Reds Claim West Halted Arms Cuts

LONDON, May 5 (AP) — Russia charged tonight the Western Powers crippled the London disarmament talks by raising such conditions as President Eisenhower's "open skies" plan.

The Western Powers said Russia prevented an easing of the world's armaments burden by refusing to agree to an adequate inspection system.

A Soviet statement maintained Eisenhower's "open skies" inspection plan had "nothing to do with the real control of disarmament" but had other aims.

Those aims were not specified. The implication was that Russia felt the Western Powers wanted to spy on her.

In the U.S. view an aerial inspection system is the key to the whole problem. The idea is that air inspectors would spot disarmament violations or massing of men for an attack.

Harold E. Stassen, special assistant to President Eisenhower, represented the United States at the talks, which closed yesterday. Stassen left tonight by plane to report to the President. Britain, France and Canada also participated in the discussions.

Stassen told a news conference the seven-week talks covered "four miles of the nine miles" the nations have to travel to reach disarmament. He said progress from here on would be difficult.

Stassen said the talks made headway on some issues and cleared away some misunderstandings.

Gromyko also took issue with the Western position that settling such problems as divided Germany and Korea must go right along with disarmament.

He said that to make the question of reducing armed forces "dependent for example on settlement of the German problem" meant "to evade solution of the question of a reduction of armaments and armed forces."

Scurry 'Drys' Win Election By 2-1 Majority

SNYDER, May 5 — Scurry County elected to stay "dry" by a top-heavy majority in a countywide refrendum today on the issue of legalizing sale of alcoholic beverages.

Prohibition forces ran up a victory of 3,732 to 1,636.

It was the second time in two years that Scurry County has rejected proposals to legalize beer and whisky. The area has been "dry" for many years.

Associated Press dispatches Saturday reported that in other liquor elections, Potter County (Amarillo), Gray County (Pampa) and Dallam (Dalhart) remained wet, while Carson and Oldham counties voted prohibition.

Hays County (San Marcos) also voted dry.

The Potter vote was 12,340 wet, 8,451 dry. Gray County showed a wet victory by 4,467 - 3,637. In Dallam it was 1,004 to 711. Carson drys won 971 - 949, and Oldham drys by 330 - 221.

MID-EAST ACHIEVEMENT

Dag Bringing His Report To The U.N.

ROME, May 5 (AP) — Peacemaker Dag Hammarskjold flew toward New York tonight with a report from which the U. N. Security Council may chart new moves to reconcile Arabs and Israelis.

As he walked to the plane, a reporter overheard the U. N. Secretary General say to an Italian diplomat: "We have erected new bases. It is now up to the governments to do something."

He referred to the cease-fire agreements he obtained during his month-long mission. He refused to elaborate on the remark.

A warm welcome awaits Hammarskjold when he lands at New York from his mission in personal diplomacy. Yugoslav Ambassador Joza Brilej, president of the Security Council for May, will lead a delegation to receive him.

Hammarskjold will turn the voluminous report of his mission over to Security Council members, who will study it before the Council meets of May 13.

1. A fast-deteriorating situation between Arabs and Israelis which might have led to a second Palestine war was arrested.

2. Israel, on one side, and Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon, separately, on the other, agreed to a cease-fire along the troubled frontiers.

3. Positive results were obtained toward again honoring the 1949 Rhodes armistice agreements, which call for U. N. truce observation missions, demilitarized zones along frontiers and well-marked frontiers.

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

It would have been much bigger news had it been general, but thundershowers Monday and Tuesday did offer a ray of hope for part of Howard County's agriculture. Some areas in northeastern Howard got three or more inches, and probably a third of the county has a good chance to get crops up to a stand. Many stockponds were practically refilled, and ranges benefited in much of the north half and around the central south edge.

* * *

Although the heaviest portion touched only the south edge of the Lake J. B. Thomas watershed, that big reservoir did catch around 6,000 acre feet of water. At the rate of withdrawal and evaporation combined, it approximates an 8-weeks supply for Snyder, Big Spring, Odessa and other users.

* * *

Wild and woolly news came from our south neighbor, Sterling City. Three men brazenly held up the bank there on Wednesday and escaped with around $9,000. Officers swarmed on the quarry and within three hours had the trio in hand along with the money.

Democratic precinct conventions were held Saturday with more than the usual amount of confusion in a couple of boxes. When the smoke cleared, it appeared that forces backing Sen. Lyndon Johnson held a working majority for the county convention on Tuesday.

East Texas Gets Cooling Showers

By The Associated Press

Showers cooled off East Texas and areas along the coast Saturday while temperatures approached new highs for the year in other parts of the state.

The Bureau said a new cool front would move into North Texas late Sunday. Widely scattered thundershowers were forecast for all but South Central Texas.

Most of Texas was cloudy Saturday. Showers fell near Palacios, Galveston and Longview.

Reed Ready To Cut Taxes When Budget Permits

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP) — A top to bottom reduction in federal income tax rates "as soon as the budget permits" was proposed today by Rep. Daniel A. Reed (R-NY).

Reed, senior Republican on the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, proposed a three-point revision of individual income tax schedules at a time when prospects of a Treasury surplus have revived talk of tax cuts at this session of Congress.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has repeatedly put a damper on congressional tax reduction moves. The 80-year-old Reed, who has bucked the administration before on tax matters, did not predict when he thought the budget would permit action on his program, but he urged that studies "be begun immediately."

In the Senate, Sen. George, longtime member and former chairman of the Finance Committee, told newsmen he didn't think there was a "doubt in the world that we should cut taxes this year," he added:

"I think there should be a tax cut, but I haven't seen much evidence that the House Ways and Means Committee plans to undertake it."

Sen. Butler (R-Md) announced he will ask the Senate Tuesday to set up a special commission to conduct a broad study of the impact of federal taxes on individual taxpayers, small business and the national economy.

"I heartily agree with former Internal Revenue Commissioner Coleman Andrews that our tax structure needs a complete overhaul," Butler said in a statement. "For years we have tolerated a system which piles tax upon tax and is full of inequities."

Reed advanced a program of tax reduction applying to all income brackets together with tightening of tax loopholes "as a first step toward a fairer and simpler tax system."

His program, which he carefully made conditional on the time when the government's operating budget will permit, proposed:

"First, the top bracket rate should be reduced to at least 75 per cent (from 91 per cent at present).

"Second, all other bracket rates including the bottom should be graduated downward to conform to the new top rate, and

"Third, the law should be simplified by the elimination of as many of the special exemptions as possible."

Ike And Grandson Enjoy Some Golf

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 5 (AP) — The Eisenhowers, grandfather and grandson, had a time for themselves on the golf course today. Just incidentally, both made a little money, too.

President Eisenhower and his 8-year-old grandson, David, spent the morning at the Gettysburg Country Club near the President's farm home here. Eisenhower played 18 holes—shooting in the low 90s—and David took some golf lessons before picking up chauffeuring fee.

Johnson Sweeps State For Demo Leadership

Howard County Votes Will Go For Lyndon

Senator Lyndon Johnson's backers apparently gained firm control of Howard County politics in precinct conventions Saturday.

Gov. Allan Shivers apparently won 19 delegates in two precincts.

The status of one other precinct was confused. Shivers backers walked out before the convention adjourned, after it appeared they were losing control. They already had elected a slate of delegates favoring Shivers, but after their walkout Johnson supporters chose another group of delegates to the county convention.

Johnson had clear-cut victories in Precinct 2, with 20 county convention votes; Precinct 8, with six votes; Precinct 1, with three votes; Precinct 9 with eight votes; Precinct 10, with two votes, and Precinct 5, with two votes.

Shivers walked away with Precinct 16 and its eight votes. His backers also controlled Precinct 3, with 11 votes, where Johnson supporters also chose delegates in a separate meeting following a dispute over the crediting of voice votes.

J. W. Purser, county Democratic chairman, announced Saturday night that the county convention will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the district courtroom at the courthouse. He said he set the time for the meeting after conferences with his faction of the party and Frank Hardesty, leader of the Johnson forces.

No reports had been received from six rural precincts, each entitled to one vote in the county convention. They were Gay Hill, R-Bar, Center Point, Moore, Knott and Soash. Their votes aren't expected to change the trend set in the other boxes.

Oil Tank Fire Extinguished

What could have been a large fire was stopped before it had time to develop west of town Friday night.

Police and fire departments got a call that two boys had started a fire around two oil tanks on the Guitar farm about five miles west of here.

The firemen arrived at the blaze before it had time to cause any damage. It was burning slightly in a slush pit and around the two tanks, but it had not ignited the tanks.

Firemen said that if the fire could have continued another 20 minutes, the tanks would have exploded.

LYNDON JOHNSON ... the winner

SAM RAYBURN ... it was his idea

Carries Both City And Rural Sectors

By The Associated Press

A surge of power in the vote-rich Gulf Coast area turned Harris County's 270 state convention votes over to the hard-driving Senate majority leader who recovered from a critical heart attack to make one of Texas' most heated political campaigns.

The Associated Press survey of unofficial, and sometimes incomplete, returns from throughout Texas showed Johnson with a total of 1,156 state delegates, to 317 for Shivers.

It was the first defeat in a brilliant political career for Shivers, who served as governor longer than any other in Texas history.

San Antonio went for Johnson Dallas turned to Shivers, and Houston and Fort Worth sided with Johnson.

It was Harris county's 270 votes in the state convention that actually pushed Johnson past the 951 state delegates votes needed for a majority among the 1,900 state delegates.

Earlier Johnson had led all the way in the rural precincts.

Near midnight totals showed that Johnson got 1,649 county convention delegates in Harris county while 1,228 were pledged to Shivers. Rump conventions at 11 precincts tied up the votes of 206 votes. Another 106 delegates were uninstructed.

In Dallas, Shivers was in control with 857 county delegate votes to 743 for Johnson. Only 812 were needed for control.

Over 1,000 Votes Credited To Johnson

Jefferson County added another 37 state convention votes to Johnson's total when Johnson followers elected 277 county delegates while Shivers got 110.

Earlier, Johnson defeated Shivers in Bexar County and got the 38 state convention votes. Johnson-controlled precincts named 590 county delegates to 196 for Shivers.

Reached by telephone in New York, Shivers said he would make no comment at all Saturday night on the precinct conventions.

"It is an overwhelming victory for the Democratic Party," House Speaker Sam Rayburn said happily in Bonham. "I am gratified as I am sure Senator Johnson is at the margin of our victory."

Rayburn has opposed the Shivers' segment of the Democratic Party ever since it swung for Eisenhower in 1952 and he actively backed Johnson.

'State House Machine Being Whipped'

Johnson, from his ranch in Central Texas, told The Associated Press "these results are amazing The Shivers state house machine is being whipped."

The Senate majority leader said the returns were "significant and startling, showing we are winning in North Texas, Lubbock in the Panhandle, Abilene and San Angelo in West Texas, in the Rio Grande Valley, and Bowie, Hopkins and Lamar Counties in East Texas."

The frenzied climax came after weeks of strenuous and heated campaigning by Shivers and Johnson. Johnson was actively helped by House Speaker Sam Rayburn, who had proposed his name for both delegation leader and "favorite son" presidential nominee candidate.

Proceedings mostly were normal, although often noisy, at the more than 5,000 neighborhood conventions.

State Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd said he had been warned that Negroes were expected to attend conventions in mass and violence was feared, but none occurred.

County Conventions To Be Tuesday

The delegates picked Saturday will go to county conventions Tuesday where state delegates will be selected for the May 22 convention. Definite control of precinct conventions Saturday could mean a lot toward controlling the state convention where the group to represent Texas in the national convention will be named.

Three Bonham precincts endorsed Johnson, included the two precincts where House Speaker Sam Rayburn appeared and made brief speeches.

Johnson himself presided as chairman of Precinct 5 at the courthouse in Johnson City. Without a dissenting vote the 11 precincts in Johnson City and Blanco County voted for their hometown boy.

Johnson got a majority of Duval County votes, carrying San Diego, Benavides and Rosita precincts. The Freer delegation with 15 votes was uninstructed.

Johnson got 124 delegates in Lubbock for his majority of the county's 210 delegates in the rural conventions during the afternoon. Shivers got one rural box with 3 delegates and 11 delegates were tied up in disputed conventions.

Webb Maps Program For Armed Forces Observance

Webb AFB will roll out the red carpet and put on a big show for Armed Forces Day on May 19.

Although all details have not been made final, the program is shaping up as one to give Americans a good glimpse of their fighting arms, and particularly the Air Force.

There will be demonstrations, static displays and flying exhibitions. In addition the wing band will give a concert, and there will be running movies and some acrobatic flying.

Besides the Air Force, visitors at the open house will get a look at the U. S. Naval Reserve unit commanded here by William D. Boyd. It is not known as yet if other branches of service will have displays.

Col. Charles M. Young, wing commander, announced that the gates of the base would be thrown open to the public at 8 a.m. and that an hour and a half later there would be a big parade.

An air show will include several kinds of craft in addition to the T-33 trainers, among them an F-86-D, a B-47 jet bomber, and a C-19 flying boxcar.

During the afternoon, the F-86-D is due to make a pass over the field in a scheduled attempt to break the sonic barrier. If this is the case, local residents will hear this sound — like thunder — which may become relatively commonplace in years ahead.

John Lee Smith Candidate Again

AUSTIN (AP)—John Smith of Lubbock, lieutenant governor from 1942 to 1946, will run for the office again.

Smith, 61, became the fourth person to pay his $600 filing fee. Others are Lt. Gov. Gen Ramsey, Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris and C. T. Johnson of Austin.

Smith is an aggressive, outspoken conservative. He ran for governor in 1946, the year of the bitter runoff between former Gov. Beauford Jester and Homer Rainey. In the 1952 race for Texas Congressman-at-large, Smith ran second to Rep. Martin Dies.

He was state senator from the Abilene District in 1940.

To Start Petition For Airport Bonds

A proposal that the Chamber of Commerce start circulating petitions for an election on a county airport bond issue will be submitted to directors of the organization Monday.

Representatives of the C-C Aviation Committee will submit the proposition and a proposed petition which would be directed to the county commissioners court.

A $400,000 bond issue would be asked for acquiring land, constructing and equipping an airport, according to the proposal.

The Aviation Committee's proposition is tied in with action of the Chamber of Commerce Executive Committee last Monday. The executive group voted to recommend prompt action toward establishment of an airport.

Chamber directors will meet at noon Monday in the conference room at the Permian Building. Also on the agenda is a talk by Dr. R. Gage Loyd, First Presbyterian pastor. J. H. Greene, C-C manager, said the minister will speak on responsibilities of a Chamber of Commerce to its community. The talk will be a "Chamber of Commerce Week" feature.

Beard Supporters Defeated At Irving

IRVING, Tex., May 5 (AP)—A school board election today swept into office a slate of four independents over the pro-Supt. John L. Beard incumbents by an average margin of nearly 500 votes per candidate.

Irving last year was the scene of a school fight when the board fired Beard for "non-cooperation." Some teachers walked out in support of Beard and a school election voted in a new board which rehired him.

Subsidies Should Extend To Farmers, Union Leader Says

Alex Dickie, Denton, president of the Texas Farmers Union, told a group of Howard County farmers Friday night that they are entitled to government subsidy as long as other segments of the American economy are getting it.

He called attention to tax amortizations, tariffs and similar concessions which he called subsidies to oil, transportation and manufacturing industries.

"If the subsidies are not bad for other segments of the economy, they're not bad for the farmer," Dickie declared. "If the others will do away with their subsidies, the farmer will go along with them."

Dickie said the Farmers Union is for 100 per cent of parity on all crops, not just the "six basic crops on which much of the present farm program is based.

"Congress has defined parity as fair to the farmer," Dickie said. "If it's fair, we ought to have 100 per cent fairness."

The state president of Farmers Union spoke at the Howard County Junior College auditorium at one of a series of meetings being held in the county in the interest of forming a county chapter of the organization. A. H. Tate, leader of the group seeking to establish the chapter, said more than 50 members have been secured. To receive a charter, 100 members must be signed.

The group set another meeting for May 31 at Knott. Dickie will speak at that session also.

The FU leader called attention Friday night to the sharp decline in farm prices in the last three years while other groups are experiencing prosperity.

While farm income has dropped 26 per cent in the period, wages have gone up 17 per cent, corporate profits have advanced 34 per cent, and rents have gone up eight per cent, he said.

Dickie said the Farmers Union takes the position that the solution to the farmers' problem is 100 per cent parity on all crops.

"It won't do any good to tear the others down," he said.

He also took issue with claims that agricultural surpluses are a burden on the nation. He contended that the "crops surplus is the most God-given blessing this country has ever known."

Food never comes out even, he said. There's always a little too much or not quite enough. He called for expansion of both foreign and domestic markets as a means of taking advantage of the farmer's capacity for production which he said could defeat communism in starving sections of the world.

Dickie said the U. S. economy should be based on surplus, not scarcity.

Present for the meeting were three representatives of the Scurry County Farmers Union chapter. Bill Jordan, secretary-treasurer, explained some of the services the organization provides its members, including insurance, insecticides and fertilizers. Sam Houston and Glenn Tate were the other Scurry County representatives.

Birth Control Has Methodist Sanction

MINNEAPOLIS, May 5 (AP)—The Methodist Church said today it believes birth control is in keeping with the will of God.

On a subject about which Protestantism has rarely voiced an official, joint opinion—by any whole church—the Methodist General Conference said:

"We believe that planned parenthood, practiced in Christian conscience, may fulfill rather than violate the will of God."

The stand was approved, without a dissenting vote by the church lawmaking General Conference, after it was urged by the Rev. H. Hughes Wagner, of Springfield, Mass.

The conference also denounced the liquor trade as a spreading blight on American society, and accused it of trying to lure American housewives and "even children" to drink.

The Rev. Wagner said the church approval of the birth control position would help counteract efforts to brand it anti-religious.

He said such campaigns were carried on regularly in Massachusetts and Connecticut, the only two states having antibirth control laws, and added:

"Another church, very influential, advertises on billboards and newspapers saying that birth control is against the laws of God."

He did not name the church, but he obviously referred to the Roman Catholic Church, which proscribes birth control by artificial means.

Attorney Charles Parlin, of Englewood, N.J., head of a committee which drafted the affirmation of birth control, said he knew of no other major church that has taken this definite position.

There have been social agencies of Protestant churches that have spoken on the subject.

The Methodist position was part of a "family life" statement, most of whose other portions were a reiteration of previously set disciplines.

In a strongly worded pronouncement, the church's policymaking General Conference called for a return to prohibition, and said intoxicating beverages can't be kept legal "without sin."

The church statement said there is a "growing practice of permitting the sale of alcoholic beverages through drug and grocery stores in a deliberate attempt to win the housewife as a customer."

Moreover, the churchmen said, liquor advertisers are invading "American homes" seeking "to indoctrinate even our children in the use of alcoholic beverages through magazines, newspapers, radio, television and other media."

Delegate after delegate took the floor in discussing the report to amend it with expanded denunciations of various aspects of the liquor industry.

Rains Create Heavy Demand For Laborers

The recent rains have created so many farm jobs that many of them cannot be filled, according to Bill Williams, farm labor representative of the Texas Employment Commission.

Williams says most of the jobs are for tractor drivers, though a few general farm hands are wanted.

Most of the farmers want men with families, so that they can live on the place. However, some are so desperate for help that they will take almost any kind of worker they can get. There is little discrimination as to race and color, just so the worker has had a little experience in farm work or can drive a tractor.

Practically all job seekers applying at the TEC office the last few days have found jobs. The only exception, says Williams, is a Spanish-American family who want to work close to Big Spring. There are 10 in the family, including an 18-year-old boy who has had experience in tractor driving. Later in the year other children will be available for hoeing cotton.

Wages vary according to the kind of work done and the amount of living facilities furnished. The average wage is about 60 cents an hour, Williams said.

Yesterday for the first time in two years I saw green grass between Big Spring and Garden City. Between the Schafer and Joe Carter places, tobosa grass had already begun to take on a green color, and other grass was beginning to appear.

The rains were heavy in this area. John Schafer measured four inches at his place. The first rain on Tuesday amounted to over an inch, and the rest of it came Wednesday morning mixed with some fine hail.

Farther south on the Joe Carter Ranch the rain was a little lighter but still measured around three inches. From there on to Garden City the moisture dwindled.

The experts say that farmers can't grow cotton longer than seven-eighths inch staple in West Texas as on dryland fields. Last year at Stanton Eddie Cook proved that this is not true, or at least it wasn't on his farm.

He planted the long staple 1517 Acala, made a half bale to the acre and picked it all in September. On the short staple cotton he made only about a quarter bale to the acre. Another big difference was in price, because his long staple cotton sold for 40 and a half cents a pound.

This year some of the long staple cotton is being tried on other dryland fields. If anyone wants to try a few acres of this cotton, he can still get some seed from the Stanton Chemical and Feed Company. They have a few thousand pounds left.

Floyd Smith, Stanton hog raiser, thinks the outlook is much brighter for hogs, at least during July and August. He says top hogs should be selling for 18 cents by mid-summer.

"Prices will likely start sliding after that, though," he said, "because of the heavy pig crop."

Smith has been raising Hampshire hogs at his place just west of Stanton for a good many years. In spite of better prices ahead, he said he wouldn't advise anyone to go into the swine business.

* * *

The outlook for turkeys is much brighter than usual, according to Lee Burklow, Big Spring produce dealer. He said some of the turkey producers in this area came out with money ahead last year. At present, big toms dressed are selling for 50 to 52 cents a pound, and appear to be better money-makers than the smaller birds.

The chief turkey raiser of the county is Mrs. Carl Robinson, who lives northeast of Big Spring. Last year Mrs. Robinson dressed out over 500 turkeys and sold most of them to local customers. This year she is starting another big flock.

A local feed dealer said several people wanted to try to raise turkeys this year, but the poults are hard to find.

Blue panic grass seed is in good demand now. Several farmers are planning to plant sizable acreages. Marvin Sewell intends to plant 100 acres or more on his land northeast of Big Spring. He bought his seed at Pecos sometime ago.

Seed locally was selling from 85 to 90 cents a pound, when bought in small lots. However, the seed is very tiny, and a few pounds will cover a lot of ground.

* * *

Rain was fairly heavy just south of Stanton. J. L. Ballard got only seven-tenths of an inch this last time, but already had some moisture. He planted 30 acres of cotton and was getting most of it up to a stand.

Farther south the rain played out altogether. Pastures were dry and the only green thing on the landscape was the thick tangle of mesquite.

* * *

Mrs. Ronald McDaniel of Garden City said most of that country was looking better. They got some lake-filling rains on pasture land they lease in Reagan County. They also have land west and north of Garden City. Some rain fell on both areas, but it was much heavier to the north.

She said they were still feeding cattle but had stopped feeding sheep.

Ranchers in Glasscock County are beginning to shear sheep, and are finding quite a lot of dirt in the wool. This has been the result of the spring sandstorms, according to County Judge Dick Mitchell.

He says they are docked a little on the price, but since the dirty wool weighs more, there won't be much difference in what they get for it.

The rodeo standings thus far in 1956 have resulted in a runaway race for Jim Shoulders. This Oklahoma bronc rider has piled up 13,332 points, to lead Guy Weeks of Abilene, who is in second place with 8,976. Shoulders specializes in bareback bronc riding and bull riding, while Weeks is now making nearly all his points in calf roping.

Harley May, the former Sul Ross student, is in third place with 8,512 points, and Jim Bob Altizer is fourth with 6,728.

About the nicest ranch home I have ever visited is the W. A. Bigby place west of Garden City. The Bigbys built the house in 1952 and moved to the ranch. Since then they have developed a yard, with shrubs and flowers, as pretty as any in town.

They spent several years living on the Mexican Border, and when they came back to Glasscock County brought many things with them for the house. The main thing you notice are the horse shoes. They are welded together to make up the framework of magazine racks, door knockers, and embedded in the concrete walks.

They have several relics that reach a long way back into history. He has two old wheels that came from a cavalry wagon, which may be 100 years old. There are also old guns, bits of harness, lamps and other things depicting the early west.

Outside on top of the big rock house, they have an old railroad lamp, which is lit up at night by electricity. Throughout the yards there are beautiful odd-colored rocks that came from the border country. He has one flat sandstone rock dug out of the Rio Grande, which served as an outdoor table top.

Despite the beauty of the place, Bigby says there is something else that appeals more to him.

"The nicest thing about living out here," he said, pointing across the rolling rangeland, "is that my nearest neighbor lives seven miles away."

Martin Chicken Projects Grow

STANTON, May 5 — After several weeks in the planning stage, the caged-egg project for Martin County is getting under way. Already four houses have been completed, and the cages will be assembled and hung this week.

The four who built houses are Tom Houston, Elma Nichols, and Billy and Mason Coggin. The houses are 160 by 24 feet in size and will hold 1,260 cages.

All producers will use a leghorn type hen, according to C. J. Chapman, who helped promote the new industry. He said the 15-week-old pullets had been ordered and would be delivered about May 16. They will start laying when they are 20 or 21 weeks old. They cost about $1.75 each delivered at Stanton.

Chapman said the market had been guaranteed, as the B. and B. Produce Company of San Angelo would take all the eggs produced. Chapman thinks others may build poultry houses later, but intend to wait awhile and see how the present producers make out in the new business.

Waterspout Hits Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla., May 5 (AP)—A swirling waterspout tore into Pensacola today injuring at least one person, damaging several buildings and knocking out electric power in a large section of the city.

Identified as William Ellis Enfinger, the injured man was dug from debris in a parking garage. He was hospitalized with injuries described as critical.

The waterspout, which the Weather Bureau said became a tornado when it reached land, came from the northwest.

The first building damaged was at a dairy. The twister moved a block further east and struck the parking garage, a two-story structure whose front and sides crumbled onto several automobiles and the 56-year-old Enfinger.

Graham, Given Death Penalty, Will Apply For A New Trial

DENVER, May 5 (AP)—John Gilbert Graham's lawyers prepared today a new trial motion in the first step of what could be a years-long court fight to save the convicted dynamiter of an airliner from Colorado's gas chamber.

Graham, 24, father of two, was convicted last night of first-degree murder by a jury that ordered him executed for killing his mother, Mrs. Daisie E. King, 55. She was aboard a United Air Lines DC6B that exploded last Nov. 1 near Longmont, Colo., with a loss of 44 lives.

Graham in a signed confession—which he later denied—said he stuffed a 25-stick dynamite time bomb in Mrs. King's luggage. Graham purchased two flight insurance policies on her life naming him the beneficiary in the amount of $37,500 each.

"We'll have the new trial motion ready for filing Monday," said Charles S. Vigil, one of Graham's three court-appointed attorneys.

Vigil said it will cite "at least 39 errors" in the conduct of the 17-day long trial by Dist. Judge Joseph M. McDonald.

Use by prosecutors of the terms "44 murders" and "mass murder" in their closing arguments will be among the points the defense will claim as the basis for a new trial, Vigil said.

The seven men and five women jurors reached their verdict on the first ballot. Ralph W. Bonar, jury foreman, said all but five minutes of the 72 minutes the jury was out, was taken reading the court's instructions. He said the decision came after "very little discussion."

Police To Get Gun Training

City policemen will be getting training on firearms next Monday through Friday under the supervision of Federal Bureau of Investigation officials.

The school will be held at least two hours per day. Leading the training Monday will be W. A. Murphy, inspector in charge of the Dallas FBI district, and the remainder of the school will be led by Leo Robertson, FBI agent from Dallas.

Robertson held a week firearms school here in March.

Monday's session will be from 1 p.m. until 3, but the rest of the week, the patrolmen will be attending at different times relative to their shift.

City Managers To Discuss Problems At Tyler Meeting

City Manager H. W. Whitney left Saturday for Tyler and the spring meeting of the Texas City Manager's Association. The session will start tonight and continue through Tuesday night.

Whitney will appear on a panel discussion on personnel management Monday morning. Heading the panel will be J. Frank Davis, Fort Worth city manager, and others on the panel will be Douglas Henslee of Beeville and Jesse Nash of Belton.

Dick G. Pipin of Odessa will be in charge of the conference, although he is vice president of the association. The president, H. G. Stallings of Nacogdoches, is not attending because of illness.

Monday's sessions will be for all city managers, but Tuesday's work will be divided. Managers from cities over 15,000 population will be attending one, and those below will be going to other sessions.

Other than city managers, some of the speakers will be Clarence Ridley, executive director of the International City Managers' Association of Chicago; Emil L. Telfel, professor at Kansas University; D. C. Greer, state highway engineer; W. G. Burns, Dallas fire marshal, Norman Eaton, General Electric Company of Tyler, and Galloway Calhoun, a Tyler attorney.

Topics to be discussed include the Texas highway outlook, press and public relations, traffic, parking, financing highway rights-of-way, and street paving.

To Open Highway Bids May 15-16

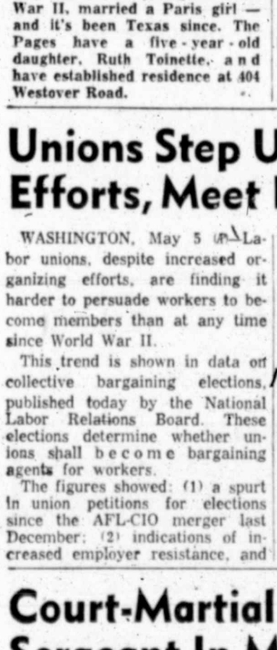

AUSTIN, May 5 (AP)—The Highway Department said today it will take bids May 15-16 on 863 miles of roads.

Low bids are estimated at more than 16 million dollars, the department said. About 209 miles of farm roads and 654 miles of state and U. S. highways will be worked on.

Projects on which bids will be received May 15 are, by counties:

Shoe Manager

In Big Spring and working toward the opening of the new Pelletier's shoe store in the former Swartz location is R. G. (Bob) Page. Page has moved here from Midland where he was manager of the Barnes suburban shoe store, an affiliated shop. He has been in the shoe business for eight years. Once a "Yankee" from Massachusetts, Page came to Texas for Army duty in World War II, married a Paris girl — and it's been Texas since. The Pages have a five-year-old daughter, Ruth Toinette, and have established residence at 404 Westover Road.

'Lost' Little Girl Just 'Misplaced'

That little girl who was "lost" on Friday and created such a dither of excitement and alarm, really wasn't lost at all.

To be lost, one assumes, a person must be in some place unfamiliar to himself and in final analysis, in such a place against his will.

By this definition, Sherald Ann Wilson, seven, 1506 E. 3rd, wasn't lost at all. Rather, the word might be "misplaced" more truthfully.

She disappeared from the ken of her grandparents at that hour. Later Friday, the grandparents became alarmed. They went to the store and asked about her. The girl, said the store operator, had not been in his establishment.

The police were notified. A. E. (Shorty) Long, juvenile officer, was alerted.

While in the store, three little girls, of about Sherald's age, came into the place with empty "coke" bottles to trade for cold drinks.

Long asked them if they knew Sherald Ann. They did. Had they seen Sherald Ann today? They had not. This was followed by the whispered statement that "Sherald Ann played hookey today from school."

Of course.

She was at 308 Donley.

Long hastened to the address. In the yard, were two little girls playing. One was, as you probably have guessed, Sherald Ann.

The time was 2 p.m.

Long returned the girl to her home.

The mother at the house where she had been "visiting" was amazed.

"I've been hearing about that lost girl all morning," she told Long. "I was worried about her — and all of the time she was the girl who was out in the yard playing with my child."

So Sherald Ann wasn't lost after all.

Unions Step Up Organizing Efforts, Meet Resistance

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP)—Labor unions, despite increased organizing efforts, are finding it harder to persuade workers to become members than at any time since World War II.

This trend is shown in data on collective bargaining elections, published today by the National Labor Relations Board. These elections determine whether unions shall become bargaining agents for workers.

The figures showed: (1) a spurt in union petitions for elections since the AFL-CIO merger last December; (2) indications of increased employer resistance, and (3) a low ebb of union success in such elections.

During the first quarter of this year, January through March, petitions for elections totaled 2,211, a 15 per cent increase over the corresponding 1955 period and a 26 per cent jump over the final quarter of 1955.

It was the largest number of election requests in any three-month period since July-September 1953, when 2,240 were filed.

The increased union organizing activity was accompanied by a jump in the number of unfair labor practice charges filed, but the number continued below the level reached in corresponding quarters of prior years.

Court-Martial Ordered For Sergeant In Marine Deaths

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP)—Formal charges of manslaughter, drinking and mistreatment of recruits were filed today against the Marine sergeant who led a disciplinary march during which six men were drowned.

It was at Parris Island that McKeon, a drill inspector, led a 75-man platoon of recruits on a night march into Ribbon Creek April 8. Six of the men drowned in the creek after panic developed in the tidal swamp.

Capt. Ralph C. Wood, Parris Island information officer, said Secretary of the Navy Thomas ordered that a court-martial be convened at Parris Island on May 14 "or as soon thereafter as practicable."

Wood said his "best guess" was that the court would convene during the last week in May after preparing for the case and calling witnesses.

In setting the date for the court-martial and naming 10 officers to the board, Thomas specified the charges against McKeon.

The specifications forwarded to the 31-year-old sergeant were described as slightly different from those recommended by an inquiry board. The board's findings were the equivalent in military law to a grand jury indictment.

In addition to manslaughter, the other charges include:

1. Violation of a general order prohibiting drinking alcoholic beverages in a barracks building.
2. Oppression of recruits by leading them into Ribbon Creek.
3. Drinking intoxicating liquor while on duty and in the presence of a recruit.

Prince Charles Rides His Russian Pony

The pony was presented to 7-year-old Charles by Soviet Premier Bulgani nand Nikita Khrushchev, first secretary of the Communist party, during their recent visit to Britain.

Palace circles said Charles had taken a few "private rides" but this morning he rode the pony into the wide spaces of Windsor Great Park accompanied by Queen Elizabeth II and his sister Princess Anne.

Nikki, the brown bear cub which the Russians gave to Anne, has become the glamor boy of the London Zoo, attracting huge crowds.

Embargo On Arms Splits US, Britain

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP)—Russia's "new look" government is building up a massive drive to break down the embargo maintained by the Western Powers against the sale of heavy industrial machinery and other strategic goods to the Soviet bloc.

The United States and Britain are basically divided in their attitudes toward maintenance of the embargo on any broad list of nonmilitary items. Like the issue of recognition of Red China, the Soviet trade problem is a source of serious concern to State Department officials. It poses a grave threat to Allied unity which may come to a showdown after the presidential election in November.

Officials said today the problem may eventually be handled in its broad political aspects through the North Atlantic Treaty Organization Council. However, there is committee machinery at Paris, with a much broader membership than NATO, for controlling embargo lists in both Europe and the Far East.

The scope of the Russian drive, State Department officials said, is clearly shown by several recent developments:

TRADE OFFERED

1. When Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party boss Khrushchev visited Prime Minister Eden in London two weeks ago, they offered him a billion-dollar trade with Russia provided Russia could buy heavy industrial machinery which is now barred by the strategic embargo list. They dropped the condition when Eden made it unmistakeably clear that he would not violate the agreed list. They agreed to negotiate on trade in nonembargoed goods.

2. On every public occasion Khrushchev and Bulganin attacked the embargo as a barrier to expanding international commerce. They even brandished talk of Soviet military might as a threatening argument for the Western nations to abandon their embargo policy.

3. The Communist government of Romania has proposed that the United States negotiate for a settlement of claims filed by each country against the other and for an improved volume of trade. The Romanian note so heavily emphasized economic issues that U. S. authorities took it to be another move in the Soviet campaign.

