Chamber cans bingo

The issue of chamber-sponsored bingo died Friday during a noon meeting of chamber of commerce directors.

Just as it voted to support the issue in June, the board unanimously voted to kill the project Friday.

A decision came after a committee reported it was unsuccessful in finding a suitable facility to hold weekly bingo sessions in Justice Precinct 2. Only one possible site was located in the precinct, however chamber officials had said earlier it would cost approximately $40,000 to renovate the building, in addition to the $42,000 for its purchase.

Directors had hoped to find a bingo site in the Hermleigh-area precinct where the event had already been approved by voters in a local-option election. Otherwise, the issue would have to be brought before city or Precinct 1 voters.

"I don't think the chamber should take the lead in taking it (bingo) to the voters," said director Jerry Baird. The comment came as directors discussed rumors that other organizations were waiting for chamber officials to have the issue brought to a vote so that they might start their own games. Officials questioned whether they wanted to be in the competitive situation of not being the only game in town.

"We are talking about a long-term commitment," said director Terry Bowden as he noted the initial expense and extra time required in running a weekly game.

Chamber directors had supported the idea of weekly bingo games as a source of revenue for the chamber and a way to fund local non-profit organizations. In addition, the project was seen as a way to help revitalize the local economy.

Friday's vote ended a summer of research and sometimes controversy for directors as they visited other area chamber-sponsored games while receiving both praise and criticism on the issue.

As the fundraising proposal was voted down, directors voiced concerns of chamber finances because of rumors of a campaign to have the Board of County Development dissolved. The BCD is the chamber's main source of funding. Directors have been told that petitions have been circulated to bring the existence of the board to county voters.

Directors noted that if the BCD is dissolved, then the chamber's continuation would be jeopardized.

Efforts to confirm that petitions are circulating concerning a vote to dissolve the BCD were unsuccessful.

Four locals arrested on burglary charges

Snyder police closed two burglary cases and identified suspects in at least three others Friday.

Arrested by police for the Aug. 18 burglary of Dryden's Shoe Store were 21-year-old Cory Len Pace of 308 37th St., 17-year-old Brian Dewayne Jackson of 1004 26th St., 17-year-old Justin Terrill Thompson of P.O. Box 882, and 17-year-old Roderick Tramaine Boger of 34th and Ave. J, and two 16-year-old juveniles. The four adults were booked into the county jail with bond set at $5,000 each. The juveniles were released to the custody of their parents.

According to the police report, a front display window at the downtown business was broken during the early morning hours of the 18th and several pairs of (see CHARGES, page 12A)

Ticket deadline is Tuesday for 'Yesterday's Treasures'

Snyder first show of antiques and collectibles has been scheduled for Aug. 31 and the sponsors, Scurry County Historical Commission and Historic Scurry County, Inc., plan to use it as a pattern for similar shows in the future.

The show, "Yesterday's Treasures," will be held in Scurry County Coliseum.

Proceeds will be used for the ongoing maintenance required to keep the Cornelius-Dodson House and the Dermott School in good repair and attractive to visitors and those who use them for meetings. Plans are also being made to move the Hermleigh jail to the area near the coliseum where the house and school have been placed.

Tickets for "Yesterday's Treasure" are $7 each and includes admission to the coliseum, a barbecue dinner catered by Texas Barbecue and musical entertainment by Cindy Nix. Because of the food preparation involved, tickets are to be purchased by Tuesday, Aug. 27, and are available at AmWest Savings, Bar H Bar Western Wear, Margaret's, Comforts of Home, Keepsakes, The Shack and the county museum. Members of the sponsoring organizations also have tickets for sale.

Successful bidders in silent auctions will take home items ranging from a day of quail hunting for two, a dinner for six in the Cornelius-Dodson House, a handmade quilt and dinnerware for eight. Numerous door prizes are also to be awarded, all donated by local businesses and individuals.

Exhibitors already committed to the show include the House of Antiques, Comforts of Home, Merry Hearts Collectibles, Neoma Harlin, Roy and Rita Carter, Billy and Carole Haynes, Don and Pat Edgmon, Richard Hester, Pauline Proctor, Jack and Betty Greene, Peggy Kennedy, Beth Guynes and Barbara Bills. Others may join the group. Some exhibitors will have items for sale while others are bringing items for display only.

Jean Everett is chairman for the project. Additional information about tickets and exhibition space can be obtained by calling 573-2763.

Anyone who cannot attend but who would like to make a donation for the historic preservation projects of the groups are invited to send checks made payable to Historic Scurry County, Inc., P.O. Box 519 in Snyder. Donations are tax deductible.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Marrying for looks is like buying a house for its paint."

Local dentist Bob Hargrove also serves as president of the board of trustees of Western Texas College.

At a recent faculty and staff awards banquet, Hargrove was giving the welcome and couldn't resist the temptation to tell about a summer visit by his nine-year-old grandson.

Hargrove said he and Ben were driving around when Ben spotted a field of sheep and a large donkey standing nearby.

Hargrove explained that sheep raisers often use a donkey to protect the vulnerable sheep herd from coyotes.

Ben thought a minute and then said, "You mean they have Democrats watching out for them?"

Two former mayors, John Fagin and Milton Ham, were exchanging grandparent stories. Both families had long summer visits from grandkids.

Martha Fagin said she was just getting the routine down when it was time for them to go back home. "I was never sure if they wanted help or didn't want help."

Realtor Mal Stevenson has an interesting philosophy about his grandkids. Said Stevenson, "I love all of them...but one at a time."

We know a grandfather who was asking his teenaged grandson about the wisdom of paying $65 for a pair of pants that already had a hole in the seat.

The concerned grandfather asked, "Are you at least going to wear long johns under your britches?"

Grandson didn't say a word, but his face was that of disgust and disbelief that anybody, even granddad, could be so narrow-minded.

But granddad got in one last lick, "I'd hate to see your brains get frostbitten."

Fall semester marks WTC's 21st year

For 20 falls, there have been college classes offered through Western Texas College. The fall of 1991 will mark the 21st.

This accomplishment is the result of years of effort by local civic leaders to establish an institution of higher learning in Snyder.

The key modern dates in WTC's history are Nov. 22, 1969, when voters approved the creation of the college district; and the fall of 1971, when classes actually began.

Efforts to establish a college here, however, go back much earlier.

The first date mentioned is 1916, when Snyder became a candidate for the site of West Texas A&M College, an institution that was never built.

After World War I, the state again considered a new college for West Texas and eventually settled for Lubbock as the site, naming it Texas Technological College.

Meanwhile, Snyder had conferred with Presbyterian leaders who had indicated interest in building a two-year college in West Texas. But it never materialized.

As the years passed, the desire for a college never faded. In 1958 efforts were revived, this time through the state board of education.

A proposal for an election to establish a junior college here was rejected in 1958, again in 1963 and a third time in 1965.

One of the main arguments had been that potential enrollment would be under 500, a figure set by the state board as the minimum a new junior college should have after two years of operation.

Then, somewhat unexpectedly, in September of 1969, the College Coordinating Board authorized a junior college election for Scurry County.

The vote was held on Nov. 22, 1969, and voters approved the creation by a 10-1 margin. Elected to the first board of trustees were M.L. Broman, Bill Wilson Jr., R.C. Patton, George Patterson, Bill Jones, Dr. Robert Hargrove and Edwin Parks.

In 1991, original board members remaining include Wilson, Patton and Hargrove.

Parks elected to step down three years ago and he was replaced with the election of John Fagin, who won the seat in another WTC first, the first college runoff election.

Other trustees now serving are Howard Sterling, John Gayle, and Carl Williams. Wacil McNair also served before resigning in 1982.

In 1969, one of the original board's first actions was to employ former Snyder superintendent Dr. Robert Clinton as college president. He immediately launched efforts to put the two-year college into operation.

Mrs. Mavis Brumbelow was the college's first employee. She remains as secretary to the presi-

College sets weight class after school

A weight control class will be offered at Western Texas College and, new this fall, the time has been coordinated to coincide with after-school hours.

The P.E. class listed as HPE 211 "weight loss" on the fall schedule, will meet each Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 4:15 p.m. to 5:05 p.m. It will be taught by Lee Burke, WTC physical education instructor.

The course is a mix of information and exercise with the workout portion normally consisting of walking and flexibility exercises.

"For people just getting started, exercising in a group makes it a lot easier," Burke said.

The information portion of the class is designed to offer the student a better understanding of nutrition, individual metabolic rates and how to establish a healthy exercise program. Discussed also are the dangers of fad dieting, he said.

As class information, Burke used such sources as publications from the University of California at Berkeley, the Mayo Clinic, John Hopkins University and Tufts University.

For more information contact Burke at 573-8511, ext. 284.

Bush assailed

DALLAS (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Paul Tsongas says President Bush has focused too much attention on world affairs and not enough on problems at home.

"I'd be in favor of issuing a visa to Mr. Bush to visit America," said Tsongas, 50. "He's not a foreign minister. He's a president."

Tsongas, speaking at a news conference Friday, predicted he can win the 1992 election, but not on a platform normally assumed by Democrats.

"The good news is that George Bush can be defeated," he said. "The bad news — not by a Democrat with the usual arguments."

Tsongas advocates a change in antitrust laws to allow large U.S. companies to form joint ventures that would compete more competitively with foreign firms.

Your Money Is Backed By A Few Good Men

LINCOLN

WASHINGTON

Those good men who helped build our great nation are the same good men who are helping to build up our local economy. Washingtons. Jeffersons. Lincolns. That's money in the bank to this community, and their numbers are growing strong.

Not every financial institution can say that. They're the ones that you end up hearing and reading about.

However, there are others, like us, who don't get noted much and that's because we're doing our job, and doing it right.

Our strength is built on sound investments, support in our community business, wise loan decisions and solid management. And a few good men and women. You can bank on it.

Ira's horse judging team competed in world event

Ira's horse judging team competed in the American Junior Quarter Horse Association world championship horse judging contest Aug. 7-8 in Tulsa, Okla.

Team members included Neil Miller, Michael Lathem, Brian Miller, and Kala Gunset. They competed in three divisions: halter, performance and reasons.

During the two-day competition, the team won three team and two individual awards. The four-member team earned third place in halter, eighth in reasons and ninth overall. Individual awards went to Michael Lathem high individual in halter and Neil Miller ninth high individual in performance.

They won the right to participate in this world championship event because they won the horse judging state contest a few months ago.

Richard Long, advisor, had nothing but words of praise for the team. "It was our first trip to the AJQHA world championship and I think they represented their school, county and state very well. They each sacrificed vacation plans in order to prepare for this contest."

Long also noted that Brent McFarland, who was his student teacher last school year, did an outstanding job working with the team.

Long said McFarland had the main responsibility for getting the team ready for the state contest, but that they both worked with the team to prepare for this event.

Long also noted that the community of Ira stood behind them all the way.

Competitors came from all over the U.S and Uruguay and Mexico. Some 50 teams competed in all.

Gag order issued for woman's trial

HOUSTON (AP) — State District Judge George Godwin has issued a gag order in the trial of a woman accused of hiring a hitman in an effort to help her daughter win a place on a high school cheerleading squad.

The gag order was issued Friday, minutes after a jury was sworn in to hear the case against Wanda Webb Holloway of Channelview.

Mrs. Holloway, 37, described by police as "the ultimate stage mother," is accused of plotting the murder of Verna Heath, 38, the mother of her daughter's chief rival for a spot on the Channelview High School cheerleading squad. She has pleaded innocent and remains free on $10,000 bond.

Godwin said he issued the order because media representatives have been trying to interview state witnesses in the case. He didn't name the news organizations involved.

"One witness or a group of witnesses was being harassed," Godwin said without elaboration.

Godwin also directed attorneys not to discuss the impending jury selection, officials said. The trial is scheduled to begin Monday, but jury selection took place almost without notice Friday. An eight-man, four-woman jury was sworn in.

"He (Godwin) told us not to say a damn word about it to anybody," said prosecutor Mike Anderson.

The gag order is binding not only on trial lawyers but also on about 35 witnesses expected to appear. The trial is expected to last as long as two weeks.

Tape recordings of conversations with Mrs. Holloway, her former brother-in-law and an undercover police officer were expected to be key evidence in the murder-for-hire and attempted kidnapping case.

How Is Your Family Life?

By Homer Anderson

H. Norman Wright states in his book, Premarital Counseling, "It has been said that 'throwaway marriages' have become part of the fabric of American society." Dr. Carl Rogers, in Becoming Partners: Marriage and Its Alternatives, says "People are groping, more or less blindly, to find alternatives to marriage (which is certainly less than 50 per cent successful.)" Nathan Ackerman, psychiatrist, says in Marriage: For and Against, "Family life seems to be cracking at the seams, and an effective mortar is nowhere available."

There is an effective mortar: the person of Jesus Christ! Intense effort and work dedicated to the application of Scripture can bring stability, growth and mutual satisfaction into a marital relationship. Any society will soon deteriorate when godliness no longer emanates from its homes. Please come study and worship with us and begin spiritually strengthening the roots of your family.

15,000 elephants to be killed

HARARE, Zimbabwe (AP) — Wildlife authorities want to slaughter 15,000 elephants to reduce an exploding population of the animals, which have trampled people to death and destroyed vegetation, a newspaper reported.

One of those deaths came Friday, when the University of Zimbabwe said a British scientist was killed in an area of northern Zimbabwe where herds have grown. In the past, elephant culling in Zimbabwe has aroused controversy in Western countries that have banned the importation and sale of elephant ivory to combat poaching in parts of Africa and Asia where elephants are threatened with extinction.

But southern African nations oppose the bans, arguing their wildlife management policies have led to large increases in herd sizes.

Recent calculations have put the elephant population at about 75,000 in this southern African nation slightly smaller than California. Experts generally believe Zimbabwe's uninhabited bush can comfortably sustain only about 35,000 elephants, The Herald state-owned newspaper said Friday.

The excess elephants have destroyed forests and bush vegetation and encroached on farming areas, sometimes killing peasant cultivators, Zimbabwean officials say. A fully grown elephant eats for most of its waking hours and consumes up to 660 pounds of grass, leaves and twigs every day.

The 15,000 will be culled in several areas, including at least two wildlife parks uninhabited by people, the newspaper quoted Tenjiwe Lesabe, deputy environment minister, as saying.

Conservationists say it is unlikely anywhere near 15,000 elephants will be shot. Past culling intended to eliminate between 3,000 and 5,000 elephants has been delayed by logistical factors.

EPA orders fuel leak cleanup

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The government ordered 10 companies that share a fuel tank farm to clean up a leak that threatens the nearby Truckee River or pay thousands of dollars a day in fines.

"We have a massive soil and groundwater contamination problem here and there is simply no excuse for these companies to refuse to clean it up as quickly as possible," said Jerry Clifford, Superfund deputy director with the Environmental Protection Agency in San Francisco.

Failure to comply could result in penalties of as much as $25,000 a day and payment of up to three times the EPA's cost of cleaning up the site in neighboring Sparks. The spill from the Southern Pacific Railroad Pipeline tank farm has created a subsurface pool of fuel estimated by federal environmental officials at between 4 million and 40 million gallons. State and federal environmental officials don't know how long fuel has been leaking.

The tank farm is about a mile from the Truckee River, which flows northwest away from Reno through farmland.

The EPA order came just four days after Sen. Harry Reid, D-Nev., held a public hearing in Sparks to take testimony on problems stemming from the spill.

"They (the companies) can point all the fingers they want," said Reid, who chairs the Senate's Subcommittee on Toxic Substances. "The cleanup is on its way."

The state in January sued Santa Fe Pacific Pipeline Partners, Southern Pacific Transportation Co., Shell Oil Co., Time Oil Co., Berry-Hinkley Terminal, Chevron USA Inc., Texaco Refining and Marketing, Air BP, Unocal Petroleum and Marketing, and Golden Gate Petroleum.

Lew Dodgion, chief of the state Division of Environmental Protection, welcomed the order.

Umps suing Reds' skipper for slander

NEW YORK (AP) — Cincinnati Reds manager Lou Piniella wants to take on umpire Gary Darling one on one in court or on the field.

"Hey, listen, if I have to go out to the field to argue against this particular crew, I will do it," Piniella said Friday at a news conference at his lawyer's office.

Darling, who overruled crewmate Dutch Rennert's call and took a home run away from Cincinnati, is a plaintiff in a $5 million defamation suit against Piniella because the "manager called him biased against the Reds. The umpire was assigned to this weekend's series between the Reds and New York Mets, which began Friday night at Shea Stadium.

