REPRESENTATIVE FISH OFFERS TO SEND HOUSE SUBCOMMITEE TO MEXICO FOR INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (AP)—The statement that Communists are using the United States as headquarters for distributing propaganda throughout the western hemisphere was made today by Representative Fish, Republican, New York, in offering to send a subcommittee of the house Communist investigating committee to Mexico.

Mr. Fish, chairman of the investigating committee, said he had offered to conduct an inquiry in Mexico to determine the extent of Communist activity directed against that country from the United States.

Communists Admitted

Meanwhile, there were indications today the house committee membership was inclined to regard the state department as lax in its examination of aliens entering this country. Some members were reported to feel concerned that the department is permitting entry of some avowed Communists.

Representative Fish said he believed there were at least 1,000 avowed Communists in this country under permits of six months. He said many of them were in the employ of Amtorg, Russian trading corporation, and other Russian firms.

He estimated that 70 per cent of the Communists are aliens and the number of Communists and those sympathetic to Communism in this country totaled between 300,000 and 400,000.

TWO NEW AIR SPEED MARKS ESTABLISHED

BUCK HOLDS JUNIOR TITLE BOTH DIRECTIONS

Mrs. Miller and Elinor Smith Ready to Attack New Mark

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. (AP)—Two new transcontinental air speed marks were established today, one by a boy of 16 and the other by a young woman who already held records for barrel rolling and looping.

The first in was Miss Laura Ingalls, who landed at Roosevelt field with a flying time of 25 hours and 35 minutes from Los Angeles. A little later Robert Buck dropped down at the Newark airport after 23 hours and 47 minutes in the air since leaving Los Angeles.

Buck beat the junior record made recently by Eddie Schneider. Miss Ingalls didn't beat any record because no woman had ever made an officially recorded flight from the west coast before, but she established a mark for other women to shoot at.

Holds Both Records

Buck brought back with him the junior record for both west and east directions and Miss Ingals would have had two records too, if she had not had such keen competition.

She flew out in 30 hours and 27 minutes, but before she had time to turn around and start back, Mrs. Keith Miller cut the record to 25 hours and 44 minutes.

Tomorrow both Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Elinor Smith were scheduled to take off from Los Angeles in assault on the Ingalls eastward time, but Miss Smith had to postpone her try until late next week to permit her to keep an appointment here Monday and she left for New York today. If the Keith and Smith attempts fail Miss Ingalls will still have not only the west-east record but also the record for the fastest time made by a woman in either direction.

Both the junior and woman's records are being computed on flying time basis and not, as is done in the open record, on elapsed time. The Ingalls and Buck elapsed times are considerably more than the flying times since both fliers stayed overnight on the way to Columbus.

Says No Woman At Capital Ever Influenced Vote

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (UP)—Whisperings concerning secret political influence of women in Washington were called into the open today for flat denial by Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson, the former Countess Gizycka.

Writing under the heading "No Pompadour," in the Washington Herald, of which she is editor, Mrs. Patterson said, "The truth is that no femme of Washington has ever changed a vote.

"One great senator did gallantly sacrifice the sweeping wings of his moustache to please a lady.

"Another, a sturdy old oak of a man, changed the cut of his high waisted coat. Still a third consented to freshen his magnificent mane with an occasional application of warm suds and water.

"But when it comes down to business the homeliest female constituent back home has more political influence than the loveliest lady who ever reclined upon a Washington sofa."

Had Restrained Wrong Half of Chicago Family

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. (UP)—Judge Harry A. Lewis listened sympathetically while Mrs. Winifred Fisher and her sister, Mrs. Alice Labee, told him how cruel Mrs. Fisher's husband had been to her.

When they had finished, Lewis issued an order restraining Fisher, who was not present, from molesting his wife pending outcome of her divorce suit.

As the sisters left the court, Fisher appeared in the doorway.

"Take off your hat when you meet a lady," ordered Mrs. Fisher, emphasizing her remark by slapping her husband with such force his derby was lifted off his head and landed 10 yards away. A bailiff who interfered received as lusty a slap from Mrs. Labee. The judge called both women back into the courtroom.

"I don't think the restraining order against your husband is necessary," he told Mrs. Fisher. "It is dissolved. In its place, I'll issue one against you.

"And you, Mrs. Labee, can go to jail for six months for contempt of court."

New Republic Rising Above Ashes of Rebellion Seen By Chiang Kai-Shek

AMBITIOUS PROGRAM OF REFORM ANNOUNCED

Eradication of Communism And Banditry First Step Mentioned

NANKING, Oct. 18. (AP)—A new China, united and strengthened, rising above the ashes of rebellion and anarchy, is envisioned by President Chiang Kai-Shek, who announced plans today for the republic.

With the northern revolt apparently crushed and a punitive army sent into the south central provinces to subdue Communist hordes who took advantage of the northern defection to pillage undefended cities, president Chiang expects a unified, chastened China to emerge and effect rehabilitation along the following lines:

First, eradication of Communism and banditry; second, rehabilitation of national finances; third, creation of efficient, honest governmental administration; fourth, achievement of industrial development; fifth, development of national and local autonomy, thereby paving the way for true democracy.

GIANT DORNIER PLANE TO BEGIN FLIGHT ACROSS ATLANTIC IN NOVEMBER

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 18. (AP)—The giant Dornier plane, DO-X, will begin its flight across the Atlantic to New York early in November, the Dornier works announced today. The exact time has not been set and is dependent upon weather conditions, but Nov. 3 has been fixed by the German postal authorities as the last day for mailing post cards and letters to America for transportation aboard the plane.

It was planned to carry out one or two trial flights over Lake Constance and then fly directly to Amsterdam, thence to Lisbon, Portugal, from where the westward flight of the Atlantic will start. From Lisbon the plane will go to the Azores and Bermuda, hopping from there to New York.

There will be no passengers aside from newspaper representatives. Maurice Dornier, director of the company, will be aboard, but his brother, Claudius Dornier, the inventor, will remain on this side.

A preliminary flight to Zurich, planned for today, had to be abandoned because of the fog.

STAGE INDIAN POW-WOW ON PAWNEE BILL'S RANCH

PAWNEE, Okla., Oct. 18. (AP)—Stirring times of the old West were re-enacted today at the old town trading post of Maj. Gordon W. (Pawnee Bill) Lillie, two miles west of Pawnee, where an Indian powwow is in progress.

The event will close tomorrow.

FIGHTING PARSON OF OKLAHOMA JAILED FOR INTOXICATED DRIVING

LAWTON, Okla., Oct. 18.—C. L. Thoroughman, former federal dry agent here, who gained wide notoriety as Oklahoma's "fighting parson" was in jail here Saturday night charged with driving while intoxicated.

Thoroughman was arrested by Lawton police early Saturday morning after his car had crashed into a truck. A small quantity of liquor was found in his possession, officers claimed.

The accused former dry agent minister of the gospel, who has more than a statewide reputation as a law enforcement officer, was arrested last spring by federal officers after he had left the service and was charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibitory laws. He is scheduled to go to trial on the charge in federal court here Wednesday. The case attracted state-wide attention on account of Thoroughman's prominence as a minister and an enforcement officer.

REICHSTAG GIVES BRUENING CABINET CONFIDENCE VOTE

Twelve Motions Condemning Government Blocked By Imposing Vote

SOCIAL DEMOS VOTE AT CRUCIAL MOMENT

Government Motion to Adjourn Until December 3 Carries

BERLIN, Oct. 18. (AP)—The coalition government of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, blocking no less than 12 motions condemning it or its individual ministers, tonight received an imposing vote of confidence from the reichstag during a tumultuous session.

The vote was 318 to 236, a margin of 82 votes, which was at least twice as large as the government's most hopeful supporters had dared to prophesy.

The victory, however, was not immediately complete. Despite the government's desire for immediate adjournment until Dec. 3, the Fascists, Nationalists and Communists successfully brought in a motion for the reichstag to reconvene after midnight to discuss amnesty for political offenders.

After this motion had been dis-

WINTER BRINGS HARDSHIPS TO MANY JOBLESS

SNOW CLOAKS SEVERAL OF NORTHERN STATES

(By The Associated Press)

Winter's advance guard brought hardship to the ranks of the unemployed and a contrasted joyous atmosphere to the national football ensemble in the United States yesterday.

With snow cloaking many northern states and the cold penetrating far southward, even jails were thrown open to homeless persons. Many were turned away from havens of refuge.

A charitable institution at Pittsburgh, Pa., sheltered 1,000 destitute men and women. Several score could not be admitted to the Cook county jail at Chicago which gave lodging to 138 persons driven from the streets by the first freeze this autumn. The Salvation Army at Chicago cared for 800.

The other side of the picture showed overcrowded rooters estimated to total more than two and one-half millions witnessing gridiron clashes made restful by nipping football weather.

LITTLE CREDENCE GIVEN STORY INVOLVING TEXAS WOMAN AS WANT AD BRIDE

MIDLAND, Texas, Oct. 18. (UP)—Little credence was given here tonight to the story remotely involving Mrs. L. E. Remington in the list of "want ad brides" of George "Jiggs" Perry, whom Wisconsin authorities seek as an alleged bigamist.

A man giving the name of George C. Adams is under arrest at Harrison, Ark., in connection with the search.

Mrs. Remington was quoted as saying she married a man by the name of Adams who resembled a picture of Perry she had seen in newspapers.

CHAUFFEUR-BOOTLEGGER MAKES USE BOSS' CAR

According to rangers, he was making his sales to students of the University of Texas.

SAN ANTONIO SOLDIER MAKES STATEMENT CLEARING MYSTERY PROMISED $500 TO SLAY VICTIM

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 18. (AP)—Lexie Jones, 38, private with a service company, ninth infantry, Fort Sam Houston, was held on a technical charge of murder here tonight in connection with the ax slaying of Daniel Henry Uhr, 50, last night. A woman and another private in Jones' company also were arrested.

Uhr, a paralytic, was killed as he slept in his home in San Antonio last night. His head had been split open, and a bloody ax was found in a vacant lot two blocks from the scene of the crime.

In a statement to officers, Jones said he was asked by a man about six months ago if he would consider killing a man for $500. Later he went to a house where "an old lady with glasses" asked him if he would consider the previous proposition made him about "killing a man."

Friday afternoon, the statement said, Jones went to the house where he "talked with the old man on the bed." Then he went into the back yard and cleaned it up and there was shown "the way to get out when it was dark."

Subsequently, according to the statement, Jones went to his quarters, but returned to the house about 11:30 p. m., found the screen door open, and entered. Later he was given $1 and told the number of a taxicab stand to call. He left

Policemen Help With Stalled Car Had Been Stolen

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. (UP)—Policeman James Crowley and Timothy Dunn, who boast they are good officers because they help people in distress, saw eight negro boys trying to start a stalled automobile. The officers took off their coats, rolled up their sleeves and went to work. They pushed and they pulled, and they cranked for two hours and then they said unkind things about it but the car wouldn't start.

As they started on the third hour their sergeant, Martin Keenan, drove by in a squad car. Noticing the perspiring condition of his two officers, he stopped, but not to help.

"Where'd you get this car?" he demanded sharply of one of the negro boys.

Police Plan to Release Suspect Arrested on Slender Clue

DENVER, Oct. 18. (AP)—An autopsy which police hoped would shed some light on the manner in which 10-year-old Leona O'Loughlin met her death, failed to disclose definite findings and only added to the mystery which tonight surrounded one of the most baffling murders ever to occur here.

Adding complications to the case was illness of the child's father, City Detective Leo O'Loughlin, in a hospital with ptomaine poisoning, and his wife, Mrs. Pearl O'Loughlin, was in a state of collapse.

A bloody towel was one of the few clues possessed by police but what connection it had with the murder was not disclosed.

Two Well Defined Ideas Develop Oklahoma City Proration Hearing Damage to Well Principal Issue

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 18. (AP)—Two well defined schools of thought on whether it is best for a prorated oil well to be shut in entirely for a period, or allowed to flow a small percentage of its total all the time, have developed in the proration hearing before the state corporation commission.

Until the first proration order to cover the Oklahoma City field was made about a year ago, the state commission had prorated in no manner except a percentage of the total flow. A group of operators led by the late Tom Slick fought for the time method.

Under this method, all wells, big or small, are allowed to flow eight hours of each 12 days, which is 2.78 per cent.

Seminole pool wells are allowed to flow a certain percentage of their maximum, by holding them down by back pressure or otherwise.

The damage, if any, each method does to a well, has become a major issue in the attack on proration in progress before the commission. Since Friday of last week, the commission has been hearing testimony, and there is little promise that the entire matter will be closed before late next week.

Early Fall Sends Men to Stores for Suitable Apparel for Weather Change

Stop cheating the horses. Give Dobbin his hay. It's time to buy a hat. Visits to a number of stores this week indicate that many have taken our advice even before we gave it. We never saw so many men standing before mirrors. "Many more men than last year have let it go to their heads," said a merchant yesterday, speaking of fall hats.

In the clothing department attendance is good, too. The early autumn has helped bring that around. A coolish zephyr getting through one's loose summer knit is persuasive. Or maybe it's because fabric for fabric and make for make suits cost less than a year ago. In any case men are buying suits, hats and furnishings, taking advantage of the lower range of prices while the assortment is complete.

Youth Injured When Struck by Automobile on Holliday Street Remains in Critical Condition

H. A. Clark, Jr., 10-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Clark, 2224 Yale avenue, remained in a critical condition at the Wichita General hospital Saturday night as the result of injuries received when struck by an automobile driven by J. E. Warren, 3206 Holliday street in the 2200 block on Holliday about noon Saturday.

Hopes were held, however, according to hospital authorities, that the boy's leg will be saved in the event of his survival. The leg was badly mangled in the accident.

Mrs. Clark also was still in the hospital following a nervous collapse when advised of the injuries to her son. Mrs. Clark was near when the accident occured. Her condition is not serious.

Mr. Warren, in a statement to Wayne Somerville, county attorney, soon after the accident, asserted that the boy was struck when he suddenly appeared from between parked cars.

Earl Brooks and J. H. Pogue, city motorcycle officers who investigated, said that the boy apparently was pinched between Mr. Warren's moving car and a machine parked at the curb. Mr. Warren reported that he crashed into a parked car when he swerved in an effort to avoid striking the boy.

Willard Mack Story 'Kick In' to Open Little Theater Season Here Three Nights Starting October 27

By MRS. EWING WATKINS

When Willard Mack wrote "Kick In," in the mystery-drama which is to open the Little Theater's 1930-31 season on Oct. 27, he made a character that a few years later "came home" right here in Wichita Falls.

Mack may not have known W. D. Bent of Burkburnett, but he nevertheless created a role for the swarthy basso when he made for this play Whip Fogarty, the toughest, meanest man on the Chicago police force. "Jew" Bent swaggers his way through the underworld as Whip, the man with the whole law behind him. It is generally conceded that officers of the law are only interested in criminals, but Whip's highest ambition appears to be the framing of two people for whom he has conceived a personal dislike.

Jerry Moffett and Francis Ann Saunders play the roles of Chick and Molly Hewes, victims of Fogarty's venom, and babes in the woods who really are trying to go straight. Believing, like most of the world does, that all people at some time tell the truth, the aspiring couple are painfully deluded when the lion changes to fox. One of the highlights of the play's prolific action results, with Whip and Chick staging a battle royal sans Queensbury rules. All of which brings out another demonstration of the fact that the female of the Hewes family proves more resourceful than the male, the redoubtable Whip succumbing quietly under one feminine touch.

Since the vogue for underworld plays developed, there has been an extensive search for men to play that ever-present element, the dope fiend. Casting directors have been stumped numerously to find the right person. Those seeing "Kick In" will find in Lloyd Wyatt an unusually adequate fulfillment of the role's peculiar demands. His "Charlie Cary" is a very real hophead, up to the furtive eyes and the itching nose. The maniacal courage when cornered, and the succeeding realization that bottled stamina fades before the real thing, lead with telling dramatic effect to the familiar cry for his needle.

Counteracting dope fiends and gun men, in "Kick In," will be the entirely likable character of Mother Halloran, to be played by Mrs. A. D. Duck, complemented by that of her pert young flapper daughter, Daisy, to be impersonated by Mrs. C. A. Spragins Jr. Mrs. Duck will be remembered for an outstanding performance in "Dulcy," and will bring to the current role a personality and capacity for humor to make Mother Halloran an appealing boarding house matron. Aside from doing numerous other things in providing realistic atmosphere, Daisy will chew gum. In fact, it becomes a toss-up whether Daisy's full-swinging action on her gum or Police Commissioner Garvey really is the center of interest in the police court scene.

"Kick In" will be given for three nights, beginning Oct. 27.

MURRAY CAMPAIGNS HOPING TO OBTAIN 100,000 MAJORITY

CHECOTAH, Okla., Oct. 18. (UP)—"I am not campaigning for governor but for a 100,000 majority," William H. Murray told eastern Oklahoma audiences today.

"Everyone knows I will be elected," the "Sage of Tishomingo" said.

Murray addressed voters here today. A large crowd that filled the high school auditorium at Wagoner heard him last night.

In discussing state expenditures and reduction of taxes, Murray pointed out the state owns 800 automobiles.

"This, in my opinion, is 600 too many. Of course, when I become governor, I cannot sell these excess 600 cars and abolish jobs of the drivers. It would take a legislative act to sell state property. However, I can veto the appropriation for gasoline to operate these cars and the salary of the drivers so that if they continue to operate them, they will have to do so without salary and will have to buy their own gasoline.

"If I am going to reduce expenditures this way, I must have one house of the legislature that will stay with me, for the appropriations can be passed over my veto by two-thirds vote of both houses," Murray said.

'NO TRUE BILL' REPORT CASE AIRPLANE CRASH IN WHICH NINE KILLED

FAYETTEVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 18. (AP)—Investigation of an airplane crash here last April 27 that caused the death of nine persons has ended with the grand jury returning a "no true bill."

Milton P. Covert, pilot of the plane and Al Gombert, his manager, were held for the grand jury on second degree murder charges last May after a preliminary hearing before a magistrate. Officials today expressed the opinion that the grand jury's action had closed the investigation.

The plane crashed into a crowd watching a stunting exhibition under the auspices of the American Legion. Covert and Gombert said the accident was unavoidable.

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. (AP)—On request of the Polyclinic hospital, which no longer wished to care for Jack "Legs" Diamond, wounded gangster, police arranged today to transfer him to the city hospital on Welfare island in the East river.

Officials of Polyclinic had complained other patients were disturbed by the fact the gangster was in the building, which was carefully guarded by uniformed police and detectives to prevent any attempt by the gangster's enemies to attack him a second time.

JUDGE CRUMP VICTOR IN ELECTION CONTEST FROM SEMINOLE, OKLA.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 18. (UP)—Judge George C. Crump, veteran jurist of the Hughes-Seminole county district, was victor today in an important supreme court decision in connection with his contest with Joseph C. Looney, his youthful opponent in the district judgeship.

The Oklahoma supreme court denied Looney's application for a writ of prohibition restraining the Seminole county election board from making a recount of votes cast in the district judgeship run-off primary.

First returns in Seminole and Hughes counties showed Looney the winner over Crump by 16 votes. Looney sought to restrain the board from making the recount after Crump filed a petition requesting the recount.

SUGAR PLANTERS READY TO COOPERATE IN PLAN SEGREGATE CARRYOVER

HAVANA, Oct. 18. (AP)—Indications of the willingness of sugar planters to cooperate with the Thomas L. Chadbourne plan of segregating the 1929-30 carryover was contained in a report today that 1,324,311 tons of the 1,500,000 tons goal already has been contributed.

This leaves less than 75,000 tons of the estimated carryover to be retired from the immediate market in an attempt to bring sugar prices back to normal.

It Couldn't Err

"Do you know, my dear," said the young husband, "there's something wrong with that cake. It doesn't taste right."

"That's all your imagination," answered the bride, triumphantly, "for it says in my new cook book that it's delicious."—The Humorist.

These officers, a chairman, secretary and two council members from each room, direct the activity of their classmates in the various projects of the Red Cross.

Christmas boxes, to be packed and sent to foreign lands, were planned by the children. These have been sent every year.

County Red Cross News

The juniors of Crockett school have completed their membership week. The rooms have filled their 18 Christmas boxes that go as messengers of friendship to children in other countries. These boxes will be sent to the national office and shipped with the boxes from all over the United States to foreign lands.

The Junior Business girls will meet at the Y. W. C. A. Monday night at 6 o'clock for the second meeting of their meal-planning served at this meeting is a buffet supper. Ease and simplicity of preparation as well as economy in purchasing the foods is considered. The buffet supper offers a way of serving a large group at a minimum of effort without maid service.

The Sam Houston Pre-School Study club met at the home of Mrs. Robert Mathis, 3005 Cumberland for its first meeting Tuesday. Mrs. H. G. Parker was appointed program chairman. The work this year will take up subjects dealing with all phases of child-training. Each program will be in two sections. At the first meeting the subject will be discussed by someone who has made much study on the subject. The second meeting will be a round table discussion applying the work from the previous meeting.

The class held each month for the directors of the cafeterias in the public schools met at Reagan school Tuesday afternoon. Demonstrations of vegetable cookery were made. The fact that vegetables as a rule are overcooked and that this is emphasized when the food stands on a cafeteria steam table was the problem that the directors attacked at this meeting.

Nineteen children were given physical and dental examinations at the autumn round-up held by the P.-T. A. at Alamo school Thursday. Drs. F. R. Collard, J. A. Johnson, and S. P. Crain gave the physical and dental examinations.

The fall pre-school conference for children who had been examined in the spring was held at Crockett school Friday afternoon. The dental examinations were made by Dr. G. P. Raborn and the physical examinations by Drs. A. F. Leach and Wallace J. Masters.

Supplies for the annual roll call held between Armistice day and Thanksgiving are being sent to the various chapters and branches. The local office has received the supplies for Wichita county.

Simmering the rules of vegetable cookery down to a few and those few simple as stated in "Whys and Hows of Cooking" by Halliday and Noble of the University of Chicago, they run something like this:

Put all vegetables on to cook in boiling water. Cook all vegetables of the strong flavored varieties such as cabbage, onions, and turnips in a great deal of water and uncovered. The rest are cooked in as little as possible and covered. The secret of vegetable cookery is to preserve the flavor, the color and the nutrients.

Director of Prohibition Woodcock Says Force Pitifully Inadequate To Cope With Present Conditions

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (AP)—Amos W. Woodcock, director of prohibition, said today upon his return from a visit to Chicago and nearby points that he had found the prohibition forces pitifully inadequate to cope with conditions.

"I was impressed with the smallness of our force," he said. "This army of ours is pitifully small."

Woodcock recently announced he would ask congress to increase the prohibition enforcement force by 500.

The director praised police of Chicago and throughout Wisconsin for cooperation with the prohibition agents.

He said police cooperation in Chicago ranked with the best anywhere.

Pleased With Wisconsin

"I am very well pleased with Wisconsin where I found conditions unusually good," he went on, saying Milwaukee police helped prohibition agents in every possible way.

The director said the prohibition bureau was functioning better than ever before.

"Chicago is just as good as any other city," he also remarked. "It is just as quiet a city as Baltimore.

"Giving a perfectly unbiased opinion, I found Chicago as quiet and as law abiding as any city.

"I walked down the streets of Chicago and I wasn't shot at."

Smiling as he talked, Woodcock said undoubtedly there were racketeers and gangsters operating in Chicago as in other large cities, but emphasized again that he found conditions there were no worse than elsewhere.

Without Authority

The director also said he knew nothing of the announced plan of Prohibition Administrator McCampbell of New York to have sacramental wine dispensed under permit. He said the matter had not been brought to his attention, but expressed the belief that McCampbell did not have the authority to put such a plan into effect.

Referring to stories from Madison, Wis., that he had advocated establishment of scholarships in prohibition, he said he had expressed the opinion that economic departments of big universities have students who must write stories make surveys of prohibition in their neighborhoods. He added he had offered to put the statistics of the bureau at the service of the universities.

His desire, he said, was to tie up the bureau's division of research to the department of economics of universities to encourage students to make surveys. He said the suggestion had been discussed with three colleges but had gone no further.

Another was sentenced to life imprisonment, five more received terms ranging from 5 to 15 years, and the cases against the remaining two were dismissed.

The women, between the ages of 55 and 70, were the last of a group of 32 tried this year on the same charges.

DIRECTOR'S DEATH ENDS BERLIN RADIO CONCERT

BERLIN, Oct. 18. (AP)—Death called the turn in a radio broadcasting room at midnight last night and stilled a concert program featuring Director Julius Einoedshofer, widely known for his interpretations of martial music.

Einoedshofer had just tapped for silence and was lifting his baton when he collapsed of a heart seizure. Fellow musicians carried his body out of the room as the clock struck 12.

WOODCOCK RECALLS PROPOSED DRY LAW POLL OF EDITORS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (UP)—A questionnaire sent 3,000 newspaper editors in an effort to obtain their opinion of national prohibition was recalled late today by Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock, who said he feared the purpose of the inquiry might be misunderstood.

In sending the questionnaire this week, the prohibition bureau said it was planned to embody the results of the newspaper poll in a forthcoming pamphlet.

Woodcock, however, today vetoed the plan after a conference at the justice department.

Letters are being sent each of the newspaper editors who received the questionnaire directing them to disregard it. Woodcock said this action was taken entirely on his own initiative after he had considered the matter further.

"I think we made a mistake in sending out this questionnaire," he said. "I am afraid that its purpose may be misunderstood and the easiest way out, therefore, is to recall it."

This was the first time a federal agency had attempted to poll sentiment on prohibition, and wide curiosity was aroused as to its purpose. It came at a time when the president's law enforcement commission was deep in its effort to frame a report on prohibition, though the commission denied the poll was being taken for its use.

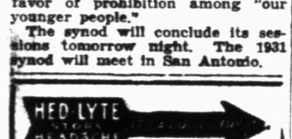

SYNOD CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OPPOSES DRY REPEAL

CORSICANA, Texas, Oct. 18. (AP)—The Texas synod of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, in session here, went on record unanimously today as unalterably opposed to any move to modify the 18th amendment and pledged itself to wage a continuous battle against any such plan.

The resolution put the synod on record "to do all within our power to bring about a full enforcement of our present laws on this subject."

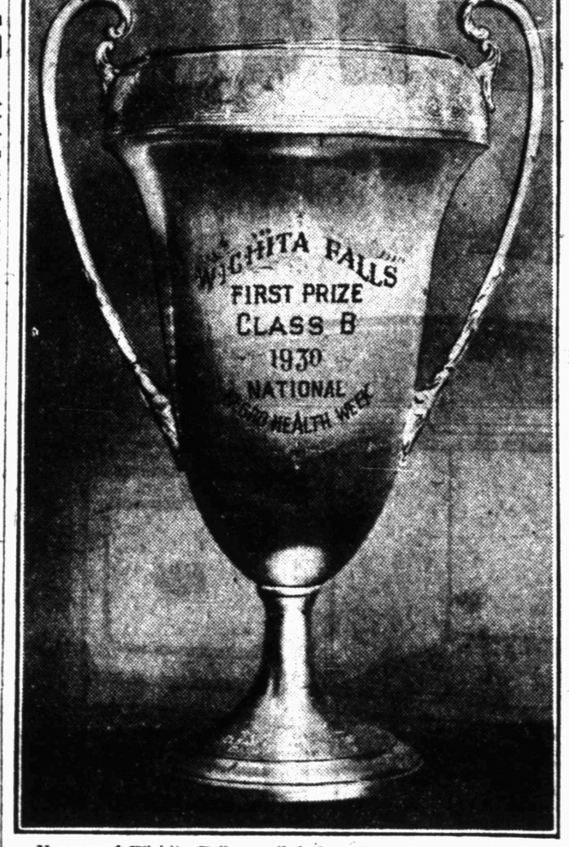

"Efforts are being made by powerful forces to gradually modify and finally destroy the 18th amendment and ultimately revive the open sale of alcohol and vinous spirits," the expression said. It charged that propaganda was being used to destroy sentiment in favor of prohibition among "our younger people."

The synod will conclude its sessions tomorrow night. The 1931 synod will meet in San Antonio.

SOUTHERN GOVERNORS FAIL TO EXPRESS VIEWS ON COTTON LEGISLATION

AUSTIN, Oct. 18. (AP)—Governors of southern states with whom Gov. Dan Moody has communicated regarding a conference to discuss cotton acreage reduction in every instance failed to express their views on legislation as a means of reducing acreage.

The governor noted this fact today when the request of the Texas Cotton Cooperative association for a special session of the legislature for farm relief was called to his attention. That was his only comment on the cooperative's request.

All governors who have responded to Governor Moody's query have expressed willingness to attend a reduction conference, he said.

JAPANESE RATIFICATION ABOARD SHIP LEVIATHAN

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. (AP)—The documents which are Japan's ratification of the London naval treaty were taken aboard the Leviathan before she sailed tonight by Lieut. Irving Woodring, who brought them here from Vancouver, B. C., by airplane.

Lieut. William W. Caldwell, who started the flight with Woodring, was killed when he crashed in the Wyoming mountains during a blizzard.

The ratification was given to Pierre Boal, of the United States department of state, who will deliver it to the Japanese embassy in London.

LOUISIANA MAYOR HELD FOR SLAYING ON MAIN STREET

ST. JOSEPH, La., Oct. 18. (AP)—Mayor A. B. Ratcliff, of St. Joseph, late today shot and killed Dr. C. W. Melton, prominent Newellton, La., luberman, on the town's main street in what was said to have been a culmination of enmity.

Six bullets the mayor fired into Melton's body caused death instantly. After the shooting Mayor Ratcliff surrendered to the Tensas parish sheriff.

Several days ago the mayor's wife sued him for divorce. Dr. Melton was divorced from his wife not long ago.

Sheriff John Hughes made no statement as to the cause of the killing, but said the case would be presented to the Tensas grand jury Monday.

On surrendering, Mayor Ratcliff asserted Dr. Melton had destroyed his home, and said he would plead the "unwritten law."

FRANCE AND JAPAN GET LASHING FROM CENTRAL OPIUM BOARD OF LEAGUE

GENEVA, Oct. 18. (US)—France and Japan received a lashing today at the hands of the League of Nations' central opium board, which accused the two countries of permitting the illicit international dope trade to flourish with little or no restraint.

The board frankly raised the suspicion that France is an important source in the illicit traffic, and pointed out the many records of dope shipments to and from Marseilles.

The central opium board's report conservatively estimated the world's drug manufacture as five times greater than medicinal requirements, with ton-lot shipments of narcotics reaching forbidden goals through illicit channels.

EAST TEXAS DINNER AT STATE FAIR AT DALLAS

DALLAS, Oct. 18. (UP)—A hundred and fifty East Texans attended the East Texas dinner at the State Fair here tonight sponsored by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce. All food was supplied by the 73 counties comprising that section of the state.

John W. Carpenter, Dallas, was toastmaster, and Frank B. Holland of Dallas welcomed the guests in behalf of this city and the State Fair association. The response was made by Guy Blount, president of the East Texas chamber.

Gov. Dan Moody spoke on opportunities offered in that section of the state. He said no "world" in the western hemisphere had more to offer than East Texas, and described it as a section whose resources had barely been scratched.

Moody wore shoes made from the hide of an East Texas steer, and a suit manufactured from East Texas cotton.

U. S. Senator Tom Connally spoke on "East Texas as a Self-Sustaining Empire."

HUNT BANDIT AT GALVESTON

Robs Aged Woman After Slugging Victim

GALVESTON, Oct. 18. (AP)—Search for a bandit, who bound, gagged and slugged Mrs. Carrie W. Moeller, 74-year-old widow, at her home this morning after forcing her to open her safe from which he took $2,000, was continued tonight. Police worked on a clue which they intimated might lead to an early arrest.

Police believed the robbery was the work of some one who knew that Mrs. Moeller kept a large amount of money in the safe. A suspect was arrested, but was released after Mrs. Moeller failed to identify him. She said she could recognize the man by a deep scar on the left side of his face, which was partly covered by a mask.

Man Neatly Dressed

The man was described as neatly dressed. He apparently had hidden in Mrs. Moeller's home while she was shopping at a nearby store. When she returned the man seized her and pointed a pistol at her, ordering her to open the safe.

Mrs. Moeller was too nervous to work the combination, and the man tried it. After Mrs. Moeller finally succeeded in opening the safe, the bandit took its contents and then bound the woman's hands and feet with two dresses.

When she cried out, the man returned to the room and struck her with his pistol, threw her on the bed and covered her with a mattress.

Mrs. George Klaus, living next door, heard the outcries and saw a young man running from the house. Mrs. Moeller was not seriously injured, but was confined to her bed tonight.

CLEAR UP MYSTERY WHY MISSING 'JUSTICE' SEEN BUT NOT WHERE LOCATED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18. (UP)—The mystery of why Los Angeles police failed to investigate a report that Joseph Force Crater, missing New York justice, had been seen, was cleared up today, but the mystery of the judge's whereabouts became more baffling than ever.

A report that Judge Crater was seen boarding an interurban train for Los Angeles was received from New Pork Beach, but the police stenographer who took it recorded the name as "Joseph Crater, Japanese," instead of "Joseph Crater, justice."

Detective Lieutenant Thompson checked police files, found no record of a Japanese by the name of Crater being missing, and dropped the investigation.

Justice Crater disappeared from New York about the time of an investigation of alleged sales of judgeships. He was believed to have been involved with two chorus girls.

PIONEER TEXAS WOMAN DIES IN CALIFORNIA

MARSHALL, Texas, Oct. 18. (AP)—Mrs. Joe Weisman, 72, formerly of Marshall, died today at her home in Vince, Calif., after an illness of several weeks, relatives here were notified.

Mrs. Weisman, the former Miss Lena Young, was the widow of the late Joe Weisman, founder of the Joe Weisman and company department store here. She was born in New York City in 1858. She came here with her parents in 1873 and in 1881, married Weisman. She had made her home in California for the last 15 years.

MISS ANNE KINSOLVING WEDS WEALTHY BACHELOR

BALTIMORE, Oct. 18. (AP)—Miss Anne Kinsolving, Baltimore debutante-newspaper reporter, today became the bride of John Nicholas Brown, of Providence and Newport, R. I., one of America's richest bachelors.

Twenty traffic policemen held back the crowd in front of old St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal church, where the ceremony was performed by the bride's father, the Rev. Arthur Barksdale Kinsolving.

COMMERCIAL SECRETARIES OPPOSE NON-PAYING MEETS

DALLAS, Oct. 18. (AP)—Texas commercial executives, the executive committee meeting here today decided, will continue their program of discouraging non-paying conventions.

The association has been combatting the practice of conventions seeking financial aid from chambers of commerce when meetings are held in their cities.

The board voted to hold the association's 1931 convention in Houston. President M. E. Melton of Texarkana presided. The state fair of Texas designated Saturday as commercial executives' day, in their honor.

HERE'S THE FIRST PUZZLE IN THE TIMES-RECORD NEWS "SCRAMBLED LETTER CONTEST"

The Times-Record News is conducting, starting today, one of the most absorbing contests ever designed for the entertainment of its readers. To stimulate interest in it, and to make it a profitable as well as an enjoyable pastime for the next few weeks, a grand total of 39 prizes aggregating $100 will be awarded for the winning solutions.

Every other day there will be printed a letter of the alphabet in scrambled form, similar to the "A" above. These scrambled sections, when cut apart and properly assembled, will form the accompanying letter indicated. Each letter will be printed once in The Times and Record News.

This new game is extremely fascinating. It requires a high degree of skill to arrange these apparently simple sections in such forms as to make a perfect capital letter. "Scrambled Letters" has swept the country like a storm. Big business executives have taken it up as a genuine test of their ingenuity. Parties are formed in hundreds of communities to work out the puzzle in interested groups.

Each letter will appear in both papers. Full details about entering the contest are published herewith. Remember, 39 prizes make it well worth your time in matching your wits against this brand new intelligence test.

PRIZES ARE AS FOLLOWS

First prize	$25.00
Second prize	15.00
Third prize	10.00
Fourth prize	5.00
Ten prizes at $2 each	20.00
Twenty-five prizes at $1 each	25.00
Grand total	$100.00

Read These Rules

The Times-Record News Nu-Way alphabet puzzles include the 26 letters of the alphabet. The publication of the various letters of the alphabet will cover a period of several weeks. These letters appearing in the paper are cut into pieces of varying shapes, the object being to place these parts together so they will form the respective letters as illustrated in outline accompanying the pieces.

An outline and its entire parts will be published in the Times and Record News every other day, a different letter of the alphabet being presented. The publication of all letters of the alphabet will cover a period of several weeks.

Anyone who is a resident of Wichita Falls or this section may participate in this profitable fun, except employes of the Times and Record News or their families. You pay nothing to enter. Each letter, as it appears in the Times and Record News may be traced or copied free of charge from the files at the office of this newspaper.

The Times and Record News will pay $100 in cash prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved complete set of puzzles in accordance with the rules. This does not necessarily mean that you have to solve all the puzzles to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank the highest. Neatness, accuracy and simplicity are the prime requisites. Accurate cutting and correct assembling of the pieces to form each respective letter. Entries that are elaborate will receive no more consideration than the simplest ones. Young and old thus have an equal chance to win.

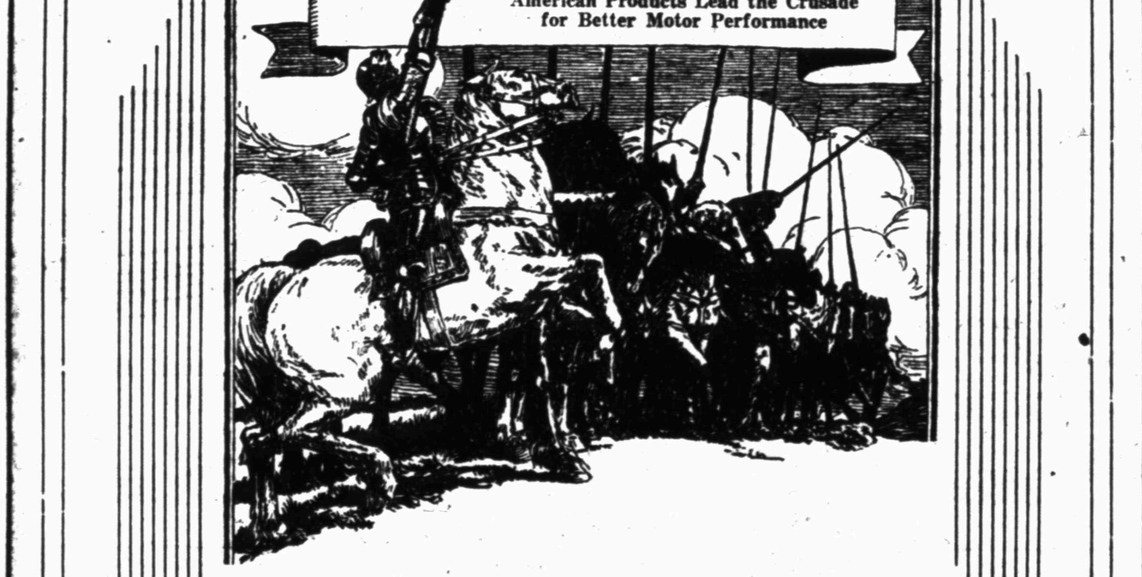

Take the page of the Times or Record News wherein the puzzles are published. Cut the pieces carefully along the outside of the black border and paste these pieces neatly so that you completely cover the letter appearing opposite, and repeat this operation every week with the new letters in the Nu-Way alphabet puzzles published in the Times and Record News until you complete the full alphabet.

