Time is running out to register to vote in November election

Tuesday is the last day to register to vote in the November general election, reminds County Clerk Joan Bunch.

The courthouse is closed today because of the Columbus Day holiday.

The county clerk's office will be open Tuesday from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Bunch said voter registration has been heavier than usual, and she has had many new registrations.

In addition to the presidential election between Gov. George W. Bush and vice president Al Gore, local citizens will have the choice between a former sheriff and three write-in candidates for the office of sheriff.

The unusual race for sheriff developed after Sheriff Darren Jackson was declared ineligible to be placed on the ballot as the Democratic nominee after voting in the Republican Primary.

Former sheriff Keith Collier was then selected by the local Democratic Party executive committee to run for sheriff. Collier has vowed not to campaign, nor take office if elected.

If Collier wins, Democrats are hoping that the Scurry County Commissioners Court would then appoint Jackson to the post.

County Democratic chairman Jerry Gannaway has said that a victory by Collier would serve notice to the commissioners court that citizens actually want Jackson for sheriff.

The sheriff's race has generated three write-in candidates, however.

Fluvanna farmer and rancher Cole Herring, former DPS trooper and current personal fitness trainer Joe Salinas, and Kwik Lube and Tune manager Kirk Taylor, all have filed the necessary papers to become write-in candidates.

Other contested races include the county commissioners' seat in Precinct 3.

Incumbent Republican commissioner Howard Limmer is being challenged for the post by Democrat Donna Gray.

There is also a contested race for Justice of the Peace in Precinct 2 where Republican Travis Brackeen faces independent candidate Pam Bryant.

Political parties open campaign headquarters

Both local major political parties are opening their campaign offices in Snyder this week.

The GOP office opened this morning on the south side of the square and will be open from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The Democratic Party will open its headquarters Tuesday on the east side of the square in the H & R Block building.

Demo chairman Jerry Gannaway said the office would open at noon Tuesday and everyone is invited to have hot dogs and soft drinks.

Hours for the Democratic headquarters will be from 1 until 5:50 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Already four days late...

Wind causes another Discovery shuttle delay

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Gusty wind forced NASA to call off tonight's planned launch of space shuttle Discovery on a space station construction mission.

The flight was already four days late because of mechanical problems, which were resolved over the weekend. Launch managers said they would try again Tuesday, even though windy weather could still be a problem.

High wind prevented technicians from moving a vent hood into position over the external fuel tank Monday morning, part of the preparation before the fuel tank can be filled. The wind limit is 48 mph, and gusts reached more than 51 mph, said NASA spokesman Bruce Buckingham.

"With those winds blowing at that speed, we wouldn't be able to align" the vent hood over the fuel tank, Buckingham said.

The hood, which NASA refers to as the beanie cap, is used during and after fueling to remove gaseous oxygen exhausting from the tip of the fuel tank. It is swung back two minutes before liftoff.

The astronauts were still hours away from boarding the shuttle when the countdown was halted.

Discovery was supposed to depart for the international space station last Thursday but was grounded by concerns over bolts on the external fuel tank. A sluggish valve in the shuttle's engine compartment also had to be replaced.

Shuttle managers wrapped up the bolt issue Sunday and declared Discovery safe to fly.

While reviewing film from Atlantis' launch last month, engineers noticed Wednesday that one of the bolts on the external fuel tank did not retract fully when the tank separated from the shuttle eight minutes into the flight as planned.

NASA immediately put together three teams to investigate the bolt malfunction and determine whether the problem might affect Discovery.

As of Sunday, after reviewing piles of film, engineers had identified about a half-dozen shuttle launches with similar bolt problems, said test director Steve Altemus. The malfunctioning bolts did not cause any of the fuel tanks to tilt or tumble when jettisoned, he said.

"That's good news," Altemus said.

The main concern last week was that a protruding bolt could put a spin on the 153-foot, rust-colored tank and cause the tank to slam into the space shuttle. Such a collision could be catastrophic.

NASA wants to launch Discovery as soon as possible in order for the space station to be inhabited early next month. The space station's first permanent crew cannot lift off until Discovery has visited the 240-mile-high outpost.

Discovery's seven astronauts will attach two new segments to the space station: a girderlike truss that holds motion-control gyroscopes and antennas, and a shuttle docking port. Four spacewalks are planned on four consecutive days.

It is NASA's first space station construction mission in two years.

Police are investigating reports of tire damage

Snyder police are investigating several reports of punctured tires in the area of Avenue E and 20th Street area as five incidents were reported Sunday.

