RECALL OF U. S. ENVOY TO RUSSIA ASKED

Jury Gives Knife-Slasher 3-Year Term

Self-Defense Plea Claimed In Trial Of B. H. Huntsman

A sentence of three years in the penitentiary was assessed B. H. Huntsman in a verdict returned at 10 o'clock this morning in 31st district court.

The jury verdict, signed by E. F. Vanderburg, foreman, read: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty of assault to murder with malice and assess his punishment at three years confinement in the penitentiary."

Huntsman was indicted on October 10 on a charge of assault with intent to murder in connection with a fight on August 27 in which Fred Keehn suffered knife wounds.

The jury returned at 10:20 last night after hearing the argument in the case that started at 8:40 Tuesday night. Testimony in the case was concluded at 3:10 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Self-defense and the allegation that the defendant was in such a state of mind as a result of the altercation that he was not aware of using any knife, as was claimed by the state, was the basis of the defense arguments.

District Attorney Clifford Braly represented the state. Newton P. Willis and B. S. Via the defendant. The case is to be appealed, Mr. Via said this morning.

The trial started at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon when jurors were selected. Originally the case had been set for trial on October 26, but absence of some witnesses forced a re-setting.

No Trace Found Of Missing Freighter

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1. (AP)—The coast guard announced today the cutter Bibb reached the reported position of the British freighter Coulmore this morning and found no sign of a ship or survivors.

The Bibb, which started out last night after intercepting a distress call from the vessel, reported that it found a moderate southerly gale blowing in the area, officially estimated as 600 miles east of Boston. The Bibb turned north after reaching the position and said it would continue the search in that direction.

The Coulmore had reported it was attacked by a submarine.

The Bibb was the first of a rapidly growing number of coast guard and navy ships and planes looking for the Coulmore.

That a Pampa woman drove to the country looking for decorations for her home for a fall party. She found two or three kinds of row crop. The farmer said she could have some but that she would have to post bond to insure its return. "This stuff is worth plenty," he smilingly informed her when he saw she was taking him seriously.

JOHN BULL'S BULLETS GET NAZIS

Bullet-riddled, two of its crew dead, this Nazi scouting plane crashed near East Dalkieth in the north of Scotland after an aerial "dog-fight" with British planes. The pilot, uninjured, tried to get his plane back in the air after being shot down but failed. A fourth member of the crew was wounded.

State Sympathetic To Perryton Highway

Pampa representatives, who arrived home last night from a state highway commission hearing in Dallas, report that members of the commission seemed to be highly sympathetic with the request for extension of Highway 18 from Pampa to Perryton and with a connecting road from Miami to Perryton, but that no action was taken on the project.

Pampa's place on the docket, one of the largest hearings the commission has ever conducted in one day, was number 47, and the group was not heard until about 10 o'clock Monday night. The hearing was concluded about 11 o'clock, and apparently the commission did not have an opportunity to discuss the request in an executive session following the hearing.

Pampa representatives were confident that the commission would ultimately accept the proposition offered by Gray and other counties, but were unable to predict when such action might be expected. The representatives expect considerable delay before the commission may act on the request.

County Judge Sherman White headed the delegation at Dallas, composed of Reno Stinson and Garnet Reeves of Pampa, County Judge Dave Shanks of Perryton, County Judge M. O. Goodpasture of Memphis, County Commissioner Garland Reeves of Clarendon, County Commissioner Roy Russell of Turkey, County Attorney Oscar Flowers of Perryton, Mayor J. W. Hardcastle of Turkey, W. H. Lance, State Representative Max Boyer and W. B. Lamaster of Perryton.

County Judge White served as chairman of the delegation and short talks were made by a majority of the members of the delegation with Reno Stinson closing the presentation with a comprehensive statement on the industrial area surrounding Pampa. His remarks before the commission were extremely different from anything

City Police Arrest 117 During October

City police officers made 117 arrests during the month of October, according to a report filed this morning with City Manager W. T. Williamson. Fines assessed totaled $518.25 with collections arounting to $329.75.

A new city police judge was appointed during the month when C. E. (Dan) McGrew succeeded W. M. Craven. Mr. Craven had been acting as police judge although his duties as tax assessor and collector and city secretary more than filled his hours.

Besides fines collected, persons charged worked a total of 12 days while others served a total of 29 days in jail. Three cases were turned over to a higher court.

Speeders led the list of those fined with 34 being found guilty. Twenty-six were fined on charges of intoxication.

City Marks 30 Blocks In New Paving Project

As soon as topping is finished on seven blocks on the present project, work is scheduled to start on Pampa's new $121,843 Works Progress Administration project, designed to provide 30 blocks of paving and sidewalks and 1,200 street markers.

City Manager W. T. Williamson said it was expected work on the new project would begin within two weeks. Of the total cost of the program $64,398 is from federal funds, $57,445 is to be supplied by the sponsor, the city of Pampa. Cost of paving to property owners is $1.25 a front foot on a 36-foot street.

The ratio is 52.9 per cent federal funds, 47.1 per cent sponsor funds. On the old project, now nearing completion, the project cost $110,000, of which 58 per cent was furnished by the sponsor and 42 per cent from federal funds. There were 80 blocks in the old project.

Project Schedule

Streets approved for paving on the project schedule are as follows: Ballard from the south property line of Tyng to the north property line of Brown; Ruth from the east property line of Hazel to the west property line of Sloan.

Gray from the south property line of Kingsmill to north property line of Foster; West from the south property line of Francis to the north property line of Kingsmill; West from the south property line of Kingsmill to the north property line of Foster.

Red Cross Bought Glasses, Removed Tonsils For Needy Children Here

You know what the Red Cross does in time of disaster and in time of war because the papers are full of Red Cross activities, but what does the Red Cross do in Pampa?

Well, for one thing it handled 143 cases from Sept. 30, 1938, to Sept. 30, 1939.

During this period, the local chapter centered its efforts on a correctional program. Twenty pairs of glasses were purchased for children found to have defective eyesight. These children could no more afford to buy glasses than most of you can afford a Rolls-Royce, and if the Red Cross hadn't bought glasses for these underprivileged children they might have continued in school, but they wouldn't have done any good, and their health in the long run undoubtedly would have been permanently impaired.

In addition, infected tonsils of 30 children were removed. In each case, the child was given a physical examination by the physician chosen by the parents of the child and the operations performed upon recommendation of the family physician. The cases were referred to the chapter by the principals of the schools. These cases were followed through until funds for that purpose were exhausted.

Buying glasses and removing tonsils were only two of the many services the Red Cross performs in this community. Yes, it can and will tell you exactly how it spends its money here, for what and how much.

"We hope Pampans will remember those 60 children the Red Cross helped by buying glasses for them and by removing their tonsils, when they are called on to join the annual Red Cross Roll Call soon," O. K. Gaylor, chairman of the Roll Call, said today.

Oklahoman Dies In Cold Hibernation

PRYOR, Okla., Nov. 1 (AP)—A 59-year-old man, a "hopeless" cancer case, is ready to seek relief in cold hibernation, undaunted by the death of a farm woman just three hours before she would have completed the nine-day treatment.

The womans' death yesterday was ascribed to a blocked gall bladder after an autopsy performed by Dr. E. A. Leach of Tulsa and Dr. V. D. Herrington. Dr. Herrington operates the hospital where the treatment was given.

"It's the only chance I've got and I'm ready to try it," said the man, a Sand Springs, Okla., resident.

The woman began treatment after physicians said she had only two or three weeks to live.

Dr. Leach said hibernation had not aggravated her condition, but instead "the cancer tissue was becoming soft and was reduced in size about 75 per cent."

Even Skunk Oil Can't Drive Strays Out Of Auditorium

Rambunctious Dogpatchers To Be 'Turned Loose' Tomorrow Night

O happy day!

Even the over-powering, nauseating stench of "skunk oil" thrown by Hallowe'en pranksters could not run stray celebrants last night out of the high school auditorium where three acts of the Dogpatch revue were being rehearsed.

Observers laughed themselves silly at the horse-play antics of John Edwin McConnell, Mrs. Elsie Cone, Chester Carpenter, and others in the Business and Professional Women club's skit.

Sadie Hawkins day in Pampa will be tomorrow, and tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the auditorium the Dogpatch revue will be "turned loose"—the phrase used by Kenneth Carman, general director of the show. Admission will be 10 cents for students and 25 cents for adults.

Tonight rehearsal of all the acts will be held behind closed doors, and only members of the cast will be admitted.

There's one thing certain about the Revue, the rehearsal indicated. There will be plenty of beautous Daisy Maes and Strange Gals, and there will be all kinds of Mammy Yokums, Pappy Yokums, Mitzi Mudlarks, Li'l Abners, Hairless Joes, Marryin' Sams, Hannibal Hoops.

One of the funniest things in rehearsal last night was Mammy Yokum giving Pappy a bath. If we told you who was playing the role of Pappy Yokum you wouldn't believe it, but you will get a surprise when you see who it is and how well it is done.

There will be seven acts in all in the show—Patrick's starring Bill Ketler, Mrs. Noble Mounts, Jack Johnson; the B&PW, starring Mrs. Cone and McConnell; the high school act, starring Kathryn Barrett, Junior Williams, Carolyn Surratt, Imogene Sperry; KPDN's, starring the Cornshuckers; the faculty's starring Harry Kelley; the three Scragg brothers, Lem, Luke and Romeo; and Mrs. Steele's.

Prizes will be awarded best costumes and makeup, and the best acts.

Proceeds of the show will be used

Nov. 1, 1914—Turks bombard Sebastopol.

Germans take Messines.

British squadron destroyed off Coronel, Chile.

GIBRALTAR, Nov. 1. (AP)—The British steamer Egba, 4,989 tons, was fired on by a German submarine about 240 miles east of Madeira Islands today, according to an official message received by Gibraltar naval authorities.

Further details were not available.

LONDON, Nov. 1. (AP)—Headlines declaring "The Soviet Is Neutral" today summed up reaction of the British press to yesterday's speech by Russian Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff Molotoff.

The British consensus concerning the speech was that it left Russia committed to a policy of neutrality and offered Germany "a packet of words and little else."

British officials, however, withheld comment.

LONDON, Nov. 1 (AP)—First Lord of the Admiralty Winston Churchill told the house of commons today that one of Germany's pocket battleships had been reported operating in the north Atlantic and another in the south Atlantic.

GIBRALTAR, Nov. 1 (AP)—It was officially announced that the 4,989-ton British steamer Egba was fired on today by a German submarine but evaded the attack. She was believed to have continued her voyage undamaged.

The attack was said to have occurred about 240 miles east of the Madeira islands.

Pranksters 'Stench Up' City With Polecats

Bedlam reigned in Pampa until an early hour this morning as young and old celebrated Hallowe'en. But the observance was one of fun and not damage, few reports of vandalism being received at police headquarters.

Celebrants entertained themselves with every sort of trick from soaping downtown windows to turning over trash barrels. City trash collectors today reported little business as citizens hadn't been able to collect trash from their yards.

Police are still looking for the four beautifully striped "pussycats" turned loose in the 100 block on Northy Cuyler street. Or maybe it was one that smelled like four. The odor was wafted into the LaNora theater and drug stores and cooling systems were brought in to play to offset the aroma.

The city garbage department and police department today were expecting calls to get the cats out from under store counters or from under houses in the residential district close to downtown. They had their fingers crossed and were hoping that the animals successfully made their way to the country, however.

Officers received several calls to stop boys from breaking street lights. Patrol cars ran into several alleys blocked with trash cans and barrels which they had to clear away.

Once the officers had to wait for a string of burning sacks, which had been soaked in gasoline and strung across a Cook-Adams addition street, to burn out. Another time they had to remove tree limbs and trash barrels which blocked a street in the same addition.

Only fire alarm of the night was to the rear of the 200 block on South Cuyler street where trash and boxes were burning. Water from the truck booster tank soon had the blaze extinguished. Chief Ben White wouldn't say whether the fire had been intentionally or accidentally set. It could have been serious had it gained much more headway before being discovered.

This morning Chief White received word that several caps had been removed from fire hydrants in the Cook-Adams addition. None of the hydrants had been turned on, however.

Gangs were fewer than in past years and as a result officers had no trouble breaking them up when they started to go rowdy.

Only reported casualty of the night was Norma Jean Stevens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Stevens, who suffered a fractured wrist in a fall. She was taken to Pampa-Jarratt hospital.

Store porters muttered strong words this morning as they washed windows. Little trouble was encountered where soap was used but some of the markers used wax which is almost impossible to remove. Cars also paid the price for being left in the open by having windows covered with soap and wax.

