SALE OF FEEDSTUFFS

State Inspector Gives Information to Inquirers

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, July 11.—A number of inquiries have reached the office of State Feed Inspector B. C. Pittuck concerning the proper steps to be taken by those interested in order to comply with the requirements made by senate bill 159, which regulates the sale of concentrated commercial feedstuffs in this state. The following statement relative to the matter has been issued to explain the matter fully for the benefit of the manufacturers, importers and dealers of concentrated commercial feedstuff in the state:

Before any concentrated feeding stuff is offered or exposed for sale in Texas it is the duty of the manufacturer, importer and party who causes it to be sold or offered for sale within this state, for each and every feed stuff bearing a distinguishing name and trade mark, to observe the following rules:

1. He shall deposit with the directors of experiment stations a sealed glass jar or bottle containing not less than one pound of the feeding stuff to be sold or offered for sale.

2. He shall accompany same with an affidavit that it is a fair average sample of the feedstuff to be offered for sale and corresponds within reasonable limits to the feeding stuff which it represents in the percentage of protein and fat which it contains.

3. He shall furnish a statement truly and clearly certifying: (a) The number of net pounds of feeding stuff in the package to be sold or offered for sale. (b) The name, brand or trade mark under which the article is sold. (c) The name and address of the manufacturer or importer. (d) The place of manufacture. (e) A chemical analysis stating the percentages it contains of crude protein and crude fat. This analysis may be made by any reliable chemist.

If the parties interested so desire the printed matter required by the law may be put on the reverse side of the tax tag, and should plainly state the following information: Name and address of manufacturer, place of manufacturer, number of net pounds, name, brand or trade mark; guaranteed analysis, crude protein, crude fat.

This office will at all times be ready and willing to do all in its power to facilitate a compliance with this law.

Fabian and the members of the Waco league team arrested Sunday for playing ball, complaints having been filed in the justice court.

The application will be heard Saturday, and much interest attaches thereto. A similar application was made by Mr. Fabian when he was arrested before, the first one being in the county court, but this time it has gone to the district court.

TWO MEN INJURED IN PECULIAR WAY

One Falls on Meat Hook—Other's Neck Is Pierced by Pitchfork—Both Are Recovering

MEMPHIS, Texas, July 11.—Walter Crump met with a painful accident and one which might have proven very dangerous at a late hour last Monday. While putting some large blocks of ice in the refrigerator at the meat market, he made an effort to prevent a block of ice from falling, and slipping, he fell against the wall and was impaled on a meat hook. The hook entered his right side just below the ribs and he hung on the wall until he was lifted off by the other workmen. Doctor Durham dressed the wound and he was only confined to his bed one day. He is still far from recovered, but has been getting around a part of the time.

HENRIETTA, Texas, July 11.—On Wednesday Jim Smyers of Benvanue was the victim of a very peculiar and painful accident, that came near costing him his life. A prong of a pitchfork was thrust through the side of his head, entering at the left cheek and coming out at the edge of the hair about midway between the left ear and the spinal cord.

The accident occurred at Kamisky's thrasher five miles noth of town. The pitchfork was accidentally dropped on the belt which connects the engine and separator and was hurled with great force, striking Mr. Smyers as he was walking parallel to it.

After the pitchfork was disengaged, Smyers was brought to Henrietta for treatment, later he was taken home. His condition is not serious.

JAPANESE SHELLS GO STRAIGHT TO MARK

Eye-Witness to Sinking of Russian Battleship Tells Story of Terrible Execution

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 11.—Dr. M. Paris, who is a surgeon on the Russian hospital ship Orel, which was attached to the fleet under the command of Admiral Rojestvensky during the naval battle in the sea of Japan, arrived here on his way from France.

He is a Frenchman and with many other surgeons of that nationality joined the Orel at Toulon as delegate from the Red Cross Society. As an eye-witness of the battle, Dr. Paris saw the battleship Borodina and many others of the Russian fleet sink. He was within a mile of the Borodino when that vessel began careening and filled.

"At this time," he said in the course of an interview, "Her guns were firing and I could see many great shells she fired going skyward or into the sea beside her. But every Japanese shell, it seemed, went straight into the vitals of the Borodino. Then came a heavy listing of the big battleship and then a tremendous plunge, as she went down with hundreds of men aboard."

Dr. Paris says Admiral Rojestvensky and officers never seemed to fear defeat at the hands of the Japanese though their ships was very foul after a long cruise in tropical waters.

ANOTHER MUTINY THREATENS INDIA

Condition of Unrest Said to Be Worse Than That Preceding Bloody Sepoy Rebellion

SIMLA, India, July 11.—Dread of another mutiny is being felt by all Europeans here. India is in a very serious state, and the authorities are making heroic endeavors to prevent the spread of unrest and the mutinous spirit, which, in spite of all their efforts, is spreading like an infection from province to province. The cause of this condition is the war between Russia and Japan for the supremacy of the yellow race has come as a revelation to the bazars. That an Asiatic race has defied and even conquered an European race has made the natives think. The spirit of dissatisfaction and trouble in the air now is far more acute than it was two years before the mutiny.

What makes the situation more dangerous in the ability of the "Baboos" to spread their tidings of revolt to every end of the Indian empire with rapidity and ease. The problem of how news traveled to the utmost ends of India in the days of the mutiny has only been partly solved. Since then Lord Ripon has dignified Indian native opinoin and the "baboo" can make himself as easily heard as his master.

Lord Kitchener's statement that the Indian army is practically worthless has been widely circulated among the ignorant natives. Lord Curzon's tyrannica methods have set every class against him personally and the personality of a ruler has an effect on Indian which is incalculable. The potential possibilities of the situation have been brought directly to the attention of the king, and it is known that he has had a number of consultations with Anglo-Indians now in England.

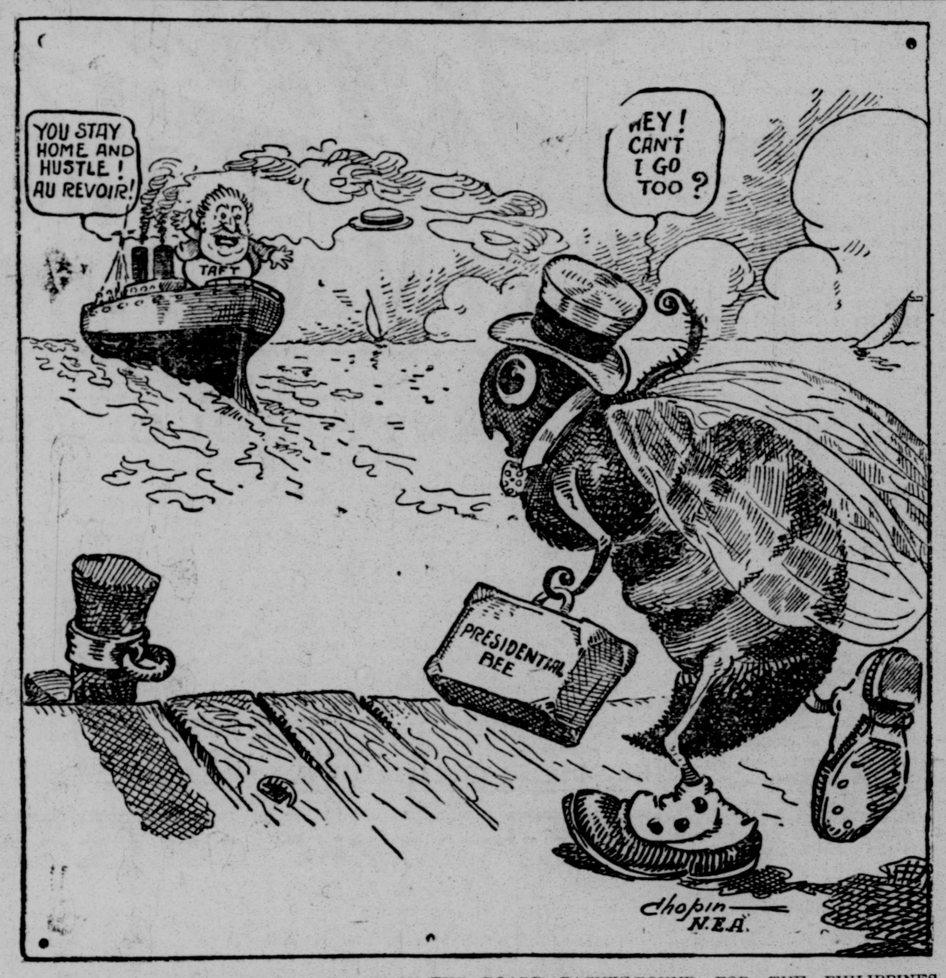

It is known that in Central India hundreds of Afghans are loafing and skulking alone or in couples. This is considered to be an ominous sign, for the Afghans do not wander so far south with any peaceful purpose in mind. If a holy war were to be preached the Mohammedans would be as much the object of native fury nowadays as the Christians. The situation has an ugly look and there is a prayer on everyone's lips that the cloud will not entail a storm.

FOR MID-WEEK SHOPPERS!

Commencing next Thursday, July 13, The Telegram will again seek to influence trading down-town on what was for a long time last fall and winter known as the "MID-WEEK SHOPPERS' DAY." Through the advertising announcements that will be printed in Wednesday evening's Telegram, which will hold forth special inducements for Thursday shoppers, and through a series of newspaper articles showing the advantages to be gained by purchasers in buying on a mid-week day instead of waiting until Saturday, when the stores are busy and crowded, The Telegram will strive to make Thursday a day on which the buying public will come down-town.

MISSOURI AFTER THE STANDARD OIL TRUST

State Charges Standard Oil Co. Destroyed Competition by Combination

KANSAS CITY, July 11.—Taking of testimony in the suit of the attorney general of the state to oust the Standard Oil Company from Missouri was resumed here today before Judge Robert A. Anthony. The case having been transfered from St. Louis, Herbert S. Hadley, attorney general and two assistants represented the state.

The state charges that the defendants entered into a combination to control the prices of oil, thereby destroying competition. Judge Anthony was named a special commissioner by the supreme court to hear the testimony and report his findings in the case. After examining several witnesses here he will likely go to other parts of the state for the same purpose.

Oregon Man Is Charged with Aiding the Famous Bandits

SALEM, Ore., July 11.—Charles Monte, a convict in the penitentiary, is being tried here on a charge of murder. Monte was jointly indicted with one Harry Wright, now incarcerated in the county jail on the charge of having supplied the notorious outlaws, Tracy and Merrill, with arms previous to their escape from prison. As Tracy killed about seven men during his flight, two of them being guards of the penitentiary, Monte and Wright are charged with murder, under a provision of the state law which makes an accessory before the fact a principal in the crime.

CALEB POWERS IS CAUSE OF FIGHT

Mayor of Newport, Ky., Loses Teeth in Personal Conflict With Jailer

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 11.—Jailer Ploeger and three other men are out on bail after arrest by order of Mayor Holmboldt of Newport, Ky. Policemen Flynn and Ratican are out on bond, having been arested, charged with resisting United States officers in the discharge of their duty, and a warrant has been issued against Mayor Holmboldt on that charge. These are among the results of the attempt of some of the friends of Caleb Powers, former secretary of state of Kentucky, under indictment for complicity in the murder of William Gobel to furnish the cell the prisoner was to occupy with more comforts than usually fall to the lot of the inmates of the Newport jail. During the fight which followed when the jailer refused to obey the mayor's order to place Powers in a cell other than that prepared for him the mayor's front teeth were knocked out, revolvers were drawn and almost the entire police force of Newport was called into action.

The jailer claims the order of United States Judge Cochran, when that official assumed jurisdiction in the Powers case and committed Powers to the Newport jail, gave direct control over the prisoner to the jailer and that the mayor had no right or authority in the matter.

The charge against the jailer and the three men arrested with him is assault and battery and resisting an officer. Warrants against the mayor and two policemen were issued by a United States commissioner after consultation with the district attorney, who first directed the United States marshal and the jailer to take Powers to a cell and try to leave him there. This was resisted by two policemen, acting under orders from Mayor Holmboldt, and warrants were then issued by the commissioner.

BUILD FREIGHT YARDS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 11.—It has been formally announced by local officials of the Santa Fe company that steps are to be taken toward establishing big freight yards on the China basin property. They will be the nucleus for what promises to be one of the largest freight terminals in the west. It is expected the construction of these buildings will take about a year, during which other important improvements will be under way at the basin.

LAW ON TRAIL OF COTTON LEAK

Secretary Wilson Turns Over Papers in Case to U. S. Attorney General

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 11.—Secretary Wilson today has turned over to the attorney general papers in connection with the cotton leak investigation. It is intimated that this has been done with the expectation that the prosecution of several persons mentioned in the report of the secret service officers will follow.

Unless there is any new development in connection with the cotton leak investigation Secretary Wilson said he proposed to stand on the report of the secret service officers. He expected, however, that the investigation would give rise to various rumors and stories of irregularities in connection with the department's reports on other products, but that where there was the slightest tangible evidence to work upon, he declared he would go to the bottom of every complaint and publish the results of his investigations.

Already, he said, there are allegations that the tobacco figures have been manipulated and that the matter will be looked into, but for the present he had nothing further to say.

A new system of preparing the monthly crop report has been devised since the cotton investigation began and was put in force today. The report will be made to be published late in the afternoon and the secretary believes steps to be taken to safeguard the figures are well nigh perfect.

Early in the day Assistant Secretary Hay, Chief Statistician Hyde and several experts of the department will be placed in a room under lock and key. They will not be permitted to come out until 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Telephones in the room will be disconnected and a careful scrutiny will be kept on the windows to avoid the possibility of a leak through private signals.

No communications of any sort have been received from Mr. Price or his attorney and Secretary Wilson believes that so far as the cotton investigation report is concerned it is a closed incident.

