BIGGEST WHIZ IN SHRINEDOM MASKAT GUEST

Imperial Potentate Comes To Wichita Falls For Ceremonial

PARADE, ET CETERA

James E. Chandler, Kansas City, Faces Busy Hours Here Friday

THE PARADE ROUTE
Starts at 4 p. m.

Forms on Scott south of Tenth; east on Tenth to Ohio; north on Ohio to Eighth; west on Eighth to Indiana; south on Indiana to Ninth; west on Ninth to Scott; north on east side of Scott to Seventh; doubles back south on west side of Scott to Tenth.

The red fez of Shrinedom is to be a crown of distinction in Wichita Falls tonight.

Plans were announced as complete yesterday for the entertainment of Imperial Potentate James E. Chandler and numerous other officers of the imperial line, who are to join with hundreds of north Texas nobles in observance of Maskat Temple's annual fall ceremonial. The arrival in this city this afternoon of Mr. Chandler and a dozen or more other high Shrine dignitaries will launch the festivities that will have their culmination late in the evening with the induction of a large class of novices. To put it plainly, the novices are to travel the blistering sands and get their first insight into the mysteries of the Ancient and Arabic Order of the Noble Mystic Shrine. And that insight, it is promised, will be accompanied by experiences of a highly illuminating nature.

Here At 2.45

The official program of the day begins at 2:45 this afternoon when the imperial potentate and his party arrive over the Fort Worth and Denver railway. The party comes down from Amarillo, traveling in the private car of S. A. Covington, general superintendent of the Denver, and will be met at the station by the various uniformed bodies of the local temple.

The imperial party, the temple represented by each member, the city from which each comes and the title each holds, will include the following:

James E. Chandler, Ararat temple, imperial potentate, Kansas City, Mo. Mrs. Chandler accompanies her husband.

David W. Crossland, Alcazar temple, Imperial chief rabbin, Montgomery, Ala.

Earl C. Mills, Zi-Ga-Zig temple, imperial marshal, Des Moines, Ia. Mrs. Mills accompanies her husband.

Carl F. Pray, Zi-Ga-Zig temple, past potentate, Des Moines, Ia.

W. S. Ellis, Hella temple, past potentate, Dallas. Mrs. Ellis accompanies her husband.

V. F. Frizzell, El Zaribah temple, past potentate, Tucson, Ariz.

Frank Jones, Arabia temple, imperial high priest and prophet, Houston.

Nathan K. Tracey, Alzafar temple, past potentate, San Antonio.

Steve Cooke, Mosiah temple, past potentate, Fort Worth.

Jake Zurn, Mosiah temple, past potentate, Fort Worth.

H. T. Pangburn, Mosiah temple, past potentate, Fort Worth.

Farve Thompson, Khiva temple, potentate, Amarillo.

Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland American league baseball team, and who is a noble of Hella Temple, Dallas, will also be in the city for the ceremonial. The Fort Worth men named above will come up earlier in the afternoon and be here to welcome the imperial potentate. They will be met themselves by the band, patrol and nobles of Maskat Temple.

A Treat For City.

While the day's activities will be primarily designed for the nobles and novices, the city at large is in for a treat when the main parade starts at 4 o'clock. Mr. Chandler will be escorted from the station to the Kemp hotel by Potentate L. G. Hawkins of Maskat, the band, patrol, members of the Divan and nobles. This will be merely incidental, however, to the main parade which comes later.

The line up will be as follows: City motorcycle officers, Chief of Police George Hodgins, police squad, Parade Marshal Lester Boardman, the colors, Maskat Temple band, Maskat patrol, the imperial party in automobiles, squad of nobles (Fred Kingery, captain), chanters in automobiles, squad of nobles (P. A. Rogers, captain), drummers, squad of nobles (W. A. Alderson, captain), drummers, squad of nobles (L. J. Bennett, captain), drummers, novices (Geo. Merkle, captain).

Review It From Scott.

The reviewing stand from which the imperial party will make its inspection will be erected on Scott in front of the Kemp hotel. After the parade, the center of activities will shift to Call Field where the novices are to perform, the banquet held and other plans worked out. Chief Hodgins has promised that Scott street will be kept clear of all traffic during the progress of the parade and that it will be given over entirely to the use of the Masons. This detail, as well as others have been worked out by the parade committee which includes the following: Lester Boardman, chairman; George Merkle, I. H. Bennett, Van Leslie, W. A. Alderson, Chas. Rountree, Sam Ashmore, Len Smith, I. H. Roberts, Frank Creighton and Fred Kingery.

Dire vengence will be wracked on nobles who fail to wear their fez all day today and who bide out when the parade is in progress. The city jail has been leased and a strong-arm squad of rough-neck Shriners sworn in to railroad offenders behind the bars. A substantial fine will be plastered on also.

Imperial Potentate Chandler and his party will probably leave late in the evening for Fort Worth where they will be guests of Mosiah Temple.

German Ace, Twice Wounded By Same U. S. Family, Takes Cupid's Ultimatum

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 20.—Two air pilots, a German and an American, fought a thrilling duel in the air over Dijon, France, during the world war. The German was captured after being wounded by the gun fire from the American's plane.

The German, Baron Hans Von Ringhausen, came here today to marry Mrs. Bertha M. Wendell, sister of the American, Charles E. Cummings, former air pilot of the foreign legion. Mrs. Wendell nursed the baron back to health when she was a Red Cross nurse in the American prison camp.

The baron and Mrs. Wendell will be married tonight and will make their home in Omaha, he having disposed of his holdings in Germany.

A Chorus of "Noes."

The resolution was enthusiastically adopted.

Plan Irrigation Week.

December 7-14 was agreed upon as "irrigation week" and a concerted effort will be made to sell the home people on the importance and possibilities of the irrigation project. The co-operation of the newspapers, schools, motion picture houses, luncheon clubs and other agencies will be sought.

It was pointed out that a great many people in Wichita Falls, who are not informed on the subject do not realize the wonderful future the irrigation project opens to this section and that some are not only indifferent but are actively opposed to the whole proposition.

Those who have informed themselves on the subject or who have visited the farms here that are under irrigation are thoroughly converted it was stated, but it is hoped that through this intensive campaign many others will be brought to a realization of the value of the proposition.

Alphonso Fears Ibanez' Unmasking; Takes Steps To Block Publication

LONDON, Nov. 20.—American publishers, as well as British, will be restrained from publication of "Alphonso Unmasked," Blasco Ibanez' attack on the Spanish king, if the Spanish government has its way.

It seemed probable today the British government would heed Spain's request. It is possible the United States will be asked to take similar action.

The Spanish secret service has been active since Ibanez announced in Paris yesterday he was ready to promise distribution of 2,000,000 copies of the book, which he said would reveal King Alphonso as a traitor to the allies during the war responsible for the debacle in Morocco an associate of gambling house keepers and a shadow on the fair name of Spain."

He said Alphonso was a true nephew of the man who betrayed Napoleon.

If other methods failed, the novelist said he would drop copies from airplanes.

Ibanez had declared the time is overdue for Spain to seek a republican form of government.

ATWELL RULES SALE OF 'JAKE' NOW ILLEGAL

Federal Judge Makes Important Decision In Case On Trial Here

2 DEFENDANTS GUILTY

Mrs. R. F. Green and W. E. Simpson of Electra Convicted and Fined

A ruling which, officials believe, will have a far-reaching effect on the sale of jamaica ginger by drug stores was brought to light yesterday by Judge William H. Atwell in federal court here when he held that preparations such as have been dispensed in this county are alcoholic beverages and hence come under the limitations of the prohibition acts. In a correlated decision, Judge Atwell held that druggists who sell the ginger which he holds is an intoxicating beverage, do so at their peril despite their impression that the preparations are of a nature which the law sanctions for sale.

In Green Case.

Both rulings were given in the charge to the jury in the cases of the United States vs. Mrs. R. F. Green and W. E. Simpson, both of Electra, who were charged with possession and sale of the "jake." Both defendants were subsequently found guilty and fines of $100 and $50, respectively, assessed. Mrs. Green is the operator of an Electra drug store in which a large quantity of ginger was seized several months ago. Simpson is a clerk in her employe.

The essence of the whole matter lies in the ginger content of the preparations which have been sold here as "double strength" jamaica ginger. Prohibition officials have pointed out that thousands of ounces of this have been dispensed in Wichita county, and under laws effective prior to May 24 of this year such sales were legal. "Jake" of only one strength was recognized before that time by the U. S. pharmapoeia, but a differentiation has now been made to meet the exigencies of the prohibition laws.

Formerly a Medicine.

The law formerly provided that jamaica ginger was a medicine, but it now holds that a preparation of "single strength" or any other potency other than "double strength" is an alcoholic beverage. This is true pro-

General Price Level Average For All Time Breaks Record When Cheap Rails Take the Lead

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(AP)—Breaking all records for the volume of business transacted in the post-election boom, the stock market today swept upward to new high levels under the leadership of the lower priced railroad shares. Sales on the New York stock exchange totaled 2,594,300 shares, the heaviest day's trading since December 21, 1916, when the frenzied trading which followed the "leak" of President Wilson's peace note sent sales above the 3,000,000 share mark.

The avalanche of buying orders for the speculative rail issues which poured into the stock market was instrumental in carrying the general price average to a record for all time. Sixty three individual high records were established during the day's trading, in which 550 issues were dealt in, as compared with yesterday's high of 574.

A series of optimistic predictions by railroad executives regarding 1924 earnings, reports of progress in several pending mergers and of the successful conclusion of refunding plans by some of the roads contributed to the extra ordinary demand for the carrier shares.

BAYLOR IS OK'D BY BAPTISTS IN GENERAL MEET

Attacks Upon School By Pastors and Laymen "False"

OPPOSITION LOSES

Attempt to Start Trouble For Pres. Brooks Squelched

DALLAS, Nov. 20.—(AP.)—The report of the board of trustees of Baylor university at Waco, maintained by the Baptist general convention of Texas, in which attacks upon the school during the past year by preachers and laymen were characterized as "false" and "diabolical" was adopted by an overwhelming vote at this afternoon's session of the convention here.

Pastor Loses.

The vote was taken after an effort was made by the Rev. Jessie Yelvington, pastor of Smithville Baptist church, to present documentary evidence that the charges which allege that evolution is taught in the university were not false. The chief defender of the report which was read by Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of the school, was Governor Pat M. Neff, chairman of the board of trustees, who declared he would be "willing to allow that faculty to teach my boy with Ingersoll lectures as their course."

Rev. Mr. Yelvington after obtaining the floor upon a point of personal privilege, began to review a similar fight upon the university made at the convention of 1922 in which he had preferred charges against one member of the faculty. He yielded the floor, however, when Moderator O. S. Littlemore sustained a point of order that the report was referring only to occurrences since the 1923 convention. Rev. Yelvington asked for, and received permission from Mr. Neff to present his information to the board of trustees.

Ovation for Brooks.

When Dr. Brooks came to the rostrum, he was given a rising ovation.

Dormitory facilities at the university are inadequate, but the greatest need is endowment to retire building obligations and to pay current expenses, he said.

After describing the attacks upon the university and scouting the accusation that some of the faculty members are teaching doctrines inimical to Christianity, he read a statement signed by each member of the faculty in which they reaffirmed their faith in the fundamental principles of religion as stated in the book of Genesis as opposed to the modernistic theory of evolution. He declared that the statement was unsolicited, but voluntarily signed by each member of the faculty and sent to the board of trustees.

