WALL STREET
NEW YORK April 4.—The stock market drifted aimlessly today on small volume and near the close most rail and industrial leaders were slightly lower.
A few rubbers, oils, copper and specialties recorded minor gains. Dealing totaled around 500,000 shares, making it one of the slowest sessions since last September.
Such pivots as U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Westinghouse and Johns-Manville were in lower ground most of the session. North American, Kennecott, American Can, International Nickel, Texas Co. and Great Northern had support at slightly improved levels.

agencies in Washington (including Clinton Anderson), specifically recommended the gradual removal of all subsidies over a period of months and a wide variance between the ceilings on top grades of wholesale beef and the lower grades.
The local rancher explained that this actually means that the ceiling on A and AA grades of wholesale beef needs to be revised upward to a point that will provide the feeder with a margin of profit and therefore with an incentive to feed cattle.

"A raise in live ceilings," Hobart said, "with no change in the wholesale price, would mean nothing to the feeder as the packer, with very few exceptions, is not now paying even close to the present ceiling price."

The Pampa News carried an interview with Hobart, in which the facts of the Cattle and Beef Industry committee report were correctly given.

prisoners yesterday, bringing the 34-day bag to 63,406 for the Third army alone.

The Germans conceded that the last-ditch battle for Vienna was at hand as Malinovsky's troops to the east advanced eight to ten miles north and west of Bratislava on a 100-mile front. Far to the south, other Russians, with Bulgarian units, drove the last Germans from Hungarian soil and battled between Graz and Maribor, 36 miles inside Yugoslavia and 78 miles east of the Italian frontier.

In Italy, British troops consolidated their positions in the narrow coastal spit between the Valli di Comacchio and the Adriatic and stabbed northward against rising opposition. They were close to Porto Garibaldi, but the exact extent of the drive was not disclosed. The remainder of the front was generally quiet.

self on the ground without sled of landing by a glide but coming in a cornfield the airship cap-sized breaking itself in three pieces casting the pilot out of the cabin.

"In his fall, he violently knocked against the cross-bar of the cabin that caused the fracture of the neck and vertebral column, the death was at once and the body found far many meters from the piece of the airship on fire. (Mrs. Austin said it was a great relief to her that her son's body was not burned.)

"Germanymen being there took the papers and jewels saying at the time that they gave them to family by Red Cross. I had the body after 20 hours of discussion.

"By 'jewels' he meant the Air Medal with four Bronze and one Silver Stars, a wedding ring and a wrist watch. The family never received them.

"Placed in a casket in a coffin that is under accumulation of flowers that the ceremony was celebrated at the church before a great number of persons come from all the countries despite the presence of the boches.

"If this letter come to you, from your answer I shall send photographs made during ceremony for you and also airman's insignia.

"You will be amiable (you will please) to make the necessary near at family (notify family) and inform her (evidently Mrs. Austin) as soon as the transports permit she will be able to take possession of body if she desires.

"Let me give you, Master Lord Mayor, the certitude of my best sentiments." (His signature was not legible.)

Captain Austin's widow now resides in Hartford Connecticut. He went overseas in October, 1943, and had not seen his family between then and the time of his death. He was at first reported missing in action.

The mayor of the French city evidently did not know Capt. Austin's parents' name and so addressed the letter as he did. Skellytown has no mayor.

cabinet crisis. (See Column 5.) The pact was signed in April, 1941, and whether Russia would denounce it before the opening of the world security conference at San Francisco April 25 had been a subject of speculation.

The Soviet note emphasized at the outset that "the pact of neutrality between the Soviet Union and Japan was concluded on April 13, 1941—that is before the attack by Germany on the U.S.S.R., and before the outbreak of war between Japan on the one hand and Great Britain and the United States on the other.

"Since that time the situation has radically changed," the note said. "Germany attacked the U.S.S.R., and Japan—Germany's ally—helps the latter in her war against the U.S.S.R."

The treaty ordinarily would have run until April, 1946.

The Moscow announcement said Japan's Ambassador Naotake Sato had "promised to bring the declaration of the Soviet government to the attention of the Japanese government."

There was no indication in the Moscow announcement of Russia's intentions in future relations with Japan. However, Premier Marshal Stalin has publicly described Japan as "an aggressive nation."

powerful administration will be formed and the choice fell on the aged Suzuki after the emperor had consulted the elder statesmen of the empire.

Suzuki had been in semi-retirement for eight years prior to his appointment as president of the privy council last August 10.

The pre-war years Admiral Suzuki was considered one of Japan's moderate statesmen and an opponent of the extreme army clique's aggressive adventures. He was seriously wounded in the Tokyo army revolt of Feb. 26, 1936, when he held the post of Lord Chamberlain.

(The young officers who led that revolt held Suzuki was counseling moderation on the emperor. Several invaded his home and he received several sword cuts, so severe that for a time his life was despaired of.)

(Many close students of Japanese affairs predicted that the next change in the Japanese government would fall into power some "moderate" who might offer peace gestures to the United States and the Allies.)

LOS ANGELES.—(AP)—While taking a walk with his mistress, Mrs. E. H. James, a dog named Toby, ran into a vacant lot and began digging furiously.

After awhile Toby uncovered a jewel box, which was found to contain 14 slim platinum tubes. Mrs. James' husband, having read the offices of Dr. William F. Robinson, telephoned the physician, who identified Toby's find as the missing element.