ZIONISTS CONGRESS

NEW YORK, July 11.—The United States is sending more than thirty delegates to the seventh Zionists' congress, which opens in Basle, Switzerland, July 27. This is the largest Jewish delegation on record from this country. SEASON OF PRAIRIE FIRES IS NOW HERE

Over Two Thousand Acres of Fine Grass Burned on a Ranch Near San Angelo

Special to The Telegram.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, July 11.—The season has now begun for disastrous prairie fires and they are being reported from various localities. The first fire reported started in Willis Johnson's pastures, three miles east of San Angelo, and burned up over two thousand acres of fine grass before the force of men at work fighting the flames could get them under control. Thomson Brothers at Eldorado lost two sections of fine grass through a fire which started in their pasture, eight miles from Eldorado, Friday evening. The prairie grass is now long and dry and easily burned. A prairie fire is, therefore, easily started, but requires the hardest kind of work to put out. Stockmen are using every precaution to prevent these fires being started. Cowboys are riding the public roads and watching every traveler passing through the ranches to see that no camp fires are left burning or that lighted matches, cigar or cigarette stubs are not carelessly thrown into the tall grass.

Carrothers Brothers have sold their fine 28-section ranch located on the Pecos to Ed D. Miller of Concho county, who will stock the ranch with sheep. It is a fine sheep range and Mr. Miller has recently acquired several flocks of the woollies.

Boone Kilpatrick, a well-known Pecos sheepman, is here. He recently sold his ranch in that country at a good figure and is now looking for another as he expects to stay with the sheep business, he says.

The splendid rains which have fallen all over this portion of west Texas will be of incalculable benefit to the range and to the farmers. The cotton crop is especially benefited as it was needing moisture. A splendid cotton crop is looked for in west Texas this year.

FIVE PERSONS RECEIVE POISONOUS WOUNDS

Inflicted by a Polecat, a Pup, and a Centipede

GRAHAM, Texas, July 11.—While loading wheat on the wagon at J. W. Jackson's farm, three miles east of Graham, Joe Garrett was bitten on the knee by a centipede. He lost no time in waiting to see whether the bite would lay him up, but made a bee line for town to be treated. He is getting along all right, and will likely suffer no further inconvenience.

BROWNWOOD, Texas, July 11.—One day this week while Claude Triplett, Will Hurt and Fayette Cooley were playing with a pup, belonging to Claude Triplett, all of them were bitten by it but not enough to cause much pain, and little attention was paid to it. Later the dog showed signs of being mad and was finally killed by Claude's father, John Triplett, who then sent Claude to Sam McGinnis living up the Bayou twelve miles. Mr. McGinnis owns a madstone and when applied to the wound it adhered for fifteen hours. Claude is getting along nicely and does not fear any serious results. Will Hurt has gone to have the stone applied to his wound.

Cooley does not feel any bad effects from his bite and will not go unless further developments make it expedient.

BOWIE, Texas, July 11.—Frank Hollingsworth, who lives at Will Summerour's on Sandy Creek, was bitten on one of his fingers by some small animal which he believes was a polecat, while asleep some two weeks ago. The wound gave him much pain and he secured a madstone which adhered several times to the finger, also to other parts of his arms. He is now suffering but little inconvenience and is getting along all right.

SHIPPING PEACHES

Condition of Peaches This Year Requires Quick Handling in Shipping

WACO, Texas, July 11.—C. Falkner of this city, an extensive fruit grower, has returned from a stay of nearly a month in Kansas City, where he personally looked after car load shipments of peaches from his big fruit farm here. He says that shipments of peaches this season have to be handled carefully and expeditiously, as the fruit deteriorates very rapidly, owing to the amount of water in it.

Shipments have not been as satisfactory as usual, owing to the fact. He thinks, however, that fruit raised near Waco has done better than the East Texas shipments, and any which might have been sent from points west of Waco would probably do better than fruit here, as the further west one goes the better fruit is for shipment.

KAISER PLANS PORTS TO MENACE GEBRALTER

Morrocan Author Says Germans Are Driving Bargain With the Sultan

NEW YORK, July 11.—M. Jean Hess, the well known traveler and author of an important work of Morocco, who is credited with great personal influence over the sultan, is quoted in a Paris dispatch to the Times to be authority for the statement that Germany has completed a treaty with the sultan for the construction of two ports on the Mediterranean coast which will directly menace Gibraltar.

The international conference, M. Hess declares, will be an arrangement between the sultan and Germany which will be brief and amount to nothing more than a confirmation of the sultan's political and commercial independence and the integrity of his empire.

As soon as this result is achieved the sultan in the exercise of his independence, will grant to a German government, subsidized by the German state, a concession for the construction of the two ports in question and the powers will then be unable to offer any opposition, being bound by acquiescence in the decisions of the conference.

M. Hess thinks, however, that the fear of provoking a European war in which inevitably would result in the conquest and partition of his own empire, may in the end prevent the sultan from striking this dangerous bargain with Germany.

ROOT TO BOSS PANAMA CANAL

Appointment Means Transfer of Isthmian Affairs From War to State Department

TAFT HAS PLENTY TO DO

Will Manage Army and Philippines—He May Have Presidential Bee

OYSTER BAY, July 11.—In the business-like announcement by President Roosevelt that Elihu Root had accepted the office of secretary of state there was significance not openly carried in the words addressed to the public. Mr. Root is to be more than secretary of state. He is to be the "boss" of the Panama canal. President Roosevlt for months past has been deply concerned about the future of the canal, and he has told his friends that he would regard it as a big blot on his administration should the government fail to make material progress in building the great waterway in the next few years.

Secretary Taft's business methods are all right in their way, but months ago the President became convinced that he needed a man who would not only do things himself, but make others do them. When he decided to offer Mr. Hay's place to Elihu Root he saw a great opportunity to achieve his ambition in promoting the canal, and he decided to transfer the administration of Panama affairs from the war to the state department.

Of course this is not officially admitted, but, nevertheless, it is regarded as a fact by those in touch with President Roosevelt. It is said that there will be no friction with Secretary Taft, who is willing to be relieved of the responsibility attendant upon the direction of canal affairs. If one-half of the reports are measurably true, he will have his hands full in taking care of the army in the philippines and in other ways regulating the military administration of affairs in that colony.

ROOT MEANS BUSINES

There is a logical defense of the President's purpose to transfer the Panama canal work to the state department. Judge Magoon, who is governor of the American zone on the Isthmus, which brings him under the jurisdiction of the war department, is also minister of the United States to Panama, which brings him within the authority of the state department. This suggested to President Roosevlt the desirability of placing the two offices under the direction of the department of state.

There was the additional fact that for years Mr. Root has been deeply interested in the Panaca canal work. It is true that as counsel for railway corporations and simply in doing his duty to his clients, he oposed in the courts the expansion of the New York state canal, and in an indirect way was forced into the position of representing the railways on the international canal route, but at all times he has been personally a believer in the great waterway.

President Roosevelt, knowing this and recognizing Mr. Root's capacity for constructive work, informed Mr. Root that he would expect him to take entire chargo of the Panama canal project, and get it on a purely business basis with the least possible delay. Mr. Root, it is understood, accepted the task set for him by President Roosevelt, with the understanding, however, that no direct work would be attempted by him much before the middle of September. The President readily assented to this, and as the situation now stands Mr. Root will be responsible for the canal.

AS TO THE PRESIDENCY

Mr. Root may take his oath of office as secretary of state in a few days, and perhaps in the last week of July will formally take charge of the state department; but thereafter, until well along in September, he will devote himself to winding up his business affairs and taking a much neded rest in his country home at Southampton, L. I. By Oct. 1, however, he will be in complete command of the situation, will have no outside business connections to worry him, and will give all his time to the support of President Roosevelts' policies.

It is conceded here, or putting it more accurately, it is not denied by anybody that Mr. Root is a candidate for President to succeed Mr. Roosevelt. Those who are at all well informed also agree that the President is not in any way personally concerned with the ambition of Mr. Root, and it is certain that in no sense will the administration have any candidate for the presidency. Mr. Root's work in the state department and his administration of Panama canal affairs, it is expected, will appeal to republican leaders and keep the secretary of state in the foreground as a live candidate for the presidency.

When Philippine matters are straightened out Mr. Taft, who is not a candidate for the presidency, may achiev his ambition by obtaining an appointment to the supreme court bench, and, in any event, it is extremely likely that Mr. Taft's friends in Ohio, Mr. Knox' friends in Pennsylvania and Mr. Proctor's friends in Vermont will be kenely interested in promoting the presidential fortunes of Mr. Root.

MORE STRIKE THREATS

But Delivery of Goods to Chicago Firms Continues

CHICAGO, July 11.—A spread of the teamsters' strike to over 400 drivers employed by six express concerns was scheduled for today as a result of the action of the teamsters' joint council in deciding that a strike would be called against any firm making deliveries to strike bound houses.

The companies involved recently organized the Chicago Cartage Company for the purpose of making deliveries to strike bound houses with non-union teamsters, in compliance with an injunction issued against them by Judge Holdom.

The scope of the ultimatum issued by the joint council also includes many team owners who have been delivering goods to "struck" houses with the aid of non-union drivers. A strike against these employers, it was declared, would be called at once unless they ceased making such deliveries.

WITH THE CATTLEMEN

SOLD FED STEERS

W. A. Adams, a prominent feeder of Cresson, was on the Fort Worth market Monday with ninety-six head of cake-fed steers that sold for $3.30.

These steers were in prime condition, and it was estimated by Mr. Adams that they would average not less than 1,000 pounds.

"Cattle conditions were never better," said Mr. Adams. "We have plenty of good grass, and the season has been very favorable to the grass, with the result that it is full of nutrition and is admirable for fattening.

"I have fed a great many head this year on cake or grass, and have had satisfactory results, so far as the feeding is concerned. I do think that the stuff I sold this morning should have brought a better price; $3.30 is entirely too low a price for such steers, and at the very worst they should have brought not less than $3.50."

Mr. Adams reports very heavy winds in his neighborhood during the last few days. Several houses and barns have been seriously damaged.

A barn belonging to William Goforth, a prominent feeder of that section, was blown down and damaged not less than $1,000. A barn belonging to Charles McFarland was also blown down.

THE BRADY COUNTRY

G. R. White, the well-known feeder of Brady, had a string of fed stuff on the Fort Worth market Monday.

Mr. White reports conditions around Brady as almost ideal. "We have had several good, refreshing rains within the last three or four days," said he; "rains that have thoroughly soaked the ground and left it in fine condition. Cattle are putting on fat in a manner that fully satisfies feeders. The grass could not be better."

Mr. White has a bunch of seventy 4 and 5-year-old steers on cake and grass and states that they are doing fine. He expects them to finish about the middle of August. There is one other bunch on feed in this district, belonging to Mr. Richards and consisting of about forty-five head. These are on cake and grass.

Mr. White stated that he knew of no sales lately; that everything is very quiet in cattle circles around Brady.

CALLAHAN COUNTY CONDITIONS

Arthur Young of Baird was in Fort Worth Monday with a string of cattle. Mr. Young reports conditions highly satisfactory, cattle are picking up fat fast, grass is in good condition and there is little to complain of, since recent rains have put the country in prime condition. Mr. Young states that there will be some heavy shipping from that country very soon.

HOOD COUNTY CATTLE

Cattle are moving out of Hood county very freely," said F. G. Lewis of Granbury, who was on the Fort Worth market Monday with fifty-two head of fed steers that were in prime condition.

These steers were fed on cake and grass. Mr. Lewis commenced feeding them about the middle of December, and during a part of the winter added grain to their diet.

"I could have kept the bunch for another week, and they would have fed well during that period, but the fact that they might bring as much today in their present condition as they would had I waited another week and fed them during the time induced me to sell. The fact that cake is worth $30 a ton and the unsteady condition of the market convinced me that it was policy to turn them loose while I could at a small margin of profit.

In discussing the market situation, Mr. Lewis gave some new points on the methods in vogue among buyers who buy at the various markets in different cities. About three weeks ago Mr. Lewis shipped to Fort Worth a string of steers. He found the market here unsatisfactory and decided to ship to St. Louis. When the cattle arrived in St. Louis the price offered was just about the same as was offered in Fort Worth, although other cattle sold for a better price, and did not appear to be in as good condition as were those belonging to Mr. Lewis. When he found this to be the case, he again reshipped, this time to Chicago. Upon the arrival of the cattle at Chicago, Mr. Lewis found to his dismay that the Chicago market was hard on just such stuff as Mr. Lewis happened to have from Fort Worth and St. Louis.

That the people of both St. Louis and Chicago were communicated with and that they knew what Mr. Lewis had and the price offered for them at Fort Worth is not doubted by Mr. Lewis in the least. Other cattle were selling for more money than his would bring, though they were not as good stuff or in as good condition. "My advice to cattlemen," continued Mr. Lewis, "is not to reship, unless conditions are such that you cannot help it. Pick out the market that you prefer to ship to and go straight to that market and sell when you get there. It is the intention of the packers that you do this, and I see no way to do otherwise and come out in the long run.

"I have tried it both ways, and while I have at times been able to command a higher price for my stuff in both St. Louis and Chicago, it was at such times that I shipped direct to these markets.

"That an understanding exists between the packers of the different cities there can no longer be any doubt. That they will communicate with one another there can be no doubt. Men have brought cattle on the Fort Worth yards, reshipped them to St. Louis and sold them for less money. That was because it was the intention of the packers at Fort Worth to hold the southern stuff here, as they were better prepared to handle it. When the St. Louis buyers were tipped off that the cattle were coming, it was an easy matter to arrange it so that they would sell for just a certain price agreed upon beforehand. There is no way to help the matter. We can only do the best we can and take what they are willing to give us."

BIG COLORADO SALE

DENVER, Colo., July 11.—One of the largest deals in beef cattle ever made in the state of Colorado has just been consummated by the Colorado Live Stock Commission Company at the Denver stock yards.

