Japs Step Up Fight In Air

Fliers Encounter Heavy Increase In Opposition

(By The Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Friday, April 23—A Flying Fortress over Kavieng, New Ireland, fought off four Japanese fighters yesterday in a battle which extended over 150 miles, the high command announced.

Japanese positions at Nassau Bay, near Salamaua, New Guinea, were heavily bombed and strafed in another aerial action.

The Kavieng incident was the second in as many days to indicate increased Japanese opposition in the air in the sector northeast of Australia. Yesterday's communique told of a single Fortress' battle with Zeros near Rabaul, New Britain, in which the Allied plane shot down two or the interceptors.

150-Mile Battle

Today's noon communique said succinctly of the Kavieng action:

"One of our heavy units on reconnaissance was intercepted by four enemy fighters and fought off the enemy in a running engagement which lasted for 150 miles."

Two-engined bombers and attack planes took part in the Nassau Bay attack. The communique said "heavy damage" was caused to Dualia and Lababia islands and villages along the bay's south shore.

At Nubia, New Guinea, a single four-engined bomber attacked artillery emplacements.

Northwest of Australia, a medium bomber raided the village of Wailoetoe near Saumlaki in the Tanimbar islands.

Dobo, on the Aroe islands, was raided anew by one medium bomber which attacked the enemy supply area.

JAP BASE IN GILBERT ISLAND TAKES LASHING

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP) — Japan's Nauru base in the Gilbert islands, a strategic outpost guarding the southern approaches to the great Truk bastion in the South Pacific, was heavily damaged Wednesday by Army bombers in a long-range daylight attack.

The Navy announced the action today in a communique which described the raiding force as large and reported that despite heavy anti-aircraft fire and resistance from fighter planes 'much damage was done to Japanese installations."

Five Zeros Destroyed

"U. S. pilots shot down five and possibly seven Zero fighters," the communique said. "All U. S. planes returned.

Thousands of miles away, in the North Pacific, another Army air force under naval command continued its remorseless pounding of the Japanese base on Kiska island.

The attack on Nauru stirred speculation that it might indicate coming events of importance in the South Pacific war zone.

The little island stands on the northeastern flank of a corridor of relatively open sea from

U.S. Casualties To Be Heavier

Legion Head Tells Of Africa Losses

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP)—Warnings that heavy fighting still lies ahead in Tunisia and that victory's cost in lives will be high came today from Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson and Roane Waring, commander of the American Legion.

"Casualties are certain to be heavy," Patterson told a press conference.

Waring, just returned from a tour of the African battlefront, said the American forces have suffered "terrific casualties" — many more than have been announced.

Endless Rows of Crosses

Relating in an address to Legionnaires and others that he had seen endless rows of fresh crosses in Africa, Waring said:

"There will be many thousands more of such crosses before the flags of freedom wave in triumph over Tunis and Bizerte.

"We must not lose sight of the grim fact that the end of the war in Africa will mark only the beginning of the battle of Europe. The battle of Europe will be fought on a vaster and deadlier scale.

"We must stand by our determination to fight it out at all costs until we win. Hitler and what he stands for must be destroyed! There is no other thinkable alternative for a liberty-loving people.

On the point of the toll the enemy is paying in Tunisia, Patterson called Axis losses heavy and estimated that Allied airmen are currently destroying 50 per cent of Axis shipping—both air and water — which attempts to take supplies to the German-Italian forces.

No Estimate Offered

While Waring said American casualties are considerably larger than yet reported, he made no estimate of the total. He said that figures announced by General Dwight D. Eisenhower covered only the Tunisian campaign and did not include losses in the initial landings in Africa.

Eisenhower reported April 17 that casualties in the 2nd Army corps were 5,373 killed, wounded,

Murder Counts Filed In Slaying Of Two

HOUSTON, April 22. (AP)—Bruce E. Jordan, 24, tonight faced formal charges of murder filed in Harris and Colorado counties in connection with the deaths of Clarence Harrison, 43 and Tom Dype, 40.

Sheriff Harvey Lee of Colorado county took Jordan to Columbus tonight where he probably will be tried first in the Dype case and then returned to Houston.

Harrison's body, police records show, was found in Buffalo bayou on December 15. Dype's body, pierced by several bullets, was found a few feet off the highway near Columbus Donday.

Jordan was arrested at Knoxville, Tenn., and returned here by Police chief Joe Kimsey of that city.

Blalock Is Stricken With Heart Attack

WASHINGTON, April 22. (AP) — Colonel Myron Blalock, Texas Democratic national committeeman, was reported resting comfortably tonight in Walter Reed hospital, but hospital attaches continue to describe his heart condition as critical.

Stationed here with the services of supply in the War department, Colonel Blalock attended a luncheon at the capitol yesterday with Texas members of Congress and appeared in good health. He left his office early in the afternoon and late in the day suffered a heart attack and was taken to the medical center.

Angered Doolittle Pledges Japs Will Plead For Mercy

Controversy Over Pacific Strategy Likely To Flare

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The "murder in cold blood" of American Army fliers captured by the Japanese after last year's raid on Japan has added explosive fuel to the fire of controversy over Pacific strategy, Army observers believe.

They foresee, not only a rising tide of public anger against an enemy capable of committing such acts, but sharpened demands for expedited offensive action against the Japanese.

Demands From Australia

Demands from Australia for substantial reinforcement of General MacArthur's southwestern Pacific command in the face of ever increasing enemy concentrations to the north have not been stilled by Secretary Stimson's assurances of last week that adequate air and other equipment would be provided to "counter" Japanese moves. Only yesterday a spokesman for General MacArthur renewed his chief's blunt warning of intensifying enemy activity north of the no-man's sea.

"The Japanese forces continue to increase," he said, adding a "hope"—that forces available to meet the rising threat would increase "to match" those of the enemy.

Undersecretary of War Patterson, at a press conference today, did not go beyond Stimson's previous assurances that MacArthur's air power would be supplemented. He did point out, however, that in both the south and southwest Pacific, in the Aleutian theater, and in Europe American airmen are carrying the war to the enemy.

Pressure For Action

Disclosure of the new Japanese atrocity came at a time when pressure for aggressive action against Japan both in the Australian zone and in the Aleutians was rising. First reactions in Congress to the executions, officially castigated as "murder in cold blood" by official American communication, called for prompt retaliation, which under this government's policy would be possible at present only in the form of offensive military action. (Undersecretary of War Patterson made plain today that there would be no retaliation against Japan prisoners; that punishment would be reserved for the Nipponese officers or officials who instigated the crime.)

Whether even a tidal-wave of public demands for military action against the Pacific foe for this new act of infamy could lead to a further revision of military priorities in favor of the Pacific theater or any substantial change in the strategic directives worked out at the Casablanca conferences no informed official was willing to predict. They freely admitted, nevertheless, that the fate of the murdered American fliers had created a new psychological fac-

Texans Join In Vengeance Vow

(By The Associated Press)

Texans, both native and adopted sons, vowed vengeance today for the reported execution of American fliers who raided Japanese cities.

At Waco Brig. General Luther S. Smith, commanding general of the 33rd Flying Training wing, tersely told graduates of the Blackland Army Flying school:

"Carry out Gen. Arnold's order of the day."

Last night Gen. Henry H. Arnold called on American Air forces not to rest and to redouble their efforts until the "inhuman war lords" of Japan who executed American fliers "have been utterly destroyed."

Jap Monument In Question

In San Antonio, cradle of Texas militarism, fury centered around a Jap monument which stands in the north courtyard of the sacred Alamo.

Said Mayor Gus B. Mauermann: "While I don't advocate the destruction of that monument I think it should be taken down immediately and put away."

The monument was erected in 1914 by the Japanese government and is dedicated to the memory of heroes of the "Alamo of Japan." It was presented as a gift from one "Alamo to another."

Graduating cadets of the Pampa Army Air base Thursday drew up this resolution:

"We members of class 43-D, upon receiving our pilots wings and commissions at graduation from the Army Air Forces Ad-

POWER PLANTS IDLE

EL PASO, April 22. (AP)—Power plants through most of the state of Chihuahua, Mexico, were closed by a strike of 1,500 workers seeking a 30 per cent wage increase and an estimated 20,000 workers in dependent industries were idle, the Chihuahua correspondent of the El Paso Herald-Post reported today.

Others With Him On Raid Join In Similar Comment

By WES GALLAGHER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, April 22 — Shocked and angered by Japanese execution of some of the American airmen he led against Japan last year, Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle declared today that "soon our bombers will be there again—striking at the heart of Japan until the empire crumbles and they beg for mercy."

General Doolittle said he and the other American fliers here who bombed Tokyo "want to be on the next raid over Japan," and added "we will drop each bomb in memory of our murdered comrades.

"Our bombs will not be missing their mark," he said grimly in commenting on President Roosevelt's announcement of Japan's executions.

Comment Of Others

A typical comment of the others who bombed Japan was that of Capt. Howard A. Sessler of Arlington, Mass., who said: "The day will come when these atrocities will be avenged and I hope to be among the avengers."

Another, Maj. Rodney R. Wilder of Taylor, Tex., said "since I'm asked what I think of the fate of my buddies, all I can say is that now the people of the United States should realize the nature of our foes and should dedicate themselves to even greater efforts to support the war aims of our government."

General Doolittle said:

"After the first feeling of regret

Solons To Take Easter Recess

WASHINGTON, April 22. (AP)—A finish battle on pay-as-you-go taxation, including the modified Ruml plan to skip an income tax year, was set today for Monday, May 3, and the House decided to take an Easter recess until that climatic date—affording time for taxed tempers to cool.

Members began leaving Washington in large numbers and many, no doubt, will find among their home people the answer to the question of how they should vote.

Another battle along party lines appeared inevitable with the leaders on each side lined up in this manner:

Democrats — Behind a proposal to apply the much softer 1941 rates and exemptions to 1942 personal income. This would erase the last year's tax liabilities completely for about 7,000,000 persons and give others substantial reductions. The overall tax abatement would amount to approximately 50 per cent of the total 1942 personal income tax bill—in dollars $5,000,000,000.

LONDON, Friday, April 23. — Soviet troops mowed down hundreds of Germans still attacking their Kuban river valley lines above the enemy bridgehead at Novorossissk in the Caucasus, and the Red Air force made mass raids on Nazi military formations and other targets, Moscow announced early today.

Three hundred Germans were killed in attempting to take one hilltop and hundreds also fell in another sector, said the midnight communique recorded by the Soviet monitor.

A 120-Year Old Prayer, Presented Here As A: Thought For Good Friday

RECENTLY, the Editor of The Morning Avalanche received from Mrs. Jeff E. Reed, of Ralls, a copy of a prayer, poetically written, which incorporates into its thought the most oft repeated human supplication, the Lord's Prayer.

According to Mrs. Reed, her copy of this unusual prayer came from an edition of the Houston Post, under date of June 21, 1903, and she has cherished it over all the intervening years. The Houston Post got its copy from the New York American, which carried this explanation:

"The following beautiful composition was captured during the Civil war, at Charleston, S. C., by an Indian soldier. The dingy, time-worn paper on which it was written (evidently with a goose-quill pen) bore the date of July 4, 1823. At considerable expense it has been obtained for publication, and it is quite a literary curiosity. It is furnished The American by Mr. James R. Horner, city statistician."

With thanks to Mrs. Reed for giving us an opportunity to reproduce the prayer we do so, feeling that its publication during Holy Week, and more especially on Good Friday, will strike a responsive chord in the hearts of all readers.

Thou to the mercy seat our soul dost gather
To do our duty unto Thee ..... Our Father
To whom all praise, all honor should be given
For Thou art the Great God ..... Who art in Heaven.
Thou, by Thy wisdom, rulest the world's whole frame
Forever, therefore ..... Hallowed be Thy name.
Let never more delays divide us from
Thy glorious grace, but let ..... Thy kingdom come.
Let Thy commands opposed be by none
But Thy good pleasure and ..... Thy will be done.
And let our promptness to obey be even
The very same ..... In earth as it is in heaven.
Then, for our soul, O Lord we also pray
Thou wouldst be pleased to ..... Give us this day
The food of life wherewith our souls are fed
Sufficient raiment, and ..... Our daily bread.
With every needful thing do Thou provide us,
And of Thy mercy pity ..... And forgive us
All our misdeeds for Him, whom Thou didst please
To make an offering for ..... Our trespasses.
And for as much, O Lord, as we believe
That Thou will pardon us ..... As we forgive those
Let that love teach wherewith Thou dost acquaint us
To pardon all ..... Who trespass against us.
And though ofttimes Thou findest we have forgot
This love to Thee yet keep ..... And lead us not
Through soul and body's want to desperation
Nor let earth's gain drive us ..... Into temptation.
Let not the soul of any true believer
Fall in the time of trial ..... But deliver
Yea, save them from the malice of the devil
And both in life and death keep ..... Us from evil:
This we pray, Lord, for that of Thee from whom
This may be had ..... For Thine is the kingdom, and
This world is of Thy word: its wondrous story
To Thee belongs ..... The power and the glory,
And all Thy wondrous works have ended never
But will remain forever and ..... Forever.
Thus we poor creatures would confess again
And this we say eternally ..... Amen.

Bayonets, Hand Grenades Used

First Army Checks Diversionary Blow

By WILLIAM B. KING
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, April 22.—British Eighth Army infantry, using bayonets and grenades, smashed into Axis mountain nests south of Tunis today in an unhalted advance after the First Army crushed a diversionary blow west of the capital by destroying 27 tanks and capturing 500 elite German troops.

The Eighth Army was reported to have gained three miles north and west of Enfidaville since the offensive began in that sector Monday night, and a spokesman said violent fighting much of it hand-to-hand, raged all day.

A delayed dispatch from Noland Norgaard, an Associated Press correspondent at the front, said the British yesterday seized Takrouna, three miles northwest of Enfidaville, except for mopping up operations, and were rushing into the salt marsh area of Sebkra Sidi Kralifa north of Enfidaville.

Face Formidable Task

Farther inland in the Djebel Garci area the British, however, faced a formidable task of cleaning out enemy gunposts on the sheer sides of those hills, and infantrymen and mules were carrying supplies into country too difficult for motorized transport.

In the north, Lieut.-Gen. K.A.N. Anderson's First Army, including parachute troops, withstood a powerful German counterattack aimed at easing the pressure on Marshal Rommel's southern forces, and inflicted "considerable casualties" on the enemy southeast of Medjez-El-Bab.

Five battalions of crack German troops, including three from the Hermann Goering Jaegar regiment and one from the Goering Grenadiers were thrown against the First Army lines Tuesday night on an eight-mile front between Medjez-El-Bab and Goubellat.

At least 70 German tanks also were put into the struggle later, but the British destroyed a third of them, including two 60-ton Mark VI Tigers.

The Germans attacked by moonlight, apparently trying to capture the hills in a "V" formed by the roads leading from Medjez-El-Bab to Goubellat and El Aroussa.

Nazi Losses Heavy

But they met such strong opposition and suffered such heavy losses that there was only minor infiltration of the British lines. By dawn the Axis decided to give up

Jap Threats And Jibes Backfire

(By The Associated Press)

Every American flier participating in future bombing raids on Japan has a "one-way ticket to hell," Japanese propaganda broadcasts declared today in an obvious attempt to intimidate the United States Air force and prevent a repetition of the attack on the island empire last April.

Implied in the broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications commission, was a threat to execute every airman captured. It followed a Domei news agency broadcast beamed at the United States two days ago which referred to the execution of some of Maj.-Gen. James H. Doolittle's companions and said "this same policy will continue to be enforced in the future."

More Raids Promised

A statement from the War department in Washington said that a further raid on Tokyo was a "decided possibility."

Stressing ominously that Japan would "leave nothing undone" to prevent future aerial attacks, the latest English-language warning from Tokyo said: "And by the way, don't forget, America—make sure that every flier that comes here has a special pass to hell and rest assured it's strictly a one-way ticket."