"All in all it was a very quiet night," Chief of Police J. I. Downs said today. "If much property was destroyed we haven't had it reported to us."

Troop Five Of Girl Scouts Review Year

Members of troop 5 took their turn in presenting a radio program at noon today over station KPDN, as a part of the local observance of National Girl Scout week. The week started Sunday and will end Saturday.

Troop 5 was organized in April of this year, with a membership consisting of older girls from troop 4 and the disbanded troop 6.

There were 18 members enrolled with Mrs. L. J. McCarty as captain and Mrs. D. A. Caldwell as troop committee chairman. The Clara Hill class of the First Methodist church has always been ready to assist in all the activities of the troop.

Committee members from the Clara Hill class are Mrs. H. P. Snyder, Mrs. Don Losher, and Mrs. Lawrence West.

Troop meetings are held at 4 o'clock each Wednesday afternoon at the Little House.

Bands, Crowds And Speakers Pay Tribute To Retiring Engineer

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

If the greatest wealth one can have lies in one's friends and their opinion of you, then O. E. Coons, railway engineer for 39 years who retired yesterday, is indeed a wealthy man.

For yesterday and the day before, rare and touching tributes were paid Mr. Coons who humbly refers to himself as only a "common man," the kind God made so many of.

And it all came as a surprise to Mr. Coons who has been an engineer on the road that is now the Clinton, Oklahoma & Western ("the cow") for 25 years. Mr. Coons had no idea that people thought so much of him, that they respected and esteemed him so much. Naturally, he was quite overcome by the honors paid him by residents of a dozen small towns between Pampa and Clinton and at the latter city.

300 At Reydon

More than 1,000 persons came to the various stations and told Mr. Coons goodbye and wished him good luck. The largest crowd was at Reydon, Okla., where 300 citizens and a smart 24-piece uniformed band directed by Miss Mary Bingham met the train at the station and gave him a rousing send-off. The four baton twirlers did some fancy twirling, and

Criticism Of FDR Injected Into Debate

Molotoff Speech Called More Than 'Coincidence'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—A demand that the United States recall its ambassador to Russia because of Premier Molotoff's criticism of President Roosevelt was injected into the house neutrality debate today by Rep. McCormack (D.-Mass.)

Describing both Russia and Germany as "the anti-God forces of the world today," McCormack said he had read newspaper accounts of Molotoff's address to the supreme Soviet yesterday in which President Roosevelt was criticized for "intervening" in Russia's negotiations with Finland and it was stated that this country's moves to repeal its arms embargo would "intensify, aggravate and protract" the European war.

"For that statement made by the official representative of Soviet Russia," McCormack shouted, "the United States ought to recall its ambassador. That should be the answer of the United States to this attempt to influence American public opinion—this grave breach of international law."

(Laurence A. Steinhardt is United States ambassador to Russia.)

McCormack's comment on Molotoff's speech came within two hours after Stephen Early, presidential press secretary, had questioned in a conference with reporters whether it was "purely coincidental" that Molotoff had criticized the president at a time wren an important vote was scheduled here in the house on the neutrality legislation.

Subsequently at the state department Secretary Hull when asked about the Russian premier's remarks, said the American move in the Russo-Finnish situation spoke for itself in that it was a simple appeal for peace."

Communists In Key Posts, Says Woman

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Mrs. Dellie M. Crawford of Frederick, Md., testified today that Joseph Curran, president of the CIO's national maritime union, had told her the Communist party was placing so many members in key Washington positions that it hoped to take over the government in a few years.

The witness, mother of William McCulstion, former Communist and national maritime union official in New Orleans, told the Dies committee that Curran had visited her home and had disclosed to her that he was a Communist.

She took the stand while her son waited in the committee room to elaborate previous testimony.

Mrs. Crawford said she first met Curran in her home in 1936, when he appeared with her son and several other maritime workers.

She said on another visit in late January or early February, 1937, following a winter maritime strike, he gave her definitely to understand that he had become a member of the Communist party.

She testified that she used to ask Curran jokingly about "when the revolution was going to start."

Ilongot Killers Start New Wave Of Head Hunting

MANILA, Nov. 1 (AP)—A new outbreak of Christian head hunting was reported in nearby Jueva Ecija province today. Constabulary police said Ilongot killers beheaded four members of a family at an isclated village near Panta-Bangan.

Three influential Ilongot chiefs and their supporters, suspected of the killings, fled into the Sierra Madres mountains.

Sadler, Smith Seek Oil Estimate Hikes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Texas Railroad Commissioners Lon A. Smith and Jerry Sadler planned today to request an increase in oil demand estimates for their state in order to meet orders from England and France.

The two were here to confer with Secretary Ickes and Smith, Railroad commission chairman, said he would show Ickes sufficient applications for deliveries on hand from belligerent allied nations to more than consume the increase sought.

Man's Death Blamed On Hallowe'en Prank

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Nov. 1 (AP)—Authorities blamed a Hallowe'en prank today for the death of one motorist and injury to two others.

The pranksters let air out of automobile tires. Fred Kramer, 19, and Anthony Karthall, 22, had their cars parked close together while they removed a deflated tire on one.

Charles Dick, 40, drove against the parked automobiles and was killed. Kramer and Karthall were hurt.

Suffering Women May Only Need "Build-Up"

A simple method is saving many women much pain and discomfort! It is based on the knowledge that women's headaches, nervousness, and cramp-like pain often are symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to a weak, run-down, undernourished condition. That so many women find relief from these painful symptoms through the CARDUI "build-up" is easy to explain. By improving the appetite, assisting digestion and assimilation, CARDUI helps to build physical resistance against periodic pain. Thousands of women also report that CARDUI, taken just before and during "the time," lessens periodic pain.

Market Briefs

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—An attempt to rally the stock market behind climbing aircrafts met with a chilly response today and a noon selling wave tipped over leaders fractions to more than 2 points.

Dealings picked up substantially on the decline, then reverted to the doldrums again when a little late support reduced extreme losses in most cases. Transfers approximated 1,100,000 shares despite the frequent sluggish interval.

Europe' war of "nerves and words", on the whole, failed to cause any great unsettlement in boardrooms and the midway sell-off was blamed mainly on the theory that, if the market could not get up on the recent flow of cheering home business news, it was in position to fall back under moderate pressure. So the pressure was applied and prices acted accordingly.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP)—After fluctuating widely over a range of about one cent, wheat prices closed with net fractional gains today.

Purchasing stimulated by continuation of the hard winter wheat belt drought, with no signs of moisture relief, and reports of improved European demand for Canadian wheat tended to offset selling inspired by weakness of securities.

Export sales of Canadian wheat were estimated in excess of 1,000,000 bushels while 100,000 bushels of rye also were sold abroad.

Wheat closed ¾-⅞ cent higher than yesterday, December 86½-⅞, May 85⅞-86; corn ⅛-¾ up, December 50⅝-¾, May 53⅛-¼; oats unchanged to ¼ higher.

Demand For Oil Products Higher

By HARRELL E. LEE

AUSTIN, Nov. 1 (AP)—The oil industry enters November with demand for its products materially higher than a year ago and its statistical position good except for heavy gasoline stocks.

Thus far there has been no increase in exports as a consequence of the war. Some leaders expressed the opinion, however, that if the arms embargo was repealed, industrial operations in this country would expand and domestic demand for fuel therefore would rise.

A difference of opinion existed in the industry as to whether authorized crude output was too large. Production has been averaging approximately 3,600,000 barrels daily, or 300,000 above a recommendation at Fort Worth last month by a committee of the Independent Petroleum Association of America.

On the other hand, Jerry Sadler, Texas Railroad commissioner, said in Washington the purpose of his visit was an attempt to persuade the Bureau of Mines to boost its November estimate of demand to such an extent the Texas allowable might be raised at least 300,000 barrels a day. The current Texas allowance is around 1,400,000 barrels daily after deducting for shutdowns of eleven days per month.

The industry awaited with great interest the scheduled start of hearings at Washington next Monday on a bill to give the federal government at least partial control over oil production. The first week will be devoted to testimony of government witnesses, including Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior.

Service Station Operators Organize

Service station operators of Pampa have organized and they plan to meet twice monthly and exchange ratings of customers. J. C. McWilliams has been named temporary chairman and Greely Warner temporary secretary.

The association will exchange information through the Pampa Credit Association with which organization it will be affiliated. Regular meeting dates will be set at a meeting soon.

Twenty-seven dealers attended the first meeting.

Consumer Reaps Saving

We have apparently learned that there is no need to worry about sudden and sharp price rises because of the war. The acute fear that possessed many Americans when war first broke out in Europe, causing them to rush panic-stricken into stores to purchase abnormally large stocks of staples, soon subsided.

That is all to the good. There is not a single logical reason why prices in this country, so far as basic commodities are concerned, should zoom. Prices may go up—but the increases should take place slowly, gradually and naturally. And, of vital importance, the consumer is protected by the finest distribution system in the world.

The little towns of this country are served by stores which, from the standpoint of variety, service and price, can be found only in the great centers of population in other lands. The modern merchant, like the modern manufacturer, no longer seeks to charge all the traffic will bear. He works on the mass-production principle—a small unit profit and big turnover. He is continually striving to undersell and outserve the merchant down the street.

The American system of free, open competition is responsible for this. When a chain store, for instance, puts into effect some new innovation, a progressive independent adopts and improves it. And when the independent gets a bright idea, the chain follows the lead. This is true of all kinds of stores—food, clothing, hardware, drug and so on.

The government, it is reported, is ready to crack down if and when profiteering rears its head. And the retailers of America, large and small, chain and independent, are working harder than ever before to hold the cost-of-living down—they know better than anyone else that high prices mean few sales. And the consumer reaps the savings.

A Just Reward

For 39 years O. E. Coons worked for the Santa Fe and other railroads. He raised eight children and put them through school. He worked hard, every day of his life except when he was sick or on short vacations. He was a faithful employe, and was loyal to his employers. J. B. Briscoe, superintendent of the Plains division of the Santa Fe, says it takes a long time to make a good engineer. He said that Mr. Coons was the finished product when he retired yesterday.

The railroad company will reward Mr. Coons for his long tenure of service as a good engineer. They will pay him a pension so he can retire to the farm, the place he has been longing to live. Mr. Coons was worthy of his hire; he has lived a quiet, sane life which was devoted to his family. He won the respect of his employers and of his associates, and the tribute paid to him yesterday by his friends was not superficial. You had only to look into the eyes of the people who came down to his train to bid him goodbye and see their tears to know they were sincere.

The Santa Fe is proud of Mr. Coons and his records; they will always hold up as an example for young engineers to follow. Mr. Coons will not have to depend on the government for a pension. Both Mr. Coons and the Santa Fe have set high marks to achieve—Mr. Coons because he has been a loyal employe, and the company because it will reward the worker.

SEQUEL TO JOSEPH'S DREAM
(Daily Oklahoman)

Joseph was secretary of agriculture under Pharaoh. One night he had a dream about the ever-normal granary. Pharaoh became exceedingly steamed up about the scheme and ordered it put into effect. For a while it worked. But in the forty-seventh chapter of Genesis trouble began to brew. There was a farm resettlement program in which people were moved from Canaan to Goshen. Things went from bad to worse. Egypt suffered from economic maladjustment.

Begin with the thirteenth verse and see what happened.

Joseph became also a collector of internal revenue, and when people were famine-stricken and were spending all their money for food, Pharaoh got the money.

The Egyptians demanded relief, and Joseph said, "All right, turn over your cattle."

Came the second year and their cattle were gone, so Joseph said, "All right, give us your land."

Quote: "So Joseph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for the Egyptians sold every man his field, because the famine was sore upon them: and the land became Pharaoh's . . . Then Joseph said unto the people, Behold, I have bought you this day and your land for Pharaoh; lo, there is seed for you, and you shall sow the land. And it shall come to pass at the ingatherings, that ye shall give a fifth unto Pharaoh, and four parts shall be your own, for seed of the field, and for your food, and for them of your households, and for food for your little ones." Unquote.

So Pharaoh and Joseph had all the land and livestock and had made sharecroppers of all the people.

They had built up one of the slickest little paternalistic governments you ever saw. If the people wanted anything they had to go, hat in hand, to Noph Memphis, the capital, for handouts. That was where was invented the expression—"You can't beat Santa Claus."

This chiseling episode in the career of Joseph is something that has escaped general attention, but it has a definite point these days. Of course the Pharaohs took only one-fifth then, and now government of all sorts takes one-fourth of all our substance for its riotous living, besides a heavy tribute in the form of invisible taxes.

History grimly repeats. As in Pharaoh's time, government is taking over the lives and property of the people and not giving adequte return. One high priest of the new deal has openly bragged that it will not be long before the government owns all business.