This firm has sold to W. T. Gore of Liberty, Neb., about 2,500 head of the famous North Park steers. These steers were all finished on grass, being hay fed last winter, and have had no grain whatever. They are a well bred lot and are in fine flesh and it is estimated that they will weigh around 1,400 pounds delivered in Denver. Cattlemen of the North Park country have a reputation for sending fine steers to the market and their products are becoming known all over the country.

Among the owners are Hunter, Casteel & Hunter, A. K. Marr, B. A. Hunter, H. E. Hunter, A. E. Hill, Sterling Ish, Fletcher Campbell, William Norell and Fred McAvoy. Mr. Gore will receive the cattle weighed up on this market and expects to offer them for sale here. They will begin to arrive the first of next week and will continue to run until the first of September.

The price paid for the tops, $5.50 per 100 pounds, is probably the highest price paid for strictly grass cattle here in a good many years, and the whole string sold at $4.50 and better. The cash value of the cattle, it is estimated, will amount to close to $150,000. Colorado hay and grass fed cattle are fast forging to the front on all the principal markets of the country and are fast coming into competition with the eastern corn-feds.

SWELTERING EAST LOOKS TO TEXAS

Summer Resort Weather Is in Sharp Contrast to Deadly Heat of North

"Ten deaths and more than two score cases of prostration resulted from continuance of the wave of intense heat which reached this city Saturday."—Dispatch from New York.

"Intense heat was responsible for seven deaths during the past twenty-four hours."—Dispatch from Pittsburg.

"Average daily temperature for the first week in July was 73 degrees. Six o'clock Monday morning the thermometer went to 56 degrees."—Statement of D. S. Landis, official in charge local weather bureau.

The worm has turned.

Much maligned Texas, scourged by the tales of imaginative travelers, is basking in summer resort weather with free breezes from the gulf and plains while eastern coast and cities swelter with citizens dropping dead on the streets.

Fort Worth at present vies in climate and temperature with any summer resort in the United States. With the mornings crisp, positively cool, the days pleasant and sunshiny but not oppressively warm, while the evenings are pleasant and cool beyond description.

Inquiry shows that no authenticated cases of heat prostration have ever been reported in this city. Even when the sun has by an extra effort reached the century mark the crisp air and elevation of the city has offset the heat, while cool nights with the ever present breeze has refreshed citizens for another tussel with Old Sol.

Official weather bureau records since the establishment of a station in this city compare favorably with those of cities in the "cool" north.

Weather records for the months of July for the past ten years show that the mean or normal temperature for the month has been 83 degrees. The warmest months were those of 1896-7, with an average of 87 degrees. The coldest month was that of 1903, with an average of 81 degrees. The highest temperature was 105 degrees, on July 14, 1901, and the lowest was 63 degrees, on July 10, 1901. This record was lowered to 56 degrees Monday.

Average precipitation for the month has been 2.72 inches. The greatest monthly precipitation was 4.29 inches, in 1903, and the least was .55 inches, in 1897.

Prevailing winds have been from the south, with a velocity of thirteen miles an hour. The highest velocity of wind was forty-eight miles, from the south, July 3, 1902.

SHERIFF HONEA TO ATTACK STRAW BONDS

Will Discuss Frequent Methods of Escape at Coming Session of Sheriffs' Association

Sheriff John T. Honea, accompanied by his wife and daughter, left Monday night for Houston to attend the annual meeting of the Sheriffs' Association of Texas.

Mr. Honea will speak before the assembled sheriffs on the "straw bond" question, that of allowing persons to give bonds which are never collected, the criminal in the meantime making good his escape.

"I am going to rib them up," said Sheriff Honea Monday afternoon. The straw bond is too prevalent. Too often the prisoner fails to appear; then when an alias is issued the sheriff who has succeeded in arresting the man at first is censured for not getting him the second time after the bond is jumped.

GOLDEN NUGGETS FOR SALLOW PEOPLE

SANTA FE SPECIAL MAKES NEW RECORD

Trip From Chicago to Los Angeles in 45 Hours Now Said to Be Possible

KANSAS CITY, July 11.—The Scott special on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, racing for the record between Los Angeles and Chicago, reached Argentine, Kan., in the West Bottoms, at 3:37 o'clock this morning and departed for the north at 3:40. The train was due here at 5:30 o'clock and was thus one hour and 53 minutes ahead of its schedule. After leaving Argentine, one of the liveliest clips of the trip was maintained, the special covering 221 miles between Kansas City and Fort Madison, Iowa, in four hours and nine minutes.

This, according to Santa Fe officials, beats all records for the distance and makes it possible to reach Chicago on a 45-hour schedule from Los Angeles.

CHICAGO, July 11.—With every car blackened with the delirious record-breaking run from Los Angeles to Chicago, the Walter Scott special on the Santa Fe railroad arrived here at 11:54 o'clock this morning, having beaten all previous records by hours as wel as bettering the special trains of its own exacting schedule.

Consisting of a baggage car, diner and private living car, the train which left Los Angeles at 1 o'clock in the evening of Sunday came into the Polk street station today almost at top speed, having made the run of 2,265 miles in 44 hours and 56 minutes. This is a trifle over twelve hours faster than the time of the regular Santa Fe limited. It is three hours and four minutes faster than the original contract called for, which was forty-eight hours, and beats even the later schedule of forty-five hours by six minutes.

LORD ROBERTS SPEAKS PLAINLY

Officially Declares in the House of Lords That the British Army Is Inadequate

LONDON, July 11.—Field Marshal Lord Roberts created a sensation in the house of lords last night, when in a lengthy and well-chosen speech he expressed his opinion as a practical soldier that the military force of Great Britain was inadequate, imperfectly trained and totally unfit to uphold Great Britain as a first-class power.

Lord Roberts did not blame the government, which, he said, was actuated by a national feeling, but he scathingly attacked the English people, who, he said, showed no national feeling toward the military until danger arose; then, said Lord Roberts, the soldier was the pet of the people, but this was only an evanescent enthusiasm which did not entail self-sacrifice, and passed away as soon as the danger disappeared.

GENERAL PASSENGER AGENTS IN SESSION

Cut Rates to Colorado Believed to Be Under Discussion at Meeting Being Held Here Today

General passenger agents, or their representatives are here today attending an important passenger meeting, having adjourned from Dallas some weeks ago.

The meeting is a regular gathering of representatives of the different Texas roads for the purpose of considering traffic affairs as they relate to roads in this state.

While it is not acknowledged by those in attendance at the meeting, it is believed, and in fact admitted by some railroad men, that the recent reduction in passenger rates from Texas to Colorado points put into effect by several roads contrary to the ruling of the Southwestern Passenger Bureau, is to be given consideration, along with other matters strictly confined to passenger traffic.

There is a rumor to the effect that lines which received no benefits from the reduction will continue the rate war and still further reduce the round trip rates to Colorado with a sixty-day limit.

The meeting is being held at the Delaware hotel and is well attended.

Employes of Northern Texas Traction Company Have Night Picnic and Barbecue at Handley

Employes of the Northern Texas Traction Company held a picnic at Lake Erie Monday night, leaving this city at midnight and returning at 4:30 o'clock this morning.

Despite the unusual hour for the picnic and barbecue, it was well attended, all present returning to this city with glowing tales of pleasure.

Inability to be absent from duty in large numbers during the day, without serious inconvenience to the public, caused the holding of the affair at the unusual hour.

Sleepy motormen and conductors today bore tribute to the success of the innovation.

Every English submarine carries a cage of white mice. On the very slightest leakage of gasoline the fumes make the mice uncomfortable, and they speak. The mice are rated on the books of the ship like ordinary seamen, and the government allows them a shilling a week for food.

You Are Your Brother's Keeper

"How much civil war are the labor union leaders trying to push this country into?" someone asked.

Sometimes a man starts what he thinks will be a small fire, but it reaches inflammable materials and spreads beyond his control. The man that starts it is responsible for the damage

Colorado had a staggering dose of it. San Francisco, Omaha, St. Louis, and Chicago have had bitter experiences.

Every little hamlet where labor union strikes are called immediately begins to cast about for protection to life, limb and property.

The spirit of labor unionism rampant seems to turn peaceable citizens into demons. Peace officers are sneered at and attacked, law derided and defied, riot, anarchy and incipient civil war forced upon the people.

These atrocities seem to be extended as far as possible until common people are compelled to raise a strong restraining hand and command and enforce law and peace.

This is not an opinion but a fact forced upon us by the acts of labor unions.

How far they would push these acts of civil war, if given the full measure of power they seek, is a matter of opinion which each man's observation will help form.

Every reasoning man shrinks at the thought that any day may bring the strike, violence, misunderstanding, hate and bloodshed to his town or his own door and wrap him in its meshes.

Every workman fears the day when some Union "leader" clothed with authority and secretly grafting and dissipating on the union men's money may order him into idleness with the penalty of the hospital or the grave if he does not obey and every workman's wife hopes for peace but dreads the conditions that may be suddenly fastened upon her and her little household.

The Merchant fears the strike for it often means ruin, and the common citizen is forced into scenes of incipient civil war by the rioting mobs incited by labor unions.

We have oil, beef, steel and other trusts on one and hand numerous labor trusts on the other. The capital trusts attack the pocketbook and the labor trusts attack the person and property. Between the two the common people suffer, endure and pay the bills for the entire cost of the warfare, increased cost of necessities, cost of guards, policemen, sheriffs, militia, army, judges, court costs, etc., etc.

These strikes are far reaching to the common people. For instance, a strike in the building trades comes and the railroads must discharge some of their employes, for there is less lumber, lime, steel, stone, brick, etc., etc., to draw, then some teamsters must be laid off, then, many steel workers, coal miners, lumbermen, brick-makers, quarrymen and stonecutters, machinists, glass-workers, and scores of other artisans have their living taken from them, often bringing hunger and suffering to innocent men, women and children. Then the man with money says: "It's too much trouble and expense to build, with all the clashing of the various unions; you no sooner settle with one union when another goes on strike, and the worry, loss and many indignities make life a burden," so he keeps his money out at interest; literally hundreds of millions of "prosperity" here and ready for the people has been choken off in the past 2 years.

Every day's labor lost is lost forever.

We must look facts squarely in the face in seeking a remedy.

We see that employers do not stop industry, stone the street cars, throw them off the track, assault and murder motor-men and conductors, assault workmen, close factories and keep the common people from their usual privileges and methods of earning a living. Labor trust leaders arrogate to themselves the right to do these things and thus oppress the people.

Such acts are frequently done contrary to the wishes of a majority of the peaceful members of the unions. Inconvenience, loss of money, property or wages is bad enough, but what hurts to the heart's core and what rouses the manhood of the man in vehement protests, is the binding of manacles on the arms of our brother American citizens, subjecting them to slavery under union leaders and assaulting and murdering them when they are trying to earn a living for their wives and babies. Good authorities say from 70 to 90 out of 100 Chicago teamsters did not want to strike. They were satisfied with good wages and good jobs. But a leader or two with an object in mind "ordered" it and, as one teamster says, "what could the men do? If we kept our jobs we wouldn't get to State street with a load until there would be a mob yelling 'scab' and the bricks and stones flying; it's either quit or go to the hospital or worse."

That is slavery pure and simple.

So we see the power of organization placed in the hands of a few designing men and that power enough to gather the inflammable dangerous people into mobs and defy the civil government established and relied on by the people for their protection.

This dangerous condition is encouraged by what some call the "Daily Assassin," the "Murderers Advocate," alias the Yellow Journal, and some socialist and anarchist labor papers whose artful, criminal-minded writers, color, twist and misstate facts, always denouncing the man who pays money to support workmen, whether he be right or wrong, always urging the wage-earner to hate his work, to hate his employer, hate the laws, the peace officers, the government and the flag.

A union man was arrested in Chicago for complicity in some of the criminal civil warfare put upon the people. A writer for the Yellow Journal interviews the family and announces in heavy type:

"I'm glad that my husband suffers for his Union."

"Happy home robbed of its loyal head, visited and described."

"I wish my papa would come home, it's so awful lonesome without him," one child says.

"Papa gone. Papa way off, me want papa." from the baby.

Then follows account of how the father used to play with the children, but now the mother "weeps in the desolate little home, where all is loneliness and suffering brought on by the order of the powerful U. S. Judge." "Oh, it is so cruel," said the wife, "it is a terrible thing to take a man like my husband away from his family." (In reality he was confined a few days in a hotel and not sent to jail). "But I'm glad my husband can suffer for his Union," and a column more of "agony" mostly made up by the artful writer.

The eyes of a sympathetic workman glare with rage when he reads such skillfully worded articles, purposely intended to inflame him to a point of frenzy. "To hell with the laws, judges, and police that oppress the people." Out on the street he goes, an unreasoning fury and maniac, ready to riot, burn and murder.

Daily injections of the poison of the "Yellow Journal" change the former thrifty, upright citizen into a criminal and force him to sure destruction.

The "Murderers Advocate" is a riot maker and constructor of criminals to the limit of its ability.

Note its demoniacal art, how it works up sympathy and inflames passion by coloring and distorting the facts of this arrest, which was a wise, just, and under he circumsances, most lenient act in defense of the common people to preserve them from the violence of these lawbreakers and rioters. The impulsive, prejudiced workman is fed daily upon this mawkish, sentimental, poisonous gush; the criminals, petted, cuddled, and help up as martyrs and heroes, utterly ignoring the helpless children made fatherless, not by the fathers being temporarily detained in a hotel, but by the beating, maiming or murdering of over 500 fathers and brothers by the labor unions in the one strike in Chicago.

Large merchants up until recently have contributed great sums of money paid in advertising in these papers that are open enmies of law and order. Dearly have they paid for it in Chicago.

