DEPUTY MARSHAL HERE HELD ON GIRL'S CHARGE

Four Find 'Strong Resemblance' Between Man Held Here and Dundee Slayer

SPENCE RUSHES EVIDENCE FOR GRAND JURY

Archer County Indictments Expected Soon, Says State Attorney

OTHER CASES PEND

Inquiry Here May Solve Slaying of McDaniel In Bank Robbery

Four witnesses to holdups which closely preceded and followed the fatal shooting of Charlie McDaniel at Dundee in July, 1928, Monday afternoon saw a strong resemblance between a suspect held in the Wichita county jail and the hijacker on the road, according to statements made to Sam Spence, district attorney, who is leading an inquiry expected to result in a murder indictment in Archer county next month.

Faces Other Charges

The suspect, already under three robbery with firearms charges, was implicated in a fourth Monday afternoon when the manager of the former Parks drug store at Eleventh and Holliday, hijacked last year, positively identified him as the man who pulled the gun on that occasion. The identification in that case is leading to an expansion of the investigations already under way and may result in the filing of an additional charge, Mr. Spence said.

Meanwhile Jim Taylor, chief of police at Electra, finds the prisoner here much like the man he talked to in Electra just before the series of holdups and the killing of Mr. McDaniel, he told the district attorney. F. M. Bently, driver of the Bailey-Moline truck, which was commandeered on the night after the shooting, and the proprietor of the Jenkins Filling station at Bowlkes, hijacked on the day before Mr. McDaniel was shot in thwarting an attempted bank robbery in Dundee, have added their identification to the accumulating power of the investigation. In every case the witnesses have declared the suspect strikingly like the hijacker, Mr. Spence explained.

Archer Sheriff Here

Other witnesses from Dundee and other parts of Wichita and Archer counties are expected Tuesday, the district attorney said. C. E. Goodwin, sheriff of Archer county, came to Wichita Falls late Monday to help in the investigations which are being rushed to meet the grand jury session early in September.

The prisoner, charged with three robberies and suspected of the murder of Mr. McDaniel, was arrested by federal authorities in Oklahoma several weeks ago. He was brought here from an insane asylum in in Oklahoma where he was placed after a lunacy hearing several months ago. He is under a three-year suspended sentence and has been rearrested by federal authorities in connection with the theft of an automobile, Mr. Spence explained. The charges here were the result of inquiries begun by the district attorney and developed through information obtained from a prisoner in the state penitentiary at Huntsville.

Mr. McDaniel was shot as he resisted a lone bandit who tried to rob the bank at Dundee more than a year ago. The slayer fled, commandeering automobiles three times along the road as he crashed one machine after another. George Duckett of Newcastle, accused of the crime, was acquitted of the charge after a trial in Seymour several months ago. Officials here believe that the second inquiry is reaching its climax and that a definite action from the grand jury in Archer county can be expected in September.

Army Planes Scour Desert In Search of Woman Pilot

Marvel Crosson Reported Lost in Arizona; Five 'Lady Birds' Checked by Accidents

YUMA, Ariz., Aug. 19. (US)—Posses tonight were searching the desert 50 miles east of here for a wrecked airplane believed to be that of Marvel Crosson, missing women's air derby racer.

First intimation of where Miss Crosson may be came late today when a cowboy jogged into Wellton with a report that he had seen an airplane fall in the far distance earlier in the day.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 19. (US)—With one aviatrix missing and five others victims of accidents, the second lap of the National Exchange club's women's air derby from Santa Monica to Cleveland proved anything but a picnic for the 18 flyers who left San Bernardino today.

Marvel Crosson was reported missing in the desert between Yuma and this city. Two army planes are seeking her.

Marvel Missing

Two army planes Monday night were searching the Arizona desert for Marvel Crosson reported missing in the flight to Phoenix of the national women's air derby.

Wandering far astray, Opal Kuntz of New York landed in a creek bed this afternoon at Prescott, Ariz. After refueling, she again took the air for Phoenix, arriving here at 4:06:42 p. m.

Bobbie Trout's plane was damaged when a balky motor forced it down near Algodones, Mexico, a short time after she had passed Calexico Calif. It was reported here as unlikely that Miss Trout will be able to continue in the derby.

When she landed at the Yuma, Ariz., control, the plane of Amelia Earhart, first woman to cross the Atlantic in an airplane, stood on its nose. A new propeller was put on her ship and Miss Earhart was able to leave with the other contestants for this city.

A forced landing was made by Thea Rasche, noted German flier, at Holtville, Calif., while the landing gear of Mrs. Claire Fahy was broken when she landed too hard at Calexico. It is doubtful if Mrs. Fahy will rejoin the race. Mechanics are working desperately on Miss Rasche's ship but she too may be unable to continue the race.

Unofficial computation tonight of the total elapsed flying time in hours minutes and seconds of the leading contestants indicated their places as:

Louise Thaden, 3:19:20; Florence L. Barnes, 3:43:21; Ruth Nichols, 3:46:50; Blanche Noyes, 3:51:15, and Phobe Omlie, 4:13:15.

Leaving San Bernardino this morning, the racers flew to Yuma. After a two-hour rest the remaining leg of the flight to this city was made. They will remain here tonight. Tomorrow morning the aviatrices will fly to Lordsburg, N. M., remain two hours, and then continue to El Paso, Texas, for the night.

TULSA GIRL TAKES OFF AT SANTA MONICA

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Aug. 19. (UP)—Delayed by late arrival of a new plane, May Haizlys of Tulsa, Okla., left at 5 p. m., tonight to overtake the women air derbyists racing to Cleveland, Ohio. She will stop at San Bernardino and at Yuma, Ariz., en route to Phoenix.

FRATS PLACED ON PROBATION

U. T. Regents May Ban Orders at Any Time

AUSTIN, Aug. 19. (AP)—University of Texas sororities and fraternities were placed under drastic regulations by vote of the board of regents today. The regents adopted a faculty committee report, which practically abolished "rush week." Each fraternity or sorority is placed under probation by which the school may abolish it at any time.

The regents' action gives complete control over membership of fraternities and sororities to the university, by providing that "no person may be initiated into a fraternity or sorority without the approval of the faculty committee on student social organizations."

Abandoned Baby Found in Front Of Lawton Home

Special to The Record News.

LAWTON, Okla., Aug. 19.—An 8 to 10-day-old baby girl, alive and in the best of health was found beneath a hedge in front of an A avenue home at 2 o'clock Sunday morning by nearby residents who heard the child crying. The infant, which weighs nine pounds, was placed in a local hospital and will be the ward of County Judge John Manning until a home is found for her. The baby girl was fully clothed and provided with extra clothes. A tag pinned to the shoulder of her dress stated Bertha was her name. There were no other evidences of identification. Nearby residents told investigating officers they heard a car stop near the place where the baby was found shortly before the infant's cries were heard.

Woman Red Cross Worker Is Slain

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19. (AP)—Miss Egie M. Ashmun, executive secretary of the San Francisco chapter, American Red Cross, was stabbed to death this afternoon as she left her offices here. David W. Licarraga, 34, was arrested and charged with murder.

Licarraga, a Mexican, attacked Miss Ashmun on a crowded street, witnesses told police. Brandishing a long knife, he slashed at her. The cut severed her jugular vein. She died en route to an emergency hospital.

Paul Palski, disabled war veteran, told police the man approached Miss Ashmun and demanded to know when he was to receive government aid.

"In the course of time," she answered. It was then he drew the knife.

Police learned Licarraga had haunted the Red Cross office here for some time asking about his government aid.

'SUN GOD' AND SWISS AIRMEN NEAR SUCCESS

Transcontinental Refuel Effort Enters Final Lap Of Flight

SWISS OVER OCEAN

European Fliers Believed Nearing Mid-Atlantic; Sighted by Ship

Two thrilling aerial feats claimed a large share of national and international attention Monday night. One of the flights was transcontinental, the other transatlantic.

The Spokane Sun God, cross-country refueling plane was speeding westward on the last lap of its dash from New York to Spokane, having already successfully completed the west-east flight.

Out over the Atlantic coming toward America the Swiss airplane, Young Switzerland, was believed making fast time in another transatlantic effort.

MILES CITY, Mont., Aug. 19. (AP)—The Spokane Sun God, endurance plane piloted by Nick Mamer and Art Walker, arrived here at 9:50 p. m. tonight and circled the city.

HORTA, THE AZORES, Aug. 19. (AP)—The airplane in which two young Swiss aviators are attempting a transatlantic flight, circled over the village of Praia Victoria, on the Island of Terceira, at 6:00 p. m. G. M. T. (1:00 p. m. E. S. T.)

The airplane was identified by the number "CH 245" which appears on the fuselage in addition to its name "Jung Schweizerland" (Young Switzerland), after circling, it continued its flight with no indication that the crew had experienced any trouble.

SUN GOD AHEAD OF ITS SCHEDULE

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 19. (UP)—Delayed after having arrived here ahead of schedule, the Spokane Sun God, cross-country refueling endurance plane, nosed westward again tonight on the last half of its flight.

The ship, piloted by Nick Mamer and Art Walker, appeared over the municipal airport at 1:25 p. m., for its second refueling of the day. At that time, the Sun God was more than an hour ahead of schedule, but the fliers were detained in the air when the refueling ship was damaged slightly in landing after making the first contact.

Take on Gasoline

The Sun God took on 175 gallons of fuel before leaving for Aberdeen, S. D. Late tonight they planned to refuel again at Aberdeen and then push on for the home station at Spokane, the starting point in the round trip flight to New York and return.

The first air pause for fuel was made today over Cleveland airport shortly before 7 a. m., after the pilots had spent a night battling a storm over Pennsylvania. The Sun God left Roosevelt Field, N. Y., early Sunday night after completing the first half of their journey from Spokane to New York and return.

A bright sun cheered the fliers at Cleveland, where they had breakfast, consisting of four combination sandwiches, four bottles of milk, a half dozen bananas and coffee, while men in the refueling plane

Theater Magnate in Court on Girl's Charges

Alexander Pantages, Los Angeles theater magnate, at table with hands extended, as he appeared during preliminary hearing on charges preferred by Eunice Pringle (inset). Pantages characterized the charges as a "frameup." Arraigned Monday in superior court, Pantages was granted a delay of three days.

THEATER CZAR GIVEN DELAY

Pantages Arraigned to Answer Girl's Charges

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19. (US).—A three-day delay was granted Alexander Pantages, multimillionaire theater owner, today when he was arraigned in superior court on charges that he attacked Eunice Pringle, 17-year-old coed and dancer.

He was given until Thursday by Judge William T. Aggeler to enter his formal plea. The state made no objection.

The crowd which filled the courtroom and nearby corridors was afforded only a brief glimpse of Pantages during the short session. The accused showman kept his glance averted as he made his way through the crowd, accompanied by his two sons, Rodney and Lloyd.

Immediately after Pantages had taken his place at the counsel table, his case was called and he was informed that he was charged with two counts alleging attacks. His attorneys waived reading of information sent up from the municipal court which held him for trial, and asked for additional time in which to plead.

The district attorney's office was expected to use the the three days to investigate further the deposition of a 16-year-old former usherette in the Pantages theater, who said she fled an attempted attack by the wealthy man. The state was said to be in possession of depositions from theater employes that Pantages ordered them to testify falsely in his behalf.

Funeral Parades Worry J. W. Tate

DALLAS, Aug. 19. (UP)—The age-old custom of long funeral processions will be dissolved if J. Waddy Tate, Dallas' hot-dog mayor, carries out his plans to revolutionize burial procedure.

Mayor Tate announced today he would confer immediately with Dallas undertakers in an effort to get cooperation in banning funeral processions. He will suggest that only the hearse and a motor car carrying pallbearers go together to the cemetery.

"Friends can meet at the burial ground without forming a procession and tying up traffic," the mayor said. "There is a danger of fire trucks and ambulances swinging a corner and striking cars in the line."

Flier Off on Solo Refueling Attempt

MILLS FIELD, SAN FRANcisco, Aug. 19. (US)—Hoping to better the present solo endurance record of 36½ hours by refueling in flight, Donald A. Templeman took off from Mills field at 10:10 this morning.

To leave Templeman free at the controls, his craft is equipped with a special "funnel device" for refueling.

Its feasibility was proved shortly before noon today. The refueling plane maneuvered a hose into the "funnel" through which 180 gallons of gasoline passed into the endurance ship's tanks.

Labor Leader Pleads Not Guilty to Charge

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 19. (AP)—John T. Banville, labor leader, was arraigned in criminal court today before Judge A. D. Henriquez on a charge of inciting a riot and pleaded not guilty. ## Lower Water Bond Issue Urged By Taxpayers in Talks to Council

Citizens Suggest Many Changes in Ordinance; Election Call Passes 2-1 on Second Reading

With the advice and protests of some 35 Wichita Falls taxpayers to guide them, members of the Wichita Falls city council Monday night voted on its second reading the ordinance calling for a $1,400,000 bond issue for improvements in the water system here. A third and final reading of the ordinance remains before the election is actually called, and the ordinance may be revised or dropped entirely on that reading.

Aldermen J. M. Spoonts and J. W. Hunt voted for the ordinance on its second reading, and Alderman J. W. Patton opposed it after he had unsuccessfully tried to have the reading postponed. With the exception of Mayor J. W. Akin, no other members of the council were present.

Local Labor Demanded

The majority of opinion as presented to the council was for a revision of the amount of the bond issue to lower figures. It was also suggested and opposed that water rates be raised to pay for the retirement of bonds, while representatives of the common laborers declared that no support could be expected from that source unless local labor was employed.

Every person who spoke before the council expressed the opinion that the citizens of Wichita Falls do not want the water problem abandoned but that they want a revision of the present plans.

In lieu of a $1,400,000 bond issue the people favor an issue providing for the expenditure of approximately $350,000 to be used in providing better distribution of the water and in eliminating the present hardness which is caused by inflow of extraneous water, it was stated by J. C. Mytinger, who attended the meeting.

Ed Howard, chairman of the water supply committee of the chamber of commerce, stated that more water from Lake Wichita goes into the irrigation ditches

Boy Slayer Of Father Is Freed

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19. (UP)—After hearing 12-year-old Richard Howard tell how he rushed to the aid of his mother and shot his father to death with a rifle, a coroner's jury of 12 men returned a verdict of justifiable homicide today.

The mother, Mrs. Irene Howard, cried "God bless those men" and collapsed. The boy was not in the room when the jurors returned after deliberating for 20 minutes.

As a result of the verdict, charges prepared by the district attorney's office in the death of the father, Frank L. Howard, prominent automobile dealer, were dismissed.

WOMAN DIES OF INJURIES

Her injuries consisted of fractures of the left leg, compound fractures of the left arm, severe shock and internal injuries, physicians said. ## CHILD OF SEVEN ACCUSES VET U. S. OFFICER

J. J. Bartlett, 60, Released On Bonds of $4,000 In Case Here

GIRL'S STORY DENIED

Special U. S. Agent Joins In Probe; "Frame Up," Says Wichita Deputy

Charges of attempted criminal assault and of aggravated assault were filed Monday afternoon against J. J. Bartlett, 60, deputy United States marshal here for many years, in connection with accusations brought against the elderly officer by a seven-year-old girl. Bartlett was released about 8:30 Monday evening under bonds totaling $4,000, of which $3,500 was in the felony charge, filed in the district court, and $500 in the misdemeanor complaint entered in the county court at law.

Son Sees Arrest

Charlie Gant, deputy sheriff, took the warrant for the arrest of the deputy marshal downstairs to Bartlett's office late Monday afternoon. The eight-year-old son of the officer looked on in white-faced silence while his father got his coat and hat, fumbled for his keys and prepared to leave his own office for the sheriff's department upstairs. Bartlett handed his keys to the child, sent a message to the boy's mother, and walked quietly upstairs with the deputy sheriff, the bare-footed boy close behind him until they reached the top of the stairs.

The prisoner talked to Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney, and to a special United States agent who has been in town on secret investigative work during the past several weeks.

Beyond an emphatic denial of the charges, he refused to make any statement, although friends quoted him as declaring it all a "frameup."

Friends of Family

The complaints were brought Monday by the weeping father of the little girl, a paralytic who cannot lift his arms. The father, mother, and two small daughters of the family made long, detailed statements to Wayne Somerville, county attorney.

Bartlett and his son have had rooms in their home, the father told Mr. Somerville, and the two little girls had become playmates with the eight-year-old Bartlett boy. The charges brought by the little girl grew out of alleged occurrences in Bartlett's basement office in the courthouse on the afternoon of Aug. 10, while the other children were attending a moving picture show, according to the direct account given by the child.

Officials at the courthouse were uncertain Monday afternoon just which complaint would be brought to trial first. No date for a preliminary hearing has yet been set.

County Leases 120 Acres of Land To Operator for Wildcat Test

Lease of 120 acres of county farm land as part of a tract for wildcat oil drilling was signed Monday afternoon by members of the county commissioners' court in an agreement with C. E. Litchfield, oil operator here. The developer has agreed to drill for oil near the farm property and to follow any successful production with a well on the county lands within four months after the first producer comes in. The lease calls for the start of work within 1350 feet of the county land before Nov. 15. The county is to have a one-eighth royalty on all gas and oil production within the three year term of the agreement.

