DANIEL PROCLAIMS FFA WEEK IN TEXAS

Gov. Price Daniel proclaims FFA Week in Texas, Feb. 17-24. L-R are James Morris, president Texas FFA; Governor Daniel, and Clemon Montgomery, executive secretary, Texas Association FFA.

FFA boys set open house for tonight, 7 to 9 p. m.

Gov. Price Daniel has proclaimed the week of Feb. 17-24 as FFA Week in Texas, and members of the Post Future Farmers of America chapter are joining in the observance by holding open house from 7 until 9 o'clock tonight in the vocational agriculture building at Post High School.

Ike Trimble, vocational agriculture instructor and FFA chapter advisor, said visitors will be shown the VA classroom and shop and some of the current projects.

Everyone is invited to attend the open house, Trimble said.

Thirty-nine boys are taking vocational agriculture at the high school here and 33 of them are FFA members. The chapter's officers are: David Lee, president; Jerry Thuet, vice president; Richard Hart, secretary; Neal Francis, treasurer; Jerry Gerner, sentinel, and Jerry Stone, reporter.

In signing and presenting the proclamation to James Morris, president, Texas FFA Association, from Anahuac, the Governor pointed out that the importance of agriculture in our state increases as Texas progresses, and it is vital to our well-being that we train skilled farmers and ranchers to provide a plentiful supply of food in years to come.

Morris received the proclamation on behalf of the 37,000 active FFA members in 900 chapters and more than a quarter of a million former students.

The FFA is composed of boys who are studying vocational agriculture in the public schools in preparation for careers in farming, ranching, and related fields.

In studying the science of agriculture, these Future Farmers are striving to improve this great industry for the welfare of all citizens.

awarded contract on turbine unit

A. R. Watson, president of Southwestern Public Service Company, has announced that the Missouri Valley Constructors, Inc., of Amarillo, has been awarded the contract to build a 210,000 kilowatt turbine-generator unit at the company's Plant X, located seven miles north of Amherst.

Construction will begin this week, with completion scheduled for June 1964.

The new unit, manufactured by the General Electric Company, is the largest single turbine-generator ever installed in the area served by Southwestern Public Service Company.

In making the announcement, Watson stated that the new addition represents an investment $15,000,000 and is dramatic evidence that this region continues to be one of the fastest growing sections of the country.

This will be the fourth generating unit at Plant X, and will bring the capability up to 487,500 kilowatts, and the total for all 12 of Southwestern's plants, to more than 1,200,000 kilowatts.

The electrical construction will be handled by Service Electric Company, Carlsbad, N. M.

Bible Thoughts
"OUR BIBLE"
By HERB SMITH

I am happy to greet you with "Bible Thoughts." I look forward to this each week, and I hope that you will take time to read every article.

Since our theme is "Bible Thoughts," I think it would be well to get acquainted with the Bible. There are a lot of interesting facts about the Bible. To learn these and some of the Bible contents, will be most interesting and informative.

The Bible itself is the greatest miracle of the ages. No other book has equalled the Bible. It is not possible to estimate the amount the Bible has influenced world history. Art, literature, drama, and music have had masterpieces that were influenced by Bible themes. Great men through the ages have been students and constant readers of the Bible.

The Bible is a library of sixty-six books. About forty different men wrote these books over a period of 1500 years. The Old Testament of thirty-nine books was written in Hebrew. The New Testament of twenty-seven books was written in Greek. The Bible was first written on papyrus and goat or sheepskins. These were rolled into a roll and were called scrolls. Some of the most ancient manuscripts are in the museums of Rome and England. Of course they are priceless and they are carefully guarded. Our Bible is a wonderful and great book.

ENGLISH LAWYERS

Even though the American Revolution ended the dominion of the English king over the colonies, the common law of England as a tie with the mother country remained. It has stood as the common heritage of a sister people and has served as the fountainhead of American legal thought. However, in the years that have passed since the Revolution, the legal professions of Britain and America have proceeded along separate lines of development.

In the English legal profession lawyers are split into two classes. They are called solicitors and barristers. Broadly speaking, solicitors deal directly with clients and prepare cases. Barristers conduct cases before the courts. The closest analogy that can be drawn to the American profession is the practice that has grown up in some of the large firms of having office lawyers and trial lawyers. Actually, there is more difference. In the United States, when a lawyer is admitted to the bar of a particular state, he becomes a combination barrister and solicitor.

The profession of law in England came into being between the Eleventh and Thirteenth Centuries. During the earlier portion of this period, it was customary for a litigant to bring a friend to help him in his law suit. By the end of the Twelfth Century, the common law had become so complicated that the friend gave way to a professional called a "narrator." This narrator was the ancestor of the present day English barrister.

Toward the last part of the Thirteenth Century, a second class of professionals emerged. Many litigants, who were large landowners, found it difficult to make a personal appearance in court to assist with the case. In lieu of their presence, they sent an agent or "attorney" who was the forerunner of the English solicitor of today.

Thus, the distinction between the attorney or solicitor, and the barrister or narrator. As written pleadings became the vogue, it was the attorney or solicitor who saw the client, elicited the facts and prepared the necessary papers. The barrister then argued the case in court.

The American legal profession has not followed the English system since the frontier atmosphere and experimentation with new government and new laws did not lend itself to the divided English method of handling legal matters.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Wilson pastor, family move to Phillipsburg

Rev. and Mrs. James P. Burnett and son, James David, of Wilson left Thursday for Phillipsburg, Tex. where Rev. Burnett will be pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Rev. Burnett had been pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church at Wilson for three and a half years. He is one of the area pastors who helped establish the Lutheran Mission in Post, which holds services at 6 p. m. Sundays in the Teen Town building.

THE PROOF OF PRAYER

Ask—and it shall be given you. Seek—and ye shall find.
Knock—and it shall be opened unto you.

The promise of Jesus is all the proof a child asks. But, knowing that we grownups are often more inclined to skepticism than faith, Christ continues:

What man is there of you, whom if his son ask bread, will give him a stone—or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent?

And while the multitude pondered the implication of these challenges, the Lord offered his conclusion... so simple as to appear obvious... so profound as to convince all but an atheist:

If ye, then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children—how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to them that ask Him!

But His real proof you'll find in the experience of prayer... in your church... in your home... in the sacred quiet moments of every day.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

7th grade girls district champs

Billy Hahn's 7th grade basketball team won the district high championship at last Thursday night by pinning Slaton 22 to 20, in the district tournament here, which made a playoff necessary.

In last Thursday night's championship win, Jan Miller scored eight points for Post, with Sherry Woods contributing five and Marcia Newby, two. LaGayluah Young also played at a forward position.

Playing at the guard positions and holding Slaton to a meager five points were Linda Altman, Marta Solis, Edith Johnson, La Gayluah Young and Jaynie Josey.

The Post 8th grade boys had won the district tournament here after Slaton had copped the round-robin crown. In the playoff game, Ruben Solis led the Post scorers with nine points. Other scorers were: Birch Lobban, six; Sammy Sims and Mike Miller, two each, and Ricky Welch and Ronnie Pierce, one each.

Since Marlin produces a double o-u gun we asked Lawrence Ferg- uson about rechambering for the 3-inch shell.

He says "the Marlin Model-90 cannot be chambered for the magnum 3-inch shells. It is chambered only for the 2 3/4-inch shells. It would be dangerous to attempt us- ing a magnum in the 90."

INCIDENTALLY, HE also said that it would not be practical to build a 44-magnum on the present Model-90 in the .410 frame.

Savage, which produces the Ste- vens and Fox doubles, says its guns should not be rechambered.

