Italy Intervenes in Vain for Germany Before Entente.

International News Dispatch

BERLIN, June 15.—England and France virtually have agreed upon a definite program regarding reparations and the Ruhr and are proceeding in harmony toward a common policy, according to exclusive and authoritative information obtained today in diplomatic circles.

Must Give Up In Ruhr.

Italy vainly tried to intervene in Germany's behalf, it was reported, but found deaf ears in London and Paris. All indications are that the entente front is as solidly united today as it was at the end of the war.

According to the informant, it is only a question of time—perhaps days—before Germany will be compelled to "sign on the dotted line," promising unconditionally to surrender passive resistance in the Ruhr.

It is doubtful if the Cuno government can survive the crisis which will arise when the flat demand is made for German surrender.

British Move First.

The next move probably will be a British attempt at mediation, which, however, will be purely for appearance's sake, according to one view here.

The last act in Ruhr diplomacy, the informant believes, will be a preemptory demand from France for a "yes" or "no" answer by Germany, England subscribing to the French attitude.

In view of the tightening of the French strangle hold upon the German economic heart, Germany will be compelled to say "yes" no matter who is chancellor.

German officials claim that German industry is just as much pushed back to the wall as it was in 1918. Germany's last hope of an Anglo-French split has been shattered by the reported bargain between London and Paris, the exact terms of which probably will soon be shown in a different quarter entirely—in the near east.

Controversy Hinges About Alleged December Contracts

Associated Press Dispatch

AUSTIN, Tex., June 15.—Temporary restraining order preventing State Superintendent S. M. N. Marrs from certifying geography textbooks for use in public schools other than those alleged to have been contracted for last December by the textbook commission, was entered in federal court here late today on direction of Federal Judge Duval West.

The order followed filing by the American company of a class bill directed not only against Marrs but against all county and district school officials from using other textbooks than those published by the plaintiff company. The court's order however, is against Marrs only.

This proceeding is entirely separate from that filed by the American company in the supreme court, asking for mandamus to compel Marrs to certify books contracted for in December. The state's answer to the mandamus application was filed by Attorney General Keeling in the supreme court today. The answer raised a question of fact which, if recognized by the court, probably will result in denial of the application. Negro Fans Wife After He Beats Her Unconscious in Lamar St. Fight

A negro woman is in the general hospital, badly beaten but not seriously hurt, and her husband is in the city jail as the result of a Friday night fight in the rear of 1404 Lamar avenue. The woman was beaten unconscious, it was reported, but attending physicians were of the opinion that she had not been seriously injured.

According to stories told the police, the man came home about 8 o'clock in the evening and started trouble after finding that his wife and mother-in-law had not waited supper for him. He kicked over the dining table, wrecked the other furniture and then smashed all the chinaware in the house over his wife's head.

An emergency call to the police station brought Night Desk Sergeant John Thomasson to the scene where he found the room literally spattered with blood and the cowed black sitting on the floor, holding his wife's limp form in his lap and fanning her with a hymn book.

A Hines ambulance was called and the woman hurried to the hospital while the man was locked up at the city hall.

"MAKE EVERYBODY HAPPY"

From the Northwestern Miller.

"The other day," said Old Dad Fetchit of the Fish River Roller Mills, "I was over to Red Sawyer's visitin' an' gassin' an' pullin' out a few bass, but mostly listenin' to a new scheme Red's thought up. Dis idea is that ef you'd take every family that's done any good an' got anything laid by an' make it kind of combine with all the poor whites and ornery cusses an' low downs an' make 'em all live together in one house an' divide up even on everything they had an' all they took in it would fix things up so's everybody'd be happy.

"'Well says I to Red when he'd got done oratin' about it 'I don't think it's worth a pan of ashes.'

"'Maybe it ain't' Red argues, 'but the guv'ment's figgerin' on doin' it to the railroads an' you got to admit the guv'ments got some sense.'

Two Texans in National Track Meet of Colleges

Associated Press Dispatch

CHICAGO, June 15.—With the field narrowed by trial event today in the quarter and half mile runs, Michigan, Penn State, Illinois, and Leland Stanford stood favorites tonight for top place in the finals tomorrow of the national intercollegiate track meet.

Stanford and the Wolverines, with two of the largest teams standing through the preliminaries, foreshadowed a tough struggle for the Penn Staters through the performance of Helffrich and Enck of the Keystone team today gave promise of a close finish.

Garrett, of Southern Methodist University, Dallas, placed in the 440 finals.

Mississippi A. & M. was in the fore in the quarter mile through Cochran, who took the first heat today in 49 1-10 seconds, only one-tenth of a second from the N. C. A. A. record established by Shea, of Pittsburgh in the 1921 games. Reese of the University of Texas, came within one-tenth of a second of the record of 1:59 4-10 made in 1921 in the 880-yard run. Miss Skinner was also a student in the same college.

The young couple will make their home in Dallas where Mr. Zant will be connected with the high school in that city.

Europe Making Progress Says Galveston Speaker

Associated Press Dispatch

GALVESTON, Tex., June 15.—Although practically worthless coin and burdensome taxes are driving people in some countries almost to despair, Europe, on the whole, is making material progress and the farmer is holding things together, declared Grandison A. Barnum of New Orleans, who was the chief speaker at the convention of the Texas Retail Dry Goods association, meeting here today and Saturday.

The merchants denounced the bad check artist generally, although S. Hirschberg of Waco said that in a million dollars worth of business, he seldom has more than $1,000 to charge off annually because of bad checks.

LEAVE FOR DUBLIN.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lindsey leave today for Dublin for a ten days' vacation.

Elevator Raises Pilot to Follies

Evelyn Browne.

MILWAUKEE, June 00.—There's nothing to it. Just can't keep the elevator operators down. Now there's Evelyn Browne, for instance.

Evelyn was regarded as the "Tommy Milton" of the elevator pushers here. In other words she was in a class by herself.

She cultivated a musical voice calling floors and the rarified air of the higher altitudes of the hotel where she piloted her lift gave her a balmy complexion.

And with every trip up her ambitions soared higher and higher.

And they are about to be consummated.

For a fairy godmother came to the hotel one day in the guise of the wife of the business manager of a musical production.

Now Evelyn is going to give up operating a hotel elevator to shine with the other lights in Flo Ziegfeld's "Follies." For the fairy god mother, struck by the girl's beauty, tipped off the well known glorifier of American girlhood" and straightaway Evelyn was signed up to do her stuff before the footlights.

She will join the Ziegfeld "glorified" shortly.

TEXAN DIES WHEN PINNED UNDER CAR

Associated Press Dispatch

TEXARKANA, Tex., June 15.—Thomas Elgin of Texarkana, and R. G. Carter of Dallas, both salesmen for Higgenbotham-Bailey-Logan of Dallas, were pinned under their car in three feet of water late this afternoon when their car turned turtle in a ditch alongside the Pace Ferry road dump near the Sulphur river, south of Texarkana. Carter managed to extricate himself and with other men from passing cars got Elgin from under the car, who was revived by resuscitation.

Elgin died, however, shortly after being brought to a local hospital. Death is ascribed to heart failure as a result of the shock sustained in the accident.

NO VERDICT IN COUNTY COURT CASE

After deliberating most of the afternoon without arriving at a verdict, the jury which heard evidence in the Thomas Peterson vs. C. M. Taylor, damage suit case, were discharged without having arrived at a verdict. The case was tried before Judge Guy Rogers of the county court at law.

The plaintiff sought $995 as personal damages suffered when he figured in an automobile wreck with the defendant on the Burkburnett road late in 1922.

It was reported after the jury had been discharged that the jury stood five to one for the defendant.

PROPOSED TRAFFIC CHANGES DISCUSSED

Provisions of the new traffic ordinance drafted by Chief of Police George Hodgins were discussed Friday afternoon at a conference between the chief, Mayor Collier, City Attorney Mann and the chamber of commerce business council committee appointed some time ago to investigate the rules. The meeting was held at the chamber of commerce rooms.

It was intimated when the session closed that a few changes had been suggested by the committee and might be incorporated in the rules but the nature of these were not disclosed.

Where Might Makes Right

The country doctor was driving along a mountain road when a man came out of his house and hailed him.

"Say, doc," has that man got smallpox?

"Well, I can't say just now—I'm not sure."

"My mother-in-law says it's smallpox."

"Really! Has your mother-in-law seen the case?"

"Naw."

"Well, has your mother-in-law ever seen a case of smallpox?"

"Naw. But that don't make no difference to my mother-in-law!"

Tweet, Tweet, Traffic Cop on Streets Friday

Tweet, tweet.

For the first time in months the cheery shrill of a traffic cop's whistle ordered motorists about in the business district Friday night.

Chief Hodgins said that the jamjam around the First National Bank corner where a tight wire expert performed made it necessary for some kind of traffic regulation and that hence he deemed it advisable to have some one there to direct things. He said also that if the performance was staged again tonight there would be more cops on the scene.

The chief himself was on duty for a time and aided in extricating the machines who scooted into the vicinity and then couldn't find an outlet. Several dented fenders, bent bumpers and a reckless disregard for one of the ten commandments was the only damage reported.

Associated Press Dispatch

PITTSBURGH, June 15.—Lightning this afternoon struck a tank in the storage yard and refinery of the Atlantic Refining company here, and tonight the fire was still burning, the entire plant so enveloped in flames and smoke as to make estimates of damage impossible. Firemen, held back by the intense heat, fought the flames from a distance, while scores of families driven from their homes nearby, joined the throng which stood on the hillsides and watched the spectacular blaze.

Graham Chief Tells All About Flag Day

GRAHAM, Texas, June 15.—So far as is known, only one or two persons in Graham had their residences decorated in observance of Flag Day, June 14. The chief of police, Adger A. Morrison, had his residence lined with small silk flags along the front early in the morning, and for the rest of the day he jumped on everybody else for not knowing the significance of the day.

