CROP SHOWS DROP

GLAMOR DEB OF THE YEAR—Well, it seems to be settled at last. If you were wondering who's going to be the 1940-41 season's "most glamorous debutante," it's Mary Lee Abbott, above. In a recent New York contest, a noted beauty expert, a popular illustrator and a society photographer gave her the title.

Lubbock Quota Scheduled To Report Friday

Area Contributes 160 Recruits For First Inspection

One hundred and sixty draftees from the more than 50 counties in Northwest Texas included in the Lubbock induction area under the selective service act, will report Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday to the district offices on the second floor of the federal building, Major Walter Jessee, induction officer, said this morning in announcing quotas for the four days.

Everything is in readiness, he said he would wire the area commander at Fort Sam Houston and also the recruiting officer at Fort Bliss, later in the day. Three officers and ten enlisted men, comprising the district recruiting corps, are here for the induction work and have received their instructions.

Area Surgeon Visitor

Col. W. Lee Hart, eighth corps area surgeon, visited the office this morning, his last visit to the five induction offices in the state. After checking over arrangements, he complimented Major Jessee and his staff on the plans made. Later he left for Brownwood, to inspect the plant there.

Major Jessee is induction officer, with Capt. Everett W. Bright, his assistant, as transportation and finance officer and Lieut. Homer B. Johnson, as medical examining officer and head of the medical board. Three local reserve officers comprise the board, Drs. O. W. English, Ben Hutchinson and Walter J. Howard. There will also be a technician, who is to report Tuesday morning.

Sworn In Here

"Every man will get a thorough examination," Major Jessee said. "The board will decide finally whether or not he is physically and mentally fit for service in the army.

"After a man has passed his mental and physical examination, he

Queen Mary Defies Air Raids To Complete Her Christmas Shopping; Shuns Spotlight

BY HARRY L. PERCY
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Queen Mary—she detests being called Queen Mother and has announced officially that she doesn't recognize the designation—has completed her Christmas shopping, despite Adolf Hitler's air raiders.

Last week she donned one of her famous toques, picked up a favorite umbrella and hand bag, and stepped into her ancient, high-wheeled automobile. She gives hundreds of presents annually.

The 73-year-old dowager has become Britain's No. 1 evacuee. Before the war started, she moved to one of the royal houses in western England and there, in completely rural surroundings, she maintains a small, unobtrusive court, the grand dame of the locality.

At first she used to visit London once or twice a week, staying with one of her children. But since the intensification of the air war, her visits are less frequent.

She wanted all her grandchildren to stay with her, but the king and queen wanted Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose to stay at home. But she does have the two babies of the Duke and Duchess of Kent to brighten her home.

War is a familiar thing to her. Many British soldiers remember the 16-hour days she put in 25 years ago. Now, although careful not to divert the limelight from the king and queen, she is again

Harvesting Is Nearing Close Over Section

Hockley County Is Leading In Total; Ellis Tops State

Rapidly approaching the close of cotton harvesting, latest U. S. Bureau of the Census report for the 19 counties on the South Plains, shows as of Nov. 1 that the 1940 crop was approximately 26,000 bales lower than that of the 1939 crop for the corresponding date.

At the same time the state total was nearly 100,000 greater. The 1940 crop ginned was 2,552,846 bales compared to 2,454,103 bales a year ago. Comparative area totals were 249,733 for 1940; 275,406 for 1939.

Hockley Leads In Area

Hockley county leads the ginnings in the area, passing Lubbock in the state total also and ranking 16 in the state, with Lubbock ranking 17. Lamb county ranks third in the area; Dawson, fourth and Lynn, fifth.

Ten of the counties show a gain this year over last: Bailey, Briscoe, Cochran, Dawson, Gaines, Hockley, Lamb, Motley, Scurry and Terry.

Ellis Tops State

Ellis county leads the state with 64,154 bales; Collin is second with 62,695 bales; Fort Bend is third with 60,538 bales; Hunt is fourth with 57,912 bales and Fannin fifth with 54,364 bales. Other high ranking counties include, Nueces, Wharton, Grayson, Navarro, Hill, Kaufman, Hidalgo, Milam, San Patricio, McLennan, Hockley, Lubbock, Runnels and Lama, the latter two ranking below Lubbock.

Best indications are, according to cotton men and ginners, that the area by this time is between 65 and 75 per cent harvested. The past two weeks has seen the peak of ginning passed in many sections.

No Great Rush This Year

Twenty-four hour a day ginning is practically ended. Some gins in the western counties are working into the night, but few have had to gin 24 hours straight through. There has not been as much of the day and night ginning this year as

ALL right, you Westerner supporters! It's time to pledge those gold footballs for the Champion Lubbock Westerners IF they beat Amarillo!

The big game will be played here Thursday and, in all probabilities, the winner will emerge as 1940 champion of the Interscholastic league's District 1.

As has been his annual custom for many years, The Plainsman is sponsoring the gold football drive and this year he needs pledges for a total of 30 gold footballs—one for each letterman, one for each of the two student managers and one for each of coaching staff.

Jimmie Naiman, manager of Lester's Credit Jewelry, 1010 Broadway, has promised to order, engrave and deliver the balls at bare cost to him—which will be $6 per ball. Each ball will carry the raised letter "L," in black onyx, and each ball will bear the name of the recipient and his position, together with a notation of the championship—either district, bi-district, quarter-final, semi-final or state, depending upon how far the team goes this year.

Nobody will have to buy a football UNLESS the Westerners beat Amarillo. They've got to beat Amarillo in order to get the trophies. But in order to show the Champions we mean business, those who will agree to buy one or more of the gold footballs are asked to make their pledges NOW—before the game, so the boys will have an added incentive to give the Sandies their third successive thumping! Names of those pledging the footballs will be published in the paper.

First come, first served is the rule covering pledges so MAKE YOUR PLEDGE NOW!

All you have to do is call The Avalanche-Journal. Telephone No. 13, give your name, address and say: "Put me down for a Westerner football!"

Let's go, Westerner supporters! Let's pledge those balls in record time!

Declares That Work Is Done; Unity Urged

Deafening Cheers Greet Leader As Session Opens

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 18.—Taking up the gavel for the last time as CIO president, John L. Lewis, with tears in his eyes, told CIO's convention delegates today that he was stepping down as their leader, and urged them to unite their ranks and support whomever they name as his successor.

To a hushed throng which a few minutes earlier had given him a thunderous ovation, Lewis said:

Work Is Finished

"I won't be with you long, I have done my work and in a few days I'll be out of this office."

It was his keynote speech, serious and emotional in tempo and carrying in it an urgent plea to the CIO to remain united or it would "not long endure."

Lewis' term as president expires at the close of the convention. It is expected that Philip Murray will be named as his successor. In giving notice that he was about to get out of the CIO leadership, Lewis fulfilled the promise he made to retire if President Roosevelt was reelected for a third term.

Calls For Unity

Lewis called on CIO unions for unity among themselves and confidence in their leadership.

On the labor front, he said, CIO had demonstrated its strength and piled up a record of accomplishments.

"It can go forward," he said, "but if you consume your time in criticism and vituperation, you won't have an organization long."

The big, broad-shouldered Lewis who has declared he will retire as CIO president, told the delegates that CIO leaders needed the strength of a confident following.

"A leader no matter how well

At the morning session, two cases naming Haskell Ford, charging assault with intent to murder and perjury growing out of the assault case, were continued until Friday when it was explained that Ed Kelley and T. Billington, two state witnesses, had not been served with subpoenaes ordering them to appear at the trial.

On pleas of guilty, John Henry Moore, a negro, was given two years in the penitentiary on a charge of theft over $50 and Charles Alexander, another negro, was allowed suspension of a four-year sentence for burglary.

To Be Heard Later

Mussolini Shouts Hate For Britain

(By The Associated Press)

ROME, Nov. 18—Premier Mussolini declared today the European war must go on until England is annihilated, told his Fascist chiefs the Italians must be prepared for "more severe" sacrifices and said he would "never turn back" in the Greek campaign.

"We have a million men under arms," he declared on the fifth anniversary of economic sanctions against Italy which grew out of the Ethiopian campaign, "and we could call eight million more."

Denies British Claims

Il Duce, in his first speech since Italy's declaration of war June 10, denied British claims that half of Italy's battleships were put out of action for a long time in an air raid on the naval base at Taranto last week. He said only one warship was damaged so badly that she could not be repaired within a relatively short time.

Speaking at his Palazzo Venezia, he listed Italy's losses in the Greek campaign as 372 dead, 1,081 wounded, and 650 missing in the first ten days of the war, and shouted:

"They will be revenged, for whatever happens, I will never turn back."

Speed Plane Production

Mussolini declared Italy was turning out four times more airplanes than before the war and said:

"In a short time, with mass production, our new types will be perhaps ahead and certainly equal to the most modern planes of other countries."

In the British raid on Taranto, Mussolini acknowledged that three Italian ships were hit, but said "none was sunk and only one of them—as the bulletin of our armed forces announced — was seriously damaged and its repair will require a long time."

"It is false, I say, that two other warships and two auxiliary vessels were sunk or hit or damaged even slightly in any way," Mussolini asserted. "It is a sign of bad conscience, this enlargement and multiplication by six of the success which we acknowledged."

Alliance Is Cited

Citing Italy's Axis alliance, Mussolini declared that "from day to day our collaboration with Germany is really comradely and to-

Escaped Negro Convict Held

Arrest of an escaped negro convict by the sheriff's department of Tahoka was announced this morning by Bill Mabray, assistant chief of the Lubbock police department.

Ed Sanders, Lynn county deputy sheriff, arrested Pete Jones, 23, alias Rit Jones alias T. E. Jones alias Oscar Williams, who escaped Sept. 12 from Darrington state prison farm when serving a 25-year sentence from Wise county for burglary and robbery, Federal Bureau of Investigation files showed.

Arrested On Farm

E. A. Seale of Huntsville radioed specific instructions to hold the negro until penitentiary agents could arrive to accept custody.

The negro was arrested on a farm near Tahoka, it was understood.

City police figured in return of property to an O'Donnell store. Mabray said two Mexicans, questioned as to their ability to buy new leather jackets, admitted they had bought them for $4 each from two other Mexicans. Mabray learned of the O'Donnell store having lost two jackets and sent those found here there, where they were claimed Sunday.

An arrest, possibly two, is expected.

Oklahoman Delivered

Police wrote off another investigation when the sheriff's department this morning delivered to the Purcell, Okla., sheriff a 23-year-old Oklahoman arrested here last week to face an Oklahoma felony warrant. The Oklahoman's male companion was taken to Levelland to face a

U. S. Thanksgiving Is One Of Plenty

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 18—That homely Thanksgiving ritual, the feast, will be solemnized this year amid national peace and plenty.

This is not unusual in the American scene, for most of the Thanksgiving days of the past have been blessed with tranquility and abundance, but it is more striking in 1940 by contrast to want and desolation in many other lands.

Supplies Are Ample

War has not touched the American diet. A survey today of wholesale markets, barometers of what housewives will encounter at retail shops the next few days, showed that ample supplies await her selection at prices comparable with a year ago, when Americans enjoyed one of the most economical holiday spreads in five years.

The housewife will find stores laden with the "makin's" and "fixin's" of the traditional feast. She will carry no ration card, will find no long line in which she must wait for barest necessities for her table, and will be free to buy what she likes and what her purse will permit.

At Peace-Time Prices

And, as wholesale market prices indicated, her purse should go a long way. The bountiful 1940 harvests are going to market at peacetime prices. Considering elevated consumer buying power with expanded industrial payrolls accompanying national rearmament, foods are still on the bargain counter.

Prices of some ingredients housewives will use to prepare dinner Thursday (and a week from Thursday in 16 states) have risen slightly in the past few weeks with the gathering momentum of national defense preparations, but there has been no general advance. Cold weather delped to raise the price of holiday turkeys a few cents a pound but current wholesale quotations are practically the same as a year ago, as are ducks and geese. Chickens are slightly higher.

Many other "staples" which will go into the Thanksgiving menu are lower in wholesale markets. These include potatoes, flour, fruits, such as lemons and oranges, eggs, coffee.

Air Hearings Are Continued

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Representatives of San Angelo made a strong bid at a Civil Aeronautics board hearing today for establishment of air service to that West Texas city.

Mayor W. A. Halamicek said during consideration of applications of four airlines for authority to establish new routes in the Southwest that inadequacy of present communication facilities at San Angelo made air service an urgent necessity.

He and Culbertson Deal, manager of the chamber of commerce, both declared that because the city was not on a main rail line much of its first class mail was handled by bus.

TWA Route Boosted

Robert G. Carr, San Angelo oil man, described the great petroleum reserves in the Permian basin, and added that men in his business would welcome regular air passenger service out of San Angelo.

Edwin G. Wilcox, representing the Oakland, Calif., chamber of commerce, said that the service proposed by Transcontinental Western Air, Inc., would give manufacturers in the Golden Gate area greatly improved communication with retailers of their products throughout Texas.