The first 12-gauge magnum ever developed was for a Fox gun many years ago. This gun, however, was specially bored for the heavier load.

Matador, the Spanish shotgun, is made in a double barreled model that is chambered for the 3-inch 20-gauge. It sells for $169.

Most recent magnum 20-gauge entry is a Remington Model-870 pump selling for around $100 to $160.

Stevens also produces a repeater which will handle the 3-inch 20-gauge magnum shell, selling for about $80.

Shooters who have tried the 3- inch cartridge on ducks, geese and dove, say it will perform along with the 12-gauge standard loads.

Price-wise the 20-gauge magnum with 3/4 drams of powder and 1 1/2- ounces of shot is listed to sell re- tail for $3.40. This is exactly the same price of the 12-gauge high- power load with 3/4 drams of pow- der and 1 1/2-ounces of shot. The regular high-speed 20 lists at $2.95.

IN THE medium brass shells, the 12-gauge lists at $2.65 and the 20-gauge at $2.40. In the target loads, the 12-gauge 2 3/4 drams with 1 1/8 ounce shot lists at $2.80 and the 20-gauge with 2 1/4 drams and 7/8- ounces shot lists at $2.30.

Since there is no doubt about the magnum giving cleaner kills, there is an advantage in them for the average shooter.

For the man who stretches his gun barrel, however, there will be little advantage.

Game frequently is killed at ranges in excess of 60 yards, but they can be considered as lucky shots. Consistent killing doesn't usually take place beyond 40 yards, or just about the depth of an ordinary city lot.

Actually, the lead you take may be the deciding factor in killing your game.

It's a good idea to know what shell throws the best pattern in your gun and to stick with the shell, be it magnum or regular load.

Welch loses to big bruiser in Gloves tourney

Gary Welch of Post and Texas Tech suffered a third round knockout at the hands of a 227-pound Texarkana boxer Saturday night in a second-round heavyweight bout at the state Golden Gloves tournament in Fort Worth.

Welch, a member of the Amarillo regional team scored a second round technical knockout over Joseph Manceaux of Beaumont last Thursday night in his first fight at the state tournament.

This is the former Post boy's first year to box in the Golden Gloves program. Going into the state tournament he'd had only five fights, winning four of them.

Through Monday night's fights, the Amarillo team, of which Welch is a member, was in the lead for the team championship. All eight of the team's fighters came through with wins in their first bouts.

Proper grazing means increased ranch profits

By VIRGIL MIDDLETON SCS Service

Proper grazing means more profit for ranchmen, who are actually in the grass business as well as the cattle business.

Grass is often taken for granted, but to continue growing a good grass crop a certain amount of management is required, as is the case in growing any other crop.

"Take half and leave half" has been found to be a good rule of thumb to tell how much of a given year's crop of grass may be grazed without damage to the grass plant. Grazing grass too close starves a plant to death, since grass depends on its leaves to manufacture plant food.

About this time of the year is a good time for ranchers to examine their grassland to see if they will be going into the next grazing season without having used more than half of the grass they produced. This can be used as a guide for future operations. The best method is to make periodic checks throughout the year to determine when cattle should be moved to other pastures or other adjustments made, in order to head off grazing too close.

Aside from improved grass cover, grazing studies at the Sonora, Barnhart and Spur experiment stations indicate that moderate grazing produces more net returns of beef per acre year after year.

75 per cent of all important officers in High School and College were Boy Scouts.

There have been more than 26,423,000 merit badges presented to boys during the past 51 years.

FFA enterprises prove profitable, report discloses

Post Future Farmers of America members recently made a review of their productive farming enterprises and supervised practice jobs for the past year.

Some rather interesting facts were brought out in this report.

Thirty-three FFA members showed a total labor income of $8,835.83. The productive farming enterprises that contributed to this amount were: two beef calves, 14 beef cows, one beef heifer, 50 broilers, 67 acres of cotton, 34 feeder pigs, six gilts, 11 brood sows, 10 feeder sheep, 134 acres of grain sorghum and 15 acres of small grain.

These same 33 boys also completed 38 improvement projects and 85 supplementary farm jobs.

Improvement projects included such things as constructing farm building, building fences and landscaping home grounds.

Supplementary farm jobs included such as farm equipment repair, dehoring, pruning, and running terrace lines.

Scottie Pierce, a member of the West Texas State College basketball team, is rounding back into shape after having missed three games because of an ankle injury.

Pierce, who set a new scoring record before graduating at Post High School, is a sophomore at West Texas State.

His team is in second place in the Border Conference after having gone through a disastrous non-conference schedule in which they won only one game.

In a recent game with the Oklahoma City University Chiefs, Pierce was the leading rebounder for both teams.

Another Post High School graduate, Donnie Hays, is a member of the WTSC freshman team.

FUTURE FARMERS OF AMERICA

National Future Farmers of America Week seeks to focus attention on the work of the Future Farmers of today, who will be the successful farmers of tomorrow.

This nation must have a constant supply of NEW farmers every year to replace those who die, retire, or otherwise leave the farm. These must be men with experience and training for the successful farmer today is both a scientist and a businessman; mechanic and a laborer, at the same time capable of leadership in the affairs of the community.

Generally, they must be men who have begun farming at an early age, so that by the time they are ready to marry and start a family, they will be firmly established in a farming program that promises a good future.

Students of vocational agriculture study the sciences of animal and plant production, agricultural marketing, farm business management, farm mechanics and other subjects needed to train them for the work of the farm.

By participating in their Future Farmers of America organization, they also learn the ways of effective leadership, and are encouraged to assume their responsibilities as good citizens in the further development of the communities in which they live.

First meet to be March 3

Track practice under way

Track practice, with prospectsturning letterman—Tommy Bouchier for much of a showing, gotier, sprinter and quarter-miler, under way this week at Post High School. "It's a case of another rebuild- ing job," said Head Coach Harold Glynn Gregg, who is this season's Teal on commenting on this sea- head track coach, has only one re-son's track prospects.

Dwayne Capps is top 'Lope scorer

Dwayne Capps, senior center on this season's Post basketball team, took his place among the all-time top scorers on Post Antelope cage teams by posting a 382-point total in this season's campaign.

$49,093 in Garza County

Savings Bonds sales off to good start

January Savings Bonds sales in Garza County totaled a whopping $49,093, according to Irbey G. Metcalf Jr., chairman of the County Savings Bonds Committee.

This unusually large amount of Savings Bonds sales is 40.9 per cent of the county's goal of $120,000 for 1962, Metcalf said.

Total January sales in Texas were $15,310,631, which is 9.3 per cent of the 1962 state goal of $165,100,000.

"The highlight of our 1962 sales activities will be the Freedom Bond Drive held in May and June," Metcalf said.

"The Freedom Bond Drive," he continued, "will be the first nationwide Savings Bonds campaign held since the Korean War. This campaign was personally inaugurated by President Kennedy at a meeting in Washington Jan. 19. I feel confident that the citizens of Garza County will respond to the Freedom Bond Drive and our 1962 Savings Bonds goal will be met."

There comes a time in life when we reach the age we are happy to turn things over to the "youngsters." I have reached that milestone! James and I have served you as partners in the firm for the past 17 years; and it is with a great deal of pleasure I turn "the reins" over to him. of Abilene for another 2,000 acres.

Robert Work of Crosbyton, secretary of the district and a member of the district's land committee, told The Dispatch yesterday that "we're negotiating for the rest of the land and this should be consummated within two weeks."

White River directors met in a special meeting here Monday night and purchased a Chevrolet station wagon for district use by Al O'Brien, the manager of the district.

Low bidder for the "plain vanilla" station wagon was the Abell Chevrolet Co. of Ralls at $2,142.