President Roosevelt's protest against the execution of some of Doolittle's men was countered by Domei with the assertion that "the Japanese were perfectly justified

Senate Votes $1,900,000 As State Fund Pension Ceiling

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, April 22.—The Senate voted today to put an absolute ceiling of $1,900,000 on the amount of state money available for payment of old age pensions.

Fast footwork on the floor in a scramble to reconsider an earlier vote setting the ceiling at $1,850,000 left observers gasping, but it paved the way for ultimate adoption of the larger amount.

Final vote on passage of House bill 9 was 22 ayes to two noes. The amendment by Sen. Weaver Moore of Houston making the $1,900,000 an inflexible limit on outgo from the fund, no matter how much is paid in, was passed 11 to 10.

House Bill Nullified

Effect of the Moore amendment to House bill 9 was to nullify House bill 159—passed by both House and Senate and now in conference committee for adjustment of differences—that released for payment of pensions the $1,154,000 unexpended balance in the old age assistance fund.

House bill 9 now goes back to the House. It may concur in the amendments or refuse to agree and force the bill into conference committee.

As passed by the House, the measure set no ceiling on payments for the next two years. The present limit is $1,750,000. Thus, if finally enacted in its present form, the bill would provide an additional $250,000 a month from the state for the approximately 183,000 old age pensioners. This is matched dollar for dollar by federal funds.

Votes Comes Suddenly

The vote to reconsider action on the amendment setting the ceiling at $1,850,000 came suddenly and with no apparent debate, just after the doors of the Senate had been flung open following a noon session called ostensibly to consider two minor appointments.

Several senators in reply to questions were quick to deny that

Ex-Inspector Found Guilty Of Sabotage

BALTIMORE, April 22. (AP) — Harvey Lee Thomas, 21-year-old former Navy aircraft inspector, was convicted by a federal jury tonight on four of six counts charging him with sabotaging Navy patrol planes at the Glen L. Martin aircraft factory.

The jury deliberated two hours and 15 minutes. Judge William C. Coleman deferred sentence until Monday.

The conviction was the second of its kind in Baltimore within a week. A shipyard welder was sentenced last Monday in federal court to one and a half years in a U. S. reformatory for doing faulty welding on a Liberty ship.

Nine other shipyard welders were arrested last week on similar charges and most of them already have been ordered held for grand jury action on sabotage accusations.

Folkes Found Guilty, Given Death Penalty

ALBANY, Ore., April 23 (AP)—Death in Oregon's gas chamber was decreed today for Robert E. Lee Folkes, 20, unemotional negro dining car cook, by a circuit jury which convicted him of the knife slaying of Mrs. Martha Virginia James, 21, in lower berth 13 of a speeding train.

After deliberating more than 17 hours, the jury of eight women and four men recommended no leniency in deciding it was the zoot-suited cook who killed the pretty Norfolk, Va., bride of a Navy ensign just before dawn on a Southern Pacific train Jan. 23. That first degree murder verdict automatically calls for the death penalty.

"They found me guilty, all right, and I'll take it like a man," said the unperturbed Folkes later in his cell. After hearing the verdict, he had yawned before rising to leave the court.

Circuit Judge L. G. Lewelling set 1:30 p. m., next Monday as the time for passing sentence. Defense counsel Leroy Lomax of Portland, said he would seek a new trial and failing in that would appeal to the state Supreme court.

Rubber-Gasoline Feud Flares Up Anew As Jeffers Asks Probe Of Patterson Charge

WASHINGTON, April 22. (AP) — The rubber vs. aviation gasoline feud flared up anew today when Rubber Director William M. Jeffers demanded an immediate investigation of assertions he said were made by Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson that the United Nations' air offensive is threatened by the priority given to synthetic rubber.

Patterson could not be reached immediately, but his aides said he had stated these views:

That the planned air onslaught on Hitler's Europe this summer will be weakened gravely unless prompt steps are taken to bolster the aviation gasoline supply by providing machines and equipment for 100-octane plants.

That some military aircraft were held on the ground in March for want of fuel and the shortage is worst this month.

That if the program of aerial bombardment is hampered it may lengthen the war and perhaps lead to a stalemate.

That the priority directive given to Jeffers for construction of synthetic rubber plants is to blame for the problem, and that there is "barely time" to rectify the situation by giving the high-octane plants the priority standing they need.

Secretary of Interior Ickes, as petroleum coordinator, supported and still advocates the military viewpoint. He said today he would continue to plead with Economic Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes for a larger proportion of the limited supply and with the War Production board for speedier issuance of priorities for materials and equipment Byrnes allots to him.

When Byrnes increased Jeffers' share of materials and equipment several months ago, Ickes said, 7,000,000 barrels of aviation gasoline were "lost forever."

Jeffers' reaction to the Patter-

"Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind and in the same judgment."—By the Apostle Paul, in First Corinthians, Chapter 1, Verse 10.

Coal Pay Dispute Certified To WLB

WASHINGTON, April 22. (AP)—Secretary of Labor Perkins announced today she had certified the soft coal wage dispute to the War Labor board.

Acknowledging the failure of negotiations which have been under way in New York since March 10, she said:

"In peace time I should have been inclined to wait patiently for the members of this conference to work out something constructive, but coal is essential to the prosecution of the war and because chances cannot be taken on so vital a matter, I am certifying this case to the National War Labor board."

Embraces Whole Area

The certification embraces the whole Appalachian bituminous producing area, north and south.

A one-month extension of the agreement between the operators in that area and the United Mine Workers expires April 30.

In a statement announcing the certification the labor secretary said:

"The coal operators and the United Mine Workers, having failed to agree in the coal conference which had been in session in New York since March 10, the conciliation service of the department of labor entered the negotiations on March 20. Nearly two weeks of discussions followed in which no counter proposals were made by the operators in response to the United Mine Workers' proposals for changes in the contract.

"The operators and the United Mine Workers have not reached an agreement on this or any other basis."

Glad Action Taken

In New York, former Senator Edward R. Burke, spokesman for the southern coal operators, said he was glad that Secretary Perkins had certified the dispute to the WLB.

"In all likelihood, there will be no necessity for further meetings of the negotiating committee," he said, "but maybe the negotiating committee would like to reassemble and report that the function of the conference is now at an end."

Hurricane Fighters Pound Burma Area

NEW DELHI, April 22. (AP)—Low-flying Hurricane fighters started fires in various parts of the Arakan battle area of Burma yesterday, inflicted casualties on Japanese troops and destroyed at least two wooden bridges, a British communique said today.

Blenheim bombers loosed explosives on a half-dozen Japanese-occupied villages, including Sinlamaung, in the upper Chindwin region, and the Nabu railway junction.

"South of Prome Beaufighters damaged a large river steamer, a factory and a train and machine-gunned 120 supply sampans," the communique reported.

Fighter-escorted Japanese bombers made a high-level attack on the Indian city of Imphal, causing some damage in one part of the city and a small number of casualties. RAF planes destroyed one and damaged another. In both offensive and defensive operations, all the British planes returned.

Schools At Silverton Sell $44,615 Bonds

SILVERTON, April 22. (Special)—The local school's war bond sales campaign ended here Monday with a total of $44,615.55 worth of bonds and war savings stamps sold.

Pat Northcutt and Nora Ann Amason were named Victory king and queen at the Victory rally held at the end of the campaign because they were chosen as the favorite boy and girl in the fourth grade, which led all of the other grades in the school with a total sale of $6,332.45.

Don Bomar, fourth grade student, made the greatest individual sale of bonds, $2,500. It was estimated that the funds raised by the whole school would buy 49 jeeps.

Former Lawyer Leads North Africa Aces

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, April 22. (U.P.)—The states of Washington, New York, Texas and Massachusetts have furnished the five leading American air aces in north Africa, it was revealed today.

Leading the quintet of Axis scourgers is Maj. R. Chase, 25, former Cortland, N. Y., lawyer, with 10 victories.

Chunky, handsome Col. William Wallace Momyer, 26, of Seattle, Wash., is next with eight enemy aircraft destroyed in combat.

Railroad Facilities Will Be Limited For Vacation Trips

DALLAS, April 22. (AP)—Less and less room will be available for the civilian who wants a vacation trip this year, E. O. Walker, assistant director of rail terminals, Office of Defense transportation, said today after receiving from Washington a statement on the railroad passenger outlook for spring and summer.

"During the months immediately ahead, more pullman sleepers and more day coaches will be diverted from regular rervice to military service," Walker said, "and the supply of railroad passenger equipment is unexpanding.

Don't Split Vacation

For those who decide to try a vacation trip anyway, ODT offers the following advice:

Take the whole vacation at one time; don't split it up into several short vacations or a number of long weekends. If you must travel, go to one place and stay there. Go and return on days other than Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays. Travel on day coaches. Carry your lunch but as little baggage as possible. Be prepared for delayed arrivals, crowded conditions and lack of the usual travel comforts.

The board telegraphed John L. Lewis, UMW president, and Edward Heckelbeck, district 50 regional director, rejecting flatly the latter's proposal to meet with company representatives on grievances or submit them to arbitration.

The message, signed by public member Wayne L. Morse in behalf of the board, confirmed an implied warning the WLB gave last night that the Army would be dispatched to provide protection for the company property and those employes who wished to work.

Raiders Flew Out To Sea As Feint, Then Headed South

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

A NORTH AFRICAN BASE, April 21.—Giving for publication the first eyewitness account of the Tokyo raid by any participating airmen, three Army air force officers disclosed tonight that after the attack the U. S. bombers flew 50 miles out to sea to make the Japanese think they were going back the way they had come and thereby to hide their China destination.

After that feint, the planes turned south and then finally westward to the Yellow sea, plunging on in the darkness to China and Wenhinland until they believed they were out of the reach of the Japanese.

The three who told their story for the first time were Major Charles R. Greening, Tacoma, Wash., Capt. Henry A. Potter, Pierre, S. D., and Capt. James M. Parker of Livingston, Texas.

Greening Tells Classic

Greening — to the bursts of laughter from the other two told how he ordered his men to bail out over China, carrying his rations and a map, and told this classic on himself.

"We stuffed these things into the other's pockets, but as I was the last man out, I took mine in my arms. I left the plane with two armfuls of groceries, a gun, searchlight, and other things. It wasn't until I was 500 feet down that I realized the problem of pulling the ripcord with my arms full. It was the choice of one or the other, so I let everything go except the flashlight and gun."

Maj. Gen. James H. Doolittle himself, informed that the ban of secrecy had been lifted, said simply that "as far as I am concerned the Tokyo raid is ancient history. We are engaged here in making history."

15 Of Raiders In Africa

Fifteen of the men who made the raid are here with him, and these three told their story in an operation hut.

"You see," said Potter, "when we met up in China, each had a story of a horrible ordeal and wanted to tell it. But none of us wanted to listen because we all had one of our own."

"Yes, it was from the aircraft carrier Hornet and we took off about 8 a. m., on April 18 in a heavy sea with the waves splashing over the runway deck," said Greening.

"I had never seen a ship before," said Potter, who was navigator on Doolittle's own plane.

"General Doolittle organized the whole thing," Greening continued. "No one else could have done such a job. Some of us had doubts about it, but he took off first and when we saw him do it, we knew we could do it as we had unlimited confidence in him.

Take-Off Easiest Part

"It turned out that the take-off was about the easiest thing of the whole mission despite the bad weather and heavy seas.

"We had practiced for months, speculating on special conditions, and everyone knew exactly how much gas his plane took—we did not trust the design load."

Parker, co-pilot of one ship, said that "on our plane we all talked about how nice the land was when we saw it beneath us. We could not see Fujyama, but we could see the green country and little railroad trains going through it."

Potter said "we were flying just above the land and saw some Japs wave to us. They didn't know who we were."

The plane piloted by Greening shot down two Japanese fighters believed to have been Heinkels or Japanese copies of them.

Hit Three Objectives

The planes turned out toward the Pacific in their feint after dropping their cargoes of 500-pound demolition bombs and countless little four-pound incendiaries, machine-gunning both land objectives and patrol ships in Yokohama harbor beating off fighters and dodging ack ack shells from ground guns, warships and planes.

When they turned back to the Yellow sea, the course of each plane was the same but each flew on its own. Now and then they caught a glimpse of one another, but kept a distance for fear the other might be an enemy plane, the three men said.

Darkness and bad weather came over the Yellow sea and the planes flew ahead by dead reckoning until they had reached a point far enough inland to be out of reach of the Japanese. But they could see nothing below.

Decided To Bail Out

"I asked my crew whether they wanted us to try to land or bail out," Greening said. "They said they'd like to land in a rice paddy. We came down and turned on landing lights to test the thickness of the fog when we saw tree tops just below us. It was a narrow escape and made them all want to bail out. We went up to 10,000 feet, opened the door, gave each man rations and a map and we went out in reverse order of rank."

Greening's parachute caught on a tree and he hung there until the next morning. When he got down and started to walk he found his injured co-pilot for whom he made a bamboo crutch. They reached the village of Chuchow Lishui where for the next week most of the others came in by ones and twos.

The plane which Parker co-piloted went 120 miles farther into China than the others. He came across other members of the crew including Pilot Lieut. Harold F. Watson, of West Hartford, Conn., who had his arm broken. Arriving at the village, they found two American missionary priests who treated the injured pilot.

"We were sitting around a fire in a house with a Chinese family when soldiers who we first thought were Japanese came. They were Chinese, treated us very well and when Watson's arm was well enough, took us to the capital of Hunan province."

That was 60 miles and there was no transport. The journey on foot was made in two days.

Vulnerable Targets Of Japs To Be Hit, Says Lt.-Gen. M. F. Harmon

ARMY HEADQUARTERS in the South Pacific, April 22. (AP)—Gen. Millard F. Harmon declared today "we will stick to our plan of taking every opportunity to strike the most vulnerable targets Japan exposes to us."

General Harmon, who is commander of U. S. Army forces in the South Pacific war area, gave this response at a press conference to a question asking whether retaliation would be delivered against the Japanese for their hundred-plane raid on the Tulagi sector of the Solomon islands April 7.

Devotion To Winning War Asked By Father Of Doolittle Raider

LEBO, Kan., April 22. (U.P.) — Robert Spatz, filling station operator in this little Coffey county town and father of Sgt. Harold A. Spatz, one of the captured Doolittle raiders, urged today that politics be forgotten and this nation get down to the job of licking the Japs.

Spatz, who has a Distinguished Flying Cross his son earned by his bravery in the bombing of Tokyo, said he thought "we ought to forget politics and fight the Japs, the job we set out to do more than a year ago."

Citizens Are Grim

Lebo was a grim-faced town of 600 today as folk who have known "Skinny" Spatz since childhood talked in low voices of the presidential announcement that some of the heroes who bombed Tokyo had been executed by the Japanese government.

Citizens of Lincoln township, in which this town is located, remarked today, they're doing about everything they can to help win the war but they're willing to go a lot farther to avenge any mistreatment the Japanese have inflicted on their "Skinny" Spatz.

Spatz' mother died when he was a child. A brother is in the air corps, stationed at the present time in California. A sister works in Topeka.

WASHINGTON, April 22. (U.P.) —The Truman committee reported today that the effectiveness of the anti-aircraft fire of a modern battleship was demonstrated by the new 35,000-ton South Dakota "which, some months ago, successfully sustained a heavy air attack."

The committee did not specify time or place of the attack. It was recalled, however, that the Navy reported in January that on Oct. 26, 1942, an American battleship in the south Pacific had shot down 32 Japanese aircraft during a battle of less than 30 minutes actual fighting time. The Navy described it as "the heaviest air attack yet made on a battleship."

SALVAGE suggestions: Here are are a list of timely suggestions from a patriotic citizen: Use old umbrella ribs for flower supports in the garden; use penny postcards instead of letters; break your burned-out electric light globes and save the metal base; put old coffee grounds in flower beds; reverse washers on dripping faucets, draw nails from boxes and crates and save them for future use.