Skeleton of 12 Year Old Child Found In a Bundle Of Papers Offers Mystery

LANCASTER, Ohio, Nov. 20.—Police here tonight were baffled over the finding of part of the skeleton of a child in a bale of waste paper by a workman at the plant of the United States Gypsum Co., early today and could offer no definite explanation for the source of its mysterious appearance.

He disclaimed any knowledge of the skeleton and expressed a belief that the bale containing the skeleton had been shipped from another point to him and he in turn transferred it to the Lancaster Company.

McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets Helps You Gain Strength and Put on Needed Weight—Great

Nothing like the vitamines in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But nobody wants to take the ill-smelling, horrible tasting stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely does do the work.

Ask Smith Drug Co., Tipton's Drug Co., or any regular druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. They are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Skinny men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy flesh and for this purpose they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on five pounds or over in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on five pounds in 30 days.

Great for weak, run-down children, too, and ives them a hearty appetite —60 tablets, 60 cents.

National Petroleum Marketers Defer Action On Marginal Contract Question

Fail to Take Action After 3-Day Meeting

Proposition of Oil Exchange Left to Board for Further Study

CASINGHEAD GAS

Nicholas Proposition Fails To Obtain Full Support Of Association

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 20.—The National Petroleum Marketers' association closed its three-day convention today after deferring action on two important questions designed to protect sellers of gasoline against results of chaotic conditions brought about in the industry by over production of petroleum in recent years.

The first question, "what is a fair marginal contract?" briefly touched upon at Tuesday's opening session, was an open forum discussion at this morning's session, adjournment being taken at noon without decision.

L. V. Nicholas, Chicago, president of the association, opened the morning meeting with his proposal for a new form of marginal contract between jobbers of gasoline and refiners.

The new contract was drawn with a view of eliminating the advantage which smaller retailers, buying in the open gasoline market, have enjoyed in recent months over marketers whose gasoline requirements had been contracted at fixed prices with refiners.

The proposed contract "breaks away from the standard oil price structure as a basis for figuring margins" and "suggests a form of contract that automatically reduces the price to the consumer whenever the spot market reacts to an over supply."

John M. Carson of Chicago, representing a large refinery and an associate member of the organization, opposed the proposed contract at the morning session.

President Nicholas brought the subject up again at the afternoon session but no action was taken.

The other question undecided was "Are we ready for an oil exchange?" The proposal "to form an open crude market similar to the stock exchange or wheat pit, where pipe line credit balances and all other petroleum products can be bought and sold openly" was left to the association's directors for further study.

D. E. Buchanan of Tulsa, Okla., declared that natural gasoline, a product derived from natural gas, is now past the experimental stage of the industry and is now in "quantity production."

"Natural gasoline," he said, "is to motor fuel what gin is to the gin rickey. It is the monkey gland of petroleum."

"The public is slowly but surely coming to realization," he said, "that due to the cracking processes and other methods, to which refiners have had to resort to meet ever-increasing demands, it is absolutely necessary that gasoline contain the proper percentage of natural gasoline, if it is to have quick starting and uniform acceleration, especially in cold weather."

The board of directors recommended a nationalized name for motor oil and a nationalized name for gasoline and it was decided to immediately start functioning along that line.

The well, while late yesterday afternoon it had not started flowing, was filling up rapidly and showing lots of gas. "The tank is so constructed that from one inch to three inches vacuum is maintained. Vacuums regulator is also shown. We have seven of these tanks in operation, from which we conserve 200,000 cubic feet of gas daily, not conserved previously, whic h is taken to our Electra gaboline plant.

"This tank and others of like construction pay us good dividends. On the present price of gasoline and residue gas sales, we figure that each three or four months these tanks have earned their investment. Also, they greatly reduce fire hazard on our producing properties."

Coyote Pups All Set for Devol Invasion at Spud Park This Afternoon

IT MAY BE BULLDOGS' TURN TO WITHER AND HAVE OFF DAY WHEN HARVARD ENTERS BOWL SATURDAY

At Any Rate, Possibility Is Sure to Worry Yale—Crimson May Surprise a Few Folks

By BURTON WHITMAN

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Yale ought to be better than a 2 to 1 favorite over Harvard, if comparative scores in their Princeton games mean anything. The Tigers beat up Harvard, 34 to 0, and then Yale slams the Tiger, 10 to 0. Yet, for all this, you will have great difficulty finding Eli money at the above 2 to 1 ratio. And there are good reasons for this indication of New Haven indecision.

This has been an astonishing year for upsets. We already have seen an almost perfect Princeton team of one Saturday become impotent against Yale the next Saturday. Now it may be Yale's turn to take a flop and fall from grace. You may hear Yale men say "Nonsense!" But Jones and company have something to think about.

SURE TO PROVE A WORRY TO BULLDOG

Princeton took a tragic slump. You may admit that Harvard is very poor this year, that Yale is most mighty, and yet, in all fairness, you must acknowledge that the Tiger was not the same splendid animal against Harvard and then against Yale. Yale has this example before it. You may be certain it worries the blue outfit more than a little.

Yale's reaction may not be so acute as was Princeton's, because the Bulldog never reached the sublime heights that the Tiger attained against Harvard. The morning after depends a lot on the degree of license the night before.

And in football it seems to be the rule that the Saturday after depends much on the degree of intoxicating exultation of the Saturday before.

PSYCHOLOGY OF GAME APPEALS TO COACHES

The psychological angles are the ones which appeal mightily to the coaches. You may be sure. Your hard headed casual football fan may grin at the strongly stressed psychology of the game, but the coach, the player and the analytical fan realize how tremendous an influence on the big teams at this stage of the season these psychic angles are.

It seems hardly possible that Yale's keen defensive line and adamantine—a flossy adjective—ends will fall off much against Harvard. The blue attack never reached the point where it rode rough shod over the Tiger, but was going particularly strong at the end.

Yale has come along very rapidly in the last 10 days. There is the chance that Harvard will do something similar this week. A Brown victory over Harvard does not mean that Harvard was so bad. The Bears are good in their own right and could have beaten Yale with a little luck.

Situation Chock Full Of Interest.

It is a beautiful situation in any event, one full of interest and promise. Of course the stars and everything else point to an Eli win, but every "hunch player" I know is beginning to talk Harvard.

Do not forget, too, that Harvard most certainly will have the advantage of being the under-dog.

"Reverse strategy" is just what it implies, trying the play opposite to the one expected under normal conditions. Dartmouth beat Cornell by the use of "reverse strategy" and Yale used it effectively against Princeton. Just when Yale's running attack was going most smoothly then was the time Yale pulled a good forward pass and it went well.

Yale Drop Kick Dope Hard to Figure.

One finds it difficult to understand why Yale made three drop kick efforts on early downs, in the fourth period, leading Princeton 10 to 0. It would have been better to play the running game.

But these orders for drop kicks were issued by Yale's soph quarterback find, Phil Bunnell. He did so well in all other ways and promises to be such a great asset to the blue, that you find it easy to condone this lack of conservation when his team had an apparently safe lead.

Game Fails As A Spectacle.

As a spectacle the Yale-Princeton game was a dismal failure, not to be mentioned in the same story with the Yale-Dartmouth or the Harvard-Princeton episodes. But as a demonstration of power, Yale's work Saturday was an eyeful.

Yale, by the way, will renew Jones' contract as head coach at a good increase. He is in more solidly than ever. He has built up a new tradition, namely that Yale can not and will not be beaten in the bowl.

Jones was openly disgusted with his varsity team after the 7-7 West Point game. Tad went as quarterback one afternoon and handled the varsity so effectively it scored nine touchdowns against the sitong second team. Tad hardly is over his lameness yet, but his object lesson seemed to be just the spark needed.

Jolson Does Stuff for Elis Before Game.

Dartmouth and Princeton may have their tea, their rest periods and their measured calories, but just before the game in the Jungle Saturday, Al Jolson just now between shows as they say in the profesh, gave the Eli varsity a friendly, funny talk, sang his Pennsylvania song to them and sent them into the game in an unusually good-natured frame of mind. Alas for the Strongheart tradition which demanded a weeping eleven to start the game.

Yet this Al Jolson episode may be particularly significant. It may mean Yale is holding back its blood and thunder exhortion of its varsity until the Harvard game. The conservation of the ability to rouse the Yale team to an inspired pitch seems to be part and parcel of the Tad Jones policy. He does not want to be so prodigal emergency would meet only with a mental shrug and no reaction from a hardened animal.

Harvard and Yale Forces All Set For Annual Classic With Eli Ruled 5 To 3 Favorite

By FORD C. FRICKE
I. N. S. Special Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Harvard seems to have a perennial jinx on Yale and almost anything can happen in football.

Both of these things are recognized facts in the best football circles. But they haven't kept the youthful sons of old Eli from making the blue a 5 to 3 favorite over the crimson for Saturday's contest.

That's what the odds here are today and there isn't a lot of Harvard money in circulation, either. For the first time in several years, the Cambridge institution seems to be taking defeat for granted, although it is convinced that the Crimson will make a battle of it from start to finish.

Peculiar breaks have brought unexpected victory to Harvard in past seasons. Most present day fans will remember the game a few years ago when Charlie Buell carried Harvard to victory simply because a Yale left tackle failed to go down on a punt. And there's that other time when a Yale punt bounded off a Harvard man's shins squarely into George Owen's arms and George immediately romped through to the Yale 5-yard line and put the Crimson in scoring position.

No later than last year, Yale was doped to win by four to five touchdowns. But Yale didn't. Rain, sleet and mud all combined to aid a Harvard team that suddenly found itself and Yale managed to pull out a victory by a margin of only 13 points.

Enthusiastic undergraduates, taking cognizance of these facts, speak with conviction of the "Harvard jinx." And even old grads, who should be well past the superstitutious age, shake their heads doubtfully as they recall their stories.

But Yale is a 5 to 3 favorite for Saturday. You can't get away from that. And by all the laws of football, the Blue should win handily.

TEAM IN GOOD CONDITION WITH EXCEPTION OF INJURED CAPTAIN

Play Scheduled for Twilight Field Instead of Inside—Second to Last Tilt of 1924 Season

All set for the invasion of Devol high gridsters this afternoon down by Spudder park was the word passed along last night by Coach Montgomery, Junior High school grid mentor.

The Coyote Pups dashed through a light workout Thursday afternoon, and each athlete appears to be in fine shape for the game. The contest is scheduled to begin promptly at 3:30 o'clock, according to Coach Monty, and play, instead of being held in Spudder park, will be over on the Twilight league field just to the left. This was decided following the recent rain which caused the Spudder ground to become soggy. The baseball management is attempting to keep the outfield and diamond in good shape during the winter and to grow as much grass as possible on the playing field. For two football elevens to battle up and down the field when it is wet would cause quite a bit of damage to the grounds.

The Wichita Falls team is all to the o. k. with exception of Captain Francis, who will be kept out of the affray with a badly sprained ankle. Francis' services in the backfield will be missed, but the rest of the squad is determined to fight all the harder by way of making up for this deficiency caused in their playing strength.

The tilt today with Devol will put the Juniors on the home stretch toward winding up the season. The final contest of the year is billed with the Iowa Park eleven at Iowa Park Thanksgiving day. No let-up in training will be allowed after the game with Devol, but stringent practice will again be in order Monday of next week. The squad possibly will rest tomorrow and attend the Coyote-Electra contest here.

