Sadat And Begin Vow 'No More War'

Anwar Sadat
EGYPT

CAIRO (AP)-President Anwar Sadat of Egypt ended his historic journey to Jerusalem and returned to Cairo today after pledging with the leader of Israel: "No more war."

Millions of Egyptians lined the route from the airport to Cairo, hailing their returning president as a "hero of peace."

In his final statement to Israel's cabinet members in Jerusalem, Sadat said: "Let us raise two slogans- no war, and security.

"No war. Let every girl, every woman, every mother, here and in my country, know that we shall solve all our problems through negotiations around the table rather than start wars.

"We've had enough-four wars in 30 years," said the Egyptian president who risked his political future and the unity of the Arab world to speak in the capital of his enemies.

Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin echoed the sentiment: "We have decided, no more war between our nations. We will establish peace and live in peace."

He then gave Sadat a gift of nine ancient candlesticks and said: "From time to time, have a glimpse of it and remember your friends in Israel."

At a news conference earlier in the day, Sadat said it was now Israel's turn to take "hard and drastic decisions."

"I have already taken my share of risk in my dicision to come here," he said. But he repeated that there could be no compromise on Arab demands for the return of all territory captured in 1967 or on the creation of a homeland for the Palestinians.

Begin pronounced the visit "a real success for both countries and for the cause of peace."

Sadat left Jerusalem in his special Boeing 707, flanked by four Israeli Kfir jet fighters, at 4:14 p.m. A 21-gun salute thundered over Cairo Airport 40 minutes later as his jet touched down.

At the foot of the ladder Sadat was hugged and kissed by Vice President Hosny Mubarak, Prime Minister Mamdouh Salem and Sayed Marei, speaker of the Egyptian people's assembly.

Many of the greeters at the airport had been bussed there from as far away as the port city of Alexandria. Supporters hoisted multi-colored signs reading: "Welcome hero of peace." "Long live the leadership of Egypt," "God bless your moves for peace" and "Welcome to your land of peace."

After shaking hands with members of his cabinet, parliament, the armed forces and the diplomatic corps, Sadat boarded an open limousine for the seven-mile ride to the presidential mansion.

Jet Crashes With 79

BARILOCHE, Argentina (AP)-A chartered Argentine jetliner with 79 persons aboard crashed in stormy weather near this southern resort early Monday and all aboard were feared dead.

A spokesman for Austral Airlines said the BAC-111 twin jet carrying 74 passengers and a crew of five, left Aeroparque Airport at Buenos Aires about 10 p.m. EST Sunday on a direct flight for Bariloche, a lake resort in the foothills of the Andes 1,000 miles southwest of Buenos Aires.

Aviation authorities declared an emergency after the plane failed to arrive on time Sunday night.

A search plane said it spotted the wreckage in a rocky area about 20 miles from here, but officials said it reported no signs of survivors.

Military and police patroles headed toward the wreckage but progress was slow because of bad weather.

An airline spokesman said the plane was carrying tourists, but their nationalities were unknown.

Caramanlis, Party Win

ATHENS, Greece (AP)-Premier Constantine Caramanlis and his conservative party won re-election today with a reduced but safe majority to maintain Greece's pro-Western policies. But Andreas Papandreou's anti-American, anti-Western party made big gains.

With 95 per cent of the votes in Sunday's general elections counted, Caramanlis' New Democracy Party had 42.2 percent of the vote and 174 of the 300 seats in the single-chamber parliament, a majority of 48.

The New Democrats got 54.3 percent of the votes and 220 seats in the 1974 elections, a majority of 140 seats.

Papandreou's Panhellenic Socialist Movement took 25.2 percent of the vote and became the major opposition party with 91 seats, up from 13.5 percent of the 1974 vote and 15 seats.

Caramanlis' victory meant he could continue his campaign to get Greece into the European Common Market and his efforts to seek a solution to the bitter dispute with Turkey over Cyprus, which caused Greece to withdraw from participation in the military programs of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Cyclone Kills 1,200

NEW DELHI, India (AP)-A cyclone that battered coastal areas of eastern India for two days and killed at least 1,200 moved out to sea today. Some estimates put the death toll as high as 6,000.

The storm cut across the Bay of Bengal Saturday and hit Andhra Pradesh state, triggering flash floods and devastating high tides.

Communications were knocked out to the stricken area and only fragmentary reports reached the state capital at Hyderabad, 750 miles south of here. State officials estimated the death toll at 1,200, but politicans in the area reported to Prime Minister Morarji Desai that as many as 5,000 had died. The Indian national news agency, Samachar, said the death toll was more than 6,000.

Property and crop losses were put at more than $6 million and tens of thousands were homeless.

Bell Hearing Delayed

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP)-A state district court judge today postponed until Dec. 5 a hearing on Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.'s request for a new trial in the slander suit it lost this year to a former executive and the widow of another top company official.

A jury in September ordered Southwestern Bell to pay damages totaling $3 million to James Ashley and Oleta Gravitt Dixon, widow of the late T.O. Gravitt.

Ashley was fired from his executive position with Bell in San Antonio two weeks after Gravitt committed suicide in Dallas in October 1974. At the time, Gravitt was head of Bell operations in Texas.

Snow Hits Midwest

By The Associated Press

A major snowstorm harassed much of the Midwest and was moving into western Ontario today, with blowing snow, wind gusts up to 60 miles per hour, and temperatures in the teens in Minnesota, eastern North Dakota and northeastern South Dakota.

Parts of eastern North Dakota and northern Minnesota reported 16 to 20 inches of snow, with snow still falling. Blizzard warnings continued for early today in north and central Minnesota and in eastern North Dakota.

Strong winds extended across Lake Superior, where storm warnings were in effect.

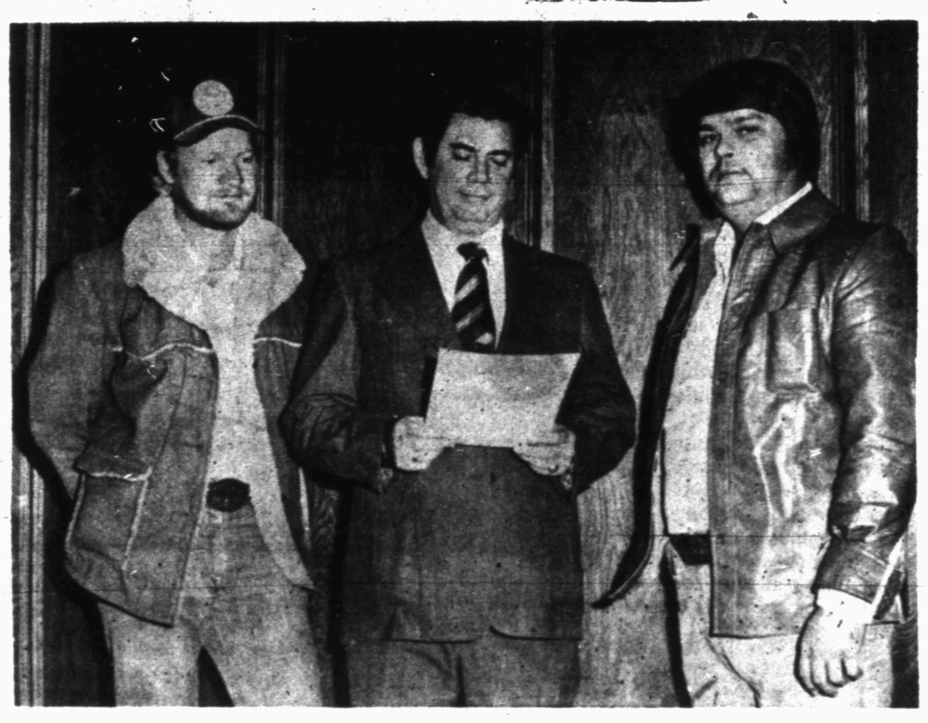

Police Nab Pie-Snatcher

Police recovered a pumpkin pie Saturday afternoon, but not before half the evidence had been eaten.

The pumpkin pie had reportedly been grabbed from the hands of a 12-year-old girl about 2:42 p.m. Saturday. When police nabbed a 53-year-old man only eight minutes later, the pie was somewhat the worse for wear.

Reports indicate that the girl, who had purchased the pie from a supermarket, was walking in the 700 block of 30th St. when a passing motorist spotted the delicious morsel, stopped, grabbed the pie, and sped away.

The suspect was booked at the police station on charges of public intoxication and misdemeanor theft.

Jaycees Spotlight Families

Snyder Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes are turning attention to "Family Week" to promote some of the qualities that the Jaycee organization encourages throughout the year.

The special week focuses attention on the role of the family in the community.

Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes work together on a well-planned triangular program involving chapter management, individual development and community action, it was pointed out.

The philosophy of Jaycees is that of training individuals to lead and serve, thus bettering the community and strengthening the state and nation.

The Snyder Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes have many annual projects. These include selling Christmas trees, providing concessions for various sports events and an annual four-day rodeo, helping fund their many worthwhile projects.

Purpose of Jaycee Family Week is to strengthen family ties and to improve the quality of life in the community. They will launch planned activities of the week with a family sports night at the Scurry County Boys Club tonight.

Women Adopt 25 Proposals Sunday

Equality Procedures Debated

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP)-The National Women's Conference is ending its historic meeting by debating how to implement its far-reaching recommendations on equality, including federal aid for poor women's abortions and civil rights for lesbians.

The only one of 26 proposed resolutions that has not been adopted-calling for a Cabinet-level women's department-was held over for discussion today.

Many delegates opposed such an agency for fear it would lessen rather than increase women's power.

The other 25 resolutions were approved easily Sunday in a session that saw little conflict between conservatives and others at the conference.

Delegates endorsed proposals to end discrimination against homosexuals in housing, jobs, credit, public accomodations, the military and child custody cases.

