LAWTON, OKLA. PAIR SHOT TO DEATH

Nicholson May Fight Ouster Of Bolters In Test Case

Faith

Deserving Students—
A Big Load—
Outside—
Not So Nice—

A score of deserving Wichita Falls students need scholarships in order to attend Junior college this year. Of this number, 10 or 12 will be unable to attend school without such aid, according to a statement to the Record News by Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of Wichita Falls schools. A number of Wichita Falls residents, firms and organizations have provided more than 15 scholarships but the need has been less than half filled. If there are others who wish to aid, they should do so at once. Only a few more days and these students must either have provision for their fees or turn away from school.

There is no greater tragedy to the ambitious boy or girl than to be denied schooling because of financial handicaps. Many students of course, earn all their expense through college, but it is a poor system. It makes for poor scholarship, and quite often entails a physical and nervous strain of serious consequences. It is quite a job enough for the young boy or girl in the teens to earn a living, without the addition of college expenses and the necessity of spending considerable time in study to maintain reasonably good grades.

Members of the Wichita county Democratic executive committee, ousted from their posts because of their support of the Republican presidential nominee, should not complain of their lot. By all the rules of Democracy, opposition to Gov. Al Smith from within the party should have ended with his nomination by a majority of the party's convention delegates. Those who felt unable to abide by the decision of the majority should have immediately made their affiliations with some other party. Such a course was open to Wichita precinct chairman, but they must wait for an application of the official boot, a most indignified but effective thing, alas and alack.

Considering that the anti-Smith "Democratic" club lists some rather well known and admired residents of Wichita Falls in its personnel, this writer is somewhat surprised at this membership listening to an address of abuse and criticism directed at the personal character of Governor Smith, as indicated in a story in the morning paper. Attacks on the character of Governor Smith have been made before, but they have proved to be of so little foundation, so flimsy and inexcusable, as to deserve less consideration than the ranting of Senator Heflin of Alabama.

The Record News can believe that Democrats may quit their party in opposition to the nominee, but it does not believe this opposition must extend into the realm of unsupported personal abuse. Certainly, members of the anti-Smith club should need no such exhortations to bolster their own convictions. Harried Republican leaders would probably be glad to halt the mud-slinging if they could.

COURT ACTION THREATENED IN COMMITTEE ROW

Legal Action Contemplated Over Removal of Bolters From Seats

MAY FILE PETITION

Scurry to Fill Vacated Place in Saturday Meeting

Threats of disgruntled Hoover "Democrats," who were relieved of their place on the Democratic county executive committee last Tuesday that they would resort to the courts to retain the offices to which they were elected, bid fair to become realized Friday, when Alton V. Grant, local attorney, probably will file a petition for a restraining order against Edgar Scurry, chairman of the committee.

Mr. Grant has been retained by J. W. Nicholson, erstwhile chairman of Precinct 17, to represent him in the proposed test of the legality of removal from the committee of certain members, it is understood. Mr. Grant could not be reached Thursday night for a statement.

Will Take Action

Mr. Nicholson did not deny that legal action was contemplated when interviewed by a Record News reporter Thursday. He refused, however, to confirm the rumor that a petition seeking to restrain Mr. Scurry from appointing new committee members already is in existence.

"You'll know all about it tomorrow," was the only comment the released precinct chairman would make.

The threat of court action is an outgrowth of the meeting of the county executive committee last Tuesday when 15 committee members who failed to sign a resolution indorsing the candidacy of Gov. Alfred E. Smith were ruled off the committee by a vote of 13 to 24. Two committee members were absent from Tuesday's meeting.

At the meeting, Mr. Nicholson lead the fight of the minority forces to retain their places on the committee. He protested that the action depriving him of a voice in the committee affairs was illegal and at that time declared that should be denied a part in the deliberations of the body he would seek legal recourse.

Regulars Victorious

Supporters of Alfred E. Smith had a substantial majority at the meeting, however, and they rode rough shod over the protests of the minority.

It is understood that the contemplated suit of Mr. Nicholson is merely a test case. Should the court uphold the legality of the action of the committee prospects are that the fight will be carried to the higher courts.

Should the court rule, however, that the action of the committee

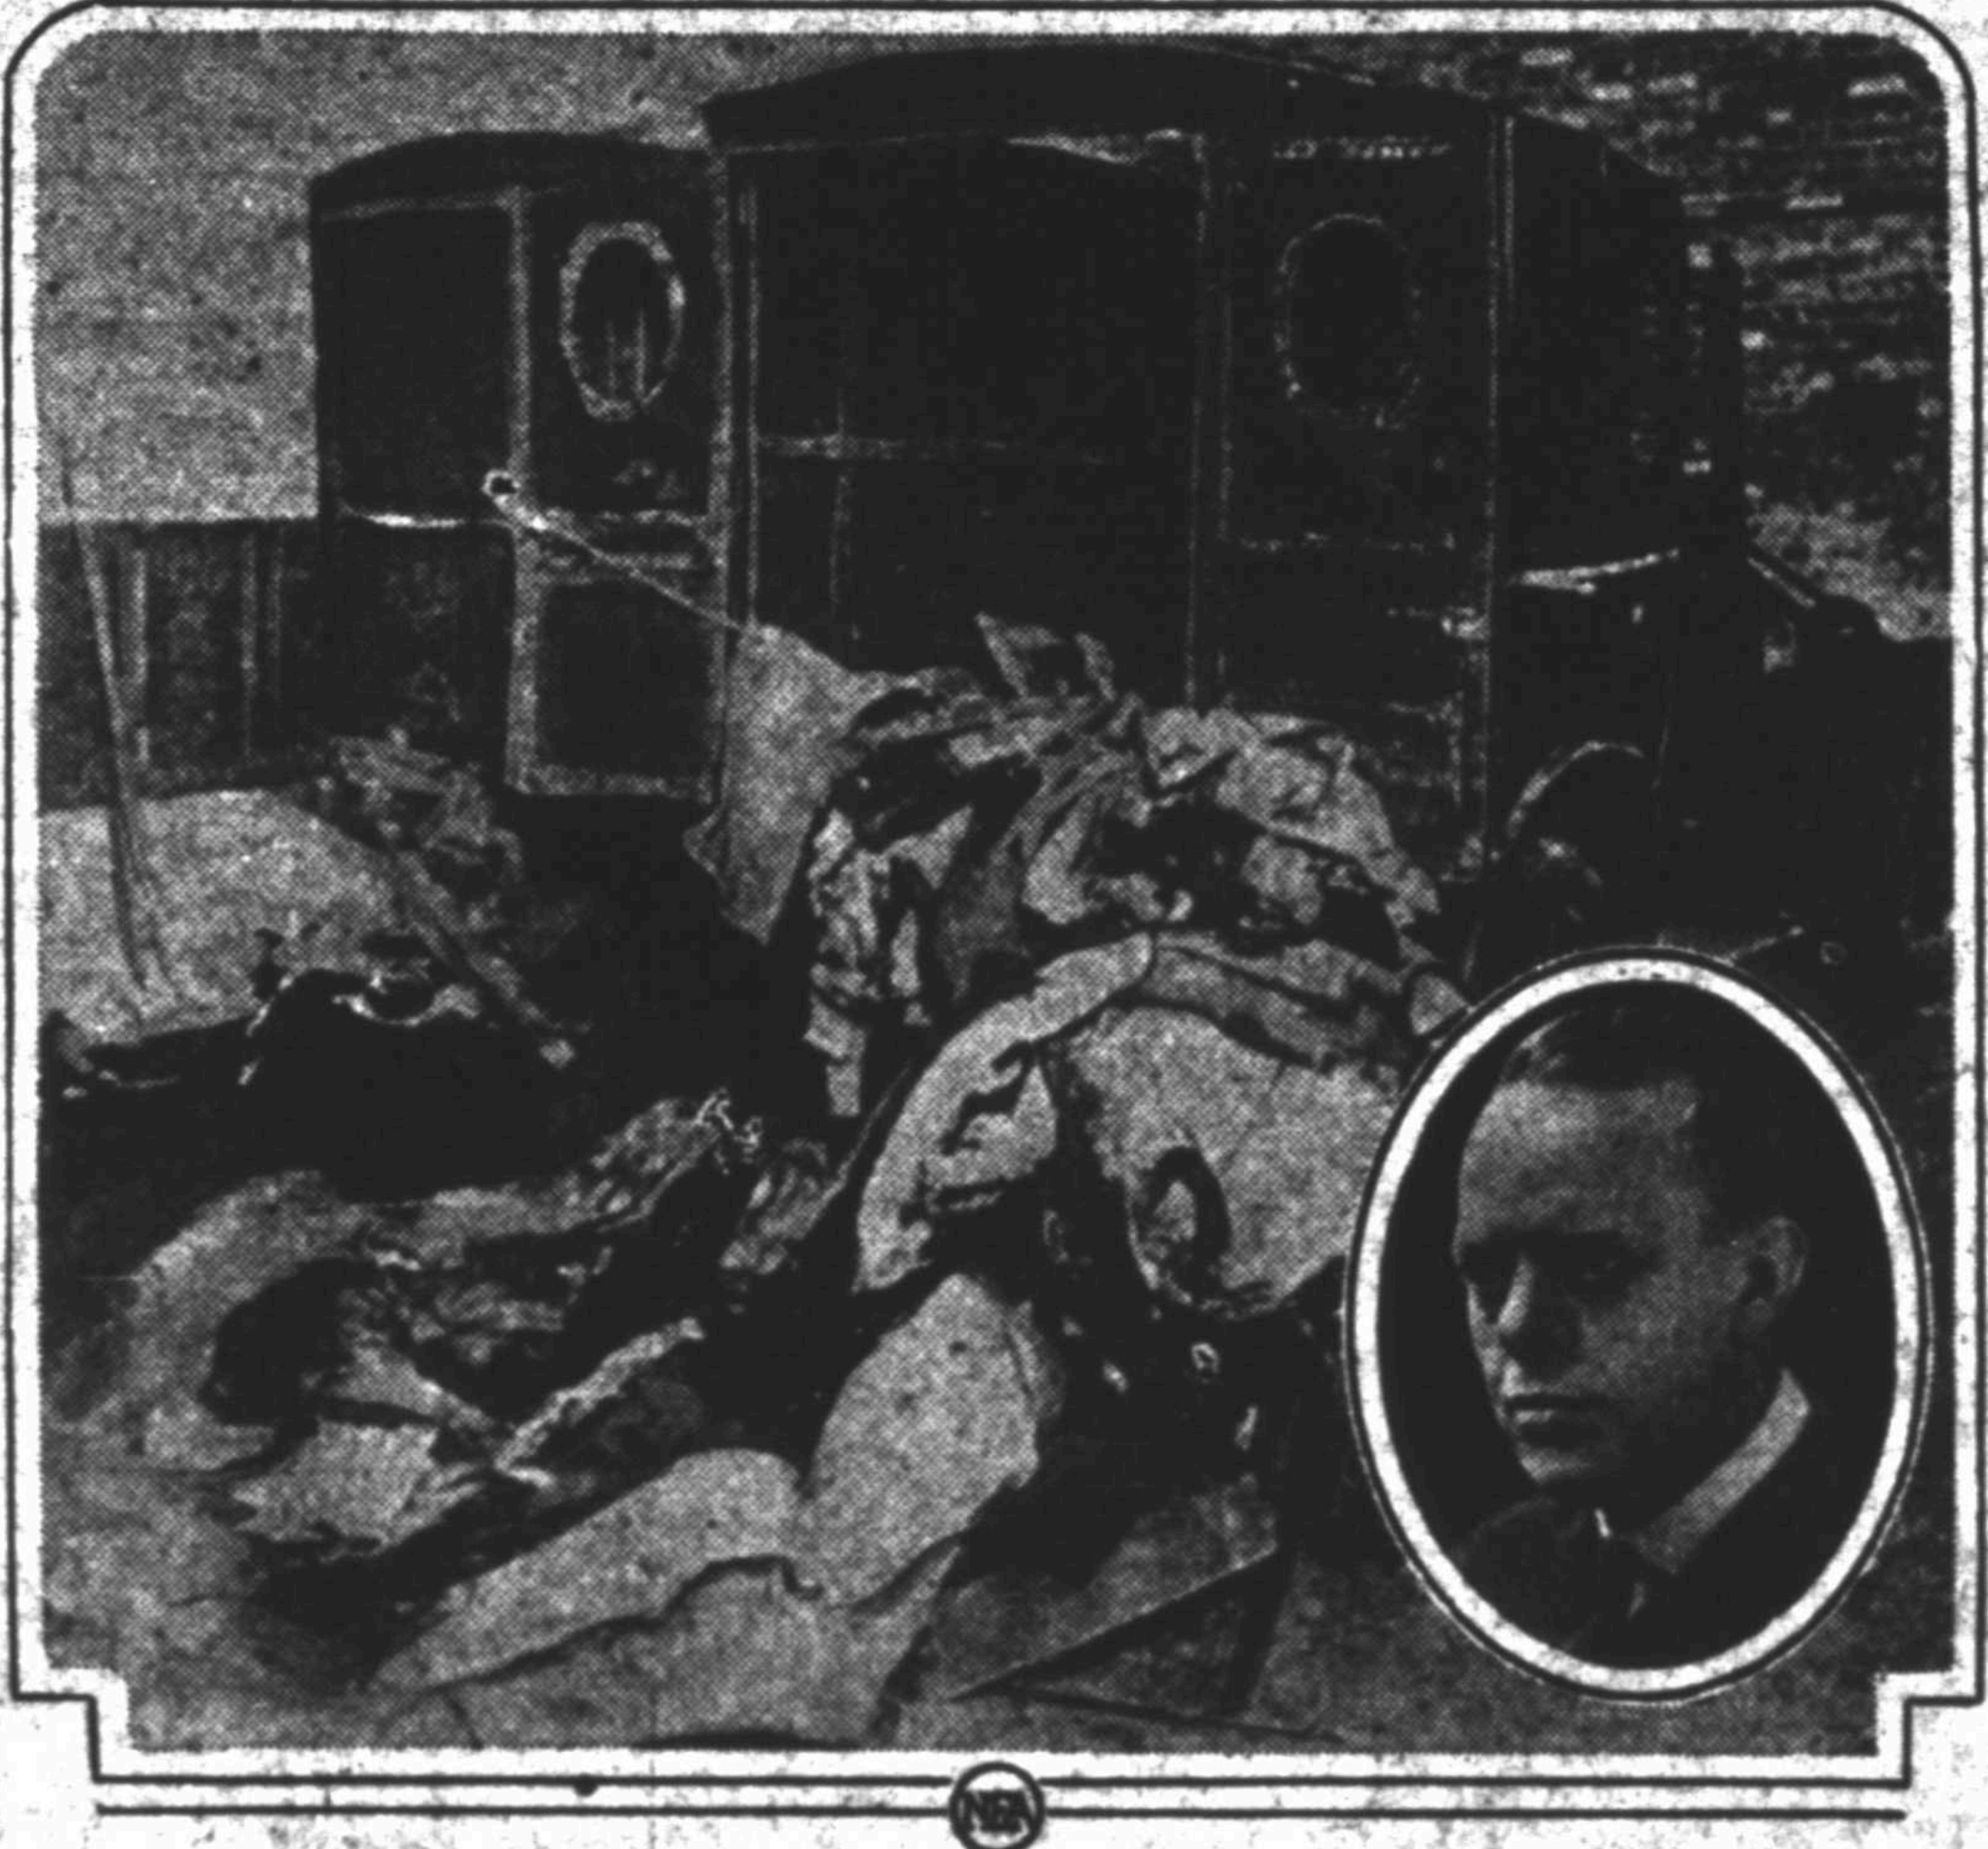
Where a Man Was Burned Alive



To be burned alive in a gasoline-drenched truckload of clothes was the racketeering sentence passed on the driver of this truck—and it happened on the streets of Chicago in mid-day, says the Illinois Association for Criminal Justice. The driver was slugged, tossed into his truck and left to die in the fire. Inset shows Walter G. Walker, formerly an assistant state's attorney and now special counsel for the Employers' Association of Chicago.

