Robert Smith Of Lockney Is Nominated For President Of Exposition; Lubbock Man Chosen As Director

Banquet Is Held

Judging In Various Divisions Of Show Completed Wednesday And List Of Winners Revealed Last Night

(By The Associated Press)

PLAINVIEW, April 8. — Robert Smith of Lockney today was nominated for the presidency of the 1936-37 Panhandle-Plains Dairy show to succeed H. B. Hales of Amarillo. Smith served as vice-president last year.

J. W. Heavin of Plainview was nominated to succeed Smith as vice-president.

Directors Nominated

Nominated for a three-year term on the board of directors were Ralph Thomas of Pampa, Ray Mowery of Lubbock, S. J. Underwood of Hale Center, I. C. Sprague of Tulia, Mason King of Amarillo, Tom Hanslip of Roswell, N. M.; R. A. Pittman of Brownfield, Joe Jennings of Plainview and W. H. Upchurch and Charles Frans of Canyon.

The association's annual banquet was held tonight.

Judging was completed in all events, the judges working late to determine winners in the record-breaking Jersey division.

W. L. Stangel, judge, lauded the show as an outstanding event.

Best Ever Held

"It is the best dairy cattle show ever held in Plainview and one of the best I have seen anywhere," he said.

Plans for obtaining better classifications for milking shorthorns at Texas cattle expositions were discussed today by the Northwest Texas Milking Shorthorns Breeders' association. A committee was appointed to contact the leading show officials.

Miles Milhoan of Wildorado was reelected president and Frank Weil of Plainview was reelected vice-president. Members of the board of directors chosen were John Ewen of Estelline, Morgan Dennis of Dimmitt and Earl Gibson of Bushland.

Motion Is Rejected

The association rejected a motion to change the name of the organization by dropping the term "milking," although members expressed a desire to cooperate fully with breeders of beef shorthorns. Members expressed satisfaction at last year's progress and anticipated great strides in the future.

Milking shorthorns were entered in the Panhandle Plains Dairy show for the second consecutive year and 11 shorthorns have been consigned to tomorrow's auction, the final event of the show.

Exposition A Success

Ed Bishop, show manager, said that this year's was the most successful exposition in interest, financing and number of exhibits since 1930.

Show visitors were entertained today at a rodeo and with a horse show. Rabbit races will feature tomorrow's entertainment program.

"Sybils Dreaming Con," owned by the Tierra Blanca farms of Canyon, was designated grand champion bull in the Jersey division. The bull won the distinction after taking the junior championship. The Tierra-Blanca farms also won the senior

Johnson Lashes At Critics Of Public Safety Division

Dissension Is Seen And Baker Claims He Will Resign

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, April 8. — Dissension over matters of policy led to the resignation of D. B. Baker of Seguin as a member of the public safety commission and a report that J. W. McCormick, famed captain of the Texas rangers, contemplated resigning.

The disagreement apparently centered on the promotion of L. G. Phares to be permanent director of the department of public safety, created less than a year ago to coordinate state law enforcement agencies in a war against crime, but the principals were reluctant to talk. Phares had been acting director.

Mind Is Made Up

Although Governor James V. Allred said he had not received Baker's resignation and would ask him to reconsider, Baker said by telephone that he had made up his mind and would resign "as soon as my stenographer can write it out."

The governor conferred at length with Baker and other members of the commission, George W. Cottingham of Houston and Albert Sidney Johnson of Dallas, chairman, as well as Captain McCormick, in efforts to compose differences.

No Decision Made

After intimating he was seriously contemplating stepping out, Capt. McCormick later was reported to have reconsidered, but left town without making a decision.

One unverified report was that the captain, one of the most famous peace officers in the southwest, was dissatisfied with the routine duties of his position as senior officer of the rangers and might ask a transfer to a field captaincy.

McCormick became senior captain of rangers several months ago on the discharge of Captain Tom Hickman, another of the better known rangers. A legislative committee investigated the Hickman

Witness Says Son Is Insane

North Carolina Mother Takes Stand In Effort To Rescue Son; Life As Youth Is Described To Jury

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, April 8.—The mother of Dwight Beard, 26-year-old escaped convict from North Carolina, on trial for slaying John R. Roberts in a holdup here last December, testified today her son was of unsound mind.

Mrs. R. A. Beard of Lenoir, N. C., wept as she told of having seen her son at various prisons in North Carolina. She said that until today, the last time she saw him was in June, 1935, at the Caledonia, N. C., prison farm. Beard was serving a life term when he escaped.

But He Changed

"Dwight was a normal and good boy through his childhood and high school days," said the tearful mother. "He changed in the fall of 1929 when he came home from North Carolina State college."

Mrs. Beard said that because of his condition, the family had discussed placing the defendant in an institution but had held back on the hopes he would recover. His condition grew worse, the mother testified, and the family knew he was not in his right mind.

The mother said she had an uncle in the North Carolina hospital for insane, that her husband had a sister in the same place and that a niece died in the institution.

On cross examination by District Attorney R. L. Hurt, Mrs. Beard said Dwight's younger brother was normal, that a sister was a school teacher and another a nurse and that his father was normal.

The mother said her son remained at home a year or so after the fall of 1929; then left home. She said the next time she saw him was in prison at Sheville.

"We want to build the convention program on the opportunities offered to West Texas by the Centennial," Nichols explained to Amarillo Chamber of Commerce directors, who have appointed committee chairmen to aid in preparation for the regional gathering.

Hauptmann's Case Kept Alive By Two-State Investigation

TRENTON, N. J., April 8. (AP) — The two-state investigation of Paul H. Wendel's repudiated "confession" of kidnaping the Lindbergh baby, and new criticism of Governor Harold G. Hoffman, kept the case of the dead Bruno Richard Hauptmann alive today.

The Princeton township Republican club adopted a resolution "deploring the acts of Governor Hoffman which have brought notoriety and shame to the established system of justice" in the state, and demanded that pending an impartial investigation of his activities he withdraw from all party affairs.

Says Law Breakers Have Been Making Unfair Attacks

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, April 8.—Albert Sidney Johnson of Dallas, chairman of the public safety commission, lashed back at critics of the state department of public safety tonight in a lengthy statement defending appointment of L. G. Phares as director.

Johnson declared that the commission's policy of making promotions as a reward for efficient service within the organization, and of "disregarding political pressure from the outside" has created enemies for it.

One Member Resigns

The chairman of the public safety commission issued the statement upon his return here from Austin. It came after the resignation of D. B. Baker of Seguin as a member of the commission, and a report that J. W. McCormick, ranger captain, contemplated resigning. The disagreement centered upon the appointment of Phares, whom Johnson warmly defended as an efficient officer.

"We bear the responsibility for the success or failure of the department and we are entitled to select such subordinate officers as we think best qualified to enable us to discharge the responsibility that the legislature and the governor of Texas have placed upon us," Johnson asserted.

Gamblers Are Fought

"Also, the department's policy of vigorously fighting strongly entrenched gambling rings in this state has earned for it the bitter opposition of these law violators.

"We knew we would meet this opposition prior to our inauguration of such policies. However, we knew we had the support of the right thinking, law abiding citizens of Texas and we know we still have this support.

"The forces opposed to us have been for the past few weeks making an unfair attack on Director Phares. It is significant that this attack has originated and has been fostered

Huge Benefits Being Blocked

Million Dollar Payments Are Things Of The Past; Cotton And Wheat Schedules Will Remain About Same

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Secretary Wallace said today million dollar benefit payments to sugar producers were a thing of the past because under the new soil conservation program they will receive only about one-fifth of what they got under the old AAA.

Talking to reporters, he said cotton subsidy payments would be at about the same rate as the old payments while wheat benefits would not be greatly changed.

At the same time he made public another letter to Chairman Smith (D-SC) of the senate agriculture committee in which he corrected a figure given last week as the largest amount paid under one wheat contract. Wallace said the largest amount should have been $78,634 instead of $29,296 as previously reported.

On the house side, Representative Hull (Prog-Wis) introduced a bill to limit payments and grants under the soil conservation act to $1,000 each.

Laughs At Query

Asked if he believed politics were involved in demands for publication of the large benefit payments, Wallace laughed and countered with the question:

"Do you know anyone who doesn't?"

Wallace said he thought it would be a "very good plan" to make public large payments under the soil conservation program "after a considerable lapse of time." He expressed the opinion that publication of the list of large AAA payments would have no effect on farmers cooperation in the soil conservation movement.

Tornado Area Clears Ruins And Rebuilds

Reconstruction Under Way In Cotton Manufacturing Cities Of Tupelo And Gainesville; Many Services Read

Waters Lash South

Several Thousand Persons Are Routed From Homes In Six States; Five Deaths From Drowning Reported

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, April 8.—The mammoth task of erasing scars left by the south's worst tornado season was accelerated today as clearing skies eased the tension of threatened destructive floods in the section.

Rebuilding was under way in the cotton manufacturing cities of Tupelo, Miss., and Gainesville, Ga., where funeral processions moved through debris cleared streets to graveside services for many of their nearly 400 dead.

Floods Add To Peril

In other parts of the storm-harassed south several thousand persons were routed from lowland dwellings in Alabama, Tennessee, the Carolinas, Kentucky and Georgia by flooded streams. At Barlow, Ky., 200 families were driven out by the swollen Ohio river. More than 500 families abandoned their homes on the Tennessee side of the Mississippi river.

Five drownings, two in North Carolina and three in Tennessee, resulted from flood waters which spread over hundreds of thousands of acres.

Many Private Services

Ministers from neighboring communities aided in burying Gainesville's storm victims. Private services were held throughout the day and at noon the few remaining unidentified bodies were placed in separate graves and individual services said.

While the once beautiful north Georgia mill center paused to bury its dead, its citizens started the difficult work of reconstructing its wrecked business area.

Relief Agencies Utilized

The few business houses left standing by the death dealing windstorm were hurriedly repaired for immediate reopening.

More than 2,000 relief workers including CCC, WPA, militiamen and civilian volunteers started clearing wreckage from the residential section, their job of restoring some semblance of order to downtown streets completed.

Gainesville's toll was estimated at $10,000,000 property loss, 188 dead, more than 1,000 injured and more than 700 homes wrecked.

Federal - State Aid Given

A majority of its 214 victims buried, Tupelo turned to rehabilitating itself with the aid of federal and state funds. Its property damage was estimated to equal or exceed that of Gainesville. A thousand were injured, 700 homes destroyed and 3,000 made homeless.

The Red Cross said its workers would remain on the job in both cities until every family is rehabilitated.

Supplies Are Distributed

At both points the Red Cross and WPA workers manned supply depots and kitchens where tons of clothing and food were being distributed.

Health authorities, keeping a close check on sources of water supply, said there was no fear of pestilence.

Harry L. Hopkins, national WPA administrator, today allocated relief funds for the stricken areas. Georgia and Mississippi each received $1,000,000; South Carolina $200,000; and Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee $100,000 apiece.

"Centennial Rangers" Really Not Commissioned, Explained

AUSTIN, April 8. (AP)—Holders of "Texas Centennial ranger" commissions, Governor James V. Allred revealed today, really are not Texas rangers after all.

Governor Allred shocked several thousand holders of special ranger commissions early in his term by cancelling them with one stroke. The fad, somewhat like Kentucky colonels, sprang up again.

But this time, the governor said, the commissions have been issued only to non-residents "and are purely Centennial exposition honors." He noted the commissions did not have "State of Texas" but said "Texas Centennial ranger."

Officers Who Prey On Young Couples Taking Advantage Of Secluded Roads On Moonlight Nights On Her Taboo List

(By The Associated Press)

CHARDON, O., April 8. — Ohio's only woman constable has little use for her "old meanie" fellow officers who prey on young couples taking advantage of secluded roads on moonlight nights.

"Most constables forget the mystic influence of the moon and balmy evenings," says Miss Pauline Hunt, aged 24.