But while these rich merchants have suffered loss, what about the common people, the man trying to find food for his little family, the union man working contrary to "orders" or the plain American thinking he had a right to earn bread.

Observe the sickening sentiment worked up by the Yellow Journal over a union man restrained from working his violence on other citizens and compare it with the awful facts which scar the page of history and bow the proud head of liberty in shame, while her arms are stretched forth in mute appeal for vengeance and justice for the murder of her children—our brothers—yours and mine.

* * * * * *

Four men carried a stretcher with something on it covered with a blood-stained sheet, and when the front door of the little home was reached a scream of anguish and despair rose from the wife—"God help me! What have they done to my poor man?"—and lifting back the spotted sheet from the face of her husband she saw that face, black in many places, the swollen tongue hanging out and blood coursing from the mouth, one eye partly out of its socket, and the thick hair matted with blood oozing from a deep hole in the head.

Little Mary, 7 years old, came timorously to see, and said: "Is it papa, mamma? Who did that to my papa?" tears coming fast when she realized. "Papa wake up and let Mary help you wash your face, it's so dirty." But papa couldn't wake up.

When the poor beaten body was placed in the front room the weeping mother plead with the men to hasten for a doctor, but was told there was no use, for the doctor said an hour ago that he was dead. "Oh, what can I do, where can I get help," and with moans, beside herself with the shock and grief, she plead for her dead to come back to life.

The one glassy eye gave no response and the life current flowed steadily on from the 3-cornered hole under the clotted hair. "Oh, is there a God in heaven that will let such things be done and the murderers go free!"

Then turning she said: "I have been frigtened most to death every day since. Ed took that job, but he had to do something, for he had been out of work a long time and we had no money. He used to belong to the Union, but they fined him $50 for something and he didn't have the money to pay it so they put him out and wouldn't let him take a job anywhere. We would have moved away to some little town where he could get work without being hounded by the Union, but we hadn't the money to go on. So when this strike came he was offered a team to drive and guaranteed protection. We had to have bread and meat and that was the only way we could get it. The first day's wages brought us something to eat and we were hungry, I can tell you. But I have been afraid every day that something awful would happen. Yesterday I heard a man say to another: "There's where the d—— scab lives, somebody ought to burn the house," and the other one said, "No, let Mike's gang do him, that's just as good."

Some of the school children threw stones and chased my Mary home, and the little thing dropped to the floor in fright. I couldn't let her go any more and we've stayed close in the house ever since.

"Where we can go now or what we can do God only knows," and sinking down beside the mangled corpse the stricken widow folded little innocent Mary to her heart and silently prayed to God for help, that was all she could do, as the men turned and left that picture which bore the read seal of the "entertainment committee" of a labor union.

A poor girl was trying to help support her mother, and unableto get other work took a position as pressfeeder. She was escorted home by policemen to protect her from hyenas of the Franklin Pressfeeders Union. One night she risked going home alone because the policemen were not there. Within two block of the works she was attacked by the union men, dragged into an alley, and when they had finished with her and applied the union label she was found unconscious, one eye gouged out and her left breast completely torn off.

One of God's creations, reconstructed by the "labor union" striving to forcer employers to hire their members alone and force all others to starve while a complaisant public anda cowardly press look on. This is the presen plan in America, under the management of the "labor trust" and vote-hunting officials.

* * * * * *

An aged woman hobbled on her cane up the steps of a city hospital enquiring for her boy.

He lay pale and helpless on a cot, but greeted the dear old face tenderly. "Oh, my poor boy," was all the trembling old lips could utter, as the knotted fingers that had toiled many years for that boy sought to stroke his hair.

Briefly and faintly he told her of how the Union men had struck him down with bricks, and when lying half conscious one man kicked him in the head and face and another jumped repeatedly on his stomach, breaking and tearing apart some of his intestines, and the doctors gave him only a few hours to live.

"I am so glad you came, mother dear," he whispered, I am going to see father and you will come soon." A death-like faintness stilled his voice and closed his eyes. The patient old mother sat by her boy until the twilight came and the lengthening shadows told of the nearby departure of the light of day, when with faint smile and gasped "goodbye" the sunlight of her day passed out into the beyond leaving her feeble and alone on a wide sea without compass, chart or help.

There may be a tender God somewhere that, unknown to the rest of us reaches down to help those crushed and destroyed by the sluggers and murderers in labor unions. But that crippled old mother, with her gray head bowed over the broken body of the boy God had allowed her to bring into this world, unbroken and perfect, printed on the minds of everyone who saw it, a deeply engraved picture of the "Union label" they will never forget.

Over 500 human beings beaten, maimed or murdered by Union men during the Chicago strike.

What for? Because they were free Americans and felt they had a right to earn food for themselves and little ones. But the labor trust says: "All work is for us and no one else shall work." So murder is done to force every citizens to obey the orders of the labor trust. Men have a right to quit work when not suited. From whence comes their right to murder our American citizens seeking bread?

* * * * * *

Are these examples the only acts done in the name of "unionism?" Multiply them by ten thousand and you will not cover the tyranny and terror of jeers, insults, threats to workmen, police, lawyers, officials, judges and statesmen, the daily meanness and outrage to the independent man working alongside the union man, the bolts loosened and cables cut to make the derrick fall and kill. The scaffolds and ladders partly sawed to murder. The houses, factories and mines dynamited, the care derailed to kill people, the holes cut in the bottom of vessels, water poured into moulds so they would burst and throw hot moulten iron over the independent workmen. Men pushed off roofs, docks and scaffolds, women and men followed by outlaw members of the "entertainment committee" and assaulted and murdered, industry stopped and anarchy established in a determined effort to place all the people under subjection and slavery to the labor leaders. They repeatedly demand subjection of our public officials, even the President himself, to their orders.

But the slavery is so galling to the common people, including many union men, that citizens now demand a return of their freedom.

A set of resolutions signed by a mass of R. R. workmen has lately been received expressing htanks for the efforts to help the Union clean out the loud-mouther criminals who have gained control in many cases. Another letter of thanks comes on the letter head of the order of Railway Conductors and many individual letters from honest Union men express the hope that the campaign against crime will enable the peaceable and upright members of the Union to gain control of them.

The public is not opposed to organization by workmen for beneficial purposes. But when those organizations are used for violence, law-breaking and oppression, the public demand that they be cleansed and cleansed quickly or be forced into the background. The universal denunciation by the public is working for ultimate good. It must be continued fearlessly and the power of organization brought to bear, for the evil is tenacious, and the blackmailing violent men in charge will not give way easily.

* * * * * *

The deep rumble and murmur of the coming storm has at last awakened the sleeping giant, and the common people now propose to place the money trusts on one side of the road, the labor trusts on the other, and leave the highway of progress clear for its rightful owner. There will be no attempt to destroy either money or labor trusts so long as they are lawfully conducted, but we, the common people propose to prevent any trust or organization from stopping our R. R. or street cars, steam boats, carriage or truck lines, manufacturing or other industries, interfering with personal liberty or insulting, assaulting or murdering American citizens, whether Independent, Union, White, Black, Brown or Yellow.

This movement by citizens organizing for defense, means the power of the great republic, the 780 out of the 800 (statistics show about 20 union men in every 800 citizens) massed to protect the merchant from boycott, the union man from tyranny either by labor leaders or money trusts, the transportation companies from having their cars or trains stopped, the factories from being shut down, and the individual common American from any interference with his constitutional inherited liberty.

The time has come when the people propose to again take control and govern safely, wisely and in accordance with the law handed down to us as the ripened expeirence of our ancestors.

Remember that during strike excitement, the stars and stripes grow dim in the minds of many and the red rag of anarchy takes form. You see the hint, and often more than hint, in nearly every strike.

When the sweet, strong crash of the brass and the roar and snarl of the drum blends the sturdy, rythmic tramp, tramp, tramp of army brogans, planted steadily to the front by feet that don't know how to walk backwards; and when the blue sleeves touch shoulders with their mates and the grim, steel-topped columns of Uncle Sam's soldiers swing into line, a cool little thrill stiffens the back, glitters in the eye and tingles to the finger tips of every thoroughbred American.

Its the call of your forebears, its the twang on your heart strings by the spirit fingers of your grand dad, my boy, and his soul tells to your soul "that band of blue is your inherited weapon of defense."

"It is system, organization and power, and the flag at the front stiffens in the breeze to show you an emblem, a perpetual remembrance of the best gift of God to man—Human Liberty. We were robbed of that gift many years ago, but won it back and the sacred right was handed down to you. Tyrants will arise from time to time and press you hard. Anarchists will proclaim 'to hell with the flag, it's naught but a rag and would better be a red one.' You may be forced to give up money, property, home or friends in your struggle if you let tyrants grow too strong before you act."

"But keep the old flag nailed to the mast, and whether in calm it enfolds the pole, or in fierce storm it snaps crisp and bold, place your eyes there; bare the head and reverently thank Almighty God you have a token of his gift."

In assuming the duties of Pres. of the Nat'l Citizens Industrial Ass'n with its various allied associations, it is my hope to help unify and amalgamate citizens, placing in their hands the power of organization, to meet organized oppression with superior strength, and it shall be my earnest, unchangeable purpose to direct that strength only for defense and justice.

To the Union man this pledge is offered: we will earnestly stand by, support and help him, against the tyranny and slave driving of labor trust leaders or injustice by employers and the capital trusts.

I am an open advocate of high wages, and an 8-hour work-day, and will support peaceful methods, which do not oppress others in bringing them about.

But the Union man and all others must remember the Citizens' Ass'n is for the defense of liberty, and in order to obtain its support, the individual must himself abstain from tyranny over his brother.

When the Eternal Father gave to his children this beautiful America, fitted by the deftness of his own hand for cradling the highest type of that being, "made in the likeness and image of God" he gave that being air to breath, which vitalizes freemen but stifles tyrants.

With that gift came the Father's deep toned injunction to each son, "You are your brother's keeper."

MORE GOVERNMENT WHITEWASH

No great amount of public surprise has been revealed over the state of affairs revealed by the partial investigation of the statistical department of the Federal bureau of agriculture. It has been apparent to the cotton producers of the country that advance information was being furnished of the monthly government cotton estimates to the Wall street speculative element, back for a period of time extending about three years. So accurate has the information given proved that the men on the inside have been able to completely manipulate the market, robbing the producers of hundreds of thousands of dollars annually, and contributing just that much to the impoverishment of the south.

When the Southern Cotton Producers' Association got next to some inside information which seemed to implicate parties employed in the statistical department of the Federal bureau of agriculture, Secretary Cheatham of the association was sent to Washington to lay the facts before Secretary Wilson. That worthy became very indignant over the charge and bitterly denied it, but when Cheatham placed some documents in his possession that he could not go around, he ordered an investigation of the situation by the Federal secret service. It did not take long for the secret service men to run one of the guilty parties down and the disclosures were such as to demand the summary dismissal of Assistant Statistician Holmes, who seems to be the man who has done all the negotiating with the New York end of the scandal.

Secretary Wilson has tried to stop the investigation with the removal of Holmes, under the mistaken policy and belief that the excitement will all die down if it is not further agitated. In fact, the keen desire of the secretary to suppress the real facts and hush the whole matter up is so apparent that it begets the suspicion that he is trying to shield a lot of government employes who are perhaps just as deep in the mud as the man Holmes is in the mire. Secretary Wilson seems to have violated the confidence of Cheatham and others in the disclosures he has made, and has called down upon his devoted head a perfect volley of remonstrances in consequence. He has also named a prominent New York cotton broker as a party to the nefarious transactions that have occurred under his very nose, and that gentleman is now after him with a sharp stick. Further than that, it was announced to the public at the time the scandal was made public that Holmes could not be prosecuted for his crime, the United States district attorney being quoted to that effect, and that worthy is now out in a strong denial and gives his statement to the public which seems strangely at variance with that of Secretary Wilson.

The truth of the situation seems to be that Secretary Wilson is guilty of a veritable comedy of errors in his handling of this matter. With an apparent horror of the effects of the proper publicity, he has been so shortsighted as to imagine that the whole miserable affair could be hushed up and no harm done. He has committed one egregious blunder right after another, according to those who are now censuring his actions and attitude, and is consequently the recipient of some very severe criticism. Parties who feel aggrieved and disgruntled in consequence of Secretary Wilson's action are calling upon him and demanding that he correct the errors they alleged, but the man from Iowa is standing pat and says he has no corrections to make in the premises. He characterizes the whole situation as a row between gamblers, and does not seem to attach much importance to it.

In the meantime, the president has instructed the department of justice to look into the matter and see what can be done in the matter of meting out the proper punishment to the man Holmes, and if a criminal prosecution is instituted it will certainly result in all the facts coming out and a complete investigation of the agricultural department in spite of Secretary Wilson's apparent determination to use the whitewash brush and put the lid on any further attempts at investigation.

The cotton men of the south are jubilant over the fact that they have been able to establish the truth of the allegation that there was an improper leak in the department, and believe that it will result in preventing such a contingency in the future. It was a great scheme, but so clumsy withal that it is surprising it was able to stand so long under pressure. If President Roosevelt will take hold of this incident and push it to the very bottom he will still further endear himself to the people of the south who have only been clamoring for a square deal.

ANOTHER RICHMOND INTIMATED

It is said that Land Commissioner Terrell is pluming himself for governor, and this no doubt accounts for the great interest he is taking in opening certain state lands to settlement. Some time ago Mr. Terrell announced through the columns of the daily press that on the first of September about six million acres of land would come on the market and would be offered for sale at a price not to exceed $2 per acre and the most of it at $1 and that he would be pleased to answer all communications in regard to same. The following week notices practically to the same effect were mailed to all the country newspapers in the state, with the request that they be published. As can be seen by referring to last week's Herald, Mr. Terrell would impress the public with the fact that it is his great love for the poor homeless people of Texas that has prompted him to take such an interest in placing these lands in the hands of the real homeseeker and it may be, but it has always been the observation of the Herald that whenever you see a public officer advertising that it is "no trouble to show goods," his stock is either composed of job lots, or he has an ax that is in very bad working condition and needs working upon. If this is not a scheme to whip the newspapers into some free advertising over the backs of the homeseekers of the state we will acknowledge our inability at guessing.—Wichita Falls Herald.

