AAA Amendments Passed

Washington.—In a sudden move, the House approved measures to strengthen the administration program under the AAA. The Amendments serve on three scores, first, to arm the Secretary of Agriculture with new weapons to push farm products prices up to a parity with other commodities, second, to strengthen the program against further legal attacks this fall, and third, to prevent any company from bringing suit against the government for recovery of processing taxes already paid, unless the company can prove that they have not shifted the tax to the consumers.

No Break in War Clouds

Rome.—With diplomats of England and France working toward a possible pacific settlement of the Ethopian, Italian dispute and achieving little or no success, it looks as if war between these two countries is a certainty. As was pointed out last week, Italy must expand and gather some natural resources or suffer a period of unemployment and loss of national spirit. Under this strong drive, European and American diplomats are powerless, especially because it is so similar to occurrances in their countries a half century ago. England, France, and the United States were quick to grab off foreign colonies when the opportunity presented itself, and no amount of talk seems to deter Italy from the same course.

Meanwhile Ethopia is preparing for the outbreak, but is faced with a serious shortage of munitions. She has been unable to get help from any other country.

Martial Law Declared in Terre Haute

Terre Haute, Ind.—Only a few business houses remained open after approximately 2,000 national guardsmen were concentrated in the city of 66,000. The laborers have kept the town virtually closed for two days with an effective general strike. Guardsmen have used tear gas to disperse crowds assembled at the stamping mill whose labor troubles fomented the general strike called in the city. Forty eight local unions met Monday to protest against the martial decree, declaring the strike would continue until the guards are deported from the county. Citizens of the city also expressed their contempt for the guardsmen by hooting them as they arrived in town.

5-5-3 Treaty Again Broken

Washington.—The British admiralty announced Monday that it was abandoning ratios, such as the famous 5-5-3 treaty limiting the fighting fleets of Great Britian, United States and Japan.

The Washington treaty which set up the ratio in 1922 provides that a conference shall be held in 1936 to discuss continuance of curbs on sea power. The move by Great Britian was seen by some observers as providing material for a new conference, to prevent other costly armament races.

Dam Project Approved

Washington.—Final approval and allotment of funds for the Conchas Dam were secured Tuesday by the President's allotment board. The dam will be built 28 miles north and west of Tucumcari, and will compound the waters of the Conchas and Canadian rivers. This project will bring approximately 75,000 acres of land under irrigation for Eastern New Mexico and West Texas, at the same time assuring a permanent and adequate water supply for towns in this section.

Liberals Oppose 'Disaffection' Bill.

Washington.—Declaring the Tydings-McCormick bill "Hitleristic" and a denial of the liberties of American citizens, Representatives Maverick (D-Tex.) and Kvale (f-L-Minn) filed a minority report denouncing the measure.

The bill, which has the approval of the house military committee, is supposed to make it a crime to incite soldiers or sailors to disobedience or disaffection.

"The truth is," the minority opinion said, "that it is not really aimed at communists—that is a subterfuge—but at the honest peace time expression of opinions on anything remotely concerning the army and navy by decent American citizens or any projects favored by profiteering munitions makers and similar interests.. It is a brash piece of Hitleristic fascism."

Hot, But Not Hottest!

If you wiped the perspiration from your brow, while drinking a bottle of something cold, last Sunday at the same time panting that it was the hottest day of the year, you were wrong again!

J. B. Sledge, local U. S. weather observer stated that the temperature was "only 98" Sunday, while it had gone to the century mark once and to 99 another time this month. The hottest day of the year so far was the 20th of June when 105 was reached.

Scattered rains fell Tuesday night at Richland and other parts of the county.

These checks will average approximately 212 dollars per farmer, but the majority will be used to pay off debts incurred by the farmers in getting their crops started.

This show was started three years ago by the Woman's club and the Portales Valley News. Great interest was shown last year, and a decided improvement in quality of exhibits was noticeable.

Gardners and flower lovers in Portales are already planning their exhibits, and with favorable weather conditions, a large show is expected.

Prizes will be awarded to the first three ranking exhibitors in each group. A prize list will be published later when the committee finished its work.

Lonely Widow Oblivious Of Sister's Lethal Deeds

Quite out of ordinary from her regular type of notoriety, the Black Widow spider of the News office is making plans for a "blessed event."

Evidently tired of hearing about her sister's conquests over other insects of lethal ability, Mrs. Lactrodectus Mactans has been at work since Saturday building a maze of webs throughout her cigar-box home, and has deposited her eggs in a cacoon consisting of many strands of the web.

Another of her sisters had completed her home making before her arrival at the News office, and now boasts one long legged offspring, while the half-eaten remains of her late husband still cling to the stick over which her nest is built.

The first spider was brought to the News office by Sam J. Stinnett. Elwood Scott, eight-year-old son of O. E. Scott found the other widow under a go-devil. Miss Savilla Wuest who lives six miles west of Portales brought in a dead widow that she had found inside of a tub in her basement. Faye Spivey and Dorothy Buchanan caught five grey wolf spiders, thinking they might be black widows.

If the rate of increase, by by one cause or another, keeps up, the News office will soon take on the characteristics of either a haunted house or the laboratory of an entomologist.

196 Bankhead Act Cotton Checks Arrive for Roosevelt Co. Farmers

One hundred ninety six cotton checks, amounting to $1,870 were received this week for the cotton farmers of Rooseveit county in compliance with the Bankhead act concerning cotton reduction, announced B. L. Love, assistant county agent.

These checks are the second payment on pooled surplus certificates that were gathered in this county last fall.

Love states further that those farmers who secure their checks before July 27 will be eligible for a special pool to be liquidated this fall.