"They seek to force their officiousness on couples who are often went to park, wrapped in the spell of love, on the secluded highways. But not me."

"Of course, if I thought their car was endangering traffic, I might pleasantly tell them to move the car to a less dangerous spot, give them a smile and then depart," she added. "Some of these old constables forget they were ever young."

Miss Hunt won her badge without campaigning. Her name was mentioned at a township caucus, she consented to file, and that was that.

Immediate Cessation Of War In Africa Is Being Demanded By Britain At League Parley

Charges That Italy Is Using Poison Gas In Her Raids To Be Probed; Proof Of Allegations Is Offered

By WADE WERNER
Associated Press Foreign Staff

GENEVA, April 8.—Great Britain pressed for immediate cessation of Italo-Ethiopian hostilities today after the League of Nations formed a sub-committee to investigate charges Italy was using poison gas in contravention of international rules of warfare.

Britain's action was taken inside a meeting of the league's committee of 13 which resumed its efforts today to open the pathway to peace.

Warning Is Given

France, outside the committee, in a memorandum replying to the German peace plan, warned Adolf Hitler against the danger of seeking to modify the existing territorial line-up of Europe.

A forenoon meeting of the committee of 13 had hardly begun before Anthony Eden, foreign secretary of Great Britain, raised the question of charges Italy is using poison gas and in the afternoon session he submitted a list of specific occasions on which Premier Mussolini's troops were alleged to have employed it with devastating effects against Ethiopian men, women and children.

To Study Charges

The committee then decided to appoint a sub-committee of three to study these allegations and also, at the suggestion of Foreign Minister Pierre-Etienne Flandin of France, to look into the matter of alleged Ethiopians' use of dum-dum bullets against the invading Italian troops.

Members meanwhile were agreed that every effort must be made to bring an early cessation of hostilities and real peace negotiations.

The committee instructed its peace negotiator, Salvador De Madariaga of Spain, to see Baron Pompeo

Court Grants Fourth Trial

Improper Questioning Of A Defense Witness Is Basis For Reversal In Case Of Former Olney Mayor

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, April 8—Charles S. Richardson, former mayor of Olney, today won a reversal of his third conviction on a murder charge arising from the shooting of his son, Elga.

The court of criminal appeals granted Richardson his fourth trial because of improper questioning of a defense witness concerning a murder charge and acquittal in 1923.

Given Ten Years

Richardson was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment at his third trial, held in Wilbarger county on a change of venue. At previous trials juries assessed terms of 99 years and life imprisonment. Both were reversed.

The father contended his son was shot accidentally. They scuffled at the father's home while the boy was on a holiday from college New Year's day, 1934.

Noting the plea of accident, the court's opinion stated "there was denial of the fact that appellant shot and killed his son. . ." holding the questioning by the state's attorney was damaging, although the jury was instructed not to consider it, the court said "we need not argue the possibilities of harm to the accused from this."

Hitler Peace Plan Branded As Deceiving

Germany Must Pledge To Keep "Hands Off" Rest Of Europe As Price Of France's Signature To Accords

Rebuttal Offered

Proposals For A Temporary Limitation Of Troops In Rhineland Are Ignored In Reply Sent Britain

BY ROBERT PARKER
Associated Press Foreign Staff

PARIS, April 8. — France demanded that Germany pledge to keep "hands off" the rest of Europe today as the price for France's signature of new peace accords.

A memorandum in answer to Adolf Hitler's peace plan cited the danger of Germany following up her occupation of the Rhineland with action against Austria, Danzig and Memel and claims for colonies.

Sent To Britain

Renunciation of designs of those places must be given, the memorandum said, before "any plan for peace can be constructed." The proposal was sent to Great Britain, to whom Hitler submitted his counter peace proposals.

France submitted her own peace plan in rebuttal to the Reichsfuehrer's, basing it on "collective security" with regional mutual assistance pacts backed up by an international army under the League of Nations.

Hitler's disarmament plan is "deceiving," the French note said, "because there is no plan for effective control."

Proposed Peace Pacts

(Hitler proposed a series of bilateral peace pacts and also a disarmament conference.)

The note asked "why did Germany change her mind about signing a non-aggression pact with Russia," pointing out that Hitler accepted such a pact when Italy, France and Great Britain assembled at Stresa following Germany's rearmament.

France "cannot conceive any settlement of western European security wherein we would have to disregard the safety of the rest of Europe," the memorandum asserted.

No Guarantees Provided

The note said Hitler's peace plan failed to provide guarantees to offset the violation of the Locarno treaty, which "was the most solid foundation for western European peace."

The answer to Hitler's plan implied that Germany wished to return to the League of Nations to use it as a "means of intervention in the affairs of other nations," since Hitler refused collective security by distinguishing between eastern and western European nations.

Hitler's suggestion that France, like Germany, hold a plebiscite to approve accords was rejected since in France "there is no need" to "assure observance of the government's undertakings."

Proposals Are Ignored

The French note ignored Germany's proposals for a temporary limitation of troops and control on both sides of the frontier. France stood on the Locarno treaty's prohibition of occupation, refusing to accept an "accomplished fact."

The memorandum opened with the assertion "nobody threatens the independence of the German peoples, nobody refuses it equality rights, nobody dreams of offending its

Deaths Are Made The Basis Of $40,000 Louisiana Suit

SHREVEPORT, La., April 8. (AP)—The deaths of Mr. and Mrs. Willis B. Hamilton in an explosion on Jan. 6, 1936, were made the basis of a $40,000 damage suit filed in the Caddo parish district court today.

The plaintiffs are Mr. and Mrs. James B. Hamilton of Ouachita parish, parents of Willis B. Hamilton. The Texas Pipe Line company is the defendant.

In the petition circumstances of the tragedy are outlined. The couple, the petition says, were rabbit hunting and were walking along a gas or oil pipe line when gas from a leaky joint exploded.

EASTER IN SANTA FE

IF WE have ever envied any one it is a member of Tech Ko-Shari club who gets to make the annual Easter trip to historic old Santa Fe and the surrounding area. We cannot imagine a more picturesque place to spend those eventful days than in that city of a thousand legends and interests, that was founded by Spaniards whose religious beliefs and mysticism can be traced through the names they gave the countryside.

BUTTON, BUTTON

THERE are probably fifty or sixty billion buttons on clothes in American wardrobes and on American people, men averaging around 450 buttons each, women less than that. A man's business clothes are held on by about 30 buttons. A woman may have as few as none at all.

A good button is not nearly as common as one might think. It should have certain definite characteristics. The back, just behind the holes, should be reinforced or built out a little; the holes should have rounded edges so as not to fray the thread; and the bridge between the holes should not be too thin. These points should be considered by a woman when she buys buttons; unfortunately she cannot tell how the button will launder. Buttons are made of various substances—wood, leather, bone, metal, cloth and "vegetable ivory."

WE HEARD a traffic suggestion that we're going to try the next time we have to do any night driving. It's this. If you want to pass a car ahead of you and see another car approaching, as long as the approaching lights appear to be one light, you'll have time to safely pass the other vehicle. If, however, two lights can be distinguished you haven't enough time and space. We're going to try that and if it works we'll let you know and if it doesn't work you can know that it was a one-eyed car to start with.

GARDENING HINTS

MISS GLADYS SANDERS, assistant home demonstration agent, has sent a few suggestions for the April garden. Strawberries may be put out this month, she says. If the drainage is poor a bed should be used for planting, otherwise a low bed or setting of plants flat is satisfactory. If you do not have asparagus in your garden this year, why not prepare a bed now for next year? The addition of fertilizer a year before planting will put the soil in ideal condition.

Plan Outlined For Training

Capt. Frank Pettit Reveals Plans For Opening Of ROTC Unit At Tech; Course Is To Be Optional

Questions which students and other local citizens have asked each other and Texas Technological college officials since it was learned a Reserve Officers Training corps will be established next fall at the college were answered Wednesday by Capt. Frank A. Pettit, who will command the corps.

The officer has begun preparation for the unit. Arms, field equipment, engineers' equipment and uniforms must be ordered from the United States army department, and class schedules, places of instruction and other plans must be worked out.

Will Be Optional

The unit will be optional. It will be open only to engineering students who can continue the training four years, which often would include only freshmen but not necessarily so. A minimum of 50 students will be required for operation of the unit. Uniforms will be issued free of charge the first two years, after which it is customary for the student to purchase his uniform. He is given $36 toward the purchase, and is given 25 cents daily the last two years. Each student who begins the course must take it two years.

Students will attend a six weeks' camp after their junior years. Thus, since the unit will be made up mostly of freshmen the first year, no camp will be conducted for three years.

Will Be Enlarged

The unit will grow from year to year since after the first year it will be made up of students who have advanced as well as first-year students.

"I will be fairly satisfied with 100 the first year," Capt. Pettit said. Approximately 170 freshmen engineering students are enrolled this year.

One other officer will be appointed to the unit here and a military assistant will be sent here, Capt. Pettit said.

College credit will at least equal that given at present for military training. Three hours a week for the first two years and five for the last two will be required.

Commissions Offered

After a student has completed the four year training he may be recommended by the professor of military science and tactics for a reserve commission in the army.

"Regardless of whether or not one takes his commission, there is a great deal of value in the course," the officer said. It gives any engineer valuable training, he said.

Students may transfer here from other colleges to the rank they were in that college.

Advanced students will help instruct, Capt. Pettit said. Instructors the first year perhaps will be selected from freshmen, he said.

It is much more difficult to begin a unit when the training is optional, he said. "I have enough confidence in the course to feel sure it will succeed after the first two years," he said.

Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president, and an advisory committee already have met once to plan for the unit. Many decisions must be made and classrooms and storage space provided.

Capt. Pettit was graduated from the University of California and United States Military Academy at West Point. He has been in service in Washington. He was appointed commander of the Tech unit early in February by Major General Johnson Hagood, then commander of the eighth corps area.

Success of the unit will depend largely on constructive publicity students may give it when they return to their homes this summer, the officer said.

Records Of Untold Generations Of Primitive People Remain For Trained Eye To Uncover In Valverde Area

The records of untold generations of a primitive people remain for the trained eye to transcribe in a large cave on the Pecos river in Valverde county.

That was the report brought back from the cave yesterday by Dr. W. C. Holden of Texas Technological college and W. G. McMillan, City commissioner, who have conducted a preliminary survey of the site. Their guide was Wiley Puckett, who first saw the cave in 1913.

May Establish Link

"This cave should be worked completely because it may establish a link between early man and more recent peoples," Doctor Holden explained.

He pointed out it was possible that evidences of the Pliestocene man might be found, as in a gypsum cave in Colorado. There it was established that men living there were contemporaries of the musk ox and the reindeer—both of which existed during the ice age.

The cave is in a limestone cliff overlooking the Pecos river. The 10-foot high entrance is 200 feet above the river bed and 60 feet below the top of the cliff. It is "perfectly concealed," said Doctor Holden. In fact, he explained, a person must be within 12 feet of it before he will notice the cavern opening.

About 95 Feet Long

Doctor Holden said the cave was about 95 feet long, with an average width of 32 feet. The average height is 12 feet. "It shows signs of long occupation," Doctor Holden said. "Near the entrance is a heap of pure ashes 10 or 12 feet thick."

He pointed out that such a heap would require many years to accumulate from the small fires built by Indians.

"It will take a class of 20 students at least four weeks to work the cave thoroughly," Doctor Holden said. He explained he hoped to organize such a class. The visit made by the Lubbock men was under the auspices of Texas Tech and the West Texas Museum association.

Yucca culture was the classification given by Doctor Holden to the people who inhabited the cave. Considerable flint pieces, evidently used in shredding yucca, were found. Crude spear points and arrows were found. No pottery was seen.

Matting Is Found

Two types of matting were discovered. Three beds of yucca fiber were found. They were about 7 feet long, 30 inches wide, and about 2 1-2 inches thick. Each bed was about 6 inches thick at one end—indicating the weavers had wanted pillows.