215 Gang Murders In Two Years and Not a Single Conviction Is Chicago's Record of Racketeering

PILOT DIES IN RIVER CRASH

Home of Hassel-Cramer Scene of Tragedy

ROCKFORD, Ill., Sept. 6. (UP)—The pilot of a Stinson-Detroiter passenger plane was drowned, two other persons were injured seriously, and two others escaped with slight injuries this afternoon when the ship struck a high tension electric wire and nose dived into the Rock river.

The plane, with the five occupants, had just left the Rockford airport here for a flight over the city.

The body of the pilot, M. E. Headley, was recovered from the river half an hour after the crash.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Murder in Chicago has long since ceased to be a sensation.

The real sensation would be a conviction for a racket or gangland murder.

As a result of gang warfare over beer running privileges, racketeering in industry and 'election' disputes, 215 Chicago murders in the last two years are directly traceable to this cause. There has not been a single conviction for a gangland murder.

These are the figures of Arthur V. Lashly, operating director of the Illinois Association for Criminal

"Smith is due to arrive here at 10 a. m. on September 20 and spend the night here. He is scheduled to leave at 10:30 a. m. Friday, Sept. 21."

Ferris characterized Smith's visit as a Democratic rally for the entire state, parts of Kansas, Arkansas and Texas.

Air Derby Fliers Due in Fort Worth Today From Missouri; Rowland Leads

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 6. (UP)—With two days of gruelling flying behind them, 25 of the 37 fliers entered in the transcontinental class A airplane race arrived in Kansas City today and were preparing for the take-off early Friday for the next over night stop at Fort Worth, Texas.

Again leading the pack into Kansas City was Earl Rowland, of Wichita, Kan., flying his Cessna monoplane. He swooped down on the Richards airfield at 12:41:45, less than two hours after he left St. Louis. A $225 prize offered by the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce for the plane completing the St. Louis-Kansas City lap in the fastest time went to Rowland.

Because he came in first again today, Rowland will be the first to hop off in the flight over his home state Friday. Thirty-minute stops will be made in Wichita, Kan., and Oklahoma City, Okla., before Fort Worth, Texas, is reached for the night.

Robert Dake, of Pittsburgh, in an American Moth, was the second to land here today, arriving at 1:06:10. Soon after his arrival came W. N. Emery Jr., of Bradford, Pa., who came at 1:22:44. The fourth arrival was Theodore W. Kenyon, Boston, flying a Challenger, who arrived at 1:31:27.

MATT KIMES TO PLEAD GUILTY

Trial in Beggs Slaying Opens Saturday

OKEMAH, Okla., Sept. 6. (UP)—Matthew Kimes, youthful Oklahoma outlaw, will plead guilty Saturday to a charge of murder in the killing of W. J. McAnally, town marshal, slain in a bank raid at Beggs, Okla., his attorneys revealed today.

It was expected he will receive a life sentence for the crime instead of the death sentence returned against him by a jury in the hearing a year ago, declared a mistrial.

Kimes is already serving life sentence for the killing of Perry Chuculate, deputy slain in a gun fight with Kimes and his brother, George, near Sallisaw, Okla., two years ago.

McAnally was killed in a running fight with the robbers. It was learned after the robbery that the gang had planned to hold up both banks in the city.

An hour had been selected. The bandits were watching a town clock from different angles. The clock was out of order, causing a 15-minute variance in the time shown.

This caused one group to start work before the other and their plans miscarried. McAnally engaged one group in a fight and was killed.

Chuculate was killed when a group of deputies stopped the Kimes brothers on the highway near Sallisaw, believing them to be auto thieves.

The pair whirled their car in the road, jumped to the ground and opened fire with rifles. J. C. Woll, chief of police at Sallisaw, was kidnaped but later released in the Crawford county, Arkansas, Ozark mountains.

In a long distance conversation from Saynor, Wis., where he is fishing, to the Kansas City Star, Senator Reed said emphatically he was not running on the Farmer-Labor or any other ticket.

GANGS BOAST 215 MURDERS

And Chicago Fails to Win One Convention

Justice, following a recent survey of homicide in Cook county.

In 1926 and 1927, there were 760 murders in Chicago, including the gang murders. For the murders not involving the gangs, only ten persons have been hanged; convictions were obtained in only 22 per cent of the cases and these for crimes of lesser degree than murder.

But statistics, even though they indicate the demoralization of the prosecuting machinery of America's second largest city, do not give a complete picture of the terrorism that prevails because of the alliance of the rackets with politics.

Victims Shot, Tortured

Dynamitings, window smashings, incendiary fires, stench bombs, wrecking of machinery, prohibitive insurance rates and torturing of individuals have followed in the wake of the rackets. Walter G. Walker, who was appointed assistant state's attorney upon the demand of the Employers' Association of Chicago and then later discharged by State's Attorney Crowe on the grounds of economy, is now special counsel for the association. He says that some men have been made hopeless cripples for life because they defied the rackets. Their hands were broken and they were shot through the knees.

In 1928, there have been 97 bombings in Chicago without any convictions, Walker says. These included cleaning and dyeing plants, laundries, barber and butcher shops and many other lines of business. In addition, the homes of Charles C. Fitzmorris, conspicuous Thompson aide; Dr. William H. Reid, another Thompson associate; Judge John A. Sbarbaro; U. S. Senator Charles E. Deneen and Judge John A. Swanson, Democratic candidate for state's attorney, were bombed.

The Murder Record at a Glance

Here's the record of two years in Chicago, as given by the Illinois Association for Criminal Justice:

Two hundred and fifteen murders directly traceable to gang warfare over beer running privileges, racketeering in industry and election disputes—and not a single conviction!

A total of 760 murders in Chicago (including the above). For the murders not involving gangs, only 10 persons have been hanged, convictions obtained in only 22 per cent of the cases, and these for crimes of lesser degree than murder.

15 Recognized "Mobs"

In Chicago, now there are at least 15 recognized "mobs," composed of gunmen and gangsters and operating the various rackets. Among these are the Capone, Vogel-Druggan, Decoursey, Ralph Sheldon, Foley, Saltis, "Spike" O'Donnell, "Klondike" O'Donnell, Guilfoyle and the old O'Bannion gangs.

The names of most of the members of these gangs have been known to the police and prosecuting officials for two or three years, but the amazing thing is that few of the gangsters are ever arrested and convictions for major crimes practically unknown.

The beer and booze racket, it seems from unprejudiced investigation, forms the basis upon which the entire structure of crime and official corruption and negligence rests. The recognized ruler of the beer racket is king racketeer of Chicago, "Scarface Al" Capone. It is estimated that there are 15,000 beer joints in Chicago and in a majority of them Capone beer is served.

"It's the real McCoy; that's Capone beer," the barkeeper will tell you to assure you that he is serving you with real beer, with an alcoholic content considerably above that provided by the Volstead law. Capone is said to be operating six breweries in and around Chicago, the press recently reporting that fire almost destroyed one of them.

Judge Blames Prohibition

A judge of the Chicago criminal court puts it as follows in an announcement released by the Illinois Association for Criminal Justice.

"The source of the strength of organized crime in Chicago is the Volstead jackpot of hundreds of millions of dollars each year. It has attracted the criminal greed of the enemies of government; it has provided the sinews of war. It has banded together the men who make crime a business, and they have levied death upon those who dare oppose them.

"Racketeer government is not an empty phrase; it is a vital fact.

"To make secure its control, it has sought to make alliances with political parties. Its field marshals have contributed huge sums from their war chests to make men elected to public office responsible to their orders."

Free broadcasting is not practiced in Germany as it is in the United States; every owner of a receiving set must pay a monthly fee of about 50 cents.

Eight Years' Toil—Then Stardom

Marian Nixon . . . . her dream of eight years realised

By DAN THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 5.—For the last eight and a half years petite Marian Nixon has been dreaming of cinema stardom.

The little Superior, Wis., school girl once had grand ideas about becoming a famous stage dancer. She spent many afternoons after school hours taking dancing lessons.

Just after the close of her third year in high school, Marian became sick and was unable to return to school. When she had fully recovered, it was too late to go back to school for that term, so she went to Minneapolis, where she got a job dancing in prologs at motion picture theaters. From Minneapolis she went to St. Paul to appear in other prologs.

Then Marian decided that she would much prefer a screen career to one on the stage. Her vaudeville troupe went to Los Angeles. In Los Angeles the show failed and the girls found themselves out of a job. Marian became one of that great army of girls who daily went from studio to studio looking for work—dreaming of the day when she would be a star and ride to the studio in her luxurious automobile.

Marian didn't mean a thing to the casting directors then. She was just one of the scores of girls who haunted their offices in search of work. But today her name is blazoned in electric lights everywhere, her salary is that of a bank president and she is just one short step from her goal—cinema stardom.

NEFF TELLS OF MONEY LOSSES

Former Governor Returns From Probe

DALLAS, Sept. 6. (AP)—Details of the discovery of $1,000,000 shortage in the accounts of Clifton Carnes, treasurer of the home mission board of the Southern Baptist convention, were revealed today upon the return of former Governor Pat M. Neff and Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas from Atlanta, where they sat upon the investigating board which uncovered the shortage. Dr. Truett is president of the convention and head of the executive board, and Mr. Neff is a board member.

The amazing story of how Carnes rose from an almost poverty stricken bookkeeper to the position of treasurer of the home mission board, becoming one of the wealthiest men in Atlanta and yet explaining the source of his wealth to the satisfaction of his associates, was unfolded during the investigation, Mr. Neff said.

"There is a shortage of approximately one million dollars as has been announced," stated Mr. Neff. "This will of course curtail expenditures of the home mission board very seriously," he continued. "But the most deplorable factor in the situation is the betrayed confidence of thousands of Baptists. The loss sustained represents the lifetime donations of many members of the church."

Mr. Neff declared, however, that it was determined by the executive board to make good and redeem every outstanding indebtedness of the home mission board.

Mr. Neff explained that the shortage was not discovered for several years because the board had given Carnes the extraordinary authority to borrow any amount of money in its name, at any rate of interest, and at any bank where he chose.

During the last month before his disappearance on Aug. 15, Carnes borrowed a sum of money not yet estimated, Mr. Neff said, signing the name of the home mission board to 90-day notes at something like 45 banks. Copies of a circular letter that he wrote to many banks were found in his office.

EXPLORER MAY BE PARDONED

Accused Oil Man's Plea Received Favorably

FORT WORTH, Sept. 6. (UP)—The long prison term of Dr. Frederick A. Cook, oil promoter, arctic explorer, geologist and physician, probably will be terminated before the year is over.

Prospects that the convicted organizer of the Petroleum Producers association soon will leave the United States penitentiary at Leavenworth appeared likely Wednesday with assurance of favorable recommendations from the United States attorney general's department at Washington.

Without executive clemency, he would not be eligible for parole until March 15, 1930. With good behavior, his term would not expire until March 2, 1935. He is 63 years old, and is in failing health.

Dr. Cook lays claim to the discovery of the north pole. As a geologist, he is credited by many with the discovery of the Hamilton hidden oil dome in Wyoming.

Nicholson May Protest Ouster

was illegal and issue an order to the chairman that Mr. Nicholson be allowed a seat on the committee, it is probable that the entire deliberations of committee last Tuesday will be declared illegal and that the chairman will be ordered to recognize the 15 members released at that meeting.

Meets Saturday

Such order probably would result in a chaotic meeting of the committee next Saturday afternoon, when the 15 members appointed to fill the vacated places will be formally announced by Mr. Scurry.

At the meeting Saturday the committee also will be given a list of delegates to the state convention at Dallas Sept. 11. These delegates are intended to supersede a delegation selected by a county convention on Aug. 4 which is headed by B. D. Sartin, avowed foe of Smith. Should the 15 anti-Smith committeemen be reseated on the committee by court order it is probable that plans of the Smith forces will go through only after a stormy session.

The original petition, which it is understood Mr. Grant plans to file Friday, seeks a court order restraining Mr. Scurry from appointing man to take the place on the committee from which Mr. Nicholson was dismissed.

Claims Majority

In the petition Mr. Nicholson avers that he was nominated by a majority of two to one over Joe B. Hatchitt as chairman of Precinct 17. The action of the committee in depriving him of a voice in the affairs of the committee tends to disfranchise the voters in his precinct, Mr. Nicholson's petition sets out.

No indication was given Thursday as to which court Mr. Grant will ask for a hearing on the injunction.

Convict Sprouts Hair After Prison Fire

HOUSTON, Texas, Sept. 6. (UP)—Found at last! A cure for baldness. G. E. Merrick is the discoverer and he wishes he hadn't found it. He's practically certain he'll never make any money out of his process of doing something world renowned scientists have been unable to do.

Merrick was a convict at Blue Ridge farm and was one of 18 men, four of whom died, who were injured in an explosion of movie film. He was baldheaded and was badly burned about the head.

Now he displays little tufts of hair coming through the scarred spots of his head.

"But I'd rather have stayed baldheaded," he said.

Merrick, with Archie Baine, is the last of the injured convicts to remain in the hospital. Baine must have skin grafted on his arm before he can recover.

He said Mr. Calhoun had not revealed what sections or what cities the inquiry would lead to.

McAllen Officials Keep Records Intact

McALLEN, Texas, Sept. 6. (UP)—Hidalgo county officials believe that they have established a record for keeping their records intact, from the time of creation by the legislature up to the present time.

Minutes of proceedings in the county court since the county was created by the legislature in 1852—records of the district courts since they were created, deed records, records of probata, records of road work and surveying—all dating back from organization of the county, or from the time that keeping of such records was authorized, are available.

There is even to be found the record of the county's citizens who registered in 1861 as citizens of the Confederate states of America.

Though in past years many raids were made and many attempts to steal the records made by Mexican bandits, necessitating the moving of the records from house to house, they still to this day remain intact without one single entry missing.

ALBANIA'S KING SEEKS FRIENDS

New Monarch to Champion Freedom of Thought

TIRANA, Albania, Sept. 6. (AP)—Friendly relations with neighboring nations and freedom of political thought at home are objects Zogu, king of the Albanians, will seek in his reign. He made this plain today in an interview with The Associated Press, the first real interview since his status was changed from president to king.

He explained the change in the Albanian government was made to conform to the history and psychology of his people. He promised amnesty would be extended to all his opponents, including those political enemies who have fled to other countries. He expressed intention to adhere to the Kellogg pact and said Albania would be loyal to the League of Nations.

The king expressed gratitude for Italy's prompt recognition of his enthronement and said he hoped the United States, "which always has showed a sympathetic interest in and deep moral encouragement for Albania's struggle for a small place in the sun," would soon follow suit.

Amarillo Boys Eagape In Horse Stampede

AMARILLO, Texas, Sept. 6. (UP) Caught in a stampede of horses is the recent experience of Charles Austin and John Boyce.

Returning from a prairie chicken hunt the other afternoon, the two men had just started to cross the Canadian river bridge when a herd of horses at the other end became frightened at the whistle of a train and stampeded.

The avalanche of horse flesh poured down the narrow passageway and literally ingulfed the two hunters. They dashed against the car, knocking off fenders, door handles, radiator caps, and one of them even jumped over the radiator, landing on the running board. The car was almost a complete wreck when the herd passed.

Mr. Austin, whose car it was, attempted to back off the approach, but could not do so quick enough. Both men had forgotten the plight of the vehicle and begun to fear for their lives before the stampede ended safely for themselves, at least.

Commander Says Legion Boys Will Not 'Tear Up the Town'

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 6. (AP)—Though everyone is going to "holler and have a good time," the idea that a lot of "riff-raff" will attend the national American Legion convention here Oct. 8 to 12, is erroneous, Walton D. Hood, commander of the Texas department of the American Legion, told Mayor C. M. Chambers and members of the city commission Wednesday.

"There is an under-current of talk that the legionnaires are coming to San Antonio to tear up the town," Hood said. "There is nothing so far from the truth."

