

Texas Republicans File Formal Ballot Contest

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas Republicans filed today a formal contest before the State Canvassing Board challenging the Democrats' 46,233-vote margin in the Nov. 8 election.

Hardy Hollers, Austin lawyer, said he would ask later in the day for a chance to present arguments to the three-man board alleging mishandling of vote counts in several counties, including Starr and Duval.

Secretary of State Zolie Stepien said the board would have no comment at once.

The Republicans alleged a number of vote counting violations.

"Specifically and by way of partial illustration, in many boxes the returns show more votes counted for president and vice president than there were voters listed on the actual voter list or poll list of those who cast ballots in said general election," the notice of contest said.

The notice cited an instance in Precinct 23, Angelina County, where returns showed 86 voters but 147 votes cast for John Kennedy and 24 for Richard Nixon.

It cited Precinct 15, Lee County, where there were 29 voters but 64 votes counted for the presidential nominees.

In Dawson Precinct of Navarro County, the poll list showed 479 voters with a vote of 315 for the Democratic nominees and 219 for the GOP nominees.

In Winkler Precinct of Navarro County the poll list showed 36 voters, but judges counted 27 for Kennedy, 9 for Nixon, and 9 more for other presidential nominees.

In Precinct 3, Marion County, 91 voters were on the poll list with 56 for Kennedy and 41 for Nixon.

In Precinct 10, Marion County, the poll list showed 108 voters but returns had 12 for Kennedy, 36 for Nixon and 2 for other nominees.

The contest notice said that in some instances voters left either the Democratic or Republican nominees unmarked on ballots and at the same time failed to mark out either Constitution or Prohibition nominees.

"Some judges disqualified said ballots and refused to count them; other judges counted such ballots for the major party (Republican or Democratic) not stricken out; still other election judges recognized the incompleteness of ballots with only one party stricken out and proceeded to alter the ballots (illegally) by striking out the Constitution and (or) Prohibition party columns and then counting the ballots," the contest notice alleged.

The notice repeated GOP allegations that more than 100,000 voters were disfranchised due to "the statewide inconsistent legal theory used by election judges" when counting ballots.

The contest referred to Starr County returns which had been used as an unsuccessful basis in asking the attorney general for an investigation. The original Republican protest, which they said was based on a statement signed by 18 persons, said Starr County returns to the Texas Election Bureau showed that Republican nominees for president, vice president, governor and U.S. Senate each received exactly 284 votes in Starr County. However, the Election Board said last Friday that official county returns showed 286 votes each for Nixon and Lodge, and 170 for the U.S. Senate nominees.

The contest said the official return from Starr County "would indicate that after the protest said citizens had been made public in the returns, were either illegally changed or there was a gross error on the part of said election officials."

The GOP contest also alleged that in Precinct 2, Duval County, election judges violated state laws by instructing Latin American voters in Spanish "and in instances the voters were intimidated and coerced by the presence of election judges and others inside to the polling places waring side arms."

The contestants added "that a re-count of votes at the general election for the presidential candidates in accordance with the laws of this state, will disclose that the results will be different and that the majority of voters in the State of Texas, or in all events the greatest number of voters, in truth and in fact voted for the Republican nominees for president and vice president."

The GOP arguments set the stage for possible federal court action by alleging that refusal of a recount would violate the 14th Amendment which guarantees citizens the right to equal protection under the law and in the courts.

Ex-Convict Is Arrested In Kidnaping

LOS ANGELES (AP)—FBI agents converged on a startled Frank Marrone at a Los Angeles intersection early today and arrested him in the kidnaping a week ago of wealthy sportsman Anthony Alessio.

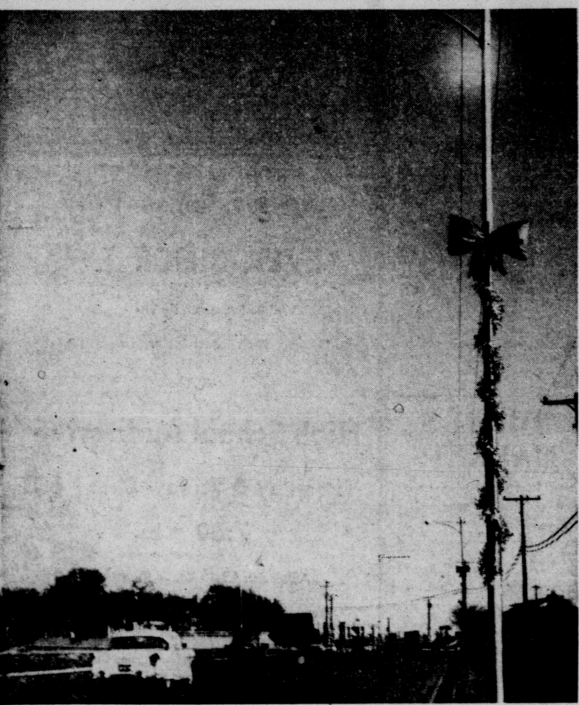

The FBI said Marrone, 31, a convicted murderer with a long police record, was unarmed and offered no resistance. His first comment, agents related, was: "I knew the FBI was smart, but I've never seen so many in one place."

The agents said Marrone—driving his own 1955 automobile—carried currency identified as part of the $200,000 ransom paid by the Alessio family to secure his release.

