Circle Gins First Gotton

Olton's first bale of 1977 cotton was delivered to the gin at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Hollis Cain brought in the initial load to Circle Gin.

Planted May 4, the dry land cotton yielded a 540-pound bale and 1,000 pounds seed. Circle Gin paid 50 cents per pound for the cotton and $100 for the seed.

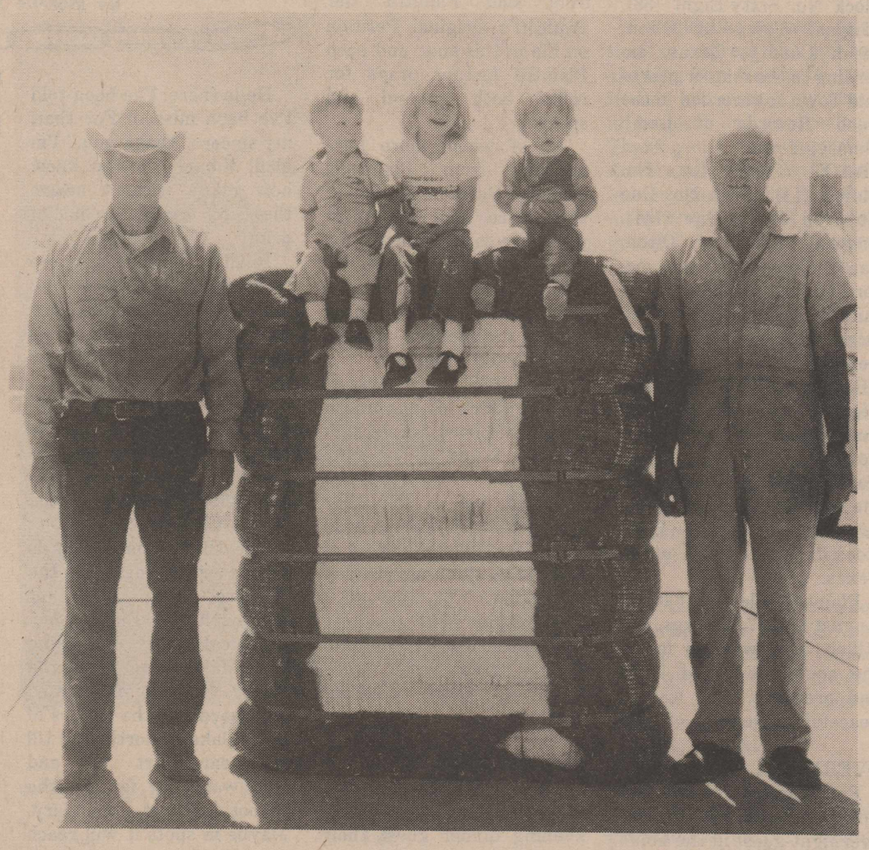

Grown on the J.T. Gibson farm east of Plant X, the cotton was Dunn 119 Select.

This 1977 first bale was ginned more than a month earlier than last year when the first bale was ginned Oct. 25.

Advisory Committee Named For Vocational Ed Programs

Nine Oltonites have been named to serve on an Advisory Committee for Vocational Education for Olton schools. Attending a breakfast Tuesday morning in the homemaking cottage were James Brooks, Janie Garcia, Patsy Mills, Rosalyn Sorley, Jerry Casares and Mozelle Trotter. Others named to the committee are Barbara McFadden, Antonio Cabrera and Richard Roberson.

Representing the school were David Grayson, vocational counselor, Robert Sivley, OHS principal, and Carol Seaborn, Evelyn Maxey, John Paul Jones, Tommy Hancock, Jay Henderson and Dennis Black.

The committee was formed to help interpret the vocational programs to the community and help keep the school in contact with the community.

"We want to help the students to become productive citizens and prepare them whether it be for college or not," Grayson said.

Mrs. Seaborn explained to the group the purpose of the Home Economics Cooperative Education program. Students enrolled in the program, eight at the present time, are employed in school hour occupations which require knowledge and skills in child development, clothing and textiles, consumer education, family living, food and nutrition, home management and housing.