Electra Road Financiers Meet

ELECTRA, Texas, Sept. 6.—The finance committee of the Electra Chamber of Commerce composed of E. V. Haltom, Freeman Miller, W. P. Slaton, S. B. Marchant, R. E. Scheurer, H. E. Miller and H. A. Decker, met Wednesday afternoon in the chamber of commerce rooms. Work is now being done on the road, with Roland Cobb, commissioner from the Harrold precinct, in charge. The cost of having the road surveyed was paid by the chamber of commerce and W. E. Bernhart, a civil engineer of Wichita Falls, was engaged to make the survey and prepare field notes, which was submitted to the Wilbarger county authorities for use in the work of construction.

A crew of men have been put to work this week on the preliminary operations and a grader will follow. It is expected to complete the road in record time.

MODERN DAMON MAKES BOND

Accused in Mexican's Death May Be Extradited

DEL RIO, Texas, Sept. 6. (AP)—John Crosby Jr., who has been held incommunicado in the jail at Piedras Negras, Mexico since Monday, when he surrendered himself as "living bond" for Forrest Whitehead, who was alleged to have inflicted injuries upon John Kastner of New Braunfels which resulted in the latter's death, was released today under 1,000 pesos bond, approximately $500 in American money.

Crosby was given preliminary hearing on charges with aiding a criminal to escape from Mexico. It was at first believed he would be forced to stand trial for murder, although he was in no way connected with the affray which caused Kastner's death.

Mexican Consul Lisandro Pena at Del Rio said today that he would ask that Whitehead be extradited to stand trial in Mexico unless he returned voluntarily. Whitehead has made no attempt to escape from Del Rio since Crosby was arrested in his stead and has made no statement.

In a statement to Consul Pena yesterday, Mrs. John Crosby Sr., mother of the man held as hostage, denied that she had asked Whitehead to remain in the United States and let her son stand trial. She declared that she had encouraged Whitehead to return to Mexico and permit her son to be released.

Whitehead is alleged to have told relatives that he had a physician's statement to show that he was not responsible for Kastner's death; that Kastner died from hemorrhage of the stomach and not from a blow.

PARIS READY FOR DIVORCES

Stockbroker's Wife to Open 'Season' Sept. 15

PARIS, Sept. 6. (US)—The open season for American divorces will be officially inaugurated when the handsome Mrs. Andre de Coppet of New York files her petition from the well known stockbroker and clubman on Sept. 15. On that date the French courts will resume their sittings.

In view of the recent scandal in trafficking in legal documents before divorce tribunals, the strictest supervision of every American divorce action will be exercised by the French magistrates. Mrs. De Coppet will be compelled to establish an official, bona fide residence in Paris for at least six months and French judges are even considering issuing subpoenas to compel the presence of husbands.

Perfunctory charges of abandonment and cruelty are mentioned in the petition by the former Clara Barclay and the custody of their 13-year-old daughter is requested.

This will mark Mrs. De Coppet's second appearance in divorce proceedings. As Clara Barclay she married Josev Onatavia Jr., and lived with his parents for many years in the Onatavia mansion, at Lawrence, L. I. Onatavia was also a stockbroker and man about town.

Legal intervention in the Onatavias' marital difficulties resulted in a divorce being granted to her, and she shortly afterward married De Coppet. The present suit for divorce was filed yesterday. It will be subjected to a searching scrutiny as the French judges are determined to make Paris divorces much more difficult.

Men Drive Off in Each Other's Autos

AMARILLO, Texas, Sept. 6. (UP) Carrying off the wrong hat is an old story, but driving off the wrong automobile, and they wern't Fords, either, is a new wrinkle.

A. P. Yoark reported to police that someone drove off his four-door Buick sedan and left a two-door sedan in its place. A few moments later J. J. Haren appeared at the station and said someone had traded automobiles with him.

The two had gone back of a house to look at a windmill and when they came out in front climbed into the wrong machine as the cars were parked in almost the same spot, but across the street from each other.

Vaught Nominated as New Mexico Senator

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 6. (UP)—J. S. Vaught, Albuquerque attorney, was nominated by the New Mexico Democratic convention as candidate for the long term in the U. S. senate.

Juan Vigil of Taos was nominated as the Democratic candidate for one unexpired short term of A. A. Jones.

OH, THESE WOMEN ! ! !

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, Sept. 6. (US)—Women who are undergoing operations to have fat sliced off, and dieting until they are thoroughly miserable, will be glad to hear about Ruth Rekasus. She lives in Chicago, is 38 and weighs 350 pounds. A man fell so desperately in love with her that he had her sign papers after which he told her she was now divorced and could marry him.

So she did, and now she is in court charged with bigamy.

Ruth's mother weighs 260 and her father 475. They have always been happily married and were in court with their daughter.

Ruth couldn't even read, or she wouldn't have signed the papers.

It does look as if Cupid didn't give a hang about anything any more.

The girls who make the best wives are comfortably corpulent. Men are never afraid to marry a fat woman. Every excess pound is an added guarantee as to disposition.

The thin ones look better in their clothes, and the men like to parade them, but married life is anything but a parade.

A fat wife never sit up late worrying and then meets you with a barrage of irritating expressions when you return home. She goes to bed and, what's more she goes to sleep. That's why she is fat.

Some men discussing thin women agreed that the only objection they had to fat was when it was accompanied by laziness and an indifference toward dressing becomingly.

If the vote were left to the world's infants, they would declare unanimously in favor of the fat mamas. There is no crooning sweet enough, and no arms loving enough, to make up for the discomfort of a boney cradle.

The chief excuse given by women who are trying to get thinned out is that they look younger. While, as a matter of fact, a little tendency to plumpness takes off the appearance of a middle aged anybody.

The woman who makes all fat women undesirable is the one who queers the game by eating banquets at every sitting, who nibbles sweets in between meals, shouts for more whipped cream, talks food incessantly, and is never willing to do anything or go anywhere if effort is involved. A woman who would rather eat ravenously than be trim in figure, is a physical, mental, spiritual dud.

Constance Vaughan, English novelist, says that women are not beautiful. They only want to be and have resorted to artificial means to get that way until they look hardly human.

She recommends that women be themselves and then declares that what is beautiful is men.

But, it's the men you see standing around the stage doors waiting for the "artificial" ones to come forth. And, as for arraying a male in glass beads and ostrich feathers and expecting the box office to bring results—don't make us laugh!

Women are beautiful! Men are merly rich!

Cherie says 'Frocks of lightweight wool are the next thing'

The first of the fall frocks are made of very lightweight woolens—that's expressly for the benefit of Cherie and her friends—so that they may be smart without being uncomfortable. The dress Cherie wears now is tan wool with collar and cuffs of brown velveteen and its coat lines are all the smarter for the flaring skirt. Dina wears a reddish brown plaid mixture trimmed with fringed edges of the cloth. Emily's frock has a woven pattern of stripes. Their hats, too, are newly autumnal—Cherie's of soleil with a crumpled strip of soleil in which two bird's heads snuggle, for trimming. Dina's felt with a wide waving brim. Emily's is of soleil with a one-sided (profile) brim.

The others went to a matinee, but Cherie had her own ideas. It's true that her wool frock isn't really heavy and that it isn't such a warm day for this time of year, but—the movies still announce "30 degrees below street heat" and there's something restful about looking at pictures of winter costumes like this skating set of zephyr knit.

There's nothing wrong with this picture. What is wrong is entirely outside of the picture, for Cherie's sake and our own. When we have a heroine wearing a wool georgette dress with a seamed yoke, a one-sided jabot, a woven leather belt and a pleated skirt we hesitate to say that she is wearing fashions for fall in the breeze of an electric fan!

'BOSS' MANIA SPOILS HOME

When Both Hubby And Wife Fight, Love Dies

When a Husband and Wife Both Want to Rule the Home, a Grim Battle Is Fought Which Drags Itself Out Endlessly, With No Result but the Gradual Death of Love.

The one thing that does more than anything else to make marriage a failure is the lust for power, the desire of husband and wife to boss each other, the determination of each to dominate the other.

It is this passion for supremacy that turns marriages that should have been peaceful, happy and prosperous into a 30 years' civil war in which the husband and wife fight every inch of their hearthstone for possession of the throne.

It is this mania for imposing their wills upon each other that kills affection between husbands and wives and makes them hate each other, because none of us loves a tyrant.

It is this rule-or-ruin spirit that breaks up homes and that keeps the storm signal set in most households. For at the bottom of nearly every domestic squabble is not some question of right or wrong or the wisdom or folly of doing some particular thing, but the wife's insistence on having her way and forcing her opinion on her husband, and the husband's determination to have the say-so in the matter.

It is this love of domineering that leads to divorce oftener than anything else, and the principal reason why divorce is increasing is because women are rebelling more than they used to against man's assumption that he is the head of the house. Doubtless wives have always secretly henpecked their husbands and resisted their authority as much as they dared, but so long as they were financially dependent upon their lords and masters they had to give a certain degree of obedience and subservience.

Now, however, when a woman is as free to make her own living as a man, a wife has become her husband's partner instead of his bond woman, and if he tries to exact too much of her she ups and quits instead of meekly bowing her head to his august will and kissing the hand that rules her with a rod of iron.

All of us know, not only from our reading of history, but from our own experience, that personal liberty is the greatest passion of the human heart. It is the one thing without which there is neither happiness nor dignity nor meaning to life; the one thing for which men and women have always been willing to fight and die. And, considering this, it is passing strange that husbands and wives should continue to try to enslave each other and to make of the family circle the only place in the world in which people are bereft of every vestige of freedom.

But they do, and that is why so many young couples who are so much in love with each other before marriage so soon fall out of love with each other after marriage. There has been no deterioration in either one. They are just as good-looking, just as intelligent, just as upright and desirous of doing right and making each other happy as they ever were. But suddenly they, who were so congenial and got along so harmoniously together, are at dagger's point, scrapping with each other, enemies instead of lovers. And they are bewildered and do not know how it happened.

The explanation is obvious to the onlookers. Before marriage they did not try to boss each other. After marriage they do. The young husband feels that he has authority over his wife and that she must be a puppet who will only move when he pulls the strings. The woman naturally resents this. She not only did not get married to get a master, but one of the joys she looked forward to in matrimony was making over her husband according to her own little pet paper pattern of a man. Hence these tears and the daily fight over everything, from politics to pie.

Half of the unforgivable things that husbands and wives do to each other are not inspired by sheer deviltry or meanness or cruelty, but by egotism. Three-fourths of the mean little, nagging, hateful things they do that take all the joy and pleasure out of domestic life is just the result of their efforts to assert their own authority.

A man shows this when he refuses to give his wife an allowance on which to run the house and for her own personal needs. He knows that in the end it doesn't save him a penny, that he would have to pay the bills at the end of the month, anyway. Very often he isn't even a tightwad who begrudges the money it costs to support his family. But it tickles his vanity for her to have to come like a mendicant to him for every cent.

A man shows this ignoble desire to rule his wife and make her feel his power over her when he forces her to ask his permission about every cent in her life—about joining a club or accepting an invitation or going to see her mother or buying a new dress or getting fresh wallpaper or doing any of the thousand and one things that are in her province and not in his and about which she is far better able to judge than he is unless she is a born fool.

And women show their bossy complex by trying to force their their own opinions and tastes upon their husbands. It is her determination to dominate her husband and segregate him from all other influences that makes the bride separate him from all of his old friends and substitute her circle for them and that causes her to resent every suggestion that his mother makes.

It is the determination to make him do her way instead of gratifying his own inclinations that makes a wife quarrel for a lifetime over her husband's cigar or his paper or his wearing slippers in the house or the way he likes to have his hair cut instead of leaving him in peace to enjoy his own little personal idiosyncrasies. It is bossiness that causes a wife to make her husband eat the kind of food she prefers instead of the kind he likes, and it is sheer bossiness that makes a wife sit on the back seat of an automobile and tell her husband how to drive.

Of course, husbands and wives will deny that they spend their lives fighting over a little petty authority. But they do. Look about you and you will see that almost the only happy families are those in which either the husband or the wife is a weakling who gives in without a fight or a diplomat who makes the gesture of obedience while getting his or her own way by finesse instead of force. Only here and there will you find an exceptional couple who are big and broad and wise enough to give and take and to accord each other personal freedom.

The great majority of husband and wives spend their lives fighting over who shall rule the home like dogs over a bone. What a pity. And what a pity we can't scrap the domestic czar as we have all the other autocrats. DOROTHY DIX.

