County Fair Plans Outlined for C-C

All plans for the Collingsworth County Free Fair are going smoothly, general chairman Billy Moseley told directors of the chamber of commerce in their regular monthly meeting Monday night, Aug. 11.

Mr. Moseley said Fair Week will be designated Oct. 13 through 18. This is the first time an October date has been chosen for the big free fair.

This year's Fair will have a carnival, which has been missing for several seasons. Mr. Moseley said the Carnival will be located on the west side of the courthouse square through Carnival Week. Booths set up by organizations will be on the south side of the square. Catalogs will be out soon, Mr. Moseley said, and the divisions and prizes will be the same as last year.

On the other hand, more bands are expected for the parade which opens the Fair on Friday morning, Oct. 17. All the colorful floats and other parade entries will be back to delight the crowds.

County Agricultural Agent Don Reeves and 4-H Club boys will be in charge of the Quarter Horse Show, Mr. Moseley said.

The Old Settlers Reunion will be held as usual, with the cooler weather probably contributing to a successful event.

The barbecue for this year's Fair will be prepared by the Wellington Rotary Club.

Also, there will be a turkey shoot in connection with the Fair, the first time one has been held.

No Old Fiddlers Contest has been set yet due to a conflict in dates with one at Gilmer, but it is hoped to get this arranged later.

The Wellington Jaycees will also have a dance on Saturday night, but this is their promotion and is not a part of the Fair itself.

End Reading Program on August 20

Children who have completed the summer reading program will receive certificates from the Texas State Library in a ceremony Wednesday, Aug. 20 at 2:30 p.m.

It will be held in the Collingsworth County Library, according to Mrs. R. H. Isbell, librarian.

Approximately 25 have already finished reading the required number of books, and by the time the program ends, this number will be between 35 and 40, Mrs. Isbell added.

All children are urged to be at the library for the program and parents and friends are invited.

Mrs. Isbell will present the certificates and refreshments will be served.

Junior Auxiliary Meeting Called

The Junior Hospital Auxiliary will meet Thursday, Aug. 14, at 10 a.m. at Cherokee Inn Restaurant to discuss plans for the Bloodmobile Visit to Wellington, and their part in the operation.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile visit is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 21.

All girls in the Junior Auxiliary, or who are interested in becoming members, are urged to attend the meeting Thursday.

Classes Open Sept. 1

Wellington Students Register Aug. 28-29

Wellington students will enroll Thursday and Friday, Aug. 28 and 29, and class work will begin Monday, Sept. 1.

The registration schedule was announced this week, along with a general faculty meeting which will be at 10:00 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 27.

Children in grades one, two and three will register Thursday, Aug. 28 from 9:00 a.m. until noon. The supply fee for children in these grades is $3.00 and all students entering the first grade for the first time will need to bring a birth certificate.

Fourth and fifth grade students will register from 1:00 to 4:00 o'clock Thursday, and their supply fee is $2.00.

In junior high, the eighth grade will register Thursday, Aug. 28 from 9 a.m. until noon; seventh grade Thursday afternoon from 1:00 to 4:00; and the sixth grade Friday morning from 9:00 to 12:00. The supply fee in all grades is $2.00.

High school seniors will register Thursday, Aug. 28 from 8:30 until noon, and senior pictures will be taken at the same time.

Juniors will register Thursday from 1:00 to 4:00; sophomores Friday from 8:30 to 11:30; and freshmen Friday afternoon from 1:00 to 3:30.

Bird Child Injures Hand

By Mrs. G. T. Stephens

Sammy Bird, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bird, was injured Tuesday, Aug. 12 when he got his hand in an electric fan at his home in Quail.

The extent of the injury is not known, however, his arm was bleeding profusely as his parents rushed him to the Shamrock Hospital.

Reception Planned

Sen. Yarborough Here on Aug. 19

The Honorable Ralph Yarborough, United States Senator from Texas, will visit Wellington Tuesday, Aug. 19, from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m.

There will be a come-as-you-are, get-acquainted reception for Senator Yarborough at the Cherokee Inn Restaurant, according to Mrs. John Coleman, chairman of the Collingsworth County Democratic Executive Committee.

This will be an opportunity for area friends of the senator to see him again, and for those who do not know him to get acquainted.

"The reception will be a come-and-go affair, and due to the heat you are invited to wear sport shirts for comfort," Mrs. Coleman said.

"All citizens of Collingsworth County are invited. We especially encourage the high school boys and girls to come greet Senator Yarborough. Rotary Club members are invited to drop by the reception after their noon meeting."

Senator Yarborough will be on a trip through part of the Panhandle and Wellington will be a major stop.

It has been several years since the senator visited here.

Wellington's Cindy Saied tied for first runner-up honors in the pageant to name Miss Grain Sorghum of America for 1969 at Dimmitt Saturday night Aug. 9.

She is the first contestant from Wellington ever to advance to one of the top places in this event.

Karen Lafferty, 21, of Farmington, N.M., was chosen Miss Grain Sorghum, and received a $1,000 college scholarship.

Cindy, 17, and a bewitching brunette, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mack Saied Jr. She tied with Pamela Grissom of Bovina for runner-up honors.

Scholarship funds for the two runner-up places were divided equally and each girl will receive $375 toward a scholarship to the college of her choice. Cindy will attend Texas Tech.

The new Miss Grain Sorghum will represent the grain sorghum industry for the coming year, but should she be unable to do so, that honor will fall to Miss Saied or Miss Grissom.

Thirty girls from throughout the Texas Panhandle, Oklahoma, and Missouri competed.

Gun Club Plans Shoot Sunday

The Wellington Gun Club is sponsoring a merchandise shoot Sunday, Aug. 17, Pat McAlister, chairman, has announced.

This will be held at the shooting range on the Jerry Nix farm a mile and a half north of town.

Various types of merchandise will be awarded as prizes, McAlister said.

Shooting will begin at 1 p.m. and continue as long as anyone cares to compete.

Two Teachers Join Faculty at Wellington

Two teachers were elected by the Wellington School Board in a regular meeting Monday, Aug. 11.

Mrs. Eddie Slay will teach remedial reading in elementary school and Gano Wilson will teach junior high science, Supt. J. L. Harper announced.

Mrs. Slay, who taught history in high school one year, has a degree in elementary education from West Texas State University and is working toward her master's degree this summer. She will succeed Mrs. Dan Henard, Jr., who resigned.

Mr. Wilson was reared here and graduated from Quail High School, where he was an outstanding basketball player. He also has a degree from West Texas State University and his major is vocational agriculture with a science minor.

He will fill the vacancy created when Joe Lennon became Dodson School principal.

Mr. Wilson has taught four years, one at Quitaque, two at Farwell, and one at Muleshoe.

Low bids were accepted on gasoline and milk for the coming school year, Mr. Harper said. The gasoline contract went to Holton Gulf and the milk contract to Plains Creamery.

Rapid Boll Weevil Buildup Seen in Area

A rapid buildup of boll weevils has brought a warning to cotton growers to keep a close watch on their fields, and an especially close watch if it is an irrigated crop.

County Agent Don Reeves said that in some fields he has counted from 20 to 35 and 40 weevils per 100 terminals.

A number of farmers with irrigated cotton are already spraying, but most farmers with dry land cotton are debating whether this will pay.

Mr. Reeves said there are also boll worms in some fields, and flea hoppers, which usually are gone by this time, are still hanging on.

Cats Lose to Lubbock

The Wellington Cats lost to the Lubbock Hubbers by one point in the 12th inning at Marian Airpark Sunday afternoon, Aug. 10.

This is by far the closest game the Wellington boys have played this year, as Lubbock made it 6 in the top of the 12th to Wellington's 5, according to Coach Earl Shamblee.

The Wellington team will return the game at Lubbock Sunday, Aug. 17.

This was the first meeting of the two teams in more than 20 years.

