Senators Say Economy Plan To Be Pushed

Solon Says That Hoffman Trying To Use Pressure

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 10—Some senators said today they will push for a cut in European recovery funds even if it means the resignation of Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul Hoffman.

The ECA chief yesterday gave the Senate appropriations committee a hint—which he confirmed later to reporters—that he will quit if recovery funds are cut too much. He was recalled to continue his testimony today.

HOT WORDS HURLED

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP)—Senator McKellar (D-Tenn) today shouted at ECA Boss Paul Hoffman: "The sooner you resign, the better it will be for the United States." The veteran chairman of the Senate appropriations committee openly accused Hoffman of trying to bully the committee into not cutting European recovery funds.

Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), committee chairman, said Hoffman had shown "a very improper attitude" and was trying to "put pressure" on the committee. "I doubt the committee will be threatened," McKellar said.

To Support Reduction

Senator Maybank (D-SC), chairman of the Senate banking and currency committee, said "Hoffman is a good man but I'm going to vote for a cut."

The House voted $3,568,470,000 for the recovery job, with authority for the ECA to spend the money in 10½ months if necessary.

Hoffman told the Senate group he would try to get along on this amount although he believes it will take $4,000,000,000 for the full 12 months.

"I wouldn't want the responsibility of carrying out a program I don't think can be done for less than $4,000,000,000," he said.

Senator George (D-Ga) said he would favor spreading the $3,568,000,000 over the entire year.

"It's ridiculous to say that we mustn't cut these foreign funds when the prices of food and materials have dropped," George said "There isn't any reason we shouldn't make a substantial cut."

Senator McCarran (D-Nev), a member of the appropriations

Jury Indicts Auto Builder

CHICAGO, June 10. (AP)—Preston T. Tucker, promoter of a novel automobile that never got into mass production, today was indicted on charges of mail fraud, SEC violations and conspiracy. Seven associates were indicted with him.

A 31-count indictment was returned before Federal Judge John P. Barnes by a grand jury which spent 12 weeks since Feb. 12 investigating affairs of Tucker and his corporation.

Maximum possible penalties for conviction under the indictment would amount to 155 years imprisonment and $60,000 in fines for each of the eight defendants.

The counts are 25 of mail fraud, five of violating regulations of the securities and exchange commission and one of conspiracy.

Harold A. Karsten, 58, alias Abraham Karatz, North Hollywood, Calif., former Minneapolis lawyer;

Floyd D. Cerf, 60, Chicago, former investment banker, who floated the public issue of stock in the corporation;

Farm Aid Programs To Enter Elections

Agriculture Department Plan Under Fire By Farm Organizations As Too Expensive

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 10—Farm aid programs will occupy an incrasingly prominent place in congressional election campaigns next year.

Secretary of Agriculture Brannan has suggested a plan that would put a floor under farm income. Government payments would be made direct to farmers if prices for some perishable products fell below a certain level. Non-perishables would be handled the same as they are now, through price supports.

In return the farmers would limit produciton, when necessary, and agree to use certain soil-conserving methods.

Plan Under Attack

This plan has been attacked by most farm organizations, by some members of Congress and others on the grounds it would be too costly and would place farmers under too much government control.

But, leaving out this controversy over the details of a program, many housewives and other city people have asked why farmers need any government help at all.

Why not let farm food prices find their own level and reduce the cost of living for city people? Brannan says these are the basic reasons some sort of a farm program is needed:

1. Prices of farm products are more sensitive to the law of supply and demand than the prices of most manufactured goods. There are so many individual farmers and so many factors to consider, that it is difficult for them to gauge their markets accurately and plant accordingly.

2. A study of the depression in the '30's showed what the Agriculture department considers a

RENT DECONTROL IS AT STAKE

Housing Expediter Urges Jester Veto

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 10. — Federal Housing Expediter Tighe Woods today personally called on Gov. Beauford H. Jester to veto rent decontrol legislation just passed by the 51st legislature.

Following the conference, Woods told the press that the governor promised to give his request "careful and prayerful consideration."

Woods said he had made the special trip to Texas specifically for the conference with the governor. He said he did not know whether or not his conference had accomplished anything.

Gov. Jester said he had no comment.

Legal Conflict Claimed

Woods said that if the governor does not veto the measure, it is the attitude of the national office not to recognize the law if it can find any way out of it.

He said that he felt that an amendment planed on the law to permit cities to re-establish controls if decontrol didn't work might provide the way out.

"We feel that the provision is contrary to the federal act," he declared.

"I asked the governor if he could see his way clear, to veto the decontrol law," Wood reported.

"From studies we have made we feel that housing is still very very acute in many communities here in Texas.

Governor Undecided

The federal act carries another provision for communities which feel they don't want control whereby they can request decontrol for themselves. We have granted all such local options we have received.

"The governor is in a way in the same spot we are in nationally. It is hard to tell conditions in every community. But the local option leaves decisions with the people who best know their needs," he explained.

"The governor said he had received a lot of letters on both sides of the question, but that he hadn't made up his mind yet," Woods continued.

He said the governor estimated that most of the letters favored the decontrol law.

"Does that mean anything to you," Woods was asked.

Worried About Military

Woods said he was especially worried about military establishments in Texas and that military officials in Washington were also

Solon Charges Demo Sitdown

LOS ANGELES, June 10. (AP)—There's a "governmental sitdown strike in Washington by which, obviously, the Truman administration is seeking to sabotage its own so-called legislative program," Sen. Harry P. Cain (R-Wash) declared today.

In his talk prepared for a luncheon of the 11-state western Republican conference, he continued:

"We have the spectacle of a newly-elected president with a Congress including majorities of his own party in both the Senate and the House, not only failing to translate into law any of the administration campaign promises, but actually doing everything within its power to prevent action on legislation in line with the pledges made by Mr. Truman and the Democrat platform of 1948."

Program Disliked

"Don't misunderstand me," Cain added hastily. "It would be the greatest calamity ever suffered by our nation if that program should, by some mischance, be enacted."

But, he said, Mr. Truman claims a mandate from the people and one would expect the Democratic House and Senate to try, yet "not only are they not trying, but, at the direct instigation of Mr. Truman, they are making sure that no move of any consequence is made to fulfill those promises."

Cain contended that Democratic leaders like national Chairman J. Howard McGrath and majority leader Scott Lucas of Illinois are trying to blame Republican minorities and he ascribed two reasons "why the Truman adminis-

General Rains Reported For Most Of Area

Total For Month Hits 3.62 Inches; Harvest Delayed

By BILL CLARK
Journal Staff Writer

Gentle rains that fell on the South Plains steadily until midmorning brought more moisture but little if any more damage to are area, observers estimated this afternoon as the skies cleared.

Starting with severe rains at midnight, the rain decreased to a drizzle over most of the area by midmorning.

In Lubbock, .39 inch was recorded after midnight by the Weather bureau station, bringing the month's total to 3.63 inches, and the year's total to a record 18.41 inches for the period.

Forecast Given

More showers were in prospect for the late afternoon and tonight. A long-range forecast issued this morning indicated more rains for West Texas Saturday and more for this area Monday and Tuesday.

So the end still was not in sight.

The Weather Bureau reported that rainfall for the past 24 hours included these measurements: Amarillo, .34 inch: Brownsville, 1.03; Houston, .03: Beaumont, .08; Galveston, .35; Texarkana, .12.

A waterspout moved in offshore at Galveston but broke up without doing any damage, The Associated Press said.

More thundershowers were predicted for both East and West Texas, the Weather bureau told The Associated Press.

One Inch At Morton

At Levelland, rain started heavily at midnight, then slacked off to a drizzle, letting up early this morning when the night's fall was measured at .54 inch, said Edgar Brasch of Brasch-Mitchell Hardware company.

At Morton, estimates of one-inch fall during the night were made by the Morton Tribune.

At Olton light showers continued to fall until about 9:30 a. m. W. B. Smith, jr., editor of the Olton Enterprise, said 40,000 acres situated from seven miles east to seven miles west, and three miles north to three miles south of Olton had been heavily damaged in the past two days.

Rain continued until mid-morning at Matador, but it was a light drizzle.

The Texas Employment service reported that medium to heavy rains over most of the wheat belt

Senate In Hot Labor Dispute

Miners Strike Points Up Act In Emergency

Longer Walkout In July Possibility; HST Types Lewis

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 10—The Senate warmed up today for its hottest labor fight—over how to handle strikes that could cause national emergencies.

General debate on changing the Taft-Hartley act neared an end. Next will come the one-by-one consideration of amendments to the Truman administration's bill for Taft-Hartley repeal.

"National emergency" amendments may be taken up Tuesday and some senators say this battle may continue the rest of next week.

Lewis Catalogued

That also happens to be the week John L. Lewis has set aside for a coal strike. With coal supplies high, a one-week stoppage isn't considered a national emergency. But it brings sharply to the attention of Congress the possibility of a longer strike beginning in July.

President Truman was asked yesterday at his news conference about the work stoppage.

The President catalogued Lewis as a headline hunter, and said also that this is not supposed to be a strike but a sort of special sitdown. He said he understood that its object was to use up coal and put the miners in a better bargaining position.

Two Leaders Agreed

On one thing, the President and Lewis are agreed: They want an end to the Taft-Hartley provision for court orders to stop national emergency strikes. Lewis has been heavily fined under this provision in the past. Mr. Truman has expressed the view that the President already has inherent powers to deal with an emergency.

As much as Lewis hates the whole Taft-Hartley law, however, his strategy in calling a walkout during debate on the law's repeal has dismayed some of the lawmakers who are for repeal. Likewise, it has encouraged T-H friends who say that the timing is bound to help their effort to preserve much of the law.

The administration repealer, for which Mr. Truman expressed continued support, does not authorize either injunctions or government seizure of plants to delay strikes in vital industries.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) told reporters today that he is still just as strong for injunctions as he ever was, although he doesn't much care whether the Senate authorizes plant seizure.

WAR BUDDIES TO HOLD REUNION

President Flies To Little Rock Today

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 10—President Truman flies today to Little Rock to rejoin his old battery at another reunion of the 35th Division of World War I.

The onetime captain of Battery D, 129th Field Artillery, will mix with old cronies, look in on a ball tonight, and have 7 o'clock breakfast Saturday morning with his battery mates.

Completes Address

The President worked last night to complete an address to be delivered at 3:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard time) Saturday, highlighting the observance with the buddies with whom he served in France.

With Secretary of State Acheson working at Paris on the German problem and the Senate soon to take up the North Atlantic pact, the prospects for peace are expected to have heavy emphasis in the talk.

Mr. Truman's take-off in the "Independence," the White House DC-6, was timed at 12:30 p. m. (Eastern Standard time) for the three and a half hour flight to Arkansas He will return to Washington immediately after Saturday's talk.

Others On Trip

Making the trip with the President are Secretaries Charles G. Ross and Matthew J. Connelly; John R Steelman, assistant to the President. Budget Director Frank Pace, an Arkansan, and the President's three aides, Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughn of the Army, Rear Admiral Robert D. Dennison of the Navy, and Brig. Gen. Robert B. Landry of the Air Force.

As he did in the reunion last year at Omaha and two years ago at Kansas City, Mr. Truman plans to march with the other 35th Division veterans in their annual parade Saturday morning.

The President likes nothing better than to get out one of his American Legion canes, a Battery D arm band and strut along for the several blocks from his hotel to the reviewing stand.

However both official and family matters prevent him from being away from Washington very long at this time.

Mr. Truman expects to be airborne on the return trip in time to be back in Washington by 7 p. m. (Eastern Standard time) Saturday. The President called in his cabinet this morning for a review of developments since last week's meeting and scheduled a brief calling list of visitors preparatory to his departure.

Baseball Bat Used By Killer

PHILADELPHIA, June 10 (UP)—A 29-year-old man today confessed clubbing an attractive divorcee and her nine-year-old son to death with a baseball bat after a drinking party in the woman's apartment, police said.

Detectives quoted Robert Gemberling, father of a young son, as saying he first intended to kill his wife, but changed his mind and battered Mrs. Jean Mills, 32, and her nine-year-old son Michael Lubowski to death as they lay sleeping.

Brutality Is Evidenced

The battered body of the boy was found last night beside the unconscious form of his mother on a bloodstained bed in their gas filled apartment. Mrs. Mills died this morning in Hahanemann hospital following an emergency operation.

The brutality of the slaying was evidenced by the blood which spattered the four walls and the ceiling of the bedroom.

Police said Gemberling told them that Mrs. Mills was trying to "break up" his home. He said he was drinking with the dead woman and another woman until four o'clock yesterday morning when he left to go home to his wife.

Changed His Mind

Gemberling was quoted as saying he thought of killing his wife while walking home, but when he arrived he changed his mind and returned to Mrs. Mills' apartment.

He found Mrs. Mills and her son sleeping in the bed. He told police he picked up the boy's baseball bat which was lying nearby and began beating them, detectives said.

Treatment Of Polio Success

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 10. (UP)—A successful technique for the treatment of patients with bulbar poliomyelitis — usually a fatal type of polio—was reported today at the annual meeting of the American Medical association.

The treatment, based on a new concept of what causes the fatal complications, was reported by Drs. Thomas C. Galloway, of Evanston, Ill., and Martin H. Seifert, of Wilmette, Ill., who both are on the staffs of the Northwestern university medical school and Evanston hospital.

Suction Device Used

In bulbar polio, the patient virtually drowns in his own fluid—saliva that he cannot swallow because his swallowing mechanism is paralyzed.

As a result, the patient's supply of oxygen is cut off and he suffers what is known as anoxia, a condition that leads to death. The Illinois doctors believe that secretional obstruction and anoxia are more important factors than the direct action of the polio virus on the central nervous system.

In the new technique, the accumulated flood is removed from the bulbar patient by a suction device placed in the cheek. In some cases, it was reported, atacheotomy—in which a small slit is made in windpipe to allow inhaled oxygen to by-pass the obstruction—is performed.

No Deaths Reported

Through use of the technique, the doctors said, some bulbar patients also may use the respirator, or "iron lung." Use of the res-

Three Injured In Car Wreck Near Amherst

AMHERST, June 10. (Special)—Three persons injured Thursday night in an automobile collision on the Lubbock-Littlefield highway near here today were reported to be recovering satisfactorily in an Amherst hospital.

Most seriously injured of the three was James Mitchell Cummings, Levelland negro whose condition today was listed as "fair." Cummings suffered a broken leg and slight head injuries in the collision, which happened at 10:30 p. m. Thursday.

Jeff Woodward Burleson, 19, of Snyder, and Mary Frances Chambless, 18, of 1520 Twenty-fourth, Lubbock today were said to be in satisfactory condition. Both were shaken up in the mishap, but escaped serious injury.

Investigation of the accident, in which the 1949 model car in which Burleson and Miss Chambless were riding collided with a vehicle drive by Cummings, was being continued today by the Littlefield office of the Texas Highway patrol.

He also removed rent controls from three of the four counties in which the cities are located: Midland (Midland), Ector (Odessa) and Gray (Pampa). Carson county, Texas, in the same defense rental area as Gray county, also was decontrolled.

Little Boys May Not Be Safe Playing Game Of Marbles

Citizens Of Arkansas Town May All Be Jailed Come Sunday, As Ancient Blue Laws Revealed

(By The United Press)

PINE BLUFF, Ark., June 10 If this thing keeps up, citizens said today, this town of 45,000 may be deserted Sunday. Everybody will be in jail.

Baseball players, spectators, bus drivers, church organists and choir singers, little boys playing marbles — maybe even any two people who get together to talk things over—are apt to be law violators here come Sunday.

And all because the Pine Bluff Retail Grocers association forced two bakeries to close under a 1904 city ordinance which prohibits the operation of retail concerns on Sunday.

That made the baker operators mad. They set two lawyers to work digging up other ancient "blue laws."

What those lawyers found was a caution. Especially an 1872 law which prohibits the gathering of two or more persons on Sunday for the purpose of entertainment.

As attorneys Robert Zebold and Hendrix Rowell see it, they could catch almost anybody in town under that one. It might even apply to a husband and wife just sitting at home and talking—if you call conversation entertainment.

The attorneys, hired by the disgruntled baker operators, admitted that they have started a snowballing campaign to make the blue laws so unpopular that the city council will repeal them.

Sunday newspapers were the first victims selected by the bakeries. Pine Bluffers got a preview of possible austere Sundays when the distributors of four Sunday

House Group Asks Red Suspect Prosecuted On Passport Charge

WASHINGTON, June 10. (AP)—Rep. Nixon (R-Calif) said today the House Un-American Activities committee will urge that Philip O. Keeney be prosecuted for trying to leave the country without a passport.

"The committee is dead serious about pressing this matter with the Justice department," Nixon told newsmen. "It appears to me that Keeney's attempt to leave without a passport was a criminal violation."

Nixon said, too, there should be a full scale investigation of operations of the Polish liner Batory, the ship on which Keeney booked passage. Communist Gerhart Eisler fled the country on the same ship.

Fired By Army

Keeney is a 58-year-old New York librarian who testified yesterday he had been unemployed since the Army fired him in Japan in 1947 for reasons he never has learned.

Keeney's wife, Mary Jane, also appeared before the committee. She said she once had Gerhart and Mrs. Eisler to dinner. She added that she herself is no Communist.

Keeney told the lawmakers that after he lost his job in Japan he was offered one in Czechoslovakia, but couldn't get a passport from the State department.

He said he tried to leave anyhow, after Mrs. Carol King, a New York lawyer, told him a passport was not required by law. But when Keeney tried to board the Batory he was turned back by a government official.

Represented Eisler

Mrs. King also has represented Eisler in several cases.

Keeney said that during the war he had access to secret information of two government agencies, the coordinator of information and the foreign economic administration.

The committee spent all day yesterday questioning Keeney and his wife, who is on the United Nations editorial staff.

For today, the committee switched back to hunting for atomic espionage. Officials said atomic scientists David Bohm of Princeton and Giovanni Rossi Lominitz of Fisk university at Nashville would be heard for sure. They have been waiting for three days.

Lominitz and Bohm have appeared at closed door committee sessions before and declined to answer various questions on grounds they might tend to incriminate themselves.

Lominitz has said that during the war they worked at the radiation laboratory at the University of California at Berkeley.

The committee said in a report last year that atomic secrets leaked from the laboratory to a Communist spy.

There were some questions Keeney refused to answer on constitutional grounds, too.

He would not say whether he knew Eisler, Nathan Gregory Silvermaster, or ever has been a Communist.

But his wife said that when they lived in Washington Silvermaster was a guest in their home once or twice. Silvermaster was named by former Communist courier Elizabeth T. Bentley as leader of a wartime spy ring in the government.

Mrs. Keeney said that she had been cleared for access to secret information as a wartime government employe.

Dalton Guilty In Two Cases

Benjamin Clark Dalton, about 53., of Lubbock, was fined a total of $800 and county court costs, when he pleaded guilty Thursday before Dawson County Judge R. W. Herndon of charges of drunk driving and illegal possession of liquor.

Dalton was arrested early Wednesday night about 12 miles north of Lamesa by Deputy Sheriff Sam Floyd and Constable Roscoe Moore of Lamesa, who were en route to Lubbock to question a suspect in a Tuesday night burglary in Lamesa.

Liquor Haul Large

A search of Dalton's car revealed 10 cases of beer, 108 four-fifths quarts of whiskey and 12 four-fifths of gin—one of the largest liquor hauls made in Dawson county in recent months, Lamesa authorities said.

Judge Herndon assessed a fine of $750 and costs on the liquor law violation charge, and a fine of $50 and county court costs for drunk driving, he said.

A 106th district grand jury at Lamesa returned three indictments Wednesday, naming two men on armed robbery charges and another on a burglary charge, it was reported.

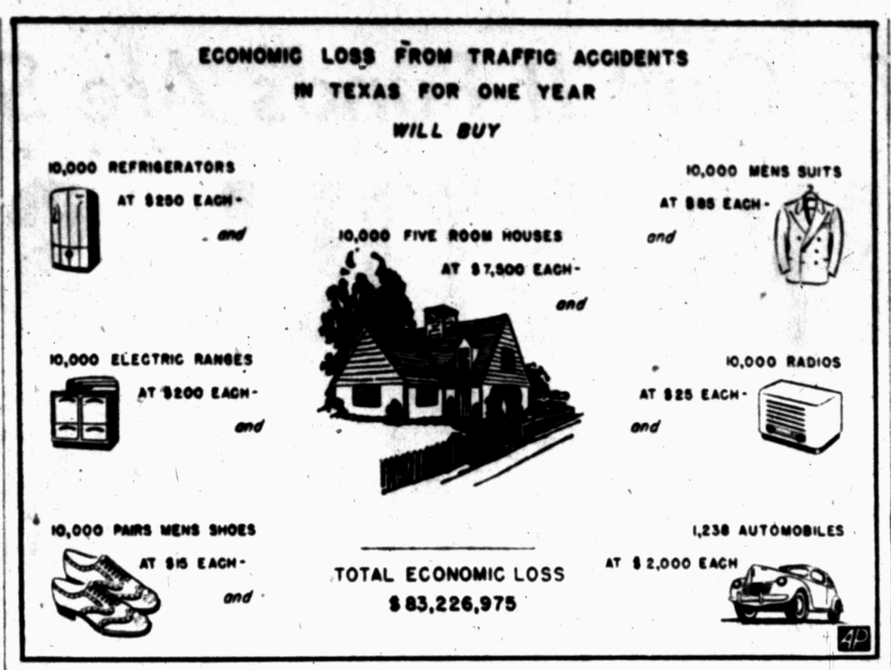

Lewis Ables, 26, and Earl Sidney Abbott, 21, both of Oklahoma City, were charged with the May 21 armed robbery of Leon Edwards, Lamesa service station attendant. The two men were captured early the same morning by Lubbock police, who had been given a description of the suspects' car.

Jack Tillory, 34-year-old Dallas ex-convict, was charged by 106th district grand jury indictment with burglary Tuesday night of a church under construction in north Lamesa, and the theft of $500 worth of carpenter tools from the building.

Two bills of indictment, charging burglary and forgery, were also returned against Tillory here by a 99th district grand jury which reported late Wednesday.

Tillory was arrested early Wednesday at Floydada by Floyd county officers, after he allegedly had attempted to dispose of tools taken in one of the burglaries committed here.

Willie B. Holland, 20, a Lubbock negro, was fined $25 and court costs and sentenced to 10 days in county jail, after he pleaded guilty before Judge Davies of a charge that he stole a $67.95 watch from James Taylor of the Compress apartments here. He was arrested Wednesday, a short while after the theft was discovered. The watch was recovered.

COST OF TEXAS TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS—This chart graphically shows how much Texas traffic accidents cost in one year. The economic loss from motor vehicle accidents in Texas during 1949 was $83,226,975, enough money to have purchased the items shown. Whitharral Lions Hold Charter Night

WHITHARRAL, June 10. (Special)—W. R. Rutherford, District 2-T-1 Lions club governor, was principal speaker last night at charter presentation ceremonies for the recently-organized Whitharral Lions club.