The program provides a minimum of 160 hours of class instruction and 525 hours of supervised on-the-job training and work experience per school year.

Mrs. Maxey spoke of the change today in the homemaking program offered in schools as compared to years past when most time was devoted to teaching skills in the areas of cooking and sewing.

Approximately 10 weeks is devoted each year to the area of clothing and textiles and 10 weeks in the area of food and nutrition, she said. The remaining part of the school year is devoted to teaching units in home management, consumer education, housing and home furnishings, home and family living and child development.

All courses of homemaking education, she explained, are open to both girls and boys. She reported an equal number of boys enrolled in homemaking I last year but said the ratio was smaller this year.

Black is instructor for the Coordinated Vocation Academic Education program for eighth and ninth grade students. Seventh grade students are also eligible. It is a program designed for students with special learning needs. It includes a combination of vocational and modified academic instruction which provides educational opportunities for acquiring a saleable vocational skill, safety judgments, proper work habits and desirable attitudes which will benefit them in seeking gainful employment.

"We've got some girls in the program," he said, and stated that they were excellent workers.

"This program introduces them to carpentry, masonry, cement finishing, plumbing, painting, electrical wiring, and shingling. We built the additional room onto Mr. Sivley's house last year."

Jones explained that his program is a continuation of Black's. Students attend CVAE classes and work a minimum of 15 hours per week in any wage earning job.

Vo Ag Coop Education provides seniors with ag related jobs with a minimum of 15 hours per week required. Henderson stated that this was his first opportunity to become acquainted with this program and considered it very fine.

Hancock explained that his classes in Ag I, II and III provide different phases of agriculture, animal science and ag mechanics. "We have more concentration on shop than before," he said. "If it'll go through that back door at the shop, we'll try to build it."

To Become Vet

Fulfilled Dream Began At Five

Being a member of the so-called "weaker sex" will not handicap her ability in practicing her profession says Dr. Barbara Aigaki DVM.

The third OHS alumni to graduate from Texas A & M University's College of Veterinary Medicine within this decade, Miss Aigaki is the first Olton woman to obtain the right to practice that profession.

Because she will have less physical strength to handle any problem that might arise from "patients" larger and stronger than she, Barbara says she will have to rely on "common sense" to pull her through those problems.

"There's always a way, you just have to figure out how. The main thing is to ask myself, 'What am I going to do for the animal?' I don't see that being small will be a hindrance."

Barbara was one of 135 students awarded Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degrees last month from Texas A & M. At A & M she was a member of the Student Chapter of American Veterinary Medical Association and Student Chapter of American Association of Bovine Practioners.

Work with food animals (swine, cattle, sheep and goats) is Barbara's main interest despite the fact that "the money is in small animal practice." The "ultimate," Barbara believes, would be work in mixed practice so that she could stay in touch with all aspects of medicine and still work with the field she prefers.

Becoming a veterinarian was a dream that began for Barbara when she was only five years old.

"Dad had so many farm animals and we had pets that would get sick and die or maybe get run over. I thought back then I'd like to be a vet and I just kept my aim on that. I stayed interested in animals and got more interested in being a vet."

Smiling, she recalls going to a veterinarian and telling him that she wanted to become a vet. "He told me that women weren't allowed in vet school. I answered, 'Well, maybe they will be when I get ready'."

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Aigaki, Barbara enrolled in West Texas State University after her graduation from Olton High School in 1970. She was a pre-vet and animal science major and took every available course which would help in the field she was determined to pursue.

"My last two years at WT, the animal science department was my home," she says with a broad smile. She admits that she conquered her natural shyness and "learned to speak up."

As a senior at WT, she was in charge of the swine herd and thus entered the College of Veterinary Medicine as "The Pig Expert."

"I went in as the 'Pig Expert' and came out as the 'Pig Expert,' they never did quit teasing me."