The sector of county farm lands becomes a part of the wildcatting tract without the exchange of any rentals, the driller to have the use of the lands in exchange for prospective development. Members of the court understand that the leasing of all the lands of the tract is practically complete and that preparation for immediate drilling just south of the county property is already under way.

Farm Board Agrees to Supply Cash To Finance Cotton Crop Movement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19. (UP)—An agreement to lend cotton marketing associations between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 to help finance the movement of this year's crop was announced today by the federal farm board.

This was the fourth such agreement made public by the board. Shortly after its organization, an emergency loan of $300,000 was made to Florida fruit growers to help them fight the Mediterranean fruit fly. Yesterday the board made known its decision to lend $9,000,000 to raising growers and an undetermined sum to fresh grape producers of California.

Cotton cooperatives are already able to borrow from federal intermediate credit banks up to 65 per cent of the value of cotton. The board said in announcing its most recent loan, and the purpose of the new loan is to enable them to get an additional 25 per cent. Thus cotton growers will be able to borrow up to 90 per cent of the definite value of their crops as fixed by a hedging transaction in the future market.

The board placed no limit on the amount to be loaned for this purpose, but estimated the total at between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000.

TWO AIR FEATS GET ATTENTION

Sun God and Swiss Plane Make Fast Time

transferred 250 gallons of gas to the Sun God.

Fliers Happy

The spirit of the fliers was shown in notes dropped at Cleveland and en route here today signed "Nick and Art."

After giving instructions to ground crews at Cleveland and thanking them for their cooperation, one note added "we might be able to help you some time. Good work."

When they viewed the lakes in Wisconsin, the fliers soared over the airport and Madison and dropped a note, saying:

"Hello boys, at the airport. Those are keen lakes and we need a bath badly. How about a bath on the fly? Send us about 400 gallons of water."

"YOUNG SWITZERLAND" OVER ATLANTIC

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 19.—Reports received here tonight indicated that the Swiss airplane Young Switzerland, piloted by two Swiss airmen, which hopped off from a point near here early this morning, was well on its way to America.

A message this afternoon from a steamship said that the plane had been sighted nearly 200 miles out at sea.

The Swiss aviators are attempting to fly from Portugal to New York but were agreed, before their departure, that Halifax, N. S., probably would be their first port of call—to refuel.

The pilots are Kurt Kuescher and Oscar Kaester. Their plane is a Farman French-built model with a 230-horsepower motor. The course laid by the aviators crossed the Azores but at the time of "hopping off" it was not definite whether the airmen would land on these islands. Fuel supply is the most important consideration and the airmen told observers that they were sure they could reach Halifax without having to refuel.

If the pilots refuel at Halifax, they will then proceed to New York. It is unlikely that any attempt will be made to make a nonstop flight to New York.

ARMY PLANES OFF FOR CLEVELAND RACES

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 19.(AP)—Held up seven hours by an overdue check from the east for expenses 18 of the navy's fastest pursuit airplanes got away today and were winging their way toward the national air races at Cleveland.

Under command of Commander Homer Wicks, the squadron left the naval base at 12:10 p. m. for Tucson, Arizona. Whether they will stop there overnight or proceed to El Paso was to be determined upon arrival at the Arizona airport.

Vernon Road Work Halted

Special to The Record News

VERNON, Texas, Aug. 19.—Although an injunction restraining striking truck owners from interfering with paving work on highway No. 28 between Vernon and Crowell was granted by District Judge Robert Cole, work was not resumed this afternoon because an insufficient number of trucks were available. Clyde McClung of the McClung Construction company, contractors, expressed confidence that work would be renewed Tuesday. He declared none of the striking truck owners, representing 45 of the 48 trucks employed at the time of the strike would be employed.

Meantime it was known that the strikers were discussing legal steps to obtain their pay. They claim that some of their number have been working 45 days without receiving any pay. They are demanding payment regularly and a scale of 30 cents for the first quarter of a mile of haul and 5 cents for each remaining quarter. They were receiving four and a half cents a quarter when they walked out.

New Postoffice Will Open Today

The new Monroe street post office, which will serve the residential section of the city west of Brook avenue and south of the Wichita river, will be opened at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning in the new building constructed for it at 1510 Monroe street, according to the announcement of O. P. Maricle, postmaster.

Nine carriers and the rural carrier for the route along the Seymour road will deliver postal matter from the new station, which will provide every service to be found in the downtown office, including lock boxes and postal savings accounts. Mr. Maricle explained that several days will be required to accustom the carriers and the residents to the new location and that every effort will be made to expedite the service as soon as possible.

Back From Vacation

Tariff Changes Affecting Texas

Revised Tariff Rates Made Public

Carrying approximately 360 rate increases and reductions from those adopted by the house, the committee document, two months in the making, simultaneously was submitted to the finance committee Democrats.

County Awards Burial Contract

A contract providing burial for the county's indigent at a standard rate of $5.95 was awarded to the Albert Funeral home by the action of the county commissioners court Monday afternoon. The undertaking company will meet detailed specifications and will provide ambulance service at a $2 rate, according to the terms of the agreement. The contract was given to Albert's as the lower of two bidders.

The commissioners accepted the monthly report of Paul Barnett, county auditor, covering the financial condition of the county at the close of July. The report showed a balance on July 31 of $564,196.29 after gross receipts of $21,675.18 and disbursements totaling $60,919.14.

Members of the court Monday afternoon began an inquiry into the possibilities of obtaining state aid in employing an extra clerk to work up materials for filing delinquent tax suits in the county.

Lower Water Bond Issue Urged

which provide water for farms to the south of the city than goes into the city mains for consumption. It was pointed out that G. A. Remington general manager of Wichita County Water Improvement districts Nos. 1 and 2, had estimated that $50,000 would be sufficient for the construction of a ditch around south of Lake Wichita which would give water to the irrigation users from the Lake Kemp system and remove the necessity of using Lake Wichita water for irrigation purposes, giving all of it to city use. Mr. Remington stated, it was said, that the county irrigation system was ready and anxious to supply water for irrigation users who use Lake Wichita water at the present.

Separate Systems

Mr. Mytinger pointed out that residents in the southwestern portion of the city had been deprived entirely of a water supply on several afternoons and nights during the period of crisis in July when water was by-passed from the ditch into the mains without filtration and when water could not be pumped into the mains in sufficient quantity to fill the standpipe which supplies that part of town.

"I feel sure that arrangements can be made with the irrigation company for using water from Lake Kemp instead of from Lake Wichita," Mr. Mytinger said.

"Irrigation comes second to human consumption in the first place, and it should make no difference to irrigation users whether their water came from either lake so long as it was supplied. For use in the city, however, it is highly desirable that pure, soft water be furnished, and that can be done only when the inflow from outside sources has been eliminated."

It was further pointed out that poisonous chemicals were used in oil well operation which were allowed to flow out and eventually find their way into the waters of Lake Wichita.

Judge R. E. Huff, who agreed with the statements of Mr. Howard and Mr. Mytinger, expressed his opinion that oil companies could legally be prohibited from allowing salt water and other outflows from wells to flow down so that it would seep into Lake Wichita. They could be required, he said, to build confining dykes which would keep the undesirable materials near the wells and prevent their flowing into the watershed which leads to the lake.

Softer Water

One of the questions raised was whether the softening process planned would be a mechanical or artificial means or whether it would allow for natural softening of the water.

City Manager Fairtrace stated that the proposal was to use chemicals in the filtration process for softening the water until such time that the lake had been cleansed of all hardening materials. This process would have to be employed for a period of about two years, by which time it was estimated that the lake water would have regained its former softness by the elimination of inflow from all outside sources, Mr. Fairtrace said.

Mr. Howard attended the meeting as a taxpayer and not as a representative of the water supply committee of the chamber of commerce, he declared. That committee held a meeting Monday afternoon and five out of the six members favored the bond issue of $1,400,000 but agreed that it was not the proper time to advise the public to vote in favor of the issue in the event it came to an election. The decision of the committee is subject to the opinion of the board of directors of the chamber of commerce before definite recommendations may be made to the citizens.

TAX SALE

Sale of Wichita county property ranging in value from $50 to $1,350 to meet delinquent tax judgments has been announced for Sept. 3. The auction will include lots and improvements in Iowa Park, Burkburnett, Electra and Wichita Falls and involves a long list of property scattered in all parts of the county.

Curious Japanese Impatiently Wait Daylight to Feast Eyes on Airship

Thousands Crowd About Hangar 12 Hours After Graf Zeppelin Lands at Tokyo Air Field

By JAMES R. YOUNG
(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

TOKYO, Aug. 20. (Tuesday)—Twelve hours of wonder and amazement have not yet satiated Nipponese curiosity and despite the hangaring of the Graf Zeppelin at Kasumigaura air station silent thousands of spectators stand guard awaiting daybreak for a closer view of the Graf Zeppelin, conqueror of ocean and earth.

Meanwhile, 59 tired men and one vivacious, charming woman—Lady Grace Drummond Hay—have spent an evening as guests of the island empire, and are now quietly resting after 101 hours and 56 minutes of thrill-crowded air touring.

Passengers Feted

Last night these famous officers, passengers and personnel of the giant air monarch which has spanned one ocean and two continents since leaving Lakehurst for Friedrichshafen and Tokyo, spent several hours being feted and honored and congratulated upon the marvelous success of the second leg of the Hearst-Zeppelin flight around the world.

And in these wee small hours of the morning, after the "Banzai!" has temporarily subsided, and the entertainments have ceased, they rest—tired souls who are once again at the breast of civilization after many long hours over the deepest, darkest, most primitive country of the vast Siberian unknown.

Crowd Numbers 100,000

The giant Graf Zeppelin safely landed its 60 souls at 6:30 p. m. yesterday, at the magic moment when the silver moon is disputing sunset's rosy glow over the sacred mountains of Fujiyama. This was exactly 101 hours, 56 minutes out of Friedrichshafen.

The crowd of 100,000, which cheered itself hourse after the arrival of the Graf over the landing field after the flight to Tokyo and Yokohama became suddenly hushed and quieted in an awed silence.

Then, a few minutes after 6 o'clock last night, the first landing ropes were dropped, the engines were shut off and the great ghostly airship, silvered by the moon's first beams, slowly settled down as the 400 trained men of the landing crew tugged at the ropes.

So ended the most thrilling day in recent history in Japan.

With its five mighty engines roaring a greeting to the flowery kingdom, the Zeppelin returned to the field from its tour over the Nipponese capital and Yokohama, the nearby seaport, just as a gentle evening wind began blowing from the nearby lake Kasumigaura.

Throngs Cheer

The massed thousands who had waited all morning and all afternoon sent up cheer after cheer, almost drowning Japanese and patriotic German bands.

Slowly circling the field, Commander Dr. Hugo Eckener maneuvered the craft slightly to one side, but in front of the hangar. The crowds could faintly discern the 20 passengers waving their handkerchiefs—and napkins and even tablecloths—from the portholes of the main gondola.

Under the compulsion of the slight wind from the north the dirigible's nose was pointed eastward and the reversed engines halted the forward movement. Then the craft started a slight drift to the south, and the first two ropes were dropped out at 6:25 p. m. then the rear ropes were dropped and seized.

The motors were stopped. The water ballast was let out and came thundering down in a mighty shower to the field. Hardly had the Zeppelin touched the ground when the restless thousands suddenly broke the lines and rushed to the center of the field like a stampede of Nebraska cattle, sending up a cloud of wheat chaff from the stubble-field to envelope the sky-cruiser.

In a few minutes special Yokohama customs officers made their way through the crowd and began facilitating the landing of the passengers. The Graf was hangared at 7:07 p. m. yesterday (6:07 a. m. Monday, E. D. T.)

REGULAR SERVICE

FREIDRICHSHAFEN, Germany Aug. 19. (AP)—The present world flight of the Graf Zeppelin it was learned tonight from reliable sources, was a technical demonstration to prove the practibility of regular international dirigible service in which American capitalists, the Zeppelin works and the Hamburg American Steamship line would cooperate.

Japan imported $2,000,000 worth of American leather in the last 12 months.

FRATS PLACED ON PROBATION

U. T. Regents May Ban Orders at Any Time

ary period should be established, was followed.

Rushing is controlled by prohibiting rushing of any student until he has established his eligibility.

"Prior to establishment of eligibility, such person may not visit a chapter house or enter its premises, or attend any social function given by or for such organization," the regents voted.

Sororities are required to have chaperones, approved by the dean of women. The regents deferred requiring men's fraternities to have house mothers.

No group may pledge initiates if its finances are in unsatisfactory condition.

Two Orders Abolished

Skulls and Bones, and Theta Nu Epsilon were abolished.

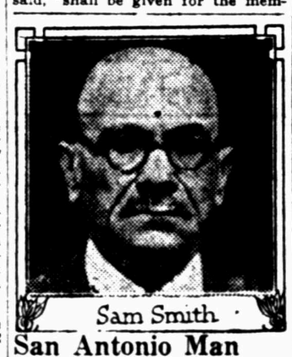

Fraternities and sororities were prohibited from inviting other groups to dances or social functions. Fraternities may invite any student who is a member of another fraternity, or who has established eligibility for initiation.

"Any social function given by a sorority," the regents' resolution said, "shall be given for the members of the single group who act as hostesses and their men guests, provided the number of men does not exceed twice the number of hostesses, and provided that no student may be invited who has not established eligibility for initiation."

No new group may establish a residence without approval of school authorities.

A modified "rush week" this year was said to be possible, though rushing cannot be directed to students until their eligibility has been certified by school authorities. Whether the rush week will be delayed until after the registration period, was not made clear in the regulations. Students must meet prescribed scholastic requirements before being admitted to frats and sororities this year, the order said.

Students may not be initiated until after they have done prescribed amounts of work in the university, or have certain credits from other institutions.

San Antonio Man Has Interesting Life

"At one time in my life I thought I had the worst luck of any man in Texas," says Sam Smith, now one of San Antonio's heaviest taxpayers. "I had to be careful what I ate or I would almost choke from the gas on my stomach. That was many years ago. In fact, until I started taking Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets). Ever since then I eat what I want and let NR take care of the rest."

That's because those little Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) soothe, sweeten and stimulate the stomach and bowels. Then the starch and sugar wastes can't remain in your system to form those acids which sour your stomach, bind your bowels and rob the blood of the red corpuscles it must have plenty of to keep you from suffering pain, biliousness, sick headaches, indigestion and rheumatism. # KNOTTY LEGAL SNARLS INCREASE DRY LAW DIFFICULTIES

COURTS MUST DECIDE LAWS

Mrs. Willebrandt Takes Up 'Putting Law to Work'

THE INSIDE OF PROHIBITION
XVI. Putting the Law to Work

By MABEL W. WILLEBRANDT
(Copyright, 1929, by Current News Features, Inc. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.)

Mrs. Willebrandt

Before there can be any kind of effective law enforcement, there has to be law, very definite and very certain, to enforce. One of the great complaints of the anti-prohibitionists has been that the things done in the name of prohibition enforcement have been beyond the law. Some of that is right. With any new statute it is of the utmost importance early to clarify its interpretation and unify its application. This can only be done by carrying disputed points to the highest courts for settlement. Much of my effort in the past eight years has been in that direction.

I have watched vigilantly for about eight years the decisions of courts on difficult interpretations of liquor laws, in the 92 districts of the United States. When a variety of opinion arose between judges I have worked to get the question before higher courts. When harmony of interpretation could not be obtained in the various circuit courts of appeal, the question has been brought to the supreme court of the United States. Just winning the case is much less important than clarifying the law.

With the able assistance of Mahlon D. Kiefer, who has headed the appeals section in my office, and Sewall Key, who though primarily on tax work, has rendered yeoman service on many briefs, I have submitted 278 cases on certiorari briefs to the supreme court of the United States, and have helped to settle finally disputed interpretations in nearly two scores of cases argued, and briefed on the merits. Every one of these decisions brought certainty where legal confusion had been before.

Have you not often been in doubt whether prohibition agents have a right to stop cars on the road? So had we until the law was settled about three years ago. The case of United States vs. Carroll, 267 U. S. 132, was briefed and argued twice in an effort to decide whether a car can be stopped on the highway without agents first getting a search warrant. The supreme court itself deliberated over the matter for many months. The chief justice finally handed down an opinion in 20 pages which reviewed the law from ancient times and decided that although agents cannot stop just any car they please, they may, without a search warrant, stop one the movements of which they have observed enough to be reasonably certain of its violation of law.

A Blow at Rum Runners

This decision has proved to be a bulwark of strength in dealing with rum runners along the border. The court made it plain that every case must rest on its own facts. But the facts which they held sufficient to stop and search the Carroll car were, first, the agents' knowledge that it had previously been used to carry liquor; second, the fact that it was proceeding from the Canadian border; and, third, that its springs were very heavily weight down with an unusual load. The public is very liable to break into criticism without waiting to know the facts when prohibition agents stop cars. It is well to remember that the supreme court of the United States has spoken affirmatively in upholding their right to do so, under some circumstances.

