Stettinius Shifted To World Council

Cabinet Resignation Accepted, But Successor Not Named Immediately

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
Associated Press Staff Writer

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., July 27—President Truman today picked Edward R. Stettinius as the United States representative to the United Nations, disclosing his immediate resignation as the secretary of state.

He made the announcement to a home town news conference in the midst of a day of celebration welcoming him back to Independence for the first time since he entered the White House.

Name Successor Soon

The President said he would announce his new secretary of state Monday or Tuesday, probably Tuesday, but he laughed off attempts of reporters to have him verify reports he had James F. Byrnes in mind for the post.

At one point, the President said the man he would name was not now in government, a description which would fit Byrnes.

The President made public a letter, dated today at Independence, in which he praised Stettinius' work at the post-war security conference which closed yesterday, and told him he wanted him to take the leadership in building "a solid structure of peace" from the charter completed this week at San Francisco.

The President said Stettinius had agreed to accept nomination as American representative of the United Nations organization when it comes into being, serving as United States member of the security council and chairman of the United States delegation in the larger general assembly.

Long Been Forecast

Capitol Hill sources long have forecast Stettinius' transfer to an important United Nations post, and the appointment of Byrnes, former South Carolina senator, supreme court justice and war mobilizer, as his successor.

The President also disclosed, under questioning that:

1. He will present the charter to the Senate formally Monday and ask its immediate ratification although he said he had not made up his mind whether to do so in person.

2. Stettinius will serve as his "personal representative" in supervising the work of the United States members of the preparatory commission pending formal ratification of the charter and his nomination as United States representative to the United Nations.

Stettinius, at his own request, the President said, will pass up the Big Three meeting near Berlin next month, representing the President during Senate hearings on the charter.

The letter was the President's first flat statement that his conference with Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill, "will take place next month."

3. He is flying back to Washington Sunday, arriving at 1 p. m. CWT if the "Sacred Cow", as his big C-54 airliner is called, stays in the air. Stettinius' resignation, offered immediately after the death of former President Roosevelt, is effective today. He is accepting the offer of the new appointment, the President said, and it is the higest post in the gift of the government.

Troops Join, Only Pockets Now Remain

MANILA, Thursday, June 28—Reconquest of big Luzon island, which the Japanese invaded Dec. 10, 1941 and which American forces reinvaded last Jan. 9, was announced today by Gen. Douglas MacArthur—his biggest single triumph of the Southwest Pacific war.

Scattered enemy remnants must be hunted down but organized reristance was crushed in north Luzon, the last Japanese strongpoint, with 113,593 counted dead, other thousands yet to be counted and several thousand taken prisoner.

Population Liberated

Reporting complete conquest of the Cagayan valley, today's communique added:

"The entire island of Luzon, embracing 40,420 square miles and a population of 800,000 is now liberated."

The Americans have made a juncture in the valley of northern Luzon "securing the entire length" and climaxing a campaign of 28 days.

The once powerful Japanese force in the 200-mile-long valley has been driven into the mountains to the east and west, cut off from all supplies.

Heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy, MacArthur said, placing these at 113,593 dead. He said the graves of many more thousands of Nipponese troops had been located but uncounted.

Major Phase Closes

"Except for isolated operations, this closes the major phase of the northern Luzon campaign," the communique reported. "One of the most savage and bitterly fought in American history."

The only other enemy forces of consequence in the Philippines are on Mindanao, southernmost island, and they are scattered and growing increasingly disorganized.

Emphasizing the great work done in the Cagayan valley, headquarters said:

"No terrain has ever presented greater logistical difficulties and none has ever provided an adversary with more naturally impregnable strongholds."

In addition to the listed enemy dead several thousand were taken prisoner.

American Casualties

Announced American losses were 3,793 dead, 34 missing and 11,351 wounded.

Enemy losses throughout the archipelago already far exceed 400,000.

In Cagayan, Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler's 37th Ohio Infantry division sprinted the last 11 miles northward along Highway Five, with tanks in the lead, to effect a juncture with Maj. Gen. Joseph M. Swing's 11th Airborne division about eight miles south of Gattaran.

The 11th had pushed south after being dropped from the skies near Aparri. The juncture, near the val-

Fleet Units Steam Into Okhotsk Sea

Three Ships Sunk, One Probably As Force Moves In West Of Kuriles

(By The United Press)

GUAM, Thursday, June 28—Penetrating the Okhotsk sea west of the Kuriles, for the first announced time of the Pacific war, a light naval task force of the North Pacific fleet sank or damaged a small Japanese convoy in a daylight attack Monday.

The action was disclosed in Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz's communique today.

Three Japanese ships were sunk, one probobly sunk and one small vessel was damaged in the engagement, fought west of the Kuriles island of Harumukotan.

Cross Kuriles Chain

The North Pacific task force, presumably composed of cruisers and destroyers, crossed through the Kurile island chain for the first sweep into the Sea of Okhotsk, which lies between the Russian-held Kamchatka peninsula and the Siberian mainland on the west.

Few details of this sweep were reported, but the task force objective presumably was to intercept a Japanese supply convoy running from the homeland to the fog-bound Kuriles bases.

Harumukotan is about 60 miles south of Paramushiro, northernmost of the Kuriles and is the second island south of Paramushiro.

Tack forces of the North Pacific fleet frequently have shelled Paramushiro and Matsuwa islands, but these attacks generally have been hit-and-run bombardments in the night.

The fact the task force dared a penetration into the Okhotsk sea in daylight indicates that Japanese air cover, based in the Kuriles, has been reduced sharply.

The task force command probably took advantage of cover in the customary bad weather of that region of the Pacific.

At its southern end, the Sea of Okhotsk sweeps the coast of Hokkaido, which is the northernmost of the Japanese home islands.

Hokkaido is about 600 miles south of Harumukotan island.

Last Sunday, Liberators of the Aleutians-based 11th Army Air force flew over the eastern edge of the Okhotsk sea and sank a small cargo ship and damaged two others.

Pacific Fleet Casualties 9,731 Bringing Okinawa's Cost To 46,319; 11,897 Killed

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

GUAM, Thursday, June 28.—Pacific fleet casualties from March 18 through June 20 were 9,731, bringing the total cost of the seizure of Okinawa and all associated naval operations to 46,319.

Of the total, 11,897 naval personnel, soldiers and Marines were killed or missing.

Japanese casualties in ground action alone were 111,531, including 9,498 prisoners, an estimated 3,500 more were killed in the battle of the inland sea March 18-19—included in the Navy casuality period—and more than 4,000 Japanese pilots were shot down in assaults on American forces.

Navy Figures Raised

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz's communique today raised Navy casualty figures to 4,907 killed or missing and 4,824 wounded in all Pacific activities associated with the Okinawa invasion.

Naval losses included approximately 1,000 killed, missing or wounded aboard the carrier, USS Franklin, severely damaged by two kamikaze (suicide) pilots as she launched planes to attack a Japanese naval force March 18, and 656 casualties aboard another large carrier, the USS Bunker Hill, May 11 as she launched planes to attack Japanese positions in support of American ground forces on Okinawa.

The American invasion fleet, engaged in transporting, protecting and supplying the ground forces on Okinawa, totaled more than 1,400 ships, a majority of which remained offshore, open constantly to attack by enemy bombers and crash diving kamikazes.

637 Since May 23

Today's figures added 637 to the list of killed or missing naval personnel since May 23, and 653 to the wounded list. This was for a four weeks' period, May 24 through June 20.

Nimitz' communiques have disclosed that a total of 33 ships—all of destroyer size or smaller—were sunk, and approximately 60 were damaged since March 18 in the entire Ryukyus and supporting operations.

The March 18-June 20 period included strikes in force on the Tokyo area, neutralizing raids on Kyushu and other Japanese airfields from which the enemy staged his Okinawa attacks, numerous neutralizing raids on the Sakishima islands, southernmost of the Ryukyus, and on Minami Daito, Amami and other islands in the Ryukyus area.

Jap Naval Force Trapped

The March 18-19 attack trapped a strong Japanese naval force in the inland sea. There, Vice Adm. Marc A. Mitscher's carrier pilots sank the 45,000-ton battleship, Yamato; two cruisers, five de-

Many More Jap Plants In Ruins

GUAM, Thursday, June 28.—B-29s heavily damaged four more Japanese aircraft factories in demolition and fire raids on three cities June 18 and 22, Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, commander of the 21st Bomber command, announced today.

New damage, assessed from reconnaissance photographs, increased the total burned out industrial and urban areas of Japan to more than 115 square miles.

Newly Assessed Damage

LeMay's report listed this newly assessed damage:

Kawasaki aircraft works at Kagamigahara, near Nagoya, about 35 per cent destroyed or damaged.

Kawanishi Aircraft Co. plant at Himeji, almost completely destroyed.

Mitsubishi Aircraft works plant at Tamashima, about 85 per cent destroyed or damaged.

Kawasaki Aircraft plant at Akashi, near Kobe, about 24 per cent new damage.

These were damaged in the June 22 demolition raid.

Reconnaissance photos of damage inflicted on June 18 and 20 fire missions showed:

Kagoshima on Kyushu, 2.04 square miles, or 42 per cent of this small industrial center's built-up area.

Fukuoka, also on Kyushu, 1.3 square miles, or 20 per cent of the built-up area.

Stettinius Pledges 'Everything Within Me' Toward Peace Charter Fulfillment

WASHINGTON, June 27. (AP)—Secretary of State Stettinius today pledged "everything that is within me" toward fulfillment of the lasting peace envisaged in the United Nations charter.

In a statement issued shortly after President Truman announced, at Independence, Mo., his designation as United States representative on the postwar security council and chairman of the U. S. delegation in the United Nations general assembly, Stettinius said:

Grateful To President

"I am deeply grateful to the President for his generous appraisal of what I have done. As chief executive of our country he has guided our course with a sure hand and his leadership was essential to the success of the San Francisco conference.

"The President has accepted my resignation as secretary of state and asked me to accept nomination as the representative of the United States to the United Nation as the representative of the into being. I have accepted. I shall continue to give everything that is within me toward fulfilling in action the promise of lasting peace which is now embodied in the United Nations charter."

Praised By Connally

Chairman Connally (D-Tex), of the Senate Foreign Relations committee who was one of Stettinius' fellow delegates at the conference, issued this statement:

"Secretary Stettinius performed a commanding and distinguished service at San Francisco. As president of the conference he exhibited masterly direction over its activities and speeded the work of the conference.

"He will no doubt contribute much to the world peace organization as a member of the security council and the assembly.

"The good wishes of the United States delegation go with him."