Several projectile shafts of cane were uncovered, as were several sticks used in stretching hides.

One of the largest kitchen middens Doctor Holden has seen is near the cave. It covers two or three acres. There the natives lived and cooked during the warmer months. The heap, he estimated, may be 10 feet thick.

No burials were found. Numerous smaller caves in the vicinity may have been used for burials, as was the practice of the earlier peoples of the section.

No evidence was found that the inhabitants were agricultural, Doctor Holden said.

Second Theater Opens At Ropes

(Special To The Avalanche)

ROPES, April 8.—Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Blankenship, who were among the first settlers in Hockley county and whose financing made possible Ropesville's first motion picture show in 1934, tonight saw the community's second theater—a talking show—opened.

Their first venture, the Wallace theater, was erected by the Blankenships, who came to the county in 1901, for their son Wallace Blankenship, now of Levelland. The show was darkened in 1926 and the building burned last year. Now, on the same site, a new theater has been constructed by the Blankenships for their daughter, Mrs. Jimmie Thornhill, and her husband.

The theater, a credit to the town, has a seating capacity of 300.

Tanning Demonstration Will Be Staged Thursday Morning

Farmers interested in home tanned leather work are invited to a demonstration this morning at the Shallowater school where Glen Blackmon and his vocational agriculture boys plan to work with J. K. Thornton, College Station, C. C. Jobson, county agent, said yesterday.

The boys are conducting a tanning demonstration and have about 80 pounds of leather in process. Mr. Thornton is to show them how to change it from one vat to another and how to work it in preparation for the final stages. The demonstration began March 26.

"We will make up some leather, already tanned, into harness of various kinds," said the demonstrator, who has charge of the work in the state for the extension service. "We will also continue the tanning of the leather underway. Any interested farmer may attend."

This alloyed oil goes beyond any oil-film protection

Don't laugh . . . Somewhat as a beauty expert youthifies complexions, Conoco Germ Processed oil can do a youthifying job inside your engine.

Because it's alloyed—under patents!—this different oil really changes the character of your engine's working surfaces. The cylinders, pistons, valve gear, and any bearings of any type can actually surface themselves with this alloyed oil. It doesn't merely go ON, like an everyday oil film. It goes IN. Attaches itself. Combines. Makes a slippy, durable skin of oil-filled metal, entirely in addition to the extra toughness and heat-resistance of the Germ Processed oil-film.

Protection in duplicate! You can count it up. And you can't race it away or burn it away, or cake it into carbon, on the most tempting days ahead of you. In an old or new car you can change your whole idea of a good day's run, by changing to Conoco Germ Processed oil—The ALLOYED Oil. Continental Oil Company.

Italians Give Out Warning

Il Duce's Newspaper Claims That Several Provinces Are Never To Be Given Back To Ethiopian Rulers

MILAN, April 8. (AP) — Premier Mussolini's personal newspaper delivered a warning today to the League of Nations conciliation committee, meeting in Geneva, not to expect Italy to give the Gojjam, Galla, Tigre and Danakilia provinces back to Ethiopia.

The editorial in the Popolo D'Italia, coinciding with the peace session of the league's committee of 13 and written in Il Duce's own style, emphasized four principal points:

Defaulted Pledge

1. Emperor Haile Selassie, by ordering his imperial bodyguard to begin an attack near Lake Ashangi last week which resulted in victory for the Fascist northern army, defaulted his pledge of preliminary discussions looking to a peaceful solution of the war.

2. "The Gojjam and Galla populations, like those of Tigre and Danakilia, are in open revolt against the Addis Ababa empire. Italy will not permit these populations, after this break, to be brought under that tyranny again."

3. The Ethiopian government broke its solemn Geneva pledge to abolish slavery, which the editorial said had now been abolished "by the aggressor, Italy."

Openly Condemned

4. "The government of the masses can be that of the League of Nations as long as is wished, but that body is responsible for a state of barbarism openly condemned by English personages who are disgusted and are leaving Ethiopia."

The editorial concluded with an assertion, directed to Geneva, that it was Italy "which in that barbarous land opened roads, schools, hospitals and leprosy sanatoriums, and assured order, justice and well being."

The newspaper asked whether the league would defend barbarism, leprosy and slavery.

Safety Drive Is Being Conducted

Distribution of thousands of copies of the well known Readers Digest article, "And Sudden Death", among Lubbock residents has been begun by the Life Underwriters association of Lubbock.

The horrifyingly frank story by J. C. Furnas has been dramatically prepared in color and the front and back covers carry a challenging pictorial message to the careless driver.

Dude Buster, president of the Lubbock association, said today that similar associations in 297 principal cities of the United States, comprising the National Association of Life Underwriters, are deeply concerned over the appalling death and injury list which has been growing so shockingly during recent years. Pursuing their policy of lending their force to all good citizenship efforts, they have undertaken to distribute hundreds of thousands of these pamphlets throughout the United States.

Committee Set Up

Life underwriter "Save-A-Life" committee, of which C. A. Sanford is chairman, and Earl Hunt and S. R. Steele are members, has been set up by the organized underwriters of Lubbock, all of whom are working toward the reduction of the terrific traffic death toll of the nation.

The campaign which will include the distribution of safety emblems for automobiles and safety literature and promotional work among other civic organizations and the school children of Lubbock has the endorsement of practically all Lubbock City officials.

Citizens of Lubbock are invited to cooperate with the Underwriters in their worthy effort, and copies of the "And Sudden Death" pamphlet may be obtained from any member of the local association.

Destinies Of Santa Fe Are Placed In Hands Of Demos

SANTA FE, N. M., April 8. (AP)—Historic old Santa Fe, focal point of New Mexico politics, placed its municipal destinies of the next two years almost completely in the hands of the Democratic party today.

Complete unofficial returns from yesterday's balloting gave the office of mayor and three of the four council seats to that party.

Because of the voting the election appeared to have failed to fortell the political trend of the state as had been anticipated, since less than 200 votes separated Republican and Democratic candidates for each office.

WITHDRAWS OPINION

AUSTIN, April 8. (AP)—The Supreme court withdrew a previous opinion and held today that the Wichita State Bank and Trust company was not liable for $63,054.65 which an employe of the Quanah, Acme & Pacific railway misappropriated.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go
The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.
Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

Fatal Mishap Is Reenacted

Judge Holds Moonlight Court Session On Highway Seeking First Hand Information On Auto Accident

LAKE CHARLES, La., April 8. (AP) An automobile accident, fatal to Orrin Aultman of New Orleans at 1:30 a. m. on Jan. 20, 1935, was reenacted early today in a moonlight court session on the Old Spanish trail at the exact hour and site with Judge Thomas F. Porter, presiding over a damage suit case, as one of the actors.

Staging of the circumstances of the accident was ordered by the court in order to obtain first hand information on existing conditions at the time of the accident.

No Testimony Taken

No testimony was taken at the scene, but Judge Porter drove a car of the make which Aultman used when his machine crashed with a truck belonging to the Union Transfer company of Beaumont, Texas.

A truck was parked across the highway in what was claimed to be the position of the Union City truck and Judge Porter took the wheel of the "Aultman" car and followed the course outlined in the suit.

A moonlight night was chosen for the judge to carry out the experiment, as it had been stated that the moon was shining on the night of the accident.

Court Is Adjourned

Judge Porter slid the car up to the truck, stopped and then conferred with court attaches and counsel for both sides and adjourned his after-midnight session of roadside court until tomorrow when further testimony will be taken in the court room.

Mrs. Ruth Aultman, widow of the crash victim, is suing the Beaumont company for $12,500 damages. In a previous trial of the suit Judge Porter denied the plaintiff judgment, but granted a motion for a new trial.

Business Houses Reveal Increase

Business establishments in his territory, which covers three West Texas congressional districts and the state of New Mexico, show a 10 per cent increase in numbers, H. P. Hurst, El Paso, area supervisor for the bureau of the census, said here yesterday afternoon. He was in Lubbock conferring with W. E. Inmon, supervisor for the 19th congressional district.

"Andrews county, in this district, has doubled its number of business establishments," he said. "Gaines county has done mighty well. Some of the other counties also have done well; there are a few that have shown a decrease, but in the counties where there is a boom on, there is a good increase we find."

Mr. Hurst's territory includes the 19th, 18th and 16th Texas congressional districts. New Mexico has two districts for the census, although only one congressional district.

Mr. Hurst expects some figures on the state some time after the first of July. However, county and district totals on the number of establishments will come later.

Canada's 1934 consumption of biscuits was 8.60 pounds per capita, as compared to 7.81 pounds per capita in 1933.

Thomas Manville Replaces Guards With Dogs For They Don't Imbibe

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., April 8. (AP)—Thomas F. Manville, jr., heir to an asbestos fortune, replaced seven armed guards on his palatial Long Island sound estate today with six police dogs, the better to watch out for kidnapers.

The dogs, Manville said, have two advantages, dogs don't drink liquor and are easily awakened.

Two of the animals were detailed to share Manville's bedroom and accompany him on his jaunts within the estate's bullet-proof fence. The others have roving commissions.

Manville expressed fear of an abduction plot after police raided a gang arsenal last month in New York City and arrested seven men and three women.

Low Bidders For Projects Named

FORT WORTH, April 8. (AP)—Low bidders for $307,124 in construction of the Wichita Falls Junior college were approved at the state offices of the Public Works administration here Tuesday. The bidders were Thomas Bate and Sons, general contract, $269,800; Charles D. Hughes, plumbing and heating, $29,334, and Jack Hurst, electrical, $7,990.

Four low bidders also were approved in connection with the power house of the Red Bluff dam near Pecos; S. Morgan Smith co., $41,770; General Electric co., $54,495; Chisholm-Moore Hoist corp., $1,157, and R. E. McKee, $35,900.

Morris-Quillin was approved as low bidder, $14,895, on the Grand Prairie school. Approval was given also to low bidders on the Marfa gas system, Knox City school and Munday school.

Plans and specifications for the A. and M. Hospital likewise were approved.

Easter Holidays At Texas Tech To Be Started Today

Exodus of Texas Technological college students for Easter holidays at their homes will begin as they complete their classes for today. The holidays officially begin at 6 p. m. today and end at 8 a. m. Tuesday.

Students were given Friday in addition to Saturday and Monday after they circulated a petition and sent to it to Dr. Bradford Knapp, Tech president, with 300 signatures attached.

Amarilloans Pay Visit To Lubbock

The Abernathy "boy who made good" in Amarillo and Dalhart came down to Lubbock yesterday to address the Rotary club at an inter-city meeting and caused more excitement than the local group has had in many a day. He was John L. McCarty, editor of the Amarillo News, who also once lived at Idalou as well as Abernathy.

Some 16 Amarillo men, mostly Rotarians, but two from other clubs, visited with the local group at the Hotel Lubbock. The visitors furnished the program.

In Covered Wagon

"We're getting a chance to see what our country used to look like, on this trip," he said by way of introduction. His first visit to Lubbock, he explained, was "in a covered wagon back in 1908 when you used to have a lot of wagon yards here."

"Lubbock is not going to be as much of a city as Amarillo until you get a football team that can beat the Amarillo Golden Sandstorms," he said, as he placed his hand on the back of Rotarian Weldon Bailey Chapman's chair. The crowd laughed and Mr. McCarty, thinking the man in front was P. W. Cawthon, Texas Tech coach, began to explain. It was then that he discovered the Tech mentor was seated some distance away and that his victim was the high school coach.

Others Are Heard

Frank Butler, Amarillo banker, spoke briefly. Jim Farwell, also a banker, was Amarillo program chairman and was introduced by Rev. L. N. Lipscomb, local chairman and an old time friend. He introduced his visiting delegation.

David McPherson, a well known Amarillo soloist, sang two numbers. Mary Roberts Warner was the accompanist.

During the time they visited here, the Amarillo party met a large number of their friends.