STECHER DOWNS JAP.

TULSA, Okla., Nov. 20.—Joe Stecher, former world's heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated Taro Miyake, Japanese jui jutsui champion, in a mixed match last night at convention hall. Miyake won the first fall with a strangle hold in 23 minutes, rendering his opponent unconscious. Stecher won the next two falls with his famous body scissors. Jim Browning of Wichita, threw Jack Savage, California, in a one fall affair with a flying head scissors.

Razorbacks Meet Oklahoma Aggies On Grid Saturday

Only Conference Game On This Week's Card Is Toss-Up

FAILETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 20.—The Razorbacks of the University of Arkansas and the Oklahoma Aggies meet Saturday in the only southwestern conference gridiron battle before Thanksgiving day. The two conference members from outside Texas have had peculiarly similar records this season.

Each has lost only one game. They began their conference seasons with trips to Texas and both took the only licking met with to date. Each has had one tie game. All the other contests have been victories. In eight contests, Arkansas has piled up 207 points to 49 by opponents. The Oklahoma Aggies in seven games have made 84 points to 37 by the opposition.

Porkers Edge in Scoring.

This apparently greater scoring ability of the Razorbacks is borne out by the results of engagements with Phillips university, their only common opponent. Arkansas won from Phillips 28 to 6, and the Aggies got a 18-to-0 decision. The latter club, however, seems to have a stronger line. Five of their opponents have failed to score, whereas the Razorbacks have shut out two teams.

Six of the Aggie linemen are veterans, so naturally they have the edge on the Arkansans in experience as the Razorbacks will start but three letter men in the forward positions. In weight the lines are about evenly matched.

Strong Backfields.

Both clubs can use a backfield made up entirely of veterans. Their offensive play is not greatly different. The forward passing attack is sure to get a trial by both teams. In past games they have found the aerial attack rather unsafe. A noticeable improvement has been made by Arkansas in the last three weeks with Fulbright in the Thursday line-up. Speedy and plunging backfield stars also furnish the teams with running and bucking drives that have accounted for most of their touchdowns during the season.

Aggies Will Be At Home

The greatest advantage to either contender and the only real one, as far as dope is concerned, is that which falls as a matter of course to the home team. At Stillwater this season, the Aggies have won every game, including a fracas with Oklahoma university.

Outside the conference Arkansas and the Aggies have had excellent success. Mississippi university and Louisiana State university, Southern conference members, fell before the Razorbacks while Oklahoma and Kansas universities lost to the Aggies.

FULTON SAYS HE'S GOAT.

Hearings Boxers in Alleged Fake Fight Due Wednesday.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—Hearings for Fred Fulton, Minnesota pugilist, Tony Fuente, Los Angeles boxer, and their managers, Jack Reddy and Fred Windsor, accused of being involved in a "fake" bout, were set today for next Wednesday.

District Attorney Asa Keyes has threatened to charge the four men with felony, but today they stand only accused of violating the state prize fight law. Keyes said investigation of charges that Fulton did a "flop" so Fuente could be declared the winner of the bout, were to continue. The accused quartet was at liberty on bail of $1,000 each.

James J. Jeffries, formerly heavyweight champion, Tommy Ryan, former champion, sports writers and others prominent in the boxing game have been summoned as witnesses when the men appear in court.

Fulton issued a statement today in which he declared he was being made the "goat."

BREAKS OF THE GAME

By BILL BRUCE

Coyote Pups meet Devol high this afternoon at 3:30.

Bud McCollum's Maroon and Black eleven takes on Electra here tomorrow.

R. O. Harvey, Spudder president, will depart Wichita Falls today for New York on business. While in Gotham he will attend the minor league baseball meeting the first week of December.

Buddy Tanner, skipper of the Spuds, intends to leave for the same section next week. Plans, of course, along with other matters coming up at the session are to trade or purchase one or two likely prospects for the Spudder roster of 1925.

Some impressions of the closing football season:

The victory of Minnesota over Illinois and its "Red" Grange proves that a team cannot safely be built around one man. Such building leaves the team vulnerable two ways. First of all the opposition can plan its entire defense to check that man—and the opposing team's main attack. Second, injury to that man forces a hurried rebuilding and consequent loss of power temporarily at least.

Another thought.

Form has a bigger bearing on the outcome of games than "paper strength" or individual prowess.

Minnesota had that form the day Iowa halted it. Costly fumbles alone prevented Minneapolis from winning. The Millers had that form again against Michigan. Penalties at critical moments robbed the team of chances to score.

Against Illinois Minnesota had the form. The fumbles and penalties were absent that day and the inevitable happened, despite "Red" Grange's presence or Illinois' much touted power.

Princeton had form when it rode rough shod over Harvard. Against Yale that form was missing. The Blue faced a "cold" eleven. The dash was missing.

Notre Dame had the form when it faced Nebraska. In 1922 the Cornhuskers had trounced the Rockne crew. Last year the Indianians went into the battle with the Nebraska Huskies with the feeling that they faced a jinx. They were off form. Their great backfield failed to function properly. Nebraska won again.

This year Layden, Miller, Stuhldreher and Crowley were at their best when the teams trotted onto the field in South Bend. Rockne had whipped them into such a frame of mind they could laugh off the jinx.

Nebraska played a losing game from the start.

And here's an idea blasted.

The "huddle" system of giving signals has drawn considerable discussion ever since the start of the football season. Princeton is one of the big eastern elevens given to this style. When the Tiger romped through the demoralized Harvard squad those who favor the huddle system pointed to the excellence of the Tiger attack as an indication of the worth of the system.

What happened to it in the game against Yale?

Yale did the huddling—huddled around the Princeton runners before they even got started with the ball. The Tiger field generals spent several minutes scheduling each play and Yale proceeded to break up said play in a few seconds.

There is no need for the system. Signals can be called openly without danger of the opposition "stealing" them.

* * *

Jack Kearns, busy manager of Jack Dempsey, is drawing the fire of eastern writers for his failure to warm up to a match with Harry Wills.

Personally I can't see Wills as a formidable opponent for the champ. Wills proved against Madden and Firpo that, while he is clever and husky, he is no match for the champion in punching power or courage.

Kearns is, however, taking the wrong tack in poo-hooing the match. He says Dempsey will fight Wills "if there is a public demand." But he does not assume that attitude regarding possible battles with Tom Gibbons whom Dempsey has defeated, and Jack Renault, who must still win his spurs.

There certainly cannot be much of a demand for a Gibbons-Dempsey bout. Most persons feel that had the first battle been staged under other conditions, Dempsey would have given Gibbons a sound beating.

As a matter of fact the public isn't demanding any heavyweight battles these days. Dempsey is still the class of the field and the ranks of aspirants do not contain a man who believes in his heart that he can lick the champion.

YALE IN CONDITION.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 20.—With the last practice scrimmage of the season behind it, Yale's varsity football squad today was being given its finishing touches in preparation for the Harvard game here Saturday. The varsity is in prime condition, with every man ready to start against Harvard.

Pampa Invades Vernon Saturday

VERNON, Texas, Nov. 20.—The Harvesters of Pampa, dusky champions of the North Plains and class B, will play the Vernon Lions here Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the fair grounds. The Pampa boys are said to be all round players and a better game is expected than the one of last Saturday, when Vernon won over the Amarillo Golden Sandstorm with a score of 14 to 0.

Bourland is still out of the running from a badly wrenched shoulder, result of Saturday's game, and Withers has not been able to play since he was so badly hurt at Wichita Falls. However he is in training and should the game with Pampa result in a Vernon victory, he will probably be in the lineup against Cisco.

STRIPLING RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF PANTHERS

FORT WORTH, Nov. 20.—W. K. Stripling was re-elected president of the Forth Worth Baseball club at the meeting of stockholders.

Other officers re-elected were Amon G. Carter, vice president; Dan Levy, treasurer; Paul Lagrave, secretary-business manager.

KEARNS OFFERED HALF MILLION FOR CHAMPION TO BOX HARRY WILLS

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Nov. 20.—(INS)—An offer of $475,000 for a bout between Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills has been made to Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, by a syndicate of West Chester county business men, it was announced today by George E. Doolan, local real estate operator. The syndicate plans to stage the bout in West Chester county or Connecticut on July 2, 1925, and build a $125,000 arena seating 100,000.

Doolan said today he had received no reply from Kearns.

"BEAT YALE" HARVARD CRY.

Crimson Will Have First Full Strength in Field.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 20.—"Beat Yale" is the cry of some 20,000 enthusiastic Harvard students who are eagerly awaiting the Harvard-Yale football classic in the Yale bowl on Saturday.

Coach Fisher today said he believed Saturday would see Harvard with its full varsity strength in the first quarter at least. A slight practice will be held this afternoon.

If Baylor Beats Rice Conference Should Follow Precedent of Last Year, Giving Bears Title—Stewart

By E. J. STEWART,
Athletic Coach University of Texas.

AUSTIN, Nov. 20.—Before the 1924 Southwestern conference race got under way, it was my prediction that Baylor, S. M. U. and the Texas Aggies would be bunched for the lead at the close with the Longhorns in fourth place.

The teams are standing in that order today with the exception of fourth place, where Coach Heisman's Rice Owls are roosting and cannot finish lower than fourth place in event Baylor defeats the Owls Thanksgiving day—a probability.

Owls and Frogs Surprises.

The 1924 season has been productive, developing a better balance than previously, with T. C. U. and Rice showing the greatest improvement over 1923. Both teams have proven the real surprise packages of the year in this section and showing conclusively that the balance of power in neither material nor coaching is monopolized by a few schools.

It is true that the Western conferences has its Yosts, Wilces, Zuppkes, Stagg and others, but for a well-balanced group of eight teams and coaches, I believe that the Southwestern conference has its strength more evenly distributed.

The award of the championship this season will not be particularly difficult in event Baylor beats Rice, as the principle adopted by the conference last year relative to tie game percentage will undoubtedly work to S. M. U.'s disadvantage.

Baylor has been tied once this season, while S. M. U. has three ties chalked up against her—and one of them is Baylor. The Waco entry is my choice against Rice and I believe that S. M. U. will take the Oklahoma Aggies into camp with ease, providing the field is dry.

Aggies Favored Over Steers.

As far as dope shows the Longhorns' game with the Texas Aggies here Thanksgiving day looks all A. & M. But, if the Longhorns recover from the injury epidemic, which has kept six Longhorn regulars out of the line-up, the Turkey day battle will be much closer than many think.

Coach Bible has a fine and powerful team and we respect it, but the annual battle between the Aggies and Texas has a psychological background that often allows the underdog to put over a surprise.

It is my greatest desire to get the crippled Longhorns back in shape for the closing game and if such is possible—the game will not be decided until the last whistle.

Grapplers Go To Canvas on Burk Program Tonight

Burkburnett and fans of this section will be introduced to wrestling again for the first time in several years when the newly organized American legion boxing and wrestling club stages its first card in Burkburnett tonight.

There are to be a pair of boxing preliminaries and one mat bout besides the main event. In the feature tussle of the program Billy Londos now of Burkburnett will lock with Burt Willoughby of Dallas in a wrestling match the victor of which is to be determined by the best two out of three falls.