It was understood that Stettinius, as America's representative to the United Nations, would have his desk in the White House.

Mismanagement Charged To WFA

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—A House sub-committee asserted today that mismanagement in the War Food administration had resulted in food and money losses running into "many millions of dollars."

It also accused some WFA officials of giving false information to Congress when it sought to check up on the agency's operations.

In a report on a lengthy investigation—much of it conducted undercover — an appropriations sub-committee headed by Rep. Traver (D-Ga.) accused WFA of wasteful warehousing practices, poor bookkeeping and inadequate records, lax hiring methods and "inefficiency and dereliction . . . on the part of some officials."

Words of Praise Also

Along with its criticism, the committee had words of praise for WFA. It said the agency "has met a national need in a period of extreme emergency and the overall result has been one of which the people of the country have the right to be proud." It also praised War Food Administrator Marvin Jones as helpful and cooperative.

Commenting on the report, Jones said the committee charges referred to only one phase of the WFA's food operations—the storing and handling of perishable foods in connection with lend-lease and farm price support operations.

"Naturally, there were some losses, but the overall losses were less than those which normally occur in regular channels of trade," Jones said in a statement.

"This food had to be produced, stored, transported and loaded on

Billy Sides Among Carrier Crew Not Hurt In Holocaust

ABOARD THE USS BUNKER HILL, Puget Sound Navy Yard, Bremerton, Wash. Delayed—Harold E. Walker, 19, seaman first class, of Stephenville, Tex., fought his way through dense smoke and raging fires below decks to locate a badly needed supply of fresh water after the Carrier Bunker Hill was hit by two Jap suicide planes off Okinawa, May 11.

"I had marked it many days before," said Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walker of Stephenville.

He helped rescue men from below decks and administered artificial respiration to others.

Later Walker sent 11 wounded and burned men to a ship which had pulled up alongside. Eight of them were put in mail bags and three of those more seriously wounded in stretchers.

The scarred and battered carrier is undergoing repairs here.

Another Texan, Billy B. Sides, 19, seaman second class, of Lubbock, remained at his battle station, although terrific fires threatened.

A powderman stationed in the forward area of the ship, he neither was wounded nor burned by the fires which eventually were brought under control by the crew.

Sides is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman H. Sides of Route 1, Lubbock.

Japs Turn Carrier Flagship Into Inferno, But She Hobbles Home

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—Japanese suicide planes scored two direct bomb hits on the Carrier Bunker Hill, causing 656 casualties, but the flagship of Vice Admiral Marc A. Mitscher survived four hours of flaming death and will fight again.

The Navy disclosed today that the Bunker Hill, despite losses of 373 dead, 19 missing and 264 wounded in the tragic episode off Okinawa May 11, is home under her own power for repairs at the Puget Sound Navy yard.

A daring maneuver which literally flung the fire from her hangar deck capped the heroic efforts of her crew and assisting ships to conquer the flames.

Water Causes List

Three hours after the attack, firefighters were still waging a nip and tuck battle on the flaming deck.

Tons of water, poured on countless thousands of gallons of flaming oil and gasoline, were forcing the firefighters back against the bulkhead. The sheer weight of the water was causing a six degree list in the ship. Below decks men were dying from heat and suffocation.

The Cruiser Wilkes-Barre, a member of the task group, had come alongside, placing her bow hard against the Bunker Hill's starboard quarter, to add her hose to the firefighting. With the Wilkes-Barre at her side, the Bunker Hill went into a wide, 70 degree turn at 2½ degree rudder. In turning, the Navy account said, she shifted the load of water across the ship and "dumped the heart of the roaring inferno on her hangar deck out into the sea.

Fresh Air Whips Deck

"Men with lips too burned to cheer rushed forward with their hose," the Navy related. "Fresh air whipped across the deck at their backs, forcing the heavy smoke of burning oil and gas away from them. New life breathed through the ship. Men who were lying on blistering hot decks below knew, even as they drew their first breath of fresh air, that some miracle had saved them. They knew, too, that the Bunker Hill would live to fight again."

Commodore A. A. ("31 Knot") Burke, chief of staff to Admiral Mitscher, said the admiral was in flagpiot when the attack came and escaped unhurt, although three officers and 11 men of his staff were killed and about 20 officers and men were wounded or overcome by smoke.

Admiral Mitscher transferred his flag to another carrier after the ship was saved. Fire destroyed all of the admiral's clothing except what he wore.

Proud Pacific Veteran

The 27,000-ton Essex class carrier was a proud veteran of every Pacific invasion and campaign since opening of the Central Pacific offensive more than a year ago. Many of her planes were aloft, supporting ground force advances on Okinawa, when the single engined Japanese fighter, a "Zeke," sneaked in low and fast on the starboard quarter. While still aloft, the plane dropped a 500 pound

Shipment Of Sugar To Spain Considered

WASHINGTON, June 27. (AP)—About 60,000 tons of sugar from the United States-United Kingdom-Canada controlled sugar pool may be shipped to Spain to carry out wartime trade agreements, government authorities said today.

War Food administration officials said the allocation was not definite and might be revised.

The Spanish destined sugar would come from the British West Indies and out of the British-controlled share, WFA said.

The trade agreements were negotiated between the United States, the United Kingdom and Spain in order to get other strategic materials from Spain and prevent their falling into the hands of the Germans.

U. S. civilians were alloted 1,380,000 tons for the next three months.

Bilbo Launches His Fireworks On FEPC

By TOM REEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 27.—For three hours and 32 minutes today, Senator Theodore G. Bilbo said he didn't want the FEPC in any shape or form. And he said if any senators think this is a filibuster, show up tomorrow and really hear one.

From 12:56 until 4:30, Bilbo droned on about the Fair Employment Practices committee, charged it was trying to fuse white and negro races and those who were for it only wanted the negro vote. He is a Mississippi Democrat didn't need it.

He insisted it wasn't a filibuster but it sure looked the part. It had so much the air of one that Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) and Majority Leader Barkley of Kentucky decided to seek a compromise.

McKellar pleaded that the situation was threatening a war agencies' appropriation bill, night sessions might be necessary, and even then the fiscal year might end without cleaning up the money measures.

Bilbo said he couldn't help it; those who wanted to stick funds for the FEPC into the war agency bill were to blame.

So McKellar threw up his hands and moved to recess until noon tomorrow. Bilbo will still have the floor then.

"And like Tennyson's brook, I can run on forever," Bilbo said.

The problem developed into a duel between Bilbo and Senator Chavez (D-NM) who was author-

Adolf Called GIs Screwballs And Illiterates Dominated By Britain

By JACK FLEISCHER
United Press Staff Writer

BERTCHESGADEN, June 27.—Adolf Hitler regarded the average American GI as a screwball who joined the Army for excitement and the U. S. home front as a collection of illiterates dominated by Great Britain.

That, at least, was the impression Hitler left with a group of German stenographers — now American prisoners—who made a shorthand record of a Nazi conference at the fuehrer's headquartres in the Ukraine in March, 1943.

Completely Insane Ideas

Hitler, who never traveled outside Germany and Austria except for a few brief visits to European countries overrun by his armies early in the war, had some completely insane ideas about the United States and Americans.

His closest military advisers shared his cockeyed views, which may explain why the Nazis so consistently underestimated the war-making ability of the United States.

The fuehrer started the discussion on the United States during the arch headquarters conference when the question of Japan's next move in the Pacific arose.

One of his aides commented that public opinion in the United States was very strongly in favor of making the Pacific the main theater of war.

Could Be Swung Over

Hitler questioned that view, but asserted that the American people could be swung over to the "Japan first" attitude by a three-point propoganda program.

"To win over the Americans, he said, "all you need to say is: Firstly, the (Pacific) war is being fought in America's interest; secondly, that defeat there means the liquidation of the British empire, and thirdly, that the main enemy is Japan.

"Then you have an overwhelming majority. The Jews are against that, but the others have an overwhelming majority."

Another Nazi aide chimed in to read a report from a German special officer who had just returned from Tunisia with some interesting "facts" about American troops.

Yanks Said Crazy

"He interrogated American prisoners and says they are crazy characters," the aide told Hitler. "Most of them came overseas to make money, or gain experience in something new, or to have some excitement.

"You cannot speak of any political purpose. They are rowdies who run away very fast—they cannot withstand a crisis."

Hitler agreed wholeheartedly with that version, and then remarked irrelevantly:

"America will never become the Rome of the future. Rome was an agricultural state . . . The Americans haven't much good stock. Their good stock was squeezed into a couple of areas where Europeans appeared.

Farmers Said Wretched

"Their farmers are so wretched; I've seen some photographs," the fuehrer added in an apparent reference to the "Oakies" of John Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath."

"American farmers are so miserable and deformed. A completely rootless stock which just wanders about."

The conversation switched to the English, whom Hitler pronounced as slightly better than Americans.

The fuehrer and his aides agreed that Britain was fighting to preserve her empire but that the United States had no definite purpose.

Power Partly In Size

After that, Hitler switched the conversation to his beloved "lebensraum" topic, lecturing his subordinates on the need for greater German land area.

"One thing is clear," he said, "Power lies not only in population but also in the size of a country. You just have to take China for an example. They have been fighting there for five years . . . it will also be absolutely the end if we don't expand our area."

Optimism Voiced On Lamb Price Increase

WASHINGTON, June 27. (AP)—Optimism over prospects for an increase in lamb prices was voiced today by an industry group representing producers and feeders after a conference with Economic Stabilization Director William H. Davis.

Urging a hike in price ceilings to stop a liquidation of breeding stocks, the group requested the adoption of a program that would allow differentials in ceilings by season and by weights of animals.

Speaking for the delegation after the conference, in which officials of OPA and War Foods administration participated, J. M. (Casey) Jones of Salt Lake City, Utah, secretary for the National Wool Growers Association, told a reporter:

Expect Action

"We expect some action on our request by the end of the week. We certainly are hopeful that it will be favorable."

Under the differential proposal, ceilings would be raised during the winter months when lambs must be fed. The plan also would provide a higher scale for heavier sheep.

Besides Jones, others in the group included:

G. M. Winder, Craig, Colo., president of the National Wool Growers Association; Ray Willoughby, San Angelo, president of the Texas Sheep and Goat Raisers association; Byron Wilson, McKinley, Wyo., representing Wyoming producers; Howard Vaughn, Dixon, Calif., Elmer Wagner, Lamar, Colo., representing the Colorado-Nebraska Feeders association; Paul Blood, Morrell, Neb., and J. C. Peterson, representative of Iowa Lamb feeders.

