Tax Cut Asked

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter is asking Congress to cut taxes by $25 billion, but says lawmakers should link the cuts with his plans for tax law changes.

"The full cuts in personal and corporate tax rates which I recommend would not be desirable in the absence of significant reform," Carter said in his special tax message to Congress.

Sadat Outlines Moves

CAIRO (AP)-President Anwar Sadat told the Egytian parliament today the Israeli people "showed in the most unmistakable human manner" their desire for peace, but he said peace could not be achieved "at the expense of others."

Sadat went before parliament to review events leading up to the dramatic breakoff in Egyptian-Israeli talks last Wednesday. His speech also was expected to be a lengthy outline of proposals for the next step in the peace process, and he was expected to again denounce the Israelis for what he considers intransigence in negotiating.

The Egyptian leader spoke from the same rostrum where he initiated his peace drive two months ago with an offer to go to Jerusalem. He said today he went to the Israeli capital Nov. 19 "with an open mind and an open heart."

IT'S ALL DONE--The lease agreement had been signed, congratulations and goodwill had been expressed and this group obviously was happy over the results Friday afternoon at the Snyder Chamber of Commerce office as Northern Electric officially announced that it would open a manufacturing plant in Snyder. From left, seated, are Martin Brooks, president of West Texas State Bank; Jimmy Daniels, who was announced as operations manager of the plant here, and Larry Udall, Northern Electric's vice president of planning and corporate development. Standing from left are, John Cameron, president of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, Paul Sizemore, president of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation; Roger B. # Northern Electric Coming To Snyder

Plans have been finalized for Northern Electric Co. to begin manufacturing automatic blankets in Snyder, W.F. Long, Northern's Vice President of Manufacturing, announced.

That prepared statement put the finishing touches on negotiations that began some three months ago between Northern and local interests who had been working for some two years to put a major industry in the former Wickes Building in North Snyder.

The final steps were taken Friday afternoon in the Snyder Chamber of Commerce conference room as two officers of the company met with representatives of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation, local financial firms, officials of the city, the chamber and the Scurry County Board of Development to sign lease agreements.

Papers were signed transferring the title to the Wickes Building property from Snyder National Bank, West Texas State Bank and Snyder Savings and Loan, the three firms which financed construction of the building, to the industrial foundation, which, in turn, transferred it to the city. The lease with Northern Electric was negotiated with the industrial foundation, and is set up on a plan similar to that which local agencies had with Wickes.

Representing Northern at the signing ceremonies were Larry Udall, vice president for planning and corporate development, and Jimmy Daniels, who has been appointed operations manager for the plant here.

Udall came here Friday from Laurel, Miss., Northern's corporate headquarters, while Daniels came up from Brownsville.

"As of this moment, I am a citizen of Snyder," said Daniels, who plans to move his family here as soon as possible.

Northern Electric Co., the world's largest manufacturer of automatic blankets, expects to start a pilot program within 60 days, with an employment level of approximately 150

Signing Almost An Anti-Climax

It was almost an anti-climax.

But the final action bringing Northern Electric Company's automatic blanket manufacturing plant to Snyder evoked congratulations from both sides of the table.

"Gentlemen, we are happy to become a part of Snyder, Texas," said Larry Udall, Northern's vice president for planning and corporate development. The sentiments were echoed by a gathering of some 15 or 20 Snyderites representing the Scurry County Industrial Foundation, the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, the Scurry County Board of Development, the City of Snyder and representatives of local financial firms.

The lease agreement between Northern and the Scurry County industrial Foundation was spread on the table.

Finally, after pleasantries were exchanged and goodwill was expressed, Udall made the statement that set off the transaction of the day.

"Is anyone going to sign this lease?" Udall asked.

Martin Brooks, president of West Texas State Bank, which is one of the mortgage holders on the building, promptly picked up his pen and began the chain of signatures.

Roger B. Mize, president of Snyder National, hauled out a giant-sized fountain pen, which he said had been presented to him at a director's meeting of the bank the day before.

"I'm going to use this big pen," he said.

Thus, months of "prospecting" work and several weeks of serious negotiations reached a successful conclusion.

Within a few moments it was all over. The ups and downs of past months were forgotten, temporarily, at least, and the eager anticipation that had built up steadily in recent weeks had been fulfilled.

The SDN Column

Slowly but surely some of our government services are being revamped at the local level, and in some cases changes are so logical that you wonder why they did not take place years ago.

For example, why didn't the state put voter registration records in the county clerk's office at the same time the poll tax was abolished? You could understand how voter registration could be classified as a tax office function so long as the poll tax was collected. But with no tax involved, this function clearly belongs in the clerk's office because the county clerk is responsible for all other records concerning elections.

The poll tax fell by the wayside when courts ruled that it was discriminatory, and possibly it was to some extent. Yet, we see figures from time-to-time indicating that a bigger percentage of the qualified voters actually cast ballots back in the poll tax days than now when there is no charge for a voter to register. The trend seems to confirm the theory that the easier it is to acquire something, the less value man places on it.

But, getting back to the switching of the voter registration duties from the county tax office to the county clerk's office, the tax assessor-collector s over the state have been trying to rid themselves of this function for several years. Of course it will add some work for the clerk's offices, but Scurry County Clerk Beverly Ainsworth sees the logic in it and hopes that it will reduce the confusion that crops up something among voters who have difficulty understanding why they have to register in one office, but must look to another for interpretation of election regulations, for absentee voting and various other little chores associated with our political life.

One of the big problems now that registration requirements have been relaxed is that many people assume that they can become voters without going through any red tape at all. This isn't the case and just this past week, warnings went out to persons who have moved since they registered as voters and failed to advise the tax office or the clerk's office of their new addresses. When the records were moved up to the clerk's office the other day, there were hundreds of registration cards that had been returned by the Postal Service because registrants had moved.

If you want to be certain that you can vote in elections this year, check and make sure that you have a yellow registration card. The blue cards are obsolete now and the yellow ones were mailed out several weeks ago. If you don't have a yellow voter card and you want to vote, get in touch with the clerk's office.

Long, Tedious Search For Ideal Tenant Ends

Perseverance has paid off!

The Scurry County Industrial Foundation knew all along that it had a tremendous asset in the huge building which was left vacant when Wickes Homes closed its plant here a couple of years ago. But finding the ideal tenant was something else again, and other local agencies were involved in the process. The foundation had constructed the 75,000 square-foot building in 1970 when an agreement was reached with Ritzcraft to establish a mobile home manufacturing plant here.

Financing was arranged through Snyder National Bank, West Texas State Bank and Snyder Savings and Loan. The lease with Ritzcraft was designed to amortize the cost over a period of 20 years.

By the time production began, however, Ritzcraft merged with the Wickes Corp., a major firm known mostly for marketing of building materials. This served to strengthen the firm, which Snyder had landed after fierce competition with a number of cities and towns in the region. In fact, at one time, state industrial commission officials had regretfully informed local leaders that it appeared that Snyder had no chance to land the mobile home plant.

But negotiations continued and ultimately Snyder was selected for the plant.

The mobile home market did a dipsy-do a few years later and Wickes began easing out of the business, finally closing the plant here two years ago.

That touched off the campaign to find a new tenant for the building. Advertisements were placed in various trade journals, Texas Electric

Gins Turn Out 83,738 Bales

Final ginning figures confirm that Scurry County's 1978 cotton crop zoomed to an all-time high.

The totals show that 83,738 bales were processed by Scurry County gins. This is more than 25,000 bales more than any other year in memory of local observers who have kept tract of area agriculture for many years.

Also, the bulk of the harvest was completed by the end of the year, and most gins ended their ginning seasons much earlier than usual.

Exact production figures will not be known until cross-county ginnings are tabulated, since some of the Scurry gins process cotton from adjoining counties. However, indications were that more of Scurry County's cotton went to gins in other counties than other counties sent here. Some went to gins as far away as Dawson County when local gins had huge backlogs on their yards.

The final ginning figures:

In Special Message From Carter

$25 Billion Tax-Cut Plan Sent Congress

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) President Carter sent Congress an economy-boosting $25 billion tax-cut plan Saturday but warned that proposed reductions would have to be cut back sharply if Congress fails to adopt companion tax law revisions.

In a special message, Carter said $34 billion in tax cuts would be partially offset by $9 billion in extra revenues that would stem from a broad range of tax law changes.

The proposed revisions, although scaled down from Carter's original intent to submit "comprehensive tax reforms," are certain to stir controversy because of their impact on varied interest groups.

Labeling his tax package "a central part of the administration's overall economic strategy," Carter contended it would mark " a major step towards sustaining our economic recovery and making our tax system fairer and simpler."

He painted a rather gloomy picture of a sagging economy later this year if Congress does not accept his tax blueprint.

The Carter proposals emerged with the following net reductions envisioned: $17 billion for individuals and $6 billion for corporations, plus a $2 billion revenue loss from repeal of the federal excise tax on telephone service and a reduction in business payroll taxes for unemployment compensation.

For individuals, tax cuts to take effect Oct. 1 would benefit everyone with an income of less than $100,000 a year, Carter said.

"Over 94 percent of the net individual tax relief will be provided to individuals and families earning less than $30,000 per year ...," he added. "Under my proposals, the typical family of four that earns $15,000 a year will save almost $260, a 19 percent tax reduction."

The present top corporate tax rate of 48 percent would drop to 45 percent on Oct. 1 and to 44 percent on Jan. 1, 1980.

Credits for business investment in new plants and equipment would be liberalized. However, the president called for a new crackdown on tax shelters that benefit the rich and restrictive new rules governing business expense deductions.

"The privileged few are being subsidized by the rest of the taxpaying public when they routinely deduct the cost of country club dues, hunting lodges, elegant meals, theater and sports tickets and night club shows," he said. "But the average worker's rare 'night on the town' is paid for out of his own pocket with after-tax dollars."

Carter urged that all such business deduction be forbidden, as well as any for first-class air travel.

In addition, he wants only half the cost of business-related meals to be deductible. This would constitute his attack on what he referred to during the campaign as the "two-martini lunch."

Another major change affecting many American corporations would make their foreign earnings fully subject to U.S. taxes after 1980.

Carter said the present system of levying taxes only after earnings are brought home "provides an incentive for investing abroad rather than in the United States, thereby having the effect of reducing job opportunities for Americans."

Wage earners wold feel the impact of the proposed reductions on Oct. 1, when lower withholding rates would take effect. Said Carter:

"The tax reductions will more than offset the recent increase in Social Security taxes and will provide the consumer purchasing power and business investment strength we need to keep our economy growing strongly and unemployment moving down."

He contended the tax package, together with budget proposals being submitted Monday, "should assure that our economy will grow at a 4½ to 5 percent pace through 1979, with unemployment declining to between 5½ and 6 percent by the end of 1979."

However, he said, should Congress reject his proposals, "economic growth would slow markedly toward the end of 1978 and fall to about 3½ percent in 1979," with unemployment apt to increase.

Individual tax rates, which now range from 14 to 70 percent, would be redu d across the board by two pe centage points.

Another major proposal would eliminate current individual tax credits and exemptions of $750 per dependent. These would be replaced by a flat credit, deducted from taxes due, of $240 per family member. The effect would benefit those in lower income brackets at the expense of more affluent taxpayers.

For example, the $750 exemption is worth $325 to a taxpayer in the 50 percent bracket but only $101.50 in the lowest bracket. Under the Carter plan each would save $240.

The president also wants to reduce the number of deductions available to those who itemize expenses that are subtracted from taxable income. He would eliminate all deductions for state and local sales taxes, state gasoline taxes and personal property taxes, except those levied on residences or buildings. He also wants to repeal deductions for political contributions, while retaining present alternative tax credits for political gifts.

Carter also is asking Congress to combine deductions for medical expenses and casualty losses of over $100. The combined deductions could be claimed only to the extent they exceed 10 percent of adjusted gross income.

For many individuals, this change would eliminate a deduction of up to $150 a year for medical insurance premiums.

Citing fairness as his reason, the president proposed that some unemployment compensation benefits be subjected to federal income taxes for the first time. He recommended that the long-standing tax exemption "be phased out as an individual's income rises above $20,000 for a single person or $25,000 for married couples."

At present, Carter noted, a jobless person could collect the same income as a neighbor with a job, yet be better off financially because his income from benefits would not be taxed.

Under the Carter plan, telephone excises would be repealed effective Oct. 1. The payroll tax for federal unemployment insurance would be reduced next Jan. 1 to 0.5 percent of an employer's taxable wage base. It now is 0.7 percent. Carter argued these changes would help combat inflation.

Tax Cut To Help Low, Middle-Income People

By CARL CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- President Carter says a typical family of four earning $15,000 a year would save $258, a 19 percent tax reduction, under his tax-cutting plan.

The income tax saving would be an estimated $322 for such a family making $30,000.

"Over 94 percent of the net individual tax relief will be provided to individuals and families earning less than $30,000 per year," Carter said Saturday in his tax message to Congress, "and every income class up to $30,000 will bear a smaller share of the overall tax burden than it does now."

Carter called for across-the-board rate reductions and creation of a new personal tax credit, "focused primarily on low- and middle-income taxpayers," with lower tax withholding rates to be put into effect Oct. 1. Workers would experience an increase in take-home pay then.

Currently, tax law provides $750 exemptions for members of the family, which reduce the amount of income subject to taxation. Present law also includes a temporary program of general tax credits, which let a taxpayer cut taxes by either $35 per family member or by 2 percent of the first $9,000 of taxable income.

Carter proposed that this existing exemption and general credit system be replaced with a single credit of $240 per family member.

A credit, which is an amount subtracted directly from taxes owed, is generally considered to be more valuable to most taxpayers than a deduction, which is worth proportionately more as income rises. A credit is less advantageous to the wealthy.

"Unlike the current structure, the new credit will provide the same benefit at all income levels; for a family with four members, the per capita credit will be worth $960 whether that family is middle-class or wealthy," Carter said.

"The $240 credit will ensure that most families at or near the poverty level will pay no taxes. Also, a single tax credit will simplify tax return preparation by eliminating the confusion caused by the existing combination of exemptions and alternative credits," he added.

Carter's recommended tax rate structure - the percentage of taxable income paid to the government - would range from a low bracket of 12 percent to a top bracket of 68 percent, rather than the current 14 percent to 70 percent.

"As under current law, the top rate bracket will apply with respect to income in excess of $200,000 for joint returns and $100,000 for single returns," he said.

Carter also said that for most people in the lower and middle income levels there would be "a sizeable net reduction in combined income and payroll taxes even after the scheduled Social Security tax increases are taken into account."

Last month, Carter signed legislation boosting payroll taxes by $227 billion during the coming decade to keep the huge Social Security system in business.

Hijacker Is Overpowered

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)-The head of pakistan's airline made a sudden grab for a hijacker he had been negotiating with today, and some of the armed man's 22 hostages overpowered him and dragged him from the airliner at the Karachi airport.

A spokesman for Pakistan International Airlines said the hijacker fired his pistol during the struggle and wounded the PIA chairman, Air Marshal Nur Khan. The bullet was removed from his stomach, a surgeon who operated on him for two hours said, and he was reported improving.

The hijacker, who said he was an army deserter who had been working in a hotel, commandeered the twin-engine, turboprop Fokker 27 Friday morning on a flight from Sukkur, in central Pakistan, to Karachi. He demanded $2 million for cancer treatment in India and ordered the pilot to take him there but agreed to let the plane refuel in Karachi.

In Karachi, he released 19 of the 41 persons aboard, including all the women and children, and allowed Khan and a PIA catering crew with food and water to enter the plane.

Khan offered himself in exchange for the remaining hostages but the man refused. The airline chairman told him he could not raised the money on Friday because it was the Moslem sabbath and the banks were closed.

The hijacker replied that he would hold the 22 hostages until the money was delivered. But Khan jumped him several hours before the banks opened.

One of the hostages said the man appeared to be about 30. He told police he was a Punjabi named Nazir Mohammad. He claimed that in addition to his pistol he had two bombs, but officials said they were fakes.

Screw Threads Standardized By Sellers

WASHINGTON (AP)-In 1864, William Sellers standardized screw threads so that screws could easily and quickly be replaced in most machines from toasters, shavers, cars and roller skates to baby carriages and jetliners.

After hearing his proposal that year, the government took only four years to adopt his system, then known as "the Sellers or United States standard," according to Intellectual Property Owners, Inc.

Sellers was a prolific inventor and had the business sense to capitalize on his 90 patents, says IPO, a non-profit organization devoted to strengthening the patent system that encouraged such innovators as Sellers.

Sellers was widely honored before his death on Jan. 24, 1905, becoming president of the Franklin Institute and a chevalier of the French Legion of Honor. He was also blessed by manufacturers, machinists, mechanics, tinkerers and housewives.

PLEASED WITH THEIR DEAL--Larry Udall, right, Northern Electric vice president for planning and corporate development, and Jimmy Daniels, operations manager for the firm's Snyder plant, said they were happy to see their firm become a part of Snyder. "As of today, I am a citizen of Snyder," said Daniels, who is moving here from Brownsville. (SDN Staff Photo).

FIRST TO SIGN--Martin Brooks, center, president of West Texas State Bank, was the first to sign the lease agreement with Northern Electric Co. He passed the document along to John Greene, left, WTSB vice president and cashier, as Jimmy Daniels, right, operation manager of the plant, discusses Northern's plans for a plant here. persons by the end of the first year of operation. The employment level should ultimately exceed 400 employees, the formal announcement prepared by Long, stated.

Udall and Daniels said that equipment would be loaded up and forwarded to Snyder almost immediately because the company is anxious to get into actual production here.

"We will receive components from a plant in Matamoros, Mexico," said Daniels. "The Snyder plant will turn out the finished products."

The Northern officials said the additional blanket assembly operation is necessary because of the increasing demand for blankets fueled by the national energy situation. With production in several facilities, they said, the company will be better equipped to meet this expanding demand.

Northern has a similar plant in operation in Waynesboro, Miss., and it will continue to operate at full capacity, the company officials said.

"We are very happy to be in Snyder," declared Udall as the lease agreements were being signed for the Wickes Building. "We are looking forward to a long association with the community."

Daniels said he and his family were looking forward to living in Snyder.

"We came up here during the Christmas holidays and looked around," said Daniels. "We decided then that we would like to live here if plans for the plant in Snyder were completed."

Daniels and his wife have a son and a daughter, 13 and 8, and he said that school arrangements likely would determine when the family would move here.

"But I'm here now and as of this moment I am a citizen of Snyder," said the operations manager.

Involved in the signing of the fiscal documents are Martin Brooks, president, and John Greene, vice president and cashier, of West Texas State Bank; Roger B. Mize, president, and Robert Pinkston, cashier, of Snyder National Bank; Mize as president and John Pickering Jr., vice president, of Snyder Savings and Loan; Paul Sizemore, president, and James Rosser, secretary, of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation; and Mayor John Fagin for the City of Snyder.

Long Search Comes To End

Service Company's Area Development Department collaborated with the Snyder Chamber of Commerce in printing a small brochure on the building. Efforts of the chamber, the industrial foundation, the Scurry County Board of Development, the city and county governments, the local financial firms and many individuals were focused on bringing a major industry into town to occupy the Wickes Building.

Representatives of dozens of firms came here to inspect the building and to confer with local leaders about its availability. Several times it appeared that negotiations were about to jell and several times there were firms who were all but ready to sign. However, most of the latter were firms which would employ relatively few people. And despite the fact that the building had remained empty much longer than the local organization had hoped, they were reluctant to make a deal with any firm that did not offer employment to 50 or more people, and they more often talked in terms of 100 or more.

So, the search continued, and finally, last summer, two or three prospects that appeared to be the type the foundation and its associates had been hunting expressed interest in the building. Still, negotiations were proceeding slowly.

And then, along came Northern Electric. Officials of Northern advised that they were definitely interested in the Wickes Building as the site for a plant to turn out automatic blankets. The only problem they envisioned was a possible shortage of labor here. They indicated that, if a labor survey showed that enough workers would be available to staff a plant employing over 400 persons, they would come to Snyder.

The survey was conducted last November and not only Northern Electric officials, but local people as well, were surprised at the results. Over 800 potential applicants signed up.

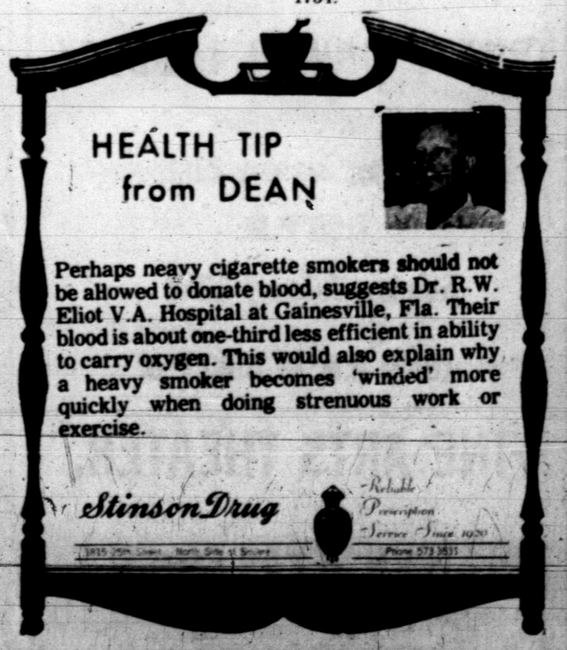

Serious negotiations began then, with correspondence and telephone calls handled mostly through the Chamber of Commerce and Industrial Foundation. Bill Henry, chamber manager, and his staff coordinated the activity on this end, and once the Northern people even picked Henry up in their company plane and flew him to Mississippi so that he could look over some of their existing plants and become better acquainted with their operations.