BULGARIA PROPOSAL

4. Earlier this year the Communist government of Bulgaria, with which the United States broke relations six years ago, put out feelers for negotiations to end outstanding disputes, restore normal political relationships — and, of course, reopen normal trade.

During the talks with Bulganin and Khrushchev in London Eden, according to official reports to Washington, told the Russians that he would not negotiate with them about the embargo list. They accepted his position, for the time being, but they went over his head in public statements.

This has created new pressures on the British government for action against the list, diplomatic officials say. They report that similar pressures are expected to be generated on the Continent.

The United States' attitude on the embargo list is frozen for the predictable future. Pressures in Congress for strong controls on Soviet bloc trade are so great that every report of a Western move to reduce the list is greeted with angry demands for an investigation. Several years ago Congress enacted a law providing that countries which traded with Russia in banned goods should be denied U. S. aid.

President Eisenhower apparently is less fixed in his thinking about the problem than are many elements in Congress. In a speech here two weeks ago he made an impromptu appeal for understanding of the position of countries which, like Japan, automatically turn to the possibility of trade with the Communist bloc when they cannot find adequate markets in the free world.

Navy Refused Money For Oil Exploration

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP)—The House Appropriations Committee has rejected a Navy request for $529,000 for exploration for oil on San Nicolas Island, Calif.

"There appears to be no authority or justification for the proposed exploration and drilling," the committee said.

The committee recommended $683,000 for the naval petroleum reserves in the fiscal year, a reduction of $2,168,000.

Navy officials testified that while San Nicolas Island was not part of the naval petroleum reserves they believed there was legal authority for the Navy to drill for oil on the island.

Capt. Albert Miller, director of the Office of Naval Petroleum Reserves, testified a preliminary report by the geological survey indicated "that we should continue our exploration which we have started and drill a core hole of about 2,500 feet and if that proved favorable, then we would drill a test well."

Cmdr. E. C. Smith, deputy director of naval petroleum reserves, said it was "clear" to Navy officials that the executive order turning the land over to the Navy contemplated that the Navy would "convert this island to a naval petroleum reserve in the event the presence of oil therein was indicated."

The island has been used as a gunnery and guided missile test range.

"We do not propose to exploit," Miller said.

The Navy, he testified, proposed to "go in on a modest scale, drill a test or core hole and then a test well.

"If we find oil we stop. We know we have it and we can cease activities unless directed to develop it by Congress."

Dag's Skill Holds In Mid-East Deal

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., May 5 (AP)—Dag Hammarskjold's luck is still running good. He is coming back from the uneasy Middle East with his personal prestige considerably enhanced and the rating of the office of secretary general higher than ever in U.N. history.

Hammarskjold does not appear to seek personal glory. But he is jealous of the office he holds. He fights skillfully for it and has managed adroitly to make it an important force for peace.

Hammarskjold's success in obtaining reaffirmation of the cease-fire betwen Israel and the Arab states, Egypt, Syria, Lebanon and Jordan, has amazed and delighted hard-bolled diplomats as well as the man in the street.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U.S. delegate who once feuded with Hammarskjold about handling the Guatemalan revolution crisis in the U.N., now is singing his praises. The Soviet permanent delegate, Arkady A. Sobolev, is quiet publicly but is known to be happy about the results achieved by Hammarskjold.

When Hammarskjold came here from Sweden three years ago the office of secretary general frankly was on trial. The first occupant, Trygve Lie, had become tired of the Russian cold-shoulder and other matters and quit. The general feeling was that the secretary general should be a good civil servant with no opinions and certainly not a trouble shooter.

Hammarskjold, born into diplomacy and endowed with a keen mind, began work quietly. He consolidated the secretariat first. As he settled into his job, he sometimes talked like a Dutch uncle to Lodge or the fiery old Russian, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, or most any other delegate. He was not scolding. He was merely presenting his view and demonstration a stubborn reluctance to be pushed around.

Visitors' Shelter Planned At Lake

FORT WORTH, May 5 (AP)—Plans for building a visitor's shelter on Lake Whitney were announced today by Col. Harry Fischer of the Army Engineers. It will be built at Soldier's Bluff Park site, upstream from the dam on the west side of the Brazos.

Fire Knocks Out Phone Service At Stock Exchange

NEW YORK, May 5 (AP) — Fire last night at the New York Stock Exchange knocked out telephone circuits which, despite feverish work by a big repair crew, may not be restored by the opening of trading on Monday.

As a result, a telephone company spokesman said, some services may be curtailed.

Hereford Breeders Fix Date For Sale

Howard County-South Plains Hereford Breeders have firmed their annual sale date for Jan. 2, 1957.

They also looked ahead to the possibility to resuming the traditional autumn tour if weather conditions should improve range and feed prospects sufficiently.

Directors of the association met Thursday evening in the Chamber of Commerce conference room with Loy Acuff, president, in charge.

Another development was the addition of a pen-of-three bull class to the sale, and Acuff said that this was expected to add considerable interest to the sale.

The association also is going to make an effort to upgrade the cattle from the standpoint of age. Heretofore, the sale has been heavy on calves and younger bulls, thus tending to pull down the sale average.

Named to a committee to recommend whether to have a tour in the autumn or to settle for a field day at Tech, as was the case last year, were J. C. (Cap) McNeal, Crosbyton, Robert Henard, Plains, W. L. Wilson Jr., Luther, and Paul Turner, Sweetwater.

Those on a committee to push for a consignment of more mature breeding stock to the sale are S. A. Youngblood, Lamesa, R. H. Odom Jr., Snyder, Leland Wallace, Big Spring, C. A. Walker, Big Spring, and Charlie Creighton, Big Spring. All directors and officers were here for the parley except O. H. McAlister of Rhome.

Lubbock Man May Return To Church In Italy

ROME, May 5 (AP)—A State Council ruling may result in the return to Italy of a young Texas Protestant who founded the Church of Christ in this Roman Catholic country.

He is Cline Paden of Lubbock, who was compelled to leave Italy seven months ago.

Since he came here seven years ago Paden had sought recognition as a minister from Italy's Interior Ministry. It has authority over non-Catholic religions in the country. The young evangelist left Italy after authorities refused to extend his residence permit.

This week the State Council, the nation's highest tribunal on administrative matters, ruled Paden could conduct his ministry without specific permission.

Giacomo Rosapepe, Rome attorney who represented the Church of Christ, said the decision is a victory for all non-Catholic churches here.

He said Paden has already asked the Italian Interior Ministry for permission to return to Italy, and that the ministry is expected to give permission soon.

Despite frequent trouble with police and refusal of the Interior Ministry to grant it juridical recognition, the Church of Christ has grown in Italy and now holds services in more than 20 towns. Recognition would enable it to operate freely and free it from taxes on its property.

Government Contractors' Pals Have Funds Checked

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP)—The Senate Investigations subcommittee disclosed today it is exploring the bank records of officials reported to have done favors for government contractors.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) told reporters the officials will be called to testify when the subcommittee resumes next week its public hearings in a search for evidence of graft in contracts for the manufacture of army uniforms. He declined to name any of the officials in advance of the hearings, tentatively scheduled for Wednesday.

Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel, said the hearings will switch then to a scrutiny of "how certain contractors were treated differently than others" and to demand an explanation from the procurement officers who handled those contracts.

The subcommittee, in the hearings which started April 10, has heard some testimony that favored contractors were allowed to make profitable deviations from specifications in contracts.

Kennedy said the subcommittee now will ask procurement officials involved to spell out the details of such deviations and why they consented to them. He said the bank records of some of these officials also will be used as a basis for questioning them about their income.

McClellan told reporters "the end is not now in sight" for the inquiry, because new leads seem to unfold constantly as it progresses.

Three major contractors, Joseph (Joey) Abrams of Brooklyn, and Samuel and Herman Kravitz of Atlantic City, N. J., have invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to tell whether they bribed any government officials. Witnesses have said all three were granted deviations which rival bidders were not aware would be permitted.

Kennedy announced Thursday, in the midst of the hearing, that the subcommittee also is digging into evidence that gangsters have bought partnerships in some garment companies which got profitable government contracts.

One of them, he said, is Marco Reginelli, whom he termed "the top hoodlum in the New Jersey-Philadelphia area" but who, he said, is too ill to be called as a witness. He said others will be questioned on this score.

SIMON (CY) TERRAZAS

Simon Terrazas Is Candidate In Precinct No. 1

New candidate for County Commissioner of Precinct 1 is Simon (Cy) Terrazas, who announced Saturday that he has filed for a place on the Democratic ticket in Howard County.

Terrazas issued the following statement:

"I have lived in Howard County since 1929, and have a wife and three children, two of whom are going to West Ward school. For the first 16 years of my residence here I was employed at the Cosden refinery, and then went into private business. For the last nine years I have been actively engaged in various business activities.

"The county's operation is a big and important business, and I feel it is the duty of the County Commissioners to see that it is operated on a businesslike basis. If I am elected, I will devote my time, efforts and experience to this end.

"I will appreciate the vote and influence of every person in Precinct 1."

Highway Patrol Seeks Recruits

Jimmy Parks and Ben Walker, state highway patrolmen stationed in Big Spring, have now assumed the role of recruiters in addition to their other duties.

They are endeavoring to round up suitable candidates for state highway patrol officers.

"The patrol needs men badly," said Parks. "We have been asked to help the Department of Public Safety find eligible prospects."

Parks said that a citizen of Texas who would like to be a patrol officer has a good opportunity at this time to become one.

Such applicants must be between the ages of 21 and 35 years. A candidate must have a high school education or its equivalent.

He must be of good reputation and in good health.

Any person who is interested in this work is asked to contact either Parks or Walker at the court house. The patrol officers will help such applicants get in touch with the proper authorities.

Those accepted will be sent to the Department of Public Safety Patrol Academy at Austin for training and if they make satisfactory grades will be enrolled in the patrol.

O'Daniel Slates Waco Appearance

FORT WORTH, May 5 (AP)—W. Lee O'Daniel said today he will start his campaign for governor next Saturday at Waco.

Speaking on WBAP he said, "This big campaign battle starting in Waco next Saturday evening is going to turn this state upside down, and inside out."

O'Daniel said the Hillbilly boys would travel to Waco with him.

Summit Conference Hit For 'Neutralism' Growth

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP) — A House Foreign Affairs subcommittee reported today that the Geneva summit conference had "seriously weakened" anti-Communist sentiment in the Middle East and Southeast Asia.

It said the conference attended by President Eisenhower and Russian leaders last July helped promote a dangerous "neutralism" and distrust of America in those areas. The feeling in many foreign lands, the congressmen said, is that it is "senseless for them to resist Communists if the West is going to accept the Communists into respectable society as at Geneva."

The six-man bipartisan subcommittee headed by Rep. Zablocki (D-Wis) reported unanimously on a trip last Oct. 11-Dec. 15 which covered 26 countries from Greece to Japan.

In their 213-page report, the congressmen said they found "imposing economic progress," growing political stability and advances in democracy in a number of the nations since a similar survey two years ago.

But the report was also sharply critical of what it termed U. S. "delay and indecision" in the face of the Communists' "determined and concerted bid for the mastery of the world."

The congressmen called for a detailed restudy of U. S. policy aimed at divorcing America from any taint of European colonialism, treating the Asians as equals, making U. S. aid more effective in the face of Red offers, and using free world faith in God as a rallying point in the fight against atheistic communism.

Uncle Ray:

Mexican Capital Now Has Large Population

By RAMON COFFMAN

A timely topic is suggested by Carl U. Larkin, who writes:

"Articles in newspapers are always speaking about the Near East, the Middle East and the Far East. I wonder if you could tell us in your column exactly the parts described by those words."

The British, in their empire building days, invented the terms of which Carl speaks. They have been adopted by people of other countries, but the meanings have been changed to some extent.

Early in the present century, for example, it was the custom to speak of the Balkan countries as being in the Near East. Nowadays people regard the Near East as the area which includes Palestine, Syria, Egypt and Turkey.

The Middle East covers the greater part of southern Asia. Burma, India, Pakistan and Afghanistan are among the countries in the Middle East.

When we come to China, Korea and Japan, we are in the Far East. The Philippines are among the islands of the Far East.

The world's troubles centered in the Far East from the summer of 1950 until 1954. Lately the so-called "hot spots" have been in the Near East, and have been marked by the quarrel between Israel and Egypt. It is curious that the power of the United Nations seems too small to force those countries to arbitrate their trouble.

Almost everyone believes that it would be a crime for any country to start a new world war. In the same way we may think that it is criminal to allow small nations to take part in warfare which might possibly drag in larger nations.

Agreement Near In Broader Telephone Service In Dawson

LAMESA — If negotiations continue as at present, it may not be long until General Telephone Company of Southwest and the Polka-Lambro Telephone reach an agreement for extended area service desired by users of both companies.

The contract has been signed by the REA in Washington and General Telephone in San Angelo. The matter is expected to come before the city council of Lamesa soon.

Officials expect that the additional service will require a small raise in rates for both General and Polka-Lambro users.

Exchanges affected are Lamesa on the General and Hatch, Patricia, and Punkin Center on Polka-Lambro.

The Lamesa Chamber of Commerce and the Dawson County Farm Bureau are among the groups working for extended area service. (Extended area service permits calls between exchanges without the necessity of toll or long distance charges.)

Neighboring Counties Go For Lyndon

Backers of Sen. Lyndon Johnson appeared to have rung up victories in several counties adjoining Howard Saturday.

In Dawson, Johnson supporters captured 54 of the 64 votes in the county convention. Johnson also commanded Precinct 1 (Colorado City) in Mitchell County.

Reports from precinct meetings were incomplete from Martin and Scurry counties, but incomplete tallies gave Johnson decisive margins in both.

Dawson

LAMESA — Lyndon Johnson rolled up 54 of Dawson County's total of 64 delegates in today's precinct conventions and it is probable, observers believe, that he will receive the bulk of the additional 10. Reports from 10 of the rural precincts had not been received last night.

In general, the precinct caucuses were harmonious, according to reports made to Ralph W. Kinsey, County Democratic Central Committee chairman. There were only two episodes in which tempers flared briefly but no rump sessions resulted and across the board the conventions were without special color.

Attendance in the urban boxes was much above average and it was said that the turnout for the rural precincts was "good."

Tabulation of the precincts reported showed: (for Johnson) Precinct 1, four delegates; Precinct 2, five; Precinct 3, twenty-two; Precinct 4, eighteen; Precinct 13, one; Precinct 15, two; Precinct 16, two.

Precincts not reported were 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 14 and 17.

Martin

STANTON (SC) — Martin County's county convention delegate situation was still in unsettled state Saturday evening, but backers of Sen. Lyndon Johnson appeared to have a definite edge.

Morgan Hall, county democratic chairman, said that two delegates from Precinct No. 3 and five from Precinct No. 4 had been certified to him, both supporting Sen. Johnson.

He said he had not received any certification from Precinct No. 2 where the delegation was uninstructed and was said split evenly between Sen. Johnson and/Gov. Allan Shivers.

Precinct No. 1, where another hassle arose, suddenly adjourned without having named delegates or having adopted resolutions, the chairman reported. No reports were heard from outlying boxes.

Mitchell

COLORADO CITY, May 5 — Mitchell County's Precinct 1 placed its support behind Sen. Lyndon Johnson here Saturday with the convention marked by only one contest. That was for permanent chairman of the convention.

The precinct voted to require its 27 delegates to vote as a unit in Tuesday's county convention.

Sen. Pat Bullock was elected permanent chairman of the convention, defeating H. A. McCareley Jr. Frank Ginzel was then named secretary by acclamaton.

One hundred two voters attended the meeting and gave their support to Johnson as a nominee for president and as chairman of the Texas delegation to the national convention.

After Bullock was elected chairman he appointed Eldon Mahon, Bob Golden, Howard Cox, Dave Stubbelfield, Mrs. John Worrell, Mrs. J. D. Williams, and Mrs. Doug Richardson to serve on the resolutions committee. John Worrell, Roy Buchanon, O. L. Simpson, W. C. Hooksa, and Dave Womack comprised the nominating committee.

Tuesday's county convention will select three delegates to the state convention. Precinct 1 is the largest voting unit in Mitchell County.

Scurry

SNYDER, May 5 — With three-fourths of the precincts reporting, Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson had the unanimous support of Scurry County Democrats Saturday night. He had captured 29 of a possible 45 county convention votes.

All but one of the precincts reporting instructed delegates to vote for Johnson at the county meeting. The other precinct picked an uninstructed delegate, and he said he favored Johnson.

Four Are Injured In Crash Near City

Four persons were injured in a two-car crash about one mile north of the city limits Saturday night.

The injured were identified by the hospital as Mrs. Mary Klahr, her daughter, and Mrs. Eva Lee Badell and her son. City police brought Mrs. Klahr and her daughter to Medical Arts Hospital.

The Nalley-Pickle ambulance driver who brought Mrs. Badell to the same hospital said she had a son with her and they took the two to the hospital, but officials at Medical Arts said that they were treating only three persons.

Mrs. Klahr and Mrs. Badell were in a late model Dodge coming toward Big Spring when the accident occured.

According to officers, Mrs. Klahr was forced to the right side of the road by a north-bound auto. When she tried to come back on the highway, her car swung into another car also headed north.

Edwin Kimble Lewis, Terminal, was driving the 1956 Pontiac which hit Mrs. Klahr's auto. The car that forced Mrs. Klahr off originally did not stop.

Traveling with Lewis was his wife and Walter Buford of Lawton, Okla.

Officials at Medical Arts Hospital were checking the injured persons, but no word was given as to their condition.

Riesel Can't Regain Sight, Doctors Say

NEW YORK (AP)—Victor Riesel, labor columnist who for years tried to shed light on labor racketeering, has lost the sight of both eyes. Sulphuric acid was thrown in his face one month ago today.

Four eye specialists announced yesterday they had been unable to save the sight of Riesel, 41, set upon early April 5 as he left a Broadway restaurant. A few hours earlier, Riesel had made a radio attack on labor union racketeering.

Robert M. Hall, president of the syndicate that distributes Riesel's column to the New York Daily Mirror and 192 other newspapers, said yesterday: "There is no hope at all now that Victor Riesel will ever see again."

Hall added that Riesel will continue his column with the aid of assistants.

Nearly $40,000 in rewards have failed to turn up any clue to his assailant, described only as a slender, black-haired man wearing a blue and white lumberjacket. The FBI as well as local police have been conducting an intensive manhunt.

Two Accidents Occur On Fourth

Two small accidents were reported on Fourth Street Saturday.

George C. Weatherford, 507 Bell, and Horace W. Cross were in collision at Fourth and Goliad. Weatherford was in a 1950 Chevrolet, and Cross was driving a 1956 Ford.

In the 200 block of Fourth, Minnie Alice Michael and Capt. Elliot Z. Cohen collided. Both were driving Chevrolets, with the latter having a 1954 model, and the former a 1948.

An accident in the 200 block of Scurry involved Wallace C. Carr and Edmund Burke, 1610 Benton. Carr was in a 1956 Plymouth, and Burke had a 1954 Ford.

Friday, Chandos R. Lawdermilk Jr., 503 E. 17th, and Earle F. Coates, 1506 W. 2nd, were in an accident at 1500 W. 2nd. Lawdermilk had a 1951 model Oldsmobile, and Coates was occupying a 1954 Ford.

'Open House' Held At Courtney School

COURTNEY—Dozens of Courtney community residents as well as visitors from other parts of Martin County were in Courtney Saturday afternoon to attend the open house sponsored by the P-TA at the Courtney school.

Occasion was completion of an $80,000 remodeling and renovation program for the school. Work has been completed and the patrons of the school were invited by the P-TA to visit the plant.

The open house began at 4 p.m. and continued until 8:30 p.m.

Jess Miles, superintendent, said that attendance had been good and that the visitors expressed high approval of the improvements made in the building.

Courtney is an elementary school with an average daily attendance of 80. New equipment and furniture has been installed in much of the building; the main building has been generally remodeled and new rest rooms installed.

Classrooms have been redecorated. The cafeteria has been moved to a new location and equipped with a new steam table, and a walk-in refrigerator.

The gymnasium has been provided with a shower room and lockers.

NOT ONE SLICE FOR SHIVERS?

MERKEL, May 5 (AP) — Johnson supporters in this Taylor County town were able to have their cake and eat it too — today.

The results in the precinct convention — 159 votes for Lyndon Johnson to 1 vote for Allan Shivers — were hardly announced today before a huge cake was brought into the meeting.

Taylor Takes The Stand In Own Defense

SNYDER — Charles Taylor, 42, charged with the fatal shooting of Mrs. Ruth Nichols, his former mother-in-law, was still on the witness stand testifying in his own behalf at 9:30 p.m. Saturday.

At that hour, Taylor had been on the stand continuously since court convened Saturday morning at 9 o'clock.

No hope was held at the Scurry County court house that the case would be concluded Saturday night. State attorneys had yet to cross examine Taylor.

Taylor's testimony early today dealt with events that led to his divorce from his wife, Mrs. Pauline Taylor.

Mrs. Taylor had spent most of Friday on the stand telling of the shooting in front of their home in Snyder last Jan. 19. She testified that Taylor had pointed a gun at her, Mrs. Nichols and a neighbor as the group left her home. Taylor, she related, aimed a gun at Mrs. Margie Lee, the neighbor, as she walked toward her car and waved her back toward the house.

Mrs. Nichols, she said, intervened and begged Taylor not to hurt Mrs. Lee and not to do anything he would be sorry for. Taylor then shot Mrs. Nichols, according to Mrs. Taylor's story.

The Taylors were divorced in 1948 after two years of marriage. They have one daughter. Mrs. Taylor related that her former husband had besought her to remarry him but that she had turned down the proposal after considering it for several weeks.

Lubbock Girl Scout Wins National Honor

NEW YORK, May 5 (AP) — Joe Anne Warren, 15, senior Girl Scout from Lubbock, Tex., today was named "Miss Young America" by the Seventeen Magazine.

She received the award for her essay on "What America Means to Me."

A survey which could vitally affect Howard County is under way in Dawson County. U. S. Department of Labor representatives are checking to determine what were the wages paid to domestic laborers for a 16-day period last autumn. Dawson producers (and those here) contend that when sacks, weighing, hauling, etc. is considered, domestic workers received less than the braceros. If the department so finds, no back pay is due braceros.

Webb AFB officials raised a question last week. Will the Big Spring Independent School District be able to erect a school near the impending on-base housing project with several hundred houses? That, said school officials, would have to wait until after May 15 for an answer.

Dr. Frank Sainburg, whose woes arising out of having taken his son and brought him back to Texas, won his last and to him — most important — court case last week. The former VA Hospital physician was acquitted of kidnaping charges in Ithaca, N. Y.

Petitions are due to be circulated soon, calling for a bond issue for a civil airport. Executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce voted to enlist that organization's support in behalf of the undertaking. A tentative figure is $400,000, and the county basis may be the route proposed.

The Big Spring Fusselman Field turned up another baffling development. Phillips No. 1-A Johnnie showed possibilities as a Canyon producer, then missed completely in the Strawn, where another venture had shown heavy gas and distillate.

GOP Defends Nixon Against 'Smearing' Of Democrats

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP)—Republicans struck back today at Democratic charges that Vice President Nixon had attempted to "smear" them in the last two political campaigns and may try such tactics again.

The staff of the Senate Republican Policy Committee said in a memorandum to members that Democrats "have failed to pinpoint the time, place or speech" in which Nixon even implied that former President Harry S. Truman or Adlai E. Stevenson were "traitors."

"A complete check of all the speeches, press conferences and public statements of Mr. Nixon has failed to disclose any instance in which the vice president said or implied that Mr. Truman or the Democratic party was a 'traitor' or the 'party of treason,'" the memo said.

This was evidently an answer to recent charges by Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler that in 1952 and 1954 President Eisenhower "looked the other way while his vice president impugned the patriotism of a former President, scurrilously attacked a Democratic secretary of state, tried to pin the label of Communist on many patriotic and loyal Democratic candidates . . ."

The GOP Policy Committee said that Nixon's "speeches and statements show that he has stressed consistently that the Communist issue was not a question of relative loyalty of members of either political party but of lack of judgment and negligence on the part of a few leaders in dealing with the Communist issue."

Butler himself was made the object of a renewed attack by Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz).

Goldwater submitted what he said were documents bearing out his charge that compulsory union dues had been used for political purposes. He demanded that Butler "publicly apologize" for disputing this statement before a meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce here earlier in the week.

Goldwater renewed his feud with Butler in a letter contending that examples he cited "prove, beyond any doubt, that compulsory union dues are used to support political parties and candidates." Butler had challenged him to offer proof for his contention.

CONNELLY AND CAUDLE

'Influence' Trial Will Open Monday

ST. LOUIS, May 5 (AP)—Matthew J. Connelly and T. Lamar Caudle, who held high positions in the Truman administration, are scheduled to go on trial here Monday on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government.

A codefendant with the two men is Harry I. Schwimmer, Puerto Rican businessman and former Kansas City attorney.

The trial, expected to last more than one month, is on the docket in the court of U.S. Dist. Judge Rubey M. Hulen, who only last Friday overruled the last of a long series of defense motions before him in the case.

Connelly, 48-year-old New York public relations man, was appointments secretary to former President Truman. The 51-year-old Caudle, Wadesboro, N.C., attorney, was head of the Justice Department's Tax Division until he was fired by Truman for having outside interests incompatible with his government duties.

Maximum penalty upon conviction is a $10,000 fine and five years in prison.

The three defendants, who have been free on bond since the indictment was returned, have filed a series of motions seeking to have the trial continued, transferred or be granted separate trials. All have been overruled and acted upon by either the U.S. Court of Appeals or the U.S. Supreme Court.

A large number of witnesses is expected to be called during the trial, possibly including some representatives of Congress, former government officials and an ex-Supreme Court Justice, still unnamed.

John H. Lashly, St. Louis attorney representing Connelly, said Truman has given a deposition in behalf of Connelly to be used as defense evidence in the trial but said he could not reveal its contents.

Both Connelly and Caudle have charged the indictment was the result of politics.

Connelly and Caudle, in the indictment, were accused of conspiring to improperly use their influence, with the hope of personal gain, in a tax case against Irving Sachs, St. Louis shoe manufacturer. Sachs, who was fined $40,000 in 1951 for evading payment of income taxes, was named as a co-conspirator in the indictment. Schwimmer was an attorney for Sachs.

COUNTY CONVENTIONS

Turnout at all of the precincts in Big Spring was larger than was expected, and both factions expressed gratification at the number of persons participating.

"It's a healthy situation; it shows people are getting interested," said Hardesty. "We believe we have the candidate that can unify the party in Texas, and we think he'll probably go further than just a 'favorite son' candidate."

Howard County Democrats will elect seven delegates to the state convention at the county convention Tuesday evening. The state meeting will be held in Dallas May 22.

Precinct 1

Democrats of Precinct No. 1 were unanimous Saturday in endorsing Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson for chairmanship of the Texas delegation to the national convention and as the party's "favorite son" candidate for president.

Four delegates were elected to cast the precinct's three votes at the county convention Tuesday. They were bound by the unit voting rule.

Endorsement of Sen. Johnson was by a resolution, introduced by Dr. Gale J. Page, which declared the Texas delegation "needs to be heard" at the national Democratic convention.

The 20 Democrats attending the convention named Truett Thomas as convention chairman. He appointed Marguerite Smith as secretary.

Precinct 2

Precinct No. 2, with 20 delegates to the Howard County convention, went heavily in favor of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson here Saturday.

The convention adopted a resolution favoring the senator as leader of the Texas delegation to the national Democratic convention and also as a favorite son candidate. The convention adopted the unit rule for its delegation to the county convention.

There were 98 registered voters in the convention, and the margin on selection of Joe Pickle, a Johnson backer, over James Little, supporter of Gov. Allan Shivers, was 60-35.

Lawrence Robinson, precinct chairman, had asked for a division of the house on the issue of the permanent chairman. Glenn Brown was named permanent secretary, succeeding Mrs. Paul Sheedy, temporary secretary.

Delegates named to the county convention on Tuesday were Harold D. Bishop, L. A. Plowman, Tom Rosson, Bob Pierson, Frank Hardesty, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schattell, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Fitzgerald, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pickle, Mr. and Mrs. Granville Hahn, W. C. Blankenship, Glen Brown, Ben Mabe, G. E. Gilliam, Charles W. Hilliard, G. C. Broughton Jr., and A. A. Cooper.

Precinct 3

Voters went narrowly for Gov. Allan Shivers in Precinct 3 Saturday, electing 11 delegates favoring him to the county convention.

Immediately after the meeting was adjourned by Chairman George Thomas, voters who favored Sen. Lyndon Johnson held a convention, voted to contest legality of the initial session, and named a slate of delegates to the county meet.

J. W. Purser opened the Precinct meeting, and Thomas was elected permanent chairmen of the precinct by a 32-30 margin over H. L. Shirley. Mrs. Cleo Thomas was elected secretary.

A motion carried—heatedly—to select three-man committees to name the delegates and another to submit resolutions.

Selected by the committee as delegates were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Gil Jones, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Atkins, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Hopkins, Mrs. G. G. Sawtelle, and Mr. and Mrs. George Thomas.

The resolution committee's mimeographed recommendations favored Gov. Shivers, the unit rule, the governor's stand on interposition and state's rights.

After the meeting was adjourned, Johnson's followers held a convention and vowed to test the legality of the earlier convention. The difficulty centered around Chairman Thomas' use of voce voting on delegates and the resolutions.

H. L. Shirley was named chairman of the group, and the delegates named were Dr. T. M. Collins, W. H. Wharton, A. G. Hall, Mrs. O. T. Arnold, Gordon Gross, Charles Lawrence, George Melear, Lee Porter, H. L. Shirley, J. B. Pickle, and A. M. Ripps.

Precinct 4

Precinct No. 4 faces the possibility of having two delegations show up for the County convention.

Attended by approximately 70 persons, the meeting opened quietly enough. A delegation favorable to Shivers was first nominated and approved.

The turnout then turned around and beat down a proposal to support Shivers at the County convention, following a close vote.

It was then proposed that the delegation be instructed to support the Johnson faction at the County convention and that passed by a slender majority.

Rather than comply with such instructions, a member of the delegation reminded those present that a unit rule had already been approved and made a motion that the meeting be adjourned.

That move was rejected after considerable bickering among the two factions and the Shivers supporters walked out amid threats that the delegates would not even go to the County convention.

Assuming that the convention had never legally been adjourned, the pro-Johnson group re-convened, named Milton Knowles as chairman, Ronald Farquhar as secretary and, in turn, selected 12 delegates and three alternates to the county convention.

Jack Taylor, a spokesman for the pro-Johnson group, said that, if necessary, a petition insisting that the wishes of the majority present at the convention had not been respected would be prepared and presented to the county chairman.

Precinct 8

Voting Precinct 8, Big Spring, meeting Saturday at West Side School, voted almost unanimously in favor of resolutions supporting Lyndon Johnson as Texas' delgation leader to the national Democratic convention. There was no mention of Johnson as the state's "favorite son" in the resolution.

The convention elected six delegates to the county convention — the delegation being bound by convention rule to vote as a unit.

The meeting was entirely harmonious. It was attended by 50 Democrats from the precinct. L. R. Mundt, who served as temporary chairman and was then unanimously elected as permanent chairman, said that attendance was the largest he had ever seen at this precinct at a convention.

Mrs. Kenneth Howze was elected as recording secretary.

Adoption of the one resolution lauding Johnson and urging the solidarity of the Democratic party was passed without debate and with one or two dissenting votes.

Unit rule was adopted unanimously.

Precinct 9

COAHOMA — Eight delegates from Coahoma will go to the County Democratic Convention Tuesday instructed to vote as a unit backing Sen. Lyndon Johnson as Texas delegation leader to the national convention.

Ralph White, regular precinct chairman, was named permanent chairman of the convention.

Elected delegates to the county convention were Homer Miller, chairman; T. O. Arnett, F. W. Burkholder, Gordon Creek, H. H. Tanner, W. T. Barber, J. R. Bales and Martha White.

Precinct 10

FORSAN—The delegates of Forsan to the Howard County Democratic convention went Saturday in favor of Sen. Lyndon Johnson. They were bound by the unit rule to cast the precinct's two votes.

Named as delegates to the convention were Bob Cowley, Wayne Monroney and Clifton Ferguson. Alternates named were Mrs. Jess Buchanan, Fern Bedell and Elray Scudday. Cloy Bedell was named permanent chairman. The convention adopted resolutions backing Sen. Johnson as Texas delegation head and as a favorite son candidate for president.

Precinct 16

What was thought to be a record turnout was represented in the Precinct 16 meeting at Park Hill School. Registration showed 102.

Shivers forces were in the majority by about 10-to-1, and applied quick "steam-roller" tactics in getting across their delegate slate and Shivers-sponsored resolutions.

One of these upheld the principle of states rights, and endorsed the Governor as leader of the Texas delegation to the National convention. Another sanctioned a referendum in the July primary on the "interposition" issue, and advocated efforts in the National convention for this issue.

Douglas Orme was named permanent chairman and Mrs. V. A. Whittington secretary. Delegates to the county convention, bound to vote as a unit, were Mrs. Floyd R. Mays, B. L. Coughlin, Mrs. J. Y. Robb, Mrs. Elmo Wasson, Mrs. Truman Jones, Douglas Orme, Roy Reeder, R. W. Whipkey, Mrs. John Hodges, Alternates were Mrs. E. V. Spence, Mrs. V. A. Whittington, H. C. Stipp, K. H. McGibbon, Mrs. J. M. Woodall, Dr. M. W. Talbot Jr., Ted O. Groebl.

Candidates Have Until Monday Night To Get On Demo Ballots

Guilford Jones, district attorney; Harvey Hooser Jr., county attorney; Mrs. Viola Robinson, county assessor-collector, and Obie Bristow, state representative—all asking re-election to the posts they now hold—were without opposition in official filings Saturday afternoon.

Candidates for state, county and precinct offices must file with the County Central Democratic Committee chairman by midnight Monday if they are to have their names on the ballot at the July primaries.

J. W. Purser, chairman, said that the lists will be officially closed at that hour.

Arthur Stallings, commissioner, Precinct 3, is not seeking re-election. His decision not to be a candidate has resulted in five contenders, filing for the post he will leave vacant.

They are R. L. (Poncho) Nall, Avery Faulkner, Dan Greenwood, Hudson Landers and J. J. McClanahan.

Jess Slaughter, sheriff, who has filed to succeed himself, has drawn a trio of opponents for the July primary. They are Jake Bruton, Miller Harris and Randell Sherrod.

Ralph Proctor, commissioner, Precinct 1, had only one opponent on the official lists Saturday afternoon. He is P. O. Hughes. However, R. M. Wheeler, Coahoma, has officially announced as a candidate but evidently has not yet filed with the county chairman. An announcement for the post came Saturday from Simon Terrazas.

Walter P. Grice, Justice of the Peace, Precinct 1, Place 1, is unopposed at this time for re-election. Grover C. Coates, constable in Precinct 2, is also without opposition in his announced plan to seek the office for another term.

Three candidates have filed for constable in Precinct 1.

They are W. O. Leonard, incumbent, C. H. Forgus and W. H. Hood Jake Robertson has also filed for the post but it is understood that he has removed his residence from the county. Purser has not been advised officially of his withdrawal from the race.

Purser said that other filings received by his office include:

E. H. Boulter, State Board of Education; Milburn S. Long, Court of Civil Appeals, 11th Supreme Court District; George Mahon, congressman, 19th District.

Soon after the close of the filing period, Purser said an estimate will be made and each of the candidates will be advised of the prorata share he must pay for his candidacy.

He said that costs this year will be considerably higher than in other recent elections— a situation created by the relatively few candidates who have filed. The costs in state contests are established elsewhere and it will be solely the contenders for county posts who are to be concerned with the cost findings to be reached next week.