Another recent victory in interpreting and strengthening the prohibition law is the case of United States vs. Marron, 275 U. S. 192. Bootleggers keep their books just like business men. They record the amount of liquor handled and the payments of graft to the police officers and others on whose protection they depend. Because of the constitutional guarantee to protect a defendant from having to testify against himself and to protect his books and papers from seizure without a search warrant, most courts at first refused to allow bootleggers' and other law breakers' books which are kept to record their illegal business to be used against them. Government agents in the Marron case went into a "blind pig" in San Francisco. They arrested the proprietors and seized the books. There was much difference of opinion between government lawyers as to whether such evidence could be used. With deep conviction I briefed and argued the view that the constitution never intended to throw a mantle of protection around records of crime found incident to the arrest of a law breaker. The supreme court upheld this view.

Crook Learns Respect for Law

Settling the law in this respect has proved of great value in the offensive against big liquor violators. They recognize it, too. Recently I listened to testimony in McNeil Island penitentiary of a bootlegger who described how, after the Marron case, the ring of which he was a member constructed a room under their garage. It opened by a trap door in the garage floor which responded to an electric switch. In this vault all books and papers were kept and all records of great payments and accountings between the partners in crime. He said:

"We weren't going to argue with the supreme court after that Marron case and run the risk of our books revealing all the inner workings of our business. I am here taking my jolt, but there are a lot of our crowd still out because you didn't get our books when you arrested me."

I have always felt that the worst prohibition offender is the agent or official who shuts his eyes to some "favored" violator's acts. It used to be generally believed, however, that there was no way to punish such an agent other than by reprimanding or firing him. This gave him, merely because he wore a badge, a kind of sanctimonious immunity that always rankled me. A case entitled United States vs. Donnelly, 276 U. S., 505, arose involving the very question. The prohibition director of a western state was convicted of refusing to prosecute a rum-runner when he had plain evidence of his violation of law. The prohibition director defended himself on the ground that the prohibition act punished only commissions of crime, not ommissions on the part of agents who failed to report crime. It was a nice legal point. Lawyers here were split over it and the supreme court itself was even finally divided. But I insisted that congress intended to catch defaulting agents just as much as bootleggers. Mr. Mitchell, attorney general (then solicitor general) turned down my first brief and wrote one himself on the other side of the question. When the case was set down for argument again, I persisted in my view and Attorney General Mitchell, like the fairminded lawyer that he is, said: "Go ahead. File the brief according to your own views, but I can't sign it with you." We had much friendly rivalry in the department over the fact that I went before the court to argue a view of the law with my superior officer's brief on file presenting the other side. The outcome, however, left the smile with me, for although two justices dissented, the supreme court's majority opinion adopted my interpretation of the law and the opinion was written by Justice Butler—Attorney General Mitchell's former law partner and close friend! He said (page 572):

"Diligence and good faith on the part of enforcement officers are essential . . . The infliction of punishment for their intentional violations is an appropriate means to hold them to the performance of their duties."

This opinion has had a noticeably wholesome and cleansing effect on agents and United States attorneys alike.

When Foreign Nations Object

Not only has it been necessary to strengthen the law at home by securing a final interpretation by higher courts of questionable sections of it, but it has been essential to deal with other knotty problems involving international law to keep the country from being flooded with liquor from foreign shores.

The raiding of a bootleg establishment in Chicago without proper search warrant does not produce very serious consequences; but the seizure of a British ship, even though actually laden with intoxicating liquor intended for thirsty American throats, may produce very serious consequences if the seizure has not been in accordance with international law. One consequence may be the payment of heavy damages by the United States government, and another and even more serious consequence is the building up of bad feeling between nations.

The extent of the rum-running business between foreign shores and the United States may be gauged by the fact that within two years after we had made a treaty with England extending the distance within which we might make captures, 56 British rum-running vessels were seized. There were, of course, many other English rum ships, as well as ships of other nations loaded with liquor for America, that either were not detected, or were not captured.

In 1921 the hovering operations of foreign vessels, mostly flying the British flag, amounted to a national scandal. As a practical matter, most of "rum row" hovered from 12 to 20 miles off shore, but sent their cargoes in close to land by means of small dories. It was like catching mosquitoes to apprehend these dories. If the parent ships were seized, outside of the three-mile limit into which they seldom ventured, England and other foreign countries under whose flags they were registered would protest and usually the state department would turn the ship loose.

One day the assistant United States attorney at Boston reported to me a set of facts that I felt sure would admit of a vigorous policy on the part of the United States government and perhaps make some new law on the subject. The Grace and Ruby was hovering about 10 miles off Gloucester, Mass. Men came out from the shore in a motor boat, the Wilkin II. A part of the Grace and Ruby's crew helped to load liquor into the Wilkin II, and then climbed into a dory which belonged to the parent schooner, tied it to the Wilkin II and went ashore. Not only was the Wilkin II seized, but also the parent ship. Great Britain made protest.

I became so interested in seeing the law crystalized by carrying the case to court, that I went over to the state department and literally took off my hat and coat and rolled up my sleeves to argue with solicitors of that department and representatives of the British government. I could not bear to see the United States miss the chance of turning one of Great Britain's own decisions against her. That was one where the British schooner Araunah had been hovering off seal banks but sent her crew and small boats within a foreign government's territorial water to kill seals. The British government had agreed that that constituted an offense by the parent ship. In other words, the parent ship had made a constructive entry into foreign territorial waters by means of her own small boats, crew and tackle! That was the argument we put up in the Grace and Ruby case. The court sustained it, and the United States government held thus rum ship. This theory of constructive entry seriously hampered "rum row."

(In her next article Mrs. Willebrandt will record some of the legal adventures affecting malt and yeast, and explain her position in regard to the famous Jones law).

BANK ROBBERS OFFERED BOND

Bail Promised Men Sought At Oklahoma City

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 19. (UP)—Russell Gibson, Charles A. Merritt and James "Cowboy" Hayes, Kansas City gangsters implicated in the $75,000 bank robbery of the American First National bank here May 24, were promised bond today if they would surrender.

Gibson escaped from jail Saturday night after knocking down a jailer. Merritt and Hayes have never been arrested.

"Gibson's attorneys and leaders of his gang in Kansas City disapproved the jail break," Stanley Rogers, sheriff, said today. "They believed the case was won and were prepared to prove Gibson was in Kansas City the day of the robbery.

"We expect them to urge the three men to surrender," Rogers said.

Oklahoma City police were questioning several suspects today who were thought to have aided Gibson in his daring escape.

It was discovered today that Floyd Cornelius, liquor prisoner, did the actual sawing. He was to have escaped with Gibson but was captured.

'I Don't Choose' Was Surprise for Grace

NEW YORK, Aug. 19. (INS)—Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, wife of the former president, did not know of her husband's decision to close his political career until several hours after his famous "I do not choose" statement had been made public and the news was revealed to her, not by the chief executive, but by a senator.

This revelation is made by Mrs. Coolidge in an article written by her, which will appear tomorrow in the current issue of the American Magazine.

"I am rather proud of that fact," Mrs. Coolidge writes, "that after nearly a quarter of a century of marriage, my husband feels free to make his decisions and act upon them without consulting me or giving me advance knowledge of them. What knowledge I had of public affairs I obtained from the daily newspapers."

Meanwhile 75 additional jitney drivers were arrested today for violating the city ordinance by failing to post indemnity bonds.

Sid and Dennis Brantly of Post Oak will have charge of the gin this season.

TIP LEADS TO MASSIVE HAUL

U. S. Has $7,500 Reward For 'Squealer'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19. (INS)—Somebody "squealed," for the customs men didn't know the yacht Margo had 40 cases of rare Canadian liquors aboard when she appeared in Detroit river two weeks ago until an anonymous message was received. The treasury department admits this today and announced an award of $7,500 is being kept in a separate vault for the informer.

The Margo is owned by Bert A. Massee, wealthy soap magnate of Chicago, but was being operated for his friend, Louis Mendelssohn, Detroit, of the firm of Fisher Brothers, automobile body builders. Mendelssohn and his friends were on board the yacht 19 days, cruising about and then they hove to in the Detroit river for the unexpected dry raid.

So far no one has claimed the reward and treasury officials doubt a claimant will appear. They believe a woman guest on the cruise who left the Margo before it reached Detroit, might have been slighted by her host and "squealed" about the booze. Perhaps she is wealthy, they explained, and does not choose to collect such "pin money."

But in event a member of the crew was the one who looked out for Uncle Sam's interest the department believes he will ask for the reward soon as he knows the tariff law rules the person giving original information of any customs violation is entitled to one-fourth of the fine imposed by the government.

It cost Massee $30,000 for smuggling the liquor aboard. Mendelssohn sent a check for the amount but it was refused and then Massee sent a bank draft for $30,000 and his yacht was turned over to him.

QUITS ROCKING

Mrs. Schmidt Abandons Chair After 400 Hours Of Activity

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Aug. 19 (UP).—Mrs. H. B. Schmidt abandoned her rocking chair marathon at noon today after rocking for 400 hours.

"I believe the present record will stand for many moons," said the 20-year-old wife who had been rocking since Aug. 2. "If anyone wants to better my record she is welcome to try."

Mrs. Schmidt said she was going to find a "good straight chair and take a long sit in it for a change.

Her last competitor, J. B. Haney of Kansas City, dropped out last week when he fell asleep after rocking for 200½ hours.

Poison Theory in Girl Death Case Disproved by Test

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19. (INS)—Home brew and not a poison was contained in a bottle found near the body of Miss Mary Frances Morgan, 19, when she was discovered dying in the kitchen of her home in Narberth, Pa., an analysis determined today.

Dr. Robert Stinson, Montgomery county chemist, who made the test, so reported to the lower Merion township police who have been searching for a rejected suitor said to have been seen leaving the home an hour before the girl's mother found her strapped to a chair in the gas-filled kitchen last Friday.

Police suspected the young woman had been drugged or poisoned before she was trussed to the chair with three belts. The murder theory will be exploded if an analysis of the contents of the stomach shows it contained no poison or drugs. Coroner George R. Huff expects to get this report soon, meanwhile he has released the body for burial and plans have been made for interment tomorrow.

The two landing fields will be established at points dividing proportionally the distance from Fort Worth to Waco, he said, and will be equipped with beacons and boundary and obstruction lights.

Daily Editorial

ALL SURGICAL operations will soon be equipped with shock absorbers, if further experience with sodium amytal confirms recent tests at St. Paul's hospital, Vancouver.

This new anesthetic threatens the retirement of both chloroform and ether, neither of which may be safely administered to persons with weak hearts.

Amytal, according to reports, won't quicken or depress the pulse, does not upset the stomach, is effective in a cat's wink, and produces a gentle twilight sleep lasting six hours, from which the patient emerges as from an ordinary nap.

Another tapeline with which to measure the distance between nowadays and thenadays! And to calculate how far we have progressed since the American surgeon, Dr. Hall, rescued amputation and laparotomy from cauterization, sutures in conscious flesh and the searing of bleeding stumps with hot pitch and boiling oil, while the butchered victim screamed and writhed and watched his mutilation.

And to prove that good things regularly come in pairs, London sends word that two of its research workers are getting a strangle-hold on blood poisoning, by fortifying the system against septicemia with ultra-violet rays, whose anti-bacterial light halts infection and destroys poison-carrying corpuscles.

Meanwhile, bubonic continues to devastate the East and support the Malthusian theory that Nature always uses epidemic as a broom to rid congested areas of their excess population, and thus maintain a balance between birth-rate and food supply.

But what, pray, becomes of the Malthusian theory when sanitary precaution and advanced medical practice are universally adopted, and the hundreds of millions at present perishing from preventable plagues are conserved to share the limited crop and range yields of the earth?

John Baird, author of television, demonstrates that true genius is invariably a repeater, by devising a "fog eye" for pilots, navigators and locomotive engineers.

His noctovisor starts with a two-mile range—but precedent tells us that's a mere beginning.

Once a principle is established, thousands of eager and ambitious minds pry and prod into the original notion and develop potentialities the pioneer never even sensed.

The New Woman Movement in China

WE THINK of China as a land in which the lot of women is a hard one—girls sold into slavery, feet bound, a condition of subservience to brutal men. These conditions may still exist, but alongside of them has appeared the emancipated woman due to Christian influence and the spread of modern ideas.

There may be a superficiality about the progress of woman in China and down underneath in centuries of tradition and custom there may still be the soil that must be purged before there can be healthy growth, but these traditions and customs have been broken and we can believe from a letter received by this newspaper from Rev. H. G. C. Hallock, a missionary in Shanghai, that the movement is attaining overmastering force. He writes as follows:

"Here comes a letter from this land if intrigue, graft, warfare, famine, suffering, chaos, to tell you and the readers of your excellent paper about China's new woman who has a share in the 'goings-on.'

"If a woman in China, 20 years ago, had been given a Rip Van Winkle sleep, she would be more surprised than he was, should she awake today. Then woman had to stay indoors and work something like domestic animals. Or, if of a better family, be cooped up at home and stay there. She was allowed to be seen only by her husband or brothers.

"Now what a change! The modern Chinese young women skip around the streets with a spring, grace and freedom that's quite refreshing when one remembers the women formerly hobbling along on bound feet supported by amahs. Now girls bob, shingle or permanent their hair. That's a sign of freedom! They ride bicycles, play tennis, basket ball and engage in other athletics. Formerly the parents arranged their marriage. Now one often sees the young ladies walking very affectionately arm in arm with their 'best boys,' and the young people often do the arranging. The dress used to be the most modest of any nationality. Now women are often seen with short sleeves and very low-necked frocks even at midday. Sometimes they're seen with the most up to date up-beyond-the-knee short frocks and flimsy silk hose and very high heeled shoes. Indeed the Chinese girls are quite amusing flappers sometimes—shocking sometimes—so much so that the officials have felt it necessary to issue proclamations commanding them to dress modestly. The girls have even learned to flirt in the most up to date way. That's freedom! They dance in the latest styles. They ride horses, astride, with boots and riding breeches. 'That's English, you know.'

"Once the ideal for girls was that they be able to do beautiful needle work at home. Now they are doing other things. They are clerks in stores. Some are typists and stenographers. Some are bankers. They play the organ or piano or other musical instruments. Some are becoming movie artists or actresses. Some are lawyers and judges and doctors, are teachers and kindergarteners. They even become soldiers and sometimes they become general's secretaries! Women also become street-corner politicians and scream the revolutionary platitudes such as 'Down with imperialism,' 'Give the people freedom,' to beat the most zealous men revolutionaries. Rarely do you see meetings for propaganda or riots without seeing girls or women taking active part in them, urging on the riots. I am glad to say that some few of them are taking part in the Red Cross work in relieving the suffering of those wounded in battle. Women, too, occupy places of influence in the government in Nanking. Once women's faces lacked all hope and ambition, and there are still great hosts of women who are the same drudges at home or—worse—in great factories. But among the younger generation they have ambition—ambition that carries them to extremes.

"I'm glad to say that there are many modest, motherly women who have gone through our mission schools who are making nice, clean, beautiful Christian homes where the children are brought up well and taught to be good, useful members of society, children of whom they and missions can be proud and thankful. One cannot expect great things from a nation in which the people have been brought up for ages in filth, physical and moral; but a new generation is coming on, born anew in the church of Christ and in these clean Christian homes. We are expecting much for China from such.

"Things are out of joint in China; but we hope and pray that the common sense of better Chinese and the deeply planted power of the gospel will gradually overcome the criminal influences and that China will find peace, prosperity and a place among the great nations of the world."

Getting Outdoors

ONE OF the most promising signs for a more healthy nation in the future is the great speed of the fad of spending more time outdoors.

The automobile, of course, has done much along this line. Before motor cars began to jam the highways, millions of children in the cities failed to get the amount of real country fresh air and sunshine that they should have. Charitable organizations arranged trips into the country for them just to get some fresh air.

But now with the ownership of automobiles so widely distributed, the number of families who cannot get their children away for brief periods at least from the comparatively impure air of the cities has greatly decreased.

More people are spending vacations at outdoor camps than ever before. Golf courses, swimming pools, tennis courts and other playgrounds are crowded. The army of "tin can" tourists is increasing from year to year. The "sun tan" fad has spread like wildfire over the country and children with their scanty summer clothing are getting the greatest possible benefit out of those mysterious rays of the sun which, doctors say, mean so much to their future health.

Nature provided a wonderful land for us to live in, but many of us have been too long in discovering that fact.

CHATTY—GODDESS OF GAB

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of: "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDERS," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1928, CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N, INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

READ THIS FIRST

Charlotte Chatterton, nicknamed Chatty, is a born gossip. Her mother, a widowed dressmaker, has one wealthy customer, Mrs. Van Nuys, and through her Chatty gets a job as switchboard operator in the Van Nuys bond house. There she meets and falls in love with David Jordan, handsome young bond salesman, and becomes jealous of his friendship with Agnes Herford, Mr. Van Nuys' secretary.