EACH season when we contemplate the meaning of the trial and crucifixion of Jesus there are people who express a bewilderment that such a tragedy should have occurred. They cannot understand how anyone could have been so heartless, so cruel, so mean as to have put to death a person with the ideals, the character, the beauty of the one called the Christ. How was it possible for anyone to have joined in the multitude that endorsed that ignominious death upon the cross these people ask in their bewilderment.

But that was centuries ago that a young teacher, a preacher and a healer was hanged on Golgotha because he dared to say what he believed, that the kingdom of God was within the hearts of men and that if man loved God and his fellowman this kingdom would be established. What if it were today?

In one of his meditations during Holy week, Rev. John A. Wilslow, pastor of St. Paul's Episcopal church, presented thoughts on "How the Cross Was Made" in which he brought out the idea that the guild of cross makers is still active today, as relentless, as blood thirsty as those builders of the cross of Calvary.

Consider that the people who crucified Jesus were possessors of closed minds. There was Simon the Pharisee who was outraged because he saw a beautiful prostitute kiss the feet of Jesus and wipe them with her hair. Perhaps he helped to build that first cross. Mr. Winslow suggested it's possible Simon hammered out the nails that went into the cross.

There was another crowd of cross makers. Mr. Winslow described; the ones who brought before Jesus a woman who had committed adultery and who hung their heads when the suggestion was made "Let him that is without sin cast the first stone." Perhaps they threw no stones but went into a wood and selected a tree that would make a splendid upright for a cross. For the transverse beam it's possible there was a piece the crucifiers had been saving; a roof beam that was broken in order to let a palsied man down to the feet of Jesus into a room where he spoke to the self-righteous of forgiveness.

Hatred of forgiveness made the cross, stretched Jesus upon it and nailed Him there. That was a long time ago, you say, and such an act would not be tolerated today.

But would it?

There are those who wait only for one thing to go into their brutal assembly line, Mr. Winslow suggested. Try to practice the forgiveness of Jesus and you will set it in motion. Preach it all you want, read it in absolutions, breathe it to God in the Lord's Prayer and no axe will ring in the wood nor hammer on the nail-makers anvil. But really practive it and see what will come of that.

When Pla-Mor Forty-Two club members met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. O. P. Harlan, 1723 Thirty-first street, the hostess, who recently moved to a new home, was presented with a surprise gift shower.

Refreshments were served to Mesdames T. H. Barnard, John R. Hall, John Morrison, B. E. Needles, H. F. Williams, Belverd Needles, J. P. Posey, S. A. Beard, Leete Jackson, D. A. Forbess, Mark Halsey and J. O. Jones.

The club will meet May 5 with Mrs. Belverd Needles, 1807 Eighth street.

City Plans Cut In Milk License Fees

By H. I. KIEFER
Avalanche Staff Writer

Substantial reductions in most of the city's milk license fees were approved at the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission Thursday afternoon.

City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley was directed by the commission to prepare an amendment to the present milk and dairy ordinance setting out the new schedule of charges. It is the announced plan of the commission to act on the amendment at a special meeting before May 1, when new milk and dairy license fees for the next year will become due.

Under the new schedule, according to official computations, the city's revenues from this source will be reduced approximately half—from somewhat more than $1,900 per year to less than $1,000 per year.

Scaled To Kind Of Service

The reduction in the license fee of the typical milk producer who sells his product direct to the creamery will be very substantial under the new schedule. The reduction will be smaller for the producer who distributes his own milk. For most of the creameries, the new schedule will mean an increase in the city license fee.

Under the present schedules, the license fee for the milk producer or distributor ranges from $3 to $30 per year, depending upon the number of cows owned. Any producer or operator with 17 or more cows must pay the maximum annual fee of $30 per year.

The proposed new schedule follows:

For producers—for five cows or fewer, $2.50 per year; for more than 5 and not more than 25 cows, $5 per year; for more than 25 and not more than 50 cows, $10 per year; for more than 50 cows, regardless of number, $15 per year.

For distributors—a basic minimum fee of $10 per year, which allows for the first 25 gallons processed or distributed, and then $1 for each 25 gallons in excess of the first 25. This gallonage officials explained, would be on the basis of daily averages through the year.

Explained By Hunter

The working effects of the new schedule were explained by G. G. Hunter, one of the city's two milk and dairy inspectors.

He estimated that the average herd of the milk producer serving Lubbock now numbers between 35 or 40 cows. Most such producers sell all their milk to the creamery. Some, however, have their own routes and sell all, or a large portion, of their product direct to the consumer. At the present time, such producers pay an annual license fee of $30.

Under the new rates, the license fee would be only $10 per year for the producer selling only to the creamery.

However, if such a producer distributes his own milk, he would be required under the new schedule to pay a distributor's fee, also. If his average distributions were 75 gallons per day, this cost would be $12 per year. Thus the total cost to such a producer-distributor would be $22.

Pasturization Plants

In the case of pasturization plants, fees of most, if not all, the local establishments would be increased. They now pay $30 per year each. Under the new schedule, according to estimates Thursday, this cost for at least one local plant would be more than doubled.

Action in this matter was taken after the commission had heard Lloyd Croslin, attorney representing the Lubbock County Grade-A Milk Producers association. Croslin expressed himself as being satisfied, personally, with the new schedules and said that he will report them to the association at the first opportunity.

Officials and others expressed the belief that the action will eliminate any dangers that may have existed of a repetition of experiences last year. On that occasion, many of the producers declared a boycott against Lubbock when their demand for abolishment or sharp revisions of fees was refused. The revolt faded after a few days.

Other Actions Routine

Other actions taken by the commission Thursday were routine.

The official body approved the appointment of a citizen's committee to make another study of possibilities of opening Avenue Q to a full 100-foot width between Nineteenth and Thirty-fourth streets. At the present time there are many variations in the width, narrowing to little more than a lane, for which there is no right-of-way, toward the south end of the thoroughfare.

The bond of Guy H. Gilstrap as a general contractor was approved.

City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr., was authorized to proceed with the printing of city electric ordinances in pamphlet form. He was directed also to select the personnel for the operation of city swimming pool in Mackenzie state park which will be opened during the latter part of May.

Present at the commission meeting were Mayor Carl E. Slaton and Commissioner W. H. Price, Hub Jones and J. O. Jones.

Watson Funeral Set Sunday At Dimmitt

AMHERST, April 22. (Special)—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Eufalah Watson, 45, who died here yesterday, will be held in the school auditorium in Dimmitt at 2:30 p. m. Sunday. The Rev. Bob Huckelby of Amarillo will officiate. He will be assisted by the Rev. U. S. Sherrell of Dimmitt, which has been Mrs. Watson's home for the past four year. The burial will take place in the Plainview cemetery.

The service was transferred from the Methodist church to the school auditorium when it became clear that the church would be too small to seat all of those who will attend the funeral. The Rix Funeral home of Lubbock is in charge.

Three From Plains Among LAFS Grads

The commencement exercises of the first graduating class of the Lubbock Army Flying school since Col. Ralph E. Holmes assumed command were held at 10 a. m., yesterday in the Post theater. Three young men of the South Plains, two of them Lubbock residents, were members of the class. They were Allen O. Hammer and Walter W. Wilkins of Lubbock and Aggie M. Thornton of Brownfield. They were commissioned as second lieutenants.

Colonel Holmes, U. S. Senator Carl E. Hatch of New Mexico, whose son, Stewart A. Hatch, was a member of the class, spoke briefly. The invocation was pronounced by Chaplain Aubrey C. Halsell. The officers' oath was administered by Capt. Russel D. Shively, post secretary. Capt. Gordon J. Mott, director of ground training conferred wings upon the honor graduate, Albert C. Bracke, Atchison, Kas., and Capt. Thomas O. Marshall, commander of the 497th two-engine flying training squadron, conferred wings on the other members of the class.

The program closed with the class singing the air corps song and the LAFS band, directed by Warrant Officer George P. Attridge, playing the "Star-Spangled Banner."

Location Staked On Hale Wildcat

Wildcat oil operations, now prevalent throughout Texas, is growing in the South Plains. Yesterday the Amerada Petroleum company staked the location for an 11,000-foot Ordovician test in extreme eastern Hale county, 10 miles southeast of Plainview. It is the No. 1 W. W. Kurfees, 660 feet out of the northwest corner of Section 6, Block NH&OB survey. It is on a seimograph "high" outlined by Amerada.

Slaughter field activity was increased with the completion of four new producers, three in Cochran and one in Hockley county. The Honolulu-Saltmount's No. 1-14 Blake, extending the Cochran part of the field one-half mile southwest, flowed 1,602.92 barrels of oil daily after acidizing with 10,000 gallons in pay lime from 5,069 to 5,091 feet, the total depth.

Others In Cochran

Also in Cochran, the Superior Oil company's No. 6 Carrie Slaughter Dean flowed 357.28 barrels daily after acidizing in the pay zone from 4,925 to 4,995 feet, the total depth. Jerry C. Hawlins' No. 44-A Mallet Land & Cattle company was treated with 11,500 gallons in pay from 4,895 to 4,993 feet, total depth, and flowed 552 barrels of oil daily.

On the Hockley side, the Falcon company's No. 4 T. E. Grant was completed at 4,935 feet for a daily flow of 532.80 barrels after acidizing with 8,000 gallons in pay lime topped at 4,900 feet.

In the Wasson field, southern Yoakum county, the Belfort Oil company's No. 4 J. T. Herd pumped 306.16 barrels of oil per day plus 6 per cent water, after a 280-quart nitro shot. It is bottomed at 5,145 feet.

Former Michigan Governor Dies

CHARLOTTE, Mich., April 22. (AP)—Luren D. Dickinson, former governor of Michigan whose campaigns against gambling, drinking and vice drew nationwide attention, died today. He was 84 years old last Thursday.

Dickinson died quietly of a "Severe" heart attack suffered Wednesday. His physician, Dr. H. Allen Moyer, had kept him under opiates until the time of his death.

Served Six Times

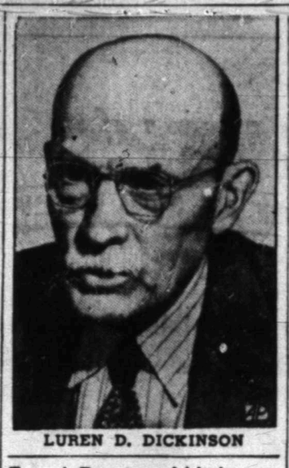

Dickinson's death brought to an end a career during which he served six times as Michigan's lieutenant governor, establishing a record for tenure in that office. Shortly after beginning his seventh term, the death of Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald catapulted Dickinson into the executive's chair. Routed from a sick bed, he took the oath of office March 16, 1939, a month before his 80th birthday.

An ardent Methodist and longtime pillar of Michigan's anti-Saloon league, the frail, wispy Charlotte Republican employed the governorship to further his lifelong campaign against vice, immorality and liquor. He filled official speeches with Biblical passages and boasted he had a "pipeline to God" to guide administrative actions.

Assailed "High Life"

Dickinson won nation-wide publicity shortly after the 1939 governor's conference at Albany, N. Y., when he came home to assail Eastern "high life" at the lavish conference, spicing his remarks with charges that innocent girls had been led to the "brink of hell" by glib sophisticates whom he termed "social brutes." The "rum and ruin" diatribe led Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York to call him a "senile old fool."

Dickinson weathered the storm serenely, said his mail was 20 to 1 in favor of his stand, and went on governing six days a week and on Sundays teaching Sunday school at Eaton Center Methodist church, a task he relished from youth to old age.

Corsicana Man Faces Charge After Attack On Revenue Collector

DALLAS, April 22. (AP)—Collector of Internal Revenue W. A. Thomas said today the first instance of violence in opposition to the collection of taxes in this district during his eleven years in office occurred at Corsicana in an altercation between a field deputy and a citizen upon whose bank account the staff member had levied.

Thomas said both participants in the altercation were considerably bruised at the finish.

The collector of internal revenue reported the alleged action to Assistant U. S. Attorney John Erhard who asked the Federal Bureau of Investigation to handle the case, and said a complaint would be authorized against the citizen.

Thomas added that the resisting citizen would be brought here for a hearing before U. S. Commissioner John Davis.

Bond Buying Without Worker Calls Urged

Don't wait for members of the Second War Loan drive committee to call on you if you plan to help during the campaign.

This is the request of Neil H. Wright, general chairman. He explained he has received reports that a number of people have remarked that they want to buy bonds, but that no one has called upon them.

The chairman explained that practically all the buying thus far has been done voluntarily without urging from drive committee members. It has been the voluntary purchasing which has sent Lubbock county more than a million dollars beyond its $3,700,000 quota. It is desired, he said, that the buying continue on this basis, as nearly without pressure as possible.

Therefore, he urged that, if you intend to buy bonds, to do so without awaiting personal call.

The rickshaw was invented by a U.S. Marine who visited Japan in 1854 with Commodore Perry.

Oklahoma Citians Stage New 'Run' On State Pioneer Day

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 22. (U.P.)—Oklahoma Citians staged a new kind of "run" today on the 54th anniversary of the run into Oklahoma territory in 1889.

The "run" was to bank and store war bond booths.

The office of H. C. Jones, federal collector of internal revenue and state war savings administrator, reported that "we've been unable to meet the demand so far today."

The Liberty National bank—the only one here remaining open on Pioneer day — reported it was "swamped" with bond customers. Bond buyers packed the basement, where the bond booth is located, and formed a line extending up the stairway into the bank's lobby.

Stores reported their bond sales clerks were "running behind" and that buyers were having to wait—with a minimum of grumbling, too.

Jones' war bond aids expressed belief that the announcement late yesterday of Japanese executions of American fliers had added impetus to the bond sales.

Retail Sales During March Show Decline

AUSTIN, April 22. (U.P.)—Texas retail sales during March decreased 11 per cent under the level for February, the University of Texas bureau of business research reported here today. However, sales were 33.6 per cent higher than for March 1942.

For the month 50.9 per cent of sales were on credit, compared with 64.3 per cent for the corresponding month of 1942.

One Man Drowns, One Missing As Tug Sinks

ORANGE, April 22. (AP) — The body of one man drowned in the sinking of the tug Pan III in the Sabine river at the intercoastal canal was recovered and a search was underway today for another crew member believed drowned.

Divers found the body of George H. Thomas 30, yesterday. N. B. Bowyer was still missing. The craft capsized in 30 feet of water while en route to Texas City with three loaded barges. The other seven members of the crew swam to safety.

Bowyer was said to have enlisted at New Orleans. Neither his home address nor that of Thomas was available.

Both Afrikaans and English are recognized as official languages in the Union of South Africa.

Yanks, Bosox Make Successful Debut

Weatherly's Double In Late Rally Gives New York Victory

NEW YORK, April 22. (AP)—The New York Yankees weren't able to get their American league pennant raised today, because of a broken halyard on the centerfield flagpole, but they managed to win their opening game from the Washington Senators 5-4 before 5,860 fans.

It was Roy Weatherly, the little centerfielder obtained from Cleveland to fill the vacancy left by Joe DiMaggio's entry into the Army, who clinched the victory.

With the Yankees trailing by one run, the bases loaded and one out in the last of the ninth, Weatherly delivered a DiMaggio touch by doubling into left field for two runs and the ball game.

Joe Gordon Homers

Big Ernie Bonham of the Yanks and Early Wynn of the Senators waged a scoreless pitching duel for the first four innings of the game, but an error by Joe Gordon, trying for a double play, gave Washington a run in the fifth.

The Yanks scored twice in their half of the same inning on a walk and three singles by Nick Etten, John Lindell and George Stirnweiss.

Another error, this time by Stirnweiss, enabled the Senators to tie the score—George Case getting on base on a fumble, stealing second and scoring on a single by Stan Spence.

Joe Gordon then smashed the season's first home run in the major leagues to put the Yankees ahead again, but the Senators refused to give up easily.