"We must not oppress any part of our society or of womanhood," said Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization for Women, who said she spoke as "a homemaker and the mother of two children."

Betty Friedan, considered the mother of the modern feminist movement, admitted she had been wrong in crusading to keep lesbians out of the movement for years, calling lesbians "the lavender menace."

"This issue has been used to divide us too much," she told a hushed convention hall. "It has alienated many of us. As someone who grew up in Peoria, as someone who perhaps has loved men too well, I have had trouble with this issue."

But, she said, "we have all been mistaken in our focus on this issue...I believe we must protect the women who are lesbians in their own civil rights."

The delegates and the thousands of observers roared their approval, many of them taken by surprise by Ms. Friedan's switch.

The opponents to the provision ranged from Dorris Holmes of Atlanta, head of Georgia's Equal Rights Amendment ratification council, who said "this issue has always been an albatrose around the neck of the women's movement," to Katheryn Nelson of Maitland, Fla., who said. "It's against the law of God."

At the conference's third session Sunday, minority women scored a major coup by getting massive approval for a proposal on their concerns that was much more comprehensive and specific about the problems of minorities than the one originally put before the session.

The minority women's plank said government should recognize and remedy double discrimination which the resolution said minority women suffer on the basis of both sex and race.

Speaker Sees Better Times

Better times are indicated for mankind in the near future because more people are asking the right questions, Dr. Dudley Strain of Lubbock, told a Snyder congregation last night at the annual community Thanksgiving service, held at the First Baptist Church.

Dr. Strain, pastor emeritus of the First Christian Church in Lubbock, cited changes for the better which have occurred in history, in Biblical times and in the intervening years to the present, because people began to ask "Why?" This simple question led to elimination of such atrocities as sacrificing of infants and slavery, Dr. Strain said, and it is leading to better things today.

On the other hand, Dr. Strain said, great accomplishments result from the question "Why not?" This question leads to change and revaluation of ideas that have endured because "they were always that way." Dr. Strain said.

The service featured Boy Scouts, choirs from the Snyder Junior and Senior High Schools representatives of the high school drama department.

Several members of the sponsoring Scurry County Ministerial Alliance participated actively on the program. The Rev. Ken Andress, First Baptist Pastor, read the Thanksgiving Declaration; the Rev. Otto Schaufele, pastor of First Christian Church, led the responsive reading, and the Rev. James Jackson, pastor of First Assembly of God Church and vice president of the alliance, read scripture. The Rev. David Robertson, pastor of First United Methodist Church and president of the alliance, presided and introduced Dr. Strain. Dr. Robert Clinton, president of Western Texas College, gave the invocation and Bill Lyon directed the Snyder High School Choir in a choral benediction. "The Lord Bless You and Keep You." Vance Meeting Rights Group

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)-Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance planned a day-long series of meetings today seeking information on the human rights situation in embattled Argentina.

Vance's schedule included meetings with representatives of local human rights groups and the Jewish community as well as with President Jorge Rafael Videla and other senior officials of his military regime.

The secretary arrived Sunday night on his first visit to South America. He goes to Brazil on Tuesday and to Venezuela the next day, returning to Washington Wednesday evening.

Vance brought along an unauthenticated list of 7,500 Argentines, compiled by U.S. human rights groups, who are reported in jail or missing. The American Embassy will ask the government for a person-to-person report on the list.

The military regime seized power 20 months ago amid political disorder and economic collapse and stepped up military and police action in an attempt to check the wave of executions, kidnappings and robberies by leftist urban guerrillas.

The government crackdown has been accompanied by kidnappings and murders by right-wing guerrillas who are believed to have the undercover support of the government.

New Voter Cards Have Been Mailed

The 1978 voter registration certificates have been mailed and persons who have not received their cards should contact the office of the Scurry County Tax Assessor-Collector on the first floor of the courthouse.

Tax Assessor-Collector Clarence Minton said the mailing began Tuesday of last week and was completed Friday. Minton advised that persons who do not receive their cards within the next few days should contact his office.

The voter registration certificates are issued every two years. The certificates recently mailed become effective March 1, 1978 and are valid through February, 1980.

Persons who have recently moved need to check with the tax office because, Minton said, the certificates will not be forwarded.

The present certificates, which are blue in color, are valid through February, 1978. The new certificates are yellow.

rough time ahead

One of President Carter's early televised talks with the American people was on the subject of energy. He cited figures to prove his contention that we are in a state of emergency and will be in real trouble within the next five years if steps aren't taken now to meet the situation.

But the American people as a whole weren't impressed. As long as a motorist can drive up to the gas station and say "fill 'er up" and have his order obeyed without question it will be hard to make him believe there is any cause for worry.

That is one reason Congress hasn't been in a hurry to pass legislation requested by the President. Another reason is that he proposed highly a complicated, ineffective program that can be justified only on the premise that conditions aren't so bad we can't afford expanded welfare programs that will do more things for more people at the expense of the rich.

When facing rough weather an experienced ship captain tightens down the hatches, cuts sail, changes course if it seems advisable and issues orders that apply to all on board. The nation faces an emergency that has all the moral characteristics of war, the President said, and then proceeded on a course of politics as usual.

It was much like Lyndon Johnson's assurance that the war in Vietnam wasn't a war in the usual meaning of the term. It was police action that would be over in a little while, and no change in living habits would be necessary. We were rich enough to afford both bullets and butter, he said. Incidentally, we are still paying for that particular bit of economic sophistry. But plain for anybody to see if he is willing to look beyond the immediate future is that the energy crisis is as real as Lyndon Johnson's war that wasn't war.

According to opinions expressed by some knowledgeable people, who are not in the oil business or in politics, one simple fact is enough to support a conclusion that rough weather is ahead. Demand for energy, for a burgeoning world population is far greater than can be met from known resources.

Humanity is in the twilight of the fossil fuel era, according to one competent witness. Storm warnings are up even if we don't enjoy looking at them.

"One size fits all."

chapter is closed

The Carter administration has done the right thing in announcing it will return Hungary's national relic, the Crown of St. Stephen. A long with a golden orb and scepter and mantle. this symbol of Hungarian nationhood, culture and religion has been in U.S. custody since near the end of World War II.

The Crown of St. Stephen is a kind of footnote to the last chapter of the cold war. Hungarian volume. The decision to return it is a direct result of improved relations with the United States, as well as changes within Hungary in recent years which have made its Communist regime one of the most liberal in the Eastern European bloc.

It is understandable that many Hungarian-Americans have been extremely upset by the decision. To them, as long as the crown remained in the United States the hated Communists who took over their motherland after World War II and drove them out of it then or after the abortive revolution in 1956 could be considered but temporary interlopers.

To them, return of the crown constitutes a recognition of those illegal rulers of their country over and beyond ordinary diplomatic recognition - almost a benediction.

But it is no such thing. The crown and other treasures are being returned to the nation of Hungary, not the government of Hungary. And under the terms of an agreement being worked out with that government, they will be placed on public display for all people to see, including those of Hungarian extraction living in the United States who visit their homeland.

growing older

Setting the readers right.

My recent mail shows there are some retirees who still have misconceptions about two Social Security regulations. So, don't expect to receive any or all of $3,000 during 1977. That was only a new arbitrary ceiling figure announced January 1 for the amount of money we might earn from outside sources before we are penalized by the loss of part of our monthly benefit checks.

Other retirees have asked me why they didn't receive the same increase in their checks July 1 as their friends and relatives. This wasn't a blanket across-the-boards inflation raise voted by Congress. It's really a percentage cost-of-living allowance based on the amount of money received in earlier checks. For a person who had got monthly pay checks of $150, the increase would be a little more than $9 a month. For the retiree who had been receiving monthly $300 checks, his new added income from Social Security would come to a little more than $18 monthly. Much of my recent mail came from women who are now receiving Social Security checks, or will soon be eligible for benefits because of age, retirement after working, or because their husbands will retire soon. The answers for most of their questions can be found in that excellent booklet" A Woman's Guide to Social Security."

I'm sorry I can't fill the requests that I mail copies of this to individuals. If you can't obtain the pamphlet where you live, send a letter or postcard to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402, and ask for a free copy of HEW-Publication (SSA) 75-10127.

Some of us have individual problems which can be solved by experienced people who work in local Social Security offices. It's understandable that many of us cannot make personal trips to these offices because of physical handicaps or for lack of transportation. I've found the phone a good way to get answers for some of my questions. And I've recently obtained a copy of the informative booklet "Doing Business with Social Security? Use Teleservice." When you're writing for the other booklet, also ask the Superintendent of Documents to send you HEW Publication (SSA) 77-10061.

I'm in complete agreement with everyone who has vehemently restated our objections to the discriminatory regulation which prevents us from working because we might lose part of our monthly benefit checks if we make more than the $3,000 ceiling on outside earnings. But there may be good news — soon, but not today. The Congressional House Ways and Means Committee has voted to let us earn up to $4,500 in 1978 and $6,000 in 1979.

Many retirees aren't physically and mentally ready to work eight hours a day and five days a week. But President Carter recently asked heads of federal departments and agencies to hire part-time workers, which may provide opportunities for many older persons to get some much-needed extra income and still not exceed the earnings limitations which now keep many from doing productive work.

Sure, if it's going to help you let off steam by writing me about all the inequities and injustices we senior citizens endure, go ahead. I like to hear from my readers. But I suggest you also write to your congressman and your two U.S. Senators. And I recommend you send this mail to their local offices instead of to them in Washington where they may be busy and preoccupied with national legislation. Back home they're more likely to be keyed to the problems of their constituents — you and me, the old folks at home.

I wish I could provide guaranteed assurance to those who expressed fear that the Social Security fund would be depleted and there would be no money to continue sending us our monthly benefit checks. Mine has to be a purely personal guess. Comes the day when there won't be enough dollars in the fund, the money for our checks will come out of the general treasury fund.

