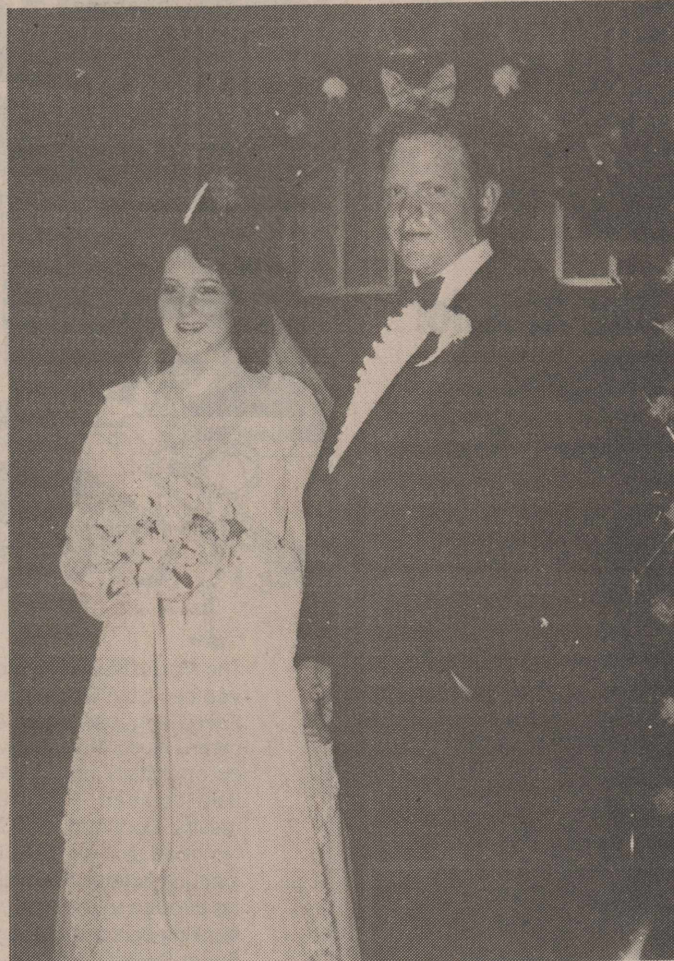

The full-length Gibson Girl sleeves were touched with rose bud lace. Softness to the formal length skirt was achieved by the accordion pleated lace apron effect, while a narrow band of lace edged the hemline and chapel length train. Bridal pearls and sequins were used on her cap-style headpiece that held her lace edged tiered illusion veil.

The bride's bouquet of lavender and white silk roses, pom-pom chrysanthemums and daisies was tied with satin streamers.

The bouquet she tossed was of baby chrysanthemums.

Lisa Alexander of Waco, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Her lavender formal length dress was designed similar to that worn by the bride, with pleating also giving softness to the skirt. She carried a bouquet of lavender and soft pink silk carnations, tied with matching streamers.

Shelley Argo of Hollis was the bridesmaid. She chose a sun dress in formal length with a lavender sheer cape. Her flowers were lavender and pink silk roses with matching streamers.

MR. AND MRS. DELMAR TURNER, JR.

Derick Warren was the best man and the groomsman was Charles Warren. They also seated the guests.

Candles were lighted by Pam and Brent Moore of Hollis, and the flower girls were Crystal Boicoult, cousin of the bride, and Amber Gollighugh. The girls' dresses were similar to those of the bride's attendants.

Adam Wood of Hollis was the ring bearer.

Guests were registered by Jana Davis, cousin of the bride.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Sutton entertained with a reception to honor the couple.

The bride's table was covered with a white linen

They had attended the annual Raburn Reunion at Arrowhead Resort in Eastern, Oklahoma, then cloth edged in a wide band of lace. The bride's cake, in four tiers, was decorated with rosebuds, and the groom's traditional chocolate cake had similar decorations. Guests were served by Vicki Scott, Sharla Davis and Susie Kellison.

Afterward, the couple left on a wedding trip to Fort Worth and Dallas, and they are now living in Wellington.

The bride graduated from Hollis High School in 1981 and the bridegroom from Wellington High School that same year. The bride also attended Western Oklahoma State College in Altus last year. The bridegroom is employed by Greenbelt Electric Co-operative, Inc.