Includes Lubbock

The TWA application proposed operation of a line from Amarillo to Houston, via Lubbock, Abilene and Austin, with a connecting line from Abilene to Fort Worth and Dallas. At Amarillo the route would connect with a main air route from California.

Other applications being considered were from Braniff Airways, Inc.,

S. automobile accidents) crying out to you—the leaders of this safety drive — but they're crying out just the same for you to carry on this drive—not until the first of the year, not until the city's deathless days are ended by a horrible traffic accident, but they're crying out to you to carry on in this safety work forever," Humphrey told the Jaycees.

Curator Says Bones Are Of Ancient Man

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Nov. 18 (AP)—Dr. Frank C. Hibben, New Mexico university curator, expressed belief today that remains of a skeleton found near Lubbock last week undoubtedly were of some ancient human but could not be proved to have been those of a 10,000-year-old Folsom man.

Dr. Hibben returned from Lubbock over the weekend and said the bones were found in a strata containing elephant, camel and horse bones "about 20,000 years old." He added, however, that the earth above the site had been disturbed and there was no evidence tending to show that burial of the human remains was contemporary with the animal bones.

Deaf Mute's Appeal For Help Is Futile

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18. (U.P.)—When fire broke out in the apartment where five-year-old Thomas Daly and his baby brother had been left alone, Thomas could not cry out for help. He was a deaf mute.

Neighbors saw him pounding helplessly on a window of the bedroom and gesturing mutely for help as the flames curled around him.

Firemen found year-old Donald Daly burned to death in his crib and the older brother beneath the crib, burned so badly he died several hours later.

Mrs. Katherine Daly, their mother, told police she had left the boys while she went on an errand.

Local Men Use Laundry Soap When Other Bait Fails; 50 Pounds Of Fish Like It!

Anyway, this is the way they tell it.

Furthermore, they exhibited a long string of fish Sunday to prove that something brought them luck.

The "they" in this case are R. C. Hughes, restaurant owner, and A. B. Brown, proprietor of New Commercial Hotel, who returned Sunday from a fishing trip to Lake Kemp near Wichita Falls.

At first, they related, they had no luck. They used minnows and various other kinds of "regulation" bait. Still no luck. Then they went to a small store near the lake.

"Why don't you try laundry soap?" suggested the proprietor. "The fish don't seem to be bitin nothing but soap."

They thought they were being taken for a ride, they related, but there was nothing to lose. So they bought a bar of laundry soap, cut it into small cubes (this is their story) and fixed the cubes upon hooks.

Fish began biting immediately (this still is their story) and they kept on biting.

In all, they caught more than 50 pounds of fish, including a channel cat weighing more than eight pounds and a bass weighing more than three pounds.

Furthermore, the tiny cubes of soap don't melt quickly as might be supposed. Hooks required rebaiting about once in 24 hours. Likewise, soap bait has become a common practice at Lake Kemp.

And this still is their story.

Permit Total Nears Four Million Mark

Assurance that the Lubbock building permit total will pass the $4,000,000 mark early this week for the first time in any year in the city's history was given this morning.

Permits were issued for two residences during the forenoon increasing the revised 1940 total to $3,980,865.

Materials were moved in and construction is scheduled to start Tuesday or Wednesday on the new police department building, for which a $27,999 permit will be issued. R. C. Ball company is the contractor.

The present record for any entire year in the history of Lubbock was the $3,612,000 in permits in 1939.

Residence permits this morning were to J. D. Sanders, owner, and Ray Givens, contractor, 2504 Twenty-sixth street, $4,600, and to Leroy Hindman, owner, and M. H. Day, contractor, 2323 Fifth street, $2,400.

WPA Workers To Aid In Repairing Toys

The repair of toys collected Saturday for the Goodfellows will be set up as a Work Projects administration project which probably will start operating the next day or two, according to information given this morning by Jack O. Stone, Boy Scout council executive.

At the same time, he reminded that any persons with toys to give who were overlooked in the pickup should call scout headquarters, telephone 463. Collections of such toys, he added, will be made once each day during the remainder of the week. A number of persons, he said, already have made such calls.

The repair plan, he announced, will be the same as that of last year when the work was done by the WPA. Scene of the work this year will be the old Dalby Motor Freight lines warehouse on North Avenue H.

The repaired toys will be turned over to the Goodfellows to be distributed to needy Lubbock children Christmas morning.

Lubbock Men Bring In Nine-Pointers

At least two of Lubbock's deer hunters were back Sunday, each with his buck.

One brought back the report that a sheep disease seems to have spread among the deer in the area where he hunted, and that the bucks are becoming alarmingly scarce there.

First of the Lubbock nimrods to report a kill was Dr. Sam G. Dunn, who shot a 9-point, 185-pound blacktail in the Davis mountains 35 miles southeast of Balmorhea about 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning, the day the season opened.

Dr. Dunn quoted ranchers in that area as saying that something, presumably the sheep disease, is killing the deer. His buck, he said, was in excellent condition but he saw several dead bucks. W. G. McMillan remained in the camp.

Second Lubbock hunter to return with a deer was W. T. Gaston, business manager of Texas Technological college, who exhibited a 9-point 160-pounder killed about 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon on the Madera ranch in Culberson county. No evidence has been discovered in that area of the contagion reported to Dr. Dunn, he said.

The two men hunted about 100 miles apart.

Last Box Seats Go On Sale Tuesday

Reminder that the last remaining box seat tickets to the Lubbock-Amarillo football game here Thursday will go on sale Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock at the principal's office in Senior High school was given this morning by R. W. Matthews, principal.

No reservations will be accepted, he reminded, and the tickets will be sold to those first in line. Not more than two will be sold to any person. Approximately 150 tickets are available for seats in temporary boxes. The price is $1.25.

Only about 200 seats in temporary bleachers at the south end of Tech stadium remained this morning, but they were going at a rate to indicate that all may be sold before the day is over. They are 75 cents.

After the remaining bleacher and temporary box seats are gone, only standing room will remain. It will be sold the day of the game at 50 cents, Matthews said. The principal also reminded that the temporary box seat tickets which were reserved and paid for last week before they were printed are now available at the high school.

Make up a regular bread stuffing and bake it for 20 minutes in a buttered ring mold. Unfold onto a heated platter and set a small dish of gravy in the center. Serve in place of potatoes with roast or fowl.

Defense Rush Program Turns Hay Field Into Air Base In 45 Days

Army Training Is Speeded Up

By ROBERT C. MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent

ONTARIO, Cal., Nov. 18—Forty-five days after a crop of hay had been cut from broad grain fields adjacent to this thriving Southern California town, a permanent army base had been established and was in operation, training pilots for the army.

The Cal-Aero academy, established as a private flying school by Major C. C. Moseley, offers primary instruction to army cadets and is one of nine such institutions established under the intensified national defense program.

Army Has Supervision

The school uses army training planes and equipment and takes each student on a contract basis whereby the government pays all the student's expenses. The academy is under the personal supervision of the army but employs civilian instructors and personnel. Life at the academy is based on army military discipline.

Army officials believed the transformation of a grain field into a permanent air base in 45 days was a record for speed and efficiency in construction.

Cost Is $325,000

The base consists of two large hangars, four barracks, a canteen, a messhall, a classroom building and administration building. The entire unit was erected in 40 days at a cost of $325,000. Five days after construction was completed the first class of 80 men began the 10-week training course.

Cadets at the academy are army recruits who have shown a preference for the air arm of the service. Here at Cal-Aero they receive ground school training and preliminary flight instruction. After completion of the 10-week course the graduates are transferred to Moffett field in northern California, where they receive 10 weeks of basic training. From Moffett Field the cadets go to Stockton for their final 10 weeks of advanced training, from which they graduate as second lieutenants in the army air corps reserve.

West Point Men There

Included among the trainees at Cal-Aero are graduates of West Point who have sought a transfer from one of the other branches of service into the air corps. These trainees are regular commissioned officers in the army and are ranked above the regular enrollees. Should they flunk out of the air corps they resume their regular status in the army.

Fifteen flight instructors are included in the personnel of 57 in charge of operations at the academy. Lieut. Arthur Strunk is chief instructor at the academy and is assisted by Lieut. Robert L. Scott and Lieut. J. T. Coulter.

Use Best Ships

The latest type training ships, Stearman pt-13b biplanes, are standard equipment at Cal-Aero. The trainers possess great flexibility and an amazing ability to stand abuse. Because of their slow landing speed, 51 miles an hour, they are regarded as one of the safest training ships available.

The primary training taught at Cal-Aero and the other eight primary training schools in the country consists mainly of teaching a cadet how to fly, to coordinate and to grasp some of the fundamental principles of a flight. During his 10 weeks' stay at Cal-Aero the cadet learns to fly a simple airplane, to fly it well and to fly it accurately. He learns to execute fundamental training patterns and to accomplish simple acrobatics. He goes to ground school and studies theory and mathematics. He practices and practices on the fundamentals so that when, during his basic and advanced work, he gets into more intricate and powerful ships he will have the necessary flying knowledge to become a good pilot.

Quarters Are Modern

Living conditions at the new base would amaze old-time army men. Cadets are billeted two to a room, with a bath to each two rooms. Each room is equipped with two beds, desk, chairs, wardrobe and ample closet space. On the grounds is a large recreation building housing the academy canteen, library and recreational facilities.

Prior to July, 1939, there were no such things as civilian aeronautical schools training pilots for the army; all pilots up to that time were trained at Randolph Field, Tex. The great aviation expansion program launched by Congress created a new problem.

Maj.-Gen. H. H. Arnold, chief of the Air Corps, persuaded Congress to authorize primary training at civilian schools fitted to handle the work. The plan, as outlined by Arnold, would be under command of army officers and under jurisdiction of the army. Actual instruction in flying, however, was to be by the civilian school's instructors and the fields, buildings and equipment, except the airplanes, were to be those of the school, also.

The experiment has proved extremely satisfactory, enabling flying cadets to get their primary training at the civilian schools and releasing Randolph Field for advanced training.

School House Is Dedicated

PUEBLA, Mexico, Nov. 18 (U.P.)—Mexican officials and U. S. Ambassador Joseph Daniels have dedicated a school house in the Indian village of Canoitas to the memory of two American college boys killed in an airplane crash a year and a half ago.

Victims of the crash were Daniel S. Roosevelt, son of G. Hall Roosevelt of New York City and nephew of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Bronson H. Rumsey, son of Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey of Boston.

The 22-year-old Harvard students were spending their eastern vacation traveling over Mexico in Rumsey's cabin plane. They had started on a flight from Mexico City to Vera Cruz when they crashed near Canoitas.

She Was Thrown Clear

With them was Carlota Constantine, daughter of Arthur Constantine, Mexico City newspaperman. She was thrown clear of the plane just before it crashed into a tree, exploded and burned after Rumsey had become lost in a fog and attempted to land on a rocky mountain ridge.

It was the voluntary, devoted care which the villagers gave Miss Constantine and to the burned bodies of the boys which inspired the donation of funds by the parents that made possible construction of Conoitas' first school—a simple grade school building.

At the dedication, U. S. Consul Robert G. McGregor recounted his official investigation of the accident. An Indian peasant farmer plowing his corn saw the crash at noon, April 18, 1939.

Carried To Safety

He ran to the scene and carried Miss Constantine to safety. Then he ran to Canoitas, nearly four miles away, for help.

The Indians pulled the bodies of the boys from the wreckage, built shelters of grass above them and stood guard over them all through the afternoon and night until authorities arrived.

Then they carried the bodies to the village, placed them on the earthern floor of the church to await an ambulance from Puebla, 70 miles away.

Meanwhile candles were found, a simple altar was built of boxes and a crucifix, and when McGregor reached the church it was ablaze with candlelight.

Roosevelt and Mrs. Rumsey heard the story of the Indians' kindness. They asked how they best could show their appreciation. Ambassador Daniels made a special trip to Caniotas and found the little pueblo of 500 inhabitants without a schoolhouse.

Daniels suggested construction of a school. The parents furnished more than half the cost ($3,000), and the rest was furnished by Puebla state governor, Gen. Maximino Avila Camacho, brother of Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, president-elect of Mexico.

Besides Daniels and other members of his embassy and consular staffs, Gov. Avila Camacho, National Minister of Education Gonzalo Vazquez Vela and other state and national officials participated in the ceremony.

AUTHORITY ASKED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. (U.P.)—The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad today asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to issue $10,000,000 of 1 1-4 per cent equipment trust certificates. Proceeds from the issue would be used to purchase new cars and engines.

Secret Weapon Is Said Used

By RICHARD D. McMILLAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, Nov. 18—Great Britain used a "secret weapon" in last Monday's smashing aerial attack on the Italian navy at Taranto, it was asserted today by British sources which described the weapon as highly satisfactory.

Some British experts thought the new weapon would revolutionize warfare in the Mediterranean zone to the advantage of the British.