Directors discussed at length the land negotiations.

They also heard a report that approximately $112,000 of the district's $126,000 in taxes has been collected, leaving little more than $13,000 delinquent. This is about a 90 per cent collection. Directors discussed steps necessary to collect the taxes that are delinquent.

cation, 210 East Main.

Mason's son-in-law became associated with him in the business after returning from World War II, in which he received numerous decorations and was discharged with the rank of lieutenant-colonel.

Mason has the distinction of organizing Post's first Boy Scout troop; in 1913, and serving as its first scoutmaster. The town's founder, C. W. Post, with whom Mason was well acquainted, was sponsor of the first troop.

Mason, a few years ago, received a 30-year award for his work in the Boy Scout program.

The Post man is also principal stockholder in the Stacy-Mason Furniture Company in Levelland, whose manager is his nephew, J. G. Stacy. The Post man's nephew received Garza County's first Eagle Scout award at Camp Post.

Mason has been active in civic and club affairs. He served as mayor in the 1920's, has also served on the school board and is a charter member of both the Rotary and the Lions clubs. He and Mrs. Mason are members of the First Baptist Church.

"Call me only 'semi-retired,'" Mason said. "I've retired from active participation in the business, but I'll always have an active interest in it."

to go one way or the other.

As a feature here of Future Farmers of America Week, the Post FFA chapter is holding an open house from 7 to 9 p. m. tonight in the vocational agricultural building. See page 14 for a story on FFA Week here, and across the state. Encourage the youngsters and attend the open house tonight.

Also on page 14, readers will note that the Hodges Tractor Co. is announcing a big Field Day for next Thursday to show and demonstrate the new 1962 Massey-Ferguson tractors. Farmers will get a chance to test drive them too.

One of the wildest state political campaigns in decades is predicted for the governor's race this year with a Kentucky Derby-size field representing just about every phase of the state's political spectrum.

At least that's the way we heard it Sunday at Midland during the mid-winter meeting of the West Texas Press Association. There is some genuine worry that the conservatives have such a big field of candidates that Don Yarborough, the Houston liberal who has labor's blessing, will make the Democratic runoff.

Will Wilson, the attorney general, makes the most sense to us so far in the campaign, although it is doubtful if he can muster the votes to win it. We think Price Daniel has had the governor's mansion long enough, that John Connally has by far the most money to spend but is to be feared because of the personal political power that would give Vice President Lyndon Johnson in Texas. Marshall Formby is a West Texan who would make a terrific uphill fight in the cities where he isn't known. Ex-Governor Edwin A. Walker is a "too far righter" who knows nothing of Texas politics. We heard him speak at the Texas Press meeting recently in San Antonio.

Whether the Republicans can muster much of a punch is anybody's guess in the governor's race but the odds appear pretty long for any one of the three, although you can look for an improve showing.

By the way, The Dispatch on page 3 has printed a four-column box showing who is running in the state races in Texas. Look that over and you'll see where the races are.

Next, start a section for dates of immunizations, being sure to provide space for each member of the family. Allow room for entering dates of immunizations against polio, whooping cough, smallpox, tetanus, diphtheria, and typhoid fever. Don't forget to include the dates of booster shots.

In a section of general information, list such things as the type of blood each member of the family has, and the drug sensitivities or special allergies of each. If the RH blood factor is known to be present in anyone, be sure to record it prominently.

The health record ought to include a check list of who in the family has had the more common diseases of childhood—chicken pox, measles, mumps, whooping cough, scarlet fever, diphtheria. Most of these are diseases of childhood, but sometimes an adult is exposed. German measles is a serious threat to expectant mothers, and mumps is a dangerous disease in any adult.

Dates of physical examinations, with a line or two for notes of special advice or instructions that followed the check-up should be noted in the health record. So also should illnesses requiring hospitalization, listing the nature of illness or injury, name of physician and hospital, dates of entry and discharge, length of illness, and type of surgery, if any.

Finally, list the family's health and accident insurance information for quick and easy reference when needed.

With clubs on islands as small as Macao and across continents as large as Asia, in nations as new as Ghana and as old as Japan—Rotary encircles the world. Organized in Chicago on February 23, 1905, by Paul P. Harris, a lawyer, Rotary widens the opportunity of its members to be thoughtful and helpful to others. Its motto is "Service Above Self—He Profits Most Who Serves Best." FEED GRAIN PROGRAM

The sign-up period for the 1962 Feed Grain Program begins Feb. 5 and ends March 30. If you produce feed grains, corn, grain sorghum or barley, you will want to check into the provisions of this program and how they affect you.

Under provisions of the program, farmers will receive payments for diverting to conservation use 20 to 40 per cent of their feed grain acreages. In addition, feed grain crops raised on remaining land will be eligible for price supports. You must decide on whether to participate and if you do, the extent of your participation. Each of these alternatives will have a different effect on your net farm income.

Your county ASCS office has detailed information on the workings of the program. Your county extension agent can also help you determine how the program applies to your farm. See them for this help and information.

PRODUCTION REQUIREMENTS OF CROPS

Do you plan to grow a new crop or change your system of farming in 1962? If so, you will want to read a research publication that is available on the production and production requirements of crops in your area. Publications are available for each type of farming area in Texas. They provide much of the information needed for analyzing farm management problems and for planning adjustments in systems of farming or testing alternative uses of land and other farm resources.

If you would like a copy of this publication, write to the Agricultural Information Office, Texas A&M College, College Station. Ask for MP-224 through 231, "Production and Production Requirements of Crops," for your area.

RECORDS TELL STORY

Good farm records are essential in today's agriculture, according to Extension Farm Management Specialist Cecil Parker of Texas A&M College. He points out that records represent the potential of a given farm or farm manager, as well as allowing you to compare one enterprise with another. An analysis of your records will point out the strong and weak points of your business and they can be invaluable when you prepare your income tax return.

Parker says the type of record book or system you use will depend on what you want your records to do for you. The more detail the record shows, the more valuable it will be.

Now is a good time to get your records for 1962 started. Also, Parker says, it is a good time to study last year's records to see if any changes need to be made. He suggests you see your county agent for help in setting up or analyzing your farm records.

I Give You Texas ...

By BOYCE HOUSE

Champ Clark received a majority of the votes at a Democratic national convention but he did not receive the presidential nomination. The two-thirds rule was in effect and William Jennings Bryan put up such a fight against some of the elements backing the Missouri that the nomination eventually went to Woodrow Wilson. The nomination virtually meant the presidency as that was 1912, the year that Theodore Roosevelt split the Republican vote by organizing the Progressive Party.

Not long after the election—(so a traveling man who visited Piggott, Ark., related to my friend Herschel Potter, the druggist, and he told me the story)—Bryan was in a city in Clark's Congressional district for a lecture. It was Sunday night and the silver-tongued orator was to speak on a religious subject.

A crowded house greeted him. Many were supporters of Clark and when Bryan rose to speak, someone called out in a hostile tone, "Tell us about the Baltimore convention!"

There was a murmur which meant that the heckler had struck about the college's progress, and by attending Advisory Board meetings.

a favorable chord. Bryan flushed and said: "Ladies and gentlemen, if you do not object to such a topic on Sunday, I will be happy to oblige the gentleman."

He then launched into a justification of his position and soon the entire audience was standing and cheering.

Patrick Henry — Webster — Prentiss — Ingersoll — Grady — Bryan — such is the roll of American orators.

Heywood Brown, who chronicled the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, said that when Carpentier—older, fighter, conceded no chance—entered the ring, he was cheered but Dempsey was not. To have done so (Brown declared) would have been like cheering Niagara Falls when a man was about to go over it in a barrel.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

The cartel producing objective of the drive to put the U.S. economy into an alliance with the European Common Market is perhaps best seen in the plan the U.S. aluminum industry would like to put across.