Finally, a proposed lease agreement was drawn up by James Rosser, local attorney and secretary of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation. It went to Northern's officers and attorneys and then to officials of Sunbeam, Northern's parent company. There were revisions and re-revisions, deletions, additions, etc., until the final draft was signed Friday afternoon.

It was a long wait, but in Northern Electric, Snyderites feel that they landed the prize that they had been seeking since the day Wickes closed its doors.

Patient Kills 2 With Scissors

CAMP PENDLETON (AP)-A naval hospital patient stabbed and killed two patients with scissors and wounded a hospital security guard before being shot by a military policeman, Marine officials reported today.

Lance Cpl. Armando C. Vasquez, 20, of El Paso, Tex. was undergoing surgery today for two 45-caliber wounds in the trunk of his body, said a Camp Pendleton spokesman.

Vasquez was admitted to the Naval Regional Medical Center at Camp Pendleton Friday afternoon for observation of possible head and neck injuries sustained in a truck accident, said Staff Sgt. Gene Polhamus. Vasquez had been the driver in the accident which killed one passenger and injured seven.

Hospital officials said Vasquez became unruly about 10:30 p.m. and ward personnel sent for a security guard, who was attacked and stabbed in the right thigh, both forearms, face and back.

The assailant then ran to another ward on the same floor and fatally stabbed retired Chief Warrant Officer John J. Connelly, 63 of Oceanside, hospital officials said. The patient then entered another room and fatally stabbed 62-year-old Janet S. Merriman, of Carlsbad. She was the widow of an Army officer.

The unruly patient rushed the first military policeman who arrived and the officer fired, Polhamus said.

Gov. Thompson Resigns At Club

CHICAGO (AP)-Chicago's exclusive Union League Club has one less member, Gov. James R. Thompson, and it's because of women - not one in particular, but all women.

Thompson resigned his membership at the club Friday saying he objects to its men-only membership policy.

Last September, Thompson said he would continue his membership in the 99-year-old club, and would try to convince other members that they should admit women.

But a vote in December upheld the club's men-only policy.

Herbert C. Brook, president of the 4,000-member club, said women are welcomed as guests but its facilities, including "already overtaxed" athletic facilities, are not adequate for use by women and men.

Brock Calls For Probe Into Firing Of Marston

By JAMES H. RUBIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) Republican Party Chairman Bill Brock called today for a congressional investigation into the firing of the Republican U.S. attorney in Philadelphia who says he is investigating two Democratic congressmen.

The Justice Department is trying to convince local prosecutors that the Philadelphia investigation will continue despite the firing of U.S. Attorney David Marston.

In a telegram sent to the congressional leadership of both parties, Brock said "It is clear that the administration has neither the courage nor the moral commitment to tell the truth to the American people."

Brock's telegram called for hearings in both houses into what he called "the ruthless firing of one of America's outstanding, dedicated and effective law enforcement officers."

Attorney General Griffin B. Bell on Friday reiterated his decision to replace U.S. Attorney David Marston, although in a two-hour meeting he asked Marston to stay on for three months until a successor is found. Marston refused and quit effective Monday.

And Marston accused the administration of bowing to pressure from Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Pa., one of the two congressmen being investigated in connection with the government financing of a $65 million addition to Hahnemann Hospital in Philadelphia.

Marston, a 35-year-old Republican who was appointed to the Philadelphia job 18 months ago by then President Gerald R. Ford, told reporters that Bell's offer to keep him temporarily was unacceptable.

"I don't want to be a lame duck," he said. "I've been crippled by the events of the last few weeks."

Marston said he has been unable to get any cooperation from defense attorneys since the controversy erupted because they are waiting to see who will replace him.

Bell said in a prepared statement that criminal prosecution will not suffer as a result of the change in prosecutors and promised to find a successor of "at least Mr. Marston's equal in ability, character and integrity."

"There will be no letup in the present approach or attitude toward public corruption," Bell declared.

But the attorney general conceded that one of the three Justice Department lawyers he sent to Philadelphia last week told him that there will be a temporary loss of momentum from the Marston dismissal. Bell said the other two felt there would be no harm done.

Meanwhile, Benjamin Civiletti, head of the Justice Department's criminal division, will go to Philadelphia on Monday to state Bell's commitment to the hospital investigation and urge chief assistants in Marston's office to remain.

The Marston controversy attracted national attention after Carter told a news conference last week that he told Bell in November to speed up Marston's firing after receiving a telephone call from Eilberg asking that the firing be expedited. The administration, however, denied having any knowledge at the time that Eilberg was under investigation by Marston's office.

Meat Grading Plan Cuts Confusion

WASHINGTON (AP)-Consumers would have more accurate information about the meat they buy under Agriculture Department proposals that are also designed to eliminate fraud in federal meat grading.

The department's grading system is the basis for beef and lamb prices and are heavily used in advertising and promotion.

"If a grader dishonestly upgrades just one out of every 10 carcasses from good to choice, the packer could gain $12,000 a week - all at the expense of consumers and producers," Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol Tucker Foreman said Friday in announcing the proposals.

The department will hold hearings in March in Washington, San Francisco, Omaha and Atlanta before making any of the proposals final.

Ms. Foreman said the most important proposal for consumers is one to require that meat on the grocery shelf be marked either with a quality grade, such as prime, choice or good, or be labeled "ungraded."

She said ungraded meat now often is represented for sale as being of higher quality than it actually is. The consumer who does not understand the difference between a government grade and a store label pays too much for it, she said.

While federal grading would remain voluntary for the meat packer, the labels would be aimed at reducing consumer confusion, Ms. Foreman said.

Bullet Nestled In Money

GLENDALE, Calif. (AP) -What price safety?

Well, for Sam Lugash, it was a wad of $20 bills.

Lugash, 72, was knocked to the ground by the pistol of an attacker and robbed of $700.

Glendale police officer Ron Seeley said when he was hit, Lugash dropped a briefcase containing $700. As the attacker went for the briefcase, Seeley said, a 34-year-old Los Angeles woman saw what was going on and drove into action.

"She crossed over the double yellow line and tried to run the suspect over," the officer said. "She told me she just missed him by inches."

But in the confusion, the robber, who lost his glasses, took a shot at Lugash.

Seeley said officers found no wound or bullet.

"About 1½ hours later, Lugash called up and said, 'Hey, I found your bullet,'" Seeley said. Lugash, Seeley said, had pulled up his shirt and looked inside his money pouch. The bullet was nestled in a wad of bills.

Man Trains Insects For TV

LOS ANGELES (AP)-Jim Dannaldson, 62, has an unusual occupation. He trains insects for television and film.

"Behavior control is a better description than train," says his wife, Beth, who often works as his assistant. "Train sounds like teaching a dog tricks. With insects, you know their habits, you know how to handle them, and you know what can be expected of them."

When director George Stevens called upon him to work on "Gunga Din" some 40 years ago, Dannaldson was curator of reptiles at the University of Southern California. He helped turn harmless gopher snakes into cobras by attaching fake hoods around the snakes' necks, then raising them up cobra-like with hidden bamboo poles. He imported iguanas and other reptiles for Hal Roach's original "One Million Years, B.C."

His latest assignment was Robert Aldrich's "Choirboys," for which he handled a duck and a multitude of cockroaches.

Goodwin

sideration and much encouragement from many citizens in Scurry County," Goodwin said. "I would like very much to be your county judge and your support and vote for me in the May Democratic primary would be very much appreciated."

Goodwin becomes the second person in the judge's race as incumbent judge Preston Wilson earlier announced his plans to run for re-election.

Goodwin is serving his first term as justice of the peace. A former Snyder chief of police, Goodwin moved to Snyder as a city patrolman in 1966. He was appointed chief of police in 1970 and served until 1973.

He was later appointed as the environmental control officer for the city of Snyder. Goodwin said he began his public service career 18 years ago.

A native of Coleman County, Goodwin attended schools in Santa Anna. He graduated from Western Texas College in 1974 with an Associate of Applied Science degree in mangement.

In 1976 he graduated from the American Academy of Judical Education. As a law enforcement officer, he has attained the highest degree of certification. As justice of the peace he also has attended annual certification schools as required by law.

Goodwin is married to the former Sue Lane. They have three children--Jay age 17, Jon age 14 and Jennifer, age 9.

Miss Minnelli Still Off Stage

NEW YORK (AP)-Liza Minnelli's play, "The Act," is on Broadway, but she's still off stage.

Miss Minnelli will stay away from the play for another week to recuperate from the lung congestion that sent her to the hospital. A spokesman for the management of her show said the essentially one-woman show would resume Jan. 30, and Miss Minnelli probably would go home from the hospital this weekend.

She last performed on Jan. 13, and counting a performance she missed because of a minor fire in her apartment, she will have missed 26 performances by the time she returns. And that, play officials say, will cost producers a total of $754,000.

General Lee Opposed Slavery

CHICAGO (AP)-Although General Robert E. Lee fought valiantly for the Confederacy in the War between the States, he was privately opposed to slavery and did not favor secession from the Union.

Lee, whose Jan. 9 birthday anniversary is a legal holiday in most Southern states, felt that slavery had an evil effect on masters as well as slaves, according to The World Book Encyclopedia. Long before the outbreak of the Civil War, he set free the few slaves he had inherited.

Three Shoplifting Suspects Arrested

Three shoplifting suspects were nabbed late Friday morning by city police.

Following tours of two local stores, the suspects are alleged to have taken about $113 worth of clothing. They were arrested while allegedly attempting to shoplift some items at a third store.

The suspects were booked at the city jail on charges of misdemeanor theft.

In other reports, police investigated a two-vehicle accident at the intersection of 25th St. and Ave. R at 9:35 p.m. Friday.

Involved in the mishap were a 1972 Chevrolet pickup driven by Danny Courtney and a 1977 Chevrolet driven by Delio Herrera of Colorado City. Moderate damages were reported to each vehicle.

Courtney, 16, was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital were he was treated and later released.

At 4:07 p.m. Friday, a 1975 Pontiac driven by Rebecca Lee was in collision with a 1976 Chevrolet driven by Lorita Clinkinbeard. The mishap occurred in the 2600 block of 40th St. and resulted in minor damage to the vehicles.

Two vehicles also collided at the Minute Market at 6:14 p.m. The mishap involved a 1978 Pacer driven by Ronnie Wooldridge and a 1969 Pontiac driven by Amado Garcia. Only minor damages were reported in the mishap.

The final mishap, a hit and run, was reported at 1:08 a.m. Saturday at the Mobile Plaza.

Larry Burns told police that the 1974 Ford he was operating was struck by another vehicle which left the scene. The Burns car received minor damages, reports show.

Seeks Buyer For Town

REDONDO BEACH Calif. (AP)-Some realtors sell homes. Pat O'Shaughnessy sells towns.

He was recently looking for a buyer for Gorda, a 9-acre community with a population of 20.

Gorda consists of five bungalows, two apartment units, a gas station, a grocery store and a Mexican cafe. The owner, Larry Anderson, set a price of $950,000. The residents, of course, would not be included in the sale.

"I bought the land 20 years ago from the man who homesteaded the land," said Anderson, who did not disclose why he is selling.

Carter Dinner Raises $850,000

By MAUREEN SANTINI
Associated Press Writer

ST. SIMONS ISLAND, Ga. (AP)-Jimmy Carter began his second year as president by celebrating with fellow Georgia Democrats at a fund-raising dinner in Atlanta and then flew to this island resort.

Carter planned to return to his hometown of Plains, Ga., Saturday for the funeral of his 89-year-old uncle, Alton Carter. The funeral was scheduled to begin at 11 a.m. at the breakaway Maranatha Baptist Church.

The fund-raiser, billed as the Southern Salute to the President Dinner, enhanced the Democratic Party's treasury by an estimated $850,000 before expenses.

"You elected me to be president," Carter told the crowd, which included several Cabinet members. "You gave me a job to do. As long as I am in the White House, I am going to try to do a good job because you have confidence in me."

About 1,700 persons in black tie attire paid $500 each for the dinner of duck l'orange and a chance to shake Carter's hand. The fund-raiser, the first of a series of five, was intended to help erase the Democratic Party's $2 million debt and boost the treasury for this year's congressional elections.

The president and his wife Rosalynn mingled at each of the 200 tables in a cement floored exhibit hall in the World Congress Center.

Carter, who was inaugurated a year ago Friday, was introduced by Bert Lance, former director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Lance, a personal friend of the president, resigned last September amid controversy over his financial dealings. He recently announced he would become an Atlanta television commentator.

Earlier at an afternoon reception, Carter greeted Georgians who worked on his campaign, telling them, "We are partners in everything I do every day, and I want you to stay close to me."

Mrs. Carter added: "Jimmy is doing a great job for the country."

The Carters, who left Washington on Friday afternoon, spent the night at the secluded Musgrove Plantation in St. Simons Island off the Georgia coast. Except for the funeral, they planned to spend the remainder of the weekend on the island, returning to Washington on Monday afternoon.

No Response To Proposed Canal Debate

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)-An anti-Panama Canal treaty group has ended its cross-country tour with a renewed call on President Carter for a televised debate pitting members of the "truth squad" against administration officials.

Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., said there has been no response yet to the debate proposal, but he thinks it will be accepted if the administration "has nothing to fear" from letting the public hear both sides.

Crane was joined at a news conference Friday by Reps. Larry McDonald, D-Ga., Mickey Edwards, R-Okla., George Hansen, R-Idaho, and several other treaty opponents.

The trip was organized under the auspices of The Committee to Save the Panama Canal and was financed by individual contributions from several organizations. William Rhatican, manager of the committee, said the trip cost about $75,000.

Mrs. Humphrey May Accept Appointment

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)-Sen. Muriel Humphrey?

Sources close to the family of the late Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey say his wife, Muriel, may accept an appointment to finish her husband's term if it is offered.

Mrs. Humphrey, 65, has the backing of dozens of leaders in the Democratic-Farmer-Labor Party, the sources say, adding that Mrs. Humphrey and her family want no strings attached to an offer to finish the term.

According to state law, the governor must make a temporary appointment, and that person would serve until a special election is held in November to replace Humphrey, who died Jan. 13.

Valentine's Day Is Oldest Holiday

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)-Valentine's Day is the oldest holiday celebrated in the Western world, dating back some 1,500 years, says researcher for Hallmark Cards.

The holiday evolved from the Roman feast of Lupercalia held on Feb. 15 to honor the god Lupercus and Juno, goddess of marriage. In 496 A.D., Pope Gelasium ordered that Feb. 14, eve of the pagan feast, be celebrated as St. Valentine's Day in memory of Valentinus, a priest martyred on that date in 264 A.D. for refusing to renounce Christianity.

Blasts Precede Vance

SALONIKA, Greece (AP)-Two powerful time bombs damaged the American library and an American Express office in this northern Greek city early today hours before Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance was to arrive in Athens.

Police said the bombs exploded within a short time of each other. No one was hurt, but damage was heavy and extended to surrounding buildings.

The bombs were believed to have been planted by leftists who contend that Vance is visiting Greece to try to pressure the government into concessions to Turkey and the Turkish Cypriots so that Greece and Turkey will resume full military participation in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Recent statements by the Greek government and Turkey's new government indicate there are prospects of resuming the talks on the future of Cyprus.

A group called the Committee for Self-Determination on Cyprus held an anti-American, anti-Turkish rally Friday in downtown Athens, but only 50 persons attended. Greece's major opposition party, the anti-American Panhellenic Socialist Movement, condemned Vance's visit but said it planned no demonstrations.

Vance went to Turkey Friday for talks with Premier Bulent Ecevit after meeting with President Anwar Sadat in Cairo and failing to get his agreement to resumption of peace negotiations between the Israeli and Egyptian foreign ministers.

Vance is scheduled to return to Washington Sunday.

Manford Reappointed To Insurance Board

AUSTIN (AP)-Gov. Dolph Briscoe has reappointed Carl Manford to the State Insurance Board in spite of recommendations by one member and the board's former chairman that he not be given another term.

Briscoe announced the reappointment Friday, nearly a year after Manford's term had expired. The new term runs to 1983.

Manford, 60, has been on the board since former Gov. Price Daniel put him there in 1961.

His term expired Jan. 31, 1977, but Briscoe took no action on the appointment, thus avoiding a Senate confirmation hearing during last year's legislative session. Manford will now be able to serve another full year without facing the Senate Nominations Subcommittee, since the legislature does not meet again until 1979.

Briscoe's decision received more than the usual amount of attention since former insurance board chairman Joe Christie advised him in 1976 not to reappoint Manford - and then told reporters about it.

Christie and Manford often were at odds because of Manford's opposition to the former chairman's aggressive consumerism. Christie was known to regard Manford privately as an obstructionist and pro-industry.

In late 1976 Manford and board member Ned Price traded punches at a board meeting, culminating a period of growing animosity.

Current board chairman Hugh Yantis, who also faces confirmation in 1979, recently said he did not agree with Christie's recommendation to dump Manford because Manford "is too good a man."

Manford and Briscoe served in the Legislature together, with Manford as House speaker at a time when Briscoe was a rank-and-file representative during the late 1940s.

The governor's release said Manford is "of Austin," but Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin, said Briscoe had not exercised the usual courtesy of clearing an appointee with his hometown senator.

Yantis, who lives in Doggett's district, also was appointed without the senator's approval, but is expected to move his official residence to Seguin to gain the sponsorship of Sen. John Traeger.

Doggett said he would "consider all the alternatives" but that failure to grant him senatorial courtesy "would bias me on that appointment."

By BILL McCLELLAN

Snyder varsity girls opened with 15 straight points and never glanced back here Friday night enroute to blasting their second 3-AAA opponent in a week.

The 64-33 victory over Lubbock Dunbar gives Snyder a 2-0 district mark, with only San Angelo Lake View standing in the way of a first round championship. The Tigers are scheduled to meet Lake View, the league favorite, Feb. 3.

Four Tiger players landed double figures for the contest, with Carrie Taylor's 19 points heading the list. Jamie Hataway added 14 to the total, as did Kim Harlin, and Susie Fisher tagged on 10 more.

The local crew dominated the game from the first buzzer, posting a first-quarter score of 21-8 over the Pantherettes. With Taylor and Hataway sharing the offensive duties, Snyder scored the first 15 points in the ball game.

Seventeen more points in the second quarter put the Felines ahead 38-18 at the half. Taylor accounted for 13 of her points in the first 8 minutes alone, while Hataway had 8. Harlin led the scoring in the second period with 10 individual points.

Backing the defense for Snyder during the early going were guards Liz Bilano, Cindy Koonsman, Debra Baach and Marsha Parham.

The early lead was all the momentum Snyder needed, and despite efforts by Dunbar to turn the game around, the Tigers had it virtually locked up in the first half.

"We got the early lead tonight," noted Coach Ken Housden after the game. "That's something we don't always do. We had to come from behind to beat Estacado (53-50) the other night.

"We also had good, equal scoring," he added pointing out the four players in double figures. "We've had three several times before, but not four. This is something you've got to have in important games."

Neither team showed much enthusiasm in the third set. Possession was kept under Snyder's goal for most of the period, although the Tigers only managed 6 points. Dunbar was limited to 4 points.

Combining five field goals with 10 free shots, the home team basketed 20 points in the final stanza to put the game into the boring stage...a 30-point lead.

Suzie Fisher garnered all of her 10 points in the set; four from the line and six from the floor.

Leading the Pantherette scoring for the evening were Zaragoza with 14 points and Thompson with 13. Thompson had the potential to open things up for the Lubbock-based squad with some deadly outside shooting, but her efforts were only sparatic and failed to faze a quickly built up Snyder lead.

Snyder showed its best free throw shooting in the past three games, hitting 18 of 31 for a figure of 58 percent. Dunbar went 9 of 25 for 36 percent.

Up next for the Tigers are a couple of non-district games against class 2A Ozona. The Tigers will be hosted by the squad Tuesday, and will have the honor of welcoming them here on Jan. 31.

Meanwhile, Coach Housden's prediction of Snyder being in the thick of the 3-AAA race are coming true.

"Yes, I think we are improving tremendously," he commented, thumbing through the scorebook. "I think we could beat any one of these teams (past opponents this season) now. We're not the same team we were then. When we started way back here," he said, pointing to the first games against teams like Rotan and Colorado City, "we weren't using the same combination of forwards.

"I think we're coming along all the time. I think if we play against Lake View the way we played tonight, we can beat them."

Free Throws Slide Felines To Victory

Snyder junior varsity laid in 13 free throws - including 9 in the fourth quarter - to slip past the visiting Dunbar Pantherette JV girls here Friday, 35-28.

The victory raises Snyder's season mark to 17-7 overall, and gives them a 1-1 record in district play. Next up for the Tigers will be Ozona in Ozona at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday.

A cold Snyder team hit only one basket in Friday's opening quarter and fell behind 7-2 after the first eight minutes to play. But aided by Karen Littlepage, who garnered 11 points for the night, the Tigers posted 12 in the second period while holding Dunbar to 6, and took a 20-13 lead into the dressing room at half time.

Both squads managed 6 points in the third quarter, but Snyder's 15 fourth-stanza points were enough to earn them a victory, as Dunbar could manage but 9.

Also scoring for Snyder were Billie Owens, 9; Sandy Sewell, 8; Tanya Barret, 3; and Shari Cotton and Tanya Hataway, 2 each.

B. Linzey led the Pantherette scoring with 6 points. B. Johnson and Hayes had 5 each.

The Tigers were able to score only 11 field goals all night while the visitors made 13, but 13 free throw shots compared to only two for Dunbar made the difference. Snyder was 13 of 26 (50 percent) while the Pantherettes went 2 of 11 (18 percent).