Piniella, who contends he "overreacted" in his postgame comments on Darling's call in a 7-3 loss to the San Francisco Giants on Aug. 3, said he has not seen the umpire since. He also said he made no special requests during a meeting Aug. 7 with NL president Bill White.

"Not one time since I've been a manager have I called a league president to say I don't want this particular umpire or I don't want this particular umpiring crew," Piniella said. "All I want is a good ballgame called."

"No, I don't think that any umpire has a bias against any club," Piniella said. "But a guy 150 feet farther down the line got his call reversed by the home plate umpire."

"In this case, he reversed a right call."

Darling, seeking $2 million individually, could not be reached for comment prior to working first base Friday night. Umpires union lawyer Richie Phillips was in court and did not return calls made to his office.

Piniella's lawyers filed a motion Friday in Philadelphia seeking NFL preseason ing exclusion of the umpires union, which was seeking $3 million. The motion also asked that Darling's suit be moved from federal court in Pennsylvania to New York or Ohio while seeking.

The motion said the Major League Umpires Association's suit against Piniella should be dismissed because his comments were an expression of personal opinion and did not cast the union in a negative manner.

Pleads guilty to tampering...

Witness in Clemens' case draws fine

HOUSTON (AP) — A patron at a nightclub where Boston Red Sox pitcher Roger Clemens and his brother were arrested earlier this year has pleaded guilty to witness tampering in an extortion scheme.

District Judge Donald K. Stapley sentenced Ellis Lee Herron Jr., 31, to 10 years probation and fined him $10,000 after Herron pleaded guilty Thursday.

Clemens' attorney Mike Ramsey said he started getting telephone calls from Herron

Cowboys drop Falcons in OT

IRVING, Texas (AP)—Jimmy Johnson was elated. Not because his Dallas Cowboys defeated the Atlanta Falcons 20-17 in overtime on Friday night but because nobody got hurt.

"It was the kind of game you didn't want to get anybody hurt," Johnson said. "I got Troy Aikman and Emmitt Smith out of there early and our backup players were in there most of the second half. They were sucking some deep wind at the end."

Atlanta rallied from a 17-0 deficit to tie the game but missed a victory because Rich Karlis missed a 34-yard field goal with seconds left.

Ken Willis kicked a 38-yard field goal with 2:35 elapsed in overtime to beat the Falcons. Both teams finished the exhibition season with 2-2 records.

Atlanta went with its first team most of the game. Starting quarterback Chris Miller played all four quarters and almost pulled out a victory. He passed for 253 yards and had one interception.

Issiac Holt blocked a punt and fell on the ball for a touchdown and Emmitt Smith ran a yard for a touchdown. Willis added a 19-yard field goal for a 17-0 Dallas lead.

A two-yard run by Steve Broussard, a four-yard dash by Keith Jones, and an 18-yard field goal by Karlis brought the Falcons a 17-all tie in regulation.

But Karlis missed a 34-yard field goal in regulation that would have won the game.

Leon Lett caused Broussard to fumble and Odie Harris recovered to set up Willis' game-winner.

"We didn't want a game like this to go into overtime but it's always nice to end the preseason with a win," Johnson said. "Now we can get on with the real thing."

Dallas opens the regular season at Cleveland while Atlanta is at Kansas City.

Atlanta coach Jerry Glanville said he still has confidence in Karlis.

"I've played musical kickers before and there is not much future in that," Glanville said. "Somewhere down the line I look for him to step up and make the big kick to win the football game."

"I'm proud of the way our team came back. We played our style of football and should have won the game. You do everything you should do to win the game, get in that spot and then not get it done. Still, I'm proud of what happened in the second half."

Johnson was happy his team came away with only bumps and bruises.

"Emmitt Smith sprained an ankle but could have played," Johnson said. "We're ready to work on Cleveland now. We wanted to win at the end but after all it's only a preseason game."

It was the first preseason meeting between the two franchises.

Fires 64 Friday...

Brooks on top at World Series of Golf

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Mark Brooks opened the second round of the World Series of Golf by going birdie-eagle.

Davis Love III birdied the first hole at Firestone on Friday, then ripped a 6-iron shot 180 yards and into the cup for a rare double eagle — only the fifth on the PGA Tour this season, the first in the history of this tournament and the first of Love's six-year pro career.

"You have to get lucky to have a shot from 180 yards out fly in the hole," Love said.

He went on to a 66, but that wasn't enough to keep pace with Brooks' faster finish — a late string of four consecutive birdies that gave him the lead at the tournament's halfway point.

"I took advantage of most of the opportunities I had, but two stupid mistakes makes it not a real great round," Brooks said after a 6-under-par 64 brought him from six shots back into a one-stroke lead at 136.

Dillard Pruitt, making their first appearances in this winners-only event, birdied three of his last four holes for a 66 and was alone in second at 137 after 36 holes.

Love, also six off the pace after one round, utilized his start to move within two shots of the lead at 138. He was tied with Joey Sindelar and Mike Reid, who shot 68s.

Larry Mize, at 139 after a 71, was the only other player in the 48-man field under par after two rounds.

Corey Pavin, the season's leading money-winner, was in the group at par 140 after a 68 and Jodie Mudd was at 141 after yet another unhappy adventure off a back-nine tee.

Among the leaders, Mudd was distracted on the 15th tee, backed away, then slashed a shot far to the right and under a bush on the par-3 hole. He eventually wound up with a triple bogey-6 and stumbled home with a 2-over 72.

First-round leader Nolan Henke slipped from an opening 66

Brooks, who qualified for this event with a victory in the Greensboro Open, followed his opening birdie with a 5-iron second shot and a 30-foot putt for eagle on the second.

He was 4-under for the day before consecutive bogeys on the 11th and 12th dropped him back.

Brooks responded with a string of four consecutive birdies on putts of 25, 10, 6 and 18 feet to go in front alone.

"I don't know what it is," he said, "but sometimes I get in a zone and make a lot of birdies in a row. I won Greensboro by making birdie on 9 of the last 11."

But that was much better than Stewart and Olazabal, the runaway winner of this event a year ago and a winner last week in Colorado.

U.S. Open champ Payne Stewart shot a 77 for 150 and Jose Maria Olazabal relinquished any hopes he may have had of a repeat with a 78. At 148, he was 12 off the lead.

John Daly, the rookie who leaped to stardom with his awesome exploits in winning the PGA Championship, improved from an 80 to 72.

win, lose & DREW

Bies, Hiskey lead Seniors

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Don Bies and Babe Hiskey are the co-leaders, but under Chi Chi Rodriguez's handicapping system, the real pacesetter at the Sunwest Bank Seniors Classic is sitting in third place.

Bies and Hiskey took the first-round lead with 8-under-par 64s Friday, while Rodriguez, the defending champion, was among five players who shot 67.

Sandwiched between the leaders and Rodriguez and Co. are Lee Trevino and Gibby Gilbert, both of whom opened with 66.

"I'm only one shot off the pace," Rodriguez said in reference to Trevino, who last year won seven Senior Tour events and earned nearly $1.2 million. "You've got to figure if you beat Trevino at the end of the week, you're in pretty good shape."

The pros took advantage of ideal weather conditions and a course set up for low scores to humble the 6,722-yard Four Hills Country Club layout. Thirty eight of the 78 players broke par and 14 more matched it.

"How can you get in trouble when you're teeing it up with a four iron," said Trevino. "I wouldn't be surprised if someone shoots 62 before the end of the week."

Bies, using the elongated putter preferred by many Senior Tour members, one-putted nine greens and birdied the first six holes on the back nine with putts that ranged from 3 feet to 10 feet.

Hiskey, whose last win came in 1970 at the Sahara Invitational on the regular PGA Tour, had a round that included 10 birdies, including the final four holes.

"It's easily my best round in years," he said. "I can't remember the last time I shot a 64. It may be my best round in 20 years."

Both Hiskey's and Bies' rounds picked up momentum after each saved par from trouble on the 456-yard par-4 ninth hole. Hiskey missed the green on the left side, and with little green to work with, managed to get up and down for par.

"That was a U.S. Open up and down," said Hiskey.

He followed with consecutive birdies on the par-4 10th and the 491-yard, par-5 11th. He nullified consecutive bogeys on 13 and 14 with his string of four closing birdies.

Bies saved par on 9 from a bunker, sinking an 8-footer.

"The front wasn't going like a 64, but that got it going," Bies said. "After that I birdied the next two holes and everything mushroomed from there."

Trevino had seven birdies in a round that could have been better had it not been for a barking dog and some overzealous television cameramen. He missed a 3-footer for birdie on the par-4 sixth hole when a dog broke his concentration.

"I was trying to pull it back between barks, but he got me on the backswing," said Trevino.

Trevino had his only bogey of the day on the 18th, where he three-putted from 35 feet as camera crews surrounded the fringe. He pointed an accusatory finger at one camera but later downplayed the incident.

"They looked like shotguns out there. But it's not their fault," said Trevino. "It's up to the marshals and our PGA officials to make sure they don't get that close."

WTC rated among top ten 'most affordable' colleges

The 1990-91 edition of "Compendium of Texas Colleges" listed Western Texas College among the top 10 "most affordable" colleges in Texas.

The publication's estimate is for a resident student who would not be required to pay out-of-state tuition.

The estimate includes tuition and fees, books and supplies, two trips home and anticipated living expenses, to include clothing, haircuts and cleaning for one school year of dorm living. These costs at WTC are estimated at $4,590, ranking it ninth among schools in the state.

All of the colleges listed in the top level of affordability were two-year community colleges. With the exception of three schools, each had annual cost estimates in the range of $4,000 to $4,500.

Regarding annual costs, WTC is the lowest overall for both two-year and four-year schools in the West Texas region. In addition, it is notably less expensive than four-year schools in the area, both state and private institutions.

The Compendium, published by the Minnie Stevens Piper Foundation, lists 148 institutions of higher learning in the state.

According to the 1990-91 edition, the most affordable were:

- Vernon Regional Junior College, Vernon, $2,660;
- Hill College, Hillsboro, $2,800;
- Frank Phillips College, Borger, $3,650;
- Bee County College, Beeville, $4,071;
- Tyler Junior College, Tyler, $4,202;
- Cooke County College, Gainesville, $4,210;
- Weatherford College, Weatherford, $4,360;
- Trinity Valley Community College, Athens, $4,404;
- and Western Texas College, $4,590.

Regarding the four-year universities in the area, the lowest annual cost was estimated for Angelo State University, at $6,510.

Others were the University of Texas of the Permian Basin in Midland, $7,020; and Texas Tech University in Lubbock, $7,800.

Private colleges in Lubbock, Abilene, Plainview and Brownwood were substantially more. Annual cost estimates for these schools were:

- Abilene Christian University, $11,240;
- McMurry University, $10,550;
- Hardin Simmons University, $10,383;
- Howard Payne University, $8,502;
- Wayland Baptist University, $8,496;
- and Lubbock Christian University, $8,140.

These figures hardly begin to touch that of the five most expensive schools in Texas. They are:

- Southern Methodist University, Dallas, $17,187;
- Trinity University, San Antonio, $15,500;
- Austin College, Sherman, $14,307;
- Southwestern University, Georgetown, $13,950;
- and Rice University, Houston, $13,500.

The annual cost estimates for other schools in WTC's immediate area are:

- Midland College, $5,002;
- Odessa College, $4,970;
- Howard College, $4,870;
- South Plains College, $4,650;
- and Frank Phillips College, $3,650 (also listed among the most affordable).

Taiwan has pledged to comply with U.N. ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taiwan has pledged to comply with a United Nations ban on fishing with driftnets in the North Pacific Ocean, winning cautious praise from U.S. officials.

The Taiwanese government, under threat of U.S. trade sanctions, announced Friday it will end the use of the environmentally destructive nets in international waters effective July 1, 1992.

Reps. Jolene Unsoeld and John Miller, both from Washington state, said they welcomed the news, but expressed concern that Taiwan had broken past promises to halt the use of the so-called "curtains of death."

"We need more than words," said Unsoeld, a Democrat. "Now is the time to step up the pressure, not breathe a sigh of relief."

FBI closes racial harrassment case; eight more disciplined

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director William S. Sessions has disciplined eight more FBI agents and managers to close the investigation of racial harassment against black former agent Donald Rochon.

Rochon's lawyer calls the penalties too little and too late. Nevertheless, he says, they sent an important message to top FBI managers.

Donald Kairys, a Temple University law professor serving as Rochon's attorney, noted that Rochon originally filed a discrimination suit against fellow FBI agents seven years ago.

"That's an awful long time to wait. Something should have been done sooner, and the discipline even now seems rather lenient for agents threatening death and mutilation to other agents," Kairys said after Sessions' announcement Friday.

However, he added: "To me this sends the important message that anybody who sees this kind of conduct — or if they are in charge — could get in trouble if they allow it to occur."

Sessions' decision brought the total number of FBI employees disciplined in the case to 11 — three agents and eight managers — since 1985.

Without explanation, Sessions took no action against three other FBI employees whose cases he had said last April were referred to him by a special review panel. He hinted they may have left the FBI.

"We have thoroughly weighed all of the evidence and have taken action against those current employees whose conduct, judgment and performance deficiencies warranted administrative action," Sessions said.

The discipline included counseling, oral reprimands and formal censures for managers who failed to react appropriately to Rochon's complaints or for deficiencies in personnel actions affecting Rochon.

Friday's announcement also included the 21-day suspension without pay of an agent who sent unsolicited commercial mailings to Rochon.

The FBI declined to identify any of those disciplined by name or title, but law enforcement sources who spoke on condition of anonymity said the suspension was served in June by Chicago agent Richard D. Ganslein. Kairys had disclosed in June that Ganslein was suspended for initially denying, then admitting to arranging for junk mail to be sent to Rochon's home.

Rochon also received death threats by mail and a death and dismemberment insurance policy on which his name was forged in 1985, Kairys said. A white agent in Chicago, Gary Miller, was suspended in 1985 for 14 days for that mailing, Kairys said. The FBI confirmed an agent was suspended in 1985.

Earrings, long hair must go, educators in Boerne say

BOERNE, Texas (AP) — Ten students sporting earrings have until next week to remove them and another dozen youths got haircuts on educators' orders, but one teen decided to study at home rather than comply with the dress code.

Jeremy Toth's mother has been fighting the code, which contains a prohibition on boys wearing hair below the collar of a regular dress shirt.

But Boerne School District trustees voted last week to continue the long-hair ban.

"There have been no problems. We sent home about 12 boys to get haircuts, and all of them complied," said Dr. Joe Doenges, district superintendent.

Administrators said another 10 were given until Monday to remove their earrings.

Toth, a 16-year-old junior, refused to cut his hair after about 40 students were sent home to get trims last year. He received instruction in an alternative classroom separate from his fellow students.

"I might go back to school the last six weeks, but not if they don't change the dress code. It is more or less a matter of principle now," he said Friday in a telephone interview from his Boerne home with the San Antonio Express-News.

Doenges said the school's enrollment of 820 is the largest in its history, and he was surprised at adverse reaction to the dress-code enforcement.

"We had to discipline no one," Doenges said.

At a February board meeting, more than 100 students and parents protested the code, calling the restriction antiquated and unnecessary.

"They put me in alternative school last year, so I didn't even try to register this year," said Toth. "I have the books for my daily studies and have to show a portfolio of what I have done."

His mother, Cheri Toth, said she believes her son was singled out for punishment, with other students allowed to violate the guidelines.

"I have pictures of other students who are in violation. We will see when the football season starts who will have to cut their hair and who won't," said Mrs. Toth.

"The school district is not going to get away with this. Jeremy wants to graduate from Boerne, and I will do everything in my power to see that he does," she said.

Reagan also fan of Yeltsin

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Count former President Reagan among the fans of Boris Yeltsin, who made a dramatic stand this week against Communist hard-liners trying to oust Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev.

Reagan telephoned the president of the Russian republic on Friday to praise him for leading the resistance, said Reagan spokeswoman Cathy Goldberg.

Reagan and his wife, Nancy, were in Rochester for routine examinations at the Mayo Clinic.

Financial Focus

Last year, the stock market closed at a loss for the first time since 1981. On Jan. 1, 1990, the Dow Jones Industrial Average stood at 2753. On Dec. 31, 1990, it was 2623, down about 4 percent, or less than 1 percent with dividends reinvested.

Throughout the course of those 12 months, the market experienced volatile, short-term fluctuations that jolted some investors out of the market. Some of these investors will not return; they are trying to achieve long-term financial goals with a short-term investment strategy.

The best way to achieve long-term goals is to focus on the long-term uptrend rather than getting caught up in short-term. In other words, keep your eye on the man climbing the staircase, not on the yo-yo bouncing up and down in his hand.