Alessio, 41, abducted from in front of his fashionable San Diego home last Tuesday, was found unharmed later in a San Diego motel. He is executive director of the California race track in Baja California. The track is believed to be owned by the Alessio family.

A widespread search for Marrone commenced after the FBI arrested his wife, Selma, 28, and another couple in Hollywood on Friday. Agents recovered $77,500 of the ransom money at that time.

Don Keller, San Diego County district attorney, said he planned to file formal kidnaping charges against the three. The other two are James R. Gorman, 28, identified as an escaped convict also wanted for a $13,000 Huntington Park, Calif. market robbery; and Gorman's wife, Enay, 28.

THE LOOK OF CHRISTMAS—Snyder is donning its Christmas finery with street decorations appearing most everywhere. Merchants around town have already Christmased up their windows and Christmas lights are set to be strung as soon as poles are ready. The chamber of commerce supplied the wrappings and the city wrapped the utility poles on all approaches to the square such as the above view near Thirtieth Street on the Big Spring Highway.

City Council Set To Call Charter Election

The Snyder City Council has announced its intentions to call an election in response to petitions requesting a vote on proposals to amend the city charter.

The council passed a motion at a called session last night instructing the city attorney to prepare the necessary ordinance for calling the election. Initial action on the ordinance will be taken at another called session tonight.

The council voted on the motion last night following a lengthy discussion. The consensus was that action on calling the election had been withheld simply to assure that a legal petition bearing signatures of 10 per cent of the city's voters had been received.

Last night's action has the effect of recognizing a supplemental list of petitioners which was submitted two weeks following receipt of the original petition.

Whether this supplemental list is legal had been questioned by the council, and petitioners had filed in 132nd District Court for a mandamus to order to council to call the election. Hearing on the request for the mandamus had been set originally for today, but yesterday District Judge Sterling Williams granted a 48-hour delay at the request of City Attorney W. W. Park.

Last night, members of the council noted that a technical question remains concerning the additional list of petitioners, but so far as could be determined it involves a point of law that has never been settled in the state. If litigated, the council noted, the council might well be sustained in refusing to call the election. However, the council agreed that it was not the purpose of the council to try to prevent an election on the charter.

"We might go into court and win by taking the position that the petition is illegal, but we would probably spend more money than the election would cost," said Mayor John Hamblen.

"Anyway, I don't think anybody on this council wants to prevent an election. We just want to make certain that it is called in a legal manner," the mayor concluded. The original petition was filed with the council on Nov. 7 by Robert R. Patterson, legal counsel for the petitioners. A week later, City Secretary K. O. Pitter, reported to the council that he had determined that the petition did not contain the names of 10 per cent of the qualified voters in the city.

FEARED KIDNAPED—Police continued a search around Portland Ore., for Beverly Allen, 19, of Fort Townsend, Wash., a student at Washington State University, who they fear has been kidnapped. Search For Coed Widens

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Police widened their search today for a coed feared kidnapped when her boy friend was killed in a lover's lane.

The girl is Beverly Allen, 19, Port Townsend, Wash., a pretty sophomore from Washington State University.

She disappeared Saturday night on a date with her boy friend, Larry Ralph Peyton, 19, a Portland State College student. His body was found Sunday night in the front seat of his car on an isolated lover's lane in the hills northwest of Portland.

Police said there was evidence of a terrific struggle. Young Peyton had been stabbed 23 times and also had been a blow that caused a skull fracture. There was blood outside and inside the car.

Miss Allen, after Thanksgiving dinner with her parents at Port Townsend, had come to Portland to visit the Peytons. Peyton's parents said they all had dinner together Saturday, then their son and Miss Allen left for the evening. The parents reported their missing Sunday.

At that time the council had taken that motion for a week when representatives of the petitioning group asked for an opportunity to check the list.

A week later, on Nov. 21, the petitioners brought in a list of additional names, and this second list had led to controversy. The council questioned whether the second list could be added to the petition.

As counsel for the petitioners, Patterson contended that the second list was legal since it was presented before final action was taken on the original petition.

The election probably will be held on Jan. 31, the council indicated last night.

The petitioners asked for a vote on charter amendments which would change the city government from the council-manager form to the mayor-council form, with mayor and councilmen to receive salaries. Other amendments also would provide for elective city judge, city attorney and city marshal, and would prohibit the city from annexing land without approval of citizens involved.

Snyder Lanes Burglarized

Burglars entered the Snyder Lanes on West Twenty-fifth Street last night and made off with an estimated $20 in cash. No other items have been missed so far.

The break-in occurred sometime between 2 a.m. and 5 a.m., according to Police Chief T. L. Steele who said the night patrol had been by at 2 o'clock and everything was in order, but on their return round, officers found the back door had been broken in.

The money was taken from the Grill cash register and from the bowling department. The burglars broke into a bowling machine but no estimate was made of loss there.

Security In Venezuela Is Tightened

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Strict security measures were enforced by troops today as President Romulo Betancourt's moderate Socialist government moved to crush leftist rioting that has raged since Friday.

The rioting, apparently inspired by admirers of Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba, resulted in one person being killed Monday. Altogether four have been killed since the start. Scores have been injured and up to 200 are reported in jail.

The rioting so far has been confined to Caracas, capital of this oil-rich nation. Riot leaders have directed their fiercest attacks on police stations.

Authorities had a free hand under a suspension of civil guarantees.