Farmers who turn in their certificates for replacement or who still possess their 1934 exemption certificates are, also, eligible, provided they appear in the office of the cotton adjuster with the 1934 certificates or records for which certificates have been surrendered for replacement. This information must be in the office of the adjuster before July 27.

Information has been received that the tax on cotton will be six cents per pound this fall unless the producer has exemption certificates enough to gin all his cotton.

America's Birth Rate Rising, Said

WASHINGTON, July 24. (UP)—America's birth rate is rising for the first time in a decade.

The census bureau announced that the 1934 birth rate for the entire nation was 17.1 per 1,000 estimated population as compared with 16.6 for 1933. The 1933 rates was the lowest ever recorded by the United States.

Statisticians and health officers were at a loss to explain the increase in the number of babies but speculated that the number of families on relief and a change in popular psychology might have something to do with it.

The total number of live births for the nation was 2,158,919 last year.

College Still Needs Rooms for Students

People who have rooms they wish to rent to college students should get in touch with college officials at once so that their rooms may be inspected and put on the approved list. In order to meet the requirements of the accrediting agencies certain standards must be met in housing students.

If inspections are made at once owners may have time to make changes necessary to meet these requirements.

This announcement was made by Donald MacKay, president of the institution.

The fall term of the college will begin September 11, and with the present outlook the enrollment will be larger than that of last year and more rooms and apartments will be needed.

President MacKay also asked that students who will want work in order to attend school this fall get in touch with the college at once before all the jobs are taken.

Animals of Ice Age Found to Inhabit This Area in Numbers

Between 20,000 and 25,000 years ago, near the present site of the CCC camp, a shallow lake or pond served as a water hole for an appaling number of animals different from any the eye of man has seen on this continent.

Elephants, mastadons, sabre tooth tigers, camels, large Dire wolf, bison, Terratornis (a large carrion-eating bird), and horses which were as large as modern dray horses, all frequented this lake, and many of them became bogged down in the soft sticky mud at the edge.

Now one can see large numbers of these bones embedded in the banks of a pit dug by the highway department two years ago. They are all very brittle, and often fall to pieces with a slight jar. They are of little value, except from the point of view of a scientist who is determining what sort of place the North American continent was at that time.

Harry A. Bliss, phalentologist from the University of New Mexico, with three assistants, Robert Coffin, Hollis Peter, and Alton Hayes, visited this bog last week end and reported that these fossils belong to the Pliestocene period, or glacial age. This age connects the distant past with historical times. Dinasours and other larger animals did not inhabit the earth during this period, but came millions of years before.

Twenty five thousand years is just a minute in geological time. But the Pleistocene period is of intense interest just the same. Scientises have not yet ascertained whether man lived on the North American continent at that time. An arrow head or other man-made implement would be of untold interest to scientists everywhere if found burried among the pleistocene strata, Bliss pointed out.

The horses of the Pleistocene era was the fore-runner of our modern horse, but there is little evidence that it lived on the American continents at the time of the European invasion. Murals and other art of old Indian tribes are being studied for some evidence of this possibility.

Arrow heads and broken pieces of pottery of this area are also of interest to archeologists. They have not yet determined what tribes of Indians inhabited this area in pre-historic times.

THE COUNTY FAIR

Now that it has been definitely decided to hold a Roosevelt county fair in September, farmers from every section of the county should begin making preparations for their individual exhibits.

With the good rains, farm crops should be better than they have been in years.

Farmers can plan exhibits by setting aside a portion of their crops for this special purpose.

For a grain exhibit, this section should be thoroughly rogued, so that pure grain can be entered.

This will not only make a better exhibit, but will supply pure seeds for future crops.

An outstanding exhibit at this time will put Roosevelt county on the map as an agricultural center. And do not forget the beef and dairy industry.

Roosevelt county has some of the best blooded dairy cattle in the nation, and by properly advertising them, breeders will come here from many states to secure breeding stock.

The county fair should be a farmers exhibit, and an exhibit that will return greater profits to the farmers of the county.

THE FLOWER SHOW

The Portales Woman's club is cooperating with the Portales Valley News in staging the annual flower show sometime in September.

Date of exhibit and premium list will be announced later.

The Portales flower shows have ranked near the top in the state, and this season there will be many beautiful flowers to exhibit.

In planning this exhibit, better flowers can be produced by cutting all but one of two buds from the plants, giving the remaining buds a chance to mature to full size and beauty.

The flower show encourages beautification and is an important civic enterprise.

Begin planning your exhibits now.

WHAT ARE THE MOTIVES?

There is every indication at present that the next campaign will have as its main issue the broadening of certain parts of the constitution.

Specal priviledged classes are very hostile to any change in the constitution, because of the chance of their being denied certain powers. But to the voters of the country goes the final decision. They are not likely to elect some demagogue who wishes dictatorial powers, but they are also unlikely to elect a hide bound conservative that will wish to bring back the "rugged individualist" and economic anarchy.

Today there is floods of propaganda against any change in the constitution. But is the motive of this reactive loyalty to this document or to the welfare of the masses?

Clearly, if the constitution in any way hampers recovery or the realization of the aims as set forth in the preamble, it should be changed, and the writers of the document would be the first to desire the change if they were here.

WHERE IS OUR REPRESENTATION?

In view of the action of congress the past month, we wonder just where the representative part of our government has vanished?

Power groups, well organized and directed, have been able to put over, or restrain most any legislation as they wish. But the greater number of citizens have few champions of their cause. The New Deal measures that are planned to help the farmer, and small business men have been virtually cleaned of all helpful points.

While it would be unwise for congressmen to follow too completely the desires of the administration, it is more damaging to public welfare to have them work for corporations and organized privilege seekers, beclouding their actions by referring to "constitutionality."

