Club Hopes to Make This Year's Sale Greatest Yet

The annual Ozona Lions Club sale for the benefit of the Lighthouse for the Blind for local civic work will take place March 28th.

President J. A. Pelto announced that Lion Ernie Boyd is in charge of the sale and as in the past will set up a booth at the Post Office until afternoon when the town will be canvassed from house to house by Lion members.

Over nearly 25% last year the previous year but still feel that the amount is below what it should be with what other clubs have done in nearby Sonora and Lake.

President Pelto urged that citizens who had in mind buying a broom, mop, ironing board or the like, would refrain from buying until the sale took place.

A map of the town is being divided and Lions assigned to each one to try to make this year's sale the most complete the club has had. All Lion members are urged to begin making plans in order that they will be able to do duty in the sale on March 28th.

Vet Coming March 22 To Vaccinate Ozona Dogs Against Rabies

Dr. Don Price, San Angelo veterinarian, has tentatively set Friday, March 22, as the date he will spend the day in Ozona vaccinating dogs against rabies.

Dr. Price was here about a year ago and in a one-day stand vaccinated several hundred dogs. All dogs that have not been vaccinated in the last eight to ten months should now be immunized again. County Agent Pete Jacoby advised. Mr. Jacoby has made arrangements with the San Angelo vet to come here to immunize Ozona pets against the dread disease.

With the recent prevalence of rabies among foxes and other wild animals in the area, it is more important than ever to have domestic pets vaccinated, the agent said, and Ozona dog owners are invited to list their pets with County Agent Jacoby now for vaccination when the veterinarian comes. Plans now are for the vaccination program to be carried out at the vocational agriculture building, next to the Davidson gym. The fee will be the same as last year, $2 per animal, Mr. Jacoby said.

4-H Members Win More Than $8,000 In Livestock Shows

7 Champs, 3 Reserve Champions In Major Shows of State

Crockett County 4-H Club members concluded their most successful year at the San Angelo Fat Stock Show this past week.

Thirty 4-H club members pocketed over eight thousand dollars in premium money on their prize winning livestock this year. County Agent Pete Jacoby, sponsor and director of 4-H activities, reported. On breeding sheep, club members won six championships on individual and group classes and two trophies. In fat lambs, members won one championship and three reserve championships at major shows, plus having a number of high selling lambs at the big shows.

Judging teams in the year just completed racked up fourteen first places in twenty contests, winning four State Championships.

Crockett County furnished the outstanding 4-H club boy in District 6, when Carl Conklin won the J. T. Rutherford Trophy.

The Crockett County 4-H Club won the first place Neatness Award Banner in the Junior Rambouillet Show at San Antonio this year, making four such banners won at that show in the past three years.

4-H members are already planning for feeding projects this coming year and will start training for judging contests in wool and mohair, grass and range judging, and livestock this week. Mr. Jacoby said.

Two judging teams in wool and livestock will compete at Sul Ross College in Alpine this Saturday. Crockett County 4-H teams brought home both first place banners in last year's contest at Alpine.

County Office Bldg., Courthouse Remodeling Costs County $20,000

Remodeling work necessary to make the county office building usable for offices for county officials and for rented office space after removal of the hospital from the building cost the county a total of $10,716.48, according to a report submitted by County Auditor Dick Kirby to the Commissioners Court.

Another estimated $10,000 is being spent on remodeling the courthouse to enlarge and air condition the clerk's office. Repair work was estimated at $5,050 and a bid from Ozona Butane Co. to install the air conditioning system at a total cost of $4,510 was approved by the court. County Judge Houston Smith disagreed, however, in the decision, pointing out that the money for such an expenditure is not available and the item was not included in the county budget.

Ozona Girl May Be Delegate to Education Group Meet In Calif.

Miss Daryne Alford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Quebe Alford of Ozona, a freshman student at North Texas State College in Denton, has received an unusual honor for a freshman by being selected as third alternate delegate to the national convention of the Association of Childhood Education, a club for elementary education majors.

Eight delegates will go from the North Texas chapter, of which the Ozona girl is a member, to the convention which is to be held in Los Angeles, Calif. If the delegate and first alternate in Miss Alford's group should fail to go, she will be in line for the trip and college officials have assured her that even if she misses this year's trip, she probably will be chosen next year to attend the convention in Washington, D. C.

The Education club at North Texas has a membership of nearly 800.

School Holiday Friday While Teachers Attend District Teachers Meet

Ozona school children will be dismissed from classes Friday while their teachers and school administrative personnel attend the fifty-fifth annual convention of the Mid-Texas Education Association, District 11 of the Texas State Teachers Association, to be held in Brownwood Thursday night and all day Friday.