The attack on Taranto harbor, which I witnessed from a cruiser in the British Mediterranean fleet, sank or crippled seven Italian warships, including three battleships, according to official statements.

The attack was made by the air arm of the Mediterranean fleet.

The fleet has completed a 3,000-mile sweep of the Mediterranean during which they showed overwhelming superiority against the Italian fleet, British officers said.

Latest type British fighters, attached to the air arm, successfully defended British aircraft carriers against Italian dive bombers.

Messages of congratulation were pouring in on H.M.S. Illustrious, the aircraft carrier from which the raid on Taranto was conducted.

The Coast Guard academy is located at New London, Conn.

Wichita Falls To Join West Texas-New Mexico Baseball League Next Season

Eight Member Circuit Said Guaranteed

By COLLIER PARRIS
Journal Sports Editor

Transfer of the Midland franchise of the West Texas-New Mexico baseball league to new owners and new territory, and tentative action regarding the Odessa franchise were announced and approved at the league's winter meeting at Hotel Hilton here Sunday.

The league voted approval of the sale of the Midland franchise to Neal Rabe, one of the "founders" of the circuit and one of its most faithful workers, and others, and also granted Rabe's request to move the franchise and holdings to Wichita Falls.

To Construct Park

It appeared quite definite that Wichita Falls, former Texas League town and generally regarded as one of the best sports towns in Northwest Texas, would be a member of the eight club West Texas-New Mexico league in 1941.

Rabe, backed by his own and some cash from "other sources," said he would begin construction of a 3,500 capacity grandstand at the site of the former Texas League diamond in Wichita Falls, Spudder Park, about January 1. He has acquired a lease on the grounds formerly occupied by the Spudders. The grandstand burned several years ago, leaving a concrete foundation and "box seat" area.

Hale To Manage Club

Rabe said that Sammy Hale, former American league infielder and manager of the Midland Cowboys, would be playing manager at Wichita Falls and have a financial interest in the club.

News of the action probably came as a surprise to Wichita Falls itself, which had no representatives at the meeting, other than Rabe and Hale. Although Wichita Falls has been rumored as a prospective West Texas-New Mexico league base, nothing definite had been announced until the meeting here, and as late as Saturday night the Evening Journal was told by the Wichita Falls Record-News that "nothing has been done about baseball here, we know of no plans and of no delegates planning to attend the Lubbock meeting."

"On Our Own"

Rabe, however, said he had been to Wichita Falls "several times" and had made contacts and arranged to lease the old ball park site.

"We are going into Wichita Falls strictly 'on our own,' and we are not asking Wichita Falls for a cent of money. We have enough money to guarantee a full season if we don't draw fifteen cents at the gate, but I believe Wichita Falls will turn back to baseball just as Amarillo has come back," Rabe said.

President Milton Price, presiding at Sunday's meeting here, voiced full confidence in Wichita Falls as a league member and suggested that the club there would improve the status of the league in a number of ways.

Guarantee Eight Teams

That the league would continue to operate as an eight-club circuit was guaranteed by representatives of seven clubs and by Price.

Only team not represented was Odessa, and it is believed little effort will be made by the club owners there to operate. In fact, it is believed the franchise has been turned over to a group of Odessa business men, headed by George Elliott, who are willing to turn it over to "interested parties."

President Price appointed a committee consisting of Rabe, Bob Seeds, owner-president of the Amarillo Gold Sox, and Joe Tate, deposed manager of the Lamesa club, to investigate the Odessa situation and make efforts to rehabilitate the crumbling Odessa ranks, or transfer the franchise and club to another location.

San Angelo Considered

While nothing definite was announced, it was felt that San Angelo might be interested in the Odessa franchise, provided a suitable arrangement could be worked out.

Announcing themselves as "ready to go" in 1941 were Borger, the 1940 pennant winner; Pampa, Amarillo, Clovis, N. M., Lamesa, Lubbock and Rabe's new Wichita Falls setup, while Price said he was "certain something will be done regarding Odessa's franchise."

Routine business occupied the league directors during most of the morning and afternoon sessions, outside of the Wichita Falls announcement. Few, if any, major changes were made in the league rules, pending the annual convention next month in Atlanta of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues.

Pettigrew Retained

President Price was authorized by the league to attend the Atlanta meeting and represent the league in voting for or against the many new proposals to be offered there, "using your own judgment in deciding for the best interests of our league."

Price commented at length on the "efficient manner in which you managers, club owners and officials" conducted the teams and the league during 1940. Although attendance was off eight per cent, as compared with 1939 attendance, some clubs showed a marked increase and the deficit shown by others was not enough to "wreck" any club or the league. Amarillo led in attendance, followed by Pampa, the club which held first place so long, with Lubbock in third place, close behind Pampa.

The league voted to retain Ned Pettigrew as umpire-in-chief, and requested Price to "give us the best umpires you can find—for the money."

A MAGNATE NOW—Meet the new club-owner of the West Texas-New Mexico league, Neal Rabe, formerly of Hobbs and Amarillo, who takes the Midland franchise and club into Wichita Falls for the 1941 season. He may do some catching, but Sammy Hale will do the managing of the team on the field.

DALLAS, Nov. 18—Broken bits of one jinx ground under their heels, the violent Texas Aggies today started scheming for the destruction of the last, and most dangerous, hex the old Southwest conference has known in modern history.

Quietly midst all the hub-bub over their bold flirting with the Rose Bowl, their string of 19 straight victories and their show of brutal power, the Aggies floored an ancient tradition Saturday last when they smothered Rice Institute, 25-0.

Won Last In 1922

If you hadn't noticed, they clinched at least a tie for the conference flag for the second successive year and just about nailed up an undisputed championship. Never has that been done before.

Only Southern Methodist and Rice have the ghost of a chance to share the title with them. Both must win their remaining games while the Aggies are obliging by losing to Texas.

And that brings up the aforementioned jinx. Just eighteen years ago the Texas Aggies won a football game in Austin. They haven't been able to beat Texas down there since 1922. As a matter of fact, they haven't scored but one touchdown—and that was on a goal line fumble by the Steers a couple of years ago.

Aggies Favored Anyway

Tradition or no tradition, the Aggies, a cold sort of team, are figured to plaster the Longhorns on Nov. 28 when they get together for their annual brawl.

The Aggies are a great football team. Only one other in the history of the conference could touch them. Arguments will go on for generations as to whether Lil Davey O'Brien's Texas Christians of 1938 could hold Jarrin' John Kimbrough's 1940 Aggies.

Statistics prove the greatness of this '40 bunch. They lead the league in exactly eight departments!

Tops In "Everything"

Here they are: first downs, 94; net gains rushing, 1256 yards; net gains forward passes, 969 yards; net gains running and passing, 2,229 yards; forward passes attempted, 140, and 71 completed; passing average, .500; punting average, 37.6 yards; only 11 of their passes have been intercepted, and only 296 yards have been rushed through their line.

Simple reasoning suggests that a team leading in running, passing, kicking and defense against rushing should be on top. And if you want to get technical, they're leading in penalties also—having been nicked for 442 yards!

Baylor Entertains SMU

Next Saturday this Rice team that took the latest Aggies lash—and it could have been worse considering four more Cadet drives petered out deep in Rice pastures—plays Texas Christian at Houston. The Owls have a great running game, their 145 yards against the Aggie line being only 11 yards short of what seven other teams, combined, had earned.

The Christians lost a 14-21 thriller to Texas, which will be spending the next 12 days thinking up poison to toss at the Aggies.

Southern Methodist, the generally recognized "second best" club goes down to meet Baylor at Waco. Both of them looked great last weekend, the Methodists dusting Arkansas, 28-0, and Baylor, with Fullback Jack Wilson back in the fold after six weeks absence, blasting Tulsa, 20-6.

Arkansas hits out for New York today to meet Fordham's Rams there on Thursday.

Stage Set For 'First State Championship Game'

Record Throng Of 17,000 Is Seen For Tilt

This is THE week of the year for Lubbock football fans.

Of course that means only one thing: This is the week Lubbock High's Westerners play Amarillo High's Sandies.

It all happens at Tech Stadium next Thursday afternoon. The kick-off will be at 2:30 o'clock and weather permitting there will be something more than 17,000 people on hand to see it. More than 14,000 tickets have already been sold.

A special train, maybe two of them, will bring a large representation of Amarillo fans.

In Thick Of Finals

Both teams are undefeated and the winner will be established as favorite to win the state title. That is the background which promises that this year's game will be the hottest of all the long series.

The District One winner, which will be virtually decided by this tilt, has won the state championship in four years of the last six, and has participated in the state finals five years of those six. Amarillo won the title in 1934, 1935 and 1936. The next year was a blank as far as this district was concerned, but in 1938 Lubbock drove to the state finals, only to lose to Corpus Christi, 20 to 6. Then in 1939, Lubbock came back to bring home the first state title in the history of the school's participation in Interscholastic league football.

Tech In St. Louis

There'll be another game involving a Lubbock team at St. Louis the same afternoon, the Texas Tech Red Raiders doing battle with the St. Louis university Billikens. The Raiders, who hit the season's high spot Saturday by repulsing Wake Forest, 12 to 7, will be trying for the eighth victory of an undefeated season marred only by an opening-game tie with Oklahoma A. and M., a team which has since won the Missouri Valley conference crown.

The Billikens have won only two games this season against five losses and a scoreless tie, a rather drab record in view of the fact that their schedule is something on the order of Tech's—only a game or two with top-ranking teams. Two comparative scores are available and both indicate top-heavy victories for Tech. Tech beat Centenary 26-6 and Centenary beat St. Louis 19-6. Tech tied Oklahoma, A. and M. 6-6 and the Aggies beat St. Louis, 14-7.

Setup For Upset

But football is a funny business. The Billikens will be in the "what have we got to lose" frame of mind while the Techs will be thinking "Oh, heck, this is a cinch." Sometimes that combination produces the most surprising of upsets.

Offensive capabilities of St. Louis were indicated in the opening game of the season when the Billikens ran up 26 points on Missouri. The Billikens didn't win, because Paul Christman and company scored 40.

Other Teams End Season

Other Lubbock teams finished their 1940 activities last week. The Tech freshmen closed out a remarkably successful season by swatting the Hardin-Simmons frosh, 25 to 3. Friday. That was the fourth victory of the season for Coach Huffman's boys, against a lone defeat. That loss was a 14-3 heartbreaker to Cameron Aggies, who have since won the Oklahoma Junior college championship.

Coach Cy LaMaster's Lubbock High Cowhands rounded out a better-than-average season by beating Plainview Reserves, 24 to 0, Friday. The six victims of the Cowhands this season were Olton, north half 5-A champs, Tahoka, Turkey, Cooper, south half 5-B champs, and the Plainview team twice. The Cowhands lost to Post, New Deal and Denver City.

Cowboys' Record Impressive

The Junior High Cowboys of Coaches Mule Davis and Lovic Liston found their last game of the season a bitter pill to swallow. They went to Big Spring Thursday and lost a 7 to 0 decision to the Big Spring juniors, the first beating they had taken in two years. They won nine games in 1939 and six in 1940 before their victory rush was ended.

Coach Gordon Thompson's Calf Ropers, the Junior High second team, finished the season Thursday by tying Levelland scorelessly. They had lost four games previously, won none. However, the poor record must be explained by saying that the Calf Ropers, who weigh around a 100 pounds on an average, play teams that outweigh them from 10 to 20 pounds per man.

Tech Still Among Leaders---

Week May Decide National Champ

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 18—Thanksgiving Day—even when all hands agree upon the date—no longer marks the end of the football season, but it's close enough that most of the major conference and sectional championships will be decided by this week and the list of contenders for the mythical national crown may be reduced even further.

The list of undefeated and untied college teams includes Boston College, Cornell, LaFayette, Tennessee, Minnesota, Texas Aggies, Hardin-Simmons, and Stanford. There are ten others, definitely in the small college class, and LaFayette and Hardin-Simmons hardly could qualify as national title contenders.

Cornell's position also is questionable as a result of claims that the Ithacans beat Dartmouth, 7-3, on a touchdown scored on an illegal fifth down.

Minnesota Clinches Crown

The tied but unbeaten group embraces Mississippi, Texas Tech, Penn State and Colorado College, winner of the Rocky Mountain conference championship.

Minnesota's 33-6 victory over Purdue last Saturday clinched the Western conference crown for the Gophers: Stanford, 28-14 victor over Oregon State, can't get worse than a tie for the Pacific Coast conference title and Texas A. and M. in the Southwest and Utah in the Big Seven are in the same position. Clemson in the Southern conference and Tennessee in the Southeastern can clinch their championships this week.

Boston On Spot Again

With Cornell's position still in dispute, Boston College stepped to the forefront in the East with a 19-18 victory over Georgetown. Boston College plays Auburn this week, another real test of the Eagles' strength.

Cornell, slightly discredited by its showing against the weak Dartmouth outfit, gets its comeback chance Saturday against Pennsylvania. Penn, once beaten and once tied, re-affirmed its power by trouncing Army 48-0.