"SOAP BOX ORATORY

On last Saturday a "Soap Box" orator from "Arkansaw" orated to a dozen or more on the courthouse square. His main theme was against advertising.

He mistated that when you buy advertised goods the consumer paid for the advertising.

Nationally advertised brands have to make good or the maker is cutting his own throat by putting out goods that cannot bear the light of publicity.

Advertised brands are sold in such quantity, that the cost of advertising is more than met by increased sales.

The merchant who does not advertise, and tells you that he is passing the cost of advertising to you in lower price is deceiving himself as well as you.

Advertising increases sales, and enables the merchant to sell cheaper than his non-advertising competitor.

If the gentleman from Arkansaw uses soap he is patronizing an advertised brand. If he rides in an automobile he is riding in an advertised product; if he wants to go back to the ox cart for transportation, and the old hand spinning wheel, he can perhaps escape advertising. He can even discard the electric lights for the old hand-dipped tallow candle. He will have to take his baths in a mud hole by the side of a windmill, and then he is patronizing an advertised windmill.

He can confine his diet to jack rabbit and tumble weed greens, but even these are advertised as pests to farmers.

THE WORLD'S HONORS

The world has always honored highly the people who do things the world values. To carry out this thought, the schools publish lists of honor students. Such recognition is useful, since these students are frequently retiring your folks, who are scarcely appreciated outside their own neighborhoods.

The colleges distribute honors in the form of learned degrees. The statesman who has solved national problems, is made a Doctor of Laws. The master of social science is made a Doctor of Philosophy. The world does not pay much attention to these learned degrees. Yet in millions of humble homes, the working hours are shorter and the children better fed, because of the labors of these men of research.

Meanwhile the pitcher who can twist a baseball so the baffled batter can't locate it with his swishing stick, may be better known in his home city than the constructive statesman or the patient man of research. The eccentric path of that baseball does not do much to make daily life more livable. But the results thrill the bleachers to frenzies or excitement.

The laborious scholar sits alone in his silent study, and communes with his books. But the football player who can worm his way amid the tackling opponents is carried off the field on the shoulders of his comrades, while the stadiums echo with the thunder of the rooters.

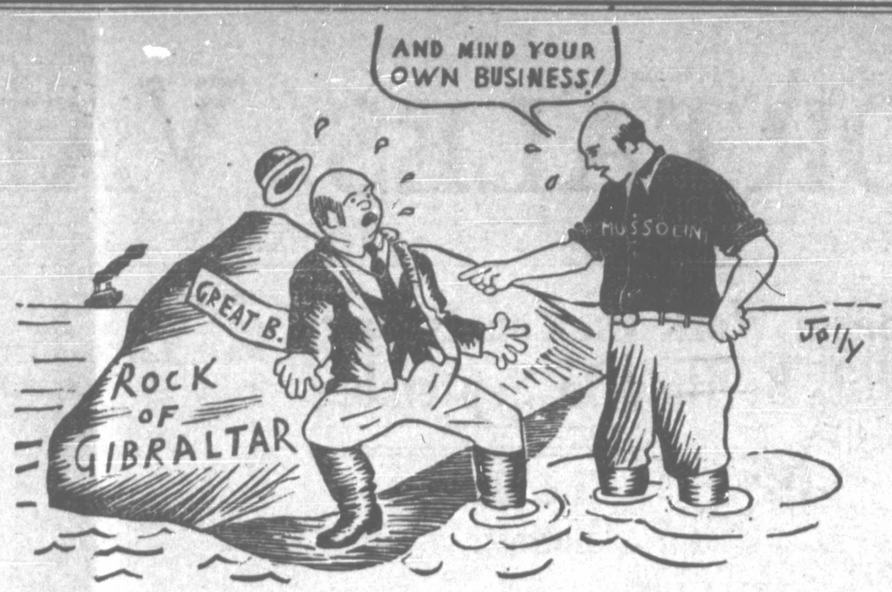

The highest honors ought to go to the people who teach us to think, because it is through thought that the world escapes its troubles. We honor the people who can throw a baseball faster than the competing athletes. But we fail to pay equal honors to the men of science and philanthropy, who remove the fetters that hold men down to earth, and thus enable humanity to make use of its wings.—Enterprise, Norwood, Ohio.

What father would like most to get out of his new car is the rest of the family.

What an adventure life is, if you keep yourself alert and alive.

The greatest discovery a man can make in life is his own limitations.

Many a man feels like kicking himself who wouldn't let anyone else do it.

"Don't Quote Me"

By United Press

WASHINGTON.—Works of arts are a pretty expensive proposition, even when they're painted by artists on the relief roll.

The government had proof of that today when it completed the winding up of the public works art project. The figures showed that those realistic scenes of city streets and country landscapes which adorn the walls of public buildings all over the country cost the government exactly $75.51 each.

And at that the figure only includes the money paid out in wages to the artists. If all the expenses to the government were figured in the cost of each work of art probably would average at about $100.

The 3,749 artists who were aided by the project turned out about four and one-sixth works of art apiece.

Works Progress Administrator H. L. Hopkins thinks the endeavor was mighty worthwhile. Who knows, it has been pointed out, what great geniuses may have been included in the roll of relief artists and what great value some day may be placed on their works which the government acquired at a pittance.

Hopkins was so pleased with the work of the relief artists that he is planning to incorporate another program of the same type in the works relief drive.

Distribution of the works of art acquired by the government has now been completed. They hang in public buildings in every state. Lots of them are in postoffices. Some are in the White House. Hardly a prominent official in Washington but has one or two in his office.

In addition to the original paintings, watercolors, etc., many of the artists made plates for etchings, wood-blocks and lithographs. Thousands of prints have been made from these plates and distributed to high schools, state universities, libraries and museums.