Billie Langenau, who wrrks in the office, comes to live in the flat across the hall from where Chatty lives. Chatty's brother, Pud, goes to high school and works evenings in Ben Tomlinson's drug store. Chatty learns that he delivers gin for Ben, and begs him to stop before he is arrested, but Pud refuses to do it.

One day Chatty sees David hand a note to Agnes Herford. Jealous, she goes through Agnes' desk to look for it. It is a simple message about some bonds, but in hunting for it Chatty finds Agnes' diary, filled with the story of her love for her employer. Chatty tears some of the pages out, and sends them to Mrs. Van, and Agnes is discharged. Dave Jordon, alone knows that Chatty is responsible, and he drops her. Winnie Talcott, the office "vamp," gets Agnes' position. Winnie gets quite chummy with Chatty, and at a party Chatty meets Bryant Dunning, a new bond salesman. Winnie shows Chatty how to paint her face and "doll up." Bryant is married, but tells Chatty he has left his wife.

Agnes calls at Chatty's house and tells Chatty that Mr. Van had never suspected she was in love with him until the diary turned up. Agnes says she has seen Mr. Van at his office, and Chatty promises not to tell Mrs. Van about Agnes. Mrs. Van tells Chatty's mother that she is going away for a while. Chatty guesses it is because of the note about Agnes she mailed a few days before.

A girl phones David at the office, and Chatty "listens in." He catches her. Chatty, who has been on several parties with Bryant Dunning, goes over to his house this evening, after returning from a ride.

"Look at the time!"

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XXX

They stopped for lemons and sugar at a store on the way back to town. And so it was after 10 o'clock when they reached Bryant's apartment.

The little place looked even more cheerful and cozy to Chatty than it had the first time she visited it. There were some new magazines on the table in the middle of the room, and a big week-end box of cigarets stood beside them. Everything was as clean and bright as a new pin.

"You make the lemonade, Bryant," Chatty said, closing the door behind her. "I always make it too sweet. Is there such a thing as a looking glass around this place? I want to powder my nose."

"I'll show you where to go in just a minute," Bryant answered, nodding. "But first—"

He came up to her and put his arms around her. "First, kiss me, Chatty," he said, his voice low and shaken, as it always was when he began to make love to her.

They clung together for a long moment in the middle of the little room, surrounded by the things that Bryant's wife had bought and put there. The flowered silk curtains and sofa cushions. The ivory silk shaded lamps. The empty birdcage and the pink glass tulips.

Chatty closed her eyes to shut out the sight of them.

She didn't want to think of Bryant's wife now, while she was in Bryant's arms. She wanted to forget everything but just herself and him—here together, with the moonlight making silver squares of the windows and the lamplight like golden mist in the room.

"It's so lovely being here, isn't it?" she sighed, when he let her out of his arms. "Only I wish—your wife never had lived here with you. It spoils it all, somehow for us, doesn't it?"

"No," he said, in an oddly gruff voice. "Let's forget her! And don't talk about her any more, for the love of Mike. That's the only way to do with people and with things that are gone—put them out of your mind."

Yes, that was the way to do, thought Chatty, pulling off her little close-fitting hat . . . And that was the thing to do with the thoughts that bothered her. The thought of Agnes and the diary that had lost her job. The thought of Mrs. Van, starting off on a marital vacation because of that same little diary. The thought of Dave Jordan. Above all, the thought of Dave Jordan!

"Where do I go to powder my nose?" she asked, and Bryant showed her a half-open door at the end of a little hall beyond the living room.

Then he vanished behind a curtained doorway on his way to the kitchen.

The room that he had shown Chatty into was a bedroom.

In it were two white, twin beds, a white dressing table and a white chifforobe. At the windows hung long, frilly curtains of blue so pale that they were almost white. The beds were covered with spreads of the same delicate color, and so was the armchair that stood beside the window.

Chatty stood looking around her with wide, troubled eyes.

Between the beds a small lamp with a bright yellow shade stood on a little table.

Above it on the wall was a shelf loaded with books.

The closet door stood open, and hanging from a hook just inside the door was a pink bungalow apron—no doubt left there by Bryan't wife when she went away from him and from this home of theirs.

The pink bungalow apron was too much for Chatty.

She switched off the lights and went out into the kitchen where Bryant was chopping ice.

The kitchen, too, seemed to be fairly alive with the presence of Bryant's vanished wife.

Here, too, at the window, hung little frilly white curtains, all daintily made by hand.

The tea towels, on a white rack above the sink, had been hemmed by hand, too. Beside the sink stood a tall, white stool—the kind that women sit on when they are shelling peas ar peeling potatoes.

"Who keeps the place in such wonderful order?" Chatty asked, sitting down on the stool and feeling as if she had no right to be there.

"The laundress my wife used to have comes in once a week and fixes it all up. She was here yesterday," he answered, "and today, too. She does everything for me. Nice little place, isn't it?"

"Darling," Chatty answered, absently.

She got up from the stool and wandered back into the living room.

Among the flowered silk cushions of the couch lay something small and soft and white. Before she picked it up she knew what it was. A woman's handkerchief, perfumed delicately, and finished with a rolled hem that had been made by hand.

Chatty looked at the tiny neat stitches. Stitches that were just as tiny and just as neat as the stitches in the curtains all over the house.

"Your wife's been here lately, hasn't she?" she asked Bryant, when he came back into the room with a fat silver pitcher filled with lemonade.

He shook his blond head.

And then Chatty held out the handkerchief and showed it to him.

He took it from her, his face reddening.

"Well, she was here," he admitted, and then he laughd in a shamed sort of way. "Aren't you the little detective, though? How did you know that was my wife's handkerchief?" He tucked it into his pocket and began to pour out the lemonade into two tall, yellow glass tumblers.

"Because it was hemmed by hand," Chatty explained, simply. "The curtains are, too, and the sofa cushions. And so few women go to the bother of making things by hand these days that I couldn't help noticing it. She made this place awfully attractive, didn't she? And how she must have hated to go away and leave it all!"

She ran one of her hands over the soft, puffy silk cushions on the couch.

"Yes, she probably did hate leaving," Bryant said, sitting down beside her. "Darn jealous woman. Oh, let's forget her!"

His voice was full of annoyance.

"It's hard not to think of her here," Chatty told him, her big eyes widening. "In her own home. I'm not coming here any more, either. I feel as if I didn't have any right to be here—with you."

She got up from the couch and set her yellow glass back upon the tray.

"Let's go," she said.

This wasn't what she had ever wished for, she thought, standing there in the little dream flat that had been made by another woman's clever, patient hands . . . It never had been part of her dream to fall in love with a married man, living apart from his wife.

During the quiet lonely days, when she had sat sewing in Mrs. Mayberry's back room, she had thought of love coming to her as it should come to a girl. Of a man who would be in love with her as he had never been in love before with anyone else. Of marriage and a honeymoon and a home for two people to make and to live in together.

But not this—

Not this kind of forbidden love that had this flat and Winnie's flat and roadhouses for its background! Not this kind of love affair that was all mixed up with joy rides and wild parties, with cocktails and with kisses that belonged to another woman!

All at once Chatty saw just where she stood—on the dangerous ground where a girl always stands when she begins to go around with a married man.

"I'm going!" she said aloud, and without waiting for Bryant to get his hat and follow her, she marched out of the little dream flat and down the stairs into the street.

The night air was as cool and refreshing as water upon the flushed face she raised to the moonlit darkness.

Bryant caught up with her just outside the house.

"Gosh, you act like a little goop tonight!" he said to her, exasperation in his voice. "Come on, get into the car!"

But Chatty shook her head.

"No. Much as I care about you, I won't have anything to do with you any more," she told him firmly. "I won't even ride home with you. I'm going to walk."

"Why, you're crazy, Chat!" He stared at her, bewildered. "What's changed you like this, all of a sudden? Are you sore about something? What have I done?"

She tried to tell him how she felt, as they walked along through the cool, murmurous summer night, followed by the lovers' moon that shone above the housetops.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The Northwest Mounted police of movie fame may be the only organization that always gets its man, but the department store detectives in New York are not far behind in getting their women. Women, the head of one store detective force assures me, are far more adept and numerous in the business of shoplifting and other means of getting things for nothing.

Occasional offenders, he says, may get away without detection, but the regulars will be caught, sooner or later—chiefly because of the close cooperation of all large stores in the city.

A little more than a year ago the larger Fifth avenue shops set their traps for a girl of fine appearance, who had been amazingly successful at buying things on a charge account, and giving a fictitious Riverside Drive address.

She was caught when she entered the store my friend protects, and "charged" about $35 worth of hair waving and beauty massages. She was sent to a reform school for a year.

Recently my friend received a letter from her, written on the stationery of his own store.

"Dear Mr. Larkin," wrote the girl: "I have paid for my sins, and I know you are too big a man to hold my past errors against me. I have determined to go straight, and am working in the handkerchief department."

The amazed detective could not figure out how this nervy girl had got by the employment bureau, which is supposed rigidly to investigate the characters of its applicants. She must, he thought, have told some lies to cover up the last year of her life.

But, he found upon investigation, she had told the truth. She had filled out the employment blank, and had recorded her life history, her school, and one or two positions that she had held.

When it came to her reform school sentence, she had written: From—, 1923, to— 1929, clerical work in Pembroke house." (Pembroke house is not what she had written, but the name of the institution is equally impressive-sounding.)

The employment bureau had passed on her record without question thinking the Pembroke house must be some well established girls' school, social service establishment, or what not.

My friend was willing to let bygones be bygones. But the girl, after having been accepted for the job apparently became frightened, for she never appeared.

Orphan Railroad

It is not unusual for some rocky mountain railroad, whose rusted rails lead only to a deserted mining town, to be abandoned. It is simple principle of no people, no business, no railroad. But right here in New York City is a railroad that nobody wants, and from time to time the efforts to dispose of it afford interesting reading.

The road, a spur going from Flushing to Whitestone Landing on Long Island, is within the limits of the greater city. It serves a community that is by no means dead. But the Long Island railroad wants nothing of it. It offered to give the line to the city, rails, ties and right-of-way, and to supply rolling stock. But the city won't have it.

The joker is that several grade crossings must be eliminated at a cost of several million dollars. The spur is very short, and it is claimed that even the rosiest business imaginable would not make the line pay.

Big Hearted

What follows is a transatlantic sob story—a tears across the sea yearn—tending to show that a supposedly soulless corporation is as willing to pay for a good cry as any of Mr. Al Jolson's movie customers. The story may be apocryphal—but it is going about.

A German immigrant, who had come here years ago and had made his way in a delicatessen or something, saved up enough money to telephone to his mother in Germany for three minutes. He wrote to her that he would call on a certain day, and on that day he went to an office of the telephone company, put in the call, and waited for the connection.

As he sat there, the wonder of the thing grew upon him. To think that he could talk with his dear old mother, whom he had not seen for so many years!

The call came through.

"Mother!" cried the immigrant. And then, for two minutes, he sobbed. Finally he pulled himself together and began to talk. When he finished, he was informed, to his consternation, that he had talked six minutes overtime.

He didn't know what to do. He had no more money. He told how long it had taken him to save that much. So the telephone company took the six minutes' loss, and went to bed that night warmed with the thought that it had done a good deed that day.

"Yes, sir, we had the roughest passage of my 30 years at sea."

PHILLIPS

said the skipper of the big liner as he brought his ship into the bay. "I never went through anything like it. More than 1,500 passengers were badly hurt and scores of others tossed about and bruised to some extent. It was pretty terrible."

"How did it happen?" asked the ship news reporter eagerly.

"Well," said the skipper, "when the voyage began everything looked favorable. There wasn't a ripple anywhere. The passengers were happy and care-free. We all had every reason to expect a comfortable, uneventful trip. The first day was quiet and there didn't seem to be a sight of a disturbance anywhere. Trouble began the second day. When I came on I found that the passengers were being buffeted about a lot, and I immediately made inquiries and found the ship had run into a federal reserve board rate increase. It had struck us broadside just after the market opened.

"The passengers were all pretty excited and looked very pale. We were rolling pretty badly by that time, but along about noon we seemed to be running out of it. Then, quite suddenly, I felt the ship lurch. I was in the brokerage room myself at the time and rushed out to see what had happened. My worst fears were realized. We had crashed into a rumor that Secretary Mellon had resigned!

"Well, we begin to pitch about pretty violently as the afternoon wore on. The only question to my mind was whether I would have to navigate through a technical readjustment or a major reaction. I knew I had a stout ship that could stand anything, but if we were in for a major reaction I thought I might have to change my course and run before the storm. We got through that day all right and I had concluded it was just one of those seasonal readjustments when the skies got black and we were soon wallowing in a genuine northeast major decline.

"A half hour after the market opening next day, the ship was helpless. I never saw such a scene in all my career at sea. Passengers were being thrown all over the ship. We ran into particularly heavy selling at noon and I saw four men and a woman washed overboard by a tremendous drop in motor stocks and coppers. One fellow lay quite lifeless in the lee scuppers. He had been done for by a break in radio, common.

"Well sir, to make matters worse, money went to 15 per cent around 1 o'clock and took away 28 feet of rail and a lot of rigging. By this time the passengers were a howling mob. I stopped the engine and sent up signals to the big financial houses. Night fell without any answer and I got ready to put over the small boats when the skies cleared, showing call money at 6 per cent. But I tell you it was one tough experience and I never want to go through it again."

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

Society in the Air

So many women are already airminded that it may not be long before we read of teas, card parties, luncheons and dances in the air; and why not? There are some women who could afford it although now it would be expensive.

We have had marriages in the air, honey-mooning and all that. Part of the Lindbergh romance was in the air, and there have been other less notable romantic events in the air since the airplane became a practical thing in the life of humanity.

It would be interesting to read in the social columns that "Mrs. Hi Flier, with a dozen guests, took to the air last evening to enjoy a game of bridge over the city," or to read of other social happenings easily possible in this day of new things. That would be real news for a time at least, and some socially enterprising women, with no lack of money, will likely undertake it.

Society leaders are not to be criticized too severely for seeking to break away from the deadly dull in conventional life, though some of their extravagances have not been altogether rational.

Aviation will offer a new field for social experimentation and we need not be surprised if aviation parties become popular within the next few years, or sooner, for these things come rapidly when the psychology is right for it. And at this precise moment there is no lack of air psychology, for most of us are thinking in terms of the air.

We send our letters by airmail, do some of our shopping that way, travel that way, and why shouldn't we take some of our social functions into the air also? Unless I miss my guess it will not be long before we do.

It would add a lot to the joy of a tea, or a card party, or to a luncheon, to take the air for the purpose. And what of a dancing pavilion, hung under a huge dirigible, where a limited number of young men and women may dance? That is a social and scientific possibility of the not remote future.

Aerial ballrooms, ballrooms floating over our cities, and out over the winding roadways of the countryside! Isn't it wonderful even to think of it? . . . Not so wonderful, maybe, for a great novelist, writing of "the coming race" a long time ago, described dancing in the air—rather a happy break in the too often strained effort to do something just a little different.

City Council P.-T. A. Will Meet Wednesday

A called meeting of the City Council Parent-Teacher association will be held Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock in the council room of the city auditorium.

The meeting is being planned for the purpose of discussing with the various program chairmen of the P.-T. A. units in the schools in Wichita Falls, the most efficient and interesting methods of planning programs for the coming school year. Upon the first vice president, or program chairman of each local organization, rests the burden of compiling a yearbook which is to contain the carefully planned program of each meeting in advance, so that they can be in readiness for members at the initial P.-T. A. meeting in the fall, it is announced.

Mrs. R. P. Willis, city P.-T. A. council president, and Mrs. H. J. Strief, program chairman, are both anxious to have the co-operation of every program chairman, and every loyal P.-T. A. worker in this city and county in bringing to this meeting ideas as to what is necessary for a well balanced ensemble of material for that most important branch of Parent-Teacher aims,— an effective, inspiring program, and one from which real, practical help can be rendered each and every member.

Every interested worker, every officer, every prinepal and teacher of the city schools has been invited to come to this meeting and to take part in the discussions which will undoubtedly be of much assistance in planning the year's P.-T. A. work.

Employers Fire Married Ones And Unmarried Alike

Should the Married Woman Work? —Why the Mother Who Made Her Son a Weakling Must Shoulder Responsibility for Him

Dear Dorothy Dix—Are you really in favor of married women working? Does the married woman who is not compelled to work do her share of work, or is she too independent? Does she make other workers feel badly because they cannot afford the beautiful clothes that she can? I am employed in an office where several married women are also employed and they are far more independent than the rest of the girls because they have husbands to rely upon in case of dismissal. They have no sense of honor, it seems to me, when it comes down to martial relations. —GLADYS.

Answer—I should say that the married woman is as good a worker as the unmarried woman as is amply proved by the fact that she holds down her job. Employers hold no brief in favor of matrimony and they would quickly enough fire her if she didn't make good.