Henry Wallace, sometimes called Joseph II, who revived the ever-normal granary, take notice.

IS HAM 'N' EGGS CHRISTIAN?

I listened to a Ham 'n' Eggs speaker over the radio talking to church people. He quoted considerable from the Bible and tried to leave the impression that the statements he quoted were evidence that Jesus would have been for this method of charity.

He quoted Matthew 26: 42, 43: "For I was an hungred, and ye gave me no meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me not in: naked, and ye clothed me not: sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not." The inference was that a man would be wicked and unChristian if he did not vote for Ham 'n' Eggs. But the Ham 'n' Eggs speaker did not explain that these quotations referred to private charity and goodwill between men, where the gift was voluntary and benefited both the giver and the receiver. It is quite a different matter for people to vote to compel others, by force of the sheriff and the police of the state, to contribute $260 a month (if the warrants are par, as they claim), to an able-bodied man and woman above 50 years of age. This would be a form of force, which was exactly the antithesis of what Jesus advocated.

The speaker did not quote from the Old Testament, where it was warned a man should live by the sweat of his brow—and Jesus confirmed these laws. Nor did he quote from Jesus' statement where he said, "For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath." Nor did he quote from Jesus when he said, "And whosoever will be great among you, let him be your servant."

And how can men and women be great and good and not be the servant of their fellowman, but live on the labor of others, as the recipients of Ham 'n' Eggs warrants or the Townsend people would do?

Practices Covetousness

It is strange how people can distort the teachings of Jesus. If there ever was a speaker who attempted to sell envy, hate, covetousness, and unChristian doctrines, it was this speaker on the radio Thursday night. And yet, he claimed to represent the ideas of Jesus. He contended that unemployment was due to the selfishness of the few; the inference being that the employer and the merchants were the cause of 10,000,000 people being out of work. He contended that this class that had control of the government had brought on this condition.

He did not, however, state the laws which this class had passed to bring on the condition. I challenge any person, who believes unemployment is due to the capitalists, to name one Federal law passed in the last 25 years that made it easier for the capitalist with goodwill to reduce the cost of living for the poor and the worker and raise the wage level of the people as a whole. But there have been many laws passed that made it very difficult and, in fact impossible to do this. And these laws were invariably passed because of the votes of people who are over 50. The real cause of the depression is due to the shortsightedness of the voters over 50. These restricting laws were, as we have repeatedly said, the income tax law, the banking laws and the Clayton Amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust Law that permitted labor unions to make monopolies and interfere with the free and natural division of labor.

It is hard to conceive how any thinking person could really believe that the Ham 'n' Eggs scheme or the Townsend Plan would be in harmony with the teachings of Jesus. They are exactly the opposite. They are for force and coercion, as against education and voluntary goodwill.

Behind The News Of The Day

By BRUCE CATTON
Pampa News Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1—When President Roosevelt issued his order closing American ports to belligerent submarines, he did not make the order broad enough to cover armed merchant ships. This omission he explained by saying that submarines and armed merchant ships could no more be lumped together "than pears and apples."

However, when Congress wrote the resolution under which the President issued his order, the two were lumped together like this:

"Whenever, during any war in which the United States is neutral, the President shall find that special restrictions placed on the use of the ports and territorial waters of the United States by the submarines or armed merchant vessels of a foreign state will serve to maintain peace between the United States and foreign states . . . it shall thereafter be unlawful for any such submarine or armed merchant vessel to enter a port or territorial waters of the United States or to depart therefrom."

From the isolationist group whose fight from the beginning has been based on the feeling that the present administration is strongly pro-ally in its policies—comes sharply pointed comment on the President's order.

"All the submarines are German, and all the armed merchant ships are British," says Senator Downey caustically.

"An armed merchant ship is as much a ship of war as a submarine," says Senator Tobey. "They may say it is armed for defensive purposes, but it can quickly enough become offensive if it spots a submarine. If we are to be really neutral we should treat both sides alike."

And Senator Clark of Missouri recalls that during the World War Secretary of State Lansing sent a memorandum to Ambassador Page in London urging that Britain discontinue its practice of arming merchant vessels, as the practice was a threat to American neutrality.

"Of course it increases our chance of involvement, to give armed merchant vessels free use of our ports," he says.

TOBEY SEEKS NEW FLAG LAW

Despairing of any chance to get the ruling reversed, Senator Tobey has set out to get a law which would prevent misuse of the American flag by merchant ships of belligerent nations.

During the World War, a common ruse by British merchantmen was to fly the American flag when crossing submarine zones.

This ruse was suggested to British ship captains by the British government; and that fact—together with the fact that the merchantmen were armed—was cited by the German government as justifying her policy of torpedoing without warning and without regard for nationality.

For, said the Germans, if a merchant ship flying the American flag might turn out to be an armed British vessel with a naval gun crew aboard, it was too risky for the submarine commander to come to the surface and go through the customary procedure of search and seizure.

The American government protested repeatedly to the British government against this "forgery of the flag," as Senator Tobey calls it, but without the slightest success.

For one thing, the British replied that there was nothing illegal about it—for there was no law on the American statute books which forbade a foreign ship to fly the American flag as a ruse of war.

In the end, the British simply refused to listen to protests any more. On Nov. 2, 1915, in a note to Ambassador Page turning down a new set of American complaints Lord Grey, the British foreign minister, said:

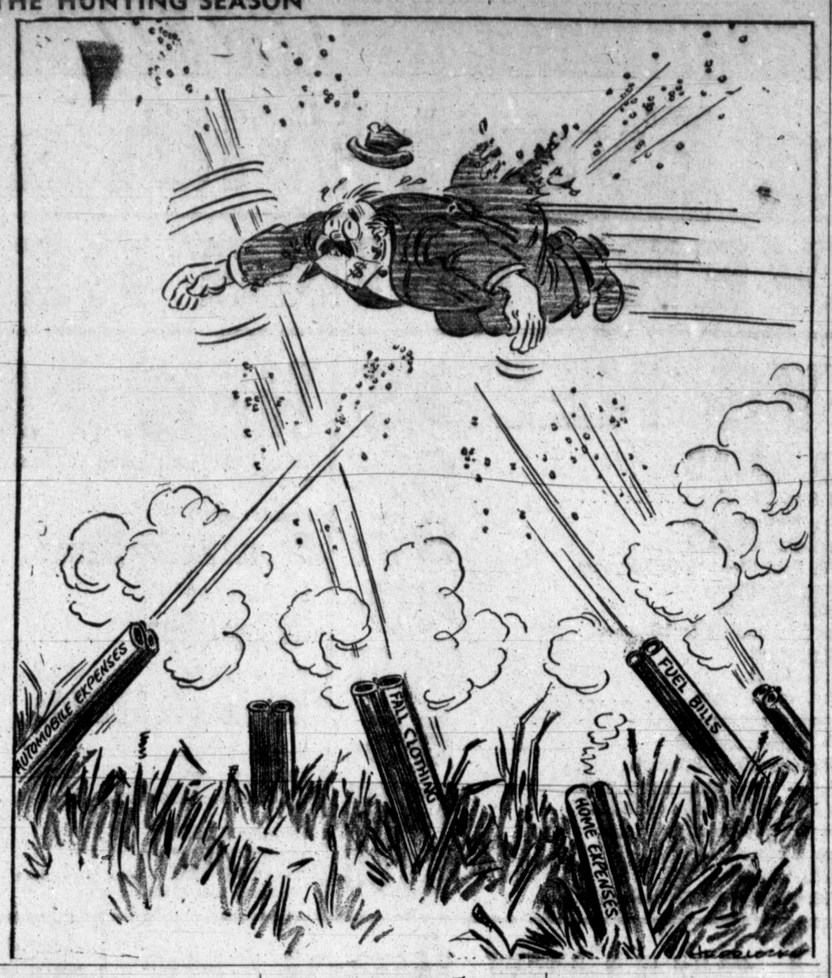

"I would therefore take the liberty of suggesting that your government may, on further consideration of the matter, be willing to desist from bringing these reports to the notice of His Majesty's government."

Senator Tobey's point now is that by putting a law on the books and providing penalties for its violation, the United States would have solid grounds under its feet in protesting any misuse of the flag in the present war.

"We have no protection at all now," he says. "We should have a statute to set forth the enormity of the offense and we should back it up with proper penalties.

"How would we enforce it against foreign vessels? Easy—we'd simply bar them from our ports if they offended."

THE HUNTING SEASON

Around Hollywood

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Rouben Mamoulain, the director, came back to his office between sessions of musical scoring on "Golden Boy," and he started talking, right away, about musical backgrounds in pictures.

"I think we've got something interesting here," the tall, black-haired young director behind the big horn rim specks said. "You know the story—the boy who is both violinist and prizefighter. We're putting the conflicts into the score—the themes of fine violin music alternating or fighting with the oom-pa-oom-pa of jazz, representing Manhattan life into which the boy is thrown."

We go from there into the importance of musical accompaniments to pictures, and I found Mamoulain ranged on the side of those who like their screen music to fit and not to cover.

"There's dramatic effect," he said, "in the use of music. But there's just as great drama in silence. Reminds me of the story of the old lighthouse-keeper who lived alone in his tower. Every morning at three o'clock a shore cannon would boom. The old man slept right through it. But one morning at three he woke up with a start. 'The cannon didn't go off,' he cried. 'What's the matter!'

"When I have an important scene I don't want the audience to follow, even subconsciously, a musical theme—I want them to be entirely attentive to that scene, its action, its dialogue."

Mamoulain, by the way, brought in "Golden Boy" four days under schedule—as if in answer to the criticism that arose on his overtime with another film he'd prefer to forget called "High, Wide and Handsome." The feat is the more remarkable when it is remembered that he had, in the title role, a boy of 21 who had never faced a camera for a real acting assignment before Mamoulain picked him for the part.

The director opines that young Bill Holden did a grand job and has a real future in films. Provided, I think he might have added but didn't, that Paramount does right by Bill on its share of his contract with Columbia. Offhand, I'd say the prospects were not too promising. Holden's first film for Paramount, from whose obscure stock ranks Mamoulain snatched him, will be "Golden Gloves," which looks like an obvious attempt to cash in quickly on his "Golden Boy" exploitation.

The boy has had, however, as Mamoulian did point ont, a "break" to maintain Hollywood's fame as Cinderellaland for years to come.

"In the Caucasus," says Rouben, "where I come from the babies are consistently brunettes. The arrival of a blonde baby in any home there is heralded and sung about, and the child is called a "golden baby," one destined for great things. Bill Holden, if he'd been born there instead of in O'Fallon, Ill., would have been a 'golden baby.'"

For there was no reason why an obscure stock player at Paramount should have been singled out for a major starring role, no reason other than freakish chance.

Bill Holden made a test with a girl. It was the girl's test, not his. The girl's test, with others, was sent for Mamoulian's inspection to fill a lesser role in his picture. The girl didn't get the role, but Mamoulian found in Holden what he hadn't been able to find in months of search—his "Golden Boy."

Chain letters are in the mails again. This writer received a chain letter which stated that we had to put it into the mails within 24 hours after receiving it.

We received the letter at the beginning of a two-day trip and had no time to answer it. So the 24 hours passed and now it's too late. The letter says, "the good luck of Flander was sent to me, and I am sending it within 24 hours. This chain started by an American officer in Flanders and is going around the world, and the one who breaks it will have bad luck, Send this copy and four others to the people whom you wish good luck. People in Europe are worrying nowadays about their ability to see in the dark. The blackout, which is now the rule in London, Paris, Berlin and other foreign cities, has made people realize the importance of making their way about in darkness.

There is a well-established relationship between the amount of vitamin A in the diet and ability to see well at night. Before our eyes become adapted to the dark, there is a short period when everything looks black. Adaptation to darkness is almost complete within an hour.

During the first World War it was discovered that soldiers had to have a sufficient amount of vitamin A to avoid night blindness. Since then, tests have been developed to determine whether there is deficiency in vitamin A and whether night blindness is present.

At the same time, studies are being made on the ability of people to detect differences in color at night. The clearness with which any object is seen depends, of course, on the surrounding objects and on the background. Color is seen more easily if set off by illumination.

Red and yellow can be seen more clearly on a white background, and green is seen better on a black background. On nights where there are no shadows because of absence of the moon, it is harder to judge distance. There is also a difference in the brightness of colors at night. In daytime, yellow is the brightest color.

At night, green is more easily seen than yellow, blue and red—a fact which anyone can find out for himself by walking in a garden at night. Grass and leaves are seen more easily than the colored flowers.

Fortunately, in this country, we are not subject to blackouts. But visits to motion picture houses at night and night motoring emphasize the importance of sufficient vitamin A to eliminate night blindness.