Landry Recipient Of Scovell Award

DALLAS (AP)-Tom Landry, head coach of the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys, has been named by The All Sports Association of Dallas as recipient of the coveted Field Scovell Award.

Coach Landry, former all-Southwest Conference fullback at the University of Texas and all-pro cornerback of the New York Giants, will receive the trophy at the 13th All Sports Award dinner at the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel Feb. 28.

Landry, only coach in the history of the Dallas Cowboys, last year was named Pro Coach of the Year by the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Landry was born in Mission, Texas, Sept. 11, 1924 where he later earned All-Regional fullback honors at Mission High School before enrolling at Texas. After one semester at the university, Landry entered the Air Corps and flew B-17 missions with the Eighth Air Force. After his discharge he returned to Texas where he earned All-SWC honors as a junior and co-captained the Longhorns as a senior. Those Texas teams defeated Alabama in the 1948 Sugar Bowl and Georgia in the 1949 Orange Bowl.

Landry first played with the old New York Yankees of the All-American Conference in 1949, moving to the Giants a year later where he was a defensive standout through 1955, the last two years as player-coach. He was All-Pro in 1954.

After the 1955 season, Landry was Giants defensive coach through 1959. He became head coach of the Cowboys in 1960, posting an 0-11-1 record his first year. Since 1966, his first winning season, he has recorded a 127-42-2 standard, best of any pro football team.

Dallas defeated the Denver Broncos 27-10 in New Orleans Jan. 15 for the Cowboys' second Super Bowl crown. Earlier, the Cowboys defeated the Miami Dolphins 24-3 in New Orleans' Tulane Stadium for their first Super Bowl title in 1972.

Tickets for the Awards dinner are $15 per person and may be obtained by mailing check or money order to P.O. Box 148, Dallas 75221.

Howard College To Host Western Texas

BIG SPRING--Western Texas College cage teams battle Howard College here Monday at 6 and 8 p.m.

WTC's Dusters, which will tip off the night's action, are 5-1 in conference play, having lost only to South Plains in recent basketball action.

In later play, WTC's Westerners will be looking for a crucial victory over Howard College. The Westerners, 4-3 in the league race, will be coming off a victory over 13th-ranked New Mexico Military Institute.

The Westerners have ventured to Big Spring once before in 1978 - a trip which earned them the ABC Classic Championship and a 79-69 victory over Howard College.

Norwood Signs With Twins

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP)-Willie Norwood, heir apparent for the center field position vacated by Larry Hisle, has signed with the Minnesota Twins, the American League team announced Friday.

Bamberger Signs Brewer Contract

MILWAUKEE (AP)-George Bamberger describes himself as a teacher, motivator and communicator who, at age 52, was willing to sacrifice lifetime security as the Baltimore Orioles' pitching coach to accept a new challenge.

Bamberger accepted a major one Friday when he signed a two-year contract to manage the Milwaukee Brewers, 67-95 last season and with 76-86 as their best record in nine American League baseball seasons.

But if Bamberger can motivate and develop talent as well as he did as Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver's top aide for 10 years, Brewers General Manager Harry Dalton's search for a successor to the fired Alex Grammas would appear to be worth the two-month effort.

"George is a winner," said Dalton, himself the architect of the Orioles' championship teams of the 1960s and early 1970s. "In 10 years at Baltimore he had 18 pitchers who were 20-game winners and four Cy Young Award winners, Jim Palmer three times and Mike Cuellar once."

Pitching clearly is the Brewers' main weakness, but Dalton emphasized that is not why he chose Bamberger.

"We are hiring a manager for the entire 25-man club," Dalton said. "We're not bringing him in just because he handles pitchers well. He handles people well. He is a very independent person who I think has leadership qualities."

Bamberger, who had no decisions in 10 games in parts of three seasons as a major league pitcher and who has no managerial experience, said he is convinced the Brewers are better than they have shown and that much of their problem has been a losing attitude and lack of motivation.

"We have a better ball club than last year," he said. "I see no reason why this team can't play .500 this year. I think this ball club in the near future will win the pennant."

'Fun' Pro Bowl Promises Tough Action

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)-The Pro Bowl is supposed to be a fun game, one that doesn't really count. But there are sure to be a couple of hits every bit as hard as those inflicted in the Super Bowl.

"This is the cream of the crop," said linebacker Tom Jackson of the Denver Broncos, a first-timer in the Pro Bowl. "And even though we haven't been practicing all that hard this week, I know it'll be a good game. When you get the cream together, it means just one way to play."

As Jackson trotted off the practice field Friday, he pointed over his shoulder toward his American Conference teammates for Monday night's nationally televised (ABC, 9 p.m., EST) game.

"There are guys here who are literally heroes to me," he said. "They were playing when I first started. And now I'm here with them. Obviously I've got to make this a habit."

One of the players, St. Louis running back Terry Metcalf, doesn't think he belongs in this game this year, but is pleased to have been selected since the voting for the Pro Bowl squads is done by National Football League players and coaches.

"This means a lot to me personally because I don't think I should be here based on the statistics of other running backs," he said. Metcalf rushed for 739 yards.

The NFC's other three running backs are Chicago's Walter Payton with 1,852 yards; Los Angeles, Lawrence McCutcheon, 1,238, and Minnesota's Chuck Foreman, 1,112. But Metcalf also caught 33 passes for 395 yards, returned 14 punts for 108 yards and ran back 32 kickoffs for 772 yards last season.

The AFC team, coached by Baltimore's Ted Marchibroda, will be trying to widen its 4-3 lead over the NFC in Pro Bowl victories. Last year, before a record Pro Bowl crowd of 64,752 in Seattle's Kingdome, the AFC won 24-14 on Mel Blout's two key interceptions and Ken Anderson's pair of touchdown passes.

The NFC is coached by Chuck Knox, formerly of the Los Angeles Rams but headed next season to the AFC's Buffalo Bills. "One thing's for certain," he cracked during a mid-week workout, "an AFC coach is gonna win this game."

Each winning player will receive $5,000. Each loser gets $2,500. It's not a bad payday for a week's training and a game - but it's not all that big measured against the estimated $100,000 salary of the average Pro Bowl player.

The champion Dallas Cowboys, who earned more than $30,000 apiece for winning the Super Bowl, have an NFC high six starters - place kicker Efren Herrera, defensive end Harvey Martin, safeties Cliff Harris and Charlie Waters, tight end Billy Joe DuPree and wide receiver Drew Pearson. A seventh, quarterback Roger Staubach, withdrew after injuring his hand in the Super Bowl.

The AFC's top starting team is Baltimore with five players - place kicker Toni Linhart, defensive tackle Mike Barnes, defensive end John Dutton, offensive tackle George Kunz and running back Lydell Mitchell.

Kansas Nabs Sooner Relays

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)-the University of Kansas, behind Lester Mickens' two meet records, rolled to a victory in the Sooner Indoor Relays hosted by the University of Oklahoma here Friday evening.

Mickens raced to a time of 1:11 in the 600-yard run to best the old meet record of 1:11.8. Meet officials had the times of old records, but not who scored them or when.

Mickens also was on the Kansas two-mile relay team which posted a meet record of 7:38.96. Oklahoma, last year's national indoor two-mile relay champion, finished third behind Baylor.

Kansas also got a meet record of seven feet and one inch in the high jump from Jay Reardon, one inch over the old record.

Other records broken were by Oklahoma's William Snoddy in the 300-yd. dash, 30.63 (31.73), Randy Wilson in the 880-yard run, 1:52.69 (1:54.58).

Kansas State's Doug Knauss soared 16 feet and one inch in the pole vault to tie the meet record, while teammate Kevin Sloan jumped 24 feet six and one-half inches in the long jump for another meet record.

Kansas' strong showing in practically all events gave it the title over Kansas State, 137-122. Oklahoma was third at 99; followed by Baylor, 5; Oklahoma State, 41; North Texas State, 30; Texas Christian, 17; Texas-Arlington, 15, and Southern Methodist, 13.

On the distaff side, the Kansas State women posted an easy 84-35 victory over second-place Oklahoma behind the strong showing of Freda Hancock.

Hancock won the 440-yard dash, placed second in the 60-yard dash and anchored the winning mile-relay team.

Behind Oklahoma, was Texas with 17 points, North Texas State with 16 and Oklahoma State with 15.

LUBBOCK--The Snyder Tigers shot only 18 percent from the field during the first period here Friday night and as far as the Dunbar Panthers were concerned, that was enough to build up an unsurmountable lead that resulted in the host team's fifth district win in six tries.

For the Tigers, all but out of the 3-AAA round-one race before coming here anyway, it poses a worn 3-3 record and hopes of better times to come when they begin round-two play Tuesday at Sweetwater.

In other league action, Estacado had a chance to wrap up the league race with a win over San Angelo Lake View (0-5) on Saturday.

Enroute to their 80-68 victory Friday, Dunbar took full advantage of lack-luster shooting in the first period by the Snyder team. The Tigers managed only 7 points in the initial eight minutes, while Dunbar pasted the opponent with 23 - a lead which all but packaged the game for the Panthers early-on.

Randy Courtney, who led the Tiger crew for the night with 13 points, paced Snyder over the Panthers 23-20 in the second quarter, but added to the deficit already posted Dunbar still led at half time, 43-30.

Billy Don Hardway and Greg Whitfield kept the Panther lead intact throughout most of the remainder of the contest, nailing down 21 points apiece for their efforts. Also hitting in double figures was Wayne Williams with 18 points.

Earl Clayton scored 12 for the Tigers and Greg Hinton had 10. The Tigers led Dunbar from the charity line, taking in 14 points to the Panther's 6, but the host team put up 37 field goals to only 27 for Snyder, making the difference.

Second half action saw the teams trade quarters, with Dunbar out-pointing Snyder in the third set, 23-17, and the Tigers taking the fourth, 21-14.

"We came out and missed some early shots, made some mistakes and got behind early. We turned it over several times and you can't do that against a team like Dunbar. They'll made a basket out of it," he commented.

Stephenson had nothing but praise for the Panthers, who handled Snyder its 15th loss in 29 outings. "They've got a super team," he related. "Billy Hardaway is the best player I've seen all year. He's really something," the Tiger coach added of Dunbar's 6-6 post man.

Saturday morning, Coach Jack Stephenson reviewed the situation.

"After we got going I think we played with them on an even basis. We didn't shoot bad. We hit 48 percent from the floor, but they were real strong on the boards and took everything away.

"I told Coach Joe Williams (Dunbar) it sure would be nice to play them for the second-round championship. It will be the last game of the schedule (Feb. 14 in Snyder). It's a new game right now. All that other stuff is behind us. Of course it was behind us when we went into the game, but we still like to win. But we learned a lot from playing them last night," he added, referring to the fact, among other things, that subs Greg Hinton and Kyle Short saw a lot of action and, in his opinion, played "very well."

"We go to Sweetwater now with the thought in mind that we're playing for the district championship. And, in effect, we are."

To get back in the district race, Snyder will have to win the second round, then go against the first-round winner - presumably Lubbock Estacado.

In earlier action Friday night, Snyder JV fell behind by 16 points at the half, but managed to pull within three points before succumbing to a 67-62 loss. Morris Anderson led the Tigers with 22 points.

Weather Tilts Number Of Athletic Schedules

By The Associated Press

It's getting so you can't tell who's playing without a weather report.

For the second winter in a row, heavy snow, high winds and just plain miserable weather have begun to play havoc with the sports schedule. Up to 18 inches of snow fell in various parts of the United States Thursday and Friday, thus curtailing much of the sporting action.

The hardest-hit area seemed to be the Northeast, where three National Basketball Association contests, several minor league hockey games and a slew of college activities were postponed. And a number of racetracks also were dark due to the storms.

The NBA games in Buffalo, Boston, Piscataway, N.J. and Chicago were postponed.

The Denver Nuggets, who played in Milwaukee Thursday night, were unable to get to Buffalo to play the Braves; the Cavaliers were stuck in Cleveland and couldn't make their game with the Bulls in Chicago, and both Boston and Piscataway were unreachable by basketball players and just about anybody else. The Kansas City Kings were due in Boston and Seattle was scheduled to play the New Jersey Nets.

The blizzards also forced postponement of three-fourths of the American Hockey League schedule, with only the Binghamton-New Haven game being played. Games in Philadelphia, Rochester and Nova Scotia were to be rescheduled.

Among the major college basketball games that fell victim to the weather were Michigan at Ohio State, where all sports activities for the weekend were cancelled; Massaschusetts at Penn State; Eastern Michigan at Miami, Ohio; Ohio University at Bowling Green; George Washington at Villanova, whose team was stuck in South Bend, Ind., after a game Thursday with Notre Dame; and Saturday contests between St. John's, N.Y., and Niagara and Yale vs. Navy. The GW-Villa nova game was rescheduled for Sunday and the St. John's-Niagara contest will be played Feb. 27, weather permitting.

Kuhala Wrestles To Easy Victory

TOKYO (AP)-Hawaii's big sumo wrestler, No. 6 maegashira Takamiyama - Jesse Kuhaulua - scored his ninth victory with an easy triumph over No. 11 maegashira Dewanohana today, the 14th day of the New Year Grand Sumo tournament.

Jesse's record now stands at 9-5 and Dewanohana's 7-7.

In the initial attack, the 407-pound Jesse arm-locked his opponent's right elbow and step-by-step drove him out of the dirt circle before 11,000 specutators at Tokyo Kuramae Kokugikan.

For his majority win, Takamiyama will probably be promoted from three to four ranks for the spring tournament in March.

In the Sadanme Division, Hawaiian wrestler Wakanonada - John Collins - was pushed out of the ring by Wakamasui to finish the tournament with a 2-5 record.

Another Hawaiian junior sumo wrestler, George Brian, wrestling under the sumo name of Wakatami, finished with a winning record of 4-1 by dragging down Kotoseto. Brian skipped two matches due to injury.

Wakayashima - Reid Asato, also of Hawaii, captured the Jonidan Division title Firday with a perfect 7-0 record.

Sports Summary

CHRISTIANSBURG, Va. A special grand jury found no neglect or wrongdoing on the part of Virginia Tech in the death of football player Bob Vorhies and so did not hand down any indictments in the case.

Vorhies, an 18-year-old fullback, was found dead in his dormitory room hours after taking part in football practice and undergoing punishment drills.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -A judge issued a warrant for the arrest of former quarterback Joe Gilliam on a charge of armed robbery.

Gilliam is accused of robbing a teenager of $20 with a sawed off shotgun.

BASKETBALL

A heavy winter snowstorm blanketed the Northeast and postponed National Basketball Association games at Buffalo, N.Y.; Piscataway, N.J.; Boston and Chicago.

PETERBOROUGH, Ontario (AP)-Aubrey Victor Clapper, who was elected to the Hall of Fame in 1945, two years before he retired from the National Hockey League, died in a hospital Friday after a long illness. He was 70.

A six-foot 200-pound right winger and defenseman had 20 brilliant seasons with the Boston Bruins. Clapper, who preferred to use his size to stop fights rather than start them, played for the first three Bruin Stanley Cup-winning clubs, in 1929, 1939 and 1941.

He retired Feb. 12, 1947, and his No. 5 was retired along with him.

Browner Cops Player Award

The senior star, who recently won the Lombardi Award, emblematic of the nation's best lineman, will receive the Touchdown Club's Joe Fogg Memorial Trophy at the club's 30th annual awards dinner on Thursday.

DIVERSIFIED

BY BILLY E. ROACH
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

The 83,738 bales of cotton ginned by the nine gins in Scurry County exceeds any totals I know of in past years. If we credit one-half the number ginned at the China Grove Gin to Mitchell County, we still have 78,728 bales credited to Scurry County production.

This year more so than any other year, there was probably more Scurry County cotton ginned outside of Scurry County, than there was cotton brought into Scurry County gins from other counties. This is always a big point in trying to figure production based on the number each gin in the county processed.

But using either figure this was a banner year for production. This amounts to approximately 525 lbs. per acre unofficially, figuring there was about 72,000 acres harvested. This is all based on estimated and the final official tabulation will be determined by the local ASCS Office and the Texas Crop Reporting Service to be reported later.

The value of this crop of 78,728 bales computed at 40 cents per pound and 500 lbs. per bale will be about 15¾ million dollars gross value.

We need to emphasize this is gross value pumped into the economy of Scurry County. The net return to the producer is still another figure and one receiving much publicity and concern at this time.

TREE PLANTING LANDSCAPE MAINTENANCE

Now is a good time and there are several good reasons for carefully selecting and planting trees.

Trees fight pollution by taking carbon dioxide out of the air and giving off oxygen. They also help rid the air of dangerous metallic particles and other pollutants.

Trees are good windbreaks. Strategically placed, they offer some relief from the ever present winds in our area.

Property value can be increased with the planting of trees. It is estimated that the value of a well landscaped lot may be increased as much as 45-50 percent over a bare lot.

Other considerations on planting trees include air conditioning, providing food for people, birds and animals, as well as increasing beauty and pleasure to home owners.

For January landscape hints include:

1. Planting bare root trees and shrubs.
2. Make sure evergreens have sufficient soil, moisture. This can help reduce damage from dry, cold winds and severe cold.
3. Wait until February to prune.
4. Check narrow leaf conifers for old bagworms and remove and destroy the old bagworms cases as the eggs are carried over winter in these cases.

'Laverne And Shirley' Long Success Surprising

By JERRY BUCK
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)- Garry Marshall says he's surprised that "Laverne and Shirley" is atop the TV ratings.

"That it's stayed there is the phenomenon."

"It was calculated to kick off well," he says of the ABC spin-off of "Happy Days." And to make sure it got off to a good start, the Fonz appeared in the premiere. He need not have bothered. "Laverne and Shirley" took over the No. 1 spot a year ago and now is in a Tuesday night tandem with "Happy Days" and "Three's Company."

Marshall's sister and co-star, Penny Marshall, says, "You could have knocked us over."

"With a feather," adds Cindy Williams, the second half of the blue collar dynamic duo.

In an era of sophisticated comedy, "Laverne and Shirley" has the finesse of a third grader's pun. The plots have the depth of a bubble gum wrapper comic strip. Yet, Marshall says research indicates it is the highest-rated show among college graduates and those making more than $20,000 a year.

What it has going for it are two talented actresses who work well together in knock-about comedy reminiscent of Laurel and Hardy. "We believe in the situations we get into," says Penny. "We figure it could happen to these two girls."

Like Lucille Ball before them, Penny and Cindy, who work in a Milwaukee brewery, are always up to their bottle caps in trouble. The ingenuity with which they extract themselves, coupled with adept physical comedy and mugging, gives the show its charm.

Cindy, as Shirley Feeney, is a dreamer, a Cinderella waiting for Prince Charming and a better life. Penny, as the hot-to-trot Laverne De Fazio, figures she has found the good life, or at least is afraid to look for it. Their conflicting philosophies bring them into dispute, but they remain fast friends.

Producer and co-creator Marshall says, "Some wise producer once told me the success of a show is due one-third to creativity, one-third to time slot and one-third to its time in history. Then he proceeded to get all his shows canceled.

"'Laverne and Shirley' came along at the right time in history. It came at a time when the public was in a mood to enjoy a very upbeat comedy about two girls with nothing going for them but their ability to survive. It reflects what's happening in this country - a feeling that we're going to make it. That feeling was not prevalent in the 1960s."

At Paramount Studios' Stage 20, where the show is filmed before an audience, rehearsal is underway. For this show, the people at the brewery are putting on an amateur hour.

Penny and Cindy watch as their mothers rehearse to "Pennies From Heaven." Mrs. Marshall, a former dancing teacher, tap dances and Mrs. Williams sings. Garry Marshall, a man as sentimental as the show, uses everybody in the family, including the dog.

Backstage, Penny plopped into a chair and a makeup man went to work. Cindy picked up a mirror and plucked at her eyebrows.

"When we started, we didn't know what the show was," says Penny. "There wasn't even time to think."

The show originated as an episode of "Happy Days," another Marshall creation. ABC's Fred Silverman spotted its potential and ordered it as a series.

"When we started, we didn't have the Lucille Ball kind of physical comedy in mind," says Penny. "But it was something that both of us happened to be good at and no one else was doing it."

Cindy, now in a makeup chair, says, "The writers saw that and picked up on it. They wrote what we do best, and we'd add our own little schtick."

A few minutes later Penny and Cindy laced on red roller skates. "This is an example of us suggesting the things we do best," Penny says. "The roller-skating is a mark of our immaturity. We get a little bruised, but some things in the outside world scare us more."

Garry Marshall is a tall, thin, masculine look-alike of his sister Penny. He works in an office cluttered with antique toys, gadgets and doodads. In one corner, a lamp grows out of a Los Angeles Rams helmet. The door can be shut by a release button under his desk.

A former sports writer for the New York Daily News, he broke in writing routines for Phil Foster, Joey Bishop and Buddy Hackett. He quit the Daily News in 1960 to join Jack Paar's writing staff on the "Tonight" show. Since then he wrote for Lucille Ball and Dick Van Dyke and has been the creator or co-creator of "Hey, Landlord!," "The Little People" and "Happy Days." He also helped adapt and produced "The Odd Couple."

"I'm a sentimentalist," says Marshall. "I do a lot of warm, sweet, charming shows. For years they didn't want me to do that. Now I can. In addition, it has a lot of physical comedy. I wanted to do that for years but couldn't find anyone. So, when in doubt, use your sister.

"A strong point is that everyone would like to have a friend like Laverne or Shirley - someone who will stick by you. I never realized how important that was until it began to show up in our research - not only among women, but men, too.

Couples Honored To Live In Governor's Mansion

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)-Two middle-class couples have been handed a dream-come-true by Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. the opportunity to live in California's 12,000-square-foot governor's mansion.