Hoofed Veterans Prove Themselves

By LEWIS HAWKINS
(Sub. for Kenneth L. Dixon)

WITH THE U. S. SEVENTH ARMY, (P)—After weeks of fighting in the rugged, wooded Harz mountains, the 42nd tank divisions nickname should be changed from "rainbow division" to "rainbow mountain division" or perhaps "rainbow mule division."

About 150 battalions helped fight the war up and down the roller-coaster slopes and these four-footed veterans of Italian campaigns sold themselves to their new chauffeurs.

Pvt. Charlie Avaz from Russellville, Ark., where mules are mules, said, "Jocko is a fine mule—gentlest animal I ever ran across."

Pfc. Raymond Johnson handled horses and mules back on his farm home near Natoma, Kas., but he never had to maneuver the critters on the perpendicular before and lamented, "It's just about impossible to keep their packs on going up some of these straight-up slopes."

Members of the kitchen crew of "I" company in the 157th infantry surprised Sgt. Zeke Jones of Tatum, N. M., with a birthday cake and a party the next day.

"And I really was surprised," said

Zeke, "because my birthday isn't until late next fall."

"G" and "H" companies of the Third division's Seventh regiment wanted to have plenty of girls so that each man could have a dancing partner, but it's difficult in small French towns to get that many girls out at night.

Co. company commanders Lt. Eugene Bacon of Memphis, Tenn., and Lt. Clarence Grant of Minneapolis, Minn., had the town enter announce the big event in the courthouse and invite everyone.

Sgt. Leonard Scardinia of Springfield, Ohio, and Henry Himmerick of Rogers, N. D., rustled up plenty of chow and Sgt. Mike Kusniak of upper Middletown, Pa., and Clet Clark of Litchfield, Ky., baked 2,000 doughnuts. Word of these preparations spread around.

On the big night the infantrymen found plenty of girls there—plus most of the town's mamas and papas, grandmothers and grandfathers, baby sisters and brothers, and a few dogs and cats.

It wasn't just the way the boys had figured it but a good time was had by all.

Diseases May Become Serious

AUSTIN, April 5—With the incidence of chickenpox and mumps more than 50 percent higher than records indicate for a seven year median, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, issued a statement today declaring, "It is a great mistake to treat even light cases of measles, chickenpox, mumps, scarlet fever, or any other of the communicable diseases of childhood as though they did not amount to much. That sort of treatment makes it possible for these diseases to spread and cause serious outbreaks among children and their resulting impaired resistance makes them easy victims to other forms of infection."

"Some of the most serious outbreaks of chickenpox which we have had, have been traced to mild cases—that is, to cases too light for the doctor to be called. In some instances the children have continued to go to school and to associate and play with other children. In others, after they have been kept at home for a few days, they have returned to school and have scattered these germs around among their schoolmates. Eventually a group of cases—sometimes very serious ones—have developed from the carelessly-handled mild case. The result was another epidemic that could have been prevented."

Employment

A guaranteed annual wage for industrial workers is one of the most valuable and desirable forms of social security. Without it, fear of periodic unemployment remains constantly with the worker. He finds it difficult, if not impossible, to budget his earnings and maintain a stable standard of living, or plan for the future.

Yet millions of workers and their families are without this security, as their fathers and grandfathers were. Their demands for a guaranteed wage have been growing, however, and have now reached the point of government action. At the President's suggestion, the advisory committee of the office of war mobilization and reconversion has appointed a subcommittee from industry, labor, agriculture and commerce to investigate the subject.

It is a difficult and complicated subject, and nobody should expect the subcommittee to turn up shortly with the blueprint of a national program that will satisfy everybody. But at least its members can acquaint the government and the public with the history of guaranteed wage plans to date, and can straighten out some misconceptions.

The war labor board estimates that there are 50 or 60 such plans now in successful operation, mostly in the cottonseed, oilseed, field, many other industries have tried similar plans, and failed. It will be valuable to have a detailed evaluation of these successes and failures, and learn the extent to which they were affected by the nature of an industry's product and the operation of its guaranteed wage plan, and the amount of sincere co-operation by both management and labor.

It is improbable that an assured annual income for workers is possible in every industry. But such a guarantee should be made wherever possible, and the idea should be hard to sell, since the resulting increase in prosperity and purchasing power is as important to industry as it is to the worker.

But the technique of putting the idea to work promises to be a harder nut to crack. For, as already been pointed out, compulsory legislation which included subsidies to cover any losses might put government in partnership with industry on a large scale. This could seriously hamper freedom of collective bargaining and other labor rights, as well as free enterprise.

However, the difficulty of avoiding such a pitfall should not be insurmountable. And the possibility of encountering it should not discourage the first step toward an important objective of our ultimate postwar goal—an economy not only of full employment, but of steady and secure employment, with wages adequate to support what we like to call "the American way of life."

POLITICAL PARADE
(California Feature Service)

By Clem Whitaker
What does the patient get for his money—and what does the doctor get—under Great Britain's system of compulsory health insurance?

The answer to that double-headed question, which is of vital interest in California today because of the compulsory health insurance program now pending before the State Legislature, is supplied in the current bulletin of the San Francisco County Medical Society.