Land Commissioner Terrell has a perfect right to enter the lists as a candidate for governor if he desires, but he should take warning from the fate of a number of his predecessors and stand from under. The position of land commissioner has not in the past proved a stepping stone to gubernatorial honors, and the political honors of Texas land commissioners have almost invariably ended with their incumbency of that position. There is no dearth of gubernatorial timber now available in Texas. In fact, the four men who are now before the people in the capacity of avowed candidates are so strong that already there is talk of locked conventions and dark horses galore. It seems there is a quite a coterie of distinguished citizens of Texas who have their lightning rods elevated just back of the men who are in the field, all willing to attract the gubernatorial lightning.

Commissioner Terrell has made some rulings in his conduct of the land office that have not given satisfaction. His arbitrary action in the matter of advancing the price of state school land and in practically doubling the lease price of much of the land that was held by western cattlemen has caused considerable antagonism on behalf of both the cattlemen and the actual settler. While the commissioner claimed in justification of his action that he was simply looking after the interests of the children of Texas in the augmenting of the school fund, the charge was freely made out in the western portion of the state that it was done for political capital and effect. That idea seems to comport very well with the suggestions of the Wichita Falls paper, which scents his announcement as a candidate for governor, and imputes to him political motives in the handling of the school land now coming on the market.

Commissioner Terrell is now finishing out his second term as land commissioner, and as there is an unwritten law against the third term in Texas official life, it is probable he will not offer as a candidate to succeed himself. It may be that he has his eyes on the position now occupied by Lanham, but it is a mark beyond the reach of the gentleman. He may have done much for the protection of the school children's land by screwing down on the live stock interests of the west at the time when they were the most sorely harassed and imposed upon by other adverse influences, but that action will not be sufficient to bring to him the coveted reward.

There are many combinations in Texas state politics, and there is always a wheel within a wheel, but that does not signify that the people of the state will be made a party to any combination that seeks to make personal aggrandizement the price of duty well and properly performed. The Telegram does not say these things on account of any personal animosity toward Commissioner Terrell, but lays them down as a broad proposition for the benefit of all who may seek by such methods to gain aggrandizement at the expense of such methods to gain aggran- expense of the people and the public service.

The amount of bonus now in sight for the proposed interurban line to Mineral Wells reaches the sum of $52,000, which is just about enough to cover the offer of $1,000 per mile, which was hung up as an inducement to the first company that would build and operate the line. This sum is just $48,000 short of what is demanded by the Louisiana promoter of the enterprise, but is sufficient to justify the belief that the line will be constructed. It is stated the soliciting committee will continue work.

The report of the New York labor department shows that the labor unions of that portion of the country have lost ground on account of some ill-advised strikes. Labor has suffered severely in the east from the machinations of crafty and incompetent leaders, but that is no real reflection on the bone and sinew of the different organizations.

The superintendent of the Oklahoma City public schools complains that there are too many female teachers employed in the schools, and as 1,500 Oklahoma farmers are now advertising for wives, it is suspected that a big scheme has been evolved to drive the Oklahoma schoolma'am into matrimony.

Too much rain is the cry from the greater portion of Texas, and the cotton crop is very badly in the grass. While the corn acreage is probably not so great as last year, the outlook for a bumper crop was never better. Out in West Texas the corn crop is reported unusually fine this year.

MOST ANYTHING

A WORD FROM JOSH WISE

Some people 're slow an' sure, but most people is jest slow.

COULDN'T TAKE 'EM ON THE ROAD

Ed G. Crosby of Waterville was in town the other day. Ed used to be a newsmonger, or broker in fairy tales. That was some years ago, and he made quite a reputation as a hustler for news over around Waterville. At that time he carried, as a side line to news getting, one of the most conspicuous red beards to be found in all Maine. Now hes' selling goods on the road, and has shaved off his whiskers.—Bangor correspondence, Lewiston Journal.

"No, my son, there's nothing in this mad rush for wealth, this mad scramble for a few dollars," said the kindly old man. "How grand it is to hear people say, when you die, 'He was an honest and poor man.'"

"What's the use of saying so much?" asked the young man on whom the advice was poured. "If they say you were honest there's no use in explaining you were poor. Everybody'll know that."

"Why do they name cigars after popular actors? I don't see any sense to it."

"It seems to me to be most appropriate."

"How so?"

"A popular actor draws well—and a cigar ought to."

SQUALLS ON LAKE ERIE

"Senator," said the young reporter, "everybody wishes to know why you will not be a candidate for re-election."

"What's the use of running again?" asked the senator. "I've never been arrested or indicted and I don't need vindication."

"Enjoyed yourself in Chicago?"

"Oh, yes, I had a fine time."

THE MYSTERY OF 19,000 POUNDS

BY BUFORD DELANNOY

(Copyright, 1905, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

CHAPTER VII.

THE NUMBERS OF THE MISSING NOTES.

On the wharf at Queenstown Loide secured a position where, concealed himself, he could watch the liner.

Hours seemed to drag by. At last the tender put off with the mails and reached the steamer's side.

The bags were handed on board, and presently he made out a wake of foam from the blades of the steamer's screw. The tender had turned and was coming back. There was no excitement.

Ultimately Loide reached London, and let himself into his office after dark—as he had left it.

He made shirt, clothing and wig, and all the coal he had in his office scuttle into a parcel, and a short while after that parcel was making a hole for itself in the soft mud under London bridge.

The disguise was disposed of—and Richard was himself again.

An aggravated, very much upset Richard. He had committed actual murder, and was not a penny the richer for it.

But Loide no longer imagined those crisp Bank of England notes to be in the steamer's strong room.

He did not believe they were even on the ship. That towel removed and a tragic story stared him in the face.

What did it mean?

That he could not fathom. One solid fact was existent—there had been foul play.

Some one had the notes. The man in whose possession they were had a hand in the murder. And this is where Mr. Loide hoped to step in and take a part in the drama.

The hand of death had lowered the curtain on the first act, and the lawyer just hankered after getting behind the scenes.

He formed an idea of his own that for some reason Depew was lurking in England; had bargained with the man Loide had killed to personate him on the boat and so destroy a clew to his existence in London.

What then did the other, the cut up body mean? Who could that have been?

He regretted now that his horror had prevented his looking at the head.

That was another puzzle, and he could not in any way solve it.

But he was bent on one thing—the finding of Mr. Depew, and the bleeding of him for all he was worth.

Suddenly a thought came to him which sent all the blood to his heart and caused him to start to his feet in alarm.

Suppose he had been deceived? Suppose he had not handed the money over to the real George Depew?

He broke into a cold sweat at the mere idea!

He remembered how exceedingly lax he had been because Depew had frightened him.

The American had seen through the frauds on his aunt, and practically taxed the lawyer with them. Had he chosen, he could have made him disgorge all those gains of years.

Why had he not? If the real, genuine nephew, why had he not, with his suspicions aroused, insisted on an inspection of the back accounts? What if a real George Depew appeared on the scene and demanded that which was his?

The lawyer called to mind how meager had been the identification. He remembered that, frightened as he had been he had accepted a certificate of birth, and some envelopes directed to Depew in America, as confirmation that he was the read man.

For that the lawyer would never forgive himself. In ordinary circumstances he would have probed much more deeply.

He thought of his own disguise; how he had so changed his own appearance that he had not known himself in the mirror.

Why should not Depew have done a similar thing?

Did disguise account for the different appearance of the man who was now crossing the Atlantic with a gaping wound in his throat?

No; he felt that was not so. Depew was a head shorter than the man he killed.

He was glad he remembered that, because it removed the slightest doubt. It convinced him that Depew was in London, and it must be his—Loide's—business to find him.

Find him, and put pertinent questions to him; make him do a sum in arithmetic—two into ninteen—and hand over the quotient.

He did not fear an interview. The unexpected always happens, and the unexpectant one is generally at a disadvantage.

Loide felt that, in the language of Depew's country, he would be "upper dog" in the interview.

And then he set his wits to work—how to discover George Depew's whereabouts.

And meanwhile, in the same compass, within the radius of the city of London, another man was thinking—thinking with the same strained look on his face, too.

He was standing looking out of the window of a room in Finsbury circus, gnawing what was left of the nails of his hand, and watching but for one man's advent—the postman.

He was not looking for the telegraph boy—he knew it was too late for that—but a letter from his brother.

It had been arranged between them that the moment Arthur reached Queenstown in safety he should send a telegram with the two words "All serene" if things were so.

As the day passed by and nothing came, the dentist became positively ill. He drank all that was left of a bottle of brandy, and for the first time in his life went home the worse for it.

His wife was surprised, amazed, shocked. That was, perhaps, as well.

In her offended dignity she stood aloof from him. It was better so.

Long before breakfast in the morning he had left the house. He wanted to be in Finsbury circus before the postman, and he was.

The first delivery—no letter. He staggered back, fell into a chair, and buried his face in his hands. What could it mean?

His brain was pregnant with but two ideas. His brother had promised to telegraph—he had not. His brother had promised to write—he had not.

And he seemed to see that one question standing out in fiery letters on the wall: "What did it mean?"

He had the notes. He had instructions what to do with them, but he dared not carry out those instructions.

Suppose his brother had been arrested—arrested with the terrible contents of those two portmanteaus in his possession!

As each edition of the evening papers came out, he sent Sawyer for copies, but he gleaned nothing from them, no arrest was reported, nothing in any way bearing on the matter.

The purchase of the papers did no good.

Loide made up his mind. It was risky what he proposed doing, because as a man innocent of any knowledge of what had occurred, he was clearly, legally wrong in doing it.

Still he had to find Depew, and there was only one way to do it.

Fraught with risk—but he risked it. Desperate diseases need desperate remedies.

He sat down and pulled a sheet of his headed office paper toward him. Then—as a lawyer—he wrote a letter.

It was to the Bank of England stopping the numbers of the 19 notes he had obtained from that institution, and paid over to Mr. Depew.

Bold, daring, but must necessarily be successful.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE SEALED UP CABIN.

"Man overboard!"

The cry rang through the ship—as cries of that sort do—first uttered by the man who witnessed the happening, and then passed from mouth to mouth.

As a matter of fact, it was a girl—a child—who had fallen overboard, and the nurse was standing with blanched face and clasped hands, watching what looked like a bundle of clothing on the surface of the ocean, which bundle the vessel was rapidly leaving astern.

Then another cry rang out. It was literally a man overboard this time—a real man.

For such a title is surely due to one who plunges from a liner's deck into the sea to save another's life.

Rescuer and rescued were finally hauled into a boat, and carried to the waiting ship, neither of them much the worse for the ducking.

The girl was seized by her mother and nurse, and speedily carried off to their own private cabin.

The rescuer—Gerald Danvers, a second-class passenger—at his own request went down the stoke hole.

Brave enough to dive into the sea, he yet had a dreadful fear of rheumatism, to which he was subject; hence his desire for the warmth of the stoke hole.

A drink of brandy and willing hands to rub him down and the warmth of the stoke hole soon made him himself.

He had at hand only the clothes he stood upright in; the rest of his wardrobe, packed in a portmanteau, was in the hold.

The usual custom was departed from, and a man dispatched to try to find his portmanteau—a brown one with his initials, "G. D.," on it.

"Don't bring it down here, old chap," said Danvers to the man who had volunteered to fetch it. "Here are my keys. There are only clothes in it. Just bring me underflannels and shirt; that's all. I can wait while these trousers dry."

The things were brought him, and he sat talking to the men while his trousers dried, as they very quickly did in such an atmosphere, and before long he was on deck again.

He would probably have been made to pose as a hero—for a shipload of passengers needs something to occupy its attention—but another more startling sensation came about.

The mere saving of a life sank into insignificance before the loss of one.

The sea was not rough, and very few passengers were in their berths.

Before dinner, the steward went over his list, and found that the occupants of one of the two berthed cabins had not figured at the breakfast or luncheon.

He went to the door of the cabin and rapped with his knuckles—twice—thrice. Getting no answer, he turned the handle and pushed open the door.

One berth was empty; in the other the occupant was apparently asleep.

"Don't you feel well, sir?"

No answer. Question repeated. Same result.

Then the steward drew aside the curtains, and was transformed into the whitest-faced being aboard that ship. For what he saw was a man lying there, not asleep, but dead.

GLEANINGS FROM EXCHANGES

From this distance it begins to look like Colonel Beardsley would have every chance in the world to build the interurban line between Fort Worth and Mineral Wells. The way the Fort Worth citizens are going after the proposition looks something like they meant business.—San Angelo Standard.

The citizens of Fort Worth always mean business when they get in behind any proposition, and the benefits to accrue from the construction of this interurban line are very generally appreciated.

Texas does need more factories, and the factory people are themselves beginning to learn of the advantages and opportunities existing in the state. There are many inquiries now being made for locations.

The grown persons who suffer from accidents occurring in this manner do not usually receive much sympathy. The general sentiment seems to be that they should not indulge in child's play.

The nurse in the room heard Mrs. Durrell exclaim: "I am shot," and on going to the bedside discovered that the unfortunate woman was dead.—Gainesville Messenger.

The powers of imagination exert a wonderful influence on the human mind at times, but it is not often that a person is literally scared to death. In such instances it is probable that death ensues from the failure to act of a very weak heart.

The prediction that cotton would go to 12 cents a pound before the end of the present season will certainly be realized if the consumption demand continues to increase and the rains in the cotton belt continue to affect the growing crop in such a way as to decrease production. It is not safe to advise speculation on "bull" estimates, but it is probably safe to predict that the tendency of prices from now on is apt to be toward a higher rather than a lower level.—San Antonio Express.