ATTENTION, Pampa pedestrians! . . . The pedestrian has had his day in court and has come out with a new lease on life. A New York appellate court has ruled that if a person starts walking across a street on a green light he may legally complete the crossing without getting run over, even if the light changes to red while he is halfway across.

The decision is not a carte blanche for pedestrians, but it is an important recognition of the fact persons who walk still have rights. The pedestrian has been pushed around so much since the automobile took a firm hold in American life that he has come to accept infringements on his prerogatives with humble placidity.

IF IT comes to an actual showdown in practice, pedestrians will find it wise to desert their rights for prudence. It's a little more satisfactory to shout menacing words at a driver from the curb than from somewhere underneath the chassis of his car. . . . The chief points in the decision is that the pedestrian, like the horse, has not been forgotten. If the ruling is generally accepted, motorists will now have to do some of the waiting—and muttering beneath their breaths.

DICTATORSHIP FOR UNITED STATES?

By HARLEY L. LUTZ
Professor of Public Finance, Princeton University

A state of war always leads to an exaltation of the executive and administrative authority. This is deemed necessary because of the importance of prompt and efficient coordination of the country's activities in the conduct of war operations. It is often said that if the United States should be drawn into another prolonged and devastating world war, the result will be a dictatorship for the American people that would continue after the end of the war.

As a prophecy this prediction may be inaccurate. But the logic which underlies it is clear. It is that men who have once enjoyed great power are most reluctant to relinquish it. Cincinnatus, the Roman general who went back to his fields and oxen when peace came, is no longer the model commander. Nowadays there is an irresistible urge to hold power, and to assert that the man in the saddle or in the White House, or in the Kremlin must be kept there indefinitely because he is the only one who can properly guide the country toward its destiny.

If the American people want to hedge against a post-war dictatorship, their best procedure is to assert their rights and the authority of Congress by setting definite limits to the executive power. To be effecive, this must be done before war comes. It should be done before there is any more legislating on the subject of war or emergency powers.

The Vandenburg resolution, approved unanimously by the Senate, called upon the Attorney General to compile a list of the statutes which now give emergency powers to the President in the event of war, and also a list of these powers. Mr. Murphy politely gave reasons for not complying, but he said that there were more than one hundred laws on this subject.

The reasons for not complying with the resolution may be valid. Obviously, however, the matter should not be dropped, for it is entirely possible that these hundred or more laws extend the presidential power far more than is required for the efficient direction of war effort. If the Attorney General cannot be compelled to act, whether for constitutional or other reasons, then Congress itself should make, through a committee, a compilation and codification of all laws under which presidential action during a war may have been authorized. Having done this, Congress should proceed to systematic revision of these laws, with a view to establishing a clear and plain boundary to the presidential authority. If this is not done, both Congress and the people may find that their part in the governmental scheme, whether it be to authorize by legislation or to criticize and oppose, has been wiped out by a series of executive orders.

A sinister illustration of the inevitable inclination to abuse emergency powers has already occurred. Recently the President announced that in view of the emergency he had authorized army and navy expenditures in excess of appropriations in order to hasten the preparations for national defense. The excuse was that Congress would of course later approve the additional expenditures. This does not prevent the action from being a perfectly clear violation of the constitution. If Congress and the people tolerate it, they are hastening the time when ther consent will not be asked for either appropriations or taxes.

It is well to be making defense preparations, although we should not be influenced too much by those who see an alien submarine in every fog bank. It would be well, before voting further power to govern by emergency decree in the neutrality bill, to get the whole picture of these emergency powers before Congress and the people. A president needs authority enough to direct the war operations, if and when war comes, but he should not be given enough power to wreck our democratic institutions while trying to win the war. Executive authorization of spending above appropriations is only one step short of dictatorship itself, and this last step but one has already been taken, even before there is any possibility of war for the United States.

Townsendites Will Begin Radio Drives

By W. B. RAGSDALE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Complete directions for getting Manna from Washington will be given by Townsendites, beginning this month, to every Pennsylvania voter over 60 who is willing to listen.

A little later New York voters will be told. Come January, and the word will be taken to Ohio. After that, the cry of "Manna's on" will go to Illinois.

Seventeen radio stations will be used in Pennsylvania to carry the pension theories of the frosty-haired Dr. Francis E. Townsend and his collaborator, Senator Downey, (D-Calif). Probably 25 stations will be used in New York.

Twice a week for the next year—up to the next presidential election—the story of pensions and how to get them will be recited to Pennsylvanians.

For months, ever since their last national convention at Indianapolis, the Townsendites have been building up a fund for the big pension drive. They claim that their membership is growing steadily, undeterred either by their last winter's defeat in congress or by the outbreak of war in Europe.

What they are shooting at now is enough delegates in the 1940 Democratic and Republican national conventions to influence platforms, along with final dominance over enough members of congress to write their pension plan into law. Almost a third of the convention delegates will come from Illinois, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania and California, the state in which the Townsend movement started.

Dies Hints Witness Has Been Intimidated

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Dies committee broadened today its investigation of the relationship between Communism and the CIO's national maritime union to include what it called efforts to intimidate a witness.

This new activity arose from the testimony of William McCuistion, who said he was a former Communist and N. M. U. leader, and his detention here for questioning in connection with the slaying of Philip Carey, N. M. U. official, in New Orleans last September.

McCuistion was taken to police headquarters yesterday when he stepped down from the witness stand. He told reporters that he knew nothing of the killing.

Chairman Dies (D.-Tex.) of the committee, which is investigating un-American activities, said he might go to New Orleans to ascertain whether police there actually wanted McCuistion and for what reason.

"I'm not going to let our witnesses be browbeaten or intimidated," he said. "If our witnesses can be persecuted or framed or have their civil rights taken away, most of the witnesses we have lined up probably would be intimidated."

McCuistion had testified that since he left the Communist party several years ago he had been threatened repeatedly.

Dies read into the record a statement saying that members of the N. M. U. "who obviously sought to prosecute this man" should be investigated.

I. Q. Of Savages 'Down Under' High Claims Professor

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1 (AP)—After living for more than a year with the Aborigines of Australia, the largest group of primitives in the world, Dr. D. S. Davidson, anthropology professor of the University of Pennsylvania concludes they are as intelligent as modern Americans.

"They have adjusted themselves to their environment as intelligently—sometimes I think more intelligently—than we have to ours," says Dr. Davidson, returning from an expedition with the American Philosophical Society and the Carnegie Corporation of New York.

He says great intelligence and knowledge is required for "our contemporary ancestors," as the Aborigines have been called, to survive the rigors of western Australia's vast, wild stretches, where game and water are scarce. Civilization, too, is pressing in on them.

"Scarcity of food has required a balance between population and food supply," Dr. Davidson explains, "and these people have met it by various forms of eugenic control. In times of great stress they kill their own children. This, so shocking to us, does not disturb them. They do not kill the old because they are valuable to the community in imparting knowledge to the young."

There are about 50,000 of the Australian natives left, but they are doomed to extinction because the number of children is constantly diminishing. Dr. Davidson thinks this is due to the shock of the attempted adjustment with "what we call civilization," against which primitive people seem to have an instinctive fear which produces great bewilderment."

In the 15th century, 30,000 persons were fed daily by the Earl of Warwick, the "king-maker." He served meals to so many at his London home alone that six oxen were required for breakfast.

'Ah Has A Fool-Proof Plan--Jest Watch Me!' Boasts Li'l Abner Yokum

By LI'L ABNER YOKUM

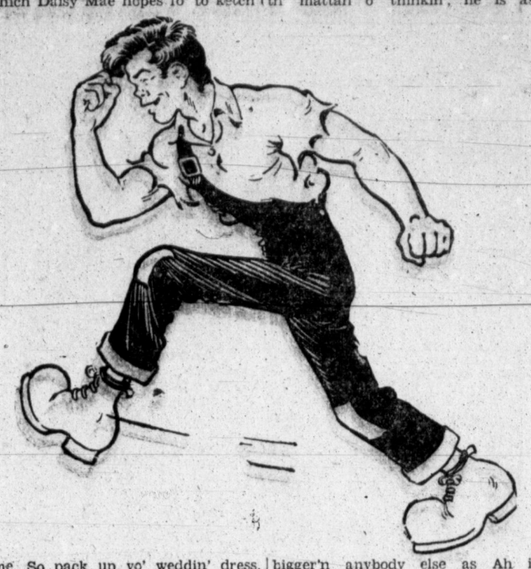

Mah heart is as light as a beaten biscuit as Ah reflecks upon th' prospeck o' Sadie Hawkins Day. Mah mind is free because Ah know mah life will keep on bein' free even after th' runnin' of th' race in which Daisy Mae hopes fo' to ketch me. So pack up yo' weddin' dress, Daisy Mae, an' put it back in yo' hope chest, onless yo' is so in th' depths o' despair yo' is given up th' notion o' becomin' Mrs. Li'l Abner Yokum. 'Cause ef yo' still does, yo' might as soon save yo' bref fo' talkin' an' not disperse it in a hopeless effo't to ketch a man on Sadie Hawkins Day whut not only don't aim not to be ketched but whut is sure he ain't goin' t' be.

Yo' all may be supprized at whut Ah says. Yo' all may wondah how Ah know Ah'll still be a free man aftah th' race. Partickalar since Ah knows as how Mitzi Mudlark, whut says she is th' fastest runnah in th' world, has tole Daisy Mae th' secret of her runnin. Well, Ah must say Ah was a bitsy shaky when Ah fust heard that. Ah knowed as how Ah had t' find mahself a secret, too, ef Ah was goin' t' have a chance. And Ah didn't know whar t' look. Ah was sure feelin' porely fo' a while.

Then comes mah runnin' acrost Ole Man Mose. He's so ole he don't know how ole he is, anymore'n a clock knows how many times it's ticked. An' he give me some advice which, after mah thinkin' it ovan, showed me that maybe Mitzi Mudlark is th' fastest runnah in th' world, but ef she is then Ole Man Mose is th' fastest thinkah. So in th' contest o 'fleetness o' foot whut Sadie Hawkins Day is goin' t' bring about, it's a battle atween Mitzi Mudlark's toes and Ole Man Mose's brains. Ah brings up the mattah o' Mitzi's toes on account o' she claims it's a secret about them as is the secret of her bein' fast in runnin'.

Now Ah knows nothin' about Mitzi Mudlark's toes. Ah is nevah had no glimpse o' them, she havin' a face whut makes anybody look away f'um her quick in place o' at her twicet, and besides which she weahs shoes, fo' uppity reasons. But Ah reckons her toes ain't no greatah in number or different in general construction than anybody else's.

In th' mattah, howevah, of Ole Man Mose's mind, thar' yo' has somethin' diffr'unt. He is mighty low when it comes to tallness. But in th' mattah o' thinkin', he is as bigger'n anybody else as Ah is bigger'n mah Mammy an' Pappy.

Thar is this diffr'unce, though, in his bein' bigger that way. See one man ackshully bigger'n anothah, and yo' notices it right away. But talk to Ole Man Mose an' yo' don't understand so quick how much bigger his mind is than other folks'. Fo' instance, when he give me that advice on how t' win on Sadie Hawkins Day, Ah didn't rightly reckon whut it meant an' how good it was. Says he t' me, "It's better t' be a houn'-dawg than a rabbit." An' that's all.

It d'n't soun' like much t' win a race with, do it? But it sure is, cncet yo' understand it. An' Ah understand it now. It was hard t' git it requirin' as it did thinkin', which has always been a trial t' me. But Ah's got it now, an' wif it, Ah cain't lose. Ah has a plan which is feel-proof, which is th' way Ah likes mah plans. Ah is not revealin' it, o' ccurse. But jest watch me on Sadie Hawkins Day.

Ah feels kind o' sorry about Daisy Mae. She ain't got a chancet. Love has always been cn mah side. And now Ah's got Ole Man Mose thar too. Ah feels fine.

Servant Sought In Mexico City Slaying

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1 (AP)—Police sought a 25-year-old man servant today for questioning in the trunk slaying of Mrs. Meleah Talmadge Dewitt Araoz, former resident of Maywood, N. J.

The woman's body, bound with a rope, was found in a trunk in her apartment here yesterday. The widow of Don Manuel Araoz, wealthy Mexican to whom she was married in 1916, she was once an outstanding figure in Mexico City society.

(A sister, Mrs. William Titterton, said in Maywood Mrs. Araoz had written that she needed money because the property of her late husband had been attached by the government, and that she had sent her $200 a week ago.)

Polise, who discovered the body 13 days after the apartment owner informed them Mrs. Araoz was missing, said robbery apparently was the slaying motive. They said she she was reported to have kept jewels and money hidden in her home.