The convention, with some 1200 teachers and administrators expected in attendance, will be held in the Brownwood High School auditorium. The first general session will begin at 7:30 tonight. Principal addresses of the opening session will be by Dana Williams of Gladewater, president of the Texas State Teachers Assn., and by Dr. Gaston Foote, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Ft. Worth. Mr. Williams will give a progress report on the TSTA legislative program. Dr. Foote's subject will be "The Fight for Freedom."

Friday morning's session, at which most of the Ozona faculty will be present, will open at 9 a. m. Principal speaker at this session will be Mrs. Billie Davis, wife of a minister of the Assemblies of God Church, who is a nationally known speaker for educational organizations.

L. B. T. Sikes, superintendent of Ozona schools and this year's vice president of the Mid-Texas Education Assn., will preside at the final session of the convention Friday night. Mr. Sikes, by tradition of the organization, is due to be elected to the district presidency. Mrs. Velma Stidham of Stephenville is president this year. Principal speaker at the closing session will be Dr. Dan Proctor, president of Oklahoma College for women at Chickasha, Okla.

Commissioners Hire Swimming Pool Help, Repair Baseball Park

With Spring about here, the Commissioners Court this week turned its thoughts to Ozona's recreational facilities.

The court employed Roy Killingsworth and Sonny Cleere to manage the North swimming pool and Jim Coker and another yet to be named for the South pool, ordering the swimming season to begin with the first day after the close of the school term and to remain open until August 31.

The court also heard a report that repairs had been completed at the Powell field baseball park. The grandstand at the park was damaged several months ago in a freak wind storm. D. C. Ratliff, county road engineer, was authorized to employ one man to look after the baseball park.

Ozona Water District Manager Elected Vice President State Assn.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas — The passage of two resolutions and the election of officers marked the near closing sessions of the 33rd annual Texas Water and Sewerage Works Association's Short School being held at Texas A. and M. College March 4-8.

One of the resolutions endorsed the existing anti-pollution program as being administered by the State Department of Health and asking that it stay as is. A bill in the legislature would establish a new state agency to control stream pollution.

The other resolution endorsed proposed legislation that will require the licensing of sanitarians employed in the field of environmental sanitation and public health.

Edward Geeslin of Brady was elected president of the Association with J. E. Williams of San Angelo, as president-elect for 1938. Vice presidents elected include W. J. Weems, Texarkana; V. V. Gerber, Sour Lake; W. D. Cooper, Ozona and Claude Robinson of Vernon.

Approximately 800 are attending the sessions.

Red Cross Is Short $134 From Quota In Current Fund Drive

Ozona's Red Cross drive was around $134 short of its assigned quota this week, Hubert Baker, chapter chairman and Pleas Childress, fund drive chairman, reported yesterday.

Total tabulated receipts from the campaign had reached $1,367 to Wednesday morning. The chapter's quota is $1,501.

If the Red Cross is to reach its quota during the balance of this month, there must be some voluntary contributions, since the drive workers have completed for the most part their canvass of homes and business institutions. If you have not been contacted and wish to give to the Red Cross, leave your check or cash or mail to the Ozona National Bank, the Stockman office or to Mrs. W. H. Chandler, chapter treasurer.

$997 Prize Money Won By Crockett 4-H At San Angelo

Pam Jones, Erb Chandler Cop Major Honors In Show

Crockett County 4-H Club members concluded this year's show circuit by raking in $997.00 in prize money at the San Angelo Fat Stock Show.

Pam Jones and Erb Chandler won major show honors. Pam won the Leonard Richardson Trophy presented by the Leo Richardson Family as the Second Premier Exhibitor in the Junior Rambouillet Show. She had 2nd place Ram Lamb, 4th place Yearling Ram, 3rd place Ewe Lamb, 17th and 20th Yearling Ewes, 3rd in open pen of three, and 1st in breeder owned pen of three. Pam won $125.00 in prize money and collected 125 points to win the trophy. This trophy came back to Crockett County for the second time, as Pierce Miller won it last year.

Erb Chandler showed his crossbred lamb to the Reserve Championship after placing 2nd in the medium weight crossbred class. Hemphill-Wells paid Erb a premium of $260.00 at the auction sale of prize winning lambs. This was the second time for Erb to win Reserve Champion at San Angelo, winning for the first time in 1935.

Bill Jacoby placed first in the lightweight crossbred class and received $175.00 in premium from Producer's Livestock Auction Company, and placed 5th in the heavy-weight crossbred class and received $75.00 from the West Texas Wool & Mohair Association of Mertzon.

Jimmy Baggett placed his crossbred lamb 3rd in the medium weight class and received $100.00 in premium from Barnes & Company. Tommie Sue Chandler placed her heavy-weight crossbred lamb 18th in its class.