Cotton has shown a very gratifying increase in value, and thousands of bales have been called out of hiding and sold. But there are some holders who have roseate dreams of 15 cents per pound and are holding on to the stock on hand like grim death. This may be all right, but the fact remains that the time to sell cotton is when it is bringing a good price.

Texas continues to lead the union in railroad building. This shows that Texas does not treat the railroads quite so badly as some people would have us believe.—Houston Post.

Letters to The Telegram

PUBLICITY IN CITY AFFAIRS

To The Telegram:

Publicity is considered a cure all for evils connected with corporations and trusts. Why is it not a good thing in a city like Fort Worth? The general public is entitled to know just what its creatures, the corporations, are doing. Just so the citizens of Fort Worth ought to know what our city government does with the people's money. Citizens must know what has been done and what our city fathers propose to do in order to take a proper interest in municipal affairs. They must know about all the details in order to pass a just opinion on what is being done.

We are told that the average citizen takes no interest in such matters, and the citizen is blamed for his lack of patriotism. But how can one take an interest in such affairs unless he is given a chance to see the whole game?

You can't get interested in a tenn's or baseball game unless you know the details. You must know who made this point, who lost that, and how the game stands; who wins and who loses and by how much.

Now, in the first place, our citizens have no chance to know what ordinances are already on the records. Every house in the city should have a complete and accurate compilation of the city ordinances, charters and amendments. We are supposed to know the law, yet 99 out of every 100 citizens do not know our city laws, and have they any fair chance to learn them? The charter and ordinances should be in the hands of every voter. It will cost something to bring this about, but Fort Worth is at least able to let its people know the laws which they are expected to observe.

And every citizen should have before him in the daily papers reports of city officers, showing all expense items, together with such explanations as will enable him to judge as to the necessity for such expenditure. If streets are being paved we should know what it costs, what bids were put in and all about it.

If streets are being graveled we should know who bid on the job and what the bids were. If the city is paying for thousands of loads of gravel, we should know what it costs per yard, who furnishes it. All about the letting of the jobs, if any are let, and if none are let we should know why bids were not asked for. Competitive bids for city work are considered very good to safeguard the city's interests. If instead of private contracts are made, the utmost care should be taken to inform the public fully why such contracts were made and to show citizens that they have not suffered loss by reason of a failure to let such contracts to the lowest bidder. The same is true of waterworks expenses. Coal for instance. How many citizens know how much coal is used per day at the waterworks, or how much it costs? If it is hauled across the city instead of having a spur track laid to the works—we should be informed as to the cost of hauling, and the reasons, if any there are, why a switch is not made to do, for almost nothing, what now costs a good round sum yearly.

These are merely some of the points on which we ought to be informed, but concerning which most of us are entirely in the dark. If we wish to have our city well governed and fit to live in, here is the beginning point. Let us call on our mayor and aldermen to show us the books—not to a few of us who may have time to search for the items on the books and records, but to all the citizens. Let us demand the utmost openness in the conduct of city affairs and that no pains or expense be spared to bring a detailed knowledge of what our city government is doing, home to every voter.

Verses That Ring

THE JOLLIER

When the day is dark and cheerless,
And the sky is chill and gray,
There's a fellow who is welcome
As the blossoming in May.
He has a way that differs
From the manner of the thong,
As he pauses in the hurry,
Just to jolly you along.

You never stop to question
If his motive is sincere—
You never ask the sunshine
If its character is clear—
You never feel suspicious
As a bird pours forth its song,
And it's that way with the fellow
Who can jolly you along.

We esteem the man of duty,
And we fear the man of power;
And each in turn we welcome
As the hero of the hour.
But there ought to be some medals,
And some praise in language strong,
For the man who makes life brighter,
Just by jollying folks along.

ROBBED CONEY ISLAND SHOW

A LIFE WORTH WHILE

"I shall be content if because of me there shall be better fruits and fairer flowers."

These are the words of Luther Burbank, the modern miracle worker, whose life and deeds prove the sincerity of his purpose and reveal the quality of true greatness.

The man who can say these things from the heart has a grasp upon the vital things of life which cannot fail to make his influence of almost infinite value to his fellowmen. He is truly great. He sees things in their right perspective. He is an accurate judge of values. He sees things in their wheat from the tares. He knows what is worth while.

For him the mad, heartless rush of the money-getter has no attractions. The goal is not worth the cost.

From him the sickening scramble for public office meets with no approval. The price is too great.

To him the sordid bickerings of business and the petty, senseless doing of society make no appeal. Life has a richer meaning.

He has realized the beauty and the joy of unselfish service to men. He has discovered how to make his own life count in the lives of others. To give men "better fruits and fairer flowers," to give pleasure and satisfaction to untold millions, to add to the beauty of the world and to make life richer and fuller is to such a man the attainment of what is highest and best.

The brutal desire for power over men is supplanted by the beneficent direction of the forces of nature in the service of men.

A more beautiful world and better men and women—this is the ideal of such a life.

Surely it is a life worth while.

Dyspepsia of Women

ABSOLUTELY NEEDLESS AGONY

Caused by Uterine Disorders and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

A great many women suffer with a form of indigestion or dyspepsia which does not seem to yield to ordinary treatment. While the symptoms seem to be similar to those of ordinary indigestion, yet the medicines universally prescribed do not seem to restore the patient's normal condition.

Mrs. Pinkham claims that there is a kind of dyspepsia that is caused by a derangement of the female organism, and which, while it causes a disturbance similar to ordinary indigestion, cannot be relieved without a medicine which not only acts as a stomach tonic, but has peculiar uterine-tonic effects also.

As proof of this theory we call attention to the case of Mrs. Maggie Wright, Brooklyn, N. Y., who was completely cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after everything else had failed. She writes:

"For two years I suffered with dyspepsia which so degenerated my entire system that I was unable to attend to my daily duties. I felt weak and nervous, and nothing that I ate tasted good and it caused a disturbance in my stomach. I tried different dyspepsia cures, but nothing seemed to help me. I was advised to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial, and was happily surprised to find that it acted like a fine tonic, and in a few days I began to enjoy and properly digest my food. My recovery was rapid, and in five weeks I was a well woman. I have recommended it to many suffering women."

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement, or has such a record of cures of female troubles, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

SHORTER SCHEDULE FOR STOCK TRAINS

Rock Island Officials Are Here Considering Plans for Fast Cattle Service

The Rock Island has under consideration plans for improving the live stock movement over its line from Texas to the north, and to this end Division Superintendent A. C. McCall and Trainmaster C. W. Jones of Chickasha, I. T., are here conferring with higher officials. The plan is to give a quicker service by reducing the present schedule.

The intention is to lower the running time of stock trains from Fort Worth to Harrington, Kan., three hours.

WEST TEXAS LINE

Major Beardsley to Get Bonus for a Steam Road

Besides being a promoter of electric railroads, Major J. D. Beardsley of Louisiana, who has been making estimates and figuring on building an interurban road from Fort Worth and Mineral Wells, is credited with having under consideration the building of a steam road to extend from Abilene on the Texas and Pacific north to Quanah on the Fort Worth and Denver City line, a distance of 125 miles. This is a project the citizens of Abilene have cherished many years.

According to present plans the line is to pass through the towns of Anson, Haskell, Benjamin and other places. The country through which it is proposed to build the road is very promising from an agricultural standpoint and the people along the route are enthusiastic and have already offered a bonus of $250,000 if Major Beardsley will construct the road.

FIRST MAP OUT

Brownsville Road Plans and Extensions Shown on Paper

The first map of the St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico railroad has been published and tells officially the first story of what may be expected in completion of a great Texas railroad system skirting the Gulf coast and reaching out with main or trunk lines connecting nearly every important city in Texas, besides forming connections with the Fort Worth and Denver City road and thus penetrating the northwest through a great system of railroads under process of consolidation and purchase by the Yoakum-Hawley syndicate.

The road already has 233 miles in operation, and within the next two weeks twenty miles more northward to Refugio will be added to the system. By September the main line will be open to Bay City, adding 117 more miles of road. At the present time a large force of workmen is pushing construction north of Bay City to Algoa, where connection will be made with the Santa Fe, letting the coast line trains into Houston and Galveston by Jan. 1, next. The system will then have a mileage of 457. The line will also form a junction with the Brazos Valley, and now has under consideration other extensions that will take the company into Louisiana and eastern Texas points.

SANTA FE PLANS

As announced in The Telegram some months ago the Santa Fe will build an extension of its Lampasas branch from San Angelo to Rincon, N. M., where a connection will be made with its transcontinental line. The building of this cut-off will reduce the distance between San Francisco and Galveston by the Santa Fe several hundred miles. The Santa Fe, Prescott and Phoenix railroad is to become a part of this system. The Santa Fe's transcontinental line is to be further shortened by the building of the Arizona and California road to a connection with the present main line at Daggetts, Cal., and the completion of the Phoenix and Eastern. When these roads are completed the Santa Fe will have a direct and low-grade line between Galveston and California.

FRISCO ROLLING STOCK

The Frisco is making preparations for a heavy fall business and contracts for improvements and betterments aggregating $3,500,000 have been awarded by President Davidson. The equipment includes coal cars principally to the number of more than 5,000 and are to be distributed on various lines of the company. Other rolling stock includes fifty-two locomotives. These additional engines and cars bring the total to be paid by the Frisco for new equipment up to $7,750,000. Much of the new equipment is to be put into service on the Texas line.

IN RECEIVER'S HANDS

Thus far in the present year only five railroads have gone into the hands of receivers. The companies aggregate only 270 miles of road, and none of them can attribute their insolvency to existing business conditions. The roads are the Ohio River and Western, 111 miles; Phillips and Rangely, 29 miles; Warren and Corsicana, 24 miles; Pontiac, Oxford and Northern, 100 miles, and the Port Angeles Pacific, 6 miles. The bonds of the above roads aggregate $1,320,000, while the stocks reach $6,510,000.

SHY ON BONUS

Complaint is made by the Chronicle that the citizens of Houston are not much interested in making good the bonus asked by the Brownsville road in lieu of the location of the general offices of that company in Houston. By the guarantee of $30,000 the company is to make Houston office headquarters. To date $20,000 have been pledged, and a committee is now at work in an effort to raise the remaining $10,000.

DON'T OVERLOOK THIS

A Careful Perusal Will Prove Its Value to Every Fort Worth Reader

The average man is a doubter, and there is little wonder that this is so. Misrepresentations make people skeptics. Nowdays the public ask for better evidence than the testimony of strangers. Here is proof which should convince every Fort Worth reader:

W. V. Gilley, who is the local agent for some of the large eastern publishing houses, and who lives at 1003 East Fourteenth street, says: "A little over a year ago after using Doan's Kidney Pills, which I procured at Weaver's Pharmacy on Main street, I was so well pleased with the results that I gave a written endorsement of the remedy. At that time I told him that they had completely cured me of a serious case of kidney complaint which when I began to use the pills was in an advanced stage. I was almost used up with a lame and aching back and the condition of the kidney secretions proved positively that the kidneys were either weakened or over-excited and although I tried more than one remedy it was like throwing away money as far as any benefit was concerned. It was a different thing with Doan's Kidney Pills. They went to the root of the trouble and as I said before, a tried course of the treatment completely cured me. That was over a year ago, and up to date there have been no symptoms of a recurrence. It is a pleasure to recommend them to other sufferers, and likewise to re-endorse for publication a preparation which can always be depended upon."

WILLIAMS URGED FOR COMMISSION

Local Representative May Succeed Colquitt on State Railroad Board

In view of the fact that there is to be a vacancy on the board of railroad commissioners of Texas, several prospective candidates are being mentioned to succeed Commissioner Colquett, who is to make the race for governor at the next state election.

Among those more prominently mentioned is Representative W. D. Williams of this city, and his friends, especially those in union labor circles, are importuning him to make the race. He was waited upon today by one of the leading labor advocates in this county regarding the matter.

It is said that if Mr. Williams will consent to run for the position he will receive the almost solid labor support throughout the state, including the Farmers' Union.

So far as can be learned Mr. Williams has made no decison in the matter.

PRESIDENT BRITTON HERE

President F. H. Britton of the Cotton Belt, accompanied by several other officials, arrived in Fort Worth Monday afternoon from a trip over the line in East Texas. The party left this morning for Dallas from which point the inspection trip will be continued in Texas. President Britton stated that the work of reducing the grade to one per cent between Texarkana and Mount Pleasant had begun. This improvement is to be continued as far as Tyler. Track are also being reballasted.

NOTES AND PERSONALS

President A. J. Davidson of the Frisco is making an inspection of southwestern lines of the system. He is expected to visit Fort Worth today.

Attorney General Davidson of Texas has rendered an opinion to the effect that the law taxing sleeping car companies 4 per cent on their gross receipts applies to all earnings of such companies made within the state, whether on state or interstate traffic.

General Live tock Agent Galbreath of the Katy has just returned from a trip to the north. He is planning for an outing in the Rockies.

T. T. Clark, who recently became contracting agent of the Katy to succeed I. G. Thompson, who was made traveling freight agent of the Rock Island, arrived in Fort Worth Monday and entered upon his new duties today in the local office of the company. Mr. Clark was until recently clerk in the office of Assistant General Freight Agent Homer Eads of the International and Great Northern at San Antonio.

An enlargement of business in the general passenger department of the Rock Island has made necessary the appointment of a second clerk. The position is held by Oscar Nelson, who was installed today.

Auditorium Notes

Secretary Harwood of the Auditorium building committee has been hearing from the friends of the Fort Worth girl. The announcement in the press last Sunday that prizes would be offered for several of the most popular young ladies in town and inviting their friends to nominate them so that those who buy brick coupons would know who to vote them for, has already enlarged his mail to considerable proportions.

