Rituals, Prayer And Song Hail Christ's Resurrection

By The Associated Press

Christians in a world still beset by crisis and human strife commemorate anew today the resurrection of Christ the Savior.

In rituals, prayer and song many lands will pay tribute to the Man of Galilee.

In Jerusalem itself discouragement to Middle East travel since the Sinai war last fall reduced to hundreds instead of thousands the number of Easter pilgrims.

But in the United States millions will enter the quiet, peaceful atmosphere of churches to worship. Other millions rose before dawn to attend ceremonies in the open.

Still others could remain in their homes watching various ceremonies on television. Even in the holy city of Rome, television was used for the first time to carry the annual Easter message of Pope Pius XII to the peoples of Europe.

The Pope's message also was broadcast by the Vatican radio and 14 European networks in 28 languages. The message was to be picked up later for rebroadcast by American, Canadian and British systems.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower will attend Easter services at the Reid Memorial Presbyterian Church in Augusta, Ga., where the Chief Executive is vacationing.

On the eve of Easter, an estimated 10,000 pilgrims gathered in St. Peter's Square in Rome and were blessed by the 81-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church. The pontiff appeared briefly at his apartment window to bless the throng.

In Jerusalem yesterday, flames burst from the tomb of Christ as the age-old ritual of the Holy Fire was re-enacted. Thousands of pilgrims packed the Church of the Holy Sepulchre for the Holy Saturday services.

American observances of Easter Sunday took many forms, including the annual parades and Easter egg hunts.

Warm but possibly cloudy weather was forecast for New York and its colorful throng of Easter paraders up Fifth Avenue.

A panoramic view of Easter Sunday in the United States looked like this:

Easter Sunrise services were scheduled at the place where the sun first touches the United States —atop the 1,520-foot Cadillac Mountain on Mount Desert Island, Maine.

At Rindge, N.H., visitors started arriving shortly after midnight to attend nondenominational services at 4:45 a.m. at the Cathedral of the Pines. The hilltop shrine was established as a memorial to all of America's war dead by the parents of Lt. Sanderson Sloan, who died in World War II.

Sunrise services were to be held at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington, D.C., and at Arlington National Cemetery, the resting place of many of America's illustrious war dead.

At Camp Kilmer, N.J., teeming until recently with Hungarian refugees, Catholic and Protestant services were to be held for those still unsettled in American homes.

Easter parades were scheduled on the boardwalks of Asbury Park and Atlantic City in New Jersey.

In Philadelphia, rock 'n' roll stage shows scheduled at two theaters for Easter were canceled when Mayor Richardson Dilworth intervened. The mayor called the shows "clearly inappropriate," for Easter.

Elsewhere in Philadelphia, scores of sunrise observances were planned. These included a vast street service conducted by Dr. Ross Stover, a Messiah Lutheran Church pastor. He pioneered the idea 23 years ago.

More than 15 sunrise services are planned for the Atlanta, Ga., area.

Near Lawton, Okla., an Easter program got under way at midnight with music. It was the annual Wichita Mountains Pageant, with a cast of 500. An estimated 100,000 persons were expected.

Sunrise services also were scheduled in the Garden of the Gods, near Colorado Springs, Colo., in the park of the Red Rocks, near Denver, and in Miami's Orange Bowl—the scene of many a football spectacle.

In sunny California, sunrise services were planned in varied settings — the Hollywood Bowl, the Pasadena Rose Bowl, the fairway of a golf course at Palm Springs, a hillside on Santa Catalina Island, a beach in a natural amphitheater at Huntington Beach, under a giant wistaria vine at Sierra Madre, among big boulders on rugged Mt. Rubidoux near Riverside—and amid sand dunes at Stovepipe Wells in Death Valley.

In Yosemite National Park, the famed half dome was the site for dawn services. Other dawn services were scheduled under a giant cross on Mt. Davidson, one of San Francisco's Seven Hills, and at Lover's Leap Mountain near Junction, Tex.

The latter service will have a typically Texas touch—Capt. Gully Cowsert of the Texas Rangers was to serve free coffee from his chuck wagon. It's a custom he has carried on for years.

Plane Makes Emergency Landing

School Bonds Get Approval, 492-55

Voters of the Big Spring Independent School District, turning out in smaller numbers than usual, gave an $800,000 bond issue a 9-1 approval Saturday.

The vote for issuance of the bonds was 492; against 55. There was only one vote voided out of the total of 548.

Although the issue was never in danger, the margin was only 5-1 until a sudden increase in tempo brought nearly 200 voters to the polls within the last hour.

Of immediate import to the district is the application of $400,000 toward the provision of a complete junior high plant. The district already has $500,000 from a previous issue on hand for this purpose.

Trustees announced in calling the election that they had no intention of selling more than the $400,000 at this time. The remaining portion of the issue will be marketed when needed for other school construction. Unless some greater emergency were to arise, it is agreed generally that the remaining $400,000 will be used for expanding facilities at senior high.

School authorities had pointed to the urgent need for clearing the way for a second junior high. The present 1,160 enrollment will expand to 1,530 by 1959 and to 1,980 by 1962, they predicted by projecting current figures. The present junior high plant, erected as a high school originally in 1916 and expanded in 1929, is designed to accommodate only about 750.

By the same token an upward pressure on senior high enrollments is anticipated so that the 663 now on roll will go to 1,160 in 1959 and 1,530 in 1962.

Saturday's was the second school bond issue within the space of a year. On May 15, 1956, voters gave $900,000 in bonds for a new stadium, new junior high and new elementary classrooms almost a 6-1 margin. Tied in with this issue was the pegging of the maintenance tax at a $1.50 limit, and adoption of Senate Bill 116 which permitted the district to tie the bonded debt to total assessed valuations rather than to be bound by the previous $1.50 total tax limit. That election drew 1,211 votes and the bonds passed 981-174.

Trustees previously had purchased a 20-acre tract in south Big Spring (south of College Heights school) for the second junior high. Tentative plans have been prepared for the structure.

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

Getting ready for the Easter holidays, the pageant and the Easter parade have made the past week a busy one, but this one bids to be even busier. For one thing more than three score field representatives for insurance companies will be here for an all-out fire inspection project. Then the State Registered Nurses and the State Student Nurses Associations will have their convention, which could draw upwards of 500. On top of this, merchants are staging their first Better Buy Days series.

* * *

This Better Buys project is something new, a semi-annual festival in which businessmen try to present some outstanding bargains. Many have made some special purchases for the occasion; others have sharpened and resharpened their pricing pencils. With so many participating, you ought to be able to find what you want at what you figure you can pay.

Horace Garrett found more than passing interest in an item in the Herald last week. It told of the death of a prize Aberdeen-Angus bull at the B. G. Byars Royal Oak Farms near Tyler. The bull, Prince 105 TT, had sired more than 1,000 calves and was valued at $230,000. Garrett's interest? He owned half interest in the bull. (Prince was insured.)

Teamsters Ask 'Blackout' Of AFL-CIO Trial

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP) — The Teamsters Union is reported to have asked that no record be kept of its AFL-CIO trial on corruption charges.

AFL-CIO sources interpret this to mean that the Teamsters don't want in existence a written transcript which could be subpoenaed by the Senate Rackets Committee and combed over for possible new evidence against the union.

It is still not clear whether the the Teamsters will send representatives to defend the union at the trial, scheduled to be held May 6 behind closed doors.

Such trials are customarily held in secret, and it is up to the defendant union whether a record will be kept.

The 1½-million member Teamsters organization came under charges from its parent AFL-CIO as a result of the Senate committee's disclosures against Teamsters President Dave Beck and other high officers.

The federation has suspended Beck as an AFL-CIO vice president and council member, an action Beck is contesting, and has scheduled a hearing May 20 before the AFL-CIO executive council. Beck claims his suspension is illegal and therefore a "nullity." He has hinted he won't show up for his hearing.

Admits Girl's Murder, Other Assault Cases

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP) — A young oil burner service man was picked up on a Brooklyn street today and police said he admitted the hammer slaying of Patricia Ruland, 19.

Chief of Detectives James B. Leggett said the man, Thomas Joseph Higgins, 22, also admitted the slaying of a Brooklyn widow about three months ago and nine other assault cases.

Miss Ruland, pretty employe of an insurance company, was found unconscious on a Brooklyn street shortly after midnight Thursday. Her face and head had been battered. She died two hours later.

Higgins was picked up by two detectives on a tip shortly after noon. Leggett said the man pointed out a green car parked nearby, and the attack weapon — a ball peen hammer — was found there.

Inspector Walter Henning, in charge of Brooklyn West detectives, questioned Higgins at the Fort Hamilton police precinct, and within 33 minutes he broke down.

"I am now very sorry for it," he was quoted as saying of the slaying.

Leggett and Henning said Higgins told them this story:

He was acquainted with Miss Ruland, had talked with her, but never took her out. Wednesday night, when she went to a candy store for a soda, Higgins was in a bar and grill across the street.

When the girl left the store, he walked across the street and talked with her. His green car—owned by his employer, Edward T. Minnor & Co.—was parked nearby and he invited the girl for a ride. He said she accepted, they drove a short distance and got into the back seat. He said they agreed the spot was too bright, so they drove to another spot.

When she resisted, he took the hammer from a service tool kit on the seat and struck her on the head. He said he kept hitting her, but couldn't recall how many times.

Then Higgins got into the front seat, drove back to the spot where Miss Ruland was found later, pulled the girl's unconscious form from the rear seat and left her on the curb.

He said he returned to the bar and grill, had a few drinks and left. Then he realized the girl's shoes and handbag were in the car, so he stopped and threw them into a garbage container.

The next day he went to an auto supply store, bought new seat covers for the car, drove to an isolated spot and put them on over the old covers.

Twisters Strike In N'west Texas

Mayflower Sets Sail To Duplicate Trip Of 1620

PLYMOUTH, England, April 20 (AP) — Mayflower II, weighted with good wishes and followed by prayer set sail for America today from this old English port. Her voyage is intended to duplicate that of the Pilgrim Fathers to Plymouth Rock in 1620.

In six weeks, if Providence is kind, the 180-ton square-rigger will reach Plymouth, Mass. There, after an exhibition visit to New York, she will remain, a gift of Britain to the people of the United States.

The British sponsors of the new Mayflower, which left here as the sun was lowering in the west, hope she will become a symbol — like the Statue of Liberty — of the Old World's affection.

Mayflower II, which structurally is a replica of the original, was towed past Drake Island, just as the first Mayflower was three centuries ago.

The old Mayflower, say some historians, was pulled out of the shelter of this splendid harbor by rowers in long boats. Mayflower II was pulled out by a smoking tug.

An hour and a half later the sails were let loose, and the Mayflower looked like a graceful swan. When she was lost from sight she was trying to make headway against a somewhat adverse wind.

Cmdr. Alan Villiers, Australian skipper of the Mayflower, hoped to make in about six weeks the journey which took the original Pilgrims 65 days.

There are 32 men aboard Mayflower II — no women, unless there's a stowaway.

The search for stowaways was the last urgent business before the little vessel lifted anchor. None was found.

Villier's cabin was stacked high with good will messages. Among the last received was one from Prime Minister Harold Macmillan who had an American mother, expressing hope that Mayflower's voyage will strengthen British-American relations.

U.S. Yields To Allies On Easing Trade To Red China

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP) — The United States, bowing to British and Japanese pressure, has agreed to an easing of Allied restrictions on trade with Red China. At the same time it has proposed tighter controls on trade with the Soviet bloc in Europe.

However, the ban on all U. S. trade with Red China will stand.

This was disclosed by the State Department today in a statement which said an American proposal on revising the trade control system had been presented to the embassies' of 14 Allied countries here during the past week.

Both Britain and Japan have long urged that the United States agree to an increase in Allied trade with the Chinese Communists. Britain particularly has advocated that the embargo on goods to Red China be reduced to the same level as that applied to Russia and its European satellites.

The American proposal constitutes the first major gain for the British and Japanese demands although the whole matter is still subject to negotiation among the 15 countries participating in the system. The 15 are all the NATO countries, except Iceland, plus Japan.

The statement issued by press officer Stewart Lilico, disclosed that the United States proposal made these major points:

1. Some items of trade "for peaceful use" which are now embargoed for Red China would be removed from the control list and placed on the same basis that they now have with the European Soviet bloc. The Soviet embargo list is much shorter than the Red China list.

2. Some other items now embargoed for Red China "would continue under embargo and would be added to the European Soviet bloc list" but under a lesser degree of control. That was interpreted to mean that the sale of these items might be controlled as to quantity.

3. The present "exceptions" procedure by which Allied countries sometimes sell embargoed items to Red China or Russia in spite of the embargo would be tightened up. Britain has used the exceptions procedure increasingly in the last year with the argument that the items sold would not increase the Communist war potential.

4. The United States intends to make no change whatever in its own policy of embargoing "all trade with Communist China." This was put into effect when Red China intered the Korean War.

The State Department did not specify what items were involved in the U. S. proposal. But informants said items now embargoed for Red China, but not for Russia, include such things as farm tractors, some automotive equipment, various types of railroad items, telephone and chemical equipment and iron and steel sheets of a quality too soft to be used in weapons.

'Nike' Missile Will Defend Texas Area

ARLINGTON, Tex., April 20 (AP)— The army's supersonic ground-to-air guided missile, Nike, will be installed as part of the air defense of the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

The Army, in announcing this today, said preliminary air surveys for selection of sites have been made and the new air defense system should be in full operation in 1½ to 2 years.

In reply to a question, Col. Leslie J. Staub, commanding officer of the 4th Region, Army Air Defense Command, told a news conference the Dallas-Fort Worth installation will be the first to be built in Texas and will be the southernmost Army Nike installation in the United States.

The Dallas-Fort Worth area is an important aircraft manufacturing and air base center. Its industries include the Chance Vaught Aircraft Corp at Grand Prairie, makers of guided missiles and jet fighter planes for the Navy; the Convair plant at Fort Worth, builders of the B36 and the B-58, and the Bell Helicopter Corp. plant near Fort Worth.

Carswell Air Force Base, near Fort Worth, is an important B-36 base. The Dallas Naval Air Station, and Hensley Field, a Texas Air National Guard and Air Force Reserve base, also are in the area.

Both Mayor Thomas A. McCann of Fort Worth and Mayor Robert L. Thornton of Dallas welcomed the Army's new defense program as protection for the citizens, homes and industries of the area.

Col. Staub declined to say how many Nike sites would be built for the complex radar control and missile launching equipment, but said it would be the maximum number needed for the defense of the two areas.

The sites will be built in a ring around the two cities, at a distance of 25 to 35 miles he said.

Heavy Rains, Hail Fall On Plains Area

By The Associated Press

Tornadoes, hail the size of quarters and up to almost six inches of rain battered Northwest Texas Saturday.

One twister flattened a number of buildings on a farm near Paducah. Another cut a swath around Brownsfield. A third was spotted by an airlines pilot about 20 miles east of Spur.

Highways near Vernon were flooded and more than 50 cars were reported stranded on high spots. A number of South Texas highways also were closed.

Light to heavy hail pounded many points in the western half of Texas.

Afternoon cloudbursts totaled 5.70 inches at Paducah, about 110 miles west of Wichita Falls.

A 4.70 inch rain in little over an hour flooded a residential section of Cotulla in South Texas Saturday night.

The turbulence came as the Weather Bureau issued severe weather warnings for three areas.

The first, expiring at 9 p.m., called for violent thunderstorms and tornadoes 90 miles northwest and 30 miles southeast of a line from Carlsbad, N.M., to Oklahoma City.

The second warning forecast thunderstorms with large hail and a tornado or two at Texas points north of a line from Coleman to Waxahachie. It expired at midnight.

One twister roared down and demolished a six-room house and all other buildings on the Grady Skaggs farm about 14 miles south of Paducah. No one was injured.

The tornado flattened outhouses, barns and windmills. Tractors and other farm machinery were smashed.

In the South Plains, a funnel struck at the Alton Loe Farm six miles southwest of Brownfield but did no damage. It missed the farm house by about 200 yards.

Don Bynum, Brownfield newspaperman, said the funnel headed straight for town after roaring off the farm but swerved and broke up just as it reached Brownfield. About 1,200 yards of telephone line were torn up by the tornado.

Cloudbursts brought usually dry streams surging out of their banks in the Vernon-Matador area.

Highways 183 and 70 southwest of Vernon were flooded and closed, the State Highway Department said. Vernon had 4.40 inches of rain.

He said between 50 and 75 autos were temporarily stranded at high points along the route after rains flooded lowlands. Matador had

Strong Slap At Funds For U.S. Information Agency

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP) — Sen. Ellender (D-La) said today the U. S. Information Agency has "grown like a bad weed" and called for a new 18 million dollar slash in its budget.

At the same time, there were reports that some Republicans are so irked with the vigorous support USIA Director Arthur Larson had given to "modern Republicanism" they will offer little resistance to a Democratic drive to chop the agency's funds.

A Senate Appropriations subcommittee headed by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, has before it a bill passed by the House. It gives USIA 106 million dollars to operate in the year beginning July 1 instead of the 144 millions President Eisenhower requested.

Eisenhower said last Wednesday it was "the worst kind of economy" to cut informational funds. But Sen. Mansfield of Montana, assistant Democratic leader, predicted the Senate will cut the House figure even lower.

Ellender, a member of the Johnson subcommittee, put an 18 million dollar tag on this proposed reduction. He said in a radio broadcast recorded for Louisiana that the agency's budget ought to be reduced to about 88 million dollars.

Ellender said the USIA had strayed from its original objective, which was to penetrate the Iron Curtain via Voice of America broadcasts. He said there now are 219 information posts in 82 countries.

"Many of our information service posts are not getting the job done," he said. "Others are working hard, spending your money and mine, in countries which already have an ample supply of accurate news.

"In Western Europe, for example, we maintain sizable information staffs. Why we should have to maintain large propaganda programs in countries which are supposedly our staunch and unfaltering allies is a mystery to me."

He said the USIA budget for expenditures in Great Britain was boosted $250,000 this year and $80,000 of that amount was used to subsidize the publication of American textbooks in England.

Humble Official At Midland Quits

MIDLAND, April 20 (AP)—John W. House, superintendent of the Western Division of the Producing Department of Humble Oil and Refining Co. announced his resignation today.

Traffic Delayed As Train Derailed

HOUSTON, April 20 (AP) — A derailed freight train disrupted Southern Pacific Railroad traffic northwest of Houston today.

No one was injured when 22 cars from the 100-car freight turned over and ripped up about a half mile of track near Hockley, 20 miles to the northwest.

Buses were sent to Hempstead to bring to Houston about 50 passengers from an overnight train from Dallas.

Bill Boosts Interest On U. S. Bonds

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 20 (AP) — President Eisenhower today signed a bill authorizing an interest rate hike on government savings bonds. He called the bonds "better than ever" and said they "help assure the economic stability of our country."

The bill gives the Treasury Department a go-ahead to pay 3¼ per cent interest compared with the current 3 per cent. The department has indicated it would put the higher rate into effect on all bonds sold on or after Feb. 1.

Eisenhower signed five other bills at his vacation headquarters at the Augusta National Golf Club before going out on the course for another round.

Other bills signed by the President provided for:

1. Deferal of Great Britain's interest and principal payments under certain circumstances on the balance of a $3,700,000,000 loan extended by the United States in 1945.

2. A deficiency appropriation of $320,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30.

3. Observance of the week starting April 28 as National Mental Health Week.

4. Placing an oil painting and a marble bust of the late Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson in the Supreme Court building.

In a prepared statement on the bill authorizing an increase in the savings bond interest rate, Eisenhower said the purchase program "has become an integral part of the American way of life" and has "taught countless Americans how to save." he added:

"Today, 40 million Americans own over 41 billion dollars in series E and H bonds. We want to see more people continually buying more bonds so that savings bonds provide even greater financial protection for our people in the years ahead and, at the same time, help assure the economic stability of our country."

Tranquilizing Drugs Ground Army Pilots

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—The Army has grounded airplane pilots who use the new tranquilizing drugs.

An order signed by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Army chief of staff, said pilots using the drugs may not fly until four weeks after they have stopped using them.

Somewhat similar instructions, were sent out by the Air Force surgeon general's office this month to all commands.

The Army ban disqualified from flight duty individuals who are under treatment with "any of the newer mood-ameliorating, tranquilizing or ataraxic (calming) drugs for hypertension, angina pectoris, nervous tension, irritability, insomnia, etc." They will remain disqualified for four weeks after use of the drug is stopped.

The order also disqualified from flight duty persons under treatment "with any of the antihistaminics or barbiturate preparations." In these cases the four-week "recovery" period was not imposed, however.

Lt. Col. Spurgeon Neel, an Army aviation medical officer, told a reporter the order was issued after it had been learned that some pilots, treated with the drugs for high blood pressure, reporting for duty "just because their pressure was down."

"The Army is not attacking the drugs themselves," Neel said.

"They are wonderful medicines, but they don't mix with flying."

Besides his son, Mr. Ross leaves one daughter, Mrs. Adrian Overbeck, Baltimore, Md. Mr. Ross had been planning on moving here this summer to establish his home with Walter Ross and family.

Jordan Army's Chief Of Staff Resigns Post

AMMAN, Jordan, April 20 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Ali Hayari resigned as the Jordan army's new chief of staff today while on a military mission to Syria, the haven of his predecessor. King Hussein promptly filled the gap with a tough Bedouin general, a leader of the loyal tribesmen who form the backbone of the army's old Arab Legion.

(A dispatch from Damascus said Hayari accused Hussein's royal palace of "preparing a plot in cooperation with foreign non-Arab military attaches in Amman against Jordan's independence and liberty." He was reported to have asked the Syrians for political asylum.)

Succeeding him as acting chief is Maj. Gen. Habas Majali, a member of an old Bedouin family and a cousin of Hazza Majali, who tried as premier last year to take Jordan into the anti-Communist Baghdad Pact.

An official spokesman said Hayari, a career soldier, formally assumed only Thursday the top army job vacated by Maj. Gen. Ali Abu Nuwar, a pro-Egyptian soldier-politician, at the height of the governmental crisis last weekend. Hayari was sent to Damascus yesterday to arrange the extradition of Nuwar and other Jordanian officers who fled with him.

Immediately after Hayari took office, the palace ordered the appointment of a five-officer commission of inquiry to look into recent disturbances that followed the young monarch's dismissal of leftist Suleiman Nabulsi's pro-Egyptian government 10 days ago.

The commission was reported empowered to court-martial officers involved. Rumors were that 35 or 40 officers would be tried, dismissed or transferred.

Hayari was described here as reluctant to pursue the inquiry, which night mean the court-martial of some of his old comrades.

To Meet In Austin

AUSTIN, April 20 (AP)—The Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, founded in Waco May 14, 1897, will hold its convention here May 6-9.

Midland Naturopath 'Tempted' To Tell Of Legislative Payoff

MIDLAND, April 20 (AP)—Dr. Henry Schlichting Jr. said today he was "some times tempted" to tell everyone what he knows about the sensational legislative payoff investigation.

"But then I feel it is best not to say anything right now," he said in his office here today.

"There will be a time when it will all come out and I can talk."

The naturopath has been called a "mystery witness" in the widespread investigation of accusations that legislators have been bribed.

The probe was started by a special House committee in Austin, then abruptly handed to the Travis County Grand Jury because of "major developments."

After a grand jury session Thursday, Travis County Dist. Atty. Les Procter said Schlichting had been to Austin. Procter indicated he had made a written statement to the Department of Public Safety.

"I believe I just have no comment on that now," said Schlichting, a prominent civic leader and operator of the Midland Clinic-Hospital. Numerous patients waited in the reception room of his nicely-furnished and well-equipped hospital, which advertises treatment for "acute and chronic diseases of all types."

Schlichting was chairman of the legislative committee of the Texas Naturopathic Physicians Assn. during the 1955 Legislature.

A sign in his office says he also was president of the American Assn. of Naturopathic Physicians in 1955 and 1956.

Five witnesses from a naturopathic association feuding with the TNTA said Thursday before they went into the grand jury room that they believed "Schlichting and his gang" could give all details of funds raised in 1955 in the interest of legislation for and against Texas naturopaths.

Asked if he would like to answer any of the implications, Schlichting said:

"Personally I don't feel that I'm involved but I just rather not say anything right now."

He said "no comment" to all other questions.

Schlichting has been described as a member of most Midland local civic organizations—"a joiner who is very highly respected," one business man said.

Acquaintances said Schlichting has been in Midland for about 20 years.

Notaries Public Must Re-Qualify

Secretary of State Zollie Steakley has announced that he will reappoint persons now holding notary public commissions but that such persons must re-qualify by the filing of a new oath and bond with the county clerk of his residence between June 1-10.

Steakley emphasized that notaries public should not send requests for reappointment or for commissions directly to the secretary of state. The law requires the county clerks to approve notary bonds.

Any person not now a notary public who desires appointment should apply to his county clerk between May 1-20. Application during this period will assure prompt attention before the rush procedure of reappointing present notaries.

Steakley pointed out that each person applying for a commission as a notary public must be at least 21 years of age and a resident of the county for which he is appointed. The exact name and permanent address of the applicant must be furnished the county clerk.

Grazing Deferred On Vast Acreage

Seven ranchers have 37,000 acres under deferred grazing this year, according to range checks completed thus far by the Soil Conservation Service unit at Stanton.

They are the ranches of F. D. Breedlove, George Glass, Raymond Glasscock, Bob Brown, Curtis Erwin, Elmer Dyer and Clyde Berry.

New ranch cooperators with the Martin - Howard Soil Conservation District include Mrs. Alma Wayman, Midland, who ranches 15 miles south of Stanton, and Ellis Everts, whose ranch is located four miles north of Lenorah.

Mrs. Wayman is deferring her entire ranch in order to give present grasses a chance to gain strength and to produce seed for grass increase. Everts is including root plowing and seeding as part of his conservation program. Past experience showed root plowing an effective way to control mesquite and at the same time increase grass production on the plowed area. A good pasture still furnished the most economical feed of any crop on the farm, he contends.

A number of the ranches, where the range checks have been completed, are planning on a program of brush control by aerial spraying while some others are attacking the problem by root plowing. Most have reduced their stocking rate progressively as the drought has held on, and now the average is about 10 head per section.

50 Receive Polio Shots

Fifty persons received Salk polio shots at the City-County Health Unit Friday.

The health unit gives the polio vaccine to indigent persons every Friday afternoon. Bo Bowen, city-county health nurse, said the 50 was not a large number in comparison with some weeks.

Dr. Arch Carson worked at the health unit Friday, as city doctors are helping while the unit is without a regular director. The former director, Dr. Robert Hale, resigned March 1.

Since Dr. Hale's resignation, Drs. B. Broadrick, M. W. Talbot Jr. and C. B. Marcum have donated a Friday afternoon at the health unit. Members of the local medical association have agreed to serve until a permanent director can be named.

Lightning Sets Oil Tank Blaze

HAWKINS, Tex., April 20 (AP)—Lightning ignited five large oil storage tanks at the Service Pipe Line Corp. pumping station and traffic on Highway 80 was halted today.

City Secretary H. A. Pennal said traffic was diverted from the area because flaming oil was running down a ditch along the highway.

About 7,000 barrels of oil were burning, sending smoke high into the sky. The flames shot straight up as there was no wind.

The lightning bolt blew the top of one tank about 100 feet. The Hawkins Fire Dept. apparently succeeded in saving two other nearby tanks, one full and the other with about four feet of oil in it.

Burglary Charged

Charges of burglary of the Truman Jones Motor Company have been filed against Elias Barrera. The complaint was filed Friday afternoon in the court of Walter Grice, justice of the peace.

Uncle Ray:

Seed Balls Of Potato Plants Are Poisonous

By RAMON COFFMAN

A letter has come to me from Mr. Leland C. Maynard regarding the articles we had last month about potatoes. He writes:

"I was much interested in what you wrote about potatoes. Many persons have never seen the fruit of the plant. I recall seeing the fruit, known as "potato balls," some 60 years ago. I was told that they were highly poisonous, and this is hardly surprising in view of the fact that the potato is related to the belladonna or deadly nightshade plant.