AGGIE-TEXAS GAME GOVERNORS' REUNION

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 20.—The Thanksgiving Texas A. & M. football game will be a governors' reunion according to L. Theo. Bellmont, director of athletics. Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, governor-elect, Governor Pat M. Neff and James E. Furguson former governor, have been invited to occupy boxes in the new stadium. Other former governors are to be invited. About 32,000 tickets have been sold thus far, the largest sale in the history of the University of Texas.

Trammel Slaps Kayo To Grady Franklin in Sixth

Police Chief Halts Go When Light Heavyweight Drops Middle

RED RALEY WINS OUT

Jackie Saunders Draws With Levine In Six Rounds

By BLONDY CROSS.

'Twas in the first few seconds of the sixth stanza in a scheduled 12-round affair last night on the weekly legion ficticuff program that Grady Franklin, classy Shreveport welterweight, mingled with the resin at the behest of the slugging Cowtown mauler's potent starboard hook. Franklin had shaded Trammel in the opening couplet and proved fairly adept at evading the Duke's hefty right in four ensuing rounds. In the fifth, Trammel clipped his opponent several glancing blows at close quarters, and set the stage for the sixth round knockout.

They met in the center of the ring at the start of the fatal round, and Trammel, ever boring in, forced his opponent to the ropes. A few short left and right hooks by Duke placed Franklin in perfect position to receive the two solid rights which followed and put him to the mat cold to the world.

Hectic Card.

The sleep producer was the climax of a snappy and rather hectic program. Russ Beckwith and Dude Armstrong, Oklahoma boxers, attempted to come to Wichita Falls overland but were stuck in the mud and failed to arrive. Sailor Grisham, Wichita Falls middleweight, essayed to substitute for Beckwith in an 8-round bout with Moco Carpenter, Wichita Falls light heavyweight. Grisham didn't stand a chance. Neither boxer accomplished much in the first round, but the sailor went down in the second before a stiff right cross, and Police Chief Hodgins repaired himself to ringside preparatory to stopping the bout. Grisham grittily arose and weathered the round. In the third, Carpenter again sent his smaller opponent to the floor, and the chief halter the scrap. The referee raised Carp's right wing signifying that Moco was the victor whereupon Grisham tore into Mr. Referee with both mitts flying. The impromptu exhibition was stopped by seconds and officers who entered the ring and pried the pair apart.

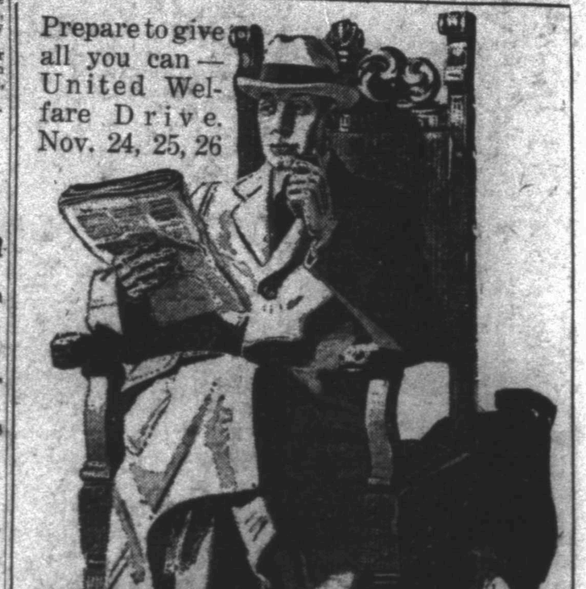

Referee Gets Call.

And as usual a portion of the poorer element who make it a custom to attend the fights gave the referee the raz. A number of the razzberry boys became miffed when the arbiter awarded a draw decision in the Levine-Saunders scrap which had preceded the Carpenter affair, and the outcome of the one-sided light heavy-middleweight bout gave their cause to yap a bit more raucously and ever so more lustily. The referee, perforce, gave way to Billy Londos, Greek wrestler now living in Burkburnett, an occurrence which has become more or less a custom at the legion bouts the past few months.

Tabby Levine was substituted for Armstrong in a six-rounder with Jackie Saunders, Wichita Falls featherweight. Levine was unable to understand Saunders peculiar style of lunging and swinging. Neither fighter was hurt in the least. Saunders landed the most blows, but they had no snap. The bout was a good draw.

If Red Raley had entered the ring in good condition he may have knocked out Cop Bentley of Electra in the four-round curtain raiser. As it was Red merely outfought Bentley in a more or less give-and-take affair, thereby securing the decision.

BILLY WHISKERS

BY FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

In the last story we read of the farmers binding up Billy's leg after he had been shot by mistake. They sent for the buckboard to drive him back to the farm where they were to take care of him.

In about twenty minutes the man who had gone for the buckboard was back, and four of the men lifted Billy up into the wagon and laid his head on one of their coats, which they had made into a pillow for him. And I can tell you there was great commotion and wild excitement in the goat yard when they saw Billy being brought back in the buckboard.

"He is dead! He is dead!" wailed one young nanny-goat who had fallen in love with Billy at first sight.

"Oh, what a shame!" sighed many others.

"I wonder how it happened," said still others.

"I suspect he was shot by mistake as we would have been had we gone with him," said Shep. "It is hard to obey sometimes, but it is always better in the long run," he sighed.

Just then Billy raised his head and bazed to them, "I am all right—only shot in the leg, but these good friends won't let me walk until tomorrow morning!"

The men lifted him out of the buckboard and tied him to a fence post of the goat yard. Then they brought him a big armful of nice, clean, straw for him to lie on, gave him a bucket of good spring water to drink and some carrots and hay to eat, and left him for the night.

As soon as all the men had gone, Billy called to the goats to come up close to the fence and he would tell them all that had happened.

"I bet you that black shaggy dog you killed was Farmer Simpson's! If so, every cow, dog and cat around here will be glad, for he tried to boss every animal that came near him, and if they did not do as he told them, he would pounce on them and fight them until they cried for mercy. He is the one who coaxed all the other dogs to kill sheep, for I am quite sure they never would have thought of it had he not partially coaxed and partially driven them to do it."

And so the talk went on until Billy had told them every particular of the fight and they had figured out just whose dog had been caught.

The next morning when the family was at breakfast one of the sons was reading the morning paper and suddenly exclaimed, "Listen to this, will you?"

SEES END OF GERMAN REDS

Radicalism Has No Place There, Houghton Declares

NEW YORK—Alanson B. Houghton, ambassador to Germany, who sailed today on the Leviathan, expressed confidence that Europe had "turned the corner" and was on the way to normal conditions. He predicted that America would be affected directly through the increased demand for grains, meats and manufactured goods.

"With the new German elections we probably shall see the eradication of the radical group," the ambassador said. "Communism is not a German production and its increase there was an outgrowth of discontent in the post-war years."

Mr. Houghton, who has been home on a vacation, said his term would expire March 4, next, and his plans thereafter were indefinite.

NAME LIKE FIRE ALARM

An Indian chief visited Muskogee, Okla, recently and stayed over night at the hotel. After going to his room that night he decided to call his wife, who lived at Dewar a few miles away. He took down the phone receiver and started in: "This is Big Chief Fire—" but the telephone operator let him get no further. She sounded the general fire alarm and when the department arrived the Indian was still trying to get in his call and verbally losing his temper through the phone.

Color Cut-Outs

"Up! Up!, Betty," called her grandmother. Betty sat up and rubbed her eyes. Then she looked out of the window and saw acres and acres of gleaming white. She remembered, then that she was visiting her grandmother, away up north—almost to the pole, it seemed to Betty.

"I'll be up in a jiffy," answered Betty.

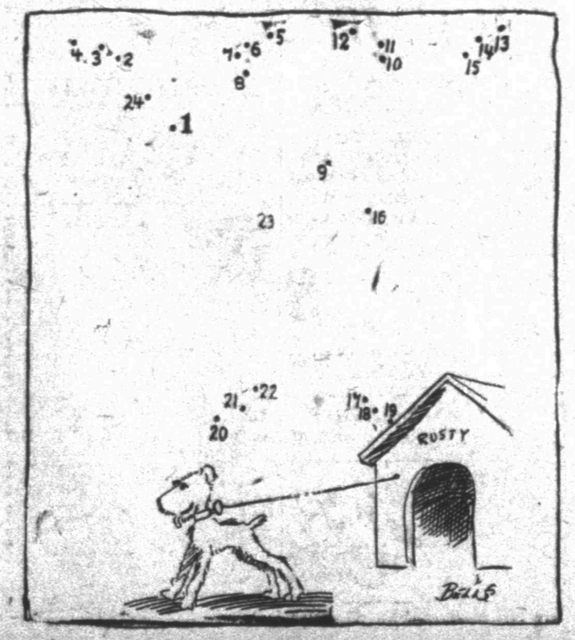

"Roger is waiting to show you around the farm," Grandmother explained. Roger was the nice son of the man who was managing Grandmother's farm. So up Betty hopped, while her grandmother went to try again to waken the sleepy Billy.

Roger, who couldn't understand people who stayed in bed so late, waited downstars for them.

(Tomorrow there'll be another surprise for Betty and Billy.)

Color Roger's heavy flannel blouse brown, with trousers to match. His cap and the tops of his hose are red and white.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—An early decline on a tendency to increase estimates of the crop was followed by rallies in the cotton market today as a result of trade buying and covering. January sold up from 24.03 to 24.25 and closed at 24.20. The general market closed steady at net declines of 5 to 17 points on all positions, except October, which was one point net higher.
The opening was easy at a decline of 13 to 30 points, active months selling 27 to 35 points net lower, after the call, under liquidation and southern hedging. Relatively easy Liverpool cables seemed to encourage some local selling, and liquidation was promoted by the publication of two private crop reports, one placing the yield at 12,995,000 bales, while the other gave 13,300,000. Trade interests were buyers on a scale down to 23.80 for December and 24.30 for March, however, and the continuance of this demand in the face of larger crop figures, probably promoted covering by shorts.
The market rallied and showed considerable firmness during the afternoon when December sold up to 24.04 and January 24.25, or about 24 to 30 points above the low level of the morning and within four or five points of yesterday's closing quotations. Trade interests continued buying but the demand from that source was not active. Business otherwise appeared to be pretty well divided between liquidation and covering in preparation for tomorrow's government report.
Exports today 37,587, making 2,783,550 so far this season. Port receipts 53,257, U. S. port stocks 1,367,523.

New York Cotton Letter
NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Continuance of pre-bureau liquidation brought policy at one time about 1-5 under last night's close, and the breaks contracts again went into strong hands. There was one estimate of 13,300,000 and another of 13,000,000, but neither of them had much effect. It seems safe to say that the outlook for an increase in consumption in the past month will easily offset any addition to the crop and that a good business will show a good business tomorrow. Unless the figures are in excess of 13 million we do not look for a sustained decline.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—Cotton futures closed steady at net decline of 8 to 17 points.

New Orleans Cotton
NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—The cotton market was a very quiet affair today with trading narrow and fluctuations limited to a small spread. Trading was limited to evening up in advance of the bureau and there was very little of that as the market had been pretty well liquidated earlier in the week, mainly on the assumption that the government's estimate due tomorrow will be in the neighborhood of 13,000,000 bales.
At the start prices were steady for a brief period despite cables were lower than due. The first trades were at advances of one point to a decline of five. The market soon eased off owing to unfavorable cables and rather large private crop estimates. December dropping to 24.10, January to 24.08 and March to 24.28, or 22 to 27 points down from the highs and about the same loss from the previous close. The close showed net losses for the day of eight to 17 points.
One of the principal developments of the day was the agreement of both American exchanges to suspend business five minutes before 10 o'clock tomorrow morning until 10:15 or five minutes before the publication of the government reports and 15 minutes afterwards to enable traders to digest the details of the reports and to avoid the wild trading that usually accompanies bureau figures.
Exports for the day totalled 37,587 bales.