Large delegations from Anton and Levelland attended the charter night program, held in the local school cafeteria under sponsorship of the Anton Lions.

Rutherford presented the Whitharral club charter to C. L. Borders, oresident of the new club.

Ed Hart, of Anton, spoke on "What Makes a Successful Lions Club."

Mrs. D. S. Tullis led group singing, with Mrs. Bill Sharbutt as piano accompanist.

Invocation was by H. G. Richards.

Other officers of the new Whitharral club include H. G. Walden, first vice-president; Walter Williams, second vice-president; Bill Eggemeyer, third vice-president; Jay B. Harbin, secretary; D. S. Tullis, treasurer; Charlie Landers, tailtwister; A. B. Roberts, Lion-tamer; and A. A. Gray, Ed Johnson, C. A. Stephenson and N. B. Embry, directors.

Star Is 'Starred' In More Ways Than One

LANCASTER, Pa., June 10. (AP)—Paul Kiefer was "starred" in a little theater production of "The Milky Way" last night—in more ways than one.

Kiefer, appearing in the play's leading role, was struck in the second act by another actor using a "breakaway" cane that looks like the real thing but supposedly causes no pain.

The cane failed to function properly and Kiefer dropped to the stage unconscious.

Coming to in time for the third act, Kiefer reported he had seen more than his share of stars for one night.

Makers of early American handmade glassware dropped a "hot potato" into pots of molten glass to get rid of bubbles. The potato caused the glass to form extra large bubbles which rose and escaped into the air, carrying the small bubbles with them.

Sinclair Well To Be Tested

Sinclair Oil & Gas Company No. 1 Williams, northwest Borden county discovery for commercial production from the Mississippian and possibly from the Ellenburger, cemented a string of 7-inch casing at 10,023 feet below the surface. That would put the casing approximately at the bottom of the hole which is 10,035 feet below the rotary table.

A total of 750 sacks of cement was used to secure the pipe. Operator is to wait 72 hours before drilling the plug and starting production tests through perforations opposite the various zones between 9,830 feet and 10,000 feet, which showed oil in drillstem tests.

Northwest Of Gail

The exploration is 11 miles northwest of Gail, and 660 feet from north and east lines of section 45, block 32, TP survey, T-6-N.

Barnsdall Oil Company No. 1 Williams, central Lynn county wildcat, four and one half miles southwest of Tahoka, and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 2, block 8, EL&RR survey, ran a 50-minute drillstem test in the Spraberry section of the lower Permian at 7,049-82 feet.

Recovery was a 1,000-foot water blanket, with no shows of oil, gas or water. There was no other fluid in the drill pipe when it was pulled. No pressures were reported. The venture is drilling ahead under 7,215 feet in sand, shale and lime.

New Outpost Staked

One mile west outpost to the Kelly field in central Scurry county has been staked as Tex-Mex Drilling Company, et al, of Dallas No. 1 T. W. Doswell.

It will be 330 feet from east and 660 feet from south lines of the lease in section 205, block 97, H&TC survey, about five miles west of Snyder.

With rotary tools, the exploration is starting immediately to 7,200 feet, projected to attempt production in the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian.

Castleman & O'Neill, and J. R. Hunter, et al, of Midland, have filed an application with the Railroad Commission of Texas, requesting permission to start operations within two weeks at their No. 1 A. L. Wren, an outpost to production in the North Snyder field of north-central Scurry county.

The venture will be 660 feet from north and 690.5 feet from west lines of the west half of tract 12, section 20, block 1, J. P. Smith survey.

It is slated to dig to 7,000 feet, if necessary to explore the Canyon lime of the Pennsylvanian. It is six miles northwest of Snyder.

Army Orders Halt To Jap Railway Walkout

TOKYO, June 10. (AP)—Occupation authorities today ordered an end to a Tokyo-Yokohama electric railway strike which has been making it tough on 800,000 commuters.

Steam trains have been pressed into service since 2,500 electric railway workers struck yesterday. There are not enough steam trains, however, and commuters have been delayed for hours.

The workers struck after 19 union leaders had been dismissed from their rail jobs in a dispute over working hours.

Robert T. Amis, chief of General MacArthur's labor division, said, "The strike is a clear violation of the law." Other labor division officials asserted that Communists stirred up the walkout.

GI Impersonating Woman In English Show Is Sentenced To Two Years At Hard Labor

BURTONWOOD, Eng., June 10. (AP)—An Air Force court martial convicted Delbert E. Hill today of desertion for his four-year absence as "Donna Delbert," girl fire-eater on the English music hall stage.

Hill, who told the court he left the Air Force just after being assigned to duty as a latrine orderly following Japan's surrender in 1945, was sentenced to serve two years at hard labor. He also was ordered given a bad conduct discharge. The airman, a 35-year-old Philadelphian, denied he was a deserter.

He said he always intended to come back to the Air Force, was merely absent without leave, and pleaded innocent to a charge of deserting in 1945 "to avoid hazardous duty."

Appeared At Theater

The prosecutor, Captain George E. Koontz, claimed Hill left the Air Force in July, 1945, "with the intention not to return." This is a vital factor in proving a charge of desertion.

Hill, in a shoulder length hairdo and plucked eyebrows, had been appearing in a Newcastle theater as "Donna Delbert, demon fire-eater."

Hill was permitted to talk with newsmen during the noon recess of court.

He said he planned eventually to return to the stage in America, where he performed as a magician and fire-eater with the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus beginning in 1935. He said he often appeared in the circus as a female impersonator.

Cock Robin 'Murder' Case Finally Solved

United State District Judge Leslie R. Darr says its Adolphus Kirk, 36, of Fayetteville, Tenn.

Judge Darr yesterday sentenced Kirk, under the migratory bird act, to 30 days at the federal prison farm at Ashland, Ky., for "thrashing robins." The government accused Kirk of blinding droves of robins in trees after dark and killing them with sticks.

Kirk also was sentenced to an additional year and a day at the prison farm—for attacking the game warden who arrested him.

Movie "Shakedown" Discovered In Cleveland Elementary School; Victim, 8, To Aid Police

DONALD AND DETECTIVES: At first the toughs looked bigger.

CLEVELAND, O., June 10 (NEA)—When you're just an eight-year-old boy and a couple of toughs in your class at school demand protectin money, it scares you a little.

From the movies, you know this is a "shakedown." Only this isn't like the movies at all. This is the sort of thing that supposedly happens only to grown-ups, and you don't know how to handle it.

You don't like to tell your dad that these kids are bigger, stronger than you. You don't want to give away that nickel a day. You don't want to get beat up for not paying it.

Junior Helps Police

So you stay away from school.

That's how it was with Donald Philbrick, eight, a student in the third grade at St. Clair School, Cleveland.

But things look a lot brighter now. That's because Donald is helping police break up a juvenile "shakedown" racket at his school, a situation that began with the visit of two juvenile bureau policemen to Donald's home.

Their visit came after Donald balked at attending classes, and after a truant officer talked with the boy's father.

The truant officer thought Donald might be a victim of a "protection" plot, which flared recently at the school. The father had a man-to-man talk with Donald, and the lad's story came tumbling out:

"There are these two bigger boys in my room. When teacher leaves the room for a minute they come over and say I better give them a nickel or they'll beat me up."

Deadline Set

It first happened on a Monday, the boy told his dad. He bought another five sents' worth of protection two days later, gave up a nickel Thursday, had no more money to pay on Friday. The two boys, he told his dad, promised him a beating on the following Monday if he didn't pay his way out of it. So he didn't go to school.

His father, who has some strong feeling about juveniles, in the shakedown racket, didn't compel his son to go to school. Instead, he called police, and Donald repeated his story to the Juvenile Bureau. He promised gladly to help break up the racket.

"We get a lot of these reports of the protection racket in schools," said Capt. Arthur Roth, head of the bureau. "It comes in spells, though. It's cropping up again, now that school is almost out. What cause it? The movies would be my guess."

Famous Cartoonist Claimed In Chicago

CHICAGO, June 10. (AP)—John T. McCutcehon, 79, famous cartoonist for the Chicago Tribune for 43 years and former war correspondent, died today at his home in suburban Lake Forest.

McCutcheon, who won the Pulitzer prize for cartoons in 1931, had been ill since 1946 when he retired from active work at the Tribune.

McCutcheon's career as a cartoonist and writer started with the old Chicago Record after his graduation from Purdue university in 1889.

McCutcehon's best known cartoon was "Injun Summer," which was first printed in the Tribune of Sept. 30, 1907. The cartoon was reprinted by request annually each fall in the Tribune since 1912.

His survivors include his widow, the former Evelyn Barr and three sons, John T. Jr., a member of the Tribune editorial staff; Shaw, and George Barr McCutcheon, and a sister, Mrs. Jessie Nelson of Sherman, Conn.

Civil War Showgirl Dies In California

LONG BEACH, Calif., June 10 (AP)—Death has taken Mrs. Clarissa M. Noxon, who sang and danced on Broadway before the civil war. She was 103.

Born in Masonville, N. Y., she performed as her father's dancing partner at the age of 10 and several years afterward. She died yesterday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Jennie Elliott. Also surviving are a son, 21 grandchildren, 37 great-grandchildren and 22 great-great-grandchildren.

Ice Skating Star Is Theft Victim Again

NEW YORK, June 10. (AP)—For the second time this year, thieves have made a big haul from the personal belongings of ice skating star Sonja Henie.

Yesterday, $35,000 worth of her sables and other clothing was stolen from a truck which was hauling the clothing to an air terminal for shipment to California.

Police said thieves apparently broke into the locked truck at a traffic stop light.

Siam Becomes Thailand Again; Confusing To All But Natives

BANGKOK, June 10 (U.P.)—Siam again has become Thailand, "The Land of the Free," a change that will be confusing to foreigners but hardly noticed by Thailanders.

Thailand, or its equivalent in the Thai language, traditionally has been this country's name.

On Wesak Day, May 11, 1949, a Buddhist holiday, an official announcement by Premier Field Marshal Phibun Songgram proclaimed the change from Siam to Thailand. The announcement was largely for the benefit of English-speaking people who seem to find Siam easier to say and remember.

Thailand was adopted officially on June 24, 1938, during the former Phibun regime. At the end of World War II, Premier Thawi Bunyaket restored the name Siam to popular usage, possibly to please the allied victors, who were inclined to associate Thailand with the Japanese occupation regime.

British Objected

The British were reported to have recommended the change on the grounds that Thailand sounded "moisterous and aggressive."

Historically, the people call themselves "Thai" and their homeland "Muang Thai," meaning "The Land of the Thai" or "The Land of the Free."

The name Siam is pronounced "Sayam" in the national language. There is some doubt as to when and how the name "Sayam" originated.

The names "Muang Thai," "Prates Thai," and "Prates Sayam" have been used interchangeably. Prates is the Thai word for "country."

But "Muang Thai" has been the most common and most popular name.

Not Compulsory

The change back to "Siam" in the English language after World War II did not change the country's name in the Thai language.

Business and commercial firms are expected to change their names where they involve use of the country's name. But so far it is not compulsory. There is no law at present comering registered trade and business names.

Marshal Phibun was thinking in terms of a "Greater Thailand" when he first changed the name to Thailand in 1938. There are millions of Thai scattered through other southeast Asia states such as Burma and Indo-China and the Chinese provinces of Yunnan and Kwangsi. Their total number at least may equal the population of Thailand itself.

Turbine Plant Nearly Ready

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 10 (U.P.)—General Electric will place the world's largest turbine plant in full operation late this year.

The plant, which cost $30,000,000, will be capable of producing enough turbines in each month to supply power and light for a city of 1,000,000 inhabitants.

It will produce turbine-generators ranging in size from 20,000 to 200,000 kilowatts. The plant covers 20 acres of land and has 1,027,986 square feet of floor space. It is 650 by 1,290 feet and will be manned by 5,000 workers when in full production.

Engineering Feat

Construction of the building was a major engineering feat. One of the big problems was the design and installation of a foundation which would support the heavy loads imposed by the building structure, heavy machinery and 51 cranes, some of whicn weigh 400 tons fully loaded.

A total of 4,700 H-beams were driven into the ground to support heavy building columns and the reinforced concrete mats for heavy machines. The steel that went into the ground weighed 13,300 tons. In addition, 1,700 concrete pedestal-type piles were driven into the ground to support lighter building columns and small machines.

Above ground are 14,000 tons of structural steel with all field connections made by welding. The sides of the structure are concrete for the first five feet. The remainder is insulated metal siding protected by aluminum paint.

Lighting Heavy Load

A total of 10,700 light fixtures will be used in the building. The lighting load alone will require approximately 4,000 kilowatts of electric power. Its huge machines will use up another 20,000 kilowatts.

It took 11,000 gallons of paint to cover the building, inside and out. It is protected against fire by 6,114 sprinkler heads, has one and one-quarter miles of water lines, 30,600 feet of underground cable, three and one-half miles of standard gauge railroad track and eight and one-half miles of ventilating ducts which handle 150,000,000 cubic feet of air per hour.

Marion Hutton Gets Divorce From Hubby

LOS ANGELES, June 10 (AP)—Singer Marion Hutton has a divorce today from her erstwhile manager, John Philbin II.

The 28-year-old sister of actress Betty Hutton told the court that her fortunes hit the downgrade when hubby took over the management of her career. He did such things, she said, as book a $4500 band of hillbillies to play with her on a personal appearance tour. Marion's singing is on the swingy side.

She charged cruelty and desertion and won custody of their two children, John II, eight, and Phillip, three.

FRITZ and his sergeant

HAMBURG, Germany, June 10.—Thirteen-year-old Fritz is a strong contender for the title of world's most travelled dog. He is owned by Sgt. Harold Diffey of Bournemouth, England, who is serving with the Royal Engineers in Germany.

Fritz, of doubtful parentage, was adopted by the engineers in Saarbruecken in 1940. He stayed with his adopted owners right through the Dunkirk evacuation to Britain.

Then he sailed to take part in the invasion of Madagascar. That was followed by a trip to India. Then he found himself in Iran watching the lease-lend material going into Russia. He roamed around North Africa and Palestine for a time.

Liked Invasions

Then came the invasion of Sicily. By this time he liked invasions, so he was on hand to join the assault on the Italian mainland.

Then home to Germany via Marseilles with his engineers. He took his place in an assault boat for the crossing of the Rhine.

Doris Prater Chosen As Gold Star Girl

Doris Marie Prater of Route 2 has been chosen Gold Star Girl of Lubbock county by the Texas A&M Extension Service, according to an announcement made by the Extension office here. As Gold Star Girl she will attend the 4-H Round-up at College Station Tuesday through Thursday.

To receive the Gold Star award, a 4-H member must have completed three years in the club, have a good established demonstration, and must show leadership ability as well as achievement.

Members of the committee who visited Doris Marie to judge her work were Mrs. Jewel Risinger, Mrs. Ben Hearne, Miss Clara Pratt, Lubbock county home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Peggy Fischer, assistant county home demonstration agent.

Ring Service Is Performed

In a double ring ceremony performed at College Avenue Baptist church Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, Miss Lou Evelyn Pope, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Pope of Flomot, and George H. Barron, son of C. A. Barron of Lamesa, were married. Rev. Abe Hester, jr., read the candlelight service before an altar decorated with daisies, gladioli and greenery.

Mrs. Eldon Vance of Lamesa, sister of the bridegroom, played "Showers of Blessings," "Always" and "I Love You Truly," and accompanied Joe Garrison as he sang "For You" and "Wedding Prayer." Traditional marches were offered.

Wears Gift Pearls

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white two-piece crepe dress and a white picture hat. She carried a Bible topped with a white orchid showered with streamers and split carnations. She wore pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Glenda Wright of O'Donnell, maid of honor, wore an orchid crepe dress with a yellow rosebud corsage. Candlelighters were Jeanne Sharp of Tulia, dressed in dusty rose, and Betty Fillingim of Tahoka, dressed in aqua. Their corsages were pink and white carnations.

Ray Drennan served as best man and ushers were Seth Murphey of Levelland, Melvin Pope of Flomot, brother of the bride, Eldon Vance, and Clinton Kennedy of Morton. Ray O'Brien, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

At the reception given in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Williams, 2423 Twenty-second, the bride's table was laid with a lace cloth, made by her aunt, Mrs. J. L. Hamilton, of Amarillo. Candles, a bouquet of peonies and carnations and a wedding ring cake decorated the table. Other floral arrangements were placed throughout the house. Miss Wright registered guests and Mrs. L. W. Ewen, aunt of the bride, presided at the punch bowl. Others in the houseparty were the bride's mother and members of the wedding party.

On Colorado Trip

For a wedding trip to Colorado and Wyoming, the bride wore a light blue suit with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. She is a graduate of Flomot High school and is a junior student at Texas Technological college where she is a member of the Home Economics club. The bridegroom is a graduate of Dawson High school, Welch, and is a junior at Tech. He is a member of the Aggie club, Honorary Agriculture club and Tech Rodeo association.

After July 1, the couple will be at home in Lubbock.

Out-of-town guests were from Flomot, Lamesa, Welch, Post, Meadow, Levelland and Morton.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Having Thought Himself In Love With Girl For Three Years, Man Is Now Uncertain

DEAR Mary Haworth: I am now completing my college course, which was interrupted while I served in the Marines. I have been informally engaged—no announcement—to a girl whom I though I loved for three years, but now I feel certain I am not in love with her. I am not in love with anyone else, yet I keep asking myself if I want to marry her.

I will describe her, to help you understand my feelings. She wears spike heels in the mornings and her hair piled high on her head, mornings, and my sisters wear rather low heels and suits during they day, and evenings they go all out for glamour.

Another thing: she wears the briefest of shorts and sun-suits and sits in a bawdy manner when in this garb. My mother and sisters think such briefs can be worn—if a gal still acts like a lady. When she takes a sun bath she stretches out near the front sidewalk. My sisters sun in the back yard, very much out of the public eye.

BEGUILING MEMORY OF MODEST MAIDEN

OF COURSE I see many other girls doing the same things she does, and I like to see pretty girls parading with not much on; —but I don't want the girl I marry to act like a trollop. And when I read modern articles about girls wondering why men don't ask to marry them, I think the reason is "their actions." Why do girls think they have to go practically naked to attract us men?

Last season I spent three weeks in Florida, and on a beach strewn with scantily clad women, there was just one girl in her early twenties who wore a robe—and believe me she didn't have to! She would slip off the robe just before going into the ocean and slip into it again when she came out, and there wasn't a man on the beach who didn't watch her—perhaps because she was modest and dared to differ from the herd. Will you discuss my problem soon? Signed: J. C.

THERE'S NO CHARM WITHOUT RESERVE

DEAR J. C.: The success of the girl on the beach, who had either the ineradicable modesty or the dramatic sense to keep herself draped for the most part, who think they have to go practically naked to attract men" just would seem to prove that "girls haven't had intelligent teaching—in the form of instruction and good example, to acquaint them with the esthetic charm of reserve, or the magic of mystery as an aid to come-hither.

Struck by the modern phenomenon of mass indelicacy among females, author David Cohn in his wise witty book "Love in America" (Simon & Schuster), makes the point that some types of pictorially illustrated advertising, used as part of big-business selling technique in our century, the types which leave virtually nothing of feminine form or hygiene to the imagination, may have something to do with it.

He restores us to fresh awareness that children's sensibilities, from the time they can read sufficiently to get the meaning of the printed word or picture story, are constantly assailed and calloused by persuasive propaganda which fatures neo-pagan candor in a matter of course way, or even as a social ideal. And can it be that the gentler sex thus imbibes unconsciously, philosophy of "nothing sacred?" Verily it's a thought for wistful trollops to ponder.

Now, about your problem: Obviously your concept of the feminine ideal is patterned to the image of your mother's and sisters' example. And the glimpse you give of their behavior and views indicats that they've furnished a pretty good standard to guide you in seeking a wife. They seem to be ladies, but human, not stuffy; — adaptive, progressive, gracious and quietly sure of themselves. And if your fiancee is not in their class and you no longer love her, I'd call it sound judgment to break the engagement.

M. H.

Hubbers Win Double Bill At Lamesa

Chris Haskins Hurls Tonight

(By The Associated Press)

Albuquerque's West Texas-New Mexico League was cut to a percentage margin Friday.

The Dukes lost their sixth straight while Abilene won another to shorten the distance between the two.

Amarillo beat Albuquerque 10 to 5 while Abilene was stomping on Pampa 17 to 1. Borger chopped a doubleheader from Clovis—winning 8 to 7 and 6 to 5. Lubbock took a pair from Lamesa, 11 to 2 and 8 to 4.

Abilene pulled into a partial tie with Albuquerque in a statistical oddity. In games, they are tied. However, Albuquerque has 27 wins and 16 losses for a percentage of .628. Abilene has 30 wins and 19 losses for a .612 percentage.

Sixth Straight Loss

Amarillo's win constituted Albuquerque's sixth straight loss. Luke Hamilton went the route in chalking up his sixth win and managed to scatter the Dukes' 13 safeties well. Home runs with bases vacant in the third inning by Pitcher Don Ferrarese, Lyn Attyd and Manager Hershel Martin gave Albuquerque a three-run lead. Amarillo got back two in the same frame and tied the score in the next inning without a hit. Amarillo went ahead to stay in the fifth.

Borger climbed a bit on the loop ladder with the double win over Clovis. Clayton Fries went the distance in the extra inning first game after Clovis tied the score in the seventh. Wee Willie Wynns singled in Jimmy Littlejohn for the winning run.

Homer Falls Short

In the nightcap, a homer by Jess Jacinto with two men aboard in the seventh fell short of a tying run.

At Abilene, Pitcher Bernis Coapland came within two put-outs of a shutout. With one away in the first of the ninth, he took Homer Mathney's hard, low grounder against his ankle for a base hit and a possible fracture. Pampa got two more hits off Reliefer Rene Vega to score one run.

Coapland had given up eight hits, well scattered, and had flawless support which included three double plays.

Lubbock had little difficulty at Lamesa in taking both ends of the doubleheader. Lubbock piled up 13 safeties in the first while John Myers was holding Lamesa to four hits. Lubbock got an even dozen in the nightcap and Lamesa was held to eight.

CHRIS HASKINS WILL TAKE MOUND TONIGHT

LAMESA, June 10 (Special) — Chris Haskins will return to the mound for the Lubbock Hubbers here tonight to face his old teammates, the Lamesa Loboes, in the concluding game of the three-game series.

Haskins' opponent on the mound will be Jack Guiterriz, recently acquired hurler, who beat the Abilene Blue Sox in his first start.

Last night's two victories by the Hubbers broke the tie that had existed between the two clubs, so far as total vitories in the inter-city rivalry was concerned. The Hubbers now are on top by four to two.

Pitching by Johnny Myers in the first game and a combined effort by Ray Reichelt and Haskins in the nightcap brought the victory to Lubbock. In addition, Lubbock bats were booming, with Jim Prince, Nelson Davis and Mike Dooley slamming homers and doubles by Davis (3), Dempsey (2), Sullivan, Al Duarte and Charley Willis.