Probably the married woman does dress better than the single girl can afford to, but it is foolish to let that make you unhappy. Outside of the office you meet rich women who are garbed in Paris finery and you do not let that worry you. Why should you be more disturbed at Mrs. Jones, who works next to you, having on a better frock than you have than you are by Mrs. Jones who sits next to you at church having on an imported gown while you have on one that you made yourself? If you are going to let the knowledge that some people are better off than you are and have more destroy your happiness, you are letting yourself in for a miserable, bitter, envious life.

Presumably every married woman who works does so with her husband's consent and approval, so I do not see where she is giving him a dishonest deal. So that's that.

I see the problem of the woman working after she is married from a different angle than you take and I think whether a wife should work depends on whether she needs the money, her special fitness for some particular occupation, the effect that her working has upon her husband and whether she has any children or not. All big questions and all ones that have to be answered from an individual standpoint.

Many young couples cannot get married unless the woman continues to work after marraige. In such cases, rather than wait until their youth is gone and their romance has worn itself out, it seems to me that it is far better for the lovers to marry and for the wife to go on working until the man gets on his feet and is able to support a family. Often for the wife to continue to be a wage earner enables the husband to get a start in life that he could not otherwise have procured. Many a fortune rests on the wife's pay envelope.

Many women are not domestic by nature. Not every woman is any more a born cook than every man is a born carpenter. Many a woman is incompetent in the kitchen who is a wizard in an office and it is foolish to force such a woman to do the work she was never intended to do instead of letting her do the work she likes to do and does well. Many women spend years of time and thousands of dollars fitting themselves to follow some profession. Surely all of their talent should not be thrown away just because they are married, and the world deprived of their services.

But the danger of the woman working after marraige is that it will slow her husband down or possibly make him a parasite. Often the knowledge that his family is utterly dependent upon him and will starve but for him is a good in the side of a man that drives him on to success. Often when a man finds out that his wife can support him he sits down and lets her do it.

And if a woman has children nothing but absolute necessity should drive her out of her home to work. It will take all of the strength and energy she has to do her job in it. Nothing can compensate to children for the daily and hourly care of their mother. Nobody can take her place to them. So I think that the mother's place is in the home. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have a son of 26, an only child. I idolize him. When he was a child of five he had a dangerous illness and an operation which still makes it necessary for him to receive some medical attention, so that in all these years he has not been away from his father and me more than three days at a time. I fear that in my great love for him I have ruined him, for as a child and growing boy he was never allowed to rough it, and was shielded from every hardship. He has developed, nevertheless into a man who is handsome, charming, witty and well educated, but he simply refuses to work, and for the last two years has been drinking. What shall I do? Ignore it? Say nothing? Allow him to go out after dinner and get drunk? Give him money, for he still lives at home and has no means of support? How can I stiffen his morale? How break him of his liking for liquor?
—J. D. B.

Answer—Alas, dear lady, you ask the question that millions of heart-broken mothers have asked, as they waited for the sound of a drunken step coming home. If any one could tell you how to cure a boy of the love of liquor, he or she would be the greatest benefactor that humanity could possibly have.

Perhaps you could do something for your son by throwing him out upon his own and putting him in a position where he would either have to work or starve. That might rouse the latent manhood in him and make him strike out for himself, but the chances are, in this particular case, that you have waited too late even for that and that he has become so morally weak and flabby that he lacks the strength even to make an effort to save himself.

And, after all, having made him what he is, having made him a weakling, are you not in honor bound to take care of him? When you babied him and kept him tied to your apron string and prevented his growing up into the stature of a man, you have no right to expect him to have the courage and strength and resources of a man.

Of course, it is natural that a mother should be so pitiful and tender to an afflicted or delicate child that she should wish to shield it from every harsh wind of life, but very often in doing so she adds a moral handicap to her child that is worse than the physical one. She makes the child spiritually feeble as well as bodily. She makes it a mental cripple as well as a physical one.

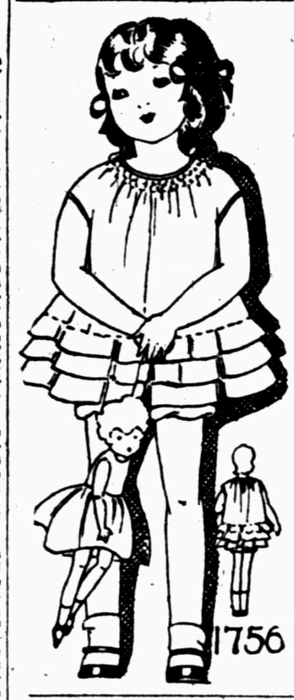

The very fact that a child has a bodily affliction should make the mother breed into it more courage, more ambition, more independence and more determination to succeed in life than if it were well and strong. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—We often hear the saying: "First love is true love." I married a widower who was deeply in love with his first wife, who died a few months after they were married. He has been an ideal husband to me, but I am a second love and I do not know whether that is a true love, as people constantly tell me that first love is true love. —E. P. E.

Answer—For heaven's sake don't be silly enough to try to guide your life by old saws. If you do, you will be cross-eyed and going opposite ways at once, for they mostly contradict each other. For instance, how would you reconcile "a rolling stone gathers no moss" and "a sitting hen gets no feathers?" One teaching that if you keep on the go you accumulate nothing and the other that if you stay put you lose what you have.

First love may be true or not, so may second or third or fourth. The thing that is important to you is not whether your husband loved his first wife or not, but whether he loves you. If he does, thank God for it and quit worrying.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Mrs. Stacy Writes Of Pleasant Ocean Trip

Mrs. W. H. Stacy has many friends in Wichita Falls, who will be interested in extracts from letters she has written her son, Harwood Stacy of Austin.

Mrs. Stacy, with a group of friends, left Atlanta, Ga., early last June for a five months' trip, with the Holy Land the chief objective. Four days out she wrote that the thermometer on the boat registered 55 degrees. This letter was written in the shadow of the Azores and of these islands, her comments are vivid, giving one a picture of the islands rising abruptly out of the sea and the mountains going 7,000 feet higher. The little farms, Mrs. Stacy said, went straight up the side of the mountains and as the farms were separated by begonias, looked like pachwork quilts. The streets were all narrow and hilly.

Mrs. Stacy's second letter, received by her son 10 days later, told of a visit to a beautiful cathedral in Lisbon built in memory of St. Jerome. The foundations were laid in 1499 but the cathedral was not completed until 1599. On altar with its furnishings, she said, was largely of silver brought from the Portugese American colonies.

From Lisbon on land was visible on both the Spanish and African coasts, and nearing the straits of Gilbraltar, they counted nine seacraft of various kinds in sight at one time. They saw Algiers from the boat for an hour or more and on the day the letter was written, the party was to visit Athens.

They cut off half an hour every day, Mrs. Stacy wrote, by sailing constantly east, yet the sun was up at 5 o'clock and the sunset glow lasted until 10 o'clock in the evening.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 19. (US)—One thing about this tropical climate, the girls can do so much more with their legs. I've seen them.

Painted by God, a deep sun tan.

Painted from a bottle, the same shade.

With sun burn hose.

Bare at the beach, at the country club, on the street with sport clothes, and in the evening at the Ambassador and other hotels, with delicate low-cut evening clothes. I haven't seen a half-dozen pairs of hose since I came here, except hanging in the store windows.

None of the Pacific coast women wear plain shoes. They are cut or slashed artistically, or they are highly colored or they are sandals, and last night I saw a woman across the aisle at a movie, where the floor light shone on her feet, with sandals. The Chinese kind with a thick sole and two wide black straps across the top, and that's all. No hose of course.

I saw a lovely girl with evening slippers with jeweled buckles, at a party at a smart hotel with sunburned legs and no hose.

I've seen shoes with no heels whatever, and some with stilts that almost threw the girl on her nose, but she bravely made her way, happily conscious that she was different. There seems to be an idea that you belong here only if you can be different from the others. It's a strain, because so many limits have already been reached.

And they point out a great sign for you, electric lighted, with great letters spelling the name of a moving picture. The girls sitting on the letters are painted board cut-outs. "But on the opening night," you are informed, "there were live girls posing on the sign where those wooden ones are."

"With the same clothes?" you ask, noting a misty breeze draped about the figures.

"Yes," they tell you, without a shiver, "the very same."

There is one thing that never will fail you out here—and that's the sunshine. "But don't you get a bit tired of it and want a shadow now and then?" you ask, innocently.

With what might properly be called a dark, dirty look, they tell you, "why sometimes it doesn't shine until noon!"

But being well is being happy, and you should see the people who came out here wheeled in a chair or carried on a stretcher and expecting to die! They look now as if they never could die, brown, bright eyed, and full of Pacific coast pep, which is something that makes everybody walk like tap dancers.

HOOVER HIDES LATCH STRING

Publicity Hounds Barred From White House

By CHARLES S. HAYDEN
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Finis has been written on the long established practice under which any "man with a message" could use a visit to the White House and a conference with the president as an excuse to get first page publicity both for himself and his hobby. George Akerson, one of President Hoover's secretaries, in the role of Cook Robin, killed the practice by the simple expedient of announcing that hereafter he must pass on the merits of any plan or proposal which is to be submitted to the President by a visiting delegation.

Establishment of this rule, it was explained at the White House, was prompted by recent unpleasant occurrences cropping out between the chief executive and spokesman for some of these delegations. While Secretary Akerson is too polite to say it is known that one of these episodes occurred not long ago when a delegation from the League for Sunday Observance called at the White House. Bishop James Cannon, stormy petrel of Virginia politics, was in this delegation as were several others standing high in the ranks of the professional reformers.

No sooner was this delegation admitted to an audience with the president than the leadier dived into his pocket and produced a petition which was read with considerable unction. President Hoover, it is declared, made no comment but as his visitors departed they left with the assembled newspaper correspondents carbon copies of the petition and the contents thereof were heralded far and wide the following morning with the explanation that the president had evinced deep interest in the proposal.

Judging from subsequent events the president's "interest" was confined largely to wondering how this delegation got by the outer guards and the determination that he could not afford to waste his time on like matters in the future. Of course the delegation didn't know what the president was thinking, being satisfied to reap the publicity to which the members doubtless felt their cause was entitled.

No sooner had the nation been appraised that the president had been urged to lend the weight of his influence to a more rigid observance of the Lord's day than the association opposed to the enforcement of blue laws felt called upon to counteract this publicity. Accordingly the president of that organization, who happens to be the mayor of a Pennsylvania city, was summoned to Washington. He came but he neither saw nor conquered for despite all the efforts of the organization they were unable to get the desired audience with President Hoover, and after four days, the attempt was abandoned with a caustic comment which told of the futile effort.

This practice of using the White House as a peg for publicity has been in vogue for many years and was one of the things that used to amuse former President Coolidge. Perhaps if President Hoover had a New England background he would be able to laugh at it rather than be annoyed thereby. President Coolidge told an intimate one time how the "publicity hounds" used the White House to send up trial balloons. Some of the most active offenders are members of the United States senate and it will be interesting to see whether Secretary Akerson will be able to make the rule apply to these. If so it will be equivalent to abolishing another senatorial perquisite and may prove to be one of the real achievements of President Hoover's administration.

Dave Reed Is Both Senators From Pennsylvania and Serves Well

By FRASER EDWARDS
(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Few men in the history of this or any other republic ever enjoyed the unique distinction of being both senators from a sovereign state at one and the same time. In fact, among the isolated cases of senatorial duality on record, it is not recorded that any of the incumbents ever achieved this rare discrimination of enjoyment.

Such is not the case of David Aiken Reed, senior and junior senators from the commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Dave hasn't the duplicity to deny that he simply dotes on the distinction of doing the double duties of a duplex statesman. For Davy is no common man.

In the beginning, Dave himself did not fancy assuming a dual role in the senate. He sensed the situation that to grow out of the famous three-cornered $3,000,000 Republican primary in Pennsylvania in 1926, and fought against it with all the intensity and intelligence of his nature. That might have been modesty.

Slip of the Tongue

In his tiff over the case with his distant and Democratic cousin, James Alexander Reed of Missouri, Dave became so overwrought that he said the people of Pennsylvania voted like "dunderheads" when they rejected the saintly George Wharton Pepper in favor of William Scott Vare, senator-reject, with his beer platform and bossy ways in Philadelphia. That probably was an honest slip of the tongue.

Considering Dave and his record it seems that the strict constructionists of the constitution, which guarantees equal representation in the senate to each state of the union, have wasted too many sympathetic tears over the plight of Pennsylvania because she has been forced to struggle along since March 4, 1927, with Davy as her only ambassador in that august assembly. The single senator scheme might be continued with profit to Pennsylvania so long as Dave is on the job.

Dave Reed is a "sport," as we scientists say of animals which deviate in their organism from the normal of the species. Dave deviates in the upper story. His mind functions as fast as it is hoped Lieut. Al Williams' Mercury racer will in the Schneider cup air races at Cowes, England. And that is slightly above the normal senatorial mental speed.

"Tar-Bucket" Memory

Moreover, Dave has a memory like a tar-bucket—everything sticks in it. He even remembers the multiplication tables and the rules of syntax. He can repeat verbatim a casual conversation five years past. Such men are dangerous opponents in debate.

Dave didn't just get that way. It was born in him. He was one of those infant prodigies at Princeton, which he entered at the age of 15. A friend who recently asked one of Dave's classmates if the senator was a good student was informed:

"Shucks, no. Dave didn't have to study; he got things too fast."

At the University of Pittsburgh law school, Dave concentrated more on Blackstone's commentaries and less on the variations of "Sweet Adeline," as recommended by the Princeton Glee club, and consequently enough law to stand at the head of his class and make his father, the late Judge James H. Reed, proud to take him into the old firm he had with Philander Chase Knox.

Steel Trust Counsel

At 35, Dave was "of counsel" in the famous steel trust case before the supreme court. Yet he was only one of the legal luminaries for the defense who could answer the questions of fact desired by that tribunal, which takes no little pains to let learned counsel know that it and it alone knows the law—all of it—and desires only the facts from those appearing at the bar.

Without notes or reference to briefs or documents, Dave answered questions ranging from the difference in the open-hearth and Bessemer processes of steel making to the whichness of what in the industry. Like any good lawyer, Dave differed with the court on the law, but the court concurred with him on the facts.

The qualities of instant perception, assimilation and concentration in Dave all go to make up the lamentable loss of "Bill" Vare to the senate. They enable Dave to do a bang-up two-man job for the second wealthiest and second most populous state in the union. But it keeps him jumping early and late.

This intense activity may account for the fact that Dave, like Cassius, has a lean and hungry look. It is more probable that he thinks too much to eat too much. Dave has a sad, poker-face and for ordinary purposes a flashing, mirthless smile, but on occasion he lets loose a tummy-laugh that shakes the chandeliers. And in the words of Eugene Field:

"You wondered, by gum! how there ever wus space in that bosom of his'n to hold so much bass!"

FINE FLAVORS BRING JOY TO EATING

Sugar is the Greatest Condimental Food in the World

Flavor! How much that means to all growing children and to all adults who enjoy their meals. What delight flavor brings to the palate. What satisfaction to a jaded appetite. And what flavor surpasses the unique sweetness of sugar?

The sentences above were not spoken, as might be supposed, by a great chef or even by a successful woman cook. They are the words of an eminent scientist, spoken while he was discussing the subject of sugar and diet.

Dieticians, medical specialists and scientific authorities all emphasize the importance of a varied, balanced diet. And how many of the useful foods are practically tasteless. How many worth-while foods, if taken "straight," would be so monotonous that we would soon tire of them. This is where sugar enters the domain of the healthful diet. A pinch of sugar used in the cooking of vegetables (preferably cooked with little water) makes these important foods fresher, more colorful and more delightful to the taste. A dash of sugar makes the eating of fruits and cereals a positive pleasure.

The well-informed woman uses correct amounts of sugar in making milk desserts — junkets, custards, puddings, etc.—thus helping her family to eat the needed quantity of milk. Remember stewed fruits, cakes and cookies and ice cream for dessert. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

FRASIER PITCHES THREE-HIT, 4 TO 0 SHUTOUT OVER SPUDDERS

DUKE HERMANN OUT OF GAME

Bettencourt Fields Well, Gets One Knock

Special to The Record News

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 19.—Vic Frasier showed today why he was regarded highly enough by the Chicago White Sox to warrant Harry Grabiner digging into the old exchequer and buying him from the Dallas Steers. The youthful right-hander stood the Wichita Falls Spudders on their individual and collective heads to score a 4 to 0 shutout, giving the Herd two straight from the Galloway gallopers.

Frasier allowed only three hits and was never in danger, while the Steers scored two runs off Andy Messenger in the third, and two more in the eighth. Messenger chucked a good game until he was relieved by Bill Goff and Rusty Cromer, the kid from Abilene, finished on the hill.

Hermann Is Benched

Manager Galloway displaced Duke Hermann, whose fielding has been erratic, with Larry Bettencourt. Larry got one of the Spudders' three hits and fielded perfectly.

The two Petes, Lapan and Turgeon, maced the other Spudder blows. All were singles.