"I have seen potato balls only a few times in my life, but several years ago one of my neighbors had some rows of potatoes in a field, and each hill was topped with one or more clusters of them.

"I checked with Mr. Richard C. Potter, director of the Worcester Museum of Natural History, to verify the statement that potato balls are poisonous. The information was deemed important enough to broadcast on two radio programs, one for farmers, the other for a general audience.

"Potato balls are quite attractive. They look like tiny tomatoes. The seeds in them are used to develop new varieties. Only one plant in a large number grown from such seeds will prove of commercial value.

"In early days another plant, the tomato, was grown for ornament, and was supposed to be poisonous."

Mr. Maynard is right in all the points he makes. Tomatoes were called "love apples" in times gone by, and the false idea that they were poisonous was held by many persons.

Uusually the poisonous fruits are present only on wild potato plants, but they appear now and then on "tame" potato plants. Hundreds of varieties of potato plants have been produced.

Exhaustive Search For Fire Hazards Scheduled This Week

The most exhaustive search for fire hazards in the city's history will get under way Tuesday when a corps of fire insurance company inspectors and local firemen launches a basement-to-attic examination of public and commercial buildings.

About 80 fire insurance fieldmen from throughout West Texas will come here for the inspections. They are to arrive Tuesday for the briefing that will precede two days of inspections Wednesday and Thursday.

They and local fireman and Boy Scouts will be divided into four-man teams, each including two inspectors, one fireman and one Scout. The teams will inspect all city, county and school buildings, and will call on all churches and places of business for permission to check the buildings for fire hazards.

Potential fire sources will be "red-tagged" by the examiners, and owners or tenants will be given a list of the hazards with suggestions for corrections.

Many of the city's homes also will come in for inspections. Home inspection blanks will be distributed to all school children and they and their parents will be asked to check their houses for hazards.

A few days after the inspections are completed, local firemen will return to the places checked to see if corrections have been made.

The Chamber of Commerce, which with the City of Big Spring is sponsoring the fire inspection field days, is appealing to all businessmen to cooperate with the inspectors.

Participation will be strictly on a voluntary basis, and the only purpose of the inspections is to eliminate sources of fire.

"The city has one of the best fire-prevention records in the state," Fire Chief H. V. Crocker pointed out. "We think these inspections will help us preserve that record."

At present, Big Spring profits from a 20 per cent credit on fire insurance rates, due to low fire losses during the past five years.

A big parade, featuring several "fire clowns" as well as the visiting inspectors, will be staged at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday to call attention to the fire prevention project.

Comic characters in the parade will be "The Fifth Horseman," representing fire; "The Fire Demon," complete with pitchfork and horns; "I Didn't Believe in Fire Prevention," a man in a barrel who played with fire once too often; and "Stupid Carelessness," a fumbling clown who manages to "accidentally" start harmless demonstration blazes along the parade route.

A contest is being sponsored among the elementary schools to encourage participation in the home inspections. Cash awards are offered for the schools reporting the highest percentage of participation. First prize will be $25, second $15 and third $10.

All of the visiting inspectors are members of the West Texas Division of the Texas Insurance Fieldmen's Association, and each is a special agent for a fire insurance company.

District Clean-Up Chairmen Named For City-Wide Drive

Ten district chairmen, to encourage participation in the city's annual clean-up campaign the week of May 6, have been appointed by Jim Lewis, Clean-Up Committee chairman.

The 10 districts and their chairmen are:

1. Area east of Birdwell Lane, Dr. W. A. Hunt.
2. Territory from First to Eleventh, between Birdwell and Goliad, Mrs. J. W. Dickens.
3. Section south of Eleventh, between Birdwell and Goliad, Raymond River.
4. Area south of Eleventh, between Goliad and Gregg, Mrs. E. P. Driver.
5. Territory south of Eleventh and west of Gregg, Mrs. Obie Bristow.
6. District between First and Eleventh, from Aylford to Goliad, Mrs. Margie Baker.
7. Section between Aylford and Goliad, from North First to north city limits, Ellis Brown.
8. Territory north of North First and west of North Aylford, Oliver Reed and Mrs. Juan Garcia.
9. Area between First and Eleventh and west of Aylford, Elmer Tarbox.
10. Airport area on both sides of U. S. 80, Robert Perrine.

The various chairmen will be asked to call attention of persons in their districts to the clean-up program.

School Shops To Be Open For Soap Box Car Builders

Soap Box Derby entrants will have a chance to get off to a good start here Tuesday.

Louis Maneely, shops instructor at Big Spring High School, will keep the shop open Tuesday evening in order that boys may use power tools for cutting out floor boards, bulkheads or for pegging axle holes.

Maneely will be present to instruct the youngsters in safe and correct use of the tools.

Not many lads in the Derby have access to a set of power tools, which are almost required in heavy and curved sawing such as may be needed on the floor boards and the bulkheads.

The shop will be open from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Loyd Wooten of Tidwell Chevrolet urged boys not to miss this opportunity to get started on their racers.

"School will be out before we know it, and then race time will be just around the corner," he said, "so now is the time to start getting that racer on the road."

Just Happy

No sir, President Eisenhower isn't crying in this photo, he's just happy as he arrived in Augusta, Ga., for a 10-day vacation at nearby Augusta National Golf Club.

New Policemen Are Employed

A new patrolman joined the city police force Saturday, and a dispatcher will go to work Monday, C. L. Rogers, police chief, announced.

Going to work Saturday was W. L. Lennon, 23. He is assigned to the evening shift captained by Lindy Oldfield for the present, Rogers added.

Lennon is moving here from California where he was stationed in the Air Force. At the time of his discharge recently, he was a master sergeant.

His home town is Corsicana. He has a wife and two children.

Albert Alford, formerly with the Yellow Cab Company, will be employed as a dispatcher on the evening shift. The former dispatcher on the shift, Robert Bronson, was moved into the identification officer's slot last week.

Rogers said that addition of these two men left the department only one patrolman short of full strength. In addition to the patrolman, the police department is looking for a secretary. Rogers said he probably will hire one in the near future.

City Hall Plans Will Be Studied

Barring later problems, the city commission will face a short session Tuesday night.

The group will be meeting for its regular bi-weekly session, and Saturday, only two matters had come to the attention of the city manager, H. W. Whitney.

Whitney will show proposed plans for the remodeling of the city hall. Puckett & French, architects-engineers, made the plans and they will submit them to the commission for approval.

The plans have been reworked several times, and Whitney said they are almost to the "finishing-touches" stage.

Second reading will be held for the closed-circuit TV-movie franchise. The franchise is requested by the Big Spring Amusement Company, a group composed of the local R&R Theatres and the Vumore Company. The Vumore firm, of Abilene, originally submitted a request for the franchise.

Three readings are required to pass the franchise ordinance.

Officers Stage 'Tea Party,' Learn The Marijuana Odor

Sheriff Miller Harris, some of his deputies and other law enforcement officers had a "tea" party in the sheriff's office Saturday morning.

As a result, all of those officers who were present now know exactly what a room in which marijuana has been recently smoked will smell like.

Sheriff Harris said that the number of recent arrests for violation of narcotics laws — particularly in the matter of marijuana — has made his staff and associates unusually conscious of this specific crime.

"We were talking about it Saturday," Harris said. "Only one or two of us had ever been around where a marijuana cigarette had been smoked. None of us was sure just what kind of an odor the drug creates.

"We took a marijuana cigarette which had been captured in a raid sometime ago and set it afire.

"All of us who were in the office know now just what the things smell like."

The officers said the contraband had a "sweetish" smell, reminiscent to some of the older members of the days when they were kids and smoked "cigarettes" manufactured out of broom weed.

One thing that all officers agreed upon — if they happen hereafter to drop unexpectedly into a room where marijuana cigarettes have been recently smoked, their noses will make the fact quickly evident.

The pungent aroma was still in existence in the sheriff's office sometime after the mouldering cigarette had expired.

The sheriff prodded at the ashes with his finger.

"What on earth would anyone want to smoke one of those things for?" he pondered.

In recent weeks several charges have been filed against individuals here alleging violation of the marijuana laws.

Last week three persons were ordered committed to the state penitentiary to serve terms of from three to 10 years for possession and sale of the drug.

Post Office Is 'Normal' Again

Things were back to normal at the Big Spring post office on Saturday.

The usual operations were under way—the office was functioning and the windows open during the forenoon; rural route carriers were on their rounds and the city mailmen were making their usual deliveries.

It was a vastly different picture from last Saturday.

That was the one weekend that Postmaster General Summerfield's drastic economy measures to cut down on postal expenses were in operation.

The post office did not open its doors all day Saturday. There were no deliveries of mail either on rural or city routes. Only a skeleton crew was on duty and minimum activities were carried on.

Postmaster Elmer Boatler viewed the restored normal scene with satisfaction. Everyone on the staff seemed happy.

Eruptions Slower

CATANIA, Sicily, April 20 (AP)—Mount Etna's on-again off-again volcanic eruptions eased today as a third flow of molten lava came to a halt in the Valley of the Lion at the 7,500-foot level.

Salvation Army Ponders Expansion Of Facilities

Salvation Army advisory board members began Friday to talk about the problems of expanding facilities to deal with growing transient and case loads.

This was purely in the discussion stage, said Floyd W. Parsons, chairman of the advisory board. There also was discussion of what to do about the present youth center facilities, a dilapidated barracks building which was partially collapsed two years ago by storms.

Capt. Dexter Breazeale said that instead of two representatives as in 1956, there might be as many as 12 or 14 young people to go to the state Salvation Army Camp near Midlothian if they could secure help. Mrs. J. E. Hogan is chairman of the youth activity committee and is to explore means of assisting young people in their desire to attend the camp. Individuals or firms who might like to assist deserving boys and girls could contact her.

The unit here is beginning to shape up its budget for 1958 operations and the first tentative draft may be ready for some discussion within a month. Capt. Breazeale said the increasing load pointed up the issue of whether it would be feasible to add a case worker-secretary.

Alternate Cotton Program Due Study

Ralph White, president, will head a delegation from the Howard County chapter of the Farm Bureau at a special four-state cotton meeting in Dallas this week.

Purpose of the parley is to have a frank look at the current cotton situation and to discuss programs which might be offered as an alternative to the present one.

Last year the American Farm Bureau convention adopted resolutions recommending that producers of marketing quota crops be given a choice between two alternative programs in future marketing quota referendums. This week's meeting is in line with that recommendation.

Until now cotton producers have had a "loaded" choice which insures a two-thirds majority for marketing quotas, said White. If producers failed to vote for quotas the support price would be pegged at 50 per cent of parity, whereas with quotas the price would be pegged between 75 and 90 per cent of parity.

Government cotton programs, unless changed, will decide largely whether domestic and foreign outlets for United States cotton will shrink to 10 million bales or less, or expand in the direction of a 16 to 18 million-bales total within the next 10 years, White said. The bureau has contended that producers should have a right to help decide which way the cotton production industry is going. One way might be to offer an alternative program to be considered in the quota referendum this autumn, he added.

Forsan Board Elects Teachers

FORSAN — All teachers of the Forsan County Line Independent School District have been re-elected by the board of trustees, Supt. Joe T. Holladay has announced.

Resignations, to become effective at the termination of present contracts, were accepted from Frank Honeycutt, coach; J. D. Golden, junior high teacher; Mrs. Evelyn Golden, home economics teacher; and Jeanette Taylor, music teacher.

Returning teachers will be Mrs. Minnie Averitt, first grade; Mrs. Gwen Holladay, second grade; Mrs. J. C. Ferguson, third grade; Mrs. Syble Moreland, fourth grade; Mrs. Murl Bailey, sixth grade; Clarie Conger, seventh grade; and Ronnie Gandy, J. C. Ferguson, Mrs. Hamlin Elrod, and Irene Cedervall, high school teachers.

Holladay and Merritt Romans, principal, already held long-term contracts as administrators.

Fish Secured For Two Stock Ponds

STANTON (SC) — Waddell Strain and Gordon Stone are going to make double use of their stock ponds.

Last week they ordered fish to stock the ponds, and both got bass, blue gill and channel cat. Co-operators with the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District may order fish for pond stocking by contacting the Soil Conservation office here.

Shined Up For Easter

Three-year-old Mary Brown of Liverpool, N. Y., near Syracuse, will sport a pair of darkened eyes beneath her pretty Easter bonnet. Mary, shown studying her Easter appearance, suffered the eye shadowing when she tumbled down a flight of stairs in her home. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard M. Brown.

Easter Shopping On Par With Earlier Years, Clothiers Say

Easter business in Big Spring was about on a parity with that enjoyed by merchants last season, a spot check of several of the leading stores indicated Saturday.

Last minute buyers who had waited until Saturday before making their purchase of the traditional new dress or suit for the Easter parade were fairly abundant in the store aisles during Saturday. Most merchants queried indicated that the unsavory weather of recent weeks had hampered shoppers seriously and that in reality, the Easter rush, such as it developed, was in the last three or four days before the holiday itself.

Hemphill-Wells department store said that business this Easter did not seem to be influenced one way or another by the lateness the day fell. Volume was about on a parity with last year, it was estimated. The men's department had only one new observation to report—there has been a heavier demand for better grade suits than is usual at this season.

"We've sold more suits at prices from $100 up than normal," said the department clerks. "The buyers seem to want the best this year."

The Men's Store, representative of the establishments dealing in male attire, said that business has been good but they, too, emphasized the short duration the rush prevailed and credited the lag to the bad weather in the forepart of April.

Swartz reported that its major buying has been in the popular priced dresses, hats and accessories rather than in the higher-valued merchandise. This establishment said that there was enough volume of dress business to overload alteration workers and as a result relatively few sales of this character were being made on Saturday for Easter use.

"We've simply had to tell customers that we could not deliver garments where alterations had to be made in time for their use tomorrow," said the manager of the store.

Shoe stores and establishments dealing in articles of wear where alteration is no problem had a generally flourishing Saturday trade, it was indicated.

Streets were not unusually crowded for Saturday despite the fact that it was the eve of Easter. There was a sizable number of shoppers bearing suit boxes under their arms and the stores had a fair to average traffic.

Most establishments contacted seemed to be of the impression that the fact Easter fell so late this year—within five days of the last possible date on which it could occur—had little influence one way or another on the buyers' decision to shop.

The cold of recent weeks and the other unsavory weather elements were of more pressing impact in this field than the date of the holiday itself.

A. J. Hooks, 65-Yr. Mitchell Resident, Dies

COLORADO CITY, April 20 — Alexander John Hooks, 73, died at his home northeast of here Friday and funeral services will be held here Sunday.

Mr. Hooks had been a resident of Mitchell County since 1891.

The funeral services will be held in the Buford Methodist Church at 4:30 p.m., with Rev. Fred Cox, pastor, officiating. Rev. James Shuler of Fort Worth will assist. Burial will be in Colorado City Cemetery under the direction of Kiker & Son Funeral Home.

Bids Due Monday On Road Surfacing

Howard County Commissioners Court will consider bids on Monday for the surfacing of five miles of county built highway.

Three miles of the road to be topped are located near Gay Hill school. The other two miles make up "the Forsan road."

County road and bridge crews have built the roads and prepared them for the hard-top treatment. It has been found more economical and practical to let contracts to professional establishments to do this work than to have county workmen do it.

Generally, county roads cost around $2,000 per mile for topping. Walter Parks, county highway engineer, estimated that the cost this year would probably be in that amount.

Parks said that work on the Old Colorado City road job is moving ahead at good speed. He estimated that 75 per cent of needed excavation has been completed.

All fences, utility lines and other obstacles have been moved back and the job is a little ahead of the advance timetable made for it, the engineer reported.

Plans are for the county to complete caliche hauling on this road by June 8. It is the first road construction job undertaken by the county crews this year. The five miles involved will be the start of a program which envisions more than 19 miles of hard surfaced roadway to be built by the county crews during 1957.

The Gay Hill and Forsan roads, for which the topping contracts are to be sought Monday, are a portion of last year's road building program.

Parks reported that work is also moving ahead on the Birdwell Lane job at the outskirts of Big Spring. A sizable culvert required on this short segment of road, is rapidly nearing completion. The culvert is 42 feet by 32 feet. Walls and base, as well as supporting partitions, are completed. The top will be laid soon. This road job extends from Third Street to the T&P railroad.

Survey work is being started on other of the road projects which have been tentatively approved by the commissoners for construction this year.

Right-of-way easements are being gathered for these jobs and Parks explained that his department is moving onto each project for preliminary work as quickly as clearance is provided.

Lamesans Facing Water Rationing

LAMESA, April 20 — The Lamesa City Council Thursday passed an ordinance setting new speed limits on all highways through the city.

The new speed zones had been recommended by the Texas Highway Department after a survey here to determine the speed vehicles were travelling. The zones were approved by the Citizens Traffic Commission Wednesday afternoon, and were presented to the council by Chief of Police Bill Morgan.

The only streets affected are Bryan, Dallas, Lynn and North Fourth. Chief Morgan said after the meeting that new signs would go up in the very near future designating speed limits.

In other action, the council called for bids on two new fire trucks. The bids will be opened on May 16. The council also voted to purchase a 75-foot lot on North 15th Street, two lots east of the High School Gymnasium, from the Lamesa Independent School District. The school is asking $1,250 for the property.

City Manager Carroll Taylor told the council that unless showers keep falling, keeping water consumption down, it will probably be necessary to ration water until the Bartlett and Walls fields can be put on a producing basis. Taylor said the daily consumption is now averaging about two million gallons on water. He reported to the council that apparently the Woodard Field, from which the city has pumped water for several years is badly depleted.

Drilling began Monday on the Bartlett tract. Completion of the Bartlett and Walls wells, the service lines, and the pipeline from the field to the Rountree Reservoir, is set for about July 1.

The council spent a little time in the discussion of the 1957 budget as prepared by Taylor. As they had not had sufficient time to study it, no action was taken. The budget, as proposed, is the largest in the history of the city, but still has a cushion of about $19,000.

Taylor told the council that the budget as he had proposed it, will be about $90,000 more than the budget adopted for the 1956 fiscal year. Taylor pointed out that actually, income for 1956 exceeded expectations by about $50,000, and that expenditures were about $40,000 more.

Expenditures of the city during 1956 were $395,876, for budget items, $55,000 for water and sewer bond sinking fund, $10,000 for the Board of City Development, and $24,000 for the tax bond sinking fund, giving a total of $484,876.

COURT BOX SCORE

15 Convictions Out Of 16 Cases

Fifteen of 16 defendants, under indictment by the recent grand jury, who have faced either a jury or Judge Charlie Sullivan in 118th District Court in the past seven days, have drawn prison terms. Three of the 15 were convicted by juries and the others have entered pleas of guilty and thrown themselves on the mercy of the court.

Only in two cases were the prison sentences assessed suspended or probated. All of the other 13 will have to serve their time. The sentences ranged from one year to life. Two life sentences were doled out — one on a plea of guilty and the second by a verdict of a jury.

One jury verdict acquitted one defendant — the only "not guilty" finding of the entire week.

Prison terms assessed — excluding the two life terms — aggregated 43 years. Fines assessed ran $750.

Several of those who were either convicted last week or who pleaded guilty have already been removed from the Howard County jail to the state penitentiary. Several others will be taken to the state prison soon, Miller Harris, sheriff, said.

Box score on the week's activity in district criminal court:

Guilty pleas — Daniel P. Clevenger, two years for burglary; Grant B. Williams, two years for forgery; Andrew Perez, four years for burglary; Troy James, five years for robbery by assault; Alvin Pace, one year for DWI second offense; Kenneth Gerald Neel, life for robbery by assault; Apolinar Olquin, $250 fine and 10 days in jail on two counts, DWI second offense; Frances Williams, three years for forgery, suspended; Thomas Rodriguez, five years for possession of narcotics; Raymond Chavez, three years for possession of narcotics; George Krusley, three years for burglary; Loyd Patton, $250 fine and one year probated sentence for DWI second offense.

Jury verdicts — Moses Viera, burglary, two years; Harmon Harold Neel, life in prison for robbery by assault; Gus Elqueseva, 10 years for possession of narcotics; T. A. Melton, driving while intoxicated second offense, acquittal.

Matador Records Arrive At Tech

LUBBOCK April 20 — A dream of nearly 30 years became a reality this week with the delivery to Texas Tech from Dundee, Scotland, of the last of the records of the now legendary Matador Land and Cattle Co.

The Dundee records, along with previously acquired American records and correspondence of a single ranching venture ever gathered in one place.

This is the last step in a continuing record - gathering process begun in 1930. Records from the Matador and Alamositas division headquarters dating from 1902 to 1952, and the American headquarters records, which had been in Denver since 1919, are now housed in Tech's Southwest Collection. These documents, along with the Dundee records, complete the collection of historical documents from the largest foreign-owned cattle empire in America.

Included in the Dundee shipment were 30 boxes and 29 map cases. Dr. Seymour V. Conner, Tech archivist, said the records will be inventoried and added to those previously collected. They will be placed in vertical file cases or filing cabinets and housed in a 42-by 15-foot room behind the Tech Museum, where they will be available to students of ranching history.

EMPIRE BEGINS

The Matador empire began in 1878, when A. M. Britton entered into a partnership with H. H. (Hank) Campbell. Campbell had purchased a small herd of cattle and made his headquarters in an abandoned dugout at Ballard Springs in Motley County, according to "The Handbook of Texas."

Eight thousand "Jinglebob" cattle were the next addition. Seeing the unlimited possibilities, S. M. Lomax soon joined Britton in financing the enterprise, which later reorganized as the Matador Cattle Co. with a capital stock estimated at $50,000. It was this amount of money that suggested the first brand name, 50 M. One year later the brand was replaced by the Matador V.

In December, 1882, the Matador Cattle Co. sold out to the newly created Matador Land and Cattle Co. Ltd. of Dundee, Scotland. The transaction involved approximately three million acres of land and sixty thousand head of cattle. The land area covered Motle, Dickens, Cottle and Floyd counties.

In 1903, an additional 500,000 acres of land was leased from the U. S. government on the Sioux Indian Reservation in North Dakota. Another 150,000 acres was soon acquired on the Swift River, Saskatchewan, Canada.

MORE ACREAGE

In 1904, the Alamositas division of the 200,000 acres of XIT ranchland was purchased from the Capital Syndicate. This included tracts on both sides of the Canadian River in Oldham County.

The original ranch was enlarged again, and by 1910, the company owned 861,000 acres in Texas, and had under lease an additional 650,000 acres in two northern pastures, for a total of 1,511,000 acres.

On June 16, 1951, the Denver headquarters office announced the sale of 800,000 shares of Matador stock at $23.70 a share to an American Syndicate, Lazard Brothers. Thus came the end of the last great cattle empire which, in its long history, maintained its original goal of solely producing beef.

Bristow Aids In Passage Of New Youth Supervisory Bill

Legislative action was completed this past week on a measure to create a new Texas Youth Council. The bill is now before Gov. Price Daniel for signature, and he has endorsed it.

Rep. Obie Bristow of Big Spring was head of a House subcommittee which developed the measure, and assisted the authors, Sen. Crawford E. Martin of Hillsboro and Rep. Mayne Kelly of Afton, in carrying the measure to final passage.

The present Youth Development Council, composed mostly of state department heads, would be replaced by a new three-member council named by the governor. Object behind the new legislation, Bristow said, is to create a council which can be more directly concerned with youth welfare, and he said he feels the bill is one of the more helpful items that has come out of this session of the Legislature.

The council would take over supervision of Corsicana State Home, Waco State Home, the Texas Blind, Deaf and Orphan School (for Negroes, at Austin), Gatesville State School for Boys, Gainesville State School for Girls, and the Crockett State School for Negro Girls.

Besides supervising the six institutions, the council would be charged with helping curb juvenile delinquency and assisting local authorities with this problem.

Business Men See Advance At Year End

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—Business may level off in the months ahead. But it should come back strong in the fourth quarter.

That's how corporation heads, bankers and economists sized up the situation this week.

Opinion was far from unanimous. But most of it was optimistic.

Bolstering confidence in the economy was a report from President Eisenhower's Council of Economic Advisers on the sum total of all business activity in the first three months this year. This total is measured on an economic yardstick called the "gross national product."

In the first quarter of 1957, the nation's gross national product climbed to a record high. Despite soft spots, cutbacks and layoffs, the economy as a whole raced along at a whirlwind pace of 427 billion dollars a year. That's three per cent more than in the booming fourth quarter of 1956. It's 23½ per cent greater than in last year's first quarter.

You could find plenty of such ups and downs this week in the latest batch of corporate earnings reports.

Announcing or forecasting fat increases in profits for the first three months were such leaders as General Electric—up 16 per cent—Dupont, American Machine & Foundry, Caterpillar Tractor Sun Oil and Chrysler.

The list reporting lower profits included an equally impressive assortment of blue chips: Aluminum Co. of America — down 23 per cent from a year ago —Johns-Manville, M. Lowestein & Sons, National Dairy Products, United States Rubber, and Union Carbide. Some reported falling profits on rising sales. National Dairy attributed this apparent paradox to "the continuing rise in the cost of doing business."

Retail merchants, many of them concerned about lagging Easter sales, had cause for joy. An 11th-hour buying surge was expected to boost the nation's total Easter trade slightly above last year's levels.

Best news for auto dealers was word that new car inventories were being kept within bounds, thanks to stepped-up sales and factory cutbacks. Field stocks on April 1 amounted to 763,000 cars, as compared to almost 900,000 at the same time last year.

New Experiment Station Chief Due This Week

Dr. Earl Burnett, who is to replace Fred E. Keating as superintendent of the U. S. Experiment Station here, is scheduled to assume his new duties this week.

Dr. Burnett was in Big Spring Friday but has not as yet made his move to this city.

Meantime, the Keatings, who have become legendary in the many years that Fred has been superintendent of the station, are packing up their belongings.

Sometime in the near future, they will move from the rambling, old-fashioned residence on the Experiment Station property to a new home somewhere here in town.

They have not as yet located a house.

Keating is to continue with the station. He will devote his time from now on largely to writing reports on the experiments and observations he has made in the years he has headed the station.

Dr. Burnett is a graduate of Texas Tech. He is a native Texan and has had considerable experience with the USDA. He comes here from Spur.

Keating began his duties with the U. S. Experiment Station here in 1922 and has been superintendent of the installation for 35 years. He and Mrs. Keating have lived in the headquarters residence all of that time.

Trio Held For Theft Of Lumber

Three Latin Americans were arrested by police Saturday morning in connection with theft of a large amount of lumber Friday night.

The police department got a call Friday night that a group of men in a Dodge pickup were picking up some lumber in the Monticello addition. When officers arrived, the men were gone.

Saturday morning three Latin Americans were arrested after a pile of lumber was discovered behind their residence. The lumber was identified as that stolen.

After interrogation by police, the men were transferred to the county jail for investigation of theft over $50, a felony.

Intruder Attempts To Choke Girl, 15

An intruder entered a residence Friday night, attempted to choke a 15-year-old girl, and then escaped. Nothing in the house in the 1500 block of West Second was bothered.

Burglars could find only pencils when they broke into the glove compartment of a Gandy Creamery truck Friday night.

The firm reported to police Saturday that one of its trucks had been broken into, but there was nothing in it but some pencils.

Proxy Battle Under Way For Mo-Pac Control

ST. LOUIS, April 20 (AP)—The management of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, engaged in a proxy battle with an opposition group seeking to elect four directors, is appealing to the railroad's stockholders for support.

T.C. Davis of New York, who was Mopac chairman when the company was in bankruptcy, is a member of the opposition slate.

"We know little of their present purpose and ambitions, except that they are manifestly opposed to your management," Mopac President P.J. Neff wrote stockholders.

"In view of the fact that your company so recently emerged from its 23-year reorganization proceedings, that it has just completed a highly successful year xxx your management had hoped there would be no contest for the election of directors."

Five directors will be named to the 15-member board at the May 14 stockholders meeting in St. Louis, the first such meeting since the company emerged from bankruptcy.