McAllen's Giants Will Get New Home

McALLEN, June 10 (AP)—McAllen's Giants of the Rio Grande valley league will have a new home.

Earl Halstead, owner and general manager, announced last night he was moving the club to another South Texas city June 14. He said four different cities, three with lighted parks, were under consideration.

Halstead said the move was caused by failure of the McAllen Chamber of Commerce to answer his request for assistance in providing a lighted park.

The first settlements in Iceland were made by Irish monks.

Record Turnout For School Is Reported

"Full to overflowing" might well express the situation at Chapman field Thursday afternoon as 104 boys turned out for the American Legion baseball school.

Out of the record turnout, the coaches and instructors will have to select 32 boys for the state Legion baseball program which goes to a state playoff and finally to a national tournament. "It is the hardest job I've never worked with a nicer bunch of boys, and they all are cooperative, ambitious, and have the right attitude and ability."

It will probably be necessary to have six teams in the league which will begin its regular schedule soon, but so far only four teams. The selection of all the teams will be done at a latter date.

In addition to all the boys, there were many older person helping with the instruction of the players Thursday. Among these were Herman Brown, Sam West, Lee Webb, Cecil Hale, Bobby Williams, and Holmes.

Brown worked with the infielders; West handled the outfielders; and Webb instructed the pitchers.

The meeting yesterday was a long one, and the boys benefitted by the two-hour practice session.

Qualifying Rounds To Start Saturday

Qualifying rounds for the second annual Mayors cup golf tournament at Meadowbrook Publinx will be held Saturday and Sunday, June 11-12, at Meadowbrook, and participants must be paid members of the club for 1949.

Winner for 1948 was Lindsay Telford, who will be unable to defend his championship this year.

A member of the tournament will be at the clubhouse Saturday and Sunday to sign the players up for the tournament. Match play will start Monday and continue through Sunday.

The Championship flight will consist of the eight lowest qualifiers, and thereafter eight persons will make up the other flights. Schedule of matches will be posted at the clubhouse.

Detroit Stops Yankee Surge

(By The Associated Press)

Credit the Detroit Tigers with stopping the New York Yankee cakewalk in the American league.

With fan attention focused on the St. Louis' Cards sizzling spurt in the National, the hustling Tigers have been giving Casey Stengel a rough time.

Stengel's Yanks took a 6-game lead into Detroit after Sunday's split in St. Louis. Now the margin is 3½ and sinking fast. Red Rolfe's Tigers have won eight of their last 10 games.

Three To Detroit

Art Houtteman, a young man who nearly lost his life in a serious auto crash at Lakeland, Fla. in spring trainging time, did the latest job on the Yanks—a six-hit, 9-5, Tiger triumph. It was the Yanks' fourth straight loss, three to Detroit.

Last year Houtteman, the tough luck kid, won only two and lost 16. He dropped his first eight starts. Already he has a 3-1 record for '49 with prospects of a fine season.

With Houtteman, Virgil Trucks (8-3), Hal Newhouser (6-5) and Freddie Hutchinson (3-2) taking a regular turn, the Tigers rate as real pennant contenders.

Hoot Evers, who was shoved over from center field to left to make room for rookie Johnny Groth, was a one-man team yesterday. He banged out a triple, double and three singles for five hits, scored three runs and drove in two more.

A's Closing In

Connie Mack's Philadelphia A's also closed in on the Yanks, securing third place, five games out of first, by edging the Chicago White Sox, 1-0, in 12 innings. Dick-Fowler won a tight duel with Bill Wight on a walk, Luke Appling's two-base error and an infield grounder.

Dick Starr, a non-winner who has lost seven, finally made the victory column, 11-0, as the St. Louis Browns made merry with Ellis Kinder, Chuck Stobbs and Frank Quinn. It was the first shutout thrown by a Brownie pitcher this season and the Red Sox's seventh defeat in their last nine games.

Brooklyn clung to that half game lead in the National by subduing Chicago, 9-5, while both St. Louis and Boston won to remain right on the Dodgers' heels.

Ralph Branca was unable to stand the prosperity of a 9-0 lead. He was knocked out in the eighth when the Cubs scored five times. The Dodgers wrapped it up early with a six-run blast in the second that routed their old jinx, Lefty Johnny Schmitz.

Howie Pollet, back in his 1946 form, whipped the slumping New York Giants with six hits, 4-1, as the Cardinals made it six straight wins and 15 out of 17. Pollet, with five straight victories, might have hurled the third St. Louis shutout of the series sweep but for an unearned run in the sixth following Eddie Kazak's error.

Boston Romps Home

Bob Hall, a Johnny-come-lately in Billy Southworth's starting rotation, turned back Cincinnati with seven hits as Boston romped home with a 10-2 decision. It was Hall's second start and first since May 20.

Bill Salkeld hit the only homer of the game, in fact the only one of the day in the National.

The Phillies squeaked past Pittsburgh, 4-3, in 18 innings, the longest game in the majors since 1946. Del Ennis' single, a double by Andy Seminick and Jack Mayo's fly ball broke it up in the 18th, after Murry Dickson had hurled 11 scoreless relief innings.

Dickson, who has trouble hitting the winner's circle since he was purchased for $125,000 from St. Louis, suffered his ninth loss despite the fine effort. Jim Konstanty shut out the Pirates in the last nine innings to earn his first victory of the year.

Medalist Honors Copped By Student

BEAUMONT, June 10. (AP)—Bert Weaver of Beaumont held medalist honors today as the seventh annual Beaumont country club golf tournament entered match play.

Weaver, a high school student, shot a one-under-par 71 yesterday to capture the medal.

Hot Fight Raging In Longhorn Loop

(By The Associated Press)

The hottest fight in the Longhorn league race is for fourth place and as of today it's a virtual standoff.

These clubs are playing each other and last night Odessa advanced within one percentage point of taking over the spot. The Oilers beat San Angelo 9-7.

Big Spring, the top club, lost to Sweetwater 10-7 but it didn't hurt much. Second-place Vernon divided a double-header with Roswell.

Roswell trimmed Vernon 7-3 in the first game behind the six-hit pitching of Vic Michalec. Three Roswell errors helped Vernon to a 7-4 decision in the nightcap.

Midland beat Ballinger 12-8 in the other game of the evening.

Indiana's state motto is "The Crossroads of America."

Seven Records Due To Fall In Meet

SAN ANTONIO, June 10 (AP)—Seven records are due to fall tonight as more than 100 college, service and high school athletes battle time and distance in the fifth annual South Texas AAU track and field meet.

The tracksters will be seeking trips to the national AAU at Fresno, Calif. June 24-25.

Texas A. and M. is a top favorite to take the team title although the Aggies will be without their weight star, George Kadera, who is out with an injury.

Ray Holbrook in the 400-meter dash, Bob Hall in the 200-meter low hurdles, J. D. Hampton in the 1500-meter run, and the Aggies' 1,600-meter relay quartet should chalk up new standards.

Other records expected to fall are the 800-meter run in which Mike Mercado of East Texas State and Howard Johnson of Trinity university each have reeled off 1:55 times, the 110-meter high hurdles in which August Erfurth of Rice and John Rowland of S. M. U. have both been clocked in 14.1, and the hop, step, and jump in which Jimmy Gerhardt of Rice is one of the nation's top performers.

Darrow Hooper of Fort Worth, holder of the national scholastic shot put record and one of the top discus throwers, will be making his start with the heavier college weights.

Other favorite sinclude S. B. Escoto of Alice in the 5,000-meter run, Paul Faulkner of North Texas State in the pole vault, Luther Fambro of East Texas State in the broad jump, Ray Marek of Texas in the javelin, and Merwin Carter of San Antonio Junior college in the 400-meter hurdles.

Herman Wedemeyer of the Los Angeles Dons had the lowest punt average in the All-American Conference last season—his one kick traveled but ten yards.

Kennedy Paces National Open

CHICAGO, June 10. (AP) — The National Open golf championship looks like a Tom, Dick and Harry tournament after the first round with Les Kennedy, one of the lesser-known pros, pacing the field with a two-under par 69.

Kennedy, 31 years old Pawtucket, R. I. shooter, competing in his first open, posted his top ranking score after touring Medinah's treacherous No. 3 course whose par is 36-35—71.

Five Bracers Par

Only five players broke par yesterday in a field of 162 starters in the 49th open tourney. Seven others matched par over the nearly 7,000 yards of hills and heavy woods.

Kennedy, the red haired Rhode Islander, goes to the post for today's second 18-hole round with a one stroke lead.

Back in 1942, Kennedy was rated with Lew Worsham and Johnny Palmer as the three brightest prospects in golf. The last two went on to grab their share of honors, but Kennedy was banged up in an auto accident in which his wife was killed.

Between The Lines by Joe Kelly

We've never seen a crowd at a Texas Tech football game, a Hubber baseball game, a wrestling match at Sled Allen's arena, or any other athletic event in Lubbock, throw bottles. We recall quite vividly an egg episode at Rosenthal Field last year and we know of innumerable paper clip and paper cups barrages levelled at the wrestling arena. But that's as far as Lubbock fans have gone. It's far enough—too far—but it isn't the same as throwing a good, hard, glass bottle. Now there's a missile that really will hurt and judging from the way the fans react to some of the umpiring seen here this summer, they'd like to hurt some of the umpires.

• • •

At the present time the clubs and other promoters must call on the police to stop any such infractions of law and order. Usually, police officers carry out these requests in good fashion, but sometimes, after ardor has cooled, the culprits escape with little more than a stern lecture. Under the terms of a new bill approved by the legislature yesterday, bottle-throwing at any athletic contest in Texas will be barred by law. The measure was endorsed by Sen. Keith Kelly of Fort Worth (no relation) and would include op bottles, rocks, cushions or other missiles.

• • •

Actually, there is nothing but sense behind the measure. Throwing of any type of missile accomplishes no good and occasionally injures people. Usually the persons injured are innocent bystanders. While it is a method of relieving pent-up enthusiasm, it is enthusiasm that is misplaced. We've never been in favor of fans throwing anything. Most of the time the same people who throw things are afraid to face the person at whom they are throwing. It's an indication of bad grace and bad spoiling at home. It's like people who telephone newspaper offices and raise the roof, but who won't identify themselves. The state would do well to outlaw such practices.

• • •

Another measure that Sen. Kelly introduced will bring a laugh to a lot of people. He proposes the outlawing of the operation of motor boats while the operator is intoxicated. We can't imagine many funnier sights than a police officer in a motor boat trying to chase an intoxicated motor boat driver. Sen. Kelly had best open a race course and station cops on buoys to flag down all intoxicated motor boat operators. If you've ever seen a drunk operating a motor boat, and we never have, you at least can imagine the erratic course he'd pursue. We'd like to have a grandstand seat for such a race.

• • •

It's interesting to note that in 1948, the season that the Hubbers wound up in third place and the Shaughnessy Playoffs, that the Hubbers had a record of 24 games won and 21 games lost on June 6. It's most interesting, since the Hubbers of 1949, on June 6, had a record of 22 games won and 23 lost. Not only that, but the Hubbers had come back from a trip to New Mexico on which they had lost seven of nine games. Actually, then, this year's team and last year's are running pretty even. The 1948 Hubbers Pampa here and then lost six on the road to Lamesa and Abilene. The 1949 Hubbers already have done better than that on the current trip.

• • •

That double victory last night didn't hurt the Hubbers any. They now have opened a gap of two and a half games between themselves and Lamesa and could widen it further tonight. If you remember, last year they had a dog fight for fourth place, finally breaking into it and opening up a wide margin over Borger. They then sneaked ahead of Pampa and opened a margin there. It looks as though they might be doing the same thing this year. They are only five games out of first place, two out of third and a game and a half out of fourth. Should they take two out of three from Abilene, they'd be in good shape. Even so, the nine-game home stand should help them a lot.

• • •

Paul Jones, Meadowbrook pro, was in last night to tell us about the fine water hazard they now have at Meadowbrook. Seems Paul was out working on the greens Thursday morning when he suddenly noticed water beginning to trickle through the ravine that runs through the course. As he watched, the stream got bigger and bigger. He checked the greens and found that there was no water on any of them, although it came within 15 feet of rising onto No. 16. With the rain last night, Meadowbrook ought to have some of the finest natural hazards for the next few days of any course in this area.

• • •

THE ROUNDUP: Three Hubbers, Jackie Sullivan, Bo Dempsey and Al Duarte, each got his eighth double of the season in the second game last night . . . Lamesa has shipped Pitcher Lawrence Williams to Brownsville . . . Jim Sinovick was released by Clovis and caught on with Lamesa . . . Albuquerque sent Dick Dawson to Sweetwater, a club that is having troubles this year . . . Bob Crues is certain that he won't be brought up from Roswell, just bought by the Borger Gasser management, to play for Borger . . . Paul Hinrichs hurled in relief for Kansas City night before last, did all right . . . Charles Galey allegedly got the brush-off from Coach Jack Gray at Texas, is now reported headed for SMU . . . After the Albuquerque trip it cost the Hubbers $512 to get the bus fixed. Rough country.

Dallas Eagles Stretch Lead

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The Dallas Eagles are as tantalizing as a well-fed fish that just nibbles at your line for the sake of something to do.

When it seems you have them they ease away. It's been like that for weeks now.

Last night the performance was repeated. Shreveport was only a half game behind front-running Dallas in the Texas league race. But what happens? Dallas turns on San Antonio, 3-2, and Shreveport falls before Oklahoma City, 3-0.

Only Four Hits

Dallas got only four hits off Earl Reid but they were just right. The winning tally came in the sixth when Roy Easterwood doubled Ralph Rahmes home.

Oklahoma City got three runs in the tenth to beat Shreveport, breaking up a fine pitching duel between Howie Auman of the Sports and Tom Reis of Oklahoma City. The Indians pounded out 11 hits, three of them bunched in that tenth frame.

Lou Oritz was the hero in Houston's victory over Fort Worth. He homered in the last of the tighth for the only run. Joe Landrum gave Houston only four hits while Clarence Beers held the Cats to five.

Beaumont clouted a trio of Tulsa pitchers for 17 hits in licking the Oilers 12-3. Jim Schneible hurled shut-out ball for seven and two-thirds innings after relieving Ernie Nevel.

Race In East Texas Becoming Crowded

(By The Associated Press)

It's getting pretty crowded around the top in the East Texas league race.

There's only a two-game spread between leading Marshall and fourth-place Gladewater.

Last night Longview pulled within a half-game of Marshall by strapping Tyler 10-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Joe Pate. The Texans got 18 hits of their own.

Marshall lost to cellar-dwelling Henderson 8-4. Rusty Walters hurled four-hit ball until the ninth when Manager George Milstead relieved him to get the Marshall left-handed batters out.

Third-place Kilgore drew within a game of Marshall by edging past Paris 3-1. Kilgore took the lead in the sixth when Joe Kracher singled in Merv Connors and Paris never could catch up.

Gladewater beat Bryan 3-1. A two-run error by John Bruzga allowed the Bears to win the game. John Shell gave Gladewater only three hits.

Eddie Dyer Scoffs At Report Cards Are Tossing Beanballs

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 10—The so-called "feud" between the high-flying St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants, among others, simmered down today to a tepid tempest in a teapot as Manager Eddie Dyer scorned reports that his Redbird pitchers were throwing bean balls.

The storm center of this newest dusting episode concerning the charging Cards involved chunky Sid Gordon, the Giant third baseman.

"I've been knocked down quite a few times this season," Gordon said. "But no club in particular. They're all getting into the act."

Just All Accidental

Dyer labeled such near beaning as accidental and insisted:

"Never have I ordered a pitcher to throw at a batter—and I don't believe any other manager in the big leagues ever has."

The first such charges leveled against the Cardinals came when southpaw Ken Johnson hit Stan Rojek of the Pirates on the head.

Dyer intimated that his big left hander was just about the wildest man in baseball when it came to directing accurately the destiny of any given pitch.

"If Ken guarantees to throw at my head I'll stand up there at the plate all day with extreme confidence that he'll never hit me there," Dyer laughed. "He'd never hit it. The pitch would more likely be a strike, but over the plate."

The genial Texan who directs the Cardinals also scoffed at reports that the Cardinal bench was so carried away by its jockeying during the last Giant trip to St. Louis that it even rode Gordon about his religion. That particular bit of back shed banter was laid to Coach Tony Kaufmann.

"I know it isn't so," dyer drawled. "Tony has nothing but the highest regard for Sid and has known him a long time, because he was managing in the Three-Eye league when Gordon came up."

Dyer went on to show his personal esteem for Gordon by adding that he would like to have the hard-hitting infielder on his club.

"Before that is misinterpreted, I'd better explain that what I mean is that I would like to have a player like Gordon," Dyer grinned. "He may not be so fast on the bases but he can really hit and throw that ball.

"I'd take a player like him and, believe me, I wouldn't care what his religion was."

He's Plenty Satisfied

At the moment, though, Dyer is plenty satisfied with his ball club just as it is, the Cards having won 15 of their last 17.

"What made the difference in the way we've been playing?" Eddie asked. "Well, it's just that a couple of pros have started playing like pros.

"That would mean Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter," he explained. "Stan has really started to hit the ball hard. And, while Slaughter's average was good before, he wasn't hitting the ball hard. They both are now, and that's a big part of the difference."

With the club hitting on all cylinders, Dyer naturally doesn't want to get involved in "feuds" and have everybody taking dead aim at the Cards. But he speaks with complete sincerity when he denies that his pitchers are throwing the dangerous bean ball—and the best proof is that, the way the club is gaing, it doesn't have to use such measures.

Modern West Conquers Old In Vast California Multi-Million Dollar Cattle And Oil Company

By RALPH DIGHTON
Associated Press Staff Writer

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., June 10 Picture in your mind, if you can, a place where:

Cowhands live in modernistic bunkhouses.

Where the Old West in the form of Longhorn steers rubs shoulders with the New West as represented by oil derricks.

It sounds like something you'd see in a movie, except that even the brashest film writer wouldn't have the courage to throw such a situation at his public. But you can go 100 miles north of Hollywood and find it in real life, here at Bakersfield, capital of a vast cattle and oil empire known as The Kern County Land Co.

Interests In Four States

The Kern County Land Co. stretches across four states. It holds more than two million acres in California, Arizona, New Mexico and Oregon. Originally a cattle, outfit, it now gets most of its money from oil brought in on its vast properties by virtually every major oil company in the United States.

Although it still owns 56,000 head of cattle, earnings from oil now account for 88 percent of the company's net 1948 income, before taxes, of $15,500,000

(The fabulous King ranch of Texas, often called the biggest beef-producing ranch in the world, comprises 914,000 acres or 1,428 square miles—an area bigger than Rhode Island—split into five major divisions in eight south Texas counties. The ranch has 500 employes, 75,000 beef cattle, and ships about 20,000 head of cattle to market annually.

Larger Than King Ranch

(A tightly controlled family corporation headed by Robert Justus Kleberg and former congressman Richard Kleberg, the King ranch annually grosses from three to four million dollars in beef and breeding cattle sales, plus extensive royalties from about 400 producing oil wells, to earn an estimated income of about a million dollars a year net before taxes.)

Because of its size, the Kern County Land Co., is a study in contrasts. It's quite a sight to see Maj. John B. Fremor-Hesketh of Easton-Neston, Towcester, Northhamptonshire, England, leaning against a corral conversing with high-booted, dust-caked Cathrino Reese, who at 69 is still one of the ablest cowpokes in these parts.

Hesketh is a director of the company. He also owns one of the few large estates left in England, some 16,000 acres. Hesketh spends several months a year surveying his interests in this country, much of the time in a addle.

Began Work In 1896

Reese, who has been working for the company since 1896, has his own accent and his own traditions, inherited from the Old West. One such tradition is that a man says as little as possible, and that softly.

The history of this little-known company began in the 1870s, when J. B. Haggin and Lloyd Tevis began acquiring cattle land in the San Joaquin Valley. In 1890 they incorporated their holdings into the Kern County Land Co.

They also bought land in Arizona, New Mexico and Oregon. Their plan was to maintain large breeding herds on those semi-desert ranches and send the weanlings to Bakersfield for fattening. This practice is still followed and the company annually markets 18,000 head.

Descendants Are Directors

Only three descendants, one of whom is Hesketh, are still connected with the company. Hesketh is a Tevis descendant. Louis Lee Haggin II, Versailles, Ky., and John M. Preston, San Mateo, Calif., spring from Haggin stock. All three are directors.

Around Bakersfield the company owns some 400,000 acres of cattle, farming and oil land. It has two blocks in New Mexico totaling 750,000 acres—one southwest of Deming and the other near Hot Springs.

In Arizona, the company owns 111,000 acres near Tucson and 600,000 north of Prescott. North of Lakeview, Ore., it owns a 142,000 acre tract. All the land outside of California is devoted to cattle.

The company, which speaks of land by townships (23,000 acres) rather than acres, has never attempted to appraise the value of the land it owns.

10,000 Stockholders

Currently there are some 10,000 stockholders holding two million shares of the $5-par stock, which is selling for about $40 a share.

No one person holds a majority of stock, nor do the three Tevis and Haggin descendants own enough collectively to control the company, says Thomas J. Davis, jr., assistant to president John T. Pigott of San Francisco.

"In an operation of this size," says Davis, "There is always the question, 'Is bigness badness?'

"We don't think so. The company gets more cattle, potatoes and other crops to market than smaller operators could on the same land.

"A big-scale operation such as this is better for the community and for the land itself. We have created jobs, we have improved the land and brought water into arid country through some 300 miles of canals."

Everything Modern

Signs of the times can be noticed in various activities of the company. Time clocks have been installed on the hugh tractors and earthmovers.

Carl Melcher can sit in his air-conditioned office in Bakersfield and tell by glancing at a time clock record sheet how many hours cat-skinner George Chamberlin worked last week. He can even tell whether the tractor was actually moving dirt, or whether it just had its engine running.

Out on the range cowboys no longer make the long, spectacular, beef-consuming drives of yesteryear. The company has found it is cheaper to haul the cows around in diesel-powered trucks. Cattle stay plumper that way.

Even the old wooder bunkhouse, famed in movie and song, is vanishing. In its place is rising a barracks-like building with a separate room for each cowpoke—modern as next month's issue of an architect's magazine.

Frankly, the old-time cowboy doesn't think much of his new home. Who can sleep in a room where he can't hear the other guys snore?

Daily MARKETS

Stock Market

REACHES NEW LEVEL

NEW YORK, June 10. (AP)—Light selling breezes carried the stock market to the lowest level in two years today.

Final prices were down fractions to around two points.

Among the losers were Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Standard Oil (NJ), Gulf Oil, United Air Lines, Southern California Edison, Anaconda Copper, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Philip Morris, Radio Corp., Rubber, General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Steel, and Bethlehem Steel.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 10. (AP)—Cotton futures were irregular today on increased profit taking and hedging. Evening-up operations in nearby July dominated the market with that month holding independently firm. Urgent covering met only scale-up offerings, reflecting tightness in free market supplies of spot cotton due to the fact that some 4,000,000 bales, or more than half of the current supply are held in the government loan. A leading spot firm sold about 15,000 bales of nearby July on the scale-up.