Luckies—a light smoke
OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO
—"IT'S TOASTED"

MOISTURE CONTROL

The most important single attribute of cigarettes, other than the tobacco itself, is moisture content. To its influence we owe the ability to make uniform cigarettes, to control combustion, and to govern quality of smoke. Excessive moisture interferes with proper combustion, and makes cigarette smoke unpalatable. Insufficient moisture permits dry, dusty cigarette smoke to impinge upon the delicate mucous membrane of the smoker.

LUCKIES ARE LESS ACID!
Recent chemical tests show* that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

List Of Rich Men Is Bared

Prospects From Whom Crusaders Hoped To Raise Money Are Revealed; Many Prominent Names Are Included

WASHINGTON, April 8. (AP) — A list of wealthy and prominent men from whom the Crusaders hoped to raise money to carry on their anti-New Deal activities was made public today by the senate lobby committee.

It included Bernard Baruch, John W. Davis, Ogden Mills and a dozen other leading industrialists and lawyers all of whom Senator Gibson asked Fred G. Clark, national commander of the Crusaders, to identify.

Telegram Is Read

Clark read a telegram sent March 11, 1935 to these prospects which said: "Earnestly desire your personal reaction to Crusaders broadcast over Columbia chain tonight."

Other names included Frank Kent, writer for the Baltimore Sun; Mark Sullivan, author and columnist; Wallace Alexander, Californian; Joseph P. Warburg, New York banker; Alfred P. Sloan, jr., of General Motors, and William L. Clayton, of Houston, Texas.

"Somebody got you up a good list," Gibson commented.

"Didn't get us much money," Clark replied.

"We'll go into that later," Gibson said.

Conversion Described

Conversion of the Crusaders from an anti-prohibition organization to a group opposed to many New Deal activities was described.

Clark testified that late in 1933, after repeal of prohibition, a "majority of the leaders" felt there were "fifty other prohibitions" that had to be eliminated.

"Suggestions" came in by the thousands," Clark testified, and agreed attacks had been directed against the utilities holding company bill, the banking bill of 1935, and the Tennessee valley authority.

The Crusaders, he testified, collected about $120,000 a year which, he observed, was "not very much."

"Who was the Supreme court of wisdom in this organization?" Senator Gibson (R-Vt.) asked.

"There may not have been any," Clark said, but added with a grin: "I decide what we are going to talk about."

Warning On Renditions Of Property Is Made Wednesday

Reminder that property owners who own and can declare homesteads at a valuation of not more than $3,000, entitling them to pay no state taxes, must render such property with county tax officials was given Wednesday.

Unless a rendition sheet is signed on or before April 30, the property will be placed on regular unrendered rolls and the homesteader cannot be exempted from state taxes, said Hurley Carpenter, tax assessor-collector.

Carpenter said that several thousand persons had either been contacted by members of the tax office staff or had rendered their property at the office in the courthouse, but that many had not been contacted for various reasons.

"Those whose homesteads can be valued at not more than $3,000 should be certain they have signed a rendition sheet before May 1," Carpenter declared.

STUDENTS 'BETTER'

CHICAGO (AP)—Don't feel sorry for the poor college boy who has to work his way through school. At the University of Chicago it has been discovered that he's a better student than the one who gets a monthly check from dad, say Robert Woellner of the board of vocational guidance and placement, and John Stalnaker of the board of examiners.

How Cardui Helps Month After Month

Where there have been severe pains every month, from functional disturbances resulting from poor nourishment, Cardui has helped thousands of women to obtain relief. Their confidence in Cardui makes them eager to recommend it to other women needing such a medicine.

"I suffered a great deal with pain in my side and a weakness in my back," writes Mrs. Walter Page, of Evansville, Ind. "This made me so nervous I couldn't rest. Each month I would suffer all over and would have to go to bed. One of my neighbors told me how Cardui helped her, so I took it and it helped me. After taking eight bottles, I was much better. I surely can recommend Cardui for weakness and pain."

Of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician. Adv.

Tax Plans In Shifting Wind

House Ways And Means Demos Indicate They Will Ignore Treasury Pleas And Assist Debt-Laden Corporations

WASHINGTON, April 8. (AP) — Buckling to the task of actually writing the new tax bill, Democrats of the house ways and means committee indicated tonight they would ignore treasury pleas and give corporations saddled with debt special treatment to ease their load.

Emerging from a meeting from which Republicans were barred, Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said he thought the committee would "aim" in the direction of a 22 1-2 per cent tax on the portion of corporate income which must be used to meet standing obligations.

Restrictions Asked

Repeatedly at the open hearings on the administration's $799,000,000 revenue program, treasury officials asserted that cases of special treatment should be restricted to a minimum so as not to pare down the estimated yield and heighten the administrative difficulties of the plan.

Doughton, saying he expected to bring a completed bill before the house next week, conceded such a flat rate provision might cut into the estimated revenues, but added:

Load-Lessening Favored

"If we can help by lessening the load a little and letting these corporations get on their feet, we will get more revenue from them in the future."

(As tentatively outlined, the tax program in its major aspects would seek to raise $591,000,000 from a corporation tax graduated according to percentages of income held in reserve, $100,000,000 from a "windfall" tax on processors to recapture unpaid, or refunded, processing taxes, $83,000,000 from temporary retention of capital stock and excess profits taxes, and $25,000,000 from a levy on corporation dividends to foreigners.)

Women Decide It's No Use To Try And Help The Men With Problems

RIFLE, Colo., April 8. (AP)—Seven unsuccessful candidates of the women's party in the municipal elections here looked over the results today and decided that there's no use trying to help the men with their problems.

Running on a platform of "let us handle the civic work and give the men more time for their business," the women went down to defeat yesterday.

The males, led by Frank Rogers, a garageman who defeated Mrs. Etta C. Davidson, 328-168, in the race for mayor, thus defended their traditional honor in the second state of the union to adopt woman suffrage.

One woman, not a candidate but who followed the campaign closely, said "a certain faction" of women who worked for the men brought defeat to the feminine ticket.

Joe Louis Assured Of Rich European Tour--When He Wins Heavyweight Title

Only Big Max And Braddock Stand In Way

No. 1 Sports Promoter From Europe "Signs" Brown Boxer For Long Trip If Schmeling, Braddock Beaten

By EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 8.—A tour of 11 European countries is promised Joe Louis if he hurdles Max Schmeling in June and then goes on to win the world's heavyweight championship from James J. Braddock.

Jeff Dickson, former Jackson, Miss., boy, who went to Paris and became Europe's No. 1 sports promoter, came to New York today and outlined a proposition which Mike Jacobs o.k'd immediately on the condition that Joe's summer and fall campaign carries him to the heavyweight throne room.

Already Booked

Starting in October, Dickson wants Louis to appear in exhibitions in England, France, Portugal, Spain, Denmark, Switzerland, Sweden, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Austria and Poland.

The tour already is booked. Jacobs has the consent of Louis and his managers. All that remains to be done is for the "brown bomber" to add Schmeling and Braddock to his mounting list of ring victims.

Another reason for Dickson's visit to this country is to try to lure Max Baer out of retirement.

"If Max really is serious about a comeback, I'll accommodate him," said the promoter.

Ed Dudley's Best Shot Was 'Accidental' 40-Yard Putt

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8. (AP)—The greatest shot ever made by Ed Dudley, professional at the Augusta National golf course, was an accident—but it won a title for him.

"I was playing in the final round of an open event last summer at Cleveland," he recounts. "Playing the last hole, a long par 5, I was one shot back of Bill Burke. Bill had finished with 286. My second on this hole was a full brassie of more than 245 yards. My ball just got the corner of the green, fully 40 yards from the hole.

"A putt for an eagle 3 was an almost impossible shot, so I played for a safe birdie 4. Much to my surprise the ball rolled into the cup for an eagle 3 and the title."

Track Meet Is Booked Friday

Class A Teams Of District 1 To Compete In Invitational Friday Afternoon; Time Is Changed From Friday Night

The District 1, Class A track and field meet, an invitation affair sponsored by Lubbock High school, is to be conducted Friday afternoon instead of Friday night, Coach Weldon Chapman announced yesterday.

Definite entries have been received from Plainview and Amarillo, and Coach Chapman said he knew no reason why Pampa and Borger should not be present. While no definite word of entry had been received from the latter schools up to last night, Chapman said the meet would go on anyway, even with three teams. But he indicated he expected Pampa and Borger to be here.

The events, complete list of track and field games, will start at 2:30 o'clock. The Westerners, as a result of their previous showing, will be slight favorites, but competition is expected from all the other teams involved.

The track has been improved, and should be fast and ready for the meet.

District Meet Is Booked For April 17-18 In Lubbock

Berl Huffman, Texas Tech coach and athletic director of District 3 in the Texas Interscholastic league, has announced that preliminaries in the district track and field meet will begin Friday afternoon, April 17, and that finals are scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

In addition to track and field, other athletic events included in the interscholastic league list will be conducted. Preliminaries in volleyball, tennis and golf are on the program for Friday, starting at 2 o'clock. Finals in all divisions will start at 2 o'clock Saturday.

Coach Huffman urges that eligible schools hurry their entries so that more definite plans can be arranged. A full staff of assistants, clerks, marshals, etc., will be announced by Huffman soon. There will be no admission charge on Friday, but spectators will be taxed a small ticket charge for the final events, Huffman said.

Otis Clingman Gives Haddock Rassle Lesson

Detroit Roughster Picks The Wrong Man To Try Toughing It Out With; Clingman Is Master In 3-Fall Match

Wrestlers may come and wrestlers may go, but when Otis Clingman comes home, he's the wrestler so far as West Texas fandom is concerned.

Dale Haddock, who is a better rassle-man than a lot of folks give him credit for being, stood in the way of Clingman's homecoming last night. He stood for so long—then he sat down, rather forcefully. Then he was lying down, much against his will, spreadeagled to the canvas, and Clingman was perched on top. Twice this happened, which was sufficient.

Haddock got tough with the wrong guy.

Haddock's long suit is getting tough, although he can wrestle a pretty fair match without doing so. He and Clingman were starting out on a real wrestling match last night. They stuck to the rules for a spell, and the patrons settled down to see one of those wrestling ring rarities — a man-to-man grapple match. Then Haddock got tough. He got tough so suddenly that he won the first fall, although the patrons were many, and said so, who didn't believe Clingman was reclining on his shoulder blades when Referee Hy Sharman counted him out.

Otis Gets Enough

They came back for the second fall. Haddock got tough again. He shouldn't have done that, because Clingman had had just about enough of this hair-pulling, choking and fist-poking.

And when Clingman, who is just about the second best middleweight in the grappling profession, here and elsewhere, gets enough of something, you can bet your last kopek that things are going to wind up kind of sudden like, in favor of Clingman.

That's the way it was. For 18 minutes of the first fall, the customers enjoyed a more or less nice match, but packed with speed, science and smart thinking, which is unusual for a wrestling match. Clingman, however, is a thinker. But Haddock loosed such a barrage of choking holds, upper cuts, etc., that Clingman, who started out matching wits with a clean guy, was taken somewhat by surprise. While he was gasping and rubbing his sorely prodded eyeballs, Haddock lifted him high in a twisting crotch-hold, slammed Otis' broad back to the canvas twice, bore Clingman down with a flying scissors for what the referee judged was a fall. The referee is supposed to be right.

Haddock Still Game

They jeered Haddock more than somewhat when they came back for the second fall. But Haddock, who, as we say, is nobody's fool, took it like he takes other punishment, and lit right into Clingman. He grabbed a headlock, choking and eye-gouging. Then he bit Clingman on the arm. He bit the wrong potato, Clingman went to work, chased Haddock to the ropes, Dale got inside and fouled Otis unmercifully. Referee Sharman finally separated them, attempted to raise Clingman's arm in victory on a foul. Clingman refused, and the fireworks began. Flying tackles as only Clingman can apply them reduced the astonished Haddock to a puffy shadow of his former confident self. He went down and stayed down, after 5 minutes, 15 seconds of taking and giving.