DR. BARBARA AIGAKI

The teasing did not bother her however, she is quick to admit that pigs have always been important in her love of animals.

Few pigs are seen in the A & M veterinary clinic, she says. She learned that swine in South Texas were unlike those in this Panhandle-South Plains area.

"The problems are different. There they run loose in pastures and woods and are not confined as they are here. I guess the difference was because of their environment - there was a nutritional difference and they are subject to more infections."

Horses are probably 75 percent of the animals brought to the large animal clinic, Barbara says. The college has a very good equine orthopedic surgeon, she adds. "He really knows horses and everyone (vet students) wants to be under his group."

Students are on duty at the clinics all through the night. In the large animal clinic, there are three until 10 p.m. and two others from 10 to 8 a.m. Two are on duty at the small animal clinic, on 5 to 10 p.m. and 10 p.m. to 8 a.m. shifts.

Clinicians are on call four days a week, on a rotation basis. When an animal is brought in, the student calls the clinician on duty who then comes to the clinic. Together, they work on the case.

"There's a difference in duty in the large and small clinics," Barbara says. "When a large animal comes in, a student is not to touch it and can't administer medicine. In the small animal clinic, students can give a physical, administer antedotes if it has been poisoned. They may go ahead and try to maintain the animal and then call the clinician. Sometimes by phone, the clinician can just recommend and does not have to come down."

"What is so good about the school, they're referral clinics. In the large animal clinic, it is mostly local animals and referral. In the small animal clinic, it's referral only."

"What we'd see were the not-so-common cases. One problem is that probably you don't get to see enough of the common stuff. But students get to see what the professors talk about . . . you see wasting diseases, bone diseases . . ."

"The educational or learning process however," says Barbara, "really begins when you go out."

"I picked veterinary medicine because I like animals but you have to go through people to get to the animals. They told us in the clinics, 'You have to convince the people you are worthy'."

Vet school is three years of concentrated year-round work with schedules that, Barbara says, "seem to be morning till night." The clinical aspect begins the third year.

"We work with the animals . . . learn symptoms . . help with surgery. Junior surgery is a 15-week period in the summer of the second year, when we learn surgical procedures and go into the clinics."

Barbara's first surgical patient was a small Yorkshire terrior which belonged to an A & M alumni from Houston. The operation was necessary to remove calculus from the little dog's bladder. Barbara admits she became very attched to her patient who appropriately bore the name, "Aggie."

Turned down on her first application to vet school, Barbara was still determined to pursue the career she had chosen. She applied the second time and, again, was not accepted.

After the second acceptance failure, she wrote to out of state schools with colleges of veterinarian medicine but knew before their answer that she would not be accepted since such schools do not take students from states which have schools of veterinary medicine.

Try, try again, she determined. The third time was the proverbial charm. She was accepted. The next year, A & M turned to computerized selections.

Some 650 students apply for vet school at A & M each year with just 138 accepted. Barbara says that applications are made by computer but those are then screened by a committee for the final decision on which ones will be accepted. One of her classmates was accepted on his ninth application.

Twenty-eight women were included in the 1977 list of DVM degree recipients. There are 54 in first year course this year, a fact which makes Barbara feel a bit apprehensive. She fears that there might be some who seek to be accepted because they are women rather than the genuine desire to become a doctor of veterinary medicine.

"One of our professors," she says, "says that he expects in 25 years that vet schools and the veterinary profession will be dominated by women."

The long-sought goal did falter at times, Barbara confesses. In the midst of her second year, with a course load of 21 hours in a curriculum that was far from easy, she feared failure and was tempted to give up.

The encouragement of her parents, however, helped her overcome that bad time.

"They told me they didn't want me to keep on for them but for my own sake because they knew it was what I really wanted. Mother encouraged me so much. She kept me going through that awful time. She called often and she wrote me letters filled with cheerfulness and encouragement. She'd send little things she found that she thought would make me feel better."

"I'm really appreciative of getting to go to vet school. It's all been worthwhile," she says, "and it'll be a lot better when I get a job."