At 9:18 a.m. Sunday, officers took a report for criminal mischief at 1911 Avenue E in reference to the tires being punctured on a 1993 Toyota owned by Michael Tovar.

A report was also taken at 2001 Avenue E in reference to damaged tires on a 1983 Chevrolet pickup owned by Paul Tovar.

Police were called to 511 20th Street at 9:29 a.m. Sunday where someone had punctured the tires on a 1989 Ford Probe owned by Larry Kubena.

The tires on Gary Grant's 1993 Chevrolet pickup were also damaged. That incident occurred at 513 20th Street.

At 2:27 p.m. Sunday, Jackie Jenkins contacted officers to report that the tires on her son's 1994 Pontiac had been punctured and the vehicle had been scratched while it was parked at 202 Coliseum Drive.

College board to view Fall enrollment figures

Western Texas College board of trustees will be presented an in-depth enrollment report of the Fall 2000 semester when it convenes at 7 this evening.

Jim Clifton, dean of student services, Mike Thornton, dean of continuing education, and John Gibson, dean of vocational instruction, will present the enrollment information.

"This will be the major part of the meeting," Dr. Harry Krenek, college president, said. "It will be an in-depth report on our enrollment in our academic and vocational classes as well as workforce classes."

Dr. Krenek said a review would also be given of the recruitment and marketing plan that is being implemented at the college. In addition, a report on enrollment trends over the past five years will be given.

Tammy Shirley will present an overview of the Emergency Medical Services program at the college.

"She will give the board a fairly good look at what the program consists of," Dr. Krenek said.

In the business portion of the meeting, trustees have several items requiring action.

This includes discussing bids on janitorial supplies, a travel vehicle and 15 computers to be used at various locations around the campus.

Tuition variance requests and the small class report will also be presented.

Trustees will also discuss granting a tax abatement for Farmer's Design Group identical to a plan approved by Scurry County Commissioners last Monday.

Fran Farmer, owner, is requesting the abatement in light of plans to expand the business.

The county approved a four-year abatement plan for the improvements on the land only, beginning with 100 percent abatement the first year, 75 percent the second, 50 percent the third and 25 percent the fourth.

The county's plan does not include a tax break on the land or existing structures.

In other business, Johnson Controls will give its annual report on WTC's energy use and energy savings.

Trustees will also be updated on a skills development grant submitted by the continuing education department.

If approved, the total amount of the grant is $289,373.58 and would involve help for local and area businesses in the WTC service area.

Recruits are needed for fire training

The Snyder Fire Department is seeking new recruits for the volunteer fire department.

Snyder Fire Chief Perry Westmoreland said the department is in need of fire fighters and is hosting a "meet the fire department night" at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Westmoreland invites prospective firemen to attend the meeting and participate in a training exercise.

The fire chief said the meeting would begin in the basement classroom at the fire station and then proceed to the training site.

Gore unveils new assault against Bush

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — With attention already shifting to the next presidential debate, Al Gore unveiled a new assault against George W. Bush, whose campaign aides said the Democratic nominee "consistently and repeatedly" makes up things.

Both candidates were easing their campaign schedules Monday for debate preparation, with few public events before Wednesday night's confrontation.

Gore stepped up his assault on Bush, dispatching running mate Joseph Lieberman to Texas for a "failed leadership tour" later this week bashing Bush's record as governor.

AIDS study targeting cats infuriates animal activists

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A researcher's plan to infect 120 cats with the feline version of HIV and then inject them with methamphetamine to study the effects has outraged animal rights activists and is raising questions about the need for the federally funded study.

Ohio State University professor Michael Podell received a $355,000 grant from the National Institute on Drug Abuse, part of the National Institutes of Health, for the first year of what he expects to be a five-year study costing $1.68 million.

"We want to understand more about HIV and drug abuse in people," said Podell, associate professor of veterinary clinical sciences. "One of the ways to do that is to develop an animal model that has similar characteristics."

Podell also is interested in the drug's effect on the nervous system. Methamphetamine speeds up neurological degeneration — something Podell says is becoming more of a problem as people with AIDS are living longer because of improved drug treatments.

Feline immunodeficiency virus and human immunodeficiency virus have similar effects on the immune and neurological systems of their respective hosts, he said. Cats also respond to methamphetamine similar to the way people do. When injected, methamphetamine is a stimulant that can cause a feeling of euphoria and hyperactivity. It's also known to cause such long-term effects as paranoia, hallucinations and strokes.

Peter Wood, a spokesman for People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, attacked the study as "cruel, wasteful and bizarre." He argued that HIV and FIV aren't similar enough for the research to transfer to humans and that the social pressures that would lead a person to take methamphetamine can't be replicated with cats.