Referee Loses Pants

The third fall lasted 15 seconds less than the second. They went at it ruggedly and fast. There were drop-kicks by Clingman, neat rebuttals by the non-law abiding Haddock.

When Referee Sharman tried to break Haddock away from a chokehold, it cost him a pair of trousers, or maybe Sharman will sue Haddock. The Detroit lad grabbed a Sharman trouser leg, ripped it loose, and it was a good thing Sharman had on a pair of wrestling trunks. With the severed trouser leg, Haddock sought to garrote Clingman. This business was soon stopped, and Clingman soon had smothered Haddock for the fall after another flying scissors went awry.

The supporting card was not bad, nor especially good. The newcomer, waxed-mustachioed, blue-eyed Rudolph von Zehrfeltz, the Teutonic Terror, and Ray Meyers, the Kentucky veteran, waged a 30-minute draw for the semi-final, but they might have been going till yet, at the rate they were going last night, without having done 30 minutes of wrestling. The German is a pretty tough customer. He likes to play the ropes, and he did that last night, for the better part of 30 minutes, but it wasn't a bad fight.

Bulldog Jackson and Pat Garrison substituted for Ernie Arthur and Balk Estes in the curtain raiser and put on a better battle than the originally scheduled pair probably could have mustered in a main event. Jackson, the cantankerous sourdough from Alaska, didn't wrestle, but he didn't have to in order to beat Garrison, who never could wrestle and who isn't improving fast. The hair-pulling, eye-gouging fest lasted 17 minutes.

Sid Thrash Is New Member Of Hole-In-1 Club

Sid Thrash, popular first flight golfer of Lubbock Country club, has pounded on the door of the National Hole-In-One club. His bid for membership in that exclusive order has been signaled, signed and counter-signed.

The Lubbock golfing heavyweight duplicated Postmaster Amos Howard's March feat by sinking his tee shot on the No. 3 hole at the Country club, and thus became the second Country club member and the third golfer in Lubbock to score an ace this year. Panny Farmer, Texas Tech champion, sank his tee shot at Meadowbrook Golf club five days before Howard made his.

An Ill Wind, Etc.

Thrash used a five-iron from the tee on the 184-yard hole, the ball taking out with a scream, rolling to the green, and into the cup between the prongs of the marker-sweep.

And Thrash did it under adverse circumstances. It happened last Sunday, as the high winds and sandstorm were gathering speed and dust. He was playing in a foursome which included Cliff Dean, club president; Clinton Bussey and Glen D. Smith.

The foursome finished the first nine holes, Sid winding up with a 43, largest score of the group, including his ace. Smith led the quartet with a 39, Bussey shot a 41 and Dean a 42, on the par 36 layout. Considering the high wind and sandstorm, the scores were "satisfactory."

Yank Netters Confident Of Play Outcome

Principals In Davis Cup Set-Up Same As In 1935 Melee; Grant And Budge Expect To Repeat Easy Wins

By HARRELL E. LEE
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOUSTON, April 8. — The principals in the Davis Cup singles matches between the United States and Mexico, starting here Friday, will be almost the same as those in the 1935 tie—and the Yankee netters will tell you the result will be the same.

Bryan (Bitsy) Grant of Atlanta and red-headed Donald Budge of Oakland, Calif., won enough matches between them to clinch the 1935 tilt. Their opponents were Esteban Reyes and Daniel Hernandez, the same pair which will oppose them here.

Forecast Same Medicine

The American youths, victors in straight sets last year, unhesitatingly predict the same dose for the invaders this year. Grant proved he was in top form by defeating Wilmer Allison, the National champion, in the finals of the River Oaks tournament yesterday.

The California redhead looked like the Budge of 1935 in the early tournaments on the West Coast.

Both Have Incentive

Chances are that both Budge and Grant will play at top speed because they are thinking of the future. The spectacular 20-year-old Californian would like to pass the aging Allison in the national rankings for 1936. Grant hopes to convince the doubters that he is qualified to represent his country in the more important Davis Cup matches later in the year.

Long a "giant killer," he is convincing the experts more and more that he is one of the nation's top-ranking singles stars.

Only One Match Lost

Mexico won but one of its matches with the Yankee team in 1935. Reyes defeated Gene Mako of Los Angeles when the blond youth suffered a cramp and defaulted in the fifth set of their encounter.

A cold rain prevented the netters from taking the courts for practice sessions today. This was a blow to the Mexicans, as they did not arrive here until Monday and needed as many workouts as possible.

Budge To Work Out

Grant planned to rest until Friday, regardless of the weather. Budge, who has had no singles work on the clay courts here, probably will take a short workout tomorrow.

Allison and John Van Ryn, the veteran doubles combine, will oppose Marco Mestre and Flavio Martinez in the doubles. Although the United States veterans were beaten in straight sets by Budge and Mako in the River Oaks finals, they are top heavy favorites to turn back the Mexicans.

Maj. Bob Neyland Is Happy Warrior In Gridiron Camp

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Maj. Bob Neyland is a happy man today.

It's the outfit he's wearing—sweatshirt and football pants—and the location, the University of Tennessee campus.

The popular coach, who left a high United States army post to take up football reins again at the Volunteer institution, is putting a small squad of gridders through spring practice drills.

Neyland is not looking for the Vols to go anywhere particularly in the conference race next fall, but the fans are. They have that much confidence in the man who guided a little publicized team to top heights in football.

Featuring the spring practice session are shifts. Major Neyland is making them right and left. Joe Black Hayes has been moved from guard to tackle. Joe Dougherty and Bob Fulton were yanked from the line and placed in the backfield.

Pretty Pupil

'Tis a pleasure for Ted Lyons, of the Chicago White Sox pitching staff, to teach the rudiments of his trade to pretty June Travis—especially since the movie star is the daughter of Harry Grabiner, vice-president of the club. Ted, veteran of the Sox staff, is showing June how to throw a hook.

EXHIBITION RESULTS

The Giants made 14 hits off Johnny Allen and Dennis Galehouse.

DODGERS 10; SENATORS 2

WASHINGTON, April 8. (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers trounced Washington's Senators, 10-2, in an exhibition game today, making 14 hits off Buck Newsom and Earl Whitehill. YANKEES 10; TRIPLETS 6

HIGH POINT, N. C., April 8. (AP) — The New York Yankees just about walked off with a 10 to 6 decision over their Binghamton farmhands of the New York-Pennsylvania league today.

Two of the Yankee hits were home runs by Tony Lazzeri and Ben Chapman.

OKLAHOMA CITY 6; CARDS 1

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 8. (AP)—Jack Brillheart held the St. Louis Cardinals to eight hits as Oklahoma City of the Texas league defeated the major leaguers today, 6 to 1.

BROWNS 14; NASHVILLE 7

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 8. (AP)—Aided by two 5-run innings, the St. Louis Browns smothered Nashville of the Southern Association in an exhibition baseball game today, 14 to 7. Clift and Carey of the Browns worked a double steal to score a run in the eighth.

Pat Malone May 'Make It Up' To Marse Joe; Holdouts Take Second Place In 1936 Season

Being A Pal May Reap Harvest For Yankee Boss; Clubs Can Mark Up $200,000 In Black Ink On Holdouts

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 8.—Down the sports trail:

Faith rewarded. Manager Joe McCarthy, a man who never forgets a baseball pal and who seldom gets much in return for it, may reap a big harvest for his faith in Pat Malone, once one of the game's most notorious "bad boys." Close associates told Joe he couldn't settle Malone and that, anyway, the pitcher was all washed up. Joe vetoed them, hired him. Down to ideal weight and working harder than ever, Pat has been showing up splendidly this spring. Tonsilitis has laid him low for the present, but experts with the club expect him to have a great year. Pat won 60 and lost 32 in three seasons under Joe with the Cubs.

LEIBER AND HERMAN

Holdouts. Major league holdouts finished bad seconds in 1936. Except for Hank Leiber of the Giants and possibly Babe Herman of the Reds, they lost by an estimated margin of around $200,000 on the basis of their original demands. Dizzy Dean and Hank Greenberg, two most noted holdouts, shouted for $40,000 each and got about that much together. It is reported that even Elmer Dean, star peanut vendor down Houston way, was tickled to line up after a bad holdout campaign.

The only fellow to make good as a holdout was an outfielder named Ruth. He finished second at the finish.

YANKEE CASUALTIES

Tape and gauze. The Yankees and Athletics won the spring tape and gauze championship. Connie Mack has had a long list of cripples all spring, but many of them had such strange names no one thought much of it except Connie. The Yankees have three important casualties in Joe Di Maggio, sore instep; Frank Crosetti, busted nose, and Malone with his tonsilitis. Did someone say the Yanks aren't "cracked up?"

FUTURE OLYMPICS

Down under. Australia is sending out feelers on the prospect of landing the 1940 or '44 Olympic games but Japan has the inside track. Fortunately for this country the games aren't located in either place this year. The American Olympic fund then could be really "down under."

VAN WIE MISSING

Missing. Virginia Van Wie, three times-in-a-row national women's golf champion, has shattered all known precedent for definite retirement so far. Usually, when a sports champion retires, he or she hangs around the big show with that lonely look. Not "Ginny." You seldom see her any more, she plays only for the fun of it. Wedding bells?

LITTLE AND LOUIS

Wallop. Two of the greatest wallops in sport are long and short. They belong to Golfer Lawson Little and Fighter Joe Louis. Joe, with his six inch pile-driving punch is cashing in fast. Lawson, who frequently smashes the white pellet for a 300-yard drive, is out to do likewise now. He won't get nearly as much.

Thought. Wonder what would happen in some major baseball teams if Mussolini issued a world-wide call to the Italian colors? Di Maggio, Lazzeri et al, farewell!

Maneuvers In Texas Mapped

More Than 3,000 Troopers Of Garrisons In This State Will Take Part In Activity Late This Month

EL PASO, April 8. (AP)—More than 3,000 U. S. troopers from Texas border garrisons between El Paso and Brownsville will be assembled at Marfa late this month in the first general cavalry maneuvers in the state since 1927.

A two weeks course in which war problems will be worked out in the rough terrain of the Big Bend country has been arranged to test the mobility of the mounted and motorized units of the federal forces. Marfa will be the railroad connection of the field army with the outside world during maneuvers.

Hawkins In Command

Brig. Gen. Hamilton S. Hawkins, first cavalry division commander, will direct operations from a field station.

Approximately 2,000 officers and enlisted men will leave El Paso between April 13 and April 23 for Marfa, where the war games are scheduled to begin April 27. The 82nd field artillery, including 32 officers and 600 enlisted men, will start the 200-mile march to Marfa from El Paso April 13. The horse-drawn artillery will move 20 miles per day on an easy marching schedule.

Make Trek In Day

The second cavalry brigade, including 62 officers and 1,035 enlisted men, will leave El Paso April 16 for Marfa, while the motorized units, including General Hawkins' headquarters troop, will make the trek in one day, leaving here April 23.

Cavalry units from Fort Brown, Brownsville; Fort Ringgold, Rio Grande City; the eighth engineers, Fort McIntosh, Laredo, and another cavalry unit from Fort Clark, Bracketville, will join Fort Bliss troops in time for opening of the games.

Donnell Is Winner

C. E. Donnell with "Waterloo King, Second" took first place in the aged bull class of the milking shorthorn division.

W. H. Wilterding of Muleshoe placed first with his entry in the one to two year old class while Donnell also won the class for bulls calved between January and June, 1935.

Judging was completed in the dairy products class. Winners included A. B. Harper, Hockley county, cheese production; Mrs. Harris Brantley, Lubbock, American cheese; Mrs. P. M. Roberson, Lubbock, cottage cheese; Lois Morman, Randall county, butter; J. C. Cleveland, Hale county, milk.