Inhalator Saved Life Of Child Of Former Pampans

The life of Joan Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Miller, former Pampans, was probably saved by the Seaside, Ore., fire department inhalator recently when the girl, subject to asthmatic attacks, was revived after she had become ill at the family home on Edgewood street. Mrs. Alice Woodward, grandmother of Mr. Miller, was a long-time Pampa resident.

Miss Miller was living alone. The girls' parents had left on a vacation trip to Texas. A friend of Miss Miller's, Edith Mary Kyle, chanced to stop for a visit. Realizing Miss Miller was in a serious condition she called Dr. J. E. Vinson.

Shortly after Dr. Vinson arrived, Miss Miller lost consciousness. Dr. Vinson rushed to the city hall, obtained an inhalator from the fire department, and after the use of a full tank of oxygen the girl was revived. When the treatment began her heart action was barely perceptible.

Poppy Sale To Be Sponsored By VFW Post

For the relief and welfare of more than 500,000 disabled and unemployed veterans who are not receiving any government compensation, the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States will conduct its eighteenth annual Buddy Poppy sale.

Locally, the sale will be sponsored by Pampa post No. 1657 on November 11, in conjunction with the community observance of Armistice Day. "Wear a Buddy Poppy on Armistice Day," is the slogan of the local campaign.

In announcing the local sale today, Commander Lee R. Franks explained that all monies over and above the cost of the poppies would stay in the city of Pampa for the relief and welfare work done throughout the year by Post No. 1657 among disabled and needy veterans and their dependents.

The monies accruing from the purchase of the poppies is divided between the V. F. W. National Home for the orphans of war veterans, maintained by the overseas veterans' organization at Eaton Rapids, Mich., and the rehabilitation and service programs of the national organization and its respective state units, Commander Franks said.

Pampa Post No. 1657 has been assigned a quota of 25 per cent more poppies this year than last, he said. If the goal is achieved, a total of 3,000 poppies will be sold here.

"The V. F. W. Buddy Poppy sale always has a strong appeal for the American public," Commander Franks declared. "All of us, except the younger generation, vividly remember the World war and what it meant to more than four million boys and young men who were mobilized for action. We remember, too, the casualty lists and the sacrifices and suffering of those boys. To purchase, in 1939, a Buddy Poppy in memory of those sufferings and sacrifices, and of America's war dead, is a tribute which most of us are glad to pay on Armistice Day of each year."

the crowd loudly applauded Mr. Coons.

A string band and a crowd of 100 met the train at Strong City to show their esteem and admiration. At Mobeetie, the high school pep squad, gathered under the cab window and sang and yelled for ten minutes.

At Cheyenne, Okla., the high school band played for Mr. Coons and a delegation cheered him. Mr. Coons lived at Cheyenne for several years. He helped build the famed short line and then was the train's only engineer before the road was acquired by the "COW."

Large crowds gathered at Butler, Stafford, and other stops along the route to Clinton.

Senator Pays Tribute

Particularly touching to Mr. Coons were the farm people who lived along the line and have seen him for years who came down to the track to stand singly and in groups and wave him goodbye.

Mr. Coons got his biggest surprise at Clinton, Monday night. There in a long banquet hall, speakers paid him an enviable tribute. Many spoke but the chief speaker was a life-long friend of Mr. Coons—Judge E. L. Mitchell, former district judge, former state senator and former district governor of the Kiwanis clubs of Oklahoma and Texas. The judge whose long, lanky, bony frame reminded one of Abraham Lincoln, told of his and Mr. Coons' experiences on the Cheyenne Short line. He profusely praised Mr. Coons' loyalty, good citizenship and ability.

Proudest Of Supt. Briscoe

More than 50 persons attended the banquet, but Mr. Coons was proudest of the presence of J. B. Briscoe, superintendent of the Plains division, who was Mr. Coons' boss. Mr. Briscoe also made a speech expressing his regret that Mr. Coons was retiring. Mr. Briscoe also elaborated on the services Mr. Coons rendered to the Santa Fe, and said he would be an example for young engineers to follow.

Other Santa Fe officials, including Cecil Winters of Oklahoma City, travelling freight agent, who was toastmaster. On behalf of the railroad company, Mr. Winters presented Mr. Coons a gold watch chain with the engineer's insignia on it. On a special car to Clinton rode Mr. Briscoe, Jess Briscoe of the public relations department, and Mr. Kincher and Mr. Nye of the freight department.

Mrs. Coons Honored

At each station, Mr. Coons told the crowds good-bye, expressing his pleasure in having known them, and wishing them luck, and thanking them for their demonstrations. Mrs. Coons who accompanied him was also cheered, and at Mobeetie, she was the subject of a yell and a song by the pep squad. May Grooms, the only woman station agent in the Plains division, was in charge at Mobeetie.

Mr. and Mrs. Coons will leave tomorrow for Mena, Ark., where they have a farm and where two of their sons, Jack and Bill, are attending school. Mr. Coons bought the farm several years ago and has improved it. The Coons family lived in Pampa for nine years.

The Pampa Junior Chamber of Commerce had planned to entertain Mr. Coons, Mr. Briscoe and the Santa Fe officials at noon yesterday, but the train arrived too late. On account of the late arrival of the train, a Pampa school band was also unable to play at the train.

else presented by any of the delegations Monday, and apparently, made a most favorable impression on members of the commission as to the importance of the proposed road construction.

Two other Panhandle delegations appeared before the commission Monday.

The Ochiltree county delegation of Perryton joined with the officials of Lipscomb county in seeking the surfacing of gaps on Highway 117, connecting Perryton, Booker, Darrouzett and Follett.

Approximately 50 representatives of Hutchinson, Carson, Armstrong, Briscoe, Floyd, Crosby and Garza counties asked for a designation connecting Silverton and Claude and Ralls and Post, which would give a north and south road from Borger south to Post, Texas.

The highway would be of great service to the oil refineries of Borger and Pampa in making deliveries of gasoline on the south plains.

Camp Saving Plan Started By Scouts

A Boy Scout is thrifty. This is one of the Scout laws.

And to help boys of the Adobe Walls be more thrifty, a camp saving plan has been started that is proving popular with the boys. It is a card system in booklet form. On the inside of the card are squares on which $6 in stamps is to be pasted. When the card is filled in with the stamps, purchased from troop secretaries, the card and money is turned in to the executive's office and the boy has enough money for his trip to camp.

Each stamp is of10-cent value. When the boy has a dime "burning a hole in his pocket" he can buy a 10-cent stamp and paste it in his booklet and it's surprising how soon the book can be filled, Executive Fred Roberts says.

The camp fee must be paid before a boy is eligible to attend camp. Scouts who cannot attend will have the full amount refunded to them if they make application before Aug. 1.

Massachusetts abolished the pillory in 1839.

Parties Given By Police Stop Pranks Of Boston Children

BOSTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—There was a big party in Boston last night—100,000 guests—but there were hardly any headaches this morning, because the party was thrown just to prevent those morning after-Hallowe'en headaches.

Checking up after a rainy All Saints eve, police reported damage by pranksters was practically negligible.

This was because the police department, financed by public spirited citizens and usually-harassed business houses, entertained the city's youngsters at Hallowe'en parties in 51 sections of the city.

Mrs. Townsend Asks Volunteers To Make Red Cross Garments

Mrs. J. B. Townsend, chairman of volunteer workers for the Red Cross chapter of Pampa, has received the quota of garments to be made by the local organization for Polish refugees in Hungary, Latvia, Lithuania, and Rumania, before January 1.

Mrs. Townsend has extended a call for volunteers to assist in making the clothing as soon as the supplies arrive. All who find it possible to take part in the work are asked to call Mrs. Townsend.

Pampa's quota consists of eight men's sweaters, four women's sweaters, eight children's sweaters, four dresses for women, and eight dresses for girls. Knitters and seamstresses are needed for making these.

The United States has purchased 30,000 suits of warm underwear, 10,000 pairs of heavy shoes and 50,000 heavy blankets. The National League of Red Cross has $25,000 available to buy drugs, medical supplies, and other items of clothing for the Polish refugees.

Requests for help have been received from the British and French Red Cross units.

Visit Power Plant

In gathering material for the safety badge the girls attended a safety meeting held in the high school auditorium under the direction of the American Petroleum Institute.

Cyril Hamilton of the Magnolia Petroleum company took the scouts thru a power plant on the Barrett lease, explaining safety precautions taken.

Many of the scouts were working on their dramatics badge so it was arranged for the girls to present a play "Your Flag and Mine" on a junior high school assembly program.

The troop helped prepare two Thanksgiving baskets, and assisted the Salvation Army in dressing dolls for the Community Christmas tree.

Help Given Photographers

Foster Fletcher, a local photographer, met with the girls who were working on their photographers badge, and helped them in their study of picture making.

Climaxing the summers' work, a scavenger hunt was held at the Little House and a picnic lunch was served to the Boy Scouts of troop 16, who were guests.

The Girl Scout troop is now studying for the folk dancing badge.

Correspondence is being effected by the girls with other sister scouts in Washington, Maine, Florida, and the Philippine islands.

Toll Bridge Price Shock To Tourists

FLORENCE, Ala., Nov. 1 (AP)—Indignant tourists complained that gatekeepers on the new Pickwick Lake bridge were playing practical jokes.

Handing over the toll money, the motorist often got a jolting shock when he touched the keeper's hand.

But it's no joke to the keepers, either, explained Bridge Engineer G. P. Willoughby. Automobiles running at high speed create static electricity, he said, and crossing the palm of the "grounded" collector causes the shock.

Thousands Of Auto Workers Still Idle

DETROIT, Nov. 1 (AP)—Additional thousands of automobile workers were idle today as negotiations for Chrysler corporation and the CIO automobile workers remained deadlocked in their efforts to frame a new contract.

The corporation said union employes had begun a "slow-down" which made further operations impossible. The union charged that a "lockout" was in progress.

Lamar County Tax Collector Reports He's Snowed Under

AUSTIN, Nov. 1 (AP)—Santa Claus will have to pay a short visit to Royce Whitten, Lamar county tax collector, and his staff.

The multiple duties of county collectors now include filing applications for automobile titles under a new state law.

Whitten wrote the safety department which issues the title certificates:

"After having collected about $220,000 this month, along with collections of beer licenses, occupation taxes, registration of automobiles, transfers, raised weights, daily reports, weekly reports, monthly reports, annual reports and a thousand other things, we know something about being snowed under.

"If nothing happens, we plan to take Christmas eve and a half-holiday on Christmas."

White Promises To Build Road In Precinct 4

That taxpayers of precinct 4 have a just cause in their complaint of the county's failure to construct an improved road from a point off the LeFors-McLean highway to Alanreed, as was outlined in the $2,250,000 road bond election of March 28, 1931, was admitted today by County Judge Sherman White.

W. J. Ball of Alanreed, in a letter to The News, writes:

"In the mass meeting mentioned, expressions were heard from men from different parts of the county, whose statements were made in the deepest sense of sincerity, for fairness and justice for all taxpayers concerned in the merger of issues and the passage of the issue proposed.

"It was far from the thought that each town concerned would not receive the paved road as set forth in the road bond issue as advertised.

"Does the county owe an obligation that has not been fulfilled?

"Tax payers, have you paid on a bond issue six years for a paved road that has not been built?"

Judge White said the citizens of that precinct were exactly right in their contention that they had voted for a road they had not obtained. He said the matter was not the fault of the present commission, but that he intended to see that the mistake was rectified.

As soon as the project of paving the McLean streets is completed, the judge said it was contemplated to transfer the workers to the other side of the county and start building the 16-mile lateral road.

The road to Alanreed was proposed as part of the lateral roads to be built in the county, under the bonds voted in the 1931 election. A road to McLean was another part of the plan.

At a mass meeting held in Pampa at the court house on March 1, 1931, the Alanreed road was shown on a map as a part of the roads for which the bonds were to be voted.

BRING YOUR EYES THROUGH THE FOG

Step into the finest room you can imagine. Its beauty not only astonishes, but its grandeur actually gives you a new feeling—a thrill. Suddenly turn out the lights, and it all vanishes. Light is the first essential to sight.

How much light is necessary? Science tells us that in unshaded sunlight there are 10,000 foot-candles of light. In the shade of a tree, 1,000 or more; on a porch, 500; by a window, at least 200; and by the ordinary reading lamp, only 5 foot-candles of light.

Strange as it may seem, as American living became more intense, American lighting became poorer. True, we passed from coal oil, to gas, to electricity. But we also passed to longer working hours, longer playing and reading hours; to greater strain on eyesight. When modern optical experts and lighting engineers began their studies, they discovered American eyes in a fog—working and playing under lighting conditions too dim for the ordinary demands of good seeing.