Brown, a bachelor who shunned the mansion for a $250-a-month apartment, said Friday that the couples will serve as live-in caretakers for the sprawling, ranch-style home.

Each couple will receive $800 a month to provide 24-hour security and custodial care for the site.

The one-story mansion, which has been unoccupied since it was completed at a cost of $1.2 million in late 1975, sits on a bluff overlooking the American River about 15 miles east of the Capitol.

Brown denounced the residence as a "Taj Mahal" in his 1974 gubernatorial campaign, but has since opposed legislation to sell it.

Lonnie Eastmade, a 61-year-old retired Sacramento sheriff's sergeant who now works at a local Cadillac agency, and his wife Mildred will live in one wing of the mansion.

"It's a honor. We feel we beat out some stiff competition. I'm very excited," said Mrs. Eastmade.

James Bryner, a 46-year-old former Air Force security policeman, and his wife Ruth will live in the other wing. Mrs. Bryner is the manager of a Sacramento grocery store and Bryner is her assistant.

The mansion's wings are separated by a wide courtyard that is bordered on three sides by the mansion, which has six bedrooms plus servants' quarters. A huge living room links the two wings.

Construction of the residence began during the administration of Gov. Ronald Reagan, whose friends purchased the land and gave it to the state as a site for a governor's home.

Critics have called the structure ugly and uninspired, but Mrs. Eastmade said, "I don't think it is ugly by any means. And it's in some beautiful surroundings."

Bryner said he applied for the caretaker post because "it was a challenge to see if I would be good enough to be accepted. It would be an honor."

He said he and his wife met the Eastmades after the couples applied for the jobs and "we are very compatible. We have become real good friends."

Mrs. Eastmade said she and her husband would rent out their current home. Bryner said he and his wife were living with her parents.

Neither couple has children living with them, and both plan to use their own furniture in the mansion.

"I'm going to get my waterbed set up, that's the first thing I'm going to do," Bryner said.

Corn Is Sold To Nationalist China

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)- Cook Industries, which announced earlier this week it had agreed to sell most of its grain merchandising assets, has made a multi-million dollar sale to Nationalist China.

"We are operating our business in a normal fashion," a Cook spokesman said Friday after announcing the $17.1 million sale of Nebraska corn to Nationlist China.

The 27-member Nationalist Chinese trade delegation accepted Cook's bids in Lincoln, Neb., for five shipments of corn totaling 169,000 metric tons.

Cook announced Monday it had signed an agreement to sell essentially all of its grain merchandising assets to The Pillsbury Co. No purchase price was disclosed.

The Cook-Pillsbury transaction, which is subject to the approval of stockholders and directors of both corporations, is expected to be completed within 45 to 90 days, spokesmen said Monday.

The $17.1 million sale to Nationalist China, while substantial in light of Cook's scaled-down grain operations, does not compare with earlier deals pioneered by the once-powerful grain exporting company.

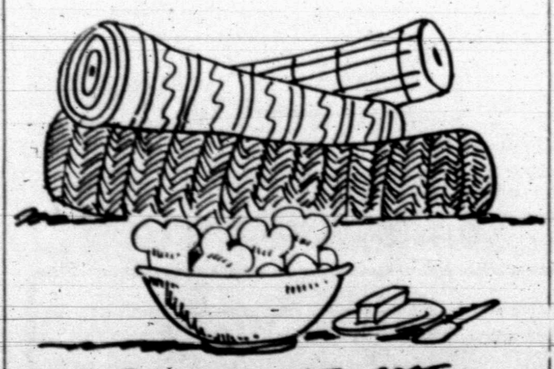

Cook, once one of the three largest grain merchandising firms in the nation, led the way in massive sales of wheat and other grains to Russia and People's Republic of China.

A $400 million corn and wheat deal with the Soviet Union in 1974 became a national issue after former President Gerald Ford canceled it, citing its potential for increasing the prices of American food.

Drilling Operations Are Off To A Good Start

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP)-Momentum carrying over from 1977 has domestic oil and gas drilling operations off to a good 1978 start.

Many contractors report receiving the largest ever total of year-end payments this past December," said Ed McGhee, executive vice president of the International Association of Drilling Contractors.

The industry kept an average of 2,002 rotary drilling rigs at work last year, the highest level since 1959. The weekly average ranged from a high of 2,168 to a low of 1,815.

In 1971, the low point of a 16-year slump in domestic drilling operations, the rotary rig average of only 975 resulted from weekly averages that ranged from a high of only 1,189 to a low of 814.

McGhee said the December prepayments alone will carry many contractors through the January-March first quarter.

"Moreover, there is no indication of a slackening of new business; weather appears to be the only significant factor limiting U.S. rig activity," he said.

McGhee said response to the strong demand is prompting new contracting firms to spring up in all areas.

"In Houston alone two completely new five-rig drilling firms have been spawned in the last six months," he said. "Five rigs don't confer upon one a major contractor status, but the average member in the association owns only about four rigs."

McGhee said an interesting number of producer firms are finding rig ownership attractive.

"Not only is contract work profitable at the moment, but owning the rig also ensures that it will be available for in-house work," he said.

"Not typical, but indicative, is a letter spread across the oil country by Liberty Petroleum Corp. of Toledo, Ohio. Liberty states: 'We are urgently in need of drilling rigs. If these are unable to move into Ohio we are willing to invest funds in your state'."

McGhee said recent warnings about possible overbuilding of land rigs seemingly have deterred few domestic contractors.

"New orders still pour in to the manufacturers," he said. "Some drilling firms, however, report taking greater than usual precaution. They get contracts in hand before ordering."

He said at least lone contractor is forming a partnership with the operator to hold title to each new rig purchased.

"This cuts down the contractor's financial exposure and gives the operator an incentive to keep the unit working," he said.

McGhee reports guarded optimism is the attitude among most of the world's offshore drilling contractors.

"All jack-up units are at work; moderate improvement is evident in demand for semi-submersibles and floaters," he said.

"On top of this, gloom seem to be lifting regarding bureaucratic and court delays of drilling on the U.S. East Coast."

McGhee said one contractor looks at the situation this way: 'We're committed too far ahead to think that 1978 will be anything but a so-so year. But if things keep improving, we should be about to set the stage for a good healthy 1979."

Contractors, McGhee said, are not the only ones taking satisfaction in the growing domestic rig population.

"Thieves seem equally pleased," he said.

"Thefts of bits, elevators, tongs, etc., have been increasing. Seven expensive insert bits were stolen on a recent day from a rig working in a remote location in Idaho."

McGhee said some arrests have been made but not enough to stem the traffic in stolen goods. He said the situation is aggravated by the dramatic pickup in equimpment sales brought on by the drilling boom.

"Some items have not been available for immediate delivery from their manufacturer," he said.

"A clever thief can accept an 'order' for a scarce item and deliver it faster than can a legitimate supply house. Moreover, the thief doesn't have to store the item while he looks for a buyer. This makes him the more difficult to apprehend."

Short Course Set In April At Tech

LUBBOCK--The 25th annual Southwestern Petroleum Short Course at Texas Tech University will take place April 20-21. The West Texas petroleum industry sponsors the event which is organized by the Texas Tech Department of Petroleum Engineering.

The newest and most successful production techniques are the primary topics for discussion, but two of the 1978 short course papers deal with solar and geothermal sources of energy as possible future alternatives to petroleum.

Between 450 and 500 representatives of production and refining industries in the Southwest are expected to attend, according to Prof. Duane A. Crawford, chairman of the short course Board of Directors. Crawford is a member of the Texas Tech faculty in petroleum engineering.

He said the program will cover information on drilling and well completion, well stimulation and workover, reservoir operations, artificial lift, production handling and the general interest papers.

For additional information write Prof. Duane A. Crawford, Department of Petroleum Engineering, Box 4099, Texas Tech University, Lubbock, Tex. 79409.

Subway Crash Injures 27

BOSTON (AP)-More than two dozen persons were injured when a subway train skidded on rails and crashed into a waiting train during a heavy snowstorm.

The crash Friday, the second involving a Boston subway in three days, sent 27 persons to hospitals, one with a broken back and two with broken hips.

The crash occurred at the outdoor Sullivan Square Station in Boston's Charlestown section, the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority said, in the midst of a storm that left about two feet of snow in Boston.

On Wednesday, at least 20 persons were injured when two trolley car trains collided in the underground Arlington Street station in midtown Boston.

Cerebellum Defect Is Linked To Dyslexia

EDITOR'S NOTE-You may be able to play tennis but unable to dribble a basketball. You can work math problems on paper but not in your head. Words may garble before your eyes. You may develop one of several phobias. All are symptoms of dyslexia, a complicated childhood disorder that has frustrated even the most brilliant.

By BRIAN SULLIVAN -- AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-Two New York psychiatrists have developed a new idea of the complex childhood disorder called dyslexia, in which the mind transposes letters and scrambles words.

They say they have found the underlying cause of the disorder, a defect in the cerebellum-the organ behind the brain stem that is concerned with the control of movement. They say this defect also is the cause in many persons of a series of adult phobias, such as fear of heights, crowds, elevators, airplanes, automobile driving, tunnels, anything involving motion or height.

And they say they have found that ordinary, over-the-counter motion sickness drugs are often effective in treating both dyslexia and adult phobias.

The researchers say that in addition to involuntarily transposing letters and words, the dyslexic can suffer a series of mathematical, spelling, direction, writing and emotional disorders.

People who do not function in a physiologically normal way react with "catastrophic anxiety," says Dr. Harold N. Levinson who did research with Dr. Jan Frank at the Downstate Medical Center of the State University of New York. Dr. Levinson now is associate professor of psychiatry at New York University Medical Center while Dr. Frank is professor emeritus at Downstate.

In reading, dyslexics often lose their place, skip a word, a line, and then realizing the words aren't making sense, will reread the material again and again, in great frustration. The print may be blurred or appear to be in motion. Letters and words will appear to be scrambled or in reverse order. The word "can," for example may appear as "nac."

In mathematics, dyslexics have trouble with rote memory, such as the multiplication table. But they can understand mathematical concepts. Levinson says it is possible that Einstein, a dyslexic, had difficulty with elementary mathematics, while later triumphantly dealing with vast concepts.

"They push and strive to excel, perhaps going through college, but at great personal effort," Levinson says. Other patients can't do that. They may just drop out of school, or get thrown out of school on grounds of a behavioral disorder.

The two psychiatrists say they have found many patients with dyslexia who compensated for their poor reading, achieving normal or above normal test scores.

"Therefore, reading scores cannot be used to diagnose dyslexia, especially because reading scores can be deficient as a result of many non-dyslexic causes," says Levinson.

The Levinson-Frank findings which have been reported in journals and at medical center sessions, are based on a study of many persons referred to them for emotional reasons. Many of the patients were found to be previously undiagnosed dyslexics, and many of their emotional problems were traced to the cerebellar-vestibular inner ear disorder.

Traditional views of dyslexia put the cause in the brain itself, the cerebral cortex, or in such vague concepts as "minimal brain dysfunction." But Frank and Levinson say the cerebellum acts as a "traffic cop", to modulate the flow of information from the environment to the cortex, in addition to its recognized function of controlling motion signals sent from the brain.

If the cerebellum isn't working right, the flow of information to the brain is "blurred," and the cortex doesn't see the world around it properly.

In height or motion phobias, the psychiatrists say, the body is trying to run away from the threatening situation. In dyslexia, the body-the cerebellum-can't cope with the flow of information in the form of letters and words and numbers.

The two researchers say that while they believe they have located the source of these problems in the cerebellum, they can only speculate that the trouble is a transmission defect in the membrane of the cerebellum.

Among people Levinson has found to be dyslexic are many specially talented invididuals-artists, writers, photographers, poets, athletes, physicians, lawyers, dentists, teachers, showing that dyslexia cannot be viewed in traditionally simplistic terms, Levinson says.

Cerebellum Defect Is Linked To Dyslexia

EDITOR'S NOTE-You may be able to play tennis but unable to dribble a basketball. You can work math problems on paper but not in your head. Words may garble before your eyes. You may develop one of several phobias. All are symptoms of dyslexia, a complicated childhood disorder that has frustrated even the most brilliant.

By BRIAN SULLIVAN
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-Two New York psychiatrists have developed a new idea of the complex childhood disorder called dyslexia, in which the mind transposes letters and scrambles words.

They say they have found the underlying cause of the disorder, a defect in the cerebellum-the organ behind the brain stem that is concerned with the control of movement. They say this defect also is the cause in many persons of a series of adult phobias, such as fear of heights, crowds, elevators, airplanes, automobile driving, tunnels, anything involving motion or height.

And they say they have found that ordinary, over-the-counter motion sickness drugs are often effective in treating both dyslexia and adult phobias.

The researchers say that in addition to involuntarily transposing letters and words, the dyslexic can suffer a series of mathematical, spelling, direction, writing and emotional disorders.

People who do not function in a physiologically normal way react with "catastrophic anxiety," says Dr. Harold N. Levinson who did research with Dr. Jan Frank at the Downstate Medical Center of the State University of New York. Dr. Levinson now is associate professor of psychiatry at New York University Medical Center while Dr. Frank is professor emeritus at Downstate.

In reading, dyslexics often lose their place, skip a word, a line, and then realizing the words aren't making sense, will reread the material again and again, in great frustration. The print may be blurred or appear to be in motion. Letters and words will appear to be scrambled or in reverse order. The word "can," for example may appear as "nac."

In mathematics, dyslexics have trouble with rote memory, such as the multiplication table. But they can understand mathematical concepts. Levinson says it is possible that Einstein, a dyslexic, had difficulty with elementary mathematics, while later triumphantly dealing with vast concepts.

"They push and strive to excel, perhaps going through college, but at great personal effort," Levinson says. Other patients can't do that. They may just drop out of school, or get thrown out of school on grounds of a behavioral disorder.

The two psychiatrists say they have found many patients with dyslexia who compensated for their poor reading, achieving normal or above normal test scores.

"Therefore, reading scores cannot be used to diagnose dyslexia, especially because reading scores can be deficient as a result of many non-dyslexic causes," says Levinson.

The Levinson-Frank findings which have been reported in journals and at medical center sessions, are based on a study of many persons referred to them for emotional reasons. Many of the patients were found to be previously undiagnosed dyslexics, and many of their emotional problems were traced to the cerebellar-vestibular inner ear disorder.

Traditional views of dyslexia put the cause in the brain itself, the cerebral cortex, or in such vague concepts as "minimal brain dysfunction." But Frank and Levinson say the cerebellum acts as a "traffic cop" to modulate the flow of information from the environment to the cortex, in addition to its recognized function of controlling motion signals sent from the brain.

If the cerebellum isn't working right, the flow of information to the brain is "blurred," and the cortex doesn't see the world around it properly.

In height or motion phobias, the psychiatrists say, the body is trying to run away from the threatening situation. In dyslexia, the body-the cerebellum-can't cope with the flow of information in the form of letters and words and numbers.

The two researchers say that while they believe they have located the source of these problems in the cerebellum, they can only speculate that the trouble is a transmission defect in the membrane of the cerebellum.

Among people Levinson has found to be dyslexic are many specially talented invididuals-artists, writers, photographers, poets, athletes, physicians, lawyers, dentists, teachers, showing that dyslexia cannot be viewed in traditionally simplistic terms, Levinson says.

Flu Death Tolls 70% Above Normal

ATLANTA (AP)-An influenza epidemic is ravaging sections of the United States, with the death toll from flu and pneumonia 70 percent above normal for the week of Jan. 7, the National Center for Disease Control says.

The CDC said Friday that reports from 121 selected cities showed 855 persons died from flu and pneumonia, compared to the normal toll of 500 for that week in those cities.

Above normal death tolls, "generally considered attributable to epidemic influenza infections," were reported in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina, Florida, Virginia, the District of Columbia and Delaware.

Those states reported substantial, if not widespread, flu since early December, the CDC said.

Widespread flu outbreaks, where flu is reported in counties comprising more than half the state's population, were reported in 13 states last week - Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Maine, Marvland, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Oregon Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont and Wisconsin.

Sixteen states reported regional outbreaks and the rest reported sporadic outbreaks or did not make reports, said CDC spokesman Don Berreth. Arizona and the Dakotas reported no flu.

This year's outbreak of A-Texas and A-Victoria flu already has surpassed last year, which was a mild flu year, Berreth said.

In addition, the CDC said another strain, Russian flu, has been reported for the first time in Great Britain, including 40 cases at a U.S. Air Force base in Upper Heyford, England, and in the Philippines.

The Russian flu earlier had been reported only in the Soviet Union, China, Finland, Czechoslovakia and Hong Kong.

Bible Course In Greek Will Be Offered

A Community Services course in New Testament Greek is planned at the Christian Student Center at Western Texas College from Feb. 2-April 1.

The course is an introduction to the alphabet, vocabulary and grammar of the language used in the original New Testament. It will not teach the student to read the Greek New Testament, Gary Lowe, instructor, said, but will provide the tools and impose some discipline which will enable the student to teach himself to read Koine Greek.

Bible dictionaries, commentaries, lexicons and other aids will provide more information for the students after they have studied the Greek of the New Testament.

"We must have a minimum of 10 students," Lowe said. "Persons interested are asked to notify the Christian Student Center at 573-8242 before Jan. 26. We can only handle 25 students, so be sure to call if you plan to take the course."

Students will pay fees of $10 each for the course, or $15 for a husband and wife. A beginning grammar will be provided for the students. Classes will meet from 7-9:15 p.m. on Thursdays in the Christian Student Center. Lowe is director of the Center.

Trouble Spots Signaled On Economic Goals

By WILLIAM GLASGALL
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-President Carter wants to keep the economy moving steadily ahead in 1978. But some key indicators released this past week show some trouble spots that may make Carter's task a difficult one.

In his economic message Friday, Carter proposed a $25 billion net reduction in personal, business and excise taxes; investment incentives to spur spending on business expansion; federal job programs - including a $400 million plan to provide private jobs for youth and the disadvantaged; and a variety of voluntary private efforts and government actions to check inflation.

Even before the speech, however, inflation showed up as one of the major question marks. On Thursday, the Commerce Department reported inflation in the last quarter of 1977 rose to a 6.2 percent annual rate from the third quarter's annual rate of 4.8 percent. For all of 1977, inflation was a seasonally adjusted 5.6 percent, up 0.3 percent from 1976.

Another problem is growth. The government said the gross national product expanded at an annual rate of 4.2 percent in the final quarter, adjusted for inflation, down from a 5.1 percent annual rate in the third quarter. For the year, GNP - the total value of goods and services produced by the nation - grew by 4.9 percent, slightly below the administration's 5.1 percent goal and below last year's 6 percent expansion.

A major reason for the fourth-quarter slowdown was the selling of goods warehoused in anticipation of future sales. But Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps said the liquidation sets the stage for renewed stock replenishment and "paves the way for continued satisfactory growth."

Commerce Department economist Courtenay Slater noted "consumers are confident and buying, and that should continue over into the first quarter of 1978."

Industrial production, although healthy for 1977 as a whole, is a third spot to watch. The Federal Reserve said production rose 5.6 percent last year, compared with 10.2 percent in 1976. But production in December grew at a slim 2.4 percent annual rate as the coal miners' strike cut sharply into output. Another factor in the decline was a drop in December auto production, indicating consumer resistance to smaller models.

An additional issue that may give the administration cause for worry is Carter's proposed tax reduction program. The President wants a net reduction of $17 billion in personal taxes, a net cut of $6 billion in business levies and a cut of $2 billion in excise taxes.

But economists are arguing whether the cut is big enough or whether it should take a different direction than Carter desires.

In testimony before the Senate Budget Committee this past week, Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under Presidents Nixon and Ford, said the proposed reduction is $5 billion to $10 billion too high and could contribute excessively to the federal deficit.

Head-On Crash Leaves 21 Dead

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-A passenger bus and a speeding truck collided head-on Friday night 180 miles northwest of Tehran, killing 21 persons and seriously injuring 15, Tehran newspapers reported today.

The reports said the drivers of both the truck and the bus were among the dead in the collision on the Tabriz-Zanjan highway.

Tauke Is Thinking Ahead

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)-State Rep. Tom Tauke is thinking ahead.

Tauke, a Republican, has introduced a bill to allow bars licensed to sell liquor or beer on Sunday to serve their good cheer from noon on Dec. 31 to 2 a.m. on New Year's Day.

The reason: New Year's Eve falls on Sunday this year.

"We're pretty well known for New Year's Eve partying in Dubuque," said Tauke. "We don't want everybody to go over to East Dubuque, Ill.

"Also, we have compassion for people in the central part of the state who don't have a neighboring state handy to go to."

Under current state law, Iowa bars licensed to sell liquor or beer for consumption on the premises on Sunday are limited to operating from noon to 10 p.m., and Tauke says those hours would put a severe crimp in year-end merrymaking.

Under his bill, an exception would be granted only for New Year's Eve this year. It wouldn't extend the privilege to future years when New Year's Eve falls on a Sunday.

Hermleigh Highlights

PRI Plan Is Adopted

By Curtis W. Tate

HERMLEIGH - The Hermleigh Elementary School has begun implementation of the McGraw-Hill Prescriptive Reading Inventory as a supplement to the school's basic reading program.

The PRI began last fall when tests were given to the students in order to determine their strengths and weaknesses in the ninety basic reading skills. A computer sheet with the test results was used to place the students into different groups.

The students are grouped according to these diagnosed reading needs for thirty minutes of concentrated learning activity for nine days. The students are tested on the tenth day and, when test results are compiled, the students are regrouped for instruction in other skills.

The PRI classes are kept small in order for each student to have a better opportunity to actively participate in the learning process.

The program involves students from grades two through six. Students are not grouped according to grades, however. Each skills class includes students from several grade levels.