Issue Uniforms Monday

6 Starters Due Back on Skyrocket Roster

Approximately 50 prospective Skyrockets will be issued practice uniforms and begin two-day drills Monday, Aug. 18, Coach Thayne Amoneit has announced.

Shoes were issued Wednesday evening, Aug. 13, but some more boys may come in within the next few days.

Of these 50, about a dozen will be back from last year's varsity team and this includes six who were starters at one time or another during the season, depending on team injuries.

Danny Watts is expected back at center, but Mark Killian, who was tackle, may be shifted. Danny West is at end.

In the backfield, returning starters are Charles Mauldin, quarterback; Ricky Nall, halfback; and Nicky Watts, fullback.

Need for Red Cross Blood Donors Urgent

Volunteers are urgently needed for the 140 pints of blood Collingsworth County is asked to give when the Red Cross Bloodmobile comes here Thursday, Aug. 21.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nunneley, co-chairmen, said the response to calls for volunteers has been poor so far, and they emphasized that the county must participate in the blood program if St. Joseph's Hospital is to continue to receive blood from the Red Cross Blood Center.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at Bura Handley Community Center from 12:00 to 5:15 p.m. and seven or eight donors can be handled every 15 minutes, Mr. Nunneley said.

At least 175 persons must be scheduled if the 140 pint quota is to be met, Mr. Nunneley said.

Volunteers are also needed to work at the community center.

"We have many people here who are above the age for giving blood, or who for other reasons cannot give, yet who would like to do something for the blood program. This is their opportunity, and we urge all those interested to contact us," Mr. Nunneley said.

To be a blood donor, a person must be at least 18 years of age and not more than 60.

"We have a sizeable group of young men and women who have become 18 years old since the last blood drive. We have a number of others home from college for the summer months," reminded Mr. Nunneley.

"We are appealing to that group to come in and give their pint of blood. It doesn't hurt. It takes only a few minutes, and it is one of the most needed community services you will perform this summer."

There are two reasons for the urgency in fulfilling the blood quota:

The number of walking blood donors available to St. Joseph's Hospital reached the point more than two years ago that it was not sufficient to provide the blood needed. A few people were being called on too often, hospital authorities believed, and the help of the Red Cross Blood Bank was sought.

Part of the contract between the hospital and the blood bank is that in return for the blood used at the hospital, the people of the county must give a blood back to the program.

The visit of the bloodmobile and the giving of 140 pints of blood on this visit is fulfilling the people's part of the contract.

There is a second major advantage:

As long as St. Joseph's is in the Red Cross blood program, any resident of the county who is in a hospital anywhere the Red Cross Blood Program operates can receive blood from it at the same cost as here in St. Joseph's.

Sister Perpetua, hospital administrator, has pointed out that there is no charge whatever for the blood from the Red Cross Blood Bank. What is paid is the laboratory fee for blood typing, cross matching, etc.

RECOGNITION AT REUNION

Special recognition went to these four at the annual Loco-Arlie Reunion Sunday, August 10. Honored as the oldest present, at top, were G. T. Austin of Childress, from Loco, and Mrs. Lena Meiller, 84, of Wellington, from Arlie. Below are those who traveled farthest, Barbara Moore of Carthage, representing Arlie and Richard Scott of Austin, who lived at Loco.

Winner to District

1969 Farm Bureau Queen To Be Chosen Saturday

Five Collingsworth beauties are seeking the title of 1969 Farm Bureau Queen, and there will be others by the time the filing closes.

The Queen Contest will be held Saturday, Aug. 16 at 8 p.m. in the high school auditorium, according to Mrs. G. N. Davis of the Farm Bureau office.

The new county queen will represent Collingsworth in the District I Farm Bureau Queen Contest to be held in Amarillo Thursday, Aug. 21.

The rehearsal will be Friday evening at 8 p.m. at the school auditorium, and that is also the deadline for entering the Queen's Contest.

The five who have entered are Janice White, June Popwell, Susan Peters, Jacqueline King and Barbara Wilbur, all of Wellington.

Others interested in participating should register with Mrs. Davis at the Farm Bureau office.

The talent find contest is also open, but so far there have been no entries. Anyone interested in this division also should contact Mrs. Davis, and the winner will represent the county in the District Talent Find held at the same time as the Queen Contest.

Royce Bottiford, farm editor of KGNC-TV, Amarillo, will be the master of ceremonies, and the Queen will be selected by a trio of out of town judges.

Entertainment will be furnished by the Sagebrush Singers, Mary Bearden, Carol Sue Burba and Charlotte Masten.

Mickie Ann Kendrick will play background music as the queen contestants are present.

The 1969 Farm Bureau Queen will receive her crown from the currently reigning Queen, who was Billie Purkey until her marriage this summer to J. D. Ward. She represented Samnorwood in last year's contest.

This is open to the public and all who are interested are invited to be present, according to Buddy Yarborough, Farm Bureau president.

Mrs. Bertha Allison Critically Ill

Mrs. Bertha Allison, formerly of Wellington, is critically ill in a Sanger rest home, her daughter, Mrs. Ruby Murray, has written a friend, Mrs. M. E. Watts.

Mrs. Murray now lives in Mineral Wells.

Mrs. Allison made her home here until about four years ago.

COUNTY GETS NEW FLAG

The Frank King Post of the American Legion presented Collingsworth County with a new American flag to replace one that becoming worn. Here Legionnaire Riley Dunson, fourth from right, gives the flag to County Judge Zook Thomas. Shown participating are Road Administrator Chester White, Commissioner Pat O'Hair; Legionnaire Doyle Stallings, Commissioner W. R. Breeding, Mr. Dunson, Legionnaire John Forbis, Commissioner Melvin Seale, and Judge Thomas.

Loco-Arlie Reunion Features Histories of Early Families

Approximately 50 former and present residents of the Loco and Arlie communities gathered Sunday, Aug. 10 for a day given over to reminiscing and hearing of early residents of that area.

Bill Lockhart of Memphis was master of ceremonies for the noon program, which included brief stories or anecdotes of the communities.

Representing Arlie as traveling farthest to the reunion was teen-ager Barbara Moore of Carthage, who attended with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Masten. Richard Scott of Austin was the former Loco resident coming the greatest distance. Mr. Scott is now assistant manager of a Chevrolet agency in that city.

The oldest former Arlie resident was Mrs. Lena Miller, 84, now at Thomas Nursing Home. She came to the community with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Gus Braunum, and she and a sister attended the first Arlie school walking three miles twice a day.

G. T. Austin, also in his mid-eighties, was the oldest former Loco resident. The former long-time postmaster now lives in Childress. One of the anecdotes told during the lunch concerned him: A stranger, hunting someone in the community, stopped at Mr. Austin's and asked the way to Loco. "If you will take one step forward, you'll be standing in the middle of it," the postmaster is said to have replied.

Musical entertainment was two piano solos by Tammie Lockhart of Memphis; and songs by Stephen and Terry Vassey.

During the business session it was agreed that this year's hosts will serve again in 1970: Miss Bonnie Willis and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lockhart for Loco, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Masten and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wolf of Arlie. Mrs. Pat Bouchelle will serve as secretary again.

Histories of four families were read by Mrs. George Patterson.

W. X. (Uncle Wiley) Hazard was no stranger around Loco when he bought four sections from W. T. Campbell, Sr., in 1911. He had freighted with ox team from Wichita to Clarendon and moved his family to old Salisbury in 1889. He had a store and trading interests. His son, Charlie Hazard, moved his family onto the ranch, and their first child born there died at six weeks of hiccoughs. He was buried in the Stein Graveyard about four miles south of Loco—which most people of the area are not aware of.

Mail at that time was delivered to the Nally home, on the site of the present Lake Sachse house, and lots of visiting took place there.

The handsome 2-story house, built by Mr. Campbell, burned in April 1917.