Army, navy and air force commanders made a special trip to the presidential palace to pledge support to Betancourt, a pipe-smoking intellectual who has tried to steer Venezuela on a moderate Socialist path since taking office two years ago after the ousting of dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez.

Although the rioters have not outlined a specific program, they proclaim their opposition to the government in general terms and shout slogans backing Castro.

Betancourt charged Communists and the Movement of the Revolutionary Left, a Marxist splinter group, touched off the riots.

Although authorities thought they had the situation under control, rioting broke out here from the interior, violence flared again Monday night with an attack on a police station in the capital's Sucre district.

Congolese Soldiers Search For Lumumba

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Congolese soldiers went through the African quarter today, hunting for ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba.

The Communist-leaning Lumumba raised the threat of civil war Sunday by escaping his guarded villa, apparently intending to make his way northeast to Stanleyville, his political stronghold.

His top lieutenants there were reported organizing to restore him to power.

Some observers thought Lumumba may try to assemble Parliament in Stanleyville under protection of his followers in a direct bid for power.

Thomas Kanza, Lumumba's former delegate to the United Nations, told newsmen Lumumba left Leopoldville by air for Accra and New York.

This report generally was discounted as a diversionary maneuver to discourage the hunt for Lumumba.

Officials of Col. Joseph Mobutu's provisional government were convinced Lumumba was hiding with friends in the teeny Leopoldville.

A U.N. official said Lumumba's escape from the guarded villa obviously was prepared with great care and outside assistance. Mobutu's chances of tracking Lumumba were regarded as very slim.

Lumumba, accompanied only by a driver and a secretary, crashed his darkened station wagon through a sleepy Congolese army guard outside the Villa Sunday night and disappeared. His political foes, Mobutu and President Joseph Kasavubu, were not reassured by a statement issued later in his behalf that he would attend his daughter's funeral in Stanleyville and then return to Leopoldville.

Six Directors Are Named By Chamber

Six new directors to serve two-year terms have been elected by members of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

The new directors will officially join the board for the calendar year of 1961.

Elected to the board were Roy Burgess, Bud England, Herbert Feather, Harold Lack, Mark McLaughlin, and D. D. Shelburne.

They were named from a list of 12 nominees submitted by the nominations committee to the chamber's membership.

The new board members will meet with the 1960 board at a dinner session at 7:30 p.m. on Dec. 5 at the Village Restaurant. At that time the board will be organized for the coming year's activities.

Members of the 1960 board who still have a year to serve on their two-year terms are Hugh Boren Jr., Joe Cargile, Mel Gilbert, Dave Harlin, Charles Musselwhite, and Bill Wilson.

The new board members represent a variety of businesses and professions.

Burgess is a druggist, England is owner of an office supply store, Feather is publisher of the Snyder Daily News, Lack is unit manager for R. E. Smith, McLaughlin is manager of Diamond M Industries and Shelburne is a building contractor.

Snyder Area Logs Second 'Freeze' Of Season Today

Although the "bite" was somewhat less severe than expected, twin cold fronts brought sub-freezing temperatures to the Snyder area today and sent the mercury tumbling deep into the state.

Snyder had an official low reading of 26 degrees this morning, and a considerable amount of ice was noted, indicating that the freezing period extended for several hours. At 7 a.m. the thermometer still clung to the 26-degree mark.

Colder temperatures were logged in the Panhandle and High Plains regions of the state, but the freeze did not extend far south of the Abilene area.

The coldest spot before dawn was Dalhart with 18 degrees. Warmest minimum was 37 at Brownsville.

Other lows included Amarillo 20, Lubbock 23, El Paso 27, Abilene 28, Midland and Wichita Falls 30, Brownwood, Dallas, and Texarkana 34; Waco 39; Presidio 40; Austin 42, San Antonio and Beaumont 45, Victoria and Houston 46, Laredo 47, Galveston 50 and Corpus Christi 51.

The season's first full-blown snowstorm, which caused at least six deaths in the north-central portion of the nation, skipped across the Great Lakes region into Ontario today.

The storm, expected to grow weaker by nightfall, still drifting high winds and blowing, spreading snow in northern areas.

Early today a heavy fog shrouded much of New York City, hampering sea, land and air traffic. More than 50 flights were delayed at Idlewild and La Guardia airports, or diverted to other fields, some as far away as Buffalo and Detroit.

A ferry carrying 2,000 passengers and a tanker collided in the harbor. One passenger was slightly injured.

At midmorning, snow still was falling over an already well-blanketed area from the upper half of the Mississippi Valley to the Great Lakes region. Blowing and drifting snow added to the hazards of motoring.

Temperature readings skidded during the night. Vandalia, Ill., reported a drop of 43 degrees from 69 to 27. A few hours before dawn, Buffalo, N.Y., recorded 62 degrees—a record high for the date—contrasted to 24 below zero at Fraser, Colo. Temperatures in North Dakota were just below the zero mark; in Nebraska 8 to 10 above.

Other readings included: —15 at Harve, Mont.; —8 at Glasgow, Mont.; —10 at Williston, N.D.; —4 at West Yellowstone, Mont. and Big Piney, Wyo.; 3 above at North Platte, Neb.; 7 above at Denver, Colo., and 9 above at Casper, Wyo.