Puzzle solutions are to be submitted only in complete sets five days after all letters of the alphabet have been published in the Times and Record News. Do not send in each puzzle separately. When you have the complete set of 26 puzzles, or parts thereof, mail first class, postage prepaid, or bring them to the Times and Record News alphabet puzzle department. All entries must be in by midnight five days after the last puzzle has been published in the Times and Record News. The winners will be announced as soon thereafter as possible. Be sure that mailed entries have name and address of sender and sufficient postage is used.

In addition to your entry, you must send an advertisement of one of the advertisers shown on any of the letters clipped from the Times or Record News during this contest period, and a letter not exceeding 50 words in length telling why you can profitably deal with this concern.

The Times and Record News will appoint judges, and their decision will be final. In the event of a tie for any of the prizes offered, the full amount of the prize tied for will be awarded each tying contestant.

SEMINOLE AREA GIVES PROMISE OF COMEBACK

Deep Rock Producer Nets 842 Barrels in 10-Hour Test

PRODUCTION ADDS TO PIPE LINE PROBLEMS

Empire Company Gets Show of Oil in Deep Test

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 18.—Wewoka field, the original Seminole county area, discovered in 1923, has a chance to come back by Deep Rock Oil corporation's finding 842 barrels in 10 hours at No. 1 Whitworth in section 30-8-8 at 3896 to 3909 feet.

Despite the fact that 60 wells in Oklahoma City have not gotten a pipe line connection and have not produced any oil since they came in, more wells are coming in there day by day and adding to the congestion there and over-production for Oklahoma. British-American Oil Producing company, a subsidiary of the British-American company of Toronto, Canada, brought in its No. 1 Eckroat, in section 10-11-3w, for 851 barrels in 15 minutes and at potential rate of 85,000 barrels a day.

Empire Oil and Refining company's No. 1 Bruce, in section SW of 12-25-20w, in southeastern Harper county, northwestern Oklahoma, had a show of oil and a good show of gas at 7161 to 7173 feet and at 7193 feet drilling stopped to set pipe, standardize and test.

GAS EXPLOSION NOT SABOTAGE

Los Angeles Officials Submit Reports

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18. (AP)—City building inspectors and police returned separate reports today stating they were convinced yesterday's $1,500,000 explosion in the garment capitol building was due to illuminating gas and was without any suspicion of sabotage. Forty-three persons, who suffered cuts, bruises, or burns were recovering.

Three building department officials reported it appeared the explosion resulted from ignited gas. They said no serious damage was suffered by concrete walls and floors in the immediate vicinity of the blast, whereas its outward force was sufficient to hurl steel window frames 200 feet.

Capt. William Hynes of the criminal syndicalism squad, ended investigation of possible Communistic responsibility. This had been under consideration due to recent small strikes of garment workers in the building.

Hynes reported he had been unable to find evidence Communists had been involved. If the explosion had been planned, he said, he was satisfied the motive was other than a radical demonstration.

SHOT TO DEATH WHILE OBEYING ORDERS TO GET OUT OF OPEN MARKET

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 18. (UP)—Harold Smith, 25, was shot in the back and instantly killed here today as he was obeying orders of a night watchman to vacate an open air market, two alleged eyewitnesses told police. The shooting was said to have been without provocation.

Darwin Struckley, 27, companion of the slain man, and George Richter, another watchman, said Smith had entered the market to look for a person who threw a tomato at a car in which he and Struckley were riding. Told he would have to leave by Morris Schiff, night watchman, he turned and walked to the car after saying, "All right, sir, I will." Schiff is then alleged to have fired two shots, one of which lodged in Smith's heart.

SEVENTEEN HOURS BEST TIME ACROSS CONTINENT SAYS WILLIAM G. M'ADOO

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. (INS)—Seventeen hours and 22 minutes is the best time a business man can make in comfortably crossing the continent, William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, established today. He made the trip by plane from Los Angeles to show how quickly the trip could be conducted conveniently.

McAdoo was accompanied by his secretary, who carried a typewriter, correspondence being handled as the plane sailed across the country.

Expect Exciting Dramatic Finish In Air Contest

PORT DARWIN, Northern Territory, Australia, Oct. 18. (AP)—There seemed a prospect tonight of an exciting finish to the dramatic air contest in which Wing Commander Charles Kingsford-Smith and Flight Lieutenant C. W. Hill are racing from England toward Australia.

By a curious twist of fate both were held up tonight on the island of Timor, and it is expected that they may start simultaneously tomorrow morning for the dangerous last lap to Port Darwin over the shark infested Timor sea.

Except for bad luck Lieutenant Hill would have been here today, well ahead of his competitor. In trying to take off from Timor yesterday he damaged his machine and had to wait for repairs.

Meantime Kingsford-Smith, who left England four days behind Hill, overhauled the latter and today swept over Timor in a non-stop run from Sourabaya, Java, to Port Darwin.

Kingsford-Smith encountered headwinds which forced him to return to Timor, however, so it is believed now that the two Australian aviators will make a race of it to this point tomorrow.

Both are trying to beat the record of Bert Hinkler, who flew from England to Australia in 15½ days several years ago. If they reach here by tomorrow noon Hill will have broken the Hinkler record by about a day, while Kingsford-Smith will be about five and a half days ahead of the Hinkler mark.

OKLAHOMAN DROPS DEAD FROM OVER-EXCITEMENT DALLAS FOOTBALL GAME

DALLAS, Oct. 18. (UP)—J. W. Purviance, Norman, Okla., of the Oklahoma state highway department, dropped dead on the street here today as bands from the University of Oklahoma and the University of Texas played overtures to the annual gridiron clash here this afternoon.

His death was attributed to over-excitement.

Purviance was identified by papers and letters in his clothing.

Witnesses said he was standing in an alley near his hotel cheering with other Oklahoma rooters who roared their approval of the Sooner band concert. Suddenly he dropped to the pavement.

He was dead when Dr. E. G. Lyons of the Emergency hospital arrived.

He accompanied the team to Dallas for the game.

He is survived by the widow and a daughter, Mary, 9.

Mrs. Purviance was working in a Norman department store when word of her husband's death was received.

On her retirement two years hence Miss Farrar's wardrobe will include a gingham apron, a trowel and pair of shears, she said.

Young Wichita Falls, as relentless as Mussolini in ruling the city, presents these four heads of its various administrative departments. George Alton Boswell, on the left, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Boswell; Kathryn Ann Fairtrace, center top, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fairtrace; Bobby McBroom, right, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McBroom, and James V. Allred Jr., lower center, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Allred.

By ELEANOR FLEMING

France had its baby Dauphin and Rumania bowed at the feet of 5-year-old King Michael, but they were monarchies. The city of Wichita Falls and the state of Texas, supposedly democratic in government, leave their fate in chubby, dimpled hands that never held a real scepter and their important decisions to downy heads that could not support a crown.

If the city manager's daughter advocates the abolition of traffic lights and the city clerk's son seems to think the city water system is perfectly all right, for instance, what chance has an ordinary citizen to protest on either score?

And if the attorney general's son cuts another tooth, what matter the courts or legislation? Even the chamber of commerce can get along without a boss if a certain young man wants to go to a football game—and so it goes.

George Alton Boswell, 22-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Boswell, has thus far displayed no especial interest in chamber of commerce matters, his chief interests being miniature golf and football. In those respects he carries out the chief desire of his well known father, who says he doesn't care a whoop whether George becomes a doctor, lawyer, merchant or chief, so long as he letters in football at some big university and comes nearer breaking par than his father.

Kathryn Ann Fairtrace, who is nearly six months old, is the only feminist of the nursery administration and, as might be expected, the most radical in her views. Her pet abomination is a red traffic light, which means that her city manager father meets with opposition in his own household on one of his own pet theories.

Objects to Lights

When the Fairtrace automobile stops at a red light, young Miss Fairtrace lets out a most unladylike yowl, and Papa Fairtrace spends a restless minute until the lights change. And considering that Kathryn Ann has already learned how to manage the city manager, there are some who won't be surprised when the traffic light regulation is abolished!

Conservative and affable is Bobby McBroom, the youngest of the three sons of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. McBroom. He has not decided whether or not he will be a city clerk like his father, but has lined up with his dad in his interest in baseball. Although only two and a half years old, he is already a member of his older brothers' baseball team, and is usually on the receiving end of any game, unless used as the ball itself.

His chief enthusiasm, however, is for the perfection of the city water system. As a member of the city administration's second generation, he backs up the city council's policy in not changing anything by letting out a regular 4 a. m. yell for a drink every morning. His father refuses to be questioned about the water situation but admits that he isn't as enthusiastic about furnishing the early morning drink as Bobby is about demanding it.

James V. Allred Jr., whose father was recently nominated by the Democratic party as attorney general for Texas, announced for office last Christmas eve, a few minutes after his birth, and has been lustily campaigning ever since, according to his father. Young Jimmie tries to settle arguments about whether he looks like the Allreds or his grandfather, Claude Miller, by grinning like both sides of the family.

As for the two new teeth he is displaying, they have a purpose, too. "I propose to help my dad if it should turn out that he has bitten off more than he can chew down at Austin," he explained to a reporter.

And if there is any doubt about the power behind the throne, there are four dads who will be glad to explain just how it is!

Bishop Manning Decides Against Unity Communion

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. (AP)—Dr. Peter Ainslee, editor of The Christian Unity Quarterly of Baltimore, in an editorial reprinted from his publication in The Churchman, out today, stated Bishop William T. Manning of the Episcopal diocese of New York had forbidden clergymen of his church to celebrate Holy Communion at a proposed unity service at which ministers of other Protestant denominations were to have taken the sacrament.

The service, according to Dr. Ainslee, was to have taken place in St. Bartholomew's church, New York, at a Unity league conference this fall. The Christian Unity league is made up of Protestant clergymen of all denominations. None but Protestant Episcopalians, the article states, were to have been in the chancel.

A similar incident occurred last November, when Bishop Manning directed Dr. Karl Reiland, rector of St. George's, not to turn his church over to Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin, liberal Presbyterian, for a celebration of the Lord's Supper.

Beyond stating that "several of the most important statements in the article are inaccurate and without any foundation in fact," Bishop Manning declined to comment today.

TRAFFIC POLICEMAN SEES KIDNAPING AND TICKETS VICTIM FOR VIOLATION

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 18. (AP)—Two men jumped into L. M. Debrosse's automobile the other day, drew pistols and forced him to drive them to a lonely spot where they bound him and took his car.

Police caught two suspects after much high pressure detective work.

The only reason for dragging it up today is that Debrosse received a traffic violation ticket. A traffice policeman saw the kidnaping and ticketed Debrosse for taking on passengers in a safety zone.

FLOWER SHOW FOR 1930 TO START OCT. 30

The annual flower show for 1930 will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 30 and 31 and Nov. 1, in the building formerly occupied by a motor company at 1012 Scott avenue, it was announced Saturday.

The show this year will have a feature that will be new. It will be more in line with a carnival, and that spirit will be carried out. There will be various kinds of amusement booths and gaiety will rule supreme, it is declared.

The large building will be beautifully decorated and already 5,000 straw flowers have been received to carry out the decorative scheme. The straw flower is a natural flower that is preserved by drying. It grows in three colors, yellow, bronze and red.

The show is conducted under the auspices of the Woman's Forum and every effort is being put forth to make the show this year the outstanding one. The Fritz Motor company is lending its assistance to the Woman's Forum and will have an active part in the preparation of the show, it is announced.

A radio show will be held in connection with the flower show Oct. 30 and 31 and Nov. 1, according to D. L. Fritz. An effort is being made to have every local concern represented and to display all the latest model radios.

ARMED MEN DEMOLISH HIBERNIAN HALL RESULT OF IRISH POLITICAL FEUD

LOUGHALL, Northern Ireland, Oct. 18. (AP)—About 100 armed men today overpowered a police guard and demolished the Hibernian hall.

The action was supposed to be an outgrowth of a political feud. The raid was conducted with secrecy, only the leader of the crowd speaking.

An armed force drove up, fired on the guard, which dispersed and sacked the building. This was the third time a building on the site had been destroyed.

Motorists driving by while the band was wrecking the hall stopped, but were allowed to proceed unaware that rifles had been trained on their car.

OBSERVANCE OF NATIONAL DOG WEEK PLANNED IN WICHITA

County Kennel Club Takes Lead in Effort to Teach Proper Care and Urge Legislation to Help Canines

National dog week is to be observed from Sunday, Oct. 19 to Saturday, Oct. 25 and the American public is urged to become better acquainted with dogs. Sermons will be preached about dogs, mayors and public officials will talk dogs and the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will write about dogs.

The Wichita County Kennel club, which was recently organized and has applied for a state charter, will in the future devote much time to making new friends for dogs and giving better care and attention to the many fine dogs that are now owned in the Wichita Falls trade area. The officers of the club are Ralph Dilday, president; Mrs. Dorothea Huff, vice president; Mrs. H. C. English, secretary.

The purpose of national dog week is not to sell dogs but to preach the slogan of the government, as follows:

1.—Better dogs and better care for them.

2.—To teach humane treatment of all dogs.

3.—To emphasize the desirability of owning a dog as protector and useful companion.

4.—To secure fair and just laws for the dog.

5.—To be considerate of the rights and wishes of those who do not own dogs.

Wichita Falls is one of the few cities of Texas that is amply prepared for the treatment of dogs and other pet stock, it was said. Dog hospitals are located here as modern as those in the largest cities of the state.

The organization of the kennel club is being perfected because of the large number of blooded dogs in this section and the desire to bring closer together the fanciers of good dogs. At a later date, a dog show of the first magnitude is planned to be held in Wichita Falls.

Things Desired by Dogs

As this is dog week the dogs want to have their say, and the following message has been issued dogdom:

1.—I want a fresh bone each day for dessert; I promise not to bury it in a flower pot.

2.—I want clean water in a clean dish twice each day.

3.—I want a dry place, free from draft, in which to sleep.

4.—I want a collar that does not choke me and is not so loose it catches on my ears.

5.—I want a quiet place in a cellar or dugout on the Fourth of July.

6.—I want every boy swiftly punished or reprimanded who throws rocks at me, twists my ears or ties cans to my tail.

7.—I want folks to believe in my wagging tail and pleasing eyes.

8.—I want all to remember that I do with my mouth, most things they do with their hands, so they need not be afraid of my teeth.

9.—I want and appreciate kind treatment, just as I treat children and those in distress.

10.—I want my mind to be trained so that I can be of greater service to mankind.

11.—I want to be considered one of the family, for those I love I will give my life to protect.

TIPICA MEXICAN ORCHESTRA COMING TO MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM SATURDAY

The Tipica orchestra of Mexico, under the direction of Juan N. Torreblanca, Mexico's famous mastro, which comes to the Memorial auditorium on Saturday, Oct. 25, matinee and night, under the auspices of H. C. Cheshire, is on its second American tour. The first under Senor Torreblanca, in 1926, which included Wichita Falls, was an outstanding event in the musical circles of the country and one of the most successful in American concert history.

The present tour will be notable for its presentation of new compositions by Mexican composers who are making their initial bow to American audiences. The response of all phases of daily life in the people south of the Rio Grande is especially noticeable in their music. There is a vitality, spirit and animation to it which sets Mexican compositions apart from anything American audiences have heard before. It is played on the strange and dramatically effective instruments of the Tipica orchestra giving to the listener emotional feelings and mental impressions which are distinctly thrilling, new and sensational experiences for the modern concert audiences of this country.

Senor Torreblanca's orchestra will have as its soloists Senora Maria Romero, Mexico's first soprano; Jose de Arratia, brilliant tenor of the Mexican Grand Opera company; the Trovadores del Bajio male quartet; the celebrated Charros Mexicanos, marimbists, and Juan Lucay and Anita, sensational South American dancers. This orchestra, acknowledged to be the most picturesque musical organization in the world, is the preferred orchestra of the government of Mexico and has been given official recognition by President Ortiz y Rubio and ex-President Portes Gil. It comes to America after brilliantly received tours of South America and Europe.

Tickets for the concert may be purchased at the box office at Renfro drug store, beginning Wednesday morning, or may be reserved by phone, dial 9047. Mail orders are filled in the order of their arrival.

WICHITA FALLS BOY CHOSEN AS SOLOIST TEXAS U. GLEE CLUB

John Flynn, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Flynn of this city, has been chosen as Texas University Glee club soloist from a group of 60 picked voices that make up the university glee club.

This glee club is in great demand, being presented each season by prominent organizations in the larger cities of Texas and adjoining states. Gilbert Schram of San Antonio, eminent Texas musician, directs the glee club and selects the soloists.

For the past two seasons, John Flynn has been a popular Wichita Falls Junior college and KGKO soloist and his rich baritone voice was in constant demand for local programs. He has been a pupil of Mrs. Lois Parker for the past two years and is continuing his voice study with Carl Benizer of Austin, who predicts a brilliant future for him.

His friends here will be interested to hear of this signal honor and join in congratulating him.

ROBBER RETURNS $1.50 FOR SUPPER FOR VICTIMS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 18. (UP)—After kidnaping Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hurley of this city, forcing them to drive to the edge of town in their truck and robbing them of a diamond ring and $38, a robber then returned $1.50 to them to buy supper and sped away in the truck.

"The man told us to drive to the edge of town after I discovered him in our truck," Mrs. Hurley said. "He asked me if our money was insured. I told him $15 of it belonged to us and if he took it we would have no supper. He gave me back $1.50 and drove away in the truck."

U. S. SENATOR VEST'S TRIBUTE TO THE DOG

"The best friend a man has in the world may turn against him, and become his enemy. His son or daughter that he has reared with loving care may prove ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and good name, may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has he may lose. It flies away from him, perhaps when he needs it most. A man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill-considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees to do us honor when success is with us, may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads.

"The one absolutely unselfish friend that a man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog. A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and in poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, where the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer; he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince. When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches take wings, and reputation falls to pieces, he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journeys through the heavens.

"If fortune drives the master forth an outcast in the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him, to guard him against danger, to fight against his enemies. And when the last scene of all comes, and death takes his master in its embrace, and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by the grave-side will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws, his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even in death."

BOZARTH NOMINEE FOR JUDGE OKMULGEE COUNTY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 18. (UP)—A proclamation declaring Mark L. Bozarth, the Democratic nominee for district judge in Okmulgee county was signed today by Secretary John E. Luttrell of the state election board.

The proclamation was signed by Luttrell after James M. Hayes, defeated by Bozarth by 52 votes, dismissed his action before the Okmulgee county election board asking for a recount after a partial recount gave Bozarth an additional gain of 57 votes.

Hayes contested validity of the run-off primary law when he sought a mandamus writ from the state supreme court forcing Luttrell to give him a certificate of nomination. The court denied his petition.

A yield of 127 bushels of oats per acre was achieved on the farm of Isaac Isaacson, a dairy farmer of near Grand Rapids, Minn.

EX-CONVICT FACES CHARGES OF FELONY IN WICHITA COUNTY

Two complaints charging Sam Parks with theft over $50 and burglary were filed by George Anderson, assistant district attorney, Saturday morning.

The defendant pleaded guilty in five cases of forgery in district court here in January, 1929, and was given two years in each case, the sentences to run concurrently, Mr. Anderson said.

Parks, who was released from the penitentiary recently, is charged in connection with the theft of $12 in cash and an endorsed check from the City garage at Electra Oct. 14 and in the burglary of the Homer Gimlin apartment in Electra Sept. 26.

The prisoner was arrested in Vernon Friday night by Jim Taylor and Roy Hart, Electra police chief and night chief, respectively.

FLORIDA CARPENTER ADMITS BEATING WIFE TO DEATH

CLEAR WATER, Fla., Oct. 18. (AP)—E. E. Jeffcoat, a carpenter, confessed to Sheriff Roy Booth here today that he beat his wife to death with a hammer in a quarrel Tuesday night.

She was found on a highway with her head crushed and died in a hospital soon afterwards.

Woman Recently Identified as Millie Durgan, Captured Child Will Be Heard Over KGKO Today

Hary A. Stroud manager of the Lawton Chamber of Commerce will be in the city Sunday with Mrs. Goombi, recently identified as Millie Durgan, captured by Indians from a ranch near Newcastle in Young county many years ago, and Mrs. Goombi will be heard over radio station KGKO during the 30 minutes beginning at 5:30 p. m. Others will be in the party and there will be a 30-minute program in which talented Indian musicians will take part.

Following their radio appearance here the party will leave for Archer City, where it is planned to have Mrs. Goombi appear before the schools, Monday morning. She will be at Olney, Monday afternoon and at Newcastle Monday night.

After this Mr. Stroud will take the party to Graham and on south as far as Georgetown, Texas, making appearances in a number of towns and cities en route.

Due to the interest in the identification of Mrs. Goombi and the unusual history incident to her life among the Indians, radio fans will no doubt be glad of this opportunity to hear what she has to say, as well as enjoy other features of the 30-minute program.

CONTRACT DELAYS DURANT-DENISON BRIDGE OPENING

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Oct. 18. (UP)—A new bridge spanned the Red river between Durant, Okla., and Denison, Texas, today with a paved road from the Oklahoma side leading to an 18-foot drop on the Texas side.

Texas officials refused to fill in the drop, saying they are prevented by a contract with receivers for the Red River Bridge company, operator of a toll bridge nearby.

The receivers filed an application in federal court here to compromise the company's litigation with the Oklahoma Highway commission brought in an effort to prevent operation of the new bridge.

The receivers asked permission to drop all proceedings with which they have tied up the free bridge in exchange for a contract that among other things will bar Oklahoma from opening the bridge for 14 months.

LIFE TERMER GRANTED 60-DAY LEAVE ABSENCE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 18. (UP)—James Carr, serving a life penitentiary term for murder from Oklahoma county, was granted a 60-day leave of absence today by Gov. W. J. Holloway, because of the illness of Carr's father. He has been in the penitentiary six years.

The governor ordered Earl Hines released from the state penitentiary because he had completed a one-year sentence for forgery from Comanche county. Hines was erroneously sentenced to two years in the penitentiary because of an error in commitment papers.

J. M. Hamm, serving a life term for murder from Comanche county, was given a 45-day leave because of a death in his family. He had served 10 years.

Bill Womack, serving a three-year term for second degree burglary from Cleveland county was granted a 45-day leave because of the destitute condition of his family. He had served six months.

Major crops in Minnesota this year will total 406,882,000 bushels, according to the federal statistician in St. Paul.

JOSH LEE

"Legion Day" Friday, Oct. 24, will be a great success, according to the announcement of Milton Gaines, chairman of the entertainment committee of the Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion here.

Hal Brennan, state commander of the legion in Texas, will be one of the guests, with several other state officers. State Commander Nicholson of Oklahoma will also be present for the celebration. Delegations will visit Wichita Falls on that day from Lubbock, Burkburnett, Nocona, Graham, Matador, Spur, Childress and Pampa, Texas; Walters and Frederick, Okla., and other cities.

The delegations will take part in the big parade that will start at 4 o'clock. Three bands will be in the parade, from Burkburnett, Iowa Park and the Lions club of Wichita Falls, as well as the drum corps from Graham and the newly formed one of the local post. The following organizations will also take part in the parade: Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, fire department, Red Cross, Junior and Senior chambers of commerce, five national guard units, Salvation Army, Y. W. C. A., Shrine patrol, Knights of Columbus, Spanish war veterans, Forty and Eight, and the ladies auxiliary.

The parade will have many floats in the lineup, as the following firms have entered: Perfection Water company, Panhandle Oil and Refining company, Wichita Auto Top and Body Works, Wichita Motors company, Freear's, I.-O. Boosters, American Railway and Express company, Sanitary Market, Nafziger Baking company and Wichita laundry. As there is no entrance fee for putting floats in the parade, it is thought that many more merchants will enter before Friday, according to Kindel Paulk, chairman of the float committee. Merchants can enter by phoning Mr. Paulk at 4135.

The day's activities will be completed with a mass meeting at the Memorial auditorium at 8 p. m., at which time Josh Lee, prominent legionnaire of Oklahoma and professor in the University of Oklahoma, will address the gathering on "Taking the Profits Out of War."

This address was given recently at the state convention of the American Legion at Austin and was liked so well that plans were at once started to have Mr. Lee deliver the talk in Wichita Falls.

Those who have heard Mr. Lee talk on his various trips to Wichita Falls will welcome his return to our city. His talk will be preceded with a 30-minute band concert by the Lions club band under the direction of Leo Underwood. No admission will be charged to the evening entertainment.

MAY REJECT ALL BIDS FOR TIRES FOR STATE

AUSTIN, Oct. 18. (AP)—Rejection of all bids on approximately $100,000 worth of tires will be considered here Tuesday at a meeting of the state board of control, Chairman Claude Teer announced today.

The bids, to supply the highway department principally, have been under consideration for several weeks. In the interim, according to information reaching board members, the price of rubber and fabric materially declined, and it was considered possible that by readvertising the bids, a cheaper contract might be secured.

EDITORS CALL ON PRESIDENT TO ACT IN MOONEY CASE

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS, Oct. 18. (UP)—President Hoover today was called upon by the 25 Scripps-Howard newspapers' representatives assembled at their biennial editorial conference here to intervene in the Mooney-Billings case.

Characterizing as "legal lynching" the course of California courts thus far in connection with the case, the editors wired the president a resolution asking the celebrated case be placed before the Wickersham crime investigation commission for review and possible public action.

The resolution was inspired by news dispatches from San Francisco stating there was a definite possibility of prolonged delay in the report of the California supreme court on the recently heard pardon appeal of Warren K. Billings and Thomas J. Mooney, jointly convicted of the Preparedness day bomb outrage in July, 1916. The resolution pledged the editors to keep the details of the case before the public until public confidence in the courts is restored."

DR. ANDERSON ELECTED PRESIDENT CONVENTION DISCIPLES OF CHRIST

Keen Eyes of Assistant Cashier Credited With Materially Aiding Downfall and Capture of Fleagle

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 18. (AP)—The keen eyes of Emerson Erway, assistant cashier of a small town bank today were credited with helping materially to lead the way to the downfall of "Jake" Fleagle, Colorado bandit, fatally wounded by officers in a gun fight at Brandon, Mo., last Tuesday.

Erway's observation of the peculiar weave and texture of the upholstery of an automobile in which he had been kidnaped last July by two men who looted the Mead, Neb., bank where he was employed, led to the identification of Harry Lee Watson and Samuel Bottom as the robbers and eventually to the trail of Fleagle.

Car Eventually Traced

Using Erway's information as a clue, the car was eventually traced from the factory to the dealer to Watson, who on Sept. 8 was arrested in the southern Ozarks of Missouri, three miles from where he maintained a hotel. At the hotel the trail of the hunted Fleagle was uncovered.

Fleagle, officers learned, had stayed at the hotel, but left before he could be arrested. More officers were sent into the zone of Fleagle's operations, however, and the search went forward until Fleague encountered the authorities in the fatal gun fight at Brandon.

Although Watson confessed to 15 bank holdups and was suspected of many more he was turned over to federal authorities. In Chicago last Thursday he was sentenced by a federal court to serve 10 years in Leavenworth prison for taking government money from a postoffice at Troy Grove, Ill.

The University of California is conducting a school for turkey graders who will inspect fowls put on the block for holiday dinners.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (INS)—Emmett McBride, brother of F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, will not be extradited to Ohio to face a bad check charge because state authorities are unwilling to bear the expense of taking him back, it appeared today.

McBride is in district jail while local authorities are pondering what to do with him. He was arrested at the suggestion of his brother here, who advised police he was wanted at Steubenville, Ohio. In a statement, Dr. McBride said his brother was "not right," and had caused the family a great deal of trouble.

Bracken, filed suit in federal district court here today against W. F. Caton, sheriff of Garza county, and his surety, the American Surety company, asking $35,000 damages.

Bracken was shot and killed in the jail Oct. 18, 1928. He was under a two-year sentence for assault with intent to kill and was awaiting transportation to the state penitentiary at Huntsville when the shooting occurred.

Mrs. Bracken, in her suit, asked $5,000 each for herself and five minor children and a married daughter.

Life of Goree Boy Saved at Hospital Here When Watermelon Seed Removed From Lung With Novel Instruments

Medical science and surgical instruments saved the life of a 4-year-old boy who had a watermelon seed lodged in his left lung when brought to the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital, Friday night.

Within a few minutes after the arrival of the patient at the hospital a bronchoscope was introduced by the way of the mouth into the windpipe and on into the bronchus of the left lung, where the seed was found and extracted by means of a long and delicate pair of forceps inserted through an electrically lighted bronchoscopic tube.

The child, James E., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Raney of Goree. Hospital authorities stated Saturday night that the child was convalescing rapidly and would be returned to his home soon.

The Wichita Falls Clinic hospital only recently installed the costly instruments to perform such operations. It was just a few months ago that a Baltimore surgeon became famous for his skill in such operations and now the same facilities are available for those who may become afflicted in this part of Texas or Southwest Oklahoma.

SENATOR DALE IS SURPRISED

Will Find Out About Norris Contribution

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18. (AP)—Surprise was expressed here today by Senator Dale, Republican, Vermont, of the senate campaign funds committee, at the announcement in Nebraska by W. M. Stebbins that he gave the $500 liberty bond to George W. Norris, the Broken Bow grocer, who attempted to run for the Republican senatorial nomination against Senator George W. Norris and Stebbins.

"If Stebbins gave that money to the Broken Bow Norris," said Senator Dale, "some one was mistaken in their testimony to our committee when we were in Nebraska. However, we will find out all the facts for ourselves."

Senator Dale, who participated in the Nebraska inquiry, said he expected the committee to return to that state immediately after the election.

State Treasurer Contributed

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 18. (AP)—State Treasurer W. M. Stebbins, in a statement today said he was the giver of the $500 bond presented George W. Norris, Broken Bow grocer now of Enid, Okla., after he had filed as a candidate in opposition to Senator George W. Norris in the August primary.

Stebbins who was the principal opponent of Senator Norris in the primary, also said that he had made a cash contribution of $350 to aid the campaign against the senior Nebraska senator. Grocer Norris' filing was ruled illegal by Chief Justice Charles Goss of the state supreme court because of its belated arrival at the secretary of state's office.

THREE-YEAR-OLD CHILD FOUND AFTER WANDERING THREE DAYS IN HAUNTS OF MOUNTAIN LIONS

TONOPAH, Nev., Oct. 18. (UP)—Clothed against the dangers of the mountain night in the luck that follows seemingly children—and not much else—3-year-old Jackie Sullivan, since Thursday an unwilling wanderer through the haunts of mountain lions, was found by searchers today. He was alive and wailing lustily for his mother.

The tiny object of one of the greatest "man-hunts" in the history of this wild region was found by bloodhounds at a spot only three miles from the origin of his adventure. His clothing cut to shreds by briers, his small shoes gone, he lay, tangled, somehow, in a fallen limb, his tearful face half buried in the sand.

When searchers quieted the baying hounds and extricated the child, he lifted his head from the shoulder of a posseman and piped the usual cry of lost children:

"Where's my mother?"

Mother Hysterical

His mother, exhausted after two days and a night of walking with the searchers, was at the moment being awakened from a fitful sleep at Round mountain, three miles away, to be told that her youngest child was safe. Mrs. Sullivan broke into hysterical sobs.

The child showed no apparent ill effects of the two nights he spent exposed to the bitter mountain cold in his tattered clothing.

On Thursday night, as searchers later ascertained, he had burrowed in among some fallen leaves in the lee of a bluff in the canyon and slept. It was supposed that he had repeated the expedient last night in the shelter of the fallen limb, had got his feet entangled in its roots during the night and was too weak or frightened by morning to free himself.

The country is the wildest of western Nevada, virtually the undisputed domain of mountain lions and other wild beasts.

Searchers were convinced that the child had roamed a wide circle to finish near his starting point. He told them "I walked a heap!"

GINNERS OPPOSED TO U. S. ENTERING PRIVATE BUSINESS

DALLAS, Oct. 18. (AP)—Opposition to "the government engaging in private business" was strongly expressed today in a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the Texas Cotton Ginners' association, at a meeting here.

The association adopted a resolution authorizing the appointment of a committee to confer with the "Texas Cooperative society" to determine its attitude.

D. F. Standley, Huntsville ginner, offered the resolution.

Discussing government loans made by the federal farm board "to put the government in the gin business, to the detriment of the independent ginner," Standley said "it is an economic and political absurdity for the government to enter into any form of private business or enterprise that comes in direct competition with the individual.

"I believe the Texas Cotton Ginners' association should go on record," he said, "and publish to the world the fact that Texas ginners, who have invested millions of dollars in private industry, are unalterably opposed to the government attempting to monopolize the field."

George Hagan, president of the ginning body, appointed a conference committee with Aubrey Lockett, Vernon, as chairman, and with R. D. Holmes and F. V. Arnim of Corpus Christi as associate members.

The board voted to hold the 1931 convention in Dallas, probably in April. An invitation from Corpus Christi was declined in a resolution of thanks.

Star Great Play Enacts Dramatic Role Not Staged

SEATTLE, Oct. 18. (US)—With just $2 in her purse and with no prospect of anything but memories of a too vivid past to haunt her, Miss Edith Ransom, temperamental and tempertuous actress of the screen and stage, who recently stowed away on the Matson liner Malolo, bound from Honolulu to Yokohama, was lodged in city jail for safekeeping after her arrival in Seattle aboard the American mail liner President Taft today.

Turned over to the Traveler's Aid society, she was first taken to the city hospital but physicians were unable to find anything wrong with her physical condition. She became hysterical in the hospital and caused so much commotion that Police Captain Hedges was called to quiet her. He ordered her removed to the women's section of the jail where she could be kept under observation.

Miss Ransom was enacting as dramatic a role as she ever played on the boards—but she didn't seem to realize it. She had drunk too deeply of the cup of life and she found the dregs so bitter that she is no more than a shadow of the svelte beauty who charmed and fascinated audiences five years ago in the leading role of "White Cargo."

She was in an evident state of nervous collapse when she was transferred from the Malolo to the President Taft and she was under medical care throughout her voyage across the Pacific.

"I'm still pretty shaky—but I'll come back," she declared valiantly before she left the ship.

Miss Ransom after enacting the role of Tondeleyo, the dusky siren of the tropics in "White Cargo," decided that she wanted to see the Orient in the raw and not as it is portrayed in the theater. So she went to Honolulu.

She was employed there as the hostess of a hotel when she embarked on the mad adventure that brought her here. She embarked on the Malolo while the vessel was in port, locked herself in a room and went to sleep—and was not discovered until after the ship had put to sea. There was nothing to be done then but to take her to Yokohama.

THOUSANDS ATTEND TEXAS STATE FAIR DALLAS SATURDAY

DALLAS, Oct. 18. (AP)—The second week of the state fair of Texas opened today with thousands of visitors milling about the grounds, representing the largest group of organizations holding meetings at the fair thus far this year.

The day was designated as all-college day and drew ex-students from many schools over the state, principally to witness the gridiron tilt between Oklahoma university and the University of Texas, which saw a 17 to 7 victory for the Longhorns. More than 20,000 persons were seated in the state fair bowl to see the game.

Organizations having their day included traveling men, East Texans, feeder lamb dealers and breeders, Texas ginners, Gregg county citizens, Texas commercial executives, Texas legislators and Oklahomans here for the game.

A special train from Gregg county brought more than 1,000 visitors. There were several hundred traveling men, 200 members of the Texas Commercial Executives associations, 100 legislators and more than 1,000 attended the East Texas dinner held on the fair grounds.

REICHSTAG GIVES CONFIDENCE VOTE

posed of, the government's motion for adjournment until Dec. 3 carried shortly after midnight.

The adjournment clears the way for the government's plans to relieve Germany's economic depression and to institute financial reforms.

Larger Than Hope

The vote of confidence had been generally anticipated, in view of several government successes on previous votes, but it was surprisingly large.

The test of strength came on a motion by the coalition parties to proceed to the order of the day and virtually ignore the motions of nonfidence.

At the moment when President Paul Loebe ruled that the coalition motion took precedence over the others and should be immediately voted on, bedlam broke loose on the Fascist and the Nationalist benches. Cries of "swindle" rose from the entire right of the reichstag. A Nationalist spokesman declared the government needed a positive confidence vote and not merely to rule out the non-confidence motions.

The success of the coalition was made possible by the support of the social Democrats, who are not officially members of it and are without representation in the cabinet.

Taunted by Communists and Fascists alike, the social Democrats threw their strength of 143 votes time and again to Chancellor Bruening's cause and finally sustained it.

AUTOPSY FAILS TO PROVIDE SOLUTION

juries which might have been fatal. A report tonight by Deputy Coroner George Bostwick said the blood on the towel was that of a human being but police refused to say where the towel was found.

Despite the fact she was in a serious condition, Mrs. O'Loughlin was questioned for an hour by police. They said they failed to gain any information which might lead to a solution of the case. Detective O'Loughlin had not been told of his daughter's death.

Police were not inclined to place much faith in a theory that the child was murdered by enemies O'Loughlin was known to have had in the criminal world.

The one man arrested as a suspect was expected to be released. He was taken into custody when neighbors reported he attempted to lure one or two girls into his car last week. Police declined to disclose his identity unless he was definitely linked with the murder.

The autopsy indicated the child died of asphyxiation pending laboratory tests which will take 48 hours. Deputy Coroner Bostwick said it was not definitely known what caused the asphyxia.

SMALL DOSES OF CAROTIN STIMULATES BODY AND AIDS FIGHT ON DISEASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. (US)—A red crystalline substance, extracted from vegetable coloring, known as carotin, can be used as a substitute for vitamin A which is contained in bulky foodstuffs.

Eating even small doses of carotin stimulates bodily growth and aids in resistance to infectious diseases, as does vitamin A. In a word, it is a concentrated substitute for that vitamin, it has been discovered at the nutrition laboratory at Cambridge, England.