Cotton Pulling Pay Survey Started By Labor Department

LAMESA — Department of labor officials have arrived in Dawson County to begin a survey of wages paid boll pullers between Oct. 20 and Nov. 6, 1955.

Friday the group began a study of the records available in the county for the survey.

In charge of the delegation which is expected to make the most completed survey yet undertaken in the back wage dispute which began about Nov. 1 is L. M. Paves. Labor department representatives have been assured 100 per cent cooperation of cotton growers by a group of farm leaders who earlier this week conferred with Roberto Siciliano, under secretary of labor in Washington D. C.

The study here is an outgrowth of an announcement by the labor department that Dawson County cotton growers had underpaid braceros about 20 cents per hundred pounds of cotton harvested during the period in question.

Howard Residents Go For 'E' Bonds

It was just 15 years ago this month that the government first placed Series E savings bonds—the kind that the bulk of ordinary citizens buy and keep—on the market.

From that beginning in May 1941,—just a few short months before the outbreak of World War II—billions of dollars have been invested in government bonds by men, women and children of this nation.

Howard County, Big Spring officials say, "took" to the idea of buying E Bonds as soon as these securites came on the market and the habit of setting aside a part of each weekly or monthly paycheck to this purpose persists steadily.

The treasury department estimated that at this time, 40,000,000 Americans hold E bonds which represent a total value of more than $41 billion.

No complete figures are available as to the number of Howard County residents there are owners of Series E bonds. Nor is the total dollar value of these securities held by county residents available.

Bank officials assert, however, that it is probable the per capita investment in these bonds in this county is well on a par with all other counties of comparable economic position.

The special feature of the E bonds over other government securities rests in two attractive characteristics they posess. They are high interest paying—a bond for $75 kept 10 years to its maturity date will return the investor $100. The bonds can be cashed at any time the owner desires after he has held them in his possession for 60 days. They begin to "grow" in value after a single year and their increased worth continues year by year until they have reach maturity.

Hundreds of firms in the Howard County area have set up programs where a certain percentage of an employe's salary is deducted monthly. When his accumulated savings is equal to the cost of a Series E bond, one is purchased for him. Some employes save out enough from each pay check to buy a $25 bond each payday. Others, perhaps, require accumulated deductions of several pay periods to provide the money for a similar bond.

The payroll savings plans which were adopted widely during the war years are still operating healthily in many Big Spring organizations, the bankers report.

Many new homes, shiny automobiles, modern household appliances found in Big Spring owe their existence to the thrifty habit their owners acquired of buying E bonds regularly in the 15 years since the first bonds were sold. Hundreds of citizens, finding themselves hard pressed for ready cash because of illness, disaster or other troubles, have found the cluster of Series E bonds they have accumulated to be life savers.

Other buyers purchase the securities and hold them until they have reached maturity. How many millions of dollars in readily available cash are represented in the bond holdings of thousands of Howard County residents is not known but it is the belief of those who watch the bond sales that the total would be most impressive.

G. M. Humphrey, secretary of the treasury, recently sent a letter to the savings bond program leaders in all of the towns and counties of the nation.

In this letter, he called attention to the 15th anniversary of the issuance of the First Series E bonds. He said that in 1955, Americans bought $5.4 billions in Series E and H bonds. This, he said, brought the total of bonds of these denominations outstanding to $41 billion. He pointed out that 40,000,000 Americans—a fourth of the nation's population — owned these bonds.

In 1956, he said, the treasury department proposes to step up the sales of E and H bonds. The goal set for the year is $5.65 billion—a high total to properly celebrate the 15th anniversary of the Series E issue.

Here in Big Spring and Howard County, leaders in the savings bond program expect the same steady demand for these bonds to continue which has marked their career since 1941.

When the goal for the county for 1956 is announced, leaders here are convinced that local residents will probably exceed it—regardless of the amount.

Pupil Transfer Deadline Near

Parents have less than one month in which to apply for transfer of their scholastic-age children from one district to another within the county.

Walker Bailey, county superintendent, reminded Saturday that the deadline is June 1. Those who fail to apply for transfer, if they are moving from one district to another, may run the risk of having to pay tuition in the district to which they move.

Transfers are not needed for changing schools within a district, or from one county to another. However, if a child is moved to another county and the new district touches on the county from which he is moved, then a transfer is necessary.

Fees Up In Peace Justice Office

LAMESA — Justice of Peace Jim Edwards reported Friday that his office had collected $1,712.30 in fines and fees during the month of April 1956. This compared with $1,120.20 with April of 1955.

Yearly receipts from fines and fees in the office also are showing a steady increase, according to figures released by Edwards. During the first four months of 1955, less than $3,900 was taken in by the justice of peace office. This year the first four months have brought in more than $6,000. Edwards reported also that 202 births have been registered in Dawson during the first four months of 1956. There were 57 deaths during the same period.

Dawson Finals Pair In The Welch Pool

Welch field completions in Dawson County include one drilled by Western and one by Cities Service. Both finaled for about 68 barrels per day.

Western No. 1-A Kee pumped 68.75 barrels of 31 gravity oil, plus 20 per cent water in 24 hours, after being acidized with 2,000 gallons. Site is 461 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines, 13-C38, PSL Survey, and three miles west of Welch.

Pay is reached at 4,700 feet, and the hole is bottomed at 4,912 feet. The 5½-inch casing is set at 4,770 feet.

Cities Service No. 7-B Dupree produced 69 barrels of oil in potentialing, plus 28.3 per cent water. Gravity is 33. The well had been treated with 12,000 gallons acid.

The well is located 660 feet north and 1,980 feet from east lines, 69-M, EL&RR Survey, and 11 miles west of Welch.

In finaling, the well pumped 58.34 barrels of 2.15 gravity oil, plus six per cent water. Flow was from perforations of 1,680-708 feet. Top of the pay zone is 1,665 feet, and the hole is bottomed at 1,740 feet.

Miami Operating Company of Abilene finished the No. 1 A. L. Cole in the Westbrook field. It pumped 106.15 barrels of oil in a potential test. Gravity is 24, and gas-oil ratio is 75.

It is 330 feet from north and 1,001 feet from east lines, Cuthbert Vacancy Strip Survey No. 2, and about eight miles north of Colorado City.

Operator set the 5½-inch casing at 3,265 feet, and the hole was bottomed only two feet deeper. Perforations are from 3,175-79, and 3,215-23 feet.

Not A Winter Scene

Air Well Recalls Early Day Strike

By TOM JAY GOSS II

COLORADO CITY — Last week the DSC Oil Company No. 1 McGuire came in with a roar — a roar of trouble that is.

Tremendous air pressures spewed a column of salt water high over the crown block, and there was no significant let-up.

Location of the 1,800-foot prospector is 660 from the north and 1,980 from the west lines of section 9-27-1n, T&P, nine miles northwest of Colorado City.

Jeff Ellis, of the Ellis Drilling Corporation, said Friday night that the salt water and air was still flowing from the well — "but we've slowed it down some." On Thursday, the well looked like Old Faithful without rest periods — shooting a vertical column spectacularly more than a hundred feet into the air, with the salt drifting out over the surrounding pastures to coat them with white. The sunburned prairie had the lush smell of the seashore.

"We've never hit anything like it," Ellis said. "We'd just completed a good sixty barrel well on the Leslie Hamilton place at Cedar Bend about a mile east, and this was a complete surprise to us."

Oldtimers in Mitchell County pointed out that the Badgett No. 1, which came in similarly in September of 1922 was only a mile or so away and had reached the same depth (1,100 feet) when the salt, air and water began to roar from the ground.

The old Badgett No. 1 was the first "salt gusher" in West Texas, but another was drilled west of Colorado later, by B. F. Robbins, Wilbanks Bros. et al, and oilmen say that others have been drilled near Post.

The Badgett well was the object of considerable excitement since Colorado City people could hear its roar from Colorado City and could see it spouting from the hills west of Colorado City. Considerable speculation went into attempting to find some use for the well's product. An attempt was made to burn it, since the first thought was that here was a natural gas well, but the stuff wouldn't burn. There seemed to be no demand for the salt, since Colorado City was flanked with underground salt pools and had been an early day salt producer.

In October, the well finally toppled its derrick, and estimates were made that it was still flowing 12,000 barrels of salt water per day.

R. M. Hoffer, San Angelo oil man said at the time, "The well represents a display of underground forces of nature the like which has probably never been witnessed before in Texas or perhaps elsewhere."

Hoffer also said that it would be impossible to cap the Badgett until the pressure dropped. He was apparently correct since it was well into November before the well was finally capped, leaving scores of acres of pastureland covered with salt.

Ellis faces a similar problem in stopping the flow of the McGuire No. 1 and said rather grimly Friday night, "Surely, it'll die down soon!"

COSDEN STAKES SHALLOW TEST

Cosden Petroleum Corporation has reported staking a wildcat venture about four miles southeast of Big Spring.

The location will be the No. 1 Morgan-Wasson and is to be a test of the San Andres formation. Contracted depth is 3,600 feet to be negotiated with rotary tools.

Nation's Producing Capacity Increases

HOUSTON, May 5 (AP)—The U.S. oil producing capacity has increased 33 per cent in 5 years.

By Dec. 31, the nation is expected to have a maximum daily capacity exceeding 10 million barrels.

These figures were in the mid-year forecast published this week by the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America.

IPAA's supply and demand committee estimated total 1956 U.S. petroleum demand will average 9,197,000 barrels daily or 4.7 per cent above 1955.

The committee said domestic production and foreign oil imports will have to average 9,235,000 barrels daily if the industry is to meet this demand and add to inventories.

The new total demand forecast is 200,000 barrels daily above an estimate prepared last October. This, the committee said, results from a colder winter than normal and from an improved outlook for general business activity.

By next January, the nation is expected to have a productive capacity of 10,230,000 barrels daily, including 9,430,000 for crude oil and 850,000 barrels of natural gas liquids. An estimated 9,754,000 barrel capacity last January represented a 5.8 per cent increase during 1955 and included 8,929,000 barrels for crude and 825,000 for natural gas liquids.

Four Counties In Wide Area Due Wildcats

Locations for new wildcats in Gaines, Scurry, Irion, and Runnels counties have been staked for immediate drilling.

The Gaines project is Cities Service No. 9 Proctor. It is contracted to 13,500 feet—and may go deeper—to reach and test the Ellenburger.

Location is 10 miles northwest of Seminole and 2,040 feet from north and 1,880 feet from west lines, 355-G, CCSD&RGNG Survey. This prospector is adjacent to production from the San Andres lime above 5,100 feet in the Seminole, West field.

Kewanee Drilling Company of Midland is staking the No. 1 Sanders eight miles south of Snyder in Scurry County. The location is 330 feet from north and 2,310 feet from west lines, 145-3, H&GN Survey.

Operator will be drilling to 3,000 feet to try to Clear Fork.

In west Irion County, Stanolind No. 1-D Ela C. Sgg is to be a 5,200-foot venture to try production in the Clear Fork. It is 11 miles north of Barnhart and two and a half miles northwest of the Ketchum Mountain (Clear Fork) pool. Location is 860 feet from south and 660 from east lines, 68-14, H&TC Survey.

Haynes B. Ownby of Dallas No. 1 Alfred H. Herring is to be a 3,900 foot wildcat in east Runnels, four and a half miles north of Talpa.

Reagan Explorer Now Making Hole

Cosden's deep explorer in Reagan County, its No. 1 Ricker, was making steady progress Saturday.

Operator drilled ahead below 2,689 feet. This prospector is projected to test the Ellenburger under a permit for 11,000 feet. Location is 1,980 from the north and 660 from the east lines of section 45-A, L&SV RR survey.

Oil Editor

Dal Dalrymple, long-time oil news writer, has been named editor of the Drill Bit, a magazine devoted to the oil industry in the Permian Basin. Dalrymple has served as oil editor of the Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune, associate editor of Oil & Gas Journal, editor of the Midwest Oil Journal, and editor of the David Lawrence daily oil report. Drill Bit was established four years ago by Guy Raymer, Odessa.

Merger Vote Due Tuesday

Directors of Cosden Petroleum Corporation will meet Tuesday with the proposed merger with Grace & Co. as the prime item of business.

The session has been called for 10 a.m. at San Antonio, and indications are that all directors will be present.

R. L. Tollett, president, is out of town on business and will stop in New Orleans, La., Monday for a luncheon of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers. After Tuesday's board meeting in San Antonio, he may fly to Fort Worth to attend a meeting of the First National Bank board of directors, returning here Tuesday evening.

AT SAN ANTONIO

Atoms In Business Display Announced

SAN ANTONIO — Exhibits which will explain possible peacetime uses of atomic energy to businessmen will be on display at the first "Atoms-in-Business" conference in the Southwest to be held here May 10 and 11 at the Plaza Hotel. The conference is sponsored jointly by Southwest Research Institute and the Atomic Industrial Forum, Inc.

Among the displays will be nuclear reactors for research and other new developments using atomic energy as well as the "Summary of Atomic Energy" exhibit from the American Museum of Atomic Energy at Oak Ridge.

The two-day conference is being held to alert business, industrial and agricultural leaders of the Southwest to the significance and business potentials of atomic energy.

A slate of nationally known speakers from the various fields of atomic development will address the conference on all phases of atomic energy, its application to new business developments, and how these will affect both large and small business.

The use of isotopes for practical application will be demonstrated in a product known as the AMF Neleonic Microfeed. This device is an attachment to a cigarette-making machine and regulates the density of cigarettes, thereby confining cigarette weights to an extremely narrow range to insure better product uniformity.

Old Wells Will Re-Test

Atlantic Refining Company will try the No. 1-32 J. B. Calverly, which is 25 miles southeast of Midland, at 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines, 32-36-4s, T&P Survey.

It will be plugged back from 7,753 feet.

Sohio Petroleum is plugging back the 1-A M. V. Bryans.

It is staked 660 feet from north and east lines, 12-37-5s, T&P Survey, and about 21 miles southwest of Garden City. Operator will be plugging back to 6,500 feet to test the Clear Fork.

Sinclair No. 6 Bigby pumped 11.7 barrels of 38 gravity oil, plus 16 per cent water, in a potential test. The well is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines, 10-36-5s, T&P Survey.

The hole is bottomed at 6,900 feet and plugged back to 6,490 feet. Seven inch casing is cemented at 6,597 feet, and perforations are between 6,155-213 feet. Top of the pay zone is at 6,155 feet.

Eastern Howard Starts Two Tests

C. D. Turner moved in on his No. 1 Echols, which will be an Atlan-East Howard venture three miles southeast of Coahoma.

After setting the 9⅝-inch casing at 125 feet with 75 sacks, operator drilled ahead to 1,794 feet in lime on Saturday morning. Location is 330 from the north and east lines of section 7-30-1s, T&P.

In the same general sector, Fair and Woodward No. 19 Susie Snyder, bidding as a Snyder producer, was treating with sanfrac Saturday preparatory to testing. Loction is 2,310 from the north and east lines of section 20-30-1s, T&P.

Rate Hike Denied

WASHINGTON (AP)—Natural gas rate increases totaling about $2,635,000 a year by four independent producers on sales to Trans-Continental Gas Pipeline Corp. of Houston were denied yesterday by a Power Commission examiner.

Howard-Glasscock Pool Gains Well, Moore Tests Proceed

Cosden No. 15-A Clay has been completed as another producer in the Howard-Glasscock pool.

The test, located 990 from the north and 2,310 from the west lines of section 126-29, W&NW, was bottomed at 1,795. After fracing with 3,000 gallons, it pumped 54 barrels of oil in 24 hours.

In the Moore pool, Cosden No. 1 Cecil Wasson, 330 from the south and 990 from the west lines of section 15-33-1s, T&P, started a core at 3,080 feet and was down to 3,111 Saturday morning.

C. W. Guthrie No. 1 Cherry, 330 from the south and west lines of the east half of the southwest quarter of section 23-33-1s, T&P, was in the process of completing.

Duncan Drilling Company No. 3-A Patterson, 1,650 from the north and 990 from the west lines of section 22-33-1s, T&P, was bottomed at 3,150 and prepared for final test.

Duncan Drilling Co. No. 3-B Patterson, 2,310 from the south and 330 from the west lines of section 26-33-1s, T&P, progressed to 1,900.

Grahold Oil Co. No. 1 Cherry, 330 from the north and east lines of the west half of the southwest quarter of section 23-33-1s, T&P, reportedly had finally lost a hole which had given trouble for the past three weeks. Prospects are that the rig will be skidded and a new hole drilled.

Grahold Oil No. 4 Cherry, 330 from the south and west lines of the west half of the southwest quarter of section 23-33-1s, T&P, was in process of completing.

Phillips Well Misses Strawn

Phillips Petroleum Company No. 1-A Johnie, which last week showed prospects in the Canyon, has shown no possibilities in the Strawn.

Saturday the venture was below 9,313 feet. The Strawn did not show enough prospect to warrant testing. On an earler test of the Canyon from 8,623-90, the east edger in the Big Spring Fusselman field returned 14 barrels of oil and no water in one hour on a drillstem test. This was the first time any of the wells in the pool had shown possibilities of commercial production in the Canyon reef. Half a mile to the northwest Stanolind No. 1 Stevenson had made a strong distillate and gas showing in the Strawn.

Phillips No. 1-A Johnie, which is located C NW NW 7-31-1n, T&P, was to continue on to test the Fusselman, the first pay from which the pool produced.

To the northwest, Phillips No. 1-A Othello, located 665 from the south and 1,986 from the west lines of section 1-32-1n, T&P, drilled below 2,500 feet.

Strike Ended

HOUSTON (AP) — A 32-day-old strike at the Ethyl Corp. plant ended last night. The Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union approved a wage increase of 6 per cent.

Borden Operations Are Proceeding

Pure No. 1 Clayton, a wildcat prospector seven and a half miles southwest of Gail in Borden County is drilling ahead at 8,300 feet in lime. It is located 660 feet from north and 1,910 feet from east lines, 15-32-4n, T&P Survey.

Operator has contracted to drill to 9,700 feet.

Another wildcat, Ashmun and Hilliard No. 1 J. M. Higginbotham is running intermediate casing.

He had purchased the house from them and they had continued to live with him for several years. The son said the order to move was obtained because of "family friction." (AP Wirephoto.)

Hot Governorship Contest To Be Decided In Florida

MIAMI, Fla., May 5 (AP)—A Florida governorship race heated by segregation talk and personality clashes winds up at the polls Tuesday in the Democratic primary election.

An estimated 800,000 Democrats are expected to turn out for the election, in which the battle for governor has completely overshadowed a senatorial contest, four other statewide races and three congressional tilts.

Republicans hold a primary the same day but no statewide offices are being contested and a turnout of about 140,000 is expected. Major attractions on the GOP side are two congressional races in south Florida.

The governorship contest is a six-man affair in which incumbent Leroy Collins, 47, is in the rare role of seeking re-election.

It has turned into a hot four-cornered fight in which former House Speaker Farris Bryant, 41-year-old Ocala attorney; and 63-year-old Sumter L. Lowry of Tampa, also have become major contenders.

All of the candidates except one have pledged all their efforts to preserve segregation, but have differed in their approach.

Streets, who concedes that he has little chance for election, has come out for integration.

Lowry, making his first campaign for public office, has hammered away at the segregation theme, contending it was the only issue.

In speech after speech, Lowry has charged that the U. S. Supreme Court acted without any basis in law when it ruled out segregation in the nation's public schools. He has urged that the Florida Legislature be called into special session to adopt an interposition resolution.

U. S. Sen. George A. Smathers is being opposed by a political newcomer, Erle L. Griffis, a MacClenny attorney, who has contended Smathers wasn't doing all he could to prevent integration.

Machines Here For Tax Office

Equipment which will "mechanize" most of the work in the office of Mrs. Viola Robinson, county assessor-collector, has arrived and is being set up.

The equipment includes machinery for tabulating taxes, figuring rates and preparing statements in a single operation. An addressograph machine is also being installed. When this is in service, names of all persons who have business with the office of the tax assessor's office will be on file and available for any communications that may become necessary.

Mrs. Robinson did not know, she said, when all of the machinery would be in place and the entire new system would be put to work.

SAVED BY HIS SAFETY BELT

GEORGE WEST, Tex., (AP)—Tom Johnson's vehicle struck a tree, knocked down a fence and came to rest upside down on the middle of Highway 281 when it ran out of gas near here yesterday.

Patrolmen said the San Diego, Tex., man was saved from serious injury by his safety belt. Johnson's vehicle was an open cockpit plane he was flying from Alice.

Decision Due On Paving Contract

Formal approval of the contract for topping five miles of the Vincent Highway will probably be given by the Commissioners Court at its regular Monday meeting.

The board opened bids at a special meeting Wednesday. Five bids were posted and Jones Bros., Odessa, was the apparent low bidder.

The firm bid $13,725 to do the job under what the commissioners termed "Alternate 1." This would be topping the strip of highway after county workmen had put the surface in proper shape for the final treatment. Jones Bros. bid on "Alternate 2"—in which the firm would prepare and then top the road—was $17,089.

Commissioners will decide Monday which of the two bids to accept and what course of action will be taken to complete the road.

No special business other than the probable final decision on the road contract was on tap insofar as officials at the courthouse were aware Saturday.

Poisoning Scene Turned Out To Be Exactly That

TORONTO, May 5 (AP)—The play "Arsenic and Old Lace" got an unexpected touch of realism last night.

As the curtain rang down on the second act, Yoachim Schwanenberger and Dick Ronan of the Lakeshore Players clutched their throats in agony.

Cast as two of the victims of the play's old lady poisoners, they had just taken a healthy swallow of what the dialogue called "arsenic-spiked elderberry wine." The bottle was supposed to contain a soft drink, but a confused stage hand had passed them the wrong bottle. A doctor said it contained a detergent solution.

Special Programs To Mark Chamber Of Commerce Week

A week-long series of radio and television programs and other activities will start in Big Spring Monday in observance of Chamber of Commerce Week.

Both Mayor G. W. Dabney and Gov. Allan Shivers have proclaimed May 6-12 as Chamber of Commerce Week, calling attention to the role a Chamber of Commerce fills in the economic and cultural life of a community and urging citizens to take note of and support the organization's activities.

J. H. Greene, local Chamber manager, has announced that all committees of the organization will be called to meetings this week.

The various groups will complete the mapping of programs for the year, and decide on steps to take in execution of the programs.

Dr. R. Gage Lloyd, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, will address Chamber of Commerce directors at their meeting at noon Monday. He will outline responsibilities of the Chamber to its community, and call attention to ways officers and individual members can fulfill the obligations.

Dr. P. D. O'Brien, First Baptist pastor, will introduce the speakers. Spokesmen for the towns had not been chosen Saturday.

Other telecasts are planned at 6 p.m. Monday through Friday on Channel 4. Radio broadcasts are set for 6:45 a.m. and 11 a.m. daily on KBST and at 6:15 p.m. daily on KTXC.

McEwen Jr., Edith Gay, J. B. Wigington, Oliver Cofer, R. Gage Lloyd, R. H. Weaver, Bill Dawes, John Taylor, Roy Reeder and J. H. Greene.

Civic Affairs Chairman Cites C-C's Importance

(As a Chamber of Commerce Week feature, The Herald is presenting a series of sketches on the coordinators of the five divisions of the Big Spring Chamber. This is the first of the series).

"If you don't have a Chamber of Commerce, you don't have a town."

That's the way Sam McComb, Howard County maintenance supervisor for the Texas Highway Department, explains his interest in the Big Spring Chamber. McComb is coordinator of the civic affairs division of the organization.

"I think every business man and everyone interested in the future of the town should support the Chamber of Commerce," McComb asserted.

The civic affairs coordinator has lived in Big Spring for 22½ years, since September of 1933. He has worked in the Chamber of Commerce for more than a decade.

Born in Kent County, McComb was in the drug business for four years after service in World War I. Following this, he was elected sheriff of Kent County in 1921 and served four years, 1922 through 1926.

McComb then entered the cattle business, leaving that to join the Highway Department in the early thirties. He moved his family to Big Spring soon after starting highway work and has lived here ever since.

McComb and Miss Verda Mae Bilberry, Jayton, were married Oct. 15, 1919, and lived in Jayton and in Baird briefly before moving to Big Spring.

They have two sons, Efl, a geologist for Cosden Petroleum Corp., and Dell, speech teacher in Big Spring High School, and a daughter, Sammie, high school sophomore.

In addition to his civic activities in support of the Chamber of Commerce, McComb is a leader in Scout work. He now is serving his second term as camping and activities chairman for the Lone Star Scout District.

"I surely enjoy my work with the Scouts," McComb said. "The top boys are in Scouting."

McComb is a Mason and Shriner and he and other members of the family are active in the First Presbyterian Church.

SAM McCOMB

As coordinator of the civic affairs division of the Chamber of Commerce, McComb is responsible for coordinating the planning and execution of programs relating to education, health and sanitation, highways and streets, beautification, master planning, housing, clean-up campaigns and paving. Committees, each directed by its own chairman, handle details of the various projects.

HCJC Choir Sets Concert

The Howard County Junior College Choir will present a public concert at 8 p.m. Thursday, Orland Johnson, director, announced Saturday.

The program will be the same as was presented on the choir's annual tour, the director said. Selections will cover the field of music.

Featured soloists will be Martha Winans, soprano, and Doyle Jenkins, baritone. The boys' quartet—Dee Phillips, Dennis Phillips, Doyle Jenkins and Ray Weathers—also will be featured.

Johnson said the program is being planned as a part of the National Music Week observance here. There will be no admission charge. The concert will be given in the HCJC auditorium.

Just 15 years ago, in May, 1941, millions of Americans started buying Series E Savings Bonds through the U. S. Treasury Department. Those Bonds were called Defense Bonds in that troubled time. And if you were like most people, you bought them to help your country.

Let's see how your investment has paid off. First of all, you helped end tyranny on foreign shores and bring back peace to the world. Secondly, you helped finance the greatest prosperity this country has ever known. And equally important, your Bond investment has made a lot of your own personal dreams come true. New homes financed through Savings Bonds. College educations paid for by Bonds. Retirement days brightened by Bonds. Yes, there have been many, many happy returns — thanks to U. S. Savings Bonds.

Just stop and think. If you had bought just one $50 Bond a month (at $37.50) every month since the beginning of the Bond Program, your investment would be worth $8,242 today. Start buying one $50 Bond a month today — and 15 years from now you'll have a cash reserve of $8,372.

So don't delay. Sign up for Payroll Savings where you work or buy Bonds regularly where you bank. Make sure that you get in on these happy returns.

15 Years of making dreams come true—through U.S. Savings Bonds

Sayre Shades HCJC In Region Finals

SAYRE, Okla., May 5 (SC) — Leonard Scalf pitched the Sayre Junior College Indians to an 8-0 victory over HCJC of Big Spring, Texas, in the championship finals of the Region 5 baseball tournament here Saturday afternoon.

Defensively, the Hawks played one of their worst games. The Indians earned only four of their tallies. In all, the Big Spring club was guilty of nine misplays.

Dewey Hunt paced the Sayre attack on two HCJC hurlers. He drove out a triple and two singles.

Don Isham, who started on the mound for the Hawks, pitched three innings of shutout ball before yielding a lone tally. The Oklahomans then all but salted away the decision with a three-run sixth.

The defeat ended HCJC's season, leaving it with an 8-4 won-lost record.

The Hawks had surged into the finals with an 11-3 victory over Clarendon Friday afternoon. In that one, the Texans made the most of eight hits.

Kidd Waddill, who went all the way on the mound for HCJC, helped win his own game by driving in four runs. Waddill and Glen Brawley each had four hits for the winners.

Waddill set the Bulldogs down with three hits and kept them away from the plate until the seventh.

Player Purchases Are Completed

Purchase of players by National Little League teams was completed Friday.

Each of the four teams wound up with an average of 26 boys, which means each club faces considerable pruning by May 23. Each squad must get down to the limit of 15 players by the time the regular season opens.

The managers are due to reduce their squad by May 18. Those who do not get to play in the circuit may be given a chance in a "farm" league. There is talk such a circuit will be organized, in order to give more boys a chance to compete.

No more than five 12-year-olds and five 11-year-olds can be carried by any one team.

The clubs will start workouts as units Monday and a number of practice games will probably be booked before the season officially gets under way.

SAN ANTONIO, May 5 (SC) — Brooke Medical Center of San Antonio won first place in a seven-team track and field meet here Saturday, scoring 79½ points.

Texas A&I was second with 23, although it did not win a first place; Trinity University third, with 21; Webb AFB of Big Spring fourth, with 18; Laughlin AFB of Del Rio fifth, with 13; and Ellington of Houston sixth, with 12½. Goodfellow of San Angelo did not score.

Brooke was led by Kenneth Kelly, graduate of North Texas State College, high point man of the meet with 16 points.

Lt. Bruce Sweeney of Webb was second with 12½. Sweeney placed first in the low hurdles in the time 24.4. He was second in the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet 3 inches, an event won by Kelly with a jump of 22'5"; and tied for third with a team-mate, Wesley Ezell, in the high jump with a leap of 6'0". A jump of 6'6" won the event.

Webb's other points were picked up by Harry Scara, who placed third in the two-mile run; Edward Johnson, fourth in the low hurdles; and by the 400-meter relay team, composed of Johnson, Ezell, James Hicks and Sweeney, which placed fourth.

Sweeney had planned to run the 400-meter hurdles but that event was not held.

League's Race Woes Solved

NEW ORLEANS, May 5 (AP) — The Evangeline League's segregation problem was solved by announcements tonight that all five Negro players in the Class C baseball loop were being transferred.

The Lafayette Oilers, an affiliate of the Chicago Cubs, said it was sending its two players, Sam Drake and Manuel Trabous, to Burlington, Iowa, of the Class B Three-I League.

The Lake Charles Giants, an affiliate of the New York Giants, said it was cutting Felipe Alou, Ralph Crosby and Charles Weatherspoon. Alou will be optioned to Cocoa, Fla. No decision was reached on Crosby and Weatherspoon.

None of the other six clubs have Negroes on their rosters.

The segregation issue arose before the start of the season April 17 when the Baton Rouge recreation and parks commission said no Negroes would be permitted to play in the city baseball park, home of the Baton Rouge Rebels.

Lubbock Hosts Border Teams This Weekend

LUBBOCK, May 5 (SC)—Border Conference schools meet for the first time in the organization's 25-year history at Texas Tech Thursday, Friday, and Saturday (May 10-12).

Competition in track, golf and tennis are scheduled along with business sessions. Present will be University of Arizona, Arizona State, Hardin-Simmons, Texas Western, New Mexico A&M, West Texas, and host Texas Tech. All but New Mexico A&M will participate in the athletic meets.

Arizona and Arizona State between them have taken every track and field title offered. This year's meet is again a toss-up between the two schools. Texas Western looms as the third place finisher. Arizona State has won the past three titles.

Arizona, defending champion in tennis, is expected to encounter its stiffest competition from Hardin-Simmons, with Texas Tech rated third.

Tech won the golf title last year, but Arizona and Arizona State have compiled some of their best records in history. Hardin-Simmons has been placing well in spring meets and is also rated a definite dontender.

Golf practice rounds will be played Thursday afternoon at Hillcrest Country Club, and a tennis drawing is scheduled for that night.

Tennis gets under way on the Tech courts at 8 a.m. Friday, and the golf tournament starts at 9. Track preliminaries will be conducted at 4 p.m. Friday. Tennis and golf championships will be decided Saturday, and the track finals will be run that afternoon starting at 1 o'clock.

Presley And SMU Topple Purple

FORT WORTH, May 5 (AP) — Don Presley delayed Texas Christian's Southwest Conference championship bid here today with a steady seven hit performance which provided Southern Methodist with a 6-1 victory.

The Frogs who saw their league lead trimmed to two games over the Mustangs, could have wrapped up the title with a triumph. Now they must win two of their last three games unless SMU falters in the stretch.

John Landy Runs 3:58.7 On Coast--And Gets Beat

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES, May 5 (AP) — World-record holder John Landy was beaten by his fellow countryman, Jim Bailey of Australia, today in an epic mile run that saw both break the 4-minute mark.

Astonishing a roaring crowd of more than 40,000, the 26-year-old Bailey hit the finish line in 3:58.6, and Landy a stride back in 3:58.7.

The two thus became the first athletes to run under four minutes in the United States, and both ruined the American record of 4:00.5 set in April, 1955, at Austin, Tex., by Wes Santee.

It was the first time, too, that two men ran the mile under 3:59 in the same race.

Threatened but still intact was the world record of 3:58 established by Landy in Turku, Finland, in 1954. Today's event drew a thunderous shout from the crowd gathered under bright skies in Memorial Coliseum, partly to see the University of Southern California and UCLA meet in a dual Pacific Coast Conference meet, and mostly to see the heralded debut of Landy in this country.

Well behind the celebrated pair, in third place, was heretofore unbeaten Ron Delany, a 19-year-old sophomore of Villanova, from Dublin, Ireland. Delany was timed in 4:05.6, slower than his best effort, and the previous best in the United States this year, of 4:04.9.

It was the second time Landy had lost a mile run with a clocking of under four minutes.

Trailing, and never a serious threat, were Bill Dellinger, with Bailey a student at the University of Oregon, timed in 4:08.8; Jerome Walters, of the Southern Californis striders; Danny Schwiekart of the Los Angeles Athletic Club, and Lon Spurrier of the San Francisco Olympic Club.

The temperature was a little under 70 degrees, and a 6-mile wind from the Southwest drifted across the field as the seven lined up.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

W. J. Green, president of the Southwestern League, may build a quarter of a million dollar bowling palace here immediately south of town, near the City Park . . . Pepper Martin, who would operate it for him, is already in his employ . . . The first job assigned to Pepper after he hired out to Green was to help out the Ballinger baseball club, which was in need of outfield help . . . Big Spring has been without a bowling emporium since Martin closed his downtown lanes last year . . . Kid Chocolate, the former boxing champion, now earns $350 monthly, serving as a boxing instructor for the Cuban government . . . No box score of the San Angelo-Big Spring schoolboy baseball game last week was available because only eight of the nine visiting players were placed in the scorekeeper's lineup . . . Paul Richards, now the manager of the Baltimore Orioles, is being blamed with hurting the potential of pitcher Mike Fornieles, the former Big Springer who is now with the Chicago White Sox . . . Richards got Fornieles to change his delivery, with dire results . . . Jimmy Thompson, one of the great slammer in professional golf, says Texas' Don January is one of the real comers in links circles . . . Jimmy Demaret can't see anyone but old pros like Ben Hogan and Sam Snead winning the big tournaments this summer . . . The last Orange Bowl game cost Buick a quarter of a million dollars to televise . . . Big Ten observers say only five of the circuit's ten teams will be in serious contention for the Rose Bowl trip this year . . . That would be Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Purdue . . . Michigan State can't go back, Ohio State is barred from making the trip and Indiana, Northwestern and Minnesota are not considered of contender class.

Ossie Solem Formation Was Outlawed

Horse racing at Ruidoso Downs in New Mexico will extend through Sept. 9. . .Ossie Solem, honored at a banquet in Iowa recently, is the football coach who revolutioned football by having his center face his backs. . .The strategy worked too well: The rules committee succeeded in outlawing the formation. . .Solem's idea was to have the pivot man become another man in the interference, without missing a step. . .The demand for student tickets exceeded the supply in three Big Spring home football games last fall (Andrews, Levelland and Monterey of Lubbock). . . .When schools like Abilene, Odessa, Midland and San Angelo start requesting ducats for their students, where are stadium attendants going to put them? . . . The Odessa Junior College track and field team insisted on competing against HCJC here recently because several of the boys needed points to win school letters. . .Virgil Trower and Walter Birt didn't come because they had already earned numerals. . .I'd say the HCJC-Odessa athletic feud was a standoff. . .Odessa won the golf and baseball championships but HCJC prevailed in track and beat the Wranglers twice in basketball.