When the James Gibson family moved to Loco, there was only one teacher in the school, recalled Lee Gibson Bishop of Quail in preparing her family history. The teacher's wife helped by hearing the first grade reading class in the large dug-out nearby, remembers Mildred Gibson.

In 1918, Arlie and Loco schools celebrated July 4 with a picnic and home made ice cream at Buck Creek.

There was no church at Loco, and the Methodists met on Sunday afternoons in the school for services. Later Mr. Gibson gave the land and helped build the Methodist Church. He gave a tent where meetings were held in the summer.

Mrs. Bishop also remembered that the McKinney boys, Wiley and Curtis, were the envy of all boys because they rode donkeys to school; Wesley Herndon was the bronco rider and rode any horse or mule brought to school. Bronco riding was a special feature after school.

The first school motion picture was put on by a couple traveling by wagon. They charged 10 cents to see the show. It was a silent movie, starring William S. Hart in a western. The projector was turned by hand, sometimes a little fast and sometimes a little slow.

G. H. Crawley brought his children to the Loco community in 1909 from Tulsa. A four room half dugout was on the land he bought—the first Loco post office, which was used as a house for a number of families through the years, among them the Will Blaylock family. Mr. Crawley moved to Wellington in 1920 to send his daughter Vada, to school, and the wagons that moved him to town brought back the new furniture of Mr. and Mrs. Reube Crawley, who continued living on the farm until only a few years ago.

Mr. Crawley was elected a trustee of the Loco School in 1910, and he was succeeded by his sons, Edmond Crawley, W. R. Crawley and R. R. Crawley; a son-in-law, J. A. Killian; and grandson, Elvis Crawley, whose term ended in 1944, when the school consolidated with Wellington. There were only three years, 1935-38, when there was not a member of the family on the school board.

In writing the history of the Tom Russell family, who came to Loco in 1908, Coda Russell Bevers said that it seemed any time someone in the community died, her father went for the casket, bringing it by wagon from Quanah or Mangum.

Entertainment in the community was not complete without the music of Mr. Adkins and his children, Mark, Carrie and George, who played musical instruments, and Mrs. Adkins, who had a wonderful voice and did the singing.

Community activities included school plays, which were well attended; Sunday School every Sunday and Church probably twice a month; parties and candy-breakings in the fall and winter.

Because they lived on the highway, they saw nearly everyone who passed between Wellington and Childress.

"It was our pleasure to put up many travelers for the night or dinner, as my father never turned anyone down, and certainly always made them feel welcome. One family en route from Paducah to Pampa stopped with a sick horse. Mr. Russell loaned them one of his own horses so they could continue their trip and he had their horse in good shape when they came back by."

Those who registered for the 1969 Loco-Arlie Reunion were: Leonard McGinnis and Mr. and Mrs. Harold McGinnis of Amarillo; Miss Bonnie Willis; Glenn and Naomi Thompson of Morton; Inez Hagerman of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Masten;

Mrs. Olean Bearden of Carey; Mrs. Delia Bounds of Childress; Mr. and Mrs. George Patterson; W. M. Durefy; Fate Russell of Childress; Virginia

Robey; Clair and Ruth Lawrence of Hollis;

John Masten; Barbara Moore of Carthage; Jenny Bouchelle; Helen Terry Boston, Flo Terry Whitmore, Linda and Doug Whitmore of Lewisville; Mrs. Edna Downing; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lockhart, Tammie and Scott of Memphis;

Floyd Clark; T. P. Belew; J. A. Killian; Miss Doris White; Mrs. Jesse White; Mr. and Mrs. Deskins Wells; John Calcote; Edith Copeland Carter; E. S. Copeland; Miss Nola Beeks; Bob Copeland; Mabel Forbis Clement; Bob Scott; R. L. Scott of Austin; B. J. Scott; J. W. Emmert;

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Crawford; Beulah Clark McGee; Mrs. Charlie Turner; Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Austin of Childress; Mrs. R. R. Crawley; Mrs. W. R. Crawley; Mr. and Mrs. T. Devenport;

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Bouchelle; Loyd King of Littlefield; Mrs. John W. Powell; Mrs. Rufus Jones of Quail; Mrs. E. L. King; Mrs. John Bevers; Mrs. Lena Miller; Mrs. Cecil Lockhart; Claude McKinney; Mickey, Terry, David and Stephen Vassey.

County Men to Hear Farmers Union National President

Panhandle farmers will hear from a national farm leader when Farmers Union President Tony T. Dechant of Denver addresses the annual District 1 Farmers Union banquet which will be held in Panhandle on Monday, Aug. 18.

Farmers Union supports the extension of present commodity programs. Dechant is expected to discuss the farm program battle which is underway in Washington.

Ronald Kotara of Panhandle, who is in charge of arrangements, has announced that food service will begin promptly at 7:30 p.m. and the principal speaker will be heard after the banquet.

According to Carson County Farmers Union president, Edd Hughes of Groom, tickets have been distributed to all District 1 Farmers Union counties and are available through the county officers.

W. R. (Buck) Breeding of Collingsworth County, District 1 Director, urges advance ticket purchases. The Wellington farmer and rancher reports that a large attendance is expected at the banquet and it is important that those wishing to attend purchase their tickets in advance. Breeding listed the following counties as part of District 1 and participating in the Panhandle meeting: Dallam, Hartley, Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Moore, Hemphill, Oldham, Carson, Wheeler, Gray, Deaf Smith, Randall, Armstrong, Donley and Collingsworth.

Other District 1 officers are Joe J. Berg, Amarillo, vice director, and Mrs. Clinton Jackson, Hereford, secretary-treasurer.

BLOOD NUMBERED

Since Social Security numbers are now used to identify blood donors, when any hospital in the United States needs rare blood for a patient, it can be located by the Red Cross.

Jan Blain in Greenbelt Events

Jan Blain of Wellington, 1968 Miss Greenbelt Bowl, will crown her successor during the 20th annual Greenbelt Bowl Football half-time activities in Childress Saturday night, Aug. 16.

There is no nominee from Wellington this year.

Events in which Miss Blain and the queen nominees are due to take part are the soft-drink party and rehearsal Friday at 1:30; the picnic for nominees, players and parents at 6:30; and the formal queen's contest at 8:30.

Miss Blain, a 1968 Wellington High School graduate, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Ward.

Altogether, Wellington has provided more Greenbelt Bowl Queens by far than any other town. They were: 1952, Tanya Smith; 1961, Elaine Yarbrough; 1963, Beverly Singley; 1964, Sammie Thompson, and 1968, Jan Blain.

There have been two each from Amarillo and Wichita Falls and one each from Borger, Lubbock, Quanah, Phillips, Spur, Electra, Big Spring, Panhandle and White Deer.

The 1969 Greenbelt Bowl Game program will be dedicated to the late Keitha Morris, 1967 Queen.

Cologne-Clothing

The next time you get an urge to prolong the fragrant aroma of your cologne by dabbing it on your clothing, remember: cologne and clothing do not mix.

Alcohol in cologne can affect the dye in a garment. In addition, the small amount of oil a cologne contains may cause yellow or brown stains.

So apply cologne to skin, not clothing.

What's New

Frozen orange juice in a carton, a six-pack refrigerated rolls, unique seasoning and low-calorie crackers are being introduced in the food market.

The new cocktail crackers have a third less calories than conventional crackers.

The new seasonings are blue cheese, cheddar cheese and imitation crumbled bacon.

The six-tube packaging of crescent rolls is one food division's response to consumer demand for smaller quantity. Many tubes are sold eight packaged together.

The new carton replacing the can for frozen concentrated orange juice has a film membrane which creates a leak-proof package. The 6-ounce carton requires no mechanical utensils for opening.

Detergents

Confused over which detergents to buy? Today's consumer needs to be mathematician, tester and color expert.

There is a simple solution: buy the cheapest detergent possible.

Carefully and consistently measure it when washing. Use the smallest amount possible which gets good results. Another brand may use less detergent for the same results.