"It doesn't take a rocket scientist to know meth use will have an adverse effect on your body so the disease will be promoted more vigorously," Wood said. "Our limited resources would be better spent on teaching people how to avoid contracting HIV or on drug prevention."

Julio Abreu, spokesman for AIDS Action, a Washington-based AIDS activist organization, said his group supports studies that aim to find a cure or vaccine, but to simply establish a control study in which the results are already known, whether it involves animals or humans, is a poor use of resources.

"In an era where there's still no cure and no vaccine, I'd hate for any precious resources to be misguided," Abreu said.

Podell defended the study and said the National Institutes of Health has a set amount of money earmarked for AIDS research.

Auction benefits slain trooper's family

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An auction to benefit a slain state trooper's widow and infant son has raised thousands of dollars and raised awareness of hazards facing law officers.

A signed George Strait guitar brought in $7,000 at the auction Sunday in San Marcos on behalf of Cynthia Vetter, Texas Department of Public Safety officer Randall Vetter's widow, and their 10-month-old son.

More than 3,000 people turned out Sunday at Strand Coliseum at Southwest Texas State University in San Marcos.

Mrs. Vetter, whose husband was killed Aug. 3 during a traffic stop near Kyle, attended the auction. The benefit was the brainchild of two of her husband's former colleagues, Troopers Brian Freeman and Darryl White of San Marcos.

"We didn't have any idea of what it was going to do, but it became a very big thing," White told the San Antonio Express-News in Monday's editions.

Freeman, who had worked with Vetter at the San Marcos DPS office, teamed up with White, other troopers and Hays County law officers to organize the event.

More than 600 items were sold in silent auction and in live auctions involving 12 auctioneers.

Outgoing Miss America gets praises from homeless vets

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Every contender for the Miss America crown adopts a cause — be it literacy, AIDS advocacy or another social issue.

Some do so because it's a pageant requirement.

Not Heather French, the reigning Miss America who spent much of her year lobbying lawmakers for more support for homeless veterans. Her platform ran much deeper than pageant protocol.

"It wasn't just a platform for me," French, 25, the daughter of a Vietnam veteran, said Sunday in an interview looking back on her reign. "Being able to show America that we haven't taken care of our veterans the way we should have, it was very emotional."

Appearing at shelters, speaking to groups and lobbying Congress for better programs during her 20,000-mile-a-month tour, French earned rave reviews from advocates in the field.

"On Capitol Hill, in the communities, with our posts, she was just fantastic," said Steve Thomas, a spokesman for the American Legion, the nation's largest veterans organization.

In November, President Clinton saluted her efforts at a Veterans Day event.

In February, she urged Kentucky lawmakers to seek federal money for her home state's 350,000 veterans.

In March, she asked that $750,000 of the Department of Housing and Urban Development budget be devoted to homeless veterans.

In May, she rode a motorcycle through Washington, D.C., during a "Rolling Thunder" rally to commemorate prisoners of war and veterans still missing in action.

Power outage strands shoppers

CHICAGO (AP) — Stuck drawbridges trapped sailboats, elevators stalled between floors, and the leisurely weekend commute turned into a rush-hour traffic snarl when a 7-square-mile area of the nation's third largest city was plunged into darkness.

The power outage over most of downtown lasted about six hours Sunday, stranding tourists, shoppers and sports fans and leaving some 12,000 customers without power.

Tourists like Sheila Branson and her three daughters, visiting from Midland, S.D., had nowhere to go as temperatures dropped into the 40s on a blustery October day.

"It's cold and we're hungry," Branson said. "We don't know where to begin looking for somewhere that's open. It's an adventure."

The blackout occurred after a new circuit breaker caught fire and exploded.

Police on foot tried to direct pedestrians and motorists through a maze of darkened traffic signals.

Two Americans, Swede share Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A Swede and two U.S. researchers won the Nobel Prize in medicine Monday for discoveries about how messages are transmitted between brain cells, work that has paid off for treating Parkinson's disease and depression.

Arvid Carlsson, Paul Greengard and Eric Kandel will share the $915,000 prize for their pioneering discoveries concerning one way brain cells send messages to each other, called "slow synaptic transmission."

These discoveries have been crucial for understanding how the brain normally works. In addition, the work laid the groundwork for developing the standard treatment for Parkinson's disease and contributed to the development of a class of antidepressants that includes Prozac, the Nobel Assembly at Karolinska Institute said.