Which maybe is the way the financing of Social Security should be made anyway.

WASHINGTON-(NEA)-HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. may be vehemently opposed to federal funding of abortions, but he's not a know-nothing. And that's more than can be said for some in Congress who share his philosophy.

Califano has personally intervened to insure that the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta will continue to monitor the public health impact of the cut-off of Medicaid financing for abortions.

Rep. Henry J. Hyde, R-Ill., leader of the anti-abortion forces on Capitol Hill, had protested the monitoring program after the CDC last month reported the first documented death attributable to the cut-off, which took effect on Aug. 4.

A 27-year-old Texas woman, denied a government-paid legal abortion because of the funding ban imposed by Congress, died Oct. 3 in a McAllen, Tex., hospital after undergoing a botched abortion at a "pharmacy" just over the Mexican border.

Four other women, two of whom were also Medicaid recipients, were admitted to the same hospital with septic complications following abortions at the same Mexican facility, the CDC reported.

As it happened, the CDC report broke just as House-Senate conferences were bitterly fighting over extending the ban on publicly-financed abortions for the poor.

Hyde apparently felt the news from McAllen wasn't likely to help the House conferees, who are seeking to perpetuate the existing near-total ban on the use of federal funds for abortions. So he called up Califano to complain. The Health, Education and Welfare secretary-to his credit-reportedly told Hyde to take a long walk off a short bridge, though he no doubt phrased it more tactfully.

The monitoring program, Califano told CDC officials will go forward-without political interference.

And that it as it should be.

It is one thing for President Carter, Joe Califano and a majority of the Congress to decide-for whatever philosophic and political reasons-to prohibit the use of federal funds for abortions.

It is quite another matter, however, to suggest that the government needn't bother to ascertain the consequences of such action.

The Center for Disease Control has been monitoring abortions in the U.S., both legal and illegal, since 1970. Over that period, there has been a steady increase in the number of abortions performed, from 193,000 in 1970 to 855,000; in 1975, the last year for which complete statistics are available.

But at the same time, the number of abortion-related deaths has dropped sharply, especially since the landmark Supreme Court decision of 1973 made legal abortions available nationwide. There were 128 deaths in 1970, and only 44 in 1975.

Both Congress and the excutive branch-not to mention the rest of us-need to know whether the denial of Medicaid payment for abortions will affect the number of abortions performed and the deaths associated with them.

No matter what Congress ultimately decides about the scope of the funding cut-off for the future, women who can afford to pay for abortions themselves will continue to receive them.

Maybe the poor will beg, borrow or steal enough money to obtain safe and legal abortions even without public funding. Maybe they'll have their unwanted babies, ballooning the welfare rolls. Or maybe they'll turn in desperation to back-alley butchers or Mexican "pharmacies" and wind up in the CDC mortality statistics.

Nobody knows what the impact will be. The fund cut-off is still too new to permit any conclusions to be drawn. But Califano is absolutely right in insisting that the monitoring program continue so that some of these questions may be answered.

DEAR DICK: Could you please clear up a rumor? Has the rock group, Heart, ever donated any of their profits from either their albums or concerts to the effort to free Charles Manson from prison? As the rumor goes, Heart donated the money from a Pittsburgh concert and from their "Little Queen" album to Manson. Is this true? STEVEN DOUGLAS SMITH, Delaware, Ohio

No, apparently it's totally untrue. Heart's people tell me that the rumor is sweeping the midwest, and seems to have started in Ohio. "Someone must have broadcast this idiocy on an Ohio radio station," says one of the Heart throbbers.

DEAR DICK: Robert Blake and Angie Dickinson hosted the Emmys. Blake said something about Anita Bryant, that she wouldn't be here tonight because there isn't a hairdresser who will touch her with a 10-foot pole and, personally, neither would I. The audience roared. No one here gets it. CARL BARNETT, Levittown, Pa.

It wasn't very funny. But it was a reference to Anita's anti-homosexual campaign which earned her many friends and many enemies. Traditionally, hairdressers are supposed to lean toward homosexuality, that's all. Incidentally, Miss Bryant has a new book, "The Anita Bryant Story," which gives her side of the events of her Miami fight. Whether you agree with her or not, the book is worth your attention.

DEAR DICK: Is it true that Alice Cooper smashes baby chickens when he sings "Dead Babies"? I'm dying to know! H.L., Tucson, Ariz.

The chickens are dying to know, too — but only figuratively. No, there are no dead chickens around when Alice does his thing. Somebody pullet your leg.

DEAR DICK: I believe it was in the early '60s that there was a good TV series, but I can't remember the name. The players were Ryan O'Neal, Terry Moore, Richard Egan and Ann Seymour, and the setting was a huge ranch which Egan managed for Miss Seymour who owned it. Ryan and Terry were her children. What was the name? URSULA CARPENTER, Baldwin Park, Calif.

That was Empire, which ran for a season and a half in '62 and '63. Charles Bronson was in it, too — imagine what it would cost to have Bronson and O'Neal in the same show today.

DEAR DICK: Could you give me any information about Charles Napier, one of the actors on The Oregon Trail. Is that his real name or did he change it? GAYLE NAPIER, Syracuse, Ind.

I can understand why you asked the question. Yes, Napier is a real Napier. He comes from the Kentucky hills — Scottsville, to be exact — and was in the Army, then a truck driver, then studied art and taught in Florida. That's where he became interested in acting. He did stage work all over, then did several X-rated movies — "Super Vixens," for one — before he got a break in a movie about truckers called "Citizen's Band," which led to his present part on the NBC series.

DEAR DICK: I say that I want to be an actor. Nobody believes me — not even my parents. I would like for you to tell me what I could do. I am 10 years old. MICHAEL DAIS, Mobile, Ala.

You stick to your guns, for one thing. But the thing is many of us go through several stages of wanting to be one thing and then another thing before we grow up. So you grow up, and keep on acting in school plays and church plays and wherever you can. Then, when you have grown up and had a good education, you can be anything you want to be.

DEAR DICK: Some friends and I are wondering whatever happened to Jimmy Durante. We don't remember hearing that he had passed away. MRS. MARY DEEMER, Smicksburg, Pa.

You didn't hear about it because it didn't happen. Jimmy has grown old — he's 84 — and he's not as nimble and spry as he once was. In fact, he's confined to a wheelchair much of the time. But he's still with us, which is nice.

Hostesses included Mrs. Duke, Maruine Swint, Betty Shelburne, Lloys Eades, Myrtle Joiner, Lou Everett, LaVerne Myers, Vondell King and Gene Thomas.

Bridge Winners

Duplicage Bridge Club met Friday at the Snyder Country Club and five tables playing the Howell Movement. Winners were 1. Mrs. L.B. Thompson and Mrs. Ken Davis; 2. Mrs. A.L. Bethel and Mrs. Scott Casey; 3. Mrs. Skipper Joyce and Mrs. Billy Null; 4. Mrs. Leroy Brown, and Mrs. Vernon Miller.

Sunday four tables played Howell Movement and winning were 1. Mrs. A.L. Bethel and Mrs. Verdi Kimbro; 2. Mrs. H.R. Preston and Mrs. A.G. Furlow; 3. Mrs. Douglas Hill and Mrs. B.L. McKinley.

'Last Minute' Turkey-Buying Guide

For greatest turkey value, select one that is short, thick and plump with a wide long back, plump and meaty thighs and drumsticks. It should have clean skin with no torn places, bruises or broken bones. Under the skin, it should have a uniform layer of fat, which shows up as a pale yellow or cream color. Consumers who buy a USDA Grade "A" inspected turkey already have selection problems solved, advises Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Mormon Leader Is Wed 60 Years

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)- Mormon Church President Spencer Kimball and his wife, Camilla, spent a quiet day at home marking their 60th wedding anniversary, a church spokesman said.

HONORED--Mrs. J.B. Adams was honored on her 92nd birthday with a dinner at The Shack by her son, Don. Mr. and Mrs. Adams came to Snyder in 1908. He died in 1952. They had seven children. They are Kitty Ben Boles of Lamesa, J.B. Jr. of Sweetwater, Nolan of Laredo, O.R. of Rankin, Don of Snyder, and Helen Crofton of Bangs. One son, H.W. is deceased.

Pryor Denies Heart Attack

LOS ANGELES (AP)- Entertainer Richard Pryor, hospitalized last week for what news reports called a heart attack, says he feels fine now and denies he had suffered a heart attack.

"No, it wasn't that," the 36-year-old star said Friday in a phone interview from the California mountain resort of Big Bear.

Oswald: "Some hundred thousand bridge players will be competing today in the fall continent-wide charity game of the American Contract Bridge League. The league holds three of these a year with the proceeds all going to charity."

Jim: "The hands are dealt by computer and as such are completely random. No effort is made to find unusual hands."

Oswald: "The league's expert staff also prepare a list of hands with analysis to give those who play in the tournament a chance to see what happens when a hand is played fifty thousand times by all sorts of players."

Jim: "Today's hand was played in the summer charity game. The bidding in the box is how it usually went after a club opening by North. Four spades was also reached if North passed."

Oswald: "Four spades made most of the time. Most declarers would try a finesse against West's queen of clubs. Those who didn't usually wound up in the soup while those who played no-trump only came to eight tricks against the normal heart opening."

Air Travelers Should Know Rules, Rights

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Late flights, overbooking and lost baggage can ruin a trip whether you're traveling for business or pleasure, so it pays to know something about the rules of the air and what rights you have.

The Civil Aeronautics Board requires airlines to maintain a 75 percent on-time record. But on-time doesn't necessarily mean what you think it does.

Under existing rules, an airline is in compliance with the CAB standards if, in a three-month period, at least 75 percent of the carrier's flights from one specific place to another arrive within 15 minutes of the normal elapsed time spent in the air. The elapsed time refers only to actual flying time. It does not take into account departure delays on the ground.

