Mulligan Tells Grand Jury That All Moral Laws Are Being Broken Down

Declaring that "the people of the United States despite the prohibition law and are not in sympathy with its enforcement," characterizing the younger generation as having "broken down the entire moral law," recommending that the grand jury ask the city commission to enlarge the police force in order to cope with the urgent situation; and finally mentioning reports which he said were "current in Texas, that some public funds in Lubbock county were being misappropriated; Judge Clark M. Mulligan of the 72nd district court yesterday set off a bomb shell in his charge to the newly empaneled Lubbock county grand jury.

Blames Newcomers Judge Mulligan blamed much of the lawlessness of the county to the influx of "get-rich-quick" elements, drawn here by favorable advertising of the section. He blamed some of it on students, and declared that these should feel the weight of the law as much as anyone else about bootlegging.

HE MADE THE STARTLING STATEMENT THAT IF IT WERE NOT FOR THE PROHIBITION LAW, HIS COURT WOULD NOT HAVE MUCH TO DO. "WE TAKE UP MOST OF OUR TIME TRYING PRO-LAW CASES, OR CASES OF MEN WHO DRIVE AUTOMOBILES WHILE IN A DAZE OF DRUGS, OR WHO COMMIT CRIMES WHILE UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF BOOTLEG LIGOR," HE DECLARED THAT HE DID NOT WANT THE LAW REPEALED, AND THAT IT MUST BE ENFORCED, BUT THAT "WITH THE BEST MINDS OF THE COUNTRY, AS IN MICHIGAN, AT A LOSS HOW TO DEAL WITH THE SITUATION, HOW CAN I TELL YOU HOW TO DO IT?" HE SAID. "THE BEST WE CAN HOPE TO DO IS KEEP BOOTLEGGING UP OR SHUT UP. I IMAGINE THE OFFICIALS WILL WELCOME AN INVESTIGATION."

RANGER ON GUARD AT TELLER TRIAL

RAYMONDVILLE SHERIFF LOSES HIS FIRST TILT IN PRELIMINARY HEARING

(By The Associated Press) RAYMONDVILLE, Texas, Jan. 10.—Sheriff Raymond Teller, charged as accessory to murder, and other offenses charged with either murder or being accessories, lost the first tilt at his preliminary hearing in district court here Monday when Judge A. W. Cunningham refused to listen to a plea by the defense that filing of the charges against the officers was done in an illegal manner. What he wanted, he said, was evidence regarding the slaying of five county prisoners held here on September 3. A Texas ranger sat by the judge's side. When he took the bench, Judge Cunningham impounded the grand jury and advised that body that it was not bound by action of previous grand juries which failed to return indictments and charged it to go into "eight vile killings in the county since court last convened—more than have occurred in the city of London."

MINISTER MAY ASK MORE TIME IN MURDER CASE

MAKE RESERVATIONS WHEN THEY ANNOUNCE READY WITNESSES ARE ILL

(By The Associated Press) COURT ROOM, AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 10.—Doubt as to whether the Norris murder trial would start here tomorrow gave a speculative ending to a day of preliminary moves of which the most startling was the dismissal of about 100 veniremen for various causes.

When district court adjourned at 2:15 until 9 a. m. Tuesday the question was upper most whether the defense would definitely announce ready or would ask for a continuance.

After Judge James R. Hamilton had spent several hours in eliminating unqualified veniremen from the 251 summoned, and had considered a long list of excuses based mainly on illness, the state at 12:35 p. m. announced ready for trial at once, but the defense had reservations attached to its announcement.

Make Reservations Attorney Marvin Simpson, representing Dr. J. Frank Norris, who faces a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of Dexter E. Chippis, Fort Worth lumberman state that the defense case was contingent on the appearance of several material witnesses who either were absent because of illness or had not been located.

One of these is Miss Jane Hartwell, Dr. Norris' personal secretary, who was in an adjoining room when Chippis was shot in the pasture study on the afternoon of last July 17. Miss Hartwell, he said, is ill at Fort Worth. Other absent defense witnesses as noted by Simpson are Mrs. A. T. Ellis and Fred Holland of Fort Worth, and Mrs. J. L. Kennedy of Dallas. Mrs. Kennedy had not been located, though a special investigator had made a search for her, Simpson said.

Want to Start "We want to get into this trial as quickly as possible," said Attorney Simpson, "but we think it fair to state to the court that some of our material witnesses are absent and it may become necessary to ask for a delay."

The state immediately protested. Attorney Walter Scott, one of the special prosecutors, demanding that the defense either announce ready without qualification or file a formal motion for continuance. "So we can argue the matter."

Judge Hamilton gave the defense until 9 a. m. tomorrow either to announce ready or file a motion for continuance. Attorney Clayton Moore for Dr. Norris said he did not think there would be a motion for continuance, and that the defense would stand on its statement to the court. He said this was customary procedure but added that the defense did not expect to go to trial until they were certain their witnesses would be available.

Defense Attorney revealed for the first time that Miss Hartwell was an eye witness to the shooting. It had been supposed that Dr. Norris was the only person other than Dr. Norris who had actually seen the tragedy which ended in Chippis' death.

Attorney Chester B. Collins of Lurkin, who had been retained as defense counsel, but who is ill at Fort Worth, was another witness whose presence was in doubt. He was summoned today by the defense as a witness.

LIBRARY ENLARGES
Increase in the enrollment of the Tech for the winter term will necessitate enlargement of the library, Miss Elizabeth H. West, librarian, stated yesterday. The unit is now being used to the capacity built by the students and more space must be provided. Even the night hours, 7:30 to 9:30 which were added as an experiment during the last term have been crowded with students and sometimes numbers must return to their rooms to study.

The library now has a force of seven people, including Miss West and Miss Emma Main, assistant librarian. Five student assistants work part time with library work.

EMPLOYMENT BUREAU STILL ACTIVE
Although the supply of jobs for students is rather low now, Cecil Horne, manager of the employment bureau stated yesterday that that unit of the school still had a busy time. The bureau is now rounding up all matters essential to the reorganization and is establishing a bureau of information as well as employment bureau.

The employment work is rather slow now as the citizens are not responding to the calls sent out for jobs for the students. Even the odd jobs are scarce, Horne said yesterday. He hopes to keep most of the boys busy, however, during the next six weeks in the afternoon, on street, building and construction work. One or two small businesses are to be established by students near the campus. Horne said yesterday.

The information department of the bureau will be given over to handling lost and found articles of the students as well as furnishing other information. A complete and up-to-date report on every event, from schedule and other forms of student information.

The contest will run for three months, at the conclusion of which the two Sunday schools will meet in a convenient place for a picnic.

Will She Launch a Thousand Ships?

VIVACIOUS LITTLE EDDA MUSSOLINI, STILL A SUB-DEB, SAILS INTO PROMINENCE ON THE CREST OF HER FATHER'S FAME

Edda Mussolini, in the foreground, when she appeared as sponsor at the launching of the motorship Augustus.

By ALICE ROME
NEA Service Correspondent

ROME, Jan. 10.—The most talked of young lady in Italy today is Edda Mussolini. Until recently she was but a little girl as it were. Now Italy has suddenly discovered that the daughter of Premier Benito Mussolini is a personage. The realization came when Edda Mussolini sponsored the launching of the new motorship Augustus at Sestri Ponente near Genoa.

The launching of this four-hundred-ton ship of 23,500 tons was an event of interest but it did not compare in social and diplomatic circles with the interest aroused by the appearance of Mussolini's daughter in a semi-official role.

The Italian papers carry very little about the members of Mussolini's family, although his real identity as his only daughter is an open secret. Only once did Edda break into print. That was when she conspicuously saved a child from drowning and was rewarded with a medal.

And now she is a young lady who demonstrated considerable savoir-faire at the launching ceremony. Dressed in a tailored tan suit and tan felt hat with fur trim, she looked very grown-up and at ease. Although she is still in the most aristocratic school in Italy, society is talking about just what will happen when she comes out.

A short time ago, reports were printed in America that a marriage was to be arranged between Edda Mussolini and Crown Prince Humbert of Italy, but this report was neither believed nor printed in Italy. Indeed it was indignantly denied by the few who knew of its circulation.

When Mussolini became Premier of Italy, the life of his family was changed in few respects. His three children attended the public schools. Rumor had it that the one girl and two boys were so unruly that even the threat "I'll tell your father on you when he comes home from Rome" did not affect upon them whatever. They were high-spirited, individualistic offspring of a high-spirited, individualistic father.

But two years ago Edda was sent to the exclusive and aristocratic school of the Annunziata at Poggio Reale near Florence. This school is really maintained for those high-born dames whose fathers are "Counts of the King"—which is the relationship of high order of the collar of the Annunziata conferred to those fortunate enough to obtain it.

Mussolini was given this royal order by King Victor Emmanuel and hence Edda was eligible to this aristocratic school. Here Princess Jose of Belgium was educated. And here in this ultra-conservative atmosphere the untamed Edda soon found herself somewhat of a rough diamond.