Galloway batted for Messenger in the eighth and Goff, after walking the first two batters in the Steer half, was relieved by Cromer.

How Steers Scored

Bischoff led off in the Dallas third with a base on balls. Sullivan was under Frasier's lift, but let Morse's single get away from him, Bischoff scoring and Morse going all the way to third. Johnson's hoist to Bennett tallied Morse.

After Frasier and Morse walked and Cromer went to the hill, Johnson sacrificed in the eighth. R. Moore was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. J. Moore singled to center, scoring Frasier and Morse.

The SPORTLIGHT

Football's Advance Guard

Any citizen of the United States, football coach or otherwise, who desires to increase his football learning can be accommodated at Dallas, Texas, for the next two or three weeks.

Southern Methodist university, at Dallas, is now the headquarters of the Warner-Rockne Coaching school, where Ray Morrison of S. M. U. will be a valuable aid. Coaches from more than 30 teams have reported.

Pop Warner and Knute Rockne may not know all the football in the world, but they know their stuff. Each one is a coaching genius, and it is doubtful if any two men have contributed more, especially to the attacking side. Pop Warner, the Stanford wizard, probably has devised more effective formations than any two coaches in the country. If this is putting it too stoutly, he is still in the lead. Knute Rockne has been the most successful 10-year coach in the game, when you consider his record and his schedule. If any one wishes to challenge this statement the vital statistics will be appreciated.

Ray Morrison, the old Vanderbilt quarterback, has had a great record at S. M. U., and he can challenge Rockne when it comes to developing the passing game. The Army found that out last October, when his S. M. U. team threw the ball all around the lot and came within a point of tying the Army on its own battlefield.

These coaching schools of the Warner-Rockne variety are great things in the way of spreading high class football instruction. As a result smart and up-to-date football is no longer a monopoly for one section, or for any section. They know football today through some 8,000,000 square miles of U. S. territory, where within a few weeks the autumn frenzy will break out in all its annual fury, and the football writer who overlooks a single star out of the several thousand in action will be told where he can jump off, after taking a running start.

Old Cy's Record

"You overlooked one detail of old Cy Young's pitching record," writes Oldtimer. "Walter Johnson won 416 games in the American league, and Grover Alexander 374 games in the National league. But old Cy won 511 games in both leagues. He pitched against the pick of the bunch in the two major league circuits. He had to step against such batters as Delehanty, Keeler, Wagner, etc., in the National league, and later on against such hitters as Cobb, Lajoie, etc., in the American. I am not taking anything away from Johnson and Alexander. They were among the two greatest that ever lived. But Cy can go along today hitting his drives down the middle and sinking his three-foot puts without bothering about any pursuer in either league. They can't find one man today who can win even 30 games a year, and not more than one or two will reach 25."

The Heavyweight Tangle

One trouble with the heavyweight situation as it stands today is that five or six of the leaders are about even, and by the time they begin to get unscrambled there should be two or three other youngsters coming on. In this list George Godfrey occupies a peculiar position. He probably could take any of the bunch now in action—or inaction—but for the most part, he has been a rather dull, uninteresting fighter to watch. There is a general feeling among boxing promoters that if he ever won the title the slump in receipts would be something of an avalanche, and professional boxing is as much a business as stocks and bonds, or real estate and millinery. Still, it will be interesting to see how long civilization will last without having a crown wearer officially established on the now vacated and somewhat moth-eaten throne.

Today's Golf Angle

R. L. asks whether it is better to play a chip shot with the ball off the left foot or the right foot.

The easier and the surer way is to play the ball back nearer the right foot. This helps to keep the flight of the ball on a lower trejectory, and there is much less chance that one will fluff or spoil the stroke. Two of the greatest of all chip shot players, Jerry Travers and Bobby Jones, both keep the ball on a line off the right heel. When Travers was playing in championships Alex Smith had a standing bet that Jerry could get down in 2 more consistently from off the green five or fifty yards away than any golfer in the game. There is less chance for error in playing the ball farther back. If the ball has to be got up quickly for a pitch across a trap, its position should then be on a line off the front foot or no farther back than a position between the two feet.

Texas-Oklahoma Playoff Carded

Cordell at Wellington Wednesday in Series Opener

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, Texas, Aug. 19.—Wellington will meet Cordell in a two-game series on Wednesday and Thursday, in the first of the playoff to decide the championship of the Oklahoma-Texas league. After the first two games in Wellington the teams will go to Cordell where they will play on Saturday and Sunday. In case both clubs win two games each a final and deciding game will be announced later.

Although Wellington has not been able to maintain the pace it set in the first half, the club is determined to win the pennant. Manager Travis Heatley turned in the list of some additional players. Lefty Venable may be used to bolster up the pitching staff since Gene Bunte has been having trouble with his arm, and Red Gaither may be used on the hot corner with Bill Andrea at his old stand in center field.

With these changes, which are only probabilities, Wellington will present the same lineup as in the past with Holland behind the plate, Newman on first, McKenna on second, McMahon at shortstop, and Brown, Wilson, Knight, Bund, Venable and French completing the team for Wellington.

In the opening game Wednesday the fans will likely see a mound battle with Jack Knight, who has won 12 and lost one game this season, pitching for Wellington and Caldwell, of Amarillo tournament fame, hurling for Cordell. Local boys are determined to get more hits off Cordell on the local diamond than they did in Amarillo and the fans are praying for Johnny to duplicate his honor against Caldwell.

Wellington merchants are asked to close their doors on the day of the opening game in order that a record crowd may be present to see the first clash between the championship contenders.

Golfer Gets 'Bug' Right With Ace in First Round

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 19. (AP)—The golf bug has attacked J. D. Webster, of this city, and he has proven highly susceptible to the germ's attacks. And there's a reason.

Webster played his first game and received the thrill of his life when on a 166-yard hole he put his mashie tee shot into the cup. On his round, he did nine holes in 49 strokes. Almost any day now, you can see him on the links.

PONY COACHING SCHOOL OPENS

Warner and Rockne Among Grid Instructors

DALLAS, Aug. 19. (UP)—Attracted by Knute Rockne, Notre Dame, and Glenn S. "Pop" Warner, Leland Stanford, football coaches from coast to coast arrived here today for the opening of Southern Methodist university's coaching school.

With fully 300 coaches expected by the time registration closes, Dallas was football minded despite 100 degree weather.

Townspeople as well as university officials have made elaborate plans for welcoming the two famed football strategists. A public dinner will be held in their honor Thursday.

At that time, coaches of three teams who "downed" the mighty Army team of 1928 will be on the speaking program. Besides Warner, whose team crushed the Cadets, 26 to 0, and Rockne, whose fighting Irish administered the Soldiers a 12 to 6 defeat, there will be Ray Morrison, Southern Methodist coach whose team sprung the great surprise of last year's season by holding the Army, 14 to 13. The South still considers this feat a "moral victory."

Other lights of the football world here for the school will be Dana X. Bible, University of Nebraska, Commander Jonas H. Ingram, Navy, C. J. Winterburn, Leland Stanford backfield coach, and all coaches of the Southwestern conference schools.

Bible and Clyde Littlefield, University of Texas, will have parts in the instruction. Ingram's visit is significant in light of the recently scheduled Navy-Southern Methodist games. The Navy leader is expected to announce whether the contests will be in Washington, Baltimore, or Annapolis.

Special flood lights have been placed on the Mustang gridiron that night work may replace working under the torrid heat of day.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19. (UP)—Staging a courageous comeback after being almost out on his feet in the fifth round, Mickey Walker of Rumson, N. J., world champion middleweight, established a strong claim to the lightheavyweight title which Tommy Loughran expects to relinquish soon, by winning a 10-round decision from Leo Lomski of Aberdeen, Wash., here tonight.

A crowd of more than 25,000 saw Walker come from behind with a whirlwind attack in the last three rounds to win the unanimous decision of Referee Tom Riley and Judges Chuck Vorhees and Harry Kendig.

Conceding his opponent nearly seven pounds in weight and several inches in height and reach, Walker turned the tide in his favor with a slashing attack in the eighth ninth and tenth rounds.

There were no knockdowns, but Walker had Lomski groggy, glass-eyed and weak-kneed in the eighth round after a savage exchange of punches to the head. Walker ripped a series of terrific left and right hooks to the face which drew blood from Leo's lip.

More Funny Doings In NYP Ball League

SCRANTON, Pa., Aug. 19. (AP)—They do strange things in the New York-Penn league these days.

Within two weeks a center fielder aided a batsman get home run when the ball bounced off his head over the fence, today another center fielder made a double play unassisted at first base.

It happened this way. Cowboy McHenry, Scranton mid-gardener came tearing in on a line drive from the bat of Hartford, Elmira swatsmith. Pritchard, on first base, sensing a clear single had rounded second base and was still going. McHenry took the ball at his shoe tops and gathering speed dashed to first doubling Pritchard. The play occurred in the seventh inning yawn stretch.

GOLF'S AMATEUR Challengers

NEW YORK, Aug. 19. (AP)—Phillips Finlay, now residing in California but a product of eastern golf, has been getting in some early and effective practice rounds over the Pebble Beach course at Del Monte where the 1929 championship will be decided.

The long hitting Harvard student was a semi-finalist in the 1928 championship, defeating Francis Ouimet, Johnny Ames and Jimmy Johnston before he found his further progress barred by the stalwart form of Robert T. Tones Jr.

The year before he went to the third round where he was defeated by Ouimet, a result reversed 12 months later.

PHILLIES BEAT PIRATES TWICE

Sally League Rookie Hurls Both Victories

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19. (AP)—Young Harry Smythe, pride of Asheville and the Sally league, pitched five hitless innings against the hard-swinging Pirates today, enabling the humble Phillies to turn back Bush's hopeful array by 7 to 6 and 8 to 5 in a double-header.

Credit for the first victory went officially to Smythe, who entered the game in the sixth with the score tied at six-all, but only honorable mention could be awarded him for his ninth round performance in the nightcap. Bob McGraw just chanced to be nearest when the Phils turned loose their winning rally. Score:

A Reporter's Note Book

By DAMON RUNYON

Eddie Eicher, of Aberdeen, Wash., manager of Leo Lomski, is betting his new heavyweight, Tony Talarico, flattens Jack Kearns' new heavyweight, Al Fay, when they meet in a preliminary to the Walker-Limski thing in Philly presently.

E. Phocian Howard, editor of the brisk New York Press, has a cottage at Saratoga for the racing season, and a bank roll that a greyhound couldn't hurdle.

Tommy Laird, the San Francisco sports writer, carried his own personal professional golfer, one George Coffey, with him on a recent trip, and everybody would still be believing Tommy's declaration that Coffey is one of the greatest golfers in the known world if Thomas hadn't made the mistake of matching Coffey against John Jennings, the dancer, who is also a terrific guy on those greens.

Francis Albertanti quotes Mike Carey, Bill's brother, as saying that the only things he sees in the newspapers that he really believes are the comics.

Doc Morris, the boxing writer of the New York Evening Post, was once a bouncer for his manager, Frank Carrillo, at the Standard theater in Bakersfield, Calif., which is an item in his life that the old doctor has always concealed.

Frank Stetson, of San Francisco, is a new boy who seems to be a first rate puncher. He is a lightweight, and a collegian.

Guy Bush, Star Cub Pitcher, Pays Tribute to Mates in Helping Win

By GUY BUSH

(Guy Bush, star pitcher for the Chicago Cubs National league baseball club, who has won 16 of his 18 games this season with these two lost due to errors on the part of his teammates, reviews his work and the Cubs' race for the 1929 pennant.)
(Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Any pitcher who can win 17 games while losing only two must necessarily have a lot of breaks.

Well, I have received them, but the breaks in this case are more in the form of base hits than anything else.

The Cubs are one of the greatest teams I have ever seen; they are the greatest sluggers I ever hope to see. They can get you runs when you need them. When you're pitching a losing game you don't have to worry—that is if the other team does not score too many runs. The boys will get you your share in any nine innings.

Now that's encouraging to a pitcher. The thought that fellows like Hornsby, Hack Wilson, Riggs Stephenson, Charley Grimm and Kiki Cuyler are going to have at least one batting spiurge before the game is over, is enough incentive to make any pitcher work his head off.

However, there is one thing about my pitching this year I want to bring out. I have more speed. My curve ball is breaking more sharply than ever before. I am stronger and in wonderful physical condition.

Overcome Wildness

In past seasons my work has always been retarded by sudden streaks of wildness, which I developed and which I really cannot explain. This year my control has been fine.

Of my 17 victories only one of those was earned in a relief role. On six other occasions I have been tossed into tight jams and always had the good fortune to stop rallies of the opposition. I received no credit for it, but the fact that I was able to help my pals is everything to myself and the team.

Fellows like Charley Root, Hal Carlson, Art Nehf, Blake and the rest are always eager to get in there and help me when I am having a bad day. That's why the Cubs have such a great team. I never saw such a remarkably unselfish spirit.

I lost a tough game to the Giants on June 1 at Chicago. Errors accounted for four of the New York runs and I was defeated, 7 to 4. But that didn't worry me. The boys have fielded spectacularly behind me so many times that one or two reverses only spur me on.

I think my most effective ball is my overhand curve. It breaks sharply and is unusually effective against such powerful lefthand hitters as Chuck Klein and Lefty O'Doul, of the Phillies, Harper and Sisler of the Braves, Walker of the Reds, Bottomley and Frisch of the Cardinals and Grantham of the Pirates.

I don't know what else to say about my string of victories. Aside from the fact I never get rattled in the pinches. I always have been confident I could stop any slugger provided I have my stuff, and I've certainly had it this season.

I don't want to try playing Pollyana but I usually get to bed early and smoke but little, although I have a leaning towards a good cigar. Drinking is out of my line. I don't disapprove of it for anyone else, but I know it wouldn't do me any good when I am shooting at 25 victories this season.

I want to give credit to such catchers as Zack Taylor, Don Miguel Gonzales and John Schulte. There are three "smart" catchers who can handle any pitcher perfectly and they certainly give a fellow a lot of confidence.

I want to say one thing further. I shall pitch my head off to bring the Cubs in and I'll pitch my head off against the Athletics if we get into the world series.

And, boys, I don't think they'll ever stop us now.

Broadway Becomes Highly Enthused Over Young Victoria Maria Campolo

By ED FRAYNE

NEW YORK, Aug. 19. (US)—Broadway is now in the process of going loco over the 28-year-old cowpuncher from Buenos Aires, Victorio Maria Campolo. The awed whispers that followed his smashing knockout of gallant Tom Heeney have grown to a delirious yell of approval.

The suspicion that the giant Argentinan is the champion the fight world is seeking has become a certainty to the excited inhabitants of the roaring Forties.

While all this was going on, our six and a half foot hero was sprawling indolently in a chair at Promoter Humbert J. Fugazy's office inquiring in eager Italian:

"Well, Humberto, whom do I lick next? Schmeling, si?"

Curiously, the promoter demanded:

"Yes, but not right away. You will want a rest. How long will you wait before you fight again?"

A volley of Italian, and a great shaking of Signor Campolo's head. Fugazy laughed, and Piomedeo Mazzati, a friend of Campolo, interpreted:

"Campolo says he no rest. He fight next Wednesday. He fight anyone. He came to America to fight, not to rest. He wants to fight Schmeling now!"

Fugazy will take Campolo at his word. He will bill him for a week from Wednesday, if he can find a suitable opponent. He has three in mind, George Godfrey, Otto von Porat or Phil Scott. If Schmeling shows any disposition to meet Scott, the Britisher will be saved for the German, but that should be settled within the next few days.

USE STRING BEANS IN SEASON

Small green string beans and small yellow wax beans are wholesome non-starchy vegetables to be used with either protein or starchy meals. As the beans inside the pods become matured they develop a larger amount of starch, and should be considered as starchy food. After the beans of any variety become mature they may be shelled and served as are butterbeans or broad beans.

In selecting string beans or snap beans, select those which are firm and contain little or no strings. In cooking string beans, do not add any grease, such as pork, as this makes them harder to digest.

If you wish to serve the string beans as a non-starchy vegetable, it is well to open the pods and remove the larger beans. In serving lima beans, or any of the seed beans in the green state, remember that they are starchy and should be used as the principal part of the meal combined with non-starchy vegetables.

String beans contain a larger relative amount of sulphur and chlorine than the other mineral elements. The green limas contain large amounts of potassium and sodium and are very alkaline in the system.

Here are a few recipes which you may find helpful:

New Potatoes and String Beans

Thoroughly wash new potatoes and cut them into cubes with the skin included. Cook with fresh string beans. Serve with butter.

Combination Salad

Mix cooked string beans, shredded lettuce, grated carrots and tomatoes. Cottage cheese may be served on the side.

String Bean Salad

Use the fresh string beans if possible, but if the canned ones are used, boil them for a few minutes and let cool before using. Place in a large salad bowl, using two forks to toss about and thoroughly mix with the desired amount of chopped parsley and minced ripe olives. A little chopped celery may also be added, and if a dressing is desired, use a little olive oil. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves on individual salad plates.