Thursday was the 146th anniversary of the action of the Continental Congress in adopting a flag, June 14th, 1777, with red and white stripes and thirteen stars on a blue field. Since then the field has grown to 48 stars, in exemplification of the motto, "E Pluribus Unum, out of many, one."

Many Attend Graham Services

Special Dispatch to Record News

GRAHAM, Texas, June 15.—With the services to come to a close next Sunday night, the revival going on at the First Methodist church for the past week and a half has been drawing large crowds. Dr. Luther B. Bridgers, of Georgia, who has been doing the preaching, has delighted the audiences with his clearcut presentations of life.

The services Thursday morning were devoted to the old folks and drew the largest crowd at a morning service that has been known to have been held in Graham. The old folks were ushered to the section reserved for them by young ladies who also helped sing the old-time songs. An old-fashioned organ was brought into the church for the service. Dr. Bridgers spoke feelingly of the hardships endured in the long ago as compared to the present age, and at the close had nearly everyone weeping.

A call was issued for the oldest boy and the oldest girl present; the oldest boy was Grandpa Cook, 79 years young, with Grandma Armstrong still younger at 86 years. Flowers were pinned on all the old folks present.

A NOTABLE TRIUMPH

Prohibition is said to have scored a notable triumph in Washington during the convention of the Mystic Shrine held there last week. There were two hundred thousand visitors; there was no disregard of the prohibition law and there were only 29 arrests for drunkenness during the week compared with 54 the preceding week. And yet the leading papers of the east said that the rum runners smuggled into the city ten thousand cases of liquor to be sold to the Shriners and their friends. The volume of wet talk is a thousand times greater than the sale and consumption of wet goods.

Maxmillian Harden, one of the ablest editors of Europe, asserts that it would be a good thing for Europe if America would openly come out with the statement that no American loan would be granted "until Europe had put her house in order." Then people, he said, would give up the idea that Europe was a be saved by America. It is his conclusion that an American loan can not be the beginning but should be the reward of a reorganized Europe. Golden salvation does not appear to be free.

Governor McLeod of South Carolina is a Christian gentleman who has convinced himself that the boll weevil and other pests have been sent to South Carolina as a judgment on the people of that state, not only for their sins but as a means of bringing the people back to the Lord. For this reason the governor joined with the people of South Carolina Sunday in asking Divine aid in the battle against the most deadly enemy to the southern cotton grower.

Throughout the state papers were said and thousands of men and women observed Sunday as a day of fasting and prayer. Not many years ago the boll weevil invaded Texas from Mexico. Now he has covered the entire cotton belt of the south. He has cost the people of the South in less than 15 years more than five billion dollars. He was sneered at when he invaded the lower Rio Grande counties.

Texas lawmakers were in session. Those who knew of the ravages of the weevil in the border counties appealed to the lawmakers for an appropriation to devise ways and means for the extermination of the pest. And the lawmakers laughed. They said the bugeologists were crazy, that the funds would be wasted; that the tax payers would not stand for it.

These servants of the people could not be frightened. They looked upon the weevil as a harmless alien and the dire predictions made by the bugeologists were looked upon as the rich jokes of the legislative session. Since that time the boll weevil has cost the farmers of Texas alone two billion dollars. He has threatened the great staple of the South. His ravages are growing greater every year.

He has made his way to India, another cotton producing country and he may destroy the cotton producing industry under Indian skies. Governor McLeod and his fellow South Carolinians have resorted to prayer. This is splendid as far as it goes but the people must work as well as pray to rid themselves of a boll weevil or any other destructive insect pest.

Cotton is the great staple of the South. It is the money crop of the South. Is there to be another famine crop this year? If so, the world will face a shortage of the raw material as the world has never known.

South Carolina is one of the great manufacturing states. Its mills consume more cotton than the state produces. Now the weevil threatens the crop, and the people turn to the Lord to save them from the ravages of the alien who entered America by way of Texas not many years ago.

Connecticut lawmakers have abolished flogging in the prisons of the ... What of Texas?

"THE BROTHER IN BLACE"

A labor agent in North Carolina was fined $1,000 for shipping blacks to the industrial centers of Pennsylvania. A labor agent in South Carolina was fined $500 for failing to obtain a city license to proceed with his work.

Thousands of blacks are leaving the states east of the river for the industrial centers of the north. Plantations in the Yazoo district have been denuded of blacks. They are going from old Virginia to the industrial centers.

This is a free country. Let them go. The wise ones will remain in the South where economic conditions are vastly different and where the law-abiding and industrious negro has been working out his destiny ever since the passing of the days of reconstruction and misrule.

WHY KILL THE GOOSE?

New York labor leaders are up in the air. Speculative builders are blamed for bidding up the price of brick layers from $10 to $14 and $15 and $16. And they are charged with demoralizing the material market by offering fantastic prices for spot material. Now banks and money lending institutions are going to curtail loans to speculative builders who are blamed for creating an artificial labor shortage and an abnormal material market.

It has been thus since the dawn of time or rather since man began to create and organize. Always back when time was young there lived a man who owned a goose that laid golden eggs. He killed the goose one day and shut off the supply of golden eggs. This is what short-sighted individuals have been doing since.

According to a trade journal, at the present time $400,000,000 of construction under way in New York.

Now it is said that the speculative builders caused the brick layers to strike by paying the workers a bonus which the general contractors in the Mason's Builders' association could not meet. There is a labor shortage in America because the the greatest building boom in history has been on for months. It is a shortage that exists only in spots and the speculative builders who are luring workers away from general contractors by the use of the bonus plan may pull down the entire building house of cards.

Man is a greedy animal at best and there are times when he is unable to see beyond his nose.

Judge E. H. Gary of American Steel made the announcement that his executive committee could not abolish a twelve-hour work day. This over, he advised all the people to put their trust in God and then he fainted and had to be taken away. This should furnish another text for a Samuel Gomper's sermon.

UNCOMMON SENSE

By JOHN BLAKE

FACTS ARE THE BEST ARGUMENTS

Cardinal Newman, challenged to a debate about religion said that he would not argue, but if the challenger liked he would engage in a violin playing competition, the winner to be judged the winner of the dispute.

The cardinal was convinced of the futility of any argument on a question which must forever remain a matter of opinion.

He knew also that skill in debate does not necessarily mean that a man holds sound views.

Some of the most eloquent men in the world have frequently been on the wrong side of disputes.

The gift of tongues does not always carry with it the gift of infallibility.

Argument is good mental exercise, because it teaches people to use their wits.

Many a boy has gained the ability to think quickly in a school or college debating society.

Any pursuit that exercises the brain is good for it. Mental power can be more increased without exercise than can muscular power.

But in life the man who argues best is the man who argues from facts.

To be convincing he must know what he is talking about.

Members of parliament and members of congress are unmoved by eloquence. They have become accustomed to it.

It is to the man who has facts at his command, and who knows how to marshal them effectively that they listen.

A prisoner accused of murder may have defending him the most talented lawyer in the world. But if the prosecution can prove by the facts that he did the crime, the defense will be unavailing.

The chronic arguer is likely to develop into nothing but a chronic disputer, who uses argument for the pleasure he gets out of it.

But without facts arguments can settle nothing.

The whole world is seeking truth. But it will not accept it without proof.

All the argument that can be made is not as convincing evidence which cannot be gainsaid.

The best use of argument is in carrying facts so that they carry weight.

But mere statement no matter how cleverly presented is not effacious and settles nothing.

As well could truth be established by a running race or a violin competition as th fgfstaowfi yp competition as by debate which did not supply the facts.

The man who is not sure of what he is talking about had better avoid argument. It may get him a reputation for "thinking on his feet" but such a reputation is not valuable.

TODAY AND YOU

By MARY BLAKE

GEMINI

The aspects today tend to excess, extremes; to magnify, exaggerate or to over-estimate and judge incorrectly. Avoid assuming liabilities or taking on unnecessary responsibility.

A child born today will be honest, industrious and religiously inclined.

If today is the anniversary of your birth, you have a studious and retiring nature, caring more for the accumulation of knowledge than for anything else. With the exceptional mental powers, new ideas and a discriminative mind, you have a combination of good qualities that generally lead to the attainment of a considerable amount of the world's goods, and, what is much better, a good reputation among business associates as well as friends.

You are sensitive and discriminating and have the unusual faculty of being conscious of your own motives in whatever you are doing. You are idealistic, but your ideals are the result of experience and analysis rather than of blind acceptance.

Your mind is active and creative and unusually rich in imigination. You have an intellect as well as emotional sympathy which gives you the key to all manner of people and their most baffling problems.

You have excellent taste in matters of art and literature, just as you have in people, because you do not fear to choose according to your natural reactions. If you like to do a thing, no convention will stop you, and, because you see the intrinsic worth in everything you encounter, your life should be one of rich interest and enjoyment, whether you have wealth or not.

You are romantic and adventurous without the usual fault of self-delusion. You have an eye for the dramatic and you delight in entertaining your friends with stories of fact and of fancy from your own experiences and from experiences that have not necessarily happened to anyone.

You are tender and affectionate but rather fastidious in your own intimate relations. It is just as well you are, for you could easily become an irresponsible flirt.

SUNSHINE PELLETS

By DR. W. F. THOMSON.

Life:
A year or two—
A fear or two—
A tear or two—
Life.

Apple blossoms never come in dollar bottles.

When a friend faints, lower his head and let him come too.

Beneath this stone
Our Willie lies;
He ate some pies
Exposed to flies.

There's no distinction in the name; "break" and "fracture" are the same.

Often the most serious part of an accident is the inappropriate first aid

I figured up my savings—
(Right here I'm stating facts)
It took the whole caboodle
To pay my income tax.

Of all the "cures" I've ever tried; Fahin's best when you're business tied

When there's an accident there are always headless people who were not in it.

Scarlet lips and pencilled brow—
Stenciled cheek, anemic frow—
Mother paints like daughter now—
So it goes.