National Health Insurance, with the cost being deducted from workers' paychecks, as proposed in California, has existed in England since 1911—and has been in operation long enough, therefore, to permit of realistic appraisal. Except for Nazi Germany, where the system may be considered in a state of suspension, the British system furnishes the outstanding example of a government-controlled medical program.

The results in Great Britain, viewed from American standards, are anything but reassuring, for they indicate all too clearly that the government bureaucracy, born and nurtured by a system of State medicine, fattens on the lion's share of "the health dollar," while only a small fraction of the money remains for medical care and drugs.

Here is the way the money collected for the British compulsory health insurance program is apportioned, as reported by the Medical Society:

For the doctor.....12.5%
For drugs.....3.5%
For administrative overhead.....84.0%
The British doctor, under the system, is paid 40 cents for an office or house call—a pound, or less than $5, for an appendectomy. The result is that the average doctor, to earn a living, must treat approximately 1,000 patients a year—and the result from the patient's standpoint, as viewed by the Medical Society, is that the practice of medicine is largely restricted to the prescription of inexpensive drugs.

FIXED LAWS

Economic laws are laws of nature, rigid. They are divine laws in the same sense that the law of gravity is a law of God. Such laws were in force long before the first man-made statute was ever written, and no natural law was ever repealed by act of parliament. Natural laws can be broken but they all carry within themselves suitable penalties for violation; hard to escape.

Under natural law, every producer earns a profit when he serves the public well; takes a loss when he serves the public poorly. When manipulators, government planners or any other kind, use artificial price controls, they violate natural law. It makes no difference whether the aim is greed or to protect "lame ducks" from loss. Price controls encourage ineptness.

WHEAT PRICE PARITY

Claude R. Wickard, Secretary of Agriculture, recently told an audience of wheat growers in St. Paul that U. S. production last year was 1100 million bushels compared to 800 million in a typical pre-war year. This is deemed to forecast a post-war over-production of 180 million bushels or more a year. There is a law compelling government to hold up wheat prices for two years after the war.

Taxpayers may as well brace themselves. It is time to start wondering what it's going to cost per bushel to prop up the wheat price and hold it at parity; or what bonus per acre must be paid to non-growers of wheat for not growing wheat. Another wonder: Can the price support be removed after two years or must the taxpayers continue guaranteeing a wheat price indefinitely?

OBSERVE NATURAL LAW

There is no honorable way: Leave each industry's problem for men of that industry to solve. Using wheat as an example, permit the Department of Agriculture to prepare such data as Mr. Wickard gave the farmers and make such data available to the whole industry. Let the farmers use their own judgment in the light of the facts. They will do a better job than government men, and will not cost the taxpayers anything.

One advantage is obvious: Men of an industry can consider an industrial problem unclouded by a dust storm of political considerations. Government's proper function is to serve the citizen. Government can get statistics more conveniently than an organization of business men, and government experts undoubtedly can offer valuable suggestions but interference is not help.

BUSINESS MEN THINK

Business men can understand government figures, interpret them and apply what they have learned. Figures from the Department of Commerce and the Census Bureau have benefited many industries in the past, interpreted by statisticians in the employ of trade associations. If wheat is over-produced the year, bread will be cheap. The next year, wheat men can plan more wisely.

What did the cotton subsidy do except open the gate for rayon to storm the cotton planter's market? A fictitious wheat price can only bring that industry some similar calamity. It is bad enough to have loyal citizens taxed without mercy to build a false price structure; worse when you know that the result will be to lift a big essential industry off its economic foundation and permanently cripple it.

PASS THE COFFEE, PLEASE!

(The Daily Oklahoman)

Now it is revealed, somewhat belatedly, that Chairman Hannegan of the Democratic national committee is in the coffee business. He owns 25 per cent of the stock of a company whose business is to sell coffee to the United States government. The company was chartered at Jefferson City on Jan. 15, 1943, but it was organized for business in 1941. When it was organized Hannegan was on the payroll of the federal government as a collector of internal revenue for the St. Louis district. Later on he was internal revenue commissioner in Washington, from which position he resigned when he was elected chairman of the Democratic national committee.

It is said that the Hannegan company deals exclusively with the United States government. That is not so terribly bad if the United States government is not dealing exclusively with the Hannegan company. But the trouble is that no one can possibly know whether the government is limiting its orders to the Hannegan company. If that is true, it is a mighty bad situation.

Even if it is not true, the situation is exactly this. Any coffee dealer who wants to sell coffee to the government must compete with the chairman of the Democratic national committee. And politics being what politics unquestionably is, the chairman has political friends in the departments of government. And all of that would be a serious handicap to the independent dealer.

The situation looks decidedly bad. And it smells a whole lot worse.

When the definitive history of this war comes to be written, it will be seen that men and women of all races and religions have contributed in significant measure to the final triumph over the monster fascism.—Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Pacific ocean areas commander.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

The National Whirligig

By RAY TUCKER

CLOTHING—The shortage of civilian clothing for discharged soldiers and sailors has become an extremely acute problem as the monthly total of men quitting the armed services increases. It will strain supply facilities more severely after a mass defeat, even if the number released is kept to a minimum under the present program.

Many of the inductees went to camp with only the clothes on their backs, and did not bother to send them home for storage. Many thousands from low income levels left no substitute outfits or have been outgrown them. Younger sons have survived scarcities by wearing hand-me-downs.