Parents of the bride are Dr. and Mrs. Edwin B. Dempsey, 2709 East 17th, Odessa, she is also the granddaughter of Mrs. W.C. Reeves, and of the late Mr. Reeves. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burger, 2711 North Century, Odessa.

It featured a Queen Anne yoke with crystal pleating, and the Bishop sleeves were cuffed with a band of Alencon lace and crystal pleating at the wrist. Her A-line skirt had lace appliques scattered over the front of the gown. A deep flounce of crystal pleating circled the front and soft pleats emphasized the fullness of the back, which swept into a wide semi-cathedral train. The fingertip lace-edged veil was gathered into a Juliet cap. She carried a cascade of white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Susan Dempsey-Olesch of Odessa was her sister's matron of honor, and the other attendants were Mrs. Charla Dill of Brownfield, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Debbie Holdridge and Mrs. Denise Durell both of

Disasters

The farming disaster caused by poor weather this spring in the Texas Panhandle and South Plains is a cause of immediate concern.

But the real farming disaster occurred a decade ago when the federal government decided to open the production door by encouraging fence-to-fence row planting, but kept the key in its pocket by using embargoes and threats of embargoes as instruments of foreign policy.

It was clear from the questions and answers during Secretary of State George Shultz's recent Senate confirmation hearings that the government still very much believes in the use of farm commodities as a diplomatic tool.

That's probably pretty smart. We have something that our military and political adversaries need.

But the way we have used this advantage has been prettystupid.

We have embargoed items merely to show our displeasure, but we have not taken or cannot take the steps necessary to get other exporters to cooperate with us. All we have done is to send potential customers to other buyers.

And even when those customers come back to us as a last resort, we have persisted in a group of policies
that has forced our farmers to subsidize our adversaries by producing food and fiber for them at a price that is less than it costs our farmers to produce those goods.

The real disaster is low commodity prices. Until the government changes its policies, and farm commodities are sold at a price above production costs,
government loans and disaster programs will only prolong the agony.

Reports

DISASTER RELIEF

AUSTIN — Cotton
farmers now will be able to
hang on for one more year,
because of the disaster
relief that Agriculture Secretary John Block decided to give out recently.

The relief should be in the neighborhood of 20½ cents
a pound times 75 percent of last year's cotton crop.
Disaster relief could not have been more appropriate than it was this year. The weather has created what is probably the worst weather
disaster we have ever had.
Close to 2 million acres of crops were destroyed. This represents about two-thirds of the cotton that was to be grown in our district this year. The value of this crop is close to $400 million.

The U.S.D.A. also should approve some money for soil conservation practices.
We don't have any specifics on this yet. Considering the late date, the only
practice that would interest
most farmers in our area
probably would be to plant
a cover crop.

While the bulk of the disaster aid will not be available to farmers until the end of the year, some money may be released earlier.

The disaster relief money
is completely federal, but it shows the value of cooperation between state and federal officials. Both U.S.
Senators from Texas have been trying to put pressure on the U.S.D.A. to release

some aid. Congressmen
Jack Hightower, Charles
Stenholm and Kent Hance
also worked hard on the project, as did the Governor.

In fact, we doubt if any of this money would be available had it not been for the hard work of all these elected officials. We called the Governor and Secretary Block on June 25, trying to get the ball rolling. We also met with a task force sent by Block late in July. We truly appreciate all the help
and cooperation we got from the Governor and the task force sent by the U.S.D.A.

There may be some low-
interest loan money available to the farmers hit by this weather crisis. We anticipate the interest rate
for these loans will be near eight percent.

We hope this disaster relief helps every farmer in our district. We tried to cooperate with the federal government in obtaining
this relief, and we hope we helped.

One idea we had for the future is a state plan for crop insurance. A small number of other states already have started state
crop insurance plans to promote agriculture, and an agricultural state like Texas
certainly should consider joining them.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The U.S. 5th
Circuit Court of Appeals
has struck down a lower court ruling that Texas
schools must provide bilingual education for Spanish-speaking students at all grade levels and, in doing so, has dealt U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice of Tyler his second defeat in less than a month.