If we'd stay out-doors and wear light clothes, we wouldn't feel chilly when the north wind blows.

POEMS THAT LIVE

APPLE BLOSSOMS

Have you seen an apple orchard in the spring?
In the spring?
An English apple orchard in the spring?
When the spreading trees are hoary
With their wealth of promised glory,
And the mavis pipes his story
In the spring!

Have you plucked the apple blossoms in the spring?
In the spring?
And caught their subtle odors in the spring
Pink buds bursting at the light,
Crumpled petals baby white,
Just to touch them a delight!
In the spring!

Have you seen a merry bridal in the spring
In the spring
In an English apple country in the spring
When the bride and maidens wear
Apple blossoms in their hair;
Apple blossoms everywhere,
In the spring?

If you have not, then you know not, in the spring,
In the spring,
Half the color, beauty, wonder of the spring.
No sight can I remember,
Half so precious, half so tender,
As the apple blossoms render,
In the spring.

OIL WELL PUMPING PROBLEMS

In the course of a general study of oil well pumping problems being conducted by the department of the interior, H. C. These data will be assembled for publication as a report of the bureau of mines.

WHERE OUR ANGELS FEAR TO TREAD

The VANISHING MEN

By Richard Washburn Child

WHO'S WHO IN THE STORY:

Peter DeWolfe, a wealthy young American, becomes interested in an English friend's description of a mysterious beauty who had taken a cottage next to his home. Among the things of interest about her, he says, "was a strange look of fear in her eyes." DeWolfe goes to visit at the home of his friend and there meets

Muriel Benham, his sister, who is very strongly attracted to Peter but seeing her affection not returned, and suspecting that he is attracted by her beautiful neighbor, warns him that if the latter "takes him in," he will "vanish like the others."

Brena Selcoss, is the mysterious beauty. He meets her in London and after several days of delightful companionship falls in love with her, but she tells him that she was married some years ago when she was seventeen in Dallas, Texas. A few years before that her mother had died, and her father later had been killed in an accident, leaving her a message "not to be afraid, for, if any danger threatened her, she would be protected."

Mrs. Wilkie, who runs a boarding house, rents her a room, where she meets

Jim Hennepin, a dashing young man, who courts Brena strenuously. At length he tells her that he is about to make a great deal of money and asks her to go to St. Louis and await his coming. He tells her that he has had a "call." She returns several days later from St. Louis and is told by Mrs. Wilkie, who knew nothing of her appointment there, that she had no knowledge of Hennepin's whereabouts.

Compton Parmalee, for whom Jim had worked interviews Brena but she can tell him nothing to help toward solving the mystery of Hennepin's disappearance. Parmalee, a fanatic on his own health, tells Brena he is not in love with her, but proposes that she marry him and be his companion, because he has discovered in her a bond of sympathy. He has made two million dollars, and plans to spend the rest of his life traveling and enjoying life so far as his health will permit. She accepts, and they are married. As they are about to leave on their honeymoon he looks at her, almost snarling, and asks her what is the "fate" that follows her; declaring that he feels a horrible, unaccountable terror.

The extraordinary transition in Compton Parmalee began with his marriage.

Apparently an inexplicable fear had seized him within a few minutes; inexplicable fear little by little took possession of his life and made him a source of contagion of unreasoning dread.

There was a six-month period after the departure of the strange bride from Dallas wherein, whatever emotions or apprehension he may have felt struggle was made to conceal them and to give Brenna Selcoss the variety, content and luxury that he had said should be hers.

He, who never had more than touched her hand with his own cold, refined fingers, sometimes burst forth with all the zealous energy which has made him a great gambler.

"You are my speculation;" he would exclaim. "I have bought a future in you!"

He lived two lives; not at the same time, but alternately. The one was in her; the other in himself. When he could put his own life into hers he forgot his own.

He procured her entry into rare social circumferences. In the first year Brena considered by all strangers to be several years older than she, in fact, was, and of whom no one would have believed it if it had been told them that she had been plucked out of that kitchen garden of Wilke's boarding house, had dined with foreign ambassadors, hunted with Lady Tremayn Nash, been courted over, through and under her disgust by a cousin of the exking of the Portuguese, occupied a villa in the Italian lakes and voyaged in a luxurious yacht around the Baltic in midsummer with the family of Stockholm's largest banker.

Other men, sensing subconsciously her ungiven and unused affections, brought all their sophistication to their aid in making love to her. Dozens of men in various capitals acting her beauty, gave amusement to the Dallas broker and annoyance to her. She might have been thrilled by these idolatries were it not for the fact that she believed they always came either from those whose attentions to women were quite general and successive or from those whose imagination could conceive only a very plain driveway from the thoroughfare of formal society to the sequestered dwelling place of a woman's heart.

"There are times when you look at me as if I was the bearer of some evil," she once said.

"It is absurd," he told her, but his face showed the sudden twist of fear.

"You have some knowledge that I have not," she asserted accusingly.

"None," he answered, after a pause he said: "Your father was interested in Aztec architecture?"

"Yes." Her eyes opened in amazement.

"He went to Mexico more than once," said Parmalee. "He considered that the civilization of the Mayas was far more extraordinary than even experts like Thompson and Nightingale have represented it. He believed that they had developed forces quite unknown to modern life."

"How did you know this?" she asked sharply.

Parmalee was quite nonchalant; he said, "You forget that my library is full of documents and books and monographs which your father asked permission to consult. I am sorry I did not meet your father."

"You would have found him a man quite incapable of believing in the supernatural, whether it be a thing of today or attributed to an ancient people," she said.

"I suppose so," Brena answered. "It is because I have no patience with unrealities."

"You would say more?" he asked with his uncanny ability to read her thought.

"Yes. I think you have some purpose in creating this atmosphere of strange and unreal things."

"You spoke of a piece of paper given to you in a roll of bills," he said after another silence, with a marked absence of his usual assurance. "It fluttered out. You saved it—"

Brena drew back as if the subject was odious.

He appeared frightened, but went on:

"I think you said there was a drawing of an arrow and a lizard."

"I said lizard. I don't see what difference it makes. It wasn't exactly a lizard."

He thrust toward her an envelope "Draw it," he said.

"I told you I had almost forgotten," the girl replied. "I lost the scrap—the figures and the words."

"Draw it," he repeated, "the best you can."

Brena searched in her memory for a photographic impress. Then suddenly with quick precision she outlined a strange figure on paper.

Parmalee snatched it eagerly and stared; he saw a figure, half snake and half bird.

"That" said he in a muffled voice. "Well, do you know what that is?"

Brena raised the arch of her brows. "It is the Kuk-ul-can," said Parmalee.

Astec culture. The surpreme object of reverence. The fools who go about the southwest driving their oil wells, and laying their railroad ties and eating their prepared breakfast foods forget that this symbol is to be found among the present day Zuni and other Pueblo tribes, the degenerate fringes of a civilization which flourished before Rome was suckled by a wolf! They forget that a thousand years ago it was carved on rude adobe walls in memory of a lost grandeur and lost practices, dead these 6,000 years!"

Brena possessed two laughs, both natural and sincere. And now it was her merry Irish laugh. "What of all this?" said she. "I will bluab for their ignorance but what more than that can I do on a sunny Thursday? I am not interested, Compton, in that which is dead. I—"

She stopped suddenly, sobered by a recollection.

"The Kuk-ul-can," said Parmalee. "You've never seen that scrap of paper again, have you?"

This was the last time he ever spoke of it.

Winter had come again when the Parmalees had settled into a quieter life in New York. Brena had turned the back of her interest upon dining out and the amusement of new acquaintances.

There was in Parmalee's face that weariness from some tensity which would not relax, an expression that increased as the weeks went by and the lives of the two drew more apart.

Less and less did he appear inclined to go out of their apartment; less and less did he go anywhere alone.

"There is a book auction—the Odin collection with two volumes of illuminated MSS. from the old monostery at El Mayaquez," he said one day in March. "Will you go with me, Brena?"

"Of course," she said, but his request marked sharply the moment of her realization that unless he were behind the closed doors of his library he always wanted somebody with him.

AMARILLO'S PAVING

Amarillo has awarded a contract for 200 blocks of paving. Should this paving be constructed, it should give Amarillo a network of paving that would really take Amarillo "out of the mud" even during the wettest periods.

Paving is one of the best things for a city from a standpoint of finances as well as from that of civic improvements. Good paving adds to the beauty of any city. Scientific investigation shows that cost of operation of automobiles and vehicles is so much lower on paving that it is advantageous financially. It is too bad that paving cannot be partly charged to vehicle owners so that they could learn what it means to have paved streets.

Amarillo today has the reputation of having far more paving than the average city of this size. The additional paving will bring more publicity to Amarillo and enhance property values.—Amarillo News.

WEST TEXAS OPTIMISM

A recent trip through a part of Hardeman county that was damaged by the heavy rain and hail, found the farmers preparing their ground for the fourth and fifth planting.

Never have we seen such courage and determination as was written on the faces of those men who have repeatedly seen the fruits of their hard labor destroyed in a few moments time.

With renewed courage and an optimism born of an almost unexplainable faith, in the knowledge that West Texas will make good if given half a chance, these sons of the soil have set their faces toward the goal of making a crop.

With such courage and optimism, we predict that this section of the country will make good crops despite the lateness of the season.

Conditions are bad in some localities, but from reports coming in from other counties, Hardeman has a good chance comparatively speaking.

West Texas has never completely failed and cannot afford to fail now, and with the cooperation of the city people West Texas will make good at this late hour.—Chillicothe Valley News.

IRRIGATION

By A. M. McPHERSON

Is It Going to be Possible to Irrigate Any More Than Is Now Included in the Two Irrigation Districts.

11TH INSTALLMENT.

Yesterday we discussed the amount of land that could be irrigated from Lake Kemp allowing 2 acre feet of stored water for each acre of land irrigated and pointed out how the average rainfall plus the delivered water would equal almost four acre feet.