R. J. and Joe Everett showed 6th, 11th, and 21st place Yearling Rams, 9th place Ram Lamb, 9th and 16th Yearling Ewes, and 4th and 5th in pen of three. They picked up $50.00 in prize money.

Pierce Miller placed his Yearling Ram 3rd and received $25.00 and Jay Miller placed 4th in Yearling Ewe Class and won $20.00.

There were over two hundred entries in the Junior Rambouillet Show and Crockett County 4-H Club Members placed 13 out of 16 entries shown into the money.

County Agent Pete Jacoby, 4-H sponsor, pointed out with pride. All fat lambs were sold, bringing $21.00 a hundred for the lightweight lambs, $19.50 on the medium weights, and $18.40 on heavy-weight lambs.

Engineers Ready With First Plans For Dam Projects

Co. Seeks Easements On All Sites To Speed Work

Engineers for the Soil Conservation Service were expected to have final plans and specifications for at least one of the Johnson Draw flood control dams in the hands of county officials here by next week, opening the way for a call for bids for construction of the dam and thus to bring about the first turning of dirt in the flood project which will prevent a recurrence of floods which have plagued Ozona for many years.

Plans are known to be complete on the No. 1 site and sites 2 and 3 are to be ready within the next week or two. Each will be contracted separately with construction time limits on each in an effort to complete at least these three structures within the next year.

With a new fiscal year coming July 1 and possibility that monies from this year's appropriations might be available to the project where all local preliminary details were complete and new appropriations from a new fiscal year available also, county officials and Soil Conservation district officials are planning a concerted drive to complete all land easements on all the other four dam sites, plus the channel improvement area through the town of Ozona, as soon as possible.

Easements must be secured from all landowners, royalty owners and other interested parties on all dam sites before the Soil Conservation Service engineers can complete their work and open the way for contracting for construction. All easements have been secured for the first three sites, construction on which will begin in the next few weeks. Officials hope to wrap up all the other four sites, and the channel improvement area in the next few weeks, so that Crockett county will be ready with its end of the bargain should additional funds become available by the time engineering plans are completed.

Although the Johnson Draw project was set up for a five-year plan, officials are hoping that by securing all easements and completing all details of local obligations, the time for completion of the flood protection system can be advanced years ahead of this schedule.

Preliminary surveys through the town on the channel improvement work have been made and indications are that there will be no significant problems to be encountered, no buildings affected and no particular hardship on any property owner along the draw. Easements, however, must be secured from a large number of property owners to permit the work to be completed.

IT CAN BE DONE

There are signs that the ranks of the bureaucratic big spenders in Washington may be wavering in the face of a tidal wave of protest from all sorts of people all over America who have taken pen in hand to tell their Congressmen that record-breaking 72 billion dollar budget must be cut.

Emboldened by such unprecedented public expression, the lawmakers generally have become economy-minded. As long ago as last month, all 23 Ohio Representatives asserted their united stand for "substantial" budget reduction. Democrats, noted for their one-time support of high, wide and fancy spending, are competing with G. O. P. conservatives in denouncing extravagance.

President Eisenhower told his press conference that we ought to be careful about Government spending, and that he had ordered a restudy of the budget. But he thought we might go slower on some projects rather than drop any of them. He was emphatic that foreign aid, the category that has seemed most vulnerable, should not be cut.

The day before, it was revealed that Budget Director Percival F. Brundage had told a House Appropriations subcommittee that he had asked Government bureaus and agencies to take another look at their appropriation needs. He didn't expect anything impressive in cuts, he said. Such unprecedented second-guessing, however, would suggest either that Mr. Brundage had not done his home-work in the first place, or that he was expected to give the bureaucrats a free hand in estimating their expenses.

So far so good. But the final answer is written back home — whence come the protests. As President Eisenhower, himself, warned four years ago, there can be no economy in Washington if the folks back home have their hands out for Federal money. For example, there's a five million recommendation in the budget for a new stadium in Cleveland, O., for the Pan American Games in 1959. Senator (and former Governor) Frank Lausche, of Ohio, is against it and Mayor Celebrezze of Cleveland is reported as "furious". To the Mayor's protestations, Senator Lausche answered: "The Federal budget must be cut. I can not support for Ohio something which I would oppose for another state."

If our Congressmen will wield the axe on foreign aid, and the rest of us will emulate Senator Lausche, the budget could be brought below the 65 billion target figure.

REVENGE!

February 25th marked an important anniversary. But it wasn't one that was received with cheers. It was the 44th anniversary of the federal income tax.