Try it. Examine a chart tracking the performance of any conservative, well-managed mutual fund. At the end of any meaningful period of five years or more, the combined market value of the stocks in that fund has increased in value. There may be one or more years within your selected time span that the value has declined from the previous year, but the overall, long-term record should be up.

During any given year, however, the stock market may experience wide fluctuations and end, as in 1990, with little change. For example, in 1987, the year of the record one-day decline of more than 500 points, the major market indices actually ended the year with slight gains. The Standard & Poor's 500 Index gained 2 percent, and the Dow gained 2.3 percent. Yet, had you invested several weeks before the "crash", then sold your stock and never re-entered the market, you undoubtedly would have taken an unreasonable loss. But for patient investors with an eye on the long term, the market recovered and rewarded their confidence.

In short, serious investing is a long-term project. If your investments are selected with care to meet long-term goals and are performing as designed, don't be overly disturbed by short-term, erratic economic and market reactions.

Well-defined financial goals, and investments carefully selected to meet those goals, eliminate the need to continually restructure your portfolio. Fine tuning your investments makes sense. The need to continually re-tune, however, generally means poor initial planning.

Is Gorbachev quitting as party chief?

MOSCOW (AP) — A report said Saturday that Mikhail Gorbachev was quitting his post as general secretary of the Soviet Communist Party. But it could not be confirmed.

The independent news agency Interfax reported that Gorbachev was quitting the post he has held since March 1985, when he launched his reform program.

There were no details in the one-sentence report, which did not cite a source.

Gorbachev's press secretary, Vitaly Ignatenko, said: "I can't confirm or deny it." He said Gorbachev was in a meeting with party leaders.

A spokesman for Russia's President Boris Yeltsin said that Gorbachev had not told Yeltsin about any plans to quit the party leadership post.

Officials at the White House and State Department said they could not confirm the report.

Roman Popadiuk, a White House spokesman who is with President Bush in Kennebunkport, Maine, said he had no information on the matter.

"We're not going to have any comment anyway. These are internal decisions," Popadiuk said.

Funeral held for coup dead...

Communists in full retreat as more statues are toppled

MOSCOW (AP) — Tens of thousands of mourners grieved Saturday for three victims of the failed coup, and anti-Communists toppled another Soviet hero's statue as anger seethed around the retreating party.

"We say goodbye to our heroes, our defenders, our saviors," Russian republic Boris Yeltsin told the mourners. "Of course, we are not saying goodbye to their names — because their names will become sacred to Russia."

Party printing presses, suspended activities of Russian party chapter and drove the party from the army, national police and KGB.

In a sign of the revolutionary shift in power, Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev yielded Friday to Yeltsin's demands for new defense and interior ministers as well as new KGB and army chiefs. Yeltsin also seized hundreds of Communist Party printing presses, suspended ed activities of Russian party chapter and drove the party from the army, national police and KGB.

In other developments Saturday:

—Authorities arrested the last of the eight coup leaders — Soviet Prime Minister Valetin Pavlov, Soviet and Russian television reported. He had been under police guard in a hospital. One of the eight committed suicide, officials say.

Officers work several cases Friday, Saturday

Snyder police were kept busy Friday and early Saturday with a number of reports, including several arrests, a burglary and a case of criminal mischief.

At 9:08 a.m. Friday, officers took a 54-year-old male into custody at Municipal Court and transported him to the county jail to lay out fines for public intoxication.

At 11:28 p.m. officers arrested a 25-year-old male in the 1500 block of 27th St. for public intoxication. Officers also arrested a 28-year-old male and a 33-year-old male for PI in the 800 block of Ave. N at 2:57 a.m. Saturday.

In one other arrest, officers took a 41-year-old male into custody at 11:44 p.m. Friday in the 1800 block of 24th St. on an outstanding warrant for theft by check, Class B, from Lee County, and for no liability insurance and operating an unregistered vehicle.

Officers also noted that a 22-year-old male was transported to the Big Spring State Hospital at 4:46 a.m. Saturday on an emergency commitment by Mental Health, Mental Retardation officials.

In another case, officers filed a report for burglary of a residence after Penny Clark informed them at 6:09 p.m. Friday that someone had broken into a vacant home at 1509 Ave. T. No details of items taken were immediately available.

At 1:13 a.m. Saturday, police were informed by Brandon Terry that someone had cut the tires on his vehicle while it was parked at 3305 40th Pl. A report for criminal mischief was filed.

Officers also took a report of a dog bite, criminal trespass and worked a traffic accident Friday.

At 10 a.m., Bert Merritt of 4509 Fredonia called police in reference to a stray dog which had bitten him. The dog was taken to West Texas Animal Clinic.

At 2:02 p.m., a woman complained of having problems with her mother-in-law. A report for criminal trespass was filed.

The period's only accident came at 1:40 p.m. in the 4600 block of College Ave. and involved a 1989 Cutlass Supreme driven by Juli Ann Daughtry of 4105 Avondale and a 1986 Buick driven by Jurado DeSantiago of Rt. 2. No ambulance or wrecker was needed.

Motor vehicle sales tax will increase

Motor vehicle sales tax will increase effective Sept. 1, announced County Tax Assessor Rona Sikes.

Sikes said she received word this past week from Austin that new legislation will increase the tax from 6 percent to 6.25 percent. "I don't have anything in writing yet (on the tax increase)," she said, although she had confirmation from the Department of Motor Vehicles on the change.

"Any new or used car that is purchased in August will be taxed at 6 percent," said Sikes noting that the new tax will be in place Sept. 1.

The increase could mean extra revenue for the county because five percent of the tax stays in the county. Last year, the county received some $54,000 from the tax.

"The increase to the county will be very little, but it will be some," said Sikes.

The purpose of the rest stop is to aid travelers from fatigue. Refreshments will be served.

shoes were taken. Police have recovered two of the pairs.

Jackson, Boger and Thompson were also arrested in connection with the Aug. 19 burglary of Sparkle City Pawn, in which the front window was broken and a number of pistols stolen. They were booked into the county jail and bond set at $5,000 each.

Three juveniles, ages 15, 15 and 16, were also taken into custody in connection with the burglary. They have been released to the custody of their parents.

Officers have recovered four pistols taken during the burglary.

Both cases will be forwarded to the district attorney for prosecution.

In addition, police took the following action:

—identified three suspects as participants in the April 15 burglary of Sparkle City Pawn in which several shotguns were taken;

—identified one suspect in the March 19 burglary of Sparkle City Pawn in which three pistols were taken;

—and identified three suspects in the Dec. 25, 1990, burglary of Thompson's Shoes, in which several pairs of shoes were stolen. The suspects were juveniles at the time of the burglary.

The cases have all been forwarded to the district attorney's office for prosecution.

Holiday will advertise video

LOS ANGELES (AP) — George Holliday, whose spur-of-the-moment videotaping of a black motorist being beaten by police caused a national uproar, will promote a videotape on freelance news filming.

Holliday, 31, will appear in a one-minute commercial for the videotape, "Shoot News and Make Money With Your Camcorder," his lawyer, James Jordan, said Friday.

Holliday will receive a percentage of sales of the videotape, but his lawyer wouldn't say how much.

Mayor can't halt march

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor David Dinkins failed to dissuade black activists from marching today on the Jewish Sabbath through a neighborhood torn in recent days by racial violence between blacks and ultra-Orthodox Jews.

Dinkins nevertheless called his Friday meeting with black leaders "a long and fruitful discussion."

"I have no reason to believe that (the march) would be anything but peaceful," said Dinkins, the city's first black mayor.

Communist Party loses its grip on power

People's resistance efforts slide toward revolution

MOSCOW (AP) — The Communist Party lost its 73-year grip on Soviet power Friday as coup resistance veered toward revolution, and Mikhail Gorbachev and Boris Yeltsin agreed on steps that will curb party influence.

Elected governments across the country moved to clip the party's power after hard-line Communists tried to oust Gorbachev to block him from signing a treaty turning over many central government powers to the 15 Soviet republics.

"I think that this putsch, which was in fact organized by the leadership of the Soviet Communist Party, is the last nail in its own coffin, and that after this the party virtually will cease to exist," said Vladimir Lyenko, who helped organize a walkout from a party congress last year. Yeltsin joined that walkout.

Yeltsin and Gorbachev jointly announced new appointees to top security and government posts.

Bonds are tentatively approved

AUSTIN (AP) — Supporters of a proposed McDonnell Douglas Corp. manufacturing facility say the project could create 12,000 jobs for the state, but opponents claim selling revenue bonds to lure the company is too risky.

The Texas House on a 106-6 vote Friday approved selling revenue bonds to lure McDonnell Douglas to the state. The measure now goes to Gov. Ann Richards for consideration.

Several lawmakers members opposed the proposal, saying it would bail out McDonnell Douglas from its economic problems, and put the state's financial standing at risk if the bonds could not be repaid by the company.

"This is a little gray train," Rep. Paul Moreno, D-El Paso, said.

Moreno said the company has recently laid off hundreds of workers, and been involved in labor disputes, and cost overruns.

Rep. Al Price, D-Beaumont, said, "If this is such a sure-fire deal, this company ought to be able to do this in the open market."

McDonnell Douglas, which employs 32,500 people at its base in St. Louis, has been hard hit by defense cuts the past two years. The company is trying to expand into the commercial jet market to offset declining defense spending.

McDonnell Douglas is the nation's largest defense contractor and the second largest maker of commercial aircraft in the world.

But supporters of the bill said the bonds are needed because of the stiff competition from seven other states for the plant that will manufacture McDonnell Douglas' new generation of civilian aircraft.

In Texas, the proposed sites are Alliance Airport in northern Tarrant County, and Ellington Field in Houston.

Rep. Al Carter, R-Richland Hills, one of the sponsors of the bill authored by House Speaker Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said the project would produce 12,000 jobs.

Rep. Steve Wolens, D-Dallas, said the state would face no risk under the bond issue.

and all were reformers who played a role in defeating the coup attempt. Gorbachev fired those who backed the coup and many who merely failed to oppose it.

AP news analysis

Yeltsin suspended the activities of the hard-line Russian faction of the Communist Party. Two Baltic states outlawed the party outright, and governments from Moscow to Moldavia to Leninskoe Znamya and Glasnost.

The arrest of Latvian party chief Alfred Rubiks swelled the ranks of senior Communists under investigation for supporting the coup.

Many senior party leaders in the republics have quit the national party leadership in disgust. In the last two days, the party leaders in Uzbekistan, Moldavia and Kazakhstan quit the Politburo, one of its highest bodies. Gorbachev said he agreed to allow police to seal off the party's national headquarters near the Kremlin after learning that "something is happening in the building of the Central Committee that needs to be stopped."

One of his own offices is in the building. About 2,000 angry demonstrators gathered outside the party complex, accusing party officials of trying to remove papers that might implicate them in the failed plot. Gorbachev did not share Yeltsin's enthusiasm for whittling the party down to size. Gorbachev, the Soviet president, also holds the job of General Secretary of the Communist Party. He has reiterated his desire to revitalize the party into a reformist organization.

During a nationally televised session of the Russian Federation legislature, Gorbachev cautioned that taking excessive revenge on the party could jeopardize democracy.

Yeltsin brandished a decree suspending the activity of the hard-line Russian branch of the Communist Party, "pending a court determination of its involvement" in the coup.

Gorbachev said that "if this Supreme Soviet, which has done and is doing so much for democracy, supports this action of Boris Nikolayevich, it will be committing a mistake."

"Not all of the Russian Communist Party was involved in the coup and supported it," Gorbachev said. He said that if any committee of the party, including its Central Committee, were involved or supported it, he would support banning it.

Gorbachev said, "It would be a mistake to ban a party. You must be democrats to the end and then all true democrats will be with you."

Pravda deputy editor Grigory Selezneva also complained about Yeltsin's heavy hand against the press, warning, "It would be a catastrophe if once again all the newspapers, as it was before 1985, would speak with one voice."

Until then, the state would pay the counties $20 a day for holding inmates, using a formula based on the number of state prisoners they held in April 1991.

In addition, Harris County would receive about $65 million to cover the costs of transferring state inmates from its jail. The total paid to all counties would be about $189 million.

House approves prison bill and study

AUSTIN (AP) — Floggings and mutilations for convicted criminals are among the penalties to be explored by a panel that would be created under the $1.1 billion prison bill passed by the Texas House.

The bill passed Friday would include a commission to recommend revisions to the state's criminal laws. The panel would study the feasibility of instituting corporal punishment, such as flogging and chopping off fingers.

Rep. Al Edwards has often pushed for such punishments.

"Whether it's the electric chair, needle, lashings, chopping a finger, whatever it takes, they (criminals) need to know they are going to be punished," said Edwards, D-Houston.

The measure now goes to the Senate, where Sen. John Montford said many of the House amendments could be removed to ensure passage of the basic bill.

"You start loading this thing up, you jeopardize the whole package," said Montford, D-Lubbock. "Those may be popular ideas, but again this is not the time and place to barrage the bill."

The corporal punishment study commission is only part of the massive bill designed to settle county jail overcrowding lawsuits against the state and build some 25,000 new prison beds.

Of those 25,000 new prison beds,

12,000 would be set aside for drug and alcohol treatment. Construction depends on voters, who will be asked to approve bonds Nov. 5 for the buildup.

Lawmakers are in special session trying to resolve lawsuits of 13 counties that successfully sued the state for payment for the backlog of state inmates in their jails.

Another amendment added to the bill would allow counties, through a referendum, to raise their sales tax by one-quarter cent and dedicate that money for criminal justice needs.

Transportation regulations for disabled announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Transportation announced Friday that most public and private transportation systems will be required, regardless of whether they receive federal money, to meet the needs of disabled people.

The new regulations, parts of which will be phased in through 1995, are designed to codify the transportation sector's obligations under the Americans with Disabilities Act, signed by President Bush in July of last year.

When the requirements are fully implemented, "it will be easier for people with disabilities to use public transportation to get to schools and jobs, as well as social, recreational and cultural activities," Secretary of Transportation Samuel K. Skinner said.

The department's final rule implementing the act also requires public systems operating fixed-route service to provide "paratransit" service even when regular routes are accessible to the disabled.

Paratransit services are alternate forms of public transportation including door-to-door van pick-ups.

The rule requires next-day service, with no restrictions based on the purpose of the trip. Fees for paratransit service may be as much as double the fixed-route fare for a similar trip.

her of pushing a politically popular amendment that wasn't practical given the fact that thousands of inmates already are backed up in county jails awaiting transfer, to the overcrowded state prison system.

An earlier deal to settle all the county lawsuits failed when Harris County, the state's largest, wouldn't go along.

Under the latest proposed jail settlement, if all the counties agree to drop their lawsuits, the state in 1995 would take responsibility for accepting all felons within 45 days of their sentencing.

But other lawmakers accused

By Shirley A. Gorman

Rae Adams likes history — family history especially. That's why she and her husband, Don, are making plans to "slow down" long enough to take some genealogy trips during the next two years.

Rae became interested in genealogy about six years ago. What then began as a chance encounter has since blossomed into four years of investigating her roots.

To date, she has researched her family's lines back to the 1600s and 1700s. She is a descendant of the Shoun family whose descendants will mark their 200th anniversary since settling in Johnson County, Tenn. next year. They are planning to attend that reunion.

While in Fort Collins, Colo., recently for a mini reunion of Company G, the company her husband served in during World War II, she encountered a cousin (Shoun last name) whom she had never met.

Rae also discovered ancestors dating to the Revolutionary War and two great-grandfathers who were killed during the Civil War.

Through her research, she has encountered many cousins, most of whom she has met through the letters they exchange.

"I have met some really wonderful people," she said. "Genealogy is so fascinating because it is like a jigsaw puzzle. The more you find out, the more you need to find out."

Rae has been a placement interviewer for the Snyder office of the Texas Employment Commission for the past 11 years, working under TEC's Sweetwater office manager.

But all that comes to an end Aug. 31 when she will retire. A reception in her honor was held at the local TEC office Friday afternoon. Don, who owns Adams Used Cars Dealership, also plans to "take it easy" so that they will be able to travel together.

Rae had been working for an electric company in Snyder when the TEC job became available. She was hired on an emergency basis with the understanding she would take the Merit Systems Test in Lubbock as soon as possible. She did. TEC employees must pass that test before they can be hired.

"This job has been a real challenge. It never gets boring because everyone has different job skills and I like pairing people with work they can do."

Unfortunately though, the downside of Rae's job is that there are usually more people than jobs to go around. However, since the same people are not always out-of-work, she said it "balances out" in the long run.

She said she handles the frustrations of her work by remembering that she can't manufacture jobs and she must do what she can with what is available.

In finding jobs for people, the TEC has to adhere to state and federal rules.