Laundry has a gray cast, the consumer may be using too little detergent. The amount to use depends upon: the degree of soil, water hardness, wash water temperature, and load size.

If clothes have a soapy residue after rinsing, using less detergent may solve the problem.

Directions on detergent packages are based on the minimum amount for normal size load, average soiling and average water hardness. If water is very soft, it may take less than the package recommends. The reverse would be true if water is very hard. Price per ounce is not the entire story to a good buy since detergent is used by the cup, and some brands weigh more a cup than others. High sudsing detergents weigh anywhere from 2½ to 3½ ounces per cup and low sudsing ones weigh 4½ to 5½ ounces per cup.

The matter is even more complicated since it takes more of some detergents than others to do an effective job of cleaning. The specialist explains if one brand costs 4¢ a cup and requires a cup and a half, it will cost you just as much as another brand that sells for 8¢ a cup but only requires three-fourths of a cup.

How Old Are You?

What part of the paper do you read first—the sports, the funnies or the front page? "Men are old if they read the obituaries before they turn to the sports pages, or if they check the menu, and then the waitresses."

An Iowa physician giving advice on staying youthful said: "Stay neat, skinny and cantankerous."

"Keep a youthful mind and thoughts."

"Listen to the new generation."

"Exercise within the limits of your capability."

"Do something."

He also said you are old if you are complacent, if you think you're too old to do something or that the future holds no promise for you.

Pretty good advice. How old are you? Really!

Weekend guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Bawcom were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bawcom of Wickett, and Rev. and Mrs. D. M. Duke of Big Spring.

Their grandchildren, Butch and Sheri Bawcom of Boys Ranch spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. Bawcom while their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bawcom attended a coaching school in Dallas.

Guests in the home of Mrs. Morris Wells this week are her daughters and children, Mrs. Bliss Alexander, Roxanne, Kimberly and Treva of Mulberry, Ark.; and Mrs. Jack Cartwright, Cindy, Karen, Claire and Wade of Midland.

Mrs. Roy Alan Jackson

Leslie Gail Fowler, Alan Jackson Wed in El Paso Ceremony July 12

Miss Leslie Gail Fowler and Roy Alan Jackson exchanged wedding vows Saturday, July 12, in Northside Church of Christ at El Paso.

The parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Fowler of El Paso and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Jackson of Wellington.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white organza and lace over satin. She carried a bouquet of roses and daisies.

Miss Lee Anderson, maid of honor, wore a pale turquoise gown. Bridesmaids were Miss Devon Wall, Miss Karyn Pedersen and Miss Delores Crise. They wore pale yellow gowns of similar design. All carried baskets of yellow and white daisies.

Tracy Butler was flower girl and Ricky Cunyas was ring bearer.

The best man was Stanton Quesenberry, while groomsmen were Price Stanley, Randy Quesenberry and James Bass.

A reception followed in Fellowship Hall. Since returning from their wedding trip to New Mexico, the couple is at home in El Paso, where Mr. Jackson will attend the University of Texas at El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, the bridegroom's parents, attended the ceremony from here.

Mrs. Rainey at Dallas Shower

Mrs. John Rainey attended the bridal shower given in Dallas Wednesday evening, August 6, for Miss Jeanne Macdonald, the fiancée of Jerry Rainey.

Mrs. D. C. Ramsey, Jr., and Mrs. Creighton L. Escoc were the hostesses, and only closest friends were included on the guest list.

Large orange and brown flowers brought from Mexico surrounded a large candle to form the centerpiece of the glass-topped serving table, which ranged from black at the edges to smoke color at center.

I Saw . . . by Virginia Robey

→T. P. Belew, looking through some things recently, found a war-time memento—a V-Mail Easter greeting from his brother, Robert, then in the Navy in the Pacific.

"Easter Greetings from our Island Paradise in the Pacific 1944," read the cartoon type greeting. An Easter bunny sat on a desert island, dripping with rain, reading "Pacific News—Easter Parade Rained Out." T. P. lived in Houston then.

→There is now no one in the county who shoes horses. 4-H Riding Club members and others who keep their mounts shod use Wayne Harris of Childress when he comes over, or they take their horses to Pampa or some other town. And if you are remembering what it cost to shoe a horse 30 years ago, forget it. The price is now $10 to $15 per horse, most of it for labor. Mary Ann Lowe, who knows about such things, says now you seldom find a horse that objects to having shoes put on. They just stand quietly on three legs while the job is done.

→Mrs. Richard Wischekaemper, who was Leona Deger, was here recently from Washington, D.C. Her three sons are always doing something interesting, and now Mike, the youngest, who is in Stanford University Law School at Palo Alto, Calif., is working in a summer intern job with the Transportation Department in Washington this summer. By this means, federal agencies hope to interest bright young men in careers in government. Mike was among the 75 who were selected from 16,000 applicants for an internship.

→Books about outer space and the inner world that were written a hundred years ago are no longer so far out. Bonnie Willis was hunting a copy of Jules Vern's "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea." Don't call to tell her where to get one—she's already found it.

Builders Class Has Luncheon

The Builders Sunday School Class of First Baptist Church met August 7 for the monthly class luncheon and business meeting.

Mrs. L. A. Wall, class president, was in charge of the meeting, and Mrs. N. W. Murray gave the opening prayer.

The program was presented by Mrs. Pete Fast, who told of the missionary tour to other countries made by her and her husband. She also played some selections on the piano.

Special prayer was offered for the forthcoming revival of the church, and the closing prayer was given by Mrs. J. I. Herndon.

Members present included Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Rosco Land, Mrs. Lee C. Vaughan, Mrs. Ruth Wyrick, Mrs. Herndon, Mrs. L. A. Johnson, Mrs. Jack Ball, Mrs. Theo Parker, Mrs. E. W. Carter, and Mrs. Wall.

Guests were Mrs. Fast, Mrs. Ivan Jolly, Mrs. V. J. Simpson and Mrs. Harold Keller.

Visiting recently with Mrs. L. W. McClure were her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dick McClure of Tulare, Calif.

Mrs. Pete Fast Speaks at Club

Mrs. John Henard, Sr., was hostess and Mrs. Louise Vaughan co-hostess at a salad luncheon for members of the Wellington Garden Club Wednesday morning, August 6, in the fellowship hall of First United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Ray Clubb directed the program on preparing flowers for the County Fair and how to arrange them. Members brought flowers and containers and with the assistance of Mrs. J. M. Strong of Strong's Flowers, prepared arrangements.

Mrs. Pete Fast of Houston, a guest, sang "Garden of Prayer" and "I Come to the Garden Alone." She showed pictures of Hawaii, where she and her husband visited recently. Mr. Fast is director of music of a Houston Baptist Church.

She wore a mumu, the traditional dress of Hawaiian women, and a lei, which was made for her by women of a Baptist Church she visited.

Mrs. Vaughan, club president, was in charge and members answered roll call by naming "best flowers for cutting."

Visitors at the luncheon were Mrs. J. B. Stevenson, Mrs. McCarty, Mrs. Fast, and Mrs. Jolley of Albuquerque. Members were Mrs. R. W. Brantley, Mrs. Strong, Mrs. Charles Cason, Mrs. Walter Franks, Mrs. Henard, Mrs. Charley Slay, Mrs. Clubb, Mrs. Coy Vaughan, Mrs. Louise Vaughan, Mrs. Howard Riggs and Mrs. Joe Thompson.

Mrs. W. E. Colson spent the week end in Lubbock with her son and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Colson. Her grandchildren, Marita Ann and Billy Jack returned to spend a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Colson and Darrell. Darrell was a guest Sunday at the Davis reunion in Memphis.

Plans Fort Worth Wedding

The approaching marriage of Miss Linda Marie Gaston of Fort Worth and Lorentz McKay Larsen of Hurst was announced this week by her parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Weldon Leroy Gaston of Wellington.

Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Larsen of 612 Woodcrest, Hurst.

The Rev. Mr. Gaston will officiate at his daughter's wedding Saturday, August 30, in Birdville Baptist Church, Fort Worth.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Memphis High School and attended West Texas State University and Tarrant County Junior College.

Her fiancé is a veteran of the armed services with duty in Vietnam, and is presently attending Tarrant County Junior College.

David Peters Host Dinner

A dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. David Peters Sunday August 10 brought together relatives and close friends of their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Freddy Peters and Janeen of Collingsville, Okla., who were here.

Those visiting in the Peters home were Miss Deborah Peters, David Kendall and Steve Ware of Amarillo; Johnny Carson of Weatherford, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Dabney Peters and granddaughters of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Peters, Susan and Joe; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peters, Laron, Karon and Doris; Mrs. Eugene Morrow and Geney; Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Peters, Mike and Judy; Mrs. Mattie Childress, Mrs. Lucy Bloodworth and H. L. Peters of Wellington.

Card of Thanks

May God bless each of you for sharing our sorrow during the illness and death of our beloved Cynthia. We are grateful for every sympathy and comfort offered us whether it be through words, food, flowers, visits or contributions to various causes. Every gesture will always be remembered and treasured. Especially do we appreciate Dr. Holcomb and Wanda for their tender concern.

We believe the finest people in the world, both young and old, live in our town. We hope Cynthia's friends will always know they have a special place in our home and hearts.

Chances Are 1 to 16 An Accident Will Get You

If you are in a group of 16 friends, whatever their ages, look around you. Chances are that one of you will die from an accident, be it tomorrow, next year or 40 years from now.

Dr. WeDitt Hunt, Oklahoma State University safety specialist reports this after a study of statistics of all causes of deaths and deaths from accidents. It is the law of averages at work.

Look at the figures for yourself. In 1968, the number of persons who died from all causes was 1,863,149; the number who died from accidents was 113,563.

We learn also from the National Safety Council that 50 million people were injured in some type of accident in 1968, ten million of them in "bed disabling accidents."

On this basis, one in every four of us will be injured in an accident this year, and one in 20 will be injured seriously.

These figures seem big, but just remember how many of your friends or co-workers already have been injured to some degree this year.

Accident prevention and safety are synonymous in our day to day lives, and we should take them seriously.

Space By-Products

Even in the rosy arura of success surrounding the moon landing, there are critics who say the U. S. is squandering money on the space effort and that the money could be better used in civilian channels.

Maybe so. But all the money spent on the space project is not wasted, nor is it all confined to military purposes.

There are a number of by-products that have come out of the program.

An extra-safe liferaft has a bucket-type keel that prevents capsizing in rough water and an inner sleeve like a tire tube. If the outer skin is punctured, the sleeve automatically inflates and keeps the craft afloat.

In California, a computer system now tracks down fathers who are behind in their child support payments, and collections rose 70 per cent.

A new navigation system, standard equipment on the new Boeing 747 jumbo jet plane, allows high accuracy navigation without human calculations on board or electronic guidance from the ground. This system uses gyroscopes and computers to fly a pinpoint course.

All of these things came out of the space program and were developed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Added to these things are such practical developments as freeze drying foods, a process that is mushrooming over the country; development of new metal alloys and heat resistant plastics that combine strength with extremely light weight; a wealth of medical research done on astronauts.

Earth satellites are the best known by-product of the space program and allow world wide television communication right now.

Maybe we have gotten something besides glory for the 35 billion spent to put man on the moon.

Postal Reorganization

When President Nixon introduced Winton M. Blount to the nation as his postmaster general, he said he wanted Blount to come up with a new system for moving the mail. This has revived talk of organizing the postal service along the lines of a semi-government corporation which would be self-supporting.

Nobody yet has proved that this sort of reorganization would be successful. Neither has there been any solid estimate of what it would do to postal rates, except that Blount has asked for one cent raise in postage. The immediate need, therefore, is for development of the proposed plan to the point where these and other questions could be answered with more certainty and both Congress and the taxpayers who use the mails could get a better idea of what is involved.

Opposition to the semi-government corporation already has grown strong among the postal workers. They argue through their union that such an operation would sweat economies out of the mail workers and that they would be unable to protect their rights and interests by bringing pressure to bear upon members of Congress.

This is not necessarily the case, however. We have had experience with other semi-government operations, notably the Tennessee Valley Authority, which indicates that they can operate with reasonable rates and good working conditions for their employees.

It is not the form of the service organization as such that determines these matters but rather the form of the legislation that establishes it and the methods spelled out for its operations. To oppose the concept without due consideration for the benefits that could result from the change is shortsighted.

Hasn't Hit 'Em---Yet

AUSTIN.—Water development leaders already are talking about another try with the $3.5 billion water bond authorization in the wake of last week's constitutional amendments elections.

Water bonds — to finance the state's share of the $9 billion Texas water plan — were defeated by only a few thousand votes out of some 700,000 cast.

Meanwhile, say water experts the master plan is not dead. Preliminary negotiations for out-of-state water can continue, and another vote can be scheduled on the bonds in 1971. Hopefully, by then some of the major objections will be resolved.

Texans, in the amendments election, solved one of the state's pressing problems, for the time being at any rate. They voted nearly 2-to-1 in favor of raising the welfare aid ceiling $20 million a year, to $80 million. This will get aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) payments back to par, and save off any more cuts in the near future.

Voters also favored issuing $200 million more in college student loan bonds to continue the Texas Opportunity Plan of aid to needy youngsters bent on higher education.

Elimination of deadwood from the state constitution met with strong favor. So did payments to survivors of volunteer firemen, reserve or auxiliary police and other state or local government employees killed in line of hazardous duty.

On the other hand, voters were antagonistic toward four other proposed amendments on the Aug. 5 ballot.

They overwhelmingly rejected pay raises for state legislators and annual sessions of the legislature.

They disapproved property tax exemptions for non-profit water supply corporations by a fairly strong margin and narrowly rejected lifting the constitutional interest rate on state bonds.

Defeat of the annual sessions amendment put an end to the hopes of many legislators that another single-year, no-tax state budget can be passed in the current special session and accepted by Gov. Preston Smith.

Tax Bill to Senate

Now it's the Senate's week to wrestle with the tax bill.

House passed its $341 million version of revenue raising to balance a biennial budget and sent it across the rotunda. From comments, it is an overstatement to say senators don't like it, but hearings are under way in an attempt to come up with an acceptable compromise — and that won't be easy.

Here is what the House bill does (all levies effective Jan. 1):

—Raises the sales tax rate from 3% to 3½%.

—Boosts the cigarette tax 5¢ a pack, to 16¢.

—Launches a new 3½% tax on telephone and telegraph, auto repairs, appliance (except washing machines, dryers and refrigerators) and jewelry repairs, parking, laundry and dry cleaning (except self-service coin-operated) and professional entertainment services. (Included in the latter would be admission charges to professional athletic contests, night clubs, dance halls, amusements parks and scenic attractions.)

—Levies a 10¢ transactions tax on each sale or purchase of stocks, bonds, warrants, and other securities, with few exceptions.

—Cuts the gross receipts tax on telephone and telegraph companies from 2½% to 1.9% (which would reduce the industry's direct taxes about $5.7 million per biennial fiscal period.)

City officials are angry because, while new sales and service taxes would be levied at 4½% rate in those municipalities which levy local option sales tax, they would get none of the added revenue.

One thing seems certain: what comes out of the Senate is unlikely to bear much resemblance to what came over from the House.

semblance to what came over from the House.

Loan Bonds Sold

First $14 million in new college student loan fund bonds were sold here last week.

First National City Bank of New York and Associates was successful bidder at a net effective interest rate of 5.4162%.