Son Hurlers Wild

Mickey Vernon walked to open the ninth and after two were out, Johnny Sullivan singled, Gene Moore batted for Wynn and also singled to score Vernon and Ellis Clary doubled Sullivan home, forcing Johnny Murphy to relieve Bonham to get the final put out.

However, Mickey Haefner and Owen Schettz, rookie hurlers who shared the ninth inning mound chore for Washington, were wild and let the Yanks load the bases without a hit ahead of Weatherly's double.

The crowd which saw Mayor LaGuardia throw out the first ball was the smallest inaugural turnout in the history of Yankee stadium.

HUGHSON BEATS FLORES

PHILADELPHIA, April 22. (AP) A line drive double by Pete Fox in the fourth inning was converted into a 1-0 victory for the Boston Red Sox today as Tex Hughson and Jess Flores opened the American league season here with a brilliant pitching duel before 4,553 at Shibe park.

Hughson, a 20-game winner for the Red Sox last year, allowed three hits and Flores, rookie from Los Angeles, gave only two before yielding to a pinch-batter in the Athletics' eighth. Roger Wolff set down Boston in order in the ninth.

Penn Middle Distance Star To Run Today

PHILADELPHIA, April 22. (AP) —Take all 2,500 athletes competing in the Penn Relays tomorrow and pick the one who looks the least like a great runner, and you'd probably hit upon a bespectacled, 19-year-old divinity student named Jeffrey Kirk.

But the experts say Kirk is potentially "another Ted Meredith (the old-time Olympic champ)" and may develop into one of the fastest middle distance runners of all time.

The quiet, scholarly Penn sophomore gets the first big test of his career in these 49th annual relays, and Coach Lawson Robertson has picked Kirk to run anchor in the 880 and mile medleys.

"He's tall (6 ft.), strong, and has a long powerful stride and plenty of endurance," Robertson said. "He's one of the most promising boys I've seen, and when he hits his peak in another two or three years I won't be surprised if he's among the best of all time."

Kirk now runs the 880 in 1.57.2 and the 440 in 48.2.

Vander Meer, Off To Good Start, Expects Early Call In Draft

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 22. — If Johnny Vander meer is inducted into the Army on May 8, as now tentatively scheduled, there will be considerable conjecture as to what the Cincinnati southpaw might have achieved on the mound during the full season of 1943.

Vander Meer, who gained baseball immortality in 1938 by pitching two consecutive no-hit, no-run games, indicated yesterday that he was ready for a big season when he limited the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals to two singles in 11 innings.

As the Reds blanked the Cards, 1-0 at Cincinnati, the "Dutch Master" held the champions hitless with his fireball for the game's last eight innings. Which is mighty fine pitching in any contest, and sensational in a season-opener.

Checks Cleveland

Early in the exhibition season, some of the Cincinnati fans began to fear that big Johnny's prospects for 1943 might have soured. That was after the Indianapolis Indians collected seven hits off him in six innings at Bloomington, Ind., on April 7. Four of the blows were triples.

On April 11, Johnny soothed the fretful ones by holding Cleveland to two unearned runs and four hits in seven innings at Indianapolis.

Yesterday, he convinced everyone that he is groomed to go places this season, and that he would be an important factor in the Reds' pennant campaign—were it not for his date with Uncle Sam.

Faded In 1939

This might have been the best season of Johnny's topsy-turvy career—a career that saw him register 15 victories against 10 defeats with Cincinnati in '38, then fade with arm trouble to five and nine in '39; then to six and four with Indianapolis and three and one with Cincinnati during the '40 season. He improved with Cincinnati in '41, winning 16 against 13, and last season he registered 18 and 12. He led the league in strikeouts in '41 and '42.

Draft board officials at Ridgewood, N. J., disclosed Monday that the speedy portsider had been reclassified into 1-A a month ago, and that he already had passed his preliminary physical examination.

If and when the big Dutchman starts tossing hand grenades against the Japs, you can bet he won't be trying for no-hitters.

Giles Insists New Ball Below Specifications

CINCINNATI, April 22. (U.P.) — Charges by Warren C. Giles, vice president of the Cincinnati Reds, that the new official baseball is not up to specifications, were brought to the attention of Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis today.

Giles said he was speaking as "business head of a ball club" and not as a member of the committee which set for specifications for the ball. He was one of three National league executives on the committee.

Reds Blank Cards Again, 1-0

Starr Gives Up Only Five Hits

CINCINNATI, April 22. (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds claimed their fourth straight extra-inning, one-run victory today—two exhibition and two regular — as Ray Starr took full advantage of the new dehydrated ball to blank the World Champion St. Louis Cardinals again, 1-0.

The ten-inning decision gave the Cards, once the slugging terrors of the National league, 21 consecutive scoreless innings, 11 of them yesterday at the mercy of Johnny Vander Meer.

Lonnie Frey opened today's tenth inning with a single and went to second on Mike McCormick's sacrifice. Max Marshall singled to right and made second on the throw home, although Frey pulled up at third. Then Frank McCormick received Ernie White's third intentional pass of the day. Eddie Miller popped to Ray Sanders, but Bert Haas singled Frey in with the ball game.

"Pitcher's Year"

The ball game demonstrated again, as if all yesterday's shutout victories already hadn't, that unless the new baseballs get hard pretty soon, this is a pitchers' year.

The Reds have an even dozen hits and two runs to show for 21 innings and the Cards seven hits and no runs. The Reds won two overtime exhibition games from the Cleveland Indians over last week end.

Texas Nine Wins From Rice, 8-6

AUSTIN, April 22 (AP)—University of Texas swept its baseball series with Rice Institute with an 8-6 victory today, despite an Owl uprising that threatened to upset the applecart in the ninth.

With the Steers leading 8 to 4, William Croucher and Pete Sultis singled in succession. Vogt was safe on a fielder's choice that caught Sultis, then Relief Pitcher Bob Dalzell walked Bill Sheehan to fill the bases.

Jim Collins, ace of the Texas mound staff who has been called from the Army Enlisted Reserve corps to active duty, rushed out to the mound and hit Virgil Eikenberg, Rice second baseman with the first pitch, allowing Croucher to score. Collins struck out Vinson Buckley, then walked Pitcher John Fox to allow Vogt to score. Frank Akin, first baseman, grounded out to end the game.

Different from Wednesday's opener in which Texas ran up a 19-2 margin with comparative ease, today's contest saw the Owls bidding for their sole victory in Southwest conference play.

By their victory, the Longhorns meet Texas A. and M. at College Station next Friday and Saturday for the conference championship. The teams are tied in play so far, having beaten each other once and won four games apiece from Rice.

Several Service Stars In Drake Track Meet

For Saturday's Regional Meet At Canyon—

Three Westerner Trackmen Lost; Brewer May Be Out

By CHOC HUTCHESON
Avalanche Sports Writer

Almost on the eve of Saturday's regional meet at Canyon, Coach E. J. "Pinky" Lowrey's Lubbock High track team was hit a four-ply blow yesterday with the discovery of the following bits of information:

1. Hubert Bechtol, the team's top hurdler who was counted on for points in both timber-topping events at Canyon, has quit the team.

2. Bob Brewer, crack dash man, may not be able to compete because of an attack of influenza.

3. E. L. Snodgrass, Lowrey's second best half miler, is scholastically ineligible as is . . .

4. Jack Norwood, who recently took first place among Westerner track candidates in an intra-squad high-jumping contest.

Moore Still Ready

Whether Brewer, one of the team's three lettermen, will be able to make the trip to Canyon will not be known until late today. Yesterday he showed a slight improvement in condition, and Lowrey thought last night that there is a "50-50" chance of his competing in the regional carnival.

If Brewer does not run Saturday, either Phil Ragland or Billy Cope will replace him on the Westerners' spring relay team, Lowrey said.

Loss of Bechtol and possible loss of Brewer left little Burl Gene Moore the lone "sure fire" point getter on Lowrey's squad. Moore, standout quarter miler, should either take the 440-event or push the winner all the way, observers say. In fact, the diminutive LHS flier is even nursing slight hopes of hanging up a new regional record.

Lowrey plans to take about 20 men to the regional meet, but has not yet announced his selections.

News Bound To Leak; Now Bells Can Ring

LONDON, April 22. (AP)—Amid loud laughter, Prime Minister Churchill ventured the opinion in the House of Commons today that news of "anything like a serious invasion would be bound to leak out" in Britain although the ringing of churchbells has been abandoned as an invasion warning.

Churchill announced yesterday that beginning with Good Friday churchbells would be permitted to ring for the first time since 1940 for Sunday services and religious holidays.

Dupre, Bean Leaders Local Softball League

Dupre and Bean elementary schools' softball teams moved to the front in the local grade school softball circuit yesterday as they chalked up their second successive victories of the young season.

Dupre edged out Hunt's hustlers 11-9, while Bean bested Sanders by a 9-4 count. In yesterday's only other game, K. Carter moved into a third place tie in the standings by downing Roscoe Wilson, 14-11. Central Ward drew a second round bye.

Billy Tatum and Owen Hamilton combined their pitching talents to give Dupre its triumph over Hunt. Jerry McDaniel was the losing pitcher.

D. L. Nickelson hurled K. Carter to its victory over Roscoe Wilson, with J. T. Jones being charged with the loss. Marlin Smith, jr., Wilson's regular moundsman, did not see action because of a foot injury.

Winning pitcher in the Bean-Sanders fracas was Gilbert Mauldin, with R. J. Matheny the losing hurler.

The third round of the round robin schedule will be played Tuesday.

Ortiz Arrives In Fort Worth For Title Bout

FORT WORTH, April 22. (AP) — Bantamweight Champion Manuel Ortiz blew into town today for his title fight with Lupe Cordoza and found $5,000 worth of tickets already had been sold.

Ortiz and Cordoza, both Californians who have met before, will battle at Will Rogers Coliseum next Wednesday night under sponsorship of the four Fort Worth Lions clubs.

The fighters will receive 50 per cent of the gate in war bonds, the ramainder will go to the Light house for the Blind and there will be a bond sale at the ringside to raise $175,000 for purchase of a Liberator bomber.

Dickie Griffin, who was a top-flight bantamweight fighter more than 20 years ago, being forced to retire from the ring because of blindness brought about by being struck in the eye, is matchmaker. He estimates that the total gate will go over $20,000.

The bout here next Wednesday will be the second world's championship fight in Texas history. The first was in 1936 when Petey Sarron met Baby Manuel at Dallas for the featherweight crown.

The CHIROPRACTOR-and You

No. 13 of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of Chiropractic.

CASE HISTORY No. 827. A 13-year-old girl who had suffered with psoriasis for eight years. Face, ears, neck and almost every part of the body, was covered with scaly lesions. Hospitalization, serum injections external applications of many kinds had been tried, but the condition persisted. When she first visited a Chiropractor the child was a pitiable sight. The spine was X-rayed and a nerve blockage causing metabolic disfunction (chemical imbalance) was revealed. Adjustments were begun to release the nerves, and within a short time the lesions began to peel off and disappear. On her thirteenth birthday all trace of psoriasis had left the child's skin, with the exception of a few spots above the knees, and these last traces disappeared within a few days.

CASE HISTORY No. 542. A young man barely 18 years old who had been advised that his condition of epilepsy was incurable. Epileptic fits had grown in frequency since he was nine years old, and all efforts had failed to restore normal health. He visited a Chiropractor as "a last chance", and on April 7th the first spinal adjustments were begun. He has not had a single epileptic seizure since and has improved remarkably in health and outlook.

CASE HISTORY No. 38. A nine-year-old boy with a lengthy record of sickness. At age three his tonsils and adenoids had been removed. When three and a half he had kidney trouble. At the age of six he was suffering from rheumatismal edema and rheumatic fever. At seven he developed chorea, or St. Vitus Dance, which continued for a year and forced his removal from school. His mother was persuaded to take the boy to a Chiropractor. A spinal analysis revealed severe nerve pressure, apparently the result of an instrument birth, and adjustments were commenced. After several adjustments the boy was able to return to school with an appreciable gain in weight, and has been well ever since.

WHAT IS CHIROPRACTIC? Chiropractic is based on the fact that the brain is the human power house. It creates vital energy. Without brain energy no organ or part of the body can function. Brain energy is transmitted over the body's network of nerves. These nerves radiate from the spine, and it is in the spine that the nerves can be "pinched" by vertebrae, and the flow of energy over them impeded or cut off. When, in this way, the connection is broken between brain and one or more parts of the body, disease is the inevitable result. By skillful analysis and precise spinal adjustments, the Chiropractor is able to locate and release impinged nerves, and restore an uninterrupted flow of brain energy to the part affected. Health follows naturally.

OUR PLEDGE

WE pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands; One Nation, indivisible, with Liberty and Justice for all.

Help Assure Full Vengeance!

JUST one dedication is possible for the American people as their reply to the executions of some of our Tokyo raid pilots.

The American people must make sure that, regardless of all other matters, these men shall not have died in vain. If our nation should fail in this determination, then its future self respect must be an apologetic pretense. If those men cannot be avenged, and if they are not avenged, then we don't deserve to be a free nation.

It would be entirely pointless to expound upon the enormity of the utterly defenseless crime commited by our enemies. All of us are fully conscious of that. Words are peculiarly empty in such matters. Only by action can there be revenge. And most Americans can act.

True, few can do more than just a little. But if most Americans will do just a little that is dedicated specifically to those who were murdered, the aggregate will be something tremendous. Perhaps most Americans can do no more than buy an extra war bond or more war stamps. Perhaps they can do no more than save a little more of vital materials, or collect a little more scrap, or put extra hours into essential work. But if all Americans will do as much as they can, the total will be sufficient to have important bearing on the war. It will hasten the day of vengeance. It will hasten new raids upon Japan which the enemy has sought to prevent by a ruthlessness that has been unsurpassed in its brutality in the history of warfare.

Of course the Japs won't frighten this nation, or any part of it, into desisting from future raids. Probably if there should be a call for volunteers for new raids upon Tokyo today, every man in all our flying services would be clamoring for the chance.

But all Americans should share in collecting vengeance. Few of us actually can drop the bombs, but all of us can have a part in helping to make the dropping of bombs possible.

Unless all of us do have a part, then we have failed the men who died.

The Rubber Situation

THE position of the Office of War Information in its most recent squabble with Rubber Director William Jeffers will be weakened somewhat in the minds of those who recall a previous row between the two.

In the most recent controversy, Elmer Davis, head of OWI, announced that tires "might" be available to civilians by late in 1944. Jeffers retorted, in substance, that Davis didn't know what he was talking about and that a few tires should be available this year, and that "the rubber crisis should be behind us by mid-summer of 1944."

On a previous occation several months ago Mr. Davis was highly indignant because Mr. Jeffers issued a statement without consulting and without obtaining permission from OWI. Dr. Davis did not question the accuracy of the statement, and he did not make clear just why he thought OWI permission should have been obtained before releasing the statement. In the more recent controversy, Davis gives the impression that he still suffers from the irritations of previous disagreements.

To most people, things of this kind are disgusting. They don't care who gives out the news—so long as it is reported accurately. In this instance, petty squabbling merely clouds the picture and adds to confusion. However, the logical supposition would seem to be that Mr. Jeffers is in better position to speak with authority regarding rubber than is the propagandizing agency headed by Mr. Davis.