Tech Canning Center Open For Summer

Texas Tech's canning training center, located in the old dairy manufacturing building on the campus, will be open the remaining months of summer, according to Mrs. Gladys K. Holden, instructor in family life education at Tech and director of the center.

Hours the center will be open are 8 a. m. to 4 p. m., five days weekly, by appointment. Persons wishing to use the center must give advance notice, Mrs. Holden said. This is necessary in order to have sufficient space at the center and to do necessary planning with the center supervisor, before products are canned.

Appointments should be made early as possible, at least day before one wishes to attend. For appointments call Mrs. Holden at 5356 or contact her at the center after July 1.

Since mid-April, official opening of the center, approximately 85 persons have canned food there. During May 313 cans of food were preserved, 125 cans during June, making a total of 438.

With the heaviest months for canning, August and September, yet to come, Mrs. Holden said she expected a full schedule at the center. "Many persons have irrigated gardens and there will be plenty of food to can, especially tomatoes and corn," she added.

Churchill Disagrees On 1941 Conditions

By HELEN CAMP
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH CHURCHILL CAMPAIGN TOUR, June 27.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill disagreed today with "the view that we were nearly finished or finished in 1941" and declared that as a matter of fact "we were getting stronger every day."

Field Marshal Montgomery told a group of American officers and enlisted men at Wiesbaden, Germany, yesterday that Britain "was finished" in 1941 and could not possibly have survived without American aid.

Churchill made his statement at the northern city of Bradford, where his electioneering campaign carried him today.

Explaining why he felt it necessary for labor party leader Clement Attlee to be present at the Big Three meeting in Berlin next month, Churchill said: "I do not feel strong enough at the moment to speak for Britain with the decided voice I could do before Parliament dissolved.

"Until I receive from you your mandate and full uncompromising expression of your confidence. I or anyone else in my position will speak with weakened voice in the counsels of the world."

Hensley Funeral To Be Conducted Today

Pallbearers will be Ralph Bedford, Gaylord Hankins, Gus Crawford, Bob Roney, James Logan and Emery Payne.

In Quebec as in Quincy, the words Have a Coke are an invitation to friendliness. They say We speak the same lingo... let's get together. It's the North American way. On both sides of the border people have come to look upon Coca-Cola as a symbol of amity and good feeling.

You naturally hear Coca-Cola called by its friendly abbreviation "Coke". Both mean the quality product of The Coca-Cola Company.

U. S. Broadcasts To Japs Believed Slowly Undermining Their Morale

By LOUIS F. KEEMLE
United Press War Analyst

The psychological warfare slogan of the Office of War Information is "words are cheaper than American blood."

By short wave and standard broadcast and by the dropping of millions of leaflets, the Japanese are being told the truth about the war and their own situation. The primary object is to weaken their will to fight and thus shorten the war.

The full effect of this flow of news and education cannot be gauged, but the Japanese leaders evidently fear it greatly. They make every effort to jam the radio programs and to discourage the people from listening to them or reading the leaflets. Citizens are threatened with stiff punishment for not turning in the leaflets to the nearest police station.

Messages Relayed

The programs originate at the million-dollar OWI transmitting station at Dixon, Calif. They are relayed by the new, powerful short wave station KRHO at Honolulu and the medium wave station at Saipan. From the latter they go into Japan on a length which can be heard on the average receiving set.

Much of the stuff gets through despite anything the Japanese can do. One thing that must drive the Japanese leaders a little frantic is the "clear" hours when the B-29's are over the islands—which is more and more frequently.

During those times, the Japanese stations leave the air to avoid sending out directional signals. Before going off, the Japanese stations warn their listeners as a patriotic duty to turn off their sets, but there obviously is no way to enforce the admonition. The Americans take every advantage of the clear period and Elmer Davis, director of OWI, says:

"We may expect compound results from the simultaneous rain of bombs and the flow of truth into Japan."

The nature of the material is varied. Both the leaflets and broadcasts are, of course, in the Japanese language. The general idea is to persuade the Japanese that the Americans can and will blow their country to pieces if necessary to enforce surrender.

They are told that all they have to do to save their land is to overthrow the militarists and demand surrender. They are reminded constantly that they have been misled by their leaders and particularly the military, the object being to undermine their faith and morale.

Typical Broadsides

A typical broadcast in what is called the "cleavage" series if a commentary with its theme "promises which Japan's leaders have not been able to fulfill." Another is "the deterioration of Japan's bureaucracy."

Then there have been the broadcasts by Capt. E. M. Zacharias of the United States Navy. He speaks Japanese fluently and made many acquaintances in high places in Japan during his time spent there as attache. In a friendly tone, he has tried to convince them of the grave mistake they are making in continuing the war, and that unconditional surrender does not mean extermination or enslavement.

In addition to broadcasts of the above nature, the Japanese are given a great deal of straight, factual news to counter the false war news which they have been fed. There also is first class music and entertainment to hold listeners. Similar material is sent to China, the Philippines, the Dutch East Indies and elsewhere to help morale. From the Dixon station, approximately 115 shows a day go out in English, Japanese, French, Dutch, Burmese, Chinese and other languages.

Surrenders Increase

Recent large-scale enemy surrenders on Okinawa were attributed by Washington observers in part to the cumulative effect of American counter - propaganda. Many Japanese apparently have been convinced by the surrender appeals and are beginning to realize that they cannot win the war. In addition to radio and leaflets loud speakers have been used in battle areas to get the idea across. The Japanes also have been showered with illustrated leaflets showing the good treatment of war prisoners, and with others, in Japanese and English, giving them a safe conduct to surrender.

Borger Merchants Praised By Judge

AMARILLO, June 27. (AP) — Four Borger grocery companies who set up their own price regulation association after they were enjoined last autumn by the Office of Price Administration, were praised in federal court here today by Judge James C. Wilson, who dismissed the injunction suits.

The grocers appeared in court to present evidence of strict compliance with OPA regulations through an association of merchants. They had employed a woman experianced in interpreting OPA regulations.

"This worker," explained the judge, "was employed to keep in touch with all new regulations, keep in touch with local board action for changes and as changes came, to go out and advise merchants to adjust prices to meet the regulations."

"The organization," Judge Wilson said, "is an easy accomplishment and simple. And yet nothing could be more effective in aiding OPA enforcement. Even large cities would do well to follow this example. By zoning, they could have as effective an organization as Borger."

The injunctions dismissed were against T. H. Shaw, J. H. Holcomb and the Holcomb grocery and market; S. I. Salamy and the Don Food market; Neil G. Yows, John E. Yows and the Yows Brothers grocery; J. E. Nix, A. E. Nix, Olin Henderson and the Jims grocery and market.

War Bonds Given To Brownsville Soldier

BROWNSVILLE, June 27. (AP)—Sgt. Jose M. Lopez, one of the 17 Texas soldiers to win the Congressional Medal of Honor, received $1,350 in war bonds from his admiring home town today at a luncheon here.

Lopez will make his first public speech since his arrival when he participates in a bond rally this afternoon, following a full military parade in his honor.

City officials of Brownsville and Matamoros, Mexico, are taking part in all celebrations. Brig. Gen. R. E. McQuillan, commander of the southwestern sector of the Eastern Defense command, and Carlos A. Calderon, Mexican consul general, arrived here by plane from San Antonio this morning.

U. S. Finances Set Records

WASHINGTON, June 27. (U.P.)—The government this week is closing the books on a $100,000,000,000 financial year—the biggest it ever has had or is likely to have in the foreseeable future.

Spending, income and deficit all topped previous records in the 1945 fiscal year which ends on Saturday.

A total of almost $100,000,000,000 was laid out by the Treasury and by government corporations. Most of it—around $90,000,000,000—went to prosecute the war.

Revenue 45 Billions

Into Treasury coffers flowed the greatest volume of money ever—more than $45,000,000,000. But the government spent more than $2 for every dollar of net income. The deficit for the year approximated $54,000,000,000. This amount had to be raised by war loans and other borrowings.

Outlay for all purposes was at the rate of $273,283,000 a day. War spending alone averaged about $247,500,000 daily.

The government went into the hole at the rate of $148,817,000 a day. Net income averaged $124,466,000 daily.

The national debt stands at a new all-time high—more than $255,000,000,000, compared with roughly $203,000,000,000 at the end of the last fiscal year.

Net income this year was about $3,000,000,000 higher than in the 1944 fiscal year. War spending topped that of last year only slightly.

SOUVENIR KIT

MRS. Earl J. Morrison of Ysleta writes about her anxiety in locating a soldier who left a shaving kit in her car, which she wants to return to him.

The young man is described as a corporal in the infantry, under 24 years old, has just returned from Germany and is spending a 30-day furlough in Lubbock with his family. While en route from San Antonio to Big Spring he left the shaving kit in Mrs. Morrison's car and since she does not know his name she cannot return it.

The kit was a souvenir from Germany and Mrs. Morrison said the soldier must have thought highly of it to have brought it all the way back. The owner may write to Mrs. Morrison at Rock Courts No. 7, Ysleta.

NATURAL MR. COOPER

Tall, personable Gary Cooper, whose looks and gestures are much like those which characterize his screen roles, is natural to talk with, according to two Lubbock women who met him Monday in Dallas and enjoyed two chats. Mrs. Preston E. Smith and and Mrs. H. H. Nicholas accompanied Rep. Smith to Dallas on a business trip. Through Rep. Sam Hanna's thoughtfulness had an opportunity to be introduced to the handsome actor who was in Dallas for personal appearances in connection with the showing of his picture, "Along Came Jones," a western story which Mr. Cooper produced and which he described as a "little different from most western stories. (Incidentally the picture will be shown at the Lindsey theater beginning Friday).

Mesdames Smith and Nicholas thought Mr. Cooper was charming and were delighted to notice he wears no make-up on the screen because he is a dead ringer for his pictures. He was thinner than he appears on the screen," almost skinny," they said.

Mr. C. was a bit browned off because the Dallas bobby sox were having a field day. He was escorted to the theater by way of rear exit and alleys whenever possible but once in a while the screeching, perspiring, exuberant crowd got to the actor and he was made to know for a few minutes what Frank Sinatra could have told him all the time. There was a stack of boxes of candy, gifts from his young well-wishers, piled high in the corner of Mr. Hanna's office, the Lubbock people said.

IN THE MAIL

DEAR Miss Turner: I wonder if you could help find my son, Tom, age 5, and daughter, "Sweetie," 3, a fox terrier pup.

We are living in Idalou while their father, a pilot, is in India. We could give a dog a good home and proper care. If anyone had such a pet to sell or to give away, we would like to know of it.