The appeals court ruled that Justice—the controversial jurist who has been involved in more than a few unpopular rulings — had overstepped his authority in holding that Texas had to provide bilingual education
from kindergarten through high school.

The court praised the Texas law requiring bilingual education for limited English-speaking students
and said that future suits
should be directed toward individual school districts
failing to comply with that measure.

Hispanic leaders didn't like the 5th Court ruling, but Gov. Bill Clements and other state leaders hailed the decision as showing that education policy is best left up to lawmakers and educators instead of the courts.

The bilingual issue has been working its way through the courts since 1975 when the Mexican-American League Defense
and Education Fund, League of United Latin American Citizens and G.I. Forum
first challenged the state's bilingual education policy.

Despite the reversal of the Justice decision, the lawsuit is felt by some to have prompted passage of the current law in 1981—a law
that hispanic lawmakers feel
—at least “adequately if not totally” responds to the needs of Spanish-speaking students.

Justice's earlier defeat
was the reversal of his prison reform ruling that called for private cells for each inmate.

Telephone Rates

Customers of the state's second largest telephone company will be seeing higher bills because the Public Utility Commission
has approved a $46.8 million rate hike for General Telephone — but that increase wasn't as bad as it could have been.

General Telephone, which serves nearly one million
customers in dozens of counties across the state, had requested an increase of $110.6 million, but a PUC
hearings examiner ruled that the company wasn't entitled to that much.

In fact, the amount approved was more than $2
million less than the figure the hearings examiner had recommended.

General Telephone has been the subject of much criticism in the last few years, having had one rate
hike request turned down
entirely and having had a $4
million penalty for poor service imposed against it before that.

Even though the rate increase approved was less than half of what the company had requested, General Telephone officials said they were pleased the PUC
recognized the need for additional revenue.

Millions of other Texans
who are served by Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.
also can expect their rates
to be going up soon. Bell is seeking a $471 million rate hike in what has become its annual rate hike request.

Farm Disaster

Gov. Clements has asked
U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block to declare 26 Texas counties—mostly in West Texas — disaster
areas because of millions of dollars in crop damage caused by heavy rains, hail and tornadoes.

Clements requested the disaster declaration to aid
farmers in the High Plains
area with low-interest loans
and disaster assistance.

Many farmers had their entire wheat and cotton crops destroyed, and damage estimates have been in the range of $300 million.

Also included in Clements' request was Duval County in South Texas,
which suffered flooding and
erosion as the result of 15 inches of rain in May.

U.S. Department of Agriculture officials have visited the High Plains area already to assess just how bad the crop damage was.

Martin Suit

As if former State Rep.
Mike Martin of Longview
hadn't already had enough—
what with having been shot in the elbow, convicted of misdemeanor perjury
charges and forced to give up his House seat—he is now suing his cousin for firing the shots that injured
him.

Martin, a previously little known lawmaker, gained notoriety in 1981 when he was wounded in the left elbow by a shotgun blast during the wee hours of July 31.

He told authorities several stories about what happened—including that the shooting was the work of a satanic cult—but his cousin, Charles Goff, claimed that he and Martin set up the whole affair to gain political support.

Martin denied Goff's story but was later charged with perjury for lying to the grand jury which investigated the case.

The former lawmaker,
who sponsored only one bill
during his single term in the Legislature, now says Goff caused him “serious bodily harm” by shooting him.

Martin says he wants payment for his medical bills
and $2,500 for damage to his car, which took the brunt of the shotgun blast.

Martin now works as a carpenter in Upshur County, where he moved after pleading guilty to the perjury charge in April.

His one bill in the Legislature would have required
the teaching of scientific creationism in public schools.

The measure never made it to the House floor.

Your Congressman's Votes
Reported Each Week

WASHINGTON—Here's
how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes after returning from the Fourth of July recess.

HOUSE

VEETO—By a vote of 324
for and 86 against, the House voted to override President Reagan's veto of a bill (HR 6198) extending until 1986 a copyright law
that protects the American printing industry from foreign competition. The “manufacturing clause” of the 1891 Copyright Act
requires that, to receive full copyright protection, books
and periodicals written in English by American-domiciled authors must be printed in the U.S. or Canada. Supporters say tens of thousands of U.S.
printing jobs would be lost if the clause is repealed, while opponents question that claim and say the law invites trade retaliation that will cost U.S. industry many export-related jobs. The Senate later overrode the veto, allowing HR 6198 to become law.