Suppose, for example, you are scheduled to leave New York at 10 a.m. on a one-hour flight to Washington. Your flight doesn't leave until noon, but it still takes only one hour. You are in Washington at 1 p.m. - two hours later than scheduled - but the flight is officially considered to be on time.

The CAB monthly performance reports refer to scheduled arrival times - not flying time. It is these reports which the airlines usually cite in their advertisements. When it comes to meeting federal requirements, however, the flying time is all that counts.

An airline's obligations to its passengers in cases where flights are delayed or canceled are spelled out in individual carriers' tariff rules and may vary from company to company. As a general rule, however, the Civil Aeronautics Board says that if you are delayed four hours or more you can expect:

—A three-minute long distance telephone call or 15-word telegram to any part of the continental United States.

—Meals during normal meal hours.

—Hotel accommodations if the delay occurs during normal sleeping hours and you are stranded at an airport in a city other than the one you started from.

—Transportation to the hotel if applicable.

If, as the result of overbooking, you are denied a seat on a flight for which you hold a confirmed reservation, you are entitled to something called denied boarding compensation if the airline cannot get you to your destination within two hours of when you were scheduled to arrive four hours for international flights.

The airline also should help you find a way to reach your destination even if you will be late. The amount of compensation currently ranges from $25 to $200, although the CAB is considering changing the regulations. The money must be paid within 24 hours of the time you were bumped.

You may get where you want to go on time and still have problems because your baggage didn't make it.

The carrier's liability for lost baggage is $750 per passenger. This does not automatically mean you will receive $750; the amount depends on the airline's assessment of your loss.

If your baggage is delayed, the airline must reimburse you for expenses you faced because of the delay.

"I hope this will settle forever the question of women's intuition versus logic!"

Buttock Pinching Is Crime

NEW YORK (AP) - A judge has ruled that the buttock is an "intimate part" and pinching or touching it without consent is a crime that can send you to jail.

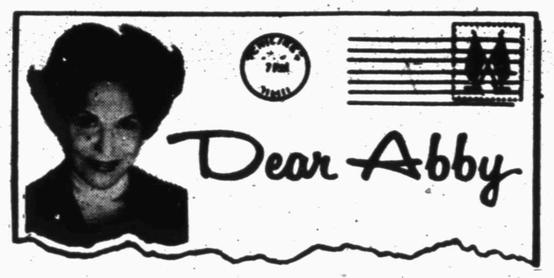

The ruling by Manhattan Criminal Court Judge Benjamin Altman last month passed unnoticed at the time, but was excerpted this week by United States Law Week.

Altman ruled in the case of a man charged with touching the buttocks of a woman without her consent as she was traveling on the subway during rush hour.

The defendant claimed he had not committed a crime, but Altman refused to dismiss the charges, ruling that if the "alleged occurrence" had taken place in an area of the world where pinching of the buttocks was socially acceptable perhaps the defendant's position could be sustained.

"However, here the touching of a woman's buttocks without her consent is not treated so cavalierly as in some environs."

Her Secret Romance Will Shock Others

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: After 32 years of marriage, my husband and I separated. He was hard-working, non-drinking and faithful. I forced the separation because he was terribly hard on our three children (they're now all college graduates and married). Also, he refused to socialize with anyone. I felt trapped and stifled, and couldn't take his selfish, insulated way of life. He moved out of our lovely home and into a small apartment.

About a month ago I bumped into him at the shopping center. He invited me to see his apartment, so I went. Before I knew it I found myself in a very amorous situation and I stayed overnight. He served me breakfast in bed and confessed that the separation made him truly appreciate me. He said he could never love anyone the way he loved me and if I took him back he would try his best to be more sociable and make me happy. The next weekend we drove out of town secretly like two young lovers. I didn't want anyone (especially my family) to know. Since then, he's been wining and dining me, and I have been loving it. It's better than our courtship ever was!

People keep telling me how marvelous I look since I got rid of "that pill." They don't know I'm in love all over again.

If I take him back, my friends and family will think I've lost my mind. I'm still ashamed to let them know I'm seeing him. What would you do?

WALKING ON AIR

DEAR WALKING: I'd take him back and give him a chance to prove his sincerity. And the last thing I'd worry about is what my friends and family think.

DEAR ABBY: I just had a confrontation with a woman in a laundromat over her smoking.

I am asthmatic, and cigarette smoke not only offends me, it makes me sick.

When I asked her to please put her cigarette out, she told me—and everyone else in the place—in no uncertain terms that she will smoke wherever she wants to. Furthermore, she said there were no "No Smoking" signs in evidence, so I had better get used to it because everybody smokes.

Unfortunately I will now have to go into debt to buy a washer-dryer. I'm sick of bringing home a cough and clothes that stink of cigarette smoke from the laundromat.

WINCHESTER, VA.

DEAR WIN: I am no defender of smokers, but it's a rare smoker who will not quickly douse his cigarette if someone complains. More and more public places post "No Smoking" signs, which I think is a step in the right direction.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 64-year-old woman and my problem is my husband. He is 68, and no matter where we go, he ogles the women, young or old. His head looks like it's on a swivel. He's been impotent for the last 15 years, so I can't understand why he's looking. He doesn't just look—he leers. One of these days somebody is going to take a poke at him.

When I tell him that his looking is obvious and ask him to please cut it out, he says I am jealous. I'm not really, because I know darned well that all he can do is look.

What I want to know is this: Is he wrong for looking? Or am I wrong for complaining?

LOOKER'S FRAU

DEAR FRAU: Looking in the manner that you describe is rude, so I don't blame you for complaining. However, I seriously doubt that your complaining will put an end to his looking.

If you feel left out and lonely, or wish you knew how to get people to like you, my new booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old," is for you. Send $1 along with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Payton Paces Chicago Past Minnesota, 10-7...

Pro Football Races Getting Tighter

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

They don't pay Walter Payton to be a conversationalist.

They pay him to run with the ball - and he does that better than anyone else in the National Football League.

He proved that again on Sunday, running up a record 275 yards - two more than O.J. Simpson did last Thanksgiving Day - to rechristen Chicago's Soldier Field as "Payton Place" and lead the Bears past the Minnesota Vikings 10-7.

In Sunday's other games it was San Diego 12, Oakland 7; Denver 14, Kansas City 7; Pittsburgh 28, Dallas 13; Cleveland 21, the New York Giants 7; Baltimore 33, the New York Jets 12; Los Angeles 23, San Francisco 10; New Orleans 21, Atlanta 20; Cincinnati 23, Miami 17; New England 20, Buffalo 7; St. Louis 21, Philadelphia 16; Houston 22, Seattle 10, and of course Detroit 16, Tampa Bay 7.

Tonight, Green Bay plays at Washington. And next Thanksgiving Day it's Chicago at Detroit and Miami at St. Louis.

"I don't like my teammates running up to me and telling me I've done this or that. It breaks my concentration," Payton said after his explosive 40-carry performance that included Chicago's lone touchdown on a 1-yard burst in the second period.

"The holes were there and I just ran ... All I can say is that this was day when everything went right and we got a big win."

It pulled the Bears and Detroit as well within one game of the first-place Vikings in the National Conference's Central Division. "The victory means more to me than the record because we tightened the playoff race," Payton insisted.

Bob Thomas kicked a 37-yard field goal to give the Bears a 10-0 halftime lead and the Vikings, without Fran Tarkenton, could only muster one touchdown, when Matt Blair blocked a third-period punt and ran it 10 yards for the score.

Chargers 12, Raiders 7

For the second time this season, Denver grabbed first place in the American Conference West. This time it was compliments of San Diego, which kayoed Oakland quaterback Ken Stabler with a first-period knee injury, then beat the Raiders on rookie Rolf Benirschke's field goals of 22 and 46 yards.

"You hate to see it happen," Oakland Coach John Madden said of Stabler's injury. And what he didn't expect to see was replacement Mike Rae's inability to move Oakland.

Broncos 14, Chiefs 7

The play that got Denver its winning points was a 23-yard TD pass from Craig Morton to Haven Moses with about 4½ minutes to play - but the plays that made them stand up were made by cornerback Louie Wright and the rest of Denver's defense.

In the final minute, the Chiefs tried a fake punt. Raymond Burks slipped through the line and dashed 51 yards with the ball on the play, 1 yard short of a touchdown.

"I kept wondering, 'Who's that guy with the ball?'" Wright recalled. "Then I thought, 'Hey, he's loose! He's all alone; I don't care who he is, I got to get him;'" He did - at the 1-yard line. And the Chiefs never got closer to the end zone.

Browns 21, Giants 7

Linebacker Gerald Irons broke a third-period tie with an interception and a 53-yard run for the first touchdown of his pro career, then Cleveland locked up its victory over the Giants when David Mays, playing in place of injured Brian Sipe, passed 18 yards to Paul Warfield for a fourth-quarter score.

Colts 33, Jets 12

Bert Jones' scoring strikes of 53 yards to Raymond Chester, 33 to Glenn Doughty and 28 to Lydell Mitchell, plus Miami's loss to Cincinnati, enabled the Colts to widen their AFC East lead over the Dolphins to two games.

Rams 23, 49ers 10

Pat Haden threw a 35-yard touchdown pass to Billy Waddy and Lawrence McCutcheon rumbled 42 yards for a score as the Rams beat San Francisco and opened a two-game lead over Atlanta in the NFC West.

Saints 21, Falcons 20

Atlanta, which had never given up more than 34 points in a game this year, tried to keep it that way with a minute to go in New Orleans - and Archie Manning was waiting. The Saints' quarterback, back in action for the first time in six weeks, read the blitz and beat it with an 18-yard TD pass, his second scoring strike to tight end Henry Childs.