Moreover, the attics, closets, and cellars of America have been emptied in response to garment drives by charitable organizations for suffering peoples overseas. There is no household that has not contributed to the needy at home and abroad.

VETERANS—Store inventories have reached new lows and will be even slimmer at the end of the Japanese phase of the conflict. Goods command high prices, and frequently do not give satisfaction.

A veteran may save enough from his discharge money, although some will not, but, even so, he may not be able to buy any "store clothes." Present regulations permit him to wear his uniform for 90 days after the termination of his service, but many will have to stick to khaki for a longer period. The army has indicated quietly that it will not enforce this time ruling too stringently.

ALLIANCE—It was not altogether accidental that such erstwhile enemies as the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the American federation of labor and the congress of industrial organizations announced their new alliance almost simultaneously with President Roosevelt's request for authority to negotiate a 50 percent reduction of tariffs.

Leaders of labor and management have been forced to the conclusion that they must rely on a close working agreement if they are to hold their own against a strongly centralized government in Washington. They expect further development of this tendency in the postwar era, and prospective conflicts will probably find them pooling their common interests against federal encroachment.

Thus, ironically, F. D. R. has thrown these groups closer into each other's arms than they have been in the past. In fact, he himself set the stage for their union, although it was the outbreak of the war which really brought them together. Their members have served on the same organizations here and

Peter Edson's Column:

WANT TO BUY A SURPLUS WAR PLANT?

By PETER EDSON
Pampa News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 5—Anti-trust division of the department of justice will soon enter the picture as an active factor in determining who can buy what surplus government property, if its original cost was more than a million dollars. Now in preparation for issuance in the near future is a department of justice memorandum which will be a guidebook on what conditions of the Sherman anti-trust law a prospective purchaser will have to meet, and what he will have to do to be approved. Assistant Attorney General Wendell Berry, in charge of the anti-trust division, has already started to train a staff to process these proposals.

First principle will obviously be that no sale will be approved if it will tend to give anyone a monopoly in anything.

A corollary may well be that sales of surplus war plants will be frowned on if the buyers intend to shut them down just to remove their productive capacity from competition. This represents an interesting development with the administration's free enterprise, small business, full employment policies. The contribution any sales will make toward post-war employment will thus become a test of merit for any prospective purchaser.

ALUMINUM PLANTS AS TEST CASES

As an example of how these anti-trust restrictions may be applied, throughout the nation, and have discovered that it is for their own good to unite rather than fight. As representatives of capital and labor, they have a high stake in the coming battle over tariffs, a question which has stirred both democrats and republicans in congress more violently than is generally appreciated.

Most recent instance of their ganging up on Washington was their opposition to Paul V. McNutt's attempt to redistribute the textile labor supply in New Bedford, and to the current manpower bill.

POLITICS—The selection of former Senator John A. Danaher for the national republican committee's liaison man with congressional G.O.P.ers apparently reflects partisan sentiment as National Chairman Herbert E. Brownell Jr. has found it throughout the country.

The appointment brought curious and conflicting reactions on Capitol Hill because of the Committee man's strong isolationist stand when he served in the senate. Even after Pearl Harbor Mr. Danaher did not go along with his colleagues in their gradual shift to general support of the administration's foreign policy. His attitude on this subject was held accountable for his 1944 defeat, as many old-line republicans voted against him.

G.O.P. observers, however, report that they note a return to more nationalistic thinking among the people in the Middle and Far West. Despite a full determination to see the war through to victory in the Orient, millions of folks, according to late samplings, are becoming restless. They also want some sort of a world security organization, to be belated disclosures of the secret Yalta agreements have stirred suspicions.

Several keen politicians have informed their congressional friends that men like Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan and Mr. Danaher represent feeling more faithfully than easterners such as Senator Warren R. Austin of Vermont and Representatives James W. Wadsworth of New York and Charles A. Eaton of New Jersey, who have frequently outpaced F. D. R. in the international race.

If the larger nations of the world do not get together, the outlook is too grim to bear thinking about.—Miss Ellen Wilkinson, British M. P.

War preparedness in the future will not be a matter of storing up vast stocks of war supplies. To be properly prepared we will have to maintain a high state of development in the design of all types of war material.—Maj. Gen. Levin H. Campbell, Jr., chief of ordnance.

Around Hollywood

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD—That gorgeous red-head, Rita Hayworth, spent 10 minutes today making passes at us in her plush-lined studio dressing room.

Sure, we encouraged her. But it was all in the line of duty. She looked exceptionally beautiful in a white sweater and purple slacks rolled up to her knees. It was probably a pretty stupid thing to do, though.

Husband Orson Welles is a big fellow, and besides, he has a colt-um now, too. And you know Hollywood gossip. People might get wrong ideas.

But honest, she didn't touch us once, though she came dangerously close.

Just back from a month in Mexico City, where she became a bull-right fan, Rita said she was taking bullfighting lessons from a matador she and Orson brought back with them to Hollywood.

"I may work it into a dance some day," she said. She was learning "passes" and "lances," she explained. "Stand up," she said, "and I'll show you."

So we stood up and let Rita make passes at us. Also a couple of well-executed lances. It was nice, graceful footwork. "You make an excellent bull," she panted. "Almost as good as Orson."