Futures closed 35 cents a bale higher to 20 cents lower than the previous close.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, June 10. (AP)—Wheat held firm while feed grains slumped on the board of trade today. Buying of wheat by mills helped that grain, and an advance in cash prices plus more unwanted rains in the southwest spurred along the upturn.

Wheat closed ⅝-¾ higher, July $1.94⅛-⅜, corn was ⅛-1¼ lower, July $1.31¼-⅜, oats were 1⅛-1¼ lower, July 58⅝.

Brannan says farm buying power is like the "catalysts" you learned about in high school chemistry. A catalyst speeds up a chemical process.

"Farm buying power seems to have a similar effect in our present economic system," he said in an interview.

He says it might seem to be an advantage to a city housewife if she could buy eggs at 25 cents a dozen, pork chops at 30 cents a pound or five pounds of potatoes for 10 cents.

But he adds that if 5,500,000 farm families can't buy automobiles, fertilizer or furniture, factories have to slow down and city workers are laid off.

By The Set Of His Hat Is Man Known

LONDON, June 10. (AP)—A man gives himself away by the set of his hat, the trade journal "Men's Wear" said today.

It provided these clues:

"A hat dead straight on the head shows lack of imagination.

"Too much on the back of the head suggests the yokel.

Area Weather

Amarillo Above Average

The agency said the downstate harvest was about 80 per cent complete in Young county, 50 per cent in Coleman county and about 25 to 35 per cent complete in Runnels and Jones counties.

The harvest was five to 10 per cent complete in Taylor, Nolan and Fisher counties: 10 to 15 per cent in Hardeman and Cottle counties, 16 per cent in Dallas county and five per cent in Collin county.

Just to show what kind of a year it's been in the Panhandle—Amarillo had 13.22 inches of rain for the year up to 6 p. m. Thursday. The average fall for the entire year is 7.67. inches.

The damage of the past few days will not be to severe in the over-all picture, said W. N. Williamson, district extension service agent for the South Plains.

"The storms appeared to be pinpointed," he explained. "The areas that were hit were hit hard."

Damage Estimate Hiked

On the basis of incomplete reports from county agents, Williamson thought his previous estimates of 200,000 acres of crop damage might be enlarged to 300,000 acres.

Figuring cost of replanting at $2.50 an acre, a money loss of $500,000 has been suffered in the past two or three days.

Some of the damage to crops was caused by winds and insect, although most of it was from rain and hail, Williamson explained.

Wheat losses, while heavy, were not catastrophic. Homer Steen, editor of the Floyd County Hesperian, estimated 500,000 bushels of wheat had been lost in the last week in that county, but a harvest of 4,000,000 bushels was still expected.

Similar reports, on a smaller scale, came from Crosby, Briscoe and Hale counties.

Wheat Loss Cited

Kennedy N. Clapp, longtime South Plains cotton observer, said he thought recent storms would have little effect on total cotton acreage in the area.

"What's washed out, we won't know for a few days. But most farmers will replant through June 20, the normal deadline for planting.

"Farmers who normally would turn to grain sorghum at this time of year are more likely to replant cotton because of the lack of grain storage space. I believe that the South Plains will be a little short of 3,000,000 acres, but not very short.

Leo White of Silverton, Brisco county agent, estimated three to four per cent loss of the county's total wheat acreage of 80,000 acres within the past few days.

Hale county Agent Manuel Ayers said he thought wheat damage was relatively minor there. He said there are some 6,000 acres of wheat on which damage was estimated to range from 20 to 60 per cent.

W. R. Kimbrough, Crosby county agent, estimated approximately 2,000 acres of wheat in the county had been severely damaged by hail this week, and that a large number of additional acres had been blown over. Crosby has 55,000 acres of wheat this year.

Sentence Suspended In Criminal Attack

PLAINVIEW, June 10. (Special) Leroy Boyd, of Abernathy, charged with rape in Hale county on Aug. 17, 1947, Thursday night was found guilty by a 65th District court jury and given a five year suspended sentence.

The jury returned its verdict at 9:50 p. m. with a recommendation that the sentence be suspended. Boyd informed the court through his attorney that he would accept sentence and was immediately sentenced by Special Judge Charles Clements, of Plainview, who occupied the bench in place of District Judge C. D. Russell.

Boyd had faced trial last year on the charge but a hung jury resulted and a new trial was ordered. W. A. Jackson, in a companion case, was given a 10 year sentence Dec. 20 here.

Officers Are Elected By Sales Executives

They are: President, Frank Phillips; vice president, Sam Leifeste; secretary-treasurer, Orville Stewart.

Those present were Phillips, Stewart and Cecil Kelsey, who were elected new directors at a recent meeting of the club; K. D. (Dinty) Moore, re-elected to the board at the last meeting; W. D. Rogers and James Gunn, who continued terms as board members; J. P. Watt, outgoing president, who will serve on the board two years, and John Hayes and John Robertson, outgoing directors.

NO STORAGE SPACE CAUSED THIS—At Fargo, Texas, a community just north of Vernon, farmers faced with a shortage of storage space for their wheat harvest, are dumping it on the ground. Farmers in this area are rushing to complete granaries for storage of the precious grain, in hopes that the price will not drop any further. (NEA Telephoto).

'Prosperity' On Bowery May Be Sign That Harder Times Are Just Around The Corner

NEW YORK, June 10. (U.P.) — "Prosperity" has hit the Bowery which may be a sign that harder times are just around the corner.

With unemployment on the rise, the "Boulevard of Broken Men" was filling up again and the "horse markets," or restaurants, the "smoke shops" or saloons, and the flophouses were doing a booming business.

Harry Baronian, editor of the Bowery News and a long-time crusader in behalf of the flotsam of flophouse row, estimated that the population of the lowest part of New York's lower East Side has risen 20 to 40 percent since the war years.

The city lodging houses which during the war sheltered only a handful of men now handle about 2,000 down-and-outers a night. The commercial flop houses report a similar increase.

Prices Too High

"The heart breaking thing about it for the men, themselves," said Baronian, "is the prices!"

"You can't get a decent meal in the horse markets for less than 50 cents," he said. "It's put a real squeeze on the 'bo."

The privately owned flophouses have raised prices, too. The prevailing price for normal accommodations—a bunk a little else—runs between 35 and 45 cents—up about 10 to 15 cents.

"But that's the 'Waldorf-Astoria' of the Bowery," Baronian said.

To make matters worse, Baronian said, a "bunch of uptown boys" have introduced tipping to get quarters in the flophouses. The real Bowery boys, he said, "just haven't got that kind of dough."

committee, said he would not be surprised to see the committee make a "big cut" in the funds and then spread them over 12 months.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) said there is "nothing sacred" about the foreign aid funds when the United States is facing a deficit in its own budget.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) had no comment on the situation but he is understood to feel it would be a "calamity" to lose Hoffman. He has been a strong admirer of Hoffman's work.

Rumors have been floating around Washington that Hoffman might resign after getting the European recovery program started on its second year.

But he left no doubt that he will quit immediately if there is any substantial cut in the ECA money. He said he would step out and turn over the job to someone who thought he could do it.

Drive Is Urged For Last Days Of Rodeo

With Boys' Club rodeo receipts now totalling $15,700 President George Dale urged American Business Club members to greater efforts at the luncheon meeting in the Hilton hotel today.

"With only two more performances, tonight and Saturday night, we must do everything we can to sell more tickets," Dale said "The weather slipped us a low blow and the fear of tornadoes has made many people stay at home when clouds threaten. I believe we will have better weather for the last two nights."

Various committee chairmen reported on problems that faced them in crowd handling, ticket taking, parking, seating and program selling. Members made suggestions for improving or easing these tasks.

Ray Lacklin, rodeo announcer, and eight of the attractive girl riders from the show were special guests of the ABC.

One of the vendors was fined $10 and the other three face court hearings next Wednesday.

Next a wararnt was sworn out against the proprietors of one of Pine Bluff's largest retail grocery stores.

Then the attorneys moved in on organized baseball. Zebold said next Sunday's game scheduled here between the Pine Bluff Cardinals and the Helena Seaporters of the Cotton States league would be the next battleground.

Warrants will be served on the managers of the teams, he said, and on the spectators as well.

Other warrants have been issued against K. C. Parsons, sr., manager of the Oakland Park swimming pool and zoo, a favorite Sunday spot, and Paul A. Scrimmage, manager of park concessions.

One reformer said it might even be necessary to bring action against "choir singers and organists in the church."

L. J. Leath, one of the bakery operators who was fined $25 for staying open on Sunday, explained it this way:

"Where I work, I'm not allowed to work on Sunday to make a decent living, and I don't see why anyone else should."

Tragedy Strikes Twice In Month

ABILENE, June 10. (Special)—Tragedy has struck for the second time this month in the home of an Abilene family.

E. C. Jackson, a victim of cancer, died early today, after a lengthy illness during which his weight dropped from 150 to 50 pounds.

On June 2, his wife had died of a heart attack while keeping a vigil at his bedside.

A double funeral service was held Saturday for Mrs. Jackson and a son, Pvt. Talmadge H. Jackson, whose body had been returned to Abilene for reburial after his death overseas in World War II.

Services for Mr. Jackson are scheduled for 3 p. m. Saturday in Abilene.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McDonald, Lubbock relatives of the Jackson family, left today to attend services. McDonald, of 3517 Twenty-ninth, was a brother of Mrs. Jackson.

I am quite sure that this is the reason he does not want some of these fantastic proposals to be brought up for serious consideration and analysis in Congress.

"I am also convinced, however, that he is laboring under the delusion that he can sell the same gold brick twice to the same person. Personally, I do not believe he can. We will have a test on that issue in the congressional elections next year."

Cain said that "this all must add up to something. It does. It adds up to the necessity—the absolute necessity, in my opinion—for us to elect a Republican Congress next year."

Funeral Briefs

Funeral services for Herman J. Verkamp, 78, retired Slaton farmer who died Tuesday in Mercy hospital, will be held at 9 a. m. Saturday in St. Joseph's Catholic church of Slaton. Rev. T. D. O'Brien will officiate. Burial is to be in Englewood cemetery, under direction of Williams Funeral home of Slaton.

Funeral rites for Mrs. D. F. Jackson, 47, of Spur, who died early Thursday in Lubbock, will be held at 3:30 p. m. Saturday in Dickens Baptist church. Rev. C. B. Stonecipher, pastor, will officiate, assisted by Rev. H. L. Burnham, retired Baptist minister. Chandler Funeral home of Spur is to direct burial in Dickens cemetery.

Funeral services for G. T. Pierce, 73, long-time Post resident, were to be held at 4:30 p. m. today in Calvary Baptist church of Post. Rev. D. L. Jones, pastor, was to officiate, assisted by Rev. M. C. Rains, pastor of the Post Assembly of God church. Hudman Funeral home of Post was to direct burial in Terrace cemetery.

Last rites for Clark W. Abbott, about 53, former Lubbock resident who died late Wednesday in Pawhuska, Okla., will be conducted at 11 a. m. Saturday in Smith-Kernke Funeral home chapel, Oklahoma City. Burial will be in Davis, Okla. Abbott managed the Lindsey theaters in Lubbock until his retirement because of failing health, in December, 1948.

Judgment was on file this morning forfeiting two of three recently seized marble machine to Lubbock county and ordering the third and its coins delivered to Eddie DeLavan, from whom it had been taken. Judge Dan Blair of the 72nd district found in a Thursday hearing that two of the machines were gambling paraphernalia, but that the other was not "at the time of its seizure being used as a gambling table." Action of the forfeited machines awaits action of the county commissioners court, as prescribed by Judge Blair. The action was brought by Sheriff Grady Harrist as plaintiff.

Approximately 35 paintings by Harold Gore are being shown in an art exhibit at Lattimore's, 1706 Broadway. They will remain on exhibit through Saturday. They include western scenes, portraits, florals, and landscapes.

Three judgments were filed this morning by County Judge Walter Davies. Willie B. Holland, 20, a negro, was fined $25, court costs and sent to jail 10 days for theft. Elvin Lee Caraway, jr., 29, of Spur, was fined $75 and costs on a drunk driving complaint. His operator's license was suspended six months. Jack Tillory, 34, of Dallas was fined $50 and costs on a check law violation charge.

Election and installation of officers of the new Levelland chapter of the Disabled American Veterans is scheduled at 8 o'clock tonight at a meeting in the Hockley county courthouse. Three Lubbock DAV officials, Robert L. Fullen, Robert Pugh and Thomas O. Harrell, will attend the Levelland meeting.

Killer Under Fourth Sentence Waits For

WALLA WALLA, Wash., June 10 (U.P.) — Jake Bird, 47-year-old negro convicted axe-slayer now under his fourth sentence of execution, sat in the death row today, waiting for his seventh "hex" to strike.

Bird placed the hex, which has struck down six of the prosecuting staff of his murder trial, after hearing Pierce county Judge Hugh J. Rossellini set his date of execution for July 15.

The eloquent murderer, whose legal bag of tricks three times has won him stays from the gallows steps, sported a new grey hat at his sentencing yesterday. A reporter at the court asked him where he got the hat.

'None Of Your Business'

"It's none of your business," snapped Bird, chewing despondently on a stub cigar

The newsman then asked the convicted murderer if he wanted to say anything "because you have not got long to live"

"You ain't gonna live so long yourself," Bird replied

Six persons connected with Bird's prosecution for the slaying of Mrs. Bertha Kludt, Tacoma, more than 18 months ago, have died unexpectedly since hearing the negro say:

"You'll get to the pearly gates before I arrive there."

Local Youth Hurt In Car-Scooter Mishap

Clinton Hicks, 15, son of Mrs. Bernice Hicks of Lubbock route 7, today was reported "much improved" in condition in St. Mary's hospital, where he is being treated for superficial injuries suffered Thursday afternoon when his motor scooter was struck by a car at Twenty-second and Ave. S.

The motor scooter was going east on Twenty-second street when it was struck in the intersection by a car approaching from the south on Ave. S. The car was driven by Van D. Daniel, 14, of 2017 Thirty-seventh, police reports showed.

The car had skidded approximately 75 feet before the impact, police investigators said, and struck the scooter as the smaller vericle was almost ready to leave the intersection. The driver of the car was given tickets charging negligent collision and having no operator's license, police indicated.

Rites Set Saturday For Littlefield Man

LITTLEFIELD, June 10 (Special) — Funeral services for Joseph H. Williams, 76, of Littlefield, will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday in the First Baptist church.

Rev. Lee Hemphill is to officiate.

Burial will be in Littlefield cemetery, under direction of Rix Funeral home of Lubbock.

Williams, a retired farmer, died late Thursday in Lamb County Memorial hospital. He had lived in Littlefield the last 10 years.

Survivors include the wife; three daughters, Mrs. R. H. Park of Amarillo, Mrs. Fred Cornebise of Brownfield and Mrs. C. W. Wrenn of San Dioge, Marvin Williams of Groom and Clyde Williams of Amarillo; 32 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

Long-Closed International Art Show To Reopen In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, June 9 (U.P.) — The world of contemporary art turns its attention to the steel city next year for the reopening of the Pittsburgh International Exhibition, producer of great names in oil painting.

The 53-year-old International, only annual inter-continental art show in the world, has been out of existence since 1939 because of the war and lack of funds. Its revival in the fall of 1950 and productions the following two years are to be financed by a $225,000 grant from the A. W. Melton Educational and Charitable Trust.

Formerly called the Carnegie International, the exhibition now is known as the Pittsburgh International, the backers apparently theorizing that a "civic" venture would be more apt to draw public support than one bearing an individual's name.

Controversy Expected

If precedent keeps its hold, the International, held at the Carnegie Institute, once again will foment public controversy over what's art and what isn't. And the throngs will come from far and wide to view the disputed works.

One of the outstanding wrangles came in 1931 when Franklin C. Watkins of Philadelphia won first prize and shocked many an art fancier with his "Suicide in Costume," showing a blood-smeared clown draped over a table, gun in hand.

"It was rather distorted, strangely horrifying and not at all literal," recalls Homer Saint-Gaudens, who will retire at 70 next year after collecting the entries and directing the International since 1922.

Saint-Gaudens says the normal public is slow to swing to the new trends of the professional painters, but eventually comes around.

When the painter began to emphasize refinements of color and design and placed less emphasis on literal interpretation, the public didn't know what it was all about, Saint-Gaudens said.

"The artist is too many jumps ahead. Hence the battle."

Big Names Listed

Saint-Gaudens, who calls the International "the world's most important boiling pot of contemporary painting," said that among the leading foreign painters expected to enter the 1950 International are Augustus John of England; Henri Matisse, France; Felice Carena, Italy, and Karl Hofer, Germany.

Saint-Gaudens said he will attempt to assemble a six-member jury comprising three Europeans and three Americans.

"Two will represent a freely interpreting sample of academic painting," he said, "two will represent the best of the accepted school of abstract, and two will be in between."

Entries will be limited to about 350. About one-third will be American works, one-third from England and France, and the remainder from the other countries of Europe.

Oil Fortune Heir Sued For Divorce

OAKLAND, Calif., June 10. (AP)—The fourth woman in Johnny Ochsner's life has sued the 22-year-old Kettleman Hills oil fortune heir for divorce.

The former Mildred Scott, who in 1947 married Johnny twice—in Tiajuana, Mexico, and again in Carson City, Nev.—wants custody of their two children and a "reasonable amount of alimony."

She said the Oakland man caused her "grievous bodily harm."

She didn't say anything about the $2,332,000 Johnny was supposed to get when he was 21 from the estate of the late Washington Henry Ochsner, Stanford university geologist. He discovered the Kettleman Hills oil field. She just said her husband had an income of $500 a month and "a bank account."

Johnny, as a sailor shortly after the war, was trailed to Honolulu by a stowaway Oakland taxi dancer, who said she wanted to marry him. A 15-year-old Honolulu usherette stowed away and followed him back to the mainland. In 1946 he married Beth Gailey Foley of Ogden, Utah, but that marriage was annulled.

Hudson Company Is Resuming Operations

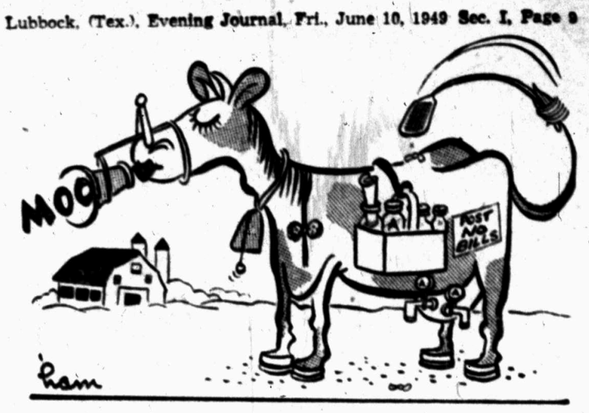

DETROIT, June 10. (AP)—After a third interruption within the week, the Hudson Motor Car Co. resumed operations today.

Hudson yesterday laid off $15,000 men for the day because of what it called a "wildcat" strike by a few assembly workers.

On Monday and Wednesday there had been similar incidents at the factory.

A company spokesman said the strikers had offered no grievance.

Claude Bland, president of Hudson local 154, CIO United Auto workers, said the men complained because management refused to negotiate over retiming of operations.

Cow Described As "Six-Sided Mammal With Horns" By Youth

CHICAGO, June 10 (AP)—A ten-year-old unidentified lad's natural history observation appears in the May issue of the Chicago Natural History Bulletin.

Quoted by Sir Ernest Gowers in his book, "Plain Words," it is termed a gem for originality. The book on writing was prepared for the guidance of British civil servants.

Owl Is Described

The student of natural history titled his essay "A Bird and a Beast." Here is what he wrote:

"The bird that I am going to write about is the owl. The owl cannot see at all by day and at night is as blind as a bat.

"I do not know much about the owl, so I will go to the beast which I am going to choose. It is the cow. The cow is a mammal. It has six sides — right, left, and upper and below. At the back it has a tail on which hangs a brush. With this it sends the flies away so that they do not fall into the milk.

Boy Gets "A"

"The head is for the purpose of growing horn and so that the mouth can be somewhere. The horns are to butt with and the mouth is too moo with. Under the cow hangs the milk. It is arranged for milking. When people milk, the milk comes and there is never any end to the supply. How the cow does it I have not realized, but it makes more and more. The cow has a fine sense of smell; one can smell it far away. This is the reason for the fresh air in the country.

"The man cow is called an ox. It is not a mammal. The cow does not each much, but what it eats it eats twice, so that it gets enough. When it is hungry it moos, and when it says nothing it is beause its inside is full up with grass."

Sir Ernest gives the boy an "A" for style.

The practice of placing a brand mark on goods is as old as civilization. Earliest excavations show paving brick with markings of the manufacturer and that of the slave who did the work.

Production Of Food Is Japan's Main Problem, Militarists Say

By ERNEST HOBERECHT
United Press Staff Writer

TOKYO, June 10 (U.P.) — Food production is the most pressing single problem in Japan today, one of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's key advisers told the United Press in an interview.

"This is a nation of so many people on so little land," said Lt. Col. Hubert G. Schenck, chief of Gen. MacArthur's natural resource section. "Current yields from the 15,000,000 acres under cultivation are not sufficient to feed the population of nearly 80,000,000 and in all likelihood never will be."

He said that although Japan may succeed, by increasing both yields and acreages, in producing a bare subsistence requirement, he can see no escape from the conclusion it always will be necessary to import food. He said that is particularly true "in the light of the net increase in population of more than 1,000,000 per year."

U. S. Taxpayers Hit

Schenck said he believed that any increase in Japanese domestic food production would be of interest to the American taxpayers, since they now are paying millions of dollars a year to feed the country.

He added that it should be of interest to other countries who also have had to look outside their own boundaries for food and compete with Japanese for the small amount of surplus food that is available on the market.

"The fertility of Japanese soils, the shortage of fertilizers, the scarcity of unused arable land, and plant diseases are the major obstacles to increased food production," Shenck continued.

"Before World War II, Japan was one of the world's largest consumers of commercial fertilizers both in amount per unit area and in total tonnage, and practically all the phosphate and potash fertilizer used was imported.

"The addition of reclaimed land to the total cultivated area and the steady growth of population make present future fertilizer requirements greater than those of prewar years."

Land Reclaimed

Schenck said that although the Japanese have long recognized land reclamation as an important means of expanding cultivated acreage, past reclamation programs have been ill conceived and managed. He noted that at the beginning of the occupation, American agricultural specialists reviewed the reclamation program of the Japanese government and recommended revisions of certain plans and practices.

"Reclamation projects already have added about 770,000 acres of arable land to the cultivated acreage; improvements projects have added 250,000 acres more," he said. "In addition to the land reclaimed for agriculture, Japan has about 3,000,000 acres of uncultivated, non-forested slopes which are being investigated as possible pasture and forage lands for livestock."

National land-use programs and better planning for future production, Schenck said, urgently are needed in Japan to insure maximum agricultural and forest returns.

Prof Goes To War With Water Guns

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 10 (U.P.) In the spring, strange things seem to happen on university campuses.