Rae's decision to retire at the end of August was based on more than just a desire to devote more time to her genealogical research.

She has recently been experiencing some complications as a result of the polio she had when she was 24 years old. Pregnant at the time, her doctor told her she was more vulnerable because of her condition. After three years of physical therapy she was fine.

Recently, when she began experiencing weakness and pain in her legs she sought medical advice. She was subjected to a battery of tests because doctors had to rule out all other possible causes before making a firm diagnosis of a recurrence of her polio.

But Rae is far from a quitter. Polio didn't stop her before and it's not going to get the best of her now. She has started therapy at Cogdell Memorial Hospital three times a week. She said her muscles can't be fully restored but they can be helped, along with a recurring back problem which may also be related to her polio.

In addition to supervised therapy, Rae also does hamstring stretches as well. Presently, she cannot walk or stand for long periods, but after she retires she will then be able to rest as she needs.

She may be giving up a regular job, but she certainly has no intention of just sitting in a rocking chair. She and her husband have too many plans otherwise.

One thing in her favor is her doctor does not think her present condition will get any worse.

Rae contracted polio in the days before the polio vaccine was developed. Polio has been virtually wiped out now, but in 1954 it was a very serious and deadly disease.

Since then, Rae has learned to "get around polio" and that's why she is unwilling to just give up and sit.

She likes to do handwork such as embroidery, needlepoint and crossstitching when she does sit down. "I like to keep my hands busy," she said.

"I learned to do what I was told to do and to fight the disease. That was the only way I could keep polio from winning," she said.

Prior to moving to Snyder, she was with the Texas Power and Light Co. in Waco for two years, Ideco Manufacturing Equipment for 10 years and, before that, six years with Dresser Corp. in Beaumont.

Rae came to Snyder after marrying Don. She has a daughter, Beth Kasner, who is married and lives in Waco with her husband Johnny, who is the supervisor for the maintenance division at McLennan Community College. Beth works in Austin as a computer programmer. They have two children: Kammi, 10, and Kevin, 5½.

Rae grew up in a small town in the Fort Worth area and graduated from Azle High School. In July, she and a playmate she had not seen in 40 years had a brief reunion in Weatherford during the July 4th celebration.

They had corresponded regularly but had not seen each other since 1952.

Though shy and reserved as a child, Rae has spent most of her life working with people, and she wouldn't trade a minute of her long years of experience. She credits her stay at Ideco with helping to crack the shell of her shyness, because she often met people from all over the world who did business with the company.

Rae said she will definitely miss the day-to-day interaction with people, but she is looking forward to the plans she and Don have been making for some time now.

Rae was the third child in her family. She has an older brother and sister. Since her sister married when Rae was two years old, she said they never had the chance to get to know each other. As for her brother, she said he always regarded her as the "pesky sister" who always had to tag along.

Electronics spur better business meetings

NEW YORK (AP) — Large-scale corporate meetings have come a long way from their onetime regimen of platform speeches and colored slide shows as a result of advances in electronics technology, notes a meeting management organization.

The most recent innovation in producing informative, meaningful multimedia presentations is the use of laser discs, according to executives at Ray Simon Inc., a New York-based producer of meetings.

One system integrates still photos, computerized animation techniques and full-motion video with attendant special effects, all contained on one lightweight disc and controlled by a personal computer.

The laser disc can be programmed for any size presentation, ranging as high as five viewing screens spanning 60 feet.

Flowers graced each layer, cascading down the side. Fresh flowers of the bride's chosen colors completed the cake's decor. The bride's bouquet centered the table, embraced crystal appointments.

The groom's table was covered with a yellow eyelet cloth. The German chocolate cake, decorated with a monogram of Alpha Phi Omega in blue and gold. Brass appointments were complimented by a brass candelabrum. Featured on the table was a picture of the bride.

Homemade cottage cheese

COTTAGE CHEESE
Made from Dry Milk
Ingredients

5½ cups dry milk
1 cup buttermilk or
2 junket tablets

Equipment

2 gallon container
Collander or cloth
Knife
1 gallon container
1 measuring cup
Reconstitute one gallon of dry milk in a two gallon container. Follow package directions.

Add one cup buttermilk or two junket tablets dissolved in one-half cup water.

Place container in a warm place until milk coagulates. Container may be placed in hot water to hasten coagulation. Quick setting makes a sweeter cottage cheese.

Cut through coagulated milk in a criss-cross manner with a knife. The size of criss-cross determines the size of curd.

Pour about one gallon of boiling water over the mixture. Let stand about one minute.

Test curd by spooning up small amount and squeezing with fingers. If curd holds imprint of fingers it has heated sufficiently.

Pour cold water through curds to wash out all whey. This improves flavor and keeping quality.

Drain well. Yield: One pound cottage cheese from one gallon milk.

Home nuptials unite couple

DUMAS — Miss Denise Dyann Gearhart became the bride of Jamie Lloyd Cofer on Saturday, Aug. 3, in the home of the bride's parents. Ben Mereness, minister of the First Stet Church of Christ, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The groom is a 1990 graduate of TTU and plans to return to graduate school in January.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Dennis R. Gearhart and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Johnny M. Cofer of Snyder.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an ivory satin wedding gown which featured a portrait neckline and pearl appliques. The front was adorned with two rows of beads. Her hi-low skirt had a large bow accenting the waistline in the back.

Her bridal bouquet was a silk arrangement of iris, rose and heather with colors of ivory and rose.

Tammie Pendleton was maid of honor. Johnny Cofer Jr., brother of the groom, was best man.

Pianist Bessie Clark provided wedding music. A reception was held in the home following the ceremony. Members of the houseparty were Kenda Hays, Andrea Hooper and Allison Wall.

After a wedding trip to Dallas, the couple is at home in Amarillo.

Scents for kids

NEW YORK (AP) — Babar & Celeste Children's Fragrances are wafting through kids' boutiques of some of the nation's toniest department stores.

The new line of colognes from Paris for infants and children is distributed by Kids Scents Inc. of Miami, which expects more than $3 million in sales by year's end.

The Babar scent for boys and Celeste for girls includes low-alcohol or alcohol-free cologne, bubblebath and soap. It retails for about $6 to $25.

The product name is based on the series of children's books about the king and queen of elephants, created by French author Jean de Brunhoff in 1933.

Barbie fashions for young girls

NEW YORK (AP) — It had to happen: Barbie clothes for Barbie doll owners.

Mattel Inc. has licensed Barbie fashions for girls' sizes 4-6x and 7-14. The fall line of dresses, sportswear and accessories includes the Barbie cheerleader collection in — what else? — that trademark bubblegum pink.

The clothing and accessories are available at selected Wal-Mart, Target, Sears and Venture Stores, among others. In addition, a catalog of fashions was packed in more than 10 million Barbie doll cartons shipped to retailers during the summer.

In 1990, according to Mattel, Barbie dolls and related products grossed $700 million worldwide. Meryl Friedman, vice president of Barbie consumer products in El Segundo, Calif., sees the new licenses as a way to build Barbie into a $1 billion business for Mattel.

L'eggs cracks a new wrap

NEW YORK (AP) — After 20 years, the egg is disappearing from L'eggs on the grocer's shelf.

Beginning in October, the L'eggs wrapping will look more like a half-pint milk carton than an egg, but the stockings will be the same. The packaging change will begin on the West Coast and make its way eastward by March 1992, according to Ronald W. Zabel, president.

Both packages are recyclable, but the new package requires 38 percent less material.

Logos and color schemes that chart styles will not be changed.

L'eggs, a division of Sara Lee Corp., is the nation's largest seller of women's branded hosiery. It is sold through groceries, discount and drug stores.

Caution caught fair maiden

By Phillip Alder

It had been a beautiful summer's day — not a cloud in the sky. But now that the sun had set, I entered the bridge club for the evening's duplicate. There I saw the Senior Life Master sipping a Campari and orange. He put down his glass to sketch the familiar diagram on the back of a coaster. I strolled over to hear his tale.

"The true mark of the bridge expert," he began, "is that he allows for the worst distribution. Sitting South on this hand was Percival Benkinsop, partnering his fiancée, Jasmine Dove.

"Percival was slightly cautious in bidding only three no-trump, but he wasn't sure Jasmine would treat four no-trump as natural; she would assume it was Blackwood. However, Jasmine appreciated the value of her hand, especially that jewel, the diamond queen. Given some encouragement, Percival had no hesitation in bidding six no-trump.

"When the dummy was tabled, Percival said, 'Four diamonds was a beautiful bid, partner,' with love oozing from every syllable.

"A lesser player would have won the spade lead and immediately knocked out the club ace. But then East would switch to a heart, putting South to a guess. Thinking the diamonds were solid, he would rise with the heart ace and go down because of the 5-1 diamond break.

"Percival saw the right answer. At trick two, he cashed dummy's diamond queen. Then he played a diamond back to the king. Seeing the bad break, he knew he needed the heart fi-

New packaging

NEW YORK (AP) — America's industrial firms are increasingly concerned about using packaging that's friendly to the environment.
Two surveys of business executives, conducted in 1989 and 1991, for the Teague industrial design firm, showed that 50 percent had altered their packaging to render it more environment-friendly, compared to 47 percent in the first survey.
In the 1991 poll, 83 percent said environmental concern had affected their own industry, an increase of 16 percent over the previous survey's figure.
Alternative packaging materials being considered are recyclable plastics, other recyclables and biodegradables, said 68 percent of respondents, compared to 59 percent in the earlier poll.

Four days later, he crossed blindfolded, pushing a wheelbarrow, and on Aug. 19 he carried a man over on his back.

Recipe Box

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

Although many Americans are cutting back on meat, beef remains an essential source of iron. That is the nutrient most often lacking in the diets of women and children.
Serving smaller portions — while adding other healthful foods to the menu, such as a variety of vegetables and fruits — allows beef to remain a valuable part of your diet. The suggested portion is three ounces, a piece of meat roughly the same size as a deck of cards. It's about 200 calories.
One of the leanest cuts of beef is the eye round, which makes a satisfying roast that is juicy and microwaves well. Set the roast on a rack in a microwave-safe dish, so fat will drip off. Rubbing a seasoning on a beef roast before cooking adds color and extra flavor.
Remember that the roast will continue cooking during standing time. And vegetables for an Italian-style meal may be microcooked while the beef is standing.

QUICK ITALIAN BEEF ROAST AND VEGETABLES

- 1 beef eye-round roast (2-to-3 pounds)
- 1 1/2 teaspoons flour
- 1 teaspoon dried basil leaves, crushed and divided
- 1/2 teaspoon each salt and dried oregano leaves, crushed
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 medium zucchini or yellow squash, cut into 1/2-inch-thick slices
- 2 teaspoons olive oil
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- 1/2 cup cherry tomato halves

Thoroughly combine flour, 1/2 teaspoon basil, salt, oregano and pepper; rub over beef eye-round roast. Place roast, fat side down, on rack in microwave-safe dish. Cover with waxed paper.
Microwave on MEDIUM-LOW, or 30 percent power (approximately 200 watts). Allow 14 to 16 minutes per pound. Rotate dish 1/4 turn every 20 minutes and invert roast midway through cooking time. Shield edges that appear to be over-cooking with small pieces of foil.
Remove roast when a meat thermometer, inserted into the thickest part, registers 130 to 135 degrees. Do not overcook. Tent roast with foil and allow to stand 10 minutes. (Roasts continue to rise about 5 to 10 degrees in temperature to reach 140 degrees for rare.)
Meanwhile, place zucchini in 1-quart microwave-safe dish. Add olive oil, lemon juice and remaining basil; toss to coat. Cover and microwave on HIGH 3 to 4 minutes or until tender, stirring after 2 minutes. Add tomatoes; toss gently and let stand, covered, 1 minute.
Carve roast into thin slices and serve with vegetables. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings of vegetables; 8 to 12 three-ounce servings of beef.

(Note: Beef eye-round roast will yield four 3-ounce cooked servings per pound.)
A serving of vegetables and three ounces of cooked, trimmed beef has 227 calories, 9 grams of fat and 78 milligrams of cholesterol.
PEAR-YOGURT SHAKE
1 16-ounce can Bartlett pears, chilled
1 cup plain yogurt

ice cubes

Combine pears, including syrup, yogurt and ice in blender or food processor; blend until smooth. Serve immediately in chilled glasses. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 2 or 3 servings (199 calories per 2 servings).
Pear-Banana Variation: Add 1 ripe banana and a dash of ground cinnamon to Pear-Yogurt Shake. Sprinkle tops of glasses with ground cinnamon. Makes 3 or 4 servings (219 calories per 3 servings).

Sheik takes underage bride

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A 60-year-old Saudi Arabian sheik appeared in court Sunday, a day after he was arrested for marrying a 10-year-old Indian girl and trying to take her home with him.
The girl's cries for help alerted passengers on a domestic flight Saturday and led to his arrest after the plane landed in New Delhi. She had allegedly been sold by her impoverished family.
The case was unusual, but not unheard of. Newspapers occasionally carry stories of young poor girls being sold, with a growing reported demand in the Persian Gulf in recent years for young Indian Muslim brides.
Arranged marriages between children are more common, but in most cases the children stay at home until puberty. The legal age to marry in India is 18, although the law is only sporadically enforced.
Ameena Begum was married Thursday to Sheik Yahya H.M. al-Sagish after he paid $4,077 to Begum's father, a rickshaw driver in the southern city of Hyderabad, The Sunday Times reported.
The amount would be roughly equal to six years earnings for a rickshaw driver. The Times said Ameena was the second-oldest in a family of six daughters and two sons.
Investigators said the sheik was suspected to be part of a slave-running gang. Police told Magistrate V.K. Maheshwari the Saudi sheik had photographs of four young girls in his possession, including one of Ameena Begum.
Along with a marriage certificate for Begum, al-Sagish also was holding one for a 32-year-old woman whose whereabouts are unknown.
Maheshwari ordered al-Sagish to remain in police custody for two days, pending further investigation.
During the hearing, the sheik said in broken Hindi that he was ill and repeatedly asked to be allowed to remain seated.
He was apprehended minutes after flying with Ameena from Hyderabad to New Delhi on Saturday. The Times newspaper reported. They apparently were intending to change planes and fly on to the Middle East.
After boarding the plane,

Ameena began crying and said she had been forced to marry the Saudi and wanted to get away from him.
Passengers complained to the crew, and a flight attendant helped inform the control tower in New Delhi of the problem. Al-Sagish was charged with illegally marrying a minor.
According to his lawyer, Feroze Khan, the Saudi was told by Ameena's family that the girl was old enough to be married. Ameena, a fifth-grade student, was sent to a woman's home on Saturday.
In an interview with the Indian Express newspaper, Ameena was quoted as saying: "Mother told me never to leave this man ... she told me he had piles of money, a big house and enough cattle to make us all rich. I don't want to go there. I also don't want to return home."

Killers are executed in Virginia, Missouri

By The Associated Press
A killer executed in Virginia's electric chair had to be given a second dose of electricity when his heart kept on beating after the initial jolts.

In Missouri, a man was put to death by injection hours later today for murdering four cafeteria workers in a hold-up.

A doctor at Greenville Correctional Center in Jarratt, Va., checked Derick Lynn Peterson with a stethoscope and determined he was still alive after receiving the usual dose of 1,725 volts for 10 seconds and 240 volts for about 90 seconds.

The process was repeated and Peterson, 30, was pronounced dead 13 minutes after the switch first was thrown, witnesses said. Peterson's brain was dead after the first 10-second surge, said David Bass, a regional manager of operations and training for the Corrections Department.

Jean Clarke, operations officer at the prison, said the equipment did not malfunction. "We felt it was necessary to perform the two cycles because after the first cycle, Dr. Barnes did find a faint heartbeat," she said.

The department announced that two doses of current would be used in future electrocutions at the prison.

Peterson, 30, was executed for the 1982 robbery and murder of Howard Kauffman, a Hampton grocery store manager.

Peterson was brought into the execution room singing and humming in a high-pitched voice.

"All blacks, young and old, you should feel the pressure" of these straps, he said. "The straps of this chair are no different from the stripes of the overseer ... I hope my people will be able to forgive you for this."

Peterson gave a thumbs-up just before the switch was thrown.

In Potosi, Mo., Maurice Oscar Byrd, 36, died at Potosi Correctional Center for the slayings of four people in a 1980 cafeteria robbery in suburban St. Louis. Byrd herded the victims into an office and shot them one by one, leaving a stack of bodies.

The U.S. Supreme Court late

Thursday had refused to consider last-ditch appeals by Peterson and Byrd. Justice Thurgood Marshall, who opposes capital punishment in all cases, dissented.