Arkansas Meets Fordham

Fordham opens this week's action Thursday against Arkansas, 28-0 victim of Southern Methodist. Saturday's card is strongly inclined toward traditional rivalries. Harvard, a surprising 14-0 winner over Brown, meets Yale, which lost 10-7 to Princeton, in the No. 1 event in this line.

The Big Ten campaign winds up with Minnesota seeking its eighth straight victory against Wisconsin, which was impressive in a 27-10 victory over Indiana. Michigan, which put Northwestern out of the race with a smashing 20-13 triumph, meets its old rival, Ohio State, 14-6 winner over Illinois.

Nebraska On Warpath

Nebraska, which still has to win two Big Six games to take the conference title outright, goes after one against Iowa State, 12-0 winner over Kansas State. Oklahoma, the only

Weekly Huddle Is Scheduled Here Tonight

They have a baseball movie planned but the gridiron game will be the main topic of conversation tonight at the regular weekly meeting of the Touchdown Club.

Lubbock hotel is the site, 8 o'clock the time.

The official American league baseball picture — "Touching All Bases" — will be shown the group. But after presentation of the films, Coach Pete Cawthon will review last Saturday's big triumph over Wake Forest and go into what his Red Raiders can expect from St. Louis Thursday.

Too, it's a good bet that Coaches Goober Keyes and Walker Nichols will be on hand to discuss Thursday's "game of the season," the Westerner-Sandie classic which has the state in a lather.

Every football fan in the city is invited.

Bears Gunning For Redskins

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 18—The Chicago Bears have a little unfinished business with the Washington Redskins and hope to settle it next month.

The once-defeated Redskins whipped the Bears Sunday, 7 to 3, the game ending with the Chicago team driving to Washington's one-foot line. The outcome left the victors a virtual cinch to win the Eastern division championship, needing only one more triumph in two remaining games for the clincher.

Chicagoans Favored

The Bears, having won six of nine engagements, still lead Green Bay, which lost to New York, 7 to 3, by a full game. Each team has two games to go, with the Chicagoans heavily

Lubbock Holds Limelight In Tilt Of Year

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

This is the week when they wage the "fir. battle for the Texas schoolboy football championship."

Thursday afternoon at Lubbock, Amarillo's Sandies make their bid for the state title against the defending champion Westerners.

It will not even definitely determine the District 1 pennant—that is, as far as the mathematical chances are concerned—but the winner will take the district crown barring one of the greatest upsets in Interscholastic league history.

Winners To Finals

Both are undefeated and untied and all season have been rated among the top six teams of the state. Many rank them No. 1 and No. 2, the Sandies and Westerners taking time about occupying the highest post.

It has often been said that the winner of this game will be the team to beat in the championship finals.

But not all the interest rests on the Panhandle-Plains this week because nine other titles will be in the balance.

Wichita Falls Favored

Here's how the state race shapes up:

District 1—Amarillo and Lubbock, the only undefeated teams, play Thursday. Plainview has lost but one game and might tie for the title should both Amarillo and Lubbock suffer defeat. Lubbock meets Plainview next week.

District 2—Wichita Falls, undefeated, plays Quanah this week. An upset for Wichita Falls could throw the leadship into a three-way deadlock.

Big Spring Leads

District 3—Big Spring, leading by a game, plays Sweetwater. Defeat could throw Big Spring into a triple tie with Midland or Odessa. The latter two play each other.

District 4—Austin (El Paso) and El Paso High, both undefeated, meet for the championship.

District 5—No conference games this week but Paris has title virtually sewed up.

District 6—Greenville, already champion, finishes schedule against Sulphur Springs.

District 7—Masonic Home (Fort Worth), the only undefeated team, plays Poly (Fort Worth). A Mason loss would throw the race into a tie between Masonic Home, Poly and Arlington Heights, (Fort Worth), should the latter win its game over Paschal (Fort Worth).

District 8—Woodrow Wilson (Dallas), leading by a half-game, meets second-place Sunset (Dallas). Woodrow Wilson can win the title with a victory or tie.

District 9—Stephenville, the only undefeated team, plays Brownwood. The latter can tie for the title with a victory.

District 10—Temple, leading by a game, plays Waco. Should Waco win, Temple could be tied for the lead by Corsicana and Waxahachie, should the latter two down Cleburne and Hillsboro, respectively.

District 11—Kilgore, leading with four victories and one tie against Tyler and Longview with three wins and one loss each, can clinch the title with a victory over Tyler. Kilgore would tie for the lead with Longview through a tie against Tyler, provided Longview defeats Marshall this week.

District 12—Lufkin, the only undefeated team, plays Jacksonville. Jacksonville need for second place with Menia and could gain a deadlock for first with Lufkin with a victory. Menia also would be in a tie for first if the Blackcats defeat Palestine.

District 13—Jeff Davis (Houston), already champion, finishes the schedule against Austin (Houston).

District 14—Port Arthur leading Beaumont by a half game. Port Arthur and Beaumont deadlock the title next week.

District 15—This is rather complicated. Brackenridge (San Antonio), Kerrville and Austin are tied for the lead but the district rule says that if two teams finish in a tie for the championship the one that defeated the other gets the championship. If there is a three-way tie, the team making the most points against the other two wins.

This week Austin plays San Antonio Tech and Brackenridge goes against Jefferson (San Antonio). Next week Austin plays Kerrville. Austin has little chance at the title because it lost to Brackenridge which lost to Kerrville. If Austin defeats Kerrville, the championship goes to Brackenridge. If Austin loses to Kerrville the title goes to Kerrville. Austin's only chance is for Brackenridge to be upset this week.

District 16—Corpus Christi and Robstown, both undefeated, play Thursday for the championship of the north zone. Harlingen, the only unbeaten team in the south zone, meets Brownsville. The latter could throw the leadership into a tie between Harlingen, Brownsville and McAllen with a victory. This, provided McAllen beats Edinburg; otherwise, Brownsville and Harlingen would tie in percentage.

Dartmouth Keeps Silent Over 'Fifth Down' Episode That Staved Off Cornell Upset

(By The Associated Press)

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 18.—Official Dartmouth continued its discreet silence over the outcome of its football game with Cornell and its unprecedented "fifth down" complications today as its jubilant undergraduates and alumni extended their self-styled victory celebration into a third day.

As Head Coach Earl Blaik prepared to launch his squad's preparations for the final game with Brown on Saturday, he again declined to comment on the game-deciding decision that Referee William H. Friesell made when he awarded undefeated Cornell, then trailing 3-0, another down six yards from the Dartmouth goal-line with but six seconds to play.

When Friesell made that ruling, which gave Halfback Walt Scholl an opportunity to complete a touchdown pass to Bill Murphy, another backfield, he disregarded Captain Lou Young's protests that a Dartmouth player had already grounded a fourth-down Cornell pass in his end-zone. Young insisted that the ball belonged to Dartmouth on its 20-yard line.

Most of the newspaper writers' charts as well as the notes of several scouts from rival colleges agreed that Cornell had rushed three times and had an incompleted pass in the series that included the play that enabled it to end the game with a 7-3 lead.

They'd Have Won Anyway!

By Collier Parris

FROM NOW ON, they're Mister Tom Douglass, and Mister Clarence Tillery.

But as far as that goes, and get it over in a hurry, the whole ball club is Mister Red Raiders.

There has been a lot of arguing, and there'll still be a lot of arguing this time next year, about that Tech-Wake Forest game. Some will say that the "breaks" decided the game, that except for this break or that, one or the other of the teams would have won.

The breaks did have something to do with the turn of events, but we'll always believe that the better team won the ball game, breaks or no breaks, and that if said breaks hadn't happened, Tech still would have won.

It was a "break" when C. L. Storrs fumbled that punt, giving the Deacons possession within scoring distance. We contend that the Deacons would have scored anyway, that maybe the touchdown they got then gave them a little too much confidence. Certainly it fired up the Tech team and the Raiders went to work. They always do when the other side scores first. We've come to consider it a good omen when the opposition makes the first touchdown. There's nothing like the prospect of a "rally" to stir up a football, baseball, basketball or any kind of team.

On the other hand, it was a "break" when an infraction of the rules stopped the Deacons' drive later in the game, but we doubt if the Deacs would have scored even if the penalty hadn't been invoked. We'd seen Tech hold 'em once, and Tech could have held again.

Others say it was a "break" when little Glenn Lowe tackled the one remaining ankle of John Polanski when he almost got away. A break, sure, but one manufactured by the Raiders, by Lowe especially. But that was his job, tackling that runner, and he just had to do it.

Even if Wake Forest had scored on either or both such "breaks," it's our position that the Raiders would have scored just that many more times. It was their game; they were masters for the day, and they just weren't going to be licked.

But gosh, wasn't that Wake Forest team a good-looking bunch of ball players! The best we've seen around here, we'd say.

THE "INSIDE" DOPE on that penalty business, the one that stopped the Wake drive in the fourth quarter, is this:

It was fourth down, you remember, with about six inches to go. The Foresters chose to run—and did run, making about a dozen yards on the play. But they ran too quickly, and were off side. Headlinesman Leo "Butter" Allred saw it, as did everybody who was looking closely, and dashed in with his little red hanky.

About that time, one of the good Baptist brethren on the Wake team muttered, "Oh, these blankety blank officials!" only he didn't say blankety blank. He said what a certain Miami university player said to Doc Moon

Cubs Offering Job To Wilson

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 18—Jimmy Wilson, Cincinnati player-coach and hero of the 1940 World Series, will be the new manager of the Chicago Cubs if he wants the job.

He has been chosen to pull the team out of second division and put it back in its usual rank as a National league pennant contender, but the deal has not been completed.

His For Asking

Wilson was here today for a conference with Philip K. Wrigley, owner of the Cubs, on terms of a managerial contract. It is expected that he will agree to take the post vacated by Gabby Hartnett at a salary in the neighborhood of $25,000.

James T. Gallagher, newly-appointed general manager of the Cubs, said last night that the job was Wilson's for the taking and that no difficulty was anticipated in coming to terms with the 40-year-old veteran of 18 years in the majors.

Railroad Commission Studies Oil Orders

Winter Slump May Be Offset

(By The United Press)

AUSTIN, Nov. 18 — How far industrial activities stimulated by defense preparation will offset the usual winter slump in gasoline demand and curtailment of export markets were problems to be studied by the Texas Railroad commission at its statewide hearing today in preparation for issuance of another oil-production order.

Purchasing companies have been called upon for detailed reports on a year's operations together with estimates of coming demands.

Recent withdrawals of gasoline from stocks is taken as an indication of increased demand and may be the determining factor in the commission's decision.

An order is expected after the hearing to be effective for 60 days beginning Dec. 1.

It will supplant the present 90-day production order which expires at the end of November.

Under the old order there have been nine days of idleness in oil fields out of a month. Recently the rule was tightened by eliminating most of the exemptions that had been granted in the past two months on showing of demand of oil in excess of that being produced with the shut-down days.

A large gathering of oil executives indicated wide interest in today's hearing and a possible conflict between those who believe there is need for greater restriction of production and those who say actual demand indicated need for more oil.

There has also been clamor for adjustment of the allocation of the state's total production among the more than 500 separate oil fields.

team with a chance to tie the Cornhuskers after a 7-0 triumph over the Missouri Tigers, plays Temple. Missouri and Kansas meet in their traditional Thanksgiving battle. Oklahoma Aggies and Tulsa, both unbeaten in the Missouri valley conference, fight it out Saturday.

Another interesting game sends St. Louis university against unbeaten Texas Tech Thursday.

Mississippi and Mississippi State will do as much to settle the Southeastern conference fuss as will Tennessee's clash with Kentucky. The Vols looked by far the best in the circuit in their 41-14 victory over Virginia, but they still have two conference games to win.

The Texas Aggies, after impressing practically everyone with their invincibility by overwhelming Rice 25-0, take a week off while Rice plays Texas Christian, beaten 21-14 by Texas, and Southern Methodist meets Baylor. Mathematically, either Rice or SMU might still tie the Aggies, but they've both been beaten already.

Non-conference Hardin-Simmons, after a 27-19 victory over Catholic university, takes on San Francisco university.

On the records, Stanford hasn't a rival left for the conference crown, but there's still the formality of finishing the season and casting the Rose Bowl ballot. California, Stanford's next opponent, beat Oregon 14-6 Saturday.

But instead of losing his temper and flying off the handle and shooing the miscreant off the field, Butler called Captain McCurry of the Raiders over and spoke as follows:

It didn't take McCurry long to make up his mind.

Illegal use of the tongue, in this league, is just as disastrous as illegal use of the hands, elbows, feet or knees.

And that's as it should be.