Bengals 27, Dolphins 17

With 2½ minutes to play in Cincinnati, Ken Anderson handed off to running back Archie Griffin, who handed off to wide receiver John McDaniel, who handed the ball back to Anderson, who threw it 29 yards to tight end Bob Trumpy for the triple-reverse TD play that beat Miami.

Patriots 29, Bills 7

Fourth-period scoring runs of 31 yards and one yard by Sam Cunningham carried New England past the Bills and their slender crowd of 27,580.

Cardinals 27, Eagles 16

Jim Otis, who ran 25 yards for a score that started St. Louis on the way back from a 16-0 deficit, plunged 1 yard with 38 seconds left for the TD that beat the Eagles, gave the Cards their sixth straight victory and pulled them within a game of first-place Dallas in the NFC East.

Oilers 22, Seahawks 10

Dan Pastorini hit Ken Burrough with a 13-yard TD toss, Ronnie Coleman burst a yard for another TD and Tom Dempsey booted two field goals in the Oilers' victory over Seattle.

Lions 16, Bucs 7

Detroit turned two interceptions into touchdowns and, behind seldom-used quarterback Gary Danielson, handed Tampa Bay its 24th loss without a victory.

An then there was one - the Texas Longhorns, college football's only unbeaten and untied major team.

And then there were none - no more bowl openings ... and the Texas Longhorns, the nation's No. 1-ranked team, still aren't sure where they're going.

Oh, Texas is going to a bowl, all right, either the Cotton or the Bluebonnet. The Longhorns trounced Baylor 29-7 Saturday but must tie or beat 14th-ranked Texas A&M next weekend - the Aggies drubbed Texas Christian 52-23 - for an outright Southwest Conference championship and a spot in the Cotton Bowl against sixth-ranked Notre Dame, which crushed Air Force 49-0.

Far from waiting a week, as many had suggested, the bowls all jumped over the weekend - for better or for worse - and every one of the 26 spots was filled by Sunday evening. This is the line-up, with the latest results:

Cotton Bowl - Sixth-ranked Notre Dame, a 49-0 winner over Air Force, vs. either Texas or Texas A&M.

Sugar Bowl - Second-ranked Alabama, idle Saturday, vs. No. 4 Ohio State, a 14-6 loser to Michigan.

Orange Bowl - Third-ranked Oklahoma or No. 11 Nebraska, who meet Friday, vs. No. 8 Arkansas, which battered SMU 47-7.

Rose Bowl - Fifth-ranked Michigan vs. either No. 19 Washington, a 35-15 winner over Washington State, or No. 20 UCLA, which was idle.

Fiesta Bowl - Ninth-ranked Penn State, idle, vs. No. 12 Arizona State or Colorado State, which upset ASU 25-14.

Gator Bowl - No. 10 Pitt, idle, vs. No. 15 Clemson, which rallied in the final minute to nip South Carolina 31-17.

Tangerine Bowl - No. 13 Florida State, which lost to San Diego State 41-14, vs. No. 16 Texas Tech, a 45-7 loser to Houston.

Liberty Bowl - No. 18 North Carolina, which defeated Duke 16-3 and clinched the Atlantic Coast Conference crown, vs. the loser of Friday's Oklahoma-Nebraska game.

Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl - The Texas-Texas A&M loser vs. Washington, if the Huskies don't get to the Rose Bowl, or Southern Cal, idle over the weekend.

Sun Bowl - Louisiana State, which nipped Tulane 20-17, vs. Stanford, a 21-3 victor over California.

Peach Bowl - North Carolina State, idle, vs. Iowa State, which turned back Oklahoma State 21-13.

Independence Bowl - Louisiana Tech vs. Louisville, which downed Indiana State 27-16.

Hall of Fame Classic - Minnesota, a 13-7 winner over Wisconsin, vs. Maryland, which blanked Virginia 28-0.

Sophs Edge Permian

ODESSA--Snyder sophomore basketball team edged Odessa Permian here Saturday night, 62-57 in overtime.

The Tigers took a 39-31 halftime lead but dropped all but a point of the difference in the third period. Permian jotted 8 points to Snyder's 7 in the fourth quarter to tie it up. In overtime, Snyder's Brad Richardson tossed in a field goal and 4 for 4 of his foul shots and Bryan Vincent completed a field goal and one free shot to edge the Permian sophs, 9-4.

Leading scorers were Adams from Odessa with 18 points, followed by Snyder's Brad Richardson.

The Tigers meet Odessa Ector tonight in Snyder at 4:15.

Tigers Top Permian; Host Ector Tonight

ODESSA--The Snyder Tigers zapped Permian 59-46 here Saturday night to erase their second straight Odessa foe in two days. Friday night the Tigers, under direction of Coach Jack Stephenson, shot down Odessa High, 56-44.

"If we could play that way night after night we'd really be something," noted a happy Coach Stephenson. "Anytime you hold two 4A teams to less than 50 points your defense is doing a good job. It was just a super team effort. We played exceptionally well," continued the coach, whose Tigers meet a third Odessa team - Ector - in Snyder tonight at 8 o'clock.

"I told my wife we're going to try and win the Odessa championship tonight," he joked. "Ector has got several coming back and we're going to really have to play hard. But with the people I've got, it's going to be a heck of a ball game. Fans ought to come out and see one of the really outstanding contests." Ector has been rated one of the top 3A teams in the area, and possibly the state.

Snyder broke out to a 17-12 first quarter lead and pinned Permian down throughout the contest here Saturday. Though the Tigers went only 7 of 24 from the foul line, they basketed 26 field goals to Permian's 17.

Randy Courtney led the Snyder shooting with 20 points, followed by Earl Clayton's 17. Tony Cobb, the Tiger's all-South Plains, third team all-stater, had 5.

"Tony picked up his third foul with two minutes left in the first quarter and didn't come back in until four minutes to go in the third. That could have been a big concern for us, but Richard Willis went in and just did a super job. Everybody gave an outstanding effort," noted the coach.

Snyder out-pointed the hosts 15-14 in the second period, 14-12 in the third and 13-8 in the fourth to take the win.

Preceding tonight's contest will be a sophomore game at 4:15, followed by a junior varsity contest at 6:15.

Seminole Slips Up To Defeat Tigerettes

LUBBOCK--Seminole, securing a berth in the state volleyball playoffs, handed the Snyder Tigerettes their first loss in 28 games here Saturday.

Snyder, who easily defeated first-round opponent Brownwood, defeated Seminole 15-11 in the first of three games of Regional play in the finals, but dropped a 10-3 lead in the second. Seminole fought back to win 16-14, then took the third and decisive game, 15-5.

"I feel like we should have had the match," admitted Snyder Coach Joyce Elrod. "It's hard to look back and say what really happened. We got within three points of the regional championship and couldn't do it. I don't know whether we got over confident or what," she added.

"Seminole started spiking tremendously hard. That's where it would have helped to have had a game right before the tournament."

Snyder concludes the season with a 31-4 record, discounting several exhibition contest; all of which they also won. Other credits going to the District 3-AAA championship team where a couple of tournament wins including one, ironically, over Seminole.

"I don't think anybody wanted it anymore than we did," concluded Elrod. "But early in the season I really didn't expect them to do what they've done. They've done more than what was expected of them."

The Tigerettes were not favored solidly this year because of their heigth, or lack of it. The tallest member on the squad stands 5-7, and most of the girls are around the 5-5 figure.

Making the all-tournament team from Snyder were Dana Elrod and Kathy Harrell.

WTC Girls Face ACU

ROTAN--Western Texas College Dusters meet Abilene Christian University here at 8 p.m. today in what is expected to be a great rematch of their overtime contest last week.

ACU edged the Dusters in that game in Abilene, 70-68 and fans and teams had predicted another such contest tonight.

"Normally, I'd really be looking forward to it," noted Dr. Sid Simpson, coach of the Dusters. "But Pam Tatum, sophomore forward, has withdrawn from school for health reasons, and Cindy Luttrull, our leading scorer and rebounder, will be missing because of illness.

"Karen Williams, our second leading scorer and rebounder, will play, but is below par with a head cold and the beginnings of a flu that's been going through the squad."

The health problems are expected to take much of the fire out of the Snyder-based team thus diminishing the chances for a close game here tonight.

The Dusters will take a holiday following the ACU contest in preparation for their conference opener against a strong Clarendon team Nov. 28 in the WTC Gym.

JV Defeated By Permian

ODESSA--Odessa Permian junior varsity ripped Snyder JV's here 53-43 Saturday night.

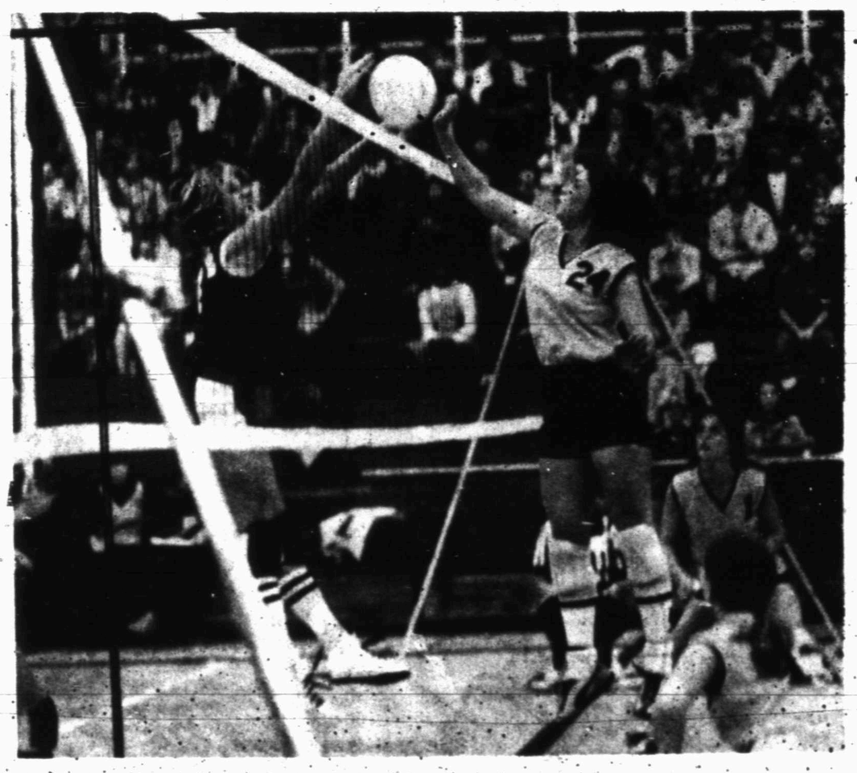

The contest stayed close through the first three periods of play, but a 25-point effort by Permian in the fourth period made the difference.