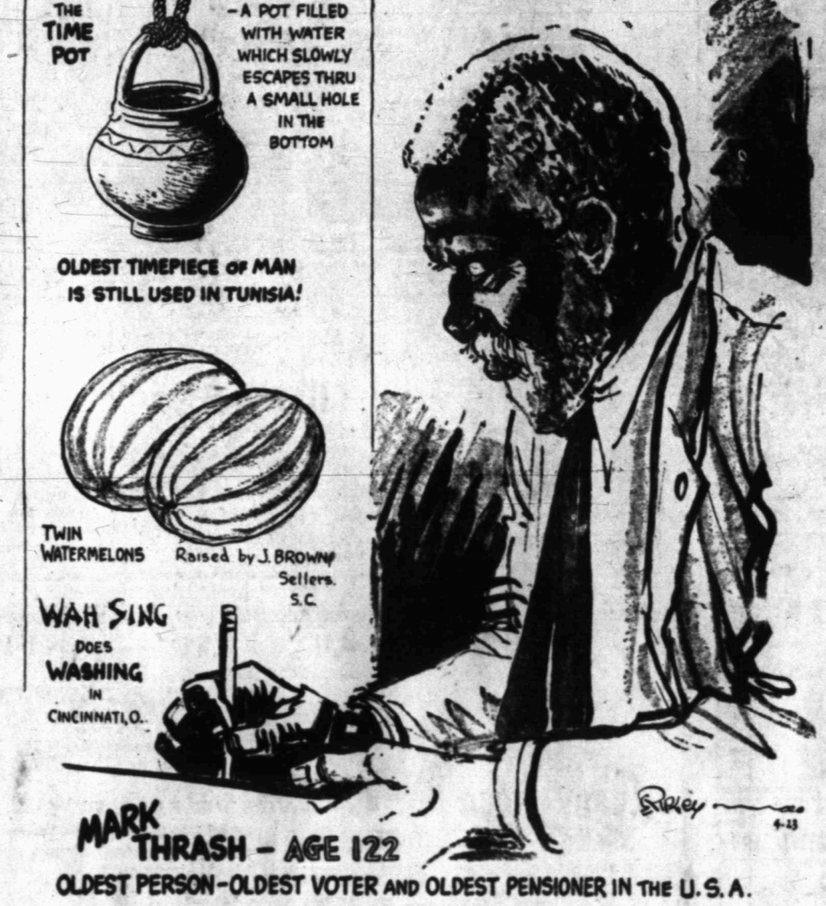

A man who jilted a midget is being sued for $50,000. A midget's heart, it seems, can be broken into as many pieces as one of standard size.

The nearest thing to a "death-ray" we ever came in contact with was the glare our old schoolmaster used to aim at us over his steel-rimmed glasses.

Chapter 6

"Oh, a deal, is it?" Jones inquired thinly. He twisted up his forehead in a corrugated frown, but the gambler continued to sit there and grin and Tubac grew vaguely uneasy. Plainly this was no ordinary tinhorn and, if sounded right, might reveal a few things Jones could use in his business. So he dragged out a smile that was bland as the gambler's. "What kind of a deal?" he asked, and lackwater Bill chuckled slyly.

"Just a deal," he said, "that'll put the skids under that slick banker, Haines. We'll fold that bank up like an accordion."

"How you figurin' to do it?"

"It's just the kind of dumb play he loves, and he'll gulp it down hook, line and sinker."

Jones said: "It must be gold, the way you're guardin' it."

"Dead center, Mr. Jones: I can see you're a man of perception. Gold it is. When you bait your hook for a banker, gold's the only thing you can use."

Tubac grunted. "Don't make a story out of it! Just give me the works an' get a wiggle on."

"Hmmm. Great notions aren't hatched in a moment. And, besides, I said a 'deal'."

Blackwater Bill leaned forward. "I want a half interest in this ranch."

Jones grumbled, "Ill give you a half—if the deal comes off."

"Now look—" said Blackwater suavely, "the first thing to do is for you to take all your money and put it in the bank."

"In the bank!" Jones cried, and looked the gambler hard in the eye. "You must think I'm green."

"You want to bust that bank or don't you?"

"Sure I—But—when, go on.

"You leave it—"

"Yeah," Tubac said sarcastically. "Ill leave it all right."

"You put all that money in the bank—every penney you can get your hands on. A thousand, if you can. I've got a few hundred that I'll chuck in, too. As you're so rightly suspicioned, under normal circumstances you'd never see a cent of it again. Haines would manage that, somehow. But—" and Blacwater Bill smiled thinly, "the circumstances aren't going to be normal. Before Haines gets around to pulling anything we'll yank our money out again and leave his bank with crepe on the door!"

Jones shook his head. "Mebbe I'm just an ignorant saddle bum but that play don't look very bright to me. Even if we're lucky enough to git our mazuma out of his clutches, how's that goin' to bust his bank? He'll still have as much as he had before—as he's got right now."

"I guess you're forgetting. I said the circumstances won't be normal. When we pull that money out of there we'll start a run that'll make that wing-footed god look anchored."

"You musta been smokin' rattleweed to think up anything hairbrained as that! No thank you, Mister Blackwater Bill. My money's a heap safer right in my pocket!"

"You talk like a fool," declared the gambler scornfully. "I tell you this is a sure-fire thing. It can't miss! First, we put the money in the bank. After an interval we take it out—whether we get it or not makes little difference. We present our receipts and demand the money. Have you got that digested?"

Jones nodded.

"Fine," said Blackwater and leaned forward. "Now here's the joker. After we deposit our money, and before we go back to draw it out, we arrange matters in such a way that Haines has a need for his ready cash elsewhere. Quick's he's used it we ask for our money. Is it plain to you now?"

"It's plain," Jones said, "that I'll lose my money—'

"You might. I don't think you will, but you might. Even so, what's two or three thousand? Ain't it worth that much to bust Haines flat—and maybe that Stampede crowd along with him?"

There was a glint in Black water's eyes as he said, "I happen to know Haines has put considerable money into X & L Mines—bought all the stock he could get. On margin. If the market fluctuates—"

"It won't," Jones predicted. "I know them mines. They're at Pearce an' sound as a rock!"

"As a matter of fact, they're sounder," smiled Blackwater. "But the stock and the mines are two different things."

"I know all about stocks!" Jones cut in grimly. "I learned about stocks from a expert! But it takes hard cash to force stock—"

"We don't have to force it up. All we've got to do is sell Haines the impression it's being forced up—"

"An' how are you goin' to do that?"

"Just you leave it to me. Once Haines is convinced someone's monkeyin' with that stock he'll move heaven and earth to save his shares. He knows those mines are good well as you do! That's what I'm counting on. He'll not want to see his shares wiped out, even if it means he's got to dip into his bank for the money to save them. And when he dips—"

Blackwater Bill spread his hands and smiled.

Jones, staring bug-eyed, suddenly laughed. "You're a genius!" he cried, slapping his thigh. "I believe it'll work—"

"It will work all right. Now the first thing to do," said Blackwater briskly, "is to get our deposit money into the bank—how much of a stake have you got altogether?"

Tubac got out his wallet and thumbed through his pile. "Twenty-five hundred eighty-seven dollars and fifty-four cents."

"And mine tots up to fourteen hundred. I'll put in a thousand and with twenty-five hundred from you we'll have a grand investment total of thirty-five hundred dollars. That should be enough to cook him. Here you are," said Blackwater smiling. "You better grab a bite and start right back—"

"To town?" asked Jones incredulously.

"Certainly!" Blackwater eyed him impatiently. "You will be in no danger whatever. They won't be expecting you back so soon."

Reported As Missing, Man Writes Parents

The mail Thursday brought good news for Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Reese, sr., of near Shallowater.

It was a letter from their son, Lt. A. F. Reese, jr., who was reported missing in action March 28 in North Africa by the War department.

Lt. Reese's letter was dated April 4 and was written from a Red Cross station. It apparently contained information regarding his whereabouts in the seven intervening days but this had been censored from the letter.

The Reeses are now anxiously awaiting details of their son's return to his lines after being reported missing by the War department.

Senator Hatch Talks At Kiwanis Luncheon

U. S. Senator Carl A. Hatch of New Mexico told Kiwanians gathered at Lubbock hotel for their Thursday luncheon he believes the present generation is strong enough to prevent civilization from destroying itself in war. He said he believes now is the time to start winning the war, the peace, and the victory forever over aggression against smaller and powerless nations.

Earlier in the day, Sen. Hatch had spoken briefly to graduates of a class of flying cadets at Lubbock Army Flying school.

Sen. Hatch shared the program with Dr. Harold G. Cooke, Methodist evangelist, who briefed his talk in order to surrender more time to the senator. George Kuykendall, former neighbor of Hatch in Clovis, presented the speaker. Both are Kiwanians.

Sen. Hatch said the United States is the only nation on earth that can take the lead in the now well-defined move by the U. S. Senate to form a union of the nations to prevent wars and guarantee victory and the peace. He is one of five senators, two Republicans and three Democrats forming a Senate committee to draft the resolution and introduce it on the floor.

He paid unstinted tribute to the leadership, military and civil governmental, which the United States is projecting at this time to see "that the mistakes we made 20 years ago are not repeated following the winning of this war."

Declaratory Judgment Bill Passes In Senate

AUSTIN, April 22 (U.P.) — Texas courts are authorized to issue declaratory judgments in terms of a bill sponsored by Rep. S. J. Isaacks of El Paso which was passed finally in the Senate today on motion of Sen. Rudolph Weinert of Seguin.

The bill, which has been endorsed by the El Paso bar associations and by many leading lawyers, authorized courts to enter judgments declaring the rights of parties to a suit, without attaching to that judgment any consequential or coercive relief.

In effect, it permits a court to say what it would decide is the law under a specific statement of facts.

Weinert, urging Senate passage, said the procedure had been most clearly described in the Texas Bar journal in a statement that:

"Under the present law, you take a step in the dark and then turn on the light to see if you have stepped in a hole. Under the declaratory judgment law, you turn on the light and then take the step."

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THIS is a Washington story of stockings and Easter prices. It may help to explain why the nation's caital has been described as the only insane asylum operated by its inmates.

The head of the OPA Textiles and Apparel Price division is Bernard Haley, a college professor with scant experience in any trade save teaching. Recently, without prior consultation with rayon makers or retailers, he raised the specifications of the Grade A type of this hosiery so high that department stores had to cut prices of their superior stock by about 25 per cent because it didn't measure up to standard. If they had not taken this loss, they would have been guilty of violating Haley's decree.

To aggravate matters, the pedagogue ruled that the order should become effective on April 14th, a date when merchants have top-heavy inventories in preparation for Easter sales. It looked to the victims as if the commissar had deliberately set out to frisk their wallets.

So many protests roared down from Capitol Hill that Prentiss Brown postponed the date until May 14th. He will spare late April buyers but he will snag the June brides. Although he has agreed to listen to complaints at private sessions, Mr. Brown insists that he will stand by the original ukase.

Meanwhile, salesmen will submit their case to the Patman committee investigating Federal encroachments against small concerns. They may also ask the Supreme Court to pass on OPA's attempt to reorganize business — especially grading and margin practices—moves expressly barred by the Patman amendment to the anti-inflation act.

This episode affects only one piece of feminine wearing apparel, but it is typical. Bureaucrats with little understanding of clothing, meat, rent, and general living problems are still running the country's commerce.

REJECTED: While academicians manage our home affairs, well-qualified men are turned down daily by Henry Wallace's Board of Economic Warfare and by Elmer Davis's Office of War Information. Critics charge that these agencies apparently have no places for seasoned men.

A wealthy, 43-year-old New Yorker offered his services to the Wallace-Perkins bureau as soon as we invaded North Africa. As representative of an importing and exporting firm, he had spent 10 years in French Morocco and the Middle East, with headquarters in Casablanca. He speaks French, German, Italian, Spanish and Hungarian.

He knows the politics and traditions, as well as the minds of big and little people in this territory. State department officials who knew him during their tenure abroad substantiate all these statements. He could afford—and was willing—to work without pay.

He made three trips to Washington at his own expense to confer with BEW chieftains. They seemed quite impressed by his qualifications. But he was rejected a few days ago because—of all reasons—he and his corporation had such "close business connections" in that part of the globe.

A brilliant ex-newspaperman recently wrote Mr. Davis that he, too, would like to do his bit. He is married, has dependents and is not Hershey material. With him also money was no object; he would work for next to nothing. Every veteran Washington correspondent will testify to his capability. But he got this note from Elmer: "They tell me that you do not have the necessary experience."

FUMBLING: A thorough and highly confidential survey of public sentiment underlies the aggressive recalcitrant attitude which both the White House and the Congress have assumed toward organized labor in recent days. A close study of letters from soldiers on the fighting fronts further helps to explain Washington's first disciplinary action against this group since the New Deal came to the capital.

The domestic canvass was taken by the Office of War Information last November and repeated a few weeks ago. It asked whether the people thought that management, the workers and union officials were doing their utmost to win the war, with financial return as a secondary consideration.

The vote in favor of the front office was 66 per cent. For the unsung heroes in overalls it was 77 per cent. But for John L. Lewis, William Green, Philip Murray and their satellites it was only 49 per cent.

More than half the interrogated population thought the high-salaried labor bosses were fumbling and featherbedding on the greatest job the United States has ever had to do. And so do the lads overseas, according to an official study of their communications.

BLOCKS: The entertainment hit of the National Press club's weekly Saturday afternoon canteen project for United Nations soldiers, sailors and flyers was recently staged by a member of an Air Corps band. Grabbing a civilian's hat, he imitated Franklin D. Roosevelt to perfection.

It was almost too realistic for certain legislators who were present when he mimicked in a Presidential voice: "We are going to pave a road of wooden blocks to Tokyo. We could do it this year if members of Congress would only put their heads together!"

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

JESSE JONES doesn't intend to be caught asleep at the switch a second time. His department dawdled so long in building up a rubber stockpile that the Japanese snatched the Far East before we even had enough tires for military purposes.

In order not to be found unprepared to shift workers from munitions plants to private pay rolls when the war ends, the Secretary of Commerce a few months ago called together several outstanding businessmen, urged them to make their own independent arrangements for demobilization, and promised that the government would help in the research.

When socialist-minded soothsayers in the Delano "Beveridge plan" group heard of this project they told Jones they doubted that bankers, manufacturers and other economic royalists would sit down with the administration.

But such men as Paul Hoffman, president of Studebaker corporation, Thomas W. Lamont, chairman of J. P. Morgan & company, Beardsley Ruml, Treasurer of R. H. Macy, and similar topnotchers agreed to organize a civilian body, to be called the Committee for Economic Development, which would write a concrete program for making millions of private jobs after the armistice. During the past several days it has been holding progress conferences in New York.

Reconversion after the first World war was not completed until the middle of 1919. Tomorrow's transition will be mountainous in comparison. We must achieve a 135 billion dollar output, which is more than 35 per cent above that of 1940, a record peacetime period. Even optimistic capitalists admit it is the toughest assignment ever tackled by industry.

SLUMP: Most economists think Uncle Sam should stop the manufacture of weapons immediately after the fighting ends. Tapering off would not only waste money but also consume raw materials needed to replenish starved private enterprise. But a shutdown would throw thousands out of work and create pools of regional unemployment. Some of these idle persons would have war bonds and savings. Victory plant cities with real-estate crashes on their hands would not want to be saddled with new welfare loads.

Hence business experts are advocating "stake money" or "transfer bonuses"—small cash advances to discharged workers to pay their train fares home (or to sections where independent factories would be calling for men).

IT was evidently no ordinary thief who stole the automobile belonging to Gregor Jassel, violinist of the Houston Smphony Orchestra.

When the automobile was taken, two irreplaceable foreign editions of Bruckner's Fourth Symphony went with it. Absence of the score threatened the final performance of the orchestra.

And then, just as plans had been completed for getting replacements to fill in the scheduled program, the two missing were found. They had been returned—not to Jassel—but to the Houston auditorium, site of the coming concert.

Hooray For The Dog!

Every dog has his day and this one had his for 24 blocks if not for 24 hours.

In San Antonio, Johnny Garcia received a call to pick up a dog at 1302 San Fernando street. To Johnny it was just an ordinary call.

Johnny surveyed the situation, decided to climb the fence at the rear of the house to capture the dog—and about that time it ceased being an ordinary call.

The dog—without benefit of preliminary maneuvers—charged. Johhny went back over the fence with the dog after him.

The dog-catcher started for his car, but the dog cut him. Johnny circlied, and grabbed his .22 caliber rifle—but about that time the dog began circling.

Johnny took off down the street. So did the dog.

Each time the dog catcher stopped and tried to shoot something else was in the line of fire between himself and the dog.