The officiating at the Tech-Wake Forest game was the best we have seen here this year, or anywhere else for that matter. Referee Joe Dobbs, Umpire Ziggy Sears, Headlinesman Allred and Field Judge Bill Bushman turned in a swell job of work, and if you think so, you might drop a letter or card to Mr. Harry Viner, 704 Sterling building, Houston, and mention the fact. Viner appoints the officials for Tech games, and he, as well as the officials themselves, would appreciate a word of praise for the efficient manner in which the Southwest Football Officials association call a game.

THIS WAS ORIGINALLY planned to be a baseball column, wherein we were going to welcome Wichita Falls into the West Texas-New Mexico league and comment on other doings of the league in its winter meeting here yesterday. But we got started off on football and you know how it is.

But we DO welcome Wichita Falls into the league, are mighty glad to have the Spudders back in circulation, and we do commend the league for accepting the franchise transfer proposal submitted by Neal Rabe and his friends.

Old Neal, wire-climbing Rabe, broke in here Saturday night and told us about it, but "you better not release it until it's made official at the meeting." He and Sammy Hale have acquired the Midland franchise and are moving it to Wichita Falls, and that's good enough for us. It'll make the league a little broader and longer, in prestige as well as in geography, gives the league the three biggest towns in Northwest Texas and puts new and needed life and interest into the circuit.

The baseball situation will come up for further study on the morrow.

North Texas Eleven Wears Crown Again

(By The Associated Press)

With North Texas Teachers undisputed loop champion through last Saturday's win, the grid race in the Lone Star conference resolved this week into a determined bid by Sam Houston's Bearkats for second place.

The Bearkats, playing host Thursday at Huntsville to Stephen F. Austin's Lumberjacks in the final tilt on card for an LSC club this season, could clinch second honors by a win or a tie.

North Texas Teachers made it a second straight conference championship by downing East Texas 10-7 at Commerce last week.

The scientist who declares that this world will last a million billion years longer should be given a good talking to. This is no time for pessimism!

IN the light of events following the election, including the defeated presidential candidate's radio speech outlining his ideas concerning the place of the minority party in the scheme of things, it is practically certain that Wendell Willkie will not be offered a government post by President Roosevelt. It also is practically certain that even if such post were offered him, that Mr. Willkie would not accept.

But even these all but certain indications haven't dampened interest in Mr. Willkie's future plans. A lot of people, Democrats as well as Republicans, wonder what the titular leader of the GOP will do from now until the lines of battle start to form early in 1944.

Along this line, one of our New York correspondents reports fully, after a careful investigation of things as they stand at the present. Says he:

"Rumors placing Wendell Willkie at the head of a half dozen corporations, Commonwealth & Southern included, are purely speculative. There is no questioning that the C. & S. board would be delighted to recapture Willkie, just as a score of big concerns stand ready to give him the executive chair. But Willkie is making no plans and intends to watch the course of politics for many weeks before making a commitment.

"It can be disclosed incidentally that Mr. Willkie is far from a wealthy man. He has not owned a share of utility stock for years, has unimportant holdings in other types of securities, and lived entirely on his salary. The latter, $75,000 a year minus tax deductions, was not of so many years' duration that Willkie could retire and live on interest. That all campaign arguments omitted reference to Willkie's fortune or stake in any particular enterprise was not coincidence. The Wall Street relation was neighborly rather than economic.

"Like Farley, Willkie must choose his next post with an eye to the compensation. Intimates say it is a safe forecast it will not be a position prejudicial to his leadership of the party."

If Mr. Willkie keeps his health, it is a safe bet that he will be very active in the national political scene from the time lines are drawn for the next Congressional elections in 1942, until after the 1944 presidential drive. He will be very little past the 50-year mark, should continue in physical and mental prime for a good many years to come.

For all these reasons, it is safe to bet that the defeated GOP standard-bearer will during the next few years engage himself in some sort of personal business far removed from politics.

Whatever political activities he may engage in will likely be far apart from the way he makes his living.

Note to Maurice Lamphere of Lamesa: Thanks for your letter. I understand your ticket troubles have been eased as much as possible under the circumstances. Superintendent W. B. Irvin of Lubbock Public schools, advises that tickets held by the man who tried to deal with you have been voided. He further tells me that from here on out, Lubbock High's tickets will be handled by the school people, themselves, which, it is hoped by all and sundry, will eliminate the possibilities of a recurrence of the unhappy situation.

The Plainsman fully understands your ire, but hopes you will not blame the entire community for the mistakes and the selfishness of a very few.

And here's a note to the party who sent an unsigned letter, written in pencil on plain paper and signed "A Reader," in which Hitler and the ticket mess were discussed: In the first place, you don't know what you're talking about; in the second place, your letter stinks; in the third place, if you're so holy, why are you afraid to sign your letter? In short, nuts to you and your nasty insinuations—both about The Plainsman and the others mentioned.

ON Wednesday night of this week, citizens of Brownfield, through their chamber of commerce, will stage a "get acquainted" party, honoring the new people who have chosen the Terry county capital as a place to live.

Brownfield, as all know, has been growing briskly, especially over the past two or three years, and the "oldtimers," with real Western hospitality in their veins, want to get acquainted with the newcomers.

The idea is one, it seems to us, which might well be taken up by other growing communities in this neck of the woods—Lubbock included.

The spirit is certainly one to be commended—and extended all over this section.

We salute the people of Brownfield for their forward view and hope that some organization here will be moved, by Brownfield's lead, to follow suit.

A RECENT exchange of mail and telegrams between the U. S. Department of State and Congressman Martin Dies, chairman of the Un-American Activities committee of the House, had as its subject whether or not Mr. Dies' committee should hold public hearings based upon alleged espionage activities by German and Italian consular officials located in this country.

Just why there should have been any question about the advisability of holding public hearings is more than The Plainsman can understand.

Why shouldn't there be public hearings?

Why shouldn't the rank and file of American citizens get, "straight from the feed-box," as it were, whatever general information there is obtainable regarding the borers from-within in their country?

Whose country is this, anyway?

Recently in this nation of ours there has been too much of a swing toward the European practice of keeping the public in the dark regarding official goings-on.

Every officer of the United States, from President Roosevelt on down, is directly answerable to the people for all of his official actions and this business of hiding things from the man in the street doesn't smell good.

It smells too much like some of our officials may be toying with the idea of adopting the European-embraced theory that the leaders are the guardians of the people, rather than their constituted representatives.

IF Italian and German consular employes are carrying on "Fifth Column" activities in our midst, every citizen of the country has a right to know about it.

If these alien, are not—as charged—practicing espionage, our people have a right to know about that, too.

If you ask us, there's been too much talk and not enough action toward curbing the enemies operating within our borders.

Full publicity in the matter will be helpful, rather than hurtful and the American citizen needs no official "protection" from the truth.

Goal To Go

YESTERDAY: Landis is furious when the scrub team plows through the varsity, using Buck's play. He orders Bill from the field. Bill reports the incident to Buck, discovers Buck has an offer to sell movie cameras to football coaches. His work will take him away. Bill pleads with him to wait, rest. Meanwhile, he remembers Dot.

CHAPTER V

On Saturday the West squad journeyed to Clayton and absorbed a 34 to 6 beating. On Sunday the Clarion carried a scorching column by Pat Hurly: "With a wealth of excellent material at his disposal, Coach Landis continues merrily to squander it on defeat . . ."

On his way to class Monday morning, Bill met Drowsy Peters, who said slyly, "The wolves are starting to howl, Bill. And the power of the press is at work, as they say in journalism class. Everybody's betting Landis won't finish the season."

"So what?" Bill demanded irritably. "What can I do about it?"

"Oh, nothing." Drowsy winked and jerked his thumb at Dot Skelton, whose slim legs were just disappearing around a corner. "I just thought you might like to think over my idea about Dot. . . ."

Dot was in the cafeteria at noon. She smiled meltingly at Bill and he surprised her by smiling back. But he couldn't bring himself to go over to her table. He knew what Buck would say about making up to a girl because she had influence.

All afternoon and during the early part of the evening Bill fought with his scruples. He finally made up his mind. He wouldn't just play up to Dot; he'd really like her. After all, she was cute and pretty. A fellow didn't have to go with just one girl, did he? He'd never told Helen they were going steady. . . .

Dot came in to Peskin's that evening with three girls. Bill girded himself for the attack. He felt like a heel as he said with a smile, "Hello, Dot."

"Why, hello, Bill." She raised lovely green eyes to him. "Do you know, Bill, that you've smiled at me twice today?"

Bill fumbled for something smooth to say. "I guess all the fellows smile at you, Dot."

"All except one," she said with an air of pique. "A girl always likes a fellow that's a little . . . . well, aloof."

Dot's three companions watched this display of technique in silent admiration. When Bill returned with the orders, Dot continued: "I was just telling the girls I thing they're mean not to walk home with me. With that awful sack bandit at large it isn't safe for a girl to be on the street alone. Do you think so, Bill?"

"No." Bill said with a gulp. For a horrible moment he was left poised on the brink of the question. Then, setting his jaw, he plunged over. "I'm finished at 10, Dot. If you're really afraid, I—I guess I could go with you."

"Oh, Bill!" Dot uttered the words as if she were accepting a proposal of marriage. "That would be just grand."

The top of Dot's head just came to Bill's shoulder as they walked, and when she turned to talk to him her hair brushed his face with fragrance.

"You've changed, Bill," she told him.

"Maybe I've always liked you," Bill said, trying to believe his own words. "But your father's a big shot and I'm—"

"Bill. How silly."

"Well, a fellow has to consider those things, Dot. If Buck had a good job somewhere, like coaching, I'd feel different. But just because he can't get around without canes, they won't give him a chance."

"You mean if things were different for your father you'd like to see more of me?"

Bill hesitated, then said faintly, "Yes."

Dot was an opportunist. "Like taking me to the dance Saturday night?"

Bill's heart missed a beat. "I—I'm not such a hot dancer."

"I'll teach you, Bill. Is it a date?"

"But I've already. . . ."

"You know, Bill," Dot interrupted shrewdly, "I've always said Buck Mentor would make a swell coach. If I tried, I could sell Father on the idea. The rest of the board just does what he tells them and he's pretty crazy about his little daughter. . . ."

"What about Landis?" Bill asked. "They haven't fired him yet."

Dot pointed her thumb earthward. "He's a pain in the neck. Father and old Peskin are beginning to realize they made a mistake."

"Even if they fire him," Bill objected, "maybe they won't let a girl tell them who to hire."

Dot tossed her head. "Well, I'm not saying they will. But if I were you, Bill, I wouldn't be too sure."

"Oh, I didn't mean that," Bill said quickly. "I guess you can do it, all right."

The big white Skelton mansion loomed up ahead. Dot slid her hand into Bill's. "I could do a lot for someone I liked, Bill."

Bill's throat was dry, but he managed to pry the words loose: "Dot, I'd like to have you . . . I mean, will you go with me to . . . to the dance Saturday night?"

"Why, Bill, honey! You're the sweetest boy in the world to invite me. I think I'll give you a kiss."

Bill retreated a step, but too late. Satin-soft lips pressed hard against his mouth. "You're a nice boy," Dot murmured. "I'm going to see you often, aren't I?"

Bill watched her slim figure vanish up the winding driveway, then he turned slowly homeward. His lips tingled from Dot's kiss; guiltily he brushed his hand across them as if to wipe the feeling away.

Deep in thought, he didn't see Helen until he was almost on his own porch. She was standing in the shadows of the big maple and called his name softly.

"What are you doing up so late?" Bill asked, keeping his eyes on the ground. He was ashamed to look at her.

Helen's voice trembled with excitement. "I walked up to the store, but I must have missed you."

"I came a different way," Bill

A VERY WORTHWHILE ACHIEVEMENT

An achievement of which the whole community is proud was that of the dairy cattle judging team of Lubbock High school in placing second in Kansas City last week in the national contests of Future Farmers of America.

Unhappily, the boys cannot possibly feel the elation that might be expected to result from having won such high honors in competition with the best teams of the kind in the entire nation. Their joy in achievement is bound to be shadowed by the disappointment that resulted from one of the most unfortunate incidents of the kind that possibly could have occurred.

First announcement by officials of the contest named the Lubbock team as winner. It is easy to imagine how happy the boys must have been. Then the next day recheck of points disclosed that a mistake had been made. The Lubbock team, instead of being national champion, was runner-up. That must have seemed an empty honor to the local boys under the circumstances. It must have been a terrifying disappointment.

Certainly, there was nothing for officials to do but correct the mistake. But the very fact that a mistake was made is evidence of an almost incredible carelessness on the part of someone connected with the competition.

There isn't anything that can be said to keep the Lubbock boys and their teacher and coach from feeling badly about the whole thing. However, it is most fitting that their home town should let them know that it keenly appreciates the high honor they have brought to Lubbock. Members of the team are Leroy Weems, Billy Rodgers, Phillip Perkins and Basil Moss. Henry Elder is their teacher and coach.

Army's Housing Ahead Of Plans; Men Will Be Well Cared For

Reds In This Country May Sever Russian Ties

BY BRUCE CATTON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 — Contrary to some of the scare stories that got around during the past month, housing for Uncle Sam's new army will probably be more than adequate.