The U.S. industry would like to be free to enter into negotiations with the 13 aluminum-exporting nations, of which communist Yugoslavia is one, to regulate the world trade in the metal.

C. W. Harder

Under the proposal, the U.S. would guarantee these exporting nations the same share of the U.S. aluminum market as they now hold, plus a share of any increases in the use of the metal in this country.

In return, the other countries would give the U.S. aluminum industry guarantees to a share of the world market.

This would result, an industry spokesman said in a method to "organize the world aluminum trade on an orderly basis."

This plan, of course, would eliminate free competition in the world aluminum market and substitute for it a monopoly. In addition, it would be a monopoly composed of a partnership between private investors, ownership, and in the case of Yugoslavia, communist ownership.

In addition, it would negate thoroughly and completely the American principle of free competition and would result in global price rigging. Back in 1976 the founders of the nation shed blood to escape from this sort of thing, and by and large in the years that followed the nation has done quite well.

Many Congressmen are astounded that any open move would ever be made to get the nation to forsake these principles to enter into such a thing as the European Common Market.

Of course, there is a facet of this European Common Market agreement that has not been brought too much to light in the U.S. That is the fact that the existing agreements provide for a free movement of labor between the signatory nations. There are no immigration quotas on workers between the nations.

If the U.S. accepted this part of the agreement it is not hard to imagine that every 50 and 60 cent per hour worker in Europe would be swarming into America.

It is, of course, a part of the current proposal to recognize that many U.S. industries would be forced to shut down as they would be unable to compete with the flood of cheap foreign imports. The plan then is to assess the taxpayers for funds to retrain all the displaced American workers for jobs in other fields.

But nobody has yet come up with an estimate on how many billions of dollars it will take to send all these millions of displaced workers through Harvard to enable them to qualify for jobs as government economists, which appears to be the only substantially growing area of employment left in the nation.

Old Federal Building

Galveston Island is no stranger to Texas tourists. They bask in the sun almost year 'round in this recreational Gulf Coast playground.

Perhaps the most important element for a successful vacationland is having enough attractions to avoid tourist boredom. This is the key to Galveston's success, as there is plenty to see and do.

Least publicized, but far from least appreciated of its attractions are its many fine homes and interesting buildings.

One of these is the Old Federal Building. Built in 1859, it housed both Confederates and Federals during the Civil War. This building is known to be the best example of Greek Revival Architecture in the entire southwest.

Old and New

San Antonio, one of South Texas' leading and most exciting cities, is known to all for a combination of both the old and the new.

Best known of the old is, of course, the Alamo and the many missions.

Best known of new elements is perhaps the numerous military establishments surrounding the historic city.

There also is a little known distinction held by San Antonio that combines both the old and the new. This is the distinction of being host to a modern manufacturing enterprise making one of the oldest instruments known to man—the flute.

These San Antonio-made flutes are used worldwide. There are only five other flute manufacturers in the nation.

Big-D Spectacular

Few tourists notice a town's municipal auditorium. Not so in Dallas, Texas.

Dallas' new and truly modern municipal auditorium is imposing enough to catch anybody's eye. It's where you can see it, and use it, too.

Rather than heading to the suburbs with their public facility expansions "Big-D" built its $8,000,000 circular spectacular within walking distance of the famed downtown Dallas shopping district.

The Dallas auditorium is spanned by a domed roof 300 feet in diameter. Main auditorium seats some 10,000 persons. Attached lyceum, or little theater, seats another 1,750. There are 23 acres reserved for parking.

Ring Them Bells

Sounds of ringing bells are well known to students. But few have heard bells like those at the University of Texas, in Austin.

Naturally, the UT bells are bigger and better. UT's well known bell system is provided by a 40,000 pound carillon. This carillon, oft remembered for the holiday tunes played thereon, would of course have to have a bell tower superior to all.

That it does and it is known nationwide as "The Tower".

Standing 21-stories high, The Tower is also the administrative building of the University, housing the school's offices and libraries.

In Hall Of Fame

A long-time Austin, Texas, resident is honored by being pictured in the Hall of Fame in Washington.

D. C. Hall of Fame of Forestry, that is, for this resident is the renowned Treaty Oak.

Standing near the bank of the Colorado River's new Town Lake, the age of this majestic live oak has been estimated at between five and six hundred years.

Its branches spread 127 feet.

A Town Of Museums

Man progresses by looking forward but man learns by looking back.

With this in mind, Texas' centrally located capital city, Austin, is definitely a leader in education.

Not just for the famed University of Texas and its other universities and colleges though. It is an educational leader through its wealth of museums full of history and artifacts of times past.

On the capitol grounds themselves are the museums of the Daughters of the Confederacy and the Daughters of the Republic. Both these museums have old guns, flags, and items used by the early settlers.

A museum made from the picturesque studio of Elisabeth Ney, the world renowned sculptress, contains many of the artist's mementos.

The atmosphere and surroundings of a short story genius are preserved at the O. Henry Museum. Here is found, in unique preservation, the dictionary the famed author memorized.

Last, but not least, the story of Texas, from fossil to wild west to oil wells through fascinating displays at the famous Texas Memorial Museum.

Lakes Vacationland

Some of the most scenic spots in Texas are located in the Highland Lakes of Central Texas.

This favorite vacationland for tourists and Texans is entirely man made, developed by harnessing the flow and power of the great and erratic Colorado River.

The first dam was built in 1890 to produce hydro-electric power. It created famous Lake Austin. This dam was destroyed in 1900, rebuilt in 1915, and the present dam built in 1938.

Now Lake Austin stands as only one of a chain of seven lakes stretching from Austin and winding almost 100 miles through the wooded hills to the northwest.

About Your HEALTH

A quality public service feature from the Texas State Department of Health.

HENRY A. HOLLE, D. O. Commissioner of Health

Light from a single window breaks the dark expanse of a five-story building. Inside the room is a research scientist pouring over a pile of notes, trying to piece together bits of evidence which could possibly lead to a significant breakthrough in the battle against cancer.

Miles away in a small town, a secretary unlocks the door of the local health department and starts filling out requisitions for needed supplies. She is no scientist and the researcher hates the trivialities of order forms.

Yet both of these people have much in common. They are both engaged in a health career.

In the growing competition among industry, the professions, education, government service, welfare and the health services for skilled, competent personnel, a career dedicated to serving fellow man through the health services can be rewarding both career-wise and personally.

Health careers include callings that care for the ill and the injured; and they include callings that help to prevent illness-prevention.

Training varies from about a high school education for some workers in a hospital to more than eight years of college for a physician.

The entire spectrum of working talents are offered in health fields including biologists, food service workers, housekeepers, statistical clerks, machinists, administrators, engineers, writers, artists, chemists and photographers. The list goes on and on.

A health careerist can be his own boss as a private physician or consultant or he can work as a skilled member of a highly organized team in a local or state health department, hospital of health agency.

However, high standards are demanded regardless of the precise job performed. Many Texas colleges and universities offer courses designed to train students for the various health careers.

The health sciences are just beginning to enter on a new threshold of achievement. Atomic medicine is providing better diagnosis and treatment of such ills as cancer and thyroid diseases and epidemiology procedures in public health are solving more and more communicable disease problems.

High school students should consider a health career seriously.

Rural accidents drop for month

Garza County came near to being rural accident-free during January, according to Sgt. A. E. Roberts, Highway Patrol supervisor of this area.

Sgt. Roberts' report shows that the Highway Patrol investigated one rural accident in Garza County during the month of January. This wreck accounted for an estimated property damage of $500.