THE BULL FROM MARS

At home, she explained, Orson plays the role of the bull for her—which is something we would very much like to see. The Man from Mars has sported another beard, for his current movie role, and we figured this makes him the only bearded bull in captivity.

We looked up Rita to see how she was getting along in her new role of a mama. Rebecca Wells is now now 3 1/2 months old.

"She's wonderful," Rita said. "She looks like both of us."

Nice baby present she received was a book titled, "The Day Rebecca Wells Was Born," a collection of newspaper headlines of the day, radio logs, the weather report, theater ads and current fashions.

Rita is still in the dog house with her doctor, though, she said. The baby was born just a few weeks after she completed several strenuous dance routines for the film, "Tonight and Every Night."

"All during the making of the picture the doctor kept asking me if I had to do any dancing. I told him 'Just a couple of little steps.' After Rebecca was born he went to see the film and almost passed out."

"Cover Girl" was still opening when Rita and Orson arrived in Mexico City, and the town was plastered with painted posters of Rita.

STRIP POSTER

"I thought Columbia undressed me too much for the advertising posters in this country," she said, "but down there it was terrible. They just painted big pictures of me wearing practically nothing."

"We were driving to the hotel from the airport when I saw one of them. I grabbed Orson's arm and yelled, 'Look!' He looked and darned near ran into a telephone pole."

Benefits to Texans

Over 2-Million Month

GALVESTON, April 5—(AP)—Texans are receiving monthly benefits of more than a half million dollars paid by the federal system of old-age and survivors insurance under the social security act, according to a statement by James B. Marley, regional director of the social security board.

Marley stated that the rate is now more than $6,000,000 a year in Texas. The amount increased last month by 3 percent during the past six months.

Half the total payments go to former-wage earners and their wives when over age 65. The other half is paid out in survivors' insurance benefits.

ASKS GOVERNMENT GUARANTEES
A recent government witness before the small business committee, Samuel Monfort of the Booneville power administration, even went so far as to say that the government should make such favorable terms of sale or lease to new producers that their market would be guaranteed for five years through purchases for a government stockpile.

Department of justice gets its authority to advise on surplus property disposal from two sources. Congress reserved to itself the right to approve sale of property costing more than five million dollars. But in the surplus property act the department of justice was given authority to pass on the disposal of all properties costing more than one million dollars, and in the war mobilization and reconversion act justice is required to report to congress on the growth of monopolies.

Attorney General Francis Biddle has already submitted two such reports to congress and he has announced plans to make other reports on a monthly basis. The anti-trust division considers it has a mandate from congress to serve as a watchdog on the whole surplus property disposal program.

San Francisco Will Be Trial At Peace-Keeping

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of stories explaining what the San Francisco conference means and how the league machinery would work)

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, April 5—(AP)—The delegates to the United Nations conference in San Francisco April 25 will try to turn man's age-old dream—no more wars—into a reality.

They are going there to work out a charter for a world organization to preserve peace after this war. The San Francisco conference is not a peace conference connected with this war.

The delegates will carry the charter back home with them. Their governments will have to approve it before the world organization can start to operate. This is the second time in 25 years that the nations have tried to set up a peace-keeping plan. The last time it was called the League of Nations.

This country stayed out of the old league. Eventually, the league failed, as this war shows. But this war has changed American thinking about joining a world organization.

We can't join such an organization without approval of the senate. The charter to be drawn at San Francisco is like a list of rules and regulations. The nations will agree to do certain things in the event some trouble arises.

Our senate may want to change or amend some of the rules and regulations worked out in San Francisco.

The changes might be so far-reaching that other nations would not agree or so crippling that the organization would be hopeless from birth.

The charter is based on proposals agreed in Washington—in a house called Dumbarton Oaks—by representatives of the United States, the United Kingdom, Soviet Russia and China.

At Yalta early this year by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin. The small nations had no direct part in working out these proposals. The Four Big powers named, plus France, would be the key to the success or failure of the organization.

If it comes down to this: If there is a league, and if the Five Big powers work together to maintain peace, they can do it. If one of them kicks over the traces, then the shooting starts again.

Meanwhile, until the various nations approve the work done at San Francisco, the league remains a dream.

Air Field To Become

Temporarily Inactive

BROWNWOOD, April 5—(AP)—Brownwood army air field will become "temporarily inactive on or about April 10," a telegram from Congressman O. C. Fisher advised Brownwood Mayor Wendell Mayes yesterday afternoon.

The announcement was confirmed by Maj. Andrew J. McMillin, commanding officer of the air field where liaison pilots have been training.

The city owns over 500 acres in the center of the airport property, leading it to the government for the duration and six months, Mayor Mayes said.

WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Germany's strategic positions on the Western Front are being liquidated with amazing rapidity, every hour giving fresh proof that organized Hitlerite resistance on a major scale to that great theatre is a thing of the past.

However, there still remain big jobs for supreme commander Eisenhower's forces to do, and among the most important of these are the liberation of Holland and the capture of the reich's North Sea ports of Emden, Bremen and Hamburg. Indications now are that the Boeie will try to withdraw from most of Holland but will make a stand in the great commercial ports of Amsterdam and Rotterdam, just as they plan to hang onto their own North Sea harbors.

The point of the German resistance at these places is the same old story of depriving the Allies of the use of the ports and thus causing delay.