New Orleans Cotton Letter
NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 20.—There was a little pre-bureau liquidation but much less than generally expected. Those who sold early were surprised at the market's resistance, and many of them bought back what they had sold, in the afternoon, giving the market a fair rally. Final sales were only a few points under previous finals. There was a moderate amount of liquidation in December in advance of first notice day also.
Spot news continues good, southern mills are reported to have sold well ahead without having much raw material on hand and experts continue to gain.
The market acted like it has discounted an estimate of 13,000,000 and of ginnings close to 11,000,000. If either come much under these figures we are likely to have a good upturn.

Man Spent $2,200 Getting Prisoner And Then Loses Him.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 20.—L. C. Talbot, grocer, is certain today that fate is against him.
For two years he has been hunting David Bram, narcotic peddler and whisky runner, whose $15,000 bond he had signed. He got him the other day in Minneapolis, and guarding him with a gun, he brought him into Kansas City. While walking down a street, Bram made a dash for freedom and escaped because Talbot's gun wouldn't shoot. And Talbot had spent, he said, about $2,200 for trips to Chicago, Cleveland, Minneapolis, Toledo, Ardmore and Muskogee, running down tips that Bram was under arrest.

Grain

Chicago Grain
CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Grain suffered an all around decline in value today owing largely to wheat market depression at Liverpool. Beneficial rains in Argentina were reported, and there were optimist'c reports about the wheat yield in Australia. The wheat market here closed heavy, ⅝ to 2⅛c net lower, December 1.49⅝ to 1.49¾ and May 1.57¼ to 1.57⅜, with corn 1¼ to 1⅜ off, oats ⅜ to ½ to 1c down, and provisions varying from 12c set back to 35c gain.
Country offerings of corn showed a moderate increase. This circumstance together with the fact that industrial buyers here withdrew from the market did a good deal to emphasize the downward trend of corn values. Oats sympathized with the weakness of corn and wheat.
Provisions were irregular as a result of lower prices for grain conflicting with an upturn in hog values.

Chicago Grain Letter
CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Wheat: Was offered freely at the opening on lower Liverpool cables which were weak on further rains in the Argentine and a little let-up in export demand. The market was very nervous but had fair support on the weak spots.
Relative strength of July due to undoing of spreads with May which accounted for the offering of May wheat at times.
Further liquidation widened the discount between May and December, but with the December deliveries taken care of, which they should be in the near future, the market is expected to do better.
Corn: Bought early on reports of disappointing husking returns put out by a local expert. Later profit taking found the market without support and the close was at around the low of the day.
Oats: Off early with rest of list but there developed a good demand and shorts covered. There was much buying in oats by those who are friendly to corn, feeling that oats were behind the market, but all of the strength was lost at the last. The market is making friends again, on its relative cheapness.
Provisions: Declined early, but ran into some investment buying and all of the loss was regained by the close. Hogs were higher early, but lost the advance.

STOCKS
NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—An extraordinary demand for the lowest priced railroad shares, most of which established new peak prices for the year, featured today's stock market. Total sales exceed two and a half million shares for the first time since December 21, 1916, when the famous "leak" of President Wilson's peace note brought about frenzied trading with total sales in excess of 3,000,000 shares.
Sporadic profit taking characterized the trading in industrial shares but the general list closed irregularly high. Revival of speculative interest in the oil shares, several of which advanced one to nearly four points on rumors of an impending increase in crude prices, was one of the interesting developments of the session.
Chief interest in the railroad group centered in New Haven, which advanced 3⅝ points to 32, the highest price in two years, on reports that the company had successfully arranged its refunding program for next year. Total transactions in this issue aggregated nearly 115,000 shares. Kansas City Southern made the most spectacular gain in the rail shares climbing 4⅝ points to 32¼ and then easing slightly on profit taking.
Other outstanding strong points in the rail group included Chesapeake and Ohio, the Erie and St. Paul issues, Great Northern preferred, "Katy" common and preferred, Missouri Pacific common, Northern Pacific, Reading, Frisco, Union Pacific, Wabash, Western Maryland, International Railways of Central American common and preferred, "Nickel Plate," New York Ontario and Western, Norfolk and Southern, St. Louis Southwestern and Seaboard Air Line issues, all of which closed one to four points higher.
General Asphalt was the leader in the oil group closing 3¾ points higher at 53.
U. S. Steel common duplicated yesterday's high 116⅝, fell back to 114⅝ on realizing and then rallied within half a point of the top. American Can closed more than a point higher at 152⅝ after selling 3 points below that figure.
Call loans held at 2½ per cent all day. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with no change in rates.
Foreign exchanges held firm in quiet trading. Demand sterling ruled slightly higher around $4.62⅝ and French francs were quoted around 5¼ cents. The feature of the market was the trading in Dutch guilders, which touched par—40.20 cents—for the first time in five years.

ETHYLIZED GASOLINE

For one year and nine months ethylized gasoline has been on sale. It is now being distributed through about 20,000 filling stations covering one-third of the territory of the United States.

About 200,000,000 gallons have been used by more than 1,000,000 motorists with complete safety and satisfaction.

Recently a distressing accident occurred at an experimental plant, where a new process for the manufacture of tetraethyl lead, one of the constituents used in ethylizing gasoline, was under development. Tetraethyl lead is a poison, as are many raw materials which enter into the manufacture of harmless compounds. Ethylized gasoline consists of 1300 parts of ordinary gasoline containing less than one part of tetraethyl lead.

This statement is issued to make plain the all-important difference between tetraethyl lead, the raw material, and ethylized gasoline, the commercial product.

Ethylized gasoline is more than an improved fuel, giving smoothness to the motor and eliminating knocks; it is a scientific discovery which, in its ultimate development, will contribute largely to the conservation of the world's supply of gasoline.

Exhaustive tests have been conducted which have established the safety of ethylized gasoline when used as a motor fuel. These tests have been confirmed by the United States Bureau of Mines, which is making additional studies to determine whether any possible injury can result from continued contact when used for other than motor purposes. Scientific data based on these studies will be submitted to any health commissioner or other public health official upon request.

Harry Breen Is Feature Star On Wichita's Stage

He and Pal In Comic Skit, "Oil," Head Strong Bill

A bill on which is included a large array of fast stepping entertainers will be presented as the week's vaudeville mem at the Wichita theatre tonight. Harry Breen and Eddie Carr in a skit called "Oil" are billed as headliners, followed closely by four other teams of unusual merit.

Harry Breen is known as one of the "fastest" song writers in the business and his act is built around his uncanny ability to knock out a melodious tune for anything from the ticket-taker's hat to the stage prop's horns.

James P. Conlin and Myrtle Glass have a lively musical comedy skit "Four Seasons and Four Reasons," and Charles Cartmell and Laura Harris will be seen in a tuneful and rhythmic skit "The Episodes."

Bob Snell and Ernestine Vernon, two experts on the flying rings have an act out of the ordinary, and Alyce Sheldon and Lucille Dailey are scheduled for a happy musical number "Together Again."

TO SING OR LAUNDER?

Momentous Question Given Supreme Court in Case of This Singer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Whether Giuseppe Argentino shall continue ironing shirts at $30 a week in a laundry or shall be permitted to sing at the Metropolitan opera house is the question that came before Supreme Court Justice Delehanty today when counsel for Argentino asked that the injunction obtained against him by Giacomo Bourg, a singing master, last June, be set aside.

Bourg told the court he discovered Argentino and taught him the art of singing and that, in consideration of this, the singer signed a contract which provides that he could not sign except under Bourg's management. He said that Argentino "forgot" his maestro and entered into a contract to appear at the Metropolitan opera house.

Last May Bourg applied for an injunction to restrain Argentino from singing at the Metropolitan or anywhere else save under his management, and the injunction was granted by default. Argentino later moved successfully to set aside the injunction and then, finding himself legally barred from public appearances, went to work in a laundry.

VARIED WEATHER, AT LEAST

Weather Man Gives Damp and Misty Day to City Thursday.

Wichita Falls weather is variable at nothing else.

Another moist and misty day was turned out by the weather man Thursday, with promises of continued mild temperatures for the balance of the week. For the most part yesterday was clear, although a haze settled over the city for much of the time and left a rather cloudy impression.

Thursday night was warm and damp.

MONTGOMERY IN DEBUT

Southern Scrapper to Take On Anderson in Boston.

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—Sully Montgomery, former football star of the famous Centre college "Praying Colonels," makes his debut before a Boston gathering in a meeting with Lee Anderson of Berlin, N. H., Friday.

Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey being in our midst makes all the more interesting the local debut of the southern youngster who hopes to sport the crown that nestles so snugly on the brow of the "Manassa Mauler." Dempsey, if he follows the path of others before him, will some day taste the gall of defeat, and who is there who can say that his conqueror will not be Sully Montgomery.

The southern boy has everything before him. He is youn, strong, fast, and even now, this early in his career, possesses a fair amount of skill and ringmanship. All his good traits will be brought out to their fullest extent in his meeting with Anderson, who, while not the greatest fighter in the business, is nevertheless a dangerous foe for any aspiring youngster to fool around with. Anderson has battled with the best of them, and if Friday night's contest simmers down to a question of experience the new heavyweight luminary has much the worse of the argument to start with.

PENSION ACTOR'S COOK.

PARIS, Nov.—Marie, cook and maid of all work for the great actor Edouard de Max is to be pensioned by the Comedie Francaise. She took care of her erratic and prodigal master for some 30 years during which she saw him give away 1,000 francs notes and often had to fight off bill collectors.

Her master never forgot to aid his poor comrades, but seldom remembered to pay Marie her wages which his friends say were 44,000 francs in arrears when he died recently.

SAY HONESTY INCREASING

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Those who defend civic morality from attacks by pessimists criticizing the present age as prone to tricks and dishonesty find in the Journal Office a list of thirty anonymous restitutions made during October. These repentant persons turned nearly half a million francs into the treasury. The largest item was 366,328 francs and the smallest five francs.

BUMPS ON YOUR FACE MAKE PEOPLE SCRINGE

People who have been embarrassed repeatedly on account of disfigured skin on their face, neck, arms and hands, caused by eczema, tetter, rash, boils, pimples, etc., are nearly always sensitive about these things to the point of feeling that everybody is watching them and talking about how bad they look.

For this reason Black and White Ointment, and Black and White Soap, are making friends by the thousands because people can get them from their nearest dealer without a lot of explanations, and they do quickly get rid of all those skin sufferers.

The 50c size of the Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and the Soap.—Adv

Everybody's Thankful To Get Record News Turkey

From the looks of things, Johnnie isn't taking any chances of losing the two turkeys that he has just won from the Record News.

Johnnie Skeen lives at 1200 La mar and he is envied by all the boys on his street, all because there are two big turkeys strutting around his back yard and he brought them both home for Thanksgiving.

"It wasn't a bit hard to win these turkeys," says Johnnie, "all I had to do was to get twelve new subscribers for the Record News. I got enough orders the first afternoon to get one turkey. It was so easy I went out the next evening and won another big gobbler."

Johnnie is one of those boys who can look ahead, for he is going to get right out after a third turkey for Christmas.