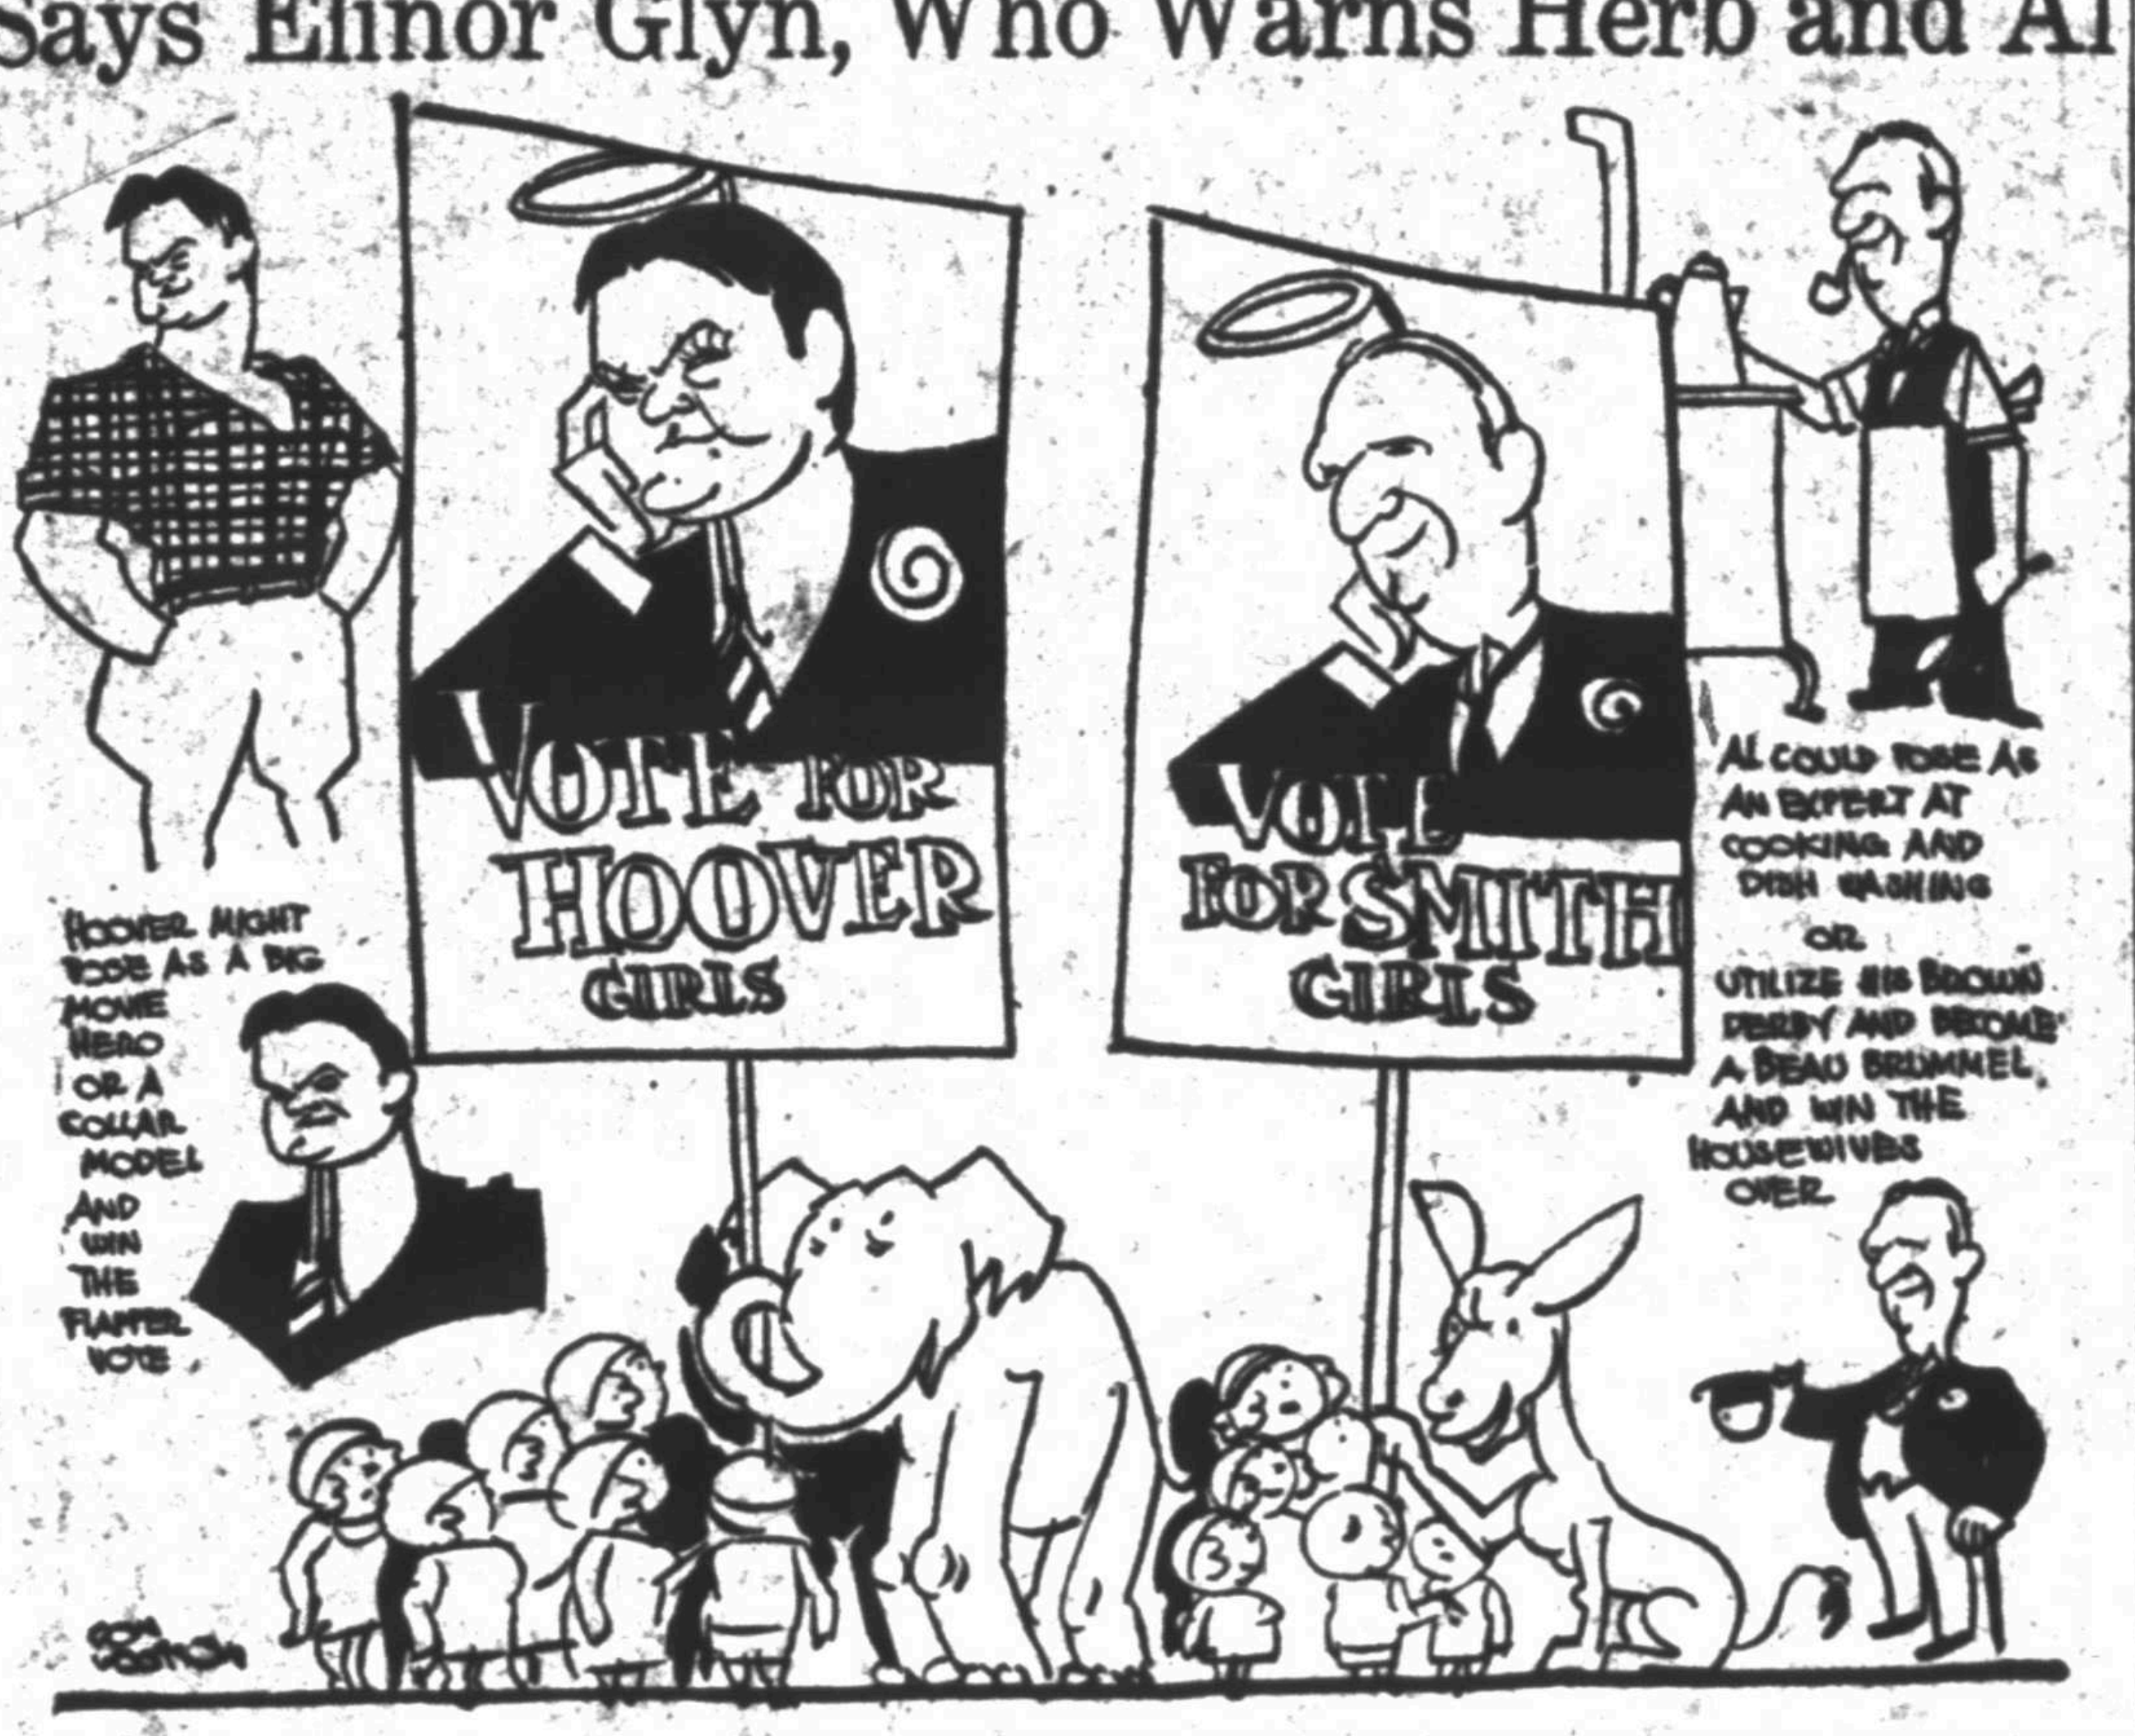
What Do Candidates Need to Capture the Woman Vote? 'Sex Appeal,' Says Elinor Glyn, Who Warns Herb and Al

Elinor Glyn



VOTE FOR HOOVER GIRLS
VOTE FOR SMITH GIRLS
HOOVER MIGHT POSE AS A BIG MOVIE HERO OR A COLLAR MODEL AND WIN THE FLAPPER VOTE
AL COULD POSE AS AN EXPERT AT COOKING AND DISH WASHING OR UTILIZE HIS BROWN DERBY AND BECOME A BEAU BRUMMEL AND WIN THE HOUSEWIVES OVER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—There was a day when a man could hide his face almost entirely in whiskers, wear a brakeman's hair cut, a bartender's mustache and a slouch hat and still be elected president of the United States.

But the day for such things is ended, and the women have done it.

Such is the warning to Al Smith and Herbert Hoover conveyed by Elinor Glyn, author of the one-time best-seller, "It," and regarded as an authority on masculine sex appeal.

If you want to be president now you simply must have "it." You must keep your shoes shined and laced, you must not be "wilted or slouchy." You have to win the ladies nowadays to be elected.

Mrs. Glyn, you must remember, has all the patent rights on "it," which is that mysterious something about men that attracts the fair folk.

She is now in Washington supervising the remodeling of her newly purchased Georgetown mansion, Dalacarlia. She plans a salon there which will be graced by the brains of the national capital, if any.

The politician emphatically needs "it" to attract the women's votes these days, Mrs. Glyn asserts.

And is there any hope for the candidate who just hasn't got any?

"Yes," Madame Glyn replies. "If he will only be smart and immaculate in his habits of dress. Personality and personal appearance can win both love and votes."

Which will win the more votes, Al Smith's brown derby or Herbert Hoover's double-breasted suits? Do the ladies like Al Smith's low collars better than Herbert Hoover's high ones? Which has the better nose, the more classic eyebrow?

But Madame Glyn goes right along:

"No woman likes a wilted, slouchy man any better than she likes a wilted, faded flower. Slouchy dress, slovenly soft collars, garterless socks and careless attire generally are the index of a spineless personality that will prick the interest of no woman. It works for both sexes."

Will Hoover carry Illinois because he has a round face? How will Al Smith's striped suits affect the North Dakota electorate? Both part their hair in the middle. Which states like best such hirsute apportionment?

But Madame Glyn goes on:

"The man with a minimum amount of personal appeal can increase it through the effect of good clothes upon himself. A well-pressed suit, clean collar, proper tie and a good shine give him a sense of his own fitness. They prop his morale and his own sense of rightness and ease, without which there is no 'it,' and ought to help a suitor, a salesman or a candidate realize the justice of his plea."

Will the women vote for heavy-set Hoover or slim Smith? Look at the two men's haircuts. Study the napes of their necks. Political prognosticators need no more look so much to a man's record, as in the whiskered days of U. S. Grant and President Hayes—but to the nape of the man's neck, to his Adam's apple, to the way he sits, stands, walks. What will win in Missouri, the Hoover or the Smith neck?

But Madame Glyn goes on:

"The hair should be neatly trimmed, but it should be left full and heavy to bring out the beautiful contours of the head instead of clipped close to an almost naked skull. The prevailing style almost destroys 'it' in men who otherwise would be irresistible."

Look them over and take your choice!

Russian Chemist's Invention Is Perfected

BERLIN, Sept. 6. (US)—The dream of photographing actual living colors has been realized by a Russian chemist living in Berlin. Real color photography which, it is expected, will revolutionize the film and photographic world, has been achieved by Dr. Boris Loundine, after 20 years of experimenting.

For the first time in history a negative has been invented capable of not only reproducing actual colors of the scene in clear, distinct outlines, but permitting many copies of the negative to be made. By means of a special emulsion, or coating of the negative, the natural colors are photographed and can be transferred to paper just as a black and white photographic print is transferred.

Contrary to systems already known, the colors are clearly etched. No special lens or apparatus is needed to take the pictures, nor is any special photographic material or developer required. The exposure of the negative is normal, requiring one-twentieth of a second for outside scenes and from two to three seconds for indoor portraits.

The cost of making the colored pictures is just one-tenth more expensive than ordinary pictures. The revolutionary importance of the invention is the possibility of making of as many copies of a single negative as are wanted and of using the process for the movies. The German film industry is seeking to purchase the exclusive rights to the invention.

El Paso Theater-Goers Break Fire Rules

EL PASO, Texas, Sept. 6. (UP)—Managers of Mexican theaters in El Paso are trying to devise a way to get a faster turn-over of the audience, according to Fire Commissioner John T. Sullivan.

Sullivan found several persons standing in the aisles of a theater recently and told the manager to get them out because of fire regulations.

The manager protested that customers, once they got in a seat, persisted in sitting there and seeing the show over and over, which prevented new customers from seeing the show.

Chief Sullivan told him he would have to find some other way of getting new patrons.

Printer Jabbed by Channel Cat's Fins

TERRELL, Texas, Sept. 6. (UP) B. C. Curtis, local printer, received the worst end of the encounter when he attempted to remove a large channel catfish from his hook at Club lake, near here. The fish finned Curtis, jabbing the fin through his little finger. Considerable effort was required to withdraw the fin from the finger.

Colgate's contains the most effective of all cleansing agents—in a special, mild, pure form . . . combined with calcium carbonate powder and aromatic oils.

As you brush Colgate's upon your teeth, it forms a bubbling, sparkling foam which penetrates between the teeth, reaches inaccessible surfaces, purifies and stimulates the gums . . . the entire mouth. The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The gentry who perform in the wings as ghost musicians for the artists appearing before the footlights are an unsung and unheralded lot. While they tickle the keys or blow the omm-pah vigorously off stage to give the impression that some actor or actress is playing, they have time to enjoy their seclusion and ruminate, perhaps, on the perversity of fate.

Some actors, of course, play the instruments they attack, on the stage. In "The Silent House," for example, Harold de Becker is required to play offstage as a flageolet. Being an accomplished musician, he is able to play several different instruments, and does so pretty well, but most players are not so fortunate. They say it took James Gleason hours of gigantic effort to master three or four saxophone squawks. Wallace Eddinger, who, allegedly, tootled a flageolet in "And So to Bed" last season, had his music manufactured by a ghost in the wings. And Alfred Lunt and Lynne Fontanne, who apparently played heavenly piano music in the "The Second Man," were also the silent pawns of manufactured melody.

But ace of stage flageolet performers is now flageoleting in "The Silent House," the mystery melodrama at the Shubert theater. Attached to his playing is a sad story. When "The Silent House" opened, the search for a flageolet player, who could perform Chinese scales on this instrument, narrowed down to an Oriental from Brooklyn, who could coax weird music from his pipes. For two and a half months he played earnestly and exactingly at the required moments, when the startling Chinese tune was needed to set the customers aquivering.

But it seemed that he had a wife and kiddies somewhere, a wife he had discarded, to master flageoleting in some offstage moments of "The Silent House." One evening, Mrs. Luckban happened in on the play and heard the Chinese reed which she detected as a form of playing similar to her errant husband's. She summoned an obliging cop and went backstage, where she found the gentleman practicing scales in the seclusion of a dressing room. He was arrested, and, for all this writer knows, is probably practicing scales in a cloistered cell somewhere else.

But the show must go on. So the search for a new flageolet player took place. It narrowed down eventually to a German flutist, who could play Chinese scales with a dexterity and grace which his predecessor was never able to attain. To the admiration of flageoletists up and down the Rialto, he entrances audiences with his gifted playing sending them into ecstacies of chills while frightening Peggy Keenan, the heroine of "The Silent House," into a spasm of hypnotic terror. In order to insure his performance, it was necessary to find out that he is the most happily married flageoletist in the business. He practices his scales at home, where his wife is his severest critic.

The visitor to Greenwich Village was remarking on the beauty of a flock of pigeons swooping and circling over the chimney pots.