The water gun made its appearance at the University of Missouri.

There was even a battle royal in one classroom in the engineering school. The professor ordered his students to "check in" their guns.

Only three complied. The professor, Ralph L. Scorah, picked up his papers and left for a few minutes. Then he returned wearing a raincoat and armed with three loaded water pistols.

He stood off the class until all guns were empty.

Geologist Says Pay Dirt At 5,500 Feet

Aussies, On Lookout For Oil, Think They've Finally Got It

PERTH, Australia, June 10 (U.P.) Impressed by expert American analysis of rock structure in the Cape Range area of western Australia, an Australian oil firm will begin deep drilling in quest of oil early next year.

W. G. Walkley, of Ampol Petroleum Ltd., predicted oil sand at 5,500 feet and said drilling would go to 10,000 feet.

He said geologists had compared the rock structures on the barren desert coast 1,000 miles north of Perth with the Asmari Mountain, biggest oil producer in Iraq.

Australia, has not yet struck oil. In the commonwealth's most intensive hunt for oil, companies are spending $8,000,000 in Papua and New Guinea and sinking a 12,000-foot shaft in Queensland.

Only one American geologist now remains in Australia at the site. Eric K. Craig, consulting geologist from California who has had 20 years experience with Shell Oil (American), is there with three Australian geologists and a staff of six assistants.

Paul H. Dudley, consulting engineer of Long Beach, Calif., and Frank Morgan, vice president of the Richfield Oil Corp of Los Angeles, who carried out the preliminary aerial survey, are back in America.

Dr. Mason L. Hill, chief geologist of Richfield Oil, reported before he left Australia that the western Australian rock structures "would have been drilled years ago if they were situated in west Texas."

He said, "They're text book structures."

Walkley said the area is an anticline (inverted bowl) structure of the Cretaceous period of an estimated 60,000,000 years ago.

"We've been carrying out survey work for three years in this area, he said.

"It will cost $3,000,000 to prove there is oil in the area."

Planes at present are supplying the dozen-odd men on the site with food and mail, a company official said. Their nearest neighbor in the desolate thousands of square miles is a lonely lighthouse keeper, 50 miles away.

The homesteads of a few cattle stations in the vicinity lie 60 and more miles apart.

House Prepares For Big Fight Over Anti-Poll Tax Legislation

WASHINGTON, June 10. (AP)—An early House test shaped up today on anti-poll tax legislation, a major part of President Truman's civil rights program.

Shelved yesterday by a House administration subcommittee, the measure apparently has a good chance to be salvaged when it goes before the full 21-member group next Wednesday. The subcommittee had suggested further study of proposals to abolish poll taxes by constitutional amendment.

President Truman told his news conference yesterday that such proposals are just intended to prolong the agony.

Hampers Southern Voting

The bill set aside by the subcommittee would make it unlawful to require a voter to pay a poll tax before he could cast a ballot for federal officers. The bill's advocates contend such a requirement in some Southern States makes it almost impossible for negroes and poor white citizens to vote.

Chairman Norton (D-NJ) of the administration committee predicted approval of the bill next Wednesday. She has been a leading advocate of poll tax repeal, which was requested by Mr. Truman and endorsed by both the Republican and Democratic national conventions of 1948.

Supporters of repeal bills said they are "sure" of at least 10 of the 21 committee votes and are confident they can pick up at least one other from among four members listed as "doubtful."

Filibuster Traditional

If their claims are accurate, the committee will set a repeal bill on its way to the House floor next week.

Several times in the past, the House has voted to outlaw poll taxes, but no such bill ever has cleared the Senate, where southern members traditionally have talked such measures to death.

The subcommittee shelved the bill yesterday by a 4 to 3 vote, during the absence of Rep. Marcantonio (ALP-NY), who opposes the poll tax. The subcommittee said it wanted to give the House judiciary committee "a reasonable opportunity" to consider proposals to settle the poll tax issue by a constitutional amendment.

The judiciary group has before it legislation to submit the question to the states. It has taken no action.

Opponents of repeal legislation argue that Congress has no power to tell the states how to run their elections. The constitution, they say, reserves that right to the states, and only a constitutional amendment can ban the poll tax.

Father Faces Murder Count

DETROIT, June 10. (AP) — The state of Michigan was prepared today to bring Eugene Braunsdorf to the bar of justice.

It will be on a charge of murder.

Again, the law must be inexorable.

And this is true despite the story of sorrow and tears that lies behind the stern court formalities.

Last May 21, the warrant alleges, Braunsdorf committed murder — he deliberately shot his daughter, Virginia, 25, to death.

Daughter Was Cripple

Distinguished in white bow tie and tails, he operated the big bass viol. Friends knew him as a gentle-mannered man.

For all of her 25 years Virginia had been a cripple. It was hopeless, doctors said.

Recently, there have been financial problems for the symphony. Detroit is fond of its symphony. There was much publicity.

Braunsdorf brooded.

"I was getting old and the future did not look bright," he said. "I couldn't bear the thought of dying and leaving Virginia alone, helpless and without money."

Found Wounded

On the morning of May 21 police found the musician critically wounded in his parked car and Virginia dead beside him.

They said he shot Virginia and turned the gun on himself.

When Braunsdorf recovers, possibly within a fortnight, he'll be brought to court.

Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien got the formal warrant against Braunsdorf yesterday. He said he had no other course.

The case, he said, is "one of those real tragedies.

"But it is not up to the individual to decide who is supposed to live and who is to die.

Danny Kaye Denies Communist Charge

GLASGOW, Scotland, June 10 (AP)—It's a lie," fumed Danny Kaye today.

The U. S. comedian was commenting on a report of the California State Senate Committee on un-American activities which listed kaye among Hollywood personages who, it said have, "followed or approved some of the Communist party line program over a long period of time."

Kaye issued a statement in which he declared:

"Reports have just reached me of the completely absurd and unfounded charges made against me by the California State Un-American activities committee.

"Never Been a Red!"

"Not only have I never been a Communist, Communist appeaser or sympathizer, but I am in direct opposition to the policy of the Communist party.

"Anybody who has given any committee or person any information to the contrary is an unmitigated liar."

But Danny didn't spend much time worrying about the accusation.

He was too busy admiring the plaid he is now authorized to wear as an honorary member of the MacKay clan. Pipers escort him around town and there is a traffic jam wherever he goes.

He is appearing for a week at the Empire theater.

SEEK LARGE BIRD

Police planned to organize a hunt to find a large bird, probably an owl or a hawk, which attacked R. J. Burgess and two other men in Brighton, England, at night, cutting their heads and faces with beaks and claws.

When European guilds were active, a man who infringed upon another's textile brand-mark was punished by having his right hand severed.

Plagues of mice were so common in ancient Rome that at one time mouse catchers were on the public payroll.

Ex-Lithuanian Army Head Now Works In U. S. Aircraft Shop

CULVER CITY, Calif., June 10. (AP)—A onetime commander in chief of the Lithuanian army goes to work today assembling airplane hydraulic valves in a little back shop here.

But Gen. Stays Rastikis says he is "happy as a bird" behind a work bench at the Hartwell Aviation Co.

The 53-year-old general starts work at the bottom less than a month after he and his wife, Helen Marie, 46, arrived in New York as displaced persons. They were sick and exhausted after nine years of fighting, hiding, running and imprisonment at the hands of the Russians and Germans.

One Daughter Dead

Underground reports say that one of their three daughters is dead. From the other two, also whisked away to Siberia, has come no word. Mrs. Rastikis, arrested with the girls, was imprisoned but eventually released to rejoin her husband in the Lithuanian underground.

How the general came to work here is a story in itself. Clark Hartwell, the aviation company owner, met the Rev. Joseph Concius, president of the United Lithuanian Relief in America, at Lake Arrowhead, Calif. Father Concius asked Hartwell if he could use a good man. Hartwell said "sure" and the "good man" turned out to be Gen. Rastikis.

Through an interpreter the general says he is pleasantly impressed with America except for the automobiles—"There are so many of them it is frightening."

As for war with Russia, he says "It is inevitable," but has been delayed by Russian respect for the atom bomb and completion of a five-year Russian arms program next year.

The general, who hopes some day to write about his plight as a displaced person in Germany, began his military career as a rear rank private in the Czarist army. He was a line lieutenant when the Russian revolution developed in 1917. The Czarists were demobilized. He returned to his native Lithuania to join its army. Trained in Germany, he fought with the Lithuanian army against Russia in 1918.

Wounded and imprisoned for 20 months, Rastikis was released in 1920 and became a colonel. By 1935 he had risen to general of the Lithuanian army but in 1940 the Russian Communists thundered over his land again. Because of his determined loyalty to Lithuanian demands for peace, he was read out of the army and stripped of rank.

He hid in the mountains until June 22, 1941, when Hitler Germany's military machine rolled over Lithuania. Then he joined the Lithuanian underground and fought both Germans and Communists. Rastikis and his wife reached the U. S. section of occupied Germany in 1944. Friends in this country arranged for his entry in the D.P. quota.

Actress, Husband Get Approval On Adoption

LOS ANGELES, June 10 (AP) — Linda Darnell and her cameraman husband, Pev Marley, have a legal family now. They received court approval yesterday of the adoption of Charlotte Mildred Marley, 17 months old.

The baby, an orphan, has been in their care since she was two months old.

Britain May Be Socialist But Royal Fete Still Packs 'Em In

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

This is an odd though likable old world of ours.

Socialist governed England paid homage to its king-emperor yesterday amidst the splendor and pomp of by-gone days.

The occasion was the celebration of his majesty's 53rd birthday—an event observed throughout the commonwealth and empire. For the first time since the outbreak of war in '39 London saw the traditional trooping of the colors—one of the most stirring and colorful of Britain's pageants.

King George, uniformed in scarlet and escorted by household cavalry, rode through cheering lines of his subjects to the parade ground for the ceremony. There he took the salute of the Royal Guards in their scarlet and blue uniforms and tall bearskin headdress. A charming touch was added to the picture by Princess Elizabeth, heiress apparent to the throne, who rode a spirited horse side-saddle.

King Same As Flag

Well now, just how does all this imperial display fit in with socialism—or does it? Do we have an anomaly here, or don't we? Why this reverence of the king? I put the question to an Englishman in New York, and for a minute had him stopped.

"Why," he said "I never thought of it like that before. I guess it's because the king is the same to us as your flag is to you. He stands for solidarity of our unwritten constitution, for liberty, for civil rights.

"Then personality plays a part. In the old days a monarch was honored because of his power. But things are different now. The monarch is outside politics. King George is liked for himself—he is a good fellow. And he has a grand family.

"And, of course, this royal pageantry is a fine 'show'. It fills a sentimental gap. I think you have to lump all these things together to understand why we like our monarchy."

India Looks To Crown

We recently were given another reason why the king fills a useful place in the affairs of the British state. The great Dominion of India, which received its independence August 15, 1947, announced that it intended to become a republic. As a republic it couldn't be a member of the British commonwealth of nations because they recognized the English king as their king.

This posed a momentous problem. The commonwealth didn't want to lose India, and India didn't want to leave, but republics don't have kings. However, in the commonwealth conference in London at the end of April someone had a brain-wave, and India agreed to accept the crown as "the symbol of the free association" of the independent commonwealth and, as such, the head of the commonwealth.

Thus the crown still continues to be the bond that holds the commonwealth together.

Two 'Birthdays'

Actually 53-year-old King George was born on December 14, but a monarch's birthday traditionally is celebrated on June 9, because the weather is better then. Those who have encountered a Decembr fog in London will understand.

The king's official birthday brings a half-holiday to many in England and in other parts of the empire and commonwealth. The commanwealth embassies in Washington closed for half the day, with the exception of the new Indian embassy, which shut down for the whole day. When an official from the British embassy mentioned this divergence to an Indian official, the latter replied:

"Yes, we are shutting down for the entire day. So we are twice as loyal as you are."

Former Teacher Finds Garbage Collecting Is Better Paid Job

EUREKA SPRINGS, Ark., June 10 (AP)—A school teacher threw her certificate out the window and decided she could make more money collecting garbage. That was 15 years ago. Today Miss Lena Wilson still is collecting garbage and is not sorry about her choice.

She handles the best grammar and the heaviest cans of refuse with equal ease.

She says she found her occupation not only more profitable, but more comfortable and healthier than teaching the three R's, which she did for 16 years.

Rigorous Life

But it is a rigorous life. Besides wrestling the heavy cargo, driving a horse and cart up and down the hilly winding streets in this "Switzerland of America" is hard enough. Some parts of the town are 1,100 feet higher than others.

For her day's work she dons a blouse, a pair of bibless overalls and ties on a burlap sack.

"This is my idea of being comfortable," she says.

She weighs only 120 pounds, and says she is stronger now than when she quit teaching school.

Her rounds with her cart and horse, named "Bello," take about six hours a day. Then she returns to the hilltop house she built virtually by herself. Here she cares for her 12 dogs, three cats and 11 pigs. In her spare time she repairs toys and furniture and handles her own charity projects. She renovates clothing and shoes for the poor along her route.

Knows All Dogs

She knows virtually all the dogs in town by name. She is very fond of Bello. The name means beautiful. In explaining her love for animals, she says:

"I'm a sister to everything."

The stray dogs she can't find homes for she keeps.

Her 50-acre farm is some three miles from town. In the past few years she had razed four homes she owned here and is now using the best lumber from them to build herself a new house. Except for the heaviest labor she expects to do all the work herself.

She says she is 66, but in her estimation "I look much younger."

IN DEFENSE OF THE BEE

PROVIDENCE, R. I. (U.P.)—Fifth graders at the Windmill Street school offered a bee hive complete with thousands of hard-working bees as an exhibit for the proposed children's zoo at Rogers Williams Park. "We think it would fit in nicely in the chilgren's zoo," a student wrote. "There is really nothing to fear about bees."

Model Log Cabin Is Campaign Reminder

NANTY-GLO, Pa., June 10 (U.P.)—The prize possession of a Cambria county octogenarian is the physical evidence of his part in popularizing an American presidential nominee.

On exhibition at the home of 86-year-old Blair L. Werts is a model log cabin with a tiny whiskey barrel sitting at its door. The model was built by Werts to dramatize Benjamin Harrison's slogan, "A cabin and cider barrel for each family," in the 1888 presidential campaign.

America's last physical frontiers were being opened through the practice of homesteading around that time. Harrison asked Werts to build the model to illustrate the fact that the Republican standard bearer favored providing homes and land for the people.

The cabin, lighted by a small candle, was carried in torchlight parades throughout Pennsylvania during the campaign.

Escapee Is Captured Asleep Under Trees

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., June 10 (AP)—Denver Vannest, described as "the most dangerous" of 14 convicts who escaped last Friday from the West Virginia state prison, was picked up today asleep under trees at New Martinsville.

Indian Border Fight Goes On

NEW DELHI, India, June 10 (AP)—Afghanistan and Pakistan are fighting a propaganda war over a strip to tribal territory which gave the British no peace during their reign in India.

The area, known as "Tribal Tertory," lies along the so-called Durand line between Afghanistan and Pakistan. The question of whether the territory should become part of Pakistan, be independent or jain Afghanistan has severely strained relations between the two Muslin nations. Informed sources say the severance of diplomatic relations may result and that the possibility of an armed clash cannot be ruled out entirely.

The tribal territory is a mountainous land inhabited by tall, light-skinned Pathans, trigger-happy tribes men whose fees for murder run considerably below those of the western underworld.

Pathans Run Wild

No one has ever controlled the Pathans. While the British held India, military outposts were maintained within tribal territory and attempts were made to keep the Pathans at peace through bribes. Frequently, however, British officials were abducted and killed, which called for punitive action. Another concern of the British was to prevent the tribesmen from staging raids into India proper.

Recently, Pakistan's governor-general, Khawaja Nazimuddin, declared that tribal areas as integral part of Pakistan, a statement which upset the Afghans.

Landlocked Afghanistan also renewed its demand for an outlet to the sea through Pakistan. "Anis," the semi-official newspaper published at Kabul, Afghanistan's capital, suggested that the questio nof tribal independence and the matter of the outlet be placed before the United Nations.

Observers say the propaganda campaign may subside, as others have in the past, However, they add that the tribal territory probably will be a cause of bitter argument for years to come.

Studio To Cut Out Scottish Burrs In Welles' 'Macbeth'

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD, June 10—Orson Welles' film version of "Mac-Beth" is getting rid of its Scottish accent.

Republic has started work on removing the burr from the Shakespearian speeches in the Welles film. The soundtrack is being recorded again and the picture is also being re-cut. Although made two years ago, the film has not been released generally. It was not well received after its preview here.

The problem is now to re-record speeches of Welles himself. Presumably the picture will be flown to Europe for that purpose.

Frank Fay and "Harvey" come to a parting of the ways in Vancouver next month.

Fay Eyes Television

The actor and the six-foot rabbit have trod the boards for four years and nine months and Fay wants to get away from his spooky pal. He is mulling a play and a television show.

Bob Hope has an interesting gimmick for his last air show of the season next Tuesday. The audience will be composed of Jonses, in honor of his film "Sorrowful Jones."

David Wayne, the hit of "Finian's rainbow" and "Mr. Roberts," is out here for his second film, "Adam's Rib." (He was the cabby in "Portrait of Jenny.") He's not a film convert, though. He opens in the fall in Cole Porter's new musical, "Heaven On Earth." That's the 39th version of the Amphyrion legend.

CRISCO'S CHERRY "PINWHEEL" PIE
(Makes one 9" pie)

For Sure Success Make it the Crisco Way!

This cherry pie is party-pretty . . . a sweet treat to eat. And if you follow the sure-fire pastry method given below your pie crust is bound to be perfect . . . as digestible as it is delicious! Yes, with pure, all-vegetable Crisco and Crisco's "can't-fail" pastry recipe, even a beginner can be sure of flaky, tender pie crust every single time!

CRISCO PASTRY

2 cups sifted flour • 1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup Crisco • 4 tablespoons water

All Measurements Level: Sift flour with salt into bowl. Remove ½ cup flour and mix with water to form a paste. Cut Crisco into the remaining flour until the pieces are the size of small peas. Add flour paste to Crisco-flour mixture. Mix and shape into a ball. On a floured board, lightly roll out a circle of dough 12" in diameter and ⅛" thick. Line pie pan. Allow pastry to extend ½" beyond edge. Turn edge under and flute with fingers. Prick sides and bottom of pastry generously.

From remaining dough cut crescents and a round. Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 10-12 minutes.

FILLING
(All Measurements Level):

¾ cup sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon Crisco
1 cup cherry juice
4 cups drained cherries
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Combine sugar, cornstarch and Crisco with cherry juice. Cook until clear and thick (about 5 minutes). Pour over cherries. Add lemon juice and blend well. Place in baked Crisco shell. Top with baked pastries in flower design.

Hollywood Hunts Continually For New Boy-Meets-Girl Idea

HOLLYWOOD, June 10. (NEA)—Boy meets girl!

Ever since the first ham carried the first spear across a stage a new "boy-meets-girl" gimmick has been welcomed with ear-splitting hurrahs.

It's gotta have a twist.

Hollywood has twisted itself all out of shape dreaming up new twists. Remember that old M-G-M picture, "Lucky Night"? There was a twist to boy meets girl.

Johnson

Myrna Loy and Bob Taylor met in an employment agency where both were looking for jobs. They try to bum a cigaret from each other but neither has one. Later the same day they meet by accident on a park bench and both make a dive for a cigaret that has been thrown away.

Taylor gets there first, breaks the cigaret in two and gives Myrna half. Naturally, it's love.

For more than a year now Kay Kyser has been asking married people how they met. It's a gimmick on his radio show.

These informal interviews have brought out more unusual boy-meets-girl angles than you can shake six dozen film writers at. Here are some of the best:

AIR PRESSURE

There's an airline pilot who flies from Los Angeles to New York three times a week. One fine morning he passed through the plane to look over his passengers. He noticed one passenger on the aisle who was lovely.

He went back to his cabin and for three hours wrote her notes, in poetry, demanding a date. By the time the plane arrived in New York the girl was convinced. They had a date that night and were married two weeks later.

There was a young girl who escaped from a DP camp in Germany. She sneaked into the American occupied zone and was stealing potatoes when she was arrested by a handsome GI. Driving to headquarters in a jeep they decided it was love.

She's in America now, an American citizen, married to the GI who captured her.

Two sets of parents who were strangers took their infant son and daughter to a wedding. The grandmother of the bride suggested that the two babies be put to bed while their parents remained for the reception. The babies were put to bed together. They were only six months old at the time, but they're married now.

Another couple met when she was a patient waiting to undergo an operation. He was the heart specialist called in to test her heart to see whether she could stand the shock. He listened to her heart and lost his own.

There was the couple who met every Friday night for three years in the New York morgue. She was a crime reporter and he was a medical student working his way by taking care of the morgue. Now she's his wife and nurse.

They came to California for their honeymoon. While in California, they attended the wedding of her husband's best friend. Several years later she came back to California a widow. She met her late husband's best friend, who was by this time a widower. Now they're married.

LOVE IN A PINCH

A lady pinched a man she thought was her boy friend in a crowded Chicago bus. The man screamed. Three weeks later they were married.

A pert young thing was waiting for a plane and asked a boy standing at the information board what time it would leave. She was surprised at his courteous answers to all her questions about the flight. When he invited her to have some coffee, she thought it was still part of the airline service.

Only after they were married did he tell her the truth—he was waiting for a plane too.

There was the little lady whose dress started to shrink in the rain while she was waiting for a bus. To hide her embarrassment, she covered her face with a newspaper. But her legs did it. He stepped on the brakes, opened the door and took her home. Six months later they were in their own home.

And let's not forget the lady taxi driver who had an emergency call to take a fellow to a hospital. She was sympathetic and visited him several times while he was recovering from the operation. Sure, they were married.

And if any of those twists wind up in the movies, the principals have my permission to sue.

Hollywood is still talking about Jimmy Stewart's surprise announcement that he'll marry Gloria Hatrick McLean in August. Even his press agent was caught with his publicity release down.

Jimmy, just turned 41, will be making up for lost time. He'll also become the "father" of Gloria's two young children by her first riage.

Educator Is Named To Staff At Tech

The appointment of Thomas B. Livingston of Waxahachie to the position of assistant professor of education at Texas Technological college to take effect in the fall has been announced by the president's office at the college.

Livingston's appointment was termed as "a step in expanding the elementary teacher training in the department of education at Texas Tech," by Dr. E. N. Jones, vice president at the college.

Livingston is a graduate of Waxahachie High school. He received a bachelor of science degree in education from North Texas State college in 1939 and a master of science in education from the same school in 1941. He has also attended the George Peabody college in Nashville, Tenn.

Served As Principal

From 1939 to 1941 he was principal of the elementary schools at Denison. In 1941, Livingston became principal of the Wooldridge elementary school in Austin and in 1944 he moved to Seminole as principal of the elementary schools. While he was in Austin, Livingston also worked in the state comptroller's office.