The Jayhawk baseball team also broke even with the Odessans in four games but lost out because none of the Northern teams in the Zone could beat Odessa. . .Cecil Davis, who passed up a chance to join Big Spring after being traded by Plainview last year, lost his first game for Savannah of the South Atlantic League this year but the opposition, Charlotte, had to go 12 innings to turn the trick. . .John Blaine, Plainview's new junior high school coach, obviously didn't like all the pressure that comes with being a head mentor . . .He was the Texas Sportswriters Association "coach of the year" just four years ago. . .To handle bets, the Jamaica race track in New York employs a mutual staff of 620. . .There are 290 sellers and the base pay for each is $20.50. . .The 220 cashiers employed get $23.75 a day.

El Paso A Problem In Pro Circuit

The San Angelo Bobcats, who were engaged in that donneybrook with the Big Spring Steers during and after a baseball game here the past week, should carry boxing gloves with them . . . They have been involved in similar outbreaks with other teams this year . . . Area writers are lowering the boom on the Big Spring school board for its decision to unload Coach Carl Coleman . . . That uplift at the HCJC track here was built for the Jayhawk pole vaulters, who spend upwards to 30 minutes a day on it, strengthening their wrists and forearms . . . Roy Scudday, the Sweetwater scribe, says this window picked Frosty Robison in its all-time West Texas backfield out of "loyalty" . . . Loyalty had nothing to do with it . . . Robison was the best clutch footballer I've seen, the best to train and, from what his coaches told me, the easiest to handle . . . He never knew what it was to ride the bench and was invaluable on defense . . . Jodie Beeler, the former Lamesa outfielder who is now managing Plainview in the Southwestern League, has been quoted as saying he's more worried about the El Paso entry than Ballinger . . . The entire circuit is skating on thin ice but much of the attendance problems can be blamed on bad weather . . . The Big State League has similar problems, despite optimistic reports made by League Prexy Hal Sayles . . . When Minnie Minoso, the Chicago White Sox star, was a kid in Cuba, he picked up a few bucks by boxing in the ring . . . Fact is, he fought Kid Gavilan several times before the Cuban Keed hit the big time . . .If you're interested, it requires 11,000 horses to supply the annual production of more than a million baseballs but no pigs to make the pigskins . . . In event you don't know, Texas Tech's home football games this fall will be against Texas Western Sept. 22, West Texas State Oct. 13, Oklahoma A&M Nov. 3, TCU Nov. 10 and Houston Nov. 24. . . The Red Raiders also play Baylor in Waco Sept. 29 and Texas A&M in Dallas Oct. 6, among others.

Fuller Is Sixth In State Meet

Bobby Fuller, Big Spring, finished sixth in the 880-yard run in the State track and field meet at Austin Saturday.

Maxwell Records Third Round 76

Billy Maxwell of Big Spring fashioned a third round 76 in the Colonial National Invitational golf tournament at Fort Worth to wind up with a 54-hole total of 223.

By JOHN CHANDLER

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5 (AP)—Needles threaded his way from next to last place through a charging field of horseflesh today and with a mighty stretch rush captured the $167,550 Kentucky Derby just like his daddy Ponder did in 1949.

A big favorite of the roaring crowd of some 100,000 excited spectators jamming ancient Churchill Downs, the strapping Florida-bred colt brought the first Derby to that palm tree state.

The result was never in doubt midway down the long home stretch as Needles stuck it into the opposition, finally overhauling Calumet Farm's Fabius with less than a sixteenth of a mile remaining in the mile and a quarter rce.

Jockey Dave Erb was the "eye" of Needles and his bay charger who has confounded old Derbytown with his dislike for training chores. He rolled under the finish line three quarters of a length ahead of Willie Hartack and Fabius, one half of the Calumet entry from Kentucky.

Third place, another length and a half behind, went to the surprising Indiana-bred colt, Come On Red, who wasn't even supposed to start this 82nd Derby unless the track was muddy.

It wasn't, as sunshine and 80-degree weather bathed the premises, and made the track fast as greased lightning, although Needles' time for the mile and one quarter was 2:03 2-5, well off Whirlaway's record of 2:01 2-5 in 1941.

This was the second time in the long Derby history dating back to 1875 that a son, a daddy and a grandpop have nabbed the roses in the great classic for 3-year-olds. Ponder's dad, Pensive, a son of English Derby winner Hyperion won America's most colorful horse scramble in 1944.

It matched the triple play of Reigh Count (1928), his son, Count Fleet (1943) and the Count's son, Count Turf (1951).

This was a tremendous victory for two young oilmen, Bonnie Heath of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Jack Dudley of Stillwater, Okla., along with their trainer, Hugh Fontaine who was a World War One flying ace.

Needles had been one of the top 2-year-olds last year, and ran away with two big winter hundred grand races in Florida, the Flamingo at Hialeah and the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park. But he hadn't raced since the Derby at Gulfstream March 24 and before that, the Flamingo in February.

The colt kicked up his heels in the saddling paddock before the race, and in the winner's circle afterwards as if to say "this is great fun."

But in the morning training hours, Needles is as hardheaded as a mule, and only last Saturday Fontaine had to coax him for half an hour before he'd begin a workout. Then he loafed the Derby distance in 2:09 and a fraction.

Although his time today wasn't among the fastest Derbies, it did the job sufficiently, and makes Needles a threat for the two other triple crown classics, the Preakness May 19 at Pimlico in Baltimore and the Belmont at New York June 16.

As a matter of fact, Sonny Boy did better than both his dad and grand dad in the time department. Ponder and Pensive both were clocked in 2:04 1-5, the former on a fast track, and Pensive on a strip labeled "good."

There were plenty of disappointments in the bulky field of 17 starters, as Career Boy and Head Man, the highly regarded horses owned by C. V. Whitney of New York, could do no better than sixth and eighth, respectively.

Another was Rex Ellsworth's Terrang, who led for a part of the early going, then ran out of fuel and finished 12th to spoil the Californian's bid for a second straight Derby triumph. Another thought to have a good chance was Countermand, from the Brandywine Stable of Donald Ross, Wilmington, Del. Countermand, who was second in Tuesday's Derby trial, finished absolutely last.

COUNT CHIC FOURTH

Fourth place went to Count Chic, a California-bred colt owned by Dino Lozzi of Seattle, and it was worth $5,600.

Pintor Lea, the other half of the Calumet entry who had been injured several weeks ago and was a doubtful starter until the last few days, finished fifth, followed by Career Boy, W. E. Britt's No Regrets, Head Man, the Reverie Knoll Farm's Kind o'Swords, Joe Gavegnano's High King, Mrs. Lloyd P. Tate's Jean Baptiste, Terrang, Hasty House Farm's Black Emperor, the Companas Stable's Besomer, T. A. Grissom's Invalidate, J. J. Gregory and H. D. Maggio's Ben A. Jones, and then Countermand.

They all carried 126 pounds, and Needles proved that 5-pound allowance he got in Florida for being bred there was no fluke.

Erb said he was "plenty worried" on the first turn, when Needles was in close quarters against the rail.

Neeldes was foaled April 29, 1953, at William E. Leach's Dickey Stable, Ocala, Fla., a son of mare Noodle Soup, who was producing her first Kentucky Derby eligible.

Mantle Bruises Ball For Yanks

NEW YORK, May 5 (AP)—Mickey Mantle clouted two home runs and Hank Bauer and Yogi Berra hit one each today to account for all of New York's runs in a 5-2 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

Mantle, the major leagues' leader in homers, runs batted in and batting, fattened his mark in each department. His homers were his seventh and eighth of the season.

Bauer reached starter and loser Lou Kretlow for his fifth homer of the year, an inside the park affair, in the first inning.

Ed Burtschy was the victim of the Mantle and Berra back-to-back homers in the seventh. It was Yogi's seventh.

Given fine support by the Yank infield, which reeled off three double plays, Mickey McDermott pitched three-hit ball until the seventh. With one away, Hector Lopez walked, Jim Finigan singled and Joe DeMaestri sent them both home with a double.

Boxer Wanted To Be First To Lick Jack

By KYLE VANCE

COVINGTON, Ky., May 5 (AP)—Al Whitehouse recalls one major disappointment in a life that has served up a remarkable string of successes.

"I had my heart set on being the first guy to lick Dempsey," says the man who today suddenly finds himself fighting labor battles for seven million American workers.

Whitehouse, a native Kentuckian, was a professional heavyweight boxer for years before he could dream of reaching his present station in life—director of the massive Industrial Union Department of the newly merged AFL and CIO with headquarters in Washington.

A disfigured finger explains why he was unable to follow through on the boxing dream. As a young man, he suffered a severe injury when his hand slipped into a running motor.

Whitehouse lost his valuable left jab, but he rolled with the blow. He decided then to take up the cudgels for the working man.

The powerful young Whitehouse had been hardened for the prize ring by toil in a steel mill. It was the era of the 84-and 96-hour work week, and unionism was in its infancy.

So it developed that the hand injury set Whitehouse off on a career that has carried him into a job he'd much rather have than the world's heavyweight championship.

Even with his well-known attributes of steadiness and integrity, Whitehouse was a surprise choice for the big job presented by the merged unions. His labor activities had rarely made news outside the Greater Cincinnati area of southern Ohio and northern Kentucky.

He took over as Industrial Union Department chief last January.

"The department is concerned with this general program: to further the interests of industrial unions in every way possible, and all trade unions in general," Whitehouse says of his new job.

His philosophy on unionism indicates that part of his job is to bring more and more uncovered workers into organized labor's ranks.

"Trade unions are only beginning to reach the prominence they should enjoy", he says. "If there are 60 million workers, as the census indicate, we only have about one fourth of them. We should double our membership fast."

Functions of the Industrial Union Department are decided by its Executive Board, composed of the presidents of 70 international unions. Whitehouse carries out their policies.

Red Sox Routed By Detroit, 16-4

BOSTON, May 5 (AP)—Detroit broke loose for a 20-hit assault on three Boston pitchers featuring a tie-breaking seven-run inning today to smother the Red Sox 16-4.

HC Track Team Departing Today For Meet At A&M

HCJC's track and field team leaves today for the Texas Junior College meet, which will be held Monday and Tuesday in College Station.

Coach George McAlister will have a team of about eight boys. Though there will be larger teams on hand, the Hawks will rate among the favorites in the show.

Bolt Fires 68 To Take Lead In Colonial Meet

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 5 (AP)—Tommy Bolt, the terrible-tempered Mr. Bang of golf, whipped up a two-under-par 68 today to shoot into the lead at 54 holes in the $25,000 Colonial National Invitation tournament.

The lean, flat-nosed Texan, noted for his club throwing and breaking, took over the top spot with 210 despite a course record-tying 65 turned in by massive Mike Souchak, the wrestler-necked, ex-Duke football player who holds some of golf's finest records.

Souchak wound up with 211, tied for second place with Gardiner Dickinson of Panama City Beach, Fla., who shot a 67 today.

Falling out of a tie for first were Dow Finsterwald, the wise-cracking young man from Bedford Heights, Ohio, and Peter Thomson, the solid Australian who is British Open champion. These two started today's third round with 141 but Finsterwald had a two-over-par 72 today while Thomson took a 73.

Finsterwald killed his chances with a double bogey on the 15th hole where he drove into a clump of trees, came out short and chipped up weakly. The young former Ohio University golfer had started out in fine form today and through the first three holes was leading the field by two strokes. Then trouble struck.

Thomson soared to a three-over-par 38 on the first nine and never could recover.

Bolt, a 38-year-old Houston veteran who hasn't won a tournament since mid-1955, was putting like mad as he bounced back from three bogeys in the first five holes to wrap up the lead with some of the sharpest golf of his career.

He started his surge with a tremendous 78-foot putt for a birdie on the sixth hole.

There were several penalties for cleaning the ball today, among them one against Byron Nelson, the Texan who had been well up in contention. Nelson, not remembering that a no-cleaning-the-ball rule had gone in today since the course was supposed to be thoroughly dried out, cleaned his ball before starting to putt on the first hole.

MENTAL LAPSE

Then, as he noted his lapse, he halted his swing to look up and accidentally tapped the ball which brought another stroke loss. He then took a double bogey on the hole and had a fat 9. But he played well the remainder of the way and had a 74 for 220 total.

Souchak, who holds the PGA 72-hole record with 257 set at the Texas Open in San Antonio two years ago and also has tied for the low 18-hole record with a 60, was tying the Colonial Country Club course record set by Ben Hogan in 1946 and tied by Chandler Harper last year.

MISSES RECORD

Souchak missed a 6-foot putt on the 18th green that would have given him the record over the 7,100-yard Colonial Country Club course. He said the reason he missed was that mud had formed on the ball and caused it to turn aside. In fact, Souchak said he thought the penalty for cleaning the ball today was a little unfair, that while the course had dried out from the heavy rains early in the week the greens were spongy and shed mud.

Souchak, whose putting was terrific—he was trying for birdies on 17 of 18 holes—wouldn't say it was his best round, although the Colonial course is much tougher than the one at San Antonio where the Grossinger's N. Y., star had his 60 in the Texas Open.

"I don't care if it's a pitch and putt course, a 60 on any course is terrific," he contented.

Par was bettered five times today, the first time the field of 54 has been able to do much with it. Souchak's round, of course, led the way. Dickinson's 67 was next, then came Bolt's 68 while Jimmy Demaret of Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., and Stan Leonard, Le Chute, Canada, each shot 69's. Demaret made his total 217 for 54 holes while Leonard pulled up to 215.

In fourth place was Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City, who won two tournaments last year. Wininger shot a par 70 for a 212 total. Next came Finsterwald with 213, then Thomson, with 214, while tied at 215 were Leonard, Ben Hogan of Fort Worth and Paul Harney of Bolton, Mass. Hogan, who threatened the first two rounds, shot his worst round of the tournament—a 73—today. Harney had a 72.

NINE RECORDS FALL

Lamar, El Campo Win State Titles

By ED OVERHOLSER

AUSTIN, May 5 (AP) — Houston Lamar, winning only one first place but packing power in eight events, swept to the Class AA championship of the 46th annual Interscholastic State Track and Field Meet today.

El Campo took the Class A trophy and Barbers Hill of Mont Belvieu captured the Class B title as some 800 of the state's best high school athletes competed in the big two-day meet.

Nine records fell today and six yesterday. Three records set yesterday were re-set today.

The crack Fort Worth Arlington Heights 440 - yard relay team erased the state record with a fine 42.2 seconds as speedster Harry Moreland anchored his team to win over Highland Park of Dallas.

Abilene set the state record of 42.5 in 1954. Highland Park, in second, also broke the old record with a 42.4. Pasadena was third with 42.6.

Moreland not only was first in the relay but won the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

All three schools had cinched first places before the running of the one-mile relay which usually determines the state champions.

Fort Worth North Side, with Billy Gault at anchor, raced to a 3:19.8 to nip Corpus Christi Miller. Houston Lamar was third. Baytown, defending champion in Conference AA and in the mile relay, was fourth.

Moreland shared honors as the day's top athlete with spindley legged Donald Beard from Thorndale, who was two individual events and set two Class B records in the 180 low hurdles and the 120-yard high hurdles.

Lamar won the Class AA with 49 points. Finishing second was Pasadena with 40 1-6 points. Arlington Heights of Fort Worth was third with 36.

Corpus Christi Miller was fourth with 29 1-12 points. Houston Reagan and Fort Worth North Side tied for fifth with 26 points.

Brady with 30 1-6 points was second in Class A to El Campo's 38. A two-day tie resulted between Refugio and Gladewater with 28 points.

Barbers Hill had 36 points. Thorndale was second with 27 6-7 and Stinnett, a fraction behind, had 27 4-7 points.

Beard was the top individual scorer of the day with 26 points, which included a third in the broad jump.

Moreland had 24 points. Doble Craig led El Campo to the title with 24 points from a second in the broad jump, thirds in the 100 and 220 and anchoring the winning sprint relay team.

Gordon Speer of Barbers Hill won first in the 100 and 220-yard dash. Speer also anchored the Class B team to a new 440-yard relays record of 42.9 and finished with 24 points.

Other top scorers included hurdler Tommy Patterson of Waco, who won both the 120-yard high hurdles and the 180-yard lows. His 180 lows nipped Larry May, Pasadena, in 19.8 seconds.

Mike McClellan of Stamford, won 21½ points and was second only to Craig in Class A. He won both sprints and anchored the third place team in the mile relay.

Also in Class A David Robles, Waxahachie, copped 18 points by winning the high hurdles and taking second in the low hurdles.

Raeford McIlhaney, McCamey, was another outstanding performer in Class B. He won the shot put and second in the discus to make 18 points.

Division records broken today, excluding the 440-yard relay state record, were: In the Class A 440-yard relay and mile run; the Class B half mile run; 440-yard relay; 180-yard low hurdles; 440-yard dash; 120-yard high hurdles; and mile relay.

Beard set the first record of the day, winning the 120-yard high hurdles in 14.1 seconds. The old mark was 14.4 seconds set by Beard last year.

Later he broke the 180-yard low record with a 19.3 the mark was 19.4 set in 1953.

Tommy Davis, Granbury, beat Fred Thompson to set a new 440-yard dash mark in Class B Thompson had a 49.3 today. Davis won in 49.1.

Barbers Hill blazed to a new 440-yard relays Class B mark in 42.9, wiping out the old 43.5 second record set in 1952 by Sugarland. El Campo, in the same event in Class A, hung up a 42.8 record. The old mark of 43 flat was set in 1953 by Brenham.

Jan Pearcy of Sundown, battered the one-day half mile Class B mark. He posted a 1:56.6 to erase his 1:56.8 record-setting qualifying time yesterday.

Charles Rosemond, Ysleta, hung up the second fastest half mile ever run by a high school star in Texas when he hit the tape in 1:55.5, one tenth of a second off the record.

In one of the most exciting events of the day, Dale Byerly of Coleman, set a new mark in Class A in the mile run, beating Bobby Cunningham, Littlefield, by a "nose" in 4:34.5. Litflefield also was credited with the same time but the new record went to Byerly. The old time was 4:34.8 registered in 1951.

Deer Park, with Franklin McClean running the anchor position, sped to a new mile relay mark for Class B with 3:24 flat breaking the mark of 3:25.9 hung up yesterday by Stinnett in qualifying for the finals.

In the closest race, Mile McClelland, Stamford, won the 220-yard dash in 21.7, although Wayne Smith, Hereford, second and Dobie Craig, El Campo, third, also were given the same time.

Orioles Yield To Cleveland

BALTIMORE, May 5 (AP)—Little Don Ferrarese struck out 13 Cleveland batters in his first starting assignment but Jim Hegan's ninth-inning double gave the Indians a 2-1 victory today.

The 27-year-old California southpaw was two short of Bob Feller's American League record of 15 strikeouts in a first starting assignment. Ferrarese had relieved in a half-dozen or more games the latter part of last season and this year.

The National League record, also 15, was set by Karl Spooner of the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1954.

Hegan, who had walked twice and singled in his first three times up, socked a two bagger with two out in the last inning to score Al Rosen who had singled.

All Signs Pointing To Tech Admission

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, May 5 (SC) — The Southwest Conference meets at Fayetteville next week and is expected to make the first change in membership in 33 years.

Plenty of business will come before the faculty committee, the governing body. This includes the probable lifting of a probation against Texas A&M, but of paramount interest is a vote on whether Texas Tech and the University of Houston are to become members.

That Tech will finally make it after 30 years of trying is the general forecast. No one expects Houston to gain a place.

Baylor will submit Houston while Texas will bring up Tech, which lacked only one vote of getting in the winter meeting.

Since then SMU has changed its vote and if the four that were for Tech in December—Texas, TCU, A&M and Baylor—stand pat, the big West Texas school is in. Each of those schools has said it will vote for Tech, so unless something crops up at the last minute the conference will take in a new member for the first time since 1923 when TCU entered.

Baylor, which polled the conference for an expression on continuing a roundrobin schedule in football to insure no wholesale expansion of the conference, will ask that this rule be inserted in the conference constitution instead of the bylaws so it cannot be changed without notice. Baylor got six replies, all favoring the roundrobin.

The conference is expected to lift a probation of Texas A&M assessed last May for violation the recruiting rules. The probation has a year to run but since A&M has not been accused of violating any rule over the first year it is expected to be lifted although the NCAA has just tacked on a year's probation that prevents Texas A&M from national competition or bowl games. The conference does not have to continue its probation just because the NCAA has one. Lifting of the probation would be a goodwill gesture.

A number of other matters will come up, including the elimination of spring training in basketball.

The golf and track meets will be held while the faculty committee is meeting. The tennis tournament will be at Waco because Arkansas does not have a tennis team.

Golf is scheduled Friday and Saturday with John Garrett of Rice defending the championship for which he tied last year. John Thornton of Baylor who tied him is not back. SMU is expected to win the golf championship.

The track meet will also be held Friday and Saturday. Texas is expected to win both the varsity and freshman divisions.

Texas will be expected to win both singles and doubles in tennis at Waco. It has the defending champion, Sammy Giammalva, with another ace, Dave Snyder in the doubles.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

After seeing him smoke fast balls past such powerful batters as Hank Bauer and Bob Cerv in the 1955 World Series, observers were convinced that Johnny Podres can fire the ball. But it was his change of pace (the professional term for a slow ball) which made his fast ball an effective pitch.

Mickey Mantle proved to Podres that his fast ball could be hit when he blasted one into the stands the first time he faced the Brooklyn left-hander. Then Johnny began to mix up his pitches—throwing fast balls and changes, fast and slow curves at the right time to keep the Yankee sluggers off balance and uncertain about what was coming next—and this mixture produced a world championship for his Dodgers.

When you have learned to control your fast ball, work on a change of pace. Don't use it against weak hitters because it may be the only ball they can hit, but do use it against batters who are pulling your fast ball regularly. It may throw them off in their timing. But it will work only if the batter thinks you are going to throw a fast ball. By choking the ball and loosening your grip on it, you can throw it with the same back spin and just as hard as your fast ball, but it will not travel as fast. It takes a lot of practice to perfect this pitch, but Podres showed its value against the Yankees.

Teams Needed For Y League

The group can get sponsors but, thus far, it hasn't been able to get the teams nor the players.

So far, three teams have been pronounced ready to start competition. They are Cosden, Cook Appliance Store and a Webb Air Force Base squadron team.

There is a possibility T&P will come in. At least two more are needed to round out the circuit.

Play would be confined to Monday and Friday nights. Two games would be played each night.

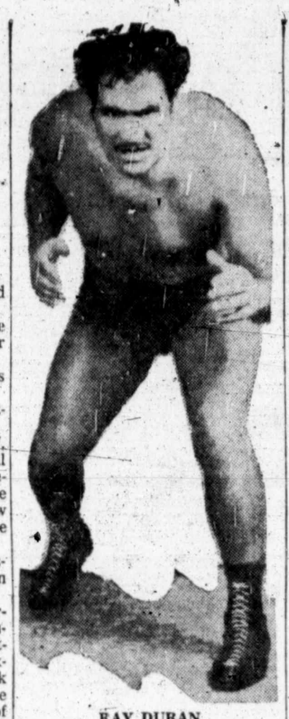

Entries will be welcomed from Coahoma, Forsan, Knott and all other surrounding communities, Mobley stated. He would like to get the league organized and going right away, however.

Story In Error About The Name

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 5 (AP)—The story that Needles got his name from being stuck so often with needles during illnesses early in his life was corrected after today's Kentucky Derby victory.

The name was doubly inspired, according to Mrs. W. E. Leach, wife of the horse's breeder.

"He got plenty of needles, all right," she said, "but he was always a pesky little thing. He needled all the other horses in the paddock all the time."

RAY DURAN

New Champ Set For Appearance Friday Night

LAMESA, May 5, (SC) — The bi-weekly wrestling card will be staged here Friday, May 11, rather than the preceding night, Promoter George Dunn has announced following his return from Amarillo.

The main event, down for one hour, will pit the well-known Dory Funk of Old Tascosa, Texas, against Sonny Meyers, who recently won the Southwest States Heavyweight championship.

In the 45-minute semi-final Danny Savich — who can court the fans' favor or turn blackhearted villain, however the mood strikes him — will go against Bob Giegel, the Iowan who is one of the most popular grapplers ever to appear in West Texas.

The 8:30 p.m. opener sends Andre Drappe, a French adonis, against Ray Duran, a Mexican meanie.

Spudders Leading In Club Batting

By The Associated Press

Wichita Falls, sparked by the hitting of Clarence Pillow and Don LeJohn, led the Big State League club batting list last week with a .308.

Pillow hit .418 average and LeJohn .403. James Kirby of Port Arthur led with 31 hits in 74 times at bat for a .419 average. Pillow was second and LeJohn and Paul Dobkowski tied for third.

Corpus Christi and Port Arthur tied for second in club batting with .277 while Port Arthur led in club fielding with .964.

Steve Molinari hit six home runs to lead in that department, LeJohn led in doubles with nine, George Smith of Lubbock was tops in triples with 5. Kirby had 31 safe hits for honors in that division and Molinari led in total bases with 46.

Thirteen Big State League pitchers had perfect records with Rolando Muniz of Corpus Christi and Ted del Rio topping the list with 4-0.

Redlegs Recover To Nip Buccos

CINCINNATI, May 5 (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs had to come from behind three times today and, on the last occasion, it was a 10th-inning single by Gus Bell which scored Rocky Bridges from second for a 7-6 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

O'Brien Sets Shot Record

SALT LAKE CITY, May 5 (AP)—Parry O'Brien put the shot 61 feet, 1 inch today in an exhibition toss, three inches over the world's record which the former University of Southern California star set July 11, 1954, in Los Angeles.

Tigers Try Dusters At 3 Today In Baseball Park

Elias Gamboa has assumed the management of the Big Spring Tigers, the city's oldest baseball team, and will direct them against the Webb Air Force Base Dusters at 3 p.m. today in Steer Park.

Gamboa, a member of the team since 1931, will thus be matching wits with Jim Zapp, former Longhorn League slugger who masterminds the Duster team.

The Tiger boss indicated he would send Charley Fierro, in all probability, to the mound against Webb today. Guy Lara, Isa Mendoza and Horace Yanez will also be available for mound chores.

The Bengals will be without the services of Tommy Arista, who is out due to illness. Arista has played center field for the local team for a number of years.

Zapp has indicated he will use Jay Hill at second base, Floyd Ritter at shortstop, Bob McDonald in center field, Bill Paschal at first, himself in right field, Gabriel Richards catching, Ed Toatley in left and Jack Leonard pitching. He's undecided about his third baseman.

Webb defeated Snyder Furniture in its only start. The Tigers got off to a bad start and lost four games in a row but have been completely re-organized and should be much tougher.

Several business houses and individuals have purchased uniforms for the Tigers, among them Navarete's Place, Carlos' Cafe, Cosden Station No. 7, Hull and Phillips Grocery, Sinclair 87 Truck Stop, Simon (Cy) Terrazas, El Sombrero, Jack's Drive-In Grocery No. 2, Shorty's Pay-N-Take No. 1, Alexander's Grocery and Market, Rexana Bar and Hamby Oil Company.

The Tigers' new toggery is not due to arrive in time for today's game, however.

IN SQUAD GAME
Whites Decision Red Eleven, 19-6

The ex Whites got in the initial licks in the first spring Big Spring High School intra-squad football game here Friday afternoon, defeating the Reds, 19-6.

Herschel Stocks, who is being compared favorably with J. C. Armistead, and Ronnie Phillips played major roles in the victory.

Stocks scored the first White TD on a crunching, short run in the first period. Phillips made the second in Round Three on a plunge, then broke loose on a kick-off return and bruised 70 yards down the sidelines for the tally.

Stocks also made the extra point on a run for the Whites.

A third-period pass from Lefty Frank Powell to Bobby Suggs, good for 50 yards, produced the lone Reds' score.

Coach Carl Coleman said he was particularly impressed with the boys' hustle and determination.

Walter Dickinson and Bunky Grimes were the standout linemen of the afternoon. Grimes was poison on defense. Glen Whittington and George Peacock were others who showed to advantage.

Ray Dabek Pacing Loop With Mace

By The Associated Press

Sharp batting eyes don't always mean winning clubs, the Texas League proved last week as its club batting leader, Shreveport, limped along in the second division despite a .299 club average.

Dallas, with .295, held second place in averages but led the league in the standings.

Ray Dabek of Dallas led hitting with .500 on 16 hits in 32 times at bat.

Ken Guettler of Shreveport set the home run pace with seven. Gentile and Houston's Bobby Gene Smith each had 22 RBIs. Matt Sczesny of Oklahoma City topped the list in total hits with 31. Bob Caffery of San Antonio led in doubles with 9, Prentice Brown of Houston had the most triples, 3 and Bill Caro of Austin stole the most bases, 4.

Player Steals 4 Bases In 1 Trip

BREMERTON, Wash., May 5 (AP)—It's impossible, but it happened—a baseball player stole four bases in one time at bat.

While Olympic College was walloping Skagit Valley Junior College 13-2 Friday the Olympic third baseman Don Jacobs, reached first on an error. He stole second, but a teammate on the bench thought the batter had fouled off the pitch and yelled: "No, No!"

Jacobs calmly strolled back to first while the Skagit pitcher held the ball and stared. Then Jacobs proceeded to steal second, third and home—and was credited with four steals in the official scorebook.

Needles' Breeder Didn't See Win

He couldn't watch Needles run because he himself could not walk. He was put out of commission by a case of gout.

GERMAN SHEPHERD PUPPIES

Most people do not understand that this breed is not promiscuously vicious. If you want a vicious German Shepherd, train it so. If you should, God forbid, go blind, train it to act as your eyes, etc. If you should need a loyal guard dog and companion for your child, or yourself, raise a German Shepherd with him.
We specialize in this breed of dog and pick the right dam and sire to combine the very best in loyalty, companionship, trainability and show type puppies.

Puts More Sell in the Salesman!

If your car is your office, you owe it to yourself and your sales to own an A.R.A. It's hard to win customers and influence sales if you're hot and irritated . . . soaked with perspiration . . . worn out from stop-and-go driving in city traffic on torrid days. With an A.R.A. in your car, what a difference it makes to your comfort and appearance . . . and to your sales enthusiasm! Because A.R.A. keeps you cool and fresh, you save on cleaning and laundry bills, too.

Allies Map 'Cold War' Plan To Win Support Of Neutrals

PARIS, May 5 (AP)—The Atlantic Alliance today agreed to a new mobilization of money and human resources against Russia's bid to win over neutral peoples of the world. It decided to appoint "three wise men" to work out a practical program.

Diplomatic informants said a "political manifesto" designed to appeal to the uncommitted nations of Asia, Africa and the Middle East was drawn up in a closed session this afternoon of the Ministerial Council of the 15-nation North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The manifesto is expected to be published after a night session winding up the two-day meeting of the foreign ministers.

The action came after a call by U.S. Secretary of State Dulles for a new 10-year program to counter the Kremlin's switch in tactics. Dulles warned that if Russia's trade-and-aid offensive succeeds in the underdeveloped countries free men would soon find themselves outnumbered by those under Red rule.

The Atlantic Council promptly approved Dulles' proposal for appointment of three foreign ministers to study plans submitted for expanding NATO's economic and political role.

The Council chose Lester Pearson, Canadian foreign minister; Halvard Lange, Norwegian foreign minister, and Gaetano Martino, Italian foreign minister. No chairman was designated.

They will report back later this year on steps for carrying out what diplomats call a "butter and ideas" drive. They will first have to consult with their home governments for permission to serve, since the work may keep them traveling for months.

The foreign ministers of the United States, Britain and France will meet tomorrow to discuss the Middle East situation. Dulles expects to leave for Washington in the afternoon.

"The three wise men," was the name promptly given to the committee by Britain's Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, who strongly backed Dulles' proposal.

Pooling of economic aid programs and dovetailing foreign policies, it is said, would involve giving up some national independence in these fields. At the moment the foreign ministers are dubious about how much of this sort of thing home governments and public opinion will buy.

Trustees Speak For Bond Issue

Clyde Angel and R. W. (Stormy) Thompson, members of the Big Spring school board, make talks in connection with the May 15 $900,000 school bond election at the American Business Club luncheon here Friday noon.

Thompson explained the details of Senate Bill 116, on which local voters must ballot in connection with such a bond election.

Thompson also stated that the present junior high was "40 per cent overloaded now" and added the situation would become more acute in future years, if the present trend of student registration continues.

Plans for sending a club delegation to the National ABC Convention at Lubbock June 19-20-21 were also discussed.

Trawler Snags Atom-Sub; Skipper Wants Damages

POINT PLEASANT, N. J., May 5 (AP) — A fishing trawler which had the world's biggest submarine in its net for about five minutes returned to home port today.

Capt. Tonnes Anderson, the 54-year-old tanned and taciturn skipper of the 67-foot trawler Jennie; was told by radio that he had tangled with the Navy's pride and joy, the atom-powered sub Nautilus, a week and a half ago.

He wasn't impressed.

Before then the captain only knew that it was a submarine and put in a bill for $1,300 for his net and cable, ripped off after the Nautilus pulled the trawler backward at 20 knots.

Shirly Friend, first mate and engineer, was the only man above deck when the sub ran into the net on its way to home base in Groton, Conn.

Asked if he knew the boat had netted a submarine, Friend replied: "There sure aren't any taxicabs driving around down there."

The submarine, which arrived at its home base with the net festooned around its superstructure, was reported to have suffered only a damaged running light.

Crude Allowable Shows A Decrease

AUSTIN, May 5 (AP)—A decrease of 69,204 barrels to 3,321,640 a day in the average daily allowable was reported for Texas this week, the Railroad Commission said today.

Texas Heritage Foundation Gives Awards For Year

AUSTIN, May 5 (AP)—The Texas Heritage Foundation said today Miss Ima Hogg of Houston and H. H. Coffield of Rockdale won the 1956 Texian woman and man of the year awards for their public service contributions.

Maj. Gen. Paul Wakefield, president, said the awards will be presented May 12 at a dinner here.

Miss Hogg, co-founder and president for 10 years of the Houston symphony society, is now serving on the Texas state historical survey committee.

Coffield, industrialist and oil man, is a senior member of the national council of the Boy Scouts. He is a long-time member of the Prison Commission.

O. H. Badgett, Stanton, reported to police Friday that someone had taken the 1956 license plates from his 1953 Chevrolet and replaced them with another set.

A check revealed that the plates placed on his car were from a 1953 Lincoln stolen earlier Friday in Odessa. Badgett's auto was parked in front of Malone and Hogan Hospital at the time of the transfer.

In other activity Catalina Lopez, 708 NW 6th, reported that someone took her billfold containing $7 from her Friday night while she was waiting for a bus.

Active Group: NCO Wives Club

Among the busy groups of women in the town, few have more irons in the fire than do the NCO Wives of Webb Air Force Base. Led by their president, Mrs. J. R. Wadkins, they have luncheons, regular meetings, bowling tournaments, welfare and education projects.

Some of their time is spent in work at the base hospital, when they serve home made cake and coffee to the patients. This is done about every other week.

Vice president is Mrs. Robert Hayes, and Mrs. Eudis Gregg is secretary. The funds are collected and spent by Mrs. Reginaldo Lopez, while the assistant secretary-treasurer is Mrs. Cletus Piper.

An active membership committee, headed by Mrs. Robert Thompson, is ever on the lookout for new additions for the club, and parties are held at the NCO Club several times a month for bridge or other card games. New members are always welcomed at these meetings or festivities.