The Germans are withdrawing, or have withdrawn, many of their troops from Holland already, and British forces are smashing northward along the Ems river towards Emden to close the gap along the Dutch-German border through which the nazis are escaping. Undoubtedly the great majority of the nazis have got out, but the Germans are expected to retain a stand in Rotterdam and Amsterdam.

Garrisons holding these two great Dutch cities will be suicide forces, that is, they will be expected to hang on so long as possible without hope of escape. This has been a favorite trick of the nazis, as witness the fact that they still are holding several isolated harbors, including Lorient and St. Nazaire, which stood off capture at the time of the invasion of Normandy. Probably the same scheme will be followed at Emden, Bremen, Hamburg and other important North Sea harbors.

The liberation of Holland is, of course, doubly important because of the plight of the unfortunate Dutch folk who have been reduced to terrible straits of privation. Much of their country is flooded and the food situation is grave indeed.

Another highly important reason for clearing Holland is to wipe out the launching sites of the V-bombs which the Germans have been sending against London and other British places with devastating effect. That is one of the tasks in which the Canadians now are engaged, and it would appear that great success already has been achieved, since for about a week the bombs have ceased to fall on England.

Shamrock Coach Cancels Scheduled Cinder Meet Here

Harvesters Prepare for Area Meet in Amarillo Saturday

Coach Bob Clark of the Shamrock Irish told Coach Otis Coffey of Pampa that transportation difficulties prevented his bringing his track team to Pampa for the meet between the two teams today.

Coach Coffey said that he would continue working with the Harvester tracksters in preparation for the area meet at Amarillo Saturday. He announced today his probable entries in the meet.

A total of 22 Pampa tracksters will enter 13 events at the area meet. However, only two of these placed first in any event at the meet last year.

Johnny Campbell ran the mile in 5 minutes 35 seconds to win first and Randall Clay won top position in the 400-yard dash with a time of 1:20. Both Campbell and Clay have bettered their marks since then.

Amarillo swept the meet last year, scoring 82 points, while Pampa was getting 55. Childress accounted for 8 and Quanah 4. Borger did not enter.

This year, Amarillo, Pampa, and Borger will be in the meet. Childress and Quanah will not enter. Following is the Pampa entry list by events:

100-yard dash—Nellis and Clay. 220-yard dash—Nellis, Campbell, and G. Bain. 440-yard dash—Brown and Hughes. 880-yard dash—Cree, Saunders, and Jones.

1 mile run—Campbell, G. Bain, and L. Bain.

Shot put—Turner, Terrell, and Trosley.

Discus throw—Clay, L. Williams, Humphreys, and Cochran.

High jump—Clay, Anderson, and Speer.

Broad jump—Clay and Campbell. Pole vault—Max Brown and Laffoon.

1 mile relay—Brown, Saunders, Campbell, and Cree.

440-yard relay—Campbell, Clay, Nellis, and Dixon.

High hurdles—Dixon, Robbins, and Williams.

Pampa's own invitation track and field meet will be held here Saturday, April 14, a week before the regional meet at Canyon.

Entries already received include Amarillo, Borger, Panhandle, White Deer, Canadian, and Shamrock. These have already definitely said they would attend, Coach Coffey said today, and they may be more before the date for the meet arrives.

Kimbrough May Return to Waco As Baylor Coach

WACO, April 5.—(AP)—Southwest conference football hit on six cylinders for a couple of years but now it's back on seven—at full strength with the return of Baylor's Bears.

Baylor opened spring training yesterday and has mapped a full schedule for next fall, playing all other conference members as well as West Texas State, Texas Tech, Southwestern and Tulsa.

It will be like old home week at the Baptist school because Head Coach Frank Kimbrough will use part of his leave from the navy to assist Coaches Bill Henderson and J. Datovall in getting the spring grind launched.

One of Kimbrough's players at North Carolina pre-flight is on the Baylor squad and is considered the best backfield prospect. He's Jack Fink, a 190-pounder from Pennsylvania.

While nothing official has been announced, it is considered likely that Kimbrough will be out of the service in time to take over the coaching next fall. He entered the navy in 1943 and Baylor discontinued football that year.

HE'S OLDER THAN A LOT OF MAJOR LEAGUERS

AUBURNDALE, Fla., April 5.—(AP)—Alvin Mark, 17-year-old pitcher of the Auburndale high school team, turned in a no-hit performance.

It was his first game in inter-scholastic competition.

He struck out seven men and walked five. The Auburndale team won, 4-1, from Mulberry.

RECOMMENDATIONS ARE SCIENTIFIC

NEW YORK, April 5.—(AP)—Any recommendations on national football league mergers or a 1945 schedule that the executive committee might have made at yesterday's closed session remained secret.

President Elmer Layden said no news would be available until the actual league sessions opened tomorrow.

I wish people over here would go over and live on the British ration for just one month. They'd be glad to have ours.—Mrs. Roosevelt.

New York, Chicago Boxers Tie In Annual Inter-City Matches

CHICAGO, April 5.—(AP)—New York's Golden Glovers, who have been trying on alternate years since 1928 to win a championship in the annual inter-city series in Chicago's own ring, have failed again, but it wasn't the fault of the marines and a trio of Puerto Ricans.