Thanks,

DEAR MISS TURNER:

With so much talk of peace, Victory gardens, what we will do for our boys when they come home, etc., I have written my idea of getting ready. It is called "Victory Garden."

Yours for a better world,
A Reader.

Victory Garden — For making our gardens the biggest task, of course, is getting the ground ready to cultivate it, keeping the weeds out, spraying it with insect powder. Now let's all join together in making a garden club, God being the president.

If we are honest with ourselves, we will do more to bring peace and be ready for our boys when they come home. Of course our minds (as you have guessed it) form the soil, so let us take inventory and see how many worms need to be sprayed. Are we fault finding? Are we kind, pleasant? Do we make and keep friends?

Are we disagreeable to customers or clerks?

Are we pleasant everywhere except when we are at home?

A lot of us have to stay at home this summer; are we taking it on the chin or are we being disagreeable?

A Reader.

Leopold Abdication Word Expected Soon

BRUSSELS, June 27. (AP)—An abdication announcement by King Leopold III before the weekend was predicted today by a Communist leader who declared "Leopold must tell the whole world he is giving up the crown."

But "once that is done, we have no interest in whether he completes the formalities of abdication here or in Germany," Dr. Albert Marteau, Communist minister of public health, added.

Meanwhile, an air trip planned by the leaders of the Belgian bar to Salzburg to consult with the king, presumably on legal aspects of abdication, was reported delayed until tomorrow by the weather.

Marteau said that "although the Communists are not represented in Leopold's conference this week, we have news that what he is doing now is seeking a way to save his face and prestige when he abdicates. Before the end of the week the crisis will be finished."

Secret Service Men Start Army Training

WASHINGTON, June 27. (AP)—Eight secret service men who recently lost their inactive Army reserve status when they were taken off presidential guard duty will enter the provost marshal general school, at Camp Bullis, Texas.

Michael Reilly, of Anaconda, Mont., former chief of the White House detail, was commissioned a junior grade lieutenant in the Navy yesterday.

The eight agents going to Camp Bullis near San Antonio tomorrow will train for Army investigating work.

There has never been any official explanation for the transfer in the presidential protective unit, but it is known the group of 27 which guarded Mr. Roosevelt has been cut considerably because President Truman's family is much smaller than that of his predecessor. The secret service guards a president's family even down to the grandchildren.

"I had sorta sworn off this glass-eating business," the 35-year old mobile third sacker said today, "but this year I've gone back to it a little bit."

"Steaks are not so plentiful in Mobile," he added, tossing a leather-lined tongue into his left cheek.

Benning said there were times backin the '30s when he'd store away three or four bulbs a day and then follow up with a couple of wine glasses for dessert.

Every town he hit made him do a repeat performance of the trick he learned from a circus performer as a kid.

Glass-eating requires no special constitution, says Benning — just good teeth to chew the glass into small bits.

"But it started getting a bit hard on my teeth," he asserted, "so I tapered off.

"But I've eaten a few this year —no red points, you know."

McFadden Testifies In Divorce Contest

MIAMI, Fla., June 27. (AP)—Neglect of the "trim body beautiful" which won his wife health contest honors shortly before their marriage in 1912 "embarrassed and humiliated" him, 77-year-old Bernard McFadden told a hearing which opened a new round in the physical culturist's 29-month legal fight to dissolve his marital ties.

That, combined with bickering over the rearing of their six children and acts of physical violence finally drove him from his home, the millionaire publisher testified before Special Master John C. Gramling yesterday.

The admiral admitted the durability and performance of pilots, ships companies and ships was far beyond what he expected his forces would be called upon to deliver when they set out for Okinawa.

delayed action bomb and then itself crashed among 34 planes parked on the flight deck preparing to take off.

The crash started large fires among the parked planes before the suicide plane itself skidded over the side. The bomb went through the flight deck and out the side of the ship, exploding in the air before it hit the water.

About 20 seconds later a "Judy" single-engined dive bomber sped in from the stern. Despite hits from the carrier's aa batteries, it launched a 500 pound bomb which crashed through the after flight deck and exploded in the gallery deck below. The plane crashed into the flight deck at the base of the island.

Two Others Missed

Commodore Burke said two other planes dove for the ship, but missed.

The men of the Bunker Hill immediately turned to the task of saving their ship. Fires and exploding ammunition swept the flight deck where pilots and crewmen had been caught in their planes, but most of them escaped. Below, where the second bomb went off, the hangar deck quickly became a furnace fed by gasoline from several fuel lines and exploding ammunition from parked planes.

Despite intense heat and suffocating smoke, men stood by their posts to ward off further attacks while firefighters fought the flames.

"These were so many acts of outstanding heroism, it would be impossible to praise anyone over another," said Capt. George A. Seitz, Coronado, Calif. "I'm proud of every man who performed his assigned duties, and words can't express our indebtedness to those gallant men who died at their posts below decks. They kept the boilers going and the pressure in the fire mains."

He recommended 280 of his officers and men for awards.

Decks Warped, Twisted

"Decks were warped and twisted. Gun galleries amidships on the port side had been virtually destroyed. Others on the starboard side had been smashed by the Wilkes-Barre when she came close aboard in her rescue role. One elevator, melted almost in two, hung down into the smoking and flame blackened hangar deck. The gallery deck, where pilots and aircrewmen had sat for briefing that morning, was completely demolished. The flight deck erupted crazily toward the sky, a twisted mass of wood and steel. The island structure, which had been engulfed in flame after the second plane struck, was shambles of torn catwalks and mangled steel."

The Bunker Hill, built by the Bethlehem Steel Co., Fore River yard, Quincy, Mass., joined the Pacific fleet in the fall of 1943.

The Japanese pulled out of the flat floor of the river valley into hill masses north and northeast of Tuguegarao after leaving 131 rear guards dead Tuesday and taking 25 more captives.

Jap Forces Split Up

A headquarters spokesman, who recently estimated 20,000 Nipponese still were holding out in north Luzon, said remnants of Lt. Gen. Tomyuki Yamashita's 14th Imperial Army was split into three areas—in hill masses northeast of Tuguegarao, with the Sierra Madre jungles at their backs; in the Kiangan area, in the densely-forested Mountain province, an old guerrilla hideout; and in rugged, unexplored mountain country south and east of Bayombong.

The 28-day campaign began May 31, the 37th division on that day passed through the position of the 25th Infantry division three days after the capture of Santa Fe. It started a steam roller drive down the valley bed. The Balete pass gateway to the avlley had been captured May 13.

AUSSIES EXPAND GAINS IN TWO BORNEO AREAS

MANILA, Thursday, June 28. (AP)—Australian forces on western Borneo are expanding their gains in the Brunei bay area, today's headquarters communique announced, as well as in the Seria-Miri oil fields area to the south.

There was no mention however, of an Allied invasion fleet hammering at Balikpapan, oil refining center on the southeast coast of the island, as reported by radio Tokyo.

In the Brunei area, Aussie ground troops moved into Beaufort railroad terminus. This completed consolidation of defenses north of Labaun island, securing the northern flank against attack by enemy forces that may be based at Jesselton.

For the past week patrols probing tidal streams had advanced slowly on Beaufort, cutting its rail line two and a half miles south of the town. Beaufort is a rubber export center.

Down the western coast, units of the Ninth Australian division occupied Kuala Belait, seven miles south of Seria. It is the river port for the Seria fields.

News Briefs

Mrs. Vernice Ford, member of the Lubbock county Red Cross staff, has returned from 10 day's visit with her father in Chicago. She spent several days working in the Red Cross office there.

Lt. (jg) Lloyd Croslin, U. S. Navy, former Lubbock county attorney and partner in a local law firm, is on leave in Lubbock visiting his wife and two sons of 2407 Twenty-seventh. Lt. Croslin was recently assigned to ship duty after serving as an instructor in amphibious training on the West coast. His most recent station was at San Francisco.

Lt. John Dunn informed police Wednesday that someone broke into his automobile at his home address, 1501 Twenty-first, and stole a radio. A. A. Marchant of 1923 Twenty-sixth reported a hub cap and a rim were removed from his car at Fourteenth and Ave. K. B. E. Lester said an electric motor was taken from his service station at 3901 Nineteenth.

Firemen answered two alarms Wednesday up to 10 o'clock last night—a trash fire at 1113 Ave. F and a grass fire in 2900-block Twentieth.

A 64-year-old man who represented himself to his 50-year-old "girl friend" as a U. S. Secret service agent was jailed by the FBI Wednesday night and probably will be charged in U. S. court here today. The sheriff's office indicated that he might also be charged with adultry, since he has an invalid wife living in Slaton and reportedly was living with the Lubbock woman.

ships. During a portion of the time there were great submarine sinkings. We were frequently met with the choice of whether we would proceed slowly and avoid losses or act quickly and get the food to the battlefronts on time."

Notice To Anderson

The committee served advance notice on Rep. Clinton P. Anderton (D-NM), who will become secretary of agriculture next month, that it wants periodic reports from him on progress he has made on "remedial measures." It implied that WFA appropriations may be reduced as a result of the probe.

The report said WFA officials told Congress losses on an egg support-price program would amount to $5,800,000 while committee investigators fixed the loss at more than $11,500,000.

Information given Congress, it said, "is completely inaccurate and was known to be inaccurate at the time it was submitted to this committee."

Bilbo And FEPC

ized by a majority of the appropriations committee to offer an amendment for FEPC funds. Chavez agreed later to ask only for $250,000 for FEPC to January 1, 1946. Bilbo said he wouldn't mind that if the amendment contains a "death sentence" requiring FEPC to fold up at that time.

Chavez didn't say so in these words but he said in effect, no death sentence.

Bilbo read from clippings, speeches and books, castigating advocates of the FEPC. He let fly at Eleanor Roosevelt, who has backed the committee in her syndicated column. And he said:

"If this good woman had given one-half of the attention to the rearing and directing of the lives and affairs of her brood that she has been giving trying to force recognition and social equality for the negro in America, she would not today be embarrassed with headline stories about some of her offspring."

Accused Woman Asks Hubby To Come Back

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 27. (AP)—Imogene Stevens, held on a manslaughter charge in the slaying of a young submarine sailor, asked her husband today to "come home at once" from his overseas post where he is serving as an Army paratroop major.

The 24-year-old Texas-bred beauty sent the four-word cablegram to Major G. Ralsey Stevens former New Hampshire university athlete, from her cell in the county jail. She has been there in lieu of $50,000 bonds since, police said, she told them that she shot Albert Kovacs, 19, late Saturday night because she thought he and his brother, James, were intruders in the home of her neighbors, the Charles Miltons.