Collections of usable clothing are kept available for families who need help, and donations of food and canned goods are made regularly to replenish depleted stocks. A welfare fund is also built up in various ways to be administered by the welfare committee under the leadership of Mrs. Harold Nicholson.

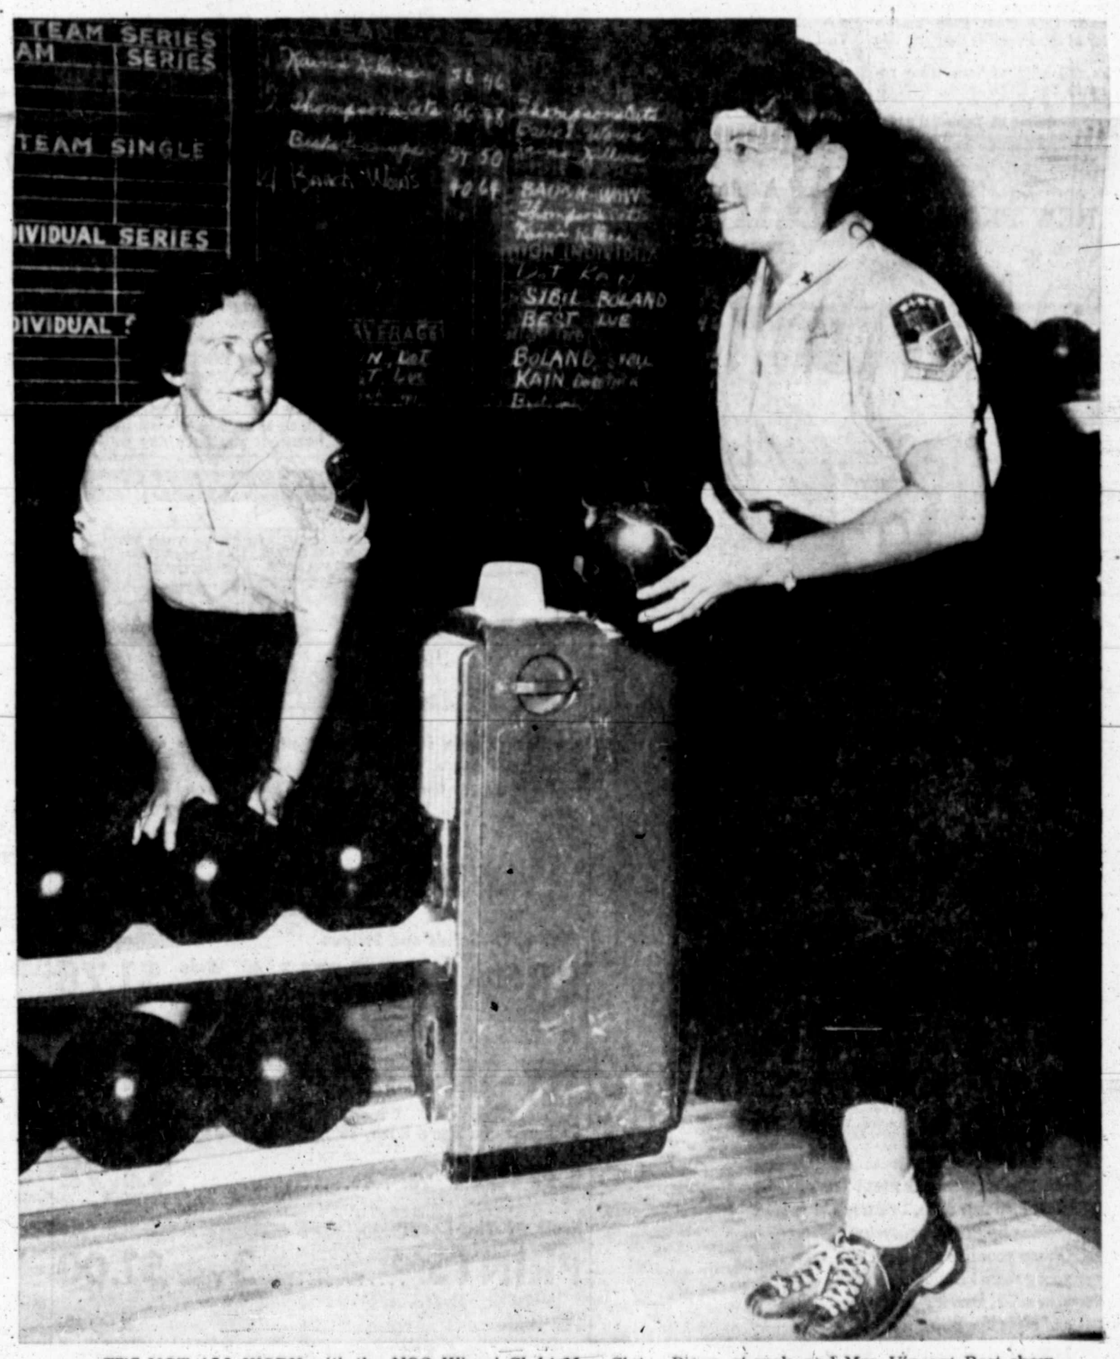

A STAY IN THE BASE HOSPITAL isn't bad at all, S.Sgt. Michael Stephens has found! What makes it nice is that a committee from the NCO Wives' Club serves cake and coffee in the afternoon about every other week. The sergeant is originally from Altus, Okla., but he now lives at 801 Aylford. Giving him such superb service are Mrs. Eudis Gregg, at left, Mrs. J. E. Bender, and Mrs. Charles Watson, chairman of the hospital committee.

STUDY IS INCLUDED in the activities of the NCO Wives' Club, too. Mrs. Harold Kain, third from left, is instructor for a group in arts and crafts. This includes copper tooling, making hand-blocked linens, and shell-craft, to name a few of their projects. Mrs. Robert Stewart receives some pointers on her hand-tooled copper picture, while Mrs. James Raughley, at left, and Mrs. Claud Klobus listen to the instructions.

CHANGING MEMBERSHIP is to be expected at an air base, but it keeps the membership committee hoppin' to have an accurate roster at all times. Mrs. J. R. Wadkins, at left, is president of the NCO Wives' Club. She and Mrs. Robert Thompson, membership chairman, check frequently on the list to add to or take from the group of names as members leave. There is always a welcome awaiting the new women who come to the base, with lots of fun in store for them.

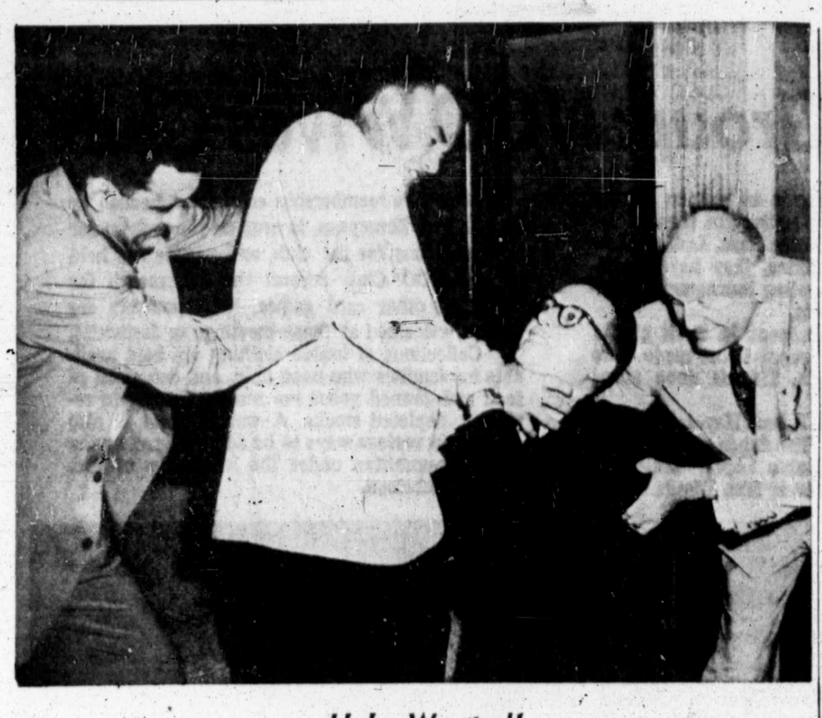

IT'S NOT ALL WORK with the NCO Wives' Club! Mrs. Cletus Piper, at rack, and Mrs. Vincent Best show one of the "fun sides" of the organization. The two are members of the "Best Pin-Ups," the bowling team which won the city tournament recently at the base. Mrs. Best is captain of the team that played against three other teams. (Photos by Keith McMillin)

FOR NEEDY FAMILIES there is care from the NCO Wives' Club. Ways and means chairman Mrs. Robert Mosher, at left, and Mrs. Harold Nicholson, welfare chairman, combine efforts in packing a box for the needy. The members collect good used clothing to be distributed, and they also contribute food and canned goods. A fund is kept up by regular donations from the group.

'ROUND TOWN

With Lucille Pickle

Hasn't this been a beautful week just past?

Most of the yards are in full bloom and the grass is beginning to green up. And have you noticed how blue the sky is? Also doesn't it look pretty when it gets real gray with rain? And then prettier when the rain falls on us?

• • •

The coffee at the Cosden Club Thursday morning was such fun. We see so many good friends at these parties. In fact, some of them I see only at such affairs . . . and the grocery store. MRS. KENT MORGAN was so pretty in a red linen dress and with it she wore a large neutral straw with red poppies for the trim . . . I don't go much for squaw dresses, but MRS L. D. CHRANE has one of the prettiest I have seen. It is of blue crepe and is banded with silver braid . . . MRS NINA CARTER, who is attractive in anything, wore a striking yellow straw sailor. . . MRS. BERT SHIVE, one of the few true blondes I know, was in the houseparty and was very attractive in a pale beige dress with which she wore pink jewelry. . . . another in the party was MRS. GEORGE ELLIOTT whose dress was green and featured a very low neckline . . . MRS JAMES JOHNSON looked fresh and pert in a pale yellow and white polished cotton with push-up sleeves, high neck and very full skirt . . . MRS. CARL STROM wore a pretty beige embroidered linen suit, and MRS. LLOYD CURLEE was striking in a black dress which she accented with white accessories. Her hat was a large white one . . . MRS. JACK ALEXANDER'S topper was a large straight brimmed black straw with the only adornment being a single red rose.

MRS. GARRETT HARRELL and MRS. G. A. CLARK, both of Snyder, were the guests of hostess Mrs. Harry Lester and are also girlhood friends of MRS. ALBERT SMITH, who was assisting. She was so surprised to see them she couldn't even think of their last names. They started and finished school together in Snyder.

Youngest guest at the coffee was PAMELA ADAMS who has now reached five months of age. She came with her mother, Mrs. Ray Adams, so late that she missed most of the guests but had a big time with those who were there. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larson Lloyd.

• • •

MRS. VIOLA YOUNGER and her daughter, Virginia, of Lubbock are guests in the home of Maj. and Mrs. Leo Bradford. Mrs. Younger is Mrs. Bradford's mother.

There is a great need for more good used clothing at the Fashion Shop being operated at the State Hospital.

The shop has been operated for only three weeks, one day each week and already the stock is beginning to dwindle. Not only do they need cotton dresses but there is an even greater need for underwear. If you have any petticoats, slips, and good panties or bras that you don't care for, take them out there. Maybe your club would like to have a shower before the club year is over. The sizes should be mostly large ones. Also costume jewelry and cosmetics are greatly in demand. But remember the underwear if you really want to help.

• • •

MRS. B. N. RALPH is expected to return home this week after having spent five weeks with relatives in Seattle, Wash.

• • •

MR. W. B. MORRIS spent several days the fore part of the week in Artesia, N. M., as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Lee Foster, and Mr. Foster.

Mrs. Morris' mother, Mrs. Martha Tigner, is visiting with her.

Word from MRS. J. D. ELLIOTT, with her father, Joe Hardesty, who has recently undergone surgery in Dallas, says that he is doing very well and may be able to come home in about ten days. Mrs. Elliott is staying at the Lynn Hotel.

MR. AND MRS. GUILFORD JONES and family are in Dallas whre they are guests in the home of her brother and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moritz.

Expected back today from Ruidoso are MRS. OBERA NORRED and her sister, Mrs. Jim Teaver, whose home is in Plainview. They have been in Ruidoso for the past week getting their cabin ready for the summer season.

MR. AND MRS. DAN CONLEY are laying their plans to be in Houston around June 1 . . . and nothing short of an act of Providence can keep them away. It doesn't seem possible that it could be happening already, but their son, Jimmy, will be graduating from Rice at that time.

LAMESA — The Junior High Band Mothers Club sponsored the Green Warrior Band Banquet Friday evening at the High School cafcharter.

E. J. Burt, high school band director, was master of ceremonies and gave the welcome.

Dinner music was furnished by Mrs. Flora Barnard. A humorous cornet solo and puppet act was given by Richard Drawley, followed by a cafe skit by Jay Claiborn. A vocal solo by Duronell Phillips, tap dance with Linda Peterson and a trombone quartet completed the program.

Guests entered through an arch of greenery and spring flowers. A Dutch scene featured a large red and white windmill surrounded by a brick fence. A simulated tulip garden was behind the speakers' table. The centerpiece for each table was a miniature windmill and wooden shoes filled with tulips.

In conclusion Mrs. Harley Campbell, the retiring president, presented Mrs. Stanley Applegate, the incoming president, with a bouquet of roses. Other officers presented were Mrs. H. L. Curry, vice president; Mrs. H. V. Johnson, secretary; and Mrs. Reid Bethel, treasurer. About 90 band students and guests attended the banquet.

For Mother on her Day.

It's a wonderful thrill to see the pleasure that flowers bring. Small wonder they're the Mother's Day favorite they are. Bouquets and corsages made up expertly, beautifully.

Alton Kilpatrick Weds Miss Yates Saturday

Calla lilies, greenery and double candelabra formed the focal point of the wedding scene in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winston Kilpatrick, Gail Road, uncle and aunt of the bride.

The Rev. J. B. Chick, Flower Grove Baptist Church minister, performed the double ring ceremony. Joyce Howard sang "Beautiful Dreamer" and "Always," accompanied by Delores Howard at the piano.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Sidney A. Yates. She wore beige faille with rhinestone trim and a matching duster. Accessories were white. Calla lilies topped her white Bible, which was showered with white streamers.

Serving cake and punch were aunts of the bride, Mrs. Ulysses Hall and Mrs. Carroll Choate. Mrs. Roy Walker was in charge of the register.

The bride is a student at Snyder High School. The bridegroom attended Lewisville High School and is now a corporal in the Army Corps of Engineers.

The couple will honeymoon in Dallas.

Miss Wlilis Enters Ten In Tournament

Rhythm, accuracy, tone-quality, phrasing and pedaling are among the thirty-two points considered in rating piano playing. Each student plays from memory three to ten numbers and all above elementary stage are required to pass a test on scales and cadences. The auditions are conducted privately to put the student at ease.

Flaky Pie Crust Can Be Achieved By Electricity

PIE CRUST

2 cups all-purpose flour (sift once, then measure)
1 teaspoon salt
2-3 cup shortening
4-6 tablespoon cold water

Sift flour and salt into large mixing bowl. Use mixer at No. 1 speed and beat while adding the shortening a little at a time until the mixture resembles coarse meal. This takes about 3½-4 minutes.

Then add water by spoonfuls, mixing just long enough to hold together. Roll out on a floured board. Sufficient for a 9-inch double crust pie.

Whip Cream Early

When you entertain: cream may be whipped in your mixer and refrigerated for an hour before it is to be served.

New Bottle Cap

A new helmet shaped bottle cap locks firmly around the neck of a bottle of carbonated beverage but may be removed easily by pushing up the visor-like protruberance.

2-3 to 1 cup drained, crushed pineapple
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Soak gelatin in cold water until soft. Scald milk and dissolve gelatine in it. Stir in sugar and salt. Chill until partially set, stirring occasionally. Whip cream in chilled small bowl until stiff, on No. 7 speed.

When gelatine mixture begins to congeal, transfer to large mixer bowl and beat at No. 3 speed until smooth and frothy. Add pineapple and lemon juice and beat a few seconds longer.

Fold in whipped cream with a spoon, pour into serving dish, and chill in refrigerator until set.

TOPS SOFT SHEATH

Short Jacket Features Lines For Petite Sizes

"Caraco" is the word that was most frequently used in the fashion cables sent out by the experts after viewing the recent Paris collections. Translated, it means a jacket that stops short of the waist line as in this version by Varden Petite, styled and proportioned for women who are 5'5" or under.

Designed with top stitching to accent the cut out wedges at the bottom, it covers a soft sheath, its wide banded neckline holding in gathers that give form to the bosom. Perfect for black crepe with a white linen or pique jacket, it is a costume that you'll wear to air-conditioned places or on days when there's a gentle breeze.

Also, consider plain or printed silks, novelty cottons, crepe with faille and for later in the year, brightly colored sheer wool and faille. A precisely measured pattern with accurate perforations, it is extremely easy to make.

The jacket, which is fully lined to give it crispness, features a nice bit of detail in the bound buttonhole slits for you to pin in a posy.

This hand cut, custom made pattern is not standard sized but is the only pattern available with exclusive designers retail sizing measurements for a more accurate fit, better styling, less altering.

Open perforations for easy markings without damaging tissue; also time saving, fabric saving, money saving; no tracing wheel or carbon paper needed; easy to follow instructions for beginners.

Size 10, bust 34, waist 25, hips 35 inches, neck to waist length 16 inches; size 12, bust 35, waist 26, hips 36 inches, neck to waist length 16¼ inches; size 14, bust 36½, waist 27½, hips 37½ inches, neck to waist length, 16½ inches; size 16, bust 38, waist 29, hips 39 inches, neck to waist length 16¾ inches; size 18, bust 40, waist 31, hips 41 inches, neck to waist length 17.

Size 12 requires 3 yards of 36 inch material for dress and 1⅝ yards of 36 inch material for bolero.

To order Pattern No. 1262, state size, enclose $1.00. Airmail handling requires 25 cents extra. Address American Designer Patterns, P. O. Box 535, G. P. O. Dept. B-5, New York 1, N. Y. 144 page Pattern Booklet XII - 50 cents If paid by check add 4 cents.

Three-D Games

New games are being designed on three dimensional plastic board. The idea is said to have originated with Betty Durrance, a Broadway ballerina. The newest game, "Robin Hood" is an adventure game that utilizes the vaccum formed plastic, and is one of three in the series.

Lemons Tenderize

Plastics Appeal To 1956 Homemaker

Plastics have an elegance that appeals to the 1956 housewife. Good looks and utility combine to give her a pretty house that is easy to care fore. And that's what she wants.

Into her bedroom have gone chests of drawers topped by melamine plastic laminate that may be washed down, with no fear of being ruined by spilled perfume or nail polish.

She entertains at supper with snack tables that are impervious to food and drink.

And her kitchen may have the easy to wash plastic counter tops.

One chair molded of glass fibre and plastic into a lounge shape is upholstered with foam plastic that has a removable fabric countour cover. Another sleek occasional chair in Danish styling has seat and back shields of heavy gauge white vinyl. The sofas and lounge chairs in this line are covered in plastic of decorator shades such as cerulean blue or persimmon.

Molded dining chairs have a charming built in texture of burlap sealed within glass fibres and polyester plastic resins.

Terrace tables of hard plastic have marble chips buried within. George Nelson's room divider is a series of horizontal poles on which he has hung styrene plastic bowls to hold growing plants. Bowls may be taken down for watering.

One charming table top is a harlequin pattern in black and white that would be at home with any decor. Washable upholstery available as head boards is set flush in exposed wood frames or sprinkled with gold stars.

And no end of plastic planning has gone into the nursery. Everything from furniture to bath basins and bathinettes offer the easy-does-it theme. Outsize pails and covers of matching plastic are other style notes.

A wheeled cart or large basket is handy to transport cleaning aids from room to room. Put bottles, cans and equipment in them for easy carrying.

This Book Gives More Advice Than Grandma Does

OH BABY! Look what you can get free!

From the moment your baby is born, and even before, practically everybody in the world is eager to give him goods and services, says Peter Cordozo, in a new book, "A Wonderful World for Children", just published by Bantam Books.

This is a unique encyclopedia for parents, telling them how to take advantage of the thousands of sources of entertainment, education and actual merchandise offered free to children by big business, civic groups, national organizations and the United States government.

If you have a baby, or are expecting one, says the author, here are just a few of the things you can get absolutely free: baby care booklets, baby magazines, free samples of orange juice, junket and other foods; patterns for stuffed toys and scientific baby feeding guides.

There are directions for preparing baby's formula, a book of jingles, a booklet for new fathers, laundry products for washing diapers, a book on children's sleep habits, a book, "Infant Care" published by the United States Government, a toy selection chart, a book of directions for taking baby pictures, a booklet with hundreds of name suggestions for girls and boys, free sample birth announcements and thank-you cards, booklets on prenatal care and step-by-step directions on feeding, bathing and caring for the new baby.

In an exhaustive compilation, the author lists sources for all of these baby bonuses, telling parents what to do and where to write to get them.

Subsequent chapters list free oportunities for fun, travel and learning available to older boys and girls. One chapter deals with free instruction and materials for: children's hobbies, with sources of stamp collecting, science, model railroading, carpentering, astronomy, model plane building, gardening, music, and many other activities.

The entire chapter is devoted to sources of free books for children. Another gives detailed information on how to obtain free home movies, free instructions and rules for all kinds of sports, free travel books and pictures, free games, free booklets on camping.

After surveying the astonishing number of free services, entertainment, education and merchandise available for the young, you will agree that it's "A Wonderful World for Children."

Okay To Trust These New Fabrics

EAST LANSING, Mich — Fabrics advertised as crease-resistant actually do resist creases, Michigan State University textile researchers discovered.

The skeptical researchers put the fabrics through more than 25 launderings in an automatic washer with the water at a temperature of 140 degrees, using a synthetic detergent.

They found that although there was some loss of finish in the laundering, the treated fabrics remained crease-resistant throughout the study.

To make the test, both treated and untreated fabrics were purchased from retail stores. Fabrics tested included crease-resistant voiles, permanent crisp, powder puff muslins, crease-resistant novelty ginghams, iridescent chambrays, striped seersuckers and glazed moire, crease-resistant cottons.

Fabrics with the crease-resistant finishes cost 30 to 60 cents a yard more than those without the finish.

Guild Serves Breakfast Saturday

Spring flowers and a gay carousel combined for decorating the Episcopal Parish House Saturday morning for the May Breakfast served there.

Hostess group for the breakfast, an annual affair, was the St. Cecelia Guild. Mrs. Robert Jordheim is president. Serving hours were from 7 to 10 a.m.

Proceeds from the breakfast will be used to support the district project and to send a girl to Alaska to serve as an assistant to the bishop.

Guests were seated at tables laid with white linen or gaily colored linen cloths. Red roses centered each table, and green napkins added a bright touch. The menu included fruit juice, ham and eggs, hot biscuits and sweet rolls, jelly, coffee and milk.

Mrs. Bennett Brooke served as chairman of the decorating committee. Mrs. Aultman Doty was in charge of publicity and ticket sales. Food was planned, prepared and served under the supervision of Mrs. William Boyd and Mrs. Allan McAshan.

Double Ring Vows Unite Lamesa Pair Saturday Evening

LAMESA—Miss Irene Eason became the bride of Richard Lauderdale Saturday evening, May 5, in a double ring ceremony read by the Rev. Giles Hankins in the parsonage of Northside Baptist Church.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Eason and Mrs. Elizabeth Lauderdale both of Lamesa.

The bride wore a pink lace semi-formal dress fashioned with soft bodice and full skirt worn over taffeta and net. Her accessories were blue and she wore a corsage of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Janice Wagner, Big Spring, was the matron of honor. She wore a pink linen suit with pink accessories. Kenneth Cryer was the best man.

Smart Girls Sew Their Carefree Summer Cottons

A high-school girl is one of the busiest persons in town. With part-time jobs, a hectic social life and helping around the house, she often has a tough job finding time to keep her summer cottons as crisp and fresh as she likes.

But young moderns are up to the minute, and girls who sew their own have discovered that they don't need to plan ironing time, if they select their fabrics carefully.

Local sewing center experts point out that a girl with a little fabric know-how can breeze through the summer wearing crisp cottons that need never see an iron.

Easy to make and easy to care for is a full cotton skirt in a colorful patchwork quilt pattern, edged with petticoat ruffles at the hem and accented with laced eyelets at the waist.

The fabric is treated with a dry-smooth finish, so it dries slick as a whistle. The ruffles as well as the eyelet have a carefree attitude, too.

The whole skirt can be tossed in the washer, then in the dryer. Smooth the ruffles with your fingers, make sure the skirt is hanging straight and forget it. It's ready to wear the next morning.

The new finishes also resist dirt. The smoothness that makes water roll off so easily keeps a spilled soda pop from soaking into the fibers.

Smart girls have learned to read fabric labels. They've found that an extra few minutes at the fabric counter can pay off in extra fun-time during the summer.

Watch Those Brims

Even though big hats are back in style, don't wear them to the theater or to other events where they may be a nuisance to others.

Start Youngsters Off To School With Full Tummies

CHICAGO — A food specialist says young people need better eating habits and that most American homes serve inadequate breakfasts.

Rita Campbell, director of the Department of Nutrition of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, calls attention to the intensive research in the last three decades that reveal the food value of meat for people of all ages.

"Teen-agers need from one-third to one-half more protein, minerals and vitamins than their parents do," Miss Campbell says.

"The teen-years are the most active years in a person's life. Greater supplies of nutrients are necessary to maintain good health, proper body development and extra energy.

"Generally you will find that the smart student, the star athlete and the popular coed are youngsters who eat the right foods."

Miss Campbell says the American breakfast is the most neglected meal of the day.

"For maximum efficiency at work, school or play it is essential that one-quarter to one-third of the daily intake of protein, vitamins and minerals be obtained at breakfast.

"The nutrients missed by skipping or skimping breakfast cannot be made up at other meals."

An adequate breakfast would include meat, eggs and milk products, fruit and cereal or bread.

Nutritionists and food specialists have suggested serving such unusual breakfast foods as steak, meat-base soups and even hamburgers at the morning meal.

Children And Flowers

The way to stay young is to keep busy, according to Mrs. Rebecca Ramey. She has two hobbies — children and flowers. Mrs. Ramey cares for children and has already planted a garden at her new home, 103½ W. 15th.

DeLuxe Supplies Will Make Dad Good Baby Sitter

With the new share-the-work program of today's young families, Pop is likely to be just as skilled at taking care of baby as Mom is at helping to earn a living.

To encourage this attitude, wise mothers make the job easy for Dad by providing modern equipment for baby care.

An up-to-date bathinette provides an easy, safe and comfortable place for changing baby, with oil, powder and diapers close at hand.

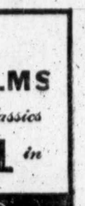

And to be sure Dad's big fingers don't get clumsy with the safety pins, Mom provides a pinless diaper cover of waterproof nylon which makes it a cinch to change the baby in 20 seconds flat. The diaper is simply folded inside the cover, which snaps in place.

Electric bottle warmers insure correct temperature for baby's bottle, new scientifically tested toys keep baby amused in his crib or playpen.

If you want to make a willing baby-sitter out of Dad, it's smart to provide the means for doing it the easy way.

Try Cake Recipe In Frying Pan

Here is how you do it:

SKILLET CAKE

Preheat skillet to 420 degrees. Prepare half of regular cake recipe and pour in 8-inch cake pan. Set pan on small wire rack or trivet to raise it about ½ inch from bottom of skillet.

Cover and bake at 420 degrees about 35 minutes or until done. Then tilt cover and bake 5 minutes longer.

When turned out, bottom of cake will be browned. For upside down cake spread 1 tablespoon melted butter, ¼ cup brown sugar in bottom of baking pan. Arrange fruit over this and add batter, filling pan not more than ¾ full. Bake at 400 degrees until done.

Form Film On Yolk

Like your fried eggs with a film formed over the yolks? Then heat a little butter in your electric skillet and add the eggs. Keep the heat low and cover the skillet tightly; leave the heat on for a minute or so, then turn it off. Leave the cover on the skillet until the eggs are set and the film forms over the yolks—about five minutes.

Great Granny Tosses Away Care By Working

Forget those family skeletons and keep busy if you want to stay young, advises Mrs. Rebecca Ramey.

The 66-year-old great grandmother won't tolerate worrying. Instead she hops aboard an air liner to visit one of her 11 children. Or goes fishing. Or just plants a different shade of periwinkle around her new residence, 103½ W. 15th.

And a neat appearance is the biggest boost of all, she says. Even during the days she carried water from a well to wash diapers on a rub board, she tried to keep herself attractive.

"I don't mean with finery," she says. "Just brushing your hair and cleaning up helps a lot."

Mrs. Ramey thinks looks depend on "yourself." This is where keeping busy and happy instead of worrying comes in.

A widow for 14 years, Mrs. Ramey is self employed as a baby sitter. This leaves her independent enough to work in her yard and take occasional trips.

After more than five years with her children, Mrs. Ramey has decided to start housekeeping again and she likes it. For an advance Mother's Day gift her two daughters who live here — Mrs. R. G. Thompson and Mrs. Lois Welch — showered her with household equipment from dishrags to cream pitchers.

She enjoys keeping her two rooms gleaming. She's especially pleased with a tiny breakfast nook in the kitchen. A calendar in the parlor-bedroom is for advance sitting appointments.

From this office and home combination, Mrs. Ramey keeps in touch with her children who are scattered from Washington, D. C., to Guam. All four sons are career Air Force men and one son-in-law is also in the Air Force, Capt. Thomas at Webb.

Even her children have her habit of working hard. This is why larger families were easier to raise in her day — children had chores to keep them busy and didn't require so much entertainment. On a farm, children weren't too expensive either, but large families are impractical today because of high living costs although she thinks parents should have more than two children.

HI--TALK

By Mary Sue Hale

For the third consecutive year, Big Spring's candidate for president of the El Paso Presbytery been elected.

Dennis Jones, candidate of the First Presbyterian's PYF department was elected to this office last Saturday, as the Spring Rally of the El Paso Presbytery came to a close. Last year Tom Guin served as president, and Glenn Rogers, previous to Tom, Kay Willcox, who served last year as treasurer, was elected historian and also editor of the newspaper, "Western Light."

A busy week indeed has been experienced by BSHS students. Juniors set aside headaches concerning preparation for their sponsorship of the Junior-Senior banquet, prom and party, and seniors postponed the task of completing their lists of receivers of graduation announcements, for an important event indeed: the arrival of the El Rodeo annual yearbook.

Classes were supposedly conducted as usual, but lucky was the teacher who had no problem in getting the full attention of her class, especially Monday, the day of the El Rodeo arrival.

SIGNING PARTIES

Nancy King gave the first of a number of annual signing parties Monday evening at her home. A second all-school one was given jointly by Julie Rainwater and Carolyn Miller Tuesday night at the Cosden Country Club. Practically an all school event it was, too, with a large percent of the three classes attending. Included were Bobby Fuller, Sandy Jennings, Eddie Don Harris, Richard Pachall, Donnie Hewett, Carol Rogers, Gary Tidwell, Punkie Boyd, Johnny Roy Phillips, Tommy Pickle, Janet Hogan, Maxine Rossen, Jackie Johnson, Tom Guin, Clara Freeman, Marilyn Morris, ValJean LaCroix, Melva and Terral Turner, Sally Cowper, Rodney Sheppard, Marlene Mann, Brenda Barr, Barbara Coffee, Robert Whittington, Iris Jones, Joyce Horne, Jarrel Shortes, China Carroll and J. T. Baird.

The Livestock Team, consisting of Lanny Hamby, Bruce Moore, Ben Lockhart, Tommy Buckner, and Leslie White, missed going to the state meet by the slim margin of four poigts, but wound up winning ninth place in Area II.

Mrs. Charles Weeg spoke to the Senior Feta Tri-Hi-Y Monday night on the "Aspects of Teaching." A feature of "Career Month," Mrs. Weeg was one of several adults who, in the past month, have spoken to the group concerning various professions and careers.

Senior Hi-Yers proved that youth prevails by beating their "pops" in a baseball game last Monday evening. A forerunner to a barbecue given later by the boys, the game was well attended in spite of threatening rain.

LAUGHTON PROGRAM

Who says that youth is not interested in culture? Anyone who dotes on that subject should have witnessed the turnout for the Charles Laughton reading Wednesday evening at the Municipal Auditorium. Just a few of the many high schoolers attending were Pudgie Grey, Lynn Porter, Johnny Fulgaar, Mojie Henson, Tommie Williamson, Margaret Fryar, Kenda McGibbon, Don Shore, Dude Cluck, Roland McKenzie, Pat Rudd, Helen Winchester, Charlie McCarty, Jerry Graves, Sue Boykin and Olivia Williams.

Five actual competitors left Big Spring Thursday to compete in state finals of Texas Interscholastic League judging. Tom Guin and Rodney Sheppard, our debate team that swept away first place rating in both district and regional judging, were accompanied by Dell McComb. Carol Rogers, who was highest scoring regional journalistic writer, was accompanied by Mrs. L. H. Steward, and Marlene Mann, also a journalistic delegate.

Janice Williamson, accompanied by Mrs. Betty Lou Ratliff, previously scored first place in district, and second place in regional, and competed in the shorthand division. Bobby Fuller, accompanied by Johnny Janak, Milton Davis, and Coach Harold Bentley, entered track competition to run the 880. Miss Arah Phillips' Steerettes left Saturday for Brownwood, where they competed for the state volleyball crown.

DAIRY TEAM

The Dairy Team of the FFA left Friday morning to attend the State Livestock Judging at A&M College. Donald Hewitt competed with more than 330 other FFA boys from Area II and was awarded a medal for receiving the best individual score in the dairy division of the Texas Tech Livestock Show held last Saturday at Lubbock. Donald also receved two ribbons, a third place for his Jersey cow, and a fourth for his Holstein.

The Dairy Team, consisting of Donald, Edgar A. Phillips, Jimmy Whitefield, and Charles Engle, wound up with a third place in Area II judging, and seventh, in the entire district, which consists of 10 areas.

Classrooms took on a new sparkle after their scrubbing from ceiling to baseboards to floor, Wednesday, when Clean-Up Day was put into effect by students at BSHS some cleaning utensils were brought from home, but soap, wax, mops and brooms were furnished by the school.

Besides being cultured, seems that high school students also have brains. Thirty-two high school students were listed on Mr. Wilder Row's 'A' honor rolls for this past six weeks. Making up the list are J. T. Baird, Stephen Baird, Gay Bownds, China Carroll, Wilma Cole, Bennie Compton, Sally Cowper, Danny Dunn, Clara Freeman, Julius Glickman, Bobby Grant, Patsy Grant, Avolel Greenwood, Barton Grooms, Betty Guthrie, Elke Hagan, Sandy Jennings, James Johnson, Nita Jones, Benson Kennedy, Donnie Mabe, Marlene Mann, Marilyn Morris, Sallie McComb, Bill Norred, Prissy Pond, Frances Reagan, Leta Sampson, Donovin Smith, John Westbrook, Janice Williamson and Tommie Williamson complete the group.

Collect Global Soil

SAN DIEGO—Senior Girl Scouts, planning an international garden at their headquarters in Balboa Park, are sending requests for an ounce of soil to fellow scouts in 25 foreign countries.

Soil from other members of the World Association of Girl Scouts will be placed in the garden surrounding a flagpole. The Department of Agriculture will check the soil on arrival in the United States.