Catton

Army officials now say housing projects will be 90 per cent completed by Jan. 1, with the "adequate shelter" stipulated by Congress available on that date for 800,000 men — although that many won't actually be in service until some time in March.

Army food stands to be better than ever before. For some time now the army has been operating more than a score of special schools for cooks and bakers. Virtually all its cooks and mess sergeants and many of its company officers, are graduates of these schools.

In addition, there are regular medical inspections of army food and food handlers. Every man assigned to K. P. duty gets a medical exam.

Westerners got alarmed recently by wild tales of epidemics at the 41st division national guard stations, Camps Lewis and Murray, Washington. Army authorities checked up and found only 13 cases of illness, all slight, among 13,000 enlisted men.

Farewell To Moscow

Some interesting maneuvers among left-wing groups in America are expected for the near future.

One important-if-true yarn has it that the Communist party, U. S. A., will shortly have a grand conclave at which connections with the Third Internationale will be severed, the end-product being a 100 per cent American party not subject to orders from Moscow.

Supposed advantages: local party-line people wouldn't have to defend every twist and turn of Stalin's foreign policy . . . and maybe party members would not come under so much suspicion of being agents of a foreign government. If that's the plan, it must be reported that the Dies committee has already heard of it and is prepared to be very skeptical.

More absorbing to New Dealers is a rumored boil-over among the Socialists, where there is considerable discontent with Norman Thomas' isolationism and his refusal to see much good in the works of FDR. Possible is a realignment which would find Socialists plunking for aid to Britain and occupying a position somewhat to the left of the New Deal but still rather friendly to it.

Reform Revival?

Watch for revival in the new Congress, perhaps even in the late days of this one, of the Norris-Lea amendment. Submitted first in 1934, this proposal would abolish the electoral college, and current talk about the way in which a 4,000,000-vote national majority was magnified into a landslide through the lens of the electoral college has revived interest in the reform.

The Norris-Lea plan would retain the electoral vote, though abolishing the "stooge" electors. Each state would have as many electoral votes as it has senators and representatives, as at present. But instead of all of each state's electors going to the candidate having the state majority or plurality, they would be proportioned to the popular vote.

Thus, if state has 10 electors, and one candidate got 6000 votes, the other 4000, the state's electoral votes would go six for one and four for the other candidate. It would be almost impossible to obtain an electoral majority without also getting a popular majority.

mumbled.

"Bill, I've got the grandest surprise. Guess what?"

"What?" Bill asked, dully.

"You don't sound very interested," Helen laughed. She stepped closer to him, her eyes sparkling in the street light. "Bill, my brother gave me money to get a new dress for the dance. I'm so thrilled I could cry."

"That's fine, Helen," Bill said.

She stiffened. "Is something wrong, Bill? You don't even seem glad."

"Sure I am, Helen, but . . ."

"Bill Mentor, what ails you?"

Bill said painfully, "Helen, I—I can't take you Saturday night."

Helen seemed to shrink down into the shadows. "Bill, I don't understand. You're joking, aren't you? Why, we've planned this for weeks. You must be joking."

Bill cleared his throat, but the choking lump remained. "I can't take you," he repeated doggedly. "I—I'm sorry."

"But—" She turned away from Bill a moment, and he knew she was crying. He blinked his eyes and almost wished he could cry, too. He felt like it.

She turned, dabbing at her eyes, and smiled. "I'm sorry to be such a baby, Bill. It was just that I'd counted on it so, and the new dress seemed to make things perfect. But I understand how it is if Mr. Peskin makes you work."

Bill said with desperate honesty, "It . . . it's not Mr. Peskin, Helen. I—well, I'm taking another girl."

"Oh . . ." Helen pressed taunt knuckles against her mouth. "Another girl . . ."

Bill nodded miserably. "Dot Skelton."

"Bill, you couldn't . . ." Suddenly straightened in defiance. "I—I hope you have a . . . wonderful time, Bill," she choked. With a sob, she whirled and fled into the house.

Bill stood for a moment in the shadows, his big shoulders sagging. Then he dropped his face into his hands.

—The News Of The Day Through The Camera's Eye—

DON'T KNOW OWN STRENGTH—Because of weight, perch atop social security building in capital was denied these 31-ton Indiana limestone eagles. They're being chipped smaller.

YANKEE GLAMOR GIRL—Liberty's skirts had some extra flounces when American and state flags whipped in the breeze during a recent observance of "Reconsecration Day" for the Statue of Liberty. Cold weather cut attendance at ceremonies, which included music and speeches. Liberty, the gift of France to America, stands about 306 feet high, from pedestal base to torch.

BEGINNING OF A RAINBOW—Of special interest to honeymooners is progress of the Rainbow bridge at Niagara Falls, scheduled for completion in 1941 to replace the Falls View span that collapsed in 1938. Here are the first concrete arches taking form 200 feet above the famous gorge. The familiar "Maid of the Mist" steamer puffs along daintily at the left.

MODISH—Uncle Sam's winter cap for his soldiers may not rate so high among fashion-minded designers, but it's sure to keep those ears warm. This is Private Andrew Brady of the 71st infantry now stationed at Fort Dix, N. J.

LOOKEE, BOYS!—With the snowball season coming, Junior might balk at wearing a silk topper and Eton suit like these on Dicky Hill, 5, of N. Y., and Andrew Christjansen (left), 6, British war refugee. They were so attired at New York benefit.

A FRIEND, THIS TIME—Over at Fort Dix, N. J., Private George Tucker of 44th division, 71st infantry, shows Private Edward Burke how sentry duty will operate. Soldiers must be clock-watchers, where those "hours" are concerned.

WEST POINT—Commandant of the Presidio at San Francisco Brig. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger has been named superintendent of West Point.

DUCK SOUP—Where Pilot Robert Ullman of Britain's R.A.F. goes, his pet duck goes, too, even if that means a stay at the swanky Ritz.

U. S. ARMY MECHANIZES—Trainload of tanks rolls into Fort Knox, Ky., mechanized corps center.

JUNIOR—Youngest member of the U.S. senate is Joseph H. Ball (above), Republican and former newspaper reporter named to succeed the late Sen. Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota. Ball is 35, takes the "youngest title" from Sen. Rush Holt.

NEW U.S. EMBASSY PLANNED—In about 16 months, the new U. S. embassy in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, shown in above architect's drawing, will be ready for occupancy. It is to be on the Rua Sao Clemente. The ambassador's present residence is a rented building; the new embassy will be owned by the U.S. government and will be located on property owned by Uncle Sam.

COURSE CHECKUP—No sooner does an unidentified ship appear in American waters than the neutrality patrol swings into action. Here, at Elizabeth City, N. C., Lt. R. L. Burke (right) plots a course for Lt. C. R. Bender to follow, in locating ship.

KEEPING A LINE ON COASTLINE—Racing to his plane, Lt. C. R. Bender of neutrality patrol station at Elizabeth City, N. C., hurries to investigate an unknown ship 70 miles off shore.

PATROL PLANE AT WORK—An unidentified ship off North Carolina gets the once-over by a U. S. coast guard plane, part of the increasingly-vigilant coast guard neutrality patrol.

Survey Shows U. S. Just Starting Huge Defense Spending Spree

Other Nations Also Splurge

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—A survey of the billions being poured out by the great powers for military implements indicated today that the United States has barely started making down payments on its modern mechanized fighting machine.

The best available statistics, by no means complete, place the minimum current arms expenditures of the six major nations at close to $50,000,000,000 annually. The outlays of numerous smaller countries would send the total higher. No one has yet begun to estimate the monetary value of the lost lives, destroyed wealth and devastated areas in those nations bearing the brunt of war.

Britain Boosts Spending

Embattled Britain, for example, has recently increased her total spending to a rate of nearly $20,000,000,000 annually, or about as much as all of the United Kingdom's 47,000,000 people earned in a pre-war year.

The United States, with a population nearly three times as large, is spending this year less than a third as much on her army and navy.

Next year the story will be different. By then Uncle Sam will be sluicing out out more and more of the $17,000,000,000 which Congress approved for national defense at its present session—and of additional billions expected to be voted after January 1.

No Budgets Published

Government authorities say that Germany has published no budgets for the last four years.

Reports received by officials here give this picture of the arms budgets of major powers, together with available estimates of national income—which are very rough and often not closely comparable—to provide a yardstick for measuring the effort involved:

United States—For the year ending next June 30, total budget $12,058,000,000, armament budget $5,000,000,000. Estimated national income $74,000,000,000.

Russia—Armament budget for 1940, $2,850,000,000, on the basis of what officia's say is the actual purchasing power of the ruble. Using the same basis, the national income is placed at $7,000,000,000, according to the official Soviet estimate.

Japan—Armament budget for current fiscal year, $1,572,776,000. Estimated national income, $5,967,000,000.

Italy—Armament budget for present fiscal year, about $2,000,000,000. Governm nt statement on national income, $5,750,000,000.

Canada—Armament budget for current year about $810,000,000. Estimated national income about $4,000,000,000.

Germany—About a year before the war, German writers estimated informally that the government took 50 per cent of the national income for armament and other purposes. In the year before the war, the German income was estimated at 75,000,000,000 marks (nominally $30,000,000,000).

United Kingdom—Total budget for current year announced at $13,868,000,000 last July, but present spending rate near $20,000,000,000.

forgery charge, and two girl companions were released.

Mabray said a suit had been recovered from the M. McDaniels burglary at 134 Broadway last week. A pair of shoes and a pair of clippers had not been located. An arrest is expected. A bicycle, license 1536, was recovered at 2408 Thirteenth street.

Cars Reported Stolen

Several cars were reported stolen over the territory and there were other reports of missing property, including pennies and nickels taken from vending machines in burglaries of a barbecue stand at 327 Avenue H and the Pete & Davis cafe at 1414 Avenue E.

Dale Robbins of 1204 Main street reported theft of an overcoat from his car parked at a night club; Grady Harrist, deputy sheriff, said an automobile, license 229-692, had been stolen at Anton and that a 20-year-old blond man was believed to be driving it; Plainview reported a Tulia car, license 176-238, had been stolen there; Sheriff Ed Hofacket of Levelland asked that a car, license K74-400, be detained and its two negro women and one negro man occupants be questioned in regard to a hijacking last week in Hockley county; Gene Box of 1619 Avenue D said his bicycle had been stolen; C. C. Williamson of 1911 Avenue W. reported his coat stolen from his car; officials planned further investigation into an automobile abandoned after it had broken down near railroad tracks in Lubbock and after clothing and a pint of wine and a pint of whisky had been found in it.

An automobile, license 817-714, was reported stolen at College and Broadway.

Borger Man Investigated

A 34-year-old Borger man was under investigation after negroes had informed officials the man left them stranded after they had paid him $1 each of a $1.75 fee required to ride in his truck to El Paso. They said the man picked them up at Littlefield, collected the $1 from them, then turned them out at Lubbock and said he would go no farther, nor would he return their money.

The man had no license to haul for hire, officials said, pressing their investigation. He was held for state highway officials, in city jail.

Two reports of boys shooting other children with air guns were made.

C. H. Rowden of Lubbock route 6 reported an electric razor and two blankets, aggregating in value $17.50, had been stolen from him.

One man was held for possession of knucks. Police said the man, suspected of having stolen a sweater from the truck of J. T. Mince of Lubbock, might not have been so tough, after all —Mince held him until officials could arrive to claim him.

One fellow, about 64, having no other place to go, apparently, was aimlessly headed south — on a box car. He found himself in a south cell of the city jail.

And Luke Bundrant, janitor at city hall, took a negro out of jail to do a bit of building for him, officials said, but the negro builded a plot to escape — and did. The black was held in connection with shoplifting from a downtown department store.

MARKET SLOW

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 (AP) — Signs were obscure for the general run of stock market leaders today and many traders stood aside to await clearer speculative weather.

Steels were the best of the lot but even here early gains of fractions to a point or so were shaded at the close.

Dealings were the slowest for a full session in about three weeks, transfers approximating 350,000 shares.

Aiding the steels was the compilation of the American Iron & Steel Institute fixing this week's mills operation at 96.6 per cent of capacity, up 5 of a point at a new record high.

Among the better early share moves were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, American Telephone, Consolidated Edison, Public Service of N. J., Westinghouse, American Smelting, Great Northern and Certain-Teed common and preferred.

Bonds and commodities were uneven.

EL PASO, Nov. 18 (U.P.)—Funeral arrangements were being made today for Joshua S. Cosden, 59-year-old petroleum company head, who died suddenly aboard a Southern Pacific passenger train at Willcox, Ariz., Sunday afternoon.

Cosden, president of the Cosden Oil company of Fort Worth, died of a heart attack in his train compartment while en route to the west coast. His secretary, William Hudson, was with him.