A look backward is in order. In 1912, in the tax's infancy, the normal rate was one per cent and the highest surtax was six per cent.

Today the tax starts at 20 per cent, on the lowest taxable incomes, and rises to a high of 91 per cent.

The Portland Oregonian makes this wry and apt comment: "We didn't invent the income tax. The British started using it to support their military campaigns

AND THAT'S NO JOKE!

HIGHLIGHTS AND DELIGHTS

By State Capitol
By Vern Sanford
By Press Association

IN TEXAS — Although spectacular issues have grabbed headlines, Legislature is putting its biggest responsibility on its shoulders. That is, a state budget for the next two years.

The committee approval clearway for debate this week on bond-setting $2,000,000,000 program. It represents a release of nearly $340,000,000 from all state funds, and more money in nearly every area of state service — to 90 per cent of state employees, more funds for education, highways, patrol, state and operating state departments.

With all these, no new taxes are seen. Instead, appropriate chairman Max C. Smith, representative from San Marcos, proposes $45,000,000 will be added for additional items, such as higher pay raises.

Reason for this bright outlook is Governor Robert S. Calvert's estimate that current tax sources will yield $100,000,000 more in the next biennium than previous years.

Insurance Rate — After hot and long testimony, Senate Finance Committee sent the insurance "flexible rating" bill to the floor.

Jarvis Secret's bill would require companies to set rates commensurate, rather than having a uniform rate set by the Insurance Commission.

Proponents contended it would mean lower insurance for buyers. Opponents called it risky, suggested that companies making sufficient profit should return dividends rather than charging lower rates.

White Ouster Pushed — Agriculture Commissioner John White, campaigning for the U. S. Senate, has bumped into a side skirmish.

A farm group led by Austin Anson of Harlingen wants to abolish the elective agriculture post. Substitute would be a 21-member board appointed by the governor and a commissioner appointed by the board.

A bill was prepared and Rep. J. T. Ellis, Jr., of Weslaco was asked to introduce it.

White Blamed Secy. of Agriculture Ezra Benson, II, called the move a "plot" to rob Texas of its control over state farm matters.

Water Plan Materializing — At long last a Texas water saving plan is near reality. Passed by both House and Senate, it needed only conference committee adjustments and the governor's signature to send it to the polls for final approval.

Issuance of $200,000,000 in state bonds would be authorized by the proposed constitutional amendment to help finance local water conservation projects. It is the key-stone of an overall water program urged by Gov. Price Daniel for emergency action.

Under the financing plan, local districts could borrow from the state up to one-third the cost of projects or $5,000,000, whichever is smaller. Lending would be supervised by a board to be appointed by the governor.

In The Mill — With the 120-day session past the half-way mark, the usual masses of "routine" bills were being shoved through the mill. Some of the more significant ones:

Beer — House committee amended a bill to prohibit beer sales on Sunday and after 10 p. m. weekdays to bar Sunday sales only. Senate passed bill allowing breweries in wet precincts to continue production if the precinct is voted dry.

Reportorial Rights — Senate passed and House committee indicated eventual approval of a TPA-sponsored bill opening political party conventions to reporters.

Milk — Pending House bill sets 3 1/2 per cent minimum butterfat contents for milk offered for sale and provides penalties for misrepresentation.

Movies — House passed a bill cutting the tax on movie admissions to aid theaters in competition with television.

Automobiles — Constitutional amendment proposed in the House would increase motor vehicle license fees by one-third and abolish the property tax on cars.

Schools — Both houses adopted resolutions petitioning Congress not to enact federal aid to schools. House also passed on second reading a bill that would allow the state to cut off funds from a school district whose officials refused to order an audit of the books.

Insurance — Senate passed bill by Sen. Wardlaw Lane to retain control of insurance liquidation in the Insurance Commission rather than putting it under Travis Co. judges. Said Senator Lane, "My people don't vote on Travis County judges."

Mental Health — House passed enabling act for the constitutional amendment approved by voters to allow for waiving of lunacy trials.

Shoplifters — A proposed House bill would allow storekeepers to hold suspected shoplifters without risking false imprisonment penalties.

State Affairs — Sen. Charles Herring of Austin proposed a constitutional amendment giving governors a four-year term and barring a governor from succeeding himself.

EDITORIAL:

Down through the years the Senior class and its activities have been looked upon with great interest and much admiration. To those who have graduated, the seniors fill them with fond memories and thoughts of their high school days. To those underclassmen, from North Elementary to Juniors, they are looked upon with admiration, a little envy, and the hope that they will soon be in their shoes!

During the last week the Juniors and the whole school honored the Seniors, and in connection with the banquet and prom we would like to dedicate this edition of the Lions Roar to this group — Seniors 1957!