In 1948 he went to Stanford university to work on his doctor's degree. He was acting director of student elementary teaching there and will come to Tech from Stanford. Livingston has notified officials at Tech he will continue to work on his doctor's degree in addition to his duties here. He says he hopes to have all that work finished by the summer of 1950.

Livingston is a member of the Association of Supervision and Curriculum Development; the Texas chapter of the National Education association and the Texas State Teachers association. He has been active with the Boy Scouts of America and is a member of the Rotary club. He is married.

Mood Music Provided For Jittery Students

ALTOONA, Pa., June 10 (U.P.)—The Altoona Undergraduate Center provides "mood music" to relax jittery students entering the examination chamber.

Dr. Louis D. Goodfellow, head of the psychology department, said the practice of using music therapy to combat "exam neurosis" fits that philosophy of education which calls for helping the individual develop poise for any emergency.

"If the student is allowed to develop such a degree of tenseness immediately before an examination that he fails the examination," Dr. Goodfellow said, "then in a sense the purpose of education has been defeated."

Brain surgery was made possible by the discoveries of Pasteur and Lister and dates back only about 50 years.

Los Angeles Street System Is Confusing

LOS ANGELES, June 10 (U.P.)—A hodge-podge of street names and numbers is what makes Los Angeles drivers wild.

The only way to find a place in this town is to follow the searchlight beams to premieres and grand market openings. Streets wander about drunkenly, changing names every block and numbers jump from block to block.

Take, for example, Winona street, running between Franklin and Fountain. At Fountain it becomes Ardmore. A little later it's Normandie Place. Then a brief fling at Ardmore again, followed haphazardly by Irolo, Congress, Brighton and Halidale.

On Pico Boulevard street numbers go to 6100 west. The next block begins with 8500. On Rimpau Boulevard three blocks are jammed into three neighboring houses numbered 5120, 5202 and 5306.

Even if you can find the house, you sometimes can't read the number. A city ordinance prohibits painting the number on the curb.

F. E. Westphal, 80, of Port Elizabeth, South Africa, who has never shaved in his life and has been to a movie only twice, says: "Spending 10 minutes a day on shaving is a waste of time; it's much easier just to let your whiskers grow."

Mortality Rate In Premature Births Cut In Anesthesia Test

By PAUL F. ELLIS
United Press Staff Writer

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 10—Deaths in premature births are being reduced by half as a result of techniques that eliminate pain in the mother, two St. Louis physicians told the annual meeting of the American Medical association today.

The results of their studies in St. Louis Maternity hospital were described as "of major importance in the field of obstetrical anesthesia."

Two Methods Compared

The physicians, William H. Masters and Robert W. Ross, said there was a 10.7 per cent mortality among prematurely born infants in labors and deliveries carried to completion under the influence of conduction anesthesia, a technique in which anesthesia is produced by interruption of the passage of impulses through a nerve trunk by injection by needle of anesthetic.

Drs. Masters and Ross said that their study covered 3,000 patients at the hospital from July 10, 1945 to Dec. 27, 1948. There were 244 premature births. During the same period, the doctors said there were 7,,650 cases in which the labors and deliveries were carried out under twilight sleep, inhalation anesthesia but without any nerve blocking anesthesia. In that series there were 347 prematures with a mortality of 20.8 per cent, about twice as many as in the group receiving caudal and saddle block, or conduction anesthesia.

Approaches Identical

"The increased protection afforded the premature baby by conduction anesthesia is certainly of major import," the physicians said. "From a purely obstetrical point of view, there is no differentation between caudal and saddle block as methods of anesthesia. Both techniques have identical approaches to the subject to protection of the infant."

They said that conduction anesthesia protects the premature both during and after delivery, and that "the tendencies toward precipitous labors or deliveries disappear."

"The indisputable proof that this method is effective in handling the premature delivery is evidenced by the fact that only three out of 244 premature infants who entered labor alive died during the progress of labor or delivery, or before they could be admitted to the premature nursery.

"In direct contrast with this protection, 36 of 347 prematures died either during labor or immediately thereafter when other methods of anesthesia were employed."

PLAN BIG STADIUM

The Caesar Martino interests in Mexico City, where as many as 60,000 persons have attended a bullfight, are planning to build a stadioum there "bigger and better than the Wembley Stadium in London."

Physiologists say that the conscious experience of appetite is quite different from that of hunger.

All In A Lifetime — Wives

Among observers assert that "sorcerers" frequently bring about the death of their victims by "sorcery" when those victims believe in the power of the "sorcerer" to kill.

Branks or scolding bridles were contrivances once used in the British Isles to punish "scolding women." It was a headpiece with a piece of iron that fitted the mouth and depressed the tongue.

Shanghai Facing Hardship As Reported Mines Divert Ships

SHANGHAI, June 10 (AP)—Tie-up of foreign shipping by reported mines in the Yangtze estuary today threatened Shanghai's fuel-short power supply.

The mines, real or phantom, have locked two foreign vessels in port. They are the American owned China Victory and the British owned Shenking. All other foreign shipping has been diverted while Communist officials investigated reports that a Nationalist ship yesterday laid the mines.

The American owned tanker Rum River is enroute from Hong Kong with fuel oil vitally needed by Shanghai power producers. Her owners, the Cal-Tex company, New York, have been advised of the mine scare and may order the tanker back to Hong Kong. The tanker left there yesterday.

U. S. Ships Diverted

During the shipping snarl, 200 former Chinese Nationalist soldiers forced their way aboard the Shenking and demanded free passage to Hong Kong. They refused to leave the badly overloaded ship.

The American ships President Madison and Polk were diverted from Shanghai by their owners. The Polk went to Hong Kong and the Madison to Kobe, Japan.

A lack of minesweepers complicated matters for the Communist regime.

The known presence of a Nationalist gunboat off shore poses a threat to any Communist vessels that may venture down river in an effort to open the channel.

(In Tokyo, U. S. Vice Adm. Oscar Badger, commander of the Western Pacific fleet, said the Yangtze was unsafe for shipping. He said the reported mining of the river was not unexpected.

Warehouse Burns

(Badger said his fleet, in reduced numbers, would continue to base on the China coast—probably utilizing Amoy and Bias bay. The latter is a pirate hangout near Hong Kong.

(The American admiral said his reports indicated generalissimo Chiang had stayed in Shanghai or that area until but a few days before the Communists captured the city last month).

The forced boarding of the former Nationalist soldiers of the Shenking was the second bad news of the day for her owners, Butterfield and Swire. The company's warehouse in the old French bund burned during the day.

These developments came as the Shanghai board of trade, in an effort to stimulate production, announced foreign cotton may be imported duty free beginning today. Whether the Communists were in a position to supply foreign exchange for the imported cotton was not stated.

The board announced inauguration of a foreign exchange department of the bank of China. Twenty banks were named to handle transactions. They included two American banks, the Chase National and the National City Bank of New York City, the Bank of Moscow and the British Hong Kong and Shanghai bank.

Doctor Heard In Death Case

MILWAUKEE, June 10 (AP)—The first bullet fired into the head of slain Patricia Birmingham did not inflict a fatal wound, a municipal court jury was told yesterday.

A Milwaukee pathologist, Dr. L. J. Van Hecke, told the jury it was a second shot that brought death to the 16-year-old West Allis high school girl.

The pathologist was the fifth witness presented by the state in the first degree murder trial of Milton Babich, 19. The former honor student is accused of shooting Patricia to death Feb. 10. That was five weeks before he eloped to Michigan with the victim's sister, Kathleen, now 18.

Shooting Claimed Accident

In a statement released by Dist. Atty. William J. McCauley, Babich said he produced a gun to frighten Patricia so she wouldn't reveal that her sister was pregnant. He said the gun discharged twice by accident during a struggle for the weapon.

Dr. Van Hecke testified his autopsy showed the first slug fired below the left ear and emerged at the back of the neck. The second, he said, entered behind the left ear and came to rest beneath the skin of the right temple.

Under cross-examination by Arthur Richter, white-haired chief defense counsel, Dr. Van Hecke said, "I am sure she lived after the wound below the ear. This was not a fatal wound, but it was immediately disabling."

Juror Challenged

He explained such a wound would make a person immediately unconscious and that because of injury to shoulder muscles would prevent the person struck from raising her arm above shoulder level.

Testimony began late yesterday after the defense had challenged the qualifications of one juror. A Milwaukee attorney testified that the juror, Raymond Schmanski, 29, had expressed an opinion about the case a month ago.

Municipal Judge Herbert Steffes dismissed Schmanski and placed the alternate juror, Mrs. Cora Holzmann, a housewife and mother of two children, in the box.

All witnesses then were excluded from the courtroom by agreement of opposing attorneys. Deputy Dist. Atty. Joseph Tierney opened the state's case, outlining events from Patricia's disappearance, Feb. 10, until her body, tied to a concrete building block was fisher from the Milwaukee river, March 20.

Square Dance Class Set At VFW Building

Square dance classes for beginners will be conducted at the Veterans of Foreign Wars building, Thirty-fourth and Ave. N, on Monday and Tuesday nights from 8 until 10:30 p.m., it was announced Thursday.

The classes are open to the public and anyone wishing to learn to square dance may attend. Harvey Dunn will be the instructor.

The classes will start Monday, June 13 and continue through Tuesday, June 28.

The hall is air-conditioned and there is plenty of space for a large number of squares.

Those wishing to attend are urged to get their tickets early. Tickets may be obtained by calling the VFW Post dial 2-2386 or Harvey Dunn, dial 5609.

Retail Meat Price Shows Slight Rise

(By The Associated Press)

Retail meat prices pushed a little higher this week on top of the sharp increase a week ago.

However, growing price resistance by shoppers and wholesale buyers, plus arrival of larger meat shipments, were beginning to exert a levelling-off influence.

Poultry was unchanged. Top grade eggs advanced a penny or two a dozen in many markets. Butter, in heavy supply, eased slightly in scattered areas. And the vegetable situation was dominated by lower prices for cabbage, snap beans, asparagus, lettuce and tomatoes.

A survey of key cities showed some popular cuts of beef, such as sirloin steaks, up four to six cents a pound in many highly competitive chain stores.

GI Convicted Of Desertion

FRANKFURT, Germany, June 10. (AP)—An American soldier who says he was held incommunicado for six months by Czech police was convicted of desertion by a United States Army court martial yesterday, the Army newspaper Star and Stripes reported.

The paper identified him as Arthur W. Short, 29 (home town unavailable).

It said the court martial at Grafenwoehr, Germany, sentenced him to one year's confinement and a dishonorable discharge.

Short old a Stars and Stripes reporter he was "subjected to torture and long periods of interrogation during the early days of my confinement in Czechoslovakia.

Sentenced By Court

He said he left his Army unit in Germany and went to Czechoslovakia "to put an end to the cold war by personal contact with representatives behind the iron curtain." He did not mention how he planned to accomplish that.

Stars and Stripes said Short testified he was arrested by the Czechs last Oct. 7 and sentenced by a Pilsen people's court to six months for illegally entering Czechoslovakia.

He claimed during his entire time in a Czech jail he was denied any contact with U. S. Army or diplomatic officials.

The paper said Short was freed May 19, made his way to Germany and, tired and weak, turned himself in to Army authorities.

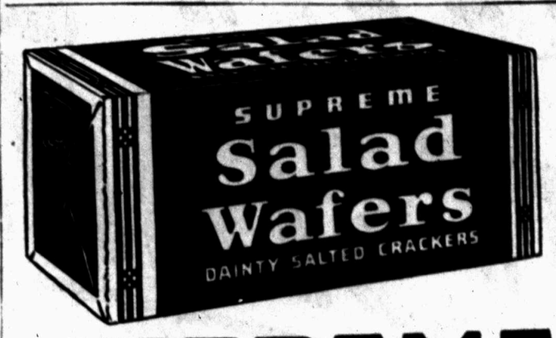

Graduating Seniors Hold Meet At Tech

Seniors at Texas Technological college who will graduate at the end of summer school held a meeting at the college Wednesday night and elected three class officers for the summer.

Jack Noyes of Midland was selected president and Oscar Allen of Hale Center was named vice president. Mrs. Edith Balliff, a high school teacher from Childress, was chosen secretary.

Noyes announced that final exams for graduating seniors would be held two days earlier than the finals for the rest of the student body. The commencement exercises for summer school graduates will be held at 8 p. m. Aug. 26 in Jones stadium. There will be no summer baccalaureate services, Noyes said. Around 300 seniors are expected to receive degrees in the graduation service.

Finland now has 43,000 unemployed.

Milk Cow Crowding Beef Steer For Top Cash Return, As Crop Picture In Texas Changes

(By The Associated Press)

West Texas is turning to farming and East Texas is cattle country.

Such is today's picture of changing Texas outlined by Bryan Blalock of Marshall, pioneer of the milk processing industry in the state.

Also, Blalock explains in talks to service clubs, the milk cow is now crowding the beef steer for the No. 1 place as a cash crop for livestock men.

Milk Farmers Increase

Twenty-five years ago East Texas produced most of the field crops in Texas. For instance, Anderson county produced 24,000 bales of cotton in 1926. But in 1946, by Texas Almanac figures it had grown by only 761. Dallas county dropped from 55,000 bales to 12,000. Denton county from 46,000 to 6,200, Kaufman county from 76,000 to 21,000.

In about the same time the number of farmers who sell milk have grown less than 100 to more than 12,000 in Northeast Texas.

"We are watching an evolution in agriculture," Blalock said. "The tractor caused it."

"In East Texas, we have 60-acre patch farms, worked by a negro and two mules. In Lubbock the other day, I talked to a man who farms 640 acres of cotton by himself. For several years a shortage of field hands held up West Texas. But now the mechanical cotton picker has finished the job the tractor started.

Started New Industry

Blalock was running the Marshall Chamber of Commerce in 1928 when he first sensed the decline of cotton in East Texas.

He tried to get two big milk processing companies interested in coming to Texas. They told him the climate was too hot. So Blalock got local money at Marshall to back his idea. He and his associates built plants to turn milk into cheese, dried milk and evaporated milk at Marshall, Longview, and Mount Pleasant.

This was the start of a new industry.

Further change of ideas about agriculture would change the economy of rural and urban Texas, Blalock believes.

"If the average income of the farmers who live in a 100-mile radius of Dallas could be raised to half the income of Iowa farmers, which is $11,900 a year, Dallas would become a city of a million people in a reasonable number of years," he predicted.

The greatest boon that could be given farming would be all the farm-to-market roads Texas needs, Blalock said.

Two Murder Counts Face Killer Suspect

HOUSTON, June 10. (U.P.)—Two murder indictments faced Albert Edwards today in a double gangster-style killing here two weeks ago.

The 36-year-old warehouse foreman was indicted by the grand jury yesterday in the shooting of his estranged wife, Mrs. Betty Lou Edwards, 31, and her escort, Frank Walker, 34.

The victims were slain the night of May 26 after a "mystery" car forced Walker's car to a curb. The killer, according to witnesses, then strolled to Walker's car and poured a volley of shots through the window.

Edwards appeared voluntarily for questioning the next day, made a confession and then repudiated it. However, he led sheriff's deputies to the attic of his brother's home, where a gun said to be the death weapon was found.

CLEANUP LAUNCHED

TYLER, June 10. (AP) — Tyler started a citywide cleanup drive today—spurred by its first polio case of 1949, discovered yesterday.

Arctic waters have relatively small salt content because of lack of evaporation and the inflow of many rivers.

Spray Used To Combat Polio

By The United Press

Airplanes sprayed DDT over San Angelo today as the city continued its fight against polio.

But theaters, swimming pools and churches were open for the first time in a week.

The ban on public meetings was lifted Wednesday, and although seven new cases were reported by midnight Wednesday ,there was no evident feeling of hysteria.

80 Persons Stricken

Thus far the epidemic has stricken more than 80 persons in San Angelo and surrounding territory.

The city administration ordered al ltheaters, swimming pools and churches closed a week ago. But business managers of natatoriums and movie houses reported thriving business.

At Fort Worth, the first polio fatality of the year was marked down with the death of Mrs. Cynthia Mae Thurmond, 28, in an iron lung.

Gen. John W. Naylor, National Guard commander at Fort Worth, announced that a city-wide aerial DDT spraying campaign would be started.

Attlee Is Asked To Prevent Rail Strike

LONDON, June 10. (AP)—A union leader appealed to Prime Minister Clement Attlee yesterday to prevent a general railway strike which would paralyze Britain's hard-pressed economy.

The railway executive group which runs Britain's state-owned rail lines, broke off negotiations with the National Union of Railwaymen (NUR) for a 10 shilling (two dollar) a week raise yesterday.

It said it would not discuss wage issues on a nationwide basis until the wildcat "Sunday only" strikes of workers on the lines from London to the northeast are settled. The executive said to do so would be to act "under duress."

J. B. Figgins, secretary of the NUR, said "if the railway executives prefer to provoke the men, that is their responsibility" but he addressed an appeal to the prime minister to step in personally "to prevent a possible national stoppage and dislocation of work on British railways."

The unauthorized Sunday strikes, called to protest work schedules which keep some of the men away from home over night, have crippled holiday traffic for the past three week-ends. Another one is scheduled for Sunday. Workers in other sections of England have threatened to join it.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Williams of Shallowater on birth of a son weighing 6 pounds ¾ ounce at 1:34 a. m. today in Lubbock Memorial hospital. The father is a trucker.

Hale Center Needs Services Of Guide

HALE CENTER, June 10. (Special) — The progressive citizens of Hale Center have never thought it necessary to provide guide service for this bustling trade area.

And they're still looking. They explained to Tom King and Henry Rief of Hale Center that the square section-girding roads have them all confused, and they don't even know for sure now in what direction the lost machine lies.

Waco Air Force Base Named For Texas Man

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP) — The Air Force today ordered its Waco, Tex., base named for Col. James T. Connally, B-29 bomber squadron commander, who was killed in a raid over Japan May 29, 1945.

The war hero was born in McGregor, Tex., was graduated from Texas A. and M. college in 1932 and learned to fly at Randolph field, San Antonio, in 1933. He is a distant relative of Senator Connally (D-Tex).

GAS STATIONS OBSERVE "BLACK TUESDAY"—Phil Geraci, left, and Frank Galle, right, New Orleans service station attendants drape their gas pumps with black crepe paper and signs as they mark "Black Tuesday," the first anniversary of Louisiana's current gasoline tax rate. Stations throughout the state were draped in black to mourn the tax which was raised from seven to nine cents by the state legislature a year ago, June 7. Retail gasoline prices in the state now range from 30½ cents a gallon for regular to 32½ cents a gallon for premium. (AP Wirephoto.)

Garnier-Owen Relationship Not All Business, Claims Attorney

RIVERSIDE, Calif., June 10 (AP) Mrs. Agnes Garnier had an intimate as well as business relationship with her wealthy employer, John E. Owen, says counsel defending her against charges of murdering him at his ranch April 22.

"John Ower was passionately fond of Mrs. Garnier and she was passionately fond of him," said Sam H. Allen, her attorney in opening his case yesterday. She is scheduled to take the stand today.

Mrs. Garnier, 53, divorcee secretary for Owen, 68, president of the National Apartment House Owners association, sat impassively as Allen recounted how the relationship changed from merely business "into an intimate" arrangement. Owen was estranged from his second wife, Florence.

Relations 'Waned'

The intimate relationship "waned somewhat" when Owen became 65, said the attorney. Owen's physical condition, Allen continued, made him "irritable and morbid" and "he threatened on several occasions to take his own life."

"We will show that Mrs. Garnier was the real woman in his life until the last minute, that she had no motive and that she had no jealousy for actress Irene Rich or any other woman."

'Only Remembers Flash'

"She went into the bedroom and saw him standing by the bed with a gun. He said he was going to shoot and she feared he was going to shoot either himself or her. Then she ran and struggled with him for the gun. She remembers only a flash of fire and remembers herself with the gun."

Mrs. Edna Austin, first defense witness, testified that Mrs. Garnier "never said" that she had grown to hate Owen, as another maid, Myrtle Jones, said earlier.

Several state witnesses, employes at the Los Angeles apartments which Mrs. Garnier managed for Owen, testified that she had quarreled with Owen over his friendship with Miss Rich and once said: "You either marry me or pay me off."

U. S., Mexico May Trade Battle Flags

MEXICO CITY, June 10 (AP)—The commander of the Mexican Veterans' association said yesterday Mexico might return U. S. flags captured during the Mexican war of 1846.

General Candido Aguilar, commander of the Mexican Legion of Honor, said that veterans' organizations would seek the return of the flags as soon as the U. S. Congress votes to return captured Mexican battle flags.

Nathaniel K. Patterson, veterans' attache at the U. S. embassy, visited the headquarters of the Mexican Legion. He said he brought greetings from U. S. veterans. Gen Aguilar then commented on the request made by the American Legion that Congress order the return of the Mexican flags.

"As soon as the U. S. Congress approves the return," Gen. Aguilar said, "the Mexican Legion will ask the Mexican Congress to return the flags of your country which were captured by Mexican troops during the unfortunate war of 1847."

One of the captured U. S. flags is on public display in the national historic museum and others are in glass cases in the Legion's headquarters.

Chef's Uniform In Order For Male Home Economics Major

LOS ANGELES, June 10 (AP)—A chef's cap and apron would have been more appropriate than the traditional black cap and gown Herbert J. Bullard wore when he was awarded his degree at Pepperdine college.

The 24-year-old Bullard, a wartime Navy bugle master, is the first male to major in home economics at this college. He is going to teach home economics in the Los Angeles school system next fall.

Dr. Wreathy Aiken, head of the department of home economics at Pepperdine, says frankly that she was skeptical when Bullard applied for permission to major in the course.

Some Misgivings

There were moments of misgivings, such as when all the rest of the class was working on clothing construction. That used to be called sewing. Everybody in the class except Bullard was going about pinning clothes on everybody else. So Bullard went around pinning clothes on the class cuties, too. He was making clothes for his wife, though. If some of the gals were scantily clad at the time, the situation wasn't much different from the female model posing for a class of male artists, except that it was Bullard who was outnumbered.

"He did splendid work and he'll make a splendid teacher, I'm sure," says Dr. Aiken. "He wanted to study home economics in high school but he wasn't permitted to do so. Coming back from the war, he got his chance. He has a flair for it."

Bullard is the first male to be admitted to the California Home Ecnomics association. To admit him the association, meeting last week in Pasadena, had to amend its constitution.

Services Set For W. R. Elliott, 63

Funeral services for W. R. Elliott, 63, of Eunice, N. M., former Lubbock resident who died here Thursday night, have been set for 2 p. m. Saturday in the First Baptist church of Eunice.

Rev. David Calhoun will officiate.

Burial will be in Eunice cemetery, Rix Funeral home reported.

Elliott, who had been ill several months, died in the home of a sister, Mrs. A. G. McMath, of 3910 Monroe. He had resided in Lubbock for nine years before moving to Eunice in 1936. He was in the lumber and contracting business.