Carlsson, 77, is with the University of Goteborg in Sweden, Greengard, 74, is with Rockefeller University in New York and Kandel, 70, is an Austrian-born U.S. citizen with Columbia University in New York.

The medicine prize was the first announced in a week of awards.

The winners of the prizes for physics and chemistry will be announced Tuesday and for economics — the only one not established in Nobel's will — on Wednesday in Stockholm.

The awards culminate Friday with the coveted peace prize in Oslo, Norway. The date for the literature prize, also announced in Stockholm, has not yet been set.

Carlsson said he was thrilled to learn Monday morning that he had won.

"What shall I say, you get glad of course, overwhelmed," he said in an interview with Swedish radio.

Carlsson's studies during the late 1950s led to the development of the drug L-dopa, still the most important treatment for the disease, the committee said.

His research also shed light on how other drugs work, especially antipsychotic drugs used against schizophrenia.

Carlsson's work has contributed strongly to the development of a generation of antidepression drugs called SSRIs (selective serotonin reuptake inhibitors), which includes Prozac, the Nobel committee said.

"The discoveries of Arvid Carlsson have had great importance for the treatment of depression, which is one of our most common diseases," the citation said.

Greengard was awarded for showing how brain cells respond to dopamine and other chemical messengers.

Kandel was cited for his research on the biology of memory, showing the importance of changes in the synapse, the place where chemical messages pass from one brain cell to another.

Tim Bliss, head of neuroscience at the National Institute for Medical Research in London, said Kandel's work — ongoing since the 1960s — could someday lead to new treatments for Alzheimer's disease and other conditions involving memory loss.

"It's a very major piece of work and he's been an outstanding leader in the field for many years," Bliss said. "He identified the physical embodiment of learning and memory in the brain."

This year's award for medicine was bumped to the top slot after the academy failed to reach a decision last week on the literature price — usually the first announced.

The Swedish Academy, which traditionally keeps the date of the literature prize secret until a couple days before it announces the winner, has not set a time yet, but it is always a Thursday, usually in October.

The suspense for the literature award was heightened last week when the academy failed to reach a decision.

Alfred Nobel, the Swedish industrialist and inventor of dynamite, left only vague guidelines in his will establishing the prizes. The selection committees deliberate in strict secrecy.

The only public hints available are for the peace prize. The five-member awards committee never reveals the candidates, but sometimes those making the nominations announce their favorites.

This year that includes President Clinton and former President Jimmy Carter for wide-ranging peace efforts, as well as former U.S. Sen. George Mitchell for his efforts to resolve conflict in Northern Ireland.

As for the first announcement, Nobel's direction that a prize be awarded to the person who made "the most important discovery within the domain of physiology or medicine" is interpreted by a committee of 50 professors from the world-renowned Karolinska Institute in the Swedish capital.

The Nobel Assembly at Karolinska invites nominations from previous recipients, professors of medicine and other professionals worldwide before whittling down its choices in the fall, as do the other selection committees.

Last year's winner was Dr. Guenter Blobel, 64, a German native and U.S. citizen who discovered how proteins find their rightful places in cells — a process that goes awry in diseases like cystic fibrosis and plays a key role in the manufacture of some medicines.

The awards always are presented Dec. 10, the anniversary of Nobel's death in 1896.

'Survivor' ads cost sponsors millions

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — Corporations that want to be part of the next edition of CBS-TV's smash reality television hit "Survivor" are paying big money for the privilege.

According to a report in Monday's USA Today, Visa, General Motors and Anheuser-Busch are each paying about $12 million — or roughly triple what they shelled out last time — for their advertisements on the show.

The price works out to more than $450,000 for a 30-second ad.

CBS is looking to sell eight or nine total sponsorships and the newspaper says the openings could spark a bidding war.

"Survivor: The Australian Outback" is scheduled to premier after the Super Bowl on Jan. 28.

Red-blooded Americans should roll up their sleeves and give

DEAR ABBY: Please alert your readers that blood donation is urgently needed! I am a regular blood donor, and while I personally do not mind needles, I have great admiration for those who are "needle phobic," yet continue to give regularly.

This year we are celebrating the 10th anniversary of our oldest son's bone marrow transplant for aplastic anemia. Andrew was only 4 years old when diagnosed. He required twice-weekly platelet transfusions, as well as regular packed cell transfusions before and after his transplant. We are thrilled to report that Andrew sailed through the transplant from his little brother's marrow. However, without blood from his countless volunteers, he would not be with us today.