Members voting “yea”
wanted to continue a law
protecting the U.S. printing
industry from foreign competition.

Reps. Samuel Hall, D-1,
Charles Wilson, D-2, Ralph
Hall, D-4, Jim Mattox, D-5,

Jack Brooks, D-9, Jake
Pickle, D-10, James Wright,

Richard White, D-16, Charles Stenholm, D-17, Kent Hance, D-19, Henry Gonzalez, D-20, Abraham Kazen, D-23, and Martin Frost,
D-24, voted “yea.”

Reps. James Collins, R-3,
Phil Gramm, D-6, Bill
Archer, R-7, Jack Fields,
R-8, J. Marvin Leath, D-11,
William Patman, D-14, Tom Loeffler, R-21, and Ron Paul, R-22, voted “nay.”

Rep. Mickey Leland,
D-18, did not vote.

FDR MEMORIAL—The
House passed, 254 for and 151 against, and sent to the president a measure (HJ Res 400) authorizing construction of the first major Washington memorial to President Franklin D.
Roosevelt. Estimated to cost $26 million, the memorial would consist of a 14-foot high garden wall, 800 feet long, built along the western edge of the Tidal Basin.

Members voting “yea”
want to establish the FDR memorial.

Wilson, Mattox, Brooks,
Pickle, Wright, Hightower, Patman, de la Garza, White,
Leland, Gonzalez and Frost
voted “yea.”

Sam Hall, Collins, Ralph
Hall, Gramm, Archer, Fields, Leath, Hance, Loeffler, Paul and Kazen voted “nay.”

Stenholm did not vote.

SPENDING—By a vote of 242 for and 169 against, the House fell short of the two-thirds majority needed
to override President Reagan's veto of a $5.9 billion appropriations bill (HR 6682) to fund a variety of programs through September. This gave the president his second successful veto of the “urgent supplemental”
spending bill for the remainder of FY 1982.

Members voting “nay”
supported the presidential veto.

Ralph Hall, Mattox, Brooks, Wright, Hightower,
de la Garza, White Hance, Gonzalez, Kazen and Frost
voted “yea.”

Sam Hall, Wilson, Collins, Gramm, Archer, Fields, Pickle, Leath, Pat-
man, Stenholm, Loeffler and Paul voted “nay.”

Leland did not vote.

SENATE

TOBACCO—By a vote
of 56 for and 40 against, the Senate tabled and thus killed an amendment that,
beginning in 1983, would have blocked price support increases for tobacco that resulted in additional government expense. The vote occurred during debate on a bill (HR 6590) drafted in response to the new four-year farm bill enacted
last year. Under the latter legislation, Congress must pass a bill this year insuring
that the tobacco program is operated at minimal cost to the Treasury.

Senators voting “yea”
were opposed to further restrictions on tobacco price supports.

Sen. John Tower, R,
voted “yea.”

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D,
voted “nay.”

TOBACCO—The Senate
tabled, 49 for and 47
against, an amendment to make the federal tobacco
program subject to congressional review every four years, the review period for other commodity programs.

The current tobacco program has no termination
date. The amendment was offered to HR 6590, later
passed and returned to the House. The bill makes the most fundamental changes
the tobacco program has seen since it was established in 1938, primarily by transferring most costs of the program from the Treasury to tobacco farmers. For example, farmers are to be assessed the cost to the government of stockpiled tobacco that is not sold, and certain
non-farming institutions will become ineligible to hold acreage allotments.

Senators voting “yea”
favored a tobacco program
of unlimited duration.
Bentsen and Tower voted “yea.”

Jones Attends S&L League Annual Meet

HOUSTON — Russell V.
Jones, president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Childress recently attended the 60th
annual convention of the Texas Savings and Loan League here. First Federal has branches in Memphis and Wellington.

The convention was held
June 9-11 at the Westin-Galleria. Approximately 400
delegates from throughout the state attended the annual gathering to discuss various topics related to the savings and loan industry.