But she is an intelligent girl and something quite new had come into her life—an overpowering admiration for her father. Between the severe, unflinching, adamant-willed premier and this handsome girl the most ardent affection and understanding sprang into being with her attaining an age of consanguinity.

"Proud of Her Father"
It is whispered that when dignitaries of ancient lineage and high social position or wealth ever try to "put one over" on Edda, she gives them a naughty look, draws herself up to full height and proudly but simply remarks: "I am Mussolini's daughter." To this 17-year-old girl there is no position in all the world more desirable nor more honorable than that. And there are many who agree with her.

From the walls of this exclusive school, Edda Mussolini went to Genoa to launch the big ship Augustus. Society is watching the gates of the same school to see just when Edda herself will be launched on the social sea. She is a vivacious, energetic, handsome girl with sparkling eyes. Her mother, Donna Raebela Mussolini, cares nothing for society.

But Edda is, as she says, "Mussolini's Daughter," and that position in Italy today is just about as important as being the daughter of an Imperial Caesar. So, as the Romans say, "We shall see what we shall see."

The 1926 output of the above important items far exceeds that of last year.

CROPS DIVERSIFIED

Texas crop values, according to government estimates, are more than a HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS GREATER for 1926 than for 1925. The cotton crop which is about twice the normal yield will have about the same money value, and because of the growth of diversified farming, other crops have a far greater value this year than ever before.

And in spite of the low price on cotton more money will be left in the South this year from this crop than ever before, for though the producer has not made the usual profits, twice the normal amount of money is being paid to pickers, twice the normal amount to ginners, to compressors, to warehousemen, and there is twice the normal cotton tonnage for Texas railways.

But even greater than the advance made by Texas' agricultural interests has been the progress made by Texas' industries. Textile mills are being erected at many points. Hundreds of manufacturers of products from pins and nails to motor cars have recently opened factories in Texas or are seeking locations. New railroads are being built. New oil fields are being developed. The giant is awakening. As great a state as Texas is agriculturally, it will soon be an even greater state industrially.

INDUSTRIAL DENISON

Twelfth in size and one of the liveliest industrial cities of the state is Denison—the Gate City. Located in the Red River valley in North Central Texas, Denison is a great railway center and terminal. The M-K-T operates at this point the largest railway switching yards in the entire Southwest. Other large locomotive and machine shops are here. Six railways and an interurban line connect Denison with all sections in all directions.

The largest cotton mill west of the Mississippi River is here, spinning and weaving seven thousand bales of cotton per annum; seventeen wholesale houses; overall factory; peanut and pecan mill; wood and cabinet work mills; flour mill; ice cream factories; candy factories, etc.

DENISON'S ANNUAL PAY-ROLL $4,200,000.00

The fact that Denison, a city of 25,000, has an annual pay-roll of more than four million dollars—not including the salaries of clerks, store managers, teachers, etc., attests the prosperous condition of its industrial enterprises.

COMMON FIRE DANGERS IN HOMES

It may astonish the housekeepers of this country to learn that most fires occur in homes and that most fires start in kitchens. The loss and damage to homes in insured city dwelling houses amount to a total of about $65,000,000 a year. It is estimated that more than 15,000 persons are burned to death each year in the United States, a majority of the victims being women and children. A very large percentage of this loss is preventable. That is the horrible feature of the matter. It is valuable to remember that most fires are due to carelessness. Taking the annual loss as a whole, about $535,000,000 in 1925, it is estimated that 80 per cent is preventable. Considering that carelessness is responsible largely then we find that about $428,000,000 is thus destroyed, the things put out of existence being commodities of use, thus increasing the cost of living and making the housekeeper's battle against high prices more difficult. In one of the educational leaflets issued by the National Board of Underwriters the observation occurs that the numberous fatalities to which reference is made above due to carelessness in the handling of matches, gas, kerosene, gasoline, electrical attachments and numerous other factors makes it astonishing, for example, that any sensible woman in this enlightened age would use kerosene or gasoline to accelerate a sluggish fire.
In New Jersey, not long ago," says the leaflet, "a woman was fatally burned in just this way, although she was a school principal and should have known better." Here is another.
"The records are full of similar cases and one sad instance tells of the death of a three-year-old boy at Malvern, Iowa, who tried to pour coal oil into the kitchen stove from a cup as he had seen his parents do. That is a thought for the mother to take to heart; she should realize the force of her example. Every time she 'takes a chance' with fire she is endangering not only her own life, but her children's lives
as well." We are informed by the same authority that the vapor from a gallon of gasoline, properly mixed with air, has an explosive power equal to eighty-three pounds of dynamite. And yet it is carelessly used for cleaning purposes in a room with open lights.
As the writer of the leaflet observed: "It is to be regretted that, recently penny saving suggestions urging the use of gasoline for clothes cleaning in the home, have been widely circulated, for the women who carry out such dangerous instructions may lose their own lives and injure many others as well. It is no economy to finance a funeral instead of a small dry cleaning operation."

A woman in a certain town had a waist to clean. She placed half a gallon of gasoline in a pan for the purpose. A few minutes later four persons were killed and four others crippled in that building. No home should contain a can of gasoline and it should never be used for cleaning purposes. Try carbon tetrachloride.
It is about as efficacious as a cleaner and is entirely safe. It is not an explosive and may be used as an extinguisher. Oil cooking stoves and lamps of approved design when properly cared for and handled are approximately safe, but remembrance of their potential dangers should never be lost. They should be filed only when unlighted and in a place where there are no open lights or flames. Burners should periodically be boiled in water containing soda, lye or a strong solution of soap. The wick should be smoothly trimmed where it shows above the burner so that the flame will be an even one. All oil lamps should be of metal, with broad, heavy bases. They should never be left with children unwatched. It is not safe to carry lighted lamps from place to place. On Iowa woman was carrying a lamp upstairs, she stumbled and dropped it, setting fire to her clothing, receiving burns from which she died.

GETTING IN THE WAY OF THE FIREMEN

People have a great habit of making a dash for every fire that breaks out. They have no business there, but curiosity carries them over the streets and endangers the lives of people, and delays the fire department in getting to the scene of the conflagration. The Memphis Herald gave an account last week of an accident that came near proving fatal to a number of people. As the big fire truck came racing around a corner it collided with a car.
As it was the car was smashed to pieces and a spring broken on the truck, which delayed
its arrival at the fire, thus allowing the blaze to gain sufficient headway to practically destroy the home when had the truck not been delayed the fire could possibly have been handled without much damage. Appeals have been printed in newspapers throughout the United States. Lubbock newspapers have carried warning notices from the fire department and from the police department, but seemingly without much effect. There is an ordinance on the books of the city making it a finable offense for a motorist not to pull to the curb when the fire signal is sounded. It is also against the law for a car, or any other vehicle to approach closer than a block of fire apparatus answering an alarm, or to approach nearer than a block of a building on fire.

Every one of these ordinances are broken every time the fire alarm sounds, and unless they are enforced there are going to be more accidents, with possible injuries. A piece of fire department apparatus answering an alarm has right of way over everything. This applies to Uncle Sam's mail trains, which cannot proceed if doing so interferes with the work of the fire department in combatting a blaze.
On one occasion the writer happened to be in a place where he could observe the action of car drivers when the fire alarm sounded. Before the big siren started, there was not over three cars in motion on the entire square. Before the alarm had ceased, and previous to the passage of the fire truck, cars were backing out from the curb on every hand, and the square in a moment became a mass of moving cars. Through this traffic the driver of the truck had to pilot the big machine. Driving a ponderous machine weighing tons at a high rate of speed is no easy task on unobstructed streets, when the driver has to weave in and out of traffic, it becomes a dangerous task. If a car swings in front of the big truck, there is no possibility of avoiding a collision, except by the merest chance. The heavy truck cannot be stopped within less than a score of feet, and its long wheel base precludes dodging a collision. And when this mass of heavy steel strikes a car, the result is anything but pleasant. Again we make the appeal!

If you are on the street when the fire alarm
sounds, pull in to the curb.
If your car is parked when the alarm is sounded stay at the curb until the fire apparatus has passed.
In following the apparatus to a fire, do not approach nearer than a block of the truck.
When the fire is reached, do not park your car nearer than a block of the building on fire.
Failure to observe these rules will not only lay you liable to a fine, but may cost you even dearer in life and property.