The management also assailed the action of Thomas Shearman of Lake Charles, La., a member of the opposition slate, in filing suit in circuit court at Independence, Mo., seeking a change from the staggered method of electing board members. The suit asked that all 15 members be elected annually instead of being named each year to three-year terms.

Jack Childers Rites Pending

Funeral arrangements for Jack Childers, 44, who died Friday afternoon in Los Angeles, Calif., are pending at the Nalley-Pickle Funeral home.

Burial is to be in Big Spring but details are as yet uncertain. The body is being shipped from Los Angeles to Big Spring.

Mr. Childers, who was a mechanic for Douglass Aircraft at the time of his death, was born March 27, 1913, at Brady.

He was married at Brady Oct. 19, 1936 and with his wife moved to Los Angeles in 1949. He had made his home in Los Angeles since that time.

Survivors include Mrs. Billie Childers, his wife; two brothers, Cecil Childers, Hobbs, N. M., and Edwin Childers, Eldorado, Texas; four sisters, Mrs. Annie Merle Moore of Lampasas; Mrs. Delma Bradshaw, Austin; Mrs. Faye New, Austin, and Mrs. Gay Wade, Brady; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Childers of Rochelle.

Influenza Is Most Prevalent Infection

Influenza topped the list of communicable diseases in Big Spring during the past week, according to the city-county health unit.

The weekly report from the health unit showed 29 cases of influenza, and 20 cases of diarrhea. The health unit reported, however, that the list was not complete; some physicians had not turned in their reports.

Fourteen were bothered by gastroenteritis, and 13 had mumps. There were nine cases of pneumonia, and eight each of tonsilitis and measles.

End Of The Road For Bomber

George Metesky, the Mad Bomber who planted 32 homemade explosives in New York public places over the past 16 years, waves feebly from his stretcher as he is carried from a Brooklyn, N.Y., hospital on his way to Matteawan State Hospital for the criminally insane. It is expected to be the last journey for the 54-year-old Waterbury, Conn., bachelor, who doctors say is dying of tuberculosis and is mentally incapable of standing trial. (AP Wirephoto.)

Ike Unperturbed By Brother 'Fuss'

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP)—It is possible — even easy sometimes—to make Dwight D. Eisenhower mad, as many a soldier and civilian has learned the hard way. But you can't do it by suggesting there may be a wedge between him and any of his brothers.

This notion is so fantastic to the President that he grins at the very mention of it. His grin has seldom been broader than it was this week when brother Edgar did a little public grumbling about that man in the White House, or at least about the way brother Dwight and his friends were running the country.

"Edgar," said the President with chuckling affection, "has been criticizing me since I was 5 years old."

Whereupon Ike Eisenhower invited brothers Edgar and Milton to dinner and about all that happened, by Edgar's account, is that the two other Eisenhowers laughingly advised big Ed to keep his lip buttoned in the presence of reporters if he doesn't want to get his name in the paper.

That seemed to end an amusing little human interest episode, so far as the Eisenhower family was concerned. But there may yet be political echoes. For Edgar, a well-to-do Tacoma, Wash., lawyer, had been saying just what some other less friendly critics thought: that brother Ike wants to spend too much of the taxpayers' money.

You can even hear talk, especially in more conservative Republican circles, of Edgar Eisenhower for president — just as there was talk in other party circles of trying to get Milton Eisenhower to run in 1956 in case Ike bowed out.

Of Edgar:

"He'd be a natural with the Eisenhower name and his economy ideas," one GOP legislator told this reporter. "Don't quote me, for heaven's sake — I'm a strong Ike man, and I'm not getting mixed up in any family squabbles. But Edgar sure talks the way a lot of us are thinking."

Edgar Eisenhower gave no sign that he heard about any presidential boomlet, but it's safe to predict his reaction would be a characteristic burst of deep-from-the-chest laughter. He didn't even want brother Dwight to run for president in 1952, to say nothing of going after the job himself.

STORMS

1.59 inches during a brief period.

Water also was reported over some roads east of Lubbock.

The State Highway Department said farm roads 887 and 81 in South Texas' Karnes County were closed because of high water. The department said the roads would be closed overnight and possibly Sunday.

Heavy hail fell at Lubbock, Quannah, Paducah and Chillicothe.

Plainview's Hale County airport had an even 3 inches of rain in about an hour and a half. Rainfall in town measured about 1.50 inches and water flooded sidewalks and into a few stores.

The State Highway Patrol said farm road 308 between Penelope and Malone in Hill County also was flooded. It said a bridge was out on State Highway 14 between Mexia and Wortham.

Violent storm activity near Guthrie showed on the Weather Bureau radar system. Telephone circuits to Guthrie were out. Hail and heavy rain storms were reported.

One person was dead and one was missing as result of torrential rains of up to 9.8 inches which fell in the state Friday and early Saturday. Dozens of others were rescued from flood waters after taking refuge in trees and on the tops of stranded cars.

Between 150 and 200 persons were evacuated from low-lying districts of Waco when rain-swollen streams left their banks and flooded some streets with water up to 15 feet depth.

The heaviest reported rain in the 24-hour period — 9.8 inches—was at a farm near Waco.

Other Central Texas points had deluges. Purdon reported 8 inches and Dawson 7 inches in the Corsicana area. Waco had 5.45 inches during the 24 - hour period, the heaviest since the downpour accompanying the May 11, 1953 tornado. Corsicana had 4.80 inches.

Earlier Friday rains ranging from 6 inches in South Texas to 4 inches in the Red River Valley area swept the state.

Highways were closed temporarily Saturday in a number of Central Texas areas.

Along the Mexican border, the Rio Grande, running 24,900 cubic feet a second from rains ranging up to six inches in its watershed, was expected to crest Saturday at Laredo.

The death attributed to the storm was that of Dellous Stitts, 31, of Ben Franklin who was fatally injured early Saturday when he lost control of his car during a driving rainstorm west of Paris.

Two things about West Texas weather: It will be unpredictable, and the wind will blow. Last Sunday there was a mantle of ice on vegetation. By Tuesday the temperature was up to 92 degrees. 48 Hours Without Traffic Mishap

The city went through 48 hours without a traffic accident here starting the Easter weekend.

The police department reported the last accident occurred at 9:06 p.m. Thursday. None were reported Friday or Saturday. One did occur at the intersection of FR700 and W. Hwy. 80 Saturday night, but it was out of the city limits.

Easter Seal Fund Near $3,000 Mark

Big Spring and Howard County neared the $3,000 mark in collection of Easter Seal funds Saturday.

Bo Bowen, city - county health nurse, said that $2,809.35 had been collected through Saturday morning. Naturally, this did not include what was taken in from the coffeeday business Saturday, nor any Easter Seal containers in stores.

The money will be used here in Howard County and also by the state organization, the Texas Society for Crippled Children and Adults, for its work.

Daniel's Programs Snagged As Legislature Nears Close

AUSTIN, April 20 (AP)—Fast action in the House and Senate this week moved the Legislature within shouting distance of final adjournment. Numerous major obstacles remain.

Some of Gov. Price Daniel's major program points—such as Insurance Commission reorganization and a statewide watchdog commission on crime—appeared to be bogged down.

The question of teachers' pay raises, and a final agreement on spending likewise must be disposed of before the lawmakers can write off the current session as completed.

The desire to handle major remaining questions quickly and end the session within the 120-day period suggested by the Constitution continued to grow in both houses this week. Marathon sessions were held to push pet bills—plus many major items of legislation—a little further along. Work on many bills was finished.

The House took a Thursday through Monday Easter recess, voting to get back on the job Tuesday at 1 p.m. The Senate held its first Friday meeting of the sessions, showed signs of ill - temper indicating impatience and a desire to finish its work, and adjourned until 10:30 a.m. Tuesday.

The key conference committee on the two billion dollar-plus appropriations bill knocked off for part of the Easter recess, but was called to take up its rewriting of the measure again Monday at 1 p.m. This committee has been working day and night to get the bill in final shape.

Sen. William Fly of Victoria, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said he believed the conferees could report their recommendations May 1.

Bills intended to raise about 20 million dollars for teachers' pay raises made progress this week. This expected new revenue, plus the final outcome of the conference committee's spending recommendations, may tell the story as to how much teachers will get. They are asking an average $399 annual increase in minimum pay.

The water program urged by Daniel moved forward, and other major bills advanced.

One of the most important was the Youth Council bill, reorganizing the state management of such institutions as the Gatesville Training School for delinquent boys. It has been called an effort to find the answer to the problem of juvenile delinquency.

Both houses finished action on the youth measure and sent it to the governor. A council of three with an executive director will manage the state youth institutions at Gainesville, Gatesville, Waco, Corsicana, Crockett and the school and home at Austin for Negro orphans and deaf and blind children.

The House threw a big batch of anti-integration bills at the Senate, which set a special public hearing Wednesday at 8 p.m. on some of them. These bills will be heard by the important State Affairs Committee. A filibuster to defeat them has been threatened if the bills reach the Senate calendar.

A proposed sweeping change in the state's legislative system already approved by the House advanced to final reading in the Senate. It was the proposed annual sessions constitutional amendment. On one test it got 22 votes, 21 on another. It needs 21 for final approval.

Widely backed by statewide civic and political study groups, it was regarded as having a good chance of final approval for submission to the electorate in the general election in 1958. Under it, the Legislature would meet once a year, with the even-year sessions limited to 60 days.

But if the Legislature adjourns finally by May 10—the present target date—many measures will be lost in the last-minute rush.

Tries To Cash Forged Check

City and county authorities were alerted for a person who tried to give a forged check here Saturday morning.

David Elrod called the police department and reported that a man tried to give a check to Bill Ward bearing Elrod's name. The check was on the State National Bank.

'Hardest' Rain Is Too Fleeting

A sudden splashing rain flurry which lasted only seconds swooped down over Big Spring early Saturday morning.

However, its duration was so brief that the best the weather observers could term it was a "trace." For the fleeting interval that it continued it was rated as one of the hardest rains in some time.

'Intolerable' Concessions Charged In Air Base Deal

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP) — Sen. Javits (R-NY) accused the State Department tonight of having made "intolerable" concessions in exchange for continued use of the Dhahran air base in Saudi Arabia.

The New York Republican made public an exchange of letters protesting against what he called King Saud's discrimination against American Jews and the Saudi Arabian King's support of Egyptian President Gamal Abded Nasser.

Javits said the recently concluded five-year extension of the U.S. right to use the Dhahran air base "may be justified on security grounds, and in that I have the greatest respect for the judgment of our President."

But, he said, to "tolerate" barring U. S. soldiers of Jewish faith from the base or Saudi Arabia's backing of Nasser and his defiance of the United Nations is contrary to U. S. interest and to peace.

It is "intolerable," Javits said, and the department's policy "should not allow of it for an indefinite future."

Assistant Secretary of State Robert C. Hill wrote Javits April 17 citing the recent refueling of the round-the-world flight of B52 aircraft over Dhahran as an example of its importance to U. S. national security.

Easter Marked By Texas Pageantry

By The Associated Press

Colorful pageants in the Central Texas Hill Country marked the beginning of Easter Sunday religious observance in the state.

Cloudy skies and predictions of rain erased hopes for fair Easter Sunday weather as the state prepared for one of the year's most important religious days.

A cast of more than 300 was to present the annual Easter pageant Saturday night at Fredericksburg, one of the state's oldest communities in the Hill Country.

In a unique ceremony, fires were lighted on surrounding hilltops as the trial, crucifixation and resurrection of Christ was retold in drama at the century old observance.

The fires have been lighted every Easter since 1846 when a pioneer mother in the German settlement quieted the fears of her children by telling them that the campfires of hostile Indians were those of the Easter rabbit heating water to dye Easter eggs.

Thousands gathered Saturday night on the slope of Lovers Leap Mountain near Junction for the annual Easter Pageant. The hours-long religious dramatization each year continues into early Easter morning.

A Western touch was added to the Junction pageant. Visitors were served coffee by Texas Ranger Capt. Gully Cowsert from his chuck wagon.

Three sunrise Easter services were scheduled Sunday morning at Kerrville, another Hill Country city. One of the services was to be conducted at Tivy Mountain which overlooks the city.

Hundreds of other sunrise services were set across Texas. Many churches scheduled additional services to accommodate the large numbers.

Giant Naval Review To Show Sample Of Life In America

WASHINGTON, April 20 (AP) — Plans for the International Naval Review in June, first in this country in half a century, are being broadened to show the 40,000 visiting foreign sailors a sample of life in the United States.

Along with the mighty display of warship power by more than a score of nations at Virginia's great Hampton roadstead, the visitors will have a chance to see some Americana ashore, including:

Cultural affairs — symphony concerts, ballet, instrumental and vocal soloists.

More folk events — hillbilly music, an ice show, Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey Circus, a rodeo, the "biggest beach party in the world," with camp fires and hot dog roasts stretched along eight miles of Virginia Beach.

A county fair — with overtones of an international trade exhibit, where the products of American industry and a cross-section of life in American homes will be displayed, including modern farm kitchens.

Sports — basketball, rowing, swimming. (The sponsors wanted to stage a big league baseball game, but couldn't find a stadium big enough.)

Visits to Williamsburg, Va., the almost completely restored village of colonial days, and to Jamestown Island, where the 350th anniversary of the founding is being observed with pageantry. The naval review is a part of this anniversary celebration.

Officials and representatives of the naval review program, including Ben Wahrman, executive director, and Rear Adm. Howard A. Yeager, outlined the plans at a news conference.

Wahrman explained that it would have been good if crews of the visiting foreign ships could make inland travels to see the United States. Because that might be too great a financial burden on them "we are trying to bring as much of the United States to them as possible."

Theme for the naval review, says an announcement, is 'Freedom of the Seas,' since the Jamestown Colony marked the beginning of a successful flow of peoples and their cultures across the Atlantic from many lands to form the United States."

The State Department issued the invitations to nations to send ships for the first review held in the United States since 1907. The department, says the announcement, "felt that only those nations should be included which might have some reason to participate in celebrating the Jamestown founding and the colonization of North America." Thus the list was "limited to the Americas, those European nations which participated in the exploration and settlement of this country, and those countries which are members of NATO, which has headquarters (Supreme Allied Command, Atlantic) at Hampton Roads."

Plan Speedup Of Financing Babe Zaharias Cancer Fund

GALVESTON, April 20 (AP)—A stepped-up drive to secure permanent financing for the Babe Didrickson Zaharias Memorial Cancer Fund was announced today by Dr. John L. Otto, the fund's executive director.

"We are directing our appeal throughout the nation to persons active in the sports world, to service organizations interested in sponsoring sports events or other events on behalf of the Babe's Memorial Fund, and to all individuals or groups who would like to help fight cancer through this fund," Dr. Otto said. He is associate professor of neuropsychiatry at the University of Texas Medical Branch.

The non-profit fund was established in 1955 by the Babe and her husband, George Zaharias, one year before she died of cancer. Its objective is to finance clinics for early detection and treatment of cancer. Following initial warm response, contributions to the fund have trickled in slowly, limiting grants that can be made by the fund.

"It is the hope of our board of directors that all fields of sports endeavor will join in the Babe's battle against cancer," said Dr. Otto.

"While she was identified primarily as a golfer, she also was All-American in basketball, Olympics champion in field and track, and an outstanding performer in every sport she entered. Her all-around proficiency brought her recognition as the greatest woman athlete of the half century in 1949. For these reasons we believe the sports world will respond to the Babe's last great wish — that her friends would pitch in to whip cancer, one of mankind's most formidable enemies."

Dr. Otto said special emphasis will be placed on having sports events dedicated to the fund during June, the Babe's birth month.

"The fund does not require, nor does it ask, that any fixed amount of the proceeds of such events be contributed to the fund. This is left entirely to the discretion of the sponsoring group," Dr. Otto said.

Out Of Defeat Rose A Shining Victory

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

Out of the ruin rose a new city. Out of the ashes of despair rose a spire of hope, out of loss came discovery. Out of defeat, conquest. Out of death, life.

"For He is risen!"

That is the winging word, the immeasurable tidings of Jesus at Easter dawn, the broken that became the whole, the surrender that became advance, the vanquished that was the victor.

"Whosoever will save his life shall lose it; but whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it."

That is Jesus, the man called God, the God called man, the baffling mystery, the vivid revelation, the knowledge that contradicted the known and sent earth-bound axioms reeling across the centuries.

"Behold, I make all things new ...I am the alpha and omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last . . . the bright and morning star."

The bells ring out, and many-throated choirs burst forth with "Halleluiah! Halleluiah!," and the long, dark road of travail emerges in the sun-clad hills of home.

"If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me . . . He that shall endure to the end, the same shall be saved."

He walked through the battlegrounds of earth, breasting the deceit, the cruelty, the power-lust and persecution, and they fought him and tried to destroy him, but he endured, and he beat them.

"Fear not them which kill the body, but are not able to kill the soul . . . For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul?"

He voyaged into the storm, and he stood against the winds of hate and battering tides of pretense and scorn, and he surmounted the gale to reach the shining shore.

"O thou of little faith . . . why are ye so fearful? . . . . Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid . . . In the world ye shall have tribulation; but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world."

Wide Selection Of Merchandise

Mrs. Jeanette Long, deputy in the office of Mrs. Viola Robinson, county tax assessor-collector, displays most of the assorted types of motor vehicle plates which the office dispenses. Two other tags should be shown — one for farm truck tractor and the other the pale green tag, which is issued to replace a lost or stolen plate from a passenger car. The tags, as can be noted, are all stamped with their individual uses with the exception of the tiny model which Jeanette holds. This is the tag for motorcycles.

Small Colleges Join For Brighter Places In The Sun

By HERMAN ALLEN
Associated Press Education Writer

An ailing window shade whirred like an angry rattlesnake and crashed to the floor.

With the practiced air of a seasoned do-it-yourselfer, President Royce S. Pitkin of Goddard College mounted a chair, restored the shade, dismounted and continued his commencement address.

The incident caused little stir among the Plainfield, Vt., institution's handful of students and faculty. Things like that are always happening at Goddard—and at 150 or so other respected but small and out-of-pocket American colleges where everyone from the president on down has to pitch in to hold the place together.

For years these colleges have been trapped in a two-way plight that has at once kept them poor and prevented them from taking a full part in meeting the surge of youngsters who want a college education.

On the one hand, they have found it difficult to get money from the big corporations and foundations because they lack approval of one of the six regional "accrediting" agencies. They were completely left out of the multimillion dollar Ford Foundation grants to colleges a year ago, for instance.

On the other hand, accrediting agencies have been reluctant to approve them because they lack the financing to stock adequate libraries, to hire enough Ph. D. professors or otherwise meet the agencies' requirements.

Now, led by a seemingly tireless West Virginia college president, 53 of these colleges have banded together to make a pitch for a brighter place in the educational sun.

The pitch that the Council for the Advancement of Small Colleges makes is this:

1. The flood tide of young Americans seeking college education is expected to double by 1970 —maybe triple. Places are going to have to be found for these students.

2. Here are 53 going concerns, ready and willing to take on their share of the load but not able to do so because of their accreditation and financial handicaps.

3. It would be much more economical for the nation to help these schools to upgrade themselves than it would be to expand institutions already accredited, or to build new colleges or junior colleges.

Already the virtually night-and-day efforts of President Duane K. Hurley of Salem (W.Va.) College, president of the council, have produced some promising results.

The Ford-financed Fund for the Advancement of Education has contributed $71,000 for tests of CASC college students to see how they stack up against students of accredited four-year liberal arts schools.

Among big business concerns, Union Carbide and Carbon has given $26,500—$500 for each of the 53 council members. "Seed money," Carbide calls it, planted in the hope that other donors will follow.

That such plantings do sprout was proved by a $25,000 U. S. Steel Corp. gift to Ohio Northern University in Ada.

Although ONU is not a council member, it is nonaccredited. With the promise of U.S. Steel money as a lever, it got another $250,000 in contributions from church, industrial and alumni groups and hopes to be accredited soon.

Every member of CASC, which has headquarters in Washington, is committed to improve itself to win regional accreditation.

"Theoretically at least," says Executive Secretary Alfred T. Hill "we're in business to work ourselves out of business as fast as possible."

Hill estimates that out of the 150 or so nonaccredited American colleges about 75 in all would be eligible for council membership. Of the others, some are too specialized — strictly Bible colleges perhaps, or music or art schools — and others, like Ohio Northern, seem on the verge of accreditation anyway.

Not all small colleges are nonaccredited, or financially hard up for that matter. Haverford (Pa.) College, for instance, with some 450 students, has long been accredited and is quite well-to-do to boot.

Since last August, when CASC got under way, one member has won accreditation. Hillyer College of Hartford, Conn., approved by the New England Assn. of Colleges and Secondary Schools, plans to join with a Hartford music school and some other small colleges to form the University of Hartford.

Why is accreditation so sought after?

Graduates of nonaccredited colleges have trouble getting into some university graduate schools, for one thing, and some employers look askance at their educational records.

Teachers trained in nonaccredited colleges can't get licenses in some states.

Scholarship donors may bar nonaccredited colleges.

If accreditation means so much, why does anybody go to a nonaccredited school at all?

Hill has some answers.

"An important reason," he says, "is that most of them are unpretentious and costs are low. Among our members $1,000 on the average will pay a year's tuition and fees.

"And many of our schools have a strong religious appeal. Take Eastern Mennonite, down at Harrisonburg, Va., for instance. The girls wear their lace caps and black cotton stockings, and it's a pretty quiet place by some standards. Yet Eastern Mennonite draws students from 15 foreign countries, and they have plenty of good wholesome fun without playing the social racket."

Bill Signed To Give Britain A Delay On Debt

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 20 (AP)—President Eisenhower signed today a bill granting authority for Great Britain to postpone up to seven annual payments of principal and interest on her debt to this country.

Eisenhower had asked Congress for the authority. Britain sought the deferment because of a financial squeeze resulting from last fall's British-French attack on Egypt and the closing of the Suez Canal.

The new law amends the 1945 agreement which called for Britain to make annual payments of about 134 million dollars on her lend-lease debt and a postwar loan of 3¾ billion dollars.

The seven annual payments may be deferred, if Britain takes full advantage of the new authority, until the year 2001, but would have to be made starting then. That is the year in which Britain was scheduled to pay off the debt under the 1945 agreement.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has said he does not expect Britain to defer seven consecutive annual payments, but to pick the years in which such action would be most advantageous to her.

Vehicle Licenses In Variety Of Types

It's not quite enough to step up to the counter in the office of Mrs. Viola Robinson, county tax assessor-collector, and announce that one wishes to buy a motor vehicle tag.

The deputy is likely to ask you which kind of tag it is you desire.

You see, she has some 10 different kinds of plates in stock.

Special tags are issued for truck tractors, for city buses, for dealers, for trailers, for farm trucks, for farm truck tractors, for commercial trucks and passenger cars.

In addition, there are special tags for motorcycles. And there are special tags for replacement when original plates are stolen or lost.

Tons of these metal plates are shipped into the county each year around the beginning of January. The plates are stamped out, painted and baked in the state penitentiary shops at Huntsville. It's a year 'round job for the prisoners in that department to prepare the thousands upon thousands of car tags which motor vehicle operators will require.

The tag consignments are sent to the respective counties well ahead of the first date that new tags may be purchased. It is the responsibility of tax collectors to store these valuable items, ready all records for their distribution and sell them to the motor vehicle operators.

The grand rush begins around March 1 and expires April 1. Mrs. Robinson's deputies drop all other work for that period — they are kept busy handling applications for car plates. After the deadline passes, business diminishes in that department but there is a steady demand for plates all through the remainder of the year and on down into the forepart of the following year.

Bulk of sales, naturally are for the passenger car type plates. Up to April 13, more than 15,000 plates of various kinds had been sold in Howard County. At least 11,000 of the total went to passenger cars.

The volume of business involved is indicated in the dollars it brings in over the counter. The sales of car tags in Howard County so far this year has produced revenue of $310,625, Mrs. Robinson reported.

These dollars are tremendously important to the county. Under the law which governs sale of car license plates, all of the first $50,000 collected by a county assessor goes to the county treasury. The remainder collected — until the county's share has totalled $175,000 — is split on a 50-50 basis with the state.

Howard County has already received and banked its $175,000 of this year's tag sales. Lee Porter, county auditor, said that the $175,000 was reached well ahead of the date it was reported last year. Mrs. Robinson said that the sales of plates so far this year are a little ahead of the same period last year.

The state of Texas has received $145,625 as its share of tag fees so far in 1957. From this date on, the state will get all moneys paid in for plates and the county will receive nothing but the "fees." These average around 40 cents per set of plates.

Funds derived from the sale of plates allocated to a county automatically are placed in the county road and bridge fund. However, $175,000 is far from enough to provide for all the road work the county is called upon to perform. The road and bridge fund is augmented by an ad valorem tax levy to provide a total in the current budget of around $350,000 for the building and maintenance of county roads.

During the entire year, the total sales of taxes in this county will probably hit close to $350,000. In 1956, the state received $162,538 after the county's share of $175,000 had been provided. This year's business is expected to be a little better than in 1956.

Texas Veteran Benefits Total $278,000,000

Veterans and their families in Texas received $278,606,075 in cash benefits and services from Veterans Administration during fiscal year 1956.

VA said the distribution is outlined in its 1956 Annual Report now on sale at the Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

The chief cash benefits for living veterans are in the form of compensation for service - connected disabilities and pension for total and permanent nonservice-connected disabilities. Pension also is subject to income limitations.

A total of 151,855 living veterans in Texas received $119,786,178 in compensation or pension during the year.

Last year, the dependents of 40,952 deceased veterans in Texas received $35,681,058 in death compensation or pension. Certain GI insurance and indemnity payments totaling $17,815,948 were made to veterans or their beneficiaries in Texas for the year.

An average of 1,652 disabled veterans of World War II and of the Korean conflict period in Texas trained during the year under the vocational rehabilitation act to overcome the handicaps of their disabilities. They received $2,824,594 in subsistence, tuition, supplies and equipment.

Under the World War II GI Bill, an average of 2,900 veterans in Texas trained during the year and they received $1,532,268 in subsistence allowances, tuition, supplies and equipment.

Under the Korea GI Bill, an average of 34,380 veterans in Texas trained during the year and they received $47,989,947 in education and training allowances.

The remainder of the cash benefits and services distributed to veterans and their families of Texas during the year totaled $53,067,210. These cash benefits and services included hospitalization, medical and dental care, prosthetic appliances, automobiles for the disabled, "wheel chair" homes for the seriously disabled, administrative costs to administer the benefits, and miscellaneous benefits.

Warning On Work-At-Home Offers Issued

Wayne Smith, Chamber of Commerce manager, Saturday said Big Springers should be on guard against a "work-at-home scheme" involving the sale of knitting machines.

He said the National Better Business Bureau is circulating a bulletin warning that some promoters have been using extensive misrepresentations regarding the nature of their proposition, ease and speed with which work can be accomplished, and profits which investors may expect to earn by knitting garments at home in their spare time.

According to the Chamber manager, the following are examples of misrepresentations made by unscrupulous promoters and salesmen:

1. The company will buy back all completed materials which the homeworker makes on his machine. The experience of Better Business Bureaus indicates that this claim is frequently untrue, and that the company will use various excuses to reject material sent in by homeworkers.

2. The company will sell yarn to the homeworker at a discount of 25 to 40 per cent off the regular price Experience has shown, however, that the promoters frequently supply an inferior grade of yarn at an exorbitant price.

Smith suggested that persons considering investing in machines in order to earn money at home, should consider the following points:

(1) What is the reliability and reputation of the firm selling the machine, and its promoters?

(2) Is there any market for the completed knitted goods?

(3) Will the company provide a list of about ten persons successfully engaged in this work? Prospective investors should request such a list, and should write to these persons to ascertain the extent of success they have had in this enterprise.

(4) Will the company permit a trial of the machine under their guidance so that the investor may first learn if he can operate it, and how much time is required to knit garments before he obligates himself to purchase?