Little Machine Is Gray Hair Builder

By GERRY BURTON

There is a little machine in newspaper offices known as "the cure." It sits in its little corner all day long and methodically ticks off news of the world. Regardless of what earth-shaking news it ticks, it sits quietly and ticks. Some newspaper people are so steeped in the sound of the tick, tick of the machine that they cannot think out of sound of it. Now this little jewel sometimes blows its little stack and starts a series of "cuss-like" words—bzzt, bzzt, bzzt—which merely means that some diligent operator of some huge piece of digging machinery somewhere has cut through part of the headline-crippling "little message-giver" which links words together. Sometimes, however, this mechanical marvel just sits and in deadening silence marks time while editors fear their hair, get ulcers and drain the coffee pot dry while trying in vain to contact someone who can do something so they can put out the newspaper. One of these gems sits upstairs in the Daily News office and each

AMA Talks Of Hike In Dues

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Medical Association is considering a dues increase that would add from $1.5 million to $3.5 million a year to its revenues.

The added money would go to increase activities of the association—not to battle expected efforts in Congress to finance medical care for the aged under the Social Security System, a spokesman said.

The AMA strongly opposes that health care plan, supported by President-elect John F. Kennedy, and claimed a share of credit for its defeat this year.

Mrs. Kennedy Must Rest

WASHINGTON (AP)—Any plans Mrs. John F. Kennedy has for increasing social activity in the White House will have to be postponed for six months.

That advice from her doctor dashes some of the enthusiastic predictions that came only a week ago from Mrs. Kennedy's new social secretary.

Letitia Baldrige had reported Mrs. Kennedy would be making plenty of news and innovations in the White House starting about three months after the birth of her baby.

But the unexpectedly early arrival of John F. Kennedy Jr. last Friday changed the picture.

By-Products Are Oil's Competitor

Mrs. Fowler Receives More Honors

Literary honors continue for Mrs. Oscar M. Fowler, former Snyder resident who now lives in Simola.

Mrs. Fowler recently received notice that she will have two literary articles included in a textbook to be used at college level in the East. Each article is in the nature of a critique on two poems to be published in the book, "Poetry in the Round."

The poems are by a modern poet, Alfred Dorn, a friend of Mrs. Fowler, who is a professor of creative writing at the University of New York.

This will be Mrs. Fowler's first effort in prose, although many literary magazines and anthologies have carried the poems of Mrs. Fowler during the past 10 years. Among them are "Candor," "Literary Calendar," "Chronotopes," "New Athenaeum," "American Bard," "Starlines," "Sydney Quarterly," "Avalon Anthology," and "National Poetry Anthology."

In 1958, Mrs. Fowler, then a teacher in Snyder Schools, received the Citation for Merit Award by "Flame" for reader interest in one of her poems.

Mrs. Fowler's husband, O. M. Fowler, formerly served as county agricultural agent for Scurry County. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fowler will be in the seventh edition of "Who's Who in the South and Southwest."

Mrs. Fowler also will be in the forthcoming volume of "Who's Who of American Women." She has been listed in the latter publication since its first publication.

Mrs. Fowler also has been invited to join the American Poetry League, which has its membership open only by invitation.

Fowler now is engaged in farming interests and is the new president of the Seminole Livestock Assn.

Child's World Of Art

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL (ADVANCE) — KANSAS CITY, Nov. 12 (AP) — Recently, during a heavy thunderstorm in the pre-dawn hours, a long figure roamed the fairways of a Kansas City golf course exulting in the beauty of it all.

Artist Arthur Kraft considered it a natural thing to do. In fact, he wondered why more people weren't there at 3 a.m. to see the spectacular display of lightning and driving rain.

"So much beauty goes to waste because people don't bother to look," says Kraft, who peers at life with the wide-eyed wonderment of a child. "Sometimes I want to shake people and say: look up, look up, see how beautiful it all is."

"I think like a child. What wonderful things they see. How easily they discard the ugly."

The child-view world of 30-year-old Arthur Kraft, displayed through the craftsmanship on an adult, has put a menagerie of happy animals into the antiseptic beauty that is modern architecture.

At the entrance of the children's wing of Kansas City's new public library a whimsical parade of the young rears.

Detroit's mammoth new Northland shopping center is graced with Kraftian animals: a brass and rod pussy cat; a laughing elephant joyfully waving his trunk and forelegs.

Most of Kraft's sculpture is designed not only to look beautiful, but also to be climbed on, sat on and generally enjoyed by children.

"I don't like things with little fences around them that say 'stay off the art,'" he says.

Kraft prefers to work with architecture because "art is something to be lived with every day, like food and water. It shouldn't be hung away to be tasted seldom, if at all."

Typically Kraft is the 35-foot library mural facing the street in the street in Kansas City civic center.

Done entirely in translucent glass tiles imported from Italy—each tile less than a half inch wide—the mural's 80 colors and hundreds of subtle shadings blend into a dazzling and traffic stopping panorama of color.

It has become quite a game among passer-by to find all the animals hidden in the trees and brush in the mural.

Kraft regards it as his finest work because it is for children. If it can open the eyes of one youngster to beauty, it will be a success," he says.

Despite his seriousness about art and children, Kraft works hard at being a character. He is a fun loving man with an absurd sense of humor.

He won a national painting award (the Audubon) years ago with a work titled "New York as seen by a casual observer through my great aunt Jennier's ouija board."

In 1954 Kraft was chosen one of the country's 10 outstanding young men by the National Junior Chamber of Commerce. A casual dresser, addicted to tieless white shirts and tight corduroy pants, he found himself without a suit proper for the award receiving occasion.