Few people realize just how much water four acre feet really is. The wettest year since 1891, according to the weather bureau report, was in 1919. In that year we had 47.15 inches of rainfall. This is equivalent to not quite four acre feet of water. Those who were farming here that year will remember that there was plenty of moisture.

We have been dealing all the time with the average year and the average rainfall. As a matter of fact, there is no such thing as an average year. The average is made up of all years.

Therefore, let us see what could be expected in a bad year. Since 1900 the year of the least rainfall was 1917 when during the whole year only 17.87 inches fell, but if we add to this rainfall 18 inches of irriation water we have the equivalent of 36 inches of rainfall, or three acre feet. From 1900 to 1920 only six years had a rainfall in excess of 36 inches.

If we will remember that the soil on the irriation project will be fairly well filled up with moisture from preceding years of rainfall and irrigation, then it will appear that one bad year of little rainfall, would not work a hardship, especially if moisture was conserved intelligently by frequent cultivation and the maintenance of a dust mulch on all row crops such as cotton, corn, etc. In fact, several years of minimum rainfall could be safely passed if 18 inches of delivered water was allowed and proper cultural methods followed.

Some further phases of water supply and the use of water will be discussed tomorrow.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE EASIER WAY

No interjections, as a rule,
I use my daily speech to flavor,
Which could not, in a Sunday school,
Be heard without a qualm or quaver.
But, when my blundering way I wend
About the links, each fresh disaster
Provokes remarks that might offend
My pastor.

Although a liberal-minded man,
He's very set in his convictions,
And he has firmly laid a ban
On curses, oaths and maledictions.
And when around with him I play
And futilely the turf I sunder,
Stroke after stroke, the worst I say
Is "Thunder!"

Scotch dominies, for many a year,
Have known the trials that golfers suffer,
And they are vastly less severe
Upon the imprecating duffer.
They think the man who from the tee
But rolls the ball he should have driven,
And uses dreadful words, should be Forgiven.

I have no quarrel with the sect
In which my kindly parents reared me;
Its tenets have, I recollect,
Since childhood's hour consoled and cheered me.
But if I hope for future calm
And look for ultimate salvation,
I'll have to alter my denom-Ination.

Your Heart and Home Problems Solved By Elizabeth Thompsun

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a girl 16 years old and I am engaged to a prominent business man of this city. He has given me a diamond ring, a big car and various other gifts. Our wedding day is set for October 5. I have recently learned that he has a wife and three children living in Fort Worth and that he visits them frequently. All of my friends know of my engagement. Please tell me what to do.

AN UNFORTUNATE GIRL.
Wichita Falls.

You sign yourself unfortunate. I rather think that you are fortunate to find out in time that your fiance is a married man. Your wedding has not yet taken place and of course under the circumstances will not. Where you made your mistake in the first place was to go with men at your age. You should not think of going with boys or men before you are at least 18. And then your second mistake was in accepting expensive gifts from men. But as you have done all this I believe as a heart balm I would keep the car, the diamond and all gifts and cut him cold.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a girl 21 years old. I have been keeping company with a young man for about a month and a half. His birthday is coming soon and he is well aware that I know it. I am puzzled whether to give him a present or not. If so, what would be suitable?

KIND AND TRUE.

Do not give the young man a present. Write him a little note, wishing him a happy birthday, or send him a birthday greeting.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I was very much in love with a girl who said she loved me. I was forced to leave the state, and she wrote to me several months and then quit. I love her so much that I can hardly give her up, but I am too young to marry yet and have some school ahead of me. What would you advise me to do?

LONESOME KID.

If you have written the girl two or three times and she has not answered your letters, I would advise you to consider it a case of "out of sight, out of mind." You are not the first young man to be disappointed in love, by any means. Simply make up your mind that the girl was not for you and trust that in the future you will meet some one you love even more.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a young girl 17 years of age. I am going with a boy of 22. He told me he loved me, and I loved him. I have been going with him about six months. He is nice to me and we have good times together. He lives out of my town, and I can't be with him as often as I would like, but I get three and four letters from him a week.

Please advise me what to do to find out whether he really loves me or not. And do you think we are too young to talk of marriage?

B. L. W.

If the boy tells you he loves you, have faith in what he says. Unless you believe him to be a young man of honor, you cannot expect your love for him to last. You can judge the depth of his love for you without subjecting him to tests.

I do not think you are to young to talk of marriage. But since you love each other so dearly, it is only natural that the thought of marriage should come to you. Do not force such an event, because if you were to marry before you are old enough to face the responsibilities of marriage you would not be happy.

Dear Mrs. Thompsun: I am a woman five feet four inches tall. How much should I weigh? I read that olive oil would fill out the fingers. Will it fill out the neck, arms and legs if rubbed on? THANK YOU.

To find out your ideal weight, multiply the number of inches over five feet in height by five and a half. Then add 110—

4x5½—22
Plus 110

Ideal weight 132

Five pounds may be added for clothing.

Cocoa butter is recommended to fill out hollows. It should be massaged into the flesh regularly every day. Results should not be expected too soon. In order to become more plump, I would advise you to make a study of fattening foods. Drink at least a quart of milk every day; eat plenty of eggs, fresh vegetables and bread and butter. Also be sure to have eight or nine hours' sleep every night.

Hamburg Surprise—Roll flat, oblong cakes of fresh hamburg in greased skillet. Cover well and let simmer for at least an hour. Season and serve.

Spinach Supreme—Cook spinach in usual way, either by steaming or broiling, adding about four tablespoons of bacon fat to water, then drain, pack in a dish and pour over a mustard sauce made by blending smoothly, two tablespoons of prepared mustard, twotablespoons of sugar, one-half cup of vinegar and a little salt.

Tomato Jelly Salad— Into small molds place a little shredded cabbage, some chopped celery and an onion chopped fine; pour over this, gelatine made by adding part of a can of tomato juice, slowly heated, to one package of lemon gelatin powder. When set, serve on a lettuce leaf and cover with French dressing.

Hot Cherry Pudding— Melt two tablespoons of butter in a glass baking dish. Add one cup light brown sugar, then two cups of canned or fresh cherries. Add one tablespoon of melted butter to mixture and pour the whole over the cherries. Bake forty-five minutes. Serve warm with sugar and cream.

SUGGESTIONS

To Clean a Diamond Ring—To clean a diamond ring satisfactorily, pull it back and forth between the prongs of the ring and under the diamond.

For Cleaning Lace— Cornmeal will clean lace that is much soiled. Rub the lace and the meal together between the hands, then shake out well, using white meal for white lace and yellow meal for ecrue lace.

What to Do With Leftovers—Keep several fruit jars handy for vegetables and fruit or left-over salmon and other fish, which can be sealed tight and put in the refrigerator. By doing this you never have any ordor or spoil your milk and butter.

Fasten the snaps of a garment together before putting the article through the wringer. This will protect the little knob from being crushed and broken.

Slugfest Yields Another Spud Win 15 to 12

FIVE HURLERS POUNDED TO ALL CORNERS BUT SALMITES GET BEST OF HITTING BEE

Grigsby Gets Two Homers Over Right Field Fence, Accounting for Winning Runs; Spudders Route Morrison in First Frame.

SAN ANTONIO, June 15.—Today's battle between the Spudders and the San Antonio Bears was a slugfest from start to finish, with both clubs slamming the ball to all corners of the lot, but the Spudders took the big end of the count, defeating the Bruins 15 to 12. The winners used three hurlers against the Bears, while the losers used two, all five being hit almost at will by the batters.

Two homers by Grigsby, one with a man on, in the eighth, the other with the bases clear in the sixth, made the count of the Spuds enough to win by three markers. Both went over the right field wall.

The Spudders got started toward the win in the first inning and all indications pointed to an easy victory for the Salmites, but in the fifth stanza the Bruins went on a hitting rampage that soon put them in striking distance of the Spudder score. In the fifth, sixth and eighth innings the Bears pounded all Spudder offerings to the wall, and approached a win, but failed by three counters to make the necessary grade and equal the 15 markers of the Salms.

The Spudders played air tight baseball in the field and got through the hectic battle without a single error, but were helped materially by the four bungles made by the Bears in the pasture, several overthrows accounting for scores.

They started in on Morrison in the first frame, and before the inning was ended had knocked him from the mound, scoring five runs. It was a wild game from the start with the bases resembling a race track. Bescher gave the running a start, getting on with a single on the first ball pitched. Schulte made an attempt to catch Bescher napping at first, and his throw was so wild that the Spudder took third on the overthrow. He scored when Coombs beat out a slow hit down the third base line, Coombs taking third on Tanner's single past short. Cotter's line drive got by Boone, and Coombs scored, Tanner taking third and Cotter second. Cotter and Tanner crossed the rubber on Grigsby's single to center, and Grigsby landed on the third sack on Berger's single. A slight sprinkle started as Jonnard took his stick, but he scored with a timely single. The rain caused a five minute delay, the Spudders failing to score after the interruption.

Count in Third.

The Spudders got another across in the third before the Bruins got started, and in the same inning the Bears got their first counter. Both the runs came as results of a series of singles, Payne and Meine being unable to hold the batters from fast bingles to outfield.

In the fourth the Spudders got busy with their war clubs again and before the smoke cleared away had tacked another quartet of counters on their side of the score board. It was the big end of the Wichita batting crew that started the Spuds running on the bags, with Bob Bescher first up, but failing to get on. Coombs watched four balls go by wide of the plate and was perched on first when Tanner hit his single to left, sending him to third. Cotter put a flat side on the ball when he smashed it to deep left for three sacks, scoring him. With White only one leg of the journey from the rubber, Berger put him across with a single to left, and then made the third out in an attempt to steal.