(5) Will the purchaser's note be discounted to a finance company? If so, what guarantee of performance on contracts and guarantees does the investor have from the firm that sells him the machine?

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

It's Time To File Pupil 'Transfers'

It's "transfer" season for school children.

Walker Bailey, county school superintendent, issued a warning to parents that such action must be taken by June 1. He suggested that all parents who have children who will have to change schools in the coming school year to come to his office at once.

He explained that in most of the rural schools, children who have completed the grades taught in such schools, must be entered in other schools to continue their education. Such change of schools requires an official transfer from the old district to the new.

It is imperative, he said, that all such changes be made now in order that the schools can anticipate their program for the coming school year and make arrangements in accordance with their enrollments.

Schools which teach only the elementary grades—and this is the case of the majority of the rural schools—have youngsters who are now ready to enter junior high school. Transfer from their old to a new school where junior high subjects are offered has to be accomplished if the child is to continue with his education.

Bailey said that his office is now ready to deal with transfers and he said it would be of much convenience to himself and to the schools in general, as well as to the parents of children involved, if these transactions can be cleared up quickly.

Girls Watch School Burn

Girl students watch the Seventh Day Adventist church-school go up in smoke from atop a salvaged filing cabinet at Peoria, Ill. The fire, which routed the students, gutted the church section and did extensive water damage to the school portion. The girls, incidentally, were crying, not laughing.

Parakeet Talks Up Storm; Once, He Told The Truth

LAMESA, April 20, (Spl) — Sugar's fresh out of tail feathers. Maybe he talks too much.

Sugar, a parakeet who modestly refers to himself as Sugar Duggar, manages to keep things in an uproar around the John Hymer household at 309 N. 13th. Any day now he may be able to take on an assignment as a TV announcer, for Mrs. Hymer claims he has his vocabulary up to 95 words including some of the standing TV spiels.

This bird, who might qualify for the nick-name of "Lippy," keeps up a line of chatter from the time the Hymers show up in the kitchen to prepare breakfast until lights are out at night. For good measure, he pages the neighbors constantly.

Sugar went outside once on the shoulder of Mrs. Hymer and flew down to investigate a big cat. He might have said something the cat didn't appreciate, for in the wild melee that followed between him, Mrs. Hymer and the cat, Sugar came out minus his tail feathers. They're growing out again, but the experience hasn't taught him anything about the efficacy of silence.

This bird has almost as much affinity for water as for talk, for he almost goes berserk when Mrs. Hymer holds a bowl of water at shoulder level. He's bound to be at least a Baptist and maybe a Church of Christ candidate, says Mrs. Hymer. Othere pleasures, in addition to airing his vocal chords, are playing with a tiny toy penguin and riding (in his cage) in the car.

"Come on, John let's eat," greets Sugar as the Hymers come into the kitchen about 6:30 a. m. daily. Then he asks, "Do you want some coffee, well come on."

During the morning he is apt to start the neighborhood roll call for Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Truit, Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. Stokes, Mrs. Reithmayer, Mrs. Barkowsky." This keeps up all through the day.

He tries to do the Dr. Pepper and Chesterfield TV commercials and almost has them down pat. This garrulous character likes to practice his diction on "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers."

A flirt of the worst sort, he frequently entreats: "Give me a big kiss." Being a practiced individual, he promptly adds a couple of solid smacks. On occasions he says his prayer, "Now I lay me down to sleep."

The nearest he has come to the truth was recently when, after having disturbed the Hymers during the blessing, he cocked his head and said: "Sugar's a stinker."

Mrs. Hymer tries to quieten him with an occasional "hush, hush," but they bounce back like an echo. She has learned to thump him on the bill. That puts him into reverse gear.

Sugar is seven months old. Twice before the Hymers had parakeets, but both times they got stepped on. Mr. Hymer was skeptical; he had never seen a parakeet that could really talk, he said. Now he almost wishes he could still say that.

300 Criminal Cases Dismissed In County Court

More than 300 county criminal cases, accumulated over the past five to seven years, have been dismissed by Harvey Hooser, county attorney.

R. H. Weaver, county judge, has signed formal motions filed by Hooser suggesting that these old cases be removed from the docket. Mrs. Pauline Petty, county clerk, had completed recording the actions on Saturday.

Majority of the dismissed cases, Hooser said, were complaints alleging violation of the check laws. Some dated back, he added, as far as 1947. None of the 333 thrown out were less than three years old.

"I reasoned that if the offender in these cases has not been apprehended, and prosecuted in the many months that have elapsed since even the youngest of these complaints has been on file, there is very little probability he will ever be arrested," said Hooser.

"Further, after all of this time has elapsed, prosecution of most of the cases, even if the defendant could be arrested and brought into court, would be nearly hopeless. Some of the complaints were faultily made out originally and others involve cases where the complaining witnesses are no longer available. It seemed pointless to clutter up the docket—which is still heavily loaded with more current cases—with these old matters.

"That's why I drew up the motions asking that they be dismissed."

Some of the older cases are vague, indeed. One was filled out alleging that worthless check had been cashed at an establishment here. It listed the defendants as "two middle-aged white women and a teen-aged girl."

Numerous others were "John Doe" or "Jane Roe" complaints—the form followed to keep cases temporarily alive in courts while efforts are under way to identify more accurately the offender.

Babies Perish In Scalding Water

BURBANK, Calif., April 20 (AP)—Police said a bathtub of scalding water proved a death trap for a pair of 2-year-old playmates at nearby Sun Valley.

Investigators said Karen Andrews and Gary Lee Edwards were burned fatally yesterday when they crawled into the tub which Mrs. Leslie Andrews, 19, Karen's mother, had filled to use in scrubbing floors.

Mrs. Andrews told police she was in another room. The children suffered second and third degree burns. Both died at a hospital in Burbank.

HOLLYWOOD YARNS

Clara Bow And Other Extroverts

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — And then there was the irrepressible, uninhibited Clara Bow. She epitomized an era in Hollywood. Clara, who trained on hard liquor and late hours, was a pulsing example of what Elinor Glyn meant when she describes sex appeal as "it."

No account of life in these parts would be complete without a paragraph or two about Clara. One of Clara's troubles was that she never realized she was a movie star and had certain obligations as such. She did exactly as she wanted to do. Like the time she telephoned a fraternity house to say she wanted to meet some of the football players she'd seen that afternoon.

The pledge who answered the phone said, "Sure, Clara, I'm Napoleon." But it wasn't a gag. She said she'd be by in a few minutes and would sound her klaxon. She did, and the team streamed out to meet Clara.

Coach, president and parents complained to Paramount about its star's actions. Adolph Zukor who was running the studio, gave Clara some fatherly advice about how $5,000-a-week people ought to act, but it didn't change Clara one whit.

As I keep implying, things were done with a greater flourish in the good old days before high taxes, business managers and psychiatric couches. There was a lot of unrestrained joy and whoop-te-do, often over little or nothing.

The story is almost legend that when Gloria Swanson married the Marquis Henri de la Falaise de la Coudraye, she sent a telegram, but not the usual "Arriving Tuesday Super Chief." She added a sentence: "Arrange ovation," Why not, said the publicity men, because, after all, she is bringing nobility to Hollywood and that will give the place class.

So Paramount hired bands, built a grandstand, summoned the fans, hung banners of welcome, bought a new red carpet, hired girls to strew petals. There were welcoming speeches and Gloria and Hank, as he became known, were given the keys to everything in town except the First National's vault.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SEC. B BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, APRIL 21, 1957 SEC. B

Steers Start Grid Workouts Monday

Upwards to 65 boys are expected to report for spring football workouts at Big Spring High School Monday afternoon.

A brand-new coaching regime, headed by one-time Little All-America Al Milch, will be in charge.

Included among those reporting for the three weeks of training are 10 lettermen and graduates of one of the finest Junior High School teams Big Spring ever fielded.

A number of the sophomores-to-be will be bidding for regular jobs with the varsity.

Lettermen back from last season include Jan Loudermilk, all-district end; George Peacock, center; Jimmy Evans, quarterback; Maxie Carey, guard; Knox Pitzer, guard; Danny Birdwell, end; Buddy Barnes, halfback; Wayne Fields, halfback; Jerry White, guard; and Gerald Davidson, center.

The Steers, who operated off the Split T last year, will run from the Wing T this year, with Evans at the controls.

Milch plans to move Peacock to right guard, Loudermilk to wingback and fullback; Pitzer to tackle and Fields to fullback.

On defense, according to present plans, at least, Loudermilk will be alternate at middle linebacker and strong side linebacker.

Peacock will switch back to center only on punts.

Contesting Evans for the quarterback spot will be Gordon Bristow, Billy Bob Satterwhite, Donnie Everett and Bill French.

The team voted on captains recently and four were named: Evans, Loudermilk, Peacock and Carey.

From that group, two will be chosen as permanent captains off their performance and leadership at the end of the season. Evans was a unanimous pick in the voting and will be one of the co-captains, for sure.

Davidson, who played some fine ball last fall, has a job on his hands contesting for the regular pivot position. Bobby McAdams and Don Dorsey will be his chief contenders.

Milch plans to move J. B. Davis, a hard-running sophomore-to-be, to an end position. Benny McCrary and Roger Flowers are other promising ends.

The Steers will work out from 3 to 6 p.m. daily, climaxing each week's work with an intra-squad game Friday afternoon. The workouts will be ended May 10 with a game against the 1956 Seniors.

Milch himself will work with the line, along with Chop Van Pelt, Sam Bell and Harold Bentley, who will dedicate an hour a day to the task. Bentley must double at the track coach, of course, during that time.

That will leave Mitchell Malouf, John Yates and Dan Lewis to tutor the backfield.

Milch has circulated a chart, showing what phase of training each player will do during the week.

Though the Steers will be learning a new offense, Milch said he intended to spend most of his time teaching the gridders techniques in blocking and tackling.

Most of the drills will take place on the practice field immediately north of the high school.

The Steers launch their 1957 campaign against Andrews here the night of Sept. 13.

Houston Links Team Shatters Four Records

HOUSTON, April 20 (AP)—A University of Houston team of Jim Hiskey, Rex Baxter Jr., Frank Wharton and Bob Pratt, set four records today while sweeping al but the team match play title in the third annual Southwestern Intercollegiate Golf Tournament.

Hiskey and Baxter had played the 72 holes in 282—six under par for the 6,710-yard, par 72 Pine Forest Country Club course.

Houston also won the four-ball title at 247 and Baxter and Wharton won the two-ball championship at 263.

North Texas State, runnerup in team medal at 1,171, defeated Texas, 5-1, for the team match championship.

NEW WORLD MARK

Texas Team Runs Quarter In 39.9

By SKIPPER PATRICK

LAWRENCE, Kan., April 20 (AP)—Texas University's fantastic sprinters bettered their own world's record in winning the university quartermile relay in 39.9 seconds today, and set the tempo for an all-time high assault on standards in the 32nd annual Kansas Relays.

The weather, wet and miserable yesterday, cooperated with bright sunshine and little wind as records were set in 13 of the 27 university, college and junior college events before 13,500 spectators. Three of the marks were set by Texas' relay teams.

The Texas quarter-mile relay effort came a few minutes after a Kansas team had bettered the intercollegiate record for the 4-mile relay, winning the university class event in 16:57.8.

Texas' 440-yard baton team — Wally Wilson, Eddie Southern, Hollis Gainey and Bobby Whilden —was clocked three tenths of a second faster than the Longhorns' recognized world record of 40.2 seconds for the quarter mile. The mark was set in the California Relays at Modesto in 1955.

A 40.1 effort by Texas in the event here last year still is up for approval as a world mark.

Hal Long, Tom Skutka, Jan Howell and Jerry McNeal were the Kansas runners who surpassed the intercollegiate 4-mile record of 17:08.6 set by Michigan in 1952.

Here are the other new meet records:

Two-Mile University Relay — 7:32.3 by Kansas' Grant Cookson, Skutka, Bernie Gay and Lowell Janzen.

880-Yard University Relay — 1:24.2 by Texas' Wilson, Laverne Voigt, Gainey and Whilden.

University Distance Medley — 10:04.3 by Texas' Brooks Patrick, George Foerster, Walter McNew and Joe Villarreal.

Two-Mile College Relay—7:41.2 by Howard Payne's Willie Myers, Louie Hayes, Bobby Pullig and Don Shepard.

College Sprint Medley—3:22.6 by Emporia State's Duane McIntire, George Gibbs, Bob Heaney and Billy Tidwell.

Invitational College Sprint Medley—3:32.6 by Ottawa, Kan. University's Ray Cooper, Marvin Wilson, Dick Mack and B.F. Knight.

College Mile Relay—3:15.1 by Emporia State's Heaney, Richard Bliss, McIntire, and Tidwell.

Junior College Sprint Medley—3:34.9 by Hutchinson, Kan. Junior College's Bob Tolar, Bill Wilson, Jim Hayes and Ron Allen.

Discus—178 feet 1 inch by Al Oerter, Kansas' Olympic champion.

400 Meter Hurdles—51.9 seconds by Cliff Cushman, Kansas.

Hop, Step and Jump—49-9⅞ by Jack Smyth, University of Houston.

Upsets were numerous in the individual events. Parry O'Brien, former Southern California athlete and world record holder in the shot put, was defeated in an exhibition by Kansas' Bill Nieder who made the best heave of his career, 62 feet 2 inches.

O'Brien, who defeated Nieder in a similar exhibition here last year, got only 59-1. O'Brien and Nieder finished 1-2 respectively in the 1956 Olympics.

Orlando Hazley, Oklahoma A&M sophomore, upset Texas' Whilden in the open 100-yard dash in 9.5 seconds and came back to win a "special" century sprint in the same time.

Charles Batch of Missouri pulled a mild surprise in the 120-yard high hurdles by defeating Southern of Texas in 14.1 seconds, fastest time ever clocked by a Big Seven Conference athlete in the event.

Don Stewart, Southern Methodist's sensational sophomore high jumper, won with a jump of 6 feet 8 inches. Kansas' All - America basketball player, Wilt Chamberlain, cleared 6-6 for secondplace.

Baylor Signs Ace Cleburne Tackle

CLEBURNE, April 20 (AP)—Charles Brown, all-state tackle at Cleburne High School, and fullback David Guinn signed letters of intent today to attend Baylor.

The 220 pound, 6 foot, Brown was on every all-state team in 1956. Oklahoma and all Southwest Conference schools had been after the exceptional defensive tackle.

Gallant Man Is Edged By Bold Ruler In Wood

By JOHN CHANDLER

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—Bold Ruler answered all the questions today when he outfought Gallant Man in a spine-tingling stretch duel to win the $59,400 Wood Memorial at Jamaica in track record time before a screaming crowd of 42,122.

In a horse race as sensational as the 1955 Wood when Nashua edged out Summer Tan right at the wire, Eddie Arcaro whipped and slashed at Bold Ruler's hide and the speedy Wheatley Stable's colt came from behind with a desperate lunge in the final stride to win by a nose.

The victory handsomely qualified Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps' colt for the Kentucky Derby May 4.

This was strictly a two-horse race after Gallant Man, owned by Ralph Lowe of Texas, roared around the final bend with a rush on the outside to catch the pacesetting Bold Ruler near the head of the stretch. But Jockey John Choquette and Gallant Man could not hold off Arcaro and Co. in the final, tense seconds of as exciting a horse race as ever run.

Aragon May Yet Fight Goldstein

LAS VEGAS, Nev., April 20 (AP)—Promoter Mike Hirsch of California said today the Nevada Boxing Commission will approve plans for a 12-round fight here in June between welterweights Art Aragon and Dick Goldstein, principals in a fight fixing case.

Aragon was convicted in Los Angeles on charges of attempting to fix a match with Goldstein in San Antonio, Tex., and faces a prison term of 1 to 5 years. The case is awaiting an appeal decision.

Johnny Kelley Wins Marathon

BOSTON, April 20 (AP)—Confident Johnny Kelley conquered a powerful foreign delegation, the sunbaked hills and his own fears today to become America's first Boston A. A. Marathon winner in 12 years.

Kelley was timed in 2:20:05 en route to a stirring 1,000-yard triumph over Veikko Karvonen of Finland—regarded as the world's No. 1 marathoner.

The 26-year-old grammar school teacher from Groton, Conn., won the race on the series of three hills over which he lost to Finland's Antti Viskari a year ago.

Aussies Win Way Into Net Finals

DALLAS, April 20 (AP)—Mervyn Rose and Vic Seixas won their way into the finals of the Dallas County Club Invitation Tennis Tournament today.

Rose weathered a gruelling 5-set match against defending champion Dick Savitt to win, 6-3, 2-6, 6-1, 1-6, 6-4. Seixas beat Grant Golden, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2.

Jorgensen Booked

BEAUMONT, April 20 (AP) — Paul Jorgensen, one of the world's top featherweights, will meet Charley De Bow of Brooklyn here Tuesday night in a 10-round bout.

Yanks Scrap Back To Torpedo Sox

BOSTON, April 20 (AP)—The New York Yankees shrugged off Don "Perfect Game" Larsen's flop in his first start since his World Series classic against Brooklyn with a flurry of rallies that whipped the Boston Red Sox, 10-7, in 12 innings at Fenway Park today.

Hank Bauer's two-run homer applied the clincher after the hitting of Bill Skowron and Gil McDougald had enabled the world champions to make up an early 7-3 deficit.

Big Names Dot Relays Field

DES MOINES, April 20 (AP)—The Drake Relays will have their 48th running next week end and there will be a post-Olympic touch to the festivities.

Olympians who will appear include sprinter Bobby Morrow of Abilene Christian, distance runner Laszlo Tabori, who deserted his Communist - dominated Hungarian homeland for the free world, and Al Oerter, the University of Kansas discus thrower.

Morrow, a triple gold medal winner at the Melbourne Games last fall, will have Olympic foes in the 100-yard dash. Ira Murchison of Western Michigan, fourth in the 100-meter Olympic race Morrow won, and Mike Agostini of Fresno State, who finished sixth, will toss a stern challenge at the Texan.

Morrow has more than one reason for wanting to win here. A year ago at Drake he suffered his first collegiate loss in the 100 when he was beaten by Dave Sime of Duke in the Relays record time of :09.4. It was a spectacular duel in the rain in which the Abilene star, off to a slow start, almost caught Sime at the finish.

Lary Pitches Tigers To Win

DETROIT, April 20 (AP) — Frank Lary blanked the Cleveland Indians on 8 scattered hits today, 7-0, for the Detroit Tigers' first victory of the season.

The strong-armed righthander, the American League's biggest winner with 21 victories last year, was backed up by a 13-hit attack that included three hits apiece by Bill Tuttle and Frank House and the club's first home run of the year by Frank Bolling.

Tuttle, who had hit safely only once in twelve trips before today drove in two runs and scored another with a double and a pair of singles.

The Tigers had dropped three straight games losing twice to Kansas City and once to the Indians before routing 20-game winner Early Wynn for their first decision.

NCAA Committee Slated To Review Aggie Case

FORT WORTH, April 20 (AP)—Dr. Henry Hardt, Texas Christian University's faculty representative to the Southwest Conference and member of the NCAA council, said today the Texas A&M case probably would come before the infractions committee of the NCAA meeting Monday at New Orleans.

A&M is serving out a probation for violating the recruiting rules and it is supposed to be up in May but must be removed by the NCAA council, which will probably act on recommendations from the infractions group.

Last winter, when the council met, no action was taken on a recommendation from the Southwest Conference that the probation be removed. Some alleged new violations had arisen and, Dr. Hardt said, this apparently prevented consideration for removal of the probation, which had previously been removed by the Southwest Conference after one year.

The new violation involved payment by a friend of the college of expenses of Jackie Moreland, a schoolboy basketball prospect, on a trip to Houston. Basketball coach Ken Loefler of A&M was reprimanded by the conference for allowing it.

Whether this violation was severe enough to cause the probation against A&M to be extended beyond its original expiration date was not known by Dr. Hardt. But he did say that general appearances are that the probation will be lifted May 31 when the council meets in Chicago."

The TCU representative said he sincerely hoped so and he felt everyone in the conference had the same attitude.

Marlene Retains 3-Stroke Lead

LAWTON, Okla., April 20 (AP)—Marlene Bauer Hagge, Delray Beach, Fla., held off a mild challenge by Bonnie Randolph of Naples, Fla., today and retained a 3-stroke lead after the second round of the $5,000 Lawton Open Tournament.

Mrs. Hagge added a par 72 to her opening 70 for a 142 total. Miss Randolph made up one stroke by shooting a 1-under par 71 to match a 74 for 145.

Miss Randoph's round was the best of the day and left her in position to overhaul the leader in tomorrow's final round if she can come through with a sub-par effort or should Mrs. Hagge lose complete control of her usual steady game.

The leaders:

Marlene Bauer Hagge	70-72—142
Bonnie Randolph	74-71—145

Wright, Bluhm Are Defeated

LAMESA — John Paul Cain, Texas Tech student from Sweetwater, set up a one-man heat wave here Saturday with a six-under-par 66 to pace the sixth annual Lamesa Invitational Golf Tournament.

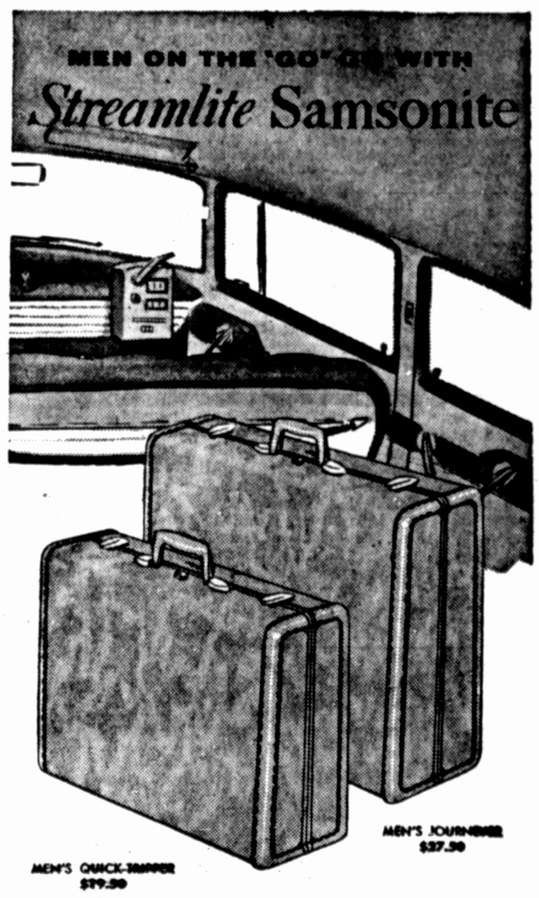

He carried out Barney Barnard, Odessa resident and a Lamesa native, 5-4. In the first round, Cain had performed the identical feat with a 66 in the face of gale-like winds to carry Jeff Goodin, Las Cruces, N.M., student at Hardin-Simmons, 3-2. Goodin was the defending champion and medalist.

Cain thus established himself as a solid favorite in the semi-finals which get under way at 7 a.m. Sunday over the Lamesa Country Club course.

In the first round Barney Barnard beat Jack Addison, Lamesa, 4-3; Ben Alexander, Lamesa, beat Bobby Wright, Big Spring, 2-1; Virgil Addison, Lamesa, beat Bobby Bluhm, Big Spring, 3-2; Mike Walding, Cleburne, beat Jimmy Russell, 4-2; Dick Martin, Dallas, beat DeWitt Weaver Jr., Lubbock, 6-5; Roland Adams, Lubbock, tripped James Dixon Jr., Andrews, 5-4; and Dickie Dannon, San Angelo, snuffed out LeRoy Breshers, Lubbock, 5-4.

The quarter-final round saw Cain overpowering Barnard, 5-4; Addison clipping Alexander, 2 up; Martin taking Wilding, 3-2; and Adams overcoming Canon, 3-2.

Al Milch, the Steer football coach, says the attitude and enthusiasm of the local boys is as good as he's ever seen . . . Lloyd Mangrum, the famed pro golfer, says he's unhappy with what has been going on along the golf trail . . . The transplanted Texan, who now lives in Los Angeles, complains "it has plainly turned into a tourist frolic . . . A lot of the players on the tour should be back in their home towns cleaning out kitchens or pressing clothes," adds he . . . "Too many rabbits out there," he comments. "They just spring here and hop there, and they don't know where they're going or what they're really doing on the tour. They hack away, without any chance of ever winning a dime. They clutter the courses, get in each other's way, and ours, so that we don't get a chance to practice. It's getting pretty obvious that the clubs don't like it, or want us any more" . . . Mangrum says a $100 entry fee might scare off the hitchhikers . . . San Angelo may have already talked with O. W. Follis about taking the head basketball coaching job there, although the Lamesa mentor has a contract that extends through 1960 . . . Steve Marcinko, the Webb AFB weight tosser, played guard on North Carolina's football team under Carl Snavely who is now head mentor at Washington University in St. Louis . . . Marcinko hails from Johnstown, Pennsylvania, where he was a tackle . . . Freddy Stuart, the HCJC track star, was an All-Regional football quarterback his senior year in high school at Roby, after having made All-District his junior year . . . He won four high school letters in track and three in football . . . There's another Archie San Romani running the mile in Kansas . . . He's the son of Glenn Cunningham's most famed foe . . . Although still a high school boy (at Wichita), he's been clocked in 4:33 . . . Night Cage Program Carded Locally

Frank W. Wilson of Snyder was hired as superintendent of schools at Colorado City but not before the board gave serious consideration to Moe Headrick, the Sul Ross football coach . . . Moe isn't too happy with his job at the Alpine school. . .Most of the high school basketball players here will probably participate in a night cage program to be staged in the city this summer . . . Jan Loudermilk 'jelled' as a cage star in such an endeavor last year and Coach Johnny Johnson reasons his other boys will benefit enormously from such activity. . .One of the brightest newcomers in the spring basketball drills here was Bobby Evans, a brother to Jimmy Evans. . .Bobby is only a sophomore but Johnson plans to give him as much varsity experience as possible next season . . . Snyder High School will be represented at the state track and field meet next month for the first time since 1953, when Keith Pitner ran for the Tigers. . . There is some agitation to take the Regional track and field meet out of Lubbock. . .No fewer than seven athletes have now cleared 15 feet in the pole vault . . . The latest was Joe Rose of Arizona State, who did 15-1 . . . Rose's coach wanted to enter him in the last ABC Relays . . . Sid Wing of Southern California, an entry in the '57 ABC meet here, recently beat his more celebrated team-mate, Max Truex, in the mile, covering the distance in 4:09.2. . .He also won the 880 in the same meet in the time 1:51.2 . . . Until Bob Volles of SC threw the javelin 237 feet 10 inches in a dual meet with Stanford, his throw of 235-7 in the ABC Relays was the longest of the year in the nation. . . Dale Sherrod of Odessa is a strong contender for the No. 1 quarterbacking job with the University of Oklahoma football team, although he started out under Coach Bud Wilkinson as a halfback. . .Mike Smith, the Big Spring Steers' stellar high jumper-pole vaulter, came here from Van Nuys, Calif., where he also played football.

Big Leaguers Seeking A Game Here

Big Spring's Gene Carpenter wound up scoring 30 points in the 14 games he played for the Goodyear Wingfoots of the National Industrial Basketball League . . . The Goodyear team, which plays out of Akron, Ohio, placed second in NIBL standings, with a 19-10 won-lost record, one of the most successful records in the team's history. . .A group of barnstorming major league all-stars are seeking a booking here after the big leagues have completed their 1957 seasons. . .The team, agent for which is one Joseph Tubilo of Silver Spring, Maryland, will agree to one of two financial arrangements—a $1,300 guarantee or 60 per cent of the gross, which ever is greater; or a $1,500 flat guarantee. . .Recently, in Boca Raton, Fla., a Texas Sports Hall of Fame polo match—of all things— was staged. . .The featured player was, of course, Texan Cecil Smith, who was voted into the Texas Sports Hall of Fame last year, a long overdue honor. . Smith himself scored the winning goal as a Texas team won, 9-8, over Boca Raton. . .Smith, incidentally, is the only polo player ever voted into a sports hall of fame. . .Cecil has been playing polo since 1924 and has been rated at ten goals since 1938 . . . Cornelious Warmarsdam, who still holds the world pole vault record he set 15 years ago (15-8¼) recently cleared 13 feet, although he's now 40 years of age. . .Warmemersdam says he could have scaled 16 feet had he used a fiber glass pole in his heyday. . .Roswell of the Southwestern League played to only 18,367 paying customers in 1956, Ballinger to only 24,614. . .Jerry Hodges, the Plainview athlete who transferred from HCJC to West Texas State at midterm, is pitching for the Buffalo varsity baseball team. . . He recently made a relief appearance against the Plainview Ponies of the Southwestern League. . . The only hit he gave up was a home run. . .An interested spectator at last week's intra-squad football game at Kermit was Big Spring's Al Milch. . .Milch sends his Steers against Kermit here this fall.