Dali Hogs Show At Exhibition

Salvador Dali, Spanish surrealist painter with his waxed, startlingly up-curving mustache, drew as much attention as his painting, "The Sacrament of the Last Supper," the first of his works to be hung among the famous old masters housed by the National Gallery here.

The Dali painting was sent on loan to the gallery to join other 20th century works in the distinguished collection of Chester Dale.

Dale, who was on hand when the painting was first placed on exhibit, said he had suggested the subject to Dali. Spotting Dali in the midst of the crowd examining the painting, he pulled him to one side, saying: "Give the others a chance to look at it. You only painted it."

Two-Tones Debut

New melamine table wear is now produced in a color on color process. Heretofore the dinnerware was available only in solid colors. It will permit two-tone designs in in which a pure white glazed interior, the eating surface, will stand out in bold relief against the colored outside.

A cup might be white inside and red outside, the saucer has a white interior faced with the same red. One modern flair being used is an iridescent color band formed where to colors join on the edge of a piece. All this plastic ware is said to be highly resistant to breaking and cracking.

How Much Sauce?

A cup of medium white sauce will be enough for a 6½ or 7-ounce can of tuna when you are preparing the fish cream-style.

Sheerest Hosiery

New hose recommended for bridal wear is said to be the world's sheerest, a 90 gauge, 7½ denier stocking, imported from Germany. The hosiery is packaged two to a box and is not inexpensive.

Wanted: New Wardrobe

When Jane Russell dyed her hair red for "The Revolt of Mamie Stover" at 20th, she found she needed a new wardrobe to go with the new color. She tells Lydia Lane in today's Hollywood Beauty of her sensational pound-a-day reducing diet.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Jane Russell Offers Hints On Grooming

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Jane Russell is well known at 20th Century-Fox but when she walked into the commissary the other day with her hair dyed red, for her role in "The Revolt of Mamie Stover," she created a sensation.

"It is startling the change this has made in you," I told Jane as she sat down at my table.

"I've never changed the color of my hair before," Jane explained, "because I am too lazy. I had hoped to wear a wig in this picture but my own hair is too dark around my face.

"I have found that if you make a drastic change in the color of your hair you also have to make a drastic change in your wardrobe," Jane announced. "I can't wear my favorite colors, red and shocking pink, anymore. And pastels, which I loathed, are more becoming to me now. Sometimes I dress without thinking about my hair. But even if I am in a great hurry, I have to change because many of my old favorites are no longer becoming to me."

"Even your eyes look different," I told Jane. "The yellow in them has been highlighted."

"I know," Jane exclaimed. "They are hazel now and before I always thought of them as being walnut."

"Do you find that you've had to change your make-up?" I asked.

"Basically no," Jane said. "I still use black mascara and brown eyebrow pencil. There is only one shade of brown for me, even now. That is walnut. I think brown with a tinge of red is hard to wear.

"Eyes are the whole face to me. I put on mascara as soon as I wake up," Jane confided. "I have used the same brand of mascara for years. I like it because it doesn't make the lashes stick together. People are always telling me what long lashes I have. They really aren't long. It is the way I apply my mascara.

"I like to use an almost dry brush and apply several coats, but I always stroke the back of my lashes as well as the front. Then as a final coat and to prevent chipping, I use a waterproof mascara. I started this when I was in 'Underwater' and it worked out very well."

"I carry all my make-up in this case. It's so easy to change it from one bag to another." She took out her lipstick. "It comes in pairs. One for day and one for night. It's such a good idea because colors change with lighting.

"I had a hard time finding a shade I liked in a stock that was creamy enough. The dye in some indelible lipsticks is much too drying for me. I prefer refreshing my lipstick to having my lips dried out. Mine got so sore that I was miserable until I found a medicated cream that was wonderful."

Jane showed me her lipstick brush which popped out when she pressed it.

As she slowly ate her cottage cheese she told me about the rainy spell they ran into on location on the Hawaiian Islands.

"We just sat around for days waiting for the sun to come out. There was nothing to do but eat and drink and I did," Jane confessed. "In one week I gained seven pounds. Fortunately I know how to take off weight in a hurry. I have a girl friend who is on a continual health-food binge. She gave me a wonderful diet. When I'm working I feel well using this diet.

"I have a tiny icebox in my dressing room and I keep celery, carrot sticks, radishes and hard boiled eggs for a snack when I am hungry. In the afternoon when I feel a drop in vitality I take take tea with honey in it."

Jane is enthusiastic about honey as a source of energy. She says it is so quick because it does not have to be converted but goes right into the blood stream.

"Most reducing diets," Jane continued, "are very high in protein, but too much meat can make the body acid. With one diet I can lose a pound a day and still keep a chemistry balance. When you neglect the nutritional side of a diet, your skin, hair, nails, your entire system suffers. It is foolish to ruin your health with reducing, and so unnecessary," Jane said with finality.

RUSSELL'S REDUCER

Here's exciting news, girls. The identical diet which enables Jane Russell to lose a pound a day is now contained in leaflet M-64, "Jane Russell's Body Balancing Reducing Diet." The diet, planned for one week at a time, includes the five food groups — sugars, starches, fats, proteins and vitamins-minerals. The tasty menu suggestions are made up chiefly from the vitamin and mineral foods, which are not as filling as other foods but which are nourishing and important in maintaining normal body chemistry. To get a copy of leaflet M-64 send 5 cents AND a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, in care of The Big Spring Herald.

Grocery Shopping Makes 'Small World'

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — Where else in the United States but here are you likely to bump grocery carts or rub elbows while reaching for a chicken or a cauliflower with the wife of the vice president, the ambassador of Burma or a lady in a sari from India?

Such encounters are everyday occurrences in the capital's supermarkets, where every individual, top hostess and just plain housewife, titled bigwig and laborer breadwinner, is reduced to the common denominator of shopper for food for the family.

You're just as apt to see a man in homburg and striped pants as the wife of a government clerk in cotton housedress with several tots in tow; a lady in mink and diamonds, as well as a white-jacketed foreign-speaking cook from an embassy.

Often, lasting friendships have their beginnings in lines before the fruit and vegetable weighers or the checking counters.

Sometimes you see faces so often you find yourself bowing and speaking when you meet them again someplace else in public.

Recently, at a big embassy reception I caught the smile and nod of an elegantly dressed woman across the crowded salon. "Who is she?" I kept asking myself uncomfortably.

Suddenly, I was face to face with her and she nodded and smiled again. "I'm sorry," I apologized, "I know we've met, but I can't seem to recall your name."

She laughed. "If I tell you, you'll die," she replied, "We keep running into each other at the market. Frankly, I don't know your name either, but I feel as if we were old friends." She was the wife of a high State Department official.

In many countries each of these items is purchasable only in a separate store, and shopping is a complicated and interminable, often frustrating business.

Foreigners are also pleased to find items plainly marked and often bearing explicit directions of ways in which they should be prepared. They are happy too, to find the prices clearly printed on things they buy.

"It's a wonderful way of serving the public," one diplomat's wife exclaimed, as we tried to outreach each other for the whitest mushrooms in the basket.

White Collar Girl Likes To Travel; Prefers Man Guide

By EDWARD S. KITCH

A tour expert says she makes up 90 per cent of escorted summer vacation trips. In her group are the nurse, the secretary and the clerk.

The president of a large domestic travel organization, J. Stuart Rotchford, says these Jane Does eagerly visit new places. They are among the many people who don't have anyone to travel with. A lot of them are timid.

"We weld them together into a group so they can get the most out of a trip," Rotchford said.

The outdoor type usually schedules her first trip to Colorado and its Rocky Mountains. But if she's interested in theater and bright lights, her destinations are New York and cities along the Eastern seaboard.

The married Jane Does most often prefer Florida, Arizona, Mexico, California and such far-away places as Hawaii. Hubby goes along, of course.

In any week from May to October, Rotchford's organization will have as many as 52 separate groups on the road at the same time.

Men guides are preferred by women. Rotchford aims to please by enlisting professors, college students and post-graduate students. He says the ideal tour guide is a mixture of philosopher, baggageman, counselor and magician. Above all, he must understand human nature.

Rotchford's tours handle some 20,000 vacationists a year. His services are packaged wholesale to some 2,200 travel agents throughout the United States. Trips include safaris to Africa, tours to Europe and jaunts around the world.

Natural Finishes

The beauty of natural woods and textured surfaces is highlighted in new furniture fashions. Functional combination units also are important, designed for multi-purpose space savings in small homes and apartments. The accent is on simple, useful, uncluttered designs, depending on beautiful surfaces and clean lines for effect. The new furniture is neither ornate nor starkly modern, but rather contemporary.

Blue, Not Pink

Handsome Mrs. Harry Cain, wife of a member of the Subversive Activities Control Board and former Republican senator from the state of Washington, is wearing a great big sparkling blue elephant pin on the lapel of her chic spring suits.

Courtroom Dignity

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) —Dist. Judge G. Russell Miller refused to hear a woman's request for a divorce until she changed from red slacks into a dress. Court was recessed for 20 minutes while the woman made a quick trip home.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, MAY 6, 1956

DURING HOSPITAL WEEK

Hospitals' Important Place In The Community Is Noted

If you're measuring hospitals on an economic basis alone, the non-government medical institutions in Big Spring amount to big business.

The four local hospitals employ and aggregate of 237 people, and their combined payrolls for 1955 ran close to a million dollars.

These figures were compiled in connection with information given out for National Hospital Week, being observed here and throughout the nation May 6-12.

Hospitals, of course, cannot be rated on economic strength alone. Immeasurable are the services performed for the community and a wide area 'round about — services that mean, sometimes, the difference between life and death; services that send people back to normal activities; services that extend to the indigent as well as those who can pay. It is such community service that the hospitals are stressing in their observance of the National Week.

Total number of patients in the four private hospitals in Big Spring last year amounted roughly to one-third Big Spring's total population. The institutions listed admittances aggregating 9,336.

Every day, throughout 1955, there was an average "hospital census" in the city of 117 persons. That compares with a total of 156 beds available in the four institutions.

And these hospitals reported 975 births during the year, and a total of 2,731 surgical procedures (major and minor operations).

The figures are from the records of Cowper Clinic & Hospital, Malone and Hogan Hospital Foundation, Medical Arts Hospital, and Howard County Hospital Foundation. Not included are statistics from the Veterans Administration Hospital and the Big Spring State Hospital. Figures from both of these would run the medical statistics much higher, but of course they function with public funds.

Vocational Nurses Capping Ceremony Set Friday Night

Capping ceremony for the ninth class of licensed Vocational Nurses will be held in Medical Arts Hospital lobby Friday at 7:30 p.m.

Eight candidates for stripes and pins, who will complete the course in September, are Mrs. Leon Massey, Mrs. Louise Key, Mrs. Estelle Long, Mrs. Jerry Sandidge, Mrs. E. J. Duckworth, Mrs. H. L. Rogers, Nell McCutchan and June Fortune.

Two candidates, having finished the required 260 hours of classroom work, will receive caps without stripes. They are Mrs. Gordon M. Marchant and Mrs. Alvin J. Blakeney.

Speaker of the evening will be Sam Blackburn, a member of the editorial staff of the Big Spring Herald. The invocation will be given by the Rev. Roy O'Brien.

Mrs. Haley Haynes, instructor for the course, will present the caps; Mrs. Myrtle Eller will give the pins to the women.

Candles used in the capping will be lighted by Mrs. Pete Banks, a former student of Mrs. Haynes.

After the Nightingale Pledge is repreated, Dr. P. D. O'Brien, will pronounce the benediction. A reteption will be held in the classroom.

Purpose of the training course is to produce good bedside nurses. It is open to all women who are high school graduates up to the age of 50 years. Duration of the course of study is one year.

Students are paid $65 a month when they start the course and this is increased until each receives $100 a month by the end of the work.

Mrs. Hayes announced that of the last class, three took the state board examination in Austin and ranked fifth in the state. The lowest grade made by the group was 90.

Million And A Half Hospital Beds, U. S. Still Is Short

Big Spring this week joins the rest of the U. S. in attention to hospitals, in observance of National Hospital Week.

Some of the local institutions will be holding open house. And hospitals everywhere are stressing the theme, "Your Hospital — for You and Your Community."

Magnitude of the nation's hospitals is pointed up by figures showing physical facts — without reference to the missions of mercy and community service which the institutions perform.

There are more than 1,500,000 beds in the nation's hospitals — these being in 7,000 hospitals — but there is still an estimated deficit of about 800,000 beds in the country.

Hospitals in the U. S. last year cared for more than 20,000,000 patients, a record number; and it is estimated that one out of every eight persons will enter a hospital this year.

On an average day there are more than 1,300,000 persons and more than 45,000 newborn infants in the nation's hospitals. More than 3,000,000 babies are born in hospitals each year.

Hospital Week Is Proclaimed By The Mayor

Designation of May 6-12 as Hospital Week in Big Spring has been proclaimed by Mayor G. W. Dabney. Communities throughout the nation are joining in the observance of National Hospital Week during this period.

"Your Hospital — for You and Your Community" is the theme of the Week this year, and being emphasized are the hospitals' many services to their communities. The special week climaxes on the birthday of the famous nurse, Florence Nightingale, on May 12.

Mayor Dabney said: "It is fitting that we take the opportunity presented by this observance to become better acquainted with our excellent hospitals. We have a great community asset in our hospitals.

His formal proclamation said:

"Whereas, our hospitals have dedicated themselves to the welfare of humanity and

"Whereas our hospitals have demonstrated their continued interest in community welfare through their sustained programs of planning, and

"Whereas the continued high standard of hospital care is possibly only through the community's understanding, appreciation and support of its hospitals,

"Now therefore, I, as mayor of the city of Big Spring, do hereby proclaim the week of May 6 through May 12, 1956, as Hospital Week in Big Spring, and I urge that all citizens join with me and others throughout the United States in observing National Hospital Week; by visiting our hospitals and learning more of their role of service, and in showing appreciation for hospital services which are so important and necessary to all of us."

Tallest Building Now Highest Lighthouse

NEW YORK (AP) — The Empire State Building, the world's tallest building, now may boast of being the world's highest lighthouse.

On the 90th floor of the 103-story building last night, four searchlights with beams totaling nearly two billion candlepower went into operation.

Under the most favorable weather conditions, the lights should be visible for 300 miles from the air and 80 to 95 miles on the ground.

Juvenile Adults

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Superior Court Judge William B. Neely had this to say about juvenile delinquency at a child welfare conference: "When an adult behaves like a juvenile, we simply call him adolescent. But when a juvenile acts like some adults he sees, we call him a delinquent."

Concert Today To Open 'Music Week'

National Music Week opens today and first on the program for the Big Spring observance is a piano and organ concert by Lt. Charles Webb of Webb Air Force Base.

Several other events are scheduled for the week, including musical programs at two service clubs, school presentations and the annual high school band concert.

Lt. Webb's concert will begin at 4 p.m. today in the First Methodist Church. It will be a public presentation.

The Girls' Glee Club, made up of sixth graders from Kate Morrison School, will sing at the Rotary Club luncheon at noon Tuesday in the Settles ballroom.

Members of the group also will present some folk dances.

Mrs. Bill Griese, school music supervisor, will be in charge of both programs.

The Gay Hill Grade School musical program will be presented in the Gay Hill auditorium Friday at 8 p.m. It will be the operetta, "Peter Rabbit," presented by grades one through four, and a cowboy skit, backed up by concert numbers, to be given by grades five to eight.

The Midway School also has its program scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday in the school auditorium. "The American Melting Pot," musical story of the growth of the nation, will be the program.

Mrs. Doyle Fenn is director of the Gay Hill program and Mrs. Robert Mason will be in charge of the Midway event.

Program at the Elbow school, also Friday night, will be "I Hear America Singing," to be presented by pupils of the school.

Climaxing the week's activities will be the joint concert of Big Spring High School and Junior High bands. This will be given at 8 p.m. Friday in the high school auditorium by Directors Clyde Rowe and Bobby Robbins and their bands.

Lt. Webb's concert is being presented by the Big Spring Music Study Club. Webb, director of the Choraleers, a chorus of student pilots at Webb Air Force Base, is from Dallas and has his master's degree in piano from Southern Methodist University. He performed with the combined choirs of Howard County Junior College, Webb AFB and the First Methodist Church in the Easter cantata presentation here last month.

Judge Spurns Gaudy Courtroom

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP) —A judge here holds that the decor of his courtroom should be "a little subdued, not bright and gaudy like a barroom."

Justice Daniel J. McAvoy of State Supreme Court, in a strictly informal opinion, chose dark green and black tile for the floor with dark oak or walnut benches, in preference to light green and gray, suggested by a Board of Supervisors committee.

Charles A. Root, committee chairman, said the jurist's opinion had been sought because "he's the one who has to live with it."

Teacher Trouble

LITTLE FALLS, N. J. (AP)—Third-grade pupils here may have some trouble figuring out who their teacher is next fall. The Board of Education announced it is appointing Geraldine and Marilyn Illaria, identical twin blondes, to teach third-grade classes.

A Bible Thought For Today

For the Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father with his angels; and then he shall reward every man according to his works. (Matthew 16:27)

Music Radiates Its Contribution

Today begins National Music Week, an occasion which has been observed faithfully in Big Spring for many years. Thanks to the leadership of the Music Study Club, our community has been made conscious of the essential importance of music to our total make up.

There is music—and then there is music. Good music is quite apt to be what sounds good to you, but undeniably there are certain forms of music which are transitory and light while there are others that have depth and feeling. Just as books with a message and a master craftsman's touch are the books which are remembered, so are the works in music.

Music takes various avenues of expression—it has its pensive and jocund folk songs; it may have its light, gay waltzes and ballads; it may have its mighty oratorios or symphonies.

In many respects it outstrips the ability of word or act to stir the emotions and speak to the inner soul. Even the baby who knows nothing about speech may be soothed by a gentle lullaby because the sound is pleasantly affectionate. Music is universal in its language because sound and the pleasing and artistic combination of them are universally understood. For the same reason, music is a democratic form of expression and creativeness because it is within the easy command of all. King and subject alike may be stirred by the same simple strains.

Music is essential. The world would be unbearably dreary without it, Our lives would be lop-sided and dull without music, our ability to perform even such a fundamental duty as praising the Creator would be limited; our tongues of love would be all but tied were we denied music.

Yes, music enriches our lives and we ought to lend encouragement to those things which stimulate a lively interest in music. Big Spring and surrounding area are better places today than even a mere 10 years ago partly because we have kept pace in musical appreciation. We possess more skills to enjoy life as we go along, not alone because of the labor of those who love music, but also because this advance has strengthened groups seeking expression in words, with the artist's brush on the stage.

Maintaining Our Air Superiority

WASHINGTON — General Curtis E. LeMay, head of the Strategic Air Command of the U. S. Air Force, has made a sensational revelation. Historians of the Korean War will note it with extraordinary interest. He confirms, in effect, what General Douglas MacArthur said five years ago — that the United States could have won the war in Korea and could have changed the whole face of things in the Far East by using maximum power against the Red Chinese bases in Manchuria.

General LeMay didn't discuss the Korean War nor General MacArthur's views as such, but his answer to a prepared question leaves no doubt that the United States made a fatal mistake in failing to press the war to a victorious conclusion in Korea in 1950 and 1951. Here is the question asked by the Senate Armed Forces subcommittee and General LeMay's answer:

"Q. Does the Strategic Air Command now have combat effectiveness sufficient to enable it to discharge its principal responsibility?

"A. Yes; at the present time and in spite of recent Soviet gains in aircraft and weapons technology and production, it is considered that the Strategic Air Command continues to maintain sufficient advantage over the Soviet offensive capability to enable accomplishment of its primary roles.

"We must recognize, however, a new factor has entered the equation, and that is that the Soviet Union has a long-range attack capability that it did not have five years ago. This factor creates the possibility of an initial surprise attack upon the Strategic Air Command which in turn, would reduce its deterrent power and retaliatory capability.

"However, under any reasonable set of assumptions, we believe we now have the capability of winning any war the Soviets might start. We are not capable of winning it without this country's receiving very serious damage. Five years ago we could have won the war without the country's receiving comparatively serious damage."

Five and six years ago means 1950 and 1951. That was the time when the European allies of the United States faltered and influenced the Truman administration not to apply maximum power in Korea. The European allies had only token forces in Korea. America and South Korea, however, had hundreds of thousands of troops in the battle area. The decision to refrain from bombing the bases in Manchuria and the Communist supply lines encouraged Red China to press on with its major intervention in November, 1950. The result of this conflict was a total of more than 33,000 American boys killed and 103,000 wounded. The casualties for South Korea were many times that number.

When General, MacArthur, who was the United Nations commander - in chief in Korea, begged in 1950 for authority to fight back against the enemy, his request was turned down. A few weeks later he was summarily dismissed by President Truman. The excuse made was that he was "insubordinate," although no hearing was ever given him by Mr. Truman. General MacArthur's recommendations were criticized at the time by Truman officials as likely to plunge the nation into a third world war. In Congress this was the argument offered by senators who were, in effect, apologizing for the Truman action in removing General MacArthur.

But today General LeMay reveals that such was the air power of the United States in 1950 and 1951 that if the battle had been pursued in Korea, there would have been a victory. This means that Soviet Russia in all probability would never have involved herself in a losing war just to save Red China. It would have been highly dangerous for internal reasons, as the Soviet rulers were afraid to start a war that might turn into a revolution.

General LeMay's testimony is of transcendent importance entirely apart from its value in retrospect. He has outlined what is needed if a war were to start tomorrow—and he apparently feels America is still ahead in air strength, though it would suffer damage from long range air attack. He warns, moreover, that by 1960, unless important increases in the U.S. air program are made now, the enemy's striking power will have grown stronger than ours.

Time has been on the side of the Soviets due to the fatal mistake made in Korea by the United Nations. Will time aid Soviet Russia to the point where her rulers may feel strong enough to risk a war in 1960? Congress is concerned about the answer to this question, and that's why so much attention is being given now to an examination of plans for the war that might have to be fought four or five years hence.

Overcome Feelings Of Inferiority

The term "inferiority complex" seems to have become a permanent part of our language. It is now even a subject for popular jokes, such as the one about the man who goes to a psychiatrist to be cured of his inferiority complex. A few months later, he meets a friend who asks him what progress he is making with his cure. "Oh," he answers, "I'm doing fine. The doctor has discovered I really don't have an inferiority complex; he's found that I am inferior!"

Of course, the truth is that, if we are inferior, it is because we ourselves or our experiences in life have made us that way. I remember one man in his thirties with strong feelings of inferiority who came to us at the church clinic for help. We traced his basic problem back to a childhood experience.

As a child, he had fallen into a swimming pool and almost drowned. After he had been pulled out, his frantic mother, hugging him to her bosom, said, "You must never go near the water again."

She continued to encourage in the child the unutterable fear of the water. He would sit back about fifty yards from a pool watching other boys have the time of their lives, but he would go no closer. Then he began to feel that, not only could he not swim, but he also could not do many things other boys did. This eventually developed into a deep sense of inferiority and inadequacy. He was desperate when he came to us.

His was almost a perfect case because it was so easy to trace the origin of his condition. Even his conversation was filled with symbols of his fear of water. I would say to him: "You can do this. You can do that."

He would reply: "No, I'm afraid it's over my head. It's too deep. If I try, I'll be sunk."

An inferiority complex is a series of emotionally toned ideas ranged about a central idea of self-doubt and disbelief. The consciousness holds this central idea in a spasmodic grasp and no amount of mental determination can break its hold. The only successful cure is to insinuate a stronger idea into the mind, and, through thought substitution, eliminate the inferiority concept.

So, we helped this man overcome his inferiority complex by substituting for his long-held concept of defeat the revolutionary idea that he could actually have God's power in his life.

Each of us has, deep within the mind, all the power he needs. The Bible describes that power in the words, "The Kingdom of God is within you," meaning that all we need to live victoriously is within our mind and personality. In this respect, no one need be inferior, and real inferiority consists of failing to put this power to work.

The Unity School of Christianity, a nondenominational movement to teach religious principles as a practical way of life, has issued a new book, "The Unity Treasure Chest." It emphasizes the power of the God-thought to drive out the inferiority-thought. It says: "A knowledge of our relation to God will enable us to chart the course of our life and direct it perfectly. Assured that God is all, over all, and through all, and that we are part of Him, we shall not look out upon the world as a scene of capricious uncertainties to which we are subject. We know that every problem can be solved, every illness healed, good always made manifest; because 'one on God's side is a majority.'"

Split Personality

The Gallup Poll

Majority Would Invite B & K To Visit U. S.

PRINCETON, N. J.—As Britain weighs the pros and cons of the recent talks with Soviet Premier Nicolai Bulganin and Communist party secretary Nikita Khrushchev, a majority of Americans would favor inviting the Russian leaders to this country.

"The two leaders of Russia—Bulganin and Khrushchev—have recently visited England. Do you think they should or should not be invited to come to the United States to talk with Eisenhower and Dulles?"

'B & K' TO U.S.?

	Per cent
Should be invited	51
Should not	31
No opinion	18

At a press conference in London, the two Soviet leaders hinted that they would like an invitation to Washington.

U. S. officials have been skittish ever such a visit, largely because of its possible effect on American public opinion. Judging by today's survey results, the move would be backed by the majority of the public.

Obviously, some persons do take a critical view of a visit by the Russians and feel that nothing positive would result, but once again, as has been the case at practically every critical point during the cold war, the prevailing sentiment is that "it is always better to talk it over; at least, such talks can't do any harm."

Ever since the first serious split between the U. S. and Russia, Institute polls have shown the American public to be remarkably consistent in this basic point of view.

In May, 1948, for example, at the time of the Berlin airlift, an Institute survey found virtually two out of three Americans wanted President Truman to meet with Marshall Stalin and other world leaders to try to work out the differences between their countries.

When President Eisenhower took over in January, 1953, an Institute survey again found a sizable majority who thought that a meeting between the new Chief Executive and Stalin would be a good thing and would help to ease tensions.

Four months later, with Malenkov as the new Russian premier, an even greater number favored a Big Three meeting between Eisenhower, Churchill and Malenkov.

Before the Foreign Minister's meeting in Geneva in 1954, the American public—although pessimistic about the outcome of the conference—again evidenced the feeling that the United States had nothing to lose by going to Geneva.

Just prior to the "Summit Parley" at Geneva in July of last year, the Institute found eight out of every 10 Americans approving of the Big Four meeting of Eisenhower, Eden, Faure and Bulganin.

* * *

Today's survey turns up some interesting contrasts in opinion among the major segments of the population, although in no single group is majority sentiment opposed.

People who attended college, for example, are more in favor than are those with less formal education.

Younger people are more sympathetic to the idea than are older people.

By regions of the country, greatest sentiment in favor is found in the Far West, with the least favorable sentiment showing up in the South.

Women are somewhat less enthusiastic about such an invitation than are men.

Spanking Troubles

DETROIT (AP)—Spanking in public schools has been approved by the Detroit Council of Parent-Teacher Assns. but only after a spanking hot argument over the issue.

The leader of the no-spanking faction twice was cut off the public address system and one pro-spankng man offered "to show the antispanking gentleman out of the hall." Final vote to support the spanking policy was 151-83.

Bagpipes, No Scotch

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (AP)—When Murray Noble, fresh from Edinburgh, Scotland, founded a bagpipe-and-drum corps here back in 1891, he didn't dream it would have so curious a result.

The band now is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. But it has long since lost much of its Scot predominance. Four of the 11 members are named Scarletti, Weiss, Menghini and Facinelli.

No Fire, No Water

LAS ANIMAS, Colo. (AP)—This town of 3,223 went five hours without a fire. And it's a good thing, too. The city had no water.

A welding crew repaired the city water tank, and opened a valve to turn the water into the tank. Heat from the welded portion of the tank caused pressure that kept the water out for five hours.

French Set Up Deadline For African Peace

By HARVEY HUDSON

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — The French administration in Algeria has set itself a target of five months in which to restore order and regain the confidence of the Algerian people, a well-placed official says.

The period — expiring about Oct. — would coincide with the end of the good weather for troop movements in the mountains. It would also give the authorities the benefit of at least two or three months to build up military strength.

French Premier Guy Mollet has refused to say how many more troops he plans, but the total based in Algera is expected to rise to 400,000 or 500,000.

In addtion, the Oct. 1 date would be well before the opening Nov. 12 of the fall session of the United Nations General Assembly, where strenuous efforts to bring up the Algerian independence issue for discussion are expected from the Asian-African bloc.

"What we want to do is to produce a revolution — but it must be our revolution, not the rebels'," the official said.

Resident Minister Robert Lacoste and his staff are working to spur public works construction, to relieve unemployment, to hasten land reform, to raise workers' wages and to give more Arabs government jobs. Officials believe they have already made a start in turning the tide.

As an example, they say tipsters on rebel actvity are beginning again to volunteer information. This source of intelligence had been practically cut off.

More and more villagers too are reported asking the French forces to defend them. This can be a source of embarrassment, however, for if a village asks for help and then is later attacked successfully by the rebels a real loss of confidence results

Bible Words for Today

ACTS 5:12, 14, 15.—"Now many signs and wonders were done among the people by the hands of the apostles....And more than ever believers were added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women; so that they even carried out the sick into the streets, and laid them on beds and pallets, that as Peter came by at least his shadow might fall on some of them." (RSV)

Discipleship has no greater challenge than this disclosed in these verses. Christian evangelism can demonstrate no greater power. Here is a ministry and fellowship so loving, so diligent, so powerful, here is personality so possessed of the spirit and power of Christ, that even the shadow of a man is considered to be of help!

What a glorious challenge to all who acknowledge the name of Christ—clergy and laity alike! We can aspire to nothing greater than to live and teach and serve and develop personality to such an extent that even as we pass by, people may have faith to believe that even in our shadow they may find help!

Around The Rim

What's The Matter With Peas And Hominy?

Seems to me the press has been notably remiss in one aspect of the political scene. The big-wigs of journalism have deployed their authors throughout the nation, to take soundings on such citizens as Eisenhower, Nixon, Stevenson, Kefauver, Harriman, Symington, and even Johnson, Shivers and Rayburn. Grandiose plans for "full coverage" have been arranged.

And yet, one vital center of political activity is being overlooked.

I refer to the Okefenokee Swamp in Georgia, where a great groundswell is developing in behalf of the candidacy of one Pogo for the presidency.

'Tis true that Pogo essayed this same mission back in 1952, and never quite made the grade. Oh, he actually made it, but late. Pogo's creator, Walt Kelly, sent out a copyrighted report, via the Hall Syndicate, which said that "it has been learned that the Swamp candidate showed up in time for the Easter egg roll and was promptly rolled for sixteen jelly beans, one hardboiled egg, and a chocolate rabbit. 'They are playing SOME kind of game, there at the Head Manse,' said Pogo, when asked for comment, 'but they ain't playing POSSUM. Not fairly, anyways.'"

But Pogo and his friends are not those who succumb to reverses. Once a candidate, always a candidate, may be their motto, so these resourceful characters again have pitched Pogo's hat in the right. The fact that they forgot to remove Pogo from the hat is strictly coincidental.

The Okefenokee citizens are at work on a suitable platform for Pogo, with an eye on the main chance, naturally. Kelly's report on the situation continued:

"Pressed for ideas on his platform (Pogo) indicated that he was for a regular old-fashioned flat-bottomed type platform for use at land or sea. When a reporter asked if this meant he was a 'wet' or 'dry' candidate, the candidate replied that he was wet when it could not be helped but was normally as dry as a martini."

This has appeal as being completely resourceful, as well as practical. Sooner or later, there is going to come a swing of the pendulum in people's thinking, and they are going to accept the flat-bottomed platform, rather than the currently popular type that has prongs sticking out every which way from it.

Pogo's position on the wet-dry issue ought to draw some following in West Texas, because we, too, would be wet if we could get the rain.

Pogo's pals — no different from the rest of the political henchmen — are looking to their own interests. Mamsell Hepzibah may not be First Lady, but one of the swamp characters already has announced that Pogo could run for president, while he himself would run for Vice. Now, if that doesn't sound interesting, what does?

Some of Pogo's well-wishers have gone so far as to offer the Swamp candidate on a ticket of peace and harmony. By the time these characters got through with it, it came out "peas and hominy."

Now I ask you, what could be better for the American people, even if they don't want it, than a more substantial diet of peas and hominy? We may have gone long enough on such things as pate de fois gras and humming-bird's wings.

Yessir, the press has gone long enough in ignoring the candidate from Okefenokee. The people will be hearing more from this development. I've already been sold.

I go Pogo.

Original Basis Of NATO Still Sound

The spring meeting in Paris of the NATO powers has been preceded by considerable headshaking about the prospects of the alliance. The Iceland Parliament would like the American troops to go home. The French have moved large parts of their army from the central front in Germany to North Africa. The Germans are putting off a conscription law because military service is unpopular and because business is booming. Just below the official surface in Germany there is a strong disposition to treat the German membership in NATO, not as vital to German security but, as a bargaining point in dealing with the Soviets about reunification.

As Germany and France are the two big countries most vulnerable to the Red Army, the way they are behaving has made many ask themselves whether NATO is disintegrating. I should like to argue that what is disintegrating is not the foundation of NATO but a superstructure that is obsolescent.

* * *

What are the foundations of NATO? They consist, to speak plainly, of a North American guarantee to go to war if there is a Soviet military aggression across the frontiers of the members of the NATO alliance. The fundamental idea is that if the United States, assisted by its NATO allies, has adequate military forces in being, the commitment to act at once will deter aggression.

This was the original conception of the North Atlantic alliance, and there is not the slightest reason for thinking that this fundamental guarantee is any less firm today than it ever was before. There is no doubt at all that the United States would go immediately to war if an aggressive attack against the NATO territory were launched.

* * *

Upon this fundamental guarantee there has been erected a super-structure, not originally contemplated when the alliance was formed, consisting of an international army. The superstructure was added on the assumption that if the Soviet Union decided for a war of aggression, it would use the Red Army to invade and conquer Western Germany, the Low Countries, Scandinavia and France. This assumption was adopted before the Soviet Union had developed serious nuclear power of its own. It was adopted in the days when the main military instrument of the Soviet Union was its infantry.

On this assumption, which was most strongly held in the bad days of the Korean War, the NATO powers decided to build up a large European army which was to include strong West German forces. The troubles of NATO have been almost wholly concerned with this army superstructure. Insofar as there are signs of disintegration in NATO, it is a disintegration of the plans for this superstructure. Neither the French nor the Germans, the nations presumably most interested in the NATO army, seem to be taking it very seriously.

* * *

It is often said that their lack of interest is due to the wiles and guiles of the new softer Soviet tactics. This is, I think, a superficial explanation. The real explanation is that there are few people left in France and in West Germany, or indeed anywhere, who think that World War III could take the form of an attempt to invade Western Europe. It is not that the Western nations have been lulled into thinking that there is no danger of war. They are very much afraid of war. But they are afraid of a different kind of war. They do not think that the war they are afraid of will be begun or will be decided on the ground in the middle of Europe.

This view is not confined to the masses of the people, who, it is often supposed, are beguiled by the new Soviet propaganda. The view is general, though not universal, that invasion by the Red Army is not the real military problem—given the abundance of nuclear weapons on both sides and the nuclear stalemate. Insofar as there is a lack of interest in NATO, it comes from the top down and derives from the feeling that the strategical planning in respect to the ground forces may be out of date.

* * *

If this is correct, then what NATO needs first of all is a reappraisal of its strategical concepts. Such a reappraisal will not impair, indeed it would reinforce, the fundamental guarantee which is the heart of the matter.

Weather Baking

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pastry chef Gene Vogel studies the weather forecasts to determine how he'll do his baking for the next day.