Kyle Short led the Snyder scoring with 12 points, followed by Greg Hinton's 9. Mike Hicks fouled out for the Tigers.

For Permian, Brad Kerley slapped in 20 points and teammate Rex Fields had 18.

Snyder will meet Odessa Ector in Snyder tonight at 6:15.

Cowboys Fall Again; Cardinals One Back

PITTSBURGH (AP)--They won Super Bowl IX and Super Bowl X, and the Pittsburgh Steelers smell money again.

"We played like champions," Franco Harris said Sunday after rushing for a career-high 179 yards and two touchdowns, one on a 61-yard dash off tackle, to lead the once-struggling Steelers to a 28-13 victory over the suddenly twice-beaten Dallas Cowboys.

"We're gettin' that old feeling back," echoed Terry Bradshaw, who passed for two touchdowns.

While Pittsburgh is riding high following wins over Cleveland and Dallas, the Cowboys have dropped two in a row after winning their first eight. And their National Conference-East lead is now just one game over onrushing St. Louis, which beat them Monday night.

"They whipped us this afternoon," Cowboy Coach Tom Landry said here.

"We got so far ahead in the division race, we lost the competitive instinct. We've got to get it and get going again."

The defeat spoiled the homecoming and first NFL start for Cowboy rookie Tony Dorsett, who rushed for 73 yards on 17 tries in his first game here since he led Pitt to the national collegiate title a season ago.

"They really deserved to win," Dorsett added. "We've been playing lousy offensively the last month."

The Steelers have played their best offensively the last two games, though they started shakily Sunday as Harris lost a fumble at the Pittsburgh 37-yard line in the first quarter.

FBI Making Some Files Public Today

By Margaret Gentry
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- The FBI is spilling 23,000 pages of secrets about its efforts to harass civil rights groups and radical political organizations between 1956 and 1971.

The files, being made public in response to requests under the Freedom of Information Act, are expected to yield a harvest of fresh details about the widely criticized counter-intelligence programs, called Cointelpro in FBI lingo.

Although the bureau has turned over several thousand pages of Cointelpro files to various groups during the last five years, today's action represents the biggest single chunk of Cointelpro material the FBI has ever released.

But bureau officials said some files will be kept secret because they deal with national security and foreign intelligence matters.

In essence, Cointelpro was the FBI's "dirty tricks" operation. It was a campaign to wreak havoc among militants of the right and left by sending anonymous letters, attempting to get activists fired from their jobs, fostering dissension among political allies and spreading derogatory rumors about militant leaders.

The effort has been roundly denounced by dozens of congressional leaders and legal authorities, and few in the FBI attempt to defend it anymore.

FBI Director Clarence Kelley last year issued a public apology for the bureau's past "abuses of power," including some Cointelpro actions. Former Attorney General Edward Levi once said of the Cointelpro tricks, "All of them were foolish and some of them were outrageous."

A Justice Department report in 1974 called some Cointelpro practices "abhorrent in a free society."

Kelley and other FBI officials insist that no Cointelpro operations have been carried out since April 1971.

The operation began in 1956 when then-Director J. Edgar Hoover ordered a campaign against the Communist Party U.S.A. In later years, other political dissidents became Cointelpro targets as Hoover perceived them to be threats to national security.

The Socialist Workers Party became a target in 1961, and the decade of the '60s saw the Ku Klux Klan, "black extremists" and the New Left targeted for FBI disruption.

Four Fires Reported

Four minor fires occurring Sunday and today have been extinguished by Snyder firefighters.

A cotton burrs fire was doused at the Ira gin Sunday about 1:16 p.m.

At 2 p.m. Sunday, a minor grass fire was extinguished about one and a half miles south of the Monsanto gas plant.

A stack of cotton on the Tommy Echols farm about seven miles east of Snyder caught fire and was extinguished Sunday about 8:20 p.m.

A cotton burr fire was extinguished about 1:30 a.m. today approximately three and a half miles south of Snyder.

Carter Staying In Wings

WASHINGTON (AP)- While Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menahem Begin stand at center stage, President Carter remains in the wings, awaiting the outcome of the historic meetings in Jerusalem.

He described the two men's speeches Sunday to the Israeli parliament as "a moving occasion and a contribution to the cause of peace," but the White House carefully avoided more detailed comment.

"We got the folks together. Let's see what happens," White House press secretary Jody Powell said. "We're not trying to be looking over their shoulders every minutes."

It was felt at the White House that the United States' role in the Middle East would be unchanged by the talks and that in the immediate future the administration's primary task would be to encourage and facilitate comprehensive peace talks.

The muskrat, named for its two scent glands, is native to almost all of the United States and Canada.

THE WINNERS–Shown at the end of a 20-mile trail are John Overton, left, and Bobby Beard, winners of a "turkey walk" sponsored Saturday by the American Heart Association. The event was co-sponsored by Jaycees and Jaycee-ettes with the Gay 20 Club assisting by registering participants and placing mile markers along the route. The event began in Towle Memorial Park and contestants alternately ran and walked to Dunn and back. The trek lasted some four hours and 45 minutes.

Hustler Converted

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP)-Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt says he's seen the light and will turn his girlie magazine away from nudity and sex and toward religion - and it's all due to President Carter's faith-healer sister.

Flynt, 41, and his wife, Althea, were surprise guests of Ruth Carter Stapleton at a Sunday night revival at the Independent Church of Castle Hills.

Mrs. Stapleton said Flynt's first admission that he accepted Christ came in a telephone call from the outspoken publisher Friday night in San Antonio.

During an impromptu interview at San Antonio International Airport before the church service, Flynt said he planned to change the magazine and would incorporate religious articles.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Chancey

Mrs. Lucille Chancey, 55, of Dermott died at 12:40 a.m. today in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Funeral service has been set for 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel. The Rev. David Robertson, pastor of First United Methodist Church, will officiate, and burial will be in the Dermott Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale.

Mrs. Chancey was a native of Bowie County.

She is survived by her husband, Bill Chancey; a daughter, Mrs. Wesley Rawls of Dermott; her mother, Mrs. Allie Okeeffe of Odessa; two sisters, Mrs. H.C. Reynolds of Odessa and Mrs. Mildred Knapp of Austin; four brothers, J.E. Gatlin, Billy W. Gatlin, William Walter Gatlin and Allen Gatlin, all of Odessa.

One Hurt In Road Crash

One man was treated Saturday afternoon for injuries he sustained in a two-vehicle collision.

Treated and then released from Cogdell Memorial Hospital was Gerald Eugene Ely. Ely, of Alamogordo, N.M., was the driver of a 1970 Opal that was in collision with a 1972 Ford driven by Cheribeth Crawford Stewart of Snyder.

The mishap occurred 9.8 miles east of Snyder on U.S. 180 about 2 p.m. Saturday, reported investigating highway patrolmen.

Extension damages were reported to each vehicle.

The decibel is an arbitrary unit of measure of sound pressure or power. It is equivalent to one-tenth of a bel, a dimensionless unit named for Alexander Graham Bell who invented the telephone.

2 Arrested In Burglary Here

One suspect evaded capture late Saturday night, but two other suspects seen leaving the scene of the reported burglary of the G&G Grocery Store were nabbed by police officers.

The suspects were taken into custody by officer Kerry Fritz while allegedly still possessing the canned goods reportedly taken in the convenience store burglary.

The two suspects were apprehended about 11:08 p.m. Saturday. Police today reported they are continuing their search for the third suspect.

In other reports, two men suspected of being illegal aliens were apprehended about 1:15 a.m. Sunday in the 1600 block of 25th St. They were turned over to the U.S. Border Patrol at 8:45 a.m. Sunday.

Also during the weekend, the city animal shelter was allegedly burglarized and one dog was reported missing from its protective confines. Entry was apparently gained by destroying the padlock on the front gate.

Three traffic accidents were also investigated during the weekend.

The first mishap occurred in the parking lot of Furr's Supermarket and involved a 1973 Chevrolet driven by Clarence Dacus of Hermleigh and a parked 1975 Dodge owned by Raymond Alarcon. The mishap was reported at 11:23 a.m. and resulted in only minor damages.

A major accident was reported at 2:56 p.m. at the intersection of 29th St. and Ave. E. Involved in the collision were a 1966 Ford driven by Frank Welch and a 1971 Chevrolet driven by Beatrice Graham. Extensive damages were reported to the Ford and moderate damages were reported to the Chevrolet. Wreckers were summoned to remove each of the vehicles.

The final mishap of the weekend occurred Sunday at 6:18 p.m. in Towle Park. A 1973 Chevrolet driven by Johnny Fuentes was in collision with a utility pole owned by the Midwest Electric Co. Extensive damages were reported to the vehicle and damage to the utility pole was estimated at $50.

NEW YORK (AP)-Cotton futures No. 2 were lower at midday.

The average price for strict low middling 11-16 inch spot cotton advanced 8 points to 48.83 cents a pound Friday for the 10 leading markets, according to the New York Cotton Exchange.