HOMICIDE

Despite the gang wars of the past year and the introduction of the machine gun as a murderous weapon, the homicide rate in the United States will probably show a slight falling off for 1926. The reports for more than 17, 000,000 of the population indicate this; according to a life insurance company, which bases its prediction on the vital statistics of its industrial policyholders for eleven months of the year. However, the company contends, murder and manslaughter in their varying degrees still constitute a considerable blot on the country's public safety record, since the homicide rate still is twelve times greater than that prevailing in England and Wales and five and one-half times greater than that of Canada.
Among the policyholders, the homicide death rate was found to be much lower than that of the general population. We cannot take too much comfort from the slight betterment recorded so far this year," the finding comments.
"Year-to-year declines have been shown many times in the past, but they have proved to be only transitory and were followed by considerable increases in the subsequent years.
During the sixteen-year period 1911 to 1926,
the homicide rate for the industrial population has shown a slight upward tendency for the very time that the rate for suicides has been almost halved and that for accidents reduced very materially." In other words, while 1926 is expected to prove less murderous than the three years preceding, the showing is discounted by the fact that those years showed the highest homicide mortality ever recorded for the industrial population of the United States. If the distribution of mortality from this cause follows the experience of 1925, it should be found that New England is the least homicidal section of the country, for not a single death from this cause was reported among the white industrial policyholders of the company in Maine, New Hampshire or Vermont during that year. Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut were considerably below the average of the country as a whole. Other states with spotless records were Delaware, Colorado and Oregon, while Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Utah and District of Columbia were high in the ranking of states reporting infrequent homicides.
Still we find thousands of people who will contend that the world is getting worse all the time, and that the nation is going to the bow-wows. Homicide—the taking of one's life by another is less for 1926. Still there were a larger number than should be—and a great many more than necessary. And we are a long way from being the ideal nation along this line. Until the laws of the land are more severe on murderers, and criminals of all sorts,
and until the pardoning power is taken away from governors there will be little fear among the criminals, and it is fear that makes people obey the laws. Say what you please, but this is the case, and until there is fear enough in the people's minds to make them respect the laws there will be a great amount of crime.

While no schedule has been published, some idea of murder prices in Chicago may be gained from the confession of one Loren Patrick. He admits killing Fred Lindstrom, at Mrs. Lind-strom's request, for $137. The lady had hoped to collect life insurance and return to her first husband.

SO THINK WE

We think with the program of diversification that is being gradually worked into by the farmers of this section there need be no uneasiness
about the coming months.

We think we could not improve on the weather we have had the past two days, if it had all been left up to us to arrange.

We think most all the schools of the South Plains have shown a nice increase over the pre-Christmas enrollment.

We think it will be real interesting to some people who think we have zero weather on the South Plains to know that one day last week the thermometer registered 30 degrees at Plainsview.

We think there is one thing that Mrs. Governor Moody will be thankful for and that is she will not have to look for an apartment," said one of Lubbock's ladies, who has been having trouble finding a place to live in Lubbock. This possibly would not be such a task in Austin, however.

We think that few people are giving the legislature much attention this year. The Norris trial in Austin is serving as almost a total eclipse.

We think even after the list of pardons is completed by Mrs. Ferguson, governor of Texas, that there will still be enough of the poor left to do the work.

We think it might be a lesson to some of the road hogs when they learn that a couple of hogs were run over on the highway a few days ago and instantly killed.

We think the short course that will be given at several points in this county under the auspices of the country farm demonstrator should be well attended by Lubbock county farmers and their families. Much very valuable information will be given by men and women on the program who know what they are talking about and all of us need all the expert information that we can get in our lines of work.

We think there is always a bright side to a question if we will only look for it. For instance the bell bottom pants was a great relief to the how-legged lad. This would never be noticed with the wide pant legs.

We think a look at the bank statements of this county will convince most people that the South Plains lacks a great deal in being bankrupt.

We think the governor is now giving almost full time to the matter of pardons. It reminds one very much of a last day tax paying station.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that the reason some people who "live so high" do not live longer, than they do, is because the financial attitude does not agree with them.

It is reported that a large number of some of the presents that the adults received, but that will not keep you from giving presents again next year.

Just keep on trying, and maybe you will make one stick some time.

DIVERSIFICATION BEING PROVEN

Good Money from Cows
W. B. Cargill, farmer of the Carey community, has made more money out of his herd of 14 dairy cows, this year, than the average Chickasha occupied farmer made off two sections of land that was planted to cotton. And he stands to repeat his net profit of $1,000 each succeeding year. This is but another of the long string of testimonial from farm dairies that show that they are more profitable than cotton farming. Mr. Cargill has received for his cream sold at the Gate City Creamery during the past year, a total of 185,71 worth, according to a check-up of his checks. His feed bill was only 182.25, leaving him a net profit in cold, hard cash of $202.46. In addition to the milk, buttermilk and cheese used in the home and the skim milk which was fed to the hogs, Mr. Cargill estimates the value of the skim milk fed at half of the value of the cream, or $92,
which amount added to the net profit
for the cream, or $602.46 makes a total of $995.46 for the year, or very nearly $1,000.—CHIEFESS POST.

Kylsant's Fleet Is Rival of King George's in Size

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Writer

LONDON, Jan. 10.—King George may be commander-in-chief of the greatest fleet of war vessels in the world, but King Owen Kylsant is commander-in-chief of the greatest and farthest-flung fleet of peace-ships.

The big difference is, King George was born to his job but King Owen made his. King George was the son of a king. King Owen was the son of a preacher. And King Owen is a subject of King George.

The recent sale of the White Star
line to the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company makes Lord Kylsant unquestionably the biggest figure in the whole shipping world. He has been the star actor in some of the biggest coups ever pulled off when it came to buying whole fleets of vessels.

Of Old Welsh Family
The shipping king is a Welshman.

Lord Kylsant
coming from one of the oldest families
in that principality.
One of his ancestors, Sir Aaron Rys,
was a Crusader with King Richard the First to the Holy Land. For his valor there his king gave him some money (then and there) and a £22,000. Kylsant's own father was Canon Sir Thomas Phillips, the twelfth baronet. Owen Phillips, as Lord Kylsant then was known, went into business and prospered. Then he went into politics, first as a Liberal later as a Conservative.

He sat in the House of Commons from 1896 to 1916 for Pembroke and from 1916 to 1918 for Chester. At one time he and his two brothers were all in the House of Commons and were the tallest men in that body.

Owen Phillips was six-foot-seven.
His older brother, now Lord St. Lavy-dis, was six-foot-four, and his other brother, Gen. Sir Phillipps, was six-feet-three.

JUST FOLKS By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE LESSON
When you have found the sweetness of your sorrow,
In some far off tomorrow,
Out of your heart
Pain will depart.
And have a lovely beauty, you shall cherish,
A beauty that shall never fade or perish.
Though this dark day your heart is sick with grieving,
And torn with doubting,
Though now you weep,
Across the deep
Tempestuous sea of sorrow lies a shore
Where peace shall soothe your soul
Forevermore.
There you shall wake to find the pain
departed,
And braver-hearted
You'll go your way
From day to day
And smile once more, and turn unto
your labor,
To all mankind a gentler friend and neighbor.

HORNSBY DENIES ANY DEBT TO FRANK MOORE

CINCINNATI BETTING COMMISSIONER THREATENS SUIT ON ALLEGED $92,000 INDEBTEDNESS FROM BASEBALL STAR

(By Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, Jan. 10.—Denying that Rogers Hornsby former Cardinal manager, owes a cent to Frank L. Moore, Cincinnati betting commissioner, William L. Moore yesterday demanded that Moore furnish an itemized account of the $92,000 indebtedness which he alleges.

Moore and his attorney, William Burkamp of Newport, Ky., conferred with Hornsby and Pabey for more than an hour today and then returned to Cincinnati to compile the report. Burkamp said he expected to return here in a few days to take whatever action he considered necessary and intimated the action would be a law suit.

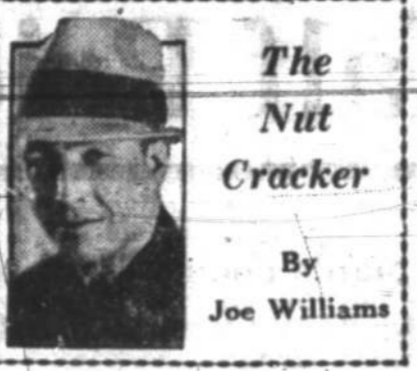

Moore alleged he had advanced money to Hornsby at various times to pay his debts and to make bets on horse races. He exhibited cancelled checks made payable to Hornsby and Moore for amounts ranging from $500 to $15,000.

Hornsby admitted he had numerous "transactions" with Moore, including a loan of $7,500 from him to make first payment on a St. Louis apartment house, but declared he had repaid this loan and owed him nothing. He said he had frequently received tips from Moore on horse races and he had both won and lost money on the tips, but declared he had never made a bet through Moore.

While here, Moore conferred with Sam Breadon, Cardinal president, in regard to the 3,116 shares of Cardinal stock which Hornsby owns.

Moore spent some time at the Cardinal training camp at San Antonio last spring as a guest of Hornsby, visited him in St. Louis and Cincinnati and was in New York during the world's series. Hornsby's friendliness for Moore was one of the causes of friction between Hornsby and Breadon which resulted in trading Hornsby to the New York Giants.