The last batch of 2,528 of these prints has just been sent out. They went to 43 different states. Some state education departments have whole series of prints for display in traveling exhibits.

Also 2,500 were made up for officials' offices in Washington.

Mrs. Gus Norton Claimed by Death

The East Valley View community bows its head in grief at the death of one of its beloved members.

Mrs. Gus Norton passed away at her home at 2:15 Friday morning and was laid to rest in the Portales Cemetery Saturday at 3:30 p. m. with Rev. Claude A. Lorts officiating. A quartet sang the beautiful song "Sweet Jewels in Heaven" which she sang a few hours before her death.

A large crowd of sorrowing friends attended the services and extended words of sympathy to the grief stricken family. Mrs. Norton was a splendid Christian character and the many flowers were mute tokens of the place she held in the heart of her friends.

Besides being a devoted wife and mother, she was a true and loyal friend. She was loved by old and young for her kind, gentle and unselfish character. Her going out of the community leaves a void that cannot be filled.

May God in his wisdom deal gently with those dear to her which are her husband, Gus Norton, and two daughters, Nila at home with her father, and Mrs. Homer Miielr, five sons, Buford, Wilburn, and Clayton of Portales, J. D. of Roy and W. A. of Clovis. Her father, Mr. Wood, and two sisters, of Llano, and seven grandchildren.

Three Men Burn To Death in Hotel At Aberdeen, Wash

ABERDEEN, Wash., July 24.—Three men lost their lives and five others were injured, three of them critically, in a fire which destroyed an old frame hotel here early Sunday.

Within a few minutes after the hotel, the Del Monte, built 46 years ago, caught fire, the flames raged through it. Two men were trapped and burned to death in the building. The third was fatally injured when he leaped from a third story window to the pavement to escape the fire.

The dead were: Max Larson, a longshoreman, crushed in falling three stories. J. Joergon, about 40, burned to death, Joe Martin, about 40, burned to death.

Saturday morning four fossil hunters from the state university walked into the News office and stated that they were hunting fossils.

"Why pick on us," we answered. "when Mack Stanton is only 19 miles northeast of here?"

Mack Stanton is all burned up because he is going to be sued for libel on three counts at $5,000 each.

Just shows what little stuff Mack is.

We have never been sued for less than $50,000.00.

A midwest justice of the peace dismisses case against nudist colony. Evidently he found nothing on them.

More about those fossil hunters.

The associate editor took them out into the Black Water draw to and bloodshed.

And why do we not hear more about that oil well of Mack Stanton's just six miles southeast of Clovis????

Side glances; strains of "St. Louis Blues" coming from the mosaic windows of a local church; a 200 pound football player employed to moisten envelope flaps.

BREACH WIDENS BETWEEN NEW DEAL AND JUDICIAL BRANCHES

By LYLE C. WILSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 24. (UP)—Six-to-two against the New Deal is the score in legal contests over constitutionality of Roosevelt policies.

The division between executive and judicial branches of government on fundamental theories of law is without precendent since the slavery dispute which led to the Civil war.

Congress stands with the White House in this argument although New Deal strength on Capitol hill is dimishing as old line Democrats break away from the Roosevelt recovery and reform program.

Republicans have accepted the New Deal challenge to the constitution and are pledged to raise that issue in the presidential campaign. President Roosevelt complains that the supreme court so narrowly defines constitutional federal powers that there is no need for a 22nd amendment to the fundamental law. The last amendment—No. 21—repealed prohibition.

The supreme court outlawed the NRA, with which the New Deal sought industrial reform and recovery. The Agricultural Adjustment administration act is the ace Roosevelt weapon on the farm frone. A federal district court found that act constitutional but was reversed by a circuit court this week. The issue is up to the supreme court where the Blue Eagle died.

Mr. Roosevelt has asked congress to enact the Guffey coal bill regardless of doubts as to its constitutionality. The Wagner labor disputes bill was challenged on constitutional grounds but congress approved and Mr. Roosevelt signed it.

The administration has lost four and won a lone supreme court test. Two vital decisions have been lost in federal courts and once New Dealers have been sustained. This circuit court success was recorded yesterday when Federal Judge William I. Grubb was overruled on the decision in which he held that the Tennessee Valley authority had no constitutional right to sell electrical power.

Circuit court decisions will be carried to the supreme court for final judgment. That highest tribunal has condemned new deal laws to control inter-state oil shipment, for railroads pensions and for control of industry through the NRA. In a fourth and onscure though vital decision, the court told President Roosevelt, to keep hands off the various independent agencies created by congress for special administrative duties.

Mr. Roosevelt dismissed Federal Trade Commissioner William E. Humphrey, a Republican, on the ground that the commissioner's responsibilities could be performed better by a New Deal appointee. The court held that Mr. Roosevelt had no authority to remove such an official without cause. The decision came too late to benefit Humphrey. He was dead. But his estate will collect his salary from the day of discharge to the day he died and other Republicans are secure in their jobs for the term to which they were named.

The outstanding New Deal victory was won in the gold cases. The supreme court held that congress had the power to change the dollar's gold content and to outlaw the gold payment clause in private bonds. Congress went "too far" the court said, in repudiating the gold clause in federal bonds. But justices decided, five to four, that federal bondholders could not collect damages from the government unless they actually could prove losses. The New Deal has proposed to congress a bill, now pending, to forbid such damage suits.

The four supreme court New Deal court reverses were:

1—Oil control—an eight to one decision holding congress had improperly delegated to President Roosevelt unstandardised power to forbid shipments of hot or illegally produced oil in interstate commerce the court explained, however, how the New Deal might reinstate the control bill in legal form and congress re-enacted it.

2—Railroad pensions—by five-to-four the court held that congress was powerless to impose a pension system on railroads. The decision construed the pension bill as class legislation.