Midday prices were $1.50 to $2.00 a bale lower than the previous close. Dec. 51.60, March 52.11, and May 52.85.

An electric cut-up to cut down on electricity

These bite-size chunks of scrap metal for re-cycling are disgorged by an enormous electric grinder which can digest a junked automobile in seconds. This reclamation process is just one of the myriad uses of electricity to improve our environment and conserve the added electric energy normally required for processing metals from ore.

The industrial conservation of power is important and one of the meaningful ways electric energy can be conserved is through metal recycling projects. The member-owned electric cooperative provides power for rural homes, rural industry and for conservation.

Court Ruling May Affect Minorities In Texas

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-A pending Supreme Court decision about city council districts in a small town in Alabama could have a major impact on the political power of Mexican-Americans in Texas.

The Alabama town, Sheffield, argues that the Voting Rights Act, as amended, no longer applies to cities, school districts or other local governments unless they register voters.

Sheffield won its case at the district court level on Alabama. If it wins in the Supreme Court, it would mean that more than 1,200 cities, 1,475 school districts and 2,900 special districts in Texas would not be covered by the Voting Rights Act.

That would mean local officials could revise districts, polling procedures and election rules as they pleased without having to get Justice Department approval.

"The rights of minority voters would be unprotected in the majority of elections," said Al Perez of the Mexican-American Legal Defense and Education Fund.

As originally written in 1965, the Voting Rights Act plainly applied to all units of government in the states and countries involved.

But the law has been rewritten by Congress several times. In 1973, the language was changed to read that it applied to "states and political subdivisions" which triggered the law's application because of past discrimination or because less than half of the eligible population voted.

Elsewhere, the bill defines political subdivisions as entities which register voters. In Alabama, as in Texas, counties handle that chore.

Sheffield wanted to change to an at-large system of electing council members, which the Justice Department said would dilute the power of its black voters, who constitute a minority of 19 per cent.

The town's attorneys have told the court that the law should be read exactly as it is written; plainly, they say, it excludes cities and school districts which do not register voters.

The Justice Department and MALDEF have argued that Congress plainly intended for the act to apply to local governments within the states covered. Congress was guilty of sloppy writing when it drafted the statute without "sufficient clarity," Perez said.

Perez said a decision favorable to Sheffield could have major implications for Texas. One good example is the current fight over the proposed Westheimer School District, an affluent, predominantly white island that some Houston residents want to carve from the city school system.

One of the laws the Justice Department is using to fight that proposal is the Voting Rights Act, Perez said. If the Supreme Court rules in favor of Sheffield, the Act will not apply to Houston's Schools.

Perez said Mexican-Americans in Texas also would be helpless to oppose majority efforts to outlaw "single shot" voting in local elections and to make candidates run from the city at large, both of which have been shown to reduce minority representation.

Tell a story

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D

DEAR DR. BLAKER: I'm worried about my 9-year-old grandson because he is barely passing in school and skips all after-school activities. He seems bright but lacks self-esteem. His parents are employed at very demanding jobs and as a result, probably don't notice their son's behavior. I do because I take care of him every day after school. I think I know how to encourage him but hesitate to do what his parents ought to be doing. Is there any way that I can influence him — and yet be discreet about it?

DEAR READER: I'm not sure why you feel you need permission from your grandson's parents to encourage him in school or in after-school activities. Children find support from many people — not only those in the immediate family. Perhaps you are angry at his 'parents' (one of whom is your child, right?) and are hoping to recruit me on your side in some family battle I know nothing about.

Only you can answer that. If, however, there is a genuine reason why you must be discreet, how about storytelling? Certainly it is a natural grandparenting activity — a much neglected one — which can teach children a lot about life. If I were you I might begin with this American Indian legend.

One day a brave found an eagle's egg which he put into the nest of a prairie chicken. The baby eagle hatched with the brood of chicks and grew up with them. As he developed, the — thinking he was a prairie chicken — did what the prairie chickens did. He scratched in the dirt for seeds and insects. He clucked and cackled. And he flew — if that's the word — in a quick thrashing of wings and a flurry of feathers, barely a few feet off the ground. After all, that's how prairie chickens are supposed to fly.

Years passed, and the eagle grew old. Then one day, he saw a magnificent bird far above him in a cloudless sky. Hanging with graceful majesty on the powerful wind currents, it soared with scarcely a beat of its strong golden wings.

"What a beautiful bird," said the eagle to his neighbor. "What is it?"

"That's an eagle. The chief of the birds," the neighbor clucked. "But don't give it a second thought. You could never be like him."

So the eagle never gave it another thought and in time he died, still thinking he was a prairie chicken.

Survivors Say

Pilot Overshot Runway

By ANDREW TORCHIA
Associated Press Writer

FUNCHAL, Madeira (AP)-Survivors of a crash that killed 130 of 164 persons aboard a Portuguese jetliner say the pilot apparently realized he landed too far down the runway and tried to take off, but the plane plunged 200 feet down an embankment and burst into flames.

TAP, the Portuguese national airline, said the Boeing 727 that crashed Saturday night in a rain was carrying 91 Portuguese passengers, 65 foreigners and eight crew members on a flight from Brussels, Belgium, and Lisbon.

No Americans were reported aboard.

The forward section of the plane cartwheeled onto a rocky beach, throwing some of those aboard into the surf.

"The pilot could not find the position for the final approach and circled three or four times," said survivor David van Beetz of Amsterdam. "At the last moment he came down, overshooting the field. The plane was going far too fast. I saw half the plane ripping open. I passed out."

The 62-year-old department store executive said when he regained consciousness, the plane was burning around him and he crawled out.

"I came to in water up to my waist," said Marie Paule Oosterlinck of Antwerp, Belgium.

"I tried to get my mother out of the water but couldn't because of my broken arm. Then my son...Well, I didn't see him any more. I had to get out of the water myself. I was near the fire and couldn't stand it."

Her mother and three-year-old son were listed as missing. Her husband survived.

Six of the eight crew members were killed including the pilot, Joao Costa, and his copilot.

The Portuguese government ordered an inquiry into the crash.

The runway extends across a narrow neck of land that juts into the ocean on the south side of the mountainous Portuguese island 400 miles west of Morocco.

Grandma Sails Around World

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)-A 54-year-old grandmother who learned the bamboo flute and Esperanto while at sea stepped off her 27-foot yacht after an unpublicized solo sail around the world and took refuge in a commune.

"I don't think I have done anything important," said Anne Gash in a brief telephone interview. "If I start talking about this it will never stop."

Mrs. Gash sailed her battered sloop Ilimo into Ballina, 300 miles north of Sydney, on Friday. After she cleared customs, a daughter and son-in-law took her to the seclusion of a commune eight miles away.

"I want to stay out here for a few days and sort myself out and rest," she told the reporter who telephoned.

"She's up on the hill about half a mile from here," said a man who answered the commune's only telephone. "She just wants to be alone, but in perhaps another week or so will be sailing on down to Sydney."

"This is just the sort of thing Mother does," said one of Mrs. Gash's six daughters, Libby Buhrich of Sydney. "When she was very young, she rode to Melbourne on a bicycle."

Melbourne is 400 miles south of Sydney.

A former social worker and vegetarian, Mrs. Gash took a brief course in navigation before taking the Ilimo out of Sydney harbor in July 1975. She sailed up the east coast, through the treacherous Torres Strait between Australia and New Guinea and then headed west along the north coast and through the Indian Ocean.

She reached Durban, on the east coast of South Africa, in February 1976 after taking her boat through eight bad storms.

"I have wanted to do this for some time now," she wrote her daughters. "I guess you can say I am just doing my own thing, and living every moment today."

She said that during the long hours at sea, she taught herself Esperanto, the international language, and the bamboo flute.

From Durban, Mrs. Gash went round the Cape of Good Hope and then up the west coast of Africa to Ghana. In Accra, the capital, thieves stripped the Ilimo and a tug-boat rammed it. She made repairs and set out again but after three weeks of adverse currents and winds returned to Ghana and shipped the yacht to Britain.

Mrs. Gash left Britain last November and sailed through the canals of Belgium and Holland before heading down to Gibraltar and the Canary Islands. Then she sailed across the Atlantic to Tobago and Trinidad, passed through the Panama Canal and went on to Tahiti, Rarotonga, Tonga and Ballina.

Slayer Of Minister Is Hunted

DALLAS (AP)-There were no services Sunday at the small First Baptist Church in East Dallas. Police were still looking for the man who killed the pastor, the Rev. Delma J. Price, whose body was found in the church's meeting room.

Price, 68, who was described by his daughter, as a "humble kind of man" had been shot once in the upper chest. Police said his wallet was missing and furniture in the meeting room was strewn, indicating there had been struggle.

"We have had a little trouble before ... people breaking into the church, trying to steal a piano and things," said Mrs. Lucille Price, the pastor's widow. "Somebody just wanted some money to buy dope."

Price's body was found shortly before midnight Saturday by police after they received a report from a woman who said she was walking by the church in a residential area of East Dallas at about 8:30 p.m. when she noticed the lights were on and a door was open and Price's pickup truck was parked outside the church.

Price and his family had moved to Dallas from Tyler 13 years ago.

Soviet Grain Sales Have Farmers Guessing

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-One of the big questions on the minds of farmers and many others today is whether the Soviet Union will continue buying U.S. grain as it did last week or whether it may be nearing the end of its current round of purchases.

A week ago the Soviets kicked off the first new round of purchases since Sept. 19. By the end of business Friday the Agriculture Department reported that about 1.6 million metric tons of U.S. wheat and corn had been sold for delivery through next Sept. 30.

The purchases disclosed last week raised to about 4 million tons sold to the Soviet Union for delivery in 1977-78, the second year of a five-year pact committing it to buy a minimum of six million tons annually.