"They are beautiful in their flight," agreed his friend, "but to me, because I know the facts, there is also something sinister as I watch them circling. They are used sometimes by unscrupulous persons to lure other birds to an unhappy and untimely end.

"Some of these flocks are maintained by men who make a nice living from them. They keep their birds hungry and then they sit on the housetops watching the sky. Then they see, other pigeons come flying over they send their flock up into the air.

"Then they rattle a feed can and their own birds start circling to come down. The strange pigeon, seeing the other birds settling down, almost invariably joins them and walks into the trap. The captured birds are sold at good profit, while the trained decoys are kept in luxury.

Frederick Woman Loses Arm After Car Crash

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 6.—Fearing complications following a couple of operations on Mrs. N. N. Overstreet's right arm which was broken about a month ago between the elbow and shoulder, this member was amputated today at Dr. Hardy's hospital at Ardmore. She has been staying at the home of her son, Tom Overstreet, formerly of Frederick. Mrs. Overstreet has been living at Chattanooga.

Her sons, Sid and Schuyler of Frederick, motored to Ardmore Thursday morning to be present at the operation. Her daughters, Mrs. E. J. Norris of this city and Mrs. R. E. Palmer of Chattanooga, were unable to accompany their mother.

The Upsetting "Mike"

ALFRED E. SMITH'S greatest charm—his biggest vote-getting possibility, may have been turned into his heaviest handicap.

What several years ago would have mitigated most powerfully against success for Herbert Hoover, undoubtedly will be the most potent influence toward his possible success in November.

It's the "mike," says the Dallas Times-Herald which goes on to say:

"Millions are reached by radio nowadays, where mere thousands heard the voices of candidates in years gone by, and the 'mike' or microphone, doesn't project personality. It merely records a voice uttering words.

"By the irony of the wonderful invention, the very droning, unimpassioned tones of Herbert Hoover 'go over' to listeners almost perfectly.

"Alfred E. Smith's 'orator's' voice rasps the delicate mechanism of the mike. Neither can it carry the magnetism and personality of Smith, that is admittedly his most appealing attribute.

"Neither does it project the up-and-down-desk-pounding gesture of Herebert Hoover, which he uses so monotonously when speaking—an attribute which is just one of several things that detract from him as a speaker.

"Before an audience that can see and hear, Smith carries much of the poise and charm that Roosevelt and Tom Johnson had. Facing folks in person while speaking to them, Hoover is nervous, and that nervousness is transmitted to his listeners. He lacks the ease and skill that Smith possesses. He stands tense. His voice drones.

"But it so happens that this very drone, this very tenseness, makes his delivery ideal over radio, whereas that of Smith is just the opposite of ideal.

"It remains to be seen how great the influence of the radio may be in this good year 1928."

Faked Radio Messages

IT IS rather hard to figure out the way some people's minds work.

Not long ago after Bert Hassell's plane disappeared on its projected flight to Greenland, detailed radio S O S messages were picked up by various stations, telling how the plane was forced down, and giving the position. Just as anxious watchers at home had digested these, it was revealed that they were fakes; neither Hassell nor his companion could send more than a bare dot-dash call letter.

Some radio operator, obviously, was sending out these fake messages for fun. But what sort of man is it who could find amusement in a stunt like that?. Perhaps this unknown operator thought it was a good joke. If so, he ought to have his head examined.

Collin County Cotton Growers

COLLIN county cotton growers, a thousand strong, have organized the Sunshine Cotton Producers association. They have named a selling agency. This selling agent will market staple cotton of one variety grown on some 70,000 acres. This Sunshine cotton is a product of Collin county. A Texas mill has been using the cotton for some years with outstanding success. Organization is the thing. A selling agency is the thing. High grade cotton is the thing. God Almighty helps those who help themselves. Makers of things help themselves.

Doheney on the Rack

EDWARD L. DOHENEY is in the picture again. His deals with Fall and other conspirators cost him $20,000,000. That is, the government stripped him of his oil leases obtained through fraud and confiscated all the vast improvements that he made.

Now his stockholders are demanding of Doheny an accounting, and the payment of $10,000,000 to offset their alleged losses.

When a dog gets in the ditch all the boys in the neighborhood rock the dog; all the dogs in the neighborhood bark at the unfortunate in the ditch; all the passersby kick the dog if he attempts to get out of the ditch.

Doheney was a top dog with millions. He landed in the ditch. Now he is the underdog in the ditch and its a long way to sunlight.

Why They Split

"CONTROL board splits on purchase of trucks," is the headline over an Austin dispatch. It appears that the board of control and the state highway commissioners are responsible for the splitting. Now just why a split? Isn't it possible for the servants of the people to get along without splitting? Isn't the board of control responsible for all the supplies purchased by the various departments of the state government. If it isn't responsible then why is it in existence?

SCHOOL STUDIES VS. SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

School is open in earnest today—and there are nine months ahead for the average high schooler in which to pursue activities and study every now and then.

We are probably old fashioned in our idea of education for we can't get over the idea that the average student is literally crushed under extra-curricular activities and not burdened enough with that which requires brain action.

The FORBIDDEN DOOR — by Herman Landon

Pandemonium

The crash interrupted Peters in the midst of quoting something the great Horace was supposed to have said. His short body shook and a film of gray spread over his curiously modeled face as he stared upward at the ceiling. Only his oversized nose retained its ruddy hue.

"The roof——" He grimaced and could say no more.

Half a dozen people sprang up from the card tables where they had endeavored, without great success, to fix their minds on something else than the overhanging menace. Mallingham's hand was seen to falter in the act of lighting a cigaret. Like a single ripple over a placid sea, a quiver passed across his strong, even features. His great shoulders described a slight shrug. He finished lighting his cigaret, threw the match away with a flick that might have been a gesture of derision, and turned to Julia Martenet.

"Old Blighty is still growing," he remarked.

Julia looked upward. Her face was exquisitely white and still. A faint tremor at the mouth and the flicker of a shadow in the depths of her pale blue eyes were the only signs of animation.

She did not wince as another crash came. The house shook and writhed as if tormented by a monstrous hand. A din like a cascade of rocks sounded on the ceiling over their heads.

Mallingham pushed his way through a group of frantic people and opened the door. The air out there was choked with dust. With a clatter and din, shower after shower of debris tumbled down the stairway well. Overhead there was a wrenching, tearing roar. As he stood there, a deafening burst came, like a hundred volleys of thunder joined in a single terrific blast. Something had given way—one of the upper floors, perhaps. A swirl of stinging, suffocating dust drove Mallingham back.

Julia stood with her slim, white hands clapped to her ears. Peters was strutting about muttering lamentations. All eyes were fixed on the ceiling sagging and bulging to an orchestration of hideous creaks and cracks.

John Breck appeared at the door and pushed his long, rawboned body through the panicky group.

"Everybody out!" he shouted, his voice bellowing over the din of destruction. "The library'll be safer—for a spell, anyhow."

Long arms waving, he drove them from the room as if they were a herd of stampeding cattle, but the first to reach the hall were driven back by swirling sprays of sand and dust. The crowd shrank back as from a barrage of shell fire. As they stood wavering, another uproarious burst came. Masses of debris crashed down the stairway well. The house tottered. The air was full of rending shrieks.

"T'other way!" John's voice boomed out. "Follow me!"

They turned back. Out through another door and along a circuitous route John led the retreat. Soon they were all huddled in the library. Even here the air was full of crashing thunders, but the menace was not quite so close.

Viola Lane's white face appeared at the door for an instant, and then she drew back. John looked out over the gathering, nodding at each face, as if counting them to see if all were present, then he also withdrew.

Mallingham also made a count of the faces. They were all there, except Hannan Martenet, who lay in a bed in the adjoining room, Viola Lane, of whom he had just caught a glimpse, and Curry, whose body lay in a closetlike space just off the main hall. Last of all he fixed a lingering, half-amused glance on a face blanched and palsied with fear. It was the most pitiable exhibition of fright Mallingham had ever seen. Leonard Duck—"Runty" Duck as everybody called him—was a thin, puny individual with an enormous shock of hair who ordinarily could amuse any gathering with his surprising store of funny anecdotes. Now he was the picture of abject, body-enslaving fear.

Something crashed down on the ceiling over their heads. The walls of the vast room shook. The menace was drawing closer. And then, from the hall just off the library, came a melodious peal. Mallingham's lips twitched into a thin, baffled smile. Old Winthrop's clock was striking again, each sweet-toned chime sounding serenely against the pandemonium.

Mallingham stepped over to Julia Martenet. Her dilated eyes were fixed on the door leading to the short hall where Old Winthrop's clock was.

"No hope, is there, Ernest?" came her quavering voice.

"Oh, there is always a chance that the unexpected may happen. Judging from this din, though, I should say the chance was growing slimmer every moment."

"That's just how I feel." She nodded in the direction of the hall door. "We would be safe in there, Ernest."

He arched his dark brows. "You mean Old Winthrop's laboratory?" he asked in amazement.

"Yes." Her voice was very faint. "I've heard the walls and the ceiling are of stone. They would hold a long while—maybe indefinitely."

He gave her a long, narrow glance. Then his eyes fixed on the oil portrait of Old Winthrop. He studied the austere lips, the dreamy eyes, a blend of harshness and whimsical musings.

"Yes, I know what you are thinking," she murmured. "The clock—the iron door——"

Mallingham's eyes were still fixed on the portrait. "Curious face—half dreamer and half devil."

"Not quite that." Her eyes following Mallingham's. "It's the face of a man who tries to live up to his dreams, even if he has to be cruel and remorseless in the attempt."

"That's the same thing. Old Winthrop's dreams are locked up in the laboratory. It takes more courage than I have to enter."

Her eyes searched his strong, dark face. "You tried once."

"Twice," he corrected, with a dismal chuckle. "Old Winthrop frightened me away each time."

"But Old Winthrop could never have foreseen a situation like this. I'm sure he wouldn't want us all to be killed. He would make an exception in a case like this."

"Perhaps, but he isn't here to put the exception into effect. He made certain arrangements, and nobody can alter them."

There was a sharp, cracking sound overhead. Julia trembled.

"I'm frightened—terribly," she whispered. "It's coming nearer and nearer, isn't it?"

Mallingham tried to divert Julia's thoughts into less distressing channels. "Look at Runty Duck. Isn't he making a pitiable spectacle of himself? Imagine a man letting his nerves go to pieces like that."

Julia was not listening. Her eyes were still fixed on the hall door. She placed her hand on Mallingham's arm. Her face was white and tense with a great, overwhelming dread. "Ernest, we must do something," she whispered. "One of us could go in first. If nothing happened—and we are not positively certain that anything would happen—the others could follow. Even if something should happen to the first one maybe the rest of us could enter safely once the door was opened."

Mallingham fixed her with a darkly whimsical look. "You are very much in love with life, eh, Julia? Well, it's better to be that way than to be like Runty Duck. Runty is afraid of death. You are in love with life. That's the difference. Your plan isn't so bad, but I wonder who would volunteer. I don't feel in a heroic mood this afternoon."

A shower of plaster tumbled from the ceiling and crashed to the floor. A cloud of white dust swirled out. Overhead the timbers, in an agony of dissolution, groaned and heaved.

"Get up and speak to them," Julia urged. "Ask some one to volunteer."

With an air of one humoring a child, Mallingham rose and called for silence. Most of those in the gathering had never heard of Old Winthrop's laboratory, and they knew nothing about the clock or the iron door. In a cynical drawl Mallingham pointed out that, so far as any one could see, the life of every person in the room was forfeit. The end was only a question of hours—minutes, perhaps. The situation called for drastic measures, and even such might prove unavailing. There was just one chance of escape, a remote and precarious chance.

Mallingham fixed his eyes on the hall door. There was another door just a few steps beyond, he told them. Any one who undertook to enter it was taking his life into his hands. Mallingham confessed himself unable to go into details, but he emphasized that the danger was very great. He warned any one against belittling the peril. On the other side of the iron door, however, was a room so constructed that it would resist the strain for a long time. It offered a chance of safety, not a very great chance, but it might justify considerable risk. For that matter, the person who should volunteer to enter ahead of the others would not be risking a great deal, since life in the existing circumstances was a very uncertain thing at best.

A dead silence fell over the group as Mallingham finished. Awed and mystified glances were leveled at the hall door. The peril at which Mallingham had hinted seemed a little grotesque, but he had emphasized it sufficiently to impress his listeners.

For a long time no one moved. The eyes of the persons in the gathering alternated between the cracking ceiling and the door in the rear. Horace Peters' face was a study in violent and conflicting emotions. Julia Martenet scarcely moved, but her eyes roved from face to face as if to see if any one was ready to volunteer. Doctor Speck, who had just returned to the room after a look at his patient, seemed about to rise, but his black-eyed and black-haired companion held him back.

"I'll do it!" cried a hoarse, raucous voice.

Mallingham's eyes narrowed. An enigmatic smile tugged at his lips. The volunteer was none other than Runty Duck, the puny individual who had given such an abject exhibition of fear. The emergency seemed to have turned a coward into a hero. Yet it was evident that Runty Duck was still a badly frightened man. He had not conquered his fears; he merely held them at arm's length.

Mallingham stepped back and threw the hall door open. "Sure you want to do it, Runty?"

"Why not?" Runty chattered, shrugging his stunted shoulders. "I'm three-quarters dead from fright already. If the rest of me doesn't die soon I'll be my own pallbearer."

For once no one laughed at Runty Duck's little joke. Looking as if trying to hold his head high at his own execution, Runty walked down the short passage to the iron door. With shaking hands Mallingham helped him with the bolts, then fell back.

"All right, Runt."

Runty Duck appeared to hesitate. With a sickly smile on his lips he glanced back over his shoulder at the gaping, white-faced throng. Old Winthrop's clock struck the half hour. Once more Runty turned toward the iron door. His narrow shoulders jerked up a little, and then he clutched the massive knob.

"Stand back!" Mallingham shouted to the others. His voice was gruff and hoarse, for the suspense was a terrific strain on his nerves. Would Runty's spurious courage leave him? The little man was standing motionless before the door, his hand clutching the knob.

"Pull hard, Runty," said Mallingham. "The hinges may stick a little."

He mopped his clammy brow. Once Mallingham himself had opened it only a crack. Would Runty go farther than that? Or would he turn back——?

Runty himself answered the question. He squared his shoulders and pulled quickly and hard. The door came open about a foot, and then Runty jerked back. A sepulchral voice was intoning a warning, the same warning that had made Mallingham's blood run cold.

"If you value your life don't enter until the clock stops."

A little squeal of fright broke from Runty's lips.

"It's all right, Runty," said Mallingham. "That voice can't hurt you."

Runty shivered. Once more he looked back at Mallingham and the tense, silent group huddled farther back. He swallowed hard, wagged his head, and grinned sheepishly. Then, pulling himself together, he jerked the door open another foot. Mallingham, staring into the opening, caught a glimpse of an awful darkness. What terrors were lying in wait for Runty in there?

And then, in a moment, Runty was walking straight into that hideous blackness. Mallingham stared at his stunted figure until it melted from sight in the gloom. A chorus of gasps came from the watching throng. Of its own accord the iron door started to swing back. There was a squeak of rusty hinges, and then, from the sepulchral interior, came a blood-freezing shriek.

It was a shriek expressive of the most monstrous fear. It blanched every face in the watching throng. The hideousness of it numbed every muscle.

Again the door squeaked on its hinges. Again a high-pitched scream of terror burst from the diabolical darkness. And then, with a metallic bang, the door swung shut.

The Record News Staff Poet

WHEN THE OTHER MAN'S RIGHT

Yes, we must have faith in ourselves,
And we must believe in our cause;
An air of self-confidence
Should be one of our basic laws.
But we should be humble, too—
Should admit when we lose our fight;
Should hold on 'till we're proven wrong,
Give in when another's right.

All questions have pro and con;
It is wisdom to frankly proclaim
That you are the one who is wrong,
And your rival's play won the game.
When you know that you're human and weak,
And your views are a pitiful plight,
It calls for a heart made of steel
To admit the other man's right.
—John Self Elliott.