When Johnny and the dog passed through a school playground full of children, the dog catcher was leading—but barely.

To make a long pursuit short, Johnny passed 12 blocks from where the chase started. So did the dog—but the dog got his breath first.

He came back for an encore and chased Johnny over the same 12 blocks. But about that time Johnny gained sufficient lead to pause and take aim—and the aim was true.

Johnny, true to the traditions of his job, got his dog.

ROBERT WEAR is chief of the Fort Worth office of the Office of War Information but right now he wants some information.

Specifically, he wants some information on the whereabouts of five pounds of sugar.

His wife bought the sugar with stamp number 12—and then proceded to hide it so the maid wouldn't be wasteful with it.

Then came company for dinner. Iced tea was on the table. But no sugar was in the bowl.

Mrs. Wear had forgotten where she hid the five pound sack of sugar. A thorough search of the house ensued. Still the Wears haven't found their sugar.

It's somewhere in the house—but not even the OWI chief knows where.

Finally Get Action

For almost three months, Beaumont's Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Harrington waited word from their son, Cpl. Elliott Dalton Harrington. During that time they knew nothing of his whereabouts.

Then last week they received:

Four special delivery latters.
Three air mail letters.
One cable.

The corporal, serving with the United States Army Air Forces, is getting along fine somewhere in the Middle East.

"ALIAS JIMMY VALENTINE" has plenty of work to do around the Consolidated Steel Corp., Ltd., yards in Orange.

Alias Jimmy's real name is G. W. Bird, but the nickname is given him because he controls the devices for opening approximately 25,000 locks to doors, desks, cabinets, tool boxes, automobiles and padlocks in the Consolidated yards.

Bird's daily trail takes him over many miles of the yard opening locks to which keys have been lossed or misplaced.

He carries four master keys and 28 ingenious little pieces of spring steel for opening of locks.

The picking of a lock, he says, is a science which requires knowledge of what is inside a lock—and patience.

A graduate engineer, Bird graduated to his present position because it was necessary to have a "Jimmy Valentine" and because of his ability in this line.

He started locksmithing as a hobby. Mountaing interest, however, has developed him into one of the most able of the 422 registered locksmiths in the United States.

Exit Cuspidors

Old timers who, so the janitors say, missed as often as they hit, have lost their targets in Houston's City Hall.

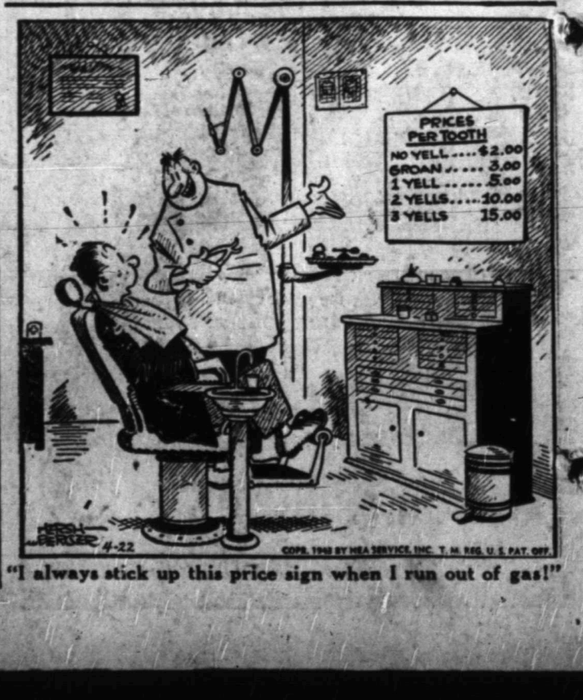

An edict of City Manager John N. Edy has had the spittoons removed and now even the satisfaction of a sporting try is gone.

In place of the spittons, Edy has had 10 cent ash trays placed on tables and desks throughout Houston's $1,500,000 city hall.

In explaining the move, Edy said the janitors met with him and asked if the cuspidors could be removed.

Wallace Speaks In Colombia Wednesday

BOGOTA, Colombia, April 22. (AP)—Vice President Henry A. Wallace presented President Roosevelt's greetings to the Colombian people here last night and then in an hour-long address said he was conviced the world was destined to become united and peaceful.

With President Alfonso Alfaro Lopet, cabinet members and diplomats in his audience, Wallace said the fundamental policy of the democracies in building for a lasting peace in the world must be to foster individual liberty tempered to permit mass unity.

It was the last important speech of the vice president's Latin-American tour which will end Saturday when he takes a plane for the United States.

CASE BEARS HEAVILY ON EX-AMBASSADOR GREW

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 22 (AP)—Joseph C. Grew, who, as ambassador to Japan had a front row seat during General Jimmy Doolittle's raid on Tokyo a year ago, today declared that "since learning of the dastardly action of the Japanese government in executing some of our armed forces who fell into Japanese hands as an incident of warfare, I have been able to think of little else."

His face clearly showing the sadness he voiced, the gray-haired Grew, now a special assistant to the secretary of state, handed newsmen a statement in which he asserted, "the American people can and will never forget this utterly barbarous act and they, with our government will demand that those Japanese responsible be brought to justice as they assuredly will be in due course."

Ninety-five per cent of the inhabitants of Honduras are a mixture of Spanish and Indian.

STOCKS HOLD STEADY

NEW YORK, April 22 (AP)—The stock market was steady today in the face of a fair amount of profit selling and rubber shares and specialties registered sizable gains.

Dealings totaled 1,240,200 shares compared with 1,141,300 the previous day. The Associated Press 60-stock average rose .1 of a point at 42.8.

Utilities had another interval of activity although their progress was small. Steels, a little ahead at one time, finished about even. Aircrafts were better and rails mixed.

Utilities continued to attract attention in the curb, and further advances were recorded by Electric Bond and Share, American Light and Traction and United Gas. Humble Oil and Pittsburgh Plate Glass were lower. Transfers here were 599,650 shares against 479,000 Wednesday.

Doolittle Pledge

that such wanton barbarity could still exist in the civilized world I could only feel a deep loathing and resentment toward the war leaders who are responsible for the act.

"Since the Japanese government has officially communicated the fact of the execution to our government there must be a futile hope in the perverted Japanese mind that the American people can be intimidated by such atrocities.

Has Opposite Effect

"Actually the Japanese announcement will have the opposite effect.

"Such hideous acts violate all our principles of right and justice and all of the things we now are fighting for.

"It was with deep regret that I learned of the President's announcement of the Japanese execution of some of our crew members who landed in Japanese-occupied China after the raid on Tokyo a year ago.

"It is unfortunate that Japanese psychology permits them to think that Americans would be anything else but fighting mad after such an announcement. It only renews our determination to do our job promptly and thoroughly. We do not seek revenge but we do want to have a fighting part in correcting a situation that threatens everything we hold dear.

Strike At Heart Of Empire

"Our job is to utterly and completely defeat the Japanese nation and everything her war lords stand for. This can only be accomplished by striking at the heart of Japan itself. We started it a year ago. Soon our bombers will be there again. Not like last year's limited effort, but a devastating attack that will continue until the Japanese empire crumbles and they beg for mercy.

"Several of our boys who went to Tokyo last year are serving here now. They, and I am sure the Tokyo boys who are in other theaters, all want to be on the next raid over Japan.

"If we are so fortunate we will drop each bomb in memory of our murdered comrades. Our bombs will not be missing their mark."

anything but the appointments were considered in the executive meeting, from which the press and public were barred.

(The constitution provides that sessions of House and Senate shall be open, except when the Senate is in executive session. Senate rules specify that gubernatorial nominations shall be considered in such executive sessions, but do not otherwise limit the subject matter of secret meetings.)

The Senate was considering House bill 9. Sens. T. C. Chaddick of Quitman, Harold Beck of Texarkana and Ben Ramsey of San Augustine proposed an amendment setting the monthly ceiling at $2,000,000. Sen. Jesse Martin of Fort Worth offered a substitute amendment making the figure $1,850,000.

This amendment was passed. Then the Senate interrupted proceedings to go into joint session with the House to hear the governor of North Dakota. Immediately upon return to the Senate chamber, Sen. Houghton Brownlee of Austin moved for the executive session, the announced purpose of which was to consider the nomination of O. B. Ratliff of Spur as member of the board of Texas Technological college, and Richard Stovall of Floydada to be district attorney of the 110th judicial district.

The body was in secret session approximately 40 minutes.

As reporters walked in the door following this session, Sen. Karl Lovelady of Meridian moved to reconsider the vote on the Martin amendment.

No debate was heard.

The motion to reconsider was passed by a voice vote.

attack on Kotka on the Finnish coast midway between Leningrad and Helsinki. A Finnish communique had reported earlier that a Soviet assault on that port was repelled by Finnish anti-Aircraft artillery.

On the front west of Moscow the Russian communique said one enemy infantry company was annihilated and three artillery and mortar batteries silenced by Russian guns. South of Belly, 80 miles northwest of Smolensk, another Soviet group killed 60 Germans and blew up two blockhouses and an artillery battery.

The Constant German attacks in the Caucasus apparently were aimed at retaining a foothold there for future operations when the ground becomes firmer and at the same time keep the Russians from employing their full strength elsewhere on the long front.

Scottish Rite Club Names New Officers

The South Plains Scottish Rite club held its annual Maundy Thursday observance at 8 p. m., last night in Hotel Hilton.

The Rev. Jack M. Lewis, principal speaker, delivered an address on "The Observance of Maundy Thursday." The opening ceremonies were conducted by Dean James M. Gordon. The invocation and the benediction were pronounced by Rabbi Isadore Garsek. DeWitt Landis addressed himself "To the memory of the departed brethren."

The following officers were elected: president, Parker F. Prouty, Lubbock; first vice-president, W. R. McDuffie, Brownfield; second vice-president, H. R. McKee, Slaton; third vice-president, DeWitt Landis, Lubbock; and secretary, E. D. Parker, Lubbock.

News Briefs

City police were called to a beauty shop last night by the report that "a lady had been hurt." The woman subsequently was locked up in the city jail. The police said she had been beaten severely, and that she had been drinking. Her divorced husband, a soldier, was turned over to the military police, city police said.

Sgt. Morgan N. Davidson, jr., son of Morgan N. Davidson, sr., of the Lubbock police department, is expected home "in about two weeks," the father said last night. Young Davidson has seen service in the southwest Pacific, including Guadalcanal, and is now in a San Diego hospital. The elder Davidson has three more sons in service, and another is expected to go soon.

a bad job and withdraw, but British infantry kept up a rain of fire and refused to allow the Germans to disengage.

It was at this point that the Germans called up their huge tank forces in an effort to cover their retiring troops, and lost 27 of them.

These tanks, too, were said to have been manned by picked crews who already had seen action at Fondouk, Kasserine pass, and Maknassy in lower Tunisia.

The First Army on Tuesday had seized a hill called "Banana Ridge" paralleling the road between Medjez-El-Bab and Tunis before the Axis launched its counterattack.

Tank Wrecks Recovered

When the Axis blow failed the First Army recovered the wrecks of the 27 enemy tanks and further consolidated its positions menacing the approaches to the Tunisian capital.

British parachute troops have been in nearly every heavy engagement in northern Tunisia.

In the recent British counter-advance along the road between Djebel Abiod to Sedjeanane they recovered in five days territory that had been lost to Axis troops in a three-week battle.

The British Eighth Army's advance in the south was slow and painful. Fighting on a 10-mile front running from the coast north of Enfidaville inland through Takrouna to the Djebel Garci sector, the men are confronted with Axis strongholds carved into hillsides and well-camouflaged.

Americans And French

United States and French troops were said to be carrying out active and penetrating patrols on sectors of the front assigned to them, but the main fighting thus far has been borne by the British First and Eighth armies.

Unfavorable weather again limited Allied air activity over the Axis-held Tunisian corner, but fighters and bombers kept up a day-long pounding of roads and airfields.

The communique reported the destruction of 14 more Axis planes during Wednesday night and yesterday at a cost of four Allied aircraft. This raised the total of Axis planes to 165 destroyed in four days.

Malta-based RAF Spitfires also knocked down four more Junker-52 transports.

tor in the Pacific situation and that once the fight to clear the Tunisian hump has been won, redoubled pressure for building up an adequate striking force against Japan would be felt.

Meanwhile, two of the participants in the Doolittle raid on Japan today branded as "a damned lie" Japanese assertions that the American fliers attacked non-combatants. Capt. Ted Lawson, of Los Angeles, and Capt. Harold F. Watson of Hartford, Conn., told of following to the letter their instructions to blast only specified military objectives.

Uniform Poultry Prices Are Set

WASHINGTON, April 22. (AP)—The Office of Price Administration today revised poultry prices throughout the country and announced "a campaign to smash the black market in poultry."

The price order, effective immediately, establishes uniform prices for each type of poultry by 1 to 10 cents per pound, but increased prices of quick-frozen eviscerated broilers and fryers by 1 1-2 to 2 cents per pound.

The new prices were based on cost at country shipping points, replacing a former system based on cost of delivery to the buyer.

OPA said the cost of poultry received by wholesalers in New York will be 35 cents a pound for grade A dressed broilers, fryers, roasters and light capons—types that account for about half of all poultry sales — compared with former ceilings ranging from 32 to 40.5 cents a pound on the same items.

Although the new order directly affects only country prices, OPA determines wholesale and retail prices by percentage markups on the country price, and officials said both wholesale and retail prices will be expected to conform to the new country prices.

Cooper And Frenship Sell $22,240 Bonds

War bond meetings in Cooper and Frenship last night resulted in a total sale of $22,240 worth of bonds. The Cooper committee previously had sold enough bonds to brig the total up to $32,740.

A total of $5,840 worth of bonds was sold by Cooper community. The local committee previously had purchased $10,500 worth, bringing the total to $16,340 for Cooper to date.

B. M. Hays introduced county superintendent of schools Roy Boyd, who introduced County Judge G. V. Pardue. Private William Boyd Crooks, of the Lubbock Army Flying school, was the principal speaker.

A similar meeting will be held in the Becton school tonight.

The meeting at Frenship resulted in the sale of $16,400 worth of bonds, L. C. Ellis, chairman of the rural section of the Lubbock county war bond sales committee, reported. The meeting, which was held at the local school, featured an interesting program, including numbers by the students. E. J. Parsons and Knox Thomas, of Lubbock, attended the meeting with Ellis.

"The statement attributed to the undersecretary of war and alleged to have been concurred in by the secretary of the interior is so serious and so directly affects the war effort and the American people, and might contribute so materially to the comfort of the enemy, that it calls for an immediate investigation to bring out the true facts for presentation to the 130,000,000 Americans referred to by the undersecretary of war."

The phrase "130,000,000 Americans" apparently referred to the contention frequently heard in military circles that Jeffers won his battles for synthetic rubber by threatening "take my story to 130,000,000 Americans."

Threats Backfire

in severely punishing American fliers who were found guilty of purposely carrying out wanton attacks on innocent civilians, hospitals and schools."

The Japanese home and empire broadcast did not include the President's denunciation of the executions as "an act of barbarity" nor did it mention his solemn promise that all officials connected with the crime against military law would be punished. Instead, they called Mr. Roosevelt's statement a "protest full of complaints" and said it was made to "provoke the fighting spirit of the American people."

The broadcasts said the President was "completely ignoring the inhuman deeds of this air force unit of his own nation" in a "desperate attempt to unify the national effort, which often tends to become disunified, by making entirely rootless accusations."

All the Japanese broadcasts somewhere took the same propaganda line—that Americans were disappointed in the results of last April's raid on Tokyo and that the government was taking countermeasures to allay that feeling.

"General Doolittle," the Tokyo radio said, "had assumed the false colors of a hero in conspiracy with President Roosevelt." Domei, with clumsy jocularity, said that "Doolittle, commander of the raid on Japan one year ago, failed to do anything, so we have the pleasure of offering him the title of 'did-little.'"

"Two can play at the same game of bombing us and we raid you. It's all part of the war, Americans." It was at this point that he interjected the warning about the "one-way ticket to hell."