He disappeared from this city two decades ago and has wandered to all corners of the world. He re-appeared driving a mule team which he purchased in Arkansas about 10 years ago. He drove up to his son's home here and the son killed the fatted calf in honor of the wandering father's return.

JUDGE KENYON QUITS HOOVER'S COMMISSION ON LAW ENFORCEMENT

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. (UP)—The New York Herald-Tribune in a special dispatch from Chicago said that Judge William S. Kenyon of Iowa, an extreme dry member of the Wickersham commission, had offered his resignation a week ago.

Kenyon's differences with some members of the commission on the scope of that body's study of the prohibition question, especially relative to the control of industrial alcohol was cited as the cause of the action.

President Hoover is understood to have asked Judge Kenyon to reconsider, the paper said. In the meantime, the commission had yielded to Judge Kenyon's opinion on the disputed subject.

Judge Kenyon, questioned at Omaha where he is presiding over federal court, referred questioners on his resignation to a "more proper place to inquire," presumably the White House.

REVOLT TORN AREA OF BRAZIL

Centers of revolutionary activity in Brazil are indicated on this map. The "black" states of Minas Geraes, Santa Catharina, Rio Grande do Sul, Pernambuco and Parahyba, comprising one-eighth of the country's area and 38 per cent of its population, were definitely known to have fallen into rebel hands in the early stages of the revolt. The lightly shaded states of Parana, Matto Grasso, Ceara and Piauhy were claimed by the revolutionists.

Brazilian Leaders Search for Ways To Keep Country Operating Normally While Menaced by Rebel Soldiers

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 18. (AP)—Government leaders sat in numerous conferences today in a search for ways to keep the country operating normally while menaced on all sides by revolutionary soldiers.

While still claiming wide victories over the rebels, the federal administration continued its preparations for sufficient strength to put down the rebellion. More reservists are mobilized daily, and troop trains are constantly moving out for battle.

President Washington Luis conferred today with cabinet members, senators, deputies and civic officials. He also issued a decree authorizing the Banco do Brazil to put out about $10,000,000 in paper currency which is expected to improve the exchange quotation of the milreis. Rise in value of the peseta is predicted because of heavy coffee exports all this month, despite the revolution, and nearly a standstill of imports.

Recent coffee shipments included 70,000 sacks from Rio de Janeiro for New York and 315,000 sacks from Santos for foreign ports.

Still pointing to their success at Itarare, where a rebel army was said to have been driven back with heavy losses Thursday, federal sources declared today new progress was being made in both the Sao Paulo-Parana and Minas Geraes fronts.

It was announced the rebels never had held Ourinhos (Sao Paulo) as asserted in their communiques, and the federals have been reinforced for an advance in that sector.

The federals also said they have occupied the Minas Geraes cities of Muzambinho, Monte Santo, Tronquieras and Bomsucesso.

Rebel Offensive

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 18. (US)—Brazilian rebels are tonight pushing an offensive along the 200-mile wide front in the state of Sao Paulo, according to advices reaching this city from revolutionary headquarters in Porto Alegre.

A communique issued by southern rebel leaders further claims successes on the northern front where their troops are now said to be in possession of Sergipe and advancing into Rio de Janeiro and Bahia, the latter state a concentration point for the northernmost federal army.

Orders for the general offensive in Sao Paulo were issued today following receipt here of government dispatches stating that mobilization of reservists is continuing and that as quickly as the new troops are equipped they are being rushed to the various battle lines.

With an augmented federal army in the south, it is obvious that the rebel advance on the city of Sao Paulo will be bitterly contested and it is felt that the long-waited-for decisive battle between the two southern armies may be expected to take place some time over the week-end.

Meanwhile, Rio de Janeiro dispatches state that government forces are continuing their steady headway in the central state of Minas Geraes, adioining Rio de Janeiro and Espirito Santo.

A president decree today authorized the Bank of Brazil to issue $30,000,000 in paper currency to defray the costs of the warfare that has now been waged on three fronts for four weeks. The paper currency is to be backed by $5,000,000 in gold and the balance in government bonds.

CANING PUTS END TO SCHOOL STRIKE

LONDON, Oct. 18. (AP)—A record for non-stop whacking was described today in a dispatch from Bombay to the Daily Mail.

The Indian headmaster of a school at Mercaba, in South India, one morning caned 183 boys who had quit their work and gone on a strike. Reaching their homes the boys complained to their parents but most of their fathers and mothers gave them a second walloping.

Two of the boys went to hospitals desiring to be treated but the surgeon gave them another caning, it was alleged, and sent them away. No more schoolboy strikes are expected at Mercaba.

FORMER SCREEN STAR MAY BECOME FIRST LADY OF STATE OF LOUISIANA

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18. (UP)—Marguerite Clark, idol of early day movie fans, may become the first lady of Louisiana. Her husband, Harry P. Williams, millionaire lumberman, plantation owner, sportsman and aviation devotee, told the United Press today he would be a gubernatorial candidate in 1932, when the term of Gov. Huey P. Long expires.

The announcement came as a surprise in political and social circles here. Williams' name had not been mentioned previously as a possible successor to Governor Long, who is the unopposed Democratic nominee to the United States senate.

Williams announced his candidacy without the usual routine of seeking political support from party leaders over the state. Politicians here saw him as a compromise. While he is a friend of Governor Long, and supported him for the U. S. senate, he also is on friendly terms with Long's opponents.

CONVICT ABILENE MAN PUTTING SAW INTO JAIL AND SUSPEND SENTENCE

ABILENE, Texas, Oct. 18. (AP)—A successful break from the Taylor county jail Sept. 28, in which five men got away, had its aftermath in district court here today. W. L. Kenshalo, 24-year-old warehouse superintendent, was convicted of conveying a saw into the jail to aid prisoners to escape. The jury sentenced him to five years, but suspended the sentence.

A statement signed by Kenshalo, in which he admitted buying two saws at a local store and tieing them to a blanket suspended from the second floor of the jail, was admitted as testimony. He said he secured the saws after repeated appeals from Mrs. George R. Johnston, wife of one of the prisoners escaping. Johnston, charged with impersonating a federal officer, was recaptured and since has been convicted and sentenced to two years in the federal penitentiary on the charge.

gun," the president said. "It is expected that within six months the objective will be achieved.

"Rehabilitation of the national finances depends on enforcement of a budgetary system which long has been awaiting execution, but has been impossible because of regional unruliness of war lords in constant revolts against Nanking.

"With these revolts ended, the budget will be enforced. Also, the unification of national currency and abolition of 'likin' or regional taxes, will be carried out as soon as possible.

"Creation of efficient governmental administration involves eradication of lethargy, inefficiency and corruption. The first two are due to ambiguous demarcation of powers and responsibilities of officials, while corruption is attributable to the fact that evil practices long chronic in the body politic cannot be wiped out immediately.

Seek Foreign Capital

"The administration system requires revision and improvement with clearly defined responsibilities of officials, while supervision and impeachment of officials guilty of corruption must be vigorously enforced.

"Industrial development means we must procure on honorable bases foreign capital, thereby bringing economic expansion. However, such capital should be confined to developing the nation's basic industries in accordance with the dominating party's reconstruction program."

Concerning local autonomy, President Chiang said:

"Upon its achievement depends our ability to establish a Democratic form of government. These tasks await immediate realization if the Nationalist government is to continue to live."

Chiang said the entire resources of the government would be thrown against any faction threatening to disrupt national unity by force.

YALE HAMMERS BROWN FOR 21 TO 0 VICTORY

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 18. (UP)—Powerful line play won Yale a 21 to 0 victory over Brown Saturday.

The Eli forwards, performing more creditably than in any game thus far this season, opened wide holes in the Brown defense and Albie Booth who started a game for the first time this fall, shot loose for several of his famous hop-skip-and-jump runs.

Yale scored three touchdowns, in the first, second and fourth quarters, and Booth booted a field goal in the final session.

Ed Rotan, 200-pound Yale substitute guard, furnished the thrill of the game when he snatched Gurll's fumble on Brown's 45-yard line and lumbered across the Brown goal line surroundered by interferers.

Chicago Beer Wholesaler's Memory Fails Him After Detailed Account Of Rise From Poverty to Easy Money

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. (UP)—A couple of sparklers shot off a series of scintillating flashes from the nervous fingers of Frankie Lawler tonight as he tried, without success, to give police some clue as to the whereabouts of "Joe, S. P. C."

Police curiosity about Joe had been aroused by the fact that his name twice appeared in the ledger account seized from Lawler when the latter was arrested as a wholesaler of beer that made "Scarface Al" Capone notorious and powerful.

Lawler was able to tell a great deal about his own career and how he had made his way out of poverty into "the easy money," but he was at a loss to throw much light upon Joe, with whom he had dealt upon more than one occasion.

What Frankie said revealed some of the big business ramifications of the Capone beer syndicate, at the same time leading detectives to conclude that the mysterious Joe acted as a manufacturer's agent for the breweries of "Scarface Al."

Lawler remarked with a fond look at his diamonds that he was a success.

Times Change

"It was tough the way I had to skimp along before I made this connection," he said. He was referring to the fact that, as an automobile mechanic and chauffeur, $25 a week had been his ware. "And me married at that," he added.

Times had changed for Frankie. Police found him and his wife in a "swell suite" in a downtown hotel.

"Well, what about this expense account list of yours?" asked the detectives. "Who's this Joe? You got him down as S. P. C. with $4,000 against him once and $220 in another place. What's that for?"

Frankie's memory failed him.

"All I know about that Joe is he was the guy I would get my truckload of beer from in the mornings—he was the guy I turned over my dough to," replied Lawler. "It was this way—"

Frankie explained his job meant getting up every morning at 3 a. m. and going by taxi to a north side garage where he would meet Joe, pay him for a load of beer, and then have the truck driven to the speakeasies where deliveries were made.

Where the breweries were, exactly who Jo was, and the identities of Joe's truck drivers were a mystery to Lawler, he insisted. As a jobber, he paid cash for his beer, he said, and it was up to him to make safe deliveries and collect from the speakeasies.

HUNTERS BOUND FOR MEXICO ARE HALTED SINCE SEASON CLOSED

DEL RIO, Texas, Oct. 18. (AP)—Hunters bound for Mexico were halted today when Mexican representatives here were advised the season had been closed for one year in certain states, including Coahuila. Permits already issued will be honored for the present, however, an announcement said.

A telegram was received by Lisandro Pena, Mexican consul, notifying him of closed season and he wired officials in Mexico City an abundance of game in Coahuila hardly warranted such action.

The closed season applies to the states of Lower California, Sonora, Chihuahua, Nueva Leon and Tamaulipas. The closed season was inaugurated Oct. 15.

FRENCH AUTHORS BAR USE WORD 'GRAPEFRUIT'

PARIS, Oct. 18. (US)—The French authors who are compiling a new French dictionary for the French academy have refused to admit the word "grapefruit" into the distinguished company of authorized French words. Instead, they have decided to describe the well-known table delicacy by the word "pamplemousse."

This decision has evoked a controversy in French newspapers which point out that French men and women all say "grapefruit" when they want a grapefruit and never use the demoded "pamplemousse."

MINNESOTA GOPHERS BEAT INDIANS, 6-0

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 18. (UP)—A few line plays and the powerful punting of Clarence Munn, Gopher right guard, gave Minnesota a six-point victory Saturday over a scoreless Indiana eleven.

Withholding their expected air attack, Fritz Crisler's team displayed the same defense that held Stanford to a scoreless tie last Saturday. Indiana made only one first down from scrimmage. The Hoosiers' other two first downs were from penalties and a pass.

TWO MEN HELD IN DEATH LITTLE GIRL AT NEW BRAUNFELS

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 18. (AP)—Two men were being held this afternoon in New Braunfels in connection with the murder of Evangeline Cavazos, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Cavazos, whose body was found behind a signboard in New Braunfels yesterday after the child had disappeared Monday night.

Another man arrested yesterday was released when it was found he had no connection with the crime. He is an employe of the show of which the parents of the child are managers.

One of the men questioned today is an employe of the show while the other was employed by the show about a year ago. The men were arrested in Austin on information given by the father of the child.

The child's body lay in an undertaking parlor in New Braunfels today, and funeral services will be held here probably tomorrow.

A long list of witnesses both from New Braunfels and Austin were called before county and city officials in an effort to solve the crime or to obtain enough evidence on which charges could be filed. The questioning was halted late today and officials said it would be resumed Monday.

In the meantime the two men arrested were held under close guard. No charges were filed, but they were held without bail. No mob violence was feared by authorities, and the town held an air of peculiar quiet contrasted with the excitement manifest yesterday when the mutilated body of the child was found.

voted over the Mid-West, but more severe weather was due to play a capricious encore overnight.

Six known deaths were charged to the cold wave, five of them in Canada.

Starting in mid-week in the Rockies with blizzards, the storm pushed eastward and today had spread a mantle of snow over the Adirondacks in New York state.

Transportation was hindered, an airplane was forced down by the storm and communication lines were crippled in a widespread area in the East.

Temperatures dropped abruptly over most of the nation.

Storm warnings were given on the upper and lower Great lakes, along with warnings to small craft, and snow was predicted for most of the territory which already has had snow ranging from flurries to drifts several feet deep.

Snow Stops Traffic

BUFFALO, Oct. 18. (UP)—Traffic was stopped completely and telephone and power service interrupted partly when a heavy snowstorm accompanied by a 30-mile wind struck Lackawanna, a Buffalo suburb, tonight.

Snow began falling in Buffalo at the same time, and lasted 40 minutes.

The snow in Lackawanna was six inches deep at 9 p. m.

Telegraph and telephone services in this section were handicapped by weighted, and in some cases, broken lines. Hamburg, Van Buren, Silver Creek, Holland and East Aurora were principal sufferers, and crews were ordered out to repair the lines.

INDIANS RALLY IN FINAL PERIOD TO BEAT COYOTES, 19-13

It is never an easy matter to forget an Electra victory over the Coyotes, and the followers of the Pack still are playing over that game, won by the Tigers, 6 to 0. A serious thinking fan attributes the lack of fight in the Pack to failure to hold the customary pep rally on Friday night preceding the game. He believes that one thing was the difference in winning and losing. Maybe he's right, for anyone who has followed college and high school football realizes the importance of the many little things that go into working football teams into the proper mental pitch. The importance of a pep rally might be stretched a bit when its neglect is charged with a defeat, but nevertheless it is an important item that cannot receive too much attention.

If that same factor of mental attitude did not have its effect in the Quanah game, only with a different result, then the Coyotes indeed are a queer football team. The boys should have been downright mad by the time they went into the Quanah skirmish. They should have been picturing an Electra team in front of them and overlooking none of the little things that made them a decidedly inefficient team a week ago. The Coyotes heard little but condemnation between the Electra and Quanah games and it should have had its effect along about 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. If the Coyotes were not foaming mad, we wonder what it will take to make them that way.

Another old foe bobs up next Saturday in the form of the Vernon Lions. The Vernon-Wichita Falls rivalry equals that between Coyotes and Tigers and the game undoubtedly is just as important as any on the schedule. The Lions apparently have a team that started slowly, but is gaining power with every week's play. They were hardly impressive in losing to Childress, but they have run up big scores in their last two games. Plainview two weeks ago and Grandfield, Okla., last week may speak for the Lions' offensive. The Grandfield game, by the way, offers a comparison of scores that gives the Lions the best of it. Electra was able to defeat Grandfield by only 19 to 0, while Vernon ran up a count of 26 to 0. That comparison gives the Lions a margin of two touchdowns over the Coyotes, but like all comparisons, it means nothing. The incentive is entirely missing when Vernon or Electra plays Grandfield.

The Mail Box

"Mr. Al Parker, Sports Editor,
"Wichita Daily Times,
"Wichita Falls, Texas.

"Dear Al:—I want to tell you of a football team that is a football team, and this is not to be a Major Hoople story. I think it is worthy of notice, not because of what they have accomplished, but having done so with what they have to work with.

"I refer you to the I. O. O. F. Lynx team, from the Odd Fellows home at Corsicana. This is the first year I believe that they have been a member of the district conference, and they are in class B. I attended the encampment I. O. O. F. and department council patriarch militant conventions at Corsicana the first of this week, and this team played their first conference game on their home grounds, and had all the delegates there to wish them well. The game was with Dawson, and at the end of four 12-minute periods by agreement, the score was 45 to 0 in favor of the home boys, and they had made 16 first downs to one for Dawson. There were very few spectacular plays made, but they seldom fail to make a gain, and do not let the other side make many. The sport writer states in the Corsicana Daily Sun that Dawson was never able to get the ball any further down the field than their 50-yard line.

"This game alone is not the remarkable thing about this team. It represented the fourth conference game of the year, and the Lynx had won all four of them, and only one team had crossed their goal line, it being Teague team, which score was 7 to 6 in favor of the I. O. O. F. team.

"Other teams played had been Ennis and Malakoff. The score with Ennis was 40 to 0 and Malakoff 12 to 0, both in favor of the Lynx or I. O. O. F. boys.

"Now, I want to say more on the subject, for all Odd Fellows and Rebekahs are very proud of the home and of the achievement of the team thus far. This home only has at this time 325 boys and girls ranging from infants to 18 years of age, so that it is doubtful if it has more than 20 to 25 boys of high school grades. I was told that there were but 18 eligible boys in the home, and as they either graduate or they turn them out of the home at 18 years of age, consequently the ages of this team range from 15 to 18, and the youngest boy whose age is 15 is the heavyweight, being 175 pounds, so that every team they have played has outweighed them at least 10 to 20 pounds.

"This team should have special interest for citizens of this community, for the reason that the captain of the team, Sammy Cruse, (who saw the game last Monday from the sidelines by reason of a knee injury sustained in the Teague game) is a brother of Mrs. John Daniel Barron, and also has in L. T. Wilson Dees, a boy raised here and a ward of the local Odd Fellows lodge for a number of years.

"I do not know whether it is the fine pep squad of pretty girls or the good substantial coarse food they get, that makes fine young men of them. Perhaps it is their regular habits, no late hours, no tobacco, and I think no coffee, and certainly no liquor that helps them. I think, however, the fact that they are trained to work, such as can be found about a large farm, and dairy, bakery and laundry, and other such jobs, that they are put in condition. I think they only put in a substitute two times last Monday.

"They will go out of their class next Friday afternoon, Oct. 24, when they tackle North Side High school of Fort Worth at Fort Worth, which is a class A school. I hardly see how they can make a good showing against such a team.

"Now, we are on the subject of Odd Fellows, I want to make a suggestion. I actually believe that three adults above 30 years of age out of every four do not know the game of football. Why not use an auditorium such as the junior college about one night per week for three or four weeks during a season, and invite all the people that want to attend these meetings attend, and then select different men to explain the game of football, and if necessary, and if it could be put over so that it would be more simple, you could use some of the students to carry out some plays on the stage. I believe this could be done, and hundreds if not thousands taught the game of football that do not know it, and it would increase the attendance at the games. Hardly anyone but what knows the game of baseball, but only college and high school men and women know the game of football, and many of those with high school training in smaller towns of 20 or more years back, do not know the game. That ought to be a yearly course open to the public.

"Yours truly,
"J. E. OGLE."

Quanah Produces Deceptive Attack To Bewilder Pack

Wichita Falls Victim of Tribe's First Victory In Class A

(Staff Special to The Times)

QUANAH, Texas, Oct. 18.—The Coyotes, after scoring two touchdowns and after being, apparently, well on their way to a fairly easy victory, let their defense waver and then collapse. The Quanah Indians, pulling one deceptive play after another and mixing the trick stuff with some real power, shoved three touchdowns across and won, 19 to 13.

The Coyotes thus attained the dismal distinction of being the first class A conference team ever to lose to the Indians, and ran their conference string of defeats up to three.

It was about the middle of the third quarter when Coach Stalwart's pupils decided that the time had come to quit being the district's door-mats. The fact that they were trailing by 13 points did not seem to embarrass them at all. A bad pass from center showed the Coyotes back toward their own goal and then a blocked kick gave Quanah the ball on the Coyote 17-yard line. From there the Indians went over for a touchdown in just three plays, and then completed a pass for the extra point. Shortly before the quarter ended the Indians got possession of the ball in midfield and in two plays carried the ball to the Coyote 14-yard line. They made a first down in three plays and a touchdown in three more, failing to make the extra point.

That made the score 13-all as the fourth quarter. It soon developed that the Coyotes' problem was not to score, but to keep the Indians from tallying again, their backs being fairly close to their own goal most of the time.

Two threats were thwarted and then the Coyotes made a threat of their own, which was checked when a forward pass was intercepted. With just about two minutes left to play, the score was still tied. Had the game ended then it would have been a rule book victory for Quanah, by virtue of having the greatest number of 20-yard penetrations as well as of first downs.

Coyotes Demoralized

But Quanah decided to win by points rather than bookkeeping. To do so the Indians used a play that is as old as the forward pass itself, known variously as the shoestring play, the hide-out play and by other names. After a scrimmage, Lovell of Quanah laid out on the west edge of the field where the Coyotes didn't see him. Hall passed to him and with a clear field he caught the ball and toted it to the 15 yard line. From there, while the timekeeper was fingering his pistol for the final shot, the Indians went across the line in three plays.

Quanah substitutes declared that the teeam had never been instructed in the hide-out play, and that it was not supposed to be in their bag of tricks at all. But they decided on it on their own account, with results that were, from their standpoint, eminently satisfactory.

Quanah used straight football almost not at all. Practically every play was a deceptive one, sometimes a reverse or double reverse, sometimes a spin play. The fact that they used the same stuff over and over again did not seem to lessen its effectiveness. Time and again the plays would suck the Coyote defense hopelessly out of position, and there was some well-organized interference and hitting power to add to the Coyotes' discomfiture. Quarterback Hall of the Indians showed exceptional ability as a field general, mixing up the plays to give his mates the full benefit of the deception. As the game wore on to a close, the Coyotes seemed demoralized, though a late rally, following the intercepted pass, lacked just a little of turning the tide.

Attack Improves

The Coyote attack looked better than in any previous game this season. The passing was especially pleasing, six out of nine attempts being completed for a total of 90 yards. Withrow and Ray carried the ball for many nice gains, but 10 or 12 yards seemed to be about the limit for each of them, and neither ever did really get loose. As a usual thing the Indians would have the interference well spilled by the time the runner had penetrated to the secondary defense.

Holden did some nice punting, consistently outkicking the opposition. Particularly noteworthy was a kick he made from his own 10-yard line in the second quarter, the ball sailing well over the safety man and rolling across the goal line. The wind helped it, but a 90-yard punt is something to write home about under any conditions.

The Coyotes had had some warning of the Indians' offensive strength before it was really unleashed. Twice in the second quarter the Indians took the ball on their own 20-yard line and launched drives that carried well into Coyote territory. The second drive was halted by a fumble after reaching the Coyote 28-yard line. The hint of trouble that these efforts contained was largely ignored by the Coyotes, especially after they

Glenna Collett Wins Her Third Straight National Golf Crown

GLENNA COLLETT

Victories in the women's national championship for Miss Glenna Collett are becoming almost as monotonous as Bobby Jones' conquests in the ranks of the masculine stars. She defeated Miss Virginia Van Wie Saturday in the titular final for her third consecutive championship.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 18. (UP)—Glenna Collett of New York successfully defended her national golf title Saturday at the Los Angeles Country club by defeating Virginia van Wie of Chicago, 6 and 5, in the finals of the 34th annual amateur championship tournament.

The champion played practically unbeatable golf, driving straight and putting with deadly accuracy. Miss Van Wie's game was staunch but she was no match for her competitor.

The afternoon cards were:
Van Wie, out .....454 365 554—41
Collett, out .....555 364 454—41
Van Wie, in .....534 5—17
Collett, in .....435 4—16

Miss Collett, in becoming national amateur champion for the fourth time, turned in a card showing the impressive array of one eagle, 10 birdies and 13 pars. She was over par by a stroke on seven holes.

Miss Van Wie had six birdies, 16 pars and was over par on nine holes.

The champion won 11 holes. Miss Van Wie captured five and they halved on 15 greens.

The end of the 18-hole morning round found Miss Collett five up. Her total of 76 strokes was the best score of the tournament.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NOTRE DAME STADIUM, South Bend, Ind., Oct. 18.—Three rapid-fire touchdowns, which came at unexpected moments enabled Notre Dame to continue its undefeated march with a 21 to 6 victory over Carnegie Tech's powerful eleven before a crowd of 30,000 here Saturday.

Bitterly fought in cold weather, Notre Dame won the game by its superior handling of the ball, completing two passes for touchdowns and recovering a fumble which resulted in its other touchdown.

After a scoreless first period, Notre Dame broke the deadlock early in the second period. Shortly after the first period opened, Jumping Joe Savoldi, fullback, tore a wire hole in the Tartans' line and ran 25 yards to Carnegie's 24-yard line.

Marty Brill, son of a Philadelphia multimillionaire, gained six yards, but was stopped without gain on the next play. A lateral pass, Carideo to Schwartz, gained three yards, making it fourth down and one yard to go on Carnegie's 15-yard line.

Savoldi smashed through center for first down on Carnegie's 13-yard line. Schwartz gained only a yard on a wide end run, and then on the next play, Ducanis, Carnegie Tech center, broke through and tossed Savoldi for a three-yard loss. Schwartz gained the three yards back on the next play, making it fourth down with 10 yards to go and the ball on Carnegie's 13-yard line.

FOOTBALL COACH USES FLYING TACKLE TO GET MAN WHO STOLE AUTO

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. (AP)—The automobile of John K. Anderson, assistant football coach at the University of Chicago was stolen Friday, which fact, police said, was not nearly so important as what followed.

Anderson was riding on a street car a few hours afterward when he saw an automobile, which he said was his, going along the street. He jumped from the street car, requisitioned a cab, overtook the driver of the car and then brought him down with a hard tackle when he took to his heels.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 18. (AP)—A hard fighting Duke university eleven from Durham, N. C., smashed the Navy by sheer power here Saturday and scored an 18 to 0 upset victory, the first in four tries. Duke showed a versatile running attack, scoring in each of the last three periods and halting every Navy thrust.

Sandies Get Going in Fourth Quarter to Swamp Plainview

AMARILLO, Oct. 18. —Minus the services of their two captains, Eufkin and Montgomery, the Golden Sandies of Amarillo High school played a listless game until the final quarter, but finally wound up on the big end of a 33 to 0 score against the Plainview Bulldogs here Saturday. It was the fourth consecutive conference victory for the league-leading Sandstorm.

Again it was Fowler's punting toe, and his sensational running back of passes that featured the contest.

Only occasionally did the Sandies display some of the brilliance that marked their play earlier this season. The first period was scoreless, and the half ended 7 to 0. The Sandies scored again in the third quarter, then, with the lighter Bulldogs worn out and giving ground in the final period, three more tallies were shoved across. Walker, end; Goodwin, center and Pierce, captain and fullback, displayed unlooked for power both on defense and offense for Plainview. Pierce tossed to Walker for several good gains.

The summary: First down—Amarillo 14, Plainview 4. Yards from scrimmage (not including passes)—Amarillo 291 in 62 plays; Plainview 86 in 30 plays.

Passes—Amarillo, nine attempted. Three completed for 64 yards; six incomplete. Plainview 19 attempted, six completed for 58 yards, 11 incomplete, two intercepted.

Punts—Plainview (Terrell and Wester) 14 for average 30 yards; Amarillo (Fowler) eight for average 39½ yards.

SPUR DISAPPOINTED IN FORFEITURE OF GAME

SPUR, Texas, Oct. 18.—The Spur High school Bulldogs, coach and fans are disappointed and indignant at the last minute action of the Floydada High officials in forfeiting their game scheduled Friday at Floydada. Although the game counts as a victory for Spur, fans are disappointed since they had looked forward with keen anticipation to giving Floydada the drubbing of their lives on their home field.

The Bulldogs put Ralls out of the conference running the previous Friday by a score of 27 to 7. Ralls' only score came late in the game on a fumble. The Bulldogs played the Cisco Loboes at Cisco the Saturday night following the game Friday with Ralls and gave them the hardest fight they have had so far this season.

Electra Scores First and Gives Westerners Real Battle

ELECTRA, Texas, Oct. 18.—A quarterback spin play with the ball being snapped to either of the Lubbock's backfield aces, proved too much for the Tigers to contend with. This one play being mainly responsible for the 19 to 6 defeat the Tigers received at the hands of the Westerners on the local athletic field Saturday afternoon.

The Tiger defense seemingly mastered every formation the Westerners had to offer, except this one spin played, which kept them baffled continuously.

Both teams tried the aerial route several times during the game each team appearing well trained in this mode of defense.

One particular star for either team did not exist, each member of the two squads battling on an equal. A 93-yard run by Cloyd Smith in the first few minutes of play and a 30-yard return of a punt by Capt. Aubrey Smith were the only two sensational runs of the game.

Tigers Count First

Electra counted early in the affray when the Westerns had them backed up against their own goal on the seven yard line. On a punt formation with Curfman back, Cloyd Smith took the ball and weaved through the Lubbock defense for 93 yards for a touchdown, but his toe failed to yield the extra point.

Lubbock's quarterback spin play with either Capt. Dub Lawson, Moody Smith or Watkins carrying the ball, was responsible for every touchdown scored by the Westerners.

Smith netted the first counter for the Westerners after the ball had been carried to within one yard of the goal line, he carried it over on the first try, and kicked the goal for the extra point.

Captain Lawson scored the second touchdown after a continuous march through the Electra forward wall. Moody Smith accounted for the final counter by the same route, the unconquerable spin play.

Forward Stars

Monty McDannald, Paul Groves and Leonard Curfman played excellent games in the Tigers' line, while the entire backfield presented a well organized defense but were never able to gain consistently.

The lineups:

ELECTRA (6)	Pos.	LUBBOCK (19)
Welch	L.E.	Watson
J. Smith	L.T.	McCasland
Adams	L.G.	Welch

A. Smith, c	Q.	Lawson, c
Delashaw	L.H.	Scoggins

Substitutions: Electra—Groves for J. Smith; White for Adams; Golden for Delashaw; Parnell for Welch, (first half); Adams for White; Delashaw for Golden; Welch for Parnell; Parnell for C. Smith; Clonlager for Delashaw (second half). Lubbock: Smith for Johnson, (first half); Abbott for Griggs; Wilson for Watson; Pace for Crawford; Teal for Watkins, (second half).

Officials—Daywalt, referee, (Texas U.); Bateman, headlinesman, (A. & M.); Hill, umpire, (Texas Tech).

Passes intercepted, Electra 1, Lubbock 1. Punts—Curfman for Electra kicked 7 times for average of 39 yards; A. Smith for Electra 1 time for 14 yards; Watkins for Lubbock kicked 5 times for average of 33 yards. A Smith of Electra returned punts for 55 yards and Moody Smith of Lubbock returned punts 15 yards. Electra gained 161 yards from scrimmage while Lubbock gained 287 yards.

FLORIDA EASY VICTOR OVER CHICAGO, 19-0

STAGG FIELD, CHICAGO, Oct. 18. (UP)—The flanker pass, the latest gridiron introduction of Coach Alonzo Stagg, functioned imperfectly Saturday and the University of Chicago lost its intersectional game to Florida by a score of 19 to 0.

Although the Maroons completed nine out of 24 passes, all of them from flanker formation, they could not sustain their drive at any time long enough to score. Florida, playing more consistently, took advantage of what few breaks there were, and an experienced backfield provided interference that enabled Bethea to race for frequent long gains.

The Florida captain was the outstanding star, scoring two of his team's touchdowns, one of them after a spectacular run of 75 yards.

NEBRASKA GETS REAL DUEL FROM IOWA STATE

AMES, Iowa, Oct. 18. (AP)—The Nebraska Cornhuskers, 1929 champions of the Big Six, were given a bitter battle here Saturday as they defeated their old rivals, Iowa State, 14 to 12, before 9,000 shivering spectators. Nebraska scored both of its touchdowns in the first half when Young and Frahm plunged over the goal following terrific line attacks.

The Cycles came back strong in the last period, cutting loose with a deceptive aerial game that directly accounted for both touchdowns. They missed both trys for extra point after the scores.

WISCONSIN OVERPOWERS PENN BY SCORE 27 TO 0

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 18. (AP)—Wisconsin triumphed over Pennsylvania, 27 to 0, in their intersectional battle played before a home-coming crowd of 41,000 here Saturday.

PRINCETON TIGERS GET ANOTHER KAYO WALLOP

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 18.—Princeton's Tiger took another one on the button Saturday, this time at the hands of Gil Dobie's big red team from Cornell. The final score was 12 to 7, and the lone Tiger touchdown was the result of a fumble in the third period.

It was Princeton's second defeat in two weeks and the second time old Nassau succumbed to old Ithaca in the space of two years. Thirty thousand customers saw the game and a small minority of them, evidently from Cornell, went home with the goal posts.

KANSAS STARTS RACE WITH WIN OVER AGGIES

MANHATTAN, Kan., Oct. 18. (AP)—Kansas began its Big Six conference football campaign by defeating the Kansas Aggies, 14 to 0, in their 28th annual game Saturday before an estimated crowd of 17,000.

Jim Bausch scored all of the Kansas points. He returned the opening kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown, and ran 59 yards from scrimmage in the fourth period for the other.

Both extra points were added by his place kicks.

Contest Ends in Rout When Texas Starts Clicking

Two Sophomore Backs, Koy and Stafford, Feature Winning Attack

DALLAS, Oct. 18. (AP)—Texas staged another conclusive demonstration of its last-half power Saturday and the Longhorns scored a well-earned 17 to 7 victory over the University of Oklahoma, conqueror of Nebraska a week ago.

For the Steers it was just a continuation of victories over their ancient rivals. For the Southwest conference it was the first victory of a representative team in a major intersectional clash this season.

Capt. Dexter Shelley, who dealt Oklahoma such misery a year ago, did not play so well Saturday but a pair of sophomore backs, Koy and Stafford, bore the ball-carrying burden almost as well as their captain does when he is right.

DALLAS, Oct. 18. (UP)—When he became over-excited while cheering before the 25th annual gridiron clash between the Universities of Oklahoma and Texas here Saturday, J. W. Purviance, an engineer of the Oklahoma highway department, fell dead on the street.

Heart failure induced by excitement was given as the cause of his death.

A place kick by "Ox" Blanton, sophomore tackle, gave the Steers the points need for victory. Blanton's boot from the 20-yard line, 30 yards from the posts, was perfect. The Sooners had let the Steers tie them but they might have forestalled defeat but for Blanton's educated toe. Thereafter it was a seemingly easy matter for the Steers to intercept a wild Sooner pass deep in Oklahoma territory and march to a second touchdown.

Excellent Defense

The Steers tackled viciously and their defense was excellent practically all the game. Oklahoma's touchdown was a result of a pass from Warren to Cherry which netted 45 yards. In the second quarter the Sooners advanced the ball to the Texas three-yard line largely as a result of some beautiful running by the little Guy Warren, but a five-yard penalty hurt and Warren then missed a pass from center.

Neither team scored in the first half but Texas had the ball only a couple of feet from the enemy goal and three downs in which to carry it over when the half ended.

Observers who had seen the Longhorns demonstrate their second half prowess in previous encounters figured that a Texas victory was certain as the third quarter opened. But Warren and Cherry forced at least a temporary cessation of those thoughts when they staged their air touchdown act.

Oklahoma suffered a severe blow shortly thereafter when Warren was tackled so hard that he had to be taken from the game.

Two passes from Koy to Elkins and some neat running by Stafford and Koy contributed to the first Texas marker. It was scored by Koy over left guard on the opening play of the fourth quarter after the Steers had advanced the ball to within a foot of the final chalk mark on the last play of the third period.

Second Offensive

Texas immediately began another offensive which reached the four-yard line, but Oklahoma took the ball on downs. The Steers came right back after the punt, however, and placed the ball in position for Blanton to make his kick. Then Emerson intercepted an Oklahoma pass on the Oklahoma 12-yard line and Stafford sliced through right tackle for the distance necessary for a touchdown.

Nearly 25,000 persons saw the game, which is an annual attraction of the Texas State fair. Both the Orange of Texas and the Red and White of Oklahoma were well represented in the crowd.

Texas served notice that it will be a power in the Southwest conference pennant chase if its offense clicks. Oklahoma had been rated as one of the leaders of the Big Six conference as a result of its conquest of Nebraska.

BAYLOR HOLDS PONIES TO 14-14 TIE IN THRILLING UPSET

McElreath Grabs Pass and Runs 65 Yards to Gain Tie

Mustangs Let Early Lead Slip When Bears Put Over Touchdown

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

WACO, Oct. 18. (AP)—Baylor university's Golden Bears supplied the first big upset of the 1930 Southwest conference campaign by battling of the Southern Methodist university Mustangs to a sensational 14 to 14 tie before 12,000 fans here Saturday. The Bears scored the tying touchdown late in the final quarter.

Pushing back deep into their own territory with less than two minutes to play and the Methodists leading by seven points, the Bruins gambled and won. Alford, surrounded by rushing Mustang lineamen, dropped back and pegged a perfect pass to McElreath, speedy little halfback who eluded two members of the Pony secondary and romped 65 yards for the score that sent Baylor's adherents into semi-hysteria.

Extra Point Necessary

With a tie or defeat hanging on his toe, McElreath then calmly sent a place kick squarely between the crossbars for the extra point. It was a climax with a punch to as thrilling a combat as the Southwest ever witnessed.

Getting away to a lead in the opening period, when Louis Long scooped up a blocked punt and ran 25 yards for a touchdown, and scoring again in the third period on a long pass, Gilbert to Long, the Methodists apparently had the game in the bag until the Baptists launched their furious last quarter assault.

A drive from midfield gave the Bears their first score when the closing period was half gone. A flip from Alford to Harris for 35 yards and a beautiful 20-yard run by Jake Wilson, diminutive quarterback carried to the Mustangs' five-yard line, from whence Lewter plunged over on his third try. He kicked the goal for the point.

Sensational Finish.

Even at that, however, the Mustangs still appeared confident of victory, and twice started drives that went deep into Baylor territory as time grew short. It looked like it was all over when Kattman kicked to the Baptists 35-yard line and only two minutes remained. Then came that pass to McElreath and the resulting 65-yard sprint. There was time for only three or four plays before the final gun.

Southern Methodist accounted for 14 first downs to 12 for Baylor.

Extra Point Kick Provides Winning Touch in 7 to 6 Battle

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 18. (AP)—The University of Arkansas defeated Rice Institute of Houston as a Southwest conference contender today, turning the Owls back, 7 to 6, with "Cowboy" Kyle leading the attack in the first period of play.

The red shirted Razorbacks staged a dizzy parade in the first five minutes of play, with three quick plays deciding the issue.