Moore said he frequently bet on baseball games, including those in which the Cardinals participated, but said Hornsby, although a heavy bettor on the races, never bet a cent on baseball, so far as he knew.

Thirteen twenty-six was one of the roughest years that ever started with a January and ended with a baseball scandal.

New high levels in business prosperity were reached in all lines of endeavor, except barbering. Landis still managed to evade the shears.

March came in like a lion and went out like a Rotarian. This was simultaneous with the collapse of the Florida boom. It had to happen. You can't stuff a grapefruit with sand and fool all of the people some of the time.

April was one of those months. It was one of those months that Browning was caught in the down-town district shopping for Cinerellas with or without cashy partners.

Nothing of importance occurred in May except that Ruth ran his total of home runs up to nine and ran three sets of St. Louis outfielders ragged. A scientist in Sioux City perfected an invention for hanging hang nails without use of scaffold.

Bobby Jones plunged state of Georgia into black despair by missing a three-foot putt. The cuckoo in Oklahoma clock was seized with stuttering spell and wrecked business of time-telling.

Susanne Lerchen decided to turn professional. It was easiest championship Helen Wills ever won. Red Grange continued to carry on but he traded his man's card for a safety deposit box.

Henry Ford threw his press agent into the ring for a five-day week. There was a method in Henry's madness but it died before it could be deciphered.

A girl with long hair won the Miss America contest at Atlantic City. It was not discovered that she had long hair until the judges looked at her picture three weeks after the electrifying tournament.

Turkey slipped Dempsey for a short of ornate captives. Nobody believed he could do it and twice as many agree now that he didn't. This is always the way. Even when a-b-b, and a-b-b, is on time it's late.

There are three ways to private trips but only one way to enjoy it. Let somebody else do the eating. Queen Marie cut her hair of America short after a trial of unshowered blonds had adopted her. This was chief reason why anti-after-touchdown rule came in for so much criticism.

Harry Wills was knocked out and St. Louis won the World Series. Hornsby never came steady. Higgins had an unusual scandal. A three-year-old baby was found that didn't know how to load an automatic.

The first newspaper put on Speaker and Cobb versus Landis showed 51 to 1 in favor of the ball players. Jim Bagby must have been pitching.

One of those who entered in the Catalina channel swim thinks a coating of grease is enough to wear. . . . Being sort of old fashioned.

Pat H. Pappasopoulos is listed as one of the entries in next year's Davis cup matches. . . . A guy who has won all those letters ought to be good.

Eight amateur boxing champions have just arrived from Sweden and Denmark. . . . These are, in addition to Knute Hansen and Harry Persson.

You can always tell a Swiss fighter because he's invariably in the windup.

Mr. O'Gearty says his faith in Speaker and Cobb remained unshaken until the logs began raining around with lawyers.

Red Grange completes professional football to a losing reputation. Perhaps it would have been more profitable if he had remained in amateur.

Of course, if there comes to worse Speaker and Cobb can sign with Mr. Pyle and take the country as something or other.

The sport records of the year can't be considered complete until the cow that poisoned Dempsey's coffee has been duly identified, and catalogued.

In most instances it is an honor to be a man of letters. . . . But in Dutch Leonard's case—You say it.

66 OUT FOR FRESHMAN BASKETBALL AT AUSTIN
AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 10.—About 60 men have signed up for freshman basketball this season at the University of Texas, according to Clyde Littlefield, freshman athletic coach. This number represents a little better than the average number of first year men out for training in that sport, he said.

Cochran, Grady Hiestandholm has gotten his night squad into action and he is planning fast development in the quarter that will defend the Black and Black in the cage tilts of the 1927 card. Already the crew is intensely interested and are quickly taking the work in earnest.

Rather slow development is being shown in the Westeners however, Coach Von Tungen is pleased with the work that the crew is showing. "I would rather a team be slow and sure in their development than for them to hit their stride early in the season and on a slump during the time of the district and county meets", stated Coach Von Tungen.

The Lubbock high school coaches are leaving nothing undone in the training and development of good football material. Right now Coaches Frank and Von Tungen have all available material that is enrolled in the school out for basketball training for nothing else than for development. Passing the football, both on forward passes and on passes from center, new material is taking interest and when the call is issued for training in the fall the coaches will have already dealt with the fundamentals of the game. The mentors plan also to have sprint training this spring for the instruction of fundamental football to new and unexperienced stuff.

Wonder just what K. Mountain Landis is thinking of doing with the recent baseball scandal. If he rules one out, he will have to put them all out—this would cost the leagues of the big shows, thousands and thousands of dollars—what will he do? He answers the matter on Wednesday.

The Matador cinder path crew is training daily for the late spring event. This season promises to be a good one for the Matador track men; the coaches have plenty of good material and the lads have taken to training in earnest already.

Wonder just what the Lubbock fans are going to do this summer in baseball—no one seems to care; yet the Hubbers have done as much as any one organization in the city to promote advertising for the city and the South Plains—can't some one suggest a way of solving the summer amusement? Send in your suggestion and it will be published without any hesitancy.

U. S. MAT MEN GO TO HAVANA TO HELP GAME

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—As a move to promote better feeling between the two countries, the Columbia wrestling team captain and coach have left for Havana, Cuba, to teach the University of Havana wrestlers during the holidays.

Mike Reist, Lion captain; Waldemar Aulis, last year's captain, and Dr. Carlos Henriquez, comprise the trio.

A dual meet between the two universities is expected to be the outcome of the trip.

Hawaii plans to send a team to the Pan-Pacific swimming meet in Japan next summer. An Australian team also is expected to participate.

Eight Players Change Hands in Four-Cornered Baseball Swap by National League Clubs

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—In a four-cornered baseball trade between the Philadelphia, New York and Brooklyn clubs of the national league and Buffalo of the international catcher Walter Healine and outfielder George Harpur were traded by the Phillies to the Giants for Lafayette Thompson and Jack Scott, and Healine was immediately traded by the Giants to Brooklyn for pitcher Burleigh Grimes.

Pitcher Raymond Pierce and infielder Bill Hatcher of the Phillies also were involved in the deal, going to Buffalo in exchange for pitcher Alex Ferriss, formerly with the Boston Red Sox, New York Yankees and Washington Senators.

The transaction carried an agreement that the Giants will send Buffalo a pitcher and outfielder upon optional agreement after the spring training season. Brooklyn will contribute a pitcher to the Blues on the same basis. These transfers will compensate the Buffalo club for Thompson, an infielder who formerly was with Pittsburgh.

Ex-Service Man of Lamesa Buried

LAMESA, Jan. 10.—J. T. Raney, ex-service man and war veteran, was buried here this week by the American Legion of this place. Mr. Raney died at Legion, Texas, after having suffered for several years with tuberculosis. He was formerly chaplain of the local post here.

The funeral services were conducted in the Methodist church of this city with the Rev. J. W. Watson officiating.

TO LECTURE AT CANYON COLLEGE

CANYON, Jan. 10.—President J. A. Hill of the West Texas State Teachers college has secured three outstanding men, in widely different fields to give a series of lectures during the summer session of 1927.

Boy scout workers and all others who are interested in boy life will be interested in the coming and lectures of J. Adams Puffer, nationally known boy expert who will be in Canyon July 5 to 9 inclusive. Dr. Puffer's coming will probably be the occasion for a meeting of all scout masters of the entire Panhandle area.

The second lecturer, Dr. Edwin E. Slosson, nationally known scientist and popular lecturer, will give two lectures on July 11. Dr. Slosson is known all over the United States and has been a special favorite with Texas audiences.

Summer students at Canyon and townspeople have always shown themselves keenly interested in these speakers who bring to this region first-hand knowledge of world affairs and world thought as seen in environments radically different from this.

Scoutmaster, who is probably the most brilliant and eloquent representative of the scout in America, will deliver a series of lectures at the college auditorium July 19, 21 and 22. Rossini has been held by the press of the United States as the most brilliant lecturer on the American platform today. He brings to America a unique and first-hand knowledge of the problems of the day, this knowledge gleaned from years of editorial experience in Asia and Europe where he has been an active and powerful journalist.

The first name of this lecturer, Syed, indicates that he is a direct descendant of Mohammed. He comes of an aristocratic family whose ancestors settled in India hundreds of years ago.

CHAPLIN DIVORCE

"so damn sick of me you won't want to live here."

The charge is made by Mrs. Chaplin that Chaplin prior to their marriage had delayed the ceremony as long as possible, seeking to avoid it and later in the complaint she declares that he offered her "a half million" rather than marriage.

The first threat against her life, as told by Mrs. Chaplin came two weeks after their marriage. Chaplin had been threatening her with the gun and when she protested said "I might go crazy some time and kill you." A second threat was made, she charges, the night of November 29, 1925, a few hours prior to her leaving Chaplin's home in the estrangement which led to the present divorce case.

Throughout their married life, the comedian ridiculed and scoffed, according to Mrs. Chaplin, at her ideas of morality and marriage. He told her of a couple with five children who were not married.