The slugging Spuds crowded things for two more markers in the next frame, before the Bruins got hot under the collar and started a counter attack that netted eight runs in two stanzas. Fuller's knee went to the bad on him and he was taken from the game, Galloway taking second, and Todt going to the initial sack. Jonnard walked and Stauffer sent a pretty sacrifice past short. Bescher was safe when Todt missed his grounder and Jonnard stopped at third, scoring on a wild pitch, Bescher taking third. Coombs counted Bob with a single to left, and Tanner hit into a double play, making the three outs that ended the counting for the Spuds.

The fifth and sixth innings were nightmares of hits, errors and wild base running, the Bruins running up a count of eight runs before the Spudders awoke to the realization that their lead was dwindling. While the Bears were making eight, the Spuds counted another, but were unable to stop the scoring of the home club and again in the eighth frame the Bruins broke loose for three more counters, that were partly offset by a couple counted by the Spudders in the eighth.

Wheezes From The Press Coop

By Don Weldon

The Spudders are only a half game from the Cats now, and if the Cats drop one today, while the Spuds cop again, Skipper Salm will find himself managing a league leading club!

The Crabs gave Jakey Atz a setback yesterday afternoon when they took a one-run win. Atz ought to be a bit discouraged by now, with his Cats handling the ball like it was a hot coal. Their nerve won't be the best today, with everything at stake, and some costly losses behind, and the Crabs will have a mighty good chance to take another, while the Spudders are all to the good with the Bruins not in the best condition. Looks like a good chance for Salm to get his club where it belongs.

The Spudders played a hard game yesterday, though, when they beat the Bears with 15 runs, for a slugfest like that one is never easy for a club with a lot at stake. The Bears and Salms amassed a grand total of 32 hits. It took five hurlers to allow that many, but we will have to admit that every one did his part.

Grigsby accounted for enough runs to win the game yesterday when he poled the ball for a couple of home runs. Once, in the eighth, it was with Coombs on the bags, counting for two, and again with the bases clear. Both went over the right field wall, and were hard hit balls, clearing by several feet.

Ace Elliot, sold by the Spuds to the Chicago Cubs a few days ago, is showing up well in the big loop, and is a good help to the Cubs, working steadily at the initial sack. His fielding the first day put him in the limelight, and yesterday, although failing to get a hit in four times at bat, he worked well on first, handling the bag in fine style, and playing perfect ball in the field.

Art Weiss, whom Salm got from the Cubs in the trade that sent Elliot up, reported to the Spudders at San Antonio yesterday afternoon, in the outer pasture, and is expected to do a few things with that big bat of his as well as handle the fielding. He wore the Spudder uniform for some time last year, smashing the ball hard throughout his stay here, and ought to be a help to the Spuds scoring machine.

Man Still Unconscious After Being Hit

No change has been noticed in the condition of R. J. Stark, the driller who was seriously injured Wednesday when he was struck on the head by an iron bar, according to reports from the hospital at a late hour last night. He was still unconscious and there seemed little improvement in his condition following the operation he underwent Thursday to remove the pressure of his skull from his brain.

TOM DIDN'T HITCH WAGON TO A STAR

It isn't necessary to hitch your wagon to a star to get some place in this world.

Thomas Battling Gibbons, who has started training for his great chance at the world's heavyweight title, will tell the cockneyed universe and contiguous territories that.

For Gibbons had no thought of or ambition to ascend to the top-most pinnacle of boxing fame himself when he first donned the gloves. His only hope was to make his own brother a champ. And be it said to Tom's credit that he gave several years that he might have used to forward his own ends in the ring to helping Brother Mike attain the heights he reached.

It was back in 1913 that Tom first entered the ring himself. And then he took up fighting, one might say, as a side line to training his brother. But the success with which he met in his first battles convinced him he himself had a future. He found that a couple of years of sparring with his speedy, clever brother had instilled in him much of the science of the game and considerable ability to hit.

So he hopped to it.

It was in 1914 that Gibbons first drew real attention. He licked George K. O. Brown, outpointed Billy Miske and knocked out Buck Crouse. The fact that Crouse was nearing the end of his days somewhat lessened the glory of that k. o., though.

Then the next year Gibbons licked Billy Murray, Billy Miske and Harry Greb, among others. Gus Christie was his most formidable opponent the next year and then, in the next few years, up to 1921, he took on all the good middleweights.

In the summer of 1920 he took on weight, joined the heavyweight ranks and left a string of second-rate heavies phone on the canvas in a series of battles that extended from Dan to Dawson.

And as he waded through the big boys he found that the years spent in the gym helping Brother Mike had given him something that 99 per cent of the big boys lack—boxing science.

Gibbons may not stack up with Dempsey as a puncher. He may lack the rugged disposition to go through a long guelling fight with a man-eater like the champ, but he has the one asset which finally will spell defeat for the Manassa Mauler—boxing skill.

The average heavyweight is so slow on his feet and with his hands that a bone-crusher with the speed Dempsey has can get to him easily. Gibbons has the speed to keep away from Dempsey for a time at least. And this speed thereby may give him a chance to send home what he has in the way of punches between the champ's boring-in sessions.

And if Gibbons does surprise the ring world, Brother Mike will feel that Tom has not suffered for the modest ambition he held early in the game—of putting Brother Mike up near the top.

DEMPSEY WORKS IN SPITE OF FINANCIAL TROUBLE OVER BOUT

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 15.—While Jack Kearns, manager of the world's heavyweight champion, Jack Dempsey, was in town conferring with a Great Falls bankers' committee over the payment of the $100,000 installment due today, Dempsey went through a workout equivalent to nine rounds at his training camp.

The champion was apparently undisturbed over the turn of financial events. He took things comparatively easy with the result that none of his sparring partners hit the floor, as was the case on two previous days.

"See 'Doc,'" was his reply to questions of the $100,000 payment.

Dempsey always refers to Manager Kearns as "Doc."

"Doc handles the business; I do the fighting," Dempsey said. "Whatever Doc says goes with me."

Havers, Young English Pro, Beats Hagen for British Open Championship By One Stroke

Associated Press Dispatch

TROON, June 15.—Arthur Gladstone Havers, a young English professional who has played golf ever since he was old enough to hold a club, today won the British open championship of 1923, by a margin of one stroke under Walter Hagen, who came from the United States to defend the title he acquired one year ago at Sandwich.

Through the sound and sturdy efforts of Havers, Great Britain has won back its own cup from the Americans, who had held it for two successive years. Playing every round of the 72 holes with remarkable steadiness, Havers amassed a grand total of only 295 strokes, five less than Hagen made to win the trophy last year. Hagen ended his 72 hole battle today with 296 strokes recorded on his cards.

Third place, as well as second place, went to an American, McDonald Smith, of San Francisco, having a score of 297, including a 69 this morning that broke the record for the old Troon course. Joe Kirkwood, the Australian, who now makes his home in the United States, came in fourth with 298 strokes, he also getting a 69 during the day. Johnny Farrell, of New York, was in eighth position, with a card of 306.

George Aulbach, the other American, was down the line with a 329.

Scores of the eighth leaders for the 72 holes were as follows:

A. G. Havers	73	73	73	76—295
Walter Hagan	76	71	74	75—296
McDonald Smith	80	73	69	75—297
Joe Kirkwood	72	76	69	78—298
T. R. Fernie	73	78	74	75—300
C. A. Whitecombe	70	76	74	82—302
George Duncan	79	75	74	74—302
Johnny Farrell	79	73	75	79—306

Between 10,000 and 15,000 spectators, many of them from lands over the seas, watched the last two rounds of the competition.

MASKAT TEAM TO PLAY NOCONA NINE

No intimation as to the strength of the Nocona team has been received here but the Shrine boys state they are not expecting anything but a victory.

LITTLE LESSONS IN Big Sports

What are the commonest causes of pulling or hooking?

Answered by

BOB MacDONALD

Veteran tournament player, winner of the Metropolitan open championship, 1921, and the Texas open championship, 1922. Famous the world over for his long distance driving.

Pulling or hooking is usually caused by faulty wrist motion that is the result of the left elbow being held too high at the top of the swing. The left forearm, if correctly held, is a part of a direct line from the right shoulder to the ball. I have noticed that the player who looks for a pull or hook usually gets what he is looking for and encourages the fault instead of breaking it.

West Texas Boy Wins 880-Yard Chicago Trials

Associated Press Dispatch

CHICAGO, June 15.—Reese of the University of Texas, won the 880-yard dash run trials today in the annual championship track and field meet of the National Collegiate Athletic association at Stagg field here. Time, 1:57 5-10.

Lanky Jim Reese, of Comanche, only in his sophomore year, broke the Southwest conference record in the 880-yard run in the conference meet held at Oklahoma A. & M. this spring in time of 1:59. Although he made better time several times in dual meets the new conference mark was made on a dirt track. The old record was made by Gayer of Baylor in 1922.

Reese was a member of the Longhorn quartet which captured the medley relay race at the University of Kansas, competing against nationally known teams, and nosing out the Pennsylvania relay team.

Keeping Pace In The Chess Match

Or a Wee Bit Ahead Houston In Cold Storage Quanah at Bat

Quanah—Knight takes Rook.

Wichita—Pawn to Queen Bishop 3.

Quanah—Knight to Rook 6 check.

Wichita—King to Rook square.

Ho! ho! Within fair sirs the Quanah Knight has crossed the moat and captured the castle. Gadzooks and it doth seem passing queer that Quanah's Knight should follow close the tactics of the late lamented Houston. Don Quixote, who tiring of the quiet life, dashed madly on to fame, and then, alas, extinction, where he, today, lies huddled in the scrap heap of Houston's dethroned royalty.

Coming down to earth, and 20th century dope, Quanah's Knight recalls the Houston Knight who dashed madly across the field to single-handed and alone deal out death and destruction and wade in blood ankle deep.

After a few wallops from the Wichita forces the Houston Knight fell into a state of coma, which seemed to be contagious with all the balance of the Houston forges, for, today, nothing seems able to arouse them from their stupor. Let us hope for the sake of a game that promises to be interesting that Quanah's frolicsome knight may not bring Quanah to Houston's sad end.