To all who have never donated, please do. You will not regret it. To those of you who donate regularly, keep up the good work. You are truly God's angels on Earth. — THANKFUL MOM IN OTTAWA

DEAR THANKFUL MOM: I am pleased to know your son came through with flying colors.

Your letter is a timely one because our nation's blood supply is alarmingly low. In fact, the blood shortage is so severe that in some of our larger cities, elective surgeries have had to be postponed.

Readers: Please give blood TODAY. Advances in medical technology have increased the number of procedures — such as organ transplants — that require supplemental blood. The demand has outpaced the national supply.

If every eligible donor would give blood just once a year, the blood shortage would be history. Contact your nearest Red Cross Center by looking in your telephone book or asking the information operator; or call 1-888-256-6388 for the location of your nearest community-focused blood center.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is 13 and has many friends. She's smart and beautiful. She even has her first boyfriend as of two weeks ago. My concern is, she took a razor blade and made cuts and marks in her forearm.

Because I feel this is so very serious, I have made an appointment for her to see a psychologist next week, and I want her to stay at home more until she has talked to the counselor about this. (She doesn't want to see the doctor and thinks I am being overprotective.)

I am worried sick about my daughter, but I don't want to smother her, either. What do you think about this, Abby? She reads your column and, I think, will take what you say into consideration. — WORRIED MOTHER, CHANDLER, ARIZ.

DEAR WORRIED MOTHER: You are right to be deeply concerned about your daughter's cutting. While she may be beautiful and popular, and even have her first boyfriend, cutters usually cut themselves because the act brings them some relief from severe emotional pain. I'm pleased that your daughter will be getting professional help as quickly as possible.

As long as she is willing to cooperate with the doctor, I see no reason why your daughter should be grounded at this time. She needs emotional support from understanding friends.

Lady Tigers keep sights on playoffs

WOLFFORTH — With only four matches left in the District 4-4A volleyball season, the Lady Tigers find themselves neck-and-neck with two other squads in the race for the playoffs.

District 4-4A Volleyball

Team	District W	District L
Lake View	10	0
Snyder	7	3
Andrews	7	3
Big Spring	7	3
Plainview	4	6
Frenship	3	7
Levelland	2	8
Estacado	0	10

Saturday's results: Snyder def. Frenship, 15-6, 15-6; Lake View def. Levelland, 15-7, 15-2; Big Spring def. Andrews; 15-10, 15-12; Plainview def. Estacado, 15-7, 19-17.

Tuesday's matches: Big Spring at Snyder; Andrews at Lake View; Levelland at Plainview; Frenship at Estacado.

Snyder stayed in the thick of the postseason chase with a 15-6, 15-6 victory Saturday over Frenship.

The win, combined with Andrews' loss to Big Spring, creates a three-way logjam for second place between the Lady Tigers, Mustangs and Steers.

"Last year, nothing was decided until the last match of the season, and it looks like it may be that way again this year," said Snyder coach Patty Grimmett. "But we can't get caught up in how other people are doing. We have to stay focused on what we need to do."

Tuesday's action should break the logjam, at least temporarily. Snyder hosts Big Spring on Tuesday, while Andrews takes on Lake View, the only unbeaten team in the district standings.

Against Frenship, the Lady Tigers were solid in all aspects of the game. Snyder servers kept Frenship off balance, while its hitters dominated action at the net.

The Lady Tigers registered 22 kills in the match, led by senior Kameron Kallemeyn's 10.

"Kallemeyn has been hitting the ball really well lately," Grimmett said. "Everything she hit went straight to the floor. We have quite a few girls who can play well at the net, and it makes it difficult for teams to block."

Tuesday's match against Big Spring is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the SHS gym.

Following the tilt with the Lady Steers, Snyder wraps up district competition against Estacado, Plainview and Andrews.

Snyder def. Frenship 15-6, 15-6

Snyder service points: Cameron Mackey, 13; Kameron Kallemeyn, 6; Whitney Webb, 5; Laura Billingsley and Rina Geiger, 3. Kills: Kallemeyn, 10; Ashley Delce, 4; Geiger, 3; Mackey and Katie Voss, 2; Kallie Billingsley, 1. Blocks: Delce, 7; Voss, 3; Geiger, 2; Kallemeyn and K. Billingsley, 1.

SHS netters knock off Lobos

LEVELLAND — For the second time in district competition, the Snyder High School tennis team knocked off a state-ranked opponent. And this time it all but clinched the district title.

Snyder captured a 12-7 victory over No. 20 Levelland in Saturday's team tennis action, giving the Tigers sole possession of first place in the standings with only two matches remaining.