HOME FROM ABROAD

There's nothing like an ocean voyage for romance and pleasure, especially the last night out and the Captain's dinner. Such was the Jr.-Sr. banquet in O. H. S. last Saturday night. Welcoming everyone was the Captain himself, Stanley Williams, president of the Junior class, and among the celebrities at the Captains' own table we found Mary Lou Johnigan who led us into paths of reminiscence with the class history. Legacies of the esteemed Senior class were generously bestowed by Liz Pearson, and prophetic glimpses into the future were given by Suzann Dale.

Pink tapers in silver candelabra bouquets of spring flowers up and down the tables. Nut cups of pastel umbrellas and baskets, with all the flowers made one think of springtime in Paris!

And Paris it was, as the ship farewells were said, and the crowd disembarked for the streets of Paris! Famous restaurants with gay canopies of red and white and flanked with side-walk cafe tables were around the room. Lamp posts with famous boulevard names on them made Paris almost a reality.

Pleasant Childress, the flower vendor, decked in beret and sash, handed out fresh posies and winks to the girls.

The music under Maxim's large colorful canopy was delightful, and from now on when the strains of "The Last Time I Saw Paris" are heard, hearts and thoughts turn to gay Paris on the Junior-Seniors banquet, Prom — 1957!!!!

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

By Mary Lou Johnigan

The day finally came. We started to school. It was the most exciting time of our lives. We got all dressed in the clothes that had been so carefully planned by our mothers for the special occasion. The day wasn't warm as it should have been; it was freezing cold.

There was something different about the air that day as we gathered in the auditorium to hear Mr. Denham, our superintendent, speak. We were all too spell-bound to listen. Mothers were a little sad to think that their babies were no longer babies, but we were as happy as little larks, for we were finally old enough to start to school. Oh, how important we felt! After the brief assembly, we went to our Kindergarten room, which was at that time where the new gymnasium is now. It was just a little cottage that sat off by itself.

After we got settled in our room, we introduced ourselves to our teacher, Miss Martha Moore. No resemblance to our own Missy, however, because this Miss Moore had red hair. We started our first cut with George Bunker, Lou Nelle Beall, Erby Chandler, Jerry Gilliam, Mary Lou Johnigan, Jess Lou Marley, Roy Glenn Sutton, and Jacquelyn Sue Williams.

Nothing of importance happened that year, with the exception of learning the alphabet, a few new songs, and some stories that we hadn't heard our mothers read. Most of all, we were awakened to the tragic fact that no longer would we get to sleep to all hours of the day. We had to be in school by 9:00 a. m. Our favorite class was, of course, one of the "R's", recess. During that period, the girls would pretend that they were movie stars, and would fight over who would be Betty Grable. The boys well . . . they just chased each other. At Christmas time, a few of the mothers had to come after their children because they were afraid of Santa Claus. We had never seen a real live Santa Claus before. When we had to stand in the hall for misbehaving, we would eat everyone's lunch from their lunch pails.

The next year, first grade, we were still enjoying the excitement. That year, we had as our teacher, Mrs. McSpadden. This was the big year. We learned to read and print. No one was added that year. We still had George, Lou Nelle, Erby, Jerry, Mary Lou, Jess Lou, Roy Glenn, and Jacquelyn.

Our second grade year we had Miss Mable Brookshire. We lost Lou Nelle this year, because she moved to San Angelo. Here we met one of the most difficult years we have had so far; we had to change over from printing to writing. We even had to take our spelling in writing.

Our third grade year, with Mrs. Parker as our teacher, we gained Gearl Dean Long and Durwood Wylie and Lou Nelle Beall joined our class once again.

In fourth grade we gained our Vonnice Knox. Yvonne mentioned the other day to me how scared she was her first year in Ozona Schools. She's come along, long way, hasn't she? That year, Miss Helen Marie Brown was our teacher, who was the idol of all the girls in her class. This year our class got a little larger, so the classes were divided. The other teacher was Mrs. Plunkett, a young teacher who was an old-timer in the school system.

Fifth grade — this fateful year it was our misfortune to gain Don Lott, along with R. J. Everett. Our teachers were Mrs. Lois Hallmark, and Mrs. Ted White. This was the year that most of us took our first train ride on the Southern Pacific. Our mothers took us to Comstock, and we rode the train from Comstock to Del Rio. After the train ride, we ate a picnic lunch, went swimming, roller skating, and came home. I might add, also, that this was the first taste a lot of the boys had of Azusa.