The Highway Patrol supervisor said that rural motor vehicle traffic accidents in the entire 29-county North Texas district declined slightly during January, 1962, as compared with the same month last year.

Murder and homicide was up 0.7 per cent, rape increased 5.7 per cent, burglary was down 6.7 per cent, aggravated assault increased 0.3 per cent, theft increased eight per cent, and auto theft was down 0.8 per cent.

Murder and homicide was up from 1,059 to 1,088, rape was up from 1,196 to 1,264, robbery was a down from 3,560 to 2,974, burglary was down from 56,976 to 53,149, aggravated assault was up from 12,128 to 12,166, theft was up from 108,869 to 117,619, and auto theft was down from 15,147 to 15,025.

"The totals for 1961 mean that one major crime was committed in Texas every three minutes, there was a murder every eight hours, a rape every seven hours, a burglary every 10 minutes, an aggravated assault every 43 minutes, a theft every four and one-half minutes, and an auto theft every 35 minutes," Col. Homer Garrison Jr., DPS director, said.

"They also indicate approximately a 60 per cent increase in major crimes in our State since 1955—an increase which far outstrips the population increase during this period."

Janith Short, Dwayne Capps named banquet king, queen

Janith Short was crowned queen and Dwayne Capps king of the annual young people's sweetheart banquet of the First Baptist Church Saturday night in the city hall auditorium.

The Rev. C. B. Hogue acted as master of ceremonies and introduced Mrs. Kay Lamb, last year's sweetheart, to crown the newly elected one.

Miss Short was presented a gift and another went to her escort, Dwayne Capps as the accompanying king.

More than 70 young people were served steak dinners. "Cupid's Choice" was the theme of the beautifully decorated auditorium with the decorations used by the Baptist Brotherhood's Sweetheart Banquet Friday night carried over for the festive occasion.

A girls' sextet from the high school sang, followed by "The Jokers Four", high school male quartet.

Recognition was made in appreciation for efforts of several adults, with the young people presenting a bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Wesley Scott.

After the songs, the Rev. Billy Barber of the Arnett-Benson Baptist Church in Lubbock delivered an address. The group was dismissed with prayer.

My Turn BY MRS. C

Was there a woman in America that didn't get a big chuckle out of the report that Elizabeth Taylor not only was suffering from food poisoning but was exhausted from working under sizzling floodlights and (this part kills me) was additionally fatigued by household problems in running her villa, complete with husband, children, dogs, cats and how many maids? Ah, the sweet price of fame.

About a year ago I had this keen idea of a new unorganized organization. The purpose of this club was for all housewives to gripe their heads off when they had been barked by any company of any kind. One wouldn't have to do a thing but sit down and write the head of the firm and complain loud and long about products that didn't add up or, worse, didn't work.

I had almost forgotten about it until recently. The thing that brought it to my mind again was buying a magazine over the weekend that had four (I swear it was four) of those blasted inserts stuck in it so it was virtually impossible to bend the magazine back to read without ripping them out. None of these were perforated either which was just that much more maddening.

You see, there is always that straw that breaks your back. I've suffered from the one or two I've found in all the magazines, but four was just too much.

The possibilities in this are tremendous. If everyone who is annoyed at these inserts would write to the publisher and have all of their friends write also, I just bet that would be the end of that major annoyance.

If we'd all gripe about keys that break off on cans, such as coffee, corned beef (my biggest trouble maker) etc. boxes of kitchen supplies that aren't even close to being full, frozen dinners or foods that are never done when the prescribed time is up, frozen foods that never thaw out as soon as they should, all these lovely drip-dry cottons that one has to iron, those lovely recipes that are buried in flour bags that spray flour all over the kitchen when you remove them, etc., etc., we could start a revolution that would make the original one look sick.

We women have lots of power in our hands that we fail to use and it would be so simple. Just think what we could accomplish if we only would.

I'm hoping somebody picks up the ball and gets going with this. I found that I didn't do anything but gripe to my family and now it's a big joke that Mrs. C. is going to write a letter—but when?

A new age in agriculture

This is Future Farmers of America Week in Texas, and high school vocational agriculture students in Post, as well as elsewhere throughout the state, are on the threshold of a new age in agriculture—the scientific agricultural age of Agribusiness.

In the new age of Agribusiness, agricultural products must be provided for tomorrow's expanding population that is estimated to reach 250 million in the United States and 400 billion in the world by 1970.

The new age of Agribusiness is even more basic than the atomic or space age because it encompasses a world need for more scientific production of food and fiber. This production must be done by people with special talents applied in the new age. Few farm products in this era are consumed in the same form as they are produced.

What this means, then, is that in the Agribusiness Age there must be cooperation between the farmer, scientist, farm supplies distributor, processor, engineer, manufacturer and others. Today, these groups are working together so closely that all of them are actually in agriculture. It has become difficult, if not impossible, to tell who is the farmer in the traditional sense. In actual practice, the modern farmer, is a little bit of each of the specialists and each of the specialists is a little bit of the farmer.

Post 'face lifting' gets plug

A group of businessmen down in Post, Tex., have come up with an idea that merits passing on.

The Texans have developed a plan whereby an entire block on Post's main street will receive a major "face lifting."

Scheduled is the installation of a modern "shopping center type" combination front of porcelain and glass.

Involved are a cafe, a shoe shop, an insurance agency, a dry cleaner and an office building.

Making the situation all the more outstanding is the fact that four different owners are involved.

Cost of the total project has been estimated at only between $11,000 and $12,000 or no more than $3,000 per property owner.

Four firms will have a joint porcelain front above the glass line of spring green with tan

The benefits of the modern Agribusiness Age go to all—not just to the farmer.

The farmer, by applying scientific information from all these specialists, has been able to produce better crops on fewer acres. He can also market his beef cattle earlier and can do it at a saving of many pounds of feed per animal. Such is the result of modern developments in animal nutrition, antibiotics, genetics and management. These results aid not only the farmer, but the consumer as well. Other comparable achievements have been made with poultry, dairy cattle, and other animals.

Nuclear research—a product of the Atomic Age—is part of the newest age. Radiation is now being studied as a means of preserving food when being transported from farm to consumer. Already the government has an atomic farm where radiation is quickly altering varieties of plants, otherwise a process that would have taken thousands of years.

Such agricultural problems as this has fused older careers into a new one—Agribusiness. Presently, as products travel from the farm to consumers, all careers participate—the transportation specialist, the marketing specialist and the packaging specialist. Such participation assures the consumer of a more economical and a better qualified product.—CD.

porcelain below the glass. The office building, a former bank, will have a brick front with the green porcelain higher up to tie in with the other buildings.

Needless to say similar projects would do a lot for Oak St.

Inauguration of such a program here could go a long way toward making our "business face" as modern as will be found anywhere.

New eye-appeal for a business district can't help but result in renewed "business appeal."

Post Publisher Jim Cornish, a former Kansan, reports that Post leaders hope the American custom of "keeping up with the Joneses" will apply in Post and the idea will spread.

We'd like to go Cornish one better and hope the idea catches on in Kansas and Bonner Springs in particular as well.—Bonner Springs, (Kans.) Chieftain.

Carr in Attorney General race

Possibly the best known of all the state's current crop of younger political figures is Waggoner Carr of Lubbock, who is making the race for attorney general in this year's elections.

Carr was the third man in history to be elected to two consecutive terms as speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, a position of great responsibility as well as prestige and power.

Carr's election to a second term as speaker was impressive testimony not only to the experience and skill with which he handled the job in the preceding Legislature but to his personal popularity throughout the state.

When he ran for attorney general two years ago, more than half a million people voted for him, although he was at that time bucking a two-term tradition that favored the incumbent.