Let us light-check your home for better seeing. This service is free.

Pampans Trying To Regain Blocking Form

First String To Play For 'Experience'

Although the Harvesters play a non-conference game Friday night with the Hobbs, N. M., Eagles here, yesterday's practice session looked like a preparation for the invasion of the Amarillo Sandies on November 11.

Coaches Odus Mitchell and J. C. Prejean put their boys through a full length scrimmage yesterday afternoon in an effort to revive offense and blocking which showed up so well in early games but was a lost art last Friday) The first team downed the second string by a score of 19 to 0 and had their own goal line threatened several times.

Bert Isbell worked with the first string in the absence of Grover Heiskell whose back injury is being carefully watched. Isbell will probably call signals in place of Heiskel on Friday night against Hobbs. Heiskell will be the only Harvester missing from the starting lineup, coaches believe.

"We're going to shoot the works again Friday night in an effort to pick up our offense," Coach Mitchell declared when asked if he was going to use his first or second string elevens against Hobbs. "We are going to use the first string because they need experience."

Block, block, block was the chant heard during yesterday's scrimmage session. At times this season the Harvesters have done some sensational blocking while at other times they failed to contact a man, let alone get him out of the play.

Hobbs, although light, is reported to be one of the toughest of the New Mexico teams. Even a loss to the Borger Bulldogs didn't drop the Eagle stock one bit as they came back to down Seagrave, a team that has been dealing misery to the big shot elevens all season.

Hobbs features scat backs and a deadly passing game, according to dope received here. The midget ball carriers start on the gallop from scratch and are away before they can be nabbed by bigger linemen and backs.

The Eagles are scheduled to arrive here Thursday afternoon for a workout.

McLean Girls Will Play Briscoe At Kellerville Nov. 7

Special To The NEWS

McLEAN, Nov. 1—McLean High school's girls basketball team will meet Briscoe, at Kellerville, November 7, in their next regular scheduled game.

Conference schedules have not yet been arranged, although it is expected the local girls will meet Borger, Phillips, and other teams in that part of the Panhandle. This year's conference competition will be different from that of last season.

Under the tutelage of Coach Orville Cunningham, the girls have lost only one game so far this season, and erased the stigma of that defeat when they conquered the same aggregation of all-stars in a return match, 15-0.

SMALL BUT POWERFUL HOBBS LINE

Stoltz, center

Here is the Hobbs, N. M., line that will face the Pampa Harvester forward wall Friday night at Harvester field in the last night game of the season. Although light compared to the Pampa line, the little Eagles have the reputation of being able to penetrate any line because of their speed and quick starting. Rankin is the heavyweight of the line and he weighs only 170 pounds. His running mate, Seaburn, is the lightweight, 145 pounds of dynamite. In O'Dell and Bishop the Eagles are reported to have a couple of pass-snagging ends of note.

Special to The NEWS.

McLEAN, Nov. 1—About the only people in McLean who are smiling over the coming game with Shamrock Friday night at 7:45 p. m. are those who report there are only 300 tickets left to be sold. All seats in the Tiger stadium are reserved, and Clarendon and Shamrock fans are rapidly buying up the few tickets remaining.

Clarendon has cancelled its proposed game with Canadian and will return to McLean to witness the Shamrock-McLean game which is to have much bearing on Clarendon's hopes for a District 3-A title.

Although x-rays show that no ribs were broken when John Bond was injured in the Clarendon tilt, Coach "Cricket" Christian today reported that Bond probably will not play in the Shamrock game. Bond is badly bruised, and his value to the Tigers Friday is doubtful, even should he get in the game.

Jones, right guard, who was taken out of the Clarendon game with an injured neck, will be able to play Friday. However, the absence of Bond has sent Tiger stock to a new low for the season. McLean will be a definite under-dog, and, it is expected, not to cause Shamrock too much trouble.

The boys appeared lethargic in scrimmage yesterday, and a general air of gloom and defeatism permeates the atmosphere of the Tiger lair. The tiger and the house cat, it might be noted, spring from the same specie. Docility and lack of a fighting spirit can ruin an otherwise strong football team.

Special To The NEWS

SHAMROCK, Nov. 1—The spot light of district 3-A will be focused on the Shamrock Irish-McLean Tiger game to be played in McLean Friday night.

This is possibly the most important game of the season for both teams as the Irish will be fighting to keep a clean slate in the district and the Tigers will be doing all in their power to throw the district into a three-way tie. To date the Tigers of McLean have shown much power with Big John Bond leading their offense and defense. They have dropped one game to the powerful Clarendon Broncs by the narrow margin of 6-0. Clarendon was defeated early in the season by the Irish to the tune of 13-0 but had improved so much by the time they met McLean that it looked like an entirely different ball game. Other comparative scores are McLean 79, Lakeview 0 while the Irish defeated the same team 40 to 0.

Coming through the easy game with Lakeview without injury, the Irish will have all their man power in readiness for the much heavier Tigers. While the McLean team depends a great deal on their star back the Shamrock boys have no outstanding man on their entire team, but have a small team that depends upon deception and a set of three light speedy backs.

This decisive game will be called at 7:45 on Tiger field, in McLean on Friday night and the outcome of it may decide the championship of district 3-A.

Kavanaugh Of LSU To Be Marked Man Against Tennessee

By ESCAR THOMPSON

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 1 (AP)—Tennessee, the nation's No. 1 football outfit, stakes its perfect defensive record and Rose Bowl hopes grabbing ability Saturday, and Major Bob Neyland is worried lest his team come a cropper in the argument with the great Louisiana State end.

"I don't believe there is a team in the country that can stop Kavanaugh from catching passes," Neyland declared today.

"Our scouts report that LSU is 50 per cent stronger than the team we beat 14 to 6 last year. Their running attack is more versatile and there's always Kavanaugh."

Kavanaugh, whose dexterity at spearing passes has placed him at the top of the Southeastern conference heap with 54 points, was the last gridder to score on the Volunteers. He put on his specialty in Tennessee's end zone here last fall, but since that time none of the ten opponents the Vols have met has seriously threatened their goal line.

The rangy Louisiana receptionist will be a marked man when the Tigers and Vols trod the field at Baton Rouge Saturday. He's been marked in every game this year but has acquitted himself nobly—so nobly, in fact, that he's already being tabbed for All-America.

Mississippi held him scoreless in LSU's opener, but on successive Saturdays he scored four touchdowns against Holy Cross, one against Rice, and two each against Loyola and Villanova.

District Golf Tourney To Be Played Here

The 1939 golf season isn't over yet. There is going to be one more tournament and it will be played over the Pampa Country club course beginning next week. It will be a District Tournament, open to any amateur golfer residing within 40 miles of Pampa.

Qualifying will end Sunday evening and first round of play will be completed next week. One round will be played each week until the finals.

The entrance fee will be 50 cents and every cent will be used to purchase prizes. There'll be flights for every class of player from the sub-par shooter to the Sunday golfer.

It is planned to hold a district golf tournament every year, but at an earlier date in the future, according to Pete Nossent, club professional, who says the course is in good condition. There is no dust and despite the drouth the fairways are fairly even. He reported the greens in the best condition in several years.

Players are urged to call Mr. Nossent immediately and register for the tournament. Anyone having golfing friends within 40 miles of Pampa are urged to contact them.

Coast Bowl Team May Be Decided At Portland Saturday

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 1 (AP)—Undefeated and untied in five games this season, Oregon State college football players took up the cry "On to the Rose Bowl!" today as they prepared for their all-important clash here Saturday with the powerful Southern California Trojans.

It looks as if the winner of Saturday's game likely will get a bid to represent the west in the Pasadena pigskin classic New Year's Day.

Oregon State will be on the short end of 3 to 1 odds, but the determined little squad has highhopes of knocking over the once-tied Trojans, defending champions of the Pacific coast conference and Rose Bowl victor last season.

Coach Lon Stiner has a hunch the Beavers can duplicate the feat of his 1933 squad, which smashed Southern California's magnificent record of 26 straight victories.

To reach Saturday's test, the Oregon Staters beat Stanford, Portland University, Idaho, Washington and Washington State. None of these, Stiner insists, forced him to order the Beavers to open up.

Rice Determined About Ram Invaders

HOUSTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Rice Owls have a pretty impressive intersectional record to keep intact, and they don't intend to let the Fordham Rams spoil it Saturday. In 54 intersectional tussles since 1912, the feathered flock has kept its record on the sunny side of .500 per cent—winning 27, losing 22 and tying five.

Guerillas To Play B Team At Shamrock

Coach Oscar Hinger will take his fast-stepping Guerillas to Shamrock Monday afternoon for a game with Scott McCall's "B" team. Game time will be 3:30 o'clock at Denver field.

The Guerillas stepped into the winning role in Raton, N. M., three weeks ago, 6-0, and last week they beat Raton here, 19 to 7. The team has improved beyond all expectations during the past month.

Lefty Pendleton has developed into the kind of plunging fullback coaches seldom see and his passing has become more accurate. Little Edmonson has improved his sidestepping while Mann and Daugherty look like they have hit their stride.

The line has begun to charge low and hard and to tackle lower and truer. Allen and Sanford look like end selections but the tackle assignments have not been dished out by Coach Hinger. In the middle of the battle are Louvere, Snider and Flanigan. Moyer and Grossman will be sure guard nominees with Berge at center.

Shamrock's "B" team has been battling the Irishmen all season, which means that the Guerillas will probably meet their stiffest competition of the year.

Coach Tells What's Hindering De Correvont

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (AP)—Bill De Correvont's former football coach in high school has his own explanation why the highly-publicized youngster hasn't been a ball of fire in Northwestern's backfield this season.

The Ausin High coach, Bill Heiland, under whose tutelage De Correvont developed into a prep sensation, predicted before the season started that "Bill's going to have trouble getting started at Northwestern. Their offensive alignment has him starting too close to the line of scrimmage. He needs plenty of room in which to begin his maneuvers."

Raven Texas Schoolboy Sensation Of Gridirons

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

AUSTIN, Nov. 1 (AP)—Wander over to the Austin High school campus and start extolling the prowess of Jack Crain, University of Texas football sensation. Then watch your listeners lift their eyebrows.

"Yes," they'll say, "we know about Crain, but did you ever see Travis Raven run with a football?"

Raven is the Texas schoolboy sensation of 1939—a one-man riot stealing the thunder from under the very nose of Crain, the Nocona Nugget who finds pay dirt on Saturdays just across town.

"Raving" Raven they call him. This 151-pound bundle of dynamite does everything from running 105 yards to a touchdown to passing the opposition dizzy.

Last week Raven reached his all-time heights by scoring 39 points against Thomas Jefferson high of San Antonio. Austin won 39-6 so you can see who did all the running. One of his touchdowns was made on an 80-yard gallop.

But Raven is not just a ball carrier. He does the punting and passing, plays safety, kicks the extra points and is an excellent quick-kicker, a rarity in Texas schoolboy football. He averages 37 yards on his punts and against John Reagan of Houston completed 10 passes out of 13 tries.

Austin, undefeated and untied, has scored 132 points in seven games. Raven has made 108 of them.

The opposition got only 12 which indicates his safety work also is something worth watching.

Coach Standard Lambert regards Raven as "equal to the state's outstanding schoolboy backs." For the reader's information 20,000 boys play football in Texas each season.

Others go further. Raven, they aver, is just about the best Texas ever had.

Raven himself says nothing. He's the modest type until they put a football in his hands. Then there's nothing backward about this youngster who should make Crain a first-class running mate at Texas about 1941—that is unless Coach Dana Bible lets somebody take Raven from under his very nose.

Sports Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—Coast reviewers say the Tennessee-Alabama films show Johnny Butler's 56-yard gallop was illegal and should have been called back. A brilliant bit of individual running, marred by too much clipping, the westerners called it. . . . New York's excuse for not recognizing Georgia Pace as bantamweight champ may be that he has fought only twice in the last year, both times against the same guy.

One-Minute Interview

Senator "Happy" Chandler (who has been mentioned for the National league presidency): "I have been too busy to consider it. . . . I am a member of the U. S. senate and want to stay there as long as the people want me."

Ohio State and Harvard expect to announce soon an intersectional football series. . . . And one of the first deals to pop at the Cincinnati baseball meetings may find the Dodgers sending Blimp Phelps to Redland for Schnozz Lombardi. . . . Donie Bush, ill most of last summer, is in the pink again and will return to manage the Louisville Colonels.

Ernie Koy, quite a footballer in his day, says Jack Crain, Texas U. sophomore, is the greatest back he ever saw. . . . And you needn't laugh that off just because Ernie is a Dodger.