State Champion Wins Way Into Tennis Finals

FORT WORTH, June 15.—J. B. Adoue, Dallas, and state champion, won his way to the finals in the twenty-eighth Texas state tennis tournament, being held at Meadowmere Club; John D. Norton, Houston, went into the semi finals, and Henry Lawrence, Fort Worth, opposes him there. Berkeley Bell and Melton Arnett, Austin, won the state championship in junior doubles.

Bell went into the finals in Junior singles, and Bucklew, Fort Worth, and Guick, Dallas, went into the semi finals; George Wright and John Barr, Dallas, and Adoue, and B. B. Hogue, also of Dallas, are in the finals of the senior doubles as a result of Friday's playing.

In the most spectacular contest of the tournament, Adoue made a remarkable comeback in the fourth set of his match with Leslie Coleman, Rice Institute, winning that set and the next, thus going into the finals.

William F. Luber, runner-up last year, was vanquished by the crack player from Houston, John D. Norton, who was Coleman's partner this morning, when they played off their match which ended with a set each yesterday Luther was steady until the critical period of the game, when Norton rallied, winning 7-5, after the runner-up of last year had had him 5-3.

Henry Lawrence, Fort Worth hope, will meet Norton tomorrow at ten o'clock in the semi finals, the winner playing Adoue for the state championship at three o'clock.

AUTO RECOVERED

An automobile owned by Dr. George Seay of this city, stolen Thursday night from a downtown business street, was found early Friday morning three miles beyond Electra. The machine had evidently been stolen by someone who wanted to get up into the Panhandle in a hurry and was abandoned when it ran out of gas.

Aside from empty tanks the car was unhurt, it was reported. It was turned over to Dr. Seay Friday morning.

MORE TAX SUITS FILED

The second lot of delinquent tax suits prepared by the city against property owners whose taxes prior to 1920 have not been paid were ready to be filed Friday. There were about a dozen in the bunch.

With these suits on the dockets, legal action has now been started by the city against 30 delinquent property owners. It is hoped to collect a large part of the $100,000 or more delinquent taxes now on the tax rolls.

More suits are being prepared for filing.

For a long time I have threatened to write an article on the slow pokes of the links. I am beginning to think that it is very much overdue as this menace is growing so fast at the country clubs that something unusual will have to be done or some organizations will be totally disrupted.

The worst pest of the moderr links is the creeping foursome who refuses to let others through and who regard the links as their own personal property.

This foursome is not always composed of older golfers who are not inclined to speed up their play on account of inability to walk at a regular gait, but it is usually made up of three or four players who are oblivious to the fact that there is anyone else within a mile of them and what is more they care less.

One or two slow pokes in a foursome can make the whole foursome slow, but this is not as bad as where all four have developed the creeping habit.

Every golf club has one or two of these four ball crawlers who make life miserable for the rest of the members. Usually they are men of enough influence in the club to permit them to continue disregarding the rules without being called up before the board.

Personally, I am a great believer in men playing the game as they see fit. It is all right to take as much time as one likes, but it is not all right to take anyone else's time. I mean by this that a man can be as deliberate as he chooses if he has the course to himself, or if he is courteous enough to wave other players through when they come along within a club shot.

Playing slow is a habit pure and simple and one can get out of this if he wishes and not affect his game in the least. I have seen players stand over a putt so long that they really defeat the purpose they were striving for. That is, they got their concentration and then lost it again. A young lady who is a very good golfer did this very thing until she woke up to the fact that it was hurting her game more than it was helping it.

Should Post Notices.

This young lady in question had this disease only on the putting green. She got the idea into her head that she was a very bad putter and figured it out that taking a lot of time with her putts would help her case. She simply over-did it as one is apt to do under such circumstances. Finally she broke herself of the habit and became a good putter.

The truth of the matter was that this person completely lost her nerve on the green and had to stand still until she could become calm and steady. Men players do this just as often as the women folk.

One should take no more time on the green than is necessary to line up the putt steady the feet and hands and putt. Alex Smith is one of the fastest putters playing the game and he insists that he has made as many putts by the quick method of putting as he has missed by it. There is no doubt but what it works both ways.

Another form of delay is on the tee. Some players waggle until they are exhausted, while others take two or three practice swings, all of which helps to eat up time.

Notices should be posted at various places around the clubhouse warning slow foursomes just as they post notices about the replacing pivots. One is getting to be as big a crime as the other.

The game has become so popular these days that almost every club has a waiting list. This means that most clubs have taken in more members than they can take care of. It is not like the old days when there was plenty of room for everybody. The average 18-hole course can accommodate 300 members if the playing percentage is about the same in all clubs.

It could be stretched to a possible 400 if the players themselves were more thoughtful of each other.

It Isn't Always the Duffer.

One need not be a sprinter to be a fast player. Walking fast between shots is a big help and makes up quite a bit for standing over the ball getting the line of play and taking practice swings.

It is a capital idea to make sure that you are keeping your place. Always make it a point to be within a club's shot of the players in front. When you see that a gap is opening up ask the players behind to play through.

Always do this when you take time to look for a lost ball. Do not be offended if the pair or foursome behind ask to play through as they would hardly care to if you were keeping your place.

It is not always the duffer and the beginner that are slow pokes. Sometimes it is the very best golfers. This slowness is a disease that hits the stars as well as the duffers.

I know one player who always keeps the others in a state of turmoil by his deliberate method of playing. He means well but he has acquired a bad habit that is really hurting his chances of winning more than he realizes.

When I came back from England last summer I had a checked sweater that came in for a lot of joshing. This same slow player joined the others in kidding me about wearing it.

"Are you going to play checkers, Jock?" he asked.

"Well," said I, "I'll have a lot of time for playing checkers if I happen to get behind you!"

The incident brought a laugh from the others who had been in the same fix.

SHORT COVERING CAUSES RALLY

Reactionary Tone Broken Just Before Close Of Market

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 15.—Short covering operations brought about a sharp rally just before the close in today's stock market, which had exhibited a reactionary tone throughout most of the session. Closing prices were irregular, most of the usual leaders showing only nominal changes on the day. Fifty stocks, including nearly all the active oils, established new low records for the year.

Repeated attempts to bring about general liquidation were frustrated by the strength shown by a few individual issues, notably Atchison, which closed 2 1-4 points higher.

Pan-American issues made the best recovery in the oil group, closing about half a point above yesterday's final figures. Recent weakness of California Petroleum was attributed to liquidation resulting from the increased margin required on the new stock. Steels, rubbers and motors were heavy most of the day. Most of the rails held steady.

Foreign exchange rates showed few important changes. Demand sterling held steady around $4.61 and French francs were quoted around 6.32 cents. German marks rallied slightly to .009-7-8 cent.

Money rates were steady despite the heavy turn over of funds in connection with income tax, interest and dividend payments. Call money held steady at 4 1-2 per cent. Demand for time money was lost with thirty to ninety days loans arranged at 4 3-4 per cent and the longer maturities at 5.

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 15.—The feature in the cotton market today was the recovery in July contracts. After selling off to 26.85 during the early trading under continued liquidation, offerings of July tapered off and there was an advance of over a cent a pound, with that delivery selling up to 27.96, in the late trading. This made a net advance of 81 points, and the general market closed steady at net advances of 33 to 76 points with July quoted at 27.91. The market opened steady at a decline of 7 to 14 points. The local opening and prices here soon showed net losses of about 14 to 30 points with October declining to 24.30 and December to 23.83. When July shorts turned to cover, the general list advanced sharply. October sold up to 24.97, or 67 points above the early low level and December to 24.42 in the late trading when the general list showed net advances of 38 to 81 points. Closing prices were within a few points of the best. There was some scattered selling during the early afternoon on rather bearish week-end figures, but offerings generally were limited and the late afternoon advance was encouraged by reports of an increased business in cotton goods at Fall river.

Exports for the day were 2,615 bales, making 4,517,414 so far this season. Port receipts today were 4,031. U. S. port stocks 351,6887.

New Orleans and local trade interests were believed to be among the most active buyers on July on the afternoon advance.

BRITISH FIGHT AMERICANS SEARCH FOR POCAHONTAS

Edward Page Gaston examining records in search for Pocahontas' remains.

Britishers have united behind Lord Curzon in opposing the continued search of Edward Page Gaston, an American, for the bones of Pocahontas, the Indian princess famed by legend as the saviour of Capt. John Smith. The tomb of the princess is believed to be under the chancel of the little church at Gravesend, England. Gaston hopes to remove the bones to the United States, where they can be placed in a shrine.

PETERS WELL DRAWS CROWDS

All Ready for Bringing In Of Well On Kemp Lease Today

By RALPH SHUFFLER.

OLNEY, Texas, June 15.—Peter Oils, Inc., got their second well on the Kemp lease last night at 1,065 feet, which is 10 feet higher than the pay was found in their discovery well. It is a true sand, somewhat different from that found in the discovery, which is just 300 feet west.

Barely topping the sand, with 700 feet of mud and water in the hole, it came in and rose to within a few feet of the top of the hole. Casing had already been set, and everything is in readiness for bringing in the well Saturday. Boiler is being moved back today and as everything is on the ground and in readiness, it is believed they can have it pumping into storage by Saturday night.

This test was spudded in on May 30, and just exactly after 15 days' drilling topped the sand with a Star machine. The economy of this operation makes it a very attractive proposition, and will stimulate a wonderful development in that section. In their No. 1, they drilled into the sand seven or eight feet. In this one they have barely scratched it, but it is showing up much better than the discovery, and rough estimates of production range from 100 to 150 barrels.

Large crowds are arriving and going out to the test, and it is expected that hundreds of people will be in the ground Saturday when the well is completed. This test is only five miles from Olney, in a southwest direction and is seven miles from the nearest production, save No. 1 of the same company. Swastika field is seven miles north and west of the field.