After the exchange of punts, Rice drew a 15-yard penalty. Then Kyle raced around his own right end 20 yards. Ledbetter skirted the opposite side for 25 and on the third successive play, the Cowboy galloped around his own right end for 15 yards and a touchdown. Dale added an extra point with a perfect kick from placement.

But Rice came back to life in the next few minutes with Mueller returning Erwin's punt from the Owls' five-yard stripe to his own 40-yard line.

Hammett took a stab at the line, then Mueller took a seemingly bad pass from center, raced around his own right end and down the right side of the field 50 yards. He was momentarily stopped or would have scored a touchdown on the play.

Squyres heaved a neat seven-yard toss to Tom Driscoll on the right side of the field and Driscoll scampered over the goal line untouched. Hammett failed in the drop kick try for an extra point.

TENNESSEE'S REIGN IN SOUTHERN CONFERENCE ENDED BY 'BAMA, 18-6

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 18. (AP)—Alabama defeated Tennessee, 18 to 6, Saturday, giving the Volunteers their first beating since 1928. All three touchdowns were made on smashing line plays. Tennessee's passing attack was ineffective.

Quanah Trounces Coyotes by 19-13

pushed over their second touchdown early in the third quarter.

The first quarter was scoreless. Wichita Falls' kickoff into the wind was short, Quanah recovering on the 40-yard line. They punted after being unable to gain, and Withrow immediately made a first down unassisted with a smash off tackle. A nice gain by Ray brought the ball to Quanah's 40-yard line, where the Indians held for downs. A pass to Norman gained 25 yards, but the next pass attempt was intercepted by White. After failing to gain, the Coyotes attempted to kick, but the try was blocked, Quanah recovering on the Coyote 10-yard line. A 15-yard penalty set the Indians back out of that dangerous place and then Brandon recovered a fumble to give the Coyotes the ball on the 23-yard line. Ray and Withrow made a first down in two plays. Then there was a fumble which Quanah recovered on the Coyotes' 45-yard line, and then another fumble by Quanah which Holton recovered on the 48-yard line, as the quarter ended.

Coyotes Score

A seven-yard run by Ray, gains by Withrow and White and a 5-yard penalty took the ball well into Quanah territory. Horne went in for Brassil at end for Quanah. A pass, Ray to Brandon, was good for 22 yards and a touchdown. Withrow place kicked the extra point. Score: Wichita Falls 7, Quanah 0.

Wichita Falls kicked off over the goal line. From its 20-yard line Quanah made a first down with three line plays, then Norman got loose for 15 yards on a spinner. Two more deceptive plays, by Hall and Faircloth gave another first down on the Wichita Falls' 38-yard line. There the Coyote defense stiffened and a Quanah punt was killed on the 10-yard line. Holden from that point kicked across the Quanah goal line, 90 yards away.

Quanah failed to gain in two plays and kicked out of bounds on its own 25-yard line. It looked like another Coyote touchdown was in prospect, but Quanah held and got the ball on down on its own 20-yard line.

Three line plays netted a first down, then on a double reverse play Lovell got loose for 20 yards. Norman immediately did the same thing, his 20-yard gain taking the ball to the Coyote 25-yard line. Cox recovered a Quanah fumble just as the half ended.

The third quarter opened with a Coyote kickoff over the goal line. From the 20-yard line Quanah worked the ball up the field to the Coyote 45-yard line a pretty 15-yard gain by Hall being the feature. Quanah was then halted and punted to the Coyote 17-yard line where the ball was killed.

From that point the Coyotes marched briskly up the field. Three handsome dashes by Withrow netted as many first downs and then two passes, Ray to Brannon for 22 yards and Cox to Withrow for 35 yards put the ball on the Quanah one-yard line. Cox went over for the touchdown. The try for point was low. Score—Wichita Falls 13, Quanah 0.

Indians Tie It

Quanah received and after being unable to gain kicked out of bounds on the Coyote 30-yard line. An exchange of punts left Wichita Falls with the ball on its own 29-yard line. Kelly went in for Gough, Wichita Falls. A bad pass from center cost Wichita Falls seven yards, Holden recovering the ball and making a gallant attempt to return it. On the next play, Holden's attempted punt was blocked by Harrell, Norman recovering on the Coyote 17-yard line. On two spin plays by Norman and Hall, nine yards were gained. On a third spin play Hall eased through the Coyote line for a touchdown. A pass, Hall to Shields, was completed for the extra point. Score—Wichita Falls 13, Quanah 7.

Wichita Falls was unable to gain after receiving the kickoff and Hall made a beautiful 25-yard return of a surprise kick, bringing the ball to midfield.

In just two plays, Hall and Faircloth carried the ball to the 14-yard line. Norman added nine yards on a spinner and Lovell gained four for a first down on the three-yard line. Two line plays gained only a few inches but on the third Lovell plowed through the line for a touchdown, tying the score. The attempted pass for extra point failed. Score—Wichita Falls 13, Quanah 13.

The quarter ended immediately after Wichita Falls received the kickoff, Cox being downed on the 30-yard line. Ray made eight yards around end and then Withrow fumbled, Hall of Quanah recovering on the 34-yard line. A pass, Hall to Horne, netted 10 yards. Ray intercepted the next Quanah pass on the 19-yard line. Three plays gained six yards and Holden kicked to Hall who returned to the quanah 44-yard line.

On deceptive plays, Lovell made 15 yards and Norman 20, bringing the ball to the Coyote 18-yard line where the Coyotes braced and held for downs. A punt was killed on the Coyote 34-yard line, the wind being against the Coyotes. On a reverse play Norman brought the ball back to the Wichita Falls 13-yard line. Wichita Falls again braced and took the ball on downs on their own nine-yard line. Three plays gained nine yards and a punt to the 44-yard line was missed by Hall. If Wichita Falls had recovered the ball in the ensuing scramble, there might have been a different story to tell, but it was Quanah's ball. Rugely replaced Cox for Wichita Falls.

Winning Touchdown

On the second play Norman again got away, his 26-yard gain taking the ball to the Coyote eight-yard line. A five-yard penalty for offside set Quanah back and then Ray intercepted a pass and dodged beautifully through the Indians to the 34-yard line where he was tackled by Hall, the only Indian remaining in his path. Withrow went around Quanah's right end for 10 yards. Shields intercepted a pass on Quanah's 49-yard line. A pass was grounded and then Lovell did his hide-out on the side-lines. Hall made a perfect pass to him and the 35-yard gain put the ball on the Coyote 15-yard line. Norman went around left end for 11 yards, being halted by Ray. After two more plays, Horne went over for a touchdown. The pass for extra point failed. Score: Quanah 19, Wichita Falls 13.

The Coyotes huddled before receiving the kick-off and Quanah, perhaps fearing some deep stuff, kicked short. The ball went out of bounds but was put in play nevertheless. A pass, Rugely to Holton, was completed for 10 yards as the game ended.

Champion Frogs Conquer Aggies in Stubborn Fight, 3-0

ATKINS BOOTS FIELD GOAL IN LAST PERIOD FOR ONLY SCORE OF GREAT DEFENSIVE CONTEST

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, Oct. 18. (AP)—The noble tradition that it's hard to beat Texas A. & M. college here on this old field was demonstrated Saturday afternoon, the powerful Texas Christian university eleven being able to nose out the Aggies only 3 to 0.

Atkins, a Crystal Falls boy who has made the Frogs a mighty center, chalked up their three points for them, with a fourth period field goal from the 20-yard line, to crown his spectacular defensive efforts.

Leland Does Little

Cy Leland one of the country's fastest men, did not play the entire game and made less yardage than had been expected.

Favored to win, the Christians found it rough sledding all the way, though they made 13 first downs to none for A. & M. Each team gained mutual respect for the other's line prowess. The Frogs completed seven passes for 60 yards out of 26 tried and the Cadets three for 14 yards of 21 tried.

The game's most dramatic moment came when Hinton, the great T. C. U. quarterback who played headsup all the way, scooped up an Aggie punt which a teammate had failed to handle and tore down the field to be brought down on the A. & M. two-yard line.

Aggies Halt Drive

It was a situation to bring out the extraordinary resistance which the Farmers customarily show, especially here at home when things look the worst. Hinton pounded at the line thrice and got only a yard for his pains while the Cadet rooting stands bawled a crescendo of encouragement for his opposition. Then he let Griffith, the fullback try to take the other yard, and Griffith failed.

It was a great defensive game, the Aggies shining particularly in voiding pass attempts and Atkins starring in topping the Christians' celebrated wall.

City Pin League To Start Season With Eight Clubs

Bowlers Start Plans Early For State Tournament Here in April

The season of the City Bowling league will open at the Spudder alleys on Wednesday night, Oct. 29, according to an announcement made by E. F. Fruechte, secretary of the board of directors during the past week.

The season will continue for 21 consecutive weeks and the league will be composed of eight teams. All the teams are being organized and sponsors have been procured for all but one team. It is believed the final preliminary arrangements for the opening of the season will be completed early this week.

Higher Average Players

The City Bowling league is composed of the higher average bowlers of the city and the teams were selected this year with the purpose in view of making all of them as equally matched as possible. The league will be conducted on a handicap basis so that if there are any weaker teams in the organization they will get the benefit of the handicap.

The oncoming season is an important one from the standpoint of local bowlers and followers of the sport of 10 pins as Wichita Falls will be host to and the scene of the annual state tournament which will be staged the first part of April, 1931. It is quite possible and likely judging from the pre-tournament interest that at least 200 out-of-town bowlers will congregate here during the tournament, with Dallas perhaps sending the largest delegation.

New Season Record

Wichita Falls bowlers are of the opinion that this city will be represented in the tournament by not less than 75 teams and every effort is being put forth to make this year's annual state tournament one of the largest ever held in the state.

In a pre-season match game Malcord and Son won a three-game match from Kruger Jewelry company Friday night by a count of 2575 to 2508.

Capt. Harry Katz of the Kruger team already has set an alley high score record for the year which without doubt will stand for some time to come when Friday afternoon he rolled a total of 279 pins. The alley record for last year's play was 290 held by Louis Riesen, who is a member of the Hub clothiers team again this year.

The City league's schedule is now being prepared and will be announced soon. All eight teams will roll each Wednesday night.

MEMPHIS HIGH BASKET PROSPECTS ARE ROSY

Two games already have been scheduled to be played with Amarillo on Jan. 16 and 17. It is also planned to obtain two games the same week with Pampa.

MEGARGEL BLUEBIRDS SEEK GAME THIS WEEK

MEGARGEL, Texas, Oct. 18.—The Megargel High school football team, with an open date on its hands next week-end, is seeking a game with some team within the territory, either class A or B, according to announcement of Coach Chambers. Any team desiring to play the Bluebirds Friday or Saturday is asked to communicate with the coach.

DALLAS, Oct. 18. (AP)—Officials of the Dallas baseball club of the Texas league announced Saturday that Happ A. Morse, veteran infielder, would manage the Steers in 1931. Morse, senior member of the team from the standpoint of years of service, succeeds Jakie Atz, who resigned recently after one season at the helm.

Morse was given a one-year contract, but President Sol Dreyfuss said his tenure as manager would be as long as he wished if he proved a success. Morse piloted the Saginaw, Mich., club for a brief time in 1919 and also was temporary manager of the Steers late in 1928. He has played with Dallas since 1926, and has been rated as a good, hustling, consistent infielder.

Cox stopped a yard short of the goal when he was forced out of bounds. Clark, Badger halfback, went over for the lone touchdown.

After the first quarter, both teams played on even terms. The lines held like stone walls, with the ball in mid-field most of the time.

$15,000,000 WATER PIPE LINE NOW UNDER CONSIDERATION

Eastern Capital Becoming Interested In Project to Supply Towns and Cities Below Caprock From Shallow Belt

By FRED L. HASKETT

Industrial growth of Northwest Texas has been almost inconceivable during the past 10 years and that man who used to sit back and predict what the future would bring was often called the town's knave, the dreamer or the fellow with wild ideas. However, it was through the dreams of such type of men that shadows developed into structures that now convert the wealth of this section into every state of the union and most ports of the world.

Oil and Gas in Pipe Lines

One of the greatest expenditures in the developing of natural resources of Northwest Texas has been the construction of pipe lines to convey natural gas and petroleum. Many, many millions of dollars have been spent in laying the giant tubes. Fifteen years ago a prediction that from Northwest Texas would come a large percentage of the nation's fuel supply would have appeared a ridiculous statement, without fact or foundation. Today it is true and the limit of expenditures in laying new lines or extension of present lines has not been reached.

Today natural gas from the Panhandle field goes into Denver—almost the very heart of the greatest coal fields in the Rock mountains. Gas from the Panhandle fields can be turned into lines that will permit its use almost to the Mississippi river in the southern part of the nation. To the northeast the lines are winding their way almost to the Canadian border. Panhandle gas, with the construction of a few miles of line, would be available in Mexico.

The successful transportation of gas and oil in pipe lines has created in the minds of engineers the possibilities of greater investments by capital in things that can be transported through pipe. Also, engineers are developing new types of pipe, using different materials than steel. The thought of the engineers is to be able to build or manufacture pipe at the place needed, thus lessening transportation expense, breakage and to utilize as much native raw material as possible.

Meeting With Success

The engineers are meeting with success in thec reation of concrete pipe. Through new methods a pipe of unusual strength can be manufactured. This is done by winding the core with steel wire, done cheaply and rapidly. They can make concrete pipe so firm that there is no escape of fluids. Concrete pipe can be made near the place of its intended use, thus lessening cost of transportation and only one haul to where it is laid.

All materials needed can be transported at a low freight cost. The materials are cement, wire and steel plates. Freight charges on finished concrete pipe are far greater than on the rough materials. Thus money is saved in construction costs.

Concrete also has its advantage in that it is a better insulator than steel and in conveying water there is less opportunity for a frozen line than any other material except wood.

Means New Water Lines

The advance made in building concrete pipe and the desire of capital to invest in things that will be permanent and safe, is bringing about a change in the investment fields. Engineers are anxious to develop something new and the master minds of the profession are now turned towards cheap transportation of water.

Distance is no factor in piping water so long as nature provides the motive power. Los Angeles developed from a small city to a metropolis because of its water line into the mountains some 250 miles distance. It was no problem to bring water from mountain streams down to sea level.

Big Project for Texas

There has been agitation in some towns served by the Denver road in Northwest Texas that water from the Plains country be piped to them but so far little has been accomplished except to create publicity.

Childress, in 1915, had a pipe line survey made from that city to Quitaque creek at the edge of the caprock. The distance from the source of supply to Childress was over 90 miles. The proposed line had a fall of over 1,000 feet, an average of near 10 feet per mile. This was a greater drop than required to permit a gravity flow.

Due to the world war when all bond issues were withheld so money could be used in providing munitions of war, the project was held in abeyance. The estimated cost of the line in 1915 was placed at $400,000. After the war, about 1920, engineers again went over the figures and estimated the cost at about $2,000,000. That was an impossibility for a little city of about 5,000 people.

Interest Is Developed

Engineers who studied the survey of the Childress project could never dismiss it from their minds and kept adding to its possibilities. The final result is that the project has now reached as far eastward along the Denver road to Wichita Falls.

Recently the writer was given some figures that a prominent hydraulic engineer at Dallas has assembled. This engineer says the line can be built at a cost of about $15,000,000 and that 24,000,000 gallons of pure water can be run into Wichita Falls daily. The plan discussed was for a 60-inch concrete line to be laid from the caprock near Lockney, which would be reduced in size down to as low as 40 inches in diameter.

Towns and cities to be served by the line would be Quitaque, Turkey, Estelline, Carey, Childress, Kirkland, Goodlet, Acme, Quanah, Chillicothe, Tolbert, Vernon, Oklaunion, Harrold, Electra, Iowa Park, Wichita Falls and others.

The survey shows that these cities will now average, including water that would be sold to the Denver road, Katy, Frisco, Orient, Wichita Valley and Wichita Southern, some 30,000,000 gallons daily. If the proper rate could be obtained this amount of water would make the investment a safe one at this time.

Plenty of Water Available

A study of government data on the water supply of the Plains reveals that pure soft water is retained in several stratas of water-bearing sand and gravel. It is estimated that if only one-half inch of the total rainfall of the Plains area reaches these gravel stratas that there is no danger of the supply being exhausted.

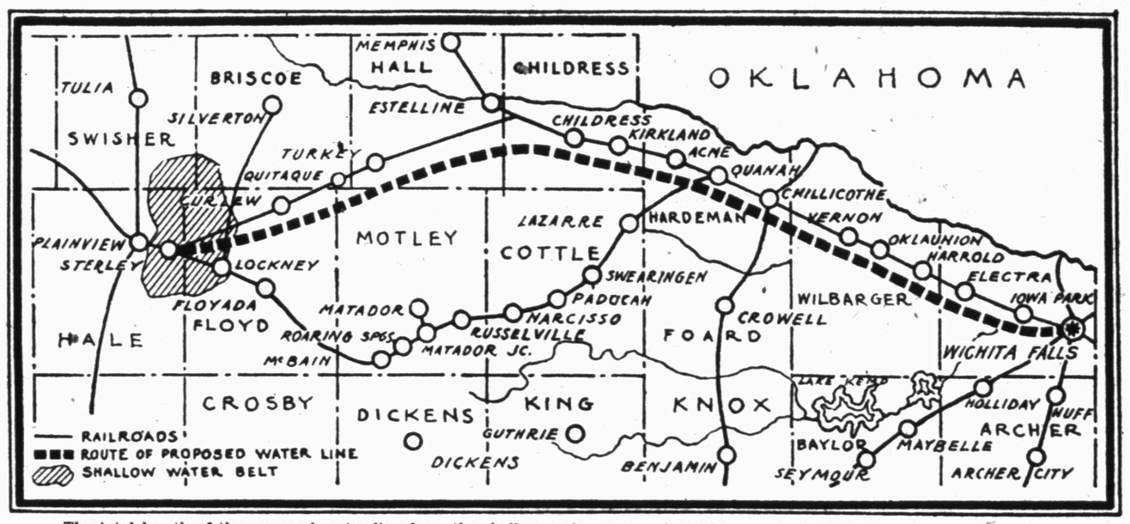

It is known that eastern capital has had representatives here to give the project study. Only recently a large photographic airplane mapped the territory of the proposed line from Wichita Falls to beyond the caprock near Quitaque.

Data is being compiled. Engineers are now busy making figures. Mayors of some of the towns have been called upon in an effort to learn if good, pure, soft water is desired. Figures are being arrived at to show the economic loss in the use of hard water, which for all the towns to be served and industrial users amounts to more than $1,000,000 annually.

Hard or mineral water destroys plumbing, for boiler use more fuel is required, likewise greater repairs. Hard water increases consumption of soap and adds in numerous ways to an economic loss.

Some day, likely not so far in the distance, will come the announcement that eastern capital will again invade Northwest Texas and spend its millions.

ROUTE OF PROPOSED WATER LINE ACROSS NORTHWEST TEXAS

The total length of the proposed water line from the shallow water area east of Plainview to Wichita Falls is approximately 220 miles. The intake of the line would be near 3,000 feet above sealevel, the discharge end being slightly above 900 feet. Small lines could be run from Wichita Falls to supply Henrietta, Archer City and Olney. From Childress a line to serve Paducah. From Quanah south to Crowell. A branch from Iowa Park would serve Burkburnett. No pumping plants would be required except at the source of supply. Wells now in operation in the shallow water belt produce as high as 3,000 gallons per minute, a total of 4,320,000 gallons per day.

Wichita Falls Made Brick, Sufficient To Build a Major City, Shipped to States From Canada to Gulf of Mexico

The plant was constructed in 1908, and originally was established by M. W. Staniforth, Frank Kell and other local citizens. In November, 1927, the plant was sold to the Acme Brick company, a Texas corporation organized in 1891 with the home office in Fort Worth.

The Wichita Falls plant is one of 12 plants owned by the Acme company and represents a substantial proportion of the $6,000,000 that the company has invested in plants.

Products of the Acme company are marketed throughout the Southwestern states and are represented through brokers in the Northwest, North and Northeast. The name "Wichita Falls" is stamped on the brick and one can see these bricks used in buildings from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, and from the Atlantic ocean to the Rocky mountains. The bulk of the brick manufactured in Wichita Falls, however, is used to serve the trade of Southwestern Oklahoma, North and South Plains of Texas and New Mexico.

There are really two separate and distinct plants or units in Wichita Falls. A dry press unit and a stiff mud unit. While the plants are located on the same site, the machinery, buildings and equipment are entirely different.

The two units have a capacity of 100,000 bricks a day. Employment is given about 100 men. The plant consumes 1,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas per day and has an electric power bill of approximately $1,200 per month.

There are 105 acres in the plant site. Buildings cover five acres and have a capacity of over 3,000,000 cubic feet. Enough raw clay is kept in storage for a run of 20 days. The clay is reclaimed by company owned electric shovel, gasoline locomotive and dump cars.

Nine updraft kilns are used to burn the stiff mud brick, each kiln having a capacity of 350,000 bricks, or a total of 3,150,000 bricks at one time. The six down draft kilns have a capacity of 90,000 bricks each and are used to burn dry pressed brick. The total capacity of these kilns is 540,000 bricks.

To give the reader an idea of the number of bricks that are burned each year is to state that the amount is sufficient to build 60 buildings equal in size to the Perkins-Snider building in Wichita Falls.

The company's expenditure in Wichita Falls, including sales, production and supplies, amounts to $250,000 annually. The company does its banking, insurance and many purchases of supplies with Wichita Falls firms. The plant is located within the city limits and thereby subject to city tax. The company also maintains an uptown sales office.

The brick manufactured in the Wichita Falls plant is one of the best common brick known. A recent test by the Pittsburg Testing laboratory shows the brick to classify under federal specification No. 504 as a hard burned brick. The test showed an average absorption of 7 per cent, an average crushing strength of 9,002 pounds per square inch and modulus of rupture of 998 pounds per square inch.

This test proves conclusively that the Wichita Falls brick is an excellent product, and a good product is always a credit to the manufacturer and to the city in which it is made.

Millions in New Theater Buildings For Texas Cities

The recent announcement that a large theater corporation plans the spending of a few millions of dollars in Texas for the erection of new playhouses is causing some of the chambers of commerce in the larger cities to get busy in getting a plum for their city.

Outside of San Antonio there has been little construction of theater buildings in Texas within the past five years. Some of the old playhouses have been outgrown and many of them are not as modern as should be. The theater business, like all others, requires that the show houses be up-to-date.

So far no announcement has come as to which cities will be first chosen for new theaters. The expenditure of the vast sum will be of benefit in getting under way building construction within the state.

Construction New Rail Line Delayed Vernon Southward

Approximately three-fourths of the desired $25,000 guarantee to cover the right of way expense for the extension of the Frisco railway from Vernon to Seymour has been raised by the committee representing the chamber of commerce at Vernon.

The funds secured go towards paying for land between Vernon and Seymour in Wilbarger county. The extension was planned to start Nov. 1, but it now appears that the construction work will be delayed at least a month.

The building of the new extension will create much employment among day laborers and a vast amount of material will be used. Nearly all construction material will be stored in Vernon and moved out as the new railroad is laid.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Board of review to be held Monday, Oct. 27, at 5:30 p. m. at the scout headquarters. All scoutmasters are urged to have their scouts ready for this board of review. Remember the advancement contest.

The big game party is to be held at the First Christian church, Friday, Oct. 31; all of the scouts of the city and the cities nearby are invited to attend the party. A great time is being planned.

Big scoutmasters meeting to be held Thursday night, Oct. 23, at Chief Creighton's house at 1631 Collins, dinner to be served at 7:30 p. m. All the scoutmasters are urged to be present at this meeting. Mrs. Creighton would like to have an approximate number as to how many will be present Thursday night, so please call scout office not later than Thursday morning as to whether you will be present or not. The plans and events of the jamboree are to be discussed at this meeting Thursday night, so come prepared for a big meeting.

Troop No. 4 met at the First Christian church with John Tevis, scoutmaster, in charge of the meeting. The meeting was opened with the scout oath and laws, led by the scoutmaster. During the business meeting, the election of a senior patrol leader and the new patrol leader was discussed. Mr. Tevis requested that each boy in the troop be prepared to pass one or more tests at the next meeting. A letter was read from Henry Cook, a former scout of troop No. 4. A short game period was held. The meeting was closed with the scout oath and laws by the scoutmaster. There were about 11 boys present at the meeting.

Troop No. 2 met at the First Methodist church with Bill McClure, scoutmaster, in charge of the meeting. The meeting was opened with the scout oath, led by the scoutmaster. During the business meeting the jamboree was discussed and several events were practiced. Several stunts were given. The troop put on a play, "The Wedding of Mr. McClure," with the cast as follows: "Mr. McClure," played by Bobby Fitzsimmons; "Miss Hamilton," played by Preston Thompson; "Cupid," played by Edward Peterson, and the preacher, played by George Napier. After the mock wedding ceremony, Mr. McClure was presented with a gift from the troop. The meeting was closed with the scout oath and laws. About 21 boys were present.

Troop No. 21 met at the Scotland Evangelical church, with A. M. Tipps, scoutmaster, in charge of the meeting. The meeting was opened with the scout oath and laws. George Manross was elected to be bugler of troop No. 21, and Fred Bidelspacher was elected to be assistant bugler. Three boys passed the tenderfoot test. The meeting was closed with a prayer. There were 12 present at the troop meeting.

Troop No. 15 met at the Highland Heights Christian church, with J. H. Rudy, scoutmaster, in charge of the meeting. The meeting was opened with the pledge of allegiance, led by Cecil Pinkston. And the scout oath led by Jack Cox. Each boy said a law, as he paid his dues. During the game period a new game was played, "ball tag," which the boys enjoyed greatly. There were two visitors present. The meeting was closed with the scoutmaster's benediction, led by James Taubert.

Troop No. 16 met at the first Baptist church with Kenith Erwin, scoutmaster, in charge of the meeting. The meeting was opened with the pledge of allegiance. After the announcements were made the patrol meetings were held. Then inter-patrol contests were given, and the Black Bass patrol ranked first. The meeting was closed with the scoutmaster's benediction.

Troop No. 10 met at the First Presbyterian church with Paul Woodward, scoutmaster in charge of the meeting. The meeting was opened with the Scout oath and laws, led by Chester Morgan. The various patrol meetings were held. Six boys passed the tenderfoot tests. The board of review was discussed. During the game session, relay races, steal the bacon, signaling and basket ball were played. The meeting was closed with the pledge of allegiance led by Marvin Fox.

Troop No. 24 met at the East Side Presbyterian church with R. A. Yeager, scoutmaster, in charge of the meeting. There were two applications for membership presented to the troop, Joe Brown and Robert Percival. A demonstration in making pan-cakes was given by Mrs. Yeager. And in the game session, many Indian games were played. Saturday week the troop is planning to have an all-day hike out on the north side of the Diversion lake, with Rev. E. F. McGaughey accompanying the troop.

The Valley View scout troop, with C. C. Childress in charge, met Tuesday evening with 19 boys present. Three events were selected by each patrol for a patrol contest, and the Fox patrol won the contest.

Troop No. 12 met with Don W. Ross, scoutmaster, in charge of the meeting. The meeting was opened with the pledge of allegiance led by Cooper Waters, and the scout oath led by Cooper Waters. Election of patrol leaders and Glenn Wharton was elected senior patrol leader. Inter-patrol contest was held and the Raven patrol won the contest. The patrol leader of the Ravens is Levi Price. The csoutmaster wishes to announce that his daughter, born one week ago, is to be called Betsy Ross, in honor of the maker of the first flag. Music was furnished by Glenn and Marshall Wharton.

BEST FIRE CLAY IN NATION DISCOVERED IN WESTERN TEXAS

Near Uvalde, in the north portion of the county of the same name in Southwest Texas, is one of the largest and best beds of fire clay ever discovered in America. The clay withstands heat to a higher degree than any clay yet found in this nation. Due to the deposit being located in the hills and far removed from transportation facilities it has not been practical to work the deposit.

Eastern interests recently inspected the deposit and made a partial survey of the area of deposit. It is reported they were highly pleased with the findings and are now at work on a plan to transport the raw material to the railroads at Uvalde.

Three plans are considered. One is the overhead tram, which is quite expensive to construct. The other two plans call for the construction of a pipe line. Experts are of the opinion that the clay can be ground into powder form and blown through the pipe. Another concern advocates that the clay be mixed with water and pumped into Uvalde, being separated from the water by the same system as used in mining sulphur. However, there is only a limited amount of water available, which detracts from the plan.

West and Southwest Texas have many valuable minerals yet untouched but as cheaper transportation and mining methods are discovered the deposits will be utilized and a greater income secured for the West Texas citizenship.

BANDIT-KILLER WANTED SPEEDY DEATH AND JURY SENTENCES HIM TO CHAIR

HOUSTON, Oct. 18. (UP)—Jess J. Maple, bandit-killer, today won his request for a speedy death. The man who shot Motorcycle Officers E. D. Fitzgerald and W. B. Phares to death when they attempted to arrest him for a furniture store holdup, today was sentenced to die in the electric chair Nov. 18.

The killer, who has said he deserves and wants death, refused to let his attorney appeal the case after Judge White Boyd had overruled a motion for a new trial.

Sober Colors Prevail With Radical Changes Unlikely as Manufacturers Prepare to Market 1931 Model Cars

By ROBERT M. ROSS
Universal Service Automobile Editor

DETROIT, Oct. 18.—Automobile companies began making their annual investments in the future Oct. 15. During the next few weeks, first returns on millions of dollars spent on experiments, tooling and factory readjustments will start rolling from assembly lines in the shape of 1931 models.

Executives are reticent on the actual cost of this transition period that precedes introduction of new motor styles. From a check, however, it is apparent that the amount compares favorably with the figures of other years and represent proof of the manufacturers' belief that present depression in the automobile industry will not long continue.

Although several companies already have placed their 1931 offerings before the public, at least 12 major companies have shut down or will do so within the next six weeks for their new model program. The period calls for installation of dies and equipment best adapted to the designs proposed.

The models that make their debut this winter have been under experiment for from two to three years. Automobile companies generally work that far in advance of their current cars, revising ideas only to meet unforseen conditions.

If the recently closed Paris salon can be accepted as any criterion, this country will not see any raidcal developments at the automobile show this year. European manufacturers, in their presentations, sought to improve safety and comfort features of models rather than to offer anything striking. New and more luxurious seating arrangements, silent gears and other similar improvements were most noticeable.

Sober Colors Prevail

Sober colors predominated, according to dispatches, replacing the brilliant hues of a year ago. The majority of cars were dark or of very dark shades. Chronium metal appeared much in vogue with rare woods marking the more expensive trims. Upholstery continued to show a leaning toward broadcloth.

The opinion of European manufacturers that this year is not opportune for introduction of striking changes is held by the majority of American manufacturers. Front wheel drives, four wheel steering, automatic gear shifts apparently will be kept in the drafting room until a more prosperous era.

Austin will add a new deluxe coupe to its line of three models around Nov. 1. The car will offer a more luxurious interior and exterior, with oak panel instrument board, heavy chromium plate headlamps and windshield fittings outstanding. The company also plans to introduce a new light delivery shortly. It will be mounted on the same chassis as the present series, but with a 13-inch longer body.

Officials of the company acted last week to set at rest rumors of a price cut for the car. The price tendency is up rather than down, said an announcement, and an increase can be expected.

Hupmobile has installed a free-wheeling gear on its large eights. Thus far no announcement has been made, although the machine is being marketed. The company may adopt the gear for its entire line.

A representative of Warner gear, which builds the free-wheeling device, says four companies will definitely be in the winter shows with the new gear.

Branch plants for the assembly of Chevrolet commercial cars and the Martin-Parry body will be set up at 52 zone offices, it was announced here following the statement that Chevrolet has taken over the Indianapolis company.

Heretofore Chevrolet bought commercial bodies from a number of conceras, allowing the dealer or buyer to select the model best suited to his needs. The new setup will give the purchaser the same variety of bodies, but the Indianapolis plant will build about 60 per cent of the orders. Despite sale of its main plant, Martin-Parry will maintain the identity and continue to operate at York, Pa., and South Kearney, N. J.

Unusual Shopping Center Being Built Residence Section

A new shopping center is being constructed within Highland park, exclusive and independent residence section of Dallas. Flippen & Prather, developers of Highland park, are spending $1,000,000 on the shopping center, which is of Spanish design. Some of the store buildings have been completed and work will be rushed until the model shopping place is finished.

The store buildings are set back from the streets and will be hidden from view by trees, shrubs and vines. Every convenience is being installed for shopping. The entire ground area will have concrete pavement, making the parking of cars convenient for women shoppers.

PIONEER NEGRO RESIDENT BUYS UNDERTAKING FIRM

The purchase of the undertaking establishment which has been conducted by A. W. Weatherford and son at 100½ Lake street by Steve and Maggie Sargent, negroes, was announced Saturday.

Sargent announced that the establishment will be extensively altered. He and his wife have resided in Wichita Falls more than 30 years.

Will Again Meet in Dallas

DALLAS, Oct. 18. (AP)—Directors of the Texas Cotton Ginners' association, meeting here today, voted to hold the 1931 state convention in Dallas, probably next April.

EXCESSIVE RAINS RAISE EXPENSE IN REPAIRING TRACKS

Excessive rainfall over West and Northwest Texas had had its damaging effect upon the railroads, and as a result it will be necessary to add many man to the track gangs, so state railroad men.

A hard rain that falls rapidly does very little damage to railroad tracks as most of the lines are ballasted with rock or gravel, thus turning off much water. A slow rain or a continuation of rainfall with operation of trains is the cause of heavy damage to road beds. The action of a moving train, and more especially freight trains of long length, cause an up and down movement of the steel and ties, thus permitting the water to enter under and between the ties.

A few days of rain makes bad matters worse and at the end of a rainy season reports flood the road-master's office of "low spots" and asking for attention. These bad spots must be attended to for they are one of the greatest causes of derailments and wrecks.

The rains of the past 15 days can be classified as a "wind that will blow somebody good." More men must be put to work to get the tracks in order. For the past 12 months extra track and section gangs have been reduced to the minimum. Some section foremen have had only one man at work.

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

Local conditions in the Wichita Falls district and three counties in the Panhandle field were responsible for the drastic cut in the crude price, according to statements made by representatives of the major crude purchasing companies.

The reduction, which was announced Thursday by the Humble Oil and Refining company, was immediately followed by the Prairie, Texas, Gulf, Continental, Magnolia and other buyers in the district. It slashed the crude from 10 to 35 cents per barrel, the latter being the average cut for oil of 39.9 gravity, which is the bulk of the grade of oil produced in the Wichita Falls area.

In a statement issued by W. S. Farish, president of the Humble Oil and Refining company, which took the lead in the reduction, he asserted that with many of the producers in the North Texas and Panhandle fields selling their oil far below the prices posted by these majors, no alternative was left but to revise their schedules to meet the low prices in these two fields.

A number of companies which had curtailed prices in the Wichita Falls area were represented as saying that conditions in the other fields would probably delay a rumored downward revision of their prices, while other reliable sources asserted that a general cut would soon be announced in all fields throughout the midcontinent area.

Operations throughout the Wichita Falls district in the past week failed to bring forth any interesting happenings. A few wells were completed, the majority being dry holes. A summary of new locations showed 13, the greater number staked out in the shallow field near Newcastle in Young county.

Proration and reduced prices for the crude were not much of an incentive to the operators to continue operations, and practically all the fields shut down all work to the minimum.

In the wildcat sections where several interesting deep tests are drilling, high water and bad road conditions were responsible for some of the wells shutting down temporarily.

Pipe line runs for the week averaged 80,252 barrels per day, a gain of approximately 1,419 barrels being registered as compared with the previous week's run of 78,833 barrels. Gains in Archer and Young counties offset losses in the other pools.

FOUR WELLS IN TATUMS FIELD FIND OIL SAND

GREAT ACTIVITY IN CARTER COUNTY AREA

New Producer Yields 1,600 Barrels in First Gauge

ARDMORE, Okla., Oct. 18.—Four new producers were added to the list of completions in the Tatums district in Carter county, southern Oklahoma's most active area at this time. The new completions had a combined initial 24-hour gauge of 4484½ barrels of oil. Four other tests were in the process of being completed and one location was staked at the close of a very busy week.

C. L. Anderson's No. 5 Eaves in the northwest of the northeast of the southwest of 24-1s-3w, flowed 1600 barrels of oil during first gauge from 120 feet of broken and 80 feet of solid sand logged between 2280 and total depth at 2504 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum company completed two tests during the week. No. 3 Willie Spigner in the southeast corner of the northwest of 24-1s-3w, swabbed 1146 barrels of oil during initial gauge. It is producing from a series of sands found between 2257 and total depth at 2509 feet. No. 2 Willie Spigner in the southwest of the southeast of the northwest of 24-1s-3w, produced 966 barrels of oil during first 24-hour gauge from a series of sands found between 2280 and total depth at 2504 feet.

Trevlyn Oil company's No. 4 Spigner in the southwest corner of the northwest of 24-1s-3w, swabbed 772½ barrels of crude during its initial 24-hour gauge and has been shut in for the 16-day proration period after which it will go on production at 100 barrels daily. It is producing from sands found between 2312 and total depth at 2525 feet.

Wirt Franklin Petroleum corporation was bailing after drilling plugs and setting 186 feet of six-inch perforated liner in No. 4 Mitchell in the northeast of the southeast of the southeast of 24-1s-3w. Oil sand was logged in this test at 2279-2318 feet with total depth at 2330 feet in shale.

Plugs Drilled

The Carter Oil company's No. 2 Joe Franklin in the southwest of the northeast of the northeast of 24-1s-3w, was being bailed in. Operators drilled plugs at this test and set 324 feet of perforated liner. Casing was cemented at 1860 feet after oil sands were logged at 1871-1916 (broken), 1916-2017 (solid) and 2017-2060 (broken) feet, with total depth at 2135 feet.

Magnolia Petroleum company's No. 2 J. B. Brady in the southeast corner of the southwest of 13-1s-3w, on the north edge of the field, drilled plugs at 2222 feet on oil sand penetrated to bottom of the hole at 2227 feet, and had started drilling in.

The same operator was drilling plugs at No. 4 Willie Spigner in the northeast of the southeast of the northwest of 24-1s-3w, which was cemented with total depth at 2248 feet, and staked location for No. 1 Joseph Weiss, SW SE SW section 19-1s-2w, on the southeast end of the field.

George Pace and others swabbed approximately 100 barrels of oil in No. 1 Mitchell in the northwest corner of 30-1s-2w, on the southeast end of the field, and operators are pulling liner to drill deeper. Total depth is 2280 feet. It will be deepened to around 2450 feet.