A federal judge had stayed Peterson's execution earlier Thursday, but the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned the ruling, saying Peterson shouldn't have waited until this week to start a new round of appeals.

In Byrd's case, the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals dissolved a stay and refused to hear any further appeals.

Parolee says he is not responsible

HOUSTON (AP) — A two-time parole violator and heroin addict who told police he was freed from prison "too soon" has pleaded guilty to beating and raping a 78-year-old woman.

Daniel April Cadriel, 37, was sentenced Thursday to 50 years in prison for aggravated sexual assault in the June 15 attack of the southwest Houston woman.

Prosecutor Margaret Stewart said Cadriel, a maintenance man at the woman's apartment complex, entered her unit under the guise of doing routine work.

Cadriel said he was coming off a heroin and alcohol binge that made him "mean." He beat up the woman, tried to strangle her with a bandage, threatened her with a knife and raped her before leaving the apartment with her crystal goblets, coins and a serving tray.

The woman knew her attacker and Cadriel was arrested a few blocks away.

Cadriel confessed to the assault, telling police, "It's not my fault. They let me out too soon," Ms. Stewart said.

Cadriel went to prison in 1984 on a five-year sentence for possession of a controlled substance after his probation was revoked. He was sentenced to three years for delivering illegal drugs, which prompted the revocation.

Grand Prairie church group was in Russia during coup

GRAND PRAIRIE, Texas (AP) — A 10-member entourage from Shady Grove Church of Grand Prairie was in the Soviet Union during the coup that momentarily removed Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev from office.

The group left the United States Aug. 8 to build projects for a foster family living on the Baltic coast of Latvia. When the group boarded a chartered bus Monday to return to Riga, the Latvian capital, members of the local church surprised them with the news Gorbachev had been ousted.

En route to Riga, the group saw tanks and armed soldiers representing the anti-reform factions lining some streets, but no other obvious sign of a takeover, said Jon Dunn, an elder of the church and leader of the group.

"It makes you appreciate the freedom we have in the U.S. We're really blessed," Dunn said.

The Grand Prairie church group was never threatened or detained, Dunn said.

In Riga, about 600 miles west of Moscow, people appeared to tend to daily business as usual, Dunn said, despite the declaration of a state of emergency.

"We saw more on CNN than on the streets," Steve LeBlanc, 24, told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram upon the group's arrival Wednesday night at Dallas-Fort Worth Airport.

Since it takes three days to place a telephone call to the United States from Latvia, group members were unable to contact family members until Tuesday afternoon, when they reached Copenhagen, Denmark, on the way home.

"All we got were postcards from Oslo (Norway). We tried not to panic, but it was hard not to worry when you heard about the kind of people who were taking over," said Cathy Squashic of The Colony, whose 18-year-old son, Bobby, was on the trip.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bill Cosby is at work on his latest TV venture, a remake of the Groucho Marx quiz show "You Bet Your Life."

Cosby hopes the show is picked up for syndication in 1992. "The Cosby Show" is in its eighth and final season on NBC.

"You Bet Your Life," began on radio in 1947 and ran on television from 1950 to 1961 on NBC. Marx interviewed contestants, often putting them down with his sharp wit.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

Husband's 'I' Disease May Be Beyond Cure

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Abby is on a two-week vacation. Following is a selection of some of her favorite past letters.)

DEAR ABBY: My problem may seem small to some, but to me it's very important. My husband and I have been married for more than 30 years, during which time he has been a good husband and provider. He has only one fault, which really irritates me. He surely must take vitamin "I" because that's his favorite word.

When he talks about a trip we took together, he says, "When I went to Yosemite," or he'll say, "I have a grandson" or, "I own some land." He talks as though he doesn't have a wife. I may as well be dead. It makes me feel so small and insignificant. It's terribly humiliating.

Is it wrong to feel hurt about this? Don't suggest that I talk to my husband. I have, and it's done no good.

HURT
DEAR HURT: Your husband's overdose of vitamin "I" has probably become addictive by now, but if he's a good man, he'll make a conscious effort to avoid hurting you. Remind him that vitamin "WE" is good for marriage, and ask him to leave vitamin "I" on the shelf for a while.

DEAR ABBY: In a courtship between a woman 65 and a man 67, who should offer the first kiss? Please don't think this is a joke. It isn't. I am a widow and he is a widower, and we are getting very close to where I will need the answer to the above question.

If he should make the first move in that direction, I want to know if I should act coy, or should I respond? Or am I the one who should make the advance to let him know I am not adverse to a romantic relationship? (I am not, but I don't want to push for it.)

Women used to sit back and let the men make all the overtures, but perhaps women's lib has changed all that. Or has it?
PROPER BUT PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: If you feel like kissing him, go ahead and kiss him. He'll probably meet you halfway and beat you to the finish line.

DEAR ABBY: I feel just terrible. A friend of ours brought a young woman over for us to meet. (His wife died about a year ago.)

She was very loud, talkative and bossy, which was disappointing to us because we knew his first wife, who was a real lady.

The following day, the man came over alone and asked us what we thought of his lady friend. We told him the truth.

Well, you guessed it. They are being married, and we are not invited to the reception!

Were we wrong in being honest? My husband thinks we were.
CANT LIE

DEAR CAN'T: Honesty is always the best policy, but you should know that no man wants an honest opinion of a horse after he's bought it.

This one's for everybody, from teens to seniors! To purchase Abby's new booklet, "The Anger in All of Us and How to Deal With It," send a long, business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby, Anger Booklet, P.O. (EDITOR'S NOTE: Abby is on a two-week vacation. Following is a selection of some of her favorite past letters.)

DEAR ABBY: When a reader asked you if Indian men were superior to white men in the art of lovemaking, you suggested that he contact the Bureau of Indian Affairs or the American Indian Movement.

As the executive director of the American Indian Movement, I feel it is my duty to respond.

For the Indian, "love" does not begin when the lights go out or when pot or liquor is consumed, and it is not confined to the bedroom or any other hidden place.

The way in which the Indian treats his wife throughout the marriage is the key to making him a superior lover. His daily acts of kindness, consideration and respect for her demonstrate his love.

While we recognize that the sex act may send man's mind afloat for a few fleeting moments, it is but a minute part of the overall act of love.

The above code of behavior plus the Indian's respect for women have been passed down from father to son. I personally have 15 children and am an Ojibway Indian.

Very truly yours,
DENNIS J. BANKS

DEAR ABBY: May I answer "Ed in East Illinois," who asked: "Is it true that closely guarded tribal secrets on how to please a woman are passed down from father to son, making Indians better lovers than white men?"

First the white man took all the Indian's land and some of his women. Now they want the Indian's "love secrets." No way! The Indian needs something to call his own.
HALF-BLOODED INDIAN

DEAR ABBY: Now I know why the Lone Ranger never got the girl.

They all ended up with Jay Silverheels, that good-looking Indian who played Tonto.
SEMINOLE IN FLORIDA

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Ed," "Yes, there are many closely guarded, secret Indian lovemaking tricks." You will notice that divorce is very rare among Indians. That's because they know how to please their women.

Secrets like the "Apache grip" and the "Kickapoo twist" will never be sold or given away by a true Indian.
MIKE WHITEFEATHER IN SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: In response to "Ed in East Illinois": I have lived with a Mandan Indian for five years, and I wouldn't trade him for FIVE white lovers. He is the greatest!
LINDA IN MARYLAND

DEAR ABBY: I am one-half Indian and have had two Indian squaws, who both ran off with white men. Apparently the "closely guarded secrets" of lovemaking from the Indian side of my family were not passed on to me.
LONELY WOLF IN HOUSTON

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WILLIE IN WACO": Yes, there are plenty of dangers. Sometimes just the thought of getting into hot water keeps a guy clean.

Buffalo Reef

By Bill McClellan

Dear Editor,
I think your column last week concerning Elvis Presley was in very poor taste.
In fact, there is plenty of evidence that The King is still alive. I have not personally seen Elvis; at least, I cannot be sure I have.
However, I have talked to several people who claim to have seen Elvis since his "reported" death. These are very intelligent, caring people, who would not lie.
One friend (I'll call him "Ottie"), swears Elvis is living near a bay, hanging out by the docks. Somewhat of a skeptic myself, I asked him "Ottie, what does Elvis do on this dock?"
To which he replied, "Beats me. I guess he's just wastin' time away."
It makes sense. I mean, hey, somebody might recognize him if he were actually working on the docks.
Another friend, "Jimmy H.," says he saw Elvis with a foxy lady and, believe it or not, it looked like they were kissing the sky. I asked him, "Jimmy H., are you sure they were kissing the sky? To which he replied, "Well, I think so, but it was kinda' hazy out that day."
He did say that Elvis and his friend were not near the docks, but, I mean, you can't expect him to stay in one place, right?
And another friend, "Jimmy M.," claims he saw Elvis twice, once on Love Street in San Francisco and once in L.A. with a woman.
Said Elvis walked right up to him and said, "Hello, I love you."
Well, of course you know that Elvis has always said that he loves all his fans.

And — I know you're not going to believe this — another friend (I'll also call him Jimmy), "Jimmy C.," said he needed to get in touch with a guy named Leroy and the operator turned out to be Elvis. Said Elvis helped him make the call.
So just because you and I haven't seen Elvis doesn't mean he is not alive. You have the right to your opinion, but when you mentioned Elvis in the same paragraph as flying saucers, well, you just took a little piece of my heart, buster.
Sincerely,
Janis J.
P.S. Another friend has just told me that Elvis has been spotted in Baton Rouge, waiting for a train. Me and Bobby are on our way there, right now. You'll see.

Dear Editor:
We would like to thank you and the Snyder Daily News for the Student Summer Ads. We have had our ad in your paper for the last two summers.
Since the ad is in the paper daily we have had many calls for mowing and we have been busy all summer.
Thank you for making student ads available to Snyder students.

To the Editor:
Dear people of Scurry County;
Yesterday afternoon my car broke down on Highway 180 five miles west of Snyder. I stopped, lifted the hood and at that moment a young girl stopped to offer her help.
As I waited there for some two hours, 12 people stopped to help — the men from the oilfield, housewives, couples going to dinner and, yes, two teenage boys came by concerned that I was in trouble.
Mr. Graham Steele from Koonce Automotive came after working hours, diagnosed the problem and expertly repaired my car.
In a day when just the opposite is true, the beautiful people of this town were concerned, caring and ready to help.
I wish I had the names of each one but since I failed to do this, I hope you read this and know that I thank and appreciate you. It is heartwarming to know that there are still folks like you in America.
Please don't ever change.

WEDNESDAY August 21
Snyder public schools trustees approved a $14.4 million preliminary budget for 1991-92 — "preliminary" because they do not yet know what revenues will be.

County commissioners unanimously adopted a proposed tax rate of $.3787 per $100 valuation, just below the rollback rate of .3788.

THURSDAY August 22
Scurry County Board of Development heard committee reports and reviewed its 1992 budget during a noon meeting.

Look Back

FIVE YEARS AGO
Gray's Style Shop was sold by its original owner, Mrs. Stanley (Mae) Gray, to former Snyder residents Bill and Jean Wood of Plainview. Wood's mother, Eunice Wood, was named manager. She had worked there for 37 years.

Travel problems were experienced in Snyder due to heavy rains, especially in the Inadale area and cars were rescued from high water over the highway just north of the community center.

TEN YEARS AGO
Snyder's chamber of commerce board approved a women's division with the group's first project to be White Buffalo Days. Brenda Hedges was chamber president and David Thompson was appointed as a new director.

Several senior citizens returned home from a 10-day trip to Hawaii and were greeted at the center with refreshments. They visited the Polynesian Cultural Honolulu Center, Hilo and Rainbow Falls and took a cruise on the Kona Coast.

TWELVE DAYS OF SCHOOL SUPPLIES SING TO THE TUNE OF "TWELVE DAYS OF CHRISTMAS"

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO
Twirlers for Snyder High School were Rhonda McAnear, Clint McCowen and Terri Dennis.
RONNIE ROEMISCH of Hermleigh was on the roster of the Tarleton State University Texans.
TWENTY YEARS AGO
The SHS Tigers scrimmaged against Canyon at Plainview. The defensive front five for the game were Joe Mark Adams, Mike Line, Gary Jones, Sandy Land and Dickie Stanley.
TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
New teachers welcomed at SHS by principal Ben Brock and vice principal Horace Bostick were Jerry Worsham, Mary Ann Moffett, Wallace Combest, Joe Harding, Claude Donaldson and Albert Taylor.
C.T. McLaughlin presented two bronze statues to the Snyder public schools. The statues, which came from Chicago, probably came originally from an old "Gold Coast" home. McLaughlin made several contributions to local schools, especially paintings and sculptures.

Country Life

By Deanie Francis Mills

This is the time of year that many of us are sending away our beautiful young daughters to live on their own for the very first time, as college students or young professionals. Our deepest fear for them is that they might become the victims of violent crime. Recently, Oprah Winfrey had as her guest a former San Diego police detective, Sandford Strong, who has written a soon-to-be-published book entitled, "Strong Defense." Here are 14 tips Det. Strong and Oprah's other guests gave to help women (or anyone, for that matter) avoid becoming victims:
1. Whenever possible, enroll in a self-defense course. You don't have to be in great shape or even be particularly young. A course of this type is designed to teach people how to throw their attackers off guard, and escape if they are assaulted, as well as tips on how to avoid attack if possible.
2. If your car should break down on the side of the road, NEVER get into a vehicle for a ride to another location, say, to use the phone.
3. If there are two of you and your car breaks down, NEVER allow yourselves to be separated, such as one of you hitching a ride to a phone while the other stays behind.
4. If you should be accosted on a lonely street, NEVER allow yourself to be persuaded to get into a car with your attacker. If ever there was a time to fight or run or scream (or all three), this is it. Once you get into the car with him, you are at his mercy.

He will take you to an isolated area and he will be in complete control.
5. NEVER believe anything your attacker tells you. He does not share your value system. He is a criminal. That automatically makes him a liar. He may promise that if you get into the car, he won't hurt you, or whatever. Don't believe anything he says.
6. Don't try to reason with your attacker. It doesn't help to tell him you have AIDS, or whatever. He doesn't care. Chances are he'll think you are lying no matter what you say (even if you are telling him the truth) because HE is a liar.
7. Don't plead for mercy. He will be unmoved. It may even stimulate him to more violence, because he likes to inflict pain.
8. Don't try to predict what he is going to do next. He probably doesn't know, especially if he's on drugs.
9. Don't try to analyze him. Better psychiatrists than you have failed at it.
10. It is a MYTH that "You will only make him angrier by fighting." You can't make him any angrier. It was anger that drove him to criminal action in the first place.

11. TRUST your instincts. If your instincts warn you that fighting could get you killed, then don't fight. If you think you can get away, then do it. Each situation is different. Only YOU will know the right thing to do to save your life. Lord knows, it's much better to be raped than murdered. As long as there is life, there is hope.
12. If you suspect that you are about to become a date rape statistic, here are a couple of things you can do. They aren't pretty, but they will get the job done. First, if he is kissing you against your will, bite his bottom lip. Bite until your teeth meet, until you draw blood. Another tender spot for this is along his neck. Bite the living daylight out of him. He will instinctively draw back in agony — jump up and get the heck out of there. Don't waste time looking for your purse or your blouse or whatever. Run out stark naked if you have to. Just get away.
13. BE PREPARED. A self-defense course can make your actions automatic, something just reading this column or watching Oprah can't do. On her program, she showed some excellent tactics for breaking a choke hold from behind, or fending off a frontal assault — no kung fu — just common sense stuff to help you get away, things you can learn in a good course.

14. If you are unable to take such a course (I don't know of one here in Snyder, but I'd be interested in helping to get one started), then use good common sense. When you walk down the road, walk with your head up and be alert. Pay attention to your surroundings. Know where you are going, and don't wander along in a fog of daydreams — especially at night. Park under the lights, near people, and keep your keys in your hand. Check the back seat BEFORE getting in. Travel in twos whenever possible. And don't take stupid chances. All it takes to get you hurt is one dumb mistake.
Beyond that, there is no need for any woman (or anybody) to go around frightened for her life all the time, even in a big city. Take charge of your destiny and be responsible for your own safety. Make it awfully hard for those bad guys to find their victims.