IN NATIONAL LL

'Sign-Up' Time Set Saturday

Managers of the National Little League team will be on hand at the 17th and Lancaster Street diamond from 9 to 11 a.m. next Saturday to sign up players for the 1957 season.

The week of April 29 to May 3 has been designated as spring training time in the circuit, League Prexy W. S. Goodlett has announced. During that period, managers will scout prospective players. The annual player auction takes place May 3.

Team training starts on May 6 and continues throughout that week. The season will formally begin on May 13 and continues through most of the summer.

The National League will again be composed of four teams. Sponsors and working personnel are available in sufficient numbers to expand the league but the playing space remains at a premium.

The league must share the present Little League park on North 12th Street with two other leagues, the American and Texas League.

However, the National League will again sponsor a minor circuit this year and Goodlett expressed hope that the other two leagues would follow suit. He estimated that it would cost no more than $60 for a sponsor to field a team in any minor league.

He said at least 150 boys within the city would not be able to play the game if the minors are not run.

The National League will play its regular games this year on Mondays and Thursdays at the LL park.

Managers of the four National League teams this year are:

Clyde Hall, Gold Sox (sponsored by Howard County Athletic Club); Paul Capen, VFW; Guinette Gibbs, Owls (sponsored by Men's Store); and Al Valdes, Yankees (sponsored by Obie Bristow).

Sam Mesker will assist Capen. J. D. Campbell plans to help Gibbs while Tito Arencibia will serve the Yankees as an assistant manager.

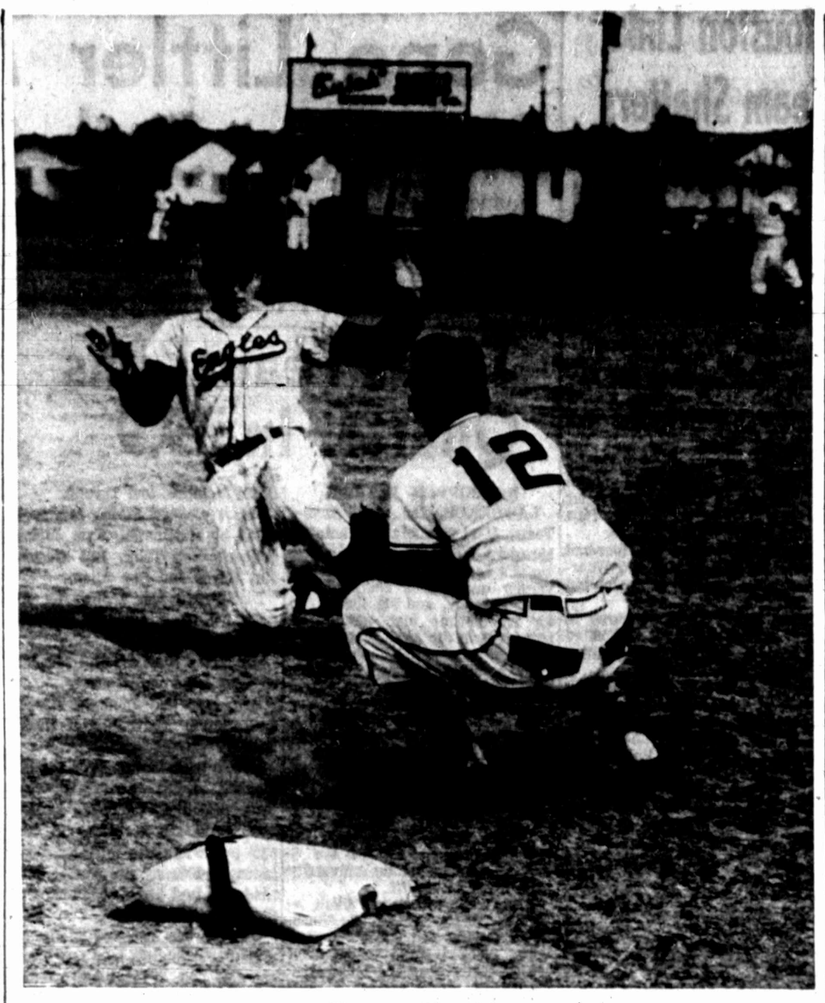

Last year, Valdes masterminded the Cardinals to the Senior Teen-Age League championship here. Both Valdes and Arencibia are former professional ball players.

The Yankees are the defending champions in the circuit. The Cabot Carbon team of the American League won the city title in 1956.

James Horton will be in charge of the National League's minor league program.

Goodlett stated that players will be taken from the league's minor league clubs along once the season begins.

The league president also stated that no tryouts would be held next Saturday. For that reason, no one needs to bring his playing equipment with him.

Come To Me

Jackie Thomas, Big Spring third sacker, waits to put the tag on Robert Carothers of Abilene after taking a throw from Jerry McMahen in the fifth inning of Friday's Steer-Eagle game here. The play ended the inning. Abilene won the decision, 12-2, to remain undefeated in the District 2-AAAA race.

Abilene Rip Longhorns Behind Kenny Schmidt

The Abilene Eagles overpowered the Big Spring Steers here Friday afternoon, 12-2, to remain undefeated in the District 2-AAAA baseball race.

Kenny Schmidt hurled the win, just as he has in 11 other games for the War Birds this year.

Despite the one-sided score, Lefty Chubby Moser did a fine job on the mound for Big Spring until the seventh, when he tired and surrendered the duties to Billy Bluhm.

Moser shut out the Eagles until the fourth, when a three-run homer by Robert Carothers gave the visitors the lead.

The Eagles added three more in the fourth on a walk, an error and two base hits.

They closed out with a six-run seventh, highlighted by home runs off the bats of Glynn Gregory, Larry Green and Pat Armstrong.

Abilene's final round - tripper, clubbed by Armstrong, came at the expense of Bluhm.

Big Spring picked up its two runs in the sixth when Jackie Thomas delivered a two-out single to plate Glenn Whittington and Billy Johnson.

Schmidt struck out 14 of the Steers while issuing three walks. He surrendered four hits and no Steer managed more than one blow.

Butch Adams, first baseman for the Eagles, drove out four hits in as many tries, including a seventh inning double.

The Eagles have now won 18 games while losing two. The Steers are 5-6.

Big Spring next sees action Tuesday in Snyder. On Friday, the locals host Crane in a 4:15 game. Their next conference game is Saturday, at which time they take on San Angelo here.

Beecham Wins Ring Upset

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. April 20 (AP)—Young Jimmy Beecham of Miami moved into line for a shot at the country's leading welterweights after scoring a 10-round upset decision over the veteran Holly Mims of Washington, D. C.

Victory in Friday night's nationally-televised fight from the Miami Beach Auditorium was especially satisfying to the 22-year-old Beecham.

First, it avenged a close defeat by Mims in a previous fight Nov. 13. Second, it convinced Beecham that he could campaign successfully among the top welterweights.

"I was seven pounds lighter than when I fought Mims the last time," Beecham said, "and I was a lot faster. That extra weight hurts me. I'm a natural welterweight and from now on I'll fight the welters."

Mims had a little more power than Beecham but the Miami youth scored beautifully with counter punches and was the aggressor in most rounds.

The crowd of 2,069 paid a gross gate of $4,147. Beecham was the winner on the cards of Judge Gus Jacobson, 97-95, and Referee Billy Regan, 98-96. Judge Fred Aaaronson called it a 96-96 draw. The Associated Press voted for Beecham, 98-97.

Mims weighed 154¾, Beecham 153.

It was the 18th victory by Beecham in 21 fights. Mims suffered the 16th defeat of his career which includes 42 victories and 5 draws.

Bill Hoeft Again Rejected By Army

DETROIT, April 20 (AP) — Billy Hoeft of the Detroit Tigers again has been rejected for military service.

The Tigers' ace southpaw, a 20-game winner in 1956, was examined by Selective Service officials for the third time a few weeks ago in Milwaukee. He originally was classified 4F several years ago because of a knee ailment.

Midland Errors Result In Loss

MIDLAND, April 20 (SC)—Midland's defense came apart at the seams as El Paso Austin achieved a 10-7 baseball exhibition victory here Friday.

The Bulldogs committed eight misplays. Midland outhit the visitors, 11-7.

The El Paso team scored in each of the first four innings.

Baytown, Stamford And Junction Are Favored

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

Baytown, Stamford and Junction appear the best bets to win Texas schoolboy track championships next week. The feature of the state meet at Austin is likely to be the efforts of a one-man gang to bag a title for his school.

Calvin Cooley of Hawley will go to the big showdown all by himself but he is capable of winning three events and could set a new national scholastic record in the 120-yard high hurdles in the process.

Hawley is in Class B, where Junction's well-balanced team and Stinnett's relay-strong outfit will be battling it out for the tile but with Cooley likely to bring his school in if either or both of those should falter.

Cooley is one of two state athletes who appear likely to set overall records. He ran the high hurdles in 14 flat in the regional meet at Brownwood. It equalled the state record set by Lee Miller of San Antonio Burbank in 1947, which is a tie for the national mark hung up in 1939.

Cooley also ran 100 yards in 10 flat, which was the same time made by Bill Polk of Whitewright in winning at the regional meet in Denton. These were the fastest century sprints in Class B.

The young man from Hawley did the 180-yard low hurdles in 20.0, also the fastest in the state.

In the state meet the relays bring more points than individual events. Baytown is strong in both the 440 and mile relays. Thus the Ganders, who also have a top half-miler in John Russell (1:58.2) and a good 220 man in Lynn Gray (22.2), appear capable of making more points than anybody else and of dethroning Houston Lamar as state champion in Class AA. Lamar has a good point potential, too, but not enough to repeat.

Baytown's 440-yard relay team did 42.9 in the regional meet and it also ran 3:27.6 in the mile relay. These two relay teams could give Baytown more than 20 points.

Gladewater, with its own one-man gang, Tommy Minter, sprinter, hurdler and broad jumper; Graham, with its fine hurdler, Bobby Bernard; Odessa and El Paso Jefferson are other teams figuring in title talk.

Stamford, spearheaded by football star Mike McClellan, should win the Class A championship but have to struggle with Refugio and several other teams for it.

Hoad Not Ready To Become Pro

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP) — Australia's Lew Hoad is winking at Jack Kramer's pro tennis dollars but he doesn't want any part — yet — of pro champion Pancho Gonzales.

"When I turn pro, I'm not going to make the mistake that Muscles did," the Aussie Davis Cup ace said last night, referring to his former teammate, Ken Rosewall. "I wouldn't want to go in there cold against Gonzales and let him beat my brains out.

"What I'd like to do is start out against somebody like Pancho Segura or Tony Trabert and work up to Gonzales. When I turn pro, I want to be reasonably sure I can beat him."

Hoad, winner of the Australian, Wimbledon and Franch championships last year but beaten by Rosewall in the U. S. finals at Forest Hills, flew into town and out again last night en route to Rome.

He starts his tennis comeback — after a siege of six weeks in a plaster cast because of an ailing back, then near pneumonia and the mumps — in the tournament next week at Naples.

"I have played only twice, exhibitions, since January," he said. "I'm in horrible shape. But I hope to be okay for Wimbledon."

Fear of Gonzales was said to be one of the factors influencing Lew to remain an amateur last year when promoter Kramer dabbled $65,000 contracts under his and Rosewall's noses. Rosewall grabbed the offer to begin a tour with Gonzales which has resulted in one-sided mastery for Big Pancho.

"Gonzales is not getting any younger and besides he's squabbling with Kramer over his hand," Hoad said. "Pancho seems to be fed up with it all and they're getting fed up with him, so he may not be around too much longer."

The pro champion has been threatening to quit Kramer's tour because of a cyst on his (Pancho's) racket hand. Kramer says Pancho can'e do it.

There were fresh reports from Los Angeles yesterday that Kramer had offered Lew an all-time high contract of $125,000 if Lew should win Wimbledon and $90,000 if Lew's season is less successful.

"I haven't seen Kramer since we were together in Melbourne last January," Hoad said. "Certainly he has talked to me about turning pro. We'll just have to wait and see."

Of Gonzales, Lew said, "He's very good. Whether I think I could beat him, well, I wouldn't want to say."

Gus Triandos Out With Injured Back

BALTIMORE, April 20 (AP) — A new examination shows that Gus Triandos, big Baltimore catcher and top RBI man for the Orioles, has a fractured vertebra in his lower back and will be sidelined for two weeks.

The Orioles reported today that the break, involving only a protruding knob on his spine, was discovered after more X-rays were taken.

Triandos was injured Thursday night when Washington's Herb Plews, on second base, took off for home on a single by Eddie Yost, and slid safely into home plate and Triandos on a close play.

Andy Carey Will Be Out A Week

BOSTON, April 20 (AP) — Andy Carey, regular third baseman of the New York Yankees, is sidelined due to a sprained left ankle. The injury was sustained in the eighth inning of Thursday's game here when he jammed his foot against first base while being retired on a grounder.

Carey will be out about a week.

Johnny Podres Shuts Out Pittsburghers

BROOKLYN, April 20 (AP) — Icy-nerved Johnny Podres, making his first start since pitching the Dodgers to their 1955 World Series triumph, shut out Pittsburgh today with six hits in leading his unbeaten mates to their third victory, 2-0.

Back-to-back home runs in the fourth inning by Duke Snider and Carl Furillo off the Pirates' Bob Friend provided the chunky 24-year-old southpaw with all the batting support he required.

Friend, one of the top righthanders in the league and conqueror of the Giants in his first start of the year, pitched hitless ball for 3⅔ innings. The lefthanded Snider broke the spell with two out in the fourth by smashing the ball over the centerfield screen for his second homer of the year.

Furillo followed with a blast into the lower left field stands. Gil Hodges came close to making it three in a row with a high poke near the left field stands but it barely fell short and Roman Mejias grabbed it with one hand.

Podres won two games from the Yankees in the 1955 World Series including an eight-hit 2-0 thriller in the final game to give the Dodgers their first World Series title. Despite an injured back, Johnny was drafted and inducted into the Navy on March 19, 1956. He was given a medical discharge seven months later.

Although he was outstanding in the Series, he had a mediocre season in 1955. He failed to finish his last 13 National League starts.

A Record Haul

Bud Green, local grocer, holds up a 4-pound 4-ounce fish he caught at Lake J. B. Thomas last week, the biggest White Bass ever taken out of the body of water. Fishing by himself, Green landed 11 fish, each weighing between 1½ and 2½ pounds.

Steerettes Head For State Meet

Anna Smith's Big Spring Steerettes will try to add the Class AAAA girls' volleyball championship to their already-well decorated trophy case this week in the State Independent tournament in the Rose Field House at Abilene.

Only three teams are entered in AAAA and one of those—Pampa—was beaten by Big Spring in the Regional meet at Lubbock. (Champions and runnersup in each district are eligible to compete at Abilene).

The State Independent tournament is identified thusly because it is not yet sponsored by the Texas Interscholastic League.

The Steerettes will carry a 28-5 won-lost record to Abilene. Big Spring's first round foe is Pampa. Irving is the only other sextet entered and the three teams will compete in a single round robin. Pampa and the locals vie at 2 p.m. Friday. Big Spring and Irving take the court at 8 a.m. Saturday while Pampa takes on Irving at 11 a.m. Saturday.

The winner of two games can, of course, claim the state title.

Forty-two teams are entered in the five classes. Class B will have the most teams contending for the honor—15. There will also be 11 class A sextets, nine AA teams and four in AAA.

Peggy Isaacs and Barbara Burchett, members of the talented Big Spring B team, were promoted to the A squad and will be two of the 13 girls making the trip. Elaine Russell, Freda Donica, Barbara Hale Blizzard, Pat Henson and Frances Daveee are the seniors on the local club.

Jean Peters, ace spiker, won't get to make the trip. She was lost late in the season due to an appendectomy.

Fort Stockton defeated Big Spring in the finals of the 1956 state meet. At that time, all teams competed in the same division. Only five teams were entered last year.

Arah Phillips of HCJC serves as vice chairman of the State Independent Volleyball Tournament.

Trophies will go to the first second and third place teams in each classification, along with the consolation winner. In addition, miniature gold volleyballs will go to 12 members of the all-tournament team.

Warm Weather Brings Out Fishermen At Lake Thomas

Although blustery weather has held down the traffic somewhat, fishermen are flocking to Lake J. B. Thomas in increasing numbers. Warmer weather is having a good effect on their luck.

Jack Barrow and Jack Mitchell, Big Spring, caught a six-pound yellow cat and a 3½-pound channel cat Monday.

E. H. Cole, 1405 Sycamore, Big Spring, came in with a string of 11 whitebass and Bud Green, Big Spring, caught 13 white bass, taken along the south shore on plugs.

V. C. Cole had a string of channel cats weighing nine pounds in addition to one hefty nine-pound yellow cat. These were hooked Tuesday.

John Noble, 1409 Sycamore, Big Spring, hooked two good sized white bass.

Tommy Hutto had plenty of catches with both white and black bass while wading in the shallow water. He used River Runts and Wigglers.

H. C. Reid, patrolman at Lake Thomas, said that the bass and crappie are now spawning and fishermen are reporting catches almost any place in the lake.

* * *

Fishing has been good at Lake Colorado City this week.

The crappie are spawning and are being caught in shallow water. Leonard Henderson and Roy Howell have been landing lots of big ones. The J. W. Pursers of Big Spring have been down to the lake several times and have taken some big crappie every trip.

Bernie Grable and Frank Ginzel found the bass taking plugs Tuesday. Bernie brought in three weighing a total of 19 pounds. County Attorney Ginzel landed two bass which totaled 8½ pounds.

D. W. Dorn and Rube Hart caught several nice bass and a few big crappie fishing with minnows off Wyatts point.

The catfish are not biting too well but a few fishermen have found them biting. V. E. Howerton and two friends from Big Spring landed a 14¾-pound channel cat fishing with trotline in Cherry Creek. Several channel cat were caught weighing up to three pounds.

Pale Hose Bop Kansas City In Wild One

CHICAGO, April 20 (AP)—Catcher Sherm Lollar's five RBI's paced the Chicago White Sox to a wild 11-7 triumph over the Kansas City Athletics today and kept the Pale Hose apace with the New York Yankees atop the American League standings.

Lollar smashed a two-run homer, a two-run double and drove in a fifth run with a sacrifice fly.

Phils Wrap Up 6-5 Victory

NEW YORK, April 20 (AP)—Veteran Willie Jones and rookie Ed Bouchee teamed up today in a batting spree, driving in all of Philadelphia's runs in pacing the Phillies to their first victory of the year, 6-5 over the New York Giants.

Jones sent home four runs with a two-run homer in the first inning, a single and a fly. Bouchee, a strapping, 200-pound first baseman from Miami, Fla., clouted four consecutive hits, including a homer in the seventh inning for the game-winning run.

Queen's Horse Is First In Race

By DOROTHY ROE

LONDON, April 20 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth got a birthday present today at the Eastern meeting of the Kempton Park races. Her horse Doutelle won the 2,000 Guineas Trial Stakes, coming from behind in the stretch to win by a length and a half.

The Queen, who will celebrate her 31st birthday tomorrow at Windsor Castle, jumped up and down in excitement as Doutelle put on a final burst of speed.

She threw down her binoculars, laughed, then rushed down to the trainer, Capt. Cecil Boyd-Rochfort.

"Well done, Cecil! This must be our race," she said.

She has won this sane opening day race of the Kempton Park meet for the last two years — with High Veldt in 1956 and with Alexander in 1955.

The Queen looked radiantly modish in a bright navy suit and matching hat with white and navy dotted organdy trim. With her in the glassed-in royal box was Princess Margaret, who wore a pink tweed suit and pink felt puffed beret.

The Queen and the princess went down to the paddock before each race in which the Queen had entries, escorted by the Earl of Roseberry, track steward, and her racing manager.

Another of Elizabeth's horses, Might and Main, finished second in the Princess Royal Stakes for 2-year-olds. For this race Princess Margaret was escorted to the judge's stand, a lofty tower reached by an iron ladder, and was on hand to cheer her sister's entry at the finish.

It was a brilliant day of sunshine and white cotton clouds, and the horses ran on smooth green turf. Gentlemen in black bowler hats and ladies in fashionable tweeds strolled about the grounds.

Even when the Queen's horse, a two-to-one favorite, won, there were only polite murmurs of pleasure.

Queen Elizabeth, however, did not try to conceal her excitement at the thrilling finish. You could tell that the Queen, bounding with delight, was shouting the British equivalent of:

"Oh boy! We won!"

Jayhawk Thinlies To Race ACC Team

Howard County Junior College's track and field team, which scattered for the Easter holidays, gather again Tuesday for one day's drill before visiting Abilene Wednesday for a clash with ACC's highpowered freshman team.

Coach Red Lewis holds out little hope of holding the Wildkittens close but reasons the work will be good for the Hawks, who are pointing for the West Zone meet.

'MR. ARTHUR' READY TO GO TO WORK
Massive Sea-going rig passes its tests.

Maritime Drilling Rig, Partly Owned By Cosden, Passes Tests

"Mr. Arthur," Coral Drilling Company's giant new $4,500,000 submersible drilling vessel, has passed successfully all dock and "at sea" tests.

Cosden Petroleum Corporation of Big Spring owns approximately 25 per cent of the stock in Coral Drilling Company.

The sea-worthiness tests were conducted at Mobile, Alabama in the Port of Mobile turning basin. The massive rig is under contract to the California Company, the producing subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of California. It is expected to go on location in the Gulf of Mexico this month.

"Mr. Arthur" was christened Feb. 23 at Mobile by Mrs. Arthur O. Wellman of Boston, Mass., wife of the president of Coral Drilling and for whom the big maritime drilling unit is named. A. V. Karcher, secretary-treasurer of Cosden, and Mrs. Karcher were on hand for the christening ceremonies.

Under its design, "Mr. Arthur" can drill to depths exceeding 20,000 feet in water depths as much as 70 feet off shore. Principal dimensions are 180 feet in length, 151 feet wide, approximately 100 feet high. Besides a cantilevered drill mast of 142 feet, it has a 15-ton and a 25-ton crane for transferring material to and from service boats.

Over the living quarters for a complement of 44 men, is a helicopter deck to provide for easy communication to and from shore. The drawworks have a rated 1,500 horsepower input and a 60-inch single hydromatic brake, and a 450 ton drilling hook.

R. L. Tollett, Cosden president, announced that Marvin M. Miller, senior vice president, had been named a vice president of Coral Drilling Company.

Fleming, Fleming, and Kimbell's try in the Iatan field is the No. 8-J Denman, about five miles south of Coahoma. It is 990 feet from the north and 330 from east lines of the southwest quarter, 14-30-1s, T&P Survey, on an 80-acre tract. It will project to 3,200 feet with rotaries.

House Resigns Area Post With Humble

Humble Oil and Refining Company lost one of its top men Friday when John W. House of Midland resigned.

House resigned as superintendent of Humble's production department of the Western Division, which has its headquarters in Midland. House had been superintendent of the division since 1938.

The Western Division of Humble encompasses West Texas, all of New Mexico, and part of Arizona.

L. H. (Larry) Byrd, an assistant division superintendent, has been named acting division head, Humble announced Saturday.

House started to work for Humble in 1920 as a tool dresser on a cable tool drilling rig at Breckenridge. He migrated farther west in 1926 when he went to McCamey as farm boss.

Soon afterwards, he was named superintendent of the McCamey District, and in 1930 was promoted to assistant superintendent of the West Texas Division (now known as the Western Division).

He came to Midland when Humble moved the divisional headquarters from McCamey in 1935 and three years later, he moved into the superintendent's chair.

House will continue to live in Midland, and he said he would continue in oil business. He was the first president of the Midland Petroleum Club and also is a past president of the Midland Chamber of Commerce. He is active in other civic organizations plus the oil industry's professional and trade groups.

Announced earlier as principal speakers for the IPAA meeting were Rep. Oren Harris (D-Ark), who last week introduced a new natural gas bill in the Congress; Henry D. Ralph, chief editorial writer for The Oil and Gas Journal in Tulsa, and Rep. Richard M. Simpson, (R-Pa), a ranking member of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Allowable Higher By 11,790 Barrels

AUSTIN, April 20 (AP)—The Railroad Commission reported today an increase of 11,790 barrels in the average calendar day oil allowable over last week. The average allowable was 3,568,780 barrels as compared to 3,556,990.

The commission said 358 oil wells were brought in during the last seven days. There were 31 gas well completions. A total of 160 dry holes were recorded.

The oil well completions total for the year rose to 5,051, still below the 5,144 for 1956. Gas well completions increased to 554 compared to 502. Dry holes total 2,520 compared to 2,417.

Drilling Revives On National Level

Signs of revival were outstanding in the latest report of the American Association of Oilwell Drilling Contractors.

Based on the Hughes Tool Company survey, the April 15 report showed 2,571 rigs turning in the Unites States and Western Canada. This was 80 more than the previous week when 2,491 were in operation. It compared with 2,693 a week ago and 2,793 in the comparable week of 1956.

The U. S. figure was 2,463, a gain of 102 for the week. Texas showed 1,075, a gain of 11. Other pronounced gains were in Kansas with 154, an increase of 43; Oklahoma 248, a gain of 25.

Despite President's Blessing, New Gas Bill Faces Rough Road

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, April 20 (AP)—Despite President Eisenhower's approval, the new natural gas bill before Congress may be heading for trouble.

The bill includes some features which oil and gas operators consider attractive. But its proposed outright recognition of federal controls over gas prices apparently took most operators by surprise.

President Eisenhower last year vetoed a bill which would have freed wellhead prices from federal control. The new bill would authorize the Federal Power Commission (FPC) to establish reasonable market prices after considering natural gas as a commodity instead of as a public utility.

CHANGE FORMULA

Abandonment of the current public utility rate base cost-of-service formula would be good news to gas producers but it remains to be seen whether they will accept a modified form of federal controls. Industry spokesmen who supported bills vetoed by Presidents Eisenhower and Truman included among their arguments a warning that recognition of federal controls, however small, could lead to even broader regulatory authority.

Eisenhower says his aides have told him the new bill appears to meet the criteria which he fixed last year in his veto message.

Last year's bill was vetoed because of what the President called "arrogant" lobbying by a small segment of the industry. He endorsed principles, however, which would protect both the producer and the consumer.

NOT HAPPY

Olin Culberson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, said the new bill does not provide safeguards needed by gas producers.

"I am not happy over its provisions," he said.

Ernest Thompson, senior member of the commission, said he was very happy over the President's remarks, adding that a reasonable market price is all any producer has been seeking.

"However the consumer must realize that federal regulation would not protect him from an increase in price," Thompson said.

Rep. Karsten (D-Mo) said he expects to oppose the new bill and if it passes Congress to ask a veto.

"I cannot see any basic difference between this legislation and the bills that have been presented in the past," Karsten said. "I believe it would be detrimental to consumers and I do not see how it could help but increase consumer prices."

Rep. Price (D-Ill) said he opposed the natural gas bills each time they were brought before Congress.

"And no matter how much they water it down," he said, "it is still a gas bill that in the long run would prove costly to consumers."

Rep. Edmundson (D-Okla) said the new bill should "effectively meet all objections made to it by consumer groups in the last Congress."