If any of you boys and girls want a big, live turkey for Thanksgiving, just go down to the Record News office and they will tell you how to get one free.

FEWER OSTRICHES NOW

Million Birds Have Dwindled to About 120,000

Ostriches are becoming scarcer in Africa and the ostrich population shows an enormous decrease in the last quarter of a century.

The first ostrich census, reasonably accurate, made certain that South Africa had not far from 1 million of these big birds. In the count made last year even the small flocks had to be included to show a population of 120,000, so the government is taking great pains to interest the owners in breeding and rearing more birds, as the income from the sale of feathers and occasional birds for parks and other display purposes brings an important revenue to the country and the industry was a source of much wealth.

SELL ETHYL GAS AGAIN

Gulf Makes Tests Showing It Has No Harmful Effects

The Gulf Refining company has renewed the sale of ethylized gasoline.

Immediately following the death and ill effects upon employees at an eastern laboratory who were experimenting with tetraethyl lead the Gulf Refining company discontinued the sale of the gas product at all of their stations, until a thorough investigation could be made to ascertain if any harmful effects might possibly arise from the use of the gas.

Exhaustive investigation has shown that the 1-1300 per cent of tetraethyl lead in ethylized gasoline is plainly insufficient to cause any ill effects whatsoever, and as a result the gas has gone on sale again. The Gulf Refining company offers to supply any state health bureau or city commission with scientific data based on the results of their investigations, every part of which have been confirmed by the United States bureau of mines.

HUSBAND'S COAT A FIT.

So Paris Woman Appropriates It to Her Own Use.

A Parisian couple, passing a tailor's window the other day, had their attention attracted by a handsome garment. Monsieur remarked, "What a nice overcoat! I shall certainly have one made like that." His wife endeavored to throw cold water on his enthusiasm by informing him that the garment was a woman's coat, but, after looking again at the lapels, collar and sleeves he felt convinced that she was wrong.

To settle the point, they went inside the shop, where they soon found that madame was right. The supposed masculine overcoat was in reality a woman's tailor-made, so closely, in this particular line, do masculine and feminine styles assimilate. Quite recently a highly practical Parisienne, looking through some clothes which her husband had not worn for years, discovered a frock coat with the usual silk lapels. She cut it on and announced that it fitted her perfectly. She rushed off to a shop, matched the material, made a skirt, altered the position of two buttons on the coat, took in the sleeves slightly and became the proud and joyful possessor of a handsome tailor-made which cost her 66 francs, the price of the material for the skirt.—London Mail.

Plans in Shape For Banquet Of Fathers and Sons

Dinner and Program to Be Held Saturday at Junior College

Plans are rapidly being whipped into shape for the big father and son banquet to be held Saturday night at the Junior college cafeteria. The complete program, it was announced yesterday, will be available today. Most of the features are already assured and one of the most pretentious affairs of its kind ever held is expected.

Judge T. L. McCulloch of Dallas will be the principal speaker of the evening. W. D. Cline will be toastmaster and responses will be made by several fathers and sons at the session. R. E. Shepherd will lead the music and solos will be given by Rev. Leslie Miller, Rabon Porter and others.

The dinner will be prepared by the college cafeteria and will be served by the Camp Fire girls of the city. It starts at 6:45, and preparations are being made for the accommodation of 600 or more.

Tickets are on sale at the Tipton drug store.

ATWELL RULES

vided, of course, that its alcoholic content is more than one-half of one percent, and all jamaica ginger contains from 85 to 90 percent alcohol. Going still further, the law allows the sale of "double strength" ginger in quantities of 2 ounces or less to any one person. This is done on the assumption that such a preparation, which contains 400 grams of powdered ginger to 1000 cubic centimeters of alcohol, is too powerful to be taken in anything but minute quantities.

"Single strength" preparations, on the other hand, contain but 200 grams of ginger to 1000 cubic centimeters of alcohol and hence can be consumed as a beverage. The ginger content was doubled to make the "double strength" preparations, simply in order that the sale of the ginger for medical purposes could be legalized and its sale as a beverage prohibited.

Under prohibition regulations in effect since the adoption of the Volstead law, it naturally follows that beverages classed as intoxicants are prohibited for sale.

Retailer Liable.

In their defense of the case, attorneys for Mrs. Green and Mr. Simpson raised the point that their clients had purchased their supplies from wholesalers on the assumption that it was "double strength." Bottles introduced as evidence were labelled "double strength" and were supposed to conform to the government regulations, but an amlysis by Dr. A. H. Douglass, city chemist, showed the ginger content to be less than 400 grams per 1000 cubic centimeters of alcohol. This, of course, threw it into the classification of "single strength" ginger, which the law now holds is a beverage.

It was argued that the defendants had no knowledge of the true ginger content, that they did not tamper with it and that they sold it as it was received on the belief that it was "double strength." The manufacturer, it was suggested, should be the one called to account for the preparation's failing to come up to standard. The court held, however, that any one selling an intoxicant regardless of his or her knowledge of it did so on pain of prosecution. He so charged the jury and the guilty verdicts were returned.

Two Features.

Two unusual features were connected with the developments yesterday, each of which hinged directly on Judge Atwell's construction of the law. One was a not guilty verdict returned for J. H. Allison, a Wichita Falls druggist charged with sale of "jake" and who was tried prior to the hearing in Mrs. Green's case. Allison was arrested prior to May 24, when the new regulations became effective and the jury acquitted him.

An Electra druggist, W. L. Blake, who also faced the "jake" charges, appeared in court last night and entered a plea of guilty to having sold the "single strength" ginger. Judge Atwell fined him $75.

WE'LL TELL

It was stated by W. S. Curlee, president of the local real estate men's association, that a great amount of valuable data from the selling standpoint is being collected by this organization for use in publicity. Mr. Curlee compared the land under the Wichita with the Rio Grande projects and pointed out the financial and other advantages of the local market.

Plans of the agricultural bureau of the chamber of commerce to aid in the matter of colonization as well as advertising were presented by the general manager.

The fact that the hardness of the water from Lake Kemp is due to the content of lime which is very healthful and also excellent for agriculture was brought out. It was stated that a great many people are laboring under a misapprehension in this connection believing that this is harmful which is not the case.

Will Print Booklet.

A number of recently collected farm pictures were submitted to the committee and suggestions for the booklet which is contemplated were heard.

The intention of a number of land owners to cut their property into small blocks, put necessary improvements on each piece and sell on easy terms was signified.

Those attending the meeting included Walter Priddy, J. A. Kemp, W. S. Curlee, Frank Timberlake, J. T. Harrell, W. P. Ferguson, C. C. Kirby, J. H. Allison, Raymond Myers, and members of the chamber of commerce staff.

Mrs. Maddocks, on behalf of the State Congress of Mothers, then presented Mrs. Marrs a platinum bar pin as a token of her four years service as president. Tears and applause prevented much formal speechmaking, though Mrs. Marrs and Mrs. Maddocks accepted their gifts with a few words to the donors.

Dreams Her Spine Broke; and It Was

Death of Woman In Missouri Subject of Investigation

MONETT, Mo., Nov. 20. — A woman's dream and her subsequent death is expected to be the basis for an order by Floyd Calloway, coroner of Barry county for the exhumation of the body of Mrs. Walter Nemitz, 30, who was burned to death when her home near Cassville was destroyed on March 31.

A grand jury which had investigated the death for nearly a week was discharged today after hearing 50 witnesses.

Shortly before she was burned to death Mrs. Nemitz told her father she had dreamed she would be shot in the spine just below the neck. The father told authorities during the grand jury hearing that he had examined the body and found the spine broken below the neck.

The family contends that the home had been robbed by persons Mrs. Nemitz recognized who then killed her and burned the house.

BOMB THE WASHINGTON

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 20.—Bombing experiments against the hull of the unfinished super dreadnaught Washington began today at a point 50 miles east of Cape Charles under the direction of Rear Admiral Hughes and gunnery experts of the navy department.

If, at the end of the experiments, in which scores of bombs from the air and great depth charges will test the armor plates of the giant warship, it is still afloat, the 14-inch guns of the battleship Texas will send her to the bottom in 50 fathoms of water. It may be Saturday before the huge vessel makes her final plunge.

Many Millions But One Bum Check

Participant In Alleged 5 Million Real Estate Deal Is Detained En Route to California and Held With Number of Aliases

M'ALESTER, Okla., Nov. 20.—While Ed Estes, wealthy Muskogee real estate dealer was speeding toward California today to inspect a purported $5,000,000 apartment building property with a view to acquiring it, W. J. Porter, alias Smith, alias McAlester, who proposed the transaction was in the Pittsburgh county jail at McAlester, charged with issuing two bogus checks for small amounts.

Porter, who started from Muskogee with Estes, was detained here last night when a ticket clerk refused to honor a check for $100 which he proffered in payment for his passage. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Carl A. Wise, Muskogee hotel man. Wise said Porter had represented himself as a St. Louis financier.

Irrigation

BY A. M. M'PHERSON.

WATER

Can the Directors of the Irrigation District Limit the Use of Water?

Perhaps some may feel that this matter of the excessive use of irrigation water can be taken care of by proper rules, and regulations formulated by the directors of district No. 2.

As directors they have large powers and can inaugurate many rules governing the distribution and the handling of irrigation water. Whether under the present state statutes and the present contract between the two districts they would have the right to say to any farmer how much water he should use is a question that will be discussed further in future articles.

But let us suppose that the board of directors have such a right and used it to put into effect rules regulating the amount of water used. Suppose these rules were based on the very best and approved practice on the best managed projects, what effect would it have?

The effect would all depend upon whether the future farmers on the project approved them and were willing to abide by them. If these farmers were all men who had had experience in irrigation and had knowledge of the disastrous effects of waterlogging on a country they would be glad to work under such rules. But if most of the farmers were unacquainted with irrigation, as most of them will be, they would resent limiting their supply of irrigation water. They would not realize that precautions must be taken if water logging is to be avoided and they would take steps to remove the directorate.

The directors of both districts are elected by the people direct, just as the city councilmen are or the county commissioners are elected. You know what happens to a commissioner or a councilman who becomes unpopular with his constituents.

It is safe to say that no board of directors can put over and enforce any regulation of the amount of water delivered unless such regulations meet with the approval of the farmers themselves.

It is safe to say that no group of farmers are going to approve of any limit on their water unless they have learned by experience that it must be limited. The farmers we will get here are very apt to be inexperienced. The project would be ruined before they would learn.

WILLIAM J. AND WALL STREET.

By Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald

William Jennings Bryan deserted Nebraska for Florida and will spend his remaining years in the everglade state. Thirty years ago William J. began his crusade against Wall Street. He has damned it in every American state and territory, in all the books that he has witten, in all the speeches that he has made and in all the articles he has written for the press.

Every 4 years Bryan goes down in defeat and Wall Street comes up smiling. This year Nebraska landed in the republican camp, notwithstanding that brother Charles is governor of Nebraska and had the second place on the democratic ticket. William J. is a powerful advocate of the state income tax as well as heavy inheritance taxes.

Florida is a democratic state. Florida sent W. J. B., a delegate at large, to the Madison Square Garden convention. He functioned as usual while there. He denounced Wall Street as the liar of the devil and all aspirants for presidential honors from the east as both unholy and unfit.