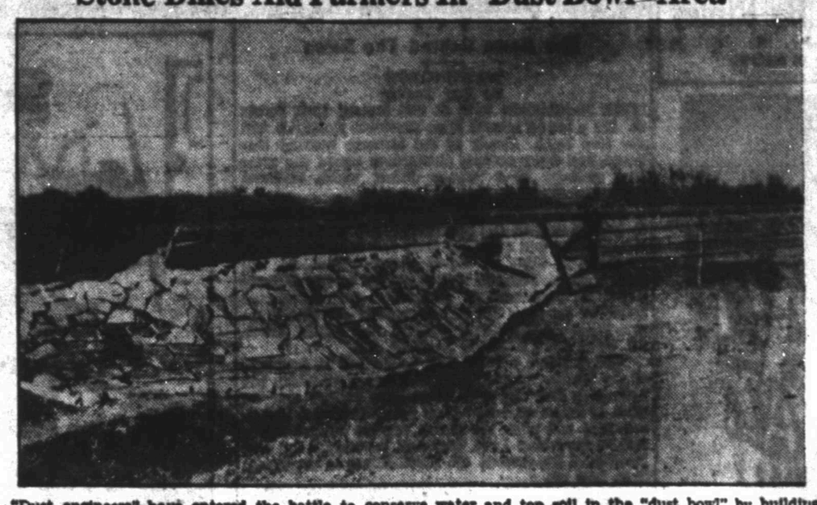

Results Announced

In the commercial dairy products department, Carl Parrish, Childress, placed first in the butter division; Mrs. J. E. Abernathy, Dickens county, market cream; R. A. Pitman, Brownfield, milk; Mrs. T. J. Hart, Hale county, sour cream.

W. L. Stangel, director of livestock exhibits at the central Centennial exposition at Dallas, discussed with dairymen plans to maintain "view herds of prize West Texas cattle at the Dallas celebration. Dairymen promised hearty cooperation. Stangel was cattle judge at the show for the second consecutive year.

D. T. Simmons, Fort Worth, secretary of the Texas Jersey Cattle club, said outstanding plains Jerseys would be shown at the exposition.

Oratorio Offered Here Last Night

An attentive audience of approximately 800 persons heard the Texas Technological college chorus and orchestra give an impressive second annual presentation of "The Seven Last Words of Christ" (Theodore Dubois) Wednesday night in the Senior High school auditorium.

Julien Paul Blitz, head of the music department, ably directed the oratorio.

Soloists were Mrs. Carl Scoggin, soprano; Hillard Moore, tenor; Elton Plowman, tenor; Gordon Gaines, baritone; Tony Dyess, bass.

Dr. W. F. Fry gave the invocation and Dr. J. M. Gordon, the benediction.

The chorus of more than 100 students had practiced many weeks for the presentation.

The rendition was dedicated to memory of the late Roscoe Wilson, Tech director.

Efforts indicated the British are determined to make every effort to force a cessation of hostilities, beginning peace negotiations "before we leave Geneva." He added that if this attempt fails Great Britain must reserve decision on what to do next.

and directed from San Antonio, where gamblers have suffered the most from our policy of law enforcement. I have, in my possession, written, signed evidence of this unfair propaganda. The real facts in the situation have been misrepresented to many fair minded peace officers over the state and, as a result, some have signed petitions of various sorts. However, from my investigation, I know that these signatures, in most instances, were given without knowledge of the truth. In fact, numerous officers, upon learning the truth, have assured us that they were very friendly to Director Phares and never intended to take any action opposing his appointment as director. I have the utmost confidence of Texas and I know that when the real facts are presented to them, all will approve of our action."

Will Accept Action

Johnson expressed hope that Baker would not resign from the commission, but added:

"As for the one or two employees of the department who have threatened to resign, all I have to say is that I, personally, will accept such resignations as soon as they are received. As a member of this commission, I will never permit any employe to dictate my actions. . . ."

Johnson reviewed in detail what he listed as accomplishments of Phares as acting director of the department, and said:

"The work of Director Phares in the above mentioned instances has earned the co-operation and praise of J. Edgar Hoover and other officers of the United States department of justice. Also it has brought many letters of praise and thanks from peace officers throughout the state.

Nothing Else To Do

"In short, the two members of the commission, who have served from the very beginning and who are best acquainted with the fine work of Mr. Phares, felt that at this time there was nothing else to do, in the face of such service, other than to appoint Acting Director Phares as permanent director. We felt that it would be obviously unfair to Director Phares to have permitted him to bear the brunt of the organization of a new department, with the great handicaps he was forced to operate under, and then to have deposed him as acting director and turned over the department he had created to an outside officer, regardless of the ability of such officer. . . .

"The department was organized on a merit basis. The policy of the commission has from the very beginning been to give executive positions to men in the ranks of the highway patrol and the ranger force as rewards for faithful and efficient service. . . ."

Son Of Lubbock Woman Is Killed

Death in a highway mishap Tuesday night claimed A. J. Newman, 41, of Oklahoma City, son of Mrs. Claude Tatum of Lubbock and brother of three Lubbock men. The accident was near Shawnee, Okla.

Details were not known. Claude Tatum left early Wednesday afternoon with a representative of Rix Funeral home to bring the body here for services and burial.

Mr. Newman had visited here several times, and was engaged in the oil trucking business at the time of his death.

Other survivors are J. R., Alex and J. P. Newman, brothers, of Lubbock; George Newman, brother, of Lockney; two sisters, Mrs. J. M. Sellen, of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. E. H. Cummings, of Friona; and three half-brothers, Clyde, Lewis and C. W. Tatum, of Lubbock.

Additional Information On Farm Program Now Available

Additional information on the new farm program setup is available and will be explained tonight to farmers of the southern part of the county, at Woodrow. C. C. Jobson, county agent, said last night. Mr. Jobson received word from College Station yesterday on the plan.

Farmers of Woodrow, Union, New Hope, Slide, and Southeast ward are to attend tonight. Approximately 360 are expected.

Three members of a district committee and two alternates are to be named by the representatives. This group will select a chairman, he automatically becoming a member of the county committee.

All types of soil control work is to be handled by the district and the county committees. There will be no contracts.

case, but has not written a report.

Baker said he resigned because of an apparent division in the public safety commission and his desire to avoid friction. Specifically, he objected to moving the highway patrol, a division of the public safety department, into 12 larger districts, and the promotion of Phares at this time.

"My vote was not against Phares," he said. "It was against taking action on the matter at this time. I suggested that the commission was a baby and it should be at least 12 months old before we took such action.

"In these important matters the vote was two to one, and I feared there would be more such votes in the future. Rather than create friction in the commission, for whose other members I have the highest regards, I shall step out."

He said he had urged Capt. McCormick not to resign and there was neither friction between the governor and the captain nor between the governor and himself.

Phares Paid Tribute

In announcing the elevation of Phares, Johnson paid tribute to "his admirable piece of work in organizing the department," saying the commission felt the "time had come to reward him."

"We feel now that the organization of the department, begun with the law combining the old highway patrol and the ranger force, and establishing new fingerprint, intelligence and educational departments has been completed," he said.

"Phares has been put to every test and has met them all. His previous work in organizing and developing the highway patrol is what led to his selection as acting director.

"His further work in consolidating forces, extending the patrol and organizing new branches of the department, especially the difficult job of getting the entire new drivers license bureau started, was convincing evidence of his ability."

A First Class Mystery

WHAT appears to us to be a first class mystery is the question of how W. O. Pinson, a cotton buyer, met his death. His body, as most readers will remember, was found last Saturday in shallow water lying in that portion of Yellowhouse canyon just south of Highway 24, a short distance east of the city limits.

Pinson's body, accidentally discovered by boy fishermen, disclosed that one eye was bruised and blackened, the right groin bore a heavy bruise, a vertebra in the neck was dislocated and the lungs held no water. Yet in spite of these points, Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg has announced that his verdict will be death from suicide—a decision which did not appeal to him in the early hours of investigation.

It is possible, of course, that Pinson did commit suicide.

In a letter to Sheriff Tom Abel before the man was missed, Mrs. Pinson, from Dallas, expressed fears that her husband might take his life. Later, after the body was recovered, officers found persons who said Pinson had asked "where is the water in the canyon?", indicating that he might have planned self-destruction. Further, it is possible that a dive into the four feet of water resulted in the neck injury, and the bruises were sustained from contact with the lake's bottom and hard substances there. But lack of water in the lungs changes the possible picture to the point where a complete investigation must be held in an effort to get all the facts.

The Morning Avalanche has no interest in the Pinson case save the interest that any institution should have in public safety. No one connected with this newspaper even so much as knew the man casually. We are not willing, however, to accept a verdict of suicide—at least until more investigating is done.

County Health Officer W. L. Baugh, a physician of many years experience, does not lean to the suicide-by-drowning theory, due to the absence of water in Pinson's lungs.

Chief of Police H. L. Johnston sums up the matter, as it now stands on the basis of evidence thus far gathered, in a logical way, by saying: "I've never heard of a man punching himself in the eye, hitting himself in the groin, breaking his neck and then plunging into a lake without taking a breath after hitting the water." We've never heard of anything like that, either.

We grant to Justice Trigg and Sheriff Abel the right to the opinion toward which they now lean—that of suicide.

At the same time, we reserve a similar right for ourselves, based upon the observations of two reporters who were present at the canyon immediately after Pinson's body was fished from the lake and who have been watching developments ever since.

The mystery of the death of Pinson may never be unraveled; the truth may never be known; those people who believe he committed suicide may be right and never know it, and so may those who believe foul play entered into the cotton buyer's death.

But if conclusive evidence is lacking on the theory that Pinson was hit by a car, or beaten, and then dumped in the lake, so is conclusive evidence that he committed suicide.

If there is no room for one verdict at this time, certainly there is no room for the other.

WITH OUR CONTEMPORARIES

After quoting See Eye Hill's fling at him in a recent issue of the Lynn County News, old Andy Jack Stricklin, the fighting lone wolf of Old Terry, riz right up on his hind legs and blasted eastward: "We would advise Bro. Hill as well as Lynn county farmers to put out traps and catch all the Terry county sand they can, and save it until it gets real hot and dry this summer and the Lynn county blue weeds begin to get in their work. When their cotton and feed begins to twist up this summer, and Bro. Blue Weed looks healthy as a lily in a millpond, then, if you had a bit of the good top soil from Terry, it might be your salvation. Better not let any waste, we have plenty and to spare our poor neighbors."

FORT MARION

Fort Marion, the ancient San Marco, was built out of coquina (a concrete made of broken shells and sand, cemented with shell lime). Its construction, begun about 1638, was not finished until 1756, 118 years later, during the Spanish occupation of the territory. The workers were Mexican convicts and Indian prisoners. It is considered a fine specimen of military architecture, and in spite of its convict labor was a costly structure.

He can also take two bags weighing 175 pounds each, fasten them to a helmet and swing them around like a merry-go-round with his head without touching them with his hands.

Gorgeous

BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

TOBY RYAN, 19, works behind the jewelry counter of a large Manhattan department store. She poses for a photograph to be used in a store advertisement and MARTY HIATT, the photographer, tells her she has a "camera face."

Discharged from the store due to the scheming of jealous MAURINE BALL, Toby has difficulty finding another job. Then she meets Marty Hiatt and he sends her to BEN BLAKE, manager of a model agency. Toby registers at the agency, secures work as a model.

At a style show where she is modeling she meets CAROL MARSH, rich and snobbish. She also sees wealthy TIM JAMIESON who has been trying for some time to persuade her to dine with him. Impetuously she agrees.