We have reached sixth grade and still the same bunch of kids. At this time, the administration didn't think one teacher was enough for us, so they gave us one for every class. This was when we realized we were growing up. Classes and everything just like High School. We really felt our importance. However, during the first of the year, they cut us back down to two teachers once again, Mr. Boedecker and Mr. Lipford. The last six weeks of school, Mr. Boedecker went back into the Navy and Mrs. Ted White took over for the rest of the year.

Our 7th grade year was quite exciting. We kept our same crowd again this year. Again, we had 7 teachers. An unforgettable incident for this year was when one of our upper classmen slipped down our good English teacher.

Finally, we gained the position of seniors of Jr. High. With Jimmy Carroll and Liz Pearson as our new members, we never knew so much excitement. All the boys were crazy over Liz and all of us girls hated her (only for jealous reasons, of course). However, as we grew to know Liz better, we decided that she was really an O. K. gal. Jimmy fitted right in with the other boys whom we thought hadn't quite grown up yet. This year was the greatest!! We were absolutely in a whirl of excitement and loved every minute of it. At the end of the year, we got to take off a day from school, and go to Devil's River for an all day outing. We came back tired and blistered. Blistered and peeling shoulders looked very pretty under strapless evening dresses for Commencement. Graduation Day, and the Commencement Dance in the high school library, ended the perfect year.

Our next year was murder!! We were freshmen and looked every bit the part. But, we had finally made high school. We were lost, scared and generally confused. Initiation was the best part, or should I say the worst in some cases of the year. This year we gained our ever-lovin' Beverly Killingsworth, F. F. A. sweetheart, Toni Ortiz, Enemencio De La Rosa, Rosalio Gallardo, Robert Martinez, our excellent band members, Tomas Lopez and Eddie Garza.

Our sophomore year was a little less confusing. Any way we got to initiate instead of being initiated. This year we gained another red head, our best citizen, Jim Brown; a boy whom we hadn't quite had one like before, and still hadn't figured him out to a certain extent, hilarious Bobby Estes, our football star Kent Babb, future clothing designer, Suzann Dale.

At the beginning of our Jr. year we thought a catastrophe had struck for we gained Tooter Malone. We also were honored with Judy Patterson and Jerry Loudamy. We gave the Seniors a banquet with Castles in the Air, as our theme.

At last here we are, Seniors. So far it has been the most exciting time of our lives and the most exciting year we have ever spent. This year instead of gaining people, we have lost several. With our present class roll of 30, we are planning a big trip to Dallas, for our Senior trip. All we can say to you Juniors is that we hope you will make as good seniors as we have, and have even half as much fun as we have in good old

O. H. S. and remember the seniors of '57!!

CLASS PROPHECY By Suzann Dale

etting ourselves into the some 25 years, we find Mr. and Mr. Sikes residing on Seven. Let's listen to what saying.

then, Mr. Sikes, there was as of '57."

weren't they the lasest! wonder if any of them over- ed to anything."

peek over the edge of this cloud and see what they're all doing now."

"Back in Tams we can see Wanda and George, of course, running a ranch. It's new type of ranch; not sheep, not goats, not cattle, but Cuddle-Bugs! seems it's a new affectionate sort of animal that Mr. Banger discovered.

Judy Patterson is still in the University of America, trying for her M. R. S. degree.

Jimmy Carroll is teaching Senior English now in O. H. S. He certainly should make a good one, he knows all the tricks when he was a student. But the kids aren't getting by with much.

This season the people went to the polls and elected the first woman president . . . Mary Lou Johnson. She is so good, her social parties have almost replaced political parties.

Back in the mountains, we find a school for bachelors. It is called the "Blessed Hope Institute." The sole manager and teacher is, of course, Miss Moore.

Down the road from that, a little way, R. J. Everett is running Heartbreak Hotel.

Gearl Dean Long has just been voted Mother of the Year according to True Confession Magazine. Jacquelyn Williams is the girl all the boys are standing on the corner watching go by.

Over and radio station now, you can hear the famous dance band, Big Pie's Combo. One of the main factors of their popularity is the new discovery in singing the blues, Liz Pearson (going by her maiden name of course.)

Jerry Gilliam is in business for himself now. Owns the Ozona sanitation department. Street sweepers, garbage collectors, etc.

Eddie Garza and Tomas Lopez left last month on the first rocket to the moon. Hope they remember to bring us something back.

Jess Marley now has free room and board at the Crockett County jail. Oh, he didn't do anything wrong really. Seems he got so many speeding tickets, he couldn't pay the fines, so . . .

By the way, he was caught by that fearless policeman Yvonne Knox. Bet those dogs came in handy on this case.

Mr. Harlan gave up playing the bagpipes and is now appearing weekly on television, as a crew-cut Liberace. Believe me, it's really going over with a bang.

As a special attraction on his shows, he sometimes has Miss Elvilyn Killingsworth — a sort of female Elvis Presley.