3—NRA — Promulgation of fair competition codes was held invalid —in a unanimous decision because congress failed to define standards to guide the President in drafting code provisions. NRA hours and wages legislation was thrown out on the grounds that the Schechter Poultry Co., which brought the suit, was not engaged in interstate commerce and therefore was not subject to congressional regulation.

4—The Humphreys case.

PUBLIC HEALTH

Conducted by Dr. J. R. Earp Director, New Mexico Bureau of Public Health.

CUI BONO?

I am rather frequently met with a question that is half a criticism: "What is the good of all this public health work when people who are actually sick cannot get doctor?" To the critic it seems rather absurd to be worrying about "well babies" or to be spending money on health education when people with serious diseases are not provided with medical care.

There is a problem of medical relief which is enormous and urgent. Last year 1,759 people died in this state without having a doctor's care in ther fatal illness. Obviously many more were sick and recovered without medical advice. To provide medical care the Committee on the Costs of Medical Care tells us we must spend from $20 to $40 per person per year. A quarter of a million dollars per annum has proved quite insufficient to the FERA to provide medical care for even a portion of the people of New Mexico.

Under these circumstances is public health work a waste of time? Consider only the prevention of illness in "well babies." In 1930 the death rate of infants in New Mexico was 138.3 per 1,000 live births, in 1934 it was 122.6 per 1,000 live births. If the 1930 rate had continued in 1934, 190 more babies would have died. Adequate public health work in this state can greatly increase this saving of life. Health education in infant care can cut in half the number of babies that die every year and reduce to at least one quarter the present amount of sickness.

Let us change slightly the wording of the question with which this article begins: "What is the good of preventing sickness in New Mexico when we cannot afford to pay for treating sickness?"

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of thanking all our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy in the bereavement of our darling wife and mother, and for the beautiful floral offerings.

May God's richest blessings rest upon each of you.

G. G. Norton and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beasley came up Sunday from Jay. She came up Sunday from Jal. She will visit her mother, Mrs. Lela Rhyne for some time. Mr. Beasley went on to Arizona.

Park Boys to Clash With Floyd's Ten For First Time

East Valley View To Meet IOOF In First Tilt Friday Night

Two new teams will meet tonight to give softball fans the first evidence of their strength in the new series.

While the CCC boys and Floyd are new to this softball league, they are not novices at the game. Several players on either team have already seen competition with teams in the last series.

Elida and the Standard Oilers will play at 7:30 and the other game will follow.

Elida and the Standard Oilers were contenders for second honors in the last series, and Elida was able to trim them handily in the last game. However, new material for the Oilers gives them a much better outlook. Meanwhile fans are wondering whether Elida has snapped out of the slump that nearly cost them their first game Monday night when they met the East Valley View aggregation in a tie game.

Friday night, the first game will be between East Valley View and IOOF, and the second will be Independents vs. CCC.

The first game will start at 7:30 and the second will follow ten minutes after the end of the first.

Roswell Boxers Take Contests From Local CCC

The Roswell CCC boxing team took every bout from the Roosevelt county CCC team in a contest held at the local park last Saturday evening before a crowd estimated at 250 spectators.

Each contest consisted of three rounds of two minutes each with one minute for rest. In case of a tie an extra round was given to determine the winner. Amateur boxing rules were used to judge the contest.

There were ties in the contests of Trujillo vs Terrel and Britto vs. Coburn. In the fourth round Trujillo won the decision. Coburn refused to go back on account of a wounded ankle.

All contests showed a good sportsmanship on the part of the contestants. The Roswell boys demonstrated better physical condition than the local boys. However, the local boys showed some good boxing knowledge.

Lieut. R. P. Kirk was in charge of the Roswell team and Frank King was in charge of the Roosevelt county team.

The contest lasted from 8:15 until about 11, but no spectators were noted leaving.

The following is the names of the contestants, which camp they represented, and the winner.

Elida Rallies In Fifth To Tie Score With Valley View

Threatening rain was a lucky break for the Elida softball team in the opening game of the new series with the East Valley View boys Monday night.

East Valley View had piled up five runs at the end of the fourth inning while Elida had only scored one run. The Valley boys wished to finish five innings before the game was called because of the rain, so encouraged their men to strike out during the fifth inning. One run was made, the rest followed instructions, but to their disadvantage, as the next half proved.

The Elida player came back with a determination to make their first game a win, and were able to score five men to tie the score, six to six.

Immediately after the fifth inning the rain began, so the game will have to be played over sometime later. Meanwhile Elida has a chance to come back, while East Valley View may not be able to score so easily next time.

Harp, McDermott and Kerr were the umpires Monday night.

Independents Win From Fireboys In Close Game, 9 to 6

The Independents proved themselves but slightly superior softball players Teusday night when they won over the Fireboys, 9-6.

Although the Firemen touched Dean pitcher for the Independents seven times, he was well backed by his teammates. Dean walked six men, while Harp, tosser for the Fire Department, walked four allowing ten hits.

Campbell, at second base for the Firemen played a stellar game, making a total of seven put outs. He replaced Harp on the mound during the sixth inning.

Fields & Bonner Take Thriller 4-3 From Cheatum

After trailing for six innings, Fields and Bonner staged a rally for which they are becoming famous, to win over the Cheatum Street boys, 4-3.

The teams were matched very closely, and until the last inning Steiner and Groseclose, opposing pitchers had allowed only three and four hits respectively. Groseclose, however, allowed two hits in the last of the seventh, and walked one. A sacrifice hit by Boykin brought in the winning run.

Haney, catcher for the Cheaters, played a good game, accounting for 10 put outs. Steiner led the hitting of the evening, getting two hits and two runs out of three times at bat.