The man who sold him the suit recalls this conversation: "I want a suit."

"What kind of suit?" "Oh, a black suit. I guess."

"Well, taking a black suit from a rack here's a black suit."

"That one will be fine."

Kraft has had one man shows at the Seligmann, a major New York gallery, and at the Landau galleries, among others. For the latter he had 15 paintings on the theme "Saints and Angels." During show the gallery burned and the one painting salvaged was a fierce portrait of the devil. He puts no mystic interpretations on this, if at all.

Kraft fancies bugs and has a large collection of preserved insects in his room. "See the beautiful colors in his eyes," he'll say to Johnny Brown and N. F. Hall were in Stanford Friday. Recent guests of Jim Merket were, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Merket and Gloria and Miss Ann Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Pylant and son, all of Colorado City; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee Merket and family of Midland, and Jack Merket of Stamford.

Lucky-Merket, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd W. Merket, Linda a visitor who is shrinking from a large roach.

For a studio, Kraft uses a large basement room. At times, while making the library mosaic he had up to 20 helpers, mostly volunteers pasting the tiles on large sheets he had mapped out.

No matter how busy he is, Kraft will stop to be cordial to visitors. While pushing the deadline on an important painting for a New York fashion salon, he stopped to help a neighborhood candy store operator arrange the various colored sheets into an eye-pleasing display. "It's as important to him to have a beautiful package as it is to General Motors to have a beautiful car," Kraft said, adding: "And it's important to me that things be beautiful."

Hairston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hairston and Rhonda Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown, all attending John Tarleton State College, visited their families during the Thanksgiving holidays.

Miss Carylon Murphy of Texas Tech, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Murphy during the holidays.

GETTING READY FOR DUEL—British bongo drummer, Tony Maynihan looks at a Japanese sword in a Tokyo shop, as his wife watches. Maynihan has challenged Pacific Stars and Stripes columnist Al Ricketts to a duel for writing that Mrs. Maynihan, a belly dancer—gave a "routine" performance in a Tokyo night club. 84 Box Cars On Five-Mile Spree

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A string of 84 box cars loaded with grain ran wild for five miles through Philadelphia Monday night, but quick thinking by two Pennsylvania Railroad workers prevented serious injury or damage.

Frank W. Bartle, of Lansdale, Pa., a movement director, and Larry Vance, of Collingswood, N.J., a towerman in the West Philadelphia yards, combined to manipulate switches so that the runaway cars missed any passenger trains or other properties.

Bartle and Vance also routed the runaway cars—by manipulating track control switches—so as to bring them into an upgraded area where they came to a halt. Several passenger trains were stopped a couple of miles away.

Charles M. Campbell, 36, of Camden, N.J., an engineer, and John A. Cooney, 36, of Narberth, Pa., were injured slightly when they jumped from a locomotive just before the runaway freight cars rammed it. They were treated for bruises at Presbyterian Hospital.

A PRR spokesman said, a freight train bound from Buffalo, N.Y., to Jersey City, N.J., stopped at the entrance to the

AF Opposes 'Terror' Tactics

By REM PRICE
AP Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A quiet but mounting revolt is being waged by Air Force officers against the notion that war can be deterred simply by aiming a small number of missiles at an enemy's population centers.

The Air Force holds that adherence to this doctrine is the road to national suicide.

A key factor in this revolt is the development of the 6,000-mile range Minuteman missile, a true push-button weapon designed for mass production.

The Minuteman, so the Air Force believes, will make it possible to abandon the theory of "deterrence by terror."

In Air Force opinion the use of terror, a threat implying mass slaughter of civilians by the military, is effective only so long as the enemy's civil and military defenses are weak, but that it will not deter a well-prepared army.

Clearly, the Air Force believes the Soviet Union is no longer susceptible to the terror deterrent.

And this is where the Minuteman missile enters the picture.

With this weapon, which is to be flight tested—two years ahead of schedule—at Cape Canaveral, Fla. next month, the Air Force believes the United States can regain clear military supremacy for the West. Minuteman can be produced in such numbers, says the Air Force that it could knock out much of the Soviet Union's nuclear missile potential with a saturation attack aimed at military zones.

Hours of background briefings by Air Force officers on the role of the Minuteman in national defense have shed considerable light on what may become a ripening controversy between the services in the new administration.

Of necessity the briefings went to the heart of Air Force strategic beliefs. All the spokesmen presented the official Air Force viewpoint, but none spoke for personal attribution.

In any case, these beliefs may well mark the most significant return to the first principles of warfare made public by military planners since the beginning of the missile age.

In lectures to its own officers the Air Force maintains that to destroy enemy cities without first destroying his military striking force is strategically and morally wrong.

The Air Force contends that to make population centers primary targets for attack would amount to an expenditure of the United States' major force against non-vital targets, leaving the enemy fully armed and with this nation at its mercy.

Thus, the Air Force has returned to an ancient military principle: An armed force exists to destroy the enemy's armed force.

Gen. Thomas D. White, Air Force chief of staff, has said repeatedly in speeches: "The concept of deterrence as interpreted by some is merely the possession of military strength which could inflict severe and perhaps indiscriminate punishment upon an enemy. Apparently they disregard the need for military strength sufficient to defeat him. I cannot agree with it. If deterrence fails and a nation must fight, it must have the strength to win."

In brief, the Air Force believes an enemy can be deterred from attack or beaten if he ignores the odds, only by the existence of clear military superiority.