Lesh & McCall's No. 1 Rufus in the southeast of the northwest of the southwest of 14-1s-3w, completed rigging up and shut down for orders.

Magnolia's No. 1 Mose Dickerson in the northwest of the northeast of the southeast of 24-1s-3w, is waiting on cement to set after plugging back to 2165 feet from total depth at 4240 feet. No. 2 Mose Dickerson in the southwest of the southeast of the northeast of 24-1s-3w, is rigging up rotary tools.

Wait on Cement

No. 4 James Hooks in the northeast of the southwest of the northeast of 24-1s-3w, is on cement to set with total depth at 1975 feet. It is moving in tools for No. 8 Lewis in the northeast corner of 24-1s-3w. No. 1 W. H. Hooks in the southwest corner of 13-1s-3w, is drilling ta 1590 feet. No. 4 Joseph Pollack in the southeast corner of 14-1s-3w, is drilling at 1250 feet.

M. G. R. Oil company's No. 2 Mitchell in the southeast corner of 24-1s-3w, is drilling at 1625 feet.

The Morter Drilling company has completed rig and expects to start drilling operations in a short time at No. 1 Johnson, in the northwest of the southwest of the southeast of 17-4s-2w, three-fourths of a mile west of production in the old Hewitt field and east of the Healdton field production in Carter county. It is located about three and a half miles north of Wilson, and will be drilled to 3000 feet and probably deeper if formations are favorable.

Roy M. Johnson's No. 1 Walker in the northwest of the southwest of the northeast of 20-4s-2w, new test to be drilled approximately a mile southwest of production in the old Hewitt field in Carter county has resumed operations after cementing surface casing.

Bryan Oil company's No. 1 Childs in the northeast corner of the southeast corner of the southwest of the southwest of 8-7s-10e, six miles southeast of Durant and near the town of Roberta in Bryan county, is drilling at 410 feet in lime after being shut down several days on account of the recent rains.

M. A. Neff and others' No. 1 in the southeast corner of 27-6s-7e, about two and a half miles northwest of Mead in western Bryan county, is drilling below 590 feet.

Magnolia's No. 1 I. E. Harmon in the northwest corner of the southwest of 28-1s-2w, two and a fourth miles southeast of production in the Tatums district, is drilling at 3712 feet.

AVERAGE PRICE CRUDE DROPS AGAIN FOR WEEK

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. (AP)—The average price of crude petroleum in 10 producing fields was lower last week at $1.456 a barrel, compared with $1.490 the preceding week, Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter say. The average for the corresponding period last year was $1.652 a barrel. Gasoline at refineries was unchanged from the previous week at 6.52 cents a gallon at four principal refineries.

Mid-Continent Oil Activities

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 18. (UP)—The British American No. 1 Ekroat well, which came in late yesterday for an estimated flow of 50,000 barrels of oil daily, proved itself today as one of the largest producers in the Oklahoma City field.

This flow is at the rate of 76,800 barrels daily, making it the largest high gravity well in the field and perhaps the world.

Location is CWE NW 10-11-8w. It is surrounded by residences. It was brought in under complete control.

Operators were preparing to abandon the Prairie-Slick No. 1 Dills well north of Britton. The wildcat has been plugged back several times with no show of oil or gas.

HAROLD LLOYD'S DOG IN POUND BECAUSE NO ONE WANTS HIM AT HOME

PASADENA, Calif., Oct. 18. (AP)—Anyone who wants to pay a dog license fee of $2 can have one of Harold Lloyd's former prize winning great Danes. The famous canine, Leo, was in the Pasadena dog pound today—because no one seems to want him.

The film comedian, taking cognisance of complaints of Leo's night howling, gave him to a friend in Altadena. The 150-pound dog ate too much, his Altadena owners said, so they passed him on to a San Marino home. There a spirited wire haired terrior strenuously objected to playing second fiddle to the big Dane. So to the pound Leo went, where he waits for a new owner.

Life Imprisonment

COLUMBUS, Kan., Oct. 18. (AP)—Charles Gibbons was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Kansas penitentiary today by Judge John W. Hamilton for the murder of Ralph Price, 19, at Galena, last May 24.

WILDCAT WELL INDICATES NEW FIELD IN WARD

NEW RECORDS SET FOR WORLD'S DEEPEST POOL

Crane County Discovery Test Shut Down to Wait Storage

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Oct. 18.—High lights in oil development this week in the West Texas Permian basin included the apparent opening of a new Ward county pool by Texas-Pacific's No. 1 M. Barker, production of 3,242 barrels of high gravity oil in 24 hours by Big Lake Oil company's No. 4-C university, a new record for the world's deepest producers in Reagan county, and virtually doubling of the field by Fuhrman Petroleum corporation's No. 1 Ford, Andrews county wildcat, to 120 barrels daily before it stopped drilling at 4563 feet to erect more storage.

Crantill Brothers Oil company and Gulf Production company's No. 1 J. B. Tubbs, west central Crane county wildcat discovery well, produced 1,315 barrels in 38 hours before it was shut in on Saturday morning, Oct. 11, but in deepening four feet Wednesday from a corrected total depth of 4310 feet it registered no increase and made only 25 barrels an hour the first seven hours after it was opened. Importance attaches to the well due to its obtaining production beneath two sulphur water levels at a record depth in the Permian lime. Its corrected pay top of 4301 feet is 1775 feet below sea level and 1846 feet in lime, if 3445 feet, the first stringer, is used as the top.

The well was shut down and shut in from Saturday morning until Wednesday morning for the erection of 10 500-barrel tanks. The well is 2310 feet from the north line and 330 feet from the east line of section 8, block B-27, public school land. Several pipe lines are nearby and no pipe line connection had been made. Cranfill Brothers No. 1 J. T. Muir, two and one-half miles south of No. 1 Tubbs and higher on the lime, had drilled to 2800 feet in hard grey lime without shows. No. 1 Tubbs struck gas at 2665 feet and had increases at several points, the biggest gains being at 2900-07 and 2930-35 feet to an estimated 10,000,000 cubic feet.

Indicating initial production higher than that in Ward county's discovery Hayslett pool four miles to the southeast, Texas-Pacific Coal and Oil company's No. 1 M. Barker, in the west corner of section 27, block B-29, public school land, flowed 112 barrels of oil the first 20 hours in drilling to 2352 feet Wednesday. The first oil was struck at 2255-60 feet, there were increases at 2293 and 2329 feet and the well made its first heads Sunday morning, five flows in nine hours totaling 80 barrels. It then was pinched until storage was erected. Pay is somewhat higher than in the Hayslett area and about level with that in the Bennett pool, two and one-half miles to the northwest.

Will Get Shot

Penn-Atlantic's No. 1 Bennett in the Bennett pool, which had been only a 20 to 30-barrel a day well, was shot with 200 quarts from 2550 to 2614 feet and produced 67 barrels in one day while cleaning out. Pay was topped at 2550. The well is in section 16, block 194, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, Magnolia's No. 1 Sealy in section 46, block F, G. M. M. B. & A. survey, had drilled to 2842 feet in lime reportedly topped at 2700 feet, four feet above sea level. It had a rainbow showing from 2794 to 2800 feet.

Big Lake's No. 4-C University in Reagan county became the largest of the world's seven deepest producers by gauging 3242 barrels following the drilling out of a bridge at 4826 feet that had stopped the flow. This amount exceeded by 296 barrels the peak by group No. 1 Oil corporation's (Texon) No. 1-B university, the discovery deep well in the area. Gas tested over 51,000,000 cubic feet. No. 4-C is 8697 feet deep and is 1120 feet from the north line and 1098 feet from the east line of section 1, block 2. Three of the other six deep producers showed gains during the week, the discovery well gaining 31 barrels daily for a daily average yield of 2,817.43 barrels, while three showed declines as the result of efforts to curb production in line with the state-wide curtailment program.

One of the week's new locations was staked in Reagan county about seven miles north of the Big Lake field by the T. B. Slick estate and others, in section 1218, D. & S. E. Ry. Co. survey. Thomas & Brann of San Angelo have the contract to drill to 8100 feet or to sulphur water in the lime at a lesser depth. They will move in immediately.

Fuhrman's No. 1 Ford in section 16, block A-43, public school land, six miles south of Andrews county's discovery well, became the equal of any well in the county by gauging 120 to 125 barrels daily for almost a week before it shut down Wednesday at 4563 feet in lime and was pinched pending erection of a 10,000 barrel tank. There was 1,100 barrels of oil in storage and room for only an additional 400 barrels. The point or points at which No. 1 Ford obtained increases were not definite. At 4563 feet the well was 1377 feet below sea level and 626 feet in the lime, using 3935 feet as the lime top.

Water appeared in Carl Cromwell, M. M. Rowan and others' No. 1 university, new Pecos county producer six miles east and one and one-half miles north of the Taylor-Link pool, shortly after it began pumping and the well was averaging 30 barrels of oil and 40 barrels of water daily. After shooting pay from 1785 to 1830 feet with 80 quarts it had swabbed clean oil. Lockhart and company and others' No. 1 university, three-quarters of a mile north and a quarter mile west of Cromwell, Rowen and others' well, was being watched closely, drilling below 1700 feet.

Two Pecos county wildcats struck sulphur water during the week but neither was condemned by it. Pure's No. 1 Harrison in section 203, block 3, T. & P. Ry Co. survey, on a large surface high, encountered sulphur water at 3262 feet that had risen 2200 feet in drilling to 3290. Twelve miles to the southwest, Humble's No. 1 Kokernot in section 227, block 10, G. H. & S. A. Ry Co. survey, shut down at 5695 feet in dark sandy shale to install heavier equipment capable of drilling to 8000 feet, if desired. The upper lime was missed, the Delaware being topped at 3981 feet, 386 feet below sea level. Rio Grande Oil company's No. 1 Webb, in section 31, abstract 716, C. M. Kinney survey, struck flowing sulphur water at 1490 feet, supposedly in the Rustler, and had drilled past 1640 feet. Pure's No. 1 Harrison struck fresh water in the Rustler while Humble's No. 1-B Thompson encountered sulphur water in that formation. The latter had drilled past 2300 feet in line and anhydrite.

Cardinal Oil company prepared to pump what appeared to be a 70-barrel a day well in its No. 10 Toborg on the north edge of the Toborg-Tippett pool immediately northwest of the Yates field in Pecos county. It topped the pay at 313 feet and drilled to 367 feet. Culberson Brothers of Fort Worth and others spudded No. 1 Tippett, 150 feet south and 815 feet east of the center of section 40, block 194, G. C. & S. F. Ry Co. survey, on a 40-acre lease bought from the Southern Oil corporation-Indian Territory company's No. 1 O'Harrow, a Schleicher county wildcat, struck another hole full of salt water at 5568-70 feet, drilled to 5575 feet and prepared to underream from 5512 feet to the bottom to shutoff the water and drill ahead.

Texannati Oil company's No. 1 F. Tankersley in Irion county, two and one-half miles southeast of shallow, high gravity, sweet oil producers, showed oil in sand topped at 1221 feet but had no increase in drilling to 1235 feet. The test is in section 4, G. C. & S. F. Ry. Co. survey. Carl Cromwell's No. 3 Nutt, a 25-barrel a day well, encountered water and no more oil in drilling to 1730 feet and plugged back to 1457 feet, where it was to be placed on the pump again. Cromwell will move the machine from No. 3 Nutt to No. 4 Nutt, 1330 feet from the east line and 450 feet from the north line of subdivision 6, Gonzales county school land, 500 feet east of his No. 2 Nutt, a producer.

Green & Getty's No. 1 Denman in section 14, block 30, township 1 south, T. & P. Ry Co. survey, eastern Howard county, made a head in drilling to 2703 feet in lime and was rigging up to pamp. Pay was topped at 2615 feet and there was an increase at 2666 feet. The well is one-half mile south of Sinclair's No. 1 Dodge, a new producer, which pumped 310 barrels of oil the first day at a total depth of 2798 feet.

TEXANS TO RIDE SPECIAL TRAIN TO A. P. I. MEET

DALLAS, Oct. 18.—The Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association is sponsoring a special train from Texas to the convention of the American Petroleum institute, which is to be held in Chicago from Nov. 10 to 13. The train is to be made up of sections from Houston and South Texas; Fort Worth and West Texas; Wichita Falls and Northwest Texas, and from Dallas and East Texas. These sections will reach Denison the evening of Nov. 8, leaving there over the M-K-T lines for Chicago via St. Louis. A rate of one and one-half fare on the certificate plan has been made.

In a letter to Texas oil men the mid-continent association states that the train will consist of the finest all-steel Pullman equipment, with open section sleepers, drawing room compartment sleepers, an observation car, and a club car in addition. Edward T. Moore of Dallas is president of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, and J. P. Laney is executive secretary.

It is expected that more than 100 Texas oil men will attend the institute, it was stated at the association offices.

Texans take a very prominent part in the activities of the American Petroleum institute. Two Texans, W. S. Farish and J. SELLING OUTBURST CARRIES STOCKS TO LOWEST SINCE 1928

By RICHARD L. GRIDLEY
United Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—The stock market has again become a dominating factor in the business situation as the result of another series of breaks which have carried the average price level of stocks to the lowest levels since 1928.

Seasonal improvement in business early this fall was accomplished despite hesitancy in the stock market but further weakness in the market in recent weeks has caused economists to revise estimates of the extent of the predicted early winter revival.

One of the leading steel authorities blames the recent stock and grain market weakness for a return of conservatism on the part of steel buyers and notes a drop in steel production during the past week to 55 per cent of capacity, against 58 per cent in the preceding week.

Buying Increases

The electric manufacturing industry is reported to be operating at its lowest level of the year, while automobile output has shown little change from the dull summer months. But buying, however, has increased sharply in the past few days.

In retail lines, return of warmer weather in the eastern section of the country has retarded sales. Western sections have been aided by cold weather. Lower farm prices have been a factor in the irregular trend in retail sales in other sections.

Notwithstanding the fact that the general public has withdrawn from the stock market, extreme weakness in stocks has created a pessimistic feeling in many quarters. The steady decline in leading shares has naturally given rise to doubts of the permanency of dividends paid by leading corporations.

Professionals Lose

Due to the professional character of recent stock market trading most of the losses have been confined to speculators and traders not wiped out in last fall's crash. This factor has resulted in far less loss of purchasing power than would occur in normal times.

Recent rumors regarding a campaign of stock exchange authorities and possibly government officials against demoralizing short selling in the security market attracted little attention in banking circles inasmuch as the short interest was not regarded as exceeding normal limits.

At the same time several leading economists expressed the belief that a return to normal would be a slow process and decried over optimism in expecting an immediate large scale industrial revival.

On the other hand, stock market followers are almost unanimous in their belief that the bottom of the current decline in the stock market will be reached in the near future and expect that a reversal in the trend will precede business improvement.

PRICE TURKEYS LOWEST ANY TIME SINCE 1898

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. (AP)—The economic depression has not affected the consumption of turkeys.

C. E. McNeill, business manager of the Chicago Poultry association, yesterday said a dollar would buy more turkey this year than at any time since 1898. The fowls are also more plentiful and consumed in greater quantities, McNeill said.

Geese, chicken and ducks are correspondingly cheaper and the sales much heavier, McNeil added.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 18. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit this week was very spotted with packers endeavoring to break prices but meeting little success except at a few markets where there was a liberal run of dry lot fed steers and yearlings. Chicago had a top of 13.25 on yearlings and realized $12.50 for highly finished heavy steers. Western grass steers at the river markets cleared mostly from $5.75@8.00 with fed grassers upward to $10.00. Receipts were around 272,900.

Prices on hogs continued to fluctuate from day to day depending on the volume of receipts and the extent to which shippers competed with packers. Current values at most centers are around steady with a week ago. Chicago, however, had the relatively low market late last week and showed the gain of 40@50c. The late top in Chicago was $10.15. Offerings were around 394,500.

Fat lambs opened the week 50c@$1.00 lower but with a reaction on late sessions a good sized proportion of the loss was regained. Current quotations are unevenly steady to 50c lower, matured classes of sheep are firm to higher with a week ago. The supply approximated 511,600.

FORMER MARSHAL FREED MANSLAUGHTER CHARGES

RENEWED SELLING BRINGS DECLINE IN STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. (AP)—Stocks underwent another downward revision today. Liquidation was heavy in all groups as the selling of the last two days carried over into the week-end session, but the market found the footing a trifle firmer and the sweeping declines of yesterday were replaced by more moderate net losses.

Final prices were generally at least a fraction above the bottoms and few stocks lost more than 3 points, while a large number yielded only one or two, but obviously even those declines were sufficient to record many new lows. Sales total 2,161,500 shares, a rather large Saturday business.

Wall street has decided the weakness of the market is due to real liquidation rather than to short selling, and seems to be of the opinion that the sooner it is over the better for all concerned.

The week-end news was not all gloomy. Steel operations in the Youngstown area will be unchanged next week and leading producers find conditions there a little better. A week ago the best that could be said was that things were no worse. Prices on recent bookings are unchanged.

The commodity markets were unusually steady, making virtually no changes, although the weakness of the stock market had a slightly depressing effect on wheat. Foreign exchanges were also dull, featured by a rally in the Spanish peseta which returned to around 10 cents.

GRAIN DEVELOPS FIRM RESISTANCE TO SELLING WAVE

CHICAGO, Oct. 18. (AP)—Despite the handicap of a heavy stock market, grain values today not only developed stubborn resistance to selling, but finished with some net gain. Indications of greatly increased wheat acreage in the United States, together with curtailment of corn hogging returns, did much to offset bearish estimates of wheat crops in Australia and Argentina. Fresh reports that Russia was offering wheat abroad at lower prices exercised no apparent market influence, whereas considerable interest was shown concerning news that President Hoover was in conference today with a leading American wheat grower who has recently been in Russia.

Closing quotations on wheat were firm, ½@⅝c higher than yesterday's finish, corn closed ⅛c off to ⅛c up, oats at ⅝c decline to ⅛c advance, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 22c.

A stimulating factor which made itself manifest early in the wheat market today was a report that 19,000,000 bushels of wheat would be used as feed in Minnesota, Montana and North Dakota because of $2.23 difference in favor of wheat against corn for getting a hundred-weight of pork. The effect of such advices was given emphasis too, by Illinois reports which cast doubt on heretofore generally accepted assertions that the condition of corn had improved during September.

Corn and oats sympathized with the strength of wheat, but had something of an offset in the fact that favorable weather prevailed for corn hucking. However, country offerings today of corn to arrive were small.

Provisions declined in the absence of any sustained new buying.

Closing Indemnities:
Wheat—Dec. 75⅞@76c, 79¼c; March, 80c, 82¼c; May, 82¼c, 85⅝c; July (offers), 86¼c.

State Charters

More than 90 per cent of Alabama cotton is being handled this year by the state farm bureau cotton association.

PRICES STEADY IN COTTON SATURDAY TRADING IS QUIET

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. (AP)—The cotton market was quiet today with prices holding fairly steady within a range of 5 or 10 points. New December contracts after selling off to 10.38, rallied to 10.55 and closed at 10.52, with the general market closing barely steady net 2 points lower to 2 points higher.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to an advance of 4 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables and reports that some Lancashire mills were to be reopened.

Manchester cable advices were published to the effect that the Lancashire combine was about to open six more of its mills owing to the improved demand for coarse yarns and Liverpool cables said covering and hedge selling in that market had been absorbed by trade calling accompanied by reports of a fair cloth business with India and China. The amount of cotton on shipboard at U. S. ports at the end of the week was estimated at 134,000 bales against 143,000 last week.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 18. (AP)—Trading was fairly brisk in the cotton market during the short week-end session. Prices fluctuated rather frequently but within a narrow range.

After gaining 2 to 3 points in early trading on good Liverpool cables and some overnight buying orders based on the cold spell the market eased off 4 to 5 points on the failure of the cold snap to produce as much frost as expected and on fair hedge selling.

In the last trading prices rallied owing to week-end covering helped by some improvement in stocks, making new highs of 10.38 for December and 10.64 for March, gaining 6 points over the lows. The close was at or near the top showing net gains of 1 to 5 points on the active months.

Port receipts, 52,729, for season, 5,625,022; last season, 33,947,586. Exports, 32,387; for season, 1,791,467; last season, 1,607,511. Port stock, 3,217,030; last year, 1,920,694. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston, 115,685; last year, 131,342. Spot sales at southern markets, 41,752; last year, 64,186.

Liverpool Cotton

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 18. (INS)—There was a fair demand in opening spots cotton today with prices steady. Sales amounted to 6,000 bales and receipts totaled 5,000 bales.

At midday, middling fair sold at 6.90d, strictly good middling at 6.45d, good middling at 6.10d, strictly midd

IN THE PICTURES — Misses Lillian Kilgore, Margaret Biedenharn and Mary Louise Clark are talented piano pupils of Miss Florence Sammons. Miss Biedenharn, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Biedenharn on the Seymour road and was also a member of the '30 graduating class of the Wichita Falls Junior college. She is specializing in music at S. M. U. Miss Clark is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Clark and was also a graduate of the '30 class at junior college and is studying piano at S. M. U. Lillian Kilgore is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kilgore and is a young artist of much ability.

Just at candlelight Friday evening, Miss Adele Jarrell, one of the most attractive society girls in Wichita Falls, became the bride of Col. Ralph Emmett Spake at the home of her mother on Garfield, with Dr. Nat L. Grafton performing the impressive double ring ceremony.

The nuptial vows were taken before the fireplace in the living room where palms, ferns and southern smilax with orchid plume chrysanthemums made a beautiful improvised altar. Tall turquoise blue tapers in graceful candelabra lent a glow to the ceremony that seemed to single out the couple as they knelt on the orchid kneeling bench.

The bride was a striking picture in an imported Chanel model of all over lace in exquisitely toned shades of turquoise and orchid. She wore a shoulder corsage of orchids and valley lilies. Her sister, Willette Jarrell, was her only maid and was a pretty member of the party in a gown of white brocade with turquoise blue accessories. The bridegroom's only attendant was his brother, John Spake of Kansas City.

Mrs. Walter Priddy, accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., sang "I Love You Truly," as prenuptial music. Mrs. Akin played the Wedding March from Lohengrin as the party entered and "Sweet Mystery of Life" softly during the ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. A. K. Jarrell, prominent in church, club and social life of Wichita Falls and a member of an aristocratic St. Louis family and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. John Spake of Kansas City. Several other prominent guests present were Mesdames F. H. W. Krenning, Edward Everett Haverstick and Alfred J. Piatt of St. Louis, grandmother and aunts of the bride: Cecil Bye of St. Louis, Mrs. John Spake, Misses Norma and Julia Spake, mother and sisters of the bridegroom, John Spake, his brother, and Miss Mary Wood of Oklahoma City.

Reception Given

Following the effective ceremony, many friends called during a reception from 8 to 10 o'clock. Mrs. A. R. Dillard was at the door and the receiving line consisted of the wedding party with Mrs. A. K. Jarrell and Mrs. John Spake.

The bride's table was lovely with an imported filet cover, tall turquoise tapers and a veil of smilax over the orchid shaded chandelier. Plume chrysanthemums in orchid added to the effect.

Misses Mary Wood of Oklahoma City and Margaret Smith presided in the dining room. Individual orchid ices with bluebell centers and orchid cakes with "J. and S." in blue in the center emphasized the bride's chosen colors that were carried out in all appointments.

Orchid cosmos stood in graceful baskets on the balustrade posts and landings of the smilax garlanded stair and orchid flowers were used in the room filled with handsome gifts.

The bride attended Hockaday school in Dallas and is a graduate of Miss Mason's school, Castle-on-the-Hudson. Colonel Spake is a graduate of Kansas university and holds a commission as lieutenant colonel in the reserve air service in Kansas.

Mrs. Spake's traveling costume was a handsome suit in the orchid and blue-gray combination with all accessories to harmonize. Colonel and Mrs. Spake will spend two months on a wedding trip in Old Mexico and will be at home to their friends in Wichita Falls on their return.

Peggy Piedmont Says

WITH Halloween right around the corner, we begin again to dig up our black cats, witches and jack-o-lanterns and prepare to duck for apples in a sportive way—for these are the things we do on Halloween night which comes the last of October. Then no sooner than we put all these things away, we begin to turn our thoughts to another festive date and think of the turkey fattening for Thanksgiving and wonder if we will have pumpkin pie for dessert. But before that time are many, many things to happen, and bridge tournaments galore are being planned as well as the forum annual flower show and artist programs.

THE past week we went on one long trot. In one day, we went to an organization meeting at the Forum clubhouse in the morning when the Wichita County Federation of Women's clubs was formed, and attended the luncheon at noon there given by the writers' department; glanced in at a meeting of the woman's public information committee meeting at the Texas Electric Service company, and on to a bridge tournament at the home of Mrs. F. E. Shoop, given by the Daughters of the Nile. Wednesday was club meeting day, and Tuesday, the woman's auxiliary to the Wichita County Medical society entertained with its annual bridge tournament which drew one of the largest crowds of the autumn social season. A tournament is planned for Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Temple Israel, when the Council of Jewish women will entertain. It is a benefit for the tuberculosis hospitals at Denver and in California, and for the Jewish orphanage at New Orleans, according to Mrs. N. Marantz, general chairman of arrangements.

Dramatic Artist In Pleasing Recital At Parish House

(By Staff Critic)

Mrs. Harry R. Fuller was presented in a dramatic recital by the Greathouse conservatory, Friday evening, at 8 o'clock at the parish house, assisted by Mrs. Flora Greenwood, violinist, and Miss Annette Walsh, pianist.

Mrs. Fuller gave a very well chosen program and in her performance, evidenced a remarkable versatility. Her style was pleasing and her voice low and carefully modulated, holding a highly developed degree of dramatic intensity.

In her first number, "Ashes of Roses," which was a one-act play by Constance D. McKay, she held her audience with her splendid stage technique, and the smooth continuity of her work. She seems so perfectly at ease on the stage that her audience reacts to her stage presence by becoming a real part of her performance instead of just a group of spectators.

Especially pleasing were the numbers from her dialect group, which her effective phrasing and natural interpretation of the characters proved as interesting as her originally chosen and cleverly arranged bits of humor which she used in portraying her "Scenes in a Rural School."

Mrs. Fuller indeed read herself into the very hearts of her audience when the "Mason Family on Exhibition" with its widespread appeal and its lovely sentiments as well as its humor and moving interest was so pleasingly given. This is a real Texas story about a Texas family, and was written by a Texas woman. As an added attraction to Mrs. Fuller's program, the evening's entertainment included several numbers by Mrs. Flora Greenwood, whose interpretation and beautiful tone work in her violin numbers always thrills her audience. Her work was truly artistic as were the harp-like accompaniments played for her by Miss Annette Walsh.

The stage was beautifully decorated, and attractively arranged. Thanks were extended to Mr. Smith of the "Palace of Blooms" who arranged the setting for the recital.

P.T.A. NEWS NOTES

The Austin school free health clinic, sponsored by the parent-teacher association, will be held Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 21, from 1 to 2 o'clock, in the Austin school building, under the supervision of Mrs. L. J. Garner, health chairman, who has had several years' experience in this work.

Two free clinics are held by the P.-T. A. each year for the purpose of sending all children into school life healthy and happy, so they may get full benefit of all educational facilities afforded in the public schools. The clinic includes a complete physical examination by some of the foremost medical men in the city, with the school nurse and Red Cross nutritionist at hand to give advice free to mothers who wish such assistance.

Any child who is entering school this year for the first time is eligible for this examination, and should not be allowed to miss it. Children who have had examinations from some other source are invited to be looked over again for some small defect that might have been overlooked or developed since that time. Those who went through this clinic last May are especially requested to be present for the check-up, which is the only way of finding how much good these clinics do.

Doctors who will conduct the clinic are W. P. Bolding, dentist; J. A. Johnson, specialist; W. F. Parker, P. K. Smith and Bailey R. Collins, regular practitioners. They will be assisted by Miss Pearl Rorabaugh, school nurse, and Miss Matilda Thurman, Red Cross nutritionist.

Mr. Fritz is proud of this record and asserted that it is a certain index that conditions are bettering in this section of the nation. He anticipates another big record for October.

Memphis Theater Sold

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 18.—The Gem theater was sold Thursday to C. C. Meacham, one of the owners of the Palace theater of this city, being purchased from J. L. Haas, who has owned and operated it for the past four years. Mr. Meacham says the Gem will be operated in connection with the Palace, both show houses being under the supervision of his partner, Hollis Boren. The Palace is equipped with Western Electric talking equipment and the Gem has the Vitaphone system.

Cuticura Healed Breaking Out in Form of Rash on Body.

"For five or six years I was troubled with a breaking out on my face and body. It was in the form of a rash and itched, causing me to scratch. After scratching it would spread and formed large, hard places all over my body and face so that I did not look like myself. It often kept me awake at night.

"I had about given up when I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I purchased more and after using about six weeks I was healed." (Signed) Miss Roberta Thompson, Gen. Del., Jacksonville, Texas, Feb. 4, 1930.

IRRIGATIONIST IN VALLEY HERE MAKES SUCCESS WITH FARM

A successful irrigationist in the Wichita irrigated valley is Fred Roop, who has a five-acre farm on the Iowa Park highway, two miles west of Wichita Falls.

In the operation of the farm Mr. Roop has taken advantage of almost every foot of the area and the amount of truck and fruit produced would prove surprising to even the most ardent advocates of irrigation.

He has a nice orchard, composed of plum and peach trees. He also has a vineyard and a berry patch. At the present time he is disposing of large quantities of beets and turnips, and in a few days spinach will be ready for market. Produce from the Roop farm has been marketed by truck as far west as Amarillo during the past few days and the Dallas market will also be reached by trucksters.

The choicest quality of turnips and table beets are grown at the farm. The production of both beets and turnips is very high per acre.

Mr. and Mrs. Roop traveled over the irrigated sections of Colorado, Utah, California and the Rio Grande valley of Texas before deciding upon a farm. They concluded the Wichita irrigated valley was the best location and offered more opportunities than any other in America.

Drinking in U. S. Showing Decrease Professor Claims

NEW YORK, Oct. 18. (AP)—Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale said today drinking had decreased 80 to 90 per cent under prohibition.

Speaking over a National Broadcasting company chain under auspices of the national grange, he asserted prohibition was much more of a success than the public had been led to believe.

"It can become a still greater success—is, in fact, becoming so, according to the observations of the new prohibition administration," he added.

The public, he maintained, has been deceived through unfair presentation of statistics and through loss of perspective—forgetting the drunkenness prevalent before 1918. "Let them read 'Ten Nights in a Barroom,'" he suggested.

Fisher said 153 statistical studies on such subjects as divorce, vice, accidents, poverty and delinquency had, with a few exceptions, shown a 35 per cent improvement since the institution of national prohibition.

"Of course," he said, "some of the improvement is due to other causes. But the big improvement almost always came with prohibition. This can scarcely be a mere coincidence. There are too many such coincidences."

SUIT FILED HERE ASKS $10,000 AUTO COLLISION DAMAGES FOR INJURIES

Damages totaling $10,000 were asked in a suit filed in district court here Saturday by J. A. Zimmerman against Fred Varner of Grandfield, Okla. Mr. Zimmerman alleges in his petition that he was permanently injured when struck by an automobile driven by Mr. Varner on the Burkburnett highway.

Problems of fire prevention will be discussed at various meetings to be held here Monday and Tuesday with H. L. Bond, representative of the National Fire Protection association, and J. W. DeWeese, state fire marshal, according to information given at the chamber of commerce Saturday.

The visitors will speak at the Kiwanis club luncheon Monday, at the Ad club luncheon Tuesday and at a dinner at the Wichita club Monday night at 7 o'clock to be given by the fire cabinet. Others invited to be present at the dinner Monday night are J. S. Bridwell, president of the chamber of commerce; Jerry Vinson, president of the Junior chamber; J. L. McClure, fire chief, and Wilburn Page, secretary of the Junior chamber.

Legion Parade

All Camp Fire Girls are invited to participate in the American Legion parade to be held on Friday of this week. The committee in charge has made arrangements with the schools to dismiss early so the school children may have a part in the parade. All Camp Fire Girls wearing white middy, dark skirt and black tie are to report at the White House market, Twelfth and Scott street, at 3:45. Each group may plan and carry its own banner, or any special "stunt" for the parade which they choose. Girls, this is a good chance to get miles on your health chart. However, the line of parade will not be "miles," as was rumored. We expect to have a good time, singing and marching. Be sure to wear comfortable walking shoes, as it is no fun to walk with pumps or uncomfortable shoes. All who have Camp Fire tams and armbands please wear them. Credit will be given on local "service honor."

Training Course

Now is the time for women who have expressed a desire to "be a Camp Fire Girl" to come in and join the fun. On Monday evening of this week the opening class of leadership training course will be held at local headquarters at 7:30. These classes will meet each Monday and Thursday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30. One hour will be spent in discussion of important subjects concerning Camp Fire, the other hour will be spent in craft work, when the policy of "learning by doing" will be carried out. Anyone interested in taking the training course may report on Monday evening, or call 2-2183 for fuller details.

Equipment at Headquarters

From time to time middies and skirts are left at the local office for sale to girls who want new equipment at reduced prices. At present there are two good dark skirts and three white middies which may be purchased at a remarkably reasonable price. First here, first served! The local headquarters also carries the standard equipment, such as manuals, ceremonials, honor beads, middy ties, tams, and all other Camp Fire equipment for the convenience of the members.

Guardian Meeting

The monthly meeting of the guardians association was held at local headquarters on Tuesday afternoon. Before the business meeting, the members made attractive paper knives, with tooled leather handles. During the business session the members voted to use the guardian handbook and manual for the basis of discussions for the training course, and to make portfolios for files for the monthly bulletin which comes to all registered guardians and assistant guardians of groups. Members also voted to have Camp Fire Girls participate in parade on American Legion day, and to let the girls walk instead of having just a few girls on a float. Plans were also discussed for the Christmas toy shop with committees appointed as follows: Mrs. W. J. Willis on wood supply, Loucille Willis in charge of assembling toys, Lucile Murchison in charge of painting toys. Other helpers will be selected from group members who had a part in making of toys last year and can qualify for instructors' honor this year.

Adi-Iwah Group

The Adi-Iwah group met at the home of the guardian, Mrs. Frank Michaux, 1607 Bluff, on Wednesday afternoon, and earned citizenship No. 706—"Draw and explain the meaning of 10 Indian symbols or designs." Those attending, beside the guardian, were Margaret Davis, Eleanor Weller, Frances Hyland and Edith McClure.

Ahsonzong Group

The Ahsonzong group met at home of Pauline and Irene West, on Thursday afternoon. They planned to have the next meeting at home of guardian, to decorate for the Halloween party on Friday evening. Ten cents admission will be charged and all Camp Fire Girls and friends are invited. Details were made for candy sale held by group Saturday. Those attending were Pauline and Irene West, Dorothy Gothard, Lois Key, Loucille and Mrs. Willis, and Lucile Murchison.

Mankilo Group

The Mankilo group met at home of Peggy Jones, 406 Morningside drive, on Thursday afternoon. During the business session the group decided to have a Halloween party at Peggy Jones' home on Saturday evening, Nov. 1. Peggy was appointed chairman of decoration and refreshment committee, Dorothy McGown on invitations, and Ruth Loughridge on entertainment and games. Plans were discussed for council fire and overnight the second week in November. After the business session the girls had a treasure hunt in the "canyon" back of Jones' home. Those attending were Sylvia Marie Riner, Patricia Shipley, Patricia Hankerson, Virginia Lee Pyle, Martha and Mary Clark, Nadene Steward, Dorothy Jane Brown, Louise Rhoads, Gussie Mae Martin, Dorothy McGown, Mary Louise Yeargan, Mary McGee Rogers, Madilane Hokett, Ruth Loughridge, Peggy Jones and Jane Marie Elliot, and Mary McIlheran, executive.

Wokonna Group

The Wokonna group met at the home of Mrs. T. H. Lawson, 1825 Huff on Wednesday afternoon. During the business session the following were elected as new officers: President, Thelma Simmons; vice president, Billie Ralph Hyer; secretary, Nell Ground; treasurer, Grace Mowry; scribe, Harriet Miller, and song leader, Mary Elizabeth Largin. Members decided to meet at local headquarters next meeting and make rustic art-stone vases. Mrs. Lawson has agreed to take over this group of girls and is enjoying them a great deal.

Acan-can Group

Miss Leska Howard, guardian of new group at Reagan Junior high, met with her girls after school on Thursday afternoon, although the regular meeting day is on Wednesday. The members chose the name, "A-can-can." Bulbs were planted by girls in window boxes and pots, as partial earning of nature honor No. 212: "Plant bulbs in three ways, for window boxes, for indoor blooming, and for outdoor blooming." The next meeting will be on Wednesday at the regular club period. Requirements for membership will be passed and officers will be elected at that meeting.

Wa-kin-yu Group

The new group at Floral Heights Presbyterian church, met Monday afternoon at the church with the guardian, Thelma Stehlik, and assistant, Ida Weaver. Officers were elected as follows: President, Geraldine Griffin; vice president, Martha Nell Eason; secretary, Margaret Stehlik; treasurer, Norene Eason; program chairman, Marie White. The name, Wa-kin-yu, meaning "happiness, courage and truthful" was chosen for the group. Other members present at the meeting were Mildred Ridener, Harriet Miller, member of Adi-Iwah group.

Oawakiya Group

The Oawakiya group met at Alamo school on Wednesday afternoon. Officers were elected as follows: President, Dorothea Whitehead; vice president, Ina Jo Ogle; secretary, Lois Schram; treasurer, May Anna Duncan; scribe, Catherine Uttz; song leader, Margaret Hutchison. Plans were made for a Halloween party to be held on Wednesday, Oct. 29, at the home of Dorothea Whitehead. Catherine Uttz is in charge of entertainment for party, Margaret Hutchison on decorations and invitations, and Ina Jo on refreshments. Miss McIlheran told the girls about the American Legion parade and girls decided to take part in it.

ZOE BECKLEY'S CORNER

What Is Friendship

"Dear Zoe: A girl friend got angry because a boy she cared for asked me for a date. I didn't go. Later she apologized and I gladly forgave her. She asked me to correspond with her this summer and she wrote the first letter. I answered. But my last letter went unanswered. should I value such a girl's friendship?

—SUNNY."

A real friend is a pretty rare thing. If the girl is congenial, sympathetic and sincere, why shouldn't you value her friendship? The very foundation of friendship is tolerance and service. We understand and forgive our real friends, and never miss a chance to help them in any need. We give them our best, yet you don't expect too much of them.

If your correspondence lags you can be fairly sure you have few mutual interests. Yet once a friendship is firmly cemented, time and distance mean nothing, and you can go on being friends in love and affection, whether a word is exchanged or not for years.