Today's Guest Star

Jack Singer, N. Y. Journal-American: "Georgia can have a rematch in the Punch Bowl New Year's Day, but they'll have to sign to fight exclusively under the auspices of Mike Jacobs for the next seven years."

Four Things About Rice Worry Rams

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—Four reasons for the Fordham Rams worrying about this week's game with Rice: 1—The passing ability of Ernie Lain; 2—Two lines, (which average 207 and 208 pounds); 3—The law of averages (which can't deny this strong Southwest team forever), and 4—A big town stimulus which always makes invading team play better-than-average football.

CHEAT YOUR OWN ENGINE FOR 90 HOURS?

Not if you OIL-PLATE today

Want your engine condemned to half-a-week's grind on half-rations of oil—or even less? Not if you know it, and that's why you want to know this . . .

The engine that's started scarcely a dozen times daily throughout these cold months, and that begins hitting it off in a bare 5 minutes, can still pile up more than 90 hours of Winter starting! . . . 3½ days—and more—of hitherto haphazard oiling that you can rip right out of Winter now by getting your engine OIL-PLATED.

OIL-PLATING'S easy 3½-day safety margin over mere fast-flowing Winter oils comes from Conoco Germ Processing—patented. Entirely in addition to the record fast flow of Germ Processed oil you get OIL-PLATING . . . non-detachable from inner engine surfaces . . . proof against draining down . . . hence always able to lubricate ahead of any oil-flow.

While chilly oil droplets are still groping through oil-screen, pump, filter, tubing, and hair-thin spaces, your engine has got started safely on its slippy OIL-PLATING that's been up there all the time. No waiting for oil to squirt up and smear around. No waiting 3½ Winter days at your engine's peril. No waiting even 3½ minutes or anything like it for your battery to get action out of your easy-turning OIL-PLATED engine. Don't wait . . . change to Conoco Germ Processed oil at Your Mileage Merchant's station—the place to go for OIL-PLATING. Continental Oil Company

FDR Will Ask For 275 Millions For War 'Expenses'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—As a result of a presidential request for $275,000,000 to enforce American neutrality, some officials expressed belief today that national defense appropriations in 1940 likely would exceed $2,000,000,000.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters yesterday that Congress would be asked to vote the $275,000,000 for unusual expenses during the first 10 months of the European war.

The money, he said, would be needed chiefly for the increases in the army and navy which he ordered Sept. 8 in proclaiming a state of limited national emergency.

Chairman Sheppard (D-Tex.) of the Senate military committee predicted that Congress would grant $1,000,000,000 to the army for next year, Such a total, he said, would include funds for anti-aircraft guns already authorized by Congress.

Chairman Scrugham (D-Nev.) of the House naval appropriations subcommittee said that he expected the navy budget to approach $1,000,000,000.

Mr. Roosevelt said the special appropriation would be less than the $300,000,000 he estimated originally. The money would be spent before the end of June and would finance increases of about $100,000 in the army, navy, Marine Corps and justice department and the recommissioning of about 50 World War destroyers.

Means of training the army must be increased, he said, and added that additional facilities for the navy were needed on the Pacific Coast.

5 Students Injured In School Explosion

HOWE, Nov. 1 (AP)—The Howe school will resume classes probably tomorrow when repairs have been made on the building damaged by an explosion that injured five students.

Accumulation of waste gas under a room lifted the floor half a foot and scattered children, desks and chairs when the blast occurred yesterday but the 400 students marched quietly out in obedience to an alarm and fire drill order.

Injured were Jack Calloway, fractured chin and dislocated jaw; Hansel Smith, Mary J. Boozer and John Robert Coleman, facial injuries, and Charles Rose, leg injury.

J. Y. Wheeler, division superintendent of the Community Natural Gas company, said a leak was discovered in a gas pipe just outside the foundation of the room and that smaller leaks were found around stove connections in that and other rooms. He said the lines did not leak when tested Oct. 10.

Damage was estimated at $1,000.

Reapers Will Play LeFors Here Friday

Coach C. P. McWright's once-defeated Reapers will swing into action again Friday afternoon when they meet the fast LeFors Junior High team at Harvester field. Game time will be 4 o'clock with admission 10 cents to everyone.

The Reapers were idle last week after finishing the regular season with only one loss, to Central of Amarillo, winner of the Panhandle Junior High league.

Workouts have been held daily by the Reapers who are anxious to swing back into action again. They will play a return engagement at LeFors and will also play the Borger junior team, here, before they put their uniforms away. Borger will be here November 9 and on November 17 the Reapers will go to LeFors.

Determined to take up where they left off before losing, the Reapers have been scrimmaging nearly every afternoon. Some of them did not want to take off for the Lubbock-Pampa game last Friday.

Strength of the LeFors team is unknown. Word comes from the den of the Pirates that the juniors have a team almost as strong as the big Pirates.

BITS ABOUT BOWLING

The Schneider hotel Class A bowling team stepped into undisputed possession of first place in the league race last night when they took two out of three games from Voss Cleaners. The Kiwanis club won two out of three from Hampton and Campbell while Cabot Shops swept their series with Thompson Hardware.

Big scores featured the games, 14 being over the 200 mark. Taylor of Hampton and Campbell rolled high game of 223 pins with Robbins of the hotelmen taking high series with 612 pins.

LSU Star Always Finds Nails And He Always Scores

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 1 (AP)—Although this may sound like a publicity release from the hardware dealers, it's vouched for by Ken Kavanaugh and young Bussey of the Louisiana State football team and by W. I. Spencer, sports editor of the Morning Advocate.

Here 'tis:

Kavanaugh picked up four rusty nails along the sidelines of the Holy Cross gridiron. A few hours later he scored four touchdowns as L. S. U. trounced the Crusaders.

Just before the Rice game he found another nail near the battle scene. Score: L. S. U. 7, Rice 0 (touchdown by Kavanaugh).

Working harder at his hunting, Ken found two nails before the Loyola game. Result, two touchdowns by Kavanaugh and another L. S. U. win.

Two more nails before the Vanderbilt game last week and a 12-6 victory for the Tigers with Kavanaugh again the score-maker.

(Ed note: With Tennessee coming up Saturday, Spencer solemnly affirms he caught Head Coach Bernie Moore buying some 60-penny nails. Anyone who knows his nails knows a 60-penny is very large and very easy to find.)

Crown Of Ragweed

GALVESTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—The king and queen of hay fever went back to their pet remedies for the disease today after coronation ceremonies here during the annual hay fever contest.

Dr. E. L. Valenta of Houston and Miss Mary Lou Gard of Massillion, O., won the honors yesterday, and were crowned with gilded ragweed.

Among the many duties of African witch doctors is that of scaring away approaching hail clouds.

KEEP YOUR RED CROSS READY

THIS striking painting of a Red Cross nurse keeping the symbol of mercy flying is the keynote of the 1939 appeal for membership in the American Red Cross. Faced with the need for strengthening daily Red Cross services in 3,700 Chapters, and with its chartered obligation to aid in some measure in meeting the distress of the men, women and children refugees in war-torn countries across the sea, the Red Cross asks every man and woman in the nation, able to do so, to join as a member this year and support America's official voluntary relief agency.

Ruskin Williams, a distinguished artist, is creator of this ideal conception of the nurse heroine.

The roll call for members will be held November 11 to 30—Join through your local Chapter. Help your Red Cross help others by becoming one of the millions who will add their names to the roll of mercy.

SCOUTING

THE UNIFORM

The Scout uniform is a token that the Scout BELONGS, that he is a full-fledged member of the biggest boys, organization of its kind that the world has ever seen, that two million boys throughout almost all countries consider him their friend and brother. Wherever a Scout travels, whether in his own or in foreign lands, his uniform is an introduction to worth-while people, for Scouts are both widely and favorably known.

The Scout uniform symbolizes the boy's obligation to measure up to a high standard of CHARACTER. It stands for character because it is restricted to those boys who are active Scouts in good standing, this restriction being an act of the federal congress of the United States. Scouts are fellows who follow certain well-known high ideals of personal trustworthiness and "Good Turn" service. When a stranger in your community sees a Scout in uniform, he thinks at once, "There is a chap who will tell me what I want to know"—and he is sure, too, that as a Scout he will expect no pay for an ordinary courtesy.

The Scout uniform stands for SERVICE. It means that you are ready, "prepared" to help others. An accident occurs, a crowd gathers around. A uniformed Scout steps quietly forward. The crowd lets him through, for he's supposed to know what to do in an emergency. He administers first aid and slips away, probably without his name being known. Scouts have saved lives in this fine modest fashion. The Scout uniform broadcasts the fact that here is a fellow who is ready to be "helpful to other people at all times;" he is "prepared."

The uniform signifies DEMOCRACY. Each Scout wears the same uniform, and meets brother Scouts on the same level. It does not mark you as one who considers himself better than others, but it does mean that you as a Scout are striving toward useful citizenship. In Scouting all creeds, races and classes are as one. Each fellow stands upon his own legs—high and low, rich and poor—each alike on the basis of his own achievements and character. What a boy's father may POSSESS does not fix his standing in Scouting. He ranks in terms of what he IS and DOES.

It stand for OUTDOOR LIFE. The color and design of the hat, the shirt, the shorts, the stockings, the shoes make the uniform the clothing of the outdoorsman. The khaki color blends with the hues of the forest, making the Scout almost invisible when he tracks the animals or studies the birds.

Since the uniform symbolizes the whole of Scouting, those who are Scouts and scouters should insist that it always be worn in full. The wearing of the Scout hat by this one and a Scout shirt by that one breaks down the effectiveness of the program. If we are going to be Scouts, let's be real Scouts and when we wear the uniform, let's wear it in full.

Nurse Completes Operation After Surgeon Collapses

BUFFALO, Nov. 1 (AP)—Two-year-old Eddie Huenergardt may recover from a ruptured appendix and double pneumonia because a nurse completed an operation after a surgeon collapsed.

Mrs. William Finely, 29, took Dr. E. F. Camp's place after he was stricken with apoplexy while performing the appendectomy.

The major part of the operation had been completed so Mrs. Finely sewed up the incision.

Dr. Camp's condition was reported serious; the boy's "fair."

The entrance hole of a wren house should be the size of a 25-cent piece.

Finland Must Either Give In To Russia Or Risk Fight

By WITT HANCOCK

MOSCOW, Nov. 1 (AP)—Finland, caught in the vise of conflicting European interests, apparently faced the choice today of making concessions and a territorial trade with Soviet Russia, or refusing at the risk of a fight.

Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslaff Molotoff said the Russian proposals "are extremely modest."

He commented that the European war was "fraught with great surprises and dangers for all European states."

The Finnish delegation, which has conferred twice with Molotoff, was enroute to Moscow with Finland's "final answer" when Molotoff disclosed what Russia wanted:

A strip of territory north of Leningrad, title to some islands in the Gulf of Finland, a naval base at the mouth of the Gulf, portions of the Rybachi peninsula and demiliarization of the Finnish border.

In exchange, Finland would be given a larger strip of Soviet Karalel, and Russia would withdraw objections to Finnish fortification of the Aaland Islands in the Gulf of Bothnia.

(The Finnish government announced in Helsinki that publication of the heretofore secret demands had "created a new situation," but the Finnish delegation due to reach Moscow conferred with its foreign office by telephone and decided to continue its journey.)

Molotoff, in addressing the Supreme Soviet last night, aroused diplomatic interest by expressing a desire for closer Soviet relations with Japan.

Slaps AT U. S.

He affirmed cooperation with Germany, including trade negotiations; made thrusts at Great Britain and France; and slapped at the United States for its "moral support" of England.

While he displayed a certain coldness toward Turkey (which recently signed a mutual aid pact with Britain and France after fruitless negotiations with Russia), foreign circles believed Russia still was studying aims in the Balkans.

Turning to Japan, Molotoff said that in May, June, July, August and up to the middle of September, battles "sometimes of a very sanguinary character" took place between Japanese-Manchoukuoan and Soviet-Mongolian troops.

He called this an "absolutely unnecessary conflict," which "exacted rather heavy casualties."

Molotoff said the next step toward improvement of Russian-Japanese relations would be settlement of frontier questions.

"In addition," he reported, "the possibility has been established of starting Soviet-Japanese trade negotiations."

LIMA, O., Nov. 1 (AP)—Free from a ditch, the Byrd expedition's Antarctic snow cruiser traveled 12 miles today and broke down. A severed oil line was repaired in two hours, however, and the cruiser proceeded toward Akron, O.

Its ditch plunge had delayed the behemoth 90 hours.