If both the United States and the Soviet Union have roughly equal missile forces, the Air Force contends, the Russians might be tempted to nibble away at the free world, gambling that the United States would not risk nuclear war for the sake of allies.

The Air Force also believes the bulk of the deterrent forces should be based in this nation where the enemy could not destroy them one by one.

This latter argument is directed against the placing of our major strategic reliance on the Navy's missile-launching Polaris submarine force. Navy officers have argued dispersion of missiles at sea in submarines would insure their survival while drawing fire away from continental United States. Placing a missile striking force inside the country, they claim, simply invites domestic attack.

The Air Force raises this question: Would the United States go to war if the Russians sank one of our missile submarines? Two? Three? How far would the United States permit the Russians to go if the Soviets began a war of attrition against our submerged launching pads?

Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, said it would be impossible to detect and destroy all Polaris subs since they would be mixed in with atomic-powered attack submarines. He also said he could foresee the day when missiles would have such extreme accuracy they would be able to score hits so close to underground launching sites, such as the Air Force has in mind for Minuteman, that the sites would be destroyed.

Archeologists are trying to find out what happened to Pueblo Indians who vanished from Colorado's Wetherill Mesa section before 1300 A.D.

The Navy's chief also noted the mobile Minuteman would have to have tracks—and tracks can be destroyed. On the other hand, he noted, a Polaris submarine will operate in a section of the ocean as large as Texas.

Invulnerability to attack is essential to an American missile force because the United States has said it would never attack first.

The Air Force argues this invulnerability can be obtained with literally thousands of Minuteman missiles ready to fire in "hardened" underground launching tubes, or silos. With such numbers dispersed across the country, a knockout attack by the Soviet Union would be virtually impossible.

At this point the question arises: Who is going to be around after an attack to care whether the United States or the Soviet Union wins?

Wreckage Of Plane Found

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Forest rangers Monday night found the wreckage of a missing plane that carried four persons—including the ex-wife of violinist George Liberace—to their deaths.

The plane, missing since May 15 on a flight from Las Vegas, Nev., to Van Nuys, Calif., was found near Mt. Wilson, about 25 miles northeast of Los Angeles. Others aboard included Ralph Quattrone, 46, a wealthy Modesto, Calif., cannery owner and pilot; Ross Perrino, 49, a Los Angeles executive, and Perrino's wife, Santina, 45.

Wreckage was scattered over a wide area in nearly inaccessible terrain of the Angeles National Forest.

Liberace's ex-wife, Jayne, 42, divorced her husband, brother of pianist Les Liberace, in September 1959. Her sister said she and Quattrone had planned to wed.

IT'LL TAKE A BIT OF DOING

It's Jackie, Not Jack, Who Has Europeans All Excited

By INEZ ROBB

Was Europe excited about the Presidential election? Is it hoped up over the impending change of administration? Is it pleased?

These are a few of the questions that the traveler who has been abroad in recent weeks can expect to have fired at him even as he comes down the ramp from his jet at Idlewild.

The answer to all three inquiries is: YES, indeed!

But before the President-elect steps forward to take a bow, we had best glance over his shoulder to see who is crowding him from the rear. The Kennedy over whom Europeans are dancing in the street is not so much Jack as Jackie.

Europeans think Jackie Kennedy is the greatest thing since the Marshall Plan. It wouldn't surprise me if they asked for her on a long-term loan or under some form of lend-lease—say Jackie for Brigitte Bardot, Gina Lollobrigida and Sophia Loren.

Such a reaction to the Presidential election may surprise you, as it did me. Overnight, not Jack but Jackie's picture appeared on the cover of every magazine from Ireland to Italy, all with captions paying fulsome tribute to her beauty, charm and intellect. And it is a poor day and a poor newspaper that cannot dream up still another reason for printing Jackie's picture.

And all this has been happening, mind you, in the midst of such earth-shaking events as the Arthur Miller-Marilyn Monroe debacle and the illness of that Cleopatra with out an asp, Elizabeth Taylor. But Jackie has easily blanketed both.

In Rome, I caught a glimmer of an explanation of the European infatuation when I met Nicole Fontana. She is one of the three sisters who operate the House of Fontana, which has helped make Italy a great fashion center.

"We are losing a customer," she said, in reference to Mrs. Kennedy, and sighed.

"From now on, she will wear only American clothes, I'm certain. But our loss is your gain, for the United States is getting as its first lady one of the most beautiful young women of our time. She not only has impeccable taste and instinctive chic, but great charm and sweetness as a person."

Suicide Ruled In Death Of Couple

DALLAS (AP)—Justice of Peace Glenn Byrd ruled murder and suicide in the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Bowers, found shot in their home here Monday.

Mrs. Bowers, 47, was in a bed near her husband's body, which was on the floor. Byrd said a pistol was found under Bowers' hand.

Officer L. R. Selman said a daughter, Mary Lou Bowers, 19, told him her mother had been ill and her father had been extremely worried.

Monahans Youth Wins 4-H Award

CHICAGO (AP)—A freshman at Odessa Junior College, James E. Dokkins, 20, of Monahans, Tex., Monday was named national winner in the 4-H Club recreational program.

He received a $400 scholarship at the National 4-H Club Congress meeting here.

Dokkins had led 170 song groups, planned and participated in 125 games and attended more than a score of workshops.