Don Lott made the headlines last week by winning the National Debating contest. He defeated semi-finalist Durwood Wythe.

If any of you men are looking for a sure-fire secretary, you might see Jerry Loudamy. She is the speed typist of the world now.

Bobby Estes is head foreman of the Empire State Building window washers. No ladders, you know.

Enemencio de la Rosa is making a fortune selling his painted turtles on the street corner.

In the Miss Carrot Top of 1951 contest, naturally, our own Miss Lou Nolle Beall took top honors. Congratulations, Lou Nolle.

Tony Ortiz is writing Senior English theses. Not that she's still in school, but it is a real get rich quick plan. You'd be surprised how much those desperate Seniors pay.

Tooter Malone is now selling pencils on the street. He is blind after the famous ride of Lady Godiva — alias Janice Spencer.

Robert Martinez is the first democratic president of Mexico. He is aided by his most able right-hand man, Benalio Galindo.

"Why don't we look at the field of sports?" Said Mr. Hatley.

"Not much use! "Going to the wood's isn't an organized sport!"

Erby Chandler is playing with the Globe Trotters. He is the first player they employed.

Roy Glenn Sutton just won the Indianapolis Speed Race. He is the only five time winner in history. Experience is the best teacher and he certainly started young.

Kent Babb is a big Olympic track star. Instead of a Big 'O' on his jacket, he has a coke bottle. Wonder how come that happened?

"Well, I guess that covers every one," said Mr. Sikes. Yeh, except for that wild preacher's daughter," answered Mr. Hatley.

"Oh, Don't you remember? She was mysteriously killed right after the '57 class graduated with its terrible prophecy."

"Served her right for suggest- ing I would be dead in 25 years. But wait a minute! I haven't seen her up here."

"Well," said Mr. Sikes!

The Ozona Stockman

The News Reel

A re-run of "The Ozona Story" as gleaned from the files of The Ozona Stockman

From The Stockman,
March 15, 1928

The School Board early this week elevated High School Principal John L. Bishop to the post of superintendent of schools for the 1928-29 term. Mr. Bishop will succeed Superintendent C. C. Minnema, who has resigned effective at the expiration of the present school year, after six years of service as head of the local system.

—news reel—

One of the longest funeral processions in the history of Ozona followed the remains of Joe J. North, prominent Crockett county ranchman, to its last resting place in Cedar Hill Cemetery Tuesday afternoon. Mr. North died early Monday morning in a Temple hospital where he underwent an operation Saturday. Mr. North was 54 years of age and had been identified with the development of Ozona and ranching interests in the county for 30 years.

—news reel—

A pot shot at close range at a big coyote that had preyed on sheep in and near Ozona for several years and which had successfully eluded bloodthirsty hunting parties composed of ranchmen whose flocks had been depredated, was the reward of three Ozona boys and a bull pup last Thursday night after an all night vigil. The animal was riddled with buckshot and heavy birdshot from shotguns in the hands of the three boys, Robert and Thalis Elledge and Lee Patrick, who had perched atop the G. L. Banger barn to lie in wait for the sheep killer. The little bull pup, a mortal enemy of the night prowler, finally brought the long sought sheep killer into shotgun range when he went out to challenge the coyote and then ran, with the coyote in pursuit, back to where the armed boys were waiting.

—news reel—

A fleet of county trucks manned by a crew of workers furnished by the county will make the round of Ozona the first week in April to collect and haul off all rubbish and trash accumulated in the clean-up campaign now in progress under the direction of the civic department of the Ozona Woman's Club.

—news reel—

Officials of the Crockett County Fair Assn., are formulating plans for the greatest rodeo, race meet and stock show in the history of Ozona on the occasion of the semi-annual event to be held here three days, June 27, 28 and 29, according to an announcement by Joe Pierce, president of the Association.

—news reel—

Crockett county's new oil town of Grube on the Pecos river is no more. Instead of Grube, "El Masho" has bloomed out as a flourishing town in the center of one of the most active Crockett county oil fields. The change in name of the new town was decided on recently by stockholders of the townsite company because of the harsh sound of the name "Grube," according to M. R. Shewalter, an official of the townsite company. The new name, El Masho, is a combination Spanish and Indian words meaning "River View," the town promoters said.

—news reel—

A 4½ mile stretch of road from the O. W. Parker ranch house to El Masho, new Crockett county oil field town on the Pecos river, has been completed at a cost of $1,644.62, according to a report to the Commissioners Court made by Commissioner J. W. Owens. The cost of the road work was borne by Geo. L. Thompson and the court voted to reimburse Mr. Thompson in the amount of $1,328.28, the people of El Masho having agreed to pay the balance of the cost.