Here's a Happy Pair.

"Dear Zoe: We've been married over a year and are perfectly happy. I am 18, Frank 21. I am strong and do every bit of my own work including washing. We make a budget, but try as we will we can't save a thing from his $25 a week. We want to save for a car so we can live out of the city. I inclose our budget. Can you suggest any way I can pare it down?—MRS. F. R. F."

Well, little Mrs. Frank, I have studied the budget and can't see one thing you could take off of it except the board of the dog and two cats, and I'd be the last person on earth to want you to do without them. The only thing I can think of is for you to live in the country and either take some child to board and care for daytimes (there are lots of people who would be glad of such a chance) or some old person who needs a home and can pay for it. There are many, many such.

The Spankee Speaks

"Dear Zoe: I read the letter in which a father criticized my views on spanking. I indignantly deny that spanking is cruel. If changing impudent, rebellious youngsters into respectful obedient ones is cruel, then I am in favor of cruelty. But from experience as a spankee I know the intelligent use of a strap on the bare bottom is not cruel. It hurts, but harmlessly. It is especially effectual with children from 10 or 12 up to the final teens. If such punishment is cruel, what would they think of the initiation in a fraternity or as freshman in a cat college?—SPANKED GIRL."

This letter speaks for itself and is both question and answer.

He Can Prove Himself

"Dear Zoe: What is a man to do when he loves—truly loves—in a faithful way a woman he has grievously disappointed many times. She is naturally outraged and comes near to hating him. He is making at last the effort of his life to be decent and companionable. He is willing to die for her but is unable to express it, for his love is both carnal and spiritual and words fail.

—DOUBLE DEVOTION."

When a man has grievously disappointed a woman many times he can do nothing to recapture her trust and affection but show her by a good long period of new behavior that he is in earnest and has mustered strength enough to keep himself in hand. Words do no good. Promises mean nothing. Actions are all that count. And don't for heaven's sake expect the woman to fall into your arms at the first reform. It must be a reform proven by sufficient time.

The Weaker Vessel

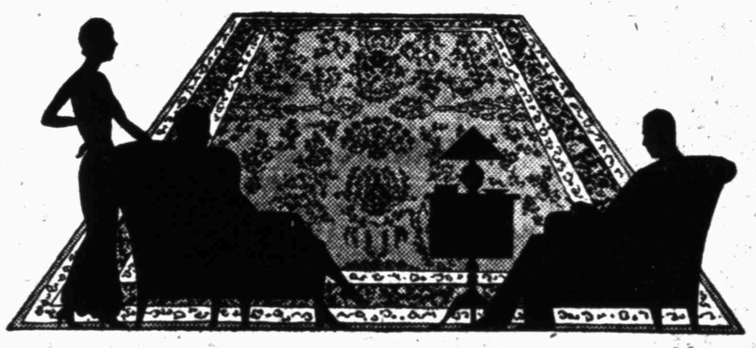

"Dear Zoe: Does a woman ever get happiness in marriage with a man she knows is weaker than herself? He is sweet-natured but too sensitive to be successful.

—LOU."

I wouldn't say such a marriage would have to be unhappy, but chances are pretty strongly against it, especially for the woman. No woman lives who prefers a man she can boss and for whom she must feel responsible. It's against nature. If she loves him it is in spite of his weakness, not because of it. Her love must therefore be as much maternal as it is wifely, whether she realizes it or not. In such cases the sex instinct goes rather awry and the mother instinct predominates. The woman, often to her own distress, becomes the dictator although she longs with all her soul to be dictated to.

The only happiness in such a marriage is when the man loves the woman so devotedly that she feels it makes up for the lack of other qualities in him.

Do Your Children Bring Home Good School Reports?

By Kathleen . . . Norris

MRS. NORRIS

Next June, when your boy or girl begins nervously to hint that he or she may not get passing marks, you are naturally going to feel that the child has failed you. What is the matter with Bobby, what is the matter with Doris, that they must always have these terrors of "D" marks? Other children seem to go placidly enough, from grade to grade, it is always our children who are being conditioned, and having to coach, and make up credits, and have special arrangements made for them.

Worse yet, an occasional brilliant child flashes across one's vision — an apparently perfectly normal, sheepish-looking boy, a quite usual movie-loving girl, but ready for college at 15.

"The little White girl had straight 'A's' all last term," says one's own delinquent student, cheerily unconcerned. He himself is employing his Latin hour by filling a rubber glove with hot water, and suspending it by a string over the sidewalk seven stories below.

"She doesn't look so bright."

"She's awful dumb, to talk to."

That's all you know about her. But follow it up — investigate the conditions behind those brilliant students, and nine times out of ten you will find that it is mother's doing, that school record. Mother helped him with his homework, from kindergarten up to today. In the tenth grade it was an aunt or a big sister.

It lies in mother's hands — the choice between an alert, intelligent little student, taking his studies as only so many games, or a dull, bewildered, pencil-chewing little blunderer, always in trouble between teachers, tests and blue books.

It seems to me that the present system of homework is wrong. But right or wrong, we can't change it, and by abandoning the children to grapple with it single-handed we may do them a permanent mental injury.

The thing I criticized is that from many schools children bring home four or five different types of work every night. Any adult would hate to have to face that at the end of the day, and a child is apt to be more exhausted, more incapable of concentrated effort than an adult is.

The mathematics teacher gives the children five examples — only five, but two of them at least are apt to be twisters. The English teacher wants a review of the "One Hoss Shay." There are four pages of history to skim, and the first three amendments to the constitution to ememorize, for history class, and there is the usual French translation. The small boy has 20 hard words to spell, the older girl has to find an interesting news item in the paper. Both are paded and fuzzy and distracted at 9 o'clock when mother says bed, and both wail, "Our compositions!"

It seems to me it would be wiser to divide those five subjects into the five week nights; arithmetic Monday, good hard arithmetic, history Tuesday, and so on. But the children say no, they explain that they do most of their real work at home; classroom work is apt to be mere review of what went on at home the night before.

That facts mothers ought to get into their heads; homework is school work, today. Teachers cannot teach any more, they can only "hear" lessons, and perhaps elucidate for their pupils the lessons for tomorrow. The real work is done in the dining room, perhaps with the radio going, perhaps with a prize-fight going on, or the irresistible Amos and Andy for a side dish.

Obviously, under these circumstances, the students get into bad and hazy habits! They struggle along, only half aware of what they are doing, or what is expected of them; they trust to luck that their particular paper will get through somehow, tomorrow.

Thousands of children didn't understand the arithmetic of the seventh lower, fumbled along into deeper puzzlements in the upper seventh, blundered along into complete bewilderment in the lower eighth, and now, with befogged horror, realize that if they are ever to make "high" they will have to pass examinations for which they are almost as unfit as on that far-away day when mother first started them proudly into school.

If it were only school days, perhaps it wouldn't matter. But these are the most important formative years of their lives—the boy who learns to dawdle, and dream, and be satisfied with half-results, in his work, isn't suddenly going to throw that off, in a few years, and become a fine, wide-awake college man.

Now, if many children have never completely mastered the rudiments of scholarship—and every teacher knows this is the case—the only way to catch up is to replace those missing air-pockets in education, and the only teacher is mother.

Take two weeks of evenings out of your ordinary occupation this fall, and give them to your little girl. Take lesson after lesson with her, help her prepare tomorrow's work for 10 nights.

It will be a revelation, and perhaps a shock, to you. To her it will be the most important crossroads her little life has ever reached.

You will find infinite patience, and great good-humor, the first requisities. Look over her books, estimate what she has to do, and systematize it all for her, to begin with. Thus history in the half-hour before dinner and spelling in the last five minute before the gong rings — and those two are out of the way! Then afterward, French first, while she is fresh, and then geography, because you, from your heights, can make that so interesting, and then — last of all, when she is in bed, the 40 lines from "Evangeline."

But you will be fortunate if your conscientious daughter does not even then call out after you, "and can we look up about the pottery in the encyclopedia tomorrow morning, and will you remember my current event?"

When you begin, your stock exclamation will be, "But darling, you know that? You must have had that?"

Of course she did, but although she somehow scrambled through them, she didn't understand the liquid measure, or the past definite, or the adverbial phrases, and so her brief experience with them passed without effect.

One of the wisest women I ever know told me that when she was teaching in New York schools she found it was easier to teach a child than to scold it." Just sit down and teach it what it doesn't know," she said, "right then and there."

The mother who decides to play a part in her children's education, to raise them from the depths of despair and discouragement, must be careful not to shame them. No use doing this at all if you are going to be rational, logical, reasonable with little creatures whose schooling has as all been illogical, irrational, unreasonable. Many of the brightest of them—home while the other children had the whooping cough, in that crucial month when the dative was fully explained — many of the actually think they are stupid.

These are the very children who will turn all study into a series of exciting games, once they understand.

Explain to them that because less bright children hold the class back — this is true — lessons are made so easy that any child of average intelligence and application has nothing to fear from them. History and geography are only adventure stories, arithmetic is as fascinating as crossword puzzles and anagrams, composition is fun. Most children love to think they can write. One woman in our town has a small girl who, through a babyhood tragedy, lost her right leg, and who therefore leads a rather booky, and incidentally, a wholly happy, life of her own. This child, beginning at a delayed 12, actually went through the entire course of the eighth grade, and the work of the four high school years, in 21 interested months — and did more, too, begged for additional tests and sums.

School days ought to be happy. Our children ought to emerge from them loving books, sums, loving history and biography, thrilled by the story of their own wonderful country.

One winter of help, explanation, patience, interest from mother — or supremely from dad, for dad is after all the last authority, would put your girl or boy on that footing, and make a great difference in his or her whole life — whole character.

The children's prayer is the prayer of the blind beggar, after all. "Only that we may see!"

REAL Doctor's Remedy safest aid to bowels

A DOCTOR knows the best and safest way to stimulate the bowels when bad breath, coated tongue, sluggishness, or a bilious, headachy, gassy condition shows they are lagging. There could be no better proof of this assertion than the overwhelming sales and popularity of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Syrup Pepsin is a doctor's prescription for the bowels—made by the same formula Dr. Caldwell wrote and prescribed over and over during his forty-seven years of practice. He tested its gentle action with women, older people, babies and children; saw that it does not gripe, sicken or cause any discomfort. He proved its action thorough, complete, with the most robust men. Then as its pleasant taste and perfect action caused it to grow in popularity, he permitted it to be bottled and kept by drugstores everywhere, ready for use.

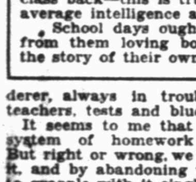

Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from your druggist today. Then, next time you or any of your family feel the need of a bowel cleansing, you will have a doctor's choice of what is best.

IF YOU CAN'T PING; PONG - - - - - - - By Sam Hellman

"Through some terrible misunderstanding I'd been learning Badminton."

"Not this Nordic," says I. "I wasn't brought up at either of my mother's knees to hound a hollow ball around a table. Give me manly sports, the great outdoors—"

"Manly!" sniffs the missus "Outdoors! I suppose sitting up all night with sick poker hands at Barney Illich's whisper-low's a manly, outdoors sport—"

"It may not be so outdoorsy," I puts in, "but it's manly enough. You should know the courage it takes, the power of self-denial and the force of will-power required to keep from calling a one card draw with three aces."

"And how!" agrees Joe Davis. "It has been estimated that if all the self-control exercised at the poker tables of the United States, excluding Alaska and Brooklyn, was to be harnessed, enough foot-pounds would be developed in a year to screw the cap off a bottle of olives or open a window on one of Mrs. Pullman's calabooses."

"Uninteresting, even if untrue" growls Ira Mellish, "but what has all this to do with ping-pong? Do you or don't you want to learn the game?"

(Editor's Note—West 39th Street)

(Author's Note—West 38th Street. I did have an Uncle Seumas who once had a place on East, not West 39th Street, but I am referring to my Uncle Umlaut.)

"From me," returns Ira. "What I don't know about ping-pong—"

"I'd have to be sure of that," I interrupts. "I once had a most unfortunate experience taking a guy's word as to his skill. There's some difference between ability to play a game, and ability to teach it. Nearly every hen's able to lay eggs, but how many of 'em can lecture on the art of laying eggs?"

"True," observes Davis, "but what was this unfortunate experience you refer to?"

"Many years ago," I relates, "I was walking along the road between Yonkers and the Bronx when all of a sudden there came upon me a sudden desire to become a great tennis player. I can't explain it, for at the time I was thinking of something entirely different—"

"I know just how it is," interjects Joe, shrewdly. "I had an experience once that was somewhat similar. I was in a Turkish bath when there struck me out of the vague nowhere an almost irrisistible urge to shoot a three-toed sloth with a bow and arrow. I took the matter up with a sucker-analyst, but he happened to be out of town the day I called at his office. Go on with your story."

"Obviously," says I, resuming "the thing to do was to hire a tennis teacher."

"Obviously," nods Davis.

"After a long search," I continues, "I decided to get my instruction from a lad named Hayes—"

"He's a new racketeer to me," remarks Joe. "When did he ever slap a lip over the Davis cup?"

"I don't know about that," I confesses. "Davis is a stranger to me, but it seems that back in the seventies Hayes'd beaten Tilden. There was some dispute about the match, but the decision finally went to Hayes. So I was told, at any rate."

"Are you, by any chance, referring to Rutherford B. Hayes?" asks Mellish, sarcastic.

"What if I am?" I comes back, with a touch of acerbity. "This is my home, you know. As a matter of fact, I'm referring to one Hank Hayes."

"Go on," urges Davis. "I never could stand suspense, honeycomb tripe, or sleeping in a bed with a wet snake. What happened?"

"Does it matter?" cuts in the frau, cold.

"It does to me," asserts Joe. "Any event in my friend's life, no matter how insignificant, is of importance to me. After all, you are only his wife, while I—" Davis chokes with emotion, not unmixed with the milk of the wild moose I'd served before dinner.

"Say!" yelps Mellish. "Finish the story and let's get out of here before we have to wade out through tears."

"Well," says I, "Hayes began giving me lessons on a Saturday. It was a bright, sunshiny day and I recall that the stock market had closed irregularly, with a slight stiffening in commodity prices and an encouraging report on car loadings in the Western registration area. We'd hardly played for two minutes when Hayes declared that I had a vocation for the game with every indication of having my serves and back-hand strokes go ringing down the corridors of time."

"What corridors are those?" interposes Davis.

"The corridors of time," I repeats amiably.

"I thought so," declares Joe. "Proceed."

"I worked out with Hayes for several weeks," I narrates, "and finally we reached the point where perfection was sitting in my lap and calling me 'sweet daddy.' I'm all set to issue a challenge to all square-cut paving stones, when all of a sudden I make a startling discovery."

"Gosh!" mutters Davis, wiping his brow. "The suspense!"

"I discovered," I goes on, with calm deliberation, "that all of my weeks had been wasted. Through some terrible misunderstanding, I hadn't been taking lessons in tennis at all, I'd been learning Badminton."

"What's that?" asks Joe. "Card game?"

"What did you do after you found yourself a Badminton addict?" asks Davis.

"What was there to do?" I comes back, miserably. "Here I was the only man in America that had ever heard of Badminton, much less played it. I remember once mentioning Badminton to a young lady friend of mine. She said it might be all right but that she, personally preferred White Sulphur Springs or West Baden. Do you blame me for not wanting to learn another game?"

"Not at all," returns Joe. "What evidence have we that Mellish knows anything at all about ping-pong? You might sweat over the pastime for hours and then discover you'd really been pitching horseshoes. You're perfectly right not to take a chance."

"Thanks, old comrade," says I. "I knew you'd understand. Let the rest of 'em play if they wish, but as for you and me I have a book of games upstairs we can pore over—"

"No, you can't," snaps the wife. "There'll be no more pouring tonight. Anyhow, I've locked the book up in the cellar."

"Pong," says Davis.

(So many writers have overlooked the etiquette and the je ne sais quoi of ping-pong that I feel quite certain the above article dealing with the noblesse oblige and the jeunesse doree of the game will meet with favor among those who have graduated from napkins to serviettes. My purpose has been to hit the haute monde between les yeux. We shall next take up the subject of owning your own and owe.)

UNUSUAL RURAL HOME GOING UP CLOSE TO CITY

A new home, reconstructed from an old residence built in Wichita Falls on Tenth street between Scott and Lamar, by W. Lee Moore 31 years ago, is being completed by Mrs. W. S. Tyson on an eminence on the Thornberry road, about a mile due north of the business section of the city.

Many unusual features have been incorporated in the building of the home and when finished it will be one of the show places as far as rural homes are concerned, of this section of Texas.

The building, which will contain 10 rooms on the first and second floors, is being veneered with native stone. A mason, O. W. Hughes, came here from Atlanta, Ga., to do this work. He and a local mason, H. C. Fry, have laid every stone in the home, including the massive fireplace. Most of the stone has been picked up from fields and prairies north of town and several varieties of stone have been obtained.

In placing the stone as a veneer none of the pieces was trimmed. They have all been worked into the walls in their odd shapes, which adds much to the appearance and shows the skill of the stone masons.

The grounds surrounding the home are being landscaped. A lily pond covering almost one-half acre is to be formed by building a dam, which will be rip-rapped with native stone. A large and beautiful portecochere is being constructed, the roof of which will be utilized as a sitting place in the evening. Rustic furniture is being provided.

The interior of the home is being done in sheetrock. The floors are being laid with old style six-inch oak, quarter-sawed. The window frames and sash are also of oak. Much of the glass is the old-fashioned sort, made in Belgium.

Every modern convenience is being installed in the home. An electric range and many other electric appliances will be in use.

The contractor is Hugh Rousey. He states that no one style of design is being used. The stone work is pronounced Swiss by some, but Mr. Rousey states that the style prevails over many European countries that use rock in the construction of homes. The design of the roof is strictly English, while many exterior finishings are Spanish.

The home and grounds will not be completed for several weeks and the estimated cost of the home, including real estate, is estimated at $20,000.

Building Permits

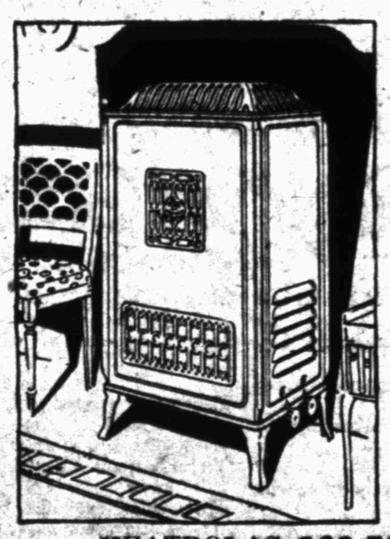

One building permit for the week ending Oct. 17 totaled $200 bringing the total for the month to $2,800 and the yearly total to $1,071,896. The permit was granted by City Engineer F. M. Rugeley to W. F. Ferguson for the purpose of repairing a residence at 1410 Eleventh street.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

But he that sinneth against me wrongeth his own soul.—Proverbs 8:36.

HITCH-HIKING

Hitch-hiking, it seems, isn't what it used to be. It is getting harder and harder for the wayfarer to thumb a ride. Autoists have come to realize that the thumber is often undeserving, even if there be no actual risk in giving him a lift.

But in hitch-hiking, as in most other things, brains count. M. D. Rowe of this city tells us of an experience he had while traveling through East Texas recently. He noticed a man walking along the highway carrying a gasoline can. Assuming that the pedestrian was merely going to where his gasoline-less car was stranded, he picked the wayfarer up. Then he learned that the can contained, not gasoline, but the man's clothing and effects. The hitch-hiker had figured that autoists would think just exactly what Mr. Rowe did think, that they would have to give him just a short lift. As a result he had obtained hitches where other hitch-hikers kept on hiking.

There are tricks in all trades, not even excepting that of thumbing lifts from autoists. Probably Mr. Rowe did not begrudge his passenger the ride. He was entitled to something for using his head.

THE G. O. P. WANTS MORE PUBLICITY

The announcement that the Republican national committee is starting a weekly publication to serve as a vehicle for some party publicity calls attention to the fact that the Democratic organization's publicity department has been functioning exceptionally well for the last year or so. The excellence of it was undoubtedly a major factor in the Republican decision to improve its publicity service. Charles Michelson, veteran newspaper man, quit his job as Washington correspondent of the New York World to handle the Democratic publicity bureau. From the beginning he has dealt misery to the opposition. He has kept the Republican organization, from the White House spokesman on down, squirming on the defensive, ever since he went on the job. The Republicans are getting tired of it and are now undertaking some publicity measures of their own. They have a long way to go to catch up with the Democrats, and not nearly as much to go on.

Under existing conditions, it would appear that less publicity, rather than more, is the G. O. P.'s need. But that comes under the head of their troubles.

WHEN COMMUNISTS CUT UP A LITTLE

Communists have been more in the headlines than usual, lately. They created something of a disturbance when the president spoke at Cleveland. They stirred up a fuss at the American Federation of Labor meeting in Boston. They got personal with Secretary of War Hurley at Tulsa.

In times like these, Communism comes nearer to flourishing than it does ordinarily. Because of that, there is the danger that officialdom and the general public will take Communists more seriously than they should. There is a tendency to get rough with Communists simply because they are Communists. Where they violate the law, they should, of course, be dealt with accordingly. Where they merely hold "demonstrations" without hurting anything or anybody, they should be ignored. Indifference kills the Communist's fervor very quickly. Nothing discourages him more than to be let alone. Nothing pleases him more than persecution, genuine or fancied. The biggest mistake that can be made in dealing with Communism is to take it too seriously.

THE NEXT GENERATION OF FARMERS

Average production of corn in Texas this year was 18 to 20 bushels per acre. In years when weather conditions are more favorable, the average is usually higher, but probably seldom gets above 30 bushels per acre.

Last year a 4-H club boy at Madisonville harvested 154 bushels of corn from one acre. This year, with weather conditions less satisfactory, the best that any 4-H boy could do was 138 bushels, or about seven times the average for the state as a whole.

A generation of farmers is growing up in Texas that isn't handicapped by old methods and beliefs. Terracing, fertilizing, use of soiling crops, selected seeds—these are the methods the new generation is using. The results speak for themselves.

SHEPARD'S LAST MILE

It would be easy to become maudlin about the execution of Joyce Shepard. We do not doubt that many of the comments on the case will be in that vein. That would have been true even if he had not, two weeks before the execution date, deliberately blinded himself. The attention that had been attracted to the case by the dramatic production based on the experience of a prison mate of Shepard, and the lugubrious way in which Shepard himself feigned insanity had already made it one of those cases in which the opponents of capital punishment do their stuff to best advantage. It is easy in such instances to lose sight of some hard, ugly facts on the other side of the argument.

Shepard killed a peace officer under circumstances which fully justified the inflicting of the death penalty. His case ran the customary gamut of appeals and technicalities and efforts to obtain commutation to life imprisonment, without changing its status. Shepard, knowing that the insanity plea had been successfully raised in behalf of other slayers, undertook to feign insanity. His cry of "Jones! Jones!" echoed through the death-house, hour after hour, day after day. The dramatist who wrote "The Last Mile" made skilful use of this cry to send shivers down the spines of New York theater-goers. But the insanity device did not work for Shepard. In the end he admitted what those who had observed already firmly believed, that he had been faking.

His destruction of his own eyesight was a desperate and dramatic gesture, which, had the fact of it been generally known, might have saved him from the chair. Its failure to save him will be grimly remembered by the next prisoner who tries to cheat the executioner, but in the meantime it will provide ammunition for those who would take away the death penalty as a means of punishment.

It is not pleasant to think of a blind, emaciated man being led to the chair. But it would be still less pleasant to think of a murderer escaping just punishment for his crime.

THE PERMANENT FUND AMENDMENT

The proposed constitutional amendment which authorizes the regents of the University of Texas to invest that institution's permanent fund in such recognized and accredited securities as county, school and municipal bonds, federal farm bank bonds and in securities issued by the regents themselves is in keeping with sound business principles. Under the existing constitutional provision, the permanent fund may be invested only in state and federal bonds. There being no state bonds, the fund may be invested only in government bonds, on which the interest rate is very low.

The fund's income from government bonds is limited to four per cent, and the average interest rate on such securities is of course much lower than that. A recent issue of treasury certificates bears only 2¼ per cent. Were the fund invested in the county, school and municipal bonds authorized by the proposed amendment, an average rate probably in excess of four per cent could be maintained. No one will undertake to say that such bonds are unsafe. They appeal to the most cautious investors. Yet the existing constitutional provision denies the university the right to purchase them.

There is some doubt as to the wisdom of that clause in the proposed amendment which permits the regents to invest in securities issued by the university itself, such as loans for dormitories, etc. Beyond any question, the regents should exercise extreme caution in availing themselves of such authority, if the amendment is adopted. The objections to such investments are so numerous that it would have been better to leave such authority out of the proposed amendment. But such objections should not be allowed to weigh heavily enough to cause a vote against the amendment.

The effect of the amendment is nothing more or less than to permit the application of common sense to the investing of the fund.

Statesmen and Policemen

By GLENN FRANK
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

I sat the other evening in the smoking compartment and listened to a group of average Americans—the men who decide the sort of leadership America shall have—discussing the prevailing lawlessness of a certain American city.

"If we only had a mayor with a backbone," said one of them, "he could put the fear of God into the police force and this crime business could be cleared up in six months."

Here was a sample of the kind of thinking that is delaying the maximum possible development of American civilization by over-simplifying our problems.

When I reached home that evening, I found Roscoe Pound's new book on Criminal Justice in America on the table beside my bed, and I sketched it hurriedly before I turned out the light for the night.

The important thing in this little book, aside from its technical value to the student of jurisprudence, is the convincing way in which Mr. Pound insists that the prevention and control of crime are not just police problems, but problems that call for the best we can muster in social, industrial, educational, spiritual, and political statesmanship.

The hang-over of our pioneer habits of thinking the underdog must be right because he is an underdog, of distrusting expert evidence, and of putting a too full faith in the omniscience of juries is making it hard for us to handle the problem of crime in a complex society. Here is a job for educational statesmanship.

The old restraining agencies of home and church have grown weaker and weaker as science has made men skeptical of religion, and economic conditions have disrupted the family. Here is a job for spiritual statesmanship.

Our economic order has developed so fast that law has not been able to keep up with it. The very success of advertising and salesmanship has thrown us into a restless discontent over things we want and cannot always get. Here is a job for social and economic statesmanship.

America faces the supreme task of pulling herself together, restudying the results of her shift from a pioneer society to an industrial society, and stabilizing her complex and conflicting mass of forces and interests.

It is out of the soil of this chaos and unbalance that much of our current crime grows. Let's not blame the policeman too much until we are sure the statesman has done his job.

Mis-Named

In last January the mercury fell
Till we thought that it never would stop,
But the July weather was hot as Hades,
And the mercury reached for the top.

In the summer we yearned for a shower or two,
The country got dry as a bone,
In October it rained like it wouldn't get through,
—And they call this the temperate zone.

Lindbergh has bought a farm. He is the sort of man who ought to have a farm. What farming needs is more men who can get up and quit it in a hurry.

A fellow-colyumist has raised the question of why one so often sees saxophones and shotguns lying side by side in pawnshop windows. The explanation that he offers is obvious enough. Whenever somebody buys a saxophone, his neighbor buys a shotgun. After the saxophonist's funeral, his relatives pawn the saxophone; then the neighbor, having no further use for the shotgun, pawns it also.

We felt some concern when a neighbor of ours acquired a saxophone, but it has bothered us very little. He plays on it at the time of day when, at our house, two of the boys are wrangling over the funny page in the paper, when daughter is practicing at the piano, when another of the boys is crying because there is going to be spinach for supper and when the baby is telling the world that he is hungry, or something, and the radio is turned on. With such competition, a saxophone has little chance to be a nuisance.

We caught ourself biting our finger nails the other day and getting restive, when the neighbor was playing "Happy Days Are Here Again," but he is in no real danger until he tackles the Stein Song.

Shot a mosquito that he thought was a duck.

Labels

There was a piece in the paper the other day about the new automobile numbers to be issued for next year. It seems that instead of having a string of numerals running up into the millions, we are to have license tags with combinations of initials and numbers. That is going to make it hard on folks who can count but can't read, but it's a good idea.

We can see interesting and useful possibilities in it, if a plan we have worked out could be adopted. Instead of allotting certain initials to certain counties, and issuing the plates in regular order as autoists apply for them, why not use some discrimination that will make the initials mean something? There is a class of driver to fit each letter of the alphabet, and by issuing initials accordingly, the public would come to understand what kind of guy is driving the other car.

In this county, for instance, the license letters are M and N. The M, under our system, would stand for Moron, or Mistake, and the N for Nitwit, or Nuisance. Whether it just happened that those letters were chosen for this county, we don't know, but they certainly are appropriate. However, there are other counties that are entitled to a share of the M's and N's.

A—asinine, anthropoid. If you don't think anthropoid is insulting, look it up.
B—bonehead. There would have to be a big supply of these.
C—careless, clabber-head.
D—damfool, dumb. In the cases where the autoist is both, use two D's.
E—empty-headed.
F—fathead, foolish.
G—greedy, gourdhead. This initial might be used mainly for trucks.
H—half-wit. Or, in case that seems unduly complimentary, hog or hopeless.
I—ignorant, or imbecile.
J—jelly-bean, jay-driver.
K—kindergarter. Not intended as any reflection on small children.
L—lousy.
M—mistake, moron.
N—nitwit, nuisance.
O—obnoxious.
P—pill, pediculous.
Q—queer.
R—reckless, road-hog.
S—simple, subnormal.
U—useless.
V—vacant.
W—wart.
X—Xanthippe. This is for cars with backseat drivers, as Xanthippe was that kind of woman.
Y—yap.
Z—zero.

There are some drivers, of course, to whom none of these terms would apply. But there are so few of us it wouldn't matter much.

Deep Stuff

The letters of the alphabet might be used for more definite designations. For instance, A stands for acaleph, which is as good a word as any to identify autoists who force pedestrians to stand and wait when they are making right-hand turns. B stands for bracycephalic, which, of course, is appropriate for light-rushers. C stands for cark and carpolite. A cark is a driver who backs or turns away from the curb without looking around. A carpolite is a guy who loafs along until you start to pass him and then speeds up. Similarly appropriate words might be found for each letter of the alphabet. In our own county the M would stand for Mormyroid, which is a driver who pets while driving.

The alphabet has lots of possibilities for those who really understand the English language.

There are six marriages to each divorce, in Texas. What better odds would anybody want?

Nature dons her autumn gown
And appears in sombre mood,
For now the leaves are falling down,
And so is the price of crude.

The fracas in Brazil is our idea of a model war, in that nobody ever seems to get licked.

And of course, cutting salmon and corn willie out of the ration would improve war quite a bit.

On the other hand, he has set up his home there and moved in his family. He is one of the few of the returning New York natives to leap to the defense of the town that makes pictures you see and hear. By the way—they call it "scene and herd" in these parts. He says he is through with the theater and will have movies only for a meal ticket, with an occasional dabble in vaudeville, mayhap.

Be all this as it may, he talks of the recent "bouncing check" episode in the life of Clara Bow. You recall that Clara dropped quite a few pilasters in and about a western gaming hall, and that the checks she presented had some family resemblance to a tennis ball. She defended herself by stating she had misunderstood the value of the chips, believing them to be of 50 per cent denomination.

"Clara says she didn't know the differences between 50 cents and a hundred dollars," gags Cantor. "Imagine anyone playing around with Harry Richman for six months and not knowing four bits from a century!

"When I played in 'Kid Boots' I had the sweet job of kissing Clara and getting paid for it. Her kisses are just like her cheeks—they come bouncing back.

"Hollywood gossip is priceless. You hear it everywhere. When I had been in town but one week I was firmly convinced that Gloria Swanson was married to Ronald Colman secretly and that Wallace Beery was their child.

"Another thing about Hollywood is the show they put on when a picture premiere is being staged. Arc lights and flood lights from the hills; sirens blow and mobs pack the streets. We got in the habit of going to all of them.

"One night, from our hilltop, we saw a beacon flashing across the sky. We hopped in our car fearing we were missing an opening. We found nothing in Hollywood and raced into Los Angeles. There we again spotted the great light. Finally, after chasing all over, we saw a crowd and heard a band and beheld a tremendous flood of brilliant lights. As we approached we could see wagons coming up with flowers.

"My wife remarked that we had at last found the place. When we got there it was the opening of a new meat market."

The afternoon papers bring tragic news. Jack Donahue is dead—dead at the age of 38 . . . the greatest tap dancer of them all . . . a fellow who could, with infinite art and skill, manipulate the most rhythmic feet in the theater.

Oddly enough, Jack had been haunted by an unconquerable fear of getting old. It amounted almost to the Freudian fixation or phobia. It wasn't age that bothered him so much as the idea that with the passing years his nimble feet would fail to respond to his bidding.

He had been around the theater, and he had seen what the years will do. Whenever he was a bit weary and the mechanical perfection of his step missed by so much as a trifle, he would sigh and wonder if that day wasn't just around the corner. It was, from all appearances, still a long way off.

Donahue's mother had not wanted him to be a dancer. It was her wish that he become an architect. Once he dropped his dancing for several years to enter a draughtsman's office. But he couldn't make it stick.

He came from Boston—"over by the yards and docks"—and started out with a medicine show. He was only a kid, and while still a youngster graduated to Broadway.

When he died he was working on the musical adaptation to a piece to be called "Prince Charming."

The exhibition given by the fire department last night was witnessed by a large crowd, and it was a success in every respect.

Instead of throwing one stream of water from a 2½-inch hose over the top of the tower used in the construction of the new City National bank building at the corner of Ohio avenue and Eighth street, two streams from two sets of 2½-inch hose were thrown at the same time, at least 30 feet above the tower, which is 105 feet high.

The auto fire engine was used, and the direct pressure from the power house was also turned on.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Poison gas killed not more than 200 soldiers of the A. E. F. during the world war, but measles killed 2,370, according to the surgeon general's office of the army.

The vital statistics division of that office has been busy compiling medical statistics on the 4,122,930 officers and men who served in the war, half of whom reached France.

Its figures can be used to estimate accurately the number of lives that may be saved by adequate hospital supplies and equipment for military forces in case of any future war. Complete statistics are gathered on such data as sick and mortality rates for all important diseases, accidents, climatic effects, battle casualties by numbers and percentages and by kind of weapon or agency, parts of the body affected, losses per organization and total battle losses.

The estimate of 200 poison gas fatalities is compared with 38,147 soldiers and marines who were killed instantly in action or who died before they could be removed.

Few Deaths by Gas

Nevertheless, 70,552 gassed men were taken to hospitals as against 147,651 hospitalized for shell shrapnel and gunshot wounds. But according to the surgeon general's figures, only 1.7 per cent of the former died as against 8.26 per cent of the latter. Only four of the 86 men listed as totally blinded in the war lost their sight by gas.

A total of 234,136 men in the American uniform were wounded About 14,700 of them died, bringing the total of men killed or mortally wounded in battle to 52,849.

Total world war battle casualties are given as 272,283, or 6.6 per cent of the 4,123,000 men raised for the struggles. Those killed or mortally wounded in action were about 1.4 per cent of the entire force.

Each case of sickness and nonbattle injury required an average of 27 days of hospital treatment, each war gas patient 42 days and each victim of gunshot, shell or shrapnel 95 days.

Casualties exceeded three per cent per division or less than five per cent of the actual battle days.

The average losses of an infantry regiment were about double that of its division on the rame days.

Will Be Prepared

Such information is used to compute aggregate medical personnel, hospitalization and supplies of lives in a theater of operations, and careful study is made of the highest average number of casualties per division per day for several consecutive days so that the medical service in the combat zone can be prepared for the maximum strain.

The army now boasts "a volume of charts, graphs and tables which enable the surgeon general to say with surprising accuracy how many doctors, nurses, hospital beds and kinds of hospitals, medical supplies and equipment will be needed for any military force in time of war under any given condition."

At times, it is pointed out, as many as one-fourth of the military force in a given battle zone may be under the direct administrative and disciplinary control of the medical service. From 13 to 15 per cent of the force may be in hospitals and from 10 to 12 per cent in the medical personnel attached to the combatants.

On Armistice day in 1918 10.29 per cent of the A. E. F. was in the hospital. The vital statistics division has calculated, however, that if the high hospital admission rate during the Meuse-Argonne operations from Sept. 26 to Nov. 11 had continued the percentage of the A. E. F. in the hospital at the end of one year would have been 16.8 per cent.

WATER ESSENTIAL TO LIFE

The earliest nations of men originated in fertile valleys like the Euphrates and the Nile. In lands periodically inundated with the water of these rivers, man could rely upon his crops of grain and vegetables. Civilizations of the past and present have followed where water was abundant.

The most uninhabited portions of the world are those dry and rocky places where the least water exists in an available form such as the great deserts of the world—the Sahara of Africa, the Gobi of Mongolia, and the Mojave and middle western deserts of the United States. On these arid lands, parched by the glaring sun of countless centuries, no plants will grow.

The first jelly-like beginnings of organic life, both vegetable and animal, came from the sea, and perished whenever they were cast upon dry land; and from the Palaeozoic jungles to the present time, organic life has been changed and controlled by the varying balance between the elements of water and sunlight. Life had to remain near the shores of beaches and shallows.

No creature can breathe or digest its food without water. Water-living creatures wave their freely exposed gills by which they extract their oxygen from the water. Every plant and animal that escaped from the sea had to develop a tough outer coat around its breathing apparatus to retain its moisture, and the vertebrate animals developed their lungs encased within their bodies. Even the lungs are somewhat on the principle of gills, since the oxygen of the air is absorbed by the moisture of the lungs before it can reach the blood.

Many of the lower forms of life are born and live in water. Some, such as the amphibians, come forth and live upon the land. The frog lays its eggs within the water. The eggs hatch into tadpoles. The tadpoles develop legs and lungs so that the frog can live and walk on the land.

All animals living in sunlight and air must have a protective skin to regulate and retain their moisture so that they will not dry up.

A higher form of life than the amphibian, the reptile, has its life beginning in eggs on land, but the egg is principally water, and is surrounded by a hard shell that prevents evaporation by preserving the precious moisture until the egg is hatched.

The highest form of life that has developed on this planet is the mammal, a form where the egg is retained and protected within the body of the mother until it has developed into a miniature adult.

Water is the greatest solvent in the world. With the aid of water the nourishing elements locked in the soil are dissolved so that when the sun shoots forth its shaft of infra-red and pierces through the fertile earth, stirring the germ of life within the seed, there will be food for the seed to grow and bud and blossom into full maturity.