Another Electra Well

Another producer for the Electra field came in Friday when the No. 8 well of the Empire Gas and Fuel company on the Waggoner lease made several flows lasting 20 minutes and producing 40 barrels each time. The well looks good for 200 barrels and the sand, the deepest in the lease, was found at 1804 feet.

SINCLAIR CHARGE DROPPED

LOS ANGELES, June 15—Charges of inciting a riot and addressing an unlawful assemblage preferred recently against Upton Sinclair, author, were dismissed today in the Los Angeles police court and a charge of vagrancy substituted. Trial on that charge was set for June 27.

The best wildcat possibility in several months is the test of W. J. Green and T. A. Keyes of Wichita Falls located on the Dr. A. B. Edwards lands Block 26, Hunt sub-division, George Burner survey near Scotland in Archer county which hit the sand Friday and bailing commenced.

The sand was picked up at 1474 depth and penetrated four feet. The closest production is said to be 12 miles away and if the well proves a paying producer Archer county will have another great proven area to draw from.

WHEAT HIGHER IN RAIN WAKE

Oklahoma and Texas Among States Reporting Drought Damage

CHICAGO, June 15.—Higher prices for wheat resulted today from reports of damaging rains in the winter crop belt and from drought in some of the spring crop states. The market closed firms, 3-4 to 1 1-8 cent net advance, with July 1.11 7-8 to 1.12 and September 1.09 3-4 to 1.09 7-8. Corn finished 5-8 to 1 cent up and oats scored gains of shade to 1-4 cent. In provisions the outcome ranged from 5 cents down to a rise of 20@22 cents.

Kansas reports in particular indicated that excessive rains had brought about severe impairment of the probable yield of wheat. There were damage reports from the various parts of the state as well and from Nebraska, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas.

Corn and oats sympathized with the wheat advance. Provisions were firmer to an upturn in hog values.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 15.—Steady prices were paid for all classes of cattle Friday and the market was fairly active. Receipts were very moderate, only 1,000 head of cattle and 200 calves being on offer. The run consisted mostly of low-priced consignments, although two cars of steers were good enough to sell at $7.25.

With 1,200 head available the hog market was steady to 5 cents higher. Good hogs sold to shippers at $7.15 and packers brought up to 7.10. Most of the run cleared at $6.90 to $7.10 pigs brought $5, to 5.75, the market being steady.

An advance of 25 cents was marked up for sheep and lambs. Good lambs brought $14 and the top on wethers was $6.60. Receipts amounted to 1,200 head including 500 on through billing.

RAW SUGAR UNSETTLED

NEW YORK, June 15.—The raw sugar market today was unsettled by the sharp reaction in futures and as no sales were reported, prices were nominal. Cubas were offered at 5 1-4 cents, cost and freight, equal to 7.05 for centrifugal.

There was a further sharp decline in the raw sugar futures market due to renewed general selling. Near the close there was a rally of about a dozen points on covering with final prices 28 to 35 points net lower. Closing: July 4.95; September 4.98; December 4.52; March 3.52.

The refined market was unsettled and prices unchanged to 50 points lower with two refiners now quoting at 9.25 for fine granulated and three at 9.90, with little fresh business reported.

Refined futures nominal.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, June 15.—Cottonseed oil was more active with prices somewhat irregular. Local refiners were good sellers of July and buyers of September. The south sold new crop months early, but the better showing in lard promoted covering operations after mid-day and a good rally followed. July closed 5 points lower and the balance 2 to 3 points net higher. Sales 10,500 barrels. Prime crude 10.00, nominal, prime summer yellow spot 11.50; July 11.45; September 11.18; December 8.85; all bid.

Dun's Weekly Review

Associated Press Dispatch

NEW YORK, June 15.—Dun's tomorrow will say:

Most of the test, by which business trends are measured show a diminution of buying in primary channels, but a gain in retail distribution. These are seasonal phases and do not mark any unusual or unexpected change in the general situation. Close observers of conditions had not anticipated that the noteworthy industrial expansion of the first quarter of this year would continue indefinitely, or that the rise of prices would go on unchecked and the recent slowing down process with reaction in prices has not been surprising. The chief interest now centers on the probable course of events after the passing of the summer and there is a disposition in many quarters to await a clearer insight into the future. This attitude is reflected by the increased conservativism in the placing of advance orders as well as by the policy of avoiding burdensome accumulations of merchandise.

Weekly bank clearings $6,419,820,000.

Olston Writes Article for Fanciers After He Gets Letter

Dear Friend Olston:

I think your articles O. K. and know I am just one of the great number who think so. But why not give us game fanciers a good word? Enclosed I am giving you an idea of what I am doing with my bunch, the same you saw when you were here last. Since feeding my baby chicks the chicken chowder they are coming along nicely.

From my pen, headed by a bird that has four kills to his credit I have gotten 912 eggs since the first of the year. I have sold 40 settings of eggs, 15 to the setting, for from $3.50 to $6; 100 baby chicks, and 27 of my cocks for from $15 to $30 a bird.

My prize half jap and half roundhead has three kills to his credit.

Olston, if I was a betting man I wouldn't be afraid to bet my life on any of my prize stuff. I have the Kentucky Domes, the Red Quail, the Hammond-Gordons, the Jap and Roundhead, the Steel Drivers and the Danger Foot, and the Dempsey. I think the games the best chickens and believe me they know how to lay eggs. Long live your poultry department.

Sincerely,
E. F. SHOOP.
1517 7th Street, City.

The many readers will remember Mr. Shoop as the young gentleman who loaned me the Capan and the Chicks at the Fair show last year. He failed to mention about Capons in his letter but I know personally of four of his Capons bringing him from $10 to $15 apiece. I believe he is one of the first Capon raisers in the country. As there are so many different kinds of games I will only touch on those I have known from time to time. Pet games are the fighting games. Today we have the Earl Derby, the black breasted reds.

Derby Strain.

Writing in 1856 L. A. Meal and F. R. Homer stated the Earl Derby as follows:

Black breasted reds, the purest and truest breed are those known as the Derby strain, having been extensively raised by the late Earl at Knowsley, where they have been kept upwards of a century, the greatest care having been taken during that time to prevent the slightest deterioration in stock, for which purpose they have at occasional periods crossed with Lord Seftons and other fanciers birds.

The same authorities give the markings of the pure breed Derbys to be white barred shanks of the legs and claws with a striped bill.

The Rev. Mr. Dixon, M. D., in his Ornamentals of Domestic Poultry," says:

"The famous breed of fowls belonging to the Earl of Derby are black breasted reds and do not differ from the kind except in being of a select family."

Thomas Roscoe, for a long time game keeper of the Earl of Derby, says, "The legs are long and white in both insteps; claws strong; nail long and white." Of the hen he says, "White legs, toes and nails."

The final analysis, as the English standards of perfection give it is they are nothing but black breated reds.

The male, head plumage light; eyes red; comb and face red; hackle, light golden; plumage in front of handle, black; bows, red; coverts, lustrous black; back, bright red; saddle, light golden; tail, black, sickel feathers and tail coverts black.

The female: Head and plumage, golden; eyes, comb, wattles, ear lobes and face, red; neck, golden; feathers in front of the neck, redish salmon; wings and shoulders, grayish brown; breast, light salmon.

The Derbys are a standard variety in England and have been bred at Knowsley, the seat of the Earl family for over 200 years, always with the same characteristics, so that they can be truly termed a breed of fowl, and not a strain. The color is prevalent in many of our various strains of game fowl today and have played a very important part in the development of the leading game fowl of America.

We are glad to receive letters from any of the poultry raisers but as space is limited I cannot go into details of all birds, but shall do the best I can. Call again, Shoop. Thanks.

GOREE PLANS RODEO ON 4TH

Arrangements Being Made To Feed 12,000 At Picnic

Goree business men are making elaborate preparations for their picnic and rodeo, to be held the third and fourth of July. The chamber of commerce, together with 12 committees, has been laying plans and making contracts for over 60 days and are determined that this shall be one of the most interesting and entertaining celebrations ever held in West Texas. Goree has one of the oldest and most uniform bands in this part of the state consisting of 32 members, who will make a three days' trade excursion a few days before the picnic and who will also give open air concerts throughout the two days' celebration.

The program committee has met with great success in getting various means of amusement for that time and have practically already arranged for the program in full. The picnic will be held in the midst of the city and the citizens have pledged themselves to see that everything in staged to a perfection.

Outside the ordinary run of picnics, Goree will stage a mammoth parade and freak Ford show on the third and are planning to feed 12,000 people on the fourth. The same ball team which attracted so much attention under Buzz Wetzel, former Spudder, two years ago will be present to a man and will play two of the strongest teams in West Texas.

The knights of the klu klux klan will hold a parade on the main streets of Goree on the night of July 4.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS.
To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita county; greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Edgar Combs by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the Eighty-ninth district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in July A. D. 1923, the same being the 2nd day of July, A. D. 1923. Then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 7th day of June A. D. 1923, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 14,452-C wherein Maude Combs is plaintiff and Edgar Combs is defendant and said petition alleging, that plaintiff and defendant were lawfully married in the month of July, 1918 and lived with him, until on or about the month of July, 1921. That defendant for more than a year prior to their separation commenced a course of unkind, harsh and tyrannical treatment toward her that forced her to leave him, since which time she has not returned. That defendant would curse and abuse her, call her all kind of vile names, that he would strike and choak her, all of which has rendered their further living together as husband and wife insupportable.

That there was one child born of their marriage, Nellie Fay Combs, now 3 years of age.

Wherefore plaintiff prays that defendant be cited to appear and answer herein, and that upon final hearing hereof she have judgment dissolving the bonds of matrimony, and that she be awarded the care and custody of her child, for costs of suit and for such other and further relief, that she may be entitled to.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 8th day of June, A. D. 1923.
A. F. KERR, Clerk.
District Court, Wichita County, Texas
By EUNICE JACKSON, Deputy.