Japanese Ruled By Queer Psychology

By GLENN BABB
Associated Press Analyst

The Japanese surpass all but the most primitive races in their inability to understand the minds of other peoples. In this obtuseness they even go beyond their Allies, the Germans. If they had not erred grossly in their estimate of the American mentality and spirit they probably never would have challenged the United States and there would have been no Pacific war.

A similar miscalculation explains the execution of some of the eight American airmen who fell into their hands after the Tokyo raid of April 18, 1942. They will find this was a terrible error.

GLENN BABB

The motive obviously was to terrorize. The Japanese Army has used frightfulness so often in wars against comparatively defenseless Asiatic neighbors that apparently it can not believe that it would not be an effective weapon in this globol war. Hence Tokyo follows up its admission of the killings with a broadcast boast that "every flier that comes this way has a special pass to hell." The result, of course, is a steeling of the determination of our airmen and our whole people that justice shall be done those responsible for this deed and that the war shall be carried on with all our powers until the evil military machine that rules Japan is destroyed.

Queer Psychology

Until that is done it is hard to see that reprisals could be taken. Even if we could overcome our reluctance to descend to similar acts, that would do no good. The Japanese warlords place no real value on the lives of their soldiers who fall into our hands. Their code teaches that soldier must never surrender and those who do become in effect men without a country, whose kin are called upon to expunge their names from the family rolls.

It is difficult to see how responsibility for the executions can stop short of the imperial high command. All the indications are that these killings were carried out only after considerable delay and that the circumstances were known to the highest military authorities.

Recognize No Law

Tokyo's assertion that they were "in accordance with our military law" is one more proof that the Japanese Army recognizes no law, no obligation but its own harsh, savage Samurai code. Japanese civilian governments have subscribed, in the name of the emperor, to the whole body of international pacts which tried to make war a little less horrible, just as they subscribed to the series of treaties by which the powers sought to maintain peace and stability in the Pacific. The Army, with the support of the great majority of the people, has torn them all to shreds.

We are dealing with an enemy which lives psychologically and ethically in one of the long-ago, darker ages of human evolution, which proclaims its descent from warlike, primitive gods and has turned its back on western civilization.

Only yesterday Emperor Hirohito, according to the Tokyo radio, presided over a ceremony in the military shrine of Yasukuni in which the souls of 20,000 war dead were deified and added to the national pantheon. There is little in common between that spiritual background and our own. That is not to say there never could be. Destruction of the military power and the cruel code it has imposed on some 80,000,000 people might mean their liberation to take a place among civilized nations.

Bloody Jap Record

The Japanese claim that the American airmen attacked noncombatants—false on the face of all the evidence—is advanced in bland obliviousness to the bloody record of the Japanese air force, the merciless bombing of Manila, the terrible raids on Chungking and other virtually defenseless Chinese cities. The picked fliers who gave Japan command of the air in the first months of the Pacific war were trained largely against such live targets. Only this week General Chennault, commander of the American Air force in China, an authority who should know, declared that China was being used again as the final training ground for Japanese fliers who move on to French Indo-China, Malaya and the southwest Pacific after getting experience by bombing and strafing the undefended Chinese.

Crack Nazi Units Arrive In Greece

ANKARA, Turkey, April 20. (Delayed) (AP) — Death's Head SS battalions have arrived in Athens, Greece, according to a late reliable report from a Balkan source.

This was the first time, according to this report, that these picked motorized German troops appeared in Greece. It has been indicated that these Death's Head battalions, consisting of much motorized transport, perhaps were stationed lately in southern France. They usually are sent to hot spot where the Germans fear an attack.

More Said Coming

Earlier reports indicated two new German division already had arrived in Greece and two more perhaps were coming. One of the two is reported to have taken position along the Olympus defense line.

The other is said to be taking positions along the Greek-Thracian coastline and in the mountains behind it. That the Germans were picked to defend Greece was indicated by the report that new divisional officers on April 15 took over quarters in Athens, Salonika and Larissa.

German officers are directing the distribution of the Bulgarian forces according to the Nazi defense plan. It has been reported that all leaves for German soldiers in Greece are banned and those on leave now must rejoin their regiments immediately.

Morale Of Axis Troops Is Declared Excellent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS in North Africa, April 22. (AP) — A Transocean News agency dispatch broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press today said morale of the German and Italian troops was excellent, chiefly as a result of "significant defensive successes" scored recently against superior assault forces.

It said the British Eighth army attack against the southern Axis line this week was opened by a concentration of artillery fire never before experienced—50,000 rounds falling in one small sector—but it declared the Axis positions held.

In South Africa one white man out of every seven is in the armed forces.

Dehydrated Cookery Is Newest Science For Smacking Axis

By MARGARET KERNODLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 22. — Uncle Sam has wound up to smack the Axis and its submarines with 5,000 revolutionary cookbooks.

It looks like a preview of a knockout from the kitchen. Already army cooks and bakers are conning those cookbooks as they learn how to prepare tasty dishes from dehydrated foods.

Civilians probably won't see inside one of these books for six months. Then the government may print another book, adapted from this first army edition, in a second printing of about 50,000 copies for civilian cooks.

No swanky tea or smart luncheon launched this new cookbook, but one brilliant behind-the-scenes woman in Washington said: "This book is the most important to the American viewpoint since Uncle Tom's Cabin." A lot of people who get glimpses of the book later will agree with her.

This book is "The Dehydrated Foods Cooking Manual."

The authors: Outstanding civilian food experts and the Army Quartermaster Corps.

It's such a simple looking book, so unadorned. The tan cover carries nothing beyond the name and army publication number.

But this book makes it clear that shrinking food to save space is not enough. The fighting fellows have to like the food too. And that's where all those mess sergeants and their dehydrated cook book conning come into the picture.

The book is a simple explanation of dehydration and of the proper methods of "rehydrating" foods. It is full of tables of rehydration ratios, comparative weights and measures. It also discloses the foods which can now be dehydrated successfully. It includes authoritative recipes to keep American standards of food high—even emergency rations.

Instructions for rehydrating food include explanations of how to keep certain vegetable salts, sugars, minerals and vitamins from dissolving in the water in which the foods are "reconstituted." (Reconstituted probably will be the best-known new word to come out of this war into the American kitchen. Rehydration is another.) The easiest way to save these valuable parts of food, says the experts, is to cook the foods in the same water in which they are soaked.

Other suggestions to aid dehydrated food preparation are: Handle foods rapidly after addition of water, avoiding long soaking, which may cause the food to spoil; measure vegetables into previously measured water, which should be cool or lukewarm; avoid hot water for soaking unless recipe calls for it.

Among the recipes are some for preparing and cooking apples, beets, cabbage, carrots, white potatoes, sweet potatoes, rutabagas and eggs—as well as pies, cakes and puddings made from them. The civilian book will cut the large quantities of the recipes to home kitchen size.

And here's the expert's test for tasty dehydrated food: "The finished dehydrated product should be tested for tenderness by squeezing between the thumb and finger or by cutting with a fork. If the product is firm and rubbery, additional simmering is required. The products should neither be served nor further processed by frying or baking until they have first become tender and plump in the rehydration simmering process."

Nourishing Meat Alternates Make Taste-Tempting Meals

BY LOUISE BENNETT WEAVER
Associated Press Food Editor

A little advance planning will be a lot of help to kitchen quartermasters in solving their rationed meat problems during the Easter holiday season, when youngsters home from school are likely to bring home guests without warning.

Make out a list of menus with a variety of nourishing meat alternates as a basis for mapping your campaign to provide the family with nourishing, taste-tempting meals.

It's a good idea to plan your tentative menus before shopping so that any one of the several kinds of meat or meat alternates will fit. If you buy your meat first, you can learn to build your meal with quick adaptation around the kind of meat that you can get.

Keep stocked with such alternates as baked beans, lima beans, eggs, cheese, nuts and milk. And remember that some of the most nutritious cuts of meat are in the low-point class. These are the so-called variety meats: Liver, heart, kidneys, sweetbreads, shanks, hocks, pork feet and knuckles. Many of these are also dollars-and-cents bargains. When available, fish and fowl can easily carry the meat burden for 4 or 5 meals a week.

Kidneys are very good in other dishes than stew. Many families consider kidney stew a "must" for Sunday morning breakfast.

KIDNEYS HUNGARIAN make a nutritious main dish for supper, dinner or luncheon. Wash 2 mutton or lamb kidneys. Split and discard outer skin and tough membranes. Soak 30 minutes in cold, salted water to cover (2 tablespoons salt to each 2 cups water). Drain. Cut in inch pieces and brown slightly in 4 tablespoons melted fat. Add 2 tablespoons minced onions, ½ cup diced celery, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons cream and 2/3 cup chicken stock or bouillon. Simmer 5 minutes, stirring frequently. Serve on hot boiled rice.

Versatile liver comes out in a new dish when made into SAVORY LIVER AND VEGETABLES. Here is a wholesome food, easy to make and economical. Use 1 pound sliced beef liver, 4 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1/3 teaspoon pepper and 1/3 cup chopped salt pork. Wash liver in cold water. Wipe with soft cloth. Sprinkle with flour, salt and pepper and brown well in pork heated in frying pan. Transfer liver to shallow, buttered baking dish. Then, in another pan, put 1 cup each diced cooked carrots and lima beans, 1/3 cup diced celery and 3 tablespoons each minced onions and parsley. Add a crushed bay leaf, ¼ teaspoon salt and ⅛ teaspoon powdered cloves. Boil 2 or 3 minutes and pour over liver. Cover and bake an hour in moderate oven. Uncover and bake 10 minutes to brown the top. With a green salad and fruit dessert you have a nourishing dinner.

DICED LIVER AND APPLES make another interesting, wholesome main dish. Select a pound of diced veal, beef, lamb or pork liver. Wash in cold water and sprinkle with flour, salt and pepper. Place in buttered baking dish and cover with 1 cup sliced apples mixed with ¼ cup sliced onions, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and 1/3 cup diced bacon. Add a cup of milk. Bake, covered, 45 minutes in moderate oven. Uncover and bake 10 minutes to brown. Chicken or beef stock can replace milk.

Maple Corn Muffins

¼ cup vitamized margarine, melted; 1 cup sifted yellow cornmeal; 2 cups sifted enriched flour; 2/3 cup milk; 4½ teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt; ½ cup maple syrup; 2 eggs, slightly beaten.

Sift cornmeal, baking powder, flour and salt together. Add rest of ingredients and mix. Bake in well-greased muffin pans in a moderate oven 20 minutes. Serve warm. Yield: 1½ dozen tiny muffins or 12 medium sized.

Consider Nutrition In Grocery Buying

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

Before making out your weekly grocery order for rationed foods, study the requirements in nutrients your family needs for a week. Base this practical study on the Yardstick of Nutrition.

Because the plan calls for foods mostly by groups, there is much leeway for wartime adjustments. Here is a simplified statement of the Yardstick of Nutrition.

Milk is the item most difficult to "adjust." Milk is an outstanding source of minerals for building strong bones and teeth, and has so many other values that it is practically impossible to find a group of foods to take over its duties. Milk has varied forms—fluid, dried, evaporated, in cheese. If one kind is not available, another may serve.

Tomatoes, citrus fruit, or other vitamin-C rich food—there are many sources of this vitamin in foods. Look around for oranges or grapefruit. If you have a small amount of tomato juice to serve, a squeeze of lemon juice will run up the vitamin C value, for lemon is a rich source. Use lemon or parsley, or other good food, not as a garnish, but as essential food to be eaten.

Other fruits and vegetables are good sources of vitamin C. Raw green cabbage, for instance, and various salad greens, especially watercress, to list a few. Potatoes can be depended on for vitamin C, provided you eat plenty and cook them in their jackets.

Leafy, green or yellow vegetables—daily food plans used to call for "one or more" servings. Now, and until victory gardens come into bearing, one a day may be the more usual goal. This group of vegetables contributes to your vitamin C and particularly to your vitamin A, needed for normal sight and healthy skin. This group includes a wide range of more or less interchangeable foods, such as kale, turnip greens, beet tops, collards, and other leafy foods; broccoli, green beans, green peas, carrots, squash. If you can't get one, look for another.

Other vegetables or fruit — two or more servings are advocated in the yardstick plan. Here fit in your fresh food available. Call on your point ration book to piece out only if you have to.

Meat, poultry, fish, eggs, sometimes dried beans or peas, soybeans, cheese, nuts—here are main dish foods rich in protein which the body needs for building and repairing tissues.

HOW TO MAKE MEAT GO FARTHER AND KEEP THE FAMILY HAPPY?

HELPFUL ANSWER

A simple recipe like this... given a tempting flavor lift with FRESH, FLAKY PREMIUM CRACKERS!

MUTTON CURRY
1 pound mutton (stewing meat)
Flour
2 onions minced
2 tbs. fat
3 cups water
1 tsp. curry powder

Cut mutton in small pieces, and roll in flour. Sauté onion in fat 5 minutes. Remove onion, add brown meat in fat. Add water and onion, salt and pepper, simmer slowly until meat is tender. Add curry and thicken gravy with flour. Serve on heated Premium Crackers.

This is the trade-mark to look for on the packages of the crackers and cookies you buy. It stands for fine quality... freshness... delicious flavor. So whether it's Premium —or any other biscuit —look for the red Nabisco seal. It will never disappoint you!

Hatcheries Are Being Swamped

Lubbock baby chiik hatechries are producing about $13,000 worth of downy little birds every week. There are seven commercial plants in the city, all of them operating at capacity, which means approximately 400,000 eggs are setting all the time. Hatches are twice each week. Prevailing prices are from 13 cents to 15 cents for each day-old bird.

The industry is not new in Lubbock, although it has been at its maximum for two years, or since the war started. The youngest hatchery in Lubbock is three years old. It also is the largest, having a capacity of 102,000 eggs, which number is "setting" all the time. Two hatches are turned out every week, which means 22,000 baby chicks a week at this plant.

Behind With Production

Hatcheries buy their eggs, set them, and deliver baby chicks on orders always on hand ahead of the production. The downy little birds are shipped to hundreds of towns in Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma. Few of the hatcheries here do custom hatching, which is more trouble and less profitable. Owners prefer to buy baby chicks regularly every season to replenish their flocks, paying the regular price and disposing of their eggs in the same free and independent manner. Hatcheries also prefer to choose their hatching eggs independently. An OPA ceiling price of 50 cents a dozen on hatching eggs is in force, and hatcheries are not permitted to pay more. They usually pay less. Baby chicks sell at from 13 cents to 15 cents. Poultry fanciers, with show birds, mostly do their own hatching.

Most Farmers Buy Chicks

Few farmers and poultrymen do their own hatching. It is only the very small producer who still sets a hen or a small incubator. The hatching of eggs to create a baby chick market is well organized, is carried on as a highly systematized and scientific business. Sexing is done by experts, and Lubbock hatcheries still guarantee 90 to 95 per cent sexed day-old chicks. Before the war and the drafting of some of the best talent, local hatcheries would guarantee 98 per cent sexed chicks.

One hatcher here said the idea, often publicized, that Japanese are the only real experts in sexing baby chicks is just a supposition, not based on fact. He said the Chinese first developed the process and have been practicing it for a thousand years; that the Japanese learned it from the Chinese, and brought the idea to America. Once learned, the science is simple and practical and sexers here, all of them Americans, are doing expert work. Some of them admit, however, they learned the art from Japanese sexers.

To Close June 1

Only a few hatcheries operate during the autumn, most of the seven starting the season Jan. 1. The hatching season will end during May, and plants will close June 1. There is no "peak" season, as the war-time demand for meat, dressed poultry, and eggs, has created a volume that guarantees every hatching plant all the orders for baby chicks it can handle. The larger plants sell poultry feeds and supplies for the poultryman.

The turkey crop this year also will be larger, hatcherymen say.