There can be no life without water. The highest forms of living things exist where the water supply is regulated to meet the demands of both animal and vegetable life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

"Spells" Which Leave Headache

Question: Mrs. A. D. writes—"I have a most annoying feeling coming over me at times. It begins in my head, then seems to make my body stiff. Does not last long, but when it does go away leaves me with a very bad headache all the rest of the day. Could you tell me what it is and what to do about it?"

Answer—It would be necessary for me to know more about your trouble in order to give you a correct explanation of the cause and cure. I cannot attempt to diagnose cases without personal examinations.

Pancakes and Coffee

Question: Mrs. J. writes—"I am fond of pancakes and coffee for breakfast. Sometimes I use oatmeal and poached eggs in addition. Would this hurt if I am careful with my other meals? I never see you mention pancakes in your menus."

Answer—I do not recommend the ordinary pancake because it is exceedingly hard to digest, and a breakfast such as you describe is apt to make you logy and sleepy the remainder of the day. Even if your digestive system is good, the strain will tell in time. A good substitute for pancakes is a thoroughly toasted waffle in which the starch is completely dextrinized. I do not advise much butter or syrup on the waffle. In addition, one or two eggs may be used in any manner except fried, and some stewed fruit, prepared without sugar. I advise breakfast cereal only for children and those getting sufficient physical exercise.

Hair Turning Curly

Question: R. writes—"Am 32 years old and my hair is just beginning to get curly. Could there be something wrong with my health or scalp? I feel fine, but would like to know the reason for this change in my hair."

Answer—Hair frequently turns curly toward middle age, and this change is no doubt due to the results of a bad fever or to a radical change in diet. I have known many cases where thin, straight hair became curly after a fasting and dieting regime.

Long dozen is a popular name given to 13, also known as a baker's dozen.

RAINY DAY GOLF

By Edgar A. Guest

They called us fools who saw us play
Our golf game on a rainy day.

They laughed to see us brave the storm
Who stayed in shelter, dry and warm.

Yet are they truly wise, who say
From rain they've always run away.
Have never ventured out to see
A summer rainfall bathe a tree?

They called us fools and thought us mad,
And never guessed the fun we had.

They never guessed, who are so sane
The beauty of a summer rain.
'Tis only fools like us who know

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Mr. "Legs" Diamond Hits a New Town

Diamond (abruptly)—Lock me up, please.

Cop (surprised)—What for.

Diamond—No charge. It's just a custom.

Cop—But what has you done?

Diamond—Nothing.

Cop—You can't be arrested for that.

Diamond—Can't I, though? Now please stop making silly cracks like that and I'll go along to the nearest lockup quietly.

Diamond (pleadingly)—Oh come on and lock me up like a good fellow.

Cop—Get what over with?

Diamond—Being locked up.

Cop (very puzzled)—I don't follow you at all, mister.

Diamond—Now let me try to explain it all, officer. As soon as I land in any city I'm arrested at once.

Cop—But on what charge?

Diamond—They never say.

Cop—After they pinch you, what do they do with you?

Diamond—Just send for all the newspaper photographers, take some flashlights of me and let me go again. It's a regular routine and if it isn't gone through with at once I get all nervous and upset. Now in this particular instance I'm a nervous wreck.

Cop—Why?

Cop—By whom?

Diamond—By the police department.

Cop—Did it expect you?

Diamond—I sent it my itinerary. I've got several important matters to attend to in this town, and I can't concentrate on 'em until I've been formally seized, photographed and released. It would be a great favor to me if you would run me in now without further talk.

Cop—Who are you, anyhow?

Diamond—"Legs" Diamond!

Cop—I never heard of you.

Diamond (collapsing at his feet)—Awk-k-k-k-k-k!

Clara Bow in 'Her Wedding Night' Strand Feature Through Wednesday Amos 'n' Andy to Follow on Friday

Supported by a cast of comedians who are really funny and who, fortunately enough, are supplied with an unending stream of laugh provoking comedy lines, Paramount's "it" girl, Clara Bow, simmer and more vivacious than ever, is to be seen on the screen of the Strand theater this week in the uproarious farce-comedy, "Her Wedding Night." The comedians who contribute so gayly to the hilarious proceedings are Skeets Gallagher, Charlie Ruggles, Ralph Forbes and Rbaita Moreno.

In "Her Wedding Night," Clara is cast as a famous motion picture star, sojourning in Paris. Meeting an old school chum (Geneva Mitchell) at a fashionable hotel, Clara accepts Geneva's invitation to visit at her villa in the south of France. On the train, en route to Geneva's villa, are Skeets Gallagher, Geneva's fiance, who had flirted with Clara in Paris, and Ralph Forbes, a popular music composer who, in his own particular fashion, keeps the hearts of many women fluttering. Needless to say the imperturbable Skeets tries to make a hit with Clara. At one of the train stops Clara and Skeets get off for a few minutes and while they are chatting, more or less aimably, the train in true European fashion starts off without warning. Clara and Skeets are stranded. They inquire about a hotel and are taken to the office of the mayor, who, unbeknown to them performs a wedding ceremony. They sign the license thinking it is the hotel register. Finally recovering from the shock of her rather sudden marriage, Clara makes the doubly startling discovery that she is not even married to Skeets, for Forbes, the composer, because of unpleasant notoriety, had prevailed upon Skeets to exchange identities. So not only does our Clara find herself married but she also makes the disconcerting discovery that she is married to Forbes—by proxy. And she has never even seen him.

Naturally enough, such complications are merely the beginning of things, becoming gloriously hilarious when Clara and Forbes meet face to face while Skeets, Geneva and Charlie Ruggles try to patch matters up. The gayety of the story is maintained until a fast-moving, surprise climax brings "Her Wedding Night" to a delightful and pleasing conclusion.

Amos 'n' Andy

Local audiences will have their first opportunity to see their radio favorites, beginning next Friday when "Check and Double Check" opens at the Strand.

Guided by fans' preponderant preference to see Amos 'n' Andy in the same characterizations and meeting the same problems that form the basis of their daily radio sketches, the producers have not altered the Amos 'n' Andy that millions have learned to love. Their associated characters also have been retained, with the Kingfish, Madam Queen and Ruby Taylor and others playing important roles. That remarkable ramshackle vehicle, the Fresh Air taxicab, makes its first appearance and audiences are taken within the sacred lodge room of the Mystic Knights of the Sea.

Sue Carol and Charles Morton have romantic leads in "Check and Double Check," and other favorites who appear are Irene Rich, Ralf Harolde and Rita LeRoy.

'Love in the Rough' and 'Good News' Showing Majestic This Week With 'Scotland Yard' Starting Saturday

Benny Rubin is chief among the funsters who provide mirth and hilarity in the picture. Benny is paired with Dorothy McNulty in a comedy romance that closely follows Montgomery and Miss Jordan. The music numbers are delightfully offered without stage artificiality and set a new standard in this type of screen fare. There are no dancing choruses. Dorothy Fields and Jimmy McHugh are responsible for the score which includes "Like Kelly Can," and two sure fire hits, "I'm Learning a Lot From You" and "Go Home and Tell Your Mother." Other numbers bound to be popular are "Just One More Waltz," "I'm Doing That Thing" and "Dance, Fool Dance."

The cast includes J. C. Nugent, Catherine Moylan (a Dallas girl), Tyrrell Davis, Allan Lane and Roscoe Ates.

To the lovers of football there is a very interesting subject, "The Last Yard" by Knute Rockne. This is the beginning of a series of subjects by this world famous coach.

"Good News"

"Goody—I don't have to cry!" This was Bessie Love's immediate reaction when she first was shown the script of "Good News," the screen adaptation of the Broadway stage success which will open at your Majestic next Wednesday.

Featured with Bessie Love is Cliff Edwards, Stanley Smith, Mary Lawler, Lola Lane, Gus Shy, Dorothy McNulty, Billy Taft and Tom Jackson. Abe Lyman's band also appears. "Good News" is a sure fire hit, with plenty of gay campus comedy.

There will be more fun with Laurel and Hardy in their latest comedy, "Hog Wild."

Thursday night has been designated as "School Night." The Coyote football team will be present as will many of the student body prior to their leaving for the big game with Vernon.

"Scotland Yard"

"Scotland Yard," based on the Broadway stage success of the same name, comes to the Majestic next Saturday. The story is unusual in many respects. A clever robber, pursued by the police, seeks refuge on a houseboat. He finds there a London banker of distinction and his bride—a hasty honeymoon on the eve of the departure for France. The robber forces them to bind his wounds, and, ironically takes a locket with the pictures as a memento of the occasion. He, too, is up in the maelstrom of battle. Desperately wounded and mutilated, he comes to consciousness at a hospital near the front to find that plastic surgery has given him the face of the man in the locket! How he uses this imposed personality to further his own ends makes for the development of the drama. Edmund Lowe plays three roles in "Scotland Yard," and the wife is portrayed by Joan Bennett.

The second of the series of football subjects by Knute Rockne will be presented with this attraction as will a Charlie Chase comedy, "The Real McCoy."

The buried ruins of ancient Pompeii were accidentally discovered in 1594 while workmen were making an underground aqueduct. It was not until 17663 that systematic excavations were begun on the site.

Harry Richman At State Theater, Starting Sunday

One of Broadway's most brilliant personalities comes to the talking screen for the first time in "Putting on the Ritz" the United Artists all-talking musical extravaganza at the State theater Sunday through Wednesday. That personality is Harry Richman, perhaps the most versatile of all the masters of song and dance along the famous street of entertainment. For three years the star of George White's "Scandals," he is celebrated in many ways. His golden voice has started many popular song hits on their way to success. His phonograph records sell more copies, according to music house reports, than those of any other popular singer. His voice and his wit have made his night clubs the most exclusive after show resorts in New York City. He is a popular entertainer over the radio, and a headline attraction during his occasional brief engagement in vaudeville.

James Gleason, noted as both stage star and playwright, plays a role of color and humor as the small time vaudeville player, partner of the principal character. Gleason, whose brilliant dialog sparkles through his "Is Zatt So" and "The Shannons of Broadway" added many original lines and comedy touches to his role in "Putting on the Ritz."

Joan Bennett, in the leading feminine role celebrates her fifth outstanding success in less than a year. Her first appearance as an actress was on the stage last season in "Jarnegan" in which her father, Richard Bennett, starred. Since then she was attracted by the talking pictures, and within the last year she has played in "Bulldog Drummonds," "Disraeli," and "Three Live Ghosts" which just finished a three-day successful engagement at the State.

Lilyan Tashman, as the vaudeville partner of Gleason, is another popular screen star who is highly familiar with the locale and atmosphere of "Putting on the Ritz" for she began her career as a show girl and glorified beauty along Broadway.

Aileen Pringle, in a character not of the stage, but of New York society, has a prominent role, as has Richard Tucker, Eddie Kane and Purnell B. Pratt, both well known stage players recently attracted to the talking films. Miss Pringle has been absent from the limelight for two years but with her pleasing voice and beaming personality she is bound to gain back even a greater number of friends.

Tennessee 4-H club teams took the honors in livestock, dairy, poultry and crops judging at the Mid-South fair this year.

ROLLING STONE IS POPULAR STAR OF OKLAHOMA STATION

By NEA Service

PONCA CITY, Okla., Oct. 18.—A rolling stone may gather no moss, but the Rolling Stone at WBBZ here has gathered a lot of radio friends.

The Rolling Stone is Morton Harvey, managing director of WBBZ, who doubles in entertaining his station's audience. By talking the language of farmers and rural dwellers he has endeared himself to his listeners.

Years ago Harvey studied for the ministry. Today he is using that training by presenting Scripture readings over the air. Every morning these readings may be heard in his program, "Oklahoma's Original Alarm Clock Club," an early morning program starting at 6:30 central time and containing hints on feeding children and chickens, and on dairy markets and other wholesome bits of advice.

With Harvey is Betty Harvey, his teammate when he was in vaudeville. At WBBZ she is known as Aunt Betty.

Everyone for miles around the station knows the Rolling Stone and Aunt Betty. The Rolling Stone assumes the character of a wholehearted friend who understands all his listeners' troubles. He talks in the language that the farmer understands, and since he has taken over WBBZ his station has risen in popularity.

FULL PROGRAM PLANNED OVER KGKO FOR SUNDAY

The complete program to be broadcast over station KGKO Sunday was announced as follows:

7:30-8:30—Church of the Air.
8:30-9:30—First Church of Christ Sunday school broadcast.
10:50-12:00—St. Paul's Lutheran church.
12:30-1:00—Dinner hour concert.
1:00-1:15—Elven W. Watkins, tenor soloist.
1:15-1:30—Song story.
1:30-2:00—Nat Brusiloff and his Lido Venice orchestra.
2:00-2:30—International Bible students.
4:00-4:30—Marathon dance, remote control.
5:00-5:30—Vesper hour.
7:50-9:00—Broadcast First Baptist church services.
9:40-10:30—Marathon dance, remote control.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling's address, "What I Found in Europe," will mark the return of the National Youth conference period to the air, Sunday afternoon, Oct. 19, via WJZ's chain.

The broadcast of three series of religious programs which were suspended during the summer season will be resumed over NBC networks Sunday, Oct. 19.

BEFORE THE MIKE

It's reported that Paul Whiteman asked $30,000 a week from WLW for the services of his band. Well, you haven't heard portly Paul's band coming over the air from Cincinnati, have you?

A cherubic smile, a tiny pug nose and a personality that just bubbles over—that's Jimmy McCallion, juvenile NBC star. Jimmy's only 10, but he is regularly featured in the chain programs, "Teddy Party," "Bon Ami" and "The Lady Next Door." Jimmy's acting promises to bring him fame equal to that achieved by Baby Rose Marie, another child star of NBC.

McCallion

The Vermont Lumberjacks, new program over the WJZ network of NBC, reverted to type in getting its master of ceremonies. He is John Whitcomb, a backwoods lumberman from New England. He has cruised more than 85,000 acres of timberland in the capacity of lumberjack, timber cruiser and scaler. There's nothing high-toned about him and his officiating of the program is refreshing.

There's one song which constant reputation over the air has not killed. It's the nameless, wordless theme song which Columbia uses during station breaks of sustaining network programs. It was composed by Channon Collinge, staff member, and has been in use for two years.

"Mable and Min," NBC Pacific coast network, Fridays at 9:15 (Pacific standard time).
"Radio Forum," WOR, Newark, Sundays at 2 (eastern standard time).
"El Sidelo Minstrels," NBC Pacific coast network, Saturdays at 9 (Pacific standard time).

WGN, Chicago, has secured one of the foremost announcers of the Middle West in Pierre Andre, who was known as the most popular announcer of the Northwest when he worked for KSTP, St. Paul. He's been a lawyer, newspaper man and an actor.

Besides being an excellent singer, Phil Dewey, heard over NBC, is one man in a million. He took his wife out golfing recently, watched her take 25 strokes on the first hole, and then announced that she'd soon be a star golfer.

And now KYW, Chicago, will have no more "And-nowing" in its program announcements. The management has issued an order barring "And now you'll hear——" and similar phrases from announcers' vocabularies.

CHILDREN'S PROGRAM DAILY KGKO FEATURE

Every afternoon at 5:45 o'clock, Old King Cole and Humpty Dumpty appear on the air from KGKO with a special program for the kiddies. Every day Old King Cole and Humpty Dumpty board the magic train and invite all the kiddies to join them on a 15-minute trip to Magic Lands. The program was started last Monday and although only a week old, hundreds of children join Old King Cole each night on his trips. His program is planned with the sole purpose in mind of giving the kiddies entertainment and once they join Old King Cole on one of his trips they will be with him every night.

QUANAH SOLOIST TO GIVE RELIGIOUS BROADCAST

Elven W. Watkins, well known tenor soloist of Quanah, Texas, will be on the air Sunday at 1 o'clock with a program of religious hymns. Mr. Watkins is well known throughout North Texas and his fan mail comes from an audience throughout North Texas and Oklahoma. Mr. Watkins' program for Sunday is as follows:

"Who Could It Be"—Harkness.
"When We All Get to Heaven"—Wilson.
"Christ, My Lord"—Main.
"When the World Forgets"—Ackley.
"The Haven of Rest"—Moore.

J. H. Allison to Talk on Vesper Hour Broadcast

The vesper hour program broadcast each Sunday afternoon at, 5 o'clock from radio station KGKO is one of the best Sunday programs available to the radio audience. This program under the direction of Mrs. Wayne J. Holmes features each Sunday prominent Wichita Falls singers and a short talk by a prominent business man. J. H. Allison of the Times Publishing company will make an interesting talk on today's programs. The complete program is as follows:

Violin solo, aria by Tenaglio, played by Mrs. Fred Sharp.
Tenor solo, "Master, I Walk With Thee"—H. E. Kurtz.

The "Andante," from Mozart's "Concerto in D," one of two concertos which he wrote for the flute, will be played by Leonardo de Lorenzo, flutist, as a feature of the Rochester Civic orchestra broadcast over WJZ's network, Monday evening, Oct. 20.

AIR STATION TALKS

(By The Associated Press)

Oscar Heather, Chicago lyric tenor, has joined the staff of KMOX. Heather is a product of South Dakota and has been in radio work since 1924.

A variety of singing talent will be available to listeners during the Victor Young orchestra period over WJZ's network Monday evening, Oct. 20.

Music inspired by William Shakespeare's plays will be presented by the Nathaniel Shilkret concert orchestra in its broadcast over WEAF and stations, Wednesday evening, Oct. 22. EXPLANATION OF LAST SUNDAY'S CARTOON — Monty, the First and Last Casualty of the Franco-Russian War of 1870: This modest French poilu was the first to be wounded in the war, and the last one to be killed. It is an appealing case of Providence's peculiar ways with human destinies. The story is told in detail in Figuier's "Histoire de Merveilleux" and is based on the French parliamentary debates as reported in the "Archives Parlementaires," second series, volume 34. A statue was erected to Monty in Southern France by the French government. "The Luckiest Man Alive": While flying over Belgium, in February, 1918, Captain Hedley was acting as observer and machine gunner in a fighting plane piloted by Jimmy Makepeace. Due to a misunderstanding of prearranged signals, Makepeace put the plane in a nosedive so quickly that Hedley was thrown out of his cockpit and clear of the plane. He fell 300 feet through space, suddenly landed on the tail of his own plane as it came out of the dive, and reached the ground safely. Unlawful to Carry Pliers in Texas: During the early days of the cattle raising industry in Texas the cutting of wire fences proved to be such a menace that a state law was passed making it unlawful to carry any instrument that could be used to cut wire. This law has never been repealed, hence it is unlawful to carry a pair of pliers in your car.

DEAN OF WOMEN

Two Sides to Every Question

MOST people in summing up the subject of the Studdiford sisters were inclined to agree that of the two, Marion had the better mind. Luella had simply used hers to better advantage.

As a matter of fact, compared with the erudition of her twin, Marion was sorely lacking. Life had turned out that way for her. In the beginning, the two sisters, hand in hand, neck to neck, so to speak, had begun what was to be their four years' course at the State University for which they had both qualified with honors.

Of the two, it is probably true that during the first year, Marion's college standing was a peg ahead of her sister's. Not that it was scarcely worth recording. Marion would have been the last to encourage that. For all practical purposes, the two sisters ranked about on a level. Super intelligent girls, carrying on the fine intellectual traditions of their father, whose geographical text books were in use throughout the country.

It was at the beginning of her sophomore year that Marion, suddenly, and like a bolt out of the blue, threw over her academic career without so much as an ounce of apparent compunction, and returned one evening to the modest flat she shared with her sister, married to a young automobile salesman she had met at a charity function.

For the first, the incongruity of this marriage seemed apparent to every one but the young pair most concerned. Pale, thoughtful, studious, and even precious Marion Studdiford, married to the ruddy young man Tom Ford, whose shoes were so glossy, whose hair was so glossy, whose linen shone with even a separate splendor and whose use of English in a man with whom she was not in love, would have caused the erstwhile Marion Studdiford's ears to shudder.

IT was a matter, however, of a full three years, before the veils of illusion began to tear themselves from the eyes of Marion, and she began to awake gradually, terrifyingly, to the strange truth that in marriage, this vigorous, boyish, refreshing young man of her ideals, had become no more than the too corpulent, slightly vulgar, blatant young salesman whose horizon was bounded by rubber tires.

It was not the kind of realization that came over night. Slowly, like a reluctant tide, it crept upon her, washing misery into her soul, drenching her waking, and even her sleeping hours, in a jumble of regrets. Regrets for what might have been. Regrets for a freedom that was gone. Regrets for the birthright which she had forfeited so blindly, and into which Luella had meanwhile come in full prime.

Not that she would have exchanged with Luella. After all, to be dean of women in a large college, portentious as it might seem, was scarcely the destiny that even Luella, at thirty, must have planned for herself.

Marion wanted more than that. And yet—had it been in her power to choose, over and over again she would have selected for herself the destiny that was Luella's, rather than her own as the stagnating wife of her ruddy vulgarian.

At least to Luella's life there was a dignity of achievement and congeniality of environment.

From her own kind, almost overnight, as it were, Marion, after her marriage became outcast. The friends who had known her, university colleagues, the members of her social group, simply did not speak Tom's idiom.

FOOL! Fool! Nature had trapped Marion. At twenty-three, the entire course of her life had shifted away from the fine true course of her sister's. At thirty, Luella, all on her own, mind you, and with a mind no better than Marion's, had achieved position.

Not, as she told herself again and again, that she would yearn for the rather frigid dignity that went with Luella's position as dean of women, but just the same, life could be no more barren for Luella, unmarried, than it was for Marion, married to Tom.

On the contrary, for the freedom that was Luella's it seemed to Marion that she would be willing to sacrifice actual years of her life. And the horrible part of it was Tom's innocence of all this dismay. He was like a small boy, content with his lot; content with his wife; content with his playtoys of Ford automobile and expensive radio. Life was good; Marion was good; automobile tires were lucrative. All was well in his world.

HE was killed outright while demonstrating, to a customer, the performance of a set of his own tires.

To Marion, who had repeatedly, throughout the years of her life with him, contemplated the hour when she must destroy his house of cards, by revealing her state of mind, his death came as release, and yet, at the same time filled her with a sense of rectitude that took away stings of conscience.

It was at the beginning of her sophomore year that Marion, suddenly, and like a bolt out of the blue, returned one evening married to a young automobile salesman.

Tom had died without knowing. Tom had died believing her to be as uncomplex and happy in their marriage as he had been.

Marion was grateful for that. It made everything subsequent come easier.

What actually happened, as her friends put it, was the return of the fish to its water. Two months after Tom's death, Marion matriculated in the university from which she had married as a sophomore and took her first degree two years later, cum laude.

They were to her the happiest years of her life. It was as if her mind, dehydrated by the long period of inactivity and intellectual sunlessness, had suddenly found capacity of expansion again. Sometimes it actually seemed to her that under the congeniality of the old environment that she could actually feel her mentality reviving, lifting itself, warming itself in stimulating contacts.

It was considered remarkable that at the conclusion of her college course she had gone beyond that point, and was halfway qualified for a second degree.

The indulgence of Luella meant more to Marion than she would admit, even to herself. It was not that she craved a position similar to that of Luella's, but—well—it had to be faced at last, more than anything she could think of, Marion wanted to prove to herself, and to the world, that her mind, if not better, was at least as good as her erudite sister's.

The opportunity came sooner than she dreamed.

Within a month after her second degree had been conferred upon her, Marion was called to accept the position of Dean of Women in the place vacated by Miss Luella Studdiford, who had eloped suddenly with a chauffeur in a neighboring town.

TIMES BOOK REVIEW AND LITERARY LANTERN

THE LITERARY LANTERN

The Literary Lantern burns weekly in the Sunday Times and is intended to throw light on writing around and about the South. Communications for this column should be addressed to the Editor of the Literary Lantern.

This week we have a number of books concerned with life and adventure in the frontier days in the great Southwest—books combining the qualities of biography and history along with adventure. Some of them introduce a note of gusto, and wild humor, and a certain spirit of brutality in healthy contrast to the more delicate qualities of some current southern literature.

The first book on our list is certainly strong meat. It is "The Outlaw Years," by Robert M. Coates (Macaulay, $3) and describes the exploits of the land pirates of the Natchez Trace—that overland trail by which traders returned up the Mississippi river. The time is the period from 1800 to 1835 when the wilderness and the frontier towns were held not only by brave pioneers but also by the very riff raff and scum of eastern lands, which had been pushed west by former crimes. Mr. Coates points out that the lonely wilderness life itself cut men loose from restraints of civilization—"they revealed by their violences, or by their heroism, how different they were from other men." There was temptation in the constant uncertainty of life and the ease with which crime could be concealed or laid to the charge of Indians who were unsubdued. And so we have the terrible and revolting deeds of the Harpes with which "The Outlaw Years" begins. Then the reader meets the bandit Hare, dapper and imaginative, and Samuel Mason, the whining hypocritical ex-justice of the peace whose last boast was that "he was one of the boldest soldiers in the revolutionary war and there was no greater robber and niggerstealer than himself." But the cool and collected Murrel cut the biggest swathe of all the land pirates, for he not only robbed and murdered and stole slaves, but he planned and nearly carried out a far-reaching uprising of the negroes and the establishment of a sort of bandit empire of which he should have been the king. As fierce and incredible as these deeds appear to the present, Mr. Coates gives them the sense of near reality. The book is written with a bold and dramatic style.

Real West

The autobiography of Lee Sage, "The Last Rustler" (Little, Brown, $2.00), has not the same grimness and savage humor. It is a matter-of-fact narrative in the cowboy's own lingo, the true story of the son of a cattle thief whose adventures took him all over the Southwest as a companion of Indians and desperadoes. Perhaps the best parts of this volume are the recollections of childhood reactions to the experiences of a rustler camp, the picture of the manly little chap who worships his wild father and plays hooky from his mother to ride off and capture a favorite horse from under the nose of a rival outlaw.

"Lone Cowboy" (Scribner, $2.75), by Will James, also contains vivid impressions of the small boy, reared in the saddle and proud of his slim bow-legs, mark of the rider. Will James tells of his youthful chagrin at being separated from his horse on a trapping expedition and how he hid in the bottom of the freighter wagon so that the ranch children might not see him disgraced and on the way to becoming a knock-kneed hiker. But he got back to his horse later and in the hard life of the ranges he learned to be a man. "I was dared to ride big husky calves and colts and there wasn't a day passed when I wasn't bucked off at least once. If I piled off too often I'd get another kick and the cowboys would talk amongst themselves, loud enough so I could hear, and say, 'We'd better kill him, he'll never be a cowboy.'" He did become a cowboy, and he also satisfied another ambition—he learned to draw scenes of the life he loved. His illustrations of this book are a great feature in its attractiveness.

Frank Harris has written "My Reminiscences as a Cowboy" (Charles Boni, 75c), giving his Texas adventures, recollected so vividly that at 75 he can say, "Kings and cowboys I have known, and the cowboys stand out above the rest. I am 6,000 miles from them at this moment and 56 years in time, but they seem nearer to me than this morning's newspaper." In this book are all the appurtenances of the wild-west, the reality, not the show—the Indians, cowboys, horses, cattle, the saloons, the loose women and wild men and the sheriffs and officers who pursued them, all the elements to make a dramatic story. And Mr. Harris has related this little-known portion of his life in a sharply dramatic manner.

"Virginian" Writes Biography

According to the publishers, Frank M. Canton is the original of Owen Wister's "Virginian." His biography, "Frontier Trails" (Houghton Mifflin, $3.00), contains many details that bear this out. He was born in Virginia, lived as a boy in Texas, and then ventured out as a cowboy into the land beyond the frontier border where there were few settlements, hostile Indians, cut-throats, wild animals, buffalo—and many adventures. Like the "Virginian," he was ranged against the cattle thieves in a struggle to maintain law and order. His career was a long and honorable and brave one. At his death General Canton had served as sheriff, United States Deputy Marshal and general law-enforcement officer during some of the most difficult conflicts in the West, he had participated in wars with cattle thieves and Indians, and maintained order during the troublous times of the Klondike gold rush. In fact he was one of those soldiers who always picks out the hardest job and follows it to a finish. "Frontier Trails" is General Canton's own story, told in the unadorned but convincing language of a man of action. His opinions of the men he dealt with are always cool and fairminded, and what he has to say about the Indians seems to be full of justice and sound judgment.

Stuart Henry's "Conquering Our Great American Plains" (Dutton, $5.00) tells the story of the famous Texas cattle trade. The picture of Abilene, Kan., gives an excellent idea of a western border town in that time. The book treats an important phase of American history and is, incidentally, an enthralling tale, though somewhat marred for the general reader by controversial passages in which the author corrects impressions given by previous historians.

When Camels Crossed Texas

One of the extraordinary episodes in the development of a new and romantic country was the experiment carried on by the federal government to test the practicability of using camels in crossing the great American desert. For reasons both commercial and military it was becoming imperative to communicate more quickly between the eastern and western seaboards. Jefferson Davis, then secretary of war, advocated a test to prove his theories that—"for transportation with troops rapidly moving across the country, the camel would remove an obstacle which now serves greatly to diminish the value and efficiency of our troops on the western frontier." So began an experiment, during which a camel brigade under Lieut. Edward Fitzgerald Beale made its way from San Antonio, Texas, to Bakersfield, Calif. The record of that almost forgotten expedition has recently been published. "Uncle Sam's Camels," edited by Lewis B. Lesley (Harvard University Press, $4.00). The journals and reports of those in charge of the trip are original source material and more interesting than any reconstructed narrative would be. Evidently Lieutenant Beale became much attached to his camels, for he says of them: "Nor could one do justice to their merits or value in expeditions of this kind, and I look forward to the day when every mail route across the continent will be conducted and worked altogether with this economical and noble brute." Of the general value of his explorations, Beale has this to say: "I have conducted my party from the Gulf of Mexico to the shores of the Pacific, and back again to the eastern terminus of the road, through a country for a great part entirely unknown, and inhabited by hostile Indians, without the loss of a man. I have tested the value of the camels, marked a new road to the Pacific, and traveled 4,000 miles without an accident."

In spite of Beale's report and Davis' recommendations, the federal government failed to launch any form of camel brigade, though several private companies were formed. Soon came the civil war, the camels were scattered, many taken to Texas, some tested out as pack animals in mines, and some evidently turned loose, since we find such provisions as "An act to prohibit camels and dromedaries from running at large on or about the public highways of the state of Nevada." Many camels bearing Uncle Sam's brand found their way into circuses to be recognized years later as survivors of a romantic and novel experiment.

THE BOOK SURVEY

By BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

Wyat Johnson is a deputy U. S. marshal in the wild frontier town. He is a gunman, and a dangerous one, but he has, somehow, a yen for law and order. As Daniel Boone considered himself an instrument ordained by God to clear up the Kentucky wilderness, so Wyat Johnson considers himself a fated terror for the evil-doers of Arizona.

But Arizona does not take kindly to his plans. With his two brothers and a couple of free-shooting friends, Johnson tries to make his town orderly and law-abiding, but his reverence for those two virtues is not generally shared by his compatriots. Jeered, hated and conspired against, he finally breaks loose, shoots up his enemies in one grand, final battle and moves on to greener pastures.

As a matter of fact, Wyat Johnson hardly knows why he fights for law and order. His soul is the soul of the western bad man. He is the two-gun killer personified, and when shooting comes he enters into it with a kind of holy joy. One gathers that he fights for civic order because he must fight and must have power; a slight shift of circumstance would make him an unabashed outlaw.

Mr. Burnett's style begins to grow wearisome, and in this book it seems decidedly an affectation. However, it has the one great merit of getting out of the author's way when there is fast action to describe. "Saint Johnson" gets away to a slow start, but comes to a breathless climax. Like "Little Caesar" and "Iron Man," it will be vastly over-rated—but it will also, with good reason, be tremendously popular.

Exploits of a Pagan

"The Great Jasper," by Fulton Oursler, is a peculiar book. It tells of a lusty, he-man of a street car motorman, who is a sort of twentieth century Casanova addicted to taking his fun where he finds it—and he finds it everywhere. He has an over-saintly wife who strives constantly and unavailingly to lead him to the baptismal font of an evangelical church, and a studious son whom he tries to bring up in his own image; and his adventures, which eventually bring him riches as an Atlantic City astrologer, make interesting and amusing reading.

Mr. Oursler, I think, has almost written a book of real significance. But it doesn't quite jell, for some reason. Jasper himself is clear-cut and believable, but the other characters never quite come to life. One simply fails to believe in them. They never step out of the page.

Jasper himself, however, is worth reading about. He is a whole-souled, zestful pagan, and this book about his adventures—issued by Covici-Friede at $2—will very likely have an extensive sale.

Adventure Under the Sea

"By Guess—And by God"—is William Guy Carr's story of the deeds of the British submarines during the world war. Naturally, it is a tale of hair-raising adventure that leaves one marveling at the heroism of the men who dared do their fighting in those submerged man-traps.

The British submarines did not have the chance to distinguish themselves that the Germans had, but what chances they had they took, in full measure. Mr. Carr's tales of the operations at the Dardanelles are especially interesting. Nearly every page evokes either a gasp or a shudder.

Doubleday, Doran is the publisher, and the price is $2.50.

Reviews of Worth While Books

Other current books that are worth your while include:

"The Creative Home," by Ivah Everett Deering, published by Richard R. Smith at $1.50. Here is a highly sane and intelligent discussion of the rearing of children. It avoids the time-worn cliches usual to such books, and also dodges the tortuous labyrinth of the psychologists, and emerges as a book that any parent could read with pleasure and profit. It is, in fact, the best thing of its kind I have seen in a long time.

"John Marsh, Pioneer," by George L. Lyman, published by Scribners at $3.50. This tells the story of a Bay State college lad who went to Minnesota over a century ago, mingled with the Indians prior to Black Hawk's war and finally moved to California, living there over a decade before annexation and helping materially to bring the state into the union. It is a colorful bit of history and an absorbing portrait of a strange, self-contained pioneer.

"He Done Her Wrong," by Milt Gross, published by Doubleday, Doran at $2. This is perhaps the funniest book of the year. Gross tells a melodramatic "western" entirely in pictures, producing a magnificent burlesque and touching off some of the heartiest laughs I have had in many months. Don't miss it.

"Atolls of the Sun," by Frederick O'Brien, issued by the Century company at $1.50. This is a re-issue of an old favorite, in which Mr. O'Brien does his best to make all dissatisfied Americans hop the first boat for the langourous South seas.

Pigeons on Planes

MONTREAL.—In case of mishap, airplanes in the Royal Canadian air forces patroling forests, are carrying carrier pigeons along. If the pilot is forced down, he releases one of the birds which is expected to return to the home airport to summon aid. This system in the majority of cases has proven successful.

Mountain Pasture

By Louise Crenshaw Ray

Slender, leafless birches stand
Against the sky. Beyond are blue
And undiscovered hills, a land
Remote. The birches sing to you

Of glory autumn made complete:
Of granaries; and dreams that fall
Like snow . . . Ah, weary feet—
But how the distant reaches call!

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

Barbara didn't give Ted a chance to speak as he entered the Merryman living room. Her own liquid voice flowed out to him, softly, gaily, sympathetically.

"We're waiting for you, Ted. But we thought maybe, since you have been busy today, you might not want to go with us."

"Go with you? Oh, yes, that's right, we did have a party on, didn't we? I'd forgotten."

Ted's face was tired, and his step didn't have so much resilliency. But Sue noticed that his eyes were brighter when he looked at Joan. And Sue was glad. Just why, she didn't know. Somehow she didn't want Joan to be hurt, if she really was in love with Ted. It was so terrible, so very terrible, to love a man who didn't love you!

"But he can't love two girls and I want him to love Sarah," Sue told herself. "Why, oh why, can't love be like mathematics, and two and two make four?"

"Are you going with us, Ted?" Barbara asked again. "For if you aren't, we're merrily rolling along."

"Do you mind if I don't?" he asked, but his eyes were on Joan's.

"We'll miss you, but of course it's all right. You need to rest." Joan's eyes didn't move from the steady ones that were watching her. "Is it snowing again?" Now her voice was casual. But at the door she turned and smiled again. "Good-bye, Ted."

And in that farewell Sue thought she read a deeper meaning than Ted or Jack or anyone else could find. Had Joan recognized defeat and was she withdrawing? Or was she doing the chivalrous thing because the other girl was helpless now? It didn't matter much. It wasn't her problem. Only . . . Sarah's white face drifted across her memory and was gone.

Jack had promised to take Sue back to the hospital that evening, so after a while she put on her coat and the blue beret that deepened the turquoise of her eyes, and found herself sitting in the long, low roadster that she had entered for the first time, so many months before. She had been with Jimmy then . . . and it had been summer. Summer with a wistful lilac moon and a song in the tall, dim trees. Jimmy's car had broken down, and Jack had driven them back to town. Now Jimmy was far across the sea, married to Grace . . .

"Is it a sign of old age when you start to remember, instead of to plan?" Sue asked suddenly.

"Not at your age," Jack answered, but his eyes were on the pressing traffic. "But it is a little sentimental. What were you thinking about?"

"The first night I rode in your car," Sue answered presently. "All the things that have been happening lately . . . wishing that Sarah was well, and Mother and Corrinne were back from Florida, and— Oh, lots of things!"

"Have I anything to do with them?" Jack asked, and Sue glanced at him quickly. But his eyes were stil ahead and when he did not look at her he was smiling and she couldn't tell if he laughed or not. His voice had been very light, and still . . .

"What do you think?" she asked him.

Next—Jack answers Sue's question.

THE WICHITA VALLEY FARMER

DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE FARMER, DAIRYMAN, POULTRY RAISER AND FRUIT AND TRUCK GROWER

CHANGED ATTITUDE SHOWN BY PACKERS IN TURKEY BUYING

Letter Indicates One Company Will Purchase From Pools

PREDICTION OF LOWER PRICE IS BEING MADE

Steps Toward Pooling Already Taken in Archer County

Northwest Texas turkey raisers, who recall the cooperative marketing plan tried last year and some of the difficulties experienced, will be interested to learn that one of the large packing companies is showing a disposition to buy pooled turkeys. There was evidence last year of a hostile attitude toward the pooling movement, on the part of the nationally known packeries. This year, according to a letter received by H. Grady Bell, secretary of the chamber of commerce at Archer City, at least one of the big companies, Armour, has adopted a new policy with regard to buying turkeys.

The letter received by Mr. Grady follows:

Dear Mr. Bell:

We have your letter of recent date advising that you will have two and possibly three cars of turkeys ready for the Thanksgiving market.

We are going to be very much interested in pool cars of turkeys this year. This is something entirely new in the policy of Armour & Co., but we believe that it will be much more advantageous to us and of course the turkey producers in your county will realize a good many more dollars by pooling their turkeys, than if they are sold through local dealers who naturally must have some profit for their time and trouble.