JOAN OF ARKANSAS

BY JERRY BRONDFIELD

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: Jane realizes that she does not love Keith. When Dan is named chairman of "Last Week" activities, Joan wonders what girl he will suggest as his co-chairman. If he nominates no one, the Senate selects the girl. Elaine evidences unusual interest in the secretary of student affairs.

CHAPTER XIX

THEY were in the midst of dinner that night when the phone rang. It was for Joan. There was a look of bewildermen on her face when she returned.

She sat down and turned an accusing gaze on Elaine. "For your information," she nnounced, "that was the Student Senate office . . . . calling to tell me I've been named co-chairman of the 'Last Week' committee. You wouldn't know anything about that, would you, squirt?"

Elaine squealed with delight. "Jeepers, that's swell!" And then soberly, somewhat hurt. "Who, me? Know about what?"

Joan was forced to laugh and the other girls around her chattered their congratulations.

"You . . . you accepted, of course," Elaine inquired, just a little meekly.

"Oooh, you little . . . you little . . ." Joan tried to be angry but couldn't. She had to laugh. "I just about had to. Seems as though Dan had no particular desires in the matter . . . and it would have looked funny . . . and he might have felt hurt, if I had declined.

"In other words, you little worm . . . you framed me like a picture!"

"Now it's me that's being hurt," said Elaine, but she grinned.

She leaned over and whispered in Marianne's ear. "Webber'll swoon when he finds out."

THAT was practically an understatement on Elaine's part. Five seconds after a pledge had given him the message from the Senate office he was dialing Barney Hughes.

"Hey, Barney," he wailed. "I resign . . . quit . . . I've been victimized or something. And Rhodes'll have my life blood!"

Barney roared when Dan had explained everything to him but he succeeded in convincing him he probably would come through unscathed.

Nor did Keith take it with very great surprise. "Don't mind me," he tossed off diffidently. "You have my blessings if that's what you're after."

Dan wondered at the attitude but made no reply. Okay, then. Might as well have a little fun out of it.

He called Joan on the phone. "Coming right over . . . unless you're busy tonight," he told her.

She suddenly forgot all about the three chapters of political science she was to read that night. "Sure," she told him. "C'mon over."

* * *

THEY had the music room all to themselves. "Tribune's coming down to the Senate office to take our pictures tomorrow morning" he said abruptly. "We'll have to cut history. Oke?"

"Oke. What else?"

"Nothing much. I think this is silly. We've just got to see that the campus is properly worked up for the rally Friday night and see to it we have enough wood to burn down the town."

He shooed his hands at her. "It's all yours, chum . . . anything you say goes. I'm not fixed very well for ideas this week."

"Fine guy!" she flared. "Ducking out on me already."

He stretched lazily. "Never in my life saw a dame who could get up on her muscle so quick."

They both laughed. "Y'know, I was worried about what Keith might think about this," he began.

She frowned. "What's he got to do with it?"

"Well, he—oh, nothing I guess. He didn't seem to mind much, anyway."

"You mean . . . you asked him if it were okay with him?"

"Under the circumstances I thought it the thing to do."

"Wrong again," she murmured. He looked at her queerly.

THINGS were sweeping up to a terrific tension that week. Five more days and then Pitt. Five more days would bring the climax to Tech's bid for an undefeated season. Playing a big-time schedule and winning the first seven had been a strain. Any team might crack and be forgiven.

But Bill Slocum wasn't the sort to let a team crack and go to pieces. He was a master at working his boys to the perfect psychological pitch. Slocum had long foreseen Pitt as the final stumbling block to an undefeated season. And not because the Panthers were the final game on the schedule. He knew just what his club could do. So far the boys had done it.

It was a typical Pitt team that would come to town Friday noon. A team perfectly drilled in fundamentals and equipped with power plays that were the epitome of straight football.

For days the sports writers had been insisting that the winner was a virtual cinch to get the eastern bid to the Rose Bowl.

Both teams were in good physical shape. Pitt's Hal Forrest, a dynamo in human form, and the hardest-hitting fullback in the east, was fully recovered from a slight cold that had bothered him the week before. It was like trying to stop a five-ton truck when Hal Forrest bludgeoned his way over tackle or slammed on from close up on a spinner. And how he could spin.

Frantically, Slocum worked on a defense to stop him. And Dan Webber, his hand almost completely healed after the layoff, was the key-man.

"Our offense will take care of itself," Slocum predicted. "All we've got to do is shake Rhodes loose once—just once, that's all I ask of you guys. And then we're going to dig in and stop that Forrest guy."

IT was Wednesday noon when the large, dark blue sedan swung slowly down Main street, cruised around the business district for about an hour and then moved over onto the campus drive.

Three men were in it. Two in front, one in back. The driver was thin, dark, with a short, well-trimmed mustache. His companion up front was bulky, florid of face. His eyes were small and close set.

There was a dapper air to the man in back. Even as he rode he filed already carefully manicured nails. A cigaret dangled from his lip. Along his forehead was a slender, curved scar that stopped just at his eye-lid.

"According to her schedule," said Scarface, "she'll be coming out of that building over there in"—he glanced at a gold wrist watch—"in exactly five minutes."

The bulky one up front grinted. "Swing around this building once again, Sam."

Two o'clock classes were just letting out when they returned. Sam parked the car on the opposite side of the drive. They waited there.

"Sure you can recognize her?" Scarface asked without looking up. He was still occupied with his nails.

"Can't miss," the bulky one replied.

Two minutes later he stiffened sharply. "Here she comes."

Scarface looked up, then, casually, indifferently, but there was a glint in his eye. He watched Joan Johnson come down the steps toward the sidewalk.

"So that's Joan Johnson, eh? Not bad . . . not bad at all!"

Fruit Pickers Seek O'Daniel Assistance

EDINBURG, Nov. 1 (AP)—Citrus fruit truckers sought the aid of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel today in getting the crop to market without running afoul of the 7,000-pound load limit law.

Dozens of trucks loaded with fruit are idle on the highways all the way from Edinburg to Falfurrias and truckers are being arrested near Falfurrias and charged with overloading.

A. J. McColl of McAllen yesterday talked with Gov. O'Daniel by telephone and the latter was quoted by McColl as saying he sympathized with the valley growers and truckers but that the legislature would not pass a law to up the load limit or repeal it despite his efforts to have them do so.

The governor said Homer Garrison, public safety head, was the man to see and O'Daniel promised he would talk to Garrison in behalf of the truckers.

Truckers and growers here are suggesting that an emergency be declared during the fruit season in order that truckers from as far away as Pennsylvania may haul sufficient loads to compensate for haulage and pay the growers at least $10 per ton for grapefruit during the season.

Shamrock Man Makes Talk On Fingerprinting

Special To The NEWS

SHAMROCK, Nov. 1—Shamrock Rotary club was presented with an unusual proposal at the regular luncheon on Friday, when Clayton Heare, local attorney, proposed that the club sponsor finger-printing of all Shamrock citizens as a means of identification. Mr. Heare had mentioned the subject some time ago but renewed his efforts on account of experiences in the past few days which, he said, showed the advantage of finger-printing as a means of identification.

Mr. Heare cited a specific case in which a client of his had a hand injured and part of it amputated as a result of an accident in an industrial plant in Arizona. The man was awarded monthly compensation for the injury and received his checks regularly until a few months ago they stopped without apparent cause. This man wrote for an explanation and received no answer until finally taking the case to Mr. Heare, who found that a man killed in an accident in Arizona had been identified as his client. Thumb prints taken by an Arizona bank for identification some time before were used in proving that the man in question was the rightful recipient of the compensation.

Blaine Puckett, president, appointed Heare, J. O. Stribling and L. E. Depew as a committee to investigate the possibility and report to the club.

WPA Worker Decides He Owed Uncle Sam

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Conscience overcame a New York City WPA worker's fear of causing extra treasury bookkeeping.

He sent $63 in currency to the treasury, explaining:

"Approximately $62.26 represents time that I was supposed to be working for WPA. However, as I was not on the job during the time covered by this $62.26 I do not feel justified in keeping the money.

"Of the remaining 74 cents, 60 cents represents car fare drawn by me on the same job and which I did not use. The remaining 14 cents might as well be added to Uncle Sam's account and we will call it square.

"Hope this will give you no bookkeeping worries."

Woman Juror Alters Her Mind On Verdict In $70,000 Lawsuit

CHICAGO, Nov. 1 (AP)—It's a woman's prerogative to change her mind—or is it?

The validity of a federal court verdict involving $70,000 hinges on that question

Mrs. Katherine Merrifield, wife of a Northwestern university professor of surgery, raised the issue yesterday by renouncing the verdict she had signed.

When Mrs. Merrifield was reached in the routine poll of jurors she astounded the court by saying:

"That was not and is not my verdict. I signed through cowardice. I submitted to the will of the majority. I realize now that I shouldn't have signed the verdict."

Mrs. Merrifield was one of six women on the first mixed jury to sit in Chicago federal court.

Judge Michael L. Igoe refrained from entering the verdict, declaring a question had been raised as to whether a legal verdict had been returned. He ordered arguments within 10 days.

The case involved a bequest of $70,000 to Northwestern university from the late Samuel J. Howe, a Wheaton, Ill., attorney. The will was contested by Howe's son, Willard C. Howe, of New York who inherited none of the estate. The verdict set aside the will.

Lark Boy's Beeves Awarded Prizes At Kansas City Show

GROOM, Nov. 1—Billy Wood, Carson county 4-H club boy who lives at Lark, informed County Agent J. F. Ford Wednesday that baby beeves which he was exhibiting at the American Royal at Kansas City placed sixth and eighth in their class. Those familiar with the American Royal competition will recognize that the local boy's exhibits were well groomed and shown to the best advantage to attain these placings.

The calf which placed sixth was bred by Billy's father, and the calf placing eighth was bred by the T. O. Cattle company of northeastern New Mexico and southern Colorado. When the calves were loaded for Kansas City they weighed 1065 and 1080 pounds.

Adventure Ends For Boy, 14, Who Tried To Enlist

HOBOKEN, N. J., Nov. 1 (AP)—Fourteen-year-old Charles Conner of Chicago, who traded 50 cents and an affable personality for an 8,000-mile adventure which included a nearly-disastrous swim in the North Sea, returned from the war zone today, an adolescent soldier of fortune.

He arrived with 1,529 other passengers, 437 of them United States citizens, aboard the Holland-American line steamship Statendam out of Rotterdam.

Young Conner said he ran away from home in mid-September, hitch-hiked to New York, attempted to enlist in the army and finally stowed away aboard the Holland-American.

The youth walked up the crew gangplank, remained on deck until the pilot was dropped and then reported to a ship officer that he was a stowaway.

Between spells of seasickness, Conner washed dishes until the vessel was halted by a British patrol off The Downs in the North Sea for inspection.

The Zaandam rode at anchor for nine days, and one comparatively warm night Conner decided to end the monotony by swimming to shore, two and a half miles away.

Fully clothed, and wearing a life preserver, Conner slipped into the water. One mile from his goal he was stricken with cramps. He called for help and a boat crew from the nearby Holland-America freighter Towa rescued him. He was returned to the Zaandam by a British patrol boat, and went to Rotterdam, where he remained in jail until the Statendam sailed.

"I wanted to be a soldier," Conner, sturdy, five foot, seven inch blond whose looks belie his age. "I thought I might become a spy, because nobody would ever have suspected me."

Army recruiting officers at Fort Jay, New York rejected the boy because of his age.

Britain Tells U. S. No Guns On Athenia

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (AP)—Great Britain has denied to the United States that the liner Athenia carried guns or was designed to be a raider.

Lord Lothian, the British Ambassador, delivered a note to the state department last night reiterating his governments' contention that the ship was sunk Sept. 3 by a submarine. The Athenia was en route to Canada and carried many Americans and Canadians who headed homeward at the outbreak of the war.

The note also said that the ship carried no bullion or securities.

Paul Goebbels, German Propaganda Minister, had charged that the Athenia carried guns and was to be equipped as a raider. He also suggested that the British sank her in order to involve the United States in the war. This was denied by Lord Lothian.

Yule Playthings Are Designed To Educate Kiddies

By GLADWIN HILL

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (AP)—A taffy-haired little five-year-old girl was pretty put out today when she discovered she's been hoodwinked into learning to lace her own shoes.

She was given a toy, a brightly-painted imitation shoe of wood with oversize flaps and laces. She started fooling with it, and before she realized had laced it right up—after five years of making other people lace her shoes for her.

It happened at the annual Christmas toy preview, and illustrated the dominant trend in toys—utilitarian playthings with which children can make, decorate, test, or learn things.

In their efforts to direct children's energy into constructive lines and knock some practical knowledge into their pretty little heads, the toy manufacturers have revived a half dozen morinund crafts.