Snyder posted wins in six of the nine girls matches on Saturday, to go along with five victories on the boys' side. SHS also won the mixed doubles event.

In girls' competition, Patricia Vargas, Andra Dunham, Cozy Jones and Aftor Sutter won singles matches. Vargas and Dunham teamed up to win their doubles tilt, as did Kara Brumley and Sara Cantu.

Posting singles victories for the SHS boys were Ryan Gibson, Allen Smith, Alex Best and Adam Rodgers. Ryan and Gibson also captured their doubles match.

Jones and Tyson Kubena notched the mixed doubles win.

Snyder closes out the district schedule with matches against Big Spring on Saturday and Estacado the following week.

Western Texas nabs pair of rodeo titles

VERNON — After working out the kinks in last week's competition, Western Texas College captured a pair of titles Saturday at the Vernon Regional College rodeo.

The Western Texas men garnered 290 points to outdistance second-place Tarleton by 113 points, while the Lady Westerners won by 25 points over West Texas A&M.

In just the second rodeo of the season, the WTC men's team led from start to finish, winning all but two events in the long round.

"I shouldn't have to worry about the men's team all year," said WTC coach Greg Rhodes. "Our guys just have to go out every rodeo and take care of their events, and we'll be fine.

"Our women performed well, also. The men's and women's teams help each other out, and really helps. It's a fairly close-knit bunch."

For the Western Texas men, Joseph Gernantz was tops in the calf roping. Gernantz tied down a time of 8.4 seconds in the finals to finish first in the overall standings.

Houston Hutto was second in the short round with a time of 8.3 to secure third place overall. Saddle bronc rider Harper Sharpe was fourth in the finals.

In the overall standings, Trevor LaValley was runner-up in the bareback riding, while Rawley McFarland was third in the saddle bronc event. Sean Willingham took fourth in the bull riding.

In the final round of women's competition, barrel racer Jamie Standifer crossed the line in 17.63 seconds, the fastest time of the night. The ride propelled Standifer into second place in the overall standings.

Next on WTC's schedule is the Texas Tech rodeo Oct. 19-21.

'huskers reclaim top ranking

By DOUG ALDEN
AP Sports Writer

It was a short stay away from the top for Nebraska.

The Cornhuskers got a gift from Miami and turned a close game into a blowout to reclaim their spot atop The Associated Press Top 25 after a one-week stint at No. 2.

Miami cleared the way for Nebraska's rise with a 27-24 win over Florida State. The Cornhuskers followed through with a 49-27 win at Iowa State, which started as the Seminoles-Hurricanes' game wrapped up.

Although the result was announced early in Nebraska's game, coach Frank Solich said it was not a topic the Cornhuskers discussed much at halftime.

Dr. Gott

By Peter Gott, M.D.

Surgery may be needed for nosebleeds

DEAR DR. GOTT: My teen-age daughter has had significant nose bleeds for six weeks, despite five attempts at cautery and visits to several specialists. We are wondering if laser surgery might be an answer, although my daughter is terrified at the prospect.

DEAR READER: Nosebleeds (epistaxis) are usually the result of tiny blood vessels, within the lining of the nostril, that burst. Although they readily scab over, the scab may just as readily loosen, leading to repeated bleeding. Epistaxis can reflect a coagulation disorder, however, so I hope that one of your daughter's specialists ordered a coagulation profile blood test. If not, she should be checked.

Most instances of epistaxis can be controlled by firm pressure (pinching the nostrils together just below the nasal bones). More troublesome episodes may respond to a decongestant nasal spray, such as Neo-Synephrine, for several days.

Despite these measures, an occasional patient may require cautery (burning of the affected blood vessel). Still others may need surgery, such as laser therapy to shrivel the blood vessel, or actual suturing of the tiny artery to stem the flow of blood. Your daughter evidently falls into this category.

I don't know which surgical procedure would be appropriate for her. This is a decision best made by an otolaryngologist who, after examining her, could advise you. Regardless of the type of surgery, it is performed with anesthesia, so there is little or no pain involved. Thus, I believe that with your support and the doctor's help, your daughter can be reassured that the procedure is not as frightening as it seems.

For the sake of completeness, I should mention that hypertension is a common cause of epistaxis in adults. (Hypertension is rare in youngsters and adolescents.) Therefore, any patient with frequent or severe nosebleeds should be checked for high blood pressure, which — if present — requires therapy over and above the options I described. To give you related information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Hypertension." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: How can a person curb cravings for sugar and sweets?

DEAR READER: By making substitutions. Cravings for sugary substances can often be controlled by eating fruit, drinking fruit juice or consuming artificially sweetened products, such as diet cola.