SCHOOL OFFERS NEW AWARDS

Five New Scholarships at Teachers' College

Special to The Record News

CANYON, Texas, Sept. 6.—Five new scholarships and two more loan funds are available for the use of students at the West Texas State Teachers' college this year than those announced in last year's catalog.

One of these is the C. W. Warwick scholarship offered to the most outstanding student in piano, which exempts the holder from fees for private lessons in piano for a period of one year.

The Harley Sadler scholarship in dramatics, amounting to $100, is awarded to the student doing outstanding work in the department of public speaking.

The Agnes Charlton scholarship, also amounting to $100 is offered to the junior or senior student making the highest grades each year.

Olin E. Hinkle, an alumnus of the college, each year awards to the most valuable member of the staff of the students' newspaper a prize of $35.

The faculty of the college created a scholarship of $100 to be awarded to the junior or senior student making the highest grades for the year.

The two loan funds recently established were created by the class of 1927 and by the Texas Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Each year all the loan funds are used to their fullest extent, but all six of the available funds do not care for the worthy and deserving students who make application for aid.

PROFITABLE HOBBY

Wichitan Exhibits Prize Pigeons at Frederick Fair

Special to The Record-News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Sept. 6.—Sam E. Williams took up an interesting hobby for pastime, several years ago, and now the side line has become bigger than his business. That hobby is the raising of purebred pigeons.

Williams had a large and very interesting display of the birds at the Tillman County Free fair and attracted much interest with the fowls. Many people crowded around the cages to see the rare specimens of the pigeons.

Williams is a salesman for an auto supply house in Wichita Falls and has been working at his job for years. Several years ago he decided to get a few pigeons and experiment with them. Now he has a total investment in the birds of more than $4,000. He has several pigeons that are valued at from $150 to $200. For one, a maltese pigeon, he has refused an offer of $200. This bird took grand champion prize at Madison Square Garden Pigeon show in New York city recently in competition with 6,000 birds from every part of the United States.

There are two pigeon enthusiasts in Tillman county, and they are largely responsible for getting Williams' beautiful display at the Tillman county fair. They are John Russell and Bill Benson, who are beginning on a small scale with just a few purebred pigeons.

Demo Hall Still Draws Visitors

HOUSTON, Sept. 6. (UP)—Sam Houston hall, scene of the 1928 Democratic convention, continues to be one of the biggest drawing cards for sightseers who are passing through the city.

"Don't you wish you could have been here during the convention?" is the question askeu an average of more than 70 times daily as persons are conducted through the spacious hall.

The hall is never closed. A caretaker is on duty at all times under the care and supervision of H. M. Haskell, who also has charge of the hospitality house. A register has been opened for out of town visitors and its records show that citizens of practically every state have been through since the adjournment of the convention.

Visitors are very much interested in stories of the convention, and quite a number buy copies of the official program. Sometimes they state their views on the register in the form of remarks. One Pennsylvania woman added below her signature: "Al Smith is all wet."

Sam Houston Hall, however, is not wet any more, Haskell said. The roof now sheds the rain except around one ventilator where the big fan is still housed, and that is only a small leak.

KELLOGG'S PACT GAINS SCOPE

Only 23 Nations Not Included in Treaty

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6. (UP)—Two-thirds of the nations of the world are already in line with the Briand-Kellogg treaty for renunciation of war, 10 days after its signing at Paris, with only 23 countries remaining to announce their intentions, official state department records showed today.

In view of the usual complicated and slow-moving machinery of international diplomacy, this is held to be a significant record in speed and gives fair indication, in the opinion of many officials, that the pact will gain the world-wide scope hoped for by Secretary of State Kellogg.

The 23 countries who have not yet announced their intentions are: Albania, Afghanistan, Argentina, Brazil, Bulgaria, Chile, China, Columbia, Ecuador, Greece, Guatemala, Hungary, Iceland, Lithuania, Mexico, Nicaragua, Norway, Paraguay, Persia, Siam, Spain, Turkey and Salvador.

Among this group, the state department lists officially as not having announced its intention, Russia. This is because the United States has not received formal notification from Paris that Russia has accepted, as France extended the invitation. Russia, however, has notified the French ambassador at Moscow of its acceptance of the treaty and it is expected the state department will be advised of this by France within a short while.

Press dispatches indicate eight of those listed as having not announced their intentions in regard to the treaty, favor it, indicating ultimate adherence. They are Argentina, Brazil, Bulgaria, Greece, Mexico, Norway, Spain and Turkey.

Spain moved prior to the treaty signing to be included among the original 15 signatories and her acceptance of the pact is held to be certain.

Secretary of State Kellogg is due to return to the United States next Monday from his Paris trip to sign the treaty for the United States. He sailed from Europe Sept. 4.

Construction Begins On New Stock Building for Lubbock Annual Fair

Special to The Record News

LUBBOCK, Texas, Sept. 6.—Making good a promise of last year to the livestock exhibitors, construction work begun today on a 90x130 foot livestock exhibit building on the grounds of the Panhandle-South Plains fair.

The fabricated steel building will be constructed by the Braden Steel company of Tulsa and will be completed in ample time for the opening of the 15th annual exposition, Oct. 1 to 6, inclusive.

J. J. Clements, Lubbock contractor, is laying the foundation for the building.

When complete, fair officials can solicit the best stock in the Southwest, offering the breeder and exhibitors the most modern exhibit building and other conveniences that are available in the Southwest.

The 1927 livestock show set a record for the South Plains, and exhibitors of cattle, swine and horses declared that the interest displayed by the farmers and others who visited the livestock barn, was better than at any other fair or exposition that they had visited last season. Practically every exhibitor of last year, and a number of new ones, are expected back for the fair this year.

EL PASO GETS ART COLONY

Kay-Scott to Conduct Winter Academy

EL PASO, Texas, Sept. 6. (UP)—An art academy in El Paso during the winter, conducted by Cyril Kay-Scott, internationally known artist, is assured, according to Karl Hatfield, president of the El Paso Art guild.

"This is the first step in our plans to establish in El Paso a winter colony of artists," said Hatfield.

"The art academy is to open Oct. 1 and close in May. Kay-Scott will close his school in Santa Fe Sept. 15, and will be in El Paso about the 20th.

"Over 30 pupils have already enrolled in the academy. Six artists from Santa Fe have promised to spend the winter here.

"Kay-Scott has received letters from New York artists, assuring him that they would come to El Paso for the winter if he came here. We expect at least 12 artists and their families here. With such a nucleus, we are assured of a real artists' colony," Hatfield said.

Kay-Scott maintains a studio in Paris. His paintings have gained recognition in Belgium, England, France, Switzerland and other continental countries.

Wife's Suit Against Club For Keeping Husband From Home Called 'Silly'

CHICAGO, Sept. 6. (US)—Caring for "hubby" is a wife's job and not the courts.

That's the concensus of opinion of prominent Chicago women on a case pending before the United States supreme court, wherein a Nevada woman is suing her husband's club for depriving her of his companionship and part of his monthly income.

The Nevada suit was brought by Mrs. Gladys Anderson, who asserted that her husband spent a large portion of his income at his club, causing her "humiliation and mental pain." In her suit for damages she called the club a public nuisance.

Mrs. Robert M. Curtis of Chicago, when questioned concerning the damage suit, declared, "the wife should be grateful to the club. It helps to keep the home fires burning when she does not have him around so much."

Mrs. Catherine Waugh-McCulloch, lawyer and woman leader, said that "the case was too silly for comment."

CAREFUL WOMEN

Women are responsible for the spendid credit standing of many thousands of homes in this community. Women are large and important users of credit—and they use it wisely and well. For credit is an essential factor in the home. Many homes have been built and furnished through the judicious use of credit, and some of the largest business institutions in America are maintained to supply the requirements of the home.

GUARD FAMILY CREDIT

The husband, of course, is responsible for the debts of the family. The report of the Retail Credit Bureau, an efficient organization through which is cleared the retail and professional credit transactions of its membership, is written in his name. His record must be beyond reproach in order that his business contracts may be favorable and his earning power unhampered by worries.

SPUDDERS TAKE DOUBLE HEADER FROM STEERS, 9-2 AND 5-0

Leading Southwestern Golfers To Compete In Invitation Tournament Here

JENKINS HITS HOMER NO. 26

Galeria Blanks Bovines In Wichita Falls Debut

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

The Spudders won a double-header yesterday from the Dallas Steers and earned a day's repose today. They hammered Pierce and Leopold, a couple of lefties, for a 9 to 2 win in the opener, with a big lead that enabled Milt Steengrafe to breeze in as he pleased. Then they batted Darrough, another southpaw, for a 5 to 0 shutout in the nightcap, behind the very good chucking of Chick Galeria, the bespectacled portsider from Abilene.

Benton, Turgeon, Swenson and Lapan whaled a brace of knocks each of the champions' 10 hits in the first game.

Several Steers exchanged positions and Boss Jeems Galloway changed his club around during the course of the pastime.

Galeria limited the Bovines to five knocks and with fast support had little trouble in blanking the enemy. He showed very good control, passing only two. The young bucko looked very, very good out there on the hill.

Jodie Tate hurled the last four innings of the opener for the Steers and did better than the regular chuckers, holding the Spuds scoreless and to one hit.

Galloway Plays

Jim Galloway started at first base, his first appearance here in a game as a Spudder. Howard Fitzgerald finished the pastime at the initial sack and showed he knows something of the intricacies of that position.

Oh, yes, Tut Jenkins smashed his 26th home run of the season, scoring a comrade ahead of him. Lamb led the attack with a brace of knocks.

Today's game was played yesterday and this will be an off day for our athletes.

They conclude the season with the Fort Worth Cats here Saturday and Sunday.

Scoring Starts Early

The Steers tallied in the first inning of the opener. Morse walked and stole second. Oglesby fouled to Lapan. Morse went to third on Kallina's error on Rosenthal's grounder, and scored on a wild pitch.

Wichita Falls counted four in its half. Turgeon strolled. Fitzgerald lifted to Rosenthal. Turgeon stole second. Lamb singled past Jeffries, Turgeon scoring. Jenkins walked. Lamb scored on a wild pitch. Swenson singled to left and Jenkins scored, and Wally went to third on Newman's wild return. Kallina strolled. Swenson tallied on Jeffries' boot on Lapan's grounder.

The Spudders scored in the second. Benton doubled to the left-center wall, Turgeon beat out a hit to Jeffries. Both runners advanced on Fitzgerald's sacrifice. Lamb's lift to Newman scored Benton.

Spuds Score Three More

Kallina walked and went to third on Lapan's single, Pete taking second. On the throw-in in the third inning, Benton was safe at home on Jeffries' throw on Steengrafe's grounder. Benton singled to left, Lapan scoring and Steengrafe going to third. Leopold relieved Pierce. Gingiardi went to the fence for Turgeon's drive, Steengrafe scoring the third run of the inning.

Kallina doubled to right in the fourth and scored on Lapan's two-base drive to left.

Tate prevented scoring thereafter.

The Steers scored in the seventh. Tate and Seimer singled and moved up on a base on Mealey's infield out. Jeffries' hoist to Lamb tallied Tate.

Champs Win 2nd Early

The champions started after the second game in the first inning. Turgeon banged the boards in center field for three bases after one was out. He scored when Fitzgerald popped a single into left.

Robertson and Umpire Donahue went out to tell Galeria how to keep his foot on the rubber after Gingiardi walked. He also passed Newman, but struck out Tate and Swenson started a double play.

Jenkins clouted his home run in the fourth to score Lamb, who had singled, ahead of him.

The Spudders tallied two more in the fifth. Benton beat out a tap in front of the plate and continued to third on Mealey's wild throw. Turgeon's lift to Newman scored Rabbit. Fitzgerald walked and tallied on Lamb's triple to right.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Philadelphia is 90 miles away from New York.

And 18 amendments away from Washington.

It seems incredible that the Quaker city supports 13,000 speakeasies.

We thought it was more.

Mayor Mackey says the police must clean up the town in 24 hours or turn in their uniforms.

Which means that the mayor is going into the second-hand clothing business.

Mackey is too sudden with his statistics.

General Smedley Butler, of the non-resident marines, allowed a year for the same job.

And Smedley's first stop was Shanghai.

Mackey has not yet named his itinerary.

Can you visualize 13,000 speakeasies all murmuring sweet and low?

There are only 86,000 seconds in a day. That means a speakeasy must be closed every seven seconds in order to compete with reformed arithmetic.

We hope the police do not bang those 13,000 doors. It's very annoying.

It can't be done. It would be a week's job for a Kansas tornado

Why not take it easy and close 11,000 the first day?

It's a staggering total. No wonder it's the city of brotherly love.

Just think of 13,000 wobble garages in one town.

And then think that the government pays men in Washington to measure the rainfall.

It was too much for Smedley Butler. He had plenty of authority. But no place to unload it.

The general was glad to get back into the army, where orders aint movie titles.

He is glad to be in Hong Kong in spite of the fact that he has to ask 240,000,000 Chinamen, "Who's got my laundry?"

If Mackey does the job in a day we will give him a new set of brake-linings for his bridgework.

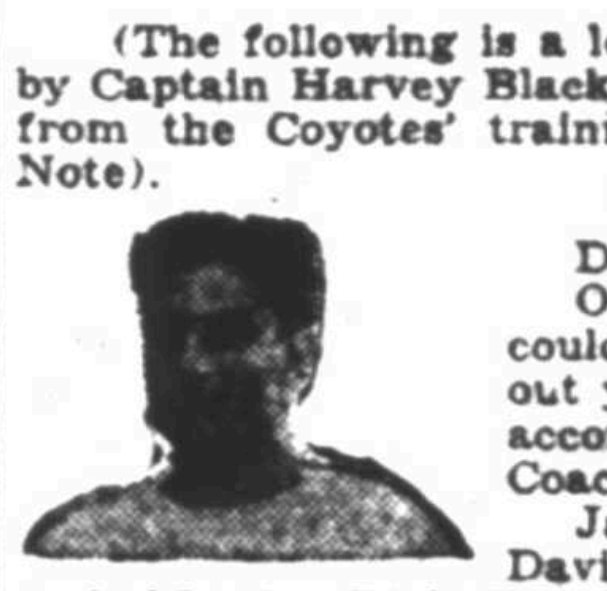
Coyotes Have Hardest Early Workout

Play Practice Game Today With Grandfield

(The following is a letter written to the Record News sports editor by Captain Harvey Black of the Wichita Falls high school football team from the Coyotes' training camp at Craterville Park, Okla.—Editor's Note).



Craterville Park, Sept. 3.

Dear Larry:

On account of yesterday being a holiday I couldn't get a letter off. We had the hardest workout yesterday we ever had this early in the season, according to Coach Bud McCallum and Assistant Coach Bill Morris.

Jack West looks better every day at tackle. Dale Davis, a two-year letterman from Quanah looks good at halfback. Dick Stambrick looms as a fine quarterback and a leading candidate for that position.

Kenneth Mills is faster than he was last year.

We have an eight-minute quarter game Friday with Grandfield. Will you write about it.

Yours,
BLACKIE.

STRIBLING WINS IN 2ND ROUND

Georgian Stops Squires In 1st Elimination Fight

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, N. Y., Sept. 6. (UP)—Fighting a slashing two fisted fight, the best he has ever put up in a New York ring, Young Stribling of Macon, Ga., stopped Johnny Squires of South Africa, after 44 seconds of one-sided milling in the second round tonight.

The southerner thus scored the first victory of Tex Rickard's new heavyweight elimination contest designed to discover a successor to the crown given up by Gene Tunney.

Stribling, weighing 181¼, looked a vastly improved fighter over his previous appearances in these parts, although the opposition offered by the South African was not of a nature to provide a thorough test of the Georgia boxer's ability or gameness.

Squires Outclassed

From the first blow, a left jab which Stribling drove into Squires' face, the fight was all the Georgian's. The South African was on the receiving end of a variety of punches, hooks, and jabs which his opponent tossed in at will without return.