Both teams showed a great improvement over the previous series. Errors were few, in contrast with the large number piled up in the series just ended.

Revival of Fight Interest Seen as Result Baer's Loss

By WILLIAM MULLIGAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

DENVER, Colo. July 24. (UP)—After several years in the doldrums wherever they are, the fight game is beginning to show signs of life. In fact the pugilistic scene has been as barren as political theories since the Dempsey-Tunney Chicago fight.

The Carnera, Sharkey, Schmeling, Levinsky, Risko, Paulino, Loughran and Braddock aggregation aroused as much public discussion and as many rings at the cash register as Wall street, and for about the same number of years and for the same reason.

Within two weeks time, late in June, however, fisticuffs threw off the covers and began reaching for the crutches. It was going to amble out and see what all the world was doing.

An dthe reason for this miracle? No, it wasn't due to any supreme court decision, any federal aid, or even return of prosperity.

The defeat of Baer and the appearance of a real, two-fisted boxfighter on the scene, dissipated the chronic anemia which had laid fisticuffs low.

The real two-fisted box-fighter, was and is, Joe Louis, the negro sleepy-head from Detroit.

Box-fighter can be used advisedly about Louis. He is just that. He takes the fight fan back to the days when champions, boxed, and fought, and still kept on fighting. If we must be specific, back to the days of Gans, Nelson, Wolgast, Jeffries, Tom Sharkey, Corbett, Attell, Ketchel, Packy McFarland, and to slip from medieval to modern history, Dempsey, Tunney, Leonard and Jack Britton.

Baer's defeat made another good fighter. The Livernore Larruper has everything it takes to become a worthy opponent for the Dusky Detroit destroyer, but the desire. His defeat at the hands of good old Braddock, has was a fine feller, should give him the "killer instinct" about which sports writers love to gloat for well-paid columns.

If Baer develops the desire to mix it(the Louis-Baer fight, when and if it occurs, should be one that even Rockefeller should spend a dime to see.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
REV. J. W. BERG, Pastor

All progress toward prosperity is blocked if, in the midst of the deadening influence of modern commercial and industrial activity, the inner life of men and women, with its spiritual values, is not preserved. The church exists to preserve that inner life and Sunday is the day set apart to protect it. To spend that day in leisure instead of worship is quite as deadening and devitalizing as to spend it in labor. Ruskin well said "Beware, lest you make your leisure a nuisance to others and a boredom to yourself." You believe the church is essential to the peace and good order of society—support it by your attendance. Come next Sunday.

E. T. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Brown of the Richland community, is looking for a place to stay this winter in Portales so that he can attend high school.

Joe Smith, one of the old timers of the Bethel community is visiting his sister, Mrs. A. L. Jones and Mrs. Lee Doyal.

What the Farmers Have to Say . . . .

H. O. Minick is using ten acres of sudan for pasture now. He is keeping his cows in good condition for fall and winter.

D. B. Brown of the Richland community has maize that is heading. He thinks that he will need another good shower to make heavy grain.

✦ ✦ ✦

J. A. Taylor of the Floyd community favors California wheat for a sure grain crop. He has nine acres this year and it is looking fine. He states that the worms ruined his corn last year and is uneasy that they are going to work on it again this year.

✦ ✦ ✦

J. H. Harrigan has a late crop this year. It is doing nicely so far.

✦ ✦ ✦

A. D. Willette is one of the old-timers of Roosevelt county. He came here in 1906 and took up his claim in the Rogers community. He worked in the telegraph office of the Santa Fe railroad when he first came here.

✦ ✦ ✦

J. R. Massey is fighting the weeds in an effort to hold every bit of moisture possible for growing crops. But he thinks that a good rain is needed.

✦ ✦ ✦

J. E. Worley has had considerable trouble with his crop blowing this year. However, what he has left is growing and looking fine.

✦ ✦ ✦

R. E. Abernathy states that his grass is better than it has been since 1928. His crops are looking good also.

✦ ✦✦

J. W. Alexander has practically all the weeds out of the middles of his crop. The weed in the rows will not damage his larger crops, he thinks.

✦ ✦ ✦

Hugh Vincent of Rogers had 25 acres of wheat this year that made 20 bushels to the acre. This is the best yield that has been reported for Roosevelt county this year, for dry land production.

✦ ✦ ✦

There was a good shower reported in southeast of Dora the last of last week.

✦ ✦ ✦

W. W. McClintock of Richland states that the worms are working on his early corn. He does not have any remedy for them at the present time.

✦ ✦ ✦

Lon Partin of Richland reports a good crop this year.

✦ ✦ ✦

B. Strain was looking about an appliance that will make cans for fruit usable the second time. The can will not hold as much as it did the first time, because some of it had to be cut off so that the new lid can be used.

✦ ✦ ✦

W. H. Simpson says that his dry land crop is needing rain.

✦ ✦ ✦

J. P. Adair of the Causey community has 14 acres of cotton that he thinks will make a good yield this year.

✦ ✦ ✦

Jess C. Smith who lives west of Rogers reported the last of last week that his crops were needing rain.

✦ ✦ ✦

L. M. Chandler was reroofing his barn this week. He and his family came to the Portales valley from Endee last fall.

✦ ✦ ✦

Mrs. Stella Reeves who has been visiting in the L. M. Chandler home the past few days, returned to her home last week.

✦ ✦ ✦

Marion Parton, who lives on the J. J. Watson ranch six miles southwest of Portales states that his crop has had plenty of rain and is looking fine.

✦ ✦ ✦

H. J. Bollen who lives about four miles west of Portales says that his early crop is needing rain. However, his irrigated crops are doing nicely.

✦ ✦ ✦

George Chumbley reports good grass on his ranch in the Benson community.