CLAIMED BY DEATH

MADISONVILLE, Nov. 18 (AP) — W. L. Parten, 83, father of J. R. Parten, Houston oil man and University of Texas regent, died at his home here today. He was a pioneer business man. Funeral services will be held here tomorrow.

Rural School Taxes Showing Increase

Payment of current taxes by the six rural high schools shows an increase through October, with exception of two, it was found in records of the county tax assessor-collector's office today.

Cooper, Frenship, New Deal, and Shallowater had increases in collections over the same month last year, Roosevelt and Idalou decreases.

The figures:

Cooper district, $7,292.36 for October of 1940, $7,025.39 for the same month of 1939; Frenship, $8,084.74 and $6,796.45; New Deal, $4,216.25 and $4,029.84; Roosevelt, $7,304.86 and $7,400.38; Shallowater, $6,268.88 and $5,394.10, and Idalou, $2,636.31 and $4,039.83.

Only Idalou and Roosevelt districts do not give discounts for total tax payments, which in October amounted to 3 per cent. Payments this morning are discounted 2 per cent. In December they will be reduced by 1 per cent.

Safety Campaign

have been killed on highways as all of the U. S. soldiers who died in the World war . . . More people have been killed on U. S. highways in the last fifteen years than in all the wars fought by the U. S.—since 1776 . . . An average of 36,000 people a year die in traffic accidents every year which reached the staggering total of 39,500 in 1937 . . .

"And what about those who aren't dead?" Humphrey continued. "One million people a year are injured in accidents; just think of it—one out of every 130 persons has to be treated in hospitals and by physicians . . . Many of them are horribly mangled and have scars and wounds they will carry through life . . . all caused by moments of carelessness—moments in which somebody is trying to go just a little bit faster."

Where Accidents Occur

Humphrey cited statistics by the National Safety Council which revealed that 40 per cent of accidents happen at street intersections and 18 per cent of traffic deaths occur there . . . Thirty-three per cent of the accidents and 23 per cent of deaths are between intersections and involve pedestrians . . . Eleven per cent of all highway deaths occur on curves and 53 per cent of all accidents involve only one vehicle and are due to excessive speeds . . . Thirty-eight per cent of all deaths happen on the open road also due to excessive speed.

He pointed to figures which showed that at 20 miles an hour a driver, under ideal conditions and with perfect brakes on his car, cannot stop from the time he sees danger until his car comes to a complete halt within less than 40 feet . . . At 50 miles an hour he cannot stop within 166 feet and at 70 miles an hour he cannot bring his car under control and stop in less than 295.

Dangers Here Cited

Humphrey cited the absence of intermediary or caution lights in Lubbock traffic signal lights; the absence of proper street markings and boulevarding of streets and the turning to the right and left across traffic lanes as great dangers in Lubbock traffic conditions. He suggested the organization of a Safety Council for the city which would study and attempt to remedy these conditions.

Capt. Legge said 26 accidents had occurred at 'Dead Man's Curve' on the Slaton highway near the city limits of Lubbock and said all were non-collision accidents involving single vehicles and caused mainly by excessive speeds and "too much liquor behind the wheel."

Chief Reeder pledged cooperation in the safety campaign and expressed his appreciation to the organization for staging it.

Signs at 40 intersections in Lubbock cite the number of deathless days Lubbock has had and armbands worn by patrolmen and police officers also carry the numerals.

East Texas Title Is Voted To Marshall

MARSHALL, Nov. 18. (AP)—A squabble between Tyler and Marshall over the 1940 championship of the East Texas league was settled here yesterday when club directors voted the title to Marshall.

Argument over the championship arose when the eligibility status of Outfielder Nick Gregory of the Tyler club was questioned during the Shaughnessy playoff.

qualified for the job, is only an individual because if you don't give him strength, he is nothing.

"These are the things CIO must take into consideration if it is to endure."

Lewis drew a thunderous applause as he declared that those who claim the CIO policies are inspired by "Communistic, Nazi, or any other such philosophy" lie, "and that" he shouted, "goes for Old Lady Green down in New Orleans."

His reference was to AFL Leader William Green who was reported to have forecast a split over charges of Communism.

Slowly he told the delegates that for himself, he was going to step down from the CIO leadership and asked that his successor be given "your support."

Represents Common People

The CIO chieftain, in a fervent and emotional appeal, said to hushed delegates:

"Keep your organization alive. Your organization represents the common people."

CIO unionists opened their third annual convention today with a roaring demonstration for Lewis.

"Forward with Lewis and CIO," was the slogan of enthusiastic Lewis partisans, many of whom have been outspoken in their demands that Lewis give up his plan to retire as CIO president.

Greeted By Cheers

Confetti, horns, bells and deafening cheers greeted Lewis as he appeared to take over his job as presiding officer.

Leonard Goldsmith, executive secretary of the New Jersey CIO council presented Lewis as "the real leader of the American people."

The convention stood up and roared "we want Lewis."

The scene of the CIO meeting took on the appearance of a national convention as delegates swarmed into the aisles and paraded with banners and band music.

Delegates from Sidney Hillman's Amalgamated Clothing Workers union sat quietly through most of the show. The Hillman union and the Lewis forces have been in disagreement for months over CIO policies.

Issues Fought Out

Well informed sources disclosed that Lewis and his opponents on some major policies have already fought out behind closed doors some of the issues slated for the convention floor.

In an executive session of CIO's national board, it was learned, Lewis engaged in warm debate with the followers of Vice President Hillman, labor member of the national defense commission, over financial reports and the creation of a finance committee. CIO does not make public its finances.

Labor leaders in the know said it was a session of "some pretty plain talking" on both sides which released some of the steam that might have exploded in the convention.

It was reported that Lewis lashed out at his opponents within CIO for what he regarded as an attack on his position, and recalled some of the bitterly critical statements made by some CIO unionists about his endorsement of Wendell L. Willkie for president.

AFL Ready To Talk Of Peace In Ranks

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 18. (AP)—The American Federation of Labor, opening its 60th convention today, was ready to discuss peace within the ranks of labor—a peace which AFL President William Green charges is being blocked by CIO President John Lewis.

Nevertheless, AFL leaders, expressing belief a CIO split as possible, frankly had their ears tuned to events at the Congress of Industrial Organizations convention opening at the same time in Atlantic City, where Lewis had promised to resign.

Green said in a press statement:

"If Lewis would get out and divest himself of any influence, we could make progress toward peace."

Woodrow McArthur will be tried at 9 o'clock Friday morning on a charge of cattle theft.

Raymond H. McAdams, charged with robbery, is under federal sentence and likely will not face trial this term of the state court, it was indicated.

Staple length and quality have been good this year. Rains have stained the cotton somewhat, lowering grades, but on the whole, cotton men report, the greater proportion is still going into the government loan. Buyers report a slight increase in the offering of lower grade cotton to the trade, but the volume is still high.

Approximately 90 per cent of the cotton ginned so far has gone into the loan.

SEMINOLE, Nov. 18 (Special) — Tunes of 1917 will ring in the ears of three Gaines county boys who have volunteered and been selected for training service, when they receive a county wide farewell sendoff in Seminole Tuesday morning.

The local selective board has completed arrangements for a forty-five minute program to honor George W. Smith of Seagraves, Charles E. Laster of Seminole, and one other whose name is not yet available. High school bands of Seminole and Seagraves will participate, in addition to official farewells and congratulations from officials of the county and two towns. The program will begin at 9:15 o'clock Tuesday morning and the timing of the program calls for both bands to be playing a farewell number as the bus leaves.

Changes In Speed Laws Are Talked

(By The United Press)

Traffic safety experts met in Dallas today to discuss Texas' highway and town speed limits while reports trickled in of another weekend of death on state roads.

Department of public safety and Texas Safety association officers and state and city traffic engineers convened in statewide conference to talk of hiking the legal speed of 20 miles per hour in cities and towns and 45 on highways.

Three Die In Dallas

Three persons died in the Dallas area in traffic accidents.

Alfred Dick Daniel, a mechanic who had just obtained employment after moving to Dallas from Georgia, was killed as his automobile collided with a lumber truck outside the city.

Kenneth K. Warren, 17, Irving, died late yesterday after he was struck by an automobile near the Dallas high school football stadium.

Mrs. Ernest V. Conrad, 21, was injured fatally in a residential area collision.

At Brownwood, the first fatal accident involving a soldier at the new Camp Bowie was recorded with the death of First Class Private Clarence C. Webb of Williamstown, Kans. He died after a car overturned between Brownwood and Brady, failing to make a curve. Jesse B. Johnston, 36, and Robert N. Garvey, two Fort Bliss soldier companions, were hurt.

East of Sherman, Willis E. McKnight, 38, Frisco railroad employe, was killed when his automobile overturned early yesterday.

Other forms of violence took several lives in the state during the weekend.

A mother and her 16-year-old son, Mrs. William Henry Ridings, 64, and William, jr., were burned to death at Waco. Twelve other persons were saved by the cries of a small girl when fire swept a residence early yesterday.

Funeral services were held today at Mabray, west of Clarksville, for Mrs. Guy Foster, 34, who died of burns suffered when her clothing ignited at her home while she was standing before a wood heater.

At Houston, William J. Wink, 25, unemployed truck driver, shot his wife, seriously wounding her, and then killed himself when officers sought to arrest him on a lunacy charge.

Time Bombs, Dynamite Level 'City Of Dead' To Rubbish

BY DAN CAMPBELL
United Press Staff Correspondent

COVENTRY, England, Nov. 18.—This city, wrecked by an aerial blitzkrieg, trembled today with the explosions of time bombs, of dynamite planted by demolition squads, and of tinned goods lying in the smouldering debris.

The death toll now was estimated at more than 250. Many bodies have not yet been recovered. I asked an air raid protection warden how many were killed and he took me to the wreckage of an undergraund shelter. A reinforced concrete floor, studded with steel girders, covered the space. The floor had been raised by a huge jack. The warden said, "look under there."

I aproached the hole cautiously and the warden assured me that "it's safe now." Under the floor there were more bodies than I could count while gazing as long as I could endure the sight.

The warden took me to three other "safe shelters" where I saw the same thing.

The explosions go on continually. The Nazi bombers apparently strewed the city with time bombs, which were still causing a few casualties among rescue and demolition workers. Dynamiters, leveling what was left of the crazily hanging walls, set off their charges with clock-like regularity.

There is no water, gas or electricity here. Survivors are fed at mobile canteens and quartered on the outskirts of this former industrial city of 167,000, laid waste in a 10-hour attack Thursday night.

Coventry soon will be one great heap of charred wood, steel, glass and mortar, strewn with broken furniture, clothes, and household articles.

proposing to fly from Denver to Laredo, Texas; Continental Airlines, Inc., proposing to fly from Ueblo, Colo., to Amarillo, and from Hobbs, N. M., to Austin, Texas; and Essair, Inc., proposing to fly from Houston to Garden City, Kas.

The San Angelo witnesses did not express preference for any applicant.

Homecoming Dances Financial Success

Both homecoming dances were financially successful Saturday night, Wendell Watson, secretary of the Alumni and Ex-Students association of Texas Technological college, said this morning.

It will be unnecessary for the Lubbock county chapter to make up any deficit, which the chapter voted to do if the downtown dance held exclusively for former students and their guests proved unsuccessful.

The downtown dance attracted attendance of 300 or more persons. A total of approximately 180 tickets, date and stag, was sold, said Watson. Reports had not been received this morning from all of the Lubbock county chapter members who aided in ticket sales.

Income from ticket sales was nearly $200 for the college dance. The two dances "cleared" more than $200 for the Alumni and Ex-Students association.

Italian Plane Said Down In Yugoslavia

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Nov. 18 (AP)—Unofficial reports said an Italian bomber crashed early today near Danilovgrad, in southern Yugoslavia near the Adriatic coast, after Yugoslav anti-aircraft guns fired at the plane. There was no immediate confirmation.

Four members of the plane's crew were reported killed and one injured. Italian uniforms and insignia were found in the wreckage. Yugoslav authorities began an inquiry at the site of the crash.

playing her part. She daily visits army hospitals, canteens and air raid precaution centers, and her tall, regal figure is a familiar sight to cockney children who have been evacuated to her district.

She is without a doubt Britain's healthiest septuagenaria. Save for occasional colds, she has never been sick, and when anyone near her sniffs, she orders them off to bed.

In her rambling old country house there is an air raid shelter, but it is understood she has never used it yet. She also is never seen carrying a gas mask, but it is believed one of her ladies in waiting always carries one for her.

Nation's Conscripts Starting For Camps

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 — Led by New England, home of the "minute men" in a bygone defense era, the nation began mustering into service today the first conscription program contingent of 19,700.

Actual induction of trainees for a year's training also started at Chicago and on the Pacific coast, but difference in time zones gave New England the chance to start earliest.

As the first young men were getting ready to start toward camp, war department spokesmen disclosed that instead of the original estimate of 30,000, only 19,700 trainees would be put into uniform by Dec. 1.