While her attorney, David Goldstein, sought to raise the bail, prosecutor Edmund L. Morrison of the municipal court in New Canaan, announced that Mrs. Stevens will be arraigned July 30.

Ted Crager was master of ceremonies, and the program was sponsored by Miss Helene Blattner of the college speech department.

Turks Fear Soviet Dardenelles Moves

ANKARA, June 27. (AP)—Turkish quarters believed today that Foreign Minister Hasan Saka soon may confer in London with British leaders to determine the official Anglo-American attitude toward reports that Russia is seeking advantages in the Dardanelles.

Doubt and anxiety have stirred Turkey for the past 48 hours as a result of reports that Russia has sought a modification of the Montreux convention which gave Turkey control of the strategic straits between the Black sea and the Mediterranean.

(In Moscow, the Soviet Army newspaper Red Star on Wednesday accused Turkey of carrying on a policy favorable to Fascism during the war. Red Star's international commentator I. Yermashev urged Turkey to behave with more decorous modesty when discussing world affairs.)

Stettinius Shifted

for which he asked Stettinius to stay at his post as chairman of the United States delegation there, "has now fulfilled its purpose," the President said, "you have every reason to be proud of your part in this achievement from the beginning."

Fifth Cabinet Change

Stettinius' resignation is the fifth the President has accepted from the Roosevelt cabinet.

The President spoke feelingly as he mentioned his homecoming.

The press conference was a rare event for Independence and the townsmen made the most of it. About five hundred persons, in addition to the working press, crowding into the auditorium of the War Memorial building, listened to the President exchange banter with the reporters as they sought to learn from his his choice for secretary of state.

The conference late today came after a heart warming homecoming to his home town, starting when he arrived at Fairfax Field in nearby Kansas City, Kas., and extending over an 18-mile route from there to Independence.

To Be Picnic Guest

Tomorrow noon the President will be guest at a picnic on the campus of the University of Kansas City. Tomorrow night he will receive an honorary degree of doctor of laws from the university's school of law, successor of the old Kansas City school of law which Truman attended for two years.

The President received a welcome he never will forget as he rode from the airport to his home in Independence. The streets were lined with thousands of neighbors from Kansas City and Independence who shouted "Hey, Harry," until they were hoarse.

Okinawa Casualties

stroyers and several smaller vessels.

Gen. Joseph Stilwell made his first appearance on Okinawa as commander of the 10th U. S. Army today and Japan awaited the next move by American forces that conquered the strategic island only 325 miles south of Kyushu.

(Radio Tokyo reported without confirmation that Allied forces were fighting their way ashore on Kume island, 50 miles west of Okinawa, and predicted that American troops may invade the China coast before attacking Japan.)

Stilwell stood with 500 of his 10th Army soldiers atop Hill 89 on Okinawa's southeast coast, as the American flag was raised to honor the men of the Seventh Infantry division, who wrested this last defense ridge from the enemy.

Scattered Activity

There still was scattered activity on Okinawa. Isolated Japanese hideout remnants ambushed and killed six American soldiers in the north. Mop-up squads herded 802 more prisoners into stockades, boosting the enemy's Okinawa losses to 111,531.

New prisoners increased the total of Japanese captured to 9,498. Tenth Army mop-up squads caught one group wading neck deep in the surf off southern Okinawa, sneaking north to continue guerrilla warfare.

However, headquarters reported the general trend to surrender increased. Many of the despairing enemy displayed safe conduct leaflets scattered by Allied forces.

The four aircraft factories were hit in a daylight strike in the 21st Bomber command's new campaign to employ great bombing fleets in pinpoint bombing of war industries.

Three other targets were hit on the same raid, but photo assessment has not been completed. They were the Mitsubishi aircraft assembly plant at Kagamigahara, Kure naval arsenal and the Utsube river oil refinery at Yokkaichi.

LeMay also reported that the Kasumigaura seaplane base, northeast of Tokyo, was 33 per cent destroyed in a June 10 strike.

Gen. Simpson Given Rousing Reception

WEATHERFORD, June 27. (AP)—Lt. Gen. William Hood Simpson came back home today for a celebration planned by his home folks to "hail Hood Simpson and his fighting 9th."

The general arrived by automobile about 3:45 p. m. He had spent the night in Fort Worth, where he was given a tumultous reception yesterday when he came there by plane from Pittsburgh.

As the tall Texan and his entourage entered the city limits to a 15-gun salute a parade began which had as its terminal a shaded bandstand at the southwest corner of the court house.

Highway patrolmen, military policemen, and the Camp Wolters band were in the van. A tank escort accompanied the Ninth Army commander. Four 105 millimeter guns, an infantry battalion; cars bearing Parker county Gold Star Mothers, and the Weatherford High School band, completed the parade.

Former All-American End Dies From Burns

MIDDLESBORO, Ky., June 27.—James B. "Red" Roberts, one of the gridiron greats of Centre college's famous Praying Colonels, died at Middlesboro hospital from burns received early today when fire broke out in his suite at the Cumberland hotel.

Roberts was a member of the 1921 All-American football team selected by Walter Camp. The Centre college eleven that year included "Bo" McMillan, Indiana university coach, and gained national fame by defeating Harvard, 6 to 0.

After leaving the Danville, Ky., college, Roberts coached one year at Waynesburg college, Waynesboro, Pa.

Roberts managed the hotel where he and his wife lived. Mrs. Roberts also was hospitalized with less serious burns.

Sheet Steel Shortage Plagues Auto Firms

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—A prospective shortage of sheet steel gave concern today to the automobile industry—which gets its reconversion go-ahead on Sunday—and to the government.

Theoretically, every ton of sheet steel in the estimated supply for the next three months is spoken for by military and other priority users, leaving none for automobile bodies.

John D. Small, War Production board chief of staff, said sheet steel was "the tightest thing we've got" and predicted no improvement until late in the July-September quarter at the earliest.

Rotary Club Snaps Winning Streak Of Lions, Win 9-5

Manager Stoney Wall's Rotary club junior baseball nine started fast, and never slowed down, and snapped the three game winning streak of the Lions club team Wednesday afternoon at the Lubbock Boys club diamond, winning a 9 to 5 decision.

Little Lefty Jack McCabe was wild in spots, and his wildness put him in hot water a number of times, but the little fellow managed to pitch out of the hole time after time, and protect the substantial lead gained in the first two innings.

The Lions filled the bases in the first inning, with none out, but McCabe settled down and came out of the hole unscratched as he forced two men to pop to the infield and the third was tossed out on an easy roller.

The Rotary came back in its half of the first inning and blasted Martin from the hill with a four run deluge. John Potts came to the relief, but was too late.

Jack Whitehead slammed out a long home run in the fourth inning for the Rotary club. One man was on base at the time.

SHALLOWATER FORFEITS

For the second time this week, the Shallowater team in the older National league race, forfeited their ball game, this time to Purina. It marked the third day in a row that Chapman field has been idle.

Lorms Sweeps Title In Golf For Bucks

COLUMBUS, O., June 27. (AP)—Twenty-two-year-old Johnny Lorms of Ohio State university turning in a one under par performance and wandering off the fairway only three times, today became the 1945 National Intercollegiate golf champion.

Lorms' 4 and 3 victory over Johnny Jenswold of Michigan in the final match was a golfing masterpiece.

He never was behind. He was over par on only two holes. He never lost a hole. He was in the rough only twice and on the last hole he made his only visit to a trap. He had one string of nine straight holes that were par or better.

Lorms' victory gave Ohio State a perfect record in the tournament. The Bucks also won the team title and Howard Baker of the Ohio State team was the tournament medalist. NCAA officials said it may have been the first time that one school ever had swept all honors.

McSpaden Fires Sub Par Round

CHICAGO, June 27. (AP)—Harold (Jug) McSpaden of Sanford, Me., demonstrated he was primed to defend his title in the Chicago Victory National Open today as he blazed a five-under-par 67 to hoist two partners into the halfway lead of a hodge-podge prelude to the $12,300 tournament.

McSpaden's combination of 35 and 32 gave him a share of the 18-hole leadership in the pro-amateur and pro-senior phases of the three-ply 36-hole competition at Calumet Country club's snug course.

McSpaden, who Friday will begin his defense in the 72-hole medal play open against the nation's top pros, teamed with Sgt. Walter Burkemo of Evanston, Ill., twice wounded in Europe, for a 141-stroke total to pace the pro-amateur skirmishing. Burkemo assembled 35 and 39 for a 74.

Jug also shared the pro-senior lead with Arnold Minkley of Chicago who continued a 41-41—82 for a 149 aggregate. The third phase of the two-day meet—competition for the pro-lady title—was paced by Sam Byrd of Detroit, winner of the 1943 Inaugural Victory Open, and Ann Casey of Mason City, Iowa, with 150.

Byron Nelson, of Toledo, who was an also-ran in the two previous Victory Opens, struggled with a 37-36—73 and was well off the pace in every division except the pro-senior in which ageless Chick Evans of Chicago stroked a 79 to give the pair 152.

Other top combinations: pro-woman: Claude Harmon, Detroit, 73, and Polly Riley, Fort Worth, Tex., 80, for 153; McSpaden, 67, and Dorothy Germain, Philadelphia, 86, for 153.

Shotgun Shells To Be Cut Almost Half

WASHINGTON, June 27. (AP)—America's hunters will have to be content with about 300,000,000 shotgun shells this year—about half as many as were available in 1944.

Hunting will be tight despite victory in Europe, Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson, director of the fish and wildlife service, said today.

There may be some loosening up on the production end along about July but its effectiveness will not be felt this season except in the Southern states where shooting begins later.

Giants Sweep Pair To Climb Past Bucs

NEW YORK, June 27. (AP) — The New York Giants inaugurated a long home stand today by sweeping both ends of a double header from Pittsburgh 10-4 and 3-2 to move past the Pirates into third place.

A thrilling three-run rally after two were out in the last half of the ninth won the second contest for the Giants after the Pirates had forged ahead 2-0 on home runs by Lee Handley in the first and Bill Salkeld in the ninth. George Hausmann's double accounted for the tieing and winning runs.

After yielding a homer with his first pitch of the game to Handley, rookie Jack Brewer held the Bucs scoreless in the nightcap until Salkeld connected in the ninth. Brewer fanned five and gave up six hits to gain his second victory. Preacher Roe went all the way for the Pirates to be charged with his sixth defeat.

Hausmann's hitting also started off the Giants with a rush in the first game, getting a triple and three singles in five times up, as he helped Van Lingle Mungo to his eighth win of the season, compared with three losses.