Then, November 4, the democrats of Florida by a vote of 8 to 1 adopted an amendment to the constitution prohibiting the levying of income or inheritance taxes by their state. Newspapers and civic organizations campaigned actively for its passage If a state income tax and an inheritance tax are good enough for New York, which includes Wall Street in its jurisdiction, then why aren't they good enough for Florida?

Now the former apostle of the Platt is planning to discontinue his lectures and correspondence indefinitely and will devote his time to writing his memoirs. This gives the lie to the statement that dead men tell no tales.

What Today Means to You

SCORPIO.

Today's planetary aspects are of a conflicting nature, and whilst at times the vibrations are exhilarating, at other hours they are depressing. When a condition exists alternating between emotional optimism and nervous pessimism, the wise course to adopt is the middle road—the one to which, you are accustomed, without making any attempt to explore fresh or untrodden paths. The signs indicate that any speculation started today will end on the wrong side of the ledger, and all hazardous undertakings should be carefully avoided.

A child born today will be healthy and robust, but is liable to undergo one serious illness just prior to the period of adolescence, that will cause worry and anxiety, and demand much care and watchfulness. On reaching maturity it will be very disposed to build air castles. It will be visionary rather than practical. It will also be disposed to assume airs of snobbishness, and will often choose friends on account of their family connections, rather than for their intrinsic merit and companionableness. It will be generous, but will lack discrimination.

If today is your birthday, you are prompt, reliable and competent, a great reader, independent thinker, and pleasing conversationalist. You allow no one to form your opinion for you, nor do you do anything just because others before you did it. You have the courage of your convictions, and express them freely, whether they are palatable or otherwise.

You, however, are somewhat sensitive, and are proportionately careful of the feelings and sensibilities of others, and, whilst you have quick positive ideas and fixed principles, you always avoid personalities, and are able to drive home your point with a smile.

You are a great home lover, and strive to make it bright, cheerful and harmonious. You are also quite fond of children, and this feeling is very sincerely reciprocated. You are seen at your best in the home, which is for you a harbor of safety, and a "little glimpse of heaven." You enter with zest into the pastimes and pleasures of those around you, and seek every means of making others as happy as you are yourself.

More Truth Than Poetry

AN ALTERED VIEWPOINT

Upon the publication
Of income tax returns,
Old Jones declared the nation
Should mind its own concerns.
Cried he, with anger quaking,
"Why can't a man of pelf
Keep how much he is making
To himself?

"It gets a fellow furious
To know that near and far,
The idle and the curious
Read what his profits are.
The products of my labors,
Though shrunken or decreased,
Does not concern my neighbors
In the least."

Each day with visage solemn,
And with his soul aflame,
He scanned the income column,
But never found his name.
And people said in stealthy
And pity laden tones:
"Why we thought you were wealthy,
Mr. Jones."

Now Jones declares the nation,
To its eternal shame,
Suppresses publication
Of his distinguished name.
He cries, with chin protruded:
"In court I shall insist
That I may be included
In that list!"

JUST A HOPE

Now that congress won't have to wrangle all winter over a presidential election, perhaps it will have time to pass a few good measures.

By Dr. Frank Crane

THE FLAMING SWORD.

We are told that when our parents were driven out of the Garden of Eden they could not get back because of an angel at the gate who waved a flaming sword.

This is typical of the fact that the Golden Age is always ahead of us, it is never behind us.

In former times men always believed that the age of beauty and chivalry and idealism lay far in the past, but the tendency of modern thought is to place this in the future.

Every man, at some time or other, has looked upon the swine, the cattle and the dogs, and envied them their low and careless existence. They seem so happy. They have nothing in the way of human worries to trouble them. We envy them their contentment.

A man is so constituted that he can never go back. The modern Garden of Eden lies ahead of us, not behind us.

All the peace and comfort and beauty and glory of life is to be won by going on through struggle and not by going backwards.

The iron law of progress is that the organism must struggle. Every obstacle is for us merely a challenge to our powers. In the exercise of those powers alone, and in their fruition, is found that happiness we desire.

It is useless for us to wish for the peace and contentment of the lower orders of life. We are compelled by our very superiority, to go forward and to find our joy in so doing.

The modern idea, which lies in placing the bliss of heaven before us, and not the Golden Age behind us, is responsible for the superiority and advancement of our modern civilization.

There is but one thing for the human being to do and that is to go forward. Relief, if it is to be found at all, is to be found in advancement and not in retreat.

THE FAIR ONE'S DISPOSITION.

Of course if men are going to judge beauty by the way the features are set on the face, and by the texture of the skin, they are going to report a lot of complaints against the fair sex.

Because a girl is physically beautiful is no sign that her soul is more than a mere speck. Nor does it prove anything that her mouth is a perfect cupid's bow, and her eyes register innocence and pathos.

She may harbor all the seven devils in her disposition and let them fly loose on the opposite sex just because she is good-looking enough to get away with it.

Then there comes along the reformer—the intellectual young man who would tame her with his words of wisdom.

"Character," says he, "is property. It is the noblest of possessions. True politeness comes from sincerity. It exhibits itself in the disposition to contribute to the happiness of others and in refraining from all that annoys.

The beautiful lady, who is her own little god, quick-witted and gifted, lets fly a sarcastic remark.

The young man is horrified—"can this be woman, the noblest of God's creations?"

Right here is where we answer his question.

It takes years for character to mold itself on a girl's face. She may be the most noble creature in the world and not register a line of it until she is over thirty.

If a man is looking for divine, spiritual qualities in a girl, he should seek those qualities—not pick out a certain face, and hope that the qualities lie behind it.

What West Texas Editors Are Saying

And those who decry the bobbed hair style need not expect to be heard. Lately a young lady, as she took a chair in a Henrietta barber shop was heard to give the order: "Trim it like a boy's behind." And doubtless the bobbed will develop into the all over shingle, or man's style or haricut.—Peoples Review, Henrietta.

The News has always contended that Clarendon should have a law to keep carnivals and certain kinds of tent shows out of the city limits. Other Panhandle towns are doing it by ordinance and Clarendon can do it. The task of discerning just what is news and what isn't news is one of the most difficult problems that a newspaperman has to solve, especially in this day and time, when press agents are paid money to get free publicity that should go to newspapers for giving publicity. The press agent is paid a goodly salary by concerns desiring publicity and it is his duty to get it without paying for it if possible, and if not possible, get it at the expense of some one else. That's a press agent.—Monday Times.

We cannot see the mote in our own eyes, because of an exalted attitude of mind. The people of the country realize that the town of Comanche, though evil, is a necessary evil, and that most people who live there deserve their help and sympathy. And as they must have a town they want to see a good town, live town, a progressive town. And most people in the town of Comanche are really interested in the progress, prosperity and welfare of the people of the country, and if there is any way in which they can help they want to do so. And there is one way in which can all help, and that is in coming together oftener, getting better acquainted and discussing our problems.—Comanche Chief.

Not a Chance

SMOULDERING FIRES

By LAIN C. LANE

When Grace reappeared, she sat down on the edge of a chair and plied the visitor with a question.

"How does it feel to play with Claire Windsor?"

He shrugged. "Of course, she never noticed me. Today was my last day. Nothing else in sight."

"Oh, something will turn up," she consoled confidently.

"I don't know," Dickie replied, resigned. "I happened to be over in the Los Angeles union station yesterday morning, and every train disgorged whole loads of giggling, wide-eyed girls and awed young men, who seemed to be recognizing film stars in everybody that passed. The jam out here is getting worse every day. I don't see why something isn't done to keep 'em at home. It's the ruination of most of them, you know. I don't mean morally." He laughed. "I mean, that it softens their brains forever if they get an extra job in one picture and rub elbows with Ben Turpin. They hang on here with ebbing hope until, ashamed to go home, they're the unhappiest people alive. You see the dance halls full of them."

To Grace, what Dickie said was all very sensible but how did he classify himself—and her? Were they not members of the same mob of ignorant hopefuls from the four winds of the compass, including Kokomo, Ind., and Bangor, Maine?

She smiled interestedly at Dickie and wondered if she could ever love him. For the moment she quite forgot Carl.

CHAPTER FOUR.

"We're going to shoot the whole works," Dickie Dennyson announced, as soon as they were started.

"Ooh, are we?" There was a slight affectation in the enthusiasm with which Grace answered him. She was looking out of the window of the taxicab at the winking lights of the electric signs. She loved these lights. They had always seemed beautiful to her. Lately, she had got into the practice of imagining that the signs over the theatres emblazoned Betty Byrde to the world.

"We'll go to the Venice cafe and rub elbows with the big-bugs. Gee, you certainly are beautiful tonight."

She smiled demurely. It pleased her to think that out there they might be mistaken for important persons.

"You seem to have played a leading role over at Warner's," she said suggestively.

"Huh. They don't impoverish themselves paying anybody, except, perhaps, the authors whose book titles they buy." He grinned. "My old man came through with a check. He still thinks I'm out here studying the wonderful agriculture of California."

"I guess that most all of the young people who come out here deceive their parents in some way in order to do it." Grace responded in a meditative tone.

Dickie turned to her suddenly; "You, too?"

She nodded, hesitantly.

Dickie put his hand upon hers and squeezed it.

"Tell me about it."

Her eyes were looking out of the window. She turned them to his momentarily to say: "There's nothing to say that you can't guess."

No more was said about the matter, to Grace's relief, for in the next moment Dickie exclaimed: "There's Mary Pickford's limousine." He strained his neck. "Doug's in it, too. Wonder where they're going. Wonder if they're going to the Venice."

Grace thrilled at the idea.

They were disappointed, however. They did not see Doug and Mary at the cafe. Nor did they see any one they recognized. The fact did not destroy, or even impair their evening. The dance music, to use an expression Grace would have used, was divine. Dickie danced better than he did anything else.

For the first time since she came to Hollywood, Grace felt entirely free in spirit. She felt so exultant that she didn't mind the surreptitious drams Dickie took from his flask until he glowed behind a red face and his speech thickened.

However, she felt called upon to say: "Please don't take any more, Dickie. Not now, any way."

"All right," he assented. He really had no palate for liquor, but he thought drinking it was impressive. He had been drunk more than once in his college days, but he had never enjoyed a single drink. He would not have wanted Grace to know this.

She did not want to, but at 1:30 she told Dickie: "We'll have to go now. I'll have to have some good sleep before morning, and I'll have to get up at 7 o'clock."

Dickie consented. It was a good idea he thought, but didn't say. His legs were wobbly.

The homeward trip was made in silence. Grace supposed Dickie was dozing drunkenly, but each time she looked at him furtively, she saw his eyes were open.

He did not speak until the taxicab was only a few blocks from her home.

"Betty," he began hesitantly, "do you like me a little?"

"I like you a whole lot, Dickie," she answered truthfully.

His hand enclosed hers. She made no attempt to withdraw hers.

He bent near her. "Do you love me enough to marry me?"

She was taken completely by surprise.

CHAPTER FIVE.

Grace did not see Dickie Dennyson later that day, nor the next. When she came in at 9 o'clock that evening, she learned that he had phoned her. She had thought about his proposal a good deal that day, but not with any idea of accepting it.

She did not want to lose Dickie. He was good company, and was the only means of enjoyment she had; not, the only opportunity for enjoyment, but the only one she cared to accept. She was glad that she had not sent him away that morning doubtfully. She had allowed him to kiss her, and then she exclaimed: "This is such a surprise, Dickie!" Then as the taxi had drawn up at her door, she quickly got out, motioning him to remain, and ran inside.