For the fourth time in the 18 years of the inter-city bouts, last night's battling wound up with eight victories for New York and eight for Chicago.

Of New York's eight triumphs, three were scored by three small men from San Juan, Puerto Rico. Three more were marked up by U. S. marines from the Cherry Point, N. C., air base. Two native New Yorkers won the other two.

Cpl. Adolfo Quintana of the Marine Corps, Calif., air base, deadlocked the meet when he defeated Roland La Starza of New York in the championship bout of the 175-pound division.

Of the four Cherry Point marines entered, Sgt. Howard Brodt, middleweight; Sgt. Elbert Highers, lightweight; and S/Sgt. La Verne Roach, welterweight, won decisions. Pte. Joe Rindone was knocked out by Cpl. Tom Attra of Brooks field, Texas, in the second round for the marines only loss.

The fastest knockout of the tournament was scored by Luke Baylark, Chicago heavyweight champion, who sent Jerry Conway of New York down for the count in two minutes, 25 seconds, of the first round.

Golden Gloves results included: 147 pounds: Wendell Wilson, New York, defeated Pte. Tony Carlucci, Chanute field, Ill. (3). S/Sgt. La Verne Roach, Cherry Point, defeated Gilbert Garcia, Houston, Texas (3).

175 pounds: Cpl. Tom Attra, Brooks field, Texas, knocked out Pte. Joe Rindone, Cherry Point (2).

Snead Finds Reason For Failure to Win

ATLANTA, April 5.—(AP)—Sammy Snead, golfdom's slammer from Hot Springs, Va., has a bad case of putter jitters, on which he blames his poor showing in the three North Carolina tournaments.

After two days of concentrated putting practice here preparing for the winter tour's finale, the $10,000 iron lung invitational which starts today, he still isn't satisfied with his greens play.

Looking up from a row of balls he was methodically dunking in a cup six feet away, Snead remarked in his soft mountaineer drawl:

"If I could do that under pressure, I could have won three or four more tournaments this year. That's where I fell down."

The pressure for the 72-hole affair here will be even greater, for he is anxious to tie the new tour record set by Byron Nelson. He took a big lead in winning three straight meets, at Gulfport, Pensacola and Jacksonville, making his total six. But Nelson, in second place with four wins, took the tar heel matches, to go one up.

McKENN INVITATION

McALLEN, April 5.—(AP)—Spring's first golf tournament in the Rio Grande valley opens today with more than 100 entries expected for the annual McAllen invitation—a four-day affair.

War bond prizes have been posted, with $50 for the winner of each flight and $25 for runner-up.

Uncle Sam Continues To Shape '45 Major League Pennant Races

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, March 5.—(AP)—Note to sports promoters, managers, athletic directors and others who are expecting to get a lot of top-flight athletes back right after the war ends: forget it. . . . The farsighted Chick Meehan pointed this out the other day in explaining why the "other" proposed pro football league was making a mistake by signing coaches and players in the service at fancy prices. . . . The navy's announcement that athletic talent will be concentrated in combat areas for the entertainment of service men during the remainder of the war bears out Chick's idea. . . .

When Lt. Bert Shepard, the not-so-disabled war veteran, recently signed by the Senators, pitched for the Boston Red Sox must have been some comfort to Marne Joe for his title chances lean heavily on the title chances Marne Joe was of little help in 1944 but could win a regular job with that kind of chucking.

Other training camp items:

Boston Red Sox—Joe Cronin impressed by ground covering ability of Ben Steiner shifted the rookie to shortstop. Slicker Newsome will go to third and Jack Tobin to second.

Boston Braves—Bob Coleman having trouble finding best outfield trio of many capable performers.

Philadelphia Athletics—Bobo Newsom nominated self to pitch season's opener for A's against Washington.

Chicago White Sox—Opened exhibition series with 8-0 win over Detroit, rapping Art Houtteman, Les Mueller and Walter Wilson for 15 hits in game played under wintry conditions.

St. Louis Browns—Relief man George Easter arrived to complete roster of expected players. Game with Toledo, postponed by cold, will be played today.

St. Louis Cardinals—Johnny Hopp failed to agree to terms with president Sam Breadon. Holdout Harry Brodwin due to confere today.

Billy Southworth said Blix Donnelly may be regular starter.

Chicago Cubs—Charlie Grimm concerned about 13 absentees as game with Reds rained out. Phil Cavaretta due for weekend series, Claude Passeau in Chicago for elbow treatments.

Pittsburgh Pirates—Pitcher Fritz Ostermuller said he would stay with club until induction date set.

Brooklyn Dodgers—Coach Clyde Siskind, 42, signed player contract to help catching staff. Mike Sandlock and Les Webber reported.

Cleveland Indians—First baseman Mickey Reese—same to terms, due today, freeing Ed Garrett and Paul O'Dea for outfield chores.

Shamrock Flyer Has 25,000 Miles to Credit

SHAMROCK — Staff Sergeant Harold E. Burrell, 22, of Shamrock, waist gunner on the Eighth air force B-17 Flying Fortress "Tennessee Cavalier" has recently passed a milestone in his flying career. Completing over 25,000 combat hours, he has helped his bomber fight its way through severe enemy opposition to drop more than 125,000 pounds of high explosives on Nazi industrial and military installations.