String Bean Soup

To two cups of soup stock add one quart of string beans and one cupful of scalded milk, four tablespoonfuls of dextrinized or browned flour, and a small amount of butter. Cook the beans in the soup stock. Mix with the milk and dextrinized flour and add the butter after the soup has been taken from the fire.

Green Lima Beans

Cook one pint of fresh lima beans until tender. After cooking add one tablespoonful of butter and one-fourth of a cup of cream and two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Drinking With Meals

Question: H. B. Writes—"I am following your menus in the paper and am somewhat puzzled about the use of liquids, as you never mention any drink with meals.

Answer: The only drink I advise with or near meals is pure water, and then only if you feel thirsty. Drinking with meals is to be condemned generally because of the tendency to wash down food not properly masticated.

Multiple Sclerosis

Question: H. G. F. asks—"What treatment do you advise for multiple sclerosis? What is the cause? Violet rays have brought back the feeling to patient's limbs and he has use of them, but a numbness comes over him at times."

Answer: The fundamental cause of multiple sclerosis is the presence of toxic materials in the spinal cord resulting from a faulty diet. Patient you write of will get quickest results by taking a fruit fast for a week or 10 days followed by a well balanced diet. Treatment such as massage, osteopathy, chiropractic, and electrotherapy will be helpful in restoring the circulation to the affected parts.

Cider

Question: T. E. G. asks—"What is the best method of making cider? Should the cider be kept in bottles or a cask?"

Answer: Cider is easily made in a small home press which can be purchased in any large hardware store. If the cider is to be kept for any length of time it must be pasturized and put into bottles. Otherwise, it turns to vinegar.

Wants to Gain

Question: Reader asks—"What exercises and diet can a girl 18 years old take to gain in weight and development? Height is five feet, three inches, weight ninety-six pounds. The chest bones are also prominent, due to the beginning of spinal curvature. Also round shoulders."

Answer: It is not necessary for you to take any special diet except to follow the well balanced menus which I give every week in this column. Consult a physical culture expert and have him give you special exercises to correct the spinal curvature and round shoulders. I could give you some special exercises for this purpose, but I believe it would be better for you to have some private lessons given by a physical culturist who is able to study out your particular needs.

Bumper Crop at Chillicothe Seen

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, Aug. 19. (Spl.)—The outlook for a bumper crop of cotton in this section is very encouraging. A general survey of cotton conditions in the eastern part of Hardeman county shows that the cotton is heavily loaded with squares and bolls. The cotton here has not suffered from the intense heat and sufficient moisture has fallen to insure a fine crop. Some farmers claim that already sufficient moisture has fallen to carry the cotton through.

The feed crop is also thriving. This year farmers will not be forced to buy their need in feed as there will be plenty raised in this section for home consumption. This will ease the farmers greatly in a financial way.

The boll weevils now infesting the cotton are said to be only mature worms and at present there is no sign of young. The hot weather will likely cause the old ones to die off without leaving young to destroy the plants. Leafworm has made appearance only in the northeastern part of Wilbarger county and effective use of arsenic will prevent its spreading to other fields.

What Is North? How? Who Did It First

Texas' Edison Winner Scratches His Head

CORSICANA, Texas, Aug. 19. (AP)—With an electric toaster and a radio awarded him as Texas' representative in the Edison scholarship contest, Thurman Evans is back in Corsicana, preparing to enter Texas A. & M., but favors radio engineering. When he returned to Corsicana he told many interesting experiences during the tour and contest. He exhibited a questionnaire submitted to the youths at a Rock Springs, N. J., country club entertainment. Some of the questions:

Give the odds on rolling a nine?

If you won is it good crap to bet the whole amount on the next coming out throw?

State the difference between north and south?

What for?

Who did it first?

What does the Old Gold advertising man do when Luckies win, in order to be nonchalant?

Do you believe in lightning?

Give in 12 words a solution of the traffic problem?

Using 14 words explain why Shakespeare overlooked writing "Abie's Irish Rose."

Write a short, snappy treatise full of pep on the ethics of the world at large in its making light of one of Mr. Edison's greatest inventions.

A farmer bought a cow for $31 and a 1923 model T for $28.85. The cow gave 16 quarts of milk a day which the farmer sold for 11 cents a quart, and purchased gas at 19 cents a gallon. How many miles per cow does he get, and how?

Who are the original four horsemen, the fellows from Notre Dame or the guys from Apocalypse?

Who said, "Give me liquor to scent my breath, my country may it always be tight. But drunk or sober, my country."

What in your opinion would be the resulting consequences if the sunback came more to the front?

Do you think that the old time fad of swimming the English channel should be revived?

Is chaufeur the right way to spell it?

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 19. (AP)—Advances of over $2 per bale in cotton today were attributed to reports of continued dry hot weather in the Southwest and relatively firm Liverpool cables. The demand was comparativey quiet early, but became more active as prices advanced during the late trading and sent the price of December contracts up to 18.90 or 46 points net higher. They closed at 18.86, with the general market closing firm at net advances of 38 to 44 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 5 points to a decline of 1 point, and the active months sold about 7 to 13 points net higher during the early trading on covering and buying supposed to be for trade or commission house account.

This early demand was supplied by realizing combined with some southern selling and the market lost all but 3 or 4 points of its gain during the middle of the day. The official weather details confirming earlier reports of dry hot weather in Texas and Oklahoma brought in renewed buying during the afternoon. The late advance carried prices up to 18.59 for October and 19.09 for March or 38 to 46 points net higher.

Closing prices were within a few points of the top.

Cable advices from Liverpool said the advance there was due to covering, continental and Bombay buying and that hedging was light.

Exports today were 11,932 bales, making 110,302 so far this season. Port receipts 16,188. U. S. port stocks 528,447.

Steel Is Whole Show and Leads Entire List on Stock Exchange

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 19. (US)—Steel took the lead of the market again today, and moved steadily higher despite profit taking influences in other parts of the list. Most active stocks appeared tired in the morning so that technical setback was expected but the sustained strength of the leader influenced sufficient good demand to absorb offerings and produce a fairly firm market throughout.

Steel finished near its record high for gain of 9 7-8 points, while American Can jumped 6¼, American Telephone and Telegraph 3½, Bethlehem Steel 3⅜, General Electric 3¼ and Westinghouse 3¾. Oils were in good demand early but subsequently gave way to realizing and closed fractionally lower on the average. Rails held well with Delaware and Hudson gaining 4 and Atchison 1¾. Copper shares were dull but fairly regular, the call rate was held at 7 per cent throughout. Turnover dropped under the 4,000,000-share level.

Statement from a federal reserve official to the effect that the reserve will not issue a daily stock market letter is to be regretted. If the reserve were issuing such a review there might be some way for small investors to protect themselves. As conditions exist now the man with limited funds can do nothing as the money powers are in full control of dealings. Those who were forced to sell out in the wideopen break of the Friday following the advance in the rediscount rate have seen their securities rise in price and enrich those who paid no attention to the reserve.

While the official call rate held at 7 per cent today, there appeared plenty of funds available but none knows when the money powers will force advance in the rate to 12 per cent or higher. So long as the "blue chips" soar, however, the street is not going to worry much about the reserve.

Renewed demand for steel, Can and other Morgan-First National stocks remained the main stimulus to bullishness. Outstanding advances reflected the material reduction in floating supply of these stocks in recent weeks. While weak liquidation was influenced by the mysterious activities of the reserve, investment trusts and others were taking the stocks out of the street. Montgomery Ward was the subject of favorable advice from every brokerage firm of consequence. It was pointed out that the rights will be off soon and that the further expansion in sales will be better reflected in the stock's action. Important Chicago interests who have been a good deal responsible for the strength of Montgomery Ward were also active in Simmons.

Utility and Electric shares showed more aggressive operations by those interested also. There was further talk of General Electric people contemplating another split-up. Important announcement regarding plans of those controlling such utilities as United corporation, Superpower, and others in which Electric Bond and Share is interested is expected soon. Continental Can group expressed belief that the stock would retrieve itself as a result of special development that was expected for the next fortnight. Special activity in Hudson & Manhattan was reported underway with important interests in the East affiliating with a western group. Packard insiders claimed they had caught a substantial short account in their pet.

Morgan Oil Investment trust, it was stated, was in the "talking stage." In other words, those close to the bankers stated, the idea was under contemplation but no active steps had been made to arrange for acquisition of stocks desired. However, if this banking group were to form such an investment trust it would seem logical that they would acquire good stocks desired before making official announcement. No such organization would be complete without holdings of Standard Oil of New Jersey and part of its recent strength was regarded as accumulation for the Morgan group. However, the continuance of the better performance of the Oils depends on the ability of producers to hold output down.

Livestock

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 19. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Livestock trade around the 11-market circuit was featured by a liberal movement of grass cattle. Steady prices were maintained on a few native grain fed specialties, but unevenly lower values prevailed on the general run of native grain feds and western grassers. Packers were able to force declines of 50c or more at several points. All indications point to bargain counter prices on feeders the balance of the week. Comparatively few stockers of choice quality were available.

Heavy steers in Chicago scored $17.00 and $16.80 was realized on long yearlings. Aggregate receipts 109,000, an increase of 37,500 over last Monday and 7,500 heavier than a year ago.

Hogs slow at weak to 25c lower prices. Most points on 10@25c lower basis. The top of $11.75 was paid both at Chicago and St. Louis. Total offerings 106,400 as compared with 89,763 a week ago and 89,651 the corresponding day last year.

The sheep supply approximated 93,000, an increase of 10,000 over a week ago but about the same as a year ago. Fat lambs generally weak to 25c lower, with some markets off 25@50c on native arrivals. Weakness developed on aged stock. Chicago realized $13.75 on choice native lambs and $13.65 on best rangers.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Aug. 19. (AP)—Confronted by a big increase of United States visible supply total today, wheat values took a decided downward swing.

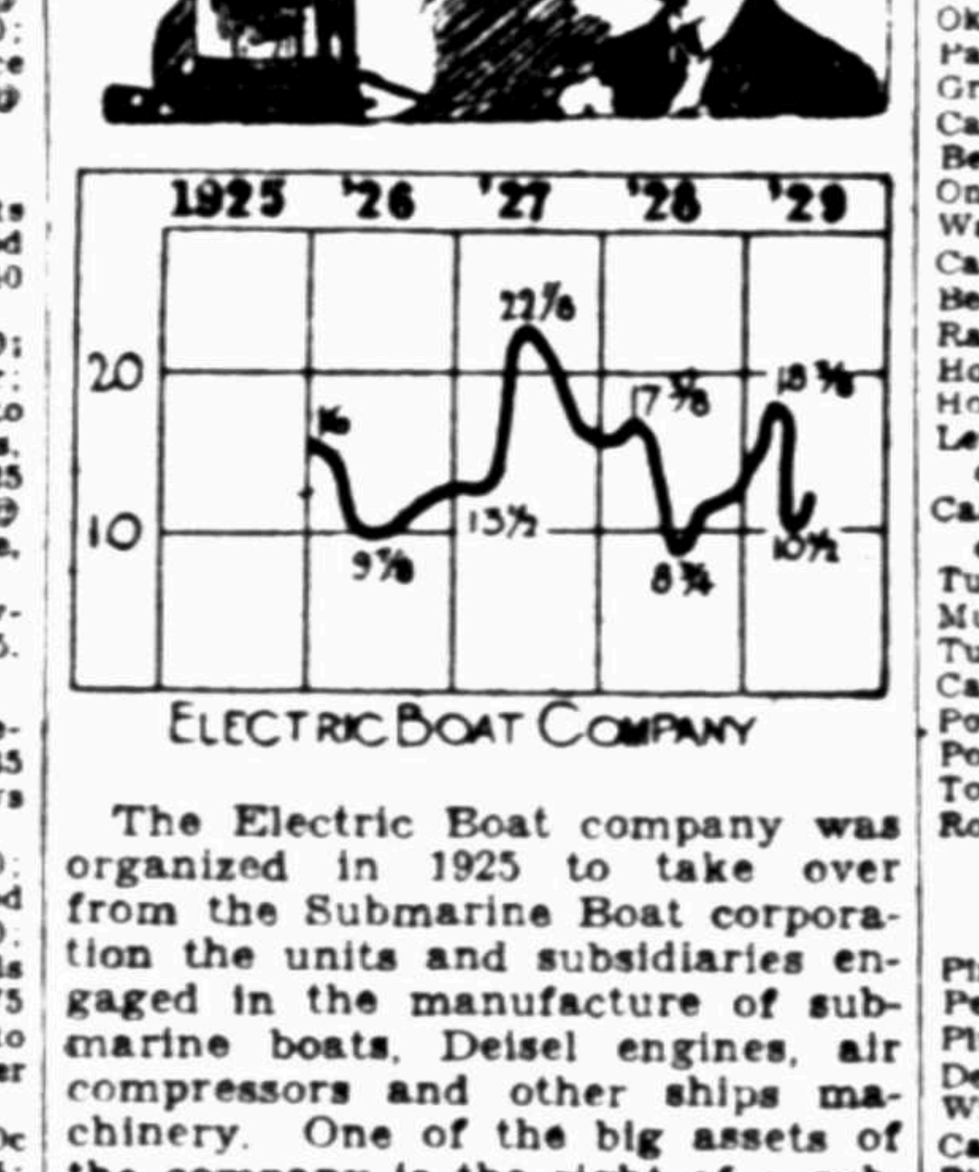

Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 2⅝c to 3⅝c a bushel lower than Saturday's finish. Corn closed ⅜c to 1⅝c down, oats unchanged to ⅜c off and provisions unchanged to a decline of 12c.

With the United States wheat visible supply today showing a record breaking total, 169,368,000 bushels against only 79,065,000 bushels a year ago, traders friendly to higher prices found themselves under a severe handicap. The visible supply increase of the last week, 13,355,000 bushels.

Corn and oats were bearishly affected by weakness of the wheat market. Dry weather throughout the corn belt and reports of crop damage failed to uphold corn values.

Provisions sagged, responsive to action both of cereals and of the hog market as well.

The Electric Boat company was organized in 1925 to take over from the Submarine Boat corporation the units and subsidiaries engaged in the manufacture of submarine boats, Deisel engines, air compressors and other ships machinery. One of the big assets of the company is the right of a subsidiary to collect not less than one-half cent a pound on all duralumin manufactured and sold in the United States.

The company is engaged chiefly in the manufacture of submarines sold to the United States and foreign governments, the boats being constructed by sub contractors under the company's direction and patents here and abroad. The company through a subsidiary also builds pleasure boats. The company has plants at Bayonne, N. J., and Groton, Conn.

The company encountered adverse shipbuilding conditions in 1928. The trend of earnings has been downward owing to disarmament conferences and naval reduction programs but the pleasure boat unit has had good business. The company's gross declined 16 per cent in 1928 but the net rose to $941,813 owing to a special dividend from the New London Ship and Engine company, a subsidiary.

Funded debt in the form of real estate mortgages totals $671,016. Capital stock outstanding consists of 800,000 shares of common of no par value. On the stock of the predecessor company the last dividend was paid in 1917. No dividends have been paid since.

As of Jan. 1, 1929, total current assets amounted to $6,683,363, total current liabilities were $2,348,612 and net working capital was $4,334,751. Book value applicable to the capital stock amounted to $9.89 a share.

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 19.—After considerable preliminary details, sale of the brick building now occupied by John S. Kerr post, American Legion, to this organization, was concluded last week. Some 20 years ago the building was erected as a home for the First Methodist church. Upon it being outgrown it was sold to the county and used as a jail until it was leased to the former service men.

Legion officials plan on adding some improvements such as more rooms and an auditorium. Trustees of the property, according to terms of sale, are Cecil R. Chamberlin, R. L. Christian and Hurston Akin.

O'DONNELL FAIR OPENS SEPT. 20

$500 in Premiums to Be Offered

Special to The Record News

O'DONNELL, Texas, Aug. 19.—O'Donnell will have the annual community fair on Sept. 20 and 21 this year and will take exhibits to both the county fair at Tahoka and the South Plains fair at Lubbock. The chamber of commerce has put up about $500 in premiums and the catalogs and premium lists are now off the press for distribution. O'Donnell's location being partly in Lynn county, partly in Dawson and near the Terry county line, gives the community fair a special advantage. Much interest is being shown in all three counties and plans are already being made to turn the O'Donnell Community fair into a tri-county fair with exhibit halls and show grounds owned by a fair association with a premium list larger than any of the county fairs around it. The need of a tri-county fair has been demonstrated by the large crowds and the many exhibitors which can hardly be taken care of under present conditions. With the added impetus of the rains throughout this section during the last 10 days the fair promises to far exceed the greatest expectations of its own boosters.

Flood Waters Decrease Prison Farm Cotton

AUSTIN, Aug. 19. (AP)—Brazos river flood waters and insect pests will cut deep into the cotton yield on state prison farms this year, likely reducing the output of 6,000 bales, R. E. Scott, chairman of the citizens prison relocation committee, believes.

Last year the system produced 8,000 bailes, yet sustained a loss in farming operations of approximately $300,000.