"They were three years of long, hard work. I learned a lot and matured a lot."

She found that entering a field traditionally male brought it's share of teasing and testing. Both professors and fellow students can be hard, she says. But a dream long dreamed is not one to be denied and now, in retrospect, it "wasn't so bad," says Dr. Barbara Aigaki.

Coaches Tie For Top Win

Four contestants gave the tie-breaker a real workout this week in determining the three winners for the third week's competition in the Enterprise football contest.

Missing two games each, the four were very close in their predictions of the Mustangs-Lockney Longhorns' tie-breaker. Coaches Tom Duncan and Lynn Martin will equally divide first and second place monies by missing with an identical count. Each was 17 points off with predictions of 24-14 and 15-13, respectively.

T.J. Roberson missed by 18 points with a 6-21 prediction. He recieves third place winnings. Kerry Noack also missed two games but was nudged from the winnings by being off 24 points of a 14-7 prediction.

Martin moves into a two point lead in the season standings with 34 correct picks during the three weeks of competition. Contestants with 29 or more points are listed elsewhere in this issue.

At Girlstown

There's Always A Need

People ask, 'What do you need?' Well, we don't need a Shetland pony," said Carrol Lanier, executive director of Girlstown, at Tuesday's luncheon meeting of Olton Lions Club.

Not appearing before the club to ask for assistance for Girlstown, Lanier's statement came in response to Willie Green's statement to fellow Lions that there is always a need at Girlstown.

Lanier said that "the seven or eight riding horses we have are enough to provide the girls with opportunity to ride -- as well as give us a few extra doctor bills. But we could use some hay."

He said, "We're not too proud to wear hand-me-downs you might have to share."

Lanier showed a color slide story of the three Girlstown campuses; Whiteface, Borger and Austin. The three campuses are licensed for 125-130 girls. Most of the girls are from Texas although they have come from all over the U.S.

The film presentation concludes with random poses of girls from the three campuses and is set to background music provided by a trio from Girlstown singing "Love Shined On Me," a song composed by a girl who lived there 12 years.

In the business session, Lion Bill Yoakum reported on a board of directors recommendation that the club sell Halloween candy on Oct. 25.

Assistant Scoutmaster Bill Nelson met with the group he said and asked that a Lion be named coordinator and that the club again serve as sponsoring organization for the Scouts charter. Members approved.

Ladies Night was announced for Tuesday, Oct. 4 in the school cafeteria.

Guests were Lanier, Jimmie Kay Sanders and Jan Spain.

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

By Mozelle Trotter

Hello there! I've been told I've been missed! For that, my sincere "thank you." I'm glad, though, not to know how many weren't aware the Sink has been out of print.

Really, I shouldn't be "scooping" ourselves by talking about this very important project in this spot. I should be placing this on page one.

Have you heard WE ("we" is a group very similar to those who are referred to as "they") are going to compile and print a history of the "Olton Community."

The Olton Community is an area radiating from the "Square" into a rather bumpy, lumpy shaped geographical circle. It's going into Hale County to the Valley View Community . . westward into the fringes of Springlake . . northward till we near Hart . . and southward as far as the school district boundary. Maybe in spots it will reach a bit further or perhaps it may converge toward town.

All families will be invited to submit their own family history - written themselves in their own style. But, it must be 500 words or less (otherwise we'd never be alble to lift our book from the shelf).

Pioneer families simply must be included in this book which is going to be a beautiful thing and something to treasure even more as time goes by.

New families (persons coming to our "community" just ten or six or three years ago or maybe just this year) must be included too. After all, when the year 2000 gets here, you'll be an old-timer too! Today is going to be history tomorrow!

You'll be reading lots about this very soon and "we" must get busy if we are to have it completed in the year Olton celebrates her 70th birthday -- 1978!

Just think. Some rainy day in 2009, your grandchild, or maybe your great-grandchild, can pick up this treasure book and flip through it's pages. Can't you hear that excited voice saying "Oh look, here's a story about you Grandpa. O-o-o-h-h, is that you in that funny looking suit? Grandma, did you really have colored hair one time?"