East End Kid Hits The Top In London

LONDON (AP)—The name in British popular music today is Lionel Bart. Remember it.

At 29, this youth from the poorer parts of a Hollywood after that he says could have yielded him two million dollars over the years for his musical smash hit "Oliver."

He rejected the huge offer because he believes he eventually can make more money by producing the film himself.

He also wants to be the man who wrote the first really big British film musical hit.

Most observers here are ready to say Bart, who cannot read a line of music, can do almost anything he sets his dynamic mind to do.

He has two smash musical shows running in the West End. They are "Fings Ain't Wot They Used Tbe" and "Oliver." The latter, a musical about Charles Dickens' book "Oliver Twist," will open soon in New York.

In a few months, Bart will have another musical show. "Tonight, Josephine," in the West End. Nobody can remember an English music man with three shows at once in the heart of theaterland.

He is turning out popular hit tunes almost every time he sits down at his upright piano in a small alley cottage home and picks out a melody with one finger. Then he calls in an arranger to whom he hums or sings the song.

A few years ago hardly anyone had heard of the name Lionel Bart.

Today, Noel Coward calls Bart the best English song writer since —yes, since Coward.

Four years or so ago, Bart was playing a washboard in a rock 'n' roll group led by Tommy Steele.

Bart, who had failed in his efforts to be a commercial artist and who always wanted to be an actor, wrote the song that helped make Steele a teen-age idol. It was called "Rock with the Cave Men."

He wrote something called "Livin' Doll" for a teen-ager named Cliff Richards. Both became famous in England.

"Livin' Doll" sold 14 million records and Bart had to begin worrying about tax problems.

Bart was born in the East End, the son of Russian-Jewish parents. His father is a tailor.

Lionel spent his boyhood around the stalls of Petticoat Lane. At 13 he won a scholarship to a school of art but he never became a commercial artist. Instead, he met Tommy Steele at a party and began playing that washboard.

"I did it for kicks," he says today. "Ten bob—$10—a night."

This year people began talking of this short, dark young man with the soft, pleasant voice as "The Newel Coward of the 60s."

Until Bart met Coward he worked in a haphazard manner. Coward saw "Oliver," and sent Bart a personal note of congratulations. They became friends and Coward advised Bart on organizing his composing career.

Farm Girl's Dream Near

CHICAGO (AP)—An Iowa farm girl was a step closer to her dreams today thanks to a blue ribbon on the flank of her prize charming—a 1,000 pound Hereford named Hercey.

Kaye Pollock, 15, of Mount Auburn, Iowa, became the 1960 live-stock queen Monday when Hercey, a junior yearling she raised from a calf, was chosen grand champion steer of the International Live Stock Exposition.

Kaye plans to sell her hero at auction Thursday. Grand champions generally bring fancy prices. The 1957 winner was sold for a record $30 a pound.

She wants to use the money to finance her dreams: burning a mortgage on her parents' 604-acre farm; an operation for her mother, Mrs. Ivan Pollock, and a college education for herself. She hopes to become a secretary of an airline stewardess.

Hercey, adjudged best Hereford junior yearling and named top Hereford in the junior class last week, won the grand championship over an original field of more than 1,000 top steers.

The reserve grand champion, P. S. Maximilian, an Aberdeen Angus, was fitted for the show by Prof. Herman Purdy who is in charge of beef cattle at Penn State.

Daily Crude Flow Rises

TULSA (AP)—Daily average domestic oil production increased for the fifth week in a row—up 17,355 to 6,992,485 barrels—during the week ended Nov. 26, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Oklahoma had a net gain of 15,500 barrels to 515,600.

The Journal estimated 1960 production at 2,329,917,700 barrels compared to 2,323,420,600 a year ago.

Arkansas was up 100 to 74,650 and Louisiana up 75 to 1,099,950. Production was unchanged in Texas, 2,460,200 barrels and in New Mexico, 296,700.

Mobil Offers Its Workers Increase

BEAUMONT (AP)—The Mobil Oil Co. offered its 2,006 union-represented employees a 5 per cent wage increase Monday. The proposal represents an average increase of 13 to 14 cents an hour.

Cecil Clark, chairman of the bargaining committee for the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union, said the policy established by his union specified that wage increases must be not less than 18 cents an hour in order to be accepted by the international.

Junior Editors Quiz on SPORTS

QUESTION: How long have boxing gloves been used?

ANSWER: Man's first weapon was his fist. But using them in a sport of skill didn't come about until civilizations were developed. Among the earliest records of boxing events are those of the Egyptians. These showed that man boxed as a sport more than 5,000 years ago. This changed from a contest of skill and endurance to a cruel and bloody spectacle about 800 B.C. Young Athenians beat each other as severely as they could with bare fists. Then the fighters were outfitted with spiked gloves and fought death battles. During the time of the Roman empire, fighters wore smooth hard leather gloves, but still fought to the finish. In modern times, the padded glove was used from about 1872 on.

FOR YOU TO DO: In 1865, the first rules for modern boxing were set down. They were called the Queensbury rules. See what you can learn about the Marquis of Queensbury who wrote them.

Television Locked In Fierce Combat

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—While the tinkling of the bells of the sidewalk Santas rings across the land and the Christmas spirit of peace is abroad in the world, television land is locked in fierce combat—more violent than ever before.

In the good old days—well, until fairly recently—the Columbia Broadcasting Company and the National Broadcasting Company battled in gentlemanly fashion for audiences, ratings and sponsors' coin. The smaller, poorer American Broadcasting Company had to be content with the leftovers.