TO GET SUPPORT

He predicted the bill will "have the energetic support of all members of oil and gas producing states and should pick up new friends in areas of the nation where people are finding it difficult to obtain adequate supplies."

Russell Brown, general counsel of the Independent Petroleum Assn. of America, wrote IPAA members he was sure no one, producers, pipelines, distributors or consumer groups, would be entirely satisfied with the new bill.

Eisenhower said he had not seen the bill but had heard about its general terms. From what he could understand, he said, it agrees in general with the criteria he announced as necessary for such a bill.

Dawson Wildcat To Test, Another Recovers Load Oil

A wildcat in the southeastern part of Dawson County prepared this weekend to test the Spraberry after the Canyon proved barren.

Camp Oil and Jones Drilling Company of Midland No. 1 A. B. Middleton plugged back to 7,511 feet in the Spraberry and set seven-inch casing at that depth. Operator had previously projected to 8,830 feet, tested the Reef, and found nothing but salt water. Saturday operator waited on cement to set the oil string.

Earlier this month, operator drillstem tested the Spraberry and found slight shows of oil.

The venture is six miles southeast of Lamesa, 1,980 feet from south and east lines, 30-34-5n, T&P Survey.

Humble No. 2 M. R. Stewart, about 19 miles southeast of Lamesa, swabbed and flowed 78 barrels of load oil in 12 hours. It contained two per cent water. Perforations are from 7,472-90 feet.

The wildcat is 1,980 feet from south and west lines, 5-33-4n, T&P Survey, about four miles northeast of the Jo-Mill (Canyon) field, and two and a quarter miles southeast of the Spraberry pool.

Five and a half miles northwest of Lamesa, Humble No. 1 R. E. Britt made hole at 6,241 feet Saturday. This wildcat is a mile and a half northwest of the East Mungerville field, 660 feet from the north and east lines, Labor 16, League 3, Taylor CSL Survey.

Officials Beginning To Crack Down On Juvenile Delinquents

DALLAS, April 20 (AP)—Simon Rodriguez is a slightly-built, dark-eyed teenager who had more than his share of trouble with the law as a juvenile.

He was sent to the state training school for helping burn down a schoolhouse in 1955.

He was on parole when a girl, 12, was shot to death and raped in a slum area of west Dallas Dec. 31. Simon was charged with murder and rape in the case.

James Parks is a husky Wichita Falls youth with a ready smile and dimples. James wasn't known as a trouble-maker.

But he wanted a car of his own. He saved $100 and asked his parents to put up the rest of the money. When they refused, James said he took a rifle and shot his stepfather 10 times and his mother 6 times.

Simon and James both are 16.

Both are being held until their 17th birthday, when they can be tried as adults, although the maximum penalty they can receive if convicted is life in prison.

Holding juveniles charged with such violent crimes for later trial as adults is not rare.

But these two cases point up what seems to be a growing attitude among officials in Texas: To get tough on juvenile offenders.

The most publicized example of the sterner attitude was the recent campaign by Gray County Judge Bruce Parker of Pampa.

Parker put a curfew on juveniles and said he would refuse to issue beer licenses to pool halls or domino parlors where persons under 17 were allowed to congregate.

The curfew is seen as a solution by many officials. A bill is pending in the Legislature that would give cities formal permission to set up juvenile curfews for youths under 17.

Grand juries and citizens committees in many areas are studying ways to cut down juvenile delinquency.

Gov. Price Daniel is backing a move in the Legislature to reorganize the present state agencies dealing with youthful offenders.

Legislation was introduced which would make parents financially responsible for property damage caused by children under 18, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson ruled, however, that such a law would be unconstitutional.

Curfews are in effect in Corpus Christi, Wichita Falls, Galveston, Pharr, Stinnett, and Pampa. Officials in towns where curfews have been adopted think it has helped.

"It has reduced both felonies and misdemeanors involving teenagers," says Wichita County juvenile officer J. W. McCormick.

Most officials feel stronger enforcement and tougher laws are not the complete answer.

"The whole problem rests with the parents and not with the law," said Galveston County probation officer George Cusick. "Parents should be tougher on their kids."

"Laws as far as juveniles are concerned are adequate," says Judge Paul Martineau of Corpus Christi, a veteran juvenile judge.

A citizens committee in Waco is studying a program including possible passage of a curfew law, a possible anti-loitering ordinance and suggestions for state legislation to curb the juvenile problem.

Underlying the opinion of many officials is a growing conviction that juveniles are getting off too light.

A recent grand jury at Austin pointed this up. It recommended that newspapers review the policy of not publishing the names of juveniles offenders unless they were 17.

The grand jury said printing offender's names might serve as a deterrent.

Mechanic Gets Commendation

A maintenance mechanic who recently switched over from 10 years in the food service field has been nominated for "Maintenance Man of the Month" at Webb AFB.

The nomination of S-Sgt. Robert C. Madden, 3560th Field Maintenance Squadron, was brought about by his "outstanding devotion to duty" in the career field of his choice.

T-Sgt. James P. Smith, NCOIC, Ground Powered Aircraft Support, Equipment Shop, initiated the recommendation, after he had observed Madden's work while on a special assignment under his supervision.

Given a limited time to inventory thousands of aircraft parts, and to clear up overages that had accumulated, Sergeant Madden, by spending many hours of his off-duty time on the project, accomplished his mission with dispatch.

He cleared the supply bins of surplus parts, catalogued them and turned in his report in record time.

All of this was accomplished even though Madden had relatively little experience in supply work and was in fact still new in the maintenance field.

According to Capt. James P. Smith, field maintenance officer, Sergeant Madden restored order to the supply system.

B. M. Newton, farming northwest of Big Spring, says he still has a little moisture. The soil is not wet enough to keep down blowing, though. He said the big storm about three weeks ago started the sand moving, and now everytime a wind comes, the sand spots spread a little wider.

Newton has an irrigation well but has never put a sprinkler on it and doesn't intend to.

"It won't pump over 60 gallons a minute," he said, "and I don't want to go to the trouble and expense of rigging up an irrigation system for no more water than that."

There are three or four little irrigation wells in that area, he said, but none of them are big enough to water much land.

• • •

Dawson County is somewhat wetter than this area, particularly north of Lamesa. J. M. Bradley, district manager for a gin company, says some farmers in north Dawson County think they have enough moisture to bring up cotton and are now planting.

He said the rest of his area, including Gaines, part of Yoakum, Midland, Martin, Howard and Borden, is all dry. Some of the irrigation farmers in Dawson and around Tarzan are busy planting cotton.

Bradley said a lot of irrigation wells have gone down since last fall. There are over 200 wells in Gaines County now, and many of them are quite large. He said the wells are much larger on the average than the ones in Dawson and Martin counties.

This is also reflected by the amount of land put in the soil bank. Only two per cent of the land was put in the soil bank up there, two per cent in Dawson, while about 25 per cent was listed for payments in Martin and Howard counties.

• • •

At Lubbock the Lubbock Cotton Exchange came up with some figures showing that in a 20-county area farmers put 64,116 acres in the cotton reserve for 1957. For this they will draw about two and a half million dollars.

The exchange officials said that farmers could have placed 600,000 acres in the soil bank. While the South Plains will lose only about three per cent to the soil bank, the Rio Grande Valley has 22 per cent in it.

Local feed dealers say there are practically no baby chicks being sold. At least this is true at three places of business. Pete Chapman said people are buying only a few at a time. One reason a dealer can't stock them ahead of time is that he may be stuck with a bunch of chickens. If no one buys them, then he must keep feeding the chicks and hope a buyer will come along.

A. E. McCuistian says practically the same thing. A few times he got a batch of chickens, fed them for several days then had to sell them at baby chick prices. He said those who were buying often wanted only a dozen or so, instead of the large lots they bought in former years.

• • •

Egg market experts say the price goes up and down in two-year cycles. Right now seems a good time to get into the hen business. Baby chick orders are down 10 per cent from last year, according to a national poultry association, and next fall there may be a shortage of eggs.

This organization is predicting high egg prices, starting late in the fall and continuing through the winter. They also predict that next spring everyone will get into the chicken business again, because prices are high, then by autumn of 1958 there will be so many eggs in the U. S. that the bottom will drop out of the market. They call this a boom-and-bust cycle and say it occurs about every two years.

Farmers in the St. Lawrence community think it's warm enough to plant cotton. Several are already busy, while down in Reagan County, Florence Wilde has cotton ready to come up.

Wilde lives about 12 miles south of St. Lawrence. This is mostly range country, but there are a few scattered irrigation farms.

• • •

O. E. Hamlin is still in the cattle business, but says he might have been better off had he sold everything two or three years ago. He still has 140 or 150 head of cattle, and is having to feed them.

He had a nice wheat crop that perked up after the winter rains, but now most of it has died. He says even a good rain wouldn't help much, and intends to plow it up.

Every cow that Hamlin owns was raised right on the ranch, he said, and that is one reason he hasn't sold. Somehow there is more income tax if you sell homegrown stock than if they were bought from an outside source.

He says that hardly any rancher has made anything with cattle the last few years, and most of them have gone into the hole. Hamlin has some oil leases on his place north of town, and this has helped him stay in the cattle business.

He has quite an acreage of cultivated land, but prospects are so slim, he put much of it in the soil bank.

• • •

Farmer commenting on the sight of so many dead rabbits at one of the rabbit drives, "If this had happened back in 1933, we'd be eating these things."

"Don't start bragging," answered a companion. "It we don't get a rain soon, they may taste good in 1957."

Two or three times a year some foreign insect invades this country to feast on crops. The Mediterranean fruit fly, the Kapra beetle which eats stored grain, and the Gypsy moth are some of the main ones.

Now the Extension Service reports the spread of fire ants, and says they have been found in several East Texas counties. The ant is a bad actor. He will chase hens off their nests and eat the baby chicks, kill vegetables and will even attack newborn pigs and calves. He probably won't be very welcome at picnics either. They are believed to have entered the country from South America, and have been spread by floating downstream on logs, by travelling in cars and even in nursery stock.

Their sting is supposed to be much harder than that of a red ant.

Chrysler Tops Mobilgas Run

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (AP) — A family of cars from Chrysler and a family of drivers from California, including a grandmother, took the cream off the 1957 Mobilgas economy run which ended here Thursday.

The 1,568-mile, four-leg route followed a course from Los Angeles through Nevada and Utah to Idaho.

The top driver was Mel Alsbury Jr. of Inglewood, Calif. He brought in an Imperial Crown for an average of 20.9465 miles per gallon of gas for the entire run.

Sweepstakes winners are figured on a ton-mile formula and the Chrysler auto topped the upper price division and the 24-car entry list with a 64.5153 ton-miles per gallon rating.

The grandmother, Mrs. Mildred Alsbury of Los Angles, also driving an Imperial Crown, took unofficial second in the run with 61.7535 ton-miles figure. Since only one car model in each division could win under the rules, her son got the sweepstakes honors.

Another son, George, who just turned 20, drove a Chrysler Saratoga the distance with a ton-mile average of 56.7267 to take first in the upper medium-price division entries.

The best actual gasoline mileage was logged by a Ford Fairlane driven by Marshall Martin of Los Angles. He covered the run averaging 22.253 miles per gallon. However, a Plymouth Belvedere won the lower-price division with a ton-mile rating of 52.6211 compared to the Ford's 52.5181.

William Losher of Pacioma, Calif., drove a Dodge Coronet to the lower medium-price honors with a 55.8920 ton-mile figure.

Officials Differ On Red Atom Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)— Chairman Durham (D-NC) of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee said today a series of five Russian nuclear test explosions this month indicates the Soviets have a substantial supply of atomic weapons.

But another member of the group, Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa), said the closely spaced tests could mean the Russians are still trying to develop weapons worth stockpiling.

Telephones that "remember"... telephones powered by the sun... voiceways 2,000 fathoms underseas...

These are just a few of the amazing new developments you can look forward to in tomorrow's telephone world.

C. G. Tarbell

As told by C. G. Tarbell, Southwestern Bell chief engineer, to telephone news reporter Don Davis

MUSICAL TELEPHONE: This pretty miss is holding an experimental phone that sounds more like a clarinet than a ringing bell. Pleasant, easier-to-hear sound comes from musical-tone device built into phone's base.

Someday you'll hear the sweet tones of a clarinet when your telephone rings.

Musical telephone tones are just one of the many new features of telephone service which may be made possible with electronic switching.

"Electronic switching is not just around the corner, but it is past the 'dream' stage," says C. G. Tarbell, chief engineer for the telephone company in Texas. "There's an experimental switching center like this under construction right now. And it may help make some of your dreams of tomorrow's telephone world come true."

LIKE THE HUMAN HEART

What's a switching center? Tarbell compares it to the human heart.

Miles and miles of telephone cables channel thousands of telephone calls into the heart—or switching center. Here the "switches" quickly route the calls along cable arteries to the called telephones.

The new all-electronic system will be much like an electric brain, too, because it's able to "remember" things, Tarbell says. "Suppose you went out of town. Its 'memory' could answer your phone and take any messages your callers wished to leave. You could get the playback just by calling in."

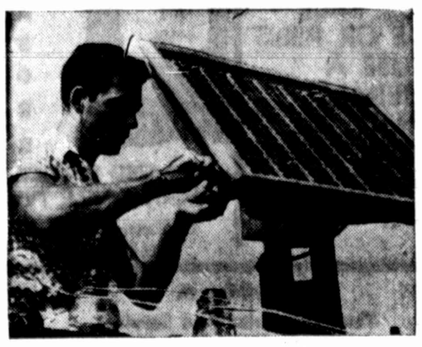

And with electronic switching there'd be no more wasting time trying to get "busy" numbers.

You would make only one call. If the line was busy, the "memory" would take over and keep trying. When the line was free it would call you back—while it was ringing the number you wanted.

Another "memory" service: Telephone numbers you call frequently, including out-of-town numbers, could be assigned simple codes such as "88" or "99." To place a call to one of them from your own telephone, all you'd have to do is dial the special code. The "memory" would do the rest of the dialing for you.

Because the new electronic center can switch calls so much faster than its present-day "mechanical" cousins, less equipment is needed, and the entire unit can be housed in a much smaller building. Maintenance may cost less, too.

"Creative engineering like that really pays off in dollars and cents," Tarbell points out. "When the new system is ready for general use, the telephone user will win in two ways ... better service, at the lowest possible cost."

Small silicon wafers in the Bell Solar Battery pluck energy from the sun. This energy may be used to bring telephone service to people far from town.

POWER FROM THE SUN

Like most people with scientific leanings, Tarbell is excited about the possibilities of still another telephone development—the Bell Solar Battery.

The device absorbs energy from the sun's rays and turns it into usable electricity.

"Man has been working on this idea for a long time," Tarbell says. "Now it's here. For us, the Solar Battery may be the key to more economical ways of giving service, especially in sparsely settled areas far from town.

Although he enjoys talking about Solar Batteries and electronic switching, Tarbell is just as enthused about new developments which have already passed from the experimental stage into day-to-day use.

One example is Direct Distance Dialing. With this new service, customers in more and more cities are dialing their calls from coast to coast as easily as they dial across town.

Another engineering feat is the first transatlantic telephone cable linking the U. S. and Canada with the British Isles. Since the new cable was placed in service last year, calls to England have more than doubled. A product of 25 years of active research and planning, the submarine cable extends along the ocean floor 2,000 fathoms deep at some points.

PLANNING FOR PROGRESS

All of these developments, some experimental and some already in use, furnish a clear picture of the telephone world of tomorrow: Better service, more convenient service, at low cost.

As Chief Engineer Tarbell puts it, "The time, effort, and money we're investing in research and development now will more than pay its own way in years to come. Planning ahead like this guarantees you a future telephone service that's not only constantly improving but growing in value as well."

Churches throughout Christendom beckon worshippers today, to join in observance of the Day of Triumph. Families will be on hand, with the gaiety of Spring in their hearts, in their attitude and in their dress for the occasion. Typical of those who will be in Church for Easter worship are the Gene Combs family of 800 Birdwell, pictured here all ready for Easter services. At left is Candy, 9, in a yellow dress, yellow half-hat and white gloves. Carol, 6, wears a pink dress and hat, and Connie, 5, is in blue. Chris, 2½, is all slicked up in his Easter suit. Mrs. Combs holds 6-months-old Juliann, twin of Jonathan, held by his father. They attend Phillips Memorial Baptist Church.

Ernest Stewarts With Family Pet

Poochy is the center of attraction as the Ernest Stewart family gathers for a little fun. Pictured from left to rigth are Ernest, 14, Rev. Stewart, Mrs. Stewart, Clifford, 10, and Annette, 8. Rev. Stewart is the new pastor of the East Fourth Baptist Church. They moved here last week from O'Donnell, where they lived for 2½ years. Besides the family dog, the Stewarts raise beautiful parakeets.

Raising Parakeets Is Hobby For Stewarts

A pair of parakeets several years ago was a gift to Ernest D. Stewart Jr., and from that gift has grown a hobby that now boasts a total of about 50 parakeets.

This is a hobby that can be enjoyed by Rev. Stewart when he can spare a few minutes from his duties as pastor of the East Fourth Baptist Church.

The Stewart family moved to Big Spring last week from O'Donnell, which was their home for 2½ years. He was pastor of the First Baptist Church in that city.

Raising parakeets really doesn't require too much time, Rev. Stewart says; if they have a good place to stay it's only necessary to attend them once a week.

Their collection, which is strictly just a hobby, they say, has 50 parakeets of almost any color you can think of. Some very rare colors also grace the Stewart roost. Parakeets range from bright aqua and yellow to pale cream and blue.

There is one albino in the group, and other rare birds include light aqua parakeets with brown markings. Some of the breeds also have red eyes which is rare for a parakeet.

The bird collection at the Stewarts also includes a pair of beautifully color cockateels.

Levelland is the hometown of both Rev. and Mrs. Stewart. Rev. Stewart was graduated from Hardin-Simmons University and Southwestern Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

Working in church activities is enjoyed by the three Stewart children; Ernest, 14, Clifford, 10, and Annette, 8.

Family outings and picnics are special fun for the Stewarts.

The family is making a home at 1407 Johnson.

Ladders Are Useful; Can Be Dangerous

A ladder is one of man's most useful tools — and one of the most dangerous if used carelessly. Falls are usually serious, costly in pain, disability and dollars even if you avoid death.

So if the house needs painting, the roof fixing, or just the windows in need of washing, make sure you come down a ladder the same way you went up by heeding this advice from the National Safety Council.

Never paint a ladder because it hides defects. Give a new ladder a coat or two of linseed oil or a clear sealer.

Set an extension ladder way from wall a distance equal to one-fourth its extended height. This given the most strength and stability. If the ground is soft, put a wide board under bottom. Where legs may slip, as on concrete, nail on pieces of old auto tire, or tie base to solid anchor.

18th Century Look

Eighteenth - century elegance is translated for current tastes in a new collection by Russel Wright. Authentic French sun and star symbols, in cerulean blue and glinting gold, appear in a free, new arrangement on an antique white ground. Made to the measure of buffet entertaining is the impressive long, low server in the group, planned for relishes and breads, fruit or flowers.

Good Housekeeping

Good housekeeping not only is pleasing to the eye, but it is a safety plus as well. Tripping over litter and loose objects on the floor causes many falls.

MRS. DAVID L. HODNETT

Symbolical Candle Lighted During Boykin-Hodnett Wedding Ceremony

During the wedding ceremony, which united in marriage Annette Boykin and David L. Hodnett Friday evening at the First Baptist Church, the couple lighted a candle symbolizing the union of their lives.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ross Boykin, 101 Jefferson, and Mr. and Mrs. Loyd D. Hodnett of Vincent.

The Rev. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the church, read the vows before a background of seven-branched candelabra centered with sunburst arrangements of calla lilies and fern. As the rites terminated, the couple knelt on a white satin bench, while Sue Boykin, a cousin of the bride sang "The Wedding Prayer."

The singer, attired in a sheer cotton in turquoise shade, was accompanied by Darlene Agee, organist, who played a prelude of nuptial music including "Ave Maria," "Liebestraum," "Estrellita" and "Traumerei."

Miss Agee selected "Love's Old Sweet Song" to play as the candles were being lighted and "O, Perfect Love" during the ceremony. She accompanied Miss Boykin as she sang "Because" preceding the exchange of vows. The organist was dressed in a lace frock in lime tones over a matching taffeta slip. A velvet bow formed the trim for the sheath.

WEDDING GOWN

The father of the bride gave her in marriage. Her gown, of white imported lace and nylon tulle over net and satin, was designed with high neckline framed by an upstanding queen's collar. This, embroidered with pearls and sequins, topped a fitted bodice of lace, enhanced with a sheer yoke, also pearl and sequin embroidered.

Long sleeves ended in points, which matched the points of the bodice and those of the voluminous skirt of lace over a wide tulle ruffle.

Chantilly lace, hand-clipped, formed the cap worn by the bride. White satin bound the headdress, encrusted with mother-of-pearl sequins and seed pearls. A veil of silk illusion in two tiers extended to the shoulders and to the fingertips.

The bridal bouquet, borne on a white Bible of the Rainbow Girls, was of stephanotis cascades centered with a catelya orchid.

Something old was a gold chain necklace of rosedrop diamonds, which belonged to the late Mrs. G. S. True. Mrs. Claude Miller contributed the new item, a handkerchief of linen and Brussels lace, with the name of the bride and her wedding date embroidered in a corner.

Earrings of pearl were borrowed from the bride's cousin, Mrs. Doyle Conrad of Fort Worth, and there was a blue garter, which is to be worn in the weddings of seven girls who are school friends. A sixpence was in the bridal slipper.

Betty Boykin attended her sister as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Barbara Shields, Martha Sue Medley of Lubbock, and Kathy McRee.

Frocks of the attendants were identically styled of Copen blue cotton satin with nylon drapery. Rippling brimmed hats were of horse-hair braid, studded with rhinestones and trimmed with tiny satin bows. Yellow iris, picoted ribbon and maline trimmed the summer muffs of shirred blue chiffon carried by each of the attendants.

Grady Barr of Vincent served as best man; groomsmen were Sherrod Dunn of Lamesa, Dudley Arnett of Lubbock and Jerry Graves of Big Spring.

Guests were seated by Jack Morrison of Coahoma, Pat Porter of Gail and Lewis Porter.

Candle lighters were Sue and Nancy Hodnett, sisters of the bridegroom.

They wore pink cotton dresses with scooped necklines, and very short sleeves and full skirts. Their pumps were pink and they wore wristlets of pink sweetheart rosebuds and maline.

Flower girls were Judy and Linda Boykin of Fort Worth, twin cousins of the bride. They were attired in yellow organdy dresses over full taffeta skirts. Their headbands of yellow maline were trimmed with yellow sweetheart roses and leaves of gold braid. They carried small baskets of yellow rose petals.

Mr. and Mrs. Boykin and Mr. and Mrs. Hodnett with the bride's attendants, assisted the bridal couple in receiving guests at the reception in the church parlor.

The bride's table was covered with a floor length cloth of organdy over satin and held a pair of three-branched candelabra laced with stephanotis, gardenias and English ivy.

A three-tiered cake was decorated with a tiny nosegay of stephanotis and gardenia in a base of ruffled maline. The cake was garlanded with the same flowers.

During the reception, Mrs. William McRee played piano selections. Serving was done by Linda Coker, Lou Ann White, Carol Rogers, and Helen Gray. At the register was Patricia Kitchens of San Angelo, a cousin of the bride, and Rosalie Ebersole.

Others in the house party were Mrs. Zollie Boykin, Mrs. Henry Boykin of Fort Worth, both aunts of the bride; Mrs. Claude Hodnett, Mrs. Eugene Turner, Mrs. Leroy Tidwell, Mrs. Roy Cornelison, Mrs. Horace Reagan and Mrs. John A. Coffee.

WEDDING TRIP

For a wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride chose a suit in navy and white, with blue pumps and bag. She wore a red straw hat and white gloves. Her corsage was an orchid.

Upon their return the couple will make a home in Vincent.

The bride is to be a May graduate of Big Spring High School, where she is serving as secretary-treasurer of the senior class; senior representative to the student council; member of Feta Tri Hi Y and the Forum. She is associate worthy advisor of the Rainbow Girls and, last summer, was a delegate to the National FHA convention in Chicago.

The bridegroom was graduated from Coahoma High School, and he attended Howard County Junior College. He was prominent in athletics in both schools.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wainwright of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hughes of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Conrad and Gary of Fort Worth; Mrs. R. C. Hale of Carrollton; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kitchens and Patricia of San Angelo and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dunn of Lamesa.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Arrangements of iris decorated tables where 24 guests were seated for the rehearsal dinner Thursday evening. Parents of the bride were hosts for the affair, which was held at the Twins Cafe.

LAMESA — A candelight ceremony, read Saturday evening, united in marriage Shirley Irene Jones and James Roy Sikes, Jr. of Waco. Wedding vows were exchanged in the First Baptist Church in a spring garden setting. White daisies, stock and twining greenery covered a gate and fence, with lighted tapers outlining the bower of fern.

The Rev. Robert Joe Green, of Fort Worth, brother-in-law of the bride, read the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Truett Jones, 307 N. 19th St., Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. James Roy Sikes Sr., 2311 Herring, Waco, are the bridegroom's parents.

Marion McDonald furnished a prelude of wedding music and accompanied Richard Evans as he sang "Whether Day Dawns" by Tschiakowsky and "A Wedding Prayer" set to Beethoven's "Adagio." The traditional wedding marches were used.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of antique taffeta fashioned with an elongated waist, from which stemmed a bouffant skirt of two widely gathered tiers which flowed into a chapel train. A bateau neckline and sleeves which extended to points over the fingertips completed the dress. She wore a picture headdress of taffeta and illusion which held a fingertip veil of illusion. Her bouquet was of gardenias and baby's breath atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Green, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Serving as bridesmaids were Linda Lou Jones, Lamesa, cousin of the bride and Virginia Lee Holder of Greenville. All wore identical dresses of taffeta designed along princess lines with a soft flowing chiffon drape which fell from the center back. Following the exchange of vows a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Receiving felicitations with the bride and bridegroom were their parents and the attendants.

The attendants' bouquets cascaded from the silver candelabra, which held yellow tapers and formed and center arrangement on the bride's table, laid with white linen. The four-tiered bridal cake was decorated with fresh flowers. The appointments were of silver and crystal.

Honey Sauce For Breakfast Week

Breakfast can be made as appetizing and interesting a meal as its companions, lunch and dinner, with a little forethought.

For instance have you ever made a breakfast sauce that can be served on the usual plain toast in the morning and which takes but a few minutes to prepare?

A honey sauce can add glamour to an otherwise sterotyped breakfast. This sauce can be put together quickly by combining ½ cup honey, ¼ cup butter, and ½ cup cream or undiluted evaporated milk in a saucepan. Bring this to a boil and let it cook about 4 or 5 minutes until it is of good thick syrup consistency.

Be sure to stir it every so often, then cool it slightly and stir in ½ cup of ground unblanched almonds. That is all there is to it. This amount will make five or six servings.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By Mary Sue Hale

Before the Easter holidays went into effect Thursday noon, Jayhawk campus was the site for much last-minute frenzy. Thirty-five students, sponsored by Bruce Frazier, returned Sunday night from a trek to Big Bend National Park.

Another group, returning Sunday from a school - sponsored venture, was the one under the supervision of Fred E. Short. Entered in the Corsicana speech tournament were four competitiors from HCJC.

Rodney Sheppard placed second in extemporaneous speaking, while George Kozachuk won third in men's oratory division. Other students from the local college who entered the event, competing with students from fifteen other junior colleges, were George Clark, radio speech, and James Skeen, who entered poetry interpretation.

"The Terrible Meek" by Charles Randall was presented in assembly as an Easter play during Tuesday's activity period. It was in the form of a platform reading. Members of the cast were Rodney Sheppard, Billie Freeman, and George Clark.

Prevailing through Tuesday, with a few modern variations, was Ranch Day. Although it officially began at 1:30 p. m., many an old cowhand and cowgirl were decked out in western garb in the morning hours, during which regular classes were conducted.