"If this keeps up," said he this morning, "I will not have time to do anything but read about beautiful and popular young ladies. I have not counted the young ladies in Fort Worth, do not know how many there are. In a general way I have heard they were all beautiful and all charming. No one who reads the society pages of our daily papers can fail to be impressed with her irrisisibleness.

"Her friends undoubtedly appreciate her and nominations are coming at the rate of ten and twenty a day."

When the contest opens there will be at least a hundred young ladies for whom votes mean either a magnificent piano or a trip to Portland, with $100 for expenses. A handsome ring and possibly other prizes will be for those who receive the largest votes, first, second, etc.

Every purchaser of a brick coupon for 10 cents between July 15 and July 31 will be entitled to ten votes for their favorite young lady.

Handsome prizes will also be given to all classes of citizens, men and women, boys and girls, that sell the largest number of these brick coupons, the prizes ranging from a house and lot on South Hemphill Heights to a $5 gold piece.

The contest begins next Saturday.

Be ready to buy brick coupons to reward some worthy boy and girl and to give your favorite young lady a handsome prize.

CHIEFS OF POLICE TO MEET SHERIFFS

Will Ask Co-operation in Establishment of State Identification Bureau

In order to bring about the successful formation of a state bureau of criminal identification, chiefs of police of the state will present a resolution to the Texas Sheriff's Association of Texas, which is now holding session at Houston, asking the sheriffs to unite with the city marshals in organizing the bureau.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Chiefs of Police and City Marshals' Association of Texas held in Dallas Monday, at which Chief J. H. Maddox was present, George Ellis, chief of police of Houston; Detective George Smith of Dallas and City Marshal Howell of North Fort Worth were appointed a committee to attend the meeting of the sheriffs' association and present a suitable resolution, asking for the aid of the association.

Chief Maddox, in a statement this morning, said that the formation of such a bureau of identification was now assured. Plans for the bureau were first made at Houston some weeks ago at the annual meeting of the Chiefs of Police and City Marshals of Texas.

AMUSEMENTS

ROSEN HEIGHTS PIKE

Monday night at Rosen Heights Pike was a success and one of the largest crowds of the season attended the new summer resort. The Albert Taylor Stock Company began a two weeks' engagement with an attendance of more than 1,000 people. The street car service was excellent and the manner in which the large crowd was handled indicates that General Manager Rosen is going to properly care for all those who visit the park.

The opening bill of the Taylor company was "Peaceful Valley." The play was creditably rendered, Mr. Taylor appearing in the title role, ably supported by an excellent company.

The specialties, notably that of the Kelsey Sisters, were heartily applauded by a well pleased audience. Tonight "The Man From Mexico" will be given. Besides the theatrical bill there were many outside attractions.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

The present state of the weather has given the oldest inhabitant the "time of his life." The statement is frequently made that never before since Moses Austin journeyed this way has the white man had a norther of such length and coldness as this now dwelling in the habitation of summer. But though recollections of former July weather may not discount the present condition, there are numerous tales of other vagaries that have enlivened things in a Texas weather way.

It is said that in the early '50s there was a sudden and interesting performance. In Coleman county a May day was to be celebrated with a May day picnic and May queen. The little lady to be the Queen o' the May awoke eager for her triumph, only to see the ground covered with snow. The snow fell all day and the pretty white frock that had been ready for the youthful May queen was not worn.

This incident was related in the presence of Mrs. A. W. Scoble, one of the Texas pioneers now living in Fort Worth.

"It not only snowed in Central Texas, but even in Harris county," she said.

"I remember the time perfectly. The early garden vegetables were being gathered for the table. Peas were in bloom and radishes and lettuce had become every day delicacies. The snow came down in blanket flakes, but did not remain on the ground. The flurry did no damage beyond interfering with the picnics that all Texans of that day thought inseparable from May day."

A party of ten farmers arrived in Fort Worth today on their way to the Panhandle country in search of new locations. They come from Eastland county, near Gorman, and left over the Denver road for Dalhart. One said that crop conditions in their locality are not encouraging this season on account of an unusual rainfall and in consequence many people thereabouts are much dissatisfied and intend making a change of base.

Mr. Johnson, one of the party, said that the storm of last Friday did considerable damage in Eastland county, beginning at Dublin and extending to Gorman. Many corn fields are leveled and the stalks stripped. Several houses were moved from their foundations in Dublin, while along the Texas Central for a strip of territory twenty miles in width several farm houses were blown down, but no one was injured. The damage to crops was extensive over the entire storm area.

BIBLE SOURCE OF DRAMATIC STORIES

Miss Leila Simon Gives Unique Entertainment at City Hall For Sons of Confederate Veterans

Dramatic readings from the Bible given last night at the city hall by Miss Leila Simon of Boston, under the auspices of the United Sons of Confederate Veterans, was in the matter of reading, the most original ever given in Fort Worth. She read selections from both the old and new testaments, the first part of the program being given to the old and the latter part to the new testament. The grace and charming modesty displayed in her introductory remarks won the hearts of her auditors from the very beginning, and she held them spell-bound until the last word died away.

She first read the Farewell of Moses, next reading the story of Ruth, which has been said to be the most beautiful love story ever written. She then read the dramatic story of the sacrifice of Jeptha's daughter. The story of Queen Esther closed the readings from the old testament. She next turned to the new testament and read the story of the child Jesus among the Rabbis, and closed the program with a vivid picture of the rescurrection of Lazarus by the Master.

Miss Simon is not only a very gifted young woman, but a thorough artist. She has made Bible readings her life work, and this method of presenting the Bible will do much toward deepening and spreading an intelligent reverent interest in the Bible. The dramatic studies are written by Miss Florence Eaton of Wakefield, Mass., and while keeping closely to the Bible text and Biblical language, makes the characters of the Bible live. It is the interpretation of these Biblical characters that marks Miss Simon's work as unusual. She is the first woman in the United States who has made the Bible a popular book by giving a reverent, intellectual interpretation of Biblical literature.

Miss Simon is a Texan, but has had her artistic training in Boston, graduating from the Emerson College of Oratory, and studying with the best teachers of expression in the country. She has received wide recognition in the east for her work. She is a sister of Assistant County Attorney U. M. Simon of this city, and expects to spend until November in Fort Worth and other Texas cities, where she will give her readings.

Miss Simon was assisted in her program by Miss Lane of this city, who opened the program with an instrumental solo, and by Miss Pickering of Victoria who gave an instrumental selection between the readings from the old and new testaments.

AGED MILLIONAIRE WORLDS CRACK SHOT

C. K. Lober, Gentleman Sportsman, Has Not Met His Peer for Twenty Years

LEWISBURG, Pa., July 11.—In this town there lives a man who is the pride of the section, who, by his feats with the shotgun, is entitled to be called the world's crack shot. It is on record that a challenge he issued to Carver, Bogardus, Cody and others, backed up with cash, went unanswered.

This cannot be construed as a "press notice," for as the individual referred to is a man of wealth, with whom markmanship exhibitions is a fad and who can be coaxed into a contest only when his skill is questioned and the only trophy the satisfaction of victory.

This is C. K. Sober, millionaire lumberman, honorary state game commissioner of Pennsylvania, master of 45,000 acres of timber land and employer of 400 men.

He is not a young man. In fact, his hair and beard are tinged with frost.

Sober resides on a large farm, where he is engaged in cultivating chestnuts. This farm has been the subject of documents issued by the agricultural bureau of the state.

By all odds the most rearkable exhibition of Sober's skill is in trick shooting, or what he terms "rough and tumble shooting."

Sober performs over 100 feats with the shotgun, and claims he can perform more difficult feats with this arm than any other man.

He shoots with accuracy from either shoulder. He breask glass balls and targets or kills live pigeons with coats or handkerchiefs tied around the gun barrels; with the muzzle thrust through objects ranging from a cigar box to a flour barrel. He shoots with the gun held either side up and in many other ways. His skill seems incredible to those who have never witnessed his performance.

Notwithstanding his ability, Sober is not a professional marksman. But he is ready to shoot for the championship of the world with any man. To use his own language: "The title of champion of the world should go to the man who can carry the game the farthest and do the most with the shotgun."

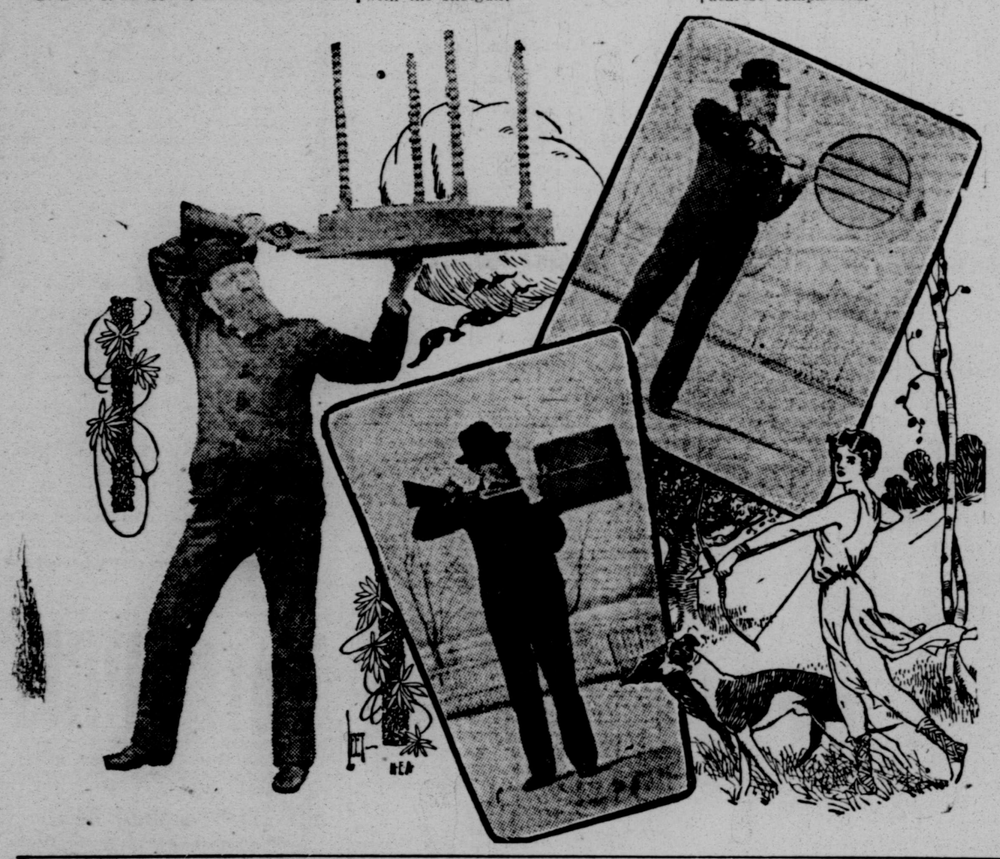

In 1886 at Lewisburg Sober gave a public exhibition, when he shot at fifty-eight glass balls and missed but eight. At the Elmira, N. Y., tournament in 1887 he shot at 108 glass balls, from sevnty-nine difficult positions, and missed fourteen. Last January a few guests visited Sober's grounds and saw him shoot at 113 argets from eighty positions; he missed twelve.

Sober inherits his ability from his mother—one of those matrons who raised their children upon what was called the frontier of Pennsylvania—and who was expert with the shotgun.

When Coleman rose to the dignity of possessing a gun, he received a flintlock, and scarcely the weapon a nineteenth century lad would care to shoulder. But young Sober wasn't looking gift flintlocks in the muzzle. He took what was given and made the game pay the penalty.

With years came experience, and when approaching that period when he looked at the future through colored glasses Coleman bought a gun for $1.50. It wasn't much of a gun, even in those days, but was death to quail, rabbits and grouse. It was made of the poorest material. The wonder if that Coleman K. Sober survived those days.

Now, with wealth at command and at the time when most men halt to look over the traveled path, he retains the energy of youth, is still the most wonderful shot in the world, and his gun and dogs are his dearest companions.

STORK IS MIGHTY BUSY OUT DR. M'CRANN'S WAY

A Famous Family of 14 Children in South Omaha, Neb., and the Happy and Strenuous Father Writes an Article and Poem on Large Families for The Telegram. He gets Congratulations from an Envious Father, Who Once Had Expectations—What it Means to Go a-Buying for so Many OMAHA, Neb., July 11.—Dr. W. J. McCrann and his wife of South Omaha have come to fame through the size of their family. Fourteen children, all healthy, lively, lusty Nebraskans, have come to grace their home. They range in age from 23 months to 20 years.

Dr. McCrann is still a young man, being only a little past middle age. He has practiced medicine successfully in South Omaha for a dozen years and has accumulated considerable property, besides rearing and educating his large family.

In addition to sharing Roosevelt's views on race suicide he resembles the president in his devotion to the strnuous life. The doctor is a member of the park board, president of the South Omaha Commercial Club, and prominent in many organizations. He is a great personal friend of William J. Bryan.

The children are the pride of the country round about. Their talent is of a high order. All are musical and the McCrann family compose an excellent orchestra. All are musical and are doubling on the number of instruments they play. Seven of them play the piano, two play each the mandolin, violin and guitar, ont each the violoncello and the harp.

Recent photographs of the family were published and Dr. McCrann found himself famous. Letters of congratulation came from all parts of the country. Requests for photographs overwhelmed the genial doctor.

"If this continues much longer," he said, "I won't beable to buy potatoes for my family."

One letter was from a man who had hopes himself and is rather envious. G. A. Ribbons of Galesburg, said in writing his congratulations:

"I was married in 1884 and had we kept up the pace that we set the first six years I think it would now be 'nip and tuck' with me and you, as to which could make the better showing; but low funds called a halt. You must be proud of such a family."