First Bale of Cotton Ginned at Goree

GOREE, Texas, Aug. 19. (Spl.)—The first bale of 1929 cotton came to town Wednesday of last week. It was brought in by W. C. Coon, who lives north of Goree across the Brazos river. The bale was ginned by the Goree Gin company and bought by G. W. Moore at a price of 18 cents per pound. A premium of $27.75 was raised by the business men and given Mr. Coon.

Walters, Okla., Back-to-School Picnic to Be Held Next Friday

Prominent Oklahoma Educators Scheduled to Address Students at Meet Sponsored by Rotarians

Special to The Record News

WALTERS, Okla., Aug. 19.—Date for the back-to-school picnic, which is sponsored each year by the Walters Rotary club, has been set for Friday, Aug. 23, when every eighth grade graduate in Cotton county, together with their parents, teachers and the members of the school boards of the schools from which they graduated, will be entertained at Sultan park here from 3 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

The custom of holding the back-to-school picnic has been followed by the local Rotary club during the past seven years. The purpose of the movement is to encourage students who have graduated from the eighth grade to continue their education by entering high school. No effort is made to induce graduates from the rural schools to enter the Walters schools, the principal object being to impress upon them the importance of a high school education with the selection of the school in which they obtain the education left to their choice.

Personal Invitations

In addition to the special invitations which have been mailed to each student, teacher and school board member, the members of the Rotary club will be assigned the names of students whom they will visit during the week and personally invite them to attend the picnic.

Dr. H. G. Bennett, president of Oklahoma A. & M. college, and one of the foremost educators of Oklahoma and the Southwest, has consented to attend the meeting and deliver the principal address for the occasion. In addition to Dr. Bennett, invitations have been extended to many prominent educators of the state, including John Coffey, president of Cameron college, Lawton; M. A. Nash, president of Oklahoma College for Women, Chickasha; E. E. Brown, president of Southwestern State Teachers college, Weatherford; John Vaughn, state superintendent of public instruction; Clyde Howell, secretary of Oklahoma Educational society; George McInnis, Rotary district governor, and others.

4-H Winner Invited

Harold Woodson of Comanche, a member of the Oklahoma 4-H stock judging team which recently won the world's championship in London, England, has been extended a special invitation to attend the picnic and will likely be here to meet with the students.

Stunts and entertainment of various kinds have been prepared for the visitors in addition to the educational talks which are to be made. At the conclusion of the program refreshments are to be served and will consist of sandwiches, lemonade, sodapop, watermelon and ice cream.

The Rotary back-to-school picnic has been creating quite a bit of interest among school people of Oklahoma and North Texas. Last year educators from several surrounding counties were here to observe the methods employed by the local Rotary club in their effort to get students back in school. More than 1,800 persons were present at the picnic last year and a similar crowd is expected this year. It is not uncommon for the club to obtain the matriculation of every eighth grade graduate in the county and in no year since the inception of the movement have more than four or five of the students failed to return to school.

Move to Restore Old Texas Fort Is Started

AUSTIN, Aug. 19. (AP)—Formation of the Robert E. Lee highway association here has resulted in a proposal to restore the old wood and stone Fort Crogan at Burnet in which General Lee was cared for while leading troops into the southwest before the war. The famed southerner then was a lieutenant.

J. H. Faubion of Leander, president of the Williamson County Old Settlers' association, is searching memoirs of pioneer central Texas settlers in the hope of obtaining other information about Lee's presence in Texas when he commanded troops which protected settlers from Indians.

As a result of the investigation, a giant live oak tree at Jolleyville has been identified as a favorite camping place of General Lee in his early military career.

WICHITA STOCKHOLDERS IN TUF-NUT PLANT FORM COMPANY

MARTIN NAMED NEW PRESIDENT

Plans Completed for Operation of Local Unit

Organization of the Tuf-Nut Garment Manufacturing company of Texas, whose charter of incorporation was granted last week, was completed at a meeting of the stockholders held at the Wichita Falls factory Monday afternoon which resulted in the election of seven directors and three officers, N. H. Martin being named president.

Directors Selected

Directors named at Monday's meeting are Mr. Martin, J. C. Mytinger, Frank Kell, J. W. Chatham Jr., J. T. Harrell, R. A. Nelson and George A. McConnell, the latter two of Little Rock, Ark. At a directors' meeting held following the election of directors, Mr. Martin was chosen as president, Mr. Chatham as executive vice president, and Howard L. Merrill, manager of the local plant, as secretary-treasurer.

Capital stock of the new corporation, organized for the purpose of promoting and handling the interests of the local Tuf-Nut garment manufacturing unit, was named at $160,000. All Wichita Falls persons who originally invested in the Tuf-Nut Garment Manufacturing company, automatically will become stockholders in the new concern by transfer of their stock, it was stated.

The plan consummated Monday afternoon has been in process of formation for several months, officers stated, due principally to the fact that offices of the parent organization, located in Little Rock, Ark., were considered too far removed from the local plant to afford it the most efficient direction and aid. Steps to transfer ownership and management of the factory here to the Wichita Falls community were originated by local stockholders, it was said, and were successful because of the majority of stock in this plant being locally owned.

"This new arrangement should work to the advantage of the plant here, to increase production and sales in this territory," said Mr Chatham, following the meeting.

Raw materials, advertising, publicity and similar items will be handled, at least for the present, through the Little Rock offices, it was stated, owing to better buying connections, and lower prices through quantity purchases.

Production Gaining

The sales force in this territory will serve the Wichita Falls plant separately, and salesmen will report directly to the local management.

The Tuf-Nut factory here has shown a steady increase in production during the last 60 days, it was said, and the management plans to reach peak production within the coming 60 days, employing at least 150 women and from 15 to 20 men. The payroll will exceed $2,000 weekly, it was said.

Howard L. Merrill, who has been in charge of the Wichita Falls factory for the last year, will continue as manager, with Mr. Chatham, executive vice president, closely associated with him in direction of the new corporation's activities.

Board Injunction Hearing Delayed

BELTON, Texas, Aug. 19. (UP)—Approximately $300,000, representing the balance of the state guaranty fund, remained in the Texas state treasury tonight pending the hearing of an injunction against the state banking board which has been postponed indefinitely. It was originally scheduled to have been heard today.

The injunction application was filed by bank stockholders who objected to the distribution of the balance of the fund in the manner decided upon by the board.

About $600,000 of the $300,000 had been sent out before notice of the injunction application was served on James Shaw, state bank commissioner.

Today { At the Theaters
By W. L. UNDERWOOD

MAJESTIC: "River of Romance," another good old southern melody. "Screen Song"—this will get you. Mack Sennett comedy. Fox Movietone news.

STRAND: Richard Dix and Esther Ralston in "The Wheel of Life." The old love story in a new setting. Vitaphone vaudeville. Paramount sound news.

OLYMPIC: "The Trail of '98," with all-star cast. "Our Gang" comedy. Pathe news.

GEM: "Wild Blood," with Jack Perrin, and Rex comedy.

Readers of this column—assuming that there are others—who saw the current show at the Strand probably experienced the writer's surprise Monday morning at reading that the sextet from "Lucia" was given in a Vitaphone vaudeville act on that program. The presentation of the quartet from "Rigoletto" produced a typographical slip o' the tongue by assuming the number, form and voice ensemble of the equally famous sextet from "Lucia." Had the singers numbered only three, by similar aberration they probably would have been columned as "The Three Musketeers."

"Screen Songs" at the Majestic introduces a distinctly novel feature for the first time in Wichita Falls. Alfred Weiss appears to be the bright mind who combined the animated cartoon, made popular by the Aesop's fables series, with the old idea of popular singing in the movie house. The "idea" is one which hardly can be described. The dancing figures which cavort hilariously upon the song words on the screen would certainly help greatly not only in "learning the tune" but in reflecting its sentiment, should the modern audience drop its self-consciousness sufficiently to sing.

The large-lettered invitation from the screen to sing brings back vivid memories of the sweet-voiced tenor who used to emerge from the wings, stand at the right-hand corner of the sheet, romantic in pegtop ice cream trousers and neat blue coat, and lift his soulful voice to the strains of "In the Shade of the Old Apple Tree,"—that was one of the most favoritest. Beautiful illustrations—stills—in color on the screen, with the words alongside, induced profuse vocalization or silent rapture according to age, health and place of birth. Other musical hits of the era were "Red Wing," "Silver Bell," and "Cheyenne." The Indian maids had their day with Irving Berlin's predecessors.

A New York columnist, only a few days ago, reported the startling discovery of a crowd which actually tuned up and sang as of old, in a theater somewhere in Brooklyn. Which classifies Brooklyn, probably, with those cities of the Northwest which invariably have phenomena "to be found no where else in the United States."

Vitaphone vaudeville at the Strand contains another spectacle which is more or less an innovation. Submarine photography which appears convincingly genuine affords very entertaining pictures of how your legs look as you demonstrate your best "crawl" stroke, or emerge from a perfect jack-knife dive. The characteristic gestures of an octopus appear less ludicrous, if not almost rational, after observing the gyrations of human legs and arms abroad in the deep.

Things to look forward to include the coming of New York's irrational, surprising, but withal inspired quartet of brothers and comedians, the Marx Brothers, booked to appear at the Majestic beginning Aug. 30 in "The Cocoanuts," and Oland Warner in "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," opening Aug. 23, at the same theater. From common heritage but widely varying careers during their youth in the great metropolis, the four Marx boys have gleaned a type of humor hailed without exception as unique, but above all highly enjoyable. The Chinese mystery play, with Warner in the leading role, should cause at least as many shivers as William Powell's "Canary Murder Case" performance.

PECOS GETS NEW OIL FIELD

Taylor-Link Well Flows At Rate of 135 Per Hour

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Aug. 19. (AP)—A second heavy producing shallow oil field in Pecos county was indicated today when Taylor-Link Oil company's No. 2 University flowed 135 barrels of oil hourly from 1,625 feet, 10 feet in the pay. It is the third producer in Pecos county's fourth pool 20 miles west of Yates field. It was opened June 16 by Taylor Link's No. 1 University, but today's well is the first big producer. The discovery well is pumping an average of only 115 barrels daily. The new well is in the northwest corner of section 31, block 16, and is a south offset to the discovery well.

F. E. Webb's No. 2 Nutt pointed to probable development of Irion county's second producer today when measurement showed 600 feet of oil free from water in the hole at 1,360 feet, one foot in the pay. The well is near the northeast corner of subdivision 5, Gonzales county school land, one-half mile south and slightly east of Brown and Fox's No. 1 Tankersley, the discovery well. The new well is being cleaned.

Phillips Petroleum and the Interstate Oil companies' No. 1 J. A. Whitten, considered Schleicher county's first producer, was shut down indefinitely for orders Sunday after it had been cleaned to the bottom at 4,925 feet. The well has not sprayed oil since early Friday and a six-inch casing landed Saturday at 4,915 feet is believed to have cut off some of the gas.

Widow Asks $6,859 In Insurance Claim

In behalf of herself and her four minor children, Mrs. O. C. Kimble Monday afternoon filed suit for $6,859.80 compensation against the Associated Indemnity corporation in connection with the death of her husband in May, 1928. Mrs. Kimble seeks to set aside a former award and gain judgment in the sum of $18.90 a week for 360 weeks, the compensation being asked in a lump sum.

The widow alleges that her husband died of pneumonia which followed a heat stroke suffered in the "coke chamber" at the American Refining company in April, 1928. The compensation petition alleges that the work room was full of smoke and fumes and was constantly at a high temperature, resulting, the plaintiff claims, in a weakening of the workman's lungs so that he could not resist the pneumonia attack.

CITY OPERATING COSTS GAIN

Purchase of New Autos For Police Raises Total

Operation and maintenance expenses of the city during the month of July amounted to $54,406.96, according to the monthly financial report issued Monday by W. E. McBroom, city clerk. This figure indicates a decrease of over $4,000 from the amount for the same month in 1928, when $58,830.18 was expended.

The total expenditure for the first four months of the fiscal year beginning April 1, exclusive of bond interest and sinking fund, was $238,236.12, compared with $231,806.66 for the same period in 1928, the report showed. The larger expenditure in 1929 was attributed to amounts spent for new automobile equipment for the police, fire, park and water departments, Mr. McBroom said. For the corresponding period this year, the amount paid out in the interest and sinking fund totaled $69,087.89, compared with $71,829.95 for the same four months in 1928.

In the enumeration of expenses the report indicated that larger amounts had been expended this year in the street department and in fire, police and administration funds, but that smaller amounts had been expended in the library, park, sewer maintenance, water and bond interest and principal funds.

Tax Collectors of State Urge Raley to Seek Treasurer's Office

Wichitan Declines to Comment on Efforts of Friends To Place Him in State Race

Leaders in the state association of county tax collectors and friends all over the state are urging Guy C. Raley, Wichita county tax collector, to seek the office of state treasurer next year, according to information reaching Wichita Falls Monday through John Collum, Dallas county collector, and vice president of the association. During the convention which closed in San Angelo last week, numerous informal groups called upon Mr. Raley, asking for his name as the candidate for the organization, and the movement is being pushed from every section of the state, Mr. Collum said.

Mr. Raley Monday afternoon declined to make any statement, although he let it be known that the proposal has received his serious consideration. He tentatively declined the suggestion of his friends during the San Angelo meeting but Monday did not indicate that the question was permanently settled.

The proposed state candidate has served Wichita county as collector since 1923, having been re-elected to his fourth term in 1928. Before his first race in 1922, Mr. Raley was connected with the city tax assessor's office and before that work was a member of the personnel of the City National bank. He indicated Monday that some definite statement might be expected soon.

W. F. & S. GAINS NEW BUSINESS

Rock Island Connection Is Popular, Says Schultz

Regular service affording daily movement of freight both north and south between Wichita Falls and Waurika, Okla., to connect with fast trains of the Rock Island lines at that point, is now in operation by the Wichita Falls and Southern over the old W. F. and O. railroad, according to R. H. Schultz, traffic manager for the Southern.

Freight service to and from Waurika has been scheduled to afford, as nearly as possible, continuous movement of both north and southbound freight from points on the Southern as far as Dublin to Kansas City, St. Louis, Chicago and other northern points, Mr Schultz said. The train to Waurika leaves this city at 10 p. m., relaying freight from Archer City, Graham, Breckenridge, Ranger and other points south to Rock Island Red Ball trains at Waurika with only a brief delay here. Freight arriving at Waurika during the day for destination reached by the W. F. and S. is brought to Wichita Falls during the night by a return train for early delivery here, or delivery to W. F. & S. towns by a morning train to Dublin.

"The service we have installed is equal to that given by any of the direct-to-Kansas City lines," said Mr. Schultz. "It is somewhat better than the existing service to Chicago, and other points generally in the territory reached through the gateways, Kansas City and Chicago.

"At the present time no passenger service is being operated, but the freight service is receiving very fine support from local shippers and receivers of freight. We believe that the pleasing reception of the new line is due partially to the realization that the W. F. & S. railway is a Wichita Falls-owned institution. Its shops and its offices are here; its principal owners live here; its heaviest payrolls are here, and the citizens of the city are giving material evidence of a friendly interest in local enterprise."

Kiwanis Club Hears Address on Europe

Members of the Kiwanis club at the weekly meeting held Monday noon at the Kemp hotel heard an analytical discussion of present-day France, England and Germany by Dr. Q. B. Lee who made a tour of northern Europe a few months ago.

Industrial, financial and political conditions with the three major European participants in the late war were discussed by Dr. Lee, while the manner and degree of reconstruction in those three countries was outlined. Battlefields and burial grounds of the world war also were described.

Musical numbers were given by Ernest Reeves, yodeling tenor, accompanied by Miss Lorene Tucker. Announcement of a city-wide young peoples' revival to open next Sunday, Aug. 25, at the old First Methodist church was made by Walter Nelson Jr., Junior chamber of commerce president.

Negroes Held In Plan for Phantom 'Pure Food Show'

Another type of "skin game" which had already caught several local merchants in its net was uncovered Monday morning when Plainclothes Officers Pat Allen and Luke Hart arrested two negro men and lodged them in the city jail, booked for swindling and investigation.

The officers said that the two men had obtained money from several local firms in return for the privilege of establishing a booth at a "pure food show" which the men claimed they were planning to stage in about two weeks. The officers discovered that the men had made only a verbal contract with the proprietor of the hall where the show was to be held and that there was no definite contract made which would allow the use of the place.

The two men will be subjected to further quizzing by authorities Tuesday, police stated.

Autoist Sues Iowa Park

City Faces Claim After Car Hits Bank

Charges that an unmarked embankment above an excavation at the intersection of Broad and Jackson streets in Iowa Park caused injuries to himself and his automobile are contained in a $750 damage suit brought against the city of Iowa Park by T. J. Edwards Monday afternoon.

The plaintiff alleges that he and his family were driving through the streets on the evening of Aug. 5, 1929, at the time their car ran into the embankment. He asks for $500 for the car and $250 to cover personal injuries he claims to have suffered.