Grace did not want to definitely reject him, for she was afraid that might end their companionship. And she did not want to merely put him off, and give him encouragement, for she knew he would want to hug and kiss her, and hugs and kisses made her unhappy—now.

Two days later she saw Dickie again. But before that, she was surprised by receiving a letter from Lura Baylir, her cousin. The letter came through general delivery.

"Dear Gracie," it read. "I was thrilled to learn through mother that you had made your debut on the screen. Of course, I wasn't surprised. I . . ."

She threw down the letter in disgust. "I don't want any of her false compliments," she told herself. A moment later the letter reposed in the waste-basket.

It served the purpose of getting her to thinking of home. Her mind did not linger long on her own family, however. She imagined herself returning as a successful film star and making a personal appearance at the Grand theatre. What a triumph it would be over Lucille Desmond—the little strumpet. And Margaret Morris. She would be very condescending to Josephine Harper, and very cordial to Mary Hellman. How proud she would make Mary feel. She would invite her to sit in her box at the Grand and would take her riding in her limousine. Of course, Mary would ask her: "Do you think I could get into the movies." Mary would do that. But she would advise her against trying. Winning success is too difficult. It isn't worth the price.

Grace smiled at herself. She was given too much to dreaming, she thought. Day dreams had always been her consolation, and although she did not realize it, they were an emotional outlet for her, too.

Pantomime —By J. H. Striebel

HOW IT STARTED

"BROWSE."

"I was browsing in the bookshelves —"

Did he mean he was eating books? Presumably not. Yet, according to its origin, that is the significance of the word "browse."

In its original usage browse was a noun, not a verb as it is most commonly used today. Derived from the old French "broust," meaning a sprout or shoot, it signified tender shoots or twigs, green food, which made ideal pasture for cattle. And it was to cattle grazing there and nibbling at the tender branches that the verb "to browse" was first applied.

How subsequent usage should have extended its meaning to its present every-day significance is easily comprehensible.

Foreign Slicker At Houston Gips A Neat Sum From Merchants, But Skips When Newspaper Man Exposes Fake

He Opens a Branch For Louisiana Concern And Plies the Old Trade of Offering Checks Considerably larger Than His Excellent Purchases

HOUSTON, Nov. 20.—A suave stranger, believed by local authorities to be an international swindler, had his activities nipped here today by W. J. Kearney, official of a local piano company, after he had swindled a number of Houston merchants by means of bogus checks. The man arrived in Houston several days ago, representing himself as connected with a chemical company in Louisiana. He announced that he planned to open a branch office of the chemical company in Houston and set about purchasing office furnishing. Handsomely engraved letter heads were ordered from a printing concern and a check for considerably more than the bill was presented in payment, the "count" taking the difference in cash and ordering part of the stationery shipped to the headquarters of the chemical company.

Other Victims, Too.

Other merchants were victimized in the same way, the stranger presenting drafts or checks for more than the amount of his purchases and securing considerable cash. He gave his name variously as "Count Von Ritter," "Dr. Ritter, surgeon," and "Dr. E. W. Ritter, personal secret service operative for former President Wilson." He also declared he had been a confidant of former Emperor Wilhelm of Germany.

The "count" was received in the best circles here during his short stay. Some of his victims entertained him lavishly, a few inviting him to their homes. But he over shot the mark when he attempted to purchase a piano and a newspaper man, who spent several years in Europe, was invited to attend a concert at which the "count" was a guest. The newspaper man became suspicious and warned the piano company.

Found It a Hoax.

A message was sent to the company the "count" claimed to represent in Louisiana and it was learned that they had no such representative and had no intention of opening a branch office in Texas at present. Their attorney arrived here today.

But the "count" had evidently become suspicious for when efforts were made to locate him at the hotel at which he registered upon arrival here, it was learned that the "count" had departed and neglected to leave a forwarding address.

The man is said to have worked the same scheme in New Orleans and Beaumont.

Hint of Clue in Furnace Mystery Is Given By Prosecutor After Question Is Put to Brothers of Dead Woman

Unknown Horror of Pastor's Wife's Death May Be Revealed at Columbus, Authorities State, After A Visit to Canton, Where She Lived

CANTON, Ohio, Nov. 20.—"Important information" toward a solution of how Mrs. Addie Sheatsley, 50, wife of C. V. Sheatsley, pastor of Christ's church in Bexley, an exclusive residential suburb of Columbus, Ohio, met her death, was obtained here tonight by Prosecutor John R. King, of Franklin county, (Columbus) the prosecutor announced following two hours of questioning of Charles and Harry Sponseller, of Canton, brothers of the dead woman.

Mrs. Sheatsley's charred remains were found in the furnace at their Columbus home Monday by her husband.

Angles Not Disclosed.

Prosecutor King did not disclose what new angles he had discovered, but announced he would remain here tomorrow in an effort to determine whether Mrs. Sheatsley was a murder or suicide victim.

Charles and Harry Sponseller rode from Columbus to Canton yesterday in an automobile with Clarence and Milton Sheatsley, sons of the dead woman.

With Detective Harry Carson, of Columbus, Mr. King arrived here today and awaited return of members of the family from Paris, near here, where funeral services for Mrs. Sheatsley were held today. Mr. Sheatsley and his four children are spending the night at Paris.

The possibility of Mrs. Sheatsley having taken poison from a bottle which authorities said is missing from its customary place in the Sheatsley home at Columbus, and that the woman's body was placed in the furnace by some one who did not want it to appear as though she had committed suicide, seemed strengthened tonight, authorities said.

At Girlhood Home.

Paris, Ohio, the girlhood home of Mrs. Sheatsley, turned out en masse this afternoon for the simple funeral and burial services for the victim.

Clarence, the sixteen-year-old son, who heretofore has displayed but little emotion, broke under the strain, during the services and sobbed at intervals. Both he and his brother, Milton, 20, gazed, downward constantly.

Mr. Sheatsley, as the casket was being lowered into the grave, broke down and appeared to be on the verge of collapse. Mrs. Lydia Sponseller, 81 years old, mother of Mrs. Sheatsley, who makes her home with a son, Charles, here, attended the funeral.

Schooner, Lost At Sea Since Nov. 15, Found Drifting Without Compass, Late Victim of Piracy and Rum Buccaneers

Ocean Hi-Jackers Attack Ship, Out of Bermuda For Six Weeks, and Vessel Floats Without Ability To Navigate Until U. S. Liner Rescues It

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—A tale of piracy on the high seas and of the disabling of a ship by modern buccaneers of the liquor trade was "put on the air" today by the United States liner President Harding, Hamburg to New York, which reported the schooner Veronica of London found drifting at sea without instruments to determine its position.

First reports picked up today by the east Moriches station of the Independent Wireless Telegraph Co., on Long Island from the President Harding reported the finding and condition of the Veronica and included the words "raiders" "pirates," which led to the belief that the schooner had fallen prey to a band of hi-jackers.

Later reports stated the President Harding had supplied the Veronica with instruments and had notified her owner, N. K. Warren of Halifax, N. S., to send a tug to her aid.

It was reported the schooner had been "lost" since November 15 when it had been out of Bermuda for six weeks, while it drifted along without any compass, chronometer or any instrument by which its officers could tell where they were or which way they wanted to go. The attention of the President Harding was attracted by flares and rockets from the disabled boat.

After the first meager report the United States line dispatched a radio message to the President Harding asking for more details and tonight received a reply which confirmed the belief that the schooner had fallen prey to hi-jackers.

Body Thrown From Negro Apartment

Mystery Surrounds Death of White Woman, Hurled From Third Story of Lodging House In Kansas City Wednesday

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 19.—Police are attempting to solve today the mysterious death of a white woman, about 40 years old, who either jumped or was thrown from the third story of a negro apartment house last night.

Dr. C. S. Nelson, deputy coroner, believes the woman was slain and then thrown from a porch.

John D. Black, negro, who lives on the third floor with his wife and children was arrested. He denies all knowledge of the woman's presence.

Neighbors said they heard some one knocking on the door of Black's apartment saying "let me in." "I want to sleep. Maybe I'll feel better."

Shortly afterwards several persons were heard leaving the third floor rooms by rear doors.

AQUEDUCT WAR AT AN END

Promise of Los Angeles Bankers To Get Action Dispel Ranchers.

LONE PINE, Calif., Nov. 20.—A barbecue and not bloodshed brought to a close today another chapter in the twenty year long water rights fued between the city of Los Angeles and ranchers of Owens Valley.

Ranchers who previously had declared that they would release their possession of the waste gates for nothing short of the appearance of state troops or the presentation by Los Angeles of an acceptable solution of the water rights controversy decided to abandon their policy when advised in a telegram from W. W. Watterson, Inyo county banker, that bankers of Los Angeles would use their best efforts to effect an equitable settlement, but not while the aqueduct was in "the hands of a mob."

FINISH CRIMINAL DOCKET

Felony Cases to Be Tried Today In U. S. Court, Civil Matters Saturday

The criminal docket of the fall term of federal court here will probably be cleared up today with the trial before Judge William H. Atwell of defendants in felony cases. The civil docket will be started Saturday, it seemed certain last night.

Misdemeanor cases were wound up last night at a night session of court when the last of the prohibition violations were heard. Pleas of guilty may be accepted and sentence passed by Judge Atwell in the future, but no more contested cases will be tried this term.

Half-a-dozen men were fined or sent to jail following their conviction or pleas of guilty in last night's session.

Trial of defendants on charges of interstate transportation of stolen automobiles will start this morning.

Pageant of History Is Proposed PTA Delegates By Retiring President

Outline Prepared by Mrs. R. H. Griffeth of Austin Suggested for Education Of Children Before Mothers Congress by Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs.

A real pageant of Texas history which is authentic as well as artistic, which takes the story from the time La Salle landed until the stars and stripes floated from the capital dome at Austin, which may be staged with comparatively simple sets and scenes, and was written by a Texas woman, Mrs. R. H. Griffeth of Austin, will be off the press for the dramatic workers of the state by the first of the year, according to announcement of the state librarian of Austin, Miss Elizabeth West.

The pagaent, Miss West explained, is titled "West With The Course of The Empire," and is written in the form of eighteen separate units which may be presented separately at different times as one act plays, or which may be presented as a three-day pagaent.

The character may be chosen from the public schools for valuable historical training, or the production may be staged by highly trained dramatic artists, it was stated.

Mrs. S. M. N. Marrs, retiring president of the State P. T. A., in referring to the pageant in the session of Thursday afternoon, stated that the inspiration for the writing of the pageant had been given to the author by the state P. T. A., who requested that she write such a play to give educational historical training to the school children of Texas.

Scratches of Pet Dog on Two-year-old Girl Cause of Precaution.

Little Virginia Corbin, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Corbin, 1513 Taylor, is taking Pasteur treatment for prevention of rabies, following scratches on the upper and lower eyelid from a neighbor's pet dog Tuesday.

The child had been playing with the dog and the scratches were thought to have been done in the regular play with the pet. Following the sudden death of the dog Tuesday evening, the head was examined in a local laboratory and found to be infected with dumb rabies. It was then thought the scratches about the child's eye might have been infected.

It was stated that the dog had not shown any signs of madness, though it had acted queer, jumping at other dogs, probably biting them. A number of dogs in the neighborhood have been killed.

Sheatsley in a hope of throwing some light on a theory that Mrs. Sheatsley may have been a suicide.