✦ ✦ ✦

Mrs. Fritz Staub has been in Wichita Falls, Texas, on account of her health for some time. Mr. Staub plans to bring her home this week if possible.

Troy Jeter is farming 300 acres this year. Two hundred acres are in grain crop, 45 in cotton, 45 in broomcorn, and the remainder is in sudan pasture, orchard and garden. He has one helper. He is farming the O. D. Douglas farm and the farm of the Jeter estate.

J. E. Rowland who lives west of Pep says that the big rain that he got on his pasture last week is making his grass fine. His cattle are in good shape.

Tom Slocum of the Delphos community states that his sudan grass and broomcorn is unusually good this year.

✦ ✦ ✦

Joe Simnacker of the Redlake community says that a good rain is needed in his community. However, the crops that are clean are holding up.

✦ ✦ ✦

D. C. Evans was in Portales Tuesday from his ranch 25 miles south of Portales and reported a good rain on his pasture Monday night.

✦ ✦ ✦

V. O. Roberts, who lives 11 miles south of Portales estimated his rain to be three quarters of an inch Monday night. He says that he will have to have more rain to mature his crop because he does not have a bottom season.

✦ ✦ ✦

Athur McFall of the Red Lake community is reported to have received an inch and a half of rain Monday night.

✦ ✦ ✦

W. C. Locke from the southeast part of the Richland community estimated his rain at over an inch the first of the week.

✦ ✦ ✦

W. O. Davis who lives about two miles west of Arch says that he got about two inches of rain on his farm the first of the week.

✦ ✦ ✦

Alzono Slone was in Portales Tuesday from his father's farm four miles southeast of Causey. He says that there was only a light shower on his father's farm, but the rain at Causey was estimated at one half inch.

✦ ✦ ✦

O. E. Scott on the Lovington highway reported an inch and a half of rain the first of the week

✦ ✦ ✦

O. C. Herbert reports a good rain on his ranch Monday night. On his way to Elida he found a strip of country in the vicinity of the old Kentucky Valley school house that was dry, but when he had traveled three or four miles further he struck a good showing of rain again and the indications were that there was a good rain over the remainder of the territory covered to Portales.

Returns From State Cotton Board

G. H. Balko, a member of the State Board of Review for the Cotton section, returned the first of the week from State College where he attended the meeting of the Board held for the purpose of forming policies for the cotton farmers of the state. These policies are in accord with the national policies for cotton raisers.

Balko thinks that these policies will be a great aid to the farmers in handling and marketing their cotton crops. The board is receiving good cooperation in carrying out the program of work.

He states further that the farmers in general of that part of the state are feeling quite hopeful over the market conditions at the present time. They are not reporting trouble obtaining local market for their produce that some of the farmers of Roosevelt county are reporting.

Sudan Grass Ready for Second Cutting

Sudan grass on the Jim Doyal place is ready for the second cutting. This crop was planted in rows using an average of 60 pounds of seed to the acre. Each time it is cut, it is plowed and irrigated.

Doyal also has good tomatoes and beans. His compass cherries made a good yield this year. The California plums are getting ripe and promise to be the best crop of his experience.

Cotton Farmers Should Comply With Bankhead Act, Says Love

Federal Judge Randolph Bryant ruled the Bankhead Cotton Control act unconstitutional and signed an order granting an injunction against its enforcement Friday of last week.

D. C. Wallace was granted the injunction. He used on behalf of himself and all other cotton ginners of Texas and the Texas Cotton Ginners.

Bryant's opinion was given in the face of the opinion of the Attorney General that the act is constitutional. The case will probably have to be settled by the Supreme Court of the United States, and it will probably be this winter some time before the Supreme court can render a decision.

B. L. Love, assistant cotton adjuster for Roosevelt county thinks that it would be wise for the cotton farmers who have signed the Bankhead contracts to carry out their part of the program, so that there will be no chance to declare the contract void on account of the failure of the Farmers to comply.

About 700 Bankhead applications have been signed in Roosevelt county, states Love.

Cull the Loafers Keep the Layers

The best time to cull the flock is when the hens go out of production, says W. M. Ginn of the New Mexico State College. It is wasteful to give high priced feed to the non-layers.

The poorest layers usually start molting and stop laying in June or July and will not begin laying again for several months. Some of them will loaf until next spring.

Trapnesting tests at State Experiment Stations have shown that the earliest molters are usually the poorest layers. Those hens that lay through the summer and do not molt until late fall will stay out of production for the shortest period and will produce more eggs when they do resume laying.

Hens that are molting should be culled now; it is poor economy to feed them all summer and then sell them in the fall. Also, culling is one of the best methods of keeping death losses down to a minimum. It is a known fact that those poultrymen who cull often thoroughly have fewer deaths in their flocks than those who fail to cull out the loafers.

Culling is not the same thing as breeder selection. Selection is the choosing for breeders of those birds that have the inherited characteristics desirable for good breeders. Culling is the elimination of those hens not laying enough eggs to pay their feed bill. Culling is for the immediate improvement of the flock from an economic standpoint and has little or nothing to do with the genetic advancement of the strain.

There is no one season of the year that is especially favorable for culling. Culling should be done often. Some of the most successful poultrymen cull once a month during the summer when hens are going out of production.

Those who have had no experience in culling can secure complete information on the subject by writing for the bulletin on culling which is sent out by the Extension Service, State College, New Mexico.

Secretary Wallace To Be In Amarillo Texas, August 5

Agricultural Head to Discuss Farm Problems

AMARILLO, July 24.—When Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace comes here, Monday, August 5, it will afford the first opportunity in the Southwest to see and hear a "New Deal" cabinet member.

"Not only agriculture leaders, but also any others interested are invited to greet this distinguished visitor," declared Grover Hill, who is chairman of the general committee making arrangements to entertain Secretary Wallace.