Revamped Supreme Court Provided In Plan Set For August 25 Vote

By WILLIAM E. KEYS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, June 27.—Nine instead of three elective judges would sit on the state supreme court bench and concurrence of five instead of two would be necessary to a decision if voters approve a constitutional amendment to be submitted in a special election Aug. 25.

This amendment is the third on a ballot which will contain four.

The present court consists of three elective justices and six appointive judges of the commission of appeals. Members of the commission do the work of justices but justices must approve their decisions.

Would Revamp Setup

The proposed amendment creates one chief justice and eight associate justices. If it is approved by the electorate the present justices would continue as such until the expiration of their terms. The judges of the commission of appeals would become associate justices until Jan. 1 next preceeding the expiration of the term to which each was appointed.

All terms thereafter would be for six years and three court members would be elected every two years.

Can Sit In Sections

The amendment permits the court to sit in sections as designated by the court for the purpose of hearing preliminary matters only. All other causes would be before the nine-judge court.

It also raises the qualifications of court members. A minimum age of 35 is prescribed as against the present 30. It says further no one may be eligible to sit on the bench unless he shall have been a practicing lawyer, or a lawyer and judge of a court of record together at least 10 years. The present minimum qualification in this respect is seven years.

Better Work Seen

When the resolution submitting this amendment was before the legislature proponents declared it would make for a better court in many respects. A principal point was that decisions would be more representative because more judges would have to concur in them.

The amendment does not affect the salary of supreme court judges which is set by statute.

Its full text will not appear on the Aug. 25 ballot. Voters simply will mark sections for or against "the amendment to the state constitution providing for a supreme court of nine members."

Investigator Says Bribe Attempt Made

WASHINGTON, June 27. (AP)—An investigator for the House un-American activities committee said today that he was offered $5,000 to "change the material in or hold up" his report on an employe in the New York OPA regional office.

Investigator George McDavitt told the committee the incident occurred about three weeks ago. An unnamed person telephoned him, he said, and "in view of my financial condition" made the offer.

"They told me that if I didn't accept it 'we'll smear you so your wife won't know your face,'" McDavitt testified. "I told them I wasn't interested."

The committee is investigating radio broadcasts of the New York regional office to determine whether they contained subversive material. These scripts were prepared by OPA broadcaster Tex Weiner who, committee counsel Ernie Adamson charged, has "openly and notoriously" advocated communism.

Accused Man's Dad To Fly To El Paso

PHILADELPHIA, June 27. (AP)—William R. Main, an official of Main and Co., accountants, prepared today to fly to El Paso to see his son, William F. Main, 28, charged with murder in the decapitation slaying of an 80-year-old El Paso, Texas, man, Mrs. William R. Main said.

Mrs. Main referred further queries to a business partner of Main's who said Main was seeking reservations on a Texas-bound plane but did not know when he would leave.

Main's father told associates his son suffered a nervous breakdown at Indiantown Gap, Pa., in 1941, after he enlisted in the national guard and was given a medical discharge on April 24, 1941. His family said he went to Texas for his health.

Another son, Malcolm, was killed in the Pacific while serving with the Navy.

LONDON, June 27. (AP)—A milk bottle was hurled through the window of Brendan Bracken's car last night as the first lord of the admiralty, seeking reelection as a conservative, was leaving a London campaign meeting described by newspapers as "the rowdiest yet held in the constituency."

A. V. Alexander, Bracken's Laborite predecessor as first lord, said he almost missed the deadcause someone had tampered with the carburetor of his automobile. The car of Sir William Beveridge, Liberal author of the social security plan, also broke down mysteriously while he was en route to a speaking engagement.

Hit-Run Driver Suspect Located

Police announced Wednesday that evidence pointed to a black Ford coupe, driven by a Lubbock woman, as the automobile which struck down a child Saturday night at Nineteenth and College Ave., and set off extensive hit-and-run inquiry.

Officers, having a description and partial license of her car, found the woman yesterday morning after a search of three days, combined with police appeals in newspaper stories for an interview. She lives on Twentieth and is the wife of a soldier stationed outside Lubbock county.

Reasonably Certain

"We are certain as officers can be in a case of this sort that we have the right party," traffic Captain Lewis Kittrell said.

"At present there will be no charge filed," he said. Circumstances seem to clear the woman of negligence, according to Kittrell.

The victim, 4-year-old Harold Wayne Hall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hall of 214 Ave. U, was released yesterday from Lubbock General hospital, but will have to remain in bed a month, a physician said. The child received a serious concussion and several minor injuries.

Remained 20 Minutes

She related that she had remained at the accident scene approximately 20 minutes, as witnesses had earlier testified. She said she feared at first that it had been her car which had struck the youngster but was convinced by onlookers that it had been done by another car.

When she read in Sunday's paper officers were looking for a green car, she surmised that she had been informed correctly, she told officers.

Driving Carefully

Witnesses said that the woman was driving her car slowly, and carefully. The child, they continued, had darted out from between parked automobiles several yards east of the intersection's lights.

Investigation of the "green car" lead took officers to Levelland, where they interviewed a young man, his wife and his brother, who said they were occupants of the car when it was observed at the accident scene. They heard a scream after passing the woman's coupe, and had looked back to see the child lifted by its mother and placed in a taxicab. They remained at the scene momentarily, then drove away, it was related.

Thunderstorms are most frequent in the tropics, developing generally in the afternoon.

Bowles Anxious To Quit Wartime Bans

WASHINGTON, June 27. (AP)—Price Administrator Chester Bowles informed Congress today he is "anxious to get away from wartime controls as quickly as possible" and predicted many relaxations in the next year.

He told the House postwar planning committee there may be some erasure of controls "more quickly than you think."

However, he added that inflationary pressures will be the greatest in the next year, and that any relaxation of price ceilings must begin on a selective basis as the supply of various products come into balance with demand.

STRIKES TOTAL 425

WASHINGTON, June 27. (AP)—The bureau of labor statistics reported today there were 425 strikes and lockouts last month, involving 310,000 workers and loss of 2,025,000 man-days of work.

Gen. Arnold Is Right

We Should Hold Pacific Bases

GEN. H. H. "HAP" ARNOLD, who commands the U. S. Army Air Forces, was voicing the thoughts of most civilians the other day when he declared that the United States should hold onto various Pacific islands after the surrender of Japan. The general points out that we shall need those islands not only for our own protection, but also to safeguard the peace of the world.

The very active "internationalists lobby" frothed at the mouth over the general's suggestion, but that was to be expected. The fact that we have a group of "intelligentsia" which, for reasons best known to itself, contends that world peace and the U. S. will be better off by bowing to the wills of other nations is becoming generally known to the Man in the Street. Plain John Citizen expects these queer thinkers to howl over any suggestion that Uncle Sam look after his own interests, as well as that of the rest of the world.

But General Arnold is a straight-thinking, plain-spoken man who knows a spade when he sees one, and then calls it by its name. As one of the world's leading authorities on air defense and offense, he knows as well as anyone, and better than most, the sort of bases we shall need after the Jap war is won—bases which shall make another Pearl Harbor an impossibility.

General Arnold has put the spotlight on these needs and courageously has stated them. We used the word "courageously" advisedly, for General Arnold must have known in advance that any statement such as his would bring down the ire of the internationalist bloc in no uncertain terms.

But although the "foreward thinkers" may disagree with General Arnold, the Air Forces leader can take much solace out of the undeniable fact that the American people agree with him.

Because they furnished the sons who bled and died to capture island bases in the Pacific, they know the cost of those bases—and they don't intend that any of them shall be re-purchased a few years hence by the same sort of blood.

How About The Other Boys?

U. S. SEN. STEWART, of Tennessee, returned from a military tour of Europe, has introduced a bill making it mandatory for all service men and women who have been in the European theater for one year to be given a thirty-day furlough before being sent to the Pacific.

This has been the plan of the Army wherever possible, but the matter has been wholly discretionary. The Stewart bill would guarantee such furloughs.

The country generally will approve of the Tennessee senator's purpose. Especially where troops have been in actual combat in Europe, it would appear that the least that could be done for them would be to give them time off before going to another war.

But the question arises in connection with this legislation as to whether corresponding steps are being taken to give some of the men in the Pacific, who have been in that area a year or much more, similar respite from active military duty. It is clear that the forces in the Pacific are entitled to the same consideration that is being shown toward those in Europe.

Surely the men who have fought on Iwo Jima and on Okinawa, and who are still alive, are entitled to time off before being sent against the Japs again in some new sector.

Reconversion Is Shaping Up

THERE can be no certainty about the manufacture of civilian goods until the probable duration of the war against Japan becomes more definite, but predictions as to individual items range from optimism to pessimism.

Some electric refrigerators will be coming off the assembly lines in sixty to ninety days. A degree of reconversion already has been accomplished in electric clocks and electric irons. Vacuum cleaners are in production and it is predicted some stores will have them in thirty days.

Gas and electric stoves, aluminum pots and pans are on the way and production in these items should be more than a trickle by Fall. The washing machine situation is not so clear, but manufacturers are hopeful consumers will get some in the third quarter and more the fourth quarter of this year.

Floor and table lamps will not be available in quantity for six months to a year. The government has stockpiled the best woods and the better grade furniture cannot be produced. Rugs and draperies will remain scarce. There is no prospect of new radio sets in the immediate future, but an effort is being made to provide more tubes for old sets.

Supplies of most of these consumer items will be inadequate for many months. Retailers advise their customers to keep an eye on household appliance departments because what they receive will be snapped up quickly.

But although retailers and consumers, on the whole now "see through a glass darkly," it is becoming apparent that reconversion slowly is taking form and that one of these days—perhaps sooner than some of us expect now and certainly sooner than most of us expected a year ago—shelves will again bulge with wanted, needed articles of domestic use.

The American House

By Virginia Chase

(Copyright, 1945, NEA Service, Inc.)

X

By the middle of July five or six automobiles drew up before the American House every Sunday. My father was jubilant. He was even beginning to swagger a little. "Why don't you take the girls and go to Boston for a while?" he suggested to my mother.

Her feet were still on the ground. "We aren't out of the woods yet," she reminded him. "Besides, if there is a trip to be taken, it will be yours."

It was his custom to get away for a week each year so that he could keep himself posted on new developments in medicine. He usually spent a day watching operations in the clinic at Bangor and another at Bowdoin College, talking to the dean of the medical college, who had been one of his teachers. Then he went on to Augusta, staying the remainder of the time at the State Hospital for the Insane, where he was a trustee. Coming back, he stopped reluctantly—to see Cousin Victoria at her home, Balmoral.