Then pronto at 1:30, participants and viewers began gathering on the campus lawn, where the first events were to begin. After games such as boot racing and banana feeding contests, the pie-eating event was staged. Emerging as winner was Robert Richards, after competing against such veterans as Buddy Mayes, Charlie Burks, Jerry Forsyth, and Joe Reiseman.

After this bout, the group drifted to the SUB, where Kangaroo Court was in session, with Billy McIlvain serving as Judge, Max McCullough as prosecuting attorney, and Tommy Black as defense counsel.

Some of the "guilty" culprits prosecuted were Pat Dunn, Mr. Bruce Frazier, Frank Dunlap, Dorothy Baker, and Miss Arah Phillips.

Adjournment was in order until 6 p. m., when the day's activities were climaxed with a hayride-wiener roast, then continued with a western dance. Still dressed in western attire, Bobby Fuller, JoAnn Ebling, Marilou Staggs, Johnny; Lovelle Fletcher, Freddy Stuart; Julie Rainwater, Jimmy Parks, Ben Faulkner, Melinda Crocker were some of the gang who rode out to Moss Creek lake in paper-loaded trucks.

Back to the SUB for a dance was next on tab for some, including Glen Madison, Ann Hanson, Pat and Mike Powell; Ann Richbourg, Sidney Cravens; Richard Engle, Delores Howard.

Officers of the newly chartered local branch of Phi Theta Kappa, an honorary fraternity, who left Thursday for the national convention in Lawton, Okla., were John Richardson, Julie Rainwater, Marlene Mann, Oscar Williams, and Pat Dunn. Dr. Marvin Baker accompanied the delegation, which was to return Saturday night.

Mrs. Russell Payne Is Guest Speaker For Forum Luncheon

"Why have a federation of clubs or belong to a study club?" asked Mrs. Russell Payne of Fort Stockton at the luncheon of the four Forum units Friday at Cosden Country Club.

Mrs. Payne, president of Eighth District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, then answered her question.

She told the group that there is a greater need now than ever before for life on a national and international basis; the federation, she said, works toward that goal. The first study clubs were organized for self-culture, but now we see the need for improvement in many lines.

The federation of the clubs is the largest organization of its kind in world, according to Mrs. Payne, and for that reason has great strength. Educated leaders are needed, she told listeners, and from the clubs these are recruited.

Discussing the individual reasons for belonging to a study club, Mrs. Payne said that there is the personal gain for the member in her friendship and association with others.

She described the characteristics of a good club president as including willingness to accept the responsibility of the office; dependability, capability and the ability to think for herself, but the willingness to listen to others.

Mrs. John Hill was in charge of the program, and she introduced Mrs. George S. Thomas, who sang "Were You There?" and "Easter Parade." Kathleen Soldan, pianist, accompanied the singer.

Mrs. W. A. Laswell gave the invocation.

Guests were seated at tables in a U-shape, holding arrangements of yellow snapdragons, orange ranunculas and foliage in hats of straw. Head table held the same type arrangement, with a yellow rabbit sitting among the blossoms.

Places were marked with straw hats, doll - size, bearing name cards. In keeping with the Easter bonnet theme, the orchestra dais was fitted out with a dressing table with oval mirror, while various hats hung temptingly at hand.

An arrangement of flowers on the piano was similar to the table bouquets. An arrangement was awarded as a special prize to Mrs. Richard Patterson, a guest.

Other guests were Mrs. Albert Fisher of St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. Bill Dolezal of Abilene, Mrs. Nick Reed of Sterling City, Mrs. W. F. Shannon and Mrs. W. O. Averett of Forsan, Helen Hurt and Mrs. B. L. LeFever.

Mrs. Ladd Smith was general chairman of the affair. Units of the forum are The Modern Woman's Forum, The Woman's Forum, The Junior Woman's Forum and Spoudazio Fora.

Presbyterians In Coahoma Meet For Breakfast, Study

COAHOMA—Mrs. R. B. Mayfield entertained the women of the Presbyterian Church with an Easter breakfast Friday morning. The dining tables were laid with pastel linen cloths and centered with arrangements of spring pastel flowers.

Mrs. Olin Fryar gave the Easter story and Mrs. Fred Salling brought the devotion. Mrs. C. P. Owen offered the invocation.

Each guest brought a baby picture of her husband and these were the admission for the breakfast. These were placed on the wall and furnished the entertainment as the group tired to recognize and identify the men's pictures. Those attending were, Mrs. Thad Hale, Mrs. Frank Loveless, Mrs. A. D. Shive, Mrs. C. H. DeVaney, Mrs. Tom Barber, Mrs. C. D. Read, Mrs. C. P. Owen, Mrs. Fred Salling, Mrs. Charter Hale, Mrs. Leroy Echols, Mrs. W. J. Tinner, Mrs. Olin Fryer, Mrs. J. H. WEDDING GOWN

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of imported silk peau de soie. The sabrina neckline was outlined in re-embroidered Alencon lace. The full skirt with a chapel train had the same re-embroidered Alencon lace forming panels on either side of the skirt and ending in scallops at the hemline. Bridal beads and sequins trimmed the lace.

The tightly fitted bodice buttoned down the back with tiny self-covered buttons. The long tapering sleeves ended in points over her hands. A fingertip veil of illusion fell from a jeweled crown sprayed with seed pearls and sequins.

The bridal bouquet of a white orchid was surrounded by stephanotis and was carried atop a white Testament.

Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. C. E. Locke Jr. of Fort Worth. Bridesmaids were Jeanne Dickson, San Angelo and Fort Worth, Mrs. James Cox, Fort Worth and Mrs. James L. Burris, Fort Worth.

The feminine attendants wore identical gowns of blue eyelet chiffon made with a long torso bodice. The square necklines were outlined with scallops of embroidery. The formal length dresses featured a large bow at the back. They wore matching half hats of blue velvet. Their colonial bouquets were of white flowers.

Lawrence R. Wilson of Big Spring and Fort Worth served as best man. Groomsmen were Richard D. Marshall of Temple, brother of the bride, H. H. Hall, Big Spring, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and C. D. Gaddy of Fort Worth. James L. Burris was an usher.

Lighting the tapers were Nikky Nicholson, Fort Worth, and Don Hall, Big Spring. Charles Martin was ring bearer and Susan Volk, flower girl.

RECEPTION

Receiving guests at the reception, held in the church parlor, were the bridal couple, each of their parents, and the feminine members of the wedding party.

Baskets of white gladioli and white tapers decorated the parlor. The bride's table was laid with a white Madeira cloth and centered with white gladioli touched with blue. The three tirered wedding cake was topped with a miniature bridal couple. Serving was done by Mrs. James Coffee, Mrs. Max Hamilton, Mrs. Jack McKnight and Mrs. Don Goldston.

At the register was Mrs. Herbert Kee. Other members of the house party were Mrs. Don Golden and Annett Dean.

Out-of-town wedding guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wyatt, Waco; Mr. and Mrs. L. Bruce Sutton, Cedar Pines, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Crossman, Garland, and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hall and family, Big Spring.

WEDDING TRIP

For a wedding trip to Mexico City and Acapulco, Mrs. Hayward wore a costume of gray imported French flannel with Duch Boy skirt and Spencer jacket. Gray shoes and hat completed her costume.

The couple will make a home at 5709 Walla in Fort Worth, where the bridegroom is an engineer with Convair.

The bride attended the University of Arkansas, where she was a member of Delta Gamma national sorority, and Texas Christian University. Hayward was graduated from Texas Tech with a degree in mechanical engineering.

Banquet Given For Junior High Band

LAMESA — "Say It with Music" was the theme for the banquet of the Lamesa Junior High School Green Warrior Band and their guests Tuesday evening. The guests entered through a hallway lit with hurricane lamps, from which were suspended musical notes, and a "green door" to the banquet room.

Large music platters and discs along with over-size glittering notes were spotlighted on the walls as was a "money tree" beside the speaker's table. Spring flowers in miniature snare drums formed the decorations for the tables.

Raymond T. Bynum, director of the McMurry College Indian Band was the guest speaker for the banquet. Also on the program was the welcome by G. L. Trice, school principal; Richard Crawley gave his Corn Tassel puppet act. C. W. Tarter offered the invocation.

Dinner music was furnished by Crawley, Bill Green, Junior High band director, and Mrs. Miller. Approximately 155 attended the banquet.

WEARABLE FLATTERER

Soft Pleats Make Sole Trim Of Midriff Frock

Tina Leser believes that clothes should be wearable, comfortable and above all, flattering to the figure, and she follows up her beliefs with a design such as this, so easy to make that you will have it in a variety of fabrics and colors.

Soft, tiny pleats are set in across the bustline, banded at the bottom with a taut midriff, on top with a band that ties at the shoulders.

The skirt, full and cool, consists of a series of released pleats. Precise perforations in this designer retail sized pattern, which includes a step-by-step instruction sheet, guide you to beautiful and professional results.

Choose a sheer cotton — plain or printed, chambray, gingham, linen, shantung or paper taffeta.

From this chart select the one size best for you:

Size 10 bust 34, waist 24, hips 35, length from nape of neck to waist 16½ inches; size 12 bust 35, waist 25, hips 36, length from nape of neck to waist 16¾ inches; size 14 bust 36½, waist 26½, hips 37½, length from nape of neck to waist 17 inches; size 16 bust 38, waist 28, hips 39, length from nape of neck to waist 17¼ inches; size 18 bust 40, waist 30, hips 41, length from nape of neck to waist 17½ inches.

Size 12 requires 5⅜ yards of 36-inch material for dress. To order Pattern No. 1084-D, state size, enclose $1.00. Airmail handling requires 25 cents extra.

FOREIGN SPORTS CAR ENTHUSIAST
Lt. Robert Grew with his Austin Healey

'Performance' Selling Foreign Sports Cars

By DON HENRY

Performance—not speed—is the thing that drives Americans to foreign cars, and sports cars principally.

Just ask the guy who owns one.

According to Lt. Robert Grew, Webb AFB legal officer, performance and the fun of driving one are the principal reasons why he and other Americans have a desire for foreign sports cars. Lt. Grew drives a 1954 Austin Healey.

For Grew, speed is not the supreme factor in a foreign car; nor is design. These little, low European vehicles have little more speed—if any—than American models, he said.

But whatever it is, more and more foreign-made cars are coming to America—and to Big Spring. Locally, the county tax office estimated about 50 foreign cars were registered here.

And 36 of these are owned by Webb personnel, a majority of them by officers.

Many of the foreign cars were purchased from other Air Force personnel who brought them from Europe, Grew said, and their new owners have never seen Europe.

RETAIN VALUE

In all, there are nine makes of foreign cars registered at Webb. These include Jaguars, Austin Healeys, MGs, Consuls, a Thames, and Volkswagens. There is also an Orglina, an Italian model.

Most of the foreign cars owned by Webb personnel are English. The Volkswagens are made in Germany, and they are not sports models.

Grew said that he felt that the fun of driving, not the speed, was the reason that most persons purchased foreign cars. Handling ease is another reason.

In comparison with American cars, Grew said that repair bills were higher, but he said that he had not had any trouble getting his car repaired here. The parts, however, are hard to locate. All parts for his car have to be ordered from Oklahoma City.

He said that the Oklahoma City dealer carried a line of parts for many foreign cars—not just for Austin Healeys. Very few of the parts for his car can be replaced with American items. Even the light bulbs are not interchangeable.

For the person looking for a foreign car, the place to go is Fort Worth or Dallas in the Southwest, Grew said. However, there is a Jaguar and MG dealer in Odessa.

NINE MAKES

Even though repair bills are higher, he said that depreciation on foreign cars is not as much as on American models. One reason for this is ' iropean styles do not change as often.

Grew said that Austin Healey changed design in 1956 for the first time since '53. This change also brought two more cylinders. The 1953-55 models had four, but the newer ones now have six cylinders.

For the MG, he said the models were practically the same from 1923 through '56. There also has been very little change in the Volkswagen since 1939.

Price range on European cars is great, and they are not all expensive. The Volkswagen sells in New York for about $1,800, while the MG sells for about $2,200. A new Austin Healey costs about $3,000, and the Jaguar is about $3,600.

The Mercedes, another German car, runs into higher prices. The smaller 190 model costs about $5,100, while the 'super duper' 300SL costs about $6,800. This one with doors that open from the top.

Contrary to general impression, Grew said his car was not uncomfortable on a long trip. He said the car's bucket seats make for comfort, and there also is plenty of leg room. He said engine and wind noise make long trips tiring.

GOOD MILEAGE

Because of the light weight of many of the cars, gasoline mileage is good. He said his 2,000-pound car gets about 23 miles per gallon, while the Volkswagen operates about 35-40 miles to the gallon.

The weight also helps keep registration costs down; Grew's 1957 license plates cost only $7.56.

Sports car enthusiasts like to get together and talk cars, he said, and as a result, the West Texas Sports Car Club was organized recently at Midland. There are about 40 in the club now, mainly from the host city, Odessa, and Big Spring. This club, however, is not limited to owners of foreign cars, but also American models also.

Seven Cases Set In District Court

Seven criminal cases are scheduled to be presented to juries in 118th District Court during the coming week, Guilford Jones, district attorney, said Saturday.

This will be the second successive week of criminal jury trials. A third week or at least part of a week devoted to similar matters will be scheduled for either late the week of April 29 or for the first week in May.

When the sessions have closed, Jones said that his docket of criminal indictments would be depleted almost to the vanishing point.

Cases set for this week include M. H. Hassell, charged with forgery on a "habitual" indictment Richard C. Mitchell, car burglary; L. L. Rollwitz, DWI second offense; Otis Homer Petty, DWI second offense; Eddie Lee Long, DWI second offense; Santos Mendoza, possessions of narcotics, and Julian D. Rasco, DWI second offense.

Jones said that the cases would not necessarily be called for trial in the order listed.

Judge Charlie Sullivan, 118th District Court, has instructed Wade Choate, district court clerk, to summon a panel of 60 jurors for service in the courts during the week.

Judge Sullivan has scheduled several civil cases to be tried before juries during the week of April 29. However, the court pointed out that it was quite possible the entire week would not be required to handle the pending civil suits. In this event, Jones explained, he would call up other criminal cases which he desires to try.

Railroads End Rate Cuts That Aided Drought Area

AUSTIN, April 20 — The railroads' voluntary 50 per cent reduction in hay rates in eight drought stricken states has saved ranchers and dairymen $3,707,040 in the last five months.

Of that amount two-thirds, or $2,630,611, benefited Texas agriculturists, the Texas Railroad Association announced here.

The 50 per cent slash in rail rates ended March 31 with the coming of rains to some of the areas affected.

The action by the western railroads is credited by officials of many state agriculture associations in Texas with saving the herds of thousands of small ranchers and dairymen.

During the last several years the railroads, through rate slashes on grains and hay, have saved the western states $26,207,040. No other type of transportation has extended the reductions on rates.

The period from Oct. 13 through March 31 found the railroads hauling into the drought-stricken area 20,753 cars or 324,476 tons of hay. Of this amount, 12,643 cars, totaling 205,184 tons, came into Texas to save ranchers and dairymen $2,630,611.

Next was Kansas, with 62,570 tons at a saving of $474,931. Oklahoma was third, receiving 52,408 tons worth $556,134 in reduced freight rates to the agriculturists of the Sooner state.

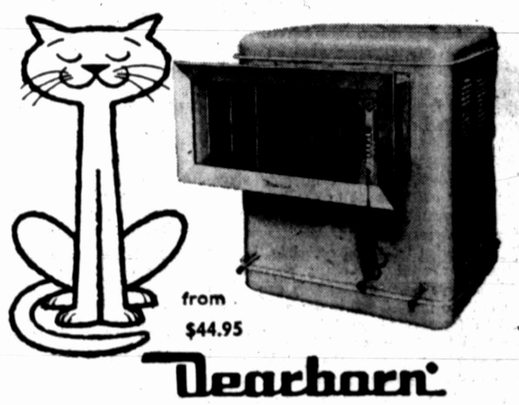

The remaining tonnage was divided between Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona and Nevada. Utah received none.

Cut The Budget—Or Cut The Benefits

Senator Lyndon Johnson this past week as distributed a questionnarie among the people of Texas, in an effort to determine the thinking of Texans on various issues before the Congress.

Senator Johnson admits that this type of sounding is not as effective as personal consultations, but in the interest of reaching more people in a reasonable length of time, he has launched his poll.

A question that comes to mind is whether Senator Johnson actually is going to get a solidified sentiment that could guide him. This is because there will inevitably so many conflicting answers to the questions that the voters will appear to be riding in all directions at once.

For instance, the Senator's first question is "Do you think the $71.8 billion budget should be reduced, left as it is, or increased?" The odds are pretty strong that overwhelming sentiment will be for cutting the budget.

Then the questionnaire goes on to ask if voters favor appropriations for school aid, for federally-provided college scholarships, for increased social security, for returning farm price supports to 90 per cent of parity, and similar items.

Now, many people will advocate federal aid to relieve the school building shortage; many others want to see broadening of social security; others definitely want 90 per cent farm parity.

The question is — and certainly Senator Johnson as well as other government leaders have been asking this one — do you cut the budget and make a denial on various forms of federal benefits, or do you take the benefits and let the budget keep growing? It seems the answers would have to be one way or the other.

It would be interesting to find out about the consistency in the answers sent into Senator Johnson's poll.

In event you didn't receive one of the questionnaires, a copy of it appears here. You could answer the questions here, clip out the sheet and mail it to Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, 213 Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. Sign your name and address to it, so that it will have validity. No doubt the Senator would like to know how you stand on the issues propounded:

1. Do you think the Eisenhower budget, proposing expenditures of $71.8 billion for fiscal 1958 should be reduced, left about as it is, or increased?
a. ( ) Reduced b. ( ) Increased c. ( ) Left as is

2. If you believe the budget should be cut, do you think reductions should be made in foreign aid, in existing domestic programs, or by refusing to establish new programs calling for spending?

Texans' Twin Sisters Broke Up A Siesta

In late March, 1836, Sam Houston was in trouble.

The Republic of Texas had lost every major battle fought in its revolt against Mexican rule, and the Mexican General Santa Anna was leading an army almost at will across the state. His idea was to take possession of all the Texas coast and the seaports that existed.

Before this advance, Houston's army had been falling back. The books say that his own men didn't have much confidence in his leadership. President David G. Burnet of the Republic flatly ordered Houston to cease his retreat; Secretary of War Thomas J. Rusk was urging him to take a stand. There were even general reports that Houston was pulling his Texas forces eastward until he got them into Louisiana, where, if the Mexicans followed, they would come up against U. S. Army authority.

By April 15, Santa Anna had burned Harrisburg, and all but seized the entire Texas government, which barely got away from New Washington and into Galveston.

But, on April 11, The Texas forces had received the "Twin Sisters." These were companion cannon pieces, donated to the young Republic by citizens of Cincinnati, Ohio, where they were manufactured, and shipped down the Mississippi as "pieces of holloware." These guns caught up finally with Houston's little army, and by April 17, he turned off the road toward Louisiana and headed toward Harrisburg.

The Texas army numbered only about eleven hundred men, and, to add to the general woes, epidemics of measles and mumps swept through the contingent, and by the time the Texans made ready to cross Buffalo Bayou, there were only about 800 in combat readiness. The 800 had the "Twin Sisters."

Actually, both the Texas and Mexico armies had maneuvered themselves into terrain where retreat for either was nearly impossible. The Texans had the rain-swollen bayou to their right; the Mexicans had swamps to their rear and to their right. And one bridge across Vincent's Bayou was destroyed to halt reinforcements for Santa Anna and also to cut off his retreat. Fellow name of Deaf Smith led the party that accomplished this feat.

Santa Anna, incidentally, had just been bolstered by one supporting party, and his forces were up to about 1,400.

His men settled down into camp, and apparently did not even post any lookouts. Came noon, and the entire Mexican army relaxed into the traditional siesta.

About 3:30 p.m., here came the swarm of Texans, yelling "Remember the Alamo!" and "Remember Goliad!" The Twin Sisters were wheeled into position, and the whole line moved on the run.

The Mexicans barely had time to rouse from their siesta. The battle was over in 18 minutes. According to Houston's official report, casualties were 630 Mexicans killed and 730 taken prisoner. Against this, the Texans had nine killed or mortally wounded and 30 others wounded. General Houston was one of the latter, his ankle being shattered by a rifle ball.

The Texans captured a large supply of muskets, pistols, sabers, mules, horses, provisions, clothing, tents and $12,000 in silver.

Among the prisoners was General Santa Anna.

It was the end of Mexico's rule in Texas.

This was the Battle of San Jacinto, fought 121 years ago today.

One of the inscriptions on the noble monument at the San Jacinto battleground reads as follows:

"Measured by its results, San Jacinto was one of the decisive battles of the world. The freedom of Texas from Mexico won here led to annexation and to the Mexican War, resulting in the acquisition of the states of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, California, Utah and parts of Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas and Oklahoma. Almost one-third of the present area of the American nation, nearly a million square miles of territory, changed sovereignty."

Money Needed To Fight The Cold War

WASHINGTON — Billions for war, but a mere pittance for the dissemination of ideas that could influence peoples abroad, restrain capricious rulers and prevent war! That's the curious result of the "meat-axe" method of cutting the budget which seems to have been adopted by Congress.

The proposed cost of armanent runs to $38 billion. It is a vital part of the federal budget, because it is counted on to help deter potential enemies from attacking the United States and its allies.

But less than one-third of one per cent of what is being spent for armament now has been appropriated by the House of Representatives for the U. S. Information Agency, which has the main responsibility for transmitting the American viewpoint on peace throughout the world.

A cut of $38,000,000 just made by the House of Representatives leaves the U. S. Information Agency $106,000,000 for next year. This is $7,000,000 less than was voted for the current year. Yet the problems of the Middle East and the Far East are no less critical than they were, and the task of cementing relations with our allies in Europe has not by any means diminished in importance.

In an atomic age it is is imperative that peoples everywhere should influence their governments to refrain from precipitating a world war. But people must have the facts and the information on which to slightest knowledge of how difficult it is form judgments. Anyone who has the to penetrate the public opinion of foreign countries realizes the enormous task that faces the U. S. Information Agency.

Soviet Russia spends billions where America spends a few millions in communicating with other peoples, especially in the areas of most strategic importance.

The United States is relatively new at the business of exporting ideas. Some mistakes have been made — but not as many perhaps as in the doling out of billions to foreign governments to help rehabilitate their economic structures since World War II.

The objective — to prevent the spread of international Communism — is admitted everywhere in Washington to be worth while. But when it comes to supplying the necessary funds to carry on that phase of the "cold war," Congress seems indifferent.

This is not because of partisanship alone. There are other factors. One is the lack of familiarity of members of Congress themselves with the many influences that are operative every day in foreign lands to check American diplomacy and threaten the defeat of our efforts to win the friendship of other peoples.

The Soviet auxiliaries among the intellectuals are numerous in many countries, and the press is actually controlled by agents of Moscow in various parts of the world where the U. S. Information Service is trying to offset Communist propaganda. It's a battle that American cannot afford to lose, and it takes money to fight that kind of warfare.

The U. S. Information Agency makes available free, for instance, the texts of important American pronouncements of policy, because the newspapers abroad couldn't possibly afford to pay the heavy costs of cable tolls to get those speeches transmitted. There are literally dozens of other worth-while projects which are designed to inform the people abroad concerning America's peaceful intentions and her humanitarian interest in the welfare of other nations. Instead of encouraging this work, Congress is shortsightedly discouraging it.

It is shocking to any American who travels abroad to discover how little is known about the United States even in the English-speaking countries. Very few newspapers and periodicals are sent from America to other countries — only a few thousands here and there. The vast population of the rest of the world has a scant knowledge of America's purposes and policies. As a consequence, the distortions distributed by the Communists have to be challenged again and again. If Congress doesn't furnish the necessary money to the U. S. Information Agency, the growth of anti-American sentiment will go unchecked.

Ideas are transmitted in modern systems of communication in a variety of ways. The printed word is important, but so also are radio and television and motion pictures. Many millions who are illiterate may not be able to read books or newspapers, but they do look at movies. The potentialities of the various means of communication are limitless. Yet the House of Representatives has actually cut down the program of the U. S. Information Agency and evidently prefers to give a clear field to the Communists in this "cold war." Will the Senate do likewise?

Some Factors That Rule Out A Sudden Depression

Says Leo Barnes, economist of Prentice-Hall: We're on a "high and wobbly plateau." It's a period to make the business analyst wish he'd studied the piano or taken up teaching. The arrows, the economic indicators, point skewy. It's hell to make up your mind — but also very profitable, if you make it up right.

V. Lewis Bassie, director of the Bureau of Economic and Business Research of the University of Illinois, has made up his mind. He has reasoned that this has been a capital goods boom; that it has lasted an unusually long time, longer than most booms; that, therefore, a sharp reduction in capital expenditures is inevitable.

So far, Bassie has been premature in this prediction. But this year business outlays for plant and equipment are scheduled to flatten out in the second half. That leveling off could be the beginning, could make Bassie right.

Historically, when capital goods booms subside, they subside furiously. They terminate They terminate because sales cease expanding, because profits are squeezed. Business men can't convert investment in new capacity into profits. Therefore, they push aside proposals for new investment; they curtail plans under way.

Bassie's has been a minority point of view. It contrasts with that of Harold X. Schreder, executive vice president of Distributors Group, which handles—sells— mutual funds. Schreder is convinced that 1957 is establishing a "sturdy bridge to prosperity"; that's it's a year of "investment opportunity."

Schreder argues that we're completing a two-year period of business and stock market adjustment. Industrial production has risen slowly, very slowly. The Federal Reserve Board index averaged 139 in 1955 and 143 in 1956, and is currently at 146.

Likewise, the stock market. It is down from its high of last August, and has been moving sidewise. Yet, notes Schreder, "hundreds of former stock market leaders have suffered bear-market declines of 20 per cent to 40 per cent." Examples: Westinghouse, 39 per cent; du Pont, 30 per cent; General Motors, 29 per cent; Sears, Roebuck and Allied Chemical & Dye and International Paper, each 33 per cent. The stock market, argues Schreder, is getting ready to take off — not immediately, but ultimately.

The case:

For two years, production has been bumping up against a ceiling — not enough manpower, not enough materials (notably, steel, aluminum, and copper), not enough machinery.

But new installations have raised the ceiling. Because of greater capacity, the steel rate has fallen below 90 per cent. Copper mines have reduced operations. Many companies have laid off workers to reduce inventories. When the adjustment is completed, when consumers once again increase purchasing, a breakthrough in production — to a higher level — will be possible.

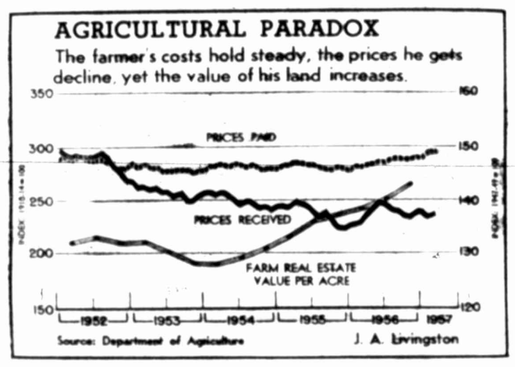

To me, that's a tenable position. I don't think that a slowdown in plant and equipment outlays will precipitate a major economic setback. A fundamental change has occurred in the structure of our society.

The federal government has become a major consumer, hence, a "stabilizing" force in our business structure. It spends $70,000,000,000 a year. This is nearly double the outlays in plant and equipment. It's 15 per cent of total output of goods and services. This spending won't be tripped downward by a drop in capital outlays. Nor will state and local government spending, which currently runs at a $40,000,000,000-a-year rate.

Agriculture is also a "reduced liability." It's less likely to start a decline. Only 5,500,000 persons depend on farming for a living today — one worker out of 10. As recently as 1939, there were 9,600,000 farmers, or one out of every six workers. Moreover, many persons on farms work in nearby towns. They're not so critically dependent on farm prices.