Each class is headed by a different teacher. The program coordinator is Nell Henry.

Principal Billy Haynes encourages parents to visit the school and see the program in operation.

HEADS PROGRAM-Mrs. Nell Henry, right, is coordinator of the P.R.I. program at Hermleigh Elementary School. She is assisted by Mrs. Ruth Davis, Green Thumb Employee.

Efficiency Panel To Be Abolished

MIAMI (AP)-The Miami City Commission has announced its intention to abolish the city's Employee Efficiency Evaluation Committee.

The committee hasn't evaluated anyone's efficiency in at least four years, officials said.

CHESTER H. LAUCK
...to speak here Saturday night

Nixons To Be Grandparents

WASHINGTON (AP)-Granddaddy Richard? Grandpa Dick?

It looks like the former president will be making a decision soon on what he wants to be called when his younger daughter has her first child.

It happens in August, according to a close personal friend of Julie Nixon Eisenhower.

Julie and her husband, David Eisenhower, live in Capistrano Beach, Calif., about 30 miles south of her father's home at San Clemente.

There was no comment from her or other family members.

Eisenhower is working on a book about his grandfather, former President Dwight Eisenhower, and Mrs. Eisenhower is reported to be writing a book about her mother, Pat Nixon.

It would be the first grandchild for the Nixons.

Chester (Lum) Lauck To Speak At API Fish Fry

Chester H. Lauck, former executive assistant to the chairman of the board of Continental Oil Co., will be the guest speaker Saturday night a fish fry sponsored by the American Petroleum Institute in Snyder.

However, Lauck probably is better known to many persons as a radio and movie personality. To many, he will be remembered as "Lum" on the Lum and Abner radio show back in the thirties.

The API fish fry is set for 6 p.m. Saturday at the National Guard Armory in Towle Memorial Park. Guests will be welcome at the event, and the admission price will be $5 per person.

Lauck is a native of Mena, Ark., in the area which was the setting for the Lum and Abner radio series. But he was first a successful businessman and a banker after graduating from the University of Arkansas with a major in journalism. He became associated with the Union Bank of Mena and later served as manager of the Citizen's Finance Corp. there.

In 1931, together with Norris Goff, his boyhood friend, he formed the team of Lum and Abner. They began their radio career in Hot Springs, Ark., and in less than two months signed a network contract, broadcasting from Chicago and later from Cleveland and New York. Their popular folksy humor took them to Hollywood, where, in addition to their radio work, they starred in motion pictures for RKO Studios.

Lum and Abner are credited with a number of "firsts" in the entertainment world. They made the first major network broadcast in 1933 from Radio City in New York; the first marathon broadcast for charity (more than 12 hours); in initial show for the Mutual radio network; and the first international broadcast by a radio team, with Lauck broadcasting from London and Abner contributing his part of the program from Chicago.

In 1962, Lauck received an honorary Doctor of Laws degree from the Atlanta Law School and a Freedom Foundation Award for a speech titled "The Eleventh Hour." He has been given the outstanding alumnus award from the University of Arkansas, is a Grand Trustee of the Sigma Chi Fraternity, a Knight of the Red Cross of Constantine, one of the highest honors in masonry.

Soviets Claim Slander For Pay

MOSCOW (AP)-Henry Kissinger's act is not playing well in Moscow.

The Soviet government paper Izvestia says the former U.S. secretary of state engaged in slander for pay last week in his debut as an NBC network television commentator.

Izvestia said Kissinger "went so far as to make absurd hints that terrorist actions are directed from the Soviet Union and other socialist countries."

Register For Hawaiian Tour

Reservations are now being accepted for the third Traveling Seminar at Western Texas College, a 10-day tour of the Hawaiian Islands from June 12-21.

Colorful brochures describing the tour's itinerary have arrived and may be picked up in the office of Richard Lancaster, Seminar director. Lancaster, an assistant professor of English at WTC, also served as director for the two previous Traveling Seminars, Dr. James Palmer, Chairman of the Division of Social Sciences and Professor of Geography at WTC, will share leadership of this year's Seminar.

Jackson Travel Agency, Inc., is handling travel arrangements.

Registration will continue through April 18 unless the maximum enrollment of 30 persons is reached before that time, Lancaster said.

Participants may select two courses for six hours of college credit to be earned on the trip. Courses in which credit may be received are English 132, English 231 (American Literature), American History 131 or 132, Sociology 232 and Economics 131.

Adults who wish to participate in the Seminar may audit the courses for personal enrichment rather than working for college credit.

The Traveling Seminar will leave the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport on an early afternoon Braniff International flight on June 12 and arrive in Honolulu in the late afternoon. A tour of the city of Honolulu and the Punchbowl National Cemetery are planned the following day. Additional sightseeing in the area of Honolulu is scheduled until June 16 when the tour will go to Hilo for sightseeing on June 17.

The Cross Island Tour will take the group to Kona, and a cruise along the southwest Kona Coast of the Island of Hawaii will highlight activities on June 18. The following day, the group will go to Kauai for a boat trip up the Wailua River which reveals the unspoiled Hawaii of centuries ago.

The tour will leave Kauai on a mid-afternoon flight on June 21, arriving in Honolulu in the early evening and departing via Braniff International for Dallas.

The cost of the tour will be $985 per person, based on double accommodations, or $1,135 for single accommodations. An additional $91.00 is assessed for tuition and fees. A $100 deposit is required at the time of booking, with full payment due six weeks prior to departure.

Persons wishing information about the Traveling Seminar may write or call Lancaster at Western Texas College, 573-8511, extension 289.

Current Topics In Ag Class

What brought American agriculture to its present troubled state, and where does it go from here?

Those are timely questions very much in the news in 1978, and they are some of the topics which will be considered in Agricultural Economics at Western Texas College this semester.

Agricultural Economics (Ag 134) is offered in an evening class meeting from 6:30-9:20 on Monday nights with Van Rigby as instructor. Students may enroll for the class Monday and attend the class meeting that night. Tuesday is the final day for spring semester enrollment.

"We plan to alter the course to include discussion on the American Agriculture Movement and the Farmers' Strike," Rigby said, "and to have some outside speakers. We need a minimum of 12 to 15 students, and we feel the class will be interesting as well as informative."

Persons wishing information about the course may contact Rigby at WTC, 573-8511, or at his residence, 573-3863.

He's Not Quitting Completely, But

H.W. Cargile Ready To 'Retire A Little More'

By WACIL McNAIR

He is not taking out completely by any means, but Hubert W. Cargile is in the process of "retiring a little more."

The chairman of the board and former president of West Texas State Bank says he will be in his new office in the bank building most mornings for consultations, but otherwise he will leave the banking business to the other officers and employes.

He also will continue to serve actively in several civic organizations, although he hopes to gradually taper off on some of his community obligations also.

West Texas State Bank and Hubert W. Cargile have been inseparable since the bank came into being back on Jan. 14, 1950. That was its first day of business and Cargile was on hand as vice president and cashier. Some two or three years later he was named executive vice president. He became the bank's president in 1960 and chairman of the board in 1974.

But the banking business has had competition for his time in Snyder. He is now, and has been for several years, president of the Scurry County Fair Association, which he helped organize; he still serves as memorials chairman for the local unit of the American Cancer Society, and he just completed a term on the board of directors of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce. He has served the chamber as a board member several times and was its president in 1954. He is the only living former chamber president who had a son to become president of the organization. His son, Joe Cargile, now president of First National Bank in Crosbyton, also served the Snyder Chamber as president before moving from the city several years ago.

H.W. CARGILE
...reduces his schedule

Also, Cargile serves as treasurer of the Snyder Little League and is now on the board of the Snyder Noon Kiwanis Club, which he served as president in 1951. He also has served on the boards of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation and of the Scurry County United Way.

He was on the Audit and Bank Administration Division of the Texas Bankers Association in 1957, and also served as president of the South Plains Bankers Association (now the 8th district of the Texas Banker's Association.).

He is a charter member and a charter deacon in Colonial Hill Baptist Church, which he served as treasurer for 10 years. He also is a Scottish Rite Mason.

Thus, it is evident from the record that community service has had a major role in his life since the day he set foot in Snyder back in late 1949. And one of his fondest memories is the evening when his fellow citizens honored him by presenting him the Citizen of the Year Award of 1973 at a Chamber of Commerce Banquet.

Cargile grew up in Tioga, Grayson County, which borders the Red River. He graduated from high school at Whitesboro and then went to Dallas to take a course in accounting. On his own and without pay he began working in the little bank at Tioga, concentrating on learning how to operate a posting machine.

"That's the reason I got my first real job in the First National Bank in McAlester, Okla.," Cargile said. "They hired me because I knew how to run a posting machine."

His banking career began at McAlester as a bookkeeper in January of 1929. He moved to Henderson in 1931 to accept the job as head of the accounting department of the First National Bank there. He was vice president of the bank in Henderson when he came to Snyder in late 1949 to help prepare for the opening of West Texas State Bank.

Meanwhile, before he left North Texas for his first banking job in Oklahoma, Cargile was married to Mary Eva Isbell. There was a time when she used to play the piano and accompany a young Oklahoman who thought he had a future in singing. His name was Gene Autry.

In addition to the son, Joe Cargile, Mr. and Mrs. Cargile have a daughter, Jenny Hicks, who is a special education teacher in Abilene Public Schools.

Cargile looks back on his banking career with some fond memories and marvels at the progress that he has seen in the banking business in general and at West Texas State Bank in particular. The local bank was organized with $200,000 capital in 1949. Its capital is now well over $3½ million. It has paid a cash dividend to its stockholders every year since 1953 and in addition there have been several stock dividends.

"I'm not pulling out. I'll still be around most of the time in the mornings, but I just won't be around as much," Cargile said. He indicated that he might even consider fishing a little.

Cochran, Sharber Wed

First Baptist Church of Euless was the setting for the exchanging of vows between Helen Marie Cochran of Fort Worth and Don Michael Sharber of Bedford, Dec. 17 at 7 p.m.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cochran and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Sharber of Hurst.

Rev. Jimmy Draper, pastor of the church, officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white velvet chapel length gown, with the train accenting the flared skirt. Her gown featured a high neckline with empire waist, full bishop sleeves with deep cuffs and tiny covered buttons. Her mother created the gown. Her train length veil, lavished with deep border of peaud'agne lace, was edged in scallops and made of multiple tiers of pure silk English illusion. It fell from an open Camelot hat covered with matching lace and encrusted with seed pearls. Her long veil was enhanced with three shorter tiers of the imported illusion, each also edged in a border of the peaud'agne lace. She carried pennies minted in the years of the couple's birth.

She carried a cascade of red roses, baby's breath, holly and stephanotis.

The bride presented her mother with a red rose before the marriage vows and presented the groom's mother one as she left the altar.

Tina Martin of Hurst was maid of honor and wore a red velvet, long dress fashioned like the bride's. Matron of honor was Carol Freeman, attired in a gown like the maid of honor's. Each wore a red carnation, holly and baby's breath in their hair. The flower girl Daness Harrison of Ennis, also wore a matching gown. She carried a basket of flowers like the bridesmaids'. The bridesmaid was Susan Williams of Ennis.

MRS. DON MICHAEL SHARBER

Clark Harrison of Ennis carried a white Mother of Pearl Bible belonging to the bride. He wore a grey Seville tuxedo. Stephen Freeman, the groom's nephew, was ring bearer.

The groom's brother-in-law, Dickie Scoggin of Farmers Branch, served as best man. Groomsmen were Tony Venable of Conroe and Larry Freeman, the bride's brother-in-law. Seating guests were John Royse of Bedford and Bruce Clark of Euless.

The church was decorated with a large arrangement of gladioli, holly and carnations, also two baskets of poinsettias and two spiral candelabra holding red tapered candles.

"We've Only Just Begun" and "Wedding Song" were sung by Jere Brinkley who was accompanied by organist Darrelene Hard, both of Saginaw.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the church parlor. The tables were covered with red and green net. Each table held a candelabrum and an arrangement of red carnations, holly and white starburst. The four tiered decorated cake was adorned with red carnations, white starburst pom-poms and holly. Cindy Schmidt of Ennis attended the bride's table. The groom's table held a chocolate cake shaped and decorated like a train. It was attended by Pat Scoggin, the groom's sister, of Farmers Branch. Nita Tremain, of Houston cousin of the bride, registered guests. Other members of the houseparty were Peggy Harrison of Ennis and Nina Black of Waxahachie.

After a weekend wedding trip to Dallas, the couple is now at home at 905 Columbus Court, Bedford, where the bridegroom is a brakeman for Santa Fe Railroad.

The bride is a 1970 graduate of Jacksboro where she was a member of the National Honor Society. She is a 1974 graduate of Tarleton State University, Stephenville and is a second grade teacher in Saginaw I.S.D.

The bridegroom graduated from Lamar High School in Rosenburg in 1970 and attended Tarrent County Jr. College.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Mildred Freeman of Jacksboro, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McCoy of Jacksboro, Mrs. L.P. Dillon of Lubbock, Mrs. Charlotte Klenk of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. James Tremain of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. James Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Lester Christian of Richardson, Mrs. Danny Freeman and son of Gainsville, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wooldridge of Graham and Ms. Annette Reed of Mansfield.

Students Build 'Power' Plant

MOSELEM SPRINGS, Pa. (AP)-A homemade generating plant which provides lighting via "foot power" was put together by 20 science students at the Richmond Township Elementary School here.

The plant, which was constructed from parts made available by parents and school faculty members, is actually a stationary bicycle hooked up to a small electric generator.

The students, who received technical assistance from the local subsidiary of General Public Utilities Corp. during the construction, used the apparatus to light the classroom Christmas tree last year and will continue to use it for other projects.

It is estimated that the students, taking turns on the bicycle 45 minutes a day for 45 days, exerted the energy needed to pedal a moving bike almost 200 miles. Their work generated two kilowatt-hours or about 8 cents of electricity.

MARRIED--Ellen Cain became the bride of Howard Dean Lomax in a double ring ceremony Jan. 14 at 8 p.m. at the home of the bride's son, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Claxton. Best man was Robert Lomax brother of the groom and bridesmaid was Sara Lomax, sister-in-law of the groom. Rev. Virgil Mott officiated the ceremony. Others attending were Mrs. Robert Lomax, Casey Joe Claxton, Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Claxton, Windle Biddle and Charisie Tate. A reception followed the ceremony.

Cosmorama Club Plans Cookbook

Cosmorama Study Club had its annual salad supper Wednesday at the home of Tizzie Hall, 2708 35th, Jan. 18, at 7 p.m. Martha Fagin assisted with hostess duties.

Diana Gary, president, conducted a short business meeting following the meal. Members discussed the cookbook that is being compiled. It will contain recipes of all members of Cosmorama as well as recipes of former members of the club.

Fifteen members attended the supper.

If you enjoy spaghetti dressed with nothing more than butter and grated Parmesan you'll probably enjoy adding to the Parmesan. Mix it with fontina and provolone cheese both grated. To gild the lily, add heavy cream.

North had a pretty good hand for his raise of two spades. Not that it was good enough to have jumped to three, but rather that it was good enough so that any game invitation by South would have been promptly accepted.

South didn't invite game. He bid it whereupon North committed one of the most horrible of bridge crimes. He bid five spades.

South passed. He knew that he did not want to be in a slam. He also knew that he didn't want to be in five, but it was too late to do anything about that.

He was unlucky not to make five. If the defense hadn't started by taking two heart tricks everything would have been fine. If the clubs had broken better, South could have discarded two diamonds on long clubs or if the diamond finesse had been on, South could have made the contract by taking it.

All sorts of bad luck, but North had made all that bad luck possible when he trapped his partner by bidding when he should have passed.

Consumer Food News

COLLEGE STATION--Attractive prices on grapefruit and fryer chickens will greet shoppers at Texas grocery markets this week--along with good values on beef, pork and several vegetables, Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt says.

Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

FRESH FRUITS--Texas grapefruit shows excellent quality, especially pink and red-flesh varieties, and prices are attractive. Orange prices are a bit lower than December levels. Other values are applies, bananas, pears and pineapples.

FRESH VEGETABLE--With prices generally a bit lower than a year ago, this week's plentiful vegetables featuring reasonable prices are: broccoli, cabbage, carrots, celery, hard-shell squash, potatoes, turnips, rutabagas and dry yellow onions. Also, head lettuce prices are down, and fresh green beans (mostly from Mexico) are moderately priced.

POULTRY--Fryer chickens have outstanding values, both whole birds and parts. Look for more attractive egg prices as the heavy holiday demand eases.

BEEF--Demand is increasing and prices are trending upward, but many markets are featuring chuck roasts and steaks and sirloin and T-bone steaks.

Good values also appear on ground beef and liver.

PORK--Prices somewhat irregular, but good values include quarter loin (in chops) and Boston butt roasts. Scattered features are on ham portions, picnics, bacon and frankfurters. Cured products show less price fluctuation than fresh items.

GROCERY MARKET AISLES--Specials appear on an assortment of fruit pie filling, canned peaches, green beans and pork and beans. Frozen features are fried chicken and a variety of vegetables.

CONSUMER WATCHWORDS: Save up to 20 percent on some canned fruits and vegetables. Spend time "comparative shopping" among brands (note those you like), buy for intended use and understand label information. Look for lower prices on house brands and regional brands--and on food with assorted or irregular pieces.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Hilario Fuentez and Mr. and Mrs. Rumaldo Canales.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown of chiffon designed with a Queen Anne neckline and empire bodice. Venise lace enhanced the fitted bodice. Her long veil of bridal illusion bordered with lace was attached to a lace covered band.

She carried a nosegay of carnations and baby's breath with white satin ribbon streamers.

Tina Fuentez was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mmes. Delfina Lopez, Patsy Fuentez, Gloria Ortegon, Mary Valadez, and Misses Diana Carales and Esmeralda Sepulveda.

Telephone Solicitation Help

COLLEGE STATION--Consumers wanting limits on telephone solicitations, take heart--support may be on the way, says Claudia Kerbel, consumer information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

Recommendations to help protect personal privacy are now under study--with automated dialing devices getting special attention, Ms. Kerbel says.

Each device is capable of calling more than 1,000 telephone numbers per day--on either a random or pre-selected basis.

Some machines play a recorded message up to six minutes in length.

Business organizations using these machines reach thousands of consumers--directly and inexpensively," the specialist continues.

Recommendations to limit telephone solicitations were submitted by the Office of Consumer Affairs (OCA) and they are now under study by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

Specifically, OCA recommended that FCC study the feasibility of adopting seven measures relating to automated dialing devices and other telephone soliciters.

These measures would:

- Require that telephone subscribers have an opportunity--at least annually--to place their names on lists of persons who would be protected from solicitation.
- Require that firms which employ this form of advertising bear the costs for compiling and maintaining these lists.
- Establish penalties for violators--with fines for repeated violators.
- Require solicitations that use automated dialing devices and recorded messages to begin with the statement, "This is a recorded message."
- Limit taped messages to one minute in areas where placing the telephone receiver on the cradle does not disconnect an incoming call.
- Establish limits on the hours during which telephone solicitations would be permitted.
- Determine the effect that telephone solicitations have on the telephone system--so that fees paid by soliciters reflect actual cost.

FIRST TIME WINNER--Beta Sigma Phi recently received a red ribbon (second place) and cash award for their scrapbook which was entered in state competition held in Del Rio. It is the first time for the club to win. A scrapbook is compiled each year by a committee. They are given to the immediate past president to keep as long as she resides in Snyder. # Beta Sigma Phi Sets Valentine Dance Feb. 4

Twenty-one members of Lambda Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi were present at their recent meeting at Martha Ann Woman's Club. President Susan Chesser called the meeting to order and led the opening ritual. Linda Moreland called the roll and read the minutes of the previous meeting. Carolyn Green gave the treasurer's report and Laura Green read the correspondence.

Ways and means chairman, Kay Hickman, led in the main topic of discussion for the evening. The annual Valentine Dance will be held Feb. 4 at the National Guard Armory. All members were given tickets to sell and assigned to a committee to prepare for the dance. The band, "The Topics" from Abilene, will play for the dance from 9 to 1. The tickets will sell for $10 a couple, and will not be sold at the door that night.

Laura Greene, last year's Valentine queen presided over the secret ballot voting for this year's queen. The 1978 Valentine queen will be presented at the dance. Previous queens still active in the chapter are Mickey Baird, Mona Bryan, Barbara Bills, Wanda Early and Carolyn Limmer.

Wanda Early, service chairman announced that a few of the members would work on the March of Dimes drive this Sunday. Bette League was named chairman of this project.

Billie Smith presented the program of the evening entitled "How Our Physical Environment Affects Our Lives". Mrs. Smith reminded the members that our attitudes determine how we will react regardless of situations. A distorted attitude will always see a grim view whereas the positive attitude will always see sunshine. A woman's attitude determines the atmosphere at home.

Hostesses for the evening were Mary Lou Scott and Linda Moreland.

welcome, northern

A warm welcome to Northern Electric Co. is in order. Local citizens have looked with eager anticipation toward the day when a good, solid industry would move into the huge building formerly occupied by Wickes Homes. It appears now that an ideal tenant has been found in Northern, a highly respected firm that has vast experience in its line of endeavor.

Snyder and Northern actually formed something of a mutual admiration pact back in November when the Snyder Chamber of Commerce, the Scurry County Industrial Foundation and the Scurry County Board of Development sponsored a labor survey at the request of Northern. By the time the survey had been completed — and it was highly successful, by the way — officials of Northern and the local organizations were not hesitant to express firm predictions that the manufacturing firm would ultimately establish a plant here.