Carr has now decided to make a second bid for the attorney general's office. His friends, naturally, are pleased by his decision, but it also is gratifying to Texans generally when a man of his demonstrated ability, experience and qualifications makes himself available for public office, particularly one as important as that of attorney general.

Regardless of what may happen between now and the general election next November, it is conducive to public confidence in good government when men of Carr's caliber and proven ability are willing to offer their services for offices of public trust and responsibility.—CD.

CofC banquet attendance urged

Member firms of the Post Chamber of Commerce are urged to have at least one representative present at Friday night's annual banquet. Nothing helps get a chamber of commerce off to a good start in a new year any more than interest in and attendance at the organization's annual membership banquet.

It really is the only occasion in the entire club year when all the members are given the opportunity of meeting together, learning from the financial report and other reports just what the Chamber has accomplished in the past year and what it expects to accomplish in the year ahead.

As usual, an entertaining program has been arranged, an appetizing meal arranged for, and, in fact, nothing left undone to make the 1962 banquet another big milestone in the Post Chamber of Commerce's history.

Real good attendance at Friday night's banquet not only will impress the dozen or so out-of-town visitors who will be there, but also will give the incoming new officers and directors fresh incentive to do a good job for the organization in the year ahead.

Those who wish to attend the banquet and who have not purchased their ticket during the advance sale, will be able to buy one at the door Friday night.—CD.

What our contemporaries are saying

Believe it or not, a galloping horse has all four feet on the ground simultaneously. This has been proven by high speed photography.—Frank Hill in The Lynn County News.

Newspapers anywhere in the United States have a right to refuse advertising. A newspaper has the right to refuse the publication of any advertisement of any type or character and the publishers do not have to give a reason for doing so. Legal support of the right of a newspaper to refuse advertising is a matter of recent court record. The Supreme Court of Massachusetts sustained a lower court in denying damages against a newspaper for refusing to accept advertising of a real estate broker. The key judicial comment: "The publication and sale of newspapers is a private enterprise as distinguished from a business affected with a public interest and those engaged in such business are free to deal with whomever they choose."—Neal Estes in The Stanton Reporter.

Release of U-2 Pilot Powers by the Reds last weekend looks like a friendly gesture on its face. But the free world, and particularly the U. S., would do well to keep a sharp eye on the next move. Reminds us of the tourist being shown around a zoo in Russia by a guide. They came to a cage in which were a tiger and a lamb. "That's an amazing example of co-existence," said the tourist. "How on earth is it managed?" "We put in a new lamb every day," came the Seems Astronaut John Glenn is still having trouble getting into orbit. After the delays he has had in making his orbital flight, I don't know if I were in his shoes if I could make it or not. There's bound to be much stress and strain on the man with each preparation for the flight. The tension that builds up from wondering if he will make it, if the rocket that is to launch him into space will behave as it should, and if he will be able to come back to earth, are all factors he is sure to be thinking about. I just hope his nerves hold out longer than the bad weather that keeps delaying the flight. I can't say I would like to be in his shoes, but all the people of the U. S. can do is wish him the best of luck for his return.—Marvin Tomme in The Rails Banner.

At what time of the year is the phenomenon of the mirage the most pronounced on the high plains? We have thought that February might be the "best month." The early mornings recently have revealed the bottom of Blanco Canyon, and also have brought some of the neighboring cities and towns in view. Tall houses and long-legged cattle, too! We've never experienced this one, however: Evidences of mirage before there is a semblance of daybreak. A fellow the other morning said the lights of all the towns in this area stood out on stilts in the sky.—The Floyd County Hesperian.

THURSDAY to THURSDAY

By CHARLES DIDWAY

IT'S A LONG time until Christmas, but ideas already are flowing in for a new line of dolls, not for children, but for semi-adults. Examples:

THE CASTRO DOLL—you wind it up and it talks four hours.

THE WAITRESS DOLL — You wind it up and it spills drinks on you.

THE JACK PAAR DOLL—you wind it up and it breaks into tears and leaves the room.

THE JOHN BIRCH DOLL—you wind it up and it turns around and points at you.

I'm going to be old-fashioned and get my two young granddaughters the same kind of dolls little girls have always played with.

ONE OF MY friends, just back from a trip east, tells a story about a man who he thought he could fool a fellow in the hills of Kentucky. Seems this city man had an $18 bill made up and tried to get the Kentuckian to change it.

"Sure," said the mountaineer. "How do you want it—in nines, sixes, or threes?"

The man up the street says there is one advantage of poor handwriting. It covers up a lot of mistakes in spelling.

THIS FELLOW Minow, who is conducting an investigation on all the violence on television programs, shouldn't let up until he also probes deeply into the guilt complex that TV is giving a lot of people.

Take me, for instance. I never had any guilt complex to speak of until TV came along. Now, every time I go somewhere to see somebody and they are watching television, I feel like a first-class heel for even arriving on the premises. Usually, the program being watched is of no interest to me, but, as it usually turns out, it is of prime importance to the people watching it, and I feel like an intruder of the rudest sort.

IF I ARRIVE late and can't possibly get interested in what's going on in the "idiot box," I tactfully try to hold off whatever I've got to say until the commercial comes on, but even then I often am "Looked down" by the members of the audience, who, no doubt, think the commercial might end and the story start up again before I've had my meager say. I've even gotten to the point where I'd hesitate to tell a man his house was on fire if he happened to be watching a crucial scene on "Wagon Train," "Surfside Six," or etc.

Anyone who says television hasn't made a mighty big impact on visiting, as well as on other facets of American life, is as crazy as a bedbug... which he can learn how to eradicate if he'll tune in the right program and stay around for the commercials.

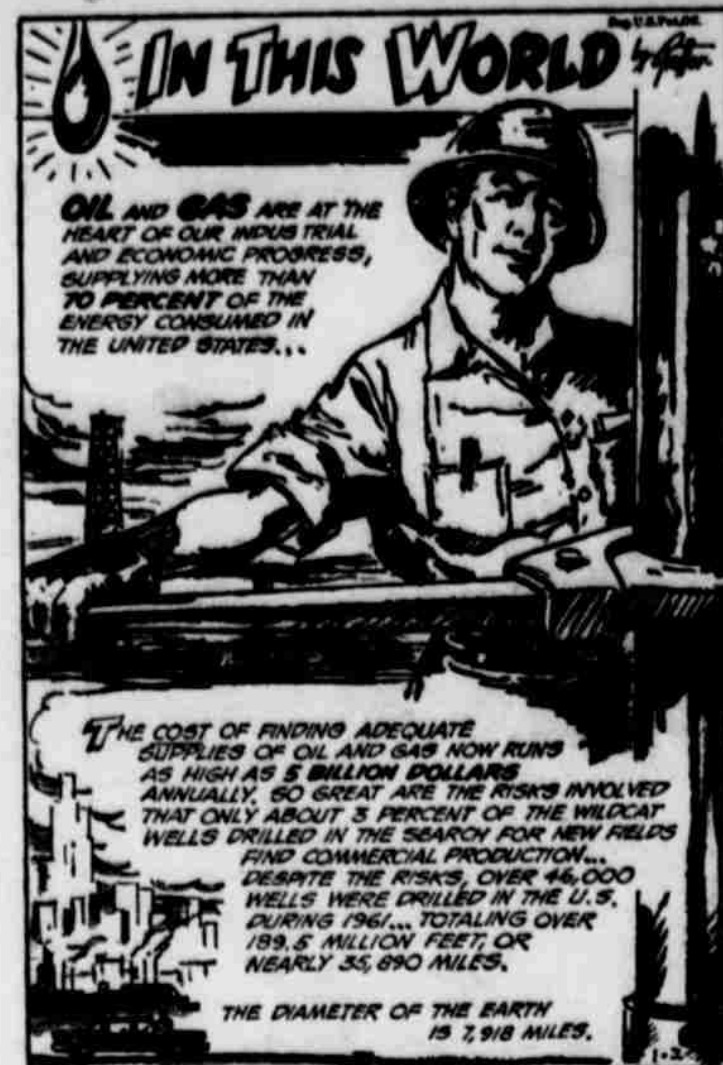

"NOBODY," SAYS Curt Bishop in his "This Is Texas" column in the February issue of Texas Parade, "can be more eloquent about Texas drought conditions than Texans themselves. No rain fell in West Texas from 1884 to 1887 and these editorial descriptions from contemporary newspapers illustrate conditions. 'The weather is so dry,' reported the Taylor County News in 1886, 'that the fish in the creeks are carrying toadstools for parasols. Water is so scarce that the Baptists and Campbellites are converted to baptism by sprinkling. And one prominent prohibitionist is now using beer to make lather for his daily shave.'"