Shopping for an upgraded car stereo

By the Editors of Consumer Reports
Motorists are perennially dissatisfied with the radio and tape players that are standard issue in cars. Aftermarket manufacturers are meeting the demand for replacements with a vast selection; currently, more than 60 companies market nearly 600 different models. Consumer Reports tested some representative models — ones that will fit a large number of cars and that should interest a wide range of people.
Models in the mid- to high-priced range list for $260 to $550. Choices were restricted to those that fit most late-model cars neatly, with a minimum of fuss. The selected models are self-contained and don't require an external amplifier.
Many recent car models accommodate the "DIN" type of mounting that most radio/tape players require. Since DIN-mounted models fit into an opening approximately 2-by-7 inches in the dash, they have larger usable front-panel space than do the shaft-mounted models found in older cars and many trucks.
A few cars such as Toyotas, Mazdas and the Ford Taurus require "ISO" mount models, which have screw holes for mounting on a special bracket. Late-model cars from Chrysler and General Motors have their own "OEM" style opening that calls for a special bracket to accommodate an aftermarket radio/tape player.
Adapters and kits are available for installing almost any radio/tape player in almost any car. But a model designed to fit your car's specific type of mounting generally makes a neater and more secure installation.

One way to be sure the radio fits is to have it installed by an audio dealer. Installers are usually familiar with most car and stereo combinations and know which additional parts may be needed. Dealers charge $35 to $75 to install a radio/tape player in a car that already has speakers.
This class of radio/tape players boasts many features commonly found in home hi-fi components. Standard is digital tuning, with presets — programmable buttons that you can set to anywhere from 12 to 30 of your favorite stations. That's especially useful in a car because it helps you find the right station and keep your eyes on the road.
Not so many years ago, most car radio/tape players had only a single tone-control knob, which adjusted treble. Today, separate bass and treble controls are commonplace. Some players, such as the Craig T862 ($290), even offer a built-in equalizer.
Other commonplace radio features include:
Station seek. This finds the next station up or down the dial. Some models let you limit reception to strong stations.
Station scan. This lets you hop automatically along the entire radio band from one station to another, pausing briefly at each.

Preset scan. This scans only the stations you've programmed with the preset buttons.
Auto preset. This sets the tuning buttons to the first few stations it finds on the dial, a help when you travel in unfamiliar areas.
Most of the radio/tape players tested performed very well in essential areas such as FM reception and tape accuracy. While AM performance wasn't quite as good, the AM tuners are generally better designed than those seen in home stereo receivers.
If price is no object, consider the top-rated Sony XR-7280 ($550). Like most autosound gear, it's usually sold at discount. Bargain hunters should consider the Pioneer KEH-5100QR, which combines relatively low price ($340) and strong overall performance.
If two speakers aren't enough, the Kenwood KRC-710 ($449) is a good choice. It can power a four-speaker system better than most of the other models.

Recession batters Penney's at peak of change

DALLAS (AP) — When the recession hit last summer, J.C. Penney Co. was at the climax of a seven-year transition that did away with hard goods like tires and drills and instead emphasized soft goods like ties and drapes. Penney's 1,300 stores had been remodeled, some with marble and brass, reflecting the company's upscale aspirations. More name brands were being sold and ads boasted of fashion coming to life.

But the recession wounded the retailer's business. And the company's own strategy, instead of boosting sales, drove customers away.

Sales have fallen during 11 out of the last 12 months. From February to July, the first half of Penney's fiscal year, they slipped 5.3 percent at established stores, those open at least a year.

"They overshot their customer," said Dennis Van Zelfden, retail industry analyst for Rauscher Pierce Refsnes Inc. in Dallas.

"Five years ago, a normal dress may have been $50 at Penney. Now it's more like $85, when they should have got some around $70," he said.

Penney responded with more merchandise selling at lower prices, like a basic black skirt that sells for $20 today, down from $25 a year ago. But Penney, standing by its new format, continues to target its overall product mix to middle- and upper-middle income women.

"We are changing because consumers expect us to change, but we're not changing the strategic direction," said Chairman William R. Howell.

"It's not always the low price point that turns your sales performance around," Howell said in an interview. "You've got to have the balance. To think you could suddenly focus on low value, low quality is erroneous."

The fastest-growing retailers in recent years have been at either end of the price scale — discount stores like Wal-Mart and Kmart or tony chains like AnnTaylor.

Penney has been in the middle since its beginning 89 years ago. For years it was one of the big three general merchandisers in the United States, along with Sears, Roebuck and Co. and Montgomery Ward & Co.

But in 1983, Penney stopped trying to be all things to all people, eliminating hardware, automotive, lawn and garden and electronics lines from its stores.

That left apparel and home furnishings, key items for shoppers in malls, where more than half of Penney stores are located.

"Our positioning is predetermined based upon the profile of the business that's being done in those malls," Howell said.

As the company gradually converted its stores to the new format, its bottom line benefited. Income jumped from $478 million in 1986 to $802 million in 1989, Pen-

Cameras will be allowed during trial

HOUSTON (AP) — A state district judge has ruled cameras will be allowed to record gavel-to-gavel coverage of the criminal trial of City Councilman Ben Reyes.

State District Judge Pat Lykos ruled the locally unprecedented ruling late Thursday.

"There is not a written policy (on cameras in the courtroom) because we have not until this moment had a need for it," First Assistant District Attorney Don Stricklin said.

"We are apparently going to have to adopt one."

Reyes will be tried beginning Sept. 3 on charges of criminal mischief and theft. The veteran councilman also was indicted on campaign contribution violations, but that charge apparently will be tried later. He has pleaded innocent to all charges.

The judge already had moved the trial to an auditorium at the South Texas College of Law, which seats 240, because of the anticipated interest in the case. The auditorium has three, ceiling-mounted cameras.

Ms. Lykos said it was the specially equipped courtroom, which also contains an operations booth where photographers can operate the cameras, that allowed her to rule in favor of the coverage.

"If I were trying this case (in the courthouse), I could not have permitted the cameras in," she said.

"But the way the cameras are set up in this courtroom, it's actually less obtrusive than everyone filming through the door."

Defense attorney Mike Ramsey said earlier this week that he favored the videotaping, while prosecutor Jim Lindeman had expressed opposition.

ney's best year ever. But earnings fell to $577 million in 1990 and may be down again this year.

In the first six months of fiscal 1991, Penney earned $111 million, a 53 percent decline from $237 million in 1990's first half. Revenue was down 2.5 percent to $7.44 billion from $7.64 billion.

In July, sales at established Penney stores were down 3 percent. Its closest national rivals, Dayton Hudson Corp. and May Department Stores Co., both reported increases. Several regional competitors, like Little Rock, Ark.-based Dillard Department Stores Inc., also posted increases.

L. Wayne Hood, a retailing analyst for Prudential Securities Inc. in New York, predicted stronger third and fourth quarters for Penney, but said year-end profit will still be down from 1990. Howells also expects a stronger second half of the year, but conceded he hasn't "seen any glowing light."

"We didn't have as much of the right stuff as would have hoped to have had in order to satisfy the consumer," Howell said. "But at the same time, we didn't anticipate, nor did the world, what would happen to the U.S. economy."

Home furnishings, which bring in about 20 percent of store revenue and 40 percent of catalog, has been Penney's weakest department. Sales of window coverings fell 10 percent since the recession began and bath items were down nearly as much.

But Howell said there are some bright spots. "Our mens' business is leading the whole company," he said, noting the addition of the Haggard name brand last year and strength of Levi's and Penney's Stafford labels.

Sales of hosiery, lingerie, dresses, outerwear, misses and junior sportswear sales were also up in the first half of August, continuing a three-month string of improved showings among womens' lines, Penney's largest business.

Analyst Hood said more name brands could help Penney. "When you're trying to compete with department stores that have national brands, you need them," he said.

Penney has taken some steps toward that end. It announced recently it was adding Revlon Inc. products to its cosmetics counter and has several more name brands in sight.

But Howell said the company plans to keep its own labels for about 70 percent of its product mix.

Leaves hospital

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Actress Dame Judith Anderson is out of the hospital after an 18-day stay for an undisclosed illness.

The 93-year-old Australian native was released Thursday from St. Francis Hospital, where she was admitted Aug. 4 for tests.

Weight Loss Surprises Researchers

WASHINGTON — A nutrition organization was hopeful that a nutritionally complete "hi-tech" food tablet would help erase world hunger problems, until a study revealed that one of the ingredients could cause significant weight loss.

Although other studies and scientists may not agree, researchers in Europe found that the ingredient, a natural plant colloid, actually caused people to lose weight, even though specifically instructed not to alter normal eating patterns, according to one study published in the prestigious British Journal of Nutrition. Researchers in an earlier study had speculated that the weight loss was due to a decrease in the intestinal absorption of calories.

While the development of the product called Food Source One, a project of National Dietary Research, would not be used to successfully fulfill its original goal, the formula which has since been improved with other natural colloids has been a windfall for some overweight people. A Daytona Beach, Florida woman fighting a weight battle for 12 years used the product on the recommendation of her physician and lost 30 pounds. She stated, "Not only have I lost 30 pounds but my cholesterol has dropped from 232 to 143. I have two closets full of clothes which have not fit me in two years that I can now wear." In a separate report, a telephone interview revealed that a Wilmington, North Carolina pharmacist lost 14 pounds in 3 weeks on the product and was never hungry.

Food Source One tablets are part of National Dietary Research's comprehensive plan to bring a rapid end to obesity in this country. A variety of nutritionally sound diet plans, specially prepared by NDR, accompany each bottle and provide a natural, drug-free alternative for confronting the problem of obesity.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Odsol

Your Birthday

Aug. 24, 1991

The possibilities for advancement in your chosen field of endeavor look very hopeful in the year ahead. Individuals who like you will be doing everything they can to assist you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you do not manage critical assignments skillfully today, you could compound your own problems. Something that starts out relatively simple may turn into a big headache. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Usually, you're not a showoff, but today you might try to upstage your friends in order to win attention to yourself. This is a role you won't handle effectively.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Conditions in general are subject to swift changes today. Make the most of opportunities when they present themselves, because they might be suddenly withdrawn.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) This is one of those days when you may be inclined to seek advice from individuals who are equipped to help you the least. If you fail to screen your sources, you could regret it later.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you have to borrow something today that the lender treasures, treat it with respect. There are indications you could be careless with the possessions of others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your attitude will have a strong effect on your companions today. If you are uncertain or indecisive, it could cause them to begin to question their own judgment as well.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're not likely to perform well the tasks you find distasteful today. Rather than attempt them, it might be wiser to postpone them until you're in a better frame of mind.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's good to be optimistic today, but it must be tempered with realism and practicality. Try not to build your expectations upon false premises.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you depend a little too heavily upon chance and luck to get you over the rough spots today, disappointment is possible. These are not allies one can totally rely on at this time.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Sometimes, we can get by pretending we are knowledgeable about something which we really aren't. Today, however, you must have the facts to back you up, because someone might call your bluff.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Being careless or indifferent today and making miscalculations in your commercial affairs could turn out to be more costly than usual. Keep your focus on what you're doing at all times.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It might seem like the harder you try to please others, the less you are appreciated today. To spare yourself frustration, stay away from those who you know take you for granted.

Your Birthday

Aug. 25, 1991

You may establish several interesting new alliances in the year ahead. Two could be of immense value while a third will be significant, but not very dependable.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Independence is an admirable quality, but it's not too appealing when you're supposed to be a constructive participant in a joint endeavor. Try to keep these facts straight in your mind today. Virgo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Virgo's Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Conditions could shift in a peculiar manner today to where you'll be required to shoulder another's burdens. You'll not be blameless, however, in letting this occur.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) An overbearing acquaintance could aggravate you today by trying to pressure you into doing something you're adverse to doing. Refuse, but don't overreact.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today's worldly frustrations should not be brought home with you. Either solve your problems where they originate or leave them on the front steps.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There is a possibility you may knowingly do something today that caused you trouble in the past. If you do, the end results will be similar to what you previously experienced.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Requesting financial assistance today from one with whom you have not settled an overdue account isn't apt to evoke a positive response. Either do without or look elsewhere.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's best not to get involved in a partnership today if there isn't parity among the participants. Each partner must have equal input.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Responsibilities you have cleverly swept under the rug recently could raise a bit of dust today. If you don't take care of them now, the fallout could grow in intensity.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Through thoughtlessness on your behalf, you may do something today that would impose a severe imposition on a friend, causing this individual's opinion of you to be lowered. Be careful.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be certain in advance that an objective you set for yourself will provide you with something you truly want today. Hollow victories are useless.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Do not adopt too rigid a position on mundane issues today, because others may find this offensive. Keep things in perspective, and don't give importance to the insignificant.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You might not be a very good manager of your own resources today, which is bad enough. But butting into another's affairs and messing things up is even worse.

Priest plans special Mass for couples

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A priest perplexed by the divorce rate has invited all the couples he married over the past 47 year to a special Mass Sunday — just to see how they're doing.

The Rev. Charles Ceradini, 88, invited about 1,000 couples. More than 200 have accepted, he said.

"I'll congratulate them for holding to the indissolubility of marriage," he said. "I'll tell them that it is good that they are still together and still love each other."

Ceradini was pastor of the Mother of Good Counsel Roman Catholic Church from 1940 until his retirement in 1973. He still presides over an occasional wedding, the last in 1987.

The priest said he doesn't know how many of the couples he married still are together. The nation's divorce rate puzzles him.

"I guess it's the times," he said.

$100 million suit filed

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Motown Records founder Berry Gordy has filed a $100 million libel suit against the author of a Michael Jackson biography that alleges Gordy cheated artists out of profits.

"Stuff is just made up out of the clear blue sky," the 61-year-old Gordy said of the best seller "Michael Jackson: The Magic and the Madness" by J. Randy Taraborrelli.

Groups urge ethics action

AUSTIN (AP) — A proposal to put a state ethics commission in the Texas Constitution will face opposition from Common Cause unless it's changed before the Nov. 5 election on the issue.

Common Cause, Public Citizen and the League of Women Voters on Thursday said Gov. Ann Richards should put an ethics clean-up bill on lawmakers' agenda this special session.

But Richards' press secretary, Bill Cryer, said she is unlikely to do so. The governor has said she wants to keep the session as short as possible.

"If we added ethics to the call, it would likely turn into a multi-month session. It's a very controversial bill," Cryer said.

Tom Smith, Texas director of Public Citizen, said, "If they've got enough time to discuss whether we ought to sell beer in the stadium in Irving ... they've got enough time to fix the ethics legislation."

Smith said the Legislature should take action even if Richards does not put the issue on the special session agenda, which she controls. He said that lawmakers may debate and pass a constitutional amendment without action by the governor.

Common Cause's executive committee has voted to not support the constitutional amendment as currently proposed for the Nov. 5 ballot, said Suzy Woodford, the group's state executive director.

Smith and Evelyn Bonavita, president of the League of Women Voters, said their groups had not made a decision on supporting the amendment.

Public Citizen is leaning against it, Smith said. Ms. Bonavita said the league would decide in September.

"Once it's in the constitution in this form, it's going to be a lot harder to change it," Ms. Woodford said.

If the amendment is rejected, an ethics commission still would be created under the law but would not be in the constitution, she said.

A law can be changed through legislative action. Changing the constitutional amendment after it is approved would require not only a two-thirds vote of the Legislature but a vote of the people.

A major concern of the watchdog groups is that ethics commission members would be chosen from nominees suggested by Democratic and Republican lawmakers. Members of the Legislature may be the most common subjects of ethics inquiries.

Smith said six of the eight ethics commission members would have to vote to take action, start an investigation, audit a lawmaker or implement a rule. He said the commission would be a "toothless watchdog."

The eight members also could deadlock, Ms. Woodford said.

MS can mimic other nerve disorders

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been told by two different doctors I have multiple sclerosis; however, none of the lab data support their diagnosis. Can you offer a suggestion for my slurred speech, numbness, blurred vision, muscle weakness and very poor coordination?

DEAR READER: Multiple sclerosis is a progressive neurological disorder, marked by a spotty degeneration of the insulating material (myelin) on nerves. The cause is unknown, but some experts believe that MS is due to an immune malfunction. The disease starts insidiously with numbness of the extremities, clumsiness, slight weakness, double vision, fatigue, problems with bladder control, poor coordination and mild emotional disturbances.

United States, the California black-legged tick in the West and the lone star tick in the South Central United States. These ticks have a two-year life cycle of three phases (larva, nymph and adult); the ticks feed once at each phase.

The usual host for the feeding tick is the white-footed mouse (which, for unknown reasons, never gets Lyme disease). Deer can also provide a blood meal for the ticks. Humans, not ordinarily part of the tick's life cycle, can inadvertently be bitten by these tiny creatures, which are usually no larger than a pinhead.

Not all ticks carry the Lyme spirochete but those that do can infect humans, causing disease and a formidable array of symptoms.