THE RADIATOR HOSE

The radiator hose, apparently so insignificant, nevertheless forms one of the most important items in the piping of the cooling system. Due to the vibrations between the motor and the radiator, any attempt to connect these parts with permanent metallic connections would be doomed to failure. As such connections would be fractured in a short time, a bit of rubber hose—sometimes but a few inches long—comes to the rescue and performs an important work in an efficient manner. The hose should therefore be always given the consideration which is due and should receive a careful inspection each time the car is gone over. Though only the best of hose is used by the manufacturers, even this is subject to depreciation. A certain amount of oil and grease (usually from the grease cups on the water pump) will find its way into the cooling system and as oil and grease are rubber's deadliest enemies, a rotting away of the hose is the result. When an anti-freezing solution containing glycerine is used, this rotting away process is hastened. Sometimes a strip of the interior lining becomes detached and by obstructing the bore of the hose, so restricts the water circulation as to cause the motor to overheat. Whenever there is an unaccountable overheating, look to these connections. And as they are comparatively inexpensive and can be purchased of the proper sizes and lengths for all the popular cars, the repair can be made at but a slight expense and a minimum of labor.—Automobile Digest.

ROAD ACTION TAKEN HERE

Committee Named After Huff and Sartin Debates Measures

A decided difference of opinion on the proposed amendment to state road laws developed at the chamber of commerce business council luncheon Friday noon when Judge R. E. Huff and County Judge B. D. Sartin debated merits and demerits, respectively, of the impending issue. Practically all of the vital points of the matter were covered one way or another in the discussion.

The amendment was first brought up by Judge Huff who told the council members that in his opinion the only way to ever secure a comprehensive system of improved roads within the state was to vest the state highway commission with complete construction and maintenance power over the highways. He pointed out that practically all of the states, notably California, who now have enviable road systems had adopted this plan of giving the highway commission control of the building and maintenance programs.

Judge Huff declared that experiences of the past showed that many counties of the state could not, or would not, start highway construction programs of their own and that it helped but little if, after leaving the confines of one county, a motorists was compelled to plough through one mud hole after another in order to reach a destination.

On the question of federal aid, Judge Huff warned that the government had threatened to deprive this state of federal aid in building roads if action of some kind were not taken insuring a more comprehensive system of roads. He stated that in view of this it would be advisable to grant the highway commission power to lay out, construct and maintain roadways of the state.

Taxation Outlined.

The financing end of the business was dealt with in some detail by the speaker. He showed that the roads would be constructed and maintained by taxation on automobiles and gasoline and that the voting of bond issues and their retirement would be done away with.

In presenting the opposite side of the question, County Judge B. D. Sartin stressed particularly the fact that if the proposed amendment goes through, Wichita county may be forced for years to come to build roads through East Texas and in other isolated points from which no advantage would ever accrue to this territory. The speaker mentioned frequently the manner in which "East Texas ruled the legislature" and said that the new system of road control would give East Texas all the right to say where and when improved roads should be constructed.

The judge was of the opinion that if the amendment is carried, the first road to be constructed would be a continuous highway from Fort Worth to Dallas, thence to Waco, Austin, San Antonio, Houston and Galveston.

"After that," he said, "if we have a strong enough pull we may be able to get a road up from Fort Worth through Wichita Falls and on toward the Panhandle line."

Judge Sartin depreciated the loss of federal aid and said that with many counties in the state already building road systems of their own there was little likelihood of the federal government withdrawing its support.

At the conclusion of these two talks, a committee composed of Luther Hoffman, W. S. Langford and W. N. Mace was appointed to go thoroughly into the proposition and to report back with recommendations two weeks from Friday. Several members of the council spoke one way or the other on the matter.

Carrigan Back From Board of Legal Examiners

Judge A. H. Carrigan returned Friday afternoon from Austin, where he has been the last four days on the board of legal examiners of which he is one of the five members.

Judge Carrigan states 112 embryonic barristers appeared before the board and took examinations for admittance to the bar in Texas. The papers have not yet been graded and it is not known how many of the applicants will receive their licenses.

Two other members of the board sat with Judge Carrigan at this meeting being Judges Crane of Dallas and Will Barber of San Marcos. Bar examinations are held three times each year, in January, June and October, Judge Carrigan states.

Smoke In City National Building Draws Crowd

Flying sparks and considerable smoke in the elevator machinery room on top of the City National Bank building created considerable excitement late Friday afternoon. The fire department was called out, but what little fire existed was put out by hand extinguishers before the firemen arrived.

What caused the trouble had not been learned last night but it was stated by the building managers that little or no damage had been done.

SPECIAL KLAN TRAIN GOING TO MUNDAY

If enough reservations are made, a special klan train will leave Wichita Falls afternoon over the Wichita Valley for the big klan celebration to be held in Munday June 19.

If the train is made up by Tuesday it will probably carry several hundred members of the klan from this city and the surrounding districts, and will be run entirely by a Klan crew, with every one in full regalia.

The only stop that will be made is at Seymour. Another special will go from Abilene to Munday.

COUNCIL MEETING OFF

The council meeting scheduled for Friday afternoon was called off yesterday when it was found that a quorum could not be obtained for the session. A meeting will be held today at which time discussion of the new water ordinance will be had. It is probable that the ordinance will be passed.

Other matters are also scheduled to come up for attention.

Newspaper offices receive all sorts and conditions of callers, but two individuals never were more welcome in The Record News office yesterday than Mrs. Aida Heacock and her little 8-year-old blue-eyed Pollyanna. Mrs. Heacock has been writing articles for the Sunday Record News for several weeks, but none of the staff had ever had the pleasure of meeting her. She met the sporting editor, the oil editor, society editor, movie expert and the reporters and she and little Pollyanna were warmly greeted by all. Mrs. Heacock has another interesting article in the Sunday Record News.

There's an old adage that a "big town" newspaper man cannot "make good" in a smaller place. A. W. Cline, formerly news editor and later oil editor of The Record News, has smashed this belief after a few weeks' management and editorship of the Dowie Blade. Cline's paper right now is ranked at the head of the list of leading Texas weekly newspapers. It is to be classed with Ralph Shuffler's Olney Enterprise, Harry Koch's Quanah Tribune, the Vernon Record, the Electra Star and the Electra News and the Burkburnett Star. All these are good newspapers. Cline says the secret of success is hard work.

NO VERDICT IN BURNETT CASE

Jurors Excused After Being Out Hour In $50,000 Suit

No verdict was reached Friday afternoon by the jury in the Mattie Cobb vs. Tom L. Burnett damage suit.

The jurors, after listening to a long period of argument by opposing counsel, retired to its room at 4:30, but at 5 o'clock no verdict was in sight and the men were excused for the day by Judge Martin. They will return this morning to resume deliberations.

Friday's proceedings in the case consisted mainly of argument by attorneys of opposing sides, the only legal maneuvering being submission of a motion asking for an instructed verdict for the defendant. This was submitted by counsel for Tom L. Burnett and was overruled by the court. Argument started immediately after and was not concluded until late in the afternoon.

In asking for a peremptory verdict for the defendant, W. P. Scott, defense counsel, argued that the defendant in the case, Tom Burnett, should not be held accountable for alleged wrongdoings of his wife and that he, in fact, was the last man on earth to learn of misconduct by his wife.

It was charged in the pleadings of Mrs. Mattie Cobb that Lucille Mulhall Burnett, former wife of the defendant, had alienated the affections of the plaintiff's husband, Jack Cobb, and that she had been damaged to the extent of $50,000.

Man Walks Wire Across Eighth Street to Advertise Chewing Wax

Two thousand people had that empty feeling of fear and fascination when one of the human specie takes a chance with destiny and the possibility of issuing a last challenge to the eternal verities, last night when Edward LeRoy did his American legion benefit tight wire stunt at Eighth and Indiana.

LeRoy cavorted across the wire which was stretched from the roof of the First National bank building to the fifth floor of the Staley building, with as much abandon as he would have had walking his mother's clothes line in the back yard. A hundred feet of space meant nothing in his young life. He used a long 20-pound pipe to balance himself with. Faking as if he were falling, dancing a jig and a few other slightly dangerous acts gave the crowd what they expected after waiting an hour and a half—a thrill.

LeRoy is advertising a popular chewing gum. About $100 was collected from the crowd. Tonight LeRoy has promised to sit on a chair—maybe he'll read a newspaper and smoke a pipe, atop the wire 100 feet from terra firma.

Business Council Supports Fight On Gas Bonus

Support of another organization was given the city council Friday in its fight against a 50 cent "ready to serve charge" of the Municipal Gas company when the chamber of commerce business council voted to back up the commissioners in their action. The vote was taken after the city's side of the case had been presented by Burton Stayton, public utilities commissioner.

The measure was not passed without opposition, however. It was suggested after Mr. Stayton's talk that the gas company was "only human" and that the council would do well to go slow in any action it might take.

Bankruptcy Petition Filed By Merchant

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed before U. S. Commissioner Lantz Friday by William Shaw Miller, furniture dealer and undertaker of Burkburnett. Assets were listed at $29,050 and liabilities $10,809.

Exemptions totalling $8,000 are listed.

COUNTY AFTER UNPAID FINES

Bond Collections To Be Made In Campaign, Attorney Says

Vigorous warfare on county court culprits who owe and have not paid fines or settled for forfeited bonds was declared Friday by the county attorney's office. It was announced that a campaign was to be launched immediately against those in arrears and that cases dating back for the past six months would be finished up.

There are a large number of cases on the dockets, officials said, in which fines have been assessed and not collected. In many other instances, defendants who have been fined by the court have filed appeal bonds and gained their freedom while appeal proceedings were started but that these have never been perfected. Bonds in these cases will be forfeited and collection ordered.

Other bonds to receive attention are those posted for the appearance of defendants who failed to show up when their cases were called for trial.