It was out of his way, but Cousin Victoria naturally expected deference. Moreover, she acknowledged no reserves. She got you down in a chair, grasped you firmly by the forearm, and started in asking questions as though she had some God-given right to know everything. "Where have you been?" . . . "Whom did you see?" . . . "What did they say?" . . . "What happened?" . . . "Who else was there?" . . . My father always dreaded these visits, for he hated to give an account of himself. But his stopping had one advantage. It kept her from coming to see us.

At first he protested that he could not be spared. The weather was hot and summer complaint imminent. But when Benjamin reported that the stable needed some new equipment, he decided to go, after all.

He left on Monday morning with instructions that my mother was to call him in case of any crisis. On Tuesday noon a crowd was at the postoffice waiting for the mail when an automobile appeared, going at a conservative speed. (During the week automobiles were still rare.) This was a Carter Car with a buggy top. In back it had a single seat that looked like an armchair, and in this seat sat a large woman wearing a Panama hat tied on with a veil. Just as they were right in the middle of the village, a hen started indecisively across the road.

"Look out!" someone called. Those who didn't own automobiles were always great on giving advice to those who did.

The woman in the back seat leaned forward. "Look out," she echoed.

The driver honked his horn. The hen retreated, then started suddenly ahead again, cackling noisily.

People on the steps began to shout, all at the same time.

"Watch it!" . . . "Stop! Stop!" "Turn out, turn out," the woman shrilled, half-rising.

The driver lost his head and made straight for the steps of the postoffice. People scattered left and right, all screaming. The woman stood up and raised her arms. Her mouth was moving, but no sound came.

The automobile struck the steps with a crash, throwing her over the wheels and upon a pile of mail bags.

People closed in, silent, to see if she was still living.

She was alive all right and groaning lustily. Her weight had stood her in good stead, and if she had bruises, they were not in spots politely visible. The driver left his name and promised to pay for all the damage. Someone cranked the automobile for him, and he drove away with the woman in the front seat, leaning heavily against him. No one breathed easily until they were out of sight. Then, forgetting all about the mail, people scattered to tell the news.

There was a good deal of feeling against automobiles in those days, especially in rural areas. Recognizing this, the legislature had, in 1905, passed the Automobile Exclusion Act, allowing any municipality the right to prohibit them within certain limits. Nothing had been done in our village because of differences in opinion. About a quarter of the people (including my father) were enthusiastic about them, feeling that they would eventually benefit us in many ways. About the same number saw them as instruments of the devil. Some wanted them off certain roads, some off all roads on certain hours and days. Most people had been willing enough to let things drift. But now . . .

Those who hadn't seen the accident soon heard about it. It was a wonder, people said, that someone hadn't been killed. The streets weren't safe any more. You were taking your life in your hands when you crossed one. You couldn't even be secure about your property. Feeling grew. By sundown a petition was going the rounds for a special Town Meeting to press a decision on the new menace.

My mother was distressed, for she hated to see people fly off the handle. Although she didn't care much for automobiles herself, she knew what they meant to our business. Yet she could do nothing. Actually my father himself could have done nothing in the face of such hysteria.

The meeting was held. Mr. Tapley made a speech. More damage was done two or three times a year by runaway horses, he reasoned. But he had little support. Still fired by visions of death and destruction, the voters passed a law banning automobiles from within one mile of the village, at which point, by a convenient crossroad, they might pass on to more hospitable territory.

That day marked the end of our prosperity.

Looking At Life ------ By Erich Brandeis

WELL, I certainly put my foot into it when I wrote that column telling you about our friends who brought their police dog, Rex, to our house and then Rex went ahead and bit our little Deuce and several other dogs in the neighborhood.

I wound up the column with the suggestion people should leave their dogs at home when they go visiting, and I said that I think the same thing applied to little children.

BRANDEIS

A flood of letters poured in on me after that column. Most of them approved, but several were quite vituperative.

The letter that wins first prize, however, came from a lady who wrote, in part, as follows:

"Didn't your parents take you visiting when you were a boy?

"If not, you must have been a brat with a capital B."

And then she signs herself:

"Yours for a happy life with your great dog Deuce. May he bring you lots of happiness."

By the way, the lady also told me in her letter that if my wife and I invited her to our house, she'd never come, unless she could bring her children along.

Well, dear lady, here is your invitation and bring the kids, by all means.

But I still maintain that, unless you have no one to look after them, it is better to leave young children at home when you go visiting.

I love children as much as anyone.

But look as most adult gatherings today.

Cigaret smoking and cocktails. Bridge and gossip.

Don't the kids learn all those things soon enough?

And from whom do they get what parents so often complain about as bad habits except from adults?

No, my parents didn't take me along when they went visiting.

Not because I was a brat, but because they wanted to keep me from becoming a brat by watching my elders at play.

AND have you ever watched your own children at grown-up parties?

The poor youngsters don't know what to do with themselves.

Before you left you told them to behave. You dressed them up and there they sit, trying to be little angels and having a thoroughly miserable time.

Of course if there is no one to stay home with them you have to take them. And if you are going to visit grandma or a sister or someone else who is close to you, they'll probably enjoy the visit.

But to go "calling" on strangers or acquaintances or people who have no children of their own, I repeat—or rather, why don't you ask the kids themselves how they feel about it?

Political Trick Bared

"Internationalist" Plot Exposed

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

TWO traveling senators—Albert Hawkes of New Jersey and Burton Wheeler of Montana—have been misquoted and misrepresented with regard to their remarks to American troops in Italy anent future relations between the United States and Russia.

A personal checkup with the two principals, as well as talks with enlisted and officer personnel present at the time, underlies this account of what happened.

TUCKER

The ultra-internationalist group, including certain columnists, newspapers and radio commentators, has pilloried Hawkes and Wheeler. They have charged them with the "crime" of urging our soldiers to stay in Europe and fight out a battle with Stalin for eventual world control. Nothing could be farther from the truth.

For one thing, "Burt" Wheeler, along with the late Sen. Bill Borah of Idaho, was one of the first advocate recognition of the then Bolshevik government.

Hawkes, as a great manufacturer and a former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, agrees with his successor, Eric Johnston, that permanent world peace, both economic and military, depends on Washington's ability to get along with the Kremlin. So they would be the last American representatives to suggest or propagate bitterness and suspicion in postwar relations between the two world-controlling nations.

COMMUNISM: Senator Hawkes was the first speaker at the widely publicized Italian get-together with Gen. Mark Clark's men. He praised our boys for their accomplishment son "the forgotten front," and then prayed that we would win as durable and lasting a peace as the victory we had achieved on the battlefield. Toward the end of his talk, an infantryman whom the senator describes as "a lovely young boy" arose and said:

"That's fine stuff, Senator. We agree with you. But we read and learn that the Russians are promoting Communism in France, Germany, the Baltic and Balkan countries. Why shouldn't we sell Americanism to these people, because that is what we came over here to fight for?"

Senator Hawkes agreed with the GI, and then yielded the platform to Senator Wheeler. "Burt" handed out the usual stuff, lauding our Army's performances and promising that the U. S. would be for them a land of milk and honey and Truman when they returned from the wars.

What else can a legislator who depends on votes for a livelihood say to the men who will run national politics for the next 40 years, as their granddaddies did after the Civil war and their fathers after World War I?

As "Burt" wound up, an infantryman mentioned Moscow's ideological invasion of northern, central and southern Europe. It was the doughboy who advanced the idea that, until these great problems were settled, the main body of American forces in Europe should not be demobilized or shifted to Japan. Senator Wheeler's comment was:

"Soldier, you are the first man I have met in my European travels who did not want to return to the United States by the next and fastest ship or plane!"

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

NEW YORK industrialists believe that American businessmen must show more "get-up-and-git"—as they say in Yankeeland—if they would speed up lagging reconversion. They cannot much longer pass the buck to Washington.

The easy days of government aid and a sellers' market are ending; the new era is a challenge to initiative. Acutely aware of their problems, leaders have been holding a series of open and closed conferences in Manhattan, discussing aggressive methods for disposing of 140 billion dollars' worth of goods and services annually.

LEMAN

They foresee the biggest competitive scramble in history; aluminum in rivalry with steel, plastic with aluminum, chemically treated woods with plastics, cement and other substances with wood.

The Aluminum association in New York reports that members plan to use the light metal for everything from trains, busses, bridges and passenger autos to chicken coops. In 1939 we produced 327 million pounds; at war peak, two billion, 100 million.

In other lines, too, the USA emerges from the war with a tremendously expanded plant capacity, and the output must be sold. "Today we have only around 4,000,000 salesmen compared with about 7,000,000 before the war," reveals Arthur H. Motley, publisher of The American Magazine. "We must have 10,000,000 if we hope to create the wants that will make jobs."

COMPETITION: "We have been told that production is wealth," said Don G. Mitchell, Sylvania Electric Products vice president, to a private meeting of top management personnel held by the National Association of Manufacturers. "By itself it is not. Production becomes wealth only when it is moved into consumption."

Too many factory owners and retailers do not bestir themselves; they expect trade to beat paths to their doors. Everett R. Smith, Director of Research, McFadden Publications, Inc., jolted a group out of complacency by announcing. "War has been the customer of some 55 per cent of industrial production. Hereafter, we businessmen must sell 45 per cent more goods than we did in the best prewar year."

For four or more years Uncle Sam has supplied concerns with raw materials, has set their wage scales, planned their deliveries, fixed their prices and purchased their output.

Outside the chore of running their factories and operating their machine tools efficiently, businessmen—especially those in small plants—have not been forced by internal problems and competition to use their brains. Now they will have to shift for themselves.

"This will be highly beneficial," contends George G. Bass, Wall Street analyst. "It will put back into our economy the old resourcefulness and initiative." Instead of looking to Washington or waiting for the customers' dollars to roll in, businessmen must depend on themselves for success.

PRIORITIES: Spokesmen for industry have loudly demanded that federal "chains" be removed—and about 50 per cent of the red tape has already been junked.

But most owners have been silent about priority ratings. They like them—and so keep mum. The controls make it easy to buy materials and frequently eliminate the need to shop around. They are the paternal government's greatest gift to the lazy.

"Industry must realize that priority ratings are controls just as much as are restrictive orders," WPB Chief of Staff John D. Small bluntly told members at a New York Trade Association Executives luncheon. "We shall continue them for the protection of war production and to break bottlenecks.

"By the end of the year most civilian production will be unrated. Some will object violently to the removal of preferential treatment whereby they have had an advantage over others. They must resign themselves to going back to work, to hunting for raw materials, to getting along without priority help."