Lyme disease is classified into three stages. Stage 1 occurs within a month of the bite and is marked by fatigue, fever and flu-like symptoms (malaise, achiness, chills and headache). About 60 percent of infected persons develop a characteristic rash (erythema chronicum migrans) at or near the bite. The ECM rash, which is diagnostic when it appears, is an oval or circular expanding rash that may have a clear center ("bull's eye" appearance); it is usually painless but may burn or tingle.

Stage 1 Lyme disease can be cured with a three- to six-week course of oral antibiotics but during the early weeks of the disease, it is difficult to diagnose. The patient may not be aware of having been bitten by a tick, symptoms may be slight (and disregarded) or the diagnostic rash may not appear. Physicians unfamiliar with Lyme disease may incorrectly assume that infected patients suffer from trivial virus infections.

Blood tests for Lyme disease — the enzyme-linked immunosorbent assay (ELISA) and Western Blot — may turn positive during Stage 1 but up to 60 percent of infected patients fail to show positive tests. Therefore, while all authorities urge treatment if the ECM rash is present, many experts also recommend antibiotic therapy for patients in endemic (high-risk) areas who suffer vague symptoms of "flu" in the spring and fall, seasons when real influenza is essentially nonexistent.

Stage 2 Lyme disease occurs from one to two months after the bite, when the spirochetes have had a chance to spread into the body. This is the time when varied symptoms appear.

- Eyes: double vision, conjunctivitis, aversion to light, blindness, increased eye pressure and many other manifestations of disease.
- Nervous system: impaired concentration, personality changes, bizarre behavior, faulty memory, neuropathy (nerve damage), carpal tunnel syndrome (tingling and numbness of one hand), paralysis, vertigo, Bell's palsy, meningitis, seizures and hearing impairment, to mention a few.
- Heart: electrical blockage, leading to slow pulse.
- Miscellaneous: sore joints, hepatitis, rash, inflamed testicles.

Treatment of Stage 2 with antibiotics is not consistently satisfactory; expert opinion remains divided about which antibiotic to use and for how long.

Stage 3 Lyme disease occurs two to 12 months after the tick bite and is characterized by severe arthritis and a plethora of neurological symptoms, including dementia and afflictions resembling Parkinson's disease and multiple sclerosis; also, bone pain and neuropathy are common. Antibiotic treatment is woefully unsatisfactory.

In summary, Lyme disease is a serious, non-fatal infection that exists worldwide. Laboratory testing is often inconclusive. Treatment of the late stages is difficult or impossible at present.

Over time, the disease worsens and other nerve disorders appear, including poor judgment, lack of attentiveness, slurred speech, blindness, tremor, severe weakness, impotence and loss of muscle tissue. Late in the disease, marked disability may result, as well as an inability to control elimination.

The course of MS is highly variable and unpredictable. Unexpected remissions may appear, many patients live 25 years or longer. There is no treatment.

Although advanced cases are not difficult to diagnose, early disease can be confused with strokes and other nerve disorders, such as amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (Lou Gehrig's disease). The major diagnostic tool is the MRI scan, a test using electromagnetic waves that form images on X-ray film, which enables specialists to see structures within the skull. In MS, the scan shows typical "plaques," areas where myelin has disappeared.

I don't know why your tests are inconclusive. Ordinarily, MRI scanning demonstrates the demyelination which, in conjunction with the symptoms, establishes the diagnosis.

If your diagnosis appears to be in doubt, I suggest a referral to a neurology clinic at a teaching hospital where super-specialists can establish what is wrong with you and suggest ways to help you cope with your handicap.

My advice to patients who suspect they have Lyme disease is to find a physician who is familiar with the affliction; such specialists are often affiliated with the Infectious Diseases Departments of major medical centers and would choose to obtain ELISA and/or Western blot blood tests, followed by antibiotic treatment if there is a likelihood of infection.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Help I — Physical Illness." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

United States, the California black-legged tick in the West and the lone star tick in the South Central United States. These ticks have a two-year life cycle of three phases (larva, nymph and adult); the ticks feed once at each phase.

Judge to rule in suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge who will decide how much Art Buchwald should get for the story idea to Eddie Murphy's "Coming to America" said Paramount Pictures cannot sift through files from one of Hollywood's top talent agencies.

Paramount said it wanted to subpoena talent contracts from the William Morris Agency — whose clients included Buchwald and his partner Alain Bernheim — to establish what are typical compensation rates in Hollywood.

Superior Court Judge Harvey Schneider said the contracts had no bearing on the case. He said Paramount should talk to other movie studios for guidance.

The judge in the three-year battle previously ruled that Paramount had used Buchwald's story idea for the 1988 comedy, about an African prince who comes to the United States in search of romance.

Woman in alleged murder plot to be tried by state

HOUSTON (AP) — While cheerleaders work on routines to usher in a new season in football-crazed Texas, a Houston-area woman heads for trial, accused of trying to arrange a murder so her daughter could win a place on a high school cheerleading squad.

Tape recordings of conversations with Wanda Webb Holloway, her former brother-in-law and an undercover police officer were expected to be key evidence in the murder-for-hire and attempted kidnapping case.

Mrs. Holloway, 37, described by police as "the ultimate stage mother," is accused of plotting the murder of Verna Heath, 38, the mother of her daughter's chief rival for a spot on the Channelview High School cheerleading squad. She has pleaded innocent and remains free on $10,000 bond.

Shanna Harper, Mrs. Holloway's 13-year-old daughter, had lost out to Amber for two years on the junior high's nine-girl squad in the blue-collar community outside of Houston.

The first year Shanna didn't make the tryouts. In the second year, she was disqualified for unfairly campaigning for the student vote.

In February, the two eighth-graders were to try out for the high school's Falcons cheerleading squad.

Prosecutors say Mrs. Holloway, who has no criminal record, wanted to guarantee her daughter a spot on the squad by having both Mrs. Heath and Amber Heath killed. They say she later decided she only could afford to pay the $2,500 to kill the mother.

Harper, who has a previous felony conviction, contacted authorities about the deal and an undercover officer posed as the hitman. Harper later gave the officer a pair of diamond earrings valued at $1,500 that he said Mrs. Holloway wanted to use as a down payment for the slaying.

If convicted on the murder-for-hire charge, Mrs. Holloway could be sentenced to life in prison. The attempted aggravated kidnapping charge carries a jail term of up to 20 years.

Anderson said he was unsure whether either of the teen-age girls would be called to testify.

McKinney said his client has been through a rough summer.

"Obviously it's stressful for her. Obviously anyone facing these charges would be upset," McKinney said.

The arrest Jan. 30 and disclosure of the nature of the charges prompted a media frenzy to the blue-collar, middle-class area east of Houston.

"The media respite over the past few months has certainly been nice," McKinney said, adding that Mrs. Holloway's life since then has been "as normal as it can be, under the circumstances."

Tony Harper, who was divorced from Mrs. Holloway in 1980 after six years of marriage, sued his ex-wife in March for custody of Shanna and her brother, Anthony. Harper contended the children needed counseling because of the incident and that Mrs. Holloway was unwilling to provide it.

The parents were awarded joint custody, but Anthony, now 18, opted to live primarily with his father while Shanna splits her time between the two homes.

Since then, Harper has filed motions claiming that Mrs. Holloway violated terms of the custody ruling by taking her daughter on vacation during a period when Shanna was to be with him, McKinney said.

"It's just more in a continuing strain in Tony Harper's continuing plan to deny her her children," McKinney said. "That will probably not be addressed until after the trial."

Meanwhile, the two teen-agers began their freshman year at Channelview High last Tuesday. School officials would not say whether either girl will be cheering for the Falcons.

Lower cost vaccinations don't work

ATLANTA (AP) — Hepatitis B vaccines administered in low doses to cut costs left firefighters and police in four cities with little or no protection from the deadly disease, federal health officials say.

The national Centers for Disease Control reported Thursday that in each case, independent contractors administered shots under the skin rather than in muscle, and used one-tenth the recommended dose.

The result was disease protection as low as 24 percent, requiring more vaccinations, the CDC said.

The problem may have arisen because an older hepatitis B vaccine, made with plasma instead of genetically manufactured, could be administered either in small doses between skin layers or in larger doses deep in muscle.

WTC sports programs get two new coaches

Student athletes at Western Texas College will find a pair of new faces in the sports department when they report for classes this fall.

Milton Ham, former Snyder High School coach, has replaced golf coach and athletic director Dave Foster, who left WTC to take a like post at the University of North Texas, and Kelly Green, first-year men's basketball coach, will occupy the former office of Tony Mauldin, who took the head coaching job at Abilene Christian University following last season.

Still in their same posts are women's basketball coach Kelly Chadwick and rodeo coach Bob Doty.

Ham, who took over for Foster Aug. 1, reports that most of the 1990-91 Westerner golf team should be back for the fall season.

Kelly Green is new coach for WTC's men basketball

Kelly Green takes over as men's basketball coach at Western Texas College this season, replacing Tony Mauldin, who left to accept the head coaching post at Abilene Christian University.

Green comes to Snyder from Borger, where he served as basketball coach at Frank Phillips College. He guided the Plainsmen to a 12-19 season in 1989-90, before helping them to "Nearly all of them have said they'll be back," Ham reported.

The returnees include Pampa standouts Mark Wood and Ryan Teague, Houston's Greg Slicker and Austin golfer Jon Roseberry.

The Westerners finished fifth in the five-team Western Junior College Athletic Conference, but barely missed an at-large berth in the national juco tournament last spring.

Green, hired in April to take over for Mauldin, inherited a slim two-man roster, but has worked to refill WTC uniforms for the upcoming season.

Snyder guard Tracy Brazier and Wichita Falls point guard Chad Landrum are the only returnees from the Westerners' 14-15 squad of a year past.

New recruits include sophomore transfer students Will Watkins, a 6-5 guard from Central Wyoming College; 6-2 guard Terrance Ross from Holmes College in Mississippi; and Michael Crowe, a Dallas native from Northeast Junior College in Colorado.

Add to that a crop of eight freshman signees, including 6-7 forward Ben Berry of Columbus, Ohio; Arkansas state high jump champ Jonathan Gaston of Camden, Ark.; and Smithfield, N.C. standout Brent Murphy, and the roster at WTC is complete.

Chadwick's Lady Dusters have been out of the Region V tournament for two straight years, the longest drought of the coach's career.

Green is married to the former Ginger Ratzlaff of Mannford, Okla.

Ham named golf coach

Milton Ham was recently hired as the golf coach and athletic director at Western Texas College. He will also serve as pro shop manager in charge of the golf course.

Ham, who was teaching and coaching in the public schools prior to being hired, is also a former mayor.

A 1957 graduate of Snyder High School, he was a three-sport letterman and was named to the all-state football team two consecutive years.

Ham attended Texas Christian University on a football scholarship and played on two Southwest Conference championship teams

(See HAM, Page 2C)

Scott named coordinator at WTC

Bob Scott has been named as Special Needs Coordinator at Western Texas College effective with the start of the 1991 fall semester.

He is filling a position made possible through a federal grant, the Carl D. Perkins Vocational and Applied Technical Education Act. He will provide career guidance and counseling services to special populations interested in or who are enrolled at Western Texas College. These individuals include the handicapped, educationally and economically disadvantaged, and individuals of limited English proficiency. He will also assist in recruitment activities, vocational assessment, testing, and the placement of special population individuals into appropriate occupational training programs.

Scott received the Bachelor of Science Degree from Howard Payne University in 1973 and the Master of Science Degree from Abilene Christian University in 1980. He has also studied at the University of North Texas in Denton and has had extensive training in social work. He is a certified social worker.

He comes to Western Texas College from Eastern New Mexico University-Roswell where he served as Program Director heading the vocational training program for the developmentally disabled as well as having taught child development, independent living/job skills, adolescent psychology and abnormal psychology.

He has worked for the Texas Rehabilitation Commission, Association for Retarded Citizens of the United States, Texas Department of Human Resources, and Big Country Youth Services Inc. in Abilene.

He has recruited a team for 1991-92 that should end that streak.

Freshmen coming in to augment the five returning sophomores include 5-6 point guard Angela Littlejohn from Canyon Randall High School, 5-5 guard Tami Kajs of Crowell and Jennifer Martin from Amarillo Palo Duro.

Cynthia French of Class 4A playoff contender Stephenville will also join the WTC ranks in 1991 as will 5-11 post Andrea Kearney of Wharton and 5-9 guard Angela Murry from Hawkins.

Coming back as part-time starters from last season's 9-21 squad are Needville standout Sherry Hoffpauir, Merry Brown of Del Rio, Navasota's La Shunta Jackson and Diane Mendez of Canyon.

The Dusters' schedule begins

Nov. 7-9 when they compete in the South Plains Classic at Levelland.

Their first home contest is Nov. 18 when WTC hosts Cisco Junior College.

Coach Bob Doty and his 1991-92 rodeo team will begin gearing up to earn a spot at the College National Finals Rodeo in Bozeman, Mont. when practice resumes.

Daughtry will teach math at WTC

Juli Daughtry will join the WTC faculty this year as a new math instructor.

She and her husband have relocated to Snyder from Jour-danton, a community located south of San Antonio.

She has completed seven years as a public school teacher, most recently at Jour-danton, where she taught high school math.

She is a high school graduate of Floydada, graduating in 1976. She holds a BS degree in math from Texas Tech University and her masters in school administration from Texas A&I and Kingsville.

She holds teaching certificates for both the elementary and secondary levels and notes she has instructed at the high school level in schools ranging from Class 1-A to 5-A in size.

Her husband, Marc, is employed with Halliburton in Snyder.

LAST MINUTES QUESTIONS — Gill Flee, psychology, sociology professor and counselor, was busy this week answering last minute questions before students registered for the new fall term. (SDN Staff Photo)

Duane Hood to serve on national advisory council for fraternity

Dr. Duane Hood, WTC dean of student services, was elected to serve on Phi Theta Kappa's National Advisory Council, a post that will lead to presidency of the organization, at PTK's national convention in Chicago last spring. The position is a three-year term. Dr. Hood will begin as secretary the first year, then advance to vice-president the second year. He will conclude his term of office as president. Dr. Hood is presently the regional coordinator for District 1 in the Texas/New Mexico Region. Eight PTK members and local advisors Drs. Duane and Mary Hood attended the 73rd annual International Convention. It was held March 14-17. WTC's Psi Zeta is one of the most active of the 70-plus Phi Theta Kappa chapters in Texas. PTK is the only nationally recognized honor society for community-junior colleges. Hood notes that PTK is "an opportunity to make friends that will last a lifetime. It also provides an excellent addition to a resume and a chance for scholarships to four-year universities." On campus, membership is by invitation only. Students must have completed 12 semester hours while maintaining a 3.2 grade point average.

Financial aid programs are available for WTC students

A wide variety of financial aid is available to Western Texas College students and those interested are urged to contact personnel with the financial aid office, located in the south wing of the Learning Resource Center. Dennis Carlton, financial aid officer, stressed that early application is the most important aspect of receiving aid. Students who qualify for aid have this amount credited first against tuition and fees during registration. Next, funds are applied against payment of campus housing, if applicable. If there is financial aid remaining after both tuition fees and housing are paid, the student can also get a credit to the WTC bookstore to help pay for textbooks. If the financial aid award does not cover the student's total college bill, the business office will send them a statement with instructions for paying the remaining balance. According to Carlton, students needing help in paying for the cost of an education should begin by picking up a 1991-92 Family Financial Statement (FFS) packet from the financial aid office in the Learning Resource Center. The form enables the student to apply for money from the federal government, state agencies, colleges and other programs. The student should file the FFS as soon as possible, he said, since many universities and agencies have strict deadlines. The information needed to complete the FFS is basically the same as the records kept for a tax return. Carlton suggested all students interested in financial aid should apply as early as the spring prior to their first fall term at WTC. He said this is best done as soon as their tax returns or the returns of their parents are completed. He stressed the need to complete the entire form. If only the federal questionnaire is complete the student may not be considered for state or local aid. The determination as to who will receive a Federal Pell Grant is not based solely on income, he noted. A complex formula, using several aspects of the family and student, is used to determine the need. If a student does not receive a Pell Grant, that student may still qualify for some other form of aid, such as work-study, state or local aid. Western Texas College scholarships are awarded in most departments on campus. A brochure listing the various grants and scholarships available at WTC can be found along with the FFS in Carlton's office. Carlton advises transferring students to contact the Financial Aid Department at the university they will be attending as soon as possible also. He said he believes most people fail to receive financial aid simply because they never apply. He stressed again that family income is not the sole criteria for receiving such aid and the need to apply early. The "last minute" syndrome will not alter the student's request, but may delay processing and many of the monetary sources may be depleted.