Bishop also reports that the wilkiest publicity stunt ever staged in Texas was the crash of two train locomotives near West in 1896. The staged event attracted 30,000 customers. Several were killed as spectators pressed to close despite the efforts of 200 special policemen to hold them back. Several hundred were injured by resulting showers of hot metal as the engines collided at speeds of 90 miles per hour. The nearest MKT signal stop has been renamed "Crash" in honor of the event.

SUNDAY SCHOOL sign, advertising a rummage sale: "Good chance to get rid of everything not worth keeping, but too good to throw away. Bring your husband."

Today is George Washington's birthday, and a press release from World Book Encyclopedia tells us that GW might have lived and died on the wrong side of the Atlantic if an English ship had not gone around in the Potomac River in the 1620's. Serving as mate on the ship was John Washington, great-grandfather of George. By the time the ship was repaired, he had decided to marry and settle in Virginia.

We noticed last week where a pack of dogs killed a lady's laying hens. They are no worse than a wild, idiotic driver that runs from 90 to 100 miles an hour through a bunch. Last Sunday, a car ran through ours, scattering dead hens down the road as they went. They killed three and hurt two more. This is the second time.

This could have been our young grandchildren just as easy, as they play on Sundays, oil over the place.

They not only kill our hens, but break our pet cat's leg. One night we heard a .22 shot. Our pet cat came in with a shot through his front leg. We almost lost him. He is valuable to us as he cleared this place of pack rats and all our neighbors.

Cotton Producers Institute moving to complete signup

LUBBOCK— High Plains cotton growers are moving to wind up first-year signup for the Cotton Producers Institute and to launch plans to further expand the voluntary plan during the 1962-63 crop year.

This action was announced today by Roy Forkner of Lubbock, chairman of the Institute's Steering Committee in the Plains area.

(Editor's Note: Shortly after the Cotton Producers Institute was organized in the Plains area, announcement was made that Garza County had a higher percentage of membership signup than any other county in the area.)

Forkner said organizational committees in Plains counties now are scheduling meetings aimed at completing signup and collection on last year's crop. Plans also will be made for carrying the Institute forward this year.

"We have a solid base to build on," Forkner said. "The Institute program has really caught on here on the Plains, and funds—as well as additional agreements—are coming in every day."

Grower commitments in the western areas to participate in the Institute total $2,007,100 to date. This is more than double the first-year

Q. How many veterans of the U. S. Armed Forces are women?

A. There are about 416,000 women veterans of wartime service and some 34,000 women veterans with peacetime service only.

Q. As a Spanish-American War veteran with 87 days of active duty I draw the service pension based on 70-days service. I think the new law adding travel time home to the service time will qualify me for the 90-day service pension. How do I apply for this?

A. The VA is now reviewing all cases where Spanish-American War veterans on the rolls for the 70-day service pension may now qualify for the 90-day pension. After a reasonable time, if you do not hear from the VA, write the Veterans Benefits Office, Munitions Building, Washington 25, D. C. Be sure to give your claim number. Your branch of the service will certify where you were separated and how much travel time it should have taken you to reach your home by the most direct route.

Q. How must I report the interest on U. S. Savings Bonds as part of my income?

A. You may refrain from reporting the interest until you cash in the bonds or you may report the interest annually.

Levelland man has exhibit of 77 antique clocks in area museum

LUBBOCK — The "Collector's Corner" in the West Texas Museum on the Texas Tech campus features an exhibit of 77 antique clocks belonging to a Levelland florist.

The exhibit, assembled by the Women's Council of the West Texas Museum Assn., will continue through June 1. Mrs. James R. Cochran of Lubbock is chairman, with Mrs. Robert E. Maxey as co-chairman.

Crede J. Rhea of Levelland helped select the 77 clocks in his 250-clock collection. He has been collecting them for the past 30 years.

He has given away more than 40 clocks to his friends.

All of the clocks are American, with the exception of an 1840 French one. Most of the clocks were out of order and usually considered worthless when Rhea came by them.

"I just like to hear them tick," Rhea said. "And if they didn't tick, I wanted to see why they wouldn't."

One of Rhea's most valuable clocks is one from the Texas capitol building, which was found in a trash can.

Value of the collection ranges from around $50 to several hundred dollars. Rhea has rebuilt most of the clocks himself. He acquires many of them from a Fort Worth antique dealer who makes monthly trips to New England states.

The Levelland florist also operates a bookstore and does printing as a hobby.

The museum is open from 8-12 a. m. Tuesday through Friday, 8 to 12 a. m. Saturday and 3-6 p. m. Sunday.

City lets contract for FM curbs and gutters

Will result in paving bargain

The Post city council Monday night let a $16,081.80 curb and gutter contract that will result in the city getting approximately $100,000 worth of "free paving" from the State Highway Department.

The curb and gutter contract was let by the city council to Abilene Pavers on their bid of $16,081.80, the lowest of three bids submitted.

The awarding of the contract means that the highway department will go ahead with its project of improving some 12,000 feet of farm-to-market roads within the old city limits.

The improvements will include the widening of the paving from its present 20-to-22 feet to 64 feet, according to Julian F. Smith, resident highway engineer. This will be in addition, of course, to the curbing and gutters installed by the city and the property owners.

FM-122 is to be re-paved and guttered south from U. S. Highway 380 to the railway spur at Postex Mills and north from U. S. Highway 380 to 15th Street, and FM-651 is to get the same treatment from U. S. 380 north to 15th Street. FM-122 and FM-651 are also known as the Rails and Spur roads, respectively.

City Supt. R. H. Tate, who announced the letting of the curb and gutter contract following a special meeting of the city council Monday night, said the cost to the property owners for curbing and gutters will be $1.50 per foot.

The city superintendent explained that this is a "bargain," since curbing and gutter costs on 40-foot paved streets here have ranged as high as $3.78 per foot.

The highway department will let the paving contract in March, Smith said. Work on the street improvements is expected to get under way about March 19.

In order to speed up the letting of the contract, the city council recently voted to issue $20,000 in paving warrants to insure city participation. Not more than $3,000 of this amount is expected to be necessary, however, in paying the city's part and in whatever "forced" paving is necessary.

The new construction on FM Roads 122 and 651 will be the same as that on FM-1313 from U. S. Highway 380 north to the old city limits, which was completed a few months ago.

The city superintendent said the city felt it should take advantage of the highway department's offer to pave the streets in return for curbing and gutters, since it was indicated that it would be at least five years before another such offer would be made.

The new paving and curbs and gutters will greatly reduce the city's expense of maintaining the streets, Tate pointed out.