The League is the state
trade organization representing over 300 savings
and loans and associate members. Savings and loans are a $40 billion business in the Texas financial industry, Durward Curlee, executive vice president of the League, said.

“During times of nationwide economic recession,
housing is the first and foremost industry to be influenced. Historically our industry has been the prime source for individual home financing. With high interest rates and the new powers granted to financial institutions, our industry is in a period of transition.”

“We are hopeful that at meetings such as our annual convention we can gather insights and knowledge on how to better serve the needs of our communities.
The theme of this year's convention was “Transition—
Not An Optical Illusion,” Curlee said.

Wellington Colonels Meet For Reunion After 16 Years

"Men win wars in the air through discipline. This comes from motivation, the ability to fly the plane, and patriotism..." spoke Colonel Philip Handley, as he delivered a speech on June 28, to 300 assigned and attached members of the 4166th USAR School in Fort Bliss, Texas, during their annual training.

Not only was it a speech for inspiration, but also a reunion between Colonel Handley, newly appointed Commander of the 405th Tactical Training Wing, Luke Air Force Base, Arizona, and Colonel James R. Leggett, Commandant 4166th USAR School, Lubbock, Texas. As small children in the town of Wellington, Texas, the two men played together, studied together, and even shared emotions. Colonel Leggett vividly recalls, "One day we came home from school and found Phil's home burning. Frantic, but courageous as two young boys can be, we took measures to solve the problem. Phil crawled through the back door of the house and tried to extinguish the fire, while I ran next door to alert the neighbors and contact the fire department." On several occasions Colonel Handley referred to his cohort as "Hoppy," which he said was Colonel Leggett's nickname in high school because he ran so fast and hopped at the same time.

Concluding his speech Colonel Handley showed a very interesting film that diagrammed the various types of fighter planes and their capabilities. These pictures were actually taken from his plane while in flight.

Colonel Leggett received his Bachelors of Arts degree from Hardin-Simmons, and his M.A. from University of Arizona. He also studied at Purdue and Oregon State University. With a military occupational branch in engineering, Colonel Leggett's civilian position is Associate Professor of Chemistry at South Plains College. The unit that he commands, 4166th USAR School, includes the geographical responsibility of the panhandle and West Texas region. It's headquarters is in Lubbock, Texas with major satellites in Amarillo, Midland-Odessa, San Angelo, and El Paso. He is married to the former Suzanne Pearce. They have two children.

Colonel Handley received a Bachelor of Science degree in Physical Science from Troy State University; his wings and commission through the Aviation Cadet Program in 1959 at Reese Air Force Base, Texas. Logging more than 6,900 flying hours including 375 combat missions in the F-4D/E, Colonel Handley has served in units where he flew such fighter planes as the F-86, C-130, and F-4. In 1973, he served as Chief of Standardization Evaluation for the 33d Tactical Fighter Wing, Eglin Air Force Base, Florida. During a deployment in Thailand, in support of Operation Linebacker I, he became the first Tactical Air command deployed pilot to down an enemy aircraft when he shot down a MIG-19 with 20 millimeter cannon fire.

Colonel Handley attended the U.S. Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, Pennsylvania and upon completion, was assigned as Director of Personnel Plans, Headquarters, Tactical Air Command, Langley Air Force Base. In 1981, he became the Deputy Commander of Operations for the 1st Tactical Fighter Wing at Langley until assuming his present position. His military awards and decorations include the Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross with two oak leaf clusters and the Air Medal with 20 oak leaf clusters. Colonel Handley is married to the former Solveig Flettermann of the Hague, Netherlands. They have two children.

This was the first reunion for the two men in sixteen years. In retrospect, Colonel Handley said, "When Jim and I were graduating from high school, I remember there was a picture in the Post Office of a guy with a football helmet in one hand a steel helmet in the other. This displayed a matter of pride." Perhaps it was that same pride that reunited these two gentlemen many years later as leaders in their similar fields.

City Sales Tax for July Totals $1,181

The City of Wellington has received from the office of State Comptroller Bob Bullock a check for $1,181.53 as its share of the one percent city sales tax for the period ending July 7.

This is just a little more than half of the amount received for the same period a year ago, $2,210.

However the 1982 total payment to date of $36,985.99 remains a little more than the total for the same period in 1981, which was $36,205.03.