He explains it this way:

"If the weatherman says 'Cold', I bake extra coffee cake, doughnuts — other things that go with coffee.

" 'Warmer', I make fruit tarts, chiffon pies in greater quantity.

" 'Rain', I cut down on the bake shop production 30 per cent because not so many people come downtown when it rains and they don't like to carry packages."

Laundry Gets A Head

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Patrons in the Alcatraz tavern and the lady in the apartment upstairs had harrowing experiences after a brewery service man installed a new barrel of beer in the tavern. In the apartment, Mrs. Margaret Swory started getting beer in her washing machine. In the tavern, the customers growled that the draught beer tasted like hot water. Peace was restored after it was discovered the service man had switched the pipes.

Mixed Geography

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Mark Baker, a freelance photographer from Phoenix attended the Colorado State picnic, a get-together for natives of that state.

They liked him so much they nominated him for president of the group.

"Sorry," said Baker, "I can't accept, I'm not from Colorado."

They named him an honorary Coloradoan and elected him anyway.

Chickens Lost

BEMIDJI, Minn. (AP) — A fire in the Northern Farm Service store burned only a small hole in the floor, but 5,000 month-old chicks were destroyed by smoke and water.

Shivers Talks For Saving State Rights

ATLANTIC CITY May 5 (AP) — Gov. Shivers of Texas criticized today the growing encroachment on states' rights by the federal government.

He singled out a recent Supreme Court decision which he said make it illegal, in effect, for "a state to catch and punish a communist."

The Texan told the Pennsylvania Bankers Assn. the decision "invalidates at one fell swoop the subversive activities laws of every state that has one. . . "

"We find more and more evidence," the governor said, "of the Supreme Court moving into the legislative field, of the legislative branch trying to usurp powers of the executive branch, or of the executives trying to take over both of the other branches, as (Franklin) Roosevelt did."

Shivers gave as an example in point the Supreme Court decision of two weeks ago involving Steve Nelson, who had been convicted in Pennsylvania under that state's sedition law.

The conviction was reversed by the court which said only the federal government should convict a person for sedition. When the state took the case to the U. S. Supreme Court the Pennsylvania tribunal's decision was upheld. Shivers said:

"If the states are all made entirely subservient to the federal government, the communists' task" in seeking to undermine American freedom "will be much easier."

The governor also said the federal government receives 75 per cent of all taxes collected, while the state governments get a little more than 12.5 percent.

"Federal government takes the lion's share of the tax revenue needed to solve the problems we face, then turns around and tells us that we are not equipped to solve the problems," Shivers said.

He slapped at federal aid to schools, saying: "Federal control is merely one of the evils that accompany any federal handout. . ."

Yarborough Sets Talk

AUSTIN (AP)—Candidate Ralph Yarborough will make the keynote address at the Young Democratic Clubs of Texas state convention here May 11-13, President Dean Johnson of Houston said today.

Religious Film Showing Set Here Monday

"The Glass Mountain," the story of the conversion of a beautiful young actress at the Easter Sunrise Services in Pasadena's famous "Tournament of Roses," will be presented here Monday.

Showing is set for 8 p.m. at the First Church of God at 10th and Main Streets. The movie, done in color, is produced by William Brusseau, who was associated in the production of the Billy Graham films, "Mr. Texas" and "Design for Tomorrow."

"Glass Mountain" captures the magnificence of the Rose Parade, has some of the Rose Bowl football classic on New Year's Day. The high point, however, is the return to the bowl three months later where Dr. Merve Rosell preaches the truths of the resurrection as part of the sunrise service.

Center of the story is Melanie Lawrence, talented, beautiful and ambitious young actress. The testimony of Dr. Russell and others touch her life, and the climax comes during the dramatic message at the Easter worship.

In five years of his own operation as Westminister Films, Bresseau has scored several successes in the inspirational and sacred film field.

Maryland Will Make Choice In Monday Voting

BALTIMORE, May 5 (AP)—Marylanders will decide Monday whether to give President Eisenhower and Sen. Estes Kefauver first claim on the presidential nominating votes from this political weather-vane state.

The only opposition for either is a faceless entry called "uninstructed delegation." Neither write-in voting nor crossing of party lines is allowed.

Most interest in the campaign has been focused on the colorful senatorial primaries.

Millard E. Tydings, a veteran of 24 years in the Senate and chairman of its Armed Services Committee before he was bumped from the seat by Republican John Marshall Butler six years ago, is out to get it back.

Tydings, who tangled with Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis) over a Tydings subcommittee's handling of a loyalty-in-government investigation, is one of five candidates for the Democratic nomination.

Butler, whose surprise election resulted in a special Senate probe, is running for renomination against two political newcomers. In 1950 he was backed by Maryland elements friendly to McCarthy.

In the presidential primary, Democrats may vote either to give Kefauver their 18 nominating votes on the first ballot or to let their delegates go to the convention uninstructed.

Under the same circumstances in 1952, Kefauver won by a nearly 3-1 margin. He drew 137,685 votes. Republicans gave their delegation to Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin in a "favorite son" role. He supported Eisenhower.

Republicans have the same choice on Eisenhower with their 24 convention votes. Beyond a few speeches by McKeldin, who nominated him in the 1952 national convention, there has been little campaigning on Eisenhower's behalf.

Maryland, which since 1880 has been carried by every successful presidential candidate except Harry Truman in 1948, gave Eisenhower 499,424 votes to 395,337 for Adlai Stevenson in the general election four years ago.

'Carousel' Is Film Version Of Classic Musical

The Ritz Theatre will have a double debut Sunday through Wednesday. The musical "Carousel" appears in Big Spring for the first time, along with the latest Hollywoodian wide-screen fad, CinemaScope 55.

Critics have stated the new screen process provides sharper pictures, which should be something of relief.

"Carousel," starring Gordon Mac Rae and Shirley Jones, is taken from a Broadway play that ran for more thn two years on Broadway, and has enjoyed several revivals since, as well as having become a popular musical for road shows.

The story is taken from a fantasy novel by Molnar. With Rogers and Hammerstein music and lyrics, and ballet-type dances, "Carousel" emerges as one of the classics of the musical theatre. The story tells about a young girl made goo-goo eyed by a carnival barker who is later killed in a robbery. The girl must bear both his child and his shame.

But the barker, having ascended to the Great Beyond, is given a chance to return to Earth to right the wrongs he has done. It is this tragi-comic situation that gives the story its great appeal.

Most movie-goers will remember the songs that rose to popularity when "Carousel" first appeared on the stage in 1945: "If I Loved You," "You'll Never Walk Alone," "What's The Use Of Wonderin'," "Soliloquy" and "June Is Bustin' Out All Over."

PLATTER PALAVER

By Mary Sue Hale

Although crooner Frank Sinatra seems to have chosen straight dramatic movie roles lately instead of portrayals spiced up with a lyric or two, his record sales haven't fallen off completely. His teen-age fans haven't completely forgotten him as is evident with his popular recording of "Flowers Mean Forgiveness." This tune always rates a listen, as does his newest release, "How Little We Know," backed by "Five Hundred Guys." His album release "Songs for Swinging Lovers" is rated fourth in album record sales. Frankie, who no longer has throngs of female fans swooning over him, doesn't miss the loss, for he is a current top box office attraction. He starred in "Man With the Golden Arm," "Tender Trap" and "Around the World in Eighty Days" where he sings for a change.

* * *

After Tennessee Ernie Ford's overnight success with "Sixteen Tons," he has come up with a new record of the same caliber. "The Rovin' Gambler" with flip side of "John Henry" is a record whose chances depend entirely on youth's sentiment.

* * *

A new singer with distinction in her vocal interpretations is Jaye P. Morgan, "Play for Keeps" is her latest and it is backed by another title-striking tune tagged "Lost in the Shuffle." Both have excellent chances for success.

* * *

If you like rock and roll, "I'm in Love Again," done by Fats Domino, is just the thing for you. Already showing definite signs of success, the flip side is "My Blue Heaven."

* * *

A similar title belongs to a recent release by the Four Aces, "To Love Again." A world of difference, however, is in the two recordings. Not so much rhythm and blues, just old fashioned harmony, is highlighted by this record. The flip, "Charlie Was a Boxer," could rate sales on its own merits.

* * *

Gogi Grant, the gal who scored an earlier hit, "Suddenly There's a Valley," has a new release that's going places fast in this area. "The Wayward Wind" is the title of this record that could have potential rating waiting just around the corner not too far in the future.

* * *

From the movie of the same title starring George Gobel and Mitzi Gaynor, four notable records of "The Birds and the Bees" are now on the market. Gobel himself rates the RCA Victor label, while Alan Dane on Coral, Dick Noel on Fraternity, and Rush Adams on MGM are other versions. These records could possibly rate success on their own but tied to the movie their chances are even better.

Employers To Hear Tax Explanation

ODESSA — How to save money in paying unemployment compensation taxes will be explained to employers here May 17 in a meeting sponsored by the Employers Payroll Cost Committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Odessa Chamber of Commerce.

Open to the public, the meeting will be held at 3 p.m. in the ballroom of the Lincoln Hotel. W. H. Collyns, editor of the Midland Reporter-Telegram and a vice-president of the WTCC, will preside.

Maurice Acers of Austin, member of the Texas Employment Commission representing employers, will head a panel of TEC experts who will explain provisions of the Unemployment Compensation Act.

It is estimated that more than 35,000 Texas businesses not previously affected are covered by new provisions of the law enacted by the last Texas legislature.

Bogart Stars As A Fake Priest

"The Left Hand Of God," playing Sunday and Monday at the Terrace Drive-In Theatre, is a very unusual picture.

Humprey Bogart heads the cast as an American adventurer who seeks to escape a band of Chinese bandits. He takes advantage of a priest's death to disguise himself and escape. But then, he finds he cannot escape his new role. For the villagers mistake him as their new priest and Bogie goes along with the mistake.

Meanwhile, co-star Gene Tierney, an exiled American girl, falls in love with Bogie. But, since the girl is Catholic, she believes herself guilty of a mortal sin. Bogie can do nothing about the situation without giving himself away, and by this time his better nature has caught up with him—he does not wish to disillusion his parishioners.

Then, upon this situation falls the bandit gang, with sinister Lee J. Cobb at their head. Cobb deserves plaudits for his performance of a cruel, swaggering Chinese warlord, who nevertheless is somewhat lovable. He even has a hidden streak of honor—something unspeakable to a Chinese bandit.

Actor Claims Scandal Needed

"It might ruin the individual but it would help everybody else in the business," he declares. "The public doesn't want to pay money to see normal people on the screen.

"I've always held that what ruined this town was the home photo lay-out."

Corey, a talented craftsman, believes his own career has been hurt by publicity picturing him as the upright father of four that he is.

World Trade Means International Casts

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ever wonder why Hollywood hires actors from all over the world?

Partly, of course, it's because the movie business needs all kinds of bright talent, and talent knows no nationality.

But there's a cold business reason, too. Foreign receipts are getting to be close to half of the film industry's earnings. Hollywood can no longer rely on the United States alone for survival, as it did in World War II. So it pays to have casts with an international flavor.

Greek-Trojan War Depicted In 'Helen Of Troy'

It has been truly said that Greek civilization has had a profound effect on the world. Take these examples:

Beware the Greek bearing gifts. The face that launched a thousand ships. Always look a gift horse in the mouth (which the Trojans should have done). The Achilles heel. The Trojan horse.

All these bits from the Age of Titans have found their way into our language. They had their start in the dawning days of civilization when the Spartans and the Trojans fought for supremacy of the Greek world.

All the well-known characters are included in "Helen of Troy," showing Sunday and Monday at the Jet Theatre. The film was based on the "Iliad," the Greek philosopher Homer's account of the Trojan wars. There is Helen of Troy; Paris, prince of Troy, who stole Helen from the Spartans; Achilles, the invulnerable warrior; Ajax, the mighty; Hector, the Trojan hero; Ulysses, the Spartan, whose voyage home from the Trojan wars was a story in itself; Cassandra, the prophetess.

The film centers on the events leading up to the seige of Troy, with amazingly accurate details of the clothing, customs and machines of war used in ancient times. The story ends with the beaten Greeks sending a giant wooden horse as a gift to the Trojans. But within are picked Spartan soldiers who open the gates to the Greeks.

"Helen Of Troy" is good film fare for those interested in history.

Weird Spy Tale At Ritz

Clifton Webb and Gloria Grahame co-star in the film version of one of the best spy stories to come out of World War II.

The film story is based on the best-selling true account written by Lt. Cmdr. Montague, of His Majesty's naval intelligence. The movie shows Thursday through Saturday at the Ritz Theatre.

The plot concerns a weird brainstorm of Montague's to plant a dead body with falsified documents where the Germans will find both. The idea is to mislead the Krauts into believing an assault will take place in Greece, instead of Sicily. The small but ingenious details employed to keep the Germans fooled make for good movie fare.

LOOKS AT BOOKS

By Sam Blackburn

I am avid and veteran reader of that type of literature known as who-dun-its. Some folks choose to call them "detective stories."

Having made this astounding confession, it may well be that I should set up a few defenses to counter the attacks that the more cultural of our fellows will certainly loose at me.

Those who hold they are well-read and who possess that type of mind classified as "serious" are very, very prone to peer down their patrician noses at those of us whose cultural hairline descends lower on our foreheads.

Such folk regard reading detective novels as a sheer waste of time and even go so far sometime to look upon the habit as comparable with excessive alcoholism or narcotic addiction.

They seem to feel that such reading tastes undoubtedly demonstrate that we who read such "trash" (the quotes are theirs not mine) must have a criminal or sadistic bent in our minds and that in all probability we are killers at heart who just haven't had either opportunity or become practicing assassins.

I think it was DeQuincy who wrote "Everyone likes a good murder." What the eminent British writer had in mind, I am certain encompassed not only the fictional accounts of homicide but the crime itself. There is a strange fascination in a killing for nearly every person. The avid interest displayed in the newspaper accounts of such crimes by men and women of every walk of life should prove the statement.

I do not hold at all with the theory that because I may find a "mystery" story entertaining or because I may familiarize myself with the details of a real homicide that I have any hankering to kill. On the contrary, the interest I have is entirely academic and entirely free of any taint of inherent criminality.

Detective stories, I insist, are grade A escape material. I can peruse a mystery, spend a couple of hours of quiet enjoyment, forget all my mundane worries. I close the book relaxed and refreshed and, what makes it all the better—three days later, if you asked me had I read that particular book, I'd probably have to glance through its pages to remember.

Those of us who read the who-dun-its are not all entitled to be classified as subnormal mentally, either.

Many of the great minds of the world, we are told, keep a rack of these "thrillers" alongside their beds. They read themselves to sleep after hard and troublesome days guiding the destinies of nations or regulating the operation of great corporations and institutions.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was one of those who followed this practice. And I seem to remember that the learned Dr. Eliot, who compiled the ponderous "Five Foot Shelf" of classics was another.

The list runs the gamut. Little people, like ourselves, and the great of the world — we are all addicts of the pastime of puzzling ourselves over who killed the vicar in the church yard.

And our number must be myriad, judging from the mountainous quantity of this sort of books written and published each year.

And to add one more shock:

To those of you who will suggest Shakespeare better reading than Gardner — what is "MacBeth" but a who-dun-it? And what can you say of "Hamlet" for that matter?

Or what is the basic plot of the story of Joseph and the golden cup he concealed in the grain bags of his brothers? Or the Biblical account of Moses and the slain Egyptian?

'Blackboard Jungle' Returns At Terrace

A movie which, like the book from which it was taken, stirred a national ruckus, will return to the screen of the Terrace Drive-In Theatre Thursday and Friday.

Glenn Ford and Anne Francis star in "Blackboard Jungle," which depicts the near-ruin of a big city school through the influence of teen-age punks.

2 Color Cartoons And The Late News!

A Bad Man

Cagney Movie Is Vehicle For Character Development

James Cagney, in "Tribute to a Bad Man," is starred as a strong-willed, ruthless horse rancher in the Wyoming Territory of the 1870's. The film shows Sunday through Wednesday at the Sahara Drive-In Theatre.

Cagney's role is that of a man confident in his own power, whose hard character and sense of justice were forged in a land where only the strong survived. His first love is for his horses, above even that of his wife and friends. Where his horses are concerned, he is the law.

The plot follows the development of Cagney's character, what made him what he was and what changed him. Character development in this story goes considerably beyond that of most "class" Westerns.

Co-starring with Cagney are Irene Papas, as the woman who loved him; Don Dubbins, the neophyte rancher; Steve McNally, the foreman filled with lust for his boss' possessions; Vic Morrow as the vindictive Lars, who seeks to kill Cagney.

'Corporation' Called Not Sexy

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is Marilyn Monroe sexy? As a girl, yes. As a corporation, no.

So says Barbara Nichols, latest addition to the siren ranks.

Now offhand you might think that Barbara Nichols' criticizing Monroe is akin to a rookie's telling Ted Williams how to bat. You could be right. But the qualifications for being a starlet include an ability to speak brashly.

"I think Marilyn is making a mistake becoming a corporation," she said. "There's something unfeminine about a girl going into business. I think men resent it. It places the girl in a position of competing with them."

Goodman Story Musical Tale Of 'Old Days'

The story of America's King of Swing is presented in "The Benny Goodman Story," playing at the Jet Drive-In Tuesday through Thursday. Television's Steve Allen was borrowed to do the role of Goodman, mainly because of a close physical resemblance.

Supporting Allen in the role of Mrs. Goodman is Donna Reed, Academy Award winner of "From Here to Eternity." The story follows the ups and downs in the fortunes of Goodman, a young prodigy who, instead of following the traditional classifical field, goes all-out for the "new sound" that gave rise to Glenn Miller, Harry James and Tommy Dorsey, as well as Goodman himself.

The plot is not particularly dramatic or complicated — its very simplicity makes it easier to swallow. But the plot is beside the point. The thing that carries "The Benny Goodman Story" to the top is the wealth of music from the pre-war generation.

We're straining the obvious to say that all movie-goers over the age of 26 will be swept back more than a decade by the 31 tunes played, including "Stompin' At The Savoy," "One O'Clock Jump," "Bugle Call Rag," and "Way Down Yonder in New Orleans."

CINEMA COMMENT

It's a good movie week in Big Spring. There are three new movies worth seeing, and some older films returning at the drive-ins. Moreover, there is less cluttering by double features.

Here are some of the new pictures:

"Carousel," a musical that enjoyed a long run on Broadway, Shirley Jones, the Broadway star, has a starring role in the film version. Tops in its field.

"The Man Who Never Was," a spy cases to come out of World War II, as those who have read the book already know. The movie isn't quite as gripping as the book, and a romance theme is added that pushes out a wealth of intriguing details. Worth seeing.

"It's a Dog's Life," a story, obviously, about a dog. From the book by Richard Harding Davis, true story of one of the weirdest

"Left Hand of God," a rather unorthodox title the reason for which becomes apparent after you've seen the film. One of the prophets put it another way: the ways of God are strange. Stars Humphrey Bogart.

"Blackboard Jungle," a story of a school torn by juvenile delinquency. The first time the film showed here, it was preceded by a statement flashed on the screen that such goings-on, we are proud to say, are not found in our schools. Got a big horse laugh from the younger generation. Yes, it could happen here.

Richard Harding Davis Dog Tale Makes Good Movie

Playing Sunday through Tuesday at the State Theatre, "It's A Dog's Life" stars some people as well as dogs. They are Jeff Richards, Jarma Lewis, Edmund Gwenn (who, perhaps, should have had top billing), and Dean Jagger.

Adventure comes naturally to Wildfire, a Bowery bum who is out to get even with the father who deserted him and his mother. He ends up as a world champion show dog. But in between, he changes the fortunes of a lot of people, including a bar fly who puts Wildfire into the fight business; a groom on a Long Island estate who picks up the dog after his abandonment by the bar fly; the estate's owner, who want to get rid of him; an unscrupulous employe and finally, the daughter of the family, for whom Wildfire plays Cupid.

Won't you come in

it's designed with You in mind

Now we're ready to serve you better than ever, in the NEW Swartz's at Third and Runnels Streets . . . a shop which we fondly hope meets with your every expectation of what a truly fine shop should be . . . We have attempted to keep you in mind, in providing convenient arrangement, pleasant surroundings and attractive decor to make the NEW Swartz's modern in design, yet comfortably familiar in service and friendly atmosphere – and of course in finer apparel. We hope you like our new home . . . we think you will. No "formality" of opening . . . we're just ready to greet you. Won't you come in?

Fur Styles For This Fall

New Variations This Year In Design Of Fur Capes, Stoles

An exciting fur year, with mink once more playing the dominant role, is foreseen by Adolph Swartz, who gives personal attention to the fur department in his specialty store.

Prop ly selected, furs make any woman more beautiful, Mr. Swartz points out. "They give a crowning touch to almost any costume and they do it in a sensible way. This year, we are planning new variations in capes and stoles, always striving for more flattering fashion."

As an example, he cites the new stole that curves in slightly at the waist and that closes to form a higher V in front. This garment provides greater protection with added smartness. It has a more compact look.

With the wider variations that now are available in mink, the customer, regardless of her skin tones, can be guided to one or more shades that will most enhance her.

A powder-blue aristocrat that is being grown more in quantity now is Cerulean, once called Sapphire. Lutetia, the gunmetal shade, is a tribute to the fair complexion but remains rather rare and therefore costly.

Basement Filled With Mountains

WHEAT RIDGE, Colo. (AP) — Eddie Espinosa has 29,000-foot Mt. Everest in the basement of his home.

Espinosa's mountains are only scale models, of course, and they're strictly a hobby. He builds them of earth, starch, burlap and plaster paint. His scale of Mt. Everest stands seven feet high on a 15x18-foot base.

New Swartz Store Puts Stress On Convenience

For Madam or Miss, Swartz has a dress for formal or casual wear that is sure to please, and the little woman can make her selection at her leisure in the most pleasing of surroundings.

Scores of dresses by numerous stylists and manufacturers are on display in the spacious store. Displays are arranged so that all of the garments may be inspected easily and conveniently.

And when the shopper narrows her choices down to the last few garments, she'll be able to immediately try the dresses for size and appearance in one of the private dressing rooms with which the store is equipped.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Swartz, owners, have incorporated eight dressing rooms in their new store, assuring shoppers that at least one will always be available.

The dress department occupies the west side of the sparkling store at Third and Runnels. Starting with the models in the front window display, surrounded by planters of greenery, formals and other dresses are on display the full length of the store.

They are available for easy inspection on adjustable racks in birch alcoves all along the west wall. The birch woodwork also serves to shield fluorescent lamps which provide the indirect lighting featured throughout the store.

Spotted in the shopping areas the length of the department are foam-rubber poufs on which the shopper may rest while she thumbs through style books which are kept available. These are in rose beige and black.

Dressing rooms are located at the rear of the department and are reached through a corridor which is concealed from the main store area. The corridor also leads to the powder room and rest-room at the rear of the store, and to the alteration, gift wrapping, and lay-away departments.

Sales ladies who will be assisting Big Spring women with their dress selections in the new store are Mrs. Willard Smith, Mrs. Eugene Gross, Lucille Meeker, Maude Lumpkin and Wilrena Richbourg.

MONARCH, ADELE

Two Major Lines In Women's Coats

In either line, the woman shopper can find exactly the coat that she wants. There are long coats and short coats and the color range is wide.

Price range is wide. Swartz prides itself that it has a good coat suited to desires and limits of any shopper.

As to quality, there are no better made nor more attractive coats anywhere than those which are turned out by Monarch and Adele.

Sizes and colors are complete at this time. And, as Swartz wisely points out, this is really the best of all possible seasons to buy that coat you will need next fall and winter.

Wise shoppers will undoubtedly take advantage of the complete line of beautiful long and short coats which are now on hand at Swartz.

Swartz Store Has Lay-Away Facility

In this department, dresses, coats or other items are stored just as carefully as when they were in the store's regular storage room or on the display stands.

Customers who take advantage of the lay-away service are assured that their purchases will be in the same fine condition as on the day the items were ordered.

Collection Of Coats And Suits

Opening off the core of the new Swartz's store is the department for suits and for coats. This is in an alcove area which was set apart to provide the shopper with a sense of being unhurried in an important clothing decision. Stock is so arranged that it may be seen without difficulty and may be pulled instantly for comparison and closer inspection. Mrs Willard Smith heads the department.

Swartz' Hats Mandarin Style

The hat bar is located in the center of the building and in back of the lingerie displays. The hat bar is of birch construction carrying out the general scheme in the store. It is made with two large mirrors.

Although Large hats are the vogue in many areas, West Texas women prefer the smaller models — mainly because of the wind. But no matter what the size, they are well stocked at Swartz'.

The Chinese influence or Mandarin style is seen in the rounded crown models. The styles are in a large assortment of colors, and by a select group of designers. Swartz has chosen five designers — among the best in the nation — of his stocks.

Home Of Smart New Swartz's Store

Finished with a blend of Arkansas and cast stone, with broad, clean lines, and with a sweep of plate glass and doors to promote clear vision, the new Swartz's women's ready-to-wear store is being opened formally at Third and Runnels Streets. The interior, turning on interior as well as exterior stone planters, is designed for easy visual command of the entire store and its stock. Light is diffused to prevent shadowing and to provide true colors. The main floor is in tile with carpeting in the alcoves and at departments. The new store climaxes 23 years of business in Big Spring by Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Swartz.

Comfortable Spot For Relaxation

Swartz' Marks Formal Opening

Climaxing more than a score of years of service to women shoppers of discriminating taste, Swartz's is observing formal opening of its smart, contemporary store.

Located at the corner of East Third and Runnels, the shop is modern in design and appointment and carries the latest in illumination, air conditioning and fixtures.

Pivoting from decorative Arkansas ledge and cast stone, with exterior and interior planters, the entire layout employs a sweeping design for easy visual shopping. Soft colors are matched by soft music.

Convenience reflects the functional concept of the arrangement, and a case in point is the battery of eight dressing rooms, so arranged that each is accessible to the alteration room.

Ceiling of the store is in aqua, with a pastel green back wall, and rose for the ready-to-wear, cream for sports. The quarry tile floor, in the main salon, is in a sequoia red.

All fixtures are in birchwood with pylons reaching to the ceiling for accentuation as well as for practical strength. All brackets are easily adjustable for maximum flexibility in display and operation.

Illumination is diffused through a crossing of ceiling spots so that at any point in the store, there are no shadows on the merchandise. Flourescent lights are recessed behind the cornices of dress and coat displays to provide true color effect. Four spots, two on either side, focus on the milinery department so that the shopper may see a particular creation perfectly and without distorting shadows.

In the center, upon entering, are the lingerie, purse and glove department. Here the cases are glass without moulding with birchwood base and bronze trim. Hosiery is displayed from open stock from an island inside the department.

Immediately to the rear of this is the millinery department, and beyond it the artfully decorated lounge.

In an alcove, to the left on entering, is the evening gown department. Then, in long lines to the rear, are the dresses.

Sportswear is arranged on the right of the entrance, and in an other alcove beyond this is the area for coats and suits.

The cashier's department is centrally located for convenience of the customers, and nearby are the dressing rooms.

A central sound system enables the playing of soft, recorded music, but it may also be used for intercommunication and for paging of customers. Back of the cashier's department and opening to the Runnels Street sides are the offices for the credit department and for the manager.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Swartz, the owners, visited many shops in Dallas, Los Angeles, New York and other points getting ideas. In all things, such as the bronze trim instead of chrome, new concepts were employed.

The general store design was developed for the Swartz's by Puckett & French, while Southwestern Fixture Company of Dallas designed and made the fixtures. Carpeting was furnished by Lucelle's, lighting by R Electric Company, the central heating and 25-ton Servel cooling by Empire Southern Gas company. General contractor was R. L. Cooke & Son of Abilene.

New Store Has 8 Comfortable Dressing Rooms

As attractive as other, more public units of the new Swartz store at Third and Runnels are the dressing rooms provided in the establishment.

There are eight of these dressing rooms, each spacious and fully appointed.

The eight dressing rooms are spaced along a corridor leading from the dress department at the rear of the store. Each is equipped with two full-length mirrors, stationed in corners in such a manner as to give both front and back views.

The dressing rooms are carpeted in a rose beige, and walls are finished in a soft rose. the corridor has brown and yellow tile floor, with blending wall finishes.

The powder room has glass-topped dressing table running the full length of one wall and backed by a high, wide mirror. Colors used in the decor are rose, gray and blue.

The restroom is done almost completely in pink and rose, with pink tile wainscoting and rose fixtures.

Most Stylists Represented In Swartz Displays

Among the creations featured are evening dresses by Will Steinman, Cotillion and Harvey Berin.

Part Of The Arrangement For Dress Display

One of the major departments of the new Swartz's store is quite naturally that of dresses. Here, Wilrena Richbourg stands beside two of the displays with their birchwood pylons and plastic holders. Besides the shadowless store lights, the dresses are illuminated by light tubes recessed behind the cornices. All of this is designed to show the dresses instantly in their true color and beauty.

Swartz Is Proud Of Store's Staff

He has good reason to be, for most members have been with him for many years.

Five years after he and Mrs. Swartz opened their busness in Big Spring, Mrs. Elzie Marchbanks joined their employ. She has been associated with them since and today is the bookkeeper and credit manager. "Lois" dates her employment back to July 10, 1933.

Mrs. Beatrice Read, who has been with the Swartz organization for 18 years as a member of the shoe department, is staying at the former location with Pelletier shoes since the new Swart store does not include a shoe division.

Among other members of the staff are Mrs. Eugene Gross, sports wear; Mrs. Wilrena Richbourg, dresses; Mrs. Willard Smith, suits; Mrs. C. L. Lumpkin, coats, all of them longtime employes; Mrs. Lucille Meeker, window trimming, decorations and display.

Handling the alterations for Swartz's are Mrs. A. G. Mitchell and Mrs. J. O. Allen.

Professional Work Performed On All Garments Altered

The establishment maintains its own alteration department, which is staffed and equipped to alter dresses or other garments so skillfully that the adjustments aren't to be distinguished from factory cuts and seams.

In charge of alterations is Mrs. A. G. Mitchell. She is assisted by Mrs. J. O. Allen and Virginia Marion.

Gift Wrapping Is Swartz Specialty

Complete Line Of Sportswear Featured In New Swartz Store

Popularity of sportswear has grown by leaps and bounds in recent years and Swartz features an especially attractive and complete assortment of such merchandise.

Famous names, known by women the nation over, are always available at Swartz. Sizes and colors are kept in complete range and the customer will have little difficulty in finding any shade or design to suit her particular taste.

All-silk and Pima cotton blouses, as well as a wide array of silk, broadcloth and cotton blouses, all bearing the famous Val Desco label are headliners in the sportswear department at Swartz.

Other blouses in silk and crepe which have a prominent place at Swartz are those bearing the tag of Mademoiselle G. Colors here, too, are varied and beautiful. Sizes are complete and the designs tasteful and appealing.

Sweater and shirt combinations are a "must" with most women and there is no better choice of such garments than in those designed by Bernhard Autmann. Cashmere sweaters and sheer wool skirts in pastel colors are featured by this renowned designer. Swartz prides itself on the assortment of Autmanns it has in its stock.

A highly popular line of sportswear offered by Swartz is the widely known White Stag. White Stag produces shirts, shorts, pedal pushers, calf skinners and spar pants in all colors. Materials vary but the majority of the White Stag garments are in sailcloth and broadcloth.

Summer weather at hand has created a heavy demand for this popular line and Swartz, in its new location, has stocked abundantly in all sizes, colors and designs.

Bathing suits so lovely that one wonders if they are really intended to every be placed in water offer a glittering display at Swartz.

In addition to the models which are bedecked with glittering sequins and abound in other ornaments, Swartz has equally attractive suits which are designed for practical swimming.

One oddity in bathing suits are those made of velvet which the sales staff declares are not only eye catching but eminently serviceable by the girls who actually go to the pools to swim as well as sit on the sidelines and look pretty.

Lingerie Lines Recently Added By Swartzes

Bearing the Kickernick brand, Swartz has panties, petticoats, full slips, and bed jackets. Tempo items include gowns and robes. Their bras and garterbelts bear the Warner tags.

Eyefull produces only the most expensive lingerie, and the line extends to gowns and robes. Also, Swartz carries gowns and robes by Capri of California. Some of the finest in half slips, gowns, and robes are available by Ann Fogarty.

Evening Gowns Department

The department for evening wear in the Swartz store is handily located off the main entrance and is partially recessed to provide maximum view of the offerings by reason of the L-type display. The carpet and foam rubber poof add to the quiet comfort of those who stop to see the gowns or select from the stock.

Imported Wool, Italian Silk Suits Shown

Imported wool and Italian silk suits, attractive and modish in every detail and offering serviceability and eye-appeal are important items at Swartz store on East Third.

Now in its new location, Swartz has seized upon the occasion of establishing itself in its modern shop by stocking generously in the highly popular lines of women's suits which have long been highlights at Swartz.

Size, color, design — any element which may enter into milady's choice — have been carefully anticipated. Complete stocks in every one of the numerous nationally renowned brands which Swartz features are on hand for Swartz new opening.

Suits which bear the well known labels of Mr. Sig, Cha Bro., Monarch and Adele are represented. And, of course, there are plenty of those perennially popular Handmacher suits in woolens and rayons.

Suits which are now in demand are unusual in their beauty of material and design. The utilitarian character of a suit in a woman's wardrobe is so well known that one never has too many.

A cordial invitation to visit Swartz and inspect the suits on disp'ay has been extended by the store. It is the policy of this popular establishment to constantly keep closely abreast of every shifting style trend.

Swartzes Show Faith In City With Big New Store

The Hollywood Shoppe was for sale, and they swung the deal and went into busness on Feb. 13, 1933. Big Spring and area have expressed an appreciation for the Swartzs' and their concept of merchandising, for over the years the clientelle has expanded steadily.

Now, reflecting a confidence based on experience, Mr. and Mrs. Swartz are presenting a new and larger store, as modern as the next minute. Twice before they had effected major renovations and remodelngs.

The location of the original store, at 113 E. Third, is being occupied by Pelletier's Shoes. The new Swartz store merchandises only ready-to-wear, millinery and accessories.

Adolph Swartz came to this country as a young lad from Poland, and most of his schooling was in military academies, among them Kemper and Texas Military. His brother was a high ranking officer in the Polish army when it fought bravely against engulfment by the Nazis and back stabbing by the Russians . . . . Swartz has never heard a word about his fate.

Entering Hardin-Simmons University, he helped work his way through by taking jobs with S. & Q. Clothiers, and other establishments. This did more than furnish finances, for it convinced him that selling was the business he wanted to follow.

While in school, he met Dorothy Locke, who was a student at Abilene Christian College, where her mother, Mrs. Mary Locke, was art instructor. They were married in 1931 not long before Swartz completed work on his Bachelor of Arts degree.

What brought them to Big Spring was a prospecting trip. They wanted to get into business, and this struck them as the best place. After three days residence at the Settles Hotel, and an opportunity to meet many people as well as to inspect the town, they made their decision.

The Hollywood was then a shop in the popular price range. Steadily, the Swartzes began to upgrade the merchandise and to beam their buying more and more to nationally advertised lines. Over the years they have pursued the idea of offering higher quality clothing, both as to style and material, along with an opportunity for shopping in most pleasant surroundings. As their business grew, they responded by enlarging and remodeling.

They became a part of the community from the start. Both have taken part in innumerable activities, and Swartz is a past president of the Chamber of Commerce (the Permian Building was brought into realization during his tenure), of the Rotary Club, the Big Spring Country Club, and currently he is completing a term as chairman of the Howard-Glasscock Counties Red Cross Chapter. He has served as the Red Cross roll call chairman, as the campaign director for the United Fund and then as president of the United Fund. There have been many, many other things in which he has had a hand.