Survivors include the wife; two daughters, Mrs. Roy D. Irwin of Taos, N. M., and Mrs. Warren Brinegar of Springer, N. M.; a son, W. R. Elliott, jr., of Alamogordo, N. M.; seven sisters, Mrs. McMath of Lubbock, Mrs. Roy Hammond, Mrs. Mary Anderson, and Mrs. Alice McLaury, all of Moran, Mrs. Mattie Godwin of Brownfield, Mrs. B. W. Grinstead of Bartlett, and Miss Rennie Elliott of Montabella, Calif.; five brothers, Frank Elliott of Montabella, Calif., Bob Elliott of Moran, John Elliott of Moran, Aaron Elliott of Rowden, and Joe Elliott of Stephenville; and a niece, Mrs. D. A. Forbess of Lubbock.

The Roman citizen of the First Century A. D. had about twice as much water delivered in the city for his use than had the citizen of Glasgow in 1028, according to one estimate.

Tries Escape, Killed

VIENNA, Austria, June 10 (AP)—A Viennese newspaper said today a top Hungarian police officer was shot yesterday while trying to escape into Austria carrying a list of Hungarian secret service employes.

The socialist Arbeiterzeitung, which is usually well-informed, identified the man as Colonel Aszcso, chief of the personnel branch of the Hungarian ministry of the interior.

It said he managed to hide the list before being seized and shot by Hungarian police near the border.

Communist-Hunting Excitement Has Reached A Post-War Peak

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 11.—This country has reached a post-war peak in the excitement over the hunt for Communists, spies, fellow travelers, Russian sympathizers, subversives and security risks.

At least half a dozen things have been happening this week around the country in connection with Communism, spying, fellow-traveling, or subversion of one kind or another.

This peak has been slowly building up over the past few years, ever since the war ended and relations with Russia, friendly during the war, fell to pieces.

The excitement is being fanned by events in Congress and court trials as more names are brought, rightly or wrongly, into the present crusade against communism.

Innocent May Be Hurt

A number of innocent people probably will be hurt in this spreading search, but the concern over Communism is so great the end is not in sight.

1. In New York 11 Communist party big-shots, all admitted Communists, are on trial or a charge of teaching conspiracy to overthrow this government by violence. This has been going on for months.

2. In California the state senate un-American activities committee this week listed a number of prominent people, including movie stars and writers, as having "followed or appeased some of the Communist party line program over a long period of time."

3. In Washington Congress' House committee on un-American activities has been investigating alleged Communist spying and activities in general, with more names being made public every day.

AEC Chief Under Fire

4. Here in Washington, too, a congressional committee is holding an open hearing on charges by Senator Hickenlooper, Iowa Republican, that David E. Lillienthal, chairman of the Atomic Energy commission, has been guilty of "incredible mismanagement."

Lillienthal's management is under fire but Hickenlooper keeps raising questions that spread the odor of Communism over the AEC's atomic program in one way or another. For example:

Was so-and-so who worked on the program a good security risk? How come this man or that was allowed to do secret work?

5. In New York Alger Hiss, one-time State department official, is on trial on a charge of perjury, the result of his denial of charges made against him before a grand jury by Whittaker Chambers, who admits he was once a Communist-Russian spy.

Chambers accused Hiss of handing over State department secret papers to him. Chambers, himself, on the stand during the trial has admitted he has committed perjury seven times.

Stars Mentioned

But as the case drags on, other names besides those of Chambers and Hiss are brought into it, as links of a spy ring here back in the 1930's.

6. And in Washington one of the biggest explosions has come out of the trial of Judith Coplon, former Justice department employe, being tried on a charge of pilfering government secrets.

A fleck of Hollywood stars and others, people Miss Coplon probably never met, have been dragged into the case, not as spies, but as people unidentified informants of the FBI accused of being Communists or fellow-travelers.

This extraordinary thing—public exposure of secret FBI files—happened because the FBI said Miss Coplon had information about those files in her pocketbook when she was arrested for spying.

This was all secret information, the FBI said. The trial judge said it had to be made public so Miss Coplon could have a fair trial.

The Hollywood people, whose names she now linked in the public mind with Communism, have denied the accusations of the secret informers, with the public getting no chance to learn whether the informers knew what they were talking about.

Three Sought In California

SONOMA, Calif., June 10 (AP)—Authorities hunted three possibly dangerous fugitives from the Sonoma state home today. Terrified Valley of the Moon residents were assured the state is taking measures to prevent further escapes.

Rudolph Wright, 19, a negro mental patient whose escape started the terror, is in jail on murder and kidnap charges growing out of the slaying Tuesday of Paul Zimmerman, rancher.

Three other fugitives still are at large. They are Stanley Nelton, Stanley Barksdale, 20, and William P. Young, 20.

Protest Filed

Dr. E. M. Porter, superintendent of the home, listed Barksdale, a psychopathic delinquent, and Young as "potentially dangerous." He said Nelton was "dangerous." All three youths have criminal records. It was feared they might be armed with razors taken from a ranch.

Residents of the valley sent a telegram to the capitol at Sacramento yesterday saying "we just sit around waiting to get shot. Patients are escaping all the time."

Dr. Lawrence Kolb, acting director of the state mental hygiene department, sent back word "we're taking measures to reduce the chance of escapes. We are going to tighten up to avoid accidents like this again."

A bridge over the Rio Paz soon will link El Salvador's coastal region with southeastern Guatemala, materially aiding trade between the two countries.

Medical Association Backing Lay-Sponsored Health Plans

ATLANTIC CITY, June 10. (AP)—The American Medical association's fight against enactment of compulsory health insurance legislation crystalized today in a program designed to encourage the expansion of lay-sponsored medical care plans.

The program was unfolded yesterday when the AMA's house of delegates—policy-making body of the organization—adopted a set of 20 principles for lay-sponsored plans seeking AMA approval.

Dr. James R. McVay of Kansas City, chairman of the AMA's council on medical service, said the action was "a positive, decisive, progressive step" toward the expansion of, voluntary health insurance.

Heretofore the AMA has recognized only those medical care plans sponsored by its federated county and state groups. It has been indifferent to numerous plans operated by labor, farmer, consumer cooperative and other groups—including city governments.

Many Health Plans

Medical care plans cover doctors' fees for stipulated services but do not cover hospital expenses. Hospitalization plans, such as the AMA-sanctioned Blue Cross, do not cover doctors' fees.

McVay said there are 171 voluntary health plans now operating in 43 states, exclusive of 92 sponsored by medical societies. He said his council has met with leaders of lay groups in the past two years in an effort to formulate a work agreement between the AMA and the existing voluntary health plans.

From these meetings, McVay said, developed the 20 principles adoped here yesterday. These specify that medical care plans must be non-profit making, comply with AMA's principles of medical ethics, be adequately financed, be devoted exclusively to health service, have high quality personnel and employ only licensed physicians.

Standards Established

It also is specified that:

"Any plan desiring approval under these principles shall agree to such periodic reviews and to abide by such regulations as may be deemed necessary by an appropriate accrediting body of the AMA in consultation with representatives of the sponsors of the plan."

McVay emphasized the AMA itself would not sanction medical care plans without prior approval by county or state medical societies.

"That's the way we are organiged," he said. "We are a federation and we cannot tell our state and local societies what to do."

He said the 20 principles will be guides for the state and county societies in recommending approval or disapproval by the AMA of medical care plans in their areas.

Immediately after the house approved the 20-principle plan, Dr. Dean A. Clark of New York, president of the Cooperative Health Federation of America, issued a statement saying the action would have been more significant if the AMA had "assumed national responsibility in forthright fashion."

President Chosen

Clark's federation supervises the medical care plans set up by industry and some CIO and independent unions, and one that covers New York City employes and teachers.

McVay explained the "non-profit" requirement did not exclude private commercial insurance companies from the health field. He said many of the plans sponsored by the societies are financed by private insurance carriers.

War Hater Writes Own Funeral Oration

CINCINNATI, O., June 10 (U.P.) Frank A. Kohnle died with the unique knowledge of knowing in advance what was said about him at his funeral.

The 80-year-old baker arranged the funeral oration at the same time his will was written.

"Mr. Kohnle's religion was very simple," the sermon began. "He loved mankind. If he hated anything it was war . . . Mr. Kohnle was a worshiper of liberty, a friend of the oppressed. He believed that happiness is the only good, reason the only torch, justice the only worship, humanity the one religion and love its priest."

Kohnle, who did not belong to any church or special religion, called himself a humanist. He often told friends that the sweet bye and bye would take care of itself, if we took care of the sweet now and now.

Family Loses Third Son In Three Years

SANDERSON, June 10. (AP)—Tragedy has struck the T. H. McDonald home for the third time in five years.

Yesterday Cordell McDonald, 7-year-old son of the McDonalds, drowned in the Rio Grande. One son was killed in action in the late war and a second died in a motorcycle accident two years ago.

Health Briefs

Last rites for J. D. Winston, 81, pioneer Brownfield resident, will be held at 3 p.m. today in Crescent Heights Church of Christ. Masonic graveside rites will be conducted by the Brownfield lodge in Terry County Memorial cemetery. Winston died Wednesday in Brownfield hospital.

A movie, "The Late George Apley," was shown on the administration building green at Texas Tech Thursday night as part of the summer recreation program at the college.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Adams of Shallowater will attend the wedding of their son Frank, in Dallas Saturday. They will be accompanied by another son, Jimmy, and Mrs. R. R. Holmes and Mrs. G. R. Savrance. Mrs. Holmes is an aunt of the bridegroom and Mrs. Savrance is his cousin.

Miss Etta Robinson of New Deal will leave Saturday to spend a few weeks in Dallas with friends.

Lubbock Camera club will meet at 8 p.m. today at 1719 Broadway. The program on "Photographic Enlarging and Print Quality" will be under the direction of Jimmie Kilpatrick. Visitors are invited to attend.

THEY ARE FOREIGNERS

Since Eire became a Republic, Irish citizens in Britain are foreigners unless registered under the British Nationality Act, but up to recently, only 28 Irishmen had registered for British citizenship.

The brain-fever bird is a species in Indian cuckoo. Its name is taken from the suggested effect of its call.

Fire Protection Improvements Studied By City Commission

Zone Change Expenses Saddled On Local Areas By Legislature

Another example of the costs resulting from the Legislature's increasing intrusion into the affairs of towns and cities of Texas was reflected in an action taken at the semi-monthly meeting of the Lubbock city commission Thursday afternoon.

Of more constructive nature, the commission studied improvements in Lubbock fire protection as recommended by Paul H. Brown, state fire insurance commissioner; directed that a long-discussed ordinance be prepared providing for an alphabetical system of street naming; and assured officials of Texas Technological college that an ample supply of water for the campus is available from the city.

New Expense Seen

The information that the Legislature has saddled another expense upon Lubbock—and all other towns and cities in the State—in a matter of strictly community nature was passed on to the commission during a discussion of several proposed building zone changes, all of which were recommended by the city planning commission.

City Attorney Vaughn Wilson explained that, under a newly enacted law, no building zone in any city can be changed until after every property owner inside and within 200 feet of the affected area has been given personal notice of the proposal.

This is a considerable task, as explained to the commission by R. L. Oldham, director of public works. It will require a search of tax department records to ascertain the names of property owners in and within 200 feet of any area proposed for zoning change. Personal notices then will have to be addressed to each of those persons.

Taking six recommended zoning changes under consideration Thursday as an example, Oldham said they will require notices to 181 individuals—an average of 30 each.

If a change should be proposed for a populous area of considerable extent, thousands of notices would have to be prepared and sent out at substantial payroll expense and delaying indefinitely a step which could be of great importance and concern to the entire city.

Heretofore, those wanting changes in building zones first have sought the approval of the planning commission. The planning commission's recommendations almost invariably have been followed by the city commission. The service has been free.

In the future, to meet the new expense imposed by the Legislature, those wanting zone changes still can seek the planning commission's recommendation without going to any expense. But if the planning board approves the changes, the persons seeking it will have to fork up $50 to reimburse the city for the expense of searching tax records, sending out notices and holding public hearings.

Search Is Costly

The actual cost to the city, Oldham estimated, will average more than $50 per recommended zoning change. In some instances, he said, it will be less. In others it will be more—in some cases, running into the hundreds of dollars.

In the past, zoning changes have been handled with extreme caution to protect the interests of those who might be concerned. Such matters presented to and considered by the planning board have been extensively publicized. They have been investigated first by a special committee, then by the planning board as a group, and finally by the city commission.

When doubt has existed as to whether those interested have been notified of requested zoning changes, pointed efforts have been made to get notice to them. Before changes have been put into effect, the city commission has held a public hearing on each proposed change. The ordinance actually putting changes into effect have required passage on two readings—with at least two weeks, and usually longer, elapsing between the readings after the public hearings.

Changes Recommended

The six changes sent to the commission Thursday with the recommendation of the planning board were:

Lot 8, block 8, McCrummen addition, south of Nineteenth street between Aves. O and P, from a B two-family residence zone to an H retail business zone; the north half of block 8, Morning Side addition, in the vicinity of Ave. G and Twenty-eighth street, from an E apartment zone to a J industrial zone; lots 1 to 5, block 62, from an E to an F zone to permit the enlargement of a grocery store at 319 Seventh street; lots 19 and 20, block 1, D. C. Ross addition, from an A to a B zone to permit the erection of a church building; west one-half of block 4, Second Richmond addition, from an E to an F zone to permit the enlargement of a grocery store; and the north half of block 2, Denison Heights, on Thirtieth street between Fillmore and Pierce avenues, to a neighborhood business zone with the stipulation that stores must be set back 35 feet to provide off-street parking for patrons.

Public hearings on each of these

Record Is Set In Enrollment

A total of 2,817 students have enrolled for the first term of summer school at Texas Technological college according to Miss Evelyn Clewell, assistant registrar at the college.

This figure, a record, represents an increase of 89 students over the number in summer school in the first term of 1948. Earlier reports indicated that enrollment would be much heavier this year than it was, but many of the students who had pre-registered during the spring semester of school failed to return for the summer term.

2,055 Men Students

Of the 2,817 students enrolled, 2,055 of them are men and 762 are women. In 1948 there were 701 women and 2,027 men in the first summer term.

The division of arts and science shows the largest enrollment with a total of 913 students. Next is the engineering division with an enrollment of 674. Of note is the large increase in the enrollment of students in the division of graduate studies. In 1948 there were only 262 students in that

LARGE CROWD ATTENDS SHOW

Plenty Of Thrills Provided At Rodeo

Hard riding cowhands and spectacular showmanship were applauded by approximately 8,000 rodeo fans Thursday night in Jones stadium.

The second performance of the ABC Boys' Club rodeo was wild enough for the most rabid excitement seeker, without causing serious injury to any of the contestants.

Manuel Enos, of Fort Worth, brought the crowd to its feet with a gasp when it appeared he was gored by a steer in the bulldogging contest. Medical aid was rushed into the arena. However, Enos was not seriously injured.

He left the arena on his feet and subsequently rode in the bull riding contest. The steer had given him what amounted to a "solar plexus" punch with its horn.

Exhibition riding was greatly applauded, and all the rodeo acts given between contests were well received.

The program continues tonight with the third program starting at 8 p.m.

Rodeo officials Thursday said that if the threat of rain prevents attendance by holders of reserved seats on any given night, their tickets will be accepted for subsequent performances as general admission tickets. Every effort will be made by the ushers to secure as good seats for them in the reserved seat sections.

"Those dancing horses have more rhythm than many people I know," remarked bandmaster Paul Lovett.

Saddle bronc riding was won by Larry Finley, of Phoenix, followed by Manuel Enos, of Fort Worth. Tex Lewis, of Fort Worth, and Harry Tomkins, of Ardmore, Okla., tied in the bareback bronc contest. Loyd Lippie, of Yuma, Arizona, won the bull riding contest.

Troy Fort, of Lovington, N. M., had low time in calf roping with 12.8 seconds. Toots Mansfield, of Big Spring, was second with 13.1 seconds.

Fort and Mansfield are two of the outstanding rodeo performers in the country, and have participated in nemerous matched contests.

Dub Phillips, of San Angelo, bulldogged his steer in 6.5 seconds to win the steer wrestling contest. Hank Mills, of Pueblo, Colo., was second with a time of 10.9 seconds.

In the exhibitions, Ann Hendrick's famed horse "King Richard" was a great success with the crowd, as was the spectacular Roman riding and jumping, another part of the Hendricks' act, in which the rider stands with one foot on one horse and the other foot on a horse beside it, requiring intricate teamwork between the horses and the rider.

New Dormitories To Boost Social Life

EASTON, Pa., June 10 (UP) — Lafayette College has started a housing experiment designed to give dormitory students the same social life advantages as students who join fraternities.

Three new dormitories are being organized as "social dorms" which resident students will operate in much the same manner as fraternity members operate their living quarters.

The dormitories will house 35 to 40 men each, about the same size as individual fraternity memberships. The students will operate their own dining rooms at each, and each dormitory will have lounge rooms, recreation rooms, and similar features of the fraternity house.

Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison, Lafayette president, said the plan was devised because of increased enrollment and other factors which eliminate many students from the advantages of fraternity life. He points out, however that unlike fraternities, the dormitory membership will not be on a selective service but will be a mixture of all classes and denominations.

Derby Changes Are Revealed

With more re-checking and withdrawing of boys, the final list of entries and sponsors for the second annual Lubbock Soap Box Derby was drawn up Wednesday.

Several changes had to be made in assignment of sponsors because of failure to notify Derby officials before assignment of sponsors had been made earlier this week.

Billy Page's sponsor is Kerr-Simmons Motor Co., instead of KFYO as previously announced and KFYO is now sponsoring Larry L. Panzer, route 3, Lubbock.

Other Assignments Made

Lubbock Building Products, 214 Ave. M, is sponsor for Thomas Holeman, route 1, Lubbock.

Atkins Lumber Co., previously assigned to another boy, is now sponsor for Derryl Hammock, 1614 Twenty-fourth.

District 2 of 4-H clubs are sponsoring Tommy Rouse, replacing Dickinson Motor company, who has been assigned another boy.

Morrison Supply Co., 1949 Ave. G, is sponsor for Charles Hass, route 7, Avinger addition.

R. C. Young Feed & Seed Co., 1408 Ave. F, is sponsor of Charles Flowers, instead of Atkins Lumber company as previously announced.

Dryer-Lee Oil Co. is sponsor for Archie Allen, in another change of sponsors and Scoggin-Dickey Buick Co. was assigned Byron Lee Short of Post, who had been erroneously assigned to the Benton Oil Company. Benton Oil is sponsoring Lindle Grigsby instead.

Tommy Sides is being sponsored by Sides Printing company instead of Kattmann's and Herbie

THE QUESTION

THE ANSWERS

HARRIET HENDERSON, 2810 Twenty-fourth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Henderson: "I believe that they really do, although some don't think they do. In our immediate bunch, we have a lot of fun just getting together for coke parties. You don't have to go somewhere and spend money to have a good time."

WILLYS McCORMICK, 808 Ave. M, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McCormick: "No. They have the Boys' club, but when you're 18 you can't go there. I'm 17. I think they need more swimming pools. During school, there is more recreation, but in the summer there is not as much to do. That's what everyone is talking about."

PFC. GENE ETTER, on leave from Lowry field, Denver, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Etter, 2120 Thirty-first: "I've been gone 13 weeks, but when I left they didn't have enough. We need a place to dance more than anything else. There's no place to dance for 'teen-agers unless they go to a night club, and they get thrown out at most of those places. They need a place open all the time where they can go and play games and dance."

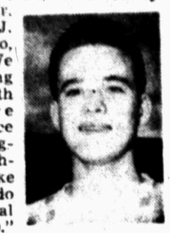

PATSY HAYNES, 1904 Twenty-fourth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Haynes: "I think it does have enough, but in the summers when school is out we could use some more. If we had more tennis courts, it would help. You never can find one that's empty. I think it would be nice if we had ice skating here."

KATHLEEN VEAZY, 1316 Twenty-seventh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Veazey: "There are a swimming pool and roller rinks and theaters and that's about all the recreation for teen-agers. I don't think that's enough. They should have more tennis courts."

PAT WALLACE, 1115 Thirty-first, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Wallace: "No, I don't. We need something like a youth center, where you can dance and play pingpong and other games like they used to do at the Corral of the U.S.O."

Washington Liquor Tax Plan Backfires

WASHINGTON, June 10 (AP)—A new liquor tax designed to boost the capital's income has boomeranged, and officials are asking Congress for an emergency law to protect the city against loss of revenue.

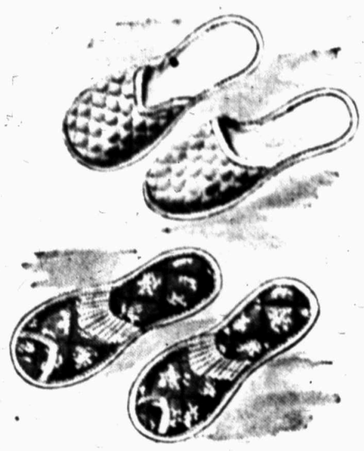

Tax stamps will go up 50 percent on Aug. 1, and wholesale and retail liquor dealers have been buying up large quantities of them at present tax rates for use in sales after the higher tax becomes effective.

Brazil or Brasil was the name of a legendary island in the Atlantic Ocean and historians believe its familiar existance as a geographical location led to that name for the South American country.

The physicist who says the force of gravity is becoming weak must have reached his conclusion by studying a thin girl in a strapless swimming suit!

THE 99th District court grand jury probe of rumors alleging occasional physical, and frequent mental, abuse of citizens by arresting officers turned out as was expected. By and large, nothing was brought before the grand jury to indicate any general mistreatment of people picked up or questioned by officers. However, several instances were turned up showing what the grand jury called "discourtesy," or "over-zealousness," on the part of arresting officers, but what we think would be better described as "unnecessary pushing around."

The invitation of Judge G. V. Pardue to people to testify before the grand jury, and his order to the grand jury to hear such testimony, were forward and sound steps.

Interest of the proper officials in such matters always is good, because such interest will go a long way to keep law enforcement on an even and a legal keel.

Considerable emphasis was placed around the courthouse on the fact that some of those complaining to the grand jury of rough, or discourteous, treatment at the hands of some officers were well known police characters.

However, the point must not be overlooked that even persons with police records have the right to the protection of the Bill of Rights. Furthermore if officers "get away" with pushing known law-breakers around, it's just a step to application of similar treatment to people not known as law violators and who may be mistakenly picked up, or questioned.

Recent changes in personnel of the Liquor Control board office here doubtless did much to make the grand jury probe less sensational than it otherwise would have been.

One particular "raid" on Avenue X several weeks ago, in which an entirely innocent young woman was very much mistreated, had to go by the boards because Liquor Board officers guilty in the so-called "over-zealousness" have been yanked out of here.

IN our book, the grand jury investigation and the publicity growing out of it were very much worthwhile. We hope both came in time to ward off more, and more serious, trouble in the future. In the carrying on of the good to turn the spotlight into the dark corners, if for no other reason than just to make sure there's nothing there.

We hope, along with all other citizens who believe that the law should be as scrupulously followed by arresting officers as by anybody else, that similar grand jury investigations will be unnecessary in the future.