For a week Tim showers her with attentions and Toby admits to herself that she is falling in love with him. She is somewhat disturbed one evening when, shortly after their arrival at the fashionable Seville Club, Tim insists on leaving.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIX

Toby fought back the hateful, the outrageous thought. There was no reason, she told herself, to connect Carol Marsh with Tim's sudden change of mood. Why, he scarcely knew Carol. He'd made that plain when Toby had spoken of her long before. Why should she imagine now that it was because Tim had seen Carol and her friends that he was in such a hurry to leave the Seville Club? It was ridiculous. It couldn't be true—

She waited silently while Tim got into his coat. Silently she went ahead of him out to the street. It had been raining and there were little puddles on the sidewalk. The cold, damp air struck her cheeks; it was refreshing.

"Listen, Gorgeous—" Tim was beside her, smiling down at her. "How'd you like to go to Alfredo's—you know, where we went the first night we had dinner together? I'd like some place that isn't as big as a circus tent. Where I can have you to myself. I don't want every man in sight staring at you—"

"Oh, Tim, they weren't!"

Weren't they? Maybe you didn't notice it, but I did. It got on my nerves."

"Tim—was that the reason you wanted to leave? Really?"

He was completely good-natured now. "Well," he said, "when a fellow takes a girl out he wants to be able to look at her himself, doesn't he? He doesn't want every other fellow within a mile looking at her as though he couldn't take his eyes away. I thought I'd better get out before I got into a row—"

The idea of Tim being drawn into a fight because of her was horrifying to Toby, but with it came a surge of relief. It hadn't been because of Carol Marsh that Tim wanted to leave the Seville Club! Carol hadn't had anything to do with it. It was because of Toby herself—because Tim was so devoted to her, "wanted her to himself," he said.

She raised shining eyes. "I didn't know anyone was staring at me," she said, "but, oh, Tim, I'm glad we came away."

"So'm I. Now, how about Alfredo's?"

"Let's go there. I'd rather go there than any place I know."

So they went to Alfredo's, and, sitting at one of the softly lighted tables, dancing to the same music they had danced to before, Toby felt again the magic of that earlier evening. She forgot Carol Marsh; forgot, that, even for a moment, she had known the sharp pains of doubt.

Toby said little. It was enough to look up and see Tim beside her, to catch his smile and smile back at him. She thought he looked especially handsome tonight. Though, of course, Tim was always handsome. She listened to everything he said and made suitable answers, but when he was not speaking she seemed to be in a world apart—a world of happiness and beauty and music that went on and on without ending.

Alfredo paused at their table and Tim assured him that everything was as it should be. Toby's heart echoed the words. Oh, yes, indeed. Everything was as it should be. Everything in the whole world!

It was not until they were on their way home that anything happened to change her mood. Then it came very suddenly.

Tim said, "By the way, I won't be seeing you for a day or so. Friend of mine has asked me to drive down to Maryland with him. He's got a place there he's been wanting me to see—"

"Oh!" It was a foolish little exclamation. Toby went on quickly, hoping Tim had not noticed it. "You're going?"

"Well, I can't very well get out of it. You see, he's asked me a couple of times before. And I thought the trip might be good for me. I've been sticking around town pretty close lately."

"Yes," Toby agreed. "I'm sure it will be good for you. What sort of place is it, Tim—where you're going?"

"Down on the Eastern Shore. Just an old house that has been in this fellow's family for years and years. Near some little town—I forgot the name of it. He's got some horses there, too. May get to do some riding."

"That will be fine," Toby said it as much to convince herself as Tim. "How long will you be gone?"

"Oh, just a few days." He looked down at her, smiling. "Think you'll miss me?"

"I—might."

"So that's all you've got to say, is it? You might! That's how I stand with you—"

* * *

She loved having him rail at her like this. She said, "Well, I expect it will be sort of lonely."

"That's better! Though, I doubt if you mean it. You'll be stepping out with some other fellow—!"

"Tim, you know I won't!"

"Listen, don't think you can fool me. I know your tricks, young woman. You're not putting a thing over on me—"

It ended with both of them treating it as a joke, which made it easier for Toby. It was so much better not to be serious, not to show how she really felt. At the entrance of the apartment she asked, "When did you say you were leaving, Tim?"

He hadn't said, but now he told her, "Early in the morning. I won't call you because you'll be asleep?"

"Then I won't see you again?"

"Not for a few days. I'll give you a ring as soon as I get back."

She put a hand on his arm. "Oh, Tim, I will miss you!"

"And I'll miss you, Gorgeous. But it's only a few days. Now I'd better be getting along. Got to get up early, you know—"

"Tim, take care of yourself."

He laughed. "Of course I will."

"But something might happen." Her face was serious. "You'll be driving and sometimes there are accidents. Terrible things happen. Oh, you must be careful!"

"Listen, Gorgeous, I'm going to be all right! Now you run along and get your beauty sleep and stop worrying about me. Will you do that?"

"Yes, if you'll promise—"

"All right. I'll promise you I won't be in any accidents. Does that satisfy you?"

He took her in his arms then and kissed her, and for a moment she clung to him. Toby said, "Oh, Tim—" and then smiled brightly, determinedly. "It's all right. I know nothing's going to happen. I know you'll come back—soon."

"That's the girl. Good night, Gorgeous."

"Good night, Tim."

After all, it was only for a few days. Toby reminded herself of this several times the following day. She told herself she had been going out too much anyhow, and a rest would be good for her. Besides, there were things that she could do—sewing and mending and the reading she'd been intending to get at and hadn't.

But when she started a task she soon found herself doing something else. She was restless, unable to settle down to anything. It was surely perverse fate that for the first time in weeks she had very little work. She didn't feel like going out and calling at studios where she wasn't known. She had a list from the Models' League and there were several on it that she hadn't visited, but she hated to be away from the apartment. She thought possibly some word might come from Tim.

He hadn't said anything about calling her over long distance, but still Toby thought he might. Not that there was any reason for it. Just to assure her that he was all right and would be home soon. Harriet's fiance, Clyde Sabin, often

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE Republicans have at last massed their forces for a grand assault upon President Roosevelt and the New Deal. Heads of the hitherto warring National and Congressional committees signed the compact recently at a private dinner which National Chairman Fletcher hosted.

Mr. Fletcher has corralled half a dozen professors to dig up dirt on the administration. Under his direction they will assemble facts and figures designed to discredit FDR in the campaign. Then he will turn their professorial material over to the Bolton-Hastings Congressional committee for sensational polishing by their journalistic writers—Messrs. Warren Wheaton, Lawrence Sullivan and Edwin Lewis. All three have a deadly headline aim.

The finished product will be handed to members of the House. They will spout the charges which the professors and the journalists have cooked up. At least 12 major anti-New Deal speeches are scheduled, and they will pitch the G.O.P. key for the campaign. G.O.P. tacticians have despaired of stimulating opposition in the Senate. So watch House developments from now on.

ACEING: Veteran employes of New Deal departments are getting fed up after three years of experimentation. With a possible change of administration looming up for November, they are also becoming bolder. They are furnishing tips to G.O.P. spokesmen on Capitol Hill.

It's these old hands who have supplied Senator Vandenberg with facts about AAA payments running into thousands of dollars. Department of Commerce tipsters furnished Rep. Robert Bacon of New York with material about the Roper family's use of government vessels for pleasure trips. Almost every day key G.O.P.-ers receive sly suggestions like these in the mail, and a little digging produces material for an attack on the floor.

It's a quadrennial custom. As the presidential election approaches, officeholders seek to ingratiate themselves with the opposition, feeling that their undercover aid may prove an "ace in the hole" in the event of a political turnover. So that's the source of these inside-information barrages against the New Deal. Rooseveltians are checking up in an effort to plug the leaks. But it's almost impossible.

TRIFLE: "Bob" Doughton may be gloating a little too soon over the scant opposition raised against the proposed tax bill at hearings of his House Ways and Means committee.

Fact of the matter is that critics are withholding their fire until the measure reaches the Senate Finance committee. Mr. Doughton's group has nothing before it except a general report, and opponents cannot shoot at such a target. They understand that a House subservient to Mr Roosevelt will pass almost any kind of measure he desires. But they look for senatorial repatching, and it is in the upper chamber that they will submit their arguments.

Ex-Rep. Franklin Fort of New Jersey, a Hoover man presented the most trenchant criticism of the tap-surplus phase. He has just reorganized a corporation, and the terms provide that bondholders shall receive no cash until a $2,500,000 surplus has been built up. Under the 77b section of the bankruptcy act there are thousands of corporations in the same fix. They can never get back on their feet if the bill is enacted in its present shape. It's just another trifle nobody thought of in all the rush to get revenue in a hurry.

STEIWER: Although Elder Statesman Frank Lowden would suit most Republican factions and candidates as convention keynoter, the suggestion has caused some exciting back-stage palavering.

Mr. Lowden is supposed to favor Governor Alf Landon for the nomination, although the sage of Sinissippi hasn't declared himself publicity. They are understood to think alike on such subjects as government efficiency and reorganization, economy and farm remedies. If that is true, selection of the distinguished Illinoisan would be a distinct political boon for the Kansan.

New York politicos, notably National Committeeman Hilles, are backing Senator Steiwer of Oregon for keynoter, and the idea "took" when it was recently broached at a powwow of national and Congressional committee bigwigs. Steiwer might develop from oratorical into presidential stature if Messrs. Landon, Dickinson, Knox, etc. don't make the grade.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

NEW YORK conservatives are mighty suspicious of the "routine" order transmuting what's left of the NRA research organization into a division of industrial economics in the Department of Commerce. The researchers are under orders to prepare an industrial analysis and submit a report by December 1.

The administration's obvious attempt to play this down as an item of minor importance isn't fooling a soul around the financial district. It is taken as conclusive evidence that one of Mr. Roosevelt's first moves if reelected will be to launch a revised Blue Eagle project as free as possible of legal bugs. This is one more cogent reason why he just has to be defeated.

It is clear to keen observers that the President has given up on pump priming and business recovery as an answer for the reemployment problem and intends to tackle it from a new angle—involving plenty of "regimentation"—if the voters give him a chance. But he is not likely to admit this before election, as it would only hand his opponents fresh ammunition.

GROPING: An almost frantic search is going on in backstage anti-New Deal circles for a new G.O.P. presidential candidate. Over and over your correspondent has heard the remark, "None of those now in the running measures up."

This is generally said of Landon with regret. Many financial and industrial leaders still have an idea he would turn out pretty well. But they are nervous about his political handicaps—the Hoover and Borah opposition and especially Hearst—and they don't want to bet on a losing horse. They are a bit leery of Vandenberg's "liberalism" and they don't think Knox has enough voter appeal. Hoover and Borah are of course out of the question.

This groping for new blood accounts for increasing mention of dark, dark horses — such as Senator Steiwer of Oregon. Even discussion of Alfred Sloan of General Motors has been revived—which shows how desperate they are. Many New Yorkers are saying, "if only Frank Lowden were 15 years younger!" It may turn out in the end that those 15 years will be overlooked.

INCENTIVE: Results of the New York Socialist primaries have a significant bearing on future possibilities for a left wing major party.

The faction headed by Norman Thomas won. This means that the radical wing will control the official Socialist party and will probably move towards closer cooperation with the Communists. The Thomasites have also been set against sacrificing the Socialist label in order to make more rapid political progress.

The right wing Socialists— headed by Louis Waldman—are now out in the cold. They hate the idea of a Communist tie-up. They have more incentive than ever to secede from the party and join up with LaFollette's Progressives and Olson's Farm Laborites. Probably it won't happen this year—the situation isn't ripe—but watch for a move along this line in 1937. The old guard Socialists are small in number but they do know their politics.

SMOOTHED: John D. Hamilton—Alf Landon's ambassador to New York—has been moving diplomatically to cover up earlier faux pas committed by overzealous Landon backers.

Your Voice Is As Loud As The Editor's; Write Your Views

FROM A FARM READER

Editor, The Avalanche: About all I know is what happens around the farm. To start with, my days since coming to these parts have been pretty busy ones. Right off the reel I had to build a hen house, cow shed, two lots, storm house, plunder room, fence a garden, and install a water system. Besides all of that, I put up 160 acres of land with a walking buster. Following a walking buster is hard on bunions, biscuits, beans and bacons. You won't need any orange, tomato, grape juice or breakfast foods to whet and tune up your appetite. As for vitamins A, B, C, and D, to heck with them.