The reduction, officials explained, was due chiefly to the large number of recruits signing up recently for three-year "hitches" in the regular army.

In Camps By Nightfall

Only three army corps areas figured in the start of inductions today. The 1st corps area—embracing the six New England states — had a quota of 984, and predicted a good many of the youths would be completely outfitted and in camps by nightfall. At Chicago, headquarters of the 6th corps area, an even 100 were to be sworn in. Induction stations in the far west were ready for the first of the 1,630 men from the states of the 9th corps area. It will be several days before the task in these areas is finished.

The selective service machinery will pick up speed in the next week with the rapid extension of induction work to other areas.

By December, the army's plans call for the 8th corps area, consisting of Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas, to induct 2,486 men.

New Fight In Congress Set

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 — Gathering to resume regular sessions after the five-week election holiday, Congress heard the condition of the capitol roof cited today as one more reason why speedy adjournment should be voted.

Rep. McCormack (D-Mass), newly chosen House Democratic leader, declared:

"Experts say the conditions of the roofs over both the Senate and House chambers are very dangerous. A heavy snowstorm could cave them both in."

Funds Were Voted

Congress voted funds to replace the roofs over both chambers after a warning from architects and engineers that the 85-year old structures might not stand severe strains.

McCormack said he was confident that enough Democrats would be in the House by Tuesday to pass a sine die adjournment resolution and send it on to the Senate.

"There is no reason for us to stay in session," he said, "because the president has no legislative program for us. It's difficult to understand why the Republicans oppose this, except for purely political reasons."

Rep. Martin (R-Mass), House Republican leader and chairman of the Republican national committee, promised solid opposition to any adjournment plans.

The Senate faced a demand from supporters of the controversial Walter-Logan bill for a vote on that legislation, already passed by the House. Administration leaders have opposed Senate action.

The bill is designed to standardize procedure in many government agencies and also to expedite court appeals from their decisions and regulations.

talitarian. We are marching side by side . . . our identity of views, both for the present and for the future, is perfect."

The three-power pact among Germany, Italy and Japan, developments in the Danubian basin, as well as "the future position of France," resulted from meetings with Hitler, Il Duce said.

Turning to the war against Greece, Il Duce said the Greeks "hate Italy as no other people," although "the reason is a mystery."

Greek foreign policy in recent years was based on this hatred, he charged, describing it as a policy of "absolute complicity with Great Britain."

"It could not be otherwise," he shouted, "considering the king is English, the political class is English and the bourse, in both a figurative and real sense, is English."

Bases Said Offered

Papers found by the German general staff in France, he declared, showed Greece had offered the Allies all its air and naval bases since last May.

"The rough mountains of Epirus and its muddy valleys do not lend themselves to lightning war," he explained. . . . "I do not believe it worth the trouble to deny all the news given by Greek propaganda and its English loudspeaker.

"That Julia Alpine division which was supposed to have suffered enormous losses, fled and been pulverized by the Greeks, was seen by General Soddu, who after his visit telegraphed me Nov. 12:

"'I went this morning to visit the Julia Alpine division and must report a magnificent impression was brought back from this superb unit, stronger than ever in its Alpine rocks.'

"With absolute certainty I tell you we will break Greece's back. Whether in two months or 12 months, it little matters.

"The war has barely begun. We have men and means to annihilate all Greek resistance. English aid can not prevent accomplishment of this most firm proposal.

"To think or suspect something otherwise, means not to know me . . .

"We have a million men under arms. But we can call 8,000,000 more if necessary. . . . Germans and Italians together, we are a bloc of 150,000,000, resolute, compact and firm from Norway to Libya.

"This bloc already has victory in its fist."

Youth Injured When Truck Hits Bicycle

Joe Truman Boyd, 14, of 1413 Avenue F, was released Sunday afternoon from West Texas hospital after he had been struck from his bicycle by a truck.

Police reports said the truck was driven by C. A. Holcomb, 60, of 504 Avenue M, but that the boy had "cut in front" of him.

Ralph Music of Oklahoma City raced with the boy to a hospital when it was indicated a fractured skull had been suffered.

However, young Boyd was released after treatment for cuts and abrasions, hospital reports said.

The mishap was at 12:20 o'clock, at Tenth street and Avenue M.

Coalition Asked For Defense

BOSTON, Nov. 18. (U.P.) — Irving S. Olds, chairman of the board of the United States Steel corporation, has urged a "sincere coalition of all interests" to prepare the nation for "any eventuality at the earliest possible date."

Olds told the 16th New England conference that the United States should rid itself of "partisan politics, class hatred, any imagined hostility of capital toward labor of vice versa, and of any unfounded imputation of reactionary influences" to attain the "goal of thorough preparedness."

The formula is not involved, he said, but its fulfillment calls for "far-sighted and broad-minded statesmanship, not only by those in government, but also by leaders of business and labor and by those who formulate public opinion. Success can best be had by a sincere coalition of all interests in the common cause."

The defense program, he said, should be "prosecuted with the utmost vigor and with single-minded devotion to its early consumation. It must, of course, be divorced from objectives not legitimately embraced within the preparedness movement.

Tennessee Town Is Still Hitting Ball

MORLEY, Tenn., Nov. 18 (AP)—This little east Tennessee town of about 200 inhabitants is still hitting the ball for Uncle Sam.

Its perfect record of sending every eligible male into military service as a volunteer was upheld yesterday when Olas Gene Thomas, just turned 18, enlisted in the army.

Thomas was the twenty-eighth volunteer to enlist from Morley. Now recruiting officers will have to wait until the other lads grow up before Morley can send another.

Lake Baikal in Siberia is the deepest in the world.

Shakespeare Summed Up The Situation

LONDON, Nov. 18. (AP)—William Shakespeare lived long before the age of air bombardments, but Londoners agreed today that he summed up Britain's 1940 situation pretty well with this line from "Richard the Third:"

"Now is the winter of our discontent."

A matinee crowd in a London theater roared with laughter yesterday when an actor read the line.

Mussolini's Speech May Reveal Unrest In Italy

Italians Said To Be Uneasy

BY FRED VANDERSCHMIDT
Associated Press Staff Writer

Mussolini's speech is interesting and important for two reasons: (1) Why he made it at all; (2) What he didn't say.

This was the first time Il Duce had chosen to break his sphinx-like silence since he threw in his lot with the Germans for better or worse last June 10 and joined in the assault against France and Britain. Why did he find it necessary to speak out now to tell his people that his high command has been telling the truth about the damage which British aerial torpedoes did to Italy's battleships at Taranto? Or to declare, "whatever happens, I will never turn back" in Greece?

Answers Are Hollow

The logical answer is that Italians have been cupping a defeatist ear to the British radio and then asking each other: "What are we getting out of this war but trouble? Where are our victories? Why did we get into it, anyway?"

Mussolini, himself, referred to the "English loud speaker" and he took pains to give his people these answers to their unspoken questions: That only a few of their fathers, sons and brothers are dying in the cruel mountains of the Greek frontier; that only one battleship was badly damaged at Taranto; that no lightning triumph must be expected to rise from the mud and crags of Epirus and the Pindus; that Britain started the whole thing by really "attacking" Italy five years ago; that the Greeks hated Italy and conspired with Britain to beat her.

May Attack Gibraltar

What Mussolini did not say was how he and Adolf Hitler proposed to get Italy out of the slump she is in. Il Duce did, it is true, promise to start his troops on the march again in the western Egyptian desert, on the way toward Suez, but it is clear now that a resumption of this offensive depends upon fracture of British sea power in the Mediterranean and easement of the difficult Italian situation on the Greek-Albanian border.

That is being dealt with today at Berchtesgaden, front yard of Adolf Hitler's Eyrie, and it is one of the best bets you can make today that the men of Germany, Italy and Spain are talking about the prospects or even laying the final plans for a German assault, by way of Spain, on Britain's Gibraltar—on which Britain's Mediterranean sea power largely rests.

Wary Of Turkey

They may also be planning a simultaneous German drive down through Bulgaria to outflank and crush the Greeks, but here again another omission of Mussolini's must be taken into account.

Il Duce did not say whether he would have any German troops to help him in the Greek campaign. Instead he reiterated rather vaguely that German and Italian collaboration is "comradly and totalitarian;" that he and Hitler think exactly alike.

There is pretty fair evidence that Germany would like to avoid embroiling Turkey right now, and a German march through Bulgaria would risk that. So it is possible that German aid to Italy at this time will take the form of an attempt to crack Britain's naval hold on the Mediterranean.

Defense Is Indefinite

What chance there is of Gibraltar holding out against modern forms of attack by land is an entirely unknown quantity.

Probably both Spain and Italy will play passive parts in this assault, if it comes.

This French army, under General Maxine Weygand, still is a mysterious factor in the Mediterranean struggle. Obviously it does not regard Italy in the light of its conqueror nor has it any brotherly love for nationalist Spain. It might strike back quickly and viciously if it considered France's African territory endangered, despite its allegiance to the government of defeat and Armistice at Vichy.

Oil And Gas Commission For State Is Advocated

MIDLAND, Nov. 18 (Special) — The Permian Basin association has announced its support of a movement to create in Texas a separate oil and gas commission to serve those industries mirroring thoughts of various members of the state railroad commission.

In recent years various members of the commission have expressed the need for a separate commission to serve the state's greatest industry because of its complex problems.

Manned By Experts

This commission, the association believes, should be manned by experts, divorced from politics, and have its expenses paid by the industry it serves.

"We believe that a commission made up of three trained and practical oil men, appointed by the governor, with a two-thirds approval vote of the Senate, would eliminate much of the complaint now existing toward an overworked railroad commission," Hamilton McRae of Midland, president of the association, said.

"The present commission has too many problems on its hands," he continued.

Committees Meet

"The freight rates situation in Texas alone is enough to exhaust the time and thought of any group or commission, and when to this is added the multiple troubles of Texas' greatest industry, oil, it is too much. For this reason, we believe it time for the people of Texas to recognize the need for a separate oil and gas commission, the operation expenses of which should be borne entirely by the industry itself."

McRae's announcement followed a meeting of the executive and legislative committees of the association, the Reporter-Telegram of Midland announced.

AUTO DEATHS BEGIN AT 50

SACRAMENTO, Cal. (U.P.) — Life may begin at 40 for most people, but death begins at 50 from automobile accidents, according to the State Automobile association. A 3-year nationwide survey shows that the over-50 group furnishes the greatest number of auto accident victims, largely because of decreased eyesight, hearing and agility.

Fifth Column Action Hinted

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 18 (U.P.) — The regularity with which German fliers meet fleets of Royal Air force planes being ferried "secretly" from Canada to England has mystified British officers, according to Mark L. Arnold, a "ferry pilot" for the British purchasing mission.

Whenever a fleet of United States or Canadian - Manufactured warplanes, flight-delivered across the Atlantic, nears Ireland a squadron of Germans arrives with uncanny accuracy "willing and waiting" for them, Arnold, a Texan said.

Only Few Know

"We feel that this is directly traceable to highly organized fifth column activity in Canada," he said. "Of course, we have no facts, but you can readily see that these encounters are not chance affairs.

"Trans-ocean trips are arranged with utmost secrecy. Only one other person beside the pilot knows the place of destination and not until we are actually ready to take off are we given our instructions."

The fliers are given no specific field as a destination, only a certain air position at an approximate time to meet the beam which guides them to a landing, he added.

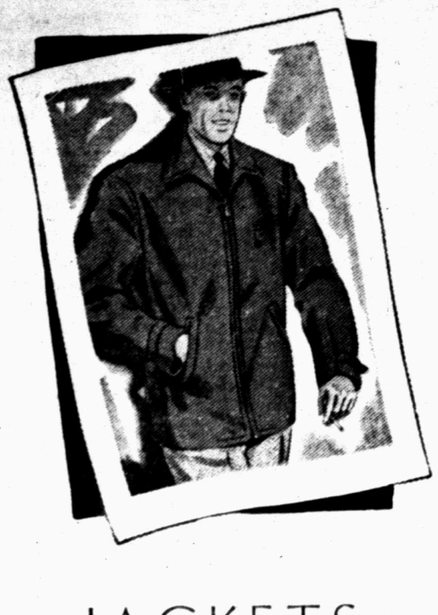

COMPLAINTS RECEIVED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. —(AP)A Civil Service commission official said that of about 50 complaints he had received charging various state workers throughout the nation with violations of the Hatch clean politics law, none so far as he remembered had come from Texas, which has 8,500 highway department workers.

South Plains Pupils Low In Arithmetic

Achievements tests given to 360 grade school children indicate South Plains pupils are low in literature and reading vocabulary but good in arithmetic, according to Dr. Albert Barnett, professor of education and psychology at Texas Technological college.

The deficiency may be attributable to the fact that many of the schools are new and have not built up adequate libraries, Dr. Barnett said. The tests were conducted to determine levels of students on elementray science, word choice, literature, dictation, vocabulary, reading comprehension, social studies, arthmetic reasoning and computation, and physical education.