Aren't you interested? You're about to become one of the "we's."

Relishing Every Minute

College is the most exciting thing yet for Howard Payne University freshman Torri Thompson. The only complaint she has found thus far is in wearing the traditional beanie for first year students. The time to cast that away can not come too soon.

Torri is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson. She has two younger sisters, Tawni, a tenth grader and Tamra, an eighth grader.

Rooming with OHS classmate, Cynthia Light, Torri is majoring in secondary education and relishing every bit of her new life on the HPU campus. It's been a busy time since school began and the future holds no promise for idleness.

The roommates were invited to serve on the freshman board at school and will attend the convention at Fort Worth. They are also looking forward to a weekend visit on the campus of Stephen Austin State University where two other schoolmates are enrolled, Elaine Rodriguez and Bobbi Craig.

Torri thoroughly enjoys her Bible course at Howard Payne and has a ceramics course which is also a favorite. She is eagerly looking forward to working with the Children's Mission through the school in Backyard Bible Schools.

Snow skiing is one of her favorite pastimes. She also likes golf. She loves music and was a four year member of the Mustang Band and a member of her church choir four years.

Reading is tops among her list of hobbies. She also likes to write poetry and has written poems for members of her family and for friends. She loves getting letters but earns them by being an avid letter writer herself.

Torri is a member of First Baptist Church.

Estate Planning Seminar Set

"Both husbands and wives need a will," says Dorothy Powell and John Farris, County Extension Agents. "Many families have the mistaken idea that one will, the husband's is enough. The value of a woman's estate - real and personal property - may have been underestimated."

If the wife dies soon after her husband's death, and she did not have a will, one-half of their joint property would be distributed by a court-appointed administrator, according to state law. In this event, the property might not be distributed according to the owner's wishes, and usually probate and administrative expenses reduce the amount of the estate.

A particular advantage of a wife making a will while her husband is still alive is that they can discuss the subject jointly and plan for the future of the children and grandchildren. A woman who waits until she is a widow to make a will may find that decision-making becomes more difficult.

A will can help to avoid hardships. If a husband dies leaving a will in which the wife receives everything and she dies shortly afterwards, minor children would be placed in the care of a court-appointed guardian unless the mother also had a will naming a guardian.

Learn more about wills by attending the Estate Planning Seminar, which will be held Oct. 4 from 7-9 p.m. at the Lamb County Agriculture and Community Center, Littlefield. Speakers on the program include District Judge Pat Boone and Extension Economist Marvin Sartin. The public is invited to attend this free meeting.

Older Americans May Amend Tax Returns For Tax Credit

Older Americans may now want to amend their 1976 income tax returns to claim the retirement income credit that has now been extended through 1976.

The Tax Reduction and Simplification Act of 1977, gives some taxpayers the option of reducing their tax liability for 1976 by choosing either the new tax credit for the elderly or the former retirement income credit. Previously, under the Tax Reform Act of 1976, the retirement income credit could not be used on 1976 tax returns since it was replaced by the tax credit for the elderly.

The IRS also advises taxpayers who claimed the tax credit for the elderly on their 1976 returns to consider recomputing their taxes to determine whether they could get a larger credit under former retirement income credit provisions.

In general, taxpayers over age 65 with larger incomes which substantially limit or completely eliminate eligibility for the tax credit for the elderly, will benefit by electing the retirement income credit. Also married individuals who filed separate returns and lived with their spouses at any time during the year are not permitted to claim the tax credit for the elderly. Taxpayers in this situation may, however, be eligible for the retirement income credit.

Amended returns -- Form 1040X -- and new retirement income credit computations forms -- 1976 Schedule RIC (Form 1040) -- are availablbe at local IRS offices.

Brothers Dip Hooks, Plan Hunt Get-Together

A recent deep sea fishing trip to the Gulf proved to be more than just a fish story for four brothers - son of Mrs. Joe Johnson.