A straight to Squires' jaw after two minutes of the first round were past, started the South African on the downward path. He was staggered and badly hurt. A moment later another straight right, delivered with all the weight of the southerner's body behind it, closed Squires' left eye.

So ferocious was Stribling's attack to head and body that Squires went down without being hit towards the end of the round, sinking from sheer weakness with Stribling sprawling over him.

A savage left hook to the jaw dropped the South African once more, and he arose tottering on his heels. At the bell he was hanging on weakly, backed against the ropes, with Stribling slashing away eagerly.

Referee Halts Bout

The second round found Stribling renewing his fierce twohanded attack, with Squires unable to get in a blow. Once again, Stribling pushed his opponent to the canvas and the crowd, anxious for a chance to boo the Georgian, sent up a yell of derision.

Squires, once more on his feet, was a sorry spectacle, bleeding from the nose and mouth, with one eye tightly closed, scarcely able to raise his arms to stave off the rain of blows, after 44 seconds of this, the referee, Louis Magnolia, stepped between the fighters and awarded the bout to Stribling on a technical knockout.

Squires had a slight advantage in weight, scaling 184, but was obviously no match for the Georgian at any stage of the proceedings.

FIVE SPUDDERS GO TO BROWNS

St. Louis Club Purchases Stars From Gardner

The players are Tom Jenkins, outfielder; George Stanton, first baseman; Herb Cobb, righthanded pitcher, Ed Roetz, utility infielder, and Ike Danning, catcher on option with the New Haven club of the Eastern league.

Terms of the transaction were not disclosed other than Wichita Falls will receive three players next spring and a sum of money.

All but Danning are to report to the Browns next spring. He is to join St. Louis at the end of the Eastern league season.

Parelli Meets Kopecky Tuesday

Country Boy Owens Boxes Walter Jernigan

Two experts of the art of slam and slug will engage in a mild form of mayhem for the benefit of mat fans of Wichita Falls next Tuesday night when Joe Kopecky engages Joe Parelli in a finish match as a feature of Promotor Alex B. Ross' weekly athletic program at Spudder park.

Both of the aforesaid matmen, who are well versed in the ways and means of stretching the New York Police commission rules to cover almost any kind of brutality, have appeared here frequently in recent months and each has annexed a local following which resulted in Ross' decision to to match them for an engagement.

As the semi-final of the program Tuesday night, Ross has matched Johnny Owens and Virgil Oden in a six-round exhibition. The engagement is a return match for the pair to solve the situation created last week when Oden was unable to return to the ring after Owens had propelled him through the ropes in the fourth round of their go.

Billy Daly will meet Kenneth Adams for four rounds and as a curtain raiser Billy Robertson engages Tommy Mound for four rounds.

Country Boy Owens and Walter Jernigan will step in a four-round added attraction. This is a rematch of the pair following a previous meeting in which Owens scored a k. o. due, Jernigan says, to a fluke punch.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Appetite and Dirt Eating

A new food flavor is not usually relished at first, but one acquires a taste for it. Most of us can remember when we disliked the flavor of carrots when we were children, or perhaps turnips, cabbage or squash.

Foods that seem repugnant to one individual may be relished by another. Some find calves' brains delicious and other find them repugnant. Some enjoy the raw oyster, and others would not swallow it on a bet. Those who do like oysters usually flavor the oyster with some strong condiment such as horseradish or catsup. The oyster eater would be made sick if he put sugar or honey on as a flavoring.

Some nations have foods which seem odd to others, as the Chinese preserved egg which may be kept many years, and their bird's nest soups, made of nests which are formed of the saliva of a certain type of bird of the swift family.

In some parts of the world, notably in some of the Russian Siberian villages, there is a type of individual with a large belly. Because of their fondness for dirt, which they eat as a regular addition to their meals, these people are called "dirt eaters." For a long time science ridiculed the idea that there was any nourishing quality in the diet, but after a careful investigation, it was found that the soil in these particular localities was rich in small dried and living animal structures and these were actually digested by these individuals and used as nourishment. The strain of handling such a large amount of inorganic mineral matter however produced pendulous abdomens.

Mothers are often driven to the verge of dispair by seeing their children gnawing at pieces of wood, or nibbling the paint off their toys and scooping up the soil in their mouths. Dirt eating children and babies are very numerous. Children may taste small quantities of these things when they are babies and later actually acquire a taste for them so that they enjoy their flavor.

While a lack of mineral elements in the food undoubtedly contributes to the craving for these substances, the dirt-eating habit is actually a habit, and must usually be broken even after the diet is corrected. The dirt-eating tendency in adults seems to be associated usually with feeble mindedness.

Babies undoubtedly need some hard substance to bit on when they are developing their teeth. Pieces of hard rubber and celluloid are good for them to chew on. They may also be allowed to bite on washed raw carrots. It is unlikely that babies will be able to chew off enough of the carrot to cause any disturbance. Celery stalks may also be employed. If the baby shows a tendency to chew at its crib, it may be necessary to wrap the exposed areas in fuzzy cotton material.

The first efforts to correct this habit should be to change and improve the diet. Usually the addition of some raw food is necessary. Orange juice and raw carrot juice may be given to babies, and some of the raw salad vegetables to children. The taste for raw vegetables is instinctive, and most children prefer raw carrots and turnips to cooked ones. They should be encouraged in this by their mothers, since some of the uncooked foods are necessary to our good health.

Questions and Answers

Question: Mrs. C. Writes: "I would like to know the cause of a pain in the left shoulder, wrist and arm. What would you advise to relieve it? Can one take a fruit fast, changing fruits each day?"

Answer: Your trouble might be neuritis or it might be a reflex from angina pectoris, a form of heart derangement. You should have a thorough examination by a local doctor to determine the cause of your trouble. If you will send me a report of his findings I will be glad to give you my ideas as to the best method of overcoming your trouble.

Question: Mrs. K. O. writes: "In your health column you advise that it is safe to eat canned spinach. From laboratory report I have heart that a certain mineral element contained in spinach attacks the can and draws off objectionable matters which makes it difficult for the kidneys to eliminate. Please explain if this is so."

Answer: I do not know of any injurious element which is developed in canned spinach. Of course, there have been beliefs and rumors about all canned goods, but my investigations have show that these reports have very little foundation in fact.

Question: Mother writes: "For the last four or five weeks my baby five months old has been breaking out in a rash. It seems to come on during the night. The doctor does not seem to know what it is. His diet is one pint of milk to one pint of water each day, with a little sugar in it."

Answer: I don't blame your baby for having a rash if you dilute his milk so much, and put sugar into it also. Give him four ounces of pure Holstein cow's milk ever four hours, and do not dilute the milk or put anything into it. Just before each feeding give him a teaspoon or two of pure orange juice.

By ANNA Q. NILSSON

When Anna Q. Nilsson was 12 years old her parents let her travel all the way from Sweden to Brooklyn, N. Y., for a visit with some friends, and then the friends wouldn't let her go back home. Finally Anna Q. decided to go to work, and Harrison Fisher, whom she had met socially, gave her employment as an artist's model.

ANNA Q. NILSSON

She then entered the movies, playing in two-reel comedies. She is now a star of the higher magnitude. She was the first important free-lance screen artist and the first actress in the movies to bob her hair.

"I was out at the golf club the other day," Miss Nilsson told me, "and met a young man who played a part in my last picture. He recently took up golf and had on this particular day just finished his first game.

"'Well,' I asked, 'how did you get along?'

"'Oh,' he replied, 'not so bad—I took sixty-three shots.'

"'Only sixty-three!' I exclaimed. 'Why, that's fine!'

"'I thought so, too,' replied the young man. 'I'm going to try the second hole tomorrow.'"

Bodies of British War Victims Brought Home

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Sept. 6. (UP)—The cruiser Champion arrived today bearing the bodies of 42 British sailors who died in the submarine L-55 in the Baltic sea nine years ago. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE (393) OUR PRESIDENTS

Now (in 1846) began a series of battles in which American arms were always successful. At Palo Alto General Taylor defeated a larger force of Mexicans and chased them across the Rio Grande. Monterey was captured. Taylor, on his famous horse, "Whitey," was the guiding spirit of the campaign. Part of Taylor's forces were sent to reinforce General Scott.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-26.

General Scott, with 12,000 men landed at Vera Cruz, captured the city and marched toward the capital.

The Mexican general, Santa Ana, hearing Taylor's force had been split, led 20,000 men against him at Buena Vista.

Taylor, with 5000 men, beat back the Mexicans. Meanwhile Scott marched into Mexico City. Mexico was helpless now and made peace, giving up all claim to Texas and another huge strip of land for $15,000,000. From this territory the states of California, Utah, Nevada and parts of New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Wyoming, were formed. (To Be Continued)

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 6.—The attorney general's department has approved over $164,920,000 of city, county and district bonds during the two years ending Aug. 31, according to data compiled by Miss Ruth Meyer, chief clerk, for the departmental biennial report.

This was more than double the $79,000,000 bonds approved during the previous two-year period, and averaged nearly $7,000,000 per month.

City bonds led with $63,789,261 of issues receiving the state's approval, while county-wide bond issues were next with $42,955,006. Road district bonds totaled $21,731,500, and independent school district bonds, $20,821,980.

Some of the other large issues were: Navigation districts, $5,730,000; levee improvement districts, $7,346,002; water control and improvement districts, $926,000; irrigation districts, $580,000; water improvement districts, $111,000; conservation and reclamation, $149,000; fresh water supply, $110,000; drainage districts, $230,000.

Rule Receives Season's First Bale of Cotton

RULE, Texas, Sept. 6.—The first bale of cotton for the 1928 season was brought into Rule Friday by Clarence Simpson. The cotton was ginned by Harrison and Head gin and weighed 465 pounds. The cotton brought 19 cents a pound, and a premium of $62. Due to the continued dry weather and the boll worm which did some damage, the cotton crop will be light in the Rule trade territory this year.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Sept. 6. (AP)—The cotton market was higher today on reports of further rains in the eastern belt and a somewhat improved trade demand. December contracts, after selling up to 18.95 early, declined to 18.79, but firmed up again to 18.98 and closed at 18.97. The general market closed steady, at net advances of 10 to 17 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5 to 12 points on relatively steady Liverpool cables, but met extensive hedging and realizing. Offerings sent prices off to about yesterday's closing quotations during midday, October declining from 19.13 to 18.94, while March sold off from 18.86 to 18.72. Selling tapered off at these figures, however, and prices rallied later on covering, combined with trade buying, presumably to fix prices.

After the early selling, comparatively little hedging was in evidence, and offerings were light on the afternoon bulge which carried most of the active months into new high ground for the day. March sold up to 18.92 or 20 points net higher and closed at 18.88 or within 4 points of the best.

Three more private crop reports were issued. One made the condition 56.8 and the indicated yield 14,347,000 bales. Another placed the condition at 56 and the indicated yield at 14,154,000 bales, while a third placed the condition at 60.5 and gave figures on the indicated crop ranging from 14,300,000 up to 15,400,000 bales. The average of the private crop indication figures so far published here is about 14,479,000 bales.

A canvass of New York Cotton exchange members shows on the average a crop estimate of 14,316,000 bales, the highest of 73 individual estimates being 15,500,000 and the lowest 13,600,000 bales.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 6. (AP)—The cotton market here today advanced 12 to 17 points on heavy rains in the eastern belt and on reports of a good heavy demand for spots in southern markets.

Trading was held in check by nervousness over the government crop report due Saturday but the market was steady most of the day. New highs for the day were made in the last few minutes of trading.

December, after gaining 11 points in early trading followed by a 14 point decline, advanced in late trading to 18.50, up 15 points, and closed at 18.48.

Liverpool was 1 to 2 points better than due but October here opened 2 points down and later months showed gains of 6 to 10 points. Reports of rain caused an advance which sent October up to 18.40 and December to 18.46, 10 to 11 points above the previous close.

Realizing then set in and the market eased off, October dropping to 18.27 and December to 18.33, 13 to 14 points below the early high, but soon rallied on the detailed weather map showing heavy rains.

After mid-session the market ruled steady and fluctuated narrowly until late trading when reports of good spot demand in the southern markets sent prices upward to new highs. October climbed to 18.43 and December to 18.50, 13 to 15 points above the previous close, and closed one to two points lower. March closed at 18.52, 17 points net higher.

Port receipts 21,285, for week 104,506, for season 456,352, last season 43,951. Exports 655, for week 19,034, for season 371,360, last season 462,156. Port stocks 543,037. Last year 1,196,258. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 54,194, last year 58,098. Spot sales at southern markets 44,608, last year 39,654.

MARKET REVIEW

R. O. Harvey and Co., rooms 830-34, Harvey-Snider building, received the following Thursday on cotton, grain and stocks from their New York and Chicago connections:

Afternoon Cotton Letter

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Light hedge sales being offset by small trade fixing orders. Tone firm. Sentiment bearish notwithstanding continued unfavorable weather east belt and decreasing estimates Texas crop due to recent deterioration. We anticipate no major move either way pending the report but believe short covering will likely be witnessed.—E. A. Pierce and Co.

Stocks

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Where yesterday it was General Motors which stiffened the tone of the market when reactions seemed to be imminent, today Steel common performed the same service. Banks called about $25,000,000 loans and money after renewing at 7½ per cent went to 8 per cent. This coupled with the belief that the weekly brokers' loans figures might showed a very large increase, caused the day to day trading element to become increasingly cautious and to indulge in a substantial amount of profit taking. Consequently, the market became decidedly irregular toward the end of the morning and it was apparent that the list was again being called upon to stand a heavy amount of pressure.

An aggressive advance in Steel common, which carried the stock to new high ground for the year, relieved the tension and the active issues were better able to maintain their ground during rest of the session, the closing tone being quite firm. Briggs Body was strong and in connection with the rise, there were street rumors of competitive buying. It will be remembered that reports have been about to the effect that Chrysler might desire control of Briggs in order to secure for its organization a large body building plant. The strength in Briggs today again brought those rumors to the front. Texas Corporation ran into a large amount of profit taking around 70. McKeesport Tin Plate, on quite active buying, made a new high for the year late in the session. In some quarters it is predicted earnings of this company will approximate $8 for the year or twice the dividend rate. Total sales 4,817,900.

Grain

CHICAGO, Sept. 6.—Wheat was easier in early trading but there was fair support around 114 for December and later the market rallied over one cent from the inside figure on commission house buying and in sympathy with strength at Winnipeg. Selling against offers was a factor in checking the advance. Forecast for unsettled and cooler weather helped the Winnipeg market and there was also a better export demand with sales of 750,000 to 1,000,000 bushels reported in all positions largely Manitobas. Liverpool, after being easy early, rallied and closed unchanged to ¼c higher. There was buying of wheat here against sales at Winnipeg by spreaders. Movement of new wheat in Canada is rapidly increasing.

Corn was unsettled with market easy early and firmer later. Cash corn was steady to one cent higher as compared with futures with white showing the most strength. The strength in cash had some effect on nearby locals buying on way up. Selling against offers checked the bulge. Forecast was for somewhat unsettled weather. Oats slightly firmer with other grains. Rye was dull and easier early but rallied with wheat later. Export demand slow.

CHICAGO, Sept. 6. (AP)—Spot cotton closed: Jan. 18.52; Oct. 18.49; Dec. 18.56-58.

Steel Moves Into New High Ground On Active, Irregular Stock Market

BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Sept. 6. (US)—Steel moved into new high ground in another active, irregular market today.

There was heavy profit taking throughout the industrial list due to nervousness, as to the showing to be made in the reserve bank statements after the close that caused net declines in most recent favorites.

Texas Corporation was most active in a generally firm oil department where consistent absorption of the better grade shares was experienced coincident with the rumors of another advance in crude prices soon.

Montgomery Ward gained more than 2 points on short covering, but Sears Roebuck was off fractionally. General Motors was down more than 3 points, Radio close to 6 and Nickel over a point and a half. Public Service of New Jersey and a few other utilities were well taken. Banks called $25,000,000 in loans and the resulting sustained money rate of 7½ per cent added to the unsettlement somewhat.