Altogether, it represents an increase of 2.16% for 1982 over the 1981 figure.

Paper makes up most of the waste found in the average American's trash can.

Win the War Against Fleas

DALLAS - Fleas seem to be making it big in Texas.

Over the last five to seven years, fleas seem to have become more and more of a problem, particularly in urban and suburban areas.

Cat fleas which infest dogs or cats and readily attack humans are the most common, says an urban entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Flea bites are extremely annoying and generally become increasingly sore and irritated over a period of a week or more, explains Dr. John M. Owens. Fleas most often bite people about the legs and ankles.

A small red spot with a light colored center appears where the mouthparts of the adult flea enters the skin. Applying cooling preparations such as caroblated vaseline, menthol, camphor, calamine lotion or ice will help relieve itching. Severe allergic reactions or infections should be treated promptly by a physician.

Although fleas can transmit bubonic plague and murine typhus, these diseases are rare.

How do you control these irritating pests?

Flea control must include treatment of the pets and thorough treatment of the entire premises--indoors and outdoors. These three areas should be treated simultaneously to break the "flea-cycle" and get effective control, emphasizes the entomologist.

Insecticides containing carbaryl (Sevin), dichlorvos (DDVP), pyrethrin, rotenone, malathion, methoxychlor or propoxur (Baygon or Sendran) are labeled for use on animals. Dusts or powders are generally preferred over sprays for treating pets and should be used at three to four-day intervals when infestations are heavy.

Grain Dust Explosions Can Be Cut

Within the past three years, 43 grain elevators have exploded, causing 85 deaths, many serious injuries and hundreds of millions of dollars in property damage and production losses.

"While grain dust explosions are complicated, they can be prevented," says Dr. Gary Nelson, safety engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University. "Grain dust explosions are the result of a rapidly burning fire inside an enclosure," he explains. "Fuel, air, an ignition source and a closed container are the necessary ingredients for an explosion."

Eliminating any one of the four ingredients can prevent an explosion, says Nelson, while eliminating fuel, air or an ignition source can prevent a flash fire.

"Since grain dust provides the 'fuel' that can lead to a flash fire or elevator explosion, dust control can be a key factor in preventing such fires or explosions," points out the engineer.

Precleaning grain before it enters the elevator should be considered to help control dust, says Nelson.

Other steps that would help control dust include transferring grain throughout the elevator as gently as possible to avoid creating additional dust, using exhaust ventilation systems at transfer points and other locations to remove airborne dust, and sweeping, mopping, vacuuming or otherwise removing grain dust that has not been removed by ventilation systems.

"If precautionary measures fail and an explosion does occur, two things can minimize damage," Nelson says. "These are explosion suppression and explosion venting."

Explosion suppression involves advanced technology where pressure-sensitive electronic equipment detects the beginning of an explosion and releases extinguishing chemicals, all in about 60/1,000 of a second--less time than an eyeblink. These systems should be considered for key locations, advises the engineer.

Vents at key positions also help minimize explosion damage by acting as safety valves to prevent the buildup of high, destructive pressures.

S.T. Anglin, 57-Year County Resident, Dies

Samuel Thomas Anglin, 100-A West 13th Street, died Saturday, July 17, at 4:15 p.m. in Collingsworth General Hospital, after an illness of about two months. He had lived in Collingsworth County 57 years.

A life-long Texan, Mr. Anglin was born June 16, 1894, at McKinney. He brought his family here in 1925, and farmed near Wellington until he moved into town in 1948.

He was married to Miss Mary Lee Rushing on November 23, 1913 at Francis, Oklahoma.

Mr. Anglin was a long-time member of the Church of Christ.

Funeral services were conducted at the Church of Christ Monday, July 19, at 10:30 a.m. with Garell Forehand, minister, officiating. Burial was in Memorial Gardens under the direction of Guy Owens Funeral Home.

Both active and honorary pall bearers were grandsons. Active bearers were Randy Anglin, Tommy Needham, Danny Vandivere, Johnny Needham, Bobby Winton and Ronnie Anglin. Honorary bearers were Sammie Anglin, Ricky Needham, Stanley Vandivere, Lonnie Needham, Jr., and Richard Needham.