"Agriculture is facing many difficulties and it is important to know what our secretary has in mind," he continued. "People will want to see and hear the man under whose management they have received wheat and cotton allotment checks, feed and seed loans."

While here for only the one day Secretary Wallace is scheduled to make an address at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at the Municipal auditorium.

"There will be a tremendous interest throughout the country in this address, said Mr. Hill "because the Department of Agriculture has become most important in government and its policies affect 40,000000 persons."

The visiting cabineteer is a real dirt farmer and developed Wallace corn, one of the popular varieties in Iowa. He also operates a dairy, feeding out Panhandle cattle every year in his lots

Roosevelt Co. In Good Condition

According to report of farm conditions over the states Roosevelt county is in better condition than the average county. However, parts of the county is dry and unless the rain that came the first of the week fell on the crops and pastures of these dry spots, the crops and stocks in these areas will be suffering in the near future.

Organize Wheat Growers Association

The wheat growers of Roosevelt county met Friday afternoon at Rogers and organized the Roosevelt County Wheat Growers' association for 1935-1936.

The following officers were elected to the County Wheat Growers Control; Carl Holland, chairman; John Ross, vice chairman; and A. A. Killion, member.

All wheat contracts for 1935 have been approved and are being sent to Washington.

The steady rise in the price of wheat is causing the most of the wheat farmers of the county to feel good. They are going about the preparation of their land for the next crop.

Pep Farmer Saves 500 Bushels of Corn

Five hundred bushels of corn is a good size pile of corn for this part of the country at this time. J. F. Gilman of the Pep community has this much and he is not trying to sell a bushel until next year's crop is a certainty.

He has enough corn to last him another year, if he has a failure this fall. He has 40 acres in this crop that is growing and looking good now.

Gilman states that he learned his lesson of feed banking in 1917. He had a good supply of feed on hand and was offered a good price for it and sold it, hoping that he would raise plenty that year.

In 1918 he had no feed at home and he had to drive his teams to Portales and Elida for supplies. He had to pay 25 cents for any kind of musty bundle in the wagon yards. He would not have fed bundles to his horses had it not been necessary.

Since that time he has tried to keep enough old feed on hand for his stock regardless of the price for which he could sell it before the new crop is made.

Peanut Farmers Protect Market by Control Contracts

The peanut farmers of Roosevelt county are getting ready for the market this fall by signing or not signing the contracts for acreage reduction.

Some of the farmers did not think that their crop was large enough to bother with the reduction contracts this year. However, about 30 of the farmers took advantage of the acreage reduction to protect the market this fall.

County Agent Orren Beaty states that the contracts are all completed and the next step will be to check the acreage of the signers.

There will be no tax on peanuts this fall if the farmers sell their crop without being roasted or polished, according to announcement if the peanuts are roasted or polished, there will be a one-cent tax.

Onion Crop Harvest Started by Valley Farmers

Harvest of the Crystal Wax Bermuda onion crop is in full swing in the Portales Valley this week.

Some of the farmers have finished their harvest. Joe Hinkle got 175 crates of onions and tops off a half acre block. He does not claim to have an extra good crop, however.

A. G. Ross does not plan to harvest his Bermudas this week, and is still watering them.

J. E. Caywood plans to harvest his onions within a week, depending on weather conditions.

Bacon Brothers report that they have a much heavier yield of onions this year than last. The general opinion seems to be that the yield will be about the same per acre as for the past two years.

There is little evidence of serious damage of this crop by recent hail and wind storms.

The size of the onions seem to be about standard. There has been no complaint of the number of small onions. One or two farmers have a greater number of large ones than is profitable, however, there was no trouble in finding special markets for these large sizes last year.

Market conditions appear to be not so favorable at this time, because of the heavy crop of Texas onions that came on earlier and glutted the market.

G. H. Balko, member of the State Board of Review for the Cotton section, returned last week and observed that there was no particular problem in finding a market for onions.

Rube Bolinger is planning to put his onions in potato crates and stack them under an arbor that he has made for the purpose. The crates are not to be filled completely so that air will have a chance to circulate and aid in the curing process.

Loans Total $33,871 In PC Association

Loans made during last month by the Clovis, N. M., Production Credit association, the territory of which includes this county, totaled $33,871.67. Farmers of Curry, Quay, Guadalupe, De Baca and Roosevelt counties are eligible to membership in the Clovis Production Credit association, and to obtain secured loans for almost any legitimate need of farm or ranch production. The interest rate is five percent, payable, not in advance, but when the loan matures, and then for only the money actually drawn and the time it is used.

The secretary-treasurer of the Clovis association, R. L. Keeter, points out that while this interest saving is important it is by no means the main advantage a farmer enjoys, who can join and borrow from, his own Production Credit association. Among greater advantages he suggests the budget system, used by all the 42 production credit association in this and the other three states of the Ninth Farm Credit district. Under this plan the association helps its member-borrowers to map out their operating needs for a year or a season in advance, so they can make sure their resources are adequate before starting. If they are, then they, can establish a line of credit upon which they can draw as they actually need the money. In no other way, the secretary-treasurer asserts, can a farmer who has to use borrowed capital, make the most of long-time planning, so essential to larger farming profits.

Another great advantage of this cooperative, farmer-owned financing institution, that it has established the soundness of agricultural paper in the nation's money marker. Through their own discount bank, (the Federal Intermediate Credit bank) the farmers in these Production Credit associations get cash direct and are not dependent upon the demands of the depositors of any bank or upon the appropriations of any congress. By submitting business-like financial statements, keeping correct records of operations, fairly appraising the securities offered for loans and being diligent in their payments, Production Credit association members give their "paper" a standing second to no commercial paper in the world.