Mrs. Swartz, for many years an energetic and discerning co-worker, prefers to major now in her favorite role of housewife. She has found time, too, for many women's activities, the Garden Club, Parent-Teachers Association and others.

The Swartzes have an attractive home at 909 Mountain Park, under the brow of Scenic Mountain. They have two children Sandra (or Sandy as everyone knows her) who is now Mrs. Rex White of Austin, and a young successor, Andy Mike Swartz.

Even with the opening of their new store, Dorothy and Adolph Swartz are not resting on their oars. As soon as they complete a style show at Webb AFB on May 12, they will leave for New York to supplement lines under the latitude permitted by the new store arrangement.

Accessories Complement Other Lines

In picking up their stock, they selected only the highest quality dealers and those who have the latest styles. Their stocks of gloves, purses, belts, and scarves match that quality and style level.

Daniel-Hayes and Wear-Right are the brands stocked in hand wear, and Swartz has styles in both kid and nylon. All are carefully hand stitched, too.

Their gloves are available in shortie, gauntlet, and elbow lengths The style this summer is calling for gauntlet lengths and cuffed above the wrist. In colors, they have blacks and whites, and an assortment of pastel shades to fit any combination.

Also in handbags, Swartz has the best for casual and formal duty. Here again, the colors are in abundance to match any color scheme. They have styles by Roger Van S. Lennox (for dress wear), and Josef, and all are in an assortment of sizes. Most are individuals too.

Soil Conservation Issue Of

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, MAY 6, 1956

"Soil is not permanent. Under many conditions it is extremely unstable. When wind or water move across bare earth, they usually carry some soil with them. They may move it hundreds of miles or only a short distance, but eventually they carry away large amounts of soil, unless it is tied down."

With this paragraph, Dr. Hugh H. Bennett, chief of the Soil Conservation Service, opens his treatise, "Our American Land." With it also, he sounds the challenge and the procedure for conservation.

Not many weeks ago all of us peered almost fearfully out of windows while an intense combination of dust and sand literally turned the day into night. Could we have understood fully what punishment this was inflicting upon our land, our fears would not have not been confined to the moment but would have gripped us with ominous portent.

Ironically, we have also looked out over our fields after beating thunderstorms and then hurt inwardly at the sight of great scars ripped in the rich soil.

And the tragedy is not alone that this soil, so painstakingly laid down by nature through millions of years, is gone. More the pity is that what land is left is threatened with eventual impoverishment because of the inexorable attrition of elements against the nakedness laid bare by our plows.

Soil is irreplaceable. At any given time we may act to halt its waste and move to restore fertility. But soil on the wings of the wind or in the bosom of a river is gone — forever.

As in any other realm, there can be no perfect estate in conservation. There are at our disposal, however, many practices and devices by which we can throw up bulwarks against the caprice of wind and water. We can diminish the loss systematically and progressively.

Every step we take has its double blessing. When we terrace to prevent washing by water, we trap and conserve precious moisture. When we leave stubble to provide cover against wind, we increase absorptive powers of the land. When we rest pastures, we invariably net more forage in the end and hence more beef, mutton and wool.

Under our philosophy of government which rests so heavily upon individual freedom, no one can force any owner to conserve his land simply for the sake of conservation. But a people enlightened enough to produce our great democracy surely is enlightened enough to appreciate the obligation of stewardship.

We have, as John Ruskin once said, an obligation to pass on to succeeding generations land equally as good as we found it. Happily, we may reap a reward not alone in satisfaction, but in increased productivity and wealth from soil we save.

Stubble Mulch

Doris Blissard Is Supervisor For District

The area of Zone 5 is bounded by U. S Highway 80 on the north, Midland to Garden-City Highway on the south, and roughly the Garden City to Big Spring Highway on the east. He was elected in October of 1953 to serve a five-year term.. He lives on his farm one mile west of Lomax. Besides the 160-acre farm at Lomax, he owns and operates a 2,263-acre ranch in Glasscock and operates 1,500 acres of cropland in Martin and Howard County that belongs to H. G. Keaton of Big Spring. He has 700 acres of cropland on the Glasscock County ranch and 140 acres on his home farm. Blissard has three irrigation wells that make about 400 gallons per minute per well on his ranch. He has been irrigating 45 acres of wheat and ran 100 head of grown cattle on his wheat from last of last November until the first of May this year.

Blissard plans to plant a considerable amount of blue panic grass on his ranch this year. He tried several locations for water wells on his Lomax farm, but did not have sufficient water for irrigation. On the Keaton land he plants cotton and maize. He is very interested in the latest developments of stubble mulch farming and believes in deep tillage to break up the hard pan with the stubble left on the surface.

The Blissard's children have been very active in 4-H Club work and in 1954 his daughter, Janie, showed the champion steer at the Phoenix, Ariz., Livestock show. Beside the interest in 4-H Club work, the Blissards have been very active in community affairs.

Range Grasses Need To Be Established In Many Areas

The grasses should be seeded in a protective cover of sorghum stalks that has been drilled. The seed may be put out in the winter time, any time after Jan. 1 and may be successfully drilled as late as May 15.

Sandy or, shallow cropland should be drilled to grass for several reasons. These reasons are: better protection of the land for wind and water control, the deep rooted grasses use minerals and moisture from greater depths than annual crops, a mixture of grasses built the soil and constantly improves it, much good year around grazing is available from native grass.

Grass seed may be harvested from such seeded areas and may be sold or used to seed other fields.

RESIDUE ON TOP

Stubble Mulching Multiple Soil-Aid

Stubble mulching is a method of farming which applies only to crops that produce large quantities of residue that responds to this type of tillage.

The crops that are applicable for this type of farming are: all grain sorghums, all small grains, Austrian winter peas, hairy vetch, sweet clover, alfalfa, all sweet sorghums, and millet.

Stubble mulching is a system in which all of the tilling, planting, cultivating, and harvest operations are performed in such a manner and with such equipment as will keep most of the crop residues on the surface of the soil. The purpose of the practice is to provide cover to the land when crops are not growing, for protection against wind and water erosion, and to conserve moisture; to intercept and reduce the impact of raindrops and break up the surface water film permitting greater penetration, improve structure of the soil, permit surface decay of organic matter and reduce runoff, reduces evaporation, and helps maintain organic matter.

Subsurface, sweep type equipment is highly essential to an efficient job of stubble mulching. Other types of equipment can be used but generally less efficiently and effectively. The time of the first tillage operation will depend on weed growth.

Usually early fall is most desirable as water penetration is stimulated by the tillage operation. The operation may be delayed until spring with satisfactory results. A four to five inch depth of the first operation is desirable if done in the fall. Runner or loose ground planter attachments are highly essential to planting row crops. Knife and sweep type cultivators are essential to cultivating row crops. Where residues are extremely heavy, shredders or stalk cutters should be used to reduce length of stalk.

Martin-Howard District Covers 1,232,000 Acres

The Martin - Howard Soil Conservation District covers approximately 1,232,000 acres. It includes all of Martin County, all of Howard County except a small portion on the southeast which drains into the North Concho River; the northwest corner of Glasscock County which drains into Mustand Draw, and all of Midland County.

It was organized in 1941 when it was voted into existence and became a legal sub-division of the state, similar to school districts or counties; but without power to levy taxes. It is a good example of local self-government in action.

It is run by five supervisors who are elected by land owners in the district. Each supervisor represent a subdivision of the district.

They are elected for a term of five years with one supervisor's term expiring each year. All conservation work is done in accordance with conservation plans that have been approved by the board. The district supervisors can ask the assistance of any field agency in solving the conservation problems of the district.

The district then enters into a memorandum of understanding with those agencies. Such memorandums are in effect with the Soil Conservation Service and the Texas Extension Service. Many such agencies have assisted the local district.

Soil Conservation District supervisors serve without salary, although they may claim a small per diem for the days actually spent on district work, if they desire. Districts develop their own soil and water conservation programs. How to attain the goals of the program is set forth each year in the district's annual "plan of operations."

Lawrence Davis In Zone 3 Supervisor For District

The area of this zone is roughly the east one-half of Howard County. He was elected at Coahoma early in 1955 to fill an unexpired term created by the resignation of Bence Brown, Vincent. Davis is a stock farmer who lives on his farm located 3½ miles southeast of Coahoma. He has a total of 1,280 acres of land with 147 acres in cultivation.

Being interested in conservation comes naturally to Davis as his father before him was very interested in the land and believed that every user of land should leave it as good as or better than he found. Davis ranched in New Mexico in the mountains for several years before returning to Howard County. While in New Mexico he learned what grass would do if given a chance.

On his stock farm he has been a leader in doing pitting of range land to hold the rain and thus grow grass. He made one of the first pitting machines from an old one-way, and sparked a drive for pitting in his area. He has now pitted a large portion of his range where this practice can be done.

In addition to pitting he has seeded grass in the pits on much of this. He has found that blue panic grass planted on his cropland offers possibilities for forage throughout the summer season. He plans to terrace more of his cropland this coming fall. He believes in resting his native range to let the grass have a chance by removing his livestock in the summer.

Davis has a son who showed the top lamb in its class at the El Paso livestock show two years ago. Davis also has several well bred quarter horses on the place.

Range Seeding Pays Off

D. C. Buchanan inspects some of the Native Bluestem seeded on deep sandy land on his place six miles northeast of Big Spring. The grass, on 30 acres, was grazed by 22 yearling heifers from Feb. 1 to April 1. The grass has been rested each summer since it was drilled in 1950.

SAVE THE SOIL WITH INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER EQUIPMENT

Only with good equipment, in the hands of skilled and competent farmers, can America preserve her soil. As we observe this soil conservation week, let us pause to reconsider the responsibility with which we and future generations have been entrusted.

As the educational agency for advancing soil conservation, the federal SCS working together with locally-operated SCD, is doing a great work toward this end.

And as dealers in Howard County for the International Harvester line of farm equipment, we realize that only the best in tools can make it possible for farmers to carry out their conservation programs as cooperators in the district.

Lots Of Moisture

That's not a lake, but the water held on cropland of Mrs. Rebecca Keys, near Wall, in Tom Green County. The water is trapped behind level, closed-end terraces following a five-inch rain.

Ollie Robertson Is West Martin County Supervisor

Ollie Robertson is the supervisor for Zone 1 of the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District. His zone is the west one-half of Martin County or all west of the Stanton-Lamesa Highway. He was elected as a supervisor in October of 1954 to serve a 5-year term.

He lives on his farm two miles southwest of Tarzan and owns 160 acres of land, all of which is in cultivation. In addition he rents 90 acres of cropland. He has two irrigation wells on his farm which produce 300 gallons per minute together, one well on his rented land which produces 150 gallons per minute. He waters 80 acres on his own farm and that goes on his cotton land. He believes in rotating his crops and never has cotton on the same land over two years.

Robertson plants some rye each year to supply grazing for his milk cows, and to serve as a cover crop. He is interested in the new practice of planting maize and summer peas in the same row.

The supervisor purchased the farm in 1949 and moved on it in 1950 and he had the first irrigation well in this area. While a few scoffed at him for trying to irrigate with sprinklers, he kept at it, and now everyone that can find water is doing likewise. He used nitroglycerine in his wells when they were first installed to increase the flow and had good success.

Robertson farmed in Howard County for several years before moving to the Tarzan area. He farmed five miles northeast of Big Spring for three years then farmed the Pearl Cauble land at Elbow in 1949. He believes that the farmers in his area must be shown new conservation practices and must know that they work before they will try them. He believes in conservation irrigation and that cover crops will help his area in producing higher yields.

Supervisor For Zone 4 Is J. T. Flowers Of Midland

J. T. Flowers is the supervisor for Zone 4 of the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District. He has served on the board since October of 1952.

The boundaries of his zone are that part of Midland County south of U. S. Highway 80 west of Midland and all south of the Midland to Garden City Highway. Flowers lives on his farm located 6 miles southeast of Midland. He owns and operates 160 acres of land. He has two irrigation wells that produce 550 gallons per minute combined. Last year he planted eight acres to blue panic grass and one acre to Uvalde side oats grama. The blue panic grass made a good crop and the sideoats grama was 10 inches in height and was grown on very shallow rocky ground.

The Uvalde strain is a selected strain that appears to be more leafy and a higher producer than the native sideoats. Flowers grows the grass for seed production as it is so new that very little seed is available on the market.

He likes the blue panic grass for its rapid growth and plans to utilize it by grazing with livestock. Flowers plants cotton and maize as his main crops, however last year he tried the new idea of planting summer peas and maize down the same row to build up land and felt by rotating crops he could have his cotton on built-up land. The maize stubble protected his land from blowing while the summer peas by themselves would have been ineffective.

Flowers is also a custodian for district equipment. He keeps a grass drill, grain-fertilizer drill, range pitting machine, and other equipment at his farm. He is always glad to talk over conservation problems with his neighbors and most likely can give them the answer they are looking for.

Resists Sandstorm

This cover crop of Abruzzi rye, on the Albert Davis farm four miles northeast of Big Spring, did an excellent job of holding down soil during sandstorms in 1953. This scene was photographed five days after a sandstorm in which wind velocity reached 65 miles per hour. Rye was grazed heavily for four months.

DROUGHT

Area Pastures Facing Crisis

Hard hit by successive years of drought, many pastures in the area are facing a critical problem.

Postponing grazing or resting native grasslands for a prescribed period of time will improve the vigor of forage stands and insure the production of grass seeds. The rest period should be at least four months and preferably six months in length. The more vigorous a plant is the better it can hold its own in competition with other plants and grazing animals.

Rested ranges will conserve much more rainfall than those under grazing. The ground temperature under grass will not exceed 100 degrees even though it may be 125 degrees in the direct sun's rays. Lower temperatures are important in conserving soil water. Soil micro organisms will be active in cool, damp ground.

Wind velocities near the ground are less when good grass growth is present. Grasses will grow continuously after spring growth starts if not grazed off. Once grass is grazed, growth is retarded for about three weeks even if adequate moisture is available.

Thin stands of grass will cover over by stolons or plants from seed when given a chance. Brush or rangelands limit grass growth in many cases, however sometimes the best grasses are found under or near brush.

Mesquite, red cedar, and prickly pear cactus are the three troublesome brushy types of vegetation that grow in this vicinity. Kerosene or 2,4-5 T. Spray will control mesquite, while grubbing of pear and chaining of cedar are approved methods of control.

Summer rested ranges may be grazed during the winter with good results. In many instances the planting of permanent grass on cropland for summer grazing has served to allow deferment of rangeland.

Explorer Scout Unit Gets Lost Purposely

Escorted by skilled supervisors, the scouts take only the basic needs for survival, and leave prepared foods behind. They forage for food, build rabbit snares and peel bark which they boil into soup. After two or three days of survival training, the Scouts are led to safety by their supervisors.

The idea is to simulate emergencies common to this rugged area.

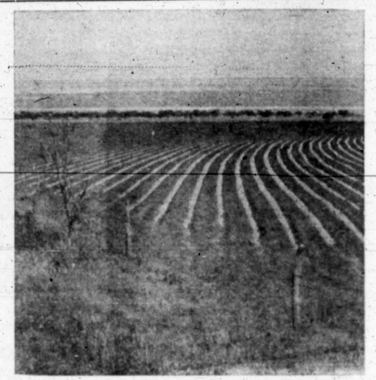

Patient Works On Painless Needles

ISHPEMING, Mich. (AP) — Jabs from a hypodermic needle don't bring the usual yelp of pain if John Hill has put his fine hand to work on the needle first.

How much better? "Enough to add up to 30 per cent less operator effort, 60 per cent less pain and 100 per cent less plugging," says Hill.

He gets used needles from hospitals and doctors and puts them through a painstaking resharpening process. When he's done the needle can be poked into a pad of shoe leather without a jar — or into a human without a squeak.

Soil Conservation — Water Conservation — They're Both Important!

Better conservation practice for both soil and water is one of the great needs of modern agriculture. Under the guidance of the Soil Conservation districts across the land great strides are being made toward conserving these two irreplaceable commodities. Congratulations to our district on their fine work in conservation practices.

Where Visions Grace The Sky — Freedom Shall Bless The Land

Visions are elusive sometimes. But they have a way of coming down to earth. This thing called soil conservation on the land was once a vision—little more than the seed of an idea, the idea that farmers could work together to solve their mutual problems. The seed proved to be remarkably visible, for the soil conservation district idea has settled down like a protective blanket over our good earth.

There is more than physical resemblance between a countour-stripped field and the red and white stripes of Old Glory. The soil conservation district embodies the very essence of the rights and freedoms for which our flag stands. Cherishing those rights and freedoms, farmers have organized soil conservation districts that are of local people, by local people, for local people.

A soil conservation district is composed of local people who see their own problems and solve them, who see their own responsibilities and shoulder them. They are local people doing that which they should do, voluntarily, with no infringement of rights and liberties, with scarcely a law, rule, regulation, or tax. The soil conservation district, in action, is literally a bit of the freedom of enterprise that made America a land of opportunity and abundance.

Soil improvement, through good land use, is a modern vision, a new frontier of rural America.

Help Yourself By Helping To Save America's Fertile Soil

In ancient times, Greece, Palestine, and China were rich farming countries. Deforestation and erosion by wind and water made them poor. Our whole American civilization depends on what we do to conserve our remaining land and to restore the mined out fertility. A little time, money and effort now can save spending millions later on.

No nation can progress beyond the limits of its soil. We have come to be aware that throughout America our well-being is tied up inseparably in the soil and its continued production. Therefore, we endorse the ideas behind the Soil Conservation District program and congratulate the local districts on the fine progress theyhave made since organizing. You have accomplished much — and you have just begun!

We are, of course, proud that the local districts are such pioneering leaders in the state and that our state has been able to make so much progress in the conservation and improvement of our native soil. May the good work continue and the benefits ever be more worthwhile and apparent.

Support your local Soil Conservation District. If you are a rancher or farmer, see the district supervisors of the Soil Conservation Service representatives in your area about a conservation program for your land.

Pitted Range, After Rain

A three-quarter-inch rain left this water standing on the pastures of Wilson Smith five miles west of Fort Stockton. The pits caught the rain as well as water that ran off of adjoining land. Moisture penetrated into the soil surrounding the pits a depth of 10½ inches, and an adjoining area, not pitted, was wet only two or three inches deep.

SOIL AND SOUL

Stewardship Of Soil Sermonette

(Today is Soil Stewardship Sunday, and throughout the country many ministers are using this theme in their sermons. A man who has served several rural charges in this long and fruitful ministry is the Rev. C. W. Parmenter, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Church. The Herald asked him to prepare this sermonette—ED.)

By REV. C. W. PARMENTER

SCRIPTURE: "The Earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof, the world and all that dwells therein."

True it is, that God created man — giving him dominion over the earth and all things on the earth, but in his writings on Soil and Stewardship, the Rev. John McGaughlin reminds us that "since that time, man has planted and hoed — and plowed and spaded — while God has sent the sun and the rains — until it would seem that man works in partnership with God." A wonderful thought — such a partnership — and working with God with a common interest and toward a common goal is a definite way to success; however as we view some scenes around us, we are made to wonder if perhaps we — who are supposed to cultivate the soils of the earth and the souls of our fellowmen — have not left much of our work undone.

For God, as our partner, would never recommend the allowing of land to lie bare and unprotected. He would, on the other hand, afford the land a protective covering of grass and trees as a guard against the winds and floods. So it can be sad for our Spiritual life — God does not recommend that our souls be left bare to the storms and temptations of life. He has provided for us a shelter from the storms and has made possible the abundant life in Christ.

Again, God would not recommend the cultivation of steep or rocky slopes — for in the parable of the Sower, He has pointed out that some land is good for farming and some is not — and that only the good soil should be used. To attempt cultivation of steep slopes is suicide for the soil, and a misuse of God's goodness. For certainly the goodness of the earth is the goodness of God. The Psalmist calls it God's Mercy, and it is as though God has proven his good intentions toward man by giving him good land. Again—in our Spiritual life — if our souls are allowed to wear and wash away — as mined-out lands, we become spiritually dead and in the need of a redemptive and conserving power which can come only from God.

Finally, God would never recommend that we abuse the soil by failing to rotate our crops, for to do so creates deficiency of certain elements and robs the soil of its usefulness.

And spiritually speaking, God is satisfied only when we have used our abilities and influence — not just in one — but in every phase of our lives. Christianity in our homes our work, our community, and in our nation is the result of working with God, and will make us aware of our duty of using wisely "the blessings of the world created by God for man's use."

Brush Covers Most Rangeland

This brush can be controlled by: 1. Kerosene, 2. Chemical Spray, 3. Chaining, 4. Grubbing and, 5. Root plowing.

Mesquite is controlled by all methods except chaining. As to which method is preferred is a matter of economics.

Red berry juniper (called red cedar) is controlled by chaining. Cactus is controlled by spray and grubbing. Brush needs to be controlled in order to keep it from spreading.

Good Cover Crops Help The COTTON FARMER

Cotton is still one of our No. 1 cash crops, bringing us during the years of the past, millions of dollars for our area.

We can't grow King Cotton, however, without retaining what moisture we may be able to receive during our dryer years. Cover crops can help us do just this in proper rotation and planning. Let's all try a better, more active Conservation Program.

Edgar Phillips Is Zone 2 Supervisor

The area of his zone is that part of Martin County east of the Stanton to Lamesa Highway and that part of Howard County west of the Big Spring to Vealmoor road. The south boundary is U. S. Highway 80.

Phillips is serving his sixth year as a supervisor and is the secretary and treasurer of the board. He spends a considerable portion of his time on district business and is a hard worker for the conservation cause.

He lives on one of his farms six miles north of Big Spring on U. S. Highway 87 where he owns and operates a total of 2,560 acres of land with all but 147 acres in cropland. The supervisor believes that terraces are necessary on sloping mixed and tight land and has some of the largest terraces in the district on his farms. He has his own terracing machinery and does some contracting work.

He established one of the first blue panic pastures in his area and it served to point the way to many cooperators who later planted some. He believes in planting summer peas on a part of his land every year and has maintained a consistent high yield for dryland farming.

Phillips planted Blackwell switchgrass and Indian grass and others. He also plans to plant several acres of overflow land to King Ranch bluestem in a non-competitive cover crop. He will use red top cane as the cover crop.

Phillips has helped his neighbors in determining with them what specialized conservation equipment was needed and helped them obtain the equipment through the Soil Conservation District. In 1953 Phillips was named the outstanding district supervisor of the local district by the bankers in the district.

Phillips is interested in 4-H Club work and his son, Edgar Allen, showed the champion steer in the Eastern Livestock show at Baltimore, Md., a few years ago. He served several years as a trustee of Howard County Junior College.

Terraces Yield Double Benefits

Terraces are used for 1) conservation of the soil and 2) conservation of water.

Terraces are applicable on all cropland soils except sandy lands. They are constructed across the slope and at an interval that is determined by the slope of the land. In this area the ends of the terraces should be closed to hold the water.

Deferred Grazing Did This

Practices To Curb Blowing Of Soils

How do we prevent sand storms? Sand storms have occurred to some extent ever since the white man plowed up the virgin sod in West Texas and perhaps before. Some of the old settlers state that there were small localized sand storms even on the sandy rangeland during periods of high wind velocities. This occurred on sandy areas and on overgrazed areas around watering holes, salt licks, etc.

Sand storms have increased proportionately to the amount of sandy land placed in cultivation. The Soil Conservation Service has studied wind erosion since 1936, a period of 19 years, on all types of land in all conditions. The results of their studies is available to all people who wish to avail themselves of this information.

In general the following combinations of practices are considered satisfactory to curb sand storms when applied properly to the following types of cropland:

Deep coarse sandy land where heavy subsoil is not within reach of the plow: This land is not economical to farm and should be sown to a perennial grass mixture. Deep coarse sandy land where heavy subsoil is within reach of the plow. This land can be safely farmed, but must be kept in close by growing high residue producing crops continually, (such as grain sorghums, small grains or blue panic grass) and should be deep plowed if needed. Soil building crops should be grown on one-third of the land each year. Use only stubble mulch tillage.

Deep medium textured soil: This land can be safely farmed, but a crop rotation must be used with high residue crops on two-thirds of the land, (a soil building crop on one-third of this) and the remaining one-third of the land in low residue crops (example: cotton). Use only stubble mulch tillage. In addition to this the land should be terraced and farmed on the contour. The surface of the land must be kept a sandy loam by deep tillage whenever needed. The use of the soil building crop will serve to keep the land productive enough to grow high residues which will tend to prevent wind erosion. The low residue crops should be planted in the high residue crop stubble which should always be left on the surface of the ground.

Sand storms occur for the most part on sandy type (coarse and medium textured) cropland and on overgrazed range land. The latter condition can be prevented by reducing the grazing load on the range and keeping it in balance with the grass.

Wind erosion occurs also on roads and idle areas. nI fact much erosion of fields starts many times by blowing roads and turnrows. These areas should either be held from blowing by caliche topping or planting border strips to grass or trees adjacent to highly erodible roads.

Efforts to combat wind erosion should be made on a group basis rather than on an individual basis. The good efforts of one farmer may be completely nullified by his neighbor.

Sand storms can be licked, but it takes united effort. The Supervisors of the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District urge all cooperators to take the steps needed on their land and urge everyone else to do the same. Conservation plans of cooperators will show the different classes of soil on their land and the necessary treatment needed to stamp out wind and water erosion.

Those not yet district cooperators may contact the Soil Conservation Service for information.

Blue Panic Came From Australia

Blue Panic is a drought resistant, deep rooted perennial grass that was imported to the United States from Australia. It was first planted in Howard County in about 1947.

From a small beginning it is now spread to become the area's number one grass for revegetation. It has many good qualities including: 1. A deep and extensive root system. 2. It is adapted on most all soils. 3. It is a very rapid growing grass, in fact it will grow an inch a day. 4. It is a prime soil conditioning and soil improving crop. 5. It is good when used for ensilage, it will yield about four tons to the acre. 6. It may be cut as bundle feed. 7. It produces 200 pounds of seed to the acre if handled properly. 8. The seed makes excellent chicken feed. 9. It produces excellent grazing and a beef yield of 200 per acre is the average of this area.

The protein content is as follows: When green and succulent-20 per cent; when in full head, soft dough stage-15 per cent; when fully matured- eight per cent.

Blue Panic may be used on cropland as permanent grass in rotation or it may be used on rangeland either by itself or in mixtures.

Alcohol Turned Their Faces Red After Day's Work

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Workers at a hardware making plant can take a drink of beer after work again without turning a cherry red — thanks to State Health Department experts.

The department was called in after eght workmen complained that if they drank alcoholic beverages after work their faces and arms would turn red, they were troubled with rapid heart beat, nausea and general discomfort.

It was found the workers were breathing fumes from a solvent known as trichloreythlene, used to clean hardware fixtures, and a compound called pyradiene, used to prevent rustng. A toxic reaction to the compounds was triggered by drinking alcoholic beverages.

Industrial specialists solved the problem by isolating the ventilating the area where the cleaning solvents were used.

Better Soil Means A Better Living

Our livelihood is tied firmly to our soil, and without a fertile land in which to grow, the crops that furnish us food and fiber would soon cease to be.

A priceless American heritage has been her good earth. The native sons who first broke the land were far crys from their modern descendants who are working together in hundreds of Soil Conservation Districts across the land.

A better soil means a better living—for everyone. We hail the work and the aims of those who operate with their district in this vital undertaking.

There is no greater challenge to the farmer and stockman of today than that of increasing production and the fertility of his land.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Electioneering on municipal property during working hours is forbidden by the city of Richmond. So William Chewning Jr., 10, was told to desist from distributing campaign cards for his father, a candidate for City Council, during class hours at Mary Munford School.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — For the second time in two weeks, a motorist in front of the restaurant started his car from under the hood without realizing it was in gear. There was a crash and the drive-in promptly depreciated an estimated $1,000. Damage to the car was $45.

Grazing Blue Panic

This Blue Panic grass was planted several years ago on the J. Y. Robb ranch 18 miles southwest of Big Spring. It has made good growth with little rainfall. Its value for grazing purposes is demonstrated by condition of the cattle in the field.

Dr. Wolfe Seeds Blue Panic Grass

Blue Panic seeding is under way at the D. Otto Wolfe farm northeast of Knott. This farm is operated by Morris B. Barnes. The grass is being seeded for several reasons. These reasons are: 1. To provide excellent quality summer grazing. 2. Provide a cover on the land to retard wind erosion. 3. The deep root system of Blue Panic is ideal for moisture conservation. 4. A seed crop may be obtained occasionally to furnish seed for other planting and for ready cash sales. 5. Blue Panic is a prime soil improving crop. 6. It may be used as ensilage for winter feeding. 7. It may be cut as bundle feed and fed to livestock. 8. It makes excellent chicken feed.

Seeding is being done in a sorghum stubble cover. This is considered necessary on most all soils. The ground has not been disturbed this year which is also necessary to insure a settled firm seed bed. Other methods of seeding which have been used in the past are not considered satisfactory methods as they do not leave the seed on a flat surface and also do not leave the ground around the seed in a firm condition. For seeding in sandy soils a tall uncut sweet sorghum growth is necessary to insure protedtion from wind erosion, and also to delay the drying out time on sandy soils many cooperators who do and have adequate cover are planting the cover this spring in which to plant at a later date. The seeder used by Barnes belongs to the Martin County Soil Conservation District and is available to any land operator on a rental basis.

Grass seeding is under way on the Howard County Junior College. A mixture of grass is being seeded composed of sideoats grama, blue grama, and buffalo grass. These native grasses are being seeded in a heavy cover of red top cane that was established the year before. A cover such as this is very necessary for the successful establishment of native grasses. The land has not been disturbed since it was seeded in May of 1955. Seeding will be done on 50 acres of land which includes 15 acres that has been leased by Television Station KBST-TV. The grass is being planted for a permanent cover to retard wind and water erosion.

Range Pitting Conserves Both Moisture, Soil

It (1) Forms basins to hold rainfall that occurs over a short duration. (2) Breaks the surface crust on ranges that have been trampled by livestock, thus providing for much greater rate of moisture infiltration into the soil. (3) Provides pits for grass seed and other beneficial types of vegetation to get started. (4) Reduces water erosion, due to less runoff. (5) Reduces wind erosion on bare ranges, due to the uneven conditions of the soil surface. (6) Provides a greater length of grazing period due to the growth of different species of plants than grew before.

Pitting is an economical practice where adapted. It is economical because for a small cost of performing the practice, the resulting growth of vegetation is in many cases an increase of 100 per cent and may be as much as 1,000 per cent.

(5.) Ranges where because of steep slopes the soils needs to be roughed up to hold more rainfall.

(6.) Ranges where gullying is a problem.

The practice is done with a machine composed of offset discs that make the pits. Seeding of good grasses can be done when the pitting is performed. The range should then be rested from grazing for at least one growing season.

Guar Crop

Guar Adapted To This Area

Guar is promising to become a well adapted summer legume in the Big Spring vicinity.

It is drought resistant and will grow on all soils suitable for cropping. Guar puts nitrogen into the soil for new life and greatly increases the water intake ability and water holding capacity of the soil. Crops following guar show an increase in yield up to 100 per cent on some cotton fields.

This increased yield means more dollars return per acre. It requires no special equipment to plant and there is a ready market for the beans.

Guar thrives in hot weather if suitable moisture is present. Guar should be planted in the spring when moisture is present and the soil is warm. The crop works well in rotation with cotton and maize. It should be planted in strips with grain sorghum or followed with winter cover crops if planted on sandy land. Guar does not tend to "yellow out" on high lime soils.

The seed should be inoculated when planted. Phosphate fertilizer should be used on all soils where guar is planted and nitrogen should be added if planted on sandy soils.

TAPS HARDPAN

Several Farmers To Try Sesbania

A crop new to this area—Sesbania — will be tried by several local farms this year. It is a summer legume with a tap root that will penetrate the hardpan in some instances. Grown east of Lubbock last year by Cecil Brashear, who farms at Idalou, the crop was successful. It was also grown on the J. S. Bridwell farm near Crosbyton. Both of these dryland plantings indicated that the crop can take a dry summer and still make a crop. These plantings attained an average height of five feet and had good nodulation on their roots.

A yield of two to three hundred pounds of seed per acre is considered average with much higher yields possible in favorable seasons. No information is available at present on what effect Sesbania has on the soil for following crops.

The cost of the seed for planting purposes runs about $10 per 100 pounds. The Agriculture Conservation Program in Howard County includes Sesbania in the list of eligible summer legumes. A cost-share payment of 50 per cent of the cost of the seed is made to those that comply.

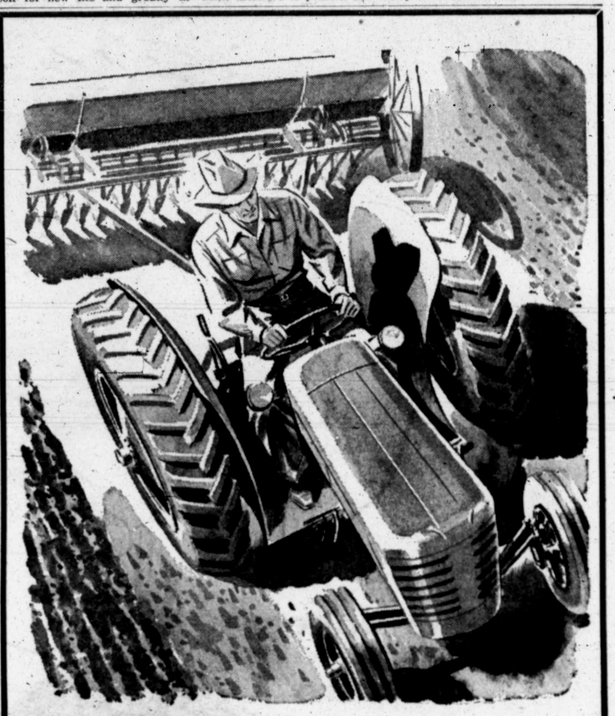

Sesbania is a native to the United States and has been grown for years in other areas of the South. It has some advantages over cowpeas or guar, one being that it can be harvested so as to leave a two-foot high stubble which will be effective in the prevention of wind erosion. This crop could be used as a cash crop as well as a soil improving and soil protecing crop. There is a ready market for the beans.

Any farmer or rancher desiring to try this crop may consult the local office of the Soil Conservation Service.

Dryland Sesbania

This crop of sesbania is on the Cecil Brashear farm near Idalou. It was planted on dryland and has not benefited from irrigation. The picture was snapped last September, when late-summer rains had given the plants some new growth.

STATE NATIONAL BANK

the richest treasure of all time

From the beginning, the history of man has been written in a few inches of topsoil. Man first tilled the earth with sharpened sticks and stones. Later he used the plow. Today, with the help of modern machines and science—from the same soil—he produces far more than ever before.

Until a couple of decades ago, he recklessly plundered the earth. And then, as he watched his earth wash away into the rivers and swiftly on to the sea, the full realization dawned upon him that he must either hold back the earth or starve. Systematic soil conservation was born. Today's erosion control and crop rotation are winning the fight.

Farmers and ranchers find they are not alone. They are joined by men who do the planning for the oil industry. Accustomed as they are to thinking of the earth in depths of tens of thousands of feet, these oil men often pay closest heed to the requirements of soil conservation.

When a well is drilled or right of way is cleared for a pipeline, there is little damage to the earth. Restoration is made as quickly as possible, for the earth is man's greatest treasure.

Soil conservation must never be allowed to fall out of fashion. With only a little time, neglect alone could prove Jeremiah's prophecy of old: "They have sown wheat, but shall reap thorns."