Extensive negotiations ensued; and the plans moved along step by step until they reached a successful conclusion the past week. Now that the formal announcements have been made and the contracts have been signed it is fitting that something of a formal welcome be extended. We hope and fully expect this to be the mere beginning of a long, happy relationship between a first-class industry and a wide-awake, progressive community.

plaudits in order

Congratulations and best wishes are in order for West Texas State Bank and especially one of its founders.

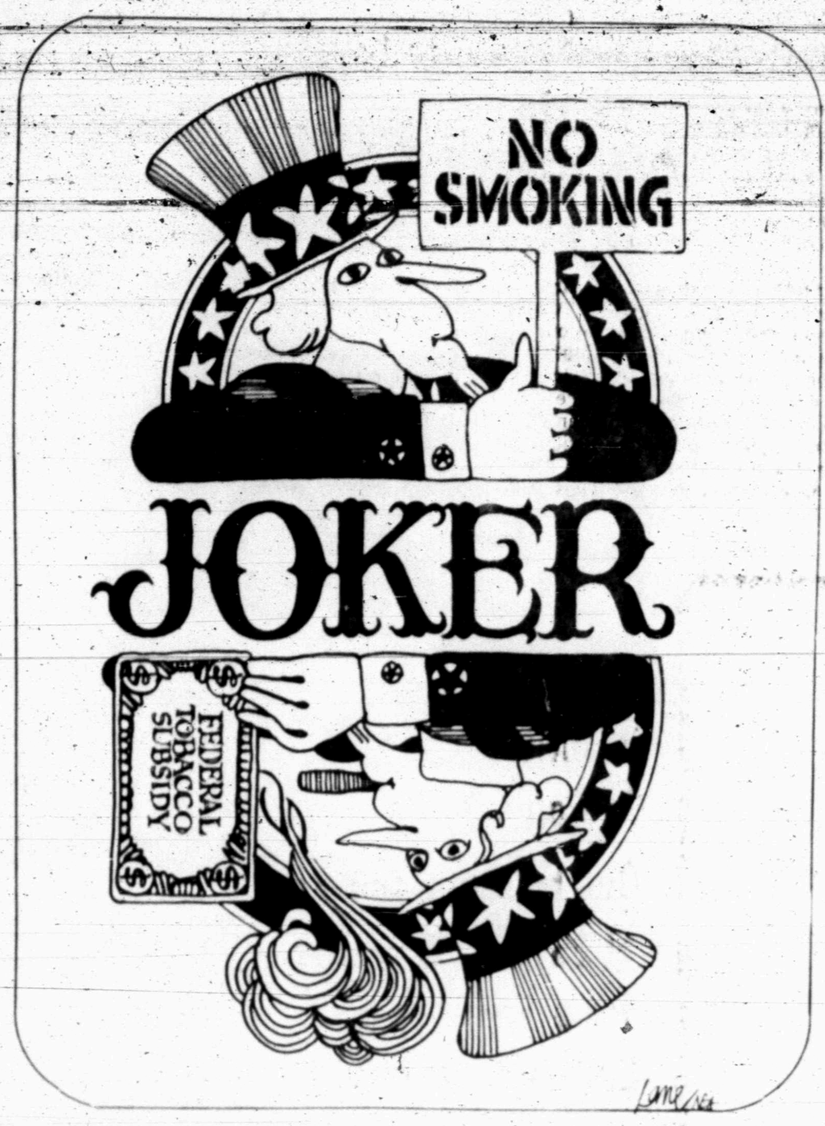

The bank as an institution has just celebrated the completion of a major construction project that enlarged and completely revamped its bank building.

Almost simultaneously, Hubert W. Cargile, chairman of the board, announced that he planned to reduce his work schedule — or, as he expressed it, "retire a little more."

West Texas State Bank is a shining testimonial to the progress made in the Snyder area since the oil boom days of the late forties and early fifties. Its latest construction project is only one of several that have taken place since the bank was founded back in 1949 and opened it doors in early 1950, and which not only have kept pace with the community's progress but set some standards as well.

Fortunately for the community, Mr. Cargile is not going into full retirement. Indeed, several community organizations would face immediate problems in trying to replace him on their boards, or slate of officers, if he should suddenly call it quits. His service to civic organizations as well as his contributions as a successful banker have made an indelible mark on many good things that have happened in Snyder.

So, at this time, we offer sincere congratulations to West Texas State Bank and to Mr. Cargile personally for attaining new milestones.

whose rights are right?

Whenour nation switched from a social philosophy of "opportunity" to a philosophy of "rights," we kicked open a hornet's nest.

Now we have some people demanding the right to inhale smoke and other people demanding the right not to.

Now we have guys with clubs and guns standing at the mouth of a coal mine defending their right to strike while denying other miners their right to work.

Listen to the cacophony of claims by persons proselytizing in the name of "rights"—for unwed mothers, unborn babies and homosexuals.

Nudists are demanding their right to nudity on California beaches; rejecting the rights of those opposed.

Whose rights are the right rights?

In the United States we have rejected the idea that a governor can stand in a schoolhouse door and exclude blacks.

But a college registrar can legally stand in the door and exclude whites.

Does the householder have a right to a barking dog? Then what about his neighbor's rights?

We are told that ranchers must respect the rights of coyotes.

In the dear, dead days beyond recall the unwritten creed which ordered our society was consideration for the rights of others. That is quite different from a greedy grasping of rights for ourselves.

That creed said, "My rights end where your nose begins."

That's a secular application of the Biblical abmonition to "do unto others..."

But when we set about to legislate morality we became enmeshed in a morass of sometimes contradictory and conflicting interests.

Worse, misuse of claims to a vast array of imagined rights could endanger some important ones.

Those of us who were able, willing and happy to mow neighbors' lawns for a quarter find it difficult to explain to our sons and daughters why they have no right to work unless they are paid a government-prescribed wage.

Dirty pictures were always for sale in dark alleys, but today's porno peddlers assert their rights to flaunt them in your face.

School-agers have enforceable rights to go to school but no right to choose where.

And a woman sportswriter insists that her rights include access to the team's locker room.

And now our President is presuming to prescribe for the rest of the world an enforceable philosophy of "human rights"—like our own?

my turn

by roy mcqueen, publisher

The feller on Deep Creek says, "In the old days a fool and his money were soon parted. Now it happens to everyone."

There's sanity left. Regardless of what most of us may think about what goes on in Washington, there are still some folks in Washington with common sense.

Well, there's at least one fellow, and believe it or not, he's an elected representative from Nebraska. We doubt that the Democratic senator is too popular with his colleagues, but we'd like the opportunity of voting for more like him.

According to news reports, Sen. Edward Zorinsky returned more than $300,000 in unspent salary and office-expense allotments to the U.S. Treasurery.

Here's what the senator had to say: "I received $460,000 per year for office funds, and, due to my past business experience, I always look for the cost-benefit ratio, particularly the expenditure of hard-earned taxpayers' money.

"I don't believe in spending tax dollars simply because they are there. I believe one must spend just what is needed to get the job done....I'm hoping that the first piece of legislation passed in 1978 is that of balancing the budget of this nation which, in my estimation, would resolve the biggest problem facing our country—uncontrolled inflation."

We know when government talks in terms of billions, that $300,000 is a pretty insignificant figure, but we appreciate it nonetheless.

In today's issue there are comments from business and civic leaders in the community that optimistically point to great things for Snyder and Scurry County in the future:

1977 was a banner year in Snyder for many reasons, and we look for 1978 to be a continuation of the ball that started to roll with great momentum.

If you happen to be one of those who worry about the area running out of oil and that we will dry up and blow away, you might take heart from a report in a recent issue of the Oil and Gas Journal.

The report said that Texas oil fields will provide a major share of crude oil into the 21st century.

The magazine reported that the Texas Railroad Commission reached the verdict after a 1977 study of 34 of the state's most productive fields. The commission's principal finding was that oil recovering rates in the Texas fields are among the highest in the country.

The 34 fields in the study account for about 19 percent of the country's reserve oil, about 29.5 billion barrels.

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—If the Soviets ever launch a sneak attack on the United States, the most valuable weapon in their arsenal could turn out to be a weather map of the Washington area.

On at least a half-dozen days each year, the entire nation's capital could be seized without a shot by any invading force smart enough to detect the fall of a snow flake.

Washington is paralyzed by snow, no matter how piddling the accumulation. If there's enough to coat the streets, the city and its fearless work force of public servants grind to a sliding, screeching halt.

Pentagon war gamers who can plot a course towards nuclear Armageddon with utter equanimity cower in the face of an ice slick on their suburban driveways.

Bureaucrats who conquer mountains of paperwork daily quail at the prospect of surmounting a ten-degree incline.

Republicans who grump about government spending suddenly start whining about the failure of the District of Columbia to purchase enough sand to convert city streets into prime beachfront property.

And housewives, at the first hint of snow, strip local supermarket shelves of enough food to supply a couple of field battalions for the rest of the winter.

You would think, by this time, that the capital of the most powerful nation on earth could master a few rudimentary techniques for snow survival. This is not the tropics, after all. Snow does fall, each and every winter.

But Washington, one must remember, is the seat of the federal government. And nobody ever accused it of learning from experience.

On Jan. 9, the inevitable happened. It was, as luck would have it, a Monday. Like all red-blooded Americans, Washingtonians are not at their best on Monday mornings even when the sky is clear, the temperature balmy and the streets dry.

When unsuspecting residents took to their beds on Sunday night, the mercury was at an unseasonable 62 degrees and a gentle rain was falling. By dawn, the temperature had plunged below freezing and the gentle rain had become a deadly menace: snow.

Pandemonium! Schools started late or dismissed classes early, or both. Rush hour fender-benders turned commuter thoroughfares into parking lots. Public transportation all but collapsed.

Radio stations abandoned regular programming to read off hundreds of cancelled civic, cultural and religious events scheduled for that evening and to keep frantic parents abreast of school closings.

The hardy few who managed to reach their offices (hours late) spent the day swapping tales of derring-do before setting off (hours early) on the grueling return trip.

It was a real test, all right. Nature, in her majestic fury, had dumped an horrendous .6 of an inch of snow on Washington, according to official weather service measurements.

Some blame all the transplanted Southerners here for the chaos that ensues whenever it snows. Others insist it is the arrogant immigrants from Buffalo, Minneapolis and the like who refuse to buy snow tires to fight a half-inch blizzard.

Whoever is responsible, one thing is certain. If tomorrow's column fails to appear in its usual space, there's no point yelling at the editor. The weather forecast for Washington is calling for snow again.

it's possible

Take up a "cause" and it's easy to give up "things." You can live without something if you have something to live for.

A young married couple moves into a cheap little apartment. They are happy because they have a cause — their new married love.

An artist lives in a musty attic, ill-fed, ill-clothed. His happiness comes from a cause he has to live for... his creative artistry. He does not need many material things.

The research scientist who comes to his college classroom in baggy pants, with an unshaven face and no tie, isn't interested in expensive suits — he is lost in a cause, that of research and study.

You can get by without lots of things if you have something great to live for. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you." (Luke 12:31)

For years our family has had the custom of staying home on Saturday evenings. We have a quiet meal in a quiet home and a very quiet and relaxed evening. We pray together as a family following dinner,and then later in the evening come soothing baths. The mind goes to bed on this night of the week relaxed, prepared to experience a spending of this relaxation through the spirit during a night of calm sleep.

In the morning the mind is conditioned for the most unique day of the week. This day is for worship and the family — for rest and peace and gladness.

The clothing we put on is distinctive. It will be clothing that will harmonize with the highest emotions of self-esteem and self-dignity.

The place to which we go is distinctive — the house of worship. The people we gather together with are distinctive — they are seekers after peace, love, faith and hope. The sounds, sights, smells are distinctive — rnythms of light, fragrances of flowers, tempo and harmonies. The intensity of sounds are distinctive — to contribute to peace and joy and gladness. Tension-producing profanity which we must tolerate in public, in print and through other media through the week is replaced by "different words." And words are emotional bullets or emotional baths — Sunday is an exposure to words that cleanse, relax, and heal the spirit.

We leave this experience of worship having had a two-sided therapeutic treatment. We have — in worship — drained out the negative emotions and tensions that inevitably collect every six days. And we have filled our lives at a deep level with a positive emotional experience. As the oil of an engine is drained out to carry with it the collected invisible irritants that would silently but cancerously corrode the power center so we have given ourselves a "spiritual oil change."

We return from the house of worship to an environment which is emotionally harmonious with the scene set the night before and enhanced by the fresh Sunday morning experience. So if we take Sunday dinner in a restaurant it will be a very special, distinctive place characterized by an emotional environment conductive to the continuation of the worship experience. "The rain that has fallen must be given a chance to soak into the soil." The restaurant must be quiet, with cloth napkins, soft voices and gentle sounds, so the mood of the morning should not be rudely interrupted before the tranquilizing experience has a chance to seep to the deepest levels and farthest corners of the mind.

No single discipline is more relevant to American culture today than this principle from God: One day in seven is to be kept holy. We cannot expect God to speak to us until we are quiet, calm and relaxed. Tranquility is Conditioning for Communication. Carve out your own 24-hour quiet zone and hold it for a treatment today.

yellow code is cb info center

CBers have got to be some of the most dedicated and creative people in our country. From the mail and telephone calls we receive, their ideas and the effort to which they go to implement these thoughts are enough to boggle the mind.

The latest example comes from a reader in Decatur, Ala. He is known through the four or five states in the southeast where he travels fairly frequently as "Charlie Brown" — KACY 3271. His name is Lep Wenzler, a native Memphian, graduate of the University of Tennessee in Knoxville, and a CBer for a little more than two years.

"I was entranced with the potential of citizen band radio after I got into it," he said in a soft southern drawl, speaking very quietly. "I was trained as a mechanical engineer and perhaps that's the reason some of your columns about CB discipline and more order to channel usage prompted me to think in terms of organization. At any rate a yellow code was the final development. After all a telephone book without a yellow section just wouldn't be a telephone book."

Lep is in the abstract-title insurance business in Decatur. Often called upon by his business to go into cities he was not familiar with, he found himself stopping to use telephones and consult city maps several times a day to get his directions. As he considered ways of relieving this problem, he realized his CB coould handle it expeditiously, and that a lot of other people must be facing this same crisis, only searching for different information, all over the country.

The result was the Citizens Band Yellow Code with National Monitor Assignments. Lep took all the categories of the yellow pages of a telephone directory and assigned them channels, heeding the fact that there are still many 23 channel sets in use. As an example, Channel 1 would be the channel to which you'd tune for realtors, homebuilders and savings and loan organizations. Channel 2 would be lawyers, bankers and loan companies. Channel 3 would be automobile agencies, auto service and wreckers. Channel 33 would be mobile homes, CB sales, and record-stereo outlets. And so on.

Lep's idea is that the Yellow Code would be universal throughout the United States and Canada. Sales people, office workers — even the bosses — of the particular category would monitor their assigned channel and respond with a break when they heard a call on their channel. They would know in advance that it had some question about their particular business, a question that they could answer best.

He put all his information together in a very attractive brochure, listing alphabetically the categories and the assigned channels. He also listed by channels the categories for monitoring. He had 2,000 of these printed. He has enlisted the aid of the National Realty Association, National Homebuilders, and Savings and Loans, just to name a few of the people he has contacted about his idea. He even ran an advertisement in the Decatur Daily at his own expense to tell CBers locally about it. He has sent it to the Personal Radio Division of the FCC and to his congressmen to enlist their aid.

Lep is a determined fellow-CBer who has been seeking a way in which CB could be better used, and he'll go to almost any extent to bring it to the public.

You can get a copy of Yellow Code by writing him at Box 803, Decatur, Ala. 35602.

"What's wrong with wanting to see the Sex Pistols'?"

AMERICAN AGRICULTURE MOVEMENT

The American Agriculture movement was conceived to preserve the family farm system, the most efficient food producing unit in this nation. We have little time left as more than 25 percent of farmers and ranchers will be forced to either liquidate or refinance their operations this year. We have lost equity and enormous sums of money for the last four years, and we are now on the verge of bankruptcy. Unless something is done, only big money entities, or possibly the government, will be left to produce the food.

The American Agriculture movement is not another farm organization. There are no memberships, dues, secretaries, or presidents. We are a group of individual farmers, ranchers, and agribusinessmen, unified together in order to achieve the fair price of 100 percent parity for all agricultural products.

The American people today pay only 16.8 percent of their total disposable income for food. The people of other nations purchase food in a relatively raw state, yet these nations spend a minimum of 28 percent of their income for food. By achieving parity pricing, it will increase the percentage by 3.1 percent to a total of only 19.1 percent. This is by far the cheapest and best food in the world. By eliminating middlemen, we can achieve parity and raise the price to consumers very little. The 3.1 percent shift of total disposable income in only a small shift in priority, but means the difference between existence and nonexistence of the family farms.

We do not want government subsidies. At this time we are actually subsidizing this nation and the world with cheap food and fiber. For each unit of agriculture products produced, the American farmer and rancher must put part of his equity with it when it is sold and consumed. It would be the same as a laboring person receiving no payment for his work each week and instead, having to pay $100 from his own pocket for the privilege of having that job.

We are a minority of people, less than 4 percent of the population, and consequently, have no political voting power. We are tired of government dominance, speculation, manipulation, and big money influence in our market place. In 1973 when cattle prices were close to parity, the government put on a price freeze. In 1974, the government said to plant "fence row to fence row," and we could sell these products to hungry nations. We planted fence row to fence row and an export embargo was placed on agricultural products which destroyed our market and created a surplus. This cost the American producer and the American economy billions of dollars. Whether we like it or not, we no longer have a free market system. We can no longer exist with these types of manipulations. Our only hope is to tie agriculture prices to the parity concept through law.

When we speak of parity, we are not speaking of a guaranteed income. All parity insures is a fair price. In order to achieve an income, we still have to produce. The risks of droughts, floods, hail, pests, and management still make production a very risky undertaking.

Furthermore, parity pricing would insure a thriving agricultural sector which would revitilize the entire economy. If we could have had 100 percent parity instead of 63 percent in 1976, cash receipts from agriculture would have increased from $95 billion to approximately $150 billion dollars. This is new wealth injected into the national economy and is renewable each year. Tax rebates and other efforts to boost the economy and reduce unemployment have had limited success. It is time to try a healthy agriculture industry for a change.

In order to achieve anything American Agriculture must now unite as one group in order to make our voice heard. A group of individual farmers and ranchers unified together can do anything, and the key is to unite NOW.

Figures taken from the USDA Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

The current action is not an appeal for price supports, the creation of a false economy for agriculture, or for government subsidies. It is rather a rejection of the current farm program. It is a demand for 100 percent of parity for agriculture products. This means, according to Section 101 of the USDA's National Economic Stability Act of 1977, that agriculture product prices "shall be increased or decreased on a period basis to justify increases in production costs and living costs for producers." Another way to explain parity is that if it cost a bushel of corn or a pound of beef to buy a product in 1967 (the last time parity was adjusted), it should still cost a bushel of corn or pound of beef, regardless of the dollar cost of the product -- prices must fluctuate together.

The Public Is Invited To Come-By Our Headquarters at 2612 College Ave. for a Free Cup of Coffee

The farmers, your neighbors, ask for your support!!

FARMERS REJECT THE CURRENT FARM PROGRAM. INSTEAD, WE DEMAND:

1. One hundred per cent of parity for all domestically used or consumed agricultural produce.
2. One hundred per cent of parity for all foreign exports of agricultural produce.
3. All agricultural products produced for national and international food reserve shall be contracted by any or all governments at 100 percent of parity.
4. Creation of an entity or structure with inputs from farmers to handle marketing of American agricultural products at 100 percent of parity.
5. Meat and livestock imports must be stopped until parity prices are reached.

UNLESS THESE DEMANDS ARE MET, THE FOLLOWING MEASURES WILL BE IMPLEMENTED:

1. We will not sell any farm products.
2. We will not produce any more agricultural products.
3. We will not boy any agricultural equipment, production supplies, or nonessential products.

Our farm proposals are reasonable. Our goals are obtainable. Our ultimatum is justified. We ask for your support.

Strike for your homes, farms, ranches, and businesses. Strike for the future generations of American farmers. Strike with the same dedication you have long employed to make this the greatest food-production nation the world has ever known!

IMMEDIATE ACTION YOU CAN TAKE:

1. Disperse handbills--talk to your neighbors.
2. Park your tractors and other farm equipment with a sign saying that we will strike for 100 percent of parity.
3. Help organize a Strike Headquarters in your region--or help with the one that has been opened near you!

WE WILL NOT ADVOCATE VIOLENT ACTION

WE WILL NOT CONDONE VIOLENCE, BUT

WE WILL STRIKE!

PARITY IS A REALISTIC GOAL:

PARITY

The following is a reprint of an article found in a recent Abilene Reporter-News which surveys the agriculture situation quite well.

"Recent stories concerning a strike by farmers for fair prices leaves the impression that 'parity' is exclusive to agriculture. Parity is a much misunderstood word. Mention parity and immediately 'farmers' springs to mind. Truth is our entire economic system operates on parity. Not just agriculture.

"We've long contended that the teaching of economics should begin in the first grade. Those who study journalism should be required to take a minor degree in economics before being allowed to write or broadcast. Because this is not the case, we are a nation of economic illiterates.

"Webster defines parity: 'The quality or condition of being equal or equivalent; a like state or degree.'

COST OF LIVING RAISE

"When a company grants an increase in wages to cover the rise in cost of living, that worker has parity. When a labor union fights for an increase in wage and fringe benefits to bring earning power in line with the cost of living, the struggle is for parity. Rarely, however, is "parity" ever used in this fashion. Why not? All that is being done is to create the condition of being equal or equivalent.

"Currently Oklahoma teachers are demanding $1,000 annual salary increase. Why? To be equal. They want parity.