Thus, though farm prices have been slipping and farm costs have been rising, the value of farm land is at an all-time high (see chart). There has been no great pressure to sell, to liquidate farms. Similarly, in urban real estate — though housing starts are down and plenty of recently built houses are for sale, property is not illiquid, a burden on the market. The FHA and VA amortized mortgages have stabilized — revolutionized — home ownership.

This is what makes Schreder's bridge supportable — in my opinion. The change in the economic structure has changed the characterof the business cycle — for the better.

Science Seeks Victory Over Rheumatic Fever

KANSAS CITY, April 20 (AP) — Complete defeat of rheumatic fever, the great heart crippler and killer of children, is sought in a new medical study here.

One goal is to learn is advance which children may be susceptible, and then protect them.

The study, involving children in up to 100 families, is a cooperative project headed by Dr. Tom R. Hamilton of the University of Kansas Medical School and Dr. Antoni Diehl of the K. U. school and the children's convalescent center.

Rheumatic fever is triggered by attacks of streptococcal (strep) sore throats and infections. The rheumatic fever can damage heart valves with crippling or lethal effects.

Monthly shots of a long-lasting form of penicillin can prevent new attacks of rheumatic fever by preventing strep infections.

This finding, to which the Kansas physicians contributed, points the way to protecting children who have already had one attack. from initial serious attacks You can't give penicillin regularly to every child. Strep infections are too commonplace.

Some children apparently react differently to the strep infections and develop rheumatic fever. Is there any way to tell who is susceptible? The new study will point the way.

Bible Words for Today

PSALMS 46:10; I KINGS 19:11, 12 — "Be still, and know that I am God." "Behold, a strong wind — earthquake — fire, but the Lord was not in (these); and after the fire a still small voice." (RSV)

* * *

Such strong Bible words calling us to "be still"! And so much that we have felt and learned when we were still — in ways like these:

Silence after farewell when memories of someone disappearing into a train began to steady one's life... silence to prepare us for an act of insight or courage... soundless nights when only the stars spoke... a friend's quietness in controversy or joy....

To these silences readers can add those known only to themselves. And God be thankod for the sacred changes that such silences have brought about in our hidden moods within our unshared thoughts, in our impulses to action. So, in silence we are quiet to hear the still small voice of God.

Biggest News Story Of All Time

I was recently with a group of newspaper men who were debating what was the greatest newspaper story of all time. One man claimed it was the news flash announcing the end of World War I; another thought it was the end of World War II; a third argued for the dropping of the first atom bomb on Japan.

I was glad I knew enough about headlines to make a contribution to the discussion. I remembered and quoted a headline from a New York paper of just two years ago: "Confirm Salk Serum Astonishing Success; Even if Polio Hits Paralysis is Prevented." I was even able to remember the first paragraph which went something like this: "The awful fear of mothers and fathers that their children might fall victim to the incurable paralysis of polio can finally be set at rest. For years we have waited for this wonderfully good news."

"That rates as news story number one," I argued.

Later, I thought about my comment and realized that the Salk serum news story, as great as it is, cannot be regarded as the greatest of all time. I write this column many days before it appears in your newspaper, but no matter what today's headline is, I am sure that the greatest news story of all time — although it is being talked about in every part of the world as you read this — is not likely to be the banner headline of your paper.

For the greatest news story in history was given some two thousand years ago in the most dynamic words the world has ever heard — and it is still top news today. It's this: "I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live. And whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

When my father and my brothers and I returned from our mother's funeral, we sat in the old home talking about that Scripture verse. Suddenly my father leaped to his feet and paced the floor in great excitement. "If this is true — and I know it is," he said, "then it ought to be shouted from the housetop. We haven't really lost Mother after all."

The news about the Salk vaccine was great news because it told us that our bodies need not be crippled and destroyed. But the news of the Easter message is far greater, for it tells us that there is a power which can save our souls from death.

What is this power? It is the power of faith that makes it possible for you and your loved ones, even those who are gone physically from this mortal world, to be citizens of a dynamic universe, one that is spiritual rather than material. It is the news that we are citizens of eternity, that we may have immortal life.

The central symbol of our Easter celebration is the Cross. But the Cross is not a symbol of death, but a reminder of resurrection. Think of it not as a minus symbol, but as a great plus sign, the greatest of all. For religion is a process of addition — "but seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you."

So rejoice in today's great news story of "the resurrection and the life," add it to your own life, and live with greater power.

Battles Over Ambassador Appointments

WASHINGTON — A real Kilkenny fight over ambassadorial appointments is in prospect when Congress returns from the Easter recess.

Several Senators have declared their opposition to the appointment of W. Scott McLeod, the State Department's chief security officer, to be ambassador to Ireland. A sizable volume of mail has come to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, with most writers protesting the McLeod appointment.

Senator Theodore Francis Green, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, is said to be seriously considering holding up the nomination indefinitely or until the Administration withdraws it. Green is reported to have been deeply impressed by an editorial in his home-town paper, the Providence (R.I.) Journal, headed, "Why Send a Hatchetman Envoy to Ireland?"

But at the same time the 89-year-old Green does not like trouble. And if he should undertake, in his position as chairman, to block the McLeod appointment, he could expect trouble from a very powerful source.

Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, chairman of the Republican Policy Committee, has announced his opposition to the nomination of Charles E. Bohlen, now ending his service as ambassador to Moscow, to be ambassador to the Philippines. But the report circulating widely on Capitol Hill and in the State Department is that Bridges will not make a real fight against Bohlen if McLeod is approved with a minimum of fuss.

McLeod was Bridges' administrative assistant before he went into the department as chief of the Security and Consular Bureau and, initially at least, he seems to have felt his loyalty was to Bridges and other Republican Senators who had attacked the department on security grounds.

If Bridges should decide to make an all-out fight on Bohlen, he could count on the support of Senators Joseph R. McCarthy, William E. Jenner, George W. Malone and others who raised a rumpus four years ago when Bohlen was named to Moscow. During that controversy Mc-Leod was reported to have gone over the head of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles to provide adverse information to Senators and to the White House on Bohlen.

So there is a possibility of one group fighting McLeod and another group fighting Bohlen, with sensational headlines resulting.

Green and others on the Foreign Relations Committee are concerned not so much with McLeod's past record and opinions as with his qualifications to be ambassador.

Increasingly, with the parade of political appointees sent to the Foreign Relations Committee for approval as ambassadors, committee members have been concerned over the caliber of American representation abroad. This was reflected in the letter Green sent to Secretary Dulles expressing the views of all members of the committee. In that letter, which got less attention than it deserved, Green said:

"The Committee on Foreign Relations has always recognized the primary responsibility of the Executive in making such appointments and has been reluctant to refuse consent to a nomination unless there is an obvious reason to do so. The committee has, on occasions, given the benefit of the doubt to nominees.

"It seems to me, however, an insufficient reason that there is no real objection to the nomination. There should be an affirmative reason for it — namely that the nominee has outstanding qualifications for the position. It should be obvious in each case, whether the nominee is a career man or not, that his record, his intelligence, his background and his attitude are such that he will ably serve our country in his assignment."

This is the measuring stick that Green and the committee intend to apply to ambassadorial appointments — so they are now saying. But the tendency among Senators today is to avoid trouble in what has been called the most exclusive club in the world, and so the two appointments that have drawn fire may go through with only a formal protest entered.

AND THEN...IT'S EASTER!

Yesterday, these four were their Mothers' despair. Their faces were grimy, their playclothes spattered with mud. They were even ready to put up their fists and fight when the rivalry between spacemen and cowboys became a little too keen.

Today, they are immaculate. They sing like young angels. They even look like angels . . . because today is Easter! And these boys are proclaiming the glorious message that Christ Is Risen.

Easter is the time of promise, beauty, awe at the miracle of birth and rebirth. Easter is the time to let the joy of living seep into you. It is the time to tell yourself that you believe . . . and, if there's been any doubt about it, to start believing again.

Spend part of your Easter in Church. Spend the rest of it looking, with new eyes, at the wonderland God has created around you.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

THE WEST TEXAS MOUNTAIN BOOMER
Give him a chance and he'll run his bluff

LARGEST WEST TEXAS LIZARD

Mountain Boomer Can Run, Jump, May Chase Intruder

By GORDON CREEL

The largest of our West Texas lizards is the mountain boomer, Crotaphytus collaris collaris. To be correct in using its common name we should call it the Eastern Collared Lizard. The collared lizard, horned toad and the rattlesnake are the most typical of the Western reptiles.

The eastern collared lizard is a gangling lizard with a large head and a narrow neck. It has a tail which is about twice as long as the body. The total length of this lizard may reach 13 inches. I now have the largest specimen I have ever seen and it measures 12⅝-inches. The males have a much broader and more muscular head than the females. The back legs of this lizard are very long; about as long as the head and body. The front legs are much smaller than the hind legs.

STRIKING COLORATION

This large lizard has two transverse black bars on the shoulders (hence the name collared lizard) which may or may not be complete on the top of the back. It also "exhibits a striking coloration, particularly during the breeding season. Then the male is rich green, profusely dotted with pale yellow spots; on the neck is a double sooty black collar; as completing touches to the gay coloration, the throat is of a deep orange hue, while there are numerous rusty red spots scattered over the hind legs. Not to be outdone, the female as well takes on especially gay colors during the early summer. She is normally a slaty gray, with a much narrower collar than the male. Before the eggs are laid, however, her sides assume the brightest of brick-red hues, dots of the same color appearing on the limbs and sides of the tail." (Ditmars) Young mountain boomers usually lack the brilliant colors and the markings might be slightly different from the adults.

ONE OF A KIND

"No other lizard species in the United States has a long tail, fat body, slim neck, big head and a double black collar, except the Eastern and Western Collard Lizard." (Smith)

The collared lizards are primarily carnivorous in food habits, but may on occasion eat vegetable matter such as flowers and young buds. The food consist largely of grasshoppers, spiders, beetles and quite a few other lizards. It has been known to eat horned toads as well as many others. This animal is mostly beneficial to man.

Mating takes place in the spring. The males are expert courters, in the way of reptiles. The male when courting a female will bob up and down for a few moments and then dash toward the female and bob again. This act may be repeated several times.

BURIES HER EGGS

Soon after mating the females acquire a very pretty reddish hue on her dorsal surface. This color may appear as soon as two days after mating. The female lays from four to 24 eggs in a hole which she has dug four or five inches deep in the sand or in a tunnel under a rock.

The females usually lay in June or July, but one was observed to lay in early August. The eggs of this lizard are white and have a flexible shell. The eggs are about 7-16 inch wide and up to a little more than ¾ inch long. These eggs increase in size up to the time of hatching. They increase about 33 per cent in width and about 15 per cent in length. The eggs hatch in about 75 days. Newly hatched young measure up to 4¼ inches long. The adults show no parental care for the eggs or the young and may eat their own offsprings if they can catch them. This lizard is known to live for several years.

LIKES ROCKY PLACES

The mountain boomer may be found around rocky places where they can burrow under rocks or get into the cracks or crevices. Howard County is particularly well blessed with many of these reptiles.

The collared lizard is one of our swiftest reptiles and some can run faster than a man. In open country this lizard will run on his hind feet and carry his front feet in the air as well as his tail. I have known of a large specimen to jump a boulder at least two feet high.

When approached in the wild these animals usually hide in their burrows or in a crack in a rock. A few will try to bluff any intruder and may on occasion chase you if you will run first. If you stop the lizard immediately reverses himself and makes for cover.

Many people think that the mountain boomer is poisonous. It is not. I have known of them to bite, in fact I have been bitten on many occasions, and never once have I suffered any after effects. The only poisonous lizard in the United States is the Gila Monster and there are none in Texas, except in zoos or carnivals and a few in private collections. There are no poisonous lizards native to Texas.

Old Age Checks To Come Through

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel says the State Welfare Department will be able to issue old age assistance checks to some 226,000 Texans on time in May because of fast action by the U.S. Congress.

In order for the Texans to receive their May checks on time, Congress had to pass a deficiency appropriation before it left for its Easter recess. This was done yesterday.

State Welfare Department Director John Winters had advised Daniel of the shortage Wednesday. The governor said he had urged congressional leaders to pass the bill in time.

Mackerel Snapper

Robert Mitchum can't understand Deborah Kerr's squeamishness about eating raw fish in this scene from "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison." The hard-boiled Marine Mitchum plays assumes all Catholics like fish in any form. He refers to her as a "mackerel snapper," a Marine term for Catholics who eat fish on Fridays.

Kerr, Mitchum In Unusual Castaway Tale

A most unusual film is "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison," showing Sunday through Wednesday at at the Ritz Theatre. It is the story of an unlikely pair of castaways on a Pacific island.

Deborah Kerr portrays Sister Angela, a nun trapped on the Jap-infested isle, and Robert Mitchum plays the role of the tough Marine who finds himself sharing a close and dangerous life with the nun.

The incongruous relationship may be illustrated by this bit of dialogue by Cpl. Allison:

"I'm a big dumb guy, a Marine all through, like you're a nun. You got your cross, I got my globe and anchor. Other guys got their homes and families, I got the corps like you got the church."

But their life of enforced intimacy soon brings feelings of earthly love to the two, and they must, at the last, make their final decision whether to continue their chosen lives.

The nature of their life on the island gave director John Huston opportunity to inject both action and humor. An example of the humor comes when Cpl. Allison, who is something of a Tartar, announces they'll have to eat their fish raw because a fire might give them away to the Japs. He supposes Sister Angela won't mind, since she's a "mackerel snapper," Marine term for Catholics who eat fish on Fridays.

The action includes bombardments, first by the Japs and then by the Navy, and Mitchum's attempt to spike the Jap artillery when the Marines land, and a tussle with a turtle. In this latter scene, in which Cpl. Allison is attempting to subdue a potential dinner, Mitchum was dragged across a coral reef. He suffered a cut foot, sprained ankle, skinned chest, bruised shoulder and a sliced ear.

In The Kisser

That isn't a kiss Jayne Mansfield is throwing at Edmond O'Brien in this scene from "The Girl Can't Help It." Comedian Tom Ewell complicates matters by falling for O'Brien's girl in the rock-n-roll epic.

'Girl He Left Behind' Comedy Of 'New' Army

The young romantic team of Tab Hunter and Natalie Wood is seen in "The Girl He Left Behind," returning to the screen of the Sahara Drive-In Theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

They are starred in Marion Hargrove's spicy comedy of the life of a draftee in the new peacetime Army. Hargrove's story deals with the new treat-'em-polite methods. Hargrove is best known for his World War II novel, "See Here, Private Hargrove."

The film deals with a particular unit at Fort Ord, the Army's big training base near Monterey, Calif. Many soldiers and officers from the training units on the post appeared in scenes with the actors, during the two weeks of filming on location at the barracks areas, grenade pits, coastline firing range and parade grounds.

Hargrove went to Fort Ord as a trainee to get material for the book. He participated in the first weeks of training with the recruits without revealing his identity, which was known only to the Army's top brass.

The film also stars Jim Backus as the top kick. Backus otherwise known as the voice of the near-sighted Mr. McGoo. Murray Hamilton is cast as the buck sergeant who finally beats some sense into Hunter's stubborn head.

CINEMA COMMENT

By BOB SMITH

Heading the list of this week's movies is "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison," a sort of combination of deserted - isle and love-that-can't-be-touched themes. Whatever may be said of the story or the plot, it cannot be denied that stars Bob Mitchum and Deborah Kerr have gone that limit in acting.

The story features a Marine corporal and a Catholic nun accidentally cast up onto an island in the Pacific during the height of the recent donnybrook. What with Japs on the island, the pair is forced into hiding in cramped quarters and they are forced to remain together in the most embarrassing kind of intimacy for a long period.

It takes no great exercise of the imagination to figure what would happen between two such contrasting personalities. I won't tell you the story — you'd enjoy seeing this one without having to know what it's about beforehand. Take my word for it.

* * *

"The Girl Can't Help It" makes a return showing. There isn't much of a story, but the comedy is acceptably amusing, rock - n - roll music is seen in a more understandable light — and, of course, there's Jayne Mansfield. She's not Academy Award bait, but is more of an actress than most people would expect. Tom Ewell fills the leading man role and is at his usual best as a comic.

* * *

"The Girl He Left Behind" is a take-off on the "new Army," as well as on some of our more obnoxious teen-agers. Tab Hunter is excellent as the brat who finally gets drafted, and makes with the nonsense until a soft-speaking sergeant from Dixie knocks some sense into his head. And in the meantime, the Army faces disaster not only from Hunter but from the penetrating pen of the story's author, Marion Hargrove, who also wrote "See Here, Private Hargrove," during World War II.

Natalie Wood is becoming as the girl who got left behind — but finally caught up.

Other viewing, recommended or otherwise:

"The Oklahoman." Joel McCrea as a gun-slinging medic in a shoot-'em-up, in color.

"Trouble On The Trail." Guy Madison and Andy Devine, of TV's Wild Bill Hickok fame.

"Hold That Hypnotist." One of the Bowery Boys get hypnotized into various historical eras, and returns with a chest of pirate treasure. Howlingly funny for those who like the Bowery Boys.

"The Big Land." A little story about a big land.

"Mohawk." Injun stuff.

'Girl Can't Help It' Is Comedy With Rock-n-Roll

"The Girl Can't Help It," showing Sunday through Wednesday at the Jet Drive-In Theatre, combines Tom Ewell, Edmond O'Brien and Jayne Mansfield in a comedy with a rock-n-roll background.

O'Brien is seen as an ex-convict trying to catch up on popular music and falls in love with rock-n-roll. Also, he takes over the care of Miss Mansfield, daughter of one of his old cronies, and tries to push her to stardom. Since the girl can't sing (she says), O'Brien hires Ewell, a besotted publicity man, to push her to the top. But Ewell falls in love with his beautiful client, and matters get somewhat sticky.

Among the guest stars are Julie London, Ray Anthony, Fats Domino and Little Richard.

Reverse Swtich

NEW YORK (AP)—Having successfully invaded television with their tuneful version of "Cinderella," Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein are going ahead with definite plans to make it into a Broadway show.

The opening may be in the spring of 1958.

Hammerstein said that the main problem will be addition of plot complications, possibly another song or two.

Contract Extended

NEW YORK (AP) — Edward G. Robinson has extended his contract in the hit show "Middle of the Night" and, says a show spokesman, "undoubtedly will tour" with it next year.

Joel McCrea Stars In 'The Oklahoman'

"The Oklahoman," showing Thursday through Saturday at the Ritz Theatre, features Joel McCrea as a gun-totin' medic who gets mixed up with an Indian Girl, gossip and the town's bad boys.

The plot deals with attempts by the badmen to gain control of an Indian's land to obtain the oil thereon, with a background of community scandal at McCrea's keeping of an Indian maid as "hired help."

Slightly Peeved

NEW YORK (AP) — Peeved at what's been happening, Actors Equity has launched a campaign to stop what it regards as evasions of rules concerning rehearsal time for stage shows.

The union, which represents all performing dramatic artists, said it had discovered some acting schools rehearse shows as a pretext for classroom exercises, and some off-Broadway enterprises persuade hopefuls to rehearse for several weeks before signing a formal contract.

Center Bonanza

NEW YORK (AP)—"Brigadoon" is turning out to be a bonanza for the City Center, a non-profit enterprise that is always looking for a nest-egg.

A two-week revival of the Frederick Lowe-Alan Jay Lerner musical was wildly hailed by the critics and became a boxoffice sellout.

Plans were immediately made for it to continue its run at the Adelphia Theater, with City Center sharing in the profits.

Classic, 'King Of Kings' Seen On Channel 4 Today

One of the great film classics, Cecil B. DeMille's "King of Kings," will be shown on KEDY-TV this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The film stars H. B. Warner as Christ.

When the picture was made in 1927, DeMille demanded and got unprecedented discipline from those who had leading roles in the picture. Each day's production was started with a prayer, smoking was banned on set, and the picture's principals were bound by written agreement to keep away from parties and night clubs during production.

The big blizzard of four weeks ago comes into sharp focus during the "Climax" show, Thursday, (7:30 p.m.) "Avalanche at Devil's Pass" tells of a crack streamline train stalled in a high mountain pass by an avalanche. Another academy award winner, Claire Trevor, stars in "Playhouse 90's" production, "If You Knew Elizabeth" Friday night at 8:00. Miss Trevor plays the role of Elizabeth Owen, a professor's assistant who flees when she learns that his proposal of marriage is purely for personal gain.

Saturday's baseball game at 12:55 p.m. pits the Detroit Tigers against the Cleveland Indians. Dizzy Dean's Clubhouse precedes the game by 10 minutes.

This Raw Fish Wasn't Honey Cake

Usually, when a scene calls for an unpleasant food, a more pleasant variety is disguised to look like the real thing. But John Huston, director for "Heaven Knows, Mr. Allison," is a stickler for realism. Thus, when Deborah Kerr and Bob Mitchum bit into a piece of raw fish, it was raw fish.

Seems Huston wanted their resulting expressions of nausea for real.

Going Back

NEW YORK (AP)—Prize-winning Playwright Tennessee Williams is planning to make New Orleans his headquarters again.

Early in his career Williams did much writing there, including his own favorite drama, "A Streetcar Named Desire," but for several years has lived at Key West, Fla.

"I'll miss the swimming—my favorite recreation," he explained on a visit here, "but within a year I expect to return to New Orleans. I somehow seem to work best there."

LOOKS AT BOOKS

By Sam Blackburn

LUCKY SEVEN by Will Tom Carpenter. Edited by Elton Miles. University of Texas Press.

This is a most unusual book. It is an autobiography in one sense and a historical picture of an earlier era in Texas in another.

Will Tom Carpenter was a pioneer cattleman in West Texas. Born in Missouri, he came to this part of the country in the early days.

When he was an old man, he sat down at a table in his home and wrote this unusual book—using a pencil, "composition" books such as school kids employ, language which he spoke himself and phrases which are found only in the memories of the real old timers.

After he died, the book remained unheard of for years. Carpenter, himself, however, was not unheard of. He was a colorful example of the old trail-herd days. His widow gave the dog-eared manuscript to a friend and Elton Miles, professor of English at Sul Ross College, heard rumors that the manuscript still existed. He set out to find it and did—in possession of the friends of the Carpenters who had received it from Mrs. Carpenter before her death.

He took the books, transcribed them verbally, making only such editorial changes as seemed absolutely necessary. The word selection is unchanged; the grammer is intact, the spelling as Carpenter made it.

Miles added numerous footnotes to clarify incidents, personalities and events which are mentioned in the text but on which there is no elaboration.

"Lucky Seven" is a thin little volume but it will probably be widely read and it is certainly an addition of great value to the records of Texas before the turn of the 20th century.

The University of Texas has made a most attractive book of it. Illustrations in pen-and-ink by Lee Hart augment its appeal.

It will be officially released on April 28.

THE ASSISTANT. By Bernard Malamud. Farrar, Straus & Cudahy.

Morris runs a grocery—or the grocery runs him—in this utterly absorbing folktale of the Bobers and their neighborhood.

His wife has nagged him for 20 years to sell, they are the only Jews around, he keeps earning a mite less than they spend. His son has died; his daughter Helen, who was to go to college, works to help meet the bills.

Morris gets no younger, either.

A case of milk bottles is too heavy to lift, and who comes to buy, anyway? He can see old customers avoid him by crossing the street to the delicatessen.

But poor as he is, he is held up by two masked men. Officer Minogue seems unable to find a clue. To make things better for a while and then worse, there appears the curious fellow who gives this novel its title: Frank Alpine, who helps Morris, but helps himself to change in the cash register, too, who falls for Helen but can no more forget she is a Jew than she and her mother can forget he is not.

I can't whoop it up enough for this novel and this novelist. Malamud is wonderfully the master of a major talent, and a most exciting one, too, with many facets: he knows the way to the funny bone as well as to the heart; every word spoken by his incredibly real people rings with the bottom truth; no neighborhood secret, no backfence gossip, no corner-store trial or triumph escapes his loving and implacable probe; he plots like a whiz; and he is a moralist. Don't miss this one; and that isn't a suggestion, it's an order.

Plans No Return

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred McMurray, who got his thespic start hoofing and mimicing in several Broadway shows, has no yen to return to the stage.

"Nothing doing," commented the screen star during a recent stop in Gotham.

"I ust don't regard myself as that kind of an actor. I'll stick to films."

PLATTER PALAVER

By Mary Sue Hale

If it's dance music you want — and most everybody does — Columbia has the answer. This recording company has combined the talents of some of America's most reknowned musicians into one package, which bears the title of "Dance, Be Happy." Coupled with a cover of dancers surrounded by confetti, the orchestras of twelve masters of dance music are contained. Duke Ellington introduces "Suburban Beauty," while Sammy Kaye submits an oldie, "Harbor Lights." Other contents include Paul Weston with "My Silent Love"; Parcy Faith, "What Is This Thing Called Love"; Xavier Cugat, "Mambo No. 5"; Les Brown, "A Fine Romance"; Les Elgart, "Ain't She Sweet"; and "You Brought A New Kind of Love To Me" as played by Benny Goodman.

The orchestra of Jack Fascinato does the backing for Tennessee Ernie Ford's newest release. The big side seems to be a slow-moded number titled "The Lonely Man." "False Hearted Girl" is coupling number.

Just what the title suggests, "The Wildest" an album by Louis Prima, is one of the fastest bits of rhythm and blues that has been released in some time. Recorded at 3 a. m. at the famous Sahara in Las Vegas, Nev., numbers of the album include "I Ain't Got Nobody," "Just a Gigolo," "The Lip," and "Basin Street Blues."

Not too many of us remember the singer Gene Austin, but that doesn't hinder our being impressed by his record in show business. Connected with his move to stage a comeback to recorded music circles is a lot of publicity about his career way back when. . . Presently much speculation is underfoot as to the heights of success his recently recorded number will reach. Under contract with RCA Victor, Gene Austin sings "Too Late" and "That's Love."

Interested? If so, "The Gene Austin Story" will be on the Goodyear TV Play House today, over NBC.

Ken Copeland's recording of "Pledge of Love" is moving fast in both pop and country and western circles.

"I'll Be There" and "Please Don't Leave Me" are coupled together on the new Ray Price single disc. These, also, appeal to pop and C&W fans. The backing is similar to that on Marty Robbins version of "A White Sport Coat."

Three of the artists who have made recordings of an up and coming number "Four Walls," are Dot Collins, Coral; Jim Reeves, RCA; and The Five Keys, Capital. Each style has its variations, but the latest mentioned, the Keys, seem to be best received.

LIFE WITH MUSIC

Lots Of Latitude On Printed Page

By RICHARD D. SAUNDERS

Printed pages of music are much like blueprints for a house: they require expert workmen to transfrom them into a finished edifice.

Some composers are meticulous in their specifications: others are careless or give few indications of their intentions. But in any case, the interpreter has a great deal of latitude in the course of his presentation — a fact that develops freedom and character of interpretation and makes music, even repetitions of the the same music, interesting and often exciting.

The skilled performer keeps his interpretation well within the framework that the composer has laid out for him, thus combining musical inspiration with artistic inspiration with artistic presentation. The unskilled or insensitive performer takes liberties to suit himself only, thereby not only departing from the original musical concept but emphasizing his own lack of ability.

"GREEN LUMBER"

A house built of unseasoned lumber is not likely to last very long. A performance by an unseasoned player or singer is not likely to impress an experienced listener very long. It soon goes awry simply because it does not meet the specifications in the blueprint — specifications either explicit or implied. For the composer, in writing any piece of music, expects the performer to know how to present it.

This is, unfortunately, an era of shoddy workmanship. It is understandably difficult for a workman to take pride in a repetitious or uninteresting task that produces a portion of some commercial product. A true craftsman, however, delights in his work, from the initial roughing out to the eventual completion. In this, the music performer must be a craftsman.

Moreover, no two performances are quite the same. The artist, if he truly is an artist, is never fully satisfied with his workmanship. He always sees some detail on which he can improve. His entire life actually is spent in the quest for the ideal of perfection.