"That is the ideal way for a man and a woman to live together," she quoted him as saying.

Not only was the first child of the Chaplin marriage a most unwelcome one to the father, according to the divorce complaint, but the comedian also objected to the second. "What do you want to do; populate Los Angeles?" he is quoted as saying.

He argued with her on several occasions "to go away some place, I can't work or create when you are here. You are ruining my career."

"Why, Charley," Mrs. Chaplin said she protested, "I don't understand how I interfere with your work, I don't see you or annoy you."

"That isn't it," he is quoted as replying, "It is just the fact that you are here, I am supposed to give the usual attention to a home and family. It annoys me and irritates me, and I cannot work."

"If you get spunky" Mrs. Chaplin said he told her, "and do anything that will reflect on me or cause a scandal, I have enough money to do anything, and I can pay somebody to be about you if it is necessary to prevent you from getting a cent."

MULLICAN'S CHARGE

at a minimum."

As to the rumors current about public officials, he said: "This is a case of and we ought to clear up the situation in justice to them."

His charge to the jury, in part, was as follows:

The Charge:

"It is the duty of the Judge of the court to charge certain matters to the grand jury after it has been impeached. This grand jury, I think, is going to have a great deal of work to do. There are some special matters that I want to call to your attention.

"We are starting out with new conditions. We are starting out here with a situation in this country of this kind. You all know the business conditions, you know the failure of crop prices, you know that people are in debt, many of them are left destitute. You know that this country has been so highly advertised in the past, people have come out here from all sections of the country. They have come out here and been disappointed, not in the country or production of the soil, or people, but they have been disappointed in the prices they have received for their products.

Riffraff Blamed

"In the near future, if the present effort on the part of all men avail us anything, there will probably be an oil boom in this country. These conditions must be faced by the grand juries and courts of this country and it is upon us right now and we must try to rid our counties and cities of the class of people that are living here by the violation of the criminal laws of this state. We know they have been in the police and sheriff's department are catching them every day. We are having burglaries and petty thefts and we are having bootleggers by the wholesale, and are having violations of every law. This is not being done by the old citizens of this country who have been out here for a long time, but it is being done by people who have come here seeking new opportunities, but they have become poverty stricken and are stranded here, and people like that are going to get into trouble sooner or later; they are here for what they can get out of the country and it is up to us to take care of the situation.

Prohibition

"The first thing that I want to discuss with you for a few moments this morning is the matter of prohibition. I don't know whether you will do with the prohibition statutes. I know we have to enforce them, but it has come to me more forcibly year by year that there is something dead wrong and that the people who voted prohibition in this country did not know the psychology of human nature. Prohibition as we have experienced it in the past few months, has developed this fact: it seems not to apply to the rich but only to the poor. Any man with money can go out here and buy whisky if he will pay $5, $7 or $10 a quart. He can get the whisky that won't kill him, but a man that has to pay a small amount for his whisky will get stuff that poisons him. The newspapers have recently been full of Christmas poisonings.

"I have read statements of men who have made a study of this question who claim that it has saved the poor man a great deal of money, but he has more money in the bank and that he dresses better and feeds his family better, but I don't know whether that is true, or not. I know that if he is paying $7 a quart for his whisky when he used to pay $1 a quart that he is not saving any money, if he is buying much whisky. I don't know whether he is buying much of it, or not, but I do know there are drunks all over the town, county and state. If there was not a great deal of whisky being bought there would not be so many bootleggers, because they have to make money out of the business or they wouldn't take the chances they are taking. So this prohibition law has brought into existence a condition that we simply cannot understand.

"I do sincerely believe that, were it not for whisky and prohibition, this court would not have much to do because the majority of our cases are either the possession of bootleggers or the prosecution of men who drive automobiles while in a drunken condition, or the prosecution of men who have committed crimes under the influence of bootleg liquor. This has brought to us an entirely new business, 'the bootlegging business.' Do you know that the bootleggers themselves, who are high in the profession, have created organizations and associations? They have their paid attorneys, their general attorneys who represent them. In nearly every town in this country there are lawyers who are special agents of these general attorneys and who are hired to represent the bootleggers in these various towns. We have them here in this town.

"It is a legitimate business for the lawyer, he is within his rights when he accepts that kind of business, that is all right, somebody has to represent the bootlegger, but I am explaining to you the system by which it is worked. For instance a man is caught transporting whisky in this county; when he is arrested he is placed in jail and in just a little while, as soon as he can get word to the outside, there will be a lawyer or a firm of lawyers who represent him and secure a bond for him. He has already in his possession the name of this firm of lawyers who will represent him; it was given to him by the general attorneys of the association. He calls up these lawyers here and they come over and fix his bond. The bond is made sometimes as a cash bond and if not that way, by some bonding company.

"When this bond is made and the defendant is on the outside, if he is a member of the association, that is the last we ever see of him. He is gone. Why? Because $1,000 or $1,500 is paid money to this association. They pool their interests and they pay their dues and, for $1,000 or $1,500 they make their bond and then skip the country and that is the last we ever see or hear of them. That sort of a situation never existed before the days of prohibition, but it exists now. Another serious fact is that the bootlegger and the bootlegger's business has become heroic, he has become a heroic character in the minds of many of our people. He is a man that many of our people almost worship because he stands out as a gallant character who is hounded by the officers of the law, yet outwits them and continues to sell and transport whisky in spite of everything that the law can do.

"The young people, especially of this country are worshippers of the heroic bootlegger who is able to put it over the law. That is the situation that confronts us and the effect of it is, the country do not like it. They despise the law, it is not being enforced because the people of the country do not like it. They despise the law itself, therefore they are not in sympathy with its enforcement. That is our situation. You on the outside have something to do about it, we don't know how to do it; the federal government doesn't know how to do it, and they are right now taxed to the very limit to secure some means whereby they can solve this problem. I don't know what you gentlemen are going to do about it.

"I know we must enforce this law as long as it is a law. I am not advocating repealing or referring it. I cannot suggest a remedy. How could I when some of the greatest minds of the nation are racking their brains day by day to arrive at some solution of the problem. I know the bootleggers and rum runners are becoming heroic figures along our coast lines. They have their yachts and launches armed with small caliber cannon and machine guns, and as prevalent has it become that the law has its hands full in dealing with them, to the detriment of other lines of business.

Burglaries

"That brings me to another stage of this matter. You know that during the Christmas season store after store was burglarized and I think that situation arose in this manner. Our officers have their hands so full with the prohibition question that they simply cannot devote their time to the protection of these stores and the business houses of this town. I would like for you gentlemen, when you have investigated this situation, to see if you can arrive at some local solution of it. In other words, you can interest the city of Lubbock in securing a number of new police officers, the city has the authority to do that, but the county has not. The sheriff's office is bound down to a certain number of deputies, and the city police department is limited to its numbers. If you can interest the city authorities, I wish you would do it. You have the right to call over here, in the interest of good order and in the interest of law enforcement, the heads of our city government and confer with them and show them this situation. The last grand jury rap up against the same snag—and did not know what to do. If the city police department can give us a greater number of police officers, we can give these business houses the proper protection and enforce the laws as we have in the past.

"You will find that there is a bootlegger fraternity in this very town. You will find that in nearly every one of the hotels in this town is bootlegged. That the negro porters are bootlegging it. You will find that there is a clearing house in this town for prostitution; that men who engage rooms at our hotels can simply call the porter and tell him who and what he wants and get exactly what he ordered. Everywhere I go I find traveling men who comment on it that our hotels are overrun with bootleg whisky and common prostitutes. Those things may not be of interest to you, I don't know. It might be a situation that has come up out of the present conditions, but we must do something to hold them down. I am not asking you to attempt to eradicate it, I don't think you can do it, but if you don't hold them down it will not be long until that class of people will be in the saddle and the law on the run and you know what that means, simply a state of anarchy. You know sitting here as we do, day in and day out, I don't think that the ordinary run of people on the outside cannot see.

Younger Generation

"Not long ago I saw a picture in one of our newspapers of Thomas Edison and where he had made a statement that it is better that a child should be seen nothing wrong with the youth of this country. Our local newspapers here in editorial after editorial will tell you the same thing. I cannot understand why the newspapers will print such a thing, but I understand Edison, who is eighty years of age and who never leaves his room except in a limousine, and whose mind has been devoted to the electrical world and who knows nothing about modern social conditions. Yet people will seize upon a statement of a man like that and believe it is true, they need not deceive themselves as to the conditions of the morals of the present day youth.