In the first year of the agreement which ended last Sept. 30, the Soviets bought about the minimum amount, six million tons. A metric ton is 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

The agreement also lets the Soviet Union buy up to eight million tons of wheat and corn annually without further consultation with the United States. However, earlier this fall, U.S. officials informed the Soviets that up to 15 million tons could be sold in 1977-78 without further talks.

Although department officials say they cannot be certain, there is a strong feeling that the full amount will be bought by the Soviet Union to help maintain its grain inventories in the wake of a smaller harvest than had been anticipated by U.S. experts. Probably, they say, purchases will include 10 million tons of corn and five million of wheat.

The agreement also calls upon the Soviet Union to space the grain purchases as evenly as possible through each year of the pact in order to avoid triggering U.S. market problems resulting form huge buying at any one time.

Since the Soviet Union, counting earlier purchases, has bought around one-fourth of the full 15 million tons U.S. officials have indicated they may buy, the balance may be delayed until later.

One theory to support this possibility is that the Soviets may decide to wait until more is learned about 1978 U.S. grain production, including how farmers may participate in programs in the works to curb wheat and corn plantings next year.

On the other hand, some authorities believe the Soviets already have made arrangements through foreign subsidiaries of private companies doing business in the United States for the entire 15 million tons and now are only concerned about scheduling those deliveries through next Sept. 30.

Since the U.S. stockpile of wheat and corn is so huge-the most since the early 1960s-there is no alarm indicated that the Soviet sales will endanger domestic supplies or trigger unexpected rises in U.S. consumer food prices.

Another factor involves China and whether it may turn to the United States for wheat after ignoring the U.S. supply since 1974-75. Rumors circulated last week that China already has bought some U.S. wheat, but department officials said they had no evidence to confirm any sales.

Thus, the Soviet Union-if it suspects China indeed may be a major buyer soon-will have to take this possibility into consideration in making its own grain purchases from the United States. A sudden move to buy large amounts of U.S. wheat, for example, could have a significant impact on prices the Soviets and other customers would have to pay.

These factors and others have a bearing on whether further sales of grain to the Soviet Union will be disclosed this week or whether Moscow is ready to coast for a while on the purchase already made.

Cooper To Return For Treatment

HOLLYWOOD (AP)-Rock star Alice Cooper, on leave from a New York alcoholic treatment center, was on the West Coast over the weekend to film the Beatles-tribute film "Sgt. Pepper."

Cooper - who gained fame with such on-stage antics as choking chickens and throwing watermelons - admitted himself to an upstate New York alcoholic treatment facility a month ago. He said he would return to the hospital after completing the movie scenes.

Cooper, 30, plays a money-grubbing religious cult leader in the film, which also stars Peter Frampton and the Bee Gees.

Using 29 Beatles songs, the film shows how a mythical town called Heartland was saved from doom by a group of local troubadors, Sgt. Pepper's Lonely Hearts Club Band.

Cooper said he decided to quit drinking because "I felt it was starting to get in the way."

"I'd done it long enough, mostly beer, and I was getting tired of it, I wanted to try to work sober," he said.

Lady Tied Up In Robbery

ATLANTA (AP)-While Philip Robertson stewed outside in the car, his wife was tied up in a restaurant robbery-as an unwitting victim.

Police said it happened this way:

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson, of Pittsburgh, returned to the restaurant Sunday a few minutes before it opened to look for Mrs. Robertson's eyeglasses, which she thought she may have lost there the night before.

Instead, she walked in on two masked gunmen.

Three painters, apparently working when the robbery began, had already been handcuffed to a serving cart and soon Mrs. Robertson was tied to a chair.

Growing impatient, Robertson finally walked into the restaurant and found his wife and the painters. By this time the robbers were in another part of the building forcing the kitchen manager to open the safe.

While Robertson was gone to call the police the robbers brought the manager out, handcuffed him to the serving cart with the painters and ran out the back door with an undisclosed amount of cash.

The painters managed to untie Mrs. Robertson, who ran to the front door just as police stormed in with shotguns.

She fainted.

Fats in the blood

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB – Will you please answer my questions about cholesterol and triglycerides? I am a 69-year-old woman, and weigh about 127 pounds. A year ago my cholesterol was 313 and my triglycerides 155. My doctor put me on a diet. I eat mainly chicken and turkey with the skin and fat removed, fish, and once in a while, three ounces of lean beef and lamb. My diary products are skim milk, low-fat cottage cheese, polyunsaturated margarine and corn oil, one egg a week.

Recently, I had a blood test and in one year the cholesterol dropped to 244, but the triglycerides went up to 178! How can that be? One goes down, and the other goes up. Is one of these more important than the other? Please let me know the safe high normal for triglycerides. That is what I am concerned about. What shall I do to bring it down?

DEAR READER – Triglycerides are simply fats – three fatty acids attached to glycerine (glycerol). Cholesterol is more stable and recirculates from the liver, through the bile into the intestine, and is reabsorbed into the blood again. It is not metabolized the same way as fat (triglycerides) at all.

As a result, the triglycerides in your blood fluctuate more readily. If you have just eaten fat – in the past eight hours –your blood level may be high because of what you ate eight hours ago. We usually consider a fasting level of less than 150 as normal. Cholesterol is less likely to be so affected. It will fluctuate though from stress and other factors.

The cholesterol level is a better indicator of risk of a heart attack than the triglyceride level. I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-2, Cholesterol, Triglycerides, Blood Fats, Atherosclerosis, to give you more details about the relation of these to each other. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for this issue to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

The size of the particles made up of triglycerides, cholesterol, and a blood protein (lipoproteins) is sometimes useful in refining the risk factor.

A single cholesterol or triglycerides test is not sufficient to determine the usual level. You need more than one blood test to find out what your risk really is.

Laboratory test methods vary, too. The method used for many office and hospital blood samples yields results that are 10 to 15 percent higher than the methods that are used to analyze blood samples in conjunction with national research programs. The national studies indicating that levels of cholesterol below220 are optimal in terms of minimizing risk of a heart attack are comparable to many office and hospital determinations of around 250.

The next time you have your test, don't eat anything with any fat in it for the evening meal, then have your blood test in the morning while fasting. That might improve the accuracy of your triglyceride determination.

ASTRO-GRAPH
Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Dec. 6, 1977

You will establish several enviable relationships this coming year. They will be with people who are as concerned with advancing your hopes as you are with theirs.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today in dealing with others try to see that which is beneath the surface. It'll help you establish stronger bonds with people you have felt had little to offer. Find out to whom you're romantically suited by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, NY 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You conduct yourself well today in areas where you have authority. You're fair and just, yet firm when necessary.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Give free reign to your imagination today in situations that have far-reaching effects. You should be able to perceive the outcome and make plans accordingly.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You shine today in your ability to mastermind the affairs of others. Ways and means of achieving goals overlooked by them will be obvious to you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) An opportunity may arise today to transform a situations deemed undesirable into something quite beneficial. Be willing to change.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This could be the day you've been waiting for to do a little negotiating with the boss in order to better your lot. Play your aces wisely.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't keep feelings to yourself regarding someone you really care for, but have been reticent to reveal. Chances are the feelings are mutual.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The circuitous route you'll use to reach your goals today may baffle the curious observer, yet to you, each and every step will make sense.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) As a salesperson it will be difficult to find your equal today. You aren't apt to promote anything you don't sincerely believe in.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your flair in financial matters could be quite remarkable today. All it will take is the proper challenge.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Others will find your personality appealing, although a shade mysterious today. You won't be role-playing. You may not even be aware of it yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The secret for getting associates to do your bidding today is to appeal to their emotions. This is especially true for persons you've previously helped.

Wooly Worms Predicting Warm Winter

BOONE, N.C. (AP)-The director of Appalachian University's Center for Wooly Worm Studies says the worms are predicting a warmer winter this year.

Folk lore says the width of black bands on the little red and black caterpillars indicates how cold the coming winter will be. Broad bands of black, fore and aft, mean a harsh winter. Narrow bands indicate a mild winter.

"This started as a tongue-in-cheek project to encourage the biology students to collect the worm and study the myth," said Dr. Sandra Glover, 38, the associate professor of biology who founded the center in 1975.

The Wooly Worm Center is a 50-gallon aquarium in a biology lab. Weeds grow in three inches of soil in its bottom. Snuggled in the weeds are about 350 worms.

Their dark bands are more narrow than last year's crop, leading to the prediction of a milder winter.

The National Weather Service is also predicting this winter won't be as severe as last, but on a different basis.

"The law of averages will tell you that," said a weather service spokesman in Asheville.

Basin's Rig Count Rises

Permian Basin oilfields had 306 rotary drilling rigs in operation last week, according to Reed Drilling Equipment's weekly survey. This represents an increase of eight over the previous week and 36 over the corresponding week in 1976.

Eddy County, N.M., continued to lead the Basin in drilling activity with 29 rigs running. Pecos and Ward Counties had 23 each.

Scurry County had two rotary rigs running last week and none the week before.

Figures for other area counties, with last week and the week before, in order: Borden 3 and 6; Dawson 6 and 5; Fisher 4 and 5; Garza 5 and 5; Howard 8 and 6; Kent 1 and 2; Mitchell 6 and 5; Nolan 3 and 2; Stonewall 1 and 1.

Miss Lillian Is Back Home

PLAINS, Ga. (AP)-Lillian Carter is finally back home in Plains after a thrice-delayed journey from Ireland.

The first delay came Friday when union workers in Ireland refused to service the charter plane in which she was supposed to fly directly to the United States. That caused a three-hour delay as Mrs. Carter and 251 Iowa residents accompanying her on a goodwill tour had to stop in England before heading across the Atlantic.

There was another brief delay when that plane had a blowout as it taxied down the runway after landing at Bangor International Airport in Maine early Saturday.

A filly is not considered a mare in racing until she's five years old.