Announcement came from Tom Sealy of Midland, chairman of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System. The Board administers the pro-

CROSSROADS REPORT

It comes as some disappointment to find our Mars-bugging cameras showing that planet ain't either populated by little green men who are vastly smarter than us Earth people.

This wrecks the hopes we had of finding people on Mars who could tell us how to get ourselves out of this general mess we have got the Earth into.

From the seared and desolate mess of wasteland and craters that Mars pictures show, it could be that the planet was once populated with people like us except for being somewhat ahead of us scientifically, so that they have already held their atomic war.

gram.

Bonds will be formally authorized and awarded to the purchaser at the meeting of the Coordinating Board on Sept. 2. Funds will be available for fall semester loans. About 36,000 needy Texas resident students have benefited from a total of nearly 100,000 loans since the program went into operation in 1966.

Hospital Aid Cut Looms

Texas hospitals got warning from Texas health authorities that federal building funds may be sharply curtailed under the White House budget proposals.

Twenty-eight Texas applicants for Hill-Burton hospital construction aid were notified that the State Health Department received a tentative allocation indicating a "drastic reduction" in U.S. money for the state.

Tentative allotment is reportedly about $2.1 million for general construction and $689,000 for modernization of Texas hospitals in 1970. About $1 million would go to public health centers, according to health officials who said they hope Congress will raise White House recommendations. About $8 million was allotted Texas for general construction this year and $2 million for modernization.

Food-Medical Grant Approved

A $474,000 emergency food and medical services grant has been awarded Texas Office of Economic Opportunity and approved by Gov. Smith.

Program will start Sept. 1 to supplement the existing commodity distribution program for 71,000 Texas families. It will operate in 26 counties with the highest percentages of poor.

Outreach, basic food stuffs and medical services will be used to counteract conditions of starvation and malnutrition among poor.

These counties will benefit directly: Austin, Burleson, Caldwell, De Witt, Falls, Fayette, Freestone, Goliad, Gonzales, Grimes, Houston, Lavaca, Lee, Leon, Limestone, Madison, Milam, Newton, Orange, San Jacinto, Trinity, Tyler, Upshur, Walker, Waller and Washington.

'Treasure' Returns

Last of the material recovered from the Spanish galleon sunk off Padre Island arrived at the Texas Memorial Museum in Austin Wednesday night from Gary, Ind.

It may be a while before inventory committee gets through with its checking of the material. Gaylord Armstrong, law partner of former U.S. Rep. Joe Kilgore (one of the inventors), said that the inventory lists and the artifacts seem to tally pretty well, but the committee will have to go through step-by-step, piece-by-piece, to make sure. Nobody is sure when that check will be made, since Kilgore is on vacation — on Padre Island — and Dr. W. W. India Cannot Be Pictured, It Must Be Experienced

(Jay Wischkaemper is working this summer with a group of Church of Christ college men among the villagers near Madras, India. The Wellington church is one of those supporting the project. Below is a letter which Wischkaemper has written cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Bobo Castleberry.)

By JAY WISCHKAEMPER

In the first place, it ain't America.

There are now 532,000,000 people here and there is no place you can go and very rarely any place you can look that there aren't people. You can drive down the road and there is a constant stream of people going both directions. The traffic situation here in Madras is something else. The traffic consists of cattle, people, bicycles, oxcarts, motorcycles, cars and busses. The way we drive is to shut our eyes, honk the horn, hit the gas and pray. People step out into the street without looking either direction. You just honk your horn at them, they move, and everybody is happy. You never look back.

If someone is behind you, they honk their horn and you move, but if you took your eyes off the front, you'd possibly hit someone.

The main problem with India is that it's about 103 years, two months, 17 days, 5 hours and 12 minutes behind the rest of the world. Most of the cars and trucks on the road are at least 15 years old. One of the main methods of getting around for long distances is the train. The railroads still use the old steam engines that were used in the States during the late 1900's. There is no such thing as television. There are radio stations, but few people can afford a radio. 99% of the farmers still plow with oxen or water buffalos. The only kind of milk you can get, incidentally, is buffalo milk, because the Hindus consider the cow sacred.

The highways are about as wide as one lane of our farm to market roads, which gets interesting when you meet a bus. The top speed is 45 mph, but you're lucky if conditions will let you get that fast. Of course, even out on the main highways, you have about twice as many oxcarts as there are cars.

The main food here is rice. Most of the Indians eat it three usually one room, and have thatched roofs. There is usually no furniture in the houses. These people are just as at home on the floor as they are in a chair. They sleep on mats on the floor. There is no silverware in the houses. All the food is eaten with their hands. We took our interpreters to the Commemara Hotel there in town the other night and fed them a steak and they didn't even know how to use a knife and fork. One of them even has a college education.

Prices are either cheap or high, depending on what you're buying. Most of the people are very poor, so the basic things must be cheap for them to afford it. For instance, $50 a month is good pay for nearly anybody here, and many of the coolies (laborers) live on as little as $10 per month. Some of our preachers live on even less than that.

Rice is pretty cheap and fresh vegetables aren't bad, but canned foods are atrociously high by Indian standards. Of course, they're not too much higher than in the states. We have allowed ourselves $10 a week for personal expenses, and on that much money we can live like kings by their standards. I don't know what I'm going to do when I get back to the States and start having to live like a poor kid again.

There is really no way to describe this place on paper, and even slides cannot adequately portray the situation as it really is, because pictures only represent one sense. You still can't smell it or hear it and really you can't even see it like you need to be able to get the complete impression of the country.

Actually, the situation isn't as bad as it is just plain challenging, and I'm really enjoying my time here.

Homer G. Garrison, Jr., director of the Department of Public Safety, has been selected the honorary state fund raising chairman.

On Payments For Insecticides

In other years the Chemical Companies selling insecticides carried THEIR Customers until Fall and we were able to extend credit to our customers on the same basis.

This year, however, the Chemical companies have instituted a credit policy of payment on the 1st of the month for all purchases made during the preceding month.

As a result the officers and directors of The Farmers Co-Op Gin find it necessary to ask for payment of all insecticides on the 1st of the month following purchase.

Your cooperation in observing this payment date will be appreciated and will enable this gin to continue to handle insecticides in ample quantities for the protection of the crops of our customers.

Men In Service

Al/c Calvin Wendell Thomas left Sunday, July 10, for a new assignment with the Air Force in England, after 10 days leave with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thomas.

Thomas, 23, entered the Air Force Jan. 24, 1969, and took his basic training at Lackland AFB, San Antonio, followed by technical training in Biloxi, Miss. He is classified as an administrative specialist.

He attended Wellington High School before entering the Job Corps, assigned to Randle Washington, where he completed high school.

He then worked for the Forest Service at Vancouver, Wash. in the administrative section and attended college night classes for a year and a half. His enlistment is for four years.

Thomas likes the Air Force. "I think it's one of the greatest things in America," he declared.

A LOOK ALONG THE NILE

Van Bonneau, Church of Christ Minister at Dodson, used one of the oldest means of transportation when he visited the Pyramids and Sphinx out of Cairo, Egypt.

Van Bonneau

Jerusalem High Point of Middle East Trip

Van Bonneau, Church of Christ minister at Dodson, returned Friday, Aug. 8 from a two-weeks tour of the Near East as part of the Christian Sojourn to Europe and the Bible Lands.

He came home keenly interested in many things, especially what he saw in Israel, but proudest of all, he said, to set foot again on American soil.

The group saw no signs of hostilities between Israel and the Arab countries, but they could feel the deep bitterness that exists, Mr. Bonneau said.

And in all countries they visited, people went out of their way to be nice, he added.

"I had travelers checks with me, but I didn't need to cash a one, as they announced they would cash our personal checks," the minister continued.

Cairo was their first stop, and here they went down the Nile to tour the Pyramids of Giza and the Sphinx—on camel back at that!

Their next stop was at Beerut, where they took a side trip to Baalbek, city of the pagan god Baal, and the Temple of Jupiter.