"The present generation of young people is guilty of violations of nearly all of our moral laws. Through a spirit of adventure and a belief in the heroic, the girls think it is smart to learn to drink forbidden liquors, to smoke cigarettes and to wear. They want to be as much like their boy friends as they possibly can. As a general thing they have no boy friends unless they can drink, smoke and swear. These evils have led them into worse until they have broken down the school code. I do not say that they all are guilty, but in our high school and in the Tech college there are a number of students who are guilty of these things and who should be eliminated from the student body before they contaminate the balance of the schools. It has not been published to the world, but most of the burglaries and petty thefts this town has experienced in the past several months have been committed by students of the Tech college. We have protected them to the extent of light fines and sentences. It is now time that their operations cease in order that business houses may be safe and that the traveling public can safely leave its property in automobiles for a few moments and expect to find the property there upon returning. We have tried hard to make Lubbock a safe place, for the Tech college, I don't think that the college should make itself safe for Lubbock. If the student body of the college and its faculty members will join hands with us and help us to run down the few of its members who are attempting to secure an education by violating the law, we can soon eliminate a situation that is a disgraceful situation in the future. I want you to investigate any student charged with a criminal offense just as you would any other person whose name has been brought before you.

City Officials

"Now gentlemen, I am getting down to another thing that I want to talk to you about, something I want you to go into. It is being noised all over the country that in the cities of Slaton and Lubbock the city officials are guilty of misapplication of funds, that they are guilty of one thing and another that is taking the tax money of the citizens of this community. Gentlemen, I don't know whether that is so or not, but I do know this, that these rumors are hurting the business interests of United States have their eyes on West Texas, they are watching this country and they are watching the growth of its citizenship and its farming interests, and it is a mighty thing when it gets out all over this country, that the officials of the cities of Slaton and Lubbock are nothing more than thieves. People walk these sidewalks over here and hand out that sort of a statement. Gentlemen, if those things are true, the guilty city officials, these two cities ought to be behind the bars of the penitentiary of the State of Texas. If they are not true then let's stop this talk. Now I want, through the newspapers, to invite every citizen of this county, or any other person, who knows anything about this matter or who thinks he does, to come before this grand jury and inform us. If these things are going on I want you to return bills of indictment against the guilty parties and I will see that they are prosecuted. This is a matter of put up or shut up. You owe it to yourselves, to this community and to the city officials to go to the bottom of this thing. I think our city officials will welcome this investigation."

Car Shortage Overcome by Co-operation

The Santa Fe gives this a practical demonstration in 1926. You are invited to read this account of an achievement which saved Santa Fe patrons millions of dollars.

Five years ago one of the most serious transportation problems was the handling of very heavy freight traffic resulting from unusually large production and requiring prompt movement to secure favorable markets.

Even though the railroads did their best, car shortage and congestion were the natural results of such peak movements. And because of this slowing up everybody suffered. Such losses involved not only large sums of money, but partial paralysis of business. These transportation enemies now have been overcome.

To illustrate, the Santa Fe in June and July, 1926, had an enormous wheat crop to handle from Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas to the big markets. To provide for prompt handling 12,500 box cars in first-class condition had been distributed on sidetracks in the territory where they would be needed.

The demand for cars, however, resulting mainly from the use of "combines,"—which converted wheat standing in the field in the morning into wheat ready for loading in the afternoon,—was largely in excess of what had been anticipated.

ligible car shortage, without congestion, and with little or no delay, something never before accomplished under similar car-loading demands.

What made such a result possible? Co-operation of everyone interested and the loyal and efficient work of Santa Fe employees.

To meet the crisis the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association, with the consent of other railroads, diverted to the Santa Fe every available box car at Chicago regardless of ownership.

The Santa Fe also had the most hearty and helpful co-operation of Regional Advisory Boards, Terminal and Port Committees, State Grain Inspection Departments, State Railway Commissions, and the United States Shipping Board. Shippers and receivers of wheat also helped. And there was the whole-hearted support of its own employees.

This is a practical and convincing proof that co-operation can meet every transportation demand, eliminate car shortage and congestion, and save producers and shippers hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

The Santa Fe wishes to express its sincere appreciation of this co-operation and of the efficient and loyal service of its employees.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
To the home of PROF and MOLLIE ELWELL in Camdenville, Ind., one night in October, 1926, is brought a woman who had fainted on a train. That night she bears twin girls and dies without revealing her name.

The story then moves forward 18 years. The twins, now growing to beautiful womanhood, have been adopted and named MARGARET and ELIZABETH. They are called RUSTY and BETTY. JIM ELWELL, the son, enlists in the World War. He then discovers that one of the twins loves him.

He is shell-shocked at the Battle of Sedan and at first is reported dead. Finally he is identified at a New York hospital and his mother and father hasten to him, to find that his memory is gone, that he is like a living dead man.

Specialists despair of his recovery. They believe an operation might be fatal. His parents decide to take him home. The day before they are to leave, NURSE NELLIE DOWNING and his mother leave him for a few minutes and he disappears.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXI

The ride that followed Mollie Elwell was to remember evoked afterword as the wildest experience of her life. It was a ride in which she rode the gamut of human emotions, it seemed to her, from the choking grip of anxiety to the peak of exultant hope and from deep down into the black depths of despair.

The rain had started coming down in torrents again, and the night was lit by occasional lightning flashes. The downpour against the windows of the taxicab, mingled with the roar of rear of thunder and of traffic made a tremendous din and speech had to be pitched high if one wanted to make himself heard.

Mike Hennegan looked for a long time at Mollie as she sat beneath the light in the taxicab's ceiling. As he watched, the car turned into Broadway from Hanover square. The muscles of his throat tightened and he began to think.

Mike Hennegan was nobody's fool. Here was a woman, he was saying to himself, who had stood just about all any woman in the world was capable of standing. First she had been told that her son was dead. When she had been notified by the war department that he was alive, and she had found him a human wreck. Now—now even that wreck was lost. Mike began to talk.

"You know, Prof," he began in a casual shout that would be heard above the chatter of the rain and the sounds of storm and traffic. "I was born in New York. It happened one morning when I was every young, it was on April Fool's day, and it was raining—raining gloriously.

"My old man looked out the window and the rain stopped. Yep. Then he tied a string on the end of growler, put a dime in it and dropped it out of the window.

"Then he called down the ratrips to Casey's bartender below. Two minutes later he got the office—a pull on the string that meant the bartender had heard him and had filled up the can.

"An' then it began to rain again. Sufferin'! But how it did rain! I tell you, Prof, you got the moral of what I'm tellin' you. Casey's bartender swore it was the rain that blooded the works, but when my old man handed up the can an' gave what had caught, he swore that someone had taken advantage of him. You see, it was April Fool's day, as I've been sayin'. That's why I'm always sad on April Fool's day."

He paused and looked again at Mollie Elwell, who was staring out of the window of the cab.

"Another time" Mike began, but before he could do any more of his "chirking up" the taxi slowed to a stop. They were in front of police headquarters, and Nellie Downing turned to Prof.

"You said Mike stay here with Mollie," she said, making ready for a dash through the rain to the shelter of the burning. "I'll have a general call sent out, for Jim must have been picked up by this time. He couldn't be on the street very long without attracting the attention of some traffic officer or someone who would turn him over to a policeman."

The door slammed shut behind her as she darted out and across the sidewalk. Mike Hennegan leaned forward and tapped Prof. Elwell on the knee. "Jim tells you, Prof," he said in a serious tone, "they don't make 'em any finer than that little girl right there. You ought to've seen the way she took care of us guys over in France when we was all gassed up an' shot up an' crazy an' everything. Sometimes she'd be on duty for 18 hours—20 hours—at a stretch. I've seen her work 'till she was ready to drop. An' never a word of complaint. She's pure gold, all right, through an' through. Nellie Downing is. Did you ever hear her complain, Prof?"

"I never did," said Prof. earnestly. "She's all that you say she is. She's a mighty sweet little woman. Mollie and I certainly owe her a lot for what she's done for us. And you, too, Mike. We can never repay you if it hadn't been for you, Mike, we might never have learned that Jim was alive."

"God grant that he's still alive!" breathed Mollie in a prayerful whisper she had drawn apart from the two men, was listening to only half of what they said.

"Prof bowed his head for a second. "Mike" he said presently, "tell me—is Nellie Downing in love with Jim?" Mollie's eyes shut quickly. Her mouth trembled. And Mike pursed up his lips meditatively.

"Well," he said, starting out into the rain, "don't know as I'm a judge of that. She's been mighty good to him, she's broke about every rule in the hospital the way she's attended to him. She went down to Washington to straighten out his identity, an' she said for that out of her own pocket. You know, the morning she reported to the superintendent in Long Island she was technically on duty the minute she handed over her papers."

"It was irregular, her going to Washington, but the superintendent, he made a job for me, for instance, when I was down an' out. No, I couldn't tell you whether she was in love with him. You'll have to judge for yourself."

"Prof looked troubled. "What a shame!" he breathed. "But," said Mike, "the main thing is to find the lad."

"Oh, Prof," Mollie burst out, "do you think we'll find him?" He patted her arm. "Of course. We're bound to find him. He can't run around loose without being picked up sooner or later by some policeman."

"But will we find him alive?" "Now Mollie, don't worry." "But I can't help worrying. Oh, Jim, Jim!" She turned away again to stare out the window.