Texas Corporation activity was credited to the group that has made sensational play in Montgomery Ward, Loose Wiles and other "selected industrials."

The more powerful of the group took a big position in Texas several months ago after having their experts make a complete study of the property. They regard the company as the leading independent both from the standpoint of financial position and potential earning power.

Simultaneous with the activity in Texas, it was learned, the final details for formation of the new group in Tidewater was completed and that stock gained 3 points. Its friends believe it has been selling behind the other petroleum shares and stands to benefit with others from expected advancing of crude oil prices.

The group in Combustion was working aggressively and report from the floor indicated that some of the biggest orders were coming in from Europe where Durant is spending a vacation.

Briggs was churned actively also, with glowing forecasts of record earnings this year given wide circulation. At the same time it was stated rather definitely that there is not truth to the rumor of Chrysler seeking control. It is believed that Briggs will eventually be turned into a new organization by the Durant interests.

Mexican Seaboard was another in which group-work accounted for renewed advance. Important developments regarding the company's natural gas acitivities in California is looked for in the near future.

The consistent heavy demand for Steel offset to some extent the affect of continued profit taking in other standard industrials.

The belief still prevails that Steel will split up on a two for one basis late this year. Allied Chemical, and General Motors met the heaviest realizing.

Grain

GRAIN REVIEW

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

Chicago, Sept. 6. (UP)—In dull, sluggish markets most of the grain futures struggled upward for small gains today.

At the close wheat was ⅛ to ⅜-cent higher; corn was ⅛ to ⅜-cent up; oats were unchanged to ⅛-cent better; rye was ⅛-cent lower to ⅛-cent higher.

Wheat opened a shade under its previous close. The bottom of the opening range was its low price for the session, but it took a long time for it to get much above that.

Crop news from Canada told of some damage in Saskatchewan and Alberta to wheat from frost. That was supposed to be the reason for the support the market received.

As a matter of fact the buying was for the most part by tired shorts who decided to take a profit they had on paper. The idea that frost damage will to any notable extent affect the yield or even the general quality of the Canadian crop, seems pretty far fetched.

The wheat market appears to be in a position where it demands patience from shorts, but patience is the most difficult thing to exercise in the grain market. Hedging has not yet become heavy enough to put a severe weight on the market.

Every day that passes, however, brings closer and closer economic realization of what North American wheat production will really amount to this year. It will not be surprising if in the end this continent proves to harvest so big a wheat crop that it will have a surplus nearly large enough to fill the world requirements.

Strength in the stock market, however, and talk about politics helping grain prices keep bears cautious and ready to run to cover. Thus the market makes little headway in either direction.

Next Monday the government report is due. The same day brings the date when "calendar players" sell wheat. That date, of course, is based on the usual beginning of the hedging period.

This year, however, the prospect for the new corn crop is so amazingly brilliant, and the danger of any frost damage is already so exceedingly slight, that corn bulls may be overstaying their market.

Buying any of the grains at this time for the long pulls looks to me like prematurity. It would seem to be wise at least to wait until the government report is out of the way.

In the cash market wheat was unchanged to ½-cent up; corn was 1 to 2 up; oats were unchanged; rye was easy; barley was steady.

(Five-Year Record)

All classes of freight car equipment, including air dump cars and passenger and street railway cars, truck bolsters, brake beams, and other car parts are manufactured by the Pressed Steel Car company. The corporation owns 363 patents and licenses under which it operates and has a group of 24 subsidiary companies. During 1927 it was understood that George J. Whelan and associates in the Universal Pipe and Radiator company, had acquired a large block of the stock of Press Steel Car.

The company has plants in Pennsylvania, India, Cuba, and other places as well as coal mines and other holdings.

The company's earnings have been very erratic and have fluctuated along with railroad equipment demand. The record net was in 1902 and favorable figures were hung up in the war years. In 1922 there was a deficit followed by a rally in 1923 and a further decline in 1924 and 1925. In 1926 the company failed by $620,000 to cover interest charges and other income deductions. The company closed 1927 with a net income of $539,213.

The former common stock of $100 par was changed in December, 1927, to no par shares of three new shares for one of old.

Regular payments have been made on the preferred stock at the required rate. On the common, dividends have been irregular, the highest being 8 per cent in 1919 and 1920. Nothing has been paid since 1924.

As of Jan. 1, 1928, total current assets amounted to $12,103,391; current liabilities were $3,728,339; net working capital $9,375,052, and book value of the common stock $73.94 a share.

'JOE' ATTACKS G. O. P. RECORD

Robinson Flays Coolidge At Nashville

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. (UP)—Men with one-half the knowledge of Governor Alfred E. Smith would have prevented the scandals of the Harding and Coolidge administrations, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic vice presidential candidate, said here tonight in the first speech of his three-day campaign in Tennessee.

Reversing the course he pursued in his two speeches in Texas earlier in the week in which he defended Governor Smith's record, Senator Robinson launched an attack against the Harding and Coolidge administrations. He lauded the work of prominent Democrats in exposing scandals of the two administrations and concluded with a review of Govenor Smith's record in public office.

Not Notable Careers

"I make no attack on the personal character of either Mr. Harding or Mr. Coolidge," he said. "The point is that their leadership has not been notable to the degree that the memory of President Harding should be glorified or that President Coolidge should be credited because of great political triumphs in either foreign or domestic affairs.

"Had Harding one-half the knowledge that Al Smith has shown, he would never have made Mr. Daugherty attorney general, or Mr. Denby, secretary of the navy, or Mr. Forbes director of the Veterans' bureau. Had President Coolidge realized when sworn in to succeed the late lamented President Harding, that he must accept responsibility for his own choice of advisers, he would not have retained Messrs. Fall, Denby and Daugherty, nor would he have sought to whitewash them when public opinion forced their retirement to private life.

Scandals Exposed

"Worst of all was the effort to humiliate and disgrace Democrats, who, in the performance of their official duties, attempted to expose and did expose, the shameless record connected with the oil lease contracts, the Veterans' bureau scandals and the alien property custodian frauds."

Citing in contrast the records of Jefferson, Jackson, Cleveland and Wilson, Senator Robinson declared they held their offices as public trusts to be held accountable to the people.

"They were all devoted to freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of religion, freedom of person," he continued. "Jefferson's writings are filled with words which which show his devotion to tolerance and religious liberty.

"Governor Smith is a man of the people. He loves plain folks and they are drawn to him by the magic of his kindness and tender regard. It requires no great intelligence to compare Governor Smith—'Al Smith' as he is known to millions—in this particular with his contemporaries and rivals."

Giant Dirigibles To Be Constructed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6. (US)—Contracts for construction of two mighty dirigible airships will be awarded within ten days, the navy department announced today following publication of the bids and a report from a board of experts on design.

The two ships are to cost slightly less than $8,000,000 and will have a gas capacity of 6,500,000 cubic feet each—approximately triple that of the dirigible Los Angeles. Included in the construction cost is also the cost of one hangar.

On design and cost of construction, the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation was awarded the highest efficiency rating. The American Brown-Boveri corporation was the second qualified bidder, although the construction cost was above the $8,000,000 appropriated by congress for the purpose.

In making public its report the board appointed by Secretary of the Navy Wilbur omitted any specific detail of the designs, except the gas

The Lamar officials arrived here today to question Jarrett and were expected to ask his return to Colorado.

It is understood papers for the requisition of Jarrett have already been filed with Gov. Henry S. Johnston by the Colorado governor, following an extended investigation alleged to link Jarrett and other members of a northeast Oklahoma gang with the Lamar incident.

Kidnaper Admits Slaying of Boy

NEW YORK, Sept. 6. (UP)—Enraged because his 15-year old wife refused to live with him, Luigi Pantorella, 30, confessed tonight, according to a police announcement, that he had murdered her six year old brother.

The child's body tied in a burlap sack, was found in the rear of Pantorella's residence on Coney Island. It had been hidden under a pile of rocks.

The murdered child, Salvatore Santamarco, and his brother, who is eight years old, were kidnaped Wednesday, police said. Late today, the older boy ran into the police station at Coney Island and told officers that "something has been done to my brother."

The boy said that the two had been abducted by a man and kept all night in a house. He told the police that the man had sent him for some cigarettes and that instead of going to the store he had run away.

Police expressed the belief the kidnaper had sent the older boy away in order to have an opportunity to kill Salvatore.

SMITH BEGINS TOUR SEPT. 18

Nominee to Swing Through West and South

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 6. (US)—Governor Smith will swing into his active campaign on Tuesday, Sept. 18, with a speech on farm relief at Omaha, Neb. Thursday, Sept. 20 he will speak at Oklahoma City, Okla., and Saturday, Sept. 22 at Denver, Colo.

The first lap of his itinerary is mapped for one week, but he will not return to New York until Sunday, Sept. 30 to be in time for the state Democratic convention to be held in Rochester, Oct. 1 and 2 and at which time he is scheduled to make one of the major speeches of the campaign.

Where he will go during the second week of his incursion into the west will depend on circumstances. There is a probability that he may push on to California and make addresses in San Francisco and Los Angeles. However, the nominee said today that this had not yet been determined.

Coast Trip Urged

That he visit the west coast during the campaign has been urged strongly on him and his campaign managers by Democratic leaders in that section.

It is recalled that California swung the election for the late President Wilson in 1916 and reports have been received that there is a growing sentiment in favor of the governor in that state which might be turned into Democratic victory should he include California in his speech making tour.

If it is decided that he pass up California at this time, there is a probability that he may go from Denver through Yellowstone park to Wyoming, which ordinarily is a Democratic state and then turn east through Minnesota and the Dakotas, perhaps stopping off at Milwaukee, Wis., to make an address. The Democrats are hopeful of winning Wisconsin this year.

Chooses Large Cities

As things are now shaping themselves it is evident that the tactics of the Democrats are to have the governor finish with the west and the border states and maybe the South by at least two weeks before election so as to allow for a speedy and concentrated drive in the Atlantic coastwise states.

All of the addresses so far scheduled, it will be noted, are in large cities. It is in the urban centers that the governor figures his greatest strength lies and there will be concentrated his fire. There is the added reason for these tactics that radio facilities are better in the cities. It is planned to have extensive radio hookups for each of his speeches.

All addresses will be made in the evening. On his various trips from one place to another and through various sections of the country, the nominee will make appearances on the rear end of his train at station stops, but he will not make any short talks, at least that is his announced intention.

Subjects Not Discussed

The subjects of his talks in Oklahoma City and Denver have not been disclosed, but it is believed that he will select the former to spike the "whisperers" and to deal with the prohibition question at Denver. He probably will spotlight water and power and conservation of natural resources and again may hit at the under-cover campaign against him.

In both Oklahoma and Colorado there are strong klan followings which may prompt him to go extensively into the religious and prohibition issue in both places.

The governor's "Campaign Special" will leave New York on Sunday, Sept. 16. His itinerary from that time on follows:

Monday, Sept. 17—Reception in the governor's honor in Chicago.

Tuesday, Sept. 18—Farm Relief address in Omaha, Neb.

Thursday, Sept. 20—Address in Oklahoma City.

Friday, Sept. 21—Speeches in Newton and Dodge City, Kan.

Saturday, Sept. 22—An address in La Juanta, Colo., and one at Denver, probably on the power situation.

Sunday, Sept. 23—Leaves Denver en route for Montana, with one hour's stop in Cheyenne, Wyo.

Outdoor Addresses

Monday, Sept. 24—Addresses at Billings, Butte and Helena, Mont. One speech will be at the Montana state fair, and will probably be the only outdoor address of the tour.

Tuesday, Sept. 25 — En route through Montana to North Dakota.

Wednesday, Sept. 26—Address at Bismark and Fargo.

Thursday, Sept. 27—Arrive in Twin Cities, and speaks in Minneapolis.

Friday, Sept. 28—En route to Milwaukee.

Saturday, Sept. 29—Address in Milwaukee, probably on prohibition.

Sunday, Sept. 30—En route to New York state.

Monday, Oct. 1—Arrives for opening of Democratic state convention at Rochester.

King Vidor's "The Crowd," starring Eleanor Boardman, James Murray and Bert Roach is coming to the Olympic theater Sunday. The fact that a late honeymoon is better than none at all, and the fact that 1,000,000 people more or less have been photographed in the making of this picture probably just makes it a little more interesting.

The story of John and Mary and their love despite the crowd is worked out in a New York atmosphere, and gives an insight to the life of that busy place. "The Crowd" has been listed as one of the big productions and is heralded by Manager Charlie Moorehead as one of the very best that will be at the Olympic this year. It is booked for four days.

Cantwell Tells Need of Additional Scholarships to Aid Students Here

There are a number of boys and girls who want to go to school at Wichita Falls junior college who will not be able to do so unless several more scholarships are given at once.

This fact was learned Thursday from Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of schools.

Seventeen scholarships were donated and all have been decided upon. There are more than 30 applicants. Dr. Cantwell said that eight or 10 of these will be unable to attend school unless they receive a scholarship.

"There are several cases that would appeal to any person," Dr. Cantwell said.

"They can get their room and their board by working, but they can't get the tuition charge of $90. They need some help to get by.

"I had intended to say something about it at the Rotary meeting Thursday but the program was too full. However, I believe that if the clubs of the city knew of it, they would be only too glad to help out."

Anyone who will help some boy or girl get his tuition at the junior college this year should notify Dr. Cantwell at once.

'Lilac Time' At Strand Hailed As 'Best Show of Present Year'

By The Record News Critic

The best show of the present year is being presented at the Strand theater. It is "Lilac Time," starring Colleen Moore.

The chilling and mournful whistle-whirr sometimes made by falling airplanes that are shot full of holes, combat action in the clouds between opposing groups of birdmen, crashes in which the planes are seen actually to strike the ground and crack up, and thrills, which give a new meaning to the word "action" as applied to pictures, give "Lilac Time" something more than the original stage presentation ever dared attempt.

Romance dominates the picture in a peculiar manner. The little French girl at whose home the seven pilots of a British aero squadron are stationed is the star of the play. The role is portrayed by Colleen Moore.

A story of great beauty, "Lilac Time" touches the extreme depths of human emotions and is clean in every detail.

The vitaphone accompaniment gives added touches of realism, and it is so well done that the rat-a-tat-a-tat—at-a-tat of the machine guns and the bursting of bombs are scarcely noticeable so well are they blended into the action. There is some dialogue and there is some music. All dialogue would ruin this play for you can't get action such as is seen in "Lilac Time" with talk.

This picture also emphasizes the fallacy of the belief of some that the talkies will replace the straight movies. There is some talking, but very little in "Lilac Time." Anyone watching the show has but to imagine the whole picture "talked" instead of "acted" in order to see quite clearly the difference.

Burr McIntosh, Jack Stone, Eugenie Besserer and Edward Dillion are seen in strong roles. Cleve Moore, Katherine McGuire, Emile Chautar, Edward Dillon, Dick Grace, Stuart Knox, Harlan Hilton, Richard Jarvis, Jack Ponder and Dan Dolling complete the cast of principals. About 50 minor characters are used, and 1000 others lend amosphere to the play.

"Lilac Time" is an adaptation of the Jane Cowl and Jane Maurfin stage play of the same name. The song that runs through the play is named "Lilac Time" and lends a pathos and romance of atmosphere which make the play more pleasing.

NEW STUDENTS ENTER SCHOOL

Heavy Enrollment at Zundy And Reagan

Registrations at the Wichita Falls Junior college, the senior high school and the junior high schools promises to be much heavier this year than last year, according to Dr. J. W. Cantwell, superintendent of schools.

Records at the senior high school show that 58 new pupils already have registered. The old students do not register and will simply enroll when they come to the first day of class on Monday. Those who have not registered by Friday night will have to wait until after 4 o'clock Monday afternoon as Saturady and Monday have been set aside for registration of junior college pupils. Junior college classes will start Tuesday.

Registration at both of the junior high schols has been strong, according to H. A. Glass and W. A. Franklin, the principals of Zundelowitz and Reagan.