But Jerusalem was the high point of the entire trip!

They visited the shrines of the Christian Faith in Old Jerusalem, then went outside to the Sea of Galilee. They visited the site where the Dead Sea Scrolls were found.

Many more have been found since the first and best known were discovered only a few years ago, Mr. Bonneau said, and archeologists are still excavating in the many caves that honeycomb the cliffs. All of these were occupied by religious groups of the early Christian era, whose writings add even more confirmation to the writings of the Bible.

These caves are presently off limits to tourists, but Mr. Bonneau and others of his group were taken into one similar to that where the first scrolls were found, but much easier reached.

In Jerusalem they saw the modern new glass and steel museum built to house the scrolls.

Looking across to Mt. Nebo, where the Bible tells that Moses was taken into heaven, Mr. Bonneau discussed with his guide the archeological work now being done in an effort to find any remains of Moses. The tents of workers dot the area.

Early Sunday morning, ahead of the tourists, the group held worship services in the Garden of the Tomb, in front of the open tomb.

Covered over since Roman times, the tomb was rediscovered only within the last century, Mr. Bonneau said, and findings since then confirm as nearly as it is possible to do, that this is indeed the tomb of Christ.

Modern Jerusalem is a beautiful city, said the visitor; the buildings spread over the hillside, all in similar designs of glass and steel.

Mr. Bonneau's tour group had one day in Athens and one in Corinth before going on to Rome, the last stop before returning home.

ANCIENT ROMAN BANKS

An ancient Roman bank consisted of a large, solidly constructed apartment. The money changer sat on a high stool. Coins were spread out before him behind a bronze mesh screen.

His clients entered from the porticos in front. Perhaps one client was a lawyer depositing a fee won in the Forum. Of it might have been a young patrician on his way to the circus. He would draw a thousand restatit to bet on his favorite gladiator. Even a Thessalian slave could enter. He would add to a growing sum for purchasing his freedom.

Ancient Roman bankers were not merely money-changers.

Their daily routine included: opening accounts, receipt of deposits, issuing bills of exchange, making loans, and purchasing mortgages.

25th Celebration

Boys Ranch Slates Labor Day Rodeo

The biggest Labor Day event of the Texas Panhandle is expected to attract a record crowd when the nearly 350 boys of Cal Farley's Boys Ranch celebrate the silver anniversary of the annual Boys Ranch Rodeo.

More than 100 of the boys will compete under R.C.A. rules in the riding contests that will be held on Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 at 2:30 p.m. each day. Considered the only one of its kind in the nation, the rodeo was witnessed by approximately 10,000 people in 1968. Among those attending this year will be many of the Ranch's former boys and their families, who will have a reserved section in the rodeo arena.

Other rodeo highlights will be the presentation of trophies to the Senior and Junior All-Around Cowboys, the crowning of a queen, and the appearance of the Boys Ranch Marching Band.

Each of the Ranch's boys will have some part in the rodeo. Those not appearing as contestants will be in specialty acts, park cars, sell soft drinks and pop corn, or help with the numerous jobs connected with the rodeo production. Giant-size barbecue beef sandwiches will be sold to visitors who arrive early.

Tickets for the two rodeo performances may be obtained in advance at the Boys Ranch office, P.O. Box 1890, Amarillo, Texas, or by calling 372-2341. Reserved box seats are $2.50, and general admission is $1.50. Children and servicemen in uniform will be admitted for 75¢.

Implied Consent Law Will Help Combat Drunk Drivers

Part 2 of 5 Parts

AUSTIN.—Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, said today that the State's new implied consent law which becomes effective Sept. 1, 1969, gives law enforcement a much needed weapon to combat drunk drivers.

"Depending on area, drinking drivers figure in 40 to 50 percent of the fatal rural traffic accidents in Texas," Speir said. "This is especially significant when you consider that traffic mishaps claimed 3,481 lives in the state last year."

Under the terms of this law, a motorist is "deemed to have given consent" to a breath test if arrested for any alleged offense arising out of his actual operation or physical control of a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

If the suspect refuses the breath test, the officer certifies this fact in an affidavit, together with his probable cause for stopping the person, to the Department of Public Safety. This affidavit, when it reaches the DPS, forms the basis for a petition filed by the Department in the corporation or justice court of the county of residence of the person refusing the test to determine if the officer had probable cause for thinking the person was driving while intoxicated.

Should the judge find the officer had probable cause to arrest the person for driving while intoxicated, the Department of Public Safety, acting on the court's finding and the officer's sworn statement that the subject refused the test, suspends the subject's driver license for the period set by the judge. The suspension, which may run for as much as one year, is subject to appeal to a higher court.

The implied consent law allows the person detained the right to have a test of his blood alcohol taken by his own physician, qualified technician, chemist or registered professional nurse, if taken within two hours after his arrest.

The law also places responsibility with the Texas Department of Public Safety to certify breath testing equipment and persons authorized to administer breath tests.

Consistent with its policy of assisting local authorities whenever possible, the DPS will offer at least three schools to train city and county officers in operation of the Breathalyzer. These schools, which will be conducted at the Law Enforcement Academy in Austin, will be limited in enrollment to key personnel from localities which now possess, or plan to obtain, breath testing equipment.

Currently the DPS is utilizing breath testing equipment in a voluntary program. The Breathalyzer instruments are located at central points in some 90 counties, and are operated by DPS officers who have completed an intensive training course. The instruments are checked and serviced weekly by qualified DPS chemists.

"With the advent of the new law, we hope to obtain at least one breath testing instrument for each county, and plan to train personnel in their operation," Speir noted.

Estes Connally Tech Graduate

William P. Estes received an Associate Degree of Applied Science in dental laboratory technology at the commencement exercises at James Connally Technical Institute in Waco on Aug. 7.

He was a High Honor Graduate, a distinction which went to only four out of the 227 graduates. He was also the only high honor graduate in the two-year program, the other three being in one year programs.

Through the entire two years, Estes was on the Director's Honor Roll, which has as prerequisite a 3.0 grade point average out of a possible 4.0.

For the 1968-69 school year, he received a $500 scholarship from the American Fund for Dental Education.

William P. Estes

Estes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Estes and was graduated from Wellington High School in 1961.

He, his wife, Alcie, and their small son, Paul, will live in Wellington, making their home at 1703 East Avenue.

Speaker for the commencement was E. D. Redding, assistant to the president of Brown and Root, Inc. Aside from his business duties, he is chairman of the 21-member governor's advisory committee for vocational and technical education in Texas.

Dean Norris Webb presented the certification of the graduates, and Dr. Roy W. Dugger, director of James Connally Technical Institute, conferred diplomas for graduates of the two-year technology programs and certificates for those completing one-year vocational programs.

The school will begin its fourth full year of operation Sept. 2. Through an act by the 61st Texas Legislature, James Connally Technical Institute will be known after Sept. 1 as Fight the price/cost squeeze on your wheat with NITROMITE, Shamrock's fine brand of anhydrous ammonia.

A preplant application of NITROMITE speeds early growth, producing lush, high-quality forage (and plenty of it!)—an important factor if you plan to graze cattle this winter.

And the cash crop? NITROMITE delivers the most usable nitrogen per dollar to help increase yields without increasing cost appreciably. So come harvest, even if prices are low, you make out. If they're good, you'll be the big winner.

Put down NITROMITE now. It'll give you a fighting chance in the marketplace.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

How tall can a man stand—how low can he sink! This week we have read the inspiring story of the three astronauts who have finished their quarantine and are now being honored by an admiring nation. On the front pages of the dailies this same week was the story of the macabre slaying of an actress, an heiress and three men in California and any number of others that were equally sordid.

There was another story on the front pages that was neither exalting nor sickening. It was ludicrous. This was Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler's tale about pirates plundering the sunken Spanish galleons off the Gulf Coast. It was ridiculous; but it did call attention to the important state offices such as Land Commissioner, Commissioner of Agriculture and others to which the voters and taxpayers pay no attention even in election years. As a result men like Jerry Sadler and John C. White stay in office year after year when as a matter of fact these old political horses should have been turned out to pasture years ago.