"Man's superior intelligence is best proved by the fact that he is the only animal that laughs," says a psychologist. This so-called evidence is insufficient and inconclusive. Nine times out of ten when he laughs it's because of some fool thing another man did.

In the midst of confusion, we rise to ask if the blessings of civilization are worth the curses it has visited upon us.

Professional Unionists Given Some Advice

It's Time For Labor To Grow Up

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — American labor is a big strapping fellow now and he should put on long pants and take the chip off his shoulder.

This is in reference to the shouts of anger that went up from professional labor leaders, crying out about the new Labor Relations bill proposed jointly by Senators Ball (Minn.), Burton (O.), Republicans, and Hatch (N. Mex.), Democrat.

Whatever the merits and faults of the bill—and it undoubtedly has both—it is the question of attitude that is raised here and the effect that labor's camping stand-offishness may have, in the long run, on its own best interests.

STOKES

It is certainly true—and it is conceded in most quarters — that there are going to be, and should be, some changes in the labor relations machinery of the government, and perhaps in methods and approach. This was recognized by the late President Roosevelt, the friend and champion of labor, at least to the extent that he saw the necessity for pulling together the various labor relations agencies now scattered through the government and for co-ordinating policy.

Labor Should Co-Operate

This view is also shared by President Truman, and he has indicated he plans to do something about it through reorganization. That will be a job for the new Secretary of Labor, Lewis B. Schwellenbach, former Senator, Judge and also a friend of labor. If introduction of the Ball-Burton-Hatch measure did nothing more than hasten that reform, it would serve a useful purpose.

It would seem, therefore, that labor would be wise to show willingness to come in and co-operate in legislation, especially considering the sincerity of purpose of the three senators who presented the bill after long and careful study by an outside, disinterested group.

The three senators are estimable and respected gentlemen and legislators, sympathetic to labor and progressive in inclination. They are not burglars or highwaymen, as might have been thought from the shrieks let out by professional labor leaders.

LABOR'S hyper-suspicious attitude seems unjustified in these cases.

Labor, of course, has had to be suspicious. It has a right to look any gift horse in the mouth. There are those who would like to exploit the expected confusing postwar era of adjustment to deprive labor of some of its gains in the last dozen years. Some of these are in Congress, as experience has shown. They may be expected to become increasingly active, both in and out of Congress.

But it would appear that labor would have more success in beating off such attacks if it set its own house in order beforehand and agreed to certain modifications that would protect the employer, too, so that groundless attacks could make no headway.

Nor, at this late date, does there seem any danger that labor's fundamental right of collective bargaining could be disturbed. It is too well established, not only in the law of the land, but in the minds of the people.

Its Rights Now Defined

To establish its basic rights labor needed a champion and a protector when its hard fight began in the early years of the New Deal. It was proper that government became its guardian for a time, considering the prevalence of the opposite attitude for so long. But now it has grown up and is able to stand on its own feet. It should not have to depend upon the whims of any political party of group of men in office at any particular time.

It has been able to defend its rights during the war, when some tried to use the war to break them down, even though it has not achieved some the social aims it espoused in Congress.

WHAT can happen when its enemies rush in to capitalize a sudden psychological situation was demonstrated in the various provisions inserted in the Connally-Smith "Anti-Strike" bill by the House Military Affairs committee, luckily deleted later on the floor, which struck at some of its long-recognized rights. Other such situations are bound to arise in the postwar period.

Labor should co-operate with its friends to set its house in order against its enemies.

Past President's Pin Is Given To Bestwick

Retiring after a year as president of Lubbock Rotary club, Clarence Bestwick was presented with the jeweled pin of a past president by Roy Furr, his predecessor, at the weekly luncheon Wednesday in the Hilton hotel.

Prior to the honoring of Bestwick, Alex McDonald, incoming president, was subjected to a "razz" program in charge of Homer Grant. Chas. A. Guy, who described himself as "often a bridesmaid but never a bride," meaning he has been a perennial vice president but never a president, counseled Mr. McDonald to "make a better president than most of us members think you will."

Approximately 100 persons were present at the regular weekly luncheon meeting, held in the Matador room of Hotel Hilton.

Despite its rural character, about two-thirds of the people of Australia live in towns.

AVIATIONS RISE

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—Aviations rose fractions to more than 4 points in today's stock market and other selected industrials gained although the list as a whole had more minus signs than plus marks.

Several stocks in the air group touched new highs for 1945 and longer, including Boeing, Grumman, Lockheed and Pennsylvania-Central airlines. Other yearling summits were reached by U. S. Steel, American Telephone and Caterpillar Tractor.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite fell .1 of a point to 68.1 but the utility composite added .1 at 47.1—a new top since March 31, 1937. Transfers were 1,690,000 shares against 2,140,000 yesterday.

Among those under water were General Motors, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, Johns-Manville, Eastman Kodak, International Telephone and Distillers Corp.

Bonds were irregularly lower.

NEW YORK FUTURES

NEW YORK, June 27 (AP)—Cotton futures moved into new high ground for the day on a late flurry of trade and outside buying influenced by approval of the price control legislation for another year by House-Senate conferees. Closing prices were 20 to 30 cents a bale higher.

Final enactment of the law will implement the 1945 crop purchase program already announced by the War Food administration. The new program is designed to insure farmers parity prices for the staple. Prior to the late rally, the market moved in a narrow range featured by further July liquidation and switching into later months.

Three Truman Remarks Viewed As Bearing Heavily On Russo-Jap War

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Capping General Marshall's recent nomination of Russia's role as the great "imponderable" of the war with Japan, President Truman's repeated references to that conflict in his address to the United Nations conference in San Francisco invite attention.

SIMPSON

They were certainly not made inadvertently. Probably no Truman remarks since he became President were fully canvassed in advance by his advisers. The importance of the occasion would justify that. Nor could Mr. Truman and his advisers conceivably have forgotten that Russia, not at war with Japan, was a major factor in the San Francisco proceedings.

Three Excerpts Cited

Yet here are three separate excerpts from that presidential speech:

"History will honor you (the conference delegates) for it (the world charter). Between the victory in Europe and the final victory in Japan, in this most destructive of all wars, you have won a victory against war itself."

Some paragraphs later:

"We (the United Nations) have tested the principle of cooperation in this war and found that it works. Through the pooling of resources, through joint and combined military command, through constant staff meetings, we have shown what united strength can do in war. That united strength forced Germany to surrender. United strength will force Japan to surrender."

No Propaganda Division

Still again, later:

"But I know I speak for every one of you when I say that the United Nations will remain united. They will not be divided by propaganda either before the Japanese surrender or after."

That Truman language and the context from which it was taken is open to the possible interpretation that he regarded the United Nations fellowship represented at San Francisco and including Russia as much aimed against Japan as it was against fallen Italy and Germany. There is no record that such an inference drew any protest from Russian sources here or in Moscow, and that fact must add to Japanese unease in Manchuria, prime terrain for tank warfare, at which Russian armies excelled in the March from Stalingrad to Berlin.

David H. Cole Raised To First Lieutenant

Commanding officer of Squadron B, medical detachment at Marianna field, David H. Cole, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cole of 3006 Twentieth, recently was promoted to first lieutenant at the Army air field.

Married to the former Monte Brashear, Lt. Cole entered the service November, 1940, as an enlisted man in the National Guard. His first assignment was teaching enlistees basic training at Camp Bowie, Texas.

A few months later he was reassigned to the 131st Artillery medics and was placed in charge of a surgical section. "Around then my brother, Cpl. Joseph B. Cole, jr., arrived in the same artillery battalion and we couldn't believe our luck," said the lieutenant.

"My brother went overseas to Java with the 131st Artillery, but I was transferred to Lubbock Army Air field, near my home. In March we received word that the battalion had been wiped out, its men killed or taken prisoner. My brother is still a prisoner of the Japanese."

Lt. Cole left LAAF, December, 1942, for officer candidate school and graduated February, 1943. He served as assistant registrar at SAAC Post Hospital, San Antonio, Texas, then shipped to Harlingen, Texas, to become registrar of convalescent training. Arriving at Marianna field June 10, 1944, he was appointed medical supply officer, later becoming commanding officer of the medical squadron.

Joan Prouty Is In Improved Condition

Now undergoing treatment for poliomyelitis at famed Elizabeth Kenny Institute, Joan Prouty, 16, was reported Wednesday to be gradually improving with every hope that time and treament will effect a complete cure.

In a letter to a close personal friend and business associate, Parker F. Prouty, Joan's father, said his daughter's spirit is good; most of the pain which marks polio's early stages has disappeared and that early treatments are showing satisfactory results. Mr. and Mrs. Prouty are both in Minneapolis and expect to remain there for another week or 10 days before returning home. Indications are, however, that Joan will have to remain there under treatment for several months.

At the time the Proutys left here by Army bomber for Minneapolis on June 18, Joan apparently had the infection only in the upper left leg and upper right arm and shoulder. Examination at Minneapolis, however, indicated slight involvement of the left shoulder and lower right arm, as well.

Attendants at the institute believe that a relatively quick recovery will be possible in all involved areas except the right shoulder, which will require considerable treatment before definite results can be promised.

Mr. Prouty is general manager of Avalanche-Journal newspapers. The family resides here at 3019 Twenty-first street.

Poor Digestion? YES ☐ NO ☐
Headachy? ☐
Sour or Upset? ☐
Tired-Listless? ☐

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly.

Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable.

Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any druggists. Only 25¢. Adv.

Action Delayed On Thomas Case

No action was taken by the court of criminal appeals Wednesday in the appeal of Jim Thomas from a death conviction growing out of the Littlefield murder of Dr. Roy E. Hunt, and "the court may not act before adjourning for the summer, at the end of the week," the Associated Press announced from Dallas.

Under statutory provision, the court does not sit in July, August and September—its term being set for only nine months of the year.

That would mean that, should no action be taken this week, nothing could be announced before October, attorneys here said.

Due Close Scrutiny

Because of the great volume of testimony and since the punishment recommended by a Dawson county jury was based on circumstantial evidence, it had been expected that the court would scrutinize closely every word of the trial record—hence would require much time before writing its opinion.

Dr. Hunt was slain in the fall of 1943, in his bedroom. His wife also was killed. The bodies were lashed together in bed. Thomas, 50-year-old convict who was outside prison walls on parole, was arrested at Galveston a day after the double-murder. Tried in Plainview, he was given the death sentence. Misconduct in the jury room was proved by the defense, and trial venue was changed to Dawson county upon motion of Hale District Judge C. D. Russell.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.