Gary Johnson of Rockport treated his older brothers, Bob of Arnold, Md. and Ershel and Lenrel to a two-day outing on his 31-foot boat on the beautiful Gulf of Mexico. His wife, Becky, is also a licensed ship's captain and gave the brothers the usual dosage of sea-sick drug for the "no-so-sea-going" farmers of West Texas.

The waves got high and so did the fish. The group caught seven king fish and 12 sand sharks. The four fishing and hunting buffs reported an enjoyable two days.

Another get-together is planned for December but the setting will be "a sunrise in West Texas where corn grows tall and colorful pheasants await their fate."

Junior High Footballers Split Wins With Floydada

Olton Junior High seventh graders were handed a disappointing 14-8 loss Tuesday by Floydada's seventh graders.

The young Ponies scored on a 35 yard run by Mike Nelson. Try for two extras failed. Mart Cordova accounted for two on a safety in the first quarter.

"It was 8-0 at half and we had physically whipped them," said coach Tom Duncan. "Our defense was outstanding once again. We really appreciate the kids' efforts. They played hard, which is about all I wanted."

Floydada scored in the fourth on a long run and added the extras. In possession of the ball with two minutes to play, Olton suffered the theft of the ball and Floydada galloped down the field for a TD to seal the doom for the Blue and White.

"Looking at our performance," Duncan said, "I am very pleased because we played excellent defense throughout the game and cut out many of our mistakes from the previous game."

"Offensively, our kids are gaining valuable experience. We will keep improving throughout the season."

Eighth grade Mustangs whipped their Floydada counterparts 14-6. Johnny Hutson scored on a three yard run with three seconds remaining in the first half. He put two more points on the board on a quarterback sweep.

Floydada scored six in the fourth. Olton's Wade added another six pointer on a 65 yard interception return on the last play of the game.

"I was very pleased with the kids' effort, both offense and defense," Duncan said. "We played with fewer mistakes and more intensity. I felt we were very much up for the game."

The victory gives the eighth graders a 1-1 record.

Junior high teams play Tuesday in Plainview. First game is 5:30 p.m.

IN THE CORRAL FRIDAY - Olton's Ponies clashed with Lockney's Longhorns Friday and almost overcame the visitors' early lead, falling 26-19.

Junior High Gridsters Whip Lockney Teams, 12-0, 44-14

In last week's play, Olton's seventh graders defeated Lockney 12-0. They took the lead in the first quarter on a 50 yard book leg by Mike Nelson. Try for extras was no good.

In the second quarter, Nelson added another TD on a 47-yard boot leg.

A 65-yard tally in the third was called back and a scoreless fourth found the clock running out on a 12-0 score.

"Our defense played real well," said Duncan. "They did real good for their first game, the whole team."

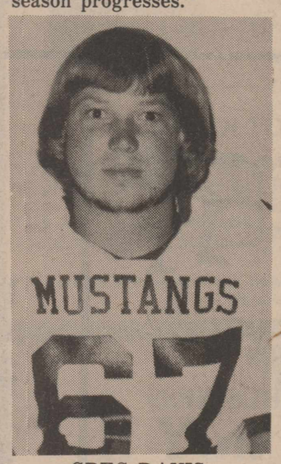

The eighth graders were whipped 44-14.

Lockney scored first with Olton's first score coming off a 60-yard drive with Marty Crowder going inside reverse from the 28 yard line. Johnny Hutson sprinted out and made it two extras. Score at halftime was 14-8.

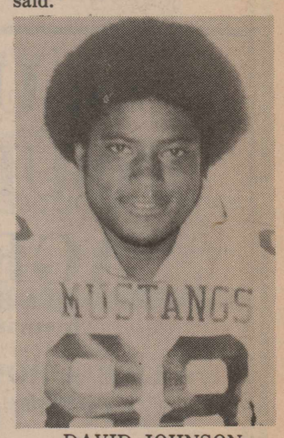

In the fourth, Olton got six more on a 58 yard end around by Mike Williams. PAT was not good.