A liking for sweets is virtually universal and is usually not a problem, except in diabetics (who must avoid sugar), in obese patients (who need to restrict caloric intake) or in people who crave large quantities of sugar (because such immoderation can lead to health problems, such as nutritional deficiencies or a diabetic tendency).

The issue, then, is one of degree. The thin, active, well-trained athlete can easily tolerate — in fact, may need — additional calories in the form of high-sugar foods, whereas the sedentary, overweight couch potato should avoid excessive sugar consumption. The juice/diet cola option ordinarily works well for such people.

Divers returning to Jacob's Well

SAN MARCOS (AP) — Jacob's Well, the flooded Central Texas cave that has claimed at least eight lives in the past three decades, is once again beckoning divers into its depths.

Divers of the San Marcos Area Recovery Team are trying to dispel the long-standing reputation of the spring as a death trap.

"There's this voice calling, saying come on down," cave diver Don Dibble told the San Marcos Daily Record in Monday's editions. "It's a Moby Dick syndrome. People want to get romantic about nature being a malevolent creature waiting for a human being to make a mistake.

"That's absurd of course," he said. "The well is not evil, but nature can be a problem when humans make mistakes."

Most of the deaths in Jacob's Well have occurred at or near a tunnel to a mysterious fourth chamber. The "magic tunnel," as Dibble calls it, was formerly so narrow that it required divers to remove their air tanks before trying to slide through.

Sailing the ocean blue

By Phillip Alder

This is the day on which we celebrate Christopher Columbus' voyage to these parts. He was born in Genoa, and apparently his given name was Cristoforo Colombo. So, here's a deal from an Italian pair tournament in Abano, which my atlas tells me is west-southwest of Venice.

To test yourself, cover the East and South hands. Defending against three no-trump, you lead the diamond ace: jack, three, four. What now?

At most tables, North opened and closed the auction with a gambling three no-trump, showing a solid seven- or eight-card minor with no side ace, king or void. The correct defensive approach against this bid is to try to win the first five tricks. So, it is "normal" to lead an ace; without an ace, attack with a king. Therefore, the Easts led the heart king, which worked well. West encouraged with the nine, and a second heart from East allowed the defense to take the first five tricks: three hearts and two diamonds.

With the South hand hidden, though, it was much more difficult. East's lowest diamond denied the queen. But which card did East have, the spade ace or heart king, as an entry for a diamond return through South's queen?

At the table, West, a national champion, switched to a spade. However, South immediately claimed 11 black-suit tricks for a top. A heart switch would have been much more successful — and that is the correct defense. If East has the heart king, success is instant. Yet if East has the spade ace, declarer can run only eight tricks (one heart and seven clubs). The contract still dies.

The British unconditionally surrendered Singapore to the Japanese Feb. 15, 1942, during World War II. It was a major blow to the Allies because the island controlled an important sea route. The Japanese had landed to the north and marched through the jungle to take Singapore.

Your Birthday

Tuesday, Oct. 10, 2000

Your career potential could be a few levels higher in the year a head than it has been in the past. However, you must take care not to expect more from a situation than you should.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't add any more straws to an already heavily laden camel's back. A person who is doing a fine job for you will do worse should you put any additional pressure on this person. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Instead of attempting to assume the head honcho role with a group of friends today, go along with the majority. If you don't, you could quickly find yourself outside looking in.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Should you fail at something you're attempting to do today, don't start looking around for a scapegoat. Overcome your mistake by reviewing the job and figuring out what went wrong.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try to keep your comments to yourself today, because should they come out a bit too caustic and judgmental, those who were your friends may be rethinking their opinion of you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be on guard that a high-pressured peddler doesn't coerce you into parting with funds you shouldn't for something you don't even want. Your sales resistance might be at a very low ebb today.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This might not be a good day for teaming up with others, because partnership arrangements aren't apt to work out too well for you. Try to do things unaided if possible.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Unfortunately, the only time you'll be willing to assist another today is if it's your idea. You may not take too kindly to anyone who does the asking. Be gracious in each case.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Complying to the social dictates of others will not go over too well with you today. You could be too set in your own ideas to go along with the majority.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Stepping out of character today and trying to bully your way through a situation that involves another will have only one result: a hostile reaction.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Should you have to deal with a person today whose basic ideas conflict with yours, an ugly development could arise if either party tries to impose his or her views on the other.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) No business deal that is too one-sided will work for any length of time. The only way you're going to get a lot out of a deal is to give a lot in the first place.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Find a way out of a situation today that makes you feel compelled to take a position that's diametrically opposed to your mate's way of thinking. Nothing will be gained. Be flexible.