NEW BOARD PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, April 22 (AP) — A new superboard to dispose of vast surplus military supplies when the war ends was proposed today by Rep. Manasco (D-Ala) who declared such an organization was "vitally needed" or private enterprise would be hurt by a suddenly-flooded market.

No. Dakota Governor Speaks Before Texans

AUSTIN, April 22. (AP)—Governor John Moses of North Dakota told the Texas legislature today he and Mrs. Moses were returning to their home with a vivid impression of a great state and a fine people.

The governor and his wife have been visiting in the Rio Grande valley for several weeks and appeared before a joint session of the legislature.

"They will go to Waco from here, spend the week-end with a son who is stationed at a nearby Army camp, and then return to North Dakota.

"We have no military establishment in North Dakota because it seems that all of the men drawn from our state for the armed forces are sent to Texas," the governor quipped.

Introduced by Governor Coke R. Stevenson as "a Democrat and a ranchman," Governor Moses won an ovation.

Gov. Moses told the legislatory that when the war is won "our job will be only half done."

Moses said it would be up to the states to carry on the work of rehabilitation. He said the North Dakota legislature, which recently ended its session, created a state sinking fund to take care of men returning from the service, and to make industrial research for future development.

U. S. And British Citizens Are Held In Camps In China

(By The Associated Press)

Five hundred ninety-eight United States citizens and 935 Britons have been placed in two internment camps established by the Japanese at Weihsien and Chefoo, Shantung Province, China, Domei, Japanees news agency, reported in a Peiping dispatch broadcast today by the Tokyo radio.

These internees were residing in North China or Inner Mongolia when the Pacific war began, the broadcast said. Most of them presumably lived in Peiping or Teintsin or at mission stations.

In the camps are several hundred other "enemy nationals," the total being 2,108, of which 1,756 are in the Weishien camp.

During the first year of the Pacific war most United Nations citizens were permitted limited freedom in North China cities and establishment of the internment camps means a change in Japanese policy.

AT AN ADVANCED ALEUTIAN NAVAL BASE, April 22 (Delayed) (AP)—Five men of war were buried in a cemetery overlooking a mountain-girt harbor in the Aleutian chain while bombers, returning from raiding the Japanese at Kiska, roared overhead.

The five died in a long range naval battle with a superior Japanese force March 26 off Russian Komandorski island.

As young bugler Lynn Brown of Roswell, N. M., blew taps, the ground vibrated with the roar of Liberator and Mitchell bombers returning from a raid on Kiska.

House Charges Claimed False

AUSTIN, April 22 (AP)—Charges that a House investigating committee examining river authorities had made "false insinuations" in its preliminary report were thrown at the investigators today by Alvin J. Wirtz, former general counsel for the Lower Colorado River authority.

After making a verbal rejoinder before a committee session, he filed a formal bill of exceptions and protest with the committee in which the former undersecretary of the interior and state senator claimed "the report not only purports to condemn me—without a hearing—but only partially presents facts and contains conclusions unwarranted by any facts."

Claimed Unfair

This Wirtz characterized as "unfair, unjust and un-American."

The committee's preliminary report suggested a seven-point program for tightening up restrictions on river authorities, based upon its conclusions from testimony taken in an investigation of operations of the Guadalupe-Blanco and Lower Colorado River authorities.

Wirtz in his statement denied the report's assertions that he was the "dominant voice in control of the Lower Colorado River authority." The statement that he and Ed M. Cope, general manager of the GBRA, had been collaborating to carry out designs and policies "evidently agreed upon between themselves" was branded as a "false insinuation" without support in evidence.

"I am quite willing to submit to the verdict of public opinion the question of whether my efforts in behalf of conservation, flood control and public power in Texas have been as much to the interests of the general public as any or all of those who criticize," Wirtz said.

Ample Authority

"The legislature and this committee have ample power to inquire into and curb the activities of the privately owned utility companies which have been agitating that the activities of the public authorities be curbed. Notwithstanding the expression of horror in the committee's report that 'these river authorities, if they follow the policies set out by the present management, may eventually present a greater problem than the holding company evils with which we have had to contend in the past,' no disinterested representative of the public has had cause to complain of such practices. The committee need not speak of 'the holding company evils in the past tense.'..."

Negro Assessed 15 Years In Burglary

A 99th court jury that was out less than 30 minutes early Thursday afternoon found Frank King, Jr., 19-year-old negro, guilty of burglary of a private residence at night, and assessed a penitentiary sentence of 15 years.

His penalty boosted to 66 years the total assessments given to five defendants this week in that court; in addition, juries allowed suspension of sentence in the cases of five defendants sentenced to an additional seven years 50 days.

Found In Hill Home

King entered the T. P. Hill residence at 1714 Avenue K March 27, and was surprised inside the place when Mr. and Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Gladys Tipton returned at midnight. He had left his cap and shoes on a back stoop. He grabbed the shoes and fled, leaving the cap. A $2 bill he took from a purse of Mrs. Hill was recovered upon his arrest.

Others convicted this week and their terms of years were: Banks Stocks, two years for embezzlement; George L. Seagraves, two years for forgery; Surlester Cruise, a negro, two years for burglary; Oscar Beachem, a negro, 45 years for robbery by assault, and the following who obtained suspended sentences: Alfredo Carrasco, only two days past juvenile status, two years for assault with intent to murder; Earnest Lester Case, three years for murder; Ismael Valadez and Diego Dominquez, Mexicans, one year and 50 days, respectively, for chicken theft, and Leroy Fortson, two years for burglary.

Jury And Foreman

Raymond Allen was foreman of the last three juries. Thursday's jury was composed otherwise of Joe Cogdell, L. M. Barton, J. M. McGuire, C. C. Born, C. L. Noland, C. A. Putman, Joe Schram, Homer E. Hunt, L. B. Roberts, J C. Royalty and R. S. Veasey. Most of the jury was numbered on other juries used this week.

Burton S. Burks, district atorney, told the Thursday jury in his closing argument for the state that King's action in entering a residence under conditions that could have caused force in his leaving it constituted an offense inconsistent with his meriting minimum punishment of five years. He quoted from the Old English common law to the effect that "the rains may sift through cracks in the wall and hail may beat through, but not even the King has the right to enter the hovel of his lowliest subject without permission. A man's house is his castle."

B. B. Chappell, who represented King, was balked at virtually every turn by the state when he attempted to establish a defense of alibi for his client by calling as witnesses three zoot-suited negroes. State's witnesses were Mr. and Mrs. Hill, Mrs. Tipton, Earl Horton, S. O. Boyd and M. J. Williams. State hammered out a case that included positive identification of King's cap.

Beacham Conviction

The jury had required only an hour and a half in its conviction of Beachem, who had assaulted and robbed Orah Wilson, jr., now stationed in Pensacola, Fla., in Naval aviation. Beachem, who had received 99 years in 72nd court on a prior trial of the case and had managed to get the court of criminal appeals to reverse and remand the case, got into 99th court when his motion to quash the original indictment was granted on grounds there had been no negroes on the grand jury. The case was refiled and he was reindicted. He was led noisily weeping and moaing to jail.

"I won't see my folks any more," he wailed.

Then he sobered a moment, and told Parum Posey, chief deputy sheriff, "me and God will take care of this."

King is believed to have entered at least three other residences of Lubbock whites in recent months. Mrs. R. C. Garrett of 2407 Twenty-fifth street informed officials several months ago she had chased him from her residence with an unloaded gun. That same night, police said, the negro went into the W. E. Trammel residence at 2401 Twenty-second street and attempted twice to break into the 2401 Twenty-first street home of Mrs. Jessie Gillespie.

Jury And Panel Dismissed

Judge C. D. Russell dismissed the jury and the panel. District Attorney Burks said an attempt would be made to try other criminal actions the week of May 17. A special venire had been demanded when the defense made its announcement in the case of Robert Johnson, a negro charged with murder. A special venire was indicated in the case of C. R. Barber, charged with murder, and the case was continued by agreement of sides. A defense attorney was absent and caused a continuance in the W. L. Bailey case charging assault to murder. The Frank Hernandez burglary case was continued because of the absence of a defense witness.

Dinner Invitations For Soldiers Asked

Reminder that many men stationed at Lubbock and South Plains Army Flying schools would enjoy eating Easter dinners in Lubbock homes Sunday was made by Miss Leona Gelin, supervisor of service recreation projects here.

Therefore, she suggested that if you would like to entertain two or more soldiers at dinner that you should call the recreation center, telephone 2-2331, and list your name. The center is at 1211 Thirteenth street.

She suggested also that you not stand back in extending this hospitality because of your rationing problems. The soldiers know that you might not be able to provide anything "fancy." They are less interested in the food than in the fact that it will be home-cooked and in the home atmosphere, Miss Gelin said.

She reported that a number of residents of Lorenzo already have acted on this idea. Twenty soldiers from here are to be taken to Lorenzo late Saturday, where they are to be house guests overnight in various homes.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

One U. S. Officer 'Captures' Guiana

EDITOR'S NOTE: The inside story of the coup de'etat which brought Free Guiana into the United Nations orbit is related in the following dispatch by Charles B. Engelke of the United Press, the first American correspondent to reach the French colony since the change in government. He discloses that the country is being rehabilitated with United Nations food and medicines, while a Giraud-appointed governor heads the local government.

C. B. ENGELKE
United Press Staff Writer

CAYENNE, French Guiana, April 18, (Delayed)—Now it can be told how a single United States Army officer "took" French Guiana with the aid of a Dutch commander and French patriots rebelling against the Vichyites.

The story of the bloodless uprising in the South American jungle capital in March was given to me by the French leader of the coup d'etat, who insisted that his name be kept secret because of his relatives in France and that the American and Dutch officers who came to his aid also remain anonymous.

Like O. Henry Story

With all the trimmings of an O. Henry story of equatorial revolution, the plot centered against Renee Veber, the Vichy appointed governor who came here after the fall of France. Veber had expressed his sympathies with the Axis by word and by deed, my informant, a French medical officer, said.

Certain that the starving populace and local troops were pro-Allied, a committee headed by the officer, a major, informed the governor he no longer had authority, held him incommunicado in his mansion and radioed the commander of the American forces in Paramaribo, Dutch Guiana, for assistance.

That same day this American commander arrived, accompanied only by the pilot of his plane, and "took" the country until a new regime could be formed. Later in the day the commander of the Dutch forces in Paramaribo arrived and these officers decided that the most pressing necessities were food and medicine. These they ordered flown from Paramaribo and before nightfall food and supplies were distributed.

A radio message was sent to Washington and the next day Lieut. Col. Albert Lebel, a member of the French military mission in Washington, flew to Cayenne to take over the provisional government. On March 25 there arrived Gov. Jean Rapenne, appointed by Gen. Henri Giraud, who flew from Algiers in three days.

Rapenne quickly reorganized the government, clearing out pro-Axis undesirables. He has received the complete cooperation of Col. Paul L. Singer, one of two United States officers in French Guiana as a military mission. The other is Lieut. Cmdr. J. Marvin Krause of the U. S. Navy. Their staff comprises half a dozen American officers and men. Capt. Hubert Mouwen of the Dutch Army acts as interpreter.

There are no other foreign military men in Cayenne.

Former Governor Veber, his family and cabinet members were flown to Paramaribo for safekeeping and later were taken elsewhere.

Helping All Possible

Rapenne, in his first press interview, said the French colony already was "giving the United States all the help possible in order to win the war."

"My plans also include a survey to discover whether there are any raw materials available here for use by the Allies," the governor, a 42-year-old career colonial administrator, said.

The governor freed a large number of pro-Allied political prisoners and re-established freedom of speech and of the press.

"The situation is calm," the governor said. "It is perfectly obvious that the population is glad to have joined the United Nations and that everyone is delighted to have joined with those Frenchmen who are fighting for the freedom of France."

Increase In Number Of Truck Tire Recaps In Area Is Reported

Newly compiled figures show an increase in number of truck tire recaps issued, in proportion to tire replacements, in the 71-county Lubbock district of the OPA, "but we still have a long way to go," district officials said Thursday afternoon.

Reports from county war price and rationing boards show certificates were issued for 4,944 truck tires and 2,497 recaps during March, a proportion of approximately one recap to every two tires. In February, certificates had been issued for 6,071 tires and 2,369 recaps, or approximately one recap to every two and one-half tires.

In correspondence with county boards and in announcements circulated to newspapers, the OPA has repeatedly urged that recaps be obtained before tires wear beyond the recapping stage.

Shortage of truck tires necessitates still greater use of recaps, OPA said. Aim is to bring the proportion to two recaps for every replacement.

The regulation calls for refusal of certificates for replacements in cases where tires have been worn beyond the recapping state.

Timely Advice Given For Vacation Season

AUSTIN, April 22 (AP)—Don't turn your spring outing into a funeral, the state health department warned today in offering timely advice to picnickers.

With travel restrictions probably limiting vacation trips to nearby lakes and streams, Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, urged Texans to be on guard against swimming in polluted waters. He added these simple rules on swimming and boating:

Wait an hour after eating before going in the water.

Never dive into unfamiliar waters.

Leave the water if chilled or fatigued.

Don't enter the water if overheated.

Learn to float.

Never rock the boat.

Jackson Named Head Of Rotary District

SAN ANTONIO, April 23 (AP)—The new president of Rotary district 129 is Dr. W. W. Jackson, vice president of Trinity university here.

Elected at the district convention here yesterday, Jackson succeeds Roscoe C. Pryor, Harlingen.

The Harlingen and San Diego clubs won attendance contests.

Davis Tells Of OWI Objective

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP)—Briskly answering a barrage of questions, OWI Director Elmer Davis told a press conference and members of the Senate Judiciary committee that the Office of War Information has one chief objective—"to get out as much news as we can as soon as we can."

With more than 100 reporters and 17 senators about him in the spacious Senate office building caucus room, the OWI chieftain vigorously denied that his agency exercises censorship powers, that it contributes to delays in release of news or that it serves any political faction in broadcasts to foreign countries.

Political Situation

As for the domestic political situation, the bespectacled director said crisply he didn't think OWI had put out any information to foreign countries on the possibility of a fourth term for President Roosevelt.

"The fourth term discussion has hardly reached the status of news yet—it's mostly hot air on both sides," he declared.

Davis' appearance was arranged as a "guinea pig" press conference so senators could see how he conducts such meetings.

It apparently signalled the beginning of the judiciary group's investigation of dissemination of information by government agencies.

Chairman Van Nuys (D-Ind) announced the committee unanimously had approved a resolution by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) for such an investigation.

Insurance Popular With Service Men

A total of $1,875,000 in new National Service Life insurance has been taken out by military personnel at Lubbock Army Flying school this month, since the government lifted the physical examination requirement, said Lt. Gordon R. Close, insurance officer who predicted the figure would go over the two million dollar mark by the end of the week.

Rejection of any prior application for such insurance on any grounds whatever does not disqualify soldiers from taking insurance now, Lt. Close said. Increases in amounts of existing insurance as well as procurement of new insurance may now be ordered without physical examination, he added.

Col. Ralph E. Holmes, commanding officer, has urged all service men to take advantage of the opportunity to obtain up to $10,000 in insurance before August 9, when the new rules are scheduled to terminate.

Maverick Is Speaker Before Seattle Meet

SEATTLE, April 22 (AP)—Maury Maverick, director of the governmental division of the War Production board, counselled western Washington municipal executives here that "local government is the bulwark of democracy."

"The Nazis know this," the ex-congressman and former San Antonio, Texas, mayor told a gathering of mayors, councilmen and other city officers yesterday. "That is why they are riding roughshod over local government in Europe. Local government has often proved in Europe to be the last stronghold of resistance to tyranny."

Tired, Aching, Back and Legs?

Amazing Relief in 5 Minutes

You probably feel like a lot of other people that about all you can do is take something to ease the pain and let it go at that, but don't be foolish. Make up your mind today that you are going to give your muscles a real chance to get well.

Go to any good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil.

The very first application after opening up the pores with a good hot towel will give you relief; a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your aches and pains may shortly disappear.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue.