Dr. McCrann has written an article on large families especially for this newspaper. It follows, together with a poem by the doctor on his own happy family:

By Dr. W. J. McCrann

Written Especially for The Telegram.

When I entered the field of matrimony I did so with the greatest of timidity, doubting my ability to provide for two, as I was young in the field of my profession, and let me assure that I had not in my mind a thought of my list swelling to 16.

However, I guess it's a case of the Lord "fitting the back for the burden," and I am toting along with it the best I can in these days of trusts and high-priced provisions.

Mrs. Mack said to a reporter that we have no set plan with our children. Maybe not, but I feel we have strong evidence of a set table, judging from the supplies required.

You ask why they appear so healthy. I attribute their health to their diet, which is of the plain, substantial order, tolerating no fancies or notions in their tastes, but require them to take everything and anything as it comes, for I believe in diet, much like the colored fellow who, when asked if drinking too much bad whisky, replied: "Say, boss, they ain't no bad whisky, it's all good, better, best."

The child that plays earnestly and well eats well, and as ours never quit playing you could form an idea where I am on supplies.

I must confess I was not aware of the real proportion of my family's growth until one Christmas week, several years ago I entered a department store and the first purchase I made was a pair of shoes for each, which amounted to ten pairs, running in sizes from the mother to the baby. The next move was to the hosiery department, and as I ordered three pairs for each, thirty pairs, in all sizes the clerks began to put up a rather unusual effort in my behalf, each coaxing and pulling me in the direction of their counter in the hopes of making a sale.

I stood for one more purchase, which was 10 pairs of gloves. By this time the clerks surrounded me so thickly that my modesty got the better of me, and my visit terminated in dropping out of a side door.

Let me assure you I have not since that day infringed upon the mother's right in shopping, whose skill in securing supplies in sections I find more creditable and by far more economic than my moves on bulks.

It will prove to me a very difficult task to describe the many interesting features of a large family. I might talk to you for weeks of the sound of a violin, and if you never heard one, the first time you listened to an artist you would find you had no conception of its thrilling powers.

Unless one has the constant company of a large young family, daily observing their childish pranks, like electric flashes, their cheeks radiant with delight one moment, the next streaming with tears; one moment all generosity, the next a life struggle to possess what the other has, and once master of the situation, just as willingly and freely pass the same over to the next—one can scarcely appreciate what having a large family means.

He is a man of no small amount of courage who will, in these days, shoulder the task of caring for a large family in the face of the fact that he daily reads in papers and sign boards "eight or 12-room house for rent; prefer a family with no children."

Much argument has been advanced in favor of human culture or parental culture. Yet, go where every advantage of culture has been given our women of wealth, who are best fitted with means and intelligence, and then count the childless homes.

For the one child born to greatness, thousands are born that will achieve greatness.

I cannot tell whether the remedy for race suicide lies in securing the best physical conditions for parentage, or, as some put it, improvement in the stock. But I am inclined to think that it lies in the regulation of commercialism so that a fair distribution of wealth could be established throughout the nation, and so that the trusts and industrial combinations may cease to grind and crowd down the great body of wage earners by increasing the price of supplies and decreasing their earning capacity instead of aiding them to surround themselves with environments which would induce refinement, culture, contentment and happiness.

W. J. McCRANN.

THE 14 CHILDREN OF DR. AND MRS. W. J. McCRANN OF SOUTH OMAHA, NEB.

AN EFFUSION

By Dr. McCrann.

Mary and I united, down wedlock's river struck,
She was gentle, young and loving;
I had courage enough for two,
And I plunged right for the channel
Trusting Providence to take us through.

First we landed in eighteen eight-five,
On January the twenty-fifth,
Took aboard our son, Creary,
Set again our bark to drift;
'Twas in February next we landed,
Took aboard our darling Mae,
So, with a son and daughter,
We claimed the right of way.

Then off we sailed delighted,
Believing all would prove serene,
When in March again we landed,
Took aboard our dear Ellen.
Now I felt our bark was spacious,
And with thought of a quartet
I anchored in November,
Took aboard our Margaret.

Though adversity's storms were raging,
Through danger and vicissitude,
Then we made another landing,
Took aboard our fair Gertrude.
With our cargo ever pleasant
And our hearts filled with joy,
We made another landing,
This time for Willie boy.

Now all with eager glances
Stood watch for another port
Where we took aboard our Frances,
With Patrick, our childlike sport,
Then came the chase for Mildred,
Gentle Kathleen and darling Florence,
The ever sympathetic Edith,
Who will furnish tears in torrents.

Then came Benita darling
(Who numbered just thirteen),
Who ruled the boat at will
Till the arrival of sweet Warrine.
Thus, with Mary at helm,
I on watch twenty years have trod;
True to the motto in the ring:
"Each for the other, both for God."

TO DETERMINE EQUITY

President Roosevelt Selects a Commission to Venezuela on Special Work

CHICAGO, Ill., July 11.—William J. Calhoun of Chicago has been selected by President Roosevelt to act as special commissioner to visit Venezuela and determine the equity of the asphalt company claim and other vexed questions.

Mr. Calhoun went to Cuba for President McKinley on a mission somewhat similar during the Spanish-American war.

When the report of his appointment was brought to Mr. Calhoun he refused to discuss the matter, but did not deny it. Mr. Calhoun was a member of the interstate commerce commission from 1898 to 1900.

HER WEAKNESS GONE

HOT FLASHES AND SINKING SPELLS CONQUERED AT LAST.

Mrs. Murphy Tells Her Fellow-Sufferers How She Got Rid of Serious Troubles by Simple Home Treatment.

"I had been bothered for several years," said Mrs. Murphy, "by stomach disorder, and finally I became very weak and nervous. Flashes of heat would pass over me, and I would feel as if I was sinking down. At such times I could not do any household work, but would have to lie down, and afterwards I would have very trying nervous spells."

"Didn't you have a doctor?" she was asked.

"Yes, I consulted several doctors but my health did not improve. One day a friend asked me why I did not try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She assured me that they had proved of the greatest benefit in the case of her daughter. In fact, she praised them so enthusiastically that my husband got me a box."

"And what was the result?"

"Before I had taken half of the first box my condition was greatly improved. The quickness with which they reached and relieved all my troubles was really surprising. After I had used only three boxes I had no more heat-flashes or weak spells. Thanks to them, I have become a well woman."

Mrs. Mary D. Murphy lives at No. 1908 Force street, Fort Wayne, Indiana. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the remedy which she found so satisfactory, furnish directly to the blood the elements that give vigor to every tissue of the body. They can be depended on to revive failing strength, and to banish nervousness. Their tonic properties are absolutely unsurpassed.

As soon as there is drag, or dizziness, or pallor, or poor circulation, or disordered digestion, or restlessness, or pains, or irregularities of any kind these famous pills should be used. They have cured the most obstinate cases of anaemia, dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous prostration and even partial paralysis.

If you desire information specially suited to your own case write directly to the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N.Y. Every woman should have a copy of Dr. Williams' "Plain Talks to Women," which will be mailed free to any address on request. Any druggist can supply the pills.

The Trying Time

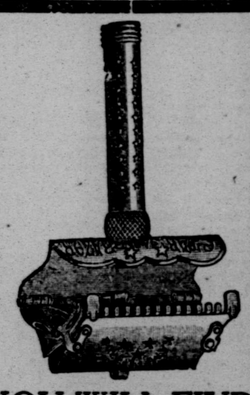

In a young girl's life is reached when Nature leads her uncertain steps across the line which divides girlhood from womanhood. Ignorance and neglect at this critical period are largely responsible for much of the after misery of womanhood. Not only does Nature often need help in the regular establishment of the womanly function, but there is almost always need of some safe, strengthening tonic, to overcome the languor, nervousness and weakness, commonly experienced at this time.

If there is an invalid woman, suffering from female weakness, prolapsus, or falling of womb, or from leucorrhea who has used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription without complete success, Dr. Pierce would like to hear from such person—and it will be to her advantage to write as he offers in perfect good faith, a reward of $500 for any case of the above maladies which he cannot cure.

"I wish to tell you the benefit we have received from using your remedies," writes Mrs. Dan Hall, of Brodhead, Green Co., Wis. "Two years ago my daughter's health began to fail. Everything that could be thought of was done to help her but it was of no use. When she began to complain she was quite stout, weighed 170, the picture of good health, until about the age of fourteen, then in six months she was so run down her weight was but 120. She kept failing and I gave up, thinking there was no use, she must die. Friends all said, 'You will lose your daughter.' I said I fear I shall. I must say, doctor, that only for your 'Favorite Prescription' my daughter would have been in her grave to-day. When she had taken one-half bottle the natural function was established and we bought another one, making only two bottles in all, and she completely recovered Since then she is as well as can be."

TRADE NOTES

Cattle are reported as getting very scarce in Eastland county and vicinity.

The evenness and regularity in feeding mark the degree of success in feeding hogs for market.

Wet pastures are bad for sheep and lambs. The highest, driest part of the farm should be devoted to sheep. Lambs never do so well when the weather is excessively wet. We cannot control the weather, but we often may the pastures.

During the months of April and May this year, 90,857 cattle were sent north from Texas, dipped, and turned out to pasture in the Osage reservation in Oklahoma. These are the figures of the government inspection department of the number of cattle dipped.

Efforts of the committee of the Chicago Live Stock Exchange to bring about a better distribution of cattle receipts on the different days of the week promise to bear fruit in the near future.

Texas produces the only natural remedy for mange or cattle ticks—Beaumont oil.

Slop made of bran or middling and skim milk are among the best foods for suckyling sows.

With pigs, thrift is what is desired and perfect health to resist prevalent disease.

Receipts today light and the market dull.

FRANCE YIELDS TO AVOID WAR

Germany's Contention for a Conference Is Granted by the Chamber of Deputies

PARIS, July 11.—Announcement in the chamber of deputies by Premier Rouvier of the terms of agreement between France and Germany concerning Morocco brings a deep sense of relief to the entire country after many weeks of tension, which many persons believed involved the possibilities of war.

The text of the three notes fully confirms the general impression relative to the lines of the negotiations. Germany's contention for a conference receives the final adherence of France, but Premier Rouvier has secured the safeguards which he insisted at the preliminary conference with Prince von Radolin were indispensable. The most important of these safeguards is that the conference shall not convey any prejudice to the Anglo-French or Franco-Spanish ententes. While Germany does not specifically assent to these agreements she formally withholds dissent. This is considered an important gain for France over the ambiguous position Germany has just occupied and as both the Anglo-French and Franco-Spanish ententes recognize France's privileged position in Morocco, France emerges from the negotiations with this position still intact.

Both countries agree as to the covereignty of the sultan, the independence of Morocco and the open door without inequality. This has always been the policy of both governments, so neither can claim victory in this respect. At the same time it gives a new lease of existence to Morocco and appears to put an end to the prospective break up to the sultan's tottering monarchy and its subdivision among the European powers. On the other hand, the agreement recognizes France's special interest in the country due to the geographical proximity of Algiers and its right thereby to police the frontier and maintain peace and order. It still remains for the sultan to arrange the program of the conference.

It is pointed out that the sultan of Morocco's position is weakened by the negotiations, as he will no longer have representatives of the various powers pleading for favor, since the entire question regarding Morocco is now practically taken out of his hands for determination elsewhere.

Felix W. Williams was found under the Jennings avenue viaduct by Officer McGlothlin shortly after 11 o'clock Monday night. On his head were two scalp wounds necessitating eight stitches to close them. When found he was in a semi-conscious condition. Dr. J. H. McLean dressed the wounds.

Williams said he came to Texas recently from Kentucky and was employed on a farm near Benbrook. It is the supposition that he was knocked down and robbed.

RAILROAD SPECIALS

CHEAPEST RATES TO COLORADO EVER KNOWN.

In view of the intense interest in Colorado's attractions this season, and the rather extraordinary demands for a cheap rate excursion for the benefit of vacationists, the Fort Worth and Denver City and the Houston and Texas Central roads have announced a rate from all Texas points to Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver and return, of but three-fourths of one fare for the round trip; tickets to be on sale July 9 and 10, with a limit of sixty days, and to be good for stop-over privileges at all points between Trinidad and Denver, in either or both directions.

This is really an extraordinary arrangement and one which will at once appeal to hundreds who could not visit that most interesting section under the higher rates ordinarily effective.

Anticipating an appreciation of the conditions related, it is understood the lines mentioned will have occasion to add considerable extra equipment to their trains of the 9th and 10th, including a tourist sleeper, and that arrangements to that end are perfected.

Rate from Houston will be $24.15; from Fort Worth, $18, and from all other points correspondingly low.

Tourist sleeper rates from Fort Worth will be $2.50 per double berth, which may be used by two persons without extra cost.

ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS AND DULUTH.

Via Chicago and Northwestern Railway

Four magnificent fast daily trains from Chicago to St. Paul and Minneapolis and two to Superior and Duluth. The electric-lighted Northwestern Limited and Duluth-Superior Limited to the Head-Of-The-Lakes, include all that skill and liberal expenditure can provide for comfortable and luxurious travel. Beginning June 1, round trip summer tourist tickets will be on sale daily from Chicago at the rate of $16 round trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis and $20 round trip to Superior and Duluth, with correspondingly low rates from all points. For full information apply to your nearest agent or address, A. L. Fisher, traveling agent, 823 Main street, Kansas City, Mo.

THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST.

A complete and interesting presentation of the scenic beauty and the rich natural resources and rapid growth of the Pacific Northwest are set forth in a beautiful illustrated booklet recently issued by the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, which will be sent to any address on receipt of 4 cents in stamps.

The Lewis and Clark Exposition with the very low excursion rates and personally conducted tours in connection therewith over The Northwestern Line from Chicago and the east have created an interest in this subject never before equaled. For full particulars address W. B. Kniskern, P. T. M., 215 Jackson Boulevard, Chicago.