Survivors include his wife; three daughters, Mrs. Mattie Winton, Norma Needham, and Mrs. Aline Vandivere, Amarillo; three sons, Everett Anglin, Clarence, Henry Anglin, Las Cruces, N.M. and Hershel Anglin, Vernon; one brother, Alvin Anglin, Modesto, Ca.; 21 grandchildren and 41 great-grandchildren.

Guest Speaker At Assembly of God Sun.

The Rev. Arlin Smith of Amarillo will be the guest preacher at the Assembly of God Church Sunday, July 25. He will preach at the morning service at 10 a.m. and the evening service at 6 p.m.

Mrs. Smith will accompany her husband.

"They will sing several songs with humor and comments between each one, then Rev. Smith will speak. The message is instructional and an uplift to the people," said Mrs. Troy Stallings, who is helping with plans.

The public is invited.

Texas Ag Sales $9.5 Billion

COLLEGE STATION-----1981 sales from Texas agricultural products are estimated at $9.5 billion, up about a half billion dollars from the previous year. However, net profits of farmers and ranchers continued a downward trend.

"Farmers and ranchers had a lot to sell in 1981 but they had less income due to low farm prices and rising production costs," points out Dr. Carl Anderson, an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Yet the total impact of agricultural sales bolstered the Texas economy to the tune of some $35 billion. Farm and ranch assets stood at some $80 billion, or an average investment of $430,000 per farm (based on some 186,000 farms in Texas). Of course, many Texas farmers and ranchers have more than a million dollars invested in their operations, says Anderson.

As far as last year's agricultural sales are concerned, the economist points out that the livestock sector, including dairy and poultry production, contributed about $4.9 billion to the ledger. Crop sales added another $4 billion while sales from agriculturallyrelated sources such as timber, horses, fish farming and hunting leases added another $600 million.

Beef cattle receipts alone totaled about $3.5 billion to lead all commodities, notes Anderson. Cotton sales topped all crops at $1.3 billion even with the depressed prices.

Poultry and dairy product sales were about even at $565 million and $570 million, respectively, while sheep and goats brought in $146 million and swine, $116 million.

Following cotton in crop receipts were wheat, $517 million; grain sorghum, $140 million; other feedgrains, $367 million; vegetables, $298 million; rice, $290 million; and nursery plants, $225 million. Peanut sales totaled $115 million while forage sales stood at $114 million. Other crop sales included soybeans, $70 million; citrus, $65 million; pecans, $45 million; and peaches, plums and other fruit, $19 million.

Texas continues to tank third in total cash receipts from agricultural products behind California and Iowa, says Anderson. However, Texas leads the nation in sales of cattle and calves, cotton, grain sorghum, sheep and wool, goats and mohair, cabbage and spinach.

As far as the total agricultural industry in Texas is concerned, about 20 percent of the state's population is involved in agriculture in some way.

Begin Fair Parade Plans

Collingsworth County Fair time is just a month and a half away and there are some groups that should begin work now. (The Fair dates are Friday and Saturday, September 10 and 11.)

One of these is the groups and organizations who will have entries in the big opening parade. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Campbell, chairmen, have reminded.

"The parade is one of the things the people enjoy most, and we would like to have every organization and business represented," said Mrs. Campbell.

Because of the cost which preparing a large elaborately decorated float now presents, she urged some groups to think of smaller floats, emphasizing original thought and unusual design.

Several of these were included last year and were especially enjoyed, Mrs. Campbell pointed out.

The usual parade divisions will be seen again this year: commercial floats, organizations including both youth and adult, bicycles, riding clubs, horses, motorcycles, old cars, That Skyrocket Band, the VFW Honor Guard and possibly others.

But most of all, people planning to enter the parade should begin getting their materials and their plans together now, Mrs. Campbell emphasized.

Childress Slates Softball Tourney

Childress Softball Association is sponsoring its final classic tournament Friday through Sunday, July 30-Aug. 1.

Entry fee is $75 and teams play their own balls. ASA umpires will be used. Trophies will go to the first four place teams and first, second and third individuals. Tee shirts will be awarded.

Additional information may be had from Tylor Drinnon 817/937-3434 or Jerry Reed 817/937-2386.