It makes you wonder if it would not be better to have the Governor appoint such officials. We do pay attention to electing our head official and the character of the men he appoints. It might be too much power in the hands of one man; but the situation is not good. As it is such men as Sadler, White, etc., are neither elected nor appointed. After their first election, they continue to ooze into office beneath the muddy flood of voter indifference.

Plans for the Collingsworth County Free Fair are moving along smoothly according to Bill Moseley who heads the fair this year. Arrangements have been made for a carnival and the catalogs will be out in the near future. This year the fair will be later than usual—October 13 to 18. There is nothing like a county fair to bring a whole community together in a common effort.

Considerable remodeling has been done and is underway on the east side of the square; but it is only the beginning of what is planned for the next few months. John Sherman plans to move his business to his building that is now occupied by Town & Country and it is understood that the rebuilding will include the buildings from The Toggery to Sam Adams hardware store.

The other evening after attending a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce I drove by Cecil Browning's shoe shop and observed all the lights were on. I thought people must be getting their children's shoes ready for school. Asked Cecil about it the next morning. He was behind on repair work; but it was not children's shoes that had caused him to fall behind. It was men's work boots and he says this is unusual at this time of the year and especially in this hot weather. There was a sprinkling of ladies and children's shoes in the shop; but the main cause of him being behind was some ten or twelve pairs of boots and one saddle.

While Browning stays that busy it is not the case with every cobbler. He was telling me of one in another town, who has taken a job as a plumber's helper in order to supplement his income. There must be a difference in the manner in which they do their work. Cecil owns his business and will make the last payment on it next year, and he intends to remodel his place as soon as the final payment is made.

Steve Owens was joshing me about driving down East Avenue and seeing an old man mowing his lawn at 5:30 in the morning. Like many people, however, Steve talked too long. I learned that he went out in the broiling sun the day before to change irrigation pipe and came near suffering heat prostration. At least I was doing my thing in the cool of the morning before the sun came up.

You are missing the most beautiful part of the day if you are not up before the sun rises these summer mornings. The birds are singing, there is dew on the watered lawns and the temperature is a pleasing 72 to 74 degrees. And Charlie Caldwell says the cotton is holding up well. He says the early

Dianne Moseley Tech Graduate

Dianne Moseley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Moseley of Quitaque, formerly of Quail, will receive the Bachelor of Science degree from Texas Technological College Saturday, Aug. 23, with a major in elementary education and minor in speech. The commencement will be at 7:30.

Dianne was on the production staff in dramatics at the Tech Theatre and taught creative dramatics at Roscoe Wilson Elementary School.

She also taught in Headstart program at Wheatley Elementary School and did her student teaching in Walter Posey Elementary School. It was her choice to teach where there was a large number of disadvantaged children.

Dianne is a member of the Texas Tech Teachers Association, National Educators Association and the Association for Childhood Education. She has been listed on the Dean's Honor Roll several semesters.

She was graduated from Quail High School in 1965.

Next year she will teach in the Hereford Independent School District, with a fourth-grade assignment. Her principal will be Charles Duvall, a former coach and teacher at Quail.

Mr. and Mrs. Duvall began their teaching careers in 1950 at Quail, where Dianne's father was superintendent.

6 Starters

Rocket fans are welcome to come and watch, but Coach Amonett has asked that they stay off the playing field.

Coaching assignments will be the same as last year: Amonett is head coach and Dick Hamilton and Jim Forrester are his assistants. James Stavenhagen will be in charge of the B teams and Carroll Nunneley the junior high team.

The Skyrockets open against Hollis there on Sept. 12 and play their first home game with Wheeler Sept. 19.

Other games include: Friday, Sept. 26, Gruver here. Friday, Oct. 3, Iowa Park there.

Friday, Oct. 10, Electra here. Friday, Oct. 17, Seymour here.

Friday, Oct. 24, Shamrock there.

It is expected to be about the same as last year, when the total was $3,837,000.

The council members also discussed annexation of the addition developed by Leslie Moore at the southwest edge of town.

Legal work will probably be completed and the tract annexed at the next council meeting, Mayor Coleman said. This is an all-residential area.

The mayor also reported on construction progress of the city's sewage disposal system.

One lagoon is completed, and two more will be built before construction is completed. The three will cover a total of 15 acres. The mayor appeared pleased with the progress that is being made.

The work is being done by Calvin Raney of Erick, Okla., who got the contract on a low bid of $30,923.

The present sewage disposal system has been in use since 1927.

West Moves to Pampa

Mr. and Mrs. Oris West have moved from Amarillo to Pampa, where he is district supervisor for Universal Life and Accident Insurance Company.

This was similar to his work in Amarillo, but his territory now includes Borger, Pampa, Clarendon, Childress, Memphis and Wellington.

The couple and their son, Randy, moved from here earlier in the year.

Duck Outlook Bright in '69

AUSTIN.—Reports from Canada by Ducks Unlimited indicate the possibility of a good duck season this year.

The private conservation organization says although rainfall has been below average this year in the nesting areas, below average temperatures have held evaporation of potholes to a minimum.

"It now appears that we are looking at the most successful breeding season since 1952," says DU. "The performance of the early nesters has been nothing less than spectacular, and with secure water there is no reason why the later-nesting species and renesters won't do well."

Bloodmobile

A private blood bank—that is one which is operated for profit—would pay the same laboratory fee, plus the cost of the blood.

The urgency for all eligible citizens to participate in this drive was underscored by Mr. Nunneley when he pointed out that the county has fewer people in the age bracket to give blood than it has ever had.

There is a higher percentage than ever in the older age bracket, who during their illnesses need more blood transfusions.

Modern medicine demands the use of more blood in treating injury and illness.

St. Joseph's receives from the Red Cross Blood Center not only whole blood, but plasma, packed red blood cells, and any other needed blood derivative.

Ward's Agency Observes 3rd Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John Sherman are observing their third anniversary as operators of the Montgomery Ward Catalog Sales Agency in Wellington this week with a special promotion in observance to the birthday.

Sometime after the first of the year, the Shermans intend to move the Catalog Sales Agency from its present location on the south side of the square to the 50-foot building they own on the east side of the square. This is now occupied by Town & Country.

"We intend to remodel the building entirely," Mr. Sherman said, "and it will be one of the most modern buildings in town."

"We are greatly pleased with the business we have received since opening the Catalog Sales Agency and intend to enlarge our floor space so that we can display more merchandise, particularly appliances, on the floor," Mr. Sherman said.

Knowing how to revive a drowning swimmer may some day save the life of a loved one.

Veterans in College Asked to Return Certification

The Veterans Administration is as anxious as the veteran to have GI education checks arrive on time this fall, Jack Coker, manager of the VA Regional Office in Waco said today.

Judging from experience going back a quarter of a century through three GI Bills, the VA manager said the number of delays would be reduced drastically if veterans and schools did their part of the required paper work—and did it on time.

Hunting, Fishing Licenses Due

AUSTIN.—The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department shipped two million licenses for the 1969-70 season Sunday, Aug. 10 according to C. L. Friou, assistant director of administrative services for the department.

The licenses will be mailed to more than 3,200 license sales agents which includes most hardware and sporting goods stores, about one-half of Texas' county clerks, and all of the department's regional, district, and field offices. Game management officers for the Department will receive a minimum supply.

The initial shipment will contain 730,000 resident hunting licenses, and 900,000 fishing licenses with a total face value of $4.4 million. There will be 23 types of licenses in the shipment.

Basically there is little change in the new licenses. The cost and general appearance are the same except for the color and dates. Three new types of licenses were added by the 61st Legislature — fish farm, fish farm vehicle, and salt water trotline licenses.