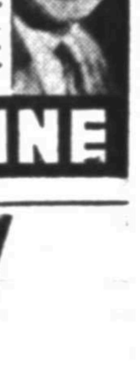

I thought I was doing a real pert job of plowing until I got to plowing near a fellow with a two-row tractor. Why he could turn around and be 100 yards down the row before I could get my plugs started back. One man put up 160 acres in six days. It took me 30 days to do the same amount of work. This is sure getting to be a fast world. If I do say so, Martha has been pretty busy, too, cleaning up the place, hanging paper, fighting bedbugs and harangueing me about bugs in general. This place was and is still infested by the doggonedest, rapacious bunch of bedbugs I ever had anything to do with. We tried red pepper, nicotine, kerosene, gasoline, and sulphur fumes to no avail. They haunt me all day long and what time they are not puncturing me they hop, skip and pirrouette around the room the whole night through. I guess I will have to get one of Mr. Shaw's West Texas badgers. I have "hearn" they were H——l on bedbugs.

I've found out this is a breezy country. When the wind stops blowing, well it's gone to pushing. A rare thing happened not long ago. We had a warm still Sabbath day. As I was enjoying the beauty of the day, my thoughts turned to a Sabbath day long ago when Jesus and the disciples plushed the ears of corn and the Pharisees raised such a fuss about it. We still have some Pharisees among us. I sure enjoy a still day after we've had one of those blooming sandy humdingers from Colorado and Kansas. Yes, Sir.

Where I lived in Mitchell county, the noisy T. and P. railroad was on the south side of my place and the still noiser Bankhead highway on the north. This is a quiet country road where I live now. On it there are no begging hungry people, no human derelicts, no highjackers, and no wrecks to remind you constantly of the misery and wickedness of this old world. I like this quiet country road.

called her when he was out of town.

Part of the time Toby argued with herself that she was sure to hear from Tim. At other times she made excuses for him. Why should he write or call when he was only to be gone a few days? He hadn't been definite about it. She didn't know if "a few days" meant two or three or even four. Surely it couldn't be more than that!

The first day dragged to a close and the second went even more slowly. Harriet, coming in late in the afternoon, saw Toby curled up on the davenport, a discarded magazine at her feet.

Harriet knew that Tim was away, though Toby hadn't told her where he'd gone. She thought Harriet might be inclined to criticize if she knew. Harriet seemed to think Tim should have a job.

"Hello," Harriet said, taking off her hat and tossing it on a chair. "What's new?"

"Nothing."

"Anyone call me while I was away?"

"No."

"Well," said Harriet, "I've got news for you. I stopped in at the League office to get that check they've been holding for me."

Toby wasn't much interested, but she waited for Harriet to go on. "Well—?"

"Well, I thought you might like to know that you won't have to worry about your friend, Carol Marsh, for a while. Betty Turnbull was there, talking to Sally and I heard her say that Carol's out of town. She's gone to a houseparty in Maryland."

THE TARZAN TWINS, No. 10

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As the jungle gloom threatened, Dick suggested: "We'd better not go in too far." "Oh, just a little way," urged Doc; "maybe we'll come to a native village." "Suppose they were cannibals?" "Shucks," scoffed the American lad, "there aren't any cannibals now. You afraid?"

"Who, me? Of course I'm not afraid," Dick replied valiantly. "All right, come ahead then," and Doc led the way along the little path that bored into the depths of the forest, then joined a wide, well-beaten trail. Suddenly Dick pointed into the trees. "Look!" he whispered.

Doc glanced up and saw a monkey surveying them solemnly. Presently it began to chatter to several others. "My cousin Tarzan would know what they're saying," Dick observed. "Maybe he'll teach us," Doc suggested — "but perhaps it's better we don't know."

As the boys approached, the monkeys retreated, jumping and jabbering. Dick and Doc followed, absorbed by their antics, forgetting time and distance. Thus it was that they failed to notice a branch of the big trail, and several smaller paths that joined it at intervals.

EMIGRATION SLUMP

BERLIN (AP)—Nazi officials are pleased that emigration from Germany is declining. In 1935 the number leaving Germany was about 10,000, compared to a yearly pre-war average of 25,000, and 115,000 in the inflation years. This implies that nazi measures are successful, it is said, because the number would be smaller were it not for Jewish emigrants.

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, April 8. (AP)—A revival of strength in the steels lifted sentiment and prices in today's stock market.

A number of issues forged into new high ground for the past five years or so with gains ranging from fractions to 3 points, and 5 or more in a few instances.

Optimism apparently was stimulated principally by signs that domestic economic recovery is getting underway at even a faster clip than some of the earlier forecasters had anticipated.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .3 of a point to 64.5.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, April 8. (AP)—Traders decided to take into consideration the bullish propensities of continued unfavorable weather in the belt today and bid futures up from 4 to 9 points in active trading.

All options shared in the advance, including the old and new crop months. At the close May sold at 11.34, after being up to 11.37 at one time. July closed at 10.95, Oct. at 10.38, Dec. at 10.37 and Jan. at 10.39.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, April 8. (AP)—Cotton was higher today with indications of a somewhat broadening interest in new crop positions owing to unfavorable weather in the south.

July sold up to 11.03 and closed at that figure with the general market closing steady at net advances of 6 to 9 points.

Old crop months worked up on trade buying with active months at the best, showing net gains of 8 to 11 points.

Offerings increased somewhat around or slightly over 11.50 for May and 10.41 for October, but closing quotations were within 2 or 3 points of the best.

TICKER TALK

Courtesy A. J. Humphreys and Co, 1001 12th Street, Lubbock

NEW ORLEANS, La., April 8.—Cotton News Bureau Observer says: "By most cotton men it is thought that the wide publicity which is being given to the figures on the larger payments under the old AAA program will make it more difficult for the government to carry out its 1936 program. Latest reports out of Washington show that 46 large cotton planters received each more than $10,000 from the government under the old AAA setup. The political reaction to this is that the AAA act was never intended to disburse government funds in such a fashion but that the measure was primarily designed to benefit the smaller farmer, the man who was closest to the rolled rolls. It is shown that 46 big planters received a total of $617,656 whereas 773,676 small farmers received less than $100 apiece. In a radio address yesterday however, Secretary Wallace stated that the bulk of the AAA money went to the men who needed it most.

Total cotton exports from all United States ports today 13,349 bales making the total for the week 83,071 bales against 20,854 same time last year. Total exports thus far this season 4,899,642 bales against 3,656,381 during same period last season.

Jackie Coogan Is Victor In Trial

LOS ANGELES, April 8. (AP) — Jackie Coogan, young screen actor, won two damage suits against him for $300,000 today.

Superior Judge Frank Swain directed a jury to bring in a verdict for Coogan. The suits were based on an automobile accident last year in which Coogan's father, John H. Coogan, and three of the actor's friends were killed.

Judge Swain ruled there was no evidence that the elder Coogan, who was driving at the time, had been drinking.

Relatives of two of the crash victims charge that the former child star of the silent screen allowed his father to drive Jackie's automobile when he knew he was intoxicated.

Slaying Facts Being Probed

Officer Expresses His Opinion That Woman And Daughter Were Killed In Saloon And Tossed In River

FORT STOCKTON, April 8. (AP)—Ellis Summers, one of the officers who aided in investigation of the deaths of Mrs. Leta Bell Garton and her daughter, Joyce Glenn Roberts, expressed the opinion today that the women were killed in a Monahans saloon before their bodies were thrown in the Pecos river.

The bodies were found six years ago and southwest Texas authorities, suspecting a double slaying, have been trying to find out the true facts of the case. Wilbur Garton, South Texas liquor dealer and former husband of Mrs. Garton, was being brought here from Corpus Christi for questioning.

Deputy Sheriff Summers of Winkler county said the woman and her daughter were last seen alive in a Monahans saloon. He said they were in the company of a man other than Garton. Mrs. Garton and her husband were estranged at the time, according to Summers.

New Train To Be Run By Santa Fe

CHICAGO, April 8. (Special) — S. T. Bledsoe, president of the Santa Fe Wednesday announced contract had been placed with the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company of Philadelphia for a de luxe high speed streamlined stainless steel train of the most modern and commodious type. Delivery is expected within six months and the train, to be known as the Super Chief, will go into operation between Chicago and Los Angeles the latter part of this year.

The train will embody the last word in engineering research and design and will be drawn by a powerful Diesel locomotive. It will consist of eight cars, including a baggage car, dining car, cocktail lounge, club car, four sleepers and a sleeper-observation car. It will be of full standard size, although weighing only approximately one-half as much as the conventional heavy steel train. Interiors of the cars will be wider than in current equipment. Sleeping berths will be wider than usual; bedrooms, drawing rooms and compartments can be used en suite, if desired.

The train will be placed in operation on the 2,225-mile Chicago to Los Angeles run on a schedule of 39 hours and 45 minutes on a once-a-week roundtrip basis. Present running time between the two points now is approximately 53 hours.

In the meantime, the Super Chief's big thirty-six hundred horsepower Diesel locomotive which the road has been testing out for several months, will carry the finest of standard steel Pullman equipment.

Senator Norris And Hugh Magill In Hot Exchange Of Words On Proposal

WASHINGTON, April 8. (AP)—Last session's battle over the Wheeler-Rayburn holding company bill was refought before a senate agriculture subcommittee today in a hot exchange between Senator Norris (R-Neb) and Hugh S. McGill.

The president of the American Federation of Investors had read a prepared statement attacking the Norris bill to set up a Mississippi valley authority similar to TVA as "in harmony with the Russian system of government," when Norris asked him if he approved of the methods followed by the power interests in trying to defeat the holding company measure.

Hot Words Flow

"That's like asking if you've stopped beating your wife?" Magill replied.

"All right, have you stopped beating your wife?" Norris shot back.

"There were things done I do not approve of," Magill said, "but for millions to write to members of congress for the protection of their individual rights and private property—that was right."

When Magill added that only a few persons were engaged in the fight improperly, Norris exclaimed: "A few people! Don't you know they spent $10,000,000 in trying to defeat that bill?"

"No, I don't know that."

"Well, you ought to."

Investments Urged

Norris said the Insull interests several years ago had professors and others using the telephone and radio to induce widows to put their money into utilities.

"What is the securities commission for?" asked Magill. "They are looking after that and I'm in favor of looking after that."

Magill said shortly after President Roosevelt recommended passage of the Wheeler-Rayburn bill utility stocks dropped $253,000,000 in value.

"If the stocks were based on 50 per cent value and 50 per cent wind, they ought to go down," Norris said.

Magill said the Norris bill, "on the false pretext of providing for flood control and preventing soil erosion," really sought "political domination of a great private industry."

Neuritis And Stomach Disorder Had Made Mrs. Mullins Miserable For Years; Dizziness, Headaches Were Awful; Gly-Cas Again Unfailing

years my stomach had been a constant cause for distress. Gas and bloating followed each meal I ate and the attacks of indigestion were almost unbearable at times. Then to make my already miserable condition worse neuritis settled in my arms and shoulders and neck. The sharp stabbing pains were terrible and my neck became so sore I could hardly turn my head. Dizzy spells were quite annoying. A good nights sleep was impossible and it seemed my entire system was wearing out. Everything I tried failed until I began Gly-Cas—it was the one REAL medicine of them all."

"Gly-Cas is a blessing to sufferers with its remarkable action," she continued, "I can now eat the foods I wish without any ill effects afterwards. Those horrible neuritis pains have been relieved, sleep good, stomach and bowels regulated, dizzy spells and headaches are in the past and I am now enjoying good health as others. It is wonderful that a single medicine Gly-Cas, can do so much and in such a short time."