"Nor does the comparison end with labor and professions. Public utilities faced with increased costs go before the corporation commission and ask for rate increases to cover those added costs -- and they usually get what they ask for. Why? So they can be equal; so they can show a return on investment and make dividend payments to shareholders. But is a request for a rate increase ever called a request for parity? Not to our knowledge.

INDUSTRIAL PRICE HIKES

"It goes into industry. Automakers begin early in the year to warn buyers that the next model will cost several hundred dollars more. The reasoning is that they must have an increase to cover costs and return a reasonable profit for stockholders. That's economic parity. It's never called that.

"The only time the word 'parity' appears is when it is applied to agriculture; when farmers say they believe they, too, should be able to pass on added costs. But when farmers talk of parity, it becomes a dirty word because people do not understand the working of a free, competitive enterprise system.

"Current misinformed stories say farmers are striking for guaranteed profits. Spokesmen for American Agriculture say this is not true. All farmers want is parity for what is consumed and exported: they want to be equivalent with the rest of the economy. They believe what they have to sell should have equal buying power. They are seeking nothing more than the worker, the utility company or the manufacturer of motor cars, tractors or whatever.

"When an automaker raises the price of his product, he is not asking for a guaranteed profit; merely the opportunity to make a profit. If because of poor management the increased price does not show a profit, he has several alternatives. Borrow money, merge with another company, or go broke.

PROFIT

"That's all farmers want -- the opportunity to make a profit which is being denied them when they are denied parity for what the public uses.

"At best, this explanation of parity is simplistic. What we tried to do is put into proper perspective the word 'parity' and inform readers no matter what part of the economic arena you occupy, you're dealing with parity -- the state of being equal. When you ask the boss for a raise; when you ask more for what you have to sell, you in fact are asking for 100 per cent parity.

"Farm machinery makers are bitterly aware of this fact. Sales of farm tools are way down; and a bad year is predicted for 1978. Why? Farmers faced with 64 per cent parity do not have the money to spend. It appears farm machinery makers are going to operate below parity. They have alternatives. Cut back on the number of machines built; increase the price of those sold; merge with another company. Or quit. That's the way our system works.

ECONOMICS

"American agriculture has entered a new era. It's significant that the leaders of American Agriculture, the group who started the protest movement, are young college-trained farmers, adept in management and learned in economics. They know they have the same alternatives as the makers of farm tools. Cut back on production; refuse to sell; refuse to buy, merge, or quit. Parity is not an agricultural word exclusively. It applies to all."

John (that's his back) and Amy at the lemonade stand.

John Gnann

John and Amy were business partners. They ran the famous lemonade stand.

Classmate John Gnann

Fifth grader John Gnann knows Amy Carter well.

They were next-door neighbors. They were also classmates and used to do their homework together.

He sees her almost everytime she comes home.

"Amy hasn't changed much," John told The Mini Page.

"She makes friends easier now. She is happy where she is living now that she knows she is going to be there for a while," he said.

"Amy is real friendly. She is not snobbish. She doesn't stick out much. Once she gets to be your friend, she is like one of you," he said.

She likes to go places. But she doesn't like for people to bother her about being famous," he added.

Teacher Jan Williams

"This must be your daughter but she looks just like Amy Carter," someone once told Jan Williams. She and a little girl were in a museum line in Washington.

The little girl was Amy Carter. "Miss Jan" often went places with Amy. She sat with the family and Amy at the Inauguration.

Now, Amy calls her every two weeks from the White House.

"Sometimes she talks to me in Spanish," said Miss Jan.

"She enjoys school field trips very much," she said.

"I think she is even more independent than she used to be," she added.

How Plains Has Changed

by Michelle Walton

Michelle

(A Mini Page NEWS-HOUND report . . . written by fourth grader at Westside Elementary School in Plains, Georgia)

One of the tour rides

Plains started out as a little town.

But when Jimmy Carter was elected, people started to come from everywhere.

So they started building souvenir shops and getting tour busses and tour vans and all kinds of tour rides.

Then they put up a red light.

Then some more tourists started coming and asking where Jimmy Carter lives, or where Billy Carter lives, or where the Plains Baptist church is.

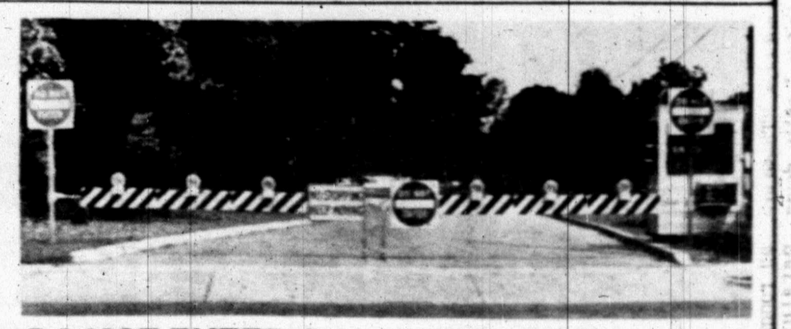

Then they started to ask where Mrs. Lillian Carter lives.

Then some of the tourists started coming into the High School to see where Jimmy Carter went to school.

Then they put sidewalks in and fixed up a park with new picnic tables and public restrooms.

Now some of the people who live in Plains are putting up signs so they can sell their houses.

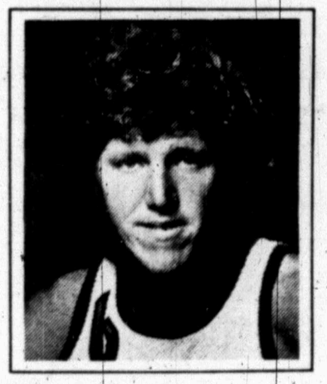

I live here so I know somethings about Plains.

DO NOT ENTER: If you were to visit Plains, this is as close as you can get to President Carter's house. It is hidden from view by trees. The Secret Service men have set up their offices in a nearby mobile home.

Super Sport: Bill Walton

Last season center Bill Walton led the Portland Trail Blazers to the National Basketball Association championship.

In the final playoff series, Bill was voted the most valuable player. During the regular season, he lead the NBA in rebounds and blocked shots.

In college, Bill starred at UCLA. He led the Bruins to two national championships.

Bill enjoys fishing and back packing. He also does volunteer work with an Indian group.

Unlike a lot of pro players, he doesn't drive a flashy car. He prefers driving around in his pickup truck.

MYSTERY: Is it easier to float in salt water or in fresh water?

FINDING OUT: Fill a glass ¾ full of water. Carefully put an egg in the water.

Does it sink or float?

Take the egg out and stir in six tablespoons of sugar or salt. Stir until all is dissolved. Add the egg again.

What do you observe?

Why?

Can you make the egg float in the middle of the glass?

CLUE: The egg is heavier (more dense) than water. When the salt or sugar is dissolved, the water mixture becomes heavier (more dense) and the egg floats or is buoyed up by the denser water mixture.

But Can Be Misinterpreted

Numbers Part Of Life

EDITOR'S NOTE - The businessman broods over the bottom line. The baseball addict dotes on batting averages. The government expects us to calculate our income tax, assigns us a Social Security number and rules by a quadrennial vote count. Statistics mirror our national psyche, and numbers are so pervasive that hardly anybody notices. The writer of the following article does.

By SID MOODY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Ever since some ancient, ancestral ape determined he had 10 fingers, numbers have counted.

Particularly right now.

Numbers are everywhere, spawned from computers like fruit flies. Federal budgets and unemployment figures, batting averages and death rates.

Numbers, numbers, numbers. Pushing, manipulating, essential in an Age of Technocracy, speaking - shouting - louder than words. Such as three nagging little ones: are they correct?

Surprisingly, it is a question infrequently asked. Surprisingly, because although we live by the numbers, we take them for granted, like breathing.

Paradoxically it's the little number that bothers us, our own, the one we fear will steal our individuality. This irrespective of the fact that Social Security would have the devil of a time identifying the 60,000 John Smiths in America without numbers.

Richard Scammon, the Falstaffian former head of the U.S. Census Bureau, waves an admonitory finger on high at such indifference.

"Modern man must not only be literate," he cries. "He must also be numerate!"

Then consider: Who said "We have never claimed infallibility, but next Tuesday the whole world will be able to see down to the last percentage point how good we are." Easy. That was pollster George Gallup in 1948 when he picked Tom Dewey as the next president.

Meet Professor Charles Ruggles of Yale. He recently reviewed the Wholesale Price Index for the White House. He found it inaccurate for the sensible reason that it was not based much on wholesale prices. The Bureau of Labor Statistics agrees and will have a new index when Congress gives it the money.

Chuck Barris was dismayed at the sales of his new novel, "You and Me, Babe." He located the selected bookstores that report to the New York Times' best seller list and spent thousands of dollars buying up his book. He made the list, and sales responded accordingly.

The point is not that numbers don't have their uses, vital ones. The point is that numbers can be and are misinterpreted, manipulated, based on misleading or false assumptions, used to quantify the unquantifiable.

Auguste Comte, the French philosopher, said: "There is no inquiry which is not finally reduced to a question of numbers." As regards science, he's probably right. Applied to human beings, who are generally too mutilated, spindled and unprogrammed to be fed into a computer, it can approach absurdity. Yet we try.

Numbers evolved with early society. Money-digits of stipulated worth enabled man to sell apples for oranges in the market. A knowledge of cubits, a measure, allowed him to build an ark that wouldn't capsize.

"Numbers allow you to express relationships," notes Daniel Levine, a demographer at the Census Bureau.

"Numbers keep order," says Dr. George Katonah of the Survey Research Center of the University of Michigan. In 1324, for instance, Edward II of England decided to bring order to shoemaking by standardizing sizes, measured by three barley corns from the center of the ear to an inch up to a maximum of 39 corns or 13 inches. Or, size 13. Americans buy shoes to this footstick to this day.

From the ancient Sumerians onward numbers were essential to science and commerce. "But we didn't start to live by the numbers until the 18th and 19th centuries," says Michael Mahoney, professor of science history at Princeton.

"The Industrial Revolution brought the money system to the fore. People began moving into cities and factories. This meant living by the clock. Wages. Production figures."

"Most of us depend on statistics to a great extent for our perception of the world," says Earle J. Gerson, a Census Bureau official. "We may not have been victims of crime, but we know the statistics, and we lock our doors."

In a word, almost everybody for almost any reason is better off knowing "what's going on out there." The numbers don't always give complete satisfaction but they give the best answers we have.

But the answers sometimes have to be challenged.

"If a poll comes 'out wrong, the pollster blames sampling error," says Albert Sindlinger, a veteran business pulse taker. "How come there are never any sampling errors when polls come out the way we want them to? We only look at what we want to see. That's human nature."

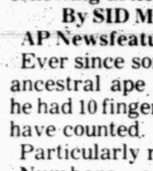

And human nature, like tequila, is best taken with a grain of salt.

Sindlinger knew Herbert Hoover in the 1920s and recalls Hoover feared an economic collapse but couldn't be sure because no one had the figures. No one knew what levels of employment and production were. Since then Washington has become the numbers capital of the world. A nation that has decided to regulate and, more important, ameliorate the lives of its citizens has to know the numbers.

Fortunately, says economist John Kenneth Galbraith, "our statistics are extremely good. They're done by people of high integrity and competence. There is, though, a tendency of high public officials to take favorable statistics and exaggerate their importance."

Forsooth, we can't turn from numbers and walk away in our three-barley-corn-to-the-inch shoes.

Heed Scammon. Be numerate. But before taking numbers at their face value, ask what they mean, or who says they mean what they mean, and then, before canonizing them, count 10.

Cry for help

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

A colleague of mine recently received a disturbing call while answering phones for a 24-hour hot-line. The call came from a 65-year-old man just sent home from the hospital after being told he had terminal cancer — and only four months to live.

Frightened by the future and worried about being a burden to his family, he called the hot-line for permission to kill himself. Here is an excerpt from that call.

HOT LINE

MR. C: This probably won't be a very diffieult call for you. We only need to talk for a few minutes because I have a simple question. Once you answer it, I'll hang up and won't bother you any more. I just found out I have cancer and will die in four months. I'm a heavy burden to my family. What I want to know is one reason why I shouldn't kill myself. I've had a good life.

Counselor: Are you thinking of killing yourself because you feel like a burden to your family?

Mr. C: Yes. It seems logical but I haven't talked it over with anyone. Maybe it's crazy. What do you think?

Counselor: You can talk it over with me. I'm glad you called.

Mr. C: I hardly know where to begin. It's been several months since I talked to anyone about anything important. All we talk about here is the weather and baseball. "Keep it light" seems to be the motto.

Counselor: Are you talking about your conversations with your family?

Mr. C: Yes. I'm living with my son, his wife and their three children. I have been here for two months — ever since I left the hospital.

Counselor: You said you have cancer?

Mr. C: I'm dying from cancer and I feel alone and scared. I stay in my bedroom thinking everyone would be better off without me.

Counselor: What makes you think so?

Mr. C: For one thing, I'm in a bedroom on the second floor in the back of the house. They must have put me here to get me out of the way. I can't get downstairs to see anyone.

Counselor: Or they may have let you have that bedroom to give you some privacy and lots of rest.

Mr. C: That could be true. Maybe they're not avoiding me, but still I don't want to be here.

Counselor: Where would you like to be?

Mr. C: There's a little guest room off the family room. I'd like to be there. That would make me feel more a part of the family. Maybe I should ask my son if that would be possible. It would be better than lying here thinking about killing myself.

Counselor: When you consider the idea of being closer to your family, do you want to live a little longer?

Mr. C. Yes, I'd like to live as long as I can. I guess I was feeling that they had just locked me up in a closet and, when you feel that way, there is no reason to continue living.

Counselor: Do you think your son understands your medical condition?

Mr. C: The doctor talked to him so I assume he knows.

Counselor: But he might not know that you know...

Mr. C: He might now. That may be why they try so hard to keep the conversation from serious topics. I must talk to my son ...

A phone call several days later revealed that his son had known the extent of his father's illness — but hadn't realized that his father also knew. It made them feel closer to clear up that misunderstanding.

In response to the caller's request to change bedrooms, the family gladly moved him to the guest room off the family room — and no one realized how close they had come to the tragedy of suicide.

Dr. Blaker cannot take telephone calls from her readers. However, there are hundreds of crisis intervention phone lines in the United States. For the phone number of one near you, contact your local mental health association or mental health information service.

Write to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. Volume of mail prohibits personal replies, but questions of general interest will be discussed in future columns.

Human Billboard Quitting

BATON ROUGE, LA. (AP)-Ray Valine has concluded he can't make a living here by having advertising messages painted on his shaved head.

So the 31-year-old former trash collector is going back to California. "I'm definitely going to have to go home and do some manuel type labor," he said.

He headed west after a three-day market test in Baton Rouge showed him merchants are not willing to shell out $300 to $500 a day for human billboard.

"I had success in California but I guess others don't appreciate somebody using their head," he said.

Valine came to Louisiana for the Super Bowl, and was employed by a firm promoting a Super Bowl eve variety show.

Hotel Has Souvenir Of HHH

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-The St. Anthony hotel here still has a souvenir of the late Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's presidential campaign visit in 1968 - a tab for $1,815.48.

The total includes charges for rooms, liquor and service for the 45 members of Humphrey's campaign entourage who were quartered at the hotel during an Oct. 23-24, 1968, visit.

Efforts to collect the bill from Humphrey's campaign failed, and when new ownership took over the hotel in 1971 they began billing the national Democratic party.

The party is slowly paying off the debt, attorney Charles Duke, said Wednesday. Duke is the administrator for R.W. Morrison Trusts, which now owns the hotel.

"There's still a balance owing-less than $1,000-but they're keeping it alive," Duke said. "They acknowledge that they owe it, and are being billed for it. If they've got the money, they send us some," Duke said of the Democratic party's effort to pay.

"We've been very lenient, carrying it on the books for that many years," he said.

He said he hopes the bill can be retired soon.

Sex Pistols Go Out With Bang

NEW YORK (AP)-The Sex Pistols are going out with a bang.

Only hours after the lead singer announced the punk rock group is breaking up, the bass player was carried off an airplane on a stretcher.

Doctors said Sid Vicious - his real name is John Ritchie - was hospitalized for a drug overdose.

Johnny Rotten started the episode Wednesday night when he announced at the CBGB nightclub in New York that he would no longer be performing with the other three members of the British band.

Then came Vicious, arriving Thursday in the first-class section of a Trans World Airlines flight from Los Angeles.

"Everybody thought he was sleeping, which he was, but when it came time to get off, he was still sleeping," an airline spokesman said.

He was rushed to Jamaica Hospital where a spokesman said: "He's young and he's healthy. All vital signs are good."

Still waiting to be heard from are the other two members of the group - Paul Cook, the drummer, and Steve Jones, the guitarist.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Washington's governor may not be riding high in popularity polls, but she's getting a kick out of her job anyway. For one thing, she's closer to a childhood ambition of being at the controls of various modes of transit.

By DAVID AMMONS
Associated Press Writer

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) - If political enemies accuse Gov. Dixy Lee Ray of driving ambition, they're at least partly right. Washington's No. 1 citizen also is the state's No. 1 transportation junkie.

As a kid, Gov. Ray made two lists. One was of "famous, classical, unique animals, things often called missing links. "She checked off nearly all during her travels as zoology professor at the University of Washington, Atomic Energy Commission chairman and U.S. State Department official.

The second list? Things she wanted to pilot or drive.

Through the years she's checked off many of them - sports cars, boats, cable cars, gondolas and even a hot air balloon and heavy construction equipment.

Since she took office in January 1977, she's piloted an oil supertanker, climbed aboard an antique Canadian steam locomotive, floated down a river in a rubber raft.

Still on her list: Piloting a blimp, riding a submarine and mushing through the snow on a dog sled.

"Let me assure you it's nothing contrived," the 63-year-old Democratic governor says. "These are just things I enjoy doing and things I have always done. I just love driving. I always have. The first thing was a kiddy cart, and then a coaster wagon."

She says her idea of luxury would be to buy the fastest, jazziest sports car she could find. Although she once owned a Jaguar, she drives a four-wheel-drive vehicle on her island farm in Puget Sound and still owns the motor home she lived in when she was in Washington, D.C.

She cheered Washington U's Huskies in the Rose Bowl earlier this month after traveling from Olympia to Pasadena in a caravan of motor homes.

She piloted an oil supertanker and a Boeing hydrofoil on Puget Sound.

To help celebrate Queen Elizabeth II's Silver Jubilee, she hopped aboard an antique Canadian steam engine and rode to nearby Tacoma.

With her sister Marion and her pet poodle Jaques, she was paddler of honor in a high-style float trip down the Yakima River. The after-rafting menu: liver pate, sauteed mushrooms, avocados in shrimp sauce, chateaubriand and champagne.

Gov. Ray already has announced her intention to seek re-election in 1980 even though her popularity seems on the wane. But she says her penchant for odd modes of transit isn't a campaign ploy.

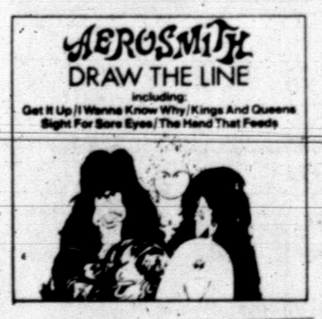

"I'm not a very sophisticated person," she says. "My enjoyments and my interests are the same as many people share."

Snyder Leaders Look Ahead!

Bentley Baize
Manager
Von Roeder Seed Farms

1978 Should prove to be an interesting year in Agriculture in West Texas and the nation. The Farmers strike will probably bring some changes about. The West Texas Farmer has always had his up and downs, and has always emerged stronger than ever. The crop outlook for 1978 will depend largely on moisture conditions.

Bentley Baize

Brenda Hedges
Manager
First Federal Savings

Optimistic views usually stem from our past experiences. If we at First Federal base our optimism on our past experiences in 1977 then we look to 1978 with great enthusiasm.
This enthusiasm is generated through our depositors who made it possible for us to make over 200 home loans in the Scurry County area.
Indications project more of the same for 1978.

Brenda A. Hedges

Hershel Hinshaw
Owner
Hinshaw's

Last year was a great year of prosperity and growth for Snyder with record building and new business opening.
I believe the momentum of 1977 will carry right on through 1978 even stronger.

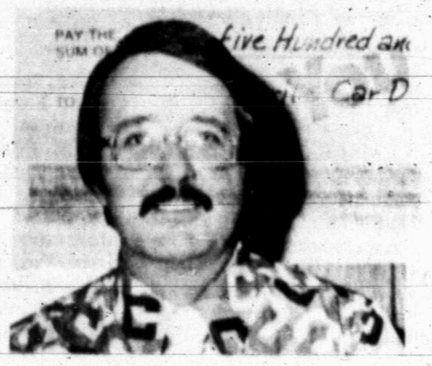

Hershel Hinshaw

Mike Ezzell
District 63
State Representative

I think the outlook for Snyder and Scurry County is very bright because of the positive attitude of its citizens. The feeling of confidence within the business community in Snyder is unoerscored by the current pace of construction and expansion.

Mike Ezzell

Gary Montgomery
Agent
Allstate Insurance

1977 was just great, the remarkable increase in homeowners policies that came into our office reflects the trend of new people moving in and new home building.
1978 as you can see, has a busy year in store for Scurry County, now business activity is at a peak and I feel sure it will continue for years to come.