Smith said the highway department's plans also call for a complete "re-doing" of FM-651 from Post 17 miles northeast to the county line. This will include cutting down hills, stabilizing base, and other improvements, the resident engineer said.

At March term of District Court

$256,777 sought in seven damage suits

Seven damage suits—with a total of $256,777.75 in damages sought—are listed on the docket of the March term of Garza County district court which will convene Monday, March 5, at 10 a. m.

Four of the seven, all resulting from auto accidents, are in the "above $50,000 class."

Also on the civil docket—no criminal cases are listed—are a will contest, two compensation cases, a breach of contract suit, and a suit for wages earned.

The seven damage suits are as follows:

Robert Paul Gilliam vs. Willie Green of Sealy, Tex., a suit for $17,900 damages as a result of an auto accident Nov. 11, 1960 on US-84 between Post and Snyder involving cars of the two men.

Phillip J. Corona, et ux vs. Donald McNailey, suit for $1,250 damages.

Arthur and Della Lopez of Balinger against three Post defendants, Blanton Mason, Brown Brothers, and Samuel E. Windham, a suit for $15,500 damages as a result of a three-car accident June 15, 1961, on US-84 between Slaton and Post in which the plaintiffs allege a vehicle driven by Windham crashed into the Lopez car causing it to crash into the Mason car.

Dillard C. Morris and Jerry Morris vs. Jeff Graham doing business as Jeff Graham Trucking Co. and Luther Bourns as a result of an accident Nov. 17, 1960, in which a truck driven by Bourns allegedly hit a tractor driven by Jerry Morris from the rear on US-

84, about six miles northwest of Post. A total of $65,600 in damages is sought by Morris and his son for injuries and damages.

Frances Hughes of Lynn County vs. Franklin Carter, et ux, of Garza County, seeking $51,500 damages as a result of an accident on Broadway here in Post Aug. 30, 1961 when the Carter car, driven

Stage is set for Chamber banquet

One of the largest crowds ever to attend a Chamber of Commerce banquet here is expected at Friday night's event, president-elect J. B. Potts and manager John N. Hopkins said today.

The advance sale of tickets has been good, and many others attending are expected to buy their tickets at the door Friday night, the Chamber officers said.

The banquet is to be held at 7:15 p. m. in the school cafeteria. Leon Hill of Amarillo, widely known as a humorist, traveler, philosopher and author, will be the principal speaker.

One of the program highlights will be the awarding of outstanding citizen plaques to a man and woman chosen by a special Chamber committee as having done the most for their community in 1961.

The Rev. C. B. (Bill) Hogue, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will open the program with the invocation. Guests will be introduced by outgoing president Wilf Scarborough.

The main speaker will be introduced by Phil Crenshaw. Following his talk, incoming president J. B. Potts will conduct a business session, which will include the organization's financial report for 1961.

Organ music will be by Georgie M. Willson, director of choral music in the Post schools. The meal will be served by Van's Catering Service of Lubbock.

In addition to Potts, other officers and directors who will take office at Friday night's banquet are: Giles C. McCrary, vice president, and Ed Sawyers, Robert Cox, T. B. Odum, Odean Cummings and Victor Hudman, directors.

Rodeo meeting is set for Saturday

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Post Junior Rodeo Association will be held at 8 p. m. this Saturday in the district courtroom on the second floor of the county courthouse.

The stockholders' meeting originally was scheduled for Friday night, but was changed to Saturday night because of a conflict with the Chamber of Commerce banquet.

"This is an important meeting and we hope you can come," said Loyce Josey, secretary of the Post Junior Rodeo Association.

1962 POLL TAXES BY VOTING BOXES

Considerably more than half of Garza County's voting strength in this year's elections is in the two Post boxes—North Post and South Post—according to figures on poll tax payments and exemptions issued from the office of Tax Assessor - Collector T. H. Tipton.

The figures show a total of 1,624 poll taxes paid and 22 exemption certificates, which includes only those voters who have reached voting age this year. Not included are those over 60, who are exempted from paying a poll tax, but who are not required in the county to obtain a certificate of exemption.

Pioneer business leader

Mason retiring after 47 years

Marshall Mason, a Post business-man since 1915, this week announced that he is "turning the reins" of Mason & Company over to his son-in-law, James L. Minor, who has been associated with him in the firm for the past 17 years.

"There comes a time in life when we reach the age where we are happy to turn things over to the 'youngsters,'" Mason said in announcing his retirement.

Mason, who was born in Snyder, moved to what is now Garza County in 1903 from Kent County. He was engaged in ranching before Looming large on the local news front this week is the announcement of Marshall Mason and James Minor of their big 10-day dissolution of partnership sale.

Marshall is retiring from the furniture and funeral home business after what he calls "47 wonderful years of serving West Texans." James is planning a building remodeling of major scale and a new furniture stock when the current big sale is over. The retirement of Marshall will remove another of the real "old timers" from the active Main street scene.

The jail break occurred when the sheriff's office was broken into and the jail keys taken. The keys were passed up to Gomez in the jail via a blanket rope let down by Gomez from a jail window.

Sheriff Fay Claborn recovered the keys several days ago from the cooling tower of a Slaton gin where they had been thrown by Gomez.

When Editor Charlie Didway went over to interview Marshall on those "47 wonderful years", he took the Speed Graphic along. But Marshall insisted that Charlie put the camera away and operate with just pencil and paper. Some folks are camera shy and Marshall proved to be one of them. That's why there's no picture of this veteran local business man gracing our front page today.

Tomorrow night is the night of the year for the Chamber of Commerce with the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet. Don't miss it. Let's stir up some collective interest in "getting going" on a real program of community progress.

Interest and cooperation are the prime ingredients needed. And that is strictly up to us. Remember no community can stand still—it has going into the furniture and funeral home business on May 5, 1915, with W. L. Davis.

The firm continued as Davis-Mason for 28 years before adopting its present name of Mason & Company following Davis' retirement from the business.

The store's first location was in the rear of the building now occupied by Wacker's, with the First National Bank occupying the front part of the building.

After nine years, the firm built its own building at the present location.

Land negotiations delay contract on WR dam project

After six years of waiting, the White River Municipal Water District now has $4,000,000 for a dam building, but construction contract lettings, are being held up while the district's land committee continues to negotiate for some 4,000 acres needed at the dam site.

The remaining $3,820,000 of the state loan was accepted by the district last Thursday.

Of the $4,000,000 received in the state loan, some $3,300,000 is being invested for the district by the First National Bank of Dallas pending need of the funds.

The White River district already has agreed to purchase 400 acres of the dam site from Arnold Sanderson of Post for $36 per acre. The land contract details are now being completed.

Negotiations are continuing with Mrs. Lee Walker of Meadow, Tex., for approximately 2,000 additional acres, and the Morgan Jones estate (See WR DAM, page 8)

Two are injured in wreck Friday

An Odessa oilfield worker was critically injured early last Friday afternoon in a two-car collision at the intersection of U. S. Highway 84 and a county dirt road 14 miles southeast of here, near Justiceburg.

Vernon Pierce, 55, was taken to Methodist Hospital in Lubbock with a fractured skull and crushed chest after receiving emergency treatment at Garza Memorial Hospital.

Henry Harden, State Highway patrolman, who investigated the accident, said Pierce was driving a 1961 sedan east on the dirt road when his car was in collision with a 1962 pickup truck driven by H. F. Franks, 41, of Snyder. Franks was not injured.

Vollie Cox Jr., 31, a passenger in the pickup, was admitted to the hospital here with minor head injuries.

Harden said the car pulled off the dirt road into the path of the pickup, which was traveling north-west on the highway.