Judge Pardue performed a public service in calling the investigation and he gave evidence that he recognized his duty to enforcement of laws governing official action, as well as to the enforcement of all laws.

WE DON'T always accomplish our goals sought in our preachments, but, by gum, we've been able to bring about some improvement as a result of our recent lecture of telephone manners!

Day after our diatribe against those who handle Mr. Bell's invention in ways most boorish, we heard from one of our regular customers, Mr. Retha Reginald Martin, sr.

"Of all people to talk about good telephone manners," said Mr. Martin, in his sternest form, "you are the worst I can think of. You answer a telephone like a bear with a sore paw. What you'd better do, Bub, is to read what you wrote, and then follow the advice."

Come to think of it, maybe Mr. Martin is right—for once—in this, his latest criticism of our efforts. After all, a guy who complains as much as he does ought to be right occasionally, just on the percentage basis.

But we say he's probably right here, because we hate the telephone with a purple passion, largely because it's always ringing wherever we may be and most of the time it delivers us nothing more than a large load of trouble.

Like a kid lighting a stove after one has blown up in his face, we expect trouble when we pick up a ringing telephone. We're set for trouble—either in the form of somebody's wanting to put us to work, or in the form of an argument about something that either has been in the paper, or hasn't been in the paper.

MAYBE, AS Mr. Martin deposes, instead of "the voice with a smile," we've got that "make it snappy" approach via wire.

If so, our apologies to all the people we've insulted, or even rubbed the wrong way, by telephone during these past 25 years—even those people who call at 2 o'clock in the morning asking us to settle a bet over who's the older, Dempsey or Tunney; the people who call in the middle of Sunday afternoon to ask about getting a classified advertisement put in the paper next month; and the people who call at midnight, wanting to know the telephone number of Joe Blow who works at some printshop and maybe it's The Avalanche-Journal!

From here on out, we're going to try to be the Pollyanna of the Receiver, the Boy Scout of the Handset—the Emily Post (in long pants) of the Transmitter!

BY DREW PEARSON: MARSHALL PLAN BEGAN WITH ACHESON SPEECH IN MISSISSIPPI

President Okayed Policy In Moment Of Gratitude

WASHINGTON.—When Washington dignitaries gathered at dinner this week to commemorate the Marshall plan probably only one man present really knew how the Marshall plan got started—President Truman. And not even Truman knew or remembered all the details.

PEARSON

The birth of the Marshall plan—believe it or not—was influenced by the illness of Senator Bilbo of Mississippi. Furthermore, this plan—now a great force in revitalizing Europe—was a complete accident as far as the White House was concerned.

President Truman had been scheduled to make a speech at Cleveland, Miss., in the winter of 1947 and called in Dean Acheson, then undersecretary of state, to ask if he could get him out of a jam. He explained that to please some of his wife's friends he had promised to speak in Cleveland, that the folks in Mississippi had made elaborate preparations, and that this was to be the biggest event in the town's history.

But, he said, he couldn't go. Senator Bilbo was back in the state, ill, after the Senate's refusal to seat him, and it would be political suicide, Truman felt, if he set foot inside the state at that time. He had written his Mississippi friends, he said, asking if they would accept a cabinet member instead, and they replied that they were greatly interested in foreign affairs and the only man they would take as a substitute was Acting Secretary of State Acheson.

Acheson of course promptly accepted the President's personal plea, in fact told Truman he had been eager to make a major speech. But, he warned, it would be an explosive one.

• • •

Henry Wallace's Mistake

So, having in mind Henry Wallace's famous speech on Russia which was officially cleared with the White House—but which Truman himself didn't read, Acheson took great pains to have his speech carefully examined. He asked that it be read by the Army-Navy, by economic adviser Dr. Edwin Nourse, and by the Commerce department, as well as by Truman. His strategy was to have so many cabinet experts read it that it would not be sent to Senators Tom Connally and Arthur Vandenberg whom he suspected might pour on the cold water.

The perusers of the speech later held a meeting. Since there was nothing in the speech about bases, the Army-Navy had no objection. Dr. Nourse suggested a few changes in figures, which were accepted. Secretary of Commerce Harriman, who had been talking to Acheson privately, was enthousiastic, while Truman was delighted that Acheson was getting him out of his Mississippi speaking jam.

After all this preparation, however, the speech got only two or three paragraphs buried inside the newspapers. Few people in the U.S.A. realized that Acheson had launched one of the most important policies since the U.N. or the Monroe doctrine.

The British press, however, played up the story big. And as a result Scotty Reston of the New York Times called on Acheson to ask whether this was a new American foreign policy.

"You had better ask the White House," Acheson replied.

• • •

SO, AT THE next White House press conference, Reston asked a carefully worded question as to whether the Cleveland, Miss., speech represented Acheson's views or the administration's views.

Truman, still full of gratitude, and recalling that the Army, Navy, et al had approved the speech, replied that it represented administration policy.

A few days later, Acheson went to his chief, Secretary of State Marshall, and said in effect; "I have kicked a fairly important ball up in the air for you, but it's falling rapidly. How about catching it and scoring a touchdown?"

This led to another conference with Truman, then to Secretary Marshall's speech, which in the eyes of most people was the beginning of the Marshall plan.

After the speech, Acheson picked up a suggestion by Senator Vandenberg that a committee of prominent Americans be appointed to push the idea. Truman didn't like the suggestion, but Acheson argued him into it.

"Here is a man who more than anything else wants to get the Republican nomination for president of the United States," he told Truman, in effect. "Of his other two rivals, Governor Dewey never says anything about anything, while Senator Taft never loses an opportunity to attack you on domestic issues and crab at you on foreign policy. Vandenberg has played the game very well on bipartisan policy, and you ought to agree to his idea in order to keep him sweet."

• • •

Hoover-Baruch Opposed

The President did agree, and a meeting was held to appoint members of a committee to serve under Secretary of Commerce Harriman. Vandenberg was present. Acheson said he didn't care who was on the committee just so long as Herbert Hoover and Bernard Baruch were not.

Vandenberg, however, looking over the suggested names, said he had nothing against them, but that what the committee really needed was an elder statesman as chairman who commanded the respect of the country.

Quickly, Acheson asked Secretary Marshall if he could answer that question, then went on to say that the committee's job was not to sell every filling-station operator on aid to Europe, but to get the cooperation of labor and industry leaders. Therefore the committee should be composed of younger men who were influential with labor and industry. Once their support was enlisted, Acheson argued, the filling-station operators would fall in line.

Federal Agency Is Reported Firing Crippled, Blind Vets

NOTES OF A NEW YORKER—This reporter criticized the late James V. Forrestal when he was alive and in apparent good health . . . As Secretary of Defense, Mr. Forrestal as not "defenseless" as charged by some professional breast-beaters and hand-wringers . . . He had the opportunity to reply to attacks on his policies and he did so . . . Many newspapers and radio people quoted him fully . . . One of the writers to whom Mr. Forrestal gave statements in rebuttal was Marquis Childs . . . It was, of course, due in part to this. It was doubtless due primarily to the crushing blow to his pride and to spirit dealt him by an Administration in which ward politics and money contributed—evidently determined high office." Mr. Lawrence also wrote: "It was loss of confidence in him by the President of the United States which broke down Jim Forrestal's nerves and frustrated his hole career."

"Don't You Know We're Economizing?"

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

"IT MAY be predicted that, if polygyny comes to be legally recognized in Western society, it will find its most enthusiastic supporters among career women."

That intriguing prophecy is made by Ralph Linton, professor of anthropology at Yale, in a current magazine article in which he presents polygyny as a possible solution to the increasing surplus of women in our population. Incidentally, polygyny, in case you don't know, is a five-dollar word for a social custom permitting a man to have more than one wife.

MILLETT

Maybe he's right about career women being the wives most likely to see the advantages in polygyny. It's certainly true that many career women find it pretty difficult trying to be a one-woman harem.

As career women, their paid jobs take a lot of their time, energy and brain work. But in addition, they have to play the role of domestic wife or home-maker.

If they have children they also are part-time mothers, who take over the responsibility for the children when they get through work and relieve the baby-sitter who pinch-hits for them during the work day.

MUST BE COMPANIONS

ALSO, they have to be satisfactory companions to their husbands, and they can never forget that they are in competition with women who have more time to devote to being femininely companionable.

In short, the modern career woman is trying to be all the things to her husband that Dr. Linton suggests plural wives could be.

With a "domestic wife" at home preparing the dinner, keeping the kids quiet and eager to run for Papa's slippers and listen to what a hard day he had—the career wife could go home and relax with a good book.

Laff-A-Day

By Bennett Cerf

'Try And Stop Me"

IN "An All Sorts Treasury," Columnist Joe Harrington tells of a typical taciturn Vermont couple who sired a baby boy. The lad shot up like a bean-stalk and soon was performing yeoman chores on the farm—but he never spoke a single word. His parents were mildly alarmed.

Sometime after his seventh birthday he was helping his father in the vegetable patch, which was separated from the barnyard by a wooden fence. Suddenly he observed that a prize bull had broken through the fence and was heading for his father with lowered head and nostrils distended. The boy hollered. "Look out, Pa! The bull!"

Pa dove over an unbroken section of the fence and shattered all records to the family wash-and-recreation cubicle. There he reviewed the situation, and joyously exclaimed to his son, "Why, Will boy. You talked! Why ain't you ever talked before?"

Decorations Due 1949 Crop Of GI Graduates And Wives

COLUMBUS, O., June 10.—There are all kinds and grades and shapes of valor, for which medals are bestowed. If the bestowal were up to me, I would be handing out a lot of decorations this week to girls named Mary and Jane and Betty, and their husbands, Joe, Jim and Pete.

RUARK

At Ohio State university it is graduation time for 1500 veterans, the finish of the first full cycle of the GI education plan. All over the nation, thousands of weary women are saying thank God the old man's finally won his diploma. Maybe now we can start to live like human beings again.

You can cite me the pioneer woman, who birthed her babies in between spring planting and a raid by the hos-tile injuns, but I don't think she had it much rougher than the women whose husbands were collecting culture and know-how under the GI bill of rights. In a nation which was swollen with postwar plenty, these men and women are just emerging from what, for them, has been a bitter apprenticeship.

We paid the veterans, first, 90 bucks a month to feed them while they acquired learning, and later increased it to $120. It is scarcely necessary to say that this contribution, while generous, is not sufficiently elastic to clothe the late-blooming students in coon-skin or equip them with yellow roadsters. Especially, as was so often the case, if the militant bookworm was also wearing a wife and child.

The fact that most of them had the guts to keep after an education is almost unbelievable. They put in the full study hours, plus summer school, worked another half-dozen daily hours, boned on their home work, and in their spare time, worked valiantly at the assignment of husband and father.

They lived in trailers, in chopped-up Army barracks, in furnished rooms at $17 a week with eight families using one bath. They had budgets so trimmed to the wind that a lost quarter was a tragedy. A sick kid in the trailer was a calamity that could only be answered by a loan shark. I know one recent GI graduate who has been sending installments—on a deal baby—to a hospital for nearly two years.

• • •

SOMEHOW, some way, the girls you used to see around the Army and Navy bases during the war have been the winning ingredient in the postwar battle of the bulging cranium. They managed to spread the monthly grant around, to invest it in diapers and milk and hamburger and rent. They strode staunchly through three years in a trailer settlement, walking a million miles to draw the water, and ministering to each other in a camaraderie born of mutual desperation.

A top the press of meeting ends, they maneuvered to keep the baby quiet when Pa was boning on his political science or animal husbandy. Most of them have had little in the way of clothes or girlish gew-gaws and play-pretties. They sublimated their frailties to the big chore—Pa's education.

A Little Grim

The old man—who started in as a freshman at an age when prewar seniors were graduated—has come out of the mill a pretty remarkable fellow. He is a grown man—a little grim, maybe a touch cynical—but he seems to know what he wants and what he's going to do to get it.

He's 24, 25, 26, 27 years old. He reads and thinks and questions. His grades have shown him to be a superior student. Only a superior student could have survived the shanty-town squalor in which so many of them had to live in order to learn. Nearly all, at one time or another, rassled out a rough decision over whether to quit school for the fast buck they needed something awful.

I've talked with a few of our new, old-man, battle-and-peace-scarred graduates of 1949. At least one of them will wind up in the White House, and I will wager that none will ever decorate a relief roll with his name.

Today's Journal Editorial

COMMENDABLE SOLIDARITY

The 13-0 vote by which the Senate Foreign Relations committee approved the North Atlantic alliance should go far toward influencing congressional and public opinion favorably toward the treaty.

The committee includes some of the ablest members of the Senate. They, presumably, have been supplied with all information which concerns the proposed treaty. Probably they are in better position to judge whether the alliance is good or bad for the United States than any other group in the nation.

There can be no suspicion that members of the committee, as a group, can be motivated by anything except the sincere desire to do what is best for their country. And they represent practically all segments of political thought in which the vast majority of Americans are interested.

Despite their frequent differences in other matters, the committee members were united in approving U. S. membership in the alliance. Their unity suggests the course that the masses of Americans should follow with as much confidence as they would the advice of their doctor or lawyer in matters pertaining to health or law.

Two Texans Killed By Electric Jolt

FORT WORTH, June 10. (AP)—A 12,000-volt jolt of electricity killed two Tarrant county road workers yesterday.

Walter Bert Loyd, 62, and Max King, both of Handley, were killed when the boom of a crane swung close to a 12,000-volt power line.

Other workers said the crane boom missed touching the wire by three feet but the current apparently jumped across.

New Crop Of Bogus $20 Bills Reported In Southwest Areas

DALLAS, June 10 (U.P.)—Treasury department agents today asked all merchants and money handlers in the Southwest to examine Chicago Federal Reserve bank carefully as they disclosed that a new crop of bogus $20 bills was flooding the area.

Secret Service Agent Bill Bradshaw estimated that more than 50 of the bogus bills had been passed in Dallas during the past two weeks.

He continued to question several negroes after one was caught with a bogus bill in his possession.

No Definite Clues

Bradshaw said, however, that he had no definite clues. Secret service men across the country have been looking for the plates used in making the money, drawn on a Chicago Federal Reserve bank, since last summer.

Despite the fact that several of the bogus bills have been found at negro establishments throughout Dallas, Bradshaw said he was "fairly confident" that none of the negroes being questioned was a "leader" in the counterfeit ring.

Description Given

Agent Bradshaw said the bills were series 1934C. All have a large letter "G" in the bank seal to the left of the portrait. Back plate numbers—480—appearing in the lower right hand corner of the bills on the back side are the same.

"If money handlers will examine all Chicago money that appears, we may be able to locate passers quickly," Bradshaw said. He explained the money generally used in the Southwest should come from Dallas Federal Reserve banks, with some from Kansas City, New Orleans, or Atlanta.

"The majority of the money," he said, "will be printed on banks from these areas, not the Chicago banks."

Mythical Mitnik's Harvey Act Keeps Show Business Laughing

By ROY CALVIN
United Press Staff Correspondent

BROWNSVILLE, June 10—Redoubtable Sam Mitnik is on his way to becoming the Paul Bunyan of show business.

The mythical Mitnik is the brain child of Paul Hochuli, Houston Press movie critic, and the Warner Brothers stars, Dennis Morgan and Jack Carson. He's a big shot who was born of a laugh and became—well, let's put it modestly—internationally famous.

To certain Frenchmen, Sam Mitnik is a bigger man than the President of the United States. To some Mexican orchestra leaders, he's a puzzle.

In short, Mitnik is the "big shot" who steals the spotlight by never being there.

Stars Join In

As an international builder of good will Mitnik may have peers. He "showed up" in Brownsville when Warners staged the world premiere of its "South of St. Louis." The film stars Alexis Smith and Joel McCrea and a large party crossed the Rio Grande at Brownsville for a round of parties in the Mexican fun spot Matamoros.

Night club orchestras knocked themselves out dedicating numbers to beautiful Miss Smith and robust McCrea, then someone whispered the word to the leaders: "Sam Mitnik is here, too."

Mitnik got the full treatment of serenade, but when the time came for him to take a bow, his friends had to explain that the big man was just too modest to step into the limelight. The explanation was accepted by the orchestra leaders with good grace and more than a little puzzlement.

Bill Hendricks, a Warner publicity man from Hollywood, helped boost Mitnik to international fame as he rode across country on the "Merci Train." Frenchmen aboard developed great admiration for Mitnik.

"Anytime I wanted to impress them with the importance of something, I'd hang it on Mitnik," Hendricks said. "I wouldn't be surprised if Mitnik gets the Legion of Honor."

Not There Again

Neither would Hochuli. When Mitnik was "born" in San Antonio, Hochuli, Carson and Morgan slipped his name onto the guest list at a big banquet. Mitnik wound up with a seat at the head table.

Carson made the excuse: "Sam is tied up on the phone, working on a multi-million deal that'll rock the industry . . ." All the while, a bellboy in a hotel lobby—his palm greased well by Morgan—was paging Mitnik. That went on every 10 minutes for four hours.

With the revival of the custom of premiering pictures in the provinces, Mitnik seems assured of a long and lusty life. One of his best achievements to now, Hochuli says, has been speeding up sloe gin.

The art of making openings in the skull—trepanning—was known to the ancients.

Soap Contribution To French People Is Minor Headache

SPRINGFIELD, O., June 10 (U.P.)—Wittenberg College's students all but trebled their goal in a drive to collect 1,500 bars of soap for French hospitals. However, Feland Meadows, director of the drive, didn't realize he was going to get a liberal education in government regulations, foreign shipping, insurance procedures and general business methods.

The problem of getting rid of the soap, once it was collected, became so great that Meadows had to call on a special assistant and they in turn recruited the aid of a local business man to help solve their problems.

When the soap drive ended, Meadows counted 4,100 bars of hand soap weighing 1,620 pounds.

A check with the post office showed the shipping cost would be upwards of $100. The students didn't have that kind of money. What's more, postal regulations required that the soap go in something like 80 separate cartons.

Students Learn

American Aid to France then informed Meadows that the students would have to pack the soap in double-wooden cases, waterproof-lined. The net pounds of each kind of soap would have to be supplied along with information on net and gross weight of each case, cubic feet of each case and value of each case.

Moreover, there would be an insurance charge, a handling charge and also a charge for ocean freight if ECA failed to accept responsibility.

The local business man knew much about the red tape involved in foreign shipping. He helped the Wittenberg students get the necessary crates and put his own employes to work packing the soap without charge.

Two waterproofed wooden cases, each with an inside capacity of about 17 cubic feet, are now on the way to France bearing more than four-fifths of a ton of soap insured for $400.

It cost the Wittenberg students $22.50 to ship the soap to New York by freight, plus the handling charge of $2 for American Aid. They banked on ECA to cover the cost of shipping the soap from New York to France.

PHEASANT CRASHES IN

TACOMA, Wash. (U.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brown were awakened early in the morning by a loud crash they feared at first was another earthquake. When they looked in their living room, they found a limping full grown Chinese pheasant. The bird had flown through their freshly cleaned window.

Historians believe that the "brass" referred to in the Bible probably was bronze.

City Commission

proposed changes were set for 2 p. m. on July 14, in conformance with usual practice. The applicants won't have to pay the $50 fee each because their applications were filed and recommended for approval before city officials got wind of what the Legislature has done. But if the applications had been filed later, the cost would have been $50 each to comply with the red-tape of the new law.

Apparently the only contested proposal is that involving Morning Side addition in Southeast Lubbock. Mrs. Terry Easter and O. C. St. Clair were present to urge this change. F. S. Southern, E. L. Chapman and J. A. Cumming were on hand to oppose it.

Knowing that sentiments differed as to the desirability of this change, which has been under consideration several weeks, city officials saw to it that those interested persons were notified. Notifications were given by personal messenger.

Mayor Cites Progress

Mayor W. H. Rodgers pointed out that considerable progress already has been made toward complying with Commissioner Brown's recommended improvements in fire protection for Lubbock.

Brown said the city needs two additional fire department substations. One of these is under construction in northwest Lubbock and the site for the other has been obtained in the southwestern area.

Brown advised the drilling of more water wells so as to assure supplies from several directions. This advice apparently was based on information several months old. The city now obtains supplies from wells from three directions with a maximum capacity of nearly 50 million gallons daily. Lubbock never has used as much as 20 million gallons in a day.

Increased Storage Urged

He suggested an increase in present surface reservoir capacity, now amounting to about 17 million gallons. This probably will not be increased substantially soon.

He recommended an increase of about 40 per cent—about 24 men—in the fire department personnel. The commission said the department's manpower is being strengthened steadily.

He said Lubbock should have a modern fire alarm system. The commission is studying this need, which would cost around $500,000—as much as the long-sought public library.

He criticized the laxity of training and drilling of Lubbock firemen. Members of the city commission agreed there is much room for improvement in the department in these matters.

Hydrant Inspection Asked

He recommended that the fire department be ordered to inspect, oil, grease and flush fire hydrants at 90-day intervals. The commission agreed that this duty has been neglected and directed the city manager to see to it that the practice is corrected.

Prospects that the commission finally will get around to attending to the problem of street naming were brightened when the engineering department was directed to prepare an ordinance based on recommendations of the planning commission and a citizen's committee.

Streets east of Avenue A will be named alphabetically for trees and plants, those north of First for colleges and universities and those west of College avenue for cities. Short streets will be designated as "drives."

The commission approved the offer of city water to Texas Tech at prevailing industrial rates, which drop to 10½ cents per 1,000 gallons. Officials estimated the college requirements would average close to 500,000 gallons a day. They said, however, the city's surplus is abundant for this need.

Present at the meeting were Commissioners John Spikes, E. K. Hufstedler, and Clarence Whiteside as well as the mayor, city manager, city attorney and Oldham.

Jap Cops Have 'Cold War' With Railways

TOKYO, June 10. (AP)—Police are having a cold war with railway employes.

Now comes word from Osaka that police are arresting railway workers caught secretly transporting rice. Worse, they are reporting it to the railway worker's boss.

In the days of the free ride, the police might pick up a worker for this offense now and then, but they never told his boss.

Many of these are high school and grade school teachers who have returned to do work on their master's degree and on a permanent teaching certificate as prescribed by the added requirements of the Gilmer-Aikin bill.

1,400 Veterans Signed

Next in line is the business administration division with 378 students in agriculture. In the remaining division, home economics, there are 172 students enrolled.

H. A. Anderson, veterans coordinator at the college, said of the total figure nearly 1,400 of them were veterans. This is a much heavier enrollment of ex-service men and women than was expected. Anderson said about 1,350 of the veterans enrolled were taking advantage of the federal G. I. Bill of Rights and 50 of them were under the provisions of the Hazelwood act, a state law which provides tuition for veterans in state schools of Texas.

Light Quake Felt In San Francisco Area

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10. (AP)—A small to moderate earthquake set bird cages and chandeliers swinging along 100 miles of the central California coast last night. No damage was reported.

The epicenter was near Hollister, 85 miles southeast of San Francisco. The temblor was felt as far south as the Carmel-Monterey area.

The term "apothecary" is used in the United States, Scotland and Europe to mean druggist, but it is used in England to mean physician.