Gary Montgomery

W.R. Henry
Manager
Snyder Chamber of Commerce

We at the Chamber of BCD, look to 1978 with great anticipation. The signs of continued prosperity evidenced by the growth we are witnessing in construction and commercial development. Snyder is on the move and has been for several years.
We should all be proud of past and present accomplishments, but We cannot sit back and watch. These is a saying which I feel should be incorporated in our thoughts concerning Snyder's future. The saying goes," Each day you are better or worse than you were the day before, you never stay the same."
We must strive to grow every day, individually as well as collectively. Snyder is not a separate entity, it is a vehicle through which the citizentry expresses its personality and portrays the image it has of itself. Presently we are a model--All America--City because you, as a citizen, wanted it that way. Are we going to build on our All America City Distinction or stop action on that 1909 award?
In conclusion, the oil and agriculture indistry have been very good to us. We must, however, accept the responsibility to diversify our economic base through the recruitment and expansion of other job-providing industry. We must provide adequate housing for those newcomers and extend to them, as well as the present citizentry, the finest quality of life possible. A diversified economy is the key to Snyder's future.

WR Henry

C.O. Holder
Chairman of Board
Snyder Savings & Loan

We, at Snyder Savings and Loan, having just completed a very successful year in 1977, are looking for 1978 to be another year of challenge and uncertainty.
The economy of the area with its farming, ranching, and oil coupled with the local businesses has remained comparatively stable - but - many items such as the moisture level, the current farmers' strike, and the price of our oil, could create changes in this condition almost overnight.
As I see it, uncertainty of the results of the above items, plus overcoming the never-ending increase in paper work and governmental regulations as generated by our bureaucratic Congress in Washington, make 1978 a definite year of uncertain potential.
However, you may rest assured that regardless of the events coming in 1978, this Association will continue to provide our area with a safe, dependable, and progressive financial institution.

C.O. Holder

John Fagin
Mayor
Snyder, Texas

The economic outlook for Snyder looks bright to me. Serving Northern Electric Friday for the Wickes building is the best thing to happen to Snyder in a long time. It will have a tremendous impact on Snyder, creating new jobs, and the spin-off of other jobs as a result of the increase in payroll dollars in Snyder.
The winning combination of the Chamber of Commerce, the Industrial Foundation, financial institutions, the City, County and people working together to recruit Northern Electric here is one good reason why I think Snyder twill continue to grow and prosper.

John A. Fagin

Tommy Davis
Owner
Snyder Janitoral Supply

I feel great about the outlook of Scurry County, after a record year at SJS I am optimistic that this next decade will be the best in the 101 years of Scurry County's history.
Snyder is rapidly becoming more of a regional trade center in retail, agricultural and oil business. I have noticed a reversed trend in people coming to Snyder to trade rather than other big cities.
Fine businesses, churches, local government, one of the best school systems around are to be found right here in Scurry County.
We need to support our farmers and the oil industry, for they are the backbone of Scurry Countys growth.

1978 appears to be another good year for Scurry County and all of West Texas. There continues to be excellent demand for our major resources and products--oil, cotton and cattle. Other economic indicators are strong, including gains in deposits of financial institutions. We think that these indicators, coupled with determination, can produce a sure winner.

1978 is a pivotal year for Snyder. It is the year that we as citizens must chart the futire for our city and county. We must vigorously increase the number of dollars flowing into our city and keep them here.
This can be accomplished by persueing more industrial (manufacturing) prospects, by supporting the industries we are fortunate to have now, oil, agriculture, American Mag. and supporting our Independent businesses, banks and merchants.
We must plan and work now as citizens of Snyder & Scurry County to assure a good 78 and a bright future.

A lot of news was made in Snyder during 1977 and with 1978 only three weeks old, it appears that the momentum will carry over through the new year. Projected development which will mean more jobs for more people, more housing, more shopping facilities and more community activities indicate that this will be one of the most exciting years ever in our city and county. We at The Snydeer Daily News are looking forward to reporting and recording some great events in our home town this year, beginning with today's issue which carries the formal announcement of a major new industry for Snyder.

The economic climate in Snyder is good. We have had a good agriculture year although I don't know if it was good for the farmer but there is a lot of money in circulation. The oil outlook is good because we can see a lot of money from that industry in circulation. 1978 looks like another good year to me.

It is hard for me to be optimistic about our future with the farmers talking about going on strike.
I think more people should get involved in our politics and have their say because that is what free interprise is all about. The people in Snyder can help the farmer by writing their congressman. This is the way I feel we can help our economy. Scurry County has been good to me and the farmers have done well strickly because of the quantity and quality of their cotton. The oil industry has been good to Scurry County and will continue to be good.
Agriculture will be the stablizing factor here for many years and I believe we should write our congressmen to help solve some of the farmer's problems.

Business in Snyder is going to be alright in 1978 but I don't think it will set any records.
I see more retail establishments opening faster than the population increases which will spread spending dollars around too thin.
I believe the more aggressive businesses will show the biggest gains this year.

As I look at the situation in Snyder and Scurry County at the start of 1978, I have somewhat mixed feelings.
Agriculture income has not been up to expectations and our farmers and ranchers face many problems. This includes not only the lack of top moisture but also, deep moisture.
Oil production continues to decline in our SACROC field with no relief in sight concerning the price of old oil. On the other hand, growth in our city continues to be healthy with a building pace at boom time levels.
New industry continues to look at Snyder as its location and this means many new jobs.
So, in summary, I see some problems in 1978 but in comparison with many, many other places, Snyder has a lot of things that are "right."

Because of the many successes in our community last year, we cannot help but look with optimism to the prospects for 1978. We are encouraged by the growth patterns of our areas, the work ethics of our people and the genuine progressive attitude of all citizens. We believe that the growth in our retail community will cause Snyder to become more of a regional trade center. At the newspaper, we are taking steps to help our businessmen expand their markets by increased regional and area coverage and distribution. We also are greatly encouraged by the continued world-wide demands for food and fibers and for petroleum products which all vital parts of our economic base. In addition, the prospects for expanding the economic base and for creating new payrolls causes us to eagerly anticipate the new year.

The farm movement is the big issue right now and it is going to be a look-see program before we know what is coming. I do feel the farmers that go to Washington will get the attention of Congress but it won't be an overnight deal to get them to look at some kind of support for the farmer. Our oil is depleting but with advanced technology, they are coming up with new ways to get it which means more service companies. This is reason we are having such a boom in our community now. I believe the farm movement will be the big thing in 1978 but I don't see the farmers having as good of a crop this year as they did last year because of the weather.

SACROC Unit production is declining and has been since 1973. We see it to continue to decline from 15 percent to 20 percent from 1977's production which is typical of an oilfield this old. There is a possibility that we could see crude oil prices increase in 1978 which would stablize our economy somewhat. The Federal Energy Administration has announced its intensions to adjust oil prices which would allow us to get better prices for crude and this would be beneficial. There will not be any great change in field work unless there is a crude price increase and then activity would increase. I believe we will see a continual gradual decline in production in the future.

As far as Snyder is concerned the economic outlook is generally very good. Indicators such as building permits and developers talking about new developments are good and with the new industry and its 150 employees, the unemployment figures will be lower and lower. I can see two or three years that look like steady growth in our community. Snyder is trying to develop diversification of its base because we realize that oil production is dropping and we have to have other job opportunities for people. A good general rain, relief on farm prices, and deregulation of oil and gas prices would help.

Being optimistic about the future of Snyder brings mixed emotions. People working together, good local governments and low taxes make Snyder an ideal place to put work and operate a business. At present, many new businesses are opening and older businesses are remodeling and diversifying. Our community is growing.
Still, there are questions of the future that can not be answered with certainity. How far will inflation go? How long will oil be a dominating factor in our economy. Our community is fortunate to have a choice and time to work out solutions to the decline of oil revenues.
Agriculture will always contribute largely to our growth. Agriculture, like energy, is one of the main necessities of our everyday life. Both are abundant here in Scurry County.

I'm optimistic about the coming year because I am optimistic about our area. If you consider all the economic barometers—sales tax rebates, building permits, bank deposits, retail sales and other—Snyder is a bright spot in the state and nation. New construction and new business openings will be beneficial to all in not only holding local trade but in drawing additional customers from area towns.

We have just completed one of the most successful cotton production years that Scurry County has seen in its 101 year history. The economy of this entire county was tremendous during the year of 1977 and I can see no reason why it won't hold during the year of 1978. There is much building going on in the city and a lot of other building projects contemplated for the year of 1978.
The cost of lifting oil has had a tremendous increase in the past four years and let's hope that the bureaurocrats in Washington will be good enough to give us an increase in price of our oil in this county in order to offset some of these expenses.
We see in the coming year an increase in interest rates and continued inflation for the entire nation from 6 to 7 percent with unemployment to stay about the same and with the giveaway programs which government has gotten used to continue.
As I said last year, there was no way President Carter could live up to all of his promises he strewed around during his campaign. As records will indicate, he did nothing during his first year in office. The only thing I can truly say is the dignity of the President's office has certainly been tarnished by his and his staff. Unless things change, it is certainly going to be hard for this nation to survive under four years of his administration. I guess all we can do it trust the Good Lord helps us in the years ahead.

We of Snyder and Scurry County are most fortunate to live in an area as economically stable and progressive as our area is. We have enjoyed a very fine year and anticipate a good year for 1978. With construction at an all time high and with the prospects good for continued growth in 1978 we should experience a good sound business climate in 1978. With the prospects good for industrial expansion in 1978 we certainly should have every opportunity for a good growth picture in 1978. I am personally very happy to be a part of this great community.

Your Birthday

Unusual career opportunities could suddenly pop up this coming year in your area of expertise. Looking for the bluebird elsewhere may be an unproductive venture.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Tooting your own horn regarding an achievement that you are justifiably proud of may be music to your ears, but it could sound like big brassy notes to others. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A proposal today might look very good on paper but it could have flaws not evident at first glance.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It may be necessary to make a quick decision today that affects your household without first consulting your mate. He or she may not readily see the wisdom of your choice.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You will not lack clever ideas today, but the manner in which you implement them may not be on par with your brainstorms. Procedure is as important as concept.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Early in the day you manage your resources with ingenuity, but by afternoon you could toss caution to the winds and be quite wasteful.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Select activities today that get you outside of the house. If you have the same mundane things to contend with, the walls could start closing in.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Some of your quick judgments today will be remarkably astute, while other issues you ponder could be wrongfully evaluated due to negative thinking.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Unfortunately, everyone you deal with today cannot be taken at face value. An acquaintance with devious motives may try something shady.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Something profitable could occur today in a most unusual manner. It's the type of thing that will be best enjoyed if shared with others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Live in the now and ride on the wave today. Dwelling on the past will only dim the twinkle in your eye.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Give your time today to persons that you can help or be of service to, rather than friends who are cutting it on their own. Your joy comes from aiding where needed.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today you are going to want to be free to call your own shots. Avoid people who feel it's their duty to make decisions for you.

Your Birthday

Jan. 23, 1978

A more independent you will emerge this coming year. In situations where you previously relied upon others, you will now fend for yourself and do a far better job in the process.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Feeling free to make your own choices is of utmost importance today, yet you may try to deny this same privilege to one with whom you are closely associated. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) There may be extra responsibilities to contend with today. If your frame of mind is resentful you'll make them doubly difficult.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Socially, you may encounter someone today who has a very forceful personality. Each of you could feel challenged and engage in unproductive one-upsmanship.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Persons in authority who throw their weight around are disdainful to you today. Don't be guilty of the same offense to others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) As a defense for weak arguments you may use anger for a cover-up today. If you keep your ego out of the picture you'll find it's an unnecessary facade.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) An interesting situation could develop today where you may feel you are the giver and another is the taker. The accused might hold the same view. Each could be right.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your leadership qualities are very pronounced today. In one-to-one relationships, use them for pulling together.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) After you paint yourself in a corner today you may seek a scapegoat. Blaming others won't become you if the brush is still in your hand.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In competitive matters with friends today, the activity mustn't take precedence over the relationship. It's better to lose a few points than a pal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Drive and ambition are commendable traits when properly channeled. Selfishly used today, the prize won't be worth the price.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today you might run into someone who'll make it a point to challenge your smarts. It could be a humbling experience.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Materially motivated actions could cause you frustration and dissatisfaction today. Security is not guaranteed through more possessions or a fatter bank account.

Don't Address Her By Her First Name

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to express my irritation over a practice that's becoming common these days.

It's the way doctors, nurses, assistants and clerks address all patients by their first names regardless of their age, sex or social status.

Some twerp young enough to be one's grandchild will come to the door of the waiting room and sing out, "Margaret," or "Harold."

Once inside, the doctor also uses the patient's first name. (It's not as though they didn't know the patient's age, because it's on the card which the offender is usually holding in his hand.)

I have noticed that in nursing homes they routinely call the elderly inhabitants by their first names as though they were 10 years old. I think it's rude, unduly familiar, disrespectful and demeaning.

Please comment.

HAD MY SAY

DEAR HAD: Although the practice of addressing elderly people by their first names may strike you as being rude and disrespectful, it's considered "friendlier" than the more formal "Miss, Mrs. and Mr."

I seriously doubt that it's intended as an insult or put-down, but on the chance that you are right in some instances, I'll print your letter with the hope that the offenders will see it and mend their ways.

DEAR ABBY: What should a 17-year-old girl do when she finds out her mother has been reading her diary? I know she also reads the letters I have received after I have put them away. I have lost all faith in her! She has no reason to doubt me. Why does she do this? How can I prevent her from snooping?

SNOOPER'S MOTHER

DEAR DAUGHTER: There is nothing you can do except hide that which you wish to keep private. A mother who snoops in this manner is in effect admitting that she is incapable of establishing a good mother-daughter relationship—one where there is mutual confidence and respect for privacy.

I do not condone snooping, but if your mother is typical of most snooping mothers, she's probably motivated more by good intentions than nosiness. But she is wrong, wrong, wrong!

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for four months, and here is part of a letter she received from her mother:

"Darling, if Don doesn't treat you right, remember, your room is waiting for you. Daddy and I love you very much and will welcome you home with open arms, so don't put up with any nonsense or you will be dirt under Don's feet for the rest of your life."

Abby, I don't mind telling you that I am shocked and infuriated. My wife and I have never had an argument over anything more serious than how long to cook a soft-boiled egg. My wife insists that she cannot imagine what prompted this kind of letter. What should be done, if anything?

SHOCKED GROOM

DEAR SHOCKED: It would appear that your mother-in-law is suffering from an unhealthy loneliness and would like to have her little girl home again. Don't do anything. Just tell your wife to assure her mother that she is perfectly happy and let it go at that. Meanwhile, watch for other signs of "seeing trouble where there is none"—your wife's mother could be developing an illness.

If you feel left out and lonely, or wish you knew how to get people to like you, my new booklet, "How To Be Popular; You're Never Too Young or Too Old," is for you. Send $1 along with a long, self-addressed, stamped (24 cents) envelope to Abby, 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Speeding Texans Doubt Crisis

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-A top Texas official says drivers don't believe there is an energy crisis anymore and their feeling is reflected in widespread disregard for the 55 mph speed limit.

More than 80 percent of the motorists on Texas highways speed above the legal 55 mph limit, according to Joe E. Milner, chief of the division of law enforcement for the Department of Public Safety.

When the 55 mph speed limit was first enacted, there was a high degree of compliance, Milner said Thursday. "Now, people just don't believe there is an energy shortage and they don't like the federal government controlling their highways."

He said the latest figures, for last December, show 80 percent of the drivers ignore Texas' 55 mph highway speed limit; about 43 percent drive faster than 60 mph, and 25 percent speed above 65 mph.

"We don't want to arrest everyone in the world. We just want voluntary compliance with the law," he said.

Milner gave the figures in an address to San Antonio independent insurance agents.

The 55 mph limit was adopted during the Arab oil embargo in the winter of 1973-74 and Congress has since made it permanent.

Milner said speed is only one of many causes of traffic accidents and that drinking, poor driving habits, unsafe vehicles, delayed medical care and unsafe highways also contribute to the toll.

Funds Asked To Study Armadillos

NEW ORLEANS (AP)-Louisiana residents have been advised not to eat armadillos until researchers learn whether they cause leprosy.

Armadillo meat isn't exactly a staple in Louisiana restaurants or stores.

However, some people in the southern part of the state cook them at home.

Armadillos - small, waddling animals with thick, armor-like bones around their backs, necks and tails - are found in the Southwest and in Louisiana and Mississippi.

Dr. William Cherry, secretary of the Louisiana Department of Health and Human Resources, said he had asked the legislature for $75,000 to study whether armadillos can transmit leprosy to humans.

Another health official said 50 armadillos with leprosy have been found in the state during the past two years.

No desire for sex

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A friend says maybe you could give me some advice. A couple of years ago I had my second child, and since then I have had absolutely no desire for sex. Before, I really loved to have sex but now I have no desire.

I love my husband very much and would love to have the desire again. We still make love, but I don't feel anything at all. I had my children by caesarean section, and I had to have my tubes tied for my health. Could this have had anything to do with having no desire or feelings? What can I do?

DEAR READER — It's a symptom and what causes it will require some investigation. In the first place, since you enjoyed your sex life before your last child you should have the potential to continue to do so. You are in a different catagory from the women who never really experienced the pleasure of married life. Your story also implies that your husband was, and presumably still is, capable of providing proper love making, so on the surface it doesn't sound like a technique problem.

Even so, many people who have been married for some time find ways to improve and vary their sex life. It's really not true that you can't teach an old dog new tricks. In the area of sex, most people are apt pupils most of their lives.

The first step is to talk it over with your doctor. Your comment that you had to have a sterilization operation because of your health raises the obvious question. Do you have an underlying medical problem that has sapped your energy and normal vitality? Illness can certainly put the damper on sex for either men or women. To put things into perspective, men who were prisoners of war and got little to eat were far more interested in food than sex.

I might add that people on deficient diets do sometimes lose sex desire. I often wonder about this in conjunction with all the fad diets and crash diets people abuse their body with. An early study in nutrition proved that young men who normally ate over 3,000 calories a day and were then put on a 1,600 calorie a day diet lost interest in sex and had other important psychological changes. So what are you eating?

Then aside from nutrition and underlying medical problems one has to ask if there are psychological factors involved. You can love your husband deeply and have other reasons for not enjoying sex. You could be fatigued from all the work that a young mother has to cope with these days.

Anyway, talk it over with your doctor as a starting point. If you have no medical problems go ahead and get some of the books on sex and read them. There is no shortage of those these days. Some changes in technique with more emphasis on loving tenderness may help.

Some people get so involved in their own performance that they forget to relax and do what comes naturally. In a man this may cause him to be impotent — "fear of failure." In a woman she may not be able to relax and respond. After all it is not an athletic achievement event but should be an opportunity for expression of love and an opportunity to share love with your partner.

Readers who want information on fatigue can send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 9-6, Fatigue: Feeling Tired and Weary. Send your request to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper. P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, Texas 78292.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 53 and my husband is 60, but I look older than he. I'm considering a face lift. What are the risks involved? How long for a normal healing? Are the results worth the risks? Also, what is the approximate cost? My skin is very dry and scaly all over my body. I inherited this condition and have tried every oil and moisturizer available. None have been very helpful.

DEAR READER — The risks involved in having a face lift are minimal. People in reasonably good health can have one with little fear. The best of all reasons to have one is simply to look better. It won't make your body any younger or improve your sex life — except for the psychological lift you may get from it.

The costs vary, but you should think in the range of $3,000. The results will depend a lot on your individual face. Sagging lines can be corrected, but vertical lines are more difficult to eliminate. Most faces can be improved; the question is how much. That is one of the reasons for a consultation with the plastic surgeon in advance.

You should not need to be in the hospital any great length of time unless you want to hide until your face has recovered some from the surgery. You will look worse immediately after the operation, but by two weeks after surgery the major swelling will be gone and you will begin to look better. Because of the use of make-up, many women are able to go out publicly two weeks after surgery and look fine.

That dry skin problem may be more difficult to do something about. If you are healthy and have no medical condition causing it and are on a good diet, using moisturizers is about all you can do.

You will still get some advantage in taking care of your skin with or without a face lift. Sun and cigarettes age the skin. For these and other tips, I am sending you The Health Letter number 7-10 Your Skin: Sun, Aging, Spots and Cancer. Others who want this information on protecting their skin can send 50 cents with a long stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper. P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 16 years old and about 50 pounds overweight. I have The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet and it works very well. My problem is stretch marks. Will I still have them after I have lost weight? If so, is there anything I can do to get rid of them? I have them on my arms, lower legs, thighs and lower back.

DEAR READER — I wish there were a good answer to that. Very young age is in your favor. I would suggest that you wait for a year after you have achieved your desired weight and see how much more your overstretched skin will contract and adjust to your normal body size.

After that if your stretch marks are really too prominent you could talk to a plastic surgeon and see if he can help. He may be able to suggest some minor procedure that will help if not entirely eliminate the problem.

Stretch marks are scars. They are the skin's response to having been damaged by overstretching the basic structures that make up the skin. The best treatment is prevention. That is why parents should do their part to help prevent their children from being overweight even in the growing phase, because obesity can and does cause stretch marks in young people.

Three Homes Decertified

AUSTIN (AP)-The State Health Department said Wednesday it has decertified three nursing homes for further receipt of federal funds, such as Medicaid and Medicare money.

It named Cross Country Care Center of Brownwood, Mansfield Nursing Home of Mansfield, and Four Seasons Nursing Center St. John's of Austin.

The department said it also has recommended that federal funds be withheld from four nursing homes until deficiencies noted during inspections have been corrected.

The homes are Bryanwood Care Center, Amarillo; Gaspard's Nursing Care Center, Port Arthur; Hillcrest Nursing Home, Hamilton; and Clarendon Nursing Home in Clarendon.

Federal funds, temporarily withheld, were recommended for release to Mason Nursing Home of Wichita Falls and Big Town Nursing Home of Mesquite.