"We played good in places and others, we just didn't play well. We'll improve. Lockney beat a real good Post team and they've scored 90 points in two games."

We're going to work harder and get better as the season progresses."

Ponies Almost Overtake Lockney's Early Surge

Olton Mustangs staged a furious fourth quarter rally but were unable to overcome the 19 point advantage given up in the first 7 minutes of play Friday night. The clock showed Olton trailing 26-19 when the clock ran out.

The Mustangs were unable to contain the outstanding Lockney tailback Danny Clark who rushed for 204 on 19 carries and scored on runs of 30, 40 and 61 yards.

Olton's touchdowns came on one yard runs by Roger Russell, David Johnson and Charles Brown.

The Mustangs trailed 26-6 beginning the fourth quarter but scored midway through the period and, following a successful onside kick, scored again with 2:19 remaining in the game. However, Olton was unable to get the ball back in the final two minutes.

Play by Play

Lockney received the opening kick off and marched to the 30 of Olton with Clark scoring his first TD from there.

Olton was stopped on three rushes by Allcorn and punted to the Lockney 35.

On second down, Clark broke free again to score on a 61 yard run.

Following the kick off Olton fumbled on first down at the 35 to set Lockney up for their third first quarter TD.

A five play drive, capped by Danny Wilson's 15 yard run made the score 19-0, Lockney.

Olton, went on to the kick off and marked to the Lockney 31 before being stopped on downs. Lockney fumbled and Olton returned the favor with a pass interception, but the Mustangs held and Lockney was forced to punt.

Olton then put together a 13 play drive that covered 85 yards to score with :54 remaining in the half. Half time score 19-6, Lockney.

Second Half

Olton took the second half kick off and made but one first down, before being forced to punt. Neither team could move the ball with each team punting once more.

Clark again showed his brilliance with a 40 yd. TD run. However Olton stormed by to score on a 42 yd. touchdown pass from Allcorn to Mike Landrum only to have it nullified with a penalty.

Each team held on fourth down and the last period began with lockney in possession on their 22 yard line. On fourth down they punted to the Mustang 43 where Olton began an 11 play drive, that included four pass completions, to set up Charles Brown TD run to narrow the gap to 26-12.

Luis Casares recovered an outside kick by Allcorn and again Olton marched for a TD to bring the final score to 26-19.

"We felt the character of our young men prevented what could have been a very embarrasing situation. We were very pleased with the come back," Coach Ed Miller said.

Joel Nelson Earns Masters

Joel Nelson of Bovina, former Olton resident, earned a master's degree in educational administration from Texas Tech University at the end of the summer session. The degree will be conferred in May 1978 commencement ceremonies since Texas Tech has no summer commencement exercises.

Nelson's minor was in sociology. He received a Bachelor of Science degree from McMurry College in 1972. He is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Tommy E. Nelson of Midland, former pastor of Olton's First United Methodist Church.

He is married to the former Myrle Givens. They are parents of two children, Craig, three years and Sherika, six weeks.

Nelson is in his second year of teaching in Bovina. He teaches history and is girls basketball and track coach. His track team has gone to State each year.

Prior to moving to Bovina, Nelson taught a year in the McLean school system and one year in Estelline.

Brad Allcorn Is Selected 'Player Of Week'

Brad Allcorn was one of two Plainview Herald Players of the Week last week. The other was Danny Clark of Lockney.

Six-foot-one, Allcorn is a 168-pound junior who has taken over at quarterback for the Mustangs. The Herald salute, in Sept. 14's paper, reads: "(Allcorn) put on a good show in a 22-7 victory over Abernathy. He ran 12 times for 55 yards and one run of five yards for a touchdown, passed 25 yards to Louis Casarez for the winning touchdown in the third stanza and kicked a 41-yard field goal in the final quarter as well as a PAT conversion. He was 3-of-9 passing for 105 yards."

David Johnson was picked to the honorable mention list.