Nellie Downing came racing through the rain. She climbed into the cab.

"We're going to the Planet building first to pick up Jack Nevin. Meanwhile he's having inquiries made at every hospital. He talked to the officer in charge here and they're going to work their heads off to help us. Oh, I'm sure Jack will be a big help."

"You say," asked Prof, "that this man Nevin left a leg over in France?" "Yes, he did," said Prof. "He's got a Congressional Medal of Honor, too. He's just a wonderful fellow and a fine newspaperman. He said he would help us all night if necessary."

A few minutes afterward the cab stopped in front of the Planet building. A man moved out from the shelter of the doorway. He was hobbling on a crutch, but he moved quickly and surely. Mike Hennegan got out of the cab and helped him in.

"This," said Nellie Downing, "is Jack Nevin." "Glad to know you all," to Prof he said, "tell the driver to take us to the Metropolitan hospital."

"The hospital," Mollie Elwell cried. "Now don't be alarmed," he hastened to reassure her. "I've been asking questions. It seems a man was brought in at the Met hospital. Brought over from Broadway and Fifth street an hour or so ago. Seems he fell off a street car. They say he isn't hurt to any extent but he is dazed state and they can't get him to speak. He was dressed in a gray suit and answers the description I got of your son from Miss Downing here."

"The fact that they can't get him to talk seems a pretty good reason for thinking it's Jim Elwell. He could have reached Fifth street by a car from the foot of Broadway."

"He's boarded cars with us several times down there," said Prof. Nevin turned down his coat collar. He was a blond young man with wavy hair and pale, finely chiseled features. One of his legs was gone from a point halfway between knee and hip.

He spoke to Nellie Downing. "Seems good to see you again," he said. To Prof and Mollie he explained: "You see, Miss Downing was very good to me."

"She's been good to a lot of us," said Mike Hennegan. "I guess you're right, brother. Did you get a bit of it over there, too?" Nevin went on to explain something about the procedure in street accidents. "Very often the police get the reports of accidents, especially on the streets, before the injured reach the hospital. In fact, it is the police ambulance usually that gets to the scene first."

"He informed Mike that—yes, he was a reporter. "I used to be what you call a leg man. I guess you'll call me only half a leg man now," carefully looking at his amputated limb. "So I'm doing rewrite most of the time now. The city editor let me cover this, though, when I put it up. It was in the window of it that I lost my leg. I was in a hospital in France when the Armistice was signed. That's where I met Miss Downing in January. She was doing postwar duty."

His words were drowned in the roar of an elevated train overhead.

Canyon Cow Hangs Up New Record

(Special to The Avalanche)
CANYON, Jan. 10.—Little Agatha, one of the fine Jerseys of the West Texas State Teachers college farm here, has established another record. In October, Little Agatha produced more butter fat than any other Jersey cow of any class in Texas. During the same month she held the second highest record for the entire United States in the three and one-half year old class to which she belongs. She produced about two pounds of butter fat per day during the October period.

DRUNK FINED $16.50

Is one "drunk" worth $16.50? This is the question which has agitated the mind of a man who appeared before Justice W. S. Clark yesterday morning on a charge of having been intoxicated, and was fined $5 and costs, to the total above named.

Rheumatic Pains Yield to Capudine

No matter what treatment your doctor may be giving you for the cure of rheumatism, you will find that the addition of Capudine to the treatment will greatly assist in relieving the pain and reducing the fever and inflammation. Ask your physician about Capudine—nearly all of them approve it and many prescribe it regularly as a part of their treatment for rheumatism, gout, sciatica, lumbago, neuralgia and nervous headache.

Remember that rheumatism is a dangerous disease. It should have the attention of your physician and every available remedy should be employed for the comfort, safety and welfare of the patient. Physicians and druggists also recommend Capudine as the safe, quick and dependable agent for relieving nervous pains and high nerve tension. Every home should be supplied with Capudine. Get a bottle today at your druggist's and if you do not like it far better than anything you have ever tried, the manufacturers will cheerfully refund the price upon request. BUDGET SET FOR CHISHOLM SCOUTS

$7,000 WANTED DURING 1927. FOR BOY SCOUTS WORK IN ABILENE AREA

(Special to The Avalanche)
ABILENE, Jan. 10.—The financial budget of the Chisholm Trail Area council, Boy Scouts of America, has been set at $7,000 for 1927. This council embraces Taylor, Haskell, Jones, Shackelford, Runnels and Coleman counties and the headquarters office is in this city. Ed Spumway is the area executive for this year and will soon start mapping out plans for the work of the council.

No definite date has been set for starting the campaign to secure the budget, but no difficulty is expected on that undertaking. Some $3,000 of the total will be secured in Abilene, scout officials think.

E. E. Voss of Dallas, deputy regional executive was in this city recently on a tour of inspection. While here Voss said West Texas people were deeply interested in the scouting program. He declared that the area council with headquarters in Abilene, San Angelo, Sweetwater, Lubbock and Eastland were all being given splendid support and the scope of the work being done by these organizations is greatly increasing.

EIGHT BOYS AND TEN GIRLS NOMINATED IN POPULARITY CONTEST OF SENIOR CLASS AT LUBBOCK HIGH SCHOOL

Eight boys and ten girls have been nominated in the popularity contest in the senior class of the high school. Pictures of winners to appear in the class year book. Voting will start Wednesday for the best all-round boy and girl and a run-off election will be held between the two highest in each race to determine the winner, according to Miss Eula J. Hurst, class sponsor.

Another vote will determine the most popular boy and the most popular girl from the remaining candidates she said. Since two classes of students are to be selected from the groups already nominated, the students are to decide before they begin voting just whom they wish in each class, she said.

Girls who have been nominated are Misses Ada McCarty, Etta Mae Brown, Lorraine Hays, Sally Sears, Ruby Arnett, Lois Love, Edith Hicks, Lucille Jordan, Mary Boyles and Louise Paulker. Boys who have been nominated are Homer Hardhorne, Maurice Powell, Buddy Brothers, Robert Kennedy, Rupert Hays, Mancel Hall, Lawrence Green and Cyrus Leland.

A long north-south extension for the Marland Oil company's No. 2 J. C. Mason, a quarter of a mile west of the discovery well is dry at a depth of 2,564 fifty feet deeper than the average depth at which the neighboring wells are producing. The Tensie No. 2 will be north of the Howell and between Tensie No. 1 and the Howell No. 1, while the Phillips No. 1 Thornton will be northwest of the Howell and between it and the Mid-West Exploration company's No. 1 Thornton, which is no pumping an average of 430 barrels per day.

The Howell well has not been completely drilled into the sand as the hole had to be cleaned after the water was stopped. All indications so far point toward that well being a good producer.

Building and Loan Association Elects

Stockholders of the Lubbock building and loan association met yesterday afternoon in the office of the association in the Lubbock National Bank building and re-elected the entire directorate, who in turn re-elected all the officers of the association, as follows: J. Sam C. Arnett, vice-president, president Citizens National bank.

W. A. Bacon, vice-president, capitalist.

THREE NEW WELLS FOR NOODLE CREEK

HAS AUTHORIZED DRILLING NEAR ABILENE

(Special to The Avalanche)

ABILENE, Jan. 10.—The Phillips Petroleum company's headquarters office at Bartlesville, Okla., have authorized three new wells in the Noodle Creek field in the southwest part of Jones county, twenty-two miles west of Abilene. These wells, R. M. Brasley No. 1, Tensie No. 2 and Irt Thornton No. 1, will be started at once.

The Brasley well will be a short distance west of the No. 1 E. Howell of the Atlantic and Landroth companies which struck the pay sand several weeks ago, but which has just recently begun producing oil on account of the hole having filled with water. The Howell well is three-quarters of a mile south of the Joe Winter No. 1, the discovery well in this pool and oil operators declare the Howell proves beyond a doubt that the new oil area

Huerta To Lead Revolt In Mexico, Downfall Of Calles Near, He Says In Interview

Adolfo de la Huerta, President Elias Calles, Alvaro Obregon

EDITOR'S NOTE: Adolfo de la Huerta, former provisional president of Mexico, and an exile to the U. S. since the collapse of this 1923 revolt, asserted in an interview given NEA Service that the downfall of the present Calles government is near.

He called Calles, Alvaro Obregon and Luis Morones "tyrants who have killed Mexican liberties, blocked Mexico's progress, and shackled freedom of conscience."

No cannonading, no rattle of musketry yet has echoed across the border. But "many strong-armed groups" have called on Huerta to take command of a new rebellion, he said.

"I have given my word that I will join them when the country considers this necessary," he added.

First Revelation

Huerta for several weeks has been traveling back and forth along the border, on the American side. The interview he gave NEA Service was the first revelation of his plans.

"I am with the revolution, whether I agree as its leader or whether I go into the field as a private," he said.