Now, however, tough, ambitious hard-fighting ABC has shoved and pushed itself into the competition. Currently it is right up with the big two in the favor of the audiences.

None of this has made CBS and NBC very happy—audience ratings now reflect a three-way split and often these days they are on the short end of the polls. The two established networks have had a tendency to regard the upstart ABC in much the way old established social leaders regard the activities of a pushy, new-rich family, particularly since ABC has made no bones about its uncomplicated interest in getting big audiences. It has done it, largely by scheduling action and adventure in massive doses and—until very recently—taken little time for the so-called "finer things" of TV—public information shows and many specials.

ABC seems particularly to have thrown a scare into NBC. Recently Robert Sarnoff, president of the network, was so irked by ABC and its claims he took a specific slap at the rival, in the course of a public speech to executives of stations affiliated with the network. He complained about ABC's concentrated programming and called it a "narrow-gauge network."

Intra-television competition should be healthy rivalry and produce better programs for the viewing public. Unfortunately, this one—particularly if it becomes a struggle for financial survival—may have just the opposite effect. If ABC's formula of entertainment shows with lots of Westerns and private eyes, continues to attract increasingly large audiences and sponsors, both CBS and NBC may be forced to join it if they can't beat it with all their fine—and expensive—public affairs shows and specials.

Nobel Winner Takes Bride

BERKELEY, CALIF. (AP)—When Dr. Donald Glaser, 34, of the University of California was named Nobel Prize winner in physics Nov. 3, he said, "I guess I should settle down, find a good woman and marry her."

Today, 26 days later, the discoverer of the "bubble" chamber is honeymooning with the pert, honey-blond mathematician major he met while perfecting his award-winning project to photograph atomic particles. Married Floyd C. Talbot of the Berkeley-Albany municipal court married Dr. Glaser and Ruth Louise Thompson, 23, in a private civil ceremony Monday.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Henry Thompson of San Francisco. Thompson is a vice president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. Thursday the couple will fly to Europe where Dr. Glaser will receive his $43,825 Nobel award from the King of Sweden at Stockholm.

Skelton Says GOP Acts Ridiculous

TEMPLE, AP—Byron Skelton, Democratic national committee man, asserted today that Texas Republicans are making themselves ridiculous with misrepresentations about voting frauds.

"Never in the history of our state have the people of Texas seen such poor losers as the Republicans have shown themselves to be in this election," he said. "Every day for the last three weeks they have made charge after charge and claim after claim about fraudulent voting and illegal vote counting, but to this day they haven't produced a single fraudulent vote or a dishonest election official. It's the worst case of sour grapes we have ever witnessed."

Demonstrations Feared In Ceylon

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—A state of emergency may be declared in western Ceylon Wednesday to prevent possible Roman Catholic demonstrations, a reliable source said today.

A new law transferring control of private schools to the state goes into effect Thursday and government officials fear violent demonstrations by Catholics, the source said.

French sources said today. The incident occurred Sunday night near the village of M'Raou, which lies between the Tunisian frontier and an electrified wire barrier the French have erected against Tunisian-based rebels. French artillery killed about ten rebels, the report said. The kidnapped Moslems apparently were taken into Tunisia.

The 1960-61 edition of the Snyder Tiger basketball team, originally slated to taste its first action of the season here tonight against Abilene, will not hit the competitive floor until Friday, when Brownfield will furnish the opposition in Brownfield that night.

The Abilene clash was called off due to lack of time for preparations following the ending of the football season, reports cage coach J. P. Ward. Half the 12-man squad was tied up with grid play and only this past weekend donned basketball togs.

Following the Brownwood meeting the Tigers will see action at Big Spring and Yum & Lubbock before returning home for their December 13 home opener against San Angelo.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Thoroughbred Racing Associations, Inc., a group which makes up a majority of the nation's major horse racing tracks, was shaken to its foundations today by the withdrawal of five track groups.

It was the culmination of a long-standing feud with Spencer J. Drayton, TRA executive vice president.

However, the TRA in its 1962 annual convention here issued a statement indicating that it would enter a clear road ahead, following its code of standards in spite of the withdrawal Monday of the New York State Park in New York, Hialeah in Florida, and three Chicago tracks, Arlington and Washington parks, and Baltimore which

College football's bowl-bound seniors, deservedly resting their laurels, today were concentrating on getting their wounded warriors into shape for the post-season classics before resuming full-scale workouts.

Duke's Atlantic Coast Conference champions, who meet Kansas' Southwest Conference finalists in the Jan. 2 Cotton Bowl, were the lone exception as head coaches of the 15 of teams headed for major bowl rewarded their players with

When football fans all over Texas tune in to the broadcasts of the AAAA and AAA quarter-final high school football games this weekend they'll probably recognize the announcers.

One will be Kern Tips, one of the nation's top sportscasters, reporting the action in his own inimitable style.

Listeners will no doubt be familiar with the voices of some of the other announcers, too—Alec Chesser of Houston, Ves Box and Eddie Barker of Dallas, Bob Walker of Baytown, John Phelan of El Paso, and Jack Dale of Lubbock.

All of these sportscasters, well-known for their broadcasts of Southwest Conference games, are members of the Humble Company's football announcing staff. And this year Humble has purchased exclusive rights for the play-offs of the two top high school leagues from the quarter finals