A statement of condition of the Ozona National Bank as of Feb. 28, 1928, shows total demand deposits of $771,665.90. Total loans outstanding were $536,686.95.

—news reel—

A deal is reported virtually completed this week in which Bert Kincaid of Ozona purchased 30 sections of land in Pecos county from Walter Childress. The land was that purchased by Mr. Childress several weeks ago with three other Ozona ranchers from the Scharbrauer Cattle Co. Mr. Kincaid was reported to have paid $7.50 an acre for the land.

—news reel—

Echo of a recent outbreak of smallpox at El Masho, Pecos river area oil town in Crockett county, was heard at the Commissioners Court session this week when bills for maintaining quarantine quarters, boarding patients and nursing services were presented to the court. Three cases were reported in the new town, the victims being Mr. and Mrs. Roy Demming and J. T. Goen.

The Present Administration apparently feels it needs more high administrative aids than did the previous administration. Truman had 12 White House secretaries and assistants compared to the present 38, and also had 140 total White House employees compared to well over 300 now. The pattern holds true in other agencies: prior Defense Secretaries ran the Pentagon with only eight principal aids, while Defense Secretary Charles Wilson now has nine assistant secretaries (who themselves have from three to 23 aids of their own), three special assistants and a personnel staff of 11. State Department now has eight assistants compared to two for previous administration. Treasury has two under secretaries and four assistant secretaries compared to one each in days gone by, while within the Justice Department assistant attorneys general have increased from seven to nine. Army, Navy and Air Force in the past had one or two assistant secretaries; now each has four.

Not Only Are More appointive men now in Washington, the list shows signs of growing. Case-in-point: White House recently sent out instructions to all departments to make up new, bigger lists of top policy-making jobs which shall be exempt from career Civil Service status, thus creating more patronage positions. This has increased Congressional concern, indicating legislation to prevent this now and in all future Administrations, in the public interest.

More Budget Figures: You'd have to deposit $100 since March 1, 25443 BC, each day, in order to have a checking account of one billion dollars—this without interest. Multiply this by 71, and you get an idea of what the current budget is all about.

Three Years Ago, several Members of Congress were wounded when a group of Porto Ricans fired shots into the House gallery. About this time of year, the "old hands" in Congress begin to recall this incident. Texas Congressman Paul Kilday, of the San Antonio area, recently said he had been thinking how to hide the fact that he is a Member of Congress from potential gun-slingers.

"I think I have the answer," he said. "Just walk through the Capitol Building carrying a hat."

Kilday referred to the fact that Members of Congress dash hatless from their offices to the Capitol to meet roll calls and quorum calls. "If anyone sees me with the hat," he said, "they'll think I'm a tourist and look elsewhere for targets."

There Is Some Talk on Capitol Hill that President Eisenhower may soon seek "standby" powers from the Congress to impose wage, credit and price controls in the event of continuing inflation. Rumor says the President will wait a few weeks to see if the cost of living continues to rise, and the value of the dollar declines. Perhaps the President is considering this, but, if so, two recent actions by the Chief Executive would appear to be in conflict with this plan: that of submitting a record peacetime budget to the Congress, and of calling for Federal wage and hour regulations to be extended to more small businesses. Opinion seems divided in Congress as to whether these two actions tend to throw cold water on the stand-by, curbing powers.

He gave the world faith in the American Dollar

The year was 1789. A new republic had been born. On the shoulders of this slight, dynamic, young man—32-year-old Alexander Hamilton, our first Secretary of the Treasury—fell the tremendous responsibility of establishing a national currency that could be trusted.

The task seemed unworkable. The country's currency was so poor that it earned the phrase "not worth a continental." Debt owed by the Federal Government and by the 13 colonies totaled almost 80 million dollars—a towering sum in those days. The Government had practically no revenue, and its bonds sold at ten cents on the dollar.

But Hamilton was a man of vision and a man of action. His bold, new program to the Congress for re-establishing the nation's credit and giving America a sound dollar was based on three simple but vital principles:

That the public debt is a sacred obligation which must be honored completely;
That the nation must balance its budget by collecting enough taxes to pay its bills;

That we must have a sound banking system working for the public interest.

Thus were laid the foundation stones for making the dollar the best money in the world today. And faith in the American dollar is, in turn, one of the reasons for the great prosperity and economic growth of our country.

There is no finer way to pay tribute to this great American on this, the 29th anniversary of his birth, than by carrying forward the great tradition of these sound financial principles.

Money invested in United States Savings Bonds helps keep the dollar sound. Take advantage of this safe investment today. Sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Or invest in Bonds where you bank. You'll be helping to secure your own future and America's.