At the present time we have nothing on the turkey crop in the state of Texas, nor for the turkey producing country as a whole. However, there is some talk of a considerable shortage in Texas as well as elsewhere. In normal years this would tend to force the price up considerably, however, economic conditions which prevail over the country may have a tendency to keep prices at a low level.

It is a little early as yet for me to give you anything definite as to prices for the coming season. However, in my opinion it may be best not to expect too much, other commodities considered.

If we are able to help you solve any of your problems on the coming turkey deals, we shall be glad to do so, whether we are fortunate enough to buy from you or not.

Yours very truly,

ARMOUR CREAMERIES.

The Archer County News in which the above letter was published, also tells of preliminary steps toward pooling of Archer county turkeys this season. A meeting has already been held at Windthorst where 1,135 birds were promised for the pool. Another meeting was scheduled to be held at Archer City Saturday, and a third meeting was planned in the Megargel community.

The turkey crop will be short in Texas but prices are to be lower than last season, is the prediction of Roy M. Finley, Sherman, secretary of the Southwestern Produce Dealers association.

The lower turkey crop for 1930 as against last season's production is laid at the door of the drouth, which was worse in the turkey growing counties of West and Northwest Texas, than sections less favored for turkey growing.

Texas sent out 1,500 carloads of gobblers last year and the 1930 crop will total about 1,350 carloads, as the dry weather destroyed most of the insects and small vegetation on which the birds feed, states Secretary Finley.

The retail price of Thanksgiving birds will be about 35 cents a pound, or 10 per cent lower than last year, it is predicted by those engaged in the produce business.

WANTS KNOX COUNTY TO HAVE MORE GARDENS

A campaign for more garden and truck patches in Knox county is being made by the Goree Advocate. The paper says that good gardens were to be found in Knox county this past season, and where irrigated good yields were obtained. Comment is also made that an investigation reveals that some farm women are more successful in raising one kind of vegetable than others. The Advocate says:

"One thing that we have noticed that has been of special interest to us is that one farmer, or farmer's wife, will be more successful in growing some special kind of vegetables than she will other. Then at some other place we will find other kinds of vegetables doing exceptionally well. We do not offer an explanation, but perhaps different vegetables need different care and cultivation and one gardener will not do as well with one as with others."

Vegetables that grew well in Knox county this past season were: Irish potatoes, tomatoes, okra, beans, all kinds of peas, radishes, cucumbers, squash, peppers, onions and pumpkins.

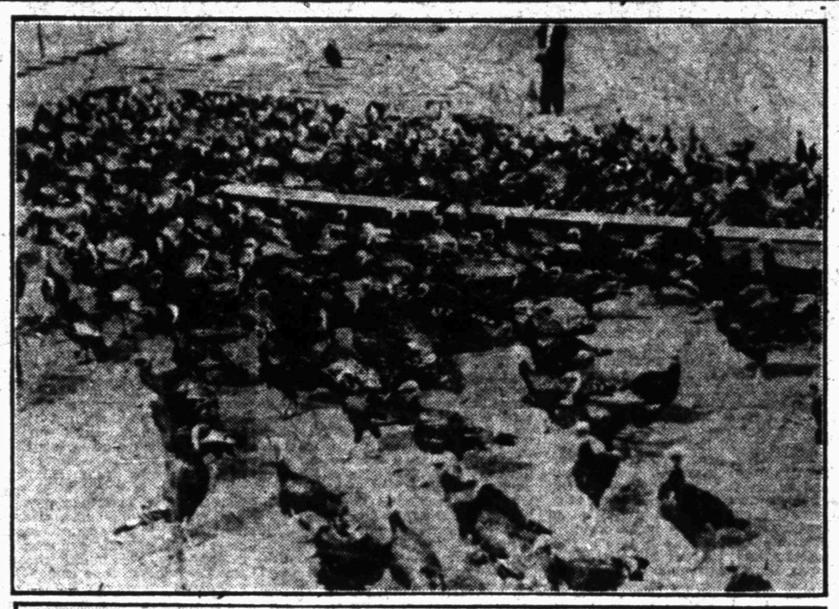

SEED WHEAT IS ORDERED FOR JACKSON COUNTY FARMS

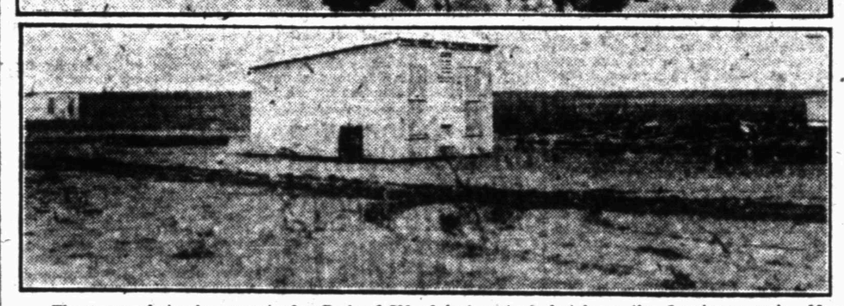

Ten carloads of seed wheat have been ordered for farmers of Jackson county, Okla. The wheat will be shipped from Chicago and is expected to begin arriving at various railroad points this week. Planting will start as soon as the water-soaked fields will permit.

Jackson county communities that will receive the seed wheat are Elmer, Headrick, Blair, Martha, Duke, Eldorado, Olustee and Altus.

Most of the wheat will be planted in cotton fields that failed to make a crop this season, due to drouth. The soil is in fine condition, from a standpoint of moisture, to assure a splendid stand and quick growth.

THIS COUNTY'S NEWEST TURKEY RANCH AMONG MOST SUCCESSFUL JENNINGS BROTHERS RAISE 1100 BIRDS FIRST SEASON

The upper photo shows part of a flock of 200 of last spring's hatch on the Jennings ranch. Many of the toms in this group already weigh from 17 to 20 pounds and the average weight of the 1,100, comprising the entire spring hatch, is expected to reach 18 pounds for the Christmas market.

The lower view shows one of six scientifically constructed brooder houses that serve as the turkeys' homes for the first two months of their existence. These houses embody many scientific and sanitary features essential to the success of turkey raising.

Turkeys—1,100 that will be ready for disposal on the Thanksgiving and Christmas markets—speak for the success that has been attained by Spurgeon and J. C. Jennnigs in the 11 months' operation of the Jennings Brothers Turkey ranch, 2½ miles southeast of Electra. The 1,100 turkeys represent an original stock last November of 50 hens and six toms, purebred specimens of the mammoth bronze variety.

Spurgeon Jennings of Electra is the active manager of the ranch, but J. C. Jennings, who lives in Wichita Falls, is no less interested in the venture, and both acclaim scientific turkey raising as an industry of future importance in the agricultural development of this section.

The Jennings ranch has been patterned from the most successful turkey farms in the country and every step in the breeding, rearing and marketing of the birds is carried out on a strictly scientific basis, and little is left to chance in the plan of operation.

The brood stock must be acquired several months before the mating season in order that the turkeys may become acclimated. In early February laying starts and systematic mating is one of the principal steps in obtaining maximum egg production. The hens are divided into pens of 20 each and each gobbler remains in a pen no longer than one-half day.

Egg Production

A five-acre field serves as the nesting sites and the hens soon adopt nests on the open ground. These are made more desirable by digging out a bowl-shaped hole three or four inches deep and less than a foot in diameter. The old sisters lay one egg here each day and the average of the purebred stock has been found to be 15 before the setting period starts. Where the nests have not been located in cover, artificial protection is provided by sacking draped over low stakes or by small stacks of brush about the nests. The hens that have acquired the idea of setting are discovered by their failure to appear on the roosts and they then must be placed in a new pen for four or five days. By that time they have abandoned the idea of setting and are ready to start all over again the process of laying another clutch of from 12 to 18 eggs. Purebred hens average three clutches of 15 eggs each per year, from early February to early August.

Eggs are gathered twice daily from the nests and placed in a specially prepared dark, cooling room to await a sufficient number to start incubation. Fertility is endangered if the eggs are kept longer than 10 days, so settings are made at least every 10 days during the laying season.

The period of incubation is 28 days and the eggs are tested for fertility three times up to the 24th day, and after the final testing the incubators are closed until the hatch. Two incubators of 450 eggs capacity each and one of 250 are employed at the Jennings ranch to care for the output of 40 hens. The incubator house is a dugout, this method having been found best in supplying an even temperature. The average hatch of healthy youngsters is about 75 per cent of the total egg production or from 90 to 97 per cent of the eggs that have come through the three tests after the start of incubation.

Care of Youngsters

Care of the young birds is one of the most essential factors in successful turkey raising, and perfect sanitation is absolutely necessary. Six specially constructed brooder houses, 14 by 14 feet, on one-acre plats, each with a capacity of 200, provide the first homes of the little fellows. The houses are of practically airtight construction except for ceiling ventilators that supply fresh air. Inside are canopy brooders five feet in diameter for the younger birds.

An important factor in the prevention of disease is a floor of one-half inch mesh wire, four inches above the wooden floor. The turkeys' feet do not touch the ground until they are two months old. The brooder houses are cleaned and disinfected by spraying every day. The birds are fed a specially prepared food for the first two weeks and for the next six standard mashes and scratching grains.

At the age of two months the turkeys are turned into open pens, with approximately 200 to each acre. For seven or eight weeks they are permitted to use the brooding houses as roosts, but after that they never again venture inside. At this stage the birds need little attention, except sanitary measures in the way of spraying and a constant supply of fresh water and the right sort of clean food. Grain and mash that has been contaminated must be cleaned every day or two from the feeding troughs. The four months old turkey has acquired its second growth of feathers and remains healthier and happier out of doors than if cooped up. Roosting poles only a few feet off the ground provide the evening abode of the flock. The last few months of their existence bring happy days, for then their feed troughs are kept filled with wheat and corn and they are permitted to eat to their craws' content.

Quantity Marketing

Many of the marketable birds in the Jennings flock now weigh as much as 20 pounds and the average weight of toms and hens for the Christmas market is expected to be between 17 and 18 pounds. The record of this venture shows that in its first year, 1,100 marketable turkeys were produced from an original stock of 40 hens and five toms, and the final statement after marketing is expected to show a neat profit. Messrs. Jennings plan to sell their birds picked on the eastern and northern markets.

"Turkey raising promises to become an important industry in the Wichita valley when the public learns of its advantages when properly handled," Spurgeon Jennings declares, "but we can never have satisfactory marketing conditions until our output is large enough to attract compatitive buying. If the industry can be built up to the point where this district produces picked or dressed turkeys by the carload lot, the entire district will profit and the producers will find it a profitable business. Scientific methods and employment of purebred stock, however, are absolutely necessary."

This Section Still Has Much to Do to Catch Up With Its Needs In Terracing—Increase Shown

Terracing of farms has been more extensive in Northwest Texas than any other section of Texas yet a survey would perhaps reveal that not one farm in 50 has been terraced.

The major portion of the work done in the past has been on farms situated in counties along the caprock. In some of those counties the soil is of such nature that it washes rapidly but perhaps not so easily as the sandy soils of Clay and Montague counties.

To the man who observes farm erosion Montague county stands out as one that has suffered more from erosion than any county in Northwest Texas. The soil of that county is a rich sand, very productive and especially adapted to the growing of fruits, berries, grapes, melons and vegetables.

Twenty years ago few farms along the highway in Montague county showed that erosion was in process. During the past five years it has become quite noticeable and some farms are in such damaged condition that they have been abandoned.

Erosion can be prevented. Prevention methods can also be used that will build up wasted lands to former productiveness and level even the deepest washes. The cost is not excessive but must be carried on from year to year until desired results are attained.

The state and federal governments have men who are experts in farm terracing. Their services are available to the counties which seek to improve washed lands or to prevent damage. This past week a school of terracing was conducted at Arlington and the attendance was excellent.

No greater service could be rendered landowners of Northwest Texas than to conduct a terracing school in Wichita Falls for at least a week. Now is the proper time to conduct the school as fall and winter plowing has not started in earnest. Much work should be done on the farm lands before plowing is under way.

If a terracing school is held in the Wichita Valley and given proper publicity two or three hundred farmers, landowners and county agents will be in attendance. It is probable that there would be a splendid attendance from farmers living in the Red river border counties in Oklahoma.

The community or county that takes a lead in educating the farmers and landowners of the value of terracing will have taken a forward step that will lead to untold benefits in years to come.

WORKS OUT PLAN FOR PLANTING ORCHARDS

DENTON, Texas, Oct. 18.—The necessity for home orchards to supply the fruit needed in an adequate diet has led to the preparation of three home orchard plans by the Denton county home agent, Mrs. Edna W. Trigg. These plans were developed in consultation with the county agent, several successful home orchardists and several nurserymen. Plan No. 1 consists of eight peach trees, two pear trees, two plum trees, 12 dewberries, 12 blackberries and six grapes. It will be offered particularly to 4-H club girls and to others who are only interested in producing a family supply of fruit. It will take about a quarter of an acre of ground to plant this orchard.

Plan No. II is for 26 trees: 14 peaches, eight plums, two pears, two Japanese persimmons; 12 grapes and 48 berries. It will take a half acre, and No. III is for twice the number of trees and plants, making a tidy little one-acre orchard.

Nurserymen in Denton county have given the extension agents there special prices on trees in lots to plant according to either plan and during October and November an effort will be made to interest many farmers and their families in this method of securing a generous fruit supply for their tables together with the profit which will result from marketing a surplus.

JACKSON COUNTY CLUBS STUDY CANNING METHODS

Five divisions of the federation of home demonstration clubs met in Jackson county, Okla., recently to study meat canning. The school was conducted by Miss Lemma Maloney, county home demonstration agent. Meetings were held at Warren, Eldorado, Prairie Hill and Red Hill.

Meat canning was featured at the meetings of each club. Surveys of each community are being made by club members in order that assistance in the meat canning may be given each family, and all meat possible may be preserved for use during the winter months.

INCREASED YIELDS FOLLOW TERRACING WHEREVER ADOPTED

Experiences in Knox, Childress and McCulloch Cited

DIFFERENCE GREATEST DURING DRY SEASONS

Goree Man Doubles Yield of Cotton Despite Drouth

When rainfall is insufficient the farmer who has his lands terraced reaps a profit from increased yield, as has been proven in Knox county this past summer. Terracing pays as well on tight lands as the sandy farms.

Walter Price, a farmer who lives three miles south of Goree, Knox county, makes the statement that he has cotton on some of his terraced land that is producing a half-bale to the acre. Mr. Price gives as his opinion that it would pay every farmer in Knox county, which is similar to all West and Northwest Texas counties, to terrace his land and run the rows in a manner to hold the water on the land. He says that even the dryest years enough rain falls to produce fairly good crops, if every drop of water that falls on the land is retained in the land.

Childress county farmers have done considerable terracing during the past few years. The work was originated by Luther T. Hunter, county farm agent, who is now agent in Hardman county. In Childress county much land on the watershed of Lake Childress was terraced and as a result the run-off into the lake has been reduced at least 50 per cent, so claim those who have kept the records of inflow at the lake.

So serious has the flow been reduced into Lake Childress it became necessary for the city to increase its water supply from another source. Up to the recent rains Lake Childress had impounded only five or six feet of water within the past two years.

Water that used to go into the lake was soaked up by the terraced lands, which, no doubt, added materially to crop yield.

Leon Browning, a farmer living in Pear Valley, McCulloch county, a region that usually has a lower average of rainfall than Northwest Texas, makes the claim that terracing has almost doubled the yield of milo maize on his farm.

On 37 acres he received a net profit of $900.25, less threshing expense, for maize alone. He planted pure single dwarf maize seed which were secured from the Lubbock experiment station. He threshed 81,700 pounds of maize from the field, or 43 bushels per acre.

The same crop on unterraced land adjoining the terraced field yielded only 24 bushels per acre. Both fields were planted by the two-rows-and-skip-one method.

Cotton has also increased in yield following the terracing of the Browning farm. Unterraced land made one bale to every 15 acres while terraced land is growing one-quarter bale per acre, and where the cotton was planted on terraced land by the two-row-and-skip-one method the production has been three bales from five acres.

Farm terracing to secure greater yield, and prevent washing, has proven successful in every section of Texas, and especially profitable in West and Northwest Texas.

Variety of Vegetables and Fruits in State Fair Exhibit Points to Need of Small Canning Plant to Use Surplus

On display at the State fair of Texas, Dallas, are 45 different products grown in the irrigated valley of the Wichita river. This number is far greater than the average citizen of Wichita Falls would anticipate and is proof that the irrigated valley can be made a profitable place for the truck farmer to reside.

To make the small or truck farm a success there must be a market. The valley has sufficient area to grow a thousand times more than local consumption demands, therefore a market must be established. At certain periods of production it is likely that the supply to foreign markets will meet with competition, thus lessening prices to the grower.

To overcome the period of low prices there is just one thing to resort to, and that is canning of the surplus. A small cannery can be installed at Wichita Falls, and no great amount of capital is necessary for either erection of such a plant, or to purchase the raw materials.

Those who have given study to such a plan state that $10,000 should be ample. It will not be necessary to purchase steam or power equipment for the fact that is already available. The cost of erecting a building and installing equipment necessary will not be heavy and a few thousand dollars as a surplus to purchase produce should be ample. The fact that much of the produce canned will find a market locally within a few weeks means a quick turnover of invested capital for the raw products.

A small cannery will give employment to a number of women and girls, a surplus of that kind of labor is available. The pay roll would be weekly and most of the wages received would be spent with local merchants or left as savings in local banks. It would be money left at home.

In the list of 45 items grown in the irrigated valley the following can be preserved in cans: Asparagus, beans, beets, corn, okra, peaches, pears, sweet potatoes, pumpkins, tomatoes and spinach.

Today we hear much about Texans building Texas. The way to build Texas is to purchase the things made or produced in Texas. There are few states in the union that send as many millions of dollars outside the confines of the state than Texas. Millions upon millions of dollars go from Texas annually to other states for food products. If this money could be kept in Texas it would aid greatly in the development and future prosperity of Texas.

GREATER USE OF MANURE SPREADER IS SEEN AS NEED

There is one implement that dealers in farm implements should encourage over Northwest Texas and Southwest Oklahoma. That implement is the manure spreader, which is quite common on the farms of the North, East and Middle West.

If a survey should be taken over the counties of this section it is doubtful if the number in use would average one to the county. The implement or machine is not expensive and will earn its cost the first season. The life of such an implement is greater than most any other machine used in farming.

The farmer who can be induced to purchase a spreader will begin to save the greatest value on the farm—farm lot manure. The proper distribution of farm lot fertilizer can be made only by such a machine, and the bad spots in the field treated so as to secure greater production.

In the irrigated valley of the Wichita it would prove profitable if the farmers of small tracts would make the purchase of a spreader a neighborhood affair. By doing this only a small sum would be required of each farmer. By properly placing the barn lot manure production would be enormously increased and a greater area treated than by hand methods of distribution.

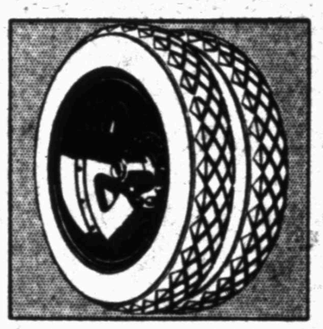

BONE MEAL CURES CREEPS IN BEEF HERD AT ALBANY

ALBANY, Texas, Oct. 18.—Steamed bone meal has been used to good effect in a grade herd of beef cattle by W. P. Newell of Albany. The bone meal is fed with equal parts of common salt and is kept before the cattle all the year round. Mr. Newell has been following this practice over a two-year period and states that a case of creeps is an unknown thing on his ranch. His records show that it cost a little less than $1.00 per year. "Cattle eat heavily of the mineral when it is first put before them and eat more during dry times, but very little during the time the grass is green and fresh. They do not chew bones and stocks when they have access to bone meal," says Mr. Newell.

Wet or Dry Issue May Be Determining Factor in Senatorial Contests in Elections of at Least Four States

By MARK SULLIVAN
(Copyright, 1930, by New York Herald Tribune)

Out of this campaign and the election next month will come two main results. Let us speak of them as "results" rather than "issues" because the politicians have thrown a fog around the word "issues" by assertions as to what are or are not issues. Republican National Chairman Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio declares that prohibition is not an issue. Similarly, Democratic orator after orator proclaims that prosperity is an issue.

SULLIVAN

In agreement with the Democratic orators it is true that announcement in the newspapers of November 5 that the Republicans have held, or the Democrats have won, control of congress, would have concrete effects in the field called business. And in disagreement with Republican Chairman Fess, the outcome of the election will have a direct effect one way or the other on prohibition.

But let us scrap the word "issues" and ignore the patter of politicians. The outcome of this election will have two main consequences. The principal and obvious one is that the Democrats will either have won or not won control of at least one chamber of congress. From the result, if it comes, enormous secondary consequences would ensue, having to do with the presidential election of 1932 and modifying the course of national politics and history for years to come.

The other main consequence is that prohibition will either have held its own, comparatively speaking, or will have suffered a setback.

It is to this last, the bearing of the election on prohibition, that the present article devotes itself.

The fate of prohibition will be affected in three ways: (1) By the number of wet senators elected over dry candidates or vice versa; (2) by the number of wet members of the lower house elected over dry candidates or vice versa; and (3) by the outcome of referendum in some six states.

The referendums are difficult to clarify because they vary in their terms and few of them, so far as I have examined them, present a clear issue between wet and dry. The number of wet members of the house elected over dry candidates or vice versa is important, but difficult to treat in an article, because the districts in which squarely wet and dry fights are staged are widely scattered because the candidates are relatively odscure men and because each outcome will reflect only the area of one comparatively small congresional district.

The more practical approach, therefore, to understanding the bearing of this campaign on prohibition is to survey cases in which dry candidates for the United States senate are running against wet candidates for the same office. Within this field only the most conspicuous cases are here considered and only cases in which the issue is squarely drawn between wet and dry.

For the reader who wishes to be able to interpret the outcome of this election, in its bearing on prohibition, four contests are outstanding, four have genuinely national meaning. It is the national meaning of the coming election that is important to understand, and is not always understood. Voters in the several states understand the issues and the significance of results in their respective states. The present article aims to seek the national meaning this election will have (so far as it affects prohibition) even though in fact it is an aggregate of state elections.

The most important senate contest in which a clearly and avowedly wet candidate is running against a clearly and avowedly dry candidate is in Ohio. In Ohio the dry candidate for the senate is Roscoe C. McCulloch, Republican, at present senator, running for re-election. McCulloch is dry, his party in Ohio is dry and he is supported by the dry organizations. About Senator McCulloch's reflecting the dry side there can be no question.

Against Senator McCulloch the Democrats have nominated a wet. His name is Robert Johns Bulkley. He is a lawyer of high standing in Cleveland. He served two terms in congress nearly 20 years ago and made a good record. He is in all respects a man of the type whom politicians call "high class"—and he is frankly, directly and courageously wet.

Every voter in Ohio understands Mr. Bulkley's wetness and every voter understands that the contest for the senate is one between Democratic Bulkley wet and Republican McCulloch dry. It is true that the Democratic party as a whole in Ohio is not wet or certainly does not proclaim it is wet. On the ontrary, the Democrats have nominated for governor a candidate who is dry. But this is no qualification to the clearness of the prohibition issue in the fight for senator.

If Republican dry McCulloch wins, the drys will have held their grounds. If Democratic wet Bulkley wins the wets will have won one senator. They will have won more, because Mr. Bulkley in the senate, through his ability and experience and through the esteem in which he is held, would provide perhaps the best leadership the wet cause has ever had. Further, Bulkley in the senate would be the symbol of the adhesion to the wet cause of elements of the population having Mr. Buckley's standing.

This Ohio contest is here set up as the one having the most important bearing on prohibition, for reasons that every politician will understand. Ohio continues to have, as it has had since the civil war, the striking elevation as a large pivotal state which has caused five presidents to be selected from that state. Every politician watches Ohio, tries to anticipate what Ohio will do. If Ohio should, on Nov. 4, elect a wet Democratic senator and especially if Ohio should do this by a considerable majority—in that case the wets will have made an advance on which every politician everywhere will take notice. Victory for the wet Bulkley in Ohio will have national meaning, distinctly.

There is an additional reason for the importance of this Ohio fight. While Ohio is not the dryest state in the union, it is the state in which the dry forces are especially eager to maintain their prestige. It is the native home and birthplace of the Anti-Saloon league and has a similar relation to other dry organizations. The drys will do their best to prevent the election of a wet senator—and if they fail will recognize that they have had a serious set-back.

After placing Ohio first among the senatorial contests in which dry runs against wet, it is less easy to say which is the next most important. Possibly the contest in Montana where the most prominent Democratic dry senator (certainly the most prominent from any northern state), Thomas J. Walsh, is soliciting a new lease for his official life. Walsh is running, of course, on his record, which is that of an earnest and consistent dry Democrat.

Against Walsh the Republicans have nominated a wet, Albert Galen. With the effect of simplifying the issue, both candidates are Catholics. Were Walsh's opponent a Protestant the prohibition issue might be obscured by the sort of voting which in Montana as in other states, sometimes takes account of religion. Were Walsh's opponent a Protestant, it might be said that the issue was obscured by the fact that Montana has a considerable Catholic population together with a considerable population of the sort that in 1928, for example, hesitated to vote for a Catholic for president. All this, however, is out of the war. The Republican nominee, Galen, a wet, is of the same religious faith as Walsh. It is a comparatively unmodified issue of dry versus wet.

If Walsh should lose, the drys will have lost not only one senator but one of their ablest.

A collateral effect, if Walsh should lose, would occur within the Democratic party. Failure by Walsh would facilitate the present rapid progress of the Democratic party in a national sense toward the wet side. Walsh is certainly the most important and indeed practically the only important Democrat in a northern state, now holding office and now powerful in the party, who remains dry. The northern wing of the Democratic party, in short, has taken enormous steps toward the wet position and failure of Walsh to be re-elected would accentuate his wet-ward progress.

(One further comment needs to be made on this Montana fight. Montana is the only state in which the prohibition fight takes the form of a wet Republican opposing a dry Democrat; in New Jersey a wet Republican, Dwight Morrow, is opposing a wet Democrat, but in no other case is a wet Republican opposing a dry Democrat. In the majority of instances it is a case of a wet Democrat opposing a dry Republican.)

A third state important to watch for the bearing of the outcome on prohibition is Massachusetts. In that state the Republican candidate, William M. Butler, is dry. The Democratic candidate, Marcus A. Coolidge, is wet. The issue is clear, though not quite so simple as the other contest already mentioned. While other issues and modifying circumstances color the Massachusetts fight, probably a larger number of voters in that state will go to the polls with prohibition in mind than with any other issue or condition.

If the Democrats should elect their wet senatorial candidate, Marcus A. Coolidge, that would be an addition of one to the strength of the wets in the Senate. As respects issues other than prohibition, it would be remarkable, would be a historic landmark. Massachusetts has had only one Democratic senator since the 1850s, since the word "Democratic" began to mean what it now does. That lone Democrat from the Bay State is one of the present senators, David I. Walsh. If the Democrats should now elect Marcus A. Coolidge, the ensuing spectacle, two Democrats from Massachusetts in the senate, would be arresting and very significant. It would reflect the waning of the old-time Republicanism that has really, in effect, dominated Massachusetts since the civil war; would reflect in part the increasing power of newer elements in the population who, among other new points of view, do not like prohibition.

The other senatorial contest worth watching from the point of view of prohibition is the one in Illinois. There the Democratic candidate, J. Hamilton Lewis, is wet. The Republican candidate, Mrs. Ruth McCormick, is a dry who has modified her dryness to the point of saying that if Illinois, by referendum, should go wet, she would obey that mandate. With that qualification, the Illinois fight is squarely wet versus dry. If the Democrats should elect the wet Lewis, he would be an addition of one to the wets' strength in the Senate. He would at the same time represent a loss of one to the drys for the present Republican senator, Deneen, whose seat is now to be filled, is a dry.

Mrs. McCormick, in running as a dry, or to the degree to which she is dry, has a handicap. There is a third candidate (likewise a woman) Mrs. Lottie O'Neill, who is a hundred per cent dry, who indeed entered the race upon the ground, partly that Mrs. McCormick, in promising to abide by the referendum, had ceased to be sufficiently dry to satisfy the thoroughgoing drys. Mrs. O'Neill will not win. She will, however, absorb a considerable number of "bone-dry" votes which otherwise would go to Mrs. McCormick. At the same time, Mrs. McCormick's promise to abide by the referendum will provide sufficient justification for many wet Republicans to remain Republican and to feel they have done something for the wet cause without voting Democratic.

In this complexity of the Illinois setup the interpretation of the outcome will be less clear than in other states. If Mrs. McCormick is successful, not much will have happened as respects prohibition. But if the outcome is the other way something decisive will have occurred. Election of Democratic wet J. Ham Lewis would mean the addition of one to the wets' strength in the Senate. Nationally it would mean more; would mean the addition of Illinois to New York and New Jersey as states that have gone wet.

Interpretation of the senatorial election in Illinois, in its bearing on prohibition, will be accompanied by, and qualified by, the outcome of the referendum on prohibition to be held on the same election day.

There are other states in which the senatorial elections, to one degree or another, wet versus dry. In no other state, however, is the senatorial election so important and the prohibition issue so clear as in the four mentioned above.

In one other state is an election (not a senatorial one, however) of which the outcome, if it should go the Democratic and wet way, will be regarded as a national sensation. In the newspaper headlines announcing the results on November 5th it is possible that the word "Pennsylvania" may command the largest type. In Pennsylvania Gifford Pinchot is running for governor. He is running on the Republican ticket—though the two principal official Republicans in the state have proclaimed he is not a Republican and scores of thousands of Republican voters feel the same way about him. Pinchot is running also as a dry and about his dryness there is no question whatever.

Because of the skepticism about Pinchot's Republicanism scores of thousands of hundred per cent Republicans will vote against him. Because of both defections, there is a chance that Pinchot's Democratic wet opponent, John M. Hemphill, may win. And if a Democrat is elected governor of Pennsylvania it will be a national sensation. It has not happened before for forty years, not since 1890. If it happens now, many politicians will recall that when it happened before it was a portent of the country electing a Democratic president two years later. They will recal that and they will, whether with justification or not, forecast a Democratic president in 1932.

Among other things, defeat of Pinchot will be hailed (if it happens) as one of the greatest of wet victories. It will be said that Pennsylvania, second in population among the states, has joined New York and New Jersey in rejecting the prohibition amendment and all things dry. That conclusion, if the event should happen, would call for some qualification. Nevertheless the moral effect, as respects prohibition, of Pennsylvania going wet, would be very great.

LIQUOR ISSUE IN OHIO RACE

WARS AND RUMORS OF WARS

It's world-wide.

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers. There is some pretty big stuff in the papers nowadays, but its kinder under cover. Did you ever stop to figure it out, this old World of ours as a whole is not sitting so pretty just at the present time. Did you know that there is an awful lot of parts of Europe that is just sitting on what the old time Orator used to call a Powder Keg? Well it is.

We cant pick up a paper that from one to a hundred dont prophesy that Prosperity is just around the corner. But let me tell you that war is nearer around the corner than prosperity is. I dont mean so much for us right here. But I mean over in Europe. That Russia is kicking up an awful lot of dust, and Germany is harboring a terrible lot of dissatisfaction, that Hitler has got em all stirred up over there. He made a speech last week in which he advocated the breaking of the Versailles Treaty. he said that it was made by a lot of old men, who most of them were about ready to die, and now here was a lot of young men grown up and they had to carry all this burden, for which they were not directly to blame, and that it was only a matter of time till they just wouldent do it, they would say, "Well come on France, what are you going to do about it? We cant be any worse off if you come in and take over our Country than we are now."

Then those little Balkan Nations, they are like a little mess of stray Terriers anyhow, they just as well be fighting as like they are. This has been about the longest they have ever been between wars. I see the other day where Russia was just on the verge of invading Roumania. They have always had it in for them and figured they only had to take a couple of days rations and rounds of ammunition and go over and take that Country anyhow.

Russia and Poland are always on the verge of war. I remember when I was over in both countries in the summer of '26, why they were growling at each other like a couple of Fat Prima Donnas on the same opera bill.

Then Italy is ranting around down there trying to pick up some more country and outlet for their population. France is watching them with an Eagle eye all the time, and thats just what Mussolini wants, he had rather worry France than anything, France feels that she would have no trouble whipping them, but if she went down there to do it, Germany would take that opportunity and get at them and she just dont want to have to take the chance. Then the Checko-Slovakians feel kinda hemmed in down their way, and of course the Turks, there is nothing that irks a Turk so much as peace.

Austria, they just been so bad off since the last war that they know there would be no way that war wouldent be welcome to them. Bulgaria has started all the rest of them, her and Serbia, and they dont want to lose their reputations, they want to go down in history as having started all the big ones.

All this whole mess have no more love for each other than a litter of hyenas, they either lost or gained territory during the last war, and they feel those that did gain that in another war they could grab off even more, and the ones that lost cant see how they could possibly make that mistake again, and that if given a chance to play the same hole over again they could make it par the next time. I try to read all that all those old World Diplomats write over there, and there is not a line of it that is not in regard to another war, they just cant write a prescription without predicting what will happen in the next great war, their whole minds is on it, and from all that I read of them there is no two that seem to give anywhere near the same possible line-up, its like the National and American League if when time come to play the Worlds series they would just take all the players from all the Clubs in their League and then choose up and play the other side. No one knows where the thing will start or with who, no one knows how the lineup will be, for they dont know who will be fighting who. Some of them that hate Russia like poisen will want to join her on account of her strength. They will all want to wait and see who looks like the winner. They did that in the last war, quite a few staid out waiting for the best offer. Lots of pretty smart men think that is one of the biggest contributing factors to our present state of economic unrest, is that all big finance is afraid of what will happen in the near future, and they dont know where it will end up. Thats why everybody is hanging on to what they got. There is more in the wind than just our little local condition over here. We got as much as we ever had, there is just as much money, as many to eat, and as many to feed, as many to buy. But still our conditions are uncertain. Why? Just because its thing outside our own land that is worrying em. They know that signs are not right all over the world. Look at South America. When during our lifetime has there been as many disturbances at one time? No sir, the whole thing is world wide, we are effected by it less than anyone.

If we keep our nose clean and dont start yapping about somebody elses honor, or what our moral obligations are, we might escape it. But its going to take better Statesmanship than we have been favored with heretofore. But the way we are now we are mighty lucky to have nothing but a little business depression that is bothering us. But think what those other poor devils are up against.

TOTAL 46 COUNTIES EXHIBIT PRODUCTS DALLAS THIS YEAR

Forty-six counties in Texas exhibited at the State Fair of Texas, Dallas, this year. The winner of the first prize was a Northwest Texas county, Randall. Out of the first 16 winners seven were West and Northwest Texas counties, being Randall, Eastland, Wheeler, Hemphill, Hartley, Tom Green and Donley.

Central Texas had one county in the winning list, that being Ellis. East Texas had for winner, Harrison, Marion, Henderson, Anderson and Red River. North Texas, two counties, Lamar and Hunt. South Texas, one county, Golzales.

This is a splendid record and will prove of value to the agricultural resources of West and Northwest Texas, especially when so much publicity has gone out about severe drouth conditions of this year.

Long Trip for R-100

LONDON.—There's a longer trip in sight for the British dirigible R-100 than its recent journey to Canada if the air ministry heeds the request of the British Empire Trade exhibition. That organization has asked the ministry to send the R-100 to Buenos Aires in March as part of the exhibition attraction.

RIO TIRE CO. INSTALLS SUPERTWIST MACHINE

T. V. Wisely of the Rio Tire Co., local dealer of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, whose place of business is at Eighth and Travis, has installed an unusual piece of apparatus known as the supertwist machine.

This device was designed for the purpose of demonstrating the reactions of tire fabrics when subjected to severe and unusual strains, such as frequently occur to an automobile tire in actual service.

For the purpose of the demonstration, a strand of Goodyear supertwist fabric and a strand of standard fabric are strung in place across the machine's framework.

By means of a crank, the two strands are stretched with equal pressure until the breaking point is approached. When the pull is released, the supertwist fabric springs back to its original position much in the same manner as a rubber ball which is released from compression in small space—the principle of supertwist being to absorb road shock rather than resist such shock.

Tests with the machine also prove that supertwist, the fabric used in the manufacture of Goodyear tires, will stretch up to 60 per cent farther than standard fabric. Mr. Wisely invites local motorists to come to his store and witness a demonstration on this novel machine.

OPEN MARKET FOR BLACK WALNUTS IN WICHITA DISTRICT

An opportunity for Wichita Falls to commercialize on a product which has gone to waste in the past has been offered by the American Black Walnut association, which is seeking to purchase an almost unlimited supply of the nuts in this territory.

According to a letter in the hands of County Agent G. C. McGown the association will pay $25 per 1,000 pounds for hulled nuts which are clean, dry and test not less than 90 per cent sound.

For carlots of more than 30,000 pounds they offer to pay $27.50 per 1,000 pounds. The company will pay all freight charges. Their headquarters are at 310 North Osage street, Independence, Mo.

EXTENDED DROUTH FREIGHT RATES TO BENEFIT WICHITA

Action of the Interstate Commerce commission Friday in ordering an extension until March 31, 1931, of drouth relief freight rates will be of benefit to Wichita county and the whole of West Texas, in the opinion of G. C. McGown, county farm agent here.

While no official information had been received here as to whether Wichita county was included in the areas to benefit by the extension, Mr. McGown and others declared that in all probability it has been.

The reduction in rates which originally was allowed from Oct. 1 to 31 was upon feedstuffs shipped in and to be used for the exclusive benefit of farmers suffering from the drouth, and upon livestock shipped out to feeding grounds. Since the rate went into effect, Mr. McGown said, 10 carloads of feedstuffs have been shipped into Wichita county and nine carloads of cattle have been shipped out.

The lowered rate was obtained following a meeting here several weeks ago of a West Texas drouth relief committee appointed by Gov. Dan Moody.

HEAVY RAINS DELAY HALL COUNTY GINNING

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 18.—The ginning of cotton in Hall county is progressing very slow, due to the rains that have been falling in this section the past two weeks. Up to Wednesday of this week 9,625 bales had been reported ginned in the county, with 4,440 of that number being ginned in the city of Memphis. This shows a large decrease over last year's output, and it is now estimated that Half county will fall far short of a normal crop.

Twenty-five gins are being operated in the county, and of this number, the eight gins of Memphis are doing about one-half ginning, with the Lakeview gins second in the number of bales, the gins at that place reporting about 1,000 bales up to date.