Sgt. Burrell, who has received the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf Clusters for meritorious achievement in combat, and the Purple Heart, for a wound received in action, is a member of the 42nd bomb group, a unit of the Third air division—the division cited by the President for its now historic England-to-Africa shuttle bombing of a Messerschmidt aircraft factory at Regensburg, Germany.

Considering an assault his crew made on marshalling yards at Augsburg, Germany, his most outstanding mission, he explained: "As we started down the bomb run, two of our engines, the tail turret, and the right stabilizer were pretty badly torn up by enemy fire."

A few minutes later I heard a thud, as if someone had suddenly slammed a door. I felt myself falling. At first, I thought the door had been shot out from under me, but a sharp pain in my left leg caused me to realize I had been hit."

After the Fortress had dropped its bombs, Sgt. Burrell was administered first aid by the bombardier. "I thought our troubles were about over," he said, "but just then the pilot called and said our hydraulic system had been shot away and that we'd be unable to use our brakes when landing."

"We finally decided to use a parachute instead of brakes," he continued.

"He wants to get used to sleeping under gunfire, sir!"

continued. "In that way, the open chute would slow down our speed, or so we hoped."

"I was cam in for a landing. I went back to the tail and threw out the wheels touched the ground. Almost immediately, I could feel our speed decrease. A few minutes later the plane came to a safe halt."

Refugee Germans Overrun City

HEIDELBERG, Germany, April 5 —(P)—Historic Heidelberg, crammed with 30,000 German refugees, but shows almost nothing of war's physical ravages.

Major Leigh Plummer, of Columbia City, Ind., said the burgomaster—a Dr. Karl Neuhaus—was the only official of the Nazi regime who remained. The rest took off as the Americans approached. Plummer said Heidelberg was probably the first city entered in Germany in which the population was greater than normal because of refugees. It normally is a city of 86,000.

"The food situation is alarming here, too," he said, "because of the extra mouths to feed."

The most serious problem, Plummer said, is the looting of railway cars by German civilians. He explained that the German army left behind on sidings cars filled with food, clothing, and other supplies. The civilians heard about it and started breaking into the cars.

One German civilian, Viktor Kolba, had been in Texas only four weeks ago. He got to Heidelberg by virtue of a civilian repatriation exchange. He formerly lived at Chicago, Ill., and was interned with his wife as a German national in 1942 and sent to a Texas camp.

Nazis Inventing Atrocity Stories

BERN, Switzerland, April 5 —(P)—Nazi propagandists are resorting to widespread use of obviously fictitious stories of Allied atrocities in a last effort to spur military and civilian resistance in the waning hours of the third reich.

The readers of German newspapers find this new hate campaign splurged across the front pages. The real war news has gone to the inside pages except for an occasional guarded army communiqué in the lower left hand corner of page one. Adolf Hitler's own Voelkischer Beobachter keynoted the campaign with screaming headlines such as these: "Brutal hate regiment in Cologne," traitor fallen before justice, American-purchased Aachen, Purgemeister shot by German fighters for freedom. "only hate holds them together, inner differences of Allies unsolvable."

A story with a Stuffeart dateline declared Negro soldiers were forcing women in Cologne to clean latrines, asserted American soldiers beat up a German woman who refused to pose for a picture and left her to die, and recounted that an American soldier looked doled out weak coffee to a German woman who gave him a wrist watch in payment for milk for her baby.

Floods, He Says, Succor Crops

By JACK RUTLEDGE
Maybe this isn't the right time to bring it up, but the climate of Texas is considered possibly its greatest natural resource. It says so on page 123 of the Texas Almanac.

Texas' climate is mild, on the average, with a relatively low humidity and a high percentage of sunny days.

Its occasional antics, like the recent stormy period and current floods, actually help both crops and livestock. Floods, for example, enrich soil.

Compare storms of the past with those of today. The 1945 version was mild:

Back in September, 1921, a rain-storm moved inland from the Gulf of Mexico and dumped a record 117 inches of rain on Taylor, Williamson county. Thirteen inches fell the following day. Damage was $17,000,000 and 224 lives were lost.

August 17, 1915, a three-day storm brought 18.5 inches of rain to San

Legaspi Entered Two Hours After Landing

LEGASPI, Luzon, April 2 (Delayed)—(P)—Japanese resistance, which melted away as assault troops hit Legaspi beach Easter Sunday after a spectacular duel between U. S. navy guns and Japanese artillery, revived sporadically around Mt. Barway today.

In this "Little Bataan" section, Brig. Gen. Hanford Macrider's 138th regimental combat team captured two five-inch guns. The doughboys pushed six miles inland toward a junction with guerrillas who control much of the hinterland.

(As this was written, results of the fighting on 900-foot Mt. Barway, three miles to the southwest, were not known.)

Japanese fired an estimated 40 rounds at U. S. ships during the landing without effect, then retired. When Capt. Farrie Irie, Forest, Cherokee county, Texas, and Richard Rehm, Indianapolis, led their assault companies ashore, only two Nipponese were killed and only one American was wounded.

The troops, under Col. E. O. Sendlin, Anniston, Ala., quickly captured a 3,000-foot airstrip and a nearby hill.

WASHINGTON, April 5 —(P)—The war food administration has announced that civilian allotments of butter, evaporated milk, condensed milk and cheese for the April-June quarter are about the same as for January-March.