He accused the Calles government of Bolshevik leanings, declared the Obregon-Calles regime has "robbed Mexico of internal prosperity and the respect of foreign nations," and outlined the following revolutionary platform:

Complete religious freedom in Mexico, with Catholics and Protestants allowed to worship unimpeded by the state.

Abolition of dictatorship in any form.

Breaking up of the Regional Confederation of Mexican Workers—an organization ostensibly similar to the American Federation of Labor, but which de la Huerta says has been made a "Communist, unscrupulous political weapon" by Calles, Obregon, and Luis Morones, head of the labor body.

Restoration of Mexican industry, and business and the same interpretation of the rights of foreign capital in Mexico that is the usage of international law.

Calles and Obregon, Huerta asserts, have set up a dictatorship to perpetuate their power.

No Neutrality Violation

De la Huerta was careful to explain that thus far he has taken no active part in the revolt.

"America has given me shelter," he says, "I have lived these past three years under the protection of the laws of the United States, and I will not commit one act in violation of these laws—neutrality laws or others."

"I want only the greatest good for Mexico, honorably won. I hope no foreign power, American or other, will lend the help of money or arms to Calles."

"But whether they get foreign help or not, Calles and Obregon are doomed. They signed their own death warrant when they signed the orders that let loose a flood of Bolshevism in Mexico. The people of Mexico now in revolution do not need foreign aid to liberate themselves."

"The revolution soon will put an end to the absurd and tragic farce of the present regime in Mexico."

"If America had not helped Calles and Obregon in 1923, Mexico would have been spared the bloodshed, crimes and horrors of these past three years." (Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)

ENTRIES POUR IN FOR FIRST ANNUAL HIGHLAND POULTRY SHOW, WHICH IS TO BE HELD IN ALPINE JANUARY 19

ALPINE, Texas, Jan. 10.—With entries pouring in from local poultry exhibitors, the first annual highland poultry show promises to be very successful and will likely be a much bigger fair than was at first expected.

Dr. J. E. Wright, president of the show, has just had published attractive show catalogues, giving the rules governing the first highland poultry show, which will be held in Alpine, January 18 and 19. He says that it is surprising that the three highland counties, Presidio, Jeff Davis and Brewster, already have so many fine show birds in the association in only about three months' time. There will be birds on display from Fort Davis, Marfa, Presidio, Valentine, Alpine, Marathon and probably as far away as Freeling—besides it is expected that poultry breeders from all parts of Texas will have exhibits at Alpine during the show.

V. R. Glasgow of the A. & M. extension service will judge the show, and F. W. Kazemir, poultry expert of Bryan, Texas, will be in Alpine and lecture on poultry, during the poultry show. It is expected that other prominent poultry raisers of Texas will be present also. President Shirley Scales of the Brewster county chamber of commerce, is planning a banquet on Thursday evening, January 20, honoring Messrs. Glasgow and Kazemir, and other out of town guests, at which time addresses will be made by the honor guests and others.

The staging of this the first highland poultry show marks the beginning in earnest of a new industry in the Big Bend-Davis Mountain section of the State, which will be one of the really big money crops, if indications are true. The Brewster county chamber of commerce is financing the show this year, and believes in the poultry industry so strongly for this section, that it will back it from year to year, until it is a going thing.

Who Makes Big Money?

It is the Man Who is Willing to Take

A CHANCE

On a Conservative Basis

—Some of the largest oil Companies are taking this Chance, for most every one knows the big oil companies are leasing the oil rights all over the South Plains, as can easily be substantiated by referring to the various County records.

Your Ship Won't Come In Until You Send It Out!

Today there are several test wells being drilled in different parts of the South Plains which surely does indicate that the South Plains is to have a real test for Oil during the year 1927, but today the well that is attracting the most attention is the Yellow House No. 1 located 12 miles southwest of Littlefield, and 4 mile East of PEP. This well is reaching the interesting depth, and is being watched by the big oil companies with great interest, which is evidenced by the active leasing of land surrounding this Well.

Now a small amount of money will give you a chance, with the others who are looking forward, expecting this well to be a real Oil well. Now is the time to get in if you have any idea of doing so, for should it be a producer, then you know it will be big moneyed man's game, and the little man is out. The thing is do you want to take a chance.

If you are interested in the above we would be pleased to have you call on us, as we have some very attractive offers to make you; also would appreciate a visit from any of our friends. We are now located in Ellis Bldg., room 211, Lubbock, Texas. Phone 1672.

THE FASTEST AIRPLANES

The fastest airplanes, the "pursuit" planes used in the great war, were not the big bombers lumbering through the air. They were the tiny "avions," darting from cloud to cloud seeking the enemy. In many respects the same is true of Avalanche-Journal Want Ads. They dart from prospect to prospect seeking their objective. They usually find what they go after and at low cost.

DAILY MARKET

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 10. (AP)—The cotton market was more active today and prices showed a more pronounced upward trend than at any time in a considerable period. There was a five point recession in the early trading on the good weather in the belt. The large sales in Liverpool for the day of 10,000 bales, and the optimistic advices from Manchester induced covering and later there was good trade buying as well as demand from outsiders for investment. This demand caused prices to advance steadily and by the middle of the afternoon active months showed gains over the early close of 10 to 25 points. There were then a slight reaction of 3 to 5 points on some realizing but the undertone remained steady. There was a little further profit taking in the late trading, causing prices to lose five to seven points of the earlier gains. The close was steady showing net gains for the day of 20 to 22 points. Liverpool came in about as due and first trades here showed gains of 2 points to a loss of one point. Prices which eased off moderately on the good weather in the belt, March trading down to 1282, May to 1300 and July to 1316. The market then rallied and was on the upgrade all morning and well into the afternoon, March trading up to 1314, May to 1332 and July to 1348. The market then reacted on a little realizing, closing 5 to 7 points under the highs. Exports for the day totalled 33,964 bales. Exports for season now exceeded last year by 1,029,483 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 10. (AP)—The cotton market was more active and firmer today on indications of a broadening demand from both trade and commission house sources on the advance which carried prices into new high ground for the present movement. March sold up to 1316 or 22 points above the closing quotation Saturday and 1340 points above the low levels of early last month. That delivery closed at 1310, the general market closing steadily, at net advances of 15 to 21 points. The opening was steady at a decline of 2 points to an advance of 1 point. There was some southern selling and liquidation or reselling by buyers of the last week, who seemed to be disappointed over the failure of the weather map to show any rains in the southwest. Active months sold about 5 to 7 points net lower in early trading, but after initial offerings had been absorbed, prices turned steadier. Encouraging reports of the cotton goods trade both at home and in Lancashire appeared to be accompanied by more trade buying to fix prices in the local market, and the way southern hedge selling tapered off after the first half hour, seemed to create bullish sentiment. Demand broadened, with some commission house buying reported as well as covering, and stop orders were uncovered as prices worked into new high ground. January sold up from 1274 to 1306, while May advanced from 1308 to 1334, net gains of about 20 to 25 points on active positions, and the highest prices touched in the market here since last September. There was little southern selling in evidence on the close, with 2 1/2 to 3 points of the best on active positions. Private reports pointing to a reduction in acreage and use of fertilizers, may have contributed to the advance, but the factors more generally emphasized were reports of trade demand, and failure of the reported better progress in picking late cotton to bring in more selling by the south. Exports today 32,499 making 5,852,250 so far this season. Port receipts 48,995, U. S. port stocks 2,962,621.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 10. (AP)—Wheat traded upward today influenced by a bigger decrease of the United States visible supply than was looked for. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, 1-8 cent to 1-2 cent higher, corn 3-4 cent to 1-4 cents up; oats a shade to 1-5 @ 1-4 cent off, and provisions at two cents to 75 cents advance. Corn met with active speculative buying, largely from previous sellers who apparently had over reached themselves and were intent on stopping further losses. Oats holders were disappointed by 190,000 bushels increase in the oats-visible supply. A brisk demand which developed for meats lifted the provision market.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO, Jan. 10. (AP)—Hogs 65-600, active, 10 to 15 lower; top 13.92; bulk 11.90 @ 12.10; sows 10.50 @ 11.00; pigs 11.90 @ 12.10; estimated holdover 6,000. Cattle 23,000; steers steady to 25 higher; yearlings strong to 25 higher; stockers and feeders 7.00 @ 8.00; best yearlings 11.75; vealers 50 lower at 10.50 @ 12.00. Sheep 20,000; fat lambs weak to 25 lower; bulk 12.25 @ 12.75; sheep lambs, wens 5.50 @ 7.00; feeding lambs 25 higher at 12.00 @ 12.75.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Jan. 10. (AP)—Activity and added strength was seen in a portion of the cattle traded here today. Beef cattle showed no advance, nor did cows, but calves were a quarter better off than at the close of last week and stocker cattle also made a gain of around a quarter. The hog and sheep trades were fully steady. Receipts called for 2,100 grown cattle, 800 calves, 1,589 hogs and 308 sheep.