WTC's newspaper will be published six times again

Six issues of the campus newspaper, The Western Texan, are again planned during the fall term. Newspapers are distributed approximately every other Monday during the term. Publication dates are Sept. 16 and 30, Oct. 13 and 28, and Nov. 11 and 25. The Western Texan is distributed free on campus and mailed to some 1,300 subscribers. Among those receiving copies are all Snyder, Hermligh and Ira school teachers, plus educators in Colorado City, Roby, Rotan, Jayton and Borden County. The newspaper is provided free of charge to all requesting copies. Those interested in receiving the Texan should contact journalism adviser Donny Brown at 573-8511, ext. 273. At spring competition sponsored by the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association, the Texan was named second best overall newspaper for Division 3. Also, Texan staffers won nine individual awards. The Division 3 category for newspapers includes two- to four-year colleges with an enrollment of 3,000 students or fewer. More than 30 colleges located in the state were included in this category. In the newspaper awards, a first place went to the staff for news page design. Two second-place honors were won in the news photo "live" competition and in the "canned" competition for computer generated infographics. The newspaper staff also won five third-place awards in the canned competition. These categories were sports, single ads, ad campaign and illustrations and feature sports photos. An honorable mention was received in editorial writing. In the Division 3 newspaper category, first place went to "The Flare" from Kilgore College, second place to WTC's "Texan" and third place to "El Paisano" of Midland College. An honorable mention went to TC News at Texarkana.

Literary magazine revived

New submissions for the fall publication of "Aquifer," WTC's literary magazine revived during the 1990-91 school year, will be accepted through Oct. 18. The publication will be distributed on campus in late November. In addition, subscribers to the college newspaper, The Western Texan, will receive a copy with the final issue of the fall term, to be mailed Nov. 25. All students enrolled at WTC are eligible to submit entries, which may include short stories, poems and essays. In addition, photographs will be accepted, and, later in the fall term, art students will be illustrating submitted works. Writing entries must be works previously unpublished. Two typewritten copies, double-spaced, should be submitted. The author's name should be included on each page. Entries may be submitted to any faculty editors of "Aquifer."

They are English instructors Bill McGlothing, Dick Lancaster and Janet Halbert and journalism instructor Donny Brown. Last year's "Aquifer" won third place in Division 3 competition sponsored by the Texas Intercollegiate Press Association. In addition, three students' works were singled out, including a first place in the short story division; third place in the essay and opinion piece division; and an honorable mention in the poetry contest.

WTC swimming pool to reopen

The WTC swimming pool will reopen for the fall term Monday and persons interested in individual lap swimming are encouraged to now purchase a swimming pass which will be good for both the fall and spring term. A pass good for both semesters costs $50. The pass allows its holder to use the pool during lap swimming hours as well as the weight and conditioning equipment housed in the WTC Physical Education Building. The facilities may be used on a periodic basis also for a fee of $2 per visit. The pool will be open for lap swimming, with a lifeguard available, from 6:30-8 a.m. Monday through Friday; from noon until 1 p.m. Monday through Friday; and from 7-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Those interested in using the pool area for group activities should contact Mike Harrison at 573-8511, ext. 290.

Evening art class planned at WTC

An evening class of art instruction will be offered this fall by WTC for both art majors as well as interested members of the community. The class, Art 232, will meet from 6:30-9:20 p.m. each Tuesday and will count for three hours college credit. The instructor will be John Gibson. "We haven't offered a night painting class for a while," noted Gibson, "and this one will be for both art majors and for folks in the community. It's a relaxed, fun class." Instruction will include art techniques ranging from old masters to contemporary and students will paint in oil, watercolor and acrylic. Emphasis will be given to "seeing accurately," Gibson said. Students will paint each week in the large studio area contained in the Fine Arts Building and Gibson said space will allow him to individualize the instruction.

To qualify for the rodeo, cowboys and cowgirls had to finish the season in either first or second place in their event in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association's Southwest Region. This year's Rodeo season begins Sept. 19 when the Westerners attend the Eastern New Mexico NIRA event. Three key TJCTA posts in 1991-1992 will be held by WTC faculty members

Three key posts for the Texas Junior College Teacher's Association, including the position of president-elect, will be held by Western Texas College faculty members this coming year.

TJCTA's membership includes some 6,200 junior college teachers and administrators from throughout the state. The organization's challenge is to represent these faculty members before the State Legislature.

Marilyn Lancaster, WTC English professor, was elected president-elect of TJCTA at the group's 44th annual convention in Dallas last spring. She will serve as president-elect for the 1991-92 school year, then hold the office of president for the year 1992-93.

Other duties of the office include serving on the TJCTA executive committee, which makes appointments to the various TJCTA committees.

Mrs. Lancaster will also offer testimony on behalf of Texas junior colleges to the State Legislature and its related committees during the 1993 session of the legislature. She served as vice president of TJCTA last school year.

Dr. Ed Barkowsky, chairman for the Communications and Letters Division, was named this summer to serve on one of TJCTA's three standing committees. His appointment was made by current TJCTA President Steve Dutton.

Barkowsky was named to a three-year appointment to the 12-member Professional Development Committee. TJCTA's other standing committees include its Legislative Committee and its Membership Services Committee.

Barkowsky's committee considers such professional development issues as merit pay and the impact of part-time instructors among the ranks of junior college faculty members.

Also serving TJCTA for another year is WTC English professor Richard Lancaster, who will again chair the Editorial Review Board.

This committee serves as the policy making arm for the organization's publication, the TJCTA Messenger.

The faculty campus representative for TJCTA at WTC is Gerald Corkran. He was recognized at the spring convention as having achieved at least 85 percent membership on the local campus.

Some 30 faculty members from WTC attended the group's convention in Dallas last year and another large contingent is expected to travel to Houston for this year's event.

Lancaster as the president-elect is joined by other TJCTA officers named last spring. They are Brian Dille of Odessa College, vice president; Scott Nelson of North Harris County College, secretary; and Patricia Green of Temple Junior College, treasurer.

Many activities slated for students at WTC

A busy round of activities for both freshmen and sophomores are planned as the 1991 fall term begins at Western Texas College.

The events have been planned by the WTC Student Senate to acquaint incoming freshmen with the campus and to establish student leaders for the coming year.

The dormitory will open at 2 p.m. this Sunday, Aug. 25, for freshmen and the senate has planned a "Fish Out of Water" event featuring outdoor games. These will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The dorm will open for returning sophomores at 10 a.m. Monday.

Registration for the fall term also begins Monday with sophomore students registering from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m.

On Tuesday, Aug. 27, freshmen students will register from 8:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m.

Tuesday night, the first dance of the year is planned, with all students invited. It begins at 8:30 p.m. Dances are scheduled approximately once each month in the student center throughout the year.

Classes for the fall term begin Wednesday, Aug. 28.

On-campus apartments are available

For students who meet specific criteria, Western Texas College offers on-campus apartments rather than traditional dormitory housing.

The apartments are available to all students, but preference is given to those enrolled in quarterly other than per-semester programs, to foreign students, and to students living out-of-state or in-state students living a far distance from home.

Meal tickets are available but not required for apartment residents.

Each apartment is fully furnished except for a television. Students provide linen and other personal items.

To rent an apartment, a deposit of $110 is required. The cost of the apartments is $495 per semester, which must be paid in full at registration.

An apartment file must be completed before the student moves in. This includes the deposit amount and filling out an apartment contract, medical form, proof of insurance coverage and immunization records.

College officials recommend that students consider an updated immunization for measles.

The events to welcome students continue Wednesday with a volleyball challenge at 6:30 p.m. To qualify, teams must consist of three freshmen and three sophomores.

The second week of class for the fall term will begin with the traditional Labor Day holiday on Monday, Sept. 2.

Classes will resume on Tuesday and a "Roundup Reception" is planned by the senate during the 10:45 a.m. activity period that day.

During the welcome back to school activities, both freshmen and sophomores are encouraged to petition for student senate offices. Some 25 senators serve the student body on various committees during the year.

Senate officers, elected in the spring, are Brad Loesch of Fort Worth, president; Mark Carroll of Hawley, vice president; Veronica Rivas of Snyder, secretary; and Lei Holcomb of Snyder, treasurer.

The final day to petition for a senate seat is Sept. 6. Student body elections will be held Sept. 10-11 and the first meeting of the new WTC Student Senate will be Sept. 17.

In addition, activities leading to the selection of four new cheerleaders are planned during (See ACTIVITIES, Page 6C)

WTC will offer 5 swimming related PE courses this fall

Western Texas College will offer five swimming-related P.E. classes this fall, to include, for the first time in several years, scuba diving. All classes are offered for college credit.

The scuba diving course will meet each Tuesday and Thursday evening for approximately one-half of the semester. Class times will be from 6-9:15 p.m.

Instructor will be Richard Reed from Midland. Class members will be required to provide their own masks, fins and snorkel.

Also offered as an evening conditioning class as well as a regular P.E. class during the day is aqua aerobics. Three sections are available, including the evening Tuesday-Thursday class, meeting from 5:25-6:40 p.m. The other classes are available on a Monday-Wednesday schedule from 1-2 p.m. and from 4:10-5:25 p.m.

Other swimming-related P.E. classes are:

—Two sections of beginning-advanced swimming, meeting on a Tuesday-Thursday schedule from 8:40-10:45 a.m. and 1-2:15 p.m.

—One section of beginning-advanced diving, meeting Tuesday-Thursday from 2:15-3:30 p.m.

—And advanced aquatics, meeting Monday-Wednesday from 2:15-3:0 p.m. This class will qualify those completing it for their lifeguard certification.

Registration due now for TASP test

Freshmen entering Western Texas College should consider the state-mandated TASP requirements and how these might affect their fall class load.

All three areas of the TASP exam — reading, mathematics and writing — must be passed.

The TASP test will be offered this fall on Sept. 21 and Nov. 16. Registration must be completed in advance.

Any entering freshmen who has passed three semester hours of college credit prior to the fall of 1989 is exempt from TASP requirements.

Students must pass all three parts of the TASP before taking more than 60 college credit hours.

In addition to TASP, entering students at WTC must take the college's own placement tests for reading, math and writing. These are administered year-round and may be scheduled through the counselor's office.

Enrolling students must pass these tests before they are allowed to enroll in classes identified as "college level."

Those failing the WTC placement tests are enrolled in college "preparatory" classes. Such classes are designed to improve the student's skill levels in either math, reading or writing.

The classes do not count toward college credit, however, and are offered to prepare students for "college level" work.

WTC students who have taken the college's placement testing may enroll in up to 15 regular college credit hours during the fall if they take TASP during that semester.

English department plans fall presentations

Members of WTC's English Dept. will be making several presentations this fall, outlining the department's programs related to developmental English classes to their fellow professional educators.

Programs will be offered as part of meetings planned by both the Texas Association of Developmental Educators (TADE) and the Southwest Regional Conference on English sponsored by a division of the National Council of Teachers of English.

At the TADE meeting, scheduled in Amarillo Oct. 17-19, Dr. Ed Barkowsky, head of the English department, and Marilyn Lancaster, instructor, will profile a five-year study undertaken by the department to determine how students enrolled in developmental English classes fare in other college-level classes.

"One of the basic findings is that students enrolled in developmental classes ultimately get about as much college credit hours as a regular college student," noted Lancaster.

The "upshot" of this finding, she noted, reinforces the department's belief that students required to take developmental classes are generally only "academically inexperienced."

Barkowsky explained, "These are not students who are handicapped in any way, but rather

WTC's LRC is much more than library

WTC's Learning Resource Center isn't called a library any longer.

In addition to its thousands of books, it houses a computer lab and a reading center which is used for developmental reading students.

Also, the LRC houses a reference room complete with encyclopedias, research material, daily and weekly newspapers and periodicals.

The LRC contains also a microfilm area with magazine articles from past years stored and available. A copy machine is available to students and the library staff will make copies using the facility's microfilm copier. For both, the charge is 10 cents a copy.

The LRC also features an audio-visual department which will make copies of non-copyrighted cassette tapes for students at no cost. The students must provide a blank tape.

Cassette tape recorders are available from the circulation desk also, with a three-day limit for use.

The LRC's operational schedule is 8 a.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. Friday and 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday.

Management will offer five classes

The Western Texas College Management Program will be offering five courses this semester. They include principles of management, marketing, human resources management, human relations and a management seminar.

In addition, four management internships will be provided for area students who wish to pursue the associate applied science degree in management. Jack Price, WTC management program coordinator, stresses that both the marketing and human resources have both morning and evening sections. He said that these two courses focus on information that is valuable to managers and employees of area businesses and have been very popular because of this fact. Price also stated that the evening courses have been scheduled early in the week and set up to end no later than 8:50 p.m.

The WTC management program consists of 64 semester hours including both academic and vocational courses. Program enrollees (or management interns) receive up to 12 semester hours credit for concurrent employment experience. Graduates of the program are employed locally and elsewhere in a variety of occupational areas to include retail sales, banking and finance, small business ownership, food service, transportation, and energy.

those only lacking background."

Students enrolled in developmental English classes learn the basics of grammar and theme writing. The classes do not count toward college credit, but are designed to prepare the student for the freshman-level English 131 class.

Gerald Cockran, who heads the WTC reading program, is part of the Amarillo meeting also, serving as the chairman in charge of scheduling support programs at the conference.

Barkowsky and Lancaster are scheduled to repeat their program in Amarillo at a meeting of the Southwest Regional Conference on English in Las Cruces,

Noon music class offered

The WTC Fine Arts Division is offering a music class this fall which will meet during the noon hour and whose participants will comprise this year's WTC choir.

The choir will perform at at least two events this fall — a Pops Concert in October and the annual Christmas Happening in December.

Any interested persons, to include members of the community interested in the experience of performing with a choral group, are encouraged to enroll in Music 117. It will meet from noon until 1 p.m. each Monday and Wednesday.

Instructor for the class is Brent Hardegree, who notes that entering freshmen taking the class may count it towards their Human Development (HD) course requirement at WTC.

"I want to emphasize that (students) don't have to be a music major or, for that matter, have any previous choir experience."

Students will be performing musical styles ranging from popular music to the classes, Hardegree said.

He noted that scholarship monies are still available for those interested in being in the choir. Persons interested should contact Hardegree at 573-8511, ext. 323.

N.M. Oct. 24-25.

Also scheduled to speak at that meeting are instructors Richard Lancaster and Bill McGlothing.

The pair will profile the department's in-house student publication, "Sentenced," which includes writing from WTC English students enrolled in developmental classes.

Introduction to photography planned

Introduction to Photography (JOU 130) will be offered this fall at WTC, featuring the basic functions of a manual 35 mm camera as well as darkroom techniques for black and white film.

The course will meet on a Tuesday-Thursday schedule from 9:30-10:45 a.m. Instructor is Donny Brown, assistant professor of mass communications. "If you have a basic 33 mm camera and want to learn to operate it in some mode other than "automatic" or with a flash, this in the class for you," said Brown.

During the term, students learn about the relationship between shutter speeds and F-stops, controlling depth of field,

The newsletter, which is distributed on campus, is designed to allow the students a wider audience for their writing.

"The students do better when they realize they are writing for "real people" rather than just a teacher," Lancaster noted.

The publication was begun by the department last school year.

taking natural light photographs in both low and high-light situations, alternate flash photography techniques, photo composition and the uses of various filters and lenses.

Darkroom techniques include developing and printing 35 mm film. Other darkroom instruction includes compensating for over-and under-exposed negatives through the use of filters as well as the "tricks" of dodging and burning select areas of the negative.

Brown noted that the department has "loaner" cameras for out-of-class assignments for students who do not have their own camera.

Photography exhibit to open Monday

A photography exhibit by Bill Murchison, adjunct professor of photography at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin

(UTPB), will open Monday, Sept. 2, in the WTC Fine Arts Gallery located in the Fine Arts Building. The exhibit will remain in place until Sept. 27. The gallery is open to the public from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

GED or official transcript required

All high school graduates may be admitted to Western Texas College, but college officials remind that certain requirements must be met before students may register for class.

Students must provide an official transcript or GED to WTC, submit their scores from the ACT or SAT admission exam or take the college's placement test, and complete the application for admission.

WTC also offers an early admission program for high school seniors. Those who have completed their junior year may enroll in classes to earn college credit. Application forms for both regular and early admission are available in the Student Services office, located in the front of the Learning Resource Center.

Transfer students from another college must make application and present a transcript of their college record before they may register.

Registration for the fall term begins Monday, Aug. 26.

Placement testing may be completed during the summer by contacting the WTC counseling center in the Student Center.

Two cheerleader workshops are scheduled prior to cheerleader tryouts Sept. 17. The workshops are slated Sept. 12 and