I.E. MARTIN'S QUICK SERVICE
1701 College Ave. 573-4325

I.E. Martin's Quick Service wants to keep both you and your equipment cool.

I.E. Martin's Quick Service has been long known for quality automotive air conditioning sales and service. That continues along with an expanded line of new radiators to keep your equipment running efficiently.

I.E. Martin is the dealer for agricultural and industrial radiators. Martin's has complete radiators (tanks and cores) for John Deere, Ford, International, Case and Massey Ferguson.

All new radiators come with a one year factory warranty.

"It's more economical to get a complete new radiator than to repair one", Martin said. "Come by and we'll give you a turn-key price. We'll install it for you or you can take it and install it yourself."

We may still have some more warm weather, so, Martin reminds vehicle owners to have their air conditioners checked. There is no charge for a systems check.

Martin's Quick Service is also your authorized dealer for automotive air compressors. "We have the lowest prices on compressors anywhere," Martin said. In stock are compressors that fit most American made cars and trucks. Compressors for imports are also available.

Because of the high cost of conventional auto refrigerants, motorists may want to consider having their vehicle retrofitted to use R-134-A instead of the costly freon. Martin's Quick Service is located at 1701 College Avenue, or you can give him a call at 573-4325.

Two resign after Milsosevic's defeat

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Yugoslavia's new president pushed aside bastions of Slobodan Milosevic's power base Monday, as the country's federal prime minister and Serbia's interior minister resigned and a tentative date was set for new elections in the dominant republic.

But hardline Milosevic supporters in the Serbian legislature later postponed a decision to dissolve the entire Serbian government until Tuesday. The parliament in Serbia, the larger of Yugoslavia's two republics, insisted it would remain in office until early elections tentatively set for December.

Earlier, sources close to Yugoslav President Vojislav Kostunica said the Serbian government had definitely resigned Monday.

The resignation of Yugoslav federal Prime Minister Momir Bulatovic and Serbian Interior Minister Vlajko Stojiljkovic came during a day of rapidly unfolding events as Kostunica moved to solidify his power base.

All major Serbian parties agreed to early elections, delivering a severe blow to Milosevic's efforts to keep a foothold in Yugoslavia's institutions and to challenge newly installed Kostunica. Bulatovic and Stojilkovic were close Milosevic allies.

There was still resistance, however, to efforts to dismantle the government of Serbia, which accounts for 90 percent of the country's population of 10 million. Yugoslavia's other republic is Montenegro.

"This is a highway robbery," Vojislav Seselj, Serbia's ultranationalist deputy premier, told the parliament. "You will not get our blessing for a coup." Seselj complained that pro-democracy forces which have moved quickly to assume all levers of power.

Even as the last vestiges of the regime were being cleared away, the European Union lifted economic sanctions against Yugoslavia and offered it $2 billion in aid to help rebuild the country.

Speaking outside an EU foreign ministers meeting, German Foreign Minister Joschka Fischer said they agreed to end an oil embargo, imposed during the Kosovo war in 1999, as well as a ban on commercial flights to and from Serbia by the Yugoslav carrier.

The decision marked a turning point in Yugoslavia's relations with the rest of Europe and was seen as a first step toward integrating the country into the European mainstream.

Pro-democracy leader Zoran Djindjic said that new elections for the Serbian legislature, which is separate from the Yugoslav parliament, will be held in December. Possible dates included Dec. 17 or the Dec. 24.

"We have achieved an important step in trying to create a transitional government, to create condition for free and fair elections," Djindjic said.

Alleged killer of Maine women returned to state on Monday

BANGOR, Maine (AP) — Texas inmate James Rodney Hicks, who has now confessed to killing three Maine women, returned to Maine early today as part of a deal that would let him serve his time in a prison setting closer to his home.

Hicks and the three state police detectives who traveled to Lubbock to escort him back landed in New Hampshire at Manchester Airport on Sunday night and headed back to Maine by car. They were expected at the Penobscot County Jail early today, said Stephen McCausland, spokesman for the Maine Department of Public Safety.

Hicks said he would tell police how the Maine women died and where their bodies are located if he could serve his prison time in Maine, where he was born and grew up and where his relatives live. He said he did not want to serve time in Texas.

A little over a week ago, the 48-year-old Hicks pleaded guilty to aggravated assault for holding a gun to a woman's head in April in a small town outside Lubbock making her write a check for $1,250, sign over the title to her car and then write a suicide note.
